CHELSEA, MICHIGAN, WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 16, 1994

20 Pages This Week

JAN RAYMOND will get a lot of help from her son, Kyle, husband, Robin, and other members of the family when The Dawg Pound opens this week in the former home of Harper Shoe Co. The store will feature athletic clothing and seasonal sporting goods.

The Dawg Pound Moves into Prime Corner Chelsea Storefront

The Dawg Pound, a new athletic garments and sporting goods store, is set to open this week in the former home of Harper Shoe Co. at the corner of N. Main St. and W. Middle St.

The 1,600-square-foot store is a subsidiary of Chelsea Enterprises, started two years ago and owned by Jan Raymond of Chelsea. Her husband, Robin, who many people know as Chelsea High school's basketball coach, is also active in the operations. They also expect their children will help out when they can, especially the first few months.

The couple has been in the retail and athletic supply business for seven years. Before that, Jan handled the books for the former Thornton Realty Co., while Robin was a Chelsea High math teacher, and later was involved in an auto parts manufacturing business.

The store will carry the licensed hats, shirts, and sweatshirts of various college and professional sports teams, including most of the local clubs. In addition, there will be plenty of Chelsea, Dexter, Manchester, Stockbridge, and Grass Lake items. Letter jackets will be an emphasis. There will also be merchandise for young children.

The supply won't be limited to merchandise with team names.

In-season sporting goods will include baseballs, softballs, batting gloves, sliding pants, tennis balls, soccer shin guards and other, everyday sorts of necessities. They probably won't carry bats and gloves, and they won't stock athletic shoes, although they're willing to special-order just about anything. They also plan to carry equipment for other outdoor games such as volleyball and croquet.

"The local sporting goods dealer has kind of disappeared," Robin says. "The franchise mega-stores dominate the market. But they don't cater to individual teams and lose the personal-service aspect of the business. We want to supply personal service."

The retail store will account for about 25 percent of the over-all business. Chelsea Enterprises is a wholesale, imprinted sportswear company that services businesses, schools, and recreation departments.

A company might order hats or sweatshirts with the company logo, for example. Chelsea Enterprises owns an interest in a Lansing screen-printing business, where much of the merchandise is produced.

The Raymonds also hope to handle much of the local recreation team-sport business.

Sweet Surprises, the Main St. candy store, is moving into a 400-square-foot space in the back at the end of the month. It will have its own entrance off W. Middle St.

Practical Joke Sets Police in Motion

It may have been a joke, but Chelsea police weren't laughing.

Last Thursday, Feb. 10, a Washington St. resident started his car to let it warm up during the cold morning. He left it idling in front of the house.

Shortly thereafter, police said, the victim received a telephone call directing him to leave a certain amount of money under a car at a dealership downtown or "his car would be stripped," police said.

The victim notified police and the stolen vehicle was entered into the Law Enforcement Information Network tracking system.

Chelsea Det. Dick Foster said several cars stolen recently in the Dexter-Chelsea area have turned up at Four Mile Lake, so police were notified that could be the case this time.

"We had every police agency in the area trying to head off the flight of the car," Foster said.

In the meantime, a village employee found the car parked in the administrative lot at Chelsea High school, just a few hundred yards from the theft site. Foster arrived on the scene and began examining the car for possible evidence.

Almost immediately, a high school employee began running toward Foster, Foster said, laughing and telling him he knew all about it and it was all a joke. The victim, a long-time acquaintance, has declined to press charges.

Foster said he was angry at both the perpetrator and the victim for not taking the incident more seriously.

"We take it seriously when a felony is committed," Foster said.

"What they are saying is 'joyriding is OK'."

When contacted Tuesday morning, interim superintendent Howard Osterling said he was unaware of the incident but he would look into it.

Village To Seek Bids On Two Alternatives For New Office Complex

Chelsea Village Council continues to debate what direction to take with a new village office complex.

Last Tuesday, council voted to seek bids on two proposals. One proposal would have the current complex on E. Middle St. renovated to house the village offices, while the Chelsea Police Department would move to new quarters next to the fire department on W. Middle St.

The second proposal would have the current complex renovated to house the police department, and new quarters would be built on Park St. for the administrative offices and council chambers.

There was no discussion of moving both offices out of the current building.

Trustee Joe Merkel said the DDA would "jump down our throat with both feet" if the building were to be abandoned.

Trustee Frank Hammer said St. Mary's Catholic church might be interested in selling St. Mary's Parish Center on Congdon St. There are no formal plans for studying that site, however. Village president Richard Steele said he first heard of the possibility about a year ago and did not support the village waiting for a sale that may never materialize.

The bidders will use architect Lincoln Poley's space study as a guide for how much room and what kind of facilities each department needs in either proposed location. The current building is in need of major renovations to provide handicap access and upgrade the mechanical systems. Poley advised against renovating the current building for both departments, partly because there is not enough ground-floor space.

Firefighter Tom Osborne urged council to consider adding some kind of training room for firefighters because they have little space at the department. On several occasions, Osborne has addressed council about the department's space squeeze.

The village owns two lots on Park

St. next to the Garage Theatre that were designated years ago as the site for a new office complex. Two old houses were demolished.

It is not known whether there is enough space to add on to the fire department. Talk has surfaced over the years about moving the police department there, but the proposal has never been supported by the police department and council has not pursued it.

Village manager Jack Myers said he would make the request for bids this week and ask that they be returned next month.

Judge Withdraws From Leith Case

The circuit court judge who was scheduled to conduct the pre-trial hearing last week of accused murderer Stephen Leith has disqualified himself from the case.

Judge Melinda Morris removed herself from the case on Friday because her secretary, Val Scriven, is a friend of Leith's wife, Alice. Scriven is a former secretary in the school district.

Leith has been ordered to stand trial for the murder of Chelsea superintendent Joe Piasecki and wounding of principal Ron Mead and teacher Phil Jones.

The trial has been set for March 21 but will probably be adjourned because defense attorney Joe Simon is getting married shortly before the trial date. In addition, Simon is expected to ask for an adjournment to have Leith examined at the Center for Forensic Psychiatry in York township.

A new date for a pre-trial hearing had not been set as of press time.

Labor Department Head Makes Pitch for Prop. A

State Labor Department Director Lowell Perry stopped by the Chelsea Standard/Dexter Leader offices last week to make a pitch for the March 15 school funding initiative called Proposal A.

Perry, an attorney and former All-American football player at the University of Michigan, is an appointee of Gov. John Engler, who strongly supports Proposal A. The proposal would raise the state sales tax from four percent to six percent as the primary funding mechanism for schools. If the proposal fails, the state income tax would rise from 4.6 to 6 percent.

"I have to give the legislature and governor credit for making a bold move," Perry said.

"Without it, we might still be debating this like we have for the last 30 years."

Perry said he believes Proposal A, unlike other ballot initiatives, will pass because there's a less palatable back-up plan (commonly called the statutory plan) which will automatically go into effect.

"Whatever people may vote March 15, they are making a choice between a sales tax increase and an income tax increase," he said.

"Before, voters could send us back to the drawing board."

As labor department director, Perry likes Proposal A because he says it will continue the surge in Michigan's economy, which he says has produced more jobs than any other state since 1990.

"The economy is pointed in the right direction," Perry said.

"With the statutory plan, there will be less money available for adding jobs." However, he acknowledged that there has been debate about the economic effect of adding two percent to the price of a new car and other big-ticket items.

He said concerns about the non-deductibility of the sales tax are overblown because two-thirds of the state's residents don't itemize on their federal tax forms.

Other reasons for supporting the ballot plan, Perry said, include the following.

- Proposal A is a constitutional amendment and could not be tinkered with by the legislature.
- Proposal A is supported by the Michigan Chamber of Commerce and the Michigan Manufacturing Association.
- The statutory plan would give Detroit and Michigan the highest flat rate income taxes in the nation.
- Proposal A would roll back the state income tax to 4.4 percent.

Gene Dr. Negotiations May Be at Turning Point

Gene Dr. property owners and the village may have reached a breakthrough in their negotiations to have the road improved and utilities installed.

The latest idea is to have the entire area improved under the little-used Planned Unit Development (PUD) zoning guidelines. PUD zoning often applies to a large area where different kinds of housing and/or commercial developments are planned, usually by a single developer. Once a PUD is approved, the area has to be developed as shown in the plans.

What makes Gene Dr., on the western edge of the village, different than the typical PUD area is there are numerous property owners, which may make agreement on a plan more difficult.

The property owners would probably keep Gene Dr. a private road, which is how the village views it now. They would form a road association, similar to what exists in condominium developments, to maintain the road and plow it in the winter.

Consequently, Gene Dr. property owners could receive all village utilities and build a sub-standard road, which is what they've pushed for all along. They would also be assessed for the improvements.

Machnik Dr., which runs to the southwest off Gene Dr., would also be included in the PUD.

Village president Richard Steele called the new line of negotiations, "a very positive sign." Several council members said they were willing to consider the idea.

The area is mostly vacant land, much of which is unbuildable without sewer service. Property owners have argued that the village's proposal to have the road built to village specifications (pavement, curb, gutter, sidewalk, and other amenities) would be far too expensive.

Property owners have paid all village taxes for more than 20 years. However, they have no village utilities, other than electrical service, and the road is not maintained by the village. They do receive police and fire protection.

At last Tuesday's village council meeting, Steele suggested that Gene Dr. owners might consider a joint plan with Kernwood Rd. owners. Kernwood Rd. is not in the village. Steele said he had been approached about an extension to Kernwood Rd. Gene Dr. residents appeared uninterested in Steele's suggestion.

SHOPPING SPREE AWARD: The first advanced sale drawing for a $250 Chelsea shopping spree was handled in Phil Boham's office at the Chelsea Hospital by employee John Winans. John drew the name of Dan O'Connor, member of the Knights of Columbus. The K. of C. will preside over the Monte Carlo room during the Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce sponsored House Party, Sept. 23 at the fairgrounds. The grand prize out of the raffle will be house plans and materials worth $36,000 if most of the 1,000 tickets are sold. The raffle ticket will admit two to the celebration, which will include entertainment and food.

