Christmas in April to be held April 26

This year's Chelsea Christmas in April is scheduled for Saturday, April 26. For the sixth consecutive year, local volunteers will offer time and money to do work and repairs on the homes of some of Chelsea's residents.

There are financial guidelines for those who are eligible for help. Services are primarily for handicapped, elderly or economically disadvantaged home owners.

Last year, more than 72 volunteers got together to help eight local homeowners doing significant renovations on some homes and more cosmetic work, such as cleaning and small repairs on others. For more information, or to volunteer or donate money to Christmas in April, please call Dick Shaneyfelt at 475-8193.

Asbestos removal contracts approved

The Chelsea School District has taken measures to remove the bulk of the asbestos that still remains in the North and South elementary buildings. The board of education awarded contracts March 24 to two different environmental companies to remove asbestos-containing floor tile and adhesives from both of the school buildings.

The contract for North Creek went to Quality Environmental Services, Inc., for the amount of $10,250, and the South Meadows contract went to Asbestos Control Environmental, Inc. for an amount of $27,457.

The removal of the Vinyl Asbestos Tile and asbestos-containing adhesives will take place after the school year is finished in the spring. There will still be small amounts of asbestos remaining in both buildings around joints and heating pipes buried in the walls. This remaining asbestos is all encapsulated and controlled.

Tech club to put on variety show

Chelsea High School's Tech Unlimited club will present "Spectacular '97," a variety show filled with special effects, April 19 at the Chelsea High School Auditorium, at 8 p.m.

As part of the show, the Choral Connection will present a Broadway show tune medley.

Tickets for the show are available at the Chelsea Pharmacy, and all proceeds will benefit Tech Unlimited.

Dexter Township considers PDR

Dexter Township Board was asked last week to consider its position regarding the Purchase of Development Rights.

Several board members voiced the cons, while Barry Lonik, director of the Potawatomi Land Trust and member of a task force pushing for a county-wide ballot proposal supporting PDR, presented the benefits.

Lonik said Washtenaw County lost 34,715 acres of farmland from 1982 to 1992, predicting the rate would accelerate. Only 170,000 acres remain.

"Farmers are getting calls every week from some one wanting to buy their land," Lonik said.

Based on a study conducted in Scio Township, Lonik said it costs 82 cents for every tax dollar to provide municipal services to farmland, 26 cents for commercial or industrial land and $1.40 for residential development.

Engineers recommend west bypass

By Angela Trotter
Staff Writer

A bypass to the west of town will be in the future of the Chelsea area, if local government officials decide to take the advice of the consulting team of Beckett and Raeder, Inc. At a public meeting March 20 at Sylvan Township Hall, John Iacoangeli of Beckett and Raeder presented the recommendation that at some point, a bypass to the west of Chelsea be built in order to alleviate the traffic flow on M-52 downtown.

Iacoangeli said the actual construction would be 15-20 years away, but planning ahead will make the project run much more smoothly when the time comes.

"You do have time to plan and appropriately implement this plan," Iacoangeli said. He said planning ahead will give land owners better insight on how to use their land, and planners a better idea of where to allow development.

Today, building a west bypass would cost about $3.5 million, not including purchasing right-of-way from property owners.

The recommended bypass would be built as a county primary road rather than a state trunk line. This means the county would be responsible for construction and maintenance, rather than the state. The route would go around Wilkinson Street and come out near the industrial park, although the exact placement of the route has not yet been determined.

"The next step that needs to happen is that the planning commissions need to locate on a map exactly where the future right-of-way is going to go, so property owners can plan the use of their property," Iacoangeli said.

Engineers from Washtenaw Engineering Co. worked on the project with Beckett and Raeder and originally came up with seven different alternatives to deal with downtown Chelsea's traffic problem. Some of the other avenues explored were doing nothing, widening M-52 to four lanes, building a bypass east of town and creating a regional route around the village.

The engineers evaluated each of the alternatives in light of the level of service that would be provided, the amount of semi-truck traffic that would be siphoned from downtown, the residential impact, the affect on downtown businesses, and the impact on land use, wetlands and historic areas.

This analysis found the west bypass in a tie with the regional route, which would consist of paving and improving already existing roads outside the village. The west bypass was recommended, however, because the engineers felt it would provide greater benefit based on studies of where traffic is generated its flow through the village.

One of the concerns of both the citizens present and local leadership is that if a bypass is built, it would be conducive to commercial development such as strip malls. This type of development would greatly detract from business downtown.

Iacoangeli said there is no way to guarantee that commercial developments will not pop up along this corridor, but it will be up to local governments to ensure it does not happen.

"You need to make sure the planning commission is a focal part of the process," said Village President Richard Steele. "They're the ones responsible for the long-range and general development plans."

The final report on the entire traffic study, which has taken place over the past year-and-a-half, will be available for public viewing at Sylvan Township Hall and the Chelsea Village Offices in 3-4 weeks.

— Stuffing Eggs —

Senior citizens at the Chelsea Retirement Community work diligently stuffing Easter eggs March 21. All together, the seniors stuffed 5,000 eggs for the annual Easter Egg Hunt, which will be held on the grounds of the retirement community Saturday, March 29. The event is sponsored by the Chelsea Kiwanis.

Churches have special Easter services

Amidst the scurry of bunnies and the cracking of eggs, many area churches have been busy planning special services to celebrate the Easter holiday. Most churches will be holding services Thursday, Friday and Sunday, and some will also be having special activities Saturday.

St. Barnabas Episcopal Church, located at 20500 Old US-12, will be holding a Holy Thursday service at 7 p.m. on the March 27. They will have an open Good Friday service from noon to 3 p.m., where people can stop in and leave at their convenience. The church's Easter service will be at 10 a.m. on Sunday.

St. Mary's Catholic Church of Chelsea, located at 14200 Old US-12, will have a Holy Thursday "Mass of the Lord's Supper" at 7 p.m., and the church will be open for adoration until midnight. On Good Friday, St. Mary's will have Solemn Liturgical Ceremonies at 1 p.m. and Stations of the Cross at 7 p.m. Saturday at noon the church will be open for blessing of food baskets, and Easter Vigil will be held Saturday at 8 p.m. Easter Sunday masses will take place at 8 a.m. and 10 a.m.

St. Paul United Church of Christ will be participating in a joint Maundy Thursday service at the First Congregational United Church of Christ, starting at 7 p.m. They will be participating in the Good Friday Community Service, which will be held this year at the First United Methodist Church of Chelsea. Sunday services will be held at 8 a.m. and 10:30 a.m., and a breakfast will be held from 9-10 a.m.

The Chelsea Free Methodist Church, located at 7865 Werkner Road, will be holding a communion service on Good Friday at 7 p.m. Easter Sunday services will take place at the Chelsea High School Auditorium. They will have a coffee fellowship in the cafeteria at 9:30 a.m., and the service will begin at 10:30 a.m. in the auditorium, with a sermon titled "Rolling Stone."

The First United Methodist

Church of Chelsea, located at 128 Park St., will have a Lenten Cantata of "The Crucifixion" for Holy Thursday, beginning at 7 p.m. The church will host the Good Friday Community Service at 1 p.m. On Easter Sunday, a Sunrise Service will be held at 7 a.m., and regular Easter services at 8:30 a.m. and 11 a.m.

Our Savior Lutheran Church, 1515 South Main St., will have a First Person Pontius Pilate service for Maundy Thursday at 7:30 p.m. For Good Friday, the church will have a Penebrae Service starting at 7:30 p.m. On Easter Sunday, the church will hold a Sunrise Service, featuring Easter's First Sermon at 7 a.m., followed by breakfast and a children's Easter Hunt. At 10:30 a.m. on Sunday, they will hold a service with the theme of a "Soldier's Point of View."

The North Lake United Methodist Church, 14111 North Territorial Road, will be having a Maundy Thursday com-

Lyndon residents petition to join district library

A group of citizens from Lyndon Township met at McKune Memorial Library Monday, March 17 to discuss their concerns about continuation of library services for the township's residents.

The residents' concern arose when the new District Library Board voted to suspend book borrowing privileges to those not within the library's boundaries, which consist of Sylvan and Dexter Townships and the Village of Chelsea. Lyndon and Lima Townships chose not to join the library.

In response to their township board's decision, about 50 residents of Lyndon Township began organizing the Lyndon Township Library Lobby Group to try to convince their trustees to join the district library. Of the 20 members of the group present, many expressed puzzlement at their township board's decision. Others were angry because the board's decision will deny residents the opportunity to vote on the issue of Lyndon Township's participation in the district library.

Some residents suggested the district library was turned down because many of the township board members are among the largest landowners in the township, and would thus be hit the hardest if a millage were passed.

Last year, the township contributed $1,700 to the library, less than three percent of the library's total budget. There are 513 McKune Library card holders residing in Lyndon Township, who last year checked out 13,900 items from the library.

The Lyndon Library Lobby decided at the March 17 meeting to initiate a petition drive to demonstrate to the township board that most voters in Lyndon disagree with the board's position, with the hope that the board would be convinced to alter its decision. Nine residents volunteered to spearhead this petition drive.

In addition to the voters' petition drive, a number of parents concerned about the children's programming at the library suggested that the Lyndon Library Lobby initiate a children's petition drive as well.

A member of the group has also been appointed to serve as liaison to the township board, to keep its members abreast on the group's activities.

At the time the Chelsea District Library was formed in January, studies showed that residents of the village accounted for about 30 percent of the total population served by McKune Library, but provided 86 percent of the library's operating funds. One of the main purposes of forming the district library was to even out the financial support among those served by the library.

Residents who are interested in assisting in either of the Lyndon Township petition drives are asked to call Sandra Thomas at 475-8223 or Sandra Shapiro at (517) 851-4795.

Chelsea suffers another power loss

A worker tries to restore power Friday.

Once again, the Village of Chelsea's power service was victim to the combination of high winds and trees on Friday, March 21, when a knocked-down power line resulted in a five-hour loss of power.

The power outage was the result of a strong wind that caused a tree limb to fall on one of Chelsea's main power lines. Chelsea electric department personnel didn't realize at first what the cause of the outage was, and ordered Consumers Power to send over additional power. This resulted in a surge that blew a fuse on the 46,000-volt line that supplies the village's energy, and caused a fireball to roll nearly 300 feet down the power line and into an electric substation.

Once workers were able to find the downed line, they were able to correct the problem.

— Instruction in Stringed Instruments —

Chelsea's fifth-grade students had the opportunity to experiment with a violin, viola, cello and string base last week with the help of Chelsea High School orchestra students. Here, Mia Lanconi gets some instruction from Katherine Hoffenbecker.

Uncle Apollo

While I appreciate Abigail sitting in for me last week, there are a couple of things I want to clear up. My niece is a nice young woman and all, and some day she'll make a good wife for some young man, but like all youngsters, she doesn't always understand me very well.

First of all, there are actually 27 great things you can make with Jiffy Pancake Mix and all but eight of them are edible.

Secondly, I haven't been depressed, but meditative. I found this Ann Arbor mystic who has been helping me understand how to control the world through psychic power and how to win the next election for village president, and the best thing is to find your base of support and build on it.

So after I tried (unsuccessfully) to contact my voters through direct psychic link, I tried telephoning. As Abby pointed out, that didn't go too well either, which is why I went out to Arizona to punch cows for awhile.

Anyway, I was experimenting with my new-found psychic powers and tried to bring back the nice Arizona weather with me when I returned last Friday. I was so confident I even bought a new set of golf clubs.

