Chrysler Corp. Proving Grounds Celebrating 40th Year in Chelsea

Forty years ago the Chelsea Proving grounds was opened to test Chrysler Corporation's latest car models. Where today the Viper and the LH sedans prowling the test tracks, the memories of the old DeSoto and the Hemi engine road monsters still stir in the old hands who remember when the facility opened way back in 1954.

Reporters from all over the country gathered Monday to look over the new "Automated Durability Road" nearing completion. The Chelsea Standard first reported on this new rough road test track in its Dec. 8, 1993 issue so a repeat description is not necessary here. Suffice it to say, that the new track when made operational next year will be fully automated with cars driven by robots and computers. What was of greater interest to this reporter, however, was the sheer scale and complexity of the larger facility which most of us living here in Chelsea take for granted and see very little of as we pass by the M-52 gate.

Behind that gate lies a vast 3,800-acre tract which contains miles of multi-condition roadways and a complex and sophisticated technical apparatus to collect and analyze the road testing data. A large and diverse staff of engineers and technicians work to test the Chrysler vehicles under every conceivable road condition. Who would believe that in the heart of Sylvan township farm country lies an auto testing facility second to none in the world? Where sheep lazily graze just outside its 10-foot-high wire fence, cars routinely travel in excess of 100 mph and are put through the most grueling of off-road testing just behind the trees and berno.

As this reporter put a new Viper through its screaming paces on an S curved test track, I smiled as I raced down the straights knowing that just a few hundred yards beyond, the calm serenity of the countryside lay undisturbed by the Viper's terrible roar.

The Chrysler Proving Grounds is one of the area's largest employers and prides itself on being a good neighbor. Great care is taken to insure that to the extent possible, and given the demands of the testing program, wildlife habitats remain undisturbed. Rick LaLone, program director for the new test track on display Monday, explained with some delight that several Blue Heron nesting sites near the roadbed were undisturbed by the recent construction.

In the last two years Chrysler has introduced several very popular new car models. Taken together they have reinvigorated the once ailing company. Record profits have been reported for the last two quarters, Chrysler stock has appreciated several fold over the last year, and the company is regarded by analysts as one of the most cost efficient producers in the world-wide auto industry. All of the car models that helped turn Chrysler around were performance tested at the proving grounds, making the Chelsea facility and its local staff pivotal to the company's new-found success. Most of the staff live here in the Chelsea area and are our neighbors and friends. They go about their business behind the gate on M-52 quietly with little in the way of recognition from the local community.

Because the proving grounds complex is so important to the local community, and because they are such very good corporate neighbors, we wish them a happy and prosperous 40th birthday!

Overflow Crowd Packs Council Hall To Protest Proposed Trailer Park

Last Tuesday, June 14, at the Village Council's regularly scheduled meeting, the temperature outside was in the nineties and the emotional temperature inside Sylvan Township Hall was even hotter. A standing-room only assembly of village and township residents was on hand to voice their view that the land for the proposed trailer park next to the sewage treatment plant should not be annexed to the Village.

The developers of the proposed park, Martin Merkel and Phil Jenkins want to tap into the Village's water and sewer system to allow the high density they need for the trailer use. The Village has a long standing policy not to extend services to areas that are not part of the Village. The size of the parcel is large enough, 157 acres, to install as many as 850 trailers, roughly the same size as the Scio Farms Estates mobile home park on Jackson Rd., also owned by Phil Jenkins.

The land is currently being cultivated and is planted this year in corn and soybeans. The surrounding uses are mostly agricultural as well. A tree nursery, sheep farm, and a cattle breeding facility are all located on its southern and eastern boundaries.

A brief presentation was made first by Steve Tracy, spokesman for the developers, who seemed to have difficulty describing what the intended usage of the land was to be until an audience member clarified the matter by shouting, "trailer park!" Tracy responded by saying he did not want to use such a label and that the mobile home industry prefers the more benign term, "manufactured housing" to describe their development proposal.

After Tracy's opening comments, speaker after speaker got up to argue against the annexation. Most concerns expressed generally focused on the lack of school district facilities to handle the large numbers of additional school age children generated by trailer parks, and the incompatibility of such a high density use with surrounding low density residential and agricultural uses.

Emotions ran high with the people in the sweltering Hall. Council President Steele was forced to gavel the crowd to silence several times when more than one speaker at a time felt compelled to shout out and make their views known. No speaker rose to support the annexation.

One old-hand Council watcher, Luther Kusterer, said "he never before witnessed such unanimity of opinion expressed by so many at a Council meeting."

Citizen comments ranged over a wide spectrum of opinion. Objection came from the restrained comments of Greg McKenzie, Lima Township Planning Commission chairman, who said, "that Lima Township is just finishing its new master plan and is seeking to protect the rural character of the township and encourage agricultural uses as a means of preserving open space and maintaining the distinctive difference between urban and country on the fringes of Chelsea. A trailer park of this possible magnitude would be devastating to our planning and would result in congested streets and contribute to urban sprawl."

In contrast, several others, like Jennie Maynard, Village resident and mother of school age children, spoke passionately and personally about the currently overburdened school system and the lack of community resources to absorb so many people so quickly.

In response to the intensity of the opposition Village Council voted to refer the Merkel annexation proposal to the Planning Commission for review and recommendation. In addition, the Village Council agreed to set a date at its next Council meeting for a working session to be held where the specific concerns brought up by the citizens can be addressed and staff has had an opportunity to analyze and report-back on them. The next time this issue will appear for action on the agenda was tentatively scheduled for July 28 at which time most of the review process should be complete.

Meanwhile, community members at the meeting indicated that a large scale effort has been mounted to collect signatures on a petition to be presented to the Village Council demonstrating the depth of opposition to the annexation. Organizers Ginger Haugen, Margaret Schankler and Anna Eusades report that hundreds of signatures have been gathered already with the effort to continue until presented to Village Council at their next meeting.

In contrast to the heat generated by the Merkel annexation issue, little was said in opposition to the .28 millage increase approved by Council. Richard Rigg was the only Council member to express concern for the small increase expected to generate approximately $20,000 in additional operational revenue. Rigg cautioned that even this small increase in tax obligation was too much to bear for the older residents of the village trying to make ends meet on fixed incomes, and, therefore, would vote against it. Brian Cashman indicated that the small amount represents only an increase sufficient to cover the cost of inflation over the last year.

In other news of note, Tim Merkel, Mark Wesley and Kathy Carter were reappointed to the Village Planning Commission which will have met last night to take up the Merkel annexation issue referred to them by council.

Piasecki Will Attend Truth in Sentencing Ceremonies Friday

On Tuesday, June 14, Michigan senators spoke with a loud and clear voice in approving legislation which will make prison sentences for violent offenders more certain.

Under two bills (S.B.40 and 41) which the Senate approved unanimously, violent criminals would be required to serve at least their minimum sentence as set by a judge. The policy of granting time off for good behavior would also be eliminated.

These two Senate Bills are tied to a House Bill (HB4782) which requires a commission to be set up to rewrite Sentencing Guidelines. This bill has not yet been passed.

Marlene Piasecki testified before the Senate Judiciary Committee on sentencing guidelines on May 10. She also participated in the presentation of 40,000 signatures for Truth in Sentencing to Gov. Engler.

Senator William Van Regenmorter, 23rd District, originated Senate Bills 40 and 41.

Piasecki has been invited to be present Friday, June 24 along with Sen. Van Regenmorter and Gov. Engler for an official signing of the two bills.

All national media are expected to cover the signing and report its

Laurie Honbaum Is 2nd Runnerup in Miss Mich. Scholarship Pageant

Laurie Honbaum returned Sunday after a week of no contact with family or friends while competing in the Miss Michigan Scholarship Pageant held in Muskegon.

She arrived home a little tired, but extremely happy with the outcome.

