ONE HUNDRED-TWENTY-SECOND YEAR—No. 17

CHELSEA, MICHIGAN, WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 15, 1993

20 Pages This Week 2 Supplements

A FORMAL GROUND-BREAKING CEREMONY was held Monday morning at the site of the new concession/bathroom facility at the Chelsea High school athletic fields. The facility, financed by a car raffle by the Chelsea Athletic Boosters, private monetary donations as well as the donation of services, should be ready before the football season is over. On hand were, from left, assistant superintendent Fred Mills, athletic director Wayne Welton, school board member Dick McCalla, boosters president Rod Payne, superintendent Joe Piasecki, and contractor James Bauer, who will oversee the project.

CONSTRUCTION is underway for the new concession/bathroom facility at the Chelsea High school athletic fields. As of early this week, footings had been poured and block work was scheduled to begin. The building should go up quickly. Chelsea Athletic Boosters is raising funds for the project. A new press box is scheduled to be built next year.

County Board Approves Sale of Bonds To Build Golf Course in Chelsea

The final political hurdle was cleared last week for a golf course to be built in Chelsea by the Washtenaw County Parks and Recreation Department.

On Wednesday, the county board of commissioners voted 10-5 to back the sale of up to $1.4 million in bonds for a $3.1 million golf course and winter recreation park in Sylvan and Lima townships just outside the village off M-52.

Parks director Fred Barkley said he anticipated a closer vote in light of recent comments by Raymond Schultz of Ypsilanti township, a commissioner who backed the bond sale as a member of the board's Ways and Means Committee, but changed his mind and lobbied hard to kill the project before last Wednesday's vote of the full board.

Detractors of the project said it would benefit only affluent people, and would subsidize a yet-to-be-proposed housing development on adjacent property to the east by increasing its value. They also said there was no guarantee the course would generate enough money to pay back the bonds, and one person commented about possible pollution.

Several officials and interested business people from Chelsea attended the meeting.

Also in attendance was Timothy Dark, who lives on Pierce Lake and works at Barton Hills Golf Course. He commented that the course would easily generate 36,000 rounds per year.

The course is designed to be a money-maker for the parks department to help subsidize the entire county recreation program. Bonds will be paid off in five years and Barkley anticipates a profit of $370,000 annually by the end of the decade.

"The costs of operating the park system are going up but our tax dollars are not keeping up with it," Barkley said.

"We had to find another source of revenue if we are going to maintain the park system as it is."

Barkley said Friday his department has given the go-ahead to Johnson, Johnson & Roy to develop a recreation plan and environmental study. South Lyon golf course architect Harry Bowers will also begin designing the 18-hole course just south of Pierce Lake. JJ&R studies should be completed in about a month.

"Then we want to have a joint meeting with Sylvan and Lima townships and the village to discuss our plans and priorities and make sure that what we're doing is consistent with their plans," Barkley said. Barkley wants to have the 200-acre parcel annexed to the village so water and sewer service can be provided.

Sometime in December, Barkley plans to hold a public meeting to display three master plans JJ&R will prepare for the site and "receive comments."

Bids will be sought during the winter and construction will start in April. Golf won't be played until August of 1995.

Barkley said he is confident his department will receive a $400,000 Land Trust Fund Grant, which is funded by oil and natural gas leases. The money will be used toward the $800,000 purchase price of the land, owned by Arcus Corporation. Technically, Arcus is donating 50 acres and selling 150.

Arcus is keeping 107 acres east of the proposed golf course for a housing project. About 60 acres are buildable.

While golf will be the primary activity in the park, there will also be nature trails close to the lake and Barkley is investigating the feasibility of building a pier into the lake to allow public fishing.

Winter sports will include cross country skiing throughout the park, and ice skating. The clubhouse, which will be used as a warming area in the winter, will likely have skis for rent, and possibly skates. The clubhouse will include a snack bar that will serve nothing more elaborate than soft drinks and sandwiches, Barkley said. No alcohol will be served.

Access to the course will probably be east off M-52 near McDonald's restaurant.

Barkley is confident the course will generate at least 36,000 rounds each year.

School District Expects $420,000 Budget Deficit Due to New Legislation

Chelsea School District is anticipating a budget deficit of $420,000 this year as a result of the new state school aid bill passed recently.

School district administrators were scheduled to meet Monday in order to come up with a list of proposed budget cuts that will be presented to the school board at their meeting next Tuesday, Sept. 20.

"I don't know what might be on that list," said superintendent Joe Piasecki.

If history is any guide, cuts will be proposed across the board, as much as possible this late in the year. School districts normally deal with cuts well in advance of a new school year.

Piasecki said it's possible fund equity, the district's savings account, will finance a portion of the deficit, but not all of it.

Piasecki said he has made telephone calls to state Sen. Lana Pollack and state Rep. Mary Schroer suggesting that legislation be proposed allowing Chelsea and the 120 to 130 other districts in similar circumstances to hold a special election. Current law says revenue generated from millage approved after Sept. 30 has to be collected the next year. There is not enough time to have an election before the end of the month.

"I'm not holding out for it," Piasecki said.

Both [Mary Schroer and Lana Pollack] assured me they'd be in contact with the leadership in the house and senate but one said she doesn't expect anything will happen unless the governor is interested. I suspect that something is going to have to happen [this week] in order to have time to have an election.

Even if the legislature approved such an exception, Piasecki said there's no guarantee the school board would want to hold a special election. And, he said, there's no guarantee voters would approve an additional 1.2 mills needed to cover the deficit.

"I would like to have the opportunity to go to the public," Piasecki said.

"I'm not sure the board would choose to do that but they should have the option."

The new state aid bill is saddling Chelsea with 40 percent of social security payments, an expense the state has paid until this year. In addition, the state is withholding a portion of other funds it normally gives the district for special education and transportation. All those funds are being redistributed to other school districts with less money.

Local Quilter Has Prizewinner Stolen From State Fair

Laura Bloomensaas of Chelsea was one of eight quilters who had their prize-winning quilts stolen from a display area at the Michigan State Fair last week.

Bloomensaas had won Best of Show with her hand-made quilt, which was two years in the making. She had hoped it would qualify for the national show this year.

"I've been trying to [qualify for the national show] for a long time and there was a very strong chance of it getting accepted this year," Bloomensaas said.

"This is every quilter's worst nightmare."

Bloomensaas' intricate quilt, 75" by 93", featured 20 applique blocks on a black background, each with a pastel flower. The borders were joined together by 4,400, 3/4" hexagons. For the last two years, Bloomensaas spent at least 1 1/2 hours each day, and sometimes 10 times that much on week-ends, in her sewing room. Her quilts have won grand champion prizes three times at the Chelsea Community Fair.

Another stolen quilt was 20 years in the making.

The quilts, all blue ribbon winners, were stolen after hours last Tuesday, Sept. 7. All other quilts were left behind.

"The feeling was that it was an inside job," Bloomensaas said.

"I personally think it was directed at the fair, with all the problems it's had."

Bloomensaas said a reward will be offered for any or all of the quilts. Anyone with any information about the theft is asked to call the Detroit post of the Michigan State Police.

AMID GROWING PAINS and financial limitations, the board of Chelsea's McKune Memorial Library has voted to form a committee to consider becoming a district library. Their case was to be presented to Chelsea Village Council last night. Sylvan, Lima, and Lyndon townships will also be approached.

McKune Memorial Seeks District Library Status

Chelsea's McKune Memorial Library Board has authorized the formation of a committee to study the idea of becoming a district library.

The change from village to district status would help it financially and allow it to expand.

A presentation was scheduled to be made last night to Chelsea Village Council. The village owns the library building and property and must agree to the change.

"We looked at whether the change would be an advantage to the library," said board member Allen Cole.

"At first, most of us weren't too sure, but the more we explored the possibility the more it looked like a good idea. We looked at how this would help and how it would hurt everyone involved."

The change of status would help the library on several fronts. More money could be raised because township residents could be taxed. Approximately two-thirds of library patrons come from outside the village limits.

Village residents are taxed two mills (which has been rolled back). Township governments make voluntary contributions. But much money from the townships comes from annual fundraisers held by Friends of the Library.

More money would allow the library board to repair the current building as well as help finance an expansion, both in terms of a larger building and more services. The library is scheduled to take possession of the lot next door once the Department of Natural Resources gives it a clean bill of health. The site has been contaminated by former underground gasoline storage tanks. Board president Anne Belser said that approval could come quickly, although the board has no written guarantees.

The McKune building has no room for expanding beyond its current 24,000 volumes.

"Every time we buy a book, we literally have to take another off the shelf," Cole said.

The library would like to add more computer technology and other services, but there is no room and not much money.

The board is also interested in having township residents on the library board, since most of the patrons are outside the village.

"If we can triple the size of our area for board members, we should be able to have some good people," Cole said.

"It would be a boost for the board. Also, if we get into a large building project, more than just the village should have a say."

Sylvan, Lima, and Lyndon townships will be approached about becoming part of the district. If they are interested, they will appoint representatives to the proposed District Library Planning Committee. The committee will decide which municipalities will participate, and whether the district board will be appointed or elected.

