Ordeal Ends for Leonard As Final Charge Dropped

Nearly 18 months of uncertainty ended last Thursday for former North Sharon Baptist church assistant pastor Timothy Leonard when the final child sexual molestation charge against him was dropped in Washtenaw County Circuit Court.

Leonard, 33, of Napoleon township, had been accused of raping a 10-year-old Jackson girl in a church bathroom.

Judge Patrick Conlin dismissed the case after assistant prosecutor Julia Owczek said the alleged victim could not say whether the assault occurred in 1990 or 1991. He had earlier ruled that the prosecution had to narrow the time frame of the case to at least five months.

The dismissal paves the way for Leonard to return to his former church post. He celebrated the ruling Sunday with the rest of the congregation.

The dismissal came a day after Leonard's attorney, Michael Stillwagon, filed a motion requesting more court documents and police records concerning the girl's home life. He alleged that the girl was beaten and her siblings were sexually abused, and some of the allegations were supported by court records and reports by Jackson County Friend of the Court.

Leonard said he believes he was the victim of a botched investigation, the bulk of which was handled by Michigan State Police Det. Norman Maxwell. One of the initial detectives in the case, Robert Fitzpatrick, was convicted of embezzlement. He later testified during the trial of deacon Mark Foeller that Maxwell used questionable interview tactics and intimidated and led the alleged victims.

Leonard was first informed of the investigation against him by Pastor Bill Winger nearly three months before police announced the results of their investigation at a news conference in the Chelsea Depot.

Leonard was arrested when he returned from his father's funeral in Pittsburgh and was thrown in jail for nearly three months after being denied bail. Eventually, all 13 charges against him were dropped due to problems with the testimony of the alleged victims.

Foeller, who was also implicated in the investigation, was tried and acquitted in December on 11 charges of criminal sexual conduct.

Both Foeller and Leonard were active in the church's Sunday school bus ministry. Buses would pick up children, many of them from low income families in Jackson county, and take them to the church.

School District Applies For Millage Election, Hears 'Win-Win' Talk

Chelsea School District plans to hold a millage election on Monday, April 18 or as soon as possible thereafter.

The Board of Education voted Monday night to apply to the county for the April 18 date.

It won't be known, however, until March 15, the date of the state-wide school finance reform election, exactly how much millage residents will be asked to approve in April.

The local election, which is normally held in June, is needed so early because the district has cash flow problems. Every year the district has to borrow to meet its late payrolls, and the money is paid back through the collection of delinquent taxes by the county. The county does not make that payment, usually about $2 million, until June 30, too late to make the final payroll.

However, with the district's entire millage expiring, there is nothing to guarantee payment of the loan.

Legal advertising for the local election has to take place in the March 9 edition of The Chelsea Standard, assistant superintendent Fred Mills said. Consequently, two ballots will be printed, one of which will reflect the outcome of the state-wide initiative.

In other business Monday night, the board heard a presentation on "The Mutual Gains Approach to Collective Bargaining" by Ed Hartfield of the National Center for Dispute Settlement. It's also known as "win-win" negotiations. The Chelsea teacher contract expires June 30.

Most board members, with the exception of Joe Redding, appeared interested in exploring the new approach to negotiations, which requires an extensive training program for both bargaining teams. Redding questioned whether the cost, which was loosely estimated at $14,000, would be worth the benefits. He also said he's heard the pitch for many years.

Chelsea Education Association spokesman Joe Beard said the union would continue to explore the proposal.

Interim superintendent Howard Oesterling said after the presentation that school finance reform is going to force the district "to do the same thing at less cost" because the state is passing on certain retirement expenses that the state formerly paid. He implied that negotiations would be different this time around because there will not only be less money but there will be limited local opportunity to raise more money through property tax increases, unlike past years.

"The state is forcing us into the privatization business," Oesterling said.

Mills said after the meeting that "I'm afraid what Howard said is true."

"Mutual Gains" is designed to take the tension out of negotiations by eliminating confrontation. It focuses on each side understanding the other's legitimate interests rather than presentations of positions and proposals.

Training (both sides together) takes a minimum of three days. To open, the process is presented not only to the negotiating teams but to as many other teachers and administrators who want to hear it.

Hartfield said the concept can be applied to other areas, including grievances and other faculty/administration concerns.

The center conducts interviews concerning issues, perceptions, and past bargaining problems. It also helps the parties get started and helps manage difficulties, and has post-contract follow-up.

Hartfield said that "once you taste the new way of negotiating, you won't go back to the old."

Hartfield cited several instances the process has helped negotiations at the University of Michigan Hospital.

In other business, the board accepted the early retirement applications of teachers Tom Morrison, Jim Hoffmeyer, Helen Bareis, Phil Bareis, Nancy VanBlaricum, Jon Schaffner, Warren Mayer, Jim Hoelt, and Rich Bareis. Mills said one other person applied then rescinded the application. The offer can be made to one more person.

The early retirement offer is designed to save the district money, most of it beginning in the second year, by hiring replacement teachers at the lower end of the pay scale. The incentive includes the purchase of two years of retirement.

The board approved the Outdoor Club's caving trip for April 27-30; accepted the donation of uniforms valued at $8,127.86 from the Chelsea Music Boosters; accepted the donation of six videotape recorders valued at $4,500 from Blackstar Communications; and approved the superintendent's job description.

Homestead Exemption Forms Cause Confusion for Many Area Residents

Area residents, like many residents across the state, are apparently confused about the new "Affidavit for Homestead Exemption From Some School Property Taxes" form that was recently mailed to property owners.

The form is a result of recent legislative work to change how schools are financed. It is supposed to be completed and returned to the township or city where the property is located. Chelsea or Dexter village residents should send the forms to their townships, not their village offices.

The property tax identification number has to be filled in on line four. The number is available on assessment notices or tax bills. It is also available by calling the township assessor. It will begin with a letter or two letters (which are often so far to the left of the number that they look like a mistake), followed by a series of numbers. In Washtenaw county, the first two numbers are 81.

On many tax bills, there is a second line of numbers, which should not be included. In Chelsea's case, the second line 00003-CHELS is a school code and not part of the parcel identification, although there is no easy way to tell that by looking.

Voters will go to the polls March 15 to decide whether or not to increase the sales tax from four percent to six percent as the main financing mechanism.

If the sales tax is turned down, the back-up plan, also called the statutory plan, automatically goes into effect. And the back-up plan has a different proportion of property taxes, as well as a different definition of a

Leith Trial Set For Monday, May 2

The trial of accused murderer Stephen Leith of Chelsea has been rescheduled for Monday, May 2 at 8:30 a.m. before Washtenaw County Circuit Court Judge Donald Shelton.

Also, the pre-trial hearing has been re-scheduled for Thursday, April 7 at 3 p.m.

Leith's attorney, Joe Simon, is scheduled to be married shortly before the original trial date. In addition, Leith is expected to be referred for psychiatric testing.

The original pre-trial hearing was scheduled earlier this month but was postponed when Judge Melinda Morris disqualified herself from the case because her secretary is a former Chelsea School District employee.

Leith faces an open murder charge in the shooting of Chelsea school superintendent Joe Plasecki in December. He also faces charges of assault with intent to murder in connection with the wounding of high school principal Ron Mead and teacher Phil Jones. He faces three charges for using a firearm during a felony.

Leith, who is on unpaid leave, is a former chemistry teacher at the high school. He is lodged in the Washtenaw County Jail.

4 Years Ago . . .

Wednesday, Feb. 21, 1990—

Chelsea School District students will start and end their day 20 minutes earlier beginning next fall. Chelsea Board of Education approved the time change at their regular meeting Monday night. The time change has been considered for more than two years, said assistant superintendent Fred Mills. The change was made for two primary reasons, and was something of a compromise. A fire apparently started by faulty wiring caused about $82,000 in damage at Chelsea Greenhouse on Lingane Rd. last Wednesday night, Valentine's Day. No one was hurt in the blaze and the business managed to save much of its inventory as the fire was mostly contained to non-growing areas. Valentine's Day is one of the busiest days of the year for the business.

Village of Chelsea zoning department issued compliance permits for more than $38 million in new construction and remodeling during 1989. The annual report by zoning inspector Rosemary Harok, contained more than 160 separate entries for projects, which included everything from fences to Chelsea Milling Co.'s new office building. Some projects did not contain estimated building costs, so the over-all total is probably higher than the $38,154,068 reported.

