CLARE WARREN, DDS, has found a new hobby to challenge him as he enters retirement from 33½ years in building a busy and successful dental practice. In addition to learning how to operate his computer, he keeps records on it—and "sometimes plays a few games," Clare added with a chuckle.

After 33½ Years in Dentistry Clare Warren Begins Retirement

A Chelsea dentist who has practiced in the same office for 33½ years has retired from the rigors of a busy office.

Dr. Clare Warren opened his office for the practice of general dentistry on Saturday, Oct. 8, 1960 at 123 South St., in a building built by Chelsea Lumber Co. for him.

He has sold the practice to Dr. Todd Napieralski a recent graduate of the U. of M. Dental School.

It was during their high school days in Grand Blanc he met and later married his wife, June Benedict on June 17, 1955.

Clare attended Flint Junior College and U. of M. from 1951 to 1958. After receiving his dental degree he spent two years in the U.S. Air Force, stationed at Madison, Wis., most of that time.

June graduated from Oberlin College in Ohio in 1955 with a degree in elementary education. She taught in the Chelsea Public Schools from 1955-58 as Clare finished his training at U.M. Dental School.

"My first day of the new business is easy to remember, since our oldest daughter was born that same evening," Clare remarked.

During the years following 1959 Clare and June were also busy with raising four children, the next to the youngest being married this week in California.

Their four children are Mark, 35, Shelley, 34; Marla, 31; and Carol, 28. They also have three grandchildren.

June resumed her teaching career in 1982 after attending Eastern Michigan University and earning a degree in music education. She has since taught at all levels in the public schools. She has also been director of music at Chelsea United Methodist church for about 25 years.

Clare has managed to find time to maintain his memberships in professional associations during his entire working career and plans to continue doing so. He has been a member of the Kiwanis Club of Chelsea since 1960, having served as president and other positions.

He has been active as a regular member of the choir at the Methodist church and has held most of the positions in the structure of that church over that period.

Clare also served one four-year term on the Board of Education, one year as president.

Plans for the future include "relaxing for the summer then probably I'll look for some part-time position in the fall, may or may not be in dentistry," Clare adds.

"We have appreciated the Chelsea community since coming here in 1955," Clare stated. "It has been a great place for us to live, raise our family and work. The people have been more than kind to us and we hope to continue to be a part of this fine community."

Survey Proves Chelsea School District Voters Open to Bond Proposal

A public opinion survey regarding facility needs in the Chelsea School District could be the first step on the road to a bond issue proposal for the construction of a new school and technology upgrades.

The survey, titled "Attitudes and Opinions of Voters Toward Chelsea School District's Building and Facility Needs," was conducted the week of May 9 by a consulting service in Williamston. Survey results show 40 percent of the school district voters polled recognize that there is a shortage of classroom space in Chelsea Schools.

On Monday, Chelsea Community Education director Jeff Rohrer said that statistic is important to the district. But more importantly, Rohrer said the district needs to address the 34 percent who don't know the capacity and enrollment in local school buildings.

"We need to educate people that our schools, especially the elementary schools, are overcrowded," said Rohrer.

After the survey is fully evaluated by the board of education and new superintendent of schools, Rohrer feels an information campaign will get underway by fall and consideration of a bond issue will follow shortly after.

A bond proposal for a new high school failed several years ago. Now the district is contending with an enrollment of 600 students at both North and South Elementary schools, where building capacity levels are set at 450. Two portable classrooms are used at South, but do not address additional space needs in the gymnasium and cafeteria brought by more students. Beach Middle school has a student population of 600 and the high school's student population is 700, Rohrer estimates. And this year he says the district is facing increasing enrollment and the threat of a student population explosion if plans for a housing development on Dexter-Chelsea Rd. follow through.

Voters surveyed were given two options to solve the overcrowding problem. A proposal to use the current elementary schools for grades kindergarten through third and then either build an upper elementary school for grades fourth and fifth or build a new high school and use the current high school as an upper elementary school were their choices. Of those surveyed, 40 percent prefer to build a new high school.

Another important statistic Rohrer points out is the number of respondents who would vote for a bond issue that contains improvements where they feel a need exists. Survey results prove 59 percent would support a bond proposal.

A follow up question reveals parents with students in middle school or elementary school show more support for a bond issue than parents of high school students.

To pass a bond issue in the Chelsea School District, voters surveyed say the district needs to prove the need, inform voters how the money will be spent, set priorities and be honest and clear about the issues, costs and taxes.

If a bond issue is not passed, voters surveyed were asked what the school district should do to help relieve overcrowding. The leading suggestion was to purchase portable, modular or temporary classrooms. Other suggestions included keep trying to pass a bond issue, add on to the existing elementary schools, split shifts for students, lease other facilities, better utilize current space, build another elementary school, move fifth grade to Beach, increase class size or redraw district lines.

Another major component of a possible bond issue would be technology upgrades. Voters in the survey were asked a series of questions on the importance of certain school programs and services. Nearly nine out of 10 voters believe it is very important for Chelsea students to have computer skills.

A majority of the voters surveyed see a great need to have instructional technology equipment for student use, including computers, two-way interactive TV, data links and more. They also see a great need to update the wiring in buildings so students can use this kind of equipment. Of those surveyed, public school parents see a significantly greater need for both of these than do those who have no children in Chelsea schools. Elementary and middle school parents also see a significantly greater need to update wiring in the buildings than do high school parents.

The survey sample included 398 school district voters. They were selected by systematic random sampling procedures. Respondents with children in Chelsea Public Schools amounted to 41 percent. The median age of respondents was 35 to 44 years and 42 percent have lived within the school district boundaries 20 or more years.

Village Planners Study Proposed Annexation for Possible Trailer Park

In response to a Village Council request to evaluate the proposed annexation of the 157-acre Merkel/Jenkins property on the northeast fringe of the Village, the Planning Commission met Tuesday, June 21 to discuss the issue.

Much of the discussion centered on the incompatibility of a trailer park's high density on surrounding land uses and streets. But, in addition, the planners stressed the need to evaluate any significant annexation proposal, not only the Merkel/Jenkins tract, in relation to its overall impact on the Village's service capability.

Police and fire protection, water and sewer system capacity, refuse disposal, traffic flow and congestion, public recreation opportunities and storm water drainage all were brought up and discussed as important impact issues to be resolved before annexing any additional land to the Village.

It was pointed out that past annexation studies these important issues before incorporating land.

The scale and density of the Merkel/Jenkins proposal make it especially imperative to consider these issues before acting on the request.

Planners explained that a 157-acre trailer park development would overwhelm existing Village services and require huge public expenditures to adequately sustain the population increase. And because any type of residential development of the size proposed would have a great impact on Village service delivery, community infrastructure implications must be addressed before annexation.

It was pointed out that approval of any annexation presumed the intent of the Village to provide the area with public services. Therefore, it was absolutely necessary to determine tion procedure was remiss in not considering whether the community resources were available to handle the increased demand without overburdening current residents with increased taxes to pay for the new developments.

Finally, the Planning Commission unanimously agreed to send a letter to Village Council pointing out the need to consider the full impact of any annexation on existing community resources before acting on a request brought by any private developer, including Martin Merkel and Phil Jenkins.

Planners stressed the need for the Village to carefully consider community growth issues and involve the Planning Commission in the process. A list of annexation criteria taken from the State Boundary Commission Act was to be appended to the letter to be used as a basis for evaluation.

Fireworks Show Slated July 4 at Fairgrounds

The Village of Chelsea will be the backdrop of a fireworks display sponsored by Gelman Sciences, Inc., and Chelsea State Bank after plans fell through for Gelman in Ann Arbor.

Gelman Sciences has teamed up with the local bank to offer a 20-minute show at the Chelsea Fairgrounds, July 4, at 10 p.m. Parking may be accommodated on the field south of the fairgrounds.

Organizers warn there could be an hour-long delay in exiting the show.

Other festivities slated for Independence Day in town include the Chelsea-American Legion's annual July 4 chicken barbecue at the Cavanaugh Lake Legion Post Home beginning at noon. In addition, Chelsea Rotary Club will host an ice cream social at the Chelsea Shopping Center.

Charles Gelman, chief executive officer and founder of Gelman Sciences, chose Chelsea for the fireworks display after negotiations with the City of Ann Arbor soured. In press reports, Gelman cited "attitude" coupled with a high price tag pinned by the city council for his decision to cancel his proposal to host the show there. The cost for the event would have included $8,000 for the fireworks, a $10,000 bond, liability insurance and a contract that would have held the city harmless against any claim arising out of their sponsorship.

It appears Ann Arbor's loss is Chelsea's gain. The fireworks will be set off at the fairgrounds and may be seen from almost anywhere on the south side of town.

Gelman Sciences and Chelsea State Bank are calling it a reunion of sorts. The local bank gave Gelman his first good-faith loan to start his business in Chelsea 35 years ago. Gelman Instrument Company, its original name, was started in his home and later moved to a storefront in the village. Growth brought the company to a new facility in Scio township by 1963, when its name was also changed.

★ Should The Blues Buy the Accident Fund?

By Lawrence W. Reed

The largest sale of a state asset in Michigan history—in dollar terms—is only weeks away, as state government prepares to spin off a giant workers compensation insurance company.

The Accident Fund of Michigan is destined to become the nation's first state-owned insurance firm to be sold when the State Administrative Board decides in June which of three bidders should have it. If the Board remains faithful to the principles of privatization, Michigan will join more than 30 states which rely solely on the competition of private, for-profit firms instead of a politicized bureaucracy to provide workers compensation insurance.

Each of three bidders is willing to pay more than $200 million for the Fund. Michigan Insurance Partners (MIP) is a partnership of two private medical malpractice insurers. Acting on behalf of another group of Michigan investors is Charles Street Securities, a Wall Street firm that specializes in insurance company mergers and acquisitions. The third bidder is Blue Cross/Blue Shield of Michigan which, unlike MIP and Charles Street, is a quasi-public, non-profit firm that has enjoyed decades of favors from state government.

The case for privatizing the Fund was compelling enough to garner bipartisan support in Lansing. After an unfortunate 1989 court ruling declared that the Fund's loose connection with state government was sufficient to permit a total takeover, the state did just that. Previously run by individuals elected by thousands of private policyholders, the Fund became a civil service bureaucracy whose budget had to be approved by legislators. The result was political manipulation of rates and staffing and reduced competition in the industry as private competitors began to withdraw from the market.

Last year, Governor Engler won legislative approval to get the state out of the insurance business once and for all, but privatizers should not hasten to rejoice. The prospect of one of the bidders owning the Accident Fund is already giving privatization a bad name.

Blue Cross/Blue Shield enters the bidding process with substantial legal, economic, and public relations baggage. The Blues lost a $52 million contract to administer Medicare in Michigan when the federal Health Care Financing Administration switched to another provider in March. Officials charged the company with overbilling Medicare more than $68 million and are demanding the money back, raising the likelihood of rate increases to raise the funds.

The relationship between the Blues and MESSA, the teacher health insurance subsidiary of the Michigan Education Association, has also drawn fire. School districts have been threatened with strikes by the teacher union unless they purchase health insurance through MESSA, which in turn contracts with the Blues to underwrite the policies. Michigan Insurance Commissioner David J. Dykhouse informed the Blues that by delegating claims administration the MESSA, the company "abandoned one of the most important tools a health corporation can exercise to ensure that only proper claims are paid."

Under an order from Dykhouse, the Blues have promised to recover more than $70 million in unapproved surcharges from MESSA before June 30, an amount that represents a "substantial" excess cost to schools for teacher health insurance.

