

William Wescott Chosen As Principal For New Elementary

By Scott Bishop
Staff Writer

Monday the Chelsea School Board took steps toward finalizing the new elementary school scheduled for completion by the fall of 1997.

They took potential names under consideration, approved the basic design of the school as presented by architects from Kingstott & Associates, and selected current North School Principal William J. Wescott as principal of the yet to be named new school.

Lucy Stieber, presently in her fifth year as principal at South Elementary School, will remain in that position and a new principal will be hired to lead North School.

Wescott, who has been principal at North School for 11 years and spent his entire 21 and one-half year educational career in Chelsea, will begin his new responsibilities July 1 or the day after the new North School principal begins work, whichever comes later.

In addition to his experience as an administrator, Wescott taught sixth and seventh grade classes at Beach

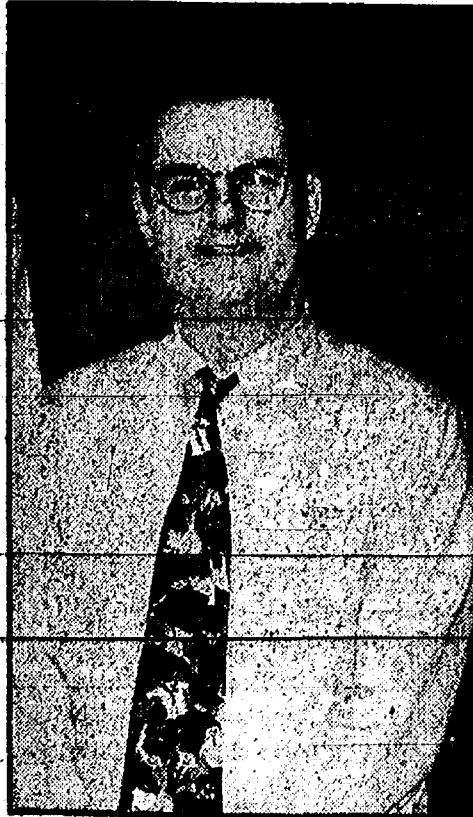

Middle School for five years.

Prior to the School Board meeting, Chelsea Schools Superintendent Ed Richardson illustrated why Wescott was chosen to lead the new school.

"Bill requested that he be considered for the position. We believe that Bill has the talent and skills necessary to open a new building, and to create a school culture that will be very positive for kids," Richardson explained.

Specific skills Wescott will bring to the job, according to Richardson, are: attention to

District Library Plans Stopped By Council

By Scott Bishop
Staff Writer

Last week the Chelsea Village Council, over the protests of members of the McKune Memorial Library Board, rejected the District Library Agreement, effectively ending the possibility of the McKune Memorial Library in Chelsea becoming a district library in the near future.

McKune, a village library whose board is elected by and composed of Chelsea residents, is financed primarily by village taxes. Some funding comes from penal fines and state aid, which is contingent on serving township residents who do not pay library-supporting taxes.

Charging township residents for services would result in losing the penal fines and state aid.

The library board has contended it cannot continue to serve the wider area while its funding comes overwhelmingly from the village, and that charging township users on a fee-for-service basis isn't feasible.

Meanwhile, village and township officials have voiced concerns about the lack of municipal control over a district library, the wishes of the McKune family heirs to retain a village-controlled library in the building, funding and other concerns.

Municipal leaders have expressed a desire that the library seek alternative funding options while remaining a village library.

Having reviewed the District Library Agreement twice in recent months, the council was to make a decision at its Feb. 27 meeting.

Village approval would mean the library board could seek acceptance from the surrounding township boards.

If the agreement were approved by Chelsea village and two or more of the surrounding townships, the issue would be put before voters in those municipalities, who would ultimately accept or reject the district library concept.

Library board member David Prohaska and board president Dan Kaminsky opened discussion Feb. 27 underlining the financial need for a district library.

"Right now, we're taking in (approximately) $172,000 in village taxes and the townships collectively, they're contributing about $9,000. So one of the things we think that this would do is provide a more stable and a broader base of equity as far as the library income is concerned," Prohaska said.

Kaminsky picked up on the equity issue. "What we're after here is a change so that we can get adequate and fair funding for our community's library. The whole purpose of the district library is to change it from just being funded by the village to being funded by everyone in the community that uses it. And I think that's the main issue of why we're trying to become a district library," he explained.

Trustee Frank Hammer urged exploration of an alternative agreement with the townships which would raise taxes from township residents but keep control centered in the village.

Communication Stressed

Last Thursday, Feb. 28, village, township and school officials came together at the Depot in Chelsea to discuss sharing information and keeping lines of communication open as the area expands.

The Chelsea Chamber of Commerce sponsored the meeting and contracted business consultant Barbara Rose to help identify common concerns and work toward addressing them corporately.

Representatives from Chelsea village, Lima, Lyndon, Sylvan and Dexter townships and Chelsea Schools participated.

The meeting emphasized community-wide planning rather than merely individual planning by the municipalities and school, according to Sylvan Township Supervisor Gerry Dresselhouse. "It was basically an attempt to get everybody together and start talking," he said.

That was indeed the goal for mediator Rose. "Their purpose was to begin to communicate with one another," she explained.

With Rose leading, the village, townships and school district listed their individual concerns, then shared them with the larger group.

Rose noted with satisfaction that much common ground was discovered, and that the disparate groups were able to reach a consensus, identifying issues to be addressed conjunctively, like decisions about public services such as fire and library, controlling growth, assessing land use and others.

They agreed to form a strategic planning committee, the Chelsea Area Planning Team, to be composed of appointed representatives from each group. The CAPT will meet next April 30.

Rose, Dresselhouse and Chamber of Commerce Executive Director Ann Feeney all expect positive results from better communication.

"I think that good things are going to come out of it," Dresselhouse concluded.

Election Set

Chelsea Village residents will elect a Village Council President, three Village Council Trustees two McKune Memorial Library Board members, and a treasurer this Monday, March 11.

Votes can be cast at Sylvan Township Hall from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Running for a two-year term as Village Council President are incumbent president Richard Steele and former village president Charles Ritter.

Frank Hammer, Richard Rigg and Joe Merkel, all incumbents and all running unopposed, seek re-election to two-year terms as Village Council Trustees.

David Prohaska and Yvonne Herron, both incumbents, both running unopposed, seek re-election to three year terms on the Library Board.

Incumbent treasurer Fred Mammel is also running unopposed.

Budget Approved

The Chelsea Village Council held a quiet, lightly attended public hearing on the 1998-97 fiscal year village budget at its Feb. 27 meeting.

There were no comments from council members or the public as Village Manager Jack Myers summarized the village budget for the then upcoming fiscal year. The 1998-97 fiscal year began March 1.

Combining operating, enterprise and all other budgets, Myers anticipated collecting $8,408,529 in revenue and dispersing expenditures totaling $8,107,035.

Expecting a surplus of roughly $300,000, Myers said that money would go into "fund balances" not to be spent this year but counting in the 1997-98 budget.

Annexation Goes To County

Requests for annexation of roughly 63 total acres made by the Chelsea School District were approved by the Chelsea Village Council at its Feb. 27 meeting.

The petition will be forwarded to the Washtenaw County Board of Commissioners, who will hold a public hearing and ultimately accept or reject the application. They are expected to approve the annexation.

50 acres at the northeastern corner of Freer and Trinkle Roads is slated for a new high school, while the smaller parcel on the north side of US-12 will be the site of a new elementary school.

Plane Lands At Proving Grounds

Sunday, Feb. 25 at 3:30 p.m. a plane piloted by 34-year-old Robert Trybulec, made an emergency landing on an empty paved track at the Chrysler Proving Grounds south of Chelsea.

Trybulec was headed for a grass landing strip further south near Pleasant Lake Road, but was apprehensive about landing on grass.

Chrysler Corp. President Robert Lutz happened to hear Trybulec's radio transmissions to Willow Run Airport and radioed permission for Trybulec to land on the paved track at (Continued on Page Two)

A combination of snow, sleet, and ice made for a messy day Tuesday. Once again, merchants had to shovel their walks to make way for the few people who ventured downtown. Chelsea schools had yet another day off because of the weather.

Chelsea Graduate Killed

Howard DuRussel III, a 1994 graduate of Chelsea High School and a sophomore at Eastern Michigan University, was one of three EMU fraternity brothers killed in a car crash near West Memphis, Ark. early Sunday morning, March 3.

There were four passengers in the car; one survived.

The four Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity brothers were returning from a spring break holiday at Padre Island, Texas.

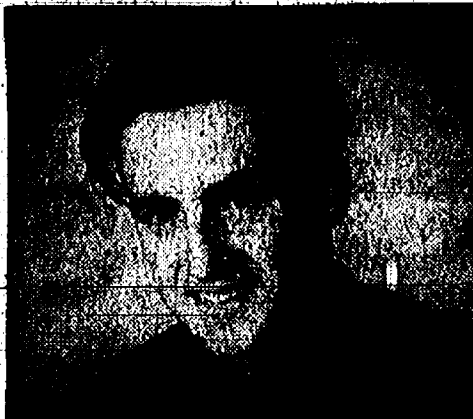

According to the Arkansas State Police, DuRussel, who was driving, may have fallen asleep before the car left the highway.

At approximately 12:30 a.m. the car traveled 200 feet across a grassy shoulder, flew over a ditch and slammed into a steep embankment before sliding back into the ditch.

There was no evidence that DuRussel or the others had been drinking, pending the results of blood-alcohol tests.

An Arkansas State Trooper estimated the fraternity brothers had been traveling 12 to 16 hours straight before the crash.

