Vogel's & Foster's Reopening Downtown Stores in Early May

Many people of Chelsea were sad to note the closing of Vogel's and Foster's clothing stores last December. Fortunately, it was only a temporary situation. Vogel's and Foster's will be reopening under the management of Michael Jackson.

The village has been asked to annex a 156-acre parcel of farmland east of the wastewater treatment plant in Lima township. The parcel belongs to the Henry and Martin Merkel family. A few years ago the village purchased the western edge of the property for its new wastewater treatment plant. According to village manager Robert Stalker, the annexation application does not mention how the Merkels intend to use the property. However, it's highly unlikely it will remain farmland and the most likely develop-

BEHIND THE HEADLINES:

Talking Tough to Japan at Last

In getting tough with Japan on its unfair trading practices, the United States is doing more than running out of patience. It's flexing America's regained muscle as the world's No. 1 industrial power.

By Philip C. Clarke

While they may differ with the Clinton Administration on the way it went about it, most economists agree that the President was fully justified in serving notice of tariff reprisals unless Tokyo fulfilled promises to lower barriers to U.S. imports.

For much too long, Japanese goods have enjoyed the equivalent of a "free lunch" in the U.S. market, while everything from American electronics and rice to insurance business, construction bids and baseball bats have effectively been denied entry in-

Nor is this all. Many Japanese products have been "dumped" in the U.S. and elsewhere at below production costs in order to undercut competing American goods. According to Joseph Carson, senior vice-president and chief economist of Dean Witter Reynolds, the Wall Street investment firm, Japanese companies have even been importing such U.S. goods as IBM mainframe computers and Motorola cellular phones, "putting their names on them and selling them as-Japanese products."

Yet, despite Japan's still massive foreign trade surplus of some $120 billion a year—half of it with the U.S.—and notwithstanding all the talk of an America in decline, ours remains the largest and most productive economy on Earth, 21/2 times larger than Japan's. Today, the U.S. produces about a quarter of the world's entire output of goods and services with only 5% of the population.

Moreover, the U.S. still has the highest average standard of living of any industrial nation.

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Americans win hands down. In 19 major categories of world trade, U.S. companies took home 37% of all sales and 48% of the profits. "In this sense," sayd economist Daniel Strickberger, writing in the Wall Street Journal, "the U.S. has produced something close to the trade version of Olympic basketball's 'dream team'." In some categories, it's no contest at all. For example, the U.S. produces and sells 93% of the world's energy equipment and services, 78% of its aerospace and military technology, 73% of its data processing and reproduction needs, and supplies 62% of the world's electronic components and instruments. Only in the sale of steel (at 10%) and household appliances (at 8%) does the U.S. lag behind Japan and Europe. As Strickberger explains, "This (U.S.) success results from well-planned and well-executed capital investments, research and development, advertising, marketing, production, design and personnel development over several decades. And all of this has come about without governmental planning. It is the triumph of the free market."

And what of the future? Dean Witter's Joseph Carson sees continued growth in America's lead. In 1965, he says, Japan exported 15% of its overall domestic output, almost double that of the U.S. But by last December, American firms had forged ahead by 1%. "Clearly," says Carson, "we are trading places in trade." He cites these signs of the turnabout:

• This year, U.S. automakers will build more vehicles than the Japanese for the first time since 1980.

• In 1993, for the first time, Japanese car makers sold more U.S.-built vehicles in the U.S. than they imported from Japan.

 Japanese companies are buying more U.S. parts and supplies. General Motors is now building engine blocks for Toyota; Ford is making transmissions for Mazda.

· Japanese companies are now

But can this last once Japan and Germany emerge from recession? After all the handwringing over America's deficit and other economic and social ills, will the U.S. still be the world's leading industrial power five years from now? Yes, says a Wall Street Journal "Outlook" report. "Like a once-flabby athlete, the U.S. has been working out at the health club for the past couple of years. Elementary Schools Accredited By NCA

Elementary school principals Bill Wescott and Lucy Stieber announced today that North and South schools have received accreditation by the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools. The schools were admitted to membership on March 30, at the Association's annual meeting, held in Chicago. North and South schools were two of 100 schools in this state which this year became NCA members for the first time.

"Accreditation by the NCA means that the school has met the standards set for membership," said principals Westcott and Stieber. "The standards signify that the school has the resources, personnel, and leadership necessary for effective education."

Accreditation must be renewed each year. In commenting upon, this Acting Superintendent Howard Oesterling noted that: "Continuation within the NCA requires a joint effort by the community and the staff to make certain that the potential for quality education remains unimpaired. The advantage of NCA membership is that it assures the public at large that the school has met those standards which good schools in the NCA region consider to be imperative for effective education to take place."

