CHS Forensics Team Wins Tourney With 127 points

An argument is what Chelsea High school's Forensics team was looking for last Saturday as it swept away its competition at the Brighton Invitational.

"It was a mixture of mostly Classes A and B, with some (Class C and (Class D schools there," said coach Bill Coelius.

In all, 22 teams vied for the first-place title. Chelsea didn't let anyone get close to that title as it won first place with 127 points. Their closest competitor was Farmington Hills with 63 points.

"Even if they had doubled their points, we still would have beat them," Coelius said.

They say good things come in three's. And that saying proved to be true for Chelsea. It had three first-, three second- and three third-place winners.

The third-place winners were Jessica Flintoft and Genevieve Humenay in individual competition, and Jessi Pope and Carrie Pratt in duo competition.

The second-place winners were Rachel Gordenier and Mariah Cherem in individual arguments and Scott Hammett with Steve McDonald in the duo match up.

The first-place winners for Chelsea were Evan Knott, Lori Ritter and Ana Morrell-Samuels in individual competitions.

"The whole team contributed to the first-place trophy," Coelius said. "It was real great preparation for the regional tournament in Dexter."

The forensics team will advance to the regional tournament, which will take place at Dexter High school on Monday, March 27 at 3:30 p.m.

"The public is welcome to attend," Coelius said.

Local Resident Puts Trends, Country Into Wood Cutouts for Craft Shows

Chelsea resident Marcy Cavanaugh brings the country to her crafts through wood cutouts she makes in her spare time.

Cavanaugh is one of three Chelsea artists who will participate in the Country Crafts and Folk Art Show on March 18 at Chelsea High school.

She said she draws most of her own patterns, which are cut out on pine boards, and painted and varnished with acrylic.

Cavanaugh said she tries to keep up with the trends in craft shows, but always makes a large supply of seasonal items to sell.

For example, she will be featuring rabbits for Easter time at this craft fair, along with many other items.

"People will buy the 'in'-things,"

she said. "I look in different magazines for trends."

"Right now, the 'in' thing is fish," she said. A couple of years ago, sunflowers were the rage, she added.

This season, the trend for cutouts is using darker colors — such as hunter green, wine and the darker blues, Cavanaugh said.

She said she goes to the craft shows mainly to see people, not to make a profit.

"I'm a 'people' person. I enjoy going to the shows, not necessarily for the money," Cavanaugh said. "I've made some good friends. We all have something in common."

She said some days she makes enough to cover her booth fee and others she makes enough to walk away with a smile.

The culprits could be the weather or other shows.

The weather could be sunny, and people will want to be outdoors, or it could be bad weather and people won't want to venture out, she said.

Too many or not enough shows could either work in one's favor or not.

If there are other shows, like the Pioneer-Craft Show on March 18, it allows "people to get out to go to one and gives them incentives to check out other shows," Cavanaugh said.

"You just never know."

Marcy Cavanaugh is not new to craft shows. In fact, she has been involved with craft shows, except for one year, since 1976.

She said she started up the Country Crafts and Folk Art Show many years ago, but just rents booth space now.

Cavanaugh plans to enter 20 shows, from as far away as Traverse City to close to home in metropolitan Detroit.

But, she insists, that making the wood cutouts is a hobby.

"I don't rely on the craft shows as income," she said. "I do fun things with the money — like taking vacations."

Cavanaugh said she takes orders from customers if an item is not available or in the wrong color.

"One lady from Dexter wanted a pig and apple," she said. "Her room was done in an Americana-style theme."

More than 100 juried artisans, primarily from Michigan and the Midwest, will present fine arts and crafts, including watercolor paintings and stained glass, for sale, according to promoter Linda Brzezinski.

The fair is celebrating its 11th year with a second spring show. This fair is expected to attract 2,500 visitors from across the state. About 3,000 are expected to venture to Chelsea for the fall show.

Cashman, Daut, Clark Elected to Village Council

Chelsea has one new village trustee, a library board trustee and a clerk as of Monday's election at Sylvan township hall. Two incumbent trustees were returned to office.

Brian Cashman retained his seat with 119 votes and Steven Daut gained re-election with 120 votes, while Robert Clark was elected as Chelsea's newest trustee with 126 votes.

Other runners for trustee were Jim Machnik with 70 votes and Harry Thurkow with 63 votes.

"My only reaction is that I was disappointed at the low voter turnout," Cashman said. "I would like to take the opportunity to welcome Mr. Clark to the council."

Clark said he was excited by the results of the election.

"I'm looking forward to working for the village," he said.

Of the 2,668 registered Chelsea voters, only 188 people cast ballots.

Suzanne Morrison was re-elected as the village's clerk with 159 votes and Bill Personke was re-elected as library board trustee with 149 votes.

dent Richard Steele will appoint people to the assessor and library board trustee positions.

Voting officials had hoped for at least 200 voters, even though voter turnout was low in the morning hours.

By 11:30 a.m., 60 people had voted. That number steadily rose to 114 by 3:45 p.m.

Cashman said he would continue to maintain continued growth in the community, as well as keeping things rolling smoothly.

He has been a board member since 1992. Cashman, a U.M. Information Technology Division manager, said he would like to see the village install a fiberoptic network. He said, for now, he is just toying with the idea.

Daut, also an incumbent, is an environmental consultant who hopes to lend his expertise to the council in future matters.

All of the trustees will face future annexation issues as council members.

Daut said trustees are up against annexation pressure, with six to eight annexation requests in the last six months.

Clark, a newcomer to the council, believes in Chelsea's continued growth. Clark works at Chelsea Lumber as a yard supervisor.

"The village is going to grow, we can't stop that," he said. "I like to see annexation work in the best interests of the village."

"I'd like to address the things that are coming out right now and work toward the future," Clark said.

All newly elected officials were sworn in at Tuesday's Village Council meeting.

Each Village trustee will serve a two-year term, while each library board trustee will serve three-year terms.

Two Die in Crash on Ice Coated M-52

Icy roadways were responsible for an accident that claimed the lives of a Jackson father and daughter in the early morning hours of March 8.

Nancy Adkins, 18, was driving northbound with her father, Roger Lee Adkins, 39, on an ice-covered M-52 near Jerusalem Rd. in Sylvan township when her car began skidding and spun out of control.

The vehicle crossed the center line and was struck broadside by an oncoming semi-trailer truck, driven by John Pruitt, 34, of New Boston.

Sgt. Jerry Haensler, of the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department, said the department identified the bodies of Nancy and Roger Lee Adkins.

Both were pronounced dead at the scene shortly after the 1 a.m. accident. Pruitt escaped the crash without injuries.

The accident is Washtenaw County's first double-fatality of 1995.

Haensler said the accident remains under investigation.

CHELSEA RESIDENT Lillian Riihimaki makes her vote count early Monday morning at the village council elections held at Sylvan township hall.

Blood Clinic Collects Total Of 77 Pints

Eighty-three people volunteered to donate blood at St. Paul Church on Thursday, March 9. Seventy-seven pints of blood were collected.

Six long-time donors reached milestones in their giving. Yvonne Johnson completed one gallon, Paul Weber and Wanda Bishop completed two gallons, Jerry Hackworth and Henry Johnson completed three gallons, and Gary Leonard completed six gallons.

The next Chelsea Community Blood Drive will be May 31 at Our Savior Lutheran Church from 2 p.m. to 8 p.m.

Bid Accepted for Distribution Line, Water Tower

Village Manager Jack Myers said construction will likely begin sometime this month on a water distribution line and water tower east of M-52, from the north side of McDonald's restaurant up to the Polly Shopping Center area. A preconstruction meeting is scheduled Thursday to determine a more exact date for building.

Two bids were considered for the bond. The village accepted the bid from McDonald & Company Securities, Inc. for a $550,000 bond for the construction of a water tower Chelsea's Downtown Development Authority apparently will not try to move an old house to the recently-cleared corner at Orchard and Main Sts. next to McKune Memorial Library. DDA architects originally proposed that the house immediately behind the Chelsea 14th District Courthouse be moved to the site and be used as an addition to the library. The lot behind the courthouse is scheduled to become part of a new municipal parking lot stretching the length of the block from South St. to W. Middle St. behind the Main St. businesses.

Cassidy Lake Technical School will be converted to a 360-bed boot camp this May, about a year later than originally planned. Don Hengesh, director of special alternative incarceration for the state, said the conversion would take place about the middle of the month and the camp would be fully operational by June. Hengesh said the state will spend about $500,000 on renovations before the conversion.

Chelsea Village election produced no major surprises Monday as all unopposed candidates were elected and McKune Memorial Library's millage request passed easily. A total of 170 village voters gave trustee candidates Allen Anderson 106 votes, Stephanie Kanten 104 votes and Tom Dorner 119 votes. Newcomer Suzanne Morrison, candidate for clerk, drew more votes than anyone with 142. Rosemary Harook was elected village assessor with 118 votes.

★ The Prison Boom: New Options for Michigan

By Joseph P. Overton

A former state senator wasn't just kidding when he warned last December, "We are still moving with alarming speed toward the day when every Michigan adult is either incarcerated or working for the Department of Corrections."

The senator was drawing attention to the staggering growth in Michigan's prison population and the cost in manpower and resources expended to support it. The numbers are breathtaking: The Department of Corrections budget, at $1.2 billion, is nearly six times bigger than in 1980 and gobbles up 15 percent of the state's General Fund budget. Even though the state has built 30 new prisons and the system's 38,620 beds represent a tripling of capacity since 1980, department authorities believe they will be at least 1,200 beds short by the end of this year.

It costs Michigan taxpayers about $35,000 to house each prisoner. The average school district in the state educates seven children for that price. The same amount would put two or three students through a year of college.

Clearly, something has to give. The pace of corrections spending, by far the fastest growing component of state spending in the last decade, is both out of control and unsustainable. Legislators of both parties are expressing alarm at these trends and a willingness to consider almost anything that might help solve the problem.

Fundamentally, the state must act to reduce the flow of new inmates into the system. Few people want to go easier on violent criminals, but what about first-time, non-violent offenders? Noting that "sentences in Michigan are the longest and harshest in the world," Attorney General

Frank Kelley in 1993 called for shorter sentences. It is indeed a fact that the prisons are stuffed with people whose sole offense was possession or use of a small amount of illegal narcotics and may not have harmed even themselves, let alone another person. Sixty percent of the prison population is considered non-violent.

More use of alternative sentencing, tethering, community service assignments, and other methods of correction can be part of the solution. So is maintaining indefinitely the practice of double bunking most inmates, approved as a temporary measure in 1991. Perhaps Michigan needs a soul-searching re-examination of its "victimless crime" laws. And it wouldn't hurt to have a serious discussion in our homes, churches, and schools about renewing respect for life, property, and the differences between right and wrong. These fundamental matters, furthermore, can be supplemented by aggressively pursuing an option that is a proven cost-cutter in at least 20 states—privatization of the design, operation, and management of prisons.

Five years ago, a Mackinac Center for Public Policy report urged the state to allow counties to privatize their jails. It was met with fierce opposition not from taxpayers, inmates, social workers, or economists, but from county sheriffs—who view jails as their personal turf. Likewise, the idea of privatizing state prisons may bring forth hostility from the state bureaucracy, but legislators and the public need to ask, "With a successful track record elsewhere, why shouldn't Michigan try it here?" Some services provided within Michigan state prisons are already at least partially privatized, such as certain health care, maintenance, food, and pharmaceutical services.

