St. Mary's Church Celebrates 150 Years

Parishioners of St. Mary's are celebrating the historic church's 150 years in Sylvan township with a jubilee slated Aug. 12.

Among the activities planned are a barbecue and dance Saturday, Aug. 12 and a Latin Mass Sunday, Aug. 13. A choir concert is slated for Sept. 17.

The church has been a popular place of worship with area residents over the years. First constructed on a two-acre tract of hillside land donated by Darius Pierce, a state legislator, the church has since been twice relocated and renovated but has continued to serve its purpose.

St. Mary's Church

When built in 1845, the church was known as St. Mary's church of Sylvan and included 25 members. Since that time, it has grown to include 675. The original church was plain and unpainted, and after two additions grew. The interior was also unpainted with wooden pews. It had neither a bell nor a cross. The portion of the land not occupied by the church was used as a cemetery. Before the church and cemetery were established, Catholics buried their dead on the McLaughlin farm about two miles away.

The church served as a mission and was part of the parish in Dexter. Services were irregular in the beginning. The missionary's arrival was heralded by a messenger who notified residents of the time of services. A visiting priest would often spend the night in the anteroom behind the altar or at the home of a parishioner.

Official records of the church date back to 1861. At that time, the Rev. Fr. John Van Jennip of St. Joseph's Parish in Dexter was attending the mission project.

One of the more prominent products of this early church was James Savage. His family lived nearby and Savage attended the church until he went away to study for the priesthood. He returned in 1869 to celebrate his first Mass. He later rose to be Right Reverend Msgr. James Savage of the Most Holy Trinity church in Detroit. When he died, he was buried in the old Sylvan Cemetery, near the spot he delivered his first Mass.

Another local boy who became a priest was Charles Reilly. He was pastor of St. Patrick's church in Detroit and later pastor of St. Mary's of Adrian, where he founded St. Joseph's Academy.

Among the parishioners who were prominent in the old Sylvan church were the Savages, Cassidys, Burnses, Dorans, Hagans, McIntees, Walshes, Looneys, O'Neils, Quigleys, Marrinanes, Morrisseys, Gyles, Lammers, Gormans, McKanes, Morans, Howes, Mullens, Duffys, Walls, Ryans, Kennedys, Flemings, Geraghtys, O'Connors and McKunes. Many of their descendants are members of St. Mary's today.

The Sylvan church was relieved of its usefulness when a new brick church was built in the village of Chelsea in 1869. In April of 1903, a fire completely destroyed the little mission church originally erected.

The corner stone of the church read Our Lady of the Sacred Heart. The building was constructed under the direction of Fr. Van Jennip of the Dexter parish. Frank Staffan is believed to have built it with John Foster providing the carpentry. It was built of brick, and its steeple became a landmark of Chelsea as it could be seen for some distance.

Father Rafter took over for a few months in 1871, but was replaced during the same year by Fr. Timothy Slattery of Dexter. He said Mass in Chelsea every third Sunday.

It was in 1878 that St. Mary's was established as a parish, rather than a mission. With the change came the first priest to serve the church. The Rev. Patrick Duhig, under whose administration the first rectory was built, was hired. He remained in the post through 1881, when Bishop Borgess placed Duhig in the Northfield parish and Northfield's priest, Fr. William P. Considine, in Chelsea. Considine remained in the local parish for the next 34 years.

In September of 1888, the Sodality of the Blessed Virgin Mary under the title of The Assumption of the Blessed Virgin and the Patronage of St. Agnes was organized. On Feb. 17, 1889, the League of the Sacred Heart was started as the first Friday Devotion in the parish.

Under Considine's rule, the church was decorated and pastoral residence beautified. The grounds for the new Mt. Olivet Cemetery were purchased and laid out.

By 1913, the church was thriving with 180 families in the parish, half of which were German and the others Irish.

Considine was assisted in 1916 by Father Crowley. By 1919, Father Henry Van Dyke came and was followed by Father Thomas Fallon from 1924 to 1928. It was during Fallon's stay that St. Mary's school building burned and the present facility was built.

Van Dyke returned to the church in 1928 and continued through 1936 when Father Lawrence Dorr arrived. Dorr was reportedly well liked by Protestants and Catholics. But he left in 1942 and was replaced by Father Lee Laige, who remained in the post for 18 years.

The former Chaplain for Milan Federal Prison, Laige had quite a reputation. He had accompanied at least two major criminals to executions. He retired in 1960. After his departure Father Leo Smith was appointed administrator of the parish. During his very short tenure, the convent was remodeled and the bells on the old Congdon St. church rang for the last time.

Council Expected To Annex Merkel Land

■ County Board of Commissioners has final say over boundary change.

An attorney who specializes in land-use issues has been asked to draw up a property description on the Martin Merkel parcel in Lima township despite the local businessman's request to have an annexation request tabled.

Richard Steele, Chelsea Village Council president, said Monday that council voted July 25 to have Randy Kraker of Venum, Riddering, Schmidt and Howlett draw up the property description so council can proceed with a boundary change petition. A final decision was expected at last night's council meeting provided all documents were available. If action is taken locally, the boundary change will be forwarded to the County Board of Commissioners for approval. It will be at least another month before the county board holds a public hearing and makes a decision.

Steele said council has reactivated the request based on advice from its attorney. He said it has been recommended that the village take in the land based on an agreement entered between Merkel and the council in 1976. The agreement was reached when the council needed an easement through the Merkel property. The document requires the village annex Merkel's land and provide water and sewer service to the site. According to Steele, approximately 117 acres of the 157-acre site will likely be annexed per the agreement.

Council has been wrangling with Merkel's annexation request for a year now. Chelsea Village Planning Commission was asked to make a recommendation, and did so in the spring. The recommendation states the land should be annexed and developed as low density residential, which is called for in the General Development Plan. Low-density, according to Steele, allows four homes per acre.

A report by the commission examines how the expansion of village boundaries and the development of manufactured housing park on the site could affect the village. Merkel and his partners have proposed a 400-unit trailer park in the past. The commission-driven report states a development of that size would put a strain on the school system and village services, such as police, fire, water and sewer.

"I would assume their intentions are the same as they've always been," Steele said about Merkel's plans for manufactured housing on the site. "Our intention is to bring the land in, then we will tackle the zoning issue. We will keep it consistent with the General Development Plan."

The 157 acres is presently zoned agricultural in Lima township. If the village boundary is amended to include the 117 acres, the land would retain its zoning until a request is made to have it changed.

Steele said requests are usually made within two years.

"I would assume their intentions are the same as they've always been."
—Richard Steele, Council president

PARKER CORNERS CRAFTSMEN is the name of the 4-H Club led by Scio township farmer Ray Schairer for the past 50 years. A booth was erected in his honor at the annual 4-H Youth Fair held last month. Former members contributed some of their work to the exhibit.

Ray Schairer Honored For His 50 Years in 4-H

■ Local farmer has been a leader to three generations of 4-H youth.

Long-time Scio township farmer Ray Schairer has committed a life-time to 4-H. Few can say they've spent half a century leading youngsters in the organization.

Last month, the former dairy farmer was rightly honored by his former students and peers during the 4-H Youth Show. The recognition comes just four months after he was presented with the Distinguished Service Award from the Washtenaw County Livestock Council.

A booth was erected by Schairer's former club members in his honor at the annual 4-H Show. On display were many of the woodworking projects his club members have made over the years.

Schairer became involved in 4-H during his teen-age years back in the 1930s. A friend of his leading a garden club encouraged him to participate. At the time, Schairer lived on his family's farm — the same farm he has tended to the past 50 years and still lives on.

RAY SCHAIRER

During his club years, Schairer enjoyed working with farm crops. He raised corn, wheat and oats, and exhibited samples during the County Fair held on the county fairgrounds, now the home of Veteran's Park in Ann Arbor.

When Schairer was a young man of 20, a friend asked him if he would share his woodworking hobby with a couple of boys he taught as a teacher in a country schoolhouse. "She talked me into taking it over. I did that, and kept on ever since," he said. Schairer and the boys named their 4-H Club Parker Corners Craftsmen. The name represents Parker School, the country school he attended from grades first through eighth before going to Dexter High. It was located on the corner of Jackson and Parker roads.

Schairer said he dabbled here and there in woodworking while growing up. Dexter High school didn't have a shop, but he made do. One of his first woodworking projects he helped create with his 4-H club members was rhythm bones, a musical instrument made of wood. During their time in the club, Schairer's students continued to develop their skills, making everything from intricate clocks to lamps and tables. "I've had all kinds of light furniture come out of my shop by the kids and myself," said Schairer, who continues to sell his wares at the Farmer's Market in Chelsea.