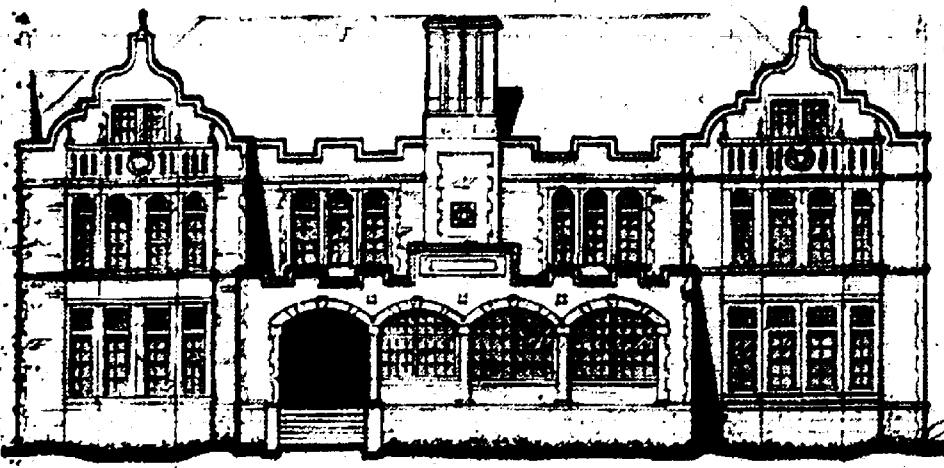

Based on the decisions of the committee, a district library agreement will be created. The agreement is filed with the state librarian, who has 30 days in which to approve or disapprove it.

The district library would not be established until voters authorize a millage. If the millage is not authorized by a specified time, the process

4 Years Ago . . .

Wednesday, Sept. 27, 1989—

In one of its shortest meetings of the year, Chelsea Village Council took action last Tuesday on two items that will have an immediate effect on development in the area. Council voted 5-0 for trustee Stephanie Kanten's motion to put a six-month moratorium on annexing more property into the village. The primary concern is how much capacity remains in the new wastewater treatment plant. And, in other action, council more than doubled the water and sewer connection fees for new building projects.

Village of Chelsea has been told it will have a decision on a new landfill operating license before Thanksgiving. The village has received a letter from Lonnie Lee, district manager of the DNR's Waste Management Division, saying he will recommend that the village be given a new license once the approved bromide tracer system has been installed in the new landfill cell. Village council voted last Tuesday, Sept. 19, to proceed with the installation. The system is supposed to provide a way to determine if the new cell is leaking contaminants into the groundwater.

The village's oldest hardware store, Chelsea Hardware, is going out of business, owner Ron Walter announced last Friday. Walter, who bought the business at 110 S. Main St. in 1983, laid lack of expansion space was a major consideration in his decision. He did not discuss increased competition from Ames Department Store or ACO Hardware. He said, "sales were decreasing."

In an effort to gather public opinion that will be useful to the Board of Education, the Chelsea School District is planning a telephone survey of the district's registered voters in November. The survey called Project Outreach, is one of the board's goals for the year, and is in its initial planning stages. The district is seeking a lot of volunteer help for a number of aspects of the survey, from designing the questions, to conducting the telephone interviews. Sixty volunteers alone will be need for the interviewing.

A nine-year-old dog named Peanut was credited with saving the lives of his owners last Thursday, when he alerted them to a 4 a.m. gas leak in their home.

A confidential "tip line" has recently been initiated by the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Dept. for use by all residents of the county.

Official enrollment figures for the Chelsea School District from the fourth Friday count, taken Sept. 28, show 2,558 students.

Still seething from the previous week's rout by Okemos, Chelsea's varsity gridders rolled up an impressive 368 yards on home turf Friday night to pound Milan, 41-7.

The Chelsea Education Association voted Monday to strike Oct. 13 unless a contract settlement is reached with the Board of Education by that date.

The Chelsea Village Council has written a letter to the Department of State Highways calling for study and recommendations regarding the heavy flow of traffic on M-52.

School enrollment in Chelsea has failed to skyrocket from the level of last year's, although it increased slightly.

Two boilers in the Beach school heating system are functioning improperly initiating a replay of last year's crisis.

BEHIND THE HEADLINES:

Plymouth Colonists Saved By Free Market

Governor Clinton is getting loads of advice these days, much of it from leftists pushing socialist planning and ever more government controls. But the president-elect would do well to study the lessons of our very first community at Plymouth Bay more than 350 years ago.

By Philip C. Clarke

At Hillsdale College in Michigan, the authors of a recent commentary in the institution's highly acclaimed publication, Imprimis, did some research on how the Plymouth settlement governed itself. Their conclusion sounded startling. "The Pilgrims," they discovered, "were communist. At least, they set out to be."

As related in Imprimis, "Plymouth Bay Colony was established as a commune according to the socialist dictum, 'From each according to his ability, to each according to his need.' And so each Pilgrim contributed his harvest to a common storehouse from which everyone withdrew food as needed."

"However," the account continues, "the assurance that they would be fed from the common store, regardless of their contribution to it, had a peculiarly disabling effect on the colonists. Soon there were more needy consumers than able producers, and the Pilgrims very nearly starved to death."

"Desperate to avert tragedy," it went on, "Governor William Bradford proclaimed that each colonist would thereafter be free to do whatever he chose with the fruits of his labor. In other words, he established a free market. Governor Bradford recorded the outcome of his experiment in economic freedom in his diary, from which the following is adapted."

Quoting now, "The freedom had very good success. It made all hands very industrious, so that much more corn was planted than otherwise would have been by means I, or any other, could use. It saved me a great deal of trouble and gave for better results."

Continuing from Governor Bradford's diary: "The women went willingly into the field and took little ones with them to set corn. Before, they would allege weakness and inability, and to have forced them to work would have been thought tyranny and oppression."

"By this time," said the leader of the first Plymouth Colony, "the harvest was come and, instead of famine, now God gave them plenty. And some of the abler and more industrious sort had food to spare to sell to others, so as any general want or famine has not been amongst them since to this day."

Concluded the Imprimis account: "Thus was born the miracle of America's abundance. And those who today propose central planning, common ownership, redistribution of wealth, and government handouts are advocating a system that Americans have already tried and abandoned more than 350 years ago!"

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Bug Hookum was lamenting at the country store Saturday night that daily papers are convinced folks want news on the installment plan, like they get everything else. He told the fellows they think we get use to reading a certain kind of news, like national health care debating, and all we want is more of the same.

Actual, Bug said, he appreciates the wide coverage of his local paper a heap more since his daily started printing the old Saturday movie short serial instead of the feature show, and he has to read the little items to get the big news in the state, country and world. Today, we see the stagecoach full of backers for one health plan go over the cliff, and we got to wait until tomorrow to see they all got out at the last second to keep the argument going through the next installment.

The big papers find bits and scraps, rewrite yesterday and put a big headline on leftovers covered with a thin sauce, was Bug's words. We can read how many more meetings the President's wife had on hospital costs, and how many lobby groups are in favor of which plan, but everything else that happened winds up as fillers.

Trusting Employer Gets Nothing But Headaches

A W. Middle St. resident, who owns a contracting business, didn't know what he was bargaining for when he trusted a new employee a little too much on Aug. 31.

The man told police he let the employee drive his truck, containing a number of tools, home that evening. The employee failed to show up for work the next day.

A short time later, the employee called to say he had been picked up for drunk driving, but didn't know where the truck was.

That was just the beginning. A second caller said he had purchased the truck from the first employee for $200, but he didn't want it. He offered it back to the contractor for the $200, but the Chelsea man was told he'd have to go to Detroit to pick it up. The Chelsea man said he couldn't do that.

Later, another employee, who lives near the first employee, called to say he had found the truck, but the man who had it wanted $300 for its return.

Still later, a fax to the Chelsea Police Department indicated that the second employee had been robbed by the first employee, and that the truck had been used in the armed robbery.

WALT ZEEB, left, was given the Silver Slippers Award by the Chelsea Fair Board last week for his year-around work on behalf of the fair. Zeeb also got silver paint all over his boots while tackling one of the many paint projects, so the board decided to finish the job. Board president Ken McCalla, right, was presented a shirt with the inscription, "There were a helluva lot of things they didn't tell me when I hired on with this outfit."

EDUCATION RESEARCH

 Secondary School Principals (NASSP), Reston, Va.

★ Teen Leadership Training Available

Reston, Va.—If you still believe in "born leaders," it's time to rethink the concept. Most leaders first must develop skills through extensive training, experience, and personal growth.

Students who aspire to be better leaders may want to utilize part of the summer to attend a leadership training program. Interpersonal and communication skills, problem solving abilities, organizational techniques, and conflict resolution are just some of the skills addressed by quality student leadership instruction.

"Leadership can be taught—it's not something determined at birth," agrees Walt Angilly, executive director of New Jersey Association of Student Councils and director of student activities for Boonton High School, New Jersey. "The best leadership training programs enable students to experience personal growth as they learn and acquire skills. Many schools now offer leadership training classes, but summer is an excellent time for students to take advantage of quality leadership programs offered throughout the nation."

In choosing a program, Angilly recommends that parents and students look for the following curriculum:

Goal Setting—techniques and the importance and purpose of setting long and short term goals;

Organization—project planning and development, personal and group time management, activities calendar planning, and how to run effective meetings;

Teamwork—team building, roles in groups, cooperation/competition balance, behavior observation and understanding, and conflict management skills;

Problem Solving and Decision Making—identification of problems and causes, leadership styles, situational leadership, needs analysis, brainstorming methods, solution implementation, and individual and group decision making.

Evaluation—techniques, process, growth evaluation, and personal, group and goal evaluation;

Communication—non-verbal and verbal skills, effective listening, and interpersonal and group communication; and Self Awareness—self-esteem building and personal motivation.

"Training in these areas will acquaint a student with autocratic, democratic, and laissez faire leadership methods," Angilly believes. "Students who can combine all of these methods with their own personalities will succeed in most leadership roles and enhance their current and future opportunities."

More information about leadership may be obtained from your school student council or honor society adviser, state department of education, or your state student council association—(usually affiliated with the state principal association.) For information on NASSP's National Leadership Camps, call its Division of Student Activities, (800) 253-7746, extension 356 or 357.

In addition, a national guide to accredited summer camps offering leadership training is available for $12.95 from the American Camping Association, (800) 428-CAMP.

Not All Bread Is Fattening

Do you believe that bread is fattening and that you must give it up if you're on a weight-loss diet? A slice of bread is no more "fattening" than an apple. The average slice of bread has from 60 to 90 calories. "Diet" or "light" breads have 35-40 calories per slice.