Experience in other states, where two dozen private companies are doing $250 million of business under contract with state governments, suggests that involving the private sector in the design of new facilities has produced substantial efficiencies. A privately-designed prison in Nashville, Tenn., for instance, needs far fewer guards than the conventional facility because of its innovative "wheel-and-spoke" construction.

State-of-the-art management techniques now come largely from private sector firms, not government corrections bureaucracies. Observing privatized prisons in operation, a Texas official noted that "... you don't have the atmosphere of impending violence that you have in a state prison." That's because private firms, who must find ways to deter violence and manage prisoners effectively to earn a profit, are employing cutting-edge programs for everything from education and rehabilitation to feeding and housing the inmates they manage. Savings from private management of jails and prisons range from 15 to 35 percent off the cost of government-run facilities.

Governor Engler wants the state to spend another $200 million to continue Michigan's seemingly endless prison construction boom. We can approach that request with a business-as-usual attitude, spend the money, and come back for more when the new prisons are filled in a few years. Or we can put our thinking caps on and consider the alternatives—including privatization.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

To hear Ed Doolittle tell it over the past 40 years, Clem Webster allowed at the country store Saturday night, the last foreign affair that came out in our favor was World War II, and that record is good compared with how things have gone on the domestic front. Democrat Clem pointed out that Republican Ed has been unusual quiet about politics in recent weeks, and he wondered why.

Could it be, Clem ask, that Ed is trying to see which way the hot air in Washington is blowing. After all the talk about contract work, Clem allowed, it's been all talk and no work. Clem said it looks to him like the Republicans plan to scare people so bad they can spend the rest of the time explaining there's nothing to be scared of. So far they've said everything is broke, but they ain't fixed anything, was his words.

For instant, Clem went on, there's talk of cutting out or cutting back everything, including the Internal Revenue Service, most of which amounts to cutting off our nose to spite our face. At the same time, he said, we got to build up defense, which common sense says is what we got the most of we don't need. Right now, when we don't have a serious threat in sight, the $280 billion a year we're spending on our military is almost as much as the whole rest of the world. This gives new meaning to the threat we use to call the military-industrial complex, was Clem's words.

Ed had a flareup of shingles and couldn't make the session, so Clem could shoot without being shot at. But Clem slowed down to regroup his clippings and Zeke Grubb got the floor. Zeke agreed that problems come up every day Congress is in session. We see them wrote up in the paper, but we don't see remedies that work. What happens is that Congress puts them in a committee or makes a committee to put them in. Zeke said the only change now is that Congress can say it's the Clinton Administration's fault and name a committee to investigate why it wasn't fixed two years ago.

Furthermore, Zeke went on, it looks like now when Congress gets around to doing something the President will veto it and that problem will be replaced by the next problem. Through it all, Zeke allowed, we can rest assured most of the time will be spent on passing the buck or spending it. For sure, he said, as much positive thinking gets done around the stove in the store as in the halls of Congress, and about as much comes of one as the other.

Not so, broke in Bug Hookum. The first lesson Republicans new to Washington power learned is that talk is cheap only as long as that's all you can do. When you can actual make things happen you are taken serious, and got to be careful what you saw, was Bug's words. That's why Sen. Jesse Helms viewed everything with alarm all his political life until his party got the upper hand. Now that, what he says matters, Bug said, he and others in key slots in the new Congress are trying to rewrite the script to where there's some chance of actual doing some of what they say ought to be done.

Personal, one thing no Congress bothers with is setting a good example in sticking to the job. In little more than month, this one, like all the rest, has spent two weeks at home talking about what needs to be done in Washington.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

'The Place' Offers Local Teens A Friday Night Hangout

■ Our Savior Lutheran church give teens a place to call their own

It's Friday night and "The Place" is packed. Young adults are dancing, jamming and sometimes DJing. The music is loud, but that doesn't seem to bother them as they talk with their friends.

Finding something to do on a week-end night has always been the ultimate goal of teens. Hopefully the activity they choose is one they and their parents are comfortable with.

There's hanging out at one of the fast food restaurants, but how many burgers and sodas can you consume before the manager starts charging you for the booth?

Then there is cruising the streets; either by walking (if you're not old enough to drive) or in a car.

Police Chief McDougall and his officers can tell you everything you ever wanted to know, and more, about cruising.

So what are our young people really looking for?

Most of them just want someplace to go where they can kick back and be with their friends for a few hours.

"The Place" is a temporary choice for teens. Four months ago, the members of Our Savior Lutheran church voted to open a Christian preschool.

In a combination effort of community outreach and a way to raise funds for the school, "The Place" was developed and eight dances were planned.

The concept has been to offer young adults a relaxed, safe environment to just hang out, listen to some tunes, have a little pizza, dance, and most importantly, socialize.

Two local high school bands (Whirl and Sprig) have had the opportunity to perform their music.

Playing your guitar and singing in front of your peers can be a nerve wracking experience. So far, the teens attending the dances have been very supportive of the bands. Most of them realize what it takes to perform in front of their friends for the first time.

At two of the dances, local young people were hired to be the DJs. Again, they are not professional disc jockeys, but the kids seem to like the idea that one of their own has the opportunity to spin the discs and get paid!

So what's the atmosphere like at "The Place"? It's loud (at the Feb. 24 dance, 166 young adults showed up), it's cool, and it's supervised by adults.

The music that is either performed by the band or spun by DJs has limits regarding language, and the behavior requested by the chaperones is one of respect.

Each and every one of the "old people" who volunteer to spend three hours taking tickets, serving refreshments, listening to deafening music and interceding in small problems cares a great deal about the young adults of our community. The next dance is Friday, March 17, 8-11 p.m.

There is no ideal solution for "something to do" on a Friday night. However, the development of a teen center would offer our area youth a place they could call their own with activities they enjoy.

A group of Chelsea business people and community members have been studying the need for healthy youth activities. Their research has included a survey of area teens and the activities they would like to participate in Chelsea.

If you are interested in offering ideas of financial assistance in developing programs for our area youth, please call Colleen Arnold at 475-1715 or Jeanette Hyde at 475-0936.

"THE PLACE": It is a local hangout designed for Chelsea teens to gather in a safe environment. About once a month, dances take place at Our Savior Lutheran church. The next dance is scheduled Friday, March 17.

THE TEEN band "Sprig" entertained teens at Our Savior Lutheran church last month. The church gives teens in a band the opportunity to perform for their peers. The dances allow Chelsea teens to get together in a safe environment without succumbing

Local Residents Graduate With Degrees

Chelsea resident Karen Leigh graduated with a Master's of Science in Education degree from Indiana University-Bloomington in fall commencement exercises last December.

Degrees are conferred monthly as credit requirements are fulfilled, according to Donna Shields, Indiana University spokeswoman.

Tracy Elizabeth Roehm, of Chelsea, graduated Cum Laude (3.5 to 3.7 cumulative grade point average) from Siena Heights College during fall commencement exercises last December. She earned a Bachelor's degree in Art while attending classes at the Adrian campus.

Siena Heights College had 113 students who completed various degrees during the fall 1994 semester. The college awarded one master's degree, 100 bachelor's and 12 associate's degrees to December graduates.

Siena Heights College is a private, Catholic, coeducational, liberal arts college offering associate's, bachelor's and master's degrees. The College was founded in 1919 by the Adrian Dominican Congregation. Along with the central campus in Adrian, Siena Heights has centers in Southfield, at Lake Michigan College in Benton Harbor, at Monroe County Community College in Monroe and at Kellogg Community College in Battle Creek.

FAREWELL PARTY: Chelsea Schools Parent Volunteer Nancy Selman was treated to a surprise good-bye dinner at the Common Grill Restaurant recently. Shown expressing their appreciation for all Nancy's hard work are Beach Middle School Principal Darcy Stielstra, Nancy and South School Principal Lucy Stieber. Members of South School PTO and Beach PTO organized the event attended by about 30 people. Nancy has been president of the PTO, helped get new playground equipment installed at South school and has been very active in activities at both schools. The Selman family has moved to the Toledo area because of her husband's job.

Children Learn To Write Mysteries

Students in fourth and fifth grades at both North and South Elementary schools will have the opportunity to learn how to formulate ideas and write a mystery on Friday, March 17 and Wednesday, March 22. Shelly Weber will conduct a presentation, "How to be a Mystery Writer."

Weber is the former children's librarian at McKune Memorial Library and is now assistant librarian for Chelsea School District's High School Library. Weber will conduct this two-part workshop as a work-in-progress project.

South school children meet in the cafeteria from 1:50 to 2:30 p.m.

North school students will meet in the multipurpose room from 12:50 to 1:30 p.m.

This workshop is one of a series of Exploration Workshops to be offered to grade school children this year. The program is sponsored by the Chelsea School District, a part of the Talent Development Program as developed by Laurie Bissell, Chelsea School curriculum director and is coordinated by Mary Jane Eder.

and water distribution line, Myers said. The interest rate on the bid was 6.4751 percent, he said.

Another company, First of America, Inc. also submitted a proposal for the bid. Their rate was 6.67117 percent, Myers said.

The project is estimated to cost $700,000, with $150,000 of the funds being provided via the water department's current funds.

In a previous article, it was mistakenly reported that Village-owned trash bags were being sold for 11 1/2 cents per bag. The correct amount is $1.50, which includes village pickup and the bag itself, Myers said.

Residents may also buy 10 bags in a box for $15. They are to be available at the village offices and neighboring stores that sell the current stickers.

CHELSEA EARLY CHILDHOOD COALITION recently presented a workshop on "Toy and Media Violence—Facts and Alternatives" at Beach Middle school. Participants listened and learned about the powerful, often negative images and messages that children and families are exposed to through violent TV shows, cartoons, war toys, advertising and many other media influences. Speaker Mary Jo Finn Cloutier (standing in photo) also gave tips to parents and educators about positive alternatives that encourage imagination, creativity and healthy self-esteem.

ART FARLEY explains how he started his small business, Chelsea Motorcycle Supply, in 1989, to eighth graders at Beach Middle school's "Career Day 1995" Tuesday morning. Farley used to work for a Harley Davidson motorcycle-dealer before becoming his own boss.

Health-O-Rama Offers Free Health Services

It is time once again for Project Health-O-Rama, sponsored by Washtenaw United Way.

Health-O-Rama 1995 will take place at four locations in our local community: Arborland Mall; Beyer Hospital; Chelsea Community Hospital and the Saline Recreation Center. Each location will offer the following free services: Blood pressure, vision, height and weight, glaucoma and hearing tests, a health hazard appraisal, counseling and referral, and health education materials.

The average participant in Project Health-O-Rama will receive health services that would normally cost between $150 and $200.

The following locations will also offer the following special tests and services at no cost:

Beyer Hospital: Breast exams, risk assessments, medication and nutrition counseling, Pulmonary Function, Nutrition and Medication Counseling, and Pap Smears.

Chelsea Community Hospital: Skin Cancer Screening, Podiatry, Nutrition and Medication Counseling, Oral/Dental Screening, and Pulmonary Function.

All sites will offer three other tests that will be available for nominal fees: take-home colorectal screening kits costs $5, prostate antigen blood test kit is $25, and a blood panel of 22 tests will cost $15. Individuals wishing to take the blood tests are advised not to eat for four hours prior to the test.

Washtenaw United Way is proud to provide financial support for this very important event. Last year Project Health-O-Rama helped over 1,500 people in Washtenaw County.

The 1995 Project Health-O-Rama sites are:

Saline Community Hospital, Saline Recreation Center, 1866 Woodland Dr., Saline, Wednesday, March 15, 7 a.m. to 5 p.m.;

Beach Eighth Graders Get Early Career Start

Beach selects wide range of professionals

Choosing a career is very important and it's never too early to start. In a first-time program, Beach Middle school gave its eighth graders that early start by sponsoring "Career Day 1995" Tuesday morning.

