CHELSEA SCHOOLS' ELECTION saw a $45 million bond issue pass on Monday night. District residents can now expect to see construction of a new elementary and high school, renovations to the existing schools and new technology. Pictured is voter

Paul Seelbach with election worker Memarie Walter. A total of 3,173 votes were cast as the bond issue passed 1,741-1,417 and school board vice-president Conrad Knutsen was re-elected.

Voters Say YES to $45 Million School Bond Proposal Monday

■ Elvis Presley comes in a "close second" to incumbent Conrad Knutsen's victory for the four-year school board seat.

The large instruction room at Beach Middle school erupted into shouts of "Yes!" and "We did it!" as the official results were released by voting officials at approximately 8:30 p.m. Monday night.

Those in attendance were referring to the passage of the $45 million school bond proposal that had been the hot topic of conversation for months.

As the clock ticked away to 8 p.m., school board members, who were conducting a regularly scheduled meeting in the large instruction room, took deep breaths to calm themselves and anxiously watched the clock count down those final precious seconds.

The bond proposal was approved by a margin of 334 votes with the final tally being 1,741 "yes" votes vs. 1,417 "no" votes. There were 3,173 votes cast, with one ballot being over-voted and 14 ballots left blank.

After the vote was announced, Superintendent of Schools Edward Richardson exclaimed laughingly, "Why do I feel so good right now?" and breathed a sigh of relief.

Members of the school board kept showing everyone the election results like one would show pictures of its first-born. In a way, it is their first-born, as this group overcame a $23.75 million bond proposal defeat (1,099 "yes" vs. 1,893 "no" votes) nearly four years ago on Sept. 23, 1991.

"I think that it ($45 million bond proposal) was approved because it was easier to understand," said school board vice-president Conrad Knutsen.

Monday's voter turnout was substantially increased comparing to past elections in the Chelsea School District, according to records dating back to March 6, 1978.

"It's the largest turn-out we've ever had," said school board member Joseph Redding.

The largest turnout to date had been 3,026 when the previous bond issue was defeated. In that election, 26 ballots were invalid and eight absentee ballots were unreturned.

"This (approval) is a real show of support for the schools," said school board member Dayle Wright.

The approved bond will call for some new changes in the Chelsea School District, such as a new elementary school, a new high school, improvements at North Elementary, South Elementary and Beach Middle schools; upgrading technology in the new and all current school buildings; upgrading and refurbishing of Chelsea High school for a community and administration service center; and the purchase of additional land to fully accommodate the new buildings and surrounding areas, such as equipping playgrounds, outdoor physical education facilities and school sites.

This was the first year that Accu-Vote was used, said Miriam Klemmer, Richardson's secretary. Accu-Vote is a computer that tallies the votes electronically and is able to compile the final results much more quickly than the old method of counting the votes by hand. It helped speed up the counting process, so that the district would be able to learn the results much quicker.

The other issue on the ballot was a four-year term on the school board. Conrad Knutsen was re-elected to his seat, with 2,215 "yes" ballots cast. There were 87 write-in-candidates ballots and 871 ballots left blank.

Elvis Presley was a "close second" on the number of write-in candidates, which drew chuckles from the school board. Knutsen's term ends in 1999.

Technology Education Curriculum To Replace Industrial Arts Program

■ Three courses will be made available to middle school students and four courses are offered to high school students in the Chelsea School District.

A Technology Education curriculum is in the works of replacing the industrial arts program at Beach Middle school and Chelsea High school.

"This curriculum reduces the amount of time spent on industrial arts-type activities... so it doesn't eliminate that completely," said curriculum director Laurie Bissell.

Some classroom activities and student learning outcomes in the middle school curriculum have been part of the high school program the last six years.

This curriculum has been developed over the 1994-95 school year by Beach Middle school teacher Duane Moss and Bissell. Bruce Boughner, high school technology teacher, contributed ideas as did Gary Graff, who teaches in the Ann Arbor School District, and Greg Briggs, who is a technology teacher at Wylie Middle school in Dexter. The Parent Advisory Committee also conferred with Moss on this project.

Some of the learning activities were instituted this school year. Others are related to activities, some of which are new, and may need to be adjusted next year. The curriculum will be monitored closely and adjusted accordingly during the 1995-96 school year.

The Technology Education's purpose is to include teaching skills, attitudes and understanding, which will help students better understand technology and how they may apply it in their daily lives, unlike specific technical skills, which are required for an occupation and come later in the student's education.

Research indicates that employers are looking for literacy and familiarity with computers, communication skills, problem-solving skills and a positive work ethic.

Tech Ed will allow the student to understand what technology is capable of in our society and serves as an interdisciplinary link with math, science, social studies and other areas of education.

All students will use the universal system model (input, process, output, feedback) as a tool to analyze tech systems. They will recognize and apply the tech resources used to develop creative solutions or solve problems.

Three courses will be made available to middle school students:

Exploring Technology I
7th, 8th grade, semester

Students explore and develop an understanding of technology through hands-on problem-solving activities. Students begin to investigate technological advancements in physical technology and use engineering strategies to look for solutions to everyday problems.

Activities may include bridge building, manufacturing, and egg-crash engineering.

Exploring Technology II
7th, 8th grade, second semester

Students continue to investigate technological problems in physical, informational and Bio-related technology. They will refine their abilities to use engineering strategies, while looking for solutions to everyday problems.

Activities may include magnetic levitation transportation, materials handling, geodesic dome structure, electronics and a model of an artificial limb.

Applying Technology
8th grade, year

Prerequisite: Exploring Technology and instructor's permission.

This action-based course allows seventh and eighth grade students to explore and develop specific areas of physical and information technology. Students make connections to their subject areas as they gain an understanding of technological systems and their impacts on society. Students use research and development strategies to solve technological problems.

Activities may include prototyping, modeling, multimedia presentations, robotics, two-liter rockets, carbon dioxide vehicles and CAD/CAM.

Assistant Middle School Principal To Be Hired

■ Friday, June 23 is the application deadline.

Beach Middle school students will see a new face in the fall when an assistant principal joins the Chelsea School District. The school board recently approved the job posting and hiring of such an individual.

The increasing enrollment in the Chelsea School District prompted the board to consider hiring an assistant principal.

The position has been posted with universities and colleges in the State of Michigan with a deadline of Friday, June 23 for submitting applications. Interviews with a committee of parents, teachers, and administrators will take place early in the month of July.

A final interview with school district administration will follow with a recommendation for hiring available for the Board of Education in the month of July.

The assistant principal will be responsible for administering safety activities, co-ordinating support services, monitoring a student behavioral atmosphere conducive to learning, co-ordinating substitute teachers, assisting with the selection of certified and non-certified staff, arranging for the supervising of students at all school-sponsored events, administering the district eligibility program, supervising locker distribution and use, and supervising the cafeteria and group activities before and after school.

A teaching certificate, issued by the State of Michigan, will be required as well as a master's degree in educational administration for a candidate to be eligible for the job.

Beach Middle school is the only secondary school in Michigan which does not have an assistant principal, said principal Darcy Stielstra. A school over 600 students must have an assistant principal to be eligible for North Central Accreditation.

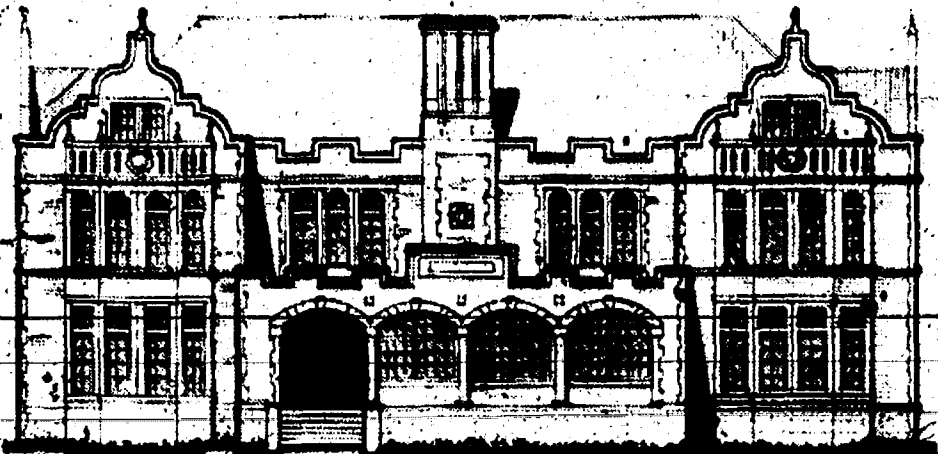

The person, who will assist Stielstra, is expected to sign a standard two-year contract upon the board's recommendation.

Stielstra said he will spend more time focusing on staff development and evaluation, school re-structuring, public relations and allow him to give a more personalized service to parents concerning their children. He will still be in charge of any discipline, business matters and physical plant bidding jobs.

Conrad Knutsen edged Janet Roberts, 470-450, in the only race for school board in the Chelsea School District annual elections Monday. In other results, Chelsea voters soundly rejected the Washtenaw Intermediate School District's request for 1.5 mills in charter millage for an "Education for Employment" program, 798-159. County-wide, the millage failed in every district and the over-all tally was 17,028-9,686.

Ann Arbor Transportation Authority has agreed to give the village two alternatives for saving the Chelsea to Ann Arbor bus route. Village and AATA officials met last week to discuss ways the route might be saved. AATA had threatened to discontinue the route if the village could not come up with $9,053 to operate the route for six months. While the village officially voted not to pay the money, it nevertheless indicated it couldn't afford the price tag.

Chelsea Community Hospital is planning a major four-phase expansion over the next decade, beginning with a $3.85 million expansion and renovation of its diagnostic imaging, laboratory and surgical facilities. ★ Good Michigan Roads Are Crucial Need

By John C. Taylor

Maintaining Michigan's system of highways and roads is crucial to the state's economic progress, a fact with which few people in the state would disagree. That doesn't mean, however, that the Legislature should simply raise taxes every time anyone identifies an infrastructure "need."

Michigan motorists might be surprised to learn that taxes at the pump already sop up about 40 cents of the price they pay for a gallon of gasoline: 15 cents in state fuel tax, plus 6 cents in state sales tax, plus 18.4 cents in federal fuel tax.

The federal government is no friend of Michigan when it comes to funding for the roads. Washington in recent years has partially abandoned the user fee principle by allocating fuel tax revenues to purposes other than transportation, such as deficit reduction. If Michigan received back the 6.8 cents in gasoline and diesel taxes that it sends each year to Washington to be spent on things other than transportation, our state would have an additional $350 million—enough to pay for at least half of the repairs our state, county, and city roads require.

Furthermore, of the funds dispensed from the federal Highway Trust Fund for actual highway purposes, Michigan gets back the smallest percentage of what it pays in of almost any state in the nation. In 1992, for instance, Washington collected $698 million in fuel taxes within Michigan, and returned a mere $382 million. Our representatives should press for a better return, but we may not be able to wait for a favorable response.

Between 1982 and 1992, Michigan Transportation revenues (derived primarily from motor fuel taxes and vehicle registration fees) rose by 46.9 percent after inflation—substantially exceeding traffic growth rates. The number of miles driven on the state's roads increased by 37 percent, and the number of registered vehicles went up by 13.7 percent. This higher traffic volume boosted revenues, but it also produced a need for capital projects and maintenance. The percentage of roads rated "poor" rose 36 percent. Because fixing poor roads is three to five times more expensive than fixing those rated "fair," it makes economic sense to invest in halting the deterioration of roads before they become poor.

