Council Urges Revisions To Document

By Scott Bishop
Staff Writer

At the Dec. 12 Chelsea Village Council meeting, members of the District Library Planning Committee presented a draft of the agreement the council, and one or more surrounding townships, will need to accept and sign to legitimize moving toward a district library. Council trustees made it clear that the document needed work before they would approve it.

The McKune Memorial Library on Main Street is village-owned and housed in a building given to the village in the will of the late Catherine McKune. Chelsea's ownership is contingent on maintaining the building as a library. If not operated as a library, ownership reverts to the Catholic Church.

The McKune Memorial Library Board of Trustees is pursuing a district library, which would be controlled by representatives from the village and up to four participating townships.

"The reason we are here tonight is to look over the district library agreement... find out if there are any items you'd like to see negotiated while we try to get the agreement in final form for signature by the village and the other four participating municipalities," said Nancy Myers of Chelsea, a member of the Library Planning Committee.

Council members noted several "potential pitfalls" in the agreement as it stood.

Trustee Steve Daut, also a member of the Library Planning Committee, said that from the perspective of the village, the agreement required revisions and follow-up work.

He expressed concern that the village, if it joined in the collectively controlled library and was dissatisfied, would be left with dropping out and having no library facilities as its only option.

Additionally, Daut questioned the language and legality of several provisions within the agreement, including sections designed to designate what residents would be taxed, guarantee an offer of employment to current library employees, and designate insurance responsibilities.

Most of all Daut expressed apprehension about technicalities in the McKune library building's transfer of ownership from the village to the District Library and whether the cooperation of the family heirs was assured.

Referring to a provision describing the transfer of property ownership, Daut said the lack of guaranteed cooperation worried him. "I have yet to see anything in writing or any of the heirs show up (at a council meeting) and tell us that this is not a problem. And that's a concern for me," he explained.

Trustee Joe Merkel asked whether the library committee had researched alternate sites in case of any disputed ownership.

After explaining that several sites had been explored as possible homes for the district library, Library Board President Dan Kaminsky contended the current building would best serve community needs.

"I think it's also important for a community, for the people of the village, to have a good library, and if we don't go for being a district, I don't think we're going to keep a good library for our community," he said.

Kaminsky added that the library would stagnate if it did not go district-wide, and that if the district library were held hostage to the building or will of the family, the village would regret it.

Trustee Brian Cashman said he had spoken to one of the heirs, something the library committee had not done recently, and it was his understanding that the family was opposed to a district library.

Last week, Katherine Wagner, niece of the late Catherine McKune and primary heir, confirmed to The Chelsea Standard that her family preferred that the building remain a village library, rather than convert to a district library. She said, however, that there were no formal plans to obstruct the district library process.

At the Dec. 12 meeting, Kaminsky said it was his understanding that the family objected, but would not actively try to block the building from housing a district library.

Daut concluded by advising the library committee to solidify its agreement, particularly with the McKune family heirs, before seeking further approval.

"The action step here is to work with the heirs to try and work out some kind of a situation that would be acceptable. Unless and until (the library committee) talks with them, I don't think there's a whole lot to be done," he said.

Following the meeting, Kaminsky confirmed that the library committee would re-establish contact with the heirs, likely very soon after Jan. 1.

A document supplied to the village council by the library committee explained the procedure of funding the district library, which requires public approval.

The document states: "The District Library will be funded by a millage, which must be approved by a majority of voters in the District Library area. The amount of the millage, and the placing of the

Condo Developers Penalized, Project Halted Temporarily

By Scott Bishop

Work on the Pierce Lake Condominium project, being developed by Rene Papo and Arcus Corporation, was shut down for five days after Chelsea Village officials discovered the development had violated the village Industrial Pretreatment Ordinance. Work has resumed, contingent on the future payment of citation penalties and concurrence with village directives.

Chelsea Village Manager Jack Myers indicated that Thursday, Dec. 14, Village Council Trustee Joe Merkel reported to him that stormwater was running into manholes being constructed for sanitary sewer service on the developers property east of M-52 and just south of the Village Plaza. Since the development was not authorized for connection to the village sewer system, water should have filled to capacity and then collected above and around the manhole.

Merkel, however, indicated that water seemed to be flowing continuously into the Pierce Lake development man-holes.

That evening Myers, Waste-Water Treatment Plant Superintendent Brad Roberts, Assistant Village Manager Bruce Pindzia and Department of Public Works Superintendent Dave Bulson confirmed that stormwater and run-off from a nearby swamp was running into the developer's manholes, through a pipe bored underneath M-52 and into a village sanitary sewer system manhole directly across the highway.

"Their swamp was draining into (the development manholes) and entering our wastewater treatment plant via our system," Pindzia explained.

The developers, according to Myers, had entered the village man-hole and tied into the sanitary sewer system without authorization, then failed to block their line into the system, resulting in the storm-water and swamp run-off ultimately entering the waste-water treatment plant.

Myers immediately contacted the developers, the sewer connection was plugged, and the village indefinitely halted work at the development site. "We told them that no more work would be performed until we got this matter cleared up," Myers said. Myers also contacted the state Department of Environmental Quality and the county Soil and Erosion Control division.

On Friday, Dec. 15, Tuesday, Dec. 19 and Thursday, Dec. 21, village officials met with the developers to discuss the consequences of the unauthorized sewer tie-in.

In preparation for the meetings, Myers and Roberts prepared a list of 23 sections of the Industrial Pretreatment Ordinance that were violated over an eight day period, from Dec. 6 when the development manholes were put in to Dec. 14 when the connection to the village sewer was discovered and blocked.

Roberts confirmed that the stormwater and a swamp run-off flowing into the sewer would result in added expense for the village.

Additionally, the developers are required to pay an $8,225 tap-in fee for any building connected to the village sewer. Payment for one building was made before the Dec. 19 meeting, though it had not been paid when the violation was unearthed on Dec. 14. Eventually the site will contain 20 buildings, all of which must pay the tap-in fee.

Myers said the violation could have been prevented. "The village was never invited to a preconstruction meeting. All of this could have been avoided by those people had they invited our superintendents to a pre-construction meeting, along with our engineer. There will be fines forthcoming because they violated so many of our ordinances on the wastewater," he said.

Myers indicated to the developers Tuesday, Dec. 19 that they would pay a standard penalty of $1,000 per day of violation, in addition to $344.49 already paid for the time of village officials on Dec. 14, and the cost to the DPW of clearing dirt and sediment from the sewer. The developers have until Jan. 3 to pay all fines and

Opening Remarks

By Brian Hamilton

Next week The Chelsea Standard will revisit some of the issues that shaped 1995 and made this such an interesting community to live in.

This week, I'd like to take a look at a few of the major issues for 1996. This, however, is not a 1996 PREDICTIONS column. That will come later.

Land Use as a general theme will continue to dominate the scene, as it probably will for some time to come. It affects everything from whether or where a mobile home park will be built, to how to deal with traffic congestion in downtown Chelsea. This area continues to lose farmland, but just slow enough that it doesn't alarm too many people at once. If you care about the Chelsea area and retaining its character, this is an issue you should be vitally interested in.

Lima Township, where I live, is an extremely important part of the picture. The Scio Township sewer line ends right at the eastern border. If a sewer line ever gets extended into the township, from either direction, we'll slowly begin to look like a suburb of Ann Arbor. On the other hand, some farmers will be hard-pressed to get a decent price for their land unless they sell to developers.

School District Building Project should be extremely gratifying and exciting to watch. Renovations will begin on the elementary schools and ground will be broken for the new high school and elementary school. It's hard to envision exactly how the district is going to spend about $47 million — this is a district that has only one tax machine. The board of education will be faced with all kinds of big decisions. One of the most interesting will be who gets to attend the new elementary school. That decision will have a big impact on North and South Schools as it won't be a simple matter of taking a third of the students and staff from each school and moving them to the new school. Some students could move from North to South, and vice-versa.

Village and Township Cooperation, or the lack of it, has come to the forefront lately and should continue to be in the news. The village and townships will continue to find out they cannot act in isolation. The disagreement over changing the Chelsea Fire Department into an area-wide department has far more to do with power and control than it does with providing good fire protection. Do the townships really want to spend the enormous amount of money it would take to build another fire department? Would it result in dramatically improved fire protection? Why is the village so threatened by loss of control of the department? These are not the only issues the two will need to work on together.

The Chelsea Business Community appears set to enter a new era of cooperation and unity. There is talk about forming one merchants' association which all merchants could join. This association would promote the entire business community, rather than focusing on downtown or the shopping centers. This could go a long way toward regional promotion of sales and community events and help draw more shoppers here, which will benefit everyone. Watch for contests involving a name for the organization and a logo.

Uncle Apollo

Since the holidays are a time when people are supposed to get together, all this talk about area-wide stuff seems very timely. Like a big, happy family, all of these local government folks should get together to play with their Christmas toys, eat too much, make New Year's Resolutions, and watch the boob tube. Only I'm not sure the village and townships are tuned to the right channel. They should be watching Channel 22 but they seem to prefer All Star Wrestling. The problem is, they've been watching so much of it that they are beginning to sound like a tag-team match.

Now, I understand that when the village doesn't want to give away their fire trucks, it makes sense for the townships to take away their kids' books — when Hulk Hogan body slams the Crusher, a reverse suplex is certainly in order. If the village ever remembers it was gonna try to become a city, it would be a logical move for the townships to secede from the union. These things happen all the time in grudge matches. And if the townships take back their Barbie Dolls, the village should send out the Power Rangers. But it seems to me that unless they turn off the boob tube and start playing nice with their new toys, we're all gonna end up with lumps of coal next year.

Developers To Pay Fines

costs. Contingent on paying for the citations, Myers allowed the developers to resume work that afternoon.

On Thursday, Dec. 21 the developers and their inspecting engineering firm Ayres, Lewis, Norris and May, explained that, while they tied into the sewer system earlier, the manholes on development property were not connected to the village sewer until Dec. 11. Because of that and dry weather on Dec. 11 and 12, affidavits signed by inspectors testified that there was no discharge into the sewer prior to Dec. 13.

Accepting the affidavits, Myers said the developers would be responsible for $1,000 fines for Dec. 13 and 14 as well as the DPW maintenance costs and money already paid.

Last week, Papo said his contractor, E.T. MacKenzie Co., accepted responsibility for the fines and would repay the development group. Myers also indicated that a village inspector from the DPW would be present whenever further utility work for the Pierce Lake project took place.

"Not that I don't trust their inspectors, but I want our own out there when they're working on our utilities," he said.

