ONE HUNDRED TWENTY-THIRD YEAR—No. 15

CHELSEA, MICHIGAN, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 31, 1994

22 Pages This Week

Melody Smith Chosen Community Fair Queen

No one was more surprised than Melody Ann Smith when her name was called last Friday as winner of the 1994 Community Fair Queen pageant.

It certainly wasn't something she was counting on when she entered the pageant, she said.

"I was really surprised. I just didn't expect to hear my name. I didn't think it would be," she said.

Queen pageant organizer Sally Heil can vouch for that. Heil said that Melody sent her a thank you note after the contest, telling her she had planned to continue entering until she was no longer eligible. "She said she was going to do this until she was a senior."

"I was absolutely thrilled for her. This is a fair program. And I can think of no better spokesperson," said the six-year pageant director.

When asked by pageant judges what she had contributed to this year's fair, Smith noted that she'd entered a number of pieces of art work.

As part of her talent performance, she sang the show tune, "Wouldn't it Be Lovely," from "My Fair Lady."

At 14, Smith, whose entry was sponsored by the Chelsea High school freshman class, is one of the youngest contestants to ever win the pageant.

Another 14-year-old freshman winner was Laurie Kay Honbaum, reigning Miss Redford township, who served as mistress of Friday's pageant ceremonies at the fair-ground's Main Arena.

Yet, despite her age, Smith had family experience to fall back on during the pageant, Heil said.

"She knows the ropes," she noted, pointing out that Melody's sisters had previously entered as fair queen contestants.

The event marked the passing of the crown from last year's winner, Amie Hatch, to Smith.

First runner-up was Jennifer Briggs, 17, a senior at Dexter High school, who also won the pageant's talent competition with her singing of the Trisha Yearwood hit, "That's What I Like About You."

Second runner-up was Bekah Knight, a 15-year-old high school sophomore and third runner-up was 16-year-old junior Jeanine Mouilleseaux.

Andrea Laszyca, 14, was named Miss Congeniality by pageant judges.

With her selection, Smith also earns a $500 scholarship from the fair board payable to the school of her choice after graduation. She also received a trophy from Uniglobe Travel plus some $400 in jewelry and gift certificates from merchants in Chelsea and Dexter.

Melody, the daughter of Michael and Clara Smith of Chelsea, will not have long to celebrate her title. Like other kids, she went back to school Tuesday.

And as a freshman, it was first day of classes at the high school.

She doesn't expect that her new duties as fair queen will change her in any way or alter the way her friends treat her. "No, not really. I'm still myself," she said.

A cheerleader since the sixth grade, Smith has been an honor roll student who has won a Top 10 student award from 1991-1994.

She has also participated in band and orchestra, and plans to continue a busy schedule in high school.

Among her goals this year, she said, are continuing her honor roll status in the classroom, running track and trying out for the high school basketball cheerleader squad.

As fair queen, Smith will next represent Chelsea at the upcoming Saline Fair. She will also take part in the community's Christmas tree-lighting ceremonies later this year, as well as attend other ceremonial events and activities.

"I get to go to various meetings and appearances at grand openings. And next year, I get to crown the queen."

While you might think there was some jealousy among this year's record 12 pageant contestants, Smith said that wasn't the case at all. She said they all became close friends, and didn't want the pageant activities to end.

"I made 11 new friends. We wanted to see each other every day. We didn't want it to end."

And really, it won't since they can continue their friendship in high school. "We'll all be excited to see each other" all the time, she said.

Fair Attendance, Sale Set New High Records With Good Weather

Chelsea Community Fair officials say attendance during the fair's five-day run last week may exceed 35,000, nearing last year's record number.

Although no official gate counts are kept, officials rely on cash receipts to ascertain attendance.

"It's the biggest (fair) ever," said former fair board president Bill Stoffer, who presided as grand marshal of Saturday's fair parade.

The retired farmer and fair director, who has been connected with the fair for some 18 years, says the 57th annual event ran without any significant problems.

"Everything went smooth. The weather was great," he said.

One of the few problems, fair officials encountered was totaling up final figures from last Thursday's livestock sale after bidding ended.

But even there, officials expect receipts to show a new record in total livestock sales, topping the previous high of $91,000 set two years ago.

Stoffer said there were more floriculture and produce exhibits on display than in recent years. His wife, Betty and daughter, Tracy, served as superintendents of the floriculture department this year.

"We had many different (produce and flower exhibits) and more than usual because of the rain (this summer)," he added.

There were also more hobbies on display, according to Stoffer. "We had seven tables of 'Legos' exhibits alone."

Fairgoers once again flocked to the fair's traditional popular events, the demolition derby and tractor pulls.

The four-wheel drive pull drew drivers from Canada, Indiana and Ohio, Stoffer said.

While the fair is over for another year, the work is just beginning for treasurer Mark Stapish, who is charged with reconciling all the figures.

"It takes more work after, than during or before," Stapish said of his job.

He expects to conclude his number crunching in late September. But preliminary figures indicate that between 33,000 and 35,000 came through fair gates. "We're just slightly above the record," he said.

Stoffer said fair volunteers always look forward to the event. But with all the energy expended putting it on, they are glad it's just one week out of the year.

But a fair director's work is really never done, because planning for next year's event resumes shortly.

In the past, said Stoffer, he and other fair board members used to fill seven or more pages with notes on problems and recommendations for improving the fair.

"Now we're down to one or two, so we must be getting down to what the fair should be," he said.

If he recalls nothing else about this year's fair, it will be the memory of his ride as parade marshal. "It was a great experience," he said.

State Funds Sought for Road

Village officials are hoping to obtain more than $500,000 in funding from the state Department of Transportation to finance the upgrading of Sibley Rd.

The funding is being sought under the department's Transportation Economic Development Fund for Category A road projects.

The village wants to upgrade Sibley to an all-season road without weight restrictions beginning next spring.

But it's expected to cost $677,414 to rebuild the road to those standards, according to Village manager Jack Myers.

Under state funding for such a project, Chelsea could be eligible to receive up to 80 percent funding.

Earlier this month, Myers submitted an application for nearly $542,000 in state money. Should it receive that amount, Chelsea would have to finance $135,483 of project costs.

The village also expects to receive $8,000 in funding from the Washtenaw county Road Commission.

Currently, the village and road commission have joint jurisdiction over Sibley.

But the county wants to give up its interest in the road, something the village isn't prepared to approve until the construction work is done. "I won't do that until the whole road is finished," Myers said.

The Village Council had approved a resolution calling for a 50 percent cost-share agreement between the village and road commission on local funding or 10 percent of over-all project costs.

But when the county opposed that, council voted Aug. 10 to rescind the earlier resolution and back a revised funding plan that will enable the county to pay the cost of an overlay.

As proposed, Sibley would be upgraded from its intersection with M-52 to a point just past the Chelsea Industrial Park, less than a mile, Myers said.

