Sylvan Township Considers Buying Development Rights

By Scott Bishop
Staff Writer

A recently updated long range plan adopted by the Sylvan Township Planning Commission calls for purchasing the development rights of two large tracts of agricultural land within the township. The purchases would be funded either through a township millage or special assessment. Affixing a millage would require a vote of township residents. No vote is necessary for a special assessment, but a series of public hearings is required.

However, Sylvan Township Supervisor Jerry Dresselhouse took pains to explain that the strategy of purchasing development rights was a preliminary and speculative measure, a "planning tool" that would only be implemented with the approval of township residents.

The planning commission document proposes purchasing the development rights of two areas, both roughly 2,250 acres, both primarily used for agricultural use. They are located in the southeast and southwest corners of the township.

"The areas will be preserved by purchase of development rights (PDR) of the farm lands in the two areas. It is intended that Sylvan Township hold the development rights. Land in these areas may be bought and sold as before, but division of land into lots for purposes of construction of houses or other non-agricultural uses should not be permitted," the report states.

The report includes exceptions, making room for residents who currently own homes in the two areas.

Also, provisions are made for limited future housing development.

"Each operating farm, as of the adoption of this plan, should be permitted to divide one lot per each 60 acres in the farm, for the purpose of a non-farm residence. Such a division is intended primarily to provide a residence for a member of the farm owner's family but should not be so limited," the plan reads.

Additionally, Dresselhouse explained that if the PDR strategy were implemented, it could be revoked in the future by a vote of township residents.

The Sylvan Township Board will conduct a public hearing on the proposed long range plan Monday, July 8.

Dresselhouse observed that the PDR strategy is widely recognized and endorsed by several state and county agencies. Peninsula Township in Grand Traverse County has implemented a PDR program.

A recent poll of Superior Township residents, in eastern Washtenaw County, found that 61 percent of 300 registered voters polled would support a 2-mill tax for ten years to preserve farmland and natural areas through PDR. Dresselhouse described how the idea came about in Sylvan Township.

"The planning commission is looking at what they would like to see the township look like in the future. That's the purpose of this master plan."

"The planning commission sort of likes Chelsea with its openness, etc. Is there some way we can preserve some of that? So that's how it started," Dresselhouse said.

He cited a recent University of Michigan study indicating that residential development did not ultimately pay for itself as another reason for pursuing PDR, saying it would help preserve low tax rates for township residents.

"Housing does not provide enough taxes to cover the cost of services that are required."

"So growth in the township does not mean it's going to be cheaper (to live there). In fact, it's going to cost us all more," Dresselhouse explained.

The same study indicated that commercial and industrial development would raise more money in taxes than they would require in services.

Outlining the purpose of pursuing PDR, Dresselhouse carefully stopped short of saying it was a means to controlling growth.

"That's what occurs from PDR, but is the reason you do it to control growth, or is it to preserve agricultural land?"

"The reason this planning

Village Out of Property Suit, Township Not

By Scott Bishop
Staff Writer

Chelsea Village has been dismissed from a lawsuit alleging it conspired with Lima Township to illegally exclude a mobile home development. The township, however, was not dropped from the suit last week.

Last year, developers Steve Tracy, Phil Jenkins and Martin Merkel originally sought to have 157 acres, most of it in Lima Township and located along Chelsea-Dexter Road to the north of Freer Road, annexed into the village with the intention of having it rezoned for a mobile home development.

They then withdrew their annexation request and sought rezoning from Lima Township.

While the township was reviewing the request, the village annexed 95 acres of the property, leaving 40 acres in Lima Township.

The township then denied the rezoning request, saying that the original petition requesting rezoning of the larger parcel was no longer appropriate, since only 40 acres remained, and the developers would need to reapply for rezoning of solely that 40 acre parcel.

Last fall, Tracy, Jenkins and Merkel filed suit in Washtenaw County Circuit Court, charging Chelsea Village and Lima Township with conspiracy to exclude a mobile home development. The case is being heard by Judge Betty Widgeon.

Earlier this year, attorneys representing the defendant municipalities filed separate motions for summary disposition.

Meanwhile, the plaintiff developers filed an amended complaint, charging denial of due process, temporary taking, exclusionary zoning, and seeking injunctive relief from the alleged village/township conspiracy.

The court ruling on the respective motions was released Tuesday afternoon, May 28. Widgeon found that only the final count of the amended complaint applied to the village.

She ruled that the plaintiffs had no standing to block the annexation, and thus denied the final count of the amended complaint. Widgeon granted Chelsea Village's motion for summary disposition, effectively dropping it from the case.

Village Manager Jack Myers expressed relief that the village was dropped from the suit.

"I feel that it's wonderful that the village was granted the summary disposition. We won't have this hanging over our heads," Myers said.

He said that village legal costs for the case would be covered by Meadowbrook Insurance, after Chelsea Village paid the $1,000 deductible to activate its policy.

Developers Tracy, Jenkins and Merkel filed, before the recent court decision, a petition to rezone 117 acres within Chelsea, including the 95 annexed last fall, to allow for a mobile home development.

The Chelsea Planning Commission will hold a public hearing on the rezoning request at its June 18 meeting.

Myers was noncommittal as to how the village might consider the rezoning proposal.

"The only thing I can say is that the (village's) long range plan has that property (slated) for low-density housing," Myers added.

School Election Set for Monday

Monday, June 10, voters in the Chelsea School District will select two School Board members to replace long-time incumbents John Eisenbeiser and Joseph Redding, who are not seeking re-election.

Eisenbeiser, who has served on the board for eight years, was first elected in 1988 and re-elected in 1992.

Redding was appointed to the board in 1983, then won elections in 1984, 1988 and 1992.

Jill Taylor, Scott Broshar, Robert Turner II and Anne Williams are the four candidates for the two openings.

Taylor, 41, has lived in the community for 13 years. She's previously taught in Texas, California and Chelsea.

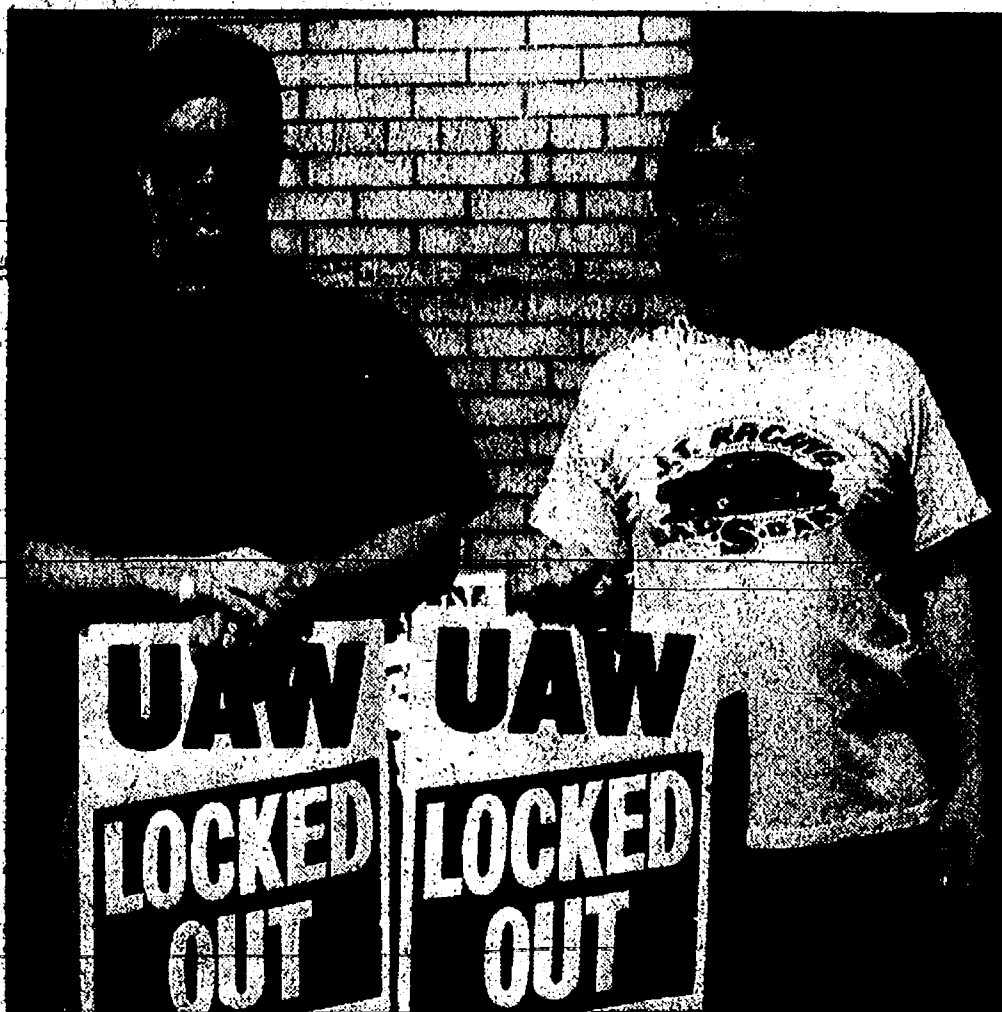

Broshar, 41, has lived in the Chelsea area for seven years and is the owner of Absolute Title, and Ann Arbor based insurance company.