The competition began Wednesday with personal interviews held with the judges. This is 30% of the total score and is a 12-minute interview which consisted mainly of questions regarding her "platform" issue. The platform is a current issue that the contestant would act as an ambassador for throughout the state or country if selected Miss America.

Laurie's platform is "Self-esteem Via Involvement" which stresses positive association with parents, teachers, and peers and involvement in activities to develop one's self-esteem. She has given presentations to area schools and is a member of the "Big Brothers and Big Sisters of Washtenaw County" program.

On Thursday, Laurie performed a flawless jazzy baton twirling routine to Benny Goodman's "Sing, Sing, Sing." Talent makes up 40% of the score. Another 30% was calculated on Friday during the swimsuit/physical fitness (15%) and evening gown (15%) competition with on-stage interview question.

The anxiety built up Saturday night with the announcement of the top 10 contestants who would be repeating their talent, swimsuit/physical fitness, and evening gown performances. Chelsea residents expressed their excitement as "Contestant No. 13, Miss Redford Township, Laurie Kay Honbaum" was the 10th and final contestant to be announced.

After completing the competition, the final results were announced. Fourth runner-up was Miss Saginaw County, Jennifer Drayton, a classical pianist. Jackson County's Coni Hull, a vocalist, was third runner-up. Laurie Honbaum finished second runner-up behind two contestants who had placed in the top five in last year's competition and were this year's preliminary talent winners. Debbie Couch, Miss Clinton Riverfest and lyrical ballet dancer, was first runner-up this year, and Miss Heart of Michigan, Maria Kamara, was crowned "Miss Michigan 1994."

Leith Murder Trial Delayed 2 Weeks More

Accused murderer Stephen Leith and his attorney, Joseph E. Simon, have been granted a two week delay for the trial which had been scheduled to start July 18.

Leith, a 40-year-old Chelsea High school science teacher has been accused of killing school superintendent Joseph Piasecki on Dec. 18.

Two others, principal Ronald Mead and English teacher Phillip Jones were wounded in the gunfire.

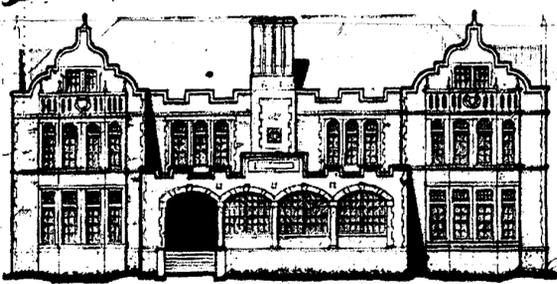

The trial was to have started July 18 before Circuit Judge Donald Shelton but Leith's attorney, Simon, said final psychiatric reports for his client would not be ready by that date and the judge granted a two-week delay.

Leith is charged with open murder, two counts of attempted murder and three charges of possession of a firearm in the commission of a felony.

Simon has reportedly prepared a defense based on what he calls Leith's agitated state of mind. Leith had been treated for chronic depression for two years and was said to be regularly taking Prozac, an anti-depressant drug.

Three 14-year-old boys went on a rampage through Beach Middle school early last Friday morning and caused an estimated $30,000 to $40,000 worth of damage in vandalism, according to Chelsea police. The three boys, all ninth graders this fall, have confessed to police. They cannot be identified because they are minors. They did not give officers Richard Foster and Scott Sumner, who investigated the case, a reason for their actions, according to police chief Lenard McDougall. The first confession began Friday afternoon.

Consultants for Chelsea's Downtown Development Authority described their initial ideas for the downtown business district in a meeting at the Chelsea Depot Monday night. The consulting team, which includes Howard Deardorff of Lansing, Pat Jackson of Charlevoix and Jeffrey Corbin of Traverse City, discussed a beautification program that included some ideas that have been talked about locally for several years, as well as new ideas, some of which may not be politically feasible or even affordable. Costs were not discussed.

Chelsea School District has decided to spend about $75,000 to renovate the district's bus garage, now called the Elmer Lindow Service Center, with new underground storage tanks, pump islands and outside lighting. The school board has been wrestling with the problem since it pulled a leaky storage tank out of the ground last winter. Contamination turned out to be minimal, but it caused a lot of discussion about potential liability issues associated with contaminating soil and possibly groundwater.

Chelsea first farmer's market in many years is set to begin this Saturday, June 23 in the Chelsea Depot parking lot. Village council gave official approval for the event at their regular meeting June 5. The market has gotten unanimous support of Chelsea's Downtown Development Authority, as well as an enthusiastic endorsement by village council.

★ Beyond Deinstitutionalization: Mental Health Reform

By Mark G. Michaelsen

Shhh! There's a quiet revolution underway in mental health service delivery in Michigan.

Unlike the highly publicized closure of Detroit's Lafayette Clinic and nine other state hospitals and living centers in 1991 and 1992, these changes don't promise the sort of sensational confrontation that sells newspapers and makes for shocking television news coverage. They are, however, no less profound. To put the continuing reform effort in context, let's consider where Michigan was in the past and where it is today.

By 1970, a national movement to end the warehousing of the mentally ill in latter-day asylums and integrate them into the broader society had largely succeeded. In Michigan, the legislature passed a bill to provide more compassionate and supportive services based in local communities where patients' families live. Unfortunately, this recognition of the dignity of the mentally ill and developmentally disabled has often been saddled with the term, "deinstitutionalization," and used to explain away a host of society's ills, from crime to homelessness.

Studies document the therapeutic advantages of community-based care for all but the most severely ill. Through the involvement and support of parents and family, educational opportunities, job training, and supported employment, the mentally ill and developmentally disabled can achieve greater independence and stronger feelings of self-worth than can be obtained in an institutional setting.

By 1993, the legislature's 1974 goal of a state-wide system of community health boards responsive to local needs had become a reality. Fifty-five boards serve all 83 Michigan counties, managing such services as assertive community treatment teams, outpatient counseling, and inpatient care. In 1993, the community programs served over 170,000 people. State financial support to local programs has increased from $165.8 million in 1980 to $1 billion in 1993. This dramatic increase in state support for community mental health was made possible by closing state hospitals that cost as much as $500,000 per bed per year.

From 1980 to 1990, 14 state hospitals and centers were closed, and the adult psychiatric patient population in state facilities shrank by 32 percent. Since 1990, the population has declined another 33 percent. Now, only 10 percent of adult mental health patients are admitted to state psychiatric facilities, with the remainder being cared for in community hospitals and other local residential facilities. The numbers of children and adults receiving state inpatient treatment for developmental disabilities have also declined by similar proportions.

This is not the end of reform. Draft revisions to the state Mental Health Code are being circulated by the state Department of Mental Health (DMH) to allow community mental health boards to carry money forward, own property, issue bonds, and engage in new types of services appropriate to meet local client needs. This would allow boards to become less dependent on county governments, already strapped for cash, for financial support.

The most dramatic aspect of the DMH's proposed changes would end the subsidy of private health insurers from the state and community mental health system. Current law says that anyone who is diagnosed as having a chronic mental illness becomes the responsibility of the public system, shifting the cost from health insurers to state taxpayers.

DMH, instead, would like to turn this upside down, converting a public liability into a community asset—whereby private insurers pay competitive, locally-based providers to do the best job for those who require care.

The objective of all these reforms is to provide a seamless service delivery system for mental health, public health, substance abuse treatment, and social welfare delivery, ending turf disputes and cost-shifting between agencies.

Vilified during the highly visible and controversial closure of the Lafayette Clinic, state Mental Health Director James Haveman has emerged as one of the nation's senior mental health administrators. In other states where governors avoid controversy and let overstaffed, underpopulated hospitals that benefit from influential legislative favor continue to operate rather than seek compassionate, community-based alternatives, turnover among mental health directors is high.

