Dexter Township Resident Spends 4 Months in Haiti

Christopher Galas can appreciate law and order.

His father is a retired Ann Arbor Police Department detective and he is a seven-year veteran of the army's military police. After being sent to Haiti to help restore democracy, this 28-year-old Dexter township resident is taking it easy during a two-week leave.

"It was four months of total chaos, basically. Every day there was something new going on," Galas said about his mission in Haiti as a sergeant in the army's military police. For now, he can rest easy while visiting his parents, Carol and George Galas.

A 1984 Chelsea High school graduate, Galas joined the army in 1985. He went through three months of basic training to learn soldiering skills and advanced training to learn police skills before being sent to Brussels, Belgium in the fall of 1985. While on assignment there, Galas worked as a personal security officer, providing private security for a four-star NATO military general. He described his job as that of "bullet catcher," while he protected the general and other dignitaries who paid a visit.

Galas remained in Belgium three years before taking on his next assignment. With traffic school behind him and other law enforcement training under his belt, Galas was named sergeant and sent to Fort Belvoir in Virginia. After just seven months he and the 437th military police company were deployed to Panama. He spent six months there before returning to Fort Belvoir to head the traffic section of the military's police department. Galas supervised a seven-man group of traffic investigators for one year and was named desk sergeant for the third year of this three-year stint in Virginia.

By June 1991 it was time for a break. Galas wanted to get out of the military and experience civilian life once again. He remained a civilian from June 1991 through July 1994 before deciding the army is where he belonged. He rejoined last year and has since committed his future to the military. "The army is my career," Galas said with conviction.

It was after he recommitted to military life that Galas got the assignment of a lifetime. As a member of the 101st military police company, he was called for two months of field training then deployed to Haiti as part of the "Uphold Democracy" mission.

Galas spent four months in Haiti. The first half of his assignment was executing crowd control and apprehending Haitians who committed crimes on their people. For the later part of his stay, Galas and the 101st military police company took over the police department there and helped supervise its reconstruction. Galas said the Haitian police department was corrupt and non-functioning when the army arrived. He described police officers who assaulted citizens and officers who refused to feed prisoners.

Since his time overseas, Galas has come to appreciate more than ever law and order. He is convinced his post in the military police is for him, and he will continue to uphold his commitment to law enforcement and the army.

But for now, he is enjoying the peace and tranquility of life with his family in his own homeland.

Looking for Love

♥ Local woman teaches residents how to flirt, find mate.

Valentine's Day is often a time couples celebrate love, but what about those without a significant other? Dexter township resident Beverly Scher Bennett has the cure.

Bennett introduced two new classes through Dexter Community Education this winter semester with singles in mind. "Learning the Fine Art of Flirting" and "Finding the Love of Your Life" are being taught by Bennett. And with a little luck, she predicts if you were alone this Valentine's Day, you won't be next year.

Bennett's classes began Jan. 28 with one last section of her flirting class to be held Feb. 11. So far, she says the response has been positive with area women ranging in ages 30 to 60 taking her classes. Men are welcome too, but Bennett says none have enrolled this semester. She intends to teach the classes again.

A 44-year-old divorced mother of two, Bennett is a licensed professional counselor, temporary limited licensed psychologist, certified hypnotherapist and board eligible national certified counselor. She is contracted through Catholic Social Services and Hospice of Jackson and also hosts a mental health radio show in Jackson.

Over the years, Bennett has been actively sharing her knowledge and experience with area residents as an instructor for Dexter Community Education. Bennett also teaches classes on weight loss and smoking cessation through hypnosis and has presided over divorce groups. This is the first time she has taught the other classes.

"I thought it would be a great way to get information out about attracting people and networking," said the Indiana native who moved to Dexter township six years ago.

BEVERLY BENNETT, a Dexter township resident, utilizes popular books when she teaches her classes on flirting and finding the love of your life. Bennett offered both classes through Dexter Community Education this winter and intends to teach them again if people are interested.

Village of Chelsea and nine other units of government are preparing to implement a unique partnership that could serve as a model for the way small communities in Michigan and nationwide handle their solid waste in general and recycling in particular. Chelsea, along with the Village of Manchester and Sylvan, Lima, Lyndon, Dexter, Bridgewater, Sharon, Manchester and Freedom townships is scheduled to receive a $330,400 grant from the Protecting Michigan's Future Bond Program to set up a recycling program that will ultimately serve virtually the entire western portion of Washtenaw county.

It didn't take long for former village manager Robert Stalker to find a new job. Stalker, 29, who cleaned out his Chelsea office Friday, has been offered the job of superintendent of Oscoda township near Tawas City. The township board held a special meeting Friday. Stalker, despite the opposition of the township supervisor, will become the township's first superintendent. According to reports, supervisor Robert Hunt opposed the hiring due to the expense but voted with the township board.

Results of a survey on student alcohol and drug use conducted by Western Michigan University were presented to the Chelsea Board of Education Monday night. The results, contained in 102-page report, give what superintendent Joe Piasecki believes is an accurate portrayal of substance abuse in the school district. Piasecki says alcohol is a concern, as is incidents of driving under the influence of liquor.

BEHIND THE HEADLINES:

★ How the FDA Can Cost Lives

What a difference an election can make! Since last November, nearly everyone in Washington has been talking about tax cuts—not tax increases. Another bright idea would freeze spending.

By Phillip C. Clarke

The idea of putting a quick freeze on government spending is not new. The Bush Administration advanced the notion only to have it knocked down in the Democrat-controlled Congress. But now that the Republicans are in charge on Capitol Hill these days, it could be a solution whose time has finally come.

Amid all the pushing and pulling over how to trim the staggering federal budget, the question was—are new taxes the way to go? In fact, as the records show, everyone has done better when taxes are cut, and that includes the government. So, in response to the will of the electorate as expressed in the November election, everyone in Washington is now proposing a tax reduction, especially for the great "middle class."

Consider this: After President Reagan and Congress reduced taxes across the board in 1983, government revenues actually increased by an inflation-adjusted average of $33 billion a year over the next six years. Only in 1990, when the Bush Administration caved in to Congress and passed the second, largest tax increase in history, did the economy go into a downslide. Since 1990, government tax revenues have increased by an inflation-adjusted average rate of just $1.4 billion a year—not nearly enough to keep up with Congress' ever greater spending appetite.

The bottom line of all this should be plain to see: Lower taxes stimulate economic growth while higher taxes discourage growth. Thus, for every dollar in reduced spending in the earlier Clinton budget plan, taxes would go up by 2 to 3 dollars. And by 1998, an additional trillion dollars, give or take a few billion, would be added to the national debt.

To paraphrase the Clinton campaign's slogan of 1992, what Washington finally realized is that "It's the spending, stupid!"

With this in mind, a Washington-based citizens' group called the National Tax Limitation Committee has dusted off an old idea that it is convinced could be politically achievable and, above all, would work.