The NCA state director, William J. Bushaw of Ann Arbor extended congratulations to the schools noting that, North and South schools have now joined the growing league of schools whose purpose is the continuing quest for higher levels of quality education."

The North Central Association, the nation's largest regional accrediting association, is a voluntary coalition of over 7,000 schools and over 1,000 colleges and universities in the 19-state region of the central United States.

An American's Reflections on Everyday Home Life in China

Mary Ellen Mynning-Lu's reflections on daily life in China.

MEDIA-

The TV stations in China are owned and operated by the government. Satellite dishes are slowly starting to appear, but broadcasts are jammed. so that if a Chinese home does get cable, they still cannot get CNN or the BBC news. However, homes with cable can get a movie channel, MTV, and the sports channel.

STOP THE PRESSES! Right after I wrote this the government came in to the universities here in Tianjin and shut down the cable, they have decided they don't want foreign stations here. Good grief, does this mean they have found something subversive in MTV?!?!

We are treated to commercials that focus primarily on medicines. Commercials are only shown at the end of the shows so you have plenty of time to go to the kitchen and fix a lovely snack before the next show starts-I find this very civilized!

The TV shows generally fail into a few broad categories:

1. Variety shows-remember Ed Sullivan? Biking monkeys, acrobats, cute dancing kids, etc.

2. War movies (where we usually see sobbing Chinese women, crying bables, and valiant young soldiers all bravely going against the tides of Japanese or Kuomingtang armies).

3. Peking operas.

4. Documentaries, movies, and song fests dedicated to Chairman Mao's 5. Soap operas that take place during some dynasty or other (where you

... nee-sobbing Chinese women porying " babies, and valiant young intellectuals or monks all bravely fighting against the tides of the evil emperor). 6. Soap operas that take place in modern China (also where you see sobbing Chinese women, crying babies, and valiant young workers all bravely going against the tide of evil waiting to corrupt them).

7. Educational shows. You can learn Japanese, French, Russian, and English, how to apply make-up, how to play the guitar, and how to cook.
8. Stress-killers. You look at lovely scenes from all over China while soothing music is being played. 9. Factories documentaries. You get to look at the machines working up close, see the happy factory workers, be amazed and thrilled at the output that the factory has.

10. Foreign TV shows and movies with Chinese dubbing. This is fascinating. For example, we can see Matlock over here, and when he charges a fee for his work'he always cites $100,000. Those damn capitalists! See how only the rich can get help while the legal jungle wants to eat the innocent alive!

China appears relatively crime-free since murders, rapes, mass killings are never mentioned in the papers or on the news. I guess the government feels it would be too upsetting to the general public.

However, smugglers, embezzlers, counterfeiters, and their ilk are often displayed on the TV in handcuffs, weeping before a police official or being huddled into the jail.

Basically the TV and newspapers report optimistically on how well

China is going. Gives us a warm sense long. Chinese tend to go with a family of security . . . I guess. BATHROOMS-Forget hot running water, forget even tepid water. If you want hot, get it from a thermos.

well, crap actually. Forget the different flavors and colors and stuff, it's not happening here. Heck, we just got

The toothpaste tastes like, like, like,

The majority of Chinese homes do not have a shower or bath, people use public bathhouses. The fee isn't high. but the lines are long, and biking home with a wet head in -10 degree weather can't be too thrilling. Portable hair dryers are just too expen-

Another note about the public bath houses, since China has a huge member or friend. Again, you ask why. I can't wait to tell you! The water is running constantly in the showers, one person steps up and gets wet, then backs off to lather and shampoo up, while the next person jumps under the water, and when they get wet and step back, then you can jump back in to rinse. Kind of an intimate shower two-step. Because the water systems are not efficient, people have learned that the best thing to do is wipe and throw away the toilet paper rather than flush it and burden the weak systems.

population, the bath house lines are public toilet. People will stand right there in front of you and stare at you until you finish so that they can hop right in next. Not much sense of privacy here. They aren't trying to be rude. They are not perverts. It is just one way of trying to survive in an overpopulated society.)

In the large public toilets, you have to pay 10 cents and they generously give you a few pieces of toilet paper. Toilet brushes are rare. Toilet cleaners rarer.

To clean squat and western toilets, the janitor usually just takes the floor mop and dunks it into the toilet, swishes it around, then continues moping the floor.

MEDICAL STUFF AND PHARMACIES-

Number one—try very hard not to get sick! If you have to go to the hospital and stay, you had better bring cold hard cash or they won't admit you. You can see hysterical people in front of hospitals sometimes begging for money from strangers because they want to get treatment for their loved one who is lying on the sidewalk.

But to be fair, you could just about bleed to death in a hospital in the States while struggling to find your insurance card.

If you do go to the hospital, hope that you have a devoted family or excellent friends. WHY? Since some of hospitals don't bring the patients food, water, or help you to the toilet. If the hospital provides food, then they bring it to your door and you have to take your container to the door and they dish it out.

