Chelsea rallies around Young family

■ Schools, churches, funeral home offer outlets for public grief.

By Jim Silver
Staff Writer

A week after tragedy ripped apart a local family and shook the community, the scars in the earth for the graves of Janice, Makenzie and Cooper Young are still fresh, and the wounds in the community are still tender.

But the Chelsea area has already begun dealing with the shock and grief. And while questions still linger, local agencies are offering programs to allow people to channel their pain into community programs.

The school district raced into action on Tuesday as word of the shootings reached administrators. Community Education Director Jeff Rohrer called together the district's Crisis Team, organizing the counseling staff and sending them out to all five area schools.

"We have about 20 members on the team," Rohrer said, "with some support from other sources."

Students at North Creek and Beach schools and the community preschool were hardest hit, but there was some impact at the high school and other elementary schools.

"We did not have a large response (to the shooting)," high school Principal Ron Mead said, "but those who knew the family were very affected."

The impact was similar at Pierce Lake and South Meadows. While the impact was not as widespread as at Beach, North Creek or the community preschool, students, teachers and parents who knew the family were stricken by the news.

Rohrer broke the news to parents of students in two preschool classrooms, explaining what was known at the time, and giving the parents, and students, time to be together.

Information was sent home with all district students, helping parents talk to their children about death and grieving.

The Rev. Mearl Bradley, pastor at the Chelsea Free Methodist Church and chaplain for the Michigan State Police, was on the scene Tuesday, helping family members as they found out about the deaths.

He has helped the family since then, and also offered aid to his congregation and the public in general in dealing with the event. Bradley was also one of three ministers officiating at the funeral service for the Youngs.

He said that on the night of Wednesday, May 3, he held a Christian Life Club meeting at the church to deal with the news. The club is available for children up to third grade.

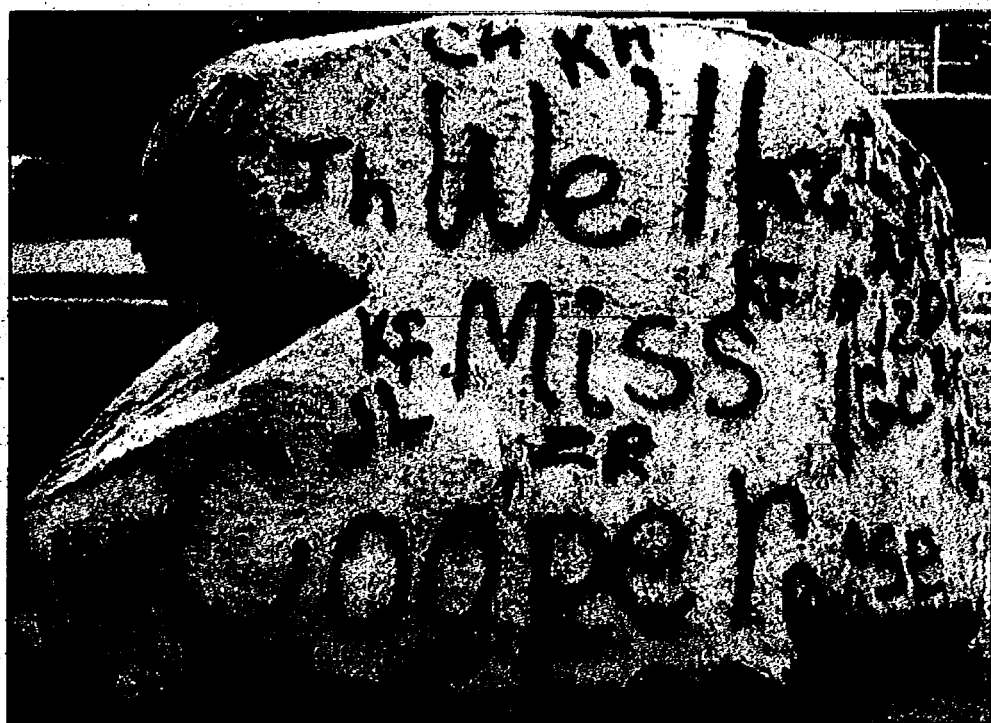

Bradley said he sat down with children and their parents that night, especially those who knew Cooper, Makenzie and Janice, and let them talk about how they felt, and what the event meant.

"I heard a little girl say, 'I think we talked about this enough,' and this was the day after. But there were parents still dealing with it at the funeral service," Bradley said.

School services continued this week, as Maria Trozzi, a professor at Boston University School of Medicine and a bereavement expert, met with the parents of Makenzie and Cooper Young's classmates, Crisis Team members, and district teachers on May 10.

Trozzi also spoke at a community meeting that night on children and loss. While referring to the Young case, Trozzi centered her discussion on how children are affected by loss, and how parents can help children develop coping mechanisms.

In an interview, Trozzi said that incidents such as the

The sentiments of the community have been shown in many ways.

Young tragedy can be unpleasant experiences for children.

"But they are terrible for parents - it strikes at our most vulnerable place, and makes us ask 'why?'"

She said that the reaction to such incidents is to look for an explanation, a way for people to distance themselves from the event. In cases where there is no obvious reason, as with the Young shooting, Trozzi said that the community can come unglued.

But she added that the worst calamities can bring out the best in the community, as people pull together.

Staffan-Mitchell Funeral Home is sponsoring Trozzi's visit. John Mitchell noted that she was available to Chelsea through the funeral home's membership in National Selected Morticians.

The funeral home is also handling the establishment of the Young Family Crisis Prevention Fund, which will be used to establish a community resource for family stress and Augustine's roof was removed by strong winds Tuesday.

Storm causes heavy damage

Augustine shaken, but home amidst rubble.

By Phil Keren

A home that had withstood a move from Ann Arbor to Chelsea several years ago was unable to stand up to the harsh forces of Mother Nature.

The Jerusalem Road home of Paul and Bernice Augustine was heavily damaged by the storm that moved through Washtenaw County early Tuesday morning.

The roof of the one-story brick structure was picked off the house and thrown nearly 60 feet, crushing two vehicles parked in the couple's driveway.

Augustine said that he and his wife had been concerned about the growing force of the storm and decided to move to the basement at about 2:30 a.m. On the way, Bernice stopped to get some water

Gourley backers urge trustees to reconsider action

■ Policy discussion covers ethics, job requirements.

By Jim Silver
Staff Writer

Supporters of band teacher Bill Gourley turned out in droves at the May 8 school board meeting, protesting Gourley's reassignment in the wake of a recent arbitration decision.

In a happy accident, the board also discussed at length personnel policies covering some issues in the Gourley saga.

Milford Wolpoff, an outspoken supporter of the band director, objected at the beginning of the meeting to the board's agenda, asking them to include a discussion of Gourley.

Wolpoff continued his objection as board President Scott Broshar pointed to procedural rules. When Broshar told Wolpoff that he would be removed if he persisted, Wolpoff, in a move designed to drive home his point, left in protest.

The issue was the topic of much of the public comment. Band students past and present and parents spoke in support of Gourley, citing his influence not just as a band director but as a role model.

Agency gets nod

■ Local building agency gets state approval.

By Phil Keren
Special Writer

A local building agency made up of Lima, Dexter, Sylvan and Lyndon townships and the village of Chelsea received state approval May 3.

According to Lima Township Supervisor Gary Adams, the Michigan Construction Code Commission agreed to allow the five area bodies to administer and enforce state building codes as part of a local building agency.

Adams said they were expecting to receive a letter this week that gives official notice of the approval.

The agency will issue building permits and provide building, mechanical, plumbing and electrical inspections for the five municipalities. The agency will take over the work from Washtenaw County. Adams said that he had received a fair number of complaints about the county inspections and believes that the Chelsea Area Construction Agency can "provide better service to our residents."

At its Feb. 7 meeting, the Lima board approved a measure allowing the township to join the agency. At its latest crises. For more information on the fund, contact the Staffan-Mitchell Funeral Home at 475-1444.

A fund has also been established to provide for the future education of Sydney Young. Money is being collected at the Chelsea State Bank, and donors should bring or mail deposits for the fund to the bank, marked for the Sydney Young Scholarship Fund. The Young family will be notified of the amount of the deposit, and the donor.

Meanwhile, on Saturday, May 6, 700 members of the community gathered at the Chelsea High School to say goodbye to Janice Young and her children.

As a single candle burned in front of a stage adorned with flowers, the Rev. James McDougall of St. Francis of Assisi Catholic Church in Ann Arbor read aloud the obituaries of Janice, Cooper and Makenzie Young.

But, he said, such lists of relatives and achievements can sometimes be cold words.