A Mackinac Center for Public Policy report in late April concluded that Michigan's road-improvement needs are urgent and substantial, but that policy makers must reinvent the way roads are financed and maintained to get more bang for the taxpayer's buck. Also, Lansing must not jeopardize Michigan's recent progress in making its business climate more competitive: any increases in motor fuel taxes or registration fees to raise necessary funds for the roads should be offset by tax and spending reductions elsewhere in Michigan government. Furthermore, here are a few cost-saving measures the report recommends to the Governor and Legislature:

• Stop diverting state fuel tax revenues to non-highway uses. The fuel taxes that motorists pay should not be siphoned off to subsidize mass transit or light rail schemes.

• Reduce duplication and excessive administrative costs within both the Michigan Department of Transportation and county road commissions.

Five SADD Students To Attend Seminars

Five Chelsea High school students who are members of Students Against Drunk Driving (SADD) hope to learn a few lessons as well as educate others about their experiences at seminars they will attend July 9-14.

Tracy Dufek, Liz Kitchen, Nicole Heiss, Aaron Batzdorfer and Danielle Longe will travel to Central Michigan University to attend the Michigan Teen Institute in Mt. Pleasant. Accompanying them will be chemistry teacher Molly McGuire.

Various SADD students have taken the trip in the past, McGuire said.

While at the Institute, the five students plan to attend many drug and alcohol awareness seminars. These seminars promote abstinence from alcohol and drugs as well as promote awareness of alternate activities.

The five students plan to use what they have learned at the Michigan Teen Institute to educate their fellow peers at Chelsea High school next year about the dangers of alcohol.

According to the National Institute on Drug Abuse, each dollar spent on treatment saves $4-7 in reduced costs to the public and $3 in increased productivity.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

How come it is, Zeke Grubb ask at the country store Saturday night, that you don't see as many old folks as you use to. Not many years back, Zeke told the fellows, they were everywhere, especial at church. They would stand around in the yard after service and talk about the old days of two hour sermons morning and night, and of buggy rides home in the dark. Nowadays, Zeke said, the oldest people he sees are his age.

Actual, Bug Hookum said, it depends on where you look for the old heads. He knows more folks in the obit columns than he did a few years back, and brides, new college graduates and retiring sports heroes get younger every year. But Bug changed his outlook last week when he saw a picture of members of a high school graduating class at their 50th anniversary reunion. He realized they knew in the class hadn't even started school when he finished what little he got.

Most of the fellows had some comment, because age is somepun they all got plenty of. The fact is, Clem Webster said, we move along with our circle of family and friends and we don't see ourselves as others see us. He recalled some years back when a doctor who had practiced in town more than 50 years was ask by the reporter what was the biggest change he had seen in the community. The doctor thought and declared the strangest thing now is there aren't any old people around.

Even Josh Clodfelter, who listens a heap more than he talks, was moved to say he was proud of his four score and two, because when you consider the alternative old is better. The wages of living is age, Josh said, and he was glad to pay the price. Furthermore, Josh went on, one of the rewards of age is grandchildren.

Josh recalled that before he had any he ask his friend Don Little how his first one, a two year old boy, was coming along. Don said he and his old lady were walking the little fellow in the yard a few nights earlier. The boy looked up, let go their hands, stretched out his arms toward the full moon and said "mine, mine." Don told his old lady to hold the boy as high as she could while he got the ladder.

Bug said age works on folks in different ways. He read a medical column recent where a doctor said wimmen general are more easy going than men, but that they have more problems and go to more trouble to conceal their age than to deal with any other situation in their lives. Since wimmen are concealing less with ever generation the job must keep getting harder, was Bug's words.

Ed Doolittle said one thing he is reminded of regular is how age breaks up your team. He said his mind and body use to agree on everything. The mind would say hike that leg over the fence and the leg would pop right over. The instant the mind needed the highway number on the sign the eyes would have it. Now it's like the team members are strangers, he said. The mind wants a little pull on the lawnmower rope and the arm waits for a second opinion. The mind insists on a thick slice of onion with the burger, Ed went on, and the innards punish him that very night.

For all that, the fellows agreed they'd take all the age they can get. Yours truly, Uncle Lew.

Kathleen Chapman Chosen Chelsea Citizen of the Year

To the Editor,
I've been astounded by the number of letters in various Editor columns from attorneys to jury foremen, praising the conduct of our Prosecutor in his practice of discrimination and grieving the demise of the legal system.

The latest product of Mackie jury foreman Daut, reproaches the process for permitting the "manipulation, greed and suppression of facts by those with private agendas," in the employment discrimination finding against Mr. Mackie.

The glaring fact, too easily glossed over, is the indefensible and indiscriminate act of tampering with people's lives and livelihoods, no matter how inarticulate and ineffective they may appear to the individual evaluator.

However, to employ the "ignoramus theory" of law as a defense justifying discriminatory conduct is arrogant.

To abruptly conclude the careers of those with long service records, merely to execute race and gender campaign promises is petty and mean-spirited.

Because of an arbitrarily formed "agenda," 17 years of service, whether distinguished or not, and rancor and bias against "rich kids," careers have been destroyed. How are we to feel about that Foreman Daut? More importantly, whose private agenda was served by these actions?

Manipulating the system to cast off unwanted employees, even on a guise as commendable as achieving race and gender equality, is no more dishonorable than the declaration that "not one dime of my taxpayer money is going to pay for this," made by one sworn to put away personal biases and be fair and objective. To rationalize either behavior on a "freedom we cherish" pretense is transparent and insincere.

True, Forman Daut, it isn't your battle, but it has obviously become your quest. Your "greater good" rationale escapes me. I find it difficult on a "freedom we cherish" pretense is transparent and insincere.

True, Forman Daut, it isn't your battle, but it has obviously become your quest. Your "greater good" rationale escapes me. I find it difficult to accept a "civic duty" pretext to mourn the collapse of a system that has functioned exceptionally well over the centuries, despite its flaws. To condemn the system rather than face the responsibility it places on us is insincere and demeaning.

Discrimination is discrimination, no matter how it is manifested, or upon whom it is practiced. To view it as acceptable conduct, only when committed by public officials, to be winked at by other public officials, with personal agendas, is a new theory with which I have a great difficulty.

To determine that an act of discrimination in the work place has occurred, but find it forgivable because the county may have to bear the obligation is a kindness that mystifies me. To blame it on the flaws in the system, is at best, lamentable.

As one who has spent the greater portion of adult life as an advocate in defense of the system, yet trying to improve and refine it from within, I'm offended by your vision of "civic duty."

The system depends on upright jurors to assure that it continues to function well. I'm confident it will survive, despite the efforts of special interests and detached critics. However, it's apparent to all of us who appreciate its true value that we must exercise much greater attention to the questioning jurors to achieve candid disclosure of their opinions and biases before they are allowed to sit.

That should go a long way in the avoiding future manipulation of the process.

Kathleen Chapman was surprised at the village offices Monday afternoon with the news that she is Chelsea's Citizen of the Year. Village president Richard Steele presented Chapman with a plaque and a key to the village proclaiming her as the Citizen of the Year.

"Her accomplishments are enormous," said Monte Howard, chairman of the Citizen of the Year committee.

Chapman has been involved in numerous activities, which garnered her the nominations. She was the village treasurer for eight years until 1994. She was the president of the Chelsea Christian Service for 12 years and the past rural co-ordinator of the Chelsea United Way fundraising program.

Chapman also has contributed many tireless hours to Faith in Action. She delivered the first holiday basket with the Rev. Beaumont, as well as being instrumental in forming Faith in Action. Chapman is a past co-chairperson for fundraising for the Faith in Action house, located on the Chelsea Community Hospital property. In addition, Chapman has held many offices within the organization.

And the list goes on ... she is a past Eucharistic minister for St. Mary's Catholic church, a past advisory board member for the Chelsea Senior Citizens and is now serving on the Senior Supper Club committee.

Civic organizations that Chapman has belonged to include the Chelsea Rotary Club and the American Business Women, Chelsea-Dexter chapter. She also has donated many hours at Chelsea Community Hospital.

This is not Chapman's first award for service. She was honored with a humanitarian award from the Rotary Club.

Chapman was nominated by the Chelsea Rotary Club and village manager Jack Myers.

A banquet given in her honor will take place on July 27 at 6:30 p.m. at the UAW Local 437 Union Hall, 218 S. Main. Village president Richard Steele is expected to speak at the banquet. Tickets are available at the Chamber of Commerce and Chelsea Pharmacy of from Howard at 475-5259 until 4 p.m.

Ann Feeney is last year's Citizen of the Year. She served on the voting committee, which consists of Chelsea Community Hospital vice-president, the Chamber of Commerce, the fire chief, the Kiwanis Club, police chief, Chelsea Community Fair Board, assistant superintendent of schools, Rotary Club, village manager, village president, the Knights of Columbus and the Lions Club.

The Order of the Eastern Star and the Masons co-sponsored the contest in its second year.

Moveable Feast Closing Its Doors June 30

The Moveable Feast, 103 N. Main, will be closing its Chelsea doors forever on June 30. The cafe and bakery, which sells confections, as well as drinks, sandwiches and gourmet selections, has operated its Chelsea location for close to three years.

Owner Pat Pooley, of Ann Arbor, is closing the bakery and cafe to give her the opportunity to expand the bakery wholesale portion of the business.

Catering director Elizabeth Douglas, and the former manager of the Moveable Feast, said the decision to close the Chelsea location "wasn't an easy decision for Pat to make." The decision became a reality when it was decided that closing the Chelsea location would better utilize available resources, such as spacing and vehicles.

The Moveable Feast still owns the equipment that will be left in the building and hopes to sell it, preferably to a similar type of business.

The staff was told of the decision to close on June 7.

"The staff has made some really good friendships," said Douglas. "We will miss our customers."

The public will still be able to purchase the many products that are available in the Chelsea store, but will have to make the trek to Ann Arbor.

Other Moveable Feast locations include a restaurant, wholesale bakery and a catering service on Liberty St. in Ann Arbor, and the Kerrytown shop on Fifth Ave. in Ann Arbor.

School District Announces 1995-96 Budget Predictions

The 1995-96 proposed Chelsea School District budget was approved by the school board Monday night.

Budget projection for 1995-96 include total revenues of $17,974,218 with an anticipated fund equity of $672,830, for a total of $18,647,048 fund equity and current revenues.

The projection includes a property tax levy of $2,653,658, consisting of a 20-year 18-mill non-homestead tax and a one-mill maintenance tax that was approved by voters last year.

Expenditures include 53 items, which includes services, programs, transportation, among other things. The total projected expenditures are $17,874,334, leaving an anticipated fund equity of $772,714.

The successful $45 million bond passage Monday night raises the increased millage on all properties to six mills.

Residents are still paying on a one-mill homestead equipment/enhancement tax and a one-mill debt retirement tax (from 1974), as well as the 18-mill non-homestead tax.

These 1995-96 figures are the proposed budget projections for next year and may be amended in the future.

Prerequisite: Instructor's permission required for students who have taken eighth grade course "Exploring Technology."

This course introduces students to new technologies and their impact on students' lives. Class activities, such as using familiar materials in unfamiliar ways, using simple machines to solve everyday problems and exploring the uses of DC electric arc designed to teach students how to attack and solve technology-related problems. Directors Elected to Huron River Area Credit Union Board

Huron River Area Credit Union has announced that Scott Hergott-Stoll of Dexter and Julie Maly of Ann Arbor have been re-elected to three-year terms on the Credit Union's nine-person Board of Directors. Also, Richard Ruppel of Chelsea has been elected to his first time seat on HRACU's Board of Directors.

