Leaf burning at issue in Dexter Township

Dexter Township has not reached an agreement with homeowners near Stofer Road about leaf burning.

Township Supervisor Robert Tetens appointed a group of residents to resolve the disagreement between the township and residents of Forest Court.

There was concern over the proposed solution, which would charge $5 per house for leaf pickup. Tetens suggested a neighborhood association, but the homeowners balked.

Now township officials are considering a special assessment to pay for fire calls to the area. Officials stress that such an assessment would be a last resort.

Voters decide zoning issue in February

Dexter Township voters will be able to vote on a disputed zoning ordinance on Feb. 22, the date of the Republican Presidential Primary.

At issue is an ordinance intended to preserve open spaces. It would restrict developments to at least five acres on main roads, and at least two acres on other roads.

Township officials say the measure is meant to limit the number of houses built on a main road.

Trick-or-Treat to be held Halloween

The Chelsea Kiwanis moved the date of the sanctioned Halloween celebration to Sunday, Oct. 31, Halloween proper.

Trick-or-treating will run from 4 to 6 p.m., followed by a party in the municipal parking lot, from 6 to 7 p.m. The party will include refreshments and a best-costume contest.

CCDA sets annual Autumn Jubilee

The Chelsea Center for the Development of the Arts will hold its annual fund-raising event, the Autumn Jubilee, on Saturday, Oct. 16.

Proceeds from the fundraiser, which includes a silent auction for artistic works, will allow the CCDA to continue to offer a variety of classes in visual and performing arts.

Fire millage fails, library gets mixed message

Election draws township voters for funding requests.

By Jim Silver
Staff Writer

By the end of the night of Tuesday, Oct. 5, the election night vigil was winding down at the McKune House library building. The library board faced not just the prospect of cleaning up after the guests had gone home, but what to do with an increased budget but no building bond on which to spend it.

The Chelsea Area Fire Authority was also faced with a funding issue. In this case, however, it was a matter of how to increase funding.

The fire authority millage would have replaced the existing funding measure, which takes not quite 1 mill out of the village general fund, and assess 1.25 mills in all the areas covered by the authority.

The passage of the library millage means that the library board has been given an increased budget, but have yet to determine where to spend it.

"Any further bond issues will be determined by the library board. We have to think about what the voters said (with this vote)," said Chelsea Library Board President Lynn Fox.

Library Director Metta Lansdale said, "In the next few months, the Chelsea District Library Board will develop a plan for a budget looking at what services can be expanded in the near future, and will begin to assess its options for providing public library service in an accessible facility."

The millage will finance an operating fund of $908,000 a year, collected from the village and Lyndon and Sylvan townships, and the areas in Dexter and Lima townships not included in the Dexter Library District. The building bond millage would have allowed the library to collect from the same areas money to finance a bond of up to $6.29 million.

Lansdale said of the millage passage, "The village of Chelsea had been funding the library, but the greatest population growth has been in surrounding townships that are not taxed for library service."

"With the adoption of the library millage," Lansdale continued, "the district library is adopted for (the entire) Chelsea area."

Fire Authority Chief Dan Ellenwood said he was disappointed by the failure of the fire authority millage.

Another fire authority representative said that, in the end, the results may end with village taxpayers having the increased tax levied against them despite the election results, as all townships but Sylvan voted for the authority assessment.

The final results for the townships show a sharp division of interests. The total number of votes cast on the millage issue was 1,798, with 912, or 50.7 percent, supporting a 1.75 library millage.

Total votes cast on the library bond issue were 1,736, with 943, or 54.3 percent, voting against.

Dexter Township reported a total of 193 votes cast in two districts. Of those votes, 58.6 percent voted in favor of the library operating millage, and 54.5 percent voted in favor of the library building bond.

In Lyndon Township, 303 votes were cast, of which 55.4 percent voted in favor of the library millage. The building bond garnered an almost 50-50 split, with 152 votes in favor of assessing a millage to finance the bond, and 151 votes against.

A library representative on site for the vote tallying said she had watched election workers count the ballots several times, with the same result every time, and did not contest the result.

In Lima Township, however, both library millages were voted down: 347 votes were cast on the library millage issue, 170 for the millage and 177 against. On the bond issue, 344 votes were cast, 52.6 percent against adoption.

Sylvan Township was in many ways the influential vote in all of the millages. While Precinct 1 voted 50.8 percent against the library millage, and 52.4 percent against the bond issue, Precinct 2 voted 57.4 percent against the bond issue.

The Sylvan Precinct 2 vote, along with the Lima vote, seemed to be the most detrimental to the passage of the bond issue. Forty-five percent of votes cast against the bond issue came from those two areas.

A similar result occurred in the fire authority millage. The total vote from the townships was 1,634 votes cast, with 912 of them, or 50.4 percent, voting against. This left a margin of 15 votes deciding the millage.

Once again, while Lima, Lyndon and Waterloo townships voted in favor of the fire authority, Precinct 2 of Sylvan Township cast a deciding vote, with 280 of 421 total votes, or 61.7 percent, tallying against the fire authority. While the millage also failed in Precinct 1 of Sylvan, it was only by a percentage of 51.7 percent of the 528 votes cast.

The results in other townships were: 185 votes out of 303 total, or 61.1 percent, in favor of the fire authority in Lyndon Township; 196 votes for, and 186 votes against, in Lima, with 51.3 percent support for the fire authority; and 100 votes for the millage and 75 against in Waterloo Township, with 57.1 percent.

Township planners nix gas station plan

Developer could take his case to the ZBA.

By Michelle Rogers
Associate Editor

Dexter Township Planning Commission denied a request last week from a developer looking to build a gas station, convenience store, fast-food restaurant and carwash on the southwest corner of North Territorial and Dexter-Pinckney roads.

The planning commission cited seven reasons why it denied the proposal. Among the points raised were that the proposed development is too intense and is not in keeping with the township's rural character. Other reasons included traffic safety issues and environmental concerns regarding possible groundwater contamination.

The proposal has been controversial and has attracted the attention of amateur astronomers, environmental activists and residents living near the proposed site.

In the weeks leading up to the meeting, planning commission Chairman John Gillespie said the township received 305 response cards from people against the development and 10 in favor. This is in addition to numerous letters over the months.

"You can see from the sheer numbers there is a lot of interest in the township," Gillespie said during the Sept. 28 commission meeting.

Besides letters, the commission has received information and reports from residents concerned about traffic congestion and the development's effect on residential wells.

A trip generation report produced by the Urban Area Transportation Authority shows multi-use projects like Salamey's generate two to three times more traffic than a small retail store or office.

Robert Tetens, director of UATS and the township's supervisor, said the development wouldn't necessarily generate more traffic on the road, but vehicles will be pulling in and out of the site, which could add to traffic congestion at the intersection.

While amateur astronomers have voiced concerns about light pollution with the development so close to the Peach Mountain Observatory, environmentalists have asked about sensitive soils.

Paul Seelbach, a research specialist with the Department of Natural Resources and a University of Michigan professor, provided information to the township about the hydrogeology of the area. He said there is good reason for concern.

"The area in question appears to be exceptionally sensitive to groundwater pollution," Seelbach said in a letter. "Highly permeable outwash sands make the shallow water table quite accessible. And rapid groundwater flows to the Huron River make the probability of polluting the river quite high."

The commission's decision to deny Salamey's conditional-use application and preliminary site plan pleased an audience of more than three dozen people last week.

But this may not be the end of the controversy Salamey could turn to the Zoning Board of Appeals for relief. However, he did not make the deadline for

Chelsea MEAP scores far exceed state average

By Dirk Fischbach
Editor

Students in both the Dexter and Chelsea school districts continue to perform well above state averages on testing conducted under the Michigan Education Assessment Program. Results released this week show that the two school systems also do well when compared to other area districts.

"Overall I'm pleased with the results," said Dave Messner, principal at Dexter High School. "We had 90 percent of our students earn a level one, two, or three endorsement for the second year in a row."

His counterpart at Chelsea, Ron Mead, noted that despite the criticism the tests receive, he feels the results are a useful barometer of curriculum effectiveness.

"We use the results to revamp our curriculum," he said, pointing to mathematics as one area that had undergone significant revision in recent years. "We feel the tests are appropriate and that they are testing what we are trying to teach."

The tests are administered to students in the spring semester of their junior year, and are necessary to earn a state

Pierce Lake holds Open House

Parents of students at Pierce Lake Elementary School got a first-hand view of the classroom experience and also had the opportunity to learn about upcoming PTO-sponsored programs at a Sept. 30 open house.

An estimated 200 parents and children wandered the halls, stopping in the students' classrooms to see the projects and materials that are a part of the daily learning adventure.

Faculty members were on hand to meet with parents, and the PTO had an informational area set up in the cafeteria where parents could learn about upcoming events.

endorsement of their diploma. In addition, students that earn a level one or level two endorsement in all four areas measured - mathematics, reading, science and writing - qualify for a new $2,500 state-sponsored merit award scholarship.

Dexter had 88 students qualify for the scholarship while Chelsea had 84.

While the state endorses diplomas of students in levels one through three, many educators, like Mead, believe that districts need to focus on getting more students into levels one and two.

"A level one or level two endorsement means that you've met or exceeded what's expected," Mead notes. "Levels three and four are not satisfactory performance in my opinion."

The state, which previously had only endorsed performance at what are now levels one and two, uses the following designations:

Level one: Endorsed, exceeded Michigan standards; Level two: Endorsed, met Michigan standards; Level three: Endorsed, at basic level; Level four, not endorsed.

the Oct. 12 ZBA meeting, said DeNette Bolyard, office manager at township hall.

Another option for the developer is to return to the planning commission with a scaled-back version of the plan.

Salamey did not return telephone calls Monday seeking comment.

This is the second time the commission has denied Salamey's proposal, which has been around for the last year. At past meetings, the commission has discussed eliminating the carwash component and approving a modified plan. Commissioner Coy Vaughn said last week, however, that according to township rules, the commission must act on the plan as presented.

Understanding The Law

with Leonard K. Kitchen, J.D. and Thomas L. Stringer, J.D.

WHOM DO YOU TRUST?

If you have suffered injury due to the negligence of another, a claims representative from the insurance company representing the other party in the accident will likely contact you. It is then also likely that the claims representative will suggest settling the matter quickly with a monetary offering. Should you politely listen to the offer? Yes. Should you accept it? No. Bear in mind that the claims representative is motivated by profit to resolve the matter as cost-effectively as possible. Conversely, the lawyer whom you choose to represent you in the matter has your best interest in mind. By allowing an attorney to be your legal representative, you stand the best chance of gaining fair restitution after your injury.

Sympathy and courtesy cost an insurance representative nothing but effort, but they can be very expensive for those who succumb to their suggestion to settle immediately. The costs include: unpaid medical bills, pain and injury that cannot be treated due to lack of funds, the resulting loss of work time and income, and inadequate replacement compensation for damaged property. Learn your rights and legal options first; call the LAW OFFICES OF KITCHEN & STRINGER, J.D., located in Dexter, at 3249 Broad St., at 426-4695 to schedule a free initial consultation.

HINT: It usually costs nothing nothing for an accident victim to engage a lawyer in an initial consultation during which the legal points of the case are discussed.

Changes in store for Dexter Township

Township to expand office hours beginning Oct. 1.

By Tran Longmoore

As Dexter Township has experienced the demands of growth over the years, so too has the township's administration. So the Dexter Township Board has decided to make some changes.

Beginning Oct. 4, the township operations, located at 6880 Dexter-Pinckney Road, will open at 8:30 a.m. and close at 4:30 p.m. Currently, the offices operate between 8 a.m. and 1 p.m.

And the long-awaited addition to the township hall is inching closer to reality.