"We are more than statistics in a government book or a newspaper," McDougall said. "We are people. And this loss will be there forever, but we must remember their gifts to us."

McDougall invited members of the audience to share their memories of the deceased, and extend a hand to Daniel and Sydney Young. And audience members did remember the three, with laughter and with tears.

The Rev. Gary Kwiatek of St. Andrew's United Church of Christ in Dexter delivered the meditation and eulogy at the funeral. Kwiatek said that while it is a natural reaction to look for reasons and judge Janice Young, only God could understand the event.

Instead, Kwiatek encouraged the family and friends gathered to remember a happy family.

He also noted that the Young family had asked news media to allow them their privacy to grieve and to cope. He said he thought that the media had shown restraint in their attendance and coverage of the funeral.

Outside, a reporter for WDIV echoed those sentiments. "I think any coverage (of the funeral) is an invasion of privacy," he said.

In the end, many may take the attitude encouraged by the scripture reading from the funeral. McDougall read from the Book of John, Chapter 14, with some emphasis on verse 5: "Lord, we know not whither thou goest; and how can we know the way?"

Daniel Young thanks community

"When I was 15, I met Janice, the most beautiful girl in the world. Some eight years later, I was lucky enough to marry her. That day coupled with the birthdays of our Sydney, Cooper and Makenzie, accounted for the most significant days of my life. I was fortunate to share life with three wonderful, beautiful, amazing kids. I will always cherish the countless precious memories I find myself knowing I have left behind. I hope my beautiful children will find their way to a beautiful life."

The events surrounding the past few days have been more difficult than anyone could ever have to experience. The support of my family and friends, of people I know and don't know, has sustained me through this period of indescribable grief. I am unable to find the words to express my love and gratefulness to my family, my friends and this most-giving community we live in. So much love and support has been showered upon us that simply saying, "thank you," doesn't seem to be enough. I am at a loss as to how to begin to repay the debt of gratitude I feel, but I will spend my life trying to give something back. I love each and every one of you who create this wonderful community we call Chelsea. — Daniel Young knew Gourley from the Dexter Community Band, said his work in management at the University of Michigan gave him experience working in a unionized environment.

GOURLEY

He said that that led him to sympathize with the board and administration, as he found that the most intelligent and skilled employees were also hardest to deal with. Butcher also said that the grievance procedure and union rules often placed great constraints on administration's abilities to discipline employees.

But he said that the difficulties in such circumstances are usually accompanied by rewards. He urged board members not to remove the rewards of Gourley's instruction, and to continue to use the resources available in the best way possible.

Board response focused on grievance procedures. Broshar and board Vice President Sandra Merkel both emphasized the impossibility of board members commenting on grievances.

Board Secretary Dayle Wright responded to complaints that the public was out of the loop on the issue by urging concerned community members to read the arbitrator's decision, going so far as to file a Freedom of Information Act request if need be.

In the second public comment section, several audience members said that they did not want board members to address the arbitrated grievance. Instead, they asked them to discuss his reassignment to a history position at Beach Middle School.

Board members again cited the grievance procedure, since the Chelsea Education Association's grievance covers Gourley's reassignment. Merkel said she appreciated the public's input, but urged the audience to look to the grievance procedure.

Members also continued an ongoing policy review, focusing on personnel policies. The policies allowed for hiring qualifications, creating jobs and terminating employment for some positions.

Board members supported a policy that would prohibit the hiring of the relatives of board members, the superintendent, assistant superintendent and business manager.

The policies also included a list of staff ethics and rules for student supervision. Superintendent Ed Richardson noted that the CEA did not have policies governing such fields, and said that those policies, if adopted, would provide good guidelines.

Tips to help the grieving

Arbor Hospice created a list of ways to help grieving friends or relatives. The organization distributes the list through grief support groups, local churches and others.

• Don't worry about what to say. Just being there shows you care. Don't feel you have to have answers. Just be a good listener.

• Talk about the deceased — anything you know about them, such as what they said or did. It helps the grieving person to keep them closer.

• Call often. Especially after the first couple months. Their energy level may be too low for them to make the effort even though they may need to talk.

• Send cards even weeks after the funeral. They are always helpful, and there is a disappointment when they finally quit coming.

• Do visit in the home after the funeral service is over, but stay just a short while. Griefers need some privacy.

• If you want to do something with or for the bereaved, give him or her an option. Some days they just can't cope with "something to do."

• Don't avoid the person when you seen them for the first time after the funeral. Go up to them first.

• Try not to look startled when the bereaved mentions the deceased. Let him or her talk about the deceased loved one as much as they like.

• Don't try to get the mind of the griever off the loved one. That is impossible for a long time if the relationship was close. Remember, the hardest thing for the bereaved is to see life going on.

• Don't make small talk. Talk about what is uppermost in the griever's mind.

• Don't be uneasy if you cry and the bereaved doesn't. A person can only cry so much. The hurt is still there.

• Don't talk about what the deceased might have been spared by death. Those thoughts bring no comfort.

• Don't remind the person of what they have left, such as other children. At the time, all the bereaved can think of is what he or she has lost and the feeling that there is no future. The deeply griever does not want to think about tomorrow.

• Things you could do to be helpful: 1. grocery shop, 2. go to the library, 3. harvest garden, 4. mow the lawn, 5. prepare hot meal, 6. baby sit, 7. clean house.

• If they have children, invite them to spend time with your children. If the children have lost their father, it would be wonderful if another man would spend some time with them also. He could include them occasionally when he does something when he does something with his own kids.

• Don't assume the deeply bereaved is "over it" in just a few weeks or even months because they are going on with their routine. Grief takes much longer and people can pretend to be doing much better than they really are doing. Share your love, your time, and most importantly, your prayers.

Arbor Hospice also emphasizes that children mourn a loss differently from adults, and the group offers specialized support for children and teens.

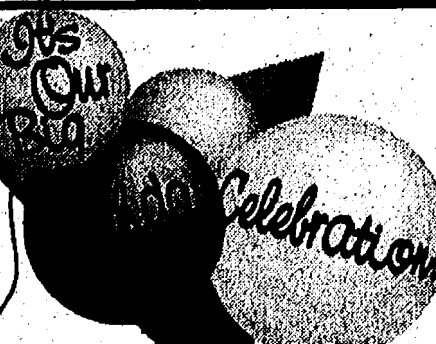

The Pathfinder program, for young people suffering a loss, lets therapists use alternative therapies to lead children to process grief.

Mother: The Most Glorious Title

Dear Friends and Neighbors,

After Adam and his wife fell into sin in the Garden of Eden, God pronounced death upon them for their disobedience. At the same time, however, God promised that the devil's work would be undone through an offspring of the woman. For that reason Adam named his wife "Eve," a Hebrew word related to the word "life" because she would become the mother of all the living.

"The mother of all the living." That's a very impressive title, and obviously it applies to only one woman. Yet every mother has a glorious title, every mother has the privilege of bringing life into the world.

It's one thing to produce life, however. It's quite another to live up to the title of "mother." That often calls for the sacrifice of substantial amounts of recreation and pleasure and time. It often takes a toll on a woman's body and health. Being a good mother often calls for the sacrifice of a career, at least until the children are older. But the title of mother is more glorious more glorious than the title of doctor, or attorney, or scientist, or executive; and certainly more glorious than the title of athlete or supermodel or actress or professional singer. No other undertaking is as important; the title is worthy of giving up everything else.

Whether you are a birth mother, and adoptive mother, a step mother, or a grandmother, the Lord will bless your sincere efforts and sacrifices. He will listen to your prayers and plant your words and examples into your children's minds, even when you think it's all been in vain.

It was through a mother that God sent the Savior of the world. It is still most often through the influence of a mother that He brings people of faith in that Savior. There's nothing more glorious than that.

meeting on May 1, trustees agreed to a slight modification in the language of the measure, deleting a line stating that the township would "adopt" the state construction code.

Adams explained that the township is going to be enforcing the code, not adopting it. The state of Michigan adopted the code. Adams said the other four municipalities will also make the deletion if they haven't done it already.

According to Adams, the agency should be up and running by the end of May and is expected to be located in Sylvan Township Hall.

In other township news, the board is still accepting correspondence regarding its private road ordinance. Adams said the board has received one letter about the ordinance so far. While Adams does not think the township will abolish the ordinance, he concedes that it needs to be modified. The Chelsea Area Planning Team will hold its next meeting on the regional plan May 22 at the Lyndon Township Hall. Adams said that some of the drafts of the plan had been completed and will be examined by the team. Adams expects a complete draft of the plan to be ready for review by the end of June.

