Schnaidt, Nadine Shaneyfelt, Mitch Picklesimer (partly hidden), Pat Gauthier, Ethel Halst, Lorraine Perford, Becky Tuttle, Esther Nicolai, and Jennie Blossfeld.

Chelsea, Dexter Families Served This Thanksgiving By Local Organization

Sixty needy families in the Chelsea and Dexter school districts will enjoy Thanksgiving dinners tomorrow thanks to the efforts of Faith in Action/Chelsea Social Services.

The social services organization distributed Thanksgiving boxes last Friday afternoon from the Faith in Action house on the Chelsea Community Hospital campus. More than 25 volunteers worked all morning to put the boxes of food together and put the finishing touches on many weeks of effort.

"Many of the people we serve are unemployed or are in a chronic state of emergency and are not likely to get any better," said volunteer Nadine Shaneyfelt.

"However, some of the people who have been down come back the next year as contributors. None of us knows when it will be our turn to ask for help."

Approximately 90 percent of the families helped each Thanksgiving come from the Chelsea area. The rest are from the Dexter area.

Each box contains canned and paper goods contributed by children at North and South Elementary schools, Jiffy Mixes from Chelsea Milling Co., a turkey, bread, and eggs supplied by Gina's Cafe, bread from Polly's Market, potatoes from DuRussel's Potato Farm in Manchester, and cookies from Mama's Cookies. K-Mart has also donated nine complete boxes. Each box varies in size according to the number of people in the recipient family and the idea is to provide enough food for several meals, not just Thanksgiving.

"We get many nice notes each year from the people we help," said the Rev. Jerrold Beaumont of Faith in Action.

"Some of the things they write bring tears to your eyes."

Defense Continues Case In Mark Foeller Trial

The defense portion of the trial of former North Sharon Baptist church deacon Mark Foeller continued last week in Jackson County Circuit Court.

Foeller, 37, of Grass Lake, is charged with raping three boys on camping trips and at the church during Sunday school. He faces eight first-degree criminal sexual conduct charges and three second-degree charges. Two boys, aged nine and 10, were allegedly raped in a bathroom during church services. One of those boys, and a third 10-year-old boy, were allegedly raped on camping trips near Wolf Lake in Jackson County.

Defense attorney Brian Thiede continued his tactic of trying to discredit Michigan State Police Det. Norman Maxwell. In addition, he called alibi witnesses in an attempt to show it would be difficult for Foeller to have committed the crimes he is charged with.

Last Thursday, Robert E. Fitzpatrick, former detective with the Jackson County Sheriff's Department, was called to the stand by Thiede as the attorney tried to show that Maxwell was obsessed with securing a conviction and improperly influenced children to accuse Foeller.

Fitzpatrick was assigned to the case with Maxwell because charges were made in both Washtenaw and Jackson counties. Fitzpatrick resigned from the department earlier this year after pleading no contest to embezzling money from a deputies union fund.

Fitzpatrick testified that he saw Maxwell use "boisterous" and harsh interviewing techniques that he did not agree with when talking to a possible 15-year-old victim. He also said Maxwell asked leading questions. However, on cross-examination by prosecutor Brian Mackie, Fitzpatrick testified that Maxwell did not try to get the child to change his story, which was suggested by Thiede during earlier testimony.

On Friday, Thiede called 16 members of the church to the stand to testify where Foeller was likely to have been during Sunday services in 1991 and 1992.

The boys said Foeller assaulted them in the bathroom on separate occasions when they left Sunday school class.

However, the witnesses, described as regular church members, said they

Attorney's Opinion May Alter Discussions About Improvements to Gene Dr.

If the village follows the advice of its attorney, Gene Dr. residents are likely to have to pay for all improvements made to their road. And they may have no choice about the extent of the project.

In a letter to village manager Jack Myers, attorney Peter Flintoft cast some legal light on the controversy surrounding the problems on Gene Dr.

Residents and landowners on the dirt road on the western edge of the village want the benefit of all village utilities. They do not have sewer or water service. They also want the village to maintain the road with such services as snow plowing, which are offered in the vast majority of the village.

More than half the area is vacant land. There are about a dozen homes which have been built over the last 25 years. That situation creates two separate sets of problems that reside along the same road. Most of the area is similar to any other undeveloped area. But a portion is already partially developed. There is no single developer.

The village has spent more than two years studying the problems and a committee, now consisting of trustees Tom Dorer, Brian Cashman, and Frank Hammer, has been meeting sporadically with the residents to try to work out a solution.

Several proposals have been discussed, ranging from complete paving of the road—along with sidewalks, streetlights, and other features—to leaving it a dirt road. The village has talked about using village labor to complete much of the project.

The residents pay all village taxes. For that reason, they say the village should at least make the services available, as well as service the road with snowplowing.

Several of the landowners want to sell lots.

According to Flintoft, the fact that real estate taxes are paid has "nothing to do with Gene Drive's repair, improvement or use." He said property taxes are paid for fire and police service and "the benefits of a more active form of government than that afforded by general law townships." The village, he said, has no responsibility to provide services to an annexed piece of land as the boundaries of the village are set by the county. The village, however, may sign a development agreement with a developer to provide services, much as the it did with Belser Estates on the eastern edge of the village.

"I am unaware of any instance where the Village of Chelsea has paid any money for the development of streets and public facilities in an annexed area," Flintoft wrote.

"In every case, the developer has paid these costs. If the Village Council determines that it shall pay monies from the General Funds of the Village (and thereby using the money of all of the Chelsea residents and property owners) for a specific improvement on Gene Drive, the Village will have to be accountable for the expenditure of that money, either by imposing a Special Assessment upon Gene Drive to recoup those funds or making such a benefit available to the other property owners in any similar developments."

The letter seems to imply that Gene Dr. should be treated the same as any other undeveloped area. If that is the case, the village's road ordinance may prevent anything less than road that meets all its standards for curb, gutters, sidewalks, and streetlights, from being constructed.

That option has already been rejected by the residents as too costly.

Throughout the discussions, the village has been fearful of setting a precedent it would rather not set with regard to other developers. The village, if it follows Flintoft's letter, will probably be forced to charge Gene Dr. residents for all costs, even the cost of village labor, through a special assessment district.

In light of the legal opinion, Gene Dr. Committee member Tom Dorer said he wants to get further legal advice about what the village can do in the area.

"I really do have sympathy with the people who live out there," Dorer said.

"I don't have much sympathy for the people who want to develop. We do need more answers from Pete."

The letter, however, appears to open the way for the village to provide snowplowing service, if it chooses to.

"Within the area set aside for a public right-of-way, the village has the absolute discretion to maintain, repair, use, vacate, or abandon those rights as it sees fit," Flintoft wrote.

Business Owners Protest Corridor District Plans

M-52 business owners are protesting the way the village is trying to improve the future appearance of the business corridor from I-94 to roughly Old US-12, the primary entrance to the village.

The village has adopted a "planned corridor district" ordinance, which is designed to govern development in the C-2, C-3, and C-4 zoning districts. It is what is called an "overlay district" and the regulations apply to all three classifications of zoning in the area. The second step, which the village planning commission was attempting to begin last Tuesday, is to re-zone the area.