Career Day 1995 is part of the Portfolio program, which is connected to the MOIS career searches that are used in the English classes.

Beach Middle school counselor and Portfolio chairperson Patricia Compton said in the three years that she has worked at Beach, she hasn't known of a career opportunity program for eighth graders until Tuesday's program.

Each student received a list of 13 sessions to attend and had to choose at least three sessions, plus two alternates.

"It gives them exposure to career options," Compton said. "The most requested sessions were the motorcycle, FBI, engineer and attorney sessions."

Career professionals who gave presentations were: Pam Eddington, printing technology; Judy Wicks, engineer (Chrysler); Art Farley, motorcycle repair and small business; Gary Maveal, lawyer; Inspector Howell, corrections officer (prison guard); Charlie Taylor, biochemistry (drugs and the brain); Al Letizio, FBI agent; Mark Taubman, computer engineer; Allen Ribant, actor/theatre director; Karen Ruhlig, flight nursing; Steve LeVeck, paramedic and emergency medicine; Kathy Wurl, toxicology (poisonous substances); and Kristen Stephens, culinary arts (chef and food services).

Wicks brought an electric mini-van to the school, and gave some luck eighth graders a ride in around the parking lot.

The electric cars cost about $150,000 to manufacture. The van that Wicks brought to Beach Middle school is a test model for the Chrysler Corp.

Once people are able to buy the electric cars, the cost will probably go down, she said.

Art Farley, a 1970 Chelsea High school graduate, explained to the eager students the importance of motorcycle repair and answered questions on how he was able to open his own motorcycle shop, Chelsea Motorcycle Supply.

Farley purchased his first bike at 18, even though motorcycles were "taboo" in his household.

"The more you ride the dirt bike,

"AIRBAND" 1995 enjoyed five groups entertaining of students. Some of the participants at Beach Middle school included, back row: Mindy Arnett, Emily Hennessy, Sarah Martin, Bill Lucas, Amanda

24 Years Ago...

Popularity was attributed to the fact that the boys were allowed to eat everything they prepared.

34 Years Ago...

Thursday, March 23, 1961—
Marjorie Wheeler, Patrice Murdock and Carol Wheeler of Dexter and Karen Spike of Manchester were candidates in the annual Washtenaw County Dairy Princess contest.

Chelsea's newest industry, a firm specializing in the manufacturing of swimming pools made of ceramic tile embedded in fiberglass, expected to begin production of the following week in the former Gudeman plant on Old US-12 adjoining the Chelsea Community Fair Grounds. Name of the new firm awaited a decision at a meeting of company officials.

Kiwanis club members and their wives and other guests attended the Chelsea club's 37th birthday party held at the Methodist church.

Charles Koenn, Chelsea High school senior, received the State Farmer Award from the Michigan Future Farmers of America Association as part of the 33rd annual state convention at Michigan State University, East Lansing. Koenn's leadership in FFA included serving as president of the Chelsea chapter; service as secretary; delegate to the state convention; member of Chelsea parliamentary procedure team that reached regional contest for two years; and chairman and member of many committees of the local chapter.

Bridge Marathon Play Continues

On Sunday evening, March 5 the fifth meeting of the Couples (Pairs) Bridge Marathon for the benefit of the Chelsea Community Hospital was held in the Woodlands Room at the Hospital. Ten couples participated.

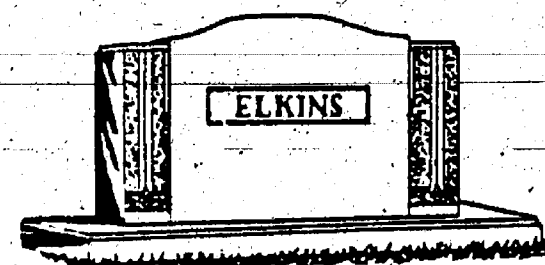

This evening couples played with each other just one round; the other four rounds were played with different partners, so there were individual winners rather than couple winners. The top score for the evening's 20 hands was 4,910, amassed by Nancy Pichlik of Ann Arbor. Just 360 points behind the winner was a 4,550, giving second place to Roberta Barstow, of Dexter. Pat Becker, of Chelsea, was a close third with a 4,150 for the evening's play.

Refreshments were brought by Addie and Ernie Laetz, of Ann Arbor. Coffee and tea were furnished by the Chelsea Hospital. Refreshments are brought by a different couple each week the group plays.

The same format will be followed for the rest of the season, using four best scores to qualify for year-end prizes in this marathon event, which takes place the first Sunday evening of each month. The group begins play at 6 p.m. so that working people may get home at a reasonable hour, usually by 9:00 or 9:15 p.m. Play takes place in the Woodlands Room of Chelsea Community Hospital.

Mixed pairs may play, so think about a partner beginning on April 2 and give Roberta Barstow (426-3887) a call for any further information, or just show up at 6 p.m. on April 2.

Telephone Charges From Pay Phones May Be Rip-Off

Have you ever received a high telephone bill after using a pay telephone in a hotel, motel, airport, hospital, or any other place? Well, you're not the only one!

You may think that you are using your regular long-distance telephone company, or another company with similar charges when using a pay telephone. This isn't always the case, and you may find yourself with an excessive telephone charge.

What can you do?

- Look for posted information about the long-distance service on or near the pay telephone. The company's name and a toll-free customer service number should be listed, so you can call for charges before you make a call.
- If the long-distance company's name is not posted, dial 00, or the hotel-access number to get an outside line followed by 00, and ask the operator for the name and contact number.
- If the long-distance service provider is not the company you want, use the carrier identification access code or the 1-800 number for the company you want. To obtain this access code or number, contact the long-distance company directly. Currently, there are 55 long-distance companies serving Michigan.

Some pay telephones may illegally block the use of access codes to long-distance companies. If this occurs, use a 1-800 number, or find and use another pay telephone that will allow you to use your company of choice.

Here's how to get help!

Pay telephones may use one of many different companies for long-distance telephone service. The rates charged for calls can and do vary from company to company. Customers who have questions about pay telephone charges on their bill, or have a complaint should write to: Attorney General, Consumer Protection and Charitable Trusts, 525 W. Ottawa, Lansing 48909. Always include bills showing the calls in question. Consumers may also write to their local telephone company that is billing the call.

Lists of all the carriers' identification access codes are available from the Federal Communications Commission, Common Carrier Bureau, 1919 M Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20554, or the Michigan Public Service Commission ERMIS Bulletin Board System. If you need information on accessing the computer bulletin board system call Ron Choura (517) 334-6240.

SCOUTS FROM Troop 425 climbed walls that simulated various forms of rock climbing. The walls ranged from 14 feet to 35 feet high. Pictured are Jared Wacker, Ian Kummer, Ben Hicks, Owen Anderson and Brian Phillips.

Housing Project Starts Jump in '94

Michigan 1994 Housing Project starts were up 7.1% over 1993 and ended higher than any other year this decade. Business was up $282 million over 1993 making Michigan's residential building industry nearly a $4 billion industry.

"Many factors came together in 1994 to help bring about such a good year," commented Bob Woodard, President of the Michigan Association of Home Builders. "Interest rates remained in the single digits, lumber prices fluctuated but ended up 24% below what they were last year, the consumers' confidence in the economy strengthened in 1994, and in Michigan, property tax cuts allowed more people into the housing market."

The Michigan Association of Home Builders is comprised of more than 10,000 member companies, thus providing service to over 370,000 people in the home building/construction industry. MAHB also represents 36 local home builder associations throughout the state.

Serving Our Community Over Twelve Years

TWO LOCAL STUDENTS, Katie Sullivan and Hillary Wiedmayer, were selected as the two feature twirlers for the 1995 Michigan Lions Clubs All State Band. The band, consisting of 170 students from 86 high schools, will perform for military servicemen and women on the Fourth of July at a U.S. military base.

Dexter, Manchester Twirlers To Participate in Lions Clubs All State Band This Summer

Two local students, both former members of the Chelsea Baton Corps, have been selected as the two feature twirlers for the 1995 Michigan Lions Clubs All State Band.

Katie Sullivan, a sophomore at Dexter High school, and Hillary Wiedmayer, a senior at Manchester High school, were the only two students from Washtenaw county selected for membership in the band during January auditions in St. Johns.

The All State Band, organized and sponsored by the Michigan Lions Clubs, has been in existence for 18 years. This year's band consists of 170 students representing 86 different high schools.

The band will travel to Seoul, South Korea, in July and stay at the Olympic Village in Seoul.

While in South Korea, the band will have the honor of performing on the Fourth of July at a U.S. military base.

In keeping with the Lions' motto of "We Serve" the tour will continue in China and Hawaii with performances at retirement centers, veteran facilities and hospitals.

Lions Clubs of Michigan underwrite the general expenses of the All State Band; however, each student is responsible for raising their own trip costs.

National Agriculture Day Slated March 20

By Sue Wiedmayer
Washtenaw County Farm Bureau
Promotion and Education

Across the United States of America, the more than 20 million men and women who provide the food and fiber Americans depend on every day will be honored during the 22nd Anniversary of National Agriculture Week (March 19-25) and National Agriculture Day (March 20).

Without a national observance, it is too easy to forget the important role the American food and agriculture industry plays in our daily lives. We tend to take for granted the very industry that puts food on our table, clothes on our backs and shelter over our heads each day. National Agriculture Day provides an opportunity for all Americans to take a moment and reflect upon the many ways agriculture touches their lives.

National Agriculture Day and National Agriculture Week coincide with the beginning of spring, when thousands of farmers across the country are preparing their fields for planting. The annual observance is designed to direct attention to the important contributions made by the food and agriculture industry.

When many Americans hear the word agriculture, they think of farms, cows, pigs, and a field of corn. The fact is, though, that the American food and agriculture system is much more diverse than that.

The food and agriculture industry represents nearly 16 percent of the Gross National Product and an estimated 21 million jobs (or 17 percent of the total national work force). Michigan agriculture alone contributes $37 billion a year in economic activity. Yet, approximately 90 percent of the industry's jobs are off the farm which means that Americans don't have to live on a farm to have their livelihood tied to agriculture.

In fact, a large segment of the population depends on agriculture, but have never been on a farm: from the assembly worker building farm machinery, to the people in food processing and retailing, railroads and other transportation, to veterinarians and scientists continuously working to develop new agriculture technologies.

Many people are unaware of the connection—they see themselves as totally removed from agriculture. Chances are, however, that they or someone they know is employed by the food and agriculture industry. Many people fail to realize that, in addition to their daily sustenance, they also depend on agriculture for their economic well-being.

For more information contact Washtenaw County Farm Bureau office.

Motorcycle Safety Classes Scheduled at WCC Site

Countersteering and maneuvering safely on streets are two of the skills motorcycle enthusiasts will learn through the Motorcycle Safety program sponsored by Washtenaw Community College this spring.

The program features instruction in two skill levels, novice and performance based. Each section is available to anyone 16 years of age or older who has a permit or driver's license. The novice sessions were developed by the Motorcycle Safety Foundation to introduce riders to basic riding skills and motorcycle controls. Successful completion meets the licensing requirements for the State of Michigan. Motorcycles will be provided to novice students only. Novice classes are offered in four formats: (1) one week-end (the most demanding learning format), (2) two consecutive week-ends, (3) eight week-nights, or (4) one week, five consecutive days.

