A CHRISTMAS EVE FIRE was reported at Rodgers Corner Produce on Dexter-Chelsea Rd. Chelsea and Dexter fire departments responded to

Christmas Eve Fire Reported

Chelsea and Dexter firefighters responded to a Christmas Eve fire that destroyed a barn at Rodgers Corner Produce in Lima township.

The 30 ft. by 50 ft. barn was completely engulfed in flames by the time firefighters arrived shortly after 11 a.m. It took 21 Chelsea firefighters and five of Dexter's to wet down surrounding buildings and prevent the fire from spreading.

Chelsea Fire Chief Paul Hankerd said all they could do was let the barn burn and wet down the others that stood nearby. The property, located at 10630 Dexter-Chelsea Rd., is owned by Sue and Douglas Rodgers.

Chelsea Fire Department spent over four hours on the scene. No injuries were reported. A pig and baby chicks were evacuated before firefighters arrived.

Hankerd said the Rodgers family suspects the fire may have ignited by the pig kicking up straw that landed on a heat lamp used to keep the baby chicks warm. Damages to the barn and its contents are estimated at $55,000.

A CIVIL WAR REENACTMENT at South and North Elementary schools proved to be an education in history for fourth and fifth grade students. Chelsea resident Jim Rapal and his daughter, Sarah, paid a visit to both schools last Wednesday as part of the Talent Development Program.

New Regime To Serve Chamber of Commerce

■ John Mitchell Sr. Steps Down, Pat Cleary To Take the Helm.

Chelsea Village Chamber of Commerce will bring in the new year with a new administration as board president John Mitchell, Sr. leaves his post, and vice-president Pat Cleary takes the reins.

The handing over of the gavel is nothing unexpected for both chamber officials. Just as in past years, the president is being replaced by the vice-president.

Mitchell has served on the chamber board of directors since 1992, when he was appointed by a nominating committee to serve as a board member. In 1993 he was promoted to vice-president before taking over the helm this year.

Mitchell, at age 52, represents a strong commitment to tradition and family in Chelsea, running the Staffan-Mitchell Funeral Home the past 14 years with his son, John Jr., and wife, Gloria. The elder Mitchell purchased the funeral home and moved with his family to Chelsea from Rochester. His funeral home was the oldest continually owned funeral home in the state, since 1853, when he purchased it in 1980. A graduate of the Wisconsin Institute of Mortuary Science in Milwaukee, Wis., Mitchell will mark 30 years as a licensed funeral director next year.

Mitchell's replacement represents new enthusiasm and commitment to the village. Cleary, 35, owns and operates Cleary's Pub on Main St. He resides within the village and is engaged to be married in April.

A former General Motors employee, Cleary moved to Chelsea three years ago from Brighton when he purchased the pub. He says what drew him to Chelsea was the strong sense of community he felt while he was here.

Both Mitchell and Cleary are community-minded and active in local service organizations. Mitchell is the past president of Chelsea Kiwanis Club, an organization he has been a member of the past 14 years. Prior to his move to Chelsea, Mitchell was also a member of the Rochester Kiwanis Club and was the Rochester Chamber of Commerce president. He and his family also belong to the United Methodist church.

Cleary has been an active member of the Knights of Columbus in Chelsea for over two years. He joined Chelsea Chamber of Commerce three years ago, and immediately became engrossed in the organization.

Besides holding annual fund-raisers, Chelsea Chamber of Commerce is recognized for hosting economic breakfast meetings. Recently, Fred Barkley of County Parks was the keynote speaker at an economic breakfast.

A goal of Mitchell and the chamber has been to unite the downtown merchants with merchants in the outlying shopping malls. "It's getting better," Mitchell says of the relationship.

Although Mitchell is leaving the helm, he will still be active in the chamber hierarchy. He will serve one more year on the board in an advisory capacity, as did past president John Evans of BookCrafters.

Mitchell said he will remember his reign as a time when membership hit an all-time high with 148 dues-paying members. It was also an active year as the chamber helped sponsor successful events, such as the House Party and Bounty for the County.

The House Party, held Sept. 23, was an idea conceived by Cleary. Proceeds were used to support community projects and support chamber promotions. The event included an evening of live entertainment, a Monte Carlo room and food.

Bounty for the County was a particularly successful fund raiser for the chamber of commerce this year. Sponsored in co-operation with the Ann Arbor Culinary Association, the food festival was held Sept. 11 in downtown Chelsea. It included participation by 15 area restaurants, coming together under tents, and live musical entertainment.

Perhaps the chamber will be best remembered this year for its elaborate public relations brochure touting the Village of Chelsea. Paid in part with a contribution from Michigan Consolidated Gas Company and funds from the chamber, the brochure touts the village and its industrial park. It was designed by the advertising agency Young & Rubicam. Mitchell says the chamber receives daily requests for the brochure, which touts Chelsea as "A jewel in the Michigan countryside where the simple pleasures of life are still the most important of all."

A NEW REGIME will bring in the New Year at Chelsea Chamber of Commerce as president John Mitchell, Sr. steps down and vice-president Pat Cleary takes the reins.

Mitchell says people interested in moving to the village and children studying Michigan towns have predominately been recipients of the brochure.

A noteworthy accomplishment Mitchell is particularly proud of is the chamber's placement of holiday decorations throughout the downtown with help from Chelsea Village Department of Public Works. This year, the chamber contributed $2,700 worth of bows for wreaths placed throughout the downtown. Money for the bows was raised through the House Party fund-raiser.

Mitchell says people interested in moving to the village and children studying Michigan towns have predominately been recipients of the brochure.

A goal of Mitchell and the chamber has been to unite the downtown merchants with merchants in the outlying shopping malls. "It's getting better," Mitchell says of the relationship.

ship. "We're also trying to develop some kind of Chelsea-area business committee to benefit all of the businesses in the Chelsea area."

Mitchell says Chelsea is booming. People are interested in housing, the schools, business opportunities and shopping. "It's becoming a kind of destination place," Mitchell said. In particular, Mitchell says Merkel's furniture store, the Purple Rose Theater and the Common Grill have attracted people and their patronage to Chelsea.

Cleary says he sees no changes in store for Chelsea Chamber of Commerce when he takes the helm Jan. 1. "My goal is to keep it going on track," he said. Cleary intends to continue building a better relationship between mall business owners and downtown merchants.

"(The chamber) is going to work on marketing Chelsea as a place people can tell their friends about; how nice it is and what a beautiful town it is," Cleary said.

Security Savings Will Open Chelsea Office

Alessandro P. DiNello, president of Security Savings Bank, F.S.B., in Jackson, has announced that the Bank will be expanding its operations to Chelsea. The new branch office will be located on M-52, just north of I-94 and will open in Mid-1995.

"We are looking forward to entering the Chelsea market," stated DiNello. "This will be a full-service office, offering deposit and loan services, as well as drive-up banking, a 24-hour automatic teller machine and extended operating hours," continued DiNello.

The bank will lease approximately 2,000 sq. ft. of a new 3,000 sq. ft. building to be erected by Dick Koler. The site is located next to the north edge of the Parts Peddler store, extending some 175 feet to the north, and from M-52 westward to Old Manchester Rd.

Security Savings Bank is headquartered in Jackson, and operates eight locations in Jackson and Hillsdale county.

Ann Arbor Machine To Begin Operations at Dana Plant

Ann Arbor Machine has started moving equipment into the Dana Corp. plant on Sibley Rd. in anticipation of setting up operations at that location when Dana vacates the facility at the end of the year.

Ron Betzig, vice-president of administration for Ann Arbor Machine, said the steady growth of his company necessitated an expansion.

"We did $27 million in sales in 1993, and we anticipate sales of $30 million this year," Betzig said. "So you can see we've done some major growing. We've added about 100 employees over the last year and a-half and need space for them all," he added.