Office manager DeNette Bolyard has worked for the township for more than four years. In that time she's seen an immense increase in demand for services, especially for zoning matters.

"This will help the residents," Bolyard said. "They won't have to take as much time out of their day to get these things done."

Meanwhile, the board was to have met with an Ann Arbor-based architect before its Sept. 21 meeting, but the architect failed to show up. Still, the board studied preliminary drawings of the addition, planned for the back of the current structure, and will recommend changes.

The addition, which the board has estimated at $350,000, will house five or six offices and boast a larger service area. Currently, all of the township's operations run out of a cramped basement in a township hall that was erected in 1970.

Township Supervisor Robert Tetens said the board hopes to have a facility that will serve the residents for the next 30 years. And the new space will make it easier for him to do his job.

"I've got a filing cabinet at home that I'd like to have in my office, but there's just no room for it," he said.

CORRECTIONS

In the story on the Sept. 27 Chelsea Village Council meeting, it was incorrectly stated that the Oct. 5 millage vote would affect a library purchase of property occupied by the Staffan-Mitchell funeral home. While the library bond millage would allow bond money to be used to purchase property for expansion, the Mitchell property is to be bought by the DDA, but could be donated to the library if the building bond were to pass.

In the same story, a library task force member's name was incorrectly given as "Nancy Hodder." Her name is Daphne Hodder.

After The Chelsea Standard went to press last week, the Kiwanis Club announced that the date of the sanctioned Halloween activities was not Oct. 30, as previously announced, but Halloween itself, Oct. 31. A more detailed announcement appears in this week's News Briefs, page 1A.

IS YOUR CAT SICK?

Dr. James Clarkson, D.V.M.

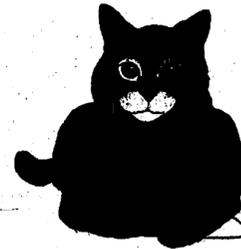

Many early signs of cat illness go unnoticed because of the stoic nature of cats. If your cat shows one of the following symptoms you should schedule an appointment with your veterinarian. By seeking early treatment, you can extend the life of your favorite companion.

1. Lethargic behavior
2. Vomiting
3. Increase or decrease in food consumption
4. Unexplained weight loss
5. Difficulty urinating
6. Changes in grooming behavior

7. Bad breath

State gives repeat offenders the boot

Secretary of State Candice S. Miller announced today that drivers who repeatedly drive drunk or on a suspended or revoked license will start "getting the boot" Oct. 1, when a series of tough new laws designed to eliminate access to vehicles takes effect.

Secretary Miller made the announcement at the kickoff of the "Give 'em the boot" public service campaign which is designed to alert motorists to the new law through television and radio public service announcements, posters and brochures.

In addition to the public service program, the secretary of state has sent letters and brochures to more than 100,000 motorists, alerting them that they could be directly affected by the new laws.

"Time and again we have seen innocent, law abiding citizens seriously injured or killed by drivers who chose to drive drunk or operate a vehicle on a suspended or revoked license," Secretary Miller said. "These laws are designed to separate those drivers from their vehicles and represent a significant change in our approach to repeat offenders."

Under the new laws, a repeat offender's access to vehicles will be severely limited. Beginning Oct. 1, they could face metal license plate confiscation, vehicle immobilization, and ignition interlock requirements following a driver license revocation.

Substance abuse treatment will be mandatory for drivers convicted of a second or subsequent alcohol-related offense and all licensing sanctions, a function that has routinely been handled by district courts, will now be imposed by the secretary of state.

Also, beginning next summer, repeat offenders and anyone who co-owns a vehicle with a repeat offender, may face registration and title denial at the secretary of state's office.

A critical element of the new laws will take effect in June, 2000, when the secretary of State will be prohibited from issuing license plates and titles to repeat offenders.

"In reviewing ways to keep the worst drivers from getting behind the wheel, it was imperative that we prohibit repeat offenders from registering their vehicle," Secretary Miller said. "Not only will repeat offenders be prohibited from buying license plates so, too, will anyone who co-owns a vehicle with a repeat offender. "These laws place some responsibility on co-owners of vehicles and people who lend their vehicle to friends and neighbors," Secretary Miller said.

In addition to denying access to a vehicle, the repeat offender laws establish several new crimes including driving while license suspended causing serious injury, driving while license suspended causing death, allowing another person to drive while suspended causing serious injury, allowing another person to drive while suspended causing death, and endangerment for driving while drunk with a person under age 16 in the vehicle.

Drunk Driving

In addition to the usual penalties such as court fines, community service requirements and driver license suspensions, drunk drivers face the following:

- First drunk driving conviction: Possible vehicle immobilization for up to six months.
- Second drunk driving arrest: Mandatory metal license plate confiscation; paper plate issued.

Second drunk driving conviction: Mandatory vehicle immobilization for three to six months; possible vehicle forfeiture; mandatory substance abuse treatment.

- Third drunk driving arrest: Mandatory metal license plate confiscation; paper plate issued.
- Third drunk driving conviction: Mandatory vehicle immobilization one to three years; possible vehicle forfeiture; mandatory substance abuse treatment; registration denial (beginning June 2000).

Driving While License Suspended/Revoked

- Second DWLS conviction: Possible vehicle immobilization up to 180 days.
- Third/Fourth DWLS ticket: Mandatory metal license plate confiscation.

Third/Fourth DWLS conviction: Mandatory vehicle immobilization for three to six months.

- Fourth DWLS conviction: Registration denial (beginning June 2000).
- Fifth DWLS ticket: Mandatory metal license plate confiscation.

Fifth DWLS conviction: Mandatory vehicle immobilization for one to three years; registration denial (beginning June 2000).

Uniform Licensing Sanctions

Courts will no longer suspend or revoke your license. The secretary of state will order all license restrictions, suspensions and revocations.

Any combination of two substance abuse convictions — including One Zero Tolerance offense — will result in a one-year misdemeanor and license revocation.

Any combination of three substance abuse convictions — including One Zero Tolerance offense — will result in a felony conviction and a license revocation.

Any driver who is allowed to have a driver license after being revoked for drunk driving, will be required to have an ignition interlock on their vehicle for a minimum of one year. The cost of the ignition interlock will be the driver's responsibility.

Most appeals to circuit court are further restricted.

New Crimes

The repeat offender laws establish the following new crimes:

- Driving while license suspended causing injury: five-year felony
- Driving while license suspending causing death: 15-year felony

- Allowing another person to drive while suspended causing serious injury or death: two- and five-year felonies, respectively.
- Endangerment: A person convicted of driving while impaired, under the influence or Zero Tolerance, with children under age 16 in the vehicle, will be guilty of endangerment.

Glossary

Plate Confiscation: At time of arrest, officers will confiscate the vehicle metal plates, regardless of ownership, destroy them and issue a paper plate that is valid until the case is decided.

Immobilization: Immobilization of the offending vehicle will be court ordered. Drivers must have immobilization devices installed on the offending vehicle — regardless of co-ownership or lease agreements — at their expense and show proof of this to the court. Technologies include: ignition interlock, steering column club, wheel boot or driver tether.

Forfeiture: The court will order the vehicle sold. Money from the sale will be distributed as defined by statute, first to pay secured interests and then to others.

Registration Denial: The driver cannot buy license plates for any vehicle in which they have ownership interest until they are relicensed.

Mandatory Substance Abuse Treatment: May include inpatient care, counseling, or other forms of treatment. Offenders must pay for this program.

Ignition Interlock: A device that prevents the vehicle from starting until the person passes a breath test. If the driver has any bodily alcohol content, the vehicle will not start. Random tests are required while operating the vehicle. Cost of ignition interlocks are the responsibility of the offender.

WHAT DOES THE BIBLE SAY ON... JESUS?

Jesus has been depicted in many ways in the society that we live. There has been debates that Jesus was merely a historical figure or a religious prophet who was knowledgeable, but the truth is somewhat different. He is said to be 3 characters in the Bible, and that He directs us through His Divine Word.

1. HEAD-(Matt 11:28; Rev 3:20). Jesus is the head of the church. This means that there can be no other controlling factor as head in the church, neither in heaven or on earth.
2. KING-(Jn 18:36-37; 1 Tim 6:15). He reigns over all and all things in the physical or spiritual realm. He will continue to reign over all things until He comes again (1 Cor 15:20-28)
3. PRIEST-(Hb 4:14-16; 8:1-6). Jesus is our high priest who is seated at the right hand of God in heaven. He makes intercession for all Christians.

The Jesus that we see in our lives is different from the perception of the world. Get to know Jesus and try to understand what His will is for you.

CRIH clinic adds new doc

The Center for Rheumatology and Integrated Health (CRIH) has appointed Dr. David K. Vallance to medical director.

CRIH is a new, one-of-a-kind facility, offering an integrative approach for patients, with osteoarthritis, rheumatoid arthritis, lupus, fibromyalgia and chronic fatigue syndrome.

Dr. Vallance graduated from medical school and completed his internal medical residency and rheumatology fellowship at the University of Michigan. From 1995-1999, he was a clinical assistant professor of internal medicine at the University of Michigan and a staff physician at Chelsea Community Hospital.

The Center for Rheumatology and Integrated Health is located at 4816 Jackson Road, Suite A, in the Jackson Square complex, a half mile east of Zeeb Road, in Ann Arbor.

Call Jim Patrick at 734-623-0100 for more information.

Builders set home tour

The Remodelers Home Tour will mark its 10th anniversary Oct. 15-17. The event is presented by the Washtenaw Remodelers Council of the Home Builders Association of Washtenaw County.

This year, the tour offers nine homes featuring a variety of projects in the Ann Arbor area and Chelsea. Master suite additions, kitchen remodels, great room renovations and a 100-year-old barn turned into a beautiful home, are the highlights of the anniversary tour.

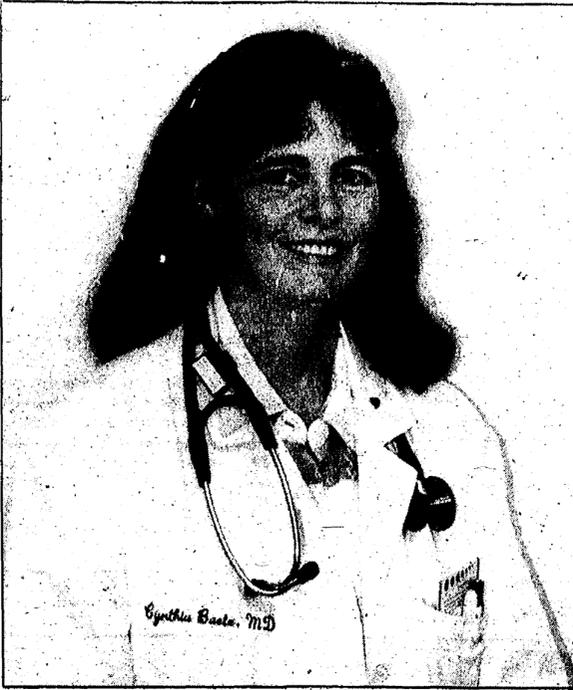

Homes are available for viewing on Friday, Oct. 15, from 2 p.m. - 8 p.m., Saturday, Oct. 16 and Sunday, Oct. 17, from noon - 6 p.m.

Tickets for the Home Tour are $6 for adults. Children 16 and under are free. Tickets may be purchased at each home during the tour and may be used for all three days.

The Remodelers Home Tour is co-sponsored by Fingerle Lumber Co., Great Lakes Bank and Builder's Plumbing Supply. Tickets are available in advance at the Home Builders Association Office, 179 Little Lake Drive, Ann Arbor.

For additional information call 734-996-0100.