The performance-based sessions were developed for the more experienced riders who want to sharpen their skills or learn advanced techniques using their own motorcycles. Students in the performance based sessions ride their own motorcycles, which must pass a basic safety inspection. Participants in this program meet for one day-long session.

Classes are located on the WCC campus. All students must provide and wear a DOT-approved motorcycle helmet that fits properly. Participants are also asked to wear sturdy long pants and jackets, full-finger gloves, eye protection, and rugged over-the-ankle boots. Novice sessions begin April 7. Performance Based sessions start May 21. For more information and fee schedule, call (313) 677-5027.

Two Receive Metroparks Employee of Year Awards

Two employees of the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority Metroparks recently received the "Outstanding Employees of the Year Award" for 1995.

The awards are made annually to two employees who have made outstanding contributions to the Huron-Clinton Metroparks.

Barbara J. Savery, operations/warehouse clerk at Hudson Mills Metropark near Dexter, started as a part-time toll booth operator at that park in 1985. She was hired to her current full-time position in March, 1992.

"Barb is willing to do anything that's needed," says Kimberly Jarvis, assistant park superintendent at Hudson Mills. "She readily volunteers for assignments outside her job description."

Savery and her husband, Jeff, reside in Dexter.

Gerald P. Wykes is museum curator and supervising interpreter at the new Marshlands Museum and Nature Center at Lake Erie Metropark in Brownstown township. Wykes started with the HCMA in September, 1980 as an exhibit preparator at Oakwoods Metropark near Flat Rock. He was promoted to his current position in 1994.

"Gerry is very talented and creative," says Thomas Smith, chief of interpretive services for the HCMA. "He's an accomplished artist and naturalist, an excellent writer and storyteller, and he can even play the guitar."

Wykes was graduated from Michigan State University in 1979 with a Bachelor of Arts degree in wildlife management. In 1989, he received the "Distinguished Professional Interpreter Award" from the regional association of the National Association of Interpreters. Wykes and his wife, Debora, reside in Monroe with their three children, Geoffrey, James and, Katelyn.

"The candidates for this annual honor are nominated by their fellow employees," says Paul Muelle, president of the executive committee of the HCMA Employees Association and park planner. "Recipients receive a plaque and a $200 U.S. savings bond."

Views On Dental Health

GARY GOCHANOUR, D.D.S.

WISDOM TEETH

As babies, we start out with 20 primary (or baby) teeth. By the time we are adults, we shed these baby teeth and end up with a total of 32 teeth. Where do the extra 12 come from? These are our 12 permanent molar teeth. They develop behind the baby molars in three stages (of 4 each) during our youth.

The third set of molars are called wisdom teeth. They make their appearance between the age of 17 and 21. The one who invented this label equated "wisdom" (perhaps rashly) with physical maturity. Wisdom teeth often cause trouble.

The jaws may be so small that one or all of these wisdom teeth remain completely embedded in the jawbone. In other instances, only a portion of the crown may erupt and a flap of gum tissue may overlap much of the wisdom tooth enamel.

These embedded (impacted) or partially erupted teeth may become a source of trouble from pressure they produce on adjacent teeth or from infection that develops under the gum. Their surgical removal may be necessary.

JASON EYSTER has received a Creative Artist's grant from the Michigan Council for the Arts to redesign and improve the harp. He is using a new understanding of acoustical principles to improve tonal quality of these ancient instruments.

Harp Maker Eyster Uses Physics Principles To Improve Instrument

Jason Eyster has received a Creative Artist's Grant from the Michigan Council for the Arts to redesign the harp, using experimental and theoretical tonal analysis. He was one of only 35 artists to be chosen out of 217 in the state-wide competition.

Eyster is known to local musical audiences as past executive director of Ars Musica, Ann Arbor's former resident baroque orchestra, and also as the composer of the electronic multi-media work, The Eagle's Shadow, which played at Kerrytown Concert Hall. In addition, he composed and performed the soundtrack score for the award winning PBS television special, "Education Unbound."

During the last 20 years, according to Eyster, a new understanding of acoustical principles has permitted physicists and craftsmen to work out formulae and devise experiments resulting in design standards which have significantly improved the tone quality of a variety of musical instruments. It is his goal to apply these same analytical techniques to the folk harp, enhancing the design standards of folk harp construction throughout America.

The quality of a harp's sound depends on the behavior of the plucked string and the response of the harp's soundbox. Despite the folk harp's long and illustrious tradition, it is not an instrument for which popular demand has permitted significant expenditures on tonal analysis and design research. As a result, harp soundbox design is currently based on visual aesthetics, historical precedent, and ease of construction.

Because the folk harp is a hand-crafted instrument, it is understandable that folk harps are made in all shapes and sizes. Eyster's harps, for example, feature extensive painted carvings of dragons, swans, and griffins. Nonetheless, luthiers must take into account certain immutable laws of acoustics if they are to build instruments which possess tonal clarity and uniformity throughout their range. Because of this extensive background in the electronic synthesis of acoustical instrument sounds, Eyster has gained a special understanding of the physics of musical instruments which, he hopes, will make this original project possible.

Eyster came to harp design through a circuitous route. After graduating from Princeton University with a degree in Art and Archaeology, he attended Fordham Law School, then accepted a position as in-house counsel for Actors Equity Association. While in New York City, he studied composition with Lawrence Widdows at the Juilliard School of Music. He then moved with his wife, attorney Diana Newman, to Michigan to serve as executive director of Ars Musica, the resident original instrument orchestra. Subsequently, he returned to Princeton to run the Princeton-in-Asia Foundation, then back to Ann Arbor, as president of AgTech Export, an export consulting firm. For the last four years he has divided his time between the University of Michigan's Southeast Asia Business Program, where he is executive director, and his work as a composer and instrument maker.

This is Eyster's second grant award from the Michigan Council for the Arts.

CROP WALKERS in the Chelsea Walk last October raised over $7,500 to be used by Church World Service in their battle against hunger. CROP also supports hunger relief at home and has returned 25% of the funds collected to be distributed locally through Faith in Action. In photo above, center are

CROP Returns Funds to Chelsea

Last October, 150 walkers, representing 10 area churches, raised over $7,500 for Church World Service/CROP.

CROP, working together with people and organizations of many different religious faiths, provides food and development funds in over 70 countries around the world, often reaching areas inaccessible to governments and civil agencies.

As part of this effort CROP also supports hunger relief at home, by returning 25% of all funds raised to local programs. Recently, a check for $1,883.61 arrived from CROP for use in our community through Faith in Action.

Last October's walk was dedicated to the memory of the late Pastor Mark Weirauch, former pastor of Zion Lutheran church and CROP Walk co-ordinator for our community for the previous four years. It was a tribute to Pastor Mark and his concern for the hungry that this walk exceeded, in number of walkers and amount of funds raised, all previous CROP Walk events.

Initial planning for the 1995 walk begins on Sunday, April 23 at 1 p.m. at Gina's Cafe. (Gina's provided all the T-shirts for the 1994 walk.) All those wishing to become a part of the organizational team are invited to attend this meeting. The 1995 CROP Walk will be on Oct. 1.

Two Craft Fairs Set Saturday

■ Pioneer Craft Fair and Country Crafts & Folk Art Show set from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

If you're an art enthusiast or love crafts, mark Saturday on your calendar. Dexter and Chelsea will each serve as hosts for two local fairs.

Dexter's annual Pioneer Craft Fair, to benefit the Dexter Area Museum, and Chelsea's Country Crafts & Folk Art Show, to benefit the Chelsea Senior Citizens Organization, are both slated March 18.

Promoter Linda C. Brzezinski says she views the simultaneous fairs as a day of art and crafts. She envisions people visiting one fair and then the other. Both benefit worthy causes. Pioneer Craft Fair will raise funds to continue museum operations; maintenance and programming. The Country Crafts & Folk Art Show will serve as a fundraiser for senior citizens by providing money for craft classes, travel and other activities.

The Pioneer Craft Fair, which got its start 22 years ago, is sponsored by the Dexter Historical Society. It features more than 50 artists, selected by jury, demonstrating and selling their historic and ethnic crafts. The fair began with just 25 artists, and has grown in depth, quality and popularity. Many of the artists return every year.

Artists making a debut this year will be woodcarver Bill Gillespie of Wildlife Creations, illustrator Deborah Fredericks of Herb of Grace and Christine McKay of Tochay Farm Fibers. A second-year visit by Brian and Stephen Smith will feature their wrought iron candle holders, fireplace poker and knives. They will demonstrate blacksmithing outdoors in a portable coal forge.

The Country Crafts & Folk Art Show will feature 100 juried artists, including Sue Eisenbeiser, Marcy Cavanaugh and James Stewart, Sr., from the Chelsea area.

The Chelsea show is celebrating its 11th anniversary and second spring exhibit. It has been traditionally held in the fall, but because of its popularity, organizers have planned two annual events.

Unlike the Pioneer Craft Fair, the Chelsea show will not place a heavy emphasis on demonstrating. Some artists may explain their craft, but most will just exhibit and sell their wares.

Brzezinski expects about 2,500 people from all over the state to visit the show. The artists primarily hail from Michigan and the Midwest. (Continued on page 14)

Ryan Ludwig Captures State Wrestling Title

Chelsea has a new state champion at 142 lbs.: Ryan Ludwig.

The wrestler, along with his team, competed at the MHSAA Individual Wrestling Finals at Kellogg Arena in Battle Creek, last Friday and Saturday.

Ludwig's first match on Friday was against Troy Harrington of Birch Run, a senior with a 48-8 record who had placed third in the state last year. Ludwig won, 5-0.

His second match on Friday was against Joel Trim from Ludington, who has a 44-3 record. Ludwig again claimed the match, 7-3.

On Saturday, Ludwig's first opponent was Allen Hill of Allen Park, who has a 45-4 record. Ludwig won the match, 8-4, and qualified for the championship finals.

In the championship finals, Ludwig met Neal Todd, a senior from Mt. Clemens Lutheran North. Ludwig dominated this match and won the state championship by a score of 10-2.

Ludwig did an excellent job of staying concentrated and taking one match at a time. The level of competition at the state level is comparable to nothing else. Ludwig dominated each match, but especially the final match.

At the state finals, there are very few pins and most matches are very close. Ludwig's final match was very impressive and the fact that he won by a score of 10-2 shows how well he wrestled.

Also competing in the state finals were Koby Foytik and Jordan Dyer.

Wrestling at 126 lbs., Foytik first met Mark Curtis of Caro and lost, 15-5. Foytik then wrestled Aaron Sprague of Caledonia and lost, 20-5.

Wrestling at 185 lbs., Dyer's first match was against Kurt Piotrowski of Lansing Waverly. Dyer lost 5-0. He then wrestled Tate Switzer of Sturgis and lost a very close match, 3-2.

Both Jordan and Koby did a fine job wrestling under extremely intimidating circumstances. Since both are juniors and will return next year, coach Kargel has high expectations for the next year.

RYAN LUDWIG - State Champion!

RYAN LUDWIG, wrestling at 142 lbs. won four consecutive matches Friday and Saturday at the State Wrestling Finals to claim the state title in his weight class.

ON HIS WAY to a state championship in the 142-lb. weight class, Ryan Ludwig dominated the final match which he won by a 10-2 score. Such dominance at the championship level is not usually seen but was a tribute to Ryan's great efforts.

8th Grade Spikers End Season in Tie

The eighth grade volleyball team concluded their season with a home match against Tecumseh on Thursday, March 9.

