Residents Complain About Truck Traffic

By Scott Bishop
Staff Writer

At last week's Chelsea Village Council meeting Tuesday, Nov. 14, several concerned residents told the Council that letting industrial traffic keep on trucking through a residential neighborhood was both a hazard and a nuisance.

McKinley Street resident Chris Meloche was the leading voice for a contingent of residents concerned with industrial truck traffic on McKinley and Dewey Streets.

"The biggest concern is the type of traffic that's going through a residential area. A lot of big tandem trucks and tractor-trailers, rather than using I-94 and M-52, they take a shortcut using McKinley and Dewey to avoid downtown," Meloche explained.

Meloche illustrated the cumulative problem caused by narrow streets, huge trucks, and a McKinley-Dewey intersection busy with cars and children going to and from North Elementary School. "What happens is we've got lots of cars coming into that intersection anyway and we've got a big truck trying to negotiate a turn. So what happens is all these cars are lined up to stop, and they back into each other. I saw an incident a little while ago where a truck almost hit a little boy because (the driver) couldn't see him," he said.

Meloche read letters from a neighbor and two children unable to attend the meeting, and three more residents spoke, all with the same theme that industrial traffic on McKinley and Dewey Streets was dangerous, inconvenient, loud and an "accident waiting to happen." Additionally, residents asserted that the great majority of industrial traffic on those streets was not servicing Chelsea industry but rather had become an accepted trucking route through the village.

"We think there's got to be a better way that we can provide reasonable access to the businesses here in Chelsea without having to sacrifice the safety of our residential areas," Meloche said. He went on to offer a potential solution. "Perhaps you could prohibit semi-trucks from Dewey Street. Allow them access to drop off their loads (at, for instance, Chelsea Industries), but it's going to remove them from that intersection. It really is a problem and it scares a lot of us," Meloche concluded.

Trustee Steven Daut urged focusing on the wide ramifications of the issue. "The traffic problems here are just increasing constantly. The problem I think we need to look at real carefully is trucks are feeding into Freer, feeding in from Chelsea-Dexter Road, and if that is not an alternative route for them, what are the alternatives? We don't have acceptable routes and I think that we're getting very close to the time where we have to look at other routes, such as the northern extension of Freer, other ways to address this problem. I think we really need to start taking a real close look at this, to think about how we're going to move this traffic," Daut said.

Further discussion among the council brought to light that simply prohibiting trucks from residential areas would force them onto an already congested route through downtown.

The council sought the advice of Village Safety Coordinator Michael Foster, who advised consulting the Michigan Motor Carrier Division. Foster said he would arrange a meeting between village officials and the MMCD to discuss the problem, and that the meeting would take place before the council reconvened on Nov. 28.

Daut reaffirmed his contention that foresight was needed to solve the greater problem. "We need to start looking at the whole area and we need to start thinking about infrastructure problems here because we've got them," he said.

No More Chlorine In Water

By Michelle Rogers
Staff Writer

The Village of Chelsea has decided to stop injecting chlorine into the water system despite a recommendation from the State Department of Public Health.

Dan Rosentreter, Chelsea water superintendent, said Friday he has decided to stop adding chlorine. "We're back to normal operations," he said.

The disinfectant was introduced to the municipal water system three months ago after total coliform bacteria was detected in the water supply. Residents were placed on a boil-water advisory for six days until samples came back clean.

Coliform is not a health threat, but it is a detector of other disease-causing organisms. But nothing other than coliform was found in the water, and the introduction of chlorine killed the coliform.

Rosentreter said citizen complaints about the rust in the water and the taste prompted his decision.

Since introducing chlorine to the system, the build-up of rust in the pipes has been loosened and is consequently showing up in the water.

"We've decided not to so we can avoid the discolored water complaints," Rosentreter said. "Nobody wants the chlorine except for me. I wanted it as a safety factor."

Rosentreter and the village were advised by Bryce Feighner, a district engineer in the State Division of Water Supply Bureau of Environmental and Occupational Health, to continue adding chlorine.

"The benefits of chlorine in eliminating the recent coliform contamination cannot be overestimated," Feighner said in a letter to Rosentreter dated Sept. 5. "This department strongly recommends continuous chlorination of public water supplies to eliminate bacteria

FIFTH GRADE FOOD DRIVE: Barbara Brown's fifth-grade class at North School sponsored a food drive to benefit Faith-In-Action and Chelsea Social Services. The twenty-eight children organized the two-week drive led by chairman Thomas Quimby. Every class at North School participated and Janet Rossi's class brought in the most cans and boxes of food. The students collected 3,749 cans and boxes overall. The food will be used for Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets, and for families who need assistance after the holidays. ### Chelsea Retirement Community Named One of Country's Best

By Scott Bishop
Staff Writer

New Choices: Living Even Better After 50 magazine has selected the Chelsea Retirement Community as one of the best 20 continuing care retirement communities in the United States.

Listening to Connie Amick, CRC administrator, describe the community's philosophy in accepting residents, it's easy to figure out why. "We hope that it will become a true home for them. We hope that it will provide friendship. And we hope that it will be able to serve them physically, mentally, emotionally, spiritually. And we hope it will provide them the chance to grow as a person, no matter how old they are," she said.

The retirement community has been established in Chelsea since 1906 and has strong traditional ties to the Methodist church. The CRC serves an average of approximately 356 residents at any one time, with a staff of 220. The community offers independent apartment living, semi-independent rooms with some services provided, a full-care nursing home, and a special memory loss unit for its residents, depending on their needs.

According to Amick and United Methodist Retirement Communities, Inc. President Seneca Foote, New Choices selected the Chelsea Community through a series of stringent evaluations. First the magazine pared down the field by choosing among just accredited facilities; the CRC was accredited recently by the American Association of Homes and Services for the Aging.

Accreditation confirms that a community both is on firm financial ground and provides comprehensive care-giving services to its residents.

An extensive questionnaire regarding services offered and site visit from a New Choices writer followed before the CRC was selected for the honors list.

Amick said the magazine representative was much impressed that the CRC could offer its array of programs as a rental community, without a fee for entering residents.

Foote explained that in a rental community residents pay for services used as they use them, rather than paying large entry and monthly fees to pre-fund medical liability. He noted that the CRC was the first rental community in the nation to be accredited and the first of its kind selected for accolades by New Choices.

Amick described the CRC system as the "best of both worlds" for residents, who receive guaranteed care without big up-front fees. "If we accept you, we will never ask you to leave because of financial reasons," she said. Foote reaffirmed her point. "This is a continuing care retirement community, which means that no matter what a person's health status is, we can care for them here, except for acute hospital needs," he said.

Foote and Amick explained that the success of the CRC was reflective of a forward-looking policy toward providing services and a philosophy of empowering residents.

AATA Funding To Be Sorted Out

By Scott Bishop
Staff Writer

Is Chelsea carrying more than its fair share of the cost of public transportation? That question has been raised at the past two meetings of the village council. Last Tuesday, Nov. 14, the council explored the issue and looked forward to a resolution in the near future.

Village Manager Jack Myer said that Chelsea Village will pay $4,315 to the Ann Arbor Transportation Authority for bus service back and forth from the village to Ann Arbor, running from Oct. 1995 to Sept. 1996.

Several trustees at the Oct. 31 Council meeting expressed concern that Chelsea was unfairly subsidizing bus service to Scio Township, which reportedly paid no fees to the AATA but still received regular service.

At the Nov. 14 Council meeting, AATA Executive Director Gregory Cook confirmed that Scio Township was receiving service it did not pay for, but said the situation was being rectified.

"My charge from the (AATA) Board of Directors is to get fully allocated recovery costs on all the routes that we run," said Cook, noting that if Scio Township did not begin payment for service, the AATA would stop providing it.

Cook continued to explain his plans. "My position is to go into Scio Township, which I have not done yet. The plan is to work the businesses and some of the homes along that area, let them know that if we don't get the contract covered, we'll pull the bus," he said, adding that if service were pulled from Scio Township, the AATA would have two options. Either the buses would run down Jackson Road as they do currently, but refuse to pick up passengers, or service could be routed between Chelsea and Ann Arbor along I-94.

