Voters choose new leadership in elections

By Michelle Rogers and Angela Trotter
Staff Writers

Contrary to the federal level, where U.S. President Bill Clinton, a Democrat, was re-elected to a second term, the Republicans made a strong showing in local elections.

The only Democrats to win a seat were Andrew Adrian for Lima Township supervisor, Harold Trinkle for Lima Township trustee and Bill Eisenbeiser, Dexter Township clerk. Adrian upset veteran supervisor William Van Riper, 738-658, and Trinkle, normally a Republican who missed the filing date for the primary, posted 813 votes for trustee. Eisenbeiser ran uncontested after securing the Republican nomination during the primary. He garnered 1,574.

Results for Dexter Township supervisor were not available as of press time. Election officials were counting the number of write-in ballots cast for Jim Drolett, the current supervisor who was dethroned by John Sdao in the Republican primary race. Uncertified results show Sdao garnered 970 to Democrat challenger Burton Hoey's 421. Final results may be a week away.

Dexter Township Supervisor Jim Drolett hit the campaign trail early Tuesday morning hoping to garner enough write-in votes to maintain his 12-year post. Drolett was upset in the primary when newcomer John Sdao defeated him for Republican candidate. Drolett fought back with the help of a committee who initiated a write-in campaign. Pictured with Drolett, left, is Dan Rhodes, his committee organizer.

In other Dexter Township races, Julie Knight garnered 1,830 to retain her seat as treasurer; Libby Brushaber captured 1,569 and Harley Rider received 1,458 to serve as trustees on the board. Rider is an incumbent and Brushaber is a political newcomer.

In Lima Township, Arlene Bareis retained her seat as clerk with 1,110 votes; incumbent treasurer Betty Messman won another term with 1,154 votes; Robert Heller (857) and Trinkle (813) won re-election to their township board trustee posts. Political newcomer Charles Schauer lost with 644.

In Sylvan Township, Gerald Dresselhouse won re-election to the supervisor's post with 1,775; Arlene Grau garnered 1,771 votes for treasurer; LuAnn Koch captured 1,828 votes to retain her position as clerk; and fellow incumbents Earl Heller and Reuben Lesser, Jr. beat Libertarian James Hudler for trustee. Heller received 1,712, Lesser had 1,616 and Hudler took 387.

In Lyndon Township, the uncontested seats were seized by Maryann Noah with 686 for supervisor, Janis Knieper with 703 for clerk, Geraldine Reith with 694 for treasurer, Barbara Roderick garnered 615 for trustee and former Lyndon Township Supervisor John Francis captured 632 to serve as trustee.

In Scio Township, uncontested seats were retained by Supervisor Robert Tickle, 3,900; Clerk Gay Konschuh, 3,865; Treasurer Donna Palmer, 3,860; and Trustees James Cameron, 3,482; Aaron Machnik, 3,362; Charles Ream, 3,302; and Jerry Schleicher, 3,408.

In Webster Township, Don Zeeb prevailed as supervisor with 1,653, Wana Baldus as clerk with 1,648, Janis Keogh as treasurer with 1,606 and political newcomer Dean Fisher was elected as trustee with 1,185 and incumbent Paul Kleinschmidt was re-elected with 1,349. Democrat challenger Lanny Dunigan garnered 793 to lose his first race.

In Washtenaw County results, Peggy Haines (R) retained her seat as clerk with 60,749 to challenger Simone Lightfoot's (D) 48,203 and Joseph Yekulis retained his seat as 1st District County Commissioner, representing this area.

Also in this area, Mary Schroer was re-elected as State Representative for the 52nd District with 23,956. Challenger David Felbeck garnered 13,416 to lose.

In state results, Carl Levin (D) won the U.S. Senate and Debbie Stabenow (D) beat incumbent Dick Chrysler (R) in the 8th Congressional District. But if it were up to Washtenaw County voters, Chrysler would have retained his seat. County results show Chrysler garnered 14,645 to Stabenow's 12,749. Levin, however, captured the Washtenaw County vote in a landslide with 77,947 to Ronna Romney's 39,850.

Like voters across the country, the Washtenaw County electorate chose Clin-

—LaFave Scholarship Established—

Chelsea head football coach Gene LaFave, center, officially announced his retirement last Friday night, and his former players honored him by establishing the Gene LaFave Scholarship Fund. The fund already has more than $15,000. Former player John Dunn, surrounded by other former players on the field at half-time, made the presentation. To LaFave's right are his wife, Patty, and children Mary Kathryn and Gene, Jr. See the story on Gene LaFave in this week's sports section.

Board awards contracts, discusses Beach numbers

In addition to approving contracts for steel and concrete for the new high school building, the Chelsea Board of Education also appointed a negotiating team for upcoming teacher contract negotiations, discussed how to best handle the growing number of middle school students and agreed to begin public discussions about elementary school assignments at its Nov. 4 meeting.

The contract for building concrete for the new high school was awarded to Christman Constructors out of Lansing for a total of $1.69 million. The structural steel contract was awarded to Douglas Steel Fabrication, also out of Lansing, for $2.11 million. These were the lowest bids submitted from all contracts, and were about one percent under the designated budget.

The negotiating team appointed by the board of education for teacher contract negotiations consists of Superintendent Ed Richardson as chief negotiator, board of education President Jane Diesing, board members Sandra Merkel and Scott Broshar, and Assistant Superintendent Christine Annese. Teacher contract negotiations are scheduled to begin in the spring.

In other business, the board discussed the role of Beach Middle School in Chelsea's educational system and how to best handle projected growth in the number of middle school students over the next several years.

Under current conditions, Beach Middle School can comfortably accommodate about 750 students. This would leave 85 percent of all rooms occupied at any given time, with each room vacant for one period each day. This vacancy allows each teacher to have a period for preparing class work and assignments.

It is projected, however, that in the next few years, the number of middle school-age students is going to increase far beyond that figure.

"Are we building a school for more than 1,000 students, or are we building a school for the students we already have?" Richardson asked the school board. "That is what you have to decide."

Richardson said if the board wishes to accommodate more than 1,000 students at Beach, an additional wing for classrooms would need to be built, in addition to adding capacity to the cafeteria and music facilities.

If the board wishes to accommodate 750 students, as the planning team recommended, they will have to find another solution to provide for the increasing number of students.

One possible solution would be to send sixth grade students back to the elementary schools and create a kindergarten center on the site of the former high school. This would require taking some temporary measures at the middle school, such as portable classrooms, until the current high school facility is vacated.

Another possibility would be to house sixth graders at a

Schools to innovate food service program

The Board of Education was presented with a report on how the food service will change within the school district in coming years at its Nov. 4 meeting.

"What we're talking about is a major philosophical change in how things are done," said Assistant Superintendent Christine Annese.

She said with the school's current food service, students are presented with two options for lunch daily. In the new school, however, students will walk into the serving area at an entry point and will then have a number of different options from which to choose their lunch.

In addition to the traditional lunch menus being offered, there will also be many other non-traditional options.

There will be a grill where students can order such things as hamburgers and chicken sandwiches, which will be cooked fresh.

There will also be an Italian area, where a variety of pizza choices will be available daily.

A deli, where students can order sandwiches and make salads will be another option available.

"If students go to any one of these options they will get a complete meal," Annese said.

There will also be a snack bar closer to the cafeteria area, where breakfast will be available in the mornings in addition to snack foods.

"The entire food service will be nice, bright and attractive—a real big departure from what we're currently doing," Annese said.

Another change in the school's food service is that a debit card system will be implemented. Parents will be able to put as much money as they think is necessary into their child's account, and money is subtracted with each purchase the child makes.

This system will offer parents a number of benefits. If they wish to do so, parents will be able to obtain an itemized list of everything their child has purchased with the account.

Moonlight Madness to hit the streets of Chelsea

This Friday, Nov. 8, from 5 to 9 p.m. the Chelsea Merchants Association will be sponsoring Fall Moonlight Madness. Stores will stay open late and merchants will have an assortment of sales and specials.

Christmas is only a month away, so if you haven't started your shopping yet, this is the perfect opportunity. If the convenient late shopping hours and the tremendous sales are not enough to get you out shopping tomorrow, then how about some free family fun? How about a scavenger hunt?

If your kids like an adventure and they've seen a few Walt Disney movies, then bring them along and let them participate in Moonlight Madness Scavenger Hunt. Children ages 5-13 are invited to take part in the hunt from 6:30 to 8:30. Since the hunt will be judged on the number of correct answers and not the amount of time it will take to finish the hunt, parents can take time to do their shopping while on the hunt. Transportation will be needed because the scavenger hunt will involve stores both uptown and downtown.

The hunt will start at Johnson's How-To Store at 110 N. Main St. Participants can pick-up the clue sheet at Johnson's and proceed with the hunt. The clue sheet will list the Chelsea stores that will have the clues. The hunters must visit each store, find the clue and answer it. Judging will take place at 8:30 at the Chelsea State Bank. An exciting prize will be presented to the scavenger hunter who completes the hunt with the correct answers. Bring a pencil and a good sense of adventure and brush up on your Disney movies.

—Tin Man Shows His Mettle—

Young Jake Riemenschneider of Chelsea worked hard on his costume as the Tin Man from the Wizard of Oz. His costume went into great detail and was one of the best during last week's Kiwanis Halloween Party at Beach Middle School.

Opening Remarks

By Brian Hamilton

I wasn't quite the last person to vote Tuesday night in Lima Township, but almost.

I got in line at 7:40 p.m. and by 9:50 I was back in my car and headed for home. Just two hours and 10 minutes.

The only other voting line I saw all day—at Sylvan Town Hall—seemed to be of similar size. At 7:30 p.m. it looked as though the line was way down beyond Chelsea Glass. It just disappeared into the darkness and I couldn't see the end.

In 2000, I'm using an absentee ballot. It was ridiculous Tuesday night.

As of this writing, the final election results and statistics were not available. I don't know if it was an unusually high turnout or not. But let's suppose for a minute that it was about average. In other words, about 50 percent of registered voters actually showed up.

People fret and fume that Americans have such poor voting habits. But suppose 75 or 80 percent of the electorate had turned out. I'd still be in line. Lima Township, and apparently many other places, isn't equipped to handle an onslaught of voters. Lima Township had nine voting booths, but it needs to have at least double that number for major elections. No one should have to wait even an hour to vote, no matter what time of day.

I'd like to be able to vote by computer. That won't happen in my lifetime, though. Maybe it's time to consider Saturday elections or making election day a national holiday.

I have to hand it to the people in line. Very few people got disgusted, or too cold, and left. There were plenty of lively conversations going on around me, jokes about the front stairs of the town hall being a "bridge to the 21st century." "Think I've been watching too much TV?" the jokester asked. Someone mentioned he had heard on radio that President Bill Clinton had won Michigan. At that point, I wasn't even inside the town hall.

I also have to hand it to the Lima election workers. They were pleasant and efficient, even close to 10 p.m. They couldn't help it if they didn't have enough mechanical help.

Chelsea head football coach Gene LaFave has decided to retire after 18 seasons in Chelsea.

LaFave and I have had our disagreements over the years, mostly back when covering Chelsea sports was a significant part of my job. Part of the problem, I think, is I don't take high school football as seriously as he does. He is also a much more conservative person than I.

LaFave is passionate about his football program and the kids in it. Anyone who has been around him for 10 minutes knows that. He has been accused of being almost tyrannical and too demanding. But many of his former players appreciate the disciplined nature of the program. They are probably the best judges of the man, and they showed up in big numbers Friday night to honor him at half-time of his final game.

Monday during an interview I asked LaFave about the long-term value of football in a man's life, figuring I would get a predictable oratory about character-building, teamwork, etc.

He completely surprised me, however, with an eloquent defense of the value extra-curricular activities in general, with no specific mention of football. He recited statistics about how fine arts students tend to do better in high school than almost anyone else. He said that involvement in extra-curriculars seem to be even more predictive of later success for women than men, and more predictive of success in general than grade point average or standardized test scores. A key, he says, is they have to be directed by a responsible adult.

"If I were going to start a charter school, I would require that kids be involved in extra-curricular activities," he said.

He said he would require a certain level of extra-curricular involvement, and rate it based on the difficulty of the activity and the amount of time required.

LaFave talked about the "higher level of accountability" of being associated with a group effort as one of the reasons for the value of extra-curriculars. Kids are also forced to budget their time and become more disciplined in general.

"I tell kids, I don't care what you do, but just do something," he said about extra-curricular activities.

On that point, I couldn't agree with him more.

Uncle Apollo

Dear Uncle,

I have two questions maybe you can help me with. First, what do you do with old latex paint? You can't put it in the trash, the special amnesty folks specifically exclude it. It's too thick to paint the rock, and we end up with our own little toxic waste dumps in our basements.

I was also wondering what's with these teenagers who trick-or-treat, often without benefit of costume, when they're much too old for anything but greed to be the motive. Have they no pride? I look to you for answers.

Enquiring Mind
Via E-Mail

Dear Questionable Mind,

You came to the right place with your questions. While the more traditional place to ask would be the County Department of Environment and Infrastructure, all they would probably do was to tell you about their periodic home toxins collection days. There is a much better solution which will take care of two problems at once. As you know, teenagers will eat anything and are usually grateful for it. Therefore, your best bet is to save up this stuff until next Halloween and give it to those greedy teens that come around Trick-or-Treating. Chances are it will be gone within hours, and it will be a lot better for them than plenty of the other stuff they eat. The only downside to this is that it tends to result in a lot more tattoos, body piercing and weird hairdos.

Uncle

To Uncle Apollo,
My favorite Uncle is Uncle Ron, not you.

Dear Unsigned,

Isn't it always that way? You work hard, pedal your way around the country in service to America, and when you get back they treat you like a stranger. Here I was gonna give everybody a 90 percent tax cut and fund it with my credit cards, pass a law that allows villages to close off their roads to everyone except residents, and enact cow-friendly legislation. But nobody cares. I stayed up all night on Tuesday, hoping someone would come through for me at the last minute, but even my friends abandoned me. Imagine it! Here I am, a local guy, and I didn't even get a mention in The Chelsea Standard article. Since when have I been part of a "slew"? It sounded like Ross Perot was even the head of that slew, even after he stole my medicare idea and made all that money. Sheesh. I know when I'm not appreciated. Just see if I run for president again. Except maybe in the Village. Or maybe for village council. That's coming up, isn't it? I'll bet I could really do some good there. So go ahead and vote for Uncle Ron, I'll find somebody to vote for me.

separate facility on the former high school site.

Board members said they would prefer to keep the number of students at the middle school at the lower figure.

"We ought to keep them in a smaller building and make other arrangements," said board member Conrad Knutsen.

Janet Roberts noted studies that show at the high school level, educational services are delivered better if schools house smaller numbers of students. She anticipated this trend to be similar for middle school students.

Scott Broshar said he would have concerns over asking sixth grade students to readjust to life at the elementary level.

The board agreed to continue exploring and brainstorming options available to the community, so that they are fully prepared when the time to make this decision arises.

"We need to look at what makes sense educationally and what are the natural points of the kids' social development," Sandra Merkel, a board member said.

In other business, the Board of Education agreed to schedule a series of public meetings to discuss how students will be assigned which elementary school they will attend once the Pierce Lake building is completed.

Lunches to change at new CHS

Another benefit of this system is that there would be no difference in payment methods for students who receive free or reduced lunches. Every student would utilize the same mechanism, regardless of social class.

Dietary information could also be put into the debit card system. This would better accommodate students with special dietary needs. For example, if a student were allergic to peanuts, and a certain food had been cooked in peanut oil, a reporting mechanism would warn the student of the food's content if he tried to purchase it.

Annese said this entire food service concept is innovative, and is likely the direction other districts will move in the future.

GOING GREEN ON ST. JOHN

A Caribbean holiday is the picture of pampered bliss for many of us. Concerns about the ecology? Please, worldly worries are what most of us want to get away from, at least for awhile. There is a place, though, where you can melt into the magic of the region while doing something good for the environment. St. John, the smallest of the U.S. Virgin Islands, now boasts two resorts that focus on the low-tech, simple pleasures of life. Harmony is a new luxury compound that operates solely on sun and wind power, and was built recently of recycled or "environmentally sensitive" materials. The more rustic Maho Bay Camps, opened almost 20 years ago, features tent-cottages perched above a quiet private beach.

Whenever & wherever you visit in the Caribbean, you'll feel like you've stepped into another world. Life's pace slows down, the scenery is compelling, even the air and light are different. To get the most from this other world, first visit UNIGLOBE CHELSEA TRAVEL, INC., 475-3110. Throughout our many years of travel experience, our agents have become very familiar with many Caribbean destinations like St. John. Let us put that experience to work for you at 1070 South Main Street. Our knowledge and resources ensure you'll end up with the most favorable fares, rates, and accommodations.

Superintendent's Corner

By Edward Richardson
Chelsea School Superintendent

Once upon a time there was a bear family named Mr. and Mrs. School Bear. They had three children: North Bear, South Bear, and Pierce Bear.

Now, North Bear and South Bear were married and had homes of their own. North Bear had a Frank Lloyd Wright era home, and South Bear had an early colonial style. About the time Pierce Bear was getting married, Mr. and Mrs. School Bear decided to use their well earned investments to build three homes, one for each of their children.

Since they loved all three children well, they wanted to be certain that each had a home that was best for them. To do this, Mr. and Mrs. School Bear had an architect redesign North Bear's home, taking into account the special, beautiful features of its home.

Likewise, South Bear's home was to be renovated to accommodate its family and the unique features of its time-period style. Pierce Bear's home would need to be designed and constructed to meet its family's needs, because Pierce Bear presently has no home.

After carefully considering the needs of each bear's home, Mr. and Mrs. School Bear hired an architect and a construction manager to design their children's homes. The homes will be different. The homes will have unique features. But, all three homes were built with Mr. and Mrs. School Bear's loving desire to provide the best possible home for all of their children.

Women's club gets first-hand look inside Jiffy Mix company

On Sept. 22 after a luncheon and business meeting at the Chelsea Community Hospital, the Woman's Club of Chelsea toured the Chelsea Milling Company.

The group gathered in a general meeting room, there a slide show presented by Jennifer Guenther detailed a brief history of the mill and the manufacture of a mix from grain to a product ready for shipping.

Of interest, is the fact that the company was the first to manufacture a totally-prepared dry biscuit mix which Mrs. Mable Holmes, matriarch of the Holmes family, named "Jiffy Mix" because the biscuits could be made "in a jiffy." The name is applied now to 19 different mixes.

After the slide show the ladies were treated to coffee cake prepared from Jiffy products by test kitchen cook, Lynne Farley.

The ladies were divided into two groups and were led into the packaging and filling area of the mill after donning dust caps.

Jennifer and Lynne, armed with megaphones, explained the operations of the "box making machines" which take the flat cardboard, lines it with wax paper and folds it into a box which is pushed on to a conveyor that carries it to its correct filling station.

After the filling of the box it is then weighed and sealed and conveyed to the carton boxer. Finally it is sent to the storerooms and loading area.