Well, as you might have noticed, it worked. I went down to Pierce Lake to play nine holes, but I couldn't get in. And then my psychic control seemed to fizzle and we ended up with snow by Sunday. I apologize for that, but nobody's perfect. And it actually gave me a good idea about how to make the winters go quicker around Chelsea.

While we're underground building the new library, maybe we should expand it and put in a golf course. We definitely could use another one. At only one golf course per 2,000 people, we're way behind the rest of the state.

And the advantages of having one underground would be tremendous. You could play all year round. Instead of going out of bounds, the balls would just bounce off the walls and go back into the fairway. Wind wouldn't be a problem. If you snuck out of work to play, you wouldn't have to worry about your boss driving by and seeing you.

Another benefit would be that it would be easier and cheaper for the village to fix underground stuff. If you just dig around all of the pipes and wires down there, they would be great as golf hazards. And if something went wrong, the village folks wouldn't have to go digging around and screwing up traffic on the surface, they could just come down and work on the problem from underneath.

It would even have an added benefit for the golfers, who could blame their terrible shots on being distracted by the clanging on the fourth fairway. Every golfer I know needs some kind of excuse or another.

So you can see that I'm working just as hard as ever to make life better for everyone around Chelsea. And as for Abby, she's a great kid and did a good job and I think I'll have her sit in once in awhile when I'm on vacation, even though I might have to clear up a few things she says.

Oh, and just for the record, I study in the laboratory, not the laboratory. I don't blame Abby for that mistake, though. It's just so cluttered up you can't tell what it is unless you spend a lot of time in there. Which I do.

Letters to the Editor

Too many unknowns about district library

This letter is an explanation of my actions regarding the district library. It does not necessarily represent the view of other members of the Lyndon Township Board.

I think that district libraries are an excellent idea. Several small adjacent communities can better serve their residents by pooling assets to provide needed services. The residents in this area have benefited from area-wide recycling. I hope that we will soon have area-wide fire protection and library-media service.

However, when public funds are being used to create and support these projects we (your elected representatives) have a duty to ensure your funds are being used wisely and to the benefit of all contributors.

Once we become part of the district library we are in forever. If the district approves a millage (tax) then you are obligated to pay it. If Lyndon Township becomes part of the district library you will pay to support it. If we vote to leave the district you still are obligated to pay taxes to support the library. If we are going to enter into an agreement that binds us forever, then it would seem logical to have a plan for that future so your tax dollars are not spent needlessly.

I have several concerns about the district library that were not resolved by the district library committee. And, to date have not been (to my knowledge) addressed by the current library board. Here are a few of many.

The current location of the district library. The library is next to a contaminated site. Has anyone checked to see if the library property is also contaminated? If it is contaminated will it have to be cleaned up? It would seem logical to determine: 1. the amount of contamination and, 2. any obligations that will be assumed for cleaning up contaminates if the district library is housed at this location.

Can the lot next to the library ever be used for future expansion of the current library? Can it even be used as a future parking lot? What will be the cost of cleaning up that lot? Will it ever be available to the district library? At what cost? It would seem logical to check with the village to determine the current status of this property, future cost of clean up, availability, and purchase price?

Both of these lots are located in the heart of the village. Nice location if you can walk there. Currently, nearby parking is usually available. However, this is a growing community. Where are you going to park in the future? There are no parking lots in the immediate area. You will have to park and walk some

Opening Remarks

By Brian Hamilton

George Bush has just made a strong bid to become the next poster boy for one of those vitamin-laden milkshakes for seniors, the kind that add "life to your years."

The former president went sky diving this week, reportedly free-falling a mile and a half before opening his parachute. It would have been perfect political timing if he had been running for office, with President Clinton all laid up in a wheelchair from a pre-falling accident.

Back at my first newspaper job, I parachuted once just so I could write a story about it. It ended up being titled, "Good To The Last Drop," a play on an old coffee commercial.

I spent an entire day in training at the Green County Parachute School south of Atlanta, Ga. They taught me how to hit the ground and roll onto my side. As I recall, they started me off standing on a single cinder block and jumping off. By the time the training was over, about seven hours later, I was jumping off a five-foot platform and I was very sore and bruised.

They taught me what to do if I came down in trees, wires, water and any number of other hazards, although this school was out in the middle of a field so it would have taken a major snafu to encounter any of those problems. One guy did, however, land on a Quonset hut roof, which was about the only thing other than grass that he could have landed on.

They also taught me what to do if my parachute didn't open or only partially opened. Novice jumpers are hooked to a wire, so when they jump a line automatically pulls their parachute out of its pack.

But each jumper also had a secondary parachute strapped to his waist. If my main chute didn't open, I was supposed to pull a cord; pull out the smaller secondary chute by hand, and throw it back over my head. That seemed like it would be an almost impossible task if I was panic-stricken and hurtling through the air.

When it was my turn to jump, I had to sit on the edge of the door next to the pilot, grab a bracket attached to the wing, then pull myself out onto the wing and stand there for an eternity until the pilot gave me the signal to go.

The short time until the parachute opened was like the thrill ride of the century, dropping down while moving forward at the speed of the plane, for a split second not knowing what might happen.

Floating to the ground seemed almost anti-climactic. After I hit the ground, I was still so wound up from the initial fall that I literally couldn't speak. I sure can't imagine falling over a mile as Bush did.

It was a great experience, but I wouldn't do it again now, let alone in my seventies.

If I were Barbara, though, I'd keep my eye on old George, especially if he starts drinking milkshakes from a can. Who knows what could be next.

It was a big day for Beach Middle School student Robert Herrst (right) last week as the youngster got to sit in a Viper and be interviewed by television news crews. Herrst wrote a letter to John Colone's dealership in Pinckney asking for information about the cars for a class project. Instead, cars were sent to the school, where the children could see them first hand.

Beach students get a close-up look at Vipers

When Robert Herrst II, a seventh-grade student at Beach Middle School, had an assignment to write a business letter for his English class, he decided to write to John Colone, a Pinckney Chrysler/Plymouth/Dodge dealer.

What Herrst did not know when he wrote the letter, was that he would create a day for himself and his classmates that would remain vivid in their minds for months, possibly years, to come.

Herrst's assignment for Keith Kindred's English class was to write a letter to a business and ask for information on that business's products or services. When Colone received the letter, he called Herrst and told him he didn't have much information he could send. Then he asked if instead, it would be all right if he brought some of his Dodge Viper cars to Herrst's school to give the students a close-up look at the cars.

"He was so excited he lost his breath and couldn't talk," said Kris Herrst, Robert's mother.

Colone brought three of the cars, two 1994 models and a 1996 model, to Beach Middle School on March 20, and gave every one of the 24 students in the class a ride. One of the cars had been in storage since October, and wasn't running well, so each student got to ride in one of two Vipers.

The Viper has been on the market since 1992, is available in a limited selection of colors, and comes with a 400 horse power, six-speed manual transmission.

THE MAGIC OF MANDALAY

There are still places in this world waiting to be discovered, where time seems to have stopped, preserving centuries of rich culture and tradition. Mandalay, a golden city in the Far Eastern country of Myanmar (formerly Burma), is such a place. Closed to the outside world for decades, the government of Myanmar is now encouraging visitors. The most common way in-and-out of the country is through Bangkok, Thailand, and one of the best ways of sampling the lush countryside is by cruising the Ayeyarwady River. Like Egypt's Nile, this river is Myanmar's lifeline, and it offers a front-row view of thatched-roof huts and golden pagodas. Mandalay itself, a city of 800,000 people, is considered the religious and historical heart of this ancient culture. Its dazzlingly ornate temples and monasteries are home to some 16,000 Buddhist monks. Shops bursting with exotic goods are often clustered around the pagodas.

Many travelers have a vague notion of their dream vacations, but need some help putting it all together. Whether to choose an exotic location like Mandalay or another destination, how to get there, and what to do when you get there are all questions the professional travel agents at UNIGLOBE CHELSEA TRAVEL, INC. are well-suited to answer. Our years of experience, special training, and genuine pleasure in meeting the challenge of each traveler's dreams are what you'll need the next time you're bitten by the travel bug. Stop by 1070 South Main Street, or call 475-3110.

Hint: The mythical charms of the city of Mandalay, were made public in the poem "The Road to Mandalay," written by Rudyard Kipling.

Charity Bowl for Faith in Action

Library looks at moving forward

The Chelsea District Library Board is looking at what it has now and what it will need in the future to best serve the community. The board has divided into several different committees, each with the task of exploring one of the facets of where the library is going.

The board decided that one of its first priorities will be to complete a needs assessment, looking at how many people the library will need to serve, how much space it will need, and what resources are available for the library. Library Director Ann Holt will be in charge of this project.

After completing the needs assessment, the board can explore different options available for building space and possibilities for millage proposals.

The library board members said they would still like to see Lima and Lyndon Townships change their minds and join the district library.

"The people need to understand that if Lima and Lyndon don't join, we won't be able to have as big of a library," said Trustee Nancy Schumann.

In the needs assessment, whenever possible the board will include four columns of numbers: One for the district library as it is, with the Village of Chelsea, Sylvan Township and Dexter Township; one including the current district library and Lima Township; one including the current district library and Lyndon Township; and the fourth including the current district library and both Lima and Lyndon Townships.

Board members said they are not sure the public really understands what the new district library means for the community.

"Most people don't think the library is going to change or expand," said Trustee Bill Personke. "They think it's going to stay the same way it is now, at the McKune Building."

Trustee Dan Kaminsky, who is on the board's planning committee, said there are four possibilities for the library facility: the district can remodel the McKune building, add on to the McKune building, move into another existing building or build a new facility. The current facility is too small for the community's needs, and is not accessible for handicapped people.

The board expects the needs assessment to be completed in time for the library board's next meeting, April 21. In conjunction with the completion of the report, the board will also be looking to appoint a committee of independent citizens to evaluate and present options for facilities expansion and site selection, and eventually a millage proposal recommendation.

This committee will consist of people from throughout the community with a variety of different talents and interests, possibly including people from Lima and Lyndon Townships.

In the meantime, the public relations committee, Nancy Paul and Sue Davidsen, will keep in contact with the townships and village, informing them of any new developments within the district library.

Free Methodists hold special Easter

The Chelsea Free Methodist Church is holding its third annual Easter Celebration at Chelsea High School Auditorium on Easter Sunday, March 30.

The annual event began as a means to offer to community members without a church an opportunity to celebrate Easter Sunday with their families. Average attendance for this service has been close to 500 people.

The event also gives members of the Free Methodist Church the opportunity to worship together as a church family, as the growth of the church in recent years has necessitated offering two Sunday morning services.

The Rev. Mearl Bradley, pastor of the church, said, "In 1997, we are celebrating 20 years in this community, both as a church and my family personally. This is our opportunity to give something back to a community that has embraced and supported us throughout those 20 years.

"This event celebrates the true meaning of Easter and it is one of the highlights of my ministry each year."

Everyone is invited to attend. Coffee fellowship begins at 9:30 a.m., with the worship celebration at 10:30 a.m. Childcare is provided. For further information, contact the church office at 475-1391.

distance to access your library.

The McKune House, is it going to meet our needs as a library? This is a picturesque building but not very functional. Federal law requires that this building be accessible to everyone. Try getting into it while sitting in a wheelchair. If we are going to use the second floor then what will be the cost of adding an elevator to the building? What will be the cost of making the entire building accessible to everyone in the district? It would seem logical to price the cost of converting the entrances, bathrooms, and adding an elevator so everyone can use this building.