New Doc on the Block

Cynthia Baetz joins Drs. Michael Smith, Jerry Waldyke and Dr. Benjamin Dorotinsky at Chelsea Family Physicians. As a lifelong resident of Washtenaw County, Baetz felt it was important to work among people in her community. So she was excited to learn of a family practice opportunity in Chelsea. "I saw family practice as the only medical specialty that allows entire families to build a trusting relationship with their doctor," Baetz said.

Preserving History

Steve Leeman and Mary Lou Rigg donated a 1911 Chadwick's Map and Directory to the Chelsea District Library last week. The two are hoping to preserve and honor the history of their grandparents, longtime area residents Dahue and Ethel Riker, with the presentation, which will be on permanent display at the library. Pictured, left to right, are Leeman, Library Board member Dick Lee, Rigg and Library Director Metta Lansdale.

Best investment clubs have diversity

LORI Z. BAHNMÜLLER

YOUR MONEY MATTERS

Since I penned the last column on investment clubs, my neighbor has graduated from new member to secretary of her investment club. Apparently her club colleagues were impressed with her presentation on a budding software company and decided to invest further in their latest addition.

While your interest in investment clubs may not propel you to keep an elected position, membership alone can provide a great deal of excitement.

Last time we focused on defining investment clubs and weighing risks associated with membership. This week, with the assistance of Credit Union National Association's "Home & Family Finance" publication, we'll touch on membership selection and information sources worth considering.

How do groups select members?

The best clubs have a diversity of members. This gives the club a wide range of life experience and knowledge to draw on when making investment decisions.

"A club is a partnership," says Brad Carter, president of the Vandelay Investment Club based in Atlanta. "If there's any advice I'd give to people considering starting or joining a club, it's to make sure your partners are people you like and trust."

Generally, club members should share the same basic investment philosophy. Conflicts will arise if some members want to execute short-term trades and others believe in a buy-and-hold strategy.

Remember, you're in this for the long haul. Many clubs ask for a 20-year or longer commitment to achieve investment goals. Carter says Vandelay had a fair amount of turnover in the beginning, but that original members with only a passing interest have left.

Are there organizations that can help you get started?

NAIC is a nonprofit organization devoted to helping individuals and club members become successful, long-term investors. More than 37,000 clubs across the nation are NAIC's Web site is a perfect a year, and an additional $14 a member, clubs can join NAIC and access its products and services.

If you're thinking about starting an investment club, NAIC's Website is a perfect place to start. The site offers comprehensive information about organizing a club, as well as stock analysis tips, accounting software, and tax information.

Garden club workshop set

The Chelsea Evening Primrose Garden Club will be hosting a pressed flower workshop at the Chelsea Depot, Oct. 13, at 7 p.m.

Mary Pulick, the membership chairman for the Federated Garden Club of Michigan, will be the presenter. No supplies are necessary. However, you can bring your own pressed flowers if you wish. Guests are welcome.

For more information contact Jo Bach at 475-9534.

What are some winning strategies of profitable clubs?

High-profit clubs share certain fundamental investment strategies.

Experts say the seven bedrock principles are: practice dollar cost averaging — regularly investing fixed amounts at set times; buy growth stocks; diversify your investments; create study teams; invest in what you know; reinvest all earnings, dividends, and capital gains; set goals and evaluate performance; and invest for the long term.

Dollar cost averaging allows investors to buy fewer shares when prices are high and more shares when prices are low.

How are most clubs organized?

It's best to organize a club as a legal entity with its own taxpayer identification number and operating bylaws.

Most clubs are set up as legal partnerships and are required to make financial reports to the Internal Revenue Service.

Club officers are elected; the treasurer plays a key role and is responsible for producing financial reports, which can be time-consuming. If you're thinking about starting an investment club, NAIC's Web site is a perfect place to start.

New center helps bone cancer patients

Facing cancer is hard enough. But facing the fact that part of your cancer has broken loose and invaded your bones — once seen as a guarantee of an imminent and painful death — is even harder.

Now, patients at the University of Michigan Comprehensive Cancer Center have a new team of allies when confronting bone cancer that has spread, or metastasized, from their original tumors.

A group of physicians from many specialties has banded together to start an innovative Bone Metastases Clinic, allowing them to choose the best treatment for each individual from a range of new pain-alleviating and even life-saving options.

The cooperative approach — unique in the nation — gives patients a much better chance of surviving or living comfortably with their secondary cancer, says clinic head and Director of Orthopedic Oncology Dr. J. Sybil Biermann. Bone cancer no longer automatically carries the weight of a death sentence.

"There used to be a very limited number of treatments available for bone metastases — patients could either have surgery or they could have radiation, and there wasn't really much else," Biermann explains. "In the last few years, a number of medications and other therapies have been developed that can be used very effectively for bone metastasis. In fact, this has presented a fairly confusing array of alternatives for both patients and the physicians who manage their care."

So, Biermann and her colleagues decided to help metastatic bone cancer patients sort through the confusion by reviewing each case together and recommending which treatments to pursue, from surgery and chemotherapy to radiation and radioactive drugs. Patients can even elect to try brand-new treatments by participating in clinical trials offered at the clinic — including tests of treatments being developed at the U-M.

With an estimated 500,000 Americans living with bone metastases, and 190,000 more being diagnosed each year, the clinic's concept may become a model for hospitals nationwide.

Bone cancer arises when cancerous cells from the main tumor break off and travel through the bloodstream or lymphatic system. When they lodge in the bone, the cells can take root in the welcoming environment and begin to multiply.

As the new tumor, or lesion, grows, it can press on nearby nerves, causing pain and swelling. It also can weaken the bone, increasing the risk of fractures, and cause too much calcium to enter the bloodstream, a condition called hypercalcemia.

The American Cancer Society estimates that half of all cancer patients, except those with skin cancer, will develop metastatic bone cancer. Most common are metastases that spread to the bone from breast, prostate, lung and kidney cancers — with the spine, pelvis, hip and upper leg bones being the most likely sites.

"As cancer treatments become in general more effective, patients are living longer and longer with cancer," Biermann says. "It also means that a substantial part of the population actually has metastasis of the bone, and those patients are needing treatment as well."

The U-M clinic gives such patients easy access to a diverse range of specialists, all in one visit. For those who must rely on others to transport them to medical appointments, the "one-stop shopping" approach makes a world of difference.

Biermann also hopes the clinic will help clear up some of the popular ideas about metastatic bone cancer that have become untrue in recent years as medicine has advanced.

"A common misconception is that patients with bone metastasis are in the very terminal phases of their disease. While it's always a more serious situation when a cancer has spread from one place to another, with contemporary cancer treatments patients can be alive with metastasis for years or even decades," she explains.

"As for the idea that bone cancer means excruciating pain, crippling bone weakness or constant sedation, she adds, "With new treatments we can stabilize the bones, we can strengthen the bones, and we can allow patients to get out and do the things that they want to do with less pain and with more mobility."

Food safety laws to change

Michigan Department of Agriculture (MDA) Director Dan Wyant today described recommended changes to Michigan's food safety system that will dramatically revise and streamline food safety laws and state food safety regulatory programs.

The proposed Michigan Unified Food Law is the first major rewrite of Michigan's food laws in more than 30 years, and will be referred to the Legislature this fall.

"Since the 1960s, we have seen dramatic changes in the way food establishments conduct business as well as significant amounts of new research and technology concerning food safety," Wyant said. "These changes coupled with the move toward a National Integrated Food Safety System create a strong and immediate need for Michigan to revise and strengthen our entire food regulatory system."

"The Unified Food Law that we will recommend to the state Legislature strengthens food safety in Michigan by eliminating overlapping and conflicting provisions, adopting new technology in inspections and data management and allowing stronger penalties," Wyant said. "In addition, MDA will make information about its licensees more readily available to the public, and is requesting that a portion of industry fees be used for food safety education for Michigan residents."

A work group of 93 representatives of MDA, state and local public health agencies, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA), university researchers, and industry met regularly over the last two years. In the first year, the work group recommended that Michigan use the 1999 FDA Model Food Code as the basis for the Michigan's future food law.

In the second year, with input from consumers, it addressed more state-specified recommendations for both the law and the broader food regulatory programs. The proposed Unified Food Code supersedes at least 14 separate laws and regulations that currently regulate food safety in Michigan.

Highlights of the proposed Michigan Unified Food Law and associated regulatory updates include:

- a broader range of penalty options to enhance state enforcement programs, including new civil administrative penalties;
- more stringent standards for manager knowledge, manual contact with food, and temperatures at which food is held;

- a risk-based food inspection system that will allow inspections to be based on areas of highest risk and improve information sharing;

- improved consumer access to information via DMA's Web site and a centralized toll-free number for registering complaints and requesting inspection reports; and

- a new Consumer Food Safety Education Fund to be established with revenue from each food establishment license.

The Michigan Department of Agriculture is the official state agency charged with serving, promoting and protecting food, agriculture and economic interests of the people of the state of Michigan. MDA programs serve all sectors of agriculture, which is Michigan's second-largest industry.

Pinckney, was arrested on Ann Arbor Street near Baker Road, on Sept. 27. Grischy was stopped for speeding. Upon checking his name, the arresting officer found an outstanding warrant for a violation of the public health code.

Tonia L. Herrington, 25, of Jackson, was stopped on Oct. 1 for speeding, on Ann Arbor Street near Dan Hoey Road. The deputy found that Herrington was wanted on warrants for driving with a suspended license and open intoxicants in the vehicle.

Suspicious Fire

A sheriff's deputy responded to a report of a suspicious fire at the Wylie Middle School playground, 3060 Kensington St. A man at the scene reported that, while leaving the school, he spotted a smoke emanating from a pile of wood chips in the playground. He stomped out all the smoldering chips, and the small circle of underliner also burning.

The man stayed on scene to ensure the fire was extinguished. The witness had not seen any other people around. The deputy found no significant damage done.

Possession of Marijuana

Two Pinckney men, ages 19 and 20, were stopped in a car shortly after 1 a.m. on Oct. 1. A deputy followed the vehicle through downtown and stopped it for having an obstructed view.

The deputy noted that the suspects had bloodshot eyes and smelled of marijuana. The suspects also had a bottle of eyewash, rolling papers, and a marijuana stem.

One suspect responded to questions by saying he neither had nor had smoked any marijuana. Upon further questioning, the second suspect reached into the backseat and retrieved a bag of suspected marijuana. Further suspected marijuana was found in the first man's shoe.

Both suspects were released at the scene, pending authorization of a warrant and lab results.

Sylvan Township

Recovery of Stolen Property

Two deputies stopped a car eastbound on I-94 for speeding on Sept. 16. The driver, a 20-year-old Southfield man, did not have with him a license or identification, so he was placed in the backseat of the patrol car pending confirmation of his identity.

After he was released, a deputy found a stolen credit card hidden under the patrol car seat. The suspect, when stopped again, denied any knowledge of the card. At that time, the deputies got no response from the credit card company.

The representative of the company contacted the deputies on Sept. 22, advising that the card was reported stolen on Sept. 11. He further advised that the company would investigate the theft, and subsequent illegal activity. The owner was notified that the deputies were holding the card.

Webster Township

Larceny

A deputy was dispatched to the 9500 block of Scully Road on Sept. 30, on a report of larceny. The victim, a 32-year-old Whitmore Lake man, reported that a hunter's tree stand had been stolen from property he owned behind a house on Scully Road. The perpetrator had cut a chain securing the stand to a tree. The stand had no identifying marks.

Dexter Township

Warrant Arrest

Adriana C. Stan, 20, of Pinckney was arrested on Island Lake Road near Dexter Town Hall Road on a warrant Oct. 3. She was initially stopped for driving a vehicle with an improper license plate. A computer check, however, revealed she was wanted on an outstanding warrant for a traffic offense in Pittsfield Township. She posted bond in Chelsea and was released.