At the end of the one-hour playing time limit, the match stood tied with each team winning two games. Game scores were 9-11, 11-4, 11-13 and 11-1.

The team finished a fine season with a record of 7-2-2, said coach Ann Schaffner.

Katie Royce served for 12 points and Shontay Young and Celeste Bycraft had 11 points each. Johnson played well and led in assists. Angie White and Royce led with 10 hits each.

7th Grade Spikers Defeat Tecumseh, End Season, 9-1-1

Beach Middle school seventh grade volleyball girls wrapped up their season Thursday, March 9. Their final match was against Tecumseh, and the girls took the match in three games. Scores were 11-3, 11-5 and 11-6.

Jasmin Roberts was top server with eight points. Kate Huehl and Lindsey Brink each served six points. They played very well in this match, said coach Linda Turok. Team serving was 83 percent.

Their team spirit and dedication to volleyball were evident throughout the season, she added. The girls can be proud of their final season record of 9-1-1, coach Turok said.

Chelsea Knocked Out of Class B District Tourney in First Round

■ Tecumseh Wins Final Over Onsted, 45-27

Chelsea High school had another case of the "free-throw flu" March 6 at Brooklyn Columbia Central for the Class B District tournament.

The game against Columbia Central resulted in 51 free throw attempts, courtesy of 58 personal fouls throughout the game.

Chelsea coach Robin Raymond said Monday's "game was tightly officiated."

"Our style is to get the ball out and run," he said. "When both teams are fouling, it's hard to do that."

Chelsea's season ended 10-11 over-all, and 5-7 in the Southeastern Conference.

Nick Brink had 15 points. Case McCalla has 14 points and 11 rebounds, and Scott Colvin had 12 points for the Bulldogs.

Columbia Central led the second half, with Chelsea trailing at their heels. Brink helped the Bulldogs to come within two points, 53-51, on a steal and layup with 1:10 left in the game.

As the clock ticked away precious seconds, Chelsea was unable to score again.

"In the last 30 seconds, it was (still) a two-point game," Raymond said.

However, Columbia Central made sure to widen that gap as it landed five free throw attempts in the final 18 seconds of the matchup.

Raymond said his team had a chance to take the lead in the fourth quarter, but weren't able to.

The game "was a parade of free-throw lines at both ends," Raymond said.

For Brooklyn, Travis Bertke hit three free throws, while seniors Joe Weed has 13 points and Jason Rhinehart had 12 rebounds.

Brooklyn advanced to last Wednesday's semi-final meeting against Tecumseh. Onsted beat Milan, 50-46, to become a semi-final contender.

In Wednesday's matchups, Tecumseh sent Brooklyn to the showers with a 71-57 defeat. Tecumseh thus earned the first berth in Friday's championship game.

Onsted was neck and neck against Dexter and triumphed in double overtime to take it, 46-45, thus advancing to the finals.

The final championship game pitted Tecumseh against Onsted, with Tecumseh coming out on top, 45-27.

Tecumseh travels to the Class B regional tournament at Adrian and will face an unbeaten Grosse Ile, ranked second over-all in Class B.

"Tecumseh was the best team in the district," Raymond said. "It was fitting that they won."

Even though Chelsea wasn't able to advance in the tournament, the team still had an outstanding season.

"We had only one game where we lost by more than 11 points," Raymond said. "Most of the losses were very close losses."

He said he had a group of hard-working players, who played hard every game.

"I have a group of five seniors who really played hard for us," Raymond said. "It's hard to see them graduate."

Even though Raymond will have to say goodbye to these seniors, he still has seven returning players.

"It will provide us with a good nucleus for next year," he said. "I'm very optimistic for next year."

The Bulldogs won their first seven games until a string of injuries slowed them down.

"Three kids were out for four to six games," Raymond said.

All injury-plagued players were able to play in the last four regular season games.

"It's tough to get back in the flow when you have injuries," Raymond said. "We didn't have time to get

Boy's Swim Team 9th In State Competition

Chelsea High school's swimming team represented the community in a big way finishing eighth at this year's state swimming and diving championships. Chelsea finished the meet with 71 points. Dexter was fifth with 103.5 points and Milan was second with 179 points.

Top finishers for the Bulldogs were as follows. The 200-medley relay of Christian Desabo, Kevin Kolodica, Steve Straub and Jim Bergman combined for a ninth-place finish at 1:43.34. This was a 4.2 second drop for the group.

Matt McVittie had a super week-end having a career-best time in the 200-yard freestyle at 1:41.29. His performance was good enough for second place and All America Honorable Mention at 46.31.

The 200-yard freestyle relay team of McVittie, Straub, Kolodica and Bergman were All State for the second time in two years. The team placed sixth at 1:29.07.

Kolodica had a wonderful performance in the 100 breaststroke, dropping to a season and personal best time of 1:02.29. Kolodica won the consolation finals as teammate Peter Straub placed 12th at 1:03.14. Straub is one of four underclassmen returning in the event next year and promises to be a definite point scorer for the Bulldogs.

The last event of the day and week-end was the 400-free relay. Chelsea finished ninth in the event behind the outstanding effort of McVittie, Straub, Chris Frayer and Curt Street. Frayer and Street are very important to the future of the program as they are freshmen and sophomores, respectively.

The awards banquet for the swimming team is slated for Wednesday, March 29.

Breaking and Entering

Breaking and entering was reported on Steinbach Rd. near Jackson Rd., March 6. A 37-year-old Dexter woman told police someone broke into her uncle's home and stole a VCR and portable telephone. The woman, who is living in the home as her uncle vacations, said she left between 12:45 p.m. and 2:45 p.m. When she returned, the woman found a thief broke open a bedroom window and a window in the front door. Entry was gained by the thief reaching in the broken door window and unlocking the door. Neighbors reportedly saw nothing suspicious.

Her dog was initially kept alive at an emergency clinic, but died the next morning at the veterinarian's office. The dog's vet bills total $280. Their work includes watercolor paintings, stained glass, hand cast paper, pottery, quilts and blankets.
The Pioneer Craft Fair features many of the same crafts, also including hand-worked scrimshaw jewelry, soft-cloth dolls, clothing, wool items, hand-made lace and porcelain miniatures.

Both fairs will include a luncheon. North Lake United Methodist church will host the Country Crafts & Folk Art Show's lunch and the Dexter Heritage Guild will host the Pioneer Craft Fair's.

Both fairs will be held at their respective high schools from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

KAREN RUHLIG and Steve LeVeck emphasize the dangers of working in the medical field as a flight nurse and paramedic, respectively. The two were part of "Career Day 1995" held at Beach Middle school, where professionals talked about their prospective careers to interested eighth graders.

Chaplain Lt. Col. Jerrold F. Beaumont Receives Awards

Colonel J. Summers, USAF Region Liaison Officer, acting on behalf of Colonel William Charles, Commander Michigan Wing, presented Chaplain Beaumont with the commander's commendation medal and a plaque signifying his being named "Chaplain of the Year."

The citation accompanying the commander's commendation medal reads as follows:

"Chaplain Beaumont is a valued member of Michigan Wing staff. As Deputy Wing Chaplain, he has assisted with the 'Chaplains Helping Chaplains' program, written the chaplain's handbook, instructed at the region staff college for senior officers, as well as instructing squadron leadership and corporate learning courses, helped administer the moral leadership program and has completed both Region Chaplains' Staff College at Grissom AFB and National Staff College for senior officers at Maxwell AFB.

Chaplain Beaumont is the architect of a successful exchange program between the USAF/CAP Cadet Program and the Canadian armed forces (Air) Cadet program, having begun an annual participation by members of the Michigan Wing in the Canadian Tri-Services drill and sports competition. In January 1995 the Michigan Wing won over-all first rating by winning four of the main areas of competition.

He is characterized by a dry sense of humor and a quiet competence as he provides leadership to his wing and brings honor to the USAF/CAP.

Newport Beach Club Gets New Name, Facilities

■ New clubhouse and boat racing among amenities local club has to offer.

If he were alive today, Birkett Newkirk would most likely be surprised over the progress around him. He may be especially dazzled by recent renovations to his one-time bathhouse.

Named the Newport Beach Club by Newkirk himself when he constructed the bathhouse in 1931, the private club has undergone some recent expansion and renovation over the past year or so.

Owned by Dexter township resident Tom Ehman, Sr. since 1966, the private recreation club has seen demolition of the old clubhouse and construction of a 12,600-square-foot, two-story building completed in May 1994. Most recently, Ehman changed the club's name to the Portage Yacht Club.

In December 1992, Ehman estimated the reconstruction to be a four-month process. But when he decided to relocate his boat business, Midwest Aquatics, across the road and include a restaurant facility in the clubhouse, it proved to be more than a year before everything was completed.

Changes were implemented to provide a larger, year-round facility for members. The new facility houses two multi-purpose rooms with lake views, a catering kitchen, tile locker rooms, coat room, club office and large front deck that opens onto the beach. Upstairs is a game room and a covered deck with panoramic views of Portage Lake. Ehman said the clubhouse may be rented for receptions, seminars, picnics and Christmas parties.

In addition to the new clubhouse and dining facilities, the club now handles boat races once operated as part of the Huron Portage Yacht Club, and provides moorings for 192 boats, primarily sailboats, as well as a few pontoon and motor boats. In the past, Huron Portage Yacht Club, organized in 1933 by cottage owners, raced independently on the lake but held most regattas, social events and other activities at the clubhouse. With more than 80 percent of the racers docking at Portage Yacht Club, the two entities recently decided to unify memberships and activities.

Ehman said he is trying to create a "sense of community" by offering discount memberships to lake residents and by conducting the sailboat races. This year, the club will conduct 30 week-end races and 18 Tuesday and Thursday night races with trophies awarded.

Besides boating activities, the summer months see members come from all over the state to use the facilities, which also includes three tennis courts, a shaded park, two diving towers and 140 picnic tables and grills. "Folks that come here just play," Ehman said.

During the winter months, the Portage Yacht Club maintains an ice rink and cross country skiing is available in the area. In the future, Ehman said the club will promote a monthly, themed social event. He expects the social calendar to heat up in April and sustain through the winter season. Most recently, on Feb. 12, an open house was held at Portage Yacht Club and a mural painted by Ehman's daughter, Cristine, a Dexter High school and University of Michigan School of Art graduate, was unveiled. Other pieces of her work were also showcased.

PORTAGE YACHT CLUB held an open house Feb. 12 to unveil a mural painted by Cristine Ehman. Ehman's mural hangs in the newly remodeled clubhouse. Pictured with Ehman is German artist Klaus Arnold. Cristine Ehman, the daughter of Portage Yacht Club owner Tom Ehman, Sr., is a graduate of Dexter High school and the University of Michigan.

Nominations Sought For Citizen of Year

Monte Howard of the Chelsea Masons and Eastern Stars is once again chairing the committee which will choose the Citizen of the Year for 1995.

The committee, which is made up of representatives from many of the service/civic/fraternal/social organizations of the Chelsea area, has met once this year to set the time lines for the award.

This honor was first initiated in 1994, spearheaded by the local Masons, to recognize a citizen who had devoted himself or herself to the betterment of the community.

Ann Feeney of the Chamber of Commerce was last year's recipient. The format for this year will be similar.

Nominations will be accepted from anyone in the Chelsea area. A form is available from the Village office, which is the preferred manner of nominating someone.

The information should include the nominee's qualifications such as volunteer work, organizations to which he or she belonged, offices held, if any, and years of service. If the nominee was responsible for organizing events or any other items of significance or heroic consequences these should also be included.

