22nd Annual Chelsea Sidewalk Sales Expands To Include All Merchants

■ South-side and downtown merchants will both offer entertainment and sales for shoppers.

Chelsea merchants are gearing up for an influx of people this week-end and area residents are marking their calendars because the 22nd annual Chelsea Sidewalk Festival is here.

Organized this year as a joint effort between the Downtown Merchants Association, Village Plaza and Chelsea Shopping Center, the event is sure to bring business to area merchants and bargain sales, food and entertainment for the people who attend.

The festival is slated Friday and Saturday. Both days will begin at 8 a.m. Over 45 craft and information booths will line Park St., Main St. and areas of the downtown. Merchants are also planning many sales.

Friday's downtown entertainment will begin with a local musician followed by two local singers. Jeremy Sterling of Chelsea will provide musical entertainment at 11 a.m. with fellow Chelsea High school graduates Laura Hodgson and Heather Greenleaf going on at 1 p.m. and 2 p.m., respectively. Entertainment will be provided on E. Middle St. near the Chelsea Police station. Following the local acts on Friday, Three Men & a Tenor will perform at 3 p.m. with Zemo the Clown hitting the stage at 5:30 p.m. and the jazz group Pocket Band, who performed at Bounty for the County last year, as the final act at 7 p.m.

Entertainment set on the south side of town includes the local group Chelsea Kitchen Band beginning at 10 a.m. Face painting, an antique market and McDonald's Restaurant booth with orange drink and McDonald's characters will also be housed at Village Plaza throughout the day. Jerry Martell of Chelsea will provide musical entertainment at 3:30 p.m. outside Schumm's restaurant and line dancing sponsored by Wolverine Food and Spirits will take place outside Chelsea State Bank from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Radio station WQOB will broadcast live Friday from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. and Chelsea Fire Department will have a display outside the mall.

Just outside of town, local musician Betsy Beckerman and the Hammered Dulcimers will perform. Black Creek, a bluegrass band from Jackson, will play outside of Chelsea State Bank from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Other features on Saturday include an open house at the Whistlestop Bed & Breakfast from noon to 3 p.m., tours of South House bed and breakfast from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m., Farmer's Market in the Municipal Parking Lot from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. and a classic car show at the fairgrounds all day.

Both days will see a special rummage sale to benefit United Methodist Women, sidecar rides at Chelsea Motorcycle, a sightmobile on W. Middle St., the annual book sale at McKune Memorial Library, the Chelsea Historical Society Craft/Bake Sale and classic cartoons shown by the Chelsea Film Society at the UAW Hall.

A special raffle to support local organizations is also slated. Merchant giveaways will abound with the grand prize being four tickets to Cedar Point. Other prizes will be awarded by area merchants from names drawn. People can register now in Chelsea stores.

New this year will be a shuttle provided by CATS. Rides will be provided for festival-goers from the south side of town to the center.

Save Your Tax Dollars By Calling Ahead

All persons living in the area served by the Chelsea Fire Department can help save their tax dollars by following a few simple rules.

When anyone wishes to burn a brush pile, or any outdoor burn, the Chelsea Fire Department dispatcher should be notified before the burn.

By your calling and letting the fire department know and a time is established, the fire department can be spared the unnecessary response to a fire call. The average price of a grass or brush fire works out to about $400.

Chelsea Fire Chief Dan Ellenwood suggests that you call 475-1338 and save those tax dollars.

Chelsea Fire Department service area includes all of Sylvan township, Lyndon township to Boyce Rd., Freedom township to Waters Rd. on the south and to Parker Rd. on the east. Sharon township is served south of M-52 to Grass Lake Rd. west to Sharon Hollow Rd. Dexter township area includes north on Hadley Rd. to the county line and east on North Territorial Rd. to Madden Rd.

Kingscott Selected To Design New Schools

■ Chelsea native to design new elementary school and renovation elements to North and South schools.

Chelsea School District's Board of Education selected Kingscott & Associates of Kalamazoo to head the new school construction and renovation project.

The board voted July 10 to enter into contract negotiations with the firm for the estimated $2 million deal. Edward Richardson, superintendent of Chelsea Schools, said the board chose Kingscott over Fanning/Howe Associates, based in Williamston, because of Kingscott's demonstrated technical expertise and design approach.

"The board did site surveys (of facilities) both firms have designed and just liked (Kingscott's) design and the people who will be presenting and leading the interview teams with our staff," Richardson said Monday.

Members of the school board toured schools designed by Kingscott in Dexter, Grand Rapids, Holt and Holland; and schools by Fanning/Howe in the Detroit area.

"Personally, I thought they had a certain flare for decorating in schools," said school board vice-president Conrad Knutsen. "I just saw them as interacting with staff, administration and people in Chelsea better. And, they're very excited to build a high school on this side of the state."

Fellow board trustee Janet Roberts said it was two things that made Kingscott stand out for her over Fanning/Howe. It was the firm's approach to work with community and school staff to come up with a design that suits the needs of students and Kingscott's use of inexpensive means to add color. "Those kinds of little details that add character as opposed to others we've seen," she explained, noting Kingscott architects use paint, fabric and different colored tile to bring a "warm" and "welcoming" feeling in schools.

"So, our facility will look more grand than it actually cost," she said. Roberts particularly liked architect Sara Haselschwardt's use of skylights in Dexter's Mill Creek Middle school, slated to open this fall. She said the skylights are a creative way to incorporate natural light.

Richardson said Kingscott will be doing a site analysis by examining soil content, electrical service, roads and other issues related to construction as preliminary work. A series of meetings will be scheduled over the next 10 months with planning teams comprised of parents, students and school staff.

New school sites are located across from the high school on the corner of Freer and Trinkle roads and adjacent to the high school between the school and the bus garage on Old US-12 and Freer Rd. Richardson said the district owns a 50-acre site on Freer Rd. to be used for the new high school and a 30-acre site on Old US-12 for the new elementary school. The new elementary school is targeted to open by the fall of 1997 with renovations of North and South schools to be completed at the same time. The new high school is slated for completion in the fall of 1998 with the present high school converted to a community center a short time after.

Sara Haselschwardt, a Chelsea High school graduate and associate in the firm, will be the main designer for the new elementary school and renovation project set for North and South schools. She also designed Dexter's Mill Creek Middle school. Susan Einspahr, a partner at Kingscott with 18 years project management, programming and design experience, will serve as project leader for the first team. Earl Frazier, chief executive officer at Kingscott, will serve as the project leader for the second team. His responsibilities will include design of the new high school, renovations to Beach Middle school and reconstruction of the high school into a community complex and central administration building.

Knutsen is pleased a Chelsea native will be involved in designing the new elementary school. "I believe she has an extra commitment someone else may not have. I came away very comfortable and kind of excited that someone from Chelsea has a chance to come back and show Chelsea what she can do. She has the credentials, and they're good credentials," he said.

Roberts feels likewise. "I think that is a plus for our district. I think we'll get an extra measure of care and concern," she said.

Chelsea School Board

Next on the board's agenda is presentations by three construction managers. O'Neal of Ann Arbor and Granger and Christman, construction companies based in Lansing, will be interviewed by the school board Thursday night at 7:30 p.m.

"I think this is the thing to do for our kids and something the community can be proud of," Roberts said of the project school district residents will pay $45 million for. "I am very excited to see the project get off the ground."

A HOUSE FIRE broke out on Glazier Rd. early Sunday morning. It took 16 Chelsea firefighters and four of Dexter's to put out over four hours. The home was a total loss and the blaze damaged windows and a door to one of the neighboring homes. Chelsea Fire Chief Dan Ellenwood said the fire is under investigation. No one was living at the residence at the time.

House Fire Reported on Glazier Rd.

Chelsea Fire Department was called to a house fire in Sylvan township's Glazier Rd. area during the early morning hours of July 23.