Field Fire

A field fire was reported in the Huron Metro Parks on Dexter-Pinckney Road near Wylie Road Sept. 27. A deputy on patrol noticed the fire with flames about two feet high and smoke billowing from the field. Dexter Area Fire Department was called and extinguished the blaze.

An area approximately 15 feet in diameter had a circle of coals in the center. Firefighters said it appeared as if someone had been burning brush in that location.

Scio Township

Stolen Vehicle

A 1997 Dodge Stratus was reported stolen from Jim Bradley Pontiac, 3500 Jackson Road, Sept. 27. A 29-year-old Ann Arbor man, an employee at the dealership, said he set the keys down on his desk while he helped another customer. When he returned, the keys and the vehicle were gone. Initially, the man said he thought another salesman had the keys, but no one at the dealership knew where the car was at.

The vehicle identification number and description were entered into the Law Enforcement Information Network. The car is valued at $15,000.

Breaking and Entering

Breaking and entering was reported at Rebus Planning, 4111 Jackson Road, Sept. 29. A 54-year-old Ann Arbor woman told police that she came into work and found the front door window broken out. Several desks had been rifled through, but nothing appeared to be missing. Damage totals $270. The incident occurred between 8 p.m. Sept. 28 and 4 a.m. Sept. 29.

"What is Mission Work?"

Dear Friends and Neighbors, This coming Sunday, October 10, we at Faith Lutheran Church celebrate our annual "Mission Festival." We will have a guest preacher, Pastor Richard Starr, who served for a number of years as a missionary in Brazil, and more recently has been involved in our work in India. We carry on mission work for only one reason: Because Jesus said, "Go into all the world and preach the good news to all creation. Whoever believes and is baptized will be saved, but whoever does not believe will be condemned." (Mark 16:15-16). The Bible makes it very clear that after death there is a heaven and there is a hell; and that the only way anyone in the world can enter heaven is through believing, specifically, that God sent His Son to be our Savior. The Bible says very plainly, "Salvation is found in no one else, for there is no other name under heaven given to men by which we must be saved" (Acts 4:12). The Lord has given His Church the responsibility of spreading the message of Jesus and His free gift of eternal life throughout the world. This is true mission work. This is different from social work, charity work, and the peace corps. When some churches speak about "mission work" they really mean social programs such as helping people build houses, dig wells, develop agricultural programs, and get medical and dental assistance. These undertakings are good, and may be done in hand with church mission work. But true mission work is done only when we bring people the Word of God and attempt to lead them from unbelief to saving faith in Jesus Christ. We would like to have you with us this Mission Festival Sunday. Our worship time is 10:00 a.m., as always, with Sunday School at 9:00. During the Sunday School period Pastor Starr will give a mission presentation to adults as well as children. Pastor Mark Porinsky reached through the window and tried to take a small cash register. The man said no money is kept in the register and nothing else was disturbed. Damage is estimated at $150. The incident occurred between 8 p.m. Sept. 28 and 4 a.m. Sept. 29.

Breaking and entering was reported at Auto Tech Center, 213 April Drive, Sept. 29. The owner, a 49-year-old Ann Arbor man, told police that someone broke the front glass door, entered the building and rifled through desk drawers. Nothing appeared to be missing, however. Damage is estimated at $150. The incident occurred between 8 p.m. Sept. 28 and 4 a.m. Sept. 29.

Breaking and entering was reported at Belton Hearing Aid Service, 4341 Jackson Road, Sept. 29. A 27-year-old Whitmore Lake man told police that someone smashed the front door of the business, entered and rifled through desk drawers and cabinets. Nothing appeared to be missing. A cash box kept in a desk was still intact. Damage is estimated at $250. The incident occurred between 5 p.m. Sept. 28 and 2 a.m. Sept. 29.

Breaking and entering was reported at Chenoweth Weight Loss, 4335 Jackson Road, Sept. 29. The owner, a 46-year-old Ann Arbor man, told police that someone smashed the front glass door of the business, entered and rifled through desk drawers and cabinets. Nothing appeared to be missing, however. Damage is estimated at $230. The incident occurred between 3 p.m. Sept. 28 and 2 a.m. Sept. 29.

Breaking and entering was reported at Bryan Computer, 4395 Jackson Road, Sept. 29. Deputies responded to an alarm at 2:10 a.m. When they arrived, deputies found the front door was smashed out but no entry was gained. Damage is estimated at $250.

A video camera caught an unknown subject smashing the door with what appeared to be a hammer. The suspect fled the scene when the alarm went off.

Vehicle Taken Without Permission
A 41-year-old man told police that his 15-year-old daughter took the family's rented 1999 Chevy Blazer without permission. The girl does not have a driver's license.

The man said his daughter has been a continuous problem for him and does not obey house rules. The man said he and his wife left for Chicago on Sept. 24. The woman watching their home called them and said the girl, who was supposed to be staying with a friend, had a party at the residence. The woman said she left a message for the girl and was coming over to confront her about the party. As the woman was en route, she saw the girl drive away in the Blazer, which was parked in the garage.

After the woman called the girl's parents, the girl's father said they returned home immediately and notified police. He located the girl in Dexter as she was filling up the Blazer's gas tank. The investigating officer was called and the girl was questioned. The girl told police that she had no intention of staying at a friend's home and that she had planned the party. She admitted to having about 30 people over and said they were under 21 and drinking alcohol.

The girl said when her parents' friend called the next morning she got "freaked out" and fled in the Blazer. She said she went shopping at the mall and then drove to a gas station in Dexter, where her parents found her. She put approximately 130 miles on the rented vehicle.

Reduce, reuse, recycle good to remember

JOHN HANSEN
STATE REPRESENTATIVE

AS THE DOME TURNS

This week's column is about garbage.

A big part of the job of a state representative is dealing with constituent concerns. Recently, constituents in the village of Dexter called my attention to the fact that even though they spend time sorting their recyclable trash and putting it in the proper yellow bags, they noted that all of these bags are simply thrown into the back of the same truck. This raised the question that perhaps all these items end up in a landfill somewhere, despite their best efforts.

I contacted our village manager, Jim Graham, and he contacted Mister Rubbish, the village's contracted trash collector, and was assured that all of our trash gets properly sorted and recycled.

Neither Graham nor myself had ever been to a modern materials recycling facility, so we invited ourselves to visit Mister Rubbish's facility, just north of Whitmore Lake. Last week we went out to see and smell for ourselves what happens to your garbage.

The operation can best be described as "gross," using both common meanings of the word.

The scale is gross, as in huge, when you look at the size of the facility.

Garbage pick up trucks come into the area one right after another. They back up and dump their load on a concrete floor in a large, partly-open shed, where five or six large front loaders push the waste around the room.

The operation is also gross in the other sense of the word, and you only need to remember what you threw away yesterday to know what I mean here.

Mister Rubbish does receive some "pure" loads of trash, such as corrugated cardboard or glass and cans from recycling stations. These items are easily fed into the proper machinery for crushing, stomping, baling, boxing and shipping.

The market for these recycled materials is variable and makes the whole process quite challenging. In the short term, it is probably cheaper to continue burying our garbage. But in the long run, it's clearly in our best interest to find new uses for these old materials, even if the cost of doing so exceeds the landfill cost.

With all the construction going on in our area, it's not surprising that Mister Rubbish takes in vast mountains of construction debris. The big Dumpsters from construction sites are emptied on the floor in the same building, and the contents are sorted by machine and by hand to remove items with any value. Lumber scraps and wooden shipping pallets are ground into mulch, dyed red or green, and sold back to you by your landscape supplier. Metal objects are also sent off to a new useful life.

The remaining residential trash is shoved onto a conveyor belt, where it is hand-sorted by real live human people. The yellow bags full of sorted items, for the most part, survive the trip in the packer truck and, in fact, do make it easier for the sorters. A yellow bag full of newspapers, will be pushed off the belt into the newspaper pile and will likely be 100 percent recycled. If you simply throw your newspapers in with the rest of your trash, they must be picked out by hand, and it's safe to say that the recovery rate is nowhere near 100 percent.

The bottom line here is that recycling works in Dexter and it makes sense, both environmentally and economically. But it only works when you do your part. It's important to use the yellow recycling bags that are available for free at the village office.

The village also has a recycling guide that you can get a copy of that provides you with specific information on how to sort. Basically, corrugated cardboard, box board, newspapers, glass, cans, milk jugs, office paper and magazines should be separated.

Household hazardous waste can be dropped off at the county's permanent collection site at the County Service Center on Hogback Road. It's recommended that you call (734) 972-4542, x2035, first to get the hours of operation. Several times a year, the county provides satellite collections as well.

The crew at Mister Rubbish would also like to make a special request that you double-bag your pet waste. Dog poop doesn't really belong in your trash can, but they know it's coming, and it doesn't make their job any easier. Also, your trash can is not the place to dispose of hazardous wastes, such as garden chemicals, shotgun shells and car batteries.

The whole process would run a little more smoothly if each time you threw something away, you could visualize adding it to the flow of items on the conveyor belt being hand-sorted at the other end.

The Three R's still apply here: Reduce, Re-use and Recycle. There is no place called "away." All of our trash ends up somewhere, and it stays there forever.

After witnessing the Chelsea band's behavior at Eastern Michigan University's Band Day Sept. 23, it's no wonder the band's nickname is "Pride of Chelsea."

I am very impressed that the band hung in there through the sun and heat, and for at least three full hours that I witnessed, unsupervised by any adult, and not one acted in a way that bothered or embarrassed me.

Store fragile plants to beat winter

M.S.U. EXTENSION SERVICE

GARDEN CORNER

Gladioli, dahlias, tuberous begonias, caladiums and cannas won't survive a Michigan winter in the ground. But they can grow and bloom again next year if you dig them in autumn and store them properly.

"These are 'tender' bulbs," says Mary McLellan, Master Gardener Program coordinator at Michigan State University. "Unlike daffodils, crocus, tulips and hyacinth bulbs, which not only can be left in the ground from year to year but actually require a cold period to bloom, glads and other tender bulbs can't survive the winter in the garden. All have to be dug and stored and replanted next year. And each requires somewhat different storage conditions."

Gladioli, or glads, grow from corms. Leave them in the ground until the foliage has dried but dig them before a hard freeze, McLellan advises.

Dig carefully to avoid bruising or injuring them. Shake off loose soil, cut the tops off one to two inches above the corms, and dry the corms in the sun for a day or two. Then dust with a general-purpose fungicide and cure on wooden flats or trays in an airy location with warm temperatures (80 to 85 degrees F) for two to three weeks.

After curing, remove the old corms from the bases of the new ones and discard the old ones. After two or three more days of warm temperatures, place the corms in paper boxes, open paper bags, mesh onion bags, cloth bags or wooden trays with screen bottoms. Stack or hang the containers so air can circulate freely around the corms. The storage area should be dry and cool, with temperatures around 40 degrees.

Dahlias and cannas grow from tuberous roots. Dig them after frost kills the tops of the plants. Cut the tops off at ground level and turn the roots upside-down to dry for a few hours. Then store them in cartons filled with dry sawdust, vermiculite or sphagnum moss. The storage area should be fairly dry and cool (temperatures in the 40s). Check stored roots occasionally. If they start to shrivel, sprinkle the packing material with water occasionally.

Lift tuberous begonia tubers after frost has injured the tops. Leave both soil and tops attached to the disk-shaped tubers and spread them out to dry in a warm, dark room for one to two weeks. Then break the tops off and shake off the soil. Store tubers in a dry area where temperatures range from 45 to 60 degrees. They should be packed in slightly moistened sawdust, sphagnum or vermiculite.

