Leith To Fight Chelsea School Board Over Job

The tragedy Chelsea science teacher Stephen Leith inflicted on the school district and the community when he murdered superintendent of schools Joseph Piasecki and wounded high school principal Ron Mead and teacher Phil Jones last December is being replayed in the minds of many as Leith fights the state's tenure act to appeal his firing.

Leith was convicted of first-degree murder in the fatal shooting of Piasecki and is now serving a life sentence, but is contesting the school board's move to discharge him in a letter to the state's tenure commission. Leith reportedly wants to keep his teaching credentials in hopes he wins an appeal on his conviction. He is blaming an anti-depressant medication for his violent act.

Chelsea School District officials are outraged the district will have to pay thousands of dollars in legal fees to fight Leith's appeal to terminate his employment. The district estimates that the process could take a year and cost up to $100,000.

A judge with the tenure commission reportedly questioned why Chelsea's Board of Education is moving to terminate Leith in the first place. Judge Robert Taylor contends the action is unnecessary because Leith was suspended without pay after his Aug. 12 conviction. Even if Leith were reinstated, Taylor said, Leith could neither teach nor draw a salary.

Chelsea School District officials want to guard against any future claims. Superintendent Ed Richardson said he wants all legal loopholes closed to ensure against unforeseen contractual rights Leith may have to some form of compensation or benefits.

Leith's appeal has prompted school officials to encourage legislative action that would automatically revoke teaching certificates of convicted felons. At the prompting of school board president Jane Diesing, state representative Mary Schroer recently filed a request for legislation. On Monday she was backed by Gov. John Engler, who is also calling for tougher sanctions against teachers who commit felonies.

The Leith case has apparently outraged Engler. He has reportedly asked the tenure commission to "put the Chelsea case on the fast track through the new tenure reform process." Engler said he will ask the new legislature to make certification reform one of its first priorities.

Chelsea Village Bookkeeper Charged with Embezzlement

Chelsea Village bookkeeper Nancy Rosentreater was arraigned Oct. 17 on a charge of embezzling an estimated $44,000 from the village's landfill account. As of Monday, she has been suspended from her job without pay.

Rosentreater, 50, was placed on indefinite suspension from her duties with pay Sept. 20, a week after auditors made a presentation to council on the village's financial condition.

In a statement released by village manager Jack Myers, it is reported that in late August the village learned of certain irregularities in the handling of payment of a bill from the village's electric department. As a result, the village hired the accounting firm Plante and Moran Company to conduct an internal investigation. When further discrepancies were discovered, the matter was turned over to the Michigan State Police.

The audit reveals cash is missing from the village's landfill account between 1988 and last August. It has been reported that the alleged embezzlement occurred on several different companies' accounts.

The felony embezzlement count filed against Rosentreater, an 18-year village employee, could mean dismissal from her job and up to 10 years in prison. She was arraigned

Oct. 17 in front of District Court Magistrate George Parker. A Nov. 10 preliminary examination date has been set. If probable cause is demonstrated then, Rosentreater will face trial in circuit court.

Myers said the village is bonded up to $50,000 for the incident. No one has been hired to replace Rosentreater. Myers said he may enlist the help of a temporary service to assist the office during the interim. Myers is currently investigating possible disciplinary action, including discharge, in accordance with the rules and union contract with Teamsters Local 214.

Chelsea Artist's Work Unveiled At UN Anniversary Ceremony

Janice Stevens Botsford is beginning to take her creative side more seriously. And when she was commissioned to develop a piece of art depicting the 50 year history of the United Nations it was not only a big honor, it was also a big responsibility.

"It's been a great responsibility and amazing experience," said Botsford, a Chelsea resident and member of Chelsea Painters.

Her commissioned piece, a collage titled "A Golden Celebration: Toward World Unity," was unveiled Monday, Oct. 24, at the UN50 kick-off ceremony held at Ann Arbor City Hall.

The Huron Valley Chapter of the United Nations Association of the USA commissioned Botsford to do the collage as part of their year-long 50th anniversary celebration. Botsford was asked to do the piece after a chapter member saw one of her collages displayed at the Chelsea Painters annual art show held at Chelsea Community Hospital in June. Botsford describes that piece, titled "The Birth of a Global Nation," as a statement about global unity. Her collage recently unveiled is similar in tone but also incorporates the history of the UN, what it has strived for, what it has achieved and what it is working toward.

Educated at the University of Michigan, Botsford is a private practice social worker who enjoys dabbling in the arts. She has no formal art training, but has taken a few classes and is primarily self taught. Botsford has resided in Chelsea since the mid-1970s, but grew up in a small village near Canterbury, England. Just four years ago she decided to hone her artistic talents and joined the Chelsea Painters. Since that time she has enjoyed great recognition.

Recently, Botsford won an award for a water color piece, which is being displayed in the Michigan Water Color Society's 48th annual exhibition. Botsford has also displayed paintings in shows at the Ann Arbor Public Library and the University of Michigan Hospital. Locally, she was the first artist from Chelsea Painters to display her work at Gina's Cafe.

Botsford is not a member of the Huron Valley UNA-USA chapter, but as a native of England and world traveler she is concerned about international issues. When commissioned to do the art piece, Botsford said she took the project very seriously. She spent several weeks in the McKune Memorial and Ann Arbor libraries researching the UN's history and learning about the different organizations supporting the UN.

The result is a 38 inch by 50 inch mixed media collage. It includes all 30 articles of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, the rights of the child and the names of 180 nations accompanied by their flags. A gold numeral 50 is predominately displayed in the piece, surrounded by the UN symbol, to emphasize the UN's anniversary.

Botsford strategically placed photographs of multicultural children, historic UN moments, the UN security council and UN50 honorary chairs, presidents Gerald Ford, Jimmy Carter and George Bush, throughout the collage. Botsford describes the composition of the piece as a spiral, circular movement.

The photographs Botsford uses from magazines and other sources are struck on water color paper. Botsford has painted over those pictures to create shapes and flow the circular movement. A pale blue wash is prevalent throughout the piece to represent the blue helmets of peace-keeping troops. Along the bottom is a stream of hands reaching upward and applauding. The hands represent all races and are reaching toward the future, Botsford says.

The final product didn't come easy for Botsford. She said she reworked it several times until she felt comfortable with it. Botsford tried different techniques, shades and placement of photographs before giving it her seal of approval.

An informal unveiling of the Chelsea Downtown Development Authority's final beautification plans for downtown will take place Thursday at the Chelsea Depot from 4:30 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. No presentation will take place, but DDA members will be available for questions and a number of architectural drawings will be available.

Residents of the Village of Chelsea won't be able to put out as much trash during the next year under the proposed new trash hauling contract. The village is on the verge of signing a one-year contract with Marshall's Rubbish Removal. The current fee of $83,976 would be maintained. However, residents would be allowed two bags twice a week rather than the current three bags.

Chelsea Village Council gave approval last week for two village organizations to apply for Michigan State Equity Grants. Chelsea's Downtown Development Authority was authorized to apply for a $100,000 grant to help with moving a house to the Pump and Pantry site, which would be used as an annex for McKune Memorial Library.