Plans are being formulated for a banquet to be held in late July at the UAW Hall on S. M-52. Last year's dinner was a tasty pot-luck.

This year, tickets will be sold and the meal will be catered. The recipient of Citizen of the Year will ride in the Fair Parade in a convertible, provided by Chrysler Proving Grounds.

The deadline for nominations is in late May. For further information call Monte Howard at the Proving Grounds, 475-5259.

Nominations should be mailed to Chelsea Masons & Eastern Stars, Chelsea Citizens Committee, P.O. Box J, Chelsea, 48118.

Thank You 19

THANK YOU.

Thank you doesn't seem enough for all that's been done for Jay and the rest of our family. We more than appreciated the food, cards, visits, calls, gifts, and support received from our family, friends and this community.

We express sincere gratitude to 911, Chelsea Rescue Squad and Police Department, Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department, Huron Valley Ambulance, University of Michigan E.R., and Trauma Center and Dr. James Pegge; they had difficult tasks to perform and did them with an abundance of understanding and affection.

The kindness shown by Betty Brayton, Mary and Lenard McDougal and Judy Ferry is beyond words. The day of the tragedy they took over and saw to all of our needs, and continued to do so for the next few weeks. Their friendship is a true gift from God.

I, Linda say to my dear sisters, Dianna Roberts and Anita Spears, thank you for your unselfish giving. You held our hands, gave us much needed hugs, love and support. The compassion and devotion you showed us was truly the work of Saints, which you are.

And to everyone who helped and held us in their thoughts and prayers, God Bless You and Thank You, we couldn't have done it without you.

PATRICK KENNEY, left, won a first-place award on his essay in this year's America & Me contest. Joshua Miller, center, was second, and Ingrid Biedron was awarded third place. All three students are eighth graders at Chelsea's Beach Middle school.

America & Me Essay Contest Conducted at Beach Middle School

Three students from Dwight Beach Middle school in Chelsea have been named local winners in the 26th annual America & Me Essay Contest, sponsored by Farm Bureau Insurance.

The three students, who earned the first, second and third place awards for their school, are Patrick Kenney, first; Joshua Miller, second; and Ingrid Biedron, third. All three received award certificates for their achievement. As the school's first-place winner, Patrick Kenney's name will also be engraved on a plaque for permanent display in the school.

Dwight Beach Middle School's participation in the America & Me Essay Contest was sponsored by Farm Bureau Insurance agent Dave Rowe of Chelsea.

Patrick's first place essay now advances to the state level competition, from which the top 10 essays in Michigan will be selected. The top 10 state-wide winners, who will be announced in May, will receive plaques and U.S. savings bonds valued from $500 to $1,000. In addition, the top 10 essayists will be honored at a banquet in Lansing and at a meeting with Michigan's top governmental leaders in late May.

A team of finalist judges that includes top governmental leaders will determine the top state-wide winners. Several thousand eighth grade students from almost 425 Michigan schools participated in the 1994-95 America & Me Essay Contest, which was conducted with the help of Farm Bureau Insurance agents across the state. The topic of the 1994-95 contest was "Why My Education Is Important to the Future of America."

Started in 1968 and open to all Michigan eighth grade students, the contest encourages Michigan youngsters to explore their roles in America's future. As sponsor of the contest, Farm Bureau Insurance has earned 11 national awards from the Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge. The winning Chelsea essay is printed below.

Why My Education Is Important To the Future of America

By Patrick Kenney

When I was younger my parents put a lot of emphasis on the importance of education. Now that I have grown older, I realize the importance of education, not only for myself, but for everyone. The young people of today need to get a good education because we are the adults of tomorrow. We will be making the decisions for tomorrow. In order for these decisions to affect us in positive ways, we must have a good education.

My own personal education is important to the future of the United States of America, for with it I plan to make a difference. I plan to attend the University of Michigan in the hopes of becoming a doctor. My mother is a nurse at Child Health Associates in Ann Arbor. My visits there, both as a patient and visitor, have inspired me to pursue a career as a pediatrician. I will make a difference in the future of our country not only by caring for my young patients, but by being a good role model, as my pediatrician was, and still is, for me.

My own education is important to me in that it will allow me to reach my own personal goal of becoming a pediatrician. My education is also important to the future of America just as everyone's is. Education is the door to success and helps to bring out the potential that all people have inside of them.

Chelsea High School 9th Grader Puts Suds To Test in Regional Science Fair at WCC

Fair sparks students' interest in scientific principles

Reminiscent of a Tide commercial, Chelsea High school ninth grader Jacob Szczgiel put his suds to the test in a regional science fair held Friday and Saturday at Washtenaw Community College.

For the 11th consecutive year, the Southeastern Michigan Science Fair took place at Washtenaw Community College.

Now in its 37th year, the fair, which was organized to spark students' interests in scientific projects, took place in the Morris Lawrence Building (formerly the Job Skills and Campus Events Building) March 10 and 11.

Szczgiel said this is the first time he has entered a science fair.

Cathie Dries, WCC spokeswoman, said students were able to set up their projects on Friday. Judging took place at 1 p.m. Saturday while ceremonies followed approximately an hour later.

Szczgiel, the son of H. and J. Szczgiel of Dexter, entered his exhibit in the senior chemistry division.

"Which Soap Suds are the Best" caught Szczgiel's eye as he looked over a computer printout that listed possible experiments.

"My uncle (David Szczgiel) is a biology teacher at Clauge Middle school in Ann Arbor. I got the idea for the experiment off of his computer," Szczgiel said.

With his uncle's help, Szczgiel was able to get his project started.

"I used sunflower oil, corn oil and lard oil, then mixed it with water," Szczgiel said.

The end result is a chemical reaction, he said.

He said he adds certain amounts of lye to the soaps and heats the experiment.

Once it is heated, "glycerol forms on the top of it and you have to drain it off," Szczgiel said.

He said his soap has no scent, but scents could be added if one desired.

The U.S. Army expressed an interest in Szczgiel's project at the science fair.

This year's event was sponsored by the Exchange Club of Ann Arbor, Washtenaw Community College, the University of Michigan, The Ann Arbor News and Southeastern Michigan Schools.

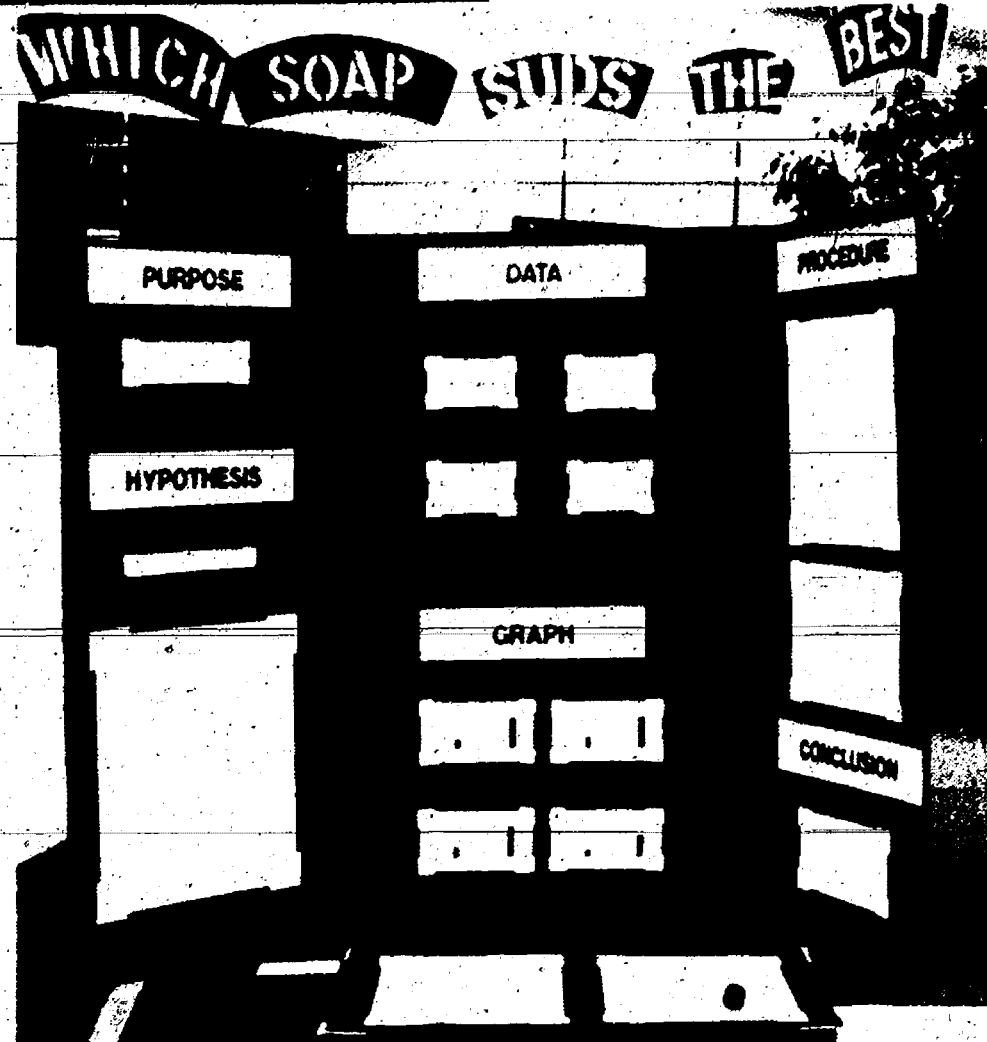

The fair was open to public, private and parochial schools in Hillsdale, Lenawee, Livingston, Monroe and Washtenaw counties.

Established in 1958, the science fair showcases student exhibits designed to show biological, chemical, physical, or mathematical principle; laboratory or logical procedure; an industrial development; or an orderly collection of materials to the broad concept of any branch of pure or applied science or mathematics, Dries said.

Competitions were separated into two divisions, juniors and seniors. Seventh and eighth graders were eligible for the junior division, and were encouraged to exhibit experiments, models and collections.

Seniors, grades nine through 12, submitted exhibits in biology, chemistry, physics/engineering, mathematics, earth science and science and society.

Douglas Covert, of Saline High school, took the first-place honors with "The Flight of a Raindrop-New Mathematical Mode" and Amy Chen, of Ann Arbor Huron High school, took second with "A Universal Ratchet & Its Application to Harness Wave Energy" in the senior division. Amanda King took first place in the junior division with "Groundwater: A Problem in Augusta township." She attends Saline Middle school.

JACOB SZCZGIEL'S project at the Southeastern Michigan Science Fair was one of the projects that earned an Honorable Mention Award by the U.S. Army. The purpose of "Which Soap Suds Are the Best?" was to determine the sudsing ability of soaps made from different types of oils, including animal fats and plant oils.

First- and second-place winners were invited to the International Science Fair, May 17-23, in Hamilton, Ontario, Canada. All expenses are to be paid, Dries said.

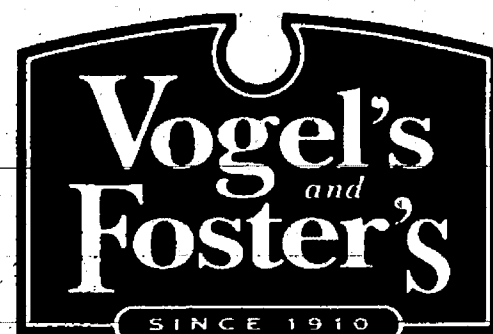

Exhibits were evaluated by judges on the basis of originality, scientific thought, thoroughness, accuracy, skill in workmanship, clarity and dramatic value.

Following the judging, the fair was open to the public.