The company presently employs 250 full and part-time workers.

Ann Arbor Machine will have operations at both their current Jackson Rd. plant and the 150,000-square-foot Dana plant.

Hotly workers at Chelsea Industries, Inc. narrowly defeated an attempt at unionization by the United Auto Workers in a vote taken Thursday at the company. ★ Should Michigan Become a Right-to-Work State?

By Joseph P. Overton

When top officials of the state's labor unions raised the prospect of Michigan becoming a "right-to-work" state in the recent campaign, they hoped that voters would be frightened away from supporting the incumbent governor.

"John Engler has a secret agenda for right-to-work," they charged. Governor Engler denied it, but never offered good reasons why Michigan should not adopt the right-to-work principle. The union leadership's effort to stir the electorate on this issue failed decisively, suggesting that Michigan is not the same state it was at the height of the union movement 40 years ago. Perhaps it's time that the law change too.

Right-to-work, in its broadest application, simple means that no man or woman may be compelled to join a labor union in order to hold a job. Since 1947, when Section 14(b) of the Taft-Hartley Act allowed states to grant workers a choice in union membership, 21 states have enacted right-to-work laws. Until recently, the chance that Michigan might pass one seemed remote to nil—thanks to the substantial clout of organized labor.

Today, however, is not 1950. At 20 percent, the portion of Michigan's work force that is unionized is about half what it was 40 years ago. In the information age, the nature of work itself is being transformed—away from traditional and monotonous assembly line jobs that invite union activity and toward more independent, flexible, creative, and individualistic work that makes anachronisms of punch clocks and picket lines. Service jobs, often not conducive to unionization, are huge in number and growing in importance. Unions are perceived by many people today as old-fashioned, high-cost barriers to worker entrepreneurship and upward mobility in an increasingly competitive world economy.

Furthermore, a wide range of legal protections and social benefits render obsolete the union caricature of the helpless worker. Arguably, some of those protections and benefits have produced economic problems of their own, but they include unemployment insurance, workers' compensation, civil rights and wrongful discharge laws, and expanded opportunities for education and re-training.

The experience of the last state to approve right-to-work—Idaho in 1986—may be especially instructive. To defeat the measure in a statewide referendum, unions spent a fortune in an unsuccessful effort to convince Idahoans that right-to-work would mean lower wages, higher unemployment, and a stagnant economy. One statistic argued powerfully to the contrary was this one: the 20 states which had right-to-work between 1975 and 1985 created a whopping 92 percent of the nation's new manufacturing jobs—more than 10 times as many as were created in the other 30 states. Also, Idaho's right-to-work competitors had less unemployment and in some cases, even higher hourly wages.

Since right-to-work passed in 1986, the Idaho economy has gone from being the laggard among western states to being the nation's fastest growing. In every year since 1986, per capita income has risen at rates well above the national average. New business start-ups are breaking records, and business failures are sharply down. In 1989, Idaho's Commerce Department director—an appointee of the state's Democratic governor—said that gains like these would probably not have happened without right-to-work.

After an estimated one-quarter to one-third of Idaho's unionized workers quit their unions when freed to do so, the law led to a more accountable union leadership. As the Idaho State Journal editorialized, "Strong unions with responsible leadership need not fear right-to-work; indeed, the voluntary aspect of membership makes leadership work harder. Those labor unions which buck right-to-work the hardest may be those with the least support to begin with." This is a case where the exercise of a worker's basic right to freedom of association produces a harmonious outcome for everybody.

Right-to-work is not anti-union and it does not lower-over-all wages. It is pro-choice on the issue of union membership. It can lead to greater productivity and higher wages by reducing costly and inefficient union work rules. It encourages investment in new jobs and invigorates the economy with new incentives for entrepreneurship.

The Engler administration is considering dubious "economic development" programs that involve state subsidies and selective tax breaks to help reduce the high cost of doing business in Michigan. Improving the business and job-creation climate by enacting right-to-work would make better sense—and it doesn't require a dime of taxpayer money.

Labor reform that brings Michigan law up to date with the times is not something to be feared. The ho-hum response to "the sky is falling" ploy of union leadership suggests the public understands that. Now, let's put the scare-talk and give right-to-work the serious and studied consideration the people of this state deserve.

CRP Changes Called Good News for Environmental Quality

The Agriculture Department's (USDA) recent offer to extend the Conservation Reserve Program for another 10 years was "long-awaited good news for agriculture and the nation's environmentally sensitive agricultural resources," according to Jack Laurie, president of the Michigan Farm Bureau.

"CRP has done an excellent job reducing soil erosion over the last nine years," Laurie said. "We applaud USDA Secretary Eby for recognizing CRP's dynamic track record by giving farmers the option to extend CRP contracts on previously identified highly erodible acres. The flexibility offered by the mid-contract modification option is also a plus. Some farmers, as market signals dictate, may choose to put some of their more productive CRP ground back into production. That would free up funding for acreage that might be more environmentally sensitive."

According to Laurie, the CRP should be considered "the centerpiece" of the 1995 farm bill's conservation title. "The program is good for both farmers and the environment," he said. "CRP is one of the easiest programs for USDA to administer and it is one of the most effective. CRP allows public funds to pay for the conservation of areas that the public generally perceives as more environmentally valuable. It is important that farmers be offered incentives like CRP payments for foregoing their land's productive, economic viability."

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I and the rest of the country store regulars stayed home Saturday because our old ladies said we would if we knew what was good for us, and we all do. I didn't tell mine, but the fellow who runs the store had told us he was going to close early to have time with his family.

We always are recruited to help the wimmen with last hour chores they forget or put off on purpose. In my case the extra jobs around the house started two weeks ago, when we addressed the cards. They picked up strong the middle of last week, when my old lady started her cooking, and they run through late Saturday night, when she wound it up.

For sure, neither cold, nor dark, nor age nor stubborn husband will keep her from her appointed rounds. Come the Christmas season she is going to cook and share what she cooks with everybody she visits and who visits her. The truth is, I may grumble about what little she calls on me to do, but she gets me caught up in and I enjoy the eating and the sharing.

But between jobs I had time to catch up on some reading, and to notice the surveyor's stakes in front of a patch of woods across the road from the house. The folks who own the land live on the next road over, and I found out they've got an offer from a developer interested in putting houses and a golf course over there.

Like the fellow had put on his tombstone, I expected this, but not yet. Out here in the country we still got room to cuss the cat, our nearest neighbor is out of sight and sound and our drinking water is not enriched with vitamins and minerals and all the chemicals that make water better for you than plain water. But we see it, and we know it's bound to catch us sooner, not later.

Which leads me to thinking people are mighty funny. They move to the country and put up big houses with picture windows so they can look at other folks looking at them through picture windows. They bunch up like ants in a hill because they've got to have the pipes and wires and cable TV they had where they were.

When you think it up one side and down the other, you see they trade one rut for another. They have the same clothes, the same haircut, the same lamp post, the same mailbox on top of a wagon wheel or milk can, and they all got picture windows.

Actual, picture windows ain't front porches with swings, but they are nice if you see pretty pictures when you look out. But after developers buy the land their next move is to pack as many houses on it as they can to make the most money they can, and there's where the picture window loses its appeal.

Practical speaking, I can't predict what's going to happen across the road any more than I can tell what the economy is going to do under the Republicans who have got to do somepun big, even if it's wrong. Right now, the new crowd already is looking for something, like the Federal Reserve, to blame. I figure trying to get a handle on the economy is like the boy who ask his Pa how they made the holes in macaroni. The old man thought it over and said they make the hole and wrap the macaroni around it.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

Add A Healthy Habit Each Month

By Debbie Barrow, Extension Home Economist
You don't have to wait until New Year's Day to start keeping a resolution. You can begin anytime. And you don't have to do everything at once.

