

Chelsea Community Fair Opens Local Tuesday

Summer is receding into fall. The vacation season is winding down. And school is right around the corner.

It must be time for the biggest annual event on the local calendar—the Chelsea Community Fair.

Now in its 57th year, this year's event opens with entry of Home Economics exhibits at 6 p.m. Sunday and concludes six days later with a livestock raffle in the main arena at the Chelsea fairgrounds.

That's essentially been the order of opening and closing activities at the fair for some time.

From year to year, the fair doesn't change much.

But that explains part of its appeal both for fairgoers and organizers, says fair board president Ken McCalla, owner of McCalla Feeds.

It certainly makes planning and preparation easier for McCalla and other volunteers on the 27-member fair board.

"I think we're the largest community fair in Michigan," he notes.

Officials believe the fair will likely draw some 40,000 during its run, the same estimate they've quoted in recent years. "See, we have no way of counting people. We figure 40,000," McCalla says.

And that number will come to enjoy the small-town atmosphere of a good, old-fashioned fair featuring a variety of family entertainment.

That includes such traditional activities as carnival rides, livestock judging, horse shows and a demolition derby.

For participating community groups the fair offers their biggest fund-raising opportunity of the year. That's the case for groups like the Chelsea Athletic Boosters, who run fair games, and the Lions Club, which runs a dunk tank, McCalla says.

"They raise their money through the fair."

McCalla estimates that it takes about $20,000 to produce the fair. And while it isn't necessarily a profit-making venture, he said fair receipts usually generate enough to pay its bills.

"Hopefully, we make enough money to keep going." That plus off-season rentals of fairgrounds buildings help sustain fair budgeting, he said.

Harder to gauge is the fair's commercial impact on village business. McCalla says some merchants look forward to it, while others complain about certain inconveniences such as parking.

It depends on your point of view, he says. "I would say it does (help), but that's only my opinion. I know it brings in people to eat. People at the shopping center like to see it."

But the fair is really about Chelsea showing itself off.

Volunteerism and participation are the fair's main ingredients.

From the contractors who donate heavy equipment and time to haul in dirt for the motorcross track, to the youngsters decorating floats and bicycles for the Children's Parade, the fair is a community effort.

Members of the Chelsea High school sophomore class are nearing completion of a class float at McCalla's feed plant site on Old US-12. The fair board president offered to let them build it at his business location because they needed the room. "I think the float thing is excellent for the kids," he says.

And while fair planning is a lot of work, McCalla says he doesn't mind it. "It's all right," he said.

For a complete schedule of activities, see page 19.

Grass Lake Dairy Farmer Celebrates 100th Birthday

Chester G. Notten has done something few of us will ever do: Live to be 100 years old.

The Grass Lake township man, who still resides on his family's centennial farm on Reiman Rd., celebrated his own centennial birthday last Friday.

Born on Aug. 12, 1894 to Henry and Maggelena Schweinfurth Notten, he was the youngest of the couple's eight children.

He has now outlived all his siblings and even Mabel, his wife of 55 years, who died in 1960.

Still when his family gathered for a big party to celebrate his 100th birthday last Saturday at Salem Grove United Methodist church, he was surrounded many loved ones. More than 150 friends and family members were on hand for the event, some from as far west as Portland, Ore.

Among the invited guests were seven grandchildren, 10 great-grandchildren, four step-grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

The family tree includes some nieces and nephews in their 70's and 80's, says Notten's granddaughter, Martha.

But you'll forgive Chester if he holds a special place for two family members, in particular: his son, Henry, of Norvell, and daughter, Mildred Davis, Bowling Green, Ky.

Asked to recall the most vivid memory of a life spanning the Industrial Revolution and the computer age, Chester mentions, without hesitation, the birth of his son.

"It just amazes me the things that he's lived through," Martha Notten says.

Chester is virtually a living time capsule. His personal time line has encompassed a host of watershed events including two world wars, 25 presidential terms, and the rise and fall of Communism.

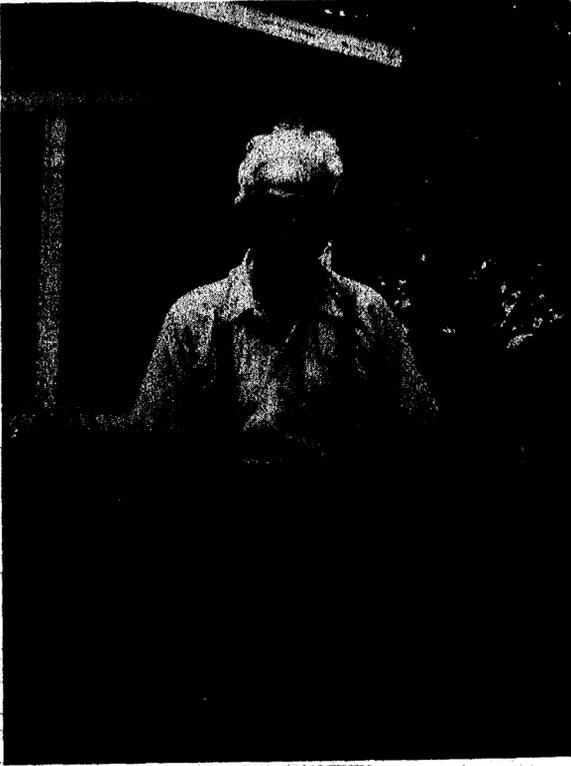

But it's family history that counts the most to Chester Notten.

He talks about the family genealogy; "it's more the family history that interests him," his granddaughter says.

If there is one memorable chunk of time seared in his memory, she adds, it's the Depression period of the 1930's.

Among tales he likes to recount are those as a boy cultivating the family's 160-acre farm with a horse-drawn plow, then driving his sister by horse and buggy to her teaching job in the country before heading back to school himself.

Today, his life isn't too much different than it was while he was raising dairy cattle for a living. That was before retiring some 20 years ago.

Martha recalls her grandfather's dairy cattle producing special sweet cream that went into the ice cream made by the Jackson All-Star Dairy in the 1940's.

An ice cream parlor bearing the dairy's name is still in operation today.

Although he is no longer farming, he still raises beef cattle for consignment once a year at a local sales ring.

And while he doesn't drive, he still cuts his grass with a rider mower.

His lifestyle is simple but fulfilling. "I do a lot of reading. Take care of my lawn and flowers. I like to watch and listen to Detroit Tiger games."

But with the Major League baseball strike in effect that pastime is on hold. "Actually, I don't know much about (the strike). I don't feel good about it," he says.

Otherwise, he is healthy and feeling fine. He maintains a regular schedule, shopping for groceries on Saturday with his son.

Despite his longevity, he has no special tips for those wishing to reach his age. Skill, he notes, "I don't smoke or drink. I never liked beer, and never had much wine."

What about his diet? He likes and eats just about everything, he says. But his favorite dish is probably "chicken and biscuits" which his late wife—"a great cook"—frequently made for him.

After 99 birthdays, he suggests, it's hard to get too excited about another.

Asked how he feels about getting to No. 100, he replies, "I guess it's real, it's me."

What he is excited about is getting to celebrate it with his entire clan, especially his son and daughter. Just blowing out his birthday candles could pose a problem. But Chester wasn't expecting any. "I don't think so," he said.

Jury Finds Leith Guilty of Murder

Faces Mandatory Life Sentence for Murder

Guilty of murder in the first degree. An automatic sentence of life in prison for Stephen Leith.

A six man, six woman Washtenaw Circuit Court jury deliberated for nearly eight hours before rendering that verdict last Friday in Leith's trial for the murder of Chelsea school superintendent Joseph Piasecki.

The jury also convicted the 40-year-old former science teacher of intent to do bodily harm and three counts of committing a felony with a firearm in the Dec. 16 shooting attack that wounded high school principal Ronald Mead and English teacher and union steward Phil Jones.

As the verdict was read, Leith showed no outward emotion.

For those whose lives were torn asunder by his momentary fatal rampage, the story was different.

Marlene Piasecki, the widow of the slain school administrator, her daughter, Nicki, and son, Brian, hugged and cried.

A distraught Alice Leith, wife of the defendant, who took the murder weapon away from her husband at the shooting scene, collapsed, sobbing in the arms of her parents.

Circuit Court Judge Donald Shelton has set Sept. 1 for Leith's sentencing. Under Michigan law, a first-degree murder conviction carries a mandatory life sentence. It could only be overturned by (rarely granted) parole from the governor's office or by appeal.

Defense attorney Joseph Simon has suggested there are "appealable issues in the case." But he declined to say for certain whether an appeal would be filed.

The jury had several options in reaching a verdict. Leith had admitted killing Piasecki, 47, with four shots from a 9 mm semi-automatic pistol fired from almost point blank range.

But the defense claimed he was insane at the time of the shooting and that his violent impulse stemmed from reaction to use of the anti-depressant drug, Prozac.

Simon argued that the chronically-depressed Leith was a victim of wrongly prescribed medication that altered his personality and caused mood swings.

Despite widespread use to curb depression, critics contend Prozac causes violence in some. However, that defense claim has not ruled in any criminal case or civil action brought against its maker, Eli Lilly & Co.

Even Simon acknowledged afterward, "Jurors do not like these defenses."

While he was pleased with the verdict, Washtenaw county prosecutor Brian Mackie thought there was a possibility the jury could find Leith guilty but mentally ill.

He felt that way despite arguing that Leith's actions were caused by rage not personality disorders, job stress or medication.

When he stormed out of a grievance meeting with Piasecki, Mead and Jones, went home, retrieved a handgun and then returned to the superintendent's office and opened fire, Leith knew what he was doing, Mackie said.