Simply stated, the Committee's idea would be to freeze federal spending for five years on everything except Social Security, Medicare and interest on the national debt. Makes sense, right?

The plan also would fly with the politicians, the Committee believes, because every interest group and constituency out there would share equally in the burden. And most Americans would gladly sacrifice if they think they're not alone. One opinion poll, for example, showed that almost two-thirds of the public favor lower taxes and less government services.

And the plan would work to cut the deficit without raising new energy, transportation, income or payroll taxes. With exemptions, of course, spending would still increase, but at a much lower rate. Plus, no new taxes means the economy would grow at a more robust rate, leading to more government revenues, just as happened in the '80's.

Finally, insists the Tax Limitation Committee, because spending would go down and revenues would go up, the federal deficit would begin to come down. And as an added bonus, the role of the federal government in our daily lives would greatly diminish. As one Washington pundit put it: "After a while, you get desperate. You start looking at things that make sense. When the problem is red ink and bloated budgets, nothing makes better sense than a freeze on spending." And a subsequent cut in taxes.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I was laid up the better part of last week, and I didn't do my usual reading. When I got to the country store Saturday night I felt like a schoolboy who hadn't done his homework, but the first thing I learned was that not many in the class had. Flu or epizootic or plain cold has been moving like a broomsage fire out our way, and it hits the oldest hardest.

The fellows spent the early part of the session listing their aches, pains and shut down body functions. It was Bug Hookum who said the common cold is named right, because it is one lowdown ailment. If it is so common, Bug said, that for all the misery it causes it doesn't even have a research foundation or a national fund raiser. For feeling terrible all over quick, Bug said you can't beat a cold in the chest and head.

Furthermore, Bug went on, for all the advancements and wonders of science and medicine, there's not a blessed thing anybody can do about it. The ads and the doctors never say they will help you get rid of a cold, they just claim to ease your suffering. But Bug said he's a believer in the flu shot. When he took it at the health department a few years back, the nurse told him the worst he could expect was mild symptoms for a few hours. She was right, Bug allowed, except that the hours were days and the symptoms were worse than the disease, so he's took his chances ever since.

Actual, Zeke Grubb said, dealing with cold and flu is like playing bingo, except when your number comes up you lose. Use to, Zeke went on, germs, viruses and the Devil caused whatever went wrong. Nowadays, if it's bad, Gene did it. Gene wasn't content to pass deadly diseases from one generation to the next, Zeke said, now he's running our lives from start to finish. Recent, he read where our fat gene makes us eat, the same way other genes are in charge of drinking, gambling and wifebeating. You got to know, Zeke said, that science won't rest until it finds the ones in charge of stealing and killing.

Why is it, Clem Webster ask, that we take credit for everything that goes right, but we place blame for what don't. Clem said Gene is just the latest in a long line of scapegoats. Furthermore, Gene gets a bad press. If we got bad genes, Clem allowed, we must have good genes and it's up to us to work out a balance.

Practical speaking, Ed Doolittle said, blaming everything on Gene is just another way people manage to turn everything around to their way of thinking. The fellows knew this was spoke by a man full convinced there are two kinds of people in the world, them who agree with him and the rest of the misguided souls. But they listened when Ed went on to note drivers have managed to turn safety into danger. He read where a study shows that cars with air bags have more wrecks because drivers think they are safer and they take more chances.

For sure, Ed said, more is turned more ways in religion than anywhere. He saw where the founder of a church in South Korea called Mission of the Coming Days has been sent to jail for fraud. He talked the members into giving him everything they had in the world because the world was going to end last October. They sued when they found out he invested the money in bonds that mature in 2004.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

Lima Extension Study Club Views Lesson on Arthritis

Eleven Lima Extension Study Club ladies gathered at the home of Fran Coy, Jan. 18 for their lesson, remembering that a year ago this January meeting was cancelled due to below zero temperatures and wind chills even worse. With the mechanical skills of Ed Coy and his VCR a video was watched on arthritis. This video is available from M-Care and borrowed by member Barb Edict.

Many people today are on arthritis medications and can give the weather conditions due to their aches and pains!

M-Care has an extensive list of lessons and programs that can be used by members.

The buffet pot-luck luncheon was enjoyed as always and followed by the January business meeting. Dorothy Antis helped with the luncheon as co-host.

Due to sickness with the officers, Alice Gardner conducted the meeting as president, in addition to giving her secretary-treasurer report.

Calendars with a cover letter from the program organizer were handed out. These calendars cover January through July marking dates lessons are to be studied from the County, including dates lessons are to be taught to the Lima group, plus who is to host these meetings.

Monday, March 13 the lesson on "Medicare Update" is to be attended by all members as a meeting with lunch out first! Mary Ann Burgess will host Feb. 15 at her home at 10:30 a.m. Norma Seyfried will co-host. Alice Gardner will present the lesson on Food Labeling. Celery Is One of Most Popular Produce Items

By Debbie Barrow,
Washtenaw Extension Home Economist

There's a lot more to celery than crunch. Take the low calorie count, ease of preparation, compatibility with other foods, adaptability to various cooking styles and, of course, its delicious, refreshing flavor, and you can see why it's one of the most popular items at the produce counter.

The celery we enjoy today is the result of more than 200 years of cultivation. Originally native to the Mediterranean area, wild celery was a fibrous, bitter-tasting plant, practically inedible. Woven garlands of wild celery have been found in Egyptian tombs, and the ancient Greeks and Romans prized celery for its alleged medicinal qualities.

In the early 1600s, a gardener in Italy transplanted wild celery seedlings into the rich, fertile soil of his backyard, probably for medicinal use. To his surprise, the plants developed an agreeable taste.

France was the first nation to appreciate celery's culinary potential, and its cooks used the plants extensively as a seasoning for stews, soups and meats.

Through persistent seed selection and new growing techniques, growers continued to improve celery's flavor. How and when celery first came to the United States is not known. However, seeds were available through a Philadelphia catalog merchant in 1806, and not long after that celery became an extremely trendy food served in the finest American homes.

In the 19th century, celery was often served in specially designed "celery vases," which became centerpieces on dining room tables. Because it was available only in season, it was reserved for special occasions.

Large-scale commercial production of celery began in the 1850s in Michigan, but it wasn't until the early 1900s that this vegetable began to be truly popular. As demand increased, other states, including Florida, California and Texas, became important celery-producing states.

Today, celery is in excellent supply year round. About 37,000 acres of celery are planted each year in the United States, resulting in a yield of approximately two billion pounds.

The average annual U.S. per capita consumption is slightly less than nine pounds.

Today, most celery sold at the produce counter is the green Pascal variety, preferred for its mild, distinctive flavor and string-free quality. Whole celery stalks (the complete plant, sometimes called a bunch) are sold both unwrapped and in plastic film sleeves. Another popular form is packaged celery hearts (the tender inner ribs), and increasingly shoppers are finding precut, ready-to-use celery.

When buying celery: Select stalks that are rigid and firm with a glossy surface of light to medium green.