Howard DuRussel III

DuRussel is survived by his mother, Debbie Peck of Chelsea and a sister Shannon DuRussel.

Elementary School Names Proposed

At the Chelsea School Board meeting Monday, March 4, the board took under consideration potential names for the new elementary school to be completed in 1997 and the existing North and South Elementaries, which will be renovated and renamed.

A Name-the-Schools committee composed of former school board members and chaired by Art Dils was charged with recommending three compatible names for the elementaries.

Explaining that the committee found many area residents had emotional ties to the traditional names North School and South School, Dils told the board the committee's proposal.

"So in consideration of all the factors, the committee recommends the following. That North Elementary be renamed North Creek Elementary School. That South Elementary School be renamed South Meadows Elementary School, and that the new elementary school be named Pierce Lake Elementary School," Dils said.

Because the board had asked for more than one alternative, Dils provided two more trios of possible names, but noted they were not recommended by the committee.

One of the options was Liberty Elementary, Freedom Elementary and Independence Elementary. The second was Pine Meadow Elementary, Maple Grove Elementary and Hickory Ride Elementary.

Driver Education Optional For Schools

A change in the Michigan School Code allows school districts to opt out of providing driver's education programs during the summer.

Schools may offer driver's ed, but are no longer required to. Typically, state funds cover roughly 50 percent of the cost of driver's education, while school districts make up the rest.

Schools could decide to get out of the business of educating drivers completely or could charge a fee for the service.

Chelsea Schools Superintendent Ed Richardson indicated the school would maintain driver's education for the immediate future. "My plan is to let it go for the summer and make a decision for the following summer," he said.

Uncle Apollo

Foul! Fire the editor! Why is it the other candidates for village president get front page coverage and I'm here, stuck inside? The paper didn't even interview me. And have you seen a picture of me anywhere in this newspaper? No. They won't publish it. Well, the liberal press will have to sit up and listen when Apollo wins on a landslide write-in vote, won't they? I'm fighting back with this column. Since I'm being treated as a fictitious character, it's only logical that I do a fictitious interview with a fictitious newspaper, so here we go.

Why are you running for president?

Well, either you run away from things or you run for them. I just decided to run toward the position this time around. Besides, we've been spending too much money, and loose change is needed. Now!

What positive steps do you believe the council has taken so far?

None! Less than none! They do even less than they get paid for, which is very little. They sit up there and make all these decisions about dumb things like annexations and trailer parks and fixing our streets and providing local services and they get paid 50 whole bucks to do it, before taxes, which are too high anyway. Don't they realize they are only supposed to listen to us when we show up at the meetings, which is when we're mad about something? I'll fix that! When I get elected, I'll make sure they never make any decisions, so everyone will be happy. A good example is that the council hasn't done anything about the wooden cow, and people are very happy that it's still up there.

In what direction do you see the village headed, and what will be your role in that?

When I'm elected, I'll make sure the village isn't going anywhere. Not too long ago, we tried to move just one house, and the thing got stuck on Middle Street. Can you imagine what it would be like if we tried to move the whole village? Well, I'll put a stop to that right away. It's great right where it is, and we're not moving for anybody.

What goals have you set for your next two years as president?

Setting goals is for football coaches, not presidents.

What key issues do you feel the village will face during your tenure?

This is not a tenured position. You're elected, you serve for a couple of years, and if you don't do a good job, you get booted out. No unions, no guarantees. I can live with that. Besides, it will only take me a couple of years to really fix up the village.

Give me two years, that's all I ask. You won't recognize the place. The only thing is, when I get to be president, and I can sit up there behind the big table with that cool hammer in my hand, I'm going to stop standing on this silly platform because I'm getting tired of lugging it around with me. A vote for Arthur Apollo is a vote for Uncle Apollo. Write in Apollo. I'll see you at the polls Monday.

Planners Run Amok

It was good to see the map of the proposed north area plan published in last week's Standard. The accompanying article related how sketchy this plan is, but it is troubling nevertheless.

One marvels at how far west the M-52 bypass has wandered—over a mile, according to your map—before rejoining at the logical northern junction of Werkner Road. Why is it that such a bypass should plow through farms and neighborhoods when only a "feeder" route is planned to intercept at the industrial park? It seems that this would be the best course for a northern bypass: already developed, more direct, and less costly.

The proposed 10-acre, 100,000-square-foot strip mall at Sibley would rival those at M-52, but whom would it serve?

Experience in planned "greenbelt" zones has shown that these bureaucratic lubricants rarely get built, and even if they are, it is usually an afterthought of skinny yearling trees and hydro-seeding.

Suddenly, the prospect of razing the downtown streetscape to widen M-52 doesn't sound so bad.

Once again, the planners have run amok and need to be reined in. I'll be looking to the March 17 public hearing at Sylvan Township hall to do just that: The danger of amending existing development plans with such a shoddy draft is that it might even get implemented.

Rude Parents and Drop-Off System

I have been a North School parent for six years. In that time I have never attended a PTN meeting. But when a notice came home saying the drop-off and pick-up problem were going to be discussed, I made sure I was there. I and two other non-PTN members attended. I was shocked. I couldn't believe more people weren't concerned. The topic was discussed, and a few ideas were put into action.

1. Absolutely no drop-off in the back (north) parking lot. This is for buses and staff only.

2. Teachers will be parking in the back lot. This will open up more, much needed spaces for parents. So if you need to walk your child to their class, deliver treats, or drop off larger items you will be able to park easier.

3. All children will enter the school through the doors at the west end of the parking lot. Not the doors near the office.

4. The area along the side walk by the tennis courts is now the drop off area for all classes. Now if all parents would comply with this and pull ahead as far as possible, at least 10 cars could drop off at the same time. However you cannot park in this area, and you must encourage your children to exit promptly.

There is one thing we all should be concerned with, and that is our children's safety. The way we have dropped them off in the past has meant a lot of kids walking in the parking lot to get to the west end doors, and that is not safe. What we are trying to now put into effect is to keep them on a sidewalk at all times. It really isn't that much farther for them to walk.

Now I know some kids will not be happy about walking from the tennis courts because it is just to far (my own kids words), but at some point we need to become the parent, and they the child.

Now to the RUDE PARENTS I have had the wonderful opportunity to meet! Lets face it, how many times have our children played in the rain? So if they have to walk (or in most cases run) 200 feet in the rain, I doubt they will get sick.

And the 'I'm already late for work' parents! Is it my fault? Maybe we should leave five minutes earlier.

And the parents who blame it all on the bus situation. I'm 100 percent behind you. However, I alone can not change that problem.

And then that dear parent who just felt like yelling at everyone! SHAME ON YOU! What a wonderful example you set for all the North School students who were being dropped off. Maybe YOU should have attended the meeting, and given us some of your wise advice, since we obviously don't know what we are doing.

I want everyone to know that all the parents who stood out in the rain and the cold were volunteers who want to make it better. If you have any suggestions please voice them at a PTN meeting. But if you aren't willing to get involved, please respect those of us who care.

My only hope, is that in two weeks when we are no longer in the parking lot that our efforts weren't in vain. And keep in mind anything new always takes time to get used to. In order to make this work, we need 100 percent cooperation from parents. As long as one or two break the rules it won't work.

Last but not least. These are my own personal opinions. Not those of the North School staff, or the PTN. I wasn't going to write this because I didn't want it taken out on them. I have always been happy (Jolly) with everything they have done and continue to do. I was just upset with all the parents who have been so rude.

Thank You,
Lou Ann Jolly

The Common Good

For the past year and a half I have served on the Steering Committee of the District Library Study Committee. On Feb. 27, the Chelsea Village Council resoundingly voted no against signing the proposed District Library Agreement (6-1). Without the support of the Village Council, the committee cannot go on to the townships (Dexter, Lima, Lyndon, and Sylvan) to ask for their signatures. Therefore the efforts of the District Library Committee have come to an end.

I would like the residents of the village and the townships to understand the message we received last night. The Village Council voiced several concerns against this agreement.

1. Brian Cashman stated that it was a "moral and character issue." He could not support the formation of a District Library when it went against the wishes of the McKune family heirs.

At the last Village Council meeting, the heirs Sis Kanten and Katie Wagner stated their wish that the library remain a village library only and that the 70 percent of users (township residents) could conceivably pay for their library cards if necessary. (The Ann Arbor Public Library currently charges $100 for an individual out-of-town card and $150 for a family card. Similar fees exist at other area libraries).

2. Frank Hammer voiced the concern that village residents do not want the State Library taking over the McKune Library. The proposed McKune Memorial District Library board would be locally appointed by the five municipalities and be a resident-controlled, autonomous body. There would be no millage without the approval of the voters of all five municipalities.

3. Mr. Hammer also suggested that alternate sources of funding or taxation be explored. Mr. Rigg agreed with this. The library's current budget is about $200,000. About $177,000 of this money is collected from a village-only 2-mill tax. State aid, penal fines, township gifts, Friends of the Library fundraisers, and private donations make up the rest.

If the District Library Agreement had been signed by all five municipalities, the proposed district-wide millage would equal about .7 mills to maintain the library at its current level of service. Village residents would have enjoyed a tax reduction.

4. There cannot be a long anticipated addition to the McKune Library without the ability to seek a district-wide bond issue. Some Village Council members suggested fundraising or donations as a way to increase or maintain the library's budget or fund an addition.

As a means of comparison, the 24 members of the Chelsea United Way board work very hard each year to reach their goal of $106,000 annually. We are not sure where the Council thinks we could find the money for the library addition and increasing operating costs from the community's donation ability each and every year.