"If everyone had a personality disorder as Leith was supposed to have, no murderer would ever be convicted."

"Everyone had been walking on egg shells around Stephen Leith for years," he said.

Piasecki had advised Leith to get help before he was even prescribed medication by a doctor, the prosecutor insisted. "And you know the reward Joe Piasecki got for that."

While the courtroom drama is over, a personal trial is just beginning for those impacted by the tragedy.

"We've all been handed life sentences. Now we begin the long journey of defining our world without Joe," Marlene Piasecki told reporters after the verdict.

Mother of the slain superintendent, Marge Piasecki, said while nothing could change the loss of her only son, "We can only be grateful that Steve will not have a chance to destroy any more lives."

Impact Statements of Victims Will Be Received By Court

An invitation has been extended to any persons impacted by the murder of Chelsea school superintendent Joseph Piasecki and the subsequent trial and conviction of teacher Stephen Leith to write a statement of their feelings about the situation.

Such statements should be sent to Circuit Court Judge Donald Shelton, Washtenaw County Courthouse, P.O. Box 8645, Ann Arbor 48107-8675.

The court has assured all persons who are victims of the events that their statements will be read and considered by the court before sentence is imposed. The statements will become a part of the permanent record of the convicted murderer.

Victim's impact statements could not be sent to the court before the trial and must be received by the court before sentencing which has been set for Sept. 1.

Chelsea School Board OKs Teacher Contract

The Chelsea Board of Education unanimously endorsed a new three-year contract with district teachers Monday calling for an annual raise of just under four percent in teacher base pay.

The Master Agreement also would add time to the school day to meet state school requirements approved in 1993, although such changes wouldn't take effect until next fall.

In a joint press release issued by board and teacher union negotiators, both sides praised the manner in which contract talks were conducted.

Officials said that negotiators were able to reach an amicable settlement by establishing contract aims and then reviewing options to meet them.

The process emphasized "working to agreement through interest identification, option creation and evaluation, and working to settlement by packaging the options," notes the joint statement.

While board members said they were pleased with the agreement, they offered no details on the pact.

They indicated that both increased teacher pay and district savings would be "realized through benefit modifications, reduction of half-days and additional attendance days."

However, no figures were released to document that assertion.

As the district prepares for the start of a new school year starting Aug. 30, it will have about the same level of funding as a year ago, approximately $2.5 million. Voter passage of property tax relief last spring has shifted the tax burden from homestead to non-homestead property.

The board has approved a millage rate that includes 1 mill on homestead and 19 mills on non-homestead property, and an additional 1 mill for debt retirement.

That local levy is added to the 6 mills the state applies on both homestead and non-homestead property.

In other business, the board approved a nickel increase in hot lunch prices. It will raise the price of student lunches from $1.75 to $1.80, and the adult price from $2.35 to $2.40.

Meal prices have risen 30 cents over the past two years. But there is no change in the price of milk. After going up five cents last year to 30 cents, milk will again be available at that price this year.

The board approved a series of staff

Kids Parade Kicks Off Fair Tuesday

The Kid's Parade for the 57th annual Chelsea Community Fair will take place Tuesday, Aug. 23 at 5:30 p.m. Children from 3-14 are invited to take part in the parade. Decorate a bike, decorate a wagon and decorate yourself to take part in the parade. Prizes for the best entries are awarded in five different age categories for the kids.

As in the past two years the Kid's Parade will assemble in the Municipal Parking Lot behind the Common Grill at 5 p.m.

The Parade will be led by Beach Middle School Marching Band under the direction of Amy Boehms, followed by the 1993 Fair Queen, Amie Hatch. Following Amie will be the 12 candidates for the 1994 Fair Queen Crown. The kids on their bikes and trikes will follow the queen candidates.

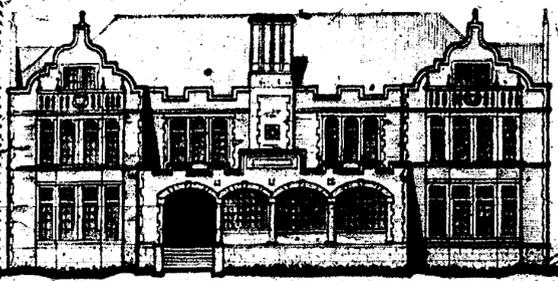

The Parade will depart west on W.

Middle St. to south on Wilkinson and then east on Old US-12 to the Red Barn gate where the parade participants can enter the Fairgrounds, and proceed down to the arena to take part in the Kid's Day Activities.

Kids are reminded to be in line in the Municipal Parking Lot by 5 p.m. to be judged for prizes, and to remember that no motorized vehicles are allowed as part of the Kid's entries.

Parents are required to walk along with children under age five who are taking part in the parade. The parade route takes about 20 minutes to complete. All rules and regulations are in the Chelsea Community Fair Premium Book which is available at different locations in town.

The Kids Parade is sponsored by the Chelsea High Key Club and the Chelsea Kiwanis Club.

The 53rd annual Chelsea Community Fair, the largest community event of the year, opens next Tuesday, Aug. 21 and winds up Saturday, Aug. 25. Between Tuesday and Saturday there are days and events designed to appeal to everyone. The fair is the largest community fair in Michigan.

A long-time Chelsea-area farmer is likely to become the new Lima township supervisor, and the Dexter township supervisor and a trustee withstood a recall election in key results of last Tuesday's primary election. Bill Van Riper easily outdistanced water scientist Wallace Fuslier in the Republican primary for supervisor in Lima township.

What seemed like an almost insurmountable problem to the Lima township interim supervisor last week turned out not to be such a big deal after all. Last week interim supervisor Carol Steffenson said Lima's change of supervisors, plus deadline problems, essentially forced the township to seek its own legal representation regarding a cost-sharing agreement for more than $700,000 in Chelsea village landfill expenses. As of Monday, the township had no representation whatsoever. However, less than 24 hours after her explanation at the township board meeting on Monday, Lima agreed to join Sylvan, Lyndon and Dexter townships in joint legal representation.

This year, the spirited livestock auction lasted for an unbelievable three hours last Thursday with the stakes high and the turnover great. Once again, the lambs stole the show from the cattle. The 122-lb. Grand Champion was owned by Matt Koern and was sold to the Wolverine Bar for pound. Lori Nixon's Reserve Grand Champion wasn't slighted either. Her winner was purchased by Fred White of Eder Lime Spreading Co. at a cost of $7.75 per every one of its 110 pounds.

While attendance at other community fairs and the Michigan State Fair has shown a steady decrease, the number of patrons visiting the 1990 Chelsea Community Fair was up an estimated 10 percent over last year. In excess of 30,000 patrons visited the Fair this year.

Chelsea Police made their first arrests for drunk and disorderly conduct, wrote eight citations of alcohol consumption on the Fairgrounds, picked up a person who was wanted on a breaking and entering charge, and recovered a patron's $800 by closing down a film-flam operation which was in direct violation of Michigan Gambling Laws

Chelsea Kiwanis Club is paying the bill for new lights on the high school football field. Hard at work on the project, Tuesday afternoon, Sept. 1, was a work crew from the Village Electric & Water Dept. and Earl Heller of Heller Electric. Heller, an electrician, donated his time for the project. Materials for the lighting were purchased through his supply sources. There are 96 new lights in all, eight on each bank of lights, two banks to a pole, and six poles around the field. Heller estimates that the new lighting will be sufficient to record a 25 candlepower reading on the field. Before the new lights, Heller was unable to get any reading at all on the field with his light meter.

In keeping with the Women's Liberation Movement, ladies walked off with the top prizes at the beef show at the Chelsea Community Fair, Wednesday, Aug. 26. Cheryl Trinkle of Dexter won the blue ribbon for her 1,000 pound grand champion Hereford steer. The animal was sold to Schumm's Restaurant at the Fat Stock sale for a price of 85 cents per pound. Debby Clark of Chelsea had the reserve champion steer. Weighing in at 860 pounds, the animal was purchased by Jiffy Market, for a price of 81 cents per pound.

★ Public Housing: Subsidies or Vouchers?

By Dr. Gary Wolfram

The moral, economic, and constitutional case for the federal government's involvement in housing is a dubious one at best, but this much ought to be beyond dispute: the way it conducts its housing business now is a disgrace.

Earlier this summer, Congressman Nick Smith of Michigan's 7th District offered an amendment to eliminate funding for construction of public housing and replace it with housing vouchers. A subsequent ideological debate pitted those who believe in the efficacy of markets, individual responsibility, and freedom of choice against those who believe that government must produce vital goods and services and decide basic matters for its citizens.

Under the present system, major developers are subsidized to produce housing units on a large scale for poor people. The government then provides an operating subsidy to those who run each project, usually a government public housing authority (PHA) that federal law says must supply "safe, decent, and sanitary housing" for qualified recipients. In actuality, many of the nation's 3,400 PHAs are havens of abuse, ineptitude, and corruption. While PHAs have devoured billions in subsidies, housing units are routinely "mismanaged into squalor, trapping entire communities in an atmosphere of hopelessness, despair, and danger," according to the National Center for Neighborhood Enterprise.

The Detroit Public Housing Authority is a case in point. Listed on the federal government's "Troubled PHA List" for most of the past 15 years, it has been plagued with high vacancy rates, millions of dollars in uncollected rents, sloppy and unmonitored service contracts, careless record-keeping, bureaucratic over-staffing, poorly-maintained buildings, and a general pattern of management behavior that no private provider of rental housing could ever get away with. A 1992 paper on Detroit public housing from the Mackinac Center for Public Policy termed the situation "a scandal of the first order, and one that cries out for drastic reform."

