Festival Will Light Up Downtown Friday Night

Chelsea's 8th Annual Festival of Lights celebrating the holiday season will be held in Chelsea this Friday, Dec. 1 beginning at 6:30 p.m. The continued success of the event is due to the involvement of so many individuals, businesses, churches and organizations who contribute their time and resources.

The Festival starts at 6:30 p.m. at the Pierce Park Pavilion (M-52 and Old US-12) with the annual illumination of the Chelsea Rotary Club Tree of Lights. Rotary Club President, Mearl Bradley will host the evening and guest speaker, Dr. W.C. Lane, will talk about historic Chelsea. The Tree of Lights will be illuminated by the 1995 Chelsea Fair Queen Tracey Dufek. Members of the Chelsea High School choir and band, as well as members from Chelsea Area Players, will be performing.

The festivities will continue throughout the village. Chelsea shops will be open for holiday browsing until 9 p.m. Free hayrides will be available in the downtown area, originating from and returning to the First Congregational United Church of Christ (121 E. Middle St.). The hayrides are provided by the families of Rod Powers and Keith Bloomsaat. A waiting area will be available inside the Church, where the children can decorate cookies. Members of Chelsea-area church choirs and the Chelsea Girl Scouts will be caroling throughout the village during the evening.

Santa will have two workshops open simultaneously from 7 p.m. until 8:30 p.m. at the UAW Hall, 218 S. Main St. and at the Village Plaza Mall, in the enclosed area by the Secretary of State's Office, 1114 M-52. Children can talk to Santa and have a complimentary photograph taken with him (photographs courtesy of Dayspring Gifts and Huron Camera). A craft area sponsored by the Chelsea Children's Co-Op will also be available for children to make a holiday art project.

Chelsea Ministerial Society is sponsoring the Living Creche on Main Street near McKune Library from 7 p.m. until 8:30 p.m. The nativity scene (with live animals) will be portrayed by members of the local area churches. Churches participating include: Chelsea Christian Fellowship, First Congregational United Church of Christ, First United Methodist Church, Free Methodist Church, North Lake United Methodist Church, Our Savior Lutheran Church, St. Mary's Catholic Church, St. Paul's United Church of Christ and Zion Lutheran Church.

For hungry or chilled festival goers, a Hospitality Suite sponsored by the VFW Auxiliary will be open from 6-9 p.m. at the VFW Hall, 105 N. Main Street. Complimentary beverages and treats will be served.

The festival will close with the All-Community Sing from 9 to 9:30 p.m. at the Chelsea Train depot. Carols will be led by B.J. and Kris Hohnke. Awards for the best-decorated homes and businesses will be awarded. Light refreshments will be provided.

Chelsea School District, Village At Odds Over Early Payment

By Scott Bishop
Staff Writer

Late debt payments are an obvious problem, but it was unexpectedly speedy restitution that brought conflict to light at last week's Chelsea School Board meeting.

At the Monday, Nov. 20 meeting, Chelsea Village President Richard Steele told the board that its early payment of bond debt left the village stuck with more than a fair share of the financial burden. "It's been dumped right in the laps of the taxpayers of the Village of Chelsea. I think we got shafted," he said.

In 1994 the village created a Special Assessment District composed of the Chelsea School District, Chelsea Community Hospital, St. Mary's Church and Michael Papo and Associates. Members of the Special Assessment district benefited from improvements to the sewer system along Freer Road funded by a $510,000 bond issue, and agreed to corporately repay the bond through the village. Over the full 20-year term of the bond the original principal of $510,000 would grow to $875,761 due to interest. Paying it off earlier would reduce the expense.

The village purchased the bond, which cannot be paid off prior to 2004 and must be paid by 2014. The school's share of the principal to be repaid was fixed at approximately $139,000. The district would have owed 7 percent annual interest on its share of any remaining unpaid principal. It was agreed that in the first year there would be no interest payment; last year the school district paid roughly $7,000 to the village, which was applied to the principal owed.

Based on Village Ordinance 80, section 23.015, which allows "the full amount of all or any deferred installments" to be paid in advance, Superintendent Ed Richardson recommended to the School Board, at its Nov. 6 meeting, paying off the entirety of the principal. The board (Continued on Page 2)

KEITH KINDRED, left, a seventh grade teacher at Beach Middle School, has led the Chelsea United Way Campaign in the entire school district this fall. Middle School Principal Darcy Stielstra, center, is scheduled to become the chairman of the Chelsea United Way Board next year. Sue Craig, above, also a teacher at Beach, has been active in United Way for many years. School district employees are likely to donate as much or more than they did last year toward the $106,000 goal set by the campaign.

Mobile Homes Closer After Recommendation

By Scott Bishop
Staff Writer

Last Tuesday, Nov. 21, the Chelsea Village Planning Commission reviewed its report on annexing and rezoning property northwest of the village, slated for a manufactured home development. After discussing issues of disputed ownership and limiting the development's size, the commission forwarded to the Chelsea Village Council a fine-tuned recommendation to go forward with annexation and rezoning.

The development group Dunbar and Martel currently owns 16.92 acres within the village limits in the northwest area of town off Cavanaugh Lake Road. The property is zoned for a mobile home park and is the only vacant parcel within the village zoned for mobile homes.

The group is asking for the village to annex 24.5 acres adjacent to the property they now own, for the purpose of combining the parcels and developing a 166-site manufactured home park.

Any decision to change village boundaries or rezone property rests with the village council, who solicited the advice of the planning commission. Chair Tim Eder said prior to a review of the report that the Commission was close to approving the plan.

Land speculator Harold Allen noted that Dunbar and Martel did not own the property requested for annexation, and argued that the commission should delay any action until a pending court case determines the undisputed owner.

Allen said that title to the 24.5 acre parcel has yet to be decided by the circuit court. Shirley Trinkle is the current owner; Dunbar and Martel have an option to purchase the land contingent on Trinkle prevailing in court. Allen, through the company Omnipotent Properties, Inc., hopes to force Trinkle to sell to the company based on an option the company had that has since expired. The circumstances surrounding that expiration are in legal dispute. If he ultimately controls the property, Allen said, he hopes to develop a residential home area.

Allen said the case would likely be resolved in January and advised delaying any move by the village until then. "We asked (Chelsea Village) to reserve any action as far as annexation or rezoning until our case had a chance to be decided. If we prevail (in court), then what has happened is that you have annexed property that we didn't ask to be annexed and you've changed the zoning to something we didn't ask that it be changed to," Allen said. He added that working with Dunbar and Martel was premature. "You are proceeding with someone that doesn't own the property," Allen concluded. Current owner Trinkle is prohibited by court injunction from selling the parcel until the legal decision is rendered.

Eder answered that the village council and not the planning commission would make final decisions about annexation and rezoning, that the commission was not deciding who owned the property but merely fulfilling a request from the council. "If you control (the disputed property) and prevail in court it will not be annexed," he assured Allen.

A village resident then urged the commission against zoning any further property for mobile homes, expressing concern that such a development would minimize growth of the community tax-base and that Chelsea, in her opinion, was becoming the answer to Washtenaw County's low-income housing needs.