If you begin now and add one new healthy habit a month, you'll have significantly improved your family's well-being by a year from now.

Consider the following:

Month 1: Commit to the bean routine—serve legumes more often. Dry peas and beans are an excellent source of fiber and other complex carbohydrates—important nutrients that most Americans don't eat enough of—and a low-fat source of protein. Start small. If you're not used to eating beans, eat small servings, initially, then slowly increase your intake to help reduce bean bloat.

Month 2: Downsize protein portions. Most Americans eat more protein than they need. Limit your consumption of trimmed lean meats, poultry and fish to 3 to 4 ounces per day, and you'll be more likely to keep fat and cholesterol in check. A 3-ounce portion of meat is about the same size as a deck of cards.

Month 3: Count fat grams, not calories. People who eat a high-fat diet tend to gain more weight than those who eat the same number of calories from lower fat foods. To find out more about how many grams of fat you should be consuming, contact your local county MSU Extension office and ask for the USDA's Food Guide Pyramid pamphlet (60 cents).

Month 4: Adopt the "five-a-day" approach to better health. The National Cancer Institute estimates that approximately 140 million Americans—almost half the population—eat fewer than the recommended five servings of fruits and vegetables a day. What are they missing? Fruits and vegetables provide much-needed vitamins, minerals and fiber and no cholesterol. Almost all are naturally low in calories, fat and sodium.

Month 5: Make an effort to eat seafood at least twice a week. Most seafood is low in fat and is an ideal replacement for fattier protein food. All fish and shellfish have special oils (omega-3 fatty acids), that some studies suggest may protect against heart disease. Be sure to observe any advisories for local fish.

Month 6: Replace a standard-fat product with a low-fat one. These trades will save calories and fat. Switching from whole milk to skim milk for two glasses a day, for instance, will save you more than 50,000 calories a year. If everything else stayed the same, that would mean a weight loss of 14.5 pounds!

Month 7: Eat your antioxidants. Studies have shown that antioxidants such as vitamin C, vitamin E and beta carotene may reduce the risk of certain diseases, such as cancer and heart disease. Sweet potatoes, berries, peppers, wheat germ, spinach, carrots and squash are some of the foods high in one or more of these important vitamins.

Month 8: Give up rare burgers. The well-done burger is in, rare is out. Avoid potential problems with ground beef and other ground meats that may have been contaminated during processing by cooking all ground meats until they reach medium doneness and turn gray.

Month 9: Adopt a new approach to weight loss. Chronic dieters know that with each new diet, weight becomes harder to lose and easier to gain. Stop short-term restrictive dieting and instead develop a healthy lifestyle you can adopt permanently. Nutrition experts recommend a low-fat, high-carbohydrate food plan combined with exercise.

Month 10: Add variety with one meatless meal a week. Most families eat the same meals over and over. Add variety by experimenting once a week with a new recipe that uses a grain, rice or pasta base. Meatless meals highlight good-for-you complex carbohydrates.

Month 11: Help kids build nutritious habits. Studies show that 52 percent of teen-age girls spend two hours per week shopping for family groceries. It's never too early to teach children how to put together nutritious meals and snacks. Start by acquainting them with the Food Guide Pyramid, which emphasizes grains, fruits and vegetables and downplays fats and sweets.

Month 12: Update your cooking habits. Trade in high-fat cooking methods for healthier techniques. Try pay-frying with non-stick cooking spray instead of oil. Broil or grill meat instead of frying.

Story Hour Held at Library

Children attending story hour at McKune Library the days before Christmas made bird feeders as gifts of winter treats for their feathered friends. The children covered corn cobs with peanut butter then rolled it in bird seed. With the help of parents, they tied it all up with red string to hang for the birds.

Following this activity, the children were treated to a magical puppet play presented by Barbara

Boehm of Sylvan Kinder Kottage in Chelsea. From out of a basket on her lap, Mrs. Boehm captivated her young audience with simple silk marionette puppets. As each little puppet took the "stage," some of the parents helped the characters move and come to life. Mrs. Boehm told the timeless fairy tale of "Star Child." This seasonal message of giving came to light as the children followed the main character's journey. It was a journey of sharing all she had until the stars fell from the heavens, turning into "star money" and making her rich all the days of her life.

Upon conclusion of the puppet play, all attending shared holiday treats brought by the parents. For information of future story hour presentations, call McKune Library at 475-8732.

Manchester Man Completes Training

Navy Seaman Recruit Jason C. Gehringer, son of Charlot M. Gehringer of 421 Territorial, Manchester, recently completed U.S. Navy basic training at Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes, Ill.

During the eight-week program, Gehringer completed a variety of training which included classroom study, practical hands-on instruction, and an emphasis on physical fitness. In particular, Gehringer learned naval customs, first aid, fire fighting, water safety and survival, and a variety of safety skills required for working around ships and aircraft.

Men and women train together from their first day in the Navy just as they do aboard ships and at shore bases around the world. To reinforce the team concept, Gehringer and other recruits also were trained in preventing sexual harassment and ensuring equal opportunity.

Even as the naval service gets smaller over the next few years, highly motivated young people like Gehringer are still finding an opportunity to improve their knowledge and education as they become part of the most highly technical naval force in history. This year alone the Navy will have more than 57,000 job openings and opportunities, most of which include guaranteed training.

"Life consists of subtractions, things you have to give up"

As we compile our list of resolutions for the new year, we're impressed by the fact that most deal with bad habits to be eliminated. Certainly no one would deny that correcting bad habits is desirable... if we all succeeded the world would be a far better place. But maybe we should go one step further.

What about including some positive resolutions in our list? Shall we try to be more tolerant and understanding of others? Shall we read more good literature and become better informed? Shall we live the spirit as well as the letter of our religion? Surely, it is worth a try!

Whatever success you have with your resolutions, we wish you a very happy, healthy New Year!

Year-End Tax Planning Can Save Dollars

"It's not too late to save on federal income taxes for 1994," said IRS district director Arlene Kay. "Some year-end planning can help Michigan taxpayers reduce their tax bill," she said.
"Since this is the time for holiday giving and sharing, taxpayers should consider cleaning out the attic or garage and donating items to charities that help the needy," said Ms. Kay. "The fair market value of the items is deductible as a charitable contribution." Ms. Kay explained that beginning this year, contributions over $250 require a written receipt from the charity. "A cancelled check is no longer sufficient proof to claim a deduction," she said.
Ms. Kay also advises taxpayers who will receive Christmas, or year-end, bonuses to review their tax situation. "For a taxpayer who expects to receive less income in 1995 (for example, people who are retiring at the end of 1994), it makes sense to receive the income or bonus in 1995. Less income equals less tax," she added. "Individuals can also benefit by lumping deductions into one year—either this year or next—depending on income," Ms. Kay said.
"Another very important thing all taxpayers should do right now is take a look at how much federal income tax was paid in, either through withholding or estimated tax payments, during 1994. If the amount paid in is less than 90 percent of the estimated total tax bill, an estimated tax payment on Jan. 15, 1995, may be in order. A penalty could be assessed if the 90 percent requirement is not met," she said.
"We are certainly ready to help Michigan taxpayers with their year-end tax planning questions," said Ms. Kay. "Call us toll-free on 1-800-829-1040, or visit one of our local walk-in offices around the state."

horse raised on their horse farm in Lima township. Leonard Kitchen and his nine-year-old chestnut gelding also placed fourth in the Classic Pleasure Driving World Championship.

