Wednesday, Sept. 13, 1989—

A mediator has determined that the value of sewer easement through N. Main St. property owned by Art and Ruth Dils is worth $5,500. Village council, last Tuesday, Sept. 5, accepted the offer simply by not voting on it. The village and the property owners have disputed the value ever since the village took the easement through condemnation proceedings last October. The lot, which borders Letts Creek on the east side of Main St., is essentially the Dilses large side yard, although the Dilses believe it could some day be sold to a home builder.

Village council apparently will not ask a developer for information about an adjoining piece of land before it makes a decision whether to re-zone 13 acres of vacant land off Old US-12 near Chelsea Community Hospital. Chelsea Village Planning Commission recently recommended that council re-zone the land only after developer Rene Papo provides "a comprehensive plan" for the entire 52-acre parcel, which includes 39 acres to the east of Sylvan township. Papo plans a 40,000-square-foot office complex for the 13 acres that were recently annexed.

The official kick-off of the 1990 Chelsea United Way Campaign is set for Wednesday, Sept. 20 at Chelsea Community Hospital at 7 p.m. The campaign has set a goal of $65,000, according to campaign chair Ed Greenleaf.

Was it a good sign or a stalling tactic? Last Thursday a contingent from the village was scheduled to meet with Al Howard, the state solid waste director for the Department of Natural Resources, and Lonnie Lee, regional director of the Waste Management Division, concerning a new landfill operating license. The village has grown increasingly frustrated in its dealings with the Jackson office of the Waste Management Division that is headed by Lee. The meeting, arranged by Alma Smith of state Sen. Lana Pollack's staff at the urging of village trustee Richard Steele, was cancelled at the last minute.

Chelsea Board of Education has ratified a new two-year contract with the Chelsea Education Association. Teachers will not vote on the pact for another week, even though they have been working under the agreement since school opened.

A portrait of James M. Congdon, one of Chelsea's founders, has been presented to McKune Memorial Library. He and his younger brother, Elisha, acquired land here and called the community Chelsea, naming it after Chelsea Landing near Norwich, Conn., where they were born. James Congdon moved to Michigan in 1833 and settled in what is now Chelsea in 1842.

Chelsea United Way will conduct the rural portion of its annual fund campaign by mail this year instead of making door-to-door calls. Officials decided that, with the price of gasoline climbing toward a dollar a gallon, volunteers should not be asked to drive hundreds of miles along country roads.

A last-minute John Dunn to Jeff Dils touchdown pass, followed by a Dunn to Mike Killelea toss for the two-point conversion, enabled Chelsea to squeak out a 15-14 football victory over Jackson County Western.

BEHIND THE HEADLINES:

★ Terrorists on Notice: FBI Is Watching

In the aborted bombing of U. N. headquarters, New York City's Federal Building and its Lincoln and Holland Tunnels, Hollywood could not have scripted a better scenario to illustrate the vital importance of counterintelligence.

By Phillip C. Clarke

Last February, as light snow drifted over New York's World Trade Center, a nation watched the televised scene in stunned disbelief. Thousands of employees streamed from the bomb-damaged buildings. More than 1,000 had been injured and 6 were dead. Rescue workers feverishly sought access to a 60-foot deep subterranean crater to locate other possible victims.

This Summer, America was spared a potentially far deadlier series of bombing attacks—thanks to a highly successful counterintelligence operation by the combined FBI/New York City Police Department Terrorist Task Force.

On June 23, a complaint filed by the FBI charged one Siddig Ibrahim Siddig Ali and seven Muslim fundamentalist cohorts with conspiring to "damage and destroy, by means of fire and an explosive, buildings used in interstate and foreign commerce and in activities affecting" such commerce.

Siddig had confided to an associate—who actually was an FBI undercover informant—that he and some of his co-conspirators had been involved in the February bombing of the World Trade Center. And he boasted of having connections that would allow him to drive a car carrying a bomb into a parking lot in the U. N. building. To bomb the Federal Building in lower Manhattan, he proposed killing the security personnel stationed outside in order to gain access. Other plans called for assassinating several U. S. political figures, as well as the bombing of New York City's diamond district.

Shortly before their arrest on June 24, five of the conspirators had met at a "safe house" to mix their so-called "witches' brew" explosives. They also discussed other potential bombing targets, military and governmental. Siddig earlier had unwittingly told the undercover FBI informant that three bombs would be detonated in three different locations at different times of the same day—first the U. N. building, next the Lincoln and Holland Tunnels, and finally the Federal Building. A fire would be set in one of the tunnels as a diversion.

Fortunately, the evil intentions of these "mad bombers" were frustrated by outstanding counterintelligence work. New Yorkers must still shudder at the thought of what could have happened. In any event, a debt of gratitude is owed to the FBI/Police Terrorist Task Force, supported in large part by the federal intelligence budget allocated by Congress.

Ironically, in early 1992 a reduction in that budget forced a 25% cutback in the FBI's counterintelligence personnel. The fact that the Bureau was still able to develop an informant within Siddig's terrorist ring and operate him so effectively is remarkable—perhaps fortuitous would be a better word.

The lives and well-being of our citizenry—and the security and economy of our country should not, however, depend on good luck. Intelligence and counterintelligence operations must be adequately funded and manned. Any relaxation of FBI efforts to counter terrorist activities would certainly send signals to the terrorists themselves and result in an escalation of their efforts.

Siddig is said to have boasted that the World Trade Center bombing sent a message that "we can get you anytime." A vigilant FBI and supporting counterintelligence authorities have now sent a return message that terrorists can't get away with it.

Mike's Deli Moves to Renovated Former W. Middle Laundromat

Mike's Deli, formerly located on the ground floor of the Sylvan building downtown, is scheduled to re-open next Tuesday, Sept. 7 on W. Middle St. in the renovated former Chelsea Laundromat building.

The old laundromat building, purchased by the Heydlauff family, has been completely remodeled, inside and out. It will nearly double the space for the delicatessen, from 1,110 square feet to 2,000.

"It's a bigger space and will allow us to do more things," says owner Mike Goodwin.

"It gives us a lot higher visibility. A lot of people didn't know we were down there (in the Sylvan)."

The move continues the evolution of the deli, which began in the mid-1980s as a part of the North Lake Store, which Goodwin owned. He opened the deli in the Sylvan in April of 1989, and sold North Lake Store in 1990. Two years ago he opened a second store in Ypsilanti on Cross St. opposite Eastern Michigan University, which is run by his son, Mike. The younger Mike handled all the contractors and purchase of equipment for the new store here.

Goodwin plans to open the new Chelsea store much earlier, probably 7 a.m., to serve "breakfast bagels" containing eggs, bacon, cheese and other deli items, croissants, sweet rolls and perhaps french toast. Eventually he wants to bake his own breads, expand his lines of condiments and spices, and sell some specialty foods such as pasta.

Goodwin is still looking to expand the business into other small towns. Before the Ypsilanti location opened, he wanted to set up in Saline. Further down the road, he'd like to be able to franchise the business.

School Bus Safety Tips For Drivers, Students

With the arrival of September, both motorists and students need to take extra caution near school buses.

The Pupil Transportation Act of 1990 requires all vehicles to come to a complete stop at least 20 feet from a school bus with overhead red lights flashing. Vehicles may proceed only when the overhead red flashing lights have been turned off.

Upon approaching a school bus with overhead yellow flashing lights, use caution and prepare to stop.

Drivers do not need to stop when a school bus has its overhead red lights flashing on the opposite side of a street divided into two separate roadways.

When only yellow hazard lights are flashing, vehicles may proceed with caution past the bus.

"It's vital that motorists be aware of the law concerning school buses because children are not always looking out for themselves," said Betty J. Mercer, executive director of the Michigan State Police, Office of Highway Safety Planning.

Parents should also be sure their children take extra caution near school buses. At special risk are younger children. In 1990, national statistics showed that 36 percent of bus fatalities involved children aged 5-9.

Safety points for student bus riders to remember include:

- Do not cross the road until signaled to do so by the bus driver.
 - Make sure the bus comes to a full stop before entering or exiting.
 - Don't go after anything that rolls under or in front of the bus, instead tell the driver about it.
 - Never walk right in front of a bus, behind the bus or close to the sides or wheels.
 - Know where the emergency doors and windows are.
 - Arrive at the bus stop about five minutes early.
 - Line up when the bus approaches.
 - Stand back at least six feet to give the driver room to pull over.
- The Michigan Office of Highway Safety Planning is charged with promoting traffic safety in the state, including pedestrian and school bus safety.