Chelsea Fire Chief Dan Ellenwood reports the house was a total loss. Firefighters from Chelsea and Dexter responded at 1:52 a.m. when a neighbor called to report the blaze. "When we got there," Ellenwood said, "flames were coming out the frame of the house."

The house of the next door neighbor who initially called for help also suffered damage. The fire caused the windows between both homes to break and damaged a newly installed door. Ellenwood estimated the next-door neighbor's damage at $3,000.

Firefighters were at the house fire for over four hours. A total of 16 Chelsea firefighters and four of Dexter's responded.

No one was living at the residence at the time of the fire. Fire officials are investigating.

Chelsea Rotary Club Inducts New Officers

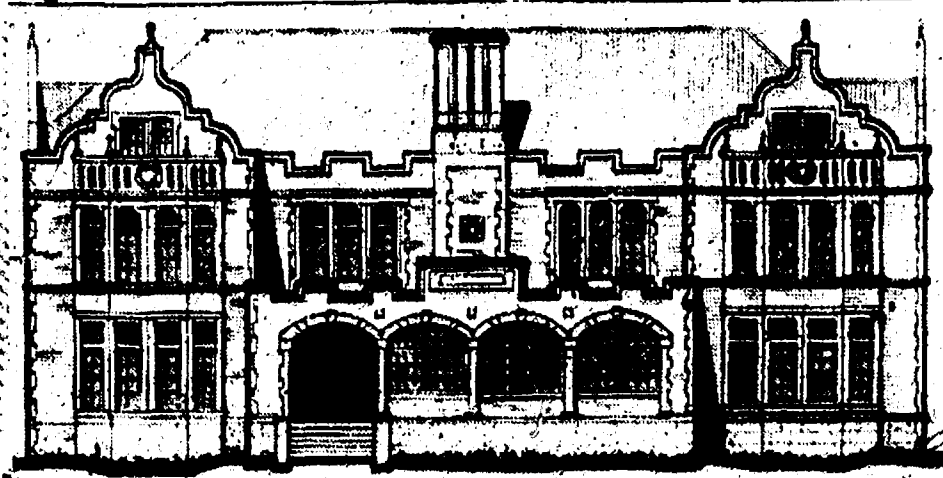

Chelsea Rotary Club recently inducted its new officers for the 1995/96 year.

Incoming president is the Rev. Mearl Bradley, pastor of the Chelsea Free Methodist church on Wacker Rd. Other officers include the Rev. Gordon Schleicher, president-elect; Jim Birchler, secretary; Deb Bauer, treasurer and Alex Weddon, sergeant-at-arms.

"I'm very pleased to have the opportunity to direct Chelsea Rotary this year," said the Rev. Bradley.

"Rotary's motto is 'Service Above Self,' and that fits in very well with my service to our church. Chelsea Rotary is involved in many service projects in Chelsea, such as awarding scholarships to Chelsea students, the STRIVE program that targets underachieving students, and the Christmas in April project that helps needy homeowners with home repairs."

The Chelsea Rotary Club will be operating its ice cream wagon at the Chelsea Fair, Aug. 23-26.

A full slate of events is planned for the annual Chelsea Sidewalk Festival this Friday and Saturday downtown. Most Chelsea merchants plan to participate and will have all kinds of name-brand merchandise on sale on the sidewalk and in the stores.

A housing development called "Oscar's Acres" has been proposed for a parcel east of Bridgetown Apartments off Taylor St. Village attorney Peter Flintoft has proposed the development of seven single-family homes and 12 condominiums for a portion of the Schneider estate. The front portion of the parcel, zoned for office use, has never been developed although site plans have been approved.

Village landfill has begun accepting newspaper for recycling. Village manager Jack Myers made the decision to begin the program after the Chelsea Boy Scouts dropped their program on short notice. Initially it was thought the village might provide an interim service until something else could be worked out. However, now Myers says the program is here to stay.

Village of Chelsea has adopted a tough littering ordinance designed in part to keep people from leaving materials outside the recycling bins. Penalties for this misdemeanor include a fine of up to $500 or imprisonment up to 30 days for the first offense and 90 days for each subsequent violation.

★ More To Do on Workers' Compensation Reform

By George C. Leef

Making Michigan more competitive means, among other things, restraining its workers' compensation costs—a battle the state is clearly winning.

Since 1991, the average settlement in Michigan has fallen nearly eight percent and now stands below the national average. Premium costs to employers are declining and, under Governor John Engler, even the size of the bureaucracy that oversees the state's role in the marketplace has shrunk by 40 percent. And last year, in the largest sale of an asset by any state in history, Michigan sold its Accident Fund and removed itself from the business of providing workers' compensation insurance altogether. More than 200 private firms do that in a highly competitive marketplace.

Michigan's Workers' Disability Compensation Act is designed to guarantee workers who are injured on the job, either temporarily or permanently, a source of income to replace what they cannot earn. It also provides appropriate medical treatment and, if needed, vocational rehabilitation so that the injured worker can return to gainful employment as soon as possible. These are, without question, worthwhile objectives. The recent cost-cutting reforms improved matters greatly, but further improvement is both possible and desirable.

One measure for judging how well a workers' compensation system works is how quickly injured workers are returned to employment. Does it create incentives for people to remain out of the workforce longer than necessary?

Another measure is how well the system succeeds in preventing those who are not truly injured from claiming that they are and thereby collecting benefits. If people find that it is easy to collect just for alleging that they are unable to work, some will do so. By either of these measures, Michigan's system can still be made more efficient.

Getting the injured back to work. Michigan's biggest employer is General Motors. GM also has operations in 25 other states. Forty-four percent of GM's U.S. workforce is in Michigan and 40 percent of the firm's lost-time injuries occur here. However, 80 percent of GM's long-term workers' compensation cases—those where disability lasts for 18 months or more—occur here. Ford and Chrysler have had similar experiences. In Michigan, an injured worker is roughly twice as likely to end up on long-term disability as are injured workers in the rest of the country. Of all the people receiving workers' compensation benefits in Michigan (approximately 50,000), 55 percent sustained their injuries in 1991 or before. Why do we perform so poorly in getting people back into the workforce?

The main reason is found in our definition of disability. A recently-injured worker should be given a reasonable length of time to recover and return to his former job; he should not immediately be expected to take a job that differs greatly from that which he has been doing. Once he has recovered as far as he is going to, he should be expected to take the best job consistent with his physical condition. But the Michigan courts have taken the view that if a worker is disabled from doing his former job, he is then "disabled" under the terms of the statute and eligible to collect benefits even though there are many other jobs that he could do.

Our law also permits recovered workers to refuse job offers and to continue collecting benefits if they have decided to relocate. Suppose, for example, that an auto worker in Flint is injured. After a year, he has recovered sufficiently that he is offered his old job back. He decides instead to move to Traverse City, where there are no auto plants. Amazingly, the law says that he is still eligible to receive benefits. Obviously, the law needs improvement.

Screening out dubious cases. Michigan courts have ruled that a worker can be disabled without having suffered any physical injury. A person can be regarded as disabled if he is or says he is mentally unable to work. In a recent decision, the Michigan Supreme Court ruled that a work-related incident involving normal, non-harassing behavior can lead to mental disability, even if the incident would not have such an impact on an emotionally normal person.

If an individual possesses a fragile personality so that the slightest perceived or misperceived event—a reprimand from a superior, for example—triggers what he argues is a disabling emotional reaction, his claim is compensable—an open invitation to abuse. Clearly, the law should place a higher standard of proof on claimants in such cases.

Michigan has had great success in improving workers' compensation, but more progress is needed in getting the injured back to work and screening out dubious claims

Manchester Teen Offered Eastern Housing Scholarship

Andrea Clark of Manchester was among 261 incoming freshmen at Eastern Michigan University to be offered a Regents Housing Scholarship.