A flashing beacon light and drainage work near Werkner Rd. might be included as part of the county's contribution to the project.

"They are going to give some money. There's some additional drainage work" that could be involved as well, he said.

At this point, Myers said the village will have to wait to see how much Category A funding is approved by the state before council makes plans to budget for the local share of the project.

Typically, the village has budgeted $200,000 for road construction work. So, this project alone would eat up most of that. "I don't have anything else scheduled" next year, Myers said.

Water Testing Shows Low Arsenic Levels

Preliminary test results show low-level concentrations of arsenic present in well water north of Chelsea, according to Washtenaw county health department spokesman Leon Moore.

Moore said that the special water testing has shown no evidence of arsenic exceeding federal drinking water standards of 50 parts per billion.

In fact, the highest level measured has been at 20 parts per billion, he said. And only three of 15 samples taken have exceeded 10 parts per billion, Moore said.

Arsenic, a toxic metal, is believed to occur naturally in bedrock around Chelsea.

The health department directed letters to 180 homeowners north of the village in the past month asking them to test their water. The area generally includes parts of Sylvan and Lyndon townships.

About 30 people, only a fraction of those contacted, have come forward for testing.

Health officials became concerned about high levels of arsenic after one well was found with an arsenic level of 62 parts per billion.

While the initial results are promising, Moore said the department still wants to obtain more data.

Special sample bottles can be obtained from its office at the county service center off Hogback Rd. and Washtenaw Ave. in Ann Arbor. The office is open from 8:30 to 4:30 p.m.

Those taking part in the test will pay $17 for the water analysis, and (Continued on page five)

GRAND CHAMPION BEEF: Records tumbled at Thursday's Chelsea Fair Livestock Auction. Chelsea Big Boy went the extra mile in the bidding to pay a record $3.75 lb. for Cindy Grau's 1,275-lb. grand champion steer. queen candidates Darcie Daniels and Erinne Kellman. It can be seen that owner Cindy Grau is wearing a cast on her left leg, the result of the steer stepping on her foot before Thursday's judging, and breaking her foot. She showed successfully for the judges then went to the hospital and had a walking cast put on the leg when it was discovered she had a broken bone in the foot.

JOSH HOFING showed this grand champion individual lamb at this year's fair. The 121-lb. lamb was purchased by Gina's Cafe for $20 per lb., a new high record for the Chelsea Fair Lamb sale. In photo,

Wednesday, Aug. 29, 1990—

Three almost perfect days of weather helped the 1990 Chelsea Community Fair recover from a wet and muddy start last week to produce something less than a record crowd. Fair board secretary Maryann Guenther said the over-all gate was down, primarily due to sluggish season-ticket sales early in the week when it looked as though the fair could be a wash-out.

The village may construct a new public utilities building on vacant land adjacent to the new wastewater treatment plant. Village manager Robert Stalker proposed the site at last Tuesday's village council meeting. He said the land was not likely to be used for anything else. He also said variances would be needed to allow the construction.

Chelsea Fire Department's proposal to build a second fire station north of the village was given a lukewarm response by village council last Tuesday. Village president Richard Steele said he wanted to see the department come up with more information about the project, an indication that he believes the idea is worth pursuing.

Local talent will once again cross our television screens beginning Tuesday, Sept. 24. Jeff Daniels, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Daniels, appeared in a number of segments of "Hawaii Five-O" last March and will be seen this time in a made-for-TV film entitled "Rumors of War." The film will be shown on two consecutive nights, Tuesday and Wednesday, and will be telecast via CBS. Daniels will portray a chaplain.

North and South Elementary schools will initiate a student absenteeism calling system beginning Sept. 22 on a six-week trial basis. Parents are urged to call prior to 9:30 a.m. on the day their children will be absent.

Chelsea High school female cagers opened their season with two consecutive victories. Last Tuesday, Sept. 9, the girls romped to a 45-37 victory over Stockbridge and followed that victory with another on Thursday, when they met Michigan Center. The final score in Thursday's game was 48-42.

At a special meeting of the governing board of the Chelsea Community Hospital, Tuesday night, Sept. 29, it was announced that the new hospital facility is now open. The first patient was admitted Monday, Sept. 21. The hospital, which has temporarily leased the unused west wing of the Chelsea Medcenter, received a license to operate on Sept. 17 of this year.

Leonard P. Kitchen, JD, has taken over the law office of the late Virgil Walling, an attorney in Dexter for many years. Kitchen, a 30-year-old graduate of Wayne State Law School, opened his doors for full-time practice Monday morning, Sept. 28.

After a heated meeting of the Sylvan Township Planning Commission, Monday night, it was the decision of the commission to adjourn the meeting until Oct. 5 in order to study the issue more clearly. The permit was taken under advisement. The meeting concerned granting to the Michigan Livestock Exchange a Conditional Use Permit to construct a facility for the auction and private sale of livestock. The facility would include roofed livestock pens with concrete floors, offices, bleachers, public washrooms, parking area and a small restaurant.

Suit was filed in Circuit Court, Ann Arbor, Wednesday, Sept. 28, by the Sharon Township Board and by several area residents in an attempt to close the Sharon township garbage and rubbish dump operated by Mr. and Mrs. William Terns of the Terns farm at 18321 Lehman Rd. Terns is the garbage and rubbish contractor for Chelsea. He also collects and hauls rubbish and garbage from Saline and, under a sub-contract, from Dearborn. The suit as filed asks for the court to issue an injunction restraining Terns from operating the farm as a commercial dump and requiring the defendants to bury all rubbish and garbage now on the farm.

The Knights of Columbus Chelsea Council, which now holds its meetings on the second floor of the Merkel Building on N. ## BEHIND THE HEADLINES:

What 'Managed Care' Is All About

Nearly every major health care reform proposal currently on the table in Washington relies on managed care to deliver the goods. But is managed care all it's cracked up to be? And what does it entail?

By Philip C. Clarke

Amid the jargon thrown about in the health care reform debate is the term managed care. Not many people know just what managed care implies. But if Washington policymakers have their way, most Americans will find out the hard way. First of all, will it provide quality health care as the reformers insist?

With a traditional insurance policy, an individual, or his employer, pays premiums for coverage of most medical problems. Typically, such plans have a deductible and some co-payments up to a set limit. Under such an insurance policy, a doctor and his patient together decide what treatments to follow, with the insurance company picking up most costs over the policy's deductible. Managed care is quite a different animal. Under most plans, the patient, or his employer, pays a fixed amount into the plan for coverage of all his health care needs. The plan usually charges little, if any, out-of-pocket costs to the patient.

Health maintenance organizations, or HMOs, and preferred provider organizations, or PPOs, are two of the leading forms of managed care. Under most HMOs, the doctors are employed by the plan itself. With a PPO, the plan contracts the doctors, who must accept the payment and other restrictions of the plan in order to get on the list.

