Charges Against Deacon Combined in Jackson Trial

A former North Sharon Baptist church deacon apparently won't stand trial in Washtenaw county after all.

Jackson county circuit judge Chad C. Schmucker has combined the Washtenaw cases against Mark R. Foeller, 36, with cases in his court.

Foeller, of Grass Lake township, will be tried on nine charges of first-degree criminal sexual conduct and three counts of second-degree criminal sexual conduct. The charges all involve children in the church's Sunday school bus ministry.

The new, larger trial, is expected to involve hundreds of witnesses and last several weeks.

Foeller's attorney, Brian Thiede, argued that the courts could save money and subject the witnesses to less stress by combining the cases.

The trial is scheduled to begin Nov. 8, the day the Jackson case was originally scheduled. However, there may not be enough time for both sides to prepare with the new cases involved.

Because of the time problems, Schmucker also ruled that Washtenaw county prosecutors will take the lead in the case. And Washtenaw County Prosecutor Brian Mackie has said he would allow assistant prosecutor Julia Owdziej to try the case in Jackson county.

However, Thiede is trying to get Owdziej removed from the case because she interviewed some of the witnesses. He wants to be able to call her to the stand to challenge the witnesses' statements. Schmucker has yet to rule on Thiede's motion. If Owdziej is taken off the case, it's likely there will be a delay.

Schmucker also has to rule on more than a dozen pre-trial motions before Nov. 8. One may thwart Thiede's intention to call nearly 200 witnesses, all church members or employees who will apparently testify on behalf of Foeller. Owdziej has argued that the testimony will be repetitive and will turn the trial into a spectacle.

Board Considers Creation Of Athletic Task Force

Chelsea School District is considering the formation of a task force to study athletics in much the same way that a recent task force studied the technology needs of the district.

Chelsea is one of only three districts in the Southeastern Conference that does not have some form of pay-to-play, in which athletes have to pay extra money to participate in sports.

Future funding, which will be heavily dependent on how the state works

Council Votes To Sell Bonds for Construction of Water Tower, Transfer Site

Village council last week passed resolutions to sell bonds totaling nearly $1.5 million for the construction of a new water tower and new waste transfer station.

The first resolution called for the sale of $700,000 in bonds for a new water tower, along with all necessary pipes and related construction. The second deals with $750,000 in bonds for the transfer station, to be built at the Chelsea Solid Waste Facility on Werkner Rd. It would also pay the village back for approximately $200,000 it has spent closing out the recently-filled landfill cell.

The figures were intentionally inflated so the village wouldn't fall short if more precise estimates proved to be too low. It's likely the actual amounts of the bonds will be 10 to 20 percent less than the amounts in the resolutions.

A consultant has estimated the current water tower, a downtown landmark for more than 50 years, has less than three years of life left, and perhaps as little as one year. The 100,000 gallon tower would be replaced by one as large as 300,000 gallons constructed near the southern edge of the village.

Included in the price is the replacement of some of the water infrastructure that probably won't be able to withstand an increase in water pressure caused by a taller tower. Lead, asphalt/concrete, and cast iron pipes, which have been in the ground for decades, could cause problems.

Washtenaw County Parks and Recreation Department has offered to donate land at the edge of its planned golf course off M-52 for the new tower. However, the department is awaiting a state grant to purchase the site and probably won't hear until later this year. The purchase of the land isn't dependent on the grant, but it probably won't be completed until early next year.

That may work well with the village's plans to begin construction next spring.

The water tower bonds would be paid off through water revenues. Village council has not said whether an increase in water rates may be necessary.

Council also passed a resolution to notify taxpayers that they have a right to put the water bond issue on the ballot if 10 percent of the village's registered voters sign a petition.

The transfer station will be built at the Chelsea Solid Waste Facility on Werkner Rd. The building and equipment is estimated to cost about $350,000. It would replace a money-losing system of roll-off bins the village put in place when the landfill ran out of space.

Trash would be taken to the site, compacted, and taken away to a landfill in roll-off bins.

Unlike the water bonds, a dedicated millage will be used to pay for the construction of the transfer site, closing of the landfill, and remediation. In addition, the leachate system may be upgraded.

Up to three mills can be levied by village council for solid waste disposal without a vote. However, Solid Waste Committee Chair Frank Hammer believes that less than a mill will be needed. It's the first time the village will use a solid waste millage. Construction of the station may be able to begin before next spring.

McKune Heirs Grumble About Library Proposal

McKune Memorial Library may yet make the switch from a village to a district library, but the McKune heirs have made it clear they are not happy about the idea.

Katie Wagner, niece of Catherine McKune, and Wagner's daughter, Stephanie Kanten, a former village council member, told council last Tuesday that they believe Catherine McKune intended to leave McKune House to the village for use as a village library only. They said the gesture of leaving the house to the village was made as a way to pay tribute to the village for all it had done for the family. They said Catherine McKune would have wanted the library to be run by the village, not a district entity that includes board members from outside the village.

They made reference to a clause in the McKune will that the building should be used as a library "under the supervision and control of the Chelsea Village Library Board."

The concept of a district library did not exist when McKune wrote her will.

However, attorney Cynthia Faulhaber, hired by the McKune Memorial Library Board, has told the board that the will makes it clear that the building can be used for a district library. The clause above ends "and any successor organization whose purpose is the maintenance and operation of a public library."

The switch to a district library is being studied for several reasons. The service area of the library includes Sylvan, Lima, and Lyndon townships, yet village residents fund almost 80 percent of the operations through a 1.85 mill tax. Contributions from other areas outside the village are largely voluntary. Approximately two-thirds of the library patrons are from outside the village.

The library also wants to expand but probably won't be able to without significant sources of new revenue. The two mills authorized for village residents is the maximum that can be levied.

The board also wants to expand the pool of people who would be eligible to serve on the board.

Wagner and Kanten suggested that the library board should try major fundraising campaigns rather than attempting to expand the tax base through a district library.

There was also some discussion about charging for library cards for patrons who live outside the village. However, board member Allen Cole said the library stands to lose money from penal fines if township residents are charged. He also said it's not clear how much money could be raised.

The library board has asked village council to appoint three people to a district library study committee. Council wanted to read the attorney's opinion before proceeding.

Cable Television Subscribers May Lose Channel

Subscribers to Clear Cablevision, the cable television company that serves most of western Washtenaw county, might want to turn on their televisions today to see whether they still have all their channels.

Midnight Tuesday was the deadline for cable television stations to complete negotiations with several major networks for the right to continue broadcasting their signals. They include ABC, NBC, and CBS stations from Detroit.

As of Tuesday afternoon, a company representative said it looked doubtful that Clear Cable would reach

Council Takes No Action on Proposed Upgrades to Gene Dr.

Gene Dr. residents were unsuccessful last Tuesday in an attempt to get village council to vote on the $150,000 proposal to upgrade their road with water and sewer service.

Council didn't vote on any other proposal, either.

After a discussion by Gene Dr. residents and property owners about their plight, village president Richard Steele said council and the residents need to decide "What is the best proposal?" He refused to ask Gene Dr. committee members Tom Dorer and Brian Cashman for a recommendation. He did suggest that more meetings be held of village representatives and the road property owners.

Gene Dr. is a dirt road on the edge of the village. It has no water or sewer service, and is not snowplowed, but is served by the Chelsea fire and police departments. It has been in that condition since it was annexed 25 years ago.

The village has proposed that the road could be paved and utilities could be installed for about $204,000. The village would act as the general contractor and provide a significant amount of labor. The property owners would be assessed for 20 years to cover the $204,000. They have rejected that option as too expensive.

"We can't sell the land for what the assessment would cost," said road resident Jim Machnik. Assessments would range from about $350 to $6,500 annually for 20 years, depending on the size of the property.

4 Years Ago . . .

Wednesday, Oct. 18, 1983—

Former superintendent Charles S. Cameron, whose professional life was dedicated to the Chelsea School District, died Wednesday, Oct. 11 at his home following a battle with cancer. Cameron, 74, known by some as a man who was almost too honest for his own good, spent his entire career in Chelsea. The man, remembered for his ever-present bow tie and pipe, started as a government teacher and athletic coach in 1937, became Chelsea High school principal in 1947, and superintendent in 1952, a position held until his retirement in 1978.

Chelsea High school will have a completely new administration in November as assistant principal Ken Larson has accepted the principalship at Stockbridge High school, effective Nov. 13. His last day at CHS is Nov. 10. Earlier this year, principal John Williams left for a job in Ingham county. His successor, Ronald Mead, will be here in early November.

The second annual Chelsea Festival of Lights is set for Friday evening, Dec. 1. The Rotary Club will illuminate the Tree of Lights with a kick-off ceremony at the Chelsea State Bank branch office. Carolers will parade down the luminary-lined Main St. to the center of town where Santa will be presiding while the organ plays and visitors view the old-fashioned Christmas tree.

Chelsea School District Board of Education approved a revised 1989-90 budget of $10,639,196 in revenues and $10,636,465 in expenses at their regular meeting Monday, Oct. 16. In other board business, the district decided to ban all styrofoam products from the food service operation by Jan. 8. Evidence was presented by Beach Middle School teacher Bev Yelsik showing how the use of styrofoam harms the environment.

Escapes from Cassidy Lake Technical School have been linked to two violent crimes in the past two weeks, both of which were committed in the Chelsea area.

An ordinance which would require permits for the operation of garage sales within the Chelsea Village limits and restrict village residents to two sales in a calendar year was being considered by village council this week.

Ghosts, monsters and just plain spooks will reign in Chelsea Wednesday night, Oct. 31, as young masqueraders enjoy the Kiwanis club sponsored activities of Halloween night.

Playing confident, consistent football, Chelsea's varsity Bulldogs clinched at least second place in the Southeastern Conference Friday night by outrunning and controlling Ypsilanti Lincoln, 18-6.

A summer home near Joslin Lake was blown to pieces shortly after midnight, Monday, Oct. 20, when a propane gas furnace exploded. Two overnight guests in the cottage were blown free of the collapsing cottage and escaped injury.

The Chelsea Education Association and the Board of Education came to an agreement in their 1969 contract dispute Wednesday morning after Washtenaw county Circuit Judge William F. Ager forced a 24-hour non-stop negotiating session.

Patrolman Louis Schneider and Auxiliary officer Roy Guenther of the Chelsea Police Department recovered a stolen car Tuesday night. Three juveniles were apprehended in connection with the theft.