Morgan Horses Bred by Local Couple Win National Championship Titles

Nemours Royal Beau, a Morgan horse owned by Leonard and Emily Kitchen of Renaissance Morgan Farm in Lima township and shown by Leonard Kitchen, was named Grand National Classic Pleasure Driving Stallion & Gelding Champion for the second consecutive year at the Grand National & World Championship Morgan Horse Show, held Oct. 10-16 in Oklahoma City, Okla. Kitchen and his nine-year-old chestnut gelding also placed fourth in the Classic Pleasure Driving World Championship.

The Kitchens had another winner in their home-bred Renaissance Topaz. Shown by farm trainer Todd Darling, the 10-year-old bay mare was named Grand National Roadster Under Saddle Champion for the third consecutive year. Renaissance Topaz is no stranger to the winner's circle at the world's most prestigious Morgan event, having been both 1993 Grand National Amateur Roadster Under Saddle Champion and Grand National Roadster To Bike Champion.

The Morgan horse has the distinction of being the first American breed, originating in 1789. With over 200,000 names recorded in the official register, Morgans can be found throughout the United States and in 17 foreign countries. The Morgan's versatility, great intelligence, loving temperament and "user friendly" nature make it an ideal family horse. Great beauty, athletic ability and enthusiasm enable it to be a world-class competitor in many disciplines. Morgans have played a significant role in the development of other breeds such as the American Quarter Horse, Saddlebred, Standardbred and Tennessee Walking Horse.

Founded in 1909, the American Morgan Horse Association is a non-profit organization serving over 47,000 Morgan horse owners, breeders, exhibitors and enthusiasts throughout the United States. The AMHA offers many varied services, including horse registry, breed promotion and recognition. The AMHA serves as a parent organization to over 90 Recognized Morgan Horse Clubs and National Service Organizations. It also provides an important link to foreign Morgan horse registries and clubs.

Working in conjunction with the AMHS is the American Morgan Horse Institute, a charitable organization dedicated to educational and historical Morgan activities. The AMHI also sponsors the Grand National & World Championship Morgan Horse Show, the breed's premier show. Held each October in Oklahoma City, this week-long event spotlights over 1,000 of the nation's best Morgan show horses in many disciplines.

Job Training Grant Helps Fill Need

Four area businesses will upgrade the skills of 30 new and current employees through Washtenaw Community College with the help of a $40,399 grant from the Michigan Jobs Commission.

The grant will train six current workers and 24 new hires in blueprint reading and statistical process control for Vico Products, Plymouth; Taylor Screw Products, Belleville; A&H Machine and Tool, Ypsilanti and W.A. Thomas, Chelsea.

"These competitive grants are designed for specific employers' needs and will allow our workers to meet the demands placed on them," said Doug Rothwell, CEO of the Jobs Commission. "By better preparing our workers, we're helping Michigan businesses become more competitive in this global economy."

The grants come from Michigan's $40 million Economic Development Job Training program, one of the largest of its kind in the nation. Grant applications, which may be obtained by calling the Jobs Commission at (517) 373-9808, are reviewed each month.

Jobless Rate Drops in Most Michigan Areas

Unemployment rates continued to drop in nine of Michigan's 10 major labor markets in November, according to seasonally unadjusted estimates compiled by the Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC).

"Only the Upper Peninsula had an increase in its November unemployment rate and much of that was normal seasonal adjustments," MESC director F. Robert Edwards said. "Jobless rates were down in the other areas and, in most cases, the drop marked the fourth straight month of unemployment rate declines."

Since August jobless rates have declined steadily in the Benton Harbor, Detroit, Flint, Grand Rapids/Muskegon/Holland, Kalamazoo/Battle Creek and Saginaw/Bay/Midland areas. Rates have dropped for three continuous months in the Jackson and Lansing areas and for two straight months in the Ann Arbor area.

The Upper Peninsula (U.P.), which had the highest jobless rate among the state's major labor markets last month, reported that seasonal changes in its work force caused unemployment in the 15-county area to increase.

"Job losses among the U.P.'s tourism-related businesses such as eat and drinking establishments, hotels and amusement facilities combined with losses among construction firms and producers of lumber and wood products resulted in higher unemployment in the region," Edwards said.

Among the other major labor markets, the Ann Arbor area had the lowest November jobless rate at 2.7 percent, while the Flint area had the largest change. The Flint area jobless rate dropped by more than a percentage point, falling to 5.4 percent last month from 6.5 percent in October.

All of the areas reported declines in the size of the labor force, in the number employed and in the number unemployed during November.

Edwards said there were seasonal declines in the construction, tourism-related and food and kindred products industries. On the other hand, employment rose in several industries including retail trade, service, automotive and related, furniture and fixtures, and state and local government.

"On the whole, however, there appeared to be a pre-holiday lull in the labor force, which kept jobseekers out of the job market and some employers from hiring," Edwards said. "As a result, unemployment rates dropped."

Over the year, from November 1993 to November 1994, unemployment rates have shown a strong decline, dropping on average by more than two percentage points. The Flint area has had the largest decline, falling from 8.8 percent a year ago to 5.4 percent this year.

WDC Elects 1995 Leaders

Washtenaw Development Council has elected its leadership for the 1995 year. Re-elected for a third term as president was Mark Ouimet, representing the Ann Arbor Chamber of Commerce. Also re-elected was Dave Wierman, of the Ann Arbor News as president-elect; Don House, Local 190 of the Plumbers/Pipefitters, treasurer; and Polly Miller, Miller and Associates, as past president.

Susan Lackey, executive director of the WDC, was named secretary to the organization.

Jim Frenza, nominating committee chair, explained the committee's decision to renominate the existing slate of officers.

"When we selected a new executive director in June of this year we entered a new and exciting time for the WDC. This is a time of change, and we, on the nominating committee, believed that the needs of the organization were best served by retaining some sense of continuity in the leadership."

"This leadership team has guided us well in the past two years, and we count on them to do so again in the next 12 months."

Also selected to the executive committee of the organization were Wesley Prater, Ypsilanti charter township; John Lynch, Washtenaw Community College; Bob Guenzel, Washtenaw county administrator; and Jeff Wallace, village of Manchester.

All terms are for one year.

If current land use trends continue, Michigan will have approximately 8.3 million acres of farmland in 2012. This represents a loss of 1.8 million acres, or 140 square miles per year.

1994 CHELSEA HISTORY:

Year-End News Highlights

January...

3—School district officials didn't know what to expect in light of the Dec. 16 slaying of superintendent Joe Piasecki and wounding of high school principal Ron Mead and teacher Phil Jones. The tragedy occurred the day before the holiday break started. Five extra counselors were on hand at the high school for any students or staff who might need help dealing with the tragedy. English teacher Alice Leith, wife of accused murderer Stephen Leith, was back in class. Substitute science teacher Trevor Trelfa is taking Stephen Leith's place.

5—Chelsea Education Foundation will hold a special meeting in early January to discuss uses of contributions given in memory of Superintendent Joe Piasecki. Piasecki was a founding member of the Foundation.

5—Several expensive projects were on the village's priority list of programs for 1994. Projects cited by village president Richard Steele and village manager Jack Myers were: Continued clean-up of the DPW site on North St. Old leaky underground gasoline storage tanks contaminated the soil and some of the groundwater. New tests seem to indicate, Myers said, that the rest of the building will also have to be razed. Construction of a new water tower. The water tower would be located behind Chelsea A & W and McDonald's on M-52. The current 60-year-old, 100,000-gallon tower may last about as long as it takes to build the new tower, according to a recent study. Another study indicated that the village probably does not have enough water capacity and pressure to handle a major fire in the most southern portions of the village. A transfer station could be built this year, although two hang-ups could be the lead time to order the facility's compactor, and the legal notification process. Also as an unusual side project, Myers said he is looking into having a methane recovery system incorporated into the project. The idea would be to use the methane created by decomposing garbage in the landfill to a generator, which would provide more than enough electrical power to operate both the transfer station and the Western Washtenaw Recycling Authority building. Architect Lincoln Poley has already told council that he believes it would not be economically feasible to renovate the current village office complex, if it is going to house both the village offices and the Chelsea Police Department. That leaves the possibility that the current building could be renovated for one department, and a new building could be constructed for the other. The new building would be constructed on two lots the village owns on Park St. next to the Garage Theater. Also cited in improvements, Steele and Myers said they want to see the village continue its Five Year Plan for infrastructure improvements. Such improvements include purchasing of a specialized $22,000 camera for sewer inspections. Possible paving projects include the remaining portion of Wilkinson St., Railroad St., and Freer Rd. south from Washington St. Sidewalks on Book, Madison, Lane, Arthur, Wellington, and Dewey Sts. are scheduled for repair. Gene Dr. is a direct road on the western edge of the village. It has no water or sewer service. Residents and representatives from village council have been meeting to figure out how to pay for improvements.