5. Mr. Hammer suggested that the townships find a way to tax themselves for a contribution to the Library while the Library would remain under village control. This is called taxation without representation and will never be accepted by the township residents.

6. Other Village Council members suggested that they investigate whether other communities that have become district libraries are happy with the result. Chelsea is surrounded by district libraries—Dexter, Saline, Ann Arbor, Ypsilanti, Jackson County, Brighton, Howell, etc.

Through my work on the former regional library cooperative network I have come to know many of these libraries and I can state that they are enormously pleased with the equitable funding base the district library created and that it has allowed these communities to provide more services and better facilities for their residents.

The McKune Library is faced with greatly increasing circulation each year, demand for more services, overcrowding, and the inability to fund handicap access.

7. Members of the Village Council suggested that the District Library Committee and the Library Board have not sufficiently educated and informed the public about the District Library. In the past few months The Chelsea Standard has printed several in-depth, front-page articles con-

A 45-year-old township woman told a Sheriff's deputy she heard her door bell ring several times at 10:55 a.m. She did not open the door, however, because she thought it might be a Jehovah's Witness. A short time later she heard a noise in her garage. She saw two male suspects enter the garage, so she yelled. The men fled on foot and were not apprehended. Damage to the woman's door is estimated at $25.

Damage to the door is estimated at $50.

Vehicle Fire

A 1990 Ford van sustained $100 in damages Feb. 28 when it caught on fire on westbound I-94 near Fletcher Road, Feb. 28. The fire erupted at approximately 9:30 a.m. Chelsea Fire Department extinguished the flames. The cause was an oil leak.

Freedom Township

Breaking and Entering

Breaking and entering was reported in the 12000 block of Pleasant Lake Road, Feb. 26. A 37-year-old man told a Sheriff's deputy someone kicked in a cellar door and stole several guns from an upstairs bedroom. A 22-caliber six-shot, two rifles and a 20-gauge pump shot gun were stolen between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m. The victim suspects a 33-year-old man he once considered his friend.

Dexter Township

Stolen Vehicle

A 1989 Ford T-Bird was stolen from the 13900 block of North Territorial Road, Feb. 24. A 29-year-old township woman told a Sheriff's deputy the vehicle, valued at $5,000, was stolen between 1 a.m. and 6 a.m.

Breaking and Entering

Breaking and entering was reported in the 12000 block of Island Lake Road, Feb. 28. Dispatch sent an officer to the residence after an off-duty deputy notified the department a break-in had occurred. The deputy was watching his father-in-law's home while the township man was on vacation. Apparently, a burglar entered through a rear door and rummaged through closets. Miscellaneous jewelry was left on a bed and it appeared someone tried to break into a locked desk. Police are awaiting the homeowner's arrival so he can compile a list of any missing items.

Breaking and entering was reported in the 9700 block of Huron River Drive, Feb. 28. A thief stole $1,420 worth of property, including a VCR, telephone, diamond tennis bracelet, diamond ring, pearls, compact disc and cassette player. Damage to a broken door frame is estimated at $250. The break-in occurred between 11:45 a.m. and 3 p.m. It appears chemicals were thrown in the dog's face to distract the pet from guarding the residence.

Dexter Village

Larceny

Larceny was reported at Mill Creek Middle School, Feb. 23. A 32-year-old Dexter man told a Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputy his son's bike was stolen from the school between 8 a.m. and 2:50 p.m. The boy said he parked his 21-speed mountain bike in the rear of the building because he forgot a lock to secure it. The bike is valued at $300. It was recovered March 1 at the school.

Found Property

A 62-year-old Dexter woman and her husband were walking near the corner of Fifth and Dover Streets, Feb. 24, when they found several credit and plastic identification cards on the shoulder of the street. The couple turned the property over to the Sheriff's Department, which contacted the owner. The victim's daughter reported her father lost his wallet at a grocery store in Brighton about a month ago. They reside in South Lyon.

Warrant Arrest

Kathryn A. Hill, 30, of Jackson was arrested on a warrant when a Sheriff's deputy stopped her on Baker Road near Dan Hoey Road, Feb. 28. Hill was wanted on a misdemeanor warrant for retail fraud out of the Michigan State Police Jackson post. She was initially stopped on a traffic violation when a computer check revealed the warrant.

Domestic Assault

Domestic assault and battery was reported at Dexter Bowl 'N Bar, 2830 Baker Rd., March 2. A 27-year-old Dexter woman was transported to Chelsea Community Hospital's emergency room after her ex-boyfriend pushed her to the ground and knocked her unconscious. The suspect, a 32-year-old Scio Township man, arrived at the bar around 12:40 a.m. with his new girlfriend. The woman got out of his vehicle and entered the bar and his former girlfriend jumped in the vehicle. He claims she was upset because he was with a new girlfriend, so she began scratching, hitting and pulling his hair. The man's girlfriend pulled the victim out of the vehicle and the suspect pushed the victim to the ground. The suspect claims the victim faked being unconscious to get attention. He left the scene with the other woman, while his former girlfriend was taken to the hospital by one of her friends. A prosecutor will review the case.

Chelsea Village

Assault and Battery

Assault and battery was reported at Polly's Market, 1101 S. Main Street, Feb. 27. Chelsea Police were dispatched to the store for a fight in progress. Apparently, four teens jumped on the store manager after he asked them to leave. Witnesses say the teens were being disruptive, spewing profanities and harassing employees and customers. The melee broke out at 7:58. The incident involved the store manager, a 21-year-old Jackson man, a 15-year-old Chelsea girl, 15-year-old Chelsea boy, 17-year-old Chelsea boy and 17-year-old Gregory boy. A prosecutor will review the case.

Larceny

Larceny was reported in the 100 block of E. Summit Street, Feb. 28. A homeowner reported holding an open house with approximately 20 people attending Feb. 17-18. During the open house, two rings, valued at $3,100, were stolen from the bathroom or kitchen.

Larceny was reported near Gemini Family Hair Care, 1020 S. Main St., Feb. 28. The owner of Bulldog Cleaners told Chelsea Police he left some equipment unattended and it was stolen a short time later.

A battery charger valued at $350 was stolen from the north side of the Gemini building.

Property Damage

Malicious destruction of property was reported at South School, Feb. 28. A 26-year-old Wayne man, who was playing basketball at the school, told Chelsea Police someone damaged his rental car. The left side door mirror was broken off the 1996 Mercury Sable rented from Stu Evans Lincoln Mercury in Garden City. It appears a blunt object was used to strike the mirror.

Convicted Drunk Drivers Find Habit Very Expensive

A recent Michigan Association of Insurance Companies (MAIC) study found that the principal driver of a 1994 Pontiac Grand Am who is convicted of operating a motor vehicle while impaired (OWI), will pay at least 50 percent more for auto insurance coverage. A conviction for operating under the influence (OUIL) or with an unlawful blood alcohol level (UBAL) will mean an average rate increase of 66 percent — resulting in an annual premium of about $2,828 in Grand Rapids, for example.

"Accidents which result from drinking and driving are very costly," Terry Buckles, president of MAIC, said. "This is reflected in the higher premiums which are charged to motorists convicted of drunk driving."

A driver with a blood alcohol concentration (BAC) of .10 percent is six times more likely than a sober driver to cause an accident, the insurance industry spokesman added. In Michigan, it is illegal to operate a motor vehicle with a BAC of .10 percent. Also, a new law here makes it illegal for minors to drive with a BAC of .02 percent or greater.

Stricter laws and increased publicity about the dangers of drinking and driving have contributed to a decline in Michigan's number of fatal accidents involving alcohol. Still, hundreds of persons are killed and thousands are injured in the state's alcohol-related crashes each year.

In Michigan, state law requires insurance companies to establish a plan for charging higher rates to motorists who have substantially at-fault accidents and/or convictions for driving violations. These extra charges vary by company.

However, individuals convicted of drunk driving normally will not be able to purchase auto insurance from regular insurance companies, Buckles said. Michigan law also permits insurance companies to refuse auto coverage to those with such convictions during the past three years.

Most motorists with drunk driving convictions must obtain insurance from the state's high-risk pool, the Michigan Automobile Insurance Placement Facility (MAIPF). MAIPF is an organization created by state law to provide car insurance to people who cannot obtain or might have difficulty obtaining coverage from regular insurance companies.

The penalties in Michigan for operating while impaired (first offense) may include one or more of the following: a fine of up to $300, court costs, a jail sentence of up to 90 days and up to 45 days of community service. Also, the driver's license can be suspended for 90 days to one year.

Drivers convicted of a first offense for operating under the influence or with an unlawful blood alcohol level may face one or more of the following: a jail sentence of up to 90 days, a $100 to $500 fine, court costs and up to 45 days of community service. They could also face license suspension for a period of six months to two years.

MAIC is a private, non-profit organization funded by 56 property/casualty insurance companies which do business in the state.

The Hotline, initiated in 1979, is a toll-free information and assistance service for Michigan residents. By calling 1-800-777-8005, consumers can get answers to insurance questions and help in resolving problems. The Hotline receives 500-600 calls each month.

GOLF TIP OF THE WEEK

To achieve a more comfortable and consistent set-up, stand behind the ball and determine your target line. Place the clubhead behind the ball, squarely to the ground, along your intended target line. Take your grip and stance without moving the club from the line. This routine will help develop a consistent set-up. Use this method with all your clubs, including the putter.

A Birthday Every Four Years

Chelsea Schools bus driver Carol Sprinkle was born Feb. 29, 1952. Her three children are 19, 14 and 12. Yet last Thursday she celebrated only her 11th birthday.