Cook further said he would report back to the council in two or three months with an AATA decision about Scio Township, noting that if the township contributed funds, the AATA could restructure its contract with Chelsea and the village could be eligible for some refund.

Following the meeting, Scio Township Supervisor Bob Tickle confirmed that the township paid no fees to the AATA, but said that Scio never requested bus service. He went on to say that the Township Board would likely pay for services that residents were willing to pay for, but that township surveys and solicitations of residents along Jackson road had failed to find support for funding AATA service.

Drive To Benefit Timber Town

Even though the Bottle and Can drive to benefit the Timber Town Playground officially runs from Nov. 27 to Dec. 10, contributions can be made now.

Polly's Market has agreed to set up a "Lock Box" beginning next week at their customer service counter where bottles and cans are returned. When you return your bottles and cans, you can sign your name and put it in the lock box designated for Timber Town contributions.

Beginning Monday, Nov. 27, there will be several drop-off points in Chelsea where bottles and cans can be returned, North, South and Beach Schools, as well as the Tower Mart, North Lake Party Store, and Polly's will have containers on sight for your bottles and cans.

Opening Remarks

By Brian Hamilton

There are several measures of the health of a community--its school district, its downtown business district, and even its newspaper.

Perhaps another more subtle measure is the health of its library. Any community that's doing reasonably well will take care of it. The residents realize it's money worth spending.

Take a visit to any library. Is it well used? Does it have up-to-date periodicals? Does it have a wide range of hours? Does it have a good selection?

By these measures and others, McKune Memorial Library has long been an outstanding library for its size. My family are regular users. Not only do we enjoy the material we bring home, but going to McKune is one of those inexpensive family excursions that's fun to do after school or on Saturday morning. Oh, there are occasional problems, like getting school books mixed up with library books, which apparently happens quite often in other households. The parking isn't the best but the walk is never too far.

The best part about all this is we get it absolutely free. You see, we live in Lima Township, outside the village, which means we don't have to pay a dime, unless we have an overdue book or we make a voluntary contribution to Friends of the Library. On this Thanksgiving, we are very thankful that village residents are footing the bill for us, and have been for years. I figure that some of my friends in Belser Estates--those folks with the big houses--are paying close to $200 per year in property taxes, so that my son can have the joy of taking home the Dr. Doolittle books, absolutely free of charge to his parents.

Doesn't this whole scenario seem a little odd? It's more than odd, it's patently unfair to village residents. There is no reason they should have to subsidize everyone else. Yet that's the way it's all set up (see the story on page 1-B).

The regular users out in the townships -- though it's not our fault -- are straining the library's resources and keeping McKune from reaching its potential, simply because we don't pay our fair share. The library needs to expand. It was fine 15 years ago before the building boom in the townships brought a corresponding boom in library patrons. McKune Library, too, is running the risk of becoming second rate for a population our size. There's no room for anything new. The Library needs money.

Establishment of a district library would solve these problems by creating a tax base that covers its true user base. Sure, our family would have to pay more, but considering the wide array of things we're taxed for, it would be money well spent.

Letters to the Editor

An Interesting Development

In October, 1994 the Village established a Special Assessment District that included Chelsea Community Hospital, Chelsea School District, St. Mary's Church, and Michael Papo and Associates. Chelsea Village Council, with advice from our bond attorney, set up the District and passed a bond issue for $510,000.00, pledging full faith and credit of the Village behind it. The District was created to include all parties that would benefit from the improvements to the sewer system. The Village was not included in the bond issue of the Special Assessment District, but was part of the sewer district by eliminating the Flanders Street lift station and replacing it with a gravity line that tied into the Special Assessment District. A series of meetings was held between Village Manager Jack Myers and representatives of the parties involved to finalize work plans, payment schedules to retire the bonds and all acknowledged and agreed to the schedules.

The bids for the project were let and a contract was awarded in December, 1994. In the summer of 1995 the Chelsea School District won approval for a bond issue for development of new schools and upgrading of current school buildings. In September, Myers was notified the School District wanted to pay off their portion of the Special Assessment, and on Nov. 17 the Village received a check paying off their Special Assessment.

This action has severe consequences for the Village. Since the Village has pledged its full faith and credit, we will now be held responsible for the interest over the payoff period for which call date is Oct. 2004. It was agreed to a payoff schedule over a period of 20 years, the total interest owed by the School District would be $100,321.79, or if the bonds were called in 2004 the interest would be $71,283.50. Village administration must now act to reduce this deficit by careful investment. This will necessitate monies for broker fees, as well as annual agent fees, all of which will have to be absorbed by the Village taxpayers on top of the interest payments. Neither I nor Village Council or Administration ever expected that this would happen at the time the Special Assessment District was formed. With all the information I had at the time, I all but guaranteed that the Village would be paying only its share. I trusted the parties were in agreement to a plan for the future, not one that ended with voter approval of a school bond issue. I know Superintendent Ed Richardson was aware of ramifications to Village taxpayers from this action. I do not know if the Board was aware of the consequences to the Village.

Thanks for Support

The members of the Chelsea Rod & Gun Club have a couple of thank-yous left over from the Chelsea Fair this past August. At the Saturday night truck pull, Bill Bennett and I passed out ear plugs to spectators who wanted them. The ear plugs were donated for the event by The Parts Peddler. The high-performance pulling vehicles produce a lot of noise, and the ear plugs helped make the night more pleasant for more than two hundred spectators.

While we passed out the ear-plugs, we also collected donations for the Chelsea Rod & Gun Scholarship Fund. Because of the generosity of the spectators that night, we were able to collect a substantial portion of one of the scholarships which will be awarded next spring to a Chelsea High School student who wishes to study a conservation-related field.

We wish to thank the people of Chelsea for their generous donations in support of their students. Thanks to all of you, and we hope to do it again next summer.

Deer-Car Crashes

Thank you for your thorough article on deer-car accidents. It is amazing that the excuse of mating and feeding habits bring on accidents. It's obvious to anyone who drives that the first week of hunting season brings on thousands of accidents. We have experienced two accidents both the first week of hunting season. Where else are the animals to go when their homes are invaded with people?

We have found recently that driving at dusk or dawn out here is nothing more than an obstacle course. We have started honking our horn at about five second intervals through any area that might be deer populated. Yes, it is obnoxious, but last year we believe we turned away about 20 deer as they were startled before they were blinded by the headlights. It's too bad that the homes nearby are disturbed by the noise but better that than an accident.

Maybe the Transportation Dept. and the DNR will get their act together and figure out a way that we don't have to pay for this so-called sport.

In the meantime try honking, you might save your life, your family, your car, insurance and an animal.

Uncle Apollo

I see where they put the village council meetings on the local cable channel, and my sleepless nights are over.

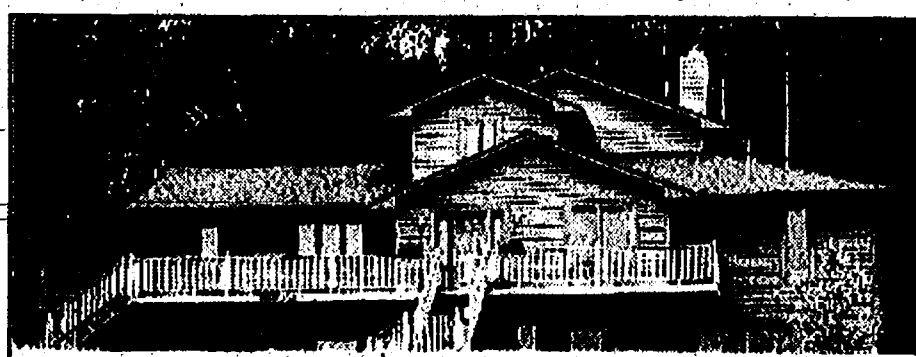

Reminds me a little of the movie "Seven", where that guy is trying to run things by finding seven deadly sinners and making them dead, only in this movie the seven deadly sinners are trying to run things and its so boring you wish YOU were dead.

Watching this blazing action on good old Channel 22, I started thinking how some people like Vice President Al Gore are always talking about reinventing government, and I came to the conclusion that they were on the right track, but didn't quite have it right, as far as local government goes. What has happened is that things have gotten all turned upside-down and they need to be re-inverted so they go right-side up again.

