The village of Chelsea is currently assessing the problems it could face in the year 2000, according to Viilage Manager Jack Myers. He told the Village Council Oct. 13 that the village is looking over all the computer systems and getting confirmation from vendors to assure that the systems won't crash when the calendar turns over.

With its own power, water and sewage systems, the village has a lot to look over. Myers said. Several items will have to be upgraded or replaced.

Village buys new wood chipper

Chelsea Village Council spent $28,500 on a new wood chipper Oct. 13. The council voted to buy a Velmar Chipper to dispose of cut trees. The chipper was purchased with a vertical intake, because it offered the safest operation.

Village leases parking lot

The Village Council signed on to lease several parking spaces from Sheridan Springer Oct, 13, at its regular meeting. The parking is currently in use by the village, but this makes a formal arrangement that Springer will not pay taxes on the parking spaces. The village will not pay for the spaces other than the reduction in

BookCrafters receives tax abatement

BookCrafters Inc. received a tax abatement on $2.5 million in personal property Oct. 13 after a hearing at the Village Council's meeting. The company will pay 50 percent less in taxes on the property for seven years.

BookCrafters President Gary Davis told the council that the abatement would provide 20 new jobs in the area.

Parents sue schools over athletic code

By Brian Hamilton

Managing Editor

Parents of students who were suspended from athletic competition for violating the school district's athletic code of conduct are suing the district in Washtenaw County Circuit Court.

Joseph Kummer, Robert Mida, Daniel McGuire and Deborah Richard refused a settlement offered this week by the school district to end the suspensions before the final game. As it stood, the suspensions would have ended at 8:45 p.m. on Oct. 30, or probably early in the second half.

In September it looked as though the matter was settled when the Board of Education voted during a special meeting to suspend the football players for 30

However, last week the district was informed that the parents had sought a temporary restraining order in circuit court to stop the suspensions. Judge David S. Swartz denied the request but set a hearing for Friday. He urged the parties to try to settle before then.

That's when the district made its offer. According to Superintendent Ed Richardson, the parents wanted the suspensions lifted in time for this week's game at Pinckney, which the district refused. The hearing has been canceled.

The players were suspended for an incident in June involving the theft of alcohol from the Chelsea Rod & Gun Club. It has been a contentious issue ever since as the parents have questioned how much authority the district should have over their kids.

Richardson said he would recommend that the district's offer still stand for any family willing to hold the district harmless in the matter.

"I believe it's right for the kids and the resources of the school district." Richardson said.

The law suit was filed on behalf of the parents by the American Civil Liberties Union. ACLU handles the case at no charge. The parents are seeking the removal of the suspension from the students' records, as well as affirmation that they are right in their concerns, according to ACLU attorney Mark Hugger, who's handling the case. They are not seeking monetary damages.

Japanese students visit Chelsea on cultural exchange between schools

By Eric Bowen Staff Writer

The Chelsea-Shimizu exchange program marked its fifth year last week as 15 students. from the Japanese city arrived for a weeklong visit of cultural understanding. The arrival of the Japanese students rekindled friendships made in June when Chelsea kids traveled across the Pacific.

Two friends reunited by last week's trip were 15-year-old Rumiko Kojima and 13-year-old Katie Horazdovsky. Though she didn't live with Kojima on her trip, Horazdovsky and Kojima became friends during the trip.

"She's a lot like me," Horazdovsky says. "We both like doing the same things. I feel like I've known her forever." When Kojima arrived, the two girls quickly found they both enjoyed shopping and talking with friends. Another similarity between Chelsea and Shimizu is that they both have clock towers, though the one in Shimizu plays Beethoven's "Ode to Joy."

An artist. Kojima says one of her favorite activities while in Chelsea was making stained glass. She also liked making Halloween decorations out of Beach Middle School student's pumpkins, which are unknown in Japan.

> Horazdovsky characterized Kojima as extremely generous and says Kojima has a good sense of humor. Kojima also likes to play with her dog, Libby.

Kojima says she sees many differences between Chelsea and Shimizu, including bigger trees and roads, and people with hair color other than black. But the biggest difference is also the most difficult.

"Everyone speaks English," she says.

Kojima says that she wanted to come to Chelsea because her brother traveled here on the exchange in previous years. She also wanted to see all of the students she had met when they traveled to Japan. Her family has hosted two students and middle school teacher Carol Strahler, who was adviser to the student's trip.

Proposal B

...Inserts Government Into Dying. Proposal B requires state health officials to regulate an 11-page, 12,000 word suicide law. Politicians and a secret, politically-appointed committee will invade private lives at one of the most intimate moments - the end of life. B is for Big Government.

... Means Another Tax-Funded Committee. Proposal B creates a secret, politically-appointed, tax-funded committee. Not only will it hold meetings that are closed to the public, it will spend our tax dollars for printing brochures on how to get suicide drugs. Big is for Bigger Taxes.

...Brings In People From All Over The Country To Die. Proposal B gives out-of-state family members of residents a place to commit suicide. "B" expands the Kevorkian-style death enterprise that's making Michigan the Suicide Capitol. B is Bad for Michigan.

...Isolates Family Members. Proposal B does not require that family members be notified when a person is given lethal drugs for suicide. "B" ignores the family and inserts government regulation into a person's final days. B is Bad for Families.

... Will Bring Abuse. Who's really afraid of Proposal B. Advocates for vulnerable citizens the uninsured, persons with disabilities, the elderly and minorities. In the Netherlands, Physician-Assisted Suicide has led to vulnerable people being killed without their consent. B is Bad for Vulnerable Citizens.

... Undermines Quality Healthcare. Will HMO's see assisted suicide as a new way to cut costs? Will insurance companies stop paying for costly medical treatments? Will assisted suicide be offered as a cheaper substitute? B is Bad for Healthcare.

... Bypasses Rights We Already Have. We already have the right to refuse any heroic medical treatment. And we have the right to receive maximum pain management. Proposal B adds nothing to our right to control medical care, except, of course, the right to kill people. B is Bad Legislation.

Ordinance change could mean higher tap fees for changing business use

TBy Eric Bowen LStuff Writer

Chelsea Village Council "voted in an ordinance change Oct. 13 that could make it more expensive to change the use of a building. Zoning Inspector Jim Drolett said that the change was made to ensure that increased water and by the building owner, not the village.

The ordinance changes re--quire that anyone who wants to change the use of a building must get a certificate of zoning compliance, Drolett said. During the permit process, the village would check to see if the new business uses more

For example, if a bookstore went out of business and someone wanted to put a restaurant in the same spot, the amount of water and sewer use would be higher. Drolett -said that the village would then charge the difference between the fees paid for the bookstore and the new use.

The measurement of tap fees, which are charged when a new business opens, are based on the water and sewer ·usage of a typical house, which -counts as 1 residential equivalency unit. If the REU increases because of a change in use, the person would pay the additional tap charge,

"If someone wants to change the use, then we would go to the REU schedule and make a determination if more tap fees need to be paid," he said. "If the current REU is one and the new REU is 1.5, the person would pay an extra half REU."

The increased tap fees also would be charged if someone wants to start a home-based business, Drolett said. If the new use of a person's residence bumps it up into a higher use category, the owner of the home would have to pay additional fees. Home-based businesses are also required to pay a permit fee of $200.

Drolett said some businesses are not allowed to be done out of the home, because they could adversely affect sewer usage would be paid for other people living in the neighborhood.

Similarly, if a house were converted to a duplex, an additional use fee would be paid. Drolett said this would reflect the higher usage of a second family living in the house.

Drolett said the ordinancechanges cleared up a conflict between other ordinances that govern building. He said the village required a new tap fee to be assessed if a change was done, but didn't require a new permit. The permit is the way to ensure the new fees are paid, Drolett said.

The council made another change to the tap fees that changes the way square footage is figured in businesses. The amendment states that the square footage will be measured from the outside walls, and adds restrooms to the square footage.

Drolett said that before the changes, businesses were trying to measure the square footage of the building from the inside of the walls. Because many of the tap fees are figured from square footage, the village was not receiving as much money for the tap Drolett also said restrooms in restaurants were not figured into the size of the building. But he told the council that restrooms are often the biggest contributors to waste and they should be considered in the tap fees.

areas that impact the village

Preschool kids get fire safety

The village also amended an ordinance governing how far back an accessory building, such as a garage or shed, could be from a property line. Accessory structures are now required to be five feet from the side and back of a property line, up from three feet in the previous ordinance.

Drolett said the changes were made to fulfill requirements for fire safety. The village's fire ordinances require that no buildings can be within 10 feet of each other.

The problem came in if one person put a structure in three feet from another person's property line. The second person would have to put a structure seven feet from the line. The new ordinance evens out the difference so each person would be required to put a structure five feet away.

Structures that are built closer than five feet are now non-conforming lots, according to Drolett. Any additions made would have to fit the new setback requirement.

In addition to the building changes, the village amended the zoning ordinance.

The village made changes to allow small animal clinics as a special use in the office zoning district. The changes were made at the request of Donna Lane, who wants to put in a clinic on the north side of Sibley Road.

Drolett said that Lane's parcel would not fit either the agricultural or commercial zoning, which both allow animal clinics, because it is an odd shape.

The council's vote did not change the actual zoning of the parcel, which still carries its agricultural zoning from when it was in Sylvan Town-"Restrooms are one of the ship. Drolett said the zoning change is still under review by the Village Planning Commission.

A separate council vote did change the zoning of another parcel on Sibley Road. The parcel, owned by Mildred Spencer, had been annexed into the village about two years ago, but had not been zoned

The zoning change made it under a two year deadline for zoning. If the parcel hadn't been changed, it would have been an unzoned property.

Drolett said he didn't know what effect being unzoned would have on the parcel. He said it was likely that the village would have say-so over the parcel even if it weren't

"If you had privately owned land, you could attempt to put it to use," Drolett said. "We've never had incidences where that's happened. Most of the unzoned lots are governmentowned or-operated."

In other business, the village appointed Dave Shiel and Al Thompson as regular members of the Village Planning Commission. Dewey Ketner. who had served as commissioner until his term expired in September, was appointed as an alternate. The terms of all three expire in 2001.

Trustee Frank Hammer made the motion to shift the responsibilities of the members, saying that he wanted to ensure alternates got a change to serve on the full board.

LANSING UPDATE

GU'ARDIANSHIP: A sevenbill package addressing the state's guardianship laws has been introduced in the House of Representatives and taken up by the House Judiciary Committee.

House Bill 6088 establishes procedures for a family member to consent to health care decisions without going to court, if no guardian or patient advocate is named.

HB 6089 allows the court to refer a guardianship matter to mediation. HB 6090 requires the yearly collection of data on the numbers of guardianship petitions filed.

HB 6091 requires a guardian to consult with a patient before making a major decision, if meaningful communication is possible. HB 6092 requires a court be informed if appropriate alternatives to guardianship exist.

HB 6093 prohibits giving a guardian the same powers already held by a patient advocate. HB 6094 protects people with guardians from having their homes sold withtheir best interests.

The legislative package is based on the recommendations released by a Michigan Supreme Court task force. The panel was created after a widely publicized case where a professional guardian company reportedly mishandled the assets of more than 300 people in 1996.

COMMUNITY HEALTH: The House has approved a conference report on the Department of Community Health budget. Members of the House and Senate developed the conference report to settle the differences between versions of the budget passed in the spring by the two bodies.

The budget allocates funds related to community mental health, community public out their consent or against health, the Office of Services to the Aging and the Medical Services Administration.

> FIA WORKERS: Legislation has been introduced that would provide supplemental wages to Family Independence Agency workers assaulted while on the job.

This legislation would require the FIA to pay an employee full wages until workers' compensation benefits begin. At that time, workers would receive supplemental wages to bring their total compensation to no more than their regular salary.

Currently, only workers at training schools and similar facilities have this protection.

DISABILITY FINE: The House has passed HB 5898, which establishes a minimum fine of $100 for coping, forging or selling a fake disability parking permit.

In 1994, the Legislature tightened the rules for obtaining parking permits to require a doctor's confirmation of temporary or permanent disability. The temporary permits also must be renewed every

Proposal 1 would be new way to preserve open spaces

By Alice Tipperv The Saline Reporter

Proposition 1 is a November ballot issue that has people in Washienaw County thinking and talking about the virtues of living in this part of the state. The proposal will ask county voters to support a 10-year, 0.4-mill property tax which would be used to implement land use strategies.

The Washtenaw County MSU Extension agency says that the tax is expected to generate some $3.5 million in revenue in 1999. A property owner assessed at $100,000 would be taxed $40 per year if the proposition passes.

To some it may seem like an insignificant amount to pay for helping to preserve the rich. rural setting that Washtenaw County residents now enjoy. So why the billboard campaign and outcry in opposition?

Homebuilders Association member and Washtenaw County Agricultural Lands and Open Space Task Force member Gene DeRossett says the proposal is an issue that is being tested in Washtenaw County-He says, if voted in, it will spread throughout the DeRossett objects to the proposal because, he says, the plan will use taxpayers' money to aid only a few.

"It only benefits the 3 percent who apply for Purchase of Development Rights," says DeRossett.

PDR is a legal arrangement allowing a landowner to receive a negotiated financial settlement in return for relinquishing the right to develop his or her land.

DeRossett says he would rather see a county-wide fundraiser for those interested in PDR.

"I'd be the first to be there and write a check," he declares.

But supporters of Proposition 1 say the Washtenaw County 1998 Comprehensive Land Preservation Strategy, as it is properly called, encompasses more than just the purchase of development rights. Although the PDR program is expected to receive 50 percent of the funds, open space issues, urban revitalization, and planning also are a part of the proposal and would receive 25 percent, 15 percent and 10 percent, respectively.

Earl Horning has lived on his family's centennial farm all of his life. When he married Diane Feldkamp of Saline in 1964, they took up residence on the Pleasant Lake Road homestead. Horning views Proposition 1 as a -viable option for preserving Washtenaw County's natural

"It gives the people who moved out to this area the opportunity to preserve its heritage and keep the remaining farm lands and open spaces undeveloped," says Horning, a 25-year Farm Bureau member and chair of Farmers for Farmland Preservation.

He says those opposed to the ballot issue—mainly those in the building trades-fear development restrictions, but Horning maintains that certain restrictions are needed. He offers a ready answer for those who object to using taxpayers' money to fund the Comprehensive Land Preservation Strategy.

"Nothing's free," says Horning. "Nobody's going to volunteer to pay for my development rights so I can still farm my land."

But DeRossett views the ballot issue as a "take it or leave it" situation.

"I hope the other suggestions and ideas from the task force are not lost in the process," says DeRossett.

Former extension agent Bill Ames was a member of the Agricultural Lands and Open Space Task Force along with Horning. Ames, too, is concerned that the hundreds of hours of research, conducted by the diversified 28member group, does not sit on a shelf unused.

"There was a tremendous amount of work put in by the task force," says Ames. "But if I had my druthers, I'd rather see another kind of program."

However, Ames says that if Proposition 1 passes it definitely will preserve land.

"PDR is the only thing on the books right now," says Ames. "As far as Proposition 1 goes, in some ways I would like to throw it out to the politicians and forget it."

The reason? Because, according to Ames, DeRossett and others, the upcoming ballot proposal is not enough of an answer to a nationwide problem.

"It is a start," says Ames. "And Washtenaw County has taken a stand, but it is only a piece and not the total answer."

Horning also acknowledges that the proposition is not the be all and end all for the county's land use problems.

"It's an opportunity for something different," says Horning. "Washtenaw County has lots of support from adjoining county farm bureaus and when this passes it will set a precedent."

And what if Proposition 1 does not pass?

"It will be a long, long time before it comes before the voters again," says Horning, However, he says he is confident that it will be voted in.

"I hope those who have moved to the area and live here now will want it to remain as it is," says Horning. "And Proposition 1 is not just for ag land. It's for revitalizing cities to make them viable places to live, too."

But DeRossett and Ames agree that the real issue is the use and profitability of agricultural land.

"We need to look at how we tax ag land—and tax it according to use," says DeRossett. "Then we are helping all the farm families."

Ames points out that today's market prices for commodities, with the exception of dairy, are some of the lowest in many years.

"It's a complicated whole system," says Ames. "If agriculture is not profitable, then it complicates the whole thing."

Ames also draws attention to the important difference between open space and farm

"Open space can be anything," Ames points out. "Highly productive agricultural land is not necessarily open space."

DeRossett adds:

"If we preserve agricultural land and lose farm families, then we haven't accomplished much. We need to adjust how each farm is taxed so they all can be profitable."

DeRossett also notes that. when planning for new housing, properties should be considered on an individual basis.

We need to look at woodlands, wetlands and work together to meet everyone's needs," says DeRossett.

According to DeRossett, who is seeking the 55th District state seat, township and city planners have exhibited a "cookie cutter mentality" when it comes to zoning.