Village of Chelsea's penny parking meters are apparently on the way out, but how many and how soon have yet to be decided. Members of Chelsea's Downtown Development Authority addressed village council last week about the parking situation in the downtown and proposed that meters be removed on Main St. but retained on the side streets. The meterless spaces on Main St. would become spaces for two-hour parking, which would be enforced by chalking tires with two-hour inspections.

Village planning commission vice-chairman Bill Bott has urged the village and surrounding townships to work together to develop a comprehensive area master plan for development.

Chelsea's ever-changing recycling program will once again make a big adjustment as the recycling bins at Polly's Market will be moved to the village landfill on Werkner Rd. as of press time, no date had been set for the move, but it will be soon, according to village administrative assistant Barbara Fredette. The current location has caused several problems, Fredette told council last week. Among them, the cost of emptying the bins is growing.

A 29-home subdivision on a cull-de-sac has been proposed for a five-acre parcel off Gene Dr. on the western edge of the village. Chelsea resident Art Farley, co-owner of Chelsea Motorcycle Supply, is working on the project with his brother, Curt, a Kentucky resident. The number of homes has been increased from the originally-planned 18 to 29 to cover development costs, Art Farley told village council last Tuesday.

Milan's upset victory over Saline handed Chelsea's basketball team its first undisputed conference championship in 29 years. The Bulldogs finished league play with a 8-1 record. Saline was second at 8-2. Chelsea's 16-4 over-all season mark was its best in recent history.

Campaigning for posts open in next week's village elections has been enlivened by a split in the Independent Party caucus. Result is that the party will have two sets of candidates on the ballot—a "regular" slate and a "sticker" group.

The Chelsea School District will seek 3.2 additional operating mills at an election to be held April 23. Partially offsetting the requested increase is a proposed .6 mill in the bonded debt levy.

John Wellnitz was a mighty spry 19-year-old at a special birthday party held in his honor last week at the Community Fair Service Center. Wellnitz was a leap year baby, born Feb. 29, 1904, and so gets to celebrate a "real" birthday only every four years.

A total of 100 votes were cast in Monday's uncontested village election. Voters elected Athel E. Fuks president, Wallace Wood treasurer and Keith Boylan, William Chandler and Thomas Dmoch trustees.

Three Chelsea High school basketball players were placed on the Southeastern Conference all-league team. The three were Jim Wojcik, Ron Sweeney and Howie Treado.

Chelsea High school's Symphony Band unanimously won the District 12 festival. The band is now eligible to participate in the state festival in April.

EYE BANKS

We have all heard appeals for donations to "eye banks," but most people don't know what an eye bank is. Do you picture an institution with files of eyes of varying sizes and colors that can be checked out when needed?

Eye banks are the solution to the increasing demand for eye tissue needed for cornea transplantation. Transplantation of the cornea, the clear tissue in front of the eye, is a highly successful procedure for some corneal diseases, and more than 10,000 cases are performed annually in the United States.

Eye banks are generally located in larger medical centers around the country. They obtain donated tissue, prepare it for use, and screen the donor for any possible diseases which could be transmitted by exchanging the corneal tissue. The corneas can be stored for several days, and the eye bank responds to requests by area physicians who need the tissue for surgery. All eye banks are non-profit organizations.

In recent years a network of cooperating eye banks have been set up across the country, and it's possible to get a cornea on an emergency basis almost any time by calling a centralized number. Hopefully, you will never need this kind of service, but it's nice to know it exists.

BEHIND THE HEADLINES:

Needed: Real Welfare Reform

During his election campaign, Bill Clinton promised to "end welfare as we know it." But reforming the system that began with Lyndon Johnson's War on Poverty is easier said than done.

By Philip C. Clarke

Whether the President's welfare task force manages to come up with a reform package any time soon is an open question. Hillary Rodham Clinton has made clear that her health reform package must take priority. And Congress already has its hands full, and more. But across the nation there's a ground swell of support for changes in a social welfare system that plainly has failed, and in many instances is making matters worse.

According to a new Heritage Foundation policy study, "America today is spending seven times as much in constant dollars on means-tested welfare as it was when the War on Poverty started in 1965." Over-all, U.S. taxpayers have spent $5 trillion on welfare since LBJ launched his ambitious and generous program—"an amount greater than the cost of defeating Germany and Japan in World War II."

The average U.S. household already has invested some $50,000 each in taxes fighting the War on Poverty. "But in many respects," says the Heritage study, "the fate of lower-income Americans has become worse, not better."

A key reason, it adds, is the collapse of the low-income family. "Today, one child in eight is being raised on welfare through the Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) program. When the War on Poverty began, roughly one black child in four was born out of wedlock. Today, two out of three black children are born out of wedlock. And rapid increases in illegitimacy are occurring among low-income whites as well. For example, the illegitimate birth rate among low-income white high school dropouts is 48 percent. And over-all, 30 percent of children in the U.S. are now born to single mothers."

Many if not most single-parent households are at least partially dependent on welfare, a dependency that tends to become self-perpetuating. Especially when the welfare benefits increase with each additional child. Zbigniew Brzezinski, National Security Advisor in the Carter Administration, calls it "the inbreeding of social hopelessness," which finds several million second- and third-generation "addicts" to welfare.

The damage to our society as a whole is staggering. Children brought up in welfare-dependent environments are far more likely to fail in school, and to drop out before high school graduation. And they are more likely to end up in lives of crime. As the Heritage study reports: "The threat of violence that makes most Americans afraid to walk at night in most major U.S. cities is a direct result of family disintegration engendered by the welfare state."

Attempts to remedy this woeful state of affairs have been made in past years. In 1968, during the Bush Administration, Congress passed the so-called Family Support Act. Among other things, it required that virtually all new child-support awards to be withheld from the paychecks of absent fathers—effective on Jan. 1 of this year. Many states already have enacted such laws aimed at so-called Deadbeat Dads. The 1988 Act also called for able-bodied welfare recipients, wherever possible, to find employment or enter job training programs within two years.

According to White House sources, Clinton's reforms would go further by requiring welfare parents to perform community service—"workfare"—in exchange for continued AFDC benefits. Significantly, the Clinton plan also would encourage welfare recipients to accept low-paying jobs if necessary. If would do so by supplementing a family's earned income through tax breaks, food stamps, housing allowances and other benefits whenever a job paid less than welfare. It also would impose a two-year time limit on benefits, and may cut welfare aid altogether for immigrants in order to finance expansions in training, jobs and child care for single mothers on public assistance.

Predictably, welfare advocates already are complaining that workfare requirements are draconian and would end up creating still more poverty. And rhetoric aside, the Clinton Administration in its first budget proposal last year asked for $110 billion over five years in expanded welfare programs. Exacerbating the welfare dilemma are annual Census Bureau statistics reporting a continuing level of some 37 million Americans living below the poverty line. But in counting the incomes of the supposedly poor, the Census Bureau ignores nearly $200 billion in welfare benefits and services amounting to an additional $11,500 for every "poor" household.

Unwilling to wait for federal reforms, the Wisconsin legislature in December voted to create a welfare program of its own within the next five years, aimed at moving families off public assistance and into meaningful private employment. Other states may follow suit. House Republican Whip Newt Gingrich of Georgia, in promoting a GOP "workfare" bill, expressed the feelings of most Americans. Said Gingrich: "The welfare system has just plain failed and it's failed because it reduces human beings from citizens to clients, because it

Local Investment Firm Earns High Marks in Polls

Edward D. Jones & Co., the St. Louis-based investment firm, was ranked the No. 1 financial-services company in the nation in terms of broker satisfaction, according to the December 1993 issue of Registered Representative magazine.

"Each year, Registered Representative asks brokers to rate their firms in 20 categories, including freedom from pressure to sell certain investments, over-all ethics of the firm, and the quality of investments offered by their firms," explains Deb Bauer, the investment representative for Jones in Chelsea. This year, nine of the nation's top brokerage firms were polled, and Edward D. Jones & Co. scored highest over-all. The firm was ranked No. 1 in 12 of 20 categories.

Edward D. Jones & Co. also received favorable press in the December 1993 issue of Smart Money, which is published monthly by the Wall Street Journal. The magazine, which has a monthly circulation of 600,000, ranked the nation's top full-service brokerage firms and cited Jones' outstanding broker support, freedom from selling pressure, and staff training programs. It also praised Jones for its low fees.

"We're very proud and pleased to have been featured in these two publications," Bauer said. "Although we'd love to take the credit, it really belongs with our customers and friends who have helped make our firm such a successful organization."

Edward D. Jones & Co. has more than 2,600 offices in 48 states and the District of Columbia, making it the largest financial-services firm in the nation in terms of retail offices. It traces its roots back to 1871.

subjects them to rules . . . that are anti-family, anti-work, anti-property and anti-opportunity. The challenge of our generation is to replace the welfare state."

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

There is this about this month. If you take away Valentine and all the sales honoring birthdays of Presidents there ain't much in it to get excited about. On top of my regular case of the February blahs, I was laid up the better part of last week with a cold, and I wasn't up to my usual reading. I showed up at the country store Saturday night feeling like a schoolboy that hadn't done his homework and knowing he'd be called on.

The first thing I learned, though, was that colds, flu and epizootic by all other names are running wild out our way. General, the fellows were looking through the half empty glass darker than usual. If doctors can keep coming up with new names for old diseases, Clem Webster allowed, you'd first think they would push for a national foundation to fight an ailment that causes as much short term misery as the head cold. But on second thought, Clem went on, you realize the key here is short term.

Colds and flu give doctors steady repeat business during office hours, Clem said, thanks to parents of young children. They know if they treat a cold it'll clear up in seven days and if they do nothing it'll go away in a week. But they can't bear to see the little ones so miserable and think there's someone they can do that they're not doing. So they take them to the doctor that makes sure it's not a life threatening situation and prescribes someone so everybody feels they've done all they can.