The Regents Housing Scholarships, valued at $8,400 each, provide $2,100 per year for four years. They are awarded to students who were among the high scorers from EMU's annual $2.8 million Presidential Scholarship Competition and to academically superior high school students, based on their American College Test/Scholastic Aptitude scores and high school grade point averages.

To maintain the scholarships, students must complete 15 credit hours each semester and have at least a 3.5 grade point average. They also must live in EMU residence halls.

SEAN DeSARBO, son of Wayne and Suzanne DeSarbo, graduated from Eastern Michigan University at the 1995 Spring Graduation with a dual major in Communications and Elementary Education. Sean is a 1991 graduate of Chelsea High school.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Never mind "direct" Government by e-mail, Republican Ed Boonville told the fellows at the country store Saturday night he'd settle for the old fashion kind by cooperation. Ed said turf battles in Washington have got so bad that everybody has lost sight of his objective and doubled his effort. President Clinton and Congress hit it off like cats and dogs when both were of the same party. Ed said, and now they go at it like Democrats and Republicans.

For once, Democrat Clem Webster agreed that the separation of powers is getting more so, and it's being left to the Supreme Court to set the country's domestic policy. At least when the executive and legislative was the same party they could agree to disagree, Clem said, now they can't agree on anything but that everything wrong is the other's fault.

One problem, Zeke Grubb allowed, is that dog days are in full flower when ordinary folks go crazy, so there's no telling at all about politicians, especial them running for President. If they're not touring the country peddling books and claiming they're not running, they're sulking because they say they are and nobody cares. It was a relief recent, Zeke said, to read where a woman is spending three weeks in an eagle's nest in the top of a tree in a Florida swamp. This is a new turn on flagpole setting, Zeke said, which use to be a regular feature of the mid-summer news doldrums.

Bug Hookum turned the talk to a clipping that reported on a new study of dreams, and he said he was surprised that dreaming is called "a highly organized mental activity." Doctors say our brains keep on working when we sleep, but the orders it sends out don't reach our muscles. This is why we think we're doing something when we're not. This could be one way to explain what's going on in Washington. Bug went on, except that the dream study doesn't go into sleep walking.

Clem noted that a heap of folks probably are better organized asleep than awake. And when it comes to sending signals to a sleeping body, Clem said dreaming is Government in action. We got people in all levels of Government dreaming up projects that never see any action.

Furthermore, Clem went on from some of his readings lately that's a good thing. He said he was thinking of a piece he saw recent about public libraries. It said there's a moye across the country to make libraries pay some of their way. This is another way of saying they want to take some public out of public libraries, and this would be a nightmare to be avoided at all costs.

The thinking goes, Clem reported, that state and local Governments are hard pushed to pay for services, and they see libraries as all outgo and no income. They say some fees can be justified because so much of what libraries offer is more entertainment than education. Folks can check out videos, and children can play games on library computers.

The fellows were full agreed that what this crazy dog days idee needs is nipping in the bud. We got to quit lowering rivers and start raising bridges, was Bug's words. Take out the entertainment and build up the education in our schools and libraries.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

Lima Township Planners Reject Merkel Petition For Mobile Home Zoning

On Tuesday, July 18, Martin Merkel came back to the Lima Township Planning Commission asking for Mobile Home Park Zoning for a 157-acre site northeast of the Village limits.

The property which is east and south of the wastewater treatment plant was the subject of much opposition last year when Merkel tried to get the parcel annexed to the Village for a mobile home park.

The issue was never voted on by the Village Planning Commission and Merkel finally withdrew his petition and is now seeking to get his zoning through Lima township.

At two successive meetings, however, Lima township has rejected his application on technical grounds. Merkel has been unable to provide an accurate legal description of the property and has been slow to disclose fully the ownership interests in the parcel.

Phil Jenkins and Steve Tracy, Ann Arbor mobile home park developers, are reported to have paid one dollar to Martin Merkel's sister for an option to buy the parcel once the zoning is granted. But questions were raised in a review memorandum to the Commission by Marvin Carlson, vice-chairman, as to whether the option is still valid. In addition, Merkel has failed to submit a land use map required by Lima township when applying for a rezoning.

Rather than tabling the rezoning as they did at the previous meeting, the Planners voted to reject the petition and refund the application fee as recommended in Carlson's memo. This way, if Merkel returns with a petition that is finally complete, then the Commission will have additional time to evaluate the proposal on its merits.

The Lima Zoning Ordinance requires the Planning Commission to vote on a petition within 125 days of its submission. With the rejection vote the clock will be reset and the Planners will have the full 125 days back again, rather than the more limited time that resulted from delays caused by the incomplete applications turned in by Merkel.

Meanwhile, in a directly related matter, the village of Chelsea scheduled a hearing for Tuesday, July 25 to discuss whether to annex the property even without Merkel's approval. In a letter dated July 12, 1995 and addressed to Village Council, Peter Flintoft, the Village's attorney, has argued that it is in the best interests of Chelsea to incorporate most of the land into the Village limits.

Flintoft maintains that is "imperative" to act now to incorporate and set the Zoning on the parcel to make sure the Village is not forced sometime in the future to provide water and sewer services without having control over the land use.

In his letter the village attorney states that "if the boundary change is granted before the present Lima township rezoning proposal is finally decided, development and zoning will be processed under the Village's ordinances."

Village Council is expected to place the boundary change question on the agenda for action at its first meeting in August. If the Village votes to annex the land and gets approval from the Washtenaw County Board of Commissioners, the Lima township rezoning petition submitted by Merkel will be irrelevant.

Purple Rose Extends Weekend Comedy Run

Due to the popular demand for tickets, the Purple Rose Theatre Company will add three additional weeks of performances of its summer production, Weekend Comedy by Jeanne and Sam Bobrick. Weekend Comedy, which began previews on June 8, was scheduled to originally close on July 30. Performances for the three-week extension will be Wednesdays through Saturdays at 8 p.m. with Sunday shows at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. until Sunday, Aug. 20. All performances are at the Purple Rose Theatre Company's Garage Theatre, 137 Park St., Chelsea.

Written by Jeanne and Sam Bobrick, Weekend Comedy takes a hilarious look at what happens when two different couples accidentally rent the same cabin for the same week-end. Frank and Peggy, a middle-aged married couple, are the first to arrive at the cabin, expecting a quiet week-end away from the headaches of suburban life. Their peaceful plans are turned upside down when Jill and Tony, a pair of free-wheeling lovers, show up on their doorstep. The foursome agrees to share the cabin and the ensuing three days are filled with unpredictable events. The four member cast of Weekend Comedy includes Peter Bellanca and Carolyn Younger as Frank and Peggy, with Eden Cooper Sage and John Lepard as Jill and Tony. Weekend Comedy is being directed by Phillip Locker. Set design is by Bartley H. Bauer and lighting design is by Reid G. Johnson. Costume design is by Edith Leavis Bookstein and sound design is by Joe Jenkins. Anthony Caselli will be stage manager for the summer engagement of Weekend Comedy.

The Purple Rose theatre Company production of Weekend Comedy is made possible by a generous gift from Jiffy-Mixes - Chelsea Milling Co., and is produced by special arrangement with Samuel French, Inc. Reservations may be obtained by calling the Purple Rose Theatre Company Box Office at (313) 465-7902. Ticket reservations are recommended due to the limited capacity. The PRTC Box Office is open Monday through Friday from 12 noon to 6 p.m. and on Saturdays and Sundays of performances beginning one hour prior to curtain.

Chelsea Police Make 2 Arrests

Chelsea Police arrested two people on outstanding warrants in separate incidents last week.

Thomas L. Osborne, 29, of Leslie was transferred in Chelsea Police custody July 20 by Jackson County Sheriff's Department after he was arrested on a warrant. The warrant was issued on Feb. 18, 1994 after Osborne was caught in Chelsea driving with a suspended driver's license.