Every hospital I know of also don't have luxuries like TVs, radios, a/c, fans, or roving libraries. If you are sick enough to be in the hospital, then lie there and be sick or, out of sheer boredom, make every effort to Drug stores or pharmacies here are vastly different from those in the States. Why? Because the pharmacies only sell medicine, not liquor, girly magazines, chips, fan belts, or makeup. Imagine that.

Celebrated Pianist Appearing With Dexter Community Band

Extraordinary music will fill the spring air on Friday, May 6 at 7:30 p.m. when the Dexter Community Band performs in Dexter's Wylie Intermediate School gymnasium. The program will include popular works from some of America's finest com-

Special feature of the concert will be the appearance of recording artist Randy Sly, planist for "Rhapsody in Blue" by George Gershwin and "L'Union" by Louis Moreau Gott-

Born into a musical family in 1963, randy has been studying classical piano since the age of five. When asked what factor contributed most to his attraction to music, Randy replies that it was "growing up in a musical household." His mother and first piano teacher, Elsi Sly remarks that it was never difficult to get Randy to practice. "It was a very natural thing (for Randy) to do-to sit down and and accomplishments but admits that practicing was never "hard work." However, it wasn't until reaching the age of 13, when Randy and his family moved to Dexter, that the young artist began practicing for his own enjoyment. He first performed under the direction of Dr. Dave Angus in high school and community theater productions while growing up in Dexter. While he played trumpet in Dexter's High School band, Randy continued his devoted study of the piano. In 1981, when Randy was 18 years old, his talent and dedication were recognized by the National Guild of Piano Teachers when he earned the prestigious Paderewski Medal.

Upon his graduation from Dexter High school, Randy entertained friends and relatives with a recital in his family's home. He then left his hometown for Michigan State Univer-sity. His love of music led him to The Physics of Acoustics and from there to more physics courses until 1987 when he was graduated from MSU with his degree in physics.

While pursuing an academically demanding curriculum, Randy managed to further his musical training with the introduction of jazz elements into his principally classical repertoire. College friends encouraged him to use his theory training for improvisation and together they formed a World Funk popular dance band, BOP (harvey).

The band performed locally at first but for the past five years has been touring (up to 200 shows a year!) and recording on the east coast. In January 1983, BOP (harvey) played (by invitation only!) at President Clinton's Inaugural Festival on the Mall in Washington, D.C. Since then, the band has decided to focus on recording rather than touring and now is seldom heard live. However, this month BOP (harvey) will reunite in New York to perform on NBC's Late Night. The band's most recent recording is "The Monster Butt Beat Dance Test" which combines energetic and sophisticated lazz/dance rhythms with a reggae/funk style.

Randy's less rigorous performance and travel schedule allows him to freelance for other recording artists and explore new musical styles. "I've always wanted to play as solo artist with a group," says the well-versed musician. "I'm very excited about it!" After 15 years of studying the piano and touring and recording with BOP (harvey), Randy claims that he has "slowly learned to be comfortable around the keyboard." The audience that hears him perform on May 6 will be left speechless by the power and command he has over the piano. This is an artist who was born to share his musical talent and versatility! He admits, "Whatever I do, music will always be a part of my life!"

Under the baton of Dr. Dave Angus, the Dexter Community Band will also perform works by Charles Ives, John Philip Sousa, Aaron Copland and others. The 50-member band is com-prised of talented music enthusiasts from Dexter and surrounding com-munities. Currently in its 11th season, the band performs five concerts through the year. The concert with guest planist Randy Siy will be held Friday, May 6 at 7:30 p.m. in the Wylie gynmasium, Admission is free, donations will be accepted.

BGSU SCHOLARSHIP WINNER: Christopher Hawley, a junior journalism major at Bowling Green State University, receives congratulations from University President Paul J. Olscamp after winning a $5,000 Frazier Reams Public Affairs Fellowship. The fellowships are awarded annually to as many as five outstanding students who are planning a career in public affairs or public service. Hawley is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Wayne Hawley of Chelsea.

Two BSGU Students Earn Reams Fellowships

The president-elect of Bowling Green State University's undergraduate student body and an editor for its student newspaper are the 1994-95 recipients of prestigious Frazier Reams Public Affairs Undergraduate Fellowships.

The $5,000 scholarships were established in 1973 in memory of Frazier Reams Sr., a Toledo attorney, broadcasting executive, civic leader and U.S. congressman. The fellowships are awarded annually to juniors enrolled in public affairs programs. To be eligible for a fellowship, students must have a minimum 3.2 grade point average and plan to attend the University for two semesters of their senior year.

Hawley is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Wayne Hawley of Chelsea.

