School Superintendent Killed, 2 Injured

Science Teacher S. Leith Charged With Open Murder

More than 1,000 friends, colleagues, and family members turned out Monday morning to pay their last respects to Chelsea School District Superintendent Joe Piasecki at St. Mary's Catholic church as Chelsea continued the process of trying to recover from tragedy.

Last Thursday afternoon, Piasecki, 47, was shot to death in his office as he, high school principal Ron Mead, 43, and Chelsea Education Association grievance chairman Phil Jones, 44, attempted to address a grievance filed by high school science teacher Stephen Leith. On Friday, Leith, 39, was charged with open murder, two counts of attempted murder, and three counts of using a firearm in the commission of a felony before Magistrate George Parker, whose wife, Judy, is a teacher at Beach Middle school.

Mead was shot in the leg, the bullet apparently shattering his femur. Jones also suffered less severe wounds and was back at school Friday morning.

The shots also exploded the school district apart," said CEA spokesman Joe Beard.

"You can't believe what a hole this has left. My job now is to do whatever I can to bring the district back together, get us focused, and get the new year started again in the right direction."

The crisis team, conceived by Piasecki, moved quickly into action on Friday. Nearly 100 counselors and social workers from 18 different agencies across the country donated their time. There were additional counselors at each school and there was one for each classroom at the high school. Eight restaurants, as well as Chelsea Community Hospital, donated food for the relief effort.

Chelsea Community Education Director Jeff Rohrer found himself in the unusual position as media spokesman as television crews and newspaper reporters from all over Michigan and even Ohio converged on the high school, thrusting the village of 3,800 into the national spotlight.

A community mental health meeting, attended by about 100 people, was held in the George Prinz Auditorium at the high school on Sunday afternoon as parents, teachers, and other community members asked Michael Murphy of the Washtenaw County Mental Health Department how to cope.

Slowly, more pieces of the tragedy have begun to surface.

According to Chelsea Police Chief Lenard McDougall, Piasecki, Leith, Mead and Jones were discussing a grievance filed by Leith, a 15-year teacher in the district, shortly after 3 p.m. At some point during the talks, Mead was pulled out of the meeting on another matter, and eventually Leith stormed out of the meeting, slamming the door behind him.

At about 3:45, Piasecki received a telephone call from Mark Jenkins, a teachers' union representative, warning him that Leith could be dangerous. Jenkins urged Piasecki and everyone else to get out of the building.

Piasecki apparently told Jenkins that although Leith left the meeting mad, he didn't feel in any danger. The call to Jenkins, at approximately 3:25 p.m. came from Leith's wife, Alice, who told him she worried her husband could "do harm." At 3:50, Leith came back into the administration building, cut just in front of assistant superintendent Fred Mills, who just emerged from his office, entered a few feet into Piasecki's office, and began shooting his 9 mm, semi-automatic pistol.

Mills pulled the fire alarm and a secretary called 911 as she laid under her desk.

McDougall said that according to witnesses, Leith fired at least four shots at Piasecki, which hit him in the upper chest. He turned and fired at Mead, who had returned from his other meeting, and Jones.

Then, McDougall said, Leith apparently walked around Piasecki's desk, while Mead and Jones, now on the floor, pleaded with him to stop shooting. They heard, he said, something that sounded like reloading. Suddenly, Alice Leith appeared in the doorway, and Stephen Leith allegedly raised the gun at her. After "several seconds" of pleas and talking, Leith lowered the gun and handed it to his wife. Police are not sure how the gun eventually wound up in a secretary's chair out in the hallway.

Stephen Leith then apparently sat down in Piasecki's office, while his wife, and others, attempted to help the victims. Jones, not sure whether anyone had called police, ran to the hallway to use the phone. On his way back into Piasecki's office, he encountered Stephen Leith, who told

SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS Joseph Piasecki suffered four shots to the chest and died late Thursday afternoon when Chelsea High school science teacher Stephen Leith opened fire with a 9 mm semi-automatic handgun. Apparently, Leith, Piasecki, English teacher and union steward Phil Jones and principal Ron Mead were in the middle of an informal grievance meeting involving Leith when Leith left and returned about 30 minutes later with the pistol. Leith was arrested in a classroom by Chelsea Police Chief Lenard McDougall after someone called 9-1-1. McDougall said Thursday night that Leith surrendered voluntarily. Leith's weapon was also recovered by police outside the administration offices.

Chelsea Police Co-ordinate Hectic Investigation, Arrest

Chelsea Police Chief Lenard McDougall admits that he had little experience dealing with a crisis of the proportion that hit Chelsea last Thursday.

Initially, McDougall thought he might find a very different scene than the one he encountered.

Just a few minutes earlier, the department had received reports that someone had fired a BB gun at the high school. The department received a description of a car involved.

Officer Norm Paton made a stop of the vehicle and got out of his car.

"Norm got out of his car and all of a sudden his portable radio decides to quit," McDougall said.

"Then suddenly we get a call that shots were fired at the administration building. And I'm asking 'where's Norm, we can't raise him' on the radio.

"I ran for the car and Dick (Foster) was with me. We headed toward the school, running our lights with no siren. We asked 'are you sure it's a real gun and not BBs?' By that time, dispatcher Tom Eder had received several other calls."

That call began the most hectic several days of law enforcement McDougall could have ask for.

When he arrived at the school, he was immediately pointed in the direction of suspect Stephen Leith's classroom. Foster covered the outside, and McDougall went in with his gun drawn and slowly walked through the deserted building. He assumed Leith was still armed.

Was he scared?
"You betcha," McDougall said. "But everything happened so fast that you really don't have time to be concerned about yourself."

Officer Paul Whelan recovered the handgun in the administration building. Foster took Leith into custody.

Chelsea Fire Department, Huron Valley Ambulance, and Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department all arrived on the scene.

McDougall co-ordinated the efforts of his department and the sheriff's department. Sheriff's deputies offered their services by asking what they could do. The Chelsea department was still the lead agency.

Sheriff's department provided "scene security" and tried to contact

Tribute to A Friend

We are here to mourn the death of my buddy, Joe Piasecki.

We are also here to celebrate his life and his dedication to principles of right and wrong that guided his every decision. We are here to celebrate the many accomplishments of his years as Superintendent and his all-too-short life. These include the Chelsea Education Foundation, the Substance Abuse Counselor position, the Chelsea School District Crisis Team plan, etc., etc., etc. We must all dedicate our lives to continuing his desire to improve the education of our youth.

Joe was not only a good Superintendent; he was also a good person. I mean good as in competent, excellent, morally correct, honorable, and genuine. He was a caring person who was involved with the students and staff not only because he was Superintendent, but because he genuinely loved and cared for all of us.

To paraphrase another leader who was killed during my first year in Chelsea—Ask not what your schools can do for you, but rather what you can do for your schools. For only as we work together as students, employees, parents and members of this wonderful community, can we provide a living memorial to the principles of excellence to which Joe dedicated his life.

God bless all of you and all of us as we work to right our listing ship.

Friend and Assistant Supt.

BARRAGED BY MEDIA, Chelsea Police Chief Lenard McDougall answers questions during a brief press conference held outside the Chelsea School District administration offices Thursday. Chelsea Police, Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department and the Michigan State Police were called in to process the crime scene where science teacher Stephen Leith killed superintendent of schools Joseph Piasecki and wounded principal Ron Mead. Piasecki, Mead and English teacher/union steward Ron Mead were sent to the hospital by Huron Valley Ambulance shortly after 4 p.m. It has been reported that a Michigan Education Association union representative for Chelsea, Mark Jenkins, phoned Piasecki to warn him about five minutes before Leith opened fire with a 9 mm semi-automatic handgun. Leith's wife, Alice, apparently called Jenkins to say she felt Leith may do harm.

Girl Scout Troops 777 and 719 are busy, working together on badges. That's normal. What isn't normal is the fact the members of Troop 777 are residents of the Chelsea-Methodist Home and the members of Troop 719 are second grade Brownies at South school. The troop leaders brought them together through a mutual desire to help another troop.

Despite a lengthy plea by two members of the Washtenaw Development Council, Village of Chelsea has voted to drop out of the organization. Village council voted 3-3 last Tuesday, Dec. 5 to pay the $2,212.24 membership fee for next year. A 4-3 vote at the previous meeting was also determined to defeat the motion as an unbudgeted expense was involved. Village council was not swayed by arguments that the services provided by WDC cannot be provided by any municipality, including Ann Arbor, for itself at a reasonable cost.

Gerry Reith was recently appointed Lyndon township treasurer to fill the term of Janis Knieper, who resigned. Gerry has lived in the area all her life. ### ★ MESSA: Insurance for Political Power

By Joseph P. Overton

In more than 300 of Michigan's 524 K-12 public school districts, health insurance for teachers and other school employees is administered by an organization whose costs are excessive and whose practices are secretive, coercive, and monopolistic. The result is scandalous public policy that obstructs the education of children and corrupts the political process.

That organization is the Michigan Education Special Services Association, better known as MESSA. It is a wholly-owned subsidiary of the Michigan Education Association (MEA)—the 127,000-member teachers' union and one of the most powerful lobbies in Lansing. The MEA pressures school districts to buy MESSA insurance; MESSA then pays the MEA for its "marketing" services, retains an unusually high administrative fee for itself from the premiums the schools have paid, and then turns the remaining funds over to the actual insurance underwriter, Blue Cross/Blue Shield of Michigan.

The secrecy which shrouds exactly how the public's school tax dollars are being used by MESSA is a byproduct of the MEA's political clout. As a heavyweight donor to legislative candidates and incumbents, it lobbies successfully against competitive bidding for teacher health insurance. It often threatens illegal strikes if school districts try to shop elsewhere for similar services.

Referring to the more than $300 million in health care premiums MESSA secures from taxpayers, the state attorney general's office stated recently that "It is certainly in the public interest that a little sunshine be allowed to illuminate the handling of that money." The Insurance Bureau has completed an audit of MESSA operations, but the public's right to know has been suppressed for weeks by a gag order. The MEA convinced Ingham County Circuit Court Judge James R. Giddings to prevent the Insurance Bureau's findings from becoming known.

An exhaustive 64-page report from The Mackinac Center for Public Policy identified several problems with MESSA that sooner or later must be dealt with by legislators and the Michigan general public. For example:

• MESSA's lavishly generous benefit plans, which cover most health-related expenses in full, are a major factor in soaring health care costs. The House Fiscal Agency reports that health insurance expenditures for state employees (whose benefits generally exceed those of their private sector counterparts) rose 289 percent in the 1980s, but health insurance costs for Michigan public school employees rose an astounding 801 percent.