As they left, the ladies were given two muffin mixes of their choice. They enjoyed their visit to "Jiffy Mix" and appreciated very much being able to see how a product they use is produced in their own hometown.

Area directory needs info.

The Chelsea Standard is producing the first Chelsea Area Directory, which will be distributed in late December or early January.

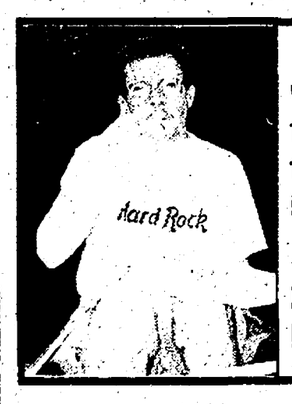

As part of the directory, we want to include the names, addresses, phone numbers, meeting places and current presidents of all Chelsea-area organizations and civic groups.

If your organization would like to be included in the directory, please send the information to our office at 101 N. Main St., Chelsea, 48118 or bring it in during business hours, 8:30 to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Deadline is Friday, Nov. 22.

Ghosts, goblins and witches descend upon Beach for Kiwanis bash

In the 12-year-old and over category, Rochelle Stafford took first place in the best-looking costume category dressed as the bride of Frankenstein. Caitlin Biedron took second place with her magician costume, and third place went to Britney Williams, who was dressed as a Dutch girl.

The most original costume award for the 10- and 11-year-old division was given to Virginia Bailey, Laura Adams, Emily Leidner, Sara Munger and Anne Haroney. The five girls were dressed as a package of Skittles candy. Second place was awarded to Jennifer Williams, who was wearing a mad scientist costume, and Kirk Aldrich, dressed as a violin player, won third place. The judges for the 10- and 11-year-old division were Stephanie Osborne and Gayle Gorton.

Christine Scharrer won first place for the best-looking costume in the 8- and 9-year old division with her genie costume. Angela and Eric Gordon were awarded second place with their Kangaroo costume, with Angela dressed as "Kanga" and her younger brother, Eric, as "roo". Kyle Branham won third place dressed as a clown.

Kara Fark won first place for the most original costume with her unicorn outfit for the 6- and 7-year-old age group. Casey Sullens won second place dressed as a butterfly, and Alyssa Riemenschneider won third place with her bird costume. Judges for this division were Celeste Balogh and Mike Bristle.

The most original costume winner for the 4- and 5-year olds was Amanda Roderick dressed as race-car driver Jeff Gordon. Gregory Cornwall took second place dressed as Curious George, and Adam and Devin Bauer won third place dressed as yodelers. The judges for this division were Deb Bauer and Diana Valzania.

In the 10- and 11-year-old division, Alise Augustine took first place dressed as Woodstock from the Peanuts comic strip for the best-looking costume. Erin Nelson took second with her space creature costume, and Jeremy Push won third place dressed as Dracula.

In the 6- and 7-year-old category, Kelly Tooy won first place for the best-looking costume with her witch disguise. Colin Blacksma won second place, dressed as a knight, and third place was awarded to Chelsea Raupp with her clown costume.

Weddings, Engagements and Anniversaries

Stacy McGeorge and Richard Proctor are wed

Stacy Michelle McGeorge, of Sherwood, Ark., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William McGeorge, was united in marriage to Captain Richard Proctor of Sherwood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Sweet of Chelsea.

The couple were married Sept. 14 at the Little Rock Air Force Base Chapel, with Lt. Col. Darrell Cook presiding over the ceremony.

Lisa Downs, an aunt of the bride from Cabot, Ark. served as the matron of honor, and David Proctor, the groom's brother from Traverse City, was the best man.

Bridesmaids were Annie Walker of Little Rock, Ark. and Amy Butler of Chelsea.

Capt. Daryl Walker of Little Rock, Ark. and Chris McGeorge of Cabot, Ark. were the groomsmen.

The saber guard consisted of Capt. Paul Chastain, Capt. Mike Ozment, Capt. Steve Wisser and Capt. John Dowd.

The organist was Janet Cook, and the soloist was Capt. Daryl Walker.

The reception was held at the Guest House Inn in Jacksonville, Ark. following the ceremony.

The couple took a five-day honeymoon in New Orleans before returning to their home in Sherwood, Ark.

Kristin Dobler Messana marries Abraham vanReesena in Northville

Kristin Dobler Messana of Chelsea, daughter of Gordon and Janis Dobler of Portage, was united in marrige to Willem Abraham S. vanReesema of Ann Arbor, son of Dr. Frederik and Carole S. vanReesema of Chelsea.

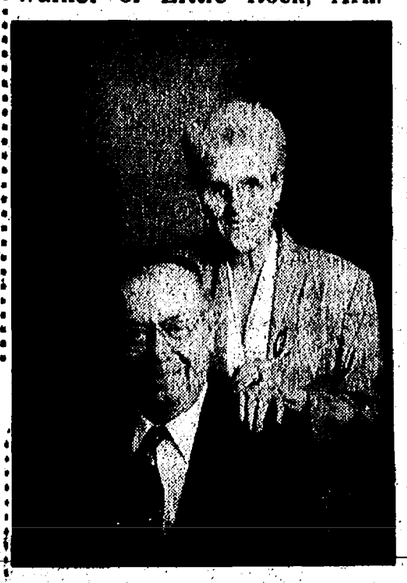

The couple were married Aug. 10 in the garden of their new home in Northville.

Rev. Dr. Lynn Spitz-Nagel of St. Paul United Methodist Church of Christ presided over the ceremony.

Lisa Haase, a friend of the bride from Midland, Mich. served as the matron of honor. The best man was Matt Grau, a friend of the groom from Portland, Oregon.

The bride is a graduate of Portage High School and Michigan State University. She graduated from college in 1989 with a bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering. She is employed by CMS Energy in Dearborn.

The groom is a 1985 graduate of Chelsea High School, and graduated from Michigan State University with a liberal arts degree in 1989. He works for Contract Interiors in Southfield.

Kuhls to celebrate 50th

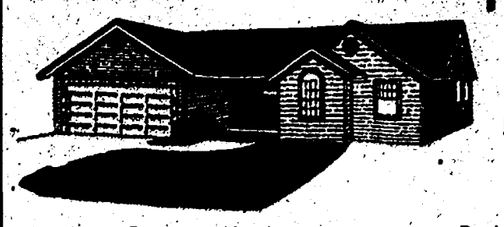

Margaret and Homer Kuhl of Chelsea will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary Nov. 27. The couple were married Nov. 27, 1946 at St. Paul parsonage by the late Rev. P.H. Grabowski.

Margaret and Homer's children will hold an open house for friends and relatives Nov. 16 from 4-7 p.m. at the United Auto Workers Local 1284-2795 on south M-52.

They have three children, Gregory (Gail) Kuhl of Manchester, Pamela (David) Dascola of Chelsea and Deborah (James) Diedrich of Manchester. The couple also have six grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Margaret is retired from Rockwell International in Asheville, N.C., and Homer is retired from Federal Screw Works in Chelsea. Both are members of St. Paul United Church of Christ and are active volunteers for the Chelsea Community Hospital Auxiliary.

The FirstRate Fund.
The Connections Savings Account.

Now there are two rock solid ways to make your money grow while you still have access to it.

The FirstRate Fund. A $10,000 minimum opening deposit account. Earn a rate tied to the highly competitive 91-day T-Bill for balances of $10,000 or more.

And the Connections Savings Account. Get high rate savings with a $1,000 minimum opening deposit when you have at least one other First of America account.

Both these accounts are fully liquid. Both are risk-free. And if you're an existing FirstRate Fund or Connections Savings customer, we'll give you these bonus rates when you make an additional deposit and bring in a copy of this ad. In the case of FirstRate Fund customers, make a deposit of $5,000 and we'll give you this special rate on your entire balance if your new balance is $10,000 or more. And it only takes $1,000 for Connections Savings customers.

So stop by any First of America Bank office or call 1-800-222-4FOA to open your account by mail.

First of America. We're the bank that is working a little harder for you.

FIRST AMERICA Bank

Annual Percentage Yields (APYs) accurate as of 10/21/96 and subject to change without notice after account opening. Fees may reduce earnings on your account. The APY for FirstRate Fund balances of $10,000 or more is tied to the 91-Day T-Bill rate. The APY for balances below $10,000 is determined by the bank and currently being set equal to 1.26%. EQUINE COLIC - Part II
J.F. Lane, D.V.M. M.C. Lane, D.V.M.

What are the signs of colic? A colicky horse may show any of the following symptoms: sweating, kicking or biting at the belly, looking back at its belly, tucking up the abdomen, stretching out, pawing violently or lying down and rolling, thrashing violently or assuming unusual postures as with all four feet in the air.

Chronic colic is generally accompanied by much less severe signs. The horse may exhibit decreased appetite, lie down more than normal, or be lethargic and inactive.

When colic signs first appear, try walking the horse for 45 minutes to 1 hour. If the horse still exhibits signs after that time, or cannot be gotten up or kept up, the veterinarian should be called immediately. If the owner suspects chronic colic, professional care should be sought, but it is not necessarily an emergency requiring immediate attention.

Colic can be a symptom of a potentially life-threatening condition. Do not try to deal with it entirely on your own - at least discuss the problem with a veterinarian. You can consult with one of the veterinarians at the Lane Animal Hospital by calling 475-8696 to discuss the problem and determine if a farm visit is needed.

HINT: Your horse's digestive tract function depends on adequate roughage in its diet - do not skimp on hay regardless of price.

Arbor Hospice breaks ground on new facility

Dexter resident Lea Fischer participated in groundbreaking ceremonies for the Arbor Hospice Residence on Sunday, Oct. 20 at 2366 Oak Valley Dr. on Ann Arbor's west side.

As one of the founding staff of Arbor Hospice, Fischer represented all the employees by placing a puzzle piece in the "Fabric of Life" mosaic that symbolizes the agency's community-wide residence campaign. Thanks to an outpouring of support from the staff, board members, family members, patients and individuals, Arbor Hospice has already raised $1.5 million of its $3.5 million goal.

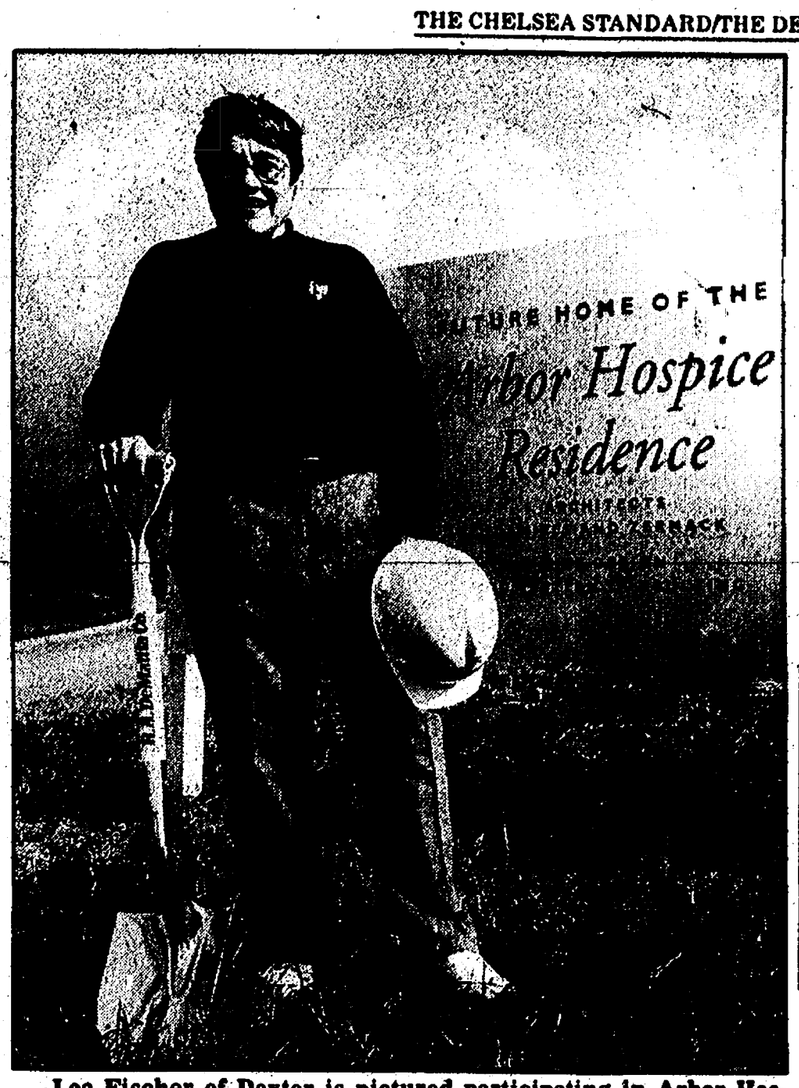

Fischer says, "I joined the agency as their first social worker in 1984. As far back as 12 years, we were talking about the need of a residence. Breaking ground on the residence brings a real sense of relief to the Arbor Hospice staff as it distresses them when patients cannot remain at home and do not have home-like options available to them which serve the needs of both the patient and all the family members. Our oldest citizens are those most often in need of residential care."

"Time and again, I see an elderly and frail spouse caring for their terminally ill loved one. It is amazing how well they do but providing such care is extremely demanding. Some elderly simply do not have a caregiver at all. The whole health care system has shifted. Today insurance companies no longer cover the cost of hospitals caring for a terminally ill patient. Patients are returned home with family members ill-prepared to care for them. At any given time, Arbor Hospice has three to five patients who would benefit from residential care. The Residence is a needed service to the Dexter/Washtenaw community."

The new 30-bed Residence is a community resource for terminally ill patients who, for a variety of reasons, cannot remain at home. Ideally, hospice care takes place in the comfort and privacy of a patient's home. When this is not possible, residential hospice care is a cost-effective option.

The residence has been sensitively designed to create an environment that supports the Arbor Hospice philosophy of total care for patients and families. Private rooms furnished with personal items encourage families to spend the day or night with patients. The rooms look out onto gardens, nature walkways and a children's playground. Families are included in mealtime, served either in the dining room, around the fireplace, or in the patient's room. A special kitchen is designed for families to cook their favorite foods.

Scheduled to open in summer 1997, the Arbor Hospice Residence will also house the agency's administrative offices and community meeting rooms, and, is designated by the International Hospice Institute, to be the hospice training center for international hospice professionals. If you are interested in knowing more about the residence or wish to make a contribution, please call Arbor Hospice at 313-677-0500.

Farm Bureau fun facts

Early American colonists brought pigs to the new settlements on the Atlantic seaboard in the late 1500's. In the late 1600's, farmers began feeding Indian corn to hogs. That laid the foundation for the modern U.S. pork industry. In the early American colonies, hogs were taken to market in large droves and over trails that later became the routes of the major railroads.

Fall is the time to plan ahead for next year's garden. If you didn't keep a garden journal, write down as much as you can remember right now about specific vegetables your family liked or disliked, as well as the planting and harvesting dates, quantities planted and insect problems.

Sheriff's department receives recognition

Washtenaw County Sheriff Ronald J. Schebil, was recently presented a Commendation Award from the National Commission Against Drunk Driving, for the department's exemplary work in reducing the incidence of drunk and impaired driving in Washtenaw County.

This prestigious award was presented by the NCADD Board of Directors at their 12th Annual Awards Program in October. The NCADD created its awards program to foster a nationwide exchange of innovative program ideas and effective techniques that work, in preventing drunk and impaired driving. The criteria for this particular award covered "...law enforcement officials who have shown superior initiative and employed innovative techniques in the election and deterrence of DWI offenders."

The awards committee unanimously voted to bestow the Commendation Award to the sheriff's department in recognition of the outstanding commitment shown by this agency to provide safer roads and highways in Washtenaw County.

Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department has long been a proponent of collaborative law enforcement, traffic safety enforcement and of drunk driving prevention initiatives and education. The sheriff's department pioneered efforts in traffic safety through education as far back as the early 1980s, by implementing the "Drunk Driving Prevention Program", which focused on educating new and young drivers on the dangers of drinking and driving, and for which it received national recognition in 1988.

In addition, in 1990, the sheriff's department was involved with the Ann Arbor Police Department and the National Public Services Research Institute, in a unique project entitled the, "Alcohol Server Intervention Program", which was a joint campaign to reduce the occurance of intoxicated people being served alcohol in area bars and restaurants.

Not long ago, too, the department was lead agency, within a multi-agency collaboration, on a safety belt enforcement project and traffic safety program, called "Project S.T.A.R.T." (Specific Target Accident Reduction Team), that identified, monitored and targeted key, high-collision incident intersections in the County. This one-year project, which was initiated in 1991 and funded by the Michigan Office of Highway Safety Planning, focused on reducing traffic collisions by increasing traffic enforcement at specified intersections; issuing traffic citations and warnings for primary and secondary traffic violations; and distributing printed information specifically tailored for each target site, informing motorists about ways in which they could help reduce the collision potential at those locations.

In 1992, the Sheriff's Department was also awarded a three-year grant through the Michigan Office of Highway Safety Planning and the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA), for the "County-Wide Youth Impaired Driving Program." (The Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department was one of five grantees in the state for this project.) This program, too, was a multi-agency project that targeted young drivers and, in recognizing the dangers that youth impaired drivers have on the community, it focused on ways to impact the social problem of juvenile alcohol issues.

"It was for the invaluable work that resulted from the "County-Wide Youth Impaired Driving Program", that the Sheriff's Department was awarded this Commendation Award from the National Commission Against Drunk Driving", said Schebil.

This innovative project took on a dual approach; one approach being alcohol enforcement, in which all Washtenaw County law enforcement agencies participated; and the second, education.

The Sheriff's Department and other police agencies worked closely with parents and various community coalitions in the county, to bring them education and financial resources with which they could assist their respective communities in dealing with this troubling issue and to save the lives of our young people," Schebil said.

IMPORTANCE OF YOUR MEDICAL HISTORY

Your general medical history has a lot to do with the type of treatment you will receive at your dentist. For example, if you are taking a drug affecting blood clotting, the dentist should be informed so as to be aware of potential hemorrhaging problems should he have to extract a tooth. A patient with high blood pressure should certainly inform the dentist. Certain anesthetics and medications should be used in preference to others.

If you have some form of heart condition, the dentist may change his method of working with you. The patient with a cardiac pacemaker should certainly inform his dentist. The dentist might have planned to do electrosurgery, a technique that utilizes high-frequency current to remove gum tissue. If the pacemaker doesn't have proper shields or safeguards, the high frequency current could cause it to stop or become erratic. The dentist can use other means of treatment. If you are pregnant, diabetic, allergic to certain medication, your dentist must know these things - it's for YOUR benefit.

Chelsea High School debaters Richard Murphy, Jill Wesolowski, Karina Wahr and Jeannette McDougall won a second-place trophy at a recent competition in Frankenmuth. Overall the team is doing very well this year, with a record of 48-26.

Experts recommend harvesting corn while still moist

Most of Michigan's corn seems to have matured better than agonomists anticipated a couple of months ago, so allowing it to remain in the field much longer may not be of much benefit.