Most of the first-floor space is being used to house the current collection. This is an old building. How many more pounds of books can be added to the first floor? Will the second floor support any books? How many books? If we are going to use this building as a future library then clearly alterations will have to be made.

Has anyone checked this building for lead or asbestos? If we are going to make alterations then we may have to pay for lead and/or asbestos abatement. It would seem logical to check the building for lead and asbestos and do a feasibility study to determine if this building can meet the future library needs of the community.

Imagine what the future needs will be for this building. We obviously will need a lot more floor space to hold a growing collection of books. We will need an area for computers so research and information can be kept up to date. Areas for community meetings and displays are needed.

Remember that plan I mentioned above (paragraph four)? To date we (the Lyndon Township board members) have not received a plan. No plan for a future location, no plan for a building that meets our needs, no plan for purchases or employment. No plan for budget was presented for discussion. No plan was presented on how our tax dollars would be spent.

As your representative, I feel obligated to consider all aspects of a proposal before committing your (and my) tax dollars to support it.

No bank would lend money to an organization without being fully informed as to the liabilities, budget and future plan. In this case the liabilities, both environmental and otherwise are unknown. No budget was presented. No plan was presented. Spending tax dollars merely because a cause seems good is not enough.

Tune out the violence

The Washtenaw Association for Family and Community Education (FACE) has announced the third annual Family Choice-TV pledge campaign. This campaign is a National FACE project that is encouraging families to make a pledge to "tune out the violence" by joining them in making a conscious effort to avoid violent programming on April 5.

Children should benefit from the television programming they watch. However, a typical child will spend on an average four hours a day watching television and will witness 8,000 television murders and 100,000 television acts of violence between the ages of 3 and 12. These statistics are alarming.

Parents have the power to change these statistics. As a parent, you can monitor your child's TV choices and watch with them while discussing the topics raised during the program. And if, as a parent, you feel strongly that violent programming is far too prevalent during child viewing hours, voice your concerns to the local broadcasters or contact Chairman Reed Hundt, Commissioners Susan Ness, Rachele Chong, or James Qello of the Federal Communications Commission at 1919 M. Street NW, Washington, D.C. 20554 or by phone at (202) 418-1000. You may want to express your dislike of a program to its commercial sponsor. Likewise, informing sponsors of good programming will encourage more of the same.

To become involved in the April 5 Family Choice-TV campaign, call Elvira Vogel at (313) 428-8436 to add your name to the pledge sheet. This sheet will be sent to the National FACE headquarters in Burlington, Ky., where it will be used to lobby for quality TV programming. The goal of the FACE Family Choice-TV project is to introduce parents to the viewing alternatives available to them and their children.

FACE has been involved with the Citizens' Task Force on TV violence (a coalition of 20 national organizations) and lobbied in support of the Children's Television Act of 1990. To find out more about FACE and other projects designed to strengthen individuals, families and the community, please contact Fran Coy at (313) 428-8235. FACE is a volunteer non-profit organization formed in 1936 with more than 42,600 members throughout the United States and Puerto Rico.

Don't forget, "tune out the violence" by joining us in the April 5 Family Choice-TV campaign.

Brown Bag Lunch set April 14

McKune Memorial Library's Brown Bag Book group will hold their April book review on the second Monday of the month, April 14, at 11:15 a.m. at the library.

Larry Ogden will review a non-fiction selection by African-American journalist Keith Richburg titled "Out of America."

Richburg, a newspaperman, spent three years on the job in Africa. His book details his reactions to the terrible events there and includes his observations of the principal actors, and his views on the future of black Africa.

The book review begins promptly at noon, and Ogden will complete his comments no later than 12:45 p.m. A discussion or question-and-answer period begins after the review for those who wish to stay.

Anyone interested in joining the group, which is sponsored by Friends of McKune Library, should attend the meeting. For additional information call the library at 475-8732.

Change of Address

"A change of address filed with the post office will not notify the people and companies that you have moved..."

It is hard enough to have to pack and physically move without having to worry about whether or not you are going to receive your mail.

The U.S. Post Office has a change of address form that will notify the letter carrier about the change so your mail can be routed to the new address. The change of address card can be picked up at any post office.

A change of address filed with the post office will not notify the people and companies that you have moved. You will need to do that yourself.

Magazines have labels that should be returned with the correct address. Credit card bills and installment loans usually have places on the return slip for you to notify them of a change of address.

Some people don't send you mail on a regular basis and it will be up to you to let them know about your new address. Below is a checklist to help you remember all the necessary parties.

Around Town

The goal of PDR is to create a greenbelt around cities, he said, and preserve active agricultural land, agricultural regions, areas with fertile soil and greenbelts.

PDR works by voters passing a millage or bond issue for government to purchase the development rights to farmland. Farmers are able to continue farming, but are blocked from later selling their land for development.

Earl Doletzky, a local farmer and former board member said "It's hard for me to believe the people in this area would vote for a millage to buy development rights. I have of yet to find farmers in favor of this."

Clerk Bill Eisenbeiser suggested PDR will force developers to build higher density projects, and there would still be a need for new schools and additional municipal services those residential developments bring.

"You may add more population because it's a more desirable place to live because of the open space," he said.

Money Management

Prepared by the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants

The minimum wage increase made headlines last summer when President Clinton signed the "1996 Small Business Job Protection Act." But the Michigan Association of CPAs points out that the act also included a number of changes and clarifications to federal tax law that are important to small businesses. Here's a brief run down.

EXPENSING DEDUCTION INCREASED

One of the most important of the act's provisions is an increase in the expensing deduction. Under prior law, businesses that put new equipment into service could choose to deduct immediately up to $17,500 of qualifying purchases, instead of depreciating the expense over a period of years. The act increases the expensing deduction in annual steps over a seven-year period to $25,000 in 2003. The expensing limit for 1997 is $18,000. The deduction is phased out, dollar for dollar, when equipment purchases during any tax year exceed $200,000.

"SIMPLE" RETIREMENT PLANS ESTABLISHED

The act also establishes a simplified retirement plan for businesses that have 100 or fewer employees who had at least $5,000 in compensation for the preceding year and that don't maintain any other type of qualified employer-sponsored retirement plan. These "Savings Incentive Match Plans for Employees," or "SIMPLE" plans, which went into effect for tax years beginning after Dec. 31, 1996, are designed to promote retirement savings while making it easier for small businesses to set up and administer such plans. Small businesses with other plans must terminate or "freeze" those plans if they decide to offer SIMPLE plans.

All employees earning at least $5,000 in compensation during the year must be eligible to participate in the plan. Employees may contribute up to $6,000 per year as compared with the maximum IRA contribution of $2,000. Unlike Keogh, Simplified Employee Pensions (SEPs) or other retirement plans, SIMPLEs do not have a "minimum" participation requirement" so, you can still contribute to your plan even if your partners or employees choose not to participate.

Generally, the employer is required to match employee contributions dollar-for-dollar up to three percent of participating employees' compensation or contribute a blanket two percent of compensation for all eligible employees. Both the employer's and employees' contributions are immediately fully vested; so, don't count on your SIMPLE plan to act as an inducement to keep talented employees with your company.

While SIMPLE plan provides a cap on how much money you must contribute to workers' retirement plans, it also limits the amount business owners can save for themselves to $6,000 annually, plus a company matching contribution of up to three percent of your compensation.

S CORPORATIONS MADE MORE FLEXIBLE

The new law also gives more flexibility to small businesses that elect Subchapter S status. It liberalizes the ownership restrictions of Subchapter S corporations by increasing the maximum number of shareholders an S corporation is permitted to have from 35 to 75. This provision will benefit S corporations by facilitating corporation ownership by additional family members, employees, and capital investors. Also, under the new law, S corporations can now own 80 percent or more of the stock in a regular corporation and other S corporations.

CLARIFICATIONS TO EXISTING LAW

In addition to new provisions, the act also clarifies certain aspects of the home office deduction and the classification of workers as independent contractors, two complex areas of tax law that have long been areas of contention between the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) and taxpayers.

For home office workers, the law clarifies that the space used to store product samples may qualify for the home office deduction as long as the taxpayer is in the trade of business of selling products at retail or wholesale and the home is the only fixed location of the taxpayer's trade or business.

On determining whether a worker should be treated as an employee or as an independent contractor, the act also includes clarifications and amendments and, significantly, shifts the burden of proof to the IRS in certain cases. You may want to consult with your CPA to determine how these and other aspects of the new tax law impact your business.

Chelsea

—Learning the Strings—

Last week, all of Chelsea's fifth-grade students had the opportunity to experience making a violin, viola, cello and string base "speak." With the help of several high school students from the Chamber Orchestra, the students blocked and bowed on each of the instruments. Pictured here is Adam Ellis, a South Meadows student, taking a lesson from Barney Culver.

Dexter Kiwanis to sell coverlet

Locals to participate in garden show

Four local residents are among the participants in this year's Ann Arbor Flower and Garden Show slated April 3-6 at the Washtenaw Farm Council Grounds.

The four-day show, sponsored by the University of Michigan Matthaei Botanical Gardens, will highlight the explosion of interest in gardening with the theme "An American Bouquet."

Chelsea resident Char Harris of the American Conifer Society and Dexter residents

Norma Green of the Organic Grower of Southeast Michigan Chapter, Sandy Hansen of the Rhododendron Society and Cynthia Burmeister are among the locals participating.

The event will celebrate great American gardens, from a Martha's Vineyard seaside retreat to the sunny hills of California. The eighth annual show will showcase the best new plant cultivars, new garden styles and the latest in horticulture and landscape design.

Couple helps fight fear of public speaking

Making friends, communicating with people and influencing people are all skills everyone needs to acquire at some point. Some people pick up these things easily; others struggle with them for a lifetime.

Chris and Linda Meloche of Chelsea are two of hundreds of people around the world who are helping people learn to optimize their potential with these skills. They are teachers of the Dale Carnegie course, which is currently in its 85th year of operation. Both Chris and Linda have been teaching for about 10 years.

The course is best known for teaching public speaking skills, but the Meloches said what they teach goes far beyond that.

"The number one thing people tell us they get from the course is self-confidence," Linda said.

The husband-and-wife team said rather than pointing out to people what they are doing wrong when giving speeches, they point out the positive aspects of a person's performance.

"Our teaching methodology is positive reinforcement," Chris said. "We create a safe environment for people to speak in front of groups."

He said by telling people what they do well, rather than what they do wrong, the symptoms of being uncomfortable, such as not looking up, speaking too slow or too fast, or reading from a script, will go away as the speaker becomes more confident.

"People grow more from their successes than from their failures," he said. "When someone already has anxiety about public speaking, pointing out their bad points is only going to increase that."

Linda said she has read that the number one fear of humans is having to speak in front of a group of people. Dying was number five on the list.

"People would rather die than have to speak in public," she said.

The course lasts 12 weeks, and according to the Meloches, this amount of time is essential for the program to succeed. Each week, the class is introduced to principles dealing with such things as having positive attitude, accepting others without criticizing, and not taking things for granted. They are then required to go out and apply these principles to their daily lives, and later report back to the class on how their lives were affected.

"People actually change and make habits of these principles," Chris said. "After five years, the retention is almost total."

The Dale Carnegie course originated in 1912, the brainchild of a man who had a background in teaching, had worked in sales and had a brief jaunt in theater. The first of his classes were made up entirely of men, and Carnegie taught them more effective ways to speak in front of groups.

Carnegie interviewed many people who were able to effectively motivate and communicate with people, and made handouts for his classes from this input. These handouts eventually evolved into a book, "How to Win Friends and Influence People," which is today the third best-selling book of all time.