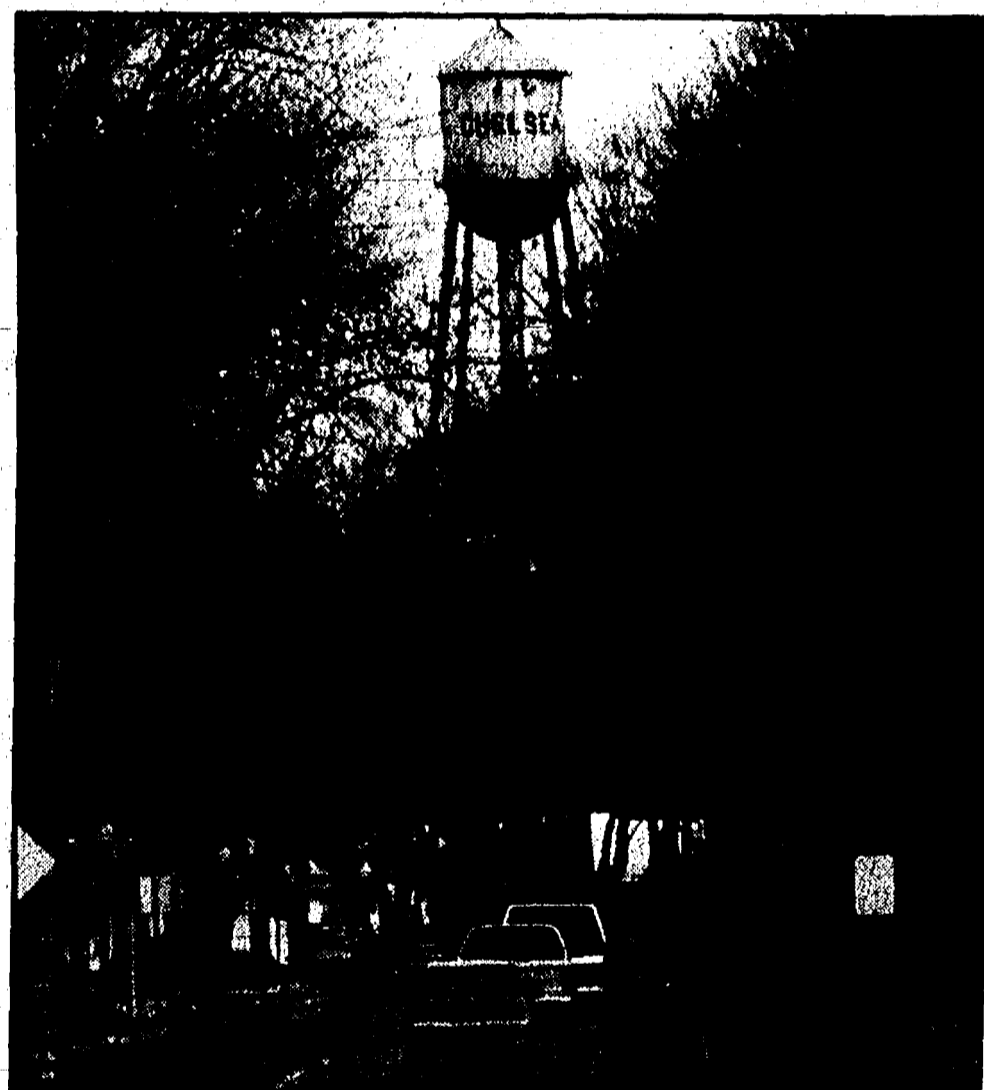

"We recognize that the most likely use of that property out there is manufactured homes, and that's our recommendation," Eder explained. He then referred to a 1994 request by property owner Martin Merkel to annex 157 acres north of Freer Road for a manufactured home development. "The village is concerned about being the site of a large mobile home park. The planning commission recommended against the mobile home park (proposed) on the northeast side of town, because of the size and scale of it. It was much bigger than this one. This one on the northwest side of the village is much smaller. It's about half the size. And we feel the size is much more appropriate for the Village of Chelsea," Eder said.

Eder continued on to identify the commission's specific reservations. "Our concerns really are two-fold. One is that we want to limit the size of this to no more than the 41 and 1/2 acres that we talked about, and the second issue is that we don't want to necessarily be locked into this big mobile home park. If there are utility requirements that the village feels are important, construction standards, we'd like to have the ability to negotiate with the developers in the context of the final site plan on issues like that, rather than be tied down," Eder explained.

Dunbar and Martel attorney David Parsigian said the developers would stipulate to limiting the scope of the project to allay fears of future expansion. "We would be more than happy to place a deed restriction on the property, that would run with the property whether we owned it or sold it to somebody else, that would restrict this acreage to 166 sites... We have no desire to, sometime down the road, make a dramatic change and shrink the size of home sites so we can increase the number of lease lots," Parsigian affirmed.

CHELSEA'S LONG-TIME WATER TOWER won't be taken down until early next year.

Demolition of Water Tower Set For Early Next Year

Chelsea's newly constructed water tower will be complete and ready for operation very soon. But in order to maintain cable television service for Chelsea and the surrounding communities, it will continue to use its current 69 year-old tower, until approximately late February.

Village Manager Jack Myers explained the situation to the village council at last week's Nov. 14 meeting. "Continental Cablevision" has their (satellite) dish located on the legs of the current water-tower, and due to the structural integrity of the new water-tower, we're not ready to allow them to put the dish on the top of the new water tower," he said. Following the meeting Myers indicated that placing the dish on top of the nearly complete new tower would require additional construction and expense, while an alternate position on the tower would cause interference with the signal.

Continental Cablevision representative Pam Rider told the council that the company was looking at alternate scenarios, including constructing its own tower and the possibility of running a fiber-optic cable into the village.

New construction for a satellite dish was a worst case scenario, Rider said, and would take about eight months to finish. If running a fiber-optic cable was feasible, the timetable could be moved up substantially and be complete this coming February.

Myers advised the council that, because it was reasonable to delay deconstruction of the current water-tower, they allow the cable company time to adjust. "As a suggestion, let's not put the new tower on line yet, let's use (the current tower) and hope for the best that they can get their fiber in," within two or three months, he said. President Richard Steele voiced approval. "The easiest solution would be to continue using (the current) tower for two or three months," he said.

Late last week Myers indicated that Continental Cablevision was planning to pursue its fiber-optics plan rather than construct a new tower.

Santa To Visit Chelsea Twice Before Holiday

Although Santa will make his first appearance in Chelsea this Friday at the Festival of Lights, it won't be the last chance to greet him.

Santa will come to the Chelsea VFW Hall on N. Main Street on Saturday, Dec. 9 and Saturday, Dec. 16 from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. Chelsea Merchants and the Chamber of Commerce are making it all possible.

Opening Remarks

By Brian Hamilton

In this business, I get an awful lot of phone calls. Some are enlightening, sometimes people want to compliment or complain, but the calls are almost always intriguing on some level.

Sometimes people want to verify a rumor. Some people think we're omniscient — "Is it going to rain for the fair parade?" Others think we're a live version of the yellow pages. I once had someone ask whether anyone in town sold Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles. Considering the Turtles Mania going on in the younger set back then, I suppose it was a somewhat newsworthy question. Twenty-five years ago, I would have been answering, "As far as I know, Paul's probably still alive." One day someone called and asked how many different kinds of Jiffy Mix there are, which I thought was mighty strange until I realized our telephone numbers are one digit apart.

The first week or two after The Chelsea Standard and The Dexter Leader changed ownership, I received a lot of calls from irate bowlers.

"If you don't get the bowling results back in, I'm going to cancel my subscription," a gentleman told me. I could hear pins falling in the background.

"We're working on that..."

"That's the only thing I read. A lot of the guys down here feel the same as I do."

That made me wonder just how many people take our newspapers for one single item. Did we lose anyone after the demise of Uncle Lew from Lima? One man wrote and said the only reason he reads The Dexter Leader is for the Viewpoint column, that fountain of conservative opinion from The Mackinac Center. The guy was probably a plant from the governor's office. (You should know that we are working to bring back "Just Reminiscing" and the church page, among other items. This change in ownership is a little like an editorial heart transplant — it takes time to re-connect all the arteries and make sure everything is working properly.)

One of the most interesting calls I received recently came a few weeks ago from someone who described herself as a concerned employee of a local manufacturing company. She wanted to give me a hot scoop.

"We're all meeting next week with a member of the international," she said.

"What's the problem?"

"The company is trying to tell us what to wear."

"Do you have to start wearing uniforms or something?"

"No, nothing like that," she went on. "Management issued an order that we're not allowed to wear anything with the Confederate flag on it."

"Are you serious?"

"Absolutely. We can't believe it." She invited us to sit in on their union meeting. As it turned out, our reporter, Scott Bishop, was not allowed in.

Why would anyone care what a machine operator wears in a factory, as long as he or she is wearing something? Perhaps the order suddenly threatened to make that woman's entire wardrobe obsolete, although I must say, I have never seen anyone in Chelsea wearing Confederate flag clothing. Nevertheless, this issue has so many heavy political implications to it that I'm going to leave it alone.

Maybe Uncle Lew can visit the Mackinac Center and provide us some insight.

theless, there is going to be several thousand dollars shortfall," Steele said.

Myers indicated the next day that paying broker and agent fees, as well as the necessity to make only short-term investments with the district's payment, would reduce the income that the village could generate with the funds.

Richardson urged the village to reserve judgment, emphasizing that interest earned by investment would reduce any shortfall and the district might take action if "real" as opposed to "estimated" losses occurred over a period of time. "When the village is aware of the real loss, we would want the school to be notified, and then we can consider whether or not we have any obligation," he said.

Myers said that paying off interest debt through reinvesting would require more time and effort, as well as more money.

Monday, Richardson clarified his position regarding "real" losses. If pre-paying truly resulted in losses for the village, Richardson explained, he would review the information and make a recommendation to the board. That recommendation would be based on the actual financial losses of the village, if any, Richardson said, so he could not speculate as to whether he would recommend to the board paying off some, all or none of any loss. Ultimately the school board could adopt or reject the superintendent's recommendation.

Uncle Apollo

Dear Uncle Apollo,

Just wondering when the Chelsea post office is going to catch up with the rest of the government offices and make their facilities handicap accessible. I have M.S. and have difficulty going up and down their stairs. Each year has proved to be more and more of a challenge to me. I really don't care to drive to Dexter or Stockbridge to receive postal services because I am in Chelsea a lot, but their buildings are a lot easier to enter and exit. I know that the Americans With Disabilities Act (ADA) states that a business doesn't have to be handicap-accessible unless they renovate or move to a new location. However, a lot of disabled people and senior citizens would appreciate it.

Has Trouble With Stairs

Dear TWS,

Seems to me that if you understand what the ADA says then you should be working for the government instead of climbing their stairs. The people who write that stuff are definitely challenged by the English language. The law would make more sense if people like you wrote it, but then you would be a government mucky-muck and they would cart you around in a gold limousine and somebody would mail your letters for you. With you down there in Washington and me firmly seated in village government, we could change a lot of things around here. You may have noticed that the village office has its own ADA problems, which I promise to fix when I'm elected village president.

I do agree with you that if the government is setting rules for everybody, they ought to follow the same rules themselves. However, your particular concern may call for some creative thinking, which government is horrible at. Maybe they could put up a roller blading track in back that would double as a wheelchair ramp. That way the kids would have something to do after hours and everybody would have access to the post office. What do you think?