The free ride for Chelsea and Dexter will apparently continue through February 1991, but after that Ann Arbor Transportation Authority will ask local governments for up to $60,000 to keep the Chelsea-Ann Arbor bus route going for another year. AATA officials told Chelsea Village manager Robert Stalke last Friday that they have found enough money to keep the program through the village's fiscal 1991 year without contribution by village government. After that, however, AATA officials say the route will cost about $180,000 to $190,000 for one year. When state and federal grants, as well as bus fare, are taken into account, the number shrinks to $60,000 that will have to come from other sources.

★ The Christmas Eve Hijacking

By Lawrence W. Reed

Last summer, the Michigan Legislature stripped away property tax funding for public schools and inaugurated a great debate about the kind of educational system we should have and how it should be funded.

In early October, Governor John Engler weighed in with a package of quality reforms that promised to revolutionize the schools. His proposals would have injected a great measure of choice, competition and accountability into a failing monopoly, empowered teachers and entrepreneurs to usher promising innovations into the educational process, encouraged containment of runaway costs, and delivered a small net tax cut to the citizens of this state.

As late in the debate as early December, school reformers still had reason to be optimistic about what this unique opportunity for change might bring. But when Michiganians awoke on Christmas morning they discovered that Michigan's "education revolution" had been hijacked. The Legislature flunked the test. Sweeping school reform, so desperately needed by the children of this state, must await another day.

The compromise finance package worked out in the final hours before Christmas contains a March 15 ballot proposal and a statutory plan that will take effect if voters reject the ballot question. The fact that Michiganians have a degree of "choice" in the matter is little consolation in the face of this fact: If each plan could be judged on its own merits in isolation from the other, neither would earn a passing grade.

On the "plus" side, the ballot proposal puts an emphasis on taxing consumption, rather than work, savings and investment, because it likes the sales tax, cuts the income tax and keeps the Single Business Tax (SBT) at its current 2.35 percent. That's preferable to the statutory plan's emphasis on boosting both the income tax and the SBT, which would send a powerful signal to entrepreneurs that Michigan is not a friendly place to be productive. Property taxes, for most Michiganians, go down under both plans.

Both plans require school districts to pay retirement costs and Social Security taxes out of the state's guaranteed per pupil "foundation grant," which starts at $4,200. The State now picks up both, at a cost of almost $900 million. The new policy would encourage districts to be more cost-conscious at the bargaining table.

On balance, the ballot would appear less unpalatable, but mainly because the alternative seems even more so. The question Michiganians need to ask is, "What are we getting for our time, trouble, and money, whichever plan ultimately takes effect?" That's where the rubber hits the road.

Charter schools—new public schools that can be created by universities, community colleges and certain other public entities—are now authorized, but under conditions much more restrictive than what the Governor initially proposed. Cross-district school choice was completely dropped. Almost no incentives for the schools to spend public money more wisely were passed, even though it is known that substantial savings can be delivered through more competitive bidding of teacher health insurance, food services, transportation, and custodial services. Reforms of teacher tenure and certification were minimal and confined to the new charter schools.

Incredibly, schools came through the debate with about a 9 percent increase in total funding—in spite of an endless stream of studies nationwide that show no positive correlation between spending and student performance in public education. For this reason, Michigan will not get a much-needed net tax cut under either plan.

Furthermore, schools under both plans will be largely freed of millage elections, meaning that the voter's one best way to hold schools accountable has been nearly swept away. That might be tolerable if the foundation grant were to go directly to the parents, who in turn could shop for the school of their choice. But the grant goes to school districts and their administrative bureaucracies, not to parents. And without enhanced choice, most parents will be stuck with the schools to which they are assigned by geography—schools whose administrators now won't have to ask voters for periodic funding renewals. Are the few quality measures gained in this whole debate really worth the loss of local control implicit in a further centralization of school funding at the state level?

The Legislature's work is also top-heavy with new mandates from Lansing. One calls for schools to add more hours of instruction per day or more days in the school year. In the absence of the kind of reforms that would spur excellence, such a mandate is reminiscent of the old canard, "We're losing on every unit we sell, but somehow we'll make it up in volume."

The status quo in Michigan education has emerged in Lansing relatively undisturbed. That will probably please the Michigan Education Association, which fought hard to keep its power and purse intact, but it ought to infuriate parents, taxpayers,

Girl Scouts

DAISY GIRL SCOUT TROOP 719—

Feb. 17, the troop met at the McKune Library to learn what community service our library offers us. We discussed the similarities between the Girl Scout Promise that says, "On my honor, I will try to serve God and my country, to help people at all times, and to live by the Girl Scout Law." Helping people is what a library is all about, so is being a Girl Scout.

The troop donated four books to the library as our community service project to our friends and families: "Good Night Moon," "I Did It," "Aladdin" Read Along with cassette and "Just Imagine." The girls also received their own library cards.

The troop is participating in the "QSP Be A Reader" program. Over several weeks we will be completing six projects. At completion, each girl will receive a patch that can be added to each year. Feb. 24 we will be talking about popcorn and discuss several careers that we can explore in the future. We will be getting ready for the Father-Daughter Banquet where our flag bearers will be Stephanie Cashman and Erin O'Brien. They will carry our troop flag that was made specifically for our troop by Nancy Neff.

teachers and children who had hoped for so much more.

The German leader Otto von Bismarck once said that there were two things people should never see being made: laws and sausage. In light of the way Lansing handled school reform, that comment does a disservice to sausage.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Ed Doolittle opened the session at the country store Saturday night by asking the fellows if any of them know what happened to arithmetic. Ed wanted to know if it went the way of geography in American education, and if people are growing up knowing as little about one as the other.

Ed had a clipping where a lawyer in Dallas billed clients for more than 1,000 hours of work every month last year, including 1,547 hours in May. The case came to light after some of his clients that know one another compared their bills. They worked through the state attorney general to get a complaint before the state bar association. A grand jury recently indicted the lawyer for fraud, and Ed said he was wondering if he will plead ignorance of multiplying.

Ed said the item reminded him of the businessman interviewing accountants. He ask each applicant what was two plus two, and all said four until one ask the businessman what he would like for it to be. He got the job, Ed said, but he would of done better multiplying 24 times 31 for the Dallas lawyer. But you got to know, Ed went on, that by the time the lawyer goes to trial, if ever, the real problem won't be about how many hours in a month, it will be the system that made him bill by the hour instead of by the job.

General, the fellows were agreed with Ed that smart in the head is no match for larceny in the heart. If the lawyer ever thought the chickens he was plucking would compare the feathers they were losing he would have worked a better wrinkle. As for expert chicken pluckers, Bug Hookum said, basketball coaches that are screaming so hard at the National Collegiate Athletic Association ought to take a refresher course in fifth grade math, and brush up on civics in the deal.

Bug noted where coaches are crying because big colleges agreed to cut scholarships from 14 to 13, and NCAA went along with the move to cut costs. The coaches say it means thousands of poor ball players won't get a free education. At one per school, Bug ask, how many thousands is that. Farthermore, do the coaches work for the colleges or vice versa. If the coaches want to crunch some serious numbers, let them pool their summer camp, TV show and shoe endorsing money and set up foundations to give scholarships to poor students that work hardest for them, athlete or not.

In many ways, declared Clem Webster, we keep outsmarting ourselves. He read recent where an economist said this country is beset with "occupational obsolescence complicated by technological surplusage." Clem said he wrote it down and after studying it up one side and down the other he takes it to mean we are getting to smart for our own good. We make machines that mean more production with fewer jobs, and by the time we train folks that get laid off their new skills are outdated with new technology.

Actual, Zeke Grubb broke in, it ain't the technology that's causing the surplusage of trouble, it's how we use it. For instant, farmers and ranchers have got to keep upgrading their technology to keep us in food and fiber. We got technology to clean air and water, but it ain't near as profitable as technology that pollutes our air and water.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

Publication Explains Proposed School Reform Funding

By Nancy Thelen

A bulletin on the school reform and funding changes, authored by Michigan State University Extension specialists, is now available at the Washtenaw County MSU Extension Office. The publication provides Michigan citizens with a discussion of the legislative actions that change the way Michigan finances public schools. On March 15 citizens will have the opportunity to vote on one specific part of the funding package—whether to increase the sales tax. It is also important to understand the broader context of the new legislation.