One good thing to do, so as not to discourage people who really and truly want to sit around shuffling papers in front of television viewers in their pjs, would be to let everyone who runs become elected. Instead of only taking the top three or four candidates, everyone who got at least one vote would go on a list, ranked in order of votes. For a tie they could play gin rummy or something. The person who had been on council the longest would rotate off every year and a new one would be added from the list. Since the ones with less votes aren't as qualified, they'd have to sit through all the meetings and just listen until they got on council. That way they would either know a lot about what they were doing by the time they had to make the decisions, or they'd be well rested. Another benefit would be that the people who just want to complain and don't get many votes would be so far down the list that they'd be waiting for 20 years and would forget what they were complaining about by the time they actually got on the council.

If you have any better ideas, I'd like to hear them, but you may have to wait in line. My e-mail address has been jammed lately.

Spinners Flock To Hold Annual Holiday Fair

The Spinner's Flock will hold its annual Holiday Fair, Saturday, Nov. 25, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Admission is free to see demonstrations offered by members, and to shop for unique garments, accessories, and yarn. The doors will be open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and a door-prize will be awarded to one lucky visitor. The facility is wheelchair accessible.

The Holiday Fair Collection features an impressive variety of hand-prepared articles utilizing local wool, an abundant, renewable, biodegradable resource. Some members of the Flock raise sheep that provide the specialty wools used by spinners from a tri-state area. Practical items, including comforters and pelt-rugs will be for sale. Natural fibers, both domestic and exotic have been fashioned into one-of-a-kind heirlooms, such as knitted garments, woven rugs and whimsical felted ornaments.

The Fair celebrates the end of the yearly wool cycle for the Flock. After a brief pause over the Holidays, the cycle will begin again with late winter shearing, just before the arrival of new Spring lambs. Spinners will choose their favorite fresh fleeces and start to process the wool into next year's finished goods. The raw, greasy wool is sorted, then gently hand-washed and often dyed with natural or commercial dyes. It is carded and perhaps blended with exotic fibers including silk, angora, and mohair. The prepared fiber inspires wondrous designer yarns. As the handspinning progresses, plans for finished projects take form. Family needs and next year's gift list are reviewed.

Inspiration is always available from kindred souls at workshops, conferences, fiber shows and monthly meetings which take place at the Beach Middle School in Chelsea. Special projects are finished in time for friendly competition at County and State Fairs. Late Summer presents an abundance of natural dye materials to be harvested, and friendly exchanges at our meetings inspire a new set of project ideas to contemplate. The first cool days of autumn bring about an inventory of fibers to be used and items to be finished for the approaching season. Once again, WOOL WEATHER IS HERE, and the comforting seasonal rhythms repeat themselves.

Grants To Remodel Homes Available

Most homeowners are unaware that regardless of their income there are federal, state and local programs that will help them repair and remodel their homes.

Government at all levels recognizes that neighborhoods are the basis of life in our country. When a neighborhood deteriorates, many things happen both physically and socially. When the homes look shabby, a neighborhood seems more attractive to crime and criminals. An area in decline is like a spreading cancer. As homes become shabby looking and in need of maintenance, the residents lose their desire to keep up the neighborhood. Streets become receptacles for trash, schools lower their standards and very quickly the selling price of homes in the area drops sharply. This accelerates the cycle of degeneration.

In order to keep and maintain the nation's housing and neighborhoods, government at all levels have programs to give homeowners money (that does not have to be repaid) for repairs or to lend them money at below market levels or at no interest. In many areas utility companies will either do energy conservation work free or at low cost and in other places will lend homeowners money at no interest to pay the contractor of their choice for the necessary work. In addition there are tax incentives to promote efficient energy use.

These programs are not restricted to low-income people, slum areas or urban neighborhoods. Owners of single or multi-family dwellings are eligible.

Some of the other home improvements covered under these programs are: attic and wall insulation, new windows, outerwall siding, security doors, and locks, windows guards, sidewalks and masonry work, bathrooms and kitchens, electrical and plumbing, new roofs, gutters, and downspouts.

Consumer Education Research Center, a national non-profit consumer group formed in 1969, has just published the 208 large-page, 1994 edition of Consumers Guide to Home Repair Grants and Subsidized Loans ($16.95 plus $3 p & h from CERC GRANTS, 1980 Springfield Ave., Maplewood, NJ 07040 or 800-872-0121).

and other disease-causing organisms which may inadvertently enter the distribution system through cross connections, loss of pressure or construction activities.

"The growth that your water system is experiencing increases the vulnerability to these types of contamination. It is hoped that the village will recognize the additional public health protection that continuous disinfection will provide,"

he stated.

Rosentreter admits Chelsea is one of the few municipal water suppliers that doesn't use continuous chlorination. He says, however, the system is safe enough not to chlorinate. It's safe he says because the village uses groundwater instead of surface water.

Water samples will continue to be taken monthly to test for contamination.

VIEWS ON DENTAL HEALTH

GIFT THAT LASTS A LIFETIME

There has to be a first time for everything and that includes your child's first visit to the dentist. Much of the preparation will be up to the parents. Here are some suggestions:

Don't give your child the opportunity to hear "neighborhood experiences." It's best to tell a child about a dental visit the night before. Of course, always refer to the dentist as "our friend." Convey the feeling that dental visits are a part of growing up. Don't offer rewards or indicate that there is anything to fear. In fact, such words as hurt, grind, drill, etc., should be eliminated from the dental vocabulary. Say that your dentist intends only to examine and that he will always explain what he is going to do.

Make appointment day easy for your child. Make no other plans for him or her that day. If possible, the appointment should be made early in the day.

This may be the most difficult advice of all—but children are usually most cooperative if parents are not in the treatment room. Rest assured, all findings will be discussed with you after the visit.

Hummel Retires After 49 Years in Banking

By Scott Bishop
Staff Writer

Rosemary Hummel began giving her time to Chelsea State Bank customers in 1946. Forty-nine years later, she's finally decided to take some time for herself.

Hummel said she's enjoyed her years with the bank. "It's been very good, otherwise I wouldn't have stuck around," she said.

Just after graduating from Chelsea High School, Hummel came to work for CSB as a bookkeeper, and over the years has held many different positions. She was appointed an officer of the bank in 1966 and retires as an assistant vice president. She said the village has changed "in every way" over her long career.

Hummel's long-time devotion to her work will be missed, according to CSB President John Mann. "It's remarkable that she has worked for us for 49 years. Not every company can say they've had an employee work 49 years. It speaks well of Rosemary in terms of her loyalty and dedication. The bank has certainly benefited from Rosemary's 49 years of service. She has meant a lot to our organization. I will miss her, our staff will miss her, and our customers will miss her," he said.

"I think one of the unique (qualities) here is that the Chelsea Retirement Community has always been on the leading edge of quality care," Foote said, mentioning the memory loss unit, established in 1985, before such services were widely accepted, and a no-restraint policy, one of the first adopted in Michigan, which has reduced the use of physical and chemical restraints in the nursing home by 40%.

Amick said that the community's philosophy is to stress agency and personal control of their own lives for the residents.

ROSEMARY HUMMEL

While noting that it was a difficult decision to make, Hummel said she now feels certain that her choice to retire is the right one. She mentioned traveling as a general plan for her new-found free-time, but is taking a wait and see approach before making any more major decisions. "I have no plans. I'll play it by ear for a while," she explained.

On Friday, Dec. 1, the public is invited to a retirement celebration and open house for Hummel at the downtown office of the Chelsea State Bank, 305 S. Main St., from 2 to 5 p.m.

Brighton Hospital To Head Program

Brighton Hospital, which specializes in treating chemically dependent adults and adolescents, will be hosting two free Community Education Programs, ("Substance Abuse in the Workplace," on Tuesday, Dec. 5 and Tuesday, Dec. 19.

About 76 percent of companies with more than 1,000 workers but only 9 percent of companies with fewer than 50 workers offer employee assistance programs. On the other hand, five million of the nation's nine million employed substance abusers work for small companies, according to U.S. Department of Labor statistics. This means that there are a lot of small companies in our own community that have a lot of good employees that may have a problem with substance abuse.