Caladiums are ready to dig when the leaves turn yellow. Store tubers with the soil attached in a dry area at temperatures ranging from 50 to 60 degrees.

Store the corms and tubers from only healthy-looking plants, McLellan advises, and check them occasionally during the winter. Discard any showing signs of decay, and moisten the packing material around any that look shriveled.

COMMUNITY

Thursday, October 7, 1999

The doctor will see you

Chelsea Community Hospital has opened a teen clinic at Internal Medicine Specialists on the hospital's campus. For now, it's open for limited hours every other Tuesday.

Chelsea hospital opens teen clinic

In the documentary "An American Love Story," recently broadcast on PBS, a mother and daughter visit an emergency room. The doctor asks who the young girl's doctor is. The mother replies that the daughter had been seeing her pediatrician.

The doctor replies, "Not anymore."

How old is too old for a pediatrician? How young is too young for a general practitioner?

Dr. Rebecca Patrias knows that these questions arise for many families with teenagers, sooner or later. This transition between pediatrician and general practitioner is one of the services provided by the Chelsea Teen Clinic, which Patrias helped start.

Every other Tuesday, teens can visit the clinic at Internal Medicine Specialists on the Chelsea Community Hospital campus. On their first visit, they are asked to fill out a questionnaire, asking them about common adolescent concerns.

If they are interested in a physical examination for sports, or treatment for a sports-related injury, they will also be asked to fill out an athletic-specific questionnaire.

They will then be able to talk to one of the staff members at the clinic, either Patrias, Dr. Rodney Dewyer, or a member of the nursing staff.

"We have good doctors at all ranges of practice in Chelsea," Patrias said. "This is meant to be very collegial, not competing with anyone else's practice."

However, the teen clinic operation is based on American Medical Association guidelines for adolescent-centered practice.

Patrias has some experience with young people. She started medical school specializing in pediatrics and internal medicine. She eventually chose to focus on internal medicine, but still wanted to work with teens.

In addition, she occasionally talks at the high school, teaches sex education at Emerson High School in Ann Arbor, and hopes to expand her interaction with area high schools.

In many respects, the teen clinic operates as any medical practice. Internal Medicine Specialists has about 1,000 teenage patients, who will lead the way for the clinic. Insurance operates the same way there as any other in the practice.

Patrias made it clear that money is not what matters for the clinic. "We would never make cost an issue," she said. "If there was a problem, we would work it out otherwise."

"Of course, we're not trying to start a Planned Parenthood in Chelsea. We're really no different from the UMRC — we're looking for the best way to serve our patients. And to do that for teens in today's world, (sexuality) has to be addressed."

The teen clinic targets adolescents through the concerns on which it focuses, such as sports-related injuries, adolescent reproductive issues.

Patrias said that the two core groups of patients the clinic sees are 15- to 18-year-olds with sports-related injuries, and 18- to 20-year-olds seeking college physicals.

The issue of reproductive health is, of course, a central focus for the clinic, as it is an increasing concern for teenagers.

"Of course, we're not trying to start a Planned Parenthood in Chelsea. We're really no different from the UMRC — we're looking for the best way to serve our patients," Patrias said. "And to do that for teens in today's world, (sexuality) has to be addressed."

Sexuality, however, can cover a range of issues. As young women develop sexually, there are a number of problems that can arise, and similar problems can plague young men.

The questionnaire that all teens fill out asks out at the clinic, for example, asks if they are concerned by a range of body image issues, including height, weight, and breast size for girls.

For sexually-active teens, there are different concerns.

"We try to teach preventive medicine and reproductive awareness (to teens)" Patrias said. "We stress abstinence, but our ultimate goal is the health of the patient."

So, clinic materials emphasize the potential consequences of sexual activity. Teens are counseled to make choices that will support a healthy lifestyle.

According to Patrias, some of this counseling leads to another major focus for the clinic, mental health issues.

"Mental health is as important to us as reproductive health," she said. So, Patrias, Dewyer, and the rest of the staff try to address mental health with all of their patients.

"We try just to talk with adolescents, make them feel comfortable with doctors," she said. Patrias feels one of the best ways to do this is to use humor, which she says teens do not expect from a doctor.

"There's a real sense of disconnection for teens," Patrias continued. "It's not just idleness or laziness, teens don't know how to find out where to go to get what they need."

So teen clinic staff try to provide support for all teen problems, and make referrals in the area. In addition, the clinic can provide some medication when necessary.

Sometime in the near future, Internal Medicine Specialists and the teen clinic will be capable of Internet conferencing. Patrias hopes to use the capability to get counseling for teens who need specialized care, psychiatric or medical.

However, she also stresses that the clinic would maintain confidentiality, but that the most critical cases

The teen clinic only opened in September, so Patrias feels that there is not much awareness of it yet. Right now, the clinic is only held every other Tuesday, from 3 to 5 p.m.

But, as more local teens become aware of the clinic, "we hope to move to every Tuesday in two-to-three months," Patrias said.

To make an appointment to see a doctor about adolescent health issues, or to find out more about the teen clinic, call 475-4003.

Ingrid Smart leaves labor relations for education

By Michelle Rogers

Associate Editor
Ingrid Smart grew up with the desire to teach. But a tight job market during the early 1970s pushed her into labor relations.

More than two decades later, however, Smart has realized her dream. She is now a teacher consultant with Chelsea schools, where she works closely with seventh-grade special education students at Beach Middle School.

Smart grew up in Dearborn knowing that some day she would go into teaching.

"I was pretending to be a teacher when I was a kid," she recalls. "I just always knew I wanted to be a teacher."

Smart majored in English and minored in history at the University of Michigan. She graduated in 1972 with a teaching certificate.

But because jobs in education were scarce, Smart went to work for Oakwood Hospital in Dearborn. There she worked for a decade in different capacities, culminating with the position of assistant director of personnel.

"Every time I thought I'd go into teaching they would promote me, so I put it off and put it off," Smart says. "It was a nice experience, but my first love is teaching."

Smart left the job at Oakwood in 1982 when her family moved from Dearborn to Saline, and she became a stay-at-home mom. While raising her three children, she went back to U-M and earned a master's degree in reading and learning disabilities in 1994.

"I had been out of school for a while, so I needed to know what was going on," is why Smart says she returned to school.

Professor Jean McPhail in the school of education made an impact on Smart.

"She not only taught me what the history of learning disabilities was but also how to address each individual student's needs and how to continue to reinvent my way of teaching," Smart says.

After earning her master's degree, Smart started substitute teaching. She ended up with a permanent assignment as a teacher consultant in Manchester's elementary and middle schools from December 1994 to June 1995.

The following year, she filled in at the high school as a teacher consultant. Smart was offered a part-time position at the middle school but turned it down. "I really needed to work full time, so I started (in Chelsea) in the fall of 1996," she says.

Smart provides individual instruction in English, geography, math and science to seventh-grade special education students. The students attend the regular classes but come to her for extra support in those subject areas.

"I present it in another way or go over it and make it a little easier to understand," she says.

In addition, Smart teaches math to seventh-grade special education students. They follow the same math curriculum as used in the other classes but Smart provides supplemental material to help them through it.

Teaching a variety of subject areas is fun for Smart. What she enjoys most is watching the "light come on" when students understand what she has taught them.

"I enjoy seeing the confusion clear and this sort of 'ah ha' on their face — no matter what the academic area," she said.

Smart describes her teaching style as strong on promoting organizational skills and working with others.

"I take my cues from the students," she says. "If they want to be more independent, I let them do it."

"I am very strong on organizational skills and I am very strong on teaching students to work with each other and work with other teachers, because those are skills that no matter if a student goes on to higher education or a profession, they will need to be organized and keep track of a variety of materials."

Students at Beach stay organized with academic planners, where they record their assignments.

"I make sure they know what the assignment is and that they've written it down and it's organized with the academics listed," Smart says.

It's in the middle school where Smart says she has found her niche.

"When I was in Manchester I had the opportunity to teach at all three levels," she says. "When I began my master's, I thought I wanted to become a reading teacher in the elementary."

"It was a surprise to me that I felt I had the most to offer middle-school-age students. I felt I was making the greatest impact — that the skills I could teach would be most effective at this age."

Smart says it's the kids' enthusiasm and sense of humor she enjoys the most.

"I really like this age level. They're just a really upbeat group of individuals to work with," she says. "We seem to laugh or just enjoy each other on a daily or hourly basis. I enjoy their sense of humor."

TEACHER FEATURE

The only hard rules in her classroom are that students must bring their planners and that they be polite to each other.

"Middle school students tend to be kind of rambunctious and say things in a rather brisk way. I try to help them understand how what they're saying is being perceived," Smart says.

What Smart finds unusual about Chelsea schools is that the students are all good kids.

"They're just a wonderful group of kids to work with," she says. "I can't imagine a better situation than what I have."

"I just love my job. The kids are what make the job as great as it is."

Smart says she hopes students see her as someone who cares about them as individuals.

"I hope they know that I am one of their biggest cheerleaders and an advocate for them learning," she says.

What Smart looks forward to in her career is continuing to improve the way she teaches and finding new ways to present information.

"I want to keep improving my teaching style, improve how I adapt curriculum and find new ways to present the curriculum so that I am meeting the needs of the students I am teaching," she says.

Smart does this by attending workshops through the Washtenaw Intermediate School District.

When Smart is not in the classroom she can be found enjoying her family's cabin on Hubbard Lake, near Alpena, boating or waterskiing. Smart also enjoys reading and she spends much of her time cheering for her daughters when they play soccer.

Smart, a widow, resides in Saline. She has two daughters, 18-year-old Britt and 14-year-old Kirsten.

Letters from the Road: Michigan to Texas

By Ryan Wagner and Dan Koengeter

Special Writers

Editor's Note: This is the first in a series of articles filed by Ryan and Dan as they make their way to South America on motorcycles. Anyone wishing to send them messages can reach them via e-mail at rwandan@hotmail.com. Those without e-mail can drop a message off at The Chelsea Standard office, and we will forward it for you.

All is well thus far. Our Hondas are still running and weather has been perfect.

We left Chelsea on Sept. 8, as expected, and headed for New Orleans, La. We took all secondary roads (including the Natchez Trace), so it was pretty slow going. However, it was much more interesting than highways, and of course you meet more people traveling through small towns.

We traveled through the states of Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana.

It took us four days and three nights to reach New Orleans.

The first night we stopped at a Baptist church in the small town of Modoc, Inc., where they appeared to be having a Wednesday night church service.

Dan and I walked up and asked for the pastor. We then asked if he could do us a favor and allow us to pitch a tent on the church grounds. He said that it would be no problem.

We then went in for the service and participated. Several people asked that the congregation pray for the safety of "the travelers."

The pastor ended up taking us back to his house where we just pitched our tent in his yard. It was kind of a neat experience for the first night on the road.

The second night we stayed at a fire station. The third night we stayed next to the road on The Natchez Trace.

We arrived in New Orleans without having to pay a cent for accommodations (which is our intent).

Our experience has been that people are more than happy to help you if you just ask... No problem!

We then stayed in New Orleans for seven days with my family.

From there we went to Austin, Texas (visiting Ben O'Connor — also a 1995 graduate of Chelsea High).

Approximate mileage so far is 1,800 miles in 18 days (since Sept. 8).

Saturday we leave for Laredo. Sunday we should arrive in Monterrey, Mexico. I guess that is where the real adventure begins.

However, we already have arrangements to stay with a family in Laredo and a family in Monterrey.

Dan Koengeter poses along a stretch of I-10 near Lafayette, La.

ESTATE TAX FACTS

Estate Tax rates at your death are expensive. Starting at 37%, the rates quickly reach 55% of your taxable estate.