Leaves should be bright green and fresh.

Ribs should be crisp, of medium thickness and snap easily.

Storage and handling: Wrapped celery hearts and packaged pre-cut celery should be refrigerated immediately.

When you get the celery home, remove and discard any discolored tips, leaves and damaged ribs. If you're not going to use it immediately, trim a thin slice from the butt (root) end, wash it thoroughly, drain well and dry. For best results, place it in a plastic bag in the vegetable drawer of the refrigerator.

If you are going to use the celery right away, remove the whole butt end and trim the leaves from the stalks. Reserve the butt and leaves for use in stocks, soups, stews, sauces, etc. Separate and wash ribs thoroughly in cold water, rinse, drain and prepare as desired.

When properly cared for, celery should remain fresh and usable for about two weeks. To freshen celery, trim the butt end and tops and place it in very cold (iced) water for several minutes until it's crisp again.

Celery may be cut up to three days before using. Refrigerate it in a tightly sealed plastic bag or non-reactive container without water.

Cooking with celery: Don't overlook celery. Add it to soups and stews 20 minutes before cooking time is up. To keep it at its crunchiest, add it to sandwich fillings as close to serving time as possible.

Yields and equivalents: One medium bunch (about 1 1/2 pounds) yields: 4 to 5 cups sliced or diced raw celery, or 3 to 4 cups sliced or diced cooked celery. One large rib (2 1/2 ounces) equals 1/2 cup diced celery.

Seasoning tips: The fresh taste and texture of celery lends itself readily to a wide variety of ethnic seasonings. The following go particularly well with celery:

• Italian—garlic, basil, oregano, parsley, rosemary, bay leaves, fennel seeds.

• French—tarragon, thyme, rosemary, chervil, parsley.

• Chinese—ginger, anise, garlic, red pepper, cilantro, tamari or soy sauce.

• German—caraway seeds, dill, dry mustard.

• Mexican—chilies, oregano, cumin, cilantro, chili powder.

• Greek—oregano, mint, garlic, dill.

Nutritional value: If there ever was a guilt-free food, celery has to be it. You can enjoy it any time as a snack, side dish, soup or casserole ingredient or as one of the stars of a vegetarian entree with the happy assurance that all the crunch is to the good. Celery is low in calories, virtually fat-free, a good source of fiber and low in sodium.

A 1/2 cup portion, raw sliced or diced, has: 9 calories, .07 fat grams, .41 fiber grams, 170 milligrams potassium, 53 milligrams sodium.

Quick Tips: For extra crunch, add diced celery to your favorite jarred salsa.

For a home-made touch, add some thinly sliced celery to canned soups when heating and as a garnish immediately before serving.

Celery adds moisture, flavor and texture to turkey meatballs and meat loaves.

Cut-up celery adds a crunchiness contrast to the beans in vegetarian chilis.

For a cool accompaniment to spicy Indian dishes, mix thinly sliced celery and cucumbers with plain yogurt.

Place a bed of celery and carrot sticks under fish filets. Bake until fish flakes easily.

For a perfect party appetizer, stuff celery with a mixture of curry powder and cottage, ricotta or cream cheese studded with diced dried apricots.

Add celery leaves to salads for a burst of freshness.

Before roasting, stuff chicken with sliced celery and onions minced with herbs such as thyme, sage, dill or poultry seasoning.

Legend and lore: Celery belongs to the same plant family as parsley, caraway, anise, fennel and carrots.

Celery's fabulous crunch is caused by teeth biting through the plant's air-filled cells, much like puncturing balloons.

During the Victorian era, when celery was available only seasonally and in limited supply, chef Victor Hirtlitz of the St. Francis Hotel in San Francisco caused a sensation with his creation, "Celery Victor."

The dish is made of lightly braised celery ribs served with a white wine and olive oil dressing seasoned with scallion, tarragon, mustard and black pepper.

The use of celery as a garnish for a Bloody Mary originated in the bar at Chicago's Ambassador East Hotel in the 1960s. When a Bloody Mary arrived without a swizzle stick, a celebrity ingenue grabbed a rib of celery from the bar's relish tray and used it as a stirrer. The hotel's maitre d' noticed the clever trick and the rest is history.

NORTH ELEMENTARY school students were treated to an Oriental New Year last Friday by Mrs. Barbara Locks, media specialist. They were all given chopsticks and shown how to use them in eating rice and other Chinese delicacies. Students in Mrs. Sally Schulte's third grade are shown above in the midst of their sampling party. They are Lucy Abernathy, Stephanie Meeuwse, Kimberly Gasleski, Sarah Aseltine, Jessica Manitz, Kaitlyn Williams, Matt Neff, Nick Miller, Pieter Boshoven, Steven Koenn, Stephanie MacMillan, Amanda Becker, Shawn Collins, Randy Behnke, Brian Katakowski, Amanda Simmons, Chris Beck, Jennifer Adams, Jaimie Hoage and Louis Seles.

North School Students Observe Customs of Oriental New Year

Gung Hay Fat Choy! Kong Shee! North Elementary school students were wished an Oriental Happy New Year the week of Jan. 30 by Mrs. Locks, North school media specialist. Celebrations included Chinese folk tales, discussion of Chinese customs, and food. Each 2nd-5th grader received a pair of chopsticks, and got to try them out on some rice. A 1,000-year-old egg was available for those who dared to taste it, as were soy sauce, sesame oil, shrimp chips, shredded dried pork, seasoned roasted seaweed, jasmine tea, White Rabbit candy, and Haw candy. Is the egg really 1,000 years old? No, it is a duck egg, preserved in such a way that it will keep for several months. Most of the foods came from an oriental grocery store in Ann Arbor.

Mrs. Locks believes it is important for children to be aware of customs from around the world. The Oriental, or Lunar New Year is a fun holiday to celebrate. Gung Hay Fat Choy!

THE 1000-YEAR-OLD-EGG was cautiously tasted by these three third graders in Mrs. Schulte's North Elementary school class as part of an orientation to the Oriental New Year. Various Chinese foods and sauces were sampled in the class project conducted by media specialist Mrs. Barbara Locks. (The egg was not really 1,000 years old but was a duck egg preserved and sold through a Chinese food store in Ann Arbor.) From left above, students Stephanie MacMillan, Stephanie Meeuwse and Jennifer Adams said the egg was alright.

Chelsea Police Department Reports Many Incidents

WARRANT ARREST

Police stopped a brown Olds Cutlass on Jan. 27 around 9:30 p.m. The car was on M-52 at I-94 when the officer noticed the right headlight of the car was not functioning. The driver's license was traced and showed a misdemeanor warrant out of Plymouth for property damage. The male suspect was arrested and taken to the Chelsea Police Department where an $80 bond was posted and he was released.

BAD CHECK

A local company reported a bad check was received for auto repairs in the sum of $800. The incident occurred on Nov. 30, 1994 and was reported on Jan. 10, 1995. The suspect's checking account showed a balance of $0. The offender is in violation of a misdemeanor for writing a check with insufficient funds.