5—Village council discussed various options for funding the construction of a trash transfer station. Council has already authorized the sale of $750,000 in bonds to finance the project. The millage, which would not require a vote, would be used, in part, to pay off the bonds.

5—Village council has given its blessing to the establishment of an independent committee to begin the process of changing Chelsea from a village to a home rule city.

5—The Village of Chelsea and many other municipalities could be in deep financial trouble if the state fails to rectify a situation it created by abolishing the use of property taxes for school operations. Without TIFA money generated by school taxes, Chelsea's DDA will be hard-pressed to make the payments on its bonds. And if DDA can't pay the bonds, the village's general fund is the back-up source.

5—Scores of Chelsea students improved this year on most tests administered in the Michigan Educational Assessment Program (MEAP). Fourth grade test scores rose the most of any level. The number of students who had "satisfactory" scores rose from 43 to 58 percent on the reading test and from 48 to 64 on the math test.

6—Pinckney Community Schools may become the first district in the state to be managed by a private company. The Board of Education met on Thursday night to consider a proposal from Alliance for Schools that Work, a consortium of four companies specializing in school management.

8—The showroom, offices, and portions of a garage and body shop at Bob's Ford in Stockbridge were damaged by a fire that swept through the main building early Saturday morning. According to a company employee, a furnace malfunction is suspected to have caused the fire. The dealership, established in 1965, plans to rebuild.

8—Chelsea Bulldogs wrestling team took sixth place at the 14-team Jackson County Western Invitational. Senior John Bob was the only Bulldog to reach the finals. He took second place at 160 pounds after winning his first match by injury default, pinning Dale Arnett of Leslie in :18, and losing to Saline's Greg DeGrand, 5-1, in the finals.

12—The village and Sylvan township have begun preliminary discussions about how a truck route might be constructed west of the village. The concern is that eventually the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) will decide that M-52 has too much traffic and will come up with its own solution. An imposed solution may not necessarily meet with local approval. The governments believe they can head off that possibility by having a solution already devised.

12—Chelsea Board of Education hopes to hire a new superintendent by July 1, the official start of the 1994-95 school year.

12—Chelsea High school science teacher Stephen Leith, the accused murderer of superintendent Joe Piasecki, was taken off the district payroll Monday night when the school board granted him an unpaid leave of absence. Leith, who was at the top of the pay scale as a 15-year teacher with a master's degree, was making $50,353 this year.

12—According to Lt. Jerry Clayton of the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department, Steven Leith is in "one of the higher security levels." Which one, he would not say for security reasons. They have fewer privileges than other prisoners. Leith is allowed out of his cell for one or two hours each day.

19—Chelsea native John C. Mann has been named president and chief executive officer of Chelsea State Bank. Mann succeeds Paul G. Schaible, Jr., who plans to retire at the end of the year. Schaible was named chairman of the board.

19—Architect Lincoln Poley recommended that the police department move village offices, or both, should be moved from the E. Middle St. village office complex. Poley cited many problems with the present building including: no handicap-accessible bathrooms, hallways are too narrow, and no elevator, space is inefficiently organized and mechanical systems need to be upgraded.

19—Thanks to a big rise in property values, Chelsea's Downtown Development Authority will be able to reimburse the Chelsea School District the majority of the money it is scheduled to capture through its Tax Increment Financing Authority (TIFA) this year.

19—Steve Dawdy of Mr. Rubbish in Whitmore Lake tried to convince village council last Tuesday that it can provide trash service more efficiently and economically than a municipality.

19—Rene Papo has submitted an area plan to the village showing what he might do with the land surrounding the proposed golf course. Papo's Arcus Corporation is selling 150 acres and donating another 50 acres to the county for a proposed golf course/winter park project on the south side of Pierce Lake.

19—Chelsea Bulldogs varsity swimming team ranked fourth in the state after starting the season with wins over Novi (130-60), Okemos

(122-60), and Tecumseh (129-57).

20—Testimony by math teacher Vince Brumfiel during last Thursday's preliminary examination in Washtenaw County Circuit Court painted Steven Leith as someone who appeared to be aware of what he was doing shortly before Piasecki was murdered and principal Ron Mead and teacher Phil Jones were wounded. Leith's attorney, Joe Simon, tired to have Leith portrayed in quite a different light. Simon said after the exam that he would use a defense of insanity or "diminished capacity."

20—Chelsea Community Hospital was named one of the top 100 acute care hospitals in the country in a recent study by two health-care related organizations. The study, called "100 Top U.S. Hospitals—Benchmarks for Success" was performed by HCIA, described as the industry's most comprehensive source of health-care information, and Mercer Management Consulting, Inc., a health-care consulting firm.

20—The fifth-ranked Chelsea Bulldogs swimming team remained unbeaten last week as they took a decisive win over the Lincoln Railspitters last Thursday, 129-55.

31—Howard Oesterling of Clinton, who served as superintendent in Whitmore Lake from 1985 to 1992, has been chosen as Chelsea's interim superintendent of schools. The school board interviewed Oesterling and Curtis Bartz, who is interim superintendent in Pellston, at a special meeting.

February...

2—The re-formed Chelsea City Study Committee has had four meetings since the end of December in an effort to begin the process of transforming the village to a home rule city.

2—Village council may decide whether to build a new village hall, renovate the current one, or some combination of both.

2—Hatch Stamping Co. has been granted a tax abatement on $1.5 million in new equipment for their Chelsea Industrial Park facility.

2—A former psychiatric social worker at the Chelsea State Hospital announced last week as the new minister at St. Paul United Church of Christ. The Rev. Dr. Lynn Spitz-Nagel takes the place of the Rev. Erwin Koch, who retired recently.

2—Chelsea cable access television channel 22 will soon have equipment that will allow key agencies, such as the Chelsea School District or Chelsea Police Department to enter their latest information.

2—Village council voted unanimously to pay a $16,500 application fee to the Washtenaw County Department of Public Works, which will be used for county review of the proposed trash transfer station at the Chelsea Solid Waste Facility, as well as advertising for several public hearings.

5—Chelsea Bulldogs junior varsity volleyball team won their second tournament of the year at the 10-team Ypsilanti Invitational last Saturday.

7—Interim superintendent Howard Oesterling of Clinton was formally hired when the school board approves a contract.

7—Chelsea Board of Education approved an early retirement plan as a way to save about $50,000 in salaries next year, $200,000 the second year, and declining amounts thereafter. The district is anticipating

JV Cagers Lose Close Contest to Gabriel Richard

Chelsea junior varsity cagers lost a hard-fought game to Gabriel Richard last Tuesday, Dec. 20, 52-47.

Throughout the game Chelsea trailed behind Gabriel Richard. In the first period the Bulldogs were behind by two, widening the gap in the second period, 13-25. A 16-point deficit marked the end of the third period before the Bulldogs took action with a full court man-to-man trapping defense in the fourth quarter, causing many Gabriel Richard turnovers. The fourth quarter rally, however, wasn't enough to offset poor play in the first three.