The bulletin "Michigan's Public Education: School Reform and Funding Changes" discusses the legislation, the ballot plan, the statutory plan, and the impacts. There is no charge for the publication. New Tax Form homestead, which is why residents have to fill out the new form. The definition has to do with land next to a primary residence that is classified (not zoned)—for tax purposes—as agricultural land.

Under the statutory plan, the state will levy 12 mills against all non-homestead property and nothing against homesteads. It's the state non-homestead levy that property owners will avoid by filling the forms. Anyone who did not receive a form or may need another one should call their local township.

When I was a boy of fourteen, my father was so ignorant I could hardly stand to have the old man around. But when I got to be twenty-one, I was astonished at how much he had learned in seven years.

KATE PECKHAM of Chelsea was featured in the play, "Tent Meeting," a production of The Theatre Company of the University of Detroit Mercy. The play is a satire about evangelical excess. Peckham played Becky Ann Tarbox, who stuffs cotton in her ears to muffle the celestial music which plays incessantly inside her head. Her performance was praised by both the Detroit Free Press and Detroit News. Peckham, a senior theater major at the school, is the daughter of Tom and Carol Peckham of Chelsea. Above, she is pictured with cast member David L. Regal.

S-W Consortium To Hold Career Day

The South and West Washtenaw Consortium will host its fifth annual TREK to the Future—Family Career Day at Saline High school from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m., Feb. 27. Families from the school districts of Chelsea, Dexter, Manchester, Milan and Saline are invited to attend.

This is an exceptional year for the Consortium as it celebrates 15 years of partnership between the five school districts. The Consortium links the districts together by providing career and technical education courses, job placement and career assessment services. The five superintendents and school board representatives from each district will attend the TREK kick-off ceremony to recognize 15 successful years of partnership.

Families of all ages are welcome to attend the event. This year's theme is "Exploring New Dimensions." It is expected to bring a wealth of knowledge to students as they begin to explore career options. Career and technical education instructors, accompanied by their students, will display educational programs, employers and business representatives will be available to answer questions about future trends and college representatives will also be on hand to provide information about their schools and programs.

Besides meeting educational and business leaders, students and their families will see many exciting displays and events and may win t-shirts and prizes that are being given away.

NORTH SCHOOL PRINCIPAL Bill Wescott was honored last Thursday with a formal lunch in the cafeteria in honor of Principal Appreciation Week. Wescott's lunch was served on china and his milk, complete with a straw, was in a crystal goblet. A boombox provided the calming classical music amid the typical frantic cafeteria scene.

Kiwanis Club Has Substitute Travel Film

On Saturday evening, Feb. 26, the Chelsea Kiwanis Club will present its second program of the Travel and Adventure Film Series at 8 p.m. in the Chelsea High school auditorium. "Wales and the Lakes of England" will be narrated by Ken Lawrence.

The originally scheduled film on "China's Yangtze & Mekong" has been replaced by "Wales" because Dr. Theodore Walker has been incapacitated following an auto accident.

Visit Llangadog, location of Glenslaven Manor and the home of the Welsh Corgi dogs and the classic Welsh tea. Laugharn was the home of Welsh poet, Dylan Thomas. See the "Boathouse" where Thomas lived his last years.

Song and dance are so much a part of Wales that an international singing contest known as the "Eisteddfod" is held in Llangollen each year. In Caerphilly and Walspool, visit the Caerphilly Castle ruins and the beautiful Powys Castle with its lovely 18th century gardens.

Join Mervin Merly on the mudflats of the Burry Estuary to participate in the traditional craft of cockle collecting. Watch the preparation of cockles, and laverbread made of seaweed. Learn about the tradition of sheepherding and visit a sheep farm.

In the Lake District of England visit Lake Windermere, Borrowdale, Watendlath and Keswick. Explore Hilltop House, the home of Beatrix Potter, the author of many loved children's books like "Peter Rabbit."

In North Wales explore Llandudno, a seacoast resort that must be maintained by law as an 18th century model village. Enjoy burro rides on the beach.

Wales is a land of history and scenic beauty. Enjoy the countryside and learn about the stirring past of the proud Welsh.

Blood Clinic Slated March 3

On Thursday, March 3 Chelsea residents have an opportunity to do a "feel good thing." It will take about an hour of your time to give a pint of blood that will make you feel good and very possibly save someone's life.

Southeastern Michigan requires 1,000 units of blood each day. It would be good and appropriate for 100 plus Chelsea residents to come on March 3, 8 a.m. to 8 p.m., at Our Savior Lutheran church, 1515 M-52, to donate a pint of blood. Appointments may be made by calling Christine at 971-6534. Walk-ins are always welcome.

The American Red Cross has reported that the nation's blood supply is dangerously low. Recent national disasters, such as the hurricane of 1992, the floods of last summer, and the earthquake of January 1994, have depleted the nation's blood supply. Along with this, giving has been down due to the severe weather and seasonal illness.

Most donors after giving will say "I came because of the need," or "It's the right thing to do," or "I give because it feels good." Come and be one of these people.

An estimated 12,830,000 persons were out of work in 1993, about one-fourth of a civilian labor force of over 51 million. In March of that year, about 15.5 million people were unemployed, making it the worst month for joblessness in the history of the United States, according to "The American Worker," a U.S. Department of Labor publication.

Deputies Report Several Area Break-ins, Arrests

Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputies investigated a number of incidents in Scio, Webster, Lyndon, Lima, Freedom and Dexter townships and Dexter Village, Feb. 3-16.

Scio Township

Larry L. Gregg, 38, of Manchester was arrested on a warrant for failing to appear in court for a charge of operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor. He was stopped by deputies Feb. 11 for defective motor vehicle equipment on Jackson Rd. near Dino Dr. When he was stopped, deputies detected signs of intoxication and asked him to perform some field sobriety tests, which Gregg failed. Gregg refused a preliminary breath test, but one was administered at the jail. It revealed a .13 percent blood/alcohol level, which is more than the legal limit. Gregg remains in jail for the drunk driving charge and on the warrant.

Gerald R. McCall, 37, of Pinckney was arrested on a bench warrant regarding non-payment of child support. McCall was stopped by police on Jackson Rd. near Staebler Rd., Feb. 10, for a traffic violation. A computer check revealed a warrant for his arrest.

A suspicious incident was reported at a branch of America Bank on Jackson Rd. Feb. 11. A manager of Precision Tune on Jackson Rd. told police he deposited two bank bags containing checks and cash, Jan. 14. Of the two, one containing $1,728.31 was not received by the bank, according to his January bank statement. The investigating deputy contacted the bank's manager, who was aware of the situation. The manager said a bank security officer was asked to take the drop box apart to see if the bag was stuck inside; however, it was not. The manager also said once a bank bag is deposited in the drop box, it can't be taken out. Two bank employees open the box with a key in the morning when collecting night deposits. So far, none of Precision Tune's checks that were in the missing bank bag were cashed. The bank will notify police if any are cashed. In the meantime, Precision Tune will try to contact the check writers to see if stop payment orders can be issued.

Webster township

Breaking and entering was reported in the 7500 block of Chamberlin Rd., Feb. 5. Thieves broke a window in a 1987 Mercury and 1989 Ford vehicle to steal a stereo and amplifier. Damage is estimated at $100. The stolen merchandise is valued at $300. The owner is a 47-year-old township man.

Breaking and entering/malicious destruction of property was reported in the 7800 block of Chamberlin Rd., Feb. 5. A 16-year-old township girl told police someone broke into her vehicle, stealing $100 cash and a $50 radio. The radio was found in a field across the road. The incident happened between 2:30 a.m. and 9:30 a.m.

Lyndon Township

A runaway was reported in the 10900 block of Boyce Rd., Feb. 16. The father of a 14-year-old boy told police his son never came home after school on Feb. 8. He saw his son twice in Chelsea Feb. 12 and hitchhiking on M-52 Feb. 14. His son has also called the home several times to talk to siblings. It was noted in the report that the man's son has a long history of criminal behavior, including taking his parent's vehicle without permission, being in possession of a stolen ATV, truancy and running away.