More than four-and-a-half million people around the world have completed the course. It is taught in 132 countries around the world, and 16 different languages. Most of the principles from the original classes are still in place today, however the demographics have changed tremendously.

"The course has changed some, but the basics remain the same," Chris said. He said the demographics of the class usually match the demographics of the place where it's being offered. Classes in Ann Arbor are usually comprised of half men, and half women, with a good mix of ages, cultures, and career goals.

"We usually get a good cross-section of the people out there," Chris said. "It comes out in the class that people are more similar to each other than they are different. The course helps bring out people's uniqueness."

Between Chris and Linda, they teach about 600 people each year. The classes generally have about 40 students.

Linda said the most difficult part about the class is getting motivated enough to sign up for it.

"People are surprised at how fun the class is, that they can learn and laugh at the same time," Linda said.

Chris said in order for the principles in the class to be optimized, people need to be at a point in their lives where they're looking for self-development.

"People already have this potential inside them; they just need to learn to tap into it," he said.

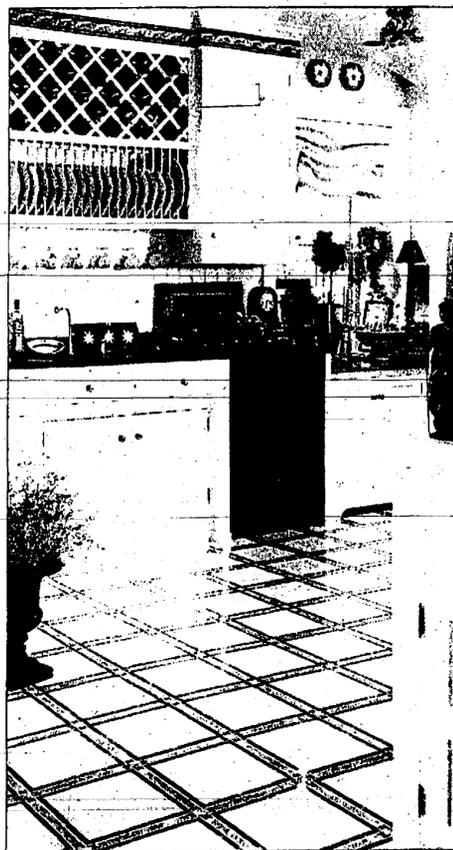

He added that the course has a money-back guarantee, however 98 percent of the people who take it say it was worth their time and money.

In addition to the public speaking class, there are also Dale Carnegie classes offered in leadership training for managers, sales, and people who are leery about communicating in small groups rather than fearing speaking in front of large groups.

People who are interested in learning more about Dale Carnegie courses can call Linda or Chris at 475-4334.

Holy Cows to play new release at show

By Angela Trotter
Staff Writer

In a garage on Washington Street in Chelsea, Michael Feeney and John Popovich started playing guitars together while in high school. Today, more than 10 years and four albums later, they are still hard at work in that same garage, making music.

Along with drummer Rex Marsh and guitarist Scott Salyer, Feeney, bass guitarist and vocalist, and Popovich, guitarist and vocalist, are the Holy Cows, a band on its way up in the music world.

The band's fourth record release, Blueberry, will hit the shelves of music stores nationwide June 1. It is the second the Holy Cows has recorded with Big Pop, an independent record company out of Philadelphia. Once the album hits the streets, the band hopes that getting some radio air play will skyrocket them to the top.

"The goal of this release is to get a hit single," Feeney said. "The further our radio influence goes, the further we'll go."

The Holy Cows has been playing live shows regionally and throughout the Midwest for nine years. The members hope to be touring the United States by the end of 1997.

The Holy Cows, from front to back, are Scott Salyer, Michael Feeney, Rex Marsh and John Popovich.

Salyer said.

Popovich said people often ask him where the band came up with its name, but there isn't really a story behind it.

"It just came to me one day when I was driving in my car," he said. "We thought it was funny and it stuck. It was one of the first things we all agreed on."

In their years together, Feeney said, the band members have met a lot of interesting characters on the road, and the Holy Cows has developed somewhat of a loyal following. They will be putting on a show at the Chelsea Fairgrounds March 29.

"We've been looking for an opportunity to play somewhere locally before the record came out," Feeney said. "It will be an all ages show, so some of the younger people who have our CDs and can't go out to club to see us can go."

"If all goes as planned, the next time a lot of the people get to see us will be at the Palace and they'll be paying 20 bucks for tickets."

Perhaps the band's greatest asset is the members' ability to have fun with their music and with each other. Their cohesiveness as a group of friends lends to their ability to produce cohesive music. Also, they don't forget to set aside time to laugh, and dream together.

"I just want everyone to know that being rich hasn't changed the way I am," Marsh said. "Fame and fortune hasn't tainted my morals."

The Holy Cows will be playing with the Gigantics this Saturday, with doors opening at 8:30 p.m. The show will be at the Chelsea Fairgrounds and will be open to fans of all ages.

—Talcott Joins Law Firm—

Kent P. Talcott of Dexter recently joined the law firm of Dykema Gossett PLLC in a counsel capacity. Talcott, a resident in the firm's Ann Arbor office, specializes in corporate law, business planning, mergers and acquisitions, corporate finance and international transactions. Before joining the firm, Talcott was vice-president for corporate development and corporate secretary of JPE, Inc. Previously, he founded and served as president and chief executive officer of INDEX Corporation and served as corporate secretary and outside counsel for JP Industries, Inc. He also co-founded and was the managing partner of the law firm of Ellis, Talcott, Ohlgren and Ferguson, P.C., specializing in business and tax law.

"We're definitely one of the top three draws in the Ann Arbor music scene," Popovich said. "We're known as one of the better bands in town."

All of the members of the band are all very committed to succeeding, practicing together at least four nights a week, on top of full-time jobs. Their music is something that's in their blood, something they couldn't live without.

"We have some kind of magic that makes the song, and in the end it's the song that takes us to the next level," Popovich said.

The members of the Holy Cows said ever since high school, they've always been into creating music, rather than playing what others have created.

"We've never had a doubt in the world that this would be our calling," Popovich said.

"I knew I was going to be a musician when my Uncle Hack told me I had the legs for it,"

Walk America slated

On Sunday, April 27, printers from all over Washtenaw County will make the annual challenge to each other to raise the most money for the March of Dimes WalkAmerica.

Eleven area printing companies and printer suppliers have already accepted the challenge, including Book-Crafters, Braun-Brumfield, Edwards Brothers, Kohl Madden, Kolossos Printing, McNaughton-Gunn, Malloy Lithographing, Manpower, The Ann Arbor News, Thomson-Shore and University Lithographers.

The Printers' Challenge, also known as Step Out With The Printers, began in 1989, as the first challenge issued in the Ann Arbor area March of Dimes WalkAmerica. It is a challenge among printers to field teams, gather pledges and raise money for the March of Dimes campaign for healthier babies.

The printing team which collects the most money for the March of Dimes wins possession of a traveling trophy. Since its inception, area printers have raised over $113,000.

Step Out With The Printers is a fun way for employees of area companies in the printing industry to help prevent birth defects.

If your company is interested, please call the March of Dimes at 761-6331.

LOVE, FROM YOUR FAMILIES & FRIENDS

Charismatic senior adds life to center

By Shawn Personke

When Barbara Van Gorder finished walking the Mackinaw Bridge with a group of senior citizens from Chelsea, she boarded the waiting bus and burst into song.

"Show me the way to go home;

I'm tired and I want to go to bed;

I just got through walking the bridge;

and I think I'm almost dead."

While her walking partner was indeed exhausted, Barbara Van Gorder could have walked the bridge again.

Unique people come in all ages, and Chelsea area seniors just wouldn't be the same without Barbara Van Gorder. Her enthusiasm drives many volunteer projects at the Chelsea Senior Center and the Chelsea Methodist Home.

At the center, she helped form a widows group, chaired the Special Events Committee, organized annual craft shows, and has been a member of the center's advisory board. She is the board representative for the kitchen band. "She is a lovely person and is always so encouraging," observes Pat Kaminsky, director of the Chelsea Senior Center. "She is an inspiration to many Chelsea seniors."

Likewise, she has an affinity for the center. "It's kind of my family," Van Gorder says. "They're marvelous."

Her willingness to burst into an impromptu song, her jokes and smiling eyes say she is a happy soul. Grinning, she tells a joke about a soon-to-be-married senior.

"I'm getting married."

"Is he handsome?"

"No."

"Is he rich?"

"No."

"Do you love him?"

"No."

"Then why are you marrying him?"

"He can drive at night!"

Since the 1980s, she has been a leader of a Chelsea Methodist Home senior citizen Girl Scout troop. They celebrated scouting with another troop from Toledo and recently held a Valentine's Day Party.

To add excitement to one troop meeting, Van Gorder bought a variety of inexpensive items and held an auction for the senior Girl Scouts. She and the other leaders cleaned out all the change from their purses and gave each senior a cupful of money to bid with.

Another time, she put together an English tea for the troop. They borrowed white gloves and hats and served team-and crumpets. She hopes to organize another tea party, possibly with an elementary aged Girl Scout troop.

Van Gorder also enjoyed scouting with her daughter in the 1960s. Their troop stitched a flag of Finland that is now on display at the Girl Scout Council in Detroit. She also remembers that they were not allowed to bring more than four mothers on field trips because "they would sit in a corner and chat."

While her dogs, Shanty and Edie, frolic and bark outside, inside Van Gorder recalls her life. She sits on her couch in the lakefront home that she and her husband built 27 years ago, surrounded by her memories: high school photographs, newspaper articles, certificates, her late husband's awards, and numerous notes and letters.

Her mother emigrated to Canada from Scotland and her father from England, where he sang for Queen Victoria with a boys choir. All of her family sang or played an instrument and Van Gorder was a member of her high school glee club.

Her memory sharp, she recalled high school vignettes such as the crush she and a friend had on the handsome young man that would eventually become Tom Selleck's father.

A 1942 graduate of Southeastern High School in Detroit, she attended her 50th reunion in 1992, but was unable to attend the 55th reunion because she was undergoing chemotherapy.

After a loss of 40 pounds, her doctors found a cancerous growth on the pancreas. She underwent six chemotherapy treatments over a four month period. It looks as though she may have beaten it, but she and her doctors monitor her health closely.

This cheerful and good-humored community volunteer found the loss of her husband and son worse than fighting cancer. Jack Van Gorder, who earned several patents for General Motors, died of a heart attack 15 years ago this month. Her son, Davey, died in 1991 of a ruptured aneurysm. Tears came to her eyes as she spoke of her son and his untimely death. "It's so hard to lose a child," she says quietly.

To help her through these rough times, Van Gorder turned to knitting. "It takes such concentration," she says. As evidence, she brings out three hand-knitted, Nordic sweaters with a pattern of snowflakes knitted in an arc across the front.

While running her fingers across her soft, woolen handiwork, she tells how her Scottish mother taught her to knit when she was eight. These carefully crafted sweaters are for her grandchildren in Maine.

While the people of the Chelsea Senior Center make up part of her family, her children and grandchildren make up the rest. Speaking of them often, Van Gorder's already bright eyes light up when they are mentioned. With one son in Utah and another in Maine, she's pleased that her daughter, Dianne, has remained in Chelsea.

It takes a special person to give so much time and energy to others. However, Van Gorder doesn't see it that way. Speaking of her senior Girl Scout troop she says, "I got a lot more out of knowing these ladies than they did out of me."