Mental health policy makers in other states and in the nation's capital are watching reform efforts in Michigan closely. More and more of them are looking at our state as a model for the rest of the country.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

All the papers are talking about the revival of baseball, especially the minor leagues. They say there are more teams and more fans now than at any time since the heyday between WW II and television. The country got excited about the new wuzmen team, but the jury is still out on whether it's the baseball or the novelty of the thing. And there is new interest in the minor leagues of car racing, with people going back to their little hometown tracks.

Ed Doolittle told the fellows at the country store Saturday night that he is surprised the young sports reporters are surprised. Ed said he has followed baseball since his days of pickup games at the nearest crossroads with a good size and fairly level pasture close by. Back then, he said, families come out to cheer their side and to have no mercy on the poor fellow who stood behind the pitcher and umpired the whole game by himself.

Folks didn't have to understand the game to get caught up in the excitement, Ed went on. He recalled once when he was pitching the Ma of a boy on the other team kept yelling for him to get a hit. Ed said the boy struck out every time he came up, and when the game ended she was mad as a wet setting hen. She marched out to the umpire and give him a piece of her mind. "It ain't no wonder my boy didn't whack the ball," she said, "that left-handed rascal was a'chunking it as hard as he could."

The fellows were full agreed with Ed that renewed interest in baseball is a sign of values changing for the better in America. What we need next, Clem Webster said, is porches. Short of requiring ball fields, playgrounds and sidewalks in all housing subdivisions, urban, suburban and rural, Clem said, nothing would do more good for the American spirit than front porches.

Furthermore, Clem went on, proper use of the front porch would cure half the physical and mental problems that folks set and mope and bring on themselves. What we got to do, he said, is sit, rock, think and talk it out to ourselves and one another. The porch would give us a pound of prevention, so we wouldn't need all those pounds of cure, was Clem's words. Bug Hookum second the motion, with an amendment that every front porch have a swing. A porch with a rocker is fine, Bug said, but one with a rocker and a swing is great. Actual, more starts in life than we want to admit are owed to front porch swings, and many a spat has been patched up in them later on. Listening to the grass grow, or the corn if you're real lucky, late of evenings and general sorting out your day and your life is high on the list of advantages. Many a boy picked up pointers in life listening to the older heads swap yarns on the front porch.

Come to think, Zeke Grubb said, you don't see back porches these days, either. That's where the wimmen shared the news and the kitchen chores. Between them, porches helped keep America sane. For to long now we've stayed boxed up in our houses and in ourselves, was Zeke's words.

Personal, I read where coffee countries have set up a cartel like the oil countries, to keep prices up. Morning in America without coffee is scary. We can't rock enough to keep our grip.

Yours truly,
 Uncle Lew.

Dr. Atkinson Interviewed On Health Care Reform

Chelsea Doctor of Chiropractic, Warren B. Atkinson, was recently interviewed regarding health care issues and the role of the Doctor of Chiropractic in national health care reform.

Dr. Atkinson was contacted by Clayton-Davis, Inc., the public relations firm of the American Chiropractic Association to address the cost savings benefits of chiropractic care and the issue of freedom of choice of health care providers. The interview was conducted by Karen Keys of WBSX, TV 31 of Ann Arbor and aired recently.

Dr. Atkinson reported that "numerous governmental studies including 'The Manga Report,' were commissioned recently by the Ontario Ministry of Health and conducted by Pran Manga, Ph.D., to study the cost effectiveness of chiropractic management of low back pain. They recently concluded that doctors of chiropractic should not only be included in Canada's health care plan but should be the primary gate keepers in cases of management of low back pain." Dr. Atkinson also stated that "The Clinton health care reform plan does not specifically include chiropractic but patients should be given freedom to choose the health care provider of their choice."

Dr. Atkinson is currently a member of the American Chiropractic Association and serves as the president of District Two and on the board of directors of the Michigan Chiropractic Society. He also serves on the board of directors of the Michigan Chiropractic Network Corporation. Dr. Atkinson founded Atkinson Chiropractic in Chelsea in 1978 and serves as its director.

Capt. Greg Johnson Retires From Ypsilanti City Fire Dept.

Greg Johnson has a philosophy to selling real estate. "You need to put people before profit," he said.

Helping people is something Johnson, 41, has been doing all his life. Johnson, who has been a Chelsea resident since 1988 and a landowner in the village since '82, recently retired as Captain of the Ypsilanti Fire Department, where he often put his life on the line for others during his 21 years of service.

The son of a fire captain, Johnson began his career as a firefighter after taking the civil service exam to get a summer job to pay for tuition at Eastern Michigan University, where he was studying to become an accountant.

However, after one summer working at the fire department, he fell in love with the job and never looked back.

"I decided I could make money or enjoy what I'm doing," Johnson said, explaining his decision to stay on as a fireman. "I do in life what I enjoy, as opposed to what brings me the most money."

Now that he is retired Johnson plans to devote his time to selling real estate, something he has done in Chelsea since 1985.

Johnson started at Chelsea Real Estate to supplement his income from the fire department and prepare himself for retirement, but has since turned it into something he truly enjoys.

The fire department, Johnson said, helped prepare him for real estate, and the similarities between the two jobs is remarkable.

"The fire department helped me in real estate," Johnson said. "The fire department trained me to help people in emergency situations without getting emotional. Your job is to calm everyone else down."

"The two jobs are similar in that I'm helping people in emergency and emotional situations."

There has been little time to miss his job in Ypsilanti with all his responsibilities at the Michigan Group, Johnson said. However, he does miss the interaction with the other firefighters.

"I do miss the people," Johnson said. "You spend 24 hours a day with them."

"They are like a second family. You eat together, sleep together, discuss personal things... I miss that aspect of the job."

What he won't miss are those occasions when things did not work out so well for the victims of fires and other emergencies.

"There was lots of sadness."

Johnson said. "Many people died. I won't miss that part."

"There was a rescue run on Christmas Eve Day," he remembers.

"The man had a heart attack and we performed CPR, but you could see he wouldn't make it."

"You could see the presents and the tree," Johnson continued. "It's sad enough, but especially then (during the holidays)."

Johnson said another thing he will not miss is the physical part of the job and having to get up at all hours of the night.

Johnson does plan to relax a little. He has a vacation planned to London for later in the year.

However, it is real estate which will keep him busy for now. And it is real estate that allows him the opportunity to show off Chelsea.

"I love Chelsea," Johnson said. "It is the nicest community. I am real proud to bring people in from out of the area to see Chelsea."

So for now, the second generation fire captain is content to helping put people into homes.

significance. The entire nation is watching because Michigan is the first state to pass such "Truth in Sentencing" legislation.

It is expected other states will soon follow Michigan's lead.

Piasecki said it showed how effective the grass roots effort has been in getting action on the legislation. "Many friends, and neighbors helped by circulating or signing petitions, contacting lawmakers in Lansing and writing letters," Piasecki added.

Chelsea Artist Featured in Muskegon Museum Exhibition

The Muskegon Museum of Art has announced the Grandview Flora: Pastel Paintings by Marybeth Koeze, on display in the museum's Weinert Gallery through Aug. 26. This exhibit is sponsored by Herman Miller, Inc.

Koeze, a Chelsea artist, has created a series of pastel paintings, intensely detailed floral works, inspired by the gardens around her home. "Grandview is the name of my farm," said Koeze.

"The farm is the genesis of these paintings. For the past 10 years, my art has sprung from the gardens that I have planted to surround my country home."

Koeze's works are widely exhibited around the country including recent exhibitions at the Detroit Institute of Art, the Pastel Society of America and the Pastel Society of the West Coast.

"The Muskegon Museum of Art is pleased to showcase Koeze's exquisitely executed works," said Henry Matthews, MMA curator of collections and exhibitions. "As an institution, we uphold a commitment to feature Michigan artists. This exhibition of Marybeth Koeze's pastels is another outstanding example of Michigan's very own rich artistic climate."