A voucher program for public housing would provide far more freedom of choice for recipients than does the present system. Instead of tax dollars going to developers and operators for housing structures that effectively segregate the low income population from the rest of society, vouchers would allow recipients to shop in the open housing market for the site of their choice. They could supplement the voucher, if they choose, with whatever personal resources they have. If a landlord does not maintain the dwelling or provide adequate services, the tenant is not trapped; he or she can take the voucher to another building.

Vouchers would allow local contractors to rehabilitate small rental units and make them available to low income tenants. Small "rehab" companies in the private marketplace have fixed up the South Shore Bank area of Chicago, once considered an urban wasteland, in what could be a model for such entrepreneurial activity everywhere if public housing vouchers were to become federal policy. Michigan cities like Detroit could use a burst of local enterprising spirit that a scrapping of the current housing mess and its replacement with vouchers would generate.

We need not act as if only government can produce food. As defective as the federal food stamp program is, its problems pale in comparison to the scandals we'd have if the government owned and operated farms from which it raised food to parcel out to poor people in government stores.

By going to a voucher system, we would take the location decisions out of the hands of bureaucrats and put them in the hands of the tenants—eliminating the inevitable delays, endless paperwork, and needless expense that encumber the current system. We could even abolish Public Housing Authorities and not miss them for a minute.

Public housing in Michigan cities desperately needs change. If government is going to be in this business, it at least ought to use good sense. Vouchers offer us such an opportunity.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

After listening to Clem Webster's report early in the session at the country store Saturday night the fellows were full agreed if they run for public office they want Ed Barker to come up with their campaign slogans. Clem had a clipping where Barker is running for constable in Pinal county, Arizona, and his only promise is "I won't shoot your dog." He's running ads and handing fliers showing the slogan under a picture of him hugging his dog.

Clem said the platform has an honest ring to it, and that is a refreshing change in politics. The constable who wants to keep the job Barker is after did shoot a dog that was bothering his horses four years ago, and everybody in the county knows it. He thought it was a stray, but it was a pet his neighbors had been looking for. They come looking at his place just in time to see him shoot their dog, and the fuss got in the paper.

The constable says his challenger is taking unfair advantage of the situation, and with a name like Barker he ought to find another issue to hound him with. Barker says a man can't pick his name, but he chooses to be a pet killer.

Folks in Pinal county are having fun with the big issue in the campaign during these Dog Days, Clem said, and it takes their minds off taxes, jobs, services, the heat and the rest. But behind Barker's promise is a more emotional matter of people and animals. As Barker pushes his bid for constable, Clem went on, animals and how folks feel about them are in the news all over the country.

For instant, Clem saw where a man struck his arm in a cage at the Central Park Zoo in New York and a tiger ripped it off. The zoo manager said he was sorry for the man, but the tiger was just being a tiger. Besides, the tigers is an endangered species and the zoo ain't about to get rid of it. In that same paper, Clem read where a woman went to the edge of a pond to get her golf ball and an alligator bit a chunk out of her leg on a resort island in Georgia. The wildlife people shot the alligator that was just being an alligator.

General, the fellows agreed logic has no place in how people treat animals. Bug Hookum told where a driver in West Virginia was charged with cruelty to animals because he run over a mama possum and her babies. Possums are killed on roads all the time, Bug said, but a woman saw the fellow swerve to hit them and she made a court case out of it. The possum killer said all he did was get rid of a pest. Bug said at last report the judge was agreeing with him and the woman was holding press conferences about animal rights.

Actual, declared Zeke Grubb, friendship causes most problems between people and animals. It's always sad, he said, to see the 4-H children crying and hugging their calves that brought top dollar at the sale. Ma and Pa tell them it's part of life in the real world, but that doesn't ease the pain of knowing what's in the future for their friends.

Personal, I think folks at the Central Park Zoo go a little overboard. I see where they have hired a psychiatrist to treat a polar bear that is just being a polar bear. All it does is swim and eat, and they want it to play and do tricks.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

Long-time Chelsea Couple Celebrates 65th Anniversary

Martin and Alene Steinbach are proof that life together doesn't get stale after six decades.

The Chelsea couple celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary last Friday and are looking forward to many more happy years together.

The Steinbachs were married on Aug. 12, 1929 at the home of Alene's parents in Cedarville before they moved to Chelsea in the fall of that year.

The couple, with deep business and family roots in the village, have lived in the same home at 248 Harrison since August 1933.

Martin Steinbach is the former owner of Finkbeiner Lumber Co. He purchased the lumber yard in February 1949 from its namesake operator, Charles Finkbeiner.

Prior to that business venture he worked for Chelsea Lumber Co. for 15 years.

When he first arrived in town, he worked for four years at Chelsea Hardware, then owned by John Kilmer and Lewis Haaleswerdt.

Steinbach later shut down the lumber yard business and sold the property after retiring due to ill health in 1969.

Despite suffering heart problems and taking heavy medication, Martin says he is feeling revived today. "I've had bypass surgery and that really put me back on my feet again," he said.

His wife has also had an active life in Chelsea. A 1929 graduate of Michigan State Normal School (now Eastern Michigan University), she taught in rural schools and at Parker School for four years after college. She later worked as a substitute teacher before going to work full-time in the spring of 1949 at the lumber yard office with her husband.

The Steinbachs have two children, five grandsons and six great grandchildren.

Their son Raymond and his wife Alice, who reside at Cedar Lake, have two sons, Victor and David.

The Steinbachs' daughter, Connie Ann, and her husband, Roger Hoffer, live in Fort Collins, Colo. They have three sons: Phillip, and twins, Douglas and Steven.

Since retiring 25 years ago, the couple has traveled extensively, covering much of the country. They also made a special trip to Scandinavia for their 50th wedding anniversary in 1979.

Staying with Alene's relatives in Gothenberg where they visited her mother's ancestral home in Idala. They enjoyed a reception there while seeing her school and church as well.

These days, the Steinbachs, members of First Congregational Church of Chelsea, say their life revolves around several special interests. Martin enjoys tending his vegetable garden and woodworking projects while Alene stays busy with volunteer work at Chelsea Community Hospital.

New Wheat Varieties Now Available

Mendon and Lowell, two new wheat varieties developed at Michigan State University, are available for planting for the first time this fall.

Mendon is a soft red variety that averaged 86.3 bushels per acre in tests across Michigan's wheat growing region. Lowell, a soft white wheat, averaged 102.6 bushels per acre in multiple field trials in the Thumb region in 1990-92.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture Soft Wheat Quality Laboratory has given "superior" milling ratings to both varieties.

Lowell and Mendon have test weights similar to that of Augusta and have good field resistance to powdery mildew and wheat spindle streak virus.

However, both are susceptible to leaf rust and may lodge, says Larry Copeland, MSU Extension/seed specialist.

"Nonetheless, the yield potential of these varieties outweighs their liabilities, which, in fact, can be controlled by good management in the spring," Copeland says.

He says that leaf rust can be controlled with a timely application of fungicide when the disease appears, and that lodging can be controlled by reducing the amount of actual nitrogen applied in the spring.

Details about the growth characteristics of Mendon and Lowell may be obtained from Copeland by calling him at (517) 353-9545.

Information about seed availability may be obtained from the Michigan Crop Improvement Association by calling (517) 355-7438.

Shooting Memory Lingers For Chelsea School Officials

The sound of shots fired last December in school superintendent Joseph Piasecki's office still echo in Fred Mills' mind. And he doesn't think the memory will ever fade.

"It's that indelible." The assistant school superintendent, who has been with the Chelsea school district 31 years, says the shooting incident has changed his life.

"I'm not sure I can ever return to what was normal before Dec. 18. My office is exactly beside Joe's. I go there every day with certain amount of tension," he told reporters last Friday following Stephen Leith's first-degree murder conviction in Piasecki's slaying.

Mills witnessed Leith's rampage and ran through the administration building to warn others.

He believes he would have been another victim in the shooting attack had he tried to stop Leith.

"I have no doubt that I would have been next," he said. "No doubt."

For one of the shooting victims, Ron Mead, the tragedy is something he'd rather forget. In fact, most of the details surrounding the shooting itself are a blur to him now. He doesn't recall much, and what he does remember he'd rather not talk about.

But he does carry a physical reminder of the incident: metal pins inserted in his leg to help mend damage from a bullet wound he never felt.

The high school principal doesn't seem to bear a grudge against Leith. If anything, he recalls him as a "good classroom teacher" who wants the memory of his final act at the school obliterated from recollection. "I think it's time to move on."

Leith faces an automatic life prison term for the murder conviction. He will also be sentenced Sept. 1 for convictions on charges of assault with intention of doing great bodily harm and using a weapon during a felony in the wounding of Mead and English teacher Phil Jones.

It's been eight months since the shooting, but its memory is triggered each time Mills steps inside his late friend's office, he says.

"When I go in, it's a reminder of what happened. I don't think any of us will ever be the same."

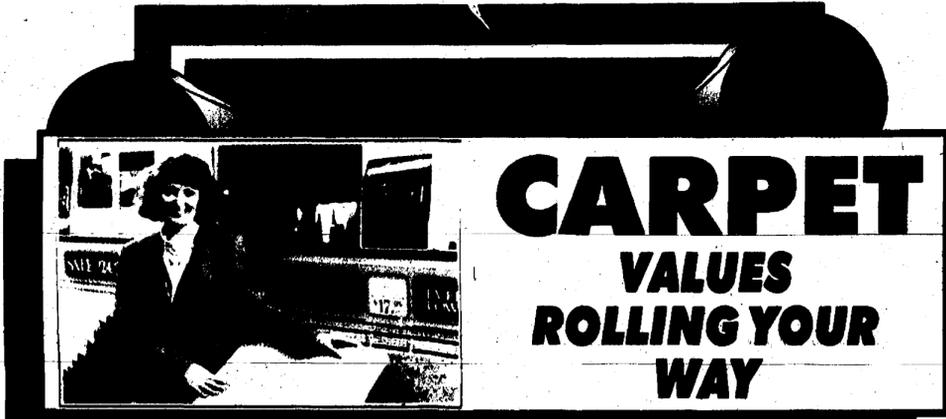

"It has made us all less open, less trusting. It has changed the way we deal with people, the way we think. It's a degree of apprehension that we didn't have before," he said.