Parker Corners Craftsmen have always worked diligently in preparation for 4-H Spring Achievement. "That's the one we work real hard to get ready for," Schairer said. Club members meet every Saturday afternoon from November to April. In the early days, Schairer saw youngsters ages 10 to 18, but has since welcomed children even younger. "The eight year olds of today are as mature as my 10 year-olds of yesterday," he said. "But in woodworking, I wouldn't take anyone younger than eight."

Kirk VanNatter, one of Schairer's former club members, says he fondly recalls spending many Saturdays on the Schairer farm. He can also recollect taking home a few blue ribbons for his woodworking projects created under the leadership of Schairer. He says he learned gradually, beginning at age 11 and through his teen-age years. The first piece VanNatter created was a tic tac toe board. He soon mastered the skills required and created a floor lamp with table.

'Politically Correct' Education Standards?

Education standards sound like an idea whose time has come. But a great deal depends on who creates the standards and what they say. If today's "politically correct" revisionists get their way, the ideals of Americanism will be out the school window.

By Philip C. Clarke

When Congress and President Clinton enacted the Goals 2000 education legislative a year ago, many analysts saw new openings for mischief makers. One area of the bill that came under particular scrutiny was the call for national standards in education on everything from students' achievements to how to teach various subjects.

Quite apart from the issue of whether the federal government should be involved in such matters at all, the idea of standards in education seems like a good one. There should, for example, be a minimum base of knowledge that all students would acquire during their school years including due respect for our free institutions and their historical backgrounds. The problem is that to some people in the education establishment, being "politically correct" is more important than just what is being taught.

Consider what Lynne Cheney reported recently in the Wall Street Journal. Cheney, former head of the National Endowment for the Humanities, reviewed the proposed standards for teaching history, and stated simply, they are appalling. In 31 standards, for example, the Constitution is not even mentioned. The governing document of the United States does appear in the supporting material, according to Cheney, but only to be obliquely criticized. Students, it says, should "ponder the paradox that the Constitution sidetracked the movement to abolish slavery."

It may indeed be argued that one of the Constitution's flaws was its failure to fully address the slavery issue. Yet, as a charter for democratic government, it has no equal in all of history. Apparently, that's not worth teaching, according to history standards under consideration by Washington's "educrats."

Cheney points out that the proposed standards reserve their praise for minorities and the Third World. Students are encouraged, for example, to "analyze the achievements and grandeur of Mansa Musa's court, and the social customs and wealth of the kingdom of Mali." But when America's free enterprise system is discussed in the history standards, the language and tone are a little different. Consider how the standards treat John D. Rockefeller, one of America's foremost industrial leaders and philanthropists. Students are instructed to conduct a "trail" in which Rockefeller is accused of "knowingly and willingly participating in unethical and amoral business practices designed to undermine traditions of fair and open competition for personal and private aggrandizement in direct violation of the common welfare." Granted, Rockefeller was a ruthless business competitor. But how many museums and university departments owe their existence to his generosity?

Cheney also notes that "counting how many times different subjects are mentioned in the document yields telling results." For instance, Paul Revere, Alexander Graham Bell, Thomas Edison, Albert Einstein, Jonas Salk and the Wright Brothers are not mentioned at all in the history teaching standards. But the American Federation of Labor gets nine mentions. And Senator Joseph McCarthy, whose zealous pursuit of communists in government earned him notoriety in the 1950's, was mentioned 19 times, none favorably.

This diatribe of political correctness is attributed to an allegedly academic organization, the American Historical Association (AHA). Members of this group threatened to boycott the standard-setting process if Western civilization, in their mind, was unduly emphasized. As Lynne Cheney reports, the AHA "hijacked the standards-setting." If the mind-numbing teaching proposals go forward in the public schools, our students will be the losers. Also our free society.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I've stuck pretty close to the front porch shade these recent days to catch what little breeze is stirring. Operating my favorite rocker gives me time for more research on the state of the human condition. For instant, I learned as a boy that with practice a fellow can whistle as good on the inhale as the exhale, but now I know that my old lady can talk with air going and coming.

Over the years, though, her talking has got to be like background sound to cover other noise. As long as she doesn't turn up the beat or the volume I know she's just talking and I go on about my thinking. Like all men who have been married to the same woman longer than they can remember I've got selective listening, so I automatic pick up on what I might be asked about later, and what's in my best interest now. The soap opera updates and fresh local gossip slide on by, but words like mail and supper sink in.

In my recent reading I've learned that the head of the Minneapolis street department needs a selective listener transplant. The one he's got has failed complete. He heard women griping about his workers looking at them when they walk by, so he made a rule against it. You can see the worms crawl out of this can. Angry woman says nasty man is gawking. Man says he's trying to get a bit of concrete out of his good eye, and that makes his glass eye look like he's glaring. Besides, the man says, if I had in mind what you got in mind I wouldn't have you in mind. See the lawyers jump all over this like buzzards on road kill.

Serious, how can wimmen call for equal everything on the exhale and want special Government protection against everything on the inhale. You can set this don't look scene down the road and see the first woman President elected after the passage of the Equal Time in Office Amendment to the Constitution. She is leaving the latest rounds of General Non-Agreement on Tariffs and Trade talks claiming the randy representative from France is staring at her.

As if wimmen don't give us enough grief I read where we're all going to the dogs. One of the farm journals notes that we use to have small animal city vets and large animal country vets, but now we got all kind everywhere. The piece said the busiest vet specializes in emotional problems in dogs. And he has the added advantage of the people doctor who said he went into dermatology because his patients never die, they never get well, and they never get him up at night. Dog psychiatrists don't help cows have calves, and they don't mess with tom cats tore up in fights. They just sit and talk to dogs that are hurting down deep where it don't show. These are what the vets call mental cripples that get depressed, paranoid, jealous and suffer all the emotional problems people do.

Furthermore, one dog shrink said no more than 10 per cent of her patients inherit their ailments and the rest catch them from their owners. She said dogs get to be what the people around them are. She has found that her neurotic patients do much better in therapy away from their human family.

So what are we to make of this? Only folks who can show they do right by dogs can be trusted to raise healthy children, or vice verser.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

Chelsea-area residents should put on their cowboy hats and boots Sunday, Aug. 13 as the Clinton River Road Band sets up stage in Pierce Park. It will be a chance to learn how to line dance and listen to great country music. The band has been the opening act at W4 country radio's Detroit Hoedown for years. Many years of hard work and dedication are finally paying off for the group as they close in on a record deal. Your next chance to see them could just be at the Palace of Auburn Hills.

Line dance instructor for the Clinton River Road Band concert will be Denise Greenawalt. Also, "Loopy" the clown will make another appearance at the event, entertaining kids with free face painting and balloon animals. The Trinidad Tripoli Steel Band will make a second appearance after being rained out of their last. The group, which plays Caribbean and steel drum music, won a Grammy for their gold album, "Liberace Presents: They've performed twice for the Queen of England and for the last two presidents.

Both Sunday concerts will start at approximately 6 p.m. and will last about two hours. Chelsea Cottage Inn will supply pizza and refreshment and five percent of the proceeds will go to Pierce Park. Many music compact discs will also be given away during a scavenger hunt.

The Concerts in the Park series is sponsored by Chelsea Area Chamber

Police Arrest Drunk Driver

A 36-year-old Chelsea man was arrested Aug. 1 for operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor and for having an unlawful blood/alcohol level.

Chelsea Police arrested the man after he was involved in a property damage accident on M-52 near Chestnut St. The suspect failed field sobriety tests and admitted to drinking a pint of vodka prior to driving. A preliminary breath test put his blood/alcohol level at .314 percent, which is more than three times the legal level. A breath test later administered at the Ann Arbor Police Department proved his blood/alcohol level was .26 percent.

The 1992 Chevrolet Caprice the suspect was driving was damaged in the crash. The man's driving record also shows he has two prior accidents and was cited for speeding.

St. Mary's Celebrates 150 Years in Sylvan

In the spring of 1961, the decision was made to raze St. Mary's church on Congdon St. based on its deteriorated condition. The pews and altars from the old church were moved to the school gymnasium, which became the church for almost six years. Upon the advice from Archbishop Dearden, a search for a new church site began in 1964. Several areas were considered. Through the efforts of Leo Guinan, a site on Old US-12 was located and suggested to Fr. Maliszewski. The purchase of the property was strongly desired because of its proximity to the village limits and nearness to Chelsea High school. The purchase was finalized on March 11, 1965. Ground breaking ceremonies for the present St. Mary's church took place on Sept. 26, 1965. Work, however, was actually started in November. Corner stone ceremonies took place on April 24, 1966.

Father Francis Wahowiak became the newest priest at St. Mary's March 6, 1968. It was during his tenure in 1971 that the parish transferred from the Archdiocese of Detroit to the Diocese of Lansing. In December of 1972, Father Philip Dupuis came to Chelsea and remains today. In February 1974, the old rectory on Congdon St. was sold and the former convent became the new rectory.