Turner, 39, has lived in the community most of his life and owns Turner Electric Services in Dexter.

Williams, 38, has lived all of her life in the Chelsea area, owns Divine Productions, a local multi-media company, and works as an engineering supervisor for Chrysler in Auburn Hills. She ran unsuccessfully for the School Board in 1993.

Ballots can be cast from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. in the Beach Middle School Large Group Instruction room.

There are no millage issues on the ballot.

—Month-Long Labor Dispute—

Employees at Federal Screw Works in Chelsea went on strike May 1. A few days later, according to plant UAW representative Steve Kincer, the workers were locked out. Saturday, June 1, Federal Screw workers Jay Spence and Eric Corser were picketing outside the plant, still protesting the the shutdown.

School Officials Outline Vision for Present Chelsea High School Site

Members of the Chelsea School Board and Chelsea administrators used an informal meeting Monday night, June 3, to begin deciding how the current high school building and facilities will be used when a new high school opens in the fall of 1998.

Chelsea Superintendent Ed Richardson made clear that the meeting was a preliminary and speculative one, designed to give some direction to a committee headed by Community Education Director Jeff Rohrer. That committee will eventually present a use plan for School Board approval.

Richardson and School Board President Jane Diesing repeatedly urged the board to offer Rohrer direction on foundational questions.

For example, was the goal for hiring out the facilities to make a profit that could be used to support regular school activities, strictly to support educational activities, or to achieve some balance between the two?

While there was general consensus that the facility should be used so as to be economically self-sufficient, Diesing sought to temper talk of financial profits.

"I'd hate to see us get so caught up in making a profit that we lose sight of (educational purposes)," she said.

Group discussion ranged over issues like the cost of upkeep of the different buildings, possible need to reserve space for expanding student or administrative needs, and the overall philosophy of profit versus non-profit, offering short or long term leases, and weighing school versus wider community uses.

Ultimately the direction given to Rohrer was to pursue uses that would make the site cost neutral—the facility should pay for itself, not only operating costs but cover depreciation and long-term maintenance as well.

Recreational use for kids is to be the priority in scheduling the gymnasium, while it could occasionally be used for revenue producing events like trade shows.

The current 200 building will be rented out for a shorter term than the rest of the facility, because it is most suitable for housing students or administration if that becomes necessary.

What this town needs is another high-priced subdivision. We're moving towards the millennium and that could mean Armageddon. So until then, why not see how much debt we can rack up? After all, when the baby boomers get old and want to sell these big expensive houses, they should have a great market in all the other old baby boomers who want to sell their's as well.

And I see where the planning commission is really concerned about housing prices too, because they keep zoning all of these low density residential areas, which should help a lot to solve that problem.

Still, there's a solution to every problem, and I've got this one figured out. Let's take a look at some of the facts about housing.

First, we want to have green space and parks and emerald green lawns. Second, we want our neighbors to be beautiful and happy, but not quite as beautiful and happy as us. Thirdly, we want to pretend to accommodate people who don't have as much money as us, if we don't have to look them in the eye. Fourth, we don't want their cheap crummy homes to screw up the value of our nice perfect homes.

No problem. All we have to do is develop trailer condo parks. One of these big homes cost around $250,000. A few years ago that used to be a quarter of a million dollars, but no one seems to realize that anymore.

A big trailer house costs around $50,000. So what we could do is weld about five trailers together on each lot and have five families living in it. That way when we look out of our 3,000-square-foot place with three cars in the driveway, we see this sprawling 6,000-square-foot place across the road with five cars and a motorcycle in the driveway.

And by sticking all of these places together, you could take the rest of the property and make a nice park out of it. It would be less money for the people in the trailers, too, since each one of them would only have to take care of one-fifth of a lawn.

In fact, why stop there? Maybe we could stack them up, two or three high. Then we could get 10 or 15 units on the same lot. And by putting them in a big pile like that, we could save mother nature some effort the next time she sends a tornado out. Instead of having to swoop around finding all of the trailers in the area, they'd all be right there in a pile, waiting for her.

And eventually, after the millennium and Armageddon and all of that mess, some future silicon-based-archaeologists will come around and notice how similar this pile of trailers is to the Aztec cities in Mexico and they'll marvel at the efficiency of the design, and they'll speculate as to whether they were created by some alien race that built towers and worshipped cows.

Opening Remarks

By Brian Hamilton

I've never been much of a hockey connoisseur, but I became a Red Wings fan at the end of the season. I don't quite understand all the whining and moaning about the brutality in ultimate fighting competition when there's much better violence in the hockey arena. As in ultimate fighting, they put the contenders in a ring they can't escape, but unlike ultimate fighting, they give the players weapons, and there's too much action for the officials to keep track of.

I also don't understand all the fuss about Claude Lemieux's hit on Kris Draper, which drew him a suspension—considering what does not get called. A couple of games before, there were wonderful camera shots of Colorado Avalanche goaltender Patrick Roy carefully inserting his hockey stick between Dino Ciccarelli's legs from behind and pulling up hard. Ask the average guy which infraction should have the harshest penalty, I think I know what he'd choose.

And the best part was, Ciccarelli retaliated, and he drew the penalty.

Boy, what have I been missing all these years?

I've also started golfing this spring, even bought a set of clubs, all of which combined with my sudden interest in hockey has my wife telling me she doesn't know me anymore. Is this the beginning of a mid-life crisis?

Sunday morning I was scheduled to play at Pierce Lake. At tee time it was raining fairly steadily and, being new at this sort of thing, I asked my golfing buddy if we should venture out.

"This is weather for real golfers," he said, or something like that. When we got there, the parking lot was full. I guess there are plenty of real stupid golfers around here besides me.

It was also a great week for local sports. The Chelsea softball team again won their district tournament easily as coach Joe Beard and his staff did their typical outstanding coaching job, and the young girls came through. The Bulldogs could be a sleeper in this year's postseason, despite their overall youth.

My favorite moment of the weekend came, however, when the Dexter Dreadnaughts won the district baseball tournament in Chelsea.

Willow Run took a two-run lead in the top of the seventh and it looked a little bleak for the Dreadnaughts, although they had the heart of their order coming up.

Scott is now running for the school board to share his expertise and to help Chelsea Schools to be the top system in Washtenaw County. His involvement in Chelsea Education Foundation, Chelsea United Way, Chelsea Aquatic Club and a variety of other youth sports programs underlines his conviction to aggressively participate in community activities. As an attorney and the owner of a small business, Scott is firmly grounded in what it takes to maintain an ongoing operation like the Chelsea Schools. commission is doing it is to preserve agricultural land," the Sylvan supervisor said.

Noting that pursuing PDR requires significant funding and people willing to sell the development rights of their land, Chelsea Village President Richard Steele was enthusiastic about the strategy.

"If you're in the position to do that, I think it's an excellent way for communities to preserve open space," Steele summed up.

He added that Sylvan Township's plans to purchase development rights were in the interest of not only the township, but the wider community as well, and he applauded their efforts.

Lima Township Supervisor Bill Van Riper, however saw minimal value in pursuing PDR.

Saying that the "heart and soul" of local agricultural land had already been developed, Van Riper questioned trying to purchase development rights from residents whose land values would continue rising.

The Lima supervisor questioned why residents would want to sell development rights when holding on to them might ultimately bring a much greater profit.

"The theory is beautiful, but there's nothing tangible there," Van Riper concluded.

Lyndon Township Supervisor John Francis and Dexter Township Supervisor Jim Drolett were more ambivalent about PDR, but still skeptical.

Noting that large tracts of state-owned land changed the nature of agricultural property in his township, Francis said PDR was not being discussed and might not appeal to his township residents.

"I'm not sure I see that taking hold in our township, I would question if anyone would put up their land for that," Francis said.

If local residents were willing to fund PDR through a millage or special assessment, Drolett explained, he saw no reason to object.

However, he also questioned the motivation of property owners to give up development rights whose potential value might grow in the future.

"I don't understand why you'd want to do that in (Dexter Township)," Drolett concluded.

Property Lawsuit

Tracy indicated that, were the village to deny the rezoning request, the developers would likely challenge the decision in court.

"We intend to see this through," Tracy said.

Though the court dismissed Chelsea Village from the suit, Widgeon granted the first three counts of the plaintiffs amended complaint, all of which related only to Lima Township, she ruled. At the same time, she denied the township motions for summary disposition.

Lima Township attorneys Tom Yannitelli and Mary Massaron Ross still held hope the suit will be dismissed.

"We believe a motion for rehearing is in order because we feel the ruling (against the township) was based on a mistake of fact," Yannitelli said.

Massaron Ross contended that the judge failed to make a necessary distinction, not understanding that once the village had annexed the 95 acres, the rezoning request the developers filed was no longer appropriate for the smaller 40 acre parcel.

To pursue rezoning of the 40 acres remaining in Lima Township, she said, the developers would need to reapply with an amended petition.