Bread is rich in complex carbohydrates and can be a low-fat source of fiber, vitamins and minerals—if you choose your loaf carefully. There are many breads to choose from and it pays to do some label reading before you buy.

What do you want in a bread, besides good taste and texture? The answer is fiber, vitamins and minerals. In general, the more fiber, the more nutrients. Bread ought to be a basic source of fiber in your diet—but it isn't always. That's because most breads are made of what's called "wheat flour." This is not the same as whole wheat; it's refined white flour that has had most of the fiber-rich bran and germ mechanically removed. Most manufacturers replace the lost vitamins and some of the minerals (they may even put in more than the grain had in the first place), but they may not replace the fiber and the trace minerals.

White bread can surprise you. Some white breads (made from refined wheat flour) actually have more fiber than so-called "six-grain" or even "12-grain" loaves because some manufacturers add fiber from oat or wheat bran or soy flour to some white breads. Some of the so-called multigrain breads are actually made chiefly from refined wheat flour and thus may have little fiber. Always check the label for the fiber content and look for a bread with 2 or 3 grams per slice.

A reader's guide to bread labels
"Diet" or "light" bread: usually just thinner, smaller slices.

"High fiber": this may be meaningless, but if the claim is made, the manufacturer is required to state the amount of fiber on the label.

"Low in fat": true of nearly all yeast breads, which generally have less than 1 gram of fat per slice.

"No cholesterol": true of most breads, unless large amounts of butter and eggs are used. Cholesterol is seldom an issue with bread.

"Oat bread": usually just white bread with a small amount of oats added. Check the ingredients list to see how far down oats are listed. The higher in the list of ingredients, the more of that ingredient is contained in the product.

"Unbleached" or "unbromated": this means that the color of the wheat flour has not been lightened, though it does not mean it's whole wheat.

"Wheat bread": this is white bread; wheat flour or enriched wheat flour (not whole-wheat flour) is the first ingredient.

"Whole-wheat bread": this contains the whole grain, including the fiber-rich bran and germ; whole-wheat flour should be the first ingredient.

★ Check Your Withholding

Don't risk being surprised next tax season with a hefty tax bill and possible penalties. The Michigan Association of CPAs recommends that you take the time now to determine if you're having sufficient taxes withheld from your paycheck to cover your 1993 tax bill and, if necessary, to update your Form W-4.

Income subject to withholding
If you're an employee, your employer is responsible for withholding income tax from your salary. In addition to your wages and any bonuses, sick pay, vacation allowances and most fringe benefits are subject to withholding tax. Tips earned on your job must also be reported to your employer so they can be included with your regular wages when calculating your withholding.

Certain income you receive from gambling winnings this year will be subject to a tax withholding rate of 28 percent. Winnings from sweepstakes and lotteries will be subject to withholding if the proceeds are more than $5,000.

Distributions from retirement plans
Beginning this year, almost all distributions received by employees from qualified pension, profit sharing, stock bonus, 401(k) and 403(b) plans will be eligible for rollover treatment, regardless of whether the employee has separated from service, retired, or whether the payments represent all or a portion of his or her plan account. Any part of an eligible rollover distribution that is not directly transferred to another plan will be subject to a mandatory 20-percent withholding for federal income taxes. Withholding the right amount

It's your responsibility to ensure that you pay both sufficient withholding on your wages and estimated taxes on income not subject to withholding, such as interest, dividends, capital gains and business income.

You will be subject to a penalty unless you pay at least 90 percent of your income tax by the original due date of your return. Depending on the amount of your income and other factors, you may be in compliance with current tax law if your estimated payments, including withholdings, equal at least 100 percent of the total tax due of the prior year. Check with your CPA to determine whether you qualify to use this rule.

Calculating your withholding
To assess whether your withholding is on target, estimate your income for this tax year, and then reduce your estimated income by any adjustments or deductions you may be eligible to take. Now compute your tax. If eligible, you may reduce your tax by certain tax credits. Now calculate your withholding allowances. Remember, the more withholding allowances you claim, the less income tax your employer will withhold. The number of allowances you may claim is affected by your marital status, number of dependents, level of income, number of jobs you hold, and filing status, among other things.

Matthew Steinaway Returns from Duty In Australia Area

Navy Airman Apprentice Matthew P. Steinaway, son of Karen C. Reinhardt of 10255 Joalin Lake Rd., Gregory, recently returned from a two-month Australian deployment with Fighter Squadron 21, Naval Air Station, Miramar, Calif.

Steinaway's ship was part of the USS Independence Battle Group during exercise Spring Training 83. During the exercise, the group operated with the Australian defense forces off the coast of Western Australia. This year's training allowed ships and aircraft from the USS Independence Battle Group to conduct the first aerial training in the area since U.S. bases in the Philippines closed last year.

The VF-21 "Strikecats" fly the F-14 Tomcat, designed to attack and destroy multiple airborne targets in all weather conditions and at night. The aircraft is capable of speeds in excess of Mach 2, and is armed with bombs, rockets and air-to-surface missiles.

The Navy and Marine Corps operate forward to project a positive American image, build foundations for viable coalitions, enhance diplomatic contacts, reassure friends and demonstrate U.S. power and resolve, from the sea.

The 1991 graduate of Grass Lake High school joined the Navy in July, 1991.

34 Years Ago . . .

Thursday, Oct. 8, 1959—

The sixth annual Chelsea Community Chest fund-raising campaign, under the direction of Mrs. Robert Daniels, will get underway Tuesday, Oct. 13, immediately following a kick-off luncheon to be held at St. Paul's church at noon.

Mr. and Mrs. John O'Connor, of 17113 Roe Rd., were surprised at 5:30 a.m. Friday when State Police officers from the Brighton post came to their home to inform them that their car had been stolen from Cassidy Lake and that the vehicle had been severely damaged when it smashed into a tree in attempting to elude capture at the roadblock.

Last Friday night, before a huge Homecoming crowd, the Chelsea High Bulldogs dedicated their new athletic field by defeating Manchester, 13-0.

Farmers living in the Sharon township area, where wild dogs have raided flocks of sheep in recent weeks, expressed their gratitude to Chelsea Rod and Gun club members and all volunteers among the 75 men who participated in the big hunt for the dogs last Saturday.

year, based on eight months of play. His initial estimates for the bond payback were for 24,000 rounds in the first full year. Most golf courses in the county generate at least 40,000 rounds annually, he said.

"We're going to have a quality course, but one that's not too hard to play," Barkley said.

"It will be within the realm of play for the average golfer. After all, we're building a recreation activity, not a stop on the PGA tour."

Designer Harry Bowers, one of five architects who were interviewed, "believes in moving as little dirt as possible," Barkley said.

"That will help maintain the natural beauty of the land as well as cut some of the cost."

ends and the library continues as a village library.

The creation of a district library could be something of a trade-off for the current board. While financial problems would be less burdensome, the village would lose its total control of library operations since the townships would have board representation. A district board, for example, could decide to move the library altogether if expansion becomes impossible at the current site. In that case, the McKune building would revert to the Detroit Archdiocese "for the use of the aged of said Archdiocese," according to the will of Catherine McKune.

Seafood Buffet Benefits Michigan Eye-Bank Fund

The good guys are the people of the Chuck Muer organization. The good food is a lavish seafood, wine and dessert buffet provided by the Gandy Dancer restaurant to benefit the good cause of eye and vision research at the Michigan Eye-Bank.

We may live in the neurotic 90's, but there are still corporate good guys who serve the community quietly and selflessly. Once again, Chuck Muer's Gandy Dancer restaurant has agreed to sponsor this annual fund-raising event which takes place Friday, Sept. 17, from 5 to 8 p.m.

The Michigan Eye-Bank is a non-profit organization that works to prevent blindness and help restore sight to people whose vision loss relates to the cornea of the eye.

By providing corneas for transplant, the Michigan Eye-Bank has given the Gift of Sight to thousands of people across the state. Of the 112 eye banks reporting data, the Michigan Eye-Bank ranks first in the number of corneas provided for transplantation to local citizens. Yet there's more to do. Each year eye surgeons have between 150-200 people in Michigan waiting for corneal transplants. These corporate good guys are helping to prevent blindness without ever going to medical school.

For information and fund-raiser reservations please call 1-800-247-7250.

Life in Small Chinese Village Primitive By Anyone's Standard

By Mary Ellen Mynning
Dear friends,

When I was in Inner Mongolia visiting with one of my former students, her family took me to their family's ancestral home in a small village 25 kilometers from Hohhot.

The road leading to the village was one step away from being a cow path and when I asked my student, Julie, how many people lived in the village she said 500. That explained the poor condition of the road. In China even the smallest of towns will boast of populations over 500,000, so to find a village this small is rare indeed.

This village, as is true of most villages in northern China, is surrounded by a brick wall (actually this village was so poor that the wall had few bricks and was primarily made of mud and straw). The individual homes also have walls surrounding them and the yard. At first glance I assumed the walls were built for privacy, but later I was told it was used mainly to keep the livestock from wandering all over the place. Each villager's family had some chickens, a few ducks, a pig, and the richer citizens had a cow or two. All these were kept in the enclosed yard.

When we arrived at Julia's grandmother's home I noticed that her home, and all the other homes, had no windows at the sides or back of the house, only in the front. Mrs. Zhu (the grandmother) told me that they built the houses that way to keep them warmer in the winter. Since it was August I thought I was going to croak from the heat, but they all seemed just fine. Too poor. So I sweat a lot. Each home had a small kitchen area with a stove and small refrigerator and a tap for well water. No hot water faucets here in the village, or in most homes in China for that matter. The livingroom is also the main bedroom, as is the Chinese custom, due to lack of housing space, and also to help keep the heating costs down.