Evelyn V. Husak, 24, of Chelsea was arrested on a felony warrant for forgery and uttering and publishing. She was taken into custody at her home in the 100 block of Wilkinson St. Police found her in the driveway talking with her mother. She was transported to Washtenaw County Jail by Michigan State Police at 9:57 a.m.

Suspicious Incident Reported at Hospital

Chelsea Police responded to a suspicious incident at Chelsea Community Hospital, 775 S. Main St., July 18.

Police were dispatched after a hospital security officer called to report a hospital employee saw three young males trying to open vehicles parked in the rear parking lot.

When hospital security responded initially, two of the boys fled the scene. The other was questioned and gave the names of his accomplices. A suspect pinned by the boy, however, later denied any involvement.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor

An Open Letter of Appreciation to Mr. Mills and the Chelsea School Board/Administration.

Thank you, Mr. Mills, Chelsea School Board and Administration, for the hundreds of students, parents, and tax-payers who have been betrayed by your closed-door dealings involving the mishandling of school funds and subsequent cover-up. It certainly has shown 'paternalism' at its best. How can we trust you again? And now with $45 million dollars?

Thank you, Mr. Mills for alluding to the tragic death of Mr. Piasecki solely as the reason for your early retirement. "... Financial discrepancies dating back seven years ..." is clearly the real reason and the only link that exists is that our community has yet experienced another tragedy and we continue to grieve.

Thank you, Mr. Mills, Chelsea School Board, and Administration for setting a fine example for all of us to follow. What role-models you have provided for our children in this community. Most of us have tried to teach our kids that fairness, openness, and integrity are valued. How do we explain your behavior?

I would like to apologize to Ms. Annesse for the false impressions of our community that have been generated by this shameful situation.

Clearly, image is not always reality, and the majority of Chelsea's people are open, honest, and willing to take responsibility for their actions.

A sincere thank you to The Ann Arbor News for disclosing the incongruencies; we would never have known.

Vicki H. Tyrrell.

Farmers To Evaluate Toughness of Big Three Pickup Trucks

A total of 12 Farm Bureau members from across the state were selected to be test drivers for the Michigan Truck Showdown July 19 at Michigan State University. The event was part of the Michigan Farm Bureau Summerfest '95.

The drivers evaluated a 1995 Chevrolet Silverado 3/4-ton, a Ford F-250 4x4 XLT and a 1996 Dodge Ram 2500 HD 4x4. Each truck was driven on a 2.5 mile on- and off-road course that includes a mud bog, cinder back road, dirt farm access road and paved road. Drivers first drove the course with the trucks unloaded. For the second trip through the course, the trucks were loaded with 1.5 ton payload. For the final trip, the loaded trucks hauled a 1,000 gallon trailer.

Each driver did a written evaluation of the trucks. The evaluation results were summarized and announced at the end of the day to the several thousand people attending the Summerfest '95 activities. Those activities included a barbecue, games, old fashioned barn dance and truck displays from the Big Three manufacturers.

1995 Housing Starts Remain Solid in May

Lansing—Michigan 1995, May Housing Project starts were up 12.5% from April.

"1995 is not keeping pace with 1994, but we really didn't expect it to," commented Bob Woodard, president of Michigan Association of Home Builders. "But 1995 is still a solid year with 1995 year-to-date project totals up 11.5% in comparison with 1993 year-to-date totals. In 1994 the second quarter was the strongest, the third quarter still has potential for 1995. "Fixed rate mortgages dropped again in May to 7.8%. At this time last year fixed rate mortgages were 8.5%."

The Michigan Association of Home Builders is comprised of more than 10,500 member companies, thus providing service to over 370,000 people in the home building/contracting industry. MAHB also represents 36 local home builder associations throughout the state.

★ "Ruffe" Waters Ahead?

During the past couple of years, much of the concern expressed about exotic invaders in the Great Lakes has centered on the zebra mussel. This concern has been based on the rapid spread of these mollusks now found in all the Great Lakes, and which have already spread to some of Michigan's inland waterways as well.

However, there may just be an even more sinister threat to the Great Lakes fishery today—a threat posed by the European river ruffe. The ruffe is a small, perch-size fish possessed of a notably voracious appetite for the eggs of other species. Unchecked, the ruffe could well wreak havoc on other Great Lakes' fish population in years ahead.

The ruffe's entry into the Great Lakes is suspected to have been via the ballast tanks of an ocean-going freighter discharged into Duluth Harbor at the western end of Lake Superior. It's Duluth Harbor where the ruffe's population is still centered.

The ruffe was first discovered in the Great Lakes just a few short years ago, but it now is the dominant species found in the busy Duluth port. It already comprises an estimated 60 percent of the harbor's fish biomass. Ominously, the ruffe population has begun moving eastward along the lake's northern and southern shores. Great Lakes anglers take heed!

The European ruffe is seemingly susceptible to the same chemicals used to kill sea lamprey. Early indications are that with luck this little invader may be controlled via the use of these chemicals.

However, there are no promises. Look for the battle against the European river ruffe to make Great Lakes headlines in the next few years.

Sadly, for both Great Lakes recreationists and managers, the ruffe and the zebra mussel aren't the only invaders to worry about. Sea lamprey, round and tube-nosed gobies, exotic clams, spiny water fleas, as well as some 50 other unwelcome aquatic "tourists" all pose problems for our lakes.

Farm Museum Parlor Arranged for Anticipated Funeral

During the month of August, the parlor of the Waterloo Farm Museum will be arranged as it may have been in the later half of the 1800s in anticipation of a funeral.

Lives, regardless of place and time, are framed by custom. Custom provides comfort and support, both spiritual and social, in times of celebration and mourning.

Burial customs varied in the past, as now, depending on nationality, social standing, religion, city or rural location, personal preference of the deceased, family tradition and weather conditions.

The Waterloo Area Historical Society, in keeping with its tradition of offering educational experiences, hopes this exhibit will provide an opportunity for families to reflect on customs associated with death, their purpose, and the tradition of affirming the meaning of life through the passing of each generation.

The museum is located at 9998 Waterloo-Munith Rd., Waterloo township, Jackson county, three miles northwest of the Village of Waterloo. The hours are 1 p.m. to 4 p.m., Tuesday through Sunday, with the last tour beginning no later than 3:30 p.m. Admission: adults, $2.50; seniors, $2; children ages five to 11, 75 cents; members, free. Why do so many babies get their start in life at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor? Maybe it's the choice of birthing options we give to moms and dads. Not too many other hospitals offer both LDR and LDRP suites. Maybe it's the availability of doctors in Plymouth, Canton, Brighton, Saline and the Ann Arbor area. Maybe it's the family-focused nursing care provided day in and day out. Or the classes to help make even first-time parents feel like experts. Maybe it's the options for pain relief, including labor epidurals and Jacuzzi bath tubs.

If you're considering a new addition, come see for yourself what St. Joe's has to offer. Call to receive an information packet, to schedule a tour or for a referral to a doctor near you.

Thieves Rob Chelsea Pets & Plants of Cash

An 18-year-old clerk at Chelsea Pets & Plants was duped by two men who distracted her and stole $155 from the cash register Thursday, July 20.

The clerk called the store owner and told her she was robbed shortly after noon. Chelsea Police were dispatched to the store, 901 S. Main St., just a few minutes later.

Police were told that two men in their 20s were browsing in the store. After the store owner left for lunch with a marketing representative, one of them asked the lone clerk if he could see a tropical fish in the back portion of the store. While he distracted her, the second man apparently opened the cash drawer and stole all the money. The register's transaction receipt shows the no sale button was pushed at 12:12 p.m. The drawer is located at the counter next to the front entrance. The cash register key was left in the machine, which enabled the suspect to access the money.

The clerk said the man who apparently stole the store first and the other followed shortly after. Both left in the same vehicle. The clerk said she didn't realize what happened and resumed business as usual. A short time later, she discovered the money missing and called the store owner.