Because Feb. 29 only occurs during Leap Years, Sprinkle is, technically, younger than any of her children. And last week her co-workers at the bus garage threw a surprise birthday party for their young at heart friend.

Asked what it felt like to be 11, Sprinkle answered with wide-eyed enthusiasm befitting her youth.

"It's kind of neat because I get to drive a school-bus and I'm only 11. The kids didn't think it was fair, but I told them only special people get to drive the bus when they're 11," Sprinkle said.

On Feb. 29 Carol Sprinkle's co-workers at the Chelsea Schools bus garage threw her a surprise party for her 11th birthday. Feb. 29 has occurred just 11 times since 1952.

Key Democrats Call Engler Plan 'Sham'

The 1996-97 education budget presented by Gov. John Engler is a sham and a direct contradiction to the promises he made to the people with Proposal A, two key House Democrats said Thursday.

Under the initial executive office budget as proposed to the House and Senate Appropriations Committees Thursday, educational efforts would receive only a 2.19 percent increase per pupil over current per pupil funding levels. But this represents an actual cut because it fails to keep pace with inflation, even though Management and Budget Director Mark Murray indicated that education would be the Governor's top spending priority.

"If a 2.19 percent increase represents the Governor's top priority, I hate to think of how those areas which are considered the eight or ninth priorities will be treated," Rep. James Agee of Muskegon, Democratic vice-chair of the House Education Committee, said.

"A 2.19 percent increase does not even equate to matching the increase in inflation, and that is what was promised with Proposal A," Rep. Maxine Berman of Southfield, Democratic vice-chair of the House Appropriations K-12 Subcommittee.

Both Democrats also criticized the dramatic cut of $185 million previously allocated to adult education efforts. The Governor recommends moving $85 million to the Jobs Commission, and propping up the foundation grant funding with $15 million formerly spent on adult education, and finally spending $5 million on an apprenticeship tax credit.

"This still leaves $100 million unaccounted for. What could be more important than helping people get their high school equivalencies so they can get jobs?" Rep. Berman said.

Rep. Agee added that districts will also see an increase in their expenses, since the state plans to revise the formula under which pension costs are paid. Currently, payments are amortized over 50 years, but that will be changed to 40 years, meaning districts will have less time to make the same payments. The result, Rep. Agee said, will be an increased cost of .39 percent of payroll.

"Most parents think of the foundation grant as providing all of the state's education funding, but adult education funding provides most of the rest of the money. This proposal represents a huge decrease in the funding for our schools," Rep. Agee said.

In light of the preliminary budget, House Democratic leader Curtis Hertel of Detroit called for the reopening of the Democratic Task Force on Education Standards. He also named Rep. Berman and Rep. Robert Emerson of Flint, who also serves on the K-12 subcommittee, to the special panel.

"What Governor Engler has proposed as a means of improving education is a travesty," Hertel said. "This budget may represent what he intended with Proposal A, but it is not what my Democratic colleagues and I intended. I want the task force to resume public hearings so that his proposal can be carefully explored."

SMOKING AND MOUTH PROBLEMS

What does smoking have to do with teeth? Plenty! Smoking effects your whole mouth.

Smokers have more periodontal (gum) disease than non-smokers. Periodontal disease is the largest cause of adult tooth loss. Smoking can delay healing in your mouth, it is a cause of bad breath. Smoking stains your teeth, making them yellow or brown. Irritants and tobacco smoke attack your taste buds, thus preventing you from fully enjoying foods.

Perhaps the most devastating danger of smoking is oral cancer. Smokers have a four times greater risk of oral cancer than non-smokers. Last year oral cancer struck more than 24,000 people; 8,000 of whom died from it.

You can help prevent almost all of these problems if you don't smoke. The next time you think about lighting up, stop and remember the harmful effects smoking causes in your mouth. For your health's sake—and the comfort of others—don't smoke.

Chelsea

Chelsea Girls Scout Troops celebrated Thinking Day Thursday, Feb. 22. It's a national Girl Scout commemoration of the birthdays of both Lord and Lady Baden-Powell, who introduced scouting in the United States's birthdays. This year's theme focused on what Girl Scouts can do locally to help with global concerns. Recycling, picking up trash, caring for the environment, and smiling were among the ideas presented in skits, rap songs, dances, and poetry. Brownie Troop 1301 from South School is pictured reciting a poem they wrote together. "Recycle, recycle, don't throw it away/ if you want to help to save the day. Recycle, Recycle, pick up the trash/ Take it to a center, you might even get cash. Recycle, Recycle, it's a good deed to do/ it stops the smell and the varmints, too. Recycle, recycle, keep the pollution away/ if we all work together, we'll have a good day. Pictured, from left, are leader Judy Gentz, Amber Hamm, Rachel Gentz, Veronica Laws, Corrie Jaynes, and Laurie Hamm.

Dexter's ReCellular Extends Warranty

ReCellular, Inc. of Dexter has taken a step to become the only remanufacturer of wireless equipment to guarantee its work by extending the warranty for most of its remanufactured cellular phones to three years from one year, effective immediately.

"We have such confidence in the quality of our work that we believe the three-year guarantee is quite frankly the minimum we can offer," said Frank Stoup III, ReCellular's president and chief operating officer. "Our commitment to quality and the way we've done business has allowed us to make this step today and differentiate ourselves from others in the remanufacturing business."

"We believe this will make cellular service providers and users of cellular phones view remanufactured phones as a low-cost alternative where the economics can't support purchasing new equipment," Stoup said.

When a cellular phone is remanufactured by ReCellular it goes through a process that restores it to "like new" functionality and appearance. Once completed, ReCellular sells remanufactured phones and accessories back to domestic and international wireless communications carriers and their authorized agents, dealers and retailers.

Stoup said ReCellular also is extending its product return privilege to 30 days from 15 days, effective immediately.

Since its inception in 1991, ReCellular has remanufactured more than 700,000 cellular phones and batteries, serving some of the nation's largest cellular carriers and dealers.

Senator Proposes Holding Elections Through Mail

State Sen. Alma Wheeler Smith said she will introduce legislation to require that most Michigan elections be conducted through the mail.

"Of all the issues facing us today, public abandonment of our democratic system is to be one of the most pressing," Smith said. "It's simply unacceptable that only 51 percent of our registered voters voted in the last gubernatorial election. We have learned from Oregon's special election last month that voting by mail increases turnout while ensuring a free and fair election. The time has come for Michigan to make this perfectly logical step and welcome more of our citizens back to the political process."

Smith's legislation would require that, beginning in 1997, all balloting for federal, state, judicial, and countywide offices be conducted by mail. Just as voters did in Oregon last month, Michigan voters would receive a ballot in the mail and have a window of time during which they could either mail it back or deliver it in person. In Oregon, 87 percent of voters chose to return their ballots by mail. On election day, city and county clerks would tally the ballots just as they now do with results from voting machines.

"Voter turnout in January's Oregon special election was an extraordinary 66%, despite the fact that special elections usually produce low turnout," Smith said. "I'm convinced that we can boost our voter participation to far above Oregon's level if we make this simple change. The question is not, 'Should we do this?' The question is: 'What has taken us so long?'"

Smith released the results of her inquiry into declining public participation in civic life and the political process. The report is based on a survey of academic writing on this topic, as well as extensive input from community leaders from across Michigan. Voting by mail is just the first of several ideas for increasing people's participation in their government put forward in the report.

Smith's report, entitled "Project 100: Reconnecting Michigan Citizens with their Government," and proposed legislation are the latest examples of a broad effort by Senate Democrats to investigate the real challenges facing Michigan and to put forth solutions.

Smith's legislation will be introduced in the Michigan Senate tomorrow.

Internet Virus Alert

The FCC recently released a warning concerning a matter of major importance to any regular user of the Internet. Apparently a new computer virus has been engineered by a user of America On Line that is unparalleled in its destructive capability.

Other more well-known viruses, such as "Stoned", "Airwolf" and "Michaelangelo" pale in comparison to the prospects of this newest, creation by a warped mentality. What makes this virus so terrifying, said the FCC, is the fact that no program needs to be exchanged for a new computer to be infected. It can be spread through the existing e-mail systems of the Internet.

Once a computer is infected, one of several things can happen. If the computer contains a hard drive, that will most likely be destroyed. If the program is not stopped, the computer's processor will be placed in an n-th-complexity infinite binary loop, which can severely damage the processor if left running that way too long.

Unfortunately, most novice computer users will not realize what is happening until it is far too late. Luckily, there is one sure means of detecting what is now known as the "Good Times" virus. It always travels to new computers the same way in a text e-mail with the subject line reading "Good Times".

Avoiding infection is easy once the file has been received - not reading it! The act of loading the file into the mail server's buffer caused the "Good Times" mainline program to initialize and execute.

The program is highly intelligent. It will send copies of itself to everyone whose e-mail address is contained in a receive-mail file or a sent-mail file. If it can find one. It will then proceed to trash the computer it is running on. The bottom line here is if you receive a file with the subject line "Good Times", delete it immediately. Do not read it. Rest assured that whoever's name was on the "From" line was surely struck by the virus.

Tips For Safe Driving On Fog-Shrouded Roads

Fog may be the stuff of mystery novels and a dream ingredient in shipboard romances, but, says AAA Michigan, it can be a nightmare for the motorist. And no, author Carl Sandburg notwithstanding, it does not come "on little cat feet." It comes when the air cannot hold any more moisture, and this, generally, is late at night or during early morning hours.

Fog can develop anytime during the year in Michigan, but it's more prevalent in the spring and fall, sort of a cloud at ground level, according to the National Weather Service.