As for new diseases, Clem had a clipping where we now got an epidemic of Attention Deficit Disorder in the schools. No sooner did ADD get named than a drug was invented to treat it. Clem said if students fidget at their desks, talk, don't follow instruction and otherwise disturb the class they don't need discipline, they need Ritalin, the new wonder that increases power of concentration.

Practical speaking, Ed Doolittle said, parents will spend money on Ritaline for the same reason they pay for the cold prescriptions, because they don't know what else to do. From what he's read about public schools, he went on, they might as well keep the cost of both. The big push in education now is self esteem, he said, and if a child is low on it he ain't going to be high on anything. To help students feel good about themselves, Ed said, schools are starting to give grades no lower than B the first half of the year no matter what grade a child earns. This makes students enjoy school, he went on, and never mind that it relieves teachers of having to actual teach children that want to learn.

There's no end to ways educators work to water down education, Ed declared. He saw where a group in Asheville, N.C. called Citizens for Media Literacy is giving away comic books in schools to warn children of the danger of watching TV. The idea here, Ed said, must be when a child that can't or won't read sees the pictures in print he might get interested in the words.

Personal, it looks like we have reached the place where everybody is entitled to equal everything, like the bald fellow in the barbershop. He took note that haircuts took 15 minutes. When his turn came he told the barber to shine it, shave it, singe it if he could find it because he's paying for his 15 minutes and he was going to get them.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

Bridge Marathon Play Continues for Benefit of Hospital

The Feb. 6 meeting of the Couples (Pairs) Bridge Marathon for the benefit of the Chelsea Community Hospital was held in the Woodlands Room at the Hospital Sunday evening at 6 p.m. Fourteen couples participated.

Winners for the evening's play were Joan VanOrman and Joan Smigielski, of Chelsea, with a score of 5,300 for the 20 hands played; Steve and Donna Dotson, of Chelsea, were second with a score of 5,160; and June Wilson and Daphne Hodder, both of Chelsea, were third with a score of 3,890.

An assortment of delicious refreshments was brought by Donna Dotson. The Hospital furnished coffee and tea.

The Marathon Group is following the same format as last year, using the four highest scores of each person having attended at least four times, qualifying them to receive year-end prizes with their totals. A donation of $2.75 is contributed each evening they play, and a quarter is also added to be used for prizes for the evening's play. Mixed pairs may play, so think about a partner and call for any further information: Marlene Rademacher, 475-2060 or Roberta Barstow, 426-3887.

The next meeting will be Sunday evening, March 6, at 6 p.m. in the Woodlands Room of the Chelsea Community Hospital.

Kid's Saturday TV Time Overloaded With Fat Food Ads

By Debbie Barrow
Extension Home Economist

A recent study shows that Saturday morning television advertising is heavy on the fat. The number of commercials that feature fast food or packaged meals, such as canned spaghetti, has nearly doubled from 1989 to 1993—and a greater portion of those ads are for fatty foods such as fried chicken, hamburgers and pizza. Lisa Cohn, a nutritionist, and Dr. Thomas Starc, of the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center in New York conducted the study. They studied TV advertising before and after 1991 new dietary guidelines for children and teen-agers were developed by the National Cholesterol Education Program.

The guidelines suggest that youngsters cut daily intake of fat to less than 30 percent of total calories.

The researchers compared morning broadcasts from 1989 and 1990 to those in 1993. They found that a youngster who watches five hours of television on Saturday morning sees 65 food commercials—about one every five minutes.

The researchers found that this year, 38 percent of Saturday morning commercials were for fast packaged foods, and 92 percent of those ads showed high-fat foods. In 1989, 20 percent of the ads were for fast and packaged foods, and 84 percent of them were for high-fat items.

"Current recommendations for low-fat foods are being ignored by commercial television ads aimed at children," Starc said.

"You can get a healthy meal at a fast-food restaurant. But a child watching television doesn't get to see those," Cohn said.

Hamburgers made up 43 percent of the fast food advertising, and pizza made up 28 percent.

Does Washing Food Improve Its Safety?

Does washing improve the safety of food? It may appear that washing food before eating it can do no harm and may actually do some good. However, under some circumstances, washing does no good and may actually do harm.

—It's OK to scrub most fruits and vegetables with a vegetable brush and warm water. Scrubbing removes soil bacteria, pesticide residues, and the wax coating found on some fruits and vegetables. Do not use soap or detergent for scrubbing—ingesting soap or detergent might be harmful.

—Scrub apples before making unpasteurized apple cider. This is particularly important if apples drop on the ground. After scrubbing, rinse again in clean water.

—Rinsing reduces the salt in canned vegetables and the sugar in canned fruit. You can also buy low-salt vegetables and fruits canned in fruit juices, though these may be more expensive. You may want to consider canning your own fruits and vegetables and tailoring them to your family's needs and tastes.

—Don't rinse raw chicken and turkey. Rinsing removes only a few of the bacteria found on poultry skin. Those that do come off may be splattered around the kitchen during the washing process.

—Don't rinse ground beef. Rinsing can be messy and could spread bacteria in the kitchen. Drain the ground beef well after cooking, or substitute lean ground turkey for ground beef in recipes to reduce the fat.

—Don't wash cheese to remove mold. Toxins formed by mold might be absorbed into the cheese. You can safely remove mold from hard cheese such as cheddar and colby by cutting off a 1-inch section around the mold. If you detect mold of soft cheeses, such as processed cheeses and cottage cheese, throw them out—there is no way you can safely remove the mold.

Pinckney Players
Start Rehearsals for 'Curious Savage'

Pinckney Players have started rehearsals for their winter production of "The Curious Savage."

The 1950s Broadway play by John Patrick is a gentle comedy set in a New England sanatorium. Residents get a glimpse of the outside world when the curious Mrs. Savage joins their small group. The contrasts between Mrs. Savage's grown children, determined to have her committed, and the new "family" she befriends at The Cloisters, make a good case for what's sane or normal in life today. "The Curious Savage" takes place in current time, and tells a story for all ages.

Performances are scheduled for March 18-19 and 25-26 at 8 p.m., at the Jane Tash Theatre at Pinckney High school. There will be a 2 p.m. matinee on Sunday the 20th. Tickets may be purchased in advance at Pinckney Community Education, Portage Lake Trading Post, Dexter Card and Gift Shop, and Uber's Drug Store in Brighton. For information on group rates call (313) 878-6398.

"The Curious Savage" is directed by Robert Grimm and produced by Lois Grimm. The cast of 11 has drawn actors from Dexter, Pinckney, South Lyon, Brighton and Howell; featured are Jerry Klein, Joseph Chapman, Gary Kaiser, Debbie Kaiser, Carole Ashley, Becky Morehouse, Lynn Wilde, Barb Kendall, Debbie Bissett, Francyn Chomic, and Deborah Henning.

For more information call Debbie Kaiser at (313) 878-6398.

School Board Notes

Present at a regular meeting of the Chelsea Board of Education Monday, Feb. 7, were Diesing, Knutsen, Roberts, McCalla, Eisenbeiser, Merkel, Redding, assistant superintendent Mills, principal Stieber, community education director Rohrer, special education director DeYoung, curriculum director Bissell, guests.

Meeting called to order at 7:30 p.m. by President Diesing.

Board approved the minutes of the Jan. 24 meeting and the minutes of the executive session of the same date.

The board presented certificates of appreciation to those mentors who participated in the Focus program. The six high school seniors who were involved in the program gave presentations on their interest area and presented plaques to their mentors.

In action items, the board:

- approved a contract for the Interim Superintendent,
- adopted a Principal's Week Resolution as prepared by the Michigan Elementary and Middle School Principals Association,
- authorized Fred Mills to sign a contract for professional services relative to school bus garage soil remediation,
- approved the change in grade requirements for the 8th grade computer education course,
- approved the dropping of the elective U.S. History course,
- approved, for one-year pilot, a new course, "Experiential Education,"
- approved an early-retirement incentive plan for certified professional employees.

Laurie Bissell reviewed with the board the 1993-94 California Achievement Test results. The test was administered to students in grades 3, 6, 9 and 11.

Dr. DeYoung reviewed with the board the results of a study to determine the feasibility of a two-tier bus schedule. At this time it is not economically feasible to implement a two-tier system. The recently installed computer system will help provide a more efficient single-tier system, and an effort will be made to reorganize the current bus runs to make them more efficient.

Fred Mills, in reviewing Michigan's school finance plan, indicated that under either the Ballot Plan or the Statutory Plan, the district "will still be in the property tax millage business." Under the Ballot Plan, the issue is the raising of the sales tax from four cents to six cents; under the Statutory Plan the issue is the raising of the income tax from 4.6% to 6%.

Writers' Seminar Continues at Library

Suspect Arrested in Armed Robbery, Two Chelsea Men Wanted

A suspect has been arrested for the armed robbery of the Dexter Party Store and two accomplices are wanted on warrants.

Jack Middlebrook, 21, of Belleville is waiting preliminary examination Feb. 17 in Ann Arbor's 14-1 District Court and two Chelsea men, ages 18 and 20, are being sought for the Jan. 30 robbery.

Middlebrook was arrested last week by the sheriff's department. Detective Dieter Heren said he couldn't release much information because the two Chelsea area suspects haven't been apprehended yet.

The three are also accused of an armed robbery at Buddy's in Grass Lake, Feb. 2. The weapon used in both has been recovered.

Heren said local tips, witness information and good police work led to the arrest of Middlebrook and identification of Middlebrook's accomplices.

The Dexter Party Store, located on West Huron River Dr. in Webster township, was robbed Sunday afternoon, Jan. 30. A 21-year-old clerk was told to open the cash drawer by a man wearing a bandana over his face. A second suspect, wearing a ski mask, pointed a semi-automatic gun at his chest. After hitting the buttons on the cash register, one of the suspects reached in and grabbed a handful of 10 dollar bills and fled the store.