An employee assistance program that Piasecki, ironically enough, had launched before his murder, remains in place to deal with matters like this. Student and faculty counseling will also continue, according to district spokesman Jeff Rober.

Mills says he underwent counseling "two weeks after" the shooting and continues now "every other week. I have urged some of the people here to do the same."

"Some of them, some of them haven't," he said. "It's kind of a sanity check."

Mead is one of those who isn't seeing a counselor. He just wants things to return to normal. He sees that occurring with the start of school in two weeks.

Leith Sentencing To Coincide with School Start-up

Stephen Leith's sentencing for murder and related charges in the slaying of Chelsea school superintendent Joseph Piasecki won't be hard to forget.

The Sept. 1 sentencing date is scheduled two days after district schools open on Aug. 30.

Leith will receive a mandatory life sentence for the first-degree murder conviction in Piasecki's death.

And his contract status with the district should be resolved by then.

Leith is still considered on unpaid leave from his teaching job at Chelsea High school where he was arrested following the Dec. 18 shooting.

Newly-appointed school superintendent Edward Richardson said Leith's status would be resolved when his trial ended.

However, it remains unclear whether his wife, Alice Leith, will return to teach at the high school.

She stood behind her husband throughout the trial, testifying on his behalf.

Her husband's attorney, Joseph Simon, told reporters following the verdict that Alice Leith was "devastated" by the murder conviction.

In a prepared statement she expressed her feelings about the tragedy. "I have profound sadness over the losses sustained in our school and community. I know that this has deeply affected the staff, families and so many students past and present," she wrote.

Simon praised Alice Leith for trying to get psychiatric help and attempting to intervene before the shooting.

She called Michigan Education Association officials and the school administration building shortly before her husband's rampage to warn that he was armed and potentially dangerous.

"She was never anything but a remarkable person who did everything she could to avoid this tragedy," Simon said of his client's wife.

Richardson said he expects Alice Leith to return to the district. "The status of her contract is the same as it was a year ago. She's not on trial," he said.

But even though she taught at the high school after the shooting, Simon said it might no longer be a "comfortable environment" for her.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

My husband Mike, and I are one of the four families whose building permits and zoning provisions have been revoked in Lima township. We were scheduled to start building in September, but were forced to put our builder, subcontractors and everyone else involved in the building process on hold. We were also scheduled to sell our current residence on Aug. 9, but have canceled the sale due to this unfortunate and unnecessary mess we have been dragged into. I now start back to work, outside my home because we budgeted for a home, not lawyer fees.

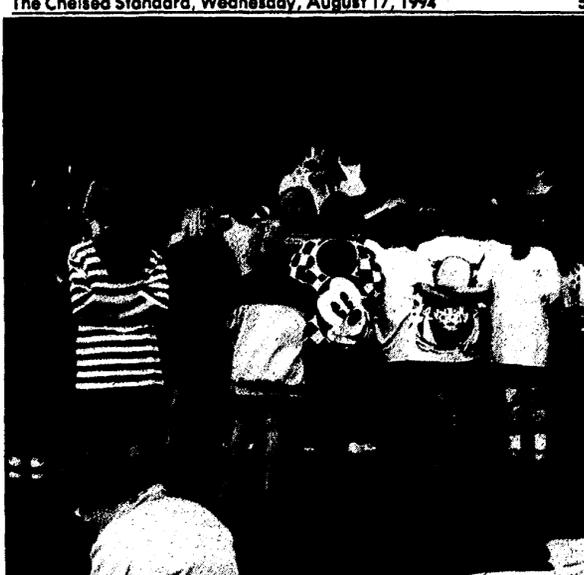

If Mr. and Mrs. Hilligoss want to retain the neighborhood's bucolic rural character by preventing residential growth on property less than 10 acres then he should have done something a long time ago. In the immediate neighborhood there are 11 homes on ONE ACRE parcels. In LIMA TOWNSHIP at least three subdivisions in the last several years have been developed with three acre parcels or LESS, all which are less than two miles from where my family will be building our new home.

Lima township officials are not using the "good old boys network" as claimed by Mr. Hilligoss in a recent article in the Ann Arbor News. They are in compliance with the Washtenaw County Planning Commission's Master Plan which since 1975 has clearly indicated that this particular area of Lima township is pre-zoned for three-acre parcels. My family now owns three acres of land that we can not farm, put animals on, or sell as a buildable lot, because it has been rezoned to a non-conforming lot. However, we must pay taxes on it.

We now start the process of straightening this mess out. Paying for all the permits the first time was bad enough, now we have to pay for the variance process, also for the new permits, even though the zoning has been approved twice.

Is this worth all this? Yes, as far as I'm concerned we have one of the most beautiful lots in the Chelsea area, heavily wooded with oak trees and most of the neighbors are great. A place I would love to live, and have our children grow up. I hope you can imagine the turmoil this has put our family through. Please search your hearts, and help us move this zoning problem through quickly.

"Men, in teaching others, learn themselves..."
—Thomas Lodge

If you have ever had the responsibility for teaching others, you know the truth of Lodge's observation. The conscientious teacher, anxious to do a good job, does significantly more preparation work before meeting his class than any of his students.

Then, in expounding upon his subject, he draws on all his knowledge to make the subject clear. He cites examples, draws illustrations, and finds his own understanding more complete. If there is a matter you don't fully comprehend, try explaining it to others. It is an excellent way to learn.

Many people pre-arrange their funeral services just as they make a will, to ensure that their wishes will be known and honored. Let us explain how this can be done.

A total of 1,860 students in grades kindergarten through twelve returned to classes in Chelsea schools when the fall term opened Sept. 6. The figure will probably increase somewhat in the next week or two as later registrations are received. The present total includes 227 students at St. Mary's parochial school; an even 1,000 elementary pupils in North and South schools; 290 in Chelsea Junior High school; and 383 at Chelsea High school.

August's provisional traffic toll of 157, exceeding by nine or seven percent the total of 123 for the month a year ago, makes it the sixth month this year in Michigan to show an increase over the comparable 1969 periods, according to the State Police. The provisional eight-month total of 946, which delayed deaths will increase, already exceeds by 57 or six percent the toll of 889 in the corresponding 1969 time.

KATRINA LUECKHARDT, age 13, showed the Junior cow at the County 4-H Youth Show. Katrina is a member of the Champion Jersey and the Grand Champion Jersey dairy of the Cloverleaf Lane 4-H Club.

Thief Steals Handicap Permit

Some people will apparently do almost anything to ensure themselves a good parking spot.

At least, that seems to be the motive behind the theft of a handicap parking permit that Raymond Clark reported taken from his car last Saturday afternoon.

While shopping at Polly's Market, 1101 S. Main St., someone entered his 1992 Bonneville and removed the parking permit from the rear view mirror, according to police.

The vehicle was unlocked at the time of the incident, the victim told police.

Presumably, the thief will have opportunity to park as conveniently as possible in handicap spaces for quite some time, because Clark's permit doesn't expire until October 1998.

Bikes Stolen

Police are investigating a rash of bicycle thefts over the past two weeks in Chelsea.

A Chelsea woman told police that someone took three mountain bicycles from an unlocked garage in the 200 block of North St. sometime between 7 p.m. last Monday and 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Two of the 26-inch bicycles included 12-speed and 3-speed women's models. The other is a men's model. The bicycles have a combined value estimated at $230.

Police said a youth had reported finding three bicycles that may have matched the stolen items. But they have yet to be recovered.

Meanwhile, police reports show another bicycle was stolen sometime between 7 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Aug. 4 outside a home in the 500 block of N. Main St. The women's mountain bicycle was valued at $107.

hirings, including the addition of Laura Atkinson as a high school health and elementary swimming instructor. She moves from part-time to full-time teaching status.

Marla Kennedy, Tom Brennan and Ann Goss were hired as classroom and special education aides, while Lauralyn Maloney and Laura Kennedy were hired as bus drivers. The hirings are all subject to preliminary background checks.

A school custodian, David Curtis, formally submitted his resignation effective Sept. 1, when he plans to retire.

Anna Hicks, a sixth grade middle school teacher, was also granted unpaid leave.

In other policy matters, the board: • Set ticket prices at $3 for varsity athletic events; $2 for junior varsity; and $1 for middle school events. Staff passes were set at $15, with pre-sale half-price discounts available. • Loaned $5,000 as a cash advance to the Chelsea Athletic Boosters for completion of a concession building. The money was approved even though officials weren't certain what building expenses it would cover.

A cow has four stomachs. That permits the animal to eat and digest feeds like grass and hay. Cattle can be thought of as walking protein factories which produce beef for humans by eating forages that we cannot consume.