According to Chelsea Police, the case has been closed due to a lack of leads and no suspects.

The visna virus is a serious pathogen that infects and kills thousands of sheep across the country. Scientists are using genetic engineering to attack the disease. What they learn in the process may provide clues for curing everything from encephalitis in horses to AIDS in humans.

Aquatic Club Loses to League Champs, Huron Valley Swim Club

Chelsea Aquatic Club lost to Huron Valley Swim Club, the current league champions, on Friday and Saturday, July 14-15.

Dive coach Christie Lonskey, was very pleased with the divers' performance following Friday evening's dive meet. She mentioned, "Katy Titus and Alexis Jolly both had personal best scores and Meghan Torbet finished with a high score for the summer."

Following Saturday's swim meet head coach, John Crispin, commented, "I couldn't be happier with the effort of all the CAC swimmers. We won half of all the races where we had competitors. It was a great meet with too many outstanding swimmers to mention just a few. I would like to congratulate all CAC swimmers and divers for their fine performance."

Coach Crispin continued, "I would like to make a personal thank you to all the CAC parents who have worked so hard at our home meets. A program is judged as much by the quality of its meets as by the number of its victories and CAC parents host a swim meet second to none."

Looking on is Miss Cow (Mirlam Zass-Zeudveld). Tickets for the "Cow Chip" raffle will be on sale during Sidewalk Days.

Timber Town Playground Project Sponsoring 'Cow Chip' Raffle

Get ready for some extra fun and laughter this year at the Chelsea Fair!

Timber Town, a community-built playground project, is sponsoring a "Cow Chip" raffle on Friday, Aug. 25, at 7 p.m. at the Chelsea fairgrounds horse arena.

A "Cow Chip" raffle is an event where a couple of cows are let loose in a marked off area (the horse arena) to "do their thing" in whatever square they take a fancy to. If the cow dropping happens to land in square number 12, then the 12th lottery ticket drawn out of the raffle drum will be the 1st prize winner of $1,000. Both 2nd and 3rd prize winners will follow in a similar manner with $750 and $500 awards.

Tickets may be arranged for purchase ($10 each) from Anna Dunn, fund-raising co-chair (475-9301). Look for the Timber Town set-up at the sidewalk sale on July 28 and 29 for ticket sales also. To get more information about the "Cow Chip" raffle, contact chairpersons Kathy Powers, 475-1805 or Sue Rodgers, 475-4685.

Profits from this event will go towards the building of a large, wooden, castle-like playground on the Dana donated land. This project is currently will under-way through the efforts of both community volunteers and the Chelsea Recreation Council with support from the Chelsea Village Council.

During this community-wide project, which is likened to an old-fashioned "barn-raising" experience, the community will come together under the direction of Robert S. Leathers & Associates, architects from New York.

Chelsea's Timber Town will be constructed on Father's Day weekend (including a few days before) in 1996. So mark these days on your calendar: June 11-16 and call Ann Riemschneider, 475-0322 or Priscilla Schwarze, 475-5905, volunteer co-chairs, to find out how you can participate.

Foreign Ag Trade Growth Critical To U.S. Farmers

With 96 percent of the world's population living outside the United States, it is imperative that farmers look beyond our borders for growth markets, according to a Michigan Farm Bureau economist.

Ken Nye, director of Commodity Activities and Research for Michigan Farm Bureau, said the potential for U.S. agriculture trade opportunities is endless, but the agricultural industry needs an over-all trade strategy that would fully support and enforce the commitments to GATT and all other trade agreements. "We must ensure that U.S. policies are competitive with those of other trading countries," Nye said. "This would include maintaining maximum funding and aggressively implementing programs such as the Export Enhancement Program (EEP), and all other legal programs including food assistance, export credit, market development and promotion as allowed under U.S. law."

Soccer Club Fall Start-Up Meeting Slated for Tonight

Chelsea Soccer Club is now preparing for the Fall season. This year the club will field 11 travel teams. Most travel teams will play in the SEMSA league (South Eastern Michigan Soccer Association). The club will also have two teams playing in the Ann Arbor House league.

The Soccer Club fields teams for both boys and girls. Openings for additional players exist on several of the teams: Girls under 12 (born between Aug. 1, 1983 and July 31, 1985) and boys under 14, 13, & 12 (born between Aug. 1, 1981 and July 31, 1985). Children interested in playing should contact Dennis Hayes at 475-7774 for registration information.

One severe problem the club faces with the addition of so many new players and teams, is the number of coaching vacancies that exist on many of the teams. Any parent or interested volunteer, should contact a member of the soccer board, for more information. Board members are Fred Pieske, John Dohner, Karen Forshee, or Dennis Hayes.

Registrations are now also being accepted for under 17 and under 19 girls teams. In the fall, high school age girls play for the Soccer Club. Players interested in joining these teams should contact Dennis Hayes (475-7774) for registration information.

The Soccer club will conduct a fall start-up meeting this Wednesday, July 26, at McKune Library from 7 to 9 p.m. Anyone interested is invited to attend.

Hash Pipes Destroyed

By Chelsea Police Dept.

Chelsea Police were dispatched to a suspicious incident at McDonald's on M-52 Saturday, July 1 when an employee reported possible drug activity in the parking lot.

An officer responded to the fast-food chain at 10:38 p.m. Occupants of the suspicious vehicle handed over a pipe used to smoke marijuana and a second one was found after a police search of the vehicle. Officers destroyed both pipes at the scene and reportedly counseled the occupants on the legal ramifications of possessing narcotics and accompanying paraphernalia.

Letters to the Editor

To The Ann Arbor News Editor

As a teacher in the Chelsea School District I have followed your coverage of the incident concerning former assistant superintendent Mills with interest. It is understandable for an individual to become frustrated when he encounters a bureaucracy, but one needs to guard against the "Watergate" mentality which has developed over the past three decades. It is the responsibility of a free press to maintain an objective vigilance when reporting, and to thoroughly investigate a story utilizing all the resources an experienced professional has acquired.

Your articles reveal the Chelsea Board of Education became involved in this matter when they were informed by first-year superintendent, Ed Richardson, of his concerns regarding Mr. Mills. This became a personnel issue and there are certain legal obligations that must be considered when charges of this nature are brought forward to protect an individual in the event an investigation proves no wrong doing.

Obviously, a situation of this nature immediately would involve lawyers representing Mr. Mills and the Chelsea Schools. The school board had to walk a very difficult legal tightrope throughout this procedure to recover the funds in question and avoid costly litigation while maintaining its obligation to administer the district. The result of these negotiations placed restrictions on the school board members and Mr. Richardson in their ability to discuss this matter. Is this "secrecy" as you call it in your editorial of July 16, or is it a legal obligation?

When The Ann Arbor News questioned Mr. Richardson and school board members concerning the investigation I would hope you would have realized their hands were legally tied. Their revealing any information other than that negotiated in the settlement would be a violation of the agreement. The only opportunity for your newspaper was to file a freedom of information request to which the school district was obligated to give only the specific information requested. This is normal procedure in these kinds of cases and I would assume an experienced news reporter would expect these actions.

The easy course is to assume a cover-up in the making. The truth is far more difficult to discover and requires diligence and an open mind that exhausts every detail before revealing itself. Did anyone on your staff consider the ramifications of a first year, outsider, young superintendent, having to tell a school board and community that a trusted, thirty year employee, friend, local boy, who just held a school district together after a devastating tragedy, has been misappropriating funds from their district? Did anyone ask how this went undetected until Ed Richardson discovered it? Should your paper consider what a vigilant trustee of the Chelsea School District this man might be?