Several witnesses saw the two men leave the store in a black, 5.0 Mustang driven by a third man.

Sheriff's deputy Lanny Dunigan was the responding officer. Detective Heren and Detective Gordy Ralph worked on the case with Dunigan and several west side sheriff's deputies.

SENIOR PAUL TAYLOR won the Winter Carnival Spirit Award last Friday at the conclusion of Winter Carnival Week at Chelsea High school. The week features class competitions, lunchtime activities, and a host of other events.

Lowell Perry

- Out-of-state tourists would help pay for schools by making purchases here.
- Michigan's sales tax would be at the national average. He said he believes the sales tax would be a more stable source of funding than the income tax.

Perry said he does not believe Engler's candidacy for governor would be hurt by the defeat of Proposal A.

Under both plans, the basic grant to schools would be $5,000 per student. In addition, under both plans the homestead credit would be adjusted so that 20 percent of rent is considered property taxes, rather than 17 percent; and businesses with tax abatements would pay the 1994 state and local school taxes, or 1/2 the 1993 school tax rate, whichever is less.

What voters won't see on the ballot include the following:

- Six mills in property taxes on homesteads and 24 mills on non-homesteads. The 24 mills must be approved by the voters.
- Cigarette tax increase by 50 cents per pack. The other tobacco tax will be 10 percent of the wholesale price.
- A tax of six percent on interstate telephone calls, with 800 numbers and WATS lines excepted.
- Real estate transfer tax of two percent of the sale price.
- A new Keno lottery-style game will be instituted.
- High spending school districts, $6,500 and up per student (Chelsea is about $5,300), will be able to levy up to an additional 18 mills on homesteads.
- Intermediate school district millages would be capped at 1993 levels.
- Property assessment increases would be limited to inflation or five percent, whichever is less.

The statutory plan, none of which will be on the ballot, has the following features, any of which could be changed by the legislature.

- Property taxes of 12 mills on homesteads and 24 mills on non-homesteads. 12 mills of the tax on non-homesteads would not be subject to vote. 12 mills on all property would have to be voter approved.
- An increase in the single business tax from 2.35 percent to 2.75 percent.
- An increase in the cigarette tax by 15 cents per pack. A new 18 percent tax would be levied on non-cigarette tobacco products.
- Interstate and international telephone calls would be taxed at 4 percent.
- The personal exemption on state tax forms would increase to $3,000 per person from $2,100. The rate for seniors would increase to $3,900.
- A new real estate transfer tax of 1 percent of the sale price.
- High spending districts ($6,500 and up) could levy extra millage to hold themselves harmless.
- Intermediate school district millages would be restored to current law.
- There would be no property assessment cap.

Farmers Want Clarification on Land Millage Rates

Michigan Farm Bureau strongly supports legislation (HB 5329) recently introduced in the state House to tax homesteads and farmland at the same millage rate. The measure is sponsored by Rep. Dan Gustafson (R-Haslett) and Rep. Kirk Profit (D-Ypsilanti).

Michigan Farm Bureau will support the school finance reform ballot proposal only if homesteads and farmland are taxed at the same six-mill property tax rate, according to MFB President Jack Laurie.

"Agricultural land is our homestead, and we're asking that all agricultural land be treated the same," Laurie told county Farm Bureau leaders meeting in Lansing for the 1994 Presidents' Conference. "It doesn't matter whether you live on the land or off it, whether you own and operate the land or rent it out to someone else. There should be equity in the system," he said.

A uniform, six-mill rate would eliminate concerns about which millage rate would apply to farmland that is rented or held in trusts, land contracts or joint ownership, according to MFB legislative counsel Ron Nelson. "Another advantage to the uniform millage rate is that it would erase the unfair, unreasonable and unworkable qualifications for the homestead millage rate," said Nelson.

In an effort to encourage the preservation of agricultural land, Farm Bureau also supports requiring that farmland which is converted for development be subject to a higher property tax rate.

"It is amazing what ordinary people can do if they set out without preconceived notions."

—Charles F. Kettering

Although hardly an "ordinary person," Kettering is a fine example of what can be done when preconceptions can be eliminated. As a former Director of Research for General Motors, Kettering was responsible for dozens of major automotive developments, many of which were thought by others to be impossible.

The worst possible preconception is that which makes us doubt our own ability. Too often, the thought "I can't do that" is all that stands between us and truly worthwhile accomplishment.

Know Your Numbers

By Debbie Barrow

Extension Home Economist
Do you know your numbers? Your cholesterol numbers, that is. Current recommendations are to know not only your total blood cholesterol level, but also the level of high density lipoproteins (HDLs) in the blood.

During the past year, the National Cholesterol Education Program (NCEP) changed its recommendations to reflect an improved understanding of cholesterol and lipoproteins in the body. Blood cholesterol carried as HDLs has a protective effect against coronary heart disease. A high level of HDLs is considered a negative risk factor because it decreases the risk of coronary heart disease.

The risk of coronary heart disease increases with age, a history of coronary heart disease in the family, cigarettes smoking, hypertension, a low HDL cholesterol level (below 35 mg/dl) and diabetes.

The NCEP has recommended lowering high blood cholesterol among otherwise healthy elderly persons and post-menopausal women by reducing total fat, saturated fat and cholesterol in the diet, and by weight management. Drug therapy is reserved for only high-risk patients.

The new NCEP report places a greater emphasis on physical activity and weight loss to reduce blood cholesterol. These factors are also helpful in reducing risk of developing high blood cholesterol or coronary heart disease.

Another key change in the recommendations is determining the HDL cholesterol level in addition to total cholesterol. If you don't know your numbers, consider asking your physician for a cholesterol and HDL cholesterol screening.

February is National Heart Month. It would be a great time to make this heart healthy move.

Homeowner Welcoming Service Introduced Here

Getting To Know You, the nation's largest new homeowner welcoming program is coming to Chelsea. With the introduction of Getting To Know You, new homeowners in the area will have easy access to stores and services. Marti Chapman, the local sales representative, will enroll program sponsors and provide customer service in the Dexter, Chelsea, Gregory and Manchester areas.

Sponsored by local merchants and professionals in 43 states, Getting To Know You welcomed over 650,000 new homeowners last year. Now in its 31st year of business, Getting To Know You is an employee-owned company with corporate headquarters in Westbury, N. Y.

The Getting To Know You program features a personal telephone and address directory including information on local businesses and professionals as well as money-saving gift certificates. Only one of each kind of service is listed in the directory. Information about each sponsor may be found on the index page as well as the appropriate inside page. The program helps acquaint new homeowners with the local business community.

"We have found that most people start a new telephone/address directory when they move into a new home," said regional manager Jennifer Kelly. "Once the Getting To Know You directory is filled out, it becomes a permanent reference book for that family's own personal names and numbers as well as for the useful information included about local services. We're delighted to be able to offer the program to new homeowners in this area."

"The address directory is a unique way of keeping the merchant's name in front of potential new customers. The average life span of the book in the home is 5-7 years," says Kelly. "Not only does the program help the new homeowner locate services, but it also gives exposure to the local business community. The new homeowners are impressed that the merchants cared enough to welcome them to the area and tend to utilize the directory to find what services they need for themselves, their family, and their home."

★ New Tax Law

Impacts Self-Employed

If you're self-employed and not sure whether you should grin or grimace at the new tax law, the Michigan Association of CPAs offers the following information to help you decide. Although the majority of laws won't affect your 1993 tax return, the biggest change—an increase in tax rates—is retroactive to the 1993 tax year.

Higher Tax Rates Affect the Wealthy
The new tax law—the Revenue Reconciliation Act of 1993—added two new tax rates, effective Jan. 1, 1993. A 36 percent rate applies to taxable incomes that exceed $115,000 for single taxpayers and $140,000 for married couples. In addition, taxpayers face a 39.6 percent tax rate on incomes in excess of $250,000. Because self-employed individuals pay taxes on business income at personal tax rates, some high-earning, self-employed taxpayers may find themselves subject to considerably higher tax rates.

Medicare Ceilings Eliminated

Many self-employed individuals in higher tax brackets will also see more of their earnings subject to the Medicare tax. Previously, self-employed taxpayers paid the 2.9 percent Medicare tax only on their first $135,000 of self-employment earnings. Beginning in 1994, the new law eliminates the $135,000 cap on earnings subject to the tax. As a result, self-employed taxpayers will pay the 2.9 percent Medicare tax on all their self-employment income. Since employees share the Medicare tax with employers (each pays 1.45 percent), the elimination of the $135,000 ceiling has a greater impact on the self-employed.

Health Insurance Deduction

On the brighter side, the law retroactively reinstates the health insurance deduction for self-employed individuals. Under the prior law, which expired on June 30, 1992, a self-employed individual could generally deduct 25 percent of the premiums paid for health insurance coverage. The new law reinstates the deduction retroactively from July 1, 1992 through Dec. 31, 1993. An amended 1992 return may be filed to claim the 25 percent deduction for the second half of 1992.

Business Equipment Is Less Expensive

In the past, a business could elect to deduct in one year up to $10,000 of the cost of business equipment in lieu of depreciating the equipment's cost over a period of years. For tax years beginning after Dec. 31, 1993, taxpayers can elect to deduct up to $17,500 of the cost of qualifying assets placed in service during the year. The maximum deduction phases out dollar-for-dollar once the total cost of qualifying property placed in service during the year exceeds $200,000.

Business Expenses Take a Cut

Self-employed individuals will see several business deductions cut back or eliminated in 1994. The new law affects a broad range of expenses including business meals and entertainment expenses, club dues, and business travel deductions for family members.

For tax years beginning after Dec. 31, 1993, the deductible portion of allowable business meals and entertainment expenses drops to 50 percent from the current 80 percent. For many self-employed professionals who meet clients in restaurants, reducing the deduction for these expenses will add to the cost of doing business.