The intent, according to Frank Hammer of the village's Planning and Ordinance Review Committee, is to gain a temporary way to control development in the area while the village works on changes to its zoning ordinance and General Development plan. The ordinance also says the purpose is to promote "co-ordinated development that will create a sense of order and place; to enhance the image of the Village to people traveling in the corridor; to help improve the flow and safety of traffic in the corridor; and to provide an attractive pedestrian environment."

Chelsea Shopping Center developer Rene Papo, along with Lloyd Bridges of Lloyd Bridges Traveland, circulated a petition urging the village to scrap the corridor district and form a committee consisting of members of the planning commission and business owners in the area. The petition was presented to the village planning commission last Tuesday, and the entire issue was tabled.

There were implications that the village acted illegally in the adoption of the ordinance, which village officials deny. They say all legal publications and notifications were made.

However, Papo objected to the fact that none of the owners was consulted during the planning stages of the ordinance.

After Tuesday's meeting, village zoning inspector Rosemary Harook noted the difficulty of trying to include affected people in planning every time the village wants to change an ordinance.

"How many people would we have had to include when we worked on our bed-and-breakfast ordinance," she asked.

The petition was signed by many of the owners of major developments, businesses, and vacant land, including Village Plaza, Fast-Morrow Buick, Olds, Chevrolet, Chelsea Big Boy, Heller Electric Co. and Chelsea Lanes, among others. However, approximately three-quarters of the property owners didn't sign it.

"We understand that the village is trying to beautify the area, but some of the requirements are just too restrictive," Papo said.

"For example, they say you can only use 55 percent of your land, and the rest has to be landscaped. That seems a little excessive."

Papo also objected to a requirement that every roof covering 75,000 square feet or less of floor space be sloped. Those over larger buildings could be flat. Under that regulation, if Polly's Market were being built today it couldn't have a flat roof.

Another requirement would force all front parking areas to be screened from view from the street by berms, shrubs, trees, or architectural walls. That, Papo says, will also screen storefronts and make it harder to do business.

"They really shouldn't have adopted the ordinance without the input of the property owners," Papo said.

It was also the first time the test was given.

★ Charter Schools as Catalysts for Change

By Robert J. Wittmann
Governor John Engler's proposal for charter public schools may do more by itself to transform the culture of public education in Michigan than all the myriad reforms debated and adopted in recent years, if other states' experiences are any indications.

Charter schools are public schools which enjoy site-level authority over most school decisions—from budgets to hiring—in exchange for agreeing to be accountable for student outcomes. They would be liberated from the stifling bureaucracy and rigid work rules that frustrate good teachers and administrators. Under Governor Engler's proposal, individuals and non-profit associations and even existing public schools could petition a host of public authorities to become charter public schools.

In Colorado this past May, a bipartisan coalition succeeded in passing charter school legislation despite the unified opposition of the public school establishment. Among the leading opposition groups was the Colorado Association of School Boards (CASB). Less than three months after the bill's passage, however, Randy Quinn, Executive Director of the CASB, was singing a different tune: "... it (the charter school legislation) can be viewed as an opportunity to do something new and creatively different. . . (it) forces the school board to re-examine its role. Rather than serving as provider, the board has an opportunity to become the purchaser of education services. . . This is a role that opens up all kinds of possibilities for school boards."

Why the dramatic change in Mr. Quinn's thinking? He explained, "... The fact is we are faced with a new way of doing business; we either go kicking and screaming into the future, or we lead the charge and make the best lemonade ever to come from a sour fruit."

Massachusetts recently adopted charter school legislation and thereby prompted a refreshing change in attitude on the part of a teacher union. Responding to the prospect of new competition, the Boston Federation of Teachers proposed to waive many unproductive work rules in six schools.

From Minnesota comes two more revealing stories. In Rochester, parents had been unsuccessful for several years in getting their local school board to start a Montessori program in the district. After a private Montessori school petitioned to become a charter public school under new legislation passed in 1991, the Rochester school board responded by adopting new policies that allow for the creation of a district-based Montessori school.

In Westoka, Minn., the local school district made national news in the fall of 1987 as one of two districts in Minnesota hit hard by the first year of a cross-district choice program. The district responded to the potential loss of students and the prospect of competition by developing a technology plan that would distinguish it from the outstanding school districts all round it, and by making prudent spending cuts rather than threatening to cut out football or band.

The result: in the fall of 1990 the district, with a long history of failed millages, passed a millage vote with nearly a 75% majority. The number of students who have transferred out of the Westoka School District has declined significantly since then.

A new middle school started by Wayne State University this fall is currently Michigan's only charter school, but the initial demand for it speaks volumes about the need for change in Detroit's public schools. More than 5,300 applications were received from parents of children all over the city, for just 330 spots assigned by lottery. The school serves mostly low-income families; 53 percent of the children enrolled are eligible for the free lunch program, dismissing the unfounded fear of opponents that charter schools must by definition be "elitist." The foothold that the Wayne State school now has in the Detroit market will spur other schools to improve.

Each of these stories has a compelling message. Educators, like everyone else, have comfort zones they seek to protect, until the cost of preserving the status-quo becomes greater than the cost of change. For many of us, change has become a routine part of our work lives, due in great part to the effects of global competition. The incentives for positive change that competition provides in the private sector could do wonders if allowed to work in the public sector as well.

As the stories above relate, charter schools can transform the culture of public education from one of defensiveness about change to one of seeing change as opportunity to do things better. That's something all the other reforms of the last 20 years have failed to accomplish within the system. For this reason alone, charter schools deserve citizen support.

(Robert J. Wittmann is director of education policy for The Mackinac Center for Public Policy, a Midland-based research and educational organization.)

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The fellows got off on a side track about words at the start of the session at the country store Saturday night, and they liked never to get back on the main line. Zeke said he came with a clip about retronyms, a word that means words for things that have been replaced by other things. The discussion moved from there into how change is the natural state of everything.

Zeke said he was in the barbershop last week when he read a piece about retronyms. He watched the barber trim around a customer's ears, and when he saw straight razor was an example of a retronym he got to thinking how many of them we use without realizing it. When the safety razor came along we had to add straight to the other kind, he noted, just like we had to start saying charcoal grill when them with bottle gas showed up.

The clip Zeke had mentioned day baseball, natural turf, manual typewriter, black and white TV and one speed bicycle as retronyms that have come into the language recent, and it said conventional is used in front of words like oven and war to tell us we've hit on better ways to get the job done.

The fellows took more than usual interest in Zeke's report. Bug Hookum got to thinking about where we go from here, and he wondered how long before we'll hear about cord telephones and propeller airplanes, and see ads pushing the health and economy in conventional comfort homes that have windows you actual can open in summer and close in winter.

Practical speaking, Bug went on, retronym is a new word for old changes. We had to invent silent movies as soon as we got movies with sound. And some of the old retronyms are scary, Bug said. We had The Great War until a greater one broke out in 1939, and now we got em numbered like we expect to keep adding to the list.

Ed Doolittle was of a mind that we've got to make retronyms of some Government regulations if we're ever going to get to the place where left hands in Washington and state capitals know what right hands are up to. Ed has been following voting in a few states, the latest California, to decide whether to issue vouchers for school children. The sad truth, Ed said, is that anywhere one of these passes public education will become a retronym. For the state to pay parents to send children wherever they want would end education for the poor and subsidize it for them that can afford private education now.