Chelsea Community Chest reports that 53 percent of the 1969 goal has been reached in the opening week of their United Fund campaign.

34 Years Ago . . .

Thursday, Oct. 29, 1959—

Last Friday night Chelsea High's Bulldogs turned back a good South Lyon team 34-20.

Chelsea Community Chest contributions at noon yesterday had reached a total of approximately $8,250, passing the 50 percent mark.

The Sylvan township tax rate for 1959 is to be $48 per $1,000 valuation. This is an increase of $2.50 per $1,000 over the 1958 rate.

The new 1960 license plates go on sale Nov. 2, since Nov. 1 falls on Sunday. The color this year is green on yellow-gold background, which is just the opposite of the 1959 colors.

BEHIND THE HEADLINES:

How Federal Mandates Raise Local Taxes

If like most Americans, you find your state and local taxes going through the roof, chances are a lot of the blame belongs in Washington with a gimmick called "unfunded federal mandates."

By Philip C. Clarke

Tight fiscal times have done much to change the way things are done in Washington. Taxpayers repeatedly have expressed their unwillingness to fund expensive new federal programs. The ballooning budget deficit also angered many taxpayers. So, Congress increasingly is passing so-called unfunded mandates. That is, Congress issues a law, a rule, or a regulation that others must comply with. The trick is, the federal government doesn't send any money along with the requirements, thereby forcing states and local governments to raise taxes to pay for the programs. And incur the wrath of the taxpayer.

A prime example of these unfunded federal mandates is Medicaid, which provides medical care to the nation's poor. Already, states pay $55 billion a year to fund these Medicaid programs. And they expect costs to increase dramatically in the next several years. The National Association of State Budget Officers calculates that by 1995, Medicaid will account for more than one-quarter of state budgets, up from only 9 percent in 1980.

Beyond Medicaid, the federal government has been enacting new laws and regulations that add enormously to the cost of running state and local governments. These include the Clean Drinking Water Act, the Americans with Disabilities Act, the Clean Air Act and the Fair Labor Standards Act to name but a few. Effectively, then, lawmakers are forcing state and local governments to pay for federal programs. It's a convenient way to disguise the true costs of the federal government, and it's been working.

In the past congressional session alone, 15 new laws were passed that included unfunded federal mandates. Already this year, two new laws contained commandments from Uncle Sam, but no money to meet the obligations. And despite the fact that overall there are some 172 laws containing unfunded federal mandates, almost nobody has an accurate idea how much all these mandates cost. Some guesses run as high as $500 billion. Only now, in fact, are state and local officials taking a close look at the hidden price tag of unfunded mandates.

The reason is that they're finding it tougher than ever to balance their own budgets.

The problem has become so serious, in fact, that some observers are predicting disaster. Joseph Zimmermann, a professor of political science at the University of New York at Albany, told Investor's Business Daily: "It's quite clear that if Congress doesn't provide some relief from these unfunded mandates, a number of small municipalities—particularly rural ones—are going to go bankrupt." Zimmermann is studying the cost of unfunded mandates for the Congressional Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations.

Larger cities also are feeling the pinch. Columbus, O., for example, recently studied the cost of complying with federal environmental regulations. The study found that Columbus will spend $1.6 billion over the next 10 years attempting to meet the environmental requirements forced on them by Washington. Columbus officials calculated that meeting these mandates will eat more than 25 percent of their municipal budget by the year 2000. Other cities are in a similar bind.

Amplification

Last week's story concerning labor problems at Chelsea Industries, Inc. mentioned a "slowdown" that had started. It should be noted that the slowdown was not intentionally started, as is the case in some labor disputes, but was the result of a lack of tools necessary for some employees to do their jobs, according to union committee member Jeff Rudd. He said the company did not provide the tools, as spelled out in the employee handbook. Consequently, some employees who had been using their own tools on the job, took their tools home, further aggravating the problem.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Ed Doolittle told the fellows at the country store Saturday night that he is full convinced the line between law and lawless is as thin as that between smart and crazy. Furthermore, Ed said, crossing the line and benefits of one over the other are equal hard to spot.

Ed has saw recent where Ralph Nader called some Congressmen to account for using campaign funds and Government expense accounts to pay for car leasing, catered meals, hotels, golf and first class airline tickets for their friends and political high ups. Every one said what they done was not against the law, and that's what got Ed's dander up. It ain't against the law because they make the laws that make sure they can do whatever they please, was his words.

The Clinton crowd is getting a lot of ink about plans to reinvent Government on the idea that any change will be improvement, Ed said, but from what he reads they are going about it backward. Instead of going inside, they ought to start on the outside, where rules for the work are made, and work in. The first invention that would make a difference for the better is limiting terms of Congress.

It's always been that the best way to get in office is to be in office, Ed noted, and that lesson never has been lost on anybody elected to Congress. As soon as they get in they start working on staying in, and no sooner did they collect campaign funds than they passed a law so they can take all the campaign money with them when they leave. Elected representatives need to spend more time representing and a heap less tailoring laws to suit their own circumstances, Ed allowed. But he said the President and his people are having to much trouble with Democrats on health care and the trade agreement to ruffle more feathers in both parties.

Practical speaking, Ed said, the Administration will have a better shot at reinventing the value added tax that it give up early. Members of Congress can go along without personal pain and they can go right on taking the credit and placing the blame according to their needs. The same with issues like the prison population and the national debt, Ed went on. All Congress has got to do is pass laws changing the meaning of "full" and "limit" and pass the problems to the next Congress.

As usual, Democrat Clem Webster called Republican Ed's hand. It's true, Clem said, that politicians keep No. 1 at the top of their agendas, but so do all of us that elect the politicians. The big picture is 130 military bases we obvious don't need for defense. So Congress trades 130 little pictures took by voters use to jobs and business from the bases for a new picture and orders nuclear submarines that will cost as much as keeping the bases going and give contracts and jobs to different companies and people.

In politics, Clem said, please half the people half the time and switch sides ever six months. Before we reinvent Government we got to reinvent attitudes toward Government. When we talk about this country's resources, Clem went on, we got to know that the quality of our lives depends more on the resources between our ears than under our feet.

Yours truly,

Uncle Lew.

Microwaving Basics, Part I

By Debbie Barrow, Extension Home Economist

The popularity of microwave cooking continues to grow. Almost every American household possesses at least one microwave oven. Yet, concerns about the safety of cooking with the microwave persist. Even the cookware and plastic wraps used in the ovens have come under scrutiny.

Cooking in a microwave is different from cooking in a conventional oven. Different methods need to be used to ensure that the food is completely cooked. Cold spots can occur because of the irregular way the microwaves enter the oven and are absorbed by the food.

Simple yet effective steps can be used to ensure that you are cooking safely with a microwave.

—When using the microwave to defrost foods, plan to finish the cooking immediately. Some areas of large food items may begin to cook during the defrost cycle, raising the temperature to a point where bacteria can grow rapidly.

—Remove food from store wrappings before thawing. Some foam insulating trays and plastic wraps are not heat stable at high temperatures. They can melt or warp from the food's heat, possibly causing some of the wrap or container material to migrate into the food.

—Don't defrost or hold food at room temperature for more than two hours. It's easy to forget about a food item thawing in the microwave oven. Set a timer to alert you when thawing time is up.

Cooking
—Debone large pieces of meat. A bone can shield the meat around it and prevent it from cooking thoroughly.

—Arrange food items uniformly in a covered dish—either plastic wrap or a glass cover works—and add a little liquid. Steam under the cover helps kill bacteria and ensures uniform heating. Many recipes suggest venting a small area, allowing some steam to escape. If you use plastic wrap, make sure it doesn't touch the food.

—Cook large pieces of meat at 50 percent power for longer periods of time rather than on high for shorter times. This allows the heat to reach deeper portions without overcooking outer areas. Commercial oven cooking bags can also help even out cooking and produce a tender product.

—Move the food inside the dish several times during cooking. Stir soups or stews. Rearrange large pieces of food, such as meat or fish. If you don't have a turntable, rotate the entire dish during cooking. This is especially important for foods such as casseroles that can't be stirred.

—Never partially cook food. If you're planning to microwave, broiling or grilling, transfer the microwaved foods to conventional heat immediately.

—Use a temperature probe or meat thermometer to verify the food has reached a safe temperature. Check the temperature in several places, avoiding fat and bone. It should reach 180 degrees F for poultry and dishes containing poultry; 160 degrees F for all other dishes containing meat, fish or egg products.

—Make allowances for oven wattage variations. Because ovens vary in power and operating efficiency, make sure food is done. Use a meat thermometer and visually check for doneness. Meat and poultry should not be pink and their juices should run clear.

—Observe standing time when it's called for in cooking direction. Standing time is necessary to complete the cooking process. Heat travels from the outside toward the center of the food.

Holiday Fashion Show Set Nov. 6 By Hospital Auxiliary

An afternoon of Holiday Fashions will be sponsored by the Chelsea Community Hospital Auxiliary on Saturday, Nov. 6, at 1 p.m.

CLEANING YOUR EXPENSIVE SILKS:

Your silks need special care

The most sensitive fabric to clean is silk. It needs to be washed in light loads - usually in half the normal sized wash - and the delicate fabric makes spots and dirt difficult to remove.

Bring your silks to us and we will charge you a very fair price and give your garments the extra attention they need.

Martin Heller Wins National Chemical Engineering Contest

Martin C. Heller of Chelsea, a chemical engineering student at the University of Colorado in Boulder, has won first place in the A. McLaren White Award in the American Institute of Chemical Engineers' National Student Design Competition. Heller, a doctoral student who earned his bachelor's degree at Michigan State University last spring, presented the most viable solution to the contest problem, "Integrated Coal School Board Gasification Combined Cycle Power Generation Plant Design." The competition presents a practical industrial problem and gives 30 days to develop a solution. This year's problem focused on coal gasification, which is considered the cleanest, most efficient method of generating electricity from coal. The students were asked to evaluate alternative power plant designs using the method and make recommendations to enhance efficiency and reduce costs.