Richard Cesarz was ordained in St. Mary's Cathedral in Lansing June 18, 1980, and became the first permanent deacon at St. Mary's in Chelsea. He died seven years later. Then, on June 30, 1990, Richard Paul Shaneyfelt was ordained and became St. Mary's second permanent deacon. Shaneyfelt continues to serve today.

St. Mary's School

Like the church, St. Mary's school has been reconstructed over its long history. The first St. Mary's school was built in 1906. It was built, in part, because so many Chelsea girls who were members of the parish had been sent to St. Joseph's Academy in Adrian to be educated. The school was opened Jan. 7, 1907. The school included grades first through eighth. On Tuesday, June 25, 1907, the first eighth grade graduation was held. In 1909, a two-year commercial course was added. The first class consisted of six girls, Anna Merker, Agnes Breitenbach, Gladys Shanahan, Marie Steele, Gertrude Eismann and Ruth Raffrey. By 1916, the school added a complete high school.

The first high school graduating class numbered two, including Herbert McKune and Louis Eder. As the years passed, the classes grew larger and the boys of the school began to make their mark in the field of athletics. In 1923, the St. Mary's basketball team gained state fame by winning the Class D Championship in Detroit. Team members included Phillip Hoffman, Paul Hoffman, Maurice Hoffman, Gerald Madden, Julius Eder, Edward Eder, Paul Conlin and Billie Reidel. They were coached by Roy Evans and managed by H.G. Hindelang.

In February 1925, a fire destroyed the school building. Just three months later, a new building was started and finished by year's end. The dedication was made by the Right Reverend Bishop Michael J. Gallagher of Detroit.

The last high school graduation at St. Mary's school took place June 10, 1934. There were four graduates, including Louis Otto, John Dvorak, Bernice Tuttle and Veronica Culhane. Father Van Dyke presented the diplomas at an evening service in the church. The grade school continued with eight grades until September of 1968 when it merged with the public school, the upper grades being phased out. In 1972, St. Mary's school closed, and is now being used as the Parish Center and for religious education.

(History of St. Mary's church and school provided in this article was taken from a hardcover cook book filled with recipes by St. Mary parishioners.)

Long-time 4-H Leader Honored

"He seemed to want you to do a good job. He made sure everything was right about your project," VanNatter said about his former leader.

Schairer admits to his meticulous nature. "I am specifically critical of them finishing the product. And everything must be sanded because that can cut your rating more than anything," he explained.

Still living in the area, VanNatter, a 33-year-old carpenter, remembers Schairer's attention to detail. "If you want a good woodworking project to turn out, you really need to pay attention to detail." And that is precisely what Schairer instilled in his members, VanNatter said.

Schairer said he learned right along with VanNatter and the other Parker Corners club members. "We would try something and if we goofed up, we'd try again until we got it right," Schairer said. The most popular project for his youth, Schairer said, was construction of a gun cabinet. Club member Ricky Wild recently earned a blue ribbon for his piece. Nowadays, modern items such as computer desks are catching the fancy of area youth. "I let them kind of decide what they want to make," Schairer said.

Over his 50 years in 4-H, Schairer has been a mentor to more than 100 kids. "I run in to them now and then," he says. "So many of them say 'you got me started on the right foot'." It feels good, he says, to see many of them still involved in the craft, be it as a carpenter like Van Natter or a cabinetmaker like Larry Knieper or someone who just has a woodworking shop like his own.

The recognition comes just four months after Schairer was presented with the Distinguished Service Award from the Washtenaw County Livestock Council.

BRUCE YURKUNAS of South Lyon purchased Amy Rentschler's reserve champion steer during the July 27 livestock auction at the 1995 Washtenaw County 4-H Youth Show. Purchase price was $1,101/b. for the 1,175-pound steer.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

I hope I'm not too late to add my voice to the letter written by Sally Proctor for the July 19 paper with her open letter of appreciation to Fred Mills.

Throughout my tenure with the senior citizens, the school administration (I cannot separate Fred Mills and his contribution) never failed to be there for us. From our early beginnings in the house on Middle Street, at our "home" in North School, and when we moved to our present home, Fred was always alert and open to our needs, whether that be for window screens at the school, an introduction to prospective school board members, a visit to our prom, or, when requested, discussion of all sides of issues coming up for our vote.

Some have debated the senior citizen activities have nothing to do with education. My own experience disproves this. Coming from a non-art background I took the Drawing from the Right Side of the Brain and Art for the Non-artist classes at our senior center and found doors opening to a whole new world that will continue to stimulate and enhance the rest of my life. Thank God for school administrators, including Fred, that recognize and support learning as a lifetime experience.

Good luck to you, Fred, and thanks for all you have given to this community.

Treva Winans.

P.S.—Anyone interested in these classes should call Pat at 475-9242.

Suspicious Incident Reported to Police

Chelsea Police responded to a suspicious incident at an apartment in the 200 block of Wilkinson St., July 29.

Officers were initially dispatched to a possible breaking and entering complaint. A woman at the residence told police she left her apartment at 4:10 p.m. and returned four hours later to find a chair in the kitchen moved. She said a similar incident happened recently.

Chelsea Police suggested the woman have the locks on her front door changed.

In Memory of Alice Salyer

We thought of you with love today but that is nothing new
 We thought about you yesterday and days before that too.
 We think of you in silence
 we often speak your name.
 All we have now are memories and your picture in a frame.
 Your memory is our keepsake with which we will never part.
 God has you in his keeping we have you in our hearts.
 It broke our hearts to lose you but you didn't go alone.
 For a part of us went with you the day God took you home.

Sadly missed by your family

THANK YOU

To all the people who have been looking for our dog, Chewy, during this past week. We would especially like to thank Dr. Paula Rode; her husband, daughter and staff for their dedication, concern and commitment they have for their animal clients, it goes well beyond their "call of duty." The Chelsea Police Department, the DNR officers of Waterloo, Portage Lake, Gary at the Wolverine, Alex Weddon of Channel 22 and my son Peter (who spoke to every customer who came into Manna Books and asked for prayers) and spent nights until 3 a.m. combing the woods and campgrounds for him, to Dr. Mary Westhoff who spotted him one morning and to all the people I talked to who never made fun or criticized me for being emotional over "just a dog."

Chewy had a "great adventure" and came back to Dr. Rode's exactly one week after breaking out. He is healthy, exuberant and very glad to have his air conditioning vent to cuddle next to. Again thank you all for your concern and involvement, you are really special people.

Happy Birthday Phyllis

MICHIGAN HISTORY SERIES:

National Anthem Slowly Accepted

Ann Arbor—Born in the early daylight in Chesapeake Bay where the British bombarded Fort McHenry during the War of 1812, Francis Scott Key's poem became the national anthem of the United States by an act of Congress in 1931, 126 years after its composition and 155 years after the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

The University of Michigan's Clements Library holds one of only 10 known remaining copies of the first edition of the music and word of "The Star Spangled Banner," a copy that probably sold for less than a quarter at Carrs Music Store in Baltimore in 1814 and would bring tens of thousands of dollars today.

Reported to have been first sung in public about three months after its writing in 1814 by Ferdinand Durang, a Baltimore actor, the poem, originally titled "Defence (sic) of Fort McHenry" was set to the music of an English drinking song, "Anacreon in Heaven." Since then Key's work has been rendered in innumerable variations, including arrangements by the Eastman Wind Ensemble and Arturo Toscanini conducting the NBC Symphony Orchestra. The work has been performed and recorded on original instruments of the 19th century, by solo-instruments including the flute, and by vocal ensembles and soloists, including Jimi Hendrix and Michigan native Aretha Franklin. The music of the piece has been parodied for political campaign songs and the temperance movement.

Used on patriotic occasions, as a toast at public dinners, in July 4 observances and at political conventions, the "Star Spangled Banner" music and/or lyrics appeared in newspapers, periodicals, hymnals and music sheets. During one testimonial dinner in March 1815 celebrating the pacification of the Territory of Michigan at the close of the War of 1812, citizens sat down to a dinner prepared at "Mr. Woodworth's Hotel" in Detroit, where following the 18th and last toast, the band played the "Star Spangled Banner."

With the surrender of Gen. Lee to Gen. Grant at Appomattox on Palm

Sunday, 1865, great celebrations burst forth across the country. When word of the surrender reached Detroit, the New York Daily Tribune reported, "thousand of people on Monday afternoon, April 10, 1865 assembled on the Campus Martius and sang praises to God, and the 'Star Spangled Banner' while a splendid brass band added to the enthusiasm by playing a number of patriotic airs."

In April 1892, after John Philip Sousa conducted the U.S. Marine Band in Detroit, the city's Evening News reported, "The program closed with the band rising and playing 'The Star Spangled Banner.' The audience, however, remained seated, Detroit not having yet caught on the patriotic fashion of the east, where the audience rises when the national anthem is played."