Practical speaking, went on Ed, we can't have a system where Washington decides what standard, equal education is and the states pay the bills for the parents to set up and run schools any way they want. No two school systems would be alike, Ed said, because no two would use their state money the same way.

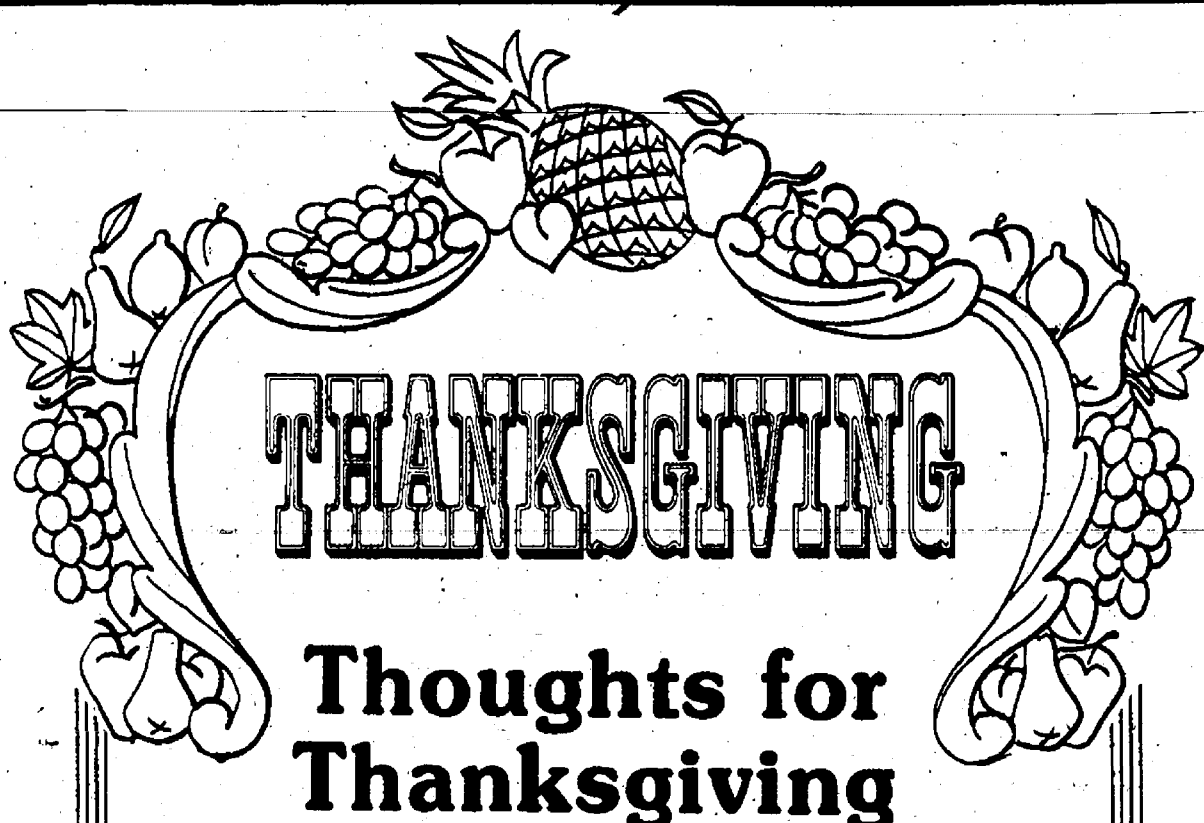

Furthermore, Ed said, the push for voting rights already has made democratic process a retronym. One hand of the Federal Government says states have to set up Congressional districts where minority races have the most votes. The other hand in Washington says states can't create districts for no other reason than to give certain minority races a voting majority because it weakens that minority vote in other districts.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

Funds Available for Emergency Food, Shelter Programs

Washtenaw county has been awarded $104,447 in federal funds to supplement local emergency food and shelter programs. The funds were appropriated by the federal government to help expand the capacity of programs in high need areas around the country. A local board will determine how the funds are to be distributed in the community.

Area agencies that provide emergency housing, food, shelter or utility assistance are invited to submit proposals for funding. The deadline for applications is Friday, Dec. 10, at 5 p.m. Proposals should include a description of the program and the amount of funds requested. Agencies re-applying for funding need only send a letter of application.

Proposals and letters must be mailed or delivered to the American Red Cross offices, 2729 Packard Rd., Ann Arbor 48106.

For more information, call 971-6300.

NAFTA Passage Called Victory for Mich. Agriculture

The Congress passage of the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) begins a new chapter in trade relations, built on mutual respect and co-operation, said the president of the Michigan Farm Bureau. "This new accord will bring ever-increasing benefits to agriculture and will strengthen the U.S. economy," according to Jack Laurie.

"Many sectors in Michigan agriculture will benefit," he said. "Over-all, U.S. farm exports to Mexico will increase by over $2 billion a year above what would have normally occurred. The big winners will include dry edible beans, livestock, corn, wheat, soybeans, and countless retail food products."

"The approval of NAFTA will make it much easier to reach a satisfactory resolution of our trade differences with the European Community as we near the Dec. 15 deadline for concluding the Uruguay Round of the General Agreement of Tariffs and Trade," Laurie said.

The farm leader said farmers appreciate the members of the Michigan congressional delegation "who took a step forward in supporting this very important trade agreement. Their courageous vote may some day be noted as the most important action affecting agriculture in this decade."

"Blessings we enjoy daily; and for most of them, because they be so common, most men forget to be thankful."

—Isaiah Walton

It is good that we have at least one day each year designated as "Thanksgiving Day" to remind us to give thanks to God for our many blessings.

On this Thanksgiving Day, as we enumerate our reasons to be thankful, let us not forget those common blessings we enjoy daily. Such things as good health, loving friends and just the opportunity to live in such an interesting age and in a free society, are really more important than those things that money might buy.

We are thankful that we are privileged to assuage grief and provide comfort for those who depend on us.

Howard, Doreen, and their son, Kyle, traveled to the North American Livestock Exposition in Louisville, Ky., on Nov. 11-13, where the horse was Senior Champion and Reserve Grand Champion. The McCallas also had another horse place second and two others place fourth. In October at the Michigan State Fairgrounds, Starlight's Marty was the Grand Champion at the Michigan Great Lakes International Draft Horse Show and Pull. ## Lights To Blaze in Benefit For Hospice of Washtenaw

"Light A Memory" will set thousands of lights burning brightly on Thursday, Dec. 9 at 7 p.m. in honor of influential and loved ones throughout the Washtenaw county area.

This second annual tree lighting ceremony will benefit the Hospice of Washtenaw, helping to provide compassionate, in-home care for people with life threatening illness. Hospice helps patients and their families regardless of their ability to pay for the services.

Names of all those to be remembered will be recorded in a Memory-Book which will be on display at Great Lakes Bancorp during December and kept at the Hospice offices thereafter.

To obtain lights in honor of a special person, donors should forward the names of those to be remembered along with a suggested donation of $5 per light to Hospice of Washtenaw, 806 Airport N. Blvd., Ann Arbor 48106. Checks may be sent in advance or brought to the ceremony.

Milk production in 1993 is expected to remain near last year's level of 182 billion pounds. Farm Bureau dairy experts say the average price farmers get for their milk will likely decline three to five percent.