Managed care is supposed to be a market solution to runaway health care costs. Here's why. Under most managed care plans, the plan itself, not the doctor, decides what care will be available. If the patient gets sick, he or she must see a doctor on the approved list. If the doctor wants to prescribe an expensive test, he first must get approval from the plan. The idea is that knowledgeable plan administrators will make cost-effective decisions. That is supposed to cure one of the principal problems with normal insurance. Under traditional insurance—often called fee-for-service—the doctor gets paid for each treatment administered. Critics contend that this tends to give doctors the incentive to over-prescribe treatments.

But does managed care live up to its promise of providing cost effective care? Investor's Business Daily, in a series of investigative articles, found some chilling examples of how managed care can deny treatment when it is needed most. For example, a pregnant woman enrolled in an HMO suffered severe lower abdominal pains. Her HMO doctor advised that such pain often accompanied a first pregnancy. In continued pain, the woman visited the plan's "urgent care clinic" two more times. On the third trip, the doctor said simply that he wouldn't see the woman again, and that she should "grow up and accept the pain." Finally, a friend took the ailing woman to another doctor, who discovered that she had a tubular pregnancy and rushed her to the emergency room for an operation.

In another example, a four-year-old girl was running a 104-degree fever for nearly a week. Finally, after several calls and visits to her managed care doctor, the woman convinced him to order tests—tests that showed the girl suffered from pneumonia and a urinary tract infection. In yet another case cited by Investor's Business Daily, an elderly man was told by his HMO that he needed cataract surgery, and promised to schedule the operation. After waiting two years for the surgery—during which time he lost his ability to drive or read—the man paid for the procedure out of his own pocket.

Why such things often happen is clear. Under managed care, the plans take a set amount of money for each patient, promising to provide all their health care needs. But as critics point out, in many cases the less care provided to patients, the more the plans can keep in profits. And according to the investigative report, managed care plans often employ a variety of rationing techniques. These include delaying treatment, limiting tests and prescription drugs, restricting access to specialists, and denying certain types of expensive care outright.

None of this may matter to healthy enrollees, and managed care claims to do well at emphasizing preventive care. But what happens when a person becomes seriously ill? As Investor's Business Daily suggests, people need to look more closely at managed care before getting pushed into it by would-be reformers.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Zeke Grubb ain't got a partial political bone in his body. He holds politicians of all stripes in the same low regard. He votes for who's out and wants in just to get who's in out. He figures that's the safest bet because the longer they're in the more damage they do.

So the fellows were suprised at the country store Saturday night when Zeke said there must be somebody in one of them public policy think tanks who can find something the Clinton Administration is doing right. He said everybody ought to let up a little on the President and his people. All they're doing now, he said, is working themselves to a frazzle covering too many bases and digging holes to fill holes.

What got Zeke on his high horse was a column he read that allowed America is suffering from too much democracy. The column writer was of a mind that so many people have formed so many organizations to pull so many ways that folks in high office are like a cowboy in a stampede who jumps in his saddle and rides off in all directions. No matter what the President does, Zeke allowed, railbirds line up to show how wrong he is.

For instant, Zeke said, no sooner did the President say nice things about Social Security the other day than an organization called Citizens Against Government Waste issued a study claiming Social Security will go bust in 15 years. As usual, it weren't the report so much as the timing of it, was Zeke's words. He said we've got to find ways to pull together instead of apart.

General, the fellows weren't buying any of the kinder, gentler Grubb, and Bug Hookum was the first to tell him to stick to worrying about seed and feed prices. The problems, Bug said, ain't a surplus of democracy, it's a shortage of leadership. Besides, Bug went on, folks have to band together to be heard in Government, and the more that do the better.

Ed Doolittle was full agreed with

Bug. Ed said we elect leaders to show the way, not to follow signs put up by lobbyists, political action committees and opinion polls. Furthermore, we already take too much guff from the Federal Government. What we got to do, Ed declared, is remember the 10th Amendment to our Constitution gives to us all power that it does not specific give to Washington that has got in the nasty habit of taking what is wants, knowing it's a heap easier to get forgiveness than permission from a U.S. Supreme Court appointed by U.S. Presidents.

Clem Webster said Zeke was wrong on different grounds. A long time back, Clem said, a French diplomat said American democracy would stand only until the people realized they could vote themselves the treasury. We figured that out quick, Clem said, and ever since there's been friction in Washington over how to do it and put the blame on somebody else. Friction makes heat, he said, and that means open season on politicians, including the President.

But Clem was of a mind that this democracy is put together like a self-cleaning oven, and the hotter it gets the better it cleans. That's why we were right to remind ourselves this summer of the cleaning heat 20 summers ago.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

Home Meal Service Desperate for Drivers

For the first time in memory, an article requesting volunteers to deliver meals to the elderly and homebound resulted in no response.

Home Meal Service brings hot, noon meals to Chelsea area seniors every day of the year. Several of the regular drivers have had to stop driving because of job changes and the need to retire from volunteering because of ill health.

Drivers usually drive every other week and deliver one of two routes. Meals are picked up at 11:15 a.m. from either the Senior Citizen Center or from the Retirement Community. The routes take about an hour and often result in the drivers and recipients developing new friendships. Many of the current drivers are retirees who have been very generous with their time. The program lost one of its most faithful volunteers last year when Dave Strieter died.

It is a wonderful program that allows folks to stay in their own homes, have a regular, nutritious, daily meal as well as have a friendly face show up at their door on a regular basis.

Anyone interested in getting more information can contact Mary Erskine at 475-9494 in the mornings and at her home, 475-2821 at other times.

Found Cash Spurs Search

Chelsea police are looking for a person who lost a sum of money near Lanewood subdivision during the past week.

A local resident found the money on Sunday morning while riding his bike in the area. He then turned it into police headquarters at Village Hall.

Police chief Lenard McDougal said anyone claiming the cash would have to know the exact amount returned before recovering it.

The primary mode of commuting in Michigan is private vehicle. The 9,629 miles of state highways carry a substantial share of that traffic. From 1982 to 1992, travel on Michigan roads increased by about 37 percent. This increase in travel is attributed to longer distances traveled to work, in addition to increased tourism and recreation.

Read-Schneider Vows Spoken in Jackson Free Methodist Church

Melody Read of Bangor and Robert Schneider, Jr., were married May 7 at Free Methodist church in Jackson.

The Rev. Thomas Remundo performed the ceremony, uniting the daughter of Mabel Read of Bangor, and the son of Robert and Billie Schneider, Sr.

The bride wore a white satin dress of her own design that featured beaded front bodice and bow in back with a train. She carried a bouquet of white silk carnations with teal and black accents.

The matron of honor was Lorie Dickinson of Bangor, a friend of the bride. She wore a teal, taffeta gown trimmed by a black lace bodice overlay. The gown was also made by the bride.

She carried silk flowers similar to the bride's bouquet.