"Even with the forecast for normal precipitation and normal temperatures for the next 30 days, I would not expect a lot more drying to occur in the field from this point on," says Roger Brook, Michigan State University Extension agricultural engineer.

He says that the drying rate of corn in the field will diminish significantly as weather cools and that field drying essentially stops by mid- to late November.

In making harvest decisions, growers should also take into account the effect that the European corn borer may have had on cornstalk and ear strength.

"The extent of the corn borer infestation this summer probably means that, in much of the corn, the stalks are not real solid and could be easily lodged by high winds or a wet snow," Brook says. "Considering this and the risk of mold development, I think that producers will see losses increase by leaving corn in the field for much longer this fall."

Ideally, corn should be harvested when kernel moisture is around 24 to 28 percent, but this fall it might be better to begin harvest when moisture is a percentage point or so higher, he says.

"I think that we quite often overplay the cost of drying relative to the value of the crop, and considering the current market value of the crop, I think the grower will be much further ahead by getting the corn out of the field, dried down and into storage where it will keep at a better quality and be usable for market management," Brook says.

He says even with the immaturity of some of the corn, it will need no special handling or consideration in the drying process, though the test weight will be lower than normal.

Immature soybeans that went into storage green should, for the most part, turn brown, given good storage management.

What the buyer thinks of the quality of the soybeans may be another matter, which is a reason for growers to consider selling immature soybeans to livestock producers, Brook says.

"The soybeans will need to be roasted before they can be fed as a percentage of the livestock's diet, and considering the shortfall in feed crops for the beef and dairy industry, that may be as good a market for immature soybeans as anything else," he adds.

Regardless of what grain is being stored, growers need to make sure the grain is aerated and inspected regularly. Grain temperatures should be tracked through storage. Stored grain temperatures should be between 30 and 50 degrees F.

If stored grain develops a quality problem, it will most likely appear in or be confined to the top 3 feet.

"Being able to get into the top of the bin and walk around and inspect the quality of the grain is important, especially in a year like the one we've been having," Brook says.

He says growers should look for moisture condensation on the underside of the roof and check how well the grain supports their feet. They should feel the grain for increases in moisture or temperature and smell for any off-odors. The development of odors indicates that earlier inspections missed something.

Brook adds that one of the most important aspects of on-farm stored grain management is having a good aeration system that is able to effectively correct problems that may occur in storage.

He cautions that grain that was of poor quality at harvest should probably not be stored into next summer.

"Grain quality can never be improved during storage," Brook says. "Keep poor quality grain in separate bins from good quality grain. This provides more flexibility for special management, feed mixing and marketing options."

Area Job Fair first in nation

In what's being touted as the first of its kind in the state, and perhaps the nation, the Michigan Employment Security Commission is co-sponsoring a job fair for convicted felons.

"This has never been tried before as far as we know," said F. Robert Edwards, executive director of the MESC. "This great idea for a segment of society that traditionally has a high unemployment rate."

The job fair, dubbed the "Fresh Start Job Fair," will run Nov. 20 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Lighthouse Cathedral, 8601 Woodward Ave., Detroit. Co-sponsors include the Michigan Neighborhood Partnership and the City of Detroit Employment and Training.

State corrections officials say the job fair will help ex-offenders forego the drudgery and potential pitfalls of going from door to door for jobs. Some ex-offenders are very self-conscious about their record when applying for jobs.

"The employers at the job fair will already know they have records," said Edwards. "It's not going to be an issue. We are anticipating a very successful job fair."

The U.S. Bureau of Prisons in Washington said it knew of no such program anywhere in the country.

The "Fresh Start Job Fair" was conceived by Martha Smith and Nancy Berg, probation agents with the Michigan Department of Corrections.

"It was a collaborative idea," said Berg. "We saw the need for something like this and went to the MESC. They are organizing the event in partnership with the Detroit clergy."

"Employment is probably the biggest problem that offenders have in terms of re-establishing themselves in the community," Berg said. "They have to get jobs or they often wind up back in trouble again."

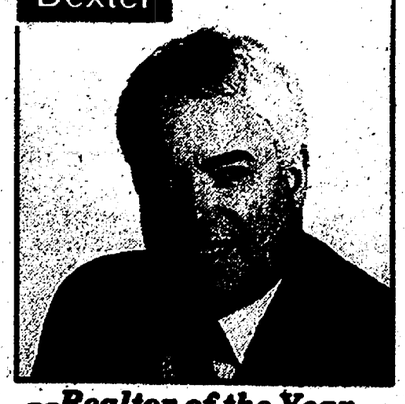

To assure success, local religious leaders are being asked to encourage employers and prospective employees to participate in the event.

The job fair will provide job counseling and help ex-offenders put together resumes on the spot. A computer with local state and national job listings will also be available.

Employers will be entitled to tax breaks for hiring ex-felons. The MESC will also be offering free federal bonding insurance for up to one year since commercial firms refuse to issue bonds to convicted felons. If all works out, after a year, the employer can continue the coverage, but at commercial rates.

This event will be the last of a series of job fairs held this year as part of an innovative effort to revitalize Detroit neighborhoods through partnerships among state agencies and faith-based organizations.

ton as the winner with 71,004 to Dole's 39,349.

A proposal to ban hunting on Sundays was rejected and Washtenaw Community College's request for extra millage funding passed.

The break down of results for how township voters cast their ballots in state and national elections was not available as of press time.

Half the state's six proposals passed, including Proposals B, C, E and G. Results from Washtenaw County voters are as follows: Proposal A, which allows bingo and raffles to be allowed for charities, was shot down, 56,611 to 51,465. Proposal B, which requires candidates for judicial offices to be licensed attorneys for at least five years before their elections, passed, 82,724 to 27,675. Proposal C, which would protect the Michigan Veteran's Trust Fund so money could only be used to benefit veterans, passed, 65,480 to 36,044. Proposal D, which limits bear hunting and prohibits using bait and dogs, was defeated, 63,183 to 53,266. Proposal E, which would permit up to three casinos in any city of 800,000 or more residents that is located within 100 miles of another state or country where gaming is allowed and has had casino gambling approved by a majority of its voters, passed statewide but rejected in Washtenaw County, garnered 55,103 yes votes and 61,845 no votes in the county. Proposal G, which allows the state's Natural Resource Commission authority over the taking of all game passed, 67,480 to 44,024.

Dexter

—Sweet Scarecrows—

The mother-daughter duo of Sharia, 14 months, and Doreen Sugierski arrived at pre-school on Halloween dressed in scarecrow costumes. They got into the festivity of things when they dropped of pre-schooler Shelby Sugierski for class and trick or treating in the halls of Wylie Middle School.

—Costume-Clad Kids—

Costume-clad children arrived at Dexter pre-school Thursday to celebrate Halloween. Pictured are Kayla Grant, Shelby Sugierski and Andrew Sinelli.

Baton twirling contest slated.

The Pumpkin Patch Baton Twirling Contest was held on Saturday, Oct. 26, at Sycamore Junior High School in Sycamore, Ill.

The event was sponsored by Marlyn Majors Drum Corps, Marlyn's Majorettes, parents and alumni. This "Fun Contest of the Year" attracted the entire east coast and as far south as Florida.

Over one thousand baton twirlers and their families traveled to Sycamore for the event and the other Pumpkin Fest events. This is a favorite event for the baton twirlers because of the unique halloween trophies and gifts from local merchants and sponsors.

Four local twirlers competed this past weekend at the Pumpkin Patch Contest. They were Shannon Weeks from Chelsea, Stephanie Mitchell from Dexter, and Liesl Green and Jessica Potter, both from Saline. All four girls brought home honors.

Shannon placed ninth in pageant modeling and solo and sixth in pageant strut.

Jessica won the Beginning Visitors Solo. 7-9. She also placed third in Open Basic Strut.

Liesl Green took home second place Overall in the Pumpkin Patch Novice, age 10-12. by earning a first in Pageant Modeling and Solo and a sixth in Basic Strut.

Stephanie Mitchell was crowned the Beginning Pumpkin Patch Princess. She won this overall award by placing second in Pageant Modeling and Solo and a first in Pageant Strut.

Jessica and Liesl are members of the Saline Twirlers. Shannon and Stephanie are members of the Chelsea Baton Corps. All four twirlers are coached by Susan Usher. Twirlers in the area are now preparing for the Nov. 16 state competition and the Dec. 7 Miss Holiday Contest.

Holiday fair slated Nov. 4

The eighth annual Handspinners' Holiday Fair, slated Nov. 30, will feature a wide range of unique items handcrafted by members of Spinners' Flock, a Washtenaw County-based handspinners' guild.

Holiday shoppers can choose from hand-woven rugs and scarves, knitted and felted apparel, baskets, ornaments, toys, and dolls, handspun years, spinning and weaving equipment and related handcraft tools and books. During sale hours there will be demonstrations or handspinning and other handcrafts.

Visitors will be invited to enter their names in a drawing for a door prize.

The fair will be held at Matthaei Botanical Gardens, 1800 N. Dixboro Rd., Ann Arbor, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Admission is free.

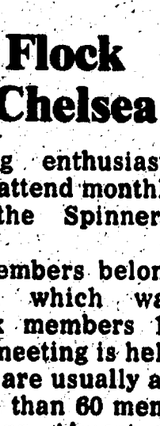

Spinners Flock meets in Chelsea

Handspinning enthusiasts are welcome to attend monthly meetings of the Spinners' Flock.

Some 120 members belong to the guild, which was founded by six members 17 years ago. The meeting is held in Chelsea, and are usually attended by more than 60 members and visitors. Almost as many spinning wheels show up and are put to work for the three to four hours that the meetings last.

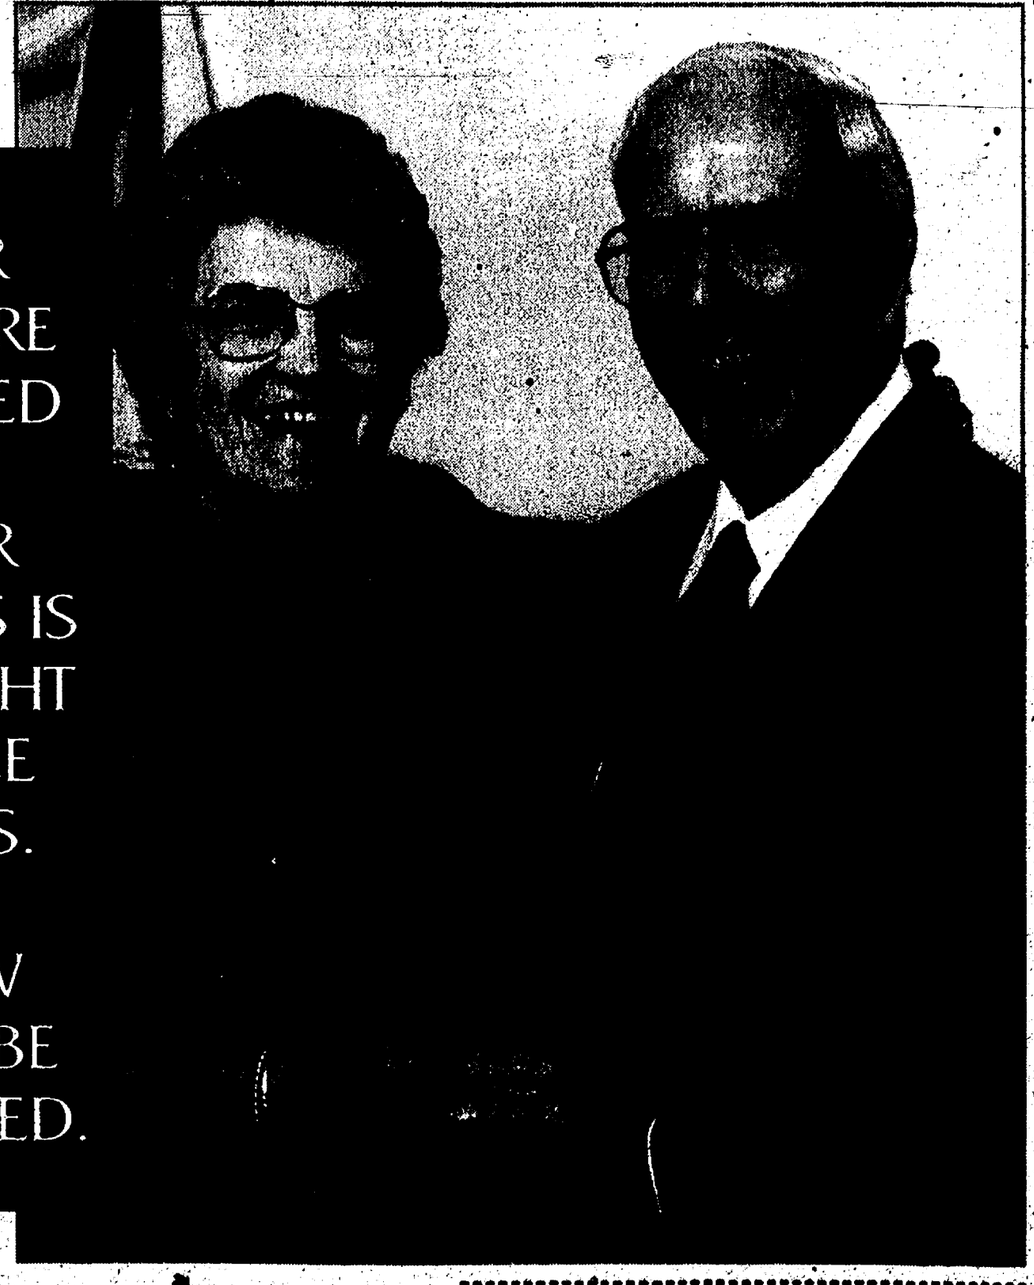

A regular feature of the meeting is the Learners' Circle where beginning spinners receive instruction in the use of hand spindles and spinning wheels. Members interests include spinning, knitting, felting and using quality yarns.

For the time and location of meetings call 475-2306 or 662-6366.

Dexter Village

Warrant Arrest

Nanse Kolander, 26, of Dexter was arrested by a Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputy at her apartment in the 3400 block of Dover Street, Oct. 29. She was wanted on a felony warrant out of Wayne County for violating probation on charges of possessing cocaine.

Larceny

Larceny was reported in the 7900 block of Grand Street, Oct. 28. A 21-year-old Dexter man told a sheriff's deputy a set of car keys was stolen after three teenagers asked to use his telephone because they were stranded in Dexter. The teens were at his home about 7:15 p.m.

Property Damage

Malicious destruction of property was reported in the 7700 block of Fourth Street, Oct. 31. A 39-year-old Dexter man told a sheriff's deputy someone sprayed black paint all over his white, 1990 Ford Probe. The damage occurred between 6:30 p.m. Oct. 30 and 7:45 a.m. Oct. 31.

Assault and Battery

Assault and battery was reported at Mug & Bopps party store, 2940 Baker Rd., Oct. 25. A 16-year-old Dexter girl told a sheriff's deputy a 17-year-old girl attacked her after a confrontation at school. The victim explained to police that she told the girl to "stop acting like trash" when she overheard the girl talking about beating up another girl. The victim said she left the school and drove around Dexter, stopping at Mug & Bopps for gas. While she sat in the car, the suspect approached her and struck her in the side of the head twice. The suspect admitted to the assault and apologized to police. The victim wants the girl prosecuted. Three teens witnessed the attack.

Chelsea Village

Warrant Arrest

Kathleen K. Wells, 46, of Brooklyn was arrested by Chelsea Police on S. Main Street near the entrance to Chelsea Community Hospital, Oct. 30. She was initially stopped for speeding. A computer check, however, revealed she was wanted in Jackson County for a traffic offense and on a misdemeanor warrant for a health and safety violation. She posted bond and was released.

Michael L. Getzen, 40, of Adrian was approached by Chelsea Police on S. Main Street near Chelsea Pets & Plants, Oct. 30. Getzen was hitchhiking with his young son. A computer check revealed he was wanted on a criminal bench warrant after failing to appear in court on charges of possessing open intoxicants in a motor vehicle. Getzen was advised of the warrant and released.

Liquor Violations

An 18-year-old Midland man was cited for possession of alcohol and for having open intoxicants in a motor vehicle on Main Street near Park Street, Nov. 3. Employees at Taco Bell gave police a partial license plate number and a description after the teen passed through the drive-thru with open intoxicants in his vehicle. The teen was stopped and cited moments later.

A Chelsea teen was cited for having open intoxicants in a motor vehicle and for being a minor in possession of alcohol, Oct. 26. The teen was a passenger in a vehicle pulled over initially because police suspected the driver and two passenger's involvement in another complaint.

Property Damage

Property damage was reported in the 100 block of South Street, Oct. 30. A 1987 Acura owned by a 23-year-old Ann Arbor woman sustained damage when a tree limb fell on it. Police noted there was a high wind advisory issued by the National Weather Service. The vehicle's passenger-side rear-view window was damaged.

Property damage was reported in the 100 block of South Street, Oct. 30. A 1994 Ford Explorer owned by a Dexter woman sustained $1,500 damage when tree limbs fell on it. Damage primarily included scratches to the paint.

Malicious destruction of property was reported at Chelsea High School, 500 Washington St., Nov. 3. Concrete blocks were thrown through two windows between 11 p.m. Nov. 2 and 9 a.m. Nov. 3.

Malicious destruction of property was reported at Chelsea Lanes, 1180 S. Main Street, Oct. 26. An 18-year-old Gregory man told police he suspects a 19-year-old Chelsea woman, his former girlfriend, of denting the hood and driver's side door of his 1991 Ford Mustang. Damage is estimated at $335.

Possible malicious destruction of property was reported in the 400 block of W. Middle St., Nov. 3. A 21-year-old Chelsea man told police he suspects a Manchester man of cutting a spark plug wire in his 1987 Pontiac. The incident occurred between Oct. 30 and Oct. 31.

Civil Incident

A civil incident was investigated by Chelsea Police at Chelsea Lanes, 1180 S. Main St., Oct. 26. A 19-year-old Chelsea woman was found to be tampering with her former boyfriend's vehicle. She told police she owned a pair of speakers in his car and he refused to give them back. The vehicle owner told police the girl never paid for the speakers in full and she still owes his cousin for them. Police told the couple they would have to settle the matter in civil court.

Dexter Township

Warrant Arrest

Anthony A. Williams, 28, of Ann Arbor was arrested by a sheriff's deputy on Dexter-Pinckney Road near Wylie Road, Nov. 2. Williams was initially stopped for speeding. A computer check, however, revealed he was wanted on a bench warrant for driving with a suspended license in Ypsilanti.

Dennis R. Thumm, 50, of Pinckney was arrested by a deputy on Island Lake Road near Dexter Town Hall Road, Oct. 31. He was initially stopped for a traffic violation. A computer check, however, revealed he was wanted by the Friend of the Court.

Larceny

Larceny was reported in the 10100 block of Fleming Road, Oct. 28. A 29-year-old Dexter man told a deputy someone stole men's clothing, jewelry and miscellaneous videos and compact discs from his home between mid- and late-August. The man has been living in Ann Arbor but also has a home on Fleming Road in which he partially rents to a friend.