These concerns should carry weight with the State Administrative Board when it considers sale of the Accident Fund, but the wisdom of selling it to a quasi-public agency is the most important question. Are the interests of a healthy, fair, and competitive market really served by selling the Fund to a company that enjoys tax exempt status? If the State sold the Lottery Bureau to the University of Michigan, would we call it "privatization"?

Because the Legislature wanted to "level the playing field," the Blues would have to pay a fee in lieu of the state's Single Business Tax equivalent to what the company would pay if it were a taxpaying, for-profit firm. The Blues say that puts the fee in the neighborhood of $3 to $4 million, while more realistic analyses suggest the appropriate fee should be as much as 25 times that.

Even if the SBT matter could be resolved in a fashion that accurately reflects the Legislature's intent, the playing field would still hardly be "leveled." Besides the SBT, Blue Cross/Blue Shield is exempt from many other taxes paid by competing private firms. For 60 years, it has enjoyed more flexible financial requirements than its competitors and until 1986, anti-trust preferences as well.

If Blue Cross/Blue Shield purchases the Accident Fund, it would enter the workers compensation insurance market as a state-protected and artificially-advantaged giant, at the expense of a genuinely free and fair marketplace. The Legislature's goal of encouraging efficiency by removing politics and bureaucracy from the Fund's work would be thwarted, because the Blues (in spite of the advantages cited) are still subject to manipulation by the Legislature and state regulators. This would not be what any objective observer could call "privatization."

Clearly, the State Administrative Board is faced with important public policy questions in deciding who should buy the Accident Fund. Those questions go well beyond the dollar amount of any particular bid. The Board must ultimately decide if it really wants to privatize the Fund or if it wants to so dilute the intent of the whole exercise as to make it hardly worth anybody's time.

Wednesday, June 27, 1990—

Soil contamination is so extensive at the village garage that the village may be forced to tear down all or part of the main building at the North St. complex. That was the conclusion of the village manager, Robert Stalker, at last Tuesday's regular council meeting. The village recently removed three underground gasoline storage tanks at the site and found significant contamination of the surrounding soil.

Pierce Park Pavilion fund campaign has met its goal for construction costs as a result of quick and generous support by the community. So far $8,000 has been received from the May mail appeal. This is in addition to $8,000 in cash and building materials plus pledges of skilled labor.

Chelsea School District has begun to get a handle on the damage caused by three teen-age vandals at Beach Middle school June 15. Computer equipment totaling $15,540.90 is apparently not worth trying to repair due to permeation by fire extinguisher dust, according to assistant superintendent Fred Mills. The school's mainframe, as well as a work station, were ruined. They were new as of Oct. 31.

Village manager Robert Stalker and village council's personnel committee have conducted final interviews of the four finalists for the assistant village manager's position and will likely make a final selection late this week.

A high-intensity electrical storm slammed into Chelsea about 8:30 a.m. Wednesday, downing trees and knocking out power in a furious 15 minutes of high winds, lightning and rain.

Indications are that Mr. Stork is either on tranquilizers or still on the "slow-down" he started in Michigan in 1958. According to provisional figures released by the Michigan Department of Health, the stork delivered 1,405 fewer bundles to Michigan doorsteps during the first three months of this year than he did last year.

Three youths told their "fish story" to Ann Arbor municipal court last Monday, and the trouble was it was true. Found guilty of spearing black bass at Silver Lake in Dexter township were Edward T. Green, 21, and Joseph Warsecke, 20, both of Lincoln Park; and Kenneth B. Wezner, 20, of South Lake.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Bug Hookum ask at the country store Saturday night whatever become of that unemployed homeless fellow that pulled an old couple from a burning car in California some weeks back. When the story got out, Bug reminded the fellows, folks sent him money for a place to stay and a company give him a job. Then Bug read where the hero had gone back on the street because a rundown apartment and pushing a broom in a factory weren't up to his standards.

You want to think, Bug went on, that most people base standards on situations they have to deal with, which might be a way of saying why the bum went back to being a bum. People get in a heap of trouble trying to help people that have their own standards of help, was Bug's words. If this bum to hero to bum story plays out the usual string, Bug went on, some lawyer will figure out how promises made were not kept and this poor fellow deserves some millions for disappointment and emotional suffering, with the usual 30 percent for the lawyer.

For sure, Zeke Grubb agreed, court cases have been made on a lot less. He read where a convict is suing a Kansas bank he tried to break into. His lawyer says the bank doubled what his client could have got if he hadn't got caught stuck in the hole he cut in the roof, and under Federal sentencing rules he got double the sentence he should of.

General, the fellows were agreed you can find craziness wherever you look. For instant, Clem Webster reported where the North Carolina General Assembly is spending $200,000 to study why hog pens stink, and part of the money went to send a seven-member task force on a 12-day tour of hog farms in Denmark, Germany and Holland. You might not think the trip was necessary, Clem said, but it's hard to argue with the thinking of the chairman of the study group, who is dean of Agriculture and Life Sciences at N.C. State University. He said the best way to understand hog smells is to be there.

Actual, Bug said, any bureaucrat worth his salt will tell you that $200,000 is a sound investment in the swine industry in North Carolina, where alternative income sources must be developed for an agriculture economy hard hit by the bad press tobacco is getting. If you still have trouble with the Europe trip, he will say it was underwritten by hog farmers and their suppliers at no cost to anybody. If you take all that in, Bug went on, you are ready to move on to why the Army has signed a 100-year lease on a 300-room hotel at DisneyWorld for use by active and retired military people and defense workers. The official reason is because these people said in a survey this was the resort they would most like to visit but could least afford.

As for reasons, Ed Doolittle said, the one heard by his daughter that works in the city puts the stopper in the jug. Her boss looked after his old maid aunt and she helped him with rest home and doctors paperwork. The aunt died two months ago, she said, and last week her boss got forms from Medicare saying it wouldn't pay an eye doctor $864 for treating his aunt because "date of service was after date of death."

Ed said he'd like to hear the doctor explain.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

Final casting is now complete. This enormous cast features many who have been on stage before and a good number who are making their debut.

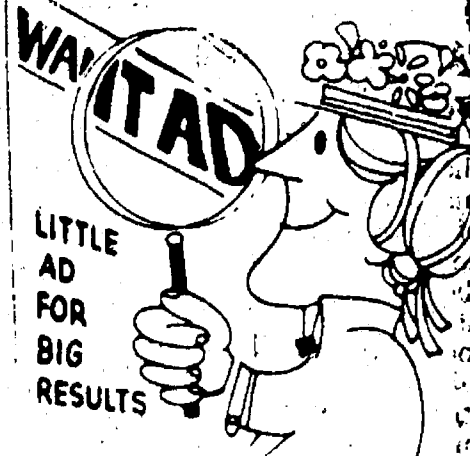

The cast includes: Gayla Bauer-Blaisdell, Torrance Blaisdell, Kathleen Treddo-Daniels, Mark Nelson, Christine Purchis, Evan Padgett, Jennifer Bennett, Nadine Bernard, Jerri Cole, Bonnie DeLong, Janet Tarolli, Tom Peckham, Ray Wiener, III, Don Paulsell, Rob Bernard, Tobin Hissong, Joseph Zetelmaier, Tom Layher, Maria Johnson, Tucker Lee, Sarah Maynard, Alexander Vassos, Cindi Gillespie, Norma Graflund, Tannis Allen, Alisa Bauer, Susan Frisbie-Bauer, Mary Jo Clapsdale, Sylvia Edwards, Kathy Frazier, Jessica Gillespie, Roxanne Jones, Jennie

Maynard, Allison Paul, Sarah Skyles, Phoebe Strong, Nicole Vassos, Beth Wagenschutz, Rachel Zinke, Tom Begres, and John Vassos.

"The Most Happy Fella" is set in Napa Valley, Calif., during the 1920's. The play is about real people; it contains abundant humor and simple, but direct human emotion. Tony (male lead) falls in love with his waitress, Rosabella (female lead), at a San Francisco restaurant. He doesn't have enough nerve to ask her out, so he leaves her his genuine amethyst tie pin, along with a note as a tip. They begin to correspond and grow fond of each other. Rosabella, not remembering what Tony looks like, requests that he send her his picture. Tony, fearful that Rosabella will be disappointed, sends her one of his young, handsome employee's pictures. Here is where the fun begins.

This production comes alive with song and dance. Most memorable numbers from the score include "Big D," "Standing on the Corner," "Mama, Mama," and "My Heart is So Full of You."

DISTINCTIVE PERSONAL BANKING

Gelman Sciences Enters 35th Year

Back in 1957, Chuck Gelman had no way of knowing that his cottage industry—producing air pollution monitoring devices—would one day become one of the world's largest manufacturers of microfiltration membranes used in a wide variety of scientific, industrial, and medical applications.

A chemist by training and an entrepreneur by inclination, Gelman built his first product, the Automatic Sequential Air Sampler, at the request of the US Public Health Service. Within two years, the enterprise outgrew its basement headquarters and relocated to a storefront in the village of Chelsea, Michigan, under the name Gelman Instrument Company.

In 1963, prompted by a successful public stock sale, the company expanded once again, this time to a larger facility in the fast-growing city of Ann Arbor, Michigan.

In an effort to improve upon the quality of filters he used in his air pollution units, Gelman shifted the direction of his company and set in motion a venture that would eventually become a multimillion-dollar corporation.

Fascinated by the filtration process and convinced he could master the technology, Gelman hired a plastics chemist and together they began to develop and produce filter materials that could meet the increasingly sophisticated requirements of laboratory and manufacturing process customers. Soon, the company became well recognized and respected for its achievements in the research and production of microporous filter membranes—a reputation it continues to maintain today.

In 1978, the organization was renamed Gelman Sciences to reflect its diverse product lines and the major advances it continued to make in the separation sciences. A year later, with a long list of patents to its credit, Gelman Sciences was listed on the American Stock Exchange and reported yearly sales exceeding $34 million—a five-fold increase in just a little over 10 years.

By 1980, Gelman Sciences Ann Arbor headquarters had expanded to encompass 54 acres. The company's remarkable performance and outstanding management earned it a place in a 1986 book, The 101 Best Performing Companies in America.