The annual Kiwanis Halloween Costume Party will be held next Wednesday, Oct. 31, in the Municipal Parking Lot. The party begins at 6 p.m. after the traditional community trick or treat from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m.

Chelsea High school girls basketball team continued their winning ways twice last week as they rolled up two convincing victories at the hands of Milan's Big Reds and Dexter's Dreadnaughts. The wins clinched at least a Southeastern Conference championship tie for the Bulldogs.

On Tuesday, Nov. 4, the Bulldogs tangled with Milan at home in a showdown for first place. Going into the game, Chelsea was holding first place in the league with Milan following closely behind in second. Nonetheless, the Bulldogs came to the game to win and captured a second 53-43 victory.

Following a series of convincing victories, the Chelsea High school's girls basketball team fell at the hands of the Saline Hornets Tuesday night. The game marked the final home game of the season for the Bulldogs. It was also Parents Night. Both events added to the disappointment of the 42-26 defeat.

Last week, the girls swim team increased their dual meet record to a 10-2 with victories over Albion and Erie-Mason High school.

★ The Headlee Amendment: Alive and Well

By Dr. Gary Wolfram

In 1978, the voters of Michigan approved the "Headlee Amendment" to the state constitution. That decision expressed a strong desire to place limits on the growth of state and local government and to provide important protections to taxpayers.

The effectiveness of the Headlee Amendment over the past 15 years was exhaustively reviewed recently by a commission appointed by Governor John M. Engler. The bottom line should be encouraging for the people of Michigan: over-all, the amendment has worked reasonably well, especially in preventing total state taxation from outpacing the growth in personal income.

In conducting its background research for its report, the commission was reminded that the Headlee Amendment was rather moderate in its focus. Its intent was not to reduce state government, but rather to make sure state government did not become an ever larger part of the state's economy. It did not attempt to reduce local property taxes; instead, it sought to make future local taxation subject to the will of the majority by way of the ballot box. And it was designed to protect local governments from being strapped with unfunded mandates from the state legislature. People who believe that the Headlee Amendment "failed" because it did not reduce the state's tax burden, even though such a reduction is arguably a good idea, are asking more of the amendment than was originally intended.

Prior to 1978, state government was absorbing an ever-larger share of personal income. Since the adoption of the amendment, the state's revenue as a percentage of the personal income in Michigan has not exceeded the maximum 9.49 percent that the amendment allows. When the Governor and the Legislature crafted school finance reforms late last year, they were constrained by this binding limitation of the Headlee Amendment.

The amendment anticipated efforts in Lansing to evade the revenue limit by mandating that local governments provide certain services and pick up the tab. It forbids unfunded mandates, asserting that, if the state requires it, that state must pay for it. That's an idea that now is gathering momentum at the federal level in Washington. Legislators from all across the country are beginning to call, as Governor Engler has on several occasions, for a version of the Headlee Amendment to the U.S. Constitution that would stop the Congress from foisting unfunded programs upon the states.

While the amendment's anti-mandate provision has generally served its purpose, the commission found one major problem: the state has argued that mandated costs within any service which itself is not technically "required" of local governments do not qualify. For example, state-mandated overtime compensation for firefighters was determined not to fall under the amendment's requirement for state funding because local units of government are not actually mandated to provide firefighting services.

Court cases on this issue have dragged on for years as local governments have sought state reimbursement for these mandated costs. The commission recommends that the Legislature provide cost estimates for all the services or expenses it requires of local governments before it imposes them and that claims be settled more speedily by reviving a moribund review board that was supposed to handle such state-local disputes under Headlee.

The most controversial portion of the commission's report concerns the use by local governments of mandatory so-called "user fees" to circumvent the amendment's requirement that all increases in local taxation be submitted to a vote of the people. Some communities, for instance, have imposed charges on residents for recycling programs. By mislabeling these charges as "user fees" instead of "taxes," they have claimed that the voters do not have to give approval. A minority of the commission argues that there are some legitimate cases of mandatory fees that are not the same as taxes, but the commission as a whole found a need for the Legislature to clarify the distinction between a user fee and a tax to prevent wholesale evasions in the future.

The establishment of a commission to review the implementation of a critically important amendment to the state's constitution is a model which the federal government ought to follow. The liberty of each of us depends upon the effectiveness of our written law and our elected authorities to remain faithful to it. Examining the actions of our governments at every level in the context of the constraints which bind it for our protection is an exercise so important that it is surprising that we do not engage in it more often.

Though certain changes are needed to clarify the law and ensure enforcement, the Headlee Amendment has worked well for the people of Michigan. In an age of cynicism and distrust, that ought to be encouraging to all people of good will.

the collage was part of a ceremony that included Ann Arbor Mayor Ingrid Sheldon and speeches from Dr. Harold Jacobson of the Center for Political Studies Institute of Social Research at U-M, John Atwater, retired from U-M and UN volunteer in West Africa and Dr. Charles Olson, professor in the U-M School of Natural Resources and the Environment.

Botsford hopes her collage evokes interest in the UN. "If people are really excited about it, hopefully they will go to their library and investigate what these articles are." She sees her commissioned piece as a means to encourage hopefulness, and says she became very inspired herself while doing the research.

"I feel more and more the UN should be an important part of our existence," she said. "We need to have more harmony with one another. We need a forum to work out conflicts."

Botsford's collage will be available for special events throughout the year. She hopes the Huron Valley UNA-USA chapter is able to bring it to her home town in Chelsea for fellow residents to view at Chelsea Community Hospital.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I've been told that the first rule in advertising is create demand for the product, then create the product. This way there's no lag between making it and selling it. This might be, but I'll come as close to understanding it as I do some of the demand for some of the products coming down the pike these days.

For instant, I read recent where we now got unisex deodorants and perfumes. The demand for the product was created by reports of research in Italy that showed men and women like the same smell on themselves and one another. Whether they did or not, they do now because they think other men and women do. One French perfume company said uniscent comes from women wearing men's shirts and pants, and from the trend in recent years where everybody wants to smell like citrus.

I mentioned uniscent at the country store Saturday night and it turned the discussion every way but loose. Bug Hookum said mention of unisex called to mind when unisex clothes first showed up, and shops in every town offered the same for everybody. About this time of year, Bug said, a Ma brought her girl into one of these shops looking for normal sweaters, skirts and blouses. Ma looked over the stock and ask a clerk what on earth kind of clothes they were. The clerk said "we're unisex." The poor woman grabbed her daughter and on the way out the door she said "you mean this is what we give to at Halloween." Bug said he doesn't know if UNICEF still has a fall fund raiser, but he can understand the woman's confusion.

Practical speaking, Clem Webster allowed, advertising is the tail that wags the dog. Clem said he likes to read ads in the paper because that's where much of the creating goes on. He saw one recent that was offering "ideal perfection in a mechanical watch." It said that since 1735 there's never been a quartz watch made by this Swiss company, "and there never will be." Never mind how you improve on perfection, Clem said, consider the copy writer that can make you believe an old fashion wind up watch is the greatest thing since Velcro.

Even Ed Doolittle agreed with Clem. Ed said he read a report on a study at the University of Missouri that says rural and small town readers have got it right. They regard everything in their papers as news, ads and all. Furthermore, more folks read the ads than any other kind of news, and the classifieds have the highest readership of all.