The Muskegon Museum of Art is located in downtown Muskegon and is open Tuesday and Friday 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Saturday and Sunday 12 noon to 5 p.m. Along with the exhibition of pastel paintings by Marybeth Koeze, the museum's permanent collection is on display and includes works by Winslow Homer, J.A.M. Whistler, Fredrick Remington, Edgar Degas and many more. The museum is handicapped accessible and admission is free.

For more information, call (616) 722-2600.

MARYBETH KOEZE of Riker Rd., Chelsea, is exhibiting a series of pastel paintings at the Muskegon Museum of Art. The works will be on display from June 5 through Aug. 5.

THIS BEAUTIFUL PASTEL PAINTING of a boy blowing a stream of air into the open door of the log house. His mother watched him throw fistfuls of sand into the air in an attempt to dispel the flies and mosquitoes, then turned back to the hearth. After wetting the hem of her shirt as protection against sparks and hot ash, she scalded a pint of milk, then added three pints of Indian meal, salt, molasses and shortening. Now her son had a stick and was beating the hewn logs of the house—there were no other children to play with for miles. In a while, she would offer him a fresh, warm Johnny Cake from the hearth stones.

The boy sat in the dirt just outside the open door of the log house. "Don't let ambition get so far ahead that it loses sight of the job at hand..."

—William Feather

Ambition is necessary to progress. Unless someone aspires to something better, no progress will be made. But, unlike a number of other things, ambition is most serviceable when kept under control.

When runaway ambition causes us to lose our perspective and to neglect the less grandiose but no less important task at hand, it is no longer a useful tool. Every now and then we should pause and consider whether our ambitions are helping or hurting us.

Our reputation for service is based on the fact that we truly care about the families we serve. Come in and get acquainted.

34 Years Ago . . .

relatives in Grosse Pointe Park after 18 years as St. Mary's pastor.
A new $3,200 house trailer and all its contents were demolished yesterday afternoon in a spectacular truck-car collision in Lima township. Sheriff's deputies said the house trailer was being pulled by a car driven by Samuel H. Mason, 57, of Detroit, at the time of the accident. Mason was driving west on US-12 when a car, driven by James Wall of Decatur, Miss., started to pass the house trailer. The trailer suddenly whipped over against Wall's right front fender, knocking both the car and the house trailer off the road and crumpling the trailer "like a match box" deputies said.

Deputies Report Webster Township Break-ins

St. Thomas Church Will Dedicate Historical Marker

St. Thomas Lutheran church, 16 W. Ellsworth Rd., celebrated its 150th Anniversary in 1992. They will celebrate the dedication of the Michigan Historical Marker for the church and the cemetery with a special service on Sunday, June 26, at 10 a.m. and conclude with the dedication of the marker. A luncheon will follow the dedication.

Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputies investigated several incidents in Webster, Scio, Sylvan and Dexter townships, June 7-14.

Webster Township
Breaking and entering was reported in the 6700 block of Merrill Rd., June 14. A 50-year-old township man told police someone broke into his home between noon and 3 p.m., stealing a dual tape deck worth $166. Thieves kicked in the front door and stole the tape deck, leaving behind other valuables. A neighbor, home at the time, saw nothing suspicious. Damage to the door is estimated at $1,500.

Breaking and entering was reported in the 9400 block of Merrill Rd., June 9. A 29-year-old township woman told police someone broke into her home and stole a stereo receiver, cassette tape deck, CD player, compact discs and stereo speakers valued at $1,400. Thieves gained entry by kicking in a rear garage door between 8:40 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Scio Township
A hazardous spill was reported in Jackson Plaza on Jackson Rd. near Wagner Rd., June 13. A truck driver from Detroit was apparently lost, tried to turn around his rig and struck a gas pipe sticking out of the ground. In the process he ruptured the diesel fuel line to his truck. Approximately 100 gallons were spilled because he was unaware of the damage. A deputy on patrol noticed, and the fire department and county road commission responded to the scene. Sand was used to soak up fuel from the road. The 35-year-old driver was issued a citation for the incident.

Breaking and entering to an automobile was reported at Wolverine Truck Plaza on Baker Rd., June 13. Three interstate truck drivers reported falling asleep and waking up to find their wallets missing. A thief broke into their rigs, stealing over a thousand dollars in U.S. currency and $400 in Canadian currency. The men claim their truck doors were locked and windows were closed. Someone may have unlocked their doors by reaching in a corner window. Their wallets were found underneath each of their trucks.

A dealership at the Auto Mall on Jackson Rd. reported an $87,000 BMW stolen from its lot. A salesman told police he suspects two men and a woman who came in and looked at the vehicle. He believes they switched the key and returned later to steal the car. A similar incident happened at another BMW dealership.

Mark R. Siddall, 32, of Scio township was arrested on a warrant at his Scio Farms Estates home, June 11. The warrant was for leaving the scene of a personal injury accident and driving while impaired.

Douglas V. Hartsel, 35, of Ann Arbor was arrested on a warrant at Pilot Oil truck stop on Baker Rd., June 10. The warrant was out of Monroe county for operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor and open intoxicants in Durand. Police were dispatched to a drunk driver at Pilot Oil. Hartsel's name was run through LEIN and he was arrested on both outstanding warrants.

Larceny was reported in the 400 block of Rose Rd., June 9. A 16-year-old township boy told police his vehicle stereo speakers and part of his radio were stolen about 2:30 a.m. June 6. The vehicle alarm was activated and his mother reported seeing two men running to their car from her son's. The 1987 Ford Ranger also sustained damages when the rear window was broken out.

Stalking was reported at Pilot Oil truck stop on Baker Rd., June 7. A 35-year-old female cashier told police a 37-year-old Wolverine man has been stalking her since May 16. She met him while working, and he tried to strike up a little more than friendship. The married woman said the suspect sent her flowers and presents that were unwanted. He also wrote a letter that was sexually explicit and took her picture. She told police the suspect's actions have escalated and she is scared of what he might do next. Police conducted a consent search and found receipts for the gifts and the woman's picture in his truck. The deputy told the man not to make contact with the woman again and the manager of Pilot Oil told him not to return.

Sylvan Township
A runaway was reported in the 200 block of Glazier Rd., June 14. A 35-year-old township woman told police her 16-year-old son left about 8:30 p.m. June 13 after an argument over house rules. He left through a bedroom window; however, he did not take any money or possessions. His name was entered into LEIN.

Dexter Township
Shot gun shells were found in the 8600 block of Dexter Township Rd. by a 71-year-old man. He asked that police take the 17 shells and destroy them.

Danny L. McArthur, 37, of Gregory was arrested on Dexter Township Rd.

An agriculture futurist says that virtual reality computer programs and global positioning satellites will change the way farming is done in the future. Lowell Catlett believes farmers will someday be able to do almost all their farm chores from a computer screen in their office. Catlett also predicts the introduction of more than 500 genetically engineered plants and animals by the end of the decade.

Crop Acreages Must Be Reported to ASCS Offices Before July 1

Crop producers have until July 1 to report their 1994 crop acreages at County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) Offices. Crop reports are required for benefits from deficiency payment programs, price support programs and the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP). Crop reports are also used to document planting credit for crop acreage bases and any disaster programs that may be administered by ASCS. Crop acreage bases are used to determine the amount of deficiency payment producers are entitled to.

Michigan producers enrolled 2.9 million base acres in the 1994 deficiency payment program. This enrollment represents over 78% of the total crop acreage base in Michigan which is nearly identical to the 1993 enrollment. Enrolled producers are eligible for deficiency payments on corn, wheat, oats and barley. Deficiency payments are computed by paying producers the difference (if any) between the target price of commodities and the actual selling price after harvest.