Chocolate and Your Dog

A.W. Temper, D.V.M.

R.C. Bowers, D.V.M.

Easter always bring many phone calls to Veterinarians because Rover got into the children's chocolate bunny. Milk chocolate in small amounts is not poisonous. The chemical that causes the problem is Theobromine which is in the same family as caffeine. Symptoms can range from vomiting, diarrhea, hyperactivity to seizures, coma and death. The toxic level of Theobromine is 50 mg. 1 lb. Milk chocolate has 23 mg. 1 oz. and unsweetened baking chocolate has 200 mg 1 oz. Thus a 30 lb. dog would have to eat 60 oz. or 4 lbs. of milk chocolate-but only 7 1/2 oz. of the Baker's chocolate. Most dogs vomit after getting into the chocolate and get the substance out before any absorption takes place. If you are not sure how much has been eaten you should contact your veterinarian so he or she can advise you on what you can do at home or if your pet needs to be seen.

The Veterinarians at Lane Animal Hospital, 636 N. Main Street, Chelsea 475-8696 are here to help you with your animals health needs. Give them a call.

So You're Up For Promotion. Are You Ready For It?

It's unfortunate that so many previously successful people experience failure when promoted into leadership. Not because they aren't intelligent or hard-working, but because they were never given the tools they would need to be successful supervisors or managers. Tools such as:

- Planning • Organizing • Decision-making
- Coordinating • Delegating • Time Management

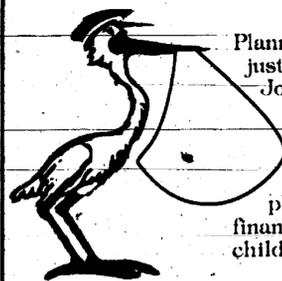

The Dale Carnegie Leadership Training for Managers can provide you with the tools you'll need to be an effective leader. You've worked hard for this promotion. You deserve success. The program will be presented in Ann Arbor beginning 4/30/97.

Purple Rose to present comedy

The Purple Rose Theatre Company will present a new production of Lanford Wilson's award-winning comedy, "The Hot L Baltimore" as the third production of the current season. Six previews will be performed from March 27 through April 3, with the official opening night on Friday, April 4.

Performances for the remainder of the engagement will be Wednesdays through Saturdays at 8 p.m. with matinee performances on Saturdays at 3 p.m. and Sundays at 2 p.m.

This Purple Rose version of "The Hot L Baltimore" will mark the 25th production by the PRTC since the non-profit theatre company opened its doors in 1991. The production will also mark the professional directing debut of Jeff Daniels, who serves as PRTC executive director and has been playwright for six productions.

Set in a once glorious lobby that is clearly showing the signs of age, the play centers on the residents and hotel staff who are facing their imminent eviction with the demolition of the hotel. The collection of prostitutes, transients, retirees and employees weave their personal tales of hopes, frustrations and dreams during a Memorial Day in the 1970s. The witty and moving dialogue of this poignant adult comedy is intended for mature audiences and is unsuitable for children not yet in high school.

"The Hot L Baltimore" was first presented in 1973 by the Circle Repertory Company and won the New York Drama Critics Circle Award and the Obie Award for best new play that year. In his 1973 review, Clive Barnes of The New York Times wrote "Mr. Wilson is both funny and sad, and the combination is an unbeatable winner."

The cast includes 15 performers, which is the largest acting ensemble ever assembled for a PRTC production. Included in the cast are Joseph Albright, Sandra Birch, Ryan Carlson, Randall Godwin, Gina Hieber, Tobin Hissong, Leo McNamara, Chuck O'Connor, Wayne David Parker, Kate Peckham, Mary L. Pettit, Leonor Reizen, Suzi Regan, Bee Vary and Peter Wilburn.

Playwright Lanford Wilson was a founding member of the Circle Repertory Company and was resident playwright there from 1969 through 1995. "The Hot L Baltimore" was his first major success with Circle Repertory Company and he has written over 40 other plays, numerous screenplays and two television movies. His other major works include "The Mound Builders," "5th of July," "Talley and Son," "Lemon Sky," "Burn This" and "The Redwood Curtain." In 1980 he received the Pulitzer Prize for drama and the New York Drama Critics Circle Award for "Talley's Folly."

The current production is scheduled in place of an original work that was to be written by Wilson for a world premiere by the Purple Rose Theatre Company. In a program letter to theatre-goers, Daniels said Wilson needed more time "to create the new script and write a play that the Purple Rose deserved."

Tickets are $20 for Friday and Saturday performances and $15 for Wednesday, Thursday and Sunday performances. Reservations may be obtained by calling the Purple Rose Theatre Company box office at (313) 475-7902. Ticket reservations are recommended due to the limited capacity. The PRTC box office is open Monday through Friday from noon to 6 p.m. and on performance days beginning one hour prior to curtain.

The final production of the Purple Rose Theatre Company 1996-97 season will be "Off the Map," a new comedy by Joan Ackermann, to be directed by Terry Heck, from June 19 through Aug. 10.

The Way It Was

By Kathy Clark
Staff Writer

In 1928 and 1929, and a few years before and after, the main school event in March was the Chelsea High School Carnival.

It started out with a parade through town. Freshman, sophomore, junior and senior classes would decorate their parents' cars or trucks with bright crepe paper and other ornaments. Teachers dressed up and participated in the parades, too.

Four old photos show the carnival-goers driving and marching through town. One car was completely covered with crepe and giant butterflies. Another was a flat-bed truck carrying a wooden rowboat complete with rowdy crew.

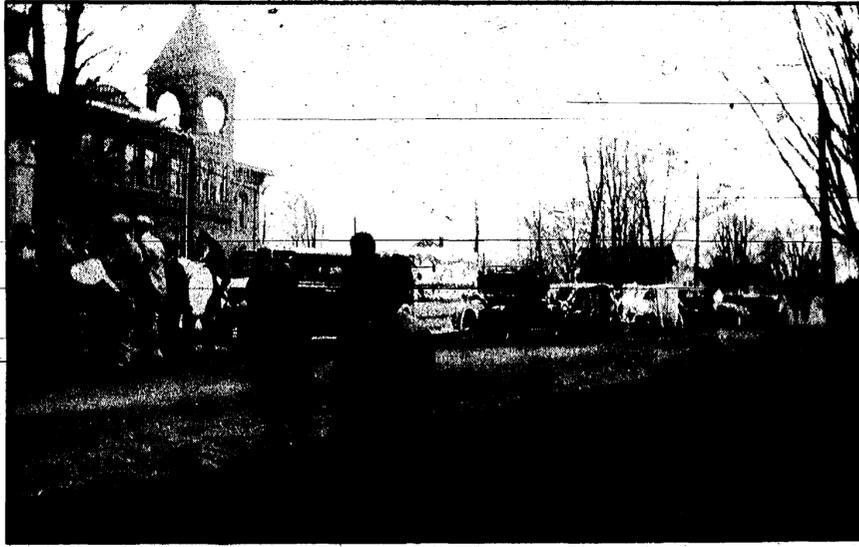

Elsie Pfitzenmaier (Hochrein), who graduated in the Class of 1929, recalls it was fun to dress up for the parade and bang on old dish pans with large spoons. Anything was used to make noise.

Shown in the clown costumes are Elsie, Gertrude Young and Mary Bradbury.

The progression ended at the old high school on East Street (building with bell tower) where the "carnival" was set up for the evening.

For a nickel or a dime kids could gain entrance to the carnival booths created in several of the classrooms. Elsie remembered one room had movies, and another

Alternative ed. helps lower dropout rate at high school

Students and staff from the Chelsea Alternative High School reported to the Chelsea Board of Education that the program has been successful and has reached its goal of decreasing the number of dropouts from Chelsea School District.

Four students who are members of the Alternative School's student advisory board presented a history of the school and answered questions for the board at its March 24 meeting. The students also gave a presentation on using a digital camera and computer to process photos.

The students were all enthusiastic about their experience in the alternative school.

"It's really neat—nothing like the regular high school," said Andrea Wallace, an alternative high school student.

"We go on so many more field trips and get to do lots of neat stuff."

Wallace transferred to the Chelsea School District from Westland at the beginning of the 1995-96 school year. After two months of attending Chelsea High School, she decided to drop out, because she felt uncomfortable in the school and didn't know the other students.

When she heard about the new alternative high school that would be available in the Chelsea School District starting in the 1996-97 school year, she decided to go back to school.

"On August 27, we started the year with 12 dropouts who wanted to finish school," Wallace said. She said individuals in the class were able to come together as a group, and take advantage of the new opportunities available to them.

"She's a positive leader in the class," said teacher Barb Fisher, speaking of Wallace.

Wallace is typical of most of the students in the school. For various reasons, these students have found they don't fit in the traditional high school setting, but in the Alternative High School, are able to learn effectively, work together and accomplish goals.

Tom Collins, another Alternative High School student, has had the opportunity to learn to use a digital camera and process the pictures using a computer. Collins then used his skills to teach North Creek Elementary School students about using the camera.

"He's done a really fine job of teaching the students," Special Education Director Henry DeYoung said.

The Alternative School itself has also been able to accomplish the goals set by administration at its inception. One of the goals was to bring at least half of last year's dropouts back to school. In the fall of 1996, 12 of the previous year's 22 dropouts were again enrolled in high school.

Another goal of the school was to provide a program with alternatives that would decrease the number of students dropping out of school this year. Last year, between the September and February count dates, 15 students dropped out of school. This year, that number has been decreased to one student.

In January, the school held its first ever graduation ceremony, with three students earning their diplomas.

In addition to the regular classroom routine and taking numerous field trips, the Alternative High School class has also tackled numerous community service projects, such as putting together food baskets for Faith in Action and shoveling snow for local elderly. Class members have also had opportunities to do mentorships and school-to-work programs, working in everything from pre-schools to motorcycle shops.

Assistant Superintendent Christine Annese said the program has also proven to be economically feasible. In its first year of operation, the program came only about $5,000 short of covering its $134,000 in costs for the year. These costs included starting up and buying some furniture.

Washington Street Show Choir takes first title in competition

Over 1,000 cheering fans leapt to their feet Saturday, March 22, as Chelsea High School's Washington Street Show Choir sang the final notes of their competition show at the Battle Creek Lakeview Spartanares show choir invitational.

Choirs from Michigan, Indiana, Ohio, and Illinois, were among nine high schools competing for the first through fifth place in the second annual show choir competition at Battle Creek Lakeview High School.

From the preliminary performances during the day, five of the nine groups were selected to perform in the evening finals competition. The mood was set and the celebration began as Chelsea's name was announced as one of the finalists. The energy and excitement continued to mount throughout the evening as The Washington Street Show Choir's outstanding evening performance ultimately led them to become grand champions.

The Washington Street Show Choir has been rehearsing since January for the season's performances and competitions.

"This marks the first time the group has made it into the finals, let alone a first-place finish," said director Steve Hinz.

"The evening performance was nearly flawless and the overwhelming response from the audience was exhilarating." "That was amazing," said senior Dan Black, who, along with the rest of the choir, recognized the magic in the performance.

The show choir, tech crew, and band were flying high as they realized the impact their program had on themselves and their audience.

"The energy was palpable, and I've never seen such commitment to a performance", Hinz said.

"Had we finished in last place, I would still be grinning from ear to ear; the kids were fantastic. It was one of those times when everything just clicked; all of the hard work and the wonderful times we've had putting this show together... it was all worth it just to feel the joy coming from those kids and their parents."