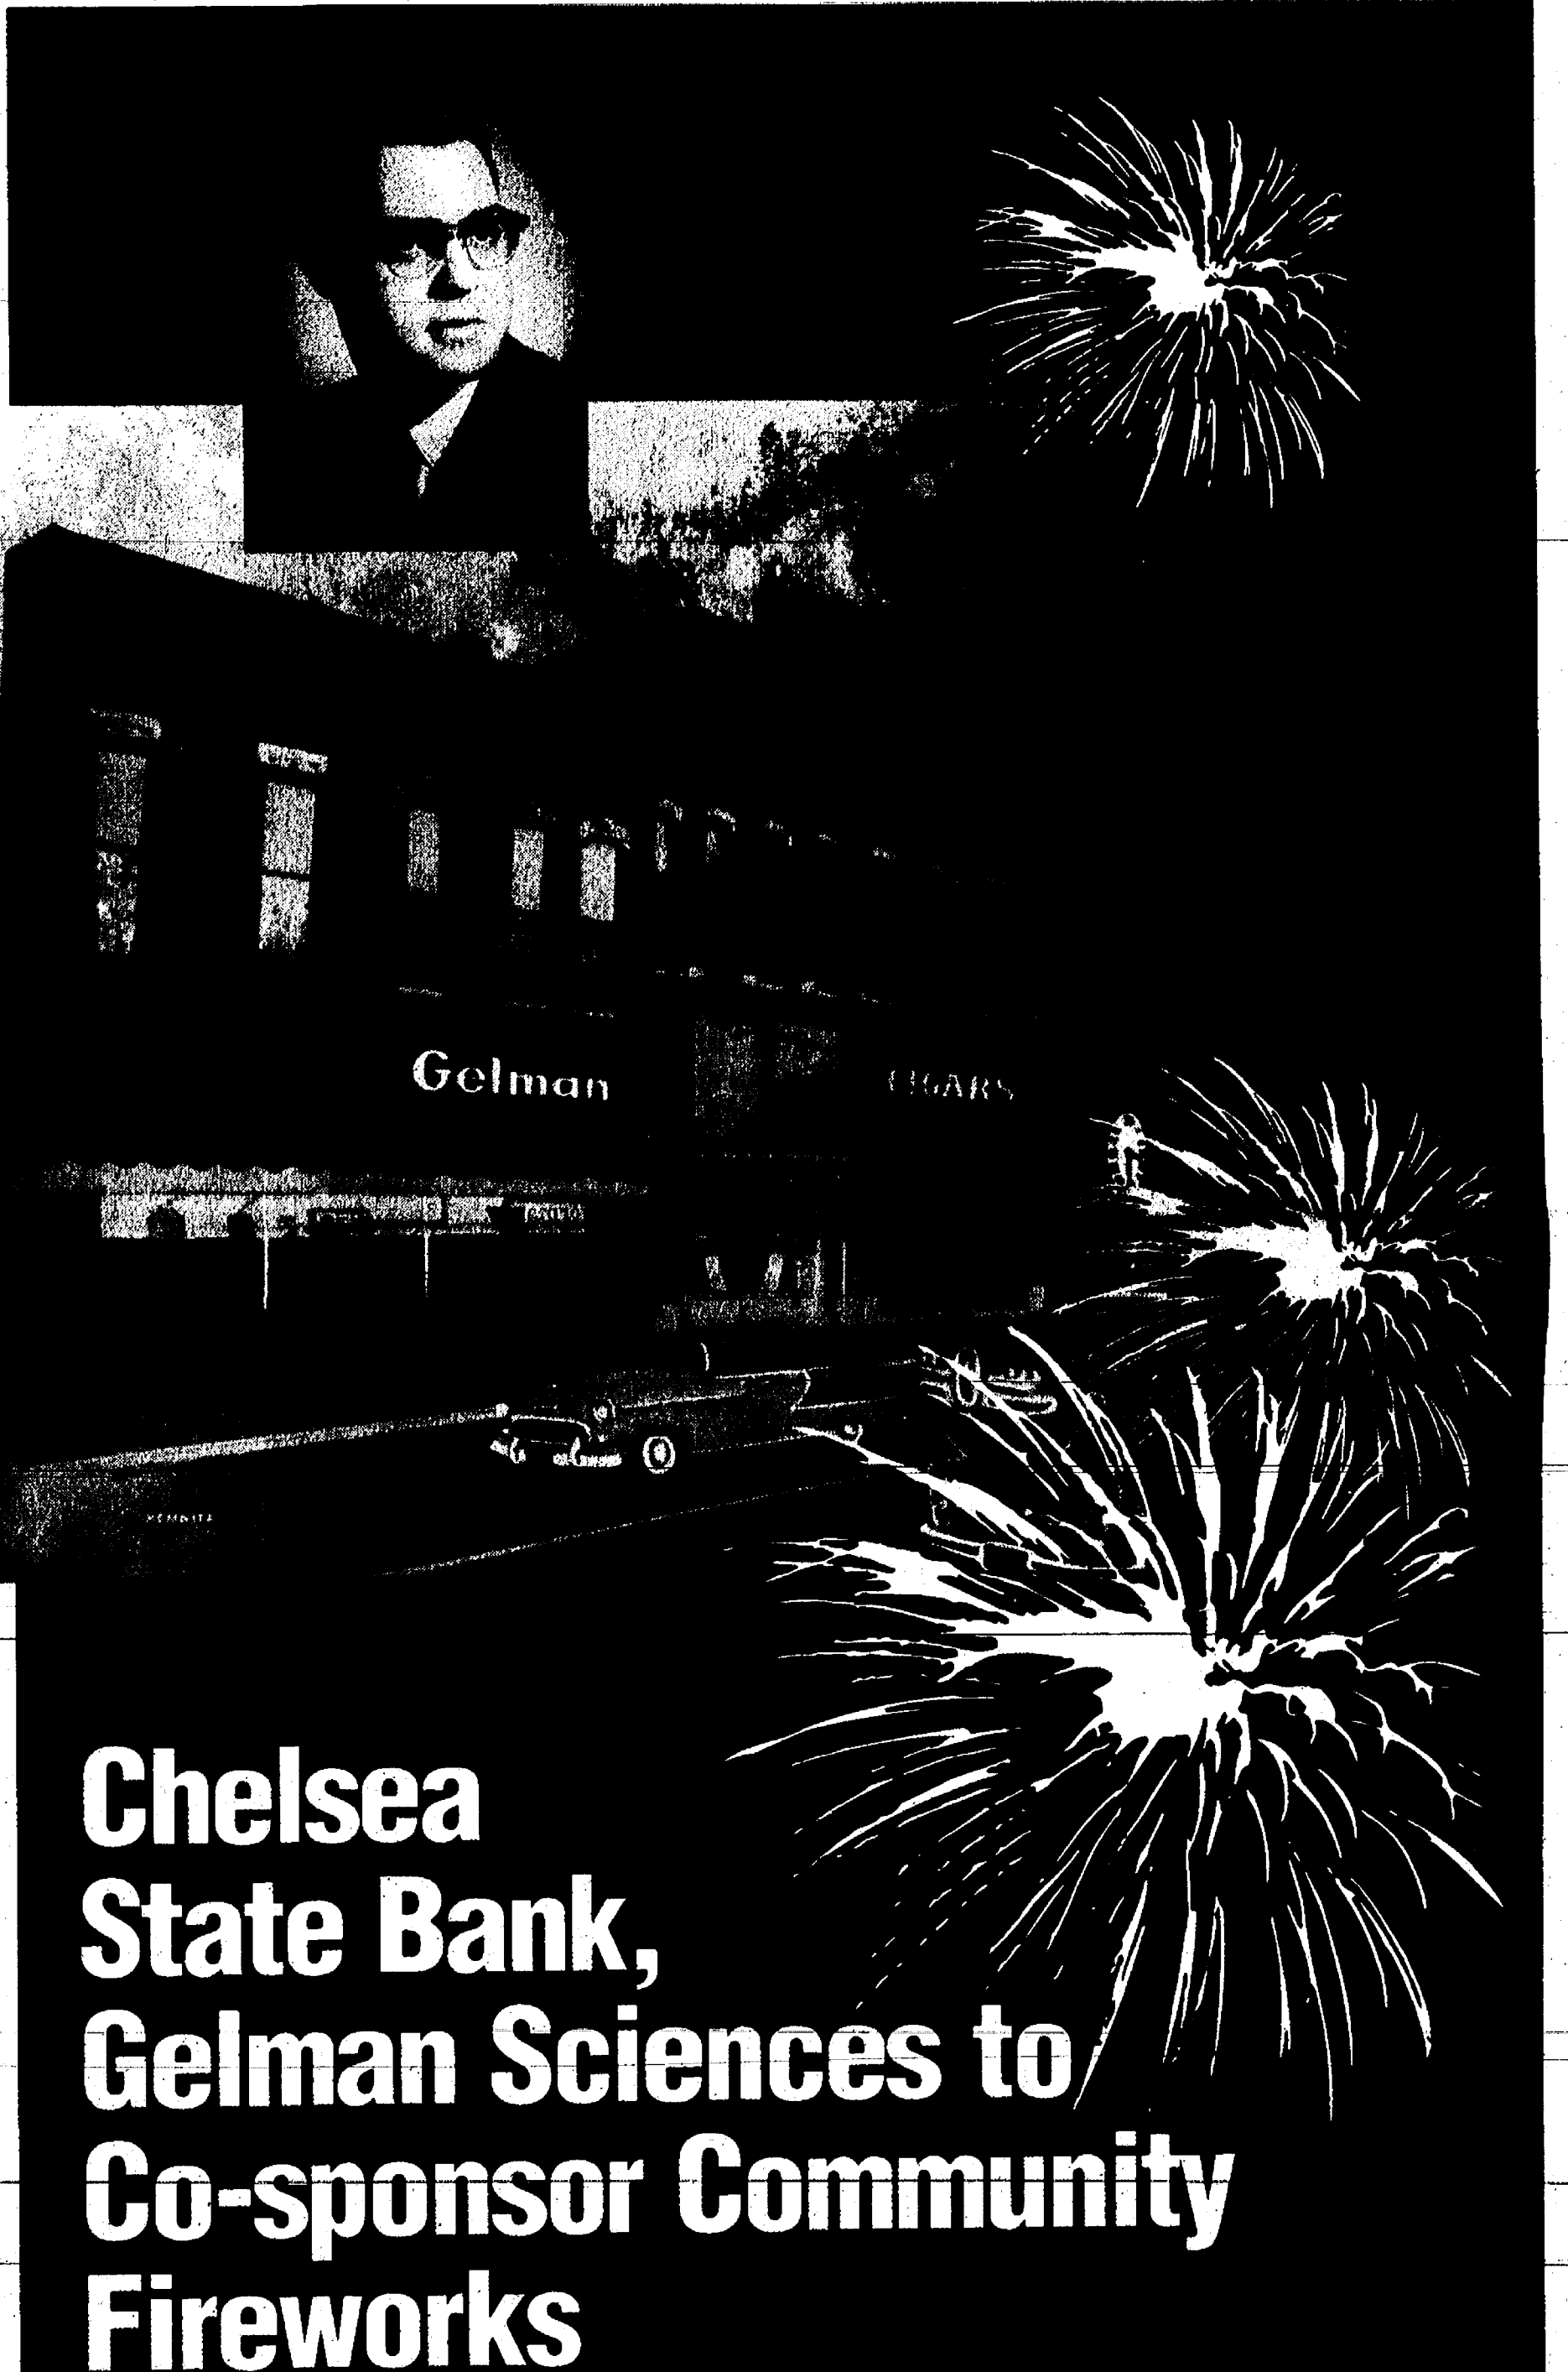

In 1990, the company entered a new era with the completion of its new, state-of-the-art membrane manufacturing facility in Pensacola, Florida. And by 1993, the company celebrated the achievement of becoming registered with the internationally-recognized ISO-9002 quality standards organization.

January 1994 was the beginning of Gelman Sciences 35th year. The company plans to tie in this achievement with a number of customer promotions. Stickers with the phrase, "Serving Science and Industry for 35 Years" appear on literature and mailings. And an anniversary theme will be reflected in company events such as the annual employee picnic and sales meeting.

Gelman Sciences was founded by an entrepreneur, and proudly maintains that spirit of flexibility and resourcefulness. However, as market conditions have changed, the company has focused its resources on strategic planning to keep the company competitive. In August 1993, the company developed a Five-Year Vision Statement to help lead the company into the future:

- Annual sales of the company will be $200 million by fiscal year 1998, to be accomplished with minimal increases in facilities and equipment.
- Manage the company to provide a 20 percent return on average shareholder's equity.
- Membrane users will recognize Gelman Sciences as an innovator and a supplier of premium membrane products, with a reputation for responsiveness to customer needs.
- Current membrane production capacity of 21.5 million square feet will be more fully utilized by introducing products for large, unexplored markets, by developing Original Equipment Manufacturer membrane accounts, and by using Gelman Sciences membrane in as many products as possible.