Breaking and entering was reported in the 15400 block of Osilus Rd., Feb. 6. A 38-year-old township man told police someone broke into his home between 12:45 p.m. and 5:30 p.m. Feb. 6 to steal a pistol, a revolver, a handgun and ammunition. Entry was gained through an unlocked side door. Also stolen was $1,283 cash.

Lima Township

Breaking and entering was reported in the 1100 block of Seitz Dr. Feb. 9. A 51-year-old township man told police $3,850 worth of jewelry and other items were stolen from his home when thieves forced their way in, causing $1,000 in damages. The incident happened Feb. 9 between 7:30 a.m. and 3:45 p.m. while no one was home. Thieves gained entry by kicking in an interior door between the garage and the inside of the home. The jewelry, stored in the bedroom, was dumped on the bedspread, wrapped in it and taken.

Breaking and entering was reported in the 10800 block of Hershey Lane West, Feb. 15. The break-in is suspected to be linked with a similar incident on Seitz Dr., Feb. 9. A 48-year-old township man told police $1,000 cash was stolen, as well as jewelry, including watches, bracelets, rings and gold chains and knives, handgun ammunition and other items valued at $3,100. The incident happened between 10:30 a.m. and 5:40 p.m. Thieves forced their way in the residence by breaking a ground level window.

Laura A. Ott, 30, of Hartland was arrested on a warrant during a traffic crash investigation on I-94 near Parker Rd., Feb. 9.

Freedom Township

Armed robbery was reported at Freedom Grocery store on Pleasant Lake Rd., Feb. 14. A 49-year-old store employee told police a man came in and purchased a bottle of beer and waited outside until all the customers left the store. Then, the man returned with his hand under his coat, implying he was carrying a gun. He told the employee, "I don't want to do this. I have to. Give me your money." The employee said she told the suspect she couldn't give him the money, but after he ordered her to hand it over again, she did. She said she gave him five and ten dollar denominations. When he told her to give him even more, she grabbed half the stack of one dollar bills and slammed the cash register drawer shut. He ordered her in the freezer, but she refused. That's when the man ran out of the store and fled the scene in a vehicle. The clerk described the man as approximately 50 years old, 5-foot 10-inches to 6-feet tall with a heavy build. He got away with $130.

Dexter Township

A suspicious incident, possibly stocking, was reported in the 9100 block of Horseshoe Bend, Feb. 3. A 39-year-old township woman told police an ex-boyfriend, a 38-year-old Westland man, has been harassing her since their break-up in 1992. The couple works together in Ypsilanti. She said since their break-up he has been transferred to another department because they have had difficulty working together. Over two years, the man has been suspected of damaging her property and periodically harassing her.

Everybody's Science

★ Look What's Coming To Dinner

By Sean Adams

A new class of insecticides is a deadly dish for ants and other insects that live in colonies.

Yet, the insecticides, called fluorosulfonates, can be good news for the environment, since only very low dosages need to be used. And the chance of exposure also is low because they would be used primarily in baits or traps.

U.S. Department of Agriculture scientists in Gainesville, Fla., discovered the insecticides in the early 1980s. Now, a Georgia company has an exclusive license to develop fluorosulfonates in commercial products.

Cockroaches, ants and termites that live in colonies are the prime targets, said Robert K. Vander Meer of USDA's Agricultural Research Service. That's because the delayed action of the insecticides turns the pests into their own worst enemies. He explained:

"It takes about 24 hours before the fluorosulfonates start to kill the insects. That gives worker insects enough time to bring the insecticide back to the nest, where it's distributed to the rest of the colony. If it killed the workers right away, they'd never be able to bring it back to the nest."

Another key advantage of fluorosulfonates is that they kill more than 90 percent of the targeted pests at very low dosages. Lab studies show that they have low toxicity to humans and other mammals.

Fluorosulfonates are synthetic compounds originally used to disperse chemicals in oil, water or other formations.

Vander Meer and colleagues Clifford Loggren and David Williams discovered the insecticidal action when they used the compounds to help form experimental insecticides for fire ants.

Griffin Corp. of Valdosta, Ga., which has an exclusive license from ARS to develop the compounds, has issued sublicenses to two companies to make commercial products using fluorosulfonates.

S.C. Johnson of Milwaukee, Wis., already has produced ant and cockroach baits using a fluorosulfonate called sulfluramid. FMC of Chicago, Ill., expects to produce five or six products over the next few years.

Production of oranges is expected to be up 27 percent over last year's crop, thanks to huge output in Florida. Grapefruit production will also increase 26 percent.

Michigan's peach crop will be down about six percent this year. Poor pollination this spring and scattered winter kill of some young trees are blamed for the drop in production.

Dexter Township Initiates Plan for Lakes Area Sewer

Dexter Township Board took steps at their Feb. 15 board meeting to initiate a sewer project at North, Silver, Halfmoon and Blind Lakes in Dexter and Lyndon townships.

In the Board's first action they approved the creation of a task force consisting of Dexter township and Lyndon township board members, lake association members from each lake, and the professionals including the County Department of Public Works director, bond counsel and engineers.

Purpose of the task force is to assist the townships in defining a preliminary sewer assessment district and a sewer service area. The task force will review engineering data and the petitions submitted to the townships from the lake residents to help them in their task.

This will be the first step in a two-to-four-month process which will result in all affected property owners being notified by first class mail if they are included in the special assessment district and two public hearings will be held, one on the district and a second hearing on the assessment roll itself.

The board's second action was to request the assistance of the Washtenaw Dept. of Public Works in the acquisition and financing of the sewer project. Both the county Board of Public Works and the Board of Commissioners must approve the project and the county would own the system until the bonds are paid off.

To assist Dexter township in the preparation of the special assessment roll and the district, the board approved a contract with the engineering firm of McNamee, Porter and Seely of Ann Arbor. They will be using aerial photographs, tax maps and the tax roll itself to draw the boundaries of the district and prepare legal notices and descriptions of the district. Once the district is defined it will be easier to provide more accurate costs per household.

McNamee, Porter and Seely senior project manager John Adams says he would like to develop a user friendly system with regards to the financial aspects of the system.

The township also approved a contract with the Bendzinski and Co., Municipal Finance Advisors from Detroit. The financial advisors will work with the townships and the engineers to arrive at the amount, nature and terms of the bond issue to be sold and make recommendations as to methods of financing available.

Guyer Selected To Head Michigan Agriculture Dept.

The Michigan Commission of Agriculture has selected Dr. Gordon Guyer, president emeritus of Michigan State University (MSU), as director of the Michigan Department of Agriculture (MDA) effective Feb. 28.

"The Commission is delighted that a man of Dr. Guyer's stature is available to serve as MDA director," said David Crumbaugh, chairman of the Michigan Commission of Agriculture. "He is a national and international agricultural leader, who has served our industry with distinction throughout his career."

Guyer, in applying for the position, expressed his interest in increasing the visibility of the state's agricultural industry and increasing co-operation between MDA, the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, and Michigan State University.

"Michigan agriculture is the heart of Michigan's future," Guyer said. "I started out in agriculture 45 years ago and I am excited to return at this time when there is so much opportunity for growth."

Guyer holds Bachelor's, Master's and Doctorate degrees in Entomology from Michigan State University and began his career as an Entomology instructor at MSU in 1963. He served as the director of MSU's Co-operative Extension Service, director of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, and MSU's vice-president for governmental affairs before accepting the MSU presidency in September, 1992. He retired from that post Oct. 1, 1993.

Guyer will replace Bill Schuette who has resigned effective Feb. 25 to return to private law practice in Midland.

Washington Street Show Choir Wins High Honors

Chelsea's own Washington Street Show Choir traveled to Mooresville, Ind., to compete in the second annual Spotlighters' Show Choir Competition held Saturday, Feb. 12. 45 WSSC members and over 40 chaperones, and parents made the 4 1/2 hour trek to Mooresville High school for the prestigious event. The Washington Street Show Choir competed along with dozens of other show choirs from the Midwest in this day-long event and brought home a respectable ninth-place finish in the large group division, along with two winners in the vocal solo competition.