The parents of the Washington Street Choir members have supported their children every step of the way, forming a huge entourage of fans or "show choir groupies" at every performance so far this year.

Chelsea has participated in three competitions this year, including DeKalb, Ind. and Carroll, Ind. In each of these performances, they missed sixth place and a position in the finals competition by only a few points.

The importance of the competition, however, is kept in its proper perspective by the Washington Street Show Choir. Hinz helped to define the group's performance goals.

"Jeff Valliere, Lakeview's director, really echoed our philosophy on competition," said Hinz.

"He mentioned that the purpose of the competition is not to win, but to strive for the best performance you can give, and to grow as a group."

Hinz said that the unification and common goals of the group are heightened by its experience in competition.

"The comments from the judges and the suggestions that give us their critiques are really helpful," Hinz said.

Washington Street Show Choir won in competition last week. It was a milestone for the highly regarded program as it was their first championship.

"We've had some wonderful suggestions from some of the top people in the business; ideas that have helped our kids really pump up their program and put on a top-notch performance. I'm also thrilled that the students get to share their music with like-minded high school students."

"It's such a positive environment when the big focus is on creating the performance and learning from all the choirs we see. The group has forged some pretty strong friendships with several of the choirs they've met along the competition circuit."

Although the Lakeview invitational marks the first group victory for Chelsea, a tradition was continued in the Solo Competition. Chelsea, once again, came home with both the Best Female Vocalist award.

Seniors Bekah Knight and Dan Black were awarded honors, capping off a season of "three out of three" consecutive wins at competitions this year.

At DeKalb, junior Melissa Clairmont was named Grand Champion Soloist. This was followed by a double honor at Carroll, where Black was again named Best Female Vocalist and Knight earned Grand Champion Soloist.

The vocal sound of the Washington Street Show Choir is one of its hallmarks. The judges commented on the beautiful choral approach to the performance, and the wonderful blend and tone quality.

Other details of the performance, and wonderful blend and tone quality.

Other details of the performance that didn't go unnoticed were the excellent choreography of Brent Holland, and the solid performance by the backup band and tech crew.

The Chelsea instrumentalists, along with the band from Crete-Monee, Ill., received the highest point totals for the backup band competition.

However, Ludington High School received the first place award, as it was comprised entirely of students. In order to qualify for the award, the band must not have any adult members.

Assistant director and accompanist Lisa Hinz-Johnson and backup band director Garry Klink head up the 10-piece band for Chelsea.

Chelsea is one of the smallest schools in the competition. At class B, the Washington Street Show Choir was up

SPORTS

Lets Go Bulldogs!

Experience keys Chelsea varsity baseball squad

If senior leadership is the key to success as many coaches claim, Chelsea High School could have one of its best baseball teams ever this spring.

Coach Wayne Welton has nine returning seniors along with three key returning juniors.

"Our experience really jumps out at you," Welton says.

"Also the fact that we have an all-senior infield, which we began laying the groundwork for a couple of years ago."

Third baseman Jason Sprawka, shortstop Dusty White, second baseman Lance Ching, and first baseman Ashley Coy were all starters at those positions a year ago, when the Bulldogs finished 25-8. Senior Tim Lawrence is being converted to catcher this year, as the departure of Scott Colvin to Michigan State University left a big hole to fill. Welton believes the Bulldogs will be solid defensively in the infield, which can be one of the biggest problem areas for any high school team.

"I believe Dusty White is ready for a fantastic season," Welton says.

"He has excellent in-fielding skills. Overall, we should be as good a defensive team as we've put out there since '91." That was Chelsea's state championship year.

Other seniors include Casey Wescott, Jake Walker, Ryan Slane and John Beeman.

Wescott will play center field and be a member of the starting rotation. Walker is also a starting pitcher and designated hitter. Beeman is an outfielder and Slane is a utility player.

Three returning juniors include pitcher Ryan Hubbard and outfielders Don Reilly—last year's surprise at the plate with a team high six homers—and Tom Holdsworth. Holdsworth, Welton says, is "swinging the bat well inside."

Welton also notes his team's pitching depth. Walker, Wescott, White and Hubbard figure to get most of the starts. But sophomore Drew Henson and junior Scott Basar have been pleasant surprises in the early practices and "are ahead of where we thought," Welton says.

"We're pretty excited about those six," Welton says.

"They all throw strikes, throw hard and have two or three pitches."

On offense, the Bulldogs "can do some things better than we have in several years," Welton says.

"We should be able to hit and run because the kids make good contact. I don't know if you're going to see a lot of power out of this team."

There's speed at the top of the lineup in Sprawka, last year's lead-off hitter, and Ching. They'll probably be followed by some combination of Walker, Reilly, Wescott and Coy.

"Jake could have a big year with the bat," Welton says.

"Reilly's not going to sneak up on anyone, so Jake should get some good pitches to hit."

Rounding out the team are juniors Nate Cooper, an infielder, utility players Jeff Herman and Adam Erskine, and outfielders Sean Stickney and Chris Herter.

Welton figures Saline, another veteran crew, will be the team to beat in the Southeastern Conference. Dexter and Milan are also poised for big years.

"We have a good team on paper and these kids have played together for a long time," Welton says.

"The only thing that will keep us from having a special season is ourselves."

Tennis team scrimmages Jackson, looks promising

Chelsea Bulldogs' tennis team scrimmaged Jackson High School at the Jackson Athletic Club on Monday, March 24.

Each, singles and doubles match lasted one hour.

The teams will meet again April 19 at the Pinckney Invitational.

At first singles, Nathan Buller beat Jackson's Mark Wissmueller, 6-0, 3-2.

At second singles, Bulldog Scott Boughton beat Nick Kielhorn, 6-4, 2-1.

At third singles, Chelsea's Stephen McDonald beat Jordan Ginsberg, 6-1, 3-3.

At fourth singles, Mark Valchine of Chelsea split with Jay Robinson, 4-6, 4-2.

In doubles, Ryan McDonald and Nathan O'Connor lost to Brandon Jordan and John Egert, 3-6, 1-2.

Chelsea's second doubles team of Scott Hammett and Jason Armstrong lost narrowly to Dave Hannon and Dave Peterson, 5-7, 1-3.

Playing their first high school tennis match, Joe Arnd and Ryan Cook lost to Jordan Rich and Tom Christy, 3-6, 4-4, and Jon Spooner and Jason Middleton were too strong for their opponents, Ragan Rawal and Ashish Shan, and won 6-3, 6-1.

Chelsea coach John Capper says the Bulldogs have a promising team, with experienced seniors Butler, Boughton, and Stephen McDonald anchoring the team. Mark Valchine is making the transition from doubles to singles.

In doubles, competition for places is intense because there is little difference in skill among the top eight players, Capper says.

Doubles players include Ryan McDonald, O'Connor, Hammett, Armstrong, Arnd, Cook, Middleton, Spooner, Pat Thompson, Nick Harms, Eric Flynn, Mark Crandall, and Ryan Erskine.

Thompson gets cage honors

Courtney Thompson, the 6'3" sophomore from Chelsea, was the central force in the Spring Arbor Cougars Basketball line-up this season.

"Courtney was definitely the most consistent player on our team," coach Britsch remarked. She averaged 9.4 rebounds per contest, first in the WHAC, with 94 blocked shots through the regular season. Thompson averaged 16.4

points, but led the WHAC in scoring during conference games with 17.1.

Thompson was named NCCAA Player of the Week twice during the regular season. The post-season held WHAC All-Defensive Team, WHAC All-Conference, and NAIA Division II Third Team All-American Honors for Thompson.

CHS carnival was popular

may have had a fish pond to "fish" for prizes.
Their springtime parade and carnival could be compared to today's Homecoming parade and dance now being held during football season.
The old carnival's simple theme was just plain fun, with spring right around the corner.

Mentors enhance education of youth

Two members of the Chelsea Community have provided mentorship programs this year for three North Creek Elementary School third-grade students. Howdy Holmes, president and CEO of Chelsea Milling Co., has worked with Stephen Simmons, and Wayne Welton, Chelsea School District athletic director, has worked with his son, Joe, and Andrew Hamilton.

"Mr. Holmes has helped me learn about racing and stock cars. He drew pictures of a sprint car and a stock car's engine for me because I want to build one someday," Stephen Simmons said.

Howdy Holmes is an internationally known former race car driver. His racing career spanned 20 years, during which he garnered many awards and a coveted place on the all-time Indy money-making list. One of his additional interests has always been community service. When asked if he would work with a young student who has a keen interest in racing cars, without hesitation he said, "If I can make a difference in the life of this student, I will gladly be more than happy to talk with Stephen."

Stephen's assessment of the time he spent with Holmes is that "he is really nice and he likes me a lot."

The interest that Andrew and Joe share is baseball. Under Wayne Welton's tutelage, the two boys have done research on superstars Joe DiMaggio, Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig. They are waiting for a reply to a letter they wrote to the New York Yankees. They are also working on a poster depicting the history of the Yankees in the World Series games, and designing a ballpark.

"Andrew and Joe each seem to have a real and sincere love for the game of baseball and its history,"

Wayne Welton said. "They also like to learn about successful teams and baseball's storied past. We selected a historical look at the New York Yankees and their Hall of Fame players. We have had a lot of fun learning and exploring the Internet on this project."

Joe boasted of his father. "My dad knows a lot about baseball because he has coached baseball at Chelsea High School for 19 years. He cares about kids by showing them that they can all be good players and by encouraging them to never say never."

"He's nice, gentle and smart," Andrew added. "And he sure does have a lot of baseball books at his house."

The third grade social studies curriculum focuses on the community of Chelsea and its resources. Holmes and Welton are two of Chelsea's resources who have enhanced the education of three young students this year.

DEXTER TOWNSHIP ORDINANCE NO. 25

AN ORDINANCE PURSUANT TO THE AUTHORITY OF PUBLIC ACT 102 OF 1990 (MCL 41.806a) AND THE MICHIGAN PUBLIC HEALTH CODE (MCL 333.1101 et seq.) FOR THE REGULATION OF CLEANUP OF ENVIRONMENTAL ACCIDENTS FROM LEAKING, SPILLING, RELEASE OR OTHERWISE ALLOWING HAZARDOUS SUBSTANCES WHICH MAY POLLUTE OR IMPAIR THE ENVIRONMENT OR HEALTH TO ESCAPE CONTAINMENT, TO IMPOSE RESPONSIBILITY FOR CLEANUP AND RESTORATION UPON THE PERSONS ALLOWING OR CAUSING SUCH RELEASE, TO PROVIDE FOR CLEANUP AND RESTORATION AND THE IMPOSITION OF THE COSTS ON RESPONSIBLE PARTIES AND COLLECTION OF CHARGES.

THE TOWNSHIP OF DEXTER ORDAINS:

SECTION 1. STATUTORY AUTHORITY.

Recognizing that the sanitary and safe disposal of hazardous substances is fundamental to individual, public and community health, recognizing that hazardous substances can pollute and impair the environment, and recognizing that accidental releases of hazardous substances should be cleaned up by the party responsible for the release and insofar as possible to prevent the creation of nuisances and conditions menacing the public health, this Ordinance for the cleanup of the release of hazardous substances is hereby established pursuant to the Michigan Public Health Code, MCLA 333.1101 et seq., and specifically Sections 2433, 2435, 2441, 2444, 2446, 2451, 2455, 2461 and 2465, of said Code and the collection of the costs and charges incurred pursuant to Public Act 102 of 1990 (MCL 41.806a).

SECTION 2. DEFINITIONS.