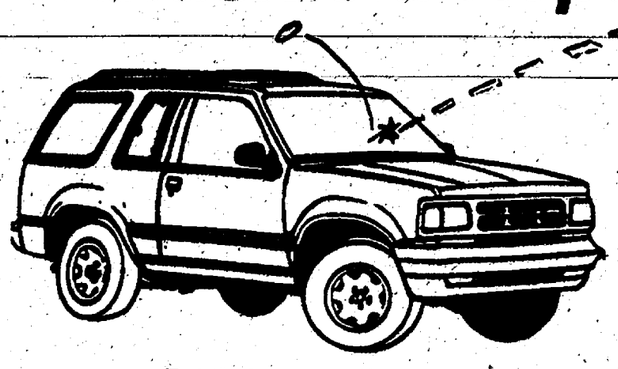

Runaway

A 39-year-old woman reported her 15-year-old daughter as a runaway from their home in the 9600 block of Portage Lake Road, Oct. 29. The woman said she last saw the girl roaming around the house at 1 a.m. while checking on her son, who was sick. The girl told her mother that she was sick too. But later that evening, the girl's mother noticed she was gone. The teen was seen again at 7 a.m. She told her mother she returned at 4 a.m. after walking around the neighborhood and falling asleep on someone's porch.

Property Damage

Malicious destruction of property was reported in the 9100 block of Horseshoe Court, Oct. 31. The homeowner told police someone threw a beer

But police could not find the man and other people in the park said they have not seen him or heard gun shots.

Scio Township

Stolen Checks

Checks were reported stolen from American Maids, 4113 Jackson Rd., Oct. 31. A bookkeeper told a deputy she suspects a former employee of stealing the checks and forging two of them. Over 100 checks were stolen from the company. Two checks were cashed on a closed account. A party store in Ann Arbor told police they may have video footage of the woman who wrote the check. The suspect is a 27-year-old Michigan Center woman who worked for the company two months.

Larceny

Larceny was reported in the 1000 block of Wing Drive, Oct. 30. The homeowner told police a cellular telephone was stolen from a 1989 Cadillac. The vehicle was parked in the driveway between 9 p.m. Oct. 29 and 7 a.m. Oct. 30. The phone is valued at $200.

Larceny was reported at a construction site in the 1900 block of Baker Rd., Nov. 2. A 57-year-old man told police a surveyor's transit was stolen from an unlocked company truck between 7 p.m. Oct. 31 and 6:30 a.m. Nov. 1. The transit is valued at $2,500.

Larceny was reported in the 100 block of Staebler Road, Oct. 28. A 37-year-old woman told police someone stole jewelry valued at more than $1,000. She said the items were taken between June 1 and July 15. The woman said she has moved twice recently and the jewelry could have been taken during the moves.

Domestic Assault

Domestic assault and battery was reported in the 6200 block of Jackson Rd., Nov. 3. A 57-year-old man told police his 25-year-old son punched him in the face when he tried to prevent him from driving drunk. The incident was reported at 11:30 p.m. Nov. 2. The man's son was reportedly intoxicated and tried to leave in his vehicle. The victim and his wife tried to stop him. The victim grabbed his son and let go, and was met by a punch in the face. The victim called police after the attack and his son fled the area. Police found the suspect hiding underneath a bus in a parking lot east of the residence. He was arrested and lodged in county jail.

Medical Assist

A sheriff's deputy was called to a home on Pratt Road near Shady Oaks Drive, Nov. 2 after a 29-year-old woman was reported running around outside naked. The woman's 70-year-old grandfather and her half-brother called police. They said she hasn't been herself in the past two weeks or so. The woman's half-brother said there was a previous incident in which she held a knife to his face. When police arrived they found the woman clothed. Officers talked with the woman, who warned them satellites aimed at her home by Russians are casting rays and breaking windows. Police initially left the scene after determining she was not a threat. However, they were called back a short time later after someone reported the woman jumped in front of a car in the road. The woman was taken to the hospital for an evaluation.

Warrant Arrest

Timothy C. Wahl, 32, of Saline was arrested on Jackson Road near Baker Road, Nov. 1. Wahl was encountered by a sheriff's deputy on the scene of a crash. A computer check revealed Wahl was wanted on a warrant for operating a vehicle under the influence of liquor, which is his second offense.

Drunken Driving

A 40-year-old Belleville man was arrested for operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor on Jackson Road near Zeeb Road, Oct. 23. He was stopped on a traffic violation. The deputy noticed the driver smelled of alcohol. The driver failed several field sobriety tests and refused to submit to a breathalyzer. The man was arrested, and on his way to jail he threatened the deputy. The deputy obtained a search warrant to retrieve a sample of the man's blood for testing. The case will be forwarded to the prosecutor once test results reveal the suspect's blood-alcohol level.

A 22-year-old Ypsilanti man was arrested for operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor on Scio-Church Road near Zeeb Road, Oct. 21. Police were initially dispatched to a personal injury accident at 11 p.m. A witness told police the driver crashed his vehicle into two trees after driving erratically. The man admitted to drinking six to eight beers at his girlfriend's home in Chelsea prior to driving. The man submitted to a blood test. The case will be forwarded to the prosecutor once test results reveal the man's blood-alcohol level.

Property Damage

Malicious destruction of property was reported at Gordon Wine Distributing, 8040 Jackson Rd., Oct. 28. A 45-year-old man told police someone sprayed gang graffiti on two semi-trailers between Oct. 26 and Oct. 28. Damage is estimated at $300.

Federal government helps protect Michigan's farmlands

Michigan's farmland protection programs were recognized as a national leader with the announcement that Michigan will receive $1 million farmland protection grant from USDA. The federal grant will be used as matching funds to help purchase the development rights on productive farmland. The farmland will remain in agricultural use and in private ownership.

Michigan was the only state in the Midwest to receive a federal farmland protection grant from the $14.5 million awarded nationwide from USDA's new Farmland Protection Program that was established in the 1996 Farm Bill. Under this program, the federal funds are used to support state and local programs to help purchase the development rights or conservation easements to limit the non-agricultural uses of productive farmland.

"The announcement of Michigan's $1 million grant is a recognition of our leadership and farmland protection efforts in the Midwest," commented Gov. John Engler. "We must continue our efforts to protect our most productive agricultural land and not take those resources for granted.

Between 1982 and 1992, over 854,000 acres of Michigan farmland was lost, almost 10 acres every hour of every day, representing an annual loss of over $100 million in local farm revenue. As the population spreads out from the cities into more rural areas, productive farmland is often carved up into large building lots and taken out of production.

Two Michigan programs were eligible for federal matching funds. Under Michigan's Farmland and Open Space Protection Act, the state has limited funding available to purchase the development rights on productive farmland. Peninsula Township in Grand Traverse County passed a 1.25 mil property tax increase in 1994 to fund a local purchase to development rights program to protect valuable farmland within the township.

The purchase of development rights is one of many tools that is available to help keep farmland in agricultural production. The program is completely voluntary and the landowner is compensated for the fair market value of the development rights, which is usually the difference between the development value and the agricultural value. In exchange, the landowner agrees not to use the land for non-agricultural purposes or build on the land.

"This program will help Michigan preserve farmland for future generations," stated Dan Wyant, Director of the Michigan Department of Agriculture. "In Michigan, local communities are protecting valuable farmland while at the same time still protecting private property rights."

The federal grant will be used to provide matching funds for both Peninsula Township's and the state's purchase of development rights programs. In order to be eligible, the programs must have had pending offers on farmland at the time of the application. Farmland parcels in southeast and northwest Michigan have been previously nominated and are currently under consideration.

This marks the first time federal, state and local governments have established a partnership to protect farmland from development. Forty-four proposals were submitted to USDA requesting matching funds to protect over 176,000 acres. The $14.5 million will be used to protect over 50,000 acres of valuable farmland on 103 farms in 18 states.

—The Way It Was—

Butchering once a common activity

By Kathy Clark
Special Writer

Alton Grau, a third generation farmer with German ancestors, is still farming on Fletcher Road. The farm was established 100 years ago by John and Emma (Meyer) Grau.

Old farm customs are fast disappearing. Home-butchering, which is now regulated in Washtenaw County, was once a farm neighborhood harvest as common as threshing.

The complete crew of five men, Herb Schenk, Ed Buss, Charlie Zahn, Herb Hinderer and Harold Eschelbach are shown in the photograph with the large kettle.

Alton Grau, a lifetime farmer in the Chelsea area, remembers home-butchering of the hogs in detail:

The whole process usually took two days. Each winter farm families would usually butcher three or four hogs in early December.

In one picture, four hogs are hung up in one stage of butchering. The largest two are 400-500 pounds. They are O.I.C. or Yorks. They had been fed corn, oats and wheat. Grau said no one raised black or red pigs then.

They started early in the morning to get the water boiling with a wood fire. After the hogs were stuck and bled out, they were scalded and the hair was scraped off. They used a metal saucer shaped tool with a wood handle. The hogs were then dressed out, saving the small intestines for sausage casings. The heart, tongue, liver, etc. was saved to make "head cheese."

Prime cuts saved were spareribs, hams, and all other boney cuts. The rest of the meat was cut up and boned, then ground to make a sausage mixture. Some sausage was kept in bulk for patties, but most was squeezed through a sausage press into casings.

Some of the sides were made into salt pork (cured in a heavy brine). The head was trimmed out saving meat for "cheek bacon."

While the meat was being processed, someone would be clearing the intestine casings by turning them inside out, scraping them with a long wooden board. When clean they were soaked in salt water. Another crew member would be busy putting head cheese in the large intestine and stomach casings. After cooking broth, gelatin was used for binder in the head cheese.

Fat was trimmed off the hog and cut up. On the second day the fat was run through a coarse grinder, then cooked and rendered into lard. Clean up would take the rest of the second day.

Grau said they butchered pork because they had a method to store the meat before refrigeration. After smoking in a brick smokehouse, the hams could hang up in flour bags on wires all summer in the barn. The sausages were cut up and cold packed into quart jars. Spices used were coriander, allspice, garlic, salt and pepper. He has kept the old family recipes.

All the hogs shown in the photograph were for the Schenk family larder. The crew would then move on to another farm and help them put up a year's supply of pork.

Home-butchering mostly ended after the war in 1945-46. Grau said most farmers don't butcher hogs anymore because they are difficult to handle, especially in the summer. However, Bain's Packing near Howell will take hogs, and there is another processing plant south of Chelsea.

Grau said, "locally, farm-raised animals are still being butchered and consumed by farm residents."

Many who live around Chelsea have had the privilege of tasting flavorful, home-raised, home-butchered meat.

Local woman's cookbook earns much recognition

A local woman's cookbook is receiving high marks in the publishing world.

Katherine Merkel Koziski's Dexter Cider Mill Apple Cookbook was recently named Best Cookbook by the Mid-America Publishers Association. This is the book's fourth honor since being published last year. It also earned the Outstanding Accomplishment Award during the Writers Digest 1995 National Self-Publishing contest, is the first cookbook to be endorsed by the Michigan Apple Committee and several of its recipes will be re-published in the Best of the Best of Michigan Cookbook due out later this month.

Katherine Merkel Koziski has earned an award from the Mid-America Publishers Association for her Dexter Cider Mill Apple Cookbook. This is Koziski's fourth recognition in the past year since the book was released.

Its most recent award by Mid-America Publishers Association was a surprise to Koziski, a first-time writer and publisher. Her cookbook was selected from among a record number of books submitted for the contest, according to Chris Roerden, president of MAPA. It scored in the 95 percentile by the judges as having overall appeal to intended audience, content in whole or in part, cover and interior design and usability.

Koziski has a background in food and nutrition. She majored in the subject at Mary Grove College and worked as a supervisor in a test kitchen for the Kellogg Company before accepting an unrelated position with Ford Motor Company.

The Chelsea native and her husband, Richard, both retired from Ford and bought Dexter Cider Mill in 1986 as a retirement project. The 110-year-old mill inspired Koziski to write the cookbook.

"I have a home economics background and it's something I've always wanted to do. When we bought the mill, I thought the apple theme would be most appropriate," Koziski said.

The cookbook was a two-year process from beginning to end. Koziski gathered recipes from family and friends and refined a few of her favorites. She decided on the cookbook's format, and with the help of Chelsea photographer Cheri Smith, put together the award-winning publication.

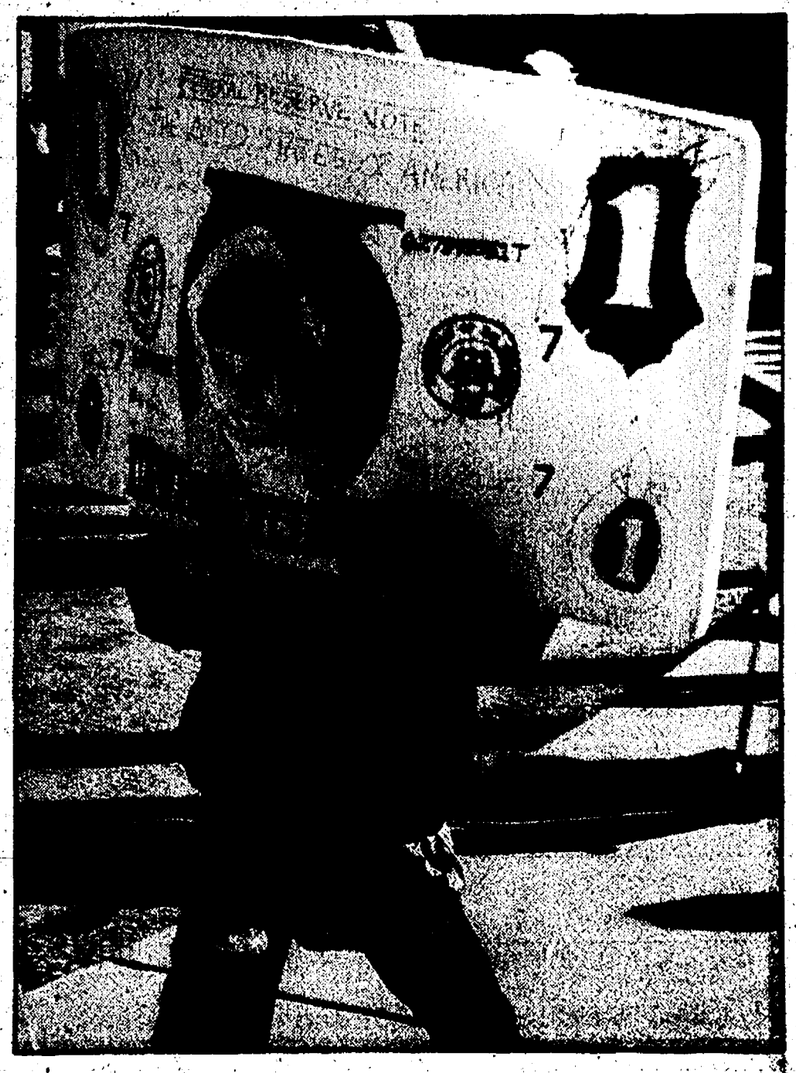

The 95-page cookbook features full-color photographs that accompany every recipe. From apple butter cakes and cranberry and apple punch to cider-marinated lamb chops, the book is full of unique ideas centered around an apple theme. It features beverages, brunches, side dishes, main dishes and dessert.

Koziski's cookbook is available locally at Dexter Cider Mill and the Village Shoppe in Chelsea.

Village proceeds with sewer plant upgrades

The Village of Chelsea has been proceeding with upgrading the final clarifier capacity at Chelsea's wastewater treatment plant, as per the recommendation by the engineering firm of McNamee, Porter and Seeley, Inc.

Village Trustee Frank Hammer said installing the clarifier will improve operating standards, clean up the systems and allow for better utilization of the plant's facilities.

In order to finance the purchase of a clarifier, the village council increased the Wastewater Treatment Fund Budget by $90,400. The village administration intends to utilize capital connection fee revenue to finance the upgrades and expansions. This means that developers and builders will finance upgrades, rather than taxpayers whom the wastewater treatment plant already facilitates.

McNamee, Porter and Seeley evaluated the village's wastewater treatment facility's current and future capacity requirements, and in lieu of the ongoing and proposed new development, recommended the village proceed immediately with the upgrade project.

The original wastewater treatment budget called for $138,000, while the newly amended budget projects spending $228,400.

Bulldogs rally for win but miss playoffs

The Bulldogs celebrate after winning last Friday night against Jackson Northwest. However, they found out later their 7-2 record wasn't good enough to make the playoffs.

By Phil Lezen
Staff Writer

In his final game as head coach of the Chelsea Bulldogs, Gene LaFave's Bulldogs made sure to give him a game to remember.

The Bulldogs squared off against Jackson Northwest in the final game of the regular season with more than just LaFave's retirement on their minds.

Chelsea went into the game the No. 4 seed in Class B, Region 3 but needed Linden, the No. 5 team, to lose to Lapeer East to secure a final playoff spot.

Chelsea beat Jackson Northwest 35-25 after falling behind 25-7 in the second quarter, but Linden won 40-10 to steal the final playoff spot.

The Mounties opened the scoring on the third play of the game when they ran a direct snap to running back Jeremy Waldron, who then ran 78 yards for a touchdown.

Dustin White was intercepted on the second play of the second quarter and Bryan Nietzke returned it 53 yards for a TD to give Northwest a 12-0 lead.

Jay Schick capped a 70-yard drive with a one-yard run to pull the Bulldogs within 12-7, but Northwest scored the next two touchdowns for a 25-7 lead.

Chelsea had the ball at their own 49 with 30 seconds left in the half and scored three plays later on a White to Brian Hall 14-yard touchdown pass to pull within 25-15.

In the second half, however, it was all Chelsea. The Bulldogs held Northwest off the scoreboard and put up 20 points of their own to roar back into the lead.

Schick scored his second one-yard TD of the game to make the score 25-22 early in the third and White hit Casey Wescott for a six-yard touchdown later in the third that gave Chelsea the lead back at 28-25.

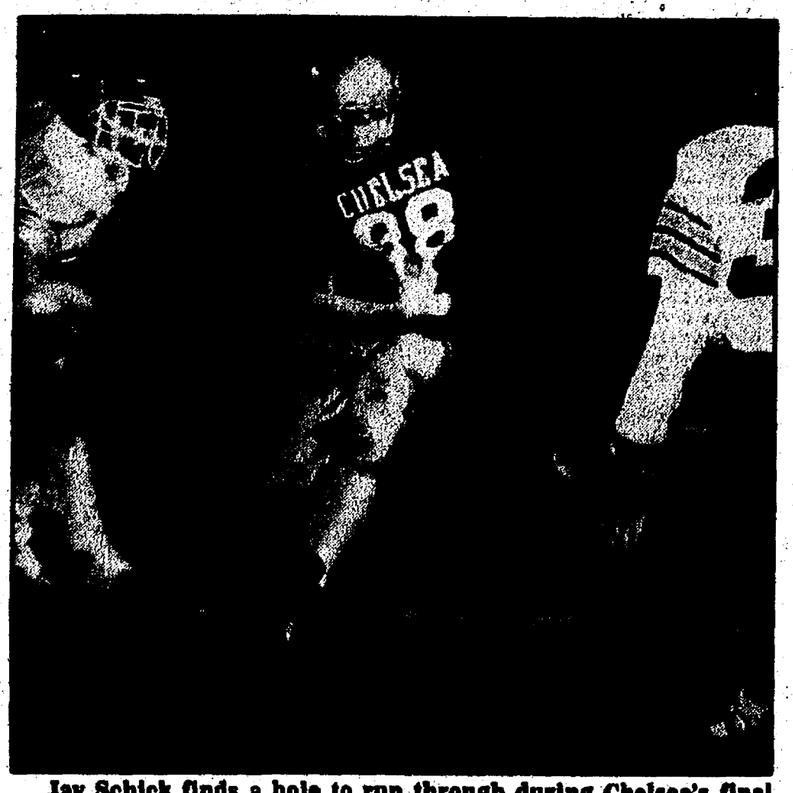

The final score came with 5:34 left in the game when White ran in from a yard out to put the finishing touches on LaFave's 145th and final win as a high school football coach.