With almost no deductibles or co-pays, and with minimal use of proven "managed care" cost-saving measures, MESSA insurance is choking funds from schools that might otherwise be spent for actual education. What's worse, MESSA sometimes changes health benefits without the consent of school districts who pay the bill, and steadfastly refuses to provide districts with claims information that would permit cost comparisons and competitive bidding with private sector firms.

• MESSA's administrative expenses are at least 13 percent of annual premiums, far higher than the typical 4 or 5 percent incurred by other third party insurance administrators. MESSA then pays millions of dollars—$8.2 million in 1992—for data processing and other services to another MEA subsidiary, the for-profit Michigan Education Data Network Association, or MEDNA.

The payments to MEDNA support vast computer resources and other services that provide the MEA with much of its organizational power and political muscle.

• The relationship between MESSA and its underwriter, Blue Cross, raises legitimate questions about anti-competitive practices. Blue Cross competes with MESSA, and serves as its underwriter at the same time. This unusual situation has caused some school district officials and MESSA competitors to call attention to the underwriter's preferential treatment of MESSA. That, plus the fact that the president of the MESSA board of trustees also serves on the board of directors of Blue Cross, would suggest strongly that MESSA's claim that it truly competes with Blue Cross to administer health benefits is a hollow if not deceptive one.

Surely, enough is at stake here to warrant a frank public discussion about MESSA and full disclosure of its financial and political dealings. A policy option that offers the best chance for beneficial change is one that exempts insurance and benefits from mandatory collective bargaining. School districts would then have the freedom to select insurance providers based on cost and merit, not political pressure. If MESSA is indeed the most efficient administrator of teacher health insurance, it doesn't need secrecy and MEA pressure to sell its product.

Does MESSA operate in the best interests of the general public of Michigan? That's a question that cries out for public attention and one which so far, the MEA seems determined to squelch.

(Joseph P. Overton is vice-president of The Mackinac Center for Public Policy, a Midland-based research and educational organization.)

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The clipping Ed Doolittle waved at the opening of the session at the country store Saturday night said a prisoner in Choctaw County, Alabama is suing the state for refusing to let him out on parole. The man has been behind bars since 1973, when he was sentenced to life for killing his wife. He wants $1 million in pain and suffering because he figures he already has served longer than life in prison time.

But Ed told the fellows the killer is taking a tack that is getting the attention of all kind of groups around the country. His wife was a member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, and he says the church is putting pressure on the state to keep him in jail. The convict allows that violates most of the Constitution, including separation of church and state and most especial his right to liberty and pursuit of happiness.

Before we laugh this case off, Ed said, we need to look at it up one side and down the other, including the part where it goes before a Federal jury. There's no end to the surprises that come out of these things, was Ed's words.

For instant, he went on, not long back a Federal jury in New York City give $600,000 to 15 convicts because the prison violated their freedom of speech. It is true there always can be what Hitler called extenuating circumstances when he invaded Poland, Ed said, but when you run into decisions like this you can't help but be reminded that verdicts great and small are made by people to dumb to get off jury duty.

The fellows were full agreed with Ed that crime and punishment ain't worth using in the same breath nowadays. Clem Webster read where the North Carolina Department of Corrections recent discovered a man that killed four people in a shopping mall has been drawing state disability payments in a prison hospital six years because the jury decided he was temporary insane at the time of the crime. He gets free room and board, buys the latest in stereos and exercise equipment and general lives the life of Riley. He has not asked about parole.

Practical speaking, Bug Hookum allowed, administrative goofs are everywhere. For him, Bug said, a item in the recent promotion of reinventing Government put the stopper in the jug. He read where Vice President Gore wants the Internal Revenue to honor all major credit cards. It will be so easy and so painless, Bug said, for Americans to go in debt to support a Government that Gore says is going in debt at the rate of $12,000 a second.

Bug said we go at everything with the aim of treating the pain, instead of the cause of the pain, partly because we're never sure which is which. Bug read where a 10-year study of 128,000 people found that the more coffee you drink the less likely you are to commit suicide. Where is the pain and the cause here, Bug ask. If you don't get your morning caffeine fix you might blow your brains out. Or after 12 or so cups you're so shaky you can't hold the gun.

Clem said that instead of looking for ways to excuse ourselves from causing our own pain, we need to face reality like the fellow that said the only things in this world he's afraid of are wim-men, fire and tornadoes, because he knows sooner or later one of em will get his house trailer.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

The Promise of Christmas

There was a promise for each of us left under the tree of life almost 2,000 years ago.

The promise was withheld from no one.

Some have left it unclaimed.

Some have failed to remove the wrappings.

Some have opened and received it.

— ut for each of us the promise reads:

"For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life" (John 3:16).

It is God's promise to all who gladly receive His Son:

"But as many as received Him, to them gave He power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on His name" (John 1:12).

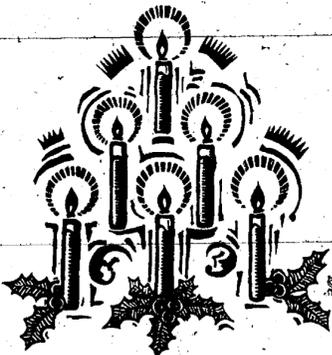

It is the promise of Christmas for you and us.

Gift Buying Tips For The Holidays

• WARRANTY: Before buying the best of the best, check the length of the warranty. If you plan to purchase a high priced product for a long time, a longer warranty is a good idea. Some manufacturers offer a "lifetime" warranty, but this usually means the product is covered for the life of the manufacturer, not the consumer.

• REPUTATION: Buy from a well-known manufacturer. A well-known name usually means a long history of quality products and a reputation for customer service.

• RETURN POLICY: Check the return policy. Some manufacturers offer a "no questions asked" return policy, which is a good sign.

• PRICE: Don't be fooled by a low price. A low price may mean a low quality product. Compare prices at different stores to get the best deal.

• SALES: Many manufacturers offer special holiday sales. Take advantage of these sales to get the best price on the products you need.

School, Community Tries To Cope With Tragedy

Chelsea Police

any witnesses. They also provided expertise on what interviews could be done, as well as the autopsy report. "The sheriff's department might have five or six of these a year, so they have quite a bit more expertise," McDougall said.

Much of the rest of the school year will be dedicated to trying to overcome the shock, disbelief, grief, and even practical matters surrounding the murder of school superintendent Joe Piasecki and wounding of high school principal Ron Mead and teacher Phil Jones last Thursday.

"There's no way you can predict the kind of shock that will result," said Michael Murphy of the Washtenaw County Department of Mental Health at a Sunday program at Chelsea High school.

"You just have to try to put the pieces back together."

A comment Monday by assistant superintendent Fred Mills was indicative of the mood of the community.

"You just don't think something like this can happen," he said.

Murphy said it's important to provide the opportunity for people to be with each other and "talk things through." Sunday, people expressed concern for the emotional health of Piasecki's closest associates, his family, other district teachers, and students who trusted and admired accused murderer Stephen Leith and now "feel betrayed." One woman also said Leith's wife, Alice, another district teacher "is very loved and is a remarkable role model." A round of applause was given to assistant superintendent Fred Mills, who not only lost a good friend but has suddenly become acting superintendent.

Several people praised him for his response to the crisis.

The district's crisis team plans to meet next week to determine what kinds of programs or help should be available for both students and staff once school begins again in January. A community memorial service will be scheduled some time after the first of the year. It will be designed especially for those who couldn't attend or felt out of place at the funeral.

The school board will also have to decide what the timetable will be for finding a new superintendent. It's also unclear whether wounded principal Ron Mead will have to miss any school.

The healing process began last Friday as school was held as usual. Nearly 100 counselors and social workers from 18 agencies donated time at Chelsea High school, as well as the three other schools in the district. Volunteers came from University of Michigan Hospital, Chelsea Community Hospital, Huron Valley Child Guidance, Washtenaw County Health Department, Washtenaw County Mental Health Department, V.A. Hospital, COPE, University of Michigan Family Practice Center, Washtenaw County Child and Family Services, Washtenaw Intermediate School District, Chelsea Ministerial Association, Manchester Ministerial Association, and Ann Arbor, Dexter, Willow Run, Manchester, and Saline school districts.

"Everybody really pulled together," said community education director Jeff Rohrer.

"The crisis team knew exactly who to call."

Jones returned to school on Friday, less than 24 hours after both being wounded and witnessing a murder.

"It was important for me to be here for the staff and students of the high school," Jones wrote in a statement read by Rohrer on Friday.

"Both groups have been extremely warm and supportive in this trying time. Everyone involved is a victim and should be viewed as such by people across the country. Handshakes and hugs really help at a time like this."

"They helped with things we might overlook."

Captain Robin Wright was assigned to be the liaison with the press, although McDougall showed up in most of the numerous televised reports.

Michigan State Police provided the detailed analysis of the crime scene. They photographed and videotaped the entire contents of the room, and tried to re-create what happened and determine the trajectory of the bullets. They took off wall paneling and took doors apart. All evidence goes to the state lab.

McDougall worked through the night on Thursday, leaving only long enough "to take a shower and try to wake up."

Adorn holiday tables with memorable yuletide treats

Early Americans often used fruit as table decorations. Since fresh fruit was often unavailable, edible imitation fruits, such as marzipan, were acceptable substitutes. Following this traditional recipe for marzipan strawberries, first used by the Pennsylvania Germans in their Christmas celebration, is a delicious and easy adaptation that uses pecans and coconut instead of almonds.

MARZIPAN STRAWBERRIES

"Take a pound of Jordan Almonds, blanch them and beat them in a Marble Mortar very fine; then put to them three Quarters of a Pound of double-refined Sugar, and beat with them a few Drops of Orange-flower Water; beat all together till 'tis a very good Paste, then roll it into what Shape you please; dust a little fine Sugar under it as you roll it to keep it from sticking."

Ingredients

- 3 3-ounce packages of strawberry-flavored gelatin
- 1 small can flaked coconut
- 1 cup pecans, finely chopped
- 1 can sweetened condensed milk
- Red granulated sugar
- Slivered almonds
- Green food coloring

Mix gelatin, coconut, pecans and condensed milk together and refrigerate for 24 hours. Form into strawberry shapes about 1 1/2 inches long. Do all of the shaping and then roll each one in red sugar. To make strawberry leaves, soak almonds in green food coloring. Separate slivers to dry. Insert two slivers into the top of each strawberry. Makes about five dozen confections.