Heller is studying for his doctorate on a Du Pont Ph.D. Fellowship and is a teaching and research assistant at the University of Colorado. As an undergraduate at MSU, Heller held a summer internship in the Membrane Research and Development Laboratory of Gelman Sciences, Inc.

in Ann Arbor. He also worked for two years as a research assistant with the school's Hydrocyclone Development Consortium. He spent one summer studying British theater in London and another biking through Colorado, Wyoming, and Utah. He received MSU College of Engineering Awards in 1991-92-93. Heller is scheduled to receive his $300 prize on Monday, Nov. 8 in St. Louis.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,
After reading about the discussion of a sidewalk on Grant St., I would like to introduce a little more that should be considered.

For all of the children who live west of Grant St. and south of Chandler St., we need to consider more than the proposed sidewalk addition. Some of these children who live on the south end of Wilkinson St. may have to cross the street six or more times to get to school. With the proper sidewalks it may be reduced to only one street crossing.

I don't understand why some sidewalks were installed on the south side of Chandler and not the full length. If that side of Chandler's sidewalk were completed, along with a sidewalk on the west side of Grant St. (from Chandler to the school), and on the east side of Wilkinson St. (from Chandler to Wellington), anybody could walk from Wellington St. all the way to the south school without crossing any streets.

Also, if a walkway could be installed from the south side of the school to Bridgetown, a lot of children could get to school without any streets or traffic to worry about.

Tony Keezer

The school board will probably consider a specific recommendation from superintendent Joe Piasecki at the next board meeting.

Piasecki said the ultimate intent is to set up a task force each year to study a particular topic thoroughly.

The task force would include a number of people from the general community and would be an advisory group with no official power.

In other business Monday night, the board agreed to accept a future gift from the Chelsea Area Players to purchase a new set of $18,000 stage curtains. The George Prinzing Auditorium, which is used extensively by CAP, has its original set. CAP intends to pay half.

"They have been sewn and sewn again," said assistant superintendent Fred Mills.

The board also accepted gifts totaling more than $1,000 from the Washington Street Show Choir Parents Support Group, which is independent of the Chelsea Athletic Boosters.

The board also heard a report on state Sen. Lana Pollack's new proposal on how to deal with school funding. The centerpiece of her proposal is an increase in the state income tax from 4.8 percent to 6.44 percent. The Single Business Tax would be raised and various tax credits would be altered.

Mills called the Pollack proposal "rational and sane," which is not how he has characterized some other recent proposals. He said Chelsea schools would receive approximately the same amount of money they receive now. Plus, there would be the ability to collect some local taxes for local enrichment.

Gene Drive

The property-owners' proposal would leave the road unpaved. They also want to split the cost evenly with the village.

Machnik challenged the assumption that Gene Dr. is a private road, based on a definition in the village ordinance at the time the road was built. He said the residents should at least be able to have snow plowed off their road this winter.

However, after the meeting, assistant village manager Bruce Pindzia said, "I don't care what the old ordinance says, we can't maintain a road that hasn't been accepted by the village. Legally, we can't do it. Nothing has been recorded with the county that says we're supposed to maintain it. Until something does get recorded, you can call it an alley or a thoroughfare but we can't maintain it."

Machnik also questioned the status of both Taylor Ln. and Meadow Ln., neither of which is built to full village specifications but nevertheless is maintained. He contended that neither road was dedicated to the village.

POW/MIA Recognition Ceremony Held Sept. 22 at VA Hospital

A special Recognition Ceremony to remember POW/MIA's was held, Wednesday, Sept. 22, at the Veterans Administration Medical Center, Ann Arbor, during which the main auditorium was filled to capacity.

John Comfort, POW co-ordinator, served as master of ceremonies at the event, for which the Rev. David Leist, chief of chaplain service, gave the invocation.

Jerry Simms, Stan Allen, Gary Lillie and Tom Fifield, members of the Washtenaw County Chapter 310, Vietnam Veterans of America, presented and retired colors.

Fred Linton, a former prisoner of war during World War II, led the pledge of allegiance to the flag, and Betty Flanders presented several vocal selections, and led the entire group in "God Bless America."

Gary L. Campbell, associate director at the medical center, welcomed the group. Don M. Griffith, a retired United States Marine Corps representative and a prisoner of war during the Korean Conflict, was the keynote speaker at the ceremony.

Joe Connelly, MIA Family Remarks. A member of the board of directors for the Michigan POW committee, Joe Connelly explained to the group, "Many things have happened over the last year in the area of POW-MIA affairs. There are still nearly 90,000 Americans listed as 'missing in action' since the beginning of World War II, almost 79,000 during World War II, another 7,800 in Korea, and still 2,248 in Southeast Asia.

"There has been encouraging news about the MIA's from all three wars recently. The number of identified remains has fallen during the past year in Vietnam. While President Clinton was visiting Korea, this summer, North Korea turned over 15 sets of remains to his delegation. It makes a person wonder how the North Koreans just happened to have these remains ready to turn over to us, while the president was visiting.

"While talking to a former Korean War POW, recently, he told me how at his POW camp they had to stack the prisoners who died up like cord wood near a frozen river. When the spring thaw arrived, many, perhaps even hundreds, were washed out to sea, never to be accounted for. Just within the past few months, the numbers of World War II MIA's have been reduced. This past Monday morning, I learned the remains of a pilot shot down over New Guinea had been found. He and his wife had exchanged engraved bracelets during 1942. His plane was shot down in August, 1943. He remained on the 'missing in action' list until an American researcher heard that a native in New Guinea had a bracelet with the American pilot's name on it. She finally was able to contact the native, recovered the bracelet, and visited the crash site.

"The researcher was able to track down the pilot's widow from old records of the U.S. Army Air Corps. She returned the bracelet, resolving a 50-year mystery.

"In Michigan's upper peninsula, the city of Escanaba was planning a ceremony to honor one of its citizens listed as missing-in-action, 50 years ago. He was a pilot shot down over Norway during an operation against Germany. This summer, while planning the ceremony, the pilot's plane and his remains were found in Norway. Now, the ceremony will be held on the Oct. 4 date in both Escanaba and Norway. The memorial will have both his likeness and that of his plane, and will be placed at an Escanaba cemetery located about 200 yards from where the pilot resided as he grew up.

"Another interesting fact about this story was that one of the other pilots on this mission would survive and go on to serve his country as President George Bush.

"A disturbing thing to report is the lifting of the United States opposition to the World Bank's loan committee to Vietnam; this, coupled with the American Chamber of Commerce's clamoring to allow American business to trade with Vietnam. We will lose any incentive for Vietnam to have a full and complete accounting of our MIA's there.

"For those of you who have the POW/MIA bracelets and wish to know the fate of that person, please contact me. Possibly, I can help you.

"Finally, on behalf of the families of those MIA's from Michigan, I thank you for attending this ceremony."

Fall Waterfowl Hunting Prospects About Normal

As ducks and geese in Michigan have begun to concentrate in their usual fall staging areas, Department of Natural Resources wildlife biologists have outlined 1993 waterfowl hunting season prospects.

The regular waterfowl seasons dates were selected in mid-August, and the state Waterfowl Hunting Guide has been distributed to all license agents. To participate in this year's waterfowl hunting, hunters 16 years of age and older must purchase both state and federal duck stamps in addition to their small game or sports-person licenses.

"Duck hunting prospects should be similar to last year's," said DNR waterfowl specialist Jerry Martz, "a moderately good season. Mallards, wood ducks, green-winged teal, and ripples will make up most of the opening day bags throughout the state."

During the 30-day duck season, daily bag limits will be three ducks, including no more than two mallards (only one of which may be a female), two wood ducks, one pintail, one black duck and one redhead. The season on canvasbacks remains closed. Five mergansers may also be taken daily, only one of which may be a hooded merganser.

Opening dates for the 30-day duck season will be Oct. 2 in the North Zone (Upper Peninsula), Oct. 9 in the Middle Zone (Northern Lower Peninsula) and Oct. 16 in the South Zone (Southern Lower Peninsula). The South Zone season will be split again this year, with the last three days of the season following Thanksgiving.

"We suggest that hunters get out early and scout the ponds and marshes to locate the best hunting places," Martz said. "Last year there were reports of crowding in some of the popular east Upper Peninsula hunting areas, such as Munuscong Bay, Potagannissing Flooding on Drummond Island, and the Les Cheneaux Islands. Downstate hunters should consider going farther west in the Upper Peninsula for the North Zone opener to avoid these problems. In addition, the popular Potagannissing Flooding is in a partial drawdown condition to renew its productivity, so hunter mobility will be significantly reduced during this year's season."

Hunters should check county map books for location of DNR wildlife floodings and various lakes as likely hunting places. Stream floating and beaver pond checks also are likely to produce good results. Inspection of air photos is a way to spot out-of-the-way hunting places, and local resort owners are good sources of information too.

Canada goose hunting opportunities have been significantly reduced this year in Michigan, other Mississippi Flyway states, and Ontario. Because of poor production in 1992, this year's populations of breeding geese along the coasts of Hudson and James Bays in Ontario were much reduced. Flyway biologists admit that Canada goose production was good this year, but recommended significant cut-backs in season length and/or bag limits to build breeding numbers back to Flyway management objectives.

The 23-day Canada goose season in Michigan's North Zone opened Sept. 25, with a daily bag limit of two. The Middle Zone season is also 23 days with a two-bird daily bag limit, and opens with the duck season on Oct. 9. The South Zone Canada goose season is 30 days with one daily, and starts with the duck season on Oct. 16.

"These regulations will reduce harvest on migrant Canadas to build back populations on the Ontario breeding grounds," Martz said.

Canada goose hunting regulations in the state's special goose management units (GMU) vary from the general seasons in the South Zone, but also are designed to reduce harvest of the migrant goose populations. The seasons in the Tuscola/Huron GMU and the Saginaw county GMU will both begin on Oct. 2. But in a unique effort to prolong hunting opportunities, hunting for Canada geese on all private and public lands will be permitted only on week-end days and even-numbered week-days. The harvest quota in the Huron/Tuscola GMU was reduced to 750 birds from 2,000 last year, and in the Saginaw county GMU to 2,000 from 4,000 in 1992.

Canada goose hunting in the Allegan county GMU begins on Oct. 16 with a harvest quota of 2,000 reduced from last year's 5,000. Similarly, the Muskegon Wastewater GMU has a quota of 400 Canadas, reduced from 1,000 last year. The start of hunting there depends on progress of corn harvest by the county, so hunters need to call the DNR office at Muskegon (818) 788-5055 to determine the opening date.