In addition, farm owners and operators have set aside over 330,000 crop acres in the Conservation Reserve Program in Michigan. The CRP pays producers a rental payment to devote fragile lands to a cover crop instead of crop production. Farm owners and operators entered the land into 10-year contracts offered during the years 1986-1992. CRP acreage must be reported each year by enrolled producers before July 1 to certify that the acreage is devoted to the approved cover crop in order to be eligible for the rental payment.

Additional information about reporting and certifying cropland and other ASCS programs may be obtained at County ASCS offices throughout Michigan.

Ophthalmologist • Eye Physician and Surgeon
ASTIGMATISM
Most people are aware of the term "astigmatism", but few could describe it. Many patients fear they have some unusual eye disease when told they have astigmatism, and it has been blamed for many maladies, from double vision to headaches.
So what is astigmatism? It is an imperfection in the curvature of the cornea of the eye — the clear dome-shaped structure covering the iris and pupil. Ideally, the cornea would be curved spherically, perfectly round, and in some people it is. But most of us have some degree of astigmatism, meaning the cornea is a little bit oblong, or egg-shaped. This affects the focusing ability of the cornea. The eye can be nearsighted or farsighted at the same time.
Correction for astigmatism is routinely ground into spectacles, and except for rare individuals with unusual amounts of astigmatism, corrected vision should be normal. Both eyes are usually affected about equally.
Soft contact lenses can correct small amounts of astigmatism. Hard or gas permeable contacts will be needed for higher levels, as the soft contact will conform to the oblong shape of the cornea.

'A Graduation Message'

By Doug Rothwell,
Chief Executive Officer
Michigan Jobs Commission

The month of June is marked by many graduations—whether it be from high school, trade school or college. Implicit in this annual rite of passage is the message to graduates: "free at last."

But are they really? "Graduate" is a misnomer. You never graduate anymore—just pass from one learning mode to the next. In today's accelerated world of change, graduates will find themselves in new jobs seven to 10 times during their lifetime.

Sometimes these changes are voluntary; sometimes they're not. What this means is that a worker's career will incorporate a lifetime of learning new skills.

Continued training and education has become a hallmark of successful workers and companies. A recent survey completed for the American Society for Training and Development found that 95 percent of the companies surveyed rank workforce training as "important to very important" to their company's future and 84 percent expect training needs to increase over the next five years. Understood in this finding is that workers will embark on a lifetime of training following formal education.

The study also found that, regardless of the initial beginning skill level of workers, the explosion of complex new technologies is creating the need to periodically retrain workers.

It is understandable that today's graduates, in the short term, might be lulled into thinking jobs will be easy to find and keep. Michigan's economy is providing unprecedented job growth. The unemployment rate is the lowest in 20 years at 5.7 percent and in April the state created one third (96,000) of all new jobs created in the U.S. And for the first time in more than a decade the Big Three are adding workers.

Couple that with a recent University of Michigan study reporting that the auto industry will have to replace 90,000 workers in the state by the end of the decade, and a lot of graduates begin playing job lottery and betting on one of those jobs. What they don't know is the odds are against them. By the time they look for an auto job it will be too late to assemble the skills needed to work in the modern auto plant.

Chrysler recently revealed that 25 percent of the 600 workers hired for a Windsor mini van plant have university degrees. Fully expect this to be the rule, not the exception, as complex math, statistics, computer and teamwork skills become common place in the workplace.

An expanding economy can easily lull graduates into indifference about the need for continued education and training. But it's important as teachers, parents and public officials that we keep our eye on the horizon and continually reinforce the need for training. How can we do that?

Schools, employers and especially parents should routinely expose youth to the real world of work—a workplace that has been transformed from a greasy, noisy and sweaty place to one that is computer and climate controlled, and not dominated by brawn but by brains.

We should reinforce on high schoolers that not everyone has to or should pursue traditional college degree programs. Facts show that many of the best-paying jobs with the most flexibility and independence may not require a bachelor's degree. But certainly workers will require training beyond high school whether going to a university, community college, trade school, apprenticeship program or other formal school-to-work projects.

Graduates need to keep their options open by constantly building a skill portfolio that is portable and marketable. Grads must hone and refine work portfolios to stay up with the workforce revolution that will continue to mark the rest of this decade and beyond.

At the Michigan Jobs Commission, Governor Engler has established workforce training as one of its major priorities. The Commission is forming partnerships that help create, nurture and refine programs that deliver on the promise of a skilled workforce. For example, this year alone more than 52,000 workers have received training under the $40 million state funded Economic Development Job Training Program, and recently Michigan was named a finalist in a national competition for a $12 million a year—five year, federal grant to expand school to work programs in the state. These are just two examples of the commitment Michigan is making to help create a trained workforce.

Both employers and workers are learning that skills make workers a valuable resource. Employers are now looking at workers as an investment, and are spending more time in choosing the right workers and then spending more money on their training. Workers are also realizing that knowledge is power giving them added value in the workplace.

Later this summer we will mark the 225th anniversary of the moon walk. For most of today's graduates, this is just another page in history, but for many the race to the moon was a high point in the nation's quest for technological superiority. It's commonly believed that the U.S. won that race based on superior technology, unprecedented focus, creativity and of course adequate financial support. But the importance of teamwork is often lost in that formula.

However, our success in the next global competition, according to a recent New York Times article "Retooling The People Skills of Corporate America," may rely on the hard to quantify "soft stuff" such as teamwork, negotiation and communication.

This June don't measure graduates by a single footprint on the moon but rather by the millions of tiny steps they take forward in their careers, and when you send those graduation cards get two. One for fun and one that carries a message more in the line of "go for it," or "next."

CSB, Gelman Will Sponsor Fireworks Show

Chelsea State Bank and Gelman Sciences Inc. have agreed to split the bill for Chelsea's fireworks display. The show will be held July 4, at the Chelsea Fairgrounds on the south side of the village.

After trying to co-ordinate the fireworks show with the City of Ann Arbor, Charles Gelman, founder of Gelman Sciences Inc., finally threw in the towel. June 10, Gelman decided they would not meet the demands of the Ann Arbor City council. The significant price hike in the cost of the show and liability concerns were the deciding factors for Gelman.

Along with a 20-minute fireworks display, Gelman Sciences will hold a private party for its employees, celebrating the company's 35th Anniversary.

Charles Gelman, chairman and CEO, started his company in Chelsea in 1959. In the basement laboratory of his Chelsea home, Gelman built his first product, the Automatic Sequential Air Sampler, at the request of the U.S. Public Health Service. Two years later, the enterprise had grown so much it was relocated to a storefront in the village of Chelsea, under the name "Gelman Instrument Co."

In 1963, the Company expanded once again, to a larger facility in Ann Arbor. Over the years Gelman Instrument Co. began to develop and produce filter materials and was renamed "Gelman Sciences." The company has become well recognized for its achievements in the research and production of microporous filter membranes, and has continued to expand and excel with the completion of its new, state-of-the-art membrane manufacturing facility in Pensacola, Fla., in 1990. In 1993, Gelman Sciences became registered with the internationally recognized ISO-9002 quality standards organization.

French Culture Will Be Explored

With the generous support of the Washtenaw Council for the Arts, the first of a multicultural visual and performing arts session will be presented July 11, 12, and 13 from 9-10:30 a.m. at South Elementary school. The first session will focus on the culture of France and is offered to students 8-14 years old.

Day one will feature the Cassini Ensemble playing music of France and an introduction to French painting styles.

Day two will find the students continuing to paint with tempera in the French Impressionist style and a study of Pointillism will be explored.

Day three will finish with a wrap-up of painting and the students will be able to taste French foods such as croissants, pate', and chocolate truffles, all donated by the Moveable Feast.