The ceremony was highlighted by the bridegroom's singing of "I Will Be Here" to the bride. Robin Warner, sister of the bridegroom, also sang "Wind Beneath My Wings," and "One Hand, One Heart" during the service.

The bride's mother wore a black and teal flowered taffeta dress accented by a short jacket. It was made by the bride as well.

The bridegroom's mother wore a teal covered satin dress with lace and pearl bodice.

Flower girl was Chelsea Read of Lansing, niece of the bride, who wore a dress also made by the bride.

Best man was Timothy Johnson of Jackson, friend of the bridegroom.

Ushers were Joe Aspiranti and Joshua Aspiranti, both of Leslie, nephews of the bridegroom.

A reception at the church followed the service and was attended by 150 guests. Renee Geer, sister of the bridegroom, was server at the reception.

The couple took a honeymoon trip to Mackinac Island and Holland for the Tulip Festival. They are now living in Jackson.

The bridegroom is a pianist and gospel singer in the "Immanuel Trio."

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,
I found the article "Michigan Teachers May Resign from MEA Only in August" confusing. The author states that the MEA plans to assess its members to finance an Image/Crisis Fund, leading one to believe a heavy-handed, evil deed has been done and teachers should resign from their union. But let's examine the facts first.

The Michigan Education Association (MEA) is the largest deliberative body in the state functioning in a truly democratic manner. Every local president is elected locally and most serve with no pay and no released time from work duties. Over 500 delegates meet twice a year to set policy and determine action items at meetings called Representative Assemblies. Every school district in the state which has MEA members is represented by a delegate at these meetings. Issues are debated by the delegates and voted on by them.

This last year saw many attacks on teachers and their union. Teachers lost the right to bargain collectively on many issues. The situation exists that, beginning in April 1995, Boards of Education can dictate working conditions and compensation. Every teacher in Michigan was affected and felt personally attacked. This issue was hotly discussed by all.

Out of this came the Image/Crisis Fund proposal. It was discussed within each school building and at county union meetings throughout the state for months. Then the districts sent their delegates to the spring Representative Assembly. After debate, the proposal was approved by much more than the simple majority required. This is the democratic process in action. There was no subterfuge, no hidden evil deed. This fund represents the will of the members of the MEA.

The fund will help portray more accurately what teaching and teachers are all about. We are proud to be teachers. We work hard and care about our students. We are not ashamed of asking for better working conditions. And we are not ashamed to demand greater respect for our union, the MEA.

Trudie McMahon, teacher

Letter to the Editor:

For many years we enjoyed and depended on Schneider's grocery store. We appreciated the quality and the fine service we received there. We hope to experience many more years shopping at the soon-to-be open Common Market.

We appreciate the fine job that has been done on the restoration and preparation of the building. As citizens of Chelsea we are grateful that Craig Common has the vision and is willing to risk investing in our downtown. It's just such ventures that make Chelsea a great place to live by help keeping it vital and interesting.

We anxiously await the re-opening of the store.

MaryAnn & Jack Merkel

Dear Editor,

In response to the comments on the "new look" of the old Schneider's, I think Craig Common deserves a "thank you" for giving this town and the corner a bright new lift that was very much needed for some time. I think it looks great! and told a friend and relative by phone that it looks beautiful!

Perhaps the critic of 8/24 needs to have an attitude of gratitude and realize that beauty is in the eye of the beholder. I saw the pretty two-tone gold colors and it seemed very warm and inviting. It reminds me of sunflowers. Also, she needs to have better manners toward others, especially those who have helped our little village in restoring and renewing several buildings downtown. Is that anyway to welcome folks here? I say, we don't need negative attitudes or comments that tear down people or how things should be in their opinion. Maybe all won't agree on colors, ect. but it's a wise saying—"If you can't say something nice, don't say it at all." To build up Chelsea, we need to build up one another. Attitudes are contagious.

Janet R. Baron.

Dear Editor,

I have really enjoyed Mary Ellen Mynning-Lu's letters from China. They were delightful. Thank you for sharing your adventures with us, Mary Ellen. Welcome home.

Betty Graham.

To the Editor:

My family and I have been Chelsea residents since 1964. While this does not make us natives, I do feel qualified to comment on some of the changes occurring in the Village.

I believe that Chelsea is fortunate beyond words in having a man of vision like Craig Common on our local scene. He has invested untold hours, energy, enthusiasm, and money in our community. The result is a wonderful destination-type restaurant that is known and recognized throughout Southern Michigan as the place to go in this area for memorable food, pleasant wait-staff, hands-on management, and reasonable prices. The restaurant has added immeasurably to the revitalization of the downtown.

We are fortunate, again, in having Craig involved in the creation of the Common Market, soon to open in the old Schneider grocery store space. The exterior of the building has been beautifully restored and painted an authentic burnished Victorian gold. The interior is going to be outstanding; peeking in the windows every day has established that fact. I look forward to the opening of this store with great eagerness. Hurry and finish up, guys! See you soon, Jeff and Kim Flintoft! Lastly, my heartfelt thanks to Craig Common.