Both programs begin at 7 p.m. in the hospital's chapel. The meetings are open to the public, and reservations are requested.

For additional information, contact the Community Relations Department at (810) 227-1211, ext. 248, on weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Local Man Ends Military Career After 24 Years

After more than 24 years in the Air Force, Lt. Col. David P. McGibney retired in a ceremony today at U.S. Transportation Command (USTRANSCOM). Upon his retirement, he was awarded the Defense Meritorious Service Medal, 2nd Oak Leaf Cluster by U.S. Air Force Brig. Gen. Stephen Kelley, chief of USTRANSCOM's command, control, communications and computer systems directorate.

Lt. Col. McGibney was recognized for his "major contributions to the effectiveness and success of the Global Transportation Network program and for designing and implementing an improved cost reporting system that enhanced the government's oversight of the contractor."

"We will all miss his tireless dedication and attention to detail," said U.S. Air Force Maj. Roland Lataille, who worked with Lt. Col. McGibney from his arrival at USTRANSCOM in August 1992 until his retirement. "He picked up so many tasks without being asked and performed them all in such an exceptional manner that he will indeed be very difficult to replace," he added.

In addition to the Defense Meritorious Service Medal, he received a letter of appreciation from Michigan Gov. John Engler, and a certificate of appreciation signed by the President. His wife Laura received a certificate of appreciation from Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. Ronald Fogleman.

"I have mixed feelings about leaving a great institution like the U.S. Air Force," McGibney said. "The Air Force has been extremely good to me and my family, but it is time to move on to the next phase of our lives."

McGibney and his wife Laura, both of Chelsea, have four children, Martin, 21, Tonia, 18, Daniel, 16, and Charles, 8. They reside in Mascoutah, Ill.

Letters to the Editor

Repair the Species Act

As President of the Home Builders Association of Washtenaw County, I am writing you to express my concern about a major issue currently being debated in Congress: the Endangered Species Act (ESA).

Under the ESA, the federal government's command-and-control approach to endangered species protection has resulted in ivory tower decision-making that does not consider the impact ill-conceived decisions have on states and individual landowners.

The current ESA has another design defect: it makes one group — private property owners — pay a large portion of the bill for protecting species. The act has also been used as a tool by no-growth activists to stop economic growth, but not as a tool to do what Congress originally intended — save species.

The Endangered Species Conservation and Management Act of 1995 (H.R. 2275) will improve the ESA, not weaken it. This bill:

- gives states a greater opportunity to participate in wildlife protection efforts;
- calls for increased consultation and communication between the Secretary of the Interior and state governors;
- expands public participation in species protection efforts, so that the comments, criticisms and suggestion of citizens and private landowners can help us solve species protection problems in a way everyone can agree on;
- sets priorities for the best use of funds so that we can focus our attention on the species that need protecting the most; and,
- ensures that the highest levels of good science are utilized, so that those species truly in danger of extinction receive federal protection.

If we want to protect our nation's natural resources, we need to repair the ESA, not repeal it. By passing H.R. 2275, repair will be possible. It represents our best opportunity in decades to dramatically improve the fate of the nation's wildlife, while removing potential land use conflicts.

Sincerely,
Mary E. Branch
President
HBA of Washtenaw County

Crash Rate Lowest

I would like to take the opportunity to thank motorists in Michigan for two accomplishments this year—self restraint and caution! This year Michigan's crash rate at highway/rail grade crossings is the lowest in 10 years.

Crashes of any kind, particularly those resulting in fatalities, are tragedies and we would like to avoid them. Although there were nine fatalities (five were the result of trespassing) and 37 injuries at railroad grade crossings this year (as of 11/6/95), the totals are over a 60 percent reduction in average annual fatalities and a 45 percent reduction in average annual injuries. Michigan's average annual fatality rate is 21, with an average of 67 injuries. I would like to urge motorists to continue to use caution at railroad grade crossings and always expect a train. Railroad grade crossing crashes are tragedies that can be avoided.

Trains can take up to two miles to stop after the emergency brake has been applied, so I call upon motorists of Michigan to use their power in preventing the tragic results of crashes. If you see a train approaching or observe flashing signals at a grade crossing. Even if you tie, you will lose.

As we approach the Holiday season and winter months, we at MDOT encourage motorists to use the same caution they have demonstrated thus far in 1995.

Sincerely,
Patrick M. Nowak
Chairman of Michigan Operation Lifesaver

VDT'S AND YOUR EYES

We are hearing an increasing number of complaints about eyestrain from working at computer stations. Many people are concerned that the VDT's (video display terminals) may give off radiation which could permanently damage their eyes.

Fortunately, these fears are groundless. VDT's do not emit harmful radiation and they release less ultraviolet light than the fluorescent lights in your office. Nevertheless, the eye fatigue, burning red, or watery eye, headaches and neckaches are real problems. Generally these problems can be attributed to the nearness of the VDT, its position, glare from other light, or the amount of time spent in a relatively still position.

Ideally, the VDT is positioned at or below eye level, and other material is positioned near the screen for convenience. Overhead lighting should not reflect off the screen and should not be too bright. Many people will need to get special glasses focused at the working distance of the VDT, especially if they work for extended times, or if they already wear bifocals or trifocals. Special eyeglass tints have been recommended, depending on the color print of the VDT.

Occasional rest breaks are important to allow the eyes to relax their focusing mechanism. If blurring, redness or other symptoms persist, an eye examination is in order.

Quick Farm Facts

At the world's largest candy plant in Chicago, the candy corn harvest has been going round the clock for several weeks in preparation for the biggest candy celebration of the year...Halloween. In all, consumers will spend $850 million on candy for the trick or treat season. Brach Candy company in Chicago will produce 5 billion pieces of candy corn this year.

Michigan trout production is down 23 percent from last year. Our state has 51 commercial trout operations that sold 723,000 pounds of trout. The major sales outlets are fee fishing, live haulers and direct sales to consumers.

Michigan has 18 licensed wineries and over 25 tasting rooms. A wine is classified as a Michigan wine if at least 75 percent of the fruit used to make the wine was grown in Michigan. Over 1 million liters of wine have been sold by Michigan wineries in each of the last 20 years, produced from 1,500 acres of wine grapes.

American consumers paid only $1.10 more for a typical market basket of groceries during the third quarter of 1995 than they did during the second quarter, according to the latest nationwide survey of food prices conducted by the American Farm Bureau Federation. The largest price increase was for pork chops, which rose 35 cents per pound. Retail bacon prices also increased 26 cents per pound. Price decreases included whole milk, which fell 4 cents per gallon. Ground chuck, potatoes, cooking oil and flour also dropped.

Many people this time of year enjoy carving, cooking and canning pumpkins. There are two main kinds of pumpkins: yellow cheese and orange stock. The cheese pumpkins are canned and sold as pie filling, while the stock varieties are used for carving or as food for livestock. Most of the pumpkins in the U.S. come from Illinois, Indiana and Ohio, although a visit to any of southeast Michigan's many U-pick pumpkin patches will show that plenty of pumpkins are grown in Michigan as well.

The first jack-o'-lanterns were carved out of turnips and potatoes by the Scots and Irish. The jack-o'-lantern tradition started when people began reporting sightings of eerie lights around marshes and bogs, that bobbed like a lantern in someone's hand. The mysterious lantern carrier was dubbed Jack, a common name of the time.

Of all the different categories of food, fat carries the most calories - nine per gram. That's one reason why so many diets focus on trimming fat from the diet - you're also trimming a lot of calories when you do that. Carbohydrates carry only four calories per gram, whether it's pure granular sugar or a baked potato. It's a good idea to get the vast majority of your carbohydrate calories from foods that also contain fiber, vitamins or minerals.

Great fall weather means Michigan farmers are getting record yields of corn and soybeans. The statewide corn yield is expected to be 120 bushels per acre, 3 bushels an acre above last year's all time high. Soybean yields will likely hit 39 bushels per acre, up 2 bushels from last year.

Allison Sayers, a North School fifth-grader, competed in the USGF regional gymnastics meet in Lansing on Saturday, Nov. 11. Her overall score qualified her for the State meet to be held Dec. 2 and 3 in Bay City.