Several years ago, founder Chuck Gelman offered his vision of the company's future. What he foresaw then is already taking shape, Chuck said, "Basically, I believe the company will be a larger, stronger version of what it is today. In other words, Gelman Sciences will be entrepreneurial, innovative, and willing to take appropriate risks. It will be employee-oriented, an organization that encourages creativity and initiative. It will be inquisitive and research-driven. It will be a place where customers and quality always come first."

Chelsea State Bank, Gelman Sciences to Co-sponsor Community Fireworks

Chelsea State Bank and Gelman Sciences Inc. have teamed up to co-sponsor Chelsea's community Fourth of July fireworks this year. The pyrotechnic display will take place at 10 p.m. Monday, July 4 at the Chelsea fairgrounds.

Gelman Sciences is joining the bank in sponsoring the fireworks in celebration of its 35th anniversary. Charles Gelman, chairman and CEO of Gelman Sciences, said it's appropriate that the company team to Chelsea to help celebrate its 35th anniversary, because that's where the company started in 1959. "It's also appropriate that we co-sponsor the fireworks with the Chelsea State Bank because they gave me my first crowd-fund loan to get the company started," Gelman said.

He said he only had $2,000 in the bank back then and needed an extra $8,000 to get started on his first job. Even though he didn't have any collateral, the bank gave him the money. He paid back one of Warren County's most prominent men to riches since then.

Fireworks organizers are warning people who plan on watching the fireworks from anywhere near the fairgrounds to prepare for a long wait in traffic following the show.

Officials said the heavy traffic could cause more than an hour's delay in exiting the area. Limited parking will be available in the field just to the south of the fairgrounds.

Portable toilets will be scattered through the business district around the fairgrounds, as will receptacles for trash. Mr. Rubbich is donating collection bins and will have the trash away after the event. The Warren County Sheriff's Department will have volunteers on hand the day to clean up the entire area.

Kim Davis Strengthens Gelman Sciences Worldwide Team

Kim A. Davis was appointed President and Chief Operating Officer of Gelman Sciences Inc. May 24, 1993. Davis, 42, was formerly Chief Operating Officer of Promega Corporation, a Wisconsin-based biotechnology company. He is responsible for Gelman Sciences worldwide operations, including sales, marketing, and manufacturing. Charles Gelman, company founder, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer, oversees corporate research and development. Gelman said that Gelman Sciences, now with manufacturing operations in Michigan and Florida, and eight subsidiaries outside the U.S., is poised and ready for a period of dynamic growth. The addition of a chief operating officer is giving Gelman, 62, the opportunity to step back from day-to-day detail and focus on longer-range strategic issues, strategic alliances, and the continued stream of innovative, new products into the marketplace.

Gelman Sciences, headquartered in Ann Arbor, Michigan, manufactures and markets microfiltration products used in laboratory research, high technology process industries, and the medical health care field. The company's non-U.S. subsidiaries are located in Australia, Canada, France, Germany, Ireland, Italy, Japan, and the United Kingdom.

Prior to joining Gelman Sciences and Promega, Davis was president and chief executive officer of a privately-held engineering graphics software company, and held sales and marketing management positions with several other companies, including The Boeing Company and Digital Equipment Corporation. Davis is a graduate of the Purdue University, Krannert School of Industrial Management.

Building 1 Changes With the Times

For more than 30 years, Gelman Sciences operations have steadily expanded to keep pace with sales growth, production capacity, and advances in technology. The company's first high volume production facility was Building 1 on Warner Road in Seco Township, until several years ago called the "main plant." Building 1 was constructed in 1963, and was originally 11,000 square feet. Since that time it has multiplied many times to accommodate the demands of increased production levels and a growing employee base. The building currently measures over 88,000 square feet.

Building 1 is now 31 years old, and is in the process of undergoing a major renovation. "This year, and into part of next year, we'll be renovating the entire building from top to bottom to increase efficiencies by improving product flow, people flow, and material flow," said Greg Schesselske, Director of Operations.

The Lab and Manufacturing areas will all be renovated so they're more efficient," he explained.

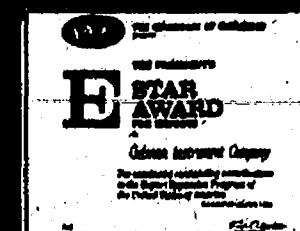

For example, we'll be putting functional groups that should be adjacent to each other together next to each other. Right now, the Research and Development Department and the R&D Lab are on opposite ends of the building, and also put Technical Service adjacent to the Research and Development Department, to facilitate communication between them."

"Some of the benefits that we expect to gain from these changes are a 10 percent reduction of work in process in the manufacturing areas, a 2 day cycle time reduction on all cartridge/capsule production for our five product groups, and more efficient interactions between departments."

The company will also be conducting some needed structural renovations, Greg said. "Finally, we'll be giving the entire facility an overall facelift, to give the company a more 'cutting edge technology' appearance. Recently, a renovation of the front entry and executive offices was completed as the first step of this effort."

"We're conducting this facelift since we have quite a few business analysts, stock analysts, and potential major customers visiting our plant. In the past, what they've seen is a building that hasn't been taken care of well. What they'll see in the future is a more successful company that has a promising future."

 Gelman Sciences

Charles Gelman: A Rags to Riches Story

Charles Gelman is the Founder, Chairman, and Chief Executive Officer of Gelman Sciences Inc. His Ann Arbor-based company, now celebrating its 35th year, is a world leader in microfiltration. Gelman Sciences products are utilized in biotechnology and pharmaceutical research, environmental testing, process manufacturing and health care industries throughout the world.

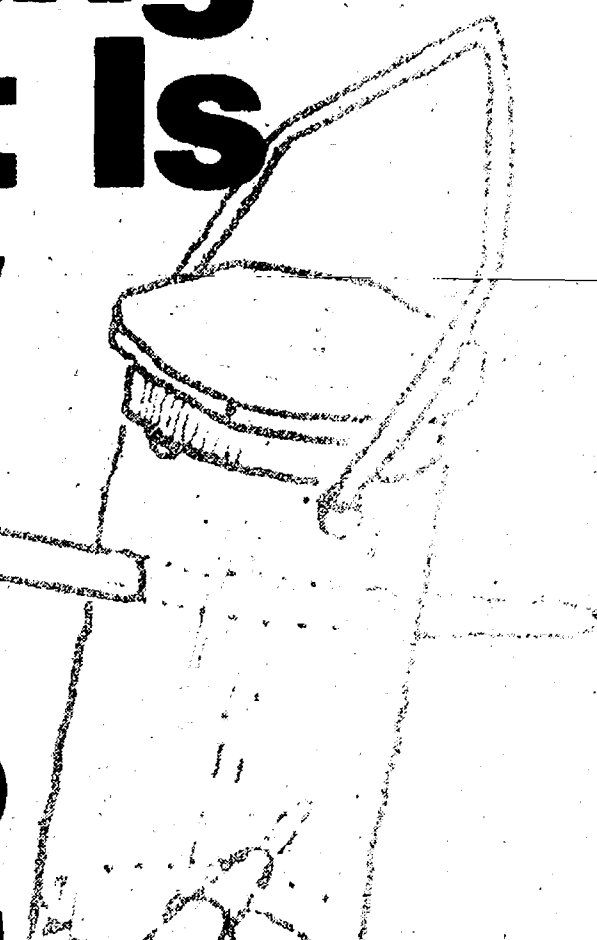

Mr. Gelman is a member of the American Industrial Hygiene Association Committee on Toxic materials, the Board of Directors of the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce and its Environmental Quality Committee.

He received a Master of Science degree in public health from The University of Michigan in 1958. On the occasion of the School's 50th anniversary, he was one of three individuals to receive awards for outstanding contributions to public health.

Governor Blanchard awarded him the Michigan Science and Technology Trailblazer Award in 1986. This past year, Gelman Sciences received the coveted Michigan Top 10 Award. Charles Gelman is currently a visiting lecturer at the University of Michigan School of Public Health.

Today, Gelman Sciences manufactures over 3,000 products, employs 800 people worldwide, and has subsidiaries in Australia, Canada, France, Germany, Ireland, Italy, Japan, and the United Kingdom.

A Recycling Idea That Is Definitely for the Birds

Gelman Sciences has found an innovative, new way to recycle its product packaging. One of the company's largest selling products, syringe filters used in laboratory research and medical health care applications, is packaged in plastic cylinders. To help recycle these plastic containers, Gelman Sciences offers its customers a free bird feeder conversion kit, made entirely from recycled materials. The kit includes easy-to-follow instructions printed on recycled paper, discarded wooden dowels for use as perches, and recycled wire coat hangers, collected door-to-door, and reshaped for use as feeder hangers.

The idea for this project came from Marketing and Merchandising Vice President, Bob Buker, who explains, "Our company has been active in recycling for a number of years. We've had a waste paper recycling program since 1987. The bird feeder project is just an extension of our ongoing conservancy program." Gelman Sciences sells literally tens of thousands of the product containers to customers around the world each year. Says Buker, "If only a small percentage of our customers convert their used packaging into feeders, it can make a contribution to our environment. And, they'll have fun making and using the feeders." The bird feeder conversion kits were prepared by young people as a summer project. Gelman Sciences customers can write, or call the company toll-free, to request a bird feeder conversion kit. Assembling the feeder takes only a few minutes and requires only a hand drill or razor knife to cut the holes.

Gelman Sciences is a leading producer of microfiltration products, used primarily to sterilize or clarify liquids and gases in laboratory research, medical health care, and high technology manufacturing industries like microelectronics, and pharmaceuticals. Besides this program to find a second life for the packaging of its biggest-selling laboratory product, Gelman Sciences also prints its corporate stationery and product catalogs on recycled paper and inks, recycles its office waste paper, and offers a videotape to other companies on how to start their own programs for paper recycling.

Gelman Sciences Achieves ISO Registration

Gelman Sciences primary manufacturing location and company headquarters in Ann Arbor, Michigan, has achieved registration to the internationally recognized ISO 9002 quality systems standard.

The ISO 9000 series is a set of five standards for quality management and quality assurance developed by the International Organization for Standardization. The ISO 9000 series provides a model for business activity that focuses on clearly defined management systems that assure product quality, consistency, and performance.