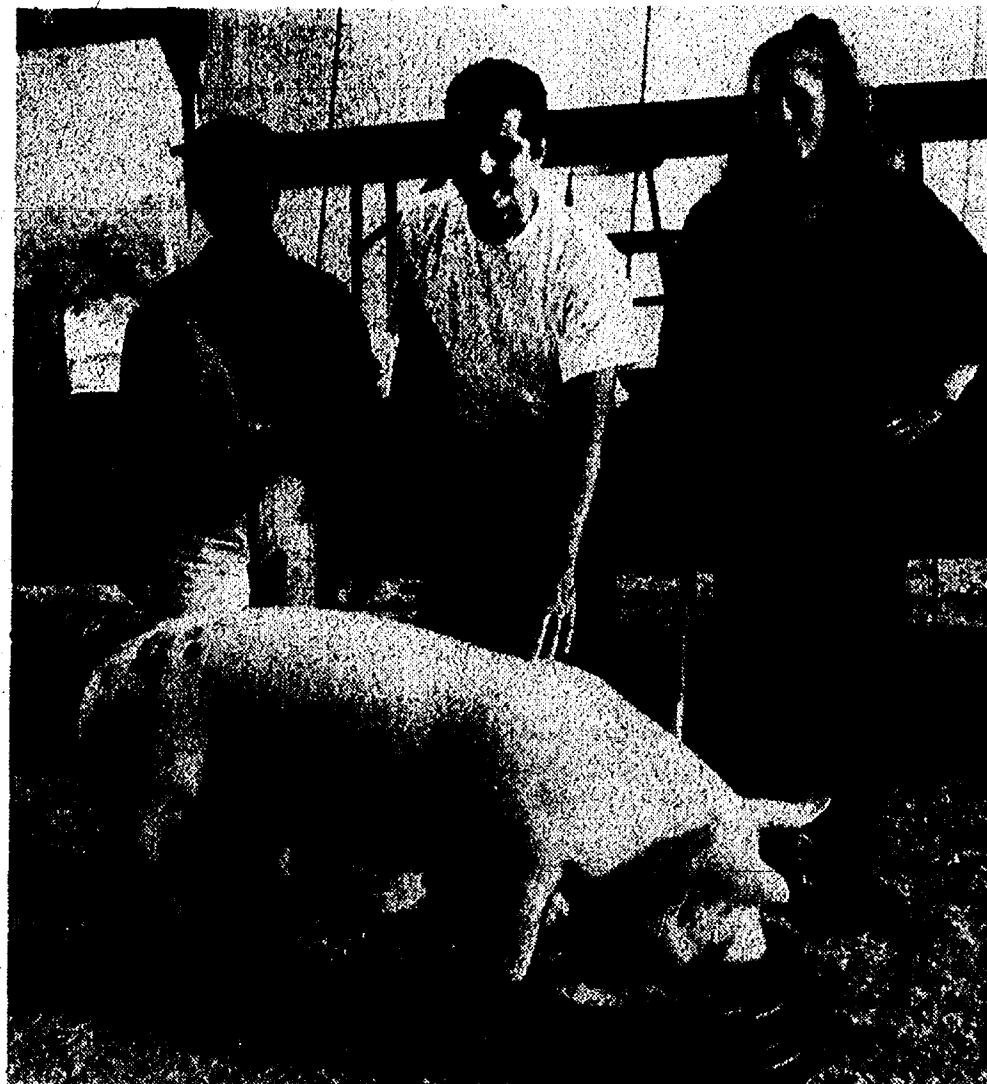

Daphne Treado Hodder.

Animal Birthing Display Slated at State Fairgrounds

Michigan Farm Bureau and the county Farm Bureaus of southeast Michigan are new sponsors of the Miracle of Life Animal Birthing Exhibit at the 1994 Michigan State Fair. The exhibit is presented by the Michigan State University College of Veterinary Medicine and sponsored by Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Michigan.

From Aug. 25 to Sept. 5, fairgoers can see several sheep, pig and cow births; a new and exciting chicken hatchery with over two dozen chicks hatching each day; an educational display on animal nutrition, diet and feed presented by Farm Bureau; agricultural talks by Farm Bureau members; visits with newborn animals and their mothers; educational videos of previous births; photographs and displays of the animal birthing process; and brochures about animal agriculture, careers in veterinary medicine, Michigan's agricultural industry, and food production and safety.

The animals brought to the exhibit will be within a few days of giving birth, or will have a newborn at their side that is less than two weeks old during the 12 days of the fair.

Remediation Testing Underway at DPW Site

Efforts are underway to remove gas contamination at Chelsea's Department of Public Works building.

The village is spending $23,000 on a pilot test by Traverse Group of Ann Arbor to vaporize benzene deposits beneath the building.

Officials are trying to determine the effectiveness of that remediation method.

A Traverse Group spokesman Vince Peters planned to meet Tuesday with the Village Council on the matter. He was expected to tell council that his firm has determined that vapor extraction would work in removing the contamination.

"We had gas tanks down there for the village vehicles. They were removed four years ago. So now, we're cleaning up the seepage," said Village manager Jack Myers.

The village will be reimbursed by the state for money spent on the testing, he said.

"We've been working on this thing for three and a half to four years. We found a plume under the west bay of the building."

Vapor extraction involves pumping air into the ground in order to break up the benzene plume in the soil.

"This is a preliminary test for this remediation," Myers said.

If council approves it, Traverse Group would need to obtain two special permits to complete the extraction process. Once in place, the system could take up to a year to finish, he said.

"We're pretty happy with what we're seeing. We're not seeing the problem we thought we might."

"We would still encourage people to come in and get a bottle."

Data collected from the testing will be used to map a more exact area of arsenic contamination.

In some cases, Moore said the department is aware of locations where arsenic is a problem. And it may do special testing there to determine concentration levels.

"We know we have it in certain areas. We might have to do inspections."

Exhibit Space Available In Showcase, Open House

Washtenaw Development Council has issued a reminder to area developers, contractors and others about the upcoming, 12th Annual Developers Showcase and Open House, to be held Sept. 28, at the Radisson-on-the-Lake.

According to WDC executive director Susan Lackey, a limited number of exhibit spaces remain for the 1994 event. "With the automobile industry experiencing record sales, existing businesses, as well as those seeking new locations, are actively seeking sites, buildings and development assistance. This is an excellent opportunity to meet over 500 representatives of businesses throughout Washtenaw county, as well as showing your wares to companies who may be considering a Washtenaw location."

In addition to the Developers Showcase, the Washtenaw Development Council will recognize 10 county businesses with their "Building Washtenaw's Future" awards, name the first recipients of the newly inaugurated "Washtenaw Partnership" award, and identify the 1994 recipients of the James Hart Award. The Hart Award is given annually to recognize individual effort on behalf of economic development in Washtenaw county.

For more information on reserving a booth for the Developers' Showcase and Open House, contact Juanita Nanko at 313/761-9317.

Congressional Candidates Will Debate Current Issues

Lansing Community College will be video-taping the Eighth District Congressional debate as part of its new public affairs television show In Focus. The one-hour debate scheduled on Wednesday, Aug. 31 at 10:30 a.m., can be viewed by customers of Lansing's Continental Cablevision on Channel 36 and East Lansing and Meridian township customers of TCI Cablevision on Channel 31.

The first telecast will take place on Tuesday, Sept. 6 at 7:30 p.m. The debate will be re-televised through Oct. 2 on Tuesdays at 8:30 p.m., Wednesdays at 8:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m., Thursdays at 1 p.m. and Sundays at 8 a.m.

In Focus seeks to find insightful views and alternatives to a variety of issues of national debate. Chrysler and his Democratic opponent, Bob Mitchell, will take center stage to outline their particular views on such issues as health care, deficit reduction, crime, welfare and entitlement spending in a one-hour debate moderated by former Lansing Community College Board of Trustee member Erik Furseth.

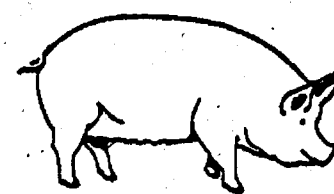

"There is no better format to truly incorporate the spirit of our nation—being a representative democracy—than through political debate and open discussion. An informed public is a powerful influence for change," said Chrysler.

A viewing room will be open to the public and the media to witness the debate. Following the taping, both candidates will field questions from reporters.

The event will take place on the LCC campus in Studio B, located on the ground floor of the Academic and Office facility, 315 N. Grand Ave., Lansing.

Farm Bureau Favors Improvements to Food Inspection Program

Further improvements in science-based programs will be required to ensure a safe food supply, according to testimony delivered this week by the American Farm Bureau at a USDA food safety forum in Philadelphia.