Assets Taxable at Death	Exemptions by year
• Life Insurance	1999 $650,000
• TIAA-CREF, IRA'S, 401k	2000-2001 675,000
• Qualified Retirement Plans	2002-2003 700,000
• Investments	2004 850,000
• Bank Accounts	2005 950,000
• Business Interests	2006 1,000,000
• Real Estate
• Personal Property

The total of all assets exceeding the exemption are taxable. Using the marital deduction a spouse pays no estate tax but at the spouse's death all the assets are taxed.

Fortunately there are numerous ways to minimize or even eliminate the estate tax with proper planning. Using the proper type of estate plan, including the appropriate type of trust can not only take care of the estate tax problem, but avoid the time and expense of probate.

Home builders to help low income fund

The Home Builders Association of Washtenaw County announced at $15,000 pledge over the next three years to the Ann Arbor Area Local Initiative Support Corporation/Avalon Affordable Housing Fund. The fund provides dollars for the construction of affordable housing throughout the Ann Arbor area.

"The Home Builders Association is pleased to reinvest in our community by supporting this worthwhile program," says Maureen Sloan, executive director of the HBA of Washtenaw County. "Our long term commitment to this project will greatly assist in providing affordable housing and encouraging home ownership in Washtenaw County."

The Association contributed $5,000 in 1999 and will make additional $5,000 donations in 2000 and 2001.

The Home Builders Association of Washtenaw County, chartered in 1956, represents over 600 member firms and individuals who are committed to upholding the standards and professionalism within the home building industry.

Associated with the Michigan Association of Home Builders and the National Association of Home Builders, the association provides information and education to members and to the community, as well as a forum for sharing ideas.

As the voice of the building industry, the HBA strongly promotes home ownership, private property rights, and the free enterprise system.

Hand washing helps prevent colds

JOHN C. WOLF, D.O.

ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR OF FAMILY MEDICINE
OHIO UNIVERSITY COLLEGE OF OSTEOPATHIC MEDICINE

FAMILY MEDICINE

Question: I'm familiar with the general principles of getting plenty of rest, hand washing, eating fruits and vegetables, taking vitamin C and antioxidants for preventing the common cold. Can you give me additional information about colds? This would be particularly appreciated because my children and I seem to have them all winter long.

Answer: The common cold is certainly a significant health problem. Having a "cold" is the most frequent cause for missing days of work or school and, consequently, one of the most common reasons for seeing the doctor.

Besides making the sufferer miserable, it has consequences for our society. It results in great loss of work productivity - amounting to seven workdays per person per year. The degree of absenteeism due to colds among school children is even greater.

As you may know, the common cold is caused by a viral infection of the tissues lining the nose, throat and upper bronchial tree - collectively called the upper respiratory tract. Consequently, doctors often call a "cold" a URI, short for upper-respiratory infection. Doctors even occasionally apply the more obscure term "coryza" when obfuscation is the objective.

There are a number of specific types of viruses that cause colds and even a few bacteria that cause symptoms similar to URIs.

Fortunately, the human body has several defense mechanisms for dealing with these threats. The coughing and sneezing that accompany a URI are part of the defense plan. These expel infected mucus and keep it from blocking the respiratory passages.

There are other defenses in the immune system that are effective at limiting a cold to its characteristic nuisance symptoms for almost all of us, but it takes a little time for them to mount an effective attack against the germ enemy - typically five to seven days.

As you have noticed, having one cold doesn't give immunity against the next one.

With more than 110 distinct types of rhinovirus, it's nearly impossible to develop immunity to them all. Further, there are other viruses, in addition to the rhinovirus, that can cause the common cold.

With so many cold-producing viruses, it's not surprising that school-age children often have one cold after another and then bring them home to share with the family. This sounds like your household to me.

Medical researchers are looking for medicines that will prevent a cold or at least hasten recovery from one, but no such wondrous product has been found so far. Consequently, the best preventive measures include frequent hand washing, just as you mentioned.

This removes the infectious cold viruses you may have picked up on your hands. It is also important to avoid touching the nose, mouth and face, since these are the places where the cold virus gains entry into the body.

The use of vitamin C and the mineral zinc have been publicly acclaimed for their cold-fighting abilities. Despite the general enthusiasm of the public for these products, there is little scientific evidence that they help at all. Fortunately they are safe, so you can use them if you want to.

Adequate rest and low levels of emotional stress do reduce colds. This occurs because of the complex interrelationship between the emotions and the body's immune system. Understanding this concept is much easier than actually either eliminating the events that cause stress or changing our response to them.

So, I'd suggest that you keep a supply of Tylenol, decongestants and Kleenex on hand. Colds will be with us for the foreseeable future.

Connection between depression, silent stroke

Researchers have found a connection between depression and "silent stroke," a brain abnormality. In a study recently published in "Stroke: Journal of the American Heart Association," researchers say individuals who develop depression after age 50 should be evaluated for stroke.

A silent stroke occurs when small blood vessels in the brain become blocked or rupture. They are called silent strokes because they are not accompanied by the classic warning signs of stroke such as severe headaches, dizziness or loss of motor skills.

Individuals often don't realize they've had a stroke. Over time, these smaller blood vessels are unable to deliver blood or oxygen to the brain, and cells die. Eventually, an individual may develop problems with memory or concentration and may even have difficulty walking.

"Depression may indicate the presence of small blockages, called lesions, of the blood vessels in the brain that could provide a warning of a potential stroke before it happens," says the study's lead author, Dr. David C. Steffens, assistant professor of psychiatry at Duke University Medical Center in Durham, N.C.

Researchers say the findings suggest that individuals, especially those at risk for stroke, need to be carefully monitored for depression. Depression may indicate that a silent stroke has already occurred. Further work is needed to see if individuals with silent strokes are at risk to develop larger strokes and vascular dementia — a condition of memory loss and other cognitive problems that result from stroke.

Although earlier studies suggested a link between depression and brain injury, most of those were small. The Duke study examined more than 3,600 elderly individuals enrolled in the Cardiovascular Health Study, which recruited subjects from Medicare lists in four communities — Forsyth County, N.C.; Sacramento County, Calif.; Washington County, Md.; and Pittsburgh, Pa. The patients agreed to have magnetic resonance imaging (MRI) performed as part of the study. An MRI is a non-invasive imaging technique that allows physicians to view the brain.

Each subject also answered a questionnaire to measure depressive symptoms experienced in the previous week.

Silent strokes were diagnosed by examining lesions in the basal ganglia, also called the "subcortical gray matter." Located deep within the brain, the basal ganglia acts as a relay station between different parts of the brain by producing chemicals such as serotonin and norepinephrine. These regulate the area of the brain known as the cortex, where information is processed.

"These small lesions that we found deep in the brain may represent a kind of breakdown in the connection between the basal ganglia and the cortex," Steffens says.

The number of small lesions, less than three millimeters in diameter, in the basal ganglia was significantly associated with depressive symptoms. The lesions appear to be caused by small strokes.

The researchers divided the subjects into four groups based on their scores on the depression questionnaire. By comparing the least and the most depressed, they determined that having basal ganglia lesions increased the risk of reporting severe depression by 40 percent, he says.

"Depression is often overlooked in the elderly because its symptoms may differ from those seen in younger people," Steffens explains. "Their depression may be more characteristically marked by apathy, a loss of interest in their usual activities, instead of sadness. So, as a result, neither the patients, their families nor their physician, may recognize these characteristics as signs of clinical depression. Patients with risk factors for heart attack and stroke need to be closely monitored for the development of depression," Steffens says.

Co-authors include: Michael J. Helms, B.S.; Ranga Rama Krishnan, M.D.; and Gregory L. Burke, M.D.

Heart Disease is the number one killer in Michigan claiming 35,899 lives in 1998. Michigan's CVD Death Rate is the 12th worst in the country. Michigan minorities and females are at greatest risk for developing cardiovascular disease.

A CLOSER LOOK AT TIRES

By: Dianne Johnson (owner)

Treadwear, traction, and heat resistance are among the factors to consider when making an informed decision about replacement tires for your car. The amount of miles that can be expected from a tire are reflected in its treadwear number (300, 310, 320...). Under average conditions, tires graded 300 should be expected to last 60,000 miles. To estimate the expected mileage, multiply the treadwear grade by 200. Traction grades come in terms of A, B and C and reflect the tire's ability to stop on wet surfaces. Drivers who frequently encounter wet driving conditions should select tires rated A. Finally, heat resistance is also graded A, B and C. Those tires rated A will run cooler than subsequent grades.

We're happy to give you the advice you need when it comes to repairing your car. At BERT'S AUTO SERVICE, we do everything we can to ensure your car's drivability and safe handling. We enjoy what we do, and we work hard to make sure your questions are answered and your needs are met. We're at 5984 Jackson Road in Ann Arbor (734-769-3232).

AUTO TECHNICIAN NEEDED...
With drivability, computer skills and AC specialist. Sign-on bonus, top pay and benefits.

HINT: Tires that run cooler are less likely to fail when driven over long distances at highway speeds, and they tend to be more fuel-efficient.

'Dogs one win away from state playoff berth

By Dirk Fischbach
Editor

It wasn't always pretty. And it wasn't always sharp. But in the end, the Chelsea varsity football team's effort was more than enough to carry them past a struggling Dexter squad 41-0 Friday. The win delighted an overflow homecoming crowd and set the stage for the team's entry into the state playoffs.

"If we can make the playoffs, it would be just the third time in school history," coach Brad Bush said. "If you can't get excited about that, you better check your pulse."

The team needs to win just one of its next three contests to qualify for the post-season dance.

On Friday, the Dreadnaughts came out strong early, recovering a game-opening inside kick and engineering a fine looking drive deep into Chelsea's red zone.

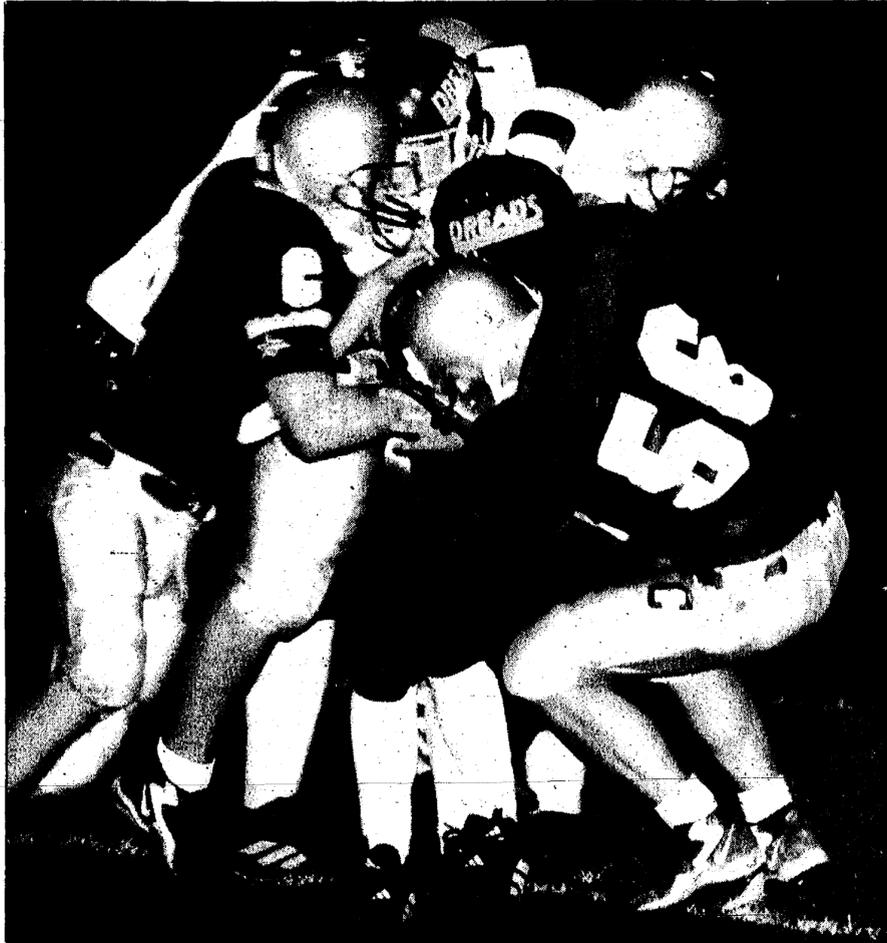

But, a fierce pass rush forced an off-balance throw and Ben Myers was ready and waiting for the opportunity. Pulling the ball in for the interception at the five, he cut toward the sideline, sidestepped a couple would-be tacklers and dashed 95 yards to turn the score and the momentum to Chelsea.