All painting supplies, including paint, paper and brushes will be included in the $3 registration fee and the class is limited to 20 students. Pre-registration is required by July 1 and may be made by mail or in person at the Chelsea Community Education office. Summer hours for the office are 9 a.m.-noon and 1-3 p.m. Registration forms may be obtained at Maya Place or Maureen's.

A VIOLENT TORNADO and brief rainstorm that skipped across northwestern Washtenaw County Monday, June 13, left literally hundreds of trees uprooted and twisted. Beginning in Waterloo township, the storm skipped across Lyndon township where it seemed to follow a path along Boyce Rd. Garage doors were twisted and destroyed, a wall torn off one garage, TV satellite dishes twisted and destroyed. Fortunately no serious injuries were reported as the storm raged across Dexter and Webster township before leaving the area. Residents living along the path of the storm were still clearing trees through the balance of the week.

Huron Camera Acquires VIP in Chelsea, Will Reopen Store Very Soon

Huron Camera & Video, originally in Dexter, has expanded operations again. This time to more adequately serve the Chelsea area.

In a business deal completed last week, Huron Camera acquired the business and assets of Village Instant Photo (VIP) operating in Chelsea Shopping Center, 1090 S. Main for the past five years.

VIP was formed as a partnership between two couples who were long-time friends, Norm and Gail Bauer of Chelsea and Ken and Jeanette Brock of Ann Arbor.

The Bauers left the business for their partners and their son, John, to operate about three years ago.

On May 31 the Brocks closed the store and the Bauers began looking at their options while John Brock hoped to continue his portrait business from his Chelsea area home.

Huron Camera quickly closed a deal to take over the now closed store and quick-print photo processing business.

They expect to receive delivery on the newest processing equipment available and reopen the business shortly after July 4.

Huron Camera has been in business for 25 years in Dexter and has grown

They still maintain their own camera repair service on site, which was their first venture. They do camera repairs for hundreds of stores from across the state and nation.

One year ago they opened a second store in Saline, offering the same types of merchandise and service that has made them successful in Dexter.

Huron Camera owners are Robert Clouse, president; Milton Campbell, treasurer and manager; and Jerry Schmidt, vice-president.

Softball Team Rallies With 5 Runs in 7th But Falls, 8-5, in Tourney

Chelsea girls softball team's season came to an abrupt halt Tuesday, June 14 when they were defeated, 8-5, by Gull Lake in the quarter-finals of the state championship play-offs at Lansing Everett field.

In a departure from their usual efficiency, the team got off to a rough start, walking three and committing five errors in the first four innings.

Gull Lake scored three runs in the second inning and three more in the fourth.

For whatever reason, the Lady Bulldogs were unable to break through in the first six innings. They had only two hits at this time, one by Jackie Crawford and one by Lisa Beard.

Trailing 8-0, with two outs in the bottom of the seventh, Martha Merkel drew a walk.

Merkel's awakened teammates then collected six consecutive hits to score five runs for an 8-5 final count.

"Though we lost, it was an amazing finish to the game," coach Beard commented. "The girls worked hard all year long and never gave up on themselves."

"I was very proud of the way we came back," Beard stated. "The girls showed a lot of character and even though we came up short, it was an exciting end to a great season."

Leading hitters in the game were Lisa Beard and Jackie Crawford with two hits each.

Final record for the great season was 34-12.

Connie Mack Team Looking for First Win

Chelsea's summer Connie Mack baseball squad opened the season last week as they lost three contests, 12-2 to Ann Arbor Auto Key and a doubleheader to Milan, 2-1 and 14-4.

Chelsea got the season underway on Thursday, June 16 as they played Ann Arbor Auto Key at Pioneer High school. Chelsea went out in order to begin the game and they allowed Auto Key to score three runs on only two hits as three Bulldog errors hurt their defense. They gave up two more runs in the second inning to fall behind, 5-0.

In the third, Chelsea got on the board as Jason Sprawka reached first on an error and Dusty White walked. Both runners moved up on a pass ball and Sprawka scored on another pass ball by the catcher. Auto Key scored four more in the fourth to move the score up to 9-1.

The Bulldogs scored their second run in the fifth as Sprawka singled, moved to second on a single to right by White and crossed the plate on an infield hit by Casey Wescott. A double play ended the Bulldog rally.

The score remained 9-2 until the sixth when Auto Key plated three to give the Bulldogs a 12-2 mercy loss. Chelsea collected four hits in the contest—all singles—Sprawka, White, Wescott and Scott Colvin. Jeff Branch started on the mound for Chelsea and pitched better than the score would indicate. He hurled the first four innings, giving up eight hits, four walks and striking out seven. Wescott came on in relief in the fifth and did a good job. He gave up two hits, and one walk.

"It was our first game and it showed. We'll get better," said coach Akel Marshall.

On Sunday, June 19 the Bulldogs took on the Milan Big Reds in a double-header. The two games were as different as night and day. The first game was a pitcher's duel as Chelsea lost a 2-1 contest then lost by a 14-4 score in the nightcap.

In the opener Chelsea got on the board first as Milan was retired in the first then Chelsea scored their lone run. Sprawka singled, moved to second on an error and crossed the plate as Scott Colvin doubled.

The score remained 1-0 until the fourth when Chelsea yielded a run on one hit and a throwing error. Then, in the fifth, the Bulldogs gave up another run as a hit and two errors led to the damage. The score ended up 2-1 as Chelsea just couldn't get the big hit with runners in scoring position. They did gather five hits in the game—led by Jason Sprawka with two singles, Colvin's double and singles by Dusty White and Case McCalla. Sam Morseau pitched for Chelsea a three-hitter—while striking out 11 enemy hitters. But six walks and a couple of errors led to the 2-1 defeat.

The second contest saw Chelsea fall behind 3-0 in the first and then trying to catch up the rest of the game.

In the third, Chelsea scored as a walk and three singles drove in a run and the bases were left loaded as two strike-outs ended the rally.

Milan plated four in the fourth, making it 8-1.

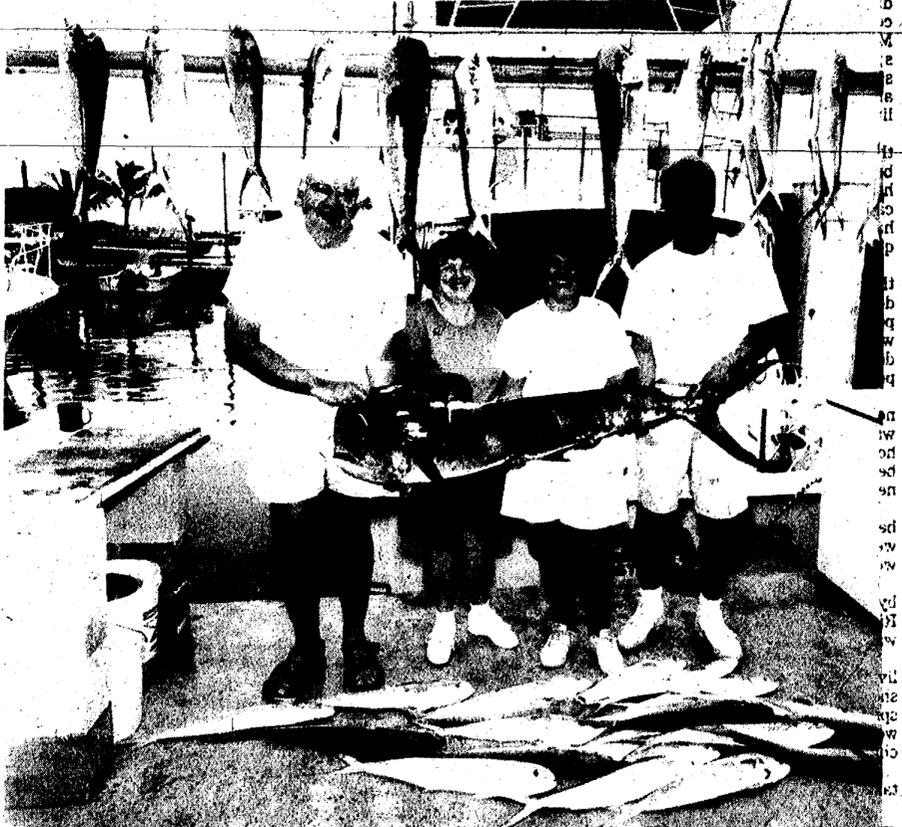

The Bulldogs bounced back with three of their own, highlighted by a double by Morseau. But in the fifth Milan sent 12 men to the plate, scoring six times while Chelsea went out in order, making the final 14-4.