Billingsgate Perspectives

By Raymond and Cynthia Holland

asked for a little less food (three courses instead of five) and a little faster service pattern (1 1/2 hours instead of 2 1/2 hours).

Another exciting thing that happened was Cynthia's completion of the course and field work for a Master Gardener certification from Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service. We always knew she was master of the garden, but now its official. Congratulations, Cynthia!

We constantly receive requests for recipes. With our ever-changing menu this soon became a burdensome task. So, for the last couple of years, Cynthia's standard reply has been "that recipe will be in my new cookbook." After compiling over 350 pages of Billingsgate's favorites, her new cookbook is scheduled to go to the printers in June in plenty of time for fall entertaining and Christmas gift giving.

Being the first newsletter of the year, it is our custom to briefly look back at the past year. 1994 was truly a wonderful year, not the least of which was a healthy increase in the number of meals served and the many heartwarming compliments. Equally important was the completion of improvements to the new kitchen, computer system, wine list, etc.

An example of the great new possibilities is our exciting new three-course menu for Thursdays and Sundays. Throughout the year we get many great ideas and suggestions from our customers. The Thursday/Sunday menu is in response to those who

The Herb Gardener

Just in Thyme for Spring

Thyme is of the essence in the herb garden and in the kitchen. Thymus vulgaris or common thyme is one of the few herbs that can be harvested almost year 'round, from early spring through summer, until early winter.

Although there are many species, common thyme is the easiest to grow. It requires relatively little care, and is the species most often used in cooking. Once you have mastered common thyme, start to add other species to your garden and cooking pot. Lemon thyme and nutmeg thyme are two culinary favorites, and can be found at your local nursery.

Bees love thyme, so if you don't want them invading your garden, harvest the leaves before the fragrant blossoms open in midsummer. Do this by cutting the plant back to about two inches from the ground. Use what you can immediately, and dry the rest for later use.

Homegrown thyme is far superior to what you buy in the store. After harvesting, the plant will grow again before the season is over. If you take a full second harvest, the plant will be less hardy for the winter. So for the second harvest, take only what you need. If you like bees in your garden (and I do), just harvest the stems as you need them for fresh use in the kitchen.

CHEF'S TIPS:

- Serve sprigs of fresh thyme on top of soup for a garnish.
- Sauté roasted red peppers in olive oil, minced garlic and fresh thyme and serve over pasta or rice.

- Marinate artichoke bottoms in olive oil, lemon juice and fresh thyme and serve as a summer starter course.
- Add sprigs of fresh thyme to olives in their brine.
- Add thyme to anything with mushrooms, they are the perfect marriage! Always put thyme in your clam chowder. Fresh is best, and don't forget to add it at the end of cooking time.

Lemon Thyme Cookies

Yield: 18 to 24 cookies

Preparation tips: chill the dough overnight

Oven temperature: 350° F

The Best of Billingsgate

Over the past few years I have had inquiries for hundreds of recipes. This forced me to write down the way I cook, and thus the birth of my cookbook. It is now in the final phases and we hope to send it to press by June 1st. It will be out in plenty of time for Christmas, a great gift idea for that special cook. Included in the book will be many favorites that we serve at the restaurant, along with "Chef's notes" for each recipe.

To the right is an actual page from the book. Bon Appetit!

SOUPS

Wild Rice Bisque

This is a very elegant soup.

Yield: 10 servings

3	thick strips of bacon
1/2 cup	wild rice
1/2 cup	onion, finely diced
1/2 cup	celery, finely diced
1/2 cup	carrots, finely diced
6 cups	rich chicken stock
salt and pepper to taste
1 tablespoon	fresh thyme, chopped
1 1/2 cup	heavy whipping cream
2 tablespoons	unsalted butter
2 tablespoons	all-purpose flour
2 tablespoons	fresh parsley, minced

In a large stockpot, sauté the bacon until crisp. Remove, crumble, and reserve. Add the rice and vegetables and sauté until the vegetables are crisp-tender, about five minutes. Stir in the stock and fresh thyme. Bring to a boil, cover, and simmer until the rice is barely tender, about 30 minutes to one hour. Stir in the cream and heat through.

In a large saucepan melt the butter, and add flour. Stir constantly over low heat for two to three minutes. Do not brown flour. Pour hot soup into roux. Season with salt and pepper to taste, garnish with fresh parsley and crumbled and serve immediately.

CHEF'S NOTES

- You can also use leftover rice. Just put your leftover wild rice in a freezer bag and seal. Add to the soup and only simmer five to 10 minutes and proceed with the recipe.
- It is important to clean wild rice thoroughly before cooking. Place rice in a medium container and fill it with cold water. Stir once or twice and set aside for several minutes. Any debris will float to the surface and be removed, and the water can be poured off.
- To stretch wild rice, which is expensive, combine it with equal amounts of brown rice.

Conklin Organ Museum

Although Lee Conklin never played the reed organ or melodeon, the sound of them filled his life as a child and carried his interest through more than seven decades.

In his retirement, Conklin began collecting antique organs and travelled extensively through the Midwest in search of the instruments.

He found them collecting dust in barns, or purchased them at auctions and flea markets.

In the late 1970s local residents interested in preserving Conklin's collection of reed organs and melodeons formed a historical society and leased the empty Hanover High School Building to house them. Conklin continued to work on organs in need of repair, and remained active with the Museum until his death in 1989.

The collection now numbers more than eighty, and includes a number of fine examples of the many different types of reed organs.

In addition to the organs and melodeons, the historical society has restored an early 1900s classroom.

Ella Sharp Museum Complex

Begun when Ella Merriman Sharp willed her home and 530 acres of farmland to the City of Jackson in 1912, Ella Sharp Park and Museum complex was her legacy to the City of Jackson.

The original farmhouse is furnished with pieces from Ella Sharp's personal collection, as well as donations from the surrounding community. The house portrays life during the time Ella and John Sharp resided there from 1855 to 1912. In addition to the farmhouse, the complex is comprised of a number of restored structures which were a part of the original farm, or moved from other areas of the county. Dibble School, a one room schoolhouse built in 1885 for $65, was in use until the mid-1950s. It was moved to the site in 1967, and several local visitors have reminisced about the time they spent attending the schoolhouse as children, when it was located on the corner of Dibble and Robinson Roads.

A significant structure on the

Historical Homes Define Area History

Area Provides A Wealth of Historic Sites

Six historical homes and museums, located in close proximity to Billingsgate, offer a realistic rendering of the area's beginnings as far back as 150 years ago. From the days when pioneers settled in for long Michigan winters in their sparse log cabins, with local Indians as their closest neighbors and friends, through the civil war years, and the proper Victorian era, these homes and museums depict the hardships as well as the simplistic joy of life in the nineteenth century.

The Museum houses numerous artifacts and displays including the old Hanover Telephone switchboard and a foot-powered printing press.

The Museum is open the first and third Sundays April through October from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. (517) 563-2311.

site, the circa 1830 log cabin, represents the simple, but difficult life on the frontier in the early 19th century.

Among the other interesting buildings on the site open to visitors are: the original carriage barns containing the carriage and sled used by Ella Sharp's family, a woodworking shop, a doctor's office, general store, print shop, and granary, now open as a restaurant serving lunch fare.

During special programs such as the early spring Sugaring and Shearing, Fall Harvest Day and Victorian Christmas, volunteers don period clothing and demonstrate many of the trades prevalent during Victorian times.

Surrounded by carefully maintained grounds (according to Ella Sharp's wishes) which include a rose garden, herb garden and large displays of annuals, the complex offers more than a nostalgic walk through the past. Built in the early 70s, four galleries offer guests the opportunity to view several revolving exhibits highlighting the past, as well as works from prominent artisans.

Museum hours are Tuesday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and weekends, noon to 5 p.m. For more information call (517) 787-2320.

Grosvenor House

A successful businessman turned politician, Ebenezer Oliver Grosvenor built the home of his dreams, a five-bedroom Italianate-style Victorian mansion in the town of Jonesville in the 1870s.

Purchased in 1977 in honor of the bicentennial by the Jonesville Heritage Association, the Grosvenor House Museum represents to life at its finest during the end of the nineteenth century, complete with original fixtures and furnishings.

Years ahead of its time, the home featured centralized heating, hot and cold running water, flush toilets and its own carbide gas manufacturing plant for the gas that lighted the house. There are two inches of cement in the floors on both the ground level and second floor, sandwiched between the wood sub-floors and finished flooring.

Adorned with fixtures and furnishings typical of the elaborate Victorian life-style, the Grosvenor House interior includes 14-foot ceilings, a sweeping, walnut staircase, heavy woodwork and cornices, marble fireplaces and tall, arched windows.

The Grosvenor House is open June through September on Saturday and Sunday and the first full weekend in December for the annual Victorian Christmas. Call (517) 849-9596 for private tour information.

Lenawee County Historical Museum

Filled with historic paintings, photographs, maps, written documents, furniture, dolls, glassware, tools, vehicles and more, the Lenawee County Historical Museum preserves and reveals the way in which the people of Lenawee County lived, worked, prospered and endured.

Located in the castle-like Romanesque building that once served as Adrian's public library in the historic downtown Adrian shopping district, the museum includes many accessible exhibits that tell the story of the settlement and development of the county. The collections include Indian and pioneer relics, possessions of Lenawee's renowned social reformer and educator, Laura Haviland, and objects from the first railroad in America west of the Hudson River, the Erie and Kalamazoo.

Museum hours are Tuesday through Saturday, 1 to 5 p.m. Call (517) 265-6071 for information.

Will Carleton Poorhouse and Hillsdale Historical Museum

Restored and open to the public in October, 1989, the Will Carleton Poorhouse was dedicated to the memory of Will Carleton, who was a famed poet as well as platform lecturer, and known as poet laureate of Michigan.

When he was a student at Hillsdale College, Carleton became a regular visitor to the old folks residing at the Poorhouse during the mid-1860s, listening to their tales of woe. They were the stories that inspired his famous poem, "Over the Hill to the Poorhouse."

One of only three cobblestone houses in Hillsdale County, the Poorehouse is a unique structure, and has become significant to the history of Hillsdale county.

Painstakingly restored by the Hillsdale County Historical Society's hard working volunteers, the 1.9 acre site includes a house, barn, corner crib, silo and reconstructed chicken coop. The interior resembles life in the latter part of the 19th century.

The Hillsdale County Historical Museum, a Victorian farmhouse located on the Hillsdale County Fairgrounds, is open each year during Hillsdale County Fair week. Both the Poorhouse and the Historical Museum are open during the year for tours by appointment. Call (517) 437-3028 or (517) 523-2378 for more information.

Savor the Flavors of Michigan

by Chef Cynthia Giles Holland

At Billingsgate, we are dedicated to using fresh seasonal ingredients whenever available. As soon as the Farmers Market opens in the spring, I make twice weekly trips to pick the freshest in locally-grown produce. Heather Price, one of our staff members, has been growing some of the produce we use in the summer. Last year we had a bounty of beautiful, delicious and unique produce from which to choose. She brought us freshly harvested vegetables such as delicate Haricot Verts, baby Bok Choy, and Gilfeather turnips from an heirloom seed saved from the late 1880s.

My favorite summer pastime is to go to the Farmers Market. This column was created to showcase recipes using the flavors of those fresh Michigan products. Michigan is a leader in the production of many fruits, vegetables and herbs, as well as meats, fish and poultry. It also ranks in the top of national dairy production.