The written preservation plan compiled by the Washtenaw County Agricultural Lands and Open Space Task Force is a public record which DeRossett, Horning, and Ames hope will be utilized.

"It's a good document," says Ames. "The communities could just look at it and do some of the things we came up with. Anybody serious about land use needs to continue to look at this."

"As long as we keep talking and presenting both sides, we can take it one step further," says DeRossett. "Everyone needs to be willing to make changes. But if people just want to point fingers, we all will lose in the long run." Ames says a "yes" vote on the land use ballot issue is a positive step. "The proposition is an investment," says Ames, and poses a question to area residents:

"Are you willing to invest in Washtenaw County so you can continue to see farms?"

The Extension Service is facilitating educational forums throughout the county before the November 3 poll date. For information on times and locations, call (734) 994-2435. Experts debate suicide issue

By Alex Lundberg Heritage Newspapers

A hotly debated, divisive social issue that will appear on the Nov. 3 election ballot was given a carefully considered, thought provoking and courteous discussion this weekend.

Proposal B, a measure that would legalize assisted suicide in Michigan, was the focus of a debate at a Downriver church Saturday after-

About 100 people, mostly members of the church's con-, gregation, attended the de-

Arguing in support of Proposal B was Dr. Edward Pierce, chairman of the assis: ted-suicide advocacy group Merian's Friends. Arguing against was Dr. John Finn, director of the Hospice of Michi-

Debate moderator Jeffrey Ellison, a Detroit labor attorney, said the issue has been characterized by extremes.

He said the purpose of inviting representatives from both sides was to take the discussion away from those extremes and toward more substantive information.

"Hopefully," he said, "they can remove some of the heat from the issue and shed some light."

Pierce fielded Ellison's first question: Should the people of Michigan have the right to assisted suicide?

Pierce told the story of Merian Fredericks, the namesake of the group he chairs. who was one of Dr. Jack Kevorkian's first assisted-suicide patients and the focus of the first Wayne County trial to attempt to put the retired pathologist in jail.

He said Fredericks, who suffered from amyotrophic lateral sclerosis (Lou Gehrig's disease) should have had other options than going to Kevorkian. He said Proposal B is that better option.

"The person who is ill must start the process," Pierce said. "That person must be mentally. competent as judged by a psychiatrist and terminally ill as judged by their doctor. They would be told about alternatives and then wait seven days."

Finn said there has to be a better way of caring for the dying. He said hospice care is that way.

Finn also said the process would be shrouded in secrecy with the cause-of-death box on "natural causes" rather than assisted suicide.

that Kevorkian has a 93 percent name recognition and hospice only has a 17 percent recognition," Finn said. "People need to know about hospice and palliative care."

Palliative care is designed to relieve pain, not cure illness. The idea behind it is to give drugs to patients who are suffering from constant and severe pain - usually powerful drugs - to make them comfortable.

As a testimonial for hospice care, he said 45,000 people have been patients in facilities in recent years and only three have gone to Kevorkian. Pierce moved to debunk a few myths about the proposal as well as to counter Finn's appraisal of prognosis.

"The death certificate is not changed under Prop B." he said. "It's not even mentioned. Doctors will continue to fill does not have a provision for that out as normal.

"As a disease goes on, the level of accuracy in a diagnosis goes up. The organs shut down and a good doctor can see that."

He also said that framing the debate about Prop B in terms of Dr. Kevorkian is incorrect. He said Kevorkian already has come out against the proposal because its safeguards would disqualify some of the patients he has helped to die.

"Prop B gives juries set standards." Pierce said. "Who are we hurting by hastening people's dying days?"

Finn told the story of Kevorkian's 17th patient, Donald O'Keefe, a bone cancer patient. who was given very few_op-__ tions.

"He was being fed through an IV in his neck and was set on a morphine pump in the hospital," Finn said. "They sent him home with Tylenol with codeine. Not long after that, he was in pain.

O'Keefe couldn't stronger medication at home and no one would make a house call. Hence, he chose assisted suicide.

In the audience-participation part of the debate, a questioner wanted to know how the proposal would deal with influence on a patient from

Pierce said undue influence from doctors will not be a problem.

"Most physicians are not Finn said. "It is an advocate for looking forward to prescribing a lethal dose of medication," he said. "Doctors are going to Proposal B is a bad law he get up to speed on what Dr. said, because it does nothing Finn is talking about, (beto address the core issue of cause) we are humane and Finn argued that doctors already have a great deal of prognosis ("prognosis is not an power by the nature of their professions and already can get people to do things they don't want to.

Pierce brought another line the death certificate filled out of questioning to the debate, asking Finn about the hospice practice of terminal sedation.

"If you sedate someone to unconsciousness and don't give them food or water, how is that OK when deciding to take your own life is not?" he asked.

"The difference is a matter of intent," Finn said. "The medications don't hasten death; they aggressively relieve the pain."

Pierce landed on that point, asking if hospices sought second opinions in cases where terminal sedation is used.

"Not routinely," Finn said. One member of the audience wanted to know if Proposal B would add physicianassisted suicide to advance directives for medical workers like do-not-resuscitate orders. Pierce said the proposal such directives.

"You have to be mentally competent at the time," he said. "Not five years earlier." Finn added that advance directives are routinely ignored at hospitals. In closing, Finn said debates and advertising - even Pierce closed by saying that the cause probably already was lost.

"Proposal B will probably fail," he said. "The distortions on the TV ads against it cost a lot to counter. We have a great ad with (former Michigan Gov.) Bill Milliken that we have got to finance."

He spoke very low, and when the girls came closer he said he wanted their opinion on his penis. The girls said no, and the man drove away quickly. The girls got his license plate. The suspect was later identified as a 28-year-old man The man was contacted and he said he had plans to move to Canada to become a nude dancer and - wanted to get an opinion of his body. He said he was fully dressed while in the car.

Property Damage A 16-year-old Dexter girl rode her bike to Dexter High School, 2615 Baker Road at 8 a.m. Oct. 7. She left her orthodontic retainer in a bag attached to her bicycle. When she returned from school, the retainer was smashed.

Informational Report A 51-year-old Dexter man reported to police at 1:20 a.m. Oct. 12 that his roommate, 55, had been belligerent, and he wanted him to leave. The apartment was dirty, with cans and dishes in the kitchen. The man said the roommate had not been taking prescription medication. The roommate had been paying rent, and police could not evict him. They informed the man how to do a civil eviction.

Warrant Arrest

Daren J. Woods, 26, of Spring Port, Mich., was ar-; rested at 6:42 p.m. Oct. 14 after police responded to an accident at the corner of Baker Road and Forest Street. Woods was wanted on a felony warrant for writing bad checks out of Jackson Police Department

Dexter Township Felonious Assault

A 29-year-old Ann Arbor woman was on a sales call near Reilly Drive and North Territorial Road at 8:20 p.m. Oct. 7. She pulled up to a stop sign and a black Ford Bronco pulled up beside her. The occupants yelled racial epithets at her while waving their hands. The vehicle continued driving next to her, then pulled in behind her and rammed her car from behind. She continued driving and the Bronco turned off the road. She pulled into a gas station and called police. Suspicious Incident

Police received a 911 call at 4:58 p.m. Oct. 8 from a phone in the Trading Post parking lot, 9270 McGregor Road. The caller sounded like a child. Police suspected a prank call, and called the owner of the business, a 39-year-old Pinckney man. The man said he didn't know of any children in the area. He pointed out a residence owned by people with a similar name to what the caller had said, but the two boys there were not the callers. No further action was taken.

Cows were let loose Oct. 9 near Madden and Colby roads. The owner, a 71-year-old Dexter man, told police that the fence was not locked. The cows were not injured, and no property was damaged.

A 48-year-old Scio Township man was lying in bed at 11:49 p.m. Oct. 16 in the 7500 block of Jackson Road when he heard a loud noise and his power went out. He went outside to check the power box and found that it had been turned off and the wire leading to the box had small cut marks on it. The man said he had called the power company about a similar incident

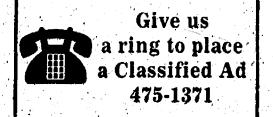

Wednesday. Runaway

A 37-year-old Scio Township woman told police that her daughter, 16, disappeared at 6:30 p.m. Oct. 17 from their house in the Scio Farms Estates, 6655 Jackson Road. The mother and the daughter had an argument and the daughter planned to leave the residence with her boyfriend, an 18-yearold Scio Township man, the mother told her to go to her room, which she did and escaped out the window. The boyfriend drove away with the daughter.

Found Property

Police were asked to respond to the First of America Bank, 5490 Jackson Road, at 3 p.m. Oct. 8 to recover a found gun. A 43-year-old Ann Arbor woman turned over a .38 caliber pistol, a holster and 40 rounds of ammunition. The gun was found in a safety deposit box after the renter had been delinquent in his payments. The bank has a policy against putting weapons in a storage facility.

Brand denied that this is what happened and said that Granger Construction would pay Kingscott Associates to redesign the building if that Charles Nelson of Kingscott said that replicating the old wing's traffic pod into the new wing was taking up 3,000 more square feet of wall space than they had calculated. The cost was estimated at $200 per. square foot.

White said similar circumstances forestalled the opening of the swimming pool, yet, everyone survived.

Crawford said a delay would affect the quality of the project if they were forced to redesign because more features would have to be eliminated to offset inflation.

Election poses alphabet soup

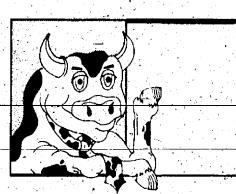

Well, the November election is on the way, and what with the alphabet soup we have coming up, I figured I should enlighten voters on what it all means. This week I'm gonna start with the state A,B,Cs and I'll deal with the local ones next week. Proposal A is to change the word "Handicapped" "Disabled" in the state constitution. This is in direct rechanged it from "Disabled" to "Handicapped" in the first place. Seems that we made a big mistake the first time. Also, the guy who made all the "Disabled" signs for parking places and had to pick them up when we changed it to "Handicapped" wants to clean out his barn. Personally, I think we ought to do it, because I just bought part interest in a sign painting shop.

Proposal B is to allow doetors to prescribe stuff that patients can take to kill themselves. Of course, this is highly endorsed by one of the incoming candidates for governor, so the patients will probably get very good service. For privacy, the pharmacy will give out the medicine in a plain brown wrapper to avoid the embarrassment of having your neighbors know what you are about to do to your wife. Or dog, or kids maybe. I wonder if you can get refills?

Anyway, you take this stuff home and dissolve it in your favorite beverage. I would choose orange juice. Actually, I'd rather have it in a chocolate malt, but I'm trying to cut down on fat. Oh, and if you decide to wait for a bit to think about it, the bottle has a childproof cap.

I think we ought to do this, because I took all my money

sponse to the proposal that out of the stock market right was passed a few years ago away after it crashed and invested it the new Kevorkian Pharmacy chain in Michigan. I just love their slogan: "Your pharmacy for a life time."

> Proposal C is this humongous bond for doing all this good environmental kinds of stuff in the state. I'll tell you, I'm all for the environment. I mean, if we didn't have one. where else would we live? And if the environment didn't have our state to stay in, it would probably go somewhere else. So we'd better pay the price or it just might go off to Ohio or someplace that doesn't have an environment any more. I realize it's extortion and all, but I hate to think about the alternatives.

> Proposal D is to change our state flag to a wooden cow. I hate to admit it, but I differ with my former running mate, Arlotta Moofellow, on this one. I mean, flags flap and sound aren't too heavy. Wood is much heavier, and I'm not even sure you could get it to fit on those little flagpole rings. Also, it wouldn't flap in the wind, but sort of clunk. And if it ever fell off the pole, it could cause some real headaches:

Well, that's about it for the state proposals. Hope I've enlightened you on the issues. Now you have no excuse not to vote.

PDR would preserve resources

My friends and I recently took in Jeff Daniels' latest play, "Boom Town," at the Purple Rose Theatre. I was surprised to discover a backdrop to the drama which described a town's struggle to balance the advantages and the disadvantages of massive, economic development.

It was easy to make the connection between the dilemma enacted on stage and those facing Washtenaw County and (local) residents as tions with Dexter Township. we struggle to understand the It's no wonder Julie ended up PDR or Purchase of Develop- so involved in politics. ment Rights issue which will be on the ballot in November.

I'd like to outline a few reasons why we may want to consider supporting this measure. Better known as the "Save Our Land. Save Our Future" campaign, this bill will place Washtenaw County at the forefront of a national effort to preserve natural habitats, revitalize urban areas, and give farmers a feasible alternative to selling their land to developers. Not only would farm families obtain a fair price for the purchase of their land development rights, but they would be free to continue living on the land and to sell the land in the future as they desired.

We are so blessed to be able to live in such a naturally rich area of our county and state, It is important that we protect these resources for future generations. Suburban expansion, once such a welcome relief for city dwellers, now threatens to pave the country with strip malls and parking lots. It is time for this kind of enterprise to be limited and other factors influencing our quality of life to be considered.

For those who find cost to be a factor, I would urge you to examine the so called hidden costs that we pay as a community to support extensive, development efforts. As one of the character's in "Boom Town" put it, are we prepared to build the infrastructure of roads, sewage facilities, water tines, schools and hospitals, etc. necessary to support such projects:

Marijo Grogan

Farming background serves Knight well

Julie Knight was raised on a farm where she learned not to let a stone go unturned. Not only in the field when plowing but also in the fields of political and education issues.

She was taught throughout her life by her father who was presiding Judge of Dexter, and held numerous governmental positions in the Washtenaw County area and other posi-

She has held her position as township treasurer for over a decade, and she has done a good job at not only keeping the township taxes one of the lowest in Washtenaw County but at listening to the people and problem solving with them.

She also heard the views and concerns of education from her father, for he sat on the Dexter Board of Education for over 26 years. Yes, this is her father's background, but Julie was fed it morning, noon and night. Julie was taught to listen and use wisdom when that sone was turned over.

Read her literature, you will see she has built a strong political and public career. She's got the experience. She will explore the issues and challenge the spending.

Village electric department second to none

I feel that Sylvan Township is selling out the village of Chelsea and its municipal electric department to outside companies who have no interest in the well being of the village or the township residents.

The village has its own electric system that has provided electricity to the village and to some Sylvan Township residents for now over 100 years at a lower rate than Consumers Energy or Detroit Edison.

The village electric system has proven more reliable with lower rates and ranks in the top five of all the electric utilities in the state of Michigan.

I strongly believe if the township opens its doors to outside interests it will soon be the end of another public power system gobbled up by the big independent utilities, which they have been trying for years to do. The service that the village electric department provides for its customers and residents is second to none, restoring power in storms of all types in hours, not days, or weeks.

You would be hard pressed to find a light out in any area of town and the money generated by the electric sales stays in the community, not in someone's portfolio or someone's bank account.

What does this mean to the community? A lot more than Chrysler getting cheaper power so they can set more records of profit at the expense of a very nice community that provides a tremendous amount of services to its residents and surrounding communities. I feel that this is an invasion into the community that we do not want or need.

Washtenaw County's Proposal 1 — the Comprehensive Land Preservation Strategy provides an unprecedented cool in the wind, and they opportunity for citizens of our community to preserve our magnificent natural resource lands, direct investment back into our urban cores and maintain a quality of life that few people anywhere enjoy. Proposal 1 seeks to create a balance between development and open space preservation and is the product of three years of study and debate by citizens from all over the county. It is designed to encourage development in appropriate places and away from lands which should be preserved for future genera-

Proposal 1 has four components. Farmland preservation will be accomplished by paying landowners of qualified property who voluntarily nominate their land for their right to sell it for development. Doing so will make land available for young farmers at farm prices instead of at development prices and ensure that apple orchards and gorgeous Sunday drives in the country will be available to us forever.

Open space preservation will be accomplished by purchasing fragile lands to protect water quality and wildlife habitat.

Funding is also provided for urban re-development projects where we've alleady made investments for infrastructure and public services (the Water Street area in downtown Ypsilanti comes to mind).

Finally there is a portion of the program to be used for coordinated planning between cities, villages and townships, for everyone's benefit.

Those of us who have lived in Washtenaw County for more than a few years can see that development is taking place at a rapid and accelerating pace. U.S. Census of Agriculture figures indicate that farmland in our county is being lost to development at a rate of 4,000 acres a year. That's seven square miles of land paved over; in just four years an area the size of Ann Arbor is forever lost on our countryside. That trend is expected to continue, and development will overtake all of our remaining agricultural and natural resource lands in 25 years.

If you think that won't happen, look just beyond Washtenaw County's borders. Places like Northville, Brighton and South Lyon were very rural just a few years ago. Now they have horrendous traffic congestion, no open spaces and ever-increasing tax burdens. Canton Township residents were faced with a new tax of $200 per household per year in August just to fix and maintain

The only interests that oppose Proposal 1 are the same ones which benefit from the rapacious development pattern we see around us. In particular, the Washtenaw County Homebuilders Association (hiding behind a bogus front organization) are funding a disinformation campaign to confuse voters and oppose land preservation.