Mrs. Zhu was very gracious and insisted I climb up onto the bed, and have some tea. Since the homes don't have chairs, up I went. The beds are made of wood, no springs, no mattress, and families sit, eat, and sleep on them in the villages. They are called kang and are heated from underneath. In the summer, in order to keep cool, the beds are covered with a thin bamboo mat.

When it was time to eat, Mr. Liu, Mrs. Zhu's husband, put a short-legged table on the bed and we sat Indian style around it and dug in. In China, the woman keeps her family name when she marries, so that is why Mrs. Zhu has a different name than her husband. Sometimes this can be confusing when you are trying to meet people and learn names and relationships. Anyway, the food was delicious and I was thoroughly enjoying myself when all of a sudden one of the cousins who was eating with us became ill. She felt extremely hot and we were certain she was running a fever. They laid her down and put wet towels on her while Mrs. Zhu went to get the village doctor. Yes, in this village the doctor still makes house calls.

Within minutes an older man hurried in carrying his black bag, and I was hurriedly introduced to Dr. Wang, Mao Lin and then he looked after his young patient. Later when she was resting quietly I went outside with him and chatted for awhile.

Dr. Wang is 52 years old and the only doctor in the village. "Dr. Wang, where did you study medicine?" I asked. "I am self-taught," he declared proudly. "I studied books and went with other doctors to watch them and I learned." Dr. Wang has no x-ray equipment, no fancy high-tech anything. He just wades in and does the best he can, and judging from the healthy villagers I saw, he seems to be doing fine.

"So, how are you paid?" "I get 50¢ for a visit, but many people cannot pay this so I get eggs or a small duck or milk many times." "Where do you get the medicine?" "I travel by bike 20 kilometers to the medicine store twice a month," he told me. Rain or shine, summer or winter, off he pedals. People pay for the medicine which is a separate fee from the office visit, but he charges them exactly what he pays for the medicine. No profit. I have talked and seen doctors in the cities also, and as near as I can tell there is no such thing as a rich medical doctor in China. People go into the profession because they want to help people, but not to make a buck.

The oldest man in the village—he is 91 and Dr. Wang is proud of his patient's strength!

Dr. Wang and some of the children he had delivered, posing beside the village wall.

All the women deliver their babies at home and if their confinement looks like it will be difficult, the women stay with him and his wife on a spare bed until they deliver.

As for the farmers in the village, they farm pretty much like my grandpa Merkel did back in the 30's. This village only had one tractor and it was small. They harvest by hand, they winnow the grain by throwing it up and letting the wind carry away the chaff, in order to crack the wheat they have horses pull a huge cement rolling stone around and around over the grain. Matter of fact, in the villages close to the paved roads it is common to see farmers putting the wheat on the road and waiting for the cars to crunch over it and break it down. Chinese are practical.

Oh yes, it was interesting to me that the squat toilets are always located in the southwest part of the yard. To put them anywhere else would bring sickness and death to the family, according to the people I talked to. The toilets consisted of a low adobe wall in a roughly square shape that you hopped over and squatted down behind to do your business. No roof.

It is polite just to not look when someone has to "do the business" said Mrs. Zhu.

Well there you have it folks, a brief capsule view of life in a small village. And I find it fascinating. I hope you did to.

Mary Ellen Mynning.

Farm Bureau Study Shows NAFTA Will Help Farm Prices

Approval of the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) will boost export sales and prices of many Michigan farm products, according to a Michigan Farm Bureau analysis.

Under NAFTA, Mexican restrictions on corn exports will be phased out over 15 years, resulting in a six million ton market for U.S. corn. That should boost corn prices by about six cents a bushel and provide an extra $14.4 million a year to Michigan corn producers. NAFTA will also remove the current Mexican soybean tariff, increasing soybean prices around 12 cents a bushel and contributing $8 million a year to Michigan's farm economy.

The Farm Bureau study also shows NAFTA providing an extra $2.3 million a year for Michigan dairy producers, between $1.1 million and $2.2 million for state swine farmers and significant opportunities for exporting more fresh Michigan apples and other fruits to Mexico.

"These statistics vividly show that approval of NAFTA means real benefits to working people in our state," said Jack Laurie, president of the Michigan Farm Bureau. "It means more money in the pocket of family farmers and more economic activity for rural Michigan. On the other hand, rejection of NAFTA imperils our trading relationship with Mexico. It could cause us to be shut out of this growing market with resulting harm to our export sales and jobs," he said.

Podunk School on Foundation For Webster Fall Festival

When you attend the Webster Fall Festival on Sept. 25 you will be able to see an important part of history being recreated on Webster Church Rd. The Webster Historical Society is restoring the Podunk School as close to its original condition as possible.

The frame schoolhouse known as Podunk School was built in 1850 on Walsh Rd.

Webster Historical Society purchased the building from Pat Farrell and on Sept. 9, 1992 it was moved to the Society's property on Webster Church Rd.

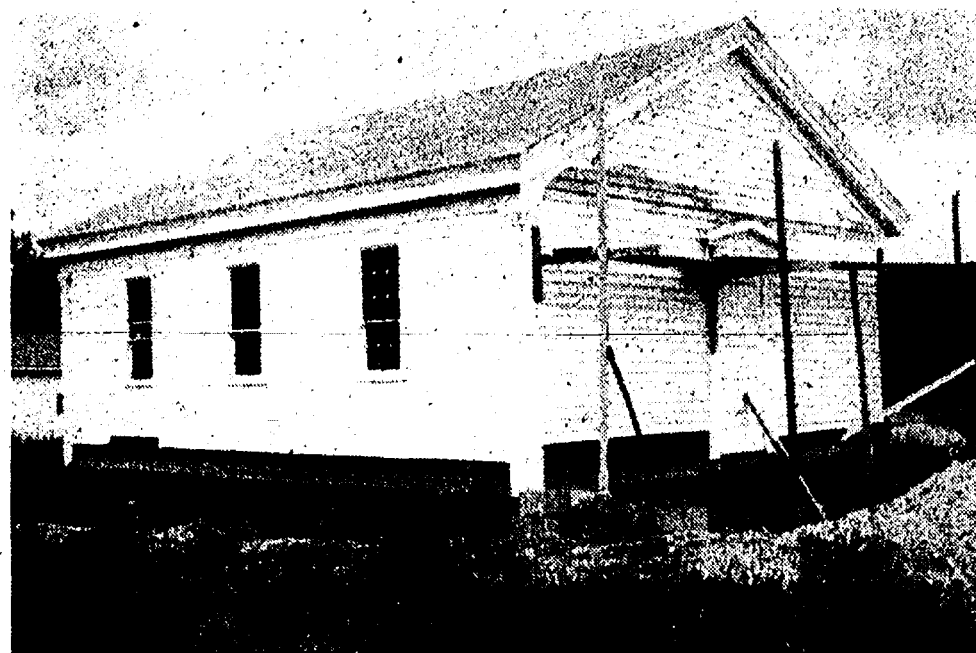

This summer has seen real progress in the restoration of the school house. Rotted sills have been replaced, damage caused by the move has been repaired, new wiring is almost complete and the Podunk School's new foundation is due to the work and plan of Chris Marr, a Boy Scout from Troop 477 who built the stone foundation as his Eagle Scout Project. Much still needs to be done.

Other events taking place in and around the already restored Blacksmith Shop will be antique tractors and cars, hay rides, wool spinning and blacksmithing.

Other events will be a craft show in the Community House, country store and bake sale in the newly built Boy Scout Log Cabin, rummage and antique sale in the barn, children's zoo crafts and games for young folks, quilt display in newly restored Webster Church, live entertainment, luncheon from 11 to 2:00 and Webster's famous pig roast from 5 to 7. The price of this roast pork dinner hasn't changed in five years.

Sponsored by the Webster Township Historical Society and the Webster United Church of Christ, this year's festival will again benefit the restoration projects of both organizations.

An estimated 24,900 lives were saved from 1983 to 1991 as a result of safety belt use.

HISTORIC PODUNK SCHOOL, built in 1850 on Walsh Rd., has been moved to the Webster Historical Society property on Webster Church Rd. Restoration work is progressing and now the building is on a new foundation.

CHRIS MARR and Scott Navarre from Dexter's Boy Scout Troop 477 were completing the new foundation for Podunk School when this photo was taken. The stone foundation was Chris Marr's Eagle Scout project.

Equestrian Team Begins New Season

Chelsea Equestrian Team is set and ready to begin its new season of competition. After last year's District Championship, the team is determined to win its district race and compete again at the State Finals.

This year's team is the largest ever with 15 members. Team members are also bringing increased depth in several competition areas, as well as the return of many experienced riders from last year. Coaches Kathy Kentala and Jill Nowatzke are very excited about the team's potential this year.

Team members this year include seniors Rob Steiner and Heather Wilson; juniors Keri Kentala, Jayma Spears, and Jessica Knight; sophomores Kyle Kentala, Kevin Griffin, Laura Koenigster, Kay Bulmon, Jennifer Swope, Jocelyn Dohner, and Ben Potocki; and freshmen Courtney Chamberlin, Sarah Wilson, and Jeanette McDougal.

Chelsea Equestrian Team is open to any high school student in the Chelsea School District. The Chelsea team and teams from 130 other high schools belong to the Michigan Interscholastic Horseman's Association. The state is divided into 13 districts, each holding a series of three meets. The meets are a combination of horse show and track meet with the emphasis placed on equitation and the rider only, except in the timed, speed events. Each team competes in 17 different classes including Showmanship; Western, Hunt Seat, and Saddle Seat riding; Jumping, Reining Patterns, Trail, and several speed events.

W. A. Thomas Co. Nominated for WDC 'Building Future' Award

W.A. Thomas Co. of Chelsea has been nominated by the village to receive a "Building Washtenaw County's Future Award."

The award, given by the Washtenaw Development Council, recognizes companies that have made significant investments which will contribute to the county's economic future through technology, strategy, marketing, and business networking.