Founder and director, Steven P. Hinz was thrilled with the events of the week-end. "We all had a fantastic time. This was the first competition we've been involved with and the kids really rose to the occasion. I've never been more proud of their hard work and dedication," Hinz further stated that a ninth-place finish for a debut competition is outstanding. "With every performance I see a whole new level of talent from these Chelsea students. I continue to be amazed by their ability and responsibility."

Hinz believes very strongly in a solid choral music foundation on which to build the show choir. "It's unfortunate that many of the competing show choirs have absolutely no classical choral curriculum in place within their schools. In many of these high schools throughout the Midwest, Show Choir is the only choir available for students to choose. I really believe that students need the experience of classical choral music in order to have a well-rounded vocal music education."

Perhaps this philosophy is one of the reasons that the Washington Street Show Choir received high praise for its choral sound in this week-end's competition and earned high marks for vocals from the judges. Each high school was allowed to enter two vocal soloists in a separate solo competition to be held on the same day. Junior Corrie Schoenberg and Senior Jessica Caufflet both performed during the preliminary round and both singers were chosen to represent the top five singers of the competition. They performed their solos in the evening concert to a mesmerized audience. Chelsea was the only high school to be honored with both soloists participating in the finals concert.

The week-end was an enjoyable one for the students who performed. Sophomore Tracy Dufek stated, "I can't wait to go back next year! I made some great friends there and I've already written to them!" At the finals concert in the evening, Chelsea students joined hundreds of other show choir members and danced to classic rock in the bleachers of the gymnasium. The atmosphere was festive and the experience was one they're likely to remember for a long time.

The Washington Street Show Choir's next performance will be the annual "Cabaret" to be held on May 13-14. Tickets will be available for purchase on April 23.

James Cameron Appointed to Task Force

A former Chelsea resident has been named to the Michigan Task Force for Social Studies Education by the Michigan Superintendent of Public Instruction.

James Cameron, son of former Chelsea schools superintendent Charles Cameron and Ruth Cameron of Chelsea, now a teacher at Saline High School, is a member of the National Council for History Education (NCHE), whose secretary was asked to nominate members who would present the case for history in the curriculum. Cameron has a strong background in history.

The 21-member task force as been charged by the Michigan Board of Education with the responsibility of designing a curriculum framework for social studies education for the entire state. The framework will provide guidance to local school districts in reviewing and revising their social studies curricula and serve as the basis for a future state-wide assessment program in social studies.

Let's Go Bulldogs!

CHELSEA'S Chad Brown tries to go up and over Dexter's Eric Chase for a lay-up during last Friday night's contest in Chelsea. Dexter held on for their second win this season over the Bulldogs.

Varsity Cagers Stumble, Lose Again to Dexter

Chelsea Bulldogs stumbled and fell in their dash for a share of the Southeastern Conference basketball title last Friday with another heart-breaking loss to the Dexter Dreadnaughts, 52-49, at home.

In order for the Bulldogs to defend their title, they have to win at Tecumseh this Friday and hope the Dreadnaughts can pull off another upset at Saline. If that happens, the Bulldogs could end up with four co-champions as Chelsea, Tecumseh, Saline, and Dexter would each have three league losses.

"It was a tough one to take," said Chelsea coach Robin Raymond.

"Dexter played extremely well. They were extremely disciplined on offense and we could never get the lead. We chased them all night long. (Dexter guard Paul) Bishop played by far the best game I've ever seen him play. We pressured him all night long and it didn't seem to phase him a bit. Plus he scored 17 points."

Bishop and teammate Ben Weaver provided the pressure early in the second half. After Pat Steele's field goal cut the Dexter lead to 27-22, Bishop and Weaver hit back-to-back three pointers to put the Dreadnaughts up by 11. Dexter managed to increase the lead to 43-30 by the end of the third quarter.

Nevertheless, it wasn't so much that the Bulldogs couldn't overcome Dexter as their own poor shooting. They hit a season-low 33 percent of their shots, and missed 15 shots from inside six feet. They were 2-14 in the first quarter.

Despite the poor shooting, the Bulldogs had a chance to win. Down 49-38 early in the fourth quarter, Case McCalla hit a three-pointer and Steele scored six straight points to cut the Dexter lead to 50-47 with 1:14 left. A Rob Davis three pointer to tie the game rattled around the rim and out.

Dexter's Ben Weaver hit the front end of a one-and-one to put the Dreadnaughts up by four before Davis's tip out the Dexter lead to two.

Weaver sank another crucial free throw with 8 seconds left. The Bulldogs rebounded the second shot, raced downcourt, and a McCalla three-point try bounced off the rim.

"We wanted to penetrate the free throw line and then pass out for the open three-point shot," Raymond said of the final play. However, the ball didn't get into the right hands on the outlet pass and McCalla ended up dribbling down court.

The statistics for the game were unusual. The Bulldogs had eight turnovers to Dexter's 19. Chelsea had 10 offensive rebounds to Dexter's six. And the Bulldogs took 25 more shots. Chelsea was 21-63 from the field while Dexter was 16-38. The Dreadnaughts had a big edge at the foul line as they were 16-23 while Chelsea was 5-11.

Steele and Colby Skelton fouled out, while Davis sat out much of the first half with three fouls. It was the worst foul trouble Chelsea has been in this season.

"I kept telling the kids, even with two minutes left, that the shots would start to fall," Raymond said.

"When you have as many good shooters as we do, they normally do start to fall."

"It was one of those games that's hard to explain. Our defense was very good and the effort was there, no question."

Raymond said his one criticism of his team's performance was poor shot selection.

Steele led Chelsea with 15 points, Skelton had 11, McCalla 7, Davis 6, Cory Brown 4, Colvin 4, and Nick Brink 2.

In a non-conference game on Tuesday, the Bulldogs whipped Jackson Northwest, 95-65.

"They tried to run with us, which played to our strength," Raymond said.

"Sometimes when you go to the other team's strength, it doesn't work out."

Chelsea took a 22-18 lead in the first quarter and continued to stretch it from then.

Unlike Friday night, the Bulldogs had their best shooting night of the season as they were 37-66 (56 percent) from the field and 17-26 (65 percent) from the line. Seven of 12 Bulldogs shot 50 percent or higher.

"We got the ball inside pretty well," Raymond said.

Northwest had 28 turnovers to Chelsea's 17.

Davis and sophomore reserve Brink each had 17 points to lead the Bulldogs. Other scorers were Steele 14, McCalla 10, Colby Skelton 8, Colvin 7, Chad Brown 6, David Stimpson 5, Dan Wehrwein 4, Bryndon Skelton 3, Cory Brown 2, and James Dising 2.

The Bulldogs were 14-3 going into last night's game against Jackson County Western.

Three Bulldog Wrestlers Qualify for Regional

Three Chelsea Bulldogs have qualified for this Saturday's regional wrestling tournament at Carlson-Gibraltar High school.

To qualify, senior John Bobo took second at 180 pounds, senior Dan Alber placed fourth at 118 pounds, and sophomore Ray Hatch placed fourth at 112 pounds at last Saturday's district tournament in Dexter. Wrestlers have to place in the top four to qualify.

"Basically, all the kids did rather well," said Chelsea coach Kerry Kargel.

"The competition in this district was really tough."

Bobo opened with a pin of Tecumseh's Greg English in 1:37. In the second match, Chris Hug of Marshall was disqualified when he grabbed Bobo's face. In the finals, Bobo lost to Jaron Philburn of Fowlerville, 12-6. Philburn finished third in the state last year.

Alber pinned Jason Smith of Lincoln in 3:33 to open the day. He followed that by winning a revenge match over Dexter's Paul Wisniewski, who had beaten him in the Southeastern Conference meet the previous week. Alber pinned Wisniewski in 5:00.

Alber had the misfortune to face defending state champion James Testerman of Fowlerville in the third match and was pinned in 1:00. In the consolation finals, he was pinned by Rick Race of Jackson Northwest in 1:30.

"Dan was delighted to beat Wisniewski," Kargel said.

"It was a classic example that wrestling is a mind game. Dan made up his mind he was going to win. He has plenty of talent and skill. However, in his match with Testerman, he was just outclassed. Testerman is an animal."

Hatch drew a bye, then defeated Andy Cole of Hillsdale, 15-9. He lost his third match to top-seeded Aaron Dodd of Jackson County Western, 6-0, then lost to Eric Stoll of Lincoln, 3-1.