Police Arrest Science Teacher

him he'd be in his classroom. Leith then walked to his classroom.
McDougall and Det. Dick Foster arrived on the scene less than two minutes after the initial 911 call, and officer Paul Whelan was right behind them.
McDougall asked the receptionist, who was outside by the locker area, who the suspect was and what he was wearing. She pointed him toward his classroom.
McDougall entered the science building gun in hand, while Foster secured the outside. The chief "worked slowly" toward Leith's room and eventually entered it, where he found Leith seated at a student's desk. Leith acknowledged McDougall's presence without looking at him.
When he was satisfied Leith was unarmed, "I told him to go to the blackboard, and he walked like normal," Leith, who McDougall said didn't appear to be nervous, was in custody less than 10 minutes after the initial 911 call.
Meanwhile, Chelsea Fire Department rescue workers, as well as other police from the village and the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department had arrived on the scene. Nine bullet shells were recovered from the office and an empty magazine was found under Piasecki's desk. When the gun was recovered, it had nine rounds in the magazine and one in the firing chamber, McDougall said.
Since the arrest, Leith has not spoken to police. His wife, Alice, also is not talking. However, it has been revealed that Stephen Leith has been under a psychiatrist's care and has been taking the anti-depressant Prozac. The drug has come under criticism for its alleged ability to cause violence in some people. However, a court has never upheld the "Prozac defense."
A preliminary examination for Leith has been set for Monday.
Police plan to interview every one of Stephen Leith's 120 students to see whether they noticed anything out of the ordinary.
"So far all we've come up with is that he hadn't assigned homework and Leith always assigned homework," McDougall said Sunday.
A search of Leith's Liebeck Rd. home turned up seven guns. All the handguns were registered with the Chelsea Police department, McDougall said. No other evidence was seized at the house, but some papers and other items were taken from his classroom.
Piasecki came to the Chelsea School District in 1988 from Breckenridge. He had previously served at West Bloomfield High school, St. Mary's

Every American Wants A Safe Blood Supply.
Here's What We're Doing About It.

- 1 THE AMERICAN BLOOD SUPPLY IS constantly and thoroughly tested.
- 2 BLOOD BANKS HAVE ADDED FIVE ADDITIONAL SCREENING TESTS for infectious diseases since 1985 to increase safety. Seven separate screening tests are now conducted on each unit of blood donated, including tests for AIDS, hepatitis and syphilis.
- 3 THE U.S. DOES NOT ALWAYS HAVE AN ADEQUATE SUPPLY OF BLOOD. While protecting it against infectious diseases is of primary concern, maintaining an adequate supply of safe blood has become increasingly important as donors receive more scrutiny.
- 4 BEFORE DONATING BLOOD EACH DONOR IS ASKED MULTIPLE QUESTIONS about high risk behavior that would disqualify donations.
- 5 STERILIZED NEEDLES USED TO DRAW BLOOD ARE NEVER REUSED. There is no risk of AIDS or other infectious diseases when donating blood.
- 6 AS AN ALTERNATIVE TO BLOOD TRANSFUSIONS, today a growing number of people benefit from autologous/self-transfusions.
- 7 HEALTHY AMERICANS ARE ENCOURAGED TO GIVE BLOOD TO GIVE BLOOD for the 4 million people who depend on blood transfusions each year.

 Others Present: B. Roberts, B. Bliss, B. Shepherd, M. Wonderly, D. Rosentreter, B. Hamilton, L. Poley, J. Frank, D. Bulson.
 The first order of business was public participation and there was none.
 Motion by Dorer, supported by Hammer, to approve the Consent Agenda. All Ayes. Motion carried.
 President Steele presented a Certificate of Appreciation to Dan Rosentreter, Water Superintendent, on behalf of the Village of Chelsea and the Council for his work related to the water ground storage tank. These activities resulted in considerable savings for the Village.
 Certificates of Appreciation will be presented to Cecil Clouse, Bob Walker and Carl Hoopingarner, employees of the Landfill for their extra efforts during the landfill closure.
 The Western Washtenaw Recycling Authority moved its meeting to December 1, 1993 and will meet in Manchester at 7:30 p.m.
 Motion by Merkel, supported by Rigg, to remove from the table the Industrial Park Marketing.
 Motion by Hammer, supported by Cashman, to approve the Industrial Park Committee to serve as marketing agents for the Industrial Park on a trial basis for a period to begin January 1, 1994 through December 31, 1994. All Ayes. Motion carried.
 Motion by Hammer, supported by Dorer, to remove from the table the Proposal from Ayres, Lewis, Norris and May, Inc., regarding a water rate study and preparation of plans and specifications for construction of an elevated water tank.
 Motion by Merkel, supported by Hammer, to accept the proposal of Ayres, Lewis, Norris and May, Inc., for a water rate study and plans as well as specifications for construction of an elevated water tank for an amount not to exceed $8,500.00 for the rate study and $17,000.00 for the elevated water tank. Ayes: Cashman, Hammer, Merkel, Dorer, Rigg, Steele. Nay: Daut. Motion carried.
 Mr. Lincoln Poley, Architect, presented preliminary information gathered during his Space Needs Study analysis. Mr. Poley will complete concluding remarks within the next few weeks and will provide a complete study to the Council at that time.
 Village resident Jackie Frank mentioned that the Council should check into the Historic District Committee regarding pertinent ordinances in effect.
RESOLUTION FOR EQUITY IN RECYCLING ASSESSMENTS
 WHEREAS, all residences of the Village of Chelsea are charged a special assessment for recycling services from the Western Washtenaw Recycling Authority each year for five years starting January 1, 1991 and ending December 1, 1995, and
 WHEREAS, all new residences in the Village of Chelsea will receive the same services during this same period, and
 WHEREAS, reassessing the Village to cover new residences is a costly proposition and an ineffective use of recycling funds, and
 WHEREAS, the costs for providing the service to each new residence is equivalent to the current yearly assessment, and
 WHEREAS, a fair and equitable solution for uniform assessment to each residence must be developed to support the recycling services,
NOW, BE IT HEREBY RESOLVED that as of the date of adoption of this resolution, all new residential construction permits shall be assessed a charge of $30.00 per residential-unit per year remaining of the original five year special assessment per the following schedule:

Permit Issuance Year	Recycling Assessment
1993	$90.00 per unit
1994	$60.00 per unit
1995	$30.00 per unit

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that all residential units currently under construction as of the date of adoption of this resolution shall be assessed a fee of $90.00 per unit prior to receiving an occupancy permit and that Washtenaw County's Building Department will be asked to assist by requiring proof of payment prior to issuing the occupancy permit.
THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED that these monies be forwarded to the Western Washtenaw Recycling Authority on a quarterly basis.
 Motion by Daut, supported by Rigg, to adopt the above Resolution. All Ayes. Motion carried.
 Motion by Hammer, supported by Cashman, to adopt the Resolution Regarding Senate Bills 814-821, The High Voltage Transmission Certification Act. All Ayes. Motion carried. (Resolution attached as Appendix A.)
 Motion by Merkel, supported by Rigg, to table the Dangerous Building Ordinance. All Ayes. Motion carried.
 Motion by Hammer, supported by Daut, to establish a March training meeting for Planning Commission, Zoning Board of Appeals, and Council Members and alternates which will be conducted by Mr. Wyckoff, AICP. It is the view of the Council that all members of these groups should attend this meeting and that they should consider the meeting essential. The trainer, Mr. Wyckoff will be paid an amount not to exceed $1,000.00 for all fees and expenses. All Ayes. Motion carried.
 Motion by Hammer, supported by Cashman, to approve another three year term for Mrs. Ann Feeney and Mr. Robert Merkel to the Downtown Development Authority. All Ayes. Motion carried.
 Motion by Merkel, supported by Dorer, to adjourn regular session. All Ayes. Motion carried. Meeting adjourned—8:40 p.m.

Suzanne C. Morrison, Clerk.

CHELSEA UNITED WAY DEDICATES CAMPAIGN TO PIASECKI: At a special meeting on Friday, Dec. 18, the Chelsea United Way Board dedicated their successful campaign to Joseph Piasecki. Piasecki, serving as president, was instrumental in the group's meeting their 1993-94 goal by raising over $104,275 for their local campaign. The local campaign focuses on the needs of Chelsea organizations and operates with a volunteer board of 20 community leaders. Piasecki was dedicated to this concept of local people supporting local needs. Five years ago, Piasecki was instrumental in setting up the Chelsea Crisis Intervention Plan. He, along with other board members, also made the Chelsea Help Line possible by providing major funding for the program.

Ironically, these were two of the major organizations ready to help the Chelsea Community overcome the tragic loss of Piasecki. Piasecki had been nominated for re-election as president for next year. The Chelsea United Way will miss Piasecki's unselfish commitment to the Chelsea community and have dedicated the year's campaign to his memory. Participating in a dedication ceremony at the thermometer Friday were, left to right, Blake Thomson, John Rutherford, Dennis Bauer, Jim Birchler, Jan Toli, Ed GreenLeaf, Dennis Petsch, Howard Holmes, Anne Poston, John Mann, Tom Huettelman, Lou Ann Eder, Francie Wheeler, Allen Cole, Daphne Hodder, Bill Chandler, Sue Craig, and Jan Knott.

Faith in Action Plans Christmas Day Dinner

On Christmas Day there are many people who wake up having to face the day with unhappy prospects of being alone and lonely. Perhaps this results from being away from family or, maybe, no longer having a family.

them and many of our community family on Christmas Day at St. Mary's Parish Center on Congdon St. beginning at 1 p.m. If you can, please call Nadine at 475-3305. After 12 noon on Dec. 22 call 475-8193.

Whatever the cause, the feelings are the same; a sense of isolation from the rest of our community at the very time when others are making merry in the hustle and bustle of laughter, music and joy. It is true we can feel alone even if in a crowd. We may feel somehow different if ignored as others go rushing past us.

Invite a neighbor or friend to come along. If you need a ride or if you need a dinner brought to you because you can't leave home, just call and let Faith in Action know.

Faith in Action has called it a Christmas Dinner but it is in truth a Family Dinner and time of being together, of fellowship. The idea is to be a time and a place of sharing. Sharing food, yes, but also a time of sharing that unique feeling of family love at the Holiday Season.