"We will continue to invest in our company's future as well as our community's future, both in Chelsea and Washtenaw county," said John Knight, director of marketing for W.A. Thomas.

The company, in conjunction with the Washtenaw Community College Job Training School, has developed a training program for 10 unemployed or under-employed workers to learn the basics of blueprint reading, statistical process control, machine set-up, and metal properties for screw machine operators.

"We are proud of our role in developing this program and providing on-the-job training for some of the participants," said Brent Thompson, plant manager for the W.A. Thomas Chelsea facility. Thompson served with other local company representatives on the advisory board to develop the training. W.A. Thomas also provided additional training in statistical process control.

The training was funded by a $15,000 Adult Education Alternative Training Grant provided by the state. When the training ended, two participants had started jobs and four more had been offered employment. Another program begins this month.

The award, announced by village president Richard Steele, will be held in conjunction with the Washtenaw Development Council's annual Open House on Oct. 7 at 5:30 p.m. at the Radisson on the Lake, 1275 Huron St., Ypsilanti.

Golf Clubs, Shirts Missing from Car

Police are investigating the theft of two sets of golf clubs and golf shirts from a rental car on Sunday, Sept. 12.

According to Chelsea police, the mother of a Madison St. man was visiting from Florida and had rented a car. The car developed mechanical problems and a tow truck was called. The items were towed away with the car, but later could not be found when the woman realized what had happened.

Police Find Drunk Outside Chelsea Depot

An inebriated man was found lying on the north side of the Chelsea Depot last Thursday night.

The man, Robert Ruzbasan, who police said had no known address, was found incoherent. A breath test revealed a blood alcohol content of .37 percent, more than three times the legal limit for intoxication.

Portable Toilets Hit by Arsonists

Police are investigating a deliberate attempt to set two portable toilets in Pierce Park on fire early last Saturday morning.

Shortly after 1 a.m., someone set toilet paper and other items thrown inside on fire. No one was hurt and the buildings were not badly damaged.

Process Continues In Change to City

The movement to change Chelsea from a village to a city is still in progress.

Bob Clark, who grew up in Chelsea, is leading the effort. Ann Feeney and Jack Merkel are also involved.

The volunteers are working to match up the state's version of the legal description of the village with village records, which may be the most time consuming portion of the process. Once that is finished, the final boundaries of the proposed city have to be determined and it all has to be sent to the state boundary commission as part of the formal petition.

"Everything has to be done to a T," Clark said.

Once the preliminary work is done, the legal process of public hearings can begin. The hearings will be followed by an election to determine whether the change should be made and to elect charter commissioners. Once the charter is drafted, it is submitted to the voters for approval.

Clark said the proposed boundaries of the new city would run approximately south to I-94, east to Freer Rd., north to Werkner Rd., and west to the current boundary. All property in the village would be included.

"We have a few ideas, but nothing's been established," Clark said.

"A lot of the new boundaries would be where people want to be included in the city."

Part of the idea is to square off the boundaries as much as possible.

Let's Go Bulldogs!

QUARTERBACK Pat Steele had another big night for the Chelsea Bulldogs last Friday as he completed 13 of 28 passes for 189 yards. Again, Colby Skelton was his favorite target.

Varsity Cagers Stuff Manchester, Lose by One Point to Stockbridge

Chelsea Bulldogs varsity basketball team evened their record at 2-2 last week with a 63-31 victory over Manchester on Thursday and a 41-40 loss at Stockbridge on Tuesday.

In the Manchester game, Chelsea dominated the inside for three quarters and was never seriously challenged. Annie Terpstra finished with a team-high 17 points, Erin Schiller scored 12, Mara Smith had 11, and Courtney Thompson had six. All are inside players.

"It was too much Annie, Courtney, and Erin," said Chelsea coach Charlie Waller.

"Mara had an exceptional game. All the kids played well. It was a balanced effort."

Chelsea shot 43 percent from the floor and 18-25 from the line, "which for us is really exceptional," Waller said.

Thompson added eight rebounds and seven blocked shots.

Other Chelsea scorers included Jessica Flintoft and Martha Merkel with four points each, and Laura Carthy with two points.

In the Stockbridge game, Chelsea was down 33-26 after three quarters but staged a big comeback. Terpstra appeared to have the game won for Chelsea in the closing seconds on a put-back but officials ruled she was fouled before the shot.

"We were big and they were quick," Waller said.

"We couldn't get the ball over half court often enough in the second half."

Chelsea Netters Nip Monroe Jefferson

Chelsea Bulldogs girls tennis team opened its season with a 2-5 loss to Brooklyn Columbia Central last Tuesday but came back with a 4-3 victory over Monroe Jefferson on Thursday.

In the Central match, Chelsea's Liz Holdsworth won at first singles over Kim Tuttle, 6-1, 1-6, 6-3; Chelsea's Anna Daigle at second singles lost to Jennifer Bates, 1-6, 0-6; Laura Hurst of Chelsea at third singles lost to Melissa Hartman, 3-6, 3-6; and Chelsea's Julie Flynn at fourth singles lost to Courtney Feuerstein, 3-6, 2-6.

Chelsea shot 50 percent from the field but had just 38 shots.

Thompson led Chelsea with 12 points, 13 rebounds, 15 blocked shots, and no fouls. Terpstra added 10, Flintoft and Schiller six each, Kate Steele four, and Charlotte Ziegler two.

"Anna, Laura, and Julie, in their first year on varsity, have come into some tough positions," said Chelsea coach Terri Curtis.

"Liz Holdsworth has moved from fourth singles last year to number one, a very tough spot."

In doubles, Chelsea's Tracy Haas and Becca Flintoft at first singles beat Carey Taylor and Kelly Bates, 7-5, 5-7, 6-1; Chelsea's Sara Smith and Liz McLaughlin were defeated at second singles by Kelly Jimenez and Kelly Johnson, 6-1, 6-2; and Chelsea's Casey White and Anne Frederick were defeated by Dodie Malsach and Alicia Luck, 6-2, 6-2.

In the Monroe Jefferson match, Holdsworth won again in three sets over Brenda Plo, 6-3, 2-6, 6-4; Daigle lost to Monica Manis, 0-6, 1-6; Hurst lost to Jill Jiriden, 1-6, 3-6; and Chelsea's Autumn Allen lost to Maria Newkirk, 1-6, 1-6.

In doubles, Haas and Flintoft won 7-6, 6-4; Smith and McLaughlin won 6-2, 6-4; and White and Frederick won 6-1, 6-4.

Curtis has a young team as six seniors graduated last year. She has had to replace three singles and one and a half doubles teams.

"Most of the replacements are new to tennis so it will be a very tough season," Curtis said.

Other players on the team include Jessica Knight, Jodi Weiss, Gretchen Erskine, Amy Oake, Sara Walters, Becky Gordon, Kim Schnell, and Brooke McArthur.

Bulldogs Edge Saline In Final Seconds, Face Milan on Road Friday

Chelsea Bulldogs were able to overcome five turnovers to record their second straight shut out in a 7-0 victory over the Saline Hornets last Friday in Saline.

The Bulldogs scored on a one-yard run by quarterback Pat Steele with :37 remaining in the game on a third-down play. The defense followed the touchdown with an interception to secure the win.

Chelsea spent much of the second half in the Saline half of the field but more often than not a turnover would stop a promising drive.

The Hornets, who also turned the ball over five times, had few opportunities to score as the Chelsea defense limited them to 114 total yards, 84 on the ground and 30 in the air.

"We dominated the game defensively," said Chelsea coach Gene LaFave.

"Offensively, we didn't have both of our starting running backs so we're happy to be out with a win. Our offensive line played well, Pat Steele played well, and our receivers played well. But with two new running backs we had some problems. We gained plenty of yardage but didn't have a lot of firepower."

The lack of practice and experience in the backfield also proved to be the cause of most of the turnovers, LaFave said.

The passing game, again, bailed out the running game. Steele was 13-26 for 189 yards as he hit senior Colby Skelton seven times for 93 yards, senior Don Poppenger five times for 87 yards, and junior Bryndon Skelton once for nine yards. Steele also connected with Poppenger for what appeared to be a touchdown in the fourth quarter, only to have the play nullified by a penalty.

Junior Jeremy Ziegler was the Bulldogs' leading rusher with 40 yards on 10 carries. Senior Matt Montange added 18 yards on nine carries.

LaFave said the offensive line play of seniors Barry Anttila, Matt Seitz, and Matt Dymond was a key in the victory.

Defensive players of the week were junior linebacker Casey McCalla, who recovered a fumble, senior defensive back Colby Skelton, who had two interceptions, senior defensive back Tim Westcott, and senior linebacker Montange.

The game started as a defensive struggle rather than a turnover festival. The first six drives, three by each team, ended in five punts and one stop, and neither team picked up a first down during the stretch.

However, four of the next five possessions ended with some kind of mistake. After Saline recorded the initial first down of the game, Skelton promptly picked off a pass at the Chelsea 39.

Two plays later, the Bulldogs fumbled the ball away.

After a 55-yard Saline punt into the end zone, the Bulldogs had a pass picked off. Then, a botched punt reception appeared to give the Hornets their best scoring opportunity of the night at the Chelsea 23. On fourth down and one, a field goal try sailed wide right.

The Bulldogs were forced to punt after their first possession in the second half. Saline drove 34 yards to the Chelsea 18. Then a pass reception, which at least would have given the Hornets a first-down-and-goal situation, ended with a fumble at the Chelsea 12 as a jarring tackle knocked the ball loose.

The next drive for each team ended

DON POPPENGER catches what appears to be the go-ahead touchdown for Chelsea during last Friday's contest in Saline. However, a penalty nullified the play. Poppenger caught five passes for the game.

in a fumble, and Chelsea had the ball at the Saline 44.