Letters to the Editor

Bell Road Bridge

The Washtenaw County Road Commission is considering the demolition of Bell Road bridge. Bell Road bridge has spanned the Huron river for 104 years. It is located in Dexter Township, one mile north of North Territorial Road and Hudson Mills Metropark. Bell Road bridge is a beautiful example of a 19th century wrought iron bridge. Less than a dozen iron bridges of this type remain in the entire state. Bell Road bridge is eligible for the National Register of Historic Places. The tranquil setting surrounding the bridge is also historic. A mill stream northwest of the bridge marks the location of a pioneer sawmill built by Judge Samuel Dexter in 1827. The mill was rebuilt in 1844 as the Dover Mill, a grist mill which operated for several decades.

Bell Road is 1/4 mile in its entirety, unpaved, and only serves incidental traffic. Most vehicles used the paved North Territorial route a mile away. At present Bell Road bridge is closed. A car damaged one of the end posts and one of the cut-stone abutments needs repair.

Recently form-letter questionnaires, regarding the closure of Bell Road bridge, were circulated among local residents. Many people, who completed and returned the questionnaires, treasure this fine old bridge. Their primary concern was to repair and preserve this historic bridge and construction of a new bridge. At least this is how the road Commission chose to interpret citizen response.

The fate of Bell Road bridge will be discussed at a meeting on December 7, at 4:30 p.m., in the County Building Annex, 110 N. Fourth Ave. All concerned citizens, friends of Bell Road bridge, should attend.

Thanks to Modern Moms

I would like to thank the Modern Mothers Study Club of Chelsea for all the wonderful things they have done for me and my family since August of this year. To say "thank you" is just a beginning, for what they have done has been a Godsend.

Within hours of my surgery to remove a life threatening brain tumor, the Modern Mothers flew into action. President Patty Roberts was the first to call. She offered to help and took it from there. Member Carole Zenz worked hard calling around to get meals to my home (which includes a busy husband and four children). We have therapy 3 days a week and Patty has been working miracles in arranging rides for me.

Calls, cards, visits, support and encouragement poured out of the members. I have never been so touched.

Other kind people have called the Modern Mothers to offer their help. What a blessing. They have all made a difference in my life.

Modern Mothers should be proud of what they stand for. I am proud of them. All those who have helped have a special place in my heart. I love them all.

With much Thanksgiving,

Colleen Weddon

Santa's Workshop Holiday Craft Show Set at CHS

The holiday spirit will come to life on Saturday, Dec. 2 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Chelsea High School when the Chelsea High Women's Softball Club will host the Santa's Workshop Holiday Craft Show.

Approximately 85 artists and craftspeople will be on hand to sell the handcrafted wares; including such items as ceramics, woodworking, baskets, jewelry, holiday decorations, dolls, tote painting, clothing and much more.

Some of the crafters will be traveling from such places as Interlochen, Lansing and the Detroit area, but several of the talented participants are local residents, including Colleen Walters and Bill Stoffer.

Colleen has lived in Chelsea with her family for fifteen years. She has only been participating in craft shows for about six years, but has loved doing crafty projects since childhood. Colleen especially likes to work with wood and paint, designing most of her projects herself. She enjoys making holiday decorations and small items for teachers, like school bus pins and black board storage boxes.

"It's such good therapy and you meet the nicest people at craft shows. It always gives me great pleasure to know someone is buying one of my items because they like what I do," Colleen says.

Bill has lived in the Dexter-Chelsea area all of his life. Some may know Bill from his association with the Chelsea Community Fair for over 18 years. Bill enjoys doing woodcraft projects, such as pie safes and yard ornaments. He has been doing woodworking for many years, but really started enjoying it when he started making toy boxes and toddler cars for his grand daughter. He unfortunately doesn't have time to participate in more than about four shows a year because his first priority is his farming and he spends a lot of time making special order items for people. Bill says his woodworking is just a hobby and he doesn't treat the craft shows as a business venture. He just likes working with his hands and enjoys visiting with the people who stop at his booth. Colleen and Bill are just two of the talented craftspeople who will participate in this fund raising event. An admission fee is charged, which will benefit the Chelsea High School Women's Softball Club. The club plans to use the proceeds from the show to help pay for their trip to Isle of Palms, where they will attend spring training camp.

Christmas trees and poinsettia plants have been donated for decorating purposes at the show and will be auctioned off at 2:30; the money will benefit the club.

Approximately 50 craft items have been donated by the participating crafters, which will be raffled off throughout the day. One free ticket will be given as part of the admission fee and everyone will have the opportunity to purchase more tickets the day of the show.

Members of the Chelsea High School Concert Choir will be strolling through the gymnasium, cafeteria and hallways between 1 and 3 to add their vocal holiday spirit to the show. The softball club will hold a raffle for a queen size "Around The World" quilt, and the drawing for this will take place at the end of the day. Lunch and baked goods will be sold throughout the day.

VIEWS ON DENTAL HEALTH

GARY GOCHANOUR, D.D.S.

WHY A SPACE MAINTAINER?

A primary tooth (sometimes called a "baby" tooth), normally stays in place until the permanent tooth is ready to replace it. If your child's tooth is lost too soon, your dentist may recommend inserting a "space maintainer" to hold the space open until the permanent tooth can erupt in the proper position.

If a space maintainer is not used, your child can have a number of problems. Over a period of time, the teeth on either side often drift into the empty space. Then, when it is time for the permanent tooth to come in, there is not enough room. This is one cause of malocclusion or "crooked teeth." If teeth drift and become crooked, plaque will be hard to remove. This can result in severe tooth decay, and will contribute to periodontal (gum) disease.

Prevention of malocclusion caused by early loss of a primary tooth is simple. On the other hand, if nothing is done to maintain the open space, the resulting crooked teeth could lead to more complicated and expensive orthodontic treatment.

Eating Tips for Holiday Diners

By Debbie Barrow
Extension Home Economist

From Thanksgiving to New Year's we can experience one festive gathering after another, all abounding with wonderful foods to eat and enjoy.

It can be all too easy to get caught up in the party atmosphere and overindulge. But if you plan ahead, exert some willpower and use the information you've learned, you can act in your best interest. Here are some simple tips to follow to enjoy holiday parties without giving to overindulgence.

- Make sure you don't leave home hungry. Before you head out to a party, have a low-fat snack, such as a piece of fruit, low-fat yogurt or cut-up vegetables. If you arrive hungry, your anxious appetite can cause you to overeat.

- If you are asked to bring something, offer to bring a dessert or an appetizer. These are typically higher-fat offerings and you can make sure the one you bring is low fat. Try a salsa and low-fat chip platter, vegetables and a low-fat or angel food cake with non- or low-fat frozen dessert topping and fruit. You can also modify a traditional holiday recipe with lower fat substitutes.

- Look the buffet over before you begin taking food. Rather than sampling a little bit of everything, make sure you take advantage of the lower-fat choices, such as lean meats, rolls, vegetables (but not in oily sauces) and dried or fresh fruits. Make these choices the majority of what you take.

- Don't stand near the food. It's too easy to reach over and add food to your plate. Socialize away from the buffet table where it's harder to just nibble.

Chelsea Hospital Shares Thanksgiving

Chelsea Community Hospital helped to celebrate the holiday by sharing Thanksgiving meals with patients in the hospital and with staff on duty on Thursday, November 23, 1995. While not one wants to be in the hospital on Thanksgiving, sharing a special meal helps to make the day more enjoyable.

All patients were able to invite a family member to join them in a noon or evening meal compliments of the hospital.

- Allow yourself to say "no." You can refuse food without offending your host or hostess. Make sure your tone is pleasant and that you're firm and clear. If you say, "I don't think I'll have any more," you've left the perfect opening for someone to urge you to take more. A simple, "No, thank you. But I really enjoyed the meal," will be effective. Or try, "No, thank you. But could I have a cup of coffee (or tea)?" Being able to assert yourself positively can be critical to healthful eating during the holidays.

- Focus on why you are there — family, friends and the sharing of holiday cheer. Make sure the food is not the main attraction.

District Library Planning Committee Seeks Community Input

The District Library Planning Committee has presented to local municipalities a District Library Agreement. Approval of this agreement would change the status of McKune Library from a village library to a district library.

This change in status will permit the library to increase services to a rapidly growing community; increase space and books; provide better public access to computer technology; establish an adequate, consistent and equitable funding source for library services; give all citizens in the community the opportunity to serve on the library board; and make the library handicap accessible.

To make this change Dexter, Lima, Lyndon, and Sylvan Townships and the Village must finalize the District Library Agreement. Then the voters in the district must approve a library millage to fund the District Library. Although Michigan law says this millage can be up to 2 mills in perpetuity with an additional 2 mills levied for a period not to exceed 20 years, the exact millage to be voted upon must be proposed by the District Library Board.

A study conducted by the District Library Planning Committee estimates the millage required for library operation, improvements and expansion would be between .6 mills and 1.3 mills. The village taxpayers currently pay 1.73 mills. At the present time township residents do not pay a library millage.

Please indicate your views to the District Library Planning Committee by clipping and mailing this survey no later than December 14.

BEACH MIDDLE SCHOOL GIRL SCOUT TROOP 168 raked leaves on the grounds of the Humane Society of Washtenaw County earlier this fall. They also decorated the clinic and shelter to make it more attractive and home-like for the workers and prospective pet owners. The girls watched many people walking dogs that people were considering adopting. They also saw others bringing animals to leave. Shelter workers answered all the girls' questions and allowed them to feed all of the cats. After returning, the girls made informative posters about the Humane Society and hung them around Beach school. In front, from left, are Erica Forshee, Sharon Price, Elizabeth McKee and Elizabeth Faeth. In back, from left, are Sarah Maynard, Emily Havens, Kourtney Barlow, Meghan Tandy, Phoebe Booth, Meagan Konieczki, Elizabeth Emmerling, and Jessica Irish. Not pictured are Bethany Billman and Sarah Schwartz, and leaders Lynn Booth and Kris Miller.