Zeke Grubb said he finds that hard to believe unless you break it down to men and women readers. Zeke said he reads the news front to back and glances at the ads the first time through. But he said his old lady reads the ads back to front, and the only real news she notices are the obits and the church and social doings.

Practical speaking, Bug said, age has to be cranked into readership. The older you get the more you depend on print, he said, but young ones think they can learn everything from television. Compared with news you get from print, Bug said, TV is like watching a parade through a hollow reed.

Final, I got the floor to say we know we're fast closing on the serious shopping season when our mailboxes fill up with catalogs of Not Sold in Stores stores.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

Local Teachers On Honored List

Several area teachers are among a select group of America's teachers being honored by their toughest critics, their former students, in the third edition of Who's Who Among America's Teachers®, 1994.

All of the 66,500 teachers being honored were selected by their former students who themselves are currently listed in Who's Who Among American High School Students® or The National Dean's List®, publications which recognize the top five percent of our nation's high school and college students respectively. Paul Krouse, publisher of Who's Who Among America's Teachers said, "There is no greater honor teachers can receive than to be recognized by former students for their excellence and dedication. In this publication we clearly have the best teachers in America selected by the best students."

The students were requested to nominate teachers who "made a difference in their lives" by helping to shape their values, inspiring interests in a particular subject and/or challenging them to strive for excellence. Many of the students commented about the enthusiasm and knowledge their teachers demonstrated in the classroom, and many praised their teachers for their ability to relate to youngsters on a personal as well as a professional level. One student wrote about her teacher saying, "She made education something pleasurable, instead of a dreadful ordeal, by letting me spread my wings and showing me the best way to fly."

Local educators honored in Who's Who Among America's Teachers, 1994, include Chelsea teachers Suzanne DeVries, William Gourley, Barbara Pruess, Leonard Soloman and James Ticknor; Dexter teacher Beverly Hill; Grass Lake and North Sharon Christian school teachers Larry Poertner, Bradford Tompkins and Clifford Whitenburg; Manchester teachers Mark Ball and Mildred Grantham; and Pinckney teachers Thomas Wilson and Christine Wolf.

Pumpkins can be used for more than just Jack-O-Lanterns. The seeds scooped out of the pumpkin can be set aside and roasted for a nutritious snack. After halloween the pumpkin pulp can be scooped out and processed for pie filling, although it's best mixed with squash to give body to the product. Use a ratio of two thirds squash to one third pumpkin.

"I was greatly influenced by one of my teachers. She had a zeal not so much for perfection as for steady betterment... she demanded not excellence so much as integrity..."

—Edward R. Murrow.

The greatest teachers are those who can inspire a thirst for knowledge and a desire to achieve. Perfection is a goal beyond the reach of most of us but everyone can, through the application of a little effort, improve at a steady pace... however slow that pace may be.

The teacher whom is most successful can inspire students to do their best with the talents they have, even though their achievements may never be noteworthy to others.

We serve families of all faiths and creeds with dignity and good taste. Let us help you through difficult times.

CHS Grads Granted AP Scholar Awards

Two former students at Chelsea High school, Amy J. Brown and Theresa E. Royce, have been named AP Scholars by the College Board in recognition of their exceptional achievement on the college-level Advanced Placement (AP) Examinations.

Approximately 10 percent of America's graduating seniors have taken one or more AP Examinations. Only about 12 percent of the more than 459,000 students who took AP Examinations in May 1994 performed at a sufficiently high level to merit such recognition.

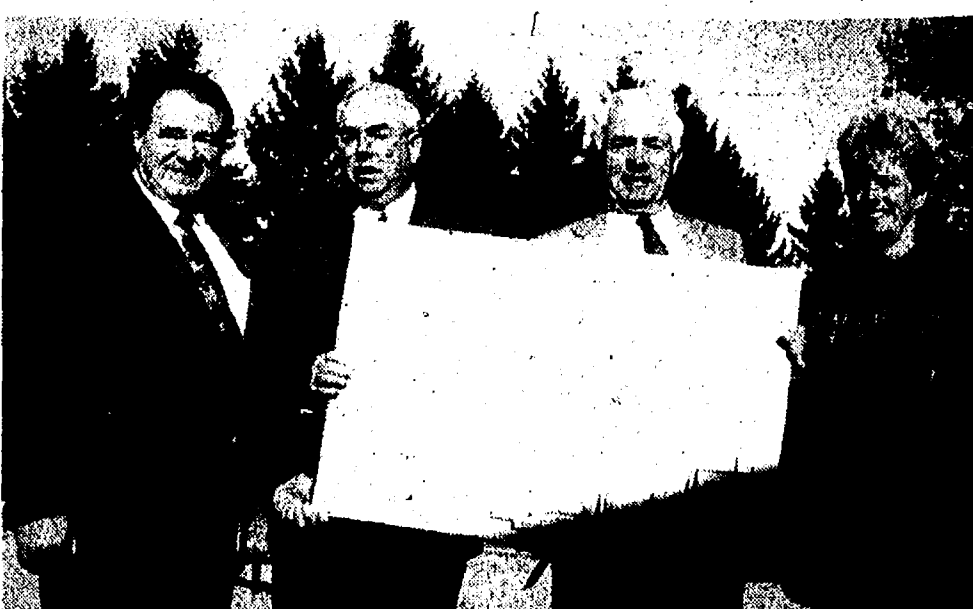

The College Board recognizes three levels of achievement—the AP Scholar with Distinction, the AP Scholar with Honor, and the AP Scholar.

At Chelsea High school, these two students qualified for the AP Scholar Award by completing three or more AP Examinations, with grades of 3 or higher.

AP Examinations, which students take in May after completing challenging college-level courses at their high school, are graded on a 5-point scale (5 is the highest). Most of the nation's colleges and universities award credit and/or placement for grades of 3 or higher, and more than 1,300 institutions award a year of credit to students with a sufficient number of qualifying grades. There are 29 AP Examinations offered in 16 disciplines, each consisting of multiple-choice and free-response (easy or problem-solving) questions.

The College Board is a national non-profit association that champions educational excellence for all students through the ongoing collaboration of nearly 2,900 member schools, colleges, universities, education systems, and organizations. The Board promotes—by means of responsive forums, research, programs, and policy development—universal access to high standards of learning, equity of opportunity, and sufficient financial support so that every student is prepared for success in college and work.

NORTH ELEMENTARY SCHOOL STUDENTS, under the direction of art teacher Janet Alford presented the Chelsea Community Hospital with student art work recently. This special presentation was made to express North school's appreciation of the hospital's generous gift of project Fit America fitness equipment. Receiving the gift from North school were hospital representatives Art Dils, Will Johnson and Bob Carr, and for North school, Cheryl Vogel.

To the Editor,

To the uncaring, inconsiderate person who hit and killed my children's dog at North Territorial Rd., near Inverness 10/23 and didn't even bother to stop or to at least move her to the side of the road—a message for you—SLOW DOWN!! The speed limit is 40 mph through this area; and next time it could be a child, a person on a golf cart, or yes, even a family pet! If EVERYONE would do the posted speed limit maybe Clover's death will not be in vain!

Thank you to the jogger who told us where she was.