LaFave coached for 25 years, the past 18 at Chelsea, and amassed a 145-80 record.

The Bulldogs raked up 353 yard total offense. White was 13-21 for 158 yards and three TD's, one of them rushing.

Schick totaled 114 yards on 26 carries and scored twice, while Wescott led the receiving corps with six catches for 101 yards and a touchdown.

Chelsea, meanwhile, ended the year 7-2 and just missed play-off berth.

Jay Schick finds a hole to run through during Chelsea's final game last Friday night against Jackson Northwest.

Gene LaFave coaches final game for Chelsea Bulldogs

By Brian Hamilton
Managing Editor

For the first time in 18 years, Chelsea High School is looking for a new head football coach.

Gene LaFave, a demanding and sometimes controversial coach, has decided to retire. He was honored at half-time last Friday night in what turned out to be Chelsea's final game of the season. The 7-2 Bulldogs had a shot at a post-season berth but circumstances out of their control kept them from advancing.

LaFave, a high school counselor, first heard of Chelsea 25 years ago when he was offered a job at Cassidy Lake Technical School. He had thought he wanted to work in juvenile detention. However, he was enticed to take a job in Memphis, Mich., where he would coach for seven seasons, turning a dismal program into a winning one. He also served as a counselor and athletic director. He came to Chelsea in 1979 to replace the successful Phil Bareis.

Now, he says, "my number one goal is to have more time for my family and myself.

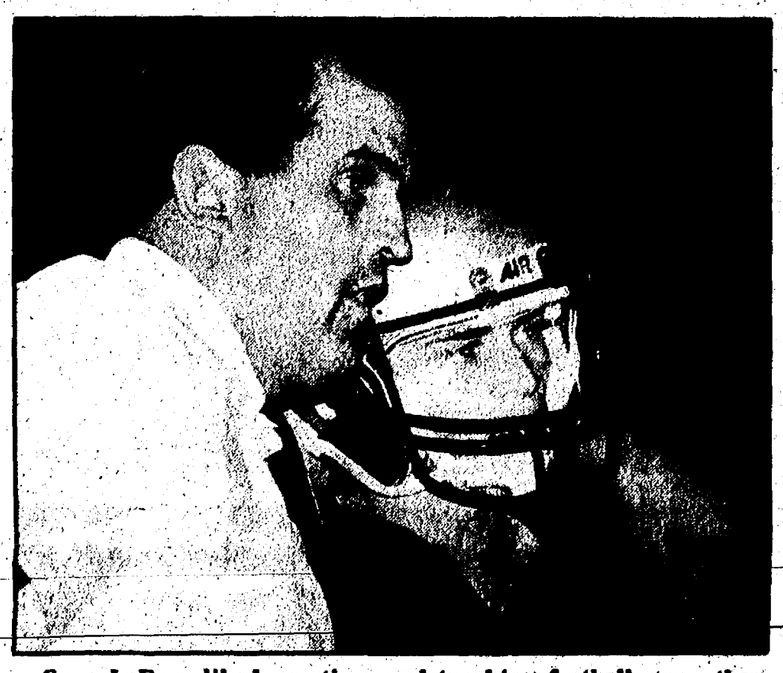

"I'm going to home-school my daughter (Mary Kathryn) for the next two years and attend to some business interests." He owns real estate companies and has financial interest in several other companies, including some that are owned by former players. (He, in fact, took the financial risk to set up half a dozen companies for former players, who later bought controlling interest.) He also has a consulting business and wants to do some financial consulting.

"There are a lot of chances to win out there," he says.

"You're not being judged by 2,000 or 3,000 people on Friday night."

He said one factor in his decision to quit this year is his successor will inherit what should be a pretty good football team. Five sophomores played major roles this year and the juniors are all solid athletes.

"It would have bothered me to leave the cupboard bare," LaFave says. He says assistant coach Jeff Sloan will be the only returning varsity coach next year and he'd like to see Sloan become head coach.

Gene LaFave liked practices and teaching football more than the actual Friday night games.

"He's ready," LaFave says. "He may not have head coaching experience, but he's ready."

Athletic Director Wayne Welton says it's not clear how quickly a new coach will be named or whether it will be a current staff member.

LaFave told this year's seniors at the end of last season that this would be his final year. He told the rest of his team at the beginning of this season. He has rebuffed numerous requests for interviews until now because he didn't want to do anything to interfere with the season. He was so adamant about not affecting the season that his team didn't even get the chance to see Friday's ceremony honoring LaFave and announcing the Gene LaFave Scholarship Fund (which has collected more than $15,000 to date). The boys and all the assistant coaches were in the locker room for half-time.

"That was all intentional," he says.

"When you click into the game, you don't want to be melancholy. Especially when you're down 25 to 14."

He especially wanted to avoid the kids trying "to win one for LaFave" because if it didn't happen, "kids carry that kind of disappointment around for a long period of time."

LaFave finished his career with a 144-84 record, including five Southeastern Conference championships (1981 1982, 1986, 1992, 1993) and trips to the postseason in 1992 and 1993. The games he'll remember most, he says, were this year's victory over Saline, the 1992 overtime victory against Pinckney, which determined the SEC championship, the 1993 play-off loss to Marshall, the 1986 overtime victory over Saline, and the 1981 victory over Lincoln, in which the teams combined for more than 1,000 yards in offense.

The wins over Pinckney and Saline were notable he says because those teams "were physically superior to us but we rose to the occasion."

"The loss to Marshall was the year we thought we could win a state championship. The kids played so hard but Marshall was a very good team. I take some of the blame because I was sick and it was a chore to coach that week."

LaFave says he won't miss the Friday night games much because "they're real stressful and they're hard work for coaches." What he will miss is practice, team meals, post burnings, and other side events where most of the teaching and bonding occurs.

"Each day something new comes up that I will miss," he says.

"I'll miss being with a group of kids and coaches and developing each team. I will not miss the games. They're not painful but they never have been a highlight. On the game field you have to become a different person because it's the test. I don't know many people who take a test and afterward say 'that was a fun test'. What I will miss tremendously is practice. It is by far the most important thing."

LaFave complimented many of his colleagues, including Steve Robb at Milan, Roger Cox at Lincoln, who turned around a "dead" program in the 80s, Jack Crabtree at Saline, a perpetual winner, and Rich Grannis at Dexter. Grannis, he said, coached longer than he wanted to, strictly because of his love for the kids.

LaFave's biggest disappointment, he says, is that the Chelsea football seating and press box facilities are still the worst in the area. He says many people, especially senior citizens, won't even try to come to games because they can't get seats easily or without showing up an hour early.

"We have a great playing field, excellent lighting, and the best setting," LaFave says.

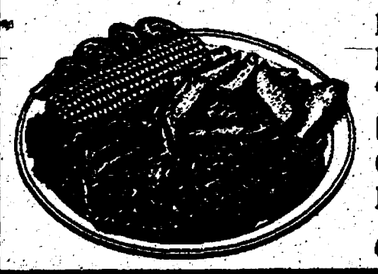

"But we don't consider football games to be large community events. People come to the games because they are an opportunity to come together as a community."

Chelsea keeps grip on SEC cage lead

By Phil Lozen
Staff Writer

The Chelsea Bulldog basketball team tightened its grasp on the top spot in the Southeastern Conference with a 52-45 win over Lincoln Oct. 29.

Chelsea sits alone atop the standings with a 7-1 record (11-5 overall) and one of several teams chasing it with Dexter on tap Tuesday night.

Against Lincoln, the Bulldogs benefited from a pair of 13-point nights, one from Kasie Ruhlig and one from Carrie Williams.

The Railsplitters held a 23-21 lead after the first half, but in the second half Chelsea used the long ball to come back. In all, the Bulldogs hit a school-record eight three-pointers.

"We played poorly but we shot the lights out in the third and fourth quarters from three-point range," said Coach Charlie Waller.

Ruhlig led the assault with three treys, while Margaret Schick, who ended the night with nine points, and Williams added two apiece.

Melissa Carty (seven points) ruled the boards, grabbing 12 rebounds.

Ruhlig added five steals and five assists.

Behind Chelsea, the SEC standings look as congested as I-94 at rush hour. Dexter, Milan, and even Saline all have a shot at the second place spot, and should the Bulldogs go on a losing streak (not to jinx them or anything), things could get very interesting entering the final games of the season.

But for now, Chelsea can take its destiny in its own hands with Dexter on Tuesday.

Girls runners ninth in state

Chelsea's girls cross country team achieved their season goal by finishing ninth at the state class B finals last Saturday in Brooklyn.

The team goal had been to finish in the top 10, according to coach Pat Clarke.

Junior Jeannie Spink ran her best time of the season, 19:10, to finish ninth and make all-state for the third time.

Junior Sarah Jedele also ran her best time, 20:24, to place 43rd.

Junior Megan Smith also ran her best time, 20:50, to place 72nd.

Junior Karen Pieper placed 38th in 20:09.45.

Freshman Carolyn Wineland ran a personal-best 21:51 to take 134th.

Running, but not scoring for Chelsea, were junior Julie Williams, 22:09, and Corinna Christman, 23:49.

Chelsea had 296 points. Caledonia won the meet easily with 53 points. Grand Rapids West Catholic was second with 134 points.

Ruhlig runs at state B meet

Chelsea's Aaron Ruhlig placed 70th at the class B state cross country meet last Saturday at Michigan International Speedway in Brooklyn.

Ruhlig ran a 17:29.

"Aaron capped an outstanding season by appearing in the state meet," said coach Eric Swager.

"Aaron is one of the top few sophomores in class B. His performance is a direct result of his summer training and diligent work ethic."

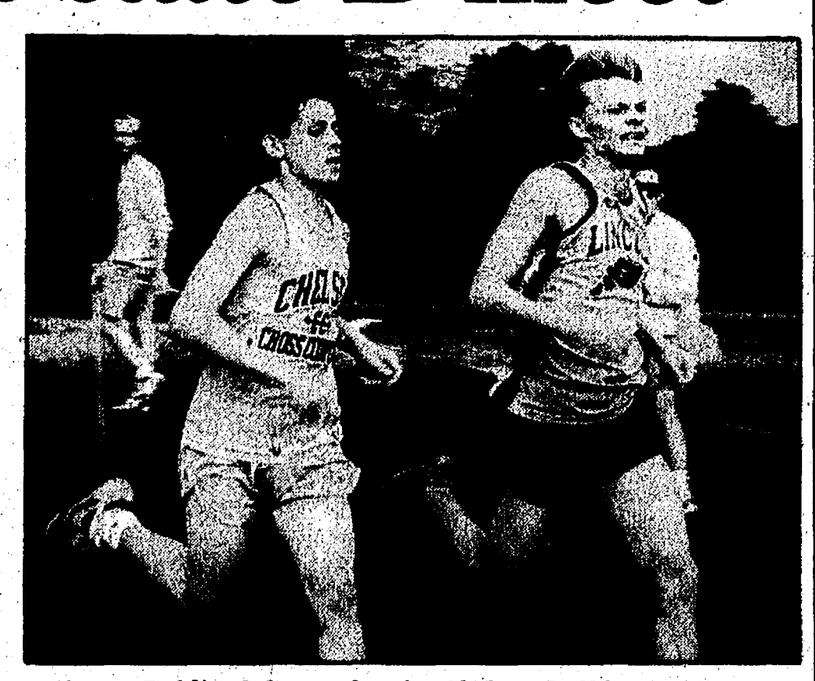

The team held its banquet Tuesday. Ruhlig was named Most Valuable Player, while Dan Weir was Most Improved Player.

Underclass letters went to Rob Frayer, Matt Kolodica, Jason Zatkovich, Ruhlig, and Jeff Kolodica.

The team took third place in the Southeastern Conference, second place in the final SEC Jamboree, and fourth place in the regionals. They won the Onsted Invitational and were second at the Huron Invitational. Tim Lawrence and Ruhlig earned all-SEC honors.

"We had a successful season," Swager said.

"We were disappointed in not going to state, but this team has come a long way. We have a very young team and only five runners will be upperclassmen next year. I am very excited about the future."

Aaron Ruhlig, left, ran for the Chelsea Bulldogs at the state class B cross country meet last Saturday in Brooklyn.

Soccer team drops playoff game to BCC

In their first district soccer game against the Big Reds of Milan, the Chelsea Bulldogs posted their best offensive effort of the season. Led by junior tri-captain Kyle Christensen's four goals and two assists, the Chelsea offense came alive.

Chelsea completely dominated Milan from start to finish as junior Adam Erskine and freshman Chris Roberts split the goalkeeper duties to record the win. Final: Chelsea 7, Milan 2.

Unfortunately, the next district game was considerably different. Chelsea played Brooklyn Columbia Central in a game that spanned two days, due to the length of Tecumseh's 1-0 double overtime defeat of Dexter.

The Bulldogs spotted Brooklyn a one-goal lead in the first half of the game which was played on Wednesday.

Both teams returned on Thursday to play the last 40 minutes. Brooklyn tallied two more goals early in the second half.

With six minutes remaining, Cooper quickly took a direct free kick from 22 yards away and put the ball in the net.

From that point until the end of the match, the game was played almost entirely in the Brooklyn end of the field.

With two minutes remaining, Cook, assisted by Christensen, found the net. Sadly, the effort was too little, too late as time ran out on the Bulldogs' season. Final: Brooklyn 3, Chelsea 2.

Chelsea's final record was 10-9-1.

JV basketball wins easily

Chelsea Bulldogs junior varsity basketball team beat the Lincoln Railsplitters, last Tuesday, 32-15.

The game was tied at 6-6 after the first quarter, but the Bulldogs broke the game open in the second period with a 12-0 run.

Chelsea increased the lead to 29-13 after the third quarter.

Coach Paul Terpstra credited good free throw shooting (54 percent) and pressure defense, which resulted in numerous steals, as keys to the game.

Amy McCalla paced Chelsea with 10 points. Miranda Harris had eight, and Meghan Holefka seven.

Karen Kuhl had five steals.

Chelsea is 8-8 overall and 4-4 in the Southeastern Conference.

—State Champs Gather Again—

Chelsea State Championship Football Team of 1971 held a 25th anniversary Friday night during and after the Chelsea High School football game. Of the 39 team members, 24 came to the reunion, including all three coaches. The team was 9-0 that year and beat Jackson Northwest in their final game to win the title. That year ended a four-year stretch in which the Bulldogs were 34-2.

—Flag Corps Finale—

Corrine Foytik smiles during the Chelsea Flag Corps' final performance of the season last Friday night at half-time of the Chelsea High School football game. The flag corps has had another award-winning season.

Former players write tribute to Gene LaFave

(The following was read at half-time of last Friday's home football game on behalf of former Chelsea football players of coach Gene LaFave.)

Gene LaFave started coaching high school football 25 years ago and began his coaching career at Chelsea High School in 1979. His career coaching record stands at 144 wins and 84 losses. He is credited with eight Conference Championships and three State Playoff appearances. Also to his credit, he has produced numerous All-State football players and has sent an even greater number of his athletes to the college ranks, competing at schools from Harvard to Hillsdale, and from Michigan State to Central Michigan to name just a few.

However, Gene LaFave's success as a football coach pales in comparison to the success he has had over the years in building strong character in young men. Regardless of whether you started every game or played sparingly in the fourth quarter, Coach LaFave held his players to the highest of standards and demanded that they understand and practice the habits of good character.

To play football for Gene LaFave you were asked to, among other things: cut your hair, learn the affirmative "Yes Sir," adhere to a curfew, always give 100 percent in practice, and...at least appear to like the Fighting Irish of Notre Dame.

By his own life's example, he taught his players the importance of family and faith. His daily instructions also taught the merits of discipline, dedication, loyalty and respect. Coach LaFave understood that motivation, commitment and teamwork were instrumental in athletic success. His hard work ethic is but one of the many great lessons in life that he instilled in all of his players.

In an effort to honor Coach LaFave, his wife Patty, and his two children, Mary Kathryn and Gene, Jr., a scholarship fund has been created in his name. The Gene LaFave Scholarship will be given to a deserving Chelsea High School senior football player. This player will be selected by the Head Football Coach and two local football designees. Currently, this scholarship fund stands, including cash and pledges, at over $15,000. Those of you wishing to contribute may do so by sending your donations to the Gene LaFave Scholarship Fund c/o Chelsea State Bank.

Following the game tonight there will be a reception held in the gymnasium to congratulate Coach LaFave on his retirement.

On behalf of your former players, thank you Coach LaFave for your dedication, your high expectations, your exceptional teaching and your good example. We wish you and your family the best that life can offer. No one deserves it more.

Freshman gridders drop finale to Jackson Northwest on road

The Chelsea freshman football team ended their season with a 52-0 loss to Jackson Northwest on Thursday. The loss leaves the freshman 1-7 for the season.

The Mounties scored on their first possession on a one-yard sneak after a poor punt gave them the ball at the Chelsea 33. They drove for another after the Bulldogs failed to convert a fourth down near midfield on the next possession. From there on, the game was all Northwest as the Bulldogs were plagued by a lost fumble, 3 interceptions, and four sacks.

Despite a strong pass rush from Northwest, Ryan Barwick completed 5-12 passes for 50 yards. David Stieber played well in the offensive backfield, gaining 43 yards on seven carries and one pass reception. Defensive back Jeremy Price led the Bulldog tacklers and Chad Schwartzenberger had three pass knockdowns.

The freshmen had 28 players on the team this year, which is the largest turnout in a number of years. In addition, seven freshmen played on the JV team.

"We had good numbers and played a lot of players this year. They made a lot of improvement through the season. That sets the groundwork for a successful varsity program in a few years which is one of the goals of freshman football," said coach Bill Bainton.

Helping coach this season was volunteer assistant Dave Barkman. Barkman has helped for several years coaching lineman and defense, and is a valuable asset to the program.