The Faith in Action annual Christmas Dinner has become a tradition in our community bringing to all who attend or work an equal feeling of family joy.

It is made possible by the devotion of the many who plan, recruit help, acquire food, prepare it and generally see to it no one is turned away going away hungry in body or spirit.

Let's Go Bulldogs!

Bulldog Cagers Storm Past Milan, 74-43

Chelsea Bulldogs overcame a 12-2 deficit in the opening minutes to defeat the Milan Big Reds, 74-43, at home last Tuesday.

Friday's game at Lincoln was postponed.

"Milan came out real excited and we weren't playing with as much intensity as usual," said Chelsea coach Robin Raymond.

"Once we got a little momentum, our intensity picked up and we outscored them 40-11 the rest of the half. From there, we just tried to stay focused, work on some things, and not let the game get out of hand."

By half-time, the Bulldogs led 42-23, and they extended the lead to 63-31 by the end of the third quarter. Half way through the third quarter, Raymond pulled his starters for good. Everyone but senior starter David Stimpson scored for Chelsea, who was in foul trouble most of the game and fouled out early in the second half.

Chelsea's man-to-man defensive pressure helped to cause 24 Milan turnovers and held the Big Reds to 27 percent shooting from the floor.

Senior Rob Davis had his best all-around game of the season, Raymond said, as he had a team-high 19 points and nine rebounds, to go with two steals and three blocked shots. Pat Steele added 10 points, Colby Skelton, Nick Brink, and Chad Brown each had nine, Cory Brown scored five, James Diesing scored four, Case McCalla had three, and Scott Colvin, Dan Wehrwein, and Bryndon Skelton each had two points. Steele had two three-pointers, and Davis, Brink, and Chad Brown each had one.

"Chad Brown has really been a pleasant surprise," Raymond said. "He was four for four from the field, and had seven rebounds and six assists, and no turnovers."

Chelsea shot 43 percent from the floor, 68 percent from the line, and out-rebounded Milan 48-44. Sixteen assists figured in the Bulldogs' 28 baskets.

"I thought we did our best job so far in moving the ball consistently," Raymond said.

"We were looking to make the extra pass. We're still putting everything together but one of the most positive things is we're 3-0 and we haven't come close to firing on all cylinders yet. Also, I could not have asked for more from our younger kids. They have played well and their passing has been a joy to watch."

The Bulldogs sit on top of the Southeastern Conference with a 2-0 mark. They get back into action on Tuesday, Jan. 4 at Manchester.

7th Grade Cagers Finish Season With Win Over Milan

Chelsea was defeated by Pinckney 20-15. An ice cold shooting first half was Chelsea's downfall as they made 1 out of 16 field goal attempts and scored only 4 points. Chelsea played good defense and out-rebounded Pinckney this time but the shots just would not fall in the first half.

Rebounding: Sam Compton 8, Marc Helms and Drew Henson 6, Dan Seward and Aaron Ruhlig, 3 each.

Steals: Anthony Arnold, Rourke Skelton and Dan Seward, 1 each.

Points: Compton 6, Henson 4, Brian Groesser and Rourke Skelton, 2 each, Helms 1.

Chelsea defeated Milan in a close game, 27-23, to end the season, 8-2.

Rebounding: Henson 8, Matt Knight and Compton, 4 each, Arnold and Helms, 3 each, Justin Fusco and Groesser, 2 each.

Steals: Knight 3, Groesser 3, Ryan Cook and Henson, 2 each, Matt Freeman 1.

Jump Balls: John Carter and Groesser, 1 each.

Assets: Ruhlig 2; Groesser, Knight, Tony Spencer, Seward, and Vince Scheffler, 1 each.

Points: Cook 7, Knight and Henson, 5 each, Fusco, Groesser, Ruhlig, Freeman and Helms, 2 each.

All these young players plus Mike Holloway who was injured, completed this fine season.

Celebrate New Year's morning with an orange velvet—a blend of orange juice, milk and crushed ice—a tasty wake-up for tots, teen-agers and adults.

JV Cagers Lose Contest To Milan

Chelsea Bulldogs junior varsity basketball team lost to the Milan Big Reds last Tuesday, 59-51.

Chelsea fell behind 11-3 in the first quarter but rallied to take a 22-21 lead by half-time.

"Despite a poor first quarter, we came back with our best quarter of the year," said Bulldogs coach Dave Quilter.

"For the third game in a row, a poor third quarter gave the game to the opposition. We let up defensively and give up too many easy points after we work to get the lead. We do well and have improved in some areas, but we really have to get better individually and as a team, defensively, to be successful."

Quilter praised the play of Sam Morseau, who scored eight points, had eight steals, 12 rebounds and three assists. Ashley Coy had 11 rebounds and five steals.

Leading Chelsea scorer was Josh Bernhard with 14 points. Other scorers include Dan Johnson 6, Kevin Holmes 5, Kevin Cross 3, Shane Miller 2, and Jeff Sarna 2.

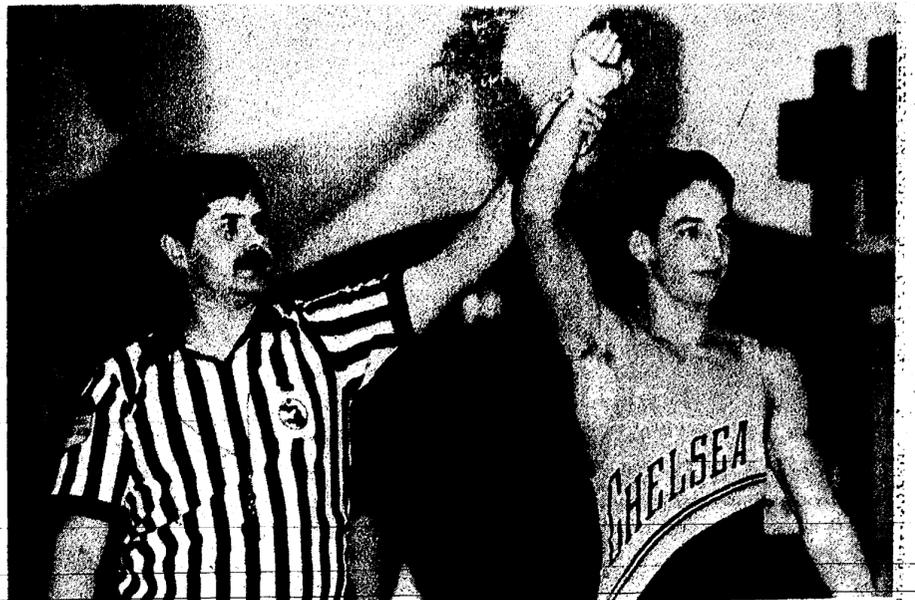

Chelsea out-rebounded the Big Reds 37-18 and led in steals, 19-9. But the Bulldogs hit 17-53 shots from the field compared to 25-55 for Milan. They also sank 14-20 free throws compared to 9-20 for Milan.

Ski Equipment Stolen from Shed

Several hundred dollars worth of snow ski equipment was stolen from a utility shed at a Wilkinson St. home.

The resident didn't know exactly when the theft occurred because the equipment hadn't been used since February.

Stolen were boots, goggles, socks, and other accessories.

RAY HATCH, wrestling at 112 pounds, was undefeated in four matches last Saturday at the 16-team JAWS Invitational. John Bobo at 160 pounds also was undefeated in the meet.

Wrestlers Take 5th in Invitational

Chelsea Bulldogs wrestling team took fifth place at the 16-team Jaws Invitational at Jackson High school last Saturday.

The Bulldogs defeated Jackson County Western (CW), 38-26, Jackson (J), 65-10, and Jackson Lumen Christi (LC), 39-27, but lost to Brooklyn Columbia Central (CC), 42-32, and Addison (A), 55-12.

"It wasn't bad considering we had several freshmen and sophomores in the line-up," said Chelsea coach Kerry Kargel.

Ray Hatch at 112-pounds and John Bobo at 160 pounds were Chelsea's only undefeated wrestlers.

Hatch defeated Josh Videto (CW), 10-4, Greg Shehan (CC), 10-6, Brandon Buzzard (A) by pin in 1:33, and Aaron Kwiatkowsky (LC) by pin in 1:30. He also won by void to Jackson.

"Ray looked good," Kargel said. "It was nice to see some spark from one of the younger kids."

Bobo pinned Jim Biessel (CW) in

3:36 and Mark Russell (CC) in 1:03, before earning a 6-3 decision over Bob Therrn (LC).

At 103 pounds, Matt Tuttle beat Chad Valentine (CW), 17-1, pinned Ben Marshall (CC) in 1:13, and pinned Mark Stewart (LC) in :38, but lost to Jake Marken (A) by pin in 2:24, and to Burt Romney (J), 6-4.

"Matt's doing a fine job, especially for someone with not much experience," Kargel said.

Dan Alber went 4-1 at 119 pounds. He defeated Aaron Dodd (CW), 4-0, pinned Jeff Mertz (CC) in 2:51, won a technical fall over Aaron Daniels (J), and pinned Curtis Allain (LC) in :28. He lost to Kip Conan (A), 13-1.

At 125 pounds, Ben O'Connor lost to Todd Carrol (CW), 15-1, was pinned by Dan Lewis (CC) in 1:19, was pinned by Jamie Brown (A) in 1:13, and pinned Chris Long (LC) in 2:18.

At 130 pounds, Matt Delong lost to Adam Johnson (CW), 22-10, and was pinned by Jamie Lupo (CC) in :32, and Mike Pott (A) in 3:55.

At 135 pounds, Ryan Ludwig went 2-2 as he faced two state qualifiers from a year ago. Ludwig was pinned by Brian Van Blaricum (CW) in 1:03, defeated Dave Thomas (CC), 16-1, lost 8-6 in over-time to Cory Corbin (A), and pinned Jerome Brougham (LC) in :43.

Freshman Mike Alber had a tough day at 140 pounds. He lost to Jesse Breten (CW), 7-5, Justin Vaughn (CC) by pin in 2:27, Randy Mates (A) by pin in 1:11, and Andy Hudecheck (LC), 15-5.

At 145 pounds, Jamie Holzhausen recorded pins over Marvin Totts (J) in 4:50 and Randy Ploske (LC) in 5:26, after being pinned by Eric Dulen (CW) in 1:08, Mike Russell (CC) in 4:37, and Terry Stubleby (A) in 1:18.