"As a team we haven't learned to play with intensity, concentration and focus for four full quarters," said coach Dave Quilter. "In every game we've outplayed our opponents for a quarter or two, then we lose our concentration and focus on offense and defense and let the other team get away from us."

For the game, Paul Bragalone was the high scorer with 22 points. Teammate Ashley Coy scored 15, Jason Lantis scored five, Nathan Butler scored three and Lance Ching scored two.

The Bulldogs' field shooting was 35 percent to Gabriel Richard's 39 percent. Free throw shooting saw Chelsea complete 14 out of 21 and Gabriel Richard completed 13 out of 22.

BRENT YOUNG had two wins and one loss in the JAWS tournament Dec. 17. He was wrestling this Addison entry in the 134 lb. class.

After a decade of research, Department of Agriculture scientists have developed a variety of potato they say is easy to grow and makes a potato chip with low fat content. The new potato is called Chipeta. It resists bruising and some diseases and needs less fertilizer than other potatoes. The high starch content of the potato means it absorbs less fat when fried.

JUST IN TIME DELIVERY: Nadine Shaneyfelt, Lori Schulz, Susie Weber and the Rev. Jerry Beaumont prepared to unload the Toys for Tots & Teens truck at Faith in Action Friday morning. Lori Schulz from the Perky Pantry also delivered the toys from their drop box.

ILLUSTRATION WORKSHOP: Third, fourth and fifth graders at South Elementary school enjoyed an all-day illustration workshop before Christmas with artist-author Tom Woodruff. Students drew various vessels used on the Great Lakes as well as an Egyptian seagoing ship and a Greek Bireme. Tom Woodruff has combined his love of art, the sea and natural history by illustrating two children's books, "Great Lakes and tight finances in the wake of proposed school finance reform. As many as 10 Chelsea teachers or other staff members with at least 15 years of service will be able to take advantage of the plan at the end of the school year.

8—Chelsea Village council voted to seek bids on two proposals. One proposal would have the current complex on E. Middle St. renovated to house the village offices, while the Chelsea Police Department would move to new quarters next to the fire department on W. Middle St. The second proposal would have the current complex renovated to house the police department, and new quarters would be built on Park St. for the administrative offices and council chambers.

9—Village president Richard Steele faces a challenge from his most vocal tormentor of late as he seeks his third term this March. Jim Machnik, who has loudly led the charge to have Gene Dr. improved, filed his nominating petition for president.

9—A computerized study of the Chelsea School District bus system has shown that it will cost more money to switch to a two-tier system. The district was considering a two-tier system.

11—Judge Melinda Morris removed herself from the pre-trial hearing of Stephen Leith, because her secretary, Val Scriven, is a friend of Leith's wife, Alice. Scriven is a former secretary in the school district.

12—Varsity Bulldog wrestlers placed fourth over-all in the Southeastern Conference with a fifth-place finish in the league meet.

17—Final child sexual molestation charges were dropped against Timothy Leonard by Judge Patrick Conlin. Conlin dismissed the case after assistant prosecutor Julia Owdziej said the alleged victim could not say whether the assault occurred in 1990 or 1991. He had earlier ruled that the prosecution had to narrow the time frame of the case to at least five months.

19—Beach Middle school swimming and diving team had four state champion performances at the Michigan Interscholastic Swimming Coaches Association Middle School State Championships held at Monroe High school last week-end.

23—School Board plans to hold a millage election on Monday, April 18 or as soon as possible thereafter.

23—The trial of accused murderer Stephen Leith has been rescheduled for Monday, May 2, at 8:30 a.m. before Washtenaw County Circuit Court Judge Donald Shelton.

23—Students in the school district scored higher than the state average on every test administered in the Michigan Educational Assessment Program this year. In most tests, the results differences were higher by at least 10 percentage points.

March . . .

2—Chelsea Village Council approved a $1.9 million general fund budget for the 1994-95 fiscal year during a special council meeting. Last year's budget was $1.89 million.

2—Village manager Jack Myers told village council that he has not decided whether he wants to renew his contract when it expires in June. Myers, who was hired after the forced resignation of former manager Robert Stalker, signed a three-year contract. He has an option for another three years if he and council agree.

2—Fundraising continues for nine-year-old Scott Hinderer, whom was diagnosed in 1989 with leukemia.

2—Friends of McKune Memorial Library voted at the meeting to provide approximately $3,000 to McKune Library to establish a compact disc collection which will be called the Joseph Piasecki CD Collection.

2—Bulldog swimmers and divers placed third in the Southeastern Conference meet last week-end in Dexter.

3—Dana Corporation plant operations on Sibley Rd. will be moved to another company manufacturing facility in Olive Branch, Miss. by the end of the year, the company announced. The Chelsea plant employs 154 people. The plant makes power take-offs, which are used in dump trucks, wreckers, trash trucks and other vehicles that need auxiliary power.

3—The impending pullout of Dana Corporation from Chelsea left the recreation council's project in doubt. The 12 acres of Dana land next to Weber Fields was to be used as the matching portion for a state grant to develop basketball courts, a playground, ball fields, and a parking area. The council was rejected for a grant earlier this year. It plans to re-apply this year.

4—Chelsea Bulldogs finished the regular season in third place in the Southeastern Conference with an 8-4 record.

8—At the Annual Meeting of shareholders of Chelsea State Bank, two individuals were newly elected to the bank's board of directors. Frederick A. Mills and Peter C. Flintoft have been elected directors of the bank as announced by Chelsea State Bank president, John K. Mann.

9—The most important qualities in a new Chelsea School District superintendent should be visibility and accessibility. That was one of several conclusions drawn by consultants Kara and Richard Funk, who conducted 64 interviews in the district. District staff and business leaders were among those interviewed.

9—Four candidates are seeking three seats on village council in the annual village elections on Monday, March 14. Incumbents Joe Merkel, Frank Hammer, and Richard Rigg are being challenged by Harry Thurkow.

11—Chelsea High school's basketball team was named District Champions after beating Tecumseh 66-51.

12—Chelsea boys swimming team competed in the 65th Class B swimming and diving championship at Eastern Michigan University. The Chelsea squad finished 10th with 55 points.

12—Chelsea High school Forensics team won top honors in the 20th annual Brighton Invitational tournament.

15—Area voters overwhelmingly passed Proposal A, joining state-wide voters in their approval of the 2 percent sales tax increase.

15—Chelsea Lions Club received a $5,000 grant from the Lions of Michigan Service Foundation to assist in the search for a suitable bone marrow transplant donor for nine-year-old Scott Hinderer.

16—Council president Richard Steele will serve his third term on the council. He received 183 votes.

Seaman from Hell Spends 6 Months In Western Pacific

Navy Seaman Apprentice James B. Allred, son of James D. and Pam L. Allred of 11600 Langden, Hell, Mich., recently returned from a six-month deployment to the Western Pacific and Arabian Gulf with the repair ship USS Jason.

USS Jason, the oldest ship in the Navy, will continue to provide fleet repair service in San Diego, Calif., until its scheduled decommissioning June 24, 1995.

Allred and USS Jason began their last deployment by returning to the Western Pacific waters where the ship's career began in 1944 during World War II. USS Jason then sailed to Sasebo, Japan, where Allred and the crew of the 529-foot-long repair ship conducted fleet repair services and celebrated the ship's 50th year in commission.

Upon leaving Japan, Allred and USS Jason joined the three ships of the Tripoli Amphibious Ready Group to conduct fleet repair services in Singapore. After their departure, Allred's ship spent six weeks in the Persian Gulf repairing ships operating in support of the "no-fly zone" over Southern Iraq.