INVINCIBLE EQUESTRIANS 4-H CLUB: Washtenaw County 4-H Youth Fair was July 25-29 and it was very rewarding to this club. They won a showmanship championship and placed in dressage, walk-trot, showmanship, huntseat, saddleseat, and western. There were all sorts of animals there. Three draft horses and even a mule were there! There were plenty of llamas and goats, pigs and sheep, poultry and cows, rabbits with fur that looked about a foot thick, and well, I guess that's it! And all of them were shown in one week! The weather was on our side, being pleasantly warm but not too hot, with a nice breeze. Even so, by Friday everyone, man or beast, was ready to go home. Fair was a lot of fun, though, and we are all ready to go back next year. Members of the club are, left to right, on horses, Jenny Kulp, Nancy Rich, Edin Bartimelli; standing, back row, Brooke Schalan, Susan Kulp, Dana Featherly; middle, Samantha Rich; front row, Tom Rich, Crystal Birchmeier; adult leaders, Lynn Rich, standing, and Karen Kulp, not present.

Farm Bureau Asks Congress To Clarify Pesticide Policy

Michigan Farm Bureau said that farmers continue to be impacted by the uncertainty that surrounds federal pesticide policy. "Farmers are looking for stability and predictability," said Al Almy, MFB director of public affairs. "They are looking for assurances that the tools they need to protect their crop investments will be available and safe to use."

The American Farm Bureau Federation recently testified during a Washington, D.C. hearing examining the Clinton administration's pesticide legislation. Farm Bureau has expressed disappointment in the administration's proposal, citing a lack of balance and provisions that are excessively rigid, bureaucratic and punitive.

"The benefits of pesticides accrue to all of society, not just to farmers," Almy said, "and their consideration in pesticide regulatory decisions is critical for a reasoned and coordinated policy. The benefits of pesticide use must be balanced with risks, along with the need to feed a world population that grows by nearly 100 million people every year."

He said the central question in the pesticide debate is, "How can our current food safety system be improved, without undermining what is generally viewed as successful in producing the safest and most abundant food supply in the world? Federal pesticide policy is surrounded by uncertainty: The uncertainty associated with the Delaney Clause enforcement, the uncertainty associated with the loss of minor crop pesticides, the uncertainty over this legislation," Almy said.

To ease congestion on highways and keep commuters moving quickly, Michigan is beginning to design the highways of tomorrow with its innovative Intelligent Vehicle Highway System (IVHS) in the greater Detroit area. This will be the basis of the tomorrow's "smart cars" and "smart highways". In addition, IVHS involves a co-operative effort among six states to move trucks along freeways, reducing backups and delays.

Vanpool Guide, Vans Available to Commuters

To make getting to work more affordable and convenient than ever, a new nine-passenger commuter van is being introduced to area commuters as part of the MichiVan program.

MichiVan, a state-wide commuter vanpool program sponsored by the Michigan Department of Transportation, has added the nine-passenger van to its 15-passenger van fleet to provide an option which allows smaller groups to vanpool without a substantial increase in the cost per passenger.

"Vanpooling offers commuters an opportunity to save substantially over the cost of driving alone. A vanpool passenger will spend only about the cost of their gasoline for the month, saving the costs of maintenance, insurance and parking that driving alone would require," said Lois Crawford, co-ordinator of the RideShare program of the Ann Arbor Transportation Authority, which assists commuters traveling into and within Washtenaw county in organizing vanpools and carpools.

"We are pleased that the nine-passenger vans are now available, and welcome the opportunity to work with commuters interested in forming vanpool groups for our area. We will also refer callers traveling to other destinations to the ridesharing offices in their areas for assistance in organizing vanpools, Crawford said.

The nine- and 15-passenger vans are available through VPSI, Inc., of Southfield, administrators of the MichiVan program. The well-appointed vans feature automatic transmission, power steering and brakes to facilitate safe and easy operation of the vehicles; air conditioning and heating systems, both front and rear, for the uniform comfort of all passengers; an attractive interior package to ensure a pleasant atmosphere for daily commuting; AM/FM stereo radio to provide news or music during the ride to and from work; and safety features.

Vanpool passengers share the monthly vanpool fee, gasoline and parking costs, while the vanpool driver rides free in exchange for their services as driver and co-ordinator of the vanpool. The driver also has personal use of the van evenings and week-ends.

The AATA RideShare program has developed an information kit, "MichiVan Vanpool Information Guide," to assist commuters interested in learning more about vanpooling and related support services available from RideShare.

The AATA RideShare office is accepting inquiries about vanpooling and requests for the vanpool guide at 973-6500.

Early Enrollment Urged for Pupils New to School District

Parents who will be residing in the Chelsea School District are urged to enroll their children early for the 1994-95 school year. All Chelsea students will begin the 1994-95 school year on Tuesday, Aug. 30; elementaries at 8:30, middle school at 8:30, and high school at 8:25.

All new students must comply with Michigan law regarding immunizations, and must provide the school with a record verifying that proper vaccines have been obtained.

ELEMENTARY
All school district kindergarten students should register at South school. Parents will need the child's health immunization forms, social security number, and birth certificate to register for kindergarten. All other elementary-age students can register at either North or South school on Aug. 17-18-19 from 9 to 11 a.m. and 1 to 3 p.m.

Elementary children who will be riding a bus will be placed in either North or South school depending on present student enrollments. Walkers will attend their appropriate neighborhood school, and those parents should register their children at that school.

Both North and South schools will be hosting an orientation program to welcome new students. Both schools will be hosting an orientation program on Aug. 24.

Time schedules for both elementary orientations are:

North school: Kindergarten to grade 2, 9:30 to 10:15 a.m.; Grades 3 to 5, 10:15 to 11 a.m.

South school: Kindergarten to grade 2, 12:30 to 1:15 p.m. Grades 3 to 5, 1:15 to 2 p.m.

MIDDLE SCHOOL

Sixth grade students should plan to report directly to the school cafeteria, where they will be introduced to their first-hour teachers who will, in turn, escort them to their classrooms. Seventh and eighth grade students will report to their class schedules and then report to their first-hour classes.

Students should plan to arrive at school between 8:15 and 8:25 a.m. First-hour classes will begin at 8:30 a.m.

Families new to the Chelsea School District may wish to enroll their middle school students on Aug. 17, 18 and 19 from 9 a.m. until 11 a.m., and from 1 p.m. until 3 p.m. Patricia Compton will be available to answer questions and to register new students at Beach school.

The middle school principal will review the parent/student handbook on the first few days of school. A copy of the handbook will be sent home with policies and operational procedures at Beach school.

HIGH SCHOOL

Parents and students are asked to report to the high school office to pick up and complete registration forms and scheduling information as soon as possible so that records can be requested from the former school. All new students must meet with a counselor on Aug. 17, 18 or 19 to establish a schedule for the 1994-95 school year. Please call on Aug. 15 or 16 to set up an appointment. After Aug. 18, counseling appointments may be arranged through the counseling office secretary, Jan Sweet.

Any new student interested in athletics should be aware that fall practice begins Aug. 15. Likewise, new students interested in band should be aware that band camp will be held from Aug. 22 through Aug. 25.

The first day of school for all students will be Tuesday, Aug. 30. All high school students should report by 8:25 for a brief orientation in advisory groups before reporting to classes. All current students will be receiving a letter with more detailed information.

BEKAH KNIGHT, 15, the daughter of John and Lexa O'Brien and Phil and Linda Knight, is being sponsored in the pageant by the Chelsea High school sophomore class. Bekkah, a talented singer, has earned several vocal soloist honors. She was named vocal soloist winner for an honor's choir performing at Western Michigan University, and was selected to attend Interlochen's musical theater program. Bekkah is a member of two choirs, the high school improvement team and serves as class vice-president. She has done volunteer work at Chelsea Community Hospital, sings in her church choir, and worked at various booths during the fair. Bekkah lists singing, dancing and sketching as her main interests.

JEANINE MOUILLESEAU, 16, the daughter of Rochelle Mouilleseaux, Michael and Margaret Mouilleseaux, is being sponsored in the pageant by the Chelsea High school junior class. An honor roll student, Jeanine was named last year to Who's Who in American Students. She was also selected a member of the All-Area Girl's soccer team. A member of the Spanish Club, a JV cheerleader, Jeanine enjoys theater, performing in high school productions and as a member of the Chelsea Area Player's Theater Workshop. Jeanine lists jazz dancing, writing and piano as among her varied interests.

Judges Face Difficult Task in Queen Pageant

Judges for the upcoming Chelsea Fair Queen competition will have a difficult job choosing a winner between this year's crop of candidates.

All 12 contestants boast active resumes in school and community activities. And they all shine in one or more of their chosen endeavors.

Over the past two weeks, we have featured each of the contestants. And we conclude that coverage today with profiles of Amanda Lee Johnson, Bekkah Knight, Jeanine Mouilleseaux and Heather Gunnis.

The Fair Queen pageant will open with talent judging and contestant interviews next Monday, the first day of fair week.

The talent portion of the contest will be staged at 7 p.m. at the Chelsea High school auditorium. The event is free and open to the public.

Contestants will take part in other fair-related activities throughout the week before a winner is crowned on Aug. 28 during ceremonies at the Multi-purpose Arena.

Great Balls of Fire Undefeated for Year

Great Balls of Fire softball team of the fifth and sixth grade Junior Miss League created a lot of excitement on the local ball fields this summer during their run to an undefeated league season.

Members of the team had a fun-filled season of practicing, singing their team theme song, "Great Balls of Fire," getting energy from sun-flower seeds, and most importantly playing softball. The girls all worked hard in the pre-season on the fundamentals of the game which clearly showed during their performance in games throughout the season.

The team met many challenges during the season, coming from behind several times to preserve their perfect record. The girls used teamwork, enthusiasm and their talent to provide a fun filled season for themselves and their parents.

Lindsey was the name of the game when it came to pitching for the team, with Lindsey Brink, Lindsay Powers, and Lindsey Baker providing outstanding performances on the mound.