At 152 pounds, K.C. Harr pinned Mike Wadsworth (J) in :56. However, he was pinned by Perry Warner (CC)

SPORTS NOTES

BY BRIAN HAMILTON

"Getting nervous yet?" Joe Piasecki asked me, flashing a broad, but somehow slightly devious smile. Yes, I was getting nervous and he knew it. By the minute, the smile was growing broader.

We were on our way to the state cross country championships in Grand Rapids last fall. Both the Chelsea boys and girls had qualified and there was a chance for at least one state title. Piasecki was sitting opposite me in athletic director Wayne Welton's van. Principal Ron Mead, basketball coach Robin Raymond, and fan John Bohlander were also along for the ride.

"Just think, you could have come all this way and the race could be over before we get there." And that smile, again, and this time, a little chuckle. An oral joust to the ribs. This was a side of the superintendent that I rarely saw during the course of our usual business.

We had gotten there early, then made the mistake of going out for breakfast. By the time we drove back to the main entrance, the line was a mile long. We knew we'd never get in on time for the start of the first race. And that's when Welton, along with human radar machine Raymond, who was riding front right, decided to improvise. Welton drove past the line, took a right, and under my breath I said, "Oh, no." That's when Piasecki began that disarming smile.

Somehow we made it. We had made several turns, and suddenly Raymond said "turn here" up some small, two-lane road that wasn't on the map. This time my "oh, no" was a little louder and Piasecki started to laugh.

"What's the problem, Brian? Think we're lost?" A couple of minutes later, there was the starting line, about 50 yards off the road. We were about five minutes away from the start of the race. By this time, Piasecki's smile threatened to wrap clear around his head as he watched me fidgeting in my seat.

"Now that wasn't so bad, was it?" he asked me, almost laughing, knowing full well my head was spinning in a reporter's anxiety. I gathered up all my photo equipment and moved quickly to the course. Piasecki was right behind me. It was clear he wanted to see the race as much as I did. Throughout the afternoon, he was cheering the racers on, yelling encouragement to each one individually. At the completion of each race, he speculated and agonized about the outcome as much or more than any other Chelsea fan. And I remember wondering that day how many school superintendents were spending their day off at a cross country meet.

In the five years I had the privilege of knowing Joe Piasecki, we discussed every issue imaginable concerning the Chelsea School District.

I remember that he was hard-nosed when it came to matters of discipline. In fact, in the extremely difficult issues, he was all business. He rarely cracked a smile, tended to talk quickly, and sometimes in a monotone, which could lead the casual observer to believe that he had little humanity. Even in photographs, he always looked to me as though he was about to go to war. He fought doggedly for his beliefs and for his district.

He was passionate about all sorts of causes and issues. He was founder of the Chelsea Education Foundation, which has really begun to flower in the last year or so. He had started a similar organization just before he left Breckenridge to come to Chelsea. He was extremely active in the Chelsea United Way, this year serving as its president.

He loved politics and his hobby of collecting political campaign buttons and paraphernalia. I remember him calling to thank me for a story I'd done last year about his extensive collection. Turned out, a number of people gave him campaign buttons after reading the story, and he was thrilled that so many people seemed to care. I even gave him an old "Dukakis For President" flying disc made of carpeting.

He gave presentations to classes about his hobby. He also took a group of students to the presidential inauguration in January, with the side mission of trying to find more campaign buttons.

Piasecki fought, as much as any superintendent can, for adequate financing for the Chelsea schools. He was an activist on the issue, staying regularly in touch with legislators. He took part in discussions in Lansing. He was, in my mind, the most convincing and effective panelist in the fall forum on school financing held here by the education foundation.

However, I will remember Joe Piasecki not so much for his grasp of the issues, or the programs he began or was involved in, or even his sincerity, honesty, and sense of fairness. I will remember him most as Chelsea's Number One Fan. There was nothing he loved more than to be where kids were in the spotlight. He turned out for everything—sports and otherwise—and he thoroughly enjoyed it.

I will also remember that broad smile and those good-natured barbs he threw because they revealed the man that was always lurking beneath the businesslike administrator.

Kids, especially high school kids, sensed the warmth, knew how Piasecki felt about them and how much he wanted them to succeed. They knew he was their biggest booster. That makes the loss even harder to accept.

It will be impossible for me not to think of this winter during home basketball games. He had his favorite spot along the north wall where he stood and watched and cheered. I always had the feeling that he never sat in the stands because it wasn't close enough to the action.

If I had to describe Piasecki's evolution here, it would be this. When he arrived in 1988, he was in love with his job. When he left so tragically last Thursday, he was in love with his community.

It's tough to say good-bye to the man I will always remember as Chelsea's Number One Fan.

RICHARD NEEF of North Lake, Gregory, bagged this eight-point buck with an 18 inch spread north of Chelsea on Saturday, Dec. 11. This was his first year of hunting with a muzzle loader. Richard is recuperating from heart surgery in March.

Local Students Named Members Of Lee Honors College at WMU

Three area students were among 276 freshmen who were named new members of the Carl and Winifred Lee Honors College at Western Michigan University.

Charles Huff of Dexter, Kristi Ostling of Chelsea and Shane Wright of Grass Lake, who have demonstrated a strong enthusiasm for living and learning, represent the largest entering class in the 31-year history of the honors college. They have excelled academically in their high schools and displayed commitment to their schools and communities through an impressive list of extracurricular activities and volunteer service.

Measures of their outstanding academic achievement include an average high school grade point average of 3.85 and a composite average aptitude score of 27.3 on the American College Test. Honors freshmen have won recognition as National Merit Finalists and as recipients of awards from the American Chemical Society and Phi Beta Kappa.

According to WMU, these 276 freshmen students have recorded achievement beyond traditional academic skills by participating in high school sports, musical organizations and journalism as well as community service projects. The freshmen have been involved in city orchestras, elementary school tutoring, beauty pageants, teaching Sunday school and Students Against Drunk Driving. One of these freshmen was selected to attend the National Young Leaders Conference in Washington, D.C., another was a member of the Mid-American Pom Pom All Star Team, a third competed in National History Day and placed first in the state of Michigan, and many have participated in state-supported conferences for the development of technology or citizenship.

This outstanding group of students joined 700 other academically talented undergraduates who are current members of the Lee Honors College in taking courses this fall," said Dr. Joseph G. Reish, dean of the Lee Honors College.

These new members are taking advantage of the facilities in the Lee Honors College building dedicated in 1990 and funded through private donations. The building includes administrative offices, seminar rooms, a lounge and a resource center. Perennial gardens encircle the building.

In each of their first two years at WMU, honors students take a group of three courses clustered around common themes, issues or problems such as "Science and Technology," "Explorations in Multiculturalism" and "Looking into Nature and the Outdoors."

"The cluster concept encourages students to explore relationships among various disciplines, to write, speak and think across the curricula, and to build a student learning community among the 25 students enrolled in each cluster," Reish said.

As juniors and seniors, honors students take one interdisciplinary college seminar each year that examines critical issues within the fields represented by a particular college of the university. A senior capstone thesis or project will require these students to prepare or present a paper or performance that is typical of professional work in their major field. Upon completion of the academic program of study, students will graduate from the Lee Honors College with special honors in their major discipline. Their official university transcript will note this distinction.

This freshmen class began submitting applications in October 1992. They were admitted to the honors college based on outstanding high school achievement and aptitude as measured by the GPA and ACT scores and also were evaluated by the quality of an essay, their participation in co-curricular and community activities and academic recommenda-

County Deputies Report Dexter Township Boy Caught Making Bomb, Other Local Incidents

Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department deputies investigated a number of incidents in Dexter Village and Scio, Webster, Dexter, Lima and Sylvan townships Nov. 20- Dec. 15.

Dexter Village
A gun was recovered on Baker Rd. near Grand St., Dexter, from a 17-year-old boy Dec. 11. Deputies at the sheriff's substation received a phone call about a local boy stealing a shot gun from Walkabout Creek Apartments and hiding it at Forest Lawn Cemetery. Deputies checked the area where the informant said it was hidden, but found nothing. They followed up by contacting the suspect and telling him to hand it over by 4 p.m. that day. The boy agreed to meet them at the Baker Rd. location. He told the deputies that he found it near the pool at the apartment complex.

Larceny was reported in the 3000 block of Broad St., Dexter, Dec. 14. A 44-year-old male resident told police a chain binder worth $35 was stolen from his trailer.

James F. McNutt, 29, of Pinckney was arrested after a deputy was dispatched to release a vehicle from General Towing on Dexter-Chelsea Rd., Dexter. The deputy confirmed McNutt was wanted on a warrant and arrested him.

Scio Township
Larceny from a motor vehicle was reported at the Ann Arbor Acura car dealership on Jackson Rd., Scio township. The service manager told police four tires and rims were stolen off a 1994 Hyundai that was parked in the back of the lot. The items are worth $800. They were stolen with a car jack Dec. 14.

A 63-year-old Pinckney man was arrested for drunk driving on Baker Rd. near Shield Rd., Scio township, Dec. 12. Deputies stopped the man in his vehicle for speeding 64 mph in a 40 mph zone. After deputies noticed signs of intoxication they asked him to perform some field sobriety tests, which the man failed. He was taken to the Ann Arbor Police Department for a breath test, which revealed an illegal .14 percent blood/alcohol level.

Malicious destruction of property was reported at Scio Farms Estates on Jackson Rd., Scio township, Dec. 12. A 40-year-old female resident told police someone damaged the screen to her daughter's bedroom window and wrote graffiti on the side of the trailer. Damage is estimated at $260. Attempted breaking and entering was reported at Jobo Industries on Jackson Rd., Scio township, Dec. 9. An employee said he was called to the site after the alarm was activated. Upon arrival, he found a broken window and called police. Damage is estimated at $300. No entry was gained.

Webster Township
Larceny was reported in the 8700 block of Scully Rd., Webster township, Dec. 14. A 61-year-old female resident told police a license plate was stolen from her vehicle between Dec. 13 and Dec. 14. The plate number was entered into lien.