It should speak volumes to you that this opposition comes almost exclusively from a special interest which cares about nothing more than continuing to fill its pockets while leaving the rest of us with the bill for new roads, sewer lines, fire trucks and schools. And all so that we may work together that at the expense of those things about our community that we cherish.

Supporters of Proposal 1, on the other hand, come from all sides of the issue: Republicans and Democrats, rural folks and city folks, farming advocates and environmental voices.

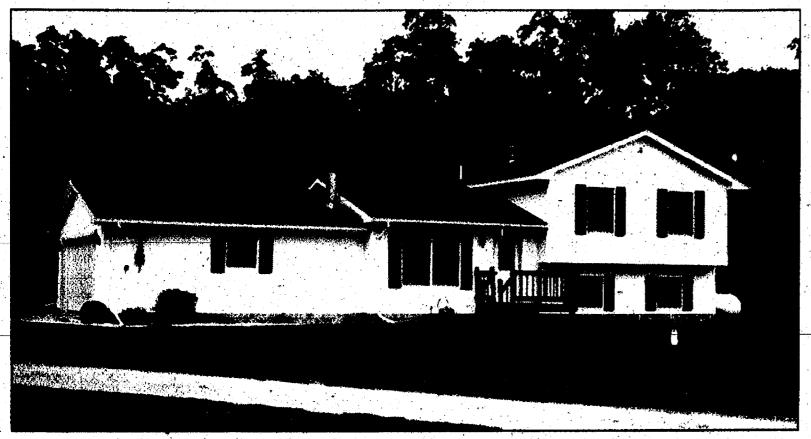

Groups endorsing it include the Washtenaw County Farm Bureau, Michigan United Conservation Clubs, Ann Arbor Downtown Development. Authority, Potawatomi Land Trust, Ecology Center of Ann Arbor, National Wildlife Federation, United Auto Workers, The Nature Conservancy, Sierra Club Huron Valley Group and Michigan Student Assem-

Many elected bodies have endorsed it, including the city councils of Ann Arbor, Ypsilanti and Saline and the township boards of Lima, Webster, Augusta, Bridgewater, Scio and Ann Arbor. Even the Urban Core Mayor's Association representing Michigan's 12 largest cities is in favor of Proposal 1, for how it will assist in revitalizing urban areas.

Proposal 1 is a balanced and comprehensive approach to the haphazard and chaotic development proceeding around us. It offers landowners a choice to preserve land instead of succumbing to the endless badgering of developers. It offers the opportunity to revitalize downtown areas and make them bustle with residents and businesses. It offers the natural beauty and rural character that make Washtenaw County special.

And all that for a small investment of $26 a year from the average household ($130,000 home). That is the bargain of a lifetime.

Back to school

Reporter spends day as CHS student

By Eric Bowen
Staff Writer

Last Wednesday I went back in time to those carefree days of high school with no responsibilities, no deadlines — just a lot of old-fashioned fun. I figured the three hours I spent going to classes at Chelsea High School would be like a well-deserved vacation, free from worries about cooking and cleaning, bills and budgets. But my pining for youth soon evaporated as I found going back to school made me glad I was an adult.

My misadventures started, of course, before I even got out the door of my apartment. So I wouldn't forget them, I had put out my cello and a nice set of clothes in the middle of the room, but I managed to get about two blocks away from my apartment before realizing that they were not in the car. What had taken two minutes on the way there, turned into 10 minutes to travel back.

I thought I was doing OK until I approached the high school parking lot. I glanced at the clock and realized I was what every student fears — tardy for class.

Luckily I was going to orchestra first, where the teachers are generally more lenient. Mr. Jed Fritzemeier (I can't shake the convention of calling my teachers by their courtesy titles) let me off with a warning.

It seems to be a common trait among orchestra teachers that they impart the wisdom of their vast experiences to their students. I remember my teacher in high school used to rattle off stories that always seemed to pertain to what we were playing, once he got back to the point.

Fritzemeier is no different. The class got a lecture about a recent TV show whose moral was: If you're mean to people it could come back to haunt you. This all seemed to make sense in the context of playing Beethoven's Fifth Symphony.

Fritzemeier also told his students that I was a good example of what you can become if you go to college and continue playing an instrument. Somehow I didn't think that telling the students that they could be a journalist who comes back to high school to

German teen finds second home in Chelsea

By Michelle Rogers

osting an exchange student from Germany has not only exposed one local family to another culture, it has made them take another look at their own

Lisa and Michael King, their 1-year-old son, Jonathan, and Michael's 14-year-old son, Brian, are among two families in Chelsea who have opened their hearts and home to an exchange student this year.

The Kings are hosting Jan-Christian Nauck of Muellingen, Germany Jan is here through the Youth for Understanding Program.

"It's real exciting for us to show Jan our culture," says Michael. "We want to expose him to as much of it as we can."

Trips to Washington, D.C., Florida, Niagara Falls and other places across the United States are available to Jan through YFU. Michael says he is encouraging Jan to take advantage of those opportunities to learn more about America.

But the Kings also want to show Jan their own community and other areas across the country while introducing him to their families in Florida and Kentucky.

"We're going to do a lot of things together," Lisa says. "It's going to be fun. It's going to motivate us to do a lot of things we haven't done in a while."

Among the activities they're planning is a visit to Cedar Point, the Purple Rose Theatre in Chelsea and a haunted house.

The Kings and Jan have been together just a few weeks but already feel like family.

Michael says he considers Jan a son and Brian sees Jan as a brother, not just a friend.

"I can talk to him about more stuff than my friends because he is around all the time and he won't tell on me," Brian says. "I trust him."

Like brothers, Brian says he and Jan enjoy playing video games together, watching music videos and just talking. "We talk a lot," he says.

Jan also feels like he has found a second family with the Kings. "It's gotten to be a family. I like it very much," he says.

Jan hails from a small village outside Hanover, a city of 500,000 people. He says Muellingen is much like this area, with a lot of farmland. Butliving out in the country with the Kings, Jan says he isn't used to homes spread apart and large lawns.

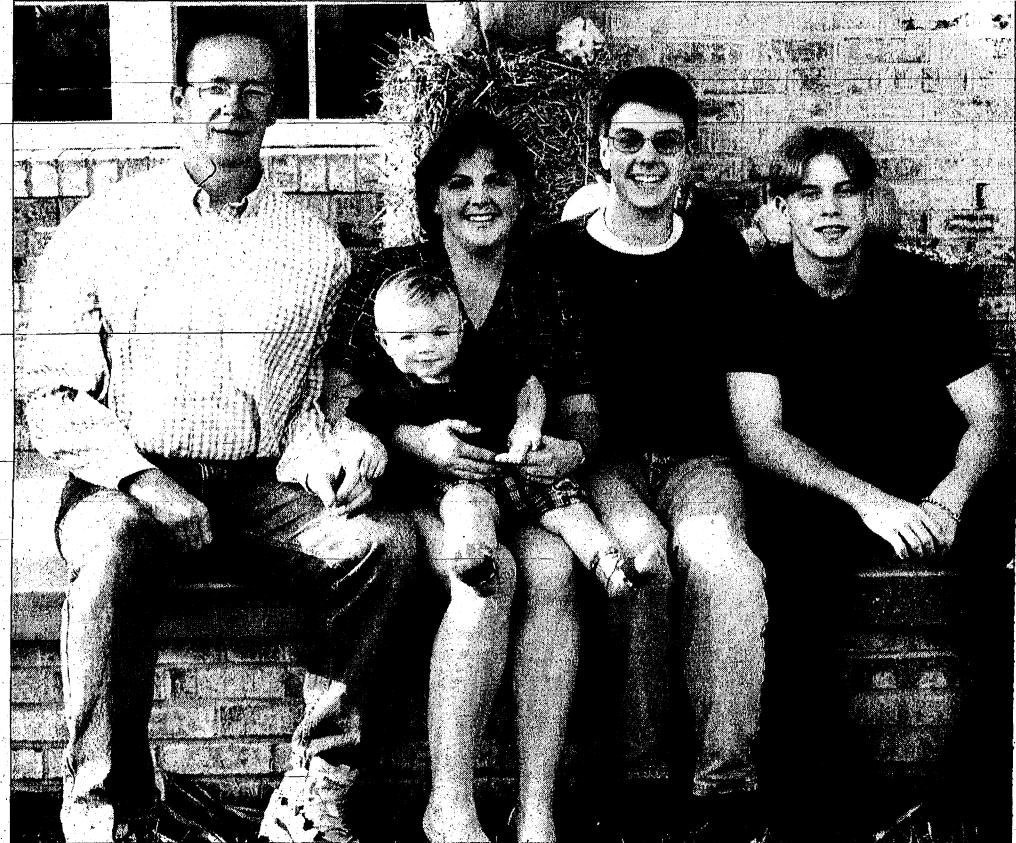

Jan left behind a mother, Angelika, who studies politics and German at a nearby university, and father, Joachim, a city planner. He has no siblings at home but says he now has two new brothers with the Kings.

During his yearlong stay, Jan is a student at Chelsea High School, where he is studying U.S. government, business technology, U.S. history, English, team sports, and stage and drama.

Jan says school in the United States is different from Germany. Back home he studies 10-12 different subjects on a rotating, weekly schedule. Students in Germany aren't allowed to choose which subjects to take until their last two years of school.

They also are given the opportunity to leave school in the ninth grade to join the work force, or they can stay until 10th grade, then go to technical

Bill Bainton has spent his entire teaching career in Chelsea schools. Bainton teaches math and Chelsea High School. After high school, he had aspirations of becoming a naval officer.

Bainton follows his parents' career path

Bill Bainton grew up with a love for the sea and had aspirations of becoming a naval officer. He was accepted into the U.S. Naval Academy in Annapolis, Md., but his dreams were shattered, he says, because of his allergies.

So, Bainton settled on teaching, the profession of both his parents.

"I think the final decision was made' early in college," Bainton says of his career choice. "I came from that background, so I knew it was a good occupation."

This year, Bainton marked 28 years as a math teacher at Chelsea High School.

It was 1970 when Bainton earned a bachelor's degree from Michigan State University, where he majored in math education and minored in physical science and physical education. That same year he was hired at Chelsea High School and moved into Sylvan Township.

Bainton worked as a camp counselor during his summers off from college. It was at camp where his fate in teaching was sealed.

"I knew I enjoyed working with young people and just kind of followed that direction. I guess.

"I enjoyed math and was good at it. I felt that I could help kids learn math," he says. "I also love science."

Bainton only has had one opportunity to teach science. This year, he is primarily teaching underclassmen courses in geometry and algebra.

Bainton describes his teaching style as demanding and admits math is not as popular as other subjects.

"I am a fairly demanding teacher, I think."
I expect the kids to do homework, follow common-sense behavior rules and I expect focus in class," he says.

"It's not a subject all kids enjoy. I don't have any gimmicks or tricks. I guess I'd probably say I am straight-line teaching.

TEACHER FEATURE

"I don't expect to be the favorite of all the teachers, but I do hope they recognize I work hard for them," he says. "I hope they respect me for trying to do my job and giving the best effort I can."

Bainton says he has a "whole list" of classroom rules but respect is primarily what he expects.

"I think the biggest one I try to get kids to do is show or have respect for others, for property, for rules and for adults," he says. "You don't necessarily have to like somone or something, but you do have to have respect."

Sadly, Bainton says, in more recent years he has seen less respect from students.

"There seems to be much less respect from students than when I first started. I think that is a sign of society in general," he observes.

Throughout his tenure in Chelsea, Bainton says he has been impressed with the level of parental support in the school district.

"I think one nice thing about Chelsea is the way the parents support the schools and support the kids," he says. "I notice that at concerts, athletic events, things like that.

"I've always noticed an enthusiasm among the student body for most the activities here," he adds.

Bainton appears to have found his niche at the high school.
"I enjoy working with the older kids," he says. "I think I enjoy the maturity level. It's a little higher."

Besides teaching high school students, Bainton coaches them in football and track. He has coached girls track for the past two decades and freshman football for 19 years.

"It was not a major factor in going into teaching but an important one to keep me active in athletics and share my knowledge of sports," he says.

Coaching has turned out to be one of the highlights of this veteran educator's career. He saw five seasons of runners maintain a 36-win streak. Bainton also has been named Regional Coach of the Year three times and was nominated twice as State Coach of the Year.

Other highlights for Bainton come when students in his classes learn something and then share their knowledge with others.

"Any time you see a light go on when a kid gets it (is a highlight)," he says. "And I really enjoy it when a kid gets something and I hear that kid explaining it to some-act as a student was all that inspiring. But at least they may continue their music studies, even if they don't major in music.

orchestra class After ended, I was faced with another high school memory as I tried to make it to class in five minutes between the bells. Since I didn't have any friends to chat with, or a locker to go to, I made it to physics on time. There I met Mr. Eric Swager, a young, bearded physics teacher whose rapid style of questions forces students to think on their feet.

Swager is nothing like my high school physics teacher, who looked a little like Ted _ larly confounded me involved Kaczynski and taught us how to make nuclear bombs. Most of his students used to leave class about 15 or 20 minutes early. Those of us who stayed got a few free points when we were treated to pop quizzes with problems like "What is 2+2."

Needless to say, I don't remember a thing about physics. I wouldn't know an E=mc² from lunch. Swager's class did make some knowledge resurface out of the back of my brain, however, and I was able to get through several of the homework problems.

One problem that particua person standing on a scale in an elevator. I was supposed to figure out whether someone's weight would be different when the elevator moved up or down. After pondering the problem, I decided that instead of solving it, I would market the idea as a new hightech weight loss plan. I'll be accepting investors next week.

I got back into my element the next period in history class. I thought that as a history major in college I would be ahead of the game, able to follow the discussion and maybe even add my own comments. When I arrived, I was dismayed to find out Mr. Jim Winter was giving a test.

A pop quiz! It was like a bad dream where you realize you haven't studied all year and you now have to spew your knowledge back on to a harsh scantron worksheet. I suppose it could have been worse. At least I wasn't naked in the hallway.

I got 32 questions right out of 40, which is about 80 percent. I even had to fight for one point, after the computer misread one of my answers. I think a B- is about the lowest grade I have ever gotten on a history test.

My biggest downfall were the true-false questions. I believe these types of questions were born in the nether regions, because I can talk myself into either answer depending on how I want to read the question. I also missed the definitions of "corporation," the "Gospel of Wealth," "settlement houses" and the Interstate Commerce Act, and the importance of several historical figures.

Blissfully my day was almost over when the history bell rang. I went out into the vaunted commons and found the lunch line already out the door.

Lunch was about as I remembered. Soft tacos with a bit too much cheese, lettuce and tomato in plastic cups, brownish corn, apple and milk From the a-la-carte menu I picked up what were labeled as tator tots, but turned out to be cleverly disguised breaded mushrooms, my arch nemesis. I was relieved, however, when the snack area came through with a delicious item — a bag of M&M's.

This is the King family's first experience hosting an exchange student, although Brian's mother, who lives in Fenton, has hosted many over the years. The Kings say they've had such a wonderful experience that they'll likely do it again.

"I highly recommend it to everybody because it's a real learning experience," Michael says. "Not only to learn about Jan's culture and our culture, but you find out what's important in your own country."

few students, one of whom I recognized from history, I found out it was Retro Day, an annual celebration for homecoming. This explained why clothes. Since I actually went to high school in the '80s, my retro clothes fit right in.

My final taste of the high school life came when I got in my car to leave. I had an ominous yellow slip of paper stuck under my windshield. A parking ticket? At the high school? Apparently all of the students are issued a parking pass to park their cars in

Your friendly Chelsea/Dexter area merchants invite you to share in the excitement of the 1st snow of the season! They're offering great prizes to the person(s) who can predict the day and time the Chelsea/Dexter area is covered (for the first time this year) with the "white, fluffy stuff." SHOP CHELSEA & DEXTER—for all of those "special" gifts now and for the holidays.

RULES...

- 1. Anyone reading this paper may enter.
- 2. Complete coupons in the ads on this page. Give your name, address, phone number and the date, hour and minute when you predict Saline will have its first snow fall of the season.
- 3. Take completed coupons to sponsor's stores for contest entry.
- 4. The deadline is November 3, 1997 for all entries. Of course, any predictions submitted within 8 hours of the snow will be disqualified.
- 5. For this contest, the snow is defined as the first solid white blanket to remain on the sidewalks of the city for at least one hour. (Barely visible, fast melting white stuff doesn't count.)
- 6. Names of winners will be announced in this newspaper as soon as they are determined.
- 7. Chelsea Police Department personnel, on duty 24 hours a day, will determine exact time of the first snowfall.