"With younger kids, once they qualify there's often a slight letdown. I've watched kids do that for years," Kargel said.

"If they keep the intensity going, they would win."

Hatch (28-11) will meet an opponent from Melvindale, Alber (28-12) will meet an opponent from New Boston Huron, and Bobo (27-6) will wrestle a boy from Carlson-Gibraltar to open the regionals.

In other matches, at 103 pounds, Zac Ersten lost to Ben Marshall of Brooklyn Columbia Central, 9-2; Ben O'Connor lost to top-seeded Steve Klink of Eaton Rapids at 130 pounds, 13-3; Ryan Ludwig at 135 pounds defeated P. J. Race of Jackson Northwest, 14-2, then lost to Mike Russell of Brooklyn Columbia Central, 7-5; Mike Alber at 140 pounds lost to top-seeded Elmer Hilt of Jackson Northwest, 12-6; Mike Thayer at 152 pounds lost to Shane Basch of Fowlerville, 12-6; Ian Dyer at 171 pounds pinned Nate Getner of Columbia Central in 4:33, then lost to Lance Beaton of Milan, 12-6; Chris Kargel at 189 pounds lost to Russell Rae of Marshall, 7-6; and heavyweight Tom Barkman was pinned by Mike Fitzpatrick of Mason in 1:14.

"We couldn't get away from the number-one seeders, and that hurt," Kargel said.

In Wednesday's team district tournament in Chelsea, the Bulldogs were eliminated by Columbia Central, 39-33.

The Bulldogs were within an eyelash of beating Central. However, three Bulldogs were pinned within the

Junior Cagers Take Two on The Chin

Chelsea Bulldogs junior varsity basketball team lost to Dexter, 56-44, and Jackson Northwest, 82-51, in games last week.

In the Dexter game on Friday, Chelsea turned the ball over 18 times, their low for the season. However, coach Dave Quilter said continued poor shooting combined with being dominated on the boards hurt the Bulldogs.

"The last two games we've gotten away from running our plays and good passing and we appear a little frustrated," Quilter said.

Chelsea shot 37 percent from the floor while Dexter hit 48 percent. Each team took 48 shots.

Shane Miller led the Bulldogs with 18 points. Dan Johnson scored 7, Kevin Holmes 5, Damon McLaughlin 5, Sam Morseau 4, Jamie Courwayn 2, Rick Stahl 2, and Josh Inwood 1.

Courwayn, Morseau, and Cross each had four rebounds.

In the Northwest game at home on Tuesday, the teams were tied at 14 at the end of the first quarter but the Bulldogs trailed by half-time, 35-23.

"Northwest is a good ballclub and we played them even for a quarter," Quilter said.

"They controlled the boards for easy shots and our very poor shooting took us completely out of the game."

The Bulldogs shot 28 percent from the field compared to 50 percent for Northwest, and 36 percent from the line, compared to Northwest's 82 percent.

Chelsea scorers were Courwayn 8, Johnson 5, Jeff Sarna 6, Kevin Cross 6, Miller 5, Mark Hand 4, McLaughlin 4, Morseau 3, Stahl 3, and Holmes 2. Holmes and Cross each had eight rebounds.

The Bulldogs are after still looking for their first win after last week.

7th Grade Spikers Take First Loss

The Bullpups lost 8-11, 8-11, 11-3, 8-11.

Shontay Young led Chelsea with seven service points. Meghan Holefka and Megan Marshall each served six points, and Marshall Biedron served five.

Beach Tankers Take Four State Titles at MISCA Meet in Monroe

Beach Middle school swimming and diving team had four state champion performances at the Michigan Interscholastic Swimming Coaches Association Middle School State Championships held at Monroe High school last week-end.

Eighth grader Chris Frayer led the way with gold medals in the 50 freestyle in :25.63 and the 50 butterfly in :29.01. The same foursome won the 200 freestyle relay and set a school record at 1:45.76.

"I was glad for Chris to have so much success today," said coach Dave Brinklow.

"He worked hard all season, so he earned his pay-off today. The whole team performed well. Every performance we had was a top 12 finish and each swimmer brought home at least one medal for finishing in the top three."

The diving competition was held Friday. Seventh grader Dan Seward placed 10th, and eighth grader Kyle Smith was 11th.

Kim Grossman was third in the 200 freestyle at 2:08.94, and Sarah Broshar was fifth with a personal-best time of 2:12.91.

The continued support of the community will help ensure the success of these events.

Donations dedicated to the building project are also welcome. Donors will be recognized on a bronze casting mounted on the concession building and in a series of ads that will run in The Chelsea Standard.

There are four levels of donations:

Physicians Support Tobacco Tax Increase

Michigan physicians continued their long-standing battle to eliminate cigarette smoking today by supporting the proposed cigarette tax increase in Governor John Engler's property tax reform ballot proposal.

"We believe the 50 cents per pack increase will help put the cost out of reach for many young smokers and will entice many adults to quit or reduce consumption," said Gilbert B. Bluhm, M.D., president of the 11,500-member Michigan State Medical Society (MSMS).

Physicians additionally are pleased that more than $35 million of the increased cigarette tax revenue will be earmarked for improving the health of Michigan residents.

"Frequently voters look for a reason to vote for or against a complicated ballot proposal," said W. Peter McCabe, M.D., chair of the MSMS board of directors. "For many of us physicians who see the ravages of cigarette smoking every day, this issue alone will be enough to make that determination."

The medical society has not taken a position on the entire ballot proposal set to go before voters on March 15.

Michigan has the seventh highest rate of smoking prevalence in the country with 29.2 percent of the state's population smoking, Doctor McCabe said.

"That sad statistic, coupled with other poor lifestyle and health behavior factors, puts Michigan at the top of the list for death rates in nine chronic diseases," Dr. McCabe said.

About 3,000 U.S. teen-agers become regular smokers each day, Dr. Bluhm said. Each year these young smokers buy about one billion packs of cigarettes to support their addiction.

"The American Medical Association indicates that 350,000 Americans will die prematurely this year of diseases linked to smoking," Dr. Bluhm said. "That's as many as have been killed in all the wars fought in this century and more than the combined annual death tolls from alcohol, illegal drugs, traffic accidents, suicide and homicide."

"That makes smoking the largest preventable cause of illness and premature death in our country," he said.

"In this era of health system reform, everyone must take responsibility for slowing the increased cost of health care brought on by bad lifestyle habits," Dr. Bluhm said. "Everyone must work alongside of physicians to help eliminate smoking."

The goal of MSMS and the AMA is for a smokefree society by the year 2000. Substantial gains have been made in recent years to achieve that goal. MSMS strongly supported Governor Engler's action to eliminate cigarette smoking in all state buildings.

Farmers are asking the Environmental Protection Agency to reconsider its proposed regulation that excludes farm-produced ethanol from being used as an additive in reformulated, clean burning gasoline. Illinois Governor Jim Edgar said he would rather depend on the corn farmers of the Midwest for his fuel supply than the oil barons of the Middle East.

Former County Commissioner

Accused of Fondling Girl

Former county commissioner Ellis Pratt was charged last week with second-degree criminal sexual conduct. Pratt, 70, of Freedom township, is accused of fondling a 10-year-old girl in a bathroom at Pleasant Lake Elementary school on Oct. 13. Magistrate George Parker set a preliminary hearing for March 21. Pratt is free on $5,000 personal recognizance bond. According to Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department Lt. R.J. Smith, Pratt knew the victim's family. Pratt, a janitor at the school, allegedly fondled the girl when she went into the school to use the bathroom at around 4 p.m. The girl didn't attend the school. Pratt faces up to 15 years in prison if convicted of the felony.

KAREN ARMBRUSTER of Chelsea shows off some of the fleece from her 80 sheep at her Jerusalem Rd. farm. Armbruster sold fleece, sheepskins, and other items at last Saturday's Winter Fleece Fair at Beach Middle school. The event was sponsored by The Spinner's Flock, a group of dedicated spinners from southeastern Michigan. Armbruster described herself as a "fiber junkie."

JEAN KELLY of Royal Oak, a member of The Spinner's Flock in Chelsea, demonstrated how to use a spinning wheel at last Saturday's Winter Fleece Fair at Beach Middle school. Kelly, who has been a knitter for 50 years, started spinning in 1990 and now she makes much of her own yarn.