Dexter Township
A 14-year-old township boy is accused of possessing and manufacturing an explosive device at his home in the 2200 block of Weber Rd., Dexter township. A sheriff's deputy was asked by his parents to come talk to him because the boy was experimenting with harmful chemicals, including potassium nitrate. The boy's father told the deputy that his son had also tried to obtain battery acid and charged marks had been found on the garage floor when he and his wife would return home after leaving him alone. The deputy was called in as a scare tactic by the boy's parents, but once the explosive materials were discovered it became clear that it was a criminal matter. After a search of the boy's bedroom by his parents, a bomb with an attached fuse was found along with other materials, including pipes. The parents were told the boy's bedroom, the bomb and bomb-making material are part of the crime scene with the bomb and its materials being evidence. The Michigan State Police bomb squad was called to deactivate the bomb and collect the evidence. The boy was told he would be charged with a crime, but could remain in the custody of his parents until the investigation is completed.

Larceny was reported in the 9900 block of Huron River Dr., Dexter township, Dec. 15. A 66-year-old resident told police she thought her granddaughter's ex-boyfriend stole five trunks full of antiques from her attic. The woman said the 20-year-old suspect helped her move the trunks from her basement to the attic sometime in June. Just recently, she went up to the attic to retrieve some items in the trunks. When she did, she discovered two trunks missing and the other three were empty. Police are looking for the man, who has changed residence several times since the incident. The woman said many of the antiques are from the early 1900s, and were passed down through her family.

William M. Deck, 24, of Dexter was arrested on Dexter-Pinckney Rd., Dexter township, Dec. 12. He was originally stopped because his vehicle didn't have a plate light. A lien check revealed two bench warrants from Ypsilanti and Westland called for his arrest.

Lima Township
A runaway was reported in the 9700 block of Scio Church Rd., Lima township, Dec. 9. A 38-year-old male resident told police his 14-year-old daughter left without permission in a blue, Ford Ranger. He asked police to look for her in Dexter. After a search, deputies entered the girl's name and description into lien.

Sylvan Township
Breaking and entering was reported in the 19000 block of Sibley Rd., Sylvan township, Nov. 20. A female homeowner told police thieves kicked in the door to her residence, stealing $900 worth of merchandise, including a compact disc player, discs, a shot gun, tools and other items. The incident happened between 8 a.m. and 12:30 p.m.

A stolen ATV was recovered on Cavanaugh Lake Rd. near Musbach Rd., Sylvan township, Dec. 5. A 15-year-old boy, who was out riding with his friends all night long, was caught by police after they were dispatched to the location for an accident report. Apparently, however, the ATV had just broken down. He told police the ATV belonged to someone named "Tim" but couldn't remember his last name. An ATV was reported stolen Dec. 4 from a home on Boyce Rd., which is close to where the boy resides. Police impounded the ATV, and contacted the boy's parents about the incident.

Everybody's Science

★ Fresher Tasting Orange Juice, Via Computer

By Doris Stanley

What is in fresh orange juice that makes it "taste just right?" Scientists now have the answer in a computer.

As a result, the precise mix of flavor components that makes up orange juice's fresh taste can be stored in a computer program the citrus industry can use, say U.S. Department of Agriculture scientists.

"We earlier identified, for the first time, a mix of 20 flavor components found in fresh orange juice. Now we have developed a computer program that shows the proportions of these components in orange juice products," reports Philip E. Shaw, a chemist with USDA's Agricultural Research Service.

"This computer program can help citrus processors determine how close the quality of their juice is to that of freshly squeezed orange juice," Shaw says. "Also, it can show processors which flavor fractions to add to their juice products to more nearly match the taste of fresh orange juice."

Shaw and colleagues at the ARS Citrus and Subtropical Products Laboratory in Winter Haven, Fla., analyzed the four types of commercial, 100-percent orange juice products, in carrying out the flavor research.

"No-Lick" Stamps Just In Time For "St. Nick"

(NAPS)—Just in the "Nick" of time, the U.S. Postal Service is unwrapping new holiday-themed postage stamps that don't need a licking to keep on sticking. Bringing convenience to holiday mailing are four colorful and contemporary 29-cent self-adhesive stamps—featuring a toy soldier, snowman, reindeer and jack-in-the-box—which are available at post offices nationwide to put a festive accent on all holiday correspondence.

Self-adhesive stamps cost consumers the same as traditional postage stamps and require no added moisture—consumers simply peel the stamps off their backing and affix them to envelopes and packages, making it even easier to send seasons' greetings to loved ones. In addition to the holiday stamps, the Postal Service also offers self-adhesives featuring the "Red Squirrel," "Rose" and "Eagle" designs.

"The holiday season is always filled with hustle and bustle—especially at the post office," says Ann Robinson, Consumer Advocate, U.S. Postal Service. "This year, by offering customers our beautiful Christmas contemporary stamps in both the self-adhesive and gum-back varieties, we're bringing convenience and choice to our holiday offerings."

The U.S. Postal Service's first self-adhesive stamp, a Christmas "dove" design, was issued in 1974. Sixteen years later more self-adhesive stamps were issued, among them the "American Flag" in 1990, the "Liberty Torch" in 1991 and the "Eagle" in 1992. Consumer response to self-adhesive stamps has proved that they are eager to use this non-stick stamp variety.

Questions of Why Still Unanswered

The murder of Chelsea superintendent Joe Piasecki has left a host of unanswered questions, many of which will probably be answered during the course of a trial, if there is one.

Reports have indicated that Piasecki, the accused Stephen Leith, high school principal Ron Mead, and Chelsea Education Association Grievance Chair Phil Jones were meeting about a grievance filed by Leith. Chelsea Police Chief Lenard McDougall said "it was some sort of disciplinary hearing, and Leith was grieving it." Other reports indicated it was about a supposed second personnel file being kept about Leith.

CEA spokesman Joe Beard said that "contractually, administrators cannot keep two personnel files." However, he said, it's not uncommon for administrators to keep personal notes about various employees that are not included in the official record. Beard would not talk about specifics of the case.

"Our lawyers have asked us not to talk about it," he said.

Beard said the situation had been "going on for quite some time," and that the union had planned to take the matter to the board of education in January. There is a well-defined grievance procedure, but the meeting was called to see if the matter could be resolved before it went to the board. A board hearing is one of the final steps.

There have also been published reports that female students had filed sexual harassment complaints against Leith. It is not clear whether that issue was part of the grievance.

Alice Leith, CEA vice-president, has apparently not said why she chose to warn Piasecki about her husband indirectly through the Michigan Education Association. She could very easily have told Piasecki directly.

"I think I know why she did it, but I don't really want to comment on it," Beard said.

McDougall speculated that "maybe she felt it would carry more weight" if Piasecki was warned through the MEA.

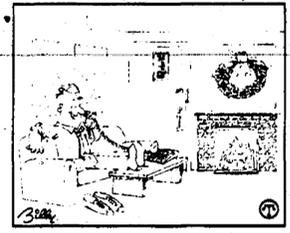

Another school district official speculated that she didn't want to get her husband in trouble over something that she didn't want to believe could materialize.

The MEA official who warned Piasecki, Mark Jenkins, was very familiar with the grievance, Beard said.

"It's not clear what was so threatening that would cause Leith to react violently."

Phone Home For Free For The Holidays

(NAPS)—For many travelers, if being home for the holidays is not possible, calling home may be the next best thing—especially if it's free.

Free long-distance phone calls—up to $10 per stay, applicable to calls charged to the room—are what the nation's 183 Residence Inn by Marriott hotels are offering guests who pay for their stay with the American Express Card between November 24, 1993 and January 2, 1994. Special holiday rates, ranging from $39 to $79, are also available between November 24, 1993 and January 16, 1994 at participating hotels.

All Residence Inn hotels offer spacious suites, each featuring a fully-equipped kitchen and many including fireplaces. Complimentary daily continental breakfast and weekday hospitality hours are standard, as is free grocery shopping service. For reservations and information, call (800) 331-3131.

Relationships During Recovery Discussed in Drugs Abuse Lecture

Chelsea Community Hospital is sponsoring a free community substance abuse lecture "Relationships and Bonding in Recovery" in the Hospital's Main Dining Room on Thursday, Jan. 6 at 7:15 p.m.

The lecturer is Fred Prezioso, therapist at Chelsea Arbor Treatment Center and Alcohol and Drug Consultant at the University of Michigan Medical Center in Ann Arbor.

The lecture will describe how relationships are distorted as a person develops an increasing dependency on alcohol or drugs, and how healthier relationships can be achieved in recovery.

For more information call the Chelsea Arbor Treatment Center, 475-4100.

The first transatlantic airline passenger service began in 1939.

DONATIONS TO FIA are sometimes ruined by well-meaning generous people who contribute items for others. This happens when they leave merchandise after hours in the open spaces unprotected from bad weather. Once the material has been wet by fog or rain or snow it must be disposed because Faith in Action has no facilities to dry and reclaim the items. Above photo shows many items ruined by such action. Faith in Action appreciates the contributions and needs them, but please observe the posted hours, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Traumatic Stress Reactions Should Be Considered Normal

The aftermath of a traumatic event often leaves those affected with reactions that can be unsettling. This is a particular concern for people directly exposed, who may experience emotional, and physical changes, and recurrent thoughts of what they saw, heard or did around the time of the tragedy.

So explained Chelsea psychologist, John Deikis, who met with high school faculty and staff in several stress debriefing meetings Friday following the shootings at the district administration building.

Flu-like physical symptoms, memory and concentration problems, short-term changes in behavior or activity level, and a wide range of emotional reactions are normal and expected responses to trauma exposure. However, not everyone responds in the same way. The danger, stated Deikis, is that exposed people or their families will pretend they have no negative reactions or that the reactions are a sign of weakness or "going crazy."

Mentally re-living a traumatic scene, recurrent dreams, and difficulty sleeping are the most common reactions and are temporary for most persons. Talking about what happened, what was seen, said, heard and done, helps people get it out and get it over with, according to Dr. Deikis. That is the purpose of critical incident debriefing, a technique originally used with fire, police and emergency service personnel. "Scrubbing the wound before it scabs over" and then telling people what kinds of reactions to expect as normal is how Deikis describes it. Persons without the opportunity to process their experience with someone are at greater risk for suffering more prolonged reactions, called post-traumatic stress disorder.

The following information is provided for family and friends of persons who may have been in direct contact with the recent tragedy or who seem to be especially hard hit by what has happened. Be willing to listen carefully; encourage the person to tell you what they are thinking or feeling, but don't badger them; spend time with them but give them a chance to be alone as well; don't take their anger or other feelings personally; don't tell them they are lucky it wasn't worse—traumatized people are not consoled by such statements. Instead, tell them you are sorry over what has happened. Redirect statements reflecting irrational guilt or responsibility by gently stating "You did exactly what you needed to do with the information you had available to you."