Village Questions District Library

millage on the ballot, will be determined by the District Library Board, which will be established when the District Library Agreement is signed by all participating municipalities. In the interim period between the establishment of the District Library and the approval of the millage, the library will be funded as it is now. Should a millage to fund the District Library fail to pass in an agreed upon length of time, the District Library will be dissolved and would revert to the current status of a village library."

At the Dec. 12 meeting, Kaminsky said the maximum allowable millage would be 2 mills, and he predicted that the District Library Board, if and when the agreement is signed and an election scheduled, would ask for 1.3 mills.

Village Office Complex Becoming Money Pit

By Scott Bishop
Staff Writer

Upkeep of the Chelsea Municipal Building is getting expensive for the village.

In the last two months alone, the aging building has required $10,000 in repair expenses. "We have to keep it workable, because we are here and there's not a new one someplace off in the clouds," said Village Manager Jack Myers.

The current building, located downtown near the intersection of Main and E. Middle Streets, houses the Chelsea police, Oak Grove Cemetery Association, and general village government administration, including the offices of the village manager and assistant manager, electric and water billing, recreation council and zoning administration.

Since October, the village has paid for the repair of lighting in the building's upstairs offices, which caused a blown circuit and required further rewiring work; the replacement of old carpet which had become a liability hazard because someone could trip over it; painting of walls necessitated by the new carpet; and plumbing repair of a leaking toilet and water cooler, which also knocked out the phone system and required further maintenance.

Myers estimated the total cost at roughly $10,000. Additionally, honey can be seen dripping down the walls of the assistant village manager's office (from a fumigated beehive on the level above), and portions the third floor ceiling are falling down. New windows were required for the third floor. In the late 1980's, asbestos was removed from the building. Space allotted to the police department and village government is cramped and inefficient, Myers said.

"To me you have to afford your employees an adequate work space to get a better product, no matter what that product is. And I think that is really what I'm saying about the inadequacies. . . we're spread out here, the work doesn't flow as well. It's inefficient," Myers explained.

Myers expressed hope that a new site would be ready to house village functionaries within three years. He explained that the village council had narrowed its original list of 13 potential sites down to four or five, from which it would choose a final home for the new municipal building. While also mentioning renovation of the existing building as a possible solution, Myers voiced apprehension about refurbishing the current structure and cited more of its limitations.

"To me it's cost prohibitive to renovate this building to make an adequate municipal building, because you'd have to almost gut it and start from the ground and do it. Because you don't have handicapped accessible rest-rooms. If somebody (requiring handicap access) needs to talk to the zoning inspector or the assistant manager they have to call (them) down," Myers said. Building constraints force the police to bring prisoners either through an inconvenient back alley or the building's front entrance, he added.

Myers concluded saying that there were no immediate plans to pursue a new municipal site, but that he hoped the village council would move on the issue in the near future.

VILLAGE OFFICE COMPLEX on E. Middle Street is becoming a municipal money pit of sorts.

THE SELDOM-USED third floor of the Chelsea Village Office Complex is in horrible condition. Water damage is very apparent. It's just one area of the building that needs major work.

Americans Concerned About Retirement

Nearly two in five Americans say they are not very confident or not at all confident they are saving enough money for retirement, according to a recent nationwide survey of 1,000 adults conducted for Lutheran Brotherhood. When asked, how confident are you that you are setting aside enough money for your retirement to last for the rest of your life, survey results revealed:

- 15 percent are very confident.
- 44 percent are somewhat confident.
- 20 percent are not very confident.
- 18 percent are not at all confident.

Perhaps some Americans' lack of confidence about the amount they're saving for retirement stems from worries about aging parents. A quarter of Americans report they now provide, or expect to provide, financial assistance to parents during their parents' retirement. This concern seems to weigh most heavily on the minds of Generation X'ers: 40 percent of Americans ages 18-to-29 say they expect to provide financial help to parents in their parents' retirement.

But few are looking to traditional ways, like Social Security and house appreciation, to fund the bulk of their golden years. Only 26 percent say they will rely on Social Security payments to pay for the majority of their retirement income. And fewer still — 20 percent — are counting on their house appreciating in value to meet financial obligations during retirement.

At what age do Americans expect to retire? The mean response was age 62. Of those not retired, six percent plan to retire before age 50. But others expect to work much longer — five percent report they won't retire until age 75 or more. And when asked how much annual income in today's dollars they thought they would need to live on after retirement, the median response was $25,453. Thirty-seven percent of those not retired said $30,000 or less would be a sufficient annual income during retirement, while two percent said they would require $70,001 to $80,000 per year. However, nearly a quarter (23 percent) didn't know how much annual income they would need during retirement.

"Americans are concerned about retirement," says Les Bendtsen, accumulation products marketing manager at Lutheran Brotherhood. "Many don't know if they're saving enough, and others worry about costs associated with aging parents. By planning ahead, and perhaps meeting with a financial professional, people can ease their concerns by taking steps to identify and obtain retirement goals."

Lutheran Brotherhood is represented in the Washtenaw area by Karen R. Bristle.

Question: I get headaches frequently. I think they are caused by sinus problems because they begin with pressure above my eyes and in my cheeks. Non-prescription sinus medication, like Tylenol Sinus, usually clears up the symptoms in two or three days. What signs should I use to tell when I need to go to the doctor for an antibiotic to treat a sinus infection?

Answer: True sinusitis is over diagnosed by individuals with "sinus" complaints as well as physicians. The symptom you describe — pressure in the face — certainly can be from infection, but blockage can be due to nasal swelling caused by allergies, a condition with nasal swelling but without allergic cause called vasomotor rhinitis, or even the common cold. Tumors and cysts can also produce nasal blockage.

I've given you the medical reality, but the diagnosis of sinusitis as well as some other disorders often involves human psychology as well. Since allergies, vasomotor rhinitis, and colds are quite common but receive low levels of sympathy, a condition with which others will be more likely to commiserate — in this case sinusitis — is preferred by the doctor and patient. Hence, the overuse of the diagnosis.

For nasal congestion the best treatment is precisely what you have been doing, using a decongestant to help reduce the swelling of the nasal tissues and to promote sinus drainage. The oral decongestant pseudoephedrine works quite well as do a number of "nose spray" types of decongestants. Drinking "steaming" hot liquids and vigorous physical exercise accomplish the same thing without the use of medications. In a few days the underlying cause of the nasal congestion usually clears, just as you have noted.

True sinusitis is an infection within the sinus cavities and can be much more serious than simple nasal congestion. At times it is difficult for physicians to distinguish between the two without the use of sophisticated tests such as a CT scan of the sinuses or bacterial cultures. The following are some signs that may indicate a sinus infection and, therefore, the need to see your doctor.

- Fever of 100 degrees or more;
- Worsening of facial pain when bending over;
- Failure to improve with 3 days' use of decongestant;
- History of previous sinus infections; and
- Diabetes, AIDS or another condition that compromises the immune system.

In addition to the above list, I'd advise you to see your doctor any time your symptoms seem significantly different from your previous episodes of simple nasal congestion. The worst this approach can do is cause a non-essential trip to the doctor. But do understand that I seek the consult of experts whenever I'm unsure. This includes my personal trips to my doctor, consultations with my attorney about legal issues, and with my auto mechanic for those funny sounds my car makes.

Question: I've received conflicting opinions on ingesting dairy products when I have a cold or other respiratory infection. Some physicians have said to avoid all dairy products because they cause phlegm and congestions while others say that reasonable use poses no problems. Who's correct?

Answer: I was taught that milk should be avoided in respiratory infections because it makes the mucus thick and sticky — just the conditions one would like to avoid in respiratory infections. Obviously, some of the physicians you have seen were taught this, too. Interestingly, I can find no scientific study that supports this long held "truth" in medicine. I suspect that this bit of medical ortho-doxy has been passed from generation to generation without ever being evaluated in a careful scientific manner.

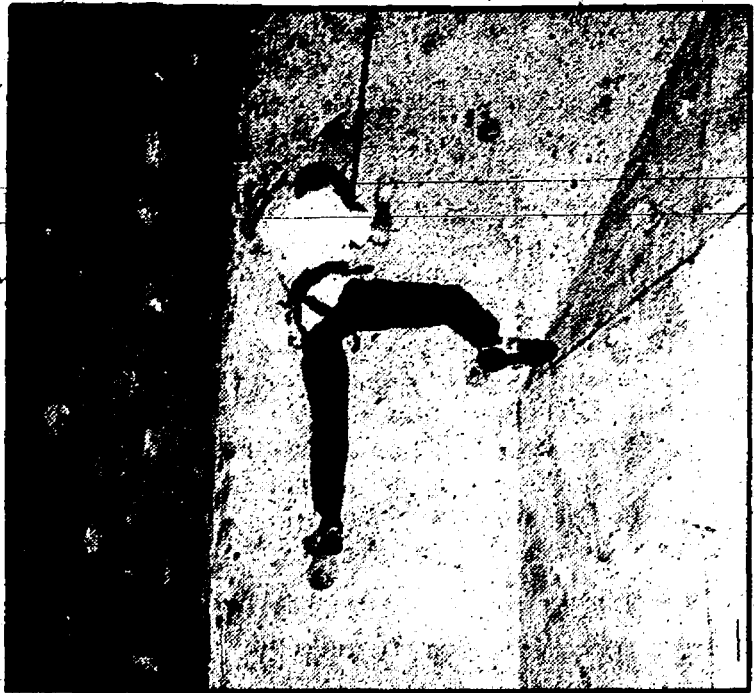

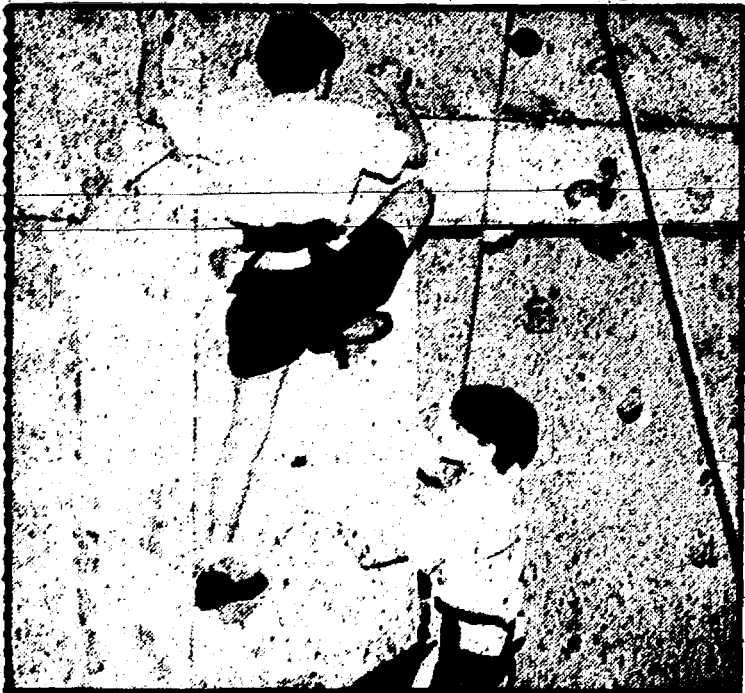

Milk can interfere with the body's absorption of some medications, but other than this concern, I see no reason to avoid its use in reasonable quantities.