Incontinence is treatable, curable

Question: Whenever I cough, sneeze or run, I leak urine. It usually is a small amount, but it is enough that I wear a pad most of the time. Occasionally, I leak enough that it is embarrassing. My doctor didn't seem very concerned when I mentioned it to him. Is this a "woman's condition" that I must live with, or do I need to see another doctor?

Answer: The leaking of urine, a condition we doctors call urinary incontinence, affects about 10 million Americans. And to answer your question quickly, it is not a condition that you must "live. with." Most causes of incontinence are treatable and many are curable. Incontinence is most common in women, but it also occurs in men, so it is not just a "woman's condition."

Urinary incontinence can have several causes, and identifying the specific cause and instituting treatment may require consultation with a urologist - a surgeon specializing in problems of the urinary tract. Your physician is apparently not trained in this area and has failed to give you accurate advice. This is not a condemnation of him. Instead. look at this as a reflection of the complexity of the human body and the diversity of treatment options we have available today.

The process of bladder control is quite complex, and as is typical of any complex system, tracking down the specific cause of a problem can be difficult. The symptoms associated with your incontinence help your doctor quickly reduce the list of possible causes down to a few. One of the simple things you can do to help your doctor help you is to keep a diary of when you urinate. Include the time of day, the amount of urine you pass — yes, you'll need to catch and measure it - and whether you've been incontinent since the last time you urinated. Additional comments about what brought about the incon-tinence, such as "coughed." are also helpful. The most common type of incontinence is stress incontinence. You described the

JOHN C. WOLF, D.O. ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR OF FAMILY MEDICINE OHIO UNIVERSITY COLLEGE OF

symptoms of this disorder quite well — the involuntary loss of urine with activities the lower portion of the bladder and tube that carries urine out of the body (urethra). Frequently it develops after vaginal delivery, particularly of a baby weighing eight or more pounds. Fortunately, this condition is often curable by surgery designed to provide better support for the urethra and bladder.

Another type of incontinence that predominately affects men is overflow incontinence. In this condition the bladder becomes full but the individual can't empty it effectively, usually because of an enlarged prostate. Urine frequently dribbles, and it may or may not be associated with physical activities that bring on stress incontinence. The treatment for overflow incontinence is surgery designed to remove the blockage producing the underlying problem. There are conditions that can give women overflow incontinence, too. This usually occurs as a complication of previous surgery.

So, don't believe those ubiquitous advertisement for new pads and other "bladder control" products. Instead, you should see another physician preferably a urologist — to identify the type, cause and treatment for your incontinence.

Holiday retail season until Christmas, Larry Meyer. president of the Michigan Retailers Association, has some observations about the upcoming season. Meyer has headed the 4,800-member nonprofit organization since 1972 and has been an avid consumer observer in the ensuing 26 years.

Although the stock market has been up and down like a yo-yo, and despite the General Motors strike and subsequent losses. Meyer said he's looking for a very healthy holiday retail season.

"One of the great precursors of the retail season is, how well did your tourist season go," Meyer said.

"And when you see the strong sales we had coming into this quarter, and when you have as good a tourism season as we've had, I'd be very optimistic about the season."

Meyer said that up until now, the winter apparel market in Michigan has been sort of slow, but with several cool days since last week, that market should be up to speed

Predictions of the "La Nina" weather system, which is supposed to bring more snow and colder temperatures, has had no effect on buying habits in Michigan, Mever said.

He added that unless people see some evidence of severe weather — such as several feet of snow of below zero temperatures - there should be no stampede for more cold weather clothing or accessories than usual.

As for the presidential impeachment inquiry in Washington. D.C., Meyer said that although the stock market may be somewhat concerned, his organization doesn't expect that the public's holiday buying habits will be affected.

"I think that will be a process that will go through on its own, but it won't go into the retail sector," Meyer said. "The ripple into the (retail) market is something I don't see at all.

'If people are working, they will buy. The 'Grinch' will not steal Christmas this year."

In fact, Meyer said, many retailers are expecting a better year than last, thanks to low interest rates that not only translate into cheaper money, but more money. He said there has been a lot of refinancing of homes by consumers in the last year, and many not only refinanced but also took equity out of their homes at the same time. "There is a big bulge of liquidity," Meyer said. "Not only with refinancing, but gas prices are down and people generally are satisfied with the economy." Most people view their investments in the stock market as "paper" investments, Meyer said, rather than as spendable money that they've gained or lost. So, the recent drop in the market and in many 401(k) programs should have no effect on short-term spending

"Unless you're retiring in the next year or so, you're not using that money" Meyer said. "And you're not missing that money out of your pocket, so that is not really a factor in holiday spending."

Sales for the 1997 fourthquarter holiday season were better than average. Meyer said, adding that the Michigan Retailers Association expects an even better retail season this year. There is nothing I can see that would make this a down year," he said. "There is an attitude that was created by a great summer and we fully expect that to carry over through the rest of the year."

How to handle nut bounty

Fall is the season to harvest wild nuts in Michigan forests and fields.

Black walnuts and hickories are fairly common; butternuts are usually harder to find, observes Mary McLellan, Master Gardener program coordinator at Michigan State University.

"Before you gather nuts on private property, be sure to ask the property owner's permission," she urges. "You may find that some landowners appreciate having what they consider a mess cleaned up for them. Others may see it differently."

Nut crops vary from year to year, she notes. Trees that vielded bushels of nuts last year may have many or only a few this year. Nut quality can vary, also -- nuts may look OK on the outside but have small. shrunken-looking kernels.

"Before you gather bags or bushels of wild nuts and carry them home, it's a good idea to crack a few to make sure the kernels are full," she suggests.

Wild nuts have tough shells, she points out, and ordinary nuteracking tools usually aren't up to the job. People. often resort to cracking walnuts with a hammer on concrete or some other hard surface. This is a slow, laborious process fraught with the possibilities of smashed nuts and bruised fingers, so you may want to temper your enthusiasm for gathering nuts with some consideration of the effort involved in extracting the edible parts. Before you get to the cracking part, however, you need to extract the hard-shelled walnuts and butternuts from the softer outer hulls as soon as the nuts ripen and drop to the ground. The hulls contain a stain that will go into and through the nut shell, discoloring the kernel and making it strong-tasting, she explains. It will also discolor skin, clothing, concrete and about anything else it touches.

A hand-operated corn sheller is one way to deal with walnut hulls. A jacked-up automobile wheel in a wooden trough can also be used. If you have just a few nuts, you can pound them through an appropriately sized hole in a sturdy board with a hammer.

To clean nuts after hulling, hose them off on the lawn or wash them in a tub of water, skimming off the nuts that float (they'll have poorly filled kernels, McLellan explains). To clean larger quantities of nuts, a small cement mixer with enough water to cover the nuts and a few pieces of broken concrete will do a good job.

Dispose of the water on lawn areas away from vegetable an flower gardens and shrubs, she advises. Juglone, a substance present in all parts of black walnut trees, can harm or even kill tomatoes and a host of other sensitive plants, and the rinse water from the hulls may contain enough juglone—to damage sensitive plants.

After washing, nuts need to dry for two to three weeks. Place them in shallow layers on half-inch mesh hardware cloth and place the screens in a cool, shady and dry place with good air circulation that can be secured against squir-

Check by cracking a few nuts after two or three weeks to see if the kernels have dried somewhat and acquired the typical nut taste.

Hickory nuts are much simpler: gather them soon after they fall (if the squirrels don't get them first), remove the thick, hard outer hulls and spread the nuts on screens in the shade to dry. After two or three weeks, start cracking a few nuts and checking for crispy kernels.

Walnuts, butternuts and hickory nuts all contain oils that will turn rancid if nuts are stored improperly. Dry nuts in the shells can be stored in mesh bags in a cool, airy, squirrelproof location. For long-term storage, store shelled or unshelled nuts in the freezer or refrigerator. Storing them in plastic freezer containers, jars or moisture vapor-proof plastic freezer bags will prevent excessive drying of frozen nutmeats.

IT COMES WITH THE TERRITORY

Property owners can be held liable for associates to incur injury or loss due to an injuries if the injured party can show that injuries stemmed from the negligence of the owner. To a large extent, the status of the injured person dictates what is owned. For instance, trespassers (individuals who enter someone's property without the consent of the owner) must prove that the owner acted willfully in causing the injury. Licensees (those who are allowed to remain on the property with the consent of the owner) must show that the owner failed to warn of a hidden danger or peril. Finally, business invitees who are invited to enter the property to conduct business must show that the owner knew of, or created, the condition that caused the injury. Allowing passersby, guests, or business-existing hazard is more than poor hospitality; it could be the basis of a civil suit if the property owner refuses to provide compensation. Acting enhances new Purple Rose Theatre production

Review by Steven Daut Special Writer

Boom Town, the new play by Jeff Daniels, premiered at the Purple Rose Theatre Company on Friday, Oct. 8. With the production of this intense drama. Daniels continues to stretch his range as both playwright and director.

The playbill announces the setting as a small town "somewhere deep in the Midwest." Clearly, though, the backdrop theme was inspired locally. The town in is the midst of a controversy over a proposed trailer park development, with its attendant issues. The schools have just passed a $30 million millage and the opponents claim they won't be able to handle the influx of children. And the traffic downtown? It will become a parking lot.

Supporting this trailer park development are Stu and Angela, owners of a failing party store that will be surrounded by trailers if the development a way out of their economic problems, and has been such an adamant proponent at a recent Village Council meeting that he was taken away to cool his heels in the local jail for a couple of hours.

Council member Frank is opposed to the project, and as the local banker he also has the unfortunate duty of telling Stu and Angela that the bank for refinancing.

that task when he became intimately involved with Angela some time back. And today he will face the reality and the consequences of what he has

The play is tightly written, closely focused on the dual themes of class inequity, and the pain of facing reality. The themes are underscored with symbolism. When Frank announces his recent purchase of a Brittany, he asks Angela what kind of dog they have, and she replies, "abandoned." When Stu throws Angela's and Frank's words back at them, they are revealed as a painful echo of events from moments

The dialogue is strong and accurate, although there are a couple of points early in the play when Angela's speech draws attention to itself in an effort to emphasize her terrible grammar. Toward the end, the echoing words of Stu go on too long, and seem too accurate a reproduction of what was said before to be wholly believable. There are also moments of brilliance, when overlapping speech patterns and speech trails tumble out in a frightening echo of the way we all interact.

In the direction, also, there are moments of brilliance.

When Stu is waiting in the kitchen flipping his lighter and Frank walks in, there is an almost imperceptible delay in the pattern, an ominous follow. Silences are at times handled powerfully, reminiscent of the stunning play "Beast on the Moon," which played at the PRTC in the winter of 1996.

There were also a few moments of humor which served to break up the intensity of the action. Unfortunately, for a number of reasons, the ending didn't ring true for me, although it was clearly very moving for many in the audi-

Sandra Birch plays Angela. She delivers a wonderful performance as a woman torn between her desire to move up and her enmeshment in the life she is living. She sees Frank as her escape, and is willing to fool herself into believing that he will deliver here from her problems. When reality intrudes, she is able to draw on her inner resources to redefine her efforts to better her situation.

The way Birch handles subgoes forward. Stu sees this as tlety - a look, a wave of her hand - demonstrates her strength. She tosses off the best line of the play in such an offhand manner that it becomes an indelible part of her character.

"I may be cheating, but at least I'm cheating up." It is at the other extreme, when she has to carry sustained shock and terror, when she occasionally breaks over the edge has denied their application and jars you out of the action.

John Lepard as Frank, on He didn't help himself in the other hand, only seems to come alive when he is writhing in terror under the threat of death or describing the weird feeling of watching himself from the outside. In general, his character seems rather expressionless, and during the subtler moments, there is nothing at all to read from him.

To be fair, some of this may be appropriate to the part of Frank as the proper bank executive with a studied air of huge stage presence of Birch and Sanville, he has a hard part to play.

Sanville delivers a powerful performance as the desperate Stu. His soft spoken punctuated shouted phrases and violent action, combine with such an imposing physical intensity that when he dominates the on the edge of their chairs. We are fortunate to have him here. Seems to me that Sanville could hold his own with the best on Broadway or Hollywood.

Bartley H. Bauer's set design is wonderful. The home is a 60's style kitchen, hallway and porch, complete with Harvest Gold appliances, flowered wallpaper, and a wall full of family photos. He has shown us the place in a cutaway view, creating a feeling of uneasy voyeurism as we look in on these unfortunate people's Props by Danna Segrest, lighting by Dana White, and costumes by Colleen Ryan-Peters contribute to the feeling of class distinction between the characters. The occasional bird call and barking dog interjected by sound designer Vince Mountain provide an eerie backdrop of calm and normalcy in contrast with the extreme action going on inside the house.

"Boom Town" is recommended for mature audiences only. The play is currently scheduled to run from through Nov. 29 with performances from Wednesday through Sunday every week.

Treating the hidden hazards of high blood pressure

Over 40 million Americans have high blood pressure but, unfortunately, one third of them don't know it. This is a serious medical problem because high blood pressure—or hypertension—is responsible for 40,000 American deaths every year. And, it contributes to 190,000 more deaths through coronary heart disease and stroke. While the cause of most cases of high blood pressure isn't known, it can be easily detected and successfully treated. For our next Health Night Out in Chelsea, the University of Michigan Health System and Chelsea Community Hospital will present: High Blood Pressure: Controlling the Quiet Killer. The presentation will be made by Steven Yarows, M.D., F.A.C.P., hypertensive specialist and medical director of Chelsea Internal Medicine; Robert D. Brook, M.D., fellow in the Division of Hypertension at the U-M Health System; and Lynn Glazewski, R.D., M.P.H., registered dietitian in the Nutrition Counseling Center at the U-M Health System, specializing in hypertension, hyperlipidemia and diabetes.

During the presentation, you'll learn how high blood pressure is monitored...how to monitor your own blood pressure...why weight loss, sodium reduction and other lifestyle changes can help some people control their blood pressure...how medications work to reduce high blood pressure...how to communicate with your physician about high blood pressure...and more. Join us!

If you have blood pressure home monitoring equipment, you are invited to bring your equipment to this presentation for a free inspection. New special accuracy equipment never before available for checking home blood pressure equipment will be used.

Friends to honor library staff members

Friends of the Chelsea District Library will hold their annual Library Staff Apprepiation Dinner on Friday, Nov. 13 in the main dining room of the Chelsea Community Hospital. Punch will be served at the pre-dinner social gathering, which begins at 6:30 p.m. Dinner will be served at 7 p.m.

"We hold this event during Thanksgiving month each year. It is one way of showing the library staff how grateful the community is for the excellent library services the staff provides to 'the area," said Marie Brooks, vice president and program chair of the library friends organization.

This is the ninth consecutive year the friends have held this dinner, so members of the community look forward to attending an event that has become a Chelsea area tradition.

Reservations for the dinner must be made no later than Monday, Nov. 9.

Information about the cost of the dinner, main course selection, and dinner reservations can be obtained by calling the Chelsea District Library at 475-8732.

Farm fact

At the beginning of the 1997-98 marketing year, many agriculture-marketing analysts could not have predicted the United States would export. the third highest total of soybeans in history. According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the U.S. exported 900.7 million bushels of soybeans in the past year, 929 million bushels in 1981-82 and 905 million bushels in 1982-83. The countries the United States exports to include Brazil (29.7 million bushels), Argentina (18.6 million bushels), and the largest importer, Mexico (111.2) million bushels). Asia imports more soybeans than any other world region, importing 384.5 million bushels of U.S. soybeans.

Classic 1940 Ford offers tale

By Gary Gosselin

Heritage Newspapers In 1993, Lincoln Park resident Doug Fair purchased a 1940 Standard Ford, intending to restore the vehicle. Fair said had wanted a 1932 Ford Roaster, but the 1940 Ford was what was available, so he sold the 1949 Chevrolet he had to purchase the Ford. By early 1994, Fair began to restore his car and took it apart. During the tear-down process, he discovered the car was in good shape considering its age, so parts that were removed were stored for future restoration and reinstallation. "I had parts everywhere, my son's old bedroom, chrome parts were hanging from the rafters in the basement," Fair said. "I had parts all over the place."

Shortly after the restoration process began, Fair became -disinterested and the car and parts just sat there gathering

"I just lost interest in the car," Fair said. "I just didn't fee like working on it. If it hadn't been for my son, Bud, the car would never got done. He pushed me until we finished the car."

Once Fair got started again, he sanded and wire-wheeled the body and frame to prepare it for painting.