Farm Bureau's testimony supported USDA's efforts to modernize and improve the meat and poultry inspection system. Farm Bureau, along with most segments of the meat industry, favors the hazard analysis critical control point (HACCP) approach, "which builds safety into every step of the production process," according to Ken Nye, director of commodity activities and research for Michigan Farm Bureau.

"Improving food safety involves implementing preventive control programs based on sound science," he said. "Visual detection will not and should not be relied on to be the core of our inspection system."

Nye said farmers are receptive to new production methods that improve food safety. "For instance, livestock producers have actively pursued improved methods of identifying individual animals as they move through marketing and processing," he explained. "This desire for continuing information about the final yield and value of an animal may be compatible with USDA's goal of establishing a verifiable trace-back procedure for meat-borne problems."

Consumer information programs and labeling information are also necessary, Nye noted. "Any inspection program, no matter how good, cannot protect against mishandling by food preparers," he said.

Community Ed To Offer Builder's License Class

A comprehensive 16-hour seminar to prepare people to pass the Michigan state builder's licensing examination will be offered with Chelsea Community Education by Michigan Builders Institute. The seminar will be held on Tuesdays and Thursdays, Sept. 27, through Oct. 6, from 6 to 10 p.m. at the Chelsea High School, 500 Washington St., Chelsea.

The course is for people who want to subcontract the construction of their own homes, building trades people who are now working without a license and want to work legally, and real estate investors. The cost of the seminar is $160 per person and includes all materials, including a course textbook and sample test questions.

Pre-registration is required no later than Friday, Sept. 23, to Chelsea Community Education. Please call 475-9830 to register during office hours.

The instructor is a licensed builder with extensive experience teaching builder's pre-licensing classes. He is able to answer questions related to all facets of home building.

For a free brochure and information about the class, call Michigan Builders Institute at (810) 651-2771.

Nation's Farmers Keep Close Watch on Health Care Debate

As Congress continues to struggle over health care reform, Farm Bureau has told lawmakers that farmers do not oppose any of the health care proposals in their entirety, but some proposals have more points farmers agree with than others.

The Gephardt and Mitchell proposals as they are currently written fail to meet Farm Bureau policy, according to Al Almy, director of public affairs for Michigan Farm Bureau.

Farm Bureau opposes employer mandates, government-imposed price controls, massive new taxes and repeal of the McCarran-Ferguson Act, which provides an antitrust exemption for the insurance industry, according to Almy.

Unofficial Livestock Sale Figures Expected to Top Record Receipts

Despite unofficial figures, Chelsea Community Livestock Sale receipts were expected to exceed $94,000, topping 1992's record total of $91,012.40.

While final tabulations aren't complete, officials are confident they will far outdistance last year's numbers, which totaled $75,312.55.

A discrepancy between collected cash receipts and bid amounts following last Thursday's Chelsea Fair stock sale caused confusion in the recording of final numbers.

As of Monday, livestock sale officials were still trying to work out a settlement on the cash receipts.

Once complete, officials expect results will show that bidders again raised the level of sale prices to new highs.

Unofficially 154 steers, hogs and lambs were purchased at the sale by local merchants and bidders. That figure is slightly higher than last year's total of 146, but well below the 174 sold in 1992.

A top price of $20 per pound was each paid by Gina's Cafe and Stivers Restaurant on Josh Hofing's grand champion 121-lb. lamb and Celeste Bycraft's 120-lb. reserve champion animal.

That outpaced last year's record price of $17 paid by Bouillion Sales for the fair's grand champion.

Gina's Cafe was also the top bidder on Amy McCalla's grand champion hog at $4.50 per pound. That animal was donated to St. Louis School and then resold to Pork Avenue Excavating at $3 per pound.

Gina's Cafe then bid $3.25 a pound on Jennifer McCalla's grand champion pen of hogs, the previous high bid at last year's sale.

In the steer sale, Chelsea Big Boy bid $3.75 a pound on the 1,275-lb. grand champion steer raised by Cindy Grau. Common Grill offered a high $2.50 per pound bid on Melissa Bycraft's reserve champion steer, weighing in at 1,210 pounds.

Below is a list of the animal owners, placing of the animal, weight, buyer and price per pound.

Unbeaten Streaks Greet Bulldogs In Season Opener Against Mason

Chelsea will have a number of streaks on the line when it opens the football season Friday night against Lansing-area Mason High school.

The team is 19-0 in regular season play over the past three years. And it hasn't lost to Mason during the past seven years, winning last year's game in Chelsea, 21-0.

But that is history. And Mason, coming off a 4-5 record last year, is looking to make some of its own when it entertains the Bulldogs. The school has traditionally played Chelsea tough.

And Chelsea coach Gene LaFave is expecting another good test from a team that features a hard, inside running attack with an option outside game.

"They have some good people at the skill positions coming back. They're going to run the football. We're worried about their fullback running inside."

"We really believe stopping what they do best" will be the key to victory.

LaFave says Mason is rebuilding along both its offensive and defensive lines, so it's difficult to get a preseason line on their performance.

"We'll see how good they are."

His team enters the game relatively injury-free. A couple of starters, Jordan Dyer and Tom Barkman, were expected to play in the opener despite injuries suffered during practice last week.

A virus, the coach said, has also hit the team. So after giving the players "a long weekend off," he was hoping they would be ready this week.

At this point, LaFave says the team has "improved dramatically" from its first scrimmage to last. "Our kids have responded in a very positive way."

Still, LaFave says he'd like to have more time to get his team ready before starting the season. But he notes the kids are anxious to play.

With eight of 11 starters back on defense, that unit is ahead of the offense.

Last year, the Bulldogs scored more than 300 points, averaging more than 33 points a game from a high-flying passing game. He's not anticipating such prolific numbers this year.

He will be happy, he says, if the team scores 25 points a game, though a 17 is probably closer to what it will average.

Senior Pat Lynch makes his first start at quarterback Friday running the Bulldog's split veer offense. And LaFave is expecting him to do a good job.

"Pat has played very well" in pre-season scrimmages. "He's making good decisions. He's a smart kid who has worked very hard in the off-season to get ready."

Meanwhile, the kicking game will be left to the capable foot of Casey Wescott who handles the Bulldogs' punting and place kicking duties.

The sophomore wide receiver, defensive back has punted extremely well in practice and has up to 40-yard range on field goals, according to LaFave.

Despite uncertainty entering the season, the coach is looking forward to getting started with his new group of players. "This is a pretty inexperienced team. You'd like to have six to eight weeks to get them ready. But we don't have that. So we'll see how we do," he said.

Boosters To Unveil Concession Stand

The Chelsea Athletic Boosters plan to unveil their new concession stand at Chelsea High school before the football team's home opener on Sept. 9.

The stand will open at 5:30 p.m. with a varied menu of concession items including pizza, hot dogs, popcorn, a wide variety of candy and gum.