Lima, Sylvan, Lyndon and Dexter townships and the village of Chelsea are working together to develop the plan. Adams said they hope to establish some consistency in land use and zoning between the various municipalities. According to Adams, the plan will be set up so that each municipality does not have to provide zoning for every type of land use.

Each municipality will need to endorse the plan before it can take effect.

Campaign stresses train safety

Twenty-seven people have died and 20 people have been seriously injured in Michigan since 1996, many of them youngsters, because they were on or near railroad tracks. These are 47 needless deaths and injuries.

During the month of May, the Michigan Railroads Association is joining a national effort to inform the public of the dangers of being near the tracks and our message is, "Stay Off, Stay Away, Stay Alive."

Walking along railroad tracks is not only dangerous but also illegal. Many individuals, particularly children, do not understand the danger associated with activity on the tracks. In addition, railroad tracks, trestles, yards and equipment are private property. Walking and playing on railroad tracks is trespassing, and can result in jail for 30 days and/or fines up to $100.

As the school year draws to a close, the Michigan Railroads Association, in cooperation with the Michigan Department of Transportation and Michigan Operation Lifesaver, urge parents and educators to pass along the following safety tips to children:

• Trains cannot stop quickly. A freight train traveling 55 miles per hour can take a mile or more to stop.

• Do not walk, run, cycle or operate all terrain vehicles on railroad tracks or right-of-way.

• Always expect a train.

a large area and some of it had been pounded into furniture and appliances by the winds. With the roof completely off the house, the interior was open to the ravages of the water and hail that accompanied the high winds.

Augustine noted that the couple was fortunate to have moved from the bedroom before the violent gust, as two large beams had crashed down on their bed.

"If it would have hit a half hour earlier, we would have been killed," Bernice added.

The storm caused damage throughout Washtenaw and Livingston counties and forced the cancellation of school in several communities, including Dexter. Detroit Edison was reporting more than 40,000 customers lost power and meteorologists measured winds up to 54 mph and a half an inch of rain.

Construction specialists were at the Augustines' home before noon Tuesday, but no immediate word on the amount of the damages was available.

What a Journey!

Fifth-graders from Luman Strong's and Cheryl Vogel's classes at North Creek Elementary School spent eight weeks participating in the "Odyssey of the Mind" program. The program encourages creative thinking and problem solving. One popular project involved shipping eggs to Florida and back with limited supplies. All but one of the eight eggs made the journey safely. Pictured from left are, front row, Elizabeth Gunden, Christine Kelly, Clare Frankhart and Blake Angelocci. Back row, Anne Thiel, Sam Dunham, Abe Kane, Johanna Jackson, Leah House, Bob Griffith and Jenica Rutherford.

Post office issues fund-raising stamps

The Chelsea Post Office has joined a nationwide campaign to raise funds for breast cancer research by encouraging the use of a special fund-raising stamp on cards and letters, with a goal of selling out the stamp.

The breast cancer research semi-postal stamp is the first in U.S. history to have its net proceeds above the cost of postage earmarked for research organizations. If the entire print run of 280 million stamps is sold out, up to an estimated $20 million will be raised for breast cancer research. To date about $11 million has been raised.

"The self-adhesive breast cancer research stamp is now available," said Dexter Postmaster Robert Ridenour. "The Postal Service has proud tradition of issuing stamps to help raise awareness of deadliest diseases among women. We encourage everyone to purchase and use the stamp before it goes off sale July 29."

The 40-cent, self-adhesive breast cancer research stamp is valid for postage at the 33-cent first-class letter rate, with up to 7 cents per stamp sold going to research. Seventy percent of net proceeds above the cost of postage is given to the National Institute of Health (NIH). Thirty percent goes to the Medical Research Program of the Department of Defense (DOD). The NIH and DOD, which both conduct breast cancer research, were identified as recipients of the fund by legislation.

To see an image of the breast cancer research stamp, or to order stamps, visit the Postal Service's Website at www.stamps.online.com. The stamps are also available toll-free at 1-800-782-6724.

Program to aid elderly

The Macomb-Oakland Regional Center Inc. (MORC) has received a grant of $100,000 to be used to provide day-care opportunities for people who are elderly or who are disabled. The grant is awarded from the Michigan Department of Community Mental Health (MDCH).

In addition, MORC has been awarded money from MDCH to serve an additional 100 people for its Elderly and Disabled Home Services Program. The goal of this program is to keep people out of nursing homes.

"There is such a staggering need for this service that we met the original goal of serving 300 people," said Yvonne Corcoran, supervisor of the program. "The state recently gave the OK to serve another 100 people. I am sure we will be able to serve these 100 people quickly and will be going back to the state for more waivers."

MORC is an approved site for the Home and Community Based Services Medicaid Waiver Program for the Elderly and Disabled expansion, which is Michigan's initiative to coordinate and improve long-term care services.

MORC covers Region 1-B, which consists of Livingston, Macomb, Monroe, Oakland, St. Clair and Washtenaw counties. MORC is one of a few agencies in the state selected for this waiver program that was not an Area Agency on Aging.

The Home and Community Based Services for the Elderly and Disabled Medicaid Waiver Program provides services to Medicaid-eligible aged people 60 and older and certified disabled individuals over 18 years old who would otherwise require nursing home level care. The waiver allows payment for this level of care at home and in the community.

This waiver program funds elements of the following services: personal care/supervision, homemaker, home delivered meals, transportation, chores, respite care, counseling, personal emergency response systems, environmental modifications, adult day care, training, medical equipment/supplies and private duty nursing.

For more information on MORC's Home and Community Based Medicaid Waiver Program, contact Helen Hoberg, 16200 Nineteen Mile Road, P.O. Box 380710, Clinton Township, MI, 48038-0070. She can be reached by telephone at (800)236-3202.

Teacher salaries to rise next year

Michigan teacher salaries will rise again next year, but the increases are less than three percent a year, reports the Michigan Association of School Boards (MASB).

With 85 percent of all Michigan school districts reporting, MASB's annual study of teachers' pay reveals a five-year effort by school leaders to keep increases in line with the Consumer Price Index (CPI), a national gauge of inflation.

Prior to 1985, teachers bargained for and got increases ranging from 3.3 to 5.8 percent annually.

This year, teacher pay rose

2.79 percent. Next year, in the 457 districts with settled contracts, it will grow by 2.8 percent statewide. The CPI for all U.S. cities this year has risen just 2.1 percent.

This 10-year trend data is published in MASB's Teacher Contract Settlement Report, research conducted by labor relations specialists at the association. It is the definitive study on teachers' pay in Michigan, and a valuable tool for negotiators, according to Sue Dumala, director of MASB Labor Relations Services.

Some 163 districts have settled contracts for 2001, and report an average salary hike of 2.82 percent so far. Only 49 districts have reported settlements for 2002.

Rogers fights for in-state jobs

Senate Majority Floor Leader Mike Rogers recently offered amendments to the Michigan Economic Growth Authority law, sending a strong message to General Motors that Michigan leadership is committed to keeping 2,800 jobs from leaving the state.

"Michigan is competing with states like Ohio and Indiana for these jobs," said Rogers, a Republican from Brighton. "We are committed to working with GM to keep the jobs here."

Rogers' amendment allows the state to provide tax incentives for GM to locate a second new manufacturing facility in the Lansing area, even though the project retains jobs instead of crating new jobs.

It was Rogers' legislation that extended the MEGA bill last year, allowing GM to locate a new Cadillac plant and 1,500 new jobs in Lansing.

Rogers proposes setting a high threshold for state tax incentives by requiring a minimum investment of $250 million by the job provider and retention of at least 500 jobs. Local governments in the city of Lansing and Delta Township have already indicated a willingness to work for retention of the jobs and locating the facility in the community.

A $4.5 million grant set aside through Rogers' efforts also strengthens efforts to keep the GM jobs in Michigan by establishing a technical training facility through Lansing Community College if the second new plant is located in the Lansing area.

"These investments secure jobs for mid-Michigan and benefit every working family and their communities," said Rogers, a small business owner. "State tax incentives provide a healthy return on investment."

"New jobs at the Cadillac plant are projected to generate $8 for the state for every dollar in tax incentives. Michigan can be competitive for these jobs if the state stands shoulder-to-shoulder with the community; unions and businesses to prove our commitment to GM."

Private group fights for road funds

As time ticks away on Michigan's current transportation funding formula, a group of private sector transportation advocates is fighting for more transportation money and a simpler funding process.

"Michigan has seen an aggressive plan to improve our transportation systems over the past few years, and we want to make sure our roads and bridges continue to improve," said Rich Lehman, spokesperson for the private sector coalition making the recommendations to the Public Act 51 Transportation Funding Study Committee.