According to the attorneys, Widgeon assumed that Lima Township acted illegally in denying rezoning for the 40 acres.

What Widgeon failed to understand, they said, was that Lima Township denied rezoning of the original, larger parcel, but never received a request for solely the 40 acres that remained in the township after the Chelsea annexation.

Yannitelli indicated the township attorneys would soon file a motion for rehearing.

Lima Township Supervisor Bill Van Riper echoed the lawyer's assertions about the Judge Widgeon's decision.

"She didn't read it correctly, and that's understandable because she's new," Van Riper said, saying Widgeon had heard few civil cases before.

According to Widgeon's executive secretary, the judge has ruled on a number of civil cases since her appointment in March of 1994 and subsequent election in November of 1994.

Van Riper said that reapplying for rezoning of just the 40 acres within Lima Township would be the appropriate move for the developers.

However, Tracy disputed the argument that reapplication was necessary, contending that in denying rezoning of the original, larger parcel, Lima Township in effect acted on the smaller, 40 acre property.

"There's no sense reapplying. They denied it already. That's what the lawsuit is about," Tracy said.

Lima Township still faces the charges of denial of due process, temporary taking and exclusionary zoning in the Circuit Court suit.

Tracy said the developers were undecided as to how to proceed next, that future moves would be dependent on the suit's progress and the results of the Chelsea Village rezoning request.

Family Medicine

Question: My 29-year-old granddaughter is a supervisor in a large plant, and obviously, she is under considerable stress. About 10 years ago when she was also attending college, she started having panic attacks. When she is having an attack, she says, "My life isn't worth all this." I'm worried about her. What can be done for her panic attacks?

Answer: A significant number of people — perhaps as many as 5 percent of the population — are afflicted with an emotional condition that produces what is known as "panic attacks." Typically, a panic attack develops as a sudden episode of fast heartbeat and shortness of breath, which may be accompanied by chest pain, nausea, abdominal pain, trembling or shaking. The person experiencing a panic attack is very anxious and often fears that a heart attack or stroke is imminent. These feelings may last for minutes or they may take hours before abating.

Panic attacks are two to three times more frequent in women than men, and a family history of the disorder increases the risk that a person will develop it. The first attack usually occurs in the late teens or early 20s — just as in your granddaughter's case.

It isn't easy to diagnose a panic attack since many other conditions can cause the same symptoms. Frequently, it requires several visits to the doctor before establishing the correct diagnosis. As an example, even if the doctor has a strong notion that the underlying cause of an episode of chest pain is panic attack, tests to assure that heart disease isn't also present are necessary.

Those with panic attacks are also likely to simultaneously have depression and/or agoraphobia. As you probably know, a depressed person is overcome with feelings of extreme sadness, dejection and hopelessness. A person suffering from agoraphobia has an unrealistic fear of going out in public, which usually develops from his or her association of prior panic attacks with previous public outings.

Your granddaughter's statement, "My life isn't worth all this," makes me think she may have panic attacks and depression. Fortunately, there is effective treatment for people with these conditions.

VIEWS ON DENTAL HEALTH

GARY GOCHANOUR, D.D.S.

"HIGH-SPEED" TO THE RESCUE

Tremendous improvements have been made in the efficiency of dental services. An example is the equipment used to prepare the teeth for fillings and crowns. For years dentists have used rotary tools(drills) for this purpose. These cutting instruments rotated at a top speed of 5,000 rpm's. Discomfort was often felt from the vibration, pressure and heat that developed in the use of these instruments.

Today, improvements in the drill motors and the use of the turbine principle permit speeds of up to 300,000 revolutions per minute. Only a very light touch is required to cut enamel and dentin at the high speeds. The rotations are so rapid that the sense of vibration is eliminated. Of course heat is generated by such rapid cutting, but the instruments are devised so that a spray of water and air is directed at the area being prepared, keeping the temperature comfortable.

The advent of the high speed drill and new types of superior cutting tools add up to less drilling time and more comfort in dental procedures.

Prepared by Custom Column Service as a public service to promote better dental health.

Family Medicine

The first line of treatment for panic attack sufferers is education about the nature of their disorder, reassurance and counseling. About one-third of panic attack sufferers improve dramatically with these measures alone. The remaining two-thirds, however, also require medication. Those which have proven successful include: antidepressants in the tricyclic family, such as imipramine, and those in the selective serotonin reuptake inhibitor class, such as sertraline, as well as other medications in the benzodiazepine family, such as alprazolam or clonazepam.

So, I agree with you. I'm concerned about your granddaughter. But don't feel helpless. Her family doctor, in conjunction with a psychologist or psychiatrist, can help her return to good health.

Fleas

W.C. Lane, D.V.M.

R.C. Bowers, D.V.M.

The flea is a highly specialized parasite. It is extremely well adapted to its environment. Michigan's environment is best suited for fleas in the late summer and early fall when it is warm and moist, conditions ideal for flea survival and growth. In just 30 days, ten female fleas can multiply into a quarter million fleas.

Only 5% of these are adults, the rest are in your rugs and yard as eggs, larva or pupae. They bite your pets to get the blood necessary for laying their eggs. Over time, many cats and dogs become extremely allergic to flea bites and scratch themselves raw. These pests can be controlled with insecticidal baths and dips for use on your pets and sprays and foggers for use in your home and yards.

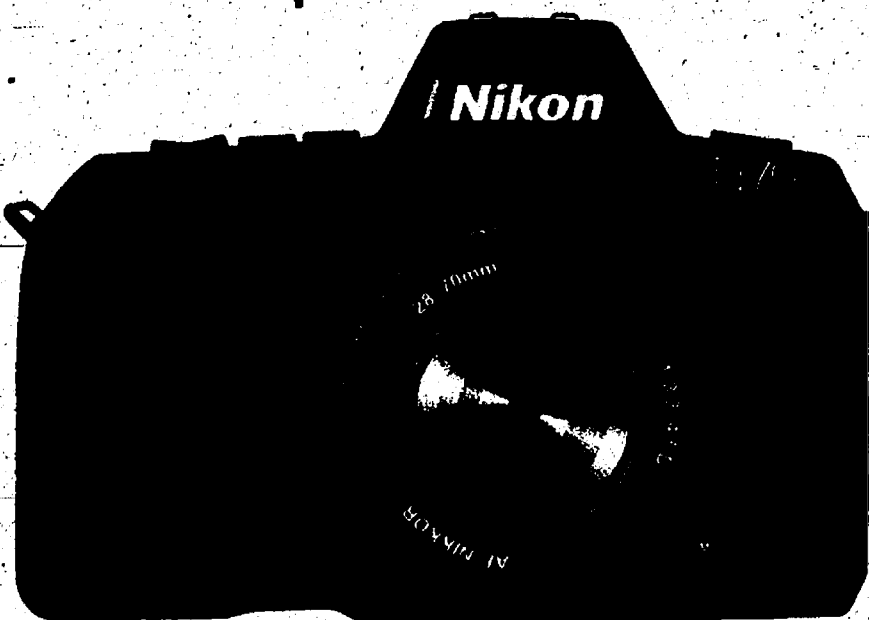

Now there is an once a month pill to prevent flea eggs hatching or a topical once a month insecticide for dogs and cats that kill fleas on the pet.

Purple Rose Theatre To Conclude 1996 Season

The Purple Rose Theatre Company will present The Harmony Codes, a new comedy by Michael Grady, as the final production of the 1995-96 season.

Previews of The Harmony Codes will be held Thursday, June 6 through Thursday, June 13, with the Official Opening Night on Friday, June 14. Performances for the remainder of the eight-week engagement in Chelsea will be Wednesdays through Saturdays at 8 p.m. with Sunday shows at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. through Sunday, July 28.

The Harmony Codes follows the story of Margaret Lancaster, an Indiana housewife who is visited in her backyard by space aliens searching for "the codes of human existence." Margaret's family and friends doubt her story, however word quickly spreads and news of her encounter is announced over the local airwaves. The ensuing spotlight of publicity quickly turns the Lancasters' lives upside down and threatens to ruin their happy home. Soon, the national media, the FBI and intergalactic space conspiracy fanatics are camped out on the Lancaster doorstep. Meanwhile, the space aliens continue to visit Margaret on a regular basis while she frantically searches for an answer to their request.

The cast of The Harmony Codes features Sandra Birch as Margaret Lancaster, Jim Porterfield as her husband and Tricia Smith as their daughter. Wayne David Parker and Kate Peckham portray the space aliens. The remaining cast members of The Harmony Codes include Dan Brinkle, John Hawkinson and Jeffrey Nash.

A native of Kalamazoo, playwright Michael Grady has written over 20 plays which have been staged at numerous theatres across the country, including: Actor's Theatre of Phoenix, The Arizona Theatre Company, Chicago's Body Politic Theatre, and the Philadelphia Theatre Company. His play, Dancers, won the National Student Playwriting Award at the 1986 American College Theatre Festival. In 1992, he received the Arizona Theatre League Award for Outstanding Achievement in Playwriting and Acting. Last year, The Harmony Codes was one of the top 12 new plays selected for staged readings at Robert Redford's Sundance Festival in Utah. A graduate of Michigan State University, Michael currently teaches playwriting at Arizona State University.