Currently the city editor of "The BG News," the student newspaper, Hawley has worked for the paper since his freshman year. In addition to being city editor, he has worked as a staff reporter, court reporter and local government reporter.

His stories, while working as a freelance writer or as a student intern, have appeared in the "Elyria Chronicle Telegram," the "Tecumseh (Mich.) Herald," the "Harbor Beach (Mich.) Times," the Associated Press, the Baltimore-based "International Living" magazine and "Tal-

First Prize Winner Like many communities, Chelsea began as an agrarian town consisting of a main street, train station and a small school. Between then and now, the village has adjusted to the times. As the world it lives in, Chelsea has grown, and with growth comes change. These changes have luckily not yet hurt the quality of the town. However, quality is a characteristic which can quickly be lost. The civic leaders and residents of Chelsea must prepare for the future expansion of our

For years, families have been moving into Chelsea. This is not unusual; however, the extraordinary detail is the disproporfionate number of the children of these families who choose to return to live in our community. Obviously, Chelsea must be doing something right. The key is to discover what that is. The key is that

munity and belonging. Chelsea has an extraordinary knack for making people feel welcome, comfortable, and at home. This is what brings our children back, and keeps the quality level of our town so high. Our country is built on our communities. Although America's small communities are one of our country's greatest strengths, you do not have to look far today to find people without a sense of community who harbor an all-for-one attitude. Frequently, these people are in the news for crime. This should not be surprising. When people do not feel like a part of a group, they act as they please, taking into account only how their actions affect them. This breaks down our community foundation faster than anything else.

Cheisea is one of the few true communities who have kept this attitude from taking over. Cheisea residents watch out for each other and work to help the whole. In Chelsea, you do not have to look far to find a widow being helped, a person looking after a sick neighbor, or a family buying groceries for someone recently laid off. Chelsea is an extraordinary town but we may not stay this way. With more speed and ease than any of us would like to believe, Chelsea could lose its quality and its sense of com-

One of the quickest ways to lose quality and community is to add a few thousand people. Soon jobs are scarce, people lose their feeling of group responsibility, and they may quickly adopt the dangerous allfor-one attitude. A quick solution to the problem of keeping the quality of Chelsea is to block the building of houses. No more people, no problem with community. Further thought suggests that this is not a good idea. Many fine people, myself included, are relatively new residents of Chelsea who make valuable additions to the community, and many of the new houses in Chelsea are quite lovely. The leaders and residents of Chelsea must find a way to keep the sense of belonging as the community expands rather than to limit its expansion. With the inevitable expansion our leaders must carefully prepare for the strain to the community the added people will bring. Chelsea leaders need to promote activities to strengthen our sense of community. Activities such as caroling, holiday parades, sporting games, charitable activities, plays, musical concerts and other events must remain focal points of our community, for apart from their role in entertainment, and recreation, the play an invaluable role in bonding our community. Chelsea must also come to the realization that in the near future we will probably become a multicultural, multi-racial village. We must learn not only to accept the ways of Chelsea's new residents, we must learn to learn to draw from their knowledge and experience to become a better and stronger community. The most beneficial learning comes from others. With this in mind, Chelsea must use the resources of the new residents to improve the village as a whole.

To retain our sense of community, Chelsea must support its downtown area. As the community foundation of America supports the structure of our country, the downtown shopping area of a small town supports the town's sense of community.

A downtown is a place to meet and greet friends. Clerks respond to real people, not just a sea of anonymous faces. Just the sense of belonging felt when you know the person you are buying your groceries from, for example, though usually undetected, is incredibly comforting. Our downtown area is truly a thing to be appreciated, utilized, and supported.

Changes are going to come to Chelsea, and they will come regardless of our perception of them. In some ways, they are already here. The land east of Freer Road, for example, was open fields four years ago. Since then, a new sub-division, a cemetery, and a church have been built, Such changes are not uncommon in our village. We must notice them, we must continue to support our downtown, we must welcome the new residents, and we must work to maintain our special village. Keeping this town special while it grows will be a challenge, but it is a challenge well worth ac-

By Nathan Schoch Second Prize Winner Tick-tock, tick-tock, the next century is creeping up onto this community quickly, and I feel we are not equipped for what awaits us. Many obstacles must be overcome by our civic leaders and other residents to be able to lead us into the next millennium of Chelsea. The problems that overwhelm this community consist of pollution, recycling, and education which should begin being dealt with today.

The issue of pollution should be dealt with immediately, because of its simplicity to rid it from this community. There are three major forms of pollution which affect us: air, water, and light. Air pollution can be wiped out if places that give off large concentrations of carbon monoxide, for example the Chrysler Proving Grounds for the testing of cars that release these ozone depleting gases. Also, cars and other vehicles of transportation should be outlawed if they give off emissions that are destructive to the environment. Water pollution can be dealt simply by having people report others who are dumping or doing something illegal that may destroy the ecology of a lake or pond; by reporting someone they may be rewarded in some small token of the community's gratitude. Shades that are down town, should be put on other lights with great intensity that are in the village, to get rid of some of the light pollution.