Vandals Hit Home Ec. Room At High School

Someone vandalized the home economics building at Chelsea High school last Saturday night or Sunday morning.

Someone sprayed a fire extinguisher in one of the rooms and shortening was found tracked throughout the building. In addition, a cardboard box was glued to the table and a videocassette recorder was stolen.

Fingerprints were taken from items in several rooms.

Article Claims New Pineapple Diet Aid Melts Away 900 Times It's Weight In Fat!

An article in the July issue of the Examiner claims an enzyme made from pineapple called BROMELAIN will take off as much as 7 lbs. in 48 hours, even 25 lbs. in a single week!

There have been 400 scientific studies on BROMELAIN and the pineapple enzyme is well known as a digestive aid and for arthritic inflammation. However, this is the first time studies have shown BROMELAIN may have the ability to absorb fat. One gram of BROMELAIN can absorb 2 lbs. of fat, according to the article. Every day around the clock, it gobbles up thousands of fat cells which are then eliminated naturally from the body. The recommended dose of BROMELAIN is 500 mg. with 600 G.D.U.s (Gelatins Dissolving Units). The cost is around .70¢ a day or $20.00 for a 30-day supply. The experts report improved digestion and rapid weight loss is possible if you take BROMELAIN right along with your regular meals. Just limit your high fat and high caloric food to help speed up the process, and of course, it's always wise to check with your doctor before going on any weight loss program.

Scio in Bus Route

a.m. to 6:30 p.m. On Saturday times are different. Stops in Dexter are at 8:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. and in Ann Arbor at 12:05 p.m. and 5:30 p.m. There is no Sunday service. Fares to and from Ann Arbor to Chelsea are $1.75, any other trip along the route is $1.

Margolis said AATA wants to provide the service for Scio township customers because some have been walking as far as three miles to catch the bus at Weber's Inn. She said they don't like for their customers to walk more than a quarter of a mile in between stops, but because of the make-up of Jackson Rd. some stops are a half mile in between.

The re-routed Chelsea-Dexter Express will include 40 stops. Main stops along Jackson Rd. will include Scio Farms Estates, major retail areas, the corner of Jackson and Maple Rd. and the corner of Zeeb and Jackson Rd.

Margolis said the Chelsea-Dexter Express route is in jeopardy annually as funding requests to Dexter and Chelsea villages are met with resistance.

Brown feels the inclusion of Jackson Rd. will help solve the problem of increasing costs. "AATA has decided it can make an extra buck on re-routing. It makes economic sense for them to re-route this bus and we agree with them."

AATA's Margolis agrees. However, she said she hopes Scio township will come to understand the route's importance to residents and "pay its own share like other areas" in the future.

Village Finances

The village ended the year with a balance of $1.55 million in cash in its electric fund, $470,507 in its sewer fund, and $310,712 in its water fund.

Village manager Jack Myers said he was pleased with the report.

If you want to know a man, watch him work.

On Labor Day, we should be grateful to all the people who work faithfully and steadily to provide material, goods, and services for the maintenance of our lives and for the establishment of our homes and communities in which we live.

Unfortunately, many people find themselves in the "rut" of working. Although we work to provide a home, a car, clothes, food, and other necessities, accumulating money and material goods is not the ultimate goal of working. Work fills a basic human need. It provides meaning and order in our lives. It provides a way to serve our fellow humans.

At the Cole Funeral Chapel, we know that our labors can help other people through a very difficult time. When we keep that goal in mind, it helps us to work with more enthusiasm and care, and keeps us out of the "rut". On this 1993 Labor Day, we hope you take time to consider the importance of your daily work.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

On Friday evening, Aug. 27, I was working at our booth for S.A.V.E. at the Chelsea Fair. S.A.V.E. stands for Sexual Abuse Victims Everywhere and we are dedicated to the prevention of sexual abuse of children in our community. At our booth we were handing out information for parents, grandparents, concerned citizens and youth on keeping kids safe from abuse and how to deal with a child who has been abused. It is our goal to educate the community and make them aware of this problem so that we can work as a community to make our world safer for our children and to make sure that those who commit these crimes serve the proper sentences for what they have done.

While working that evening I noticed a gentleman who came by our booth several times. He kept his distance but looked at the material we had. He came by again and stood within earshot as I spoke with a couple about our group and our upcoming community awareness meeting. A few moments later, this person came by our booth and handed me a card with a name, address, and some information on it. He asked us to "help" and when I asked what it was about he said "You'll know what to do."

I believe that this person has vital information about the welfare of a child or children in our community. To do what he did took a great deal of courage. To help your fellowman is truly to show kindness, but to help a child is the noblest act there is. I must now ask him to be a bit braver and take the next step.

The information he gave us was given to the Chelsea Police Dept. and they have taken notice of it, but what they have may not be enough. The police, or protective services need a call so that they can proceed forward with an investigation. Protective services can be reached at 481-9110. If a person believes that a child has been abused and reports this belief, and it is later found that no abuse took place, it cannot be held against them if the report was made in good faith. Child abuse is a scary and uncomfortable subject to talk about. As a child, it is even scarier to live through it.

If you read this, please make the call. We need the help of this individual to put the rest of the pieces to the puzzle. A child needs your help. Please, be a hero.

John H. (Jack) Long

Dear Editors,

I wonder if the person who decorated a kiddie vehicle in the Children's Parade for the Chelsea Community Fair, Tuesday, Aug. 24, with the Stars and Bars, the flag of the Confederacy, realizes the meaning of that symbol for many people? I wonder if the people who display this flag in their yards stop to think what kind of message it gives to visitors to our community?

What am I talking about? I take the Stars and Bars as a clear symbol of white supremacy, hatred, bigotry, and racism. Outside of the context of a museum or a Civil War battle reenactment, why would anyone want to display it unless to advertise those values? Are these the "family values" that the people who display this symbol are trying to teach their children?

Of course I believe that freedom of speech is the hallmark of a democracy such as ours. I am not advocating control of expression of opinions or symbols that are not "politically correct." I am only asking those who display such symbols to stop and think about the meaning of them, and how others perceive them. The Stars and Bars is not a neutral or patriotic symbol like the American flag or the University of Michigan flag. To people who value justice and equality it is inflammatory and provocative.

I have read with sadness about the rise of racism and intolerance in Europe, as well as close to home in Livingston county. I hoped we were above that, that tolerance and justice reigned in our community, but now I wonder.

If I am wrong, and those who display this flag do so for other, innocent reasons, I would like to hear from them, and will humbly take back any accusation I may have implied.

W. Scott Morgan.

In Appreciation

We would like to express our sincere gratitude to our neighbors and friends in Belser Estates for their kindness and concern and to the Chelsea Fire Department for their quick response, even though it was Fair Week.

Special thanks to Marcia and Jude Quilter who first saw the fire and made the call, to Chris Livengood and Sally Heil for finding us in all the confusion, to Nancy Schumann for helping us get organized; to Sue Williams for feeding and sheltering us until power could be restored and to Bob Riemenschneider for having a work crew at our house first thing the next morning.

And a very special thank you to John Williams who, without regard for his personal safety, put the fire out.

We can never thank you enough.

State Farm Bureau Notes Importance Of MSU to Ag

The president of the Michigan Farm Bureau said the state's largest farm organization is glad the Michigan State University Board of Trustees has selected a new president. M. Peter McPherson was named Aug. 17 as MSU's 19th president.

"We feel it is important that the University has leadership, and that the leadership be in place and be active, and it's time that it happened," said MFB President Jack Laurie. "We hope that the new president will remember that MSU is a land grant university, and that the focus is service to the people, and that includes agriculture," said Laurie. "We in agriculture look forward to an opportunity to build our relationship with the new president. We would like to impress on him how important it is that the agricultural industry has the support-base of our land grant university here in Michigan in order to be a major part of our economy."

One of the major challenges facing McPherson is helping MSU provide the opportunity for a quality and affordable education, according to Ron Nelson, legislative counsel for MFB. "The legislature has limited funds, and over the past several years the increase in year-to-year appropriations to MSU has been minimal. Tuition is the other source of funding for the university, but as that increases it limits the number of people who can afford to attend MSU," he said.

★ Electric Pyramids
Zap Houseflies

By Vince Mazzola

A weak electric current on a three-foot-high, plastic pyramid kills houseflies that breed on farms and migrate to nearby suburbs.

"Flies—but not beneficial insects—seem to be attracted to the light reflected off the white pyramid," says Lawrence G. Pickens, a U.S. Department of Agriculture scientist. But, the pyramid is harmless to humans, animals and birds.