Once Fair had the car's body prepped for paint, he decided that the body would be performance red with black fenders. "I read a lot of old Hot Rod magazines," Fair said. "I got my ideas from them. I know the car's paint isn't original, but it's what I-wanted." Almost all of the glass in Fair's car has been replaced by his son, Bud. The windhield is still original. Perhaps the hardest part of car's restoration was the runing boards. "The running boards were in very bad shape, they needed to be recovered," he said. "The rubber for them wasn't hard to find. But it wasn't cheap or easy to install." The tires on Fair's car are black walls, just like the originals. Fair said he had thought about putting big white walls on, but decided to keep the tires like the car

The motor is pretty much Fair said. the way it was when he purhased the car, except for some paint and a carburetor re-

Dogs fall short in gridiron shoot-out

By Dennis Mansfield Sports Editor

Sometimes, skill wins a game. Other times, luck helps one team beat another.

But Tecumseh might have just played harder, crashing Chelsea's homecoming celebration on Oct. 16 by handing the host varsity gridders a 49-40 loss.

just felt Tecumseh played harder than we did," said Bulldog head coach Brad Bush. "We were disappointed with our effort on the defensive side of the ball.

"Forty points should be enough to win any high school football game."

Tecumseh (2-5, 1-4 SEC) put 14 points on the board in the opening period. And it wasn't until the second stanza that Chelsea (4-3, 2-3 SEC) answered with a one-yard touchdown run by Mike Holloway.

"The fact that in first quarter we didn't score and were never ahead hurt us," Bush said. "We weren't able to get over the hump."

The Bulldogs tied the score at 14-14 in the period, as quarterback Drew Henson found Rourke Skelton for a 19-yard TD strike, with Jerry Milliken again adding the extra point.

The visiting Indians put their third TD of the game on for the season with a 4-3 mark overall. the board on a 15-yard scoring

But Chelsea fans wouldn't have to wait a full quarter for the Bulldogs response, as Holloway returned the ensuing kickoff 89 yards for his second touchdown of the game.

the final stanza, a 38-yard TD pass from Henson (9-19 passing, 147 yards) to Vince Schef-

Chelsea seemingly tied the score again on a two-point play. But a penalty erased the two points.

Tecumseh's lead only got bigger, 42-33, with another rushing touchdown at the 3:52 mark of the fourth quarter.

Henson brought the Bulldogs back once more, this time with his feet, scoring on a twoyard run with 2:43 left to play.

And the Chelsea defense had the chance to redeem itself, forcing Tecumseh to a 4th-and-6 with 1:35 on the clock. But the Indians converted and went on to score just 20 seconds later for the 49-40 win.

 Tecumseh not only won on the scoreboard, but in the stat book as well, running the ball 52 times for 278 yards. The Indians also completed 6-of-8 passing attempts for 107 yards.

The Bulldogs ran the pigskin just 27 times for 159 yards.

"Tecumseh ran the ball right at us," Bush said. "We just didn't have an answer.

"They controlled the ball (with 19 first downs)," he added. "We played pretty poorly. We just didn't get it done."

Bush said now the challenge is for the Bulldogs to rebound and top Pinckney in the upcoming gridiron clash with the host Pirates (3-4, 2-3 SEC) on Friday.

"We have to respond," Bush said. "I think we will."

Tankers dunk Fenton, but can't sink Pirates

The Chelsea girls' swim and dive team came from behind to dunk Fenton, 98-88, on Oct.

But the Bulldogs couldn't repeat their success, falling to Conference Southeastern Pinckney, 113-73, on Oct. 15.

Against the defending SEC champions, Pinckney, Bulldog highlights included the 50 ·freestyle performances of Jennifer Minnick (31.16 seconds) and Margaret Yekulis (34.62).

Deb Adams scored her best time of the season in the 100 backstroke at 1:15.54. Kasey Whitley swam a 1:28.28 in the backstroke, while Chrissi Tracy came in at 1:32.37 in the "Knox, Adams, Augustine and 100 breaststroke.

Chelsea took first, third and fourth in the 100 yard freestyle against Fenton to spark the come-from-behind victory.

Minnick took first at 1:00.76; Katherine Knox, third at 1:03.88; and Elena Street, fourth at 1:06.94.

The Bulldogs went on to nail every event for the rest of the meet, including Chris Broshar in the 500 freestyle (5:48.43); Knox, Minnick, Elly Wheeler and Jessi Inwood, 200 freestyle relay (1:57.71), Deb Adams, 100 yard backstroke (1:08.12); Ashley Augustine, 100 breaststroke (1:13.79);

Broshar, 400 freestyle relay (4.06.70).

Chelsea faces Dexter, the only remaining undefeated team in the SEC, on Oct. 22.

"Realistically, we have little chance to win," said coach John Crispin. "But we all have individual goals to realize, and with the league and state meets coming up soon, we fully expect the whole team to rise to the challenge and perform very well.

"It is a matter of competitive spirit and Chelsea pride that we will do well," the coach added

JV gridders show fans bright future with win

The future of Bulldog football looks bright, especially after the Chelsea junior varsity football team topped Tecumseh, 24-0, on Oct. 15 in a clash of previously undefeated conference rivals.

Chelsea improved to 7-0 with the victory, including a perfect 5-0 mark in the Southeastern Conference.

"This was a big win against an undefeated Tecumseh team," said JV coach Mark Scheese. "We shut them down defensively and make big 'plays on offense."

Chelsea put up the only points of the first half in the first quarter, when Bulldog quarterback Chris Brigham (8for-23 passing, 183 yards, 2 TDs and 2 interceptions) hit Cory Picklesimer (4 receptions, 109 yards) on a 60-yard scoring play.

Bulldog kicker Mike Radka added the extra point.

Radka, who rushed for 23yards on five carries, put up the only points of the third. quarter with a 30-yard field goal for a 10-0 Chelsea advanpasses for 33 yards. Chelsea's Matt Mcatee and

Tony Scheffler each caught respectively

Chelsea put the game out of reach in the final stanza, as Brigham again found Picklesimer for a 24-yard TD strike, with Radka kicking the extra point for a 17-0 advantage.

But the Bulldog defenders one pass for 28 and 13 yards, led by Ben Vogel, Brian Sayers, John Marshal, Radka, Nate Keiser and Ben Myers held Tecumseh to just 81yards rushing on 41 carries. And the Indians failed to complete a pass in seven tries.

Knowing deer behavior may be helpful when hunting

Did you ever wonder how some guys seem to know just what the deer's next move is going to be?

It took-me a while to figure it out and I probably wouldn't have gotten it then had my oldtimer friend not given me a lesson in understanding what he called "deer talk."

"I use the quotation marks because that is exactly what the old friend called it, and I had never heard that expression before. It is just what it sounds like, the actions and sometimes antics the deer use to communicate to each other.

Most hunters, when watching a group of deer in the wild, don't even realize that the deer are communicating as they watch, unless they hear a the small herd takes off for the feel safer. other side of the woods. At that the boss deer spotted something it didn't like and said, "Let's get the heck out of here.

In a way that supposition was correct. The snort and the instant flash of the tail is the signal to the rest of the herd that something is not right and in that deer's way of thinking it is time to clear the area. The other deer understand this deer talk and follow the spooked deer's lead.

Deer do very little vocalizing but seem to understand actions and body language of each other that it has become their main method of communication and it works well for them. When you learn some of these signals, you too may be able to determine the deer's next move and plan your strategy accordingly.

As mentioned before, the will spook and run at the snort is an alert signal, to get the attention of the other deer. The flash of the huge white tail is a way of telling the others that danger is possibly near. Usually when these signals are given the other deer will not linger to check out the threat, they will leave the area immediately and regroup short and see a tail-fly up as somewhere else where they

If this dominate doe is feeding on the crop choice of the day with the other deer and displaying no sign of alertness, she is probably at ease and does not feel threatened. doesn't understand = takes a rigid stance and freezes her stare in your direction, you have probably been spotted, and she is now thinking of alerting the rest of the group for immediate flight. She will direct her ears toward you to pick up the slightest sound you may make and her tail will usually be partially raised but not moving.

If you can stop all movement, (including breathing) for about 10 minutes, she may relax her stance, drop her tail. and very eautiously return to feeding. But don't relax too much. She will make a few snap checks in your direction until she is positive there is no danger in the area.

Bucks in rut have a body language that can also be read. The buck wandering around in his harem, sniffing the rear area of each doe, is doing just what you think he is doing -- searching for a doe moves you might have to make, since that buck has only one thing on his mind and it isn't you. He will probably not notice any slight adjustment you might make in your position. But watch out for the other deer. If one of them spots your movements they will all take flight, including the buck.

While the buck's actions are easy to figure out, the does will be sending signals of their own. If they keep moving around in the herd, ahead of the buck, they are telling him they have a headache, If they do not move away from the bucks advances and take a squatting position, they are saying their headache has gone away.

Deer also talk to each other by leaving signs for other deer to read after they have passed through an area.

A buck will mark his territory in several ways to claim slightest sign of anything he that is in heat. This is a good ownership. The dominate time for you to make any buck, usually the largest, meanest dude in the area, will make scrapes and buck rubs that the other bucks will see. These bucks will then make up their mind whether or not they want to stick around, waiting for him to return, so they can challenge him for territorial rights.

They will often decide not to make a fight of it and drop their tail in a subordinate manner as they slink away in search of another area that possibly has a buck that they are willing to take on.

Does will often urinate on the buck's scrapes to show that they, too, passed through the area and may be interested in meeting up with the buck. When the buck returns he will read the "deer talk" the doe left and either move on along his regular route or divert his attention to the doe and follow. her trail.

The actions of deer in their own habitat can tell you a lot about what they are thinking and perhaps what they will do next. Take the time to learn a little "deer talk" and see if your hunting doesn't improve.

Harriers win again at invitational

The Chelsea boys' cross country team dominated the Onsted Invitational on Oct. 17, winning the meet with a team score of just 42 points.

Tecumseh was second at 52, Marshall 82, Onstead 82, Columbia Central 110 and Hudson 160.

Aaron Ruhlig led the winning effort with a first-place finish in a time of 16:49 over 3.1-mile course.

Ruhlig was followed by teammates Jeff Kolodica in fifth at 17:47; Nathan Zeigler ninth, 18:13; Jared Daniel, 11th, 18:30; Mike Kattula, 16th, 18:40; Max Cherem, 18th, 19:01; and George Fairley, 22nd, 19:14.

"It gets tougher each year. but we were able to win this invitational for the third straight year," said Chelsea coach Eric Swager, "This is an extremely hilly course and really separates the men from the boys.

Saline again outgunned Chelsea in the final stanza, 17-16, but fell short in its comeback attempt.

Lindsey Baker posted a team-best 12 points, with Sally Compton added 10 points and Jessica Cole hit for nine points.

Cole also recorded a teamhigh five steals to lead the Bulldogs defensively.

Chelsea's Josie Wells grabbed seven rebounds and added six points.

The Bulldogs again had to hang on for a hard-fought win over Pinckney, 43-42, on Oct. 13 in an overtime thriller.

Chelsea led 16-13 at intermission, but ended up knotted up with the Pirates at 36-36 at the end of regulation. The then outscored Bulldogs Pinckney, 7-6, in the extra stanza for the victory.

Wells scored a team-high 16 points and grabbed six boards to lead Chelsea, while Cole added 12 points and four steals.

500 mark, the Chelsea girls' varsity basketball team suffered just its second conference loss, 40-33, to rival Saline on Oct. 15.

The Bulldog hoopsters are 6-7 overall, but sport a 4-2 mark against their Southeastern Conference rivals.

Chelsea outscored the host Hornets in the second quarter, 7-6, with each cager squad scoring eight points in the third quarter.

The Bulldogs stayed within striking distance of the Hornets, trailing just 23-19 at the half and 31-27 going into the final frame.

But Saline had built a 17-12 lead by the end of the opening stanza and put the game out of reach by outgunning Chelsea, 9-6, in the fourth quarter. Senior co-captain Karla Dettling scored a team-high nine points and pulled down six rebounds.

"Karla continued to lead the team," said coach Charles Sophomore cager Michelle Dettling grabbed a team-best seven boards, while scoring eight points. Margret Schick added four points to go with her six re-assists, with Lindsey Brink also scoring four points. Amy McCalla, Lindsay Powers and Traci Kern each

Farm facts

Apples ripen - or get sweeter — by changing the starches in the fruit to sugars. Colder temperatures make apples convert the starches faster. And, even if you picked a mature apple before it was completely ripe, it would still continue to ripen off the tree. When on the tree, the apple takes in carbon dioxide and gives off oxygen. When off the tree, the apple gives off carbon dioxide and water, and takes in oxygen. Reducing the amount of water lost is key to keeping apples crisp. When an apple loses water, it gets softer because there is less water pressure inside the cells to keep the fruit firm.

Train group flourishes despite obscurity of members

By Michael Rybka Staff Writer

They meet in a stark room atop a long flight of rickety stairs. The garret is lit by naked light bulbs that call attention to the barren walls. Seven faces watch as the obvious ringleader mixes together a variety of powders and potions after having demonstrated an electrical device designed to serve their enigmatic ends.

Welcome to the Choo Choo Chelsea Train Groop, a small group of hobbyists that has been meeting in virtual obscurity for over a year.

The group was founded by Richard Ashley and David Pastor. Its most visible member is Doug Warren of Jack & Son Barbers who publicizes their gatherings in his shop window. It was Warren who decided to misspell "group." He hoped his customers would bring up his "error" and give him the opportunity to expound on the gathering.

According to Ashley, the group's purpose is to exchange ideas with fellow enthusiasts and to encourage and nurture young people who have taken up the model train hobby.

Currently, the only junior member is Gregory Bitner, who is accompanied by his parents, Ed and Julia. Ashley hopes that situation will change.

The club convenes on the second and fourth Wednesdays of the month at 7 p.m. They meet in a room whose access is through the doorway immediately to the left of Seitz's Tavern.

Its humble surroundings are in keeping with the club's modest goals.

Ashley is a member of the Ann Arbor Railroad Club, a subgroup of the Ann Arbor Historical Society which maintained an enormous set-up in the Dexter Train Depot. The Choo Choo Group is not an offshoot of the Society but a reaction to it.

"Dexter got out of hand and became too sophisticated,' said Ashley. "We want to have fun and keep it as simple as a kid whose enjoying his train on Christmas Day."

"Dexter was a Cadillac. We're merely a Chevrolet," said attendee Bill Kindt.

The Choo Choo Groop started in the Chelsea Train Depot. However, because the Chelsea train station is rented out for functions, it became inconvenient to keep taking the project down and setting it back up.

Various locations were considered but all proved to be prohibitive to the group's. meager means. Randy Seitz came to its rescue by donating. an unused apartment adjoining his business.

In these cramped quarters, a model train layout is set on eight four-foot "modules." The four corner modules are for collective design while the remaining four are reserved for individual creativity. One of the four collective modules is used for instruction.

Ashley demonstrates how to create backdrops using Styrofoam covered with Hydrocal and wood-pulp plaster. Hydrocal is a hard plaster that was first used for dental impressions. This method makes the module light and mobile for easy transport to model train shows and to schools when they have hobby days.

In the past, plaster-of-Paris was used with weighty results.

Ashley remembers the last time he had to deal with that outmoded method. When asked by the Dexter Area Historical Museum to move a model train set from the home of the late Keith Hoatlin into the museum's basement. Ashley needed four volunteers from the Dexter Area Fire Department to move even a small section of it.

. In addition to creating terrain. Ashley also demonstrated how a mirror placed behind "trees" can simulate depth.

First-time attendee John Wissinger showed how notches carved in the side of a "mountain side" with a penknife can simulate rock strata.

When not holed up in their lair, the group visit each other's set-ups at their members homes. They also organize field trips, one such excursion was to Owosso where a steam engine has been in the process of being restored since 1957.

Outside of the demonstration module, very little has been accomplished on some of the steam engine parts.

Ashley sidestepped the question of why that was and instead told his peers of his own train travels.

The story somehow led to a discussions about John Allen, who is reputed to have had the greatest model train lay-out of all time Conflicting rumors of his eccentricities were discussed to determine which had more credibility.

This discussion went on for

Before leaving, Ashley turned and said, "Now you know why so little gets done."

Theory: menopause starts in brain

Researchers at the University of Michigan's School of Nursing and Medical Schoolhave received a four-year, $1 million grant from the National Institute on Aging-to test the theory that menopause starts in the brain, rather than in the ovary where the gradual loss of eggs leads to a fall inestrogen.

Some scientists believe that aging changes in the hypothalamus (the part of the brain that controls the hormone rhythms of the menstrual cycle) may trigger the acceleration of oocyte depletion which begins after age 35 and results in a dramatic decline in fertility. As a way to test this theory, researchers will compare the 24-hour pattern of LH and FSH secretion (pituitary hormones known to show distinct diurnal rhythms in young, ovulatory women) with those in women over 40 with and without menstrual cycles.

In addition, women who have had their ovaries and uterus removed and are using hormone replacement therapy will also be studied to learn whether the ovaries help regulate any effect of age on brain hormone biorhythms.