Fall Is Time To Control Dandelions in Lawn

If dandelions grew only in meadows and alongside roads, people would probably consider them wildflowers and take steps to protect and preserve them.

They grow in lawns, however, and that makes them weeds.

If your lawn was a carpet of yellow blossoms in May, fall is the time to do something about it to prevent a replay next year.

"The seeds from the spring crop of dandelions germinate in the lawn in the fall," explains Paul Rieke, Extension turfgrass specialist at Michigan State University. "Herbicides are very effective against these actively growing young plants."

Fall weather usually provides optimal growing conditions for lawn grasses, he adds, so grass will quickly fill in spaces left by removing dandelions. In the spring, annual weeds such as crabgrass may fill in bare areas.

Using herbicides to control dandelions is less likely to injure landscape ornamentals in the fall, he notes. Landscape plants are growing less vigorously in the fall and are less sensitive to herbicides than they are in the spring.

The preferred herbicide for dandelion control is the amine formulation of 2,4-D, Rieke says. (The more volatile ester formulation poses a greater hazard to nearby landscape plants.) Follow label directions for applying the product to the foliage of actively growing weeds. Spray when dry weather is expected to continue for at least 12 hours.

Applied at the proper rate, the herbicide will move through the whole plant and kill it, roots as well as shoots. Applied at too high a rate, it will just burn the tops off and the plants will regenerate from the roots.

If you would prefer not to use herbicides for dandelion control, hold off digging the weeds until spring. Then the plants will have used up most of the food reserves stored in the roots and may be unable to resprout.

"For digging to be effective, you need to cut as deeply as possible—at least 4 to 5 inches," Rieke advises. "Shallow cutting may actually increase the dandelion problem by promoting the development of numerous new shoots from each root. Where you had one plant you'll then have several."

Once dandelions and other weeds are under control, maintaining a thick, well fertilized and managed lawn is your best defense against a weed comeback.

First Icy Bridges May Occur Soon

Brilliant fall color in Michigan is often accompanied by another phenomenon of nature—slippery bridges. The Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) said that crisp fall mornings create optimum conditions for the formation of a coating of frost and ice on bridges, even when the roadway remains ice-free.

This may create quite a surprise, especially to motorists who have not modified their summer driving habits.

MDOT offers these tips to drivers:

- Be prepared to lower your speed on bridges.
- Avoid hitting brakes too hard or making panic stops which may cause a car to skid. Pump brakes to reduce speed.
- Avoid lane changes or other abrupt steering maneuvers.
- Be especially careful during early morning and evening hours, the time bridges tend to ice. Always wear your safety belt.
- Observe the "BRIDGE MAY BE ICY" signs since they will help you identify bridge locations.

Time To Bring Geraniums Indoors for Winter Blooms

Sad to see the last days of warm weather fade away? Bring a little summer inside your home and keep it there throughout the winter with geranium blooms indoors. Grand Hotel's Superintendent of Grounds Stephen Bernard offers the following advice for keeping geraniums indoors throughout the cold-weather months. With his Grand Hotel credentials, Bernard is an expert on keeping geraniums happy: the hotel annually plants more than 5,200 geraniums in all its flower beds combined and 2,500 geraniums in the flower boxes on its famous front porch.

Keeping Geraniums in Bloom

Begin now if you want to have blooming geraniums during the winter months. Your geraniums have expended a lot of energy throughout the summer on flower production and your plants may be a little worn out after their big flush of summer blooms.

Give your plants a boost of fertilizer now to perk them up. Try a tablespoon or two of a 5-10-5 granular fertilizer, being sure to keep away from the trunk of the plant when applying. Or give them a shot of a balanced liquid fertilizer, like 20-20-20. Do so twice per month. Use the liquid fertilizer as a foliar feed on the leaves and as a drench, soaking the entire root area. Be sure to do this in the morning of a sunny day so that the leaves of the plant can dry completely before evening. Continue to pull off fading flowers throughout fall.

Several methods keep geraniums blooming in the winter, and people have had varying degrees of success with both:

1) Take an established plant and bring it indoors. It is best to use an already-potted plant but transplanting a healthy plant into a pot can work as well.

Place the plant in a sunny window or greenhouse. The more sun, the more success you will have in encouraging winter blooms.

Keep the soil moist and feed the plant with a mild liquid fertilizer twice per month.

The difficulty with bringing a more mature plant indoors is that the change of environment, particularly the different humidity and lower light levels, may cause your plant some problems as it tries to acclimate itself to its new surroundings. Leaf drop may result which could not only weaken the plant sufficiently to delay flowering, but render the plant unattractive. Larger plants brought inside also tend toward "leginess."

2) A second method is to take stem cuttings and root them.

To do this, select a healthy geranium, one that is vigorously growing and has a good green color. Find a non-flowering stem and snap off the top four inches (the tip). (Snap it off because geraniums are very susceptible to a number of diseases of the stem, which can be easily carried on the blade of a knife. By snapping, one possible source of contamination is eliminated. If the plant was watered the day before, it should snap very cleanly.)

Remove all but the top three to four leaves. Although a rooting hormone is not always needed, it may insure more success. Dip the stem into the hormone following the directions on the can.

For rooting, it is best to use a light, soil-less mix containing peat moss, vermiculite and sand. Fill a two-inch pot and insert the stem almost to the base of the leaves and lightly tamp the soil toward the stem to insure good soil contact. Water it well and put in a plastic bag in filtered sun. The bag will hold in the necessary humidity while keeping the soil moist.

In two to three weeks the tip cutting should be fully rooted and ready to transplant into a larger pot.

Pot the rooted cutting, this time using a soil-based planting mix, into a 5-inch pot and place it in your sunniest window. The more sun the plant receives, the better it will grow—if given four hours of sun the plant will grow, if given six to eight hours, the plant will bloom—the amount of light is the key! Keep the soil evenly moist, but not wet. Provide a light feeding twice per month.

As geraniums branch naturally, pinching is not usually necessary. If you would like more branches, snap off the top two inches when your plant is about eight inches tall. Flowering will be delayed but a much stockier plant will result.

In spring, wait until the night temperatures are consistently above 55 degrees before leaving your plant out for the summer. Once temperatures do rise, place your plant in filtered light for a week or so before putting it in full sun. It should bloom throughout the summer.

The family-owned and operated Grand Hotel, a 319-room hotel built in 1887, is the world's largest summer hotel. Located on Michigan's Mackinac Island where no motor vehicles are permitted, the award-winning hotel is reminiscent of a bygone era. Grand Hotel has been named one of the top 10 summer retreats in America by Travel & Leisure. Grand is open for the 1994 season through Oct. 30.

White House Reporter To Speak at EMU Oct. 27

Ypsilanti—Long-time White House Bureau Chief for United Press International Helen Thomas will speak at Eastern Michigan University on her more than 30 years of covering U.S. presidents and their families Thursday, Oct. 27, at 7:30 p.m. in the McKenny Union Ballroom.

Thomas, 72, has reported on the activities of presidents and first ladies since 1960 when she was first assigned to cover the Kennedy Administration. President Bill Clinton is the eighth U.S. president she has covered in her long career.