This custom of standing whenever and wherever Key's work was played was instituted by a Monroe native, Gen. George Custer, who hoped the practice would be adopted throughout the land. Michiganders were slow to adopt the custom.

In a concert at the Light Guard Armory in Detroit for 2,000 people in April 1901, the U.S. Marine Band opened the program with the "Star Spangled Banner." The Detroit Free Press, reporting on the concert in its next edition, said, "As was fitting the first number was the 'Star Spangled Banner,' played by the men standing on their feet until the last note was played." The same paper reported of the band's final concert: "Although the band showed its patriotic training by standing while 'Hail Columbia' was being played, the audience failed to show as good taste and remained seated. Later on, when America came in a medley, two boys in the gallery stood up, and it was not until the familiar strains of the 'Star Spangled Banner' crashed out, at the concert's very end, that the audience came to its senses and rose to its feet."

When Aretha Franklin sang the anthem in "soul" style for the opening of the 1968 Democratic National Convention in Chicago, her performance was condemned by some as tasteless and inappropriate.

'New patients always welcome.'

My experience in the hair salon profession spans more than 20 years. One day, in 1977, I passed a building in North Muskegon and 10 minutes later had agreed to rent the 600 sq. ft. building so I could start my own salon: the deal was sealed with a 20 dollar bill. I named it The Cut Above. As the name implies, I wanted my salon (and my stylists) to be recognized as a "high-end" salon.

My "hot-button" for sometime has been on continuing education and training. I have taken private classes under stylists who are leaders in the profession, such as Horst Rechelbacher, who is the founder of Aveda, John English from London, "Jingles" in New York, Don Shaw in Atlanta, Georgia, and others.

After 4 years, The Cut Above got a new 2,000 sq. ft. home with the addition of tanning booths, a massage room, and more stylists.

After selling the salon, I joined Revlon Professional Products as their Field Educator in the Midwest Sales Region. In this position, I served as a technical instructor on the use of Revlon hair care products, specializing in the composition of hair coloring formulas and hair coloring techniques, conducting seminars for retailers, wholesalers and licensed cosmetologists.

When the travel with Revlon became too overwhelming and the desire to own my own salon kept getting stronger, I decided it was time to get back to what I loved doing most...cutting hair.

On the way to visit friends in the area, I passed through Chelsea and was immediately attracted to its charm. It has a personality similar to that of the village of Hesperia (on the west side of the state) where I grew up on a farm.

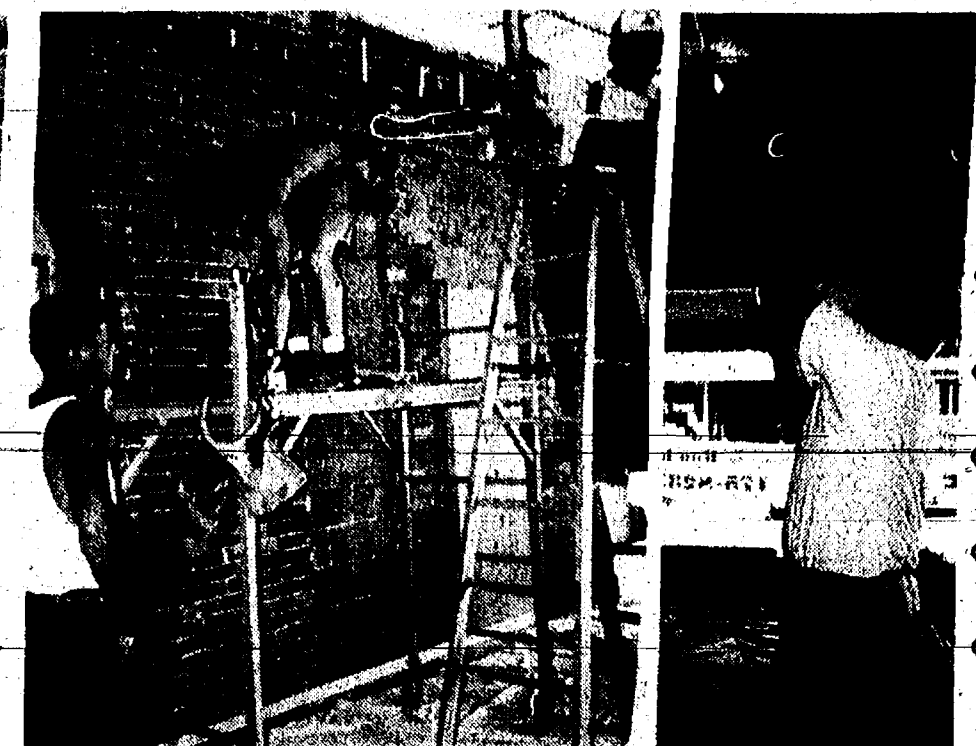

I believe that events and the paths we follow in life are all a matter of timing. My "dream" was to open a salon with a Victorian ambience, creating a warm "at home" atmosphere while combining a gift boutique with the services of the salon. The timing was right when I learned from friends that Trendsetterz was for sale. On the closing date when the papers were signed, my dream became reality. My thanks go out to Ron Kiel for his patience and capable professionalism. With his knowledge and ability this renovation succeeded.

To achieve a total Victorian look and to complement the natural brick walls and wood floors, we decided to use antique dressers from the late 19th and early 20th century, and to install a "tin" ceiling. If you look around the old buildings in Chelsea, you will notice most have painted tin ceilings, we decided to leave ours the natural color. It's not actual tin but the same grade of steel used in manufacturing cars. The stamps that are used to press the panels are the original stamps used in the 1800's. It looks awesome. We were warned we would find a couple of old doorways that had been closed off and plastered over during previous remodeling. Well, we didn't find two...we found FIVE! We had to get real creative and modify our plans. One door became a retail display while others were camouflaged with mirrors, plaster, etc. They are great conversation pieces.

Put it all together and it's a totally different atmosphere what one anticipates in a salon. People walking by comment that they could not tell if it was an antique shop or a hair salon. Well, it's both. The antiques are not only our fixtures, but they are for sale. Above all, it's primary focus is to serve the customer who is looking for top-quality salon services. I want clients to feel relaxed, comfortable and to make themselves at home. After working all day, I want them to feel they can take a break and get refreshed!

I am very happy to be in Chelsea, and I hope everyone who reads this accepts my invitation to stop by and say hello. I'd love to personally show you my new Village Hair Studio!

Ann Arbor Machine Makes Offer to Buy Industrial Lots

A relatively new company to Chelsea's industrial park has made an offer to Chelsea Village Council for the purchase of two additional lots.

Ann Arbor Machine, which purchased the former Dana Plant building and accompanying 30 acres in January, has made an offer to buy two other sites, each a little over an acre in size. Council president Richard Steele said the company intends to build on at least one site. He would not disclose how much company president Jim Breining has offered for the land.

Ann Arbor Machine made the $4 million deal to purchase the Dana Plant and land so it could relocate its headquarters in Chelsea. An additional $3 million was spent in renovations.

The company, which designs and builds special metal cutting machinery for automotive companies and suppliers, has grown over its 10 years of existence to employ 225 workers. It selected Chelsea as the site for its headquarters because of a desire to consolidate its operations previously located in seven surrounding communities.

Watershed Council Will Help Protect Drinking Water

W. K. Kellogg Foundation, of Battle Creek has granted $178,919 to the Huron River Watershed Council to work with communities within the watershed to protect their public drinking water supplies. The grant will be distributed over three years.

Michigan's drinking water supplies face threats from a variety of sources, including contamination from industrial sites, poor land use planning around wellfields, and poorly planned residential/commercial development into open lands serving as groundwater recharge areas. In 1990, Michigan's Department of Natural Resources listed over 29 public drinking water systems as contaminated, including communities in the Huron basin.

To address this problem, communities with public groundwater supplies are beginning to undertake "wellhead protection programs" to protect their citizens' drinking water wells. Since 1992, with funding from the W. K. Kellogg Foundation, the Watershed Council has worked with three communities. Pinckney, Milford, and Ann Arbor to develop such programs. This new grant from the Kellogg Foundation will allow the Council to expand their work into other watershed communities, which include the Villages of Dexter, Chelsea, and Barton Hills, the Cities of Brighton and South Lyon, and Scio township.

'Blue' Softball Team Finishes Winning Season With 8-4 Record

Chelsea "Blue" softball team of the Southeast Michigan Girls' Fast Pitch Association completed a fine season last week, with double header sweeps of Chelsea "Gold" and Lincoln.

The team finished with a winning record of 8-4, and is made up of this year's incoming sophomore and freshman girls softball players.

This year, the league was made up of two teams from Chelsea, three from Saline, and one each from Britton-Deerfield, Lincoln, and Tecumseh.

On July 31, Chelsea Blue downed Lincoln in the first game by a score of 21-6, and won the second game 24-10. Leading hitters in the two game set were Melissa Yekulis, who belted a home run, triple, and a single; Dana Meza, who went 5 for 5 with a triple and four singles; Stacey Johnston, who had a triple and two singles; and Lindsey Williams, who went 5 for 5 with a double and four singles.