"Emergency situation": Refers to an incident of release of hazardous substances into the environment which is deemed by the Public Health Officer or his/her designee to require an immediate response by Township representatives.

"Environment": Refers to any land, surface waters, ground water, subsurface, strata, air, fish, wildlife, plant life or biota, within Dexter Township.

"Hazardous substance" or "Hazardous Materials" shall include the following:

A. A chemical or other material which is or may be injurious to the public health, safety or welfare or to the environment.

B. "Hazardous substance" as defined in the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act of 1980, Public Law 96-510, 94 Stat. 2767.

C. "Hazardous waste" as defined in the Hazardous Waste Management Act, Act No. 64 of the Public Acts of 1979, being Sections 299.51-299.551 of the Michigan Compiled Laws.

D. "Petroleum" as defined in the Leaking Underground Storage Tank Act, Act No. 478 of the Public Acts of 1988, being Sections 299.831-299.850 of the Michigan Compiled Laws.

"Person": Means an individual, sole proprietorship, partnership, association, corporation, or other legal entity.

"Public Health Officer": Refers to the County of Washtenaw Public Health Officer or his/her duly authorized agent, the Washtenaw County Sheriff, the State Police, the Dexter Township Supervisor, the Chief of the Fire Department servicing Dexter Township pursuant to any contract for fire protection and/or medical services, the Township Ordinance Enforcement Officer, or any other duly authorized public officer responding to a Release.

"Release": Means any spilling, leaking, pumping, pouring, emitting, emptying, discharging, injecting, escaping, leaching, dumping, or disposing of any hazardous substance into the environment.

"Responsible Party": Means any individual, firm, corporation, association, partnership, commercial entity, consortium, joint venture, governmental entity or any other legal entity that is responsible for a release of a hazardous material, either actual or threatened, or is an owner, tenant, occupant or party in control of property onto which or from which hazardous materials release.

SECTION 3. RELEASES ON OR IN LANDS, STRUCTURES, BUILDINGS, SURFACE OR UNDERGROUND WATERS IN DEXTER TOWNSHIP. It shall be the responsibility of any person who cause or allows a release of hazardous substance on or in lands, buildings, structures, or the surface or underground waters, in Dexter Township to immediately remove such hazardous substance and to clean up and restore the area of the spillage to its pre-release condition. Upon learning of an incident, the Public Health Officer shall have the right to immediately inspect the area to determine the extent of the damage, whether the responsible party or parties possess the necessary equipment and personnel to clean up the affected area, and whether the incident poses a threat of immediate harm to nearby residents, plant or animal life or the environment. If the Public Health Officer determines that the responsible party or parties are unable to safely and effectively clean up and/or abate the affected area, the Public Health Officer may undertake the cleanup and/or abatement of such spill, or contract for such a cleanup and/or abatement through public and private agencies and companies, and the actual cost of such action shall be the sole responsibility of such party or parties causing or allowing the release. If the Public Health Officer determines that the materials pose an emergency, appropriate local, state, county or federal emergency personnel may be called upon to assist in the removal of the hazardous substances to protect the health, safety and welfare of the public. All costs, fees and expenses incurred by the Township in connection with such action shall be assessed against the responsible party or parties.

SECTION 4. TRANSPORTATION RELEASES. Transporters of hazardous substances which may pollute or impair the environment or health through the Township of Dexter shall be liable for the full amount and cost of any harm or damages which may result from the release of such hazardous substances. The person(s) responsible for such release of hazardous substances shall be required to remove the hazardous substance and return the affected area to its pre-release condition. Upon learning of a transportation accident involving the release of hazardous substances, the Public Health Officer in his or her sole discretion may determine the owner(s) or operator(s) of the vehicle involved in the accident are unable to safely and effectively clean up and/or abate the affected area. In that event, the Public Health Officer, or his/her agents, may undertake the cleanup and/or abatement of such spill or contract for such a cleanup and/or abatement through public or private agencies or companies, and the actual cost of such action shall be the sole responsibility of the party or parties causing or allowing the release. In the case of an emergency, appropriate local, state, county or federal emergency personnel may be called upon to assist in the removal of the hazardous materials to protect the health, safety and welfare of the public. All costs, fees and expenses incurred by the Township in connection with such action shall be assessed against the responsible party or parties.

SECTION 5. REMEDIES AND PENALTIES.

A. The Public Health Officer shall have the authority to issue citations for any violation of this Ordinance. Any person who fails to comply with any provision of this Ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punishable by a fine not exceeding the sum of FIVE HUNDRED and no/100 DOLLARS ($500.00), or by imprisonment in the Washtenaw County Jail for not more than ninety (90) days, or both.

B. In addition, any person who shall fail to comply with any provision of this Ordinance or the order of the Public Health Officer to clean up or abate a release shall be liable for civil infraction fine of not more than ONE THOUSAND and no/100 DOLLARS ($1,000.00) for each violation or day that the violation continues.

C. Notwithstanding the existence or pursuit of any other remedy, the Public Health Officer may maintain an action in the name of Dexter Township in a Court of competent jurisdiction for any injunction or other appropriate process against any party to restrain or prevent violations of this Ordinance.

D. Notwithstanding the existence of any other remedy listed in this Ordinance, the party responsible for an incident requiring cleanup under this Ordinance shall remain fully liable for the actual cost undertaken by the Public Health Officer and his/her designees and agents in cleaning up the incident. The costs incurred by the Public Health Officer shall include, but are not limited to, actual labor costs of personnel, including workers compensation benefits, fringe benefits, administrative overhead, costs of equipment operation, costs of material obtained directly by the Public Health Officer, costs of contracted services and materials, and costs of disposal. If the responsible party or parties fails to reimburse the Public Health Officer, the Township of Dexter, the County of Washtenaw, the respective fire departments and other agencies who respond to an incident requiring cleanup, the Public Health Officer shall have the right to enforce payment of such cleanup costs, as well as all other remedies listed in this Ordinance, in any court of competent jurisdiction.

E. The Dexter Township Board is hereby authorized pursuant to the special assessment statutes of the State of Michigan to specially assess the real property of the responsible party or parties from which the hazardous substances were released. Dexter Township hereby declares that such cleanup costs and their assessment against said real property of responsible parties is a public purpose and a special benefit is derived and created for said real properties and they shall be specially assessed accordingly, in accordance with the statutes made and provided for such cases.

F. The Dexter Township Board is hereby authorized to adopt, by resolution, from time to time, a schedule of charges for responses to releases to recover the Township's costs, in addition to civil infraction fines, misdemeanor fines, or other remedies. Charges for services shall be made to the owners of the personal or real property to which the services are rendered per incident. The charges shall include the Township's costs, current expenses and accrued fund charges, of services, plus the costs of administering the Ordinance. Where more than one property or person is involved or where there are more than one person who owns an individual property, all owners of properties benefited by such services shall be jointly and severally liable for the charges. The Township Board is hereby granted the right to increase or decrease charges and to establish just and reasonable rates. The Township Clerk shall deliver or cause to be delivered statements to the persons and owners liable. Delivery may be done by regular mail to the last known address of the persons or owners liable and a statement shall be conclusively presumed delivered as of the date it is deposited into the United States mail addressed to such person and owners. The Clerk is authorized to divide the statement among the persons or owners in equal prorate shares or some other fashion, or to submit a statement as a single joint, several and undivided liability to all persons and owners involved, in the discretion of the Clerk. All of the foregoing charges shall be due and payable from the date of delivery of the statement for the service rendered and in default of payment shall be collectible through proceedings in the 14th District Court or any other Court of competent jurisdiction as a matured debt including the actual attorney fees and cost of collection. All statements are due sixty (60) days from delivery. After 60 days, unpaid statements shall bear interest at 12% per annum until paid.

SECTION 6. SEVERABILITY. Should any section or provision of this Ordinance be declared invalid or unconstitutional by any court of competent jurisdiction, such declarations shall not affect the validity of the Ordinance as a whole or any part thereof which is not specifically declared to be invalid or unconstitutional.

SECTION 7. STATE OF MICHIGAN ENVIRONMENTAL RESPONSE ACT AND OTHER APPLICABLE STATE AND/OR FEDERAL LAW. Whenever possible, this Ordinance shall be read in harmony with the Michigan Environmental Response Act, MCLA 299.801 and any other state and/or federal law which may apply. If in the event any part of this Ordinance conflicts with the Michigan Environmental Response Act, or any other applicable state and/or federal law, the provisions of the applicable state and/or federal law shall govern.

SECTION 8. REPEAL OF ANY PRIOR TOWNSHIP ORDINANCES OR PARTS IN CONFLICT HEREWITH. All prior Township ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict herewith are hereby repealed to the extent necessary to give this Ordinance full force and effect.

SECTION 9. PROCEDURE FOR HEARING AND APPROVAL, AND EFFECTIVE DATE. This Ordinance shall be published in the manner required by law, and shall become effective April 17, 1997. The public hearing required by Section 2442 of the Public Health Code of 1978 was held on the day of March, 1997 and due notice of said public hearing was given and proof thereof has been filed in the record of the Township Ordinances together with this Ordinance.

TEACHER FEATURE

Kanten to retire from teaching

By Michelle Rogers
Associate Editor

The daughter of Katherine Staffan Wagner and the late Fredrick Wagner of Chelsea, Stephanie "Sis" Kanten is a piece of local history.

Her father's side of the family owned Dexter Cider Mill for nearly a century and her mother's side founded Chelsea's Staffan Funeral Home in 1862, now Staffan-Mitchell Funeral Home.

Kanten is also surrounded by tradition. Besides coming from a family bearing three generations of funeral directors and cider mill operators, she comes from a long line of teachers. Her aunt Kathryn taught kindergarten in Jackson for over 40 years, her aunt Doris taught school throughout this area and was a principal at Bates Elementary School in Dexter, her brother, Fritz, is dean of Urban Studies at the University of New Orleans and his wife, Margaret, is head mistress at McGee School for Girls.

Kanten, herself, has been an elementary school teacher for 33 years, the past three decades in Dexter schools. At the end of this year, however, she will retire.

"This has been my life; my reason to get up in the morning," Kanten recognized recently.

"I still get butterflies the first day of school. I look forward to it. I am really going to miss it."

Kanten will spend her winters in Phoenix, Ariz. with her daughter, Kellie, a 1989 Chelsea High School graduate who works as an emergency medical technician and is studying nursing. The remainder of her time will be spent in this area, except late August when school starts. Kanten will travel to Indiana to help a teacher-friend prepare her classroom for its new arrivals to avoid what she calls "school withdrawal." Kanten will also travel abroad and possibly return to a volunteer job rocking babies at the University of Michigan Hospital.

Kanten began her teaching career in Bellevue, near Marshall. She taught kindergarten for two years before accepting a job closer to home in Grass Lake schools, where she taught first grade for one year. Kanten came to Dexter after hearing about the introduction of a transition room for children who weren't quite ready to advance to first grade. Since then, she has taught first grade and has spent the past 15 years teaching second grade.

A 1964 graduate of Olivet College, Kanten says she has always known she would be a teacher. She studied sociology, psychology, physical education and education in college. Kanten attributes her career aspiration to influence from teachers in her family and teachers she had while growing up in Chelsea.

"I always wanted to be a teacher. I remember Mrs. Kelly, my kindergarten teacher. She was always very nurturing. I remember playing the cymbals and marching around the room. Mrs. Maroney, my first grade teacher, she made learning fun and my third grade teacher, Mrs. Hinderer, she always told stories. She was the one who sparked my interest in reading and literature.

"I wanted to emulate all of them," she recalled.