MOTOR VEHICLE THEFT

On Feb. 6, around 10 p.m., police responded to a report of a suspicious suspect inside the pool building of Beach Middle School. The suspect left the scene in a gold Acura, heading eastbound on A.D. Mayer Dr. with no lights on, traveling at a high rate of speed. The officers lost sight of the vehicle and returned to the Beach Middle School area where they observed the vehicle parked in a driveway on the 1300 block of Freer Rd. The keys were missing from the vehicle and the hood was warm to the touch. The suspect was found hiding behind a concrete barrier at the Middle School. He was arrested and taken to the Washtenaw County Jail.

REQUESTED ASSIST

On Feb. 3, around 8:30 p.m. the Washtenaw County Sheriff Department requested an assist from the Chelsea Police Department. An unruly passenger aboard a Greyhound bus at westbound I-94 at M-52. The officers assisted in the arrest of one passenger for outstanding warrants out of the Washtenaw County Sheriff Department.

DRIVER LICENSE VIOLATION

A vehicle was stopped at N. Main St. near Hickory St. on Feb. 1, around 10 p.m. The driver failed to give a valid driver's license. The Jackson man was issued a citation and ordered to respond to the 14th A-3 District Court within 10 days.

POSSESSION OF A STOLEN VEHICLE

Possession of a stolen vehicle was reported on Feb. 4 around 3:30 a.m. Police received a call from a motel reporting that a blue Chevy had been stolen. A second call was received from Mobil Gas station attendant who spotted the vehicle. The male driver was placed under arrest and the vehicle was impounded, belonging to a Suttons Bay resident.

SUSPICIOUS INCIDENT

On Feb. 3, a Grass Lake woman complained her car was damaged while parked at Chelsea United Methodist Home. The passenger side window had been broken out between 11:00 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. The damage was estimated at $150. The car was not locked at the time of the incident.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

I was puzzled by your front page article, "Local Woman Battles Passage of House Bill" (1 February). This article discussed at length Patrice Murdock's efforts to defend a Federal school lunch program in the face of cuts proposed in the Republican "Contract with America." I understand the local interest in "one woman's battle" with the Philistines in DC, but one would have hoped that the assumptions inherent in her position would be subject to some scrutiny in a news article. To even things up I would like to mention briefly some arguments against social welfare spending such as the national school lunch program.

The following arguments are organized from the general to the specific.

• Philosophical This program, like many others, is marketed as an element of "social justice"; that is, it is morally right for the State to redistribute funds as long as it meets some criterion of social justice. The problem with this approach is there are no objective criteria of what constitutes social justice, and no way to measure the change in justice associated with a given act. Consequently, the State alone decides the manner in which resources are seized and distributed. The Founding Fathers attempted to constrain this power, as described in the second argument:

• Constitutional The Tenth Amendment specifically forbids the Federal Government from exercising any powers not explicitly named in the constitution. Needless to say, this Amendment may well have disappeared, altogether from the Constitution, given rulings in the past 40 years. Contrast this silence with the Court's position on the First Amendment, in which the Court has mandated that nude dancing constitutes protected speech. The curious myopia of the Court in this area has led to the grotesque growth of government we have seen in the post war period. The need to check this uncontrolled growth leads to the next argument:

• Political "A government big enough to give you all you want is big enough to take it away." Faceless, unaccountable bureaucrats in Washington are unlikely to respond to citizen's requests, however noble the officials' intentions be. As an example, the Department of Housing and Urban Development has seized records and threatened with large fines and prison a small group of citizens in Berkeley, Calif. Their crime was exercising their free speech rights in protesting the development of yet another homeless shelter in their neighborhood.

• Financial Like Napoleon's march on Moscow, tax dollars suffer severe losses on the roundtrip journey to Washington. Only about one third or less of the total program budget actually makes it to the intended recipient. From an efficiency point of view, it makes much better sense to administer social welfare programs as locally as possible, where decisions of need can be made much more intelligently. This leads to the last argument:

• Practical Are the citizens of Brighton really saying that their community is unable to provide adequate funds to provide lunch for needy children? Do the citizens of an affluent town in a prosperous state really need Washington to fund this and related efforts? We don't live in a poor state like Arkansas, after all.

If we are to succeed as a nation in extricating ourselves from our current cultural and budgetary problems, we need to address these issues in a rational manner. Accusations and unproven logical inferences of the sort contained in your article do little to assist the debate.

Finally, it is curious to note that Ms. Murdock, who says she is in favor of welfare reform, opposes reform of the agriculture industry. The increase in market prices for many foods such as milk due to price supports is a scandal and directly harms the hungry children she says she is trying to help. As a final irony, the Federal Government spends twice as much on farm price supports as it does on school lunch and child nutrition programs.

Attempted Suicide Reported

A recent graduate of Chelsea High school attempted to commit suicide at his home in the 11000 block of Jackson Rd. Sunday night.

Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputies were dispatched to the residence and found the 19-year-old man suffering from a self-inflicted gun shot wound to his head. He was taken to the University of Michigan Hospital by Huron Valley Ambulance and was listed in stable condition.

volunteer work. Among them were six Chelsea women.

Sunday, Feb. 19, marked the first official use of a new $45,000 building which was expected to serve the needs of St. Barnabas Episcopal church for at least a generation. The first service held included the confirmation of five young people by the Rt. Rev. Robert L. DeWitt, second suffragan bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Michigan.

The sensation created by Gov. Williams when he announced in 1959 that the state government had no funds to meet its payroll was a gentle rumble compared to the explosion ahead for the people of Michigan. The Unemployment Compensation Fund was plunging with sonic speed toward bankruptcy.

Girl Scouts of Chelsea joined with others throughout the world in the 1961 project of planting yellow roses to form a golden mass of color for next year's 50th anniversary of Girl Scouting. The planting of the rose bushes was part of a three-year program leading to the golden anniversary observance next year.

SHERIFF'S REPORT

Sylvan Township

Drunken Driving

A 30-year-old Grass Lake man was arrested for operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor and for having an unlawful blood/alcohol level on Notten Rd. near Old US-12, Jan. 28. Police were initially dispatched to a crash involving the man's pick-up truck and a train. The crash occurred around 1 a.m. when the man mistook the tracks for Old US-12 and turned. His 1987 Ford pick-up got stuck on the tracks, but the driver and his two passengers were able to flee the vehicle before the train struck. No injuries were reported. The Grass Lake man's blood/alcohol level was tested at .17 percent, which is more than the legal limit. The train engineer told police he was unable to stop the train in time to prevent it from hitting the truck.

Webster Township

Forgery

Forgery was reported in the 4900 block of Starak Lane, Jan. 28. A 68-year-old township woman told police someone stole checks from her check book and cashed them. The woman noticed the theft after examining her December bank statements. A total of three checks amounting to $1,205.16 were made out to a 25-year-old Ypsilanti woman. The incident may be tied somehow to American Maids Service. The woman reported the checks missing from the back of her check book after her home was cleaned by an employee of the company. However, the company does not recognize the suspect's name. The case remains under investigation.