Michigan goose hunters also will have an opportunity to hunt Jan. 8 through Feb. 6 (30 days) in the special late season in the Southern Michigan Goose Management Unit. This hunt is to help control the local Canada goose flock.

Applications for reserved waterfowl hunts for the first two days of the waterfowl season at popular managed waterfowl areas were accepted by the DNR through Sept. 8. Successful hunters only will receive their reserved hunt permits in the mail by Sept. 27.

A SIZABLE DONATION was made by The Spirit of Ypsilanti, a group of local entrepreneurs, to the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department for its Police Athletic League. Cerene Tangalakis of Theo Door's in Ypsilanti, also the treasurer of The Spirit of Ypsilanti, presented the $5,000 check to county officials for the league. Pictured from left are Frank Cambria, assistant administrator; Marty Straub, commissioner, Tangalakis; and Sheriff Ronald Schebil.

P.A.L. Receives Funds From Ypsi Business Group

At the meeting of the Sheriff's Special Project Fund Advisory Board, held Sept. 9, Washtenaw County Sheriff Ronald J. Schebil and other board members, commissioner Marty Straub and Frank Cambria, assistant administrator, received a check in the amount of $5,000 as a donation to the Washtenaw County Sheriff Department, Police Athletic League (P.A.L.).

The check was presented to P.A.L. by Cerene Tangalakis of Theo Door's in Ypsilanti. Ms. Tangalakis is treasurer of The Spirit of Ypsilanti, a group of local entrepreneurs.

"This dedicated group takes on the enormous task of organizing 'The Rubber Ducky River Race,' which is held each year during the Ypsilanti Heritage Festival," states Sheriff Schebil. "This was their sixth race, and the most successful yet!" reports the Sheriff.

Over the past six years, The Spirit of Ypsilanti has donated $25,000 to P.A.L., which in turn, lends support to unaffiliated youth within the Washtenaw county community by sponsoring a variety of youth-related activities, programs and organization. Over 30 organizations have benefited from P.A.L., since its inception in 1980, some of which include:

Chelsea residents, Jack Bostwick received the Eleanor Unterbrink Scholarship for visual communications and Sue McDonald received an education scholarship from the Chelsea Education Center.

Pumpkin Contests Set At Farmers Market

Chelsea Farmers Market will be having the annual Pumpkin Festival on Saturday, Oct. 9. In the Spring customers picked up pumpkin seeds to plant. Now, we will see who grew the largest pumpkin from these seeds.

People who grew these official contest seeds are asked to bring their largest pumpkin back to the market between 8 and 10 a.m. when judging will be conducted. There will be a prize for the largest. The prize will be awarded at noon.

People who did not grow pumpkins can get into the fun of the contest by carving a pumpkin. There will be a prize for the best carved pumpkin in the adult and children's under 12 classes.

The market continues on Saturdays from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. through October. The market is located in the Municipal Parking Lot between Park and Middle Sts. Vendors currently have pumpkins, squash, crafts and other fall items. New vendors are always welcome.

Information on stall rental may be obtained from Sue Rodgers at 475-4684 or Sandy Barkman at 475-1003.

First Aid, Safety Class Series Offered

Washtenaw County Chapter of the American Red Cross is currently accepting registration for its Community First Aid and Safety course.

This nine-hour course will be held Monday, Oct. 11 and Wednesday, Oct. 13 from 5:30 p.m. to 10 p.m.; and Saturday, Oct. 16 and 23 from 9 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

The course teaches how to recognize and care for breathing emergencies, heart attack, and cardiac arrest in adults, infants and children. Participants will learn how to treat life-threatening bleeding, care for sudden illness including poisoning and heat and cold emergencies. The course meets CPR requirements for homecare providers. Classes will be held at the Red Cross offices located at 2729 Packard Rd., Ann Arbor.

For more information about this course and other Red Cross health education classes call (313) 971-5300.

Precision production, operators, and agriculture occupations have the lowest proportion of workers with college training, and these occupations are projected to have the slowest employment growth between 1990 and 2005, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics' Occupational Outlook Quarterly, Fall 1991.

CIDER MAKING as it was done in pioneer days is always a popular attraction at the Waterloo Farm Museum Pioneer Day slated this year on Sunday, Oct. 10.

Horse-Drawn Wagon Rides Popular at Farm Museum Pioneer Day

The horse-drawn wagon ride is a highlight of Pioneer Day, a harvest celebration showcasing the life and times of the 19th century Michigan farmer. The teamsters at this year's event are David Emmons, Jared Beduhn, Ken Marsh, and Howard Bodell.

Emmons owns a Belgian team, six and seven years old, 17 hands, 1,800 pounds; and a pair of Percheron, nine and 10 years old, 18 hands, 1,800 pounds. In 1940, Howard Galley took a 12-year-old David out with a team and taught him the skills of a teamster. Emmons states that "There is a lot of work and time you have to put in if you want your horses to do well" but for a man who loves horses, as well as working and driving them, that work and time is not a hardship.

Jared Beduhn and his family own 11 draft horses. The team that Beduhn will be driving are Belgians, four and eight years old, approximately 1,700 pounds. His grandfather had mules and teams, but it was Mark Stanfield, of Pleasant Lake, that showed Beduhn the art of driving and shoeing. Beduhn enjoys the interaction with these affectionate, attentive animals. Each has a different personality and responds to the care and training lavished on them by their owners. Beduhn would like to make parents aware that although the horses are well-mannered, care should be taken to keep small children from getting too close.

Marsh is another veteran teamster who volunteers his time each fall to help make Pioneer Day a special one. Marsh has two teams that he will bring, one driven by his neighbor, Howard Bodell. Team No. 1 is a Percheron Shire cross, 17 hands, 2,000 pounds, nine and 10 years old. The other team is Belgian, 17 hands, 2,000 pounds, and about 15 years old. Truman Marsh, Ken Marsh's father,

Humane Society Plans Open House

Humane Society of Huron Valley (HSHV) will be opening its doors to friends, members, volunteers and animal lovers in general on Saturday, Oct. 16, from 2 to 4 p.m. for a special fall open house.

"The shelter will be open for the community to view the facility, ask questions and pay a visit to the many dogs, cats, puppies and kittens who are waiting for just the right person to come and take them home.

A dedication ceremony will take place at 2 p.m. for the newest addition to the Society grounds—a Friendship Garden to honor Washtenaw county's homeless and abused animals. The garden gazebo will also stand as a tribute to Humane Society friends, supporters and loved ones whose concern and generosity make it possible for HSHV to pursue its work for the county's domestic and wild animals.

Come to the shelter, located at 3100 Cherry Hill Rd., Ann Arbor, and partake of refreshments, walk through the shelter and learn how you can become a part of the Friendship Garden, as well as the lives of the 10,000 animals who come to the Humane Society each year. Please call (313) 662-5585, ext. 108 for more information.

The Humane Society of Huron Valley is a private non-profit organization dedicated to the prevention of cruelty to animals. Shelter hours are Thursday through Tuesday, noon to 6 p.m.

Do You Procrastinate?

If you're putting off something that's either difficult or important, that's procrastination.

Fear is a major component of procrastination. Fear of failure, fear of success, fear of risk taking, fear of work, fear of fear—whatever your fear is, it's holding you back and keeping you in a rut. Ruts are safe, but they aren't meant to be permanent dwelling places.

If left unattended, procrastination can become a habit. In other words, it's possible you could organize your life into inaction.

Are You A Procrastinator?

Do you get all the little tasks done quickly and efficiently but never seem to have time for the work that really counts, work that stretches your abilities, work that takes you out of the rut? If so, you're a procrastinator.

If you added up all the unnecessary phone calls, sharpened pencils, trips to the coffee room and all the other delaying tactics you employ, you'd be awestruck by the hours, days and weeks you've wasted.

People often tell you that once they begin a task they've avoided, it takes far less time and effort than they imagined. Worrying about something can take as much time and energy as actually doing it.

Fallproof Tip

Whatever you want to do first, do last. And whichever task you want to put off (especially if you've been transferring it from one list to another for weeks), do that first. Repeat to yourself, "Do the worst first."

Once you identify and begin that worst task, you should feel a burst of relief. Use that relief to propel you to the next step, and before you know it, you'll have the job finished.

Savor the good feeling and remember that nasty feeling you get when you don't do something.

Action Breeds Success

Just as procrastination breeds procrastination, action breeds success. For procrastinators, taking action toward a goal liberates energy. You've stepped up to your fear, and—surprise—stepped right through it. If you experience a negative reaction, remember that it's just your fear trying to get you back in the rut.

It's smart to break down a big task into little pieces. By concentrating on the pieces, you avoid thinking about maybe not being able to finish the whole job.

What makes a task scary? Not knowing—or not wanting to know—exactly what it takes. As you break the task down into parts, assign a deadline for each. Be specific.

If you backslide, don't beat yourself up. That's your fear talking again. Just remind yourself of your successes and start working again immediately.

Procrastinators and doers both have grand dreams. But one of the important differences between them is that doers are willing to do all those little tedious tasks that make up a bigger goal. And that's the difference that makes them successful.

Registration forms are available at Ann Arbor area pet stores and veterinarians or call the Ann Arbor Jaycees for forms and more information at 971-5112.

Pinckney Area Man Completes Cadet Basic at West Point

Army Cadet Nathan V. Tennant has recently completed cadet basic training at the U.S. Military Academy, West Point, N.Y.

The six-week training program instructs new cadets in basic military skills and prepares them for entry into the U.S. Corps of Cadets. Emphasis of the training is placed on physical fitness, military training, introduction to the Honor Code, military courtesy, conduct, drill and ceremonies.

During the training, upper class cadets, tactical officers and enlisted soldiers train the new cadets in basic soldier skills. In addition, the cadets receive training in first-aid, mountaineering, individual movement techniques, nuclear, biological and chemical warfare training, and marksmanship.

The U.S. Military Academy is a four-year educational institution charged with the task of providing the nation with leaders of character who serve the common defense, and upon graduation in 1997 will commission its cadets as second lieutenants in the U.S. Army.

Tennant is the son of Mark W. and Deborah M. Tennant of 3374 Hooker Rd., Pinckney. He is a 1993 graduate of Pinckney High school.

Pioneer Day Slated Sunday At Waterloo Farm Museum

Sunday, Oct. 10 from noon to 5 p.m., is the date and time set for Pioneer Day at the Waterloo Farm Museum. This event, sponsored by the Waterloo Area Historical Society, celebrates the Michigan pioneer farmer through demonstrations of crafts and skills commonplace during the 19th century.