Pickens, one of the inventors of the pyramid, says solar-powered electric grids on the sides and top produce just enough of a shock to zap the houseflies.

He says the pyramid was designed for use on farms that generate manure-bred houseflies. "They are unsanitary and can become a major nuisance at neighboring homes," he says.

"With so many people moving into the suburbs, farm-bred flies have become, in some instances, subjects of lawsuits," says Pickens, an entomologist for USDA's Agricultural Research Service. On an average farm, controlling flies with insecticides can cost a farmer $5,000 a year.

Pyramids could be placed along the flyway on farms, between the manure where they breed and the areas where they become pests, Pickens explains. "In some cases, they would be effective at home sites to intercept the pests before they get into the kitchen."

Other potential uses, he says, would be at beaches, zoos, landfills and feedlots—anywhere that houseflies can breed.

He says the fly-zapping pyramid operates completely on solar power. No batteries are required and the solar pack can be easily replaced. Practically maintenance free, the pyramid needs only an occasional cleaning during the fly season.

Over the past 16 years, Pickens and colleagues at the Beltsville, Md., research center developed and refined the pyramid concept to control farm-bred houseflies. About five years ago, they began developing the electronic zapper.

Olson Products, Inc. of Medina, O., recently began marketing a version of the pyramid for farm use. A lower-priced model for homes may soon be on the market.

Word Processing Short Courses Available at W.C.C.

Word processing software programs such as Microsoft Word, Word for Windows, and WordPerfect will be featured in several two- and four-day short courses presented by the Washtenaw Community College Business-Industry Center.

Featured courses this September include:

•Introduction to Microsoft Word (version 5.0), two Tuesdays and Thursdays beginning Sept. 7, 7:30-9:30 p.m.

Participants will produce basic documents using the popular word processing software Microsoft Word. Creating, editing, correcting, and formatting documents will be highlighted. The course will also include instruction on spell checking and accessing the thesaurus feature. Prerequisite: Mastering DOS Commands: Level I.

•NEW this semester: Introduction to Microsoft Word for Windows (version 2.0), two Tuesdays and Thursdays beginning Sept. 14, 5:30-7:30 p.m.

This software program blends graphics features from Macintosh Word and IBM Word with additional editing tools included. Participants will create, correct, and edit documents as they learn to format characters and paragraphs using special commands. The mouse attachment will be heavily emphasized. Prerequisite: Mastering DOS Commands: Level I or equivalent experience.

•Introduction to WordPerfect (version 5.1), Friday, Sept. 17, 1-5 p.m. and Saturday, Sept. 17, 8 a.m.-noon.

This two-day short course features the popular word processing software WordPerfect. Participants will learn basics such as creating, editing, highlighting, and formatting documents. They will also learn how to access the dictionary and thesaurus features. Prerequisite: Business Applications for the IBM PC or equivalent experience.

For registration information and fees, call Continuing Education registration at (313) 973-3818.

Livestock Sales Drops In Total Sales Despite Two Individual Records

Annual Chelsea Community Livestock Sale was down substantially from last year in total sales, although a couple of records were set in individual categories.

This year's sales total was $75,312.55, down from last year's total of $91,012.40, which was the best sale ever. There were fewer animals this year in every category. Seventy-three lambs were sold, 43 hogs, and 30 steers, for a total of 146 animals. Last year there were 174 animals, including 82 lambs, 48 hogs, and 44 steers.

A record price of $17 per pound was paid by Bouillon Sales, Inc. for Jason Bradbury's grand champion lamb, beating the old mark of $15.50 paid in 1991 by Lane Animal Hospital, also for a lamb owned by Bradbury.

Reserve champion pen of hogs, owned by Valerie Schiller, also set a record of $3.25 per pound, beating the previous high of $2.75 paid by Farm Bureau Insurance in 1987 for Brian Brasso's animal.

Below is a list of the animal owners, place of the animal, weight, buyer, and price per pound.

Dogs Open Grid Season at Home Friday Vs. Mason

Chelsea Bulldogs open their football season this Friday at home at 7:30 p.m. against Mason.

Coach Gene LaFave's team is a little banged up from three weeks of intense practices. As many as five starters could be out. He anticipates a good challenge from Mason, who has taken Chelsea to the wire each of the last three years. Each time Chelsea has won the game.

They should be a very physical team," LaFave said of Mason.

They do a lot of blitzing, which could give them some big plays. On the other hand, we hope we can get some big plays of our own."

Mason, a play-off team last year that like Chelsea lost to Jackson Lumen Christi in the post-season, is a team dominated by juniors, much as Chelsea was last year.

LaFave intends to stick with a two-rotation system this year, even in the early going with all the injuries.

But we're not going to be stupid about it," LaFave said.

Chelsea quarterback Pat Steele and receiver Colby Skelton comprise the best passing combination in the area. However, Steele will have numerous other targets, including junior Pat Lynch, senior Don Poppenger, junior Bryndon Skelton, as well as senior running backs Jay Westcott and Gabe Bernhard, and senior tight end Paul Lopez.

The Chelsea running game should also be solid.

The defense will be a strong part of the team as most of last year's starting unit returns. Senior Ed Greenleaf will anchor the line at noseguard, and seniors Tim Wescott and Skelton will lead the backfield.

Wescott is nearly automatic on his extra points and his field goal range has increased. He may share some punting duties.

Most other Chelsea teams get into action this week as well.

Varsity and junior varsity basketball teams hosted Jackson County Western last night. They play at Fowlerville tomorrow, and at Stockbridge and Manchester the following week before returning home on Tuesday, Sept. 14.

Cross country teams are scheduled to scrimmage Brighton tomorrow before their first home meet against Pinckney next Tuesday at Inverness Golf Course. After Tuesday, the team will have only four more dates at home.

Varsity girls swimming team hosts Adrian in their first meet next Tuesday at 6:30.

Varsity tennis team plays at Howell tomorrow and hosts Brooklyn Columbia Central next Tuesday before going on the road for five straight matches.

Varsity boys golf team has been competing for a couple of weeks. They play Saline and Milan tomorrow at Milan, and Lincoln and Saline on Tuesday in Saline.

Beach Middle school girls basketball gets underway on Friday, Sept. 10, and Beach football starts Tuesday, Sept. 21.

Chelsea Boys Golf Team Takes 21st at JCW Tourney

Chelsea Bulldogs boys golf team placed 21st out of 24 schools at the Jackson County Western Invitational Tournament last Friday.

Coach Jim Tallman said individual scores improved—even though the team's finish didn't.

Chelsea shot a 358. Jackson Lumen Christi was first with a 312, followed by Saline with 316. Tecumseh was the only other Southeastern Conference school and finished eighth with a 328.

Individual scorers were Dirk Wales 86, Jim Tallman 86, Jesse Hammet 90, and Ryan Fisher and Kevin Holmes 97.

We are a very young group this year," Tallman said.