Runaway

A 43-year-old township woman reported her 14-year-old daughter missing from their home in the 7500 block of Chamberlain Rd., Jan. 26. She said it was the second time the girl has run away in the past two days. The woman said her daughter left Jan. 25 at 7 p.m. to visit a friend in Whitmore Lake. Later that evening, Northfield Township Police Department was notified the missing girl and her friend had stolen their babysitter's car. A deputy has recommended a juvenile officer be assigned to the case.

Lima Township

Animal Complaint

An animal complaint was made in the 10600 block of Scio Church Rd. Jan. 27 after a 47-year-old township man discovered several of his chickens dead on his property. In the chicken house the man found the culprit—a dog. The chickens amount to $100. The dog's owner has agreed to make restitution.

"Environmental Issues Facing Agriculture," a meeting for farmers, co-sponsored by the Washtenaw County Soil Conservation District and Washtenaw County MSU Extension will be held Thursday, March 2, 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m., at Lodi Township Hall, 3755 Pleasant Lake Rd., Ann Arbor. Reservations are needed to attend the meeting.

"Environmental issues like water quality, increasing right to farm pressures, and handling chemical spills are just some of the many issues farmers must deal with to farm successfully today. This meeting will give farmers a chance to hear about these issues and get some practical tips that will help them be seen as active environmentalists, which farmers have been for years," said Steve Solowczuk, Soil Conservation District chairman.

According to Bill Ames MSU Extension Agriculture Agent, the meeting agenda includes a presentation on water quality and agriculture by Brian Ehler, acting Lenawee County Extension Agriculture Agent; an update on legislative issues facing agriculture, from Kevin Kirk, livestock specialist with Michigan Farm Bureau; the usefulness of the Farm*A*Syst program, by Mike Szynski, AmeriCorps National Service member; low cost conservation practices by Steve Olds, USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service; how to prevent and respond to Right to Farm complaints, by Kurt Thelan, Michigan Department of Agriculture; and what to do if you have a chemical spill, by Donna Southwell, Washtenaw County Office of Emergency Management.

Cost for "Environmental Issues Facing Agriculture" is $7 which covers lunch and program handouts. Reservation deadline is Feb. 24. To obtain a reservation form and for more information, contact either the Soil Conservation District, phone (313) 761-6721 or MSU Extension, phone (313) 971-0079.

WCSC Spring Tree Sale Is Underway

Washtenaw County Soil Conservation District has announced the 1995 Spring Tree Sale. Purchases through this program support conservation work in Washtenaw county.

There will be two ways to order trees. First, a variety of evergreen seedlings and transplants, plus hardwood and wildlife shrub seedlings may be ordered directly from the District. Also available will be tree planting bars, tree marking flags, Deer Away repellent, conservation tree and shrub identification guides, and an assortment of other conservation items.

Second, "Habipaks" which are assortments of trees and shrubs, and are ordered from the National Association of Conservation Districts (NACD). Washtenaw County SCD is a member of NACD.

Orders for both seedlings and Habipaks will be accepted through March 31. Distribution of seedlings and other conservation materials will take place on April 28 and 29 at the Washtenaw Farm Council Grounds, Ann Arbor-Saline Rd. Habipaks are shipped directly to the purchaser's home.

For more information or to obtain order forms, contact the Soil Conservation District Office, 7203 Jackson Rd., Ann Arbor, 1/4 mile east of Baker Rd., behind the gray barn. Telephone: (313) 761-6721.

50 years ago, an average cow produced 1,500 quarts of milk a year. Thanks to good farm management, a typical cow today produces more than 6,600 quarts of milk each year.

★ Business Entertainment Expenses Still Deductible

Going to dinners, sporting events and even fishing trips with business associates might earn you a valuable tax deduction. The Michigan Association of CPAs (MACPA) points out that Uncle Sam may allow you to deduct half the cost of entertaining clients, customers, business associates and employees as long as your expenses pass a series of important tests.

Ordinary and Necessary

First, the expense must be both ordinary and necessary—meaning it is common and accepted in your field of business. For example, he IRS may well allow a computer or public relations consultant to deduct business meals because they are a common way for these professionals to obtain business. However, a dentist may not be extended the same privilege since business lunches with patients are not common in this field.

Related to Your Business

Entertainment expenses must be either directly related to the active conduct of your business or associated with your business. Expenses meet this latter test if they have a clear business purpose and the entertainment directly precedes a business discussion. So, if you give your sales pitch after the curtain goes down on a rousing musical, you may be able to claim a deduction.

Deductible Limits

If you are a business owner, you can deduct only 50 percent of the cost of your business meals and entertainment expenses. Before the 1993 tax law was enacted, you could deduct 80 percent of qualified entertainment expenses.

Employees have it even tougher. Workers who are not reimbursed for business meals and entertainment expenses must treat the 5 percent deductible portion of entertainment expenses as miscellaneous itemized deductions. This means only those miscellaneous expenses that exceed two percent of their adjusted gross income are tax deductible. Employees can deduct qualified business meals and entertainment expenses by completing Form 2106, Employee Business Expenses, and including this amount with their other itemized deductions on Schedule A of their 1040 form.

It Takes Two

If you were planning to send your client off to watch your favorite football team while you mow the lawn, don't expect to classify the expense as an entertainment deduction. To deduct an entertainment-related expense, you or your representative must be present. You can, however, opt to treat tickets you give to a client as a business gift. Be aware that business gifts are subject to a limit of $25 per individual, per year.

Curtain Falls on Membership Deductions

As a result of a 1993 tax law change, the curtain came down on deductions for club memberships. No deduction is allowed for club dues paid or incurred after Dec. 31, 1993. This rule applies to numerous types of clubs, including business social, athletic, luncheon, sporting and airport clubs, but NOT to memberships in professional or trade associations such as the MACPA and the AICPA. You can, however, deduct dues paid to a chamber of commerce or a similar organization if membership helps you in your job. However, specific business expenses for meals and entertainment that occur at a club are generally still deductible, subject to the usual limitations.

IRS Says No to Scalpers

The IRS won't support ticket scalpers. Tax law limits the business deduction for tickets to entertainment events to 50 percent of the face value of the tickets. If you have to pay extra to get tickets to the season's playoff game, the added cost is a non-deductible personal expense.

Document Every Dime

To justify your entertainment expense deductions, you'll need to maintain detailed records. That means obtaining a receipt for any meal or entertainment expense of $25 or more. The MACPA recommends all expenses should be entered in a business diary or log. Your records must reflect the business purpose of the meal or entertainment expense, the date, location, the business relationship of the person(s) you entertained and the total cost.

The robins were high up in a tree, as chipper as could be even though the ground was covered with six inches of snow and the temperature was flirting with zero.