In a double-header on July 28, Chelsea Blue downed Chelsea Gold in two very tight exciting games by scores of 15-14 and 14-13. The Blue team rallied from an 11-2 deficit in the last two innings, to win the first game on a steal of home by Candice Hall in the bottom of the sixth.

The second game was a see-saw battle, as defense and excellent pitching in the final inning by Corinna Christman kept the Gold team from scoring the tying run.

Leading hitters for the two game set against Chelsea Gold were Stacey Johnston, who was 4 for 5 with a double and three singles; Kristen Brink, who had four singles; and G-Jo Pearce, who had three singles.

Many Chelsea Blue players had a fine season at the plate, and the team was led by Stacey Johnston, who batted in the lead-off position, and finished with a .520 batting average. Kristen Brink was next at .483, and was followed by Stacey Melton at .480, Lindsey Williams at .438, and Dana Meza at .419. The team's 300 hitters were Melissa Yekulis at .379, G-Jo Pearce at .357, and Ingrid Biedron at .308.

Pitching was another important weapon for the Chelsea Blue team this year, as the team was led by sophomores Melissa Yekulis and Stacey Schulz. Freshmen Ingrid Biedron, Candice Hall, and Corinna Christman also did a fine job this summer, and picked up some valuable experience for the future.

Ron Biedron and Joe Yekulis coached this year's team.

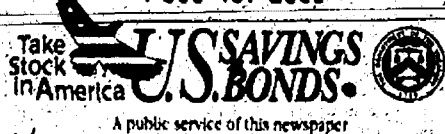

Chelsea Man Arrested on Four Warrants

Chelsea Police arrested a local man on four different warrants, July 29.

Jimmie Collingsworth, 37, of Chelsea was arrested at his home on Old US-12. He was wanted on two felony warrants for receiving stolen property and possession of a controlled substance and two misdemeanor warrants for failing to appear in court on charges of disorderly conduct and domestic assault. Collingsworth was turned over to the Michigan State Police and transported to Washtenaw County jail.

Frosh/JV Girls Basketball Practice Starts Monday

Girls freshman/JV basketball practice begins on Monday, Aug. 14, at 9 a.m. at Chelsea High school. All freshmen/sophomores are welcome, with or without previous experience.

Interested freshmen and sophomores must have a physical examination and should plan to practice Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. until 11 a.m. at Chelsea High school for the two weeks prior to the start of school.

Come and try out or contact Mr. Waller, 475-8816, or Mr. Terpstra, 475-8822, to let them know if you are interested.

There will be a freshman program this year.

High School Soccer Team Begins Practice

Chelsea High school boys soccer team will begin its season on Monday, Aug. 14.

Anyone interested in participating should be at the Immanuel Bible Church field on McKinley Rd. across from North School at 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. Bring water and be ready to play.

Questions should be directed to David Cooper at 475-0990 or 475-3229.

Frosh Football Practice Starts Monday

Any boys interested in playing freshman football should report to the high school on Monday, Aug. 14 at 12 noon for an organizational meeting followed by their first practice. Although they will take players until after school starts, the coaching staff stresses the importance of anyone considering playing to start Monday.

The state requires a certain number of practices before playing a game in football. We also do a lot of basic teaching that first week. Athletes who don't start on time may not only be behind, but may also have to sit out games until they have the required practices in explained freshman coach Bill Bainton. "We urge anyone who thinks they would like to play to be there Monday the 14th."

Anyone who did not have the athletic physical in June is reminded to bring a completed physical form, or to get one as soon as possible.

Antlerless Deer Hunting License Applications Available

Department of Natural Resources application forms and guides for antlerless deer hunting licenses will be available in early August at more than 1,500 license dealers throughout Michigan.

In order to be entered in the computer drawing for these licenses, applications must be submitted by Sept. 24.

An antlerless deer hunting license allows a hunter to take a deer without antlers, or with antlers less than three inches in length, during the regular firearm deer hunting season, Nov. 15-30.

"Michigan's abundant whitetail deer resource has allowed us to again provide an increased level of participation in the antlerless hunt," DNR Director Roland Harnes said. "Over the years the antlerless deer permits have allowed biologists to more finely tune deer herd management across the state."

Antlerless deer licenses not used during the regular firearm season will be valid for use in designated deer management units during the Dec. 1-10 muzzleloading season in the Upper Peninsula, the Dec. 8-17 muzzleloading season in the Lower Peninsula, or the Dec. 1, 1995, to Jan. 1, 1996, portion of the bowhunting season.

This year, hunters will apply for an antlerless deer hunting application through the new Retail Licensing System. A mail-in application form will no longer be used. Applicants can apply for the antlerless deer hunting license drawing at any DNR office which sells licenses or at any of the 1,500 license agents throughout the state. Individuals may also apply by telephone with a credit card at 1-800-898-MDNR, although there will be an additional charge for that service.

Individuals can apply for an antlerless deer hunting license any time after Aug. 1, 1995, through midnight (or at the end of the business day) Sept. 24, 1995.

This year, hunters may apply for an antlerless deer hunting license without first having to purchase a regular deer hunting license. However, they must have a regular firearm deer hunting license in their possession to hunt antlerless deer during the regular firearm or muzzleloading season. They must have a regular archery deer hunting license in their possession to hunt antlerless deer with a bow during the Dec. 1 to Jan. 1 archery season.

To apply, hunters will need either a valid Michigan driver license, Michigan DNR sportscard, or a Secretary of State ID card. Applicants must apply in person and may only apply once. The $3.50 non-refundable fee must be paid at the time of application.

The DNR holds a random drawing each fall to determine which applicants will be issued antlerless deer hunting licenses. By Nov. 1, successful hunters will be mailed a bag tag, allowing them to take an antlerless deer in a specific deer management unit.

A total of 295,524 antlerless deer hunting licenses will be available in 139 deer management units where deer numbers need to be stabilized or reduced. This is almost twice the 153,558 antlerless deer hunting licenses issued in 1994 in 90 deer management units. About 400,000 hunters are expected to apply for 1995 antlerless deer hunting licenses.

There are some deer management units, like 215 in southern Menominee county, where all applicants will probably be successful in the drawing. In other units, like 079 in Missaukee county, less than 1 in 10 applicants may be successful. An applicant's chance of receiving a license depends on the number of licenses available in a unit as well as the number of hunters applying. This year, the DNR has published a table in the antlerless deer hunting guide that estimates the odds of receiving a license.

Sylvan Township Board Proceedings

Regular Meeting August 1, 1995

The regular meeting of the Sylvan Township Board was held August 1, 1995 at 7 p.m. in the Sylvan Township Hall, 112 W. Middle Street, Chelsea, MI.

The following board members were present: Supervisor Dresselhouse, Clerk Koch, Treasurer Pearsall, Trustee Heller and Trustee Lesser.

Also present was Charles Burgess. Minutes for the July meeting were approved as presented.

Motion by Lesser, supported by Pearsall, to pay bills as presented. Carried.

Zoning Inspector Burgess reported 8 permits were issued in July. Supervisor Dresselhouse reported on the status of UATS study for the proposed bypass, and updated the Board on discussions regarding development from Doug Nadeau and Irving Feller.

A resident from Kernwood Drive was in attendance and inquired about having chloride put on the private road—Kernwood. Supervisor Dresselhouse explained that by law the Township cannot expend funds on private roads.

Public Act 104: Myomassolgy was discussed. This Public Act allows local ordinances to regulate massage establishments and massagists. It was recommended to the Planning Commission to establish a need for an ordinance in Sylvan Township at their September meeting.

Clerk Koch reported that the District Library Planning Committee has not met over the summer months. They hope to resume in September. The status is a stand still with no deadlines in order. However, the Township Board is aware that a deadline will reoccur and still have no response from the public as to whether Sylvan Township should participate and sign the Agreement to join the District Library and require all residents to pay 2 mills to support this District Library. A survey is available at the Township Hall and at the McKune Memorial Library. No results have been made available to the Township. It is imperative that the Board receives information from the residents as to their thoughts of this District Library before an Agreement can be signed.

Motion by Pearsall, supported by Lesser, to authorize Clerk Koch to sign engagement letter from: Plante & Moran for 3-31-96 audit. Carried.

Motion by Heller, supported by Koch, to adjourn.

LuAnn S. Koch, Clerk.

RCIA Program Starts Aug. 22 at St. Mary's Church

St. Mary's Catholic Parish will be hosting its first meeting of the RCIA program on Tuesday, Aug. 22, at 7 p.m. at the parish rectory on Old US-12, Chelsea.

This program addresses itself to anyone who is non-affiliated with any Christian sect and interested in learning more about Christianity; anyone who is a baptized Christian interested in learning more about Catholic Christianity; or anyone who is Catholic but has not been active in their practice and is interested in renewing their participating in a Catholic community.