Beginning in 1994, no deduction will be allowed for any type of club dues, including business, social, luncheon, athletic, sporting, hotel and air travel clubs, even if the club is used principally for business-related activities. However, you may deduct business expenses for meals and entertainment that occur at such clubs to the extent that they otherwise qualify as a business deduction.

The new law also imposes tougher limits on deducting travel expenses for family members who accompany you on a business trip. Prior to the new law, a self-employed taxpayer could deduct a family member's travel expenses if there was a bona fide business purpose for taking the person along. However, beginning in 1994, Congress has added another requirement: You can deduct the travel expenses of a spouse or dependent only if that person is your bona fide employee.

CPAs suggest that you thoroughly understand how the changes affect you and your business. Make the time now to determine how you can minimize the tax law's impact on your business income and, if necessary, seek the assistance of a CPA.

Farm Bureau Founding To Be Noted

County Farm Bureau leaders from across the state will be at the Old Horticulture Building at Michigan State University on Feb. 10 to see Peter McPherson, president of MSU, accept a plaque commemorating Rm. 206 as the location where Michigan Farm Bureau was founded in 1919.

"It is certainly appropriate that MSU be a part of helping Michigan farmers celebrate the 75th anniversary of the state's largest farm organization," said Jack Laurie, president of the Michigan Farm Bureau. "For three-quarters of a century, our premier land-grant university has been instrumental in assisting Farm Bureau, and the entire agricultural industry, with world class research and policy advice."

On Feb. 4, 1919, 57 county "farmers' bureaus" met at the Michigan Agricultural College in East Lansing. Forty-three of those county groups signed an agreement to support a state organization to be called the Michigan State Farm Bureau. Their charter stated that the Farm Bureau would "provide ways and means for concerted action on agricultural problems."

Seventy-five years later, 69 county Farm Bureaus and 124,000 member families belong to the Michigan Farm Bureau. The state's largest farm organization, guided by member-developed policy, takes action on a wide range of political, social and economic issues.

Despite federal laws, executive orders and regulations that provide for non-discrimination when enrolling participants in training programs or hiring applicants for all jobs, a relatively small proportion of young women are entering the skilled trades. Women make up just over 10 percent of all skilled tradesworkers and only about two percent of construction workers, according to the U. S. Labor Department's Occupational Outlook Quarterly.

Michigan Environmental Program Highlighted At National Meeting

Innovative programs that highlight environmental stewardship were presented during a special-interest session at the American Farm Bureau Federation's 75th Annual Meeting in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.

Vicki Pontz, legislative counsel for the Michigan Farm Bureau, shared the efforts of the Cass County Farm Bureau as its members worked toward a voluntary solution to a serious water quality problem. Cass county is the largest hog-producing county in Michigan, said Pontz, and is also the county with the largest number of recreational lakes.

Pesticides were found in the water supply, but rather than dwell on the problem, Pontz said, Cass county saw an opportunity. "They appealed to those who would regulate this to let farmers voluntarily solve the problem," she said. This was the beginning of Michigan's Farmstead Assessment System.

WELTON BOHNE poses with the official sign recognizing his family's farm at 355 Francisco Rd. in Grass Lake as a Centennial Farm. Bohne, and his brother Duane, of Edmore, own the 108-acre farm. The original homestead, however, has been sold to the Dascola family.

Bohne Farm in Grass Lake Twp. Designated as Centennial Farm

The 108-acre Bohne farm of Grass Lake was recently designated a Centennial Farm by the Michigan Department of State.

The 108-acre farm at 355 Francisco Rd. in Grass Lake is owned by brothers Welton and Duane Bohne. They have sold off the homestead but continue to own the farmland. Welton lives in a modular home on the land and Duane lives in Edmore.

The farm was founded by Welton and Duane's great-grandparents, George and Maria Bohne. George was originally an oyster fisherman in New York before deciding to come to Michigan via the Erie Canal.

George and Marie's son, Henry, and his wife, Minnie, took the farm in 1892, three years after Welton and Duane's father, Walter, was born. Henry and Minnie farmed the land until 1932, when Walter and his wife, Eva, took over. Walter died in 1982 and the farm went to Welton and Duane.

Over the years the farm has had dairy cattle, hogs, and sheep and a wide variety of crops. The men also had other jobs. Henry managed a grain elevator by the railroad tracks, just south of the family farm, during the 1920s. Walter was one of the original employees at Federal Screw Works in Chelsea.

Welton farmed the land from 1965 to 1975. Since then it has been leased out. "Dad was a hard bugger to work for," Welton recalls.

Duane went to Michigan State University. In 1960, Walter fell out of an apple tree and Duane quit school for a year to work on the farm while Walter recovered. Welton was working at Central City Lumber Co. at the time.

Duane went on to be a teacher in Edmore. Chelsea High principal Rob Mead was one of his colleagues.

There are approximately 5,000 centennial farms in Michigan. The program was started in 1948 by the Michigan Historical Commission, with support from Detroit Edison, Consumers Power Co., and local electrical co-operatives and farm groups.

They will visit the Hague and Amsterdam in the Netherlands; Waldbröl, Bonn, Cologne, and Bavaria in Germany; and Bern and Lucerne in Switzerland. The band has begun rehearsals and will continue throughout the year under the direction of Chelsea band director Bill Gourley. The concerts will feature music of American composers with emphasis on composers with connections to Michigan. Above are some of the Chelsea students in the band. Landlord-Tenant Relations Course Offered at WCC

People interested in knowing their rights in a landlord/tenant relationship will benefit from a Lifelong Education course presented by the Washtenaw Community College Continuing Education and Extension Department this February. For registration information, call (313) 973-3616.

On two consecutive Thursdays beginning Feb. 17, "Landlord/Tenant Relationship: Know Your Rights" will provide participants with guidelines on many aspects of the Landlord/Tenant relationship. This course, which meets from 7 to 9 p.m. on campus, will focus on advertising the rental, screening the tenants, working with the tenants, leasing from month-to-month or one year, and preparing to go to court for an eviction. In addition, the participants will learn guidelines protecting landlord and/or tenant, security deposits, cleaning deposits, pet deposits, options for the tenant to purchase the rental, and serving the seven-day notice for non-payment of rent.

Deputies Report Arrests, Property Damage, Theft

Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputies investigated a number of incidents in Scio, Lima, Lyndon, Sylvan and Dexter townships, Jan. 30-Feb. 6.

Scio Township

Larceny of gasoline was reported at the Clark gasoline station on Jackson Rd., Feb. 2. A 29-year-old clerk told police a woman driving a 1986 Plymouth Renault pumped $2 worth of gasoline and left without paying for it. She managed to get the license plate number which led to the vehicle owner. When contacted by police, the vehicle owner said he sent his daughter out to get a couple dollars worth of gasoline that day. He said she was running late and probably forgot to pay. He agreed to make restitution, so no prosecution will be sought.

Robin A. Kozlowski, 29, of Belleville was arrested on a bench warrant out of the Wayne Police Department. She was stopped for a traffic violation in her 1980 Olds Cutlass on Baker Rd. near Jackson Rd., Feb. 4. After the deputy discovered the bench warrant, he arrested her and impounded her vehicle.

Lima Township

Larceny from a vehicle was reported at Nixon Auto Parts on Jackson Rd., Feb. 7. The owner of the business, a 62-year-old Whitmore Lake man, told police someone stole a 1985 Quadjet carburetor worth $600 from a 1985 Chevy pick-up. Deputies suspect someone entered through a hole in the fence on the west end of the yard.

Lyndon Township

Drug paraphernalia and marijuana were confiscated from a home in the 100 block of Island Lake Rd., Jan. 30. The father of a 15-year-old boy asked police to confiscate a bag of marijuana and drug paraphernalia his son had. He said he found it in his son's bedroom. His son said he got it from a friend, and that he smokes it once a week.

Sylvan Township

Larceny of a snowmobile was reported at the American Legion on Ridge Rd., Feb. 5. A 28-year-old Jackson man told police his 1980 Yamaha Exciter was stolen during the winter festival while parked at the American Legion hall. He said he left it on the property near the lake.

Dexter Township

Michael A. Madis, 28, of Plymouth was arrested during a traffic stop on Dexter-Pinckney Rd. near McGregor Rd., Feb. 5. Through a computer check, deputies discovered he was wanted by the Michigan State Police in Adrian. He was transferred into their custody in Saline and the 1988 Ford van he was driving was turned over to its owner.

David A. Eckman, 25, of Pinckney was arrested on two bench warrants for open intoxication and improper vehicle registration issued out of the county sheriff's department in Superior township. Eckman was handed over to a sheriff's deputy from a Unadilla police officer. The exchange was made at North Territorial Rd. near Hadley Rd., Feb. 3.

Felonious assault was reported in the 5100 block of Birch Rd., Feb. 3. The mother of a 14-year-old boy told police her son tried to assault her with a 2x4 wood plank. She said the incident happened around 6 p.m. when she came home and discovered he had not done chores assigned to him earlier that day. An argument ensued, she said, and he went upstairs to her bedroom and began throwing her belongings around the room. Afterward, he came downstairs swinging the plank of wood, telling his mother he would hit her as he swung it at her head. When she moved out of the way, he threw the board on the floor and fled the house.

Threats were reported in the 11400 block of North Territorial, Feb. 4. A waitress at a local restaurant told police her 30-year-old ex-husband, a township resident, threatened her at work. She said they had begun to reconcile and he was living with her. But, when things went sour she asked him to move out on Feb. 3. He got upset and showed up at her job Feb. 4, threatening to kill their cat and dog if she didn't come home right after work to discuss their relationship. She said he told her that he had a double barrel shot gun with two boxes of shells. The woman said she sent their children to her parent's home.

Bulldog Cagers Win Over Lincoln, Brooklyn

Chelsea Bulldogs improved to 13-2 over-all and 7-2 in the Southeastern Conference with victories over the Lincoln Railsplitters and Brooklyn Columbia Central Golden Eagles last week.