THE GARDEN CORNER

The end of the outdoor gardening season doesn't mean the end of gardeners' questions. Extension specialists at Michigan State University answer timely queries about landscape plants, houseplants, vegetable gardening and related topics.

Q. What can I do to limit the amount of damage to plants around my house during an ice storm?

A. When an ice storm coats your plants with ice, there's not much you can do except hope it melts before significant damage occurs. Propping up ice-laden branches usually just results in breakage at the point where the branches rest on the prop. Some trees are more susceptible than others to damage from a heavy load of ice, so one way to reduce the likelihood of damage is to avoid planting those trees. Zelkova, Siberian elm, American elm, silver maple, birch, willow and poplar are generally hardest hit by ice storms. These trees are usually weak-wooded trees with sharp, V-shaped crotches that tend to split when a tree breaks under the weight of a load of ice. Oaks, lindens and hard maples are generally sturdier.

Q. What causes the flower buds to drop off of holiday cacti?

A. Too much water, too much nitrogen fertilizer, low light and high temperatures can all cause flower bud drop in Christmas and Thanksgiving cacti. Moving a plant from one spot to another may also cause buds to drop, especially if the relative humidity in the new area is low.

Q. I keep seeing tomatoes in the grocery store labeled "hydroponically grown." What does that mean, exactly?

A. Hydroponics is the science of growing plants without soil. It's an intensive growing method that grows plants with their roots in contact with a nutrient solution, and it requires optimum light, temperatures and humidity levels and careful mixing and monitoring of nutrient solutions. It is more difficult and exacting than growing plants by more conventional methods. Its major advantage is that it enables a person to grow plants where suitable soil isn't available or in a greenhouse when outdoor conditions won't permit crops to grow. The cost of setting up a system is a drawback. Though weeds and soil-borne disease organisms aren't a problem, an introduced bacterial or fungal disease organism can run unchecked through the entire system in short order.

Q. Which is better for houseplants — rain water or ordinary tap water? What about water that's been through a water softener?

A. Rain water is preferable because it doesn't contain the chlorine used to treat municipal water supplies or the sodium in softened water. Using rain water, melted snow or distilled water helps slow the buildup of soluble salts in houseplant soils. These salts can cause root damage and leaf burn.

Q. Are there any perennial vegetable crops besides asparagus and rhubarb?

A. Yes, the Jerusalem artichoke, a native North American plant in the sunflower family. The roots persist year after year, sending up new shoots and leaves in the spring that are killed by cold weather in the fall. It produces edible tubers and bears attractive, sunflower-like flowers in late summer and early fall. It's often grown in the garden as an annual — that is, tubers are planted in the spring like potatoes and harvested in the fall. It can also be left in place as a perennial crop in either the vegetable or the flower garden. It will spread, so it's a good idea to use it in the landscape where a sidewalk, wall or other barrier will contain it.

Severe Weather Coalition Offers Winter Tips

It doesn't take record-breaking low temperatures or mountains of snowfall to make winter in Michigan dangerous. The abrupt changes in weather that come with the usual parade of winter storms are enough to turn enjoyment of the season to tragedy.

Although snowfall last year was below the 30-year average in nearly all areas and average temperatures for the winter were above normal, there were still episodes of intensely stormy and bitterly cold winter weather that put Michigan residents at risk.

According to members of a coalition formed to promote winter weather preparedness, an inch or two of snow early in the season catching motorists off guard, fierce winds that often bring heavy snows near the Great Lakes shores, or snow changing to freezing rain that coats trees and power lines with heavy ice, are a few examples of how lives can be disrupted and endangered within a few hours. Some dangers persist even under fair skies, such as bitter wind chill temperatures and flooding that develops when ice jams form on rivers and streams.

Whether traveling in the state for the holidays or simply commuting across town to work, snow and ice are always forces to be reckoned with. If you are resting at a hunting camp in the woods or shoveling snow in the city, bitterly cold air is a common enemy that can deplete your energy.

"Now is the time to prepare for the unexpected," John Kottke of the National Weather Service and member of the Michigan Committee for Severe Weather Awareness, said. "There is no need to be caught by surprise no matter how winter tries to sneak up on us."

The Severe Weather Coalition suggests keeping emergency supplies in the home and automobile. Those supplies should include first-aid kits, battery-powered radios, flashlights, extra batteries, matches, blankets, warm clothes and non-perishable foods. Problems while traveling can be avoided by keeping vehicles properly maintained and filled with fuel. Residents should always check the weather forecast before leaving home and take note of advisories, watches and warnings.

A winter storm watch indicates that severe winter weather conditions may affect your area. A winter storm warning indicates that severe winter conditions are imminent and you should take immediate precautions. A snow advisory is issued when three to six inches are expected in a 12-hour period. In the Upper Peninsula, it would result when four to eight inches of snow is anticipated in that same time period. A wind chill advisory may be issued when strong winds increase the threat of exposure to cold air.

If residents have to go outside during severe winter weather, they should wear loose-fitting, light-weight warm clothing in layers. Outer garments should be tightly woven and water repellent and they should wear a wool hat and mittens. It is important to avoid overexertion, such as shoveling heavy snow, pushing a car or walking in deep snow. Sweating from these activities could lead to chill and hypothermia.

Training Program For Farmers

A specialized, practical training program intended to strengthen the farm business will be available this winter to farm owners and managers.

The three- or four-day-long sessions are the introduction to Michigan State University Extension's Agriculture Management Advancement Project (AMAP).

AMAP sessions are being offered to cash crop, beef, sheep, dairy and swine producers beginning in January.

"The workshops focus on increasing the resiliency of a farm business by strengthening its fundamental components, including the relationships between workers, business partners and family members," says Robin Millsap, MSU Extension AMAP program coordinator.

A typical AMAP workshop acquaints managers with basic management skills in a classroom setting. Reviewing case studies and using their own businesses as homework, participants develop plans for their businesses' success, she says.

The core of the AMAP emphasizes four main areas: the business mission, the necessary long-and short-term goals, and steps needed to achieve them, Millsap adds.

Times and most locations of the sessions have not been established, though regional dates have been. Dates for the sessions are:

- Dairy, Jan. 9, 16 and 22 in the eastern Thumb. Jan. 12, 19 and 26 in west central Michigan. Feb. 6, 13 and 20 in southeastern Michigan.
- Swine, Feb. 20 and 27 and March 5 in southwestern Michigan.
- Field crops, Feb. 2, 9 and 16 in southwestern Michigan. Feb. 23 and March 1 and 8 for producers in Eaton and Barry counties.
- Cow-calf and sheep, Jan. 11, 18 and 25 and Feb. 1, at Haarer's Meeting Place, Manchester, for producers in Monroe, Wayne, Washtenaw and Lenawee counties.
- Cattle feeders, Jan. 17, 14 and 31 in the eastern Thumb. Jan. 11, 18 and 15 and Feb. 1 for producers in Monroe, Wayne, Washtenaw and Lenawee counties (will meet with cow-calf and sheep producers in Manchester).

New Grant Program For Livestock Exhibitions

Michigan Department of Agriculture (MDA) Director Dr. Gordon Guyer has announced a new grant program for livestock exhibitions. The grants, totaling $140,000, will be awarded through a competitive grant process to local, regional or state fairs, or exhibitions by March 1996.

"The Competitive Livestock Exhibition grants provide an excellent opportunity for the enhancement of Michigan livestock exhibitions by encouraging the use of technology to help evaluate the performance of animals," said Guyer. "We hope that by providing these grants, more of our youth will become involved in the animal agriculture industry, and adults will take a more active role in the exhibition of livestock in our state."

Grant applications will be evaluated based on their innovative approaches to livestock exhibition.

Grant applications will be mailed to fairs and associations in early December. Proposals must be submitted to the MDA Fairs and Racing Unit by 5 p.m., Jan. 31. All grants will be awarded by March and all shows that receive grant monies must be completed by Sept. 30.

MDA has scheduled two informational meetings to review grant application procedures. The first meeting will be held Jan. 8, 10 a.m. to noon, in the Lake Ontario Room, State of Michigan Library and Historical Center, 717 W. Allegan, Lansing. The second meeting will be held for convention participants during the Michigan Association of Fairs Annual Convention, Jan. 12, at the Amway Grand Plaza Hotel in Grand Rapids.

For more information, write to Marilyn Thelen, Fair Coordinator, Michigan Department of Agriculture, P.O. Box 30017, Lansing, Michigan 48909, or call (517) 373-9760 (voice) or 800-292-3939 (voice & TTY).

YOU'VE NEVER SEEN THIS VIEW of Chelsea's Pierce Lake before as developers have removed a thick stand of trees to make way for the Pierce Lake Condominium project behind Polly's Market. There has been plenty of earth-moving equipment on the grounds in recent days.

Farm Bureau Quick Facts

The difference between the farm price and the retail price of beef between August to September dropped 5 cents for the month, while the spread for pork rose 2 cents. Choice beef retail prices decreased while farm prices increased, resulting in a 5 cent decrease in the farm-to-retailer price spread to $1.50 per retail pound. Retail pork prices increased while the farm price dropped, increasing the spread 2 cents to $1.21 per retail pound.