Talk addresses proposed major changes to social security system

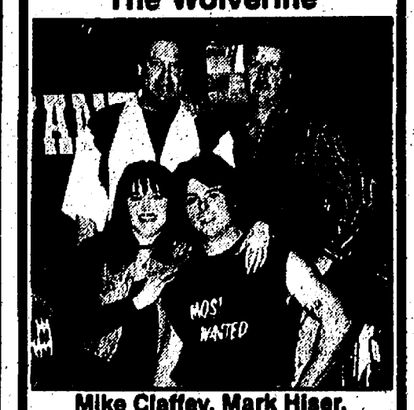

The chairman of President Clinton's Advisory Council on Social Security will speak to the local AARP chapter at its November meeting. Dean Edward Gramlich of the U of M School of Public Policy ran the 13-member council that earlier this year presented proposals for major changes in the Social Security system. He will explain the council's proposals and answer questions.

The presentation – "Social Security, Prospects for Funding" – will take place at the regular monthly meeting of the local AARP chapter on Thursday, Nov. 14. It is open to all those 50 years of age or older who are interested.

The meeting will begin at 1:30 p.m. and will be held in the old Pittsfield Town Hall, located at the intersection of South State Street and Ellsworth Road.

Family Medicine

By John C. Wolf, D.O.
Associate Professor of Family Medicine, Ohio University College of Osteopathic Medicine

Question: My husband has had trouble with emphysema for a number of years. He seems to be getting worse despite seeing the doctor regularly. We've read about lung reduction surgery for his condition. Can removing a part of a lung actually help someone breath better? This sounds very strange!

Answer: Emphysema is a chronic disease that slowly destroys the lungs. This happens when tiny air sacks called alveoli become swollen and ineffective. It is within these alveoli that your blood picks up oxygen and gives off carbon dioxide.

When alveoli become enlarged they increase the physical size — the volume — of the lungs. As a result, the chest and diaphragm are stretched and distended as if taking a deep breath, even when the person is exhaling. This "stretch-while-at-rest" shape of the chest consequently limits additional chest expansion and makes it impossible to take a deep breath. The end result is that the individual with emphysema has markedly limited ability to do physical work because of persistent breathlessness.

Over the last 50 years there have been a variety of "wonder surgeries" designed to help those suffering from emphysema. Several styles of surgery have been used to allow greater movement of the chest. The thought was that this would make more space for the enlarged lungs to expand and, thereby, make breathing easier. Because results ranged from dismal to absolutely devastating, these surgeries are no longer used.

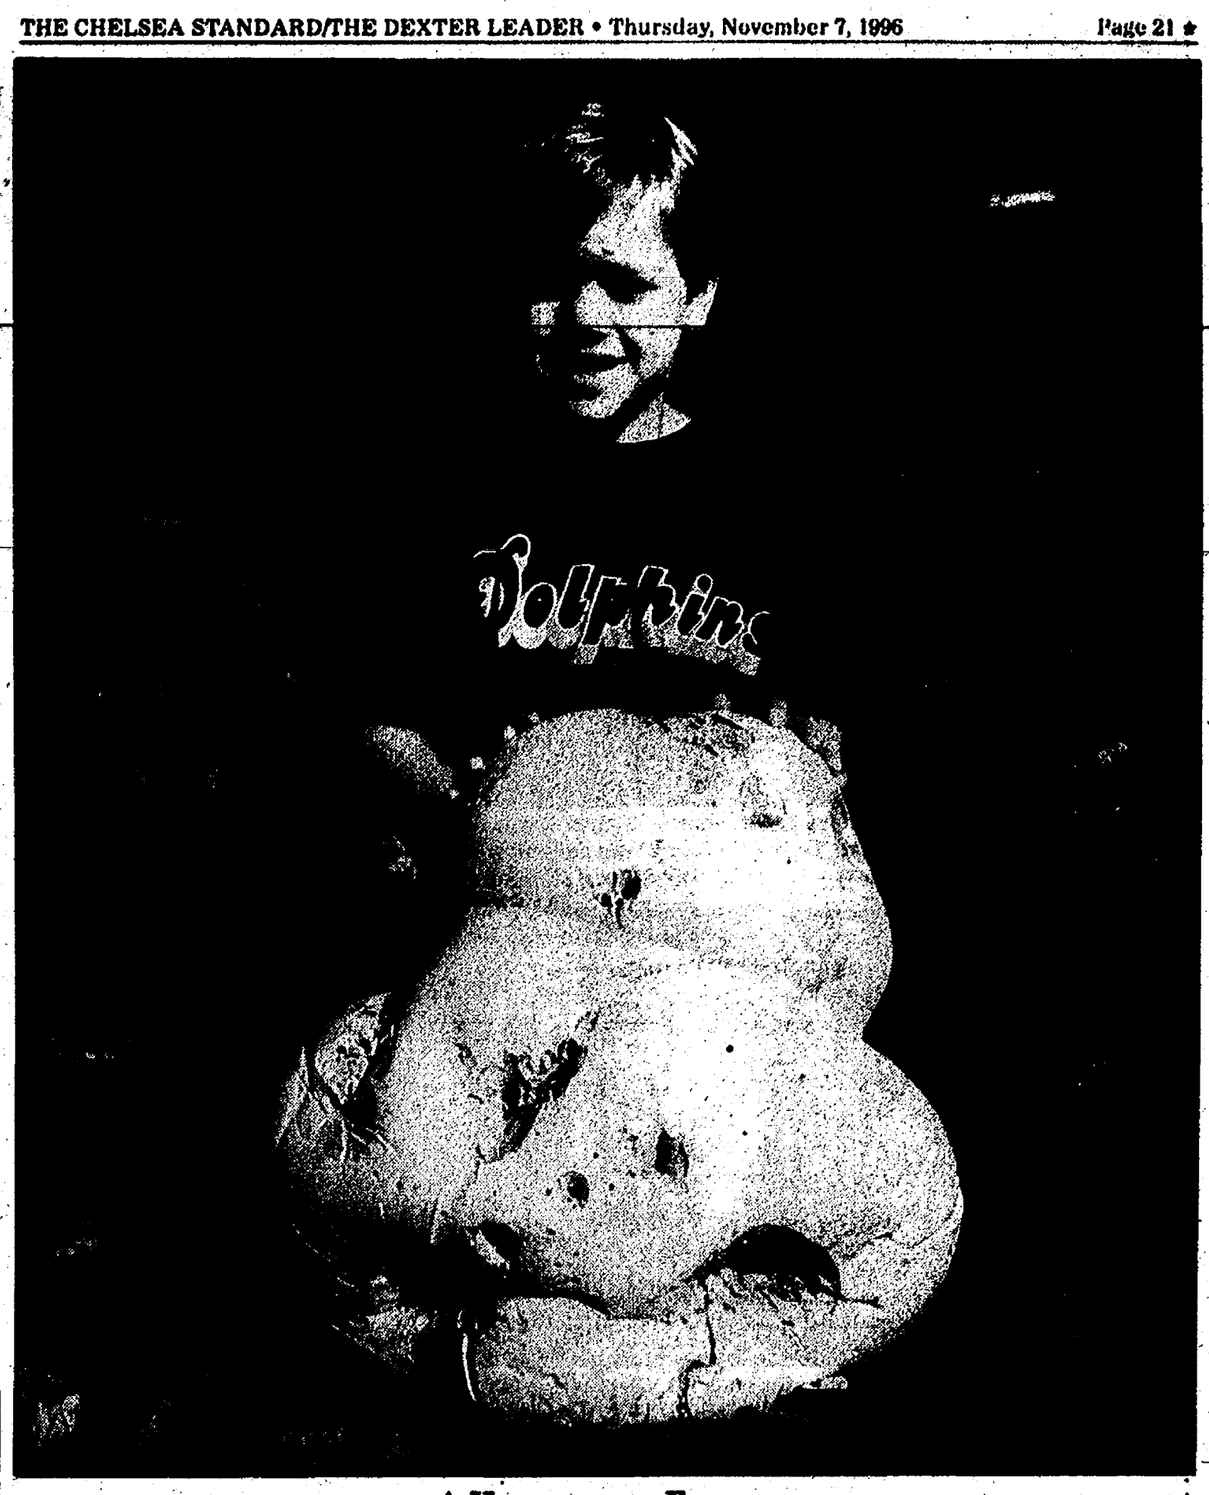

Another approach to emphysema surgery was pioneered by Brantigan in 1957. This entailed surgical removal of some of the emphysema damaged area of the lung itself — usually, 20 to 30 percent of the total lung volume. This would leave more space for the more nearly normal lung tissue to work and thus improve breathing performance. Brantigan's surgeries weren't very successful and fell from general use. This wasn't because he had the wrong ideas; he just didn't have the proper equipment.

In 1994 Joel Cooper of Washington University in St Louis, Mo., published a research paper showing significant benefit from lung reduction surgery — Brantigan's 37-year-old idea modified by modern surgical equipment and techniques. It is Cooper's success that has renewed worldwide interest in lung reduction surgery.

The hope of benefit from lung reduction surgery has impacted on many individuals, since there are currently about 14-million Americans with this disease and 85,000 deaths each year directly attributed to emphysema. Persons most likely to be candidates for the surgery are those without other serious diseases such as heart problems or diabetes, who no longer use tobacco (the cause of almost all emphysema in persons younger than 75), and who have $50,000 or more to spend on the surgery. You see, lung reduction surgery isn't currently covered under Medicare or by most other insurance policies.

Talk with your husband's doctor and an experienced thoracic cardiovascular surgeon. They can help you determine if lung reduction surgery would benefit him. Unfortunately, you might also need to talk with your banker.

Your Money Matters

by Michael Kelly

Christmas is almost here. The malls are crowded, shopping lists are long, lines are even longer and parking spaces are at a premium. The holiday shopping season is in full gear. And while everyone enjoys looking for that perfect gift, many of us will be left in a not-so-joyous mood as we watch our checking accounts dwindle and our credit card balances skyrocket. The holiday season is certain to take a bite out of most pocketbooks. However, there are ways to save money that will help make the start of the new year easier to bear financially.

Saving a few pennies or even a few dollars here and there may not sound like much, but the end-product can often be significant. Listed below are five quick tips to help you save more money — most of them painless suggestions, often requiring only attention to detail rather than a significant effort.

•Switch to a credit card that charges less interest. Undoubtedly, credit cards will be a popular form of payment for many of us during the holiday months, and shopping around for cards offering the lowest rates can be beneficial. For example, transferring a $2,000 balance from a typical card with an 18 percent rate to a card offering 8.25 percent will save you $730 if you pay off the balance at a rate of $50 per month. Be careful though, those credit card solicitations you receive in the mail frequently offering lower rates are usually only limited time offers (typically six months). Once the introductory period is over the company will begin assessing interest on your card's balance at their current rate, which could be even higher than your original credit card's rate. Read the fine print carefully before you accept any new card offers.

•Cash in on the heated competition among long-distance telephone companies. The holiday season always means plenty of long-distance phone calls to relatives and friends — and consequently larger bills. With the addition of the seven Baby Bells to the long-distance sweepstakes, companies are offering cash incentives to retain customers and attract new ones. Carriers such as AT&T, MCI and Sprint are all offering "certificates of savings" and cash rewards for switching companies or remaining loyal to your current one. If you haven't been offered such incentives, call your carrier and ask for your share of the savings.

•Take advantage of the overdraft protection option on your checking account, if your bank offers it. If not, get a credit union checking account. Check payment is also very prevalent during the holiday shopping season and those who are not diligent about keeping their balance up-to-date may get ahead of themselves. While the interest rate for overdraft protection may be high, just one bounced check can result in a $50 penalty.

•Don't buy higher octane fuel than your vehicle needs. Many of us will rack up a huge number of miles on our autos during the next few months, and paying for gasoline can turn out to be a larger expense than expected. Unless your owner's manual specifically calls for premium fuel, limit your gas expense as much as possible by purchasing unleaded, 87-octane. Typically, a gallon of 92-octane will cost at least a dime and as much as 18 cents more than regular. The average two-car family can save around $200 per year with this simple procedure.

•Consider joining a credit union. Credit unions typically offer lower interest rates on loans, fewer checking fees and higher rates for savings. A credit union may also be the best place to look for that lower interest rate credit card. Over the years, credit unions have continually scored higher than all other financial institutions in consumer satisfaction surveys. Not everyone is eligible for credit union membership, but you can call 1-800-474-JOIN for a list of credit unions in your area and their fields of membership.

Certainly these are just a few of many ideas that can help you save money during the holiday season and throughout 1997. The financial pressures of holiday shopping can be stressful, but by making some smart consumer decisions along the way, those January bills will be less burdensome. Happy shopping!

Schiller to go study in Chile

Erin Schiller, a Hope College junior from Chelsea, is studying in Santiago, Chile for the fall semester of the 1996-97 academic year.

Affiliated with the Council on International Educational Exchange (CIEE), the program offers a full range of university courses instructed in Spanish.

While at Hope, Schiller has been involved in varsity track and the Nykerk Cup competition, a traditional event showcasing members of the first-year and sophomore classes in the areas of song, speech and theatrical production. She won the Freshman Chemistry Award and has been named to the Dean's List several times.

Schiller, a biochemistry major, is the daughter of Gerald and Betty Schiller of Chelsea. She is a 1994 graduate of Chelsea High School.

Annual Kiwanis Halloween party a huge success, many win prizes, ribbons

In the 4- and 5-year-old age group, Stephanie Everard won first place with her witch costume in the best looking category. Eric and Jenny Gabbard won second place, dressed as butterflies, Nicole Reid, disguised as Minnie Mouse was awarded a third place ribbon.

In the most original costume division for the three years and younger, Trever Elliott took first place, dressed as Elmo from Sesame Street. Peter Riemenschneider won second place dressed as Charlie McCarthy, and Trevor Branham won third place dressed as an autumn leaf. The judges for the under 3 division were Bob Miller and Windy Tidewill.

For the most original 8- and 9-year-old costume, Nicolas Harris took first place with a horse centaur costume. Second place was awarded to Matthew Gucker, who was dressed as a cootie. Courtney Sullens won third place with her witch costume. The judges for the 8- and 9-year-old division were Mary Williams and Bernice Street.

In the most original costume category, Ben Gunderson won first place dressed as Shaky Jake. Sara Flintoft was the second place winner with her Arab woman costume, and third place was awarded to Melissa Gucker dressed as a frog. The judges for this division were Veretta Whitaker and Sheridan Schroeder.

In the three-year-old and younger category, Jake Riemenschneider got first place for the best-looking costume. He was dressed as the Tin Man from the Wizard of Oz, complete with an ax, oil can and a heart. Nicholas Burris and Zachary Rabbit won second place for their 'two peas in a pod' costume, and third place was awarded to Kelsee Brinklow, who was dressed as a rainbow clown.

Cassiopeia constellation to shine

Hanging nearly overhead in November's mid-evening sky is the W-shaped constellation we know as Cassiopeia, Queen of Ethiopia. One of the oldest of the star patterns we recognize, it was recognized by the ancient Greeks. Yet some of its stars carry Arabian names given by Arabian peoples. This same mixture of Greek and Arabic names is common in many constellations, according to University of Michigan astronomer Richard Teske.

"To add to the confusion, modern astronomers apply their own rules for naming stars, with the result that each of Cassiopeia's stars has many aliases," Teske said.

Observers who face north while looking up at Cassiopeia will see the star called "Caph," meaning the palm of a hand, on the left end of Cassiopeia's upside-down "W." "The star's name comes from a star picture envisioned by the Arabic peoples that is very different from the Greek conception of the constellation," Teske explained. "Despite this, its Arabic name was inserted into the Greek conception of Cassiopeia around 400 years ago."

Modern rules for naming stars add to the grief of ordinary observers. For example, Caph also is called Beta Cassiopeiae. "The Greek letter beta, second in the Greek alphabet, tells that Caph is the second brightest star in Cassiopeia. The first Greek letter, alpha, is reserved for the brightest star and the third one, gamma, for the third brightest, and so," Teske added.

Alpha Cassiopeiae is located next to Caph, at the left bottom of the "W." It is also called Schedar, Arabic for "breast." Gamma, located at the middle of the "W," has no Arabic name.

Many other names have given to stars by astronomers who inventory them for research purposes, according to Teske. Each time a star is put on a listing, it gains a new name. One of the best known lists was created at Harvard Observatory almost a century ago to classify 224,300 of the brighter stars according to a characteristic related to their temperatures.

"This task took one person four years to complete," Teske said. "Caph appears as the 432nd star on the roster. Consequently, astronomers sometimes speak of it as 'HD 432.' Because it is a prominent star in the sky, Caph has been enrolled into many star lists, so it sometimes goes under peculiar aliases like '+58,0003,' 'HR21' or 'SAO 21609.'"

According to Teske, the largest directory of celestial objects is the Space Telescope Guide Star Catalog, which contains 20 million entries giving exact sky positions for stars, galaxies and other features. It was compiled by the Space Telescope Science Institute for use with the Hubble Space Telescope.

"Hubble has very precise and sensitive light sensors for locating stars. To point it accurately, the telescope's controllers select a few of the 20 million guide stars and designate which of them must appear in which of the telescope's sensors. Once the telescope locks onto the guide stars, it remains pointed until the time exposure is complete," Teske said.

The Guide Star Catalog is so large it is stored and read electronically. It is available online to the public at http://www-gsss.stsci.edu/casb-home.thml and also can be purchased on CD-ROM.

DNR forecasts record harvest for deer season

The Department of Natural Resources has issued its annual Michigan Deer Hunting Prospects report, and in spite of extensive deer losses last winter in northern Michigan, the DNR is forecasting a record harvest of approximately 500,000 deer — more than the all-time 1995 record of 476,960.

The annual Michigan Deer Hunting Prospects report includes a statewide summary of deer season expectations, hunting conditions, and status of the herd. In addition, there are deer season forecasts for each of the DNR's 13 management districts. This year's report includes information on the DNR's management actions to reduce the herd in areas of the state where it is now beyond desirable levels, while allowing the herd to build in areas where there are fewer deer than desired.

As noted in the report, regulated hunting is the most cost-efficient and practical method of controlling deer numbers. In addition, deer hunting provides both recreation and income, and Michigan has more deer hunters than any other state or Canadian province. This year, an expected 800,000 individuals will spend more than $500 million for food, lodging, transportation, and equipment to pursue deer hunting in Michigan.

Concern about salmonella has food safety experts reminding consumers to buy eggs only from refrigerated cases and keep eggs refrigerated once you get home. Other food safety tips include washing hands and utensils with soap and hot water after any contact with raw eggs, and avoiding dishes with raw egg, such as homemade ice cream, egg nog, cookie batter, Caesar salad dressing or Hollandaise sauce.

Canadian researchers are trying to find ways to reduce methane production — methane from belching cattle — by investigating the reasons grazing cattle "burp" more than those being fed in feedlots. The scientist say they are looking into grazing management, and the kinds of plants cattle eat and how they impact the higher burping incidents among grazing ruminants. The Canadians also are looking at whether the bacteria in a cow's digestive system can be changed to increase digestive efficiency — thereby reducing belching.

AAA offers defensive driving tips for winter

Whether heading to your favorite Michigan ski slope or to a warm weather state escape, six seconds can save a lot of grief when Michigan's weather turns nasty, according to AAA Michigan.