The election took place at the Credit Union's 58th annual meeting of the membership. David LaMoreaux of Ann Arbor has also been re-elected as the board chairman.

Huron River Area Credit Union, headquartered in Ann Arbor, has $85 million in assets and serves 42,000 members throughout five branches in five Michigan counties.

co-sponsored by Great Lakes Bancorp and Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. "The Showcase of Homes provides consumers with a unique opportunity to tour beautifully landscaped and furnished homes of different styles in various price ranges," said HBA executive officer Maureen Sloan.

Each year, a portion of the Showcase ticket proceeds are donated by the HBA to local non-profit firms that assist economically disadvantaged citizens. The HBA has designated Christmas in April—Washtenaw, Huron Services for Youth, and Housing Bureau for Seniors as the 1995 Showcase recipients because they share the HBA's commitment to community service and providing safe, decent and affordable housing to area residents.

Hours for the 1995 Showcase of Homes are 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Saturday, Sunday and Wednesday, and 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday.

Starting point for the Showcase is at the Polo Fields, located off Zeeb Rd., between Liberty Rd. and Park Rd. Tickets are available at all Showcase homes and may be used throughout the duration of the show. Advance tickets may be purchased at the HBA Office.

Summer Picnics Planned for Adoptive Families

All families formed by adoption are invited to attend family picnics this summer at Carr Park in Manchester, the third Sunday of each month beginning June 18. These picnics will be informal gatherings with each family bringing their own food, but organizers will provide simple children's games. The picnics will begin at 2:30 and end at 5 p.m.

The reason for these events is that children need to meet and get to know other children where the "kids don't look like Mom and Dad," says organizer Breeda Miller of Manchester. Miller, mother of three children born in Korea, says that her family belongs to a more formal adoptive family group, but that their gatherings tend to be big parties at major holidays. "A once-a-year event doesn't really allow the adults and children to get to know each other. There are some good groups in Ann Arbor, Ypsilanti, Jackson and Detroit but for those who live in western Washtenaw, and northern Lenawee they aren't very convenient."

All families formed by adoption are welcome, all ages are encouraged to attend. Carr Park is a community park with playground equipment, a softball diamond, plenty of trees and a sheltered picnic area. It is located on Main St. west of downtown Manchester.

For more information call Breeda Miller at (313) 428-0847.

The long-term outlook for U.S. farm trade to Mexico looks positive despite the current peso crisis. Agriculture Department economists predict that Mexico's growing population, its proximity to the U.S. and the after effects of NAFTA will advance U.S. agricultural trade to the troubled country. The Department predicts a 12 percent decrease in exports this year, but that's coming off a record export year in 1994.

Housing Starts Rebound in April From March Total

Michigan 1995 Housing Project starts were down 6.4% from 1994 year to date totals. April Housing Projects starts were up 15.2% from March.

"The downturn in housing starts is not catching us by surprise," commented Bob Woodard, president of the Michigan Association of Home Builders. "We knew that 1994 was a banner year and that there would probably be a downturn in 1995. However, mortgage rates in April were encouraging. Fixed-rate mortgages dropped to 8.41%. At this time last year fixed-rate mortgages were 8.47%. There is a lag in the impact of interest rates on the market, so hopefully the decrease in mortgage rates will be felt later this year."

The Michigan Association of Home Builders is comprised of more than 10,500 member companies, thus providing service to over 370,000 people in the home building/construction industry. MAHB also presents 36 local home builder associations throughout the state.

There are 19 airports in Michigan with scheduled air service for 22 airlines serving 26 million incoming and outgoing passengers each year.

Soccer Camp Scheduled With British Coaches

Chelsea Soccer Club is excited to announce that Britannia Soccer Camps will be holding community soccer camp at the Immanuel Bible church soccer fields during the week of Aug. 14-18. This will be the second year for the soccer camps.

"Last summer's camp was a total success and I expect nothing but a spectacular week for everyone this year," says Melody Reifel, co-ordinator of the camp.

Sessions are open to boys and girls ages 5-18 years. Players will be grouped according to age and ability in several different programs.

Along with the Skill Development program, Britannia will present their new Reebok School of Excellence program designed exclusively for advanced players.

Boys and girls in grades K-6 will attend the morning session from 9 to 12. Those in grades 7-12 will attend the Reebok School of Excellence program from 1 to 4. Melody Reifel also is working on an idea to have separate groups for girls, if the numbers work out right.

The camps are run by professional soccer players and coaches from Europe. Last summer, the kids got to know three players from England and one from Scotland. "Our coaches fell in love with Chelsea and have all requested that they be able to return to Chelsea this summer," Reifel explained. "But, I won't know for sure who the coaches will be until we get a bit closer to August."

Every player attending will receive an official Reebok soccer shirt and will have the option to purchase Reebok soccer balls and shin guards at reduced prices.

Space is limited so interested players are encouraged to sign up soon at the Chelsea Recreation Office.

Questions about the camp may be directed to Melody Reifel and 475-7237, or the Chelsea Recreation office.

Graduating Senior Addresses

By Mark Wallace

I sort of wish that today I could stand up here and say, "Isn't it nice that we're all being graduated and isn't it nice that we'll all remember the definition of irony from Mr. Terpstra's class?" But I can't. Although we have some good memories from our childhood years, today we face bigger challenges than any classroom course could ever address. Right now we're at a time when we've got a lot of important decisions in front of us. The next few years are going to be very different from the past 18. If you thought a car was freedom, just wait. We're really going to be free, which means that we are at a place in our lives where we can screw up. I don't want that to happen to you people because I like quite a few of you. And I want you to have fulfilling lives.

Some of you are going into the military, others into jobs, others to college. I'm going to Princeton. Big deal. The decisions all of us will be making are very similar. If I make the wrong decisions there, I could turn out to be just as much of a jerk as any one of you. The next few years are important times because of these decisions. I want to talk about sex, drugs, and rock and roll.

Rock music, since the fifties, has had a huge effect on our society. Ask your parents, ask a marketing agent, ask any fashion consultant. Ask any movie producer. One of the worst films I've ever seen is "Reality Bites." In it, alleged rocker Ethan Hawke sings a song with the line "Me, you see, I'm nothin'." In the first place, the guy can't sing to save his soul. But, besides that, the song and movie tell us that we're just poor puppy victims of circumstance and the times and broken marriages and huge deficits and job shortages. It shows what some call the Generation X reality.

But, as much as people will argue for its existence, Generation X is nothing. It's just a poor excuse based on a book of dumb short stories by Douglas Coupland. It excuses us from doing well. It gets us feeling sorry for ourselves and disparaging towards everything else. It offers an attitude that changes people from hard working successes into people who wallow in self-pity. It makes people who should work hard to get jobs into people who accept unemployment. Please, don't buy the lie of Generation X. George Clinton of Parliament, P-Funk, and Funkadelic started out a Funkadelic album with the words "I knew I had to rise above it all or drown." I've come close to drowning myself and I know that a lot of the best of you out there will consider that possibility, too, because you care about others and the situation of the world. But life's not that bad. And things can change for the better. George knows what he's talking about.

Lots of people, like Douglas Coupland, will tell you "how society is" and try to make you accept that as fact. It's not true. Society is not a huge, uncontrollable beast. It's just people. It's just you and me. It's the kindest farmers in Dexter and it's the baddest mother ever to set foot into the history of South Compton, but it's still just people. Whenever someone tells you something you don't like about our "society" or whenever you see something you don't like about our "society," don't accept it. Look at yourself, your kids, your integrity, your spouse, and change the way things are. If there's something wrong with so called society, there's probably something wrong close to you that you can change for the better. Do so. Don't ever accept things the way they are, and please don't ever accept things the way other people tell you they are. They're probably wrong.

Rock and Roller. Kurt Cobain of Nirvana started out his album In Utero with the words "Teenage angst has paid off well." Kurt has since shot himself in the face with a shotgun and died. His widow, Courtney Love, a few days after his death stood outside her house, in front of a crowd just about as big as us and had all the people scream obscenities at whatever form of Kurt is out there to hear.

Teenage angst isn't going to pay off well. It's going to get us depressed, get us fried from drugs, it's going to get more of us kicked out of school, and it's going to give us an excuse to not be responsible, which will destroy our loyalty to one another and thus our relationships.

It's obvious that drugs are dangerous. Many people will try to convince you that drunk driving and inner-city gangs are the major problems related to drugs. I think that divorce, school dropout rates, suicide, murder, and general apathy are the biggest problems caused by drugs and alcohol. Especially divorce. A divorce caused by alcohol is not publicized in the news like a drunk driving death is, but it's just as painful, far more frequent, and perhaps more damaging to the people involved.

I was talking recently to a friend who graduated in '94. I was told that the new drugs added to many members of the class of '94's acceptable drug list are cocaine and heroin. Cocaine and heroin. Think about this, most of those people did not do anything worse than pot or acid in high school. And few of you have done anything worse than pot and maybe acid. Keep it in mind. Everything you do leads you somewhere. And, when you do drugs, you're on your way to a place I don't think you want to be.

Even if you are firm in your stance that our society will continue to improve and you have chosen not to do drugs, a set of major decisions still remains in your future. Marriage is the fundamental building block of a free society. One of the reasons the United States has been seeing its moral climate change is that its marriages are ending at unprecedented rates. If trends continue, our class is going to have more broken marriages than any other. Most of us don't have (Continued on page 13)

By Jessica M. Flintoft

As you look before you to this blue sea of caps and gowns, you're probably asking yourself many questions such as, "where has all of the time gone," or "is my little baby really ready to graduate," or "how long is she going to talk?"

But, I'm sure that the most pressing question which you've all been asking yourselves is, "I wonder what some of those graduates have on underneath those gowns of theirs?"

You don't know what Nick is wearing under his gown; you don't know what Seitz has on under his; and you, certainly don't want to know what Corrie Schoenberg is wearing under her gown.

What we are wearing under these gowns is what makes each of us in the class of '95 an individual. Each of these 152 individuals has some sort of great characteristic or talent that distinguishes him or her. Our class includes some state and nationally-ranked athletes, musicians, actors, artists, and academics. Others in this class have the abilities to bring a smile to each of our faces, such as Carey Schiller's outrageous humor and Josh Inwood's absolutely enormous laugh. These characteristics and what each one of us is wearing underneath these gowns is what reflects our individuality.

But today, on our graduation, these caps and gowns are what is important. And, believe it or not, it's not the incredible aesthetic value of these caps that makes them important. Nor, is it the near-perfect style of these 100% acetate gowns.

In fact, the importance stems not from the characteristics of an individual cap or gown, but from the 152 sets of caps and gowns which have come together to form this solid mass of blue, as have these 152 individuals to form our class of 1995. Not only does our class share these caps and gowns, but we've shared experiences, changes, and feelings.

Right from the start, most of us shared the same year of birth . . . 1977. Yes, the year "Star Wars" hit the screens, Fleetwood Mac was at the top of the music charts, and Mr. Terpstra still had a full, dark head of hair.

Our class was then thrown together in the fall of 1982 when we entered kindergarten. School was a simple world of fun and friends. Outside of our limited kindergarten world, punk rock and valley girls were the rage, but all we cared about was going the see "E.T.," making sure our tennis shoes were securely velcroed, and begging our parents for a pair of moonboots, those puffy, colorful winter boots that we loved, regardless of the fact that they didn't keep our feet warm or dry.