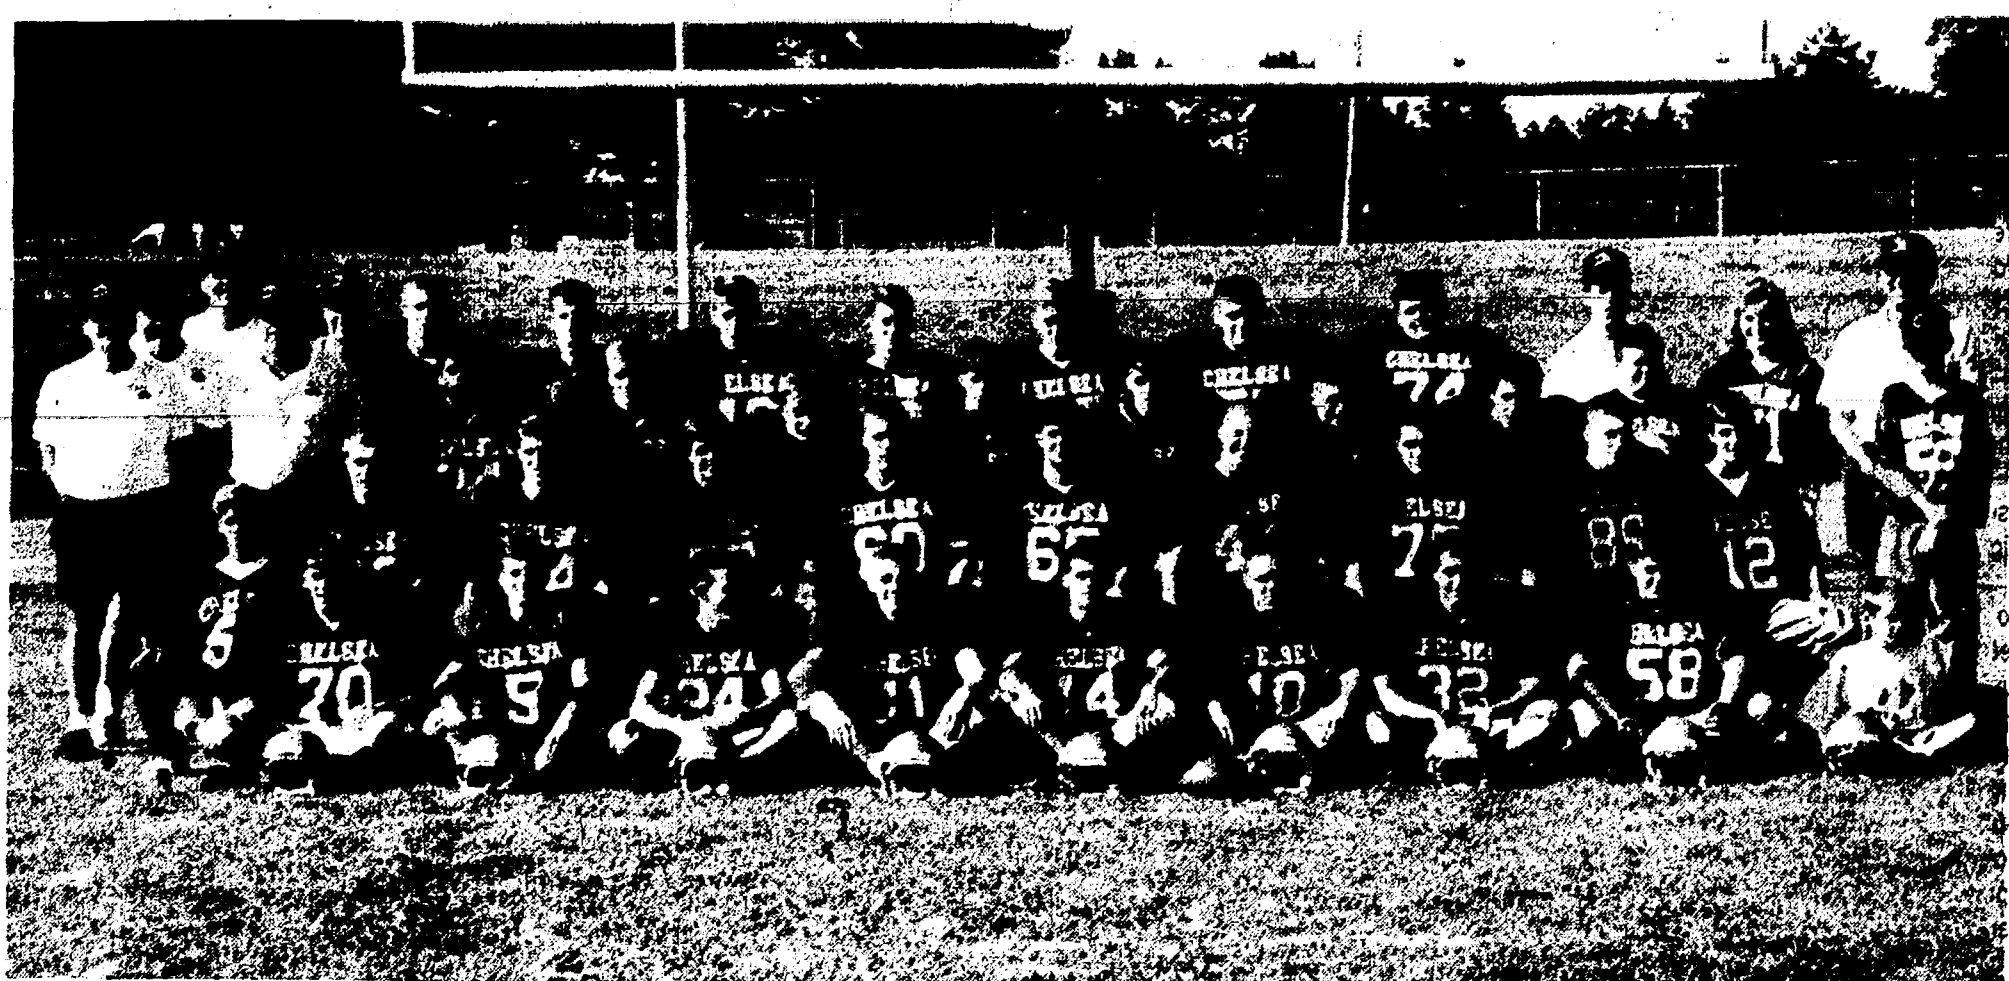

Four of yesterday's line-up are juniors and the other is a sophomore. Dirk's and Jim's mid-80s scores are very respectable for juniors in a tournament with many of the big name schools from around the southern part of the state. Their scores would probably rank in the top 20 percent of the scores turned in and probably in the top 10 percent of scores turned in by other juniors.

Tallman said his team's scores should improve dramatically as he can begin to add some team members to the line-up who are not yet eligible to compete.

The Bulldogs battle Brighton and Milan this week.

Chelsea Girls Basketball Team Should Be Improved This Year

Chelsea Bulldogs girls basketball team enters the season with an eye toward improving on last year's 6-15 record.

Coach Charlie Waller, beginning his second season, has a young, aggressive team with plenty of height. The question marks, he says, will be whether the team can play consistently with enough intensity and whether pressure defense will rattle his relatively inexperienced guards.

"We should be much improved," Waller says.

"We have the talent, but I don't know if we have the intensity. We were very competitive this summer in scrimmages and at the Michigan camp we played very well. We didn't play any of the big A schools but we basically beat everyone else."

Waller figures his team will be strong inside with senior co-captain Erin Schiller (5'10"), junior Courtney Thompson (6'2") and sophomore Annie Terpstra (6'1").

"It's a pretty good front line," Waller says.

"They play well together, but it also makes us pretty slow. If we can get the ball across half-court, we should score some points."

Junior Martha Merkel will provide some depth on the line, along with senior Mara Smith.

Senior Laura Carty is the likely point guard. She'll be a starter in the backcourt with junior co-captain Jessica Flintoft.

The rest of the guard corps includes juniors Kate Steele, Charlotte Ziegler, Lori Ritter, and Laura Hodgson. Steele, Hodgson, and Terpstra teamed to win a 3-on-3 tournament this summer.

"Kate's a very good 3-on-3 player," Waller says.

"We have several very good potential guards coming along."

One big missing ingredient from this year's team is senior guard Nicki Piasecki, who's working to come back from a knee injury suffered this summer at basketball camp. She would have been the team's point guard and one of the team's best shooters.

Last year the Bulldogs picked up all six wins in Southeastern Conference play by whipping Milan, Lincoln, and Saline. The Bulldogs should finish better than 6-6 this season. They might even give last year's champion, Pinckney, all they can handle. The Pirates still have all-state candidate Nicole Cushing, but apparently have been hurt by injuries and even the pay-to-play program.

"We should be very competitive in the league," Waller says.

Waller is getting a little extra help from volunteer coaches Racquel Huddleston, a former college player, and Beth Starkey, a former Chelsea player.

Chelsea plays at Fowlerville tomorrow night.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BRIAN HAMILTON

Here we are, already, at the beginning of another high school sports season, and, once again, I'm still brainlocked in major league baseball. It's always that way when my Atlanta Braves are in the midst of a pennant chase. Football seems as though it should be far, far away. That feeling is probably a holdover from my youth, when we played pick-up baseball games in the summer until it was so dark we either couldn't see to hit or couldn't find the ball once it was. Someone would bring a radio and we'd check in on the Columbus Jets to see how they were doing. Those were the days of Steve Blass, Pancho Herrera, Jose Martinez, Manny Sanguillen, Gene Michael, Freddie Patek, and a host of others who eventually went on to play in the majors, usually for the Pittsburgh Pirates since Columbus was their farm club. The last thing we were thinking about was football, but once school started those late games had to quit. Somebody always brought a football to the playground, and baseball began to fade.

Now football never starts to seem real until that first Friday night in September when the Chelsea Bulldogs open their season, sort of the equivalent of me showing up at the playground to watch.

I imagine that this year I'll be tugged away from baseball a lot faster than usual. This year's Bulldogs should be enormous fun to watch, and expectations are high.