"Our recommendations will simplify the funding process and make more money available for transportation without increasing taxes."

Private sector representatives of the PA 51 Citizens Advisory Committee made 10 primary recommendations, including:

- Using money earmarked for road and bridge repairs solely for that purpose, so that 90 percent of Michigan's roads and bridges can be brought to good condition by 2007;

- Eliminating the diversion of transportation funds to other state departments, increasing available transportation funding by more than $70 million per year;

- Simplifying and reforming the collection of diesel fuel taxes without a tax increase, which would increase transportation funding by roughly $20 million per year;

- Conducting a functional classification review and identifying Michigan's priority commercial routes;

- Improving all priority commercial routes to an all-season standard and to good condition within five years, regardless of who owns the road;

- Requiring road and transit agencies to follow the principles of "asset management" in their business operations, allowing for prioritized investment objectives that deliver transportation improvements to their customer as efficiently and effectively as possible;

- Requiring all road agencies to publish five-year plans and award construction contracts earlier in the year, which will foster a more competitive bidding environment, save taxpayer dollars and minimize motorist inconvenience through more effective project management;

- Developing a uniform definition in state law for maintenance in road repairs;

- Allowing competitive bidding for routine road maintenance; and

- Encouraging efficiency in mass transit funding.

"Our goal is to strengthen public confidence in state transportation spending," Lehman said. "Our recommendations demonstrate for Michigan drivers that the money they pay for transportation funding is being used to aggressively improve the condition and safety of Michigan's roads and highways. Public confidence in road and bridge repairs will be enhanced through more efficient funding mechanisms."

Public Act 51 outlines the funding formula for Michigan's transportation needs. The act is scheduled to sunset in September, but for months the PA 51 Study Committee has been working to determine how to best continue state transportation funding once PA 51 expires this year.

The PA 51 Transportation Funding Study Committee will review the recommendations from the Citizens Advisory Committee and submit a report to the Michigan legislature in the coming weeks. Lawmakers must then decide how to change the current transportation funding structure before Sept. 30.

Edison urges farm safety

Another Michigan planting season has arrived and visions of sugar beets, soybeans and corn signal that it's time to begin tilling the fields. Detroit Edison reminds customers to watch for overhead power lines whether working near the house or out in the field.

"When using elevated truck beds, raised conveyors and other large folding farm implements, it's essential to stop and survey the area to be sure of all clearances, even if you are familiar with the area," said Ron A. May, vice president, Energy Delivery and Service. "Operating large farm equipment near electrical lines and poles requires extra care."

Customers can be safe around electricity by following these safety tips and staying clear of overhead power lines at all times:

- Before tilling and planting a field, survey the area. Look for potential electrical safety hazards and plan how you will avoid them.

- Be aware of the clearance your equipment needs when truck beds are elevated or planting and tillage arms are fully extended or raised.

- Keep all equipment at least 10 feet away from overhead power lines and guy wires at all times. Give utility poles a wide clearance as well.

- Report any activity that might have damaged or undermined the stability of a utility pole. This ensures that inspections will be made and any damage repaired to prevent power lines from falling later.

- If your farm equipment has become entangled in a power line, remain inside the equipment. Try to drive the equipment away from the line. If you cannot, stay where you are and wait for rescue. Call or signal for someone to call 911 and Detroit Edison — warn others to stand well away.

- Never touch a downed power line or anything it is in contact with — even if there are no sparks. A live wire may whip or sweep through a wide area. A live wire may also lie silent but be equally deadly.

To report equipment entangled in a power line, potential damage to a utility pole and any downed wire call Detroit Edison at 1-800-477-4747.

Sleeping Bear scores eagle with novel

By Dirk Fischbach

Editor

Breaking new ground while sticking to a familiar theme, Sleeping Bear Press published its first novel in March. The book, "The Greatest Player who Never Lived" is a fictional account of a world-class golfer who is kept from the pro tour by allegations of a heinous crime in his past.

Mixed in with the fast-paced story are fascinating historical facts about golf's golden age and intriguing moments and personalities from the game's rich past.

Reviewers have dubbed the book "a gripping read." (Los Angeles Times) and USA Today called author J. Michael Vernon a "master of fiction."

Sleeping Bear President Brian Lewis knew the book was strong, but is still surprised by the response.

"When I picked up the manuscript, I couldn't stop reading it," said the publisher. "Then, I gave it to Adam Rifkin, another editor here, and he loved it and felt that it was far more than just a golf book."

The book, which has quickly become the best-selling golf book for Borders Books and amazon.com, also has attracted the attention of Hollywood. Lewis reports that more than 10 groups have approached Sleeping Bear Press in the recent weeks, exploring the idea of taking "The Greatest Player" to the silver screen.

The top talent agency in the country, Creative Artists Agency, has expressed interest in the project, and its list of clientele is interesting to Sleeping Bear. CAA represents such motion-picture heavy hitters as Brad Pitt, Tom Cruise, Steven Spielberg, Gwyneth Paltrow and Oprah Winfrey.

Even Hollywood "super-agent" Michael Ovitz' company, Artists Management Group, is looking into purchasing movie rights for the book.

"It is truly exciting that we have this kind of interest," Lewis said. "I guess I can understand their interest, since the book is really good."

"Though it is terribly flattering that so many calls have come in concerning a movie, we have to be patient, since there are only around 100 movies released every year," Lewis continued. "But the editor of Golf Magazine has told me that he is going to write that this book represents the best opportunity Hollywood has ever had to make a truly extraordinary golf movie."

In recent days, Sleeping Bear has sold the audio rights for the book, and is currently negotiating with a Japanese publisher for the right to release a translated version.

Many who have never played golf are singing its praises, and it is heralded as an especially good book for young readers who are brought into the story by the sporting aspect and given an introduction to excellent writing along the way.

VIEWS ON DENTAL HEALTH

GARY GOCHANOUR, D.D.S.
426-8336

FIXED BRIDGE: FILLING THE GAP

A fixed bridge can replace one or more missing teeth. It consists of one or more replacement teeth attached to crowns that are replaced on two or more surrounding support teeth. Along with replacing teeth, the fixed bridge helps restore the normal function and proper position of your bite. A fixed bridge is made of various metals, porcelain, or a combination of the two.

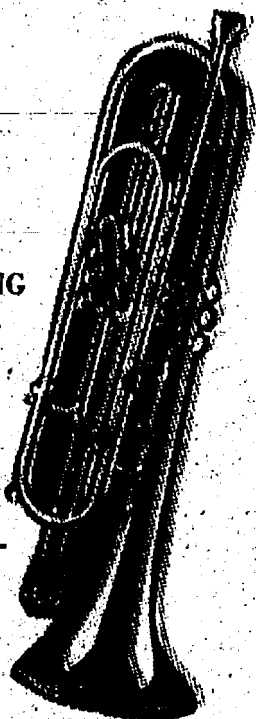

Your dentist first reshapes the support teeth that will hold the crowns of your fixed bridge. Then an impression of the prepared tooth and of the surrounding and opposing teeth is taken. To protect your prepared teeth, the dentist may fit a temporary bridge.

Your dentist sends the impression and color recommendation to the dental laboratory making your fixed bridge. Your dentist will adjust the bridge for fit and bite. Once these are comfortable, it is cemented into place. The fixed bridge is the next best thing to natural teeth.

A Quilt of Hope

Students in Bates Elementary School teachers Debbie Ferri's and Katie See's third-grade classes recently completed science units investigating the hydrosphere and ecosystems, and a reading unit exploring ocean animals. Students studied positive and negative effects man has on the environment. They collected change to donate to the Nature Conservancy and Save the Manatee Club. They also made a quilt and collected money to raffie it off. A total of $211.60 was raised to save three acres of coral reef through the Nature Conservancy and 10 manatees through the Save the Manatee Foundation. The students in Ferri's class are pictured with their quilt. The class includes Anna Aiken, Phillip Baker, Amy Baldus, Kacie Blackwell, Garret Camilleri, Jocelyn Coast, Rachel Davis, Mike DeWaele, Josh Early, Tucker Galloway, Caroline Grissom, Madalyne Jantovsky, Connor Johnston, Michelle Stiefel, Stephanie LaMore, Kenneth Metz, Logan Powell, Timothy Racine, Jennarose Rolles, Matthew Silvani, Nicholas Soos-Balas, Peter Washabaugh and Stephanie Wolyniak.

MDOT repairs Race Rd. bridge

The Michigan Department of Transportation has begun construction to repair the bridge on I-94 over Race Road. Traffic has been reduced to one lane in each direction near Race Road to accommodate beam repair and joint replacement. Single-lane closures will be in effect for approximately four days.