Throughout the season seven girls (not all named Lindsey) shared pitching duties for the team.

Sara Mossburg led the team in hitting with a .780 batting average, while Jennifer Dising had the best slugging percentage, leading the team in home runs and triples.

Leading the team with solid infield play were Shelly Clemons, Ashley Augustine, Ann Larder, Chris Bro-shar, and Emily Royce. The team was led in the outfield by Danielle Patt, Cattie Boshoven, Elisabeth Fusco, and Melinda Newhouse.

Several key moments punctuated the team's performance this year, including several occasions of Brink, Powers, and Baker striking out the side to shut-down-opponents' rallies, Augustine's game-saving catch late in the season to preserve a win, and Dising's big, game winning home run early in the year.

With this kind of talent, local ball fields should see a lot of exciting softball for years to come.

There's nothing like a hole-in-one to improve your spirits and outlook on life—not to mention your golf game.

John Dancer of Stockbridge found that out last Wednesday when he aceed a six-iron shot on the par three fifth hole at nearby Iverness Country Club.

Participating in the club's weekly senior men's scramble, Dancer's arching shot 141 yards to the pin and cup was witnessed by three others in their foursome. They included Bob Wilbanks, Silver Lake, Marv Baker, Dexter, and Tom Elsele, Chelsea.

For Dancer, a longtime club member, the ace was his first ever, coming more than 40 years after he started playing golf.

According to a club spokesman, there have been a few holes-in-one on the club's two par 3 holes (Nos. 5 and 7) over the years. But Dancer's is only "the second one" this season.

There was no immediate word on whether the ace improved Dancer's usual score.

But we're guessing he'll never forget the round no matter what he shot when it ended.

But we're guessing he'll never forget the round no matter what he shot when it ended.

There's nothing like a hole-in-one to improve your spirits and outlook on life—not to mention your golf game.

John Dancer of Stockbridge found that out last Wednesday when he aceed a six-iron shot on the par three fifth hole at nearby Iverness Country Club.

Participating in the club's weekly senior men's scramble, Dancer's arching shot 141 yards to the pin and cup was witnessed by three others in their foursome. They included Bob Wilbanks, Silver Lake, Marv Baker, Dexter, and Tom Elsele, Chelsea.

For Dancer, a longtime club member, the ace was his first ever, coming more than 40 years after he started playing golf.

According to a club spokesman, there have been a few holes-in-one on the club's two par 3 holes (Nos. 5 and 7) over the years. But Dancer's is only "the second one" this season.

There was no immediate word on whether the ace improved Dancer's usual score.

Correspondence was received from the Michigan Department of Transportation, dated July 20, 1994, regarding the proposed bypass of M-62 in Chelsea. The Department will be undertaking signalization improvements which will have a beneficial impact on the traffic congestion. Additionally, the letter states that based upon traffic volumes north and south of the Village, it is apparent that most of the 30,000 vehicles using M-62 have local origins and destinations within the Village, with very few through trips. In their opinion, the proposed bypass alignment would not attract a significant portion of the traffic currently using M-62. As such, the department has determined that participation in the cost of this facility would not be a cost-effective use of state fundline funds.

Motion by Hammer, supported by Rigg, to go into Closed Session to discuss Village Manager and Assistant Village Manager evaluations. All Ayes. Motion carried. Time: 8:50 p.m.

CHELSEA SCHOOL DISTRICT BUS TRANSPORTATION SCHEDULE

The Transportation Department of the Chelsea School District will again operate special education and kindergarten routes in addition to 22 regular bus routes. Kindergarten noon bus runs begin the second week of school. The bus schedules for kindergarten students will be published in The Chelsea Standard the first week of school.

The exciting news is that the 1994-95 bus routes have undergone several needed changes. Much time has been spent working with the mapping computer program to streamline bus routes. Many changes reflect population growth or better time efficiency.

The District's Transportation Department follows the laws of the State of Michigan and the policies of the Board of Education. Bus drivers conduct evacuation drills three times during the school year at the bus garage in the morning prior to the children being taken to their school. Each driver is properly licensed, attends inservices for continual training during the school year, and is CPR and first-aid certified.

All of the District's buses have two-way radios for communication between buses and the bus garage. The radio provides a means of locating a child who may have boarded the wrong bus, reporting mechanical difficulties, and telephone communication through the bus garage to parents or others when needed.

Chelsea's bus drivers will send home to each family, within the first couple of days of school, a copy of the bus regulations. Please review these with your child(ren) and complete the bottom portion and return to the bus driver. The information provides a way to reach parents before and after the schools are open (before 8:00 A.M. and after 3:30 P.M.) when children are traveling to and from school.

Robin Melton, Transportation Supervisor, encourages and welcomes comments and questions regarding the district's bus service. She can be reached at (313) 475-7647.

The following is a listing of our regular bus routes. The approximate morning pick-up times are listed for the roads that the buses are picking up students. Roads listed without a time are travel roads. TA means turn around. Inclement weather and road conditions can alter route times.

Dr. Handelsman Named V-P of Medical Affairs At Chelsea Hospital

Willard H. Johnson, president of Chelsea Community Hospital, has announced the appointment of Lawrence Handelsman, M.D., as vice-president of medical affairs.

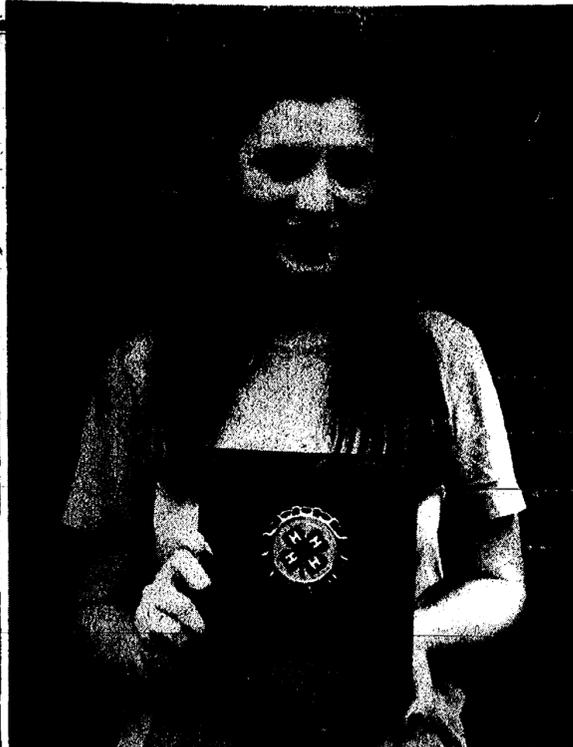

Dr. Handelsman is a native of New York State and a graduate of the University of Rochester. Following his medical school training at the State University of New York in Syracuse, he spent two years doing his internship and serving in the United States Public Health Service. Dr. Handelsman then came to Michigan to enter the University of Michigan Residency Program in Physical Medicine & Rehabilitation. Upon completion of this training in 1976, he became a member of the University of Michigan faculty and began his relationship at Chelsea Community Hospital as a consultant.

In 1980, he left the University of Michigan to establish an inpatient rehabilitation service at Chelsea Community Hospital, which he directed until 1987. In 1986, he and Dr. Brian Chodoroff established the state's first comprehensive outpatient rehabilitative program for management of those suffering with back, neck, and related disorders. This interdisciplinary program has been recognized by patients, employers, and insurance companies for its record of precision in diagnosis, management of complex problems, and developing their patients' independence in managing their symptoms. Dr. Handelsman will continue as the director of Chelsea Back Care and as medical director of the Hospital's Rehabilitation Services

LAWRENCE HANDELSMAN, M.D. and the Brain Injury Day Treatment Program.

As vice-president of medical affairs, Dr. Handelsman will be responsible for enhancing communication among physicians, hospital administration, and board of directors, and ensuring physician input into the hospital's continuing initiative to measurably improve quality while most effectively managing its resources. "Our excellent medical staff and hospital leaders working together with our local communities, can create a local health care system which is responsive to new economic and political realities, while maintaining Chelsea's tradition of high quality and cost efficient service in a friendly, comfortable setting."

ALLISON PAUL SHOWS OFF her best of show award won at recent 4-H Youth Council for International Citizenship. Allison's family is the first in Chelsea to ever participate in an International 4-H Foreign Exchange Program. She may visit Japan next year under the program.

Ann Veling Joins in Summer Youth Program

Ann Veling of Chelsea recently participated in Michigan Technological University's 19th annual Summer Youth Program. She was among approximately 1,000 junior and senior high school students attending this summer's sessions. Each student had the opportunity to participate in one of 60 week-long explorations. Program design focuses on career exploration and development of new skills through laboratory, classroom and field experiences.

Veling is the daughter of Rhona Lee and Thomas Veling of Chelsea. She is a sophomore at Clonlara Campus High school.

Candlelight Vigil Set For Homeless Animals

In 1993, approximately 9 million dogs and cats were killed in shelters across the country. These animals were killed because they were homeless—abandoned, cast off by their owners, or were lost. Over 4,000 animals were euthanized at HSHV alone last year. Many of these animals were healthy, young, and perfectly suitable to be life-long friends and companions to someone.

Each of these animals bears testament to the enormity of human apathy and the urgent need by those of us who care to shed light on the oldest animal abuse that we know of today—pet overpopulation.

On Saturday, Aug. 20, the Humane Society of Huron Valley (HSHV) will hold a candlelight vigil in honor of national "Homeless Animals Day." The Society invites the public and all HSHV "Alumni pets" to come to the shelter on 3100 Cherry Hill Rd., Ann Arbor, at 9 p.m. to light a candle in commemoration of the animals who gave up their lives to show respect for the caring people who work in animal shelters across the country.