Whether starting out in fog, or when it suddenly envelops your car, the key is to slow down, turn your headlights on low beam and, in dense conditions, get off the roadway and into a parking lot or driveway, according to Jerry Basch, AAA Michigan Community Safety Services manager.

Following an investigation of a chain reaction crash involving 99 vehicles on a fog-shrouded Tennessee freeway, the National Transportation Safety Board concluded the primary cause was the varying reactions of the motorists involved.

Some slowed down, and others didn't; some pulled over and others may actually have speeded up.

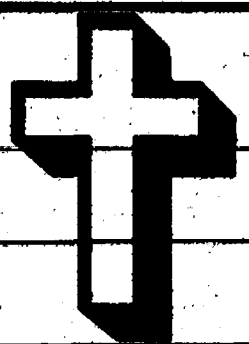

Drivers see things differently in fog, said Basch, noting that motorists in vehicles that sit high off the road tend to drive faster than those close to the ground because they can see more.

But, traffic experts agree, motorists should get far off the road in heavy fog, not just pull off onto the shoulder, which invites being rear-ended by following traffic.

AAA's Basch says to be cautious when you see emergency flashers, which could mean a slow-moving vehicle, a stopped vehicle on the roadway or one at the roadside. Studies indicate that drivers are attracted to lights, such as emergency flashers, and tend to drive into them inadvertently.

"It's been dubbed 'the moth effect,'" he said. "People tend to drive where they're looking." Motorists should drive in fog with the headlights on low beam to minimize reflected glare off the moisture in the air, according to the Auto Club.

Also, your following distance should be increased from the ideal three seconds to four seconds or more. But if heavy fog does not allow distant vision, it's time to get off the road. Another safety tip is to use the right edge of the road as a guide, not the center line, to avoid running into oncoming traffic.

Spiritual Viewpoint

Is Your Name Thomas?

(Thoughts on the Crucifixion and Resurrection)
An Easter Message
By The Rev. Dr. Jerrold F. Beaumont, Vicar, St. Barnabas Episcopal Church

I have often thought we Americans make better Thomases than Pauls or Peters for, you see, we demand proofs which rely on the human senses rather than those undergirded by faith. If we can see, hear, smell, feel or taste something we will cheerfully acknowledge that it is!

When called upon to "take it on faith" we all too often back away with a great deal of mental reservation, we might even treat that statement with the same degree of skepticism we feel when we hear a used car salesman say, "Trust me." "Were you there when they crucified my Lord?" ring out the words of an old refrain and, of course, none of us were there. The song goes on to tell us of other events of those hours and days each bringing us a partial picture of our Lord's life, death and resurrection.

Albert Schweitzer searched for the "Historical Jesus" concluding with the thought that when you have done all the work, you are still confronted with the proposition that either He who walked by the Sea of Galilee was the Son of God or He wasn't.

So, where does that leave you and me — Thomas?

The story, as it unfolds, takes us down the Via Dolorosa, to the Hill, to the nails, to the thrust of the Roman lance, to the death, to the grave, to the visit of women and to the realization that Jesus overcame death and the grave. Finally, Thomas, He acts to confront you and me with His presence in the locked room which sometimes is the locked room of our own minds.

Scholars, theologians, historians, and a myriad of others have attempted (or will attempt) to establish the absolute verity of these events which believers already hold to be true. The chronicling of the events of Holy Week, Good Friday and the Day of Resurrection are all well known to us. We have heard them told and retold from our childhood and, when we were children we did not have any doubt as to their truths. As we grew older, though not necessarily wiser, many of us began to have misgivings as to what proof there could be to verify the "stories."

We might even seek for our answers in the Old Testament and during that seeking read anew the experience of Abraham who was willing to sacrifice his son to God only to find that God provided the lamb for sacrifice. We might then begin to wonder whether or not this was a foretelling of God's provision of Jesus, the Paschal Lamb, to be the sacrifice provided at the propitious time.

Thomas, we sophisticated and educated Americans still have much to learn about accepting God's plan for all people. In the trial, Pilate asks the rhetorical question, "What is truth?" While he didn't recognize it, truth was standing in front of him in the form of Jesus. Unfortunately, so it is often with us, we don't recognize the truth when we are confronted with it.

The Crucifixion is more than just the death of one man on a Roman Cross, it is the death of sin's curse on all people because of God's concern for each of us individually and collectively. The Resurrection is not just a myth circulated to bolster the "new religion", no, it is the elimination of the fear of death and the promise of the Kingdom to which we, who not only profess our faith but live it, inherit as the chosen heirs of the Father.

Thomas, you and I must accept on faith the facts of Cross and Resurrection — life eternal is not genuinely given to us through the grace and the love of God Almighty. We no longer need to reach out our hand to touch — we can honestly say, "My Lord and my God!"

Volunteers Needed For State Fair

The Michigan State Fair is seeking volunteers to join their established volunteer program to help stage the 1996 Michigan State Fair which runs from Aug. 20 through Sept. 2. Volunteers will also be needed for two weeks before the fair opens to help with exhibit entry, answering phones, painting and other errands that will help with the pre-fair set-up. During the fair some of the areas where volunteers will be used to help are:

information booths, telephone information, merchandise sales, parking, runners, food service and general office help.

Volunteers must be 18 years old and the State Fair asks that volunteers donate a minimum of 4 shifts which are 4-6 hours in length. Shift times are flexible for those volunteers who intend to volunteer before or after working at their regular jobs. In return for the gift of donated time, volunteers will receive a free pass and free parking good for every day of the fair, comp tickets for their immediate family, shirts, pins and other perks. Meals are provided for volunteers if they are scheduled to work during lunch and dinner hours.

If you are interested in being a volunteer for the Michigan State Fair, call Julie Ilacqua or Lorne Perry at 313-389-8250 and an application will be sent to you.

Study Suggests Cancer-Causing Chemicals In Foods Minimal

The National Research Council, an agency of the National Academy of Science, has reported that the risk from natural and synthetic cancer-causing chemicals in food is minimal compared to the overconsumption of calories and fat. The council said that cancer-causing chemicals that occur naturally in foods are far more numerous in the human diet than synthetic carcinogens, yet both types are consumed at levels so low that they currently appear to pose little threat to human health.

"I think the report points out that the food here in the United States is generally very safe and nutritious," said Ken Nye, director of commodity activities and research for Michigan Farm Bureau. "The council also points out to consumers that they need to consume a variety of food products and watch what they're eating in terms of dietary and fat content. That's where the overall problems with the American diet are," he said.

The study concluded that a varied and balanced diet that includes fruits and vegetables seems to provide significant protection from the natural toxicants in our foods.

The study was funded by the National Institute for Environmental Health Sciences, the Environmental Protection Agency, the National Cancer Institute, the Food and Drug Administration, the American Industrial Health Council, and the Nabisco Foods Group.

Crop Insurance Closing Date Is March 15

Christine White, acting state executive director, has reminded growers that they need to obtain crop insurance offered under the Federal Crop Insurance Act by the local sales closing date to stay eligible for many USDA farm programs and loans.

Sales closing dates are significant because signing up for insurance, changing the crops insured or changing coverage levels must be done prior to the announced date. The upcoming spring sales closing date in Michigan is March 15. Contact your local Farm Service Agency for further details.

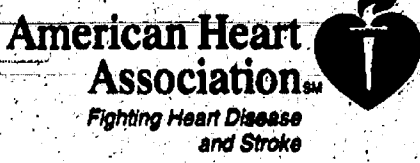

Honey Production Increases

Honey production in Michigan during 1995 totaled 8.9 million pounds, 15 percent more than a year ago, according to the Federal/State Michigan Agricultural Statistics Service. This estimate only included honey from producers with five or more colonies.

Michigan ranked sixth in honey production, up from seventh last year. There were 97,000 colonies in production during 1995, 7,000 more than 1994. Yield per colony averaged 92 pounds, up six pounds from the previous year. This was the highest yield since honey production estimates were resumed in 1986.

Everybody's Science

By Dennis Senft

Scorching heat and scant water that would kill backyard gardens are taken in stride by desert plants, thanks to three types of fungi living on plant roots in the sand.

Plant geneticist Jerry R. Barrow of the U.S. Department of Agriculture identified the fungi. He said it was like coming across lost Mayan ruins.

While the fungi had been there for years, he said, "no one thought they were important enough to unearth and identify." To date, he has analyzed hundreds of roots from desert plants in New Mexico and surrounding states.

Barrow said the fungi safeguard or store limited but vital nutrients in desert grasses and shrubs. He and co-researchers found that the fungi slowly release these nutrients as a survival technique.

"We feel the soil-borne fungi we found form a critical bridge between the plant and the soil in arid environments like we have here," said Barrow, based at an Agricultural Research Service laboratory in Las Cruces, N.M. Annual precipitation averages less than 10 inches a year and temperatures can soar over 100 degrees F.

"We're concentrating our studies on what happens in the root zone - an area that, until recently, had not been extensively researched in arid native ecosystems," said Barrow.

Las Cruces scientists also uncovered bacterial colonies that grow with the fungi on sand particles. It seems the bacteria have the ability to dissolve the sand, release minerals for plant use and generate new soil, Barrow said.

As scientists increasingly understand the interactions among microbes and desert plants, he said, the information can be used to repair arid Southwestern rangeland. Such land has gradually shifted from what's valuable - a mix of grass and shrubs - to land that has fewer grasses and more shrubs.

As a result, he said, cattle and wildlife on thousands of acres now have less forage grasses to graze compared to a century ago. Without adequate grass as a cover, wind and water erosion removes more soil, he noted, and some birds and reptiles have moved to other areas. (Agricultural Research Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture).