Land Use Decision Making Subject Of Jan. MSU Forum

There currently is no systematic approach to land use planning in Michigan, but a forum at Michigan State University may initiate a process that could help reduce the potential for land use conflict and land degradation.

"Land Use Decision Making — Its role in a Sustainable Future for Michigan" will be Jan. 9-10 at the MSU Kellogg Center. Registration is $100.

Kurt Norgaard, MSU agricultural economist, says the forum is intended to pave the way for discussions throughout the state on prudent land use policies.

"We hope that the two days of discussion will be a catalyst for the university and collaborating outside groups to focus on what research, outreach and community activities could create a healthier environment for land use and a more sustained development," Norgaard says. "This forum will not produce a set of answers as much as it will create channels of communication so that participants can begin to talk about the direction we should be heading."

Among the topics to be discussed will be the fiscal and economic effects of alternative land use, integrated and coordinated land use planning, metropolitan land use issues, land use and waste, and property rights and the public/private balance. Other topics will include land use and water quality, land use and agriculture, land use and citizenship, and land use and critical environmental areas.

MSU is among 18 organizations — ranging from the Michigan Environmental Council to the Michigan Townships Association — that are co-sponsoring and collaborating on the conference.

"We have asked each of the organizations to bring at least seven people to the forum so that we can make sure there is a wide representative of interests from across the state," Norgaard says. "Through a good diversity of opinion, perhaps we can begin to find some commonality when making decisions on land use, and we may begin to find that during the conference."

He hopes the discussion started during the conference will be continued Feb. 8 and 15 at evening satellite broadcasts. The broadcasts will be seen at most MSU educational county offices.

"We are hoping that at that point, local community residents would participate in the discussion with their local community boards, community leaders and civic organizations," Norgaard says.

He says that the purpose of the forum and community discussions is to help prevent a crisis in land use.

"We have an opportunity to get ahead of the curve," Norgaard says. "I think by hearing from others who have had a lot of experience in land use management elsewhere in the United States, we can better focus on the research and work that need to be done to create a good land management system for Michigan."

More information about the conference and the satellite broadcast can be obtained from Norgaard by calling 517-353-4618.

SEMCOG Receives Grant To Study Land Use Impact

The Grand Rapids-based Frey Foundation has awarded a $40,000 grant to SEMCOG, the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments, to study the fiscal impacts of land-use decisions for local governments.

This grant will supplement funding provided by the Michigan Coastal Zone Management Program. SEMCOG will work with Michigan State University and Rutgers University to determine the costs and revenues associated with land-use changes in the state. Fifteen communities from across the state will participate in the study.

"The real financial costs and benefits of growth compose the missing link in evaluating land use decisions at the local level. We are pleased to be able to help develop tools that will address this gap," said Heidi Gilmore Callen, the Frey Foundations program director.

A portion of the study will include a fiscal analysis which will allow communities anticipating land use changes to examine the costs and revenues for other communities that have undergone similar land use changes.

The Frey Foundation grant will also support a public information program designed to make local decision makers aware of the study's results and opportunities to utilize the

Sheriff Urges Partiers To Designate Driver

Sheriff Ronald J. Schebil and the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department would like to remind citizen so "DESIGNATE A DRIVER THIS HOLIDAY SEASON!"

The end of November marks the beginning of the holiday season. For millions of adults, the holidays are festive times, filled with tradition. Unfortunately, too often one of those traditions is getting drunk and driving an automobile. As you prepare for the festivities, Sheriff Schebil asks you to keep in mind that too much celebration can be fatal when alcohol and drugs are involved.

Alcohol and drug-related traffic crashes are the tragic result of some of the merry-making that goes on during this time of the year. So, whether you are planning a holiday party at home or the office, or if you go out this New Year's Eve, Sheriff Schebil would like to offer these few safety tips to help ensure that Washtenaw County citizens have a safe holiday season:

■ Use common sense. Not matter where your party plans take you, if those plans include drinking, remember to designate a driver who will stay sober and get you home in one piece.

■ Always serve food if you serve alcohol. High protein and carbohydrate foods such as cheese and meats are especially good. They remain in the stomach longer, which slows the rate at which alcohol is absorbed into the system.

■ Serve non-alcoholic beverages. Always make sure your guests have the option not to drink alcohol. Local book stores may carry a "bartender's book" for non-alcoholic drinks. (NOTE: it is especially important for "designated drivers" to drink these type of beverages.)

■ Don't allow people to mix their own drinks. If you tend the bar, you can control the amount of alcohol that goes into each drink. In this way, you can also monitor the consumption of alcohol by your guests.

■ Never serve alcoholic beverages to anyone under 21 years of age. Keep an eye on your children at your party and/or know what their plans include for celebrating the holidays.

Alcohol-related highway crashes are the leading cause of death for adolescents and young adults in the United States. Yet, simply making sure that young people are aware of the dangers of drinking and driving is not enough to solve the problem.

Parents must also realize that they are responsible for anything that may occur to a minor who has been served alcohol or drugs in their home; that parents can be sued for the malicious or destructive actions of their children no matter where they are; and too, that anyone knowingly giving or furnishing alcoholic beverages to a person under 21 can be prosecuted.

■ Know when to call it quits. Watch your guests closely. If a friend has obviously had too much to drink, slow down their consumption by mixing their drinks with small amounts of no alcohol and by talking with them on otherwise distracting their attention. Also, close the bar and serve coffee and snacks about two (2) hours before the party ends. Although this will allow a little time for alcohol to be somewhat absorbed into the system, remember, nothing can make you sober — except time — about an hour for every drink!

■ Call a cab. If anyone attempts to drive while intoxicated, take their car keys and offer to drive them home or call a cab. Don't just accept your friends' reassurances that they are "okay to drive". Remember, "Friends Don't Let Friends Drive Drunk" and you are liable for what happens at your party!

"It's no secret that alcohol relaxes inhibitions, slows reaction time, decreases coordination and impairs judgment and vision," Schebil said. National state and local campaigns such as the National Drunk and Drugged Driving (3D) Prevention Month and MADD's Red Ribbon Campaign, (which both take place in December of each year), have spread the word against drunk and drugged driving, yet so many lives are still lost on our highways. Over fifty percent (50%) of all fatal traffic crashes involve a driver who is under the influence of alcohol. New Year's Eve is one of the most lethal nights in that respect. Football games and family get-togethers on January 1st may be a part of many a household's plans, but those plans can be ruined in one fatal instant!

You can help reduce the statistics instead of become one.

NON-ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGES

During the holiday season and anytime, offer your guests a choice of drinks, not just alcohol. Serve various types of juices, non-alcoholic punches and cocktails, teas, coffee and soft drinks.

Your Money Matters

By Michael Kelly

We all know that we're supposed to be saving more money and, once we've saved some money, we should be investing that money to make it grow. But...but...but...how can we save (and then invest) when we can't seem to save more than a few bucks here and there?

Fortunately, there are ways to do it. In fact, an article in a recent issue of Consumer Reports magazine suggests some good ways. I must confess that it looked almost like a come-on for some outrageous scam at first. How could anyone make a wise investment with only $50? Turns out it is possible.

1. Pay off your credit cards. This a top priority for your $50. If you pay off a debt balance carrying a 17.36% on an investment. That's better than you'll do in most investments and it's a sure thing.

2. Invest where you work. Add that $50, and as much more as you can to your employer's 401k or other retirement plan. Your contribution will help reduce next year's tax bill and it may be matched by your employer.

3. Buy U.S. Savings bonds. Series EE bonds sell for half their face value, so your $50 will get you a $100 bond. Hold it less than five years, you are guaranteed a 4% interest rate; held longer, you get that guaranteed rate or a variable rate — whichever is higher. Savings bonds are among the safest investments going, even though their returns are not huge.

4. Invest in mutual funds. These are getting harder for small investors, but some companies' mutual funds are still accessible. Look for "no-load" funds which ask for an initial investment of $1,000 or less, with subsequent investments as low as $50. Or, seek out a fund that will waive its minimum investment requirement if you commit to making regular deposits. Companies suggested by the Consumer Reports magazine include T. Rowe Price Janus and INVESCO.

5. Buy stock directly. If you already own stock and participate in a dividend reinvestment plan (where your dividends pay for new shares of stock), you might be able to send your $50 as a contribution toward more stock purchases. A Standard Poor's directory of companies offering dividend reinvestment plans is available in many libraries.

6. Join an investment club. These are like do-it-yourself mutual funds in which members pick stocks and pool their funds to invest. The typical monthly investment is about $25 per person, says the magazine. Call the National Association of Investors Corporation at 810-583-6242, extension 22 for a list of investment clubs.

7. Prepay your mortgage. Paying an additional $50 per month on a 30-year, $100,000 mortgage at 9% interest would save $49,434 in interest and get the mortgage paid off six and a half years early! Pretty impressive! Do call your lender to check rules of prepayments and keep your cancelled checks as proof of the extra payment.

And you thought your measly $50 wouldn't get you anywhere!

DNR Offers Tips To Ice Skaters, Fishermen

Due to unseasonably cold weather in Michigan during the past few weeks, many bodies of water are now covered with ice, but this ice may not be thick enough to support a person's weight. Those planning to go out on the ice are advised to use caution.

The unusually cold November and early December weather was accompanied by heavy snowfall in many areas of the state, creating ice-covered bodies of water with slushy snow on top. Heavy snow cover insulates ice and prevents it from freezing as evenly and as quickly as it would without the snow cover. Snow cover is also deceptive and makes it difficult to evaluate the ice.

Specific bodies of water can also pose special safety considerations. In Saginaw Bay, for example, pressure cracks in the ice have been reported in recent weeks. Pressure cracks are common hazards on ice cover along the bays of the Great Lakes. Wind and wave action in the open waters far offshore cause movement of the ice which results in large cracks, some of which run for miles across the ice. Combined with windy conditions, pressure cracks can set large "sheets" of ice adrift, along with any anglers who may be on them. In addition, ships moving through Saginaw Bay break the surrounding ice and create areas of open water, making adjacent ice sheets unstable.