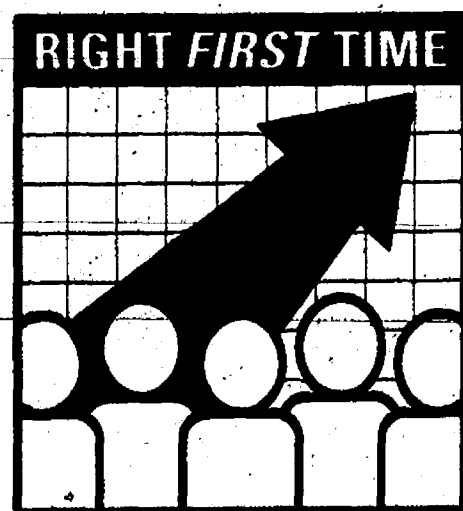

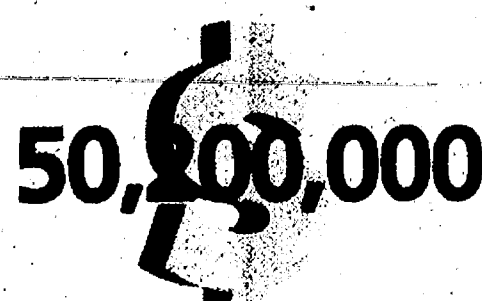

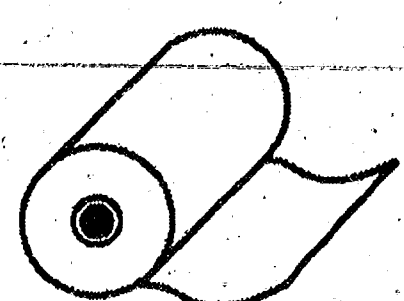

Company Chairman and Chief Executive Officer Charles Gelman commented on the significance of ISO registration for the Company by saying:

"Certification to this high standard demonstrates our strong corporate commitment to continuous improvement and provides a powerful leveraging tool to increase market share in today's global economy." About 40 percent of Gelman Sciences $85 million in sales is from outside of the United States.

Gelman Sciences began implementing ISO 9000 quality system standards in November 1991. Notification of the Company's formal ISO 9002 registration came in October of 1993 following intensive onsite conformity assessments performed by independent auditors from the British Standards Institute (BSI), the Underwriters Laboratories Inc. (UL), and the National Sanitation Foundation (NSF International).

Gelman Sciences is a world leader in the research, development, and manufacture of microfiltration products used in health care facilities, research and clinical laboratories, and industrial separation processes. Headquartered in Ann Arbor, Michigan, Gelman Sciences has subsidiaries in Australia, Canada, France, Germany, Ireland, Italy, Japan, Sweden and the United Kingdom. The company's largest subsidiary, in the United Kingdom, received ISO 9000 registration in 1992.

WHAT I LEARNED IN D.A.R.E.

By Aaron Parks

The best way to explain what I learned in D.A.R.E. is in one of the words in the meaning of D.A.R.E.—Drug Abuse Resistance Education. The word "resistance," meaning the power to resist or withstand, the opposing of one force or thing to another. This means that I must resist or say NO! to peer pressure. If someone says, "Here, smoke this cigarette or drug or drink this beer," I would just say "No Way." Smoking cigarettes alone can take seven minutes off your life for each cigarette smoked. Drugs and alcohol can kill you. Substance abuse is no good for me, my health, or my future.

WHY I CHOOSE TO GROW UP DRUG FREE

By Aaron Parks

I choose to grow up drug free for three very important reasons. First, cigarettes, drugs and alcohol can change my life for the worse forever. They are bad for my brain because I won't be able to think right. They are bad for my health or even cause death. They are bad for my future because I won't be able to keep a job or maybe not even get a job. If I have a family I won't be able to take care of them. I think I would rather go to college and live a good life. I feel sorry for kids who can't say NO!

WHY I CHOOSE TO GROW UP DRUG FREE

By Stephanie French

I don't want to hurt myself and I don't want to be spending all my time on drugs. I don't want to be hooked on drugs for the rest of my life. I don't want to die from drugs.

WHAT I LEARNED IN D.A.R.E.

By Alyce Barnes

I learned in D.A.R.E. that you have choices in life and all those choices have outcomes. I learned that you have to be sure about yourself and your choice. Make the right decision for you. You may be hurting other people if you don't. I need to make the right friends that respect my decisions and the things I choose to do.

Violence is not the answer to anything, no matter how mad or upset I am. If I cannot handle my stress, I'll talk it over with someone I trust and feel comfortable discussing my feelings with. I learned in D.A.R.E. that I can be whatever I want to be. I always need to respect others' rights, even if they do not respect mine.

U.M. Student Group Presents Plans for Early Grades School

U. of M. assistant professor Scott McElrath visited Chelsea High school last Friday with five students from the College of Architecture.

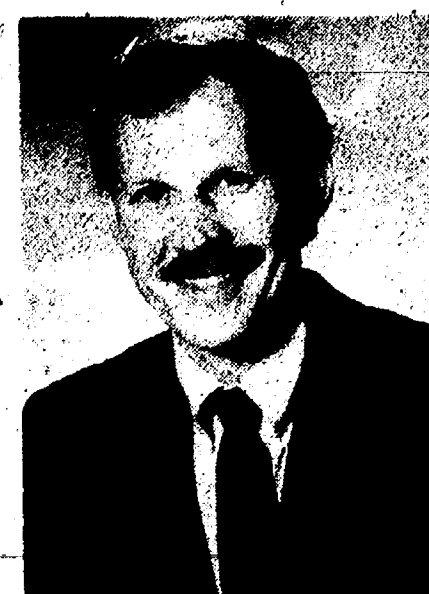

Purpose of the visit was to present drawing and models of a proposed early elementary school building for Chelsea.

Meeting in the Media Center from 1:30 to 5 p.m., the five students are Suzanne Kohrs, Kevin Doyle, Susan Amrhein, Laurie Keene and Amy Lavery, all undergraduates or graduate students.

Several members of the Chelsea Education Association also met with the group.

Biotechnology Poses Great Opportunity for Nation's Farmers

Biotechnology is one of the most talked about, but least understood, forces changing the face of modern agriculture, according to Dean Kleckner, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Speaking before a meeting of the National Ag Biotech Council in East Lansing, Kleckner said agricultural research is largely responsible for forging U.S. agriculture into an industry that is "the envy of the world." Advances in biotechnology will continue that trend.

"We will be responsive to consumer demand, whether it involves producing leaner meat or color-coordinated cabbage," he said. "We will deliver products aimed to please the consumer's specific demand, which could rapidly make obsolete traditional grades and standards."

According to Kleckner, a hog and soybean producer from Rudd, Ia., biotechnology will be harnessed to feed a world population that experts predict will double within the next generation. "Acreage of productive farmland won't keep pace with expanding population, but that is an opportunity, not a threat," he said. Farmers are accustomed to responding with the help of technology. He said the world's farmers are feeding twice as many people, from the same amount of land, as they did in 1960.

Farmers world-wide will face an even greater production challenge in the near future, Kleckner said. In the next 40 years, according to experts, the world's farmers will be asked to produce as much food as they have grown in the entire 14,000-year history of agricultural production.

I believe in America because in it we are free—free to choose our government, to speak our minds, to observe our different religions; Because we are generous with our freedom—we share our rights with those who disagree with us; Because we set no limit to a man's achievement: in mine, factory, field, or service in business or the arts, an able man, regardless of class or creed, can realize his ambition; Because we have great dreams—and because we have the opportunity to make those dreams come true.

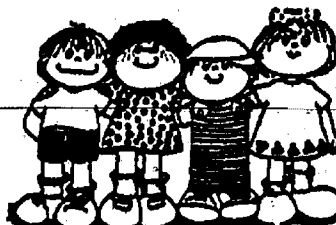

—Wendell L. Willkie

Take time to appreciate our great country, which was founded upon the individual's right to freedom and growth. We wish you a safe and happy 4th of July!

Your Money Matters

by Michael Kelly

Sweet Retirement . . . Will It Be?

By the time you reach your late 50's or 60's, the time has finally come to do all those things you've been waiting for, like retirement, travel or fishing, right? Hold on a minute.

Even if college tuition for your children has been paid for, there are now weddings to pay for. On the opposite side, your children may undergo a divorce that might create a need for your financial help and you may discover that caring for your own aging parents can cause a financial drain as well.

If you are in your late 50's or 60's, you're part of the "sandwich" generation and your financial needs are in a tug-of-war triangle with those of your children and parents.

Many in this age bracket may have business loans still outstanding. Others may have to borrow to start a new business or simply survive after being forced into early retirements by their company's downsizing.

If you plan to retire in your 50's or 60's, keep in mind that you could live at least another 20-30 years. Do you have enough money saved and invested to last that long? Arranging for a living stream of income, continued savings for later years and not paying any more taxes than you have to will take lots of thought and planning.

First, find out where you are. Add up all your assets including investments, home equity, the cash value on your insurance policies. Find the total of your liabilities. Subtract your liabilities from assets to find your net worth. Figure out how you're spending your money and if you have enough to continue the lifestyle you have or start the new one you want.

If you take your retirement funds in a lump sum, you might have to pay taxes on them and they won't serve you well if you just plunk those dollars into a bank account. Put some in stocks that are likely to provide higher returns and help you stay ahead of inflation. Consider taking a part-time job doing something you enjoy to keep some money flowing in.

One key goal should be to arrange your finances so that you will never become a burden to your children. If you haven't saved enough, refinancing your home or taking a home-equity loan may be the cheapest source of additional funds. Many people in these age brackets have substantial equity in their homes which gives them access to low-cost, tax-deductible home equity loans.

Or you might want to consider a "reverse mortgage," where you're given back, in monthly payments, the equity you've accumulated. But interest charges and other fees are added in to the amount of the loan. The house is typically sold to repay the loans when the borrower dies or moves out.

While that leaves nothing for the borrower's heirs, it has allowed him to remain independent and handle his own financial needs during his lifetime.

Once everything is in place, you may find there's enough to enjoy the pleasure of seeing your heirs enjoy some of their inheritance while you're still alive. Uncle Sam allows you to give up to $10,000 a year to an unlimited number of people without paying a gift tax. If you're married, both you and your spouse can give $10,000 to each person. You can also make unlimited gifts for tuition payment, medical bills, etc. as long as the check is made payable directly to the school or doctor.

But don't feel you have to finance everyone else's life. You've worked long and hard and you should allow yourself to enjoy some of what you've earned. Travel, move to a pleasant climate, buy a piece of art. Reward yourself, even if it's only in a small way, for all the time, effort, and planning you've put in to get to this point in your life.

Send your financial questions to: "Your Money Matters," Michigan Credit Union League, P.O. Box 5210, Detroit, MI 48205.

Young Drivers Crash More Often

Younger drivers are more than twice as likely to be involved in a traffic accident compared to motorists aged 45-54, according to a recent study conducted by Michigan Association of Insurance Companies (MAIC). Statistics in the report also indicate that young driver crashes tend to be more deadly.

"About 15 percent of drivers aged 18-20 are involved in a traffic accident each year," according to Terry Buckles, president of MAIC. "By comparison, only 6 percent of 45- to 54-year-olds are involved in a roadway crash annually."

Buckles also noted that 18- to 20-year-old drivers have a greater involvement in fatal accidents than most other age groups. Only those drivers aged 75 and older have a higher rate of deadly crashes.

"Younger motorists are having more accidents and more costly accidents," Buckles said. "That is the reason they pay higher premiums for car insurance. The greater price is a reflection of greater insurance pay out."

A younger person who is the principal driver of a motor vehicle typically pays 40 to 200 percent more for coverage than older drivers according to the MAIC report. The surcharge is reduced as the driver grows older, and is generally discontinued by insurance companies before age 25.

Winners Named in Arts Competition

Julie Lucas of Hartland High school has been selected as the winner of the Congressional Arts Competition, contest sponsor Rep. Bob Carr has announced. Lucas' watercolor "Un Moment Pour les Poissons Morts" was selected by a panel of judges from the mid-Michigan arts community to join other student artist winners in a year-long exhibit in the United States Capitol.

First runner-up was Jennifer Garcia of Holt High school. Second runner-up was James Diesing of Chelsea High school. Third runner-up was Natasha Norris of Pinckney High school. Fourth runner-up was Christie Lonskey also of Chelsea High school.

The runner-up art works will be displayed in the offices of Congressman Carr in Washington, Lansing, Flint, and Brighton.