The meeting will be conducted by the parish staff and members of the Parish RCIA team. All interested adults are invited to attend.

Chelsea Doctor Attends Chiropractic Centennial Symposium

Dr. Warren and Letha Atkinson returned recently from the Chiropractic Centennial Celebration in Washington, D.C. "The magnitude of the celebration was awesome," stated Dr. Atkinson, who with his wife, Letha and sons, Devin and Derek participated in the once in a lifetime event.

The Fourth of July festivities, with fireworks exploding over the Washington Monument, provided a rousing start to the five-day chiropractic symposium.

Attendees heard motivational speaker Stephen Covey, MBA, Ph.D., author of the best seller, "The Seven Habits of Highly Effective People" and first-hand experience of chiropractic practice from the chiropractic college presidents.

Attendees served as a focus group when they previewed and provided comments on the new chiropractic documentary produced by Chiropractic Centennial Foundation Media Committee chairman, Dr. Guy Riekeman. It was part of the final editing process. The hour long program, hosted by Jack Perkins, traces health care's history and the emergence of chiropractic 100 years ago, not only as a force, but as a leader in the redefinition of health care.

Dr. Atkinson has practiced in Chelsea for 17 years and has served in various capacities on the state level of the Michigan Chiropractic Society, including president of the district, member of the board of directors and currently serves as the chairman of the political action committee. He is a member of the American Chiropractic Association and the Parker Chiropractic Resource Foundation.

Pre-Fair Jitters

By Kasie Ruhlig
"I just need to concentrate on my coat and polish my talent," says Junior Cara Heitman.

With that statement, Cara expresses the feelings of most fair queen contestants at this time of the year. It is the week before the fair and contestants are trying to finish their floats, polish their talents, plan their wardrobe for the next week, and practice their answers to possible questions. However, the biggest worry is the float.

Some contestants are feeling frustrated because they are getting almost no help from their sponsors. Some contestants are grateful for the support they are receiving but still anxious about finishing on time.

When chatting with the contestants about their feelings, all of them said that they were having fun. Sophomore Jessica Timm expressed it best by saying: "I'm having a blast. I'm not even concerned about winning. I'm having so much fun." The contestants say they have been having fun in every aspect of the competition, from working on their floats, to shopping for dresses, to dance rehearsals.

In addition to fun, the other shared feeling among the contestants was fear about performing their talent.

Vocal talent seems to be the most common this year, but there is also vocal drama, magic, flags, and baton to spice up the competition. The talent competition promises to be good this year because so many of the contestants are experienced performers.

The girls had varying answers when asked why they had entered and why they were still in the competition. Junior Cara Heitman said, "I heard that it was fun. Plus, I think it will be a growing experience with both public speaking and portraying yourself as a positive role model involved."

Sophomore Jessica Timm would like to become an actress and she thinks that the Fair Queen program will help her reach that goal. She had heard that it has fun and she likes to meet new people. Those were senior Heather Greenleaf's two reasons for entering.

Senior Jeanine Mouilleseaux was a contestant last year and enjoyed it so much that she wanted to compete again.

And there you have it, the pre-fair feelings of the contestants.

Contemplating Life

By Allen W. Smith
"The fear of life is the favorite disease of the twentieth century."—William Lyon Phelps.

Fear is one of the most debilitating of all the emotions. It can cause us to behave in ways we would never consider in the absence of fear, and it can prevent us from taking actions that our best judgment urges us to take. In the words of Bertrand Russell, "Fear is the main source of superstition, and one of the main sources of cruelty."

What are we afraid of? Almost everything. We are afraid of both the present and the future. We are afraid of people and germs. Many of us are afraid to try anything new because we might fail. We are afraid that we might become seriously ill even when we are in good health. We are afraid our loved ones will be killed or injured. We are afraid people will not think highly enough of us, or that they will talk about us. We are afraid of getting old. The list goes on and on.

How can we get rid of our fears? We can't. We cannot eliminate the uncertainties of life. What we can do, however, is to work toward getting our fears under control. A little fear is probably healthy in that it makes us observe a reasonable degree of caution in our lives. But too much fear can ruin our lives. It can rob us of happiness. It can even make us ill.

Eleanor Roosevelt said, "I believe that anyone can conquer fear by doing the things he fears to do, provided he keeps doing them until he gets a record of successful experiences behind him."

If there is any secret to conquering fear, perhaps it is that we must do those things we are afraid to do if we are to eliminate these fears. If we are afraid to speak up in public, invite friends over for a meal, or travel by air, these fears will always be with us unless we do these very things that we are so afraid of doing.

If our fears are mainly about bad things that might happen to us, maybe we should use the law of averages to outlaw our fears. Most things that most people fear never happen. We can also reconcile ourselves to dealing with whatever happens to us no matter how bad. We must deal with whatever happens to us, good or bad, simply because we are forced to do so. Perhaps we should prepare for the worst and hope for the best, and then get on with the business of enjoying life one day at a time.

Edmund Burke wrote, "No passion so effectually robs the mind of all its powers of acting and reasoning as fear." Can anyone doubt the truth of this statement? Doesn't fear cripple, and even paralyze, us more than anything else we can think of? Might not getting control of our fears increase our happiness almost more than anything else we can do? Think about it.

Your Money Matters

Living on One Income

The need to care for children or elderly parents, among other reasons, has caused many dual-income households to seriously consider having one member walk away from a good job and a reliable salary. According to the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants, living on one income may not be as difficult as you think. That's because many two-income families overestimate the real value of a second income. Much of the financial advantage of two incomes can be eroded by expenses associated with dual careers.

Here's how to estimate the value of that second income. First, determine the taxes you pay on the two combined incomes. Then, compute the taxes on the one income you would keep. Subtract the difference.

For example, take a couple with annual earnings of $35,000 and $15,000 who pay roughly $12,000 in taxes on their combined earnings. If only one spouse worked and earned $35,000, the couple would pay $8,000 in taxes. This would mean that the second $15,000 income incurs $4,000 ($12,000 minus $8,000) in additional taxes, reducing its real after-tax value to approximately $11,000.

Once you determine the after-tax value of the second income, deduct the costs associated with earning that second salary such as child care, commuting, clothing, and lunch expenses. You may also want to subtract costs associated with conveniences that help you cope with being a dual-career family. For example, many two-income families find themselves spending a great deal of money for housecleaning, laundry services, landscaping, and restaurant and take-out meals. If a spouse stays at home, these expenses often can be cut by at least half.

Once these expenses are deducted from your second income, you may be surprised at what you're left with. The couple who thought they were bringing home an extra $15,000 in earnings, may discover that they end up with $5,000 or $6,000 of disposable income.

Of course, the effect of giving up a second income depends on your family's financial situation. It may mean you need to put your college savings and/or retirement funding plans on hold for a while. It may even require occasionally dipping into your savings.

CPAs offer the following learn-to-live-on-less strategies:

- Slash insurance costs by raising deductibles on your homeowner's and auto insurance policies. Drop collision coverage on a car that is paid for or more than five years old.

- Change your health insurance from a traditional indemnity plan to a plan offered by an HMO (health maintenance organization) or similar organization.

- Watch your utility bills. Turn off lights and appliances when they're not in use.

- Limit the number of credit cards you use to one or two, and keep consumer debts and credit card charges to a minimum.

- Join a carpool or take public transportation to work.

- Develop new spending habits. Curtail your entertainment costs by opting for less expensive vacations and dining in more frequently. Instead of going to the movies, rent a video. Instead of buying books and CDs, take them out of the library.

Before you or your spouse relinquish a job, be certain you have set aside at least six months' worth of living expenses in an emergency fund. You'll want to be sure you can easily withdraw money from the fund and keep it separate from your other savings.

Finally, CPAs also point out that it's especially important for the remaining wage earner to have sufficient disability coverage. Keep in mind that if disability insurance is provided by your employer, your monthly benefit is typically limited to only 50 percent or 60 percent of your salary after the waiting period has been met. In a one-income household, this limited benefit may make it difficult to meet day-to-day expenses. For this reason, it's often wise to obtain additional disability coverage on your own.

Remember, much of the financial advantage of two incomes can be eroded by the expenses connected with two careers. If you have ever wondered if your family could afford to get by on one income, CPAs advise you to get a true picture of the after-tax value of that second income.

Negotiation: Friend Or Foe

By Stewart L. Tubbs
Dean, College of Business,
Eastern Michigan University

The baseball strike is over after 234 days and a billion dollars in lost revenues. This type of negotiation and the dialogues between the prosecution and defense attorneys in the O.J. Simpson trial get all the media attention. However negotiations go on every day that are important parts of our lives, such as those between bosses and employees, husbands and wives or parents and children.