Steele hit Poppenger on a 23-yard play to the 21. However, a 27-yard field goal try missed to the left.

Chelsea again got the ball with excellent field position following a Saline fumble at the Hornets' 37. A roughing penalty on a Chelsea punt moved the ball to the 22 and an off-sides penalty put it at the 17.

Poppenger caught a pass over his shoulder in the end zone, but the first of two illegal motion penalties moved the ball back to the 22. The Bulldogs eventually fumbled the ball away at the Saline five.

Bogged down deep in their territory, Saline punted the ball away and Chelsea took over at the Saline 36. An interference penalty moved the ball to the 21, and Steele hit Colby Skelton with a 12-yard pass to the three. After a two-yard gain by Montange, Steele scored.

Friday, the Bulldogs take on the Milan Big Reds in Milan. Last year the Big Reds came to Chelsea as one of the top teams in the state and were upset. This year Milan looks to return the favor to the second-ranked Bulldogs.

"We can't allow any big plays," LaFave said.

"And we can't have turnovers, otherwise we'll be in for a long night. There aren't many games you can win with five turnovers." The Bulldogs again will probably be without top runners Jay Westcott and Gabe Bernhard. However, subs Ziegler and Montange will have had another week of practice.

Milan, LaFave said, is one of the top four teams in the league.

Junior Molly Griebel paced the Chelsea Bulldogs girls cross country team to a 21-40 victory over the Pinckney Pirates last Tuesday at Inverness Golf Course.

Griebel won the race in 20:09, 18 seconds ahead of the nearest Pinckney runner. It was a personal record for Griebel.

"The girls looked very good for their first meet," said Chelsea coach Pat Clarke.

Senior Beth Bell placed third in 20:43 and sophomore Melissa Hand ran an all-time personal best of 20:53 to place fourth.

Chelsea runners behind Bell were: 9. Griebel, 20:27; 15. Hand, 20:44; 23. Spink, 21:08; 38. Henry, 21:53; 58.

Boy Runners Take Giant SEC Step With Close Victory Over Pinckney

Chelsea Bulldogs boys cross country team took a big step toward a Southeastern Conference title last Tuesday by edging the Pinckney Pirates, 25-23.

Senior Cory Brown made up a lot of ground in the last half mile to place second over-all with a personal record of 16:25. Juniors Ryan Schultz and Chad Brown "ran strong races," coach Pat Clarke said, to place fourth and fifth.

"This was an outstanding dual meet between two fine teams," Clarke said. "We were fortunate enough to come out on top. The race was clinched by juniors Scott Hawley and Josh Metzler, who passed two Pinckney runners in the last half mile. Junior Dan Wehrwein and Brian Atlee ran personal bests."

Freshman Tim Lawrence lowered his time by more than 30 seconds to make the varsity seven for the first time.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BRIAN HAMILTON

Two down, seven or more to go. I just hope they're not seven more like last Friday's Chelsea-Saline game.

On the surface, a 7-0 game with the only score in the last minute should be a pretty thrilling contest, kind of like a run with two outs in the bottom of the ninth. Well, this game was like scoring the game-winner on a walk after stranding 10 runners in scoring position over the last five innings. It got the job done, but you'd rather see a shot to the gap with a play at the plate, or an upper deck homer on an 0-2 pitch.

At least I would.

The Bulldogs moved the ball all over the field much of the night but couldn't score. That was after going through most of the first quarter without so much as a first down. They started virtually every drive within spitting distance of mid field—like having your lead-off batter walk every inning.

Most games under those conditions, I would expect the Bulldogs to score four or five touchdowns, easily.

But I guess that's what happens when both of your starting running backs are out, and you're playing at Saline. Short yardage situations are more difficult, especially against a pretty good defense. But more important, timing isn't as sharp as it could be.

Each team had five turnovers and the Bulldogs had one big illegal motion penalty nullify a touchdown. But the mistakes seemed to hurt Chelsea more since the Bulldogs were generally well inside Saline territory. And the Hornets didn't show many signs of being able to move the ball consistently against the Bulldogs. If they hadn't committed the turnovers, they probably would have punted anyway.

Even though the Bulldogs gained 229 yards, my guess is that will be the worst offensive performance of the year for Chelsea. That's because the running game will get going. Subs Jeremy Ziegler and Matt Montange were in an extremely tough spot last week. It wasn't known until mid-week that starter Gabe Bernhard would be out. And Jay Westcott hurt his knee the week before. Ziegler and Montange were thrown into the fire of one of the biggest games of the year against one of the toughest defenses they will see all year, without much practice. If they are in there again this week against Milan, which appears likely, they will seem like two different runners because everyone's timing will improve. Both guys are more than capable.

The passing game, fortunately, was right on the money again. Quarterback Pat Steele completed 50 percent, outstanding by most standards but about average for him. Colby Skelton, double-teamed all night, still led the team in catches. Saline just couldn't stop that little slant pass. It was the closest thing to an automatic play that the Bulldogs had all night.

The offensive performance of the game, in my mind, was by split end Don Poppenger. He had five catches, including the two longest of the night, and looked sensational. I expect he'll be a lot more involved in the offense than he has been as he and Skelton make quite a duo in the open field.

Once the running game comes together, the Bulldogs are going to score a lot of points.

The defense recorded its second straight shut out, something they didn't do all last year. What they lack in size, they are making up for in speed, aggressiveness, and team play. It is just an outstanding unit, even this early in the season, and it should only get better. As it was shown Friday, Chelsea will have a chance to win every week, even when the offense is struggling, simply because of its defense. Defensive co-ordinator Roger Cox has done quite a job, a job made easier by fine athletes.

This week, the Bulldogs go to Milan. I suspect the Big Reds remember well what happened to them in Chelsea last year. They came into Niehaus Field as one of the top teams in the state and promptly got shut down. Their promising season limped along from there.

This year the situation is reversed. Chelsea is highly ranked and Milan is just one of the pack.

Milan's most distinguishing characteristic may be the presence of a lineman who stands 6'9" and weighs 320 pounds. That's bigger than Big 10 players. I don't know how well this guy can play, but if I were coach, I would be awfully tempted to put him in the backfield in third-and-one situations. All he needs to do is take two steps forward and fall down. Who's going to stand in his way?

The Big Reds will be tough, but not as tough as Saline. And this is the week the running game will begin to take on a life of its own. Chelsea 31, Milan 6.

Chelsea basketball player Courtney Thompson put up one of the most amazing sets of statistics I've ever heard in a single high school game. Twelve points, 13 rebounds, 15 blocked shots, AND NO FOULS.

This could be a pivotal year for Chelsea High sports in general. Pay-to-play could be here next year, thanks to the state legislature.

If the state follows through with its threat to eliminate all property taxes, and with it, all local ability to raise money, I'm afraid we're in for some tough times. The odds of the state giving Chelsea as much money as it has this year are, I would guess, remote. Extra-curriculars will be the first things to go.

Amid all the hype about education reform, it would be nice to see someone at the state level take a solid stand on extra-curriculars, no matter which side of the fence he or she is on, if for no other reason than to open up a little debate about their value. It could be an extremely contentious issue. Anyone connected to the schools—kids, parents, coaches—knows their value. Those with no contact with their community's schools may believe sports, band, the school newspaper and the like are extraneous.

I am solidly on the side of giving kids as many varied activities as possible. I know my life would have been extremely different had I not been in a photography club in high school.

Junior Varsity Football Team Struggles Against Saline Hornets

Chelsea Bulldogs junior varsity football team struggled against the Saline Hornets last Thursday at home and suffered a 42-6 loss.

Saline took a 13-0 lead in the first quarter as they scored on their first possession and again late in the quarter on a 10-play drive following a Chelsea fumble.

Freshmen Tie Saline Gridders

Chelsea Bulldogs freshman football team tied the Saline Hornets, 12-12, in their opening game of the season last Tuesday, Sept. 7.

Saline opened the scoring on the final play of the first half with a four-yard touchdown run. The conversion attempt failed.

The Hornets held the lead until the fourth quarter. Chelsea quarterback Dusty White connected with Justin Strong on a 19-yard touchdown pass to tie the game. The conversion failed.

Jason Sprawka followed with a 66-yard touchdown run to put Chelsea up 12-6.

Saline's final touchdown came in the last two minutes on a four-yard run.

Sprawka finished with 97 yards on 13 carries. Strong caught two passes for 28 yards. White completed 5-7 for 67 yards.

Defensive leaders included John Beeman, Jay Schick, and Jason Goodin, who recovered three fumbles.

Chelsea got on the board early in the second quarter as they drove 51 yards. Mike Thayer caught a 12-yard touchdown pass from Paul Bragalone. A key-play in the drive was a 36-yard run by Thayer. The Bulldogs recovered an onside kick but couldn't move the ball. The Bulldogs were down 20-6 by half-time.

On the opening series of the second half, Saline blocked a Chelsea punt in the endzone for a safety. After the kick, the Hornets scored a touchdown in two plays to take a 29-6 lead.

A fumble on the next Chelsea series resulted in another Saline touchdown and the Hornets led 36-6 after three periods.

Chelsea moved the ball well late in the third and fourth quarters but lost fumbles at the Saline 15- and 12-yard lines.

Saline scored late on a five-yard run after Chelsea's second fumble.

Thayer finished the game with 101 yards on 17 carries and Bragalone was 9-20 passing.

Coach Bill Bainton said Bragalone got good pass protection from Scott Stewart, Eric McCalla, Jeremy Feldkamp, Ryan Lafferty, Jim Osborne, and John Tyrrell.

ST. JOSEPH CATHOLIC CHURCH PRESENTED checks of $1,355 to Dexter's Christmas in April organization and Chelsea's Faith in Action on Monday, Sept. 13. The money was raised through the church's 12th annual St. Joseph Festival. This year, the church decided to dedicate 5 percent of its proceeds to the two local organizations. Pictured from left is Dexter Christmas in April representative Alice Witherspoon and Mary Rush, Faith in Action's Fr. Jerry Beaumont, receiving checks from St. Joseph's Fr. Richard Morse.