The Harmony Codes is directed by Anthony Caselli. Set design is by Daniel C. Walker and lighting design is by Reid G. Johnson. Costume design is by Christina M. Foster and sound design is by Joe Jenkins. Terri Czarney is the rehearsal stage manager and Wendy M. Hennings will be the stage manager for the eight-week performance run.

Reservations can be obtained by calling the Purple Rose Theatre Company Box Office at (313) 475-7902. Ticket reservations are recommended due to the limited capacity. The PRTC Box Office is open Monday through Friday from noon to 6 p.m. and on Saturdays and Sundays of performances beginning one hour prior to curtain.

The Purple Rose Theatre Company production of The Harmony Codes is made possible by a gift from Jiffy Mixes - Chelsea Milling Company.

—Aliens Revisited—

Students in teacher Stephanie Bell's fourth grade class at Bates Elementary School continued their Alien Encounters with the reading of Bruce Coville's "I Left My Sneakers in Dimension X." Tying in with other classwork, the students developed a cartoon story board depicting the entire book, and displayed it for the school. With parent Barbara Duncan reading, they are now experiencing the third book in Coville's series, "The Search for Snout." Pictured, in back from left, are Ashlee Trinkle, Coleen Okolski, Melissa King, Amy Burhop, Anela Kuzon, Jenny Wadenstorer, Jeremy Hodges, Sarah Jaworski and Ryan Haller; in front from left, Neal Mackowiak, Kelly Fasbinder, Shea Feazel, Susan Benjey and Sarah Stepp-Wright. Ann Arbor Festival of Biking Slated June 16

On Sunday, June 16, the Ann Arbor Festival of Cycling will take place in downtown Ann Arbor. This event spans the cycling spectrum from little tykes barely able to pedal their Big Wheels in the Tour de Kids to the nation's best cyclist's competing for $11,000 and U.S. Pro Points in the Gelman Sciences/Masco Tech Pro/Am.

The Tour de Kids, a family-oriented bicycle race for kids, is expecting close to 1,000 children ages 2-12 to participate in this year's festivities. Racing from 200 meters to 1.8 miles down Main Street, participants are grouped in heats according to age and sex to insure safety. All finishers receive a medal, t-shirt, water bottle, pop and pizza. The entry fee is only $4. Kids races run from 8 a.m. to noon.

The Gelman Sciences/Masco Tech Pro/Am showcases the best cyclists in the nation at 12 p.m. Racing 70 laps (50 miles) around a grueling downtown circuit, these riders capture the true excitement of the sport.

Along with the racing, there are plenty of activities for the family, including face painting, art projects, demonstrations, clowns, food and drink.

Entries for the Tour de Kids will be available through the Ann Arbor Public Elementary Schools and local Ann Arbor Bike Retailers. For more information, call 662-1701, or visit the Tour de Kids Online at: <http://www.doltsports.com/road-race/aafc> for your convenience.

College Application Fees Steadily Rise

Eastern Michigan University Board of Regents, at its regular meeting May 21, approved $5 increases to both the undergraduate and graduate admissions application fees, resulting in an undergraduate application fee of $25 and a graduate admissions application fee of $30.

The undergraduate fee increase is expected to provide an additional $64,000 in annual revenues, to be allocated to the Admissions Office operating budget for expenses associated with publications, outreach activities and on-campus visitation programs. The graduate application fee increase is expected to provide an additional $19,000 annually, which will be used to establish a graduate outreach recruiting program and on-campus visitation programs for prospective graduate students.

Application fees at 13 competing four-year, public universities range from $20 (at Grand Valley State University and Wayne State University) to $40 (at the University of Michigan) for undergraduates and from $20 (GVSU) to $55 (U-M) for prospective graduate students. The increased application fees will become effective with applications for the 1997 fall semester.

Gene Drive Objections Voiced

By Scott Bishop
Staff Writer

The Chelsea Village Council looked over conceptual options for upgrading Gene Drive and its derivative roads, Machnik Drive and Farley Drive, at its Tuesday, May 28 meeting. Several Gene Drive homeowners protested that the upgrades as proposed would be harmful to them.

The road improvements would include other infrastructure improvements like adding village water and sewer service.

Village Manager Jack Myers went through the options, listing the estimated cost per household, if the Gene Drive area set up as a special assessment district.

The estimates were compiled by the consulting firm McNamee, Porter & Seeley and based on an equal sharing of the cost by the owner or resident of each buildable lot, were the now private road improved to allow development which is presently restricted.

The estimate projected 84 buildable lots in the Gene Drive area, which would share equally in paying for road and other upgrades. Currently there are seven homes on Gene Drive and one on Machnik Drive.

The estimate projected the separate costs of upgrading Gene Drive, Gene and Machnik Drives, and Gene, Machnik and Farley Drives to each of four standards, then spreading that cost over the anticipated 84 buildable lots.

The most expensive option, upgrading Gene, Machnik and Farley Drives to current village construction standards, would cost each of the buildable lot owners $1,569 per year over 20 years.

The least expensive option, upgrading only Gene Drive to a gravel road, would cost each of the buildable lot owners $773 per year over 20 years.

Jim Machnik, owner of undeveloped property in the Gene Drive area, argued that the village council was improperly negating the value of his land by not developing a road to standards that would allow development.

Several present Gene Drive area homeowners, however, objected that road and infrastructure improvements funded through special assessment on each buildable lot would place prohibitive taxes on them, while allowing developers to profit at reduced cost.

Following the meeting, Scott Allen, a Gene Drive resident, said the cost of the proposed upgrades would drive him from the area.

"If something like this happened I'd have to move," Allen said.

He argued that current residents shouldn't have to pay for upgrades equally with future residents, and that developers should assume the large majority of any improvement cost.

Gene Drive resident Lynn Lewis presented the village council with a petition, signed by nine residents of Gene and Machnik Drives, objecting to any such development.

"We are opposed to financing improvements to Gene and Machnik Drives. The proposed improvements would cause major financial hardships on the residents," the petition stated.

Village council members expressed frustration with the complications of resolving the long standing issue.

Trustee Steve Daut emphasized the need to move toward a solution.

"I think that we ought to be very clear that we have to do something. We've got to get services back there. We have to get the roads to a certain standard. As far as what is fair and equitable, it has to be worked out," Daut contended.

Trustee Joe Merkel, though, voiced opposition to any proposed upgrade.

"I'm in favor of the people who live (in the Gene Drive area) now, leaving it the way it is," Merkel said.

Daut remained adamant that action was required.

"It seems to me, that as distasteful as it may be to everyone, everyone has to get at the table and sit down and get an agreement hammered out."

"If everyone who is affected by that decision cannot agree, then the council, I think, must act."

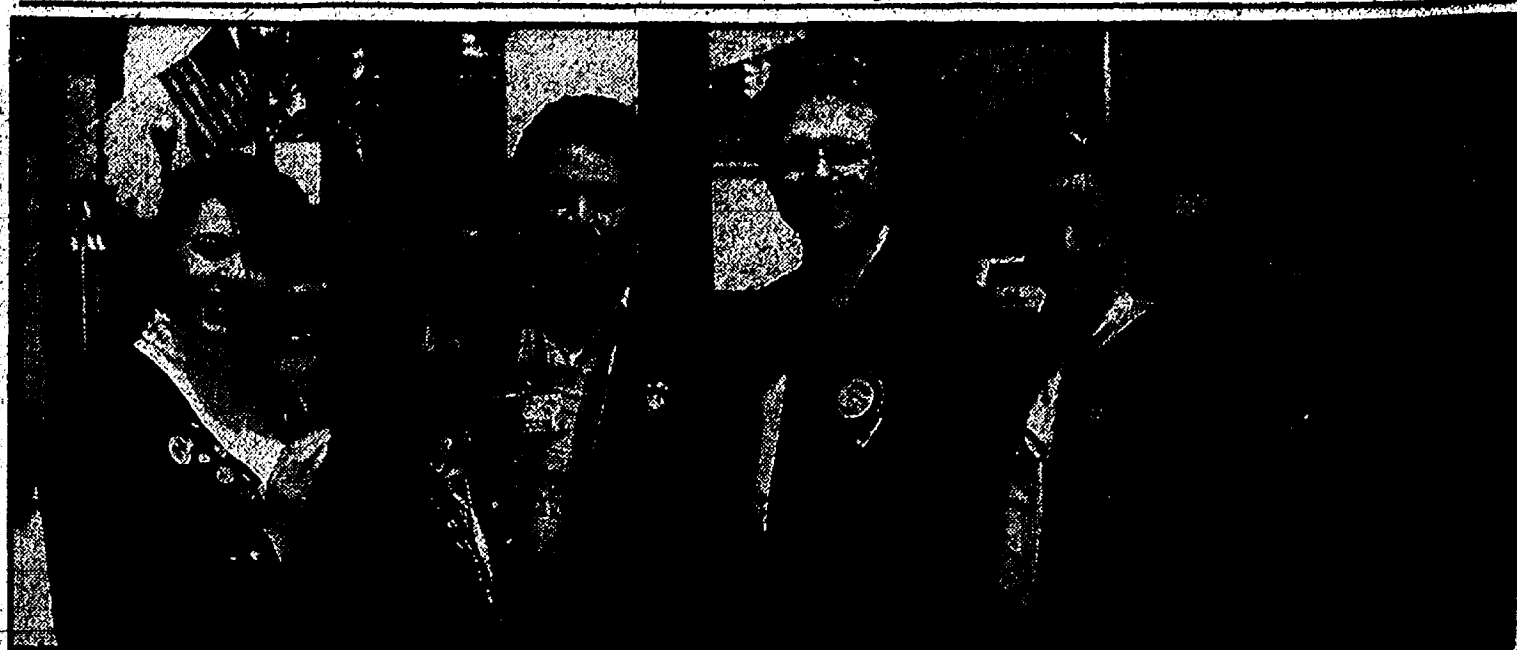

"The best approach is to get everybody at the table, give and take whatever it takes to get something hammered out," Daut contended.