As part of the boosters' fourth annual kickoff classic fund raiser, they will offer a $2 dinner special on pizza and hot dogs. The price will also cover a large drink and popcorn.

Deep, Talented Cross Country Team Looks To Repeat SEC Prowess

In his 24th year as cross country coach at Chelsea High school, Pat Clarke says this year's team might be the deepest and most experienced he's ever fielded.

It also has the potential to be outstanding.

Ranked fourth in the state a year ago, Clarke has 14 seniors returning to a team that has captured two consecutive Southeastern Conference titles.

Clarke is just hoping to build on last year's success, he said. "We are experienced, talented and working hard. At this point, I hope (our success) continues."

The team is also large. With 31 members, it boasts one of the biggest rosters in school history. By contrast, the team has more members than the varsity football squad.

With depth comes quality in the leadership of senior captains Chad Brown, Scott Hawley and Ryan Schultz. The three were all-league choices a year ago. And Schultz earned all-state recognition just two years ago.

Other seniors expected to contribute include Brian Atlee, Kevin Coy, James Deising, Kevin Kolodica, Nick Kramer, Eric Leturge, Karsten Lipiec, Josh Metzler, Charlie Sell, Jason Valchine and Dan Wehrwein.

Juniors Koby Foytik and Tim Wesner are expected to be major players this year, while the team is bolstered by 14 other underclassmen.

They include sophomores Aaron Atlee, Robert Bullock, Ashley Coy, Chris Dronen, Deacon Holton, Marv

Kranick, Tim Lawrence, Blase Lipiec, Aaron Sporer and Dan Weir.

Clarke says freshmen Rob Frayer, Matt Kennedy, Matt Kolodica and Brent Young should help as they mature.

Scouting the rest of the league, Clarke says Saline will be led by Pat Morris, who makes the Hornets one of the favorites for the SEC crown.

Dexter has three of the league's top runners, so the Dreadnaughts are also expected to threaten for the title.

With the league's 1992 leading performer Casey Lince, Class A Pinckney will pose a challenge.

But Clarke is confident Chelsea will repeat this year if the Bulldogs stay on track and mature as the season progresses.

Golf Team Wins First Match

The Chelsea High school boys golf team opened its league season last Thursday with a victory over Milan at Pine View Golf Course.

The team won the match 176 to 189.

Adam Beauchamp was medalist carding a 41 nine-hole total for the day. Chelsea's Jim Tallman shot a 42, while Ryan Fisher finished with a 46 and Justin Kusterer, 47.

The junior varsity team was also a winner over Milan, 187 to 206. The JV team was led by Jake Szczygiel who shot a 39. Team members Scott Kiel finished with a 47, Nate Taylor, 50, and Ryan Chase, 51, in nine holes of play.

Last Friday, the varsity competed in the Jackson county Western Invitational Tournament, placing 17th out of 24 teams.

Brighton won the tournament with a score of 299, just getting by Coldwater, which finished at 300 after 18 holes.

Scores for other Southeastern Conference schools included Saline (6th place, 311), Tecumseh (9th, 317) and Chelsea (17th, 346).

Individually, Beauchamp led the Bulldogs with a tournament score of 82, followed by Fisher, 84, Tallman, 87, and Josh Bernhard, 93.

CHELSEA BRAVES a 12-year-old travel baseball team from Chelsea finished third playing in the Washtenaw Amateur Baseball Association league with a 13-6 record this season. The Braves advanced to the district tournament held in Rochester Hills, where they were eliminated after losing the first of two games 5 to 3 to the second-place team from Oakland county and losing the second game 6 to 5 against the first-place team from Macomb county. The Braves overcame stiff competition July 16 and 17 in the annual Saline tournament to finish in second place. The Braves are sponsored by Superior Drywall and Telcom Service Corp. Members of the team are, left to right, front row, Thomas Robinson, Scott Johnson, Chad Schwartzberger, Dan Seward, Travis Robinson, Adam Zang; second row, Jeff Kolodica, Ryan Branham, Jeremy Price, Shawn Dyer; standing: coaches Mark Robinson and Joe Schwartzberger.

Girls Cross Country Squad Features Youthful Talent

The Chelsea High school girls cross country team will be a youthful squad, according to Coach Pat Clarke.

The team includes five juniors, three sophomores and nine freshmen.

But while it may be young, it's talent-laden. And only time will tell how far it goes this year.

Leading the way are junior co-captains Melissa Hand and Katie Spink. Last year, both were all-Southeastern Conference performers while Hand also earned all-state honors.

Three other juniors, Melissa Williams, Angie Bell and Jill McKinnon should give added support and experience as the season progresses, Clarke said.

The team's top sophomore returnee is Jenny Spack, who has worked hard over the summer to move up from her fifth spot on the team a year ago.

Sarah Metzler and Kim Niehaus are two other sophomores who've also looked especially strong this season. And Clarke is counting on both to contribute to the varsity squad's success.

On a team devoid of seniors, Clarke says his most impressive group of runners have come from his class of freshmen. The new recruits are already demonstrating varsity ability, he said.

"They are as talented a group as I have ever had," Clarke says. But, he cautions, "They are freshmen."

Even so, they have shown they are a force on the team by securing three of the top seven positions in the first time trial. The freshmen include Sabrina Flannery, Sarah Jedele, Kelly Kentala, Shanel McWhorter, Karen Pieper, Rachel Schoenberg, Jeannie Spink, Emily Wineland and Meghann Zeigler.

"We are young, but we do have some talent. If the team continues to mature and develop, we could be tough by the end of the season," Clarke said.

Clarke thinks the Bulldogs could make a run at this year's title if the team can blend the young talent and improve over the course of the season.

Chelsea can expect strong competition from a number of league opponents, including Saline. Defending SEC and regional champs, Saline features the league's top runner in Rita Arndt. But the team could be hard-pressed to duplicate last year's results unless it can find replacements for heavy graduation losses.

Pinckney placed third last year in the Class A regional. And this year, the Pirates return two of the league's top runners in Chris and Val Lawrence.

Tecumseh could run away with the SEC this year. Coming off a Top 20 ranking last year, the Indians are strong and deep, losing no one from a year ago.

Milan should also be strong. The team is another featuring maffing runners with no losses from last year's roster.

Dexter and Lincoln are in rebuilding modes this year and aren't expected to challenge, according to Clarke.

CHELSEA SCHOOL DISTRICT KINDERGARTEN BUS ROUTES

The morning Kindergarten classes are dismissed at 11:00 A.M. Afternoon classes begin at 12:10 P.M. The noon busses begin loading children onto their appropriate home bus and are usually in route by 11:10 A.M. Below are the route descriptions for A.M./P.M. Kindergarten students. Travel time to and from school varies day to day depending on how many bus students ride home or to school on a particular day, therefore pick-up and drop-off times are difficult to predict. An entire bus route usually lasts no longer than 60 minutes, from beginning to end. Please call the Transportation Office and let your child's teacher know any bussing changes as they occur. Robin Melton, Transportation Supervisor, is available at 475-7647 to answer any questions regarding bussing.