Healthy women (ages 20-30 and 40-5) are needed for the study. The following study group are being recruited: women with regular menstrual -eycles, -women-who-are postmenopausal (no period for at least 12 months and not taking hormones); women after total hysterectomy (surgical removal of the uterus and ovaries) and taking hormones.

Participants will receive

$250 for taking part in the overnight study conducted at the General Clinical Research Center at University Hospital.

School of Nursing Prof. Nancy Peame, who has already tested the experimental protocol on herself, is the study's principal investigator.

Printing materials with soy ink may have taken the next step toward replacing petroleum-based products, with the addition of printing books and magazines. Ink for every use from printing money to paper grocery bags - requires a special formula. heat-set web printing is used to produce books and magazines. The potential market for heat-set web printing is about 423 million pounds of ink. In addition, the sheet-fed offset printing in the United States take another 100 million pounds of ink. Currently, non-food uses for soybeans amount to only 300 million pounds; but with new markets like this, the soy-ink technology could triple the non-food market for U.S. soybeans. Soy ink won't rub off on consumers' hands, and offers a cleaner, less expensive cleanup after using.

More than 85 percent of consumers cite high-quality, fresh meat as a key decision criterion in selecting their choice of grocery stores to shop at, according to the 1997 Food Marketing Institute Trends in the U.S. Of the top 10 factors consumers use to select a grocery store, high-quality meat ranks as the third most important aspect behind clean, neat stores and high-quality pro-

Couch-a-rama one activity of Young Life

If you were out and about in the Dexter area on Saturday, Oct. 10, you may have wondered why kids were carrying couches around town.

One of the fall highlights of Dexter Area Young Life, is the annual "Couch-a-rama," held each October for Dexter High School students.

Here's how it works, Students meet at the high school parking lot at 2 p.m., usually 100-120 kids. At the end of the lot is a row of six pick-up trucks, each carrying one couch.

Vans driven by parents line up behind each truck.

Students are divided into six teams. Each team is given the same list of items, each carrying a point value.

Each team has 70 minutes to locate each item, remove its couch from the truck, climb onto the couch, pose for a picture, re-load the couch and go to the next item.

This year's list of places included a chicken roast with

Artist of the Week

Tate Sanders, a first-grader in teacher Pam Bullock's class, was named Artist of the Week at Cornerstone Elementary School in Dexter. Students are studying architecture in art class. Sanders created a blueprint that he designed to build his million-dollar house. Line, detail, shape and size were all important, as well as using architectural symbols for doors, windows and other features. Students will build a city next week.

Halloween concert set in Dexter

Dexter Community Band begins its 16th year of concerts on Sunday, Oct. 25.

The concert will be held in the Dexter High School gymnasium at 4 p.m. Following the Halloween tradition, band members will be in costume. and audience members are invited to follow suit. The band, under the direction of Chelsea High School Band Director Bill Gourley, will present a wide variety of musical selections.

Farm facts

Safflower's vibrant vellow petals catch the eye, but it's the deep-growing roots of this ollseed crop that farmers may find most attractive. The scientists found that safflower is weii suited to no-till wheat fields because the seeds can be planted close to the surface. It germinates and takes advantage of the high moisture content of no-till, where little or no tillage preserves organic

Evidence is mounting that there is more to a glass of milk than great taste, thanks to dairy farmer-funded nutrition research efforts. In addition to identifying the many nutritional benefits of dairy products, farmer-sponsored scientific studies are uncovering a variety of possible links between dairy consumption and the prevention of disease, including certain cancers.

Pregnant women can now breathe a little easier knowing that there is one fewer risk to worry about during their pregnancy." Beta-carotene, a precursor to vitamin A, has been found to be perfectly fine for expecting mothers to consume, eyen in larger quantities. The concern comes when the expecting mother eats too much vitamin A in the early stages of her pregnancy, increasing the possibility of delivering an infant with neural tube defects, a serious medical problem. Even people in perfectly healthy condition should monitor their Vitamin A intake — it could possibly cause liver damage. Daily vitamin A intake for any individual should be in the range of 4,000-5,000 International Units (IU) each day.

Drinking the suggested eight glasses of water each day has been found to be easier than most people make it out to be, with no change in everyday habits. Besides the water a person can drink from a glass, many more ways have been discovered to get the water intake necessary to stay in healthy condition. Drinking orange juice, eating apples, and even eating pasta helps add 1/3 to 2/3 cup of water with each different serving. Alcohol consumption, however, can reduce the amount of water in the bloodflow, and cause a person to become dehydrated very quickly. Alcohol blocks the action of a hormone release by the pituitary gland antidiuretic hormone — which is supposed to help the kidneys conserve water. With alcohol, you can lose more water. than you've consumed from your drink.

Classic band literature will be presented by "Little English Girl," a symphonic march by Delle Cese, "Italian in Algiers," an overture by Rossini, "Symphonic Dance No. 3 --Fiesta" by Clifton Williams and "Allerseelen (All Souls' Day)" by Richard Strauss. -

"The Heart of the Morn" by H. Owen Reed, based upon the song "Michigan Morn," will also be performed.

The band will also present the marches "The President's March" by Victor Herbert and "The Chimes of Liberty" by Edwin Franko Goldman. Touching all of the musical bases, the band will perform "Glenn Miller in Concert" arranged by Wayne Scott and two Percy Grainger tunes "Shepherd's Hey" and "Irish Tune from County Derry".

Sponsored by Dexter Community Education, the membership of the ensemble includes teens to 70-year-olds with representatives from all of the surrounding communities. Additional members are always welcome.

the Village Hair Studio is pleased to announce the newest member to its staff.

Brenda LaCombe

Brenda's resume is replete with references to advanced education following completing her training 8 years ago at the International Academy of Hair Design in South Daytona, Horida.

Probably the most noted of those programs which Brenda attended is Pivot Point International. It is considered to be one of the most respected leaders in hair and beauty education, and prides itself in developing the very best educational materials, programs, and systems for every facet of the beauty industry. Their philosophy is based on the belief that hair design is an art form with hair as the medium.

By continuously elevating her knowledge through numerous private technical classes on cutting skills, dimensional & corrective hair coloring, and salon business, Brenda exemplifies motivation and dedication to the beauty industry. We are confident Brenda will ensure that client services are delivered with the highest level of professionalism and technical quality reflective of the latest fashion trends.

Please join us in welcoming Brenda to Chelsea and the Pillage Hair Studio.

STREAM MAP FOUND AND RESTORED

The recently published STREAM MAP OF MICHIGAN is just like another map - known to Pennsylvania anglers as the "Lost Stream Map."

The "Stream Map of Pennsylvania" was completed in 1965 after a thirty-year effort by Howard Highee, a ormer Penn State Professor.

Professor Highes succeeded in creating a map of the highest detail possible...a map that shows every stream and lake. He painstakingly plotted by hand, the location of 45,000 miles of streams onto a 3 x 5

The map sold extremely well -until I was lost several years later. incredibly, the printer entrusted with the original drawing and printing plates, declared bankruptcy, then carelessly hauled Highee's 30 years of work to the landfill.

The few remaining dog-eared copies became a prized fisherman's possession. Professor Highee was offered $400 for one of his last maps. And state agencies were forced to keep their copies under lock and key.

The experts had always told Professor Highee that reprints were impossible, because the maps were printed in non-photographic blue. Then, in 1991, at the age of 91, Howard Highee's dream came true. Computers made it possible to reprint the map. Holding an updated map. Howard said. "I never thought I'd live to see this day."

Then, by combining Professor Highee's knowledge with computer technology - the STREAM MAP OF MICHIGAN was created.

Mortgages come in many shapes, sizes for borrowers

MONEY MANAGEMENT

Today, home mortgage lenders offer an astounding choice of terms, repayment plans and interest rate options. Mortgage shoppers must be prepared to sort through a growing list of financing alternatives to select the right mortgage - and they should do so well before they make an offer on a home. To help potential home buyers with this process, the Michigan Association of CPAs (MACPA) has created the following profiles to familiarize you with some of the different types of mortgages available and the various situations they address.

You've found your dream house and you plan to stay put - at least until retirement. worthwhile for you to pay "a premium" to lock in a fixedrate on your mortgage. With a fixed-rate mortgage, your interest rate and monthly payment (for principal and inter- The Income Climber

With a GPM. monthly payments are lower than the interest rate requires in the early years, then rise gradually over a set period. say five or ten years before leveling off for the duration of the loan. Even though the payments change, the interest rate is usually fixed. The lower initial payments enable you to buy more house for your money, but bear in mind that, if your income doesn't rise as expected, you may have difficulty meeting increased payments.

You're well established in your career and are willing and able to take on extra-large monthly payments to pay off your mortgage before you retire. A shorter-term mortgage might be your best bet. Because there is less long-term risk, lenders charge lower interest rates on 15- or 20-year loans. A shorter-term mortgage means you pay off your loan faster, own your home sooner and save tens of thousands of dollars in interest costs.

If you want to shorten the term of your loan but are reluctant to lock yourself into a high monthly repayment schedule, you can make additional payments toward your principal by writing a check for a larger amount than what is due. This accomplishes the and your debts aren't too high, same objective, but gives you the flexibility to revert back to your original monthly payment amount if money gets tight.

The First-time Buyer

You're anxious to latch onto the American Dream, but you haven't been able to save enough for the standard 20percent down payment. Many lenders offer special mortgage programs for first-time buyers with low to moderate incomes, some of which may include special financial counseling components.

If you're steadily employed you may be able to buy a home for as little as three to five percent down. But, unless your loan is backed by a government agency, such as the Federal Housing Authority (FHA), be prepared to pay for private mortgage insurance, which protects the lender in case of default.

Additional innovative financing options are available for almost every situation. But the more creative the financing, the more difficult it becomes to compare features and ensure that you're getting a good deal

LIMA TOWNSHIP REGULAR BOARD MEETING -- OCTOBER 5, 1998 AT 8:10 P.M.

DEXTER TOWNSHIP PLANNING COMMISSION PUBLIC HEARING NOTICE FOR NEW ZONING ORDINANCE 9-22-98

The Dexter Township Planning Commission will hold a public hearing on Tuesday, October 27, 1998 at 7:30 p.m., for the purposes of receiving public comment on a proposed new Zoning ordinance to replace the Dexter Township Zoning ordinance adopted on March 27, 1973, as amended, pursuant to the Township Zoning Act, Public Act 184 of 1943, as amended. The public hearing will be held at the Dexter Township Hall at 6880 Dexter-Pinckney Road in Dexter Township. A sign language interpreter, or other assistance will be provided upon request to the Clerk, at least 72 hours in advance of the hearing. A copy of the proposed Zoning Ordinance, including a zoning map, can be viewed at the Dexter Township Hall during Mondays, 9:00 a.m. - 1:00 P.m. and during Tuesdays through Fridays, 8:00 a.m. - 1:00 p.m. Written comments should be received by 12:00 p.m. (noon), October 27, 1998 and

A summary of the proposed Zoning Ordinance is as follows: Article 1: Title, Intent, and Purposes

This Article identifies the purpose of the Dexter Township Zoning Ordinance, as referenced in the Township Zoning Act. Article 2: Definitions

This Article includes the definitions of important terms used in the Zoning

Article 3: Administration, Enforcement, And Penalties

This Article provides for the administrative mechanism for Dexter Township to administer and enforce the provisions of the zoning ordinance and delineates the respective responsibilities of those persons or bodies involved in the administration and enforcement of the ordinance. Components include, in part, provisions regarding duties of the zoning administrator, permit applications and procedures, violations and remedies, and performance guarantees.

Article 4: Zoning Board Of Appeals This article provides for the continuation of the current Dexter Township Zoning Board of Appeals, and also addresses, in part, membership, responsibilities, areas of authorized appeals, appeal procedures, and the basis for issuing variances.

Article 5: Procedures for Amendments This Article sets forth provisions for amending the zoning ordinance, according to the Township Zoning Act, including procedures, application information, Planning Commission recommendations, and Township Board action.

Article 6: Procedures for Plot Plan and Site Plan Review This Article establishes the process followed in the review and approval of plot plans and site plans submitted as part of a zoning permit application.

Article 7: Procedures for Special Land Uses This Article establishes the provisions for the review and approval of special land uses. "Special land uses" are uses and structures which are generally accepted as reasonably compatible with the primary uses and structures within a particular zoning district, but may not be appropriate on every parcel or may present potential injurious effects upon the primary uses and structures within the zoning district and therefore require special consideration in relation to the welfare of adjacent properties and to the community as a whole. Article 8: Reserved for Future Use Articles 9-13: Zoning Districts and Map

These Articles identify the zoning districts established in the Township, provide for the establishment of an official zoning map, and present the regulations specific to each zoning district including the intent of each district, permitted uses, and site development requirements such as minimum lot sizes and setbacks. The zoning districts and some of their site development requirements for "permitted principal uses" are summarized below: Schedule of Regulations for "Rermitted Principal Uses" a. This schedule summarizes basic site development standards. The specific district regulations and other regulations should be consulted to identify additional standards and regulations, and clarifications of the above standards, and all other applicable site development provisions. Where this Schedule contradicts the text of the Ordinance, the Ordinance text shall rule. See Article 17 for site development standards regarding planned unit developments.

FOOTNOTES For Schedule of Regulations

b. Maximum height for farm buildings is 100 feet. If the building exceeds 35 feet, it shall be set back from a lot line distance equal to the building's height, except in the Rural Residential District, in which case the building shall be set back from a lot line a distance equal to twice the height of the building.

c. Minimum one acre lot size required, provided the maximum density of lots that may be created from a lot which constitutes the lot of record shall be equal to the area of such lot of record divided by ten (10).

d. 300' for lots of 5 acres or more in size, otherwise 150'.

e. 2 acres if lot gains direct access from either a public road other than a major or minor thoroughfare, as in the case of a platted subdivision, or gains access from a private road, such as in the case of a condominium subdivision; otherwise 5 acres. Lots may be as small as 40,000 sq. ft. when part of a planned unit development (see Article 17).

f. 200 feet if lot gains direct access to a public or private road in a platted or condominium subdivision, otherwise 400 feet.

g. Minimum lot area of 2 acres for two family dwellings.

h. Minimum 200' frontage required for two-family dwelling lots.

1. Minimum five (5) feet, plus an additional setback of one (1) foot for each two (2) feet that the dwelling exceeds eighteen (18) feet in height, but not to exceed a maximum setback of fifteen (15) feet. Maximum lot coverage of 10% for lots greater than 1 acre in size.

k. The minimum lot frontage and width for lots which abut, and gain direct access to, a major or minor thoroughfare shall be 400 feet. All other lots, including lots which gain access by a private road or public road in a platted or condominium subdivision, shall have a minimum lot frontage and width of 150 feet. A riparian lot in a CU District shall have an additional thirty (30) feet of frontage for each residential lot which is granted use of such CU District lot, including condominium units. I. Minimum 10 acres required for mobile home park project parcel.

m. Minimum lot frontage of 400 feet is required in the case of a lot which gains direct access to a major or minor thoroughfare. Articles 14-15: Reserved For Future Use Article 16: Standards for Special Land Uses This Article specifies approval standards pertaining to site development requirements for specific special land uses, such as junkyards, kennels, mini-storage facilities, and communication towers. Article 17: Standards for Planned Unit Developments

Article 17 identifies the standards which planned unit developments must meet in order for such land use requests to be approved. A planned unit development is a type of residential development where the landowner is granted increased development flexibility provided the development actively encourages the preservation of natural resources and the Township's rural character, including the setting aside of permanent open space and the avoidance of lots stripped along the principal coun-

Article 18: General Provisions

This Afficle presents a wide scope of provisions which are generally applicable to all land uses and structures, irrespective of the zoning district in which such uses or structures are located, such as the keeping of animals, swimming pools, accessory uses, home occupations, height requirement exceptions, temporary land use permits, and temporary dwellings. Article 19: Non-Conforming Uses This Article provides for the regulation of lots, land uses, and structures which will be existing at the time the new Dexter Township Zoning Ordinance is adopted but do not meet the lot, land use, or structure requirements of the new ordinance.

Article 20: Access Controls

This Article addresses minimum requirements regarding access to a lot. Article 21: Off-Street Parking and Loading This Article establishes minimum standards intended to assure public safety regarding parking design, circulation, quantity of spaces, and loading areas. This Article applies primarily to commercial and industrial land uses.

This article provides for the regulation of signage in the Township to control distracting influences upon motorists, minimize visual clutter, protect abutting land uses, and maintain the aesthetic visual character of the Township. Article 23: Landscaping and Screening

This Article provides for minimum landscaping standards to assure that ne boring land uses will be adequately screened from one another where such buffering is considered desirable. This article applies primarily to commercial and industrial land uses.