Two lanes will be maintained in each direction with narrower lanes and no shoulders along this stretch of I-94. After May 15, there will be no lane restriction on I-94 since the majority of the work will be taking place under the bridge. At this time, intermittent land closures will occur on Race Road.

This $375,000 million project is part of the record road and bridge program made possible with the passage of Gov. John Engler's Build Michigan II plan and the federal TEA-21 bill.

Flight rally slated May 13

Area young people ages 8-17 will have a chance to take to the skies on Saturday, May 13, as Experimental Aircraft Association (EAA) Chapter 333 hosts a Young Eagles Flight Rally at Ann Arbor Municipal Airport.

Additional Young Eagles Rallies will follow on the second Saturday of each month through October.

The rally is part of the EAA Aviation Foundation's Young Eagles Program, created to get more youngsters interested in aviation. There is no cost to the young people or their parents.

Volunteer EAA pilots have a goal to provide one million young people an airplane ride by the year 2003, which is the 100th anniversary of powered flight, and 50th anniversary of EAA, the world's largest sport aviation organization.

"Free airplane rides are just part of the Flight Rally" said Bill Simpson, spokesman for the event. "We hope to build one-on-one relationships between pilots and young people, giving a new generation a chance to learn more about the possibilities that exist in the world of aviation."

All pilots at the event and their airplanes are licensed and insured. Pilots and other volunteers will also explain more about their airplanes allowing young people to discover how airplanes work and how pilots ensure safety is the prime concern before every flight.

Following the flight, each participant will receive a certificate, making him or her an official Young Eagle. Their name will then be entered into the "World's Largest Logbook," which is on permanent display at the EAA Air Adventure Museum in Oshkosh, Wisc. The logbook is also accessible on the Internet at www.youngeagles.com.

EAA members are also flying Young Eagles on an individual basis around the world. Young Eagles have already been registered in more than 70 countries.

Kids and their parents attending the flight rally on May 13 and on subsequent dates are asked to come to the Terminal Building near the Control Tower at Ann Arbor Municipal Airport, starting at 10 a.m. to register for their flight. Flights will begin at 10:15 a.m. with registration closing at 3 p.m.

A parent or legal guardian must sign the registration form for the child to fly. Registration forms and other information are available in advance by calling Bill Simpson at 944-2542 or Don Wennersten at 769-6018.

Assault

A report of a disorderly person on April 27 in the 7800 block of Kookaburra Court escalated into an assault investigation.

A deputy was dispatched on the disorderly conduct report, but on the way to the scene was advised that the suspect, a 43-year-old Belleville man, had a gun.

The deputy arrived on the scene, with two other deputies as backup. They met with a 26-year-old man, who said the suspect had pointed the gun at him, telling him to go away.

The victim said he wanted to talk to his 29-year-old wife, who was separated from him. He also wanted to drop off some items for the couple's 5-year-old son.

He said that, when he knocked on the woman's door, the suspect answered, and quickly pointed and cocked the gun at him.

The suspect said he had not pulled the gun on the man, but had it because he knew that the woman was frightened of her husband. The woman said she had not seen what had happened.

The gun was confiscated, and the deputy advised both the victim and the woman about getting personal protection orders. A report of the incident was forwarded to the prosecutor's office.

Larceny

A 26-year-old woman, a Saline High School bus driver, came to the sheriff's department on April 27 to report that her wallet had been stolen.

The woman said that, the day before, she had taken several Saline students to a track meet in Dexter. Her wallet had been in a seat-back bag on the bus.

When she returned home that night, the woman found that the wallet was missing. She realized the wallet must have been taken during the meet.

A deputy at the station told her to cancel her driver's license and credit cards. The Dexter school liaison was asked to be on the lookout for missing or stolen property at the high school.

The woman contacted the deputy on April 30 to say she had found the wallet at home.

A 45-year-old man reported that his April 27 garage sale in the 3100 block of Jeanette Drive had been disrupted by an incident of theft.

The man told a sheriff's deputy that he suspected a man who had approached him at the sale to ask about the price of a toy truck and a cash register being used in the sale.

The suspect, accompanied by a woman, had decided on a different toy truck, and the couple left a short time later with their child. Later in the day, the victim noticed that the register and first toy were missing.

The suspect was described as white man in his 20s, about 6 feet tall, with a shaved head and tattoos on his arms. The woman with him was described as about 20 years old, heavyset, with long brown hair.

The register contained $100 in cash, and the truck was valued at $5. The victim said he was not sure, but he might also be missing an electric saw.

Minor in Possession

On April 30, a deputy spoke with a 19-year-old man involved in a case of minor in possession of alcohol on April 20.

The man said his friend, who was the suspect in the case, had been in the Trading Post store, 9270 McGregor Road, and came out to the car with a case of beer.

The man said he did not think the employees at the store were upset, and thought his friend had purchased the beer from them. The man said the two had drunk the beer.

Dexter Township

Lost Property

On April 28, a 24-year-old Livonia man came to the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department to report that he had lost his wallet at the North Lake Country Store, 20941 North Territorial Road. The man said he had stopped at the store to get a sandwich, which he ate while sitting on the back of his truck. He believed he had lost the wallet at that point.

The wallet contained a driver's license, ATM card and $140 in cash. Total value of missing property is estimated at $165.

Lima Township

Recovered Automobile

A 47-year-old Chelsea man called the sheriff's department on April 30 to report a car in a field near his home.

A sheriff's deputy, dispatched to the scene, found the car in great disrepair. The registration was found, and the deputy tried to contact the car's owner.

The owner, a Grand Rapids man, said that he thought the car was parked in the lot of his son's Ann Arbor apartment complex. He said he would call the Ann Arbor police to report the car as stolen.

Property Damage

On May 2, a sheriff's community service officer was dispatched on a report of property damage. She spoke with a 56-year-old man, who said that on April 29, someone had broken the windshield of his car while it was parked at Stiver's Restaurant, 11 S. Fletcher Road. Total damage was estimated at $700.

Domestic Assault

On April 29, a deputy was dispatched on a report of a domestic assault. The deputy met with a 46-year-old woman and her 49-year-old husband.

The woman said that she and her husband had been arguing all day about her gambling. The argument came to a head when the woman turned off the television.

The man, who had been outside, came inside and complained that the television had been turned off. He poured a pot of cold coffee over the woman's head, and when she complained, poured bottles of juice and soda over her as well.

The woman said that when she went to clean off the liquids, the man followed her. Eventually, she told him to leave her alone and knocked his glasses off his face.

The man told her that constituted an assault and he was calling police.

The man confirmed the woman's account, saying that he poured cold liquids on her because she needed to cool off. He was taken to jail, printed and held.

Lyndon Township

Drunk Driving

The sheriff's department was contacted on April 28 about a car crash on Island Lake Road west of Stofer Road.

A deputy arriving at the scene found that the driver, a 27-year-old Grass Lake man, was being loaded onto an ambulance.

The deputy noticed that the driver smelled strongly of alcohol, but because the man had suffered a serious injury, the deputy was unable to talk to the man.

The car was littered with empty beer bottles, and a 46-year-old man said when he found the driver, he also noticed that the man smelled strongly of alcohol.

The deputy went to the University of Michigan Hospital. The driver was still undergoing tests, but blood was drawn, and sent to a police lab to test the blood-alcohol level.

Scio Township

Warrant Arrest

On April 27, a deputy was dispatched to Scio Farms Estates to investigate a 911 hang-up. The deputy spoke with the caller, 21-year-old James T.C. Miller, who said that the call was accidental. A search of the Law Enforcement Information Network (LEIN) showed that Miller was wanted on a friend of the court warrant out of Washtenaw County. He was arrested and taken to the county jail.

On May 7, a deputy was dispatched to assist Ann Arbor police with a subject in a traffic stop. The deputy went to Baxter's Party Store, 293 N. Zeeb Road, where two Ann Arbor officers had stopped the car.

A LEIN check showed that the driver, 33-year-old Donald M. Carlton of Ann Arbor, was wanted on four felony warrants out of Ann Arbor for drugs. He was arrested and taken to the county jail.

Violation of Protection Order

A woman called the sheriff's department on May 6, saying that her 41-year-old ex-husband had moved back in with her the night before, violating a personal protection order.

The woman told a deputy that the man had been trying to resurrect their marriage, and the night before came to her apartment with several bags of his belongings.

The man brought his things inside, and told the woman to give him all of her money, and keys to the apartment. The woman waited until the man was at work to call the sheriff's department.