I can't recall a Chelsea team in the nine seasons I've been watching that had so many solid senior starters. You'll read a lot about quarterback Pat Steele, receiver Colby Skelton, and kicker Tim Wescott as you did last year. But they are just a part of what should make this team extremely successful this year. You might be surprised at how good the Chelsea running game is with seniors Jay Wescott and Gabe Bernhard behind Steele, partly because they have an outstanding, senior-dominated line. But what will set this team apart is its defense. The Bulldogs have more pure speed than any Chelsea team I can recall. Swarming to the ball should be routine. Long plays by the opposition should not. There's experience, speed and savvy in the defensive backfield, the linebackers hit hard, and the interior linemen are quick and strong enough to throttle most blocking schemes.

The problem the Bulldogs will encounter this year that they didn't last season when they went undefeated in the regular season and 7-1 in the playoffs is this. Everyone will want to make them eat sod. Chelsea will be everyone's championship game. Other Southeastern Conference teams know what the Bulldogs did last year and that they should be favored this year. Many league football players also played basketball last year and they know what happened in that sport, too. Steele and Skelton are likely football all-stars, and will be mainstays on this year's basketball team, which will make them even bigger targets this fall. (And, just wait until basketball season.)

Teams will find out quickly, however, that they won't do themselves much of a favor by focusing on Steele and Skelton. Because the rest of the Bulldogs will kill them if they do. There's too much balance and depth.

Chelsea opens Friday here with Mason, a team they've handled, but barely, in each of the last three years. Each game was decided by less than a touchdown. This year's game shouldn't be so close. I've seen the Bulldogs practice and talked to a few players, and they've been ready for the first game since they reported to practice. It's not so much that they want to show everyone what they can do, I think they have a certain notion of themselves and they want to prove to themselves that it's true. They're ready for the test.

Mason, a play-off team a year ago (they also got thumped by Jackson Lumen Christi), has lost some pretty good players and is dominated by juniors. Coach Gene LaFave calls them a "6-3 team this year."

I expect LaFave's estimation of Mason is a little on the high side since coaches have a way of building up their first opponents. So, I also expect Chelsea will have the game well under control by half-time. The only things that could keep the game close are turnovers or a lot of penalties, which are not all that unusual as teams struggle with their timing against their first real opponents. The Bulldogs, with so many experienced seniors, should have a big edge in handling the first game blues.

The first big challenge should come the following week at Saline, one of the teams LaFave believes could challenge for the SEC title. Chelsea hasn't won there in many years and it won't be easy this season, either.

Although I've gotten in trouble for predictions before, I'll make a general one now. The key to the season will be these first two games. If the Bulldogs can win them decisively, especially the Saline game, they'll have enough momentum and confidence to take them through the rest of the season. If they have to struggle at Saline, or worse, if they should lose, the season could be a lot tougher than many of us expect. Not that they couldn't come back, but every other team in the league will believe they have a chance. And for a few of those teams, that might just make the difference. The Bulldogs are a little banged up and might not be at full strength until after the Saline game.

No matter what happens, this should be a fun season. It will be a long time before we see the likes of a Steele-Skelton combination, or a team with so much speed and so many gifted seniors. I hope Chelsea fans will make the most of it, give the coaches a break, and let the boys play the game.

Should I make another prediction? Probably not, but I will anyway. Chelsea 28, Mason 6.

Even if Mason wins by four touchdowns, at least one fan will be dancing in the streets—the person who takes home the Chelsea Athletic Boosters car. The drawing for the Ford Probe is at half-time.

CHELSEA'S FAVORITE ACTOR, Jeff Daniels, works the rear of The Purple Rose Theatre Co. float in the Chelsea Fair Parade last Saturday. The float featured The Gelcaps, a quartet of '50s singers.

Tomatoes don't contain as much vitamin A as carrots but Americans are eating a lot more tomatoes than carrots, so ag researchers are looking at ways to use genetics to cross commercial stock with exotic tomatoes from the Galapagos islands. The new varieties, full of vitamin A, are expected to be available to consumers in about three to four years.

WORLD YOUTH DAY '93

Denver Diary

By Mary Lou Hahn-Setta
Monday, Aug. 9, 1993, Chelsea

We're as ready as we'll ever be, I guess. I hope! Bags are packed, cameras ready, buttons made. The bus is due at 1:30 p.m., Tuesday. We just need to put the finishing touches on the farewell prayer service. As I read my morning prayer the psalm for the day is "Come, pilgrim! Climb to me!" Prayer service is now complete.

Tuesday, Aug. 10, Chelsea

Pilgrim youth and adults start arriving around 12:30 p.m. The parking lot of St. Mary's is strewn with duffel bags, sleeping bags, videos, snacks and drinks donated by Vogel's and Cook's, cameras, video cam and backpacks. Parents, relatives and friends are checking last-minute details. The air is electric with excitement, anticipation and maybe, a little fear.

We gather all these feelings in a short prayer service to ask God for a safe journey and a meaningful time with John Paul II and young people from around the world. Father Murray of St. Mary's, Manchester, blesses us and the bus arrives.

And we're off! Kinda, sorta. We are traveling with another bus which is experiencing mechanical difficulties. We are waylaid in Jackson from 2 p.m. until midnight. During this unexpected stopover we enjoy dinner compliments of the bus line. I've called Fr. Dupuis to keep him updated on our progress (or lack of it!). He laughs, comments on my bad luck with buses and tells us that he'll be there in a 4-hour.

During our time in Jackson, we get to know the 16 other pilgrims on our bus. 11 are from St. Gregory the Great on Dexter Ave. in Detroit and five are from St. Mary's in St. Clair. It's 10:30 now and we've done dinner, the mail, ice cream at the dairy and Queens Church in Jackson has offered the hospitality of their gym for basketball, roller skating and euchre. We are all very grateful to be out of the mosquito infested night.

The Chelsea youth and adults are getting frustrated and antsy by the delays but the kids from St. Gregory quietly put things in perspective for us by their sheer joy at going on this trip and their certainty that eventually, everything will work out.

At midnight, the Chelsea/Detroit/St. Clair group is asked to board the bus—we are finally hitting the road! Feelings are mixed—we are leaving the Walled Lake/Monroe bus behind. We have discussed staying together but they've asked us to go, no point in all of us missing it. We say goodbye, hoping that they will get going soon.

Wednesday, Aug. 11,

On the Great Plains

Our morning through Iowa and Nebraska is interminably long but uneventful. The Mississippi looks like it has receded, the devastation is more evident on some of the other rivers we cross. During our morning and night prayers, we remember those affected by the flooding.

We hit Colorado around 7 p.m. Wednesday night, desperately searching for a place to eat dinner. 47 hungry people, most of them teens, is not a pretty sight. We don't find a restaurant but something 100 times better. A huge double rainbow greets us. Sam, our bus driver, is bombarded with requests to stop so we can take pictures. He's sure we are all nuts. We figure that Denver can wait 15 more minutes. For the balance of the ride into Denver, we are entertained by the meteor shower. Faces are pressed against the windows and shouts to look over here and there keep us too busy to notice that we've arrived at our hotel.

It's 11:30 p.m. Father Dupuis is there to welcome us, his flight had arrived earlier that day. We distribute room keys, jump into showers and hit the sack. The ride wasn't that bad.

Thursday, Aug. 12, Denver

We are all up early for breakfast and the ride into Denver for the day's events. We start out at Mile Hi Stadium for a Mass with approximately 80,000 in attendance—and this is just the English language venue! Youth are trading buttons, hats, bracelets and other items from home. During the Mass a plane flies overhead with the banner, "World Youth-Use Birth Control." Fleeting attention is paid to it—we are here for other reasons. Communion is distributed to all these people in under 15 minutes. I start to think of the massive organizational effort that must have gone into planning this event.

We brave the crowds to eat lunch. I've never seen so many people squished together. Sardines have roomy quarters compared to this. Nobody loses their temper, nobody shouts, except to cheer when someone actually walks away with food. Part of me is amazed, part of me, unfazed. This is how it should be.

We won! We won the lottery for seats at the Papal Welcome. We are excited but the excitement is tempered, we are in section QQQ, Uecker Seats! That's OK—at least we'll be there.

It takes two hours to get into Mile Hi that afternoon. All around we hear voices and song—the Mexicans, the French, the Africans, singing and chanting. Ann Currie, our claustrophobic, is quickly losing it. Brian starts telling her stories about his family, trying to keep her mind off the crush of people surrounding her. It's not working. Finally, he yells, "Back up, we've got a claustrophobic here!" It was as if the Red Sea had parted again. The crowd backed up and Ann got some much needed breathing room.