An Agriculture Department report said food aid will need to double over the next 10 years to keep up with world demand, and given new U.S. agricultural policies and shrinking budgets, increasing the amount of aid could be difficult. According to the report, current aid projects only reach 80 percent of hungry and needy populations. The study projected next year's total food aid needs at 15 million tons, with that number reaching 27 million tons by 2005.

The Michigan Department of Agriculture and the Michigan Jobs Commission is looking for companies that would like to exhibit at the Michigan pavilion during the U.S. Food Export Showcase to be held in Chicago next year. The Michigan pavilion will contain a dozen exhibitors showcasing fruits and vegetables, beverages and a wide variety of other food products. The Showcase attracts nearly 35,000 buyers.

Next month, the Food and Drug Administration will decide whether the artificial fat product called olestra can be used as a fat alternative in the snack foods. Olestra is derived from sugar and vegetable oils, and according to the manufacturer Procter and Gamble, tastes like real fat. Its molecules are too large and tightly packed for the human body to break down; therefore, it passes undigested through the body.

The Agriculture Department has approved the use of a special antiseptic rinse to wash E-coli and other bacteria from beef carcasses during processing. This rinse allows beef processors to significantly reduce food-borne pathogens on beef in their processing plant before shipping to restaurants and grocery stores. E. coli reportedly costs between $200 million and $600 million in medical expenses annually.

Here's a handy tip for eliminating the tears when slicing onions. Hold the onions under cold running water or refrigerate before peeling or cutting. That neutralizes the sulfur atoms that cause tears.

The word barbecue is derived from French speaking pirates, who called this Caribbean pork feast by a similar-sounding French phrase that translates as "from beard to tail". In other words, the pig roast reflected the fact the hog was a very versatile animal that could be consumed from head to toe.

The Animal Drug Availability Act, currently being considered in Congress, would enact Food and Drug Administration reforms that would apply to the animal medicine industry. The measure would allow modifications to the review process and allow a wider variety of medicines to be available for pets and farm animals.

The broadcast will feature Dr. Robert Marzano, of Mid-continent Regional Laboratory, who helped the Saline/Tecumseh collaborative take state curriculum standards and transform them into local district benchmarks that can measure students' knowledge and skills through performance activities. Launching Tomatoes In Heart of Madrid

By Tucker Lee
Special Writer

Ask yourself this: What naturally comes to mind when you pick up a rotten tomato? I am sure that most did not think of eating it, so that really only leaves us only one choice; throwing it.

I had the opportunity to do just that, right in downtown Madrid. In fact it only costs about $3 and a sense of humor. I am referring to the amateur theater called "El Mirador" (The Watcher).

Deep in the heart of Madrid in the neighborhood called Lavapiés lies a street called Doctor Forquet. On that street lies the Sala Mirador. The festivities begin at 10 p.m. or so, so the street is dark and foreboding. You walk through to the back where there is a stage and a large group of lawn chairs facing it. We sat down to wait for the fun.

In their advertisement for the tomato throwing, they say, "We toast the opportunity to confront the public...armed with tomatoes. The object is to revitalize the observer's act of criticism in order to arrive at a true way to express his or her opinion, and not just applaud for the sake of applauding." While this sounds almost intellectual, we know that someone came up with a good idea of how to have a little fun with the leftovers.

Since the performers are amateurs, one must await a particularly bad skit for the commencement of the tomato launching. My friends and I had picked seats in the top, back row. Probably the only let-down of the evening was the fact that I only had three tomatoes. That still produced a sinister smile on my face when I realized that one of those three was nice and hard. This was indeed going to be fun.

The first person to enter the stage was a woman dressed as a tomato. She is there in order that we hear the perspective of the tomato. (i.e. What it feels like to be thrown, watching your relatives die, etc.) In her soliloquy she also reveals the rules. Wait a minute. Did she just say rules? In tomato throwing there are no rules. Okay, maybe there are. I suppose that one should not be throwing the tomatoes DURING the performance since that could make it difficult to judge which is the worst.

When I had seen enough of the bad performances, and the current one was the worst that I had seen, I waited patiently for the end. As some short-sighted audience members clapped, I launched my little, but powerful, red sphere from the back row. Unfortunately it flew past the players, but it did hit the back plastic curtain with such force that it splattered them from behind. Its rotten juice even hit some of those clapping audience members in the front row. My launch was a complete success.

I will most certainly return to the Sala Mirador. I might even put a little skit or song together and put myself on the spot for target practice.

While I wait for another Saturday night to arrive, I fondly think of the Spanish town in the province of Valencia where, on the town's festival day, trucks bring in TWO TONS of tomatoes for the town members to throw at each other. Can you imagine this happening in Chelsea? My thoughts turn toward the Chelsea Fair. The people from Mike's Deli and the Common Grill and other restaurants would be armed to the teeth. Chief McDougal would have to have bodyguards, and the surprise of the day would be that the entire membership of the Chelsea United Methodist Church would band together for an onslaught against all other town residents. This battle would be so fierce that folks would talk about it for years in the same conversations as the Fall of the Roman Empire.

Even though there have been cases of injuries caused by tomato throwing, I am sure that this is one of those festivals that is not as dangerous as the Running of the Bulls in Pamplona (in other words: it gets Mom's approval). Either way, it doesn't matter since the festivals only happen once a year. I can go back to the Sala Mirador every Saturday.

Dexter Resident Has Book Published

A book about Dexterites of long ago has just come off the press entitled, Marching To California on the Emigrant Trail, 1852. It is a journal kept by Benjamin F. Chamberlain, of Dexter, while traveling the Emigrant Trail to the California gold mining country. He was one of three Chamberlain brothers who went west. James Boyden, also from Dexter, joined him on the way. There are brief entries of encounters with the Indians, the trials and tribulations of the trail, sickness, death and burials. Especially of interest is the death and burial on the banks of the Carson River in Nevada of Warner Forbes, another man from Dexter.

For the genealogist who has lost track of an ancestor or a relative Appendix A may be of some help. It contains over one hundred names abstracted from the diary.

The introduction, appendices and minor editing are by Welton Chamberlain. There are 94 pages, 17 photographs, bibliography of suggested reading, and a journal index. The book is a 6x9 hardcover, which sells for $14.95 including postage and handling. For more information write P.O. Box 246, Pinckney, 48169.

Kids Play Big Role in TT Design

Design Day for the Timber Town community-built playground project got off to an early start Wednesday, Nov. 8 at the Chelsea Depot. There, various village officials and interested community members met with John Dean, designer from Leathers & Associates, to cover site-related issues.

Then it was over to the designated spot for Timber Town on Sibley Road (on the Dana Corporation-donated land) to measure and lay out plans for site preparation. From there, Dean was whisked from North to South Elementary Schools to Beach Middle School in order to meet with a majority of the classrooms and extract the playground design ideas from the children. The help of several parent volunteers helped make this process a rewarding one. Dean so aptly asked, "Who are the playground experts?" and the children instantly replied, "We are!" The children helped provide much enthusiasm and energy to the entire day. As Dean continued to draw throughout the afternoon, several groups of children were able to watch and ask questions. The Children's Committee met with him and discovered several new ways they can be involved in this project until build-time next June. Later, Dean met with the adult Timber Town committee members where much-needed advice was gained.

This kick-off event for the Timber Town project ended with a short community evening program which involved a review of the preliminary drawing, designed with the help of children. Dean also brought several slides from other playground projects built with the assistance of Leathers & Associates. The audience was able to ask questions and comment about the preliminary design.

Glimpse of Chelsea Schools' Future Lies in Nearby Dexter

By Michelle Rogers
Staff Writer

Students in Dexter Schools are reaping the rewards of a $4 million technology plan in its final phase of implementation. As a result, the way subjects are taught and learned have changed for the better, many say.

Chelsea schoolchildren will see the same changes in the coming years as bond issue money is used to implement technology.

"They have a lot to look forward to," says Dave Messner, principal at Dexter High School.

Richard Weaver, a teacher and technology coordinator for Dexter Schools, agrees. "It will be a very exciting time, and I think Chelsea will see that."

"It has been a growing experience. The nice thing is many of our staff I thought would be apprehensive are just eating it up. They love it."

Many teachers at Dexter High have taken advantage of computer classes and have begun to use technology to enhance learning. Anne Zuehlke, for example, is a creative writing and Spanish teacher. She has joined the International Poetry Guild, organized through the University of Michigan. Zuehlke and 12 of her creative writing students use e-mail to exchange poetry.

E-mail, the internet and voice, video and data capabilities implemented recently have allowed students and teachers access to information and people they never even knew existed before.

Zuehlke says the International Poetry Guild is set up so students can submit their poetry to mentors at the U-M to critique. Other students participating in the guild can also read it and give their comments.

"Of course, the day after they submit their poetry, they're interested in what the response is," Zuehlke said. "They have been very happy to come in during the mornings. Some have said they're excited to come to school to get their e-mail and see if their work has been critiqued."

Six out of the 12 students have established e-mail accounts with the school district. The others use Zuehlke's account to access their critiques.

"I find their writing more personal when they're not influenced by a visual image. You don't see a personality. You don't know what grade they're in or their background, so you can concentrate on the writing and nothing else," Zuehlke said.

Zuehlke will also begin using the internet in her Spanish classes so students can communicate directly with other teens in Monterey, Mexico.

"It takes it out of a text book and put it in a real living language," Zuehlke explained.