The division on the council effectively stalled discussion. Motions by Daut and trustee Frank Hammer were vigorously opposed by Gene Drive residents and died for lack of support from other trustees.

Finally, Daut offered a motion that did pass, proscribing six months for area residents and property owners to seek a compromise, at regular meetings facilitated by a third party.

In a related issue, the council followed the strong recommendations of Myers and Assistant Village Manager Bruce Pindzia in denying Machnik's request for a variance in the road standards, which would have allowed him to build a home for himself on Machnik Drive.

Myers and Pindzia warned that granting the variance would set a dangerous precedent, potentially giving developers a free hand to develop property on a sub-standard road.

Circus Coming

The excellent reputation that the Kelly-Miller Circus has gained over the years is a constant challenge that President David Rawls says he continually strives to improve on.

The new innovation in the Kelly-Miller Circus tent debuted in 1995. All seats are now equal distance from the one large performance area. Added height allows for a wider variety of complex aerial acts. The newly designed lighting system adds a theatrical touch, and the live band is one of few still traveling in a circus today.

As always, the public is invited and encouraged to watch the circus income to life early in the morning.

Rawls says there will be new acts and new equipment, but the same excellent quality and courtesy that the public has come to know from the Kelly-Miller Circus.

The Circus will be held on Wednesday and Thursday, June 26-27, under the sponsorship of the Chelsea Lions Club, with shows at 4:30 and 7:30 p.m. The circus will be set up at the Chelsea Fairgrounds and tickets are now on sale. Adults are $7 and Children under 12 years of age are $4 when purchased in advance.

Drunken Driving

A 44-year-old Ypsilanti man was arrested for operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor after Chelsea Police responded to a house fire at 6111 Sibley Road, June 2. The man was found laying on the home's porch with the house fully engulfed in flames. When officers helped the man off the porch they noticed he smelled of intoxicants. A test revealed the man's blood-alcohol level to be .20 percent, which is twice the legal limit. The man was escorted to the police station to call for a ride. A cab picked him up at 5:30 a.m. The Chelsea fire chief called five minutes later to report the man got out of the cab and took off in his car at the fire scene. Police located the man driving on Main Street near Park Street and arrested him. His vehicle was impounded.

Larceny

Larceny was reported at Village Motor Sales, 1185 M-52, May 24. A salesman told Chelsea Police someone stole a radio and hubcaps off a 1996 Dodge vehicle.

Larceny was reported at Palmer Ford Used Cars, 222 S. Main St., May 22. It was reported to Chelsea Police that lugnuts and rear tires were stolen off a 1992 Ford Mustang. The theft occurred during the evening hours of May 21. Damage to a window is estimated at $200. Items stolen are valued at $500.

Larceny was reported from one of three locations. A Chelsea woman told police her purse was stolen from her 1993 Acura either in the Common Grill parking lot, Chelsea Hospital parking lot or from her driveway on Madison Street. The purse contained $200 cash, credit cards, a passport and checks.

Larceny was reported at Village Mobil, 1629 S. Main St., May 26. An employee reported someone pumped $19 worth of gasoline and drove off without paying. The person was driving a Lincoln Continental and left east on I-94.

Incapacitated Person
A 36-year-old Ypsilanti woman was forced into Chelsea Community Hospital with the help of police after the emergency room doctor called for help. The woman was brought in by her roommate, who said the woman was kicking a heroin addiction and was drunk. He wanted her admitted to the hospital because she threatened suicide. Police helped hold the woman down so she could be strapped on a bed and rolled into the hospital.

Domestic Situation

A 37-year-old woman told Chelsea Police she fears her husband. The Taylor Street resident didn't know exactly what she wanted police to do, but told officers her husband has threatened to leave her and take the children. Police advised her there has been no crime committed. The woman was told what agencies to contact for other sources of help.

Civil Incident

A woman who works in Chelsea told police she has been threatened in the workplace. Police were told the Polly's employee has been harassed by another male employee who allegedly wants to be more than friends. In a four-page statement, the woman explained to police how the 26-year-old Munnith man has become violent because she won't date him. She told police she fears he will harm her.

Property Damage

Malicious destruction of property was reported in the 100 block of W. Summit Street, May 25. Someone reported to police a 1989 Pontiac was scratched with a key. The amount of damage was not specified.

Stolen Vehicle

A 1993 Ford truck was stolen from the 100 block of Wilkinsons Street, May 29. A Chelsea man told police his 23-year-old daughter took his truck without permission. The woman took the vehicle between 1 a.m. and 7:30 a.m. She also allegedly stole $200 from her father's wallet. It was noted the woman was to face a court hearing that morning for forgery and uttering and pub-

Attempted Suicide

Attempted suicide was reported in the 20600 block of Hidden Lakes Drive, May 29. A Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputy found a 35-year-old woman at her dining room table writing a suicide note in her own blood. The woman had cut her wrist with a 10-inch cutlery knife. She was taken to the University of Michigan Hospital for medical and psychological treatment after a tussle ensued with police when she grabbed a knife. Police disarmed the woman, who said she was upset her children were taken away after her husband was convicted of molesting them.

Hospital Performs Well, Says Report

A recent report produced by the Michigan Health & Hospital Association analyzed the performance of more than 160 Michigan hospitals on several types of medical and hospital services.

The report indicated that Chelsea Community Hospital "is performing as expected or better than expected in all instances," according to Hospital Chief Operating Officer Kathleen Griffiths.

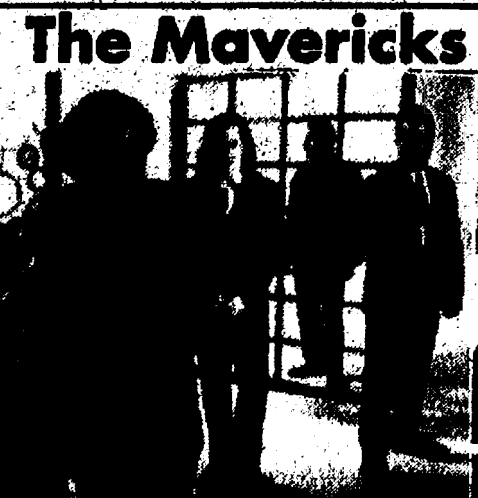

The report measures how each hospital performed against how it would have been expected to perform given the types of cases that the hospital handles.

The cases were adjusted to reflect the physical condition of the patients when they entered the hospital (risk and severity adjustment). Performance was based on the patients' length of stay in the hospital and its mortality rates for selected cases.

—The Way It Was—

Volunteer Fire Department More Than 100 Years Old

By Kathy Clark
Special Writer

The Chelsea Volunteer Fire Department was born in the spring of 1888, in a 20x40 foot frame building in back of the Sylvan Town Hall. It was equipped with a hand-pulled hook-and-ladder vehicle and a dozen rubber buckets. The fire department was formally organized in 1889 with about 20 volunteers. Ted Palmer was the first fire chief.

Early records show in April of 1870 Chelsea suffered a terrible blow when a fire swept away the entire business portion on the west side of Main Street from Middle Street to the railroad. The fire started in a wood stove in George Reule's tailor shop. In 1876 there was another fire which started in a saloon and burned all the east side. Those former wood stores were then replaced by brick buildings.

One of the men in the above January 1909 photograph is Howard Brooks, fire chief. In 1948, during Brooks' 50th year as chief, the department was reorganized. Tom Young then served as chief for two years.

In 1950 Ted Palmer was voted in as chief by members of the fire department. During his leadership the firehouse was located in the Chelsea Municipal Building on E. Middle Street.

In 1963, the year today's modern firehouse on W. Middle Street was built, Jim Gaken became the new chief. Gaken (1927-1995) was a life-long resident of Chelsea. As a youngster he helped his grandfather, Ed Gentner, with his boots and fire coat and saw him off to fire scenes. As he grew older he would help out at fires and in 1947, after assisting with a factory blaze, his grandfather suggested he join the department.

For 34 years Gaken was a leader in the village's volunteer force, and served as chief for 18 years. Many improvements (including life and disability insurance for members) were made under his leadership. In 1966 CFD took over running the Chelsea Fair Parade.