Turns out that the delay was caused by metal detectors at every entrance and inspection of bags. We search for section QQQ, it must be way up. Omgod! (that's a prayer) it's on the floor, not 20 yards from where the Pope will be entering. We're pumped!

While we wait there is plenty of entertainment, the whole crowd is singing and dancing. Hey, the cardinals are pretty good at doing "the Wave" and the Carmelite nuns up in the real Uecker seats look like the authentic "Sister Act."

Helicopters are starting to land and the crowd is going nuts—John Paul II is here and St. Mary's, Chelsea and St. Louis Center, Chelsea, are on the front row! They'll never believe this at home! We get some great video of the Pope entering the stadium. I look around at our group, Theresa is crying buckets and Ben is just awestruck. You can hear a pin drop during John Paul's address to the youth. He departs around 9:30 p.m. to chants of "John Paul II, we love you!"

We start our search for the bus. We've brought a multi-colored wind-sock to identify our bus. We assume Sam will hang it out a window, but Sam wants to be sure we find the right bus. Among hundreds of buses, our's is the only one with a pylon on top with the St. Mary's banner blowing in the breeze.

We are back at the hotel by 10:15 p.m., in the hot tub, the pool. "Let's call out for pizza." What a day!

Friday, Aug. 13, In the Rockies

We take the morning off to visit the Rockies. The tour includes Georgetown, Silver Plume, a train ride and a visit to Buffalo Bill's grave. Rumor has it that the Pope is in the mountains today, too. Great minds run on the same track.

3 p.m. is the time scheduled for our Diocese of Lansing gathering with Bishop Povish. It will be great to see some familiar faces. Over 700 youth from the Diocese are in attendance at WYD. It starts with a concert by Steve Agrisano and then Bishop Povish has compiled a David Letterman type list of the "Top 10 Reasons to go to WYD in Denver." #1 is "To have an intimate moment with JP II and 160,000 of your closest friends."

We attend Stations of the Cross that evening in Mile Hi, but Mark isn't feeling well. Ann and Fr. Matt take him to First Aid where they pump a liter of fluid into him intravenously because he is dehydrated. He's not feeling any better so they decide to admit him to St. Joseph's Hospital. Our entire group is worried about Mark and ourselves. Water is consumed in copious amounts from then on. Mark and Fr. Matt return to the hotel around 1 a.m. but Mark is rehospitalized in the morning.

Saturday, Aug. 14

With the pilgrimage coming up this afternoon, the group decides to take Saturday morning off for swimming, relaxing and shopping downtown, buying last-minute souvenirs.

We've been dropped off at a point approximately four miles from Cherry Creek State Park, the site of the prayer vigil and Papal Mass. It's hot, it's crowded and it's dusty. People on the highway honk and wave to us. We take turns carrying each other's bags. Thank God for the breeze! There are water stations everywhere. Army water trucks are out in force. Coors is giving away free bottled water. Water never seemed so important—until every inch of your body is screaming for it.

We're in the park, the hike is over and we settle into our little section of prairie. Area 9-7 is our home for the next 24 hours. It's going to be an interesting night.

That evening, John Paul II arrives, we all recognize his helicopter now, it's the one with the white beanie painted on top! He cries when he sees the crowd assembled for him and hears the now familiar "John Paul II, we love you."

It's difficult to see or hear from our section (you can't win every lottery). Some of us move up to the gigantic speakers to hear the prayer service. 10 of our group decide to find a more isolated spot to sleep. "Be back by 9 a.m." I can't believe we've just let nine youth and one chaperone go off into a crowd of 250,000. The vigil ends with the Pope telling the youth, "John Paul II, he loves you, too!" The helicopter rises—it's time to sleep... or doze... or?

The rain that was predicted and surely expected, by the look of the skies, never materializes. We hunker down and hope for sleep, especially Fr. Dupuis (purely a chaperone's point of view). The ground is hard and prickly, this is the prairie, and it's getting cold. A young man from the Bronx keeps calling for Christine and singing Happy Birthday to her. "Please, Christine," we pray, "Answer him!"

Some of us decide to go for a walk but resist the temptation to join the dancing that the Spaniards have organized. How can that many people have so much energy at 2 in the morning? Sleep is attempted one more time but at 4 a.m. we give up and start the search for an uncongested porta-potty and water faucet. That accomplished, we are set for the day. Some youth and adults find bratwurst a good choice for breakfast.

Everyone is back by 9 a.m.—all 28 of us—in time for the Papal Mass. It's gone from very chilly to extremely hot in an hour and some of our Michigan bodies are not adjusting very well. Jacki is not feeling well. Water, sleep and more water, she'll be OK.

I've never seen so many people! When the general public came in at 5 a.m., we rushed to the hill to take pictures, not of the Pope but of the people.

When the Mass ends, we raise our items that we have brought for a blessing, tuck them back into our bags and head for the exit. We'd scouted a short cut the evening before but one of our group is missing. Two others are sent off to find our lost lamb, we'll all meet at the bus on Arapahoe and Havana. The hike out is just a little less crowded than going in. Jessie and Jacki both need to stop, heat exhaustion, but we've been careful about water and rest and they both recover fairly quickly. Ann and Fr. Dupuis have left in another direction so Fr. can catch the shuttle to the airport. I hope he makes it in time.

At the bus, we have a complete group. I can't believe it, we are all there! Air conditioning never felt so good: We go to a hotel to shower, change and eat dinner before heading home. Father Matt meets us there. Mark is still in the hospital, but tests show nothing serious. They will remain in Colorado until Wednesday evening.

We board our bus for the trip home and 26 hours later pull into St. Mary's parking lot. Suzy wants to be the first one off so she can kiss the ground. As we park, parents, friends and parishioners greet us with candlelight and hugs.

Wednesday, Aug. 18, Chelsea

As I reflect on the trip, I realize it's importance lies not only in being with John Paul II but in our sudden appreciation of everyday events. Simple kindness to one another, rainbows, meteor showers, sunrises and sunsets, rains that came and didn't come.

Talk to me in a month—I might be ready for another World Youth Day! Ben said it all, "When's the afterglow going to wear off?" Soon, but not the memory!

Escapist Gets Caught in Fence
Police were able to capture a prisoner at Cassidy Lake Boot Camp early Sunday morning who got caught in the fence while trying to escape. Police said Terry M. Podmajerski, 16, got caught in the concertina wire at the top of the fence shortly after midnight and sustained several cuts that required medical attention.

Consumer Demand Forcing Changes in Livestock Industry

The livestock industry must become more flexible to meet the changing needs of consumers, according to Wayne Purcell, Virginia Tech agricultural economist, at an American Farm Bureau Cattle/Hog Cycle Forum held recently in Iowa.

Changes needed are in product offerings to meet consumer demands, rather than sitting and waiting for the consumer to return to the products offered, as they did in the 1960s, Purcell said.

"Structural changes taking place in the various industries have much to do with their adaptability to changes in consumer demand," he said. "An integrated industry like poultry finds it easier to make the necessary changes, by changing genetics and getting control of quality and variations, compared to other industries with so many different operations between producer and consumer."

The pork industry is making some changes in this direction, either through integration or through contract production, Purcell said. "It is not a major force yet in pork, but I think it will be a major force by the year 2000," he said. Changes will be most difficult in the beef and lamb sectors because of the many different profit centers between the producer and consumer, according to Purcell. "It is going to be more difficult to get a co-ordinated agenda of action across those different centers unless every individual producer in the industry gets involved in forming strategic alliances. The industry must work across the different levels in the system to move the product toward changes demanded," he said.

$ Money Management $

Prepared by the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants

★ How College Students Can Take Charge of Their Finances

If you're a freshman heading off to college, the Michigan Association of CPAs offers the following survival skills for managing your money.

Budgeting is the Key To Money Management

The first step in taking charge of your finances is to prepare a budget before you begin the semester. A well-prepared budget can provide a realistic plan for meeting your living expenses at college.

In preparing a budget, identify your total income and total expenses. If you're responsible for paying for tuition, room, and board costs, be sure to set aside enough money for these expenses. Then estimate the amounts you need to cover your day-to-day expenses. For the average college student living on campus, typical budget categories might include food, transportation costs, school-related expenses, personal expenses and entertainment. Don't forget to set aside money for trips home to visit family and friends.