A senior staffer at UPI, Thomas was the first woman to head up presidential coverage for a major news service. Her time at the White House has led to significant travel with U.S. presidents, including accompanying Richard Nixon on his historic trips to China and the Soviet Union in 1972. She also was with the Carter Administration during its historic Camp David meetings.

In 1975, Thomas was elected president of the White House Correspondents Association, the first woman to hold that office in the 60-year history of the association. She also was the first woman elected to the historic Gridiron Club, which had limited its membership to males since it was formed in 1885 by a group of Washington newspapermen.

Also in 1975, Thomas had her first book, Delateline: White House, published by MacMillan. It covers her time at the White House from President John Kennedy through President Gerald Ford.

Athletic Boosters Prepare for Season's Last Football Game

Chelsea Athletic Boosters have something new to offer at the Concession Stand for the last home game this Friday. While the football team hosts Garden City, the Boosters will be serving up bowls of delicious hot chili. The chili has been donated by Lynn Houle, owner of Chelsea A & W Restaurant. The recipe is Mrs. Houle's home-made chili and promises to be a real taste treat.

Also offered will be the standard fare of Domino's pizza, hot dogs, popcorn, candy and soda. Coffee and hot chocolate have also been popular on these cold football evenings.

The Boosters have enjoyed a successful year so far with the concessions and appreciate the fans' support of the concession stand. With the addition of the heartier meal time menu options, the Boosters have found more people enjoying dinner at the game and tailgating from the Concession Stand.

The Boosters also offer Concessions for the inside sports and are looking forward to continuing to serve the fans at these events. Anyone who may wish to work with the Boosters during concessions is welcome and may sign up at the Concession Stand.

Michigan farms will pick about 930 million pounds of apples this fall, down nine percent from last year. Jonathan harvest is near completion, and Empire and Rome harvests are gearing up. The U.S. apple crop is about 10.9 billion pounds, up one percent from 1993.

Your Money Matters

by Michael Kelly

★ How To Buy A House

The excitement of becoming a homeowner can sometimes be dampened by the confusing process of choosing a home and mortgage. Recently, "Everybody's Money," the consumer magazine for credit union members published by the Credit Union National Association, came out with some very critical points to learning how to buy a house.

Review your finances, and then ask the people at your bank or credit union to help you decide how much house you can afford. This step is called prequalifying. It lets you know what price range to search and makes it highly probable you'll qualify for a mortgage when you've found the house you want.

As a buyer, never forget that the agent works for the seller, not for you (unless you hire a buyer's broker). That means you should be careful about what information you share with the agent, who's legally obligated to inform the sellers of your intentions. But you can benefit from working with a professional agent: A good agent or broker can help you decide what you need, and how much house you can afford, and show you houses in your price range.

Take your time to look at as many houses as possible. Being familiar with the market is the only way to have a sense of how much to offer. The agent can help you draw up the "offer to purchase." It's also called a contract, bid, binder, memo, deposit receipt or other names in some areas. Remember, don't discuss your strategy with the agent—it's the same as discussing strategy with the sellers.

If there isn't time to have your lawyer look over the offer to purchase before you sign, make it "subject to the approval of the attorney for the parties within (so many) days." The offer will include the purchase price and method of payment, verification of title, the date possession will transfer, a list of any personal property included in the sale, inspection contingency, financing contingency, and so on.

It's usual to deposit some "earnest money" with the offer to demonstrate that you are serious. The amount of money typically ranges between $1,000-$5,000. The agent puts the amount in escrow until you conclude the deal. If the sellers don't accept your offer within the number of days stated in the offer, the check comes back to you. If the seller accepts the contract but you withdraw from the deal, you lose the money. That's why it's to your advantage to offer the lowest acceptable amount. If the deal goes through, the earnest money is applied to the sale at closing.

The sellers respond by accepting, rejecting or countering your offer. If

Let's Go Bulldogs!

Bulldogs Fall to Rival Pinckney in Shut-Out

The Bulldogs suffered a shut-out fall to Southeastern Conference rival Pinckney Friday when the Pirates posted a convincing 19-0 win over Chelsea.

Chelsea's loss positions the team 3-5 as the Bulldogs take on Garden City Oct. 28 during Parents' Night. Kick off is 7:30 p.m. Despite the recent loss to Pinckney, coach Gene LaFave says he is confident the Bulldogs are capable of winning the Garden City contest.

Pinckney opened the contest against Chelsea by posting a first quarter touchdown on a 12-yard pass. The Pirates made the extra point and started the game with a 7-0 lead.

The second half continued the winning pattern set by Pinckney. The opponent scored in the third quarter on a 40-yard pass play to widen the gap, 13-0.

A final touchdown by Pinckney in the fourth quarter on a 65-yard run finished the game for the Bulldogs as the Pirates posted a 19-0 victory.

LaFave said the Bulldogs managed to threaten the score in the second quarter, driving from Chelsea's six-yard line to the Pinckney 10. However, the drive stalled and Chelsea missed four attempted pass plays.