That's because the leading cause of traffic crashes on ice-slicked, snow-clogged roads is following the car in front too closely. The driver in front stops; you can't.

Along with following some safe-driving techniques, Jerry Basch, AAA Michigan's Community Safety Services manager, recommends increasing your following distance on slippery roads from the good-road gap of 3 seconds to 6 seconds.

A good way to measure the six-second time gap is to pick out a distinct road marking or sign, and then begin counting when the car ahead passes that spot — "one-thousand-one, one-thousand-two . . ."

"You're tailgating if you get to that spot before counting to six," Basch said. "Too close for safety on slippery roads.

Stopping distances on melting ice and snow at the 32-degree freezing point are twice as great as at zero temperatures.

Particularly troublesome are shaded areas and bridges, overpasses and intersections — areas where ice is likely to form first or be slipperiest because the shiny ice surface has either been polished by previous traffic, a thin layer of water covers melting ice below or a temperature difference exists.

AAA MIchigan offers the following tips to help motorists steer clear of winter driving trouble:

• Improve visibility by clearing all snow and ice from the entire car — hood, roof, trunk, turn signals, lights, windows, mirrors, even fender wells. Also, driving with headlights on low-beam provides better road illumination in snow and fog than using high-beams.

• Remember, posted speed limits are set for ideal road and weather conditions.

• Avoid sudden starts, stops and turns. Accelerate carefully so car wheels don't spin.

• Don't brake hard. The best technique for braking on ice or snow is "threshold" or "squeeze" braking. This is done by applying the brakes firmly to a point just short of lock up, and then easing off the brake pedal slightly. Applying steady pressure is better than "pumping" the brakes. If your vehicle has anti-lock braking, continuous firm braking is usually recommended. Check the owner's manual for proper procedure.

• In a skid, ease off the accelerator and don't lock up the brakes. Carefully steer in the direction you want the car to go and straighten the wheel as soon as the car begins to go in the desired direction.

• Anticipate potential danger such as ice on bridges, snow-covered lane markings, stalled cars and poor visibility. Adjust speed, increase distance between other cars or change lanes to avoid trouble. Watch for other drivers who may be unprepared for changing road conditions.

Geography night slated at North

North Creek Elementary School will host its first Family Geography Night on Saturday, Nov. 16, from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m., sponsored by the PTN.

Classrooms become "continents" where students and parents, together, will be able to create local crafts and play regional games.

Students and adults can make and interpret maps, learn geography with postage stamps, and discover the wide variety of animal habitats in the world. They can become contestants in the giant floor game, "Where in the World is Carmen San Diego?" or join others in learning international folk dances.

Kids will be able to put on and be photographed in costumes from different countries. Many computer learning activities will be available for all ages.

There will be free refreshments and no admission charge.

To volunteer or for more information, contact Pete Lenehan, 475-1033.

Red Cross ranked charity of year by Money

As people planning their end-of-year giving ponder the merits of today's charities, Money magazine has ranked the American Red Cross as the "charity of the year." Following a comprehensive analysis of 100 leading charities, the magazine's November issue lists Red Cross as the No. 1 charity on the basis of how efficiently the organization spent its income over a three-year period — 1993, 1994 and 1995.

"We are extremely proud to be recognized for our efficiency in ensuring that 92 cents of every dollar spent goes directly toward Red Cross programs and services helping families across America," said Gene Dyson, acting president of the National Red Cross.

"Our success in providing critical services to our neighbors in need is due to the tireless efforts of our 1.4 million volunteers, approximately four million blood donors, as well as the generous financial contributions of individuals, corporations and foundations nationwide.

We are very grateful to our friends and supporters in neighborhoods across the country for helping to make this recognition possible."

Locally, the Washtenaw County Red Cross serves over 100,000 local residents every year. All this service is made possible through funds raised in Washtenaw County. About a third of these funds come from the United Way with the rest coming from out right gifts to the Washtenaw Red Cross by individuals and corporations.

"These positive ratings are particularly important at this very moment as the Red Cross needs as much as $25 million to help families devastated by Hurricanes Fran, Hortense and Josephine," said Laura Burkey, Director of Community Emergency Services.

"We must raise nearly $19,000 in Washtenaw County as our part of the $25 million campaign," according to Burkey.

"The positive rating by Money magazine show local families that we are responsible stewards of their donations and that their contributions are used to directly help people in desperate need in every neighborhood."

The American Red Cross, led by its neighborhood volunteers, is the largest and most respected humanitarian organization in the United States. It provides relief to victims of disasters and helps families prevent, prepare for, and respond to emergencies, both domestically and internationally.

Last year the Washtenaw Red Cross . . .

•Collected 23,010 pints of blood.

•Provided social services to over 2,800 local people.

•Assisted 248 victims of disaster.

•Certified nearly 65,000 people in life saving skills like infant and child CPR and first aid.

•Served local residents with the assistance of 921 volunteers.

The Red Cross relies on the generosity of the American people, corporations and foundations to fund our vital programs for families all across Michigan. To make a financial contribution to the American Red Cross, individuals may send donations to 2729 Packard Road, Ann Arbor, MI 48108.

Farm Bureau fun facts

Turkey meat, like other poultry, is high in protein and one of the lowest meats in fat and cholesterol content. Benjamin Franklin wanted the wild turkey adopted as America's national bird, because he thought the turkey exemplified the essence of freedom and independence.

Males in New England once turned pumpkin shells upside down on their heads before haircuts and had their hair trimmed around the base of the shell. That was the origin of the term "pumpkinhead."

Dexter

—Students Make Floats—

Students at Cornerstone Elementary School recently observed a "Michigan Float" parade presented by students in teacher Cheryl Dunham's fourth grade class at Bates Elementary. Wagon-size floats were handmade by students. Many Michigan areas were selected as the theme, including Battle Creek, Traverse City, Michigan Stadium, Mackinac Bridge and Frankenmuth. Pictured are students Andrew Vincke, Mike Edwards and William Burgett with Dunham.

Dexter

—Fire Safety—

Dexter firefighter Jim Adams spent Thursday, Oct. 17 teaching fire safety to about 600 students at Cornerstone Elementary School in Dexter. He pointed out some of the dangers around the home and asked students to make sure their younger siblings stay away from such things as irons, matches, stoves and wood burners too. Students will practice the stop, drop and roll technique in physical education class this week.

Chelsea

Lucas, Jacob and Joshua Riley show off the ribbons they earned at the North and South Elementary Schools' Jog-A-Thon Oct. 19. More than 600 participants showed up to complete 4,500 miles on the track.

Elementary Jog-A-Thon a great success

On Saturday, Oct. 19, 300 elementary-age children and at least that many adults gathered throughout the day to participate in the Chelsea Elementary Jog-A-Thon. This event, sponsored by North Creek and South Meadows' parent-teacher groups, had a dual purpose.

The main goal of the event was to promote family fun and fitness. It also brought both elementary schools together, a specific goal of the parent organizations as they near the completion of a third elementary facility that will likely draw families from both North and South Schools.

More than 100 volunteers including parents, teachers, principals and girl scouts performed various jobs such as counting laps, serving healthy snacks, taking pictures and recording laps on the large boards that were posted at each school. More than 4,500 miles were completed.

Free brochure offers advice on protecting children

More than 800,000 children in the United States were reported missing in 1995. As a public service, the IOF Foresters is offering a free brochure on ways you can protect your child. To receive a free brochure call 1-800-922-4-IOF and ask for "10 Child Protection Tips."

To help keep your child safe, IOF Foresters suggested the following:

• Never display your child's name on his or her clothing. Someone could approach your child and use the name to make him or her feel more secure.

• Have your child memorize his or her full name, address, your place of work and telephone numbers.

• Teach your child how to use the telephone.

A fraternal benefit society with more than one million members, the IOF Foresters is dedicated to helping families through the Children's Miracle Network, and child abuse prevention programs.

WCC winter registration scheduled

Registration begins soon for Washtenaw Community College off campus classes in Chelsea and Dexter. The winter classes available offer many choices to residents.

There are 55 courses offered at Chelsea High School and Dexter High School. Credit classes range from Basic Mathematics and Introduction to Computers to Supervisory Management and Logic. Noncredit classes will include seminars in: Conflict, Criticism & Anger in the Workplace, Sales Development For Small Business, Flower Gardening and Interior Decorating.

For all Western Regional area classes, registration may be completed at the Western Regional Office at 114 N. Main Street, Suite 7, in the Sylvan building, downtown Chelsea.

Early counseling and registration for Chelsea, Dexter, and Manchester area students will begin Nov. 14 from 4-8 p.m. by appointment.

ASSET Testing is available for new students. For more information or to make an appointment contact Mary Lou Rigg at 475-5935.

Stamp show scheduled

The Ann Arbor Stamp Club will put on its annual stamp show during November, and also hold two club meetings during the month. The show is on the weekend of Nov. 9-10, and the meeting will be on Monday, Nov. 25.

The club meeting on Monday, November 25, begins at 7:30 p.m., and is the annual social gathering of the club, with refreshment served.

At each meeting there will also be an auction sale of inexpensive US and foreign stamps.

The club meetings are in the Salvation Army building, located at the corner of West Huron Street and Arbana Drive in Ann Arbor. The meetings are open to the public and there is no admission charge.

Jewish speaker to visit Chelsea

Doug Carmel from Rock of Israel ministries will be holding services at 11 a.m. Sunday, Nov. 10, at the New Life Christian Center, located in the Lima Township Hall east of Chelsea and the Fletcher Road exit on Old U.S. 12 (Jackson Rd).

Doug Carmel is a Messianic Jew who travels internationally showing from Old and New Testaments that Jesus Christ is the only One true God.

He will be teaching on the topic Jesus Christ in the seven Jewish feasts.

Cyberslopes: Enjoy skiing from home

You look out the window on a bleak, dreary day in southeast Michigan and see nothing but brown — that means there's no snow up north, right? Despite evidence to the contrary, would-be skiers may stay home when they see no snow in their own backyards. New information on the Internet may change all that.

Cyber slopes — live-action video shots of snow conditions up north — may provide credible evidence for those who are skeptical. Several ski resorts have experimented with the idea, and it seems to be catching on, along with other online methods for reporting ski conditions.

"Most of the larger resorts in the area have extensive snow-making capacity," said Bill Best, AAA Michigan Travel Service director. "Once the temperature drops to 29 degrees and you have low humidity, you're ready to go — even if Mother Nature isn't helping."

Last year Mother Nature provided plenty of help, dumping more than 240 inches in the region — the most snow in recorded history.

During an average year, ski resorts in the northland receive 180 to 200 inches of snow, partially due to the "lake effect." And, according to the Michigan Travel Bureau, the average winter temperatures vary considerably between the upper peninsula, lower peninsula and metro Detroit area. In Detroit, for example, the average winter high is 37 degrees, with an average low of 22. In Traverse City, the average high is 33, with a low of 19; in Marquette, it's 26 and 10.

But don't take our word for it — log on to the World Wide Web and see for yourself. Some sites to consider when planning your ski getaway this winter:

•Ski Michigan — http://www.michiweb.com / ski / condition.html This comprehensive site includes the 1996-97 Internet Picnic Table Snow Cam, which tracks snowfall in northern lower Michigan. The picnic table is about 10 miles southeast of Traverse City.

•Nordic Skiing — http://www.skinordic.org/ The Northern Michigan Nordic Skiing Home Page highlights nordic skiing conditions and provides snow reports, along with a comprehensive list of upcoming nordic events.

•Travel Bureau — http://www.travel-michigan.state.mi.us/season.html Michigan's official travel site offers an 800 number for updated winter ski reports.

•AAA News Wire — http://www.aaamich.com/information/newswire/index.html This index provides a statewide roundup of ski conditions (updated weekly).

For a complete list of all 44 downhill ski resorts and 178 cross country trails, consult the "1996-97 Michigan Winter Travel Guide & Calendar of Events," published by the Michigan Travel Bureau, P.O. Box 3393, Livonia, MI, 48151-3393.

—Family Seeks Help With Adoption—

Bruce and Sherry Herter of Chelsea want to adopt "Padmini" (above) from India. She has pseudoarthrosis, which means that both bones in her legs are broken and they won't heal. She'll need bone grafting when she comes to the U.S. The Herters are asking the community for about $1,500 in financial help because the cost to bring Padmini here is high. Anyone interested in contributing can send money to the Padmini Herter Fund at Chelsea State Bank. For more information call the Herters at 475-3668.

Beware of truckloads of firewood offered

If someone tries to sell you a "truckload" of firewood, you may not be getting the proper measurement. Firewood can only be sold by a measurement called a "cord", according to Dan Wyant, Director of the Michigan Department of Agriculture (MDA).

"While a 'truckload' of firewood may sound like a lot, it isn't legal and can't be enforced," said Wyant. "Consumers should seek out dealers who use the proper measurement, selling only cords or fractions of cords."

Unscrupulous sellers may also use terms like "face cord", "rack" or "pile".

A cord must equal 128 cubic feet. Buyers should stack the wood neatly (or have the seller do so, sometimes for a small fee) by placing the wood in a line or row, with individual pieces touching and parallel to each other, making sure that the wood is compact and has few gaps as possible. If the width times the height times the length equals 128 cubic feet, it equals a cord.

Michigan law requires that consumers be given a receipt for their purchase at the time of delivery that shows the seller's name and address, the purchasers name and address, as well as the price, amount and kind of wood purchased. For added protection, seller's should also write down the license plate number of the delivery vehicle.

If the measurement does not equal a cord and the seller won't correct the problem, buyers should contact the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

Frank Grohs Chevrolet named certified used car center

General Motors Corporation has selected Frank Grohs Chevrolet as a General Motors Certified Used Car Center.

Frank Grohs Chevrolet will certify all GM used cars up to four years old and all will carry a minimum of a 12 month/12,000 mile General Motors warranty. The company will be granted special privileges by GM to warranty Chevrolet, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Buick and GMC truck products that it sells.

Longer warranties will be available through GM at the dealership. Each certified vehicle must pass a national serial number computer search for title and damage history, and a stringent 110 point GM inspection process.

Once certified, GM will issue a certification umber and a window price and equipment label which will be registered with GM. Consumers can review all records.

Once sold, the vehicle is reported by computer to GM and the customer is registered with GM as the vehicle's current owner.

Jeff Grohs, owner of Frank Grohs Chevrolet, says he is delighted at GM's used vehicle franchise opportunity, and is pleased that he will now be able to warranty a variety of GM products through his used-car division.

"The new process through GM corporate is an excellent opportunity for the consumer. They can now be assured of the quality of the used vehicle they are buying."

City planning subject of talk

"The American City: What Works, What Doesn't?" will be explored by Alexander Garvin on Nov. 7 at 6 p.m. in the University of Michigan's Rackham Amphitheater.

Garvin, an architect, city planner, real estate developer and manager, educator author of a book of the same title as his U-M presentation, analyzed more than 250 programs and projects seeking answers to what work and what doesn't in American cities.

Garvin will explore the very best urban an suburban projects conceived and implemented across the country, uncovering the philosophy behind them and investigating what made them successful and how they made our cities better.

Garvin is currently a faculty member at Yale University and a member of the New York City Planning Commission. He has also acted as New York City's deputy commissioner of housing and director of comprehensive planning. Garvin's appearance is sponsored by U-M's College of Architecture and Urban Planning.

Glenn Adkins graduates from training

Army Pvt. Glenn E. Adkins has graduated from One Station Unit Training (OSUT) at Fort Sill, Lawton, Okla. The training included completion of basic military training and advanced individual training (AIT).

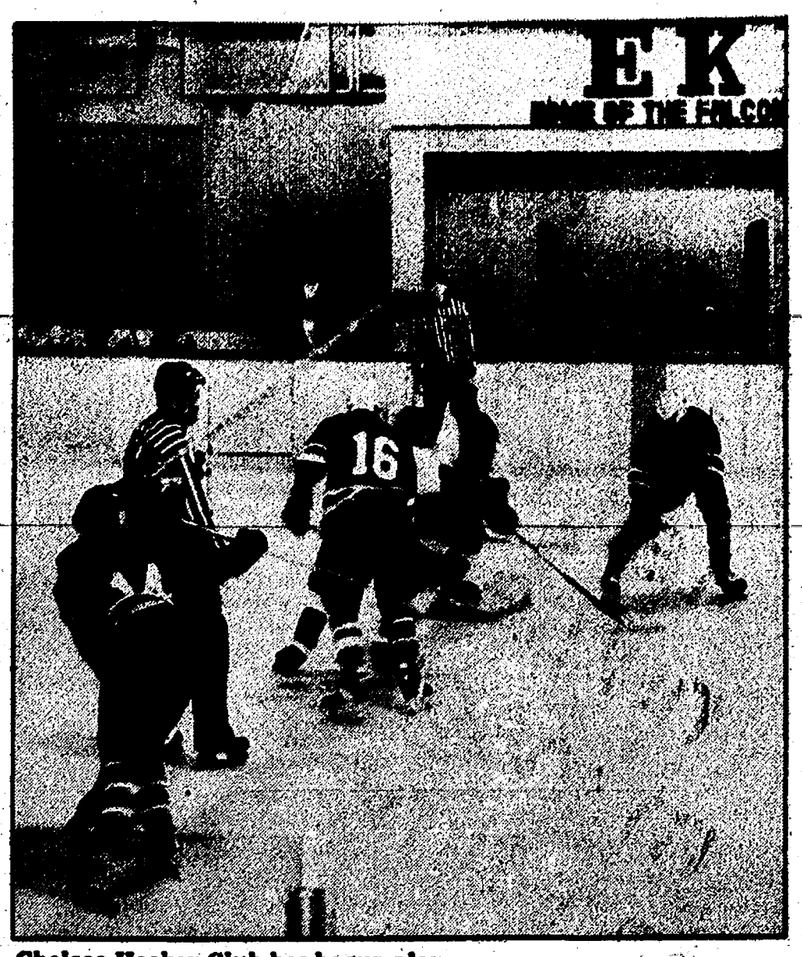

Basic trainees received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid and Army history and traditions.

Afterward, soldiers completed the cannon fire direction specialist advanced individual training course.

The course instructed students to establish, maintain and operate radio and wire communications; operate back-up computer systems, including preparation, data entry and computation of firing data; construct and operate observed or surveyed firing charts and record fire-mission related information and maintain ammunition status; compile target lists and prepare target, situation and fire capability overlays.

Adkins is the son of Cathaleen J. Adkins of 17965 Plainfield Road; Gregory, and Wilmer W. Adkins of 3070 Parman Road, Dansville.

He is a 1996 graduate of Pinckney High School, Mich.

Chelsea Hockey Club has begun play.

Hockey Club opens season

Chelsea Hockey Club had its second game of the season on Oct. 26 at Kentwood Ice Arena near Grand Rapids.

The Bulldogs scored four goals but lost the game, 10-4. Russell Herrando scored in the first period, Owen Ross scored the second goal, assisted by Rusty Blackwell, in the second period, and Al Letizio and Sean Stickney scored in the third period. Rob Molina had an assist.