Guests to the restored Victorian farmhouse grounds will be able to watch knitting, quilting, spinning, rug hooking, weaving, and lace making as well as cider and sauerkraut making, forge work, tinsmithing, wood carving, and broom making.

Activities include horse-drawn wagon rides down a tree-lined road, storytelling, cannon firing demonstrations by the Michigan 5th Battery Light Artillery, drag saw demonstration, pottery making, and sheep shearing. Experience life in a Civil War camp, listen to a harmonica band, and watch a demonstration of folk painting.

A visit to the country would not be complete without a taste of homemade bread and butter, molasses cookies, and a cup of cider. Lunch is available on the grounds.

Admission is free. There is a charge for self-guided tours of the farmhouse. Dewey School, a one-room schoolhouse located nearby, is also open to visitors. The museum is located at 9998 Waterloo-Munith Rd., 3 miles northwest of the Village of Waterloo in the Waterloo Recreation Area. For more information call (517) 596-2254.

The museums are supported by memberships, donations, and fundraising events without the use of State or Federal funds.

Riegle Successor Should Understand Rural Area Needs

Sen. Donald Riegle's announcement that he will not run for another term scrambles the political picture in Michigan and provides an opportunity for many other candidates to consider running for Riegle's Senate seat. Al Almy, director of public affairs for Michigan Farm Bureau, said he hopes candidates will surface who understand the needs of rural Michigan and will support a strong agricultural industry.

But in the meantime, Sen. Riegle's term still has 15 months to run. "His decision to step down surprised us," said Almy. "We would certainly hope that during the remainder of 1993 and 1994, as he finishes out his current term, that he would perhaps take a more calculated look at tough issues such as the North American Free Trade Agreement. We also certainly hope that he would continue to work for health care reform and reflect the needs of rural Michigan and farmers on that important issue."

SPORTS

Let's Go Bulldogs!

KICKER TIM WESCOTT suffered a shin injury last Friday at Jackson County Western, but replacement Paul Lopez hit two extra points. Here, Wescott tries a long field goal in a game earlier in the year.

Dogs Stay Undeclared Against Western, Host Pesky Dreadnaughts Next

Once again, the Chelsea Bulldogs' passing game proved to be too much for an average opponent to handle as Chelsea took a 42-6 victory over Jackson County Western last Friday on the road.

Quarterback Pat Steele was 11-21 for 272 yards and two touchdowns as he had a relatively easy time of it all night long. He connected with wide receiver Colby Skelton six times for 163 yards and a touchdown, tight end Matt Seitz three times for 75 yards, wide receiver Don Poppenger one time for 20 yards and a touchdown, and wide receiver Bryndon Skelton one time for 14 yards.

The Bulldogs also had a relatively high-powered running game as Gabe Bernhard gained 151 yards on 27 carries. It was the first time any Chelsea runner has surpassed 100 yards this season.

"Defensively, they couldn't stop us," said Chelsea coach Gene LaFave.

"Pat and Colby were outstanding. Gabe ran the ball well, and our offensive line did a great job. We were pleased. Defensively we did not play as well as we have, but we had three sophomores on the defensive line and that had an impact. We kept them from scoring and we've got to be happy with that."

Western had two other good opportunities to score, including one as time expired in the game.

Senior defensive lineman David Brock should be back on defense for this week's Dexter game. He played last week at his usual position at center on offense.

Senior noseguard Ed Greenleaf may be back before the end of the regular season.

Chelsea took command early as Steele scored on a quarterback sneak with 4:12 left in the first quarter. Less than three minutes later, Steele hooked up with Colby Skelton on a 62-yard touchdown pass to take a 13-0 lead.

Western got on the board on their next drive with 10:24 left in the half to cut Chelsea's lead to 13-6.

But the Bulldogs came right back on their next possession to score on a five-yard run by Bernhard. Chelsea took a 20-6 lead into halftime.

Chelsea put two more touchdowns on the board in the third quarter. Steele's five-yard run with 9:59 left and a Steele-to-Colby Skelton conversion put the Bulldogs up 28-6. With 3:32 left, Steele found Poppenger on a 20-yard touchdown strike. Paul Lopez, due to a shin injury to Tim Wescott, kicked the extra point.

The final Bulldog touchdown, with 5:42 left, came on a vintage Colby Skelton play. Western was forced to punt deep from their end zone and 10 Bulldogs rushed, trying for the block. Skelton fielded the ball at the Western 28 and with virtually no blockers in sight wended his way to the goal.

Lopez's extra point provided the final margin, and the most lopsided victory of the season.

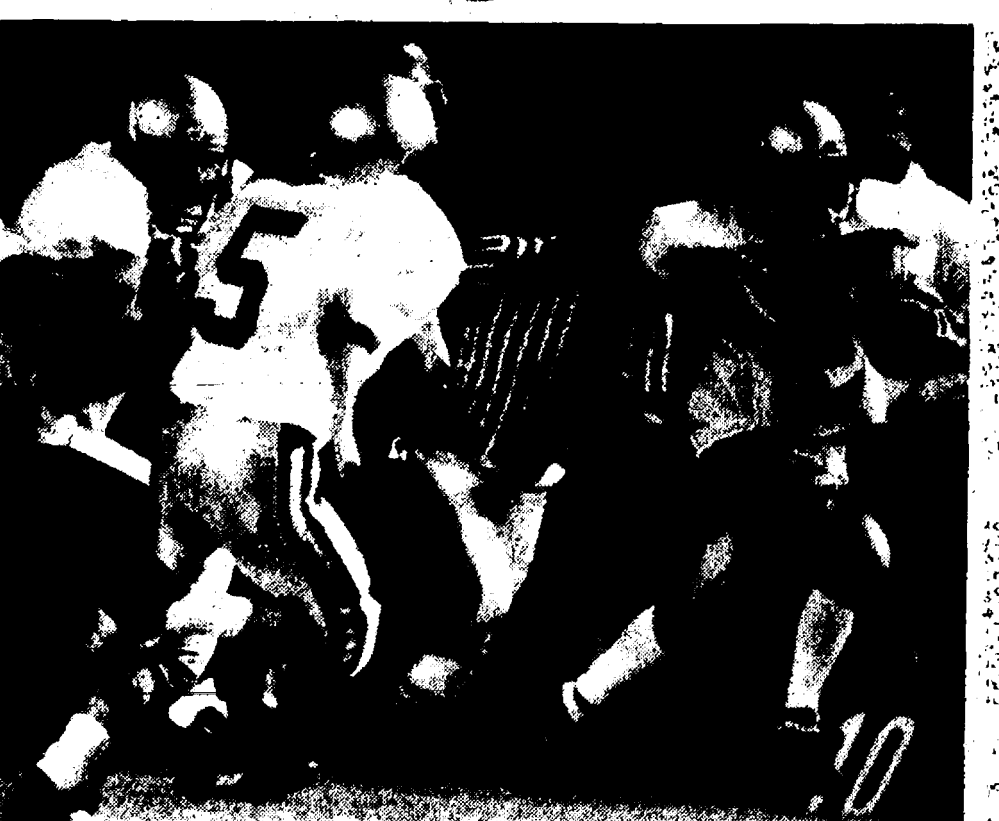

Colby Skelton and Poppenger each had an interception. Colby Skelton was the defensive player of the week. Kent Young recovered a fumble.

Wescott, before he was injured, rushed three times for 15 yards. Matt Montague relieved him and rushed three times for 19 yards.

Western gained 249 total yards, including 132 on the ground.

"We did what we need to win," LaFave said.

"It was a workman like job in a non-

PAT STEELE scored two touchdowns for the Chelsea Bulldogs last Friday at Jackson County Western. Here he takes off down the sidelines in an earlier game.

league game against an opponent we should beat."

Friday, Chelsea hosts the Dexter Dreadnaughts, who picked up their first league victory last Friday with an upset of the Lincoln Railsplitters.

The Bulldogs will be about as healthy as they have been since the first week of the season. Running back Jay Westcott should return, Brock will play defense, and Wescott is likely to play.

"This rivalry is very important to Dexter," LaFave said.

"They are a solid team and have a good runner in Ryan Balcom. They also have nine seniors on defense. But we won't forget what happened last year. We were very fortunate to get out of Dexter with a victory. I look for it to be an intense game." Chelsea took a one-point win last year.

Chelsea, at 5-0, leads the SEC all by themselves. They are also second in the region point rankings for a state play-off berth.

Chelsea Swimmers Defeat Ypsi, Lincoln in Two Meets

Chelsea Bulldogs swimmers pushed their dual meet record to 3-1 last week with home victories over the Ypsilanti Braves, 103-83, on Tuesday and the Lincoln Railsplitters on Thursday, 108-78.

The Bulldogs also placed sixth out of 11 teams at the Fenton Relays on Saturday.

At Saturday's relays, the Chelsea 400 medley team of Cara Heitman, Nona Giebel, Stephanie Wesolowski, and Michelle Dymond took seventh.

The 200 backstroke relay of Betsy Schmunk, Erin Armstrong, Kelly Bowers, and Christie Lonskey placed second.

The 200 freestyle team of Dymond, Armstrong, Carrie Smith, and Heitman placed ninth.

In the 400 individual medley relay, Heitman, Beth Vogel, Angie Wilson, and Bowers placed fifth.

In the crescendo relay, Lonskey (50 yds.), Erin Hack (100), Erin Baird (200), and Schmunk (500) placed third.

Alicia Vogel and Lonskey took third in the diving.

Schmunk, Hack, Wesolowski, and Baird placed fourth in the 800 freestyle relay.

In the 200 breaststroke relay, Giebel, Hillary Smith, Amy Hinshaw, and Heather Pratt placed 10th.

Hack, Dymond, Carrie Smith, and Baird were fifth in the 400 freestyle relay.

In the 200 butterfly relay, Wilson, Beth Vogel, Wesolowski, and Bowers finished sixth.

In the 200 medley relay, Armstrong, Giebel, Beth Vogel, and Wilson placed seventh.

third, Armstrong fourth, and Hillary Smith sixth.

The Bulldogs swept the 500 freestyle as Baird, Bowers, and Heitman were 1-2-3.

The 200 freestyle relay team of Schmunk, Dymond, Carrie Smith, and Bowers took second, Heitman, Hillary Smith, Hinshaw, and Giebel placed third, and Wesolowski, Beth Vogel, Pratt, and Baird were fourth.