Chief Gaken saw the Frigid Products (Heydlauff's) building consumed by fire in 1970 (the rest of the block was saved).

Paul "Bud" Hankerd assumed command in 1981. At the beginning of Hankerd's term as chief, the Chelsea

Fire Department operated with 10 units of equipment, including a rescue truck. Each of the 21 paid volunteers was a qualified rescue worker and firefighter through 66 hours of training.

Hankerd was at the scene of the fire which gutted the Sylvan Hotel in the mid-1980s, which started in one of the tenant's rooms.

Daniel Ellenwood, who became praefectus vigillum—the fire chief—in January of 1995 has been a CFD volunteer for many years. He informed me that the chief is now appointed by the Village Council. Assistant Chief (Wayne Paul), captains, lieutenants and all volunteers are "paid on call."

The Chelsea Fire Department currently serves seven townships: Sylvan, Lima, Lyndon, Dexter, Freedom, Sharon and Waterloo.

Group Criticizes School Decisions On Environment

By Scott Bishop
Staff Writer

According to Barb Krenz, she and the 60 members of the local group "Healthy Schools for Chelsea's Children" are angry because environmental concerns in the construction and renovation of Chelsea schools are being minimized, if not ignored.

"They're doing exactly what they have to do to make it look like they're doing something," Krenz charged, adding that the school board and administration paid just "lip service" to environmental health.

"It comes time to make a decision, and we might as well be completely ignored," Krenz continued.

However, Chelsea Schools Superintendent Ed Richardson says student and staff health issues are receiving all reasonable attention, and school officials are frustrated with the criticism from the environmental safety group.

"I'm aware that they're frustrated. But I think if they knew all that's taking place, the discussions with our architects and our construction managers, that they would generally be pleased with the consideration we're giving environmental issues."

"I think to say they're being ignored on environmental issues is unfair," Richardson explained.

He listed several measures that have been or will be taken to protect environmental safety.

Richardson said special attention was being given to air handling, that systems were designed to provide extra air flow that exceeded relevant legal codes.

Attention is also being given to humidifying classrooms and other areas students congregate.

Other measures, Richardson recited, included using hard surfaces rather than carpet in the main corridor of Pierce Lake Elementary School, making all appropriate air quality tests before any students or staff used the buildings, and directing architects Kingscott & Associates to be cognizant of environmental issues in selecting materials and providing school officials with choices among those materials.

Kingscott & Associates paid for the consulting services of Florida environmental expert Bernadette Upton, Richardson added.

The construction decision process, Richardson outlined, relied on recommendations from professional architects at Kingscott and construction managers at Granger Construction to inform school committees and the School Board of options to preserve environmental safety.

A letter from Krenz to the The Chelsea Standard lists recommendations in multiple areas for addressing environmentally safe schools.

For example, the letter advises air quality testing before any building is populated. Richardson and Kingscott & Associates Project Manager Kent Finney confirmed that testing would be done at Pierce Lake School in August of 1997, before the school opens its doors.

The letter states that, ideally, all flooring should be covered by hard surfaces, while realistically carpet should be kept to a minimum.

Richardson said that teachers overwhelmingly prefer carpet in instructional areas, and construction should make a priority for the best instructional floor covering.

Finney projected roughly 40 percent of Pierce Lake

Millage Approved

The Chelsea Village Council approved a 1996 millage rate of 16.83655 mills at its Tuesday, May 28 meeting. The millage rate approved is the same as last year's.

The total millage includes 10.38125 mills for the general fund, 1.7553 mills for the McKune Library, 1.85 mills for bond retirement, 1.75 mills for streets and 1.1 mills for solid waste disposal.

Multiplied by the State Equalized Value of property within Chelsea, which was calculated to be $111,377,221, the millage will collect roughly $1,875,208 for the village.

Back to Regional Competition for Girl's Softball

After a one-year hiatus, the Chelsea Softball Team earned a trip to regional with a pair of wins over Dexter and Lincoln Saturday afternoon.

Chelsea opened with a 7-1 win over SEC-rival Dexter. Lisa Beard, as she has done all year, earned the win, pitching seven innings and allowing only two walks, two hits and one earned run while fanning 12 batters. She sports a 24-2 record with a 4.8 ERA. She also has 243 strikeouts in 198 innings.

Dexter got on the board first with a run in the first, but Chelsea all but won the game with five runs in the third.

Margaret Schick walked with the bases loaded to score Beard. A Tina Richardson single scored Danielle Long, and Petty drove in a run with a single. Kentala later knocked home Beard for the second time in the inning and Carrie Williams sacrifice bunt drove home Long.

Williams and Suzy Steele both reached base by way of walks in the sixth inning and scored on a passed ball and a wild pitch to complete the Chelsea scoring.

This matchup, to many observers, was for the district title. The top two teams in the SEC faced each other and to the winner went Lincoln, who had finished in the bottom half of the standings.

Chelsea made good on the top billing with an 11-0 pasting of the Railsplitters.

Beard pitched six innings and struck out nine while allowing only two hits. McKenna Houle closed the game out.

Lincoln played well through the first four innings, staying in the game trailing only 2-0.

But in the fifth, Chelsea exploded for eight runs to (Continued on Page 17)

Baseball Bumped From District

It was probably too much to expect the Chelsea Bulldogs to beat the Dexter Dreadnaughts five times in a row this year, but that's what they had to do to advance in the district tournament last Saturday in Chelsea.

Chelsea, winners of four previous meetings between the teams this year, lost a 12-2 mercy-rule game to Dexter in the semi-finals. Dexter went on to win the finals against Willow Run.

Less than sparkling Chelsea defense helped the Dreadnaughts to a 5-0 lead. But once the Bulldogs pulled to within 5-2 in the bottom of the second on a double by Don Reilly and singles by Ashley Coy and Jake Walker, they couldn't get the Dreadnaughts out.

"Dexter's a good team," said Chelsea coach Wayne Welton.

"All of our games against them were good games. I think they can win the regional."

Starting pitcher Sam Morseau and reliever Ryan Hubbard threw 140 pitches between them in five innings, an extraordinary number.

"It was really out of character for those two pitchers," Welton said.

To reach the semi-final, Chelsea qualified by beating the Milan Big Reds on Tuesday, 14-1.

It was a 1-1 game going into the bottom of the fifth inning, where Chelsea scored six runs on a double by Lance Ching, an error, a walk, a two-run single by Morseau and RBI singles by Reilly and Casey Wescott.

Seven more runs scored in the sixth, thanks to a grand slam by Walker to end the game. It was his third homer of the season.

Morseau was 3-3 with four RBI and Walker was 2-3 with five RBI.

Morseau pitched and allowed no earned runs, one hit, and struck out seven.

Chelsea split a double-header with Brighton on Thursday, losing the first, 9-7, and winning the second, 8-3.

In the opener, the Bulldogs committed 10 errors, a season-high, as Walker allowed only two earned runs while his record fell to 7-2. He also struck out five, walked five, and allowed eight hits.

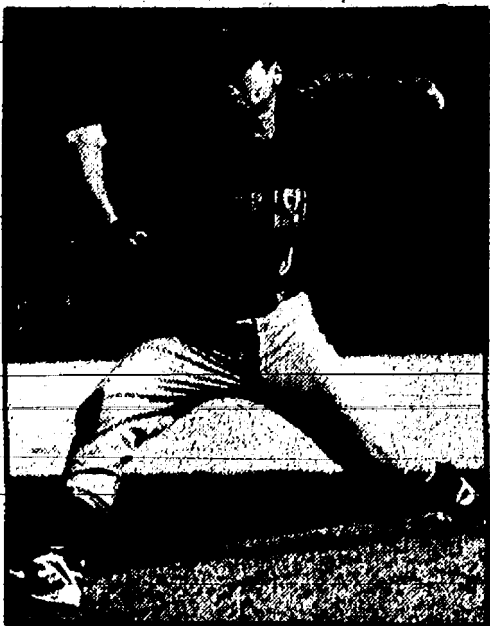

Scott Colvin had three hits, including a pair of doubles, and Reilly and Coy each had two hits.

In the second game, Wescott improved to 8-3 on the mound in allowing four hits and one earned run.

Four Chelsea runs scored in the first inning on a double by Jay Schick and single by Tom Holdsworth. Singles by Dusty White and Wescott gave Chelsea a 5-1 lead after the second inning, and a double by Schick and single by Tim Lawrence were keys in a two-run third. Chelsea had a 6-2 lead going into the seventh inning.

Wescott helped himself with three hits and two RBI, while Schick and Lawrence each had a pair of hits.

The Bulldogs finished the season with a 25-9-1 record.

Sam Morseau took his final turn on the mound for the Chelsea Bulldogs last Saturday against Dexter.

First State Match for Girls Golf

This was the first time in the history of Chelsea girls golf that a team has qualified for the State Tournament. This was accomplished by the team finishing third at the Regional Tournament that was played two weeks ago at Tomac Woods Golf Course in Albion.