By the time we were nearing the end of fifth grade, we were eagerly anticipating our chance to enter a new world: middle school. Right from the very first day of Beach school, our social lives began. The dating scene was thriving, well, at least what we considered a dating scene: dancing the afternoons away until 4 p.m. when the school dances were done, exchanging I.D. bracelets, going on dates to the movies accompanied by mom driving the minivan, and sometimes popping the Big Question: "will you go with me?"

Throughout middle school, we paid close attention to fashion, and we accomplished looking, well, actually, quite ridiculous. We had our jeans pegged up to our knees, our bangs hairsprayed up to the sky, and guys, remember Skids? Those oversized, flannel, plaid, and just plain awful pants? And so I ask you, parents, why? Why in the world did you let us leave the house dressed that way?

JESSICA FLINTOFT addresses her classmates one final time at commencement ceremonies last Sunday. She reminded the graduates how they've all grown up together as individuals and as a class. She assured them that their experiences has shaped each graduate into the unique person they have become.

Luckily, by the end of eighth grade, we were moving out of the middle school, which had left us so confused, and on to High School: The Final Frontier. After Moving Up Day when we traveled to Chelsea High to catch a glimpse of our next four years, we were excited, but were we prepared for high school? Well, high school was prepared for us. In fact, they had a room designed for us unprepared freshmen. Yes, it was The Prepared Room, a room that we would be sent to during lunchtime if we hadn't brought all of our books and pencils to class. Throughout these past four years, high school has offered us new challenges and successes, new people, and new experiences.

Besides making our way through 13 years of schooling together, our class has also shared in some tragedies, the loss of classmates and our superintendent. All of these experiences, both sad and happy, have been part of each of us and have shaped our class as a whole.

And now, we're sharing in perhaps one of the biggest changes in our lives: graduation.

Graduation: from the homework, lectures, and rules. Moving on to what we want to do. Freedom. Opportunities. Independence.

Graduation: from the comfort of a familiar routine, familiar faces, and friends. Uncertainty. Sadness. Good-byes.

Graduation: an inseparable mix of excitement and apprehension.

Today, we're still together, wearing these caps and gowns, but tomorrow, we will take these caps and gowns off and walk in our 152 different paths. But no matter how different each path is, one thing will be the same: we will all be going through the times together. We will all be experiencing a variety of joys and challenges in every aspect of life.

So, to the class of 1995, I congratulate you: it's been long. I thank you: it's been fun. And I wish you the best: it's really just begun.

State Acknowledges All-Academic Honors to Varsity Softball Team

Chelsea's softball team held their banquet June 8, recognizing players from the freshman, junior varsity and varsity teams.

The varsity team finished a great season, 29-12, winning the SEC Championship, but losing to Ida in the District Championship game. Ida has since gone on to win the regional title.

"We had a tremendous season and not just because of our record," said head coach Joe Beard. "This team blended well together and I believe the girls enjoyed each other and the season."

"I believe a strong indication of the respect they had for each other was the gifts the underclassmen gave to each of the graduating seniors on the team."

Krissy Vargo, Suzy Steele, Sara Petty, Kyle Kentala, Kerry Lynch, Nikki Lane, and Kasie Ruhlrig all received their varsity letters and a varsity softball pin.

Danielle Longe and Tina Richardson also received their varsity letters, but in addition, they were both recognized by the coaching staff for their excellent play this season. Tina Richardson was recognized as the Most Improved Player. Danielle Longe received coach Beard's "10th Man Award," which goes to the player who plays the most positions during the season.

"Danielle was very versatile," said Joe Beard. "She played second base, shortstop, center field, right field, left field and designated hitter this year. Both Danielle and Tina worked very hard this year and the coaching staff is looking forward to working with all of the returning underclassmen."

Lisa Beard will also be returning for one more season. Lisa completed her third season as a varsity player, receiving a number of awards. This year, she was the co-Most Valuable Player of the team, not only leading the team in pitching victories with 15, but also in hitting with the highest batting average and most RBIs on the team. An All-Stater last year, Lisa has already been recognized this year as a First-Team SEC player, First-Team All-District, and First-

Team All-Regional with an excellent chance to repeat as an All-Stater this season. Lisa will be the captain of the 1996 varsity softball team.

"The seniors this year were not only good athletes, they were great people," coach Beard said. "They worked hard and always did the very best they could."

This group won an SEC title, a district title and a regional title during their two-year varsity run.

Lori Ritter was our outstanding varsity catcher. She received her Two-Year Varsity Award, varsity softball pin, All-State Academic Athlete, Scholar-Athlete Award and she was co-winner of the Coach's Leadership Award. The Coach's Leadership Award goes to the athlete who exemplifies the dedication and leadership qualities it takes to have a successful program. "Lori worked very hard, not only on her skills, but she was always there for her pitchers so that they could practice," Beard said.

Melissa Schultz was also a Two-Year Varsity Award winner. She received her varsity softball pin, and Melissa was also recognized as an All-State Academic Athlete. "Melissa worked very hard for her two seasons of varsity softball and we will miss her leadership," Beard said.

Shannon Shemansky was a Two-Year Varsity Award winner. She also received her varsity softball pin and a Senior Athletic Award. "Shannon was one of the best defensive players we've had in Chelsea, a natural second baseman," Beard said.

Nancy Pidd received her Three-Year Varsity Award, Senior Athletic Award and varsity softball pin. Nancy was First-Team-SEC and First-Team-District this year. "Nancy has a great season, the best of her three years on varsity. Great job, Nancy," Beard said.

Charlotte Ziegler received her Three-Year Varsity Award, Varsity Athletic Award, Honorable Mention-SEC and the Kim Boyd Award. Charlotte played one of the toughest positions on the team — shortstop. "She worked very hard and we could always count on Charlotte to give the team every ounce of effort she had," Beard said. Charlotte was recognized by the Chelsea Athletic Boosters at Class Night, receiving their "Coaches Award."

Martha Merkel received her Two-Year Varsity Award, Varsity Athletic Award, Second-Team-SEC, Senior Athletic Award, All-State Academic Athlete Award and she was co-winner of the Coach's Leadership Award. "Martha had an excellent softball career. She worked hard at the game and made herself into one of the best defensive first basemen we've had in Chelsea," Beard said.

Carey Schiller, a Three-Year Varsity Award winner, has been one of the most outstanding athletes to play softball in Chelsea. Carey has won every kind of award one can imagine. This year for the second consecutive year, she was chosen by the coaches as the co-Most Valuable Player of the team, winning 14 games and leading the team in runs scored.

Carey also received her Senior Athletic Award, Scholar Athlete Award, the Detroit Free Press Scholar-Athlete Award, All-State Academic Award, First-Team-SEC, First-Team-All District, Second-Team-All Regional and the US Army Reserve Scholar Athlete Award. In addition, Carey has received a scholarship to play softball at Georgia Tech. "I don't believe anyone has contributed more to Chelsea softball over the last three years than Carey Schiller," said coach Beard.

This year's team had one accomplishment that they were very proud of. The 1995 varsity softball team was recognized by the State of Michigan as an All-Academic team. This is the first time Chelsea softball has received such an award and they hope this is the beginning of another tradition in Chelsea softball.

Seven-Run Stretch Forces Bulldog Loss In District Finals

Four just isn't the varsity softball team's lucky number these days. The team came into the district finals as the defending champs for the fourth year in a row. But their luck ended there as the team succumbed to a fourth inning clobbering in the district tournament on June 3. The championships were originally scheduled to take place at Chelsea, but the sewer line construction forced the event to be moved to Milan.

Chelsea was slammed with a seven run stretch by Ida in the fourth inning of the final game at the Class B-District Championships held in Milan.

The Bulldogs struggled to gain some ground, but weren't able to as they only scored two runs in the bottom of the sixth. The end result forced the Bulldogs to give up their opportunity to become the district champs as they succumbed to Ida, 8-2.

The Bulldogs scored two runs courtesy of Charlotte Ziegler and Lori Ritter on a total of four hits. Carey Schiller received kudos from the opposing side's coach, as she was a force to be reckoned with. The loss drops Schiller's record to 14-8. Ida won the Class C district championship last year, after edging Milan in the semi-finals, 1-0.

Chelsea had advanced to the finals after posting a win over conference rival Lincoln, 7-3. Chelsea took an early lead, 4-0, but it was short-lived as Lincoln slowly crept back into the game by scoring three runs in the bottom of the sixth. But

Ryan Ludwig Signs Letter of Intent

■ He will attend the University of Findlay in the fall.

Chelsea high school graduate Ryan Ludwig has signed a letter of intent to the University of Findlay and plans to wrestle for the Roughnecks in the fall. Ludwig is the only Michigan wrestler who was recruited to wrestle for the university by head wrestling coach John Jeffire.

Ludwig, the son of Tom and Janice Ludwig of Chelsea, is a 1995 Michigan High school state champion at 142 pounds. He is the district and regional runner-up in his weight class. Ludwig's record in his senior year was 44-6, which culminated into a 124-38 over-all high school career.

"Ryan is more than a quality wrestler; he's also a quality student and a quality person," Jeffire said. "We're looking forward to working with him and having such an outstanding individual in our program."

Ludwig plans on majoring in law and criminal justice while attending the University of Findlay.

While wrestling for Chelsea High school, he trained under coach Kerry Kargel. Ludwig was named Most-Valuable Player for 1995 and was a varsity award winner all four years of high school.

Ludwig also has been involved in the non-athlete side of high school. He has a 3.115 cumulative grade point average and is a representative to the student council. Ludwig is also a member of St. Mary's Catholic church's youth group.

the Bulldogs came back with three runs of their own in the seventh.

Nancy Pidd led the Bulldog offense in hitting with a double and a triple. Shannon Shemansky contributed two singles as well. Lisa Beard accepted the victory, increasing her record to 15-2.

EDWARD RICHARDSON, Superintendent of Schools, gave a convincing presentation to the Chelsea Rotary Club on May 23 about the June 12 millage vote. He pointed out the steady growth in Chelsea's school enrollment, and the inadequacy of the current facilities regarding increased enrollment and lack of advanced technology. Richardson urged all voters to support the proposed school millage.

Baseball Program Presents Awards At Season Banquet

Some deserving players were recently honored at the varsity baseball banquet year-end banquet on June 6.

Scott Colvin was named the team's Most Valuable Player. Ryan Wagner was honored with the team Most Improved Player award. Pitcher of the Year honors went to Jeff Branch, who ended the season 7-2 and a .333 earned run average. Scott Colvin was named Sluggger of the Year with a .433 batting average, which included an impressive seven home runs and 40 RBIs.

The Coaches Award, presented to Ryan Wagner and Case McCalla, is presented for a career of dedication, leadership and commitment to the baseball program.

"This is a prestigious award only presented when it is earned," said coach Wayne Welton.

Scott Colvin was named the 1996 captain.

Graduating seniors include Case McCalla, Ryan Wagner, Jeff Branch, Dirk Wales, Jesse Petty and Thom

McMurray. "Collectively, these six young men have left the baseball program many fond memories," Welton said. "They will be missed."

MHSBCA (Michigan High School Baseball Coaches Association) All-District honors went to Scott Colvin for catcher and Jason Sprawka for outfield. Colvin also was named to the MHSBCA All-Academic for a 3.74 grade point average, as was David Paton, who cumulated a 3.71 GPA.

Making the 1995 All Southeastern Conference first team was Jeff Branch-pitcher. Scott Colvin-catcher and Jason Sprawka-outfield. Both Colvin and Sprawka were named to the team by a unanimous selection. Case McCalla-first base and Ashley Coy-infield, were named honorable mention to the 1995 SEC team.