Many ice anglers ask the question "How thick is the ice?" when evaluating whether or not to venture out. Relying simply on the thickness of the ice is dangerous, because the quality of ice varies greatly from one body of water to another. Recent weather conditions can affect how solidly the ice freezes, or whether it has been weakened by repeated thawing and freezing. The size of the body of water is also important: ice will form far more rapidly on a small, shallow farm pond than it will on a river, deep inland lake or bay of the Great Lakes.

Here are some useful tips and safety guidelines for walking or fishing on ice:

- Before venturing out onto the ice, check with local sources such as bait and tackle shops for the most up-to-date information on ice conditions.

- Don't go out alone! Let someone know where your group will be and when you plan to return.

- Be especially cautious early and late in the winter season, when ice thickness is unpredictable due to temperature fluctuations.

- Be especially wary of river ice, as it can be highly variable in thickness due to the erosive action of the underlying river current. Also avoid ice formed over flowing water near shore, around inlets and outlets of streams, or on lakes with springs.

- Avoid aeration devices, such as warmwater bubblers used near marinas.

- Stay away from structures, docks or pilings in the ice.

- Wear a personal flotation device. Also, carry a couple of large nails and a length of light nylon rope. If you should go through the ice, the nails could help provide a grip on the slippery surface and aid in getting out.

- If you do break through the ice, try not to panic. Remember to turn toward the direction you came from — toward the ice that supported you. Use the nails or your hands to gain a hold on the unbroken surface of the ice, and advance by kicking your feet.

- Once you are out of the water and are lying on the ice, don't stand! Roll away from the point where you broke through until you are on solid ice.

- If you see someone fall through the ice, do not run toward the person. Carefully extend a rope, ladder, pole or line to the victim.

Children should always be supervised when on the ice.

Respecting ice-covered waters and taking these simple safety precautions can help to prevent ice-related accidents.

Dexter Players Do Nunsense

Get ready for the second coming — the second coming of those wacky nuns of Nunsense! The Dexter Community Players' winter production of Nunsense II features the Little Sisters of Hoboken now bitten by the theater bug and putting on a thank-you program for all those who supported their first benefit.

But for those who didn't see Nunsense, Sister Hubert has come up with a "fast-forward" synopsis acted out by Sisters to bring them up-to-date. So first-timers will meet new friends while old-timers will greet old friends.

Dexter Community Players Nunsense II production brings back three of the original Nunsense cast members: Susie Berneis, Vikki Fox, and B.J. Danner in their original roles. Joining them are Ann VanDemark and Sharon Sussman. DCP fans will remember Ann as Golde in Fiddler On The Roof and Martha in Arsenic and Old Lace; Sharon recently appeared as Mary in Dexter Community Player's production of Little Mary Sunshine.

Nunsense II is being directed by Conrad Mason. Conrad has appeared on stage in several Dexter Community Players productions, most notably as Tevye in Fiddler On The Roof. He has directed The Curious Savage, Bliethe Spirit, The Odd Couple, and the original musical Santa Elves On Strike for Dexter Community Players. Other directing credits include Anything Goes for the Saline Area Players, Brigadoon, The Foreigner, Oklahoma!, Master Harold and The Boys, and Accomplice for the Ann Arbor Civic Theatre.

Nunsense II will be on stage at the Copeland auditorium two successive weekends, Feb. 2, 3, and 9, 10 at 8 p.m. and Feb. 4 (Sunday) at 2 p.m. Backstage help is welcome. So if you want to find out what goes on behind the scenes and would like to help out or learn about costuming, makeup, lighting, set construction and painting, call 426-4768 (eves.).

Manchester Farm Recently Certified As Centennial Site

Twenty-two farms, including one in Manchester, have been certified by the Michigan Historical Commission as centennial farms, Secretary of State Candice S. Miller, the state's official historian has announced.

The 217-acre cash crop farm located at 17621 Ely Rd. in Manchester, owned by Eileen Disbrow, is a newly-certified Michigan centennial farm. The farm has been continuously owned by the same family since 1843.

"I congratulate Eileen, as her farm joins more than 5,000 other Michigan centennial farms," Secretary Miller said. "Centennial farm owners can be proud of their efforts to preserve Michigan's heritage, and for reminding us of the important economic and social role that family farms play in our culture."

The Centennial Farm Program was begun by the Michigan Historical Commission in 1948 with support from Detroit Edison Company, Consumers Power Company, local electrical cooperatives and farm groups. It is intended to recognize farms that have remained in the same family for generations and highlight the family farm's contributions to Michigan's development.

Farm owners receive a Michigan Centennial Farm Certificate from the Department of State's Michigan Historical Center and a metal display marker for the farm. The green-and-yellow markers are supplied by Michigan electrical utility companies to commemorate the dramatic changes electricity brought to farm operation and family life.

Centennial farm families are eligible for membership in the Michigan Centennial Farm Association (MCFA), established in 1955.

A centennial farm is a working farm of 10 or more acres that has been continuously owned by the same family for at least 100 years. The Michigan Historical Commission has also established a Sesqui-centennial Farm Program to recognize, upon request, certified centennial farms that have been owned by the same family for 150 years or longer.

For more information on the program contact the Michigan Department of State, Michigan Historical Center, State Historic Preservation Office, 717 W. Allegan St., Lansing, MI 48918-1800; or telephone 517/373-1667.

The Department of State is the official state agency responsible for preserving and interpreting Michigan's past and helping people discover, enjoy and find inspiration in their heritage.

Local Edward Jones Office to Host Seminar ...

Deb Bauer, the Edward Jones investment representative in Chelsea, will host a satellite broadcast for individual investors Thursday, Jan. 4, 1996.

The program, "Year in Review & Outlook for 1996," is the firm's third annual broadcast featuring an in-depth year-end review of the market's performance and a forecast for the new year. The program will feature specific stock and bond investment recommendations.

Special guests on the broadcast will include Alfred M. Zeien, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of the Gillette Company, interviewed from his company headquarters in Boston, and H. Bradley Perry, co-chairman of the Edward Jones Investment Policy Committee. Perry is a consultant and former chairman of the investment advisory firm of David L. Babson & Co.

Equity and bond specialists from Edward Jones will join the guests to share their insights during a business roundtable discussion. The program will be broadcast live, from the firm's headquarters in St. Louis via Edward Jones' private satellite network to its 3,100-plus branch offices nationwide.

"This broadcast is a great opportunity to review the diversification in investors' portfolios," Bauer said. "The program will combine analysis of the market with specific recommendations for stocks and bonds."

Following the hour-long program, viewers will be able to call a phone bank of Edward Jones' equity and bond specialists. These experts will be standing by to answer customer questions on a broad array of bonds as well as more than 200 of the most widely held stocks in America.

Edward Jones traces its roots to 1871. Today, with more than 3,100 branches in 49 states, Jones has more offices than any other brokerage firm in the nation. Its investment representatives have more than 2 million clients and specialize in serving individual investors and small-business owners.

Southeastern Michigan Information Center Launches Joint Effort

United Way Community Services has announced the launch of the Southeastern Michigan Information Center (SEMIC), which will allow non-profit organizations and the general public to share and access health and human service information to better serve the growing needs for southeastern Michigan.

According to United Way Community Services Board Chair John E. Lobbja, United Way Community Services is working in partnership with the University of Michigan and WTVS-Channel 56, to build upon the strengths of the sizable network of organizations that produce and disseminate information, which includes universities, government agencies, and research centers.

"People, who work or volunteer at hospitals, non-profits, government agencies, community and neighborhood groups, depend on timely, accurate information. Getting that information can be time-consuming and frustrating when the quantity of information is growing rapidly. SEMIC is dedicated to helping individuals in the public sector locate and use the information they need to be more responsive and efficient in meeting the community's needs," Lobbja said.

Initially, SEMIC will experiment with new approaches to information management, training and dissemination, as suggested by an advisory committee and partners. It will build on its successful trials and grow in response to the needs of its users. The first component of SEMIC is Michigan Comnet, a computer based communication and information sharing system that links to the global Internet.

Michigan Comnet was developed in cooperation with the University of Michigan, WTVS, United Way Community Services and more than 100 other organizations. Through SEMIC Comnet is able to make available several local information services including: a volunteer and nonprofit employment opportunity bulletin board, a conference center for discussion of important issues, and use of powerful Internet searching tools to identify and tap thousands of information resources worldwide to help solve community problems.

Michigan Comnet also has a directory of local individuals and organizations involved in public service.

Recently available on Comnet is the Help Book, United Way Community Services' human service directory for the tri-county area.

According to Lobbja, this service will be of great assistance particularly to area corporations, small businesses and organized labor, who are searching for health and human services for employees and their families.

"The partnership between University of Michigan, United Way and WTVS provides a vital link between our faculty, students and human service community," said Paula Allen Meares, dean of the U of M School of Social Work. "The Information Center will be a place for putting advanced technology to work for the benefit of people in southeastern Michigan. It is a way for us to share our research and expertise. It opens up new and challenging opportunities for our students. We are pleased to be a part of this pioneering program.

According to Steve Antoniotti, president and general manager of WTVS Channel 56, the station has long been involved in helping non-profit organizations improve and communicate more effectively. "Our partnership with United Way and The University of Michigan is a way for us to develop and share new educational and communication services and make them available for the benefit of young people and adults in the community."

Michigan Comnet is co-sponsored and staffed by the Southeastern Michigan Information Center. It is open to anyone with access to the Internet and has the capability to use the World Wide Web.

May a peaceful
New Year be yours.

Chelsea's Own Holy Cows Performing Saturday

By Scott Bishop
Staff Writer

Cows are holy in India, and here in the United States the Chelsea-born band the Holy Cows is developing a faithful following.

The Cows, composed of Chelsea High School graduates Michael Feeney, John Popovich, Scott Salyer, Mike Popovich, and manager Jeff Salyer, will perform an all-ages show at the Chelsea High School Auditorium Saturday, Dec. 30 at 7:30 p.m. (doors open at 6:30). Tickets can be purchased at the Common Market (tickets at Chelsea Pharmacy are sold out) for $5. If tickets are still available the night of the show, they will be sold at the door for $6.50.

The band is preparing a follow-up to Get Along, the most commercially successful of their three releases to date. Local fans can hear the title cut on Ann Arbor's WQIB, played alongside modern rock monoliths like Pearl Jam and REM. The station is also helping to promote the Chelsea concert.

Jeff Salyer contacted CHS to propose and arrange the show. Salyer, who's sponsoring the band with personal funds for the Dec. 30 date while proceeds from the show go to the local organization Chelsea Area Responding to Teens, explained why he and the emerging musicians were being so generous.

"To pay back the community, all the people who have helped over the years. The support, whether it's been financial or more, there's a lot of people that know who they are. And an all-ages show is a rare treat," for the band, Salyer said.