Lonskey won the backstroke, Beth Vogel was third, and Pratt was sixth.

In the 100 breaststroke, Schmunk was second, Hillary Smith fourth, and Heitman fifth.

The 400 freestyle relay team of Wesolowski, Armstrong, Dymond, and Beth Vogel placed second, and Lonskey, Alicia Vogel, Hillary Smith, and Schmunk were third.

In the Ypsilanti meet, Lonskey, Schmunk, Hack, and Baird were third in the 200 medley relay, and Heitman, Giebel, Beth Vogel, and Armstrong placed third.

Baird was second in the 200 freestyle, followed by Hinshaw in third and Carrie Smith in sixth.

Schmunk won the 200 individual freestyle.

Chelsea Bulldogs varsity basketball team moved to 2-0 in the Southeastern

Conference last Tuesday with a 50-31 victory over the Lincoln Railsplitters.

The teams were tied at 8-8 after the first quarter, but the Bulldogs pulled away in the second and third periods.

They led 20-14 at halftime and 39-23

after the third quarter.

"We sat Courtney down in the first quarter because of the technical foul in the previous game and for the first quarter we were very equal teams," said Chelsea coach Charlie Waller.

"But once Courtney got into the game, Lincoln couldn't handle it. She's very agile and mobile and she played a great game. In the second half we had all three big kids (Thompson, Annie Terpstra, and Erin

Schiller) in the game and blew them out."

Thompson finished with 21 points and 12 rebounds, while low post companion Terpstra had 10 points. Mara

Smith, who is considerably shorter than both Thompson and Terpstra, had 11 rebounds.

Other Chelsea scorers were Laura

Carty 9, Smith 4, Schiller 3, Charlotte

Ziegler 2, and Martha Merkel 1.

"Laura played by far her best game of the year," Waller said.

Carty had five assists and ran the offense well, Waller said.

The Bulldogs, counting last night's game at Dexter, are scheduled to play the league's three best teams in a row.

Dog Tennis Team Loses to Jefferson

Chelsea Bulldogs tennis team lost to the Monroe Jefferson Hornets last Thursday, 2-5. The Bulldogs had beaten them earlier this season, 4-3.

In last Thursday's match Liz Holdsworth won the only singles match for Chelsea, defeating Brenda Pio, 6-3, 6-0. In singles play, Jessica Knight lost to Jill Jividen, 2-6, 3-6; Laura Hurst lost to Monica Manis, 0-6, 4-6; and Julie Flynn lost to Maria Neikirk, 6-7, 3-6.

"I just think they wanted it a little more than we did," said Chelsea coach Terri Curtis.

"This was the first time Chelsea has ever lost to Jefferson."

Chelsea plays at home on Thursday. "We could use some support as this is going to be a tough year," Curtis said.

Casey White and Anne Frederick had the only doubles victory for the Bulldogs, 6-1, 6-3. In other doubles matches, Becca Flintoft and Tracy Haas lost in three sets, 3-6, 6-4, 5-7; and Sara Smith and Liz McLaughlin also lost in three sets, 4-6, 7-5, 5-7.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BRIAN HAMILTON

I missed Friday's Chelsea football game at Jackson County Western as I was on my way to grandma's house in Columbus, O., home of the Buckeyes. It's pretty apparent from last week's column that there was no real reason to go, to Western, that is, since I already knew what the score would be. Hal!

As a writer of a sports column, there are few things I can brag about. It's certainly not athleticism. Of all the writers I have ever known, I may be the best of the bunch, and, believe me, that is a sad, sad commentary. It's like calling MTV's Beavis and Butt-Head great art critics. I like to play 3-on-3 basketball. But those who have watched me or have had the misfortune to be on my team know one indisputable fact. The best thing about me playing is to keep it from being a 2-on-3 game.

Last week, at least in my mind, was the second time I can ever remember picking a game dead on. The first time came with last year's Chelsea-Pinckney football game when I wrote that the game was too close to call. Indeed, that game went into overtime before the Bulldogs pulled it out. On a couple of occasions, I've had the score right but the teams reversed. That is akin to my one and only hole-in-one, when I hit the ball as hard as I could, it took off at about an 80 degree angle, and landed on the wrong green about 40 yards away. That was very close to the end of my golf career.

Most games this year I've been pretty close on the point spread, the Saline game being the one exception. I hope at least that trend will continue.

Incidentally, Wolverines fans will be pleased to know that Buckeye fans are still trashing coach John Cooper, even though he's 4-0 this season and his team was ranked number one in the New York Times computer ratings. Cooper is calling his team the best he's had. It may well be and it's refreshing to hear a coach be so honest. The average coach is a notorious sandbagger and can always find a reason his team might lose any given game. He usually avoids assessing his own team and says things like, "They've got a great quarterback and an aggressive cheerleading squad, so we'll have to be on our toes." If he does comment on his team, it will usually be something like, "We have to be more consistent on defense. If we do that, we'll be all right." On his pre-game show, Cooper did, however, hurl enormous praise at Northwestern, last Saturday's 51-3 victims.

If coach Gene LaFave ever calls this year's Bulldogs the best team he's ever had, at least while the season is still in progress, I'll be shocked, although I suspect it is the best team he's had.

It was an uneventful, but frustrating, drive to Columbus. I kept trying to find any station at all that might be carrying the Atlanta Braves-Colorado Rockies baseball game since the National League West was in the middle of one of its most exciting races ever. Somewhere around Findlay I heard the familiar voice of Braves' announcer Skip Caray, off in the distance, as he competed with a local high school football radio broadcast. "Well, Avery's in trouble again..." hisssssss, "And the Trojans are backed up at their five yard line..." hisssssssss. A few minutes later, "Pendleton hits a long drive to straightaway centerfield..." hisssssss. "And the kick-off goes out of bounds..." hisssssssss, "and just like that..." Caray says excitedly, and more static.

When I got back Sunday, I was pleased, of course, to see the Bulldogs had won easily. But I was just as pleased when the Braves went on to sweep the Rockies, and the Dodgers annihilated the Giants, to send the Braves to the playoffs starting tonight against the Phillies.

This is turning into a great fall, and the scheduling is perfect. There's no National League baseball game on Friday, when the Bulldogs host the Dreadnaughts for what should be the sixth victory of the season. I am a baseball junkie when it comes to my Braves and the post-season, so this is indeed good news.

Friday, the Dreadnaughts will come in here pumped up, ready to put on a good show. They love to beat the Bulldogs, perhaps more than any other opponent, especially because it doesn't happen very often. This year the Dreadnaughts are taking on an unbeaten, state-ranked team, so there's even more incentive. An upset would make their season. They'd talk about it for years.

The Dreadnaughts pulled an upset last week with a one-point victory over Lincoln. There's no way, short of a massive Bulldogs viral infection, that Dexter will do it again. The Bulldogs are not only shooting for another SEC title, but the home field advantage in the play-offs. There's too much at stake.

Chelsea 31, Dexter 7, I won't miss this one.

Four Former Dogs To Be Inducted Into Chelsea Grid Hall of Fame

Four members of last year's record-setting Chelsea Bulldogs varsity football team will be inducted Friday into the Chelsea Football Hall of Fame.

Tom Poulter, Casey Schiller, Colt White, and Ken Slane are all scheduled to join an impressive list of Chelsea players, some of whom have gone on to play in college.

Poulter, a linebacker and running back last season, attends the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis and is a member of the junior varsity team there.

"He was a great leader, someone who made others perform at higher levels," said Chelsea coach Gene LaFave.

"He was also a great player." Schiller was an outside linebacker and offensive guard. He's planning to enlist in the U.S. Navy in December.

"Casey was an unsung kind of kid," LaFave said.

"He came up big in big games." White was a three-year varsity starter and at one time or another played tight end, defensive end, outside and inside linebacker and guard. He is attending Northwood Institute, where he plans to play baseball.

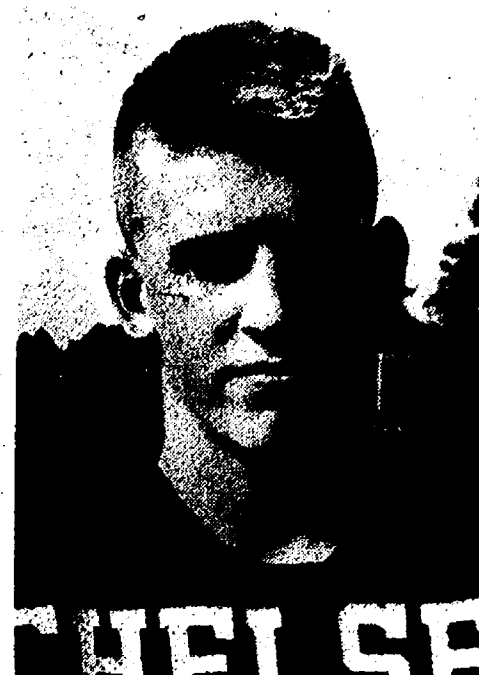

"He was an intelligent, tough kid, who utilized all his abilities," LaFave said.

Slane was a three-year letter winner at noseguard and tight end.

"He was one of the finest defensive linemen I've ever coached," LaFave said.

"He was quick and aggressive."

The induction will take place at half-time of Friday's game against Dexter.

Chelsea Girls Shut Out Lincoln In SEC Cross Country Meet

Chelsea Bulldogs girls cross country team shut out the Lincoln Railspitters last Tuesday, 15-48.

Chelsea took the top five places, and seven of the top eight spots.

"The girls are becoming a more polished team with every meet," said Chelsea coach Pat Clarke.

"It's great fun to watch them improve and mold together into a unit. Senior captain Beth Bell continued her fine season with a win. Sophomore Angie Bell and senior Emily Anderson recorded personal records."

Beth Bell, Melissa Hand, and Molly Griebel finished 1-2-3 with identical times of 21:09.

Other Chelsea results were: 4. Katie Spink, 21:44; 5. Erika Leiter, 21:59; 7. Sarah Henry, 22:25; 8. Jenny Space, 22:43; 10. Melissa Williams, 23:29; 11. Kim Smith, 24:14; 12. Sarah Metzler, 24:20; 13. Kim Niehaus, 24:54; 14. Angie Bell, 26:25; 15. Emily Anderson, 26:33.