Recycling is a process that should be very easily taken care of. Many new types of materials should be picked up, such as: other types of plastics besides the ones with the number 2 on the bottom of a container, all types of foams, cardboards, and paper that is laminated. These materials if also picked up with what is already being picked up would cut down on the waste that is being taken to landfills. To do this a twice-a-week pick-up plan should be put into effect or a larger vehicle that can pick up the additional recyclables. This will help the next generation and future generations of "Chelseaites" learn that recycling will help the environment.

The educational system of Chelsea can be improved immensely. A child goes to school to learn, and students of the future will have much more to learn in the same amount of time we have to learn information now in 1994. I say that the school year should be lengthened or that the school day should become longer so that students will be able to have a longer period for each class. Also, the classes should become smaller to the size of about 20 students instead of 30 students per class. In every class a computer should be there for every student so that they will be able to get the most information in a class. The computers could be hooked up to the Internet or Prodigy so that the school would be on the computer highway and any student would be able to obtain the most information. This will help students of the future of Chelsea.

These improvements to Chelsea will help us go into the next millennium. If we start working on these problems now it will make the future a lot easier for us and the future generations. We are heading toward the next century, and we must make changes or we may be behind in cleaning up pollution, making a better recycling system, and improving the educational system in Chelsea.

Boys Tennis Team Loses Close Meet

Chelsea's boys tennis team lost to Ypsilanti this week, 3-4. The Bulldogs needed only one more point to pull out a win over Ypsilanti High but it was not to be. Freshman Mark Valchine and Ryan Chase went to three sets with their opponents but did not have the experience needed to get the final point. "Both boys are new to tennis this year, are working very hard and will be very good players with a couple of more seasons of play," said coach Terri Curtis.

In singles play, Soumya Mukhopadhyay defeaded Nathan Butler 6-0, 6-0; Dan Johnson defeated Colin Long-worth 6-3, 6-2; Steve McDonald defeated Adrian Petrut 6-4, 6-4; and Matt Heddle defeated Chris Giebel 7-5, 6-4. Chris played singles for Kevin Myers who was absent.

In doubles play, Scott Boughton and Adam Beauchamp defeated Jacob Bonnici and Andrew Wood, 6-2, 6-0; Hung Do and Andrew Craig defeated Jason Dunahoo and Al Letizio, 6-3, 6-4; and James Algee and Jason Fahlstrom defeated Mark Vaichine and Ryan Chase 6-7 (tiebreaker in first set 7-3), 6-4, 6-4.

Chelsea's next matches are against Brooklyn Colombia Central Tuesday and Riverview Thursday. Both matches will be away.

Pheasant Crowing Count Scheduled

Washtenaw County Chapter of Pheasants Forever will be assisting the Michigan Department of Natural Resources with their annual spring pheasant crowing count.

Each May for the last several years, the local chapter of Pheasants Forever has taken to the back roads of several townships in Washtenaw county to count pheasants. The process is very simple. Each "listener" is given a predetermined route to follow with a map and instructions on how to complete his or her task. Basically the "listener" stops at each designed point and listens for exactly two minutes and counts each time a rooster pheasant crows.

The DNR uses this information to determine whether the pheasant population is increasing or decreas-

★ Tiny Warrior Might Slay Monster Weed

By Kathryn Barry Stelljes A weed named for a monster in Greek mythology is devouring western rangelands, but a fungus may be the hero that can stop it. Greenhouse experiments show a fungus found in Montana soil rots the crown of the weed, medusahead, the namesake of the Greek monster Medusa. Also, the fungus prevents the weed from reproducing and greatly reduces its growth. Now U.S. Department of Agriculture scientists, in co-operation with Montana State University, are looking for a Fusarium culmorum fungus species that lives in medusahead's homeground—the area between the Cascade, Sierra and Rocky Mountains known as the Great Basin.

"Medusahead is probably the greatest threat to the natural vegetation that has yet been accidentally intro-duced into the Great Basin," said James Young, range scientist of USDA's Agricultural Research Service. He is at the Conservation Biology of Rangelands Laboratory in Greek mythology said men feared to look upon Medusa, as she would turn them into stone. Medusahead turns rangeland full of forage plants into a wasteland as unpalatable as rocks to grazing wildlife and livestock. Only the weed survives, crowding out plants that animals have come to depend on for food, said

Medusahead aids its own spread by providing fuel for wildfires. Dead, dry plant leaves and stems burn like a torch when ignited, said Bob Blank, ARS soil scientist at the Reno lab. "Where fires once covered 100 acres, they now cover 1,000 acres," Blank

Areas that burned once in several decades—or never—now blaze every few years, he added. And while the frequent fires favor the return and spread of medusahead, they prevent the regrowth of native sagebrush.