Special guest speakers will be Ann Arbor mayor Ingrid Sheldon, and president of the HSHV board of directors Joseph Burke.

For a $1 donation, each participant will receive a candle inscribed with the name of an animal who never found a home in the last year. The lighting of candles will be at 9:30 p.m. Each of these lives deserves validation, remembrance, and more importantly, commitment on our part to solve the crisis which took their lives. Michigan Teachers May Resign From MEA Only in August

By Leslie Carbone
Mackinac Center Director of Communications
August is a critical month for Michigan teachers and their civil rights.

The Michigan Education Association plans to assess on its members a fee to finance an "Image/Crisis Fund," but teachers and others who exercise their Constitutional rights to freedom of speech and association by resigning from the union in August may avoid paying the fee, according to the Mackinac Center for Public Policy, a Midland-based research and educational organization.

The fee, $90 for full-time educators, pro-rated for others, and to be paid over three years, is scheduled to begin in September. Says Central Michigan University accounting professor Robert Bromley, himself involved in a Constitutional rights case with the MEA, "I am amazed that they would do something like this, and I urge members who are opposed to this to resign." Professor Bromley's case involves his protest of the use of his dues money for the propagation of political views with which he disagrees.

The U.S. Supreme Court has ruled that public sector workers cannot be forced to pay for union activities other than collective bargaining. In a 1991 case involving several Michigan faculty members, Lehnert v. Ferris Faculty Association, the Court explicitly cited public relations activities as among those for which workers cannot be compelled to pay.

To avoid paying the "Image/Crisis" fee and all others not directly related to collective bargaining, MEA members must resign from the union. The MEA imposes a rule that prohibits members from resigning at any time other than during the month of August.

Although Supreme Court decisions protect the right of private sector workers right to resign at any time, no such protection exists for public sector workers. Their right to resign is recognized, but unions may place time restrictions on it.

Says Mackinac Center director of communications Leslie Carbone, "It isn't right that Michigan teachers face restrictions on their Constitutional rights when those limitations don't apply to private sector workers. Teachers should be free to exercise their rights to free speech and association all year long, just like private sector workers."

Teachers do, however, have the right not to join a union in the first place. Non-members who choose not to pay for activities unrelated to collective bargaining also have the right to an accounting of union expenditures and to dispute the cost of collective bargaining fees as presented by the union.

McKUNE MEMORIAL LIBRARY NEW BOOK LIST

The following books are new additions to the children's collection at McKune Memorial Library. A general age range or grade level recommendation for each book is provided.

"Bea and Mr. Jones," by Amy Schwartz. Bea is fed up with kindergarten and her dad can't take his job for one more day, so they trade places with hilarious consequences. (Pre-school to 2nd grade.)
"Dakota Dream," by James Bennett. Floyd Rayfield knows he can no longer live among the white man. He must escape to a place where he can seek his vision—his courage, drive and determination will not soon be forgotten. (12 years and up.)
"Dear Peter Rabbit," by Alma Flor Ada. When Peter Rabbit is invited to a house-warming party by one of the Three Little Pigs, a behind-the-scenes adventure unfolds. (Pre-school to 2nd grade.)

"Dear World," by Lannis Temple. How children around the world feel about our environment. (All ages.)
"Juliet's Story," by William Trevor. A charming, timeless fantasy about the power of storytelling in County Tipperary and a French village by the sea. (4th to 8th grades.)
"Lindbergh," by Chris L. Demarest. Illustrated with evocative watercolors, this book describes Charles Lindbergh's childhood in Minnesota, his youthful obsession with gadgets and machines, and his love of speed and daring. (Kdg-3rd grade.)

"Little Farm in the Ozarks," by Roger Lea MacBride. The Little House books continue with The Rocky Ridge Years books that tell the story of Laura and Almanzo Wilder's daughter, Rose, as she and her parents settle into a new life at the farm. (4th grade and up.)

"Willie Bea and the Time the Martians Landed," by Virginia Hamilton. This Halloween day in 1938 was destined to be different for the Wing and Mills families because it was the day of the Orson Wells broadcast that would terrify people across the country. (4th grade and up.)

The following books are recent additions to the non-fiction collection at McKune Memorial Library.

"At the Speed of Life," by Gay Hendricks, Ph.D. A new approach to personal change through body-centered therapy.

"Songs from the Mountain," by Djohariah Toor. A book for everyone who has wounds that will not heal, relationships that won't behave, and self-limiting attitudes that have defied change.

"The Lessons of Love," by Melody Beatie. Rediscover your passion for life when it all seems too hard to take.

A menu poll conducted by Restaurants & Institutions magazine revealed that sandwiches comprise 50 percent of all restaurant lunches and 30 percent of all dinners. The cheeseburger is ranked the No. 1 sandwich in institutional operations and the No. 2 seller in commercial operations.

Potawatomi Land Trust Plans Annual Membership Meeting

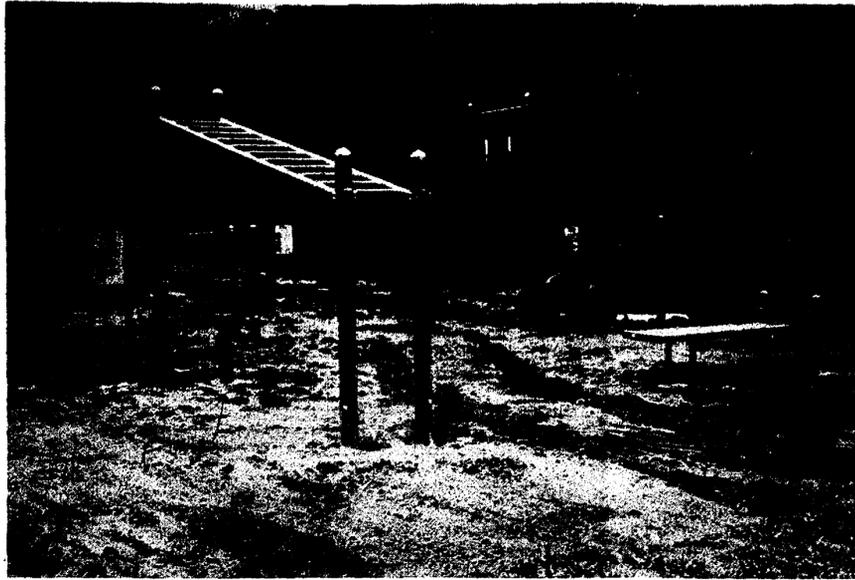

Potawatomi Land Trust is inviting the public to its annual Membership Meeting, to be held Tuesday, Sept. 13 from 8 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. at 310 S. Ashley St., Ann Arbor.

PLT was formed in 1989 to work toward the preservation of farmland, open space and natural areas in Washtenaw county. PLT's primary goal is called a conservation easement, where a landowner donates an interest in his or her property (usually all or some portion of the development rights) in perpetuity. The land trust then ensures that the agreement is upheld through annual monitoring.

Since PLT is a tax-exempt, non-profit corporation, these donations are eligible for tax deductibility. The land trust is currently working out protection plans for six properties around the county.

The meeting will feature the executive director's annual report, a vote on changes to PLT's organizational structure and board member elections.

Anyone interested in land conservation, community organizing, farmland preservation or natural areas protection is welcome to attend, but only members will be able to vote. Refreshments will be served at the meeting's conclusion.

NEW PLAYGROUND EQUIPMENT was installed at South school last week and is ready for school opening. The Parent-Teacher group (PTS) felt the need for additional equipment for some time and was finally able to finance the project. Included are slides for the lower age group and a fitness/workout center on the upper elementary playground.

The fitness area was donated by Chelsea Community Hospital through Project Fit America. The PTS portion of the project is the result of many fund raising events in the last few years. Many parents, teachers and children volunteered equipment and time to complete the project.

JOE MERKEL with his tractor and Doug Welshans with his power shovel contributed their time and equipment in preparing the base for erection of new playground equipment at South school last week. Doug Worthington, shown with Merkel, assisted in the project as a parent volunteer.

Sandy Castle Is Employee of Month For BookCrafters

At the time of her nomination, Sandy's co-workers made it known how important she is to the company.

Sandy and her husband, Rick, live in Stockbridge, where they recently built a new home. In her spare time, Sandy enjoys fishing, bowling, and taking care of her new Doberman puppy, Dillon.

Foreign Exchange Student On Goodwill Mission

Emi Ishizaki is a world away from her home in Yokkaichi City, Japan. It's also light years away from Chelsea in terms of population and pace of life.

But for Emi, 14, a foreign exchange student visiting with Jim and Nancy Paul and their four children, her stay in the country this month is more than a cultural adventure.

It's a diplomatic mission as well. Last week, Emi met with Village Council president Richard Steals to personally deliver a letter of goodwill from the mayor of Yokkaichi City, Kanashi Kato.

In the letter, the mayor makes clear Ishizaki's role as more than just a tourist.

"I am sure she will play an important role as a goodwill ambassador in your fair city. I greatly appreciate any assistance you might be able to provide her during her stay," the mayor writes.

"Lastly, this message arrives with my best wishes for continued international understandings."

Yokkaichi City, west of Tokyo, is a city of some 250,000 people, a population dwarfing this farming hamlet of 3,500.

But even if her stay in Chelsea has represented a slice of small town American life in the slow lane, jokes Nancy Paul, it's still a rich experience.

And for the raven haired teenager with pigtails the trip has been fun if not entirely educational. She enjoyed the recent 4-H Youth Show that showcased exhibits by members of her host family, including an international citizen best of show award for Allison Paul.