Once you've identified all your expenses, it's time to add up your income. Whether your income comes from your parents, your savings, a part-time job, or from grants or student loans, be realistic about the amount of money at your disposal.

Now compare your total income with your total expenses. If you're lucky, your income will cover your expenses, or at least come close. If you find that you have more expenses than income, you'll have to make some adjustments. A careful review of your financial situation will help you to identify areas where you can cut expenses or perhaps increase income.

Banking on Your Own

If you haven't already done so, now is the time to take on some banking responsibilities. As a general rule, it makes more sense to open an account in your college community rather than in your home town. Be prepared to shop around for a bank that offers you what you need in terms of convenience and services. Most banks offer similar products, but there can be important differences in features and in costs.

A checking account is an efficient and safe way to keep and spend money. To maintain your checking account in good standing, record each deposit, check and ATM transaction as soon as you make it. Be careful, too, about writing checks against uncollected funds (deposits you've made that haven't been credited to your account yet). Bank charges for 'bounced' checks can be costly—anywhere from $10 to $30 each. On the back of your monthly checking account statement, you'll find a worksheet for reconciling your account. Taking the time to balance your bank statement each month can help avert problems.

Credit Cards for Collegians

A major credit card can be a valuable financial tool for the student who knows how to handle debt. Before applying for a card, compare the amount of interest you will be paying for outstanding balances. This amount can vary significantly from issuer to issuer so you'll want to see which issuer offers the best deal. In addition to looking at rates, compare annual fees, how interest is computed and fees charged for special circumstances, such as late payments. But a word of warning—don't rely on using credit when your cash runs out. You'll find yourself mired in debt at the end of the school year.

A Few Words on Taxes

If you have a part-time job or receive any earnings from investments, you may have to file an income tax return. Most single students can use Form 1040EZ, a shorter, simpler version of the standard 1040. IRS Publication 4, "Student's Guide to Federal Income Tax," provides helpful information.

CPAs point out that basic money management skills are critical to your financial well being. Maintaining a realistic budget, developing banking relationships, getting and using credit and preparing a tax return can prepare you for your post-graduate wealth-building years.

1993 Michigan Fall Travel Calendar of Events Now Available

Plan to spend your fall getaway in Brooklyn, Dodge City, Williamsburg, or Bangor—Michigan—that is. The 1993 Michigan Fall Travel Calendar of Events, available now, provides a listing of events in these communities plus more than 470 other fall festivals, craft shows, fiddler jamborees, fall color tours, and Octoberfest throughout the state.

For a free copy of the Michigan Fall Travel Calendar of Events, travelers map write the Michigan Travel Bureau at P.O. Box 3393, Livonia 48151-3393; or call toll-free 1-800-543-YES in the United States and Canada.

Beginning Sept. 1, travelers may call (800) MI-4-FALL (844-3255) in the United States and Canada for a recorded Michigan fall color conditions report, updated each Thursday through the end of October.

FAIR QUEEN CANDIDATES await the final verdict of the judges at last Friday's fair queen program. It was a tense night for the young ladies in front of the large crowd.

1895 HEARSE built in Chicago was driven by John Mitchell, Jr. of Staffan-Mitchell Funeral Home during Saturday's Chelsea Fair Parade. Most of the hearse is solid wood and it is unrestored.

CHELSEA KITCHEN BAND, composed of Chelsea senior citizens, again played their brand of basic music in the Chelsea Fair Parade last Saturday afternoon from downtown to the fairgrounds.

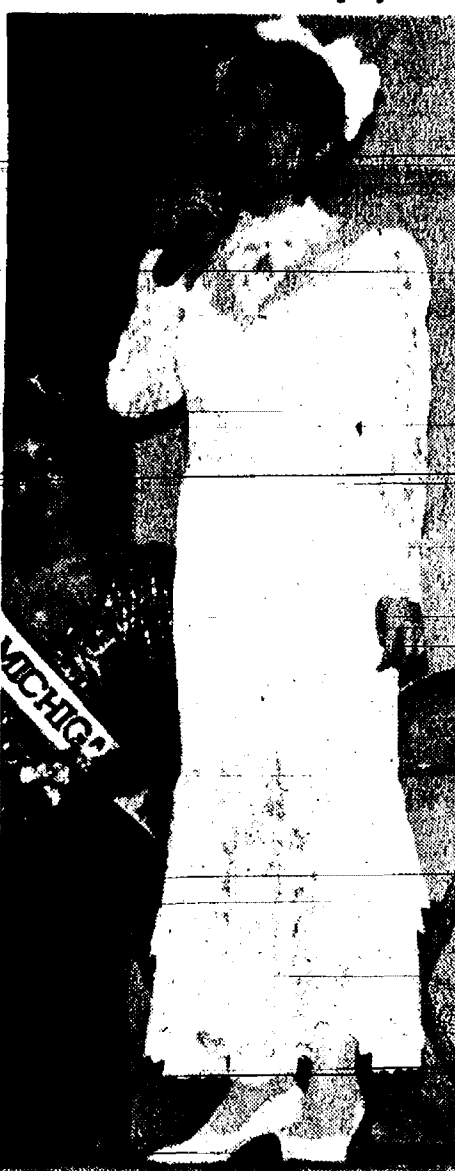

CHELSEA COMMUNITY FAIR BOARD MEMBERS take a short, but well-deserved rest, during Saturday's fair parade. The board is composed entirely of volunteers, who spend an enormous amount of time all year long to make the Chelsea fair one of the best community fairs in the state.

FRIENDS of McKune Memorial Library passed out books to people in the crowd at Saturday's Chelsea Fair. Avid readers scrambled in the streets to grab the prizes.

BOULLION SALES of Dexter took first place for the Best Commercial Display in the Merchants Building at the Chelsea Community Fair. The company has displayed at the fair for 25 years.

MELISSA SMITH sang "Think of Me" from the musical play "Phantom of the Opera" during last Saturday's Chelsea Fair Queen Program.

MISS MICHIGAN Stacey Heisler of Livonia was the featured speaker at last Friday's Ladies Day program at the Chelsea Community Fair. She talked about her experiences as a beauty pageant winner. Heisler is a 1991 graduate of the University of Michigan School of Music and has performed with the Ann Arbor Symphony.

LIONS CLUB of DeWitt brought these unusual motorized biplanes to the Chelsea Fair Parade last Saturday. An entire squadron performed coordinated flights on the pavement.

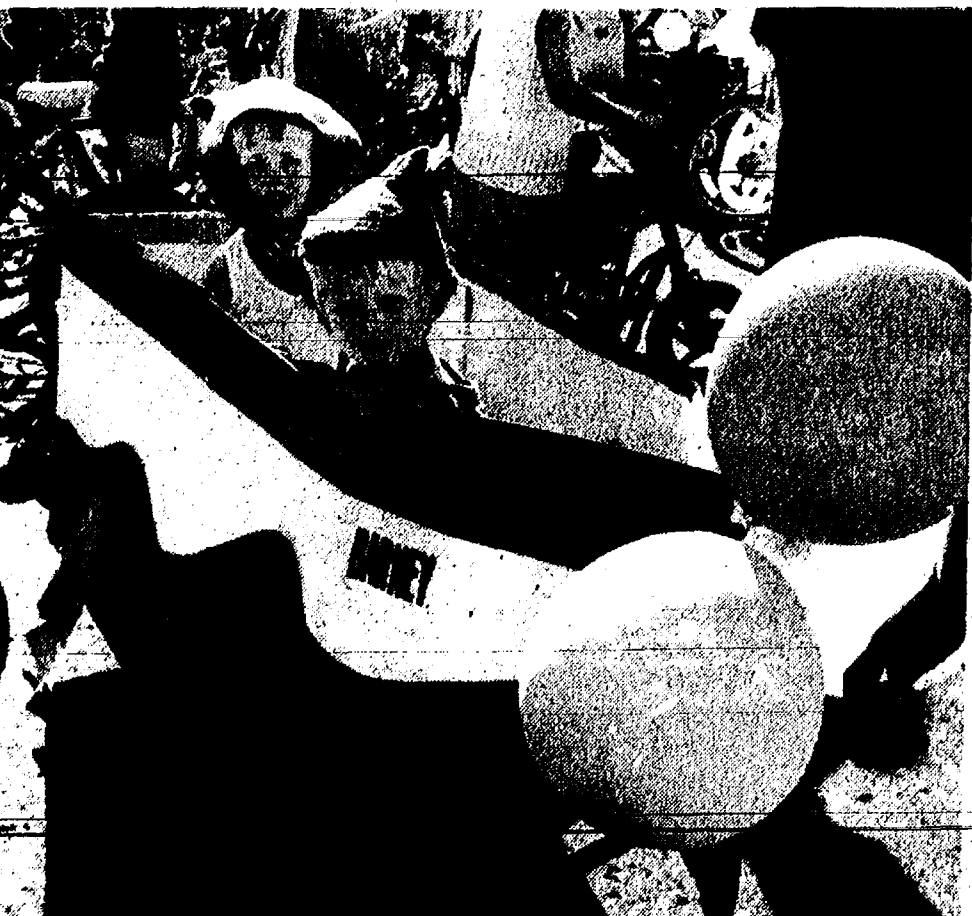

CHELSEA TAE KWON DO walked the route of the Chelsea Fair Parade along side a giant foot, meant to symbolize their martial art.