RUBY STRIETER AND VERA BRISTON, Co-Chairs of the Chelsea Community Hospital Auxiliary Bazaar and Bake Sale, show off several of the prizes donated for the Friday, Dec. 1 event, which will take place from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the dining room corridor. For more information call 475-3913.

President's Award

Cristin Reichhardt of Dexter was nominated to receive the Michigan Technological University President's Award for Leadership. The award is in recognition of outstanding achievement in student leadership at MTU.

Reichhardt was one of the seven finalists chosen in the competition from fifty nominations by the student organizations on campus. The winner, Jennifer Klein of Midland, received a plaque and monetary award of $1,000 at the university's annual Convocation on September 20, on the Michigan Tech campus.

Reichhardt is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Reichhardt of Dexter. She is a senior majoring in mechanical engineering, and is a 1992 graduate of Dexter High School.

Local Dealership Donates Auto to PHS

Frank Grohs Chevrolet-Geo recently donated a 1995 Chevrolet Camaro Z-28 to Pinckney High School for use in their Automotive Technology classes. The vehicle was presented to school officials at a dealership ceremony attended by several of the school's automotive students.

Dealership president and owner Jeff Grohs said he donated the vehicle to Pinckney High because of its comprehensive automotive technology curriculum. On a personal note, Grohs, a 1976 graduate of the school, said the donation provided him with the ideal way to give something back to his high school and the community where he grew up.

According to Michael Lewkowicz, the automotive technology instructor at Pinckney High, the car will be used as a hands-on learning tool. "Students will have an opportunity to work on the latest in automotive technology, including anti-lock brakes, dual airbags and advanced suspension components," Lewkowicz said. He added, "This donation is another example of the continuing partnership between business and education."

Frank Grohs Chevrolet-Geo is a member of the Detroit Auto Dealers Association, which supports more than 240 members with legislative and industry representation, educational programs and communications and community relations activities.

Thanksgiving Travel Expected To Equal Year's Numbers

The number of Michiganians who hit the roads and the skies during the 102-hour Thanksgiving holiday weekend will equal or slightly surpass last year's levels, according to AAA Michigan.

"Traditionally, about 20 percent of Michigan residents — or 1.8 million people — take a trip of 50 miles or more during the holiday weekend," said AAA Michigan Travel Director Bill Best.

"That includes residents driving to grandmother's house up north for dinner as well as those flying home for the holiday."

Since Thanksgiving is primarily spent with family and friends, no one destination is surfacing as the only holiday "hot spot," Best said. But airline bookings to most domestic destinations have been brisk.

"For those not visiting relatives, Florida and Caribbean bookings have been high, as they always are during the winter months," Best said. "Las Vegas is also popular destination this holiday because of the inexpensive four-day charters available."

The best airfare deals still available for Thanksgiving may be for those willing to travel during off-peak times, such as Thanksgiving Day or the day after the holiday. Travelers are urged to scan newspapers or on-line computer services daily for sales or airfare wars and don't forget to check with their travel agent.

Detroit Metropolitan Airport is expected to be congested during the holiday weekend, particularly on Sunday (Nov. 26). The Auto Club urges travelers to arrive at the airport at least 1½ hours before their flight to find parking and check baggage. Metro Airport maintains a 24-hour parking hotline (1-800-642-1978) and offers updates on radio dial 920 am when travelers are within three-to-four miles of the airport.

AAA Michigan also offers these tips for holiday fliers:

- Carry a photo I.D. Security has been increased at airports and passengers ages 18 and over should be prepared to present identification at the ticket counter or at the boarding jetway.
- Limit luggage to one suitcase and one carry-on bag. Do not wrap gifts until arriving at your destination, as they may be opened for inspection at the airport. Pack valuables, such as medicine and airline tickets for the return flight, in the carry-on bag.

• To avoid long check-in lines, get a boarding pass from the airline or travel agent ahead of your flight date and check luggage at the curb when you arrive at the airport.

• If picking up or dropping off someone at the airport, park in the short-term or deck lots instead of idling in front of the terminals.

Caregivers Provide Important Service

by Beth Olson, R.N.

Cancer is a complex disease, and treating it can be a complicated process. Those diagnosed with cancer sometimes undergo chemotherapy, radiation therapy and other treatments for extended periods of time. However, because of changes in our health-care system, patients are spending less and less time in the hospital. As a result, family members and friends of the cancer patient often assume caregiving responsibilities that, until recently, were handled by health care professionals.

If you or someone you know is a caregiver for a cancer patient, you understand the many responsibilities that come with the role — managing medications, helping control disease symptoms and treatment side effects, and providing emotional support and encouragement. To prepare individuals to be effective caregivers, the Arthur G. James Cancer Hospital and Research Institute at The Ohio State University offers a unique course which helps caregivers develop home care plans to solve problems.

Plan Provides Guidance

Home care plans, developed by health care professionals, give caregivers step-by-step guidance in solving a variety of problems. These plans include information on understanding the problem, when to get professional help, what caregivers can do on their own, possible obstacles, and how to carry out and adjust the plan. At The James, caregivers discuss plans for coping with the most common problems, such as pain, fatigue, depression and appetite loss. However, because caregivers are bound to face unique problems related to the individual patient and situation, the plans can also be used as models for solving other problems.

Call for Information

If you are caring for a cancer patient at home or would like to learn more about being a caregiver, call The James Line at 1-800-293-5066 and ask about "The Prepared Family Caregiver Course," which is offered free of charge at The James several times each year.

Area Residents To Receive District Library Survey

By Michelle Rogers
Staff Writer

Change is in store for users of Chelsea's McKune Memorial Library. The willingness of township residents to contribute more funding, however, will determine which way the pendulum of change swings.

An effort is underway by local township officials to determine how residents feel about establishing a district-wide library. The move will allow a more equitable, predictable and reliable funding base for McKune Library.

Surrounding township boards within the library's service area and Chelsea Village Council must first approve a District Library Agreement. Voters would then be asked to approve a district-wide millage to fund the library. The millage can be up to two mills in perpetuity and an additional two mills for a period not to exceed 20 years. The District Library Study Committee, however, estimates that only 1.3 mills would be necessary.

McKune Memorial Library is supported by a 2-mill levy within the village. Surrounding townships in the library's service area contribute an undetermined amount from their general fund. Last year, Sylvan Township contributed $2,500. The state provides funding, as well, through penalties.

Data proves 70 percent of McKune Library users reside in surrounding townships. The remainder live in Chelsea. But 86 percent of the library's funding comes from village residents. People living in Lima, Lyndon, Sylvan and Dexter Townships contribute just 14 percent.

"People don't understand how the library is funded," said Mary Green, Friends of McKune Library past president. "And I have to tell you before I became active in the Friends of McKune Library in 1991, I did not know either."

"Some township residents are astounded only residents of the village are being taxed for library services. They assume they are because they're in the library's service area and they participate and use it so much," she said.

An education campaign has been launched by the District Library Study Committee to inform the community about the funding situation and the need for a district-wide library. Brochures have been distributed at local businesses.

The township boards in Sylvan and Lima have also decided to survey their constituents to whether they want to be included in the district-wide library service area. Surveys will be included with the winter tax bills. Some property owners won't get the survey, however, because their tax statements are sent directly to the mortgage lender. The District Library Study Committee has decided to place a survey in next week's issue of The Chelsea Standard in hopes of getting a better response. Results will need to be tallied shortly after the start of the new year.

According to Dayle Wright, a member of the McKune Memorial Library Board, the District Library Study Committee needs to have an agreement signed by April.

"If a District Library Agreement has not been entered into by any of the municipalities by the end of April, the library board will have to re-examine its long range plans and budget," Wright said.

"Some of the things we may have to deal with are issuing library cards to village residents, restricting computer use and reducing staffing. We may not be able to serve as an educational resource and supplement to the schools," she said.

That has Laurel McDonald, a media specialist at South Elementary School, worried. "I really rely on the public library because my school is so big number-wise, my budget can't accommodate (all the materials needed)," she said. "I really depend on the public library to compliment what we're doing here because I don't have the buying power."

McDonald says last year's budget of $3,500 allowed her to purchase approximately 200 new books. But she is also throwing out a good many in disrepair from heavy use. Recently, McDonald had to discard books about countries written 30 years ago. With all the changes that have taken place over the years, McDonald said students were reading information that was no longer accurate.