Casual Dress Popular Feature

By Debbie Barrow
Extension Home Economist

In a society where denim is a way of life and strangers address each other by first names, it was only a matter of time until casual wear hit the workplace.

During the past five years, casual-dress days have gone from being a West Coast phenomenon to becoming standard practice in two out of three American corporations. Last year, IBM — the ultimate symbol of buttoned-down corporate America — made casual dress days official every day!

Policies differ from company to company. Casual days can occur daily, weekly or seasonally. In some companies, the privilege applies to employee; other companies limit it to certain department. Some companies use casual dress as a reward for meeting business goals or donations to charity. But the question is, what is the impact on the workplace?

A study by Levi Strauss found that 81 percent of white-collar workers who have some casual-dress policy felt it improved morale. This can be important at a time when companies are downsizing and cutting budgets. But better morale doesn't necessarily translate into increased productivity.

Fewer than 20 percent of the survey respondents said it made them work harder or be more productive. On the other hand, casual dress doesn't seem to inhibit growth, either.

One respondent stated that casual Fridays allowed her to take care of tasks that she couldn't do in her suits, such as "printer maintenance or going through bookshelves full of magazines," but she also felt that colleagues tended to take more breaks on casual days, turning a casual day into a half-day.

Some people firmly believe that people act the way they dress — that is, you act more businesslike in a suit than in jeans and a sweater. Others, such as Allan Cohen, an organizational behavior expert at Babson College, warns against attributing too much behavior, positive or negative, to dress. He feels that casual dress "consistent with making organizations more spontaneous, open, fast and flexible," but he doesn't believe that new outfits can transform office relationships. "Khakis won't make a forbidding personality more approachable," he says. To get the maximum effect, informality has to be more than a window dressing.

As the debate continues, one thing is certain — casual-dress days win near-unanimous employee approval. At Master Card in New York, employees report that they look forward to Memorial Day — the start of the summerlong casual-dress policy.

The business suit still has its defenders, however. Some companies thrive on formality, with traditional suits signaling seriousness of purpose. Law firms are a prime example.

Other detractors say that casual dress doesn't always make things simpler. For example, what exactly does "business-casual dress" mean? Apparel industry insiders use the term "casual business-wear" to mean khakis, sweaters, turtlenecks and polo shirts, and "casual dress" for sneakers, jeans, T-shirts and shorts. But every company has a different interpretation. Many companies leave it up to the employees to figure it out and then find it necessary to spell out what's acceptable after some people get too relaxed.

Interestingly, men suffer from dress-down anxiety more than women, probably because women already own a lot of separates. Women's problems seem to center around appearing too provocative.

Sunday Was Busy For Young Women

Church was at one time the center of social life for young men and women.

Mrs. Hoag's Sunday school class for young ladies of the Chelsea Congregational Church (1887-88-89) appear in this very well-preserved photograph by Shaver. Top row left to right: Ada Gorton (Chadwick), Jennie Irwin (Nelson), Nettie Winans (Brown), Cora Gorton (Croman), Myrtle Spaulding (Everett), Miss Millie Heffer, Nell Maroney, Mrs. Hoag (teacher); bottom row, Ida Speer (Webster), Alma Baldwin (Sibley) and Allie Smith (Winans).

On Sunday young men and women in the village spent a lot of time walking around "the square", meeting the "Grand Rapids" (a train at the depot), meeting their friends as they traveled to and from church, "strolling" through the cemetery (the vault was one place to congregate) and called on young friends in the village. The church offered meetings throughout the day and evening. There were "socials" to attend where they could meet people their own age.

These are two diary entries from the one-year diary of Ida (Speer) Webster who lived on Orchard St. Her writings are probably typical of the lives of young women at that time.

Sunday, April 5, 1891: "Got up as the first bell was ringing for church (nine o'clock). Did my work up and then went & got ready for Sunday School. Made a chicken pie for dinner & then I got ready and went down to Nell's. Stayed there all the afternoon and then came up and I got my cloak. We went to church and prayer meeting. Webster was not there to go home with me.

May 5, 1891: "I did my ironing this fore noon and it took me all the fore noon. In the after noon went down town to Mr. Cole's dress making shop and picked out a new dress. Went up to the shop to see Nell and was there until pretty much supper time. Came home and did my supper and put up my winter clothing. Went up to meet Nellie and she got ready and we went to the Baptist Convention. We got tired and came home before it was out. A big crowd of strangers here and I expect they will have a big time."

The Baptist church once stood where Chelsea State Bank is at Orchard and Main.

Throughout the year, Ida made a few quilts, did fancy work on pillow shams, made a new shopping basket with "rope," a handkerchief box and footstool for Webster, traveled to camp by train with her church group, gathered nuts in a park with her "old man" (boyfriend), went on a few buggy and sleigh rides, and became engaged to George Webster, a tailor in the village.

Chelsea State Bank Competes In Era of Financial Consolidation

By Scott Bishop
Staff Writer

In an era of corporate consolidation and increasing competition in banking, Chelsea State Bank is nearing its 100th anniversary with its commitment to the community intact.

The bank traces its roots back to 1897, when Kempf Commercial & Savings Bank earned its charter. In the nearly 100 years since, community banks like Chelsea State Bank have become more and more a rarity.

Since 1984 the number of different state and national banks in Michigan has been more than cut in half by mergers and consolidations.

And, according to Chelsea State Bank President John Mann, that's not the only way the banking market has changed.

"Nowadays, our competition isn't just other banks. It's the stock market, it's brokers, it's mutual funds, it's insurance companies. They compete for our funds for deposits. So when you have people, instead of putting their money in the bank in a savings account, they put it into a mutual fund or into the stock market. We compete with that," Mann explained.

While conceding that riskier ventures like the stock market have their proper place in the financial world, Mann contends that banking at Chelsea State Bank serves a need on the other end of the spectrum.

Asked why customers use the Chelsea bank, Mann drew a contrast to more venture-some investment.

"For safety and soundness issues. For peace of mind, if

The Kempf Bank renovated this building and opened its doors in 1897. Nearly 100 years later, Chelsea State Bank traces its roots back to this 19th century birth-place.

you will. You know that when you put the money in the bank that it's safe. In your principal and interest you're not at risk. Put the money in the stock market, it could go up, it could go down. That's how we compete, by saying we're a safe bank. You don't have to worry about the value of your investment, the value of your savings. It's always there," Mann answered.

Chelsea State Bank's reputation is strong, Mann said, explaining that an independent agency named it one of 29 "Blue Ribbon" banks in the nation, based on its long-term safety record. "That's a real accomplishment. We're one of the top 29 banks in the country, based on that particular rating," he said.

Crediting both a history of prudent management and the support and vitality of the Chelsea area, Mann outlined how Chelsea State Bank has maintained its independence despite stiff competition.

"I like to say as a community bank we're locally owned, locally operated, locally managed. We're closer to our customers and we care about Chelsea and we care about our customers. We participate in community activities, we're involved from our directors to our officers and employees. We're involved in the community," Mann explained.

Though a community focus is important to the success of Chelsea State Bank, Mann knows that customers demand more for their loyalty.

"It's not enough to say, hey, we're locally owned, we're locally operated, bank with us because of that. It's not enough. We still have to provide quality service and quality products. And I think we've done that. But it's certainly a continual challenge," Mann concluded.

Village Considers SEMCOG

At its Feb. 27 meeting, the Chelsea Village Council listened to Southeast Michigan Council of Governments representative Pauline Mengelbier pitch SEMCOG membership to Chelsea.

The organization is a regional planning partnership, assisting local governments by giving them access to a voluminous database of social, economic, population and transportation data, providing technical assistance and other services.

Mengelbier stressed the organization's ability to assist inter-governmental action. "We feel the only way you can do it is to do it together," she said, adding that 16 governmental units in Washtenaw County already participate.

Membership would cost Chelsea $750 annually.

The council gave no indication of when it will accept or decline SEMCOG membership.

Village Manager Jack Myers, while noting that the organization could provide useful information, questioned paying the membership fee if a small village staff wasn't able to utilize that data to its full extent.

Chelsea Hospital Wants Clinic in Dexter

By Michelle Rogers
Associate Editor

A proposal by Chelsea Community Hospital to construct a medical clinic on Dexter Community Schools' campus has made its way back to the board of education for consideration.

Chelsea Community Hospital President Willard H. Johnson has asked Dexter Community Schools Board of Education to reconsider selling a two-acre parcel on Dan Hoy Road. The site is located between the playground at Cornerstone Elementary School and a nearby cemetery.

The school board tabled Johnson's request until negotiations to purchase land for new facilities are complete.

At issue are whether the board wants to sell the small parcel and whether it wants medical offices on the district's campus.

"I really felt it was legitimate to look at again in view of our continued growth and need for more land," said board president Paul White. "I am not saying there aren't other suitable possibilities."

The board briefly discussed its desire to list the land for sale on the open market if it does decide to sell it. The board also grappled with what it would do if another entity made a higher offer and whether it could restrict development of the site.

Trustee Ann Davis, also an employee of Chelsea Community Hospital, asserted the advantages of a medical clinic to the community. Among other things, Davis pointed out the school land is already taken off the tax rolls and wherever the clinic is located it would not pay property taxes because of its non-profit status. Since Chelsea Hospital owns land in the Dexter Business and Research Park and is considering locating the facility there, Davis said it would be better to locate the facility on land already tax exempt, rather than eat up more village property.

The board also discussed the need to pass a bond issue for more land. If a request fails, trustee Sherri Munson said the district may need the two-acre site for construction or to sell to finance land acquisition.