When Kanten came to Dexter schools, teachers Agnes Walsh, Catherine Steinbach and Ann Cave were all her mentors.

As the years have progressed, Kanten has taken pieces of what she admired in all of them and created her own style.

Her classroom is unique in that it resembles a home with its rocking chair, lamps from home, refrigerator, microwave and stereo system. "I try to make it a home away from home," Kanten said. "I think it gives more of a nurturing atmosphere. To me, it feels homey and the kids like it. We both live here seven hours a day. They spend more time here than awake in their own home."

Kanten says her favorite subjects to teach are reading and phonics. "I like to teach the tools that help children learn how to read," she said.

Kanten has never considered teaching any other age

Stephanie "Sis" Kanten will retire from her post at the end of this year. She has been teaching elementary school in Dexter for the past 30 years. She is pictured with Peter Starch.

group than elementary school children.

"It's very rewarding to see the spark in their eyes when something is right and they've figured it out, and the hugs at the end of the day.

"I think children are fun and spontaneous. I think they are creative. I just like this age level. It's so much fun to see them grow through the year and change. They really pull on your heart strings," she said.

What she enjoys most is their enthusiasm and spontaneity. "You kind of have to go with the flow," Kanten observed. "Some days they don't feel like working a lot, so you find alternative things to do."

The only hard rule in her classroom is "If you can't make a mistake, you can't make anything."

"I just found that in a book and put it up one day. I kind of live by it. So (students) don't feel they have to be perfect, because nobody is," she said.

Kanten recognizes from year to year students may perceive her differently. "It depends on the group," she said. "Sometimes you have to be more strict.

"I try to be the mom away from mom. Some kids truly call me mom, and the older I get some call me grandma.

"They all hug me, so I must be nurturing and loving. I tell them they're special."

Kanten describes her teaching style as somewhat flexible but with high expectations. "I think I work better in a routine with flexibility," she said. "The routine varies from day to day, depending on how the children are feeling. If the day indicates I can get more academics accomplished then we do. If they are in the frame of mind where they're more creative, then we are more creative. It's not written in stone. You have to be flexible with children."

A highlight of this veteran educator's career has come over the past five years during a patriotic program students in her class and teacher Sybil Van Houten's class put on.

"I think it's important to instill values and love of country, and pay homage to our war veterans," she said.

This year's program, which includes second-graders singing patriotic songs and reading segments from historic speeches, will be held April 17 at Cornerstone Elementary School.

"It's a lot of work but they perform well and really like doing this production," she said. "Both Mrs. Van Houten and I feel it's very rewarding."

Other rewards for Kanten come when former students return to invite her to their sporting events, concerts and performances. "It's that kind of thing that makes it all worthwhile," she said.

Kanten has a stack of thank-you notes and letters from parents, students and the community recognizing her involvement in everything from shaping their education to putting on the patriotic concerts.

What she finds unique about Dexter schools is all the support she can draw on from the community. "It's a closeness with parents and the community. I can call up anyone and ask them to talk about a country, talk about dental health and play piano for a patriotic concert. The people in Dexter are very cooperative and caring about the children in their community," she said.

When Kanten is not in the classroom she can be found water skiing, hooking rugs, reading, decorating, shopping for antiques or refinishing furniture.

—Future Tigers—

Chelsea High School varsity baseball players and coaches conducted a clinic last Saturday for aspiring baseball players in town. The kids learned about bunting, above, from junior Don Reilly, as well as everything from fielding to hitting. It was hard to tell whether the youngsters or the players enjoyed themselves more.

Alzheimer's group promotes awareness

The South Central Michigan Chapter of the Alzheimer's Association is holding its fourth annual Forget-Me-Not Tag Days on Friday, April 4 and Saturday, April 5 from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. at stores in the Chelsea area. The purpose of the event is to help promote awareness and raise funds for the South Central Michigan Chapter of the Association.

Volunteers are needed for two-hour shifts on either day at a local site. Volunteers will be collecting contributions for the Alzheimer's Association and its programs in Washtenaw County and giving donors information about the Association and a special tag containing information about local programs.

Call Alzheimer's Association at 313-741-8200 or 1-800-782-6110 to volunteer or for additional information.

Proceeds from the Tag Day event will be used to provide services that include a telephone helpline, car management, family support groups, speakers bureau, workshops and training sessions, to the 14,000 patients and their families in the South Central Michigan Chapter service area. More than 2,550 sufferers of Alzheimer's reside in Washtenaw County.

AREA DEATHS

ROY ROBERT CHANCE
Ann Arbor

Age 79, died suddenly at his residence on Saturday, March 22, 1997. He was born on July 14, 1917 in Traverse City, the son of the late Roy and Edith Belle Chance. On March 4, 1960 he married Muriel M. Martin, and she survives. Also surviving are his daughter, Kathy (Chris) Bouchard of Chelsea; his son Rob (Cheryl) Chance of Graham, Wash.; his three step-children, Eric (Sandra) Dunkel of Ann Arbor, Mary (Charles) Niethammer of Saline and Susan (William) Bycraft of Ypsilanti; nine grandchildren, including Julie and Danny Bouchard of Chelsea; and two great-grandchildren. Roy is also survived by four sisters, Lucille McPherson of Jackson, Rosalie Happy of Traverse City, Dorothy Knox of Escanaba and Joyce Burrows of Traverse City. He was preceded in death by his sister, Virginia, and brothers, Paul and Willis; and step-son Sergeant First Class Michael J. Wallace (MIA Vietnam '68). Roy served in the U.S. Army as a master sergeant during World War II, where he first perfected the art of cooking. He was a dedicated and renowned chef and worked for many fine restaurants and clubs in the area over the years. He worked at such places as Lofy's Arbor LII, Ann Arbor Town Club, Washtenaw Country Club, Hillsdale Country Club and Pinckney Inn. At the time of his death he worked at the Kappa Kappa Gamma Sorority House feeding and enjoying the young people. Roy had many interests including his work, golfing, woodworking, playing gin rummy, working crossword puzzles, gardening and spending time with his grandchildren. He was particularly proud of the cottage in Grayling, which he and Muriel designed and built. He was also a past board member of the Warblers Hideaway Association. At Roy's request he will be cremated by the Cremation Society of Michigan. The family will hold a private ceremony at a later date. At the family's request, donations may be made to the American Heart Association of Michigan, 16310 W. 12 Mile, Southfield, Mich. or to a charity of your choice.

She was a graduate of St. Mary's Academy of Monroe and Eastern Michigan University. She was the beloved wife of William Francis; dear mother of Francis, Catherine, Robert, M. Andrew, and Elizabeth; grandmother of Bradley, Benjamin, and Linnea; and sister of Jack, Bob, and Patrick Merkel.

Funeral was held at St. Regis Church on Saturday, March 22.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Chelsea Education Foundation, Mary E. Merkel Fund, P.O. Box 295, Chelsea, 48118.

Arrangements by Lynch & Sons Funeral Home.

ALICE PATRICIA BLOUGH
Grass Lake

Age 82, died in her sleep Monday evening March 24, 1997 at Cedar Knoll. She was born March 14, 1915 on Prince Edward Island, Canada, the daughter of the late Bernard and Mary Jane (Boiger) Fitzsimmons. As a young woman Alice moved to Ypsilanti. There she met Phil Blough and they were married on Nov. 21, 1938 in Essex Canada. Alice was a housewife, caring for and raising her seven children for the first 22 years of her 58 1/2 years of marriage. She then went to work at St. Joseph's Hospital and retired in 1976. She spent her retirement gardening, making wine, visiting friends with her husband, sewing and making handmaid quilts; she especially loved to spend time with her family.

Surviving in addition to her husband, are her children Reggie (Diane) Blough of Chelsea, Jerry (Mary) Blough Stockbridge, Frank (Carolyn) Blough of Norvell, Bobbie Blough of Saline, Shirley (Doug) Rowe of Grass Lake, Barb (Don) Clickner of Pinckney and Mark (Kathy) Blough of Saline, 22 grandchildren, 21 great-grandchildren; one sister, Molly Blough of Saranac; and several nieces and nephews. She was preceded in death by 19 siblings.

The funeral mass will be held Monday, March 31, at 11 a.m. at St. Mary's Catholic Church, with the Rev. Fr. Phillip Dupuis officiating. Private burial will be in Mount Olivet, Chelsea. The family will receive friends Sunday March 30 from 2-5 p.m. and 7-9 p.m. at the Staffan-Mitchell Funeral Home, where the vigil and rosary will be held Sunday evening at 7:30 p.m. Expressions of sympathy may be made to St. Mary's Church Building Fund.

ERNST P. (MICK) ELSASSER
Dexter

Age 88, died at home on Thursday March 20, 1997. He was born Jan. 13, 1909 in the Village of Dexter, son of Ernst G. and Alma (Paul) Elsasser. He resided in Dexter his entire lifetime. On May 22, 1933, in Ypsilanti he married Arvah B. Widmayer, who preceded him in death in 1987. He was a member of St. Andrew's United Church of Christ in Dexter. Mr. Elsasser was elected to four terms on the village council and was self-employed most of his working career but retired from the University of Michigan in 1975, after 11 years of employment.

Survivors include a son and daughter-in-law, Allan (Linda) Elsasser of Saline; and a daughter and son-in-law, Kathryn (Joe) Anderson of Williamsburg, Mich. Also surviving are three grandsons, Michael (Kathy) and Jeffrey (Laura) Elsasser of Saline and Jordan Anderson of Williamsburg; one granddaughter, Erin Anderson of Williamsburg; and five great-grandchildren. Kristen, Michael, Leah, Kelsey, and Abigail Elsasser, all of Saline. Also surviving are a sister-in-law, Fern Morrison of Ann Arbor, and many cousins.

The family welcomed friends to a graveside service, officiated by the Rev. Gary Kwiatek, at Bethlehem Cemetery in Ann Arbor on Tuesday, March 25, 1997 at 1 p.m. Memorial contributions may be directed to St. Andrew's United Church of Christ in Dexter or the charity of one's choice. Arrangements by Hosmer-Muehlig Funeral Chapel, Dexter.

ELLA E. HEIDT
Dexter

Age 89, died on Wednesday, March 19, 1997 at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital. She was born June 25, 1907 in Ypsilanti, the daughter of Herbert and Stella (Palmer) Dickerson. On Oct. 12, 1940 she married Darold Heidt at St. Paul's Church in Northville, and he survives. Mrs. Heidt and her husband were Dexter-area residents for the past 40 years where they were farmers, belonging to the Washtenaw County Farm Bureau. Mrs. Heidt was active in her church, Faith Lutheran, and she was active in Ladies Aide for a number of years.

Other survivors include her children, Althea (Blaine) Smith of South Lyon, Joan (Gordon) Savery of South Branch, and Elwood (Mary) Boomus of Chelsea; eight grandchildren, Craig, Bryan, Lori, Cindy, Jeffrey, Julie, Cathy, and Charlie; five great-grandchildren; one sister, Ester (John) Wilson of Ypsilanti; one niece, JoAnn Wilbur; and a nephew, David Blattberger. She was preceded in death by one brother, George Dickerson.

Visitation was held on Friday, March 21 at the Hosmer-Muehlig Funeral Home in Dexter from 1-9 p.m. Funeral services were held at 9 a.m. on Saturday, March 22, at the funeral home, with the Rev. Mark Porinsky officiating. A private family burial followed at Glen Eden Memorial Park in Livonia. Memorial contributions in her honor may be made to Faith Lutheran Church in Dexter.