Persons needing more information or assistance are encouraged to call counselors at Chelsea Community Hospital, 475-3948, the SOS Helpline, 475-0111, their local pastor, the counseling department at Chelsea High school for the names of local professional volunteers willing to help.

Enjoy all the sounds of this Holiday Season

Don't miss out on what's happening to Aunt Bess or nephew Jim's promotion, stay in tune to your family's good times.

Area Students Named To Northwood University Dean's List for Fall

Teresa Curtis of Dexter and Robin Fleck of Manchester have been named to the Dean's List for fall term at Northwood University. The announcement was made by Dr. Catherine Chen, Dean of the college.

Teresa Curtis is the daughter of Carolyn and William Curtis of Dexter. Robin Fleck is the daughter of Shannon and Daniel Fleck of Manchester.

To achieve Dean's List recognition, students must earn a 3.0 grade point average on a 4.0 scale.

Agricultural scientists have discovered that a chemical released by plants when caterpillars begin to feed can be used to train wasps to remain in an area and protect the plants. The plant "distress call" is a combination of volatile chemicals that parasitic wasps use as a beacon to lead them to caterpillars that are eating the plant.

★ Uncommon Tree Yields Tasty Fruit

By Marcia Wood
 Orange or red berries brighten mountain ash every fall, making them a colorful sidewalk or backyard tree. Usually, their berries are too bitter to eat.

But a little-known type of mountain ash yields delicious, round fruits that are about the size of a small peach. Known as Sorbopyrus, it's a cross between mountain ash (Sorbus) and pear (Pyrus), says Kim E. Hummer of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

This unfamiliar tree is one of more than 60 different kinds of mountain ash from around the world that Hummer safeguards. She is curator for a Corvallis, Ore., gene bank that she manages for USDA's Agricultural Research Service.

Tasty Sorbopyrus fruits, says Hummer, may boost the tree's appeal for backyard planting. At Corvallis, the fruit ripens in mid-August—its speckled, pale-yellow skin tinged with a red blush. Inside, the yellow flesh has the "sweet, mild taste of a pear," she notes.

Sorbopyrus is an oddity which originated before 1810, probably in Europe, explains Joseph D. Postman, who works with Hummer at the gene bank. "The hybrid has never been widely grown for its fruit, perhaps because it takes a while to begin bearing. But it would be right at home in a backyard or in the collection of an amateur fruitgrower."

He says the hybrid is "a great conversation piece. It confounds even botanists and horticulturists. People look at the leaves, the branches and the fruit, and say 'What the heck is this?'"

Since 1986, the Corvallis gene bank, officially known as a "National Clonal Germplasm Repository," has been a source of this hybrid for backyard fruitgrowers as well as for breeders and nurseries. Several nurseries sell the tree.

Woman's Club Meets Dec. 14 for Christmas Dinner

Members of the Woman's Club of Chelsea gathered for Christmas Dinner at the Chelsea Community Hospital Dec. 14. Surrounded by holiday greens and candlelight, members enjoyed a delicious dinner of their choice. Seasonal favors adorned the table.

An enjoyable program of cello duets was presented by Rebecca and Jessica Flintoft, members of the Chelsea High School Chamber Symphony Orchestra. The program concluded with a medley of Christmas carols and sing-along by those present. By mutual agreement, in lieu of a personal gift exchange, gifts were presented for community Christmas purposes of Faith in Action/Social Services.

This delightful occasion was planned and arranged by the committee: Dorothy Mielke, chairperson, Cheryl Schoenberg and Margaret Boehm. Welcome and greetings were extended by the president, Lois Moore, and the evening was extended as all lingered for fellowship and seasonal greetings.

The next meeting will be at the McKune Memorial Library at 2 p.m. Jan. 25, when JoAnn Walter, director of McKune Library, and Mary Green, president of Friends of the Library, will present the program on "McKune Memorial Library—Past! Present! Future!" Guests are welcome.

For further information, call 475-3019 or 475-8743.

Car Stolen From Orchard Residence

A car was stolen from a residence on Orchard St. sometime Sunday night, Dec. 12.

The vehicle, a 1988 Pontiac, was parked in a driveway. It was not locked.

Police later recovered the vehicle at Four Mile Lake. It had been run into a tree. Police said the steering column had been damaged. So far, there are no suspects.

A Letter to the Community From the Board of Education

The Chelsea School Community has suffered a great loss.

Last week our superintendent, Joe Piasecki, was taken from us in a tragic event. This is a loss for our entire community. Our thoughts and prayers are extended to all the families involved.

Our community started the healing process on Friday when our teachers put the welfare of students before their own personal grief and provided support and caring. Their valiant efforts were augmented by nearly 200 counselors, community volunteers, parents, clergy and local business people.

Meetings led by Michael Murphy, director of Prevention Services for Community Mental Health, were held for the community on Sunday and for the school staff on Tuesday. Further meetings will be planned as we identify needs and resources. We understand that there are people in the school community who may need counseling assistance. Help is available through SOS Crisis Center, 475-0111. The Chelsea Community Hospital also has emergency services available at 475-3960. The CARE program is available to school employees. The school's crisis intervention team will be meeting to plan for school re-opening on Jan. 3, 1994.

The Chelsea School District will also plan a memorial for Mr. Piasecki and details will be announced as they are finalized.

Community members who have comments or suggestions are requested to call the Board of Education

Palmer Is Low on Police Cruiser Bid

Palmer Ford-Mercury was the apparent low bidder to supply a new cruiser to the Chelsea Police Department.

Palmer's bid of $13,427 barely beat a bid of $13,437.83 submitted by Buff-Whelan.

or Community Education: Joe Redding, 475-1117; Jan Roberts, 475-3615; Richard McCalla, 475-2216; Sandra Merkel, 475-1824; Conrad Knutsen, 475-0142; John Eisenbeiser, 475-7220; Jane Diesing, president, 475-2341; Community Education, 475-8830, Jeff Rohrer.

The Board of Education would like to thank the staff, parents, community and surrounding areas for their support and assistance during this sad and stressful time.

By the year 2000, many companies with older workforces may find that their aging, higher-paid workers make them uncompetitive. This will be particularly true of companies in slowly growing industries or ones in which productivity is defined by production systems rather than by worker knowledge or skills, according to "Workforce 2000," a U.S. Labor Department publication.

Thanks to you, loyal patrons.

Season's Greetings

Play the market right and you could lose it all.

You could lose things like extra weight! High blood pressure. And high blood cholesterol levels. The very things that contribute to heart attack and stroke.

All you have to do is invest wisely at the supermarket. Buy more in the fresh produce, pasta, breads and cereals sections. And purchase fish, poultry and lean meats instead of fatty or processed meats.

Switch to low-fat dairy products and margarine. And check the nutritional listings on food labels. In short, be selective about how you play this market. Because no matter how much you lose, you've got a lot to win.

DEJA VU (NOVEMBER 1988) Numbness! Disbelief. As the devastating news of the multiple shooting at the high school last night unfolds, my thoughts drift to my own family's loss . . . of our 18-year-old daughter, Kristen . . . in 1988, and how the whole community rallied to our side. Chelsea people are wonderful & caring. Although support didn't change the situation, it did ease the pain to know people cared! Those wounded last night, and the loss of Superintendent Piasocci was tragic. I'm stunned by the violence of it. As a community, we need to be there for "all" the folks involved . . . remembering that the Leith family needs us too.

Senior NEWS

from the Chelsea Retirement Community
 Compiled by M. C. Martin

So Long to Lou Hi to Kearney

We have just had one of the nicest guys around working around the clock almost for us. And now in accord with our rules of order after so many years on a job, he or she has to step down from that job for a while. It is a good rule but sometimes rules work against what we really would like.

You know from the heading we mean Lou Scovill. He has been one of our busiest workers, and I was given the assignment to write this poor excuse for a thank you note.

All of you know of the wonderful job he has done as president of the council. Also problems come up in the executive committee, which he tackles in his usual quiet but effective manner. (Maybe we could have him on the sidelines now as a consultant.) He sort of makes both sides of a case think they had won. I guess people say when you have that ability, that you are a good communicator. And business and industry are paying top dollar for that ability. The best we can say Lou, is thank you for a job well done. We have to tell all your friends now that we love you. In spite of your musical work with the Golden Years Band at least three times a month here, you play with visiting groups at the drop of a hat. They name the instrument and you play it. And good too. We need you Lou.

Kearney Kirkby will take the president job. And he has been active in many activities and does them all well. We will have more to say about you from time to time. Like they all say, "Welcome Aboard."
 M. C. Martin.

Volunteer-Awarded

Ima Hickey, one of our busiest volunteer workers in our Chelsea Retirement Community, has recently been named the "Shepherding Servant" of her unit of the United Methodist Women of the Rochester St. Paul's U.M.W.

This is an annual award, including a gift of money from the church which is sent to national headquarters for distribution around the world wherever the need exists.

Ima has been very busy visiting residents in the nursing unit for several years every day. Also she has played the piano on a regular basis for several groups. She shows God's love personally, wherever she is, every day.

Student of the Week

Becky Martin, great-granddaughter of Marion and Winifred Martin, has been honored by her school by being named student of the week of Oct. 25, 1993. The school is Muir Middle School in Milford. The criteria used in the selection includes many attributes including respect for others, effort, behavior, co-operation, dependability and responsibility. Becky is a sixth grader.

Christmas Dinner Treat

I remember when my husband and I were guests for a Christmas dinner at a tiny restaurant in the Hotel Merdeka atop an extinct volcano on the island of Java.

Our Indonesian hosts spoke fluent English so there was an air of easy sociability around the table with the proprietor sitting at one end. He had spent time and money to give his restaurant a yuletide appearance. There was a tree prettily decorated with tinsel and shiny balls, lovely flower arrangements and a large framed picture of President Sukarno festooned with red velvet ribbon.

We were all eating our rice when I noticed a big black fly in mine. What do I do? If I left it in my bowl or set it aside it would be obvious to all and there would be all around embarrassment and dismay, with profuse apologies by the proprietor.

I knew what I had to do! I took a large spoonful with the fly well embedded in the rice and tried to swallow quickly. The wings were very rough and seemed to scrape my throat as they went slowly down at last. I took a deep breath, paused a moment to recover and felt none the worse. Our dinner progressed happily to the finish. What would you have done?
 Martha Penrod.