The woman said her ex-husband and his family had threatened her and tried to control her, and she feared retaliation.

The deputy spoke with the man at his work. He said the woman was upset because he would not give her money, and filed the report to get back at him. He denied being at the woman's house the preceding night.

The couple's 8-year-old daughter said that her father had been at the apartment with her mother the night before. In addition, several bags of the man's clothes and belongings were found at the address.

A Nov. 15 protection order barred the man from contact ing the woman. The man was arrested for violating that order. A report of the incident was forwarded to the prosecutor's office for review.

Disorderly Conduct

On April 29, a 43-year-old woman called the sheriff's department to report that her 43-year-old ex-husband was knocking on the windows of her home in Scio Farms Estates.

A deputy responding to the call found the man leaving the scene. The deputy and the man returned to the home. The deputy spoke to the woman, who said she was afraid of the man, who had been acting strangely recently.

She said the man had owned guns in the past, and she was afraid he might buy another. The woman also said she was working on a personal protection order against the man.

The deputy served the man with a trespassing notice, and told the woman to call if the man returned.

Assault and Battery

A hockey game at Jeffrey Arena, 3366 Jackson Road, on March 9 led a 20-year-old Ypsilanti man to report an assault by an arena employee to the sheriff's department on March 27.

The man said that he had been at the arena playing roller hockey when he was injured. After taking time out for his injury, he returned to the game to find a fight had broken out.

The man assisted in breaking up the fight, but the manager, a 47-year-old Southfield man, told all of the players that the game was canceled, as was a future game.

The man said that he and the manager then got into an argument, which led the manager to pick up the man and throw him to the floor.

A deputy investigating the report spoke with a referee at the arena, an 18-year-old Saline man. The referee said that the victim had actually fallen after being shoved by one of his friends, and that the manager had nothing to do with it. The manager said he did not know that the victim had fallen.

The deputy also spoke with the owner of the arena, who said that the victim had been a constant troublemaker, and he was banned from the arena.

A report of the incident was forwarded to the prosecutor's office.

Larceny

A 30-year-old Ypsilanti man called police on April 26 to report a theft from his car. He was contacted by a sheriff's community service officer.

The man said that he had parked his car outside Thetford, 800 Baker Road, where he worked. When he went out to his car later, he found that the alarm had been set off. Inside the car, the man found wires hanging out, and his radar detector was missing. He did not suspect anyone of the theft. The value of the detector was estimated at $150.

Fraud

Somewhere in Miami, someone is driving a stolen submarine.

On April 26, a sheriff's deputy was dispatched to Huron

Scuba, 4816 Jackson Road, on a report of credit card fraud. The deputy spoke with the owner of the store, who said that he was contacted on March 14 by a man from Miami.

The Florida man said he wanted to order an underwater vehicle from the business, and provided a credit card number. The vehicle was shipped out, and the next day the same man called, ordering another vehicle.

The owner of the business later received a letter from the credit card company notifying him that the credit card number was for a man in Texas, and had been used without authorization.

The owner said that the company also told him he would be responsible for the charges, totaling $3,335.58, so he called the police.

The deputy contacted the Metro Dade County Sheriff's Department in Miami, and gave them the address to which the vehicles had been shipped. The investigation was open pending information from Florida police.

Webster Township

Domestic Assault

On April 28, deputies were dispatched on a report of domestic assault. They met with a 44-year-old man, who said he and his 33-year-old wife had been arguing when she slapped him.

The man said the woman then left in the couple's car. Their 9-year-old son said he had seen his mother slap his father.

When the woman returned, she told deputies that she had slapped the man when he began to verbally abuse her. She also said that the man had beaten her a number of times, but no records were found in police files.

The woman was arrested and taken to jail pending arraignment. The man said he hoped to work things out with his wife.

Mailbox Bomb

An explosive device found in an area mailbox prompted the mobilization of the State Police Bomb Squad.

A 47-year-old woman called the sheriff's department on April 28 to report a possible bomb in her mailbox in the 4800 block of North Delhi Road.

A deputy dispatched on the report found a cylinder, wrapped with duct tape, and with a fuse charred down to its base.

The deputy called for backup, which sealed off the scene. A sheriff's sergeant called in the bomb squad. When the squad arrived, they disabled the device, which was found to contain gunpowder.

The bomb squad seized the bomb for analysis. The case was open, and police were searching for a suspect.

Manchester Township

Assault

A night out with friends turned into an assault for a 41-year-old Clinton woman.

A deputy was dispatched on April 16 on a report of assault and battery, but was told that the victim, the Clinton woman was sleeping.

Later, the victim said that the incident took place at Garland's Tavern, 20400 Austin Road.

The woman said that she, a 39-year-old Brooklyn woman and a 36-year-old Brooklyn man had been at the bar until it closed. As the victim was leaving, she was assaulted by an employee of the bar, a 37-year-old woman.

The victim said that the attack had injured her back. She also said that she was new to the area, and did not know the suspect well enough to provoke the attack.

The woman's friends confirmed her account, saying that the suspect had been hassling them all night at the bar. The man said the suspect had also slapped him in the head, but he did not want to press charges. He said he thought the suspect was upset because her ex-husband was a friend of the man.