McDonald's colleague, Barb Locks, media specialist at North Elementary School, contends with the same problems. "There is no way the elementary libraries can totally support the curriculum. We do not have funds to purchase enough current books and other materials to serve our large student population," she said.

"Librarians like to help people. It's their calling in life. So it's important to be able to serve appropriately, and you don't want to say no to anybody," she added.

Locks sees funding as a critical issue for the library as society moves through the technological era. "With the increased technology available today, libraries will be offering services that are very expensive to create and maintain. For example, multi-media encyclopedias and other reference materials, and of course the internet (are all very expensive)," she said.

Decisions whether to resort to user fees and other means of funding if a district library isn't established would be made by McKune Library Board.

"I feel very strongly this could have negative consequences for people," Wright said.

McDonald agrees. "If people are going to have to pay, it may sharply affect their access to information. If parents don't buy a card, their children will be at a disadvantage."

Another possible cutback many are concerned about is reduced staffing levels, which in turn has ramifications for youth programs and other library services. "If we have to reduce staffing, we may have to reduce or eliminate some of those programs or limit enrollment to village residents," Wright explained.

"I would predict within five years we will have to examine our staffing levels, or maybe three years," she said. "We may not be able to retain the top-notch employees we have now."

Staff salaries and benefits this past year have cost McKune Library $120,000, which is a $40,000 increase in the past two years. Wright attributes the increase to a growing library and the need to hire qualified people to run it. "Our numbers have grown significantly, and when we went out to hire people, we had to increase our salary levels."

According to Wright, the previous library director did not hold a bachelor's or master's degree and was grandfathered in before both were a state requirement, and that kept costs down for a while.

"If we decided to only serve village residents, we would have to become what is called a Class 2 library instead of Class 4, and that would mean we wouldn't have to be open that many hours," she said.

McKune Library is open 56 hours a week now.

"Even village residents would have to make due with less if we can't expand our funding sources," Wright said. "We won't be able to continue subscribing to all the periodicals and we won't be open as many hours."

"I would foresee the library becoming a repository of children's books, mysteries and novels. That is not a bad thing, but I don't think that is what people want."

If area residents support a district-wide library and a millage is passed, library officials say additional books, magazines, tapes, compact disc and computers will be added.

There are many library needs identified by the study committee that can be addressed with additional funding. Among them are a need to increase library services to meet the population growth. Circulation has doubled since 1992, and the number of volumes and reference sources requested are steadily rising. Patrons are demanding access to computers, CD roms and computer software to access other sources of information.

Space constraints in the historic building are also on the minds of library board members. There has been no change in the quantity of volumes in the past 15 years because of weight limitations on the structure. McKune Library has 25,000 volumes. According to accepted library standards, 54,000 is recommended for a service area of its size. The building also only has seating for 20 people, while it's recommended seating accommodate 120.

The building is also out of compliance with the Americans with Disabilities Act. The library board was granted an exception through April 1997, but Wright says the board may be forced to bring the building up to code after that.

A decision sometime will have to be made soon on whether to add to the building, construct a new library or look for a larger facility.

Library supporters say they don't want to appear threatening to area residents regarding the issue of equitable funding, but it's really a necessity.

"It's very painful to hear the truth," Green said. "Although you tell people about the services you have to cut, they see it as a threat. But it's not, it's a reality."

Farm Museum Plans Festive Holiday Event

It's going to be a Victorian Christmas celebration on the farm. The event will take place at the Waterloo Farm Museum at 9998 Waterloo-Munith Rd., which is in the heart of the Waterloo Recreation Area in northeast Jackson County.

It will be a two day celebration taking place on Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 2-3 from noon to five.

Highlights will be the decorations, refreshments, and gift shop. Authentic Victorian era decorations—wreaths, greenery, ornaments, candles, and a feather tree will be on display. One exhibit, too, will be a hand-made wooden set of farm animals and implements.

Free refreshments will include hot spiced cider and homemade cookies. A mixed bean soup made from a special Waterloo Farm Museum recipe will also be available.

The gift shop will feature ornaments, candles, books, handmade toys, and sleigh bells mounted on leather strips.

There will also be gift jars of mixed beans, which will include the special Waterloo Farm Museum recipe, for sale.

Entertainment will include the playing of Christmas carols on a melodeon, an organ-like reed instrument that was popular in the nineteenth century.

There is an admission fee. Adequate parking is free.

The last tour group will be admitted at 4:30.

It is the first Victorian Christmas at the Waterloo Farm Museum celebration since 1990.

Grads Attend WCC

Dexter and Chelsea High Schools ranked 10th and 12th, respectively, among high schools with the most graduates studying this fall at Washtenaw Community College... 53 from Dexter and 37 former Chelsea students matriculate at WCC.

CHS Students Commended

Chelsea High seniors Jeremy Bowers, Carrie Buss, Kenneth Gourlay, and David Mote have been named "Commended Students" in the National Merit Scholarship program.

A Letter of Commendation from the National Merit Scholarship Corporation, which conducts the program, has been presented to these scholastically talented seniors.

About 35,000 Commended Students throughout the nation are being honored for their exceptional academic promise. They placed among the top five percent of more than a million students who entered the 1996

Merit Program by taking the 1994 preliminary SAT/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test. Although the qualifying test scores of Commended Students are outstanding, they are slightly below the level required to continue in the competition for Merit Scholarship awards to be offered in 1996.

Festival of Lights Slated for December 1

Foundation Supports Timber Town

Chelsea Education Foundation is joining the growing list of sponsors for the community built playscape known as Timber Town. These sponsors include: Chelsea Milling, Chelsea Lumber, Chelsea Industries, Chelsea State Bank, Chelsea Kiwanis, Chelsea Rotary, Chelsea Chamber of Commerce, Chelsea Lions Club and Doan Construction.

On Nov. 8, the designer of the playscape, John Dean, went into the schools to receive input from the students. The students articulated their ideas to the designer and parent volunteers. They also expressed their concepts graphically through projects facilitated by the art teachers and the Beach Middle School technology teacher. They were then able to see their ideas integrated into a playground "blueprint."

The design includes architectural features unique to Chelsea.

The Way It Was

By Kathy Clark
Special Writer

Our mothers and grandmothers did work out occasionally with gymnastics and calisthenics. In their time women were just awakening to what they could accomplish in our society. They had always been concerned about their appearance and health, but I've been told by friends in their 80s that regular exercise was uncommon. Of course they didn't have TV or videos with role models such as Richard Simmons and Jane Fonda as instructors to fire them up. Their time was before tennis shoes, "aerobic exercise," name-brand shoes and clothing. Women participated in few sports (horseback riding, swimming, croquet, badminton, golf) usually for their own pleasure. Then in the 1970s Billie Jean King opened the doors to women's recognition as athletes with adequate financing to back their events from high school levels on up to world and national competition.

The following exercises with dumbbells are taken from a 1902 New York periodical magazine and they may still be useful fitness routines for beginners. The dumbbells of yesteryear were probably made of metal painted black (I haven't come across one while antiquing, but would buy it in a minute if I did). Dumbbells are now more colorful hard rubber or plastic-coated metal.

1902 - "Simple Health Bringing Exercises for Every Day, by Professor Attila"
Begin by doing each exercise according to your strength, three times, five times, 10 times, whatever number increasing strength permits, each day. In the course of a month or six weeks 50 times for each movement will be an easy limit.

These everyday early morning exercises are simple. Girls and women should use two-pound dumbbells to begin with, and later, as their strength increases, use four or five-pound bells.

"BEFORE BREAKFAST"

1) First stand erect, head well back, chest out, breathing deeply. Then curl the dumbbells, without stopping, from 10 to 50 times, according to individual strength. This exercise develops the biceps.

2) Next, place the bells on the floor at your feet, bend the knees a little, but keep the arms straight and bend over picking up the bells and rising erect, then putting them back on the floor. Do this from 10 to 50 times, according to strength. This exercise strengthens the muscles of the back and thighs.