"We're not saying no," said trustee Brian Atkinson. "It might be in our best interest if we don't commit ourselves. The spirit is nobody's opposed."

Trustee Jean Christian added, "I think that there is some advantages, but I agree I would rather get a better feel of what's going on. I feel there are too many ifs in the air."

"We're interested in talking, but we need to see how our land acquisition goes," White said.

The hospital's proposal will not be presented to the board again until the district secures land and superintendent Dr. John Hansen investigates the possibility of a deed restriction on the two-acre site.

Chelsea Community Hospital and the University of Michigan have proposed a joint effort to construct a medical facility in Dexter. Representatives from the hospital have worked with Dexter Area Chamber of Commerce, the Downtown Development Authority and village council to investigate alternative sites.

At one point, a proposal to place the clinic next to Dexter Family Physicians was considered. The hospital, however, was unable to secure neighboring land.

Johnson writes in his letter to the school board that Dexter Family Physicians would be the clinic's core group and a health care provider located on campus would be beneficial to the community.

Timbertown Looks At Utilities

Utilities is a major concern for the Timber Town Playground. This came to light when Timber Town committee members Julie Rutherford and Jim Myles met with village officials.

Acknowledging that the Timber Town playground will encompass only a small area of the over-all park, the Village cannot determine the exact locations and needs of utilities on the site until the entire park is further developed.

In that light, the Village has offered to provide temporary access to water and electric for the playground while under construction. Also offered was safety equipment on an availability basis. Village equipment, if available, can be used providing authorized operators will donate their time.

Timber Town playground is a major community volunteer-based project that will be located inside the Dana Park recreational site off Sibley Road. The construction of the playground will be done by volunteers of all ages from the community. This will all be accomplished over five days starting June 12 and finishing June 18.

Much of the site work to date has been accomplished through the efforts of the Village. Village Public Works Supervisor Dave Bulson and Council members have approached various suppliers and contractors to assist in any way they can toward this project.

Through their efforts contractors such as Jamie and Don Bollinger of Bollinger Sanitation have stepped forward, donating manpower and equipment to develop the entrance and parking area to the park.

Stone has been donated through suppliers such as Thompson-McCully Company, Chelsea Aggregate, Barrett

Paving and engineering by Testing Engineering Consultants. Many more have already committed material, time, money and equipment to this project.

However, much more will be needed and the Timber Town committee is grateful for any help from anyone.

Varsity Cagers Finish Strong

Chelsea Bulldogs won their sixth and seventh consecutive games last week to nail down second place in the South-eastern Conference and head into district play with heavy momentum. Tuesday night, the Bulldogs beat Ousted in the opening round of district play, 79-71.

Chelsea staged a dramatic comeback to win a Tuesday, Feb. 27 game with Madison Heights Bishop Foley.

Playing on their home court, the Bulldogs trailed 50-46 in the closing moments before five clutch free-throws, two by Kevin Holmes and three by Scott Colvin, left the score dead-locked at 51-51.

With just 0:09 to play, Chelsea's Nick Brink took an inbound pass and rushed up the court. He was fouled with 0:02.5 and made the game-winning free-throw.

Brink led the scoring with 19 points, while Holmes and Colvin scored 11 each and Kevin Cross eight.

Friday, March 1 was Parents' Night. Before they hosted Pinckney, Bulldog seniors Brink, Colvin, Cross, Holmes, Damon McLaughlin and Sam Morseau were introduced along with their parents.

After trailing at half-time, Chelsea forged a lead in the third-quarter and held on for a 55-50 win.

"I think we were more intense in the third-quarter than we were in the first half. We seemed to be a step slow in the first-half, kind of chasing Pinckney, they controlled the game. In the third-quarter we got a couple of steals and controlled the backboards. Once we got the lead and the momentum changed, then we had control and they were chasing us," explained Chelsea coach Robin Raymond.

Raymond pointed to a key sequence when Chelsea underscoring its control of the tempo. On two possessions the Bulldogs threw 24 combined passes and each time came away converting a high percentage shot.

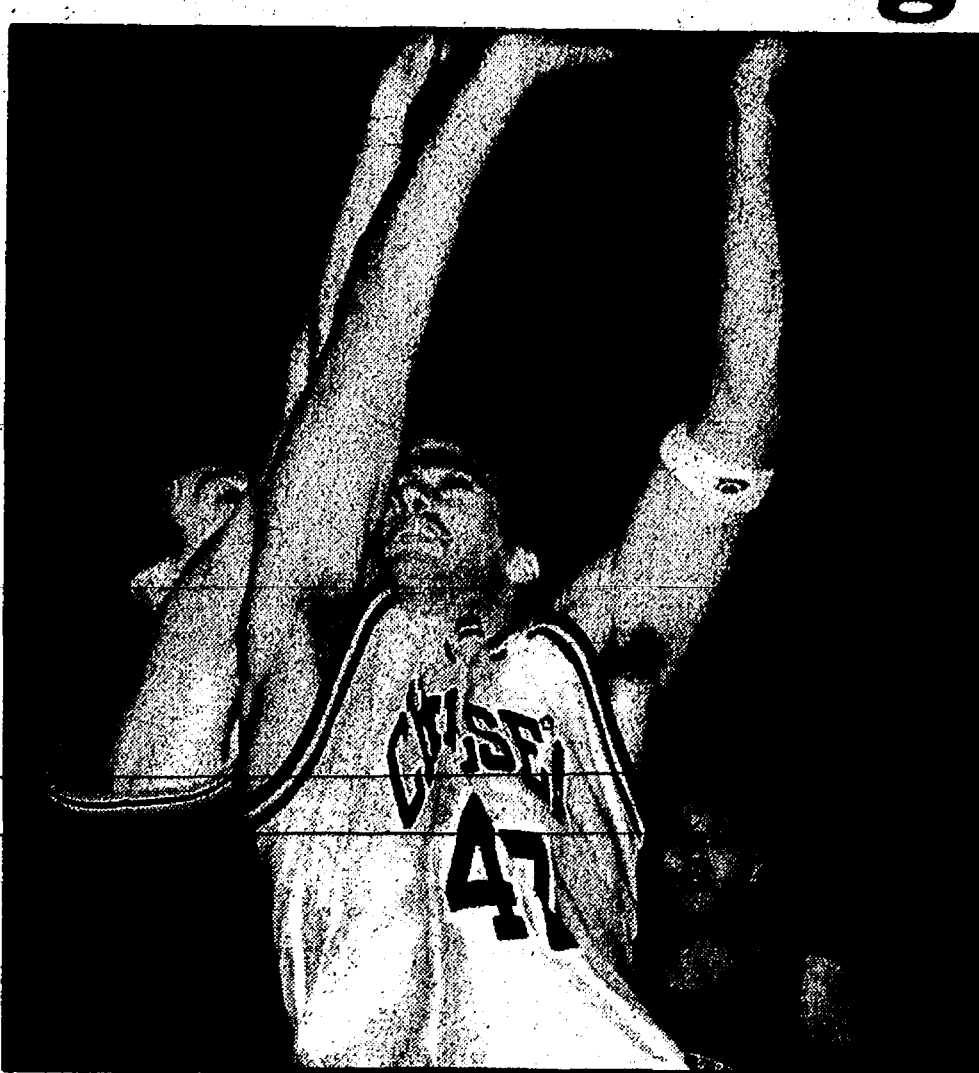

Holmes scored 17 points, Brink and Colvin 13 apiece and Cross eight.

Paul Bragalone was one of the unsung heroes late in the game as he hit a key baseline jumper and stole a rebound off a missed Chelsea free throw to allow the Bulldogs to maintain possession with a slim lead.

The seven-game winning streak gave Chelsea a 12-8 overall record and 7-5 SEC mark heading into district play this week.

Raymond said Chelsea owed its late-season success to teamwork.

"I've been very pleased

Scott Colvin drives hard for a key layup late in the game against the Pinckney Pirates last Friday.

with the way the kids have played the last seven or eight games. I think we've become a team in the true sense of the word. We're passing the ball very well, our defense is solid and our rebounding is solid. We control the game.

"Almost every game has been close. We don't have blowouts but we're playing so well as a team that we really have controlled the fourth quarters. I think that's why we've been successful," Raymond explained.

Nick Brink has the ball batted away underneath the Chelsea basket during last Friday's victory over the Pinckney Pirates. It was the final home game of the season.

Volleyball Team Falls In District Semi-finals

Chelsea Bulldogs volleyball team bowed to Brooklyn Columbia Central in the district semi-finals last week to conclude their season.

Chelsea played BUC on Central's home court and lost in two games, 7-15, 11-15.

"We were in the games but we were never quite on track," said Chelsea coach Dan Montgomery.

"We did not play up to our potential."

Junior Erin Montgomery led the Bulldogs with eight kills on 23-24 attacks.

Heidi Wehrwein and Melissa Carty each had five kills, Heidi Kemnitz had two kills, and Carrie Buss had one kill.

Alicia Vogel was 8-8 in serving, Liz Holdsworth was 7-7, and Holdsworth and Montgomery each had two aces.

Sara Petty and Wehrwein each had one ace.

The Bulldogs were led defensively by Buss and Montgomery, who each had eight digs. Petty had seven digs, Jennifer Space six, Holdsworth five, Kemnitz four, Carty and Wehrwein three each, and Kasie Ruhlig had one.

Other members of the team included Jessica Forshee, Shannon Long, Sarah Metzler, and Hilarie Szczygiel.

Chelsea finished with a 16-14 record over-all and a 7-5 mark and second-place finish in the Southeastern Conference.