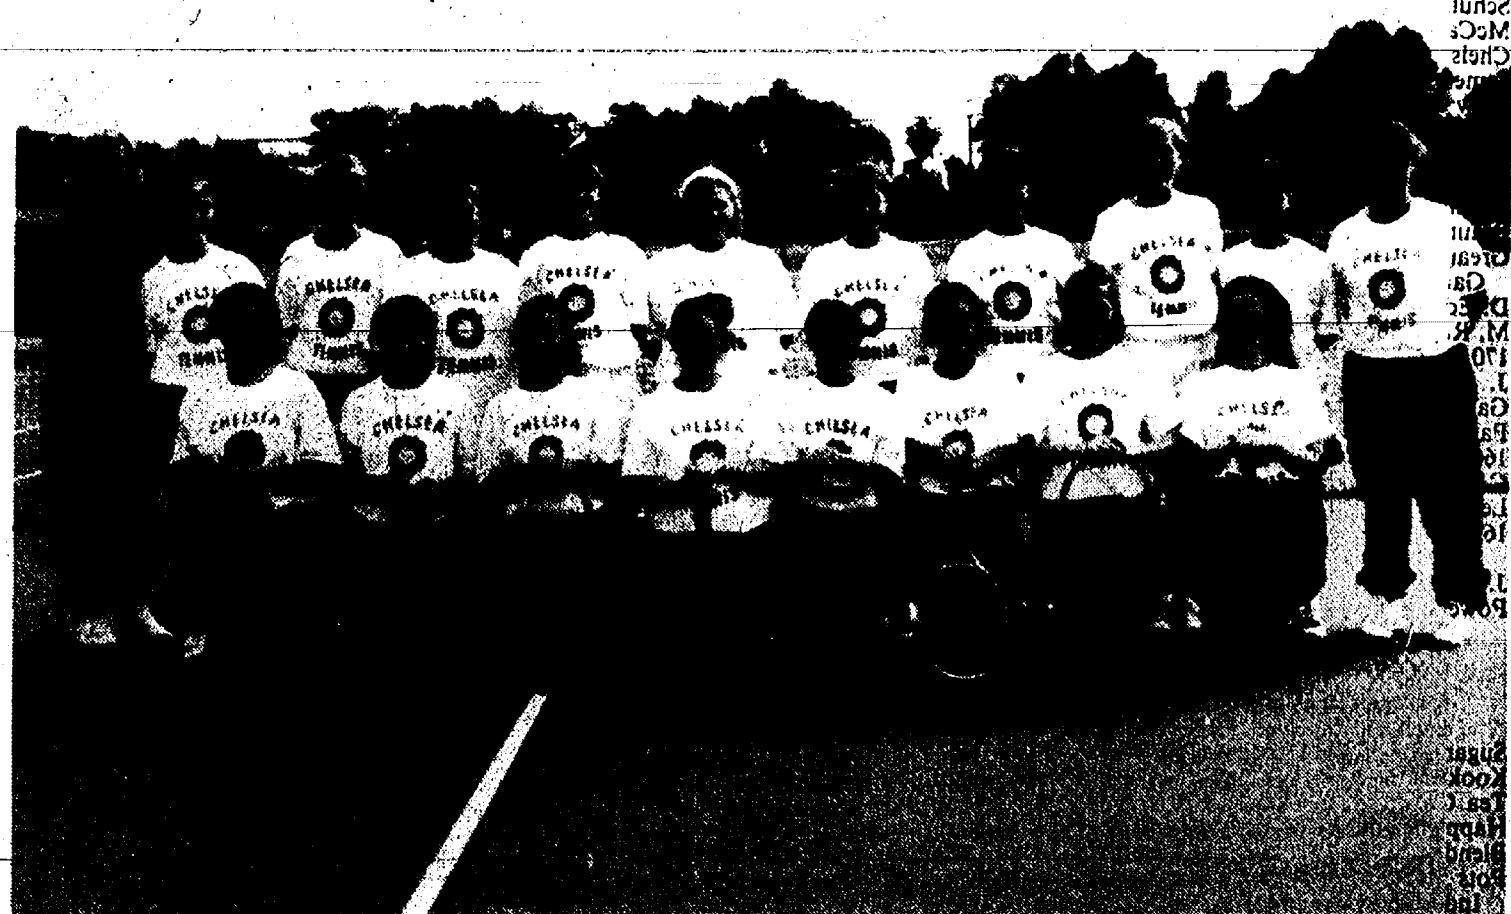

In the end, Chelsea gained 245 yards total offense, a move LaFave called "respectable." But the Pirates garnered 380 yards to topple the Bulldogs.

"We just didn't have good field position," LaFave said.

Bulldog Mike Thayer reportedly kept Chelsea in the game with his punting tactics. "He punted us out of a lot of holes," LaFave said. Another factor that kept Chelsea down was the Pinckney quarterback and receiver, both contributed big plays for the opponent.

Chelsea's Case McCalla led the defense with tackles and Bryndon Skelton contributed some key interceptions that stalled Pinckney and spurred Chelsea on, LaFave said.

JV Basketball Team Beats 2 Opponents

Chelsea High school's women's junior varsity basketball team increased its record to 10-4 when the Bulldogs trampled Jackson Northwestern, 38-9, Oct. 18 and narrowly beat Milan, 50-47, in a contest played Oct. 20.

The team stands 5-2 in the Southeastern Conference.

The Bulldogs dominated Jackson Northwestern in the first quarter, 11-0. By the second quarter the Mounties waged their best offensive measure, scoring five points, but still lagged behind Chelsea's 21-point tally. The third quarter saw Chelsea add nine more to Jackson's one. By game's end Jackson added three points, but it wasn't enough as Chelsea scored eight more for the final total, 38-9.

Chelsea scorers included high scorer Michelle Lucas with 12 points, followed by teammates Cindy Richard with eight, Christine Herndon with seven, Hillary Spooner with six and Melissa Carty with five.

Chelsea's game against Milan saw Chelsea ahead in the first quarter 14-10, down in the second quarter 12-13, down again in the third 8-13 but jump back for the lead and the win in the fourth 16-11 for a total score of 50-47.

Herndon was the high scorer against the Big Reds. Teammates Richard, Williams, Lucas, and Sarah Pruess added the other points. Richard contributed 16, Williams added eight, Lucas added seven and Pruess threw in two for the win.

How To Buy A House . . .

they reject or counter, it's your option to counter. Keep your goals in mind. If the counter offer is not in line with your priorities, keep looking. Once the parties agree on terms, you have a binding agreement, a contract.

At several stages, though, the contract may fall through. Say the professional home inspector you hire to fulfill one of the contract contingencies tells you the roof and furnace have one winter left and the plumbing is seriously deteriorated. You can either pull out of the transaction or renegotiate the terms. For example, you could offer less money in anticipation of the expenses of fixing up the problems, or require the seller to fix the problems. Of course, the repairs would be subject to a satisfactory inspection, too. One major contingency in your offer will make the deal subject to you obtaining a mortgage at a given rate, amount and term.

House hunting is an exciting adventure complete with sky-high thrills and low-down obstacles. The process can move very quickly at times and seem to take forever at other moments. Make sure you've done your homework on what you can afford and exactly where and what type of house you want. Then, once the papers have been signed and the boxes have all been moved, enjoy turning your new house into your home.

With 17 lower classwomen returning, the team looks forward to a very successful 1995 season.

Girls Swimming Team Scores Big Wins Over Fenton, Dexter

The girls varsity swimming team became the most successful dual meet team in Chelsea's history last week. Their wins at Fenton, 111-72, and at home against state-ranked Dexter, 99-87, put their record at 10 wins and 1 loss.

The win over Dexter puts the Bulldogs in second place in the S.E.C. behind defending league champs, Milan.

"We have one of the toughest conferences in the state," said coach Dave Brinklow. "Milan and Dexter are both ranked in the top 10 for Class B teams, so being between them in the league standings puts us in pretty good company."

The Bulldogs had 16 lifetime best performances in the Dexter meet which, combined with winning all three relays were the key to winning, according to Brinklow. "I had hoped we could win one relay, so winning all three was a great surprise. Our second and third swimmers came through with some big performances. Sarah Brosnar, Erin Baird, Carey Schiller, Beth Vogel, Christie Lonskey and Stephanie Wesolowski had some key third and fourth place swims that made a big difference in the final outcome," said Brinklow.

The 200 medley relay put Chelsea 6 points ahead with Kim Grossman, Erin Hack, Kelly Bowers, and Carey Schiller in first place. Christie Lonskey, Brosnar, Cara Heitman and Angie Wilson were third. Erin Armstrong, Hillary Smith, Beth Vogel and Jenny Paddock were sixth. Besty Schmunk won the 200 free.

Baird was third and S. Wesolowski fifth to put Chelsea up, 20-10.

The Bulldogs held their 10 point lead through the next two events with Bowers 2nd in the 200 I.M., Brosnar 3rd and Heitman 5th. Hack was 1st in the 50 free, Schiller 4th and Wilson 6th.

Dexter tied the score at 47 points with a 1st, 3rd and 5th finish in diving, and 1st, 2nd, 5th finish in the 100 butterfly. Lonskey was 2nd in diving, Alicia Vogel 4th, and Melissa Sayer 6th. In the butterfly, Bowers was 3rd, S. Wesolowski 4th and Heitman 6th.