The fundamental question is are negotiations good or bad. The answer is they are both. Negotiations are bad when they result in a lose-lose outcome like we have seen in the baseball strike. Everybody lost. In the O.J. Simpson trial, there will inevitably be a winner and a loser.

But in everyday lives and in business many negotiations can result in a win-win outcome. For example, if the boss gets an employee to agree to work on a weekend, he or she may also have the employee trade days off with another worker so that both employees are satisfied. With the husband and wife, they may look at several choices for an evening out, and decide to go to a movie one time and bowling another. With the parents and children, the kids can do what the parents want in exchange for something they want, such as going to a movie, watching a certain TV program, or sleeping over at a friend's house.

Experts Roger Fisher and William Ury at Harvard have identified four principles of effective negotiation. They refer to the process as principled negotiation. The principles are: First, separate people from the problem. This is very hard to do, but involves not personally attacking The Other Party. When in the heat of discussing differences of opinion, one of the most common mistakes we make is to get sarcastic and personal.

Second, focus on interests, not positions. In real estate, for example, it is easy to get locked in on a sale price. Both parties may deadlock because they are a few hundred dollars apart. Instead, the parties can focus on their interests, such as getting the house sold by a certain deadline, agreeing on what is included in the cost, when to take occupancy, or what furnishings might be included in the sale price.

Third, invent various options for mutual gain. This is often the easier to accomplish. Instead of deciding between a and b, the parties should brainstorm c, d, e, f, g, if necessary. One family in a negotiation with a mover told the mover they had to get the move for no more than the amount they were going to be reimbursed by their employer. The mover had estimated over a thousand dollars more. The family decided they could pack many of their own boxes of towels, books and other bulky things, and save a lot on the packing charges. Finally, they were only two hundred dollars apart. The mover wanted this business, so he threw in a "decision-maker's discount," since the family had one member who was going to be in a leadership position. This clearly was just a creative way of "inventing" an option to achieve mutual gain. Both parties were satisfied and the deal was signed.

Fourth, use objective criteria. If you want to sell or buy a used car, the Blue Book is one example; appraisals of property are another; average starting salaries are another if you are looking for a job and want to get (or offer) a certain salary.

The real beauty of learning and using principled negotiation is that the more both parties know how to use these four principles, the more likely they both are to achieve their goals.

Perhaps this is why 90 percent of law suits are negotiated out of court. There is more room for both parties to explore win-win solutions.

Like all plain breads, pita bread has almost no fat and only 70 to 80 calories per ounce. Whole-wheat pita, like whole-wheat bread, is more nutritious than that made from refined wheat. Pita's main advantage is its small serving size: a typical 7-inch pita weighs in at only 2 ounces and 150 calories, vs. about 4 ounces and 320 calories in the average long sandwich roll or bagel.

WCC Spring/Summer Enrollment Above Last Year's Mark

Spring/Summer enrollment at Washtenaw Community College is slightly above last year's count according to a report presented to the Board of Trustees at its July 25 meeting. This year, 5,389 students registered for Spring/Summer classes, an increase of 1.3 percent over 1994 figures; that total reflects registration through July 20.

More people continue to take advantage of early enrollment opportunities. Over 2,400 students registered for classes early, an increase of 26.2 percent. Telephone registration is also gaining popularity with over 1,000 individuals signing up for classes by phone.

The number of credit hours generated during the semester were down slightly over last year's figures. The July 20 report shows 27,112 credits hours taken this semester, a 1.5 percent decrease from last year's figures.

When a student is admitted to WCC, and each time they register thereafter, they are asked to specify their educational intent and program. Of the 5,367 students enrolled in Spring/Summer classes as of July 10, 2,374 (or 44.2 percent) indicated they planned on obtaining a degree or certificate at WCC. Of those degree-seeking students, 25.4 percent were studying for a Business degree, 38 percent are pursuing studies in Health and Public Services, and this Spring/Summer, 16.7 percent of enrollees are pursuing a Technology Division program. Sixty-three percent of the degree-seeking students were women this Spring/Summer semester.

Of all the students enrolled at WCC this semester, 878 (16.4 percent) are college graduates, while another 1,578 (29.4 percent) transferred from a two- or four-year college or university. One hundred and three (1.9 percent) of the students enrolled are currently enrolled high school students.

Over the last three Spring/Summer semesters, minority enrollment at the college has increased, from 24.1 to 24.6 percent. When the minority enrollment at WCC is compared to the minority composition of Washtenaw county, WCC had equal or higher percentages of students in every minority group.

The average age of all students enrolled at WCC for the Spring/Summer semester is 29.7 with students in the 25-34-year-old age group comprising the largest age category (29.4 percent). And of all the students enrolled during the semester, 68.8 percent are in-district students, i.e. residents of Washtenaw county.

AN OPEN LETTER TO SHARON TOWNSHIP HOUSEHOLD RESIDENTS:

Since 1992 you have had the opportunity to recycle newspapers, aluminum, and steel cans, #1 and #2 plastic containers, brown, green, and clear glass at the expense of local government. This may have saved you up to 30% of your household waste disposal costs.

The Sharon Township Board thanks you and is happy to announce the continuation of the recycling program in cooperation with MISTER RUBBISH of Whitmore Lake and G.E. WACKERS INC. at M52 and Pleasant Lake Roads.

Now, in addition to the above items, you can recycle magazines, phone directories, corrugated cardboard, box board, office paper, and junk mail.

WATCH YOUR MAIL FOR A FREE $8.50 CERTIFICATE REDEEMABLE AT G.E. WACKERS FOR A SUPPLY OF MISTER RUBBISH RECYCLE BAGS.

Your continued participation in recycling will help save the environment for our children and future generations, use natural resources more effectively, save tax dollars, and reduce your household expenses.

SINCERELY,
SHARON TOWNSHIP BOARD

Everybody's Science

★ His Summer Job— Sorting Insects in France

By Jim De Quantro
College senior Roger Allen Burks, Jr., began jotting down scientific names of animals, bugs and plants on file cards at age 12. Now, 42,000 cards later, his curiosity has helped him land a summer job—in France.

Burks, of Tucker, Ark., and five other college students are working alongside U.S. Department of Agriculture researchers who search out, identify and test insects that could be natural alternatives to chemical pesticides in this country. USDA's Agricultural Research Service operates a laboratory at Montpellier, France, as home base for this research.

Of the six interns, Burks may have the most unusual educational background. He stopped going to public school after sixth grade in 1987.

"My father thought I'd learn more being taught at home," Burks says. His father guided the son's studies, based on reading the great works of literature and science. He mastered mathematics from old textbooks. He was awarded a high-school General Equivalency Diploma in 1992.

At the University of Arkansas at Pine Bluff, Burks has earned straight A's. "His knowledge of insect classification and taxonomy is overwhelming," says his faculty advisor, Joseph G. Burleigh.

Insect identification is crucial to scientists seeking natural enemies of pests in habitats overseas, says Lloyd Knutson, director of the Montpellier lab. Such natural enemies as well as microorganisms could someday combat U.S. insect pests like sweetpotato whiteflies and gypsy moths and U.S. weeds like leafy spurge and Russian thistle.

Montpellier researchers collect beneficial candidates not just in France, but across Europe and the Mediterranean, meaning it will be a busy summer of insect identification for Burks. He is among 200 to 250 college students that ARS hires each summer at its research locations in a program to encourage young people to pursue careers in science.

Other interns at Montpellier, their hometowns and colleges are Angela M. Flechsenhar, Cascade, Mont., Concordia College, Moorhead, Minn.; Christine Franklin, St. Louis, Mo.; University of Arkansas at Pine Bluff; Michael John Goeden, Riverside, Calif.; University of California at San Diego; Marshall Langworthy Johnson, Beech Mountain, N.C.; University of North Carolina at Asheville, and Tara Reagan McMahan, Rutherfordton, N.C., North Carolina-Asheville.

(Agricultural Research Service,
U.S. Department of Agriculture)

Scientists at the U.S. Department of Agriculture are studying ways to boost the amount of dietary zinc available in edible plants. That would be helpful in countries where meat, the most common source of dietary zinc, is hard to come by. When animals or people don't get enough zinc in their diet, doctors have observed birthing difficulties, depressed growth in young people and slower healing of wounds.

FAMILY ROOM

By KAREN MEIER

Socrates. Remember him? The Greek guy from long ago who thought great thoughts and taught great things? And remember how he wasn't a lecture kind of teacher, but rather a question asker, asking question after question until his pupils finished answering all the questions? And once they'd done that, the pupils knew what they were supposed to know? And that was known as the Socratic method of teaching? Sure you remember that.

Well, today, I'm employing what I call the modified Socratic method. I emphasize "modified" because I can't possibly stick to that no lecture credo of Socrates. I am, you know, a Mom, which stands for Many Opinions Mentioned.

So anyway, here goes. The Socratic/Mom style of discussion.