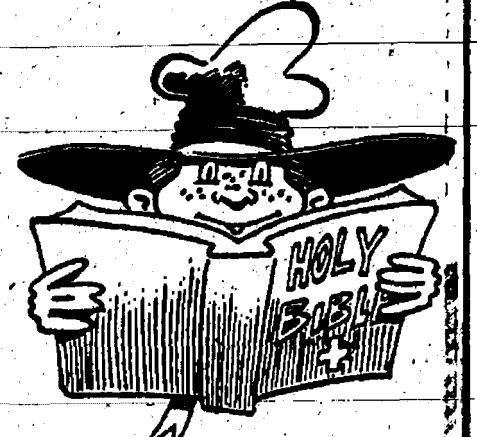

Your coverage suggests the school board and Mr. Richardson intentionally kept this situation from the public to enhance the passage of a $45 million bond issue. What was the benefit to Mr. Richardson or the school board? The bond issue benefits the children of the Chelsea Schools. It will insure children will have adequate facilities to meet the educational demands of the 21st century and reduce the stress on overcrowded and aging facilities. It will offer improved teaching environments, maximize the efforts of support staff and improve the efficiency of our educational delivery. Your editorial inserts two, one sentence paragraphs mentioning this proposal which has nothing to do with the Mills issue. It would have been a greater tragedy if the will of the community to improve their schools was deterred by the actions of one individual employed by the school district.

I can appreciate the frustration you must encounter on a daily basis to keep the public informed. However, I would encourage an in depth appraisal of any situation. Question your information from all sides and do not trust in your data until you have exhausted every detail. Then search again to insure unbiased news coverage.

Contemplating Life

By Allen W. Smith

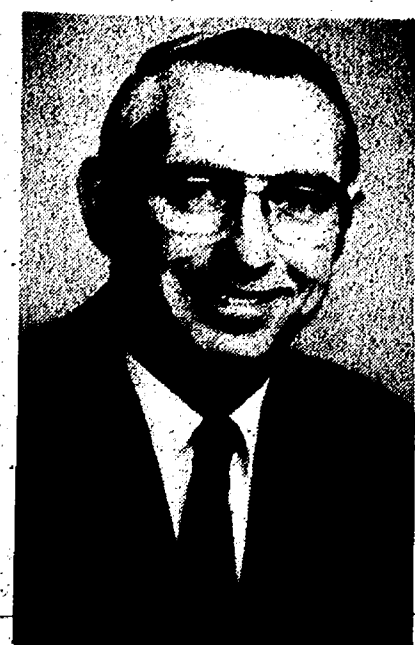

"It is one of the beautiful compensations of this life that no one can sincerely try to help another without helping himself."—Charles Dudley Warner.

Giving to others, especially the giving of time, is one of the most honorable things we can do in life. It can also be one of our greatest sources of pleasure. Some of us are too caught up in our struggle to obtain more and more for ourselves to worry much about the needs of others. But some people spend their entire lives giving of themselves in an effort to help those around them. Some even believe that our main purpose in life is to help others and, by so doing, make the world a better place.

There is no shortage of opportunity to give both money and time for the benefit of others. In fact, most of us are asked, on a regular basis, to make contributions to worthy causes. Some of us respond generously to requests for financial giving, but don't feel we can afford to give our time to others. But often the giving of time is so much more beneficial, for both the receiver and the giver, than the giving of money.

Charles Lamb wrote, "The greatest pleasure I know is to do a good action by stealth, and to have it found out by accident." It is important that we make sure our motive for helping others is not just a desire to receive recognition for doing a good deed. Thomas Fuller, M.D., drove this point home when he said, "He that gives to be seen would never relieve a man in the dark."

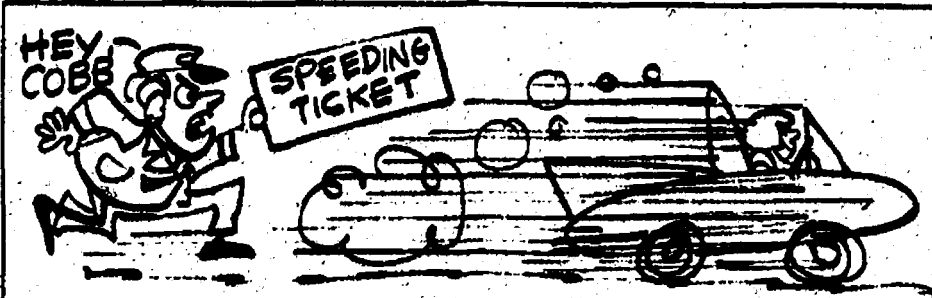

How many of us are willing to give just for the sake of giving, and don't mind whether or not we get credit for our good deeds? How many of us get pleasure from secretly doing things for others? There are many anonymous givers of both time and money. These people are dedicated to helping others, and they do not need the reward of recognition to receive pleasure from their acts. Surely we must all admire such people.

Many of us are willing to give when asked, but rarely initiate the act of giving on our own. Kahlil Gibran wrote, "It is well to give when asked, but it is better to give unasked, through understanding." Many people in need of help never ask for it. Unless we recognize the need, and act on our own, such people may never receive the help they need. In the words of Edgar Watson Howe, "If a friend is in trouble, don't annoy him by asking if there is anything you can do. Think up something appropriate and do it."

Is there any of us who cannot think of people who need, and would appreciate, our help whether given anonymously or otherwise? Isn't it possible that many of us could increase our own happiness by doing things to make other people happy? Think about it!

A British driver, John Cobb, was the first to travel more than 400 miles per hour on land. He accomplished this feat in 1947, at the Bonneville Speedway in Utah.

Webster Township Resident Will Write Home Improvement Column

A local building inspector who has spent his entire life in the construction business will be sharing his expertise with the community via a column in this newspaper.

Rex Perrine, a Webster township resident, will write Around the House, a column full of helpful tips for local homeowners. It will include advice on picking out an air conditioning unit right for a home based on square footage, and he will explain differences in efficiency. Other topics include how to prevent and fix leaky basements, how to ensure proper ventilation in a home and information on how to prevent carbon monoxide poisoning inside the home.

A licensed builder and contractor, Perrine came up with the idea for a newspaper column after reading several in big city newspapers. "I started thinking I could do that, and thought the paper I should go to should be the local paper in my town," he said. His wife, Cora, has agreed to do the typing and a writer friend will proof read his copy. "He laughs because I put in too many words," Perrine said.

Perrine is a native of West Virginia. He grew up with a father who worked as a carpenter, building houses and barns. For six years, Perrine worked as an electrician for the Appalachian Company in his hometown. He moved to Michigan in 1969 and has since gained 20 years experience in commercial building maintenance with Mego, Inc. by maintaining heating, electrical and plumbing in commercial buildings under contract.

Just two years ago, Perrine completed construction of his Webster township home on 23 acres of land. Perrine said he purchased the land after looking in the area for a long time. His daughter, Dreama, and her husband of Farmington Hills will move into their new home on the same site after Perrine and his son-in-law finish construction. Perrine also has a son, Jeff, who lives in a suburb outside Chicago, Ill.

Since 1993, Perrine has operated Correx Building Inspection out of his home. He got the name by combining the first letters of his and his wife's names. Through his business, Perrine does home inspections for prospective buyers. He checks the homes from roof to foundation and gives a written report of its condition. What he often looks for is a bad roof, cracked basement walls, faulty wiring and bad furnace. Common problems he finds range from a bad roof, which he says can be a fairly costly undertaking, to poor insulation. As part of his service, Perrine provides a list of preventive maintenance items to ensure the home lasts longer. His business area includes a 30-mile radius of Dexter, including mainly Washtenaw county and parts of Wayne and Oakland counties.

"I've always been comfortable doing construction. Doing inspections stretched me a bit. I have more interaction with people, which I enjoy," Perrine said. The column, he says, will broaden his horizons even more.

In his spare time, Perrine enjoys boating on Coldwater Lake, where he has a cottage. He has been fairly busy the past few years with construction of his and his daughter's homes, but hopes to enjoy a more relaxed life next summer.