Chelsea had four hits—a double and single by Morseau and singles by Branch and Colvin.

Jeff Branch hurled the first four innings and Dusty White came on to finish up in relief.

With the double-header loss Chelsea falls to 0-3 in the summer.

IRS Advises: Check Your Withholding

"This year many taxpayers who normally receive a federal income tax refund had to write a check to the IRS for a balance due on their 1993 federal returns," said IRS district director John Hummel.

"In order to avoid that problem for the 1994 tax year, now is the time for taxpayers to check withholding and consider completing a new form W-4 to give to their employer," Hummel said.

"To avoid owing when they file, taxpayers should either claim less withholding allowances on the W-4, or request an additional dollar amount to be withheld from each paycheck," he said.

"Of course there are also individuals who received a large refund and would rather have the use of that money during the year. This situation can also be corrected by filing a new W-4 with the employer," said Hummel, "because payroll withholding can be either increased or decreased on the W-4."

Additional information on federal income tax withholding is available in IRS Publication 505, Tax Withholding and Estimated Tax, which may be ordered by calling the IRS toll free on 1-800-829-3876.

Livestock Suffers from Hot, Humid Weather

When temperatures rise above 90 degrees F and humidity above 90 percent, livestock may suffer life-threatening stress.

"At this point, the animal's physiology simply won't allow it to dissipate heat sufficiently to be comfortable," says Harlan Ritchie, Michigan State University beef specialist. "With some livestock—especially older, fatter animals—hot, humid weather can literally kill them."

Swine must expel excess heat through their respiratory system because the only sweat glands they have are in their legs. Dairy and beef cattle can perspire but under hot, humid conditions they are stressed quite easily, Ritchie says.

Livestock heat stress begins when the temperature rises above 80 degrees F and humidity rises above 80 percent. The danger zone develops when the temperature exceeds 85 degrees F and humidity exceeds 85 percent.

Under these conditions, livestock need free access to lots of clean, cool water and shade. If livestock are housed in barns, the structures should be well ventilated, using fans, if necessary.

Temporary shade for livestock can be provided by suspending lightweight tarps or snowfence from tall wood or steel posts.

Producers can reduce heat stress by spraying cool water over livestock. Ritchie warns against using cold water.

"There are documented cases of livestock, especially cattle, going into shock and dying when they were sprayed with cold water when they were under extreme heat stress," Ritchie says.

As heat stress increases, feed intake declines, sometimes substantially. However, it is important to keep feed intake as close to normal as possible.

"Some producers don't realize that livestock maintenance requirements will actually go up during periods of heat stress because they need energy to dissipate heat," Ritchie says. "That means lower production—meat and milk—when the temperature and humidity combination exceeds 85."

Ritchie does not recommend altering the composition of the ration but says he would not be opposed to adding a flavoring agent or sweetener, such as molasses, to the ration if it improves a depressed feed intake.

"However, don't make a major adjustment in the animal's diet—it could do more harm than good," he says.

He says that young stock will probably handle heat stress better than older animals. They, too, need access to plenty of cool water.

Ritchie says when the weather is hot and humid, livestock should be moved or handled during the cool hours of morning or evening whenever possible to avoid adding to the animals' stress.

He notes that conception rates are likely to drop during hot, humid weather and says birthing animals need to be kept as cool as possible.

"Heat stress has to be reduced so that the animal can reach a sufficient degree of comfort to concentrate on the delivery," Ritchie says. "Otherwise, it could mean a Caesarean section or, in severe cases, loss of the offspring."

Ritchie observes that it is not unusual for Michigan to have a string of days or even weeks of hot, humid weather. Producers, he suggests, would be wise to take steps now to make their animals as comfortable as possible.

Hunting Season Regulations Established for Fall 1994

The following 1994 hunting regulations were approved by Department of Natural Resources Director Roland Harmes at the regular June 8 monthly meeting of the Natural Resources Commission at the Ralph A. MacMullan Conference Center in Roscommon:

1994 Elk Hunting Regulations: The 1994 elk census indicated a winter population of 1,280, compared to 1,350 for the winter of 1993. In order to continue moving toward better balancing of the elk herd with available habitat, the director authorized two hunt periods, one in September and one in December. Elk license quotas will be determined by the director later this summer.

Bear Hunting Regulations: The director eliminated special rules which formerly had restricted the type of hunting arms which could be carried in an area frequented by bear during hunting season. The director eliminated special dog registration requirements for Michigan's resident bear hunters.

1994 Deer Management Regulations: Upper Peninsula hunting groups had requested that the use of second buck licenses be prohibited during archery and firearm seasons. After considering recommendations from staff and receiving further public input from various hunters, the director decided to leave the current regulations in place, which permit the use of second buck licenses statewide. Director Harmes stated that he believes the current use of second buck licenses results in increased hours of recreational hunting, without having an adverse impact on the Upper Peninsula deer population.

The Director established bucks-only deer hunting regulations for both archers and firearm hunters in several deer management units where the deer herd has failed to increase as intended, despite being closed for several years to the taking of antlerless deer during firearm season. This new regulation will help determine whether protecting antlerless deer during archery season will help the deer herd recover in a few deer management units where previous restrictions have not been sufficient.

In addition, the director approved boundary changes for several deer management units to meet future population objectives.

Furbearer Hunting and Trapping Regulations: The director approved regulations establishing a bag limit of two bobcats in the Upper Peninsula only, updating tagging and registration requirements for fur takers, and starting the fox and coyote season Oct. 15 in Zone 3. The director also approved rules clarifying that residents may hunt coyotes with a small game or fur harvester's license.

1994 Pheasant Hunting Regulations: The director approved rules establishing an experimental pheasant hunting season for Dec. 1-11 in portions of the central Lower Peninsula. Data gathered from this season will be used to determine future pheasant hunting regulations.

Sharp-tail Grouse Hunting Season: Sharp-tail grouse numbers have steadily declined, due to natural changes in their habitat. In response to this decline, the director approved rules reducing the season length, bag limit and area open to hunting.

Ruffed Grouse Hunting Season: Ruffed grouse numbers have steadily declined since the recent peak of 1989, due to the population's cyclic nature and the natural loss of habitat. In response to the current low grouse population, the director approved rules reducing the daily bag limit to three birds in Zones 1 and 3. Grouse hunting regulations in Region II will remain unchanged for one year to avoid disrupting the grouse research project underway. Changes in season dates and bag limits may be considered for 1995 based on the results of the research project.

Dog Walkathon Raises $43,000 for Humane Society

Humane Society of Huron Valley's (HSHV) 16th annual Dog Walkathon and Pet-O-Rama held May 7 proved to be a success for the animals housed at the HSHV Shelter this year.

Approximately 329 two-legged human walkers, and 300 canines joined forces to raise $43,000 for Washtenaw county's homeless animals. Proceeds from the Walkathon will help feed and house the thousands of unwanted dogs, cats, rodents, and wildlife that will seek refuge at the society in 1994.

Shelter officials expressed their appreciation to all those who walked in and contributed to this special event, as well as the many exhibitors who braved a rather soggy day. Only through such support can HSHV maintain quality animal care services.