3) After a few minutes' rest: stand erect, keep the body and elbows rigid, and raise the arms backward and upward as far as possible. Hold them a minute at the highest possible point, then bring them back to the sides. This exercise must be done with dumbbells. This will strengthen the upper portion of the back and the underside of the arms.

4) Continue by raising the bells from the shoulder as far above the head as possible and lowering them. This exercise is for upper arms, outer-shoulders, and muscles around the waist.

5) Let the arms hang loosely at the sides; bend first to the right and then to the left as far as possible. Take care not to bend the body forward at the waist. This exercise is for the abdominal muscles.

Fifteen minutes should suffice for all of the above exercises suggested to improve the upper body. Dr. Attila went on to describe in detail the correct way to walk briskly to tone the legs and lower body. He then recommended, "Horseback riding is even better than walking, where it can be indulged in; and two or three hours a day in the saddle will bring a bloom to the sallowest cheek and insure greatly increased vigor!"

Bulldogs Win District Title

The District Final last Friday, Nov. 17 was like a NASA countdown for the Bulldogs. They beat SEC rival Milan for the third time this season. They won their second consecutive district title. And when it was all over, they were number one, with the district champion medals draped around their necks.

After an easy 60-31 warm-up last Wednesday, Nov. 15 in the semi-finals against Brooklyn Columbia Central, Chelsea faced a stiffer test against Milan for the district title.

The Big Reds fell twice to the Bulldogs in the regular season, but Friday battled Chelsea to the final seconds before the Bulldogs pulled out a 32-29 win.

Senior Annie Terpstra, who led Chelsea with 17 points, 12 rebounds and six blocked shots, converted an offensive rebound to break a 24-24 deadlock with 3:50 to go in the game and Chelsea never trailed after that, but the dramatics had just begun.

After the two teams traded free-throws, Chelsea's Heidi Kemnitz made a steal and drove the length of the court for a score which put the Bulldogs up 29-25. Milan rallied to tie at 29-29 with 1:26 on the clock.

Terpstra drove to the basket, was fouled and converted both free-throws to re-establish the two point lead. After a hurried Milan shot went awry, Chelsea's Jessica Inwood made a free-throw for the game's final point with 13 seconds to play. A Milan turnover ended their last, best chance to tie and the district championship belonged to Chelsea.

Chelsea Coach Charlie Waller said his players were elated after the win, with good reason. "They were pretty excited. They were up last night. They played really hard and they earned it. It's a good feeling," he said.

In addition to Terpstra's performance, Waller said there were outstanding efforts from several players. He credited point guard Kasie Ruhlig with brilliant ball-handling against intense defensive pressure while she amassed seven assists and five steals.

Jessica Inwood was knocked out the game with an injury but returned to grab nine rebounds. Kemnitz provided not only the late game steal and score but a clutch third-quarter three-pointer. Heidi Wehrwein supplied excellent defense and rebounding. And Waller reserved special praise for sophomore Cindy Richard, who came off the bench to score five key points.

In the second half, Waller said, with Milan sagging two and three players into the lane to guard Terpstra, and the Bulldog offense stalling, Richard hit two shots from the high post to loosen up the Big Red zone.

"Cindy's baskets were big baskets because of the effect they had on Milan. There was a real swing in their philosophy. Suddenly, they had to guard the high post," Waller said, noting that with the Milah zone forced to spread out, Terpstra could operate inside and draw the fifth foul on Milan's 6-4 center Heather Frank.

Chelsea extended its record to 19-3 and advanced to this week's regional. They played Monday at Allen Park, taking on Riverview Gabriel Richard, a powerful team with 20-1 record.

Waller said Riverview featured an outstanding point guard who puts tremendous pressure on the ball defensively, so the Bulldogs will need to negate the pressure and pound the ball inside to counteract it.

Bulldogs Swim Well At State

Chelsea swimmers Erin Hack, Sarah Broshar, Kelly Bowers, Kim Grossman, Erin Baird, and diver Alicia Vogel competed in the state final swim meet last Friday and Saturday, Nov. 17-18 at Eastern Michigan University.

The Bulldogs recorded several personal bests. Hack scored in the 100 breast-stroke by placing ninth. In the preliminary heat she swam a best time of 1:11.74. She also combined with Baird, Bowers and Grossman for season best times in the 400 freestyle and 200 medley relays. They scored in the 400 freestyle relay with 11th place.

Baird just missed scoring in the 500 freestyle, finishing 13th in a best time of 5:33.94. Broshar swam a best time of 1:13.84 in the 100 breast-stroke. Grossman swam a best in the 200 individual medley of 2:22.43. Vogel finished 16th in diving.

Coach David Brinklow termed it a successful season and was gratified his team improved to swim their best late in the season. "We had a good season. The SEC was by far our best meet. We swam very well there and I was pleased with that," he said.

Saving Farmland Top of Forum

In 1995, our state had 16.5 million acres of farmland. In 1995 that amount has dropped to about 10 million acres. During the decade between 1982 and 1992, Michigan lost 133 square miles of farmland each year. Seventy percent of that loss occurred in southern Michigan, where we have our best soils.

Finding ways to stop the loss of farmland will be the focus of a Farmland Preservation Forum, Nov. 28 from 3:30 p.m. - 5 p.m. in the tower Ballroom of the Grand Traverse Resort. The program, which is free and open to the public, will feature the nation's top experts on farmland preservation, including David Skjaerlund of the Michigan Department of Agriculture; Ray Pickering, director of the Bureau of Farmland Protection for the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture; Bob Wagner, Director of State and Local Programs for the American Farmland Trust; and Bob Manigold, Supervisor of Peninsular Township in northwest Michigan, where the township purchases development rights.

The winter sports season is nearly upon us, and we at the Chelsea Standard sports department are glad. Don't get us wrong. Glorious fall days outside watching soccer games, etc., make us so happy we want to call up Michael Bolton and forgive him for ruining a great Otis Redding song like Dock of the Bay. Then, thankfully, we come to our senses.

Anyway, once we need to scrape frost off the car, it's time to look forward to the winter season, great high school sports like basketball, volleyball, wrestling and swimming.

The fantastic thing about winter school sports is that they are indoors. It's pretty obvious why these events happen in the relative comfort of a gym or (indoor) pool. Outside, of course, the candy bars would be as hard as bricks and the concession stands would have to shut down.

But you hardy souls who love the outdoors don't need to worry; it's not just high school athletes who get to have all the winter fun. Don't forget terrific recreational sports for everybody like slipping on the icy front steps, driveway snow-shovel lifting, and highway slush-slalom.

For those of you who will attend high school sporting events this winter, we include the handy Chelsea Standard Guide To Appropriate Clothing For Winter Sports Events.

Basketball: Remember, it's cold outside, so you'll need a big, warm coat to get to the game. Once inside though, you'll want to shed the bulky outer-wear and have on loose, comfortable clothing appropriate for leaping in the air, raising both arms above your head and yelling, "Mr. Referee, I most vehemently do not concur with your call!" when there is a foul called against your team. Be prepared; you'll be doing this often.

Volleyball: For this we suggest the layered look, preferably fluffy down garments, for protection. And a football helmet. You never know when a particularly vicious spike will ricochet into the stands, wreaking havoc among vulnerable unarmored fans.

Wrestling: This is an age-old sport with a storied history. The first recorded wrestling match was way back in ancient Rome as Julius Caesar took on Muhammad Ali. So dress respectfully in the traditional toga. Refer back to the frat party scene in the film "Animal House" for toga preparation help.

Swimming: There is only one rule for swim meet attire. No shrinkable clothing. For example, if the visiting team features a diver the size of a mid-size sedan, the stands may well get soaked. Do you want to drive home in clothes four sizes too small? We didn't think so.

So we'll see you at the a winter sporting event. We'd like to offer some more helpful hints, but we've got to go out and scrape off our cars.

Chelsea Man Has Brush With Marilyn

Chelsea High School graduate Duane Branch is a boat builder for Gold Coast Yachts in St. Croix in the Caribbean. He sent us this first-person account of his and his wife, Dominique's, encounter with Hurricane Marilyn.