JOHN CRISPIN has been named head coach for Chelsea Aquatic Club. He will be present to meet families at a Family Swim and Advance Registration Night Friday, Sept. 9. He is shown here with his two young sons, Brennan 7, and Joey 6.

Aquatic Club Names New Head Coach

Chelsea Aquatic Club has announced the appointment of John Crispin as the new head coach. John brings a 20-year span of coaching experience to the local age group swimming program.

"We are very pleased to have Crispin joining our program," stated Wendy Broshar, president of the club. "The club has experienced growth and success over the last three years, and John's talents will help the swimmers to progress even more."

An Ann Arbor native, John graduated from Pioneer High school and coached the Ann Arbor Y and Huron Valley Country Club in the 1970's. In 1980, he relocated to Washington State, where he received his degree from the University of Washington, in Seattle, while coaching an age group program in Issaquah, Wash.

From 1986-1988 John served as head coach of the men's and women's high school swim team in Bellevue, Wash. In 1989, he turned his attention back to young swimmers, coaching an age group program in Kirkland, Wash.

He returned from the West, to Rockford, Ill., where he directed aquatics programs for two years at the Rockford YMCA.

Deciding to return to Michigan, he moved to Manchester in 1993 where he now resides with his wife

Julie and their two sons, Brennan and Joey. Last season he headed the Aquademics swim program in Ann Arbor, a program serving Afro-American youth.

"My formula for developing young swimmers is 'effort-improvement-success'," Crispin explains. "I believe in quality, not quantity; teaching the kids the correct stroke mechanics and how to work on them to improve. Improvement will naturally follow, and with improvement success follows."

The community's first opportunity to meet Coach Crispin will be Friday, Sept. 9 at Beach Pool from 6 to 7:30 p.m., for a Family Swim and Advance Registration Night. Root beer floats will be served and everyone is invited to swim and learn more about the club.

For information, please call Wendy Broshar at 475-0223.

You may think of body language as only applying to people, but it works with animals too. For example, cows are gentle and social animals and respond to a person who has calm and quiet body language. Cows communicate with body language, too. A tall that's hanging straight down means the animal is relaxed. Ears that stand straight up means the cow has been startled.

GARDEN CORNER

Q. What are those tiny, red, spiderlike insects that come into my house in the fall?

A. They're clover mites, spider relatives that feed on grasses, clovers and lawn weeds. In the spring and the fall, large numbers of them crawl up the sun-warmed sides of buildings, often filtering in through minute cracks and other openings. They don't do any damage indoors, but they leave a red stain if crushed. Sealing up cracks and other entryways will help keep these and other nuisance pests outdoors. Aerosol insecticides labeled for use against crawling insects and/or the vacuum cleaner can be used to deal with the invaders.

Q. I haven't had very good luck with the chestnuts I've bought at the grocery store in years past—they either molded or dried out. What's the best way to store them?

A. In a sealed plastic bag in the refrigerator. Chill the nuts in a paper bag for a day or two first, then transfer them to the plastic bag and poke a few holes in it with a nail. You can also store them in dry peat moss or slightly damp sand in recycled milk cartons. When you buy chestnuts, look for nuts in good condition—plump and free of mold. Nuts that you can easily compress between your thumb and forefinger are probably already drier than you want.

Q. Why are some cucumbers bitter?

A. Most cucumber varieties can become bitter if plants are severely stressed by drought, low soil fertility or unusually hot weather. A few cultivars—including 'County Fair '83,' 'Spartan Salad,' 'Sweet Success' and 'Sweet Slice'—are genetically resistant to bitterness.

Q. What causes cabbage heads to split?

A. Too much water entering the head through the roots after the heads become solid will cause heads to split. As the heads near full size and become firm, try pulling the plants up enough to break some of the roots. This will reduce the amount of water the roots can take up and help prevent splitting.

Q. Are the seed pods of Scarlet Runner beans edible?

A. They're edible, but not very good—they're fibrous even when they're still small. Scarlet Runner beans are usually grown more for their attractive red flowers than their pods. Harvest the pods when they reach full size but while they're still green, and shell and eat the seeds cooked like peas or limas.

Card of Thanks 19

THANK YOU

I wish to thank the many friends, families and sponsors for their support in my candidacy for Chelsea Fair Queen. A very special thanks to the Randy Lane family for their many generous contributions towards our wonderful Junior Class Float. I had a great time, too. Fondly, Jeanine Mouilleseaux

THANK YOU

I would like to publicly thank the management of Pugh Shows and several employees and exhibitors. My 3 children and I wanted to bring the Chelsea Fair to a friend who was unable to attend because of illness. What a wonderful and heartwarming response we received!! Pugh Shows provided us with a HUGE stuffed bear, wearing a lovely "I love you" shirt. We also were given a couple of cheering posters and a lovely sand art piece. Thank you all, for your kindness, your understanding, and for showing my children something I crave for my children to see—pure goodness. There are many great people in this world, and lots right here in Chelsea. This was our best fair ever! In gratitude, Judy Gentz.

HUGH W. GADDIS

In loving memory of Hugh W. Gaddis our father and grandfather who passed away 26 years ago, on August 30. It's not the same here without you. We miss you more each day, for life is not the same for us since you were called away. You filled our lives with happiness. And gave us all your love. For all the years you shared with us, we thank the Lord above. Forever loved and missed by your daughter, Carole June and Lester, and granddaughter, Doris.

Demolition Derby Continues Tradition

The 20th annual Demolition Derby proved again why it's a fan favorite at the Chelsea Community Fair.

Fairgoers enjoyed two nights of car-crunching entertainment last week as drivers put dozens of junker vehicles to the test in a battle of maneuverability and survival.

As usual, the derby, sponsored by Retroff Demolition Derby International, included preliminary heats before a feature contest last Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

First night heat winners included Rick Beeman and Trevor Zink who placed first and second in the derby's first year demolition of little cars.

In heat two, Paul Domm took first and Matthew Kemp finished second.

The third heat was captured by Jared Bradley with John McBain taking second.

The fourth heat was won by John Danajaski; Mark Beeman finished second.

In Tuesday night's feature, Kemp took home the $300 top prize, while Beeman and Danajaski tied for second, earning $150 apiece for their efforts.

Wednesday night's card included a Powder Puff heat won by Cindy Gieske and Valerie Howard.

In the others, John Klink and Ed Monaghan took first and second place in heat two.

Heat three was won by Jim Clark and Scott Schouwrenan placed second.

In the final heat, Jason Picklesimer took first, with Jim Weimer placing second.

The feature was won by Howard, who captured the $300 top prize, Klink finished second with $200, and Picklesimer took $100 in third place money.

Awards for best derby car paint jobs were awarded to Bryan Dever and Stacy Norris.