Also at the banquet, Welton thanked the many volunteer coaches that helped to make the Chelsea baseball program a success.

Girls Golf Team Honors Players At Season Banquet

In the June 1 golf banquet, players received awards and honors for their season-long efforts.

Corrine Foytik earned her JV letter. Meghan Williams, a freshman on the team, received her first varsity letter. Beth Wagenschutz also was recognized for her efforts on the team as a first-year player.

Other members on the team, who will be returning in the fall, include Lesley Davis, Jessica Inwood, along with Liz Holdsworth (Most Valuable Player) and Erin Armstrong (Most Improved Player).

The team, while facing the most torrential rain storms of the season, improved their records from last year. They improved at the Central "8" Conference Tournament from seventh to sixth this year. Also they placed fourth in the regional tournament this year, compared to last year's sixth place finish.

Sign-Up Period Open Now for Wetland Reserve Program

Sign-up period for the Wetland Reserve Program (WRP) is from May 30 to June 30. This federally funded program is voluntary, and offers landowners a chance to receive payments for restoring and protecting wetlands on their property.

According to Steve Olds, our local District Conservationist with the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service (formerly Soil Conservation Service), "this reserve program allows persons to retire marginal agricultural lands and reap the many benefits of having wetlands on their property." Olds serves both Washtenaw and Wayne counties.

Enrolled acreage will be kept permanently as a wetland with ownership remaining in the private sector. Under the program, conservation easements are purchased from participating landowners for wetland areas that have been used for cropping and forage production. Adjacent land deemed necessary to protect the restored wetland may also be included.

Landowners who qualify will receive no more than the fair market value of their land for agricultural use, in return for a lump sum easement payment and cost share assistance for implementing wetland restoration practices. Olds also emphasized, "landowners who enter land into the WRP will be able to continue to use their privately owned property for uses such as hunting, fishing, timber harvest, and haying or grazing depending on the situation."

If you are interested in this important program, which will have positive environmental impacts on water quality and wildlife habitat, contact Steve Olds at the Natural Resources Conservation Service Office in Ann Arbor at 313-761-6722.

Farmers Seek Quick Passage of Food Quality Protection Act

Farm Bureau is calling for quick action on legislation (H.R. 1627) introduced in the House this week to modernize the nation's food safety laws.

"Passage of the Food Quality Protection Act is a top priority for farmers and ranchers," said Al Almy, director of public affairs for Michigan Farm Bureau. "Without this legislation, we will continue to operate under the unrealistic, outdated standards of the 1958 Delaney Clause, the zero-risk provision which will mean the loss of vital crop protection tools for farmers."

The Delaney Clause is an amendment to the federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act that bars any trace of any additive or pesticide residue in processed food if the substance has been found to cause cancer in laboratory animals. "Most scientists agree this standard is obsolete due to the great advances in science in 37 years," Almy noted. "Scientists now can detect residues measured in parts per trillion, a minute amount that doesn't pose any health risk yet is still subject to the Delaney standard."

Almy said the measure would also overhaul the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodenticide Act, the nation's basic pesticide-control law, making it easier to remove unsafe products and to protect infants and children from pesticide residues in their diet. In addition, the bill would eliminate the regulatory barriers that in recent years have caused chemical manufacturers to give up product registrations for chemicals used on so-called "minor" crops, many of which are grown in Michigan.

Sports physicals for all Chelsea students entering grades six through twelve for the 1995-1996 school year are scheduled for Wednesday, June 21, 1995. These examinations are intended to detect any significant health problems which would prevent a student from participating in athletics, as well as to meet the Michigan High School Athletic Association guidelines requiring an annual physical. This is not intended to serve as a substitute for a comprehensive health evaluation by your regular physician.

The physical examinations will be performed at The University of Michigan Family Practice Center, 775 S. Main Street, Chelsea, according to the following schedule:

Last Name Begins With:	Report At:
A - E	2:00 P.M.

Chelsea Travel Soccer Team Claims SEMSA

The Chelsea Under-17 Travel Soccer team beat Tecumseh, 3-1, to finish the spring season with seven wins, one loss and two ties to claim the South East Michigan Soccer Association (SEMSA) title. The Under-17 division was represented by teams from Chelsea, Dexter, Milan, Saline, Tecumseh and Ypsilanti.

Chelsea Soccer Club had five travel teams, which played in the SEMSA spring session; the U-17 Boys, U-14 Boys, U-12 Boys, U-14 Girls and U-12 Girls teams. There was also a U-10 Co-Ed team that played in the Ann Arbor League.

The SEMSA consists of teams from Adrian, Ann Arbor, Chelsea, Clinton, Dexter, Jackson, Lincoln, Milan, Monroe, Saline, Tecumseh and Ypsilanti. Teams are formed by age and play a 10-game league schedule.

Chelsea plays their home games on the McKinley Rd. soccer fields, which are generously provided by the Immanuel Bible church and the Chelsea Recreation Department.

Try-outs were held this past week to form travel teams for the fall season. Due to the extremely large turn-out of players, if coaches are available and if field arrangements can be made, there will be 11 fall travel teams.

For information about the travel soccer program, please contact the Chelsea Soccer Club through Dennis Hayes at 475-7774 or David Cooper at 475-0990.

Things To Remember While Driving A Motorcycle

Motorcycle season is here. At the first hint of spring and dry roads, motorcyclists uncover their bikes and hit the road.

Motorcycles are fun, but can be a dangerous pastime. With their rapid rates of acceleration and the fact that they are less visible than passenger vehicles, safety is an important issue.

Two major safety factors to consider while operating a motorcycle are helmets and driving while intoxicated. In 1992, the national Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) found that motorcycle operators involved in fatal crashes had higher intoxication rates than any other type of motor vehicle driver. Of the 1,016 single vehicle motorcycle fatalities in 1992, over half (52.4 percent) were intoxicated.

During a crash, helmets are the only protection a motorcyclist has to prevent serious injury. NHTSA estimated in 1993 that motorcycle helmets reduced the likelihood of a fatality by 29 percent in a crash. From 1984 through 1992, an estimated 5,832 motorcyclists were saved through the use of a helmet.

SHERIFF'S REPORT

Lima Township

Missing Person

A missing person was reported in the 13900 block of Scio Church Rd., June 1. Police were initially called by a counselor of a 17-year-old boy living at the residence. He called to say he was upset and couldn't take the strife in his family anymore. Police contacted the boy's father, who said he and his son argued over his high school career. The boy then reportedly packed a bag and left in his 1978 Ford LTD. His father hasn't seen him since and the boy's friends have been calling the residence for him.

Sylvan Township

Incorrigible Juvenile

A 48-year-old woman living in the 18000 block of Bush Rd. told police her 14-year-old son has gotten out of hand. Police were dispatched to the family's home for a report that the boy was threatening to kill his parents. When police arrived, the boy's father and 16-year-old brother had him pinned down on the lawn. The boy refused to talk with the deputy and left. His parent said he has been a discipline problem and they don't know what to do. It was also reported that the boy assaulted his father by biting and kicking him.

Dexter Township

Warrant Arrest

Dale T. Jones, 39, was arrested on a felony warrant at his apartment in the 8500 block of Orchard Rd., June 3. The warrant was for his third offense of operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor. Jones was lodged in county jail.

Mark A. Stram, 27, of Swanton, O., was arrested on Hadley Rd. near North-Territorial Rd., June 1. He was wanted on a bench warrant for violating probation. Stram was taken to county jail.

Drunken Driving

A 35-year-old Grass Lake man was arrested on westbound North-Territorial Rd. near Dexter Townhall Rd., June 4, for operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor and for having an unlawful blood/alcohol level. Police stopped him after noticing the man was driving erratically, making a wide left turn and traveling 15 mph below the speed limit. The suspect admitted to drinking alcohol between 9 p.m. and 1 a.m. at Shooter's Bar prior to driving. He failed several field sobriety tests administered at 2 a.m. A test of his blood/alcohol level at 5 a.m. proved he was legally intoxicated. It was tested at .27 percent, which is more than twice the legal limit.

Larceny

Larceny was reported in the 9400 block of Anne St., June 5. A 40-year-old Pinckney woman told police a two-seat paddle boat valued at $400 was stolen while she was on vacation May 26-29. She and her husband checked to see if it drifted out on the lake, but the boat was not located.

SIXTEEN BEACH MIDDLE SCHOOL students were honored at the SEC Middle School Honors Banquet on May 18. Farm Bureau Wants No More Than 6 Cent Fuel Tax Increase

The drumbeat is starting across the state for increasing the state fuel tax. Right now it's 15 cents a gallon, one of the lowest rates in the nation. Michigan Farm Bureau Legislative Counsel Darcy Cypher said some groups are proposing up to a 12 cent a gallon increase, but Michigan farmers want something considerably less than that.

"Our policy clearly states that we want to be sure Michigan is utilizing in the best fashion the dollars it is already getting," she said. "Farm Bureau supports no more than a justifiable 6 cent a gallon increase. That means we have to look at what the actual needs are and make sure that we're not increasing the fuel tax more than we absolutely have to."

Michigan Farm Bureau policy supports the use of private contractors and a bidding process for road and bridge development and maintenance, examination of the Transportation Distribution Fund formula to determine if the current method of funding county and local roads is equitable, the use of wooden bridge construction, when feasible, using Michigan forest products; research to develop better materials for road and bridge construction and maintenance; and requiring consideration of agricultural drainage needs when planning, designing and maintaining roads.

good role models for marriage. In this area, we have to do better than our parents. We've got to make sure that we marry the right person and stay married. And we can.

First of all, we shouldn't look for happiness from sex without commitment. Not only can it lead to physical destruction from the STDs we all know about, it can make us emotionally unfit for marriage. Lots of people don't seem to realize that sex without commitment is what kept Mick Jagger from being able to "get no satisfaction." He just needed a wife.

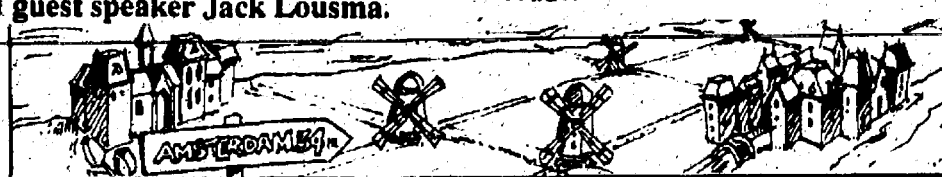

Second, we need to be careful who we marry. No one knows how hard marriage is going to be, but that's no reason to give up once the inevitable problems hit. We've got to get this right. We've got to stop the trend toward divorce.

We'll be happier if our marriages work. Our kids will be happier. And we'll be able to be the friends to our kids that some of you are wishing right now your folks were to you.

The last thing I'd like to encourage you to do is to care about something and decide what you believe. Don't be fooled. Just because a lot of things aren't true doesn't mean that nothing is. Go to a church, a synagogue, read about other's beliefs. But don't believe it just because others say it. Look for what's true on your own, and decide how you should act based on this.

After deciding what you believe, decide to be a committed partner in your marriage. If your marriage succeeds, it will last longer than your voice or your knees or your body or any possessions.

Your beliefs and your marriage are important, but what you do is important as well. I'd like you all to choose something. And really care about it. Be good. Each one of you. As Stephen Malkamus said, "Believe in what you want to do." Be a good cop, a good mechanic, a good secretary, a good hairdresser, a good diplomat, a good fire fighter, a good singer, a good chef, a good soldier, a good spouse, a good parent, a good role model. And we'll be a good class. And we'll be a good society. It's all we can do. It's all we can hope for. And it's the best we can do.