Reward Offered for Info Leading to Arrest

The county, two police associations and an Ann Arbor-based pizza company are putting up a combined $6,500 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the man who abducted, raped and attempted to murder a 19-year-old Ann Arbor woman early Sunday, Oct. 31.

Domino's Pizza, Inc., has pledged $5,000 and Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department Command Officer's Association, Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department Deputies' Association and Washtenaw county have each pledged $500 in an attempt to capture the suspect.

The reward was announced at a press conference Tuesday morning, Nov. 23, at the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department headquarters on Hogback Rd. in Ann Arbor.

According to reports of the incident, the woman was abducted at gunpoint on Dino Dr. near Jackson Rd., Scio township, while sitting in a car with her boyfriend. The woman told deputies a light-colored car pulled up behind them and the driver approached them. She said she was ordered to get out of the car and he forced her in his vehicle's trunk, where her hands and feet were bound with duct tape. She was then driven around the area, while the man stopped several times to sexually assault her inside and outside of the trunk. Sometime shortly after dawn, the suspect stopped his car on a bridge over the River Raisin on Wilbur Rd. near Clinton Rd., Bridgewater township. The woman said he took her out of the trunk and threw her over the railing on the bridge into water 20 feet below. She said she was able to free herself of the bonds and make it to shore, where an area resident heard her screams and called police.

"This crime was so heinous, we felt we had to do something to help the Washtenaw County Chapter of the American Red Cross is offering holiday greeting cards that feature an illustration by local artist Bill Shurtliff. Proceeds will go to support the many programs and services the Red Cross provides to the community including disaster relief, blood services and health education.

The front of the cards features an old-fashioned, small town with the words "Season's Greetings." The cards are sold packaged in boxes of six for $5.50. Imprinting is available upon request for an additional charge. Holiday cards may be purchased at the Red Cross office, 2729 Packard Rd., Ann Arbor from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday. To order by phone, call 971-5300.

sheriff's department apprehend the suspect," said George Ralph, Domino's Pizza, Inc.'s director of security, and a former county deputy.

"A crime like this hurts the whole community, and we felt that by offering a reward, we could entice someone to come forward with enough information to get this assailant off the streets. We know the sheriff's department is working a lot of hours trying to catch the suspect. We hope this helps."

A sketchy description of the suspect and his vehicle was given by the victim. She said the suspect is a muscular, white male with eyeglasses and a mustache. At the time he had several days growth of facial hair, and was wearing a dark green T-shirt with a green Army fatigue jacket and possibly dark pants. His vehicle was a white, late model 70s or 80s make. The driver's side door was painted a different color than the body, possibly tan. The car had square head and tail lights. The woman said he threatened her with a dark-colored semi-automatic weapon, which she identified from a photograph.

Anyone with information is asked to contact the sheriff's department.

Let's Go Bulldogs!

Schmunk Sets Records At State Swim Meet

Junior Betsy Schmunk scored all 10 Chelsea points at the state swimming meet last Saturday at Michigan State University as the Bulldogs placed 23rd over-all.

Schmunk set school records in the 200 freestyle and the 500 freestyle. Her time of 5:24.44 in the finals of the 500 was good for seventh place and shattered the old school record of 5:32.61 set by Paula Colombo in 1982. Her time of 2:02.22 in the preliminaries of the 200 freestyle was good for 10th place and broke Erika Boughton's 1991 record of 2:02.41.

"Betsy was just outstanding," said Chelsea coach Dave Brinklow.

"She dropped eight seconds from her season-best in the 500 freestyle in the preliminaries, and then dropped five seconds in the finals."

Despite the lack of scoring by other team members, Brinklow said he was very pleased with their performances.

"We had 100 percent best times on Friday," Brinklow said.