IRS Tax Credit Will Increase Take-Home Pay for Families

Every little bit helps when you're raising a family, and many low income workers can take home extra money in every paycheck, thanks to the federal Advanced Earned Income Tax Credit.

"This year, over 398,000 Michigan taxpayers received larger income tax refunds because of the earned income credit," said IRS District Director Arlene Kay. "Eligible individuals can take that extra money home now, instead of waiting until next year, by electing the Advanced Earned Income Credit at work."

Ms. Kay said that working families who earn less than $24,396 in 1995 and have at least one child living with them can file Form W-5, "Earned Income Credit Advance Payment," with their employer and increase their take-home pay by as much as $105 a month.

Taxpayers and employers who want more information on the Advanced Earned Income Credit may call the IRS, toll-free, at 1-800-829-1040. Ms. Kay said, or order Publication 596, "Earned Income Credit," by calling 1-800-829-3676. "Put extra money in your pocket right now," said Ms. Kay. "Take advantage of the Advanced Earned Income Credit."

Michigan has 40 commercial cargo ports. In 1994, approximately 80 million tons of goods were shipped in and out of Michigan. As part of the St. Lawrence Seaway, Michigan's waters have access to and from the rest of the world.

FAMILY ROOM

By KAREN MEIER

Currently, our house is undergoing some home improvement. Now I have to admit, I am speaking optimistically here because right now it looks rather like a home unimprovement—a great big, messy mess.

And here's the deal. I'm the one at the bottom of this mess. Literally and figuratively speaking. You see, I came up with this home improvement project. The idea of it. And I'm the one doing it. I offered to. Which is probably a fine thing on paper, but in reality, not such a fine thing.

First of all, the project I dreamed up was painting the front porch and I've never really painted a front porch before, as a matter of fact I've never really painted much of anything before. I'm not allowed. That's because, historically, I've streaked, dripped, globbed, and run. But my husband, Ron, now he paints. And he's very good. So good, he paints and improves homes for a living. Which takes up a lot of time. Which sort of precludes painting our own front porch. And so my generous, yet not so fine, offer to take this task on.

With brows furrowed and a slight grimace on his face, Ron agreed.

So my children and I began the project. And since the porch ceiling had a few spots of peeling, we decided we'd better scrape and make smooth the surface to be painted. Well, now scraping—that's an interesting thing. It's sort of like the very first time I peeled onions. I was seven and at Brownie Scout day camp. And before lunch one day, the scout leader handed me four onions and said, "Peel them." Now up to that point the only things I'd ever really peeled were bananas. And with bananas you know exactly when you're done peeling. The banana peel and the banana are two entirely separate things. Onions, though, are different. And when you're seven, the difference is confusing. So when I handed my scout leader the result of my hard, tearful, sniffly work, she wasn't very happy. The four grape-sized onion centers just wouldn't do for our Day Camp Stew.

Anyway, scraping paint is sort of like that. When exactly are you done? When the old paint is entirely gone? Or just when the loose, flaky stuff is off?

I think I'm going to go with "just when the loose, flaky stuff is off" because the porch has been growing while we're not watching. I'm serious. What was originally an ordinary sized porch has turned into what seems to be the mile-long one (or however long that is) on Mackinac Island's Grand Hotel. There's just no end to it.

Perhaps it's our lack of expertise. We couldn't even find the right scrapers that first day. There were big flat scrapers, and there were little tiny screw on the end of a pole type scrapers, and Joe thought the ice scraper might be just the thing, and then there were the rusty scrapers tucked in the back corner in the Tool Reject Pile. We eventually found instruments that functioned the way we hoped they'd function. And work began.

Standing on the white wicker porch chairs to scrape the ceiling worked fine for me, but Tony, who stands just at 5', couldn't reach the ceiling well enough to make contact with the flakes and the peels. He disappeared. I kept at the flakes and peels. As I worked and scraped and strained my neck backwards, I thought of poor Michelangelo, painting the Sistine Chapel. How did he ever, ever do that? And to think, I'd only been at this porch scraping for 10 minutes. I felt small. Completely unfamous. I could see already that this was going to be ugly, hard work and there would be absolutely no glory in this. And little, if any, success either.

Tony suddenly reappeared. He'd found a ladder. He quickly set it up and in an instant I heard his scraper making contact. We were on our way. We had tools; we had spirit; we had flakes and peels to conquer.

We've worked sporadically for a few days now. The terrible storms and the wicked heat and that pesky way the porch keeps getting bigger every time we turn around all have slowed the progress. But we're not quitters. We'll finish this, I know we will.

Just this morning one of Carmen's friends came to the front door picking her way through the flakes and chips and hunks of scraped-off paint lying on the porch floor. She said, "Boy, Carmen, this is a big mess."

Carmen replied, "I know. But before it's nice it has to be real messy like this."

Her friend said, "Well, I guess your porch is probably gonna be the nicest one in the whole town then."

I'm pretty sure that was a compliment. I'm going to think of it as one anyway.

Active Business Woman Dies But Memories Linger

■ Shirley Enderle's spirit present in those who knew her.

When Shirley Enderle, a Chelsea resident who was one of the founding members of Dexter Area Chamber of Commerce and primary organizer of the Dexter Merchants Association, died last month, she left behind an outlook on life that many in the business community will continue to hold dear.

"She was a very positive person. She wouldn't dwell on the negative. She would make the best out of a situation," says Carol Model, owner of Dexter Card and Gift.

Model came to know Enderle when Enderle and her husband, Pete, opened Shirley's Family Fashions in 1985. The couple, each previously widowed, was newly married. Shirley had moved from Livonia to join her husband in Chelsea.

Just five years after launching the clothing store, Pete Enderle opened Dexter Hobby Shop in the building they owned and operated Shirley's Fashions out of. A former hotel, the building was renovated to accommodate clothing, hobby paraphernalia and second-floor apartments. Shirley Enderle continued to operate the businesses as her husband maintained a job as quality control manager with Express Tool & Die.

From the get-go, Enderle became active in the Dexter business community. Model said Enderle was one of the primary organizers of the Dexter Merchants Association, and she also joined the Dexter Daze Committee and the Dexter-Chelsea American Business Woman's Association at Model's urging.

"We just became real good friends. We shared a lot the same interests and involvements," Model said.

Joe Scheuring, former president of Dexter Area Chamber of Commerce, came to know Enderle about six years ago just as DexTech was locating in the Dexter Business and Research Park. They met at a Kiwanis dinner where DexTech brass were making a presentation. Later, they continued to talk when he would stop by her business.

"She became a mentor—someone I could share ideas with," Scheuring said. "She really wanted the best for Dexter. She wanted it to be prosperous, a good place to live and do business."

Scheuring said Enderle was chief in organizing the Dexter Area Chamber of Commerce. "I really think she had a lot to do with the forming of the chamber. Shirley was instrumental in the beginning. She was a booster. She felt it time had come."

Even after the Enderles closed their retail operation and sold the building to Central St. Station owners Nancy and Mike Poulin, Shirley Enderle continued her involvement in the business community. "She was active and continued to participate in all activities, right up until the month she died," Model said.

Enderle was diagnosed with liver cancer in 1992. But that neither stopped her nor dampened her spirits. "She was always upbeat. Her spirit and attitude helped her get along as well as she did and cope with everything, even when she didn't feel well. She went to meetings and was always involved in things," Model said.

Boasting membership in several organizations, including Dexter American Legion Auxiliary, Rogers Corner Study Group and Zion Lutheran Church, Enderle was very much a vital part of the community. Last year,

SHIRLEY ENDERLE

"She really wanted the best for Dexter. She wanted it to be prosperous, a good place to live and do business."

—Joe Scheuring, Past Chamber President

she served as Parade Marshal for the Dexter Daze Parade, and in 1993, she was named Woman of the Year by the ABWA.