Let's Go Bulldogs!

Cagers Ambushed By Improved Milan, 55-72

By Ben O'Connor

It was a game unrecognizable to their first meeting, and when the dust cleared from the Milan stampede Friday the scoreboard read Chelsea 55, Milan 72.

Hopes were high for Chelsea fans going into the game. Earlier in the season Chelsea had shown its strength at moving the ball inside and shooting from the floor; although both skills were near the same level as always, this time Chelsea fell prey to Milan's marked improvement in all areas.

"They played exceptionally well," said Chelsea head coach Robin Raymond, "it wasn't that we played badly—I don't believe we did—they won because they played their best ever."

Milan jumped out to an early lead in the first quarter 22-11, leaving Chelsea a bit dazed and confused, but from then on the Bulldogs were a pretty even match for the Big Reds.

"We finished out the half pretty strong," said Raymond, "even though we were down by 10 (31-41) we felt we had a good chance to win."

The Dawgs went on to do just that. Despite Milan's dominance early on, Chelsea did show promise on a few occasions cutting the deficit to five points in the third quarter and three in the fourth. Senior Case McCalla was perhaps most energetic for the Bulldogs as he persisted after the ball and the basket the entire game scoring 26 points along with taking two charges and getting seven rebounds.

"Case had probably his best game of the season, but again, we need more balanced scoring," said Raymond, "earlier in the season we had more people in the eight-point range. We need to get that back."

As for balanced scoring, the Big Reds had six players scoring between nine and 15 points; eight players had five points or more. Four of their players accumulated Milan's five three-pointers.

By far the most inspirational aspect of the game was Chris Dronin's performance. The sophomore showed more maturity than ever before Friday by getting six points, mostly from his offensive rebounds.

Milan took the opportunity to gloat when Narvin Russaw slam dunked not once but twice, bringing the Milan crowd to an uproar. Russaw also had two of the five three-pointers for Milan.

"They played well inside and outside," said Raymond, "When you go up against a team who's solid all around like they were, you can't expect to put pressure anywhere without leaving dangerous holes."

Milan out gunned Chelsea from the floor 50 percent to 39 percent and hit 9 of 13 from the line to Chelsea's 10 of 20. Milan also managed to protect the ball and hold Chelsea to a season low of only four steals.

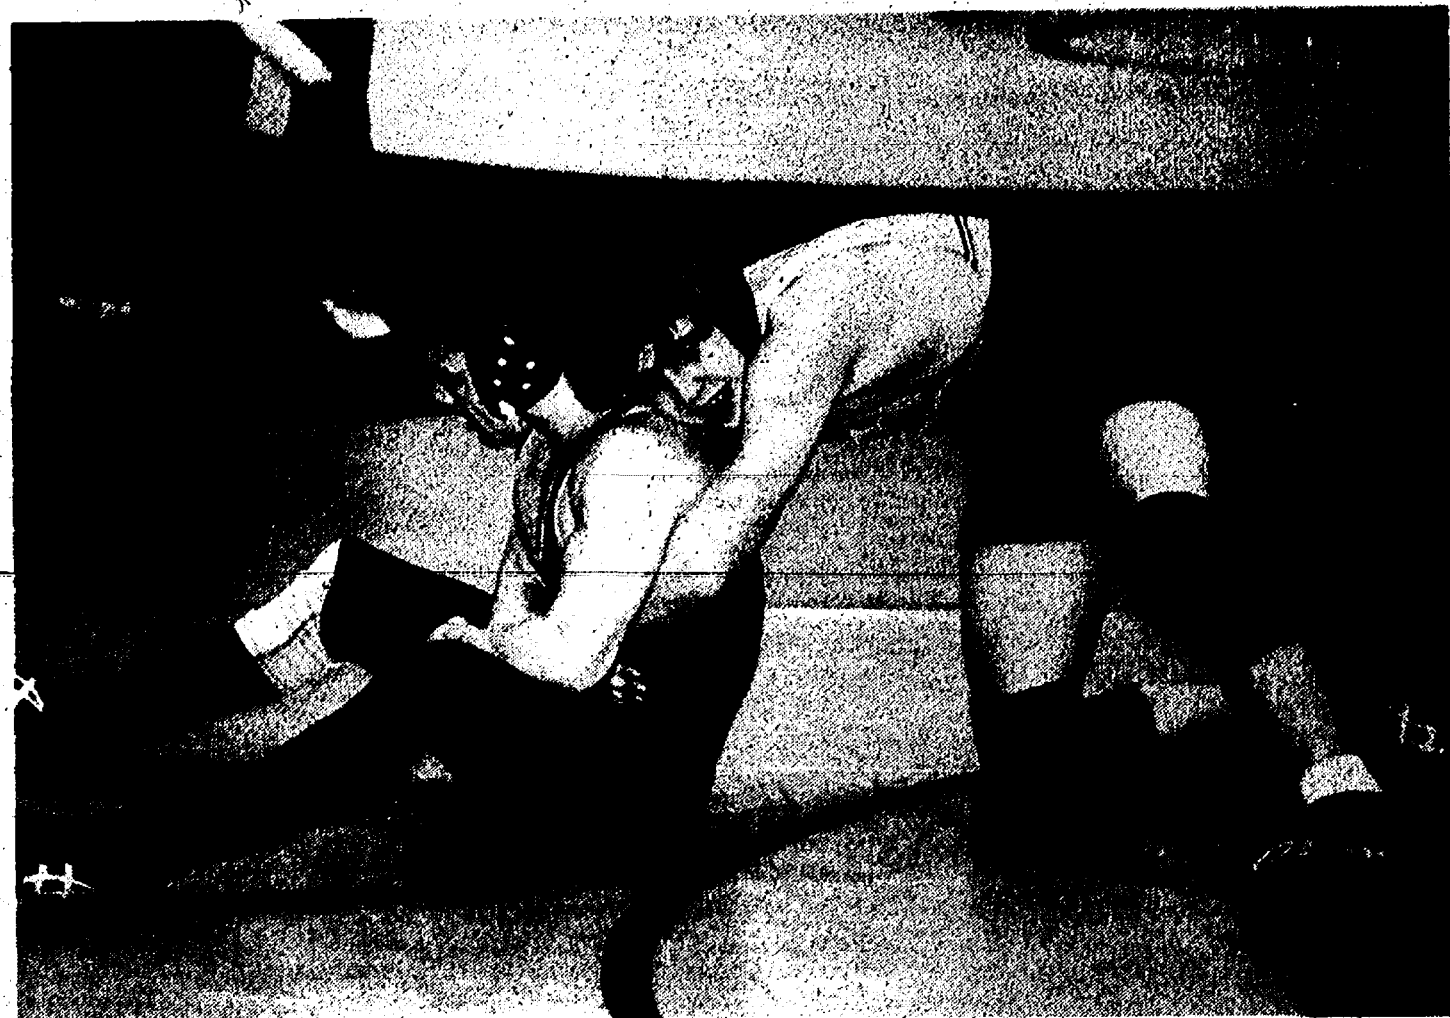

Other scorers against Milan were: Chad Brown, 13 points; Kevin Cross, 4 points; Scott Colvin, 4 points; and Damon McLaughlin, 2 points.