Grossman was 1st in the 100 free, Schiller was 3rd and Armstrong 6th to put Chelsea up by two points, 56-54. They held their 2-point lead with Schmunk winning the 500 free, Baird 4th and Michelle Dymond 6th.

The 200 free relay team of Hack, Schiller, Baird, and Schmunk took 1st place. Brosnar, Wilson, S. Wesolowski, and Dymond were 4th, and Carrie Smith, H. Smith, J. Wesolowski, and Paddock were 5th, making the score 72-68 in favor of Chelsea.

The lead stayed at 4 points after the 100 backstroke with Grossman taking 2nd, Lonskey was 3rd and Armstrong 5th.

The 100 breaststroke was a big event for the Bulldogs with Hack 1st, Brosnar 3rd and B. Vogel 4th, putting the lead back at 10 points.

Bowers, Baird, Schmunk and Grossman won the 400 free relay, S. Wesolowski, Heitman, Wilson and Lonskey were 4th, and Dymond, C. Smith, J. Wesolowski and Armstrong 5th.

In the Fenton meet, freshman Kim Grossman and senior Betsy Schmunk took 1st and 2nd, respectively, in the 200 I.M. and both qualified for state. Grossman is now qualified in four individual events and all three relays. Schmunk is qualified in three individuals and three relays.

How To Care For Your Pumpkin This Halloween

To keep your pumpkins healthy and happy this Halloween, be sure their costumes are bright and visible. And that masks don't block their vision. Give them a flashlight or glow stick to help them see and be seen.

Make sure your children stick to neighborhoods they know and well-lit streets. Urge them to walk on sidewalks and cross at the crosswalk.

One last thing. Please check candy before it's eaten, and throw away any unwrapped goodies.

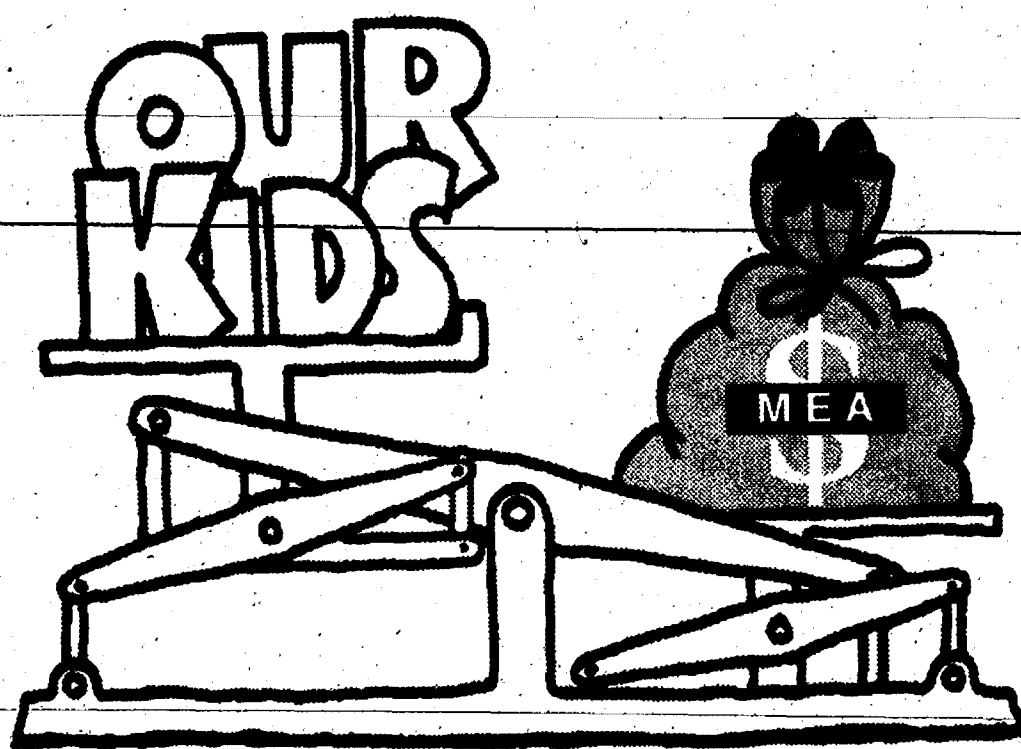

Working together, we can help keep our pumpkins glowing this Halloween.

Did Alma Wheeler Smith support the MEA over our kids for a $3,000 campaign contribution?

Joe Mikulec wouldn't take MEA money.

Joe Mikulec stood up for our kids against the MEA strike this fall and supported House Bill 5128, which forces both the MEA and school boards to negotiate in good faith.

Alma Wheeler-Smith didn't. In fact, an MEA publication says, "Alma will help lead the charge to repeal HB5128."

Why...? Was it because the MEA contributed $3,000 to her campaign? Was it because she values special interests more than the interests of our kids? Or was it because she's just so out of touch with the people in our community? Whatever the reasons, we know whose side Alma's on.

Joe Mikulec is on our side.

He's not a professional politician and doesn't want to become one. He wants to represent our interests in Lansing and use his real-life business and community experience to help make our district and our state a better place to live.

Bring responsibility, ethics and common sense back to the legislature by electing Joe Mikulec. Do it for our kids!

Sheriff's Dept. Urges Safety Precautions for Halloween

Sheriff Ronald J. Schebil and the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department is reminding citizens to be safety conscious as Halloween approaches. Before parents allow their little "ghosts and goblins" to set out on their trick or treating adventures, they should take the time to discuss some simple, common sense rules that will make the Halloween holiday a much safer one.

- Children should be accompanied by a responsible adult when they go door-to-door.

- If no adult supervision is available, keep children in large groups. Never allow your child to walk alone. Also, be sure you know which friends your children will be with and which route they are taking.

- Tell your children to "trick or treat" in their own neighborhood and in well-lighted areas. Daylight hours are best.

- If children are going out after dark, however, make sure they carry a flashlight. Costumes should be made of light-colored and/or reflectorized material.

- Make sure children's costumes fit well and that their vision is not hampered.

- Instruct children to remove face masks before crossing the street and remind them to "look both ways" for on-coming traffic! Teach your children to use sidewalks and crosswalks whenever possible. If there are no sidewalks, instruct them to walk on the left side of the street, facing on-coming traffic.

- Leave your porch light on so children will know they are welcome to "trick or treat" at your home. Warn your children against going into the homes of anyone they do not know—for any reason!

- Instruct children never to eat anything until they are home and the treats have been examined by parents. Wash and cut fruit before eating. Check the wrapper of commercial treats for signs of tampering. Discard anything unwrapped.

- Call local police and report any suspicious treats.

Isolated incidents of candy and treats being tampered with have been reported in previous years. Parents should remember to personally check their child's treats, or take the items to any one of the candy check points listed below. Metal detectors will be used to check the candy on Halloween night at these locations.

Candy checks will be conducted at the following McDonald's Restaurant locations:

3811 Carpenter Road, 4775 Washtenaw Ave., and 3752 S. State, all in Pittsfield township, from 6 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.

Contact your local law enforcement agency for additional, up-to-date information on candy check-point locations in your area, or call the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department, Crime Prevention Hotline at (313) 971-4614.