The Holy Cows' recent burst onto the wider national music scene was preceded by years of work and dedication. The band members, all '86 and '87 graduates of CHS, paid for the production of their first releases in '88 and '89 and '91, working full-time jobs outside of music to fund them. The success of Get Along when released in 1991 drew the Big Pop record label to sign the band, re-mix and re-release it in 1995.

Get Along produced the first consistent radio play for the Holy Cows, and the increased attention will likely land them a recording contract with a bigger label soon.

Singer, songwriter and guitarist John Popovich said the band's passion for music outweighs any obstacles. "We can't stop. We're not going to stop. You can't quit no matter what happens. School. Any job. Work. Family. (Music) is something you love to do so you do it," he explained.

In February the Cows plan to round up in the studio to begin production of their fourth release. Scott Salyer said the group was polishing 15 new songs and concert-goers could expect to hear some of them on Dec. 30. "We're going to play a lot of stuff we've been working on," he predicted.

Forecasting what the music would sound like was more difficult. John Popovich noted that eclectic roots made the band's music hard to define. "The passion. The heat. It's animalistic. That's just rock n' roll. It's garage rock. It's art rock. It's dork rock. It's rock-rock. It's country rock. It's got a lot of influences," he said.

From their 1980's beginning in Feeney's garage, the Holy Cows have traveled throughout the east coast, as far west as Nebraska, and with their burgeoning reputation, will likely go truly national soon.

Scott Salyer speculated that success, and the financial independence that comes with it, would make the music even better, providing the band more energy for creating and practicing.

What are their goals? "Keep writing. Just grow musically. Keep growing," said John Popovich. "Just keep making records and have enough of a fan base that we can call it our career," Scott Salyer added.

The band hopes for a sold-out show with an excited crowd on Saturday. John Popovich knows what he wants listeners to think about the Holy Cows after the performance. "They're the greatest band that ever lived, that ever was, ever will be," he said.

Fans can contact the band for information by writing to: The Holy Cows, P.O. Box 159, Chelsea MI 48118.

Farm Bureau Endorses Farmland Preservation

The 450 delegates to Michigan Farm Bureau's annual meeting in Traverse City completed action on a wide range of state policies to guide the actions of the state's largest farm organization for the coming year. They also approved national policy recommendations for the American Farm Bureau Federation (AFBF) policy development committee.

The delegates endorsed a comprehensive policy to preserve the state's dwindling farmland. The policy included support for agricultural security areas, whereby owners of agricultural land could petition local townships and municipalities for enactment of incentives that would encourage the keeping of land in agricultural production. The policy also supported the purchase and/or transfer of development rights, and basing the assessment and taxation of land on its value as farmland.

In other agricultural policies, the delegates expressed support for Michigan State University's proposed Project GREEN to strengthen the future of plant-based commodities, supported a proposed federal marketing order for red tart cherries and called for amendments to the Michigan Agricultural Commodity Insurance Act to make it easier for farmers to recover money from bankrupt commodity handlers. The delegates also passed policy supporting reinstating the requirement that people get written permission from the landowner before hunting on private property, and they called for changing election laws to increase the terms of state and federal representatives from the current two years to four years.

In national policy recommendations to the American Farm Bureau Federation, the delegates called for a farm bill that would move agriculture toward a more market-oriented national farm policy that gradually phases-out all individual farm programs and allows producers increased flexibility to plant in response to market demand. Their national policy recommendations also included the suggestion that the existing federal crop insurance program be simplified and made more "user friendly."

The delegates called for Michigan Farm Bureau to conduct a study of flat income tax proposals to determine how those proposals would affect agriculture.

Local Retailers Report Holiday Sales Increase

By Michelle Rogers
Staff Writer

Consumers, for the most part, appeared to treat local shop owners well this holiday season. The majority surveyed by this newspaper three days before Christmas reported increased sales.

Many of the stores were open extended hours to accommodate the influx of holiday shoppers. Sales picked up after Thanksgiving and poured in through Christmas.

Milton Campbell, who operates Huron Camera & Video in Dexter and also runs stores in Chelsea and Saline with his partners, said sales are similar to last year's. "We really started getting busy about the middle of the month," he said.

The most popular items at Huron Camera have been compact cameras with zoom lenses. Video cameras, binoculars and telescopes follow behind. Campbell estimates he has sold at least 200 cameras this month. The item appears to be a hot seller every Christmas with the store selling on average 300 cameras in December.

Not only has the holiday season been kind to Village Shoppe owners Lynne Faist, Jane Diesing and Marge Faist, the entire year has. "We feel we did real well for our first year. We've noticed a tremendous amount of support from the community all year," said Lynne Faist.

Popular items at the Village Shoppe in Chelsea have been handmade Santas, children's books, games, toys and afghans. Sales of ornaments, wrapping paper, ribbon and cards increased after Thanksgiving. Specialty items made by local artists Jim Eisenbeiser, Bob German, Pat Benjamin and Ben Bower are also popular. Their work includes fleece blankets, birdhouses, stuffed dolls and watercolors.

Mark Heydlauff, manager of Heydlauff's Appliance & Electronics, says the store is attracting customers from a 15-mile radius. "We get a lot of business from the Manchester, Stockbridge, Grass Lake and Gregory areas too," he said.

CHELSEA BIKE & SPORTS owner Ray Schemanske reported mountain bikes were the most popular Christmas gifts he sold this year. Like many local retailers, Schemanske said sales were similar to last year's or up.

To accommodate shoppers, Heydlauff's joined other Chelsea merchants in extending their hours, and it has paid off.

"Our sales have been up. We've had a real good month compared to last year," Heydlauff said.

Like last year, digital satellite systems and wide screen TVs have been hot sellers. Home appliances such as refrigerators and stoves have also held strong sales. Heydlauff attributes the increase to new homeowners in the area trying to outfit their homes so they can move in by the holidays.

At Christine's in Dexter, sales have also been higher than last year. The gift shop has been open an additional five hours a week since Thanksgiving to handle the heavy foot traffic.

"Everything seems to be popular," said Christine O'Haver, who has owned and operated the store for the past six years. "All kinds of gift items are doing well."

Among the top sellers are Beanie Babies, a type of stuffed animal.

O'Haver describes her store as an eclectic gift shop with a wide variety of items.

Ray Schemanske, owner of Chelsea Bike & Sports, says he has seen a slight increase in sales. Like last year, mountain bikes have been the best sellers. Schemanske attributes the increase to the bike's popularity among 10-year-olds. Other items with good sales include in-line skates, soccer supplies and street hockey equipment.

Rob Winans, owner of Winans Jewelry, says sales for big ticket items have been down.

"I've been trying to figure it out. People are hanging on to it for some reason," Winans said. "People are spending $100 to $200."

Gold necklaces and watches have been the biggest sellers. Crystal figurines have also been hot with collectors.

Village Asks Palmer Ford To Help Ease Congestion

By Scott Bishop
Staff Writer

At the Tuesday, Dec. 19 Chelsea Planning Commission meeting, commissioners expressed concern about traffic congestion on M-52 south of the village, and urged Palmer Ford to lend them some assistance as the car dealership refurbishes its used car lot. Palmer Ford representatives, however, said the commission's zeal was misdirected and that the proposed remedy would require needless cost and effort.

Palmer Ford plans to renovate their used car lot and sales property on the corner of M-52 and Old Manchester Road near I-94. They were in front of the commission for a combined preliminary and final site plan review. Their plan proposed a new sales building and removal of two existing buildings and a trailer, with the remainder of the property slated for vehicle display.

In his report, village planning consultant Carl Schmult noted that while the plan showed several entrances to the property, no driveway was defined. He said the plan should be revised to delineate a 22-foot driveway for the proposed parking lot, clearly distinguishable from vehicle display areas.

Palmer Ford owner George Palmer and Sales Manager Biff Weber, both in attendance, indicated they would comply and Weber asked for approval of the plan, contingent on making the changes Schmult advised.

The plan illustrated three paved potential entrances to the property from M-52 within a short distance of each other, which sparked concerns about traffic congestion among the commissioners.

Noting the many curb-cuts (for driveways) along M-52, the probability of more with future developments and already congested traffic, planning commission chairman Tim Eder urged Palmer Ford to close off the southernmost of the three drives.

"It's an opportunity to close off one of (the M-52 curb cuts) so that in the future we don't have it to worry about. It's closed off and cleaned up once and for all," Eder said. "M-52 is going to keep being developed. There's more and more traffic and more and more turns that are going to go out there," he continued.

Weber explained that only one of the M-52 curb cuts was used for a regular entrance. The other two he said, were blocked by displayed vehicles and didn't contribute to traffic problems. He said the three drives didn't constitute a problem because never was more than one open at a time, and further it wouldn't make sense to use more than one because it would detract from display space.

"I'm not going to take 22 feet and throw three cars out of there. That's costing me my livelihood. Those (extra drives) are just for convenience and nothing else, for the lot itself. It's not traffic and if you're at all familiar with that lot, they have never been open. That's just a simple fact. We don't open them," Weber said. "At the same time, he continued, the unused drives were necessary in case of emergency or maintenance like the re-paving of the display lot.

"I occasionally have to move some traffic (through the presently blocked off drives). Not too often, but it comes in way too handy not to have it," he explained.

Commissioner Richard Haugen contended that limiting M-52 curb cuts benefited the entire area. He said eliminating curb-cuts whenever possible fit with the commission's strategy of improving the look and traffic flow of the south area. Noting that Palmer Ford received several variances from the village for its project, Haugen argued the commission's request was appropriate.

"Significant concession have been made in terms of variances to accommodate this new site plan, and we're asking for one thing back, for an unstructured curb cut. I don't think it's unreasonable to ask for that," Haugen said.

Eder observed that eliminating the southernmost curb-cut would still leave Palmer Ford two available entrances off of M-52 in addition to the entirety of its frontage on Old Manchester Road, all of which is paved with no defined driveways. He then questioned why that wouldn't be sufficient access to the lot in cases of emergency, repaving, etc.

Weber and Palmer repeatedly expressed frustration that the commission viewed the third curb-cut as a problem when it never had been in the past.