Chelsea girls won both divisions of the annual Chelsea Invitational last Saturday at Hudson Mills Metropark. The meet is run in two divisions, junior-senior, and freshman-sophomore.

Chelsea results in the junior-senior division were: 1. Griebel, 20:04; 2. Beth Bell, 20:13; 11. Henry, 21:54; 12. Leiter, 21:55; 25. Anderson, 25:24.

Chelsea results in the freshman-sophomore race were: 2. Hand, 20:34; 5. Spink, 21:29; 8. Space, 22:02; 17. Williams, 22:42; 26. Smith, 24:04; 27. Niehaus, 24:17; 30. Metzler, 24:46; 35. Angie Bell, 27:00.

Dog Boys Outrun No. 8 Lincoln To Stay Unbeaten in Conference

Seventeen of 22 Chelsea boys set personal records as the Bulldogs cross country team beat the Lincoln Railspitters, 21-38, last Tuesday to move to 4-0 in the Southeastern Conference.

Chelsea's Cory Brown and Ryan Schultz finished 1-2 in 16:07 and 16:09, nearly hitting the 13-year-old course record of 16:02 held by Mark Brosnan.

"What can I say," said Chelsea coach Pat Clarke. "It was just a tremendous effort. The top three Lincoln runners are all-region quality and all are seniors."

"Scott Hawley, Chad Brown, and

Other Chelsea results were: 4. Chad Brown, 16:55; 6. Hawley, 17:26; 8. Metzler, 17:42; 9. Tim Lawrence, 18:07; 10. Chris Leatham, 18:09; 11. Kevin Kolodica, 18:18; 12. Brian Atlee, 18:22; 16. Jason Valchine, 18:39; 17. Eric LeFurge, 18:44; 20. Kevin Coy, 19:10; 21. Nick Kramer, 19:11; 22. Dan Wehrwein, 19:24; 26. Tim Wesner, 19:51; 28. Karsten Lipiec, 20:04; 29. Robert Bullock, 20:04; 30. David Tracy, 20:32; 33. Dan Alber, 21:12; 37. Aaron Atlee, 21:58; 38. Aaron Sporer, 23:25; 40. Deacon Holton, 24:44.

Lincoln was ranked eighth in the state in class B.

Chelsea boys took part in the annual Chelsea Invitational last Saturday at Hudson Mills Metropark. The invitational is run by class.

Chelsea's senior boys placed third. Places and times were: 1. Cory Brown, 16:28; 12. Leatham, 18:09; 25. Stimpson, 22:45; 26. Gaunt, 23:58.

Chelsea's juniors won their meet. Places and times were: 3. Chad Brown, 17:19; 5. Hawley, 17:44; 8. Metzler, 18:04; 11. Atlee, 18:24; 14. Kolodica, 18:33; 16. Wehrwein, 18:49; 18. Valchine, 19:04; 20. Coy, 19:06; 22. LeFurge, 19:12; 25. Kramer, 19:31; 30. Lipiec, 20:23.

Chelsea's sophomores were sixth. Places and times were: 19. Wesner, 20:40; 21. Tracy, 21:03; 22. Guenther, 21:08.

Chelsea's freshmen took second. Places and times were: 2. Lawrence, 18:25; 6. Bullock, 19:47; 15. Atlee, 21:12; 22. Sporer, 22:06.

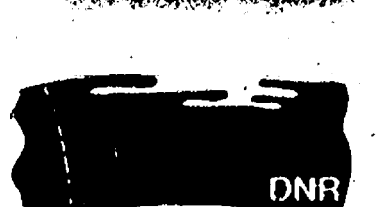

"Cory ran an outstanding race," Clarke said.

"Robert Bullock, Aaron Atlee, and Aaron Sporer all ran personal bests. The junior boys performed well."

Chelsea boys are ranked third in the state in class B.

Junior Varsity Gridders Lose Close Contest

Chelsea Bulldogs junior varsity football team lost to Jackson County Western last Thursday at home, 16-13. Chelsea led 13-12 until the fourth quarter, when Western managed the winning score with :24 left after a 90-yard drive.

"It was a heartbreaking loss," said Chelsea coach Bill Bainton.

"We really stepped up our intensity this week but couldn't put them away when we had the chances. Western made some big goal line plays against us."

Western opened the scoring on a 93-yard drive after a Chelsea fumble.

But the Bulldogs answered immediately as Mike Thayer ran 73 yards for a touchdown.

The score stayed 6-6 until half-time. Chelsea's Ray Hatch took the second-half kick-off 78 yards for a touchdown. Casey Wescott's kick gave Chelsea a 13-6 lead.

Early in the fourth quarter, Western blocked a punt and pushed the ball into the end zone two plays later.

"We had to move some people around because of injuries, and in the confusion had a critical breakdown," Bainton said.

Chelsea took the kick-off and drove to the Western five, highlighted by a 47-yard pass from Paul Bragalone to Thayer. However, they turned the ball over on downs.

The Bulldogs had close to 300 yards in total offense, their best production of the season. Thayer rushed for 162 yards and a touchdown and Bragalone was 4-5 passing. Wescott and Jason Phelps contributed strong defensive efforts, Bainton said.

Local Fishermen Take Third in Big Tourney

Local fishermen Dan Ellenwood and Cliff Blackford finished third over-all at The Classic Tournament on Sept. 18 on Lake James in Angola, Ind.

Ellenwood, of Stockbridge, and Blackford, of Chelsea, caught seven fish weighing 10 "total fish pounds." Ellenwood said a big one that got away would have put the duo in first place. They took home $700 for their efforts. Ellenwood also took fourth place in the Big Bass Pot with a three-pound fish.

The team, competing in the 90 horsepower-and-under category, fished near anchored boats and dock houses because the fish are often found under those structures. They used Yamamoto jigs and other custom lures.

Ellenwood and Blackford qualified for the tournament in the Tri-State Circuit with their performances at various tournaments in Indiana and Michigan held May through September.

Ellenwood eventually wants to become a professional bass fisherman. Next year he plans to compete in the Michigan-Bass-Federation-Circuit.

For more information about the Tri-State Bass circuit call Phil Smathers at (517) 238-5228.

Chelsea Golfers Beat Railsplitters

Chelsea Bulldogs boys golf team beat the Lincoln Railsplitters last Thursday, 194-201.

Chelsea's Jim Tallman was the medalist for the match with a 46. Other Chelsea scores included Josh Bernhard 47, Kevin Holmes, 50, and Adam Beauchamp 51.

On Thursday, Chelsea lost to the Pinckney Pirates, 190-193.

7th Grade Cagers Have Hot Week

Beach Middle school seventh grade basketball team beat Milan, 40-15, and Tecumseh, 42-13, as the team showed "significant improvement," according to coach Ann Schaffner.

Each game was marked by a strong first quarter effort which was sustained throughout the game, Schaffner said.

In the Milan game, Amanda McConeghy had seven points, six rebounds, and five steals. Miranda Harris had eight points in 4-5 shooting. Karen Kuhl had six points and Margaret Schick, Kristin Ellis, and Jenna Hall had four points each. Lindsey Williams had five rebounds and Meghan Holefska had six steals.

At home against Tecumseh, the girls jumped out to a 14-0 lead in the first quarter on 7-13 shooting.

Harris led Chelsea with eight points and six rebounds. McConeghy had six points and six steals. Amy McCalla had six points, and Schick, Williams, and Katy Long each added four points.

Farmers Concerned About Proposed Pesticide Policy

The state's largest farm organization agrees with a number of the goals outlined in the Clinton administration's plan to revamp federal pesticide laws. But Jack Laurie, president of the Michigan Farm Bureau, said farmers are troubled by some of the provisions and believe they would have adverse impacts on farmers and consumers.

"We are the most concerned with the complete loss of benefits consideration in the pesticide review and approval process," he said. "This would prohibit the Environmental Protection Agency from taking into account the value of pesticides in maintaining an adequate, affordable, and wholesome food supply."

Laurie said farmers are committed to the safe, judicious use of all chemicals and to finding non-chemical alternatives where they are practical. "We believe we are doing a good job, but if there are better, proven methods we are committed to adopting them," he said. "The administration's proposal to replace the outdated Delaney Clause with a single negligible risk standard for pesticide tolerances in all foods is one that we welcome. It has been well documented that the Delaney Clause has not made the food system safer. Instead, it has made it less safe by allowing older, riskier pesticides to stay on the market," according to Laurie.

Farm Bureau supports H.R. 1627, recently introduced in Congress. "This measure would achieve many of the administration's goals, but also recognizes the benefits of pesticides to society," Laurie said.

Unlike other adjustable rate mortgages, the 4Max can only jump so high.

While most ARMs can jump 6% over the life of the loan, the 4Max Mortgage can jump by no more than 4%. Coupled with today's low interest rates, the 4Max is a smart choice for homebuyers who want to start with low monthly payments, and stay with them. The 4Max Mortgage. What it lacks in jumping ability, it makes up in sheer intelligence.

CARD OF THANKS:

The families of Virginia

Sullivan wish to express their gratitude and thanks for respect and condolences of the community.

Charles E. Sullivan

and E. James Murphy.

THANK YOU

Thank you to my family and friends for the flowers, cards, visits, and phone calls. Also to Dr. Marcus and his staff, and the Emergency Room and Intensive Care Unit staff, and nurses and doctors at the Chelsea Hospital for their loving care. A special thanks to Pastor Rohde for her visits. Everything was greatly appreciated.

Hilda Pierce.

THANK YOU

Thank you to the following for making it possible for my dad, Verne, to move to Florida for the winter:

Meals On Wheels, Mary

Erskine and the volunteers who deliver seven days a week; Veteran's Hospital

Hemodialysis Clinics and social worker Jane

Gregory in Ann Arbor;

David Clark, who gave more than 2,000 hours over the last 1½ years to transport and care for Verne; my co-workers at

munity for support and prayers; and my sons,

Dennis and Jon, for giving up valuable time from their parents. I sincerely thank you all!

Kathleen Clark.

THANK YOU

The family of Harold

Bailey would like to thank our family and many dear friends for their comforting words, cards, donations and beautiful flowers at the time of our loss. A special thank you to Don Cole and his family for their help and kindness. We would also like to thank all those who brought food to our home and to all those who helped with the dinner. We will always hold dear to our heart your kindness.

Betty Bailey.