She believes students will take more time to study and learn the language so they can communicate effectively.

Student access to the internet is being worked out right now. There has been a delay while the technology coordinators figure out how to block access to inappropriate material.

Dexter School District's technology plan should be fully implemented by early next year. Weaver says the plan, phased in over three years, will be completed on schedule.

There have been a few snags, however. Messner said maintenance on the network has to be done when no one is using the computers. "There are so many computers, so you don't know which are on and off. You just have to check each computer. But they're learning how to get around that problem," he said. "There is such a massive amount of things to put together," Weaver explained, "but the bottom line is when it's working, it's working well."

The technology plan has included installing voice, video and data networks in all schools. That has required infrastructure changes, upgrading of electrical work and remodeling, so there is interconnectivity. Hardware has also been purchased, and computers have been placed in every classroom with labs installed at the middle and high schools.

"Computers in every classroom has made a big difference in how we do our grading," Messner said.

Teachers at the high school had the choice to compute grades or just enter them for their students at the end of the semester. Attendance has also been monitored via the computer. Messner says by using the computer for those tasks, it has reduced the number of people handling the data. The result, he says, is the information has a greater likelihood of being accurate.

English teacher Mary Hudspath agrees. "Certainly, technology at the high school is making attendance a lot more efficient and accurate," she said.

Besides using computers for grades and attendance, Hudspath is among the teachers taking advantage of it in the classroom. She helped arrange for the sister school exchange program by using e-mail to communicate with her colleagues in Graz, Austria. They used the system to set up schedules and make flight arrangements.

Messner has been especially impressed with the science department and how teacher Richard Grannis is using technology in the classroom. Physics and advanced biology students are videotaping activity under the microscope so all students can witness it.

"For those who learn through seeing, they have a better change of understanding the concepts," Messner said.

For the most part, Messner said students are excited about using technology to produce multi-media reports and communicate with students from around the world.

"I think they like having the latest technology," he said.

"Technology makes things faster and expands horizons in terms of what you can access. Once they realize the information they can find on the Worldwide Web, I think they'll see all the opportunities open to them."

Weaver says he sees interest building now. "You can hear the buzzing," he said. "It's exciting. Probably the biggest hit right now is e-mail."

"I have kids coming up saying, 'This is so great. I can talk to kids I know in college or in different countries.'"

Weaver says students in different grade levels are designing multi-media reports, using pictures, sound, graphics and animation available by way of the computer.

Students have also distributed information about Dexter Schools and the community via the internet. Pictures and information about the town, athletic events and other activities are accessible when computer users punch in the code www.dexter.k-12.mi.us.

School officials call the technological revolution in Dexter exciting, and say Chelsea has much to look forward to. Last spring, Dexter was only one of two school districts in the state to establish interconnectivity. Weaver says there are eight now and the number is steadily growing.

Solid Year for Area Farmers

According to Klaus Bachmann, manager of Provico Big-H, area farmers are harvesting profitable crops this year.

"I think the farmers in this area, with these wheat, corn and soybean prices, were able to make a profit this year. They seem satisfied," Bachmann said.

With the corn harvest 90 percent complete, quality and production have worked to the advantage of local farmers. Bachmann explained that the harvest has yielded much drier corn than usual, with a healthy test-weight of 55-59 lbs. per bushel. And despite major damage from foraging deer, the yield has averaged approximately 105 bushels per acre. That yield is higher than normal, while nationally corn yield is down, so local farmers can earn what Buchmann called a "very good" $2.80 to $3.08 per bushel.

Both red and white winter wheat were slightly down in quality, but yield was normal for the area and the price of about $4.00 per bushel was good.

Soybean quality was excellent for the area, with healthy test-weights averaging 56-58 lbs. per bushel. Bachmann said prices ranging from $6 to $6.50 per bushel were satisfactory, and that average yield was approximately 38 bushels per acre.

Milk Production Remains Same

Dairy herds in Michigan produced 460 million pounds of milk during October. That was virtually the same as a year ago, according to the Federal/State Michigan Agricultural Statistics Service. Milk per cow was 1,410 pounds, and the dairy herd was estimated at 326,000 head, unchanged from last September and last month.

The preliminary value of milk sold was $13.30 per hundredweight in October, $4.00 more than last month but the same as in October, 1994. The mid-month October slaughter cow price was $33.20 per cwt, compared to $38.80 in October 1994.

Milk production in the 22 major states during October was 11.0 billion pounds, one percent above production in these states in October 1994. Production per cow was 1,361 pounds in October, seven pounds above September 1994. The number of cows on farms in the 22 major states was 8.11 million head, up 3,000 head from October 1994 but down 2,000 head from September 1995.

Dairy manufacturing plants in Michigan produced 1.6 million pounds of butter in September, six percent more than a year ago. Ice cream output totaled 2.0 million gallons, five percent less than in September 1994.

Bulldogs Reach Regional Finals Before Elimination

The Bulldogs finished a 20-4 season in the Sweet Sixteen of the state tournament, defeating an outstanding Riverview Gabriel Richard team in the regional semi-finals before falling to Monroe Jefferson.

Riverview came into the Monday, Nov. 20 game with a 20-1 record but couldn't contain Chelsea's Annie Terpstra. Terpstra dominated the inside, scoring a school record 35 points. Riverview couldn't overcome the Bulldog's depth, as nine players contributed to the win.

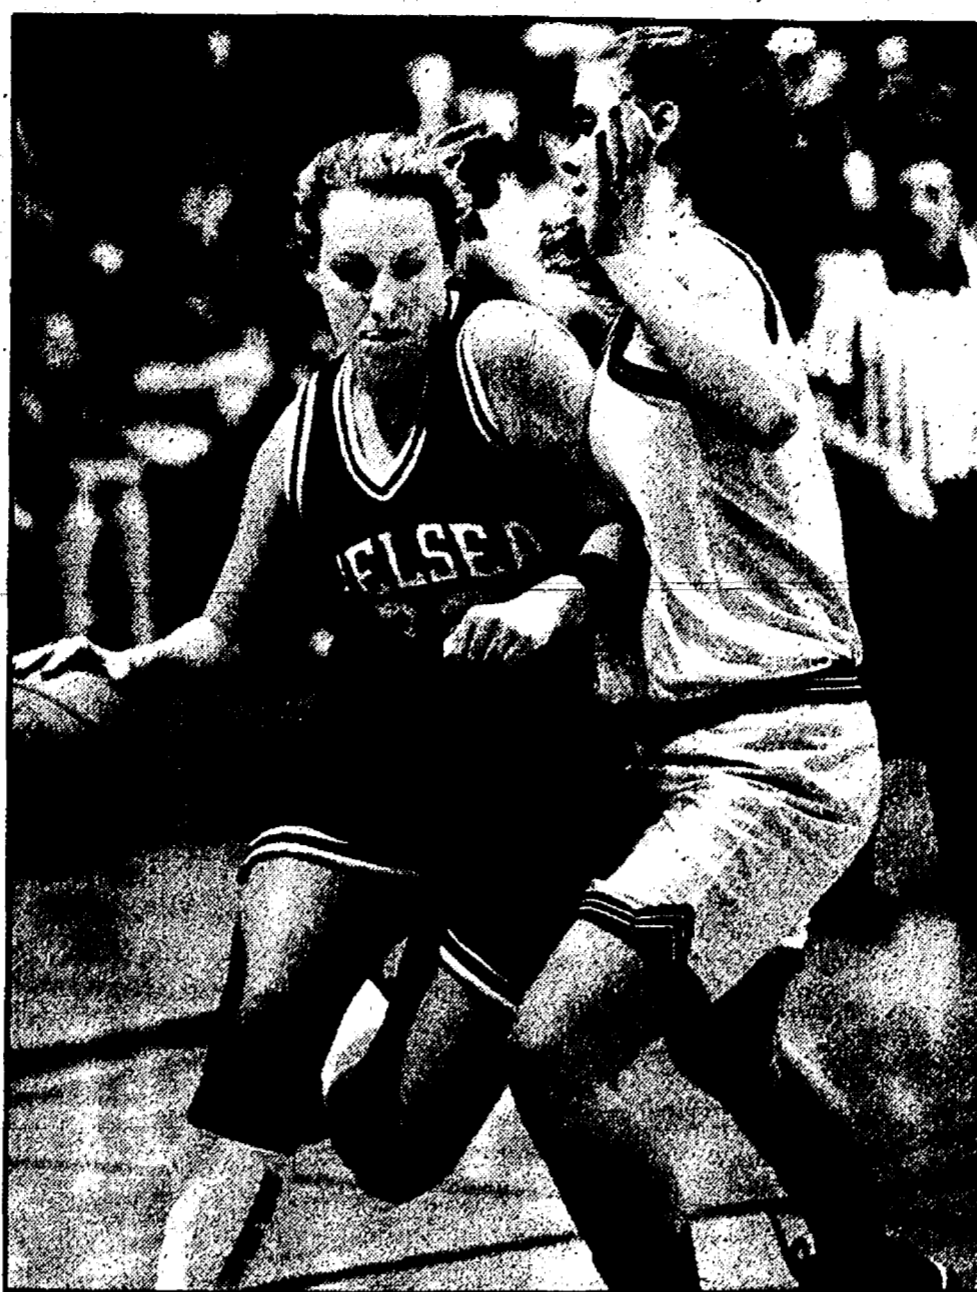

Chelsea coach Charlie Waller said it was a standout performance by his whole team. "Annie was sensational. We played really well, probably our best game of the year," he said, praising point guard Kasie Ruhlig especially for running the team smoothly despite frenetic defensive pressure.