Experts Team Up To Save Hibernating Bat Colony

One of the world's largest bat colonies, discovered in an abandoned Iron Mountain mine shaft last fall, has been saved from destruction through the efforts of Iron Mountain residents in partnership with the Department of Natural Resources.

Iron Mountain fireman and caver, Steve Smith, discovered the hibernating bats while exploring the mine shaft, which was scheduled to be sealed as a public safety hazard. He contacted Bat Conservation International, of which renowned bat specialist Merlin Tuttle of Texas is founder and director. After studying Smith's pictures of the hibernating bats, Tuttle notified the DNR that an estimated one-half to one million of the flying mammals are inhabiting the shaft.

DNR Escanaba District wildlife biologist Bob Doecker immediately organized an informational meeting between Tuttle and Iron Mountain residents and began calling DNR divisions for assistance with the project. "The people of Iron Mountain donated materials, equipment and their time and expertise to help the DNR build a structure that will protect these bats and keep people out of the shaft," DNR Director Roland Harmes said. "They are to be commended for their dedication and commitment to protecting and preserving this unique wildlife resource."

As a result of these efforts, a rough road has been built to the site, soil has been excavated around the opening, and a 12-foot-long, 8-foot diameter tube has been cemented into the shaft to provide a passageway for the bats. A cage-like structure now covers the entrance, with openings just large enough for the bats to enter and leave. The site will be landscaped and a chain link fence will encircle the cage opening.

The bats have gained the attention of the National Geographic Society, and the structure is being featured as a prototype for future projects in a training video by the federal Bureau of Land and Water Management.

Both Little Brown Bats (Myotis lucifugus) and Big Brown Bats (Eptesicus fuscus) inhabit the Iron Mountain mine shaft and, probably, many other abandoned mines in the Upper Peninsula, since many of their other traditional overwintering sites have disappeared. Michigan bats feed only on insects, and one Little Brown Bat can easily consume 600 mosquitoes in an hour.

★ Farm Crops Growing Without Fertilizers

By Don Combs
Tomato plants are thriving without chemical fertilizers this summer on a U.S. Department of Agriculture farm outside Washington, D.C.

Hairy vetch plants make the difference. They are used as a mulch instead of plastic to cover the soil around tomato plants. "Vetch fixes its own nitrogen and slowly releases it as fertilizer for the tomatoes," says Donald D. Bills at the Beltsville, Md., research center.

"Our experiments this summer have shown that vetch eliminates the need for adding any nitrogen fertilizer," he adds. "As a result, the tomatoes look as healthy and tall as plants that have 150 pounds of nitrogen fertilizer added per acre."

The tomato plots are part of a new sustainable agriculture project headed by Bills for USDA's Agricultural Research Service at Beltsville. Scientists are documenting the results of using little or no farm chemicals on various crops, from tomatoes to strawberries, broccoli, corn, soybeans and other beans.

Plant physiologist Aref A. Abdul-Baki, who started the tomato-vetch experiments several years ago, says he at first used only half the chemical fertilizer usually applied on conventional tomato fields. Now he will use no chemical fertilizer. He says the vetch also squelches weeds, keeps away major insect pests, reduces soil erosion, adds organic matter and helps the soil hold more water.

Bills says that tomatoes planted in vetch have averaged 20 percent higher yields at lower operating costs. "Any alternative system that balances environmental and financial concerns of farming over the long run is sustainable agriculture."

Whenever possible, he says "what's used on the farm should come from the farm and stay on the farm. Vetch is an example and so is our recycling of manure from the dairy barns onto crop fields."

Farmers and representatives of agribusiness and agencies that help farmers are "working with us and regularly touring the project sites," Bills says. "Maryland farmers will serve on an advisory board, helping us deliver answers to farms."

Sheriff Schebil Honored By State Association

Ronald J. Schebil, a member and former chairman of the State Community Corrections Board, has received the Michigan Association of Counties (MAC) 1993 "Excellence in County Government Award." The award is given each year by MAC to individuals who have exhibited leadership, innovation, participation and service of exceptional nature to the Association, the state, the county and the community.

Schebil, who is sheriff of Washtenaw county, has represented the interests of sheriffs on the 11-member Community Corrections Board since its inception in 1989 and served as its chairman for 1991 and 1992. The award nomination said that Schebil's leadership on the board resulted in tremendous opportunities for counties to participate in the policies, practices and programs envisioned in the Community Corrections Act and more than 800 local elected and criminal justice officials participating as volunteers on community corrections advisory boards and with community corrections programs.

The Community Corrections Act (Public Act 511) grants funds to local governments to develop safe, low-cost community corrections programs for non-violent offenders. The Community Corrections Board develops goals, criteria and guidelines for local governments in establishing these programs. There are currently 79 of Michigan's 83 counties voluntarily participating in the Act.

In response to his selection, Schebil said the award was humbling. "It reflects the significance the Association places on the Community Corrections Act and the importance that counties across the state place on the issue of community corrections," he said.

Governor John Engler, who appoints the State Community Corrections Board and its chair, said he is pleased to see Sheriff Schebil receive the prestigious award. "His leadership as chair of the board brought accountability, balance and a no-nonsense approach to working with all counties in Michigan to participate in the Community Corrections Act," Engler said.

Others also praised his selection. "I commend Schebil for his leadership," said Peter Deegan, current chair of the State Board.

Howard Haskins, president of the Michigan Sheriffs Association, said the award is well-deserved. "We're very proud of him. He's an outstanding sheriff who puts a lot of hours into corrections and we look to him for advice in that area."

Stanley Montange Competes at Veterans Golden Age Games

Stanley Montange of Chelsea, a veteran of the U.S. Marine Corps, recently competed at East Tennessee State University in Johnson City in the National Veterans Golden Age Games.

Montange, 71, a veteran of World War II, was one of more than 300 veterans from across the country who were entered in such events as bicycling, swimming, bowling, eight-ball, table tennis, horseshoes, shuffleboard, croquet, dominoes, and a pentathlon (50-yard dash, frisbee throw, basketball free-throw, and softball hit and throw). He is an outpatient at the VA Medical Center in Ann Arbor.

"I feel great being here, competing and enjoying the company of other veterans," Montange said.

The Golden Age Games showcases the role of recreational therapy in the VA's treatment of sick and aging veterans.

★ Family and Medical Leave Act Now in Effect

On Aug. 5, the Family and Medical Leave Act of 1993 (FMLA) went into effect. This requires that employers with 50 or more employees allow their work force 12 weeks of unpaid leave in order to care for a dependent or to use for their own serious illness. This will enable the employee to care for newborns or newly adopted children, or to care for a sick child, parent or spouse. In accordance with the Michigan Child Care Clearinghouse's (MCCC) effort to inform employers about pertinent work/family issues, MCCC has compiled a briefing packet on the Act and includes ways employers can comply.

Employers are expected to incorporate these guidelines into their personnel practices. The briefing packet includes information on FMLA key provisions, an analysis of the Act, and examples of how some companies in Michigan have implemented family leave policies into their workplace. The packet also explains why the FMLA is beneficial to both employees and employers.

Congress has debated the family and medical leave issue since it was first introduced into the legislature eight years ago, but continually failed to generate the votes necessary to override presidential vetoes. But with the support of both the Senate and House, President Clinton signed the FMLA into law in February 1993. This landmark legislation marked Clinton's first presidential action, thus according the employee's personal family responsibility its much deserved importance and respect.

Companies with 50 or more employees must comply with the Act's provisions. Although only 5% of U.S. companies fall within these parameters, these companies employ half of all U.S. employees. A commission has been established which will conduct a comprehensive study and issue a report in two years to assess the impact of the Act on the American workforce. The FMLA has been compared to the recent Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) in terms of its impact for the successful growth of the American workforce. Like the ADA, the Department of Labor, Wage and Hour Division, has investigatory and enforcement responsibility.

Complete guidelines of the Act are available from the Michigan Office of the U.S. Department of Labor at (313) 226-7447. If you would like a briefing packet on the Family and Medical Leave Act of 1993, please contact the Michigan Child Care Clearinghouse at 1-800-421-3225.

Golden Age Games athletes compete within age groups 55-62, 63-70, and 71-and-over.

STANLEY MONTANGE gets ready to run at the National Veterans Golden Age Games.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,
In response to the controversy surrounding the Confederate flag I agree with W. Scott Morgan. I too am offended by the Stars & Bars just as I am offended by the swastika or the KKK.

Too many of God's children have suffered under the belief systems that these symbols represent.

People can add their own innocent meanings to show support of this flag but to me it represents the Southern slave states and the sound of human suffering rings much too loud.

After reading the opinions expressed in this week's issue of The Standard (Sept. 8) I would like to suggest that these people dust off their history books or visit our library and read up on the Civil War.

Trash in the Lakes

Plastics pollution has been, and continues to be, a major concern in the world's oceans. Tales of sea-going creatures mistakenly ingesting a floating plastic bag and dying of internal complications abound. Photos of sea birds struggling, most times in vain, to free themselves of plastic six-pack rings are distressingly common.

Thankfully, few similar stories have surfaced in connection with the Great Lakes. That's not to say that "trashing" of the Sweetwater Seas is not a problem. The truth is... little conclusive research would seem to have been performed on the plastics problems as it affects the Great Lakes and few hard facts published.

Less still has been said about the problem in our state's inland waters. However, it's been estimated by Coast Guard authorities that every recreational boat excursion taken today results in the dumping by the boat's skipper of one pound of plastics trash into the water. The same quantities which have made plastics so successful—durability, light weight, strength—make plastic debris a menace in our nation's waters.