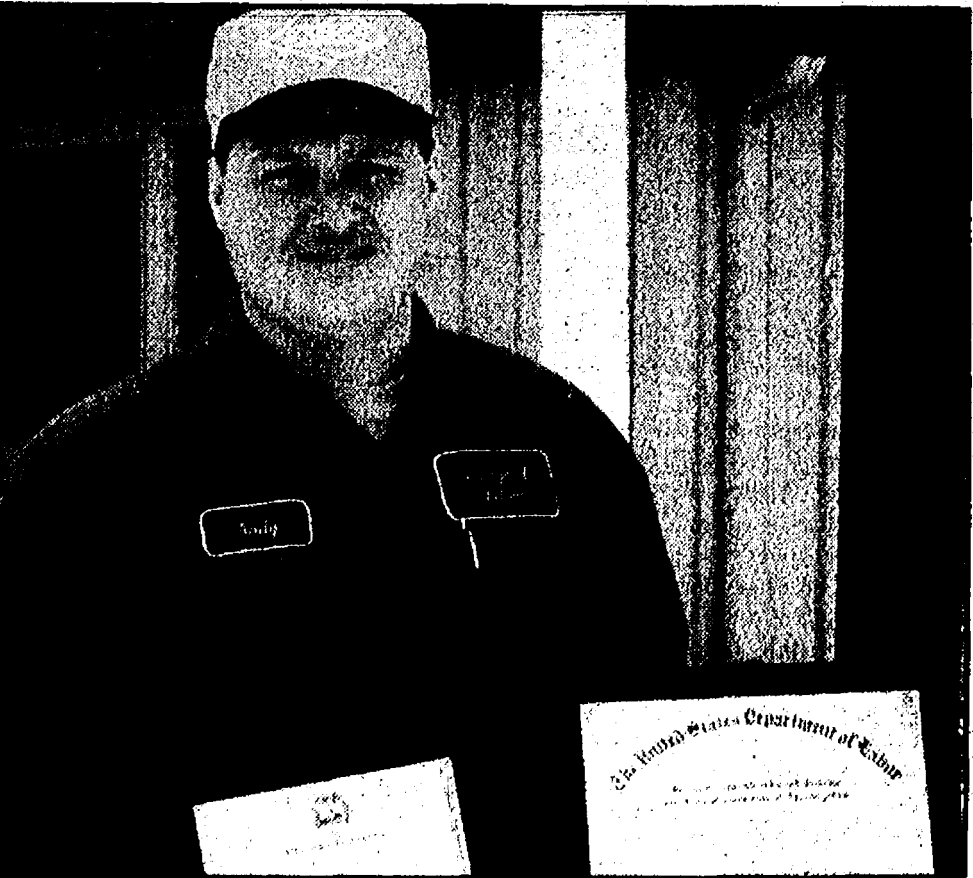

"We're saying again that it's always been that way, and we've been out there a number of years and we're not looking to change it...but to ask us to destroy curb-cuts is an extra expense (to Palmer Ford)," said Palmer.

Weber answered commissioners who said destroying the southernmost curb cut would improve the aesthetics of the property by contending that the Palmer Ford renovations would do just that.

Weber said that constructing new buildings wasn't absolutely necessary for his business, but did demonstrate a "significant commitment" to improving the look of M-52 south of Chelsea.

Ultimately the planning commission settled short of requiring the closure of the southernmost curb-cut. It approved the Palmer Ford site plan contingent on the document being revised to delineate the 22 ft. parking lot drive, indicate the southernmost curb cut is paved but not for public access, and also note that the car dealers will build sidewalks along M-52 when sidewalks on adjacent property are constructed.

ANDY JOHNSTON went from apprentice to journeyman in the village electric department.

Johnston Honored For Electric Dept. Work

They didn't break into Debbie Boone's famous ballad You Light Up My Life, but last Tuesday, Dec. 12 the Chelsea Village Council was pleased that electrical worker Andy Johnston will help light up Chelsea's future.

Johnston, who works for the village electrical service, recently went from apprentice to certified journeyman lineman, graduating from the Wolverine Power Supply Cooperative training school in Grand Rapids. The council presented him two commemorative plaques, one from the village and one from the school.

Village Electrical Superintendent Bob Shepherd credited Johnston's work ethic for his accomplishment.

"He did a lot of hard work and he's our first apprentice that Chelsea has sent to (Wolverine) electrical school and has completed the course. He got 98 percent on all of his tests. He got a letter from the school stating how much they enjoyed Andy and all the hard work he did. I know he's going to be a benefit Chelsea and especially the electric department. I hope he has a long, successful career," he said.

Johnston, originally hired as an apprentice lineman, completed the three-year training program while also working for Chelsea village and graduated to a journeyman, accredited by the State Department of Labor.

Tech. Unlimited Plans Show

Perhaps you remember the Pirate ship that floated down Main Street in the Chelsea Community Fair Parade? Or maybe you've seen the holiday lighting display in the courtyard at the high school? Remember the sound and lights at the CHS Prom for the past two years? Is it the work done for the House Party you remember? These are all projects that Tech. Unlimited has successfully accomplished for the community.

Tech. Unlimited, founded and directed by Brian R. Myers, is a non-school based technical theater club that offers hands-on learning experience to the students that make up its membership. The club will be presenting a spectacular variety show, entitled "SpecTECHular '96" on Jan. 13, at 8 p.m. that will use the latest in lighting, sound and special effects technology. The production will be used as a fund-raiser to purchase lighting and sound equipment, as well as being an invaluable learning experience for the club's members.

Fog, lasers, smoke, water fountains, computerized lights, huge sound systems and fountains of fireworks are a few of the items that will be used. Choirs, soloists, bands and the newly formed Tech. Unlimited Fiddlers will be among the student and adult performers. Neon tubes and American flags will be twirled by the Tech. Unlimited Color Guard and it's going to snow during the performance of the song "Let It

Snow."

Tickets for the show may be purchased at Chelsea Pharmacy. The performance will be held at the George Prinzing Auditorium in Chelsea High School.

Woman's Club Marks Holiday

The Woman's Club of Chelsea celebrated Christmas on Tuesday evening, Dec. 12 with a delicious buffet dinner served at Chelsea Community Hospital. The tables were beautifully decorated with centerpieces of poinsettias and other seasonal trimmings. At the end of the evening each member was given a poinsettia to take home.

Entertainment for the evening was provided by the bell choir from United Methodist Church.

In lieu of a personal gift exchange, members contributed to Safe House in Ann Arbor.

Hostesses for the evening consisted of the Program Committee: Donna Lane, Janet Fulks, Sylvia Gilbert, Ruby Stietter, Katherine Wagner and Margaret Boehm.

The club's next meeting will be held on Tuesday, Jan. 23 at McKune Library beginning at 1. The program for the day is entitled "Traveling with Special People" by Kate Collens. Guests are most welcome. For further information call Donna Lane at 475-8820, Janet Fulks at 475-8129 or Shirley Smith at 475-7591.

Bad Check

Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department took a complaint from a 17-year-old township boy that a local modeling agency paid him with a check from an account with non-sufficient funds. A deputy responded to the 1100 block of Harold Circle, Dec. 21. The teen told an officer a check was written Aug. 31 by the agency's owner. But when the youth tried to cash it Sept. 27, the bank told him there were non-sufficient funds. The teen was hired to do a marketing promotion on the campus of Michigan State University. Other local youths participated and did not get their money.

Breaking and Entering

Breaking and entering was reported in the 3700 block of W. Loch Alpine Drive, Dec. 14. A 24-year-old Scio Farms Estates woman told a Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputy someone broke into her 1991 Ford and stole her wallet while she was visiting a friend in the subdivision. The wallet contained $70 in cash, credit cards and a checkbook. It was recovered by a 49-year-old Ann Arbor man who found it on Huron River Drive.

Larceny

Larceny was reported in the 900 block of Pratt Ridge Court, Dec. 20. A 46-year-old township man told a Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputy someone stole several items from his vehicle left unlocked in his driveway from midnight to 4 a.m. The stolen items included a knife, bullets and camouflage clothing valued at $202.

Malicious Destruction of Property

Malicious destruction of property was reported at Bel-Mark Lanes, 3530 Jackson Rd., Dec. 19. A 27-year-old employee told a Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputy someone spray painted graffiti on the westside wall between Dec. 16 and Dec. 17.

Car Fire

A 1989 Chrysler New Yorker sustained $14,000 in damages Dec. 20 while a 48-year-old Pinckney man was driving it on Dexter-Ann Arbor Road. The Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department and Scio Township Fire Department responded to the scene. The vehicle owner told police he had picked up the car from a local repair shop that morning. He drove the vehicle around town and noticed smoke coming from the engine. A Dexter school bus driver called the fire department for the man. Damage was confined to the front half of the car. The fire chief is investigating the cause.

Recovered Stolen Vehicle

A 1989 Ford F-250 was recovered Dec. 12 after it was stolen from Barrett Paving, 857 Wagner Rd., between Nov. 30 and Dec. 10. The vehicle was parked behind a fenced area on the northside of the building when it was stolen. The 47-year-old manager didn't know it was stolen until he saw it in Saline.

Drunken Driving

A 25-year-old Novi man was arrested for operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor on Wagner Road near Jackson Road, Dec. 17. The suspect was stopped by a Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputy for a traffic violation. The deputy smelled intoxicants coming from the man. A test administered around 2 a.m. proved the man had a 14 percent blood-alcohol level, which is more than the legal limit.

Lyndon Township

Drunken Driving

A 39-year-old Chelsea man was arrested for operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor on Waterloo Road near Cassidy Lake Road, Dec. 18. A Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputy responded to the scene of a personal injury accident at approximately 7 p.m. The suspect claimed a deer ran in front of his 1984 Ford Econoline van and caused the crash. The man took a breathalyzer test and registered a .19 percent blood-alcohol level, which is nearly twice the legal limit. A prosecutor will review the case.

Dexter Village

Fraud

Fraud reportedly occurred at the First of America Bank in Dexter. A 43-year-old Dexter man told a Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputy someone stole his ATM card and siphoned $1,150 from his bank account. The victim last remembers using the card at Busch's Valu Land Dec. 10. He started receiving notices that he didn't have funds to cover his checks three days later.

Warrant Arrest

Burton L. Bell, 27, of Jackson was arrested by a Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputy in Dexter Dec. 18. He was transported to the Washtenaw County Jail.

Chelsea Village

Violation of Controlled Substance Act

An 18-year-old Ann Arbor man was arrested for possession of suspected marijuana after a Chelsea Police officer discovered the drugs on him Dec. 22. The man was arrested in the 1600 block of Main Street after he was questioned regarding a stolen vehicle.

Larceny

Larceny was reported at Village Mobil, 1629 S. Main St., Dec. 14. A clerk told Chelsea Police a man pumped $11 worth of gasoline and then another $15 worth but only paid $15. The suspect was driving a 1986 Ford pick-up. A license plate number was obtained. The vehicle is registered to a Taylor man. Chelsea Police sent the man a letter in regards to the incident.

Larceny was reported by the head of security at Chelsea Retirement

Home, 805 W. Middle St., Dec. 20. Chelsea Police were told two stop signs were stolen from the grounds. The case has been closed, however, due to a lack of investigative leads.