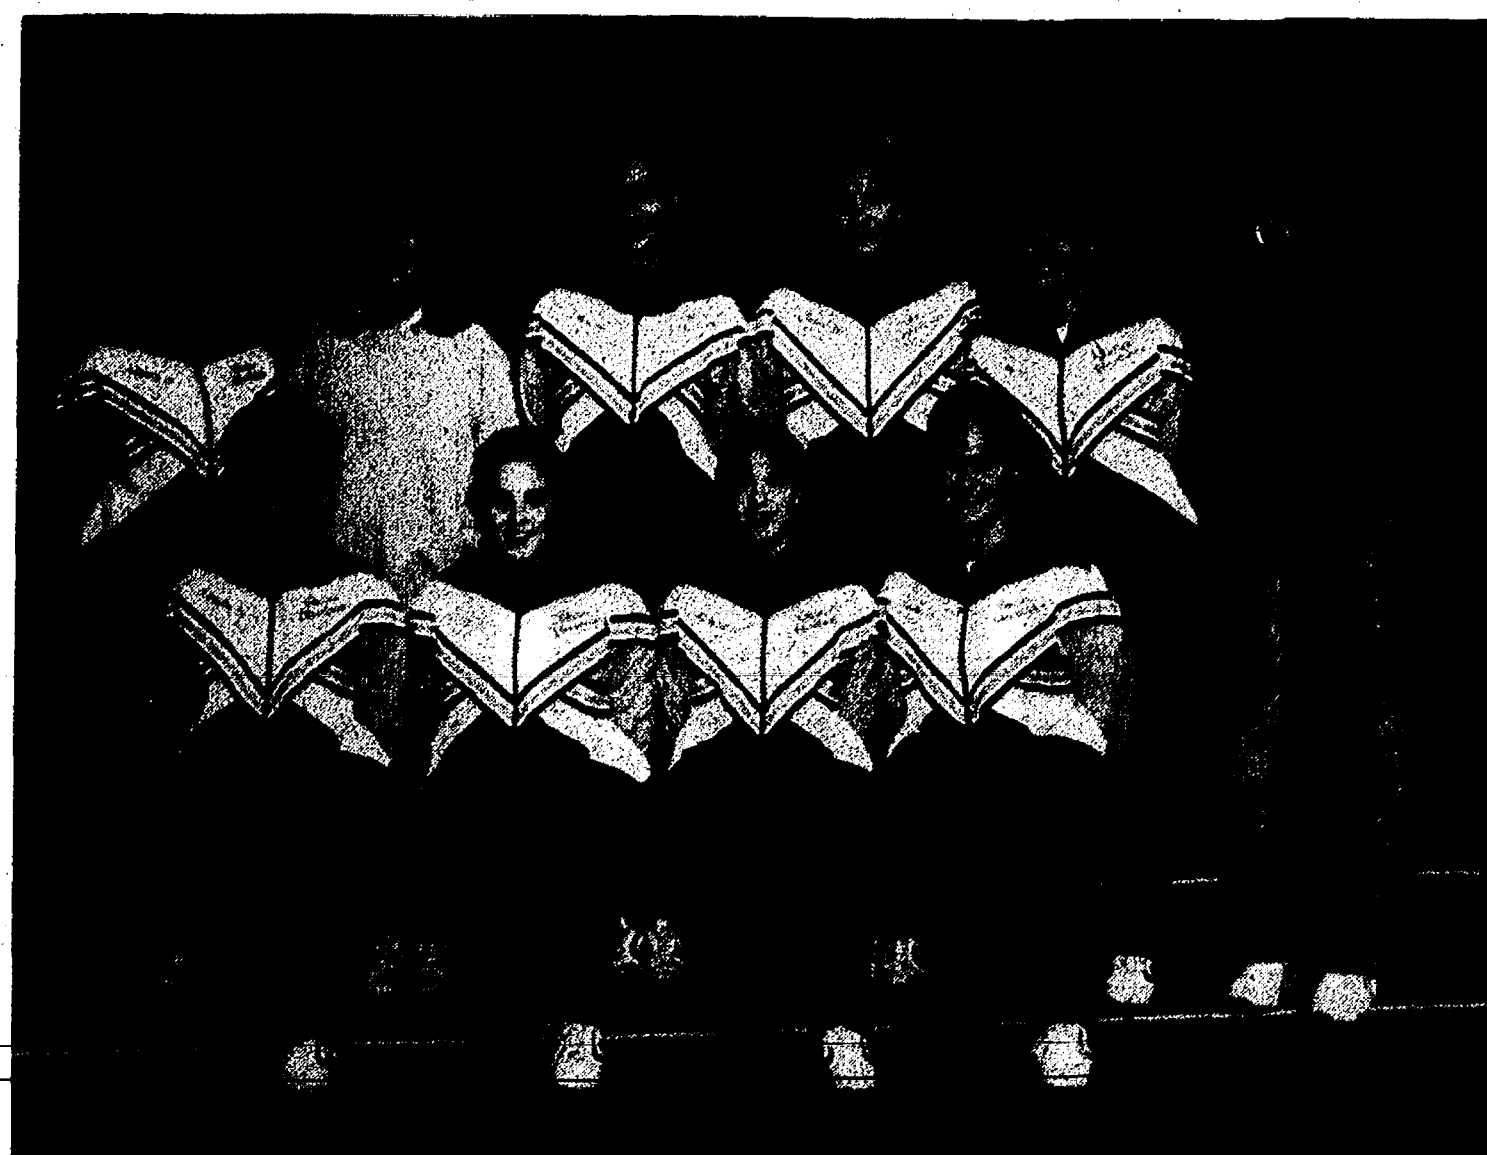

Erin Hack had a personal best of 57.95 in the 100 freestyle and Erin Baird dropped eight seconds in the 500 freestyle for a personal-best time of 5:38.62.

The 200 and 400 freestyle relay teams of Hack, Kelly Bowers, Baird, and Schmunk also had season-best times of 1:46.58 and 3:55.95.

Christie Lonskey also competed in diving and placed 23rd.

BETSY SCHMUNK set two Chelsea High school records at the state swim meet last week-end at Michigan State University.

Steele, Skelton, Montange Selected Football MVPs

Quarterback Pat Steele, wide receiver Colby Skelton, and linebacker Matt Montange were named Most Valuable Players for the Chelsea Bulldogs football team.

Steele, a three-year starter at quarterback, threw for 1,958 yards and 15 touchdowns as he completed 122 of 240 attempts.

Skelton, a four-year varsity player, led the team in scoring with 92 points. He caught 67 passes for 1,147 yards. He also had three returns of more than 65 yards for touchdowns.

Steele and Skelton held every Chelsea passing record.

Montange, a two-year starter, was the team's second leading defensive player in coach Gene LaFave's point system.

"These kids were great leaders," LaFave said of his MVPs.

"We were unsure at the start of the season about our leadership, but they were a great group. Matt was outstanding. He sometimes didn't get the recognition he deserved."

Senior Tim Wescott was named Most Versatile Player. Wescott punted and handled place-kicking duties, was a defensive back, and this year filled in at running back.

Inspirational Team Awards went to seniors Jay Westcott, a running back, and Ed Greenleaf, a noseguard. Both were injured much of the season but worked their way back to play in key games at the end.

"Both of them probably would have been first-team all-leaguers if they hadn't been injured," LaFave said.

"They worked very hard to come back."

Best Lineman awards went to seniors David Brock, Barry Anttila, and Matt Seitz.

"David was our best down defensive lineman and made a lot of big plays," LaFave said.

"Barry was a unanimous all-league selection for two years, and Matt was our best pure technical blocker. He played guard, tight end, and tackle for us."

Best Back awards went to Skelton, Steele, and senior split end Don Poppenger.

"Colby needs to give thanks for his great season to Donnie," LaFave said.

Poppenger was the team's second-leading receiver with 22 catches for 407 yards. On most teams, he would have been the number one pass catcher.

Football Most Improved Player awards went to seniors defensive end Rob Frost, lineman Matt Dymond, lineman Randy Hurst, and running back Gabe Bernhard.

"Rob went from not being a player prior to his junior year to becoming a starter through his dedication," LaFave said.

"Matt went from not playing much his junior year to being a solid player."

We felt we could run right or left. Randy had the best off-season in terms of dedication. He never missed a weight session. Gabe was a joy to coach and he improved dramatically. He carried much of the load because Jay got hurt."

Most Improved Player award given by the high school athletic department rather than the football program went to Poppenger and defensive end Eric Dougherty.

LaFave called Poppenger "one of the best athletes in the league," and Dougherty, "a fast, tough player and a fine kid who had a great year."

The Bulldogs finished the season with a 9-1 record, including their second consecutive undefeated regular season. They were Southeastern Conference undisputed champions for two consecutive years.

Eighth Grade Basketball Team Suffers Two Losses in Week

Beach Middle school eighth grade basketball team lost to Dexter, 36-31, and to Pinckney, 43-27, in games last week.

Dexter won last Monday's contest in Chelsea on the strength of a 12-7 fourth quarter.

"Although our effort showed tremendous improvement over last week, we were not able to maintain our intensity throughout the entire game," said Chelsea coach Jim Tallman.

Chelsea took a 12-6 lead in the first quarter, and held onto a 17-14 lead at half-time.

The Bulldogs shot 65 percent from the free throw line.

Chelsea scorers were Don Reilly 8, Matt Adams 6, Scott Basar 5, Rob Ellis 4, Justin Kivi 3, Nate Cooper 2, Chris Herter 2, and Sean Stickney 1.

At Pinckney on Thursday, Chelsea got off to a slow start and trailed 20-8 at half-time. The Pups scored 19 points in the second half but "we continually allowed Pinckney to score from inside," Tallman said.

Kivi led the Bulldogs with 10 points and "an outstanding effort," Tallman said. Other scorers were Ellis 6, Basar 6, and Reilly 4.

THIS YEAR'S CORN HARVEST has been much kinder to area farmers than it was last year. Yields are good, the price is the best it's been in years, but the test weight is a little low. Last year was a disaster and much of the corn was simply plowed under.

Area Corn Crop Rebounds From Disasterous 1992

At about the half-way point in this year's corn harvest, the local crop appears to be in pretty good shape, especially compared to last year, according to a local expert.

"Most farmers I've talked to say the yield is respectable," said Klaus Bachmann of Proviso-Big H in Chelsea.

"The price is the best it's been in several years, so most farmers should be able to make a little money."

Metropark Offices Collecting Toys for Christmas Program

Huron-Clinton Metroparks are serving as collection sponsors for the Toys for Tots program.

The program is conducted annually by the United States Marine Corps Reserve to serve needy children in local communities by providing new, unwrapped toys during the holiday season.

Anyone wishing to donate a new, unwrapped toy that has no violent connotations may drop them off at park offices or the HCMA Administrative Office from Nov. 19 to Dec. 17.

Donated toys will then be distributed to needy children in Wayne, Oakland, Washtenaw and Macomb counties by the 1st Battalion, 24th Marine Regiment.