The State Tournament was played in East Lansing at Forest Akers Golf Course. Class B played the East Course on Friday.

Then the top 10 school played the West Course on Saturday. It was a perfect, sunny day, with the temperatures in the 70s, and the team hadn't seen a day like this all spring.

The Chelsea team shot a 424 on Friday. This tied them for 11th place in the state. Jessica Inwood shot her personal best for a 93 to finish her high school career. Elizabeth Holdsworth shot a 99 and Erin Armstrong shot 106. Also playing for Chelsea were Lesley Davis and Jennifer Saarinen.

Armstrong, Davis, Holdsworth and Inwood are all seniors. They have been the core of the team for the past two years, leading the team with not only their golf but also their spirit, dedication and commitment to the team. Saarinen is a sophomore.

The team does not compete in the Southeastern Conference as do all other Chelsea sports because not all schools have a golf team. The team competes in Central 8 League, which was formed only for girl's golf. This league is made up of Ann Arbor Huron, Ann Arbor Pioneer, Brighton, Chelsea, Howell, Pinckney, Saline and Ypsilanti. Chelsea is the only class B school in the league.

Chelsea's team record stood at 9-8 for the season with a fifth-place finish at the league meet and fifth over-all in the conference, beating Pinckney, Howell and Ypsilanti.

The league meet was hosted by Chelsea at Reddeman Farms Golf Course this year. Saline won the meet and the league title. Saline shot a 387, Pioneer a 379, Huron a 392, Brighton a 395, Chelsea a 409, Pinckney a 464, Ypsilanti a 486 and Howell a 553.

Chelsea's girl's had a great day. Holdsworth led the team with a 97, followed closely by Inwood with a 98. Both Armstrong and Davis shot a 107. Saarinen and Tina Wiese also played for Chelsea.

Medalist for the tournament was Momoko Sone for Saline with a 90.

The Chelsea's team has finished their season, and the girls were recently honored. They also finished fifth in the Monroe Jefferson Tournament and fifth in the Jackson County Western Tournament. Everyone improved their average, said coach Cheryl Vogel.

Armstrong, Holdsworth and Inwood all received four-year awards and Davis a three-year award. Also earning varsity letters are Wiese, a first-year award, and Corrine Foytik, a second-year award.

The team's Most Improved Player award went to Wiese, who was a beginning golfer and dropped her scores from an 87 to have a 70 average. Inwood received the Most Valuable Player award as she was the team medalist the most often.

Junior varsity awards went to Amelia Botsford, Rachel Mead, Megan Morgan, Jennifer Saarinen, Shannan Stanley and Meghan Williams.

Girls Compete at State Meet

Five Chelsea girls track athletes competed in the State Meet at Lowell on Saturday, but came home scoreless.

The 3200 relay of Jeannie Spink, Jennifer Space, Melissa Hand, and Katie Spink ran a 10:01.8, finishing in the middle of the pack. They went into the race seeded number 12 out of 29 qualifiers.

"The girls ran well, but we figured we had to cut between four and eight seconds to medal and we just weren't able to do it. We probably held our seed position, though," said coach Bill Bainton.

Caledonia won the event with a time of 9:25.40.

Heidi Wehrwein participated in the shot put and had a solid 34'-8" effort, but would have had to better the school record to place in a very tough field. Makiba Batten of Detroit Renaissance won the event with a throw of 40-94. Each of the top three threw over 40 feet.

"Heidi had a good season for us this year. She has been very consistent, and graduates holding both school throwing records," said Bainton.

Dearborn Heights Robichaud won the meet with 58 points with Flint Powers second with 28. Jackson County Western was the top area team with 26. Lincoln was the only Southeastern Conference team to score in class B, getting 10 points with Justina Phillips second in the 100 hurdles and eighth in the long jump, and an eighth place in the 800 relay.

effectively end the game.

Beard sacrificed Richardson home in the first, and Long singled home Beard in the third to open up the 2-0 lead.

In the fifth, Beard had a two-run single, Kentala singled home Beard, Kasie Ruhlrig doubled home Long, and Schick singled home Ruhlrig and Kentala. Richardson hit a double that scored Schick, and one more run came in on a passed ball. Chelsea added one more in the sixth when Sarah Pruess scored.

In the past five years, Chelsea has been to the regionals two times and made it to quarter-final action in 1994. To match that mark, they must get by Monroe St. Mary's Saturday morning at 10 a.m. and then win the championship game. The Bulldogs play the 27-4 Falcon-Kestrels at Carleton Airport.

Heart & Sole Fun Run Draws Record Participation

A record number of 696 runners and walkers participated in the Heart & Sole Races on Saturday, June 1 beginning at Chelsea Community Hospital. The high numbers were partially result of the excellent weather that accompanied the seventh annual event. While the race was a joyous experience for most everyone it was not without injury, as a Gregory runner was in critical condition after suffering an apparent heart attack during the last part of the 5K race.

Chelsea Community Hospital and the Chelsea Chamber of Commerce sponsored the event, with the help of many individuals who volunteered their time to assist with the races.

TEACHER FEATURE

Brown Finds North Niche

By Scott Bishop
Staff Writer

North School teacher Barbara Brown has taught middle school students in Chelsea and East Lansing for the majority of her 21-year teaching career. She's been a fifth grade teacher for the last eight years, and while she enjoyed middle school, the elementary level is where she wants to be.

"I think what I like best about fifth graders is their enthusiasm, and I like the fact that they're just on that border between childhood and being adolescents, they're just changing so much from fall until spring. It's almost like a different class. They still love school and they're very enthusiastic about projects," Brown explained.

Becoming a teacher was a natural progression, she said.

"I think the main reason I became a teacher is I had a lot of teachers I admired, and I grew up in a neighborhood where there were about 60 children on one block.

"I was one of the older ones. I was always organizing little clubs and playing school. I was always the teacher or principal or superintendent.

"So I think that (teaching) called for a lot of the things that I like to do. I just went into it very naturally," Brown illustrated.

She orchestrates her teaching style with the students in mind.

"I have a reputation, I'm told, for being organized and being a disciplinarian. I think that I would be a teacher who has structure.

"I try to empower the children right at the beginning of the year, so they can be independent learners as much as possible, but within certain guidelines, so they're not stepping on the toes of others.

"The whole room is set up so they know where to find what they need, and we have lots of manipulatives and computers so they can have some control over their learning," Brown explained.

A key element of teaching fifth graders, she emphasized, is building broader relationships and trusts.

"I think one very important thing they learn is a sense of community and to respect each other. I work very hard on that. We all do in fifth grade.

"The children spend more time with one another than they do with their families, during the weekdays.

"We try very hard to build a sense of family within the classroom, for them to look out for each other, and care for each other, and respect (each other). That's very important at this level," Brown observed.

Since her students will move to Beach Middle School after her class, Brown stresses preparation for the future in her goals.

"I hope they'll feel very confident about going to the next school, and that they'll feel they're in control and they know how to manage their new environment.

"I hope that they will feel that they know how to organize themselves. I stress organizational skills from the first day of school to the last.

"I want them to know how to stay on top of things and have control over their own homework," Brown explained.

As career highlights, she lists being among the creators of the block program at Beach Middle School and taking her fifth graders to the Chelsea Retirement Community, where they meet with adopted grandparent mentors 10 times during the year.

"The inter-generational relationships are great for the students and the grandparents," Brown observed. A graduate of Michigan State University with an advanced degree from Eastern Michigan University, Brown resides in Chelsea with her husband, Ed, a teacher in Jackson.

Their daughter, Allison, is an engineer in Kansas City, while their son, Eric, is an MSU senior.

Noting that she enjoys having the same group of students throughout the day and the wide-ranging curriculum, Brown explained that she looks forward to teaching more fifth graders.

"I would like to stay at the elementary school for the rest of my career, in fifth grade," the teacher concluded.

Timber Town on The Way Soon

Every parent has heard the familiar phrase from the child in the back seat of the car, "are we there yet?" Well, the very excited and proud Timber Town Committee, after 18 months of hard work, can finally say — yes, we are almost there!

Timber Town Playground is scheduled to be built June 11-16. Local businesses throughout town will be displaying posters reminding volunteers to help "Build The Dream."

Even if you have not signed up to help with this wonderful project, make a point to stop down at the site during the construction week and watch the transformation of a piece of barren land into a wooden play structure unlike anything Chelsea has ever seen. If you do want to help, now is the time. The number is 475-0322. Likewise, if you have tools to lend, call today at 475-2244.

For those with access to cable, Chelsea Cable Channel 22 will be continually updating progress reports of the project throughout the six days.

Girls Scout Out Chicago

After 10 months of planning, Chelsea Girl Scout Troop 145 made a journey to Chicago in late April with the financial support of the Chelsea Education Foundation, parent contribution and effort, (and lots of Girl Scout cookies).

The girls were able to travel to Chicago's Union Station via Amtrak and visit the newly revamped Navy Pier. At the Chicago Children's Museum, the girls climbed a three-story rope schooner, learned "The Stinking Truth About Garbage," invented all sorts of contraptions, and learned how discrimination feels.