Although Amsterdam is officially the capital of The Netherlands, the seat of government is in The Hague, 34 miles away.

Vacation Bible School Outreach Planned

Nate Perkins, youth pastor at the Chelsea Free Methodist church on Werkner Rd., has announced that a vacation Bible school outreach, for children ages 3 and 12, is being planned for the community.

The program, to be run in conjunction with the vacation Bible school at the church, will present a different Bible story on each of four mornings, through the use of drama, puppets, music and games.

The outreach will be administered by the Youth Ministry Department of the Chelsea Free Methodist church under the direction of Pastor Perkins and Bev Schlegelmilch, with assistance from church teens who have been trained for ministry.

"The goal of this ministry is twofold," said Pastor Perkins. "Our number one priority is to offer an exciting program for children which helps them apply the Bible truths to their everyday lives. The other purpose is to give our teens an opportunity to put into practice the training they have received throughout the year."

The vacation Bible school will be held June 20-23, from 9:45 to 11:15 a.m., on the west lawn of the Village Apartments at 120 Wilkinson St. There is no cost for this program.

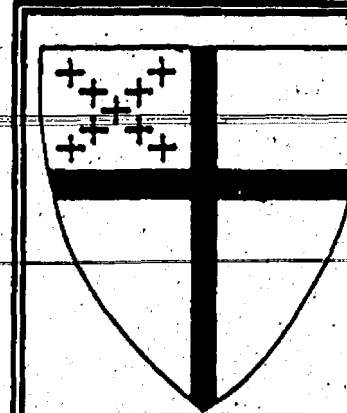

For more information, please contact Pastor Perkins at 475-1391.

Retirement Community Seeks Youth Volunteers

Chelsea Retirement Community is offering youths, ages 10-16, an exciting opportunity to be involved as a volunteer member of their care team. The Summer Youth Volunteer Program has arrived and is seeking responsible students for a summer filled with fun and friendships.

Youths will be providing services to community residents on an individual and group basis. Activities may include bingo, bowling, reading, writing letters, walking and transporting residents in wheelchairs. Through these activities volunteers and residents will share, laugh and learn to ultimately become friends.

This year's program will be directed by Julie Hamilton, an occupational therapy student from Western Michigan University. Julie is a past volunteer for organizations such as C. S. Mott Children's Hospital, The Michigan Commission for the Blind and High Point Center, a special needs school. From her volunteer experiences, Julie has created a program with a multitude of internal and external rewards for both the residents and the volunteers.

The seven-week Summer Youth Volunteer Program runs from June 26 to Aug. 13. Volunteer times are Monday through Friday from 1 to 4 p.m. with a few opportunities for morning participation. Volunteers will attend one or two days a week.

In order to become a participant, one must call Julie Hamilton at 475-8633, fill out a permission slip, attend a TB test clinic and attend Day 1 and Day 2 orientation sessions. Orientation and the TB clinic will be held on the week of June 19, and need to be attended in order to become a participant. Sessions will be offered twice. Please call to reserve your session; volunteer positions are limited.

If any questions arise, call 475-8633 and ask for Julie.

★ Michigan's 10th Annual Free Fishing Week-end

Anniversaries are always something special. They're definitely cause for celebration. Thus it is with Michigan's Free Fishing Week-end.

This year marks the 10th state observance of the free fishing days. It was back in 1985 that Michigan's Legislature first decreed that, in conjunction with the annual nation-wide observance of National Fishing Week, our state should sponsor a week-end each spring when all fishing in state waters would be "free."

Free Fishing Week-end '95 was slated this year for the week-end of June 10-11. The two-day event offers novice and veteran anglers alike the opportunity to fish any of Michigan's public waters without requirement of fishing license or permit. However, all pertinent state gamefish regulations and size restrictions remain in force over the week-end.

In addition to the chance for license-free angling, Free Fishing Week-ends offer our state's active sportsmen and women the chance to pass to the non-angling public a most special gift—the lesson of "conservation ethics" learned through angling. When I speak of conservation ethics, I'm talking about the process of developing a level of respect both for Michigan's many natural resources and for other persons as well.

The conservation ethic, as I use the term, acknowledges the importance of self-respect and, additionally, offers important lessons in assuming ultimate responsibility for one's own actions. It also means learning about the proper stewardship of Michigan's wealth of resources and about making a lifetime commitment to clean water, air, soil and healthy critters.

The fact that many modern-day Michiganders are all but cut off from the natural world makes the conservation-ethic lessons to be learned through angling all the more important. The Michigan Department of Natural Resources and the state Natural Resources Commission have each pledged to do their utmost in furthering the conservation ethic among our state's populace.

During the Free Fishing Days of the preceding nine years, event sponsors have been able to offer literally hundreds of fishing workshops, clinics and derbies in locations throughout the state. State conservation and fishing groups, along with 4-H organizations, community recreation programs, businesses and the DNR itself, are among those who regularly hold such events on or around Free Fishing Week-end.

Fishing clinics usually center around the needs of non-angling youth, families and novice anglers, but may also target senior citizens and the handicapped. Sometimes, a more experienced angler will encourage his or her club or community organization to sponsor a Free Fishing event in order to share the joy found in fishing. Other times, that angler will independently share his or her angling skills by leading novice anglers on a fishing excursion. Either way, ideally the conservation ethic so inherent to fishing is passed on.

If you or your organization would like to hold an event such as a clinic or workshop next year (or even later this summer), please contact the DNR Fisheries Division, Box 30446, Lansing 48909. Telephone (517) 373-1280.

Arbor Treatment Center Moves Base of Operations

Chelsea Arbor Treatment Center, a joint alcohol and substance abuse treatment program of Chelsea Community Hospital and the University of Michigan Medical Center, has moved its base of operations from Kresge House on the campus of Chelsea Community Hospital to new offices in Ann Arbor. Patient services in Ann Arbor have expanded with the move.

The focus of the substance abuse treatment program also has shifted from providing care in a residential setting to offering a range of day and evening services, including the area's only outpatient detoxification program. Center executive director Kirk Brower, M.D., associate professor of psychiatry at the U-M, says the changes reflect the community's need for effective but less expensive treatment options for substance abuse problems.

Patients previously treated in the residential program now will be treated in other programs appropriate for their needs, either in a hospital setting or through the expanded outpatient services available at the Chelsea Arbor Treatment Center.

Families Invited To Partake in Summer Walk

Accompany "Old Timber Cruiser" George Sexton on a walk in the woods on June 3 at 2 p.m. at the Gerald E. Eddy Geology Center, 16345 McClure Rd.

Families are especially invited (but no pets, please) to learn about the plants, trees and other facets of nature in early summer.

The program, co-sponsored by the Waterloo Natural History Association, is free and the Geology Center staff invites the public to attend.

A Michigan State Park Motor Vehicle Permit is required for entry into the park. A daily permit is $4, or annual permit is $20. Senior citizen annual permits are $5. Permits may be purchased at the Recreation Area Headquarters or at the Geology Center.

For more information, call the Gerald E. Eddy Geology Center at 475-3170, Tuesday through Sunday.

Breast Cancer Research To Benefit From 5K Race

Some things are for women only. Breast Cancer is one of them. The For Women Only 5K Challenge is another. Women are invited to join the 13th annual running of this race that benefits breast cancer research on Sunday, June 25, at Gallup Park, Ann Arbor.

The race includes the following events:

- a 5K competitive Run with Mother/Daughter teams,
 - a 5K competitive race walk,
 - a 5K non-competitive walk,
 - a 1 mile run for girls only aged 5-12.
- Each year the race honors a female runner for her contribution to the sport. This year's honoree is Maggy Higgins Zidar. Maggy is a 45-year-old masters runner and an English teacher at Bloomfield Hills Lahser High school. She has taught for 23 years. In 1994, Maggy completed 144 races, one of which was the Chicago marathon where she accomplished her personal best time of 3 hours and 17 minutes.

The Challenge is also honoring Jill Weber of Ann Arbor who died this year of breast cancer at the age of 39. Jill was a nurse at the University of Michigan Hospitals for 17 years, married to Ken Weber, president of Weber's Inn, and the mother of three sons (Billy, 10; Michael, 8; and Brian, 5). Before she died, she asked a friend to please not let another woman die of breast cancer. The race is honoring Jill for her contributions to her family, friends, co-workers, and community, and for the challenge legacy she left for all women to end this disease.

Proceeds this year benefit The Breast Cancer Fund. While the Fund is a national organization, 50 percent of the proceeds will remain in Ann Arbor. The University of Michigan Comprehensive Cancer Center has been chosen as the recipient of those proceeds.

The course includes instruction on land navigation, marksmanship, tactics, military law, personnel administration, Marine Corps history and traditions, communications, and the techniques of military instruction.

He joined the Marine Corps in April 1994. Wicker is a graduate of Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti, with a BS degree.

Politics Undermine Achievement

By Stewart L. Tubbs
Dean, College of Business,
Eastern Michigan University

Two items caught my attention recently. First, Newt Gingrich complained bitterly that those who were trying to smear him were doing so strictly out of "political" motivation. Second, in the recent Sean Connery movie "Just Cause," one of the main characters complains that a person from his community who tries to better himself by going to college is pulled back down into the barrel with the rest.

On a more personal level, each of us has undoubtedly been on the receiving end of personal criticisms or even attacks in a job situation. In fact, a recent article in the Journal of Accountancy reported the results of a national survey showing that "office politics" was the single greatest source of stress—more stressful than too many assignments, plack of job security, time pressures, stalled careers, and even frequent interruptions.

The question arises as to why this phenomenon exists. In large part, it exists due to people's assumption of what is called a "zero sum" condition. In this situation, if you get a larger piece of pie, it leaves less for the rest. When all the pieces are gone, the sum of what's left is zero. This is referred to by Stephen Covey as "the scarcity mentality."

When this point of view exists, it fosters antagonism between and among employees. Therefore, the opportunity and the temptation for political back-stabbing is rampant. In fact, your best strategy is to keep all others from getting ahead by making them look bad every time.

you get the chance. In a case such as the example in the movie, the person who tries to better himself or herself by going to college is threatening to others who have not achieved. They try to keep him from getting ahead by attacking him. The effect is to reduce achievements in the entire community and to perpetuate its impoverished condition.

However, a very different point of view is called the "non zero sum" condition, or the "abundance mentality." In this situation, you find ways to create a bigger pie so that if one person takes a larger piece, there is still enough left for others. In business, for example, there is often tension between labor and management. Management always wants workers to be more productive, which is defined as increasing the ratio of output over input. Workers, on the other hand, always want to be better compensated, and find it astonishing when they see the large salaries of top executives.

How can this be resolved? Recently, U.S. companies have adopted several practices that offer some help. First, with team-oriented employee involvement programs, employees help participate in finding ways to reduce costs and increase profits. This results in increased productivity. In effect, these activities enlarge the pie. A good example of this is American Airlines. Through their employee suggestions, they decided to eliminate the seldom eaten olives from salads served in the first-class section. This alone saved $40,000. Over-all, American Airlines has saved over $180 million because of employee's ideas.

Second, companies have been offering profit-sharing bonuses, thus rewarding employees for their efforts to increase productivity. When the company does better, everybody wins!

It seems that every organization could potentially benefit from trying to encourage an "abundance mentality." Even families and communities could practice more of this. Politics in business is often defined as the activities of a subgroup that achieve the objective of the subgroup at the expense of the larger organization. On the other hand, organizations that reward activities which contribute to the success of the entire organization, as with profit-sharing bonuses, are more likely to see a reduction in "politics" and an increase in achievement.