New Year

As we plod up the road with our friend '93, we have conflicting thoughts. The going gets harder as we near the summit. Back in the Spring, things looked brighter. We both limp along. Coming over the crest, we meet '94.

Along with folks all over the world, we will have a welcome party for the young guy. We may be sitting in our easy chair at midnight Dec. 31, (maybe asleep) or maybe joining friends somewhere in a large party. The general theme for the evening will be merry making. Somehow we will join by blowing a horn, shouting, ed in the '50's and '60's and getting less than fifty cents on the dollar. Enough of these thoughts.

The New Year brings us a whole new ballgame. We have the advantage of learning from the past, a few ways to meet the future. Come on perk up, it's daylight, Jan. 1, we must be doing something, even though it's only a little.

Just as starters, here's some projects that we might lend a hand with, even in small way: World Peace, political parties working together, jobs for all, fair taxes for all, families working in harmony, school improvement, stop inflation and dreams for town, state and nation. WELCOME, '94.
 M. C. Martin.

Isle of Jersey

The Library Adventures on December 18th had Kearney Kirkby present slides on the Isle of Jersey. He spent a month there in 1970 as a Pastoral exchange. The island is the largest of the Channel Islands and is located just 12 miles off the coast of Normandy, France. It is self governed but a protectorate of Britain. It is known as England's south sea island because of the sandy beaches on the south shore. While it is small, (5 by 10 miles) it has a year round population of over 60,000.

Because of their Normandy background, most of the residents speak both French and English. All of their official business is in French, the English is the language of all public functions. Since 1789 the Jersey cow is the only breed permitted on the island.
 Kearney Kirkby.

Childhood Fright

I remember when I was a small child I was returning home from downtown and was right in front of the McKune house which is now the Chelsea Library. I looked up ahead and saw a couple of men bringing a bull toward my direction. The bull started toward me and I ran up the incline toward the house. When I got to the top I turned around and faced the bull. I was petrified. The men saw what was happening and immediately took their poles and put the bull to his knees.

The people who were sitting on the porch yelled, "Come up on the porch! Get up on the porch!" One of the men rushed out, picked me up and took me out of the path of the bull. I was too scared to cry and with the excitement didn't know where the bull went, probably was on his way to the stockyard which was near the railroad. The man carried me home which was just a couple of doors away. I still remember how scared I was.

She had lived in the Chelsea area since 1936, coming from Monroe.

Marge was a member of St. Mary's Catholic church, Altar Society, and Modern Mothers. For the past five years she was the manager of Bushnell and Village Apartments. In her spare time she enjoyed reading.

She is survived by her husband, John W. Steele, to whom she was married on Feb. 3, 1940 in Chelsea.

Also surviving are her children, Linda Smith and her husband, Robert, of Kalamazoo, John W. Jr., and his wife, Joyce of Manchester, Thomas and his wife, Sarah, of Chelsea, Mary Ricklesimer and her husband, Jerry, of Grass Lake, Diane (DeeDee) Koenigter and her husband, Robert, of Chelsea, Christopher Steele and his good friend Elaine Sayers of Houston, Tex.; 15 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren; two sisters, Ruth Mahar of Novi and Joesette Braden of Bradenton, Fla.; and several nieces and nephews and cousins.

She was preceded in death by two sisters, Geneva Farrell and Nancy Wood.

The funeral mass will be held Thursday, Dec. 23, at 11 a.m. from St. Mary's Catholic church with the Rev. Ft. Philip Dupuis officiating.

The vigil service will be held Wednesday evening at 7:30 p.m. from the Staffan-Mitchell Funeral home with Deacon Richard Shaneyfelt officiating.

The family will receive friends Tuesday evening from 7 to 9 p.m. and Wednesday from 2 to 5 and 7 to 9 p.m. at the funeral home. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery, Chelsea.

Expressions of sympathy may be made to Arbor Hospice or the American Cancer Association.

Joseph K. Piasecki

Chelsea
Joseph K. Piasecki of Chelsea, age 47, died Dec. 16, 1993. He was born Nov. 3, 1946 in Hamtramck, the son of Joseph F. and Lorraine (Wojcinski) Piasecki.

Mr. Piasecki had been a resident of Chelsea since 1988 where he served as superintendent of the Chelsea Public Schools.

Presently Mr. Piasecki was a member of St. Mary's Catholic church, president of the United Way Board, a member of the Chelsea Lions Club and a member and delegate to the American Association of School Administrators, also a member of the Michigan Association of School Administrators.

He received his BS degree in 1968 and his MA degree in 1971 from Central Michigan University. In 1979 he received his Educational Specialist degree from Wayne State University, and was a member of Sigma Tau Gamma.

He was also involved with the Chelsea Ministerial Association, and the Chelsea Athletic Boosters. Joe began his educational career as a 5th grade teacher at Pontiac Crofoot Elementary school then became a teacher and assistant principal at Rochester Adam High school, moving to West Bloomfield High as assistant principal in 1977. He also became the project manager and acting principal of West Bloomfield High school.

From 1980 to 1984 he served as both superintendent and principal of St. Mary's Preparatory in Orchard Lake. From 1984 to 1988 he was the superintendent at Breckenridge Community Schools.

He is survived by his wife, Marlene K. Stone to whom he was married on Aug. 16, 1968.

Also surviving is his son, Brian J. Piasecki, stationed at Camp LeJune, N.C., and his daughter, Nicole S., at home; his mother, Lorraine Piasecki of Hamtramck; two sisters, Patricia Piasecki of Hamtramck, and Linda Kint of Cadiz, Ky.; and their children Sue, Jackie, Kim and Joie; his father-in-law, Robert Stone; his brother-in-law, Dallas and Kathy Stone and their children, Darrell, Loren, and Christine.

The funeral mass was held Monday, Dec. 20, at 11 a.m. from St. Mary's Catholic church with the Rev. Philip Dupuis, pastor, and Monsignor Stanley Milewski, chancellor of Orchard Lake Schools, con-celebrating. The family received friends Saturday from 3 to 5 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m., and on Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m. at the Staffan-Mitchell Funeral Home, 124 Park St., Chelsea, and on Sunday at St. Mary's Catholic church, 14200 Old US-12 from 7 to 9 p.m. where the vigil services were held at 7:30 p.m. with the Deacon Richard Shaneyfelt officiating. Burial followed at Mount Olivet Cemetery, Chelsea.

Expressions of sympathy may be made to the Chelsea Education Foundation that Mr. Piasecki helped to establish.

TO HELP WITH THE MARKETING EFFORT of Chelsea Industrial Park, Michigan Consolidated Gas Company donated $2,000 to the village. The money will be used to create promotional materials, including a brochure. Pictured is MichCon representative Paul Ganz presenting a check to village council president Richard Steele, on the left, and village manager Jack Myers. Ganz said MichCon has helped with similar efforts in Saline and Van Buren township.

Accused Murderer Called 'Good Teacher'

Stephen Leith, the 39-year-old chemistry teacher charged with the murder of Chelsea superintendent Joe Piasecki, was not generally loved or hated, but many described him as a top-notch teacher.

Few people, if anyone, considered him dangerous. However, some female students considered him to be weird, and a little too friendly.

Leith, who had longer hair than the average male teacher, and wore an earring, often ate lunch with students in the cafeteria, and, unlike other chaperones, danced during school dances. He was known to go out of his way to help students with their subject material. He was one teacher who was often chosen as "most influential teacher" by a graduating cum laude senior.

Leith also played guitar, sometimes with his friend, Phil Jones, who was also wounded in the shooting. Until a couple of summers ago, Leith and Jones had painted houses together during the summer. Recently, Jones started working as a tour bus driver in the summers.

Several years ago, Leith worked on a program to obtain an analytical balance for his department. Chelsea Civic Foundation donated as well as numerous parents of Leith's students. One of those parents described Leith as a "type-A teacher who spent enormous amounts of time on ideas and experiments for his students." Before that, Leith had collected pop cans and bottles in order to earn money for a television to augment his teaching.

Leith was not a heavy socializer. He was active for a time as the membership chair of the Chelsea Education Association.

A frequently-heard description of last Thursday is that Leith just "snapped."

Committee Forming To Study Planned Corridor District

A committee is being formed to study the proposed Planned Corridor District for the area of M-62 north of Old US-12.

The village has adopted the ordinance for the district but has not rezoned it.

Many business and landowners in the area objected to several of the requirements in the ordinance, most of them regarding architectural standards and landscaping. They view the requirements as overly restrictive. A petition, signed by about 20 property owners who own the majority of the land and businesses in the district, was given to the village planning commission last month.

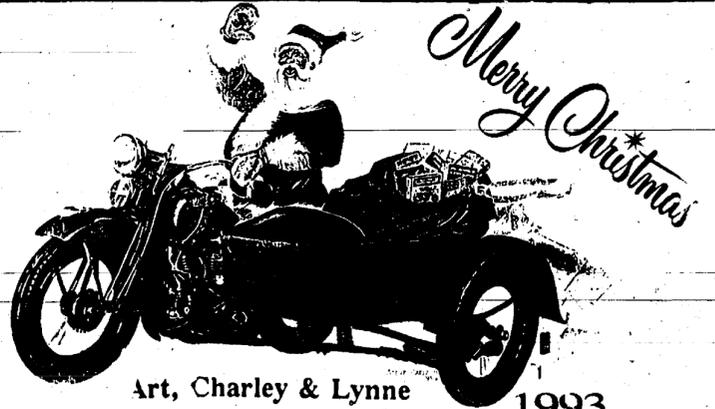

The village wants to create the district in order to gain more control of the appearance of the corridor, especially as it becomes more developed.

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS

There are many ideas that people commonly share about their eyes; however, many of them are no longer considered true.

- 1. You can damage your eyes by using a light that is too dim.
- 2. A cataract is a film that is peeled off during surgery.
- 3. Glaucoma can only affect the elderly.
- 4. If you only have use of one eye, and you use it too much, it will wear out faster.
- 5. Headaches are almost always caused by a problem with the eyes.
- 6. You can damage your eyes by holding a book too close to your eyes.
- 7. During a cataract operation, the eyeball is removed and later placed back in position.
- 8. It is safe to watch a solar eclipse through sunglasses.

All of these statements are false. A helpful hint: Always wear protective eyewear during sport activities and when using power tools.