Asparagus

Asparagus is the topic of discussion for this spring. It is a reminder of the celebration of spring in Michigan, as the asparagus crop debuts in late April and usually ends around the end of June, weather permitting. Asparagus can be used in many different ways and is one of the few foods that can be correctly eaten with the fingers. Grasp the stem and dip the tip into the desired sauce. Eat towards the stem until it becomes tough. Of course, you may use a fork if you prefer.

Purchasing: Look under the produce section of the want ads for an asparagus farm in your area. If you don't want to pick, they usually have some available fresh-picked. In early spring, both the thin and the medium stalks are tender. I prefer to avoid the thick spears, however, they are perfectly acceptable to some cooks. Also look for stalks that are firm with no sign of shrinking or drying out. The tip should be tightly closed. There is just no substitute for fresh asparagus! One pound of asparagus will serve two to six people depending on the accompaniments.

Storage: When you bring asparagus home from the market, cut a thin slice from the base and discard. Stand the stalks in about one inch of cold water and store in the refrigerator for up to five days.

Preparation: Peeling asparagus that is fresh and tender is not necessary. Just hold both ends and gently snap, and the asparagus will snap at the tender point. Trim all the ends for neater appearance. Remember to save the tough ends for soup.

To peel asparagus, cut off the tough base at the point where the asparagus turns green. Use a vegetable peeler and peel from the stem towards the tip, stopping just before the bud.

Cooking: Asparagus is good hot or cold, as a first course or a side vegetable, incorporated into main course, or in soups, stir fry or salads. It is just as versatile in the methods of cooking. You may boil, steam, sauté or microwave.

My preference is to blanch the asparagus in hot water and then dip in it ice water. It will turn a brilliant green and can be chilled until ready to use. When you are ready to serve it, quickly sauté in melted herb butter. Do not overcook, but rather cook to tender-crisp.

Some appropriate sauces used to compliment asparagus would be most butter sauces, vinaigrettes, hollandaise, Mor-nay, rémoulade and Sauce Supreme. Use your reference cookbook for sauce recipes.

There are so many wonderful recipes for preparing asparagus. The following is one of my favorites:

Risotto with Asparagus and Pine Nuts

Yield: 2 to 3 main course servings

5 cups	chicken stock
6 tablespoons	unsalted butter
1/4 cup	onion, minced
2 cups	Arborio rice
1 pound	asparagus, cut at angle into 1/2-inch pieces
1/2 cup	pine nuts, toasted
1/2 cup	Asiago cheese, shredded
salt and freshly-ground white pepper to taste

In a saucepan, bring stock to a simmer and set aside over low heat. In a two-quart saucepan, melt two tablespoons butter and sauté the onion until soft but not brown. Add the rice and cook, stirring constantly, until the grains start to turn white. Add 1/2 cup chicken stock and cook until the stock evaporates. Add another 1/2 cup stock and cook until it evaporates. Continue this until a total of three cups have been added. Begin adding asparagus and remaining stock in 1/2 cup increments. After the stock has been absorbed and the rice is creamy and of the desired consistency, fold in the remaining butter, pine nuts and Asiago cheese. Season to taste with salt and white pepper. Serve immediately.

A TASTE OF MICHIGAN:

Cream of Spring Greens Soup

Yield: serves 8 to 10

1 quart chicken stock
4 medium potatoes, peeled and coarsely cubed
1 pound fresh asparagus, cut into 1-inch pieces, tips reserved
2 cups fresh spinach leaves, stems removed 2 cups fresh sorrel leaves, stems and tough ribs removed
2 cups watercress leaves
2 cups heavy cream
salt and freshly ground black pepper to taste freshly grated nutmeg to taste
chervil sprigs for garnish

Combine chicken stock and potatoes in a heavy stainless-steel saucepan and bring to boil. Reduce heat and cook about 5 minutes before adding the asparagus. Continue cooking until asparagus is just tender, about 4 minutes or longer, depending on thickness of asparagus. Then add spinach, sorrel, and watercress. Immediately remove from heat.

When completely cool, purée mixture in batches in a food processor or blender, then strain through a fine sieve. Chill.

Fill a small saucepan with water; add a pinch of salt and bring to a boil. Put the reserved tips in the boiling water for 30 seconds, drain, and plunge into a bowl of ice water. When chilled, drain and reserve.

When puréed mixture is cold, add cream and seasonings. Thin further, if desired, with a bit more stock or cream.

Serve the soup in chilled bowls garnished with blanched asparagus tips and fresh chervil sprigs.

Cook chicken in butter over medium heat till done. Transfer to warm serving platter; keep warm.

Meanwhile, slice morels crosswise into rings. In same skillet, cook morels, onion, and garlic for 3 to 4 minutes. In a small bowl, combine cream, the 2 tablespoons flour, and 1/4 teaspoon salt; add to vegetables in skillet. Cook and stir till thickened and bubbly; add sherry. Cook and stir for 1 minute.

Spoon some sauce over chicken; pass remainder. Garnish chicken with fresh marjoram or parsley.

1/2 cup shredded cheddar cheese (2 ounces)

In a medium saucepan, cook the mushrooms, onion, celery, green pepper, and garlic in margarine or butter till vegetables are tender.

Rhubarb Strudel with Rhubarb

Sauce

Strudel:

1-1/2 pounds diced rhubarb
1-1/2 cups sugar
1/2 cup flour
2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/4 teaspoon cloves
1/2 cup chopped walnuts
6 filo dough leaves
1/2 pound melted butter
1/2 cup bread crumbs

Sauce:

1 pound rhubarb, diced
1 cup sugar
1 cup water
1 pinch cinnamon

1 pinch salt
red food coloring (optional)

For the strudel, preheat the oven to 425° F. Butter a baking sheet. Mix the rhubarb with the sugar, flour, spices, and nuts. Add two tablespoons melted butter and mix again.

Lay one sheet of filo dough in front of you on a double sheet of waxed paper. Brush dough generously with butter, then sprinkle with bread crumbs. Repeat with the remaining leaves of dough, stacking one on top of another. Sprinkle the top extra generously with butter and crumbs.

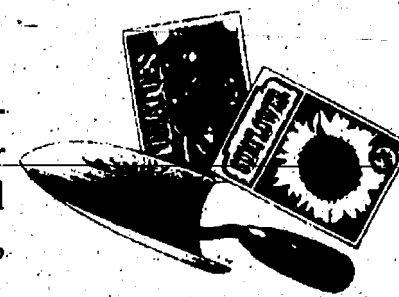

Pile the rhubarb filling along the edge closest to you, and then with the aid of the waxed paper, roll tightly away from you leaving approximately 1 1/2 inches unrolled. Carefully pick up the strudel, with the help of the paper, and turn out onto the buttered baking sheet, completing the rolling of the strudel in the process, leaving the seam side down on the baking sheet. Brush the outside of the strudel with butter and bake for approximately 30 minutes, basting with the remaining butter every 10 minutes.

For the sauce, combine all the ingredients except the lemon juice in a saucepan. Bring to a boil and cook over medium heat for approximately 15 minutes or until the rhubarb mixture is a syrupy consistency. Adjust the coloring if necessary and add the lemon juice to taste. The amount of both depends on the natural color of the rhubarb and the degree of sweetness desired. Purée in a blender, cool to room temperature, and refrigerate.

Serve the strudel warm with the sauce at room temperature.

A Garden for Cooks

Today, many of the varieties of vegetables and fruits have become vegetables for retailers rather than for cooks. Commercial varieties are often bred for uniformity of size, high yield and ease of shipping.

The home gardener has the advantage of choosing a variety for taste and texture rather than whether it stands up to handling. Even a tiny kitchen garden can be filled with tender, tasty vegetables, fruits and herbs that are a pleasure to cook and eat.

The most important element in planning a kitchen garden is to select varieties that will have desired qualities. Look for them in catalogs for "gourmet gardeners" that specialize in European or heirloom seeds.

An heirloom is an old-fashioned vegetable or fruit that has been raised by home gardeners for many years. Gardeners stick with these varieties because they offer superior taste, texture, color or other unique qualities that are not found in the new mass-produced hybrids. Heirloom vegetables include Brandywine tomato, a large purplish red fruit with perhaps the best taste of any tomato, and Rouge Vif d'Étampes pumpkin with beautiful bright red-orange flattened fruits that were the original model for Cinderella's coach. Jacob's Cattle bean is a shelling bean with an earthy, meaty taste and a pattern of shiny white and deep maroon splashes, the coloring of an Appaloosa horse. Moon and Stars is an heirloom watermelon that has been passed from generation to generation by saving the seed each harvest. The sweet, juicy 25-pound dark green melons are covered with a pattern of yellow moons on a field of tiny stars.

"Gourmet" gardening catalogs often include heirloom varieties and others not available in most general seed catalogs. They are often from other countries, and expensive when found in produce markets. Home gardeners can grow many of these vegetables such as Haricot Vets, the tiny French filet bean that sells for up to $8.00 per pound in specialty markets. Also try Mesclun, a European mixture of greens meant to be cut when tiny, that are also very expensive in stores. You can purchase seeds for just a few dollars and grow these fresh, delicious vegetables for a fraction of their retail cost.

The following seed catalogs specialize in varieties for home gardeners and cooks, including the ones recommended above:

Billingsgate pairs with four local Bed and Breakfasts to offer a variety of overnight packages. With a total of nearly 40 rooms available, the packages have become very popular with our out-of-town guests as well as those who enjoy seasonal activities in the area.

Just 20 minutes from Billingsgate, 1/2 block from US 12 in Jonesville, is the Munro House, an historic civil-war era Inn with five guest rooms. Each guest room is air-conditioned and has a private bath and queen-size bed. Three of the guest rooms have working gas-log fireplaces. One of the oldest homes in Jonesville, and the first brick home built in Hillsdale county, the Munro House was a stop on the famed Underground Railroad and home to Brigadier General Munro's family during the civil war years.

The Chicago Street Inn, a lovely Victorian-style Inn, has three guest rooms and three newly-completed jacuzzi suites. Located in Brooklyn, MI, amid the rolling Irish Hills area, the Chicago Street Inn reflects the ornate architecture popular during the Victorian era. All the guest rooms have private baths and air-conditioning, and the jacuzzi suites include queen-size beds, fireplaces, TV-VCRs and refrigerators.

Marshall, Michigan, famous for its restored historical houses and buildings is home to the National House Inn and McCarthy's Bear Creek Inn. Each Inn offers more than a dozen guest rooms with private baths. McCarthy's Bear Creek Inn is located on a 14-acre estate about one mile from downtown Marshall and each of their rooms feature a private balcony and queen-size bed.

The National House Inn, century antiques and is Michigan's oldest operating within walking distance of Inn is furnished with 19th historic downtown Marshall.

The Munro House in Jonesville, Michigan, built in 1840, offers five guest rooms decorated to reflect the Civil War era. Each guest room has air-conditioning and a queen-size bed; three of the five have gas-log fireplaces.

sounds of some of the all-time greats like Tommy Dorsey and Glenn Miller with a nonstop flow of swing music and romantic ballads.

The Chinese Golden Dragon Acrobats will perform at the Potter Center on Sunday, April 9, 1995. Led by the Chang family, the group will entertain with a beautifully choreographed program of balancing, juggling, comedy, magic, color and dance, coupled with immense athletic powers and an impeccable sense of balance and timing.

Saturday, May 6, 1995, The "Yakety Sax Man" Boots Randolph teams with Brenda Lee, bringing his down-home wit and unmistakable musical style to the Potter Center stage. Reminisce with classic million sellers such as I'm Sorry, All Alone Am I, Fool Number One, and Break It To Me Gently.