Young said grazing animals will eat medusahead only if they are starving-except for a short time in the spring when the weed is green and soft instead of gold and sharp. When they try to chew dry medusahead, its tiny barbs lacerate their mouths.

etters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

I was very honored to be one of the chaperones traveling to Washington, D.C. with the eighth grade class. The people of this community, school district and parents should be very proud and honored to have the class of "1996" represent them.

The bus ride alone was very interesting. It was a long ride, but I still saw kids sharing everything they brought from food, Walkman radios, tapes, pop, games, blankets, pillows and books. I witnessed a great amount of respect for the other people on bus No. 1 on which I rode for the entire trip. Whenever asked to pay attention to the guide or one of the counselors. we had no problems. The kids did as they were asked and we didn't hear any complaints.

The kids that I had in my group were all well behaved and thoroughly enjoyed all the museums, and points of interest we saw. They looked pretty sharp at the Ford Theatre, too!

The other thing that I noticed was the way the kids and others reacted to the Vietnam Memorial. What a sad and touching place. There were people crying, taking prints from the wall, leaving special things at the base of the wall and talking about loved ones. As I looked around I noticed that the students had also felt the great loss of so many American lives. Their walk had slowed and the tone in their voices had dropped. They were asking lots of questions and I noticed that hats were off! "What respect."

Lastly, can you imagine 146 eighth graders at a Holiday Inn for three nights with no major problems. I would also like to thank my son, Nathan, for not being embarrassed to have me along on such a special trip. So many teen-agers would prefer to have their parents in the background of their life. It was my pleasure to accompany him and his friends, Chelsea, you can be proud of our Beach Middle school class of 1998. Chaperone and parent, Tom Smith.

Farm Bureau Hails Court Decision on Agricultural Drainage

In a development of critical importance to Michigan's agricultural drainage needs, the U.S. Forest Service recently announced it was ending litigation against the Oceana County Drain Commissioner. The decision followed a 17-month court battle and an unfavorable ruling against the Forest Service by a U.S. magistrate.

The dispute focused on a 1992 county drain improvement project that the Forest Service said threatened Forest Service property known as the Walkinshaw Wetlands. But U.S. Magistrate Joseph Scoville ruled in support of Oceana Drain commissioner Calvin Ackley.

In his ruling, Scoville said that "both Congress and the Michigan legislature have decided that excavation of existing drains, designed to preserve life, property and agriculture, is entitled to some deference even in the presence of wetlands con-cerns. A ruling that the United States may ignore state drain codes and damdrainage ditches without the permission of local officials would be momentous and disruptive in every state of the nation."

The judge's ruling is an important victory for Michigan agriculture, according to Vicki Pontz, legislative counsel for Michigan Farm Bureau. "The judge clearly recognized the rights of private property owners to maintain drainage ditches for agricultural purposes," she said. "The ruling clearly points out that the federal government should comply with the same regulatory requirements as any other landowner." The judge's ruling is an impo

Dear Chelsea Area Neighbor:

As you may be aware, the State of Michigan, Department of Corrections, Cassidy Lake "Boot Camp" has established a Community Liaison Committee (CLC) to address concerns of the citizens residing in the communities near the "Boot Camp."

Meetings are held on a quarterly basis, with the first meeting having been held on Aug. 16, 1993. The meetings have been poorly attended, possibly due to a lack of effective notification, the fact that the meetings were held at the "Boot Camp," and a sense of complacency on our part.

The meetings are used as a sounding board for citizens to express their concerns, offer suggestions, and for "Boot Camp" officials to educate the public regarding "Boot Camp accomplishments, operations, and security measures to prevent "trainee" escapes.

Problems arise for you, as a member of the community, when a 'trainee' escapes from the "Boot Camp" or from an assigned community work detail, which community work details occur anywhere within 40 miles of the "Boot Camp."

As you can imagine, the escapee's immediate needs are transportation, money, and a change of clothes, all of which can be found at YOUR residence. During the past year, 15 trainees have escaped from the "Boot Camp" or community work details. The most recent escape occurred on April 13, when a "trainee" escaped from a work detail in, the Jackson county area. The escapee broke into a private residence, located a gun, and kidnapped the occupants when they returned home.