Effective Dec. 31, 1988, it became illegal for any vessel to dump plastics trash in the oceans or navigable waterways of the United States—this includes the Great Lakes and many other inland waterways. The law also applies to other types of trash dumping as well. Then why does the problem continue? Probably because it's "easier" to dump unwanted trash in the water than to bring it back to shore for proper disposal.

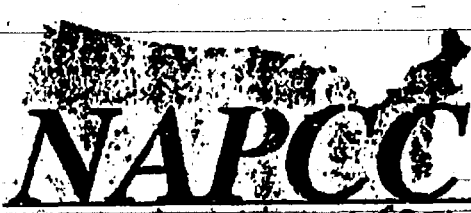

You can help battle plastics pollution and other undesirable dumping by: (1) making it boat policy that positively no trash is to be discarded overboard. As mentioned, illegal dumping has been banned and is now punishable by a maximum $25,000 fine, (2) encouraging your dock or marina to provide convenient trash disposal facilities, (3) when feasible, retrieving all trash encountered in the water or on shore, (4) installing trash compactors aboard larger vessels, and (5) participating in local beach cleanups and leaving beach areas clean after visits.

Estimates are that plastics account for fully 18 percent of all landfill materials. Sadly, most all plastics are tossed after a single use. But, that situation may be changing—industry officials indicate they hope to recycle fully 25 percent of the plastics now thrown away by 1995.

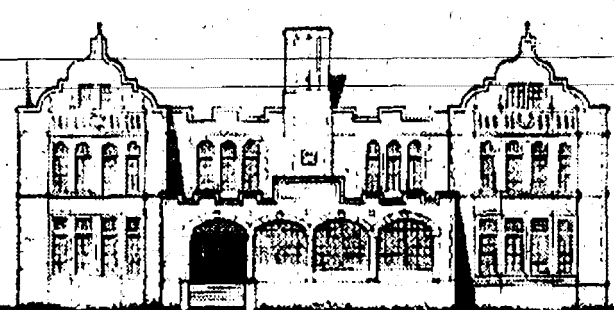

Increasingly, plastics are being successfully recycled. Many of the everyday items we take for granted—foam cups, empty milk jugs, laundry detergent containers—are being used to make such useful things as park benches, plastic lumber and, yes, even more detergent containers.

Ultimately, the solution to plastics pollution lies with those individuals who care about the future of our state's aquatic environment and its living resources. While not the total answer, the practice of plastics recycling will contribute to that solution. As Madison Avenue once urged: try it, you'll like it.

NOTICE TO: Chelsea Planning Commission and Other Interested Village Residents
SUBJECT: Forthcoming Meeting—Land Development and Water Resource Protection
WHEN: Wednesday, September 29, 1993—7:30 p.m.

Sylvan Township Hall
112 W. Middle Street
Chelsea, Michigan

Studies across the Country have confirmed that land development in a watershed all too often lead directly to the long term decline of local water resources. Urbanization changes both the quality of the stormwater that runs off land surfaces to our creeks and waterways, resulting in streambank erosion, habitat destruction, and deposition of sediment, nutrients, and other pollutants. Recent studies by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources Fishery Division conclude that the Huron River and its tributary creeks will not be exceptions to this pattern if current land use trends continue.

It will be up to local governments to prevent this future; certain basic principals of site planning and design of stormwater management systems in new development can significantly minimize negative impacts to surface waters.

On September 29th, we will hear from several individuals who will explain just how development affects our water resources, and how to control these impacts:

*Dr. Paul Seelbach, Research Specialist with Michigan Department of Natural Resources Fisheries Division and Mr. Paul Rentschler, Executive Director of the Huron River Watershed Council, will explain the relationships between land uses in a watershed, and the quality of the local streams and rivers. They will review impacts that development and other man-made modifications already have had on the Huron.

*Janis Bobrin, Washtenaw County Drain Commissioner, will review development design concepts that can reduce and control negative impacts associated with development, focusing on what local officials can accomplish through their review processes.

She also will review new standards, now in draft for public review, that will be adopted to govern design of stormwater management systems in new subdivisions and site condominiums (Rules of the Washtenaw County Drain Commissioner; Procedures and Design Criteria for Subdivision Drainage).

All interested persons are invited to attend. For more information, please contact the Planning and Zoning Department at the Chelsea Village Offices, 475-1771.

Beach School Open House Set Sept. 23

Beach Middle school parents, grandparents, and adult friends of Chelsea 6th, 7th and 8th graders are invited to attend an Open House on Thursday, Sept. 23, beginning at 7 p.m. in the Beach Middle School Cafeteria.

Parents will participate in a "capsulized" version of their child's schedule with short visits to each classroom. Teachers will be on hand to explain their curricular program and classroom expectations.

Parents are encouraged to arrive at Beach at 6:45 p.m. to obtain a copy of their child's schedule and receive directions for the class visits.

Students are asked to remain at home for this gathering so there will be ample room for adults in the classrooms.

If both parking lots are full, parents may park on the circle drive. At the completion of this "school day" there will be a social gathering in the cafeteria. The sixth grade camp program will be introduced in the form of a video/slide presentation in the Large Group Instruction room

(LGI) at 9:05 p.m. following the classroom visits.

School support groups (Music Boosters, Athletic Boosters, Aquatic Club and Beach Parent Group) will be available to discuss their programs with parents. Cheryl Davis will be on hand to explain student assistance services.

Parents wishing to order 1993-94 yearbooks may do so in the Media Center.

Do Kids Instinctively Pick Nutritious Foods?

You may have heard or read that children who are left to make their own food decisions will instinctively choose foods that their bodies need to stay healthy.

This is a myth. This incorrect notion stems from a series of studies done in the 1920s by Dr. Clara Davis, a pediatrician. Her studies concluded that children selected an adequate diet when offered a variety of nutritious foods to choose from. The key word is nutritious. Davis did not offer convenience foods, snack foods, sweets or desserts to the children.

You cannot infer from Davis' study that children would prefer nutritious foods to sweets, snacks and convenience foods.

Several nutritionists and recent surveys agree that children are actually likely to choose more sugar in the diet if they have the choice.

A survey of 5- to 15-year-olds conducted by the California Raisin Advisory Board showed that the 500 participants ate an average of three servings of fats and sweets each day. These foods included soft drinks, salted snack items and candy. The foods most likely to be eaten in limited amounts were fruits and vegetables. Children ate an average of only 2.7 servings of fruits and vegetables, compared with the recommended minimum number of five servings daily.

One strategy to improve food choices is to have a variety of nutritious foods readily available at home that need little or no preparation. After school, a child is more likely to snack on something that is quick, easy and readily available than on something that requires planning and time to make.

A special snack drawer in the refrigerator or a personalized snack box can be a nutritional booster when the munchies hit.

Parents can be role models for their kids by modeling healthful snacking.

Fall Color To Be Found In Metroparks

Few of nature's annual events delight our senses and inspire our interest like the fall color extravaganza put on by the deciduous trees and shrubs.

The 13 Metroparks, containing extensive tracts of woodlands and fallow fields punctuated by lakes and rivers, offer some of the best displays of nature's colorful handiwork to be found in southeast Michigan. And, the annual sight show is close. The Metroparks stretch in an arc from Metro Beach on Lake St. Clair, along the Clinton and Huron rivers to Lake Erie Metropark near Gibraltar on Lake Erie, putting them within easy reach of the residents of Wayne, Oakland, Macomb, Washtenaw and Livingston counties.

You can enjoy the color spectacular at your Metroparks by car, bike, hike or boat.

Paved bike/hike trails, ranging in length from 3-8 miles, are located at Metro Beach, Stony Creek, Indian Springs, Kensington, Hudson Mills, Lower Huron and Willow.

Nature trails can be found at Metro Beach, Wolcott Mill, Stony Creek, Indian Springs, Kensington, Hudson Mills, Lower Huron and Oakwoods.

Boats and/or canoes are available for rent, mainly on week-ends, at Stony Creek, Huron Meadows, and Hudson Mills, Dexter-Huron and Delhi (private rental from Skip's Canoe Livery available at last three parks).

The peak of the fall color season in southeast Michigan is generally the second or third week of October, although weather conditions can change the peak color dates considerably.

For details on the best places and times to see the "show," call 1-800-47-PARKS.

A vehicle entry permit is required at the Metroparks—Annual: $15 regular / $8 Senior Citizens or Daily - $3 week-ends and holidays, $2 week-days—except Tuesdays, which are free entry days.

Will Connelly Donates New Book On American Flags to School

A new book, "Star Spangled Banner, Our Nation and Its Flag," has been donated to the Beach Middle school media center.

The book, published by the National Geographic Society, was given by Chelsea resident Will Connelly, whose Historic American Flag Display is located in the large group instruction room adjoining the media center.

The book contains many historic flag photos and drawings, many of them in full color.

Gen. Dwight E. Beach, who has reviewed numerous publications on the American flag, said "This new volume about our flag is a great book for young and old."

The introduction includes a copy of the original handwritten draft of the national anthem by author Francis Scott Key. Other chapters in the book deal with the origins of the flag, its role in war, diplomacy, exploration, and daily life, and flag etiquette.

Key, a lawyer and a poet, was on an America diplomatic mission seeking the freedom of a U.S. prisoner from the British fleet, which was present on Baltimore Bay for a hostile mission. The British received Key but had to delay his return until completion of its scheduled bombardment of Fort M'Henry. The bombardment continued through the night of Sept. 14, 1814, and failed. A huge American flag flew over the fort in the foggy, smoke-filled dawn, and the sight of the war-tattered flag inspired Key to write what became the national anthem.

In presenting the book to middle school principal Darcy Stielstra, Connelly said he felt something special about the date because Sept. 14 marked his 85th birthday.

A PATRIOTIC TREASURE-BOOK is being added to the Beach Middle school media center. "Star Spangled Banner, Our Nation and Its Flag" is being donated by Will Connelly.