The troop also soared to the top of the John Hancock Building which provided a bird's eye view of Chicago. A favorite stopover was the world's biggest toy store, FAO Schwarz. Lunch at the Hard Rock Cafe topped off the weekend.

On returning from the trip, the girls prepared Chicago presentations to give to other Chelsea area Girl Scout troops. Topics included Architecture, How to Plan a Big Trip to a Big City, Chicago Museums, Sports and Recreation, Fascinating Facts, and Other Places to Visit. These presentations were part of the requirements of the Chelsea Education Foundation mini-grant.

Environmental Issues Disputed

Krenz, however, charged that teachers were not informed about the health issues of carpet versus hard surfaces before being asked for their input.

Another recommendation from Krenz and her organization is for metal roofing. They contend it is the best material environmentally and will avoid "costly and dangerous repairs that are necessary with asphalt shingle roofs."

Finney explained that "membrane roofing" would be used in constructing Pierce Lake Elementary and the new high school.

The main roofing material will be composed of a single sheet of rubberized material, somewhat similar to material used to make automotive tires.

The Pierce Lake roof will include two sections of asphalt shingling. Finney estimated those two sections comprised 13 percent of the total roof.

The high school, Finney indicated, would have no asphalt shingling.

Krenz and "Healthy Schools for Chelsea's Children" are also concerned about when renovation of North and South Elementaries and Beach Middle School will be done. They advise that all renovation be completed with no students or staff in the buildings.

Richardson explained that refurbishing the schools over a three-month summer isn't possible, so some work would necessarily be done with students in school.

All proper measures to protect the student's safety will be taken, Richardson said, and all work will comply with federal and state safety regulations.

Krenz said that air conditioning only in the newly constructed schools constituted a health and equity issue for students who would remain in the existing schools.

Richardson clarified the policy on air conditioning. Pierce Lake Elementary and the new high school will be fully air conditioned. Beach Middle School and the current High School site will remain as they are.

The issue of air conditioning in North Creek and South Meadows Elementaries, Richardson said, is still being studied.

The classrooms in the two schools will not be air conditioned. A decision to air condition offices and media centers will be made based on funds available.

Richardson observed that a $54 million dollar bond issue that was discussed and revised down to $45 million would have covered the cost of full air conditioning in all the schools.

Tuesday morning, Krenz emphasized her disappointment with the school board and administration attention to environmental issues.

"They're claiming that they're taking it seriously, but the people making decisions are not making informed decisions," Krenz argued.

However, Richardson felt such criticism was undue. He said school officials, their architects and construction managers, had made great effort to learn the full importance of healthy schools, and also taken pains to involve public input in the process.

"As a school district, we want to construct the healthiest schools possible within our budget that we're allowed," Richardson summed up.

Beach Parents Stay Busy

The Beach Parent Organization continues to be busy right to the end of the school year.

At the April 25 meeting Colleen Arnold and Janette Hyde presented information about CART (Chelsea Area Responding to Teens).

The organization consists of students and adults so they can truly address the needs of teens. They spoke about their various activities. They also spoke of their needs, including a location for teens to gather, and support of the community.

Discussion was also presented by Assistant Principal Steve Beyer in finding venues for Beach to work with CART to help students and present healthy activities. It was also noted that parents interested in training to be presenters for the PRIDE program should contact Pat Kaminsky at 475-3193.

Beach Parents were busy the week of April 29-May 3 celebrating National Teacher Appreciation Week. The teachers graciously received a week of surprises.

A lighted movie clapperboard announced Teacher Appreciation Week at the front entrance at Beach. The teachers were treated with surprises in "top hats" on their desks throughout the week while a breakfast and luncheon were served on Wednesday and Friday.

The May 14 Beach Parent Organization meeting involved conversation with Beach counselors Patricia Compton, and Margaret Spaley. They provided information about STAND, an anti-substance program set for middle schools much like the SADD program, at Chelsea High School. It is hoped it will begin in the next school year.

The most important element in this program is parental involvement. Any parent interested in learning more should contact Compton or Spaley at Beach.

Arrangements were discussed regarding the last week of school and the participation that Beach parents play during this time. Parents interested in participating with observing the parking lots and cemetery area during the loading of buses should call Principal Darcy Stielstra at 475-3717.

Beach parents have also been asked to present the qualities they wish to see in the new principal to superintendent Ed Richardson by calling 475-9131 or writing him.

Beach Middle School is a busy place and the Beach Parent Organization is working to keep parents involved and informed in educating students. Trying to meet those needs remains a challenge. Finding a meeting night that does not conflict with families' busy schedules is nearly impossible. There is a need to involve more parents in the decision making in hopes that more parents will be reached. A survey will be distributed at the 6th grade orientation and at the fall open house.

Business Women Award Enderle Scholarships

For nearly 43 years the American Business Women's Association has built a tradition based on its continuing efforts to provide opportunities for education advancement.

Members of the ABWA recognize that education and skilled training are crucial in today's technological society. Last year ABWA's more than 1,600 chapters awarded over two million dollars in scholarships.

In addition, the National Scholarship fund has awarded scholarships surpassing eight million dollars since 1953.

The Chelsea-Dexter Chapter of ABWA has awarded over $20,000 in scholarships since it began 19 years ago. This year is a special year for the scholarship awards because they are given to honor the memory of Shirley Enderle, past president and 1993 Woman of the Year, who died in June 1995.

Enderle joined the chapter in 1988 and served in many functions including chairwoman of program, membership, and fundraising. She was a Chelsea resident who operated Shirley's Family Fashions in Dexter from 1985 to 1994.

Although diagnosed with cancer in 1992, she continued to be a very positive person and was involved in her activities until the month she died.

Shirley was also a founding member of the Dexter Area Chamber of Commerce, primary organizer of the Dexter Merchants Association, a member of the Dexter American Legion Auxiliary, Rogers Corner Study Group and Zion

Lutheran Church.

The Chelsea-Dexter Chapter has announced that three area women received scholarships given in Enderle's memory on Tuesday, May 28, at the regular dinner meeting held at Reddeman Farms.

President Robin Meloche and Education Chair Deborah Hutchinson offered checks in the amount of $500 each to Amy N. Oake, Amber Clemons, and Beth Flintoft.

Oake, of Grass Lake, is a recent graduate of Chelsea High School, where she carried a 3.56 grade average.

She was involved in the Chelsea High School Focus Mentorship Program, marching band and color guard captain.

Not only has she participated in four "Christmas in April" campaigns but she also was a founding member of the service corps, "The Body At Work" in Saint Mary's youth community who dedicate one Saturday a month to being with the elderly in our community. She also finds time to work as a receptionist for Theresa Broderick.

Oake will be attending Eastern Michigan University in the fall and plans to study elementary education.

Clemons, of Brooklyn, is a recent graduate of Grass Lake High School, where she carried a 2.69 grade average.

She was involved in track, cheerleading, volleyball and softball as well as volunteering as a student tutor and Big Sister.

Clemons works at McDonald's as a cashier and plans to study psychology at Western Michigan University in the fall.

Flintoft, of Grass Lake, is a recent graduate of Grass Lake High School, where she carried a 3.1 grade average.

Flintoft is a four year varsity letter winner on the cross country team and is an accomplished pianist. She was on the Social Science Academic Team for two years and is involved with the Big Brother/Big Sister program. She works at the Common Market in Chelsea and has been accepted at Albion College and plans to study English and Liberal Arts this fall.

Each application received was reviewed based on the applicants' grade point average, scholastic achievement, references, previous education, training, accomplishments and efforts in seeking their careers.

The Chelsea-Dexter Chapter is made up of professional working women. Those wishing further information about the group should call Meloche at 426-3223.

Poxson Earns Fifth Degree Black Belt

After a grueling three-hour pre-test in the afternoon, Master Michael Poxson, instructor at Chelsea Tae Kwon Do, showed his endurance, strength and form at the Spring Black Belt Testing on May 17. Poxson was awarded 5th Dan (5th degree Black Belt) along with three of his students, William Kaltz-Hall, Joel Gentz and Steve Gentz, all of Chelsea, who received their Black Belts.

The testing took place at Beach Middle School in front of a judging board of about 15 Masters of Tae Kwon Do. Edward B. Sell, grandmaster and founder of the American Chung Do Kwan Association, and Professor Brenda Sell, the highest ranking female in Tae Kwon Do in the world.

Kaltz-Hall, and the father-son Gentzes demonstrated forms, and one-step sparring, "touch kicks," in which the candidate must kick an opponent hard enough to make contact, but controlled enough to not injure, was followed by one-on-one and two-on-one sparring. Lastly, the black belt candidates showed the crowd their focus and strength by breaking one-inch slabs of concrete. All succeeded.

The high ranking test for Poxson comprised in part of a choreographed fight, which Poxson performed in total darkness against six opponents whose wrists and ankles only were lit by glow-in-the-dark tubes. The fight included punches, kicks, board breaks, throws, take-downs and ended with a fantastic bamboo sword fight. The performance won Poxson a standing ovation which was started by Grandmaster Sell. Poxson concluded his test by breaking a concrete slab, using a technique never tried before, and he succeeded.