The Bulldogs had little trouble with either opponent as they cruised to a 74-52 win at home on Tuesday over Lincoln before pounding Central on the road Friday, 89-55.

In the Lincoln game, Chelsea opened with a 21-13 lead in the first quarter and was never seriously challenged.

"We didn't have any great runs," said Chelsea coach Robin Raymond.

"We also never let them get more than a few points at a time."

Raymond said he was pleased with his team's over-all offensive performance although they committed too many turnovers (21).

The Bulldogs continued their defensive consistency. They've allowed an average of 55 points all year.

Eleven of 12 Bulldogs scored, and eight had five points or more.

Senior Rob Davis paced the Bulldogs with 17 points, and senior Colby Skelton had 15. Other scorers were Case McCalla 8, David Stimpson 8, Nick Brink 6, Pat Steele 5, Cory Brown 5, Scott Colvin 4, Dan Wehrwein 2, Bryndon Skelton 2, and Chad Brown 2.

Chelsea shot 28-58 (48 percent) from the field and 16-19 (84 percent) from the line, while Lincoln was 30 percent from the field and 63 percent from the line. The Bulldogs out-rebounded the Railsplitters, 46-37.

On Friday, the magic number was 33 as the Bulldogs took advantage of 33 Central turnovers and scored 33 points in the fourth quarter.

There was no indication early the game would end so lopsided. Chelsea held a 34-24 lead at half-time.

"We came out early and had good shots but I had the feeling we were a step slow," Raymond said.

"At half-time we talked about picking up the pace on offense because I knew we could score. Three minutes into the second half we struck like lightning. We turned a 12-point game in a 25-point game in about a minute and a half. The big run started when the gold team went in." The gold team is Raymond second stringers.

Again, everyone played and 11 Bulldogs scored. Ten players had at least four points, while Davis and Steele shared scoring honors with 16 points (each with three three-pointers). The Bulldogs had a remarkable 30 assists for their 34 baskets.

"It was by far our most balance of the season and our best passing game of the season," Raymond said.

The Bulldogs had a season-high nine, three-point baskets on 9-15 shooting. Senior point guard Cory Brown had 10 points on two, three-pointers, seven assists, and one turnover. His brother, Chad, had five points, four assists, and no turnovers.

Other scorers were Stimpson 8, Colvin 9, Colby Skelton 8, Wehrwein 5, Brink 6, McCalla 4, and James Dising 2.

Chelsea had 17 steals and 12 turnovers. They shot 34-74 (46 percent) from the field and 12-17 (71 percent) from the line, while Central was 35 percent from the field and 61 percent from the line. Chelsea took 20 more shots than Central.

"I think we're right where we want to be at this point in the season," Raymond said.

Raymond said he may abandon his blue/gold teams concept for the rest of the season because he believes it's the best way for his team to prepare for next week's battle with Tecumseh, as well as the district play-offs. He believes his team has not reached offensive maturity partly because the flow of the team is interrupted by the mass substitutions at the end of the first and third quarters.

The Bulldogs host the Dexter Dreadnaughts Friday and will attempt to get revenge for their first loss of the season. The Dreadnaughts, with three losses, still have a remote shot at the league title.

COLBY SKELTON chases down a ball during last Tuesday's home game against the Lincoln Railsplitters. The Bulldogs won easily, 74-52.

MIKE THAYER of Chelsea, top, works on his Pinckney opponent during last Wednesday's meet in Chelsea. The Pirates won the meet by just a few points. The Bulldogs finished fourth over-all in the Southeastern Conference.

Matmen Place 4th in SEC Season Standings

Chelsea wrestlers placed fourth over-all in the Southeastern Conference with a fifth-place finish in the league meet last Saturday.

"I figured that's about what we'd do," said Chelsea coach Kerry Kargel.

Milan had a basketball player, who was a state-qualifying wrestler last year, return to the wrestling program. That was enough to keep the Bulldogs out of fourth place in the meet as Milan had 103 points and Chelsea had 99.5.

Saline won the meet with 188 points, Dexter was second with 167, and Pinckney third at 146.

Chelsea's lone champion for the meet was sophomore Ray Hatch at 112 pounds. Hatch won a 5-4 decision over Lincoln's Eric Stoll, who was 25-1 on the season, in the finals.

"I was happy for Ray," Kargel said.

"Stoll had taken just about every tournament this year. Anytime you can beat someone who's 25-1, that's an accomplishment."

Hatch also pinned Saline's Bob Hufnagel in 5:12 and won a 9-3 decision over Milan's John Gross.

Chelsea senior John Bobo took second at 160 pounds after losing in the closing seconds to Saline's Greg DeGrand. Last year Bobo beat him under similar circumstances. This year DeGrand escaped with virtually no time remaining for a 9-3 win.

On his way to the finals, Bobo won a technical fall over Lincoln's Colby Moore, 18-1, and shut out Dexter's Cory Knieper, 9-0.

Senior Dan Alber placed third at 119 pounds. He pinned Jeff Straub of Milan in 1:32, then lost a 4-0 decision to Dexter's Paul Wisniewski. He pinned Jamie Stahl of Pinckney in 1:41, then met Straub again in the consolation finals and took a 16-0 technical fall.

Junior Ryan Ludwig also placed third at 135 pounds. After a bye, he lost a 6-5 decision to Willie Daniels of Pinckney. Ludwig won a 17-0 technical fall over Tecumseh's Matt Baker, then took an 8-6 decision over Milan's Jale LaFleur.

Chelsea's Zac Ersten placed fourth at 103 pounds. He beat John Prentice of Dexter, 6-4, then lost to Pinckney's Dan Cowan, 19-9. Justin Andre of Lincoln fell in the third match, 10-0. But Ersten lost a re-match with Prentice in the consolation finals, 6-4, in two over-time periods. Ersten lost the coin toss to begin the second over-time and couldn't escape.

Bulldog freshman Mike Alber placed fourth at 140 pounds. He lost to number one seed Gary Fritz of Saline, 9-6, and Scott Caldwell of Pinckney, 8-1. "I was really proud of Mike," Kargel said.

"Fritz is a senior and Mike was leading 6-3 before he made a mistake."

Junior Mike Thayer took fourth at 152 pounds. He lost to Chad DeCare of Pinckney, 5-3, beat Robert Couch of Milan, 6-2, then lost in over-time to Saline's Robert Jonnaush, 4-2.

Senior Chris Kargel placed fourth at 189 pounds. He lost to Saline's Jeff Nadig, 8-0, pinned Lincoln's Mike Gatney in 3:45, and lost to Dexter's Josh Howard, 6-2.

Other Chelsea wrestlers who didn't place were Ben O'Connor at 130 pounds, Andy Kargel at 145 pounds, Paul Taylor at 171 pounds, and heavyweight Tom Barkman. Kargel beat Terry Smith of Pinckney, 10-6, and Taylor beat Andy Bobo of Dexter, 8-4.

In the final dual meet of the season, the Bulldogs lost 31-27 to the Pinckney Pirates on Wednesday at home.

"It was closer than I thought, and we really could have had them in several places," Kargel said.

Results follow.

103: Zac Ersten (C) beat Dan Cowan, 9-6.

112: Ray Hatch (C) lost to Ed Samples, 5-4.

119: Dan Alber pinned Jamie Stahl, 1:41.

125: Chelsea forfeited.

130: Ben O'Connor (C) lost to Brad Polombo, 15-0.

135: Mike Alber (C) lost to Willie Daniels, 18-7.

140: Ryan Ludwig (C) beat Scott Caldwell, 6-5.

145: Andy Kargel (C) lost in over-time to Terry Smith, 11-9.

152: Mike Thayer (C) beat Chad DeCare, 11-9, in over-time.

160: John Bobo (C) pinned Frank Samples, 2:48.

171: Richard Polzin (C) was pinned by Chris Laven, 1:21.

189: Chris Kargel (C) lost to John White, 11-2.

Hwy: Pinckney forfeited.

The Bulldogs take part in the team district tournament this afternoon at home. Saturday's individual district tournament is in Dexter.

In order to move on to the regional teams and individuals have to place in the top four. Kargel figures he has four or more boys who are capable of reaching the next level.

7th Grade Spikers Still Undefeated

Beach Middle school seventh grade volleyball team remained unbeaten last week with victories over Tecumseh and Lincoln.

Chelsea beat Tecumseh at home, 13-11, 11-2. Ingrid Biedron, Kristin Ellis, Katie Henry, Megan Marshall, and Amanda McConeghy each served four points. Meghan Holfka and Katie Royce each served three.

Chelsea won at Lincoln, 11-1, 11-7. Holfka and Karesa Johnson served four points each. Shontay Young, Amy McCalla, and Henry each served three points. The girls played their best game, according to coach Linda Turok.

Chelsea Tankers Edged By Dexter Dreadnaughts

Sixth-ranked Chelsea Bulldogs swimming team lost a close meet to seventh-ranked Dexter last Thursday, 95-91.

The Dexter team stung the Bulldogs in the opening event, the 200 medley relay. Matt McVittie, Kevin Kolodica, Matt Fischer, and David Brock stopped the clock in 1:45.16, nearly a second behind Dexter's season-best performance.

McVittie "looked rough" according to coach Dave Jolly, in the 200 freestyle, placing second at 1:50.62. Justin Roush was fourth at 1:56.11, "a solid performance for him," Jolly said.

Steve Straub swam the 200 individual medley in 2:12.44, good for second place. Mike McEachern and Peter Straub finished fourth and fifth, respectively.

Brock, Kolodica, and Jim Bergman placed 2-3-4 in the 50 freestyle, with Brock leading the way at :24.05.

Diver Jason Fox had a season-best performance with 161.50 points for second place. Dexter won with a diver who was competing for the first time this year after suffering an injury.

Matt Fischer won the 100 butterfly in :56.58, again setting a pool and school record. Aaron Heaven turned in a 1:03:31 and Chris Grossman was fifth.