"I'm pleased to be a part of this national competition to encourage and promote the artistic expression of our youth. It provides wonderful exposure and encouragement for our best young artists," said Carr, twice past chairman of the Congressional Arts Caucus.

Action Movie Being Filmed In Chelsea

An action/adventure film is being shot in Chelsea by Cash Cow Films, Ltd., of Ypsilanti.

"Kill Zone," a feature film planned for international release, is being filmed entirely in Michigan. A crew was in Chelsea Saturday and Sunday, June 25-26 and will return for additional filming next week-end. Other parts of the film will be shot at the Detroit Recreation Camp in Brighton.

Thirty percent of the feature was shot in the summer of 1993 and Cash Cow expects to complete filming this summer.

"Kill Zone" is a fast-paced drama about a paintball game that goes awry. (Paintball is a popular sport where opposing teams engage in actual combat, using guns that shoot paint-filled balls.)

In the story, the Omega team travels to a northern Michigan island for a week-end of paintball competition. Little do they know that the island is also a drop-off point for a group of drug smugglers who play their game with real, live ammunition. Soon, it becomes a game of survival.

Michelle Kuhl, a Chelsea High graduate, is associate producer for Cash Cow Films and lead actress for the film "Kill Zone."

Cash Cow Films was founded in 1993 by Eric Maurer, Karen Beaton, Michael Jarema and Jay Brody, all long-time Detroit area film professionals with a background in features, commercials and industrials.

New vehicles and roadways will be "smarter," through the use of microchips and sophisticated in-vehicle mapping systems. In Michigan, high-tech highways are already here. There are 32 miles of freeways in downtown Detroit linked to the Michigan Intelligent Transportation Systems headquarters. There a staff watches out for any kind of incident that causes a slowdown. MITS staff can instantly notify State Police and traffic helicopter reporters and change message signs along the freeway. Other high-tech efforts are underway, including electronic automation at border crossings and truck weigh stations. The roads of tomorrow will be smarter and safer.

NORTH SCHOOL'S STUDENT COUNCIL has begun work on a wildlife habitat financed with a mini-grant by Chelsea Education Foundation. Members of the student

Deputies Report Domestic Assaults, Make Arrests

Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputies investigated several incidents in Dexter Village and Scio, Sylvan, Lima, Webster and Dexter townships June 5-23.

Sylvan Township
Malicious destruction of property was reported in the 1600 block of Pierce Rd., June 21. A 43-year-old township man told police his 1987 Ford Escort was attacked between 2:30 a.m. and 6:30 a.m. The vehicle was scratched with a key, leaving marks along the driver's side door. Damage is estimated at $800.

Dexter Township
A 21-year-old clerk at Dexter Party Store on Huron River Dr. thwarted an attempt by a 17-year-old Webster

township boy to purchase alcohol. The boy came into the party store with a fake Michigan identification card that had his correct name but false address and birthdate. The clerk seized the fake ID and called police. She also turned over several other pieces of false identification seized by management.

Malicious destruction of property was reported in the 4800 block of Dexter-Pinckney Rd., June 11. A Garden City couple told police their son-in-law threw a bottle at their vehicle after they attempted to give their granddaughter a birthday present. Their 1992 Ford Tempo sustained $100 in damages. They said their daughter gave them permission to come over even though their 32-year-old son-in-law has said they are not allowed there when he is home. He allowed them in the home, as long as they made it quick. Apparently, they were not quick enough, according to a police report. He began yelling vulgarities at them. They got in their vehicle and he threw a Pepsi bottle at the car. The bottle shattered and dented the hood of the car. The case has been given to the prosecutor for review.

David A. Oesterle, 28, of Dexter township was arrested June 10 in the 9000 block of North Territorial Rd. He was arrested on a bench warrant out of Oakland county for failing to pay fines and costs in a drunk driving case.

Brokerage Co-Sponsors Revitalization Award

In tiny Port Gibson, Miss., residents have banded together to reverse the severe economic deterioration that has plagued the community's downtown since it was torn apart by racial strife in the 1960's. Today the town's ethnically diverse downtown revitalization program counts among its victories 17 building improvement projects, an aggressive marketing campaign, the rehabilitation of an 1830's building for use as the county library, and a number of new and expanded businesses including a dry cleaners that had been closed for many years.

In 1987, residents of Fort Bragg, Calif., rallied to rebuild several key downtown buildings after a devastating fire destroyed the courthouse and neighboring structures in the small fishing town along California's Mendocino coast. Today, 38 building rehabilitation projects later, downtown Fort Bragg boasts more than a dozen new businesses and nearly $1 million in new investment.

Volunteers in Boston's Roslindale Village neighborhood, whose downtown revitalization efforts have stimulated more than $5 million in private-sector investment, are now putting together a local investment plan to attract a co-op grocery store to the village. They are selling shares of stock through house parties, public meetings and door-to-door contact.

These stories are just a handful of the many astonishing and inspiring downtown revitalization victories that towns and cities throughout the nation are achieving in increasing numbers.

The St. Louis brokerage Edward D. Jones & Co., in conjunction with the National Main Street Center, has announced a major competition to recognize the best downtown revitalization achievements in the nation. Deb Bauer announced today. The Great American Main Street Award will recognize communities whose efforts at bringing new economic vitality to their downtowns and neighborhood commercial areas are among the country's most innovative and successful.

The Great American Main Street Award will recognize five communities each year that have achieved a high level of success in their efforts to revitalize their historic and traditional downtowns and neighborhood commercial districts. The competition is open to towns and cities of all sizes. Entries will be evaluated by a national jury on such criteria as:

- Active involvement by public and private sectors in the revitalization process;
- Broad-based community support for the revitalization effort;
- Over-all success in boosting the downtown's economy; and,
- Adaptive use and preservation of key historic downtown buildings.

Each winning community will receive a $5,000 prize. The first awards will be announced May 15, 1995, at the 1995 National Town Meeting on Main Street, to be held in Little Rock, Ark.

"Main Street neighborhoods and downtown business districts are truly at the heart of America's communities," Bauer said. "Healthy downtowns are one of the most important ingredients in a successful community development strategy. This competition will highlight some of the most innovative approaches to this increasingly critical issue for our cities and towns."

The Great American Main Street Awards program is a perfect fit with Jones' corporate philosophies," Bauer added. "We strive to give something meaningful back to the communities that we call home, something of lasting value that recognizes the outstanding contributions people can make to their communities when they work together."

Edward D. Jones & Co. understands the importance of economically healthy downtowns. In fact, many of Jones' nearly 5,000 offices are located in the downtowns of small towns, many of them in rehabilitated historic downtown buildings. Utilizing its private satellite network, the company has worked with the Main Street Center for over a year to provide training in downtown revitalization to community leaders throughout the country.

A program of the non-profit National Trust for Historic Preservation, the Main Street Center has worked directly with almost 900 towns and cities to launch and expand downtown revitalization programs. To date, participating communities have generated an average of more than $22 in new investment downtown for every dollar the communities use to support their revitalization efforts, making the Main Street program one of the most successful economic development strategies in the country.

Applications for the Great American Main Street award will be available beginning July 1, 1994, and are due no later than Nov. 15, 1994.

For more information, contact Deb Bauer at (313) 475-3519, call 1-800-441-2010, or write the National Main Street Center, National Trust for Historic Preservation, 1785 Massachusetts Ave., N.W. Washington, D.C. 20036 to obtain an application.

EDUCATION RESEARCH

Prepared by the National Education Research Center, U.S. Department of Education

★ Computers Are Crucial To Classrooms . . .

No need to "download" this information: computers are in every sector of the community, business, and government. Hands-on computer experience is essential to providing our youth with world-class skills and preparing them for the future. In addition, many educators agree computers are important to the learning process because they enhance the way students think and learn, and the way teachers teach.

"Computers increase student and teacher motivation while providing extensive opportunities for peer instruction," believes Dr. John A. Lammert, director of high school services, National Association of Secondary School Principals. "As their skills develop, both students and teachers become more productive and more resourceful."

Apple Computer's Education Policy Representative Jackie Robinson concurred.

"Computers change the way students work in schools, the way students learn and the way teachers teach," he said. "We're no longer in the age where a blackboard and chalk will serve the needs of today's students."

One of the major roadblocks in having quality computer instruction in schools is a lack of adequate staff training.

"Educators must consider staff development needs in order to ensure that students have the most effective instruction and exposure," Lammert advised. "If staff are adequately trained, they become productive and work to enhance and upgrade their skills."

"Competent and confident teachers provide more effective instruction and more support to students."

With proper instruction, some students have been able to utilize computers very effectively. Robinson cited that the National Weather Service had to change its forecast when Harlem, N.Y. students more accurately predicted, through the use of computers, when and where Hurricane Hugo would strike.

To make sure the next generation has ample opportunities for computer exposure, here are low-cost considerations for educators, parents, students, and communities:

- Access or support the hiring of a "traveling computer teacher" in your schools.
- Be sure computers are easily accessible to students, i.e. they are not only located in the school office or audiovisual room to be checked out by teachers.
- Be sure all kids, not only "smart" labeled kids, have access.

NEW THEATRE WORKSHOP involves 80 young people this summer, learning about theatre skills and operation. Two new sections were added this year to the reorganized workshop, mime and technical. The mime class, taught by Michael Lee, has nine students enrolled, including Lansey Bauer, Katherine Heli, Valisa Thompson, Chloe Chamberlain, Chris Johns, Lindsey Williams, Kristin Ellis, Amy McCalla and Recca Williams. Mime is a method of acting without speaking. The workshops are sponsored by Chelsea Area Players.

A TECHNICAL CLASS theatre workshop has been a new feature this year offered by Chelsea Area Players Theatre Workshop. Taught by Ann Walasky, the class has eight students enrolled, including Carl Bauer, Rachel Mead, Steven Taroli, Max Booth, Emily Morgan, Karl Thompson, Bill Ellis and Aaron Smith. Workshop performances for the public are scheduled Thursday, June 30 at Chelsea High school.

New Theatre Workshop Performances Slated

Chelsea Area Players will present the New Theatre Workshop performances on Thursday, June 30 at 7 p.m. at Chelsea High school.

During the past year this workshop has been reorganized and the 80 children involved are enjoying the results.

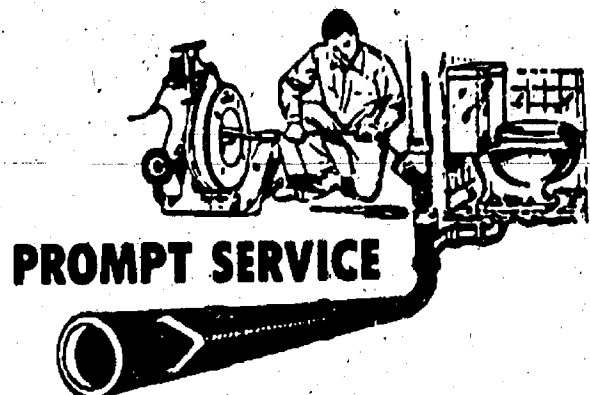

Director of the workshop is Sue Williams and her teaching staff includes Michael Lee, Ann Walasky, Becky Pryor, Audrey Becker, Rebecca Surmont, Jason Radine, and Jessica Cauffiel.

There are seven classes from beginner to advanced, song and dance, technical, and mime. The tech and mime classes are new this year and are proving to be an asset to the program.

Six performances will be given on June 30. Tickets are available at the door.