The Wednesday, Nov. 22 regional final was close throughout; the Bulldogs trailed by just two in the fourth quarter before two quick three-pointers, solid ball-handling and outstanding free-throw shooting helped Monroe Jefferson stake a lead and hold on for a 61-53 win.

Waller said Monroe Jefferson did what other opponents have been unable to, spreading out the Chelsea defense and taking advantage to score on the inside. On the other end of the court, the Bulldogs were largely kept out of the prime scoring territory near the basket. "We shot the ball well. What we didn't do was penetrate," Waller said. Jessica Inwood and Ruhlig combined to make seven of nine three-pointers. Terpstra led the scoring with 17 points, and finished her career as Chelsea's all-time leading scorer.

The Bulldogs finished 20-4 and in the regional final for the second straight year, despite replacing four starters from last season. Waller praised his team for playing hard and staying focused throughout the season. "They had a great season. The kids played super. Those kids did a sensational job. I don't think you can give them enough credit," he said.

JESSICA INWOOD drives toward the basket against Monroe Jefferson.

Fifth and Sixth Grade Travel Team Sweeps Tournament at Jackson

Fifth and sixth grade travel soccer teams sponsored by the Chelsea Recreation Council swept tournaments at Jackson Northwest Nov. 17-18.

Two fifth-grade teams combined for a 3-0 record, beating Brooklyn Columbia Central and two squads from Jackson Northwest. Each player on both teams earned a first-place medal.

The Chelsea Gold Team finished first with a 3-0 record and the Blue Team second at 2-1 in the sixth-grade division.

Dog Wrestlers Look For Senior Leadership

Chelsea wrestling coach Kerry Kargel says he is counting on seniors to lead the Bulldogs to perform their best. Conveniently, six key seniors return among 14 letterwinners from last season. 35 wrestlers make up this year's team.

Those seniors are: Zac Eersten, who was 23-3 last year; Koby Foytik, a state qualifier; Ray Hatch, 24-4; Jordan Dyer, 38-5 and a state qualifier; Mike Thayer and Matt Tuttle.

Juniors Kargel expects to contribute include: Jamie Holzhausen, Mike Alber, Andy Kargel, Brian

Hall and Kevin Bollinger. Kargel also expects big things from sophomore Brent Young.

"I think it's going to be a good team to watch because there are five or six standouts. I think we stand as good a chance as anybody in the league," said Kargel, mentioning Dexter and Saline as top challengers for the SEC title along with Chelsea.

The Bulldogs hit the mats next Thursday, Dec. 7, hosting Brooklyn Columbia Central, to kick off the season.

Bulldogs Hope To Contend For League Cage Title

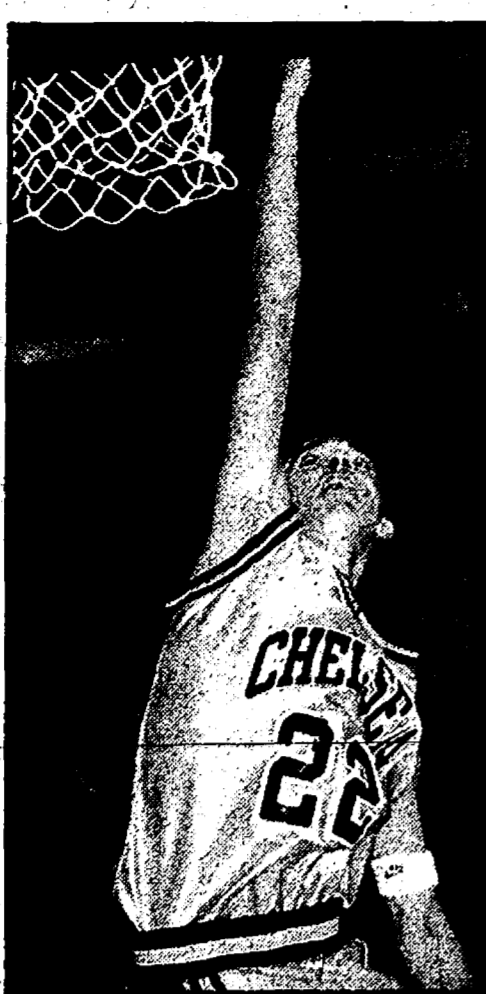

Chelsea varsity basketball team comes out of the blocks this week, playing at Williamston this Tuesday and hosting Saline tomorrow. The Bulldog fast break will feature some added height this year, and in a competitive and balanced Southeastern Conference, coach Robin Raymond is looking to challenge for the top.

"The league is stronger this year than it was last year. Any one of five teams could win," said Raymond, adding that Chelsea was one of those five.

The Bulldogs return seven lettermen from last season's 10-11 team, which jumped off to a fast start before injuries marred its season.

Leading the break toward a title will be three-year veterans and captains Nick Brink and Scott Colvin, both seniors. Brink will start at point guard while renaissance man Colvin will play both guard and forward. Raymond expects that 6'3 senior forward Kevin Cross will join the captains in the starting lineup. Other returnees vying for prime time are 6'0 senior wing player Kevin Holmes, 5'9 senior guard Sam Morseau, 6'2 senior forward/center Damon McLaughlin and 6'4 1/2 junior center Chris Dronen.

Five junior newcomers to the varsity looking to contribute are 5'10 guards Paul Bragalone and Tim Lawrence, 6'5 center Nathan SENIOR CO-CAPTAIN Nick Brink, a prolific scorer, will lead the Chelsea Bulldogs into action next Tuesday.

Bulter, 6'1 forward Jake Walker and 5'10 forward Bryan Bloomensaat.

"The key for us will be our rebounding number one, and our defense number two. We handle the ball pretty well and we shoot pretty well," said Raymond.

A 40-year-old Scio township woman told a Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputy a coworker has been missing from work since Oct. 24. The coworker was concerned because the employee had some property belonging to the company. The investigating officer checked with the missing person's parents, who later located him. The man requested to be left alone, however.

Breaking and Entering

Breaking and entering was reported in the 10000 block of Hadley Road, Nov. 20. A 32-year-old township man told a Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputy it appeared someone attempted to pry open a rear entry door. The incident occurred at approximately 10:30 p.m. Nov. 16. Damage is estimated at $20.

Domestic Assault and Battery

A 33-year-old Chelsea woman was arrested for domestic assault and battery, child abuse and assault and battery on a police officer at her home in the 3100 block of McKinley Heights, Nov. 18. A Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputy responded to the home after the suspect called police. Apparently a fight broke out after the suspect heard her 38-year-old boyfriend talking on the telephone. She accused him of cheating on her. A struggle broke out and she scratched her boyfriend on the forearm and face. The woman admitted to starting the physical altercation. She was arrested by refused to go to jail. She threw her purse and hit her four-year-old daughter in the head. When the woman was taken to the patrol unit, she repeatedly kicked a protective shield in the vehicle and later kicked both arresting officers. It was noted that the woman tried to commit suicide while lodged in jail.

Animal Bite

A Hamburg Township man was bitten on the calf by a multi-breed dog while delivering water in the 6200 block of Brand Road, Nov. 22. A report was made with the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department. The victim is unsure if the dog lives at the residence he was at. The incident occurred at 12:30 p.m. The victim was treated at Chelsey Medical Center.

Stolen Vehicle

A Kohota 4x4 tractor was stolen from Newport Beach Club, 8930 Dexter-Pinckney Rd., Nov. 23. When they attempted to use the tractor, however, it slid down the embankment. Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputies arrived on the scene shortly after.

A 54-year-old township man reported his dog was shot in the 13300 block of Bemis Road, Nov. 22. The female dog was shot twice in the back near her spine and on the paw. A Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputy notified the Humane Society and the Department of Natural Resources. The dog was taken to a veterinarian in Manchester and given a 20-80 percent chance of living. It was noted that the dog may have been mistaken for a fox.

Lyndon Township

Found Property

A 26-year-old Taylor man hunting on state land found miscellaneous tools and a chain saw near Cassidy and Roe Roads. The tools were traced to a 27-year-old Manchester man whose vehicle containing the tools was recently stolen.

Dexter Village

Drunken Driving

A 45-year-old Dexter Township man was arrested for operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor on Central Street near Third Street, Nov. 18. He was stopped by a Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputy after he failed to dim his vehicle's bright lights. The man tried to exit his vehicle, but had difficulty with his balance. It was also noted in the police report that the driver's speech was slurred and his eyes were watery. He denied drinking alcohol before driving, however. A preliminary breath test proved his blood-alcohol level was .175 percent, which is more than the legal limit. A search warrant had to be obtained to get a sample of the man's blood for further testing to verify the blood-alcohol level.

A 30-year-old Jackson man was arrested for operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor in the 7900 block of Grand Street, Nov. 19. A Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputy stopped the suspect for driving reckless and speeding. The suspect abruptly pulled into a driveway on Grand Street after being followed by the deputy. When questioned, the suspect claimed he knew someone at the residence. Upon further investigation by the deputy, however, it turned out he was not telling the truth. A preliminary breath test revealed the man had a .14 percent blood-alcohol level, which is more than the legal limit.

Larceny

Larceny was reported in the Dexter area by a 67-year-old Pinckney man. The man told a Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputy he lost a spare tire and wheel, valued at $120, between Sept. 14 and Nov. 13. He is not sure if it was stolen or lost in Dexter Village, Pinckney or at the University of Michigan.