Farm Economy Would Benefit from Proposed EPA Rule

Michigan farmers are asking the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to approve a proposed rule that could boost the use of farm-based ethanol fuels and dramatically increase corn sales.

The EPA is taking comments through Feb. 14 on a rule that would mandate that at least 30 percent of all oxygenated fuels used in the Reformulated Gasoline program come from renewable resources. The Clean Air Act requires the program to begin Jan. 1, 1995 in areas with the highest levels of ozone. Other areas that exceed the ozone air quality standard may also participate. If all eligible areas opt into the program, reformulated gasoline could account for 55 percent of all gasoline sales.

"Approval of this rule would create jobs, promote rural development and decrease oil imports by 300,000 barrels per day," said Bob Boehm, commodity specialist for Michigan Farm Bureau. "We estimate that the renewable fuels requirement could result in additional corn demand of 250 million bushels with a total nationwide economic impact of $1.5 billion."

Comments on the proposed rule should be postmarked by Feb. 14 and sent to: U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, Public Docket A-83-49, Room M-1500, Waterside Mall, 401 M Street, SW, Washington, D.C. 20460.

Cong. Smith Fighting SSI Disability Abuse

By 7th District
Congressman Nick Smith

As a member of the Budget Committee, I was given an early copy of the President's four volume, 2,054 page budget. The good news is that the President has recommended some modest program cuts. The bad news is the budget continues the trends started last year—huge deficit spending, billions more in debt, and a bigger, more intrusive government.

The public debt will increase under the President's five year plan by 40%. Despite last year's tax increase, the largest in history, the debt grows from $4.6 trillion in FY 1993 to $6.3 trillion in FY 1999. The money saved by proposed program cuts is used to start the president's new social programs and expand existing ones. Non-defense discretionary spending is estimated to increase by 7%, twice the rate of inflation.

Some have labeled me a "deficit hawk" because I feel that at a time when household budgets of working Americans are tighter than ever, Congress must do everything it can to eliminate waste and abuse in federal spending. Last year, one of my many amendments to cut spending was enacted into law. HUD Secretary Henry Cisneros told our Budget Committee that the amendment I introduced, which requires IRS income verification for subsidized housing applicants, would save $1.6 billion. Another amendment I introduced last week would save an estimated $15 billion in the Supplemental Security Income (SSI) program over the next five years.

The abuse in the SSI program was brought to my attention by concerned taxpayers in Hillsdale, Jackson, and Calhoun counties. The SSI law and a 1990 Supreme Court interpretation allow some children, including slow learners or those with behavioral problems, to receive up to $480 per child per month in benefits. The original intent of SSI, was to expand the Social Security Act to give payments to those who are low income, disabled, and unable to work. One constituent, a teacher, was especially upset because she found out that a parent was encouraging her child to perform in such a way in school as to get into special education and be automatically eligible for SSI benefits.

The particular words in the law and court interpretation take billions of dollars from U.S. taxpayers in a way that Congress never intended. Since the 1990 high court decision, the number of recipients under age 18 has risen as much in the last three years as it had since the program began in 1972! State and federal governments already pay for special education for slow learners in Michigan from birth to age 25, and poor families continue to be eligible for AFDC, Medicaid, food stamps, and other low income programs. My effort to change the law has bipartisan support. I'm working with Rep. Gerald Klecksa, a Democrat from Wisconsin to implement solutions.

Thanks to the alertness of concerned citizens, we have an opportunity to protect the integrity of SSI and save billions of dollars. All hard working taxpayers have a stake in eliminating government waste, and watchful citizens are some of the best detectives when it comes to spotting it. Working together, we can make a difference.

Farm Bureau Announces Support for Proposal A

The president of the Michigan Farm Bureau said that thanks to an agreement reached this week between Gov. Engler and the leadership of the Michigan House and Senate, Farm Bureau will "enthusiastically and aggressively" support the passage of Proposal A on March 15.

"I believe that this agreement encompasses all of the concerns that our Farm Bureau members and farmers across the state have had as to where their land falls in regards to the question of the Homestead definition," Laurie said. "With the conclusion of this agreement, we can now enthusiastically and aggressively support Proposal A on March 15, and will direct our efforts towards that end."

The agreement will put virtually all farmland in Michigan at the same millage rate as homesteads.

There will be an announcement Feb. 22 by the Governor and the House and Senate leadership as to the details of the agreement, according to Laurie.

ORDINANCE NO. IV THE TOWNSHIP OF LIMA ORDAINS:

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND THE LIMA TOWNSHIP ZONING ORDINANCE, TO REQUIRE THAT ANY CONVEYANCE OF ANY PORTION OF A PARCEL OR LOT SHALL MEET THE MINIMUM LOT WIDTH AND AREA REGULATIONS ESTABLISHED BY THE ORDINANCE, INCLUDING RESIDUALS, TO MODIFY THE DEFINITION OF NON-CONFORMING LOT OF RECORD PROVISION AND TO PLACE CONTINUING OBLIGATIONS ON THE OWNERS TO MAINTAIN CONFORMANCE WITH THE ORDINANCE

SECTION 1. Section 10.02, Non-Conforming Lots of Record is amended by the addition thereto of the following provision:

Notwithstanding the above, if any portion of a non-conforming lot of record or any portion of two or more lots or combination of lots or portions of lots with continuous frontage in single ownership, which are of record at the time of passage or amendment of the Ordinance and where all or a part of the lots do not meet requirements for lot width area as established by the ordinance, are conveyed so that any residual portion does not conform with all requirements of this Ordinance, then the remaining or residual lot or portion of a lot shall lose any benefit or exemption which it enjoys under this section. The remaining or residual lot or portions of lots shall not be entitled to any building permits, additional use, new structures or replacements except by application to the Board of Zoning Appeals as a variance under the provisions of Article XI.

SECTION 2. Article III is amended by the addition thereto of the following provision:

MERGER OF LOTS. In the application of this Ordinance a substandard or non-conforming lot, whether it is of record as of the date of adoption of the Lima Township Zoning Ordinance, effective May 16, 1984, the date of adoption of this amendment Ordinance, or thereafter by conveyance, division, subdivision, or residual shall be considered merged with any adjacent land or lots in the same ownership to produce a lot which conforms to the requirements of this Zoning Ordinance or brings non-conforming lots into greater conformance to this Ordinance. Such merger is automatic and no action of any municipal official is necessary to effect the merger. Such merger shall occur when said adjoining lots are in the same common ownership and have the same frontage. For purposes of this regulation:

a. Common Ownership, whether that is designated as "single ownership" or "separate ownership" throughout this Ordinance shall be construed and applied where the individual estates in the land have common economic, beneficial, or equitable legal interests in common between them.

b. These regulations shall be construed so that the purposes of the Ordinance are accomplished.

c. Boundaries established by survey, plats, and tax descriptions shall be disregarded in the application of the Ordinance.

d. It is the obligation of the owner of land to maintain conformance, as nearly as possible with the lot area and lot width requirements of the Ordinance.

SECTION 3. EFFECTIVE DATE. The within amending Ordinance is effective 20 days after its adoption and publication as provided by law.

SECTION 4. SEVERABILITY. In the event that any provision of this amending Ordinance shall be held by a Court of competent jurisdiction to be unconstitutional or void for any reason, such provision shall be considered separable and struck from this Ordinance and the remaining provisions shall be enforced without reference thereto.

SECTION 5. AMENDING EFFECT. All provisions of the Lima Township Zoning Ordinance, and any amendments thereto, which are inconsistent with this amendment are hereby repealed.

Recent news reports about cancer screenings may have you wondering what types of cancer tests your health checkup for 1994 should include. Three of the most common types of cancer to strike Americans are breast cancer, prostate cancer, and colon cancer. However, the American Institute for Cancer Research reminds us that all three cancers can be curable if detected early through cancer screening.

The standards for breast cancer screening through mammograms were recently reviewed by both consumer groups and health professionals at a meeting held by the National Cancer Institute. Debate focused on whether women ages 40 to 49 should get mammograms every year instead of every two years, as guidelines currently recommend. While some physicians believe more frequent screening will improve breast cancer detection, others feel that mammograms for women under 50 may either fail to detect tumors because of denser breast tissue in premenopausal women, or may mistake non-cancerous fibrous masses for a tumor, causing unnecessary biopsies and anxiety for patients.