Other members of the team include Pat Flynn, Justin Kusterer, Jason Lantis, Tim Lawrence, Scott Cooney, Sooner Brooks-Heath, Mike McTaggert, Todd Osborne, Jason Zatkovich, Steve Williams, David Poupard, Brett Poupard, and Ian Skidmore.

Stamp Club to hold show

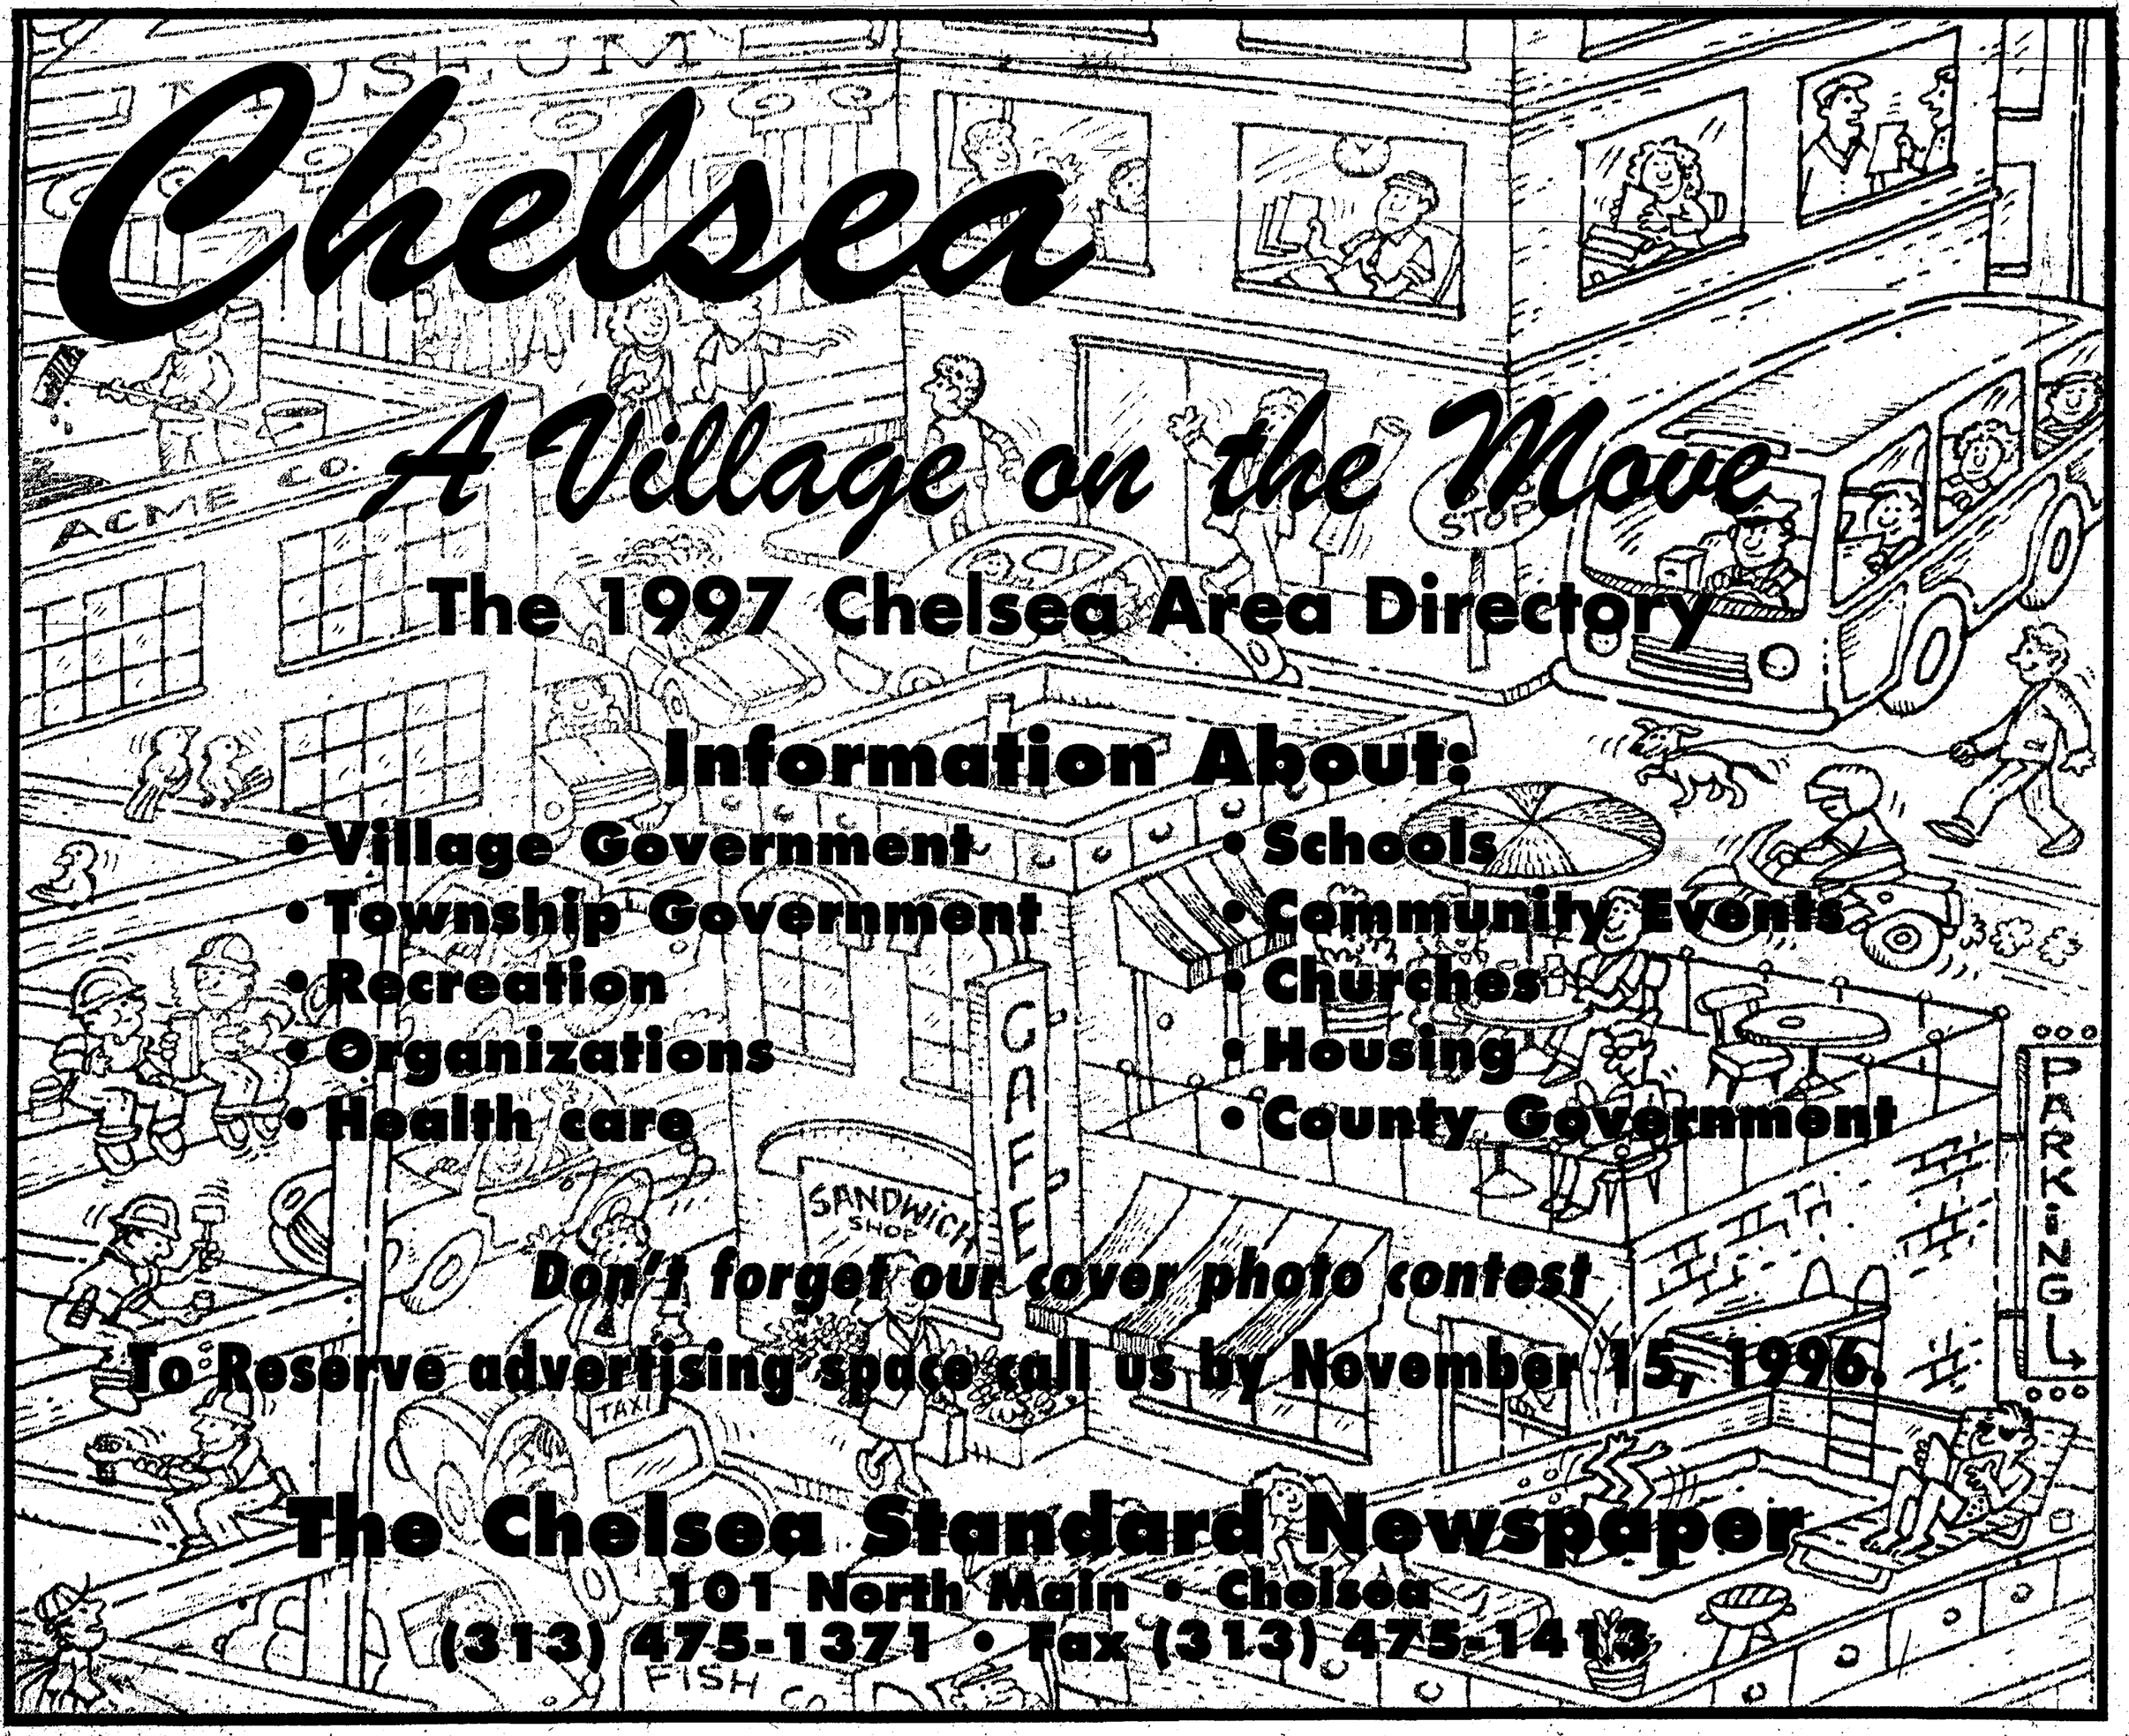

Stamps relating to the 100th anniversary of the automobile in the U.S. and sales tables for all levels of collectors will be offered at the Ann Arbor (Michigan) Stamp Club's 22nd annual show and bourse, November 9 and 10.

Twenty-two dealers from Michigan, other states, and Canada will operate sales tables. The United States Postal Service will also have a philatelic counter in service.

A youth table, offering U.S. and foreign stamps at minimal prices for beginning collectors, will be operated by club members.

The club will offer for sale covers carrying one of each of the five 1995 U.S. stamps depicting antique automobiles with a cancel designed for the show and a cachet (a related design on the envelope).

Parking and admission are free. The show and bourse will be at Mack Elementary School, 920 Miller Ave. on Ann Arbor's west side near the M-14 freeway. Hours are 10 to 6 p.m. Nov. 9, and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Nov. 10.

Stream MAP of Michigan

LOST STREAM MAP FOUND AND RESTORED

The recently published STREAM MAP OF MICHIGAN is just like another map - known to Pennsylvania anglers as the "Lost Stream Map."

The "Stream Map of Pennsylvania" was completed in 1965 after a thirty-year effort by Howard Higbee, a former Penn State Professor.

Professor Higbee succeeded in creating a map of the highest detail possible...a map that shows every stream and lake. He painstakingly plotted by hand, the location of 45,000 miles of streams onto a 3 x 5 foot map.

The map sold extremely well -- until it was lost several years later. Incredibly, the printer entrusted with the original drawing and printing plates, declared bankruptcy, then carelessly hauled Higbee's 30 years of work to the landfill.

The few remaining dog-eared copies became a prized fisherman's possession. Professor Higbee was offered $400 for one of his last maps. And state agencies were forced to keep their copies under lock and key.

The experts had always told Professor Higbee that reprints were impossible, because the maps were printed in non-photographic blue. Then, in 1991, at the age of 91, Howard Higbee's dream came true. Computers made it possible to reprint the map. Holding an updated map, Howard said, "I never thought I'd live to see this day."

Then, by combining Professor Higbee's knowledge with computer technology - the STREAM MAP OF MICHIGAN was created.

Why every fisherman needs this map

It is estimated that 10% of all the fishermen catch 90% of the fish. Regardless of which group you fall into... there's a sure way to up your odds... simply try new fishing waters. Fish where few fishermen ever fish.

Michigan is loaded with great fishing waters...many of them overlooked. From the AuSable River to all of the Great Lakes tributaries to the Pere Marquette River...thousands of miles of streams, lakes and rivers are now easy-to-locate on one map.

Professor Higbee's Stream Map of Michigan is the first and only highly detailed map of its kind. This new 4 foot by 4 foot color map shows virtually all of the 35,000 miles of Michigan streams & lakes on both peninsulas. That's almost two times the earth's circumference!

Professor Higbee's STREAMS

RAVE REVIEWS

"It is amazingly detailed and names some creeks in the Mohawk Valley that can't even be found on topographic maps."
John Pitarres
OBSERVER-DISPATCH-Utica

"If you're looking for the most definitive maps ever created depicting every single creek, river, stream, pond and lake ....then "Professor Higbee's Stream Maps" are without question the finest.
Howard Grant
THE NEWARK STAR-LEDGER

"It is in showing where to find out-of-the-way trout streams that makes the map such a treasure to the fisherman.
Joe Gordon
TRIBUNE-DEMOCRAT-Johnstown

FREE LOCATION GUIDEBOOK INCLUDED

Pinpoint the best fishing in Michigan with this valuable 40 page guide. Easily locate over 5,000 streams and lakes shown on the "Stream Map." Your map and guidebook will take you to the top 443 fishing waters - select waters for 14 species of gamefish.

Thank You 420

I WOULD LIKE to thank everyone who was so kind to Mr. John J. Ford (Papa John). Thanks for the visits, telephone calls, flowers, masses and memorials. Thanks to Joe Merkel for the luncheon and the St. Mary's ladies who helped. Thanks to Joe Brosnan for the vigil, Helen Bulick, Fr. Dupuis, Sr., Helen and the choir for the beautiful service, the pall bearers and all who attended. Thanks to the C.R.C. and the City and Country Convalescent Home for excellent care, also the Mitchell Family for their kindness. Everything was greatly appreciated.
Slochain and God Bless,
Pat and Clarence Wood

THE FAMILY of Alton Schneider would like to thank our friends, neighbors, and Pastor Hartley. We appreciate the comforting words, prayers, cards, flowers, and the visits at the hospital and at our home during Alton's recuperation. Also, a thank you to the Chelsea Community Hospital for their care and kindness.
The Schneider Family

THE FAMILY of Lillie Mae R. Brown would like to express our sincere thanks to the Saline Community Hospital for their gracious care during our mother's stay and death this past week. Our community has much to be thankful for in having a staff with such caring qualities. A special thanks to the nurses and aides who attended her and to Mary Gumtow, RN for her special considerations.
We are grateful for all you did to make this difficult time more easily to accept.
Best regards -
George & Jan Schnierle
Edward & Donna Lick
Ronald & Floy Hampshire

WE WOULD LIKE to thank the Saline Community Fair Ladies Day Committee for the trip to Toronto that they gave away at the Ladies Day program. Thank you also to the businesses that contributed to the prize: Linda Rogers of Travel Resources, Briarwood Ford, Crescive Tool & Die, McNaughton & Gunn, and Wellers Carriage House. Thank you all, we had a great time.
Diane & Tom Hammond

BARBARA KATHARINA ATKO
Dexter

Age 78, born Barbara Binder on July 15, 1918 in Ofterdingen, W. Germany (Sister city of Dexter) and died peacefully at home on Oct. 28, 1996 with her family present. After receiving her business degree in Tuebingen, Germany, she worked for the mayor's office in Ofterdingen for over 15 years, where she was instrumental in running the town government. For several years, she served as Ofterdingen's acting Buergermeister (Mayor). She married Vincas Atkociunas (Vincent Atko), from Lithuania, in Ofterdingen on Feb. 9, 1952. Later that year they emigrated to the United States and settled in Dexter. Barbara worked for Braun-Brumfield, Inc. from 1964 until her retirement in 1983. While there, she contributed to several areas of book manufacturing, and especially enjoyed her last position as a layout artist. Throughout her life she worked hard, while enjoying it to the fullest. She was a very caring and giving person, who brought joy and happiness to all who knew her. Barbara will be dearly missed by the many friends and family who love her.

Our mother was preceded in death by her husband, Vincent Atko, on Jan. 6, 1977, and by her brother, Friedrich (Fritz) Binder, on Jan. 26, 1981 in Germany. She is survived by her devoted daughters, Agatha and Karen.

Funeral arrangements were made through Hosmer-Muehlig Funeral Home in Dexter. Visitation was held on Friday, Nov. 1, 1996 from 2 p.m. until 8 p.m. The Rev. Kathy Batell officiated at the memorial service, which was held at 8 p.m. on Friday following the visitation. Graveside service took place on Saturday, Nov. 2 at 10:30 a.m. in St. Joseph Catholic Cemetery in Dexter, where she was buried next to her husband, Vincent. Following the service on Saturday, friends gathered for a luncheon at the family's home. Memorial contributions will be used to establish a scholarship in her name, which will enable a Dexter student to study in her homeland of Germany.