McVittie won the 100 freestyle with a time of :48.69. Straub was third at :52.97.

David Brock improved his winning 500 freestyle time to 5:10.82. Roush was third in 5:14.23.

The Chelsea A and B 200 freestyle relay teams placed second and third. Fischer won the 100 backstroke in :56.45 and Kolodica took the 100 breaststroke in a close finish with a time of 1:06.99.

The last event "was a heartbreaker because we had a chance to tie the freestyle," Jolly said. The Chelsea A 400 freestyle relay team won the event in 3:25.63 but the B team just got touched out for third place.

Chelsea hosts Fenton on Thursday at 6:30 p.m.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BRIAN HAMILTON

We're heading into the homestretch for the winter sports season. The first major sign is today's district wrestling tournament, right here in Chelsea. It has been an awfully long winter, hasn't it? Not only has the weather been miserable, with fewer chances to air out, but there has been so much to contend with.

There have been more cancelled events than I can ever remember. Tuesday wrestling meets have been tough for coach Kerry Kargel's young team. The kids get on a routine for making weight on Thursdays and Saturdays, then it all gets messed up. Athletic director Wayne Welton and secretary Pat Zangara have had to scramble to find make-up days, if possible. Athletics could still get ambushed by snowflakes before it's all over.

Nevertheless, at least two Bulldogs sports teams are poised for a fine post-season.

Coach Dave Jolly will take quite a few swimmers to the state meet next month. With the Matts, Fischer and McVittie, as well as several other consistent performers, Chelsea has a chance to make some noise. They're already familiar with quite a bit of the competition since Milan and Dexter figure to send quite a few kids, too.

Incidentally, of all high school athletes, swimmers might be the most dedicated of all. Not only do they have long, strenuous practices, but many of them are in the water all year long. It's a wonder more kids don't burn out by their senior year simply because of the commitment it takes to reach the top. I hope this turns into a season to remember for Jolly's kids.

Coach Robin Raymond's basketball team, at 13-2 before last night, is also starting to round into form. Although their record is impressive, there have only been a few occasions when the Bulldogs have been on top of all aspects of their game at once. They've had two quarters this year when they've scored more than 30 points. For the season, the offense is averaging about 70 points while the defense is yielding 55. The team is capable of blowing any opponent off the court in short order.

There are a number of encouraging signs that the team will get even better. Point guards Cory and Chad Brown are playing virtually errorless basketball. Over the last couple of weeks the Bulldogs have generally had fewer than 15 turnovers while their opponents usually averaged 20 or more. And the number of assists has been remarkable. In one game last week they had 30 assists in their 34 baskets.

Co-captains Colby Skelton and Pat Steele have had consistent, strong seasons. Each is averaging in double figures and their defense has been impeccable—all the more apparent since they finalized their football plans for next season and took some of the pressure off. Senior transfer Rob Davis appears more comfortable in Raymond's system than he did early on. He is the team's leading scorer and is becoming more active inside. As of last week he had 26 blocked shots and may well set a team record, if he hasn't already. Davis, who's averaging about 16 or 17 points, is the kind of player who could score 30 or 40 some night. That will become more possible now that Raymonds has decided to abandon his two-platoon system and rotate eight or nine players for the stretch run.

The Bulldogs have no weak links. Everyone Raymond plays the rest of the season is capable of making a significant contribution, partly because each player has seen a lot of court time during the first 15 games. Raymond won't substitute just to give a starter a rest. The Bulldogs will be able to play aggressive defense all the time because there are plenty of able bodies should someone foul out.

When the team stumbles, it's because they aren't mentally or emotionally in the game. I don't think that will be a problem the rest of the way because every league game is crucial. If the Bulldogs continue to win, the worst they can do is tie for the league title. That, alone, should provide the motivation.

The Bulldogs can take a big step Friday if they can stick it to the Dexter Dreadnaughts at home. The Dreadnaughts, of course, are partly responsible for putting the Bulldogs in a tie for first place in the SEC.

In the loss at Dexter, the Bulldogs were uninspired and the Dreadnaughts played the game of their lives. Yet Chelsea lost by a mere point. Dexter will come into the game confident that they can win because they did it before. The Bulldogs know they aren't the same team they were in January. It has been a long, long time since Chelsea lost twice in one season to Dexter.

My guess is the game will either go down to the wire or it will be a blowout. The Bulldogs could use a big, raucous home crowd.

The situation should get even more tense next week at Tecumseh. The game could rival last year's game there, when Tom Poulter grabbed an offensive rebound and put in the winning shot at the buzzer. The teams, barring an upset this week, should be playing for a piece of the league title.

Then it's on to the district tournament. Saline is out of it because they're class A, so this year's tournament, at Siena Heights, has the Bulldogs, Dreadnaughts, Indians, and Brooklyn Columbia Central.

This is the time of year that makes the long, winter sports season all worthwhile.

JV Basketball Team Closing in on Victory

Chelsea Bulldogs junior varsity basketball team was still looking for its first victory last week after losing close games to Lincoln and Brooklyn Columbia Central.

At home against Lincoln on Tuesday, the Bulldogs lost 70-66.

The Bulldogs couldn't overcome their 27 turnovers, including 17 in the first half.

Three Bulldogs scored in double figures, including Dan Johnson 19, Sam Morseau 17, and Josh Inwood 10. Other scorers were Kevin Cross 5, Shane Miller 5, Jamie Courdway 4, Kevin Holmes 3, Jeff Sarna 2, and Mark Hand 1.

Inwood had a team-high nine rebounds. "Dan Johnson played his best all-around game for us," said Chelsea coach Dave Quilter.

"He hit two three-pointers in the fourth quarter to bring us close. We again shot well from the floor (47 percent) but again turned the ball over way too much, especially in the first half."

In the Central game on Friday, Morseau scored 24 points and had nine rebounds in a 66-63 loss. Morseau hit on 11 of 15 shots from the field.

Chelsea led at half-time, 33-29, but Central won the third quarter 28-14.

"Sam Morseau had a strong all-around game," Quilter said.

"We did a lot of things well this game. We had 48 percent shooting from the field, we beat their half-court trap, and we ran our zone offense well. The second quarter really hurt us but the key was our poor free throw shooting. Two out of the last three games we had the opportunities at the free throw line but just didn't convert. We're getting better and the kids are playing harder."

Other Chelsea scorers were Cross 13, Miller 8, Holmes 6, Johnson 5, Sarna 3, Hand 2, and Inwood 2.

Chelsea had 19 turnovers, the first time all year the Bulldogs have had fewer than 20.

Michigan Environmental Program Spotlights At National Meeting

Innovative programs that highlight environmental stewardship were presented during a special interest session at the American Farm Bureau Federation's 76th Annual Meeting in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.

Vicki Pontz, legislative counsel for the Michigan Farm Bureau, shared the efforts of the Cass County Farm Bureau as its members worked toward a voluntary solution to a serious water quality problem. Cass county is the largest hog-producing county in Michigan, said Pontz, and is also the county with the largest number of recreational lakes.

Pesticides were found in the water supply, but rather than dwell on the problem, Pontz said, Cass county saw an opportunity. "They appealed to those who would regulate this to let farmers voluntarily solve the problem," she said. This was the beginning of Michigan's Farmstead Assessment System.

The Farmstead Assessment System consists of 12 work sheets that help farmers and other landowners assess their groundwater pollution potential. "This is a pro-active approach," said Pontz. "More importantly, it is educational not regulatory."

Churches Co-Sponsor Weekly Series On Spirituality

First Congregational church and St. Paul United Church of Christ will co-sponsor a Wednesday evening series on spirituality, designed for the Lenten Season, beginning Feb. 16. Each event will start at 7 p.m. and last about 30 minutes.

The schedule is as follows:
Feb. 16, "A Service of Ashes," at the Congregational church, with the Rev. Romi Chaffee.
Feb. 23, "Spiritual Practices for Lent and Beyond," at the Congregational church, with the Rev. Dr. Lynn Spitz-Nagel.

March 2, "Spirituality of Children," at the Congregational church, with Kris Abbey, director of Christian Education at St. Paul UCC.

March 9, "Spiritual Practices for Lent and Beyond," continued, at St. Paul UCC, with the Rev. Dr. Spitz-Nagel.

March 16, "Spirituality of Children," continued, at St. Paul UCC, with Abbey.

March 23, "Spirituality and Holy Week," at St. Paul UCC, with the Rev. Chaffee.

Each event will begin with a brief time of worship. For further information call the First Congregational church at 475-1844 or St. Paul UCC at 475-2545.

Farmers Cast Wary Eye on Proposed Health Care Plans

The major health care reform proposals before Congress contain some positive features but also raise numerous concerns for farm families.

Michigan Farm Bureau believes health care reform legislation should seek to improve the current market-based system, while providing more security and choice for individuals and families, according to public affairs director Al Almy. He said Farm Bureau strongly supports the 100 percent income tax deduction for health insurance premium costs for the self-employed. This provision is included in the Clinton plan as well as most other proposals in Congress.

"We also share the president's goals for improving rural health care delivery systems and encouraging young doctors and other health professionals to service rural areas," Almy said. "However, we cannot support the president's plan for employer mandates. These will hit farm employers hard, forcing many out of business," he said.

In 1913 the first mediation service for labor disputes outside of the railroad industry was created by the act creating the Department of Labor.
The legislation authorized the Secretary of Labor "to act as mediator and to appoint commissioners of conciliation in labor disputes whenever in the secretary's judgment the interests of industrial peace may require it." In 1947, the U.S. Mediator and Conciliation Service was made an independent agency, according to the Department of Labor's "Labor Firsts in America."

land acquisition or facility construction are now available from the Department of Natural Resources.

Funding assistance for these acquisition and construction projects are provided under the Recreation
Bond Program, the Michigan Natural Resources Trust Fund (MNRIF) Program, and the Federal Land and Water Conservation Fund Program.