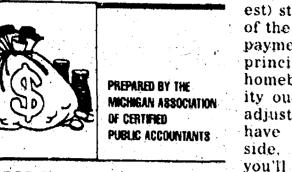

Article 24: Environmental Protection This Article establishes general standards for the protection of sensitive natural features of the Township, such as wetlands, streams, assurances for adequate sewage disposable and potable water, as well as addressing other environmental concerns. Article 25: Reserved for Future Use

Article 26: Interpretation, Severability, vested Rights, and Effective Date This article addresses several issues regarding legal aspects of the new Dexter Township Zoning Ordinance.

VILLAGE OF CHELSEA ORDINANCE #79-KKKK

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND SECTION 11.03, ZONING COMPLIANCE PER MIT PROVISION, TO THE CHELSEABVILLAGE ZONING ORDINANCE. THE VILLAGE OF CHELSEA ORDAINS:

An Ordinance to Amend the Chelsea Village Zoning Ordinance, Ordinance No. 79, as amended to amend Section 11.03, Zoning Compliance Permit, and to provide that no work, use, or construction shall be done without the issuance of the Zoning Compliance Permit, as follows: Section 1. REPEAL OF SECTION 11.03.

Section 11.03, Zoning Compliance. Permit, of the present Ordinance is repealed and the following provision is substituted in its place and stead. Section 2. ZONING COMPLIANCE PERMIT, SECTION 11.03. SECTION 11.03 - ZONING COMPLIANCE PERMIT

No use, construction, work, excavation, movement of earth, or any activity associated with a permanent improvement or change of use, land or building, alteration, addition, or similar activity, other than preliminary testing, boring, soil samples, surveying and investigative work or activity shall be commenced, performed, or done without the issuance of a Zoning Compliance Permit.

No Permit shall be issued by any municipal, county, village, state, official, or agency for any use, building, construction, work, alteration, addition, or improvement to land, as above described, until a Zoning Compliance Permit has been issued by the Zoning Inspector under the terms and provisions of this Ordinance. The issuance of any other approval or certification of a site plan, variance, special use permit, planned unit development, or other discretionary permit by any board or body under this Ordinance, shall not supercede or lessen compliance with this Article of the Ordinance and that any use, development, construction, improvement or work allowed under such discretionary permit, shall in all cases be further conditioned on compliance with this Article, and shall not be allowed until the issuance of the Zoning Compliance Permit in accordance with this Article.

A. An application for a Zoning Compliance Permit shall be accompanied by a site plan, where required under other provisions of this Ordinance, or a drawing, that provides the following information: Scale, date and north point.

2. Location, shape and dimensions of the lot.

3. Legal description, tax parcel number and address of the lot. 4. Location, outline and dimensions of all existing and proposed structures and the location and extent of all uses not involving structures.

5. A clear description of existing and intended uses of all structures. 6. Additional information as required by the Zoning Inspector for purposes of determining compliance with this ordinance.

The application shall be signed by the owner of the land, or the owner's duly authorized agent. B. A Zoning Compliance Permit shall be signed and issued by the Zoning Inspector. The application and all supporting documentation shall be considered a part of the permit. Any alteration, false statement, change or other variation between the application and its supporting documents, and the use, construction, work, development, alteration, addition, or improvement authorized by the permit, shall render the permit null and void. Any such change, variation or alteration of the application and supporting documents, shall require resubmission to the Zoning Inspector and the reissuance of a new Zoning Compliance Permit. All fees due under this Ordinance, or under other Ordinances, or policies of the Village for municipal services and development of the work, must be paid in full. prior to the issuance of the Zoning Compliance Permit, unless exception is made by the appropriate board authorized to waive or delay: the payment of such fees. The applicant shall furnish to the Zoning Inspector, upon request, a title insurance policy or other acceptable evidence of ownership. C. A Zoning Compliance Permit shall be null and void unless the use, construction, work, alteration, addition and/or use is completed or established within one hundred eighty (180) days of the date of issuance of the Permit. D: The Zoning Inspector is authorized to prepare and furnish to the public, from time to time forms for application for a Zoning Compliance Permit. The Zoning Inspector is authorized to affix to the face of any Zoning Compliance Permit any condition authorized by the Ordinance or under any discretionary permit issued by any Board under this Ordinance, or under other Ordinances or promulgated policies of the Village, pertaining to the use, work or occupancy of the land and remises. Failure to comply with any such condition shall render the Zoning Compliance Permit null and void.

SECTION 3. CONFLICT. Any provisions of the Chelsea Zoning Ordinance in conflict with this Amendment are hereby repealed. SECTION 4. VALIDITY AND SEVERABILITY.

If any Court of competent jurisdiction shall declare any part of this amending Ordinance to be invalid, such ruling shall not affect any other provision of this amendment or said Ordinance not expressly included in the ruling. SECTION 5. EFFECTIVE DATE.

This Ordinance shall become effective 20 days after adoption. Adopted October 13, 1998. Effective November 10, 1998.

TOWNSHIP OF LYNDON

COUNTY OF WASHTENAW, STATE OF MICHIGAN - ORDINANCE NO. 3-C Adopted: October 13, 1998 - Effective: November 21, 1998

THE LYNDON, TOWNSHIP ZONING ORDINANCE AMENDMENT TO ESTAB-LISH REGULATIONS GOVERNING THE LOCATION. PLACEMENT, CONSTRUC-TION AND SIZE OF ELECTRIC. GAS. OIL, WATER, SEWAGE AND OTHER UTIL-ITY TRANSMISSION LINES AND FACILITIES, TO ENACT SPECIFIC PROVI-SIONS FOR STANDARDS AND AREAS OF SERVICE. AND OTHER STANDARDS GOVERNING SUCH LINES AND LESSEN THE IMPACT ON SURROUNDING LANDS AND USES IN THE PRESENT ZONING DISTRICTS OF THE TOWNSHIP

THE TOWNSHIP OF LYNDON ORDAINS:

Section 1. AMENDMENT OF TEXT. The Lyndon Township Zoning Ordinance.

Ordinance No. 3. is amended by the addition thereto of the following Sections 2.02: 3.10, 16.12 and 16.13, and addition to Section 16.02:

Section 2.02 - DEFINITIONS:

TRANSMISSION LINE. The term "transmission line" shall mean the execution, construction, alteration, or maintenance by Public or Private Utilities or Municipal departments, Commissions, or Boards or by other government agencies of underground, surface, or overhead gas, oil, electric, sewage, steam, or water transmission or distribution systems, collection, communication, supply, or disposal systems, dams, weirs, culverts, bridges, canals, locks, valves, pumps, poles, wires; mains, drains, sewers, towers, pipes, conduits, cables, fire alarm boxes, police call boxes traffic signals, signs or hydrants, and other similar equipment and accessories in connection therewith, reasonably necessary for the furnishing of adequate service by such utilities, departments, commissions, or other government agencies.

Section 3.10 - GENERAL STANDARDS A. Because of the impact of transmission lines upon residential use of land, the location of transmission lines is restricted to those districts with large lot regulations. and non-residential use: Transmission lines are Conditional or Special Use Uses in the RC - Recreation Conservation District, Article IV, the AR - Agricultural Residential District. Article V, the LC - Local Commercial District. Article XI, the GC - General Commercial District. Article XII, the HC - Highway Commercial District, Article XIII, the LI - Limited Industrial District, Article XIV, and the General Industrial Districts, Article XV, and are thereby added to the list of Conditional Uses in each District.

B. Only transmission lines for the provision of service directly to the residential structures in each residential district are allowed as a Conditional Use in the RR-1 Resort Residential District and the LR - Low Density Residential District and these transmission lines are added to the list of Conditional Uses in each District. All other transmission lines are prohibited.

C. All applicants for a Conditional Use Permit must advise the Planning Commission in writing at least 90 days prior to applying for a Certificate of Necessity with the Michigan Public Service Commission, the Federal Energy Commission, or any other governmental body charged with the determination of the public necessity for a project under any Federal or State statute, law or regulation, which includes a transmission line within the Township. The applicant must furnish the Planning Commission with a complete statement of the extent of the project and the conceptual plan and route of the transmission line at least 60 days prior to the acquisition of any new interest in any real estate, easement or right-of-way in the Township for the transmission line. The applicant is encouraged to meet with the Planning Commission prior to acquiring interests in real estate for a transmission line. The Planning Commission is authorized to advise the Michigan Public Service Commission, the Federal Energy Commission, or any other governmental body charged with the determination of the public necessity for a project under any Federal or State statute, law or regulation, and the applicant of its views and concerns about the extent of the project and/or plan or route of the transmission line under this Ordinance and the Township's General Development Plan.

D. It is the intent of this Ordinance that new transmission lines should be placed in parallel alignment or in utility corridors with existing transmission lines. It is further the intention of this Ordinance that transmission lines be placed in conformance with the required setbacks of each parcel in its own Zoning District. If a transmission line is to be placed contrary to these intended locations and routes, the Applicant must show to the satisfaction of the Planning Commission and the Township Board, the non-conforming location is necessary in fact.

Section 16.12 - CONDITIONAL USE PERMITS FOR TRANSMISSION LINES. A. Additional Provisions for a Conditional Use Permit for Transmission Lines:

The following provisions shall govern the recommendation by the Planning Commission on an application for a conditional use permit for a transmission line or system, and the issuance or denial thereof by the Township Board in addition to the

(1) The Township Board may impose conditions to the extent the Planning Commission or Township Board concludes such conditions are necessary to minimize any adverse effect of the proposed transmission line on adjoining properties. (2) An applicant for a conditional use permit shall submit the information described in this Section and a non-refundable fee as established by resolution of the Township Board of the Township of Lyndon to reimburse Township of Lyndon for the costs of reviewing the application.

(3) Information required. In addition to any information required for applications for conditional use permits pursuant to conditional uses under the Zoning Ordinance, applicants for a conditional use permit for a transmission line shall submit the fol-

(xiv) Site plans for the areas to be used for the mobilization, storage, and operations of equipment, personnel and materials in the construction of the transmission. line. Separate zoning permits are required for each site.

(xv) An impact statement of the effect of the construction, operation and maintenance of the transmission line upon all bodies of water, water and drainage cours-

(xvi) A statement of any non-conformities to be created in the placement or location of the transmission line and the acquisition of the right-of-way, easement, or land, as to any parcel or remainder of a parcel under all provisions of the Zoning

B. Factors Considered in Granting Conditional Use Permits for Transmission lines. In addition to any standards for consideration of conditional use permit applications pursuant to Article XVI of the Zoning Ordinance, the Planning Commission and the Township Board shall consider the following factors in determining whether to issue a conditional use permit. Only the Township Board may waive or reduce the burden on the applicant of one or more of these criteria if it concludes that the goals of this ordinance are better served thereby:

(i) Proximity of the transmission line to residential structures and residential district boundaries. The route of the line shall not be placed upon parcels improved with a residence and lot areas of 2.0 acres or less, unless it is demonstrated to the satisfaction of the Planning Commission that no other route is reasonably possible:

(ii) Nature of uses on adjacent and nearby properties; (iii); Surrounding topography; (iv) Surrounding and covering tree coverage and foliage, before and after con-

(v) Design of the transmission line, with particular reference to design characteristics that have the effect of reducing, increasing, changing, or eliminating surface or subsulface water pollution, flow, air quality, tree coverage and foliage, or visual obtrusiveness;

(vI) Proposed ingress and egress; and (vii) Availability of suitable existing transmission lines, other structures, or alternative technologies not requiring the use of new transmission lines or structures. No new transmission line shall be permitted unless the applicant demonstrates that no existing transmission line, structure or alternative technology that does not require the use of new transmission lines or structures can accommodate the applicant's proposed use. An applicant shall submit information requested by the Planning Commission or Township Board related to the availability of suitable existing trans-, mission lines, other structures or alternative technology. Evidence submitted to demonstrate that no existing transmission line, structure or alternative technology can accommodate the applicant's proposed use may consist of any of the following: (a) No existing transmission lines or structures are located within the geographic area which meet applicant's engineering requirements...

(b) Existing transmission lines or structures are not sufficient to meet applicant's engineering requirements.

(c). The fees, costs, or contractual provisions required by the owner in order to share an existing transmission line or structure or to adopt an existing transmission. line or structure for sharing are unreasonable. Costs exceeding new transmission line development are presumed to be unreasonable:

(d) The applicant demonstrates that there are other limiting factors that render existing transmission lines and structures unsuitable.

(e) The applicant demonstrates that an alternative technology does not require the use of transmission lines or structures. Costs of alternative technology that exceed new transmission line's costs shall not be presumed to render the technology unsuitable.

(viii) The projects impact upon the Township's Hazardous Materials and Environmental response plan.

(ix) The environmental impact of the applicant's post-construction maintenance of the transmission line, including herbicides, chemicals, maintenance machinery and methods, access roads, equipment and other methods and materials used along and throughout the transmission line.

(x) The project's impact upon erosions control.

(xi) The suitability of the areas to be used for the mobilization, storage, and other operations of equipment, personnel and materials in the construction of the trans-

(xii) The impact of the construction, operation and maintenance of the transmission line upon bodies of water, water and drainage courses and wetlands.

(xiii) The location or placement of the transmission line in parallel alignment or in utility corridors with existing transmission lines.

(xiv) The location or placement of the transmission line within the required setbacks of each parcel in its own Zoning District. (xv) If a transmission line is to be placed contrary to either or both standards under ¶ (xiii) or (xiv), above, the Applicant must show to the satisfaction of the Planning Commission and the Township Board, that the portion of each parcel of property to be included in the transmission line is actually needed to be located outside of the standards under ¶ (xiii) or (xiv), above. The Planning Commission and the Township Board must consider the potential benefits of the public use for which the property would be acquired, in addition to those criteria otherwise applicable: under this Ordinance.

(xvi) Whether the placement of the transmission line and acquisition of the rightof-way, easements, and land, will create any non-conformity of a parcel or the remainder of a parcel under the other provisions of this Ordinance.

C. Setbacks. If a transmission line is not located or placed in accordance with the provisions ¶ B. (xiii) or (xiv), above the setback line or required yards for future construction of buildings outside of the transmission line's right-of-way and easement shall be that setback yard requirement which applies generally in the Zoning District in which the remainder or adjacent parcel is located.

-D. Security fencing. All above-ground valves, pipes, stations, vents, stands, or other facilities shall be enclosed by security fencing not less than six feet in height and shall also be equipped with an appropriate anti-climbing device; provided however, that the Township Board may waive such requirements, as it deems appropri-

E. Landscaping. The following requirements shall govern the landscaping surrounding transmission lines and govern the construction of transmission lines within all right of-ways or route for which a conditional use permit is required; provided. however, that the Township Board may waive such requirements if the goals of this ordinance would be better served thereby.

(i) Above ground transmission line facilities shall be landscaped with a buffer of plant materials that effectively screens the view of the transmission line compound from property used for residences.

(ii) In locations where the visual impact of the transmission line facility would be minimal, the landscaping requirement may be reduced or waived.

(iii) Existing mature tree growth, foliage, and natural land forms as of the date of this amending ordinance on the site and within all right-of-ways shall be preserved and restored to the maximum extent possible. If existing tree growth, foliage or natural land forms are to be removed, changed or reduced, the applicant must obtain specific approval in the issued Conditional Use Permit.

E Excavations and Construction. The Planning Commission and Township Board shall establish reasonable conditions and standards for the proper and safe performance and completion of all excavations and construction of a project, schedules of performance and completion, and financial sureties and security posted with the Township to secure the proper and safe completion of all construction. The Township, its officers and agents, shall be named as insured parties in a public liability insurance policy or indemnity agreement provided by the applicant and covering all occurrences during the period of construction, and such coverages shall be subject to approval by the Township Board. Section 16.13 - ISSUANCE OR DENIAL OF CONDITIONAL USE PERMITS

FOR TRANSMISSION LINES.

A. Township Board Approval Required.

Notwithstanding other provisions of the Zoning Ordinance, if an application for a Conditional Use Permit for a transmission line is approved by the Planning Commission, the Lyndon Township Board shall be the body which is authorized to issue or deny the Conditional Use Permit for a transmission line under this Ordinance. The approved application and all materials shall be delivered to the Lyndon Township Board. The Lyndon Township Board shall then review, modify, reverse or affirm the recommendation of the Planning Commission and issue, deny or affirm without or with additional modifications and conditions, consistent with this Amending Ordinance. The Township Board shall issue a Conditional Use Permit in duplicate upon receiving the required fee, bond, irrevocable bank letter of credit, or security deposit, and proof of insurance. One duplicate original permit will be provided to the applicant, and the other will be maintained by the Township. Where appropriate the Township Board may combine the procedures, approvals, denials and conditions of Conditional Use Permits under the Zoning Ordinance with the procedures, approvals, denials and conditions of Permits under the Lyndon Township Ordinance No. 28, the Lyndon Township Utility Right-of-Way Regulatory Ordinance,

The permit shall be prepared in duplicate originals and signed by the Township Supervisor and Township Clerk and contain the following:

A. A full description of the operation permitted by the permit based on approved

B. A full description of the easement or route on the line or system based on the approved plans and drawings.

C. Dates for the completion of construction and the completion of restoration. D. Signed commitments by all parties having an interest in the land over which the easement or route is approved, or a statement by the applicant that it is empowered to acquire the same by public authority or condemnation. E. A signed statement that the permittee will comply with the terms and conditions of the Ordinance and the permit, and that the permittee will reimburse all legal, engineering, consulting, and investigative costs incurred by the Township after establishing that a violation has taken place, and that it remains subject to any required inspections by the Township's designated agent and payment of designated fees as specified, and reimbursement of the Township's cost for monitoring to determine compliance with the permit.