Kathleen Ann Parks

Chelsea
Kathleen Ann Parks of Chelsea, age 69, died Thursday afternoon, Sept. 23, 1993 at her home. She was born March 9, 1924 in Shepherd, the daughter of Charles and Sarah (Conroy) Coughlin.

Mrs. Parks had been a resident of Chelsea since 1962 and was retired from Rockwell International. She was a member of St. Mary's Catholic church.

She was married on Oct. 2, 1943 in Ypsilanti to Robert H. Parks and he survives, as do her two daughters, Nancy and her husband, Dean DeVoe, and Roberta and her husband, Gary Scripser, all of Chelsea; nine grandchildren, Robert, Dean and Donald DeVoe, Denise, Dianne and Deborah DeVoe, Jason and Russell Scripser and Michaela Romine; one great-granddaughter, Taryn Marie Romine; five brothers, Donald Coughlin of Davison, Martin Coughlin of Mount Pleasant, Charles Edward and Robert Coughlin all of Davison; four sisters, Dortha Myers of Alabama, Marie Overfield of Flint, Margie Bollinger of Chesaning, and Monica Ostram of Flint; six sisters-in-law, Mildred Lanti, Gladys Murray, Kathryn Bauer, Dorothy Walbrook, Helen Lake and Mary Rettig; two brothers-in-law, John Parks and Richard Parks.

She was preceded in death by two brothers, George and Joseph, and one brother-in-law, Donald.

The funeral mass was held Monday, Sept. 27, at 11 a.m. from St. Mary's Catholic church with the Rev. Fr. Philip Dupuis and the Rev. Fr. Kenneth Coughlin concelebrating. The vigil was held Sunday evening at 7:30 p.m. from the Staffan-Mitchell Funeral Home with Deacon Richard Shaneyfelt officiating. Burial was in Mount Olivet Cemetery, Chelsea.

Expressions of sympathy may be made to St. Mary's Catholic church or Arbor Hospice.

James C. Greenwood

Palm Beach, Fla.
(Formerly of Chelsea)
James C. Greenwood, age 56, died suddenly of a heart attack in Nevada on Aug. 2, 1993.

He is survived by two daughters, Christine Ann Cox of Chelsea, and Jamie Nadine Greenwood of Pinckney; two granddaughters, Kristy Lynn Cox and Jessica Elizabeth Greenwood.

Also surviving are two sisters, Barbara Parker of Ohio and Veretta Whitaker of Chelsea; and one brother, Joseph Greenwood of Georgia.

Cremation has taken place. Private family memorial services were held in Palm Beach, Fla., on Sept. 24. Those who wish may make donations to The Oasis, Inc., 10859 Prosperity Farms Rd., North Palm Beach, Fla., 33410.

Norman F. Billings

Chelsea
Norman F. Billings of Chelsea, age 81, died Tuesday, Sept. 28, 1993 at the Chelsea Retirement Community. He was born July 22, 1912 in Hart, the son of James H. and Florine (Hawley) Billings.

He married Mary Ellen Eddy in Mt. Pleasant, on Dec. 15, 1939, and she preceded him in death on March 21, 1993.

Mr. Billings is remembered for his deep love of nature and stewardship of the land. This has included farming, surveying rivers in the Civilian Conservation Corps, studying geology at MSU, directing water quality control in the Department of Natural Resources, and gardening.

Survivors include one son, James Billings of Minnesota; daughters, Helen Billings and Anna Billings both of California; Connie Weber of Manchester; two grandchildren, Tristan and Kiana Weber; and one brother, George Billings of Kansas. He was preceded in death by two sisters, Agnes Billings and Zella Billings.

Memorial services were held Thursday, Sept. 30, 10:30 a.m. at Chelsea Retirement Community.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Nature Conservancy Grass Bay Project in Michigan.

Arrangements were by the Cole Funeral Chapel.

Richard Alan Egeler

Santa Rosa, Calif.
(Formerly of Chelsea)
Richard Alan Egeler of Santa Rosa, Calif., age 40, died Friday, Sept. 24, 1993 in his Santa Rosa, Calif. home. He was born March 15, 1953 in Santa Anna, Calif., the son of Douglas F. and Barbara J. (Weir) Egeler.

Mr. Egeler lived in Dexter and Chelsea before moving to California in 1973.

He was a graduate of Chelsea High school class of 1972, attended college in California and his great love was art. He was self employed in the import business.

Survivors include his parents; one brother, Douglas A. Egeler of Chelsea; maternal grandmother, Marguerite Weir of Grass Lake; two nephews; one niece; several aunts, uncles and cousins.

Mystery Book Club Discusses MacLeod At First Fall Meet

McKune Memorial Library Mystery Book Club held their first official meeting of 1993-94 on Monday, Oct. 4, at 7 p.m. upstairs at McKune Memorial Library. The group discussed the books written by the traditional mystery writer, Charlotte MacLeod.

Books of Elizabeth Peters, the pen name of a celebrated Ph.D. Egyptologist, whose mysterious tales are told in a historical setting, will be discussed on Nov. 1.

Mystery Book Club, which discusses the novels of a variety of mystery writers, and invites a local mystery author to speak at the library each year, will meet on the first Monday of every month. The club is sponsored by Friends of McKune Memorial Library.

Meetings are free and open to the public and an alternate accessible meeting space can be arranged. Visitors are welcome.

For further information about the group call McKune Library at 475-8732.

WE DON'T GO HOME AT FIVE

Americans can enjoy a peaceful evening at home because our armed forces guarantee that peace. All around the globe, at sea and ashore, men and women of the U.S. Navy are working hard to safeguard your tomorrow. They're protecting you, representing you and making you proud of your country.

IT'S YOUR NAVY.

MAGICIAN and comedian Tom Plunkard of Warren entertained children at South Elementary school last Friday with a variety of tricks and jokes aimed at the younger set. Here, fifth grade Michelle Dettling assists with a trick.

How To Tell if Your Blue Cheese Is Bad

Healthy blue cheese is veined with mold. So, how can you tell if it's bad? What about buttermilk, yogurt, sourdough bread, hard sausages and sauerkraut?

All of these foods share one thing in common: they are fermented, which adds distinctive flavor to the food and helps some products stay fresh longer. While fermentation may make it more difficult to tell if the food is safe to eat, there are ways to detect spoilage in fermented foods.

Most foods have a nearly neutral pH factor, an environment conducive to bacterial growth. So, to extend the life of some foods people found ways to make them more acidic. Fermentation is one way, using lactic acid.

Cheeses. Made from separated milk solids, specialty cheeses are ripened using bacteria and/or molds chosen to give certain textures and flavors. Blue cheese is mold-ripened by the bacteria Penicillium roqueforti, while brie is aged by Penicillium camemberti.

For storage, firm cheeses keep well for several weeks in the refrigerator if wrapped tightly and protected from mold and drying. A soft cheese, like brie, retains its top quality for only about a week in the refrigerator.

When using cheese, don't leave it at room temperature over two hours. Like all perishable foods and all opened or sliced fermented foods, cheese can be contaminated by microorganisms on people's hands, by coughs, sneezes and "bugs" in the air.

Check refrigerated cheese before serving it. Discard a soft cheese if you see any signs of mold. Hard cheeses are past saving if mold growth is extensive or cheese has lost its original color and texture. Discard blue-veined cheese if you see mold growth that looks different from the normal veining. Invader-molds may be white, pink, green, blue, black or grey, and as flecks of color or furry patches.

Fermented sausages. Dry and semi-dry fermented sausages are made from ground meat treated with seasoning and curing agents. Common varieties include genoa salami, summer sausage, Lebanon bologna and pepperoni.

Take a close look at the labels for handling instructions. Some unopened semi-dry sausages require refrigeration, most dry sausages don't but all sausages need refrigeration once you have cut into them. Opened whole semi-dry sausage will last 3 to 6 weeks refrigerated; opened whole dry sausage will last 6 to 8 weeks, and opened dry jerky or beef-sticks should last 2 to 3 months in the refrigerator. A white film which can form on sausage skin is harmless and can be cut away, but sliminess or discolored spots on casings mean the meat should be discarded.

Buttermilk, Yogurt, Sour Cream. There is no question when ordinary milk sours: it's smell and taste are distinctly sour. But when fermented dairy products like buttermilk, yogurt and sour cream go bad, it's not always easy to tell if they are safe to eat.

Cultured buttermilk, which some food historians say originated in southern Russia, is the product of a lactic acid bacteria starter mix or culture. It is best used during its first week but it keeps up to two weeks, if refrigerated. If you see a grayish liquid floating on the top, it is spoiled and should be thrown away.

Pasteurized, homogenized cream treated with lactic starter culture becomes sour cream. It will last from 2 to 3 weeks in the refrigerator and should be thrown out if there are mold spots or if there is pink or green scum on the top.

The "friendly" bacteria Lactobacillus bulgaricus and Streptococcus thermophilus turn milk into yogurt. With a life span of 1 to 2 weeks in the refrigerator, yogurt should be thrown out at the first sign of mold or if it has a yeasty aroma.

Sourdough bread. Like all other breads, sourdough bread can become moldy. Wrapped in paper and stored in a bread box, it will stay fresh just a day or two. Sourdough draws its flavor from the acidic Lactobacillus sanfrancisco.

Sauerkraut. Sauerkraut was first fed to workers building the Great Wall of China between 246 and 209 B.C. Then it was simply cabbage covered with wine. Now it is made from fresh cabbage that is shredded, salted and fermented in its own juice. While the growth of lactic acid bacteria during fermentation makes kraut somewhat spoilage-resistant, its quality is another matter. Experts suggest canned kraut should be eaten within 6 months for full flavor, and fresh kraut keeps its quality in refrigeration only about a week. Spoilage appears as mold growth or surface scum.

Processed pickles. Lactic acid fermented cucumbers in unopened glass jars may be kept on the shelf about a year. Once opened, you can keep them refrigerated for 1 to 2 months. If the liquid turns cloudy or scum forms on the surface, throw the pickles out. Mushy pickles should also be discarded.

Fermented olives. Fresh-picked olives are bitter and largely inedible. So olives to be fermented are first treated with lye to remove the bitterness, then brined and sometimes processed with lactic acid or Lactobacillus bacteria. The resulting canned olives are shelf stable up to one year. Opened, they can be refrigerated in their own liquid for 1-2 months. Discard olives when they become soft, spotted or produce a spoiled odor.