Participating in the toy collection are Hudson Mills near Dexter, 426-8211, Administrative Office near Brighton, 227-2757, and Kensington near Milford/Brighton, 685-1561.

If calling long distance use the toll-free phone 1-800-47-PARKS.

Much of last year's corn crop was either harvested several months late (well into this year) or simply plowed under due to its poor condition.

Last year's test weight was about 45-47 pounds per bushel and the price farmers were paid was $1.85 per bushel.

This year's weight is about 50-51 pounds per bushel and Proviso is paying $2.60.

Time Nears To Register for WCC Winter Classes

Registration begins soon for Washtenaw Community College off-campus classes in Chelsea, Dexter and Manchester. The winter classes available offer many opportunities to residents. There are 59 courses offered at four different locations.

Classes range from Basic Mathematics and Interpersonal Communications to Principles of Accounting II and Intermediate Conversational Spanish. Anyone interested in continuing their education is invited to register.

Registration will be held at the following locations, dates and times for classes held in the Chelsea, Dexter and Manchester areas: Western Regional Center, 134 W. Middle St., Dec. 14-16, 4 to 8 p.m., Dec. 17, 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., Jan. 3-4, 4 to 8 p.m.

Advising services will be available for the Chelsea, Dexter and Manchester area students at the Western Regional Center Dec. 14-16, from 3:30 to 8 p.m.

For more information on classes offered in the western region areas, contact Mary Lou Rigg at 476-5935.

ing $2.60. A normal test weight is about 54 pounds.

Frost in September prevented the corn from reaching a normal weight, Bachmann said.

Bachmann said that this year's soybean crop has also helped farmers. Price paid is about $6.60 per bushel and the average yield is about 33 bushels per acre, which he said is a typical yield here.

Most of the corn purchased by Proviso goes to large feed mills in Delaware and Massachusetts, mostly for poultry feed.

A study by the U.S. Department of Agriculture shows that rapid population growth does not appear to threaten U.S. agriculture. The rate of farmland conversion to urban uses has not increased substantially over the past two decades and the total land in crops has remained almost constant since 1945. However, rural woodlands have declined substantially.

FIA/CSS Asks for Help with Donations During Office Hours

Since the founding of FIA/CSS community support has been outstanding and is the only reason we are able to provide services to those who are in need. Your support comes in many forms, including money, professional services, food, clothing and much, much more.

"We have a problem which you can help us solve," say FIA/CSS workers.

"Sometimes donations are dropped off after hours or on the week-end when no one is at FIA House. One result is that these donations often are ruined due to rain, snow or dew and because we have no means of drying or reclaiming them, they must be discarded."

This is very unfortunate in that they are unfit for distribution to people who could use your donation and because it costs FIA/CSS money to dispose of unusable material. Of course, that is money which could be used to acquire prescriptions, pay utility bills and meet other necessary expenditures.

It is sad to note that the Salvation Army and other agencies have found it necessary to close drop sites. Quoting from a recent article from the Associated Press, "The Salvation Army is pulling many of its collection boxes from 10 Midwestern states, including Michigan, because of the cost of removing garbage from them has risen too high." "Each site was costing the Salvation Army between $800 and $1,000 a month in dumping fees."

Obviously, FIA/CSS is not faced with expenses of that size nor has anyone dropped off garbage, but the fact remains, we need your help to be able to ensure you that your donation is always used to bring assistance to people.

Residents are asked to continue to donate but, please, only during the hours of 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday, unless you have called and made other arrangements.

Heart Health Screening Slated Tuesday, Nov. 30

A Heart Health Screening will be conducted by the Washtenaw County Health Services Group on Tuesday, Nov. 30 from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Participants will receive blood pressure and cholesterol testing, individual consultation about their results, and information on how to decrease their risk of heart disease.

The screening will be held at the Adult Health Clinic located in the Washtenaw County Human Services Bldg., 555 Towner, Ypsilanti. For more information, call 484-7200.

arm Bureau Chief Urges Government Respect for Property

Farmers, other landowners and entrepreneurs are confused and disturbed over the multi-fronted attack on property rights, according to the president of the state's largest farm organization.

"Property rights are a cornerstone for the historic success of American agriculture," said Jack Laurie, president of the Michigan Farm Bureau. "The federal government is vigilant in its defense of other civil rights and liberties. Why shouldn't the right to own and use property enjoy the same status? The Fifth Amendment says it should."

The American Farm Bureau Federation recently testified before Congress in support of H.R. 561, the Private Property Rights Protection Act of 1993. "The right to own and use property is guaranteed by the Constitution, as important as the right to worship, to free speech, to vote," said Laurie. "Yet, overzealous regulators interpret laws to suit their personal philosophies or to justify their existence. These unnecessary regulations are expensive, time-consuming and cause good people to have some bad problems."

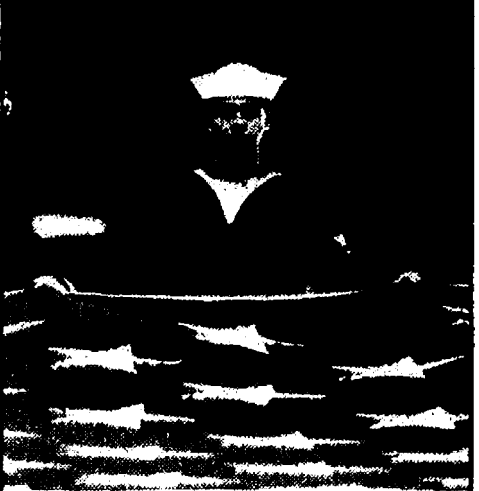

Laurie said federal agencies should have to consider the impact of government regulations on reducing the use of private property. Laurie said the goal of the bill is to minimize unintended takings and the resultant costs to the government to compensate landowners when such takings occur. "Under the proposed law, regulators will have to stop and think about the implications of their regulations," he said.

Local Woman Heads Design Team For Dexter's New Middle School

A woman born and raised in this area will head the project design team for Dexter Community Schools proposed new upper middle school.

Sarah Haselschwardt, a 1980 Chelsea High school graduate, is a design architect for Kingscott & Associates, the hired architect for construction of two new schools in Dexter.

Residents in Dexter gave the school district the go-ahead to construct a K-2 elementary school and 7-8 upper middle school after passing a $28 million bond issue Sept. 21. Kingscott & Associates was selected as the school's architect Oct. 18 when the school board bypassed its consultant Gröner, Inc. to award the contract to the Kalamazoo company.

Haselschwardt has been employed with Kingscott & Associates for seven years. She has contributed to school projects for Holt, Boyne City, Traverse City, Grand Rapids, Hamilton, Colon and Rochester. She was the lead design architect for Col- on Community Schools.

Haselschwardt says her favorite subjects while enrolled in Chelsea schools were art and math. She took those interests to a higher level when she enrolled in civil engineering at Lawrence Institute of Technology. However, a distaste for waste water analysis turned her head toward architecture. She said a dean at the in- stitute encouraged her to get into ar- chitecture. She graduated in 1988 and received a bachelor's degree in science. In 1988 she received her bachelor of architecture. She has been a licensed architect since 1988.

Haselschwardt said she didn't directly request to work on the Dexter school project, but was excited when chosen. "I was excited because it's kind of like going home again," she said.