The Navy is decommissioning many older ships and replacing them with fewer but more capable ships. Equipped with the latest technology, the newer ships will require highly motivated and skilled young men and women to operate them.

The 1991 graduate of Pinckney High school joined the Navy in August 1993.

IRS Office Helps Solve Problems

Michigan taxpayers who meet delays or encounter difficulties in resolving federal tax problems may receive help through our Problem Resolution office (PRP)," said IRS Problem Resolution Officer David Tash.

"The PRP office helps taxpayers who have had unsuccessful contacts with the IRS. The taxpayer generally deals with one person who has the authority to cut through red tape and handle problems promptly," Tash added.

According to the IRS, the most common problems brought to the PRP office are incorrect billings by IRS, mistakes made by the taxpayer, mixed up social security numbers, or missing refunds.

"Problem resolution should not be used as a substitute for normal channels, because most problems can be resolved before they reach the PRP office," Tash said. "Also, PRP cannot be used to appeal a decision of a tax examination. However, for the taxpayer who has contacted us before and whose problem remains unresolved, PRP can certainly help, he said.

The IRS Problem Resolution Program office may be reached by calling the IRS toll-free on 1-800-829-1040 (ask for PRP), or by visiting one of the local IRS offices around the state.

New Congress Will Consider Issues Important to Farmers

In addition to debating a 1995 Farm Bill, Congress will have a full plate of other agricultural issues to consider during its 1995 session, according to the public affairs director of the state's largest farm organization.

Michigan Farm Bureau's Al Almy said reauthorization of the Clean Water Act is near the top of the list. "This is an important issue for agriculture because the Act governs wetlands and dredge-and-fill operations," he said.

Private property rights protection will also be debated, according to Almy. "There's a growing feeling in Washington that the federal government needs to be trimmed back in the way that it impacts the private property rights of individual landowners. Hopefully, Congress will deal with this in an aggressive and positive manner."

Almy believes health care reform is not likely to be a front-burner issue. "It will get some attention, but it will be more along the lines of streamlining the current system rather than a revolutionary change that Congress was asked to enact in 1994," he said. "Farm Bureau will continue to seek a 100 percent tax deduction for the health insurance premiums paid by the self-employed."

Congress is also likely to consider a Balanced Budget Amendment during its first hundred days of session. "Farmers have always felt that the federal government should operate on a balanced budget," said Almy.

Local Families Open Homes, Hearts to Sick

At age two, little Jermaine is a serious boy. A smile comes when it is coaxed. In contrast, eight-year-old Davion is a talkative and curious child. The two boys, both from Jamaica, have very different personalities but are much the same in their reasons for being in Chelsea.

Both were brought here for medical care at the University of Michigan Hospitals through a national organization called Healing the Children. Two local families are hosting them through their heart surgeries.

Like the Jamaican children, Carlos Rene, a three-year-old from El Salvador, is also here for heart surgery. He arrived Nov. 20 and has changed the lives of his host parents, a retired couple from Chelsea.

Maria Cordera, an 18-year-old from Guatemala, has returned to visit a family she called her own when she underwent several reconstructive and plastic surgeries beginning at age 11.

All were united Friday during a luncheon at the Common Grill in Chelsea. The gathering was organized by Kathy Kentala, a Grass Lake resident who joins her mother, Pat Koch, in co-ordinating the local Healing the Children effort.

Healing the Children was started in 1976 by a Washington couple. After adopting a Korean child who died as a result of a heart defect before arriving in the United States, they decided to turn their grief into a positive endeavor by helping bring children from impoverished countries to the U.S. for necessary surgery unavailable in their own countries. Since that time, the organization has expanded nation-wide and has chapters in every state.

On the local front, Dr. Ed Bove, a surgeon at the University of Michigan Hospital who has a desire to help less fortunate children, put together the Healing the Children chapter Kentala and Koch now co-ordinate. His involvement in the International Heart Fund helped provide hospital care for the children coming here through Healing the Children.

Judy and Kenneth Robards are marking their fourth year as volunteer hosts for Healing the Children. They have helped 15 children through surgery and recovery by providing love and care in their Grass Lake home.

Davion, the Robards' 15th child, arrived Nov. 7 from Jamaica. Since then, he has undergone open heart surgery at the University of Michigan Motz Children Hospital, but must return for repeated surgery Jan. 12. The surgery was something Davion couldn't receive in his own country. His stay is unusually long and Judy Robards is concerned Davion is becoming "Americanized." She, Kenneth and their grown children, Dana and Billie Joe, will continue treating Davion as part of their family, but walk a thin line as Davion becomes accustomed to their American lifestyle.

Judy Robards says Davion has gone from learning how to use indoor plumbing to mastering electronics in their home since his arrival seven weeks ago. "He wants to just try everything," she says. Everything includes driving the family's snowmobile and garden tractor.

The family has also had to teach Davion manners and appropriate behavior in public. When he arrived, Robards says Davion only had the clothes on his back and a few towels. He displayed primitive behavior such as drooling, but has since stopped. He was also used to brushing his teeth with coal wrapped in a towel and dipped in salt.

Robards describes Davion just as a proud mother would. "He is very friendly, very intelligent little boy." She credits her ability to care for him to her family and their support. "You couldn't do it without having your whole family involved," she said.

When it's time for Davion to leave in the next month Robards expects it to be hard. "The day it's not, you know you're doing something wrong. You get very attached," she said. Davion will say goodbye to "Mama Judy" and "Papa Bill," as he affectionately refers to the Robards. He intends to write often after returning to his family, including a twin brother and two sisters.

For Dona Baird, a Chelsea resident and mother of four, hosting young Jermaine has brought her full circle after co-ordinating the program four years ago. Baird used to be the one who sought local families to host the sick children. Now, with four adopted children of her own, she has been called during a pinch to host Jermaine, whom she calls "Brian."

The very serious-looking Brian arrived from Jamaica three weeks ago and was operated on last Tuesday. He was out of the hospital mid with Baird at Friday's luncheon. "He wouldn't stay still at the hospital. He wanted to come home," Baird said. Brian's heart surgery required him to have his rib cage cracked open for the operation. "Children are remarkable. They pop back. If it were an adult who went through this surgery, there is no doubt in my mind he'd be laying in bed right now," she said.

Life has changed for Dona Baird and her husband, Robert, as they care for a two-year-old in diapers. Their children, ages 10 to 15, don't need as much care and attention as a toddler, Baird admits. "It's like going back to two again. They follow you in the kitchen and just stare at you. You know they want something, but you just don't know what," she said.

But the Bairds are enjoying life with Brian. They laugh and play with him, trying to get Brian to smile. "He's so serious and he looks like a little old man until he smiles and his whole face changes," Baird says as she tickles the boy.

For Virginia and Duane Layher of Chelsea, hosting three-year-old Carlos Rene has been a new experience. This is the first year the Layhers have hosted a sick child for Healing the Children. The retired couple live alone on a farm outside the village proper. Their four adopted children are grown and living on their own. With no children at home, their lifestyle has had to be adjusted to accommodate little Carlos Rene of El Salvador. Virginia Layher says Carlos Rene is not used to having electricity. In his small village in El Salvador, the toddler went to bed at dusk and awakened by dawn. And since his Nov. 20 arrival he is stilling doing it, says Layher.

Carlos Rene refers to the Layhers as "grandma" and "grandpa." Virginia Layher says he is no trouble to care for. "He is very well trained and doesn't touch anything. Having him with us has been a pleasure."

Layher says the toddler eats pretty well at his Chelsea host home. Layher cooks him three breakfasts, lunch and dinner. And, even though there is a slight language barrier, she has found that he enjoys chocolate.