Imagine what the world might be like if each of us in our daily lives decided to practice more of an abundance mentality and less of a scarcity mentality? Therein lies the challenge.

Third Graders Study Village's History, Present

South school third graders have been studying Chelsea's historic buildings for the past couple of weeks. Each student had their choice of drawing the clock tower, The Standard, the Depot Station, the post office or Chelsea United Methodist church.

Each student has been studying the village's history as well as its present as a unit for weeks now.

"For instance, they know that The Standard used to be the Glazier Stove Company," said South school teacher Gina Klink.

All five third grade classrooms have taken outings to draw on the the above listed monuments. Last Thursday, Mrs. Kink's, Mrs. Doolittle's and Mrs. Hodgson's classes left the classrooms to see what they were studying first hand.

The third graders continued with their studies of Chelsea's history by visiting Oak Grove Cemetery on Monday. Each student had the opportunity to find the oldest grave and learn who made up the earliest families when Chelsea was founded in 1834.

TARA PLATT received the Speech Department award from teacher Bill Coelius at the Class Night Awards Ceremony held last Friday night.

SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS Edward Richardson addressed the commencement crowd Sunday afternoon as school board members and distinguished guests took on.

SOUTH SCHOOL THIRD GRADERS Nathan Skidmore and Andrew Dally combined the old with the new as they drew the old Glazier Stove Co.

Summer Reading Program at Library Starts Friday, June 16

The 1995 Summer Reading/Listening Program for children from the ages of toddler through sixth grade will begin Friday, June 16 at 10:30 a.m. and will end on Friday, July 28.

Registration for summer reading will be open throughout the program, but will begin on Friday the 16th of June when the circus comes to town with pony rides, face painting, popcorn and lemonade "under the big top" on the library lawn. * Colors the Clown, a local favorite, will be at the library on Thursday, July 6, 6:30 p.m. to talk about clowning professionally. She plans to apply her make-up right before our very eyes and let us in on a few of her tricks! There is not a fee, but registration for this event is required. Registration sheets will be available at the library.

* Tara Platt, a Chelsea High school senior and storyteller, will present "Baba Yaga" a Russian folktale in a combined story hour for all ages on Tuesday, July 25, at 11 a.m. There is not a fee and registration is not required.

Accident Plagues Problem Intersection

Three local residents were injured in an accident occurring at Pierce Rd. and Cavanaugh Lake Rd. on June 8 at approximately 8 p.m.

Numerous accidents have plagued this intersection, the most recent happening last year.

The accident occurred when the first vehicle, driven by a Chelsea resident, turned in front of a second vehicle, driven by a Grass Lake resident.

The two occupants in the first vehicle were taken to the University of Michigan Hospital and the Grass Lake resident was taken to Chelsea Community Hospital. The extent of their injuries was not known at press time.

The driver of the first vehicle said a defect in the steering column caused the accident. It hasn't been determined if a defect in the steering column was responsible for the accident, which was investigated by the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department.

Readers Theatre Group Presented With Innovative Program of Year Award

The Member Services Committee of the Michigan Association of Homes and Services for the Aging (MAHSA) selected Chelsea Retirement Community's Readers Theatre group to receive an honorary plaque in the Innovative Program of the Year category for retirement communities.

Berniece Frederick accepted the award on behalf of the Readers Theatre during the MAHSA annual convention luncheon held at the Spoutter Battle Creek Hotel on May 3.

The Readers Theatre was one of two Innovative Program award winners chosen to be recognized by the MAHSA.

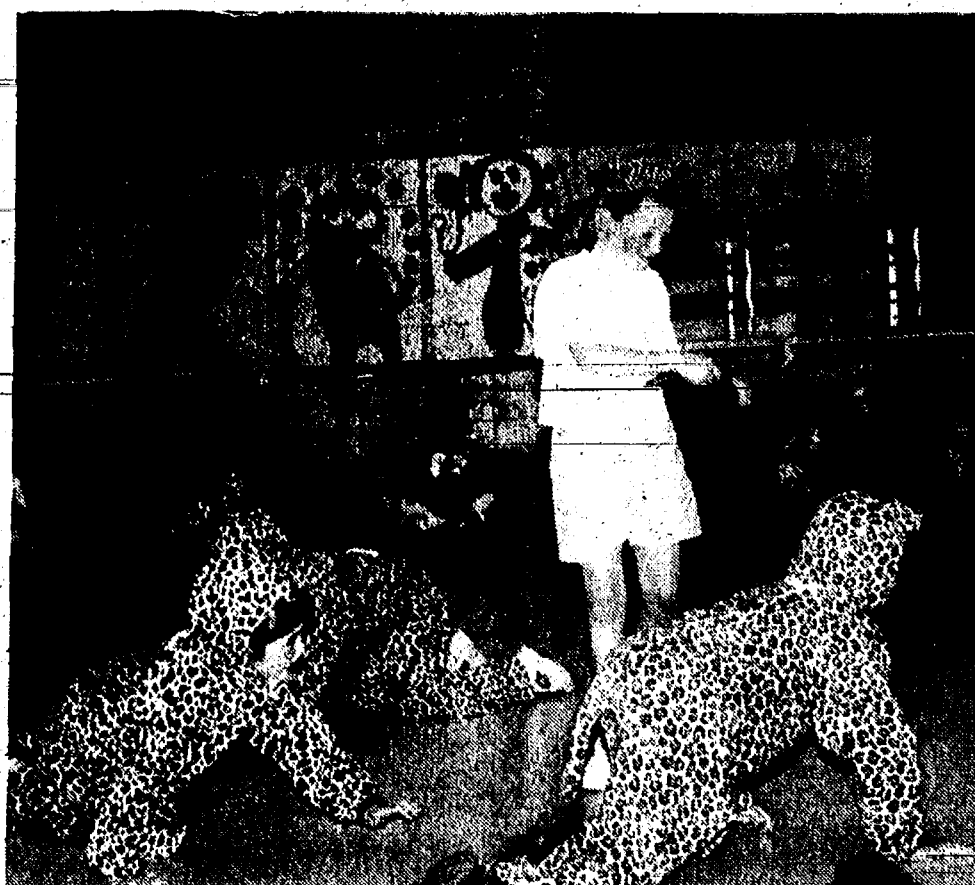

"We received many nominations from across the state for the Innovative Program Award," stated Robert Johns, Member Services Committee, of the MAHSA. "We are gratified that so many administrators were eager to make known the excellent work of so many generous volunteers."

"The kind of dedication exemplified in the services provided by the Readers Theatre to residents in your facility is exemplary and worthy of recognition."

The Readers Theatre began as a story listeners' group in 1992. As resident interest and attendance increased, the group began reading scripts and the performers became actors.

Several costumed and performed scripts have been presented by the Readers Theatre group since 1993, most recently "Cleopatra." The group primarily performs within the Chelsea Retirement Community center.

The Readers Theatre is interested in putting on performances for local organizations and groups. For more information, call 475-8633.

Melissa Schultz Awarded Quality Stores Scholarship

Melissa Schultz, a 1995 graduate of Chelsea-High school, has been selected this year as a recipient of a Quality Stores Scholarship Award. Melissa, the daughter of Larry Schultz of Chelsea, will be attending the University of Michigan this fall to pursue studies in the field of engineering.

Quality Stores, Inc., through the Quality Stores Scholarship Fund of the Muskegon County Community Foundation, has awarded a total of $13,500 in scholarship aid for the 1995-96 academic year to Quality Stores employees and their dependents. This is in addition to the renewal of over $8,000 in past awards.

Quality Stores is a farm and fleet supply corporation, serving farmers, the community and retail dealers.

Established by Martha and George Hilt, co-founder of Quality Stores, the Scholarship Fund provides educational assistance to Quality Stores team members and their dependents who are pursuing higher education.

This new program complements Quality's Employee Tuition Reimbursement Program, which also provides educational assistance to employees and their dependents.

1995 marks the Scholarship Program's second year of grantmaking. Twenty-nine recipients were selected this year by the Quality Store Scholarship Advisory Committee and received grants on the basis of academic achievement and financial need.

Hit & Runs Investigated

Two hit & run accidents were investigated by Chelsea police in separate incidences last week.

On May 30, a Jackson woman said she had parked her 1994 Chrysler and went to lunch at the Wolverine Bar. Upon returning, she noticed that the left front fender and hood of the vehicle were damaged.

Also the vehicle was pushed two feet by a suspected larger vehicle, indicate police reports. There were no suspects or witnesses.

The second hit & run accident that was investigated happened on May 24, indicate reports. A man said he had parked his car in the Pamida customer parking lot the week before and didn't notice any damage until washing the vehicle on June 2.

Upon closer inspection, he noticed a small blemish on the front bumper that may have been caused when another vehicle backed into his car's bumper, reports indicate.

Eat Your Vegetables They're Good for You

By Debbie Barrow
Extension Home Economist

Your mom was right! Vegetables are good for you. Many are sources of vitamins A and C, which are valued for their health benefits.

We need three to five servings of vegetables each day, depending on your life stage. Sedentary women and older adults need three servings; teen-age boys and active men, and women need five servings. Most of us don't get enough.

Vegetables are available at the grocery store fresh, frozen or canned. But if you're a gardener, why not grow your own this summer?

When you're studying the seed catalogs, keep in mind your family's preferences, but also consider that some vegetables are richer in vitamins than others.

The best sources of vitamin C per calorie include Brussels sprouts, cauliflower, green peppers and cabbage. For vitamin A, choose pumpkins, sweet potatoes, carrots, spinach, butternut squash, turnip greens, broccoli, romaine lettuce. Bok choy and other leafy greens are nutritious sources of both vitamins.

Once you've chosen the best vegetables, be sure to give them the thought to the quantities. It's easy to get over-enthusiastic when planting and later find yourself with too much garden to weed and water, and usually more produce than you can use.

Another consideration in planning your garden is whether you plan to preserve your vegetables. Some vegetables, such as tomatoes, need to be eaten fresh. Others, such as potatoes and squash, can be stored in a root cellar or a cool area for several months. Most vegetables, however, need to be served in some way for best storage to prevent spoilage caused by enzymes and microorganisms.

If you're planting with preservation in mind, ask yourself the following questions:

—Which preservation method will I use? Canning, freezing or drying?

—Do I have the time and space to can, freeze or dry?

—Do I have the equipment to can, freeze or dry?

If you do decide to grow vegetables to preserve, Michigan State University Extension has just what you need to help you with the canning process. Call or stop by the Extension office, 4133 W. 13th St., P.O. Box 8645, Ann Arbor, MI 48106. Phone: 313-971-0000.

Your Money Matters

by Michael Kelly

★ College Students Homeward Bound for the Summer

As June rolls around this year, do you have a child in college who will be returning home for the summer? Summer months for college students are invaluable. Summer offers short-term opportunities to experience different jobs. Money earned from those jobs can be what gets your child through the next year.

Some jobs may pay very little, but provide invaluable experiences. These summer months can also be an invaluable time for parents to focus on financial lessons.

It may seem strange to talk to your child about finances at this age. But it is a very critical time in their lives. Many college students have credit cards and are establishing poor financial habits.

Even if your child is majoring in economics, don't assume their classes deal with personal finances or that they are practicing what they learn.

Now is the time to ask your child about how they spend their money and what lessons they've learned living on their own. If you have provided for all their expenses from tuition to pizza money, they may not have felt the pinch.