Amendment Will End Frivolous Appeals

By John D. O'Hair,
Wayne County Prosecutor;
Co-Chair, State-Wide Committee
for Proposal B

Proposal B on this November's ballot will eliminate a needless expense in the operation of the Court of Appeals that most taxpayers who aren't lawyers don't even know they're paying for.

Thirty-five percent of the court's docket are automatic appeals by criminal defendants who have voluntarily pled guilty in the trial court.

Proposal B affects only those who admit they are guilty. Automatic appeals of guilty pleas are not needed to assure that innocent people are not convicted or that illegal sentences are not imposed. Very, very rarely do people voluntarily plead guilty, when they are not. It is also the rare occurrence where a trial judge imposes a sentence that is not authorized by law or impermissible under sentencing guidelines.

However, if the very rare does occur, Proposal B makes a perfectly fair and constitutional alternative remedy available to the aggrieved defendant.

In every case, the defendant can still file a petition with the Court of Appeals for leave to appeal. In this petition, defendants can describe why they were mistaken when they confessed guilty, or why their sentences are illegal. If they are right, the Court of Appeals can grant them relief. But it is inefficient and foolhardy for 4,000 automatic appeals to be filed, because a tiny fraction may need review.

The Prosecuting Attorney Association of Michigan, and a majority of the Court of Appeals judges themselves, have supported the Senate Joint Resolution that put Proposal B on the ballot, and you should too. Vote "yes" on B on Nov. 8.

The appellate rights of defendants who plead not guilty, defend against the charge, but are "found" guilty by a judge or a jury would not be affected by the passage of Proposal B in any way, shape or form. Defendants found guilty will continue to enjoy an automatic right of appeal.

You heard right. When the trial judge asked: "How do you plead?" they, in so many words, said: "I'm the guy who did it. But since taxpayers will pay for a free appeal, sure, give me a lawyer and let's appeal."

Card of Thanks 19

CARD OF THANKS
We would like to thank friends and neighbors for the cards, food, prayers, calls and flowers shown to our family at the time of Melinda's death. Sincere thanks to the Chelsea Church of Christ for their support and help.
The Melinda Haffey Family.

Card of Thanks 19

THANK YOU
I would like to send a Tremendous Thank-you out to Chelsea Fire & Rescue, Chelsea Police, Huron Valley Ambulance, Chelsea Emergency Room doctors and staff, St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Dr. Otto Gago, Michigan Heart Institute, Dr. Winston and many others who may have been involved with the care of my Mother, JoAnne Arnett. Everyone was wonderful professionally and personally. Considering everything she has been through in 1994, she is making a wonderful recovery. God bless you all.
Her Daughter, Linda Satterthwaite

THANK YOU
Whoever said In-Laws were Out-Laws... was sadly mistaken because I have the most wonderful Mother-in-law anyone could have. I want to Thank her for everything from using her car to watching my precious possessions, Troy Lee and Morgan. You were there when I needed someone to help in my time of need. As stressful as the situations could get you were my relief. I owe you a million dollars Carol Satterthwaite!!!!
Your Daughter-in-law,
Linda Satterthwaite

THANK YOU
Having just returned from 9 days at Chelsea Community Hospital, my heart is filled with thankfulness. Dr. Wilhelm, Dr. Szymanski, and Dr. Portz have given me, a second chance. I couldn't have gotten through this most difficult time without the love of my husband, Don, and our children, Brenda, Jeff, Beth, Karen and their spouses and our 11 grandchildren. I'm forever grateful to the Rev. Gary Kwiatek, Chaplain Kathy Batell for their prayers along with those of our many friends and close family. For the flowers, calls, cards, those who visited and the dedicated staff on the East wing. Sincerely, Barbara Stoll.

MYRTLE STANLEY
In loving memory of a beloved mother, grandmother and great-grandmother who left us three years ago, Oct. 31, 1991. We remember you for what you were, a thoughtful and loving mother, a tender, loving grandmother, a joyful loving great-grandmother. The woman we loved taught us the greatest gift in life, is being able to love and forgive. Forever loved and sadly missed by her husband, daughters, sons, grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Frivolous Appeals

Over 4,000 automatic guilty-plea appeals are filed each year. Only 15/100 of 1% get reversed, but they so backlog the Court of Appeals, other cases are subjected to intolerable delay.

Moreover, automatic guilty-plea appeals help fuel the constant drumbeat to enlarge the Court by creating permanent new judgeships. Before 1989, there were 18 appellate judges. In the last 5 1/2 years, the court has had 24 judges, yet has fallen further behind. Last year, the Legislature authorized 4 more permanent appellate judgeships who will take office in January 1995—and this was a disappointment to the Supreme Court which was asking for a dozen new appellate judgeships.

The Michigan courts' practice of allowing an automatic appeal of guilty-plea-based convictions is a horrific violation of common sense; it is not how the majority of other states handle this kind of case; yet it has been going on in Michigan for 25 years. It is time to end this spectacle by passing Proposal B.

State-Wide Ballot Proposal Bulletin. Now Available Free

On Tuesday, Nov. 8, Michigan citizens will have the opportunity to vote on four state-wide ballot questions. Each issue will ask for a YES or NO response, and each will be decided by a majority vote of those voting on that question.

Voters are making these choices because Michigan's Constitution gives citizens a direct voice, through popular vote, in amending the state constitution, in approving a new law or in changing an existing law.

Michigan State University Extension Specialists have authored a bulletin which explains the ballot proposals, providing information on the background and intent of each proposal, as well as a brief policy discussion of each.

A copy of this informational bulletin may be obtained at no cost from the Washtenaw County MSU Extension Office located at the County Service Center, 4133 Washtenaw Ave., Ann Arbor, phone: 313-971-0079.

Willow Run Tradeport Recognized By WDC

Washtenaw Development Council has awarded their first annual "Washtenaw Partnership Awards," recognizing the Willow Run International Tradeport Task Force and the Saline Economic Development Center at their recent Developers' Showcase and Open House.

According to WDC President Mark Oumet, "We decided this year that, if we are going to continue to preach partnership we needed to recognize and reward partnership. It was with that in mind that we decided to initiate the Washtenaw Partnership Awards. That proved to be the easy part, with the hard part being making a decision between the many good examples of partnership in this county. We finally concluded we had to recognize both the Saline Economic Development Center and the Willow Run Tradeport initiative."

The Saline Economic Development Center is a unique partnership between Saline Economic Development Corporation, Washtenaw Small Business Development Center, Washtenaw Community College and Saline Area Chamber of Commerce.

The four partners provide a one-stop shop for business owners, where they can receive practical business and technical counseling, state funded job training, access to business information, site development services, classroom space and financial packaging. The Center serves businesses throughout Washtenaw county.

The Willow Run International Tradeport initiative was begun in October, 1992, in an effort to mitigate the effects of the closing of the Willow Run General Motors Assembly Plant. Where other communities might have lost valuable time in responding to such an event,

ST. LOUIS CENTER friends and supporters gathered Saturday evening for their annual Fall Harvest Auction. Auctioneers Bill Grant and Ken Unterbrink resorted to extreme measures to wring out the highest possible bid on items which all was for the benefit of the boys in the home. Grant moonlighted during the day as Warden of Southern Michigan Prison in Jackson while Unterbrink puts his time in as designer at Ford Motor Co.