Kingscott & Associates' staff of 40, including architects, engineers, interior designers and support staff, work on projects all over the state. Haselschwardt will head the middle school design team. A second team will design the elementary school. Altogether, about 16 to 20 employees of Kingscott & Associates will work on the two projects.

SARAH HASELSCHWARDT

Haselschwardt thinks growing up nearby has offered her some-what of an advantage in taking on this project. But she will also strictly adhere to Kingscott & Associates' work philosophy that calls for incor- porating the flavor of the town with in- put from school staff, administration and community when designing the school. She said she is approaching the project with an "open mind" in order to do "what's best for the com- munity."

The design phase of the proposed schools are still in the early stages. The architects have met with school staff, administration and members of the community to get their ideas on what should be encompassed in the project. Yesterday, Nov. 16, Haselschwardt and other project team members met in a brainstorm- ing session to piece together how classrooms and other spaces should be set up in relation to each other. The next step will be for the architects to return with a to-scale model and concept plan.

Haselschwardt's role in the project is one of planner and designer. She is charged with identifying needs in the building and coming up with a func- tional design. Once construction begins, she will be involved on a need basis only. A field representative will be on site at least once a week to con- duct progress meetings and to ensure the schools are built according to drawings.

Haselschwardt is the daughter of Howard and Agnes Haselschwardt of Chelsea. Her sister, Jeanne, and brother-in-law Wayne Welton also live in Chelsea. Wayne is the athletic director for Chelsea School District. Haselschwardt lives in a 100-year-old home in Kalamazoo—one of her pet projects.

When Dexter's school project is completed by fall 1995, Haselschwardt doesn't expect to be remembered for her personal input into it. "People don't remember architects. It's an added bonus if they do," she said. Haselschwardt just hopes the com- munity appreciates and enjoys the in- put process undertaken. However, she said, if she returns in five years and someone says they love the project, that is what is important to her.

Former Resident Relates Images of California Fires

Editor's note: The following description of recent fires in Califor- nia was written by former Chelsea resident Maya Ponte, who lives in the area.

I awoke in the morning and looked out my window. What I saw was the most beautiful sunrise in the world, the golden glow was shining on a giant cloud that looked as if it was reflect- ing a map of the earth, with hills and valleys and shadows. Half an hour passed by and the sun was now above the cloud, that's when I realized the cloud was actually a cloud of smoke. It was slightly brownish tinted, not pure white like real clouds. I remember how yesterday, when my grandma mentioned that a brush fire started in Thousand Oaks (the town next door) I hadn't thought much of it. But now I realized it was a big deal. The blaze had carried itself all the way to the ocean (which is an hour- and-a-half drive) and burned 300 houses. It's no wonder my dad called at 5 a.m. to see if I was alright. The fire was spreading to Simi Valley. And the winds were still blowing.

In school they announced a cancellation of the red ribbon rally that was supposed to be held at Simi High school. Instead, the high school had been designated as a Red Cross Center for fire victims. Then, in fourth hour there was a black out. Mr. Meyers was reading us the prologue to the Canterbury Tales, when poof! Everything went dark and people started cheering. Then good ol' Mr. Meyers whipped out a flashlight and a reading lantern and continued teaching. He's one weird guy. The black out lasted for the remainder of fourth hour (at least 30 minutes), but by the time lunch was over the lights were working again (damn).

After school I drove to Pasadena.

Winter tomatoes are often con- demned for being mushy and tasteless. But it's not all the farmers' fault. The Florida Tomato Committee says those green winter tomatoes need to be treated with tender loving care and not be refrigerated until given time to ripen properly.

CARD OF THANKS

A belated thank you to Lola's and our friends who gave us so much support and love during her short illness and since her passing. We can't tell you how much Lola looked forward to the mail and enjoyed the many cards and flowers she received, and we don't know what we would have done without all of you—especially Betty Emery and Rose Perlongo who came often to "straighten things up." Dorothy Fleming, Todd Mattie, Connie and Ben Powell (for so many thoughtful things), John and Clara Hollenbeck, Darlene and Jerry Boritzki who put us in touch with Rev. Mary Groty (a very special person), Alice Dreyer for her almost daily visits that meant so much to all of us, Nick and Dan from Stivers, all Lola's friends through Stivers who asked about her and sent cards, Joyce Spencer, Hank and Tyne Feeman, June Stein, Phyllis Stepp, the "guys" from Stivers who stayed over one day and made Lola so happy with their visit and lovely plant, Mike Kercher for the very touching letter Lola received on her last birthday, Guy and Ruth Stivers and Nina—for everything, her wonderful neighbors, Carol and Jack Vanschoick and Al and Muriel Jurgens, and our special friend Sharon McKinley who gave us our nights. We could not have made it through without the care and guidance of the special people associated with the Individualized Home Nursing Care (Hospice) of Ann Arbor and, later, just when we needed them most, the Livingston Community Hospice in Howell. A heartfelt thank you, also, to Mr. and Mrs. Mark Penzien of Hosmer-Muehligh Funeral Chapel for all their help and guidance (and the special effort to find Lola's song, "Young at Heart"), and to Dorothy Bates for organizing totally the luncheon put on by the American Legion Auxiliary and to all the women who donated food and their time in Lola's honor, and to Corinne at Washtenaw Memorial Park Cemetery for her help in designing a "special" memorial marker for our "Gramma Lo." A special thank you to the pallbearers (Lola requested both men and women, and we know this was particularly emotional for the women). Without all of you, and many others, this nightmare would have been even worse. We will always remember your kindness, love, and help through this very difficult time. Thank you from the bottom of our hearts. Randy, Adele, Michelle and Stephanie King.

Pilot Industries Makes Move to Acquire V-Tech Building, Property

A local business ranked one of Michigan's fastest growing companies has purchased the redemption rights of V-Tech president Dr. James Parker in an attempt to strategically take over the V-Tech building in the Dexter Village Business and Research Park.

In a swift move, Pilot Industries, Inc., successfully negotiated an agreement with Parker that could allow it to take the 56,000-square-foot building and 10.16 acres of land away from Ann Arbor Machine, which purchased the first mortgage subject to redemption about six months ago during a foreclosure auction by Comerica Bank.

Pilot president Robert A. Davis, a Chelsea resident, and other company representatives offered the Michigan Strategic Fund $180,000 for its second position mortgage and Dexter Village $10,000 for its third position mortgage after working out an agreement with Parker just weeks before the expiration of the redemption period. All parties must release their liens acceptable to Pilot's title insurance company and lender to complete the deal. The Michigan Strategic Fund and Dexter Village accepted the offers Thursday, Nov. 18. However, the offer isn't a done deal until all parties sign away their rights and are paid.

It looks like the village will come out a winner if the deal goes through. V-Tech was awarded a $500,000 loan through a Community Block Grant when it first came to the Business and Research Park. The village was allowed to keep the interest off of that, which could have amounted to about $180,000 if V-Tech stayed viable. However, with the foreclosure on V-Tech and Ann Arbor Machine's purchase of the first mortgage, the village would have received nothing. In fact, the village would have lost money in legal fees associated with the foreclosure. Pilot's bid allows the village to make up its loss.

The Michigan Strategic Fund's mortgage was reportedly worth $750,000; however, it would have also lost everything with the Ann Arbor Machine deal.

Both the village and the state also have the right to assert their redemption rights as mortgage holders. That is why Pilot is attempting to buy their rights.