But do find out how they spend the money you give them. You may want to consider cutting back and letting them cover more of the expenses themselves. Often those students that have to pay much or all of their own expenses, value their college experience even more.

College students have a very easy time obtaining credit cards with $500 - $1,000 limits. That's a lot of credit when they are working only summer jobs or part-time jobs during the year. Often when students accumulate high debt on credit cards, parents will pay them off because they don't want their child's credit rating ruined. But how long are you going to bail them out of financial troubles? Are you establishing a pattern for later?

You need to explain to them how to use their credit card wisely. College students do not need more than one major credit card and it should be used only for emergencies. It's best if they pay off the credit card every month. Make sure they understand the interest rate and when the interest starts accumulating. Help them to learn about the terms and politics of their card, if they don't already know them. Explain to them what a credit report is and how their credit rating is affected by their spending habits now.

Also, help your child to look ahead to the future. Explain how to make a budget and establish an emergency fund. If they can graduate with no credit card debt and with some money in a savings account, they're off to a good start. Chances are good your child will return home after graduation and stay for awhile. That transition time in life can be financially and emotionally difficult for them. Discuss with them before graduation what you will expect from them after graduation. For example, will you expect them to pay rent next summer?

It is surprising and even kind of scary to see children turn into young adults. When they leave home for a year's time, the change seems more drastic because parents haven't had the chance to experience the change gradually. Don't be fooled by what you see though. An independent, intelligent college student doesn't necessarily have the self-discipline it takes to have control over their finances. You may not be able to teach them about Aristotle or the philosophy of Kant, but you can share with them some real life practical experiences of your own.

Send your financial questions to: "Your Money Matters," Michigan Credit Union League, P.O. Box 5210, Detroit 48235.

Local Student Participates in Operation Bentley

In late May, Chelsea High school junior Sara Mead participated in Operation Bentley, a seven-day program of intensive study of government held annually at Albion College.

Mead, along with 98 other high school juniors, examined the political process of local and state government through simulation, guest lectures from current public officials, classroom instruction, and a full day visit to the State Capitol.

During the government simulations, students assumed the roles of city officials and civic activists, role-playing resolution of current issues facing city government. A second simulation had students becoming senators and representatives in State Congress, battling out bills with interest groups on such topics as drunk driving and the budget.

Bentley participants also visited the State Capitol, talked to members of the executive and legislative branches and had the opportunity to visit with their own Congresspersons.

Mead is the daughter of Ronald and Marilyn Mead of Chelsea.

Sherri Plank Named 'Educator of the Year'

Sherri Plank, a third grade teacher at North Elementary school, has been named the Chelsea Rotary Club's first "Outstanding Educator of the Year." Mrs. Plank was born in Vincennes, Ind., and started teaching in the Chelsea schools in 1967. She currently works in a team of four elementary teachers who are delivering innovative education to their students.

This is the first year that the Chelsea Rotary Club has sponsored an "Outstanding Educator of the Year" award, says Susan Carter, a Chelsea High school counselor and chair of the Rotary Club's Vocational Services committee that organized the award. "Education has always been a prime focus for Rotary International. We wanted to recognize an educator each year who had made significant contributions to the Chelsea schools. Sherri is known throughout the school system for motivating children while building their self-esteem, and for being accessible to parents."

The community was invited to nominate candidates for the "Outstanding Educator" via forms that were distributed throughout the village. The job of evaluating the nominees fell to Marcia Kipfmiller and Deb Bauer, chair and assistant chair of the "Outstanding Educator" search. "We received over 275 nominations," said Deb, "and Marcia and I evaluated each one for teachers who had provided quality education to the community." The selection was very difficult, and was based on many criteria. "Sherri received several nominations," said Marcia, "but one of the best was from a woman who had been a student of Sherri's and now had children at North school."

The Chelsea Rotary Club also sponsors the STRIVE program at Chelsea High school. STRIVE targets underachievers and helps them to raise their grades and their self-esteem.

Girl Scouts Plan Bake Sale at Farmer's Market

Girl Scout Troop 145 will be having a Bake Sale at the Farmer's Market on Saturday, June 17. The troop is working on earning funds for a trip which is being planned for later this year. The girls are planning a variety of home-made goodies including pies, cakes, cookies, and breads.

The Farmer's Market operates each Saturday from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. Vendors are located in the Municipal Parking Lot between Park and Middle Sts.

In addition to baked goods, the market features fresh, seasonal produce, eggs, honey, wooden furniture, garden plants, and crafts.

Other organizations who wish to have a Bake Sale at the Farmer's Market should call Sue Rodgers at 475-4685 or Sandy Barkman at 475-1003. New vendors are always welcome.

Market rules require that produce is grown by the vendor and crafts are made by the vendor.

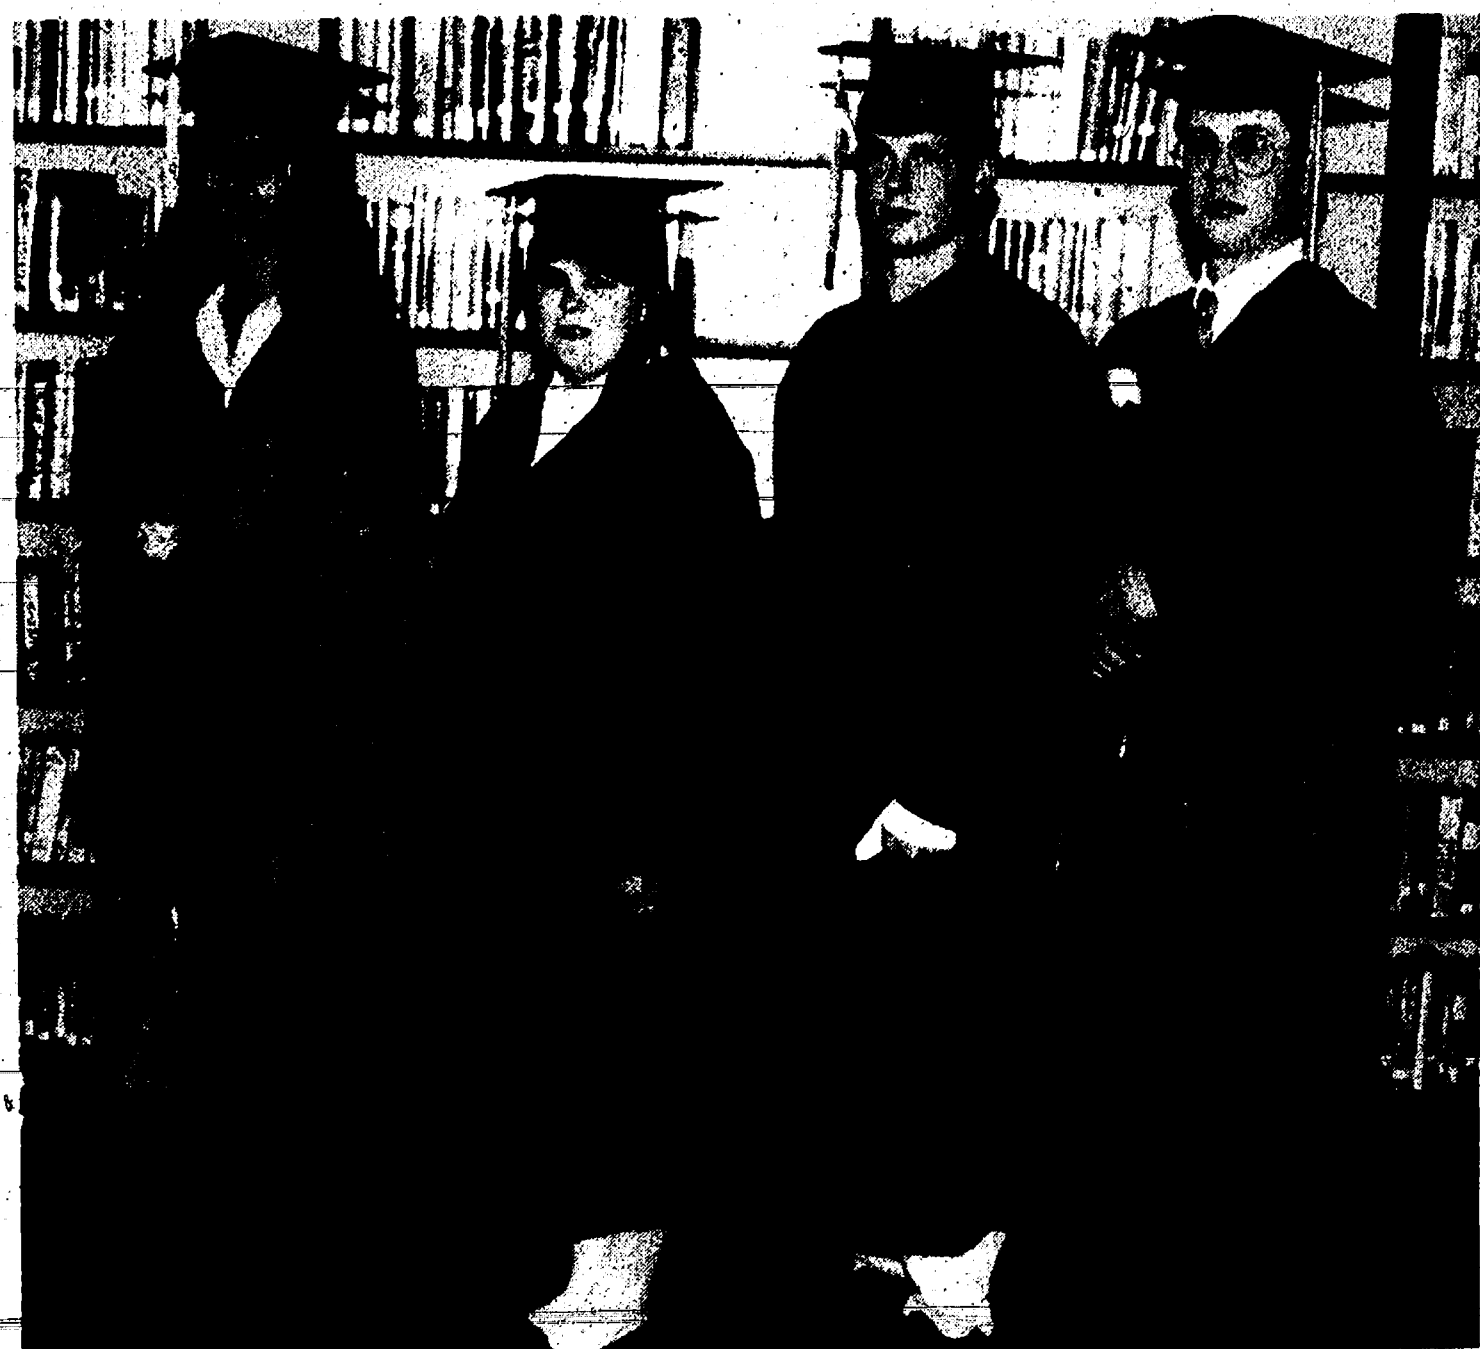

Bank of Lockers Damaged in Crash

A bank of lockers in the middle of the boys locker room at Chelsea High school were damaged by falling over onto the floor on June 9. The fallen lockers were discovered at the end of the second hour gym class at approximately 10:15 a.m.

A large dent was discovered in the center top of the lockers, suspected by a ceiling support beam. The lockers first crashed into the beam before landing on the floor, according to police reports. Numerous lockers were bent or will not close as a result of the fall.

The side of the locker that crashed to the floor is beyond repair, reports indicate. The damage is estimated at $1,000.

The case remains open pending further investigation.