Sept. 14, Thursday
(Oh No! Not again)

7:30 a.m.--Arrived at work only to find out over night a tropical storm had formed and was south-east of us. I then logged onto our local computer network and accessed satellite weather information. All morning long we were getting the latest information from the net. At 11 a.m. the decision was made to send every body home from Gold Coast Yachts since the prediction was 35% the storm would hit St. Croix. I was sure it was going to be a direct hit.

1 p.m.--Arrived at Stixx Hurricane bar in town for a bite to eat and a little rum to calm my fraying nerves. The owners, Bob and Kate, also have a boat that they live on and we have hurricane spots right next to each other. I asked him if he was getting ready to go to our hurricane hole in Salt River marina. He said if he went he would go in the morning since the Weather Channel on cable TV was saying we had until Saturday. I informed him that I had been tracking since the morning and that I thought that we would be seeing tropical storm force winds by mid-Friday morning. He looked surprised and walked away. A few minutes later he re-appeared and said he would be setting sail in a hour.

3 p.m.--Had Gallifrey (boat we live on) ready to go and since everyone else was busy I took off for Salt River alone. The ride was roly. Winds were 15 knots and seas 3-5' with a 6' swell that made the approach to Salt River a little tense. By 4 p.m. I was safely inside Salt River Bay. By 5 p.m. Gallifrey was snug into her hurricane hole in front of the dive shop inside Salt River basin. Started to stow gear and get ready (we just did this the week before, and the week before that) so we knew where everything went and exactly what to do. Dominique joined me.

Sept. 15, Friday
(Marilyn comes to dinner)

4:30 a.m.--Could not sleep very well (not too surprising). I went to Gold Coast to see if I could start gutting the office. After two hours we had the office stowed into a steel container, then I left to finish the last few things I had to do. First I had to go check Tardis (my racing boat) out and secure her. I spent an hour out there and the winds were about 35 knots. The rain started and stung your skin as it hit. It was rough and the boat rolled and I fell, hitting my left side into a stanchion. Thought I broke a rib. Fortunately I didn't have much time to think about it. Conditions were rapidly declining.

9 a.m.--It was time to turn my attention to our home, Gallifrey. Winds were at 40 and the rain was coming down in sheets. I returned to Gallifrey to find that Dominique had all the awnings down and was trying to tape the windows (in case they blew out in the storm), but this was difficult because of all the moisture in the air. We then started to get all the lines set which meant that I had to go into the mangroves and find good solid roots to tie off to. Lucky for me I was in the same spot as we were for Hurricane Louise and I knew where to go.

2 p.m.--The storm is reported to be about 30 miles east of St. Croix. I saw my friend Earl walk by the boat. He said he was on the way out to his boat. He looked at Gallifrey and commented how well we were secure and how lucky I was to have such a great spot. We wished each other luck and off he went to his boat.

I could not get a feeling for how bad it was outside because we were so protected. So Dominique and I decided to venture out for a look see. Tardis was riding her anchors just fine but the waves were 5-6' and the wind whipping you could see Tardis come out of the water once in a while. Dominique and I tried to walk down to the beach to see the ocean but the winds must have been approaching 50-60 and we decided that it would be a bit foolish to try.

5 p.m.--We saw our friends KB, Larry, Jim, and Carl hanging out in the bar. It was nice to be with some people again and even with the storm raging around us we felt safe. We went up stairs to the balcony and the view of the storm was incredible. Sheets of rain blowing over the hills and swirling like some kind of dance. The noise of the wind was so loud that you had to yell for people to hear. I watched the roof on the building across the way on the point just blow completely off. We got the 5 p.m. position of the storm, which placed it 6 miles due north of us. This made us all feel good because it meant the storm was now past us and going away. Isle 95 radio station was still on the air and we were getting reports from around the island. It was really blowing outside now and it was more unnerving since it was dark out, but it seemed the worst was over so I started to relax and we decided to watch some videos.

8 p.m.--The national weather service report placed the storm 25 miles north-west of St. Croix and moving away. This great news. At 8:15 it was real calm outside so I stuck my head out the window and could see that every one else had the same idea as I could see flashlights shining all around. At 8:30 I looked out and up in the sky was an airplane. Gee, that's odd to see an airplane during a hurricane... Oh it must be a hurricane hunter aircraft, they find the eye of the storm. Just then as the aircraft did 3 tight circles did I realize that the eye was not miles north of us and moving away it was right on top of us. WE ARE IN THE EYE.

At 8:45 the back side of the storm hit us. BANG! 100 mph winds coming from the opposite direction from before. BANG! Gallifrey suddenly heels 40 degrees to port. POW! Gallifrey heels 40 degrees to starboard. Stuff was everywhere, being tossed around inside our boat. The rain was hitting our windows so hard it was coming in through the cracks. In between the gusts Dominique and I were madly stowing stuff to keep it dry and from flying around the boat. With each gust I could feel it coming because my ears would pop. I was so worried that the glass in the pilot house was going to blow in that each time I would dive to the floor holding my arms over my head. Fear set in like I have never felt before. Were the windows going to hold, was the pilot house going to stay up, was another boat going to break free and ram us right up our back sides?

The radio station went dead. Time was standing still and the world was moving by at 120 mph. Lightning was flashing everywhere but you could not hear the thunder over the roar of the winds. At 11 p.m. the winds were starting to subside a bit, that is to say we were only getting knocked down every 5 minutes or so. All radio stations went dead. Except WGO from Puerto Rico. But they just play inspirational music. I now felt the fatigue setting in. In need to lie down. The wind had gotten much lighter and I convinced Dominique to come to bed with me and we both fell right to sleep.

DUANE BRANCH of Chelsea, and his wife, Dominique, had a harrowing experience with Hurricane Marilyn in St. Croix, where Duane is a boat builder.

vinced Dominique to come to bed with me and we both fell right to sleep.

Sept. 16, Saturday
(I better get used to warm beer)

5:30 a.m.--Got up and walked outside and went to stand on my pilot house roof to see what I can see. Joy and happiness filled my heart. TARDIS MADE IT. Dominique joined me and I gave her a big hug and almost cried with joy. Yesterday there were 22 boats in the harbor and now there were 5 left. A 35' trimaran was sitting precariously atop some pilings in the harbor as if someone had picked it up and set it there.

8:30 a.m.--Hugh the marina manager drove in and told us the road to town was passable but slow. We decided to go and take a look since we were concerned about all our friends in town. The going was more than slow. It was a good thing I have 4-wheel drive as we had to drive off the shoulder in the muck in many places. Town was a mess. The waterfront was totally gone, almost like it was never there. Annapolis Sailing School's dock had maybe 8 pilings left but nothing else. Seven boats were laying in the parking lot and debris were piled up 5' high and 15' across at the entrance. Looking out into the harbor was amazing, 40 boats used to be in the harbor and now there were 7. Dominique and I then walked around. My heart sank as I saw my friend Don's boat Helios sitting next to the Caravel Hotel on Queen Cross Street. Went to Stixx and we then heard the story of Don on Helios who had stayed on his boat. He had been tending his anchor lines when one of them parted, shattering his wrist. He went below to tend his wrist and ventured back to check the rest of his lines. On his way up the last of his anchor lines snapped with a loud bang and he was loose, moving quickly ashore. He started his engine and drove his boat into the hurricane force winds for 45 minutes until his engine overheated. Knowing he was losing his boat he looked for the spot he wanted to put it. He saw Queen Cross street looking more like a boat ramp then a street and drove the boat right up the street stopping at rest against the Caravel Hotel. He jumped off his boat and went into the Caravel and asked for a room.

The rest of town was a mess. We found out that my friend Earl was found floating next to his boat. I was shocked. After all the devastation I had seen, people who had lost everything, damage everywhere, now I find out Earl was dead. Earl I had known for 4 years. He always picked my brain for information for fixing his boats or some new and wacky idea. He was a good, kind and gentle man and I shall miss the talks we would have had.

We would spend the next week trying to survive. With no power and no phones it is not easy to cope. The worst part was there was no ice on the Island. Time to get used to warm beer, I guess. All in all it could be much worse. I now realize the meaning of some lyrics from a Calypso song about a hurricane:
One day you rich
next day you poor
one day you climbing up the ladder
the next day you crawling on the floor

Dominique and I survived by taking all the precautions we could. We have our home and we have our friends. And now we have the memory of Marilyn.