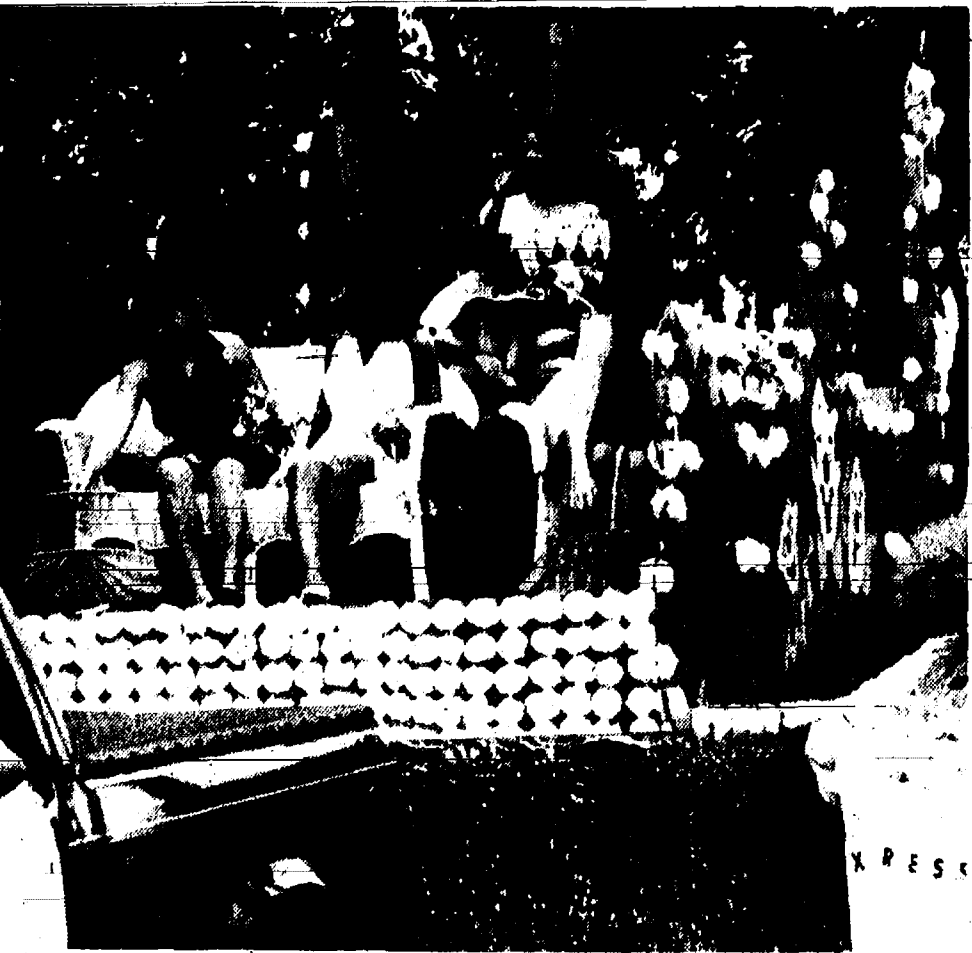

OLD WOMEN Heather and Katharine Gray placed second in the miscellaneous ages category of the Children's Parade last Tuesday afternoon.

BARNEY, played by Matthew McClelland and Danny Bouchard, took second place in the age 3-5 division of the Children's Parade last Tuesday.

FAIR PRINCESS Samantha Heydlauff placed third in the age 3-5 category of the annual Children's Parade last Tuesday.

HOT AIR BALLOON by Lucas McCoy floated from downtown to the fairgrounds last Tuesday in the Children's Parade. Lucas took first place in the age 6-8 category.

MEGHAN REAMES as Barbie took second place in the age 6-8 category in the Children's Parade last Tuesday.

JOHN DONAJKOWSKI was the winner of the feature heat at last Tuesday night's running of the Cavalcade of Thrills Demolition Derby at the Chelsea Community Fair.

KELLYN PAGLIARINI and her brother, Robbie, were prize winners at the Pedal Power Tractor Pull last Thursday afternoon. Kellyn won in the age 3-4 bracket and Robbie took fourth.

Local 4-H Members Dominate State Contest

By Nancy Thelen, County Extension Director

Fifteen Washtenaw county 4-H members earned awards at the 1993 Michigan 4-H Livestock Expo held recently at Michigan State University.

One of the county senior livestock judging teams placed third over-all and first in oral reasons. Team members were John Heller, Sarah Heller, Eric McCalla, all of Chelsea; and Tara Yarger from Saline.

The second senior team placed fifth over-all and third in oral reasons. Members were Melissa Bycraft, Joshua Hofing, Stephanie Wesolowski, all of Chelsea; and Jason Haynes from Saline.

The team members also placed well individually. Kay Bulmon from Chelsea was eighth place in the senior division.

In the junior judging contest the team composed of Celeste Bycraft and Amy McCalla from Chelsea, and Ray Girbach from Saline placed third over-all and first in oral reasons. The second junior team was sixth place over-all. Team members were Laura Heller and Jill Wesolowski from Chelsea, and Renee Thelen of Ann Arbor. The juniors also placed well individually.

The live animal evaluation team placed fourth over-all. Team members were Tara Yarger of Saline, and Melissa Bycraft, Sarah Heller, and Stephanie Wesolowski, all from Chelsea.

In the communication contests Ray Girbach from Saline placed well with his demonstration, photography entry and poster entry. Jill Wesolowski, Chelsea placed 10th in the poster contest.

Several Chelsea area 4-H'ers placed well in the state-wide showmanship contests. Kay Bulmon was selected as the top beef showman and also placed 10th in swine showmanship. Celeste Bycraft was seventh in sheep showmanship, while Joshua Hofing placed 14th. Eric McCalla was 13th over-all in swine showmanship.

Receiving recognition for placing in the Top 20 Over-all based on participation in at least four different contests were 15th-place Kay Bulmon from Chelsea, and 17th-place Ray Girbach from Saline.

The judging team members were coached by 4-H volunteer, Ken Baldus from Ann Arbor.

For more information on 4-H programs, contact the Washtenaw County MSU Extension office at 971-0079.

Bike Riders Earn $6,000 for Burn Help In Chelsea Challenge

More than 440 bike riders took part in the Chelsea Challenge on Saturday. The event, sponsored by Chelsea Community Hospital and the National Institute for Burn Medicine, raised more than $6,000 for burn medicine and featured rides of 10, 30, and 60 miles, plus a 22.5 mile mountain bike loop.

A Friday evening thunder storm removed the high humidity, creating excellent conditions for the bikers' mass start at 8 a.m.

Mike Jurasik of Chelsea was the first finisher in the 60-mile ride with an average speed of over 22 mph, while Ashley Bartch of Ann Arbor was the first to complete the 30-mile route.

Never a shy bunch, the participants consumed 10 cases of apples, oranges, bananas, and bagels, not to mention 25 pizzas, two six-foot subs, and a few hundred hot dogs.

Road Commission Board Expects Traffic Delays During Baker Rd. Reconstruction

The Washtenaw County Board of County Road Commissioners expects traffic delays along Baker and Jackson Rds. because of construction work to widen Baker Rd., which began Monday, Aug. 30 by the county road commission.

Work to widen Baker Rd. between Jackson Rd. and I-94 and Jackson Rd. 500-feet east and west of Baker Rd. in Scio township is being performed to produce improvements.

Complete pavement reconstruction and widening, underground storm sewer with curb and gutter and a traffic signal at the Baker and Jackson Rd. intersection are planned improvements.

The work is being performed in multiple phases, beginning with work along Jackson Rd. and the underground storm sewer this year and the pavement widening next year. Road work is scheduled to be completed August 1994.