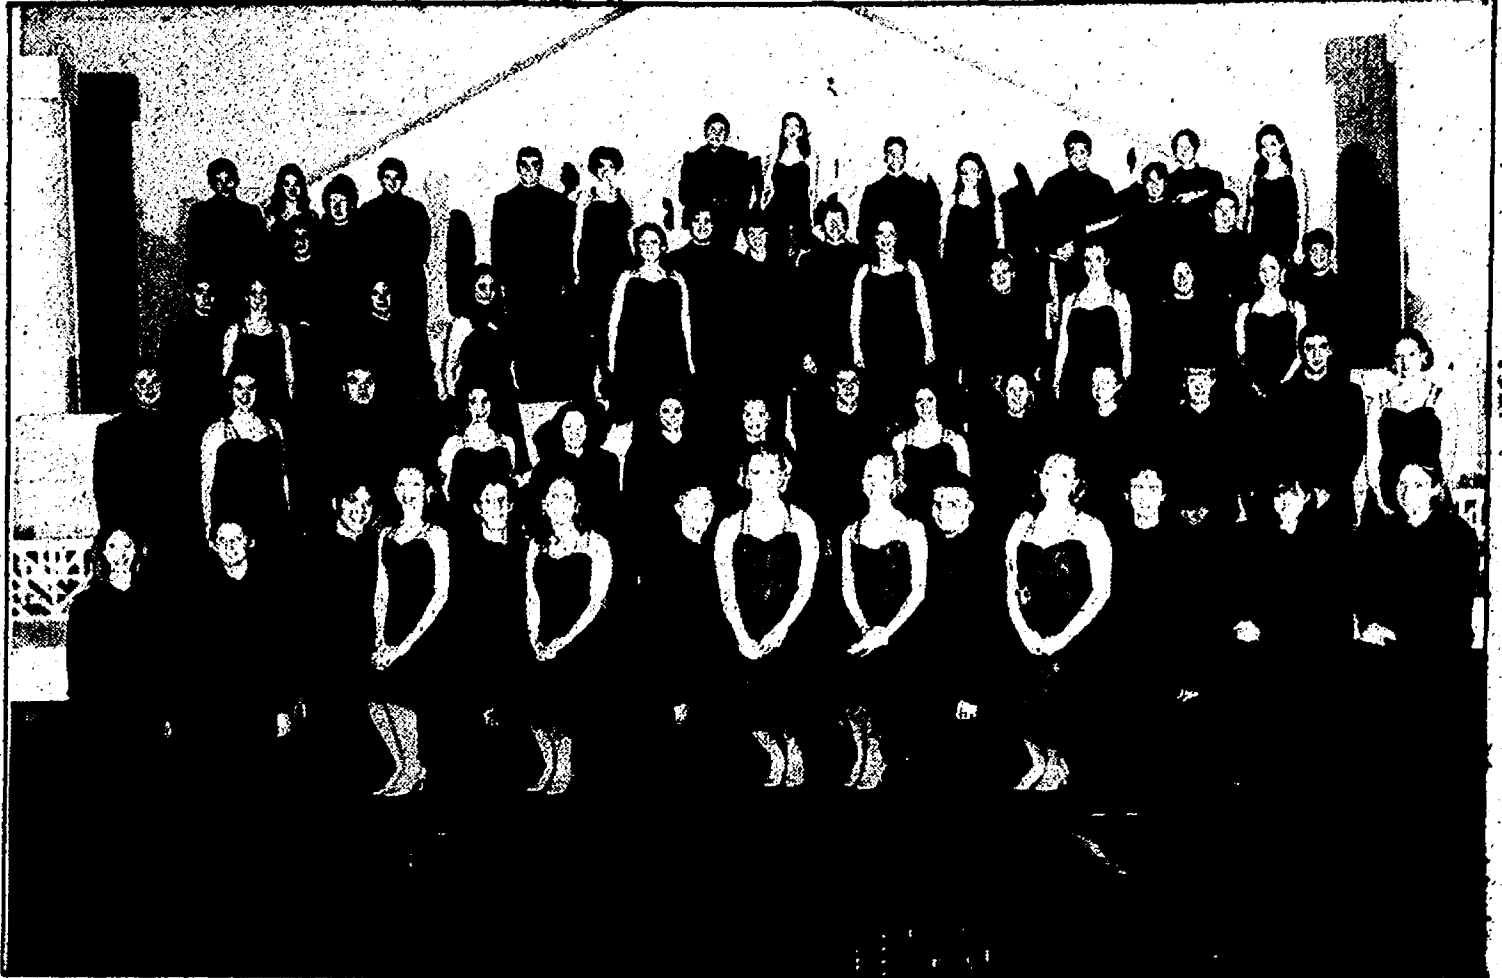

A 48-year-old woman and a man, both employees of the bar, said that the victim and her friends had been causing trouble at the bar that night, threatening the victim.

The female employee said that the alleged assault took place when she and the suspect were escorting the victim to her car. She said that the victim had begun acting strangely, and injured herself.

The man said he thought the incident was an excuse for the Brooklyn woman to assault the suspect.

Deputies were unable to contact the suspect, and the case was open pending further interviews.

A SETTLING PROSPECT

The parties in a civil lawsuit may agree to settle the case at any point in the lawsuit. In fact, the vast majority of civil lawsuits never go to trial. A compromise between opposing parties can take place from the time the lawsuit is filed up to when the case has been tried but before the jury reaches a verdict. A settlement consists of an agreement by the plaintiff to accept money in return for dropping the action against the injuring party. While the plaintiff's lawyer may offer a realistic assessment as to whether the plaintiff's claim will ultimately be successful, the final decision of whether or not to accept a settlement offer rests solely on the plaintiff.

In fact, simply by having an attorney communicate your position to individuals or business entities that have been unresponsive to your demands for compensation or redress in the past can often bring about a swift and gratifying outcome. To schedule a complimentary consultation, call the LAW OFFICES OF KITCHEN & STRINGER, located in Dexter, at 3249 Broad Street, at 426-4695. We have been protecting our clients' interests for over 30 years in cases involving personal injury, business and family law, real estate, wills and estate probate, and criminal defense.

HINT: People injured in auto accidents should never agree to an insurance company's settlement offer without consulting a lawyer.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

An Open Letter to the Chelsea School Board

Those who know me will recognize this maxim I often profess: "No good deed goes unpunished." This situation affirms this credo.

In my 19 years in Chelsea, I have: elevated the bands' performance level, both marching and concert, to that of schools at least twice our enrollment; performed at every public event I was asked; participated in marching festivals that had only been attended once before; initiated annual concert tours all over the country and throughout Europe; taken students to the Metropolitan Opera and Broadway shows, the VanGogh art museum, Ann Frank House, San Marco Cathedral and the Louvre; performed at some of the most prestigious conferences in the state; and consistently received outstanding ratings at festivals.

As CEA president, I put myself between teachers and the administration to alleviate tensions created by the reassignment of elementary staff; defended the administration and board in a letter to the editor of the Ann Arbor News when the paper attacked their actions; invited the superintendent to CEA board meetings (much to the displeasure of some CEA members), and was praised by Ed Richardson in front of staff and board members as a great problem solver and asset to the district. He even presented me with a shirt like he wears, as a token of my service to the district.

When I came to Chelsea, the marching band was an excellent ensemble. They performed well and with precision. The complexity of routines was fairly simple, yet effective. When I arrived, I sought to create a more intricate drill style with more demanding music. I began writing and teaching shows that demanded more of the students and of my instruction. Other schools performing comparable routines go to camp with at least two full-time instructors and a staff exceeding 20 instructors (Dexter and Saline to name just two). I have to provide the same instruction alone.

When I interviewed for the position in Chelsea, I inquired about a band camp stipend. I was told there was none. This was not an expectation of the district. In order to participate in marching festivals, it was necessary to hold a camp, so I did. For years, I sought help and support for camp, but was told that the district did not set these standards. They were mine. The district did not feel compelled to provide support for such activities.

A series of circumstances finally achieved "critical mass" that prompted me to want not to continue expending the energy required to maintain the standards I had set for the marching band. Until six years ago, Warren Mayer, the middle school band director, assisted with the marching band at camp, games and all events. When he retired, subsequent directors did not volunteer their services. This left me doing camp, games and other performances alone. The new contract required teachers to come to school a week sooner, which is normally when I did camp. I did not want to have to start the first of August to get ready for camp (a 100-150 hour task). Each year more schools were elevating their level of performance and utilizing large staffs requiring me to increase my efforts to "stay ahead" by myself. Running three-hour marching rehearsals two to four times per week at the beginning of the day left me exhausted by 10:30 a.m.

Nodes on my vocal chords due to running ten-hour rehearsals by myself left me straining to speak halfway through the second day of camp and for most of the fall. This caused me to feel even more run down because of the effort it took just to speak as I taught the rest of the day. I was unable to make administration appreciate the demands on the energy needed to produce the level of performance we achieve. And, maybe turning 50 had some impact.

I just felt things were not going to get better and I was discouraged in my efforts to get equitable treatment. In all areas we staff and finance our sports teams, administration, and teaching staff commensurate with other districts of comparable size. Unfortunately, this equity did not apply to the marching band.

This "critical mass" created a situation where I felt compelled to resign the marching band portion of my stipend. The administration would not permit such a scenario. In meetings with administration I was encouraged to scale things back. That they did not want me "to kill myself" maintaining these self-imposed standards. In a May 11, 1999, memorandum I was told I "will not be expected to perform at EMU Band Day, Festival of Lights or the Marching Festival." On July 19, 1999, I received a communication that stated I would perform at band day and the marching band festival. This same memo stated, "Historically, you (I) have chosen to hold a four day band camp in order to prepare students for marching festival." It went on to offer money for assistants-for-marching camp.

Unfortunately, by this time the situation had become so contentious I did not feel compelled to choose to volunteer my time to hold a camp. Then, on Aug. 9, I received a written mandate from Superintendent Richardson to hold the camp beginning the 19th. This was an impossibility because of the 100+ hours it would take to prepare the drill and the fact that students cannot respond with such short notice. I had made it very clear the situation needed to be remedied by mid July if I were to hold a camp. In fact, I left a letter announcing the parade rehearsal schedule and that there would not be a camp with the administration. They sent this. If there was going to be a mandate, why wasn't it presented then?

As I have stated, the marching camp is necessary if we participate in festival. Not providing camp was a guarantee that we could not participate in marching festival. They are one and the same. If I was to be cited for insubordination for not providing a previously voluntary camp on my part, it was a given I was set up for a second insubordination because we could not participate in the festival.

I only asked for the same consideration that had been granted my colleagues in the past. No one in the music staff is asked to extend their normal teaching contract adding days as a part of their stipend. The stipend is to compensate for the concerts, parades and other events. Jed Fritzmeyer instituted an orchestra camp for the high school orchestras and middle school orchestras that occurred on two weekends in September. This camp had been held for 14 years. When he decided it was too time consuming and no longer wanted to hold the camp nothing was said. Beverly Yelsik used to present her drama plays after school until she no longer felt compelled to and began putting them on during the school day without repercussions. These are just two examples of many.

For 18 years I voluntarily held this camp and now I am told it is part of my job. Yet, in the past when I sought compensation or help I was told I have no right to force my expectations on the administration.

It is very disheartening to know that 18 years of dedicated service to this school district has been so casually dismissed. In the words of John Williamson, director of bands at Central Michigan University, "His (my) work at Chelsea, Michigan is well documented as one of the very finest not only in our state, but in the country, as well. Every aspect of his program including concert and marching band along with chamber music has been exemplary in every aspect serving as a model for what a band program should be."

The decision to reassign me is a disservice to the school system, to me and to the students of Chelsea. I hope that you will reconsider the actions taken in light of hearing my perspective on the situation.

As I said, no good deed goes unpunished. I hope that this will not be the case in this instance.