F. A statement of the fees and surety established by the Township Board. G. All required attachments to the application.

SECTION 3. Section 16.02 is amended by addition thereto of the following sentence. Notwithstanding the foregoing, a conditional use permit for the use of land for transmission lines or the installation of transmission lines shall be issued by the Township Board in accordance with Sections 16.12 and 16.13.

Ordinance be declared by an Court of competent jurisdiction to be invalid or unenforceable, the same shall not affect the validity or enforceability of the balance of this Ordinance which shall remain in full force and effect.

Jerry Roberts of Roberts Paint & Body

'Harsh' winter could help business

BY MICHAEL RYBKA

For Chelsea's Jerry Roberts, the perfect year would include a harsh winter, a torrid summer and a poor season for deer hunters.

Roberts is far from being a curmudgeon, but it is to those conditions that Roberts Paint & Body, 610 E. Industrial, count on to keep themselves busy.

Business has gone down in general because of the plastic that's being used in cars," said Roberts. "The whole Midwest has been down because of mild winters. Our shop's business was down 20 percent last ert's favor is supply and demand. year."

A combination of increased population in the area and good economic times has increased business in the slower summer months. However, it is not enough to make up for the other downturns. Roberts is taking solace in the fact that an average winter is predicted for Michigan which means "harsh."

ALTHOUGH bow and arrow season has opened, the shop has yet to work on a deer-related accident. This has Roberts wondering if the deer are running this year.

"The deer don't run until it becomes cold," says Roberts. "Maybe it's been too warm."

Roberts said from his end of things, deer-related accidents are not devastating.

"They're the nicest kind of collision work because its mostly external. There is very little structural dam-

Roberts still places integrity over personal gain. He will try to talk people out of work if he doesn't believe it is worth the money. Not many people listen.

"People become attached to their cars. They don't want to sell. They'll keep bringing it back no matter how bad a shape it's in," said Roberts.

Even though the quantity of business is down, manufacturer's requirements and regulations keep profits steadily ris-

Truck frames are now made with high-tensile steel. They cannot be heated to pull back into shape. If the frame is damaged, the whole unit has to be replaced.

Roberts used to do a lot of "splicing" on cars. This involved welding in a strip of sheet metal into the damaged area. However, the watchdogs that oversee the collision work business decided that this weakened the frame too much.

Another factor working in Rob-

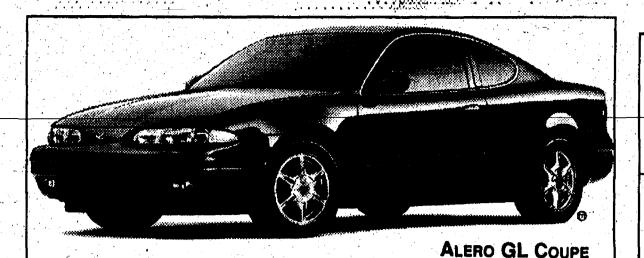

Roberts said that he has only moderate competition in the area and that it is unlikely to increase. Fewer people are entering the business, making a "body man" hard to find. Many of those who do make the attempt become deterred by the extensive and expensive training required that involves more and more computer knowledge. Even those that receive certification, said Roberts, need six years of hands-on experience before they can become confident in their work.

THIS IS quite different from the day when Roberts and his two brothers simply, found a serviceable building and set up shop. When Roberts moved from his original location, the government was able to insist upon structural regulations to the building.

FORTUNATELY, Robert's years of quality work over the years was deemed sufficient enough to exempt him from the accreditation that now passes as proof that one is competent.

It has also earned him the right to distance himself from some of the more physical demands of the job.

"Now I just oversee," said Roberts, as he was making sure the doughnuts were being fairly distributed among his workers. "I'm sort of semi-retired. I like to think of myself as an overpaid gopher."

Alero newest member of Olds family

It may look like a sedan, but the Oldsmobile Alero has the heart of a sports car.

Built on the Grand Am platform, the new 1999 Alero replaces the Achieva in the Olds lineup, and has all the hallmarks of quality that you expect to get in an Oldsmobile.

The Alero has one of the highest ratings on structural rigidity, which means that it handles better on the road and with less road noise and engine vibration. The cabin on the four-door model is roomy enough for five, with safety features like rear door child security locks and dual airbags.

Sales consultants Brian Quinn and Paul Conz at Phillips Pontiac-Olds couldn't say enough about the new Alero. Quinn, who is driving the top-of-the-line GLS, pointed out the many storage compartments on the interior, the premium sound system, and the automatic door locks. The GLS is built around a 3.4-liter V6 with 170 horses under the hood. Front-wheel drive, four-wheel antilock brakes, and 4-wheel independent suspension are standard features on the GLS, as is the AM/FM-Cassette-Single CD combination. Leather trimmed seating is standard as well as power seats, locks, and windows.

The 4-cylinder dual overhead cam that is standard on the GX and GL has a higher rated engine than the Ford Zetec, which powers the new Cougar and Escort ZX2. And you'll drive a bit before a tune up has a 100,000-mile tune up and 150,000 automatic transmission fluid and coolant replacement.

The Alero is available in nine colors and three models, and priced from $16,8000 to $21,000.

Stop in at Phillips and see Brian or Paul and test drive the new Alero.

BY MICHAEL RYBKA CHELSEA STANDARD

A bust of Beethoven may add a classy touch to a study. An old gas pump might well do the same for a rec room.

This may not become obvious until you've visited Yesterday's Collection, 5899 Jackson Road in Scio Township.

Gas pumps are just one of the products that proprietors Howard and Norma Weaver carry to evoke memories of the past. There also are Coca-Cola paraphernalia, jukeboxes, diecast cars of by-gone models and the largest historic automotive book selection in the state.

907 Dexter St., Milan Hours: Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. When you find yourself admiring something as work-a-day as an old gas pump, it is hard to determine where nostalgia leaves off and genuine aesthetic appeal begins.

certainly that green dinosaur that served as Sinclair's logo was easier to remember than whatever Clark stations have today. Cities Service was more of a consumerfriendly name than the coldly corporate Citgo into which it evolved.

Texaco didn't bother with dreary adjectives like "super" to promote its product. Instead, it called its regular gas "Fire Chief" and its premium gas "Sky Chief." They even had different decals of firemen hats on the pumps to make it clearer.

These are the type of halfremembered images that slip momentarily back into focus when you visit Yesterday's Collection.

Like those glass globes on top of the pumps that served no useful purpose other than looking cool. Nowadays, however, it is what makes an old pump very, very expensive to own.

"A good glass globe is more valuable than the pump in a lot of cases," said Howard Weaver. "In fact, we're forced to put a lot of reproductions on original pumps because the originals are becoming too expensive."

Fully restored original pumps are in the $6,000 - $8,000 range but they can go as high as $15,000.

WEAVER DOESN'T even have to go out and search for these pillars of the past. Many are brought to him fully restored by Bob Lee of Dearborn Heights who has produced many coffee-table books on the topic which are sold at Yesterday's Collection.

Others individuals bring pumps in that are in poor shape. Weaver pays approximately $1,250 for these and spends that amount or more to have his on-call artisan restore it. It then retails for $6,000 to $8,000.

"We could probably buy them cheaper if we went out on our own to look for them," said Weaver. "We just never seem to get around to it."

There is another reason for the lack of motivation. The gas pumps were an unintended sideline that take up a lot of space.

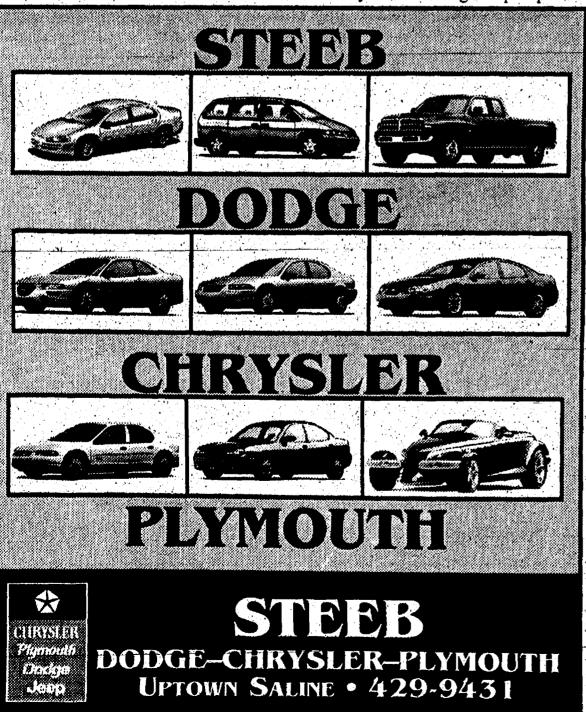

THE WEAVERS' showrooms, which include a 1950s-style ice cream parlor that Norma oversees, cover 8,000 square feet. When they first opened, said Weaver, it was difficult to fill up the space. Now there isn't enough room. The problem was caused by "collector's fever."

Weaver has to deal with about 200 distributors in order to keep Yesterday's Collection stocked—12 suppliers just for the die-cast models.

They generally run between $20-$40 but there are others that are close to $3,000.

Weaver's "real job" is owneroperator of H & H Distributing Inc., located behind Yesterday's Collection, which deals in pet supplies.

"I enjoy the pet-supply business," said Weaver, "but something different is always enjoyable. Some places you have to rule with an iron fist. Here, we just lay back."

Dealership has deep roots in Chelsea

BY BRIAN HAMILTON & KATHY CLARK CHELSEA STANDARD

The fact that Palmer Family Ford-Mercury in Chelsea is the oldest Ford dealership in Michigan is a source of pride for the Palmer fam-

Nevertheless, owners Biff and Suzie (Palmer) Weber don't take that long-term success for granted and are constantly looking for better ways to serve their customers.

With numerous Ford dealerships within easy driving distance, Biff Weber says, "We just have to treat people a little better," than other dealerships.

"A lot of people like to come to a small town and feel they are being treated as individuals and not just as another person," Weber says.

"One of the current catch words in the business is relationship marketing," he adds. "But we've been doing that for a long time. We have to, or we would die. George (Palmer, Biff's father-in-law) was a fanatic about working hard to keep our loyal customers."

WITH THE advent of conglomerates like AutoNation trying to buy up dealerships all over the country; this kind of marketing is becoming even more important to small dealerships, according to Weber.

George Palmer sold the business almost a year ago to Biff and Suzie, although he still goes to work every

"George is a builder," Weber says. "He's always thinking about what we want to be doing two or three years from now. He's one of the best students of the business I've ever seen."

George Palmer started working for his dad, Leigh, in 1941, as a janitor. He also changed tires.

"The biggest job I had was to watch the shop while the only other employees, dad and Earl Schanz, went to lunch," George recalls.

Leigh Palmer started the dealership in 1910, originally selling a Regal automobile. He was a civil engineer and was instrumental in laying out some of the streets in the Village of Chelsea. He was also an engineer for the Windsor tunnel.

The dealership had the first gas. pump in Chelsea in 1910.

IN 1911, the business moved from a barn off Park Street to its present downtown location at 222 S. Main St. In 1912 the Ford franchise was awarded. A two-story service area was added to the back in 1918.

Leigh Palmer and his one employee started selling about 100 cars a year in the early years, with sales dominated by the Model T. The Model T initially sold for $850 but by 1925 the price dropped to $260.

putting the vehicle within reach of the average family.

Palmer Ford opened in 1910.

The dealership sold Studebakers and Dodges from 1915-17 and a Fordson tractor until 1927. Lincoln was added to the line in 1929 and Mercury was added in 1938. In 1942, Leigh Palmer began selling Fords exclusively.

The current showroom was built in 1948. George Palmer took over the management of the dealership in

Today the dealership has 13 newcar sales people among about 70 employees and a $6 million inventory. The sales force has doubled in size since 1986, when Biff Weber arrived on the scene. The service department also has 13 highly-skilled employees, who all go through extensive train-

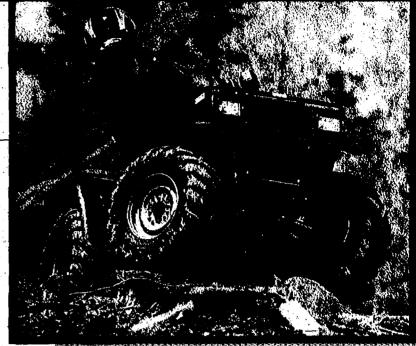

Sales are now dominated by mini vans, sports utility vehicles and pickup trucks. The dealership also has three separate lots in town, including the truck and used car lots just outside of the downtown area on Main Street. The dealership sells about 1,600 new and used vehicles per year. Vehicle leasing, which few would have predicted in Leigh Palmer's time, represents about 45-50 percent of the business.

Palmer Family Ford-Mercury markets extensively throughout the Ann Arbor area, but even has customers from Indiana and Kentucky. "The feeling used to be, why would anyone come to Chelsea?" Weber says. "But people are starting to realize that we're only about 10 minutes away. We've got to give a lot of credit to The Purple Rose (theater) and the Common Grill for that." THE CHALLENGES now. Weber says, are to maintain the dealership's reputation for outstanding service, while becoming more efficient in what has become an extremely competitive business. It's all with the goal of keeping the business in downtown Chelsea for years to come, perhaps until the next generation is ready to take over.

Mechanic advises 'Read the manual'

BY MICHAEL RYBKA CHELSEA STANDARD

With business booming, Dan Hoffenbecker can feet secure in offering advice intended to diminish the need for his services.

Hoffenbecker is the owner and chief mechanic at Side Street Garage. 121 Buchanan St. in Chelsea.

Hoffenbecker said that more attention should be paid to the potential cost of routine maintenance and repairs—factors that should be considered in the overall cost of ownership. The more room there is a under, said Hoffenbecker, the easier it is to work on. Hoffenbecker cites sports utility vehicles as a mechanicfriendly example.

The simplest bit of advice Hoffenbecker can give is to read the owner's manual that usually sits ignored in the glove box from the day of purchase.

"And don't just read it," said Hoffenbecker, "Do what it says. I can't stress enough the importance of following what the manufacturer recommends."

THE OWNER'S manual usually includes two maintenance schedules—one for normal driving and one for severe service driving. It usually includes maintenance tips for driving on dusty roads, extreme temperature conditions and stop and go driving.

The manual also reminds drivers to have their cooling system flushed every two or three years to prevent corrosion and deposit build-up.

Hoffenbecker said that many major problems arise from neglecting smaller details such as a radiator

Hoffenbecker pointed to a car in his shop that refused to start.

"We first discover that it needs an ignition module. Replacing it gets only four of its six cylinders working. Then we discover that a coil is burned out. We replace the coil and then five of the six are working. Then we find a plug wire is shot. We replace that and in the process discover that the spark plugs haven't been changed in a hundred thousand miles. And that's where the whole problem started."

"My philosophy is—they don't want these cars on the road too long," said Hoffenbecker. "They'd rather sell you a new one. I don't think any of the manuals call for over maintenance."

Hoffenbecker said that many other companies are beginning to upgrade their maintenance schedules.

Hoffenbecker is not a big believer in quick-fix fluids and is dead-

Mechanic praises synthetic oil

"Certain additives, such as oil thickeners or ones with detergents, will cover up particular problems. I don't believe in Duralube or Slick 50 and I've a read a lot on both products."

THE ONE additive that Hoffenbecker recommends whole-heartedly is Tehran, a product of Chevron.

Tehran is a gasoline additive that cleans fuel injectors and dissolves belt deposits.

"I add it every time I change the oil," said Hoffenbecker. "It's not something you want to add every week and it states that on the bottle.

But it is one additive that genuinely has merit."

Hoffenbecker is also a strong advocate of synthetic oil. Besides it superiority over a conventional petroleum product, Hoffenbecker also believes that it can be economical. If you drive over 20,000 miles a year, said Hoffenbecker, it's cheaper to refill with an synthetic every 5,000 miles than with conventional every 3,000 miles.

THE SMARTEST route for the average person, said Hoffenbecker, is to buy a car that is two or three years old, exercise preventive maintenance, then sell it in three years before it becomes apiece of junk.

NOTHING

is more frustrating and costly than a stalled car. Belts and hoses rarely show signs of wear and can fail without warning.