She also went on a camping trip to Canada and was set to go on another in northern Michigan before departing next Monday.

Because of her limited English, Emi finds it difficult to communicate answers to many questions about her impressions of Chelsea, and her expectations of life here before arriving.

But she offers a beaming smile when asked about movies she's seen. She saw "Forest Gump" and "The Mask," listing the comedy starring Jim Carey as her favorite.

Even if it's been hard for the family to communicate with Emi, Allison says they've enjoyed her visit.

And there's the possibility Allison and the rest of the Paul family could make a return trip to Emi's home in the future. Such a visit by Allison through the auspices of the 4-H International Exchange Program and Labo International Exchange Foundation in Japan is still uncertain.

The cost of the trip could make it prohibitive, says Nancy Paul. But, of course, her daughter still wants to go. "I would like to. I don't know yet," she says.

Rachel Mead Attends Classes at Manchester College

If you didn't have to go to school during the summer, would you?

Rachel Mead of Chelsea jumped at the chance. She just returned from a two-week Mindpower '94 academic program at Manchester College in North Manchester, Ind.

The program offered to gifted and talented students entering seventh through ninth grades, provides a varied and challenging curriculum for participants.

Rachel, who attended the program from July 24-Aug. 5, chose among classes in fabric design, electronics, writing and French cuisine and others for her course of study.

Students stay on campus and take part in planned recreational and social activities during their stay.

Rachel is the daughter of Marilyn and Ron Mead, Chelsea High school principal.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE STUDENT EMI Ishizaki, who has spent the past month in Chelsea visiting with Allison Paul (back, right), and her family has found a slower pace of life compared to the bustling energy of her hometown, Yokkaichi City, Japan, whose population totals more than 250,000.

Emily Danforth Attends College Program

Beach Middle school eighth grader Emily Danforth skipped high school and went directly to college this summer.

She was among some 512 students participating in one of four two-week sessions of MacMurray College's Prairie Scholars program in Jacksonville, Ill.

The program, designed for high academic achievers, offers courses aimed at enhancing intellectual growth on subjects ranging from art to creative problem-solving.

During her July 10-23 stay, Emily took classes in Japanese bookmaking, physics and others. She also took part in social activities that included dances and skating parties.

To qualify for the scholars program, students must be nominated by a teacher or principal based on high achievement testing and/or demonstrate outstanding academic or creative abilities.

Emily is the daughter of Robert and Jean Danforth.

MacMurray College has offered the academic program for gifted students since 1981. The 148-year-old college, a private liberal arts school, is affiliated with the United Methodist Church.

Banners Proposed for Business Promotion

Chelsea travel agent Joy Lietz thinks it's a banner idea to promote harmony in village business. And she wants to use lamppost banners to help do it.

Appearing before the Chelsea Village Council last Tuesday, the owner of Uniglobe Chelsea Travel Inc., 1070 S. Main, presented her informal proposal for village backing.

Lietz, a Chamber of Commerce director, asked council to consider helping fund and install "Welcome to Chelsea" banners along M-52 near main businesses.

Ideally, she said, the banners would be posted from I-94 along S. Main to the intersection of Old US-12.

Banners promoting the "Chelsea Farmer's Market" and summer "Concerts in the Park" now adorn lampposts leading to the downtown business area.

"We need to tie-in the business districts," she said. "We're hoping to have them up by next summer."

Assuming the project went forward, there is still some question where the banners would be posted, because there are no lampposts south of the M-52 and Old US-12 intersection.

If that issue is resolved, Lietz estimated the cost for printing, pole hardware and installation would run about $150 per banner. She said she would like to begin by installing two. That modest number, she said, would be a "minimum" and "shouldn't be hard to collect" for from other mail merchants.

"Ultimately, we'd like to have several, so it would be noticeable."

Noting that other communities and large cities use banners in similar fashion to brighten thoroughfares and promote events, she says getting village support would make the project easier to sell.

"I was representing the (chamber) board more than business owners" in making the request," she said, "because I haven't talked to them yet."

Specifically, she asked whether the village might lend use of a hydraulic crane or "cherry picker" truck for banner installation and split over-all banner costs.

Council took no formal action on her request.

Councilman Joe Markez suggested the village might lend the vehicle for installation, but said even that was "subject to change."

The proposal was placed under review for sign regulation and other considerations.

Despite its wait-and-see position, Lietz was optimistic the council will back her plan. "Hopefully, the village can help us pull the business districts together," she said.

There are 3,766 carpools and vans serving 12,148 passengers through the organized rideshare programs. This reduced the number of vehicles on Michigan roadways, and saved an estimated 5,712 parking spaces. The reduction in the number of vehicles on the roads also provided a savings of 2,868,271 vehicle trips, reducing 1,710 tons of atmospheric pollutants.

CHELSEA BATON CORPS members presented their "Great Balls of Fire" routine Sunday evening at the Concert in the Park program. This was the final concert of the year for the season. The programs were presented by Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce and the Chelsea Recreation Department. Jeff VanRiper acted as master of ceremonies for the programs and H. K. Leonard made arrangements with the musical groups.

DAVE POWERS of Brighton brought his Elvis Show to Chelsea's Concert in the Park Sunday evening. And a fantastic show he did present! Some 400-500 spectators roared their approval as he worked through the crowd and atop picnic tables with his remote microphone.

CHELSEA VILLAGE COUNCIL PRESIDENT Richard Steele shares goodwill message from the mayor of Yokkaichi City with his envoy, foreign exchange student Emi Ishizaki, while her friend and 4-H host, Allison Paul, looks on.

HONORS AT BAND CLINIC: Amy Oake, Kim Schmell and Tracy Dufek, left to right above, who are captains of this year's Chelsea High School Colorguard, attended the Fred J. Miller Band Clinic earlier this summer. Besides learning exciting new flag routines, they attended motivational sessions and classes on choreography, and leadership skills. At the end of camp the Chelsea team received the "Most Spirit" award which is the highest award given. This award is for the team that works hardest, helps others and has the most positive attitude. Tracy Dufek also won one of the "Most Outstanding Flagperson" awards. This makes her eligible to compete for a $1,000 academic scholarship this fall given by the Fred J. Miller Clinics.

Chelsea Family Hosts Japanese Visitor Under 4-H Program

A Japanese exchange student is getting a brief taste of American life while visiting Chelsea this month.

Emi Ishizaki, 14, is staying with Jim and Nancy Paul's family in Chelsea through Aug. 22 as part of the 4-H International Exchange Program.

She is one of several foreign students participating in the exchange program as guests of Washtenaw county 4-H families. Students from Norway and Belize stayed earlier this summer in Ann Arbor with 4-H hosts.

For Emi, the visit is literally the chance of a lifetime. In Japan, the demand for participation in cultural exchange programs is so great the waiting list is almost impossible to crack. Many families try to sign up their kids before birth.

In Emi's case, her family signed her up at a young age so she'd be eligible as a member of the LABO Youth Program. LABO exposes Japanese youth to American culture and the English language.

The program's chief aim is to stimulate cultural awareness and improve global co-operation by sharing every day family life, county 4-H youth agent Janet Nagele said.

There is also a built-in benefit. Members of host families have the opportunity to make reciprocal visits to their guest's country under the program.

Nancy Paul says Emi is enjoying her visit. She traveled to Ontario, Canada for a family camping vacation, the first time she'd ever been camping.

Despite her exposure to English, Emi has had difficulty communicating because of her limited knowledge of the language, Nancy Paul said.

"We're dealing with a language barrier that prevents a lot of questions," she added.

Author Will Tell Rotary Club About Her Books

The author of three recently published books about Michigan Governors and their First Ladies will speak to members of the Rotary Club of Chelsea at their noon meeting, Aug. 23, at the Common Grill.

Willah Weddon, Stockbridge, will relate some of her discoveries while writing the books, according to Kathleen Chapman, program chairman for the Rotary Club.

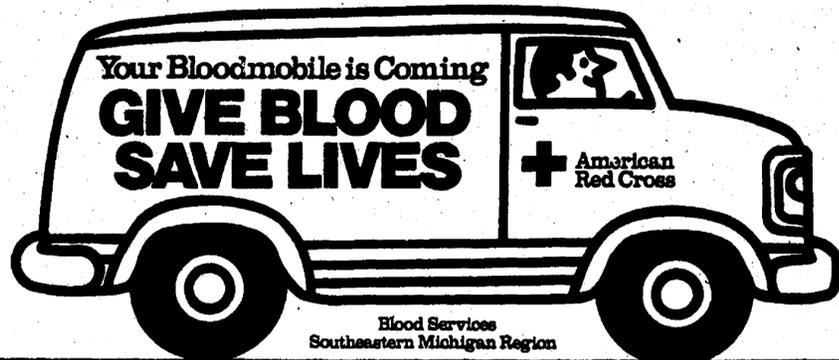

"First Ladies of Michigan" is an enlarged second edition of a book Mrs. Weddon wrote in 1977. It starts with Elizabeth Cass, wife of Territorial Governor Lewis Cass and concludes with a chapter on Michelle Engler. During her research, Mrs. Weddon located previously unpublished material and photographs of the wives of Michigan's Governors. There are also chapters about the three women lieutenant governors.

"Michigan Governors: Their Life Stories," is about the governors from boyhood to manhood. "Michigan Governors Growing Up," is for young readers and presents some little known facts about the state's leaders when they were youngsters.

Weddon will describe some difficulties she had in locating relatives and descendants of the first families. She also discovered some interesting facts that had not received publicity, because in the old days the press did not report personal items as it does today.

All three books were published by NOG Press in Lansing and will be available for autographing following the luncheon.