(All information compiled by staff writer Michelle Rogers and obtained through reports filed with the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department.)

Correction

In last week's edition, a story about the proposed formation of a district-wide library in Chelsea failed to mention Gerry Reith, treasurer for Lyndon Township, was present at the Leader's Tour held Wednesday, Dec. 13.

Lets Go Bulldogs!

NICK BRINK helped the Chelsea Bulldogs to an easy defeat of Manchester just before the holiday break.

Varsity Hoop Team Buries Manchester

Chelsea Bulldogs basketball team shared the lead, and the ball, last Tuesday, Dec. 19 at Manchester, as good passing led to a 73-49 win.

The Bulldogs jumped to a 14-7 lead after one quarter and maintained a 34-25 advantage at half-time. A 16-4 third-quarter stomping buried Manchester and Chelsea maintained a comfortable margin the rest of the way.

Chelsea Coach Robin Raymond was particularly pleased by the third quarter run, since third-quarter bluffs contributed to each of the Bulldogs' three losses this season.

Raymond ascribed the victory to the progress his team has made since opening the season.

"The key was our balance on offense. The first three games we did not play extremely well offensively. We still didn't shoot the ball very well last night, but we had 19 assists out of 27 field goals, which is really good. We made the extra pass and we scored 73 points (even) without fast-breaking," he said.

Raymond noted with satisfaction that 10 of 11 players scored, and eight scored at least four points. Chelsea scored in double figures each quarter, and in addition to the improved teamwork and passing, the Bulldogs made strides in other areas.

Chelsea owned the boards, out rebounding Manchester 56-37, including a 21-8 advantage in offensive rebounds, and held Manchester to 20 percent field-goal shooting. "We controlled the game with rebounding and defensively," Raymond observed.

Nick Brink led the scoring with 23 points, and snatched a team-high 11 rebounds. Scott Colvin added 12 points and six rebounds, Sam Morseau eight points and four assists, Chris Dronen seven points and six rebounds, Kevin Cross five points and seven rebounds, Kevin Holmes six assists and Tim Lawrence four.

The Bulldogs are off until Jan. 5 when they visit Brooklyn Columbia Central. Their record stands at 2-3 overall and 1-2 in the SEC.

Raymond recalled that last year's SEC champion Dexter started the league season 1-2 and that the Bulldogs championship hopes were still very much alive because of the improvements they'd made. "At this point in the year, I think we've made dramatic improvement as a team on the floor. I thought in the first two or three games we were playing more as individuals as opposed to playing as a team," he said. "I think we are where we want to be."

Dog Freshmen Whip Dutch

The Chelsea Bulldogs freshmen rolled over host Manchester last Tuesday, Dec. 19 for a 71-34 victory.

After Manchester took an 8-7 lead, Chelsea broke the game open with a 15-0 run and maintained control throughout.

Mike Holloway led the team inside, establishing good position in the low post, and Chelsea Coach Kyle Plank credited the Bulldogs improved pressure defense for the win.

Thursday Ann Arbor Huron turned the tables on Chelsea, as the River Rat quickness and defensive pressure forced Bulldog turnovers that led to transition baskets.

Plank said Chelsea played much better in the second half, but the big lead Huron built up was too much to overcome, as they defeated the Bulldogs 69-37.

Drew Henson got the team on track in the second half and led the scoring with seven points. Nathan O'Connor and Joey Setta provided solid defense and rebounding off the bench.

Chelsea plays next on Jan. 5 at Brooklyn Columbia Central.

Not Necessarily The Sports News

By Scott Bishop

With 1995 ending, it's time to start preparing for the new millennium which begins in five short years.

It's an appropriate time to consider how modern times have changed the sports we'll watch at Chelsea High School this winter: swimming, wrestling, volleyball, basketball and the traditional "who wishes the most that Christmas-vacation was longer" competition.

So for your reading pleasure, we present some excerpts from the Chelsea Standard History of Sports.

Swimming: This sport has probably changed the most. Now it's done in indoor pools where the water is relatively comfortable and calm. Swimming competition has come a long way from the first swim meet, when two of Her Majesty's frigates collided and sunk 20 miles off the coast of England and only the strong survived to make the shore in time for 3:00 tea.

Wrestling: For thousands of years, wrestlers grappled right on the bare earth. But then a famous wrestler of the early 20th century, Ronald Reagan, refused to take on Congress until a nice, soft capital gains tax-cut was laid down. So began the tradition of wrestling mats.

Volleyball: The fundamentals of volleyball include spiking and blocking. Sounds kind of war-like, doesn't it? Ironically, it was peace-lovers along the North-South border during the Civil war who invented the sport. They thought erecting a net between the two sides and swatting a ball back and forth was a much better solution than all that violence. Alas, volleyball didn't really catch on with the public until the war was over.

Basketball: It's in all the history books that James Naismith invented basketball in Springfield, Mass., and the first hoop was a peach basket. But few people realize that peach baskets were still in use until the mid-1950's, when peaches n' cream ice-cream was invented and the number of spare baskets severely reduced.

Chelsea JVs Defeat Dutch

Last Tuesday, Dec. 19 the Bulldogs traveled to Manchester and were nasty Christmas guests, defeating their hosts 58-51.

Chelsea outscored Manchester 31-22 in the middle two quarters to take control of the game and maintained the lead through the end.

Scott Basar scored 12 points, Brian Groesser added 11 points and four assists, Matt Adams eight points and eight rebounds, and Sam Compton 10 points.

Chelsea Coach Mark Scheese was pleased to get a victory before taking some time off for Christmas. "We played well enough to win, and the kids did what they had to do. It was nice to get a win before break," he said.

The Bulldogs record stands at 2-3. They play next Jan. 5 at Brooklyn Columbia Central.

'Indexing' can offer various investment advantages

By JOHN HAUCK JR.
STRATEGIC CAPITAL INVESTMENTS

"Indexing" is an investment approach that seeks to mirror the investment returns of a specific stock or bond benchmark. An index fund will hold all (or a representative sample) of the securities in the index and "bets" on individual stocks or the direction of the market are not made.

For example, the S&P 500 Index covers about 69 percent of the value of the U.S. stock market and is dominated by large companies. The index is composed of 378 industrial, 47 utility, 59 financial and 16 transportation issues. The S&P 500 Index is market-weighted, meaning the price of each stock times the number of shares outstanding ultimately influences the price of the index. Indexing is a passive approach to investing which emphasizes broad diversification and low portfolio trading activity.

Indexing is not always superior to the traditional "active" investment approach, but there are some important advantages for investors to consider.

• SIMPLICITY. There are 3,000 equity mutual funds competing for investor dollars today. An index fund simply seeks to match the performance of a group of stocks or bonds. There are specific and explicit objectives and investment policies an index fund must follow. Where a bond fund manager may shift the average maturity of his portfolio, an intermediate term bond index fund will own intermediate term bonds, period.

• TAX EFFICIENCY. The impact of taxes on fund distributions has the potential to reduce long-term investment returns. Mutual fund returns are invariably calculated before taxes. A fund's rate of portfolio turnover can have a significant impact on an after tax return. Dividend income is subject to ordinary income tax rates (as high as 39.6 percent) and capital gains distributions are taxes at the capital gains rate (up to 28 percent). Index funds largely follow a buy and hold approach and, consequently, tend to realize and distribute only modest capital gains to shareholders. In addition, the index fund accumulates most of its capital gains, making it very attractive for estate planning purposes. Under current laws, the shares are passed through to heirs at a "stepped-up" cost basis. Consequently, the index fund takes on some of the features of a variable annuity (i.e. tax deferral) without the constraints of lower liquidity, higher costs, and offers a better means of transferring an estate.

• COMPETITIVE PERFORMANCE. During the 10-year period ending December 31, 1994, the S&P 500 Index outpaced 78 percent of all equity mutual funds. Of 246 general equity funds in existence throughout the 10 years, only 49 managed to beat the Index—24 beat the index by more than one percentage point and 11 surpassed the index by more than 2 percentage points. Thus, an investor stands a 10 percent chance of beating the index and a 5 percent chance of outperforming by a generous amount.

Stock and bond index total returns and the average fund total returns are compared for the 10-year period ending December 31, 1994:

Average General Equity Fund	12.2%
Lehman Aggregate Bond Index	9.8%*
Average Bond Fund	8.6%

*S&P 500 reduced 0.3% for and Lehman bond index reduced 0.2% for to reflect approximate fund costs.

• Low Costs. Mutual funds have costs in the form of the fund's expense ratio (including advisory fees, distribution charges, and operating expenses) and portfolio transaction costs (brokerage and other trading costs). Another significant cost is the hidden cost associated with pushing share prices higher or lower as a manager attempts to buy or sell a large quantity of shares. The average general equity fund has an annual expense ratio of 1.38 percent of investor assets (1.02 percent for the average taxable bond fund). Additionally, the average fund's portfolio turnover rate is 85 percent per year, according to Lipper Analytical Services, Inc. The trading costs associated with this turnover may be expected to subtract another 0.5 percent to 1 percent annually. The combined effect of expenses and transaction costs give index funds a big advantage. If a low cost equity index fund earns 10 percent, it will give about 9.7 percent to the shareholder. A traditional equity fund with a 10 percent return would deliver about 8 percent after costs to the investor.

• RELATIVE CONSISTENCY AND PREDICTABILITY. The performance of index funds is consistent on a relative basis. In eight out of 11 years since 1984, the S&P Index surpassed more than half of all general equity mutual funds. In its worst year, the index still outperformed four of 10 funds. While no one can predict the future with certainty, index funds can be expected to perform more predictably relative to general market trends than actively managed funds. The performance of an index fund can be expected to closely parallel the performance of the specified target index.

Stock index funds represent only 3 percent of the $900 billion invested in equity mutual funds and bond index funds a mere 0.5 percent of the $700 billion invested in bond mutual funds. Presently about one-fifth of pension equity fund assets are invested in index vehicles. Investors might consider an "all-index" strategy or a "core" strategy. With an "all-index" strategy, an investor should expect above-average returns over time because of the cost advantages these funds offer. A "core" strategy involves the use of index funds as a component of the investment portfolio where other monies pursue alternative actively managed investment strategies.

Strategic Capital Investments, LLC, is located in Saline. John Hauck and Joe Burke, its managing members, utilize index funds in conjunction with long-term timing models to assist clients in meeting their investment expectations. Actively managed alternative investment styles are pursued for clients desiring returns in excess of those offered by index funds.

CONSIDERING ALL THE THINGS
KIDS HAVE THESE DAYS, SHOULDN'T LIFE INSURANCE BE ONE OF THEM?