The ideal solution to the escape problem is to prevent all escapes, which is an impossible task given current budgetary and manpower restraints. In view of this fact, one of the main goals of the CLC is to establish a reliable and TIMELY escape notification system. A number of suggestions have been presented during CLC meetings, one of which is currently being implemented. This suggestion involves the use of a telephone escape notification pro-cedure, with "block captains" who will be notified of an escape. They will in turn notify "concerned neighbors." All "concerned neighbors" and members of the community are invited and highly encouraged to attend the next Community Liaison Committee meeting Monday, May 2, at 7 p.m. For your convenience, the May meeting is being held at the Chelsea Rod and Gun Club, 7103 Lingane Rd., Chelsea. Lingane Rd. is located west of M-52, between Waterloo Rd. and

Bush Rd. Please plan to attend. Your community thanks you for your concern and participation. Al Letizio

Smoke-Free Dining Guide Lists 13 in Washtenaw County

SmokeBusters-2000, a county tobacco reduction coalition, is informing area residents that 13 restaurants in Washtenaw county are among the eating establishments listed in the "Michigan Smoke-Free Dining Guide" released recently. The guide lists restaurants across the state that have completely eliminated smoking from their eateries.

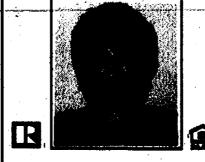

"We're delighted that smoke-free restaurants are available in our area," said Barbara Mueller, coordinator of the coalition. "With this guide, even more people will realize that they can enjoy a good meal without the worry and annoyance of dangerous second-hand smoke."

The dining guide divides the state into four regions, then lists restaurants by city in each region. Each entry gives the address and phone for the restaurant and the specialty of the house. Eateries included in the guide range from fast food and family restaurants to those with finer dining and ethnic cuisine.

The guide is currently available through the Michigan Department of Public Health's Health Promotion Clearinghouse (1-800-537-5666). "Michigan Smoke-Free Dining Guide" was produced by the Tobacco-Free Michigan Action Coalition, a state-wide coalition dedicated to reducing tobacco use in the state. SmokeBusters-2000 is one of the 71 members of the Tobacco-Free Michigan Action Coalition.

Dick Chrysler Announces Candidacy for Congress

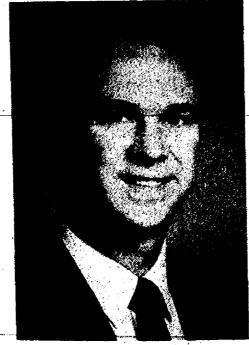

Dick Chrysler kicked off his cam-paign for the United States Congress, on April 14 by, announcing his candidacy with the following statement.

"Today I am announcing my can-didacy for the United States House of Representatives. In 1993, when Bill Clinton and his fellow Democrats passed the largest tax increase in American history by just one vote, the first ever retroactive income tax increase in history, I decided to run for Congress again. One vote can make a difference. This increase will cost the American people billions of dollars and, I believe, some serious heartache in the years to come."

"After the election in 1992, people asked me if I had won, would I have been frustrated being in Washington will Bill Clinton and all the Democrats in Congress. I thought long and hard about that. But I now know that if my one vote could have stopped that tax increase, then it would have been worth it for all of us."

"Now, if I can stop the government bureaucrats from taking over our health care system next year, then that one vote will again be worth it. Don't be fooled, Bill and Hillary's health care program has nothing to do with providing the citizens of this country with better health care. It has a lot to do with transferring 17% of the GNP from the private sector to the public sector, out of the hands of individual citizens and into the hands of government bureaucrats. This is nothing more than a power grabpower the government and Bill Clinton will have over your lives, life and death power that would make Americans solely dependent on big government for their health care

"My friends, we do not need to empower government, we need to empower people. We should be able to keep more of what we earn and save; we should be able to make our own decisions about how we spend our money-not the government. We need less government, lower taxes, and more personal freedom. A good beginning toward these goals is to elect Dick Chrysler to Congress for the effective leadership I can bring to government for America's future."

"In 1992, we came so close to winning against an entrenched incumbent. In 1994, the Eighth District is an open seat. Without an opponent wielding all the advantages of incumbency, our chances of winning are excellent. And we will win because we will work even harder in 1994 than we did in 1992, building a bigger and strong grassroots organization and talking about issues. I am pleased and very fortunate to have the early endorsements of the Eighth District Committee, the Ingham County Party, the Livingston County Party, the Genesee County Party, the Washtenaw County Party, the Shiawassee County Party, and the Oakland County Chairman, With this strong start and solid foundation, we today begin a tough, aggressive campaign to change the United States Congress."

"It's time for the Eighth District to send a strong Republican Leader to Congress. I am ready for the

that they must file their Homestead Property Tax Exemption Affidavit by May 1 in order to be eligible for the new lower school property tax rate for 1994. The original deadline of March 1 was extended to May 1 by Governor Engler through an Executive Direc-

Filing the exemption affidavit will entitle eligible homeowners to lower their school operating millage rate from its 1993 level to 6 mills in most

If a homeowner has not yet filed their affidavit, forms are available at all city and township assessor's of-fices or by calling (800) FORM-2-ME. Allow three days for delivery of the form. Completed affidavits must be delivered to the local assessor's office by close of business on Saturday, April 30. The form must be filed by April 29 in those cities and townships which do not have Saturday hours. If mailed, forms must be postmarked prior to May 1.