For seniors Buss, Wehrwein, and Kemnitz, it was the final game of their high school careers.

Montgomery said he feels good about next year's team.

"Next year, we should do well," he said.

JV Basketball Closes Season

Following an intersquad scrimmage on Tuesday, Feb. 27, the Bulldogs finished the season hosting a strong Pinckney team Friday, March 1.

Chelsea hung within striking distance until late in the game, trailing by seven with 2:30 left. Pinckney expanded the margin in the final minutes for a 61-45 victory.

"We played pretty well. They just out-played us," summed up Chelsea coach Mark Scheese.

Chris Herter scored nine points while Adam Erskine and Matt Adams contributed eight apiece to a balanced Bulldog offense.

Chelsea finished its season with an overall record of 6-13, and 3-9 in the SEC.

Frosh Save Best Play For Last

Chelsea freshman Bulldogs played their final game of the season Monday, Feb. 26. They hosted Lincoln, who defeated them handily earlier in the season.

Chelsea turned the tables in the season finale, however, downing Lincoln 59-51.

"The big difference was we played our best game of the year," said Chelsea coach Kyle Plank.

Mike Holloway scored eight of his 17 points in the fourth quarter, and Aaron Ruhlig added 11 points, making 7-8 free-throws.

The Bulldogs finished with a 8-11 record.

Fitness Focus For Women's Club

Woman's Club of Chelsea began its Feb. 27 meeting with a delicious luncheon served at Chelsea Community Hospital. There were 19 members present.

Following the luncheon, President Shirley Smith presided over a short business meeting.

Guest speaker for the day, Cynthia Cole, was introduced by Janet Fuls. Cole is a graduate of University of Michigan. She is employed by Chelsea Community Hospital and directs the Cardiac rehabilitation program at the hospital along with the senior fitness program.

Both of these programs administer aerobic exercises on a variety of exercise equipment. A referral from a physician is required before anyone can participate. The Cardiac rehab program serves to monitor patients health status following heart attacks. It also serves patients who are at a high risk of heart disease by detecting problems before they happen.

The senior fitness program is a twice weekly program designed to help people over 50 lead more productive and healthy lives. The program includes aerobic exercises and also monitors blood pressure and heart rates.

Cole stressed the many benefits derived from a regular fitness programs, some of which include reducing cholesterol, hypertension, blood glucose and also weight loss. The program ended with members participating in a demonstration of some of the exercises involved.

The club's next meeting will be held on Tuesday, March 26 at McKune Library. Chelsea native George Winans will be guest speaker with a program "Choosing Good Jewelry". Guests are most welcome. For further information you may call 475-8820 or 475-7591.

Sylvan Township Board Meeting

The regular board meeting of the Sylvan Township Board was held February 5, 1996 at 7 p.m. in the Sylvan Township Hall, 112 W. Middle Street, Chelsea, MI 48118. The following board members were present: Supervisor Dresselhouse, Clerk Koch, Treasurer Pearson, Trustee Heller and Trustee Lesser.

Also present was Charles Burgess, Steve Eusades, Mark Heydlauff, Mr. Smith, and Michael Contefanti.

Minutes were approved as presented.

Motion by Pearson, supported by Koch to pay bills as presented. Carried.
Kristen Reeder and Bob Berg were present representing the Chelsea Recreation Council at the request of the Board from the January meeting. Reeder explained the history and the formation of the council and presented the Board with the Ordinance and Bylaws. An accurate count of participants from Sylvan Township was requested but not received. Discussion was held regarding the specific activities offered and their fees for both contributing and noncontributing Townships. Reeder informed the Board that the Recreation Council has decided to accept one-half of the requested contribution from Sylvan Township for 1996-97. That would mean only a $3.00 discount for Sylvan Township residents versus $6.00 if the entire contribution was paid. Due to the lack of time for the Board to review the information received (the ordinance and bylaws were to be submitted prior to the meeting) and the lack of information needed, the board will not take any action on the contribution until the March 5, 1996 Board meeting. Reeder will provide information requested before the March meeting.

Steve Eusades, Mark Heydlauff and Mr. Smith were present regarding Witness Tree Lane. Discussion was held regarding reports from Midwestern Consulting and Northwest Design Group. The Board supported the recommendation from Midwestern Consulting and took no action. The Board further indicated that prior to any additional reviews being done by our Engineer or other consultants, a deposit to cover these costs be supplied.

Zoning Inspector Burgess reported 6 blight, 2 building violations, 2 waivers and 3 permits issued in January.

The status of the District Library was discussed. The Village of Chelsea has not made a decision regarding the District Library and Lyndon Township has told the district Library Planning Committee that no action will be taken until the Area-Wide Fire issue is resolved. The Board had favorable comments but will take no action until the Village makes a decision and the Fire Department issue is resolved.

Motion by Lesser, supported by Heller, for the Election Commission to appoint the Election Inspectors for the March 18, 1996 Election. Carried.

The Salary Resolution for 1996-97 was presented to the Board. Motion by Heller, supported by Pearson, to adopt Resolution. Roll call vote, all ayes. Carried.

Public Acts 280 and 286 were presented to the Board regarding Credit Cards. PA 280 authorizes local units of government to accept payments by credit card upon adopting a resolution. PA 286 allows local units to enter into credit card arrangements for official business after adopting credit card policy by resolution. However, the Board noted that most credit card companies charge a fee for their services and that fee cannot be passed on to the cardholder. Motion by Lesser, supported by Pearson to not pass a resolution on either PA 280 or PA 286 and not allow the use of credit cards. Carried.

Motion by Heller, supported by Pearson, to adopt Nuisance Exemption Ordinances for 1996. Carried.

The Washtenaw County Road Commission annual meeting is February 8, 1996 at 1 p.m. at the Road Commission.

Motion by Lesser, supported by Pearson, to adjourn.

Foster Care Board Seeks Volunteers

State Court Administrative Office of the Michigan Supreme Court is seeking volunteers to serve on the Washtenaw County Foster Care Review Board.

The Michigan Legislature established the Foster Care Review Board Program in 1984 in an effort to improve children's foster care programs through the state utilizing citizen review boards.

The five-member board meets one day each month to review a representative sample of cases of children who have been removed from their homes and placed in foster care due to abuse or neglect. At these reviews, board members interview parents, foster parents, caseworkers, attorneys, and other interested parties who may be involved in planning for the ward. Advisory recommendations are formulated and mailed to the court, child welfare agency, prosecuting attorney, parents, and other interested parties. The purpose of the review is to insure that all agencies, including the court, have established a plan for the ward and progress is being made toward achieving permanency. The Foster Care Review

Boards are comprised of citizens who reflect a broad cross section of their communities. Minorities and men are especially encouraged to apply. The Program is seeking volunteers who have demonstrated leadership in other settings. Employees of the Department of Social Services, juvenile court, or private child placement agencies are prohibited by law to serve on Foster Care Review Boards.

Each volunteer who is selected must attend a two-day orientation training in Lansing in the Spring. Also, board members attend yearly training which is held in different locations throughout the state. Expenses for training are reimbursed.

Citizens interested in volunteering for the Washtenaw County Foster Care Review Board should call (517) 373-4835 for an application. The deadline for receiving applications is March 31. Interviews with prospective candidates will take place in the Spring.

Unusual, Extraordinary, Fun Farm Facts

Until recently, barley has mainly been of interest to beer drinkers. But now the health-conscious may have an extra reason to pay attention to barley, because new research from the Department of Agriculture has found that barley may inhibit the body's production of cholesterol, similar to the effect provided by oats.

Michigan vegetable growers produced 832,000 tons of fresh market and processing vegetables last year. That was a 7 percent drop from the previous year, mostly because of cool spring weather and hot humid conditions in the summer. California was the leading fresh market vegetable state last year, accounting for nearly half of the nation's production.

Major developments in a variety of production areas have increased the efficiency of farming, making American food production one of the wonders of the world. For example, advances in plant breeding have helped reduce the uncertainty associated with crop growth. Today's farmer can select from seed varieties that are bred to grow stronger stalks to reduce damage from hail and strong winds and exhibit few ill effects from insect and disease attacks.

The United States exported approximately $1.1 billion worth of fresh vegetables last year, an increase of 17 percent from 1994. The top 10 list of fresh vegetables shipped overseas in 1995 is: lettuce, onions, tomatoes, broccoli, asparagus, cauliflower, peppers, celery, carrots and cucumbers. The number one importer of U.S. vegetables last year was Canada, followed by Japan, Mexico and Europe.

Plant explorers who collected more than 60,000 apple seeds from rare, wild trees in Central Asia last summer say the material contains a potential genetic bonanza for breeders looking for better flavor, disease resistance and other traits. The trip was the third in a series to Central Asia, where the modern apple is thought to have originated.

A study at Penn State University found that iron from food sources like meat has more value to the body than iron from vitamin supplements. Lean meat apparently enhances iron absorption in the body.

Building materials made with cornstarch turn out to be more than insect pests can chew. Scientists found that polystyrene foam made with 10 percent corn starch is cheaper to produce. And they've now determined, to their relief, that the cornstarch foam holds no special attraction to insects.

It won't be long before maple syrup season starts in Michigan. People have been collecting the sweet, clear liquid from maple trees for centuries, but no one knows for sure why sap flows out of the trees. The best theory is that below-freezing temperatures cause sap to freeze and make gases in the wood just under the bark squeeze together. These leaves room for more water, which is absorbed from the ground and into the tree by suction. The extra water then mixes with the sap already in the tree. When warm weather returns and the sap melts, there is too much water in the tree and people can drain it out to make syrup.