You could give your grandchildren the usual toys. Or you could get them something a little more lasting like a Prudential whole life insurance policy. Since premiums are largely based on age, the cost is less expensive than you might think. And, over time, the policy can build cash value, which can later be used to help pay for college or some other need. Call me for all the details.

Enrolled agents are one option for taxpayers

By BEN MILLIGAN
ENROLLED AGENT

Because tax laws and forms are complicated, many people seek help in preparing their tax returns. But, finding the right tax professional for your situation is a job in itself.

There are four categories of tax professionals: commercial preparers, enrolled agents, certified public accountants, and tax attorneys. Some tax professionals are licensed and can represent taxpayers in their dealings with the IRS.

Commercial preparers, independent practitioners or tax preparation businesses are not licensed by the state of Michigan or the IRS. Many commercial preparers are knowledgeable and competent, however, they cannot represent taxpayers before the IRS.

Enrolled agents are licensed by the IRS to represent taxpayers. They have successfully completed a rigorous exam administered by the IRS. Some enrolled agents prepare tax returns while others limit themselves to representing taxpayers at audits and other meetings with IRS officials.

CPAs and tax attorneys are licensed by the state of Michigan. Both can represent taxpayers before the IRS. Some, but not all, of these professionals focus on preparing tax returns.

Tax preparers can be characterized as either conservative or aggressive. The more aggressive a preparer, the more he or she will attempt to find in tax savings by pushing for the most favorable interpretation of tax regulations. On the other hand, the more aggressive the tax preparation, the more likely the return is to draw the attention of IRS auditors. Taxpayers should look for a preparer with whom you can feel comfortable and remember you must always keep all documentation to support income and deductions.

Whomever a taxpayer selects to prepare tax returns, remember the IRS considers taxpayers responsible for the content of the return.

He wears two hats in the field of finance

By SHEILA PURSGLOVE
REPORTER PAPERS SPECIAL WRITER

"I'd describe myself as tax adverse!"

Fighting words for a tax professional, but Dennis Michalak is fired up, ready to assist his clients through the annual maze of tax returns; in the next four months, clients will pour through his door in the Saline Shopping Center, carrying grocery bags, boxes, envelopes, shopping bags, and briefcases full of receipts, while he and his crew decipher income and maximize deductions.

MICHALAK wears two hats, that of a tax professional and financial advisor. He offers clients tax preparation through H&R Block, a company he has owned since 1986, and financial services through HD Vest Financial Services, for which he is a Registered Investment Advisor.

"I do a considerable amount of tax planning for clients and it's nice to be able to offer the appropriate financial products to help them accomplish their goals," he says.

"HD Vest is made up of about 5,000 tax professionals - CPAs, EAs, attorneys and tax preparers. As representatives of HD Vest, we're not associated with any particular product so we can offer our clients whatever is most appropriate for their situation; and clients can choose to purchase products through an advisory fee basis or through the traditional commission products," he adds.

As a tax professional, Michalak begins with a client's tax return. "It's like looking at an annual operating statement of a business," he explains. "The tax return is a vehicle that gives us hints as to the client's financial well being, and can be used to improve both his tax and financial situations."

Working through the return, line by line, Michalak can see what his clients should be doing to take care of tax problems that are there, or which may occur in the future.

"Another advantage to our investment clients is that, as their tax preparer, we're going to sit down at least once a year to do their tax return, and therefore we're also going to review the financial performance of the investments we've recommended. I constantly hear clients say that after purchasing a particular investment, they never heard from the representative again."

A native of Monroe, Michalak got his business degree in 1976, from Central Michigan University, with minors in economics and finance.

FORMERLY employed in the food service industry, Michalak moved to Saline 14 years ago. With five moves in seven years, when the sixth move was imminent, he called it quits and looked around for his own business.

"We were down to the last of our money in the bank when the H&R Block of Saline became available. I purchased it primarily as a stop gap measure, while I continued my search for another business; however, I found enjoyment and satisfaction from helping people with their tax returns, and so the stop gap became permanent."

Michalak enjoys advising others who may be looking to invest on a personal level, as well as assisting those who are considering buying a business or starting one of their own.

As a TAX professional, Michalak used to send clients to his personal investment broker for IRAs and investments necessary to complete their tax returns. "It didn't take long to recognize that the investments weren't suitable for my clients, and that with the necessary education and licensing I could do a much better job of investing for them."

Since 1987 Michalak has been busy receiving education and passing all the necessary licensing requirements to become a full service broker. As a representative, he is fully licensed to sell stocks, bonds, mutual funds, annuities, and insurance products. Aside from his credentials to sell products, he is also a Registered Investment Advisor of HD Vest, which allows the client to choose fee based asset management. He enjoys helping his clients plan for their life goals, and work towards reaching them.

ON A PERSONAL level, he is well aware of the need for sound financial planning in order to enjoy life—he and his wife Paula have six children, and he's a small business owner. They enjoy spending time at Chelsea's Cavanaugh Lake where they can indulge in Dennis' passion for boating, fishing and water-skiing; and they are renovating the family's old home on Michigan Avenue.

"For most people, (a financial) need arises before it becomes a goal," Michalak says. "College is usually a need before it becomes a goal, and then we begin to frantically plan for it. I don't mean to say people don't plan—but there's usually financial stress that comes as a wake-up call, and then we plan for college, retirement, or whatever other things we desire. We all have goals, even if only in our mind's eye, and it's important to discuss them with others and do something about them, or they won't materialize. I enjoy helping people reach their goals by putting them in the right investment vehicle, all the time making sure they don't run into a bigger tax burden."

Michalak stresses the need for a will.

"ABOUT 80 percent of our clients don't have a will—it's a vital part of financial planning, to take care of your children or surviving spouse, and along with that, insurance can also be critical," he explains.

The stock market has become a major part of his life; he tunes into it every day via Compuserve. He also recommends Bottom Line magazine, and his personal favorite Investors Business Daily, as ways to keep abreast of what's happening in the market.

His career takes him travelling to "Due Diligence" meetings and investment conventions, where he meets with funds managers and economists to get investment perspectives and outlooks. 1995 took him to Massachusetts, California, Illinois, Texas, Florida and Colorado. He also heads up a group of HD Vest representatives who meet monthly.

A member of the Saline Rotary Club - and 1992 past president, he has also served as an elder for the Ann Arbor Westminster Presbyterian Church.

"Our six children are our top priority," he says, explaining that he and wife Paula pretty much run a perpetual tax service for the children's activities.

Michalak has spoken to classes at Saline High School, where he found a huge interest among the students as to know how to read and interpret the Wall Street Journal and stock quotes.

"I believe we do a great job of getting them ready to go to college," he declares. "But I must say I'm disappointed in the preparation they get for the real world. It surprises me how few know how to balance a check book, fill out a financial loan application, buy a car or even save money, let alone deal with income tax."

Korean War Veterans Reunion Slated In July

St. Louis, Mo. has been selected for the 12th Annual National Reunion of the Korean War Veterans Association, Inc. (KWVA), a national organization of more than 15,000 armed forces veterans who served during the Korean War.

Themed "St. Louis '96," the five-day gathering is scheduled for July 23-27, 1996, beginning with registrations on Tuesday, July 23, and ending with ceremonies marking the 43rd anniversary of the Korean War Armistice (July 27, 1953).

Between 1,500 and 2,000 KWVA members are expected to attend; advance registration in September, 1995, had already reached 500, with delegations planned for every state. Official headquarters will be the St. Louis St. Adams' Mark Hotel, adjacent to the famous Gateway to the West Arch Monument. Additional hotel space has been reserved at six other St. Louis area first class hotels.

In addition to election of national officers, the program will include a variety of activities, including live musical entertainment, a banquet, and tours of St. Louis' numerous museums, parks and other attractions, including the internationally famous Missouri Botanical Gardens ("Shaw's Garden"). The entire program was chosen to provide members and their spouses with a relaxing, enjoyable visit to one of America's premier tourist cities.

"St. Louis '96" is the culmination of months of planning and preparation by representatives of four Missouri and nine Illinois KWVA chapters, representing the area between Chicago and Kansas City. Spearheading the program is John Maisson, National Treasurer of both national KWVA, and the Imjin Chapter, Fairview Heights, Illinois.

Additional information regarding the 1996 Reunion of KWVA is available by contacting KWVA, 117 Mark Drive, Fairview Heights, Illinois 62208, or calling 1-800-603-6555.

The Korean War Veterans Association, Inc., is a specialized international organization comprised of over 15,000 men and women who served in the armed forces during the Korean War (June 1950-January, 1955) or in Korea between 1946 and today.

MRS. SCHLUP'S THIRD GRADERS at North Elementary School participated in the Toys for Tots and Teens program sponsored by Palmer Ford-Mercury. The students, and many others at the school, donated toys, which were distributed to the area's needy by Faith in Action. Students above include Courtney Aili, Michelle Alber, Robyn Bailey, Clifton Ballard, Matthew Beaupied, Nathan Eisenberg, John Engelbert, Jr., Michael Griffith, Katherine Guzik, Nicholas Harwood, Brian Humenay, Nicholas Jenks, Derek Jolly, Diana Ladio, Colin Lenehan, Liisa Locker, Clara Marquina, Stephen McCoy, Nathan Montange, Danae Seward, Hanna Taylor, Seth Walton, Margaret Wheeler, Jerica Witulski, Richard Yargeau, and Zachary Ziegler.

Agri-Business Conference Set

Downtown Lansing will be the site of the Michigan Agri-Business Association's 63rd Annual Winter Conference and Trade Show from January 8-10, 1996. The Radisson Hotel and Lansing Center will hold all the conference activities.

More than 100 exhibitors and hundreds of representatives from Michigan's agricultural industry will be on hand to learn the latest in research and crop production developments.

This year will feature a combination of the Association's annual convention and the Michigan Crop Management Conference, which has been held separately in past years. "By combining these meetings, everyone will have a change to participate in the trade show, the annual meetings of the Association and also presentations by more than 50 experts in the fields of fertility, crop production, pest control, safety, marketing and environmental concerns," said Jim Byrum, President of the Association.

Farmers and anyone interested in agriculture will be able to attend all three days of the conference, or just one day, depending on their interests. Special advance registration packages range in cost from $165 for all three days, to as low as $60 per day for Monday, January 8, and $50 for Tuesday, January 9, 1996. This daily registration fee includes participation in the seminars offered, a luncheon and admission to the trade show. The cost of advance registration on Wednesday, January 10, 1996 is $40. Costs for registering at the door are slightly more.

For more information on the Michigan Agri-Business Association's 63rd Annual Winter Conference and Trade Show, please call the Association office at 517/485-8580.