Following are some frequently ask-ed questions about applying for the homestead property tax exemption:

Who is eligible for the exemption? You are eligible to exempt your property from the locally-voted 18 school operating mills if your home is your principal and permanent residence. Tests to determine principal residence include such things as: Where are you registered to vote? What is the address on your driver

Homeowners are being reminded license? Where do your children attend school?

Who cannot claim an exemption? Owners of second homes cannot claim an exemption on the second home. Non-Michigan residents who own a home in Michigan cannot claim an exemption.

I bought a home before May 1 but will not move into it until after May 1. May I claim an exemption on my new home for 1994?

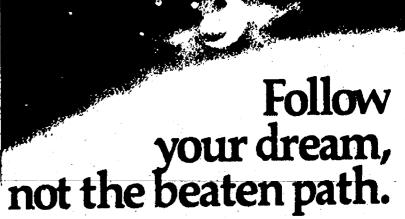

No. Since you did not own and occupy the home before the filing date, you may not file a claim for 1994. However, the previous owner may have claimed the property and that exemption remains in effect until Jan. 1. You may file a claim for your new home in 1995.

I own an 8-unit apartment building classified as commercial property and one unit is my principal residence. May I claim an exemption on my unit?

Yes. Complete section 3 of the af-

If homeowners have more specific questions about whether they qualify for the exemption, they should call their local assessor's office for clarification.

High School Accreditation Is Renewed

Principal Ron Mead of Chelsea High school has announced that the school's North Central Association accreditation has been extended through the 1993-94 school year. This action was taken at the NCA's Annual Meeting in Chicago, Ili., on March 30.

"Along with hosting periodic on-site evaluations by a visiting team of educators, each NCA school is accredited on the basis of an annual report on conditions in the school and on such supplementary information as the Commission on Schools requests," Principal Mead explained. "The continued accreditation means that the conditions for effective education exist in the school."

The North Central Association is the largest of the country's regional accrediting agencies. Tennis Coach Terri Curtis Retires After 25 Years Here

Terri Curtis, tennis coach and physical education teacher for both Chelsea High school and Beach Middle school, is retiring after 32 years of teaching, 25 years in Chelsea.

She is a native of Ohio where she earned her undergraduate degree at Bowling Green State University, completing her master's degree through work at both Western and Eastern Michigan universities.

She began Michigan employment at Niles, after leaving Kankakee, Ill., following a teacher's strike and race riot. At that time Michigan was one of the highest paying states for teaching positions.

In addition to teaching physical education at the high school and middle school, she has been coaching tennis 26 seasons. Curtis ran recreation tennis for 12-15 years, teaching junior, youth and adult levels as well as private lessons.

For 10 years, she coached cheerleading. She headed the Girl's Athletic Association for 12 years until the law changed to require equity in girls sports and shared gym time.

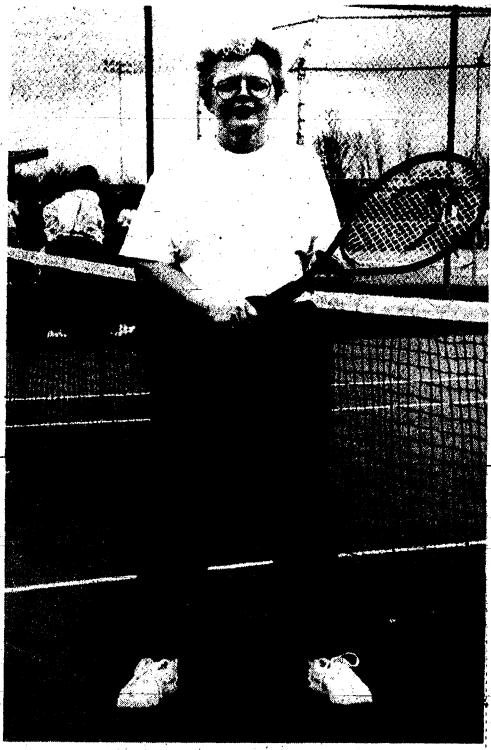

She has refereed basketball and volleyball, and she has taught drivers

"I absolutely adore sixth graders, they're the most enjoyable students," said Curtis. She has taught middle school in the last nine years. Before that, she taught only high school.

She said it was very hard for her to accept the middle school assignment even through she had more seniority and a higher level degree than others.

She is planning to move to Gladwin where she and husband, David, have a home they've been remodeling for the past three years. He is also retiring from the Chelsea School District where he has been employed for 30 years as custodian at the high school. He plans to continue his saw sharpening business in their new location.