Although the current federal guidelines for breast cancer screening were judged to be adequate, women in their forties who have had a family history of breast cancer are now advised to discuss mammography with their health-care providers. Otherwise, federal guidelines state that women 50 and older should have annual breast-cancer screening; those age 40 to 49 should have mammograms every two years; women age 35 should have a base-line mammogram for comparison with later screenings; and all women over age 20 should conduct monthly breast self-exams and have physician exams as part of routine physicals.

Because early detection of breast cancer has resulted in very high 5-year survival rates of 83 to 100 percent of patients, more women have become encouraged to follow the screening guidelines.

Screening men for prostate cancer has also gained more attention recently, especially with the recent prostate cancer death of several celebrities. The guidelines for prostate cancer testing don't change with age: all men over 40 are advised by health authorities to get a rectal exam as well as a newly available test called the "PSA" (prostate-specific antigen) test each year. This test is able to detect prostate tumors while they are still localized and have not spread, and could drastically improve the survival rate for those who are diagnosed with prostate cancer.

Both men and women over 40 need a yearly rectal exam to detect colon cancer. Yearly occult blood tests are advised for people age 45 and over. Sigmoidoscopies (examinations of the rectum and lower colon using a flexible tube) are advised every three to five years beginning at age 50. Over the next several years, researchers will be developing a blood test that can help detect the likelihood of inherited colon cancer based on recent identification of a defective gene.

Cancer screenings are an important part of preventing cancer and detecting it early enough to treat and possibly cure it. Improved rates of cancer screening among Americans are responsible in large part of the increase in rates of cancer survival beyond five years, reportedly up from approximately 30 percent of patients in the 1960s to approximately 40 percent today.

TRENA ERSKINE, left, has opened a new restaurant, Stir Crazy, in the former home of Mike's Deli in the basement of the Sylvan. With her are her niece, Rickelle, and her mother-in-law, Dee.

Chelsea Native Trena Erskine Opens 'Stir Crazy' in Sylvan

Chelsea native Trena Erskine has followed her dreams and opened a new restaurant, Stir Crazy, in the basement of the Sylvan building in downtown Chelsea.

Stir Crazy is a new concept for the village. Erskine has nine stir-fried dishes on the menu, which run the gamut from Italian, to Indian, to Jamaican. The latter, flavored with a jerk sauce, is one of the hottest dishes you'll find anywhere. They are served with pita bread or rice. Little oil, and all fresh foods are used.

The meals are designed to be prepared quickly and Erskine has a brisk take-out business.

"I thought this was a nice alternative for the village," Erskine says. "We give good quality food at an affordable price."

The restaurant, in the former home of Mike's Deli, has a lively, colorful decor. Murals by Mary L. Haas-Hackett are painted onto the walls.

Erskine is a 1970 Chelsea High school grad. She got her start in the food service business as a car hop at Chelsea A & W.

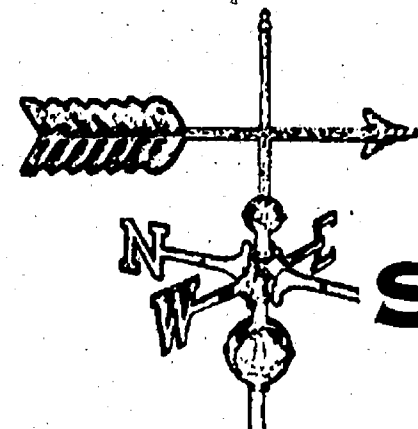

"It was the best start toward a work ethic that I could possibly have," Erskine said. It was a job that many people wanted because the tips were very good, she said.

She worked for 14 years as a color evaluator in a photo lab, Lyndon Color Labs. She also sold textile printing to sororities, fraternities, and other organizations and companies for Ascot Corp. in Ann Arbor for three years. For the last two years, she has been "searching around for a business." She took courses in starting a small business and talked to many people in the industry.

The early reception to the business has been good, both from the customers and the other tenants in the building. She had to knock holes through three floors to get the vent fan out of the building.

"Everyone in the building has been very supportive," she said. Erskine's husband, Steve, works at the University of Michigan. They have two children, Jessica 16, and Steve, 11.

Coast to Coast On A Bike at 71

One of our best programs this winter, was 71-year-old Joe Datsko's appearance in the Town Hall. His pictures and talk about his bicycle tour with 35 other riders from the Pacific to the Atlantic in 12 weeks, covering a total of 5,200 miles. Joe was the only one of the starting group who rode his bike every inch of the whole distance.

A brief overview of the trip follows: Start, Bellingham, Wash., June 7, 1992. Sleeping bags, tools and truck with mechanic followed group. Two station wagons with emergency equipment went along. Some mountains or steep hills were bypassed by some, but Joe rode every one.

They rode from Sunday morning to Friday noon each week. About 100 riders from other clubs usually met them in each state and rode with them for a week. An advance man went ahead each day and marked pavements where to turn. Their regular route was mostly secondary roads.

Route took them through Glacier and Yellowstone, headwaters of Mississippi river, some of Lake Michigan. Also Allegheny, then last week in New England, ending in West Scarborough, Me.

Joe is a retired professor in engineering at U. of M. and often goes back as a volunteer to help students with engineering problems. He and 17 of his children and grandchildren go riding on vacations.

Valentines . . .

About 30 of us old folks played that we were in kindergarten making valentines. A good change of pace, also fun. The idea was to make some for the Health Care depts. We gave of our best efforts and skills on the evening of the 12th.

A cart load of materials awaited us. Large red hearts were already cut and we used those for the foundation of most all the finished cards. Also there were self sticking small colored printed hearts, gold hearts, fancy paper lace designs, puff balls, felt markers and lots more.

In no time we began putting our ideas onto valentines. Of course the ladies were a little more artistic, but with Charles Cookingham leading the men, we soon turned out some nice looking work. With Bernice to supervise a little and John to get the refreshments spread out, we decided it was worth while. Reports from Health Care agree.

Coming Events

Regardless how March comes in—as a lion or a lamb—it's bringing to CRC a number of pleasant experiences. For one thing, spring is coming! Also, the week of the 7th is "KINDNESS WEEK." We should all smile more, greet one another more pleasantly, and hug one another more warmly. We can write a secret message of kindness to anyone in the Community and mail it in one of the special mail boxes to be scattered around the various buildings, and we can buy a carnation at the flower sale to send to someone special. Oh, and get out that green outfit for St. Patty's Day events, and then end up the month in the Easter Parade wearing that special Easter bonnet! Check the calendar carefully! Don't miss a thing!

Music and Rhythm Of the World

On Wednesday evening, Feb. 9, we had a most enjoyable experience guaranteed to keep us active, laughing and assured of a good night's sleep.

Lillian Holtfetter, a music teacher from Ann Arbor, brought us a rare treat. She kept us on our toes with the music and rhythm of Africa, Mexico and China, using their various rhythm instruments, made of materials that were available.

On a "Magic Carpet" we flew to Africa and learned how unusual and intricate their rhythms were made. We were given the instruments to play and make music. We also learned to distinguish our right from our left side. After Africa we went to Mexico and the Caribbean countries to experience the rhythm and songs of our close neighbors. Then across the Pacific the "Magic Carpet" took us to China where unusual stringed instruments were used. We left with a lovely Chinese haunting song.

Artists Honored

On a recent Sat. afternoon many of our resident artists listened to words of praise on viewing our displays of paintings, drawings, blankets, pillows and even wood sculptures. More than 50 neighbors dropped in by invitation of the Library Committee. There were expressions like—"My your paintings are beautiful!" and "You certainly have lots of talent!" and "I used to crochet and never made anything as nice as that." Of course we who had worked many hours on our particular hobby listened and we felt great for a day. And to top it all off Bob Amick came a long ways and brought a lot of his carvings in wood. Some big bears or fish looked like they could talk, if animals could talk.

Each of the artists had three minutes to talk of their work or hobby whether they used brushes, pencils, needles or in the case of Bob, a saw, hammer and chisel. We who have been meeting Fridays at 9:30 to paint, invite you to come on down and meet our teacher, Lynn Walker, in the craft room. We had a nice snack in the library.