"She was just a class act," said Scheuring. "I always had the greatest respect for her and admired her courage throughout her illness."

describes Enderle as not only devoted to the Dexter community, but also to her family. A mother of five grown children and grandmother to several grandchildren, Enderle closed her business last year to spend more time with her family in light of her illness.

"I guess if she had a hobby it was her family," said Model. "If she had any extra time she liked to spend it with her family and grandchildren. She enjoyed going out and being a part of everything."

One of the last major events Enderle worked on for the chamber was the organization's annual golf outing held in June. She served as chairman and was honored with a plaque. But just as all her work on the event came to fruition, Enderle became very ill and was placed in the hospital. Just three weeks later, Enderle died. "I came in Sunday to see her and knew it wasn't a good situation, but she was still very positive and not gloomy," Model said. Three days later, on June 21, Enderle died.

Something Model will always remember about Enderle was an expression she used during hard times. "If I was having a rough time with something, she would say 'keep your head up kiddo'. She was always someone that believed everything was going to work out for the best."

Chelsea Police Assist Sheriff's Department

Chelsea Police were called on two occasions to assist the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department July 21.

At 3:23 a.m., police were dispatched to respond to a call of a man lying on the shoulder of the roadway on M-52 near Waterloo Rd. in Lyndon township. The man was asleep. Chelsea Police transported him to Vogel's Party Store so he could call for a ride home.

The second call was at 3:40 a.m. Chelsea Police responded to a personal injury accident on Old US-12 west of M-52. No other information was available.

Malicious Destruction Of Property Reported

Malicious destruction of property was reported at residences on McKinley, Chestnut and Howard streets July 18.

Police responded to three homes where flower pots were over turned in the early morning hours. Damage at each is estimated at $25.

MULLIGAN STEW, a three-person team of vocalists and songwriters will perform Sunday, July 30 at Chelsea's Concert in the Park series. The concert will be in Pierce Park beginning at 5:30 p.m. Members of the group are, left to right, Charles Cares, Bill O'Connor and Rob Koch.

Mulligan Stew Featured At Concert in the Park

Chelsea's Concerts in the Park series will present its third offering for the year on Sunday, July 30.

Mulligan Stew will be on stage to treat the audience to a variety of Irish Folk Music.

This three member group of singers and multi-instrumentalists will perform wonderful three-part harmonies with a variety of instruments including violin, viola, guitar, tin whistle, mandolin, tenor banjo, Irish accordion, bodhran (Irish drum) and bones, just to name a few.

This concert on July 30 will also feature Chelsea's Washington Street Show Choir. Also appearing will be members of the Dance Arts Academy and Chelsea Co-op Nursery, with many activities for the kiddies.

Three of Michigan's finest singers and multi-instrumentalists combine their talents in the group

Mulligan Stew, offering lively entertainment on acoustic instruments.

At concerts and outdoor festivals, at parties and coffeehouses, Mulligan Stew presents a wide range of acoustic music: from bluegrass-influenced fiddle tunes and haunting Celtic airs, to contemporary folk, Irish and country ballads.

Each of the three members of the group is a songwriter as well as a performer. They back up their three-part vocal harmonies with a variety of instruments. Among their past appearances have been the Trenton Mid-Summer Arts Fair, the Ann Arbor Art Fair, the Dearborn Inn, and the Ypsilanti New Year's Jubilee.

Bill O'Connor: A 20-year veteran of the folk music circuit, Bill has performed from New England to Nashville, as well as in Canada and Ireland. His recording of original songs, "Tea on a Rainy Day," has been played on the nationally syndicated "Folk Sampler" show on National Public Radio, as well as on stations WDET, WEMU and WCBN in Michigan. He was a semi-finalist in the Marlboro National Talent Roundup, and has performed at The Ark folk music club in Ann Arbor and the Michigan State Fair in Detroit. With the Streetwise String Band, he played at contra dances throughout the Midwest.

Rob Koch: A classically trained musician and alumnus of the University of Michigan School of Music, Rob has toured both coasts with the Friars vocal ensemble (including a performance at Carnegie Hall in New York City). He has been playing violin and viola for 30 years, performing in orchestras, musicals, and bluegrass and country bands. Among his past associations: The Collegium Musicum at Eastern Michigan University, the group Cross Country, the Stoney Creek bluegrass band, and Ann Arbor's Comic Opera Guild.

Charles Cares: An actor and instrument builder as well as musician, Charles is a veteran of the group Gypsy Cab, which has an album to its credit. Charles and Gypsy Cab performed throughout Michigan, from the Lilac Festival on Mackinac Island to the Grand Rapids area and the Trenton Mid-Summer Festival. Charles' musical credits include touring with the University of Michigan's prestigious Early Music Ensemble, and singing in the U-M Arts Choral, the Collegium and Madrigal Ensemble at EMU, and Ann Arbor's Gilbert & Sullivan Society productions.

As always, the concert will start at 5:30 p.m. and last until 8:30. Cottage Inn will be on hand to serve pizza and cold beverages.

Hosting this concert will be Maury McCoy from WHAM Radio in Howell.

The last concert, July 16 was postponed because of heavy rain and a near tragic lightning strike on a tree near the gazebo.

This year's concerts are sponsored by the Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce, Chelsea Recreation Council and Chelsea Community Hospital.

SHERIFF'S REPORT

Lima Township Explosive Device

An explosive device was detonated in the 13600 block of Old US-12, July 17. A 26-year-old township woman told police she heard voices outside her door just prior to hearing a loud noise. Police were initially dispatched to her residence for possible shots fired at 1 a.m. Instead, they discovered the makings of a home-made explosive device outside her residence.

Sylvan Township VCSA

Suspected marijuana and equipment for growing the plants were discovered July 12 in the cottage of a 25-year-old Chelsea man on W. Cedar Lake Rd. near Cavanaugh Lake Rd. The man was being evicted by his landlord when a civil processor and the landlord saw the operation. Police report the fluorescent lamps, scale, rolling paper, hash pipe and plants found are "consistent with a marijuana grow operation." The suspect was arrested on an unrelated warrant.

Warrant Arrest

Ivan S. Fordyce, 25, of Chelsea was arrested on a bench warrant at his cottage on W. Cedar Lake Rd. near Cavanaugh Lake Rd., July 12. Fordyce was arrested for failing to appear in court on charges. He was transported to the Ann Arbor Police station after police were called to his residence to investigate a charge that Fordyce was violating the Controlled Substance Act.

Dexter Township Larceny

Larceny was reported in the 9500 block of Lakeview Dr., July 16. A 46-year-old Ypsilanti man and his 43-year-old wife told police a paddle boat valued at $1,400 was stolen between July 9 and July 14. The boat was taken from their cottage on Half Moon Lake.

Chelsea Film Society Is Being Organized

A growing number of people are joining forces to organize a Chelsea Film Society.

Initial goal of the group is to start a series of week-end film nights late this fall. Plans call for a feature film from a different genre to be shown each week-end (classic, modern, teen, family) in order to get a feel for tastes of the Chelsea audience.

To help fund the on-going series, the group is seeking donations for a start-up fund. Proceeds from each showing will be used to fund future shows.

Some equipment will be needed by the group to get started. Among the most necessary items are a large projection screen and a back-up projector. Any other movie-related items could be used as well.

Short films will be shown all day Friday and Saturday, July 28-29, during Chelsea Sidewalk Days. Films will be shown at UAW Local 437 Hall on Main St., next to the Chelsea Post Office.

Chelsea Film Society organizers are awaiting a decision on being classed as tax-deductible group.

Volunteers are needed to fill a variety of positions such as ticket taking and helping the board of directors.

Further information, contributions and pledges may be addressed to Chelsea Film Society, Palmer Morrel-Samuels, 210 Park St., Chelsea, phone 475-2955, or to David Rodgers 311 East St., Chelsea, phone 475-4596