Earlier in the Bulldog basketball week, Chelsea hosted Stockbridge on Tuesday, Jan. 31. Chelsea lost 62-65 in a game that can best be described as uneventful.

"I'm afraid we got a bit complacent against Stockbridge and lost some concentration," said Raymond, "they were a very average team."

Scorers against Stockbridge were: Chad Brown, 20; Case McCalla, 17; Scott Colvin, 16; Bryndon Skelton, 3; Kevin Cross, 3; James Diesing, 2; and Kevin Coy, 1.

Chelsea now stands at 9-5 overall (5-3 in the SEC) and next was to play at Jackson Northwest Tuesday.

IN THE QUAD MEET on Saturday, Feb. 4, Koby Foytik was 2-1.

Matt McVittie Sets Two Records in Pinckney Meet

Chelsea's varsity swimming team dominated both Haslett and SEC foe Pinckney last week as they moved their record to 8-1.

Chelsea continued to improve as they beat Haslett 114-70 and Pinckney 121-63.

Numerous season best performances were recorded in both meets with most highlights coming against Pinckney.

Chelsea began the meet against Pinckney, winning the 200 medley relay. Matt McVittie, Peter Straub, Chris Grossman and Kevin Kolodica combined for a 1:48.03. Rob Frayer, Matt Kolodica, Jim Bergman and Jeremy Zeigler combined for a third-place performance at 1:54.84.

The Bulldogs out-scored Pinckney in the 200 free with a 2-3-4 finish with Chris Frayer leading the way at 1:59.94 and Steve Straub and Aaron Heaven close behind.

Matt McVittie set his first of two pool records in the 200 IM as he swam a blazing 1:58.81. His time also ranks him No. 1 in the state in that event. Rob Frayer was second in the event with a season best of 2:18.10.

In the 50 freestyle Kevin Kolodica came off a terrible three weeks of sickness to score second place points at 24.84. Teammate Jim Bergman was third with Jeremy Zeigler finishing in fifth place. Bergman came right back to score his highest point total in diving at 185.60, good enough for second place. Jason Fox also had a season best performance as did Brandon Renton.

The 100 fly saw another season best time as Chris Grossman finished first at 1:01.48. Peter Straub was second at 1:04.75.

Steve Straub and Curt Street both had season best performances in the 100 free as they went 53.39 and 54.03, respectively.

The distance freestyles put the big sweep on the Pirates in the 500 yd. freestyle. Aaron Heaven won the event at 5:29.18. Close behind was Austin Jackson at 5:34.50 and Steve Thiel finished out the sweep at 5:43.01.

Bergman, Kolodica, Street and Steve Straub won the 200 free relay at 1:37.42.

McVittie set his second pool record of the evening as he flew to a 55.20 in the 100 back. Rob Frayer was second at 1:02.33.

Peter Straub kept up his winning ways in the 100 breaststroke cruising to a 1:06.91.

The final event of the evening was the 400 freestyle relay. Steve Straub, Chris Frayer, Street and McVittie won the event at 3:35.21.

The next meet is scheduled for Thursday against Dexter at Dexter.

Chelsea is undefeated in the SEC going into the meet as Dexter has one loss to Milan. A win puts the Bulldogs in a tie with the Big Reds of Milan which is the last dual meet of the year for both squads.

JV Cagers Lose To Panthers, Beat Big Reds

It was a big upset in junior varsity basketball, Tuesday, Jan. 31, when Stockbridge came to the home of the Bulldogs.

The 54-35 victory left Chelsea devastated.

In the first period, Stockbridge led by 8 points, with a score of 16-8. In the second period, Chelsea upped their efforts adding 5 points, but were unable to hold the Panthers who scored 10 points.

In the second half, Stockbridge continued to play aggressively adding 11 points in the third quarter, making it a 37-22 game.

The final quarter brought a strong finish with a 54-35 victory for the opposing team.

Despite the loss, Nathan Butler scored 16 points, Paul Bragalone brought in 9, Ashley Coy with 7, Jeremy Peace with 2 and Dusty White 1.

Nathan Butler and Paul Bragalone helped fire up the team with 7 and 6 rebounds, respectively, but it wasn't enough to gain the lead. Tim Lawrence and Jason Sprawka each had 2 rebounds as well.

All in all, Chelsea had 22 rebounds while Stockbridge had 34.

In field shooting, Chelsea made 10 of 48 for 21% and Stockbridge made 23 of 46 for 50%.

Free throws proved better for Chelsea with 15 of 24 for 63%, while Stockbridge made 4 of 8 for 50%.

With Stockbridge using multiple defenses and good aggressive plays, they were able to pull an early lead over the Bulldogs. Poor shooting from the field and similar rebounding hurt any chances for the Bulldogs to recover.

"Stockbridge came to play from whistle to whistle, we didn't," said

Coach Dave Quilter. "At this point in the season we should react better to different defenses than we did tonight. We need to show more enthusiasm than we showed tonight. Nathan Butler played well for us."

In a match against the Milan Big Reds Friday, Feb. 3, Chelsea's JV team led with a 49-43 win.

Playing their most consistent game of the year, the Bulldogs jumped to an early lead with a strong defense. Better shooting from the floor gave them the boost they needed to outscore the Big Reds.

Paul Bragalone led with 16 points, followed by Tim Lawrence with 13, Nathan Butler with 12 and Jason Sprawka, Ashley Coy, Casey Wescott and Jason Lantis each with 2.

From the field Chelsea made 17 of 46 for 37%, while Milan sunk 19 of 50 for 38%.

In free throws, Chelsea had 13 of 27 for 48% with Milan making 5 of 12 for 42%.

Ashley Coy held the most rebounds with 7, Nathan Butler with 5, Paul Bragalone 4, Jason Lantis and Jason Sprawka 3 each.

The teams were matched with 24 turnovers each.

Coach David Quilter said, "Defensively we made a couple adjustments at half and we never let Milan get a lead. In the third quarter, when it was close, we kept our composure and ran plays and scored. Paul Bragalone, Tim Lawrence and Nathan Butler had good offensive games. Tim Lawrence hit some big free throws, 7 of 10, and Ashley Coy got a couple big rebounds in the fourth quarter to stop any Milan comeback. The team played with a lot of enthusiasm tonight."

Chelsea's Beach Middle school seventh grade girls volleyball team met Saline at home Tuesday, Jan. 31 and Dexter Thursday, Feb. 2, also at home.

During the Saline match, the girls did a nice job of attacking the ball. Passing, setting and spiking are skills the team is working on this year. Scores were 11-7, 9-11, 11-5, and 7-11. It ended as a 2-2 tie match, as the hour time limit ended and did not allow the fifth match to be played.