VILLAGE OF CHELSEA Ordinance No. 118

AN ORDINANCE ADOPTING BASIC FIRE CONTROL MEASURES AND REGULATIONS GOVERNING CONDITIONS WHICH COULD IMPEDE OR INTERFERE WITH FIRE SUPPRESSION FORCES AND TO PROVIDE PENALTIES FOR VIOLATION THEREOF.

The Village of Chelsea Ordains:

Section 1. Adoption of fire control measures and regulations. There is hereby adopted by the Village of Chelsea the fire control measures and regulations as herein set forth for the purposes of controlling conditions which could impede or interfere with fire suppression forces.

Section 2. Authority at fires and other emergencies. The fire prevention code official or duly authorized representatives, as may be in charge at the scene of a fire or other emergency involving the protection of life and property, is empowered to direct such operations as may be necessary to extinguish or control any suspected or reported fires, gas leaks or other hazardous conditions or situations or of taking any other action necessary in the reasonable performance of their duty. The fire prevention code official may prohibit any person, vehicle or object from approaching the scene and may remove or cause to be removed from the scene any person, vehicle or object which may impede or interfere with the operations of the fire department. The fire prevention code official may remove or cause to be removed any person, vehicle or object from hazardous areas. All persons ordered to leave a hazardous area shall do so immediately and shall not re-enter the area until authorized to do so by the fire prevention code official.

Section 3. Interference with fire department operations. It shall be unlawful to interfere with, attempt to interfere with, conspire to interfere with, obstruct or restrict the mobility of or block the path of travel of any fire department emergency vehicle in any way, or to interfere with, attempt to interfere with, conspire to interfere with, obstruct or hamper any fire department operation.

Section 4. Compliance with orders. A person shall not willfully fail or refuse to comply with any lawful order or direction of the fire prevention code official or to interfere with the compliance attempts of another individual.

Section 5. Vehicles crossing fire hose. A vehicle shall not be driven or propelled over any unprotected fire hose of the fire department when laid down on any street, alleyway, private drive or any other vehicular roadway without the consent of the fire prevention code official in command of said operation.

Section 6. Definition of authorized emergency vehicle. Authorized emergency vehicles shall be restricted to those which are defined and authorized under the laws of the State of Michigan.

Section 7. Operation of Vehicles on Approach of Authorized Emergency Vehicles. Upon the approach of any authorized emergency vehicle, giving audible and visual signal, the operator of every other vehicle shall immediately drive the same to a position as near as possible and parallel to the right-hand edge or curb of the street or roadway, clear of any intersection and shall stop and remain in such position until the authorized emergency vehicle or vehicles shall have passed, unless otherwise directed by the fire prevention code official or a police officer.

Section 8. Vehicles following fire apparatus. It shall be unlawful for the operator of any vehicle, other than one on official business, to follow closer than 300 feet from any fire apparatus traveling in response to a fire alarm or to drive any vehicle within the block or immediate area when fire apparatus has stopped in answer to a fire alarm.

Section 9. Unlawful boarding or tampering with fire department emergency equipment. A person shall not without proper authorization from the fire prevention code official in charge of said fire department emergency equipment, climb to, attach himself to, climb upon or into, board or swing upon any fire department emergency vehicle, whether the same is in motion or at rest, or sound the siren, horn, bell or other sound-producing device thereon, or to manipulate or tamper with, or attempt to manipulate or tamper with any levers, valves, switches, starting devices, brakes, pumps, or any equipment or protective clothing on, or a part of, any fire department emergency vehicle.

Section 10. Damage, injury—fire department—equipment, personnel. It shall be unlawful for any person to damage or deface, or attempt to conspire to damage or deface, any fire department emergency vehicle at any time or to injure, or attempt to conspire to injure, fire department personnel while performing departmental duties.

Section 11. Emergency vehicle operation. The driver of any emergency vehicle, as defined in Section 6 of this ordinance, shall not sound the siren, or have the front red lights on or disobey any existing traffic regulation, except when said vehicle is responding to an emergency call or when responding to, but not upon returning from, a fire. Tactical strategies such as, but not restricted to, "move-ups" do not constitute an emergency call. The driver of an emergency vehicle may:

- Park or stand irrespective of the provisions of existing traffic regulation;
- Proceed past a red or stop signal or other sign but only after slowing down as may be necessary for safe operation;
- Exceed the prima facie speed limit so long as the action does not endanger life or property;
- Disregard regulations governing direction of movement or turning in specified directions;

(e) The exemptions herein granted to an emergency vehicle shall apply only when the driver of any such vehicle while in motion sounds audible signal by bell, siren or exhaust whistle as may be reasonably necessary, and when the vehicle is equipped with at least one lighted lamp displaying a red light visible under normal atmospheric conditions from a distance of 500 feet to the front of such vehicle.

Section 12. Blocking fire hydrants and fire department connections. It shall be unlawful to obscure from view, damage, deface, obstruct or restrict the access to any fire hydrant or any fire department connection for the pressurization of fire suppression systems, including fire hydrants and fire department connections located on public or private streets and access lanes or on private property.

If, upon the expiration of the time mentioned in a notice of violation, obstructions or encroachments are not removed, the fire prevention code official shall proceed to remove the same. Cost incurred in the performance of necessary work shall be paid from the municipal treasury on certificate of the fire prevention code official and with the approval of the chief administrative official; and the legal authority of the municipality shall institute appropriate action for the recovery of such costs.

Section 13. Hydrant use approval. A person shall not use or operate any fire hydrant intended for use of the fire department for fire suppression purposes unless such person first secures a permit for such use from the fire prevention code official and the water company having jurisdiction. This section shall not apply to the use of such hydrants by a person employed by, and authorized to make such use by, the water company having jurisdiction.

Section 14. Public water supply. The fire prevention code official shall recommend to the chief administrative official of the municipality the location or relocation of new or existing fire hydrants and the placement or replacement of inadequate water mains located upon public property and deemed necessary to provide an adequate fire flow and distribution pattern. A fire hydrant shall not be placed into or removed from service until approved by the fire prevention code official.

Brenda Newman Named Outstanding Student of Year for Baton Corps

Chelsea Baton Corps held its Annual Recital May 25. The evening's activities included a Chelsea Baton Corps exhibition, where the girls displayed their talents to family and friends. The "Twirling Entourage" performed their dance twirl team routines along with showing off some individual talents. Several girls performed their solo competition routines, modeling routines, and 2-baton solo routines.

The night's events also included a dessert reception, followed by the awards ceremony. The awards ceremony was presented by the corps instructor, Susan Fitzpatrick. The first award to be presented was the New Students Awards. The new students, Toni Zyburt, Tawny McSweeney, Danae Seaward, Susan Barkman, Ashley Houle, and Liz McKee, were presented a twirler olympic style medal. The first-year students received the "Official Chelsea Baton Corps Trophy." First year students are Jenna Haas, Catherine Kamitz, Brittany Bourdon, Sally Compton, Claire Elmore, and Melissa London. The corps has four second-year students who were awarded for their terrific efforts over the last two years with the "Official Twirling Entourage" jackets. Second-year students are Kim Mitchell, Jillian Lawrence, Sarah Schwarz and Jessica Stickney.

Third-year members are Stephanie Mitchell, Deanna Fulton, Brenda Newman, and Kim Anderson. These girls have improved tremendously and were honored with certificates and twirling medals.

Dedication awards were given to five members. These awards represent girls who have been with the corps over five years and have excelled in the sport of twirling. These girls are not only the leaders of the corps, but also the history. The dedicated members are Erica Bloomsaat, Laura Roskowski, and Hillary Wiedmayer who have been members for nine years. Tiffany Scott has been twirling for 10 years, and Kori White, who is the longest twirling member, with 13 years.

110% awards were awarded to one girl in each class who works the hardest, always has a good attitude, and is always striving to learn more. The girls received an engraved trophy and the new Official Twirling Entourage t-shirts. 110% awards were awarded to the following: Novice I: Tawny McSweeney; Novice II: Sarah Schwartz; Beginner: Stephanie Mitchell; Senior: Claire Elmore.

The Most Improved award went to Erica Bloomsaat who has worked hard to improve her individual competition routines. Erica was awarded a trophy and an official Twirling Entourage t-shirt.

The Most Prestigious award presented at every recital is the "Outstanding Student of the Year." This award is a travel trophy that has engraved plates of all the past winners of this award. Ten twirlers have now had their names placed on this trophy and 10 more names will now precede. This award is presented to one girl who has represented the corps beyond 110%, who has shown leadership, sportsmanship, hard work, dedication, and improvement. Chelsea Baton Corps 1993-94 Outstanding Student of the Year award was presented by last year's winner, Hillary Wiedmayer, to Brenda Newman.

Brenda Newman was given the Traveling Trophy with her name now engraved on it, a crown, banner and ceramic twirler who resembles her.

The recital is normally at the end of the year for the corps, but this year the corps will continue a few classes through the summer to practice for the summer parades and performances. The corps will be seen at the Ann Arbor 4th of July parade, the Dexter Daze parade, the Manchester chicken broil, and the Chelsea Fair Parade this summer. Classes will resume in the fall for the regular season.

Anyone interested in joining the Chelsea Baton Corps, should call the corps new board president, Sue Lawrence at 475-4229.

Chelsea Retirement Community
Compiled by M. C. Martin

The Tornado Was Boss Around Here

On being warned twice in downtown Chelsea on the afternoon of June 13, Winifred and I hurried home. A tornado warning was in effect in this area. We were told it was on a path which might bring it a few miles north of Chelsea.

As we pulled up at the K Bldg. entrance, a lady rushed out to the car and helped Winifred get her walker headed to the door. I parked and ran in.

Capable staff people had taken my wife to a large tub room in K-1 and I joined her and a dozen nursing patients. These rooms are considered fairly safe as all the walls are inside walls. Sandy Schmunk stayed with us, and it sounded as though Theresa was looking after another group in an adjoining room.

It was my first experience ever being in hiding from a tornado. I think some of us were concerned but not really scared. After a while Sandy started a song that everybody knew, and some humorous stories were helping to keep our mind off the storm.

The real reason for this story is to relate how the staff members and volunteers reacted to a real situation after so many fire drills which did not amount to much. We should mention many day shift staff people stayed over and helped. Heroes are made from the ranks of those who think about the welfare of residents all over whether in the tub room, in the hall, or maybe in the library. Always we know we are in good hands.

Visitors and Cards

It is a happy event when we receive visits on Mother's Day or Father's Day or somewhere near these days. We were given notes on the following:

Mother's Day—Ruth Kjellberg was visited by son, David, from Standish; also, granddaughter Chris and husband, and Joe Krause from Flint and brother Walter Foresberg from Hastings.

Walter and Ruth Saxman greeted daughter and son-in-law, Richard and Phyllis Holman of Flushing.

Gordon Schleicher's son, Andy, sent this card for Father's Day: "Happy Father's Day Dad! I got up a 6 a.m. every morning and delivered papers in 5 ft. of snow, before walking 18 miles in sub-freezing weather, to a one-room school house, just to earn the money for this card—either that or I got the change off your dresser? I can't remember which."

M.C. and Winifred's son, Charles, and daughter-in-law Barbara, had us for dinner at Knapp's for Father's Day. There were from Milford and brought along Bryan and Becky Martin, great-grandchildren.