Any unit of government which has not yet requested a grant application package and wishes to apply for recreation grant assistance this year should contact the Recreation Grants
Section of the DNR's Administrative Services Division at (517) 373-0125.

All submitted applications must be postmarked no later than April 1, 1994 in order to be given funding consideration.

Grant applications must include total matching funds of 25 percent to 50 percent. In addition, any Michigan in 1994 must have a DNR approved five-year recreation plan on file by the

Life on the Farm

My neighbor Alvin and I sat in his cozy apartment, and watched that -10 degree wind blow those big white flakes swirl like dust clouds around the courtyard. We started talking of our experiences from 1917 onward.

Some of Alvin's story follows. His birthplace is at the corner of Steinbach and Scio Roads, about midway between Chelsea and Ann Arbor. He studied in his early days at a school about a mile from home. The schoolhouse is now a home for a family. Born in 1901, his working career began as he worked for a neighbor for $90 a month.

His tasks were varied but he told of long fall and winter days cutting wood in the woods on the farm. They worked in all kinds of weather, and he learned how to dress for snow in the bitter cold of the woods, or hot summer days in the field. Axes and two-man cross-cut saws were his tools to take to the woods. He was taught safety and skills which were useful to him years later. He learned to stay clear, when one day a large branch on a falling tree just missed him by inches. He liked the life, even when he had to milk in 1927, 18 cows by hand.

He bought his first Model T Ford new in 1923 for $625. For many years all the work in the fields were done by 11 horses. His job quite often was rubbing the horses down with kerosene. It made their coats shine.

His boss gave him a week off when he was married. They went—where else—to Niagara Falls. Somewhere along the line Alvin decided to buy a farm, and borrowed $1000 as down payment. His first John Deere tractor had steel wheels. Slowly he prospered and he found himself with a fine home and barns and all he needed. Sadness came when he lost his wife.

Things were going so well in the 40's that Alvin took a side line job hauling milk from farmers to Ann Arbor creamery. He could carry as many as 120 cans on his truck. Among the highlights of his story he told of a big tornado of June 6, 1947. It took a path a half mile wide across the road from his home. The farmer was baling hay. The baler was run by a steam engine and the operator ran and jumped onto the engine to shut it off as the tornado could be seen on the way. The wind picked him up, carried him about a quarter mile, and set him down unhurt. The barn was destroyed but the hay bales being piled on the barn floor were not touched.

Alvin married the second time in 1962. He sold his milk route for $8000, moved into Ann Arbor where he built a nice new home. A large airplane colored view of his farm home with barns and all buildings hangs in his apartment at C.R.C. Also a picture of his home in Ann Arbor. Thanks Alvin for your story.

Alvin Toney's apt. No. is M-227. His sister-in-law Mary Haselswerdt who was a farm neighbor, is also a resident in C.R.C.

New Year's Parties

Edith Coan had three New Year parties. An afternoon party was held and employees were invited. On the same day in the evening 52 residents enjoyed an evening of fellowship in her apartment and a few overflow attending were seated in the hallway. On the following New Year's Eve she had a small party of close friends in. Everyone enjoyed themselves and thanked Edith for her thoughtfulness.

United Methodist Women's Sunday

The United Methodist Women of the C.R.C. took charge of the chapel service on Jan. 9, and each of the women participating gave of their best. Many here could have preached the sermon also, but Rev. Kirkby took care of that very well.

Those taking parts were Greeters: Lucille Steffey, Elsie Bradshaw; Organist: Ruth Williams; Greeting and Announcements: Emily Harr; Doxology and Offering: Lenore Manore; Chapel Singers: Men and Women; Prayer and Lord's Prayer: Alma Gosner; Psalter: Florence Simmons; Sermon: Rev. Kearney Kirkby; "Love Is No Bargain"; Modern Affirmation: Lenore Manore; Benediction: Pearl Large.

Of course the congregation assisted with the hymns, but the ladies deserve a "Thank You" for their parts.

The Gift of St. Valentine

(With profuse apologies to O'Henry)
Maggie sat in front of the TV, not watching—lost in thought.

"What a stupid fool I am," she mused out loud. "What a looney! It's almost Valentine's Day and there's no money for a present for Vince. The budget's shot—completely." What to do?

She roused herself to look at the clock. "What I'd better do now is start dinner. Vince will be home soon, and he'll be hungry."

She went into the kitchen and began preparing their evening meal, but her mind was still on what she could get for Vince for Valentine's Day. When her husband came in, he seemed extra tired.

"Hard day?" she asked as she set out the meal.

"No," he answered briefly. "Not particularly."

"But you look so tired!"

"I'm OK, just hungry."

They ate almost in silence, and in spite of Vince saying he was hungry, he picked at his food.

The evening was no improvement. He read the paper scanningly, said there was nothing on TV he cared to watch and sat lost in thought. By the time Maggie finished in the kitchen, he had disappeared, and his coat and muffler were gone. Maggie was really upset. "Where could he have gone and why?" she wondered. To calm herself, she picked up the paper, and turning rapidly to the Women's section, saw a headline: "Can't Find a Valentine? Make One. Here's How."

She read the directions. "All you need," it said, "is a lacy paper doily, a piece of red construction paper and a felt-tipped pen." She knew they had the pen. The doily and the construction paper might be a problem. She got up and started rummaging in the drawer. Yes, the pen was there and usable, but no doily and not even a scrap of any colored construction paper. Another impasse! More rummaging in drawers produced nothing.

She glanced at the clock and realized Vince had been gone almost an hour. She was very concerned, but determined to keep as calm as possible, so she sat down at the desk and started to print on a small piece of white paper, which she had cut into a heart. She had written "I..." when she heard the door open and Vince appeared.

He stood surveying the room. "What happened here?" and his voice was no longer tired. "Looks like we've had a tornado."

"O, Vince!" Maggie cried. "I was so worried, I had to do something."

"Like creating havoc," he suggested with a laugh. As Maggie looked around the room, she realized she had created a mess. Then she looked up at Vince, who was smiling down at her.

"What else were you going to say, honey?"

"Just, 'I love you' and, O, Vince, I do love you more than any words on a fancy Valentine could tell."

At that, he took her tenderly in his arms and said, "Me, too! I love you that much, too. I don't have a Valentine for you, darling, but I do have you!"

"Happy Valentine's Day!" they said together.

—Berniece Frederick.

We who regularly make a trip down to the Kresge Lobby nearly every morning were pleasantly surprised recently at the NEW LOOK. What was formerly a place to wait for the bus or a friend has blossomed out into a nice looking lounge. Many of the straight backed arm chairs were gone and in their place are upholstered soft easy chairs and a real long sofa.

We thank those responsible for the change. We may come down and sit and over-stay our welcome. Gusts of cold air come in from the magic doors during these snappy days. It seems that Velma Huston, at the information desk, might have to dress a little warmer. However, spring is just around the corner, and everybody will welcome some of that cool air then.

Resolutions

Some folks think a New Year's Resolution is old fashioned and a waste of time. We have some names on our list who have made a resolution to stop doing something, or begin something new. It is not a long list, and we encourage others to sign up. Let your roving reporter know right away, and we will report in the March paper of our progress. It definitely is not a waste of time to try, and like one lady said: "We should all have some new goals. Even in trying to reach a goal we can't help but reap benefits."

Your old eyeglasses may be donated to the mission in Detroit for recycling. You may leave the old glasses with the following people: Alice Jewell DH 335; Lee Huber M-306 or the receptionist.

Food prices in general rose about two percent in 1993. Slightly higher food price inflation is predicted for 1994, driven by faster economic activity and greater consumer demand.

Soil Borings To Start at Tower Site

The village is planning to begin soil borings on a site for a new water tower.

The new tower will be located behind Chelsea A & W on land owned by developer Rene Papo. Papo has agreed to donate the land to the village as part of an over-all annexation agreement for other land he plans to develop.

Bonds will be sold to finance the tower, and water rates will probably be raised to pay off the bonds. The new tower will hold at least 300,000 gallons, three times the capacity of the current tower downtown.

The installation was held at its Change of Watch Dinner ceremony Jan. 8 at Holiday Inn-North Campus. Special guests in attendance included the District 9 Squadron Administrative Officer, Lt.D/C Steven Jensen of Lansing.

Iris Young, payroll and benefits administrator for Spring Arbor Distribution Co., and a Dexter resident, has been elected to the office of commander of the Ann Arbor Power Squadron. In addition to Commander Young, the bridge will include the following lieutenant commanders: John Sopoci, executive officer; Frank Hoy, administrative officer; Douglas Palmer, education officer; Roxanne Harold, secretary; and Steven Glasgow, treasurer.

Ann Arbor Power Squadron was chartered in 1965. Primary purpose of the Squadron is to promote safe boating through education. The Squadron offers a public boating course twice a year to the public as a civic service. The next class will begin Feb. 9 at Clague school, Ann Arbor.

The course covers a wide variety of topics related to safety on the water, required and desirable equipment, legal requirements, and boat handling. More than three million people have taken the course in the last 50 years.

USPS also works with the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, Red Cross, Canadian Power Squadron and Yacht and Boating Clubs to maintain safety on the water.

Strong International Results Help Fuel UMI Sales Growth

UMI announced today an 11 percent sales increase for 1993 over the previous year. Annual sales reached $138 million, versus $124 million in 1992.

"Despite a tough economy and even tougher competition in the electronic information industry, we had a solid year," says James Roemer, new UMI president and CEO. "Our results in the international market really helped our over-all effort."

UMI's international sales increased 20 percent over 1992 figures, due to some sizable microform and electronic orders from Asia.

"Our international sales force continues to find outstanding opportunities in Europe, Asia, and South America," adds Roemer. "Universities and companies world-wide are looking to the types of database systems that we produce to help them increase their access to vital information from periodicals and newspapers."

The company expects 1994 sales to be in the $150-160 million range, based on the strength of several new electronic products set for launch, and the first full sales year for the company's state-of-the-art document delivery system—ProQuest PowerPages.