As the only humane society serving the residents of Washtenaw county, HSHV provides a variety of services including pet adoption, lost and found, 24-hour rescue, cruelty investigation, a low-cost spay/neuter clinic, pet therapy, and wildlife rehabilitation.

The Shelter is open for adoptions Thursday through Tuesday from noon to 5:30 p.m. and is located at 3100 Cherry Hill Rd., Ann Arbor.

For information on becoming a member of the Humane Society, call (313) 662-5685, ext. 103, Monday through Friday.

Approval of Property Tax Bill Praised By State Farm Bureau

Michigan farmers are delighted that the Legislature has finally approved the Gustafson-Profit bill that provides farmland the same 6-mill school operating status as homesteads for property tax purposes, according to the president of the Michigan Farm Bureau.

"This is a great day for Michigan agriculture," said MFB President Jack Laurie. "The successful passage of this measure, especially the provision that provides for immediate effect, is a tribute to the efforts of individual Farm Bureau members across the state who contacted their lawmakers to urge approval. Our farmers did an outstanding job explaining that this legislation, far from being a special tax break for agriculture, instead provides for clear definition and equity in the taxation of farmland in our state."

Rep. Gustafson said Farm Bureau members played a critical role in helping to get the legislation approved. "Absolutely, especially at the critical points where the bill needed a few more votes for immediate effect," he said.

People who criticize the legislation as being a special tax break for farmers don't understand the purpose of the bill, according to Rep. Gustafson. "Any two gas stations or hardware stores are paying the same educational millage. It was only farm property that was paying different rates for identical parcels, and it was only farmers who were not being treated equally."

Thanks to passage of this measure, farmers can expect to save thousands of dollars on their property taxes, said MFB legislative counsel Ron Nelson.

MICHAEL KONIECZKI and his mother Carol, found these giant morels near their Clear Lake home in the Waterloo Area.

WCC Selected for New Student Loan Program

Washtenaw Community College has been selected to participate in the Federal Direct Student Loan Program beginning in the 1995-96 academic year, U.S. Secretary of Education Richard W. Riley announced recently. WCC is one of 983 schools, announced by Riley, to be among the first to participate in a new streamlined system which restructures the nation's student loan programs.

"These schools will have an opportunity to demonstrate that direct lending can indeed simplify the administrative tasks of educational institutions, lower costs to taxpayers, and most importantly, provide better services to students," said Riley.

Under the new program, the federal government provides loans directly to students through schools. By eliminating middlemen—guaranty agencies, secondary markets, banks and other private lenders—direct lending eliminates excess profits, while reducing administrative burdens and increasing efficiency to make borrowing easier for students.

By taking advantage of the federal government's ability to borrow money at a lower interest rate, direct lending, according to the Department of Education, will save taxpayers billions of dollars. The new program also offers students a repayment option that tailors monthly payments to the borrower's income.

There are more than 6,500 public, private, four-year, two-year and proprietary schools eligible to participate in the direct loan program. WCC met with following criteria for participation:

- is a participant in the Federal Family Education Loan Program (FFELP)
- had a cohort default rate in the FFELP of less than 26 percent in fiscal year 1990 or 1991;

—has the technological capability to participate electronically now or in the near future;

—has demonstrated administrative and financial responsibility.

Last November, the Education Department selected 104 post-secondary schools to participate in the first year of the program, academic year 1994-95. The direct loan volume will increase to 40 percent for academic year 1995-96.

President Clinton's direct lending proposal, the Student Loan Reform Act of 1993, was passed with bipartisan support by Congress as part of the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1993 (P.L. 103-68).

Twenty-five students were promoted to 1st Degree; 4 earned 2nd Degree honors.

The promotion board, headed by Robert's brother, Master Keith Hafner, commended Robert for the leadership and dedication he demonstrated in training this group for Black Belt.

Keith Hafner, formerly of Dexter, holds a 5th Degree Black Belt; Robert is a 4th Degree; between the two brothers, they have 125 active Black Belts!

Michigan has the most registered boats in the nation with 850,000.

Area Man Promotes Students to Black Belt

Master Robert Hafner of Dexter, has recently promoted 25 of his students to Black Belt. Robert is the head instructor at Keith Hafner's Karate in Ann Arbor.

Last Sunday, Robert's students completed the final phase of their Black Belt evaluation.

Robert's brother, Master Keith Hafner, commended Robert for the leadership and dedication he demonstrated in training this group for Black Belt.

Keith Hafner, formerly of Dexter, holds a 5th Degree Black Belt; Robert is a 4th Degree; between the two brothers, they have 125 active Black Belts!

Actor/Director Workshop To Be Offered

Purple Rose Theatre Company will be offering an Actor/Director Master Workshop: Getting the Most Out of the Rehearsal Process to begin July 5. Purple Rose Theatre Company artistic director, T. Newell Kring and associate artist, Guy Sanville will be moderating. The workshop will be held at the Purple Rose Theatre Company's Garage Theatre, 137 Park St., Chelsea.

The Actor/Director Master Workshop is designed for those artists who have some experience in one of these disciplines and are interested in expanding their knowledge and techniques of the craft. Participating actors will need to audition for entry to the workshop and directing candidates will be selected through an interview process. The enrollment of the workshop is limited to five directors and 18 actors, which will allow more time and concentration to expand the existing skills of the participants.

The Actor/Director Master Workshop will be moderated by T. Newell Kring and Guy Sanville, both members of Society of Stage Directors and Choreographers. Kring is the artistic director of the Purple Rose Theatre Company and has directed seven of the 14 shows the Purple Rose has produced. He earned a Detroit Free Press Theatre Excellence Award for "Keely and Du" and the Ann Arbor News named him as Best Director of a Comedy for his work on "The Vast Difference." Guy Sanville is a professional director and actor with over 20 years of experience. He directed this summer's comedy "Stanton's Garage" and last summer's comedy "Nooner." Sanville has also appeared in the Purple Rose's productions of "The Tropical Pickle" as Ed Bonetti and "The Vast Difference" as Earl Noonan.

The 10-week workshop will be held Tuesday evenings from 7 to 1 p.m. Partial scholarships and discounts are being offered to members of Actors' Equity Association and the Society of Stage Directors and Choreographers. Actor auditions will be held on Tuesday, June 28 from 1 to 9 p.m. by appointment only. Director interviews will be held during the weeks of June 20 and 27.

For more information or to arrange an interview/audition, please contact the Purple Rose Theatre Company Administration Office at (313) 475-5817. Regular office hours are Tuesday through Friday between the hours of 10 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Farm Bureau Backs Efforts To Implement No-Fault Reforms

Michigan Farm Bureau continues to support implementation of the no-fault auto insurance reform that was to have taken effect on April 1.

"That legislation contains significant reforms to reduce lawsuits, help control medical costs and give consumers more choice to control the cost of their own auto insurance," said Darcy Cypher, legislative counsel for Michigan Farm Bureau. "Farm Bureau has strongly supported those types of reforms and will continue to do so."

The Court of Appeals this week rejected a request by the Committee for Automobile Insurance Reform to permit the law to take effect without being subject to a November referendum. Had it been implemented, the law would have replaced current unlimited medical coverage with a minimum medical benefit of $1 million with optional coverage available up to $5 million. A 16 percent rate cut, based on November 1992 levels, would have been in effect for six months.

"We will do our best to make sure consumers have the information they need to make the right decision if this issue does appear on the ballot this fall," said Cypher.

American consumers are paying very little more for groceries in the first quarter of 1994 than they did in the fourth quarter last year. Slightly higher in price were pork chops, bacon, eggs, milk, potatoes, cereal, shortening and mayonnaise. Items that went down in price this quarter included ground chuck, sirloin tip roast, chicken, apples, flour and white bread.