What do you like dishing out more? Criticism or compliments? Do you feel more effective with a bunch of barbs, brickbats and burning arrows? Or would you feel more comfortable supplied with a pile of praise, applause, and kudos?

And let me ask you this. What's more likely to make your day? Getting criticized? Or getting complimented? Does getting a compliment make you feel like you want to skip around the kitchen and turn your favorite song up on the radio and sing right out loud and fix chocolate pudding for your children for no good reason? Or is it criticism that makes you feel that way? Buoyant and benevolent and capable of reaching higher heights?

Compliment vs. criticism. What is best? Here's what I think—compliments. Those are best. Criticism is just rotten business. The giving of and receiving of. It doesn't feel nice to give it and it feels even worse receiving it.

I've found that folks who serve up criticism with ease have the notion that they're doing you a favor. That they're doing it out of the goodness of their heart. That by criticizing you they are somehow motivating you to do better. Do better? I don't think so. The only thing a chronic criticizer motivates you to do is put a tack on his chair.

A compliment, though, is truly one of the world's best motivators. A word of praise motivates a person like sunshine and water motivate a flower. With sunshine and water the flower reaches ever upward, reaching higher heights. Criticism, on the other hand, withers the flower and dries it up. I've seen it happen.

During one of the baseball games my son played in this summer a Dad/Coach type person used the criticism style of coaching. You know what? It didn't work. You could actually see the criticism leveled against the boys weigh them down. They hung their heads, their shoulders slumped, they looked several inches shorter, they kicked at the dirt and lost the game, big time, to my son's team. I didn't know the poor kids on that other team, but I felt a really strong urge to go out on the pitcher's mound and call them all together and give each one a bug hug and tell them they could have an ice cream cone after the game because they were trying so hard and that's all that really mattered. I didn't, of course. And I should be criticized for that.

And how does it work the other way, the compliment side? Does it really motivate? Absolutely.

I've seen that happen too. To me. As a columnist who writes about family things and parenting things and one who uses personal experience to illustrate, I receive comments and suggestions which are, themselves, pretty personal. Some are, hummm—hostile. But most are unbelievably complimentary and friendly. And every time, without exception, the friendly, complimentary type feels good. And I've found that compliments are tremendous motivators. For instance, here's a recent comment from a reader. "Your articles are outstanding. I love reading them. And they're very inspirational to me. I have to say you've got to be an outstanding mother. Thank you. You give me a lot of insight into my own life. I appreciate it. Thank you."

Holy smokes! Now that's a compliment! And motivating? Who wouldn't be motivated by that? What Mom wouldn't try even harder and sing out loud and treat everyone to chocolate pudding for no good reason?

Everyone, especially Moms, should have a compliment like that said to them. A compliment to Mom will make her feel jaunty and taller and willing to reach even higher heights. Like the flower with its sunshine and rain.

And something else about compliments. When you get them they make you feel so darn good that you can't help give them out yourself. It's a kind of infectious thing.

And that kind of infection should go unchecked everywhere. Ball diamonds, family rooms, classrooms, you name it. That kind of infection needs no cure.

Compliment or criticism? So? What do you think is best?

COW CHIP RAFFLE co-chairpersons Sue Rodgers and Kathy Powers are coaching this cow who will be a principal actor in the coming event. To benefit Chelsea's Timber Town playground project she will do "her thing" on one of the numbered squares in the Horse Arena during the Chelsea Community Fair on Friday, Aug. 25 at 7 p.m. The person holding a raffle ticket corresponding to that numbered square may win up to $1,000.

Cow Chip Raffle Tickets Will Help Fund Playground

Timber Town, a community-built playground project, will have a display booth at Pierce Park Sunday, Aug. 13, to distribute information about the project and to sell t-shirts and cow chip raffle tickets.

Timber Town is sponsoring the cow chip raffle on Friday, Aug. 25, at 7 p.m. at the Chelsea Fairgrounds Horse Arena.

A cow chip raffle is an event where a couple of cows are let loose in a marked-off area to "do their thing" in whatever square they choose. For example, if the dropping lands on square number 12, the 12th ticket drawn will be first prize winner of $1,000. Both second and third prize winners will follow in a similar manner with $750 and $500 prizes.

Tickets are $10. A maximum of 2,000 tickets will be sold. Profits from this and all fund-raising events will go towards the building of Timber Town, a large wooden castle-like playground structure on Dana donated land, scheduled for construction June 11-16, 1996.

This is the first major fund-raising event for Timber Town. Community support for this project is vital. In addition to raising $100,000 for the materials, the community will be asked to volunteer to help actually construct Timber Town. Over 200 volunteers will be needed at the site daily during the construction phase. In addition, volunteers will be needed to provide childcare and food for the onsite workers.

MULTIPLE DISASTERS were reported Monday when MichCon crews ruptured a water main on Dewey St. and when public works crews arrived to repair it and in turn ruptured an old gas main. Gas bubbled through the water and leaked through the pavement until both crews solved their respective problems. How much of the food dollar do you think the farmer gets? On average: about 22 cents. Thirty-five cents of every food dollar goes to marketing, and eight cents is spent on packaging.

SHERIFF'S REPORT

Sylvan Township

Warrant Arrest

Jaroslav Andrusyszyn, 25, of Farmington Hills was arrested on westbound I-94 near Kalmbach Rd., July 30. Andrusyszyn was initially stopped on a traffic violation. A computer check revealed he was wanted on a bench warrant for failing to appear in court on charges of writing a bad check in Macomb county. He was lodged in Washtenaw county jail.

Drunken Driving

A 25-year-old Farmington Hills man was arrested for operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor and for having an unlawful blood/alcohol level on westbound I-94 near Kalmbach Rd., July 30. The man was initially stopped for speeding 89 mph in a 65 mph zone at 3 a.m. A deputy immediately noticed the driver smelled of intoxicants and was slurring his speech. He denied drinking alcohol prior to driving, however. A breathalyzer proved him a liar when his blood/alcohol was tested at .07 percent. A bench warrant was also out for his arrest in Macomb county. He was transported to Washtenaw county jail.

Dexter Township

Domestic Assault

Domestic assault was reported at the Portage Lake access site near McGregor Rd., July 29. A ranger called police after separating a 40-year-old Redford township man and his 34-year-old live-in girlfriend at 5 p.m. A marine unit was called for back up after the ranger saw the man hitting his girlfriend. The suspect said he and the woman had been arguing all day. When he bent down to tighten a snap after bringing his boat in, he said the woman smacked him in the face and walked back to their car. He followed and then reached in the car, smacked her and shook her around before the park ranger broke it up. A prosecutor will review the case.

Drunken Driving

A 25-year-old Gregory man was arrested for operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor on North Territorial Rd. near Brand Rd., July 30. Police were initially dispatched to the scene for a personal injury accident. They found the driver pinned behind the steering wheel of his vehicle and empty beer cans in the bed of the truck. The man was removed with the Jaws of Life and taken to the University of Michigan Hospital by Survival Flight at 3:55 a.m. A search warrant was obtained to draw a sample of his blood to determine the blood/alcohol content. The accident reportedly happened as the suspect was traveling westbound on North Territorial Rd. He crossed the center line and weaved to the shoulder on the south side of North Territorial Rd. before striking a tree.

A 35-year-old Howell man was arrested for operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor on McGregor Rd. near Huron Rd., July 31. Police stopped the man in his vehicle for driving on the shoulder of the road with the lights out. When questioned, the driver displayed signs of intoxication. He refused to take a field sobriety test, preliminary breath test and chemical test. Police obtained a search warrant for his blood, which was taken by a nurse at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital. A prosecutor will review the case after the man's blood/alcohol content is released. The incident was reported shortly after 1 a.m.

Disorderly Person

A 35-year-old Howell man and a 37-year-old Pinckney woman were arrested for disorderly conduct in the 9200 block of McGregor Rd., July 31. The Howell man, driver of a vehicle stopped for a traffic violation, appeared intoxicated. He refused any tests. He was arrested for suspected drunk driving and disorderly conduct. The woman, his passenger, was arrested for disorderly conduct after she was warned several times to stop yelling. Her blood/alcohol level was .18 percent.

Malicious Destruction of Property

Malicious destruction of property was reported at Camp Birkett on Anne St. near Dexter Town Hall Rd., July 29. A 48-year-old Ann Arbor man told police he arrived at the camp ground and found several buildings damaged, windows broken and sporting equipment damaged. A witness reported seeing four boys ages 10 to 15 running from the camp site. The value of damage is undetermined.

In the Hawaiian islands, where 4.3 million cans of Spam are consumed each year—more than in any other state in the union—a Spam carving contest will be held at this year's Hawaii State Farm Fair. Contestants will be given four cans of Spam, a plastic knife and 15 minutes to carve a farm animal from blocks of the pink, processed luncheon meat. Spam is widely consumed in Hawaii and made into a rice and seaweed wrap, which is called musubi.