Alice Jewell was overwhelmed with relatives from the four corners of the U.S. for her birthday. Following are names of those from long distances: Dr. and Mrs. Marvin Jewell, Douglas and Virginia Jewell, David Jewell, Donna Jewell, Rev. and Cindy Fouch, Dr. and Mrs. Loney. They came from Pontiac, Ann Arbor, San Diego, Wisconsin, New York, Texas, Indiana and Niles, MI. Chapel goers were invited to have refreshments with Alice following service on June 19. Her birthday was June 14.

The daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Barton from Homer visited Florence Healy on Mother's Day.

Notes from the Health Care Center

Life is usually pretty busy in the Kresge Health Care Center... my favorite saying is "They never said this was a 'rest home'." The "Zion Singers" paid their annual visit in June, not only entertaining, but eliciting toe tapping and joining in singing the familiar melodies. It's always a winner!

The "first annual For Men Only" dinner was a rousing success. Of course, the prime rib entree and apple/caramel pie especially enticed the male tastes. Looking forward to next year to be even better... After the word spreads there may not be enough room for everyone! Thanks loads to Steve O'Keefe and his staff.

The word games program that we had planned for June 13 definitely took on an exciting twist... when twisters were in the area. Just as we were to begin the program we had to take cover. But our scouting background had us continue the trivia/word games while we spent the next hour in the bath tub rooms. It really was fun! Never say things are dull. Then on June 18 during the power outage, the staff had to form a human chain to get dinner trays to the K-1 residents... definitely a unique experience that, fortunately, does not happen often!

At this writing, we are looking forward to the annual dinner at Camp Newkirk, the Cottonwood Cloggers, our summer picnic, and other events. The summer may be steaming... but we are all real cool... and involved. Theresa VanderHorst Activity Director

Birthday Party Attracts Many Friends and Relatives

Mary Haselswerdt of the "D" Bldg. will long remember her 86th birthday of May 26. Close relatives and friends from near and far visited her, some for several days. We will try to give you all the names that we can remember.

The View from Here

Any who like to get some adventure trips from an easy chair will enjoy "A Girl, A Horse and A Dog." This book from our Washtenaw County library among those large print ones loaned to us, may still be here when you read this.

This is the story of a young lady who traveled from the south of Spain, a distance of 1,700 miles through both Spain and France to Paris. A true story and pictures. By Belinda Braithwaite tells about day-to-day experiences through rural countryside with her horse and dog. Happy reading to you.

The RHYMSTONE group are resting now on Friday nights. Or maybe taking a change of pace by joining some other activity that might be running during the summer. Contrary to what some think (from our name) that we are a highbrow bunch that indulge in deep study of poems and poets, that's not the case. We don't go to the opposite and come to meetings in our bare feet. We strike a happy medium. Sort of come as you are.

We do think of poetry part of the time, and you can bring your favorite poems. But we often bring stories of long ago, or jokes. Or maybe we start talking of the old days, and forget to quit on time. You get the IDEA. Come visit in September, even if you just want to listen. Ho, Ho, Ho. Toodle OO.

M.C. Martin.

JIM AKANS—"Hear the Voices"

Local Singer, Songwriter Releases New Cassette Tape of Original Songs

Jim Akans, local singer and songwriter of "South Town," "Angela" and "Gettysburg," currently receiving air play on Ann Arbor radio stations WQIB and WAAM, has released a collection of his original songs on cassette tape.

Titled "Hear the Voices," the Adult Contemporary/Pop style material features Jim Akans' singing/songwriter talents on 10 songs including title track, "Can't You Hear the Voices," a Billboard songwriting contest award winner.

The songs were recorded at Ann Arbor's Schoolhouse Studios under the production of Henry Weck. Henry gained rock and roll prominence in the early 1970's as the drummer for Brownsville Station, a band best known for their hit, "Smokin' in the Boys Room."

An Ann Arbor resident, Jim's children attend Dexter schools where he recently assisted in the soccer program as a coach.

Jim has been composing Pop/AC tunes for nearly 25 years. "Hear the Voices" represents his strongest original compositions to date.

"Hear the Voices" is available in Dexter at Mugg & Bopp's, in Ann Arbor at Schoolkids Records on Liberty St., and The Scio Party Store on Jackson Rd.

An agriculture futurist says that virtual reality computer programs and global positioning satellites will change the way farming is done in the future. Lowell Catlett believes farmers will someday be able to do almost all their farm chores from a computer screen in their office. Catlett also predicts the introduction of more than 500 genetically engineered plants and animals by the end of the decade.

Card of Thanks 19

THANK YOU
We wish to extend a heartfelt thanks to everyone who stopped to help at the scene of an auto accident at 5 p.m. on Friday, June 17th at the Old US-12 and Freer Rd. intersection. Everyone is recovering quickly from injuries and we are very grateful for the help and loving care we received that afternoon. We also want to thank our families, friends, and the Chelsea First United Methodist church for the many acts of kindness and prayers. They worked, for our children are playing happily. God bless all of you, Bruce, Sue, David & Christina Young.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Mary Ann Coltre wishes to thank all our relatives, friends and neighbors. Your prayers, kindness and generosity were greatly appreciated. Thank you to those who sent cards, gifts, flowers and visited Mom during her illness and after her passing. A special thank you to the Chelsea Hospital, Individualized Home Nursing, First Congregational Church, Father Dupuis, Colleen Houle, Charlotte Danborn, Marilyn Wojcik, and Don, Linda and Allen Cole and to those who made contributions in mother's memory.

The family of Mary Ann Coltre

THANK YOU

I would like to thank all of the people who thought of me while I was in the hospital for their cards and gifts, especially my family, neighbors and friends for the things they did for me and for the doctors and nurses in the emergency room at the Chelsea Community Hospital and the Chelsea Hospital in Ann Arbor, for the Rev. Spitz-Nagel for all the calls and prayers while I was in the hospital and at home and the prayers from our Church and our Church Prayer Line.

THE GARDEN CORNER

* Built-in Resistance Helps Reduce Garden Problems

Weeds, insects and weather are probably the top three vegetable garden problems. But plant diseases can be devastating, too.

The best way to avoid disease problems in the vegetable garden is to plant disease-resistant varieties whenever possible, says Mary Hausbeck, extension plant pathologist at Michigan State University. Disease resistance, combined with rotation of certain crops around the garden, should virtually eliminate untreatable soil-borne diseases that can carry over in the garden from year to year, she says. Of particular concern are Verticillium and Fusarium wilt.

Crop rotation, she explains, is moving related groups of crops each year so crops susceptible to the same diseases and pests don't follow one another in the same spot. This interferes with the buildup of pests and disease organisms and their carry-over from one year to the next.

Some diseases are transmitted by viruses, bacteria or fungi on seeds or plants. Starting with disease-free seeds and transplants is more likely if you obtain seeds from reputable dealers than if you save your own seed, Hausbeck suggests. Saving seeds from last year's garden may be importing last year's problems, too.

Choosing a well drained, sunny spot for the garden can help prevent root and foliar diseases, Hausbeck says.

"Plants grown in low-lying or poorly drained areas often develop root rots," she observes. "Also, high humidity in these areas means foliage is slow to dry after a rain, dew or overhead irrigation. Many leaf diseases can get established only if leaves remain wet for long periods of time, so you want to place your garden where cool, moist air will drain away from plants, plants receive eight to 10 hours of direct sun each day and air can circulate freely around them."

When diseases are carried by insects, the primary way to prevent the disease is to control the insect. Bacterial wilt of cucumbers and squashes is a good example—the only way to keep it from killing your cucurbits is to prevent the cucumber beetles that carry it from feeding on your plants and transmitting the wilt organism.

Sanitation—cleaning up diseased plants materials after harvest and burning or burying them some distance from the garden; controlling weeds that can serve as alternate hosts for diseases and pests; and providing crops with the water and nutrients they need to grow vigorously are other factors in garden disease control. Plants under stress from too little or too much water or low soil fertility are more susceptible to diseases, Hausbeck explains.

Some diseases may occur in spite of all these efforts, she notes. For example, tomatoes are often affected by fungi that cause leaf spots or blights. Applying fungicides as soon as symptoms are noted should prevent serious losses of foliage or fruit.

Animals provide much more for us than just meat on our tables. For example, insulin produced by animals is used to help diabetes sufferers. Beef byproducts are also used to manufacture everything from soap to photographic film.

Learning Link Tutors Receive Certificates Recognizing Efforts

The Learning Link is a tutoring program involving Beach Middle school students and South Elementary school second graders. Its purpose is to help both the tutored and the tutoring students.

The advantages to the tutors are that they learn to see education from a teacher's point of view, develop an appreciation for the time and effort their teachers give to them, and have the opportunity to give something of themselves to future middle school students.

The second graders improve their reading skills through the advantages of a one-on-one tutoring experience. In addition, both the tutor and student are better able to relate to one another due to the closeness of their ages.

The pilot program, which was implemented last year, proved to have benefited all the students involved. This year, the program was expanded to seven tutors and 10 second grade students. South School principal, Lucy Stieber, and teachers Gail White and Sally Pfeiffer have been very supportive of the program.

The logo The Learning Link depicts a book with two hands holding it. On one side of the book is a large hand and on the other side a small one. Together they hold the book which is the link, not only to reading but to teaching.

Progress in education has in the past been measured in test scores where a child becomes a set of numbers. In The Learning Link, progress is seen in improved reading ability but also in the smiles of the students and their knowledge that they are contributing to the future.

The use of this cross age tutoring technique takes advantage of the principle that education should be done with children, not to them, and that good educational programs make maximum use of the students themselves.

As the search for new and better methods of teaching children, reaching them, and inspiring them continues, these Beach students are doing their part.

FINNISH SCHOLARS VISIT CHELSEA: On May 31, several Chelsea institutions were on the agenda of a group of visitors from Finland. The visitors were participating in an International Education Exchange program, sponsored by Rotary International. The goal of the program is to provide professionals an opportunity to see how businesses in other countries function. The Finns, who included a physician, a newspaper editor, an engineer, an Air Force officer and a college professor, had already spent a week in Canada and two weeks in the Detroit area. During their day in Chelsea, they toured the St. Louis School for Boys, the Chelsea Milling Co., and the Chelsea Retirement Community before joining the Chelsea Rotary Club at its noon meeting. They were to complete a week in the Ann Arbor area before returning to Finland. Displaying flags from Finnish and Chelsea Rotary Clubs are, from left, the Rev. Mearl Bradley and Dave Mathis, who organized the Chelsea visit for the three visiting Finns at right.

Despite Crop Damage Farmers Provide Wildlife Habitat

Despite enormous costs associated with wildlife damage to crops and livestock, more than half of America's farmers and ranchers help conserve wildlife by providing habitat on their land, according to a study funded by the American Farm Bureau Research Foundation. Survey respondents reported that wildlife damage costs them each an average of $423 and 42 hours of labor annually.

The study, conducted by Utah State University researcher Michael Conover, was based on two nation-wide surveys of more than 7,300 agricultural producers. The study estimated that crop and livestock losses due to wildlife damage cost American agriculture more than $4 billion and 66 million hours of labor each year.

In spite of those costs, more than half (51 percent) of the survey respondents reported that they seek to promote habitat for wildlife. Fifty percent said they left crop residues in their fields to benefit wildlife, 39 percent said they provide valuable cover for wildlife near their fields, 41 percent said they provided water and 15 percent said they left part of their crops unharvested to feed wildlife.

"Wildlife crop damage is a major concern for agriculture, however, many farmers appreciate wildlife and the outdoors," said Bob Boehm, commodity specialists for Michigan Farm Bureau. "But they're always looking for ways to control the damage and provide some kind of a balance so that people can enjoy the wildlife and farms can still function economically."