If it goes through, the move means Ann Arbor Machine will be reimbursed by Pilot its $1.2 million paid for the V-Tech building and property. Pilot elected not to attempt to purchase the additional nine acres Ann Arbor Machine originally purchased with the first mortgage by not asserting those redemption rights. A Pilot representative called it a "good will" gesture at a special Dexter Village Council meeting held Thursday, Nov. 18.

Village manager Dennis J. White hopes Ann Arbor Machine will still bring its expansion to the village's Business and Research Park. He encouraged the council to send a letter to Ann Arbor Machine representatives to show its support.

Pilot currently has two facilities in Dexter, one on Grand St. and another in the Business and Research Park. Other sites are located in Chelsea, Grass Lake, Manchester, Troy and Indiana. Davis told the council Thursday night that the company has been looking at expansion sites in northern Michigan and Indiana, but prefers Dexter.

By its own description, the 16-year-old company is a progressive, customer-driven leader in the development and manufacturing of fuel vapor carrying systems, other fuel related components and miscellaneous automotive parts. It is capable in metal and plastic tubing, injection molding, electronics, CAD and research and development.

Pilot was ranked 68th in the eighth installment of the Michigan Private 100. Revenues have grown to $53.5 million in fiscal year 1992 from just $15.5 million in 1988.

Pilot expects to create about 150 jobs if its deal to acquire the V-Tech building and property goes through before the expiration of the redemption period, Dec. 3.

Fall Retreat . . .

Seventeen men took the Methodist bus to North Lake UM Church for Fall Retreat. The North Lake Church is a few miles northeast of Chelsea, and it is in a quiet setting of trees and lawns. We seemed to be away from the hustle and bustle of the CRC. There was an excellent large assembly hall for our use, and we thank the church people for the privilege.

Ray Brownell led us in an indoor track meet. All of the men took part in it. Among the events Jim Turner took honors with his whistle and Fred Venus, Fred Maitland and Marion Martin easily took the doubtful tie in a distance event by being named "big mouths."

Kate came along in one of the cars, and served coffee and tea in the church kitchen. Our lunch over with, we enjoyed singing old hymns, helped by Ray and Curt, Charles and Ron Brunger at the organ.

In the afternoon all of us had the chance to tell of their early lives, of their fathers and about anything that was in their hearts. Many told of those who influenced them in becoming Christians.

Fred Maitland ended the program with a talk of his early life and sketches of his missionary work in South America. Since his father had been a ship captain, he had a lot of experience as a sailor in voyages on his father's ship.

We owe many thanks to those who worked to make this a successful retreat: to Curtis Large, Dwight Brown, Charles Cookingham, Kate, and the bus drivers; as well as those mentioned already.

This called a "Retreat?" It was surely an "ADVANCE!"

The View from Here . . .

The fabric room has nice pieces of material, large and small. Also four ply and rug yarn, thread, bias tape, and a variety of other articles for sale. These items should be paid for by seeing Elsie Bradshaw, K-332, 475-9473. Money from these sales go to the Resident Council.

Elsie has recently been awarded a gold certificate from the Williamston chapter of the Eastern Star. This is presented to her for 50 years of membership and loyal service rendered to the chapter.

Florence Barber, director of distribution of flowers, has a good idea. At the rest stop near the nurses station on second floor, she left some small vases, with a note, near a large bouquet. It says: "Take a rose, and a vase. Bring vase back here." This is a very good way to get flowers to folks, and save Florence a lot of walking.

Most of us here love to have the birds here the year around so why not put up a bird house and put out a little food in the real cold weather. Some feathered friends might just decide to winter over with us.

Travelogue of Ireland . . .

On Saturday, Oct. 16, the residents of CRC enjoyed a picturesque travelogue given by Kearney Kirkby, consisting of his trip to Ireland and his stay there as an exchange minister.

We saw castles, pastures, cities and rural communities, and listened to Kearney's light-hearted commentaries.

The large audience was enthralled and would agree that the program was beautiful and well delivered.

Berniece Frederick.

Developers Say They Have 'No Plans' for Chelsea Area

Officials at GRP Development Corp. are saying that there are no plans for a major development on up to 2,000 acres in Sylvan and Lima townships.

More than a year ago, residents in the area bound by I-94, M-52, Freer Rd. and Sager Rd. received letters from Signature Associates asking them if they would be interested in selling their property. There was no indication what was planned.

However, recently Ypsilanti township officials were approached about a Great Lakes theme park project, which created a controversy. Developers said they had considered land in Chelsea, but abandoned the area due to the controversy.

However, last week a spokeswoman said "there are no plans" for the Chelsea area, although she did not say developers would not re-consider the area at a later date. She also did not say whether the theme park project is dead or whether developers are considering another site.

The spokeswoman also said that Washtenaw Development Council had not been notified of the possible change in plans. WDC worked with the developers as they were considering sites in the county.

A baseball rule in 1908 prohibited pitchers from soiling new baseballs.

New Calendar Features State Historic Landmarks

Michigan landmarks that played a role in U.S. history are featured in the wall calendar just published by Michigan History Magazine.

The 1994 calendar, "Cornerstones of Our Heritage: Michigan's National Historic Landmarks," spotlights landmarks across Michigan designated by the National Park Service as significant in the history and culture of the United States.

"Many Michigan residents can identify National Landmarks like the Alamo in San Antonio, Tex., and Rockefeller Center in New York City," said Secretary of State Richard H. Austin, Michigan's official historian.

"This calendar is a delightful look at some of the 34 sites that have attained national recognition."

Cornerstones of Our Heritage captures the state's rich heritage with large color photographs of the Michigan State Capitol, the Ford Motor Co. River Rouge complex, the Grand Hotel, the Calumet Historic District and nine other sites. Each month's featured photo is accompanied by brief historical notes and spacious date boxes. The calendar includes an introduction by Michigan State Historic Preservation Officer Dr. Kathryn B. Eckert.

The 14-by-22-inch calendar is available for $12.35 ($9.95 plus 40 cents sales tax and $2 shipping). Charge orders to Visa or MasterCard by telephoning 1-800-368-3703. Or, send a check or money order payable to "State of Michigan" to: 1994 Calendar, Michigan History Magazine, 717 W. Allegan St., Lansing 48918-1805. Allow three weeks for delivery.

"Cornerstones of Our Heritage" is the eighth annual wall calendar published by Michigan History Magazine. Founded in 1917, the nation's most popular state history magazine offers a contemporary look at Michigan's diverse past. It is published six times a year by the Michigan Department of State's Bureau of Michigan History.

The Department of State is the official state agency responsible for preserving, protecting and interpreting Michigan history. In addition to publishing Michigan History Magazine, the Department's Bureau of Michigan History administers the Michigan Historical Museum system; the State Archives of Michigan; and archaeology and historic preservation programs. The Bureau is supported in its efforts by the Michigan Historical Commission.

Representatives of school improvement teams from North, South, Beach and the high school were present at the meeting to update the board on activities in those buildings. All presenters were enthusiastic and very pleased with the progress being made and the active involvement and support of parents.

Meeting adjourned at 9:38 p.m.

U.S. farmers have put water quality practices into effect on over half a million acres of cropland under water quality projects initiated by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The projects reduce soil erosion and sedimentation, improve the handling of animal waste and reduce the application of nutrients.