Throughout the early going the Chelsea defense continued to provide scoring opportunities, completely smothering the Dreadnaught offense, creating good field position and forcing Dexter mistakes.

Like Myers' interception, an Alex Underwood fumble recovery quickly led to Bulldog points.

The offense, while not in full song, was able to capitalize enough to put the game comfortably in the 'Dogs' favor.

Ryan Barwick, an understated but rock solid leader at QB, found Tony Scheffler for a first-quarter touchdown, and back-up signal caller Chris Brigham also found the gifted wide-out for six in the period.

The Bulldog defense had Dexter well in hand, holding the Dreadnaughts to 80 yards Friday.

Mike Radka punched all three of his PATs through the uprights to give the team a 21-0 lead after one.

Chelsea kept the heat on in the second quarter, continually denying the Dexter contingent any breathing room.

The Dreads' Brian McLogan and Joe Romine provided most of the Dexter highlights on kick returns, nicely slipping tacklers to give the visiting crowd something to cheer. Once the trench warfare started, however, it was all Chelsea.

The 'Dogs limited their guests to just 80 yards of total offense on the evening. Rob Mida again turned in a fine game at linebacker, and David Steiber, Shawn Dyer and Alan Bairley also kept the Dread-naught offense reeling with big hits.

Chelsea, which substituted freely beginning in the second quarter, got scoring runs from Phil Fishburn and Chris Cooper before the half, to put things completely out of reach at 34-0.

But while the score looked good, the play on the field was a bit sloppy. Penalties hurt both teams, and it seemed if it weren't for big plays, there was no offense at all. Even well into the second half, the 'Dogs had more touchdowns than first downs.

"I think the penalties kept both teams from establishing any rhythm," Bush said.

And, although the head coach refused to use it as an excuse, there's little doubt that the sheer number of substitutions also interrupted any offensive flow for his crew.

The only other promising moment for the Dreads came on a breakaway run by Romine, but the play was nullified by penalties.

Offensive production is not a problem, however for the 'Dogs' next opponent.

Traveling to the unfriendly confines of Tecumseh, the team will try to clinch a playoff berth against the 2-4 Indians (1-3 SEC). Traditionally a physical team, Tecumseh fell to Milan

"If we can make the playoffs, it would be just the third time in school history," coach Brad Bush said. "If you can't get excited about that, you better check your pulse."

The final Bulldog tally came on a beautiful 49-yard run by Fishburn in the fourth quarter and Jerry Milliken nailed the PAT to close the books.

The MHSAA-mandated running clock was in effect much of the half, although penalties slowed the pace even with the mercy rule in place.

To their credit, the Dreadnaughts showed no quit, with Romine still churning out his team-leading 41 yards late into the contest. The Dexter squad has not scored a touchdown since the first week of the season, and their effort was applauded by Bush.

Friday, but put up 28 points in the process. And that's part of the good news-bad news scenario for the Bulldogs. They need just one more notch on the belt, but they face three very good football teams to close the season.

Tecumseh on the road is never fun, Pinckney, which is tied with Chelsea and Milan for first place in the conference, is tough wherever you play them and Jackson Northwest, 24-14 winners-over Charlotte Friday, is far from a pushover.

It should be an interesting ride.

son, and their effort was applauded by Bush.

"Dexter played hard," he said. "They had a nice drive going early, but the interception seemed to really turn the game around."

Many fans brought my attention to an oddity in last week's article. I credited U of M star Ian Gold instead of Bulldog stalwart Ian Kummer.

Girls blaze to tourney win Saturday

Getting career-best efforts from 15 of 22 runners, the Chelsea girls' cross country team blew away the competition in both the freshman/sophomore and junior/senior divisions of the Chelsea Invitational Saturday.

Laura Borden paced the junior/senior Bulldogs at 20:36 to place third overall, and was trailed by Rebecca Metzler who broke the tape one second behind.

Amy Dault, who continues to make dramatic improvement, was seventh overall at 21:00. Carolyn Wineland (21:46), Corinna Christman (22:39) and Erica Miller (23:02) also won medals in the upper division. Krystal Space led the frosh and sophomores at 21:20.

Sarah Kaminsky (22:09), Allison Sacks (22:23), Heather Steinaway (22:51), Nina Kramer (22:58), Michele Oberholtzer (23:45) and Joyce Lewis (23:45) also grabbed medals for the younger set. Kramer lopped a full minute off her previous best to earn special praise.

"This was by far the best that we have run this year," enthused a happy coach Pat Clarke. "If we continue to improve in this fashion we can realize many of our season goals."

At the Mason Invitational last Thursday, it was Metzler's turn to shine, placing 12th overall to lead the team at 20:43. Borden ran 13th at 20:47 and Dault came in at 21:18 to help the team to a third-place run behind Okemos and Mason.

Sacks and Miller led the JV charge at 22:25 and 23:09, respectively.

Older 'Dogs show they can learn new tricks

Taking advantage of the unique format of the Chelsea Invitational Tournament, the Bulldog boys' cross country team took first place in the junior/senior division and second in the freshman/sophomore division Saturday.

"This is a fun meet which allows our athletes to compete against their own age level," said coach Eric Swager. "It was a perfect fall day, cool crisp and in the midst of bow hunting season."

The older Bulldog contingent dominated the competition among junior's and seniors with Jeff Kolodica pacing the team at 16:59 to take second overall. Chad Fortner ran a lifetime best at 17:36, to finish right behind Mike Kattula at 17:33.

Among the freshmen and sophomore ranks, Kyle Brown and Steve Martin turned in lifetime bests at 17:41 and 17:56, respectively. Aaron Turek (18:15) and Andrew Brott (18:23) also ran well.

"We are starting to make some of our midseason time drops that we will need to advance to the state meet," Swager said. "We still have a lot of work to do, but I like the position we're in."

The team also had a good run at the Mason Invitational last Thursday, although the third-place finish behind Okemos and Howell took them out of trophy contention.

"We missed our goal of a top two finish," Swager said. "We did, however, have some nice individual performances."

"Jeff Kolodica (17:03) finished fourth against a predominantly Class A field and Andrew Brott (18:13) ran a personal best in his first varsity race."

In addition, Swager noted that nine JV runners earned medals.

Hoop squad perfect

By Colleen O'Neill
Staff Writer

So far the Chelsea junior varsity girls' basketball team has been perfect.

Led once again by prep star Allison Mann, the Bulldogs beat Ypsilanti-Lincoln for their second straight SEC victory.

Unlike the Milan game when eleven of twelve players scored, only six players got in the book against Lincoln.

But that was enough to get the win and increase their overall record to 7-0 and their SEC record to 2-0.

"We jumped to a 23-5 half-time lead," said head coach Paul Terpstra.

Mann had 22 points and eight rebounds and Jenelle Vlack scored 10 points and had six rebounds.

"The keys to the win were 20 steals," Terpstra said. "And we outrebounded Lincoln 30-18."

Connie Kolokithas contributed six points and nine rebounds, Tracy Carter and Audrey Richardson each scored four points and Sally Compton added two points.

Last week the Bulldogs pounded Milan to get a win in their first SEC action.

There were mistakes in the game, which frustrated Terpstra.

"We raised our record to 6-0 [against Milan] with a mistake-filled game," Terpstra said.

Terpstra's greatest frustration was that they committed 22 fouls and 15 turnovers.

But his team obviously played well. At the end of the first quarter the score was 14-6.

There were steals, there were jump balls, there were easy lay-ups that all helped the Bulldogs rack up a final score of 48-24.

After the Lincoln game the team had an extended rest.

And it came at a very good time.

The week off gave them time to gird for two tough SEC matches.

On Tuesday they host Dexter and on Thursday they travel to Tecumseh.

With two conference victories the team is poised to have a good showdown with these SEC rivals.

Mike Sayers works toward his 241-yard total.

Ground game lifts JV over solid Aggie team

Zack Miller and Mike Sayers scored first-half touchdowns and Adam Montero answered a Sand Creek threat in the second half with an 11-yard TD sprint as the JV 'Dogs beat the Aggies 20-6 Thursday.

The game featured a brilliant performance by Sayers who netted 241 yards on the ground.

"This was the toughest game all season," said coach Mark Schee. "I thought Sand Creek played a very good game. We had two turnovers that kept us from scoring more points."

Miller opened the scoring with a one-yard plunge in the first stanza and Sayers complemented it with a five-yard jaunt of his own in the second quarter. Mike Milliken made good on both PATs and things seemed comfortable at 14-0 heading into the half.

Sand Creek, however, wasn't ready to quit.

The Aggies rallied for a touchdown in the third period, but failed on a two-point try.

Montero then closed the scoring with his 11-yard carry.

The 'Dogs amassed 324 yards on the ground, while Miller was 7-12 through the air for 108 yards. Kent Reames was the receiver of choice, netting 48 yards on three catches. Kevin Riddle also had a reception to aid the Chelsea cause.

Joe Koenigter had a fumble recovery and he, Milliken and Chad Hyllested led the defense.

The team now is 6-0 on the season heading into Thursday's tilt with Tecumseh.

Frosh sink Dreadnaughts

Daryl Bauer rambled for three touchdowns and Tim Shubring added another as the freshmen Bulldogs beat Dexter 26-6 Thursday.

David Grabarkiewicz made several key catches and Jake Freeman gave a solid performance at QB, as the 'Dogs rolled up more than 300 yards of offense.

Tony Lance was defensive player of the game at tackle.

The team faces Tecumseh at home Thursday. Game time is 4:30 p.m.

Jog-a-thon slated

All three area elementary schools will jointly host a Jog-a-thon on Saturday, Oct. 16, at the Chelsea High School track. The event will begin at 9:30 a.m. and continue to 2 p.m. All participants except preschoolers are asked to make a $1 donation, for which they can jog, walk, skip, hop or otherwise ambulate around the track as many times as desired. All money raised will be used to fund the ribbons awarded.

Free healthy snacks will be provided. For more information call one of the three elementary schools; South Meadows at 433-2205, Pierce Lake at 433-2204; or North Creek at 433-2203.

Students learn golf techniques at annual outing

Forty-six students from Nancy Cooper's Chelsea High School class and Doug Cooper's Washtenaw Intermediate School District class participated in their annual golf outing on Friday, Sept. 17.

The students began the day at the Green Acres Driving Range, and ended it at Hudson Mills Golf Course in Dexter.

Fifteen instructors, including LPGA golf pro Lynn Waldecker, assisted the students in learning and practicing various golfing techniques. The students then participated in driving, chipping and closest-to-the-pin contests.

In the afternoon, Hudson Mills golf pros taught all students correct putting techniques.