Molly Edman served 8 points. Amy Sporer and Laura Saarinen each served 5 points. Carrie Harris served 4 points and Gretchen Vermeylen and Brenda Newman served 3 points each.

The Dexter match had two close games with Chelsea ending up with 3 wins out of 4 games to win the match. Scores were 11-6, 11-13, 12-10, 11-2. Laura Saarinen served 9 consecutive points, Kate Huehl served 14 points, Mora Arnold served 6 points and Brenda Newman served 5 points.

Amanda Warren scored 9 points with 4 aces, Brandi Berg had 7 points with 5 aces and Hilary Spooner had 3 points with 2 aces.

The team exhibited good passing all around and enjoyed a great win.

Krissy Tripp scored 5 points with 3 aces, Jessica McVay had 3 aces, Amanda Warren 5 points and Brandi Berg with 3 points.

Dexter won over Chelsea Thursday, Jan. 26, 4-15 and 16-18.

In the first game Hilary Spooner had 2 aces and Emily Sterling 2 points. The total of 4 points, combined with poor passing, wasn't enough to gain a lead.

In the second game, the team really pulled together and came close to winning.

Amanda Warren was the high-kill, serving 13 points and 1 kill.

Angie Carpenter had 1 kill and Jessica McVay scored 2 points and Leslee Parker 1.

Chelsea played Saline Monday, Jan. 30, losing 10-15 in the first game. Hilary Spooner had 2 aces, Krissy Tripp 2 points, Brandi Berg 3, and Jennifer Saarinen 2.

In the second game the team won 15-4. Robyn Raymond scored 6 points, followed by Jessica McVay with 5, Stephanie Lundquist and Emily Sterling with one each and Angie Carpenter with 1 point and 1 kill.

In the third match, Chelsea lost 2-15. Robyn Raymond scored 1 point and Angie Carpenter had the other point of the game.

There was a lack of communication in the final match, costing the team a chance at a win.

In India, extracts from the neem tree have served as everything from toothpaste to a cure for rheumatism. Now, researchers from the U.S. Department of Agriculture have discovered that neem oil acts as a natural fungicide. Neem oil is the first botanical product proven to be effective as a fungicide.

Everybody's Science

★ Put the Bite on Caribbean Fruit Flies

By Sean Adams

It's not hard to find Caribbean fruit fly maggots if you can hear them eating.

We can't hear the maggots inside fruit, but U.S. Department of Agriculture scientists have found insect allies that can hear the maggots nibbling on fruit pulp. Sound is one way these insects locate their prey.

Scientists rear the wasps, then release them to hunt for the fruit flies in fruit. Once a female parasitic wasp finds a maggot, it lays an egg inside the pest. When the egg develops, the wasp larvae will eat the developing fruit fly before it matures—thereby knocking down fruit fly populations.

John Sivinski of USDA's Agricultural Research Service and co-operators have released millions of these wasp hunters in citrus-growing areas to suppress the Caribbean fruit fly in Florida.

It's part of a four-year pilot study to use the wasp Diachasma mirapha longicauda to maintain and expand a buffer zone free of the flies, which attack citrus and other fruits. The scientists released from 50,000 to 150,000 wasps per square mile each week and were able to reduce fruit fly populations by 90 to 95 percent.

Maintaining a fruit-fly-free area allows Florida citrus growers to export fruit to California, Japan and other areas that refuse fruit unless it is grown in fly-free areas. Fruit flies are among a number of pests subject to such quarantine restrictions.

Previously, growers used the fumigant ethylene dibromide (EDB) to kill fly larvae in fruit, but the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has suspended EDB because it was found to be carcinogenic.

Sivinski notes that other alternatives to EDB also have run into trouble. Citizens in urban areas have objected to aerial malathion spraying, while citrus growers are uneasy about releasing sterile males to suppress fruit fly populations.

Sivinski is now expanding the scope of the research in Tropical America, where he is working with co-operators in Mexico and Guatemala to set up a fly-free zone against the Mediterranean fruit fly. The work there combines parasite releases and sterile male flies, which mate with wild females who produce eggs that do not hatch.

"We're also looking in Mexico and Guatemala for new parasites that do a better job of hunting for fruit fly larvae," Sivinski says. "That could make it easier and more cost effective to maintain the fly-free zones."

Farmers Need Fast Action on Health Insurance Deduction

Michigan farmers need a re-statement of the 25 percent tax deduction for health insurance premiums paid by the self-employed, according to the president of the state's largest farm organization.

"Health insurance is expensive," said Michigan Farm Bureau President Jack Laurie. "No one knows that more than self-employed farmers who must buy it for themselves."

Prior to 1994, farmers and other self-employed individuals were allowed by federal law to deduct up to 25 percent of the cost of their health insurance premiums from their income tax. That provision expired on Dec. 31, 1994, and since then legislation has been introduced in Congress to reinstate the deduction. In the last Congress, members were unsuccessful in attempts to pass an extension.

Laurie said that time is of the essence in the tax deduction extension. He said farmers need the tax deduction reinstated to meet 1994 tax return filing deadlines. Farm Bureau is urging members of Congress to pass legislation prior to March 1, a filing deadline for many farmers.

"No person should have to go without health insurance simply because they are self-employed and can't afford the premiums," Laurie said. "Corporations are able to deduct what they spend to cover their employees, so why can't the self-employed deduct their costs? Complete deductibility of health insurance premiums paid by the self-employed has been a priority of Farm Bureau for many years," he said.

An outdoor club trip request was granted to the music department to travel to St. Louis, Mo. from March 16-20.

The board accepted $23,077 for teacher mini-grants from the Chelsea Education Foundation.

Parental care leave was granted to Anna Hicks for the remainder of the school year. She will work half time next year.

Soil Conservation Award Made at SCD Annual Meet

Jim and Neil Bohnett of Saline township were presented the "Walter Wolfgang Memorial" Conservation Farmer of the Year Award for 1994 at the Annual Meeting of the Washtenaw County Soil Conservation District, held Thursday, Jan. 26, at the Washtenaw Farm Council Grounds.

The "Wolfgang Memorial" Award is presented to outstanding conservation farmers. The Bohnett Brothers were recognized for their use of a manure storage and management system, grassed waterways and erosion control structures, reduced and no-tillage and their over-all conservation ethic on their 1,650-acre dairy farm.

Distinguished Service Awards were presented to retiring district directors George Hinderer, three years as a director; and Dennis Huehl, 12 years as a director. Five-year service awards were presented to directors Steve Solowczuk and Don Trinkle. A special presentation of flowers and a dinner gift certificate was made to Cindy Fischer, district administrative assistant, who has 15 years of service to the Soil Conservation District.

Two district directors were elected to three-year terms. With 66 votes cast, Bruce Breuninger of Scio township and Don Rentschler of Lodi township were elected to their first terms on the district board. They replace retiring district directors George Hinderer and Dennis Huehl.