On the farm Carlos Rene feels somewhat at home. Back in El Salvador he lives on a farm with a sister and six brothers. His host mother thinks he may have goats on his farm because he likes the calves on their farm but not the steers.

Virginia Layher is documenting Carlos Rene's recovery and stay with photographs she is sending to his parents. She doesn't think it will be hard to say goodbye because she knows how much his family misses him. "I know his mother is going to be so glad to see him. They want to have him back."

Layher and Carlos Rene share a special bond. She knows a little Spanish and communicates with him through his own language. And like Carlos Rene, Layher is Catholic. Together they attend St. Joseph's Catholic church in Dexter, while her husband is Lutheran and attends Our Savior Lutheran church in Chelsea.

Virginia Layher says it's her religious convictions that convinced her to open her heart and home to Carlos Rene. "I personally believe, you're doing this for God, and I love children. I just feel, whenever you can help you should." The couple has decided they will continue serving as volunteer hosts for Healing the Children.

Maria Cordera's attendance at Friday's luncheon was a little different than that of the other children. Cordera is one of Healing the Children's success stories, while the other children are quickly on their way.

Cordera returned to Chelsea to visit a family who hosted her seven years ago when she suffered burns as a result of a house fire in Guatemala. After several reconstructive and plastic surgeries over two years, Cordera shows little signs of the suffering she endured years ago. She visits annually during the holidays to catch up with her former host family and have her myoelectric arm tuned up. This year she is staying with Kathy Kentala's sister, Tami Houle of Chelsea.

Hosted by Kathy Kentala and her family, including husband Keith and daughters Keri, 17, Kyle, 16, and Kelly, 14, Cordera became an integral part of the family during her two-year stay here. She attended classes at Chelsea High school and became involved in the community.

Cordera is among seven children the Kentalas have hosted as volunteers with Healing the Children. Since that time, Kathy Kentala and her mother, Pat Koch, have become co-ordinators of the Ann Arbor-Jackson area chapter. It is their job to find host families and orchestrate all the needs of the children with the hospitals and surgeons. They mainly work with the University of Michigan and Catherine McAuley hospitals, but also receive assistance from Saline and Chelsea Community hospitals for outpatient care. In the future, they will also be working with Foote Hospital in Jackson.

Besides now co-ordinating the local chapter, Kathy Kentala's involvement in the organization has led her into a fulfilling nursing career she just embarked upon after graduating from the University of Michigan two years ago. She is employed by University of Michigan Hospitals and works in the Trauma, Burn and Intensive Care Unit.

Kentala is looking for volunteer host families for Healing the Children. Anyone interested in helping may contact her at 475-7781.

DONA BAIRD of Chelsea hosted two-year-old "Brian" when he came to the United States from Jamaica for heart surgery. Baird offered her home and family as a volunteer host for the Healing the Children organization.

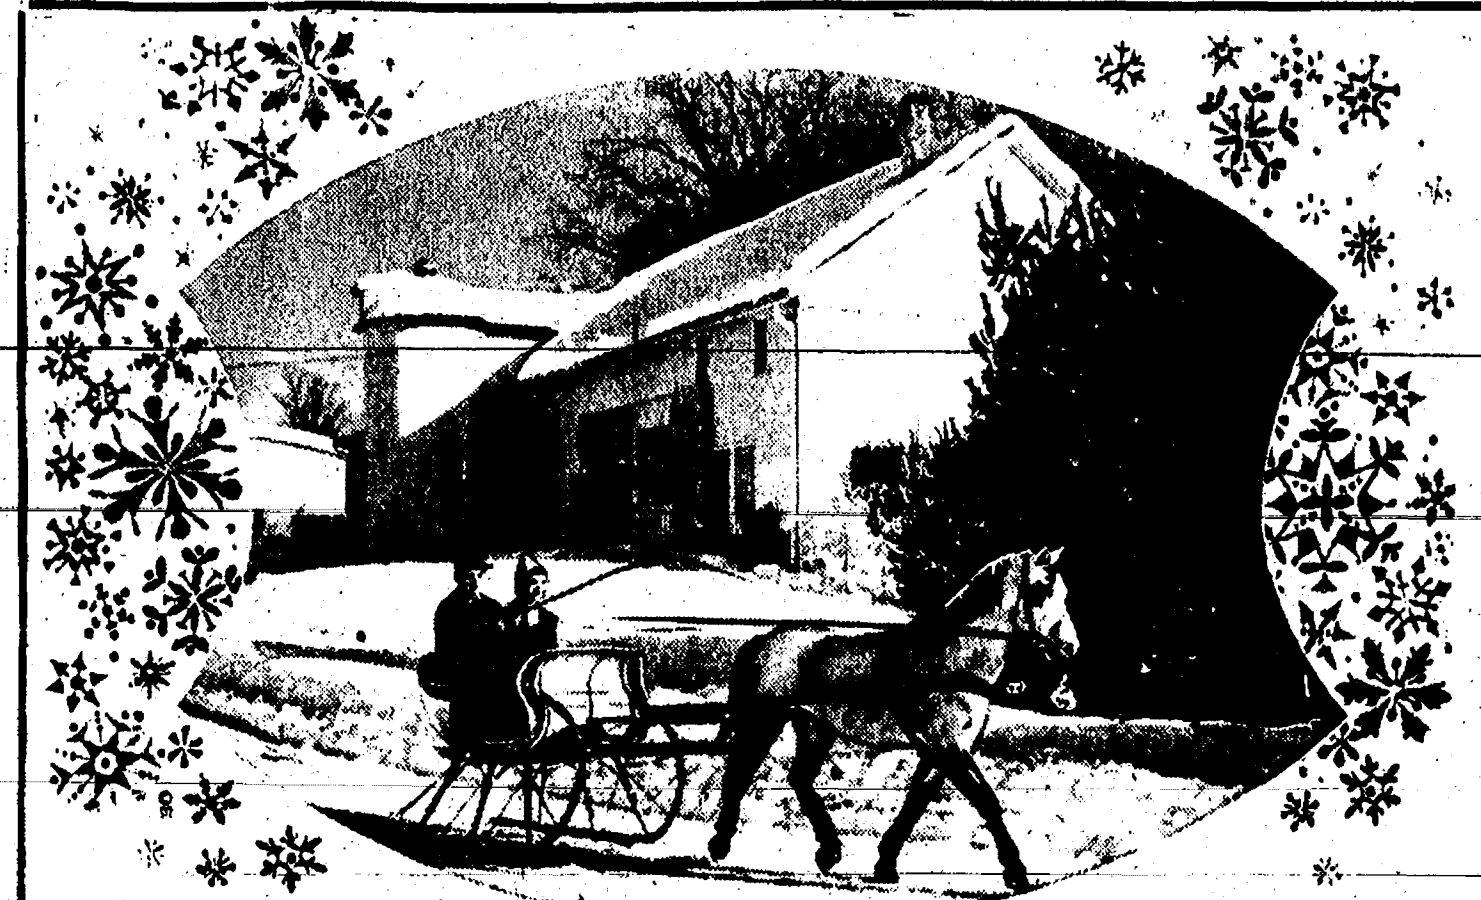

JUDY ROBARDS of Grass Lake hosted eight-year-old Davion when he came to the United States from Jamaica for heart surgery. Robards offered her home and family as a volunteer host for the Healing the Children organization.

VIRGINIA LAYHER of Chelsea hosted three-year-old Carlos Rene when he came to the United States from El Salvador for heart surgery. Layher offered her home and family as a volunteer host for the Healing the Children organization.

KATHY KENTALA of Grass Lake serves as the local co-ordinator for Healing the Children, a national organization which helps sick children from Third World countries come to the United States for necessary surgery. Kentala's family hosted Maria when she came to the U.S. seven years ago for reconstructive and plastic surgeries after suffering severe burns in a house fire in Guatemala.