Overall winners for the

Michigan Streams and Lakes

LOST STREAM MAP FOUND AND RESTORED

The recently published STREAM MAP OF MICHIGAN is just like another map - known to Pennsylvania anglers as the "Lost Stream Map."

The "Stream Map of Pennsylvania" was completed in 1965 after a thirty-year effort by Howard Higbee, a former Penn State Professor.

Professor Higbee succeeded in creating a map of the highest detail possible...a map that shows every stream and lake. He painstakingly plotted by hand, the location of 45,000 miles of streams onto a 3 x 5 foot map.

The map sold extremely well - until it was lost several years later. Incredibly, the printer entrusted with the original drawing and printing plates, declared bankruptcy, then carelessly hauled Higbee's 30 years of work to the landfill.

The few remaining dog-eared copies became a prized fisherman's possession. Professor Higbee was offered $400 for one of his last maps. And state agencies were forced to keep their copies under lock and key.

The experts had always told Professor Higbee that reprints were impossible, because the maps were printed in non-photographic blue. Then, in 1991, at the age of 91, Howard Higbee's dream came true. Computers made it possible to reprint the map. Holding an updated map, Howard said, "I never thought I'd live to see this day."

Then, by combining Professor Higbee's treasure with computer technology - the STREAM MAP OF MICHIGAN was created.

Opening Day of Trout - April 26th

Stream MAP of Michigan

Why every fisherman needs this map

It is estimated that 10% of all the fishermen catch 90% of the fish. Odds... simply try new fishing waters. Fish where few fishermen ever fish.

Michigan is loaded with great fishing waters...many of them overlooked. From the AuSable River to all of the Great Lakes tributaries to the Pere Marquette River...thousands of miles of streams, lakes and rivers are now easy-to-locate on one map.

Professor Higbee's Stream Map of Michigan is the first and only highly detailed map of its kind. This new 4 foot by 4 foot color map shows virtually all of the 35,000 miles of Michigan streams & lakes on both peninsulas. That's almost two times the earth's circumference!

FREE LOCATION GUIDEBOOK INCLUDED

Pinpoint the best fishing in Michigan with this valuable 40 page guide. Easily locate over 5,000 streams and lakes shown on the "Stream Map." Your map and guidebook will take you to the top 443 fishing waters - select waters for 14 species of gamefish.

DEATHS

MARLENE MAE RADEMACHER

Chelsea
Age 68, died Monday, Sept. 20, 1999, in her home. She was born Aug. 23, 1931, in Chelsea, the daughter of Lloyd R. and Leona Mae (McCoy) Heydlauff.

Marlene was a member of St. Mary Catholic Church, the Ann Arbor Women's City Club, and several bridge clubs. She was also a volunteer at Chelsea Community Hospital.

On Aug. 25, 1956, she married William Rademacher in Chelsea, and he survives. Other survivors include her children, Laura L. Rademacher of Cary, N.C., William B. (Jan) Rademacher of Munster, Ind.; two grandchildren, Grant William and Jillian Marie; one brother, George F. (Carol) Heydlauff of Gregory, MI; and several nieces and nephews. She was preceded in death by a son, Stratton L. Rademacher, in 1986.

A funeral Mass was celebrated Thursday, Sept. 23, at St. Mary Catholic Church, Chelsea, with the Rev. Dr. William J. Turner officiating. Burial followed at Mt. Olivet Cemetery, Chelsea.

ANDREW DESAEGER

Stockbridge
Age 57, passed away Oct. 2, 1999, at his home. He was born on Oct. 18, 1941, in Denderwindeke, Belgium, the son of Adelson and Madeleine (Steenhoudt) DeSaeger.

Andrew had a total of 33 years in education, 25 as an administrator the past 10 as superintendent in various districts, including Stockbridge.

On Nov. 8, 1968, he married Helen Plier in Detroit. She survives.

Also surviving are two daughters, Patricia (David) Ringe of Saline and Kathryn G. DeSaeger of Stockbridge; one brother, Gratien (Cindy) DeSaeger of Greenwood, Ind.; and one grandchild. He was preceded in death by his parents; and one brother, Edmonde.

Funeral services were held Tuesday, Oct. 5, at St. Mary Catholic Church in Chelsea with the Rev. Fr. Jerry Singer officiating. Memorial contributions may be made to Huron Community Schools Scholarship Fund.

Arrangements for the John W. Mitchell Family, Staffan-Mitchell Funeral Home.

ELWOOD B. "AL" KEEZER

Chelsea
Age 82, died Tuesday, Sept. 28, 1999, at Chelsea Community Hospital. He was born Sept. 3, 1919, in Auglaize, Ohio, the fourth child of Ralph and Iva C. (Horner) Keezer.

Al had been a resident of Chelsea since 1930. He was retired from the Federal Screw Works and was a member of the Chelsea Rod and Gun Club. Al enjoyed fishing, bowling and playing ball. He married Dorothy I. Gandy in Mason, on Aug. 9, 1940, and she survives. Also surviving are his two sons Loren E. (Nancy) Keezer of Chelsea, Daryl B. (Elaine) Keezer of Waldorf, Md.; four grandchildren Loren P. Keezer, Jodi (Jon) Vandine, Marlin Kurtz, and Desree Wright; two great-grandchildren, Jerry Bryan Wright, and Hunter Bryn Vandine; three brothers, Wilbur (Ardis) Keezer of East Lansing, Don (Lillian) Keezer of Chelsea, Marvin (Edna) Keezer of Manchester; two sisters, Delores Eder of Jackson, Maxine Benedict of Manchester; a brother-in-law Lloyd (Betty) Grandy of Lilburn, Ga.

He was preceded in death by his parents; four brothers, Dale, Chester, Walter and Kenneth and a sister, Helen Benedict. Memorial services were held Oct. 1 at the First Congregational Church, Chelsea, with the Rev. Dr. David Cleaver-Bartholomew officiating. Private interment was in Oak Grove East Cemetery, Chelsea.

Expressions of sympathy may be made to Arbor Hospice or First Congregational Church.

Arrangements by the John Mitchell Family, Staffan-Mitchell Funeral Home, Chelsea.

JOHN A. WEBER

Chelsea
Age 94, died Oct. 4, 1999, in his home following a short illness. He was born May 14, 1905, in Busbach, Germany, the son of Andreas and Felicitas Weber.

John came to the United States in 1923, and settled in Chelsea in 1941. He was a member of the Greater Beneficial Union of Pittsburgh. He worked in the WPA during World War II, and farmed most of his life, in addition to working many odd jobs. He retired from Rockwell.

He married Flora M. Shipp in Mt. Clemens on Dec. 28, 1933. She preceded him in death on June 10, 1986. He was also preceded in death by his brother, Hans, and two sisters, Dora and Anna.

Survivors include a son and daughter-in-law, Paul and Joanne Weber of Chelsea; two grandsons, James (Carla) Weber of Georgia, and Norman Weber of New York City; one granddaughter, Martha Weber of Jackson; two great-granddaughters, Samantha and Jessica; and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were held Oct. 6, at Cole Funeral Chapel, with the Rev. Richard Drake officiating. Burial will follow at Oak Grove Cemetery in Chelsea. Memorial contributions may be made to Hospice of Washtenaw.

JOHN WOLFGANG REINDL

of Menominee, Mich.
Age 90, died Sept. 28, 1999, at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Ann Arbor. He was born June 23, 1909, in Menominee, the son of John G. and Pauline (Posephny) Reindl.

John was a life-long resident of Menominee. His father was a brew master and owned a brewery in Menominee. Following prohibition the brewery was closed and his father died. John's mother ran a grocery store. He quit school in the ninth grade and became an oiler on freighters on the Great Lakes for five years and helped keep the family going.

Following the election of his brother, Edward, as sheriff, John became a deputy for 12 years. At the onset of WWII John was called to the FBI and became an anti-Nazi spy. Following the war he returned to Menominee and built the Rio-Vista Motel in 1947; in 1969 he converted the motel into apartments and was owner/manager at the time of his death.

He was a member of the First Presbyterian Church, sponsored the youth group of the church, was a longtime Rotarian, and received the Paul Harris Award. John also served as mayor for 10 years in the 60s and 70s. He was a 32nd degree mason, member of Almen Shrine and York Rite, Knights Templar. In addition, he was a past Worthy Patron of OES and was very active in Jobs Daughters. John was a past president of

VILLAGE OF CHELSEA NOTICE OF VARIANCE HEARING

An application has been filed by Mae Picklesimer of 460 W. North Street for a variance from the requirements of Section 10.02A, 10.03 B & E and 10.04E of Ordinance No. 79 (Zoning Ordinance), to allow for the removal and reconstruction of a garage in an Industrial District which is a non-conforming use.

The property is described as follows:
Tax Code #08-12-200-011 (A.K.A. 480 W. North Street, Chelsea, MI)

Pursuant to the procedure for a variance request; a Notice of Hearing shall be given and will be served personally or by mail at least ten (10) days prior to the date of such hearing, upon the party of parties making the request for appeal, and all owners of record of property and occupants of property located within three-hundred (300) feet of such premises in question.

You are herein notified that a hearing will be held by the Chelsea Zoning Board of Appeals on Wednesday, October 20, 1999 at 5:00 o'clock P.M. or as soon thereafter as possible, at the Chelsea Village Offices, located in the Chelsea Bank Building, 305 S. Main Street, Suite 100 (lower level conference room), to consider objections to said request.

Persons requiring reasonable accommodations to disabilities in order that the hearing be accessible to them, are requested to notify the Zoning Board of Appeals Chairman no later than five (5) business days prior to the date of the hearing of such disability.

Fire Prevention Week

October 3-9, 1999

Area firefighters have a busy weekend planned as they cap off Fire Prevention Week.

The Dexter Area Fire Department will be at Monument Park for Apple Daze Saturday, talking with youngsters about fire safety and giving a smoke house demonstration. They also are busy with a fundraiser to provide fire education materials to the schools.

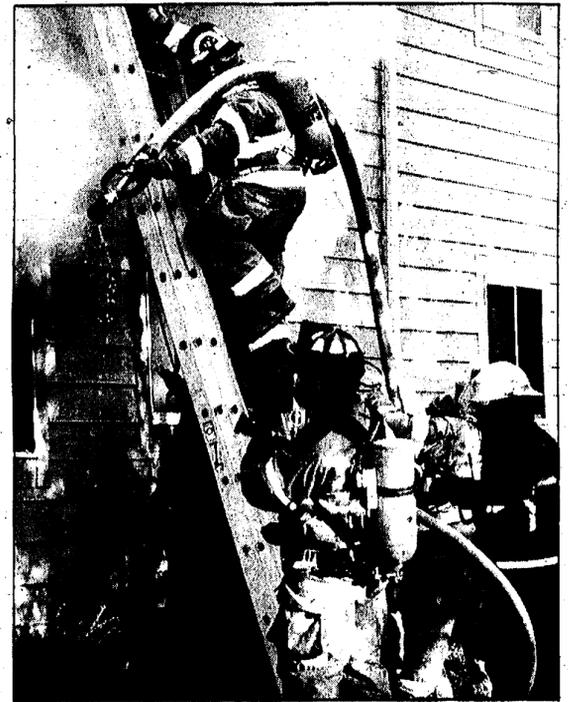

The Chelsea Fire Department will host its annual open house this Sunday from noon to 4 p.m.

The event will feature displays and demonstrations about fire safety, as well as giving visitors the opportunity to tour the department. Games and refreshments also are on tap.

Firefighters will be on hand to give youngsters a chance to spray a fire hose and sit in a fire truck.

There will be plenty of handouts and the Chelsea Police Department will bring D.A.R.E. information and a K-9 unit. The State Police, Department of Natural Resources and other agencies also will have displays.

The Department is located at 200 West Middle Street, Chelsea.