Larceny was reported in the 3200 block of Alpine Street, Nov. 19. A 34-year-old Dexter woman told a Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputy someone stole the license plate from his

A 26-year-old Dexter woman told a Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputy she suspects her former boyfriend of kicking in her apartment door. Damage is estimated at $150. Nothing appeared to be stolen. When interviewed, the suspect denied doing the damage but admitted to making several obscene telephone calls. When he was confronted with a partial footprint match to his own, the man offered to pay for damages if his ex-girlfriend agreed to drop the charges. A prosecutor will review the case.

Warrant Arrest

Ronald D. Frankford, 36, of Dexter was arrested on a warrant in the 7900 block of Grand Street by a Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputy. He was initially stopped Nov. 20 for improper lane use on Baker Road. A computer check revealed he was wanted on a bench warrant through the Friend of the Court.

John W. Melville, 55, of Dexter was arrested on Grand Street near Broad Street, Nov. 22, by a Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputy. Melville was stopped for driving a vehicle with an improper license plate. A computer check revealed he was wanted on three warrants. Two warrants were for failing to appear in court on misdemeanor charges of drunken driving. A third warrant was for a moving traffic violation.

Illegal Entry

Illegal entry was reported in the 7700 block of Kookaburra Court at Walkabout Creek Apartments, Nov. 26. Chelsea High Debate Team Racks Up Awards

The Chelsea High School debate team has been racking up the awards recently. At the Wayland Invitational Saturday, Nov. 18 the quartet of Sarah Mead, Dave Mote, Sylvia Jorgensen and Ana Morrel-Samuels finished second among 36 teams, and Morrel-Samuels was named top speaker out of 144. The team of Peter Straub, Damon McLaughlin, Kyle Kentala and Genevieve Humenay also competed.

In the Jackson ABC Debate League all the Chelsea team members competed at least once, and the team as a whole earned an Excellence in Debating award.

In the Dexter Meet, Humenay was named third speaker and two

Chelsea teams tied for fourth place. Humenay's team included Kentala, Dave Paton and Ragen Lowek. A second team was composed of Sara Walters, Katie Spink, Scott Colvin and Kevin Hand.

Gregory P.O. Announces Hours

Dale Byrd, Postmaster at the Gregory Post Office, has announced extended holiday hours Dec. 4 through Dec. 22. The retail window will be open all day from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 10:30 a.m. until 2 p.m. on Saturday.

Postmaster Byrd would also like to pass along these holiday mailing tips:

- Mail is delivered to the "address" on the item; always include the apartment or suite number, use the correct directional (N, W, SW, etc.) and correctly spelled street name and street suffix (AVE., BLVD., ST., etc.) in an address.

- Never guess at a Zip Code. Call your Post Office to verify. Incorrect Zip Codes can delay your mail.

- When sending a package, use filament tape to seal the package; make sure the contents are well padded with nothing rattling; brown paper and twine are not necessary, in fact, they may be detrimental. Paper can rip, and twine can become tangled in mail processing equipment. Make sure the only writing on the outside of the package are the "to" and "from" addresses, and please don't forget to include your return address inside the package.

- Express Mail guaranteed overnight service is delivered 365 days a year, even on Christmas.

1996 HCMA Permits Available

The 1996 Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority vehicle entry permits and annual boat launching permits will be on sale beginning Dec. 1, at all Metroparks offices.

These permits make excellent stocking stuffers for the outdoor person on your Christmas list.

Metroparks annual permits for '96 remain the same cost as in '95. Vehicle entry permits are: $15 regular and $8 senior citizen (62 or older).

Metroparks annual boating permits for 1996 are: $18 regular and $9 senior citizen (62 or older).

Both vehicle entry and boat launching annual permits are on sale at all Metroparks offices and the Administrative Offices of the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority located in Brighton.

No permits are sold through the mail.

Results of Auto Club 1995 Survey

Michigan highways and the young people who use them evoked strong reactions from 33,000 AAA Michigan members who responded to the Auto Club's 1995 survey on transportation-related issues.

Published in the May issue of Michigan Living magazine, the topics addressed included highway infrastructure, fuel taxes, the environment, traffic safety and young drivers.

Key findings from this year's survey suggest the current condition of Michigan roads is of continuing concern to AAA Michigan members. In 1994, two-thirds of survey respondents expressed concern about the condition of Michigan's highways. This year, that number increased to almost 80 percent.

Another area of concern for AAA Michigan members involves the amount of time that young drivers spend behind the wheel of a car. According to the Auto Club's 1995 survey, nine out of 10 AAA Michigan members support placing some restrictions on young drivers, 86 percent support laws requiring up to 50 hours of adult-supervised driving experience prior to full licensure.

Other key survey findings:

- Resurfacing highways and repairing bridges are the most favored improvements among members, if the Michigan Legislature increases fuel taxes.

- Nearly two-thirds of those responding do not feel that Michigan's air pollution standards for cars should be tougher.

- Members favor banning billboards on scenic highways if the state can provide adequate information on food, lodging and recreation locations.

- Members are nearly split on whether Michigan's traffic laws are adequately enforced, with 48 percent feeling enforcement is adequate, and 52 percent feeling it is inadequate.

- Nearly two-thirds feel that the Michigan law requiring covers for trucks hauling loads has helped reduce cracked windshields and other damage to cars.

- The majority of respondents favor tougher drunk driving laws (73 percent); an increase in urban freeway speed limits (59 percent); mandatory safety inspections for heavy trucks (94 percent).

Recall Petitions Filed By Unadilla Township Residents

By Scott Bishop
Staff Writer

Recently a group of Unadilla Township residents filed petitions with the Livingston County Clerk's office demanding the recall of all five members of the township board; the process of verifying the petitions is underway and elections could be scheduled as soon as mid-February, though Livingston County Elections Supervisor Penny Herrmann said she is hoping to coordinate any elections with the Michigan presidential primary on March 19.

Sherri Rizzo, secretary/treasurer of Concerned Citizens of Unadilla Township, the group that launched the petition drive, said pains were taken to follow legal guidelines. "We bought the voters registration list before we even started. Then we made sure that only registered voters signed the petitions, that way we could be sure that the number of signatures we turned in would guarantee a recall election," she said.

370 signatures are required to recall each separate board member. Herrmann confirmed that a preliminary assessment on Nov. 22 showed more than the required number of petitions had been submitted in all five cases. However, the petitions still need to be verified against the voters registration list, which the clerk's office will do Nov. 30 and Dec. 1.

If the necessary 370 petitioners are verified as registered voters, then each board member has eight days in which he or she could challenge the signatures. Following that period, and assuming the list still met the required threshold of 370 signatures, a meeting between the clerk's office and the Livingston County Election Scheduling Committee would set a date for the recall election. Legally the election must propose a date within 60 days of the committee meeting, which would likely set the election sometime in February. Herrmann expressed hope, however, that the election could be delayed to coincide with the March 19 Michigan Presidential Primary.

Rizzo said that CCUT began the petition drive in response to what she called "the unfair and unprofessional way that the Township Board fired Police Chief Larry Owen, after 16 years of service to the community. But the recall petitions were circulated over the issue of the board's violating Michigan's Open Meetings Act."

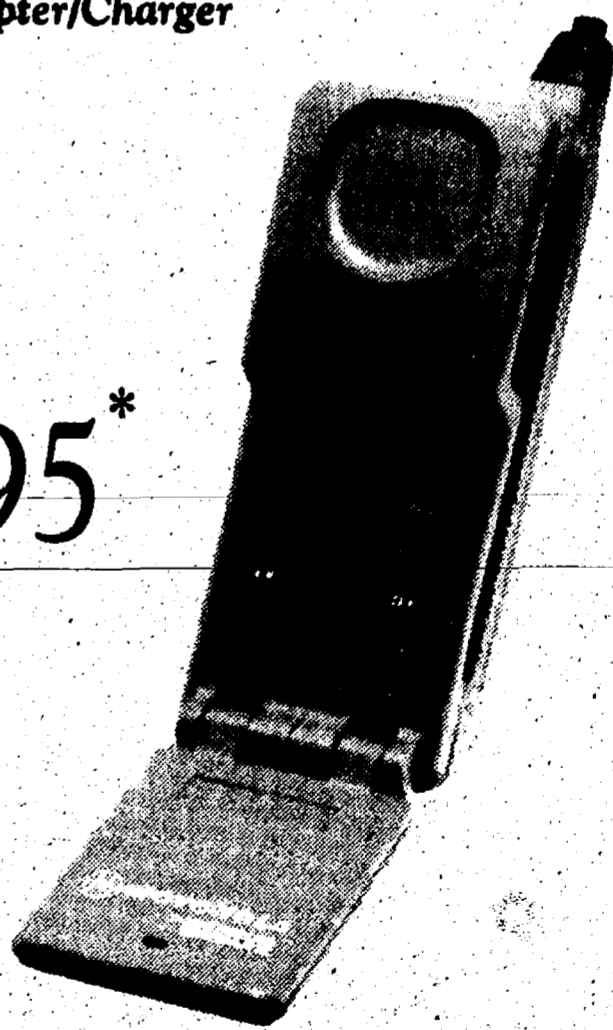

Rizzo went on to say that, as petitions were circulated, more charges from residents emerged, citing the board for unfair, unprofessional and imprudent decisions.