William W. Gourley
Chelsea High School band director

Community helped in time of sorrow

In a time of great sorrow, there was one bright spot, and that was the people of Chelsea. It was incredible to see how the wonderful people of Chelsea bonded together to support the family and friends of Danny, Janice, Sydney, Cooper and Makenzie. The love shared with Danny and Sydney as well as with my wife, Helen our other children, the entire Young family and myself was tremendous.

In the saddened days, months and years ahead, the memory of the many friends who cared so much about my daughter and two grandchildren will add happiness to the thoughts of the years we did have them with us.

The flowers, the contributions, the food at the church, the painted rock, the overflowing numbers of people who attended the funeral home, the memorial service and the burial site will always be in our minds and our hearts as Helen and I venture through the rest of our lives.

I know that the love you shared with our family over the last few days will play a major role in our road to recovery, and I hope that each of you will pick one special moment in the life of Janice, Cooper and Makenzie; one moment of many that they shared their love, their humor or their understanding with you; and remember that moment as a tribute to three wonderful people who loved everyone they came in contact with and managed in one way or another to share that love and make everyone's day a little brighter.

We would also like to thank the Chelsea Police and the Staffan-Mitchell Funeral Home for the courteous and respectful manner in which they handled a difficult situation.

Thank you, and God bless each and every one of you.

New laws help preserve land

Two laws signed into effect within the last couple of years provide new incentives for owners of and heirs to large landholdings to protect their property and reduce or avoid federal estate taxes.

The Taxpayer Relief Act of 1997 allows beneficiaries to exclude from the taxable estate up to 40 percent of the otherwise taxable value of land subject to a qualifying conservation easement. (This is in addition to the reduction in the value of the land resulting from the donation of the easement.)

The exclusion is limited to $300,000 in 2000, increasing to $400,000 in 2001 and $500,000 in 2002. In order to receive the full 40 percent exclusion, easements must reduce the value of the land by at least 30 percent of the fair market value minus the value of retained development rights.

The Internal Revenue Service Reform Act of 1998 extends this benefit in a new way. Under this provision, where a landowner has died without having donated a conservation easement, his or her heirs may be allowed to elect to donate a conservation easement on the inherited lands to reduce the taxable value of their estate by the value of the easement.

In effect, it allows post-mortem donations (those made after the death of the landowner) to qualify for a deduction from the taxable value of the estate.

Conservation easements are legal agreements reached between a landowner and a qualified organization such as the Washtenaw-Potawatomi Land Trust. The easement defines the kinds of activities that can and cannot occur on a property. The agreement is signed and recorded with the deed to the property so that it is effective for the current as well as future landowners, ensuring that the land will be permanently protected.

In addition, substantial federal income tax and local property tax benefits may be available to easement donors. To qualify for the new tax benefits, the protected land must be within 25 miles of a metropolitan statistical area (MSA).

All properties in Washtenaw County meet this criteria.

The property must have been owned by the decedent or a member of his family for three years prior to death. Property subject to a mortgage is eligible for the exclusion only to the extent of the net equity in the property. The value of structures is excluded from these provisions.

The benefits under these provisions are given at the discretion of the beneficiaries of the estate. The executor must make an irrevocable election to take the benefits. Such an election can be made only if the easement was placed on the land by the decedent or his family, or if the executor or beneficiaries do so before the filing of estate taxes. Land excluded from estate tax under these provisions would receive a carryover basis rather than a stepped-up basis for purposes of calculating any gain on a subsequent sale of the property. Folks owning or inheriting family lands that they wish to remain in agriculture or open space are encouraged to explore the donation of a conservation easement and the attendant tax benefits they may realize.

As land prices in Washtenaw County skyrocket, more and more families will be facing situations where long-held properties may have to be sold to pay estate taxes.

For more information on conservation easements and tax benefits, please contact the Washtenaw-Potawatomi Land Trust at (734) 426-3868, write to P.O. Box 188, Dexter, MI 48130 or email BLonik13@aol.com. Barry Lonik is executive director of the Washtenaw Potawatomi Land Trust.

Gail and Norm Bauer show off a recent creation. Norm uses the artistic outlet both for therapy and to create unique gifts for family and friends. The piece shown was auctioned off to raise funds for a scholarship for Chelsea students attending Washtenaw Community College.

Nuts & Bolts

Cancer survivor returns to basics to create art

By Dirk Fischbach
Editor

It once was said that the secret to art was not to see new things, but to see old things with new eyes.

It's hard to imagine a more practical application of that philosophy than in the art of Norm Bauer.

Bauer, who for many years operated Norm's Body Shop on Waterloo Road, turns everyday industrial supplies into quaint keepsakes that capture the essence of agricultural living. His basic design is of a tractor with driver.

For the structure of the tractor, he welds together a pair of large bolts, makes the front wheels out of washers and the rear out of a washers with a double row of carpentry spikes. Bending metal over a round surface, he fashions fenders and uses welding rods for steering components. The finishing touch is provided with authentic paints. (Norm leans to true farming traditions here, John Deere Green and International Red.)

The idea for the tractors came while he and wife Gail were visiting in Indianapolis. A hotel gift shop they passed had a similar item in the window. Intrigued by the concept, and having the artistic and metal working skills to improve on the design, Norm went to work.

And while the tractors have proven a hit with family and friends — and have fetched very high offers from art dealers and toy shops — they are just one more avenue of expression for Norm.

"He's always been artistic," says Gail. "He can always come up with something. One time I needed a pair of shoes to match a dress I had bought. I looked everywhere, but couldn't find the right color. Norm took a pair I had down to the body shop and painted them to perfectly match the dress."

Similarly, when the Purple Rose Theatre was in a pinch on the eve of its grand opening, Norm came through with some quickly designed and built handrails to satisfy safety requirements. The last-minute accouterments are still in use at the popular entertainment venue — outlasting the building itself.

But art and metal working are more than just simple pastimes.

Norm, who learned some of his skills while serving in the U.S. Air Force in Korea, was diagnosed with esophageal cancer a few years back. Ultimately, he lost his stomach and esophagus to the disease.

A farmer and body shop laborer all his life, he found the convalescence difficult. It's just not in his making to sit still.

So, the artistic renderings became an important part of his recovery. One of his first creations was presented to the doctor who performed the life-saving surgeries to remove the cancer. Others have been given to family and friends. His most recent was auctioned off to raise money for a scholarship fund to support Chelsea students attending Washtenaw Community College.

Along with serving a therapeutic role and allowing Norm to show his generosity, the projects also allow him a bit of humor. The tractor built for daughter Gala, an operatic singer studying in New York, has a driver wearing a dress.

The fascination with farm scenes comes naturally. Norm and Gail live on the site of a family farm that dates back to 1904. Norm's grandfather and father farmed the land before him, and he has always had a hand in the operation.

The art has come sporadically.

"It takes a tremendous amount of coaching," jokes Gail.

And with 50 hours or more going into each cre-

Luman Strong returns to teach in his hometown

By Michelle Rogers
Associate Editor

Luman Strong is at a crossroads in his life.

On his way to a career in counseling, he stumbled upon teaching and found a profession he truly enjoyed. But now he must decide whether he is best suited for the public schools, private schools or in missionary work.

A 1989 Chelsea High School graduate, Strong says he never imagined he would end up teaching in his hometown. He graduated from Ohio's Cedarville College in 1993 with a bachelor's degree in psychology. He considered a career as a school counselor, but found out it would require a teaching certificate and master's degree first.

"So I thought, 'Fine, I'll get my teaching certificate and teach for three years,'" he says. Two years later, he finished up additional coursework in education at Eastern Michigan University and became certified to teach. He spent some time traveling and lived in Alaska, working in a fishing factory, before returning to Chelsea, where he worked as a substitute teacher for a year.

Three years ago, Strong was hired to teach fifth grade at North Creek Elementary School.

"I never figured I'd be back in Chelsea," Strong says. "It just wasn't in my plans. I was going to go into inner city (missionary) work in Chicago. While the plans were being laid, I thought I'd substitute. But while I was here, I got to know everybody and I decided I wanted to stay in education."

Strong had sent out applications to school districts across Southeastern Michigan. Chelsea was the only district to call him for an interview.

"It was a smooth transition from subbing to here," he says. "I am glad to be here now. It has worked out very well."

Strong said he had been hoping to land a job in a private Christian school, but was disappointed to learn turnover is so low jobs are hard to come by. The interest is still there, however. Over spring break, he spent a week working in a Christian school in inner city New York.

"That's definitely something that interests me," he says. "I am a Christian myself and I like the aspect of being able to use your faith in the schools and in education."

Strong says it's ironic that he has passions in both areas of education and missionary work.

"In college I told myself I'd never be a teacher or a missionary," he recalls. "So it's kind of ironic."

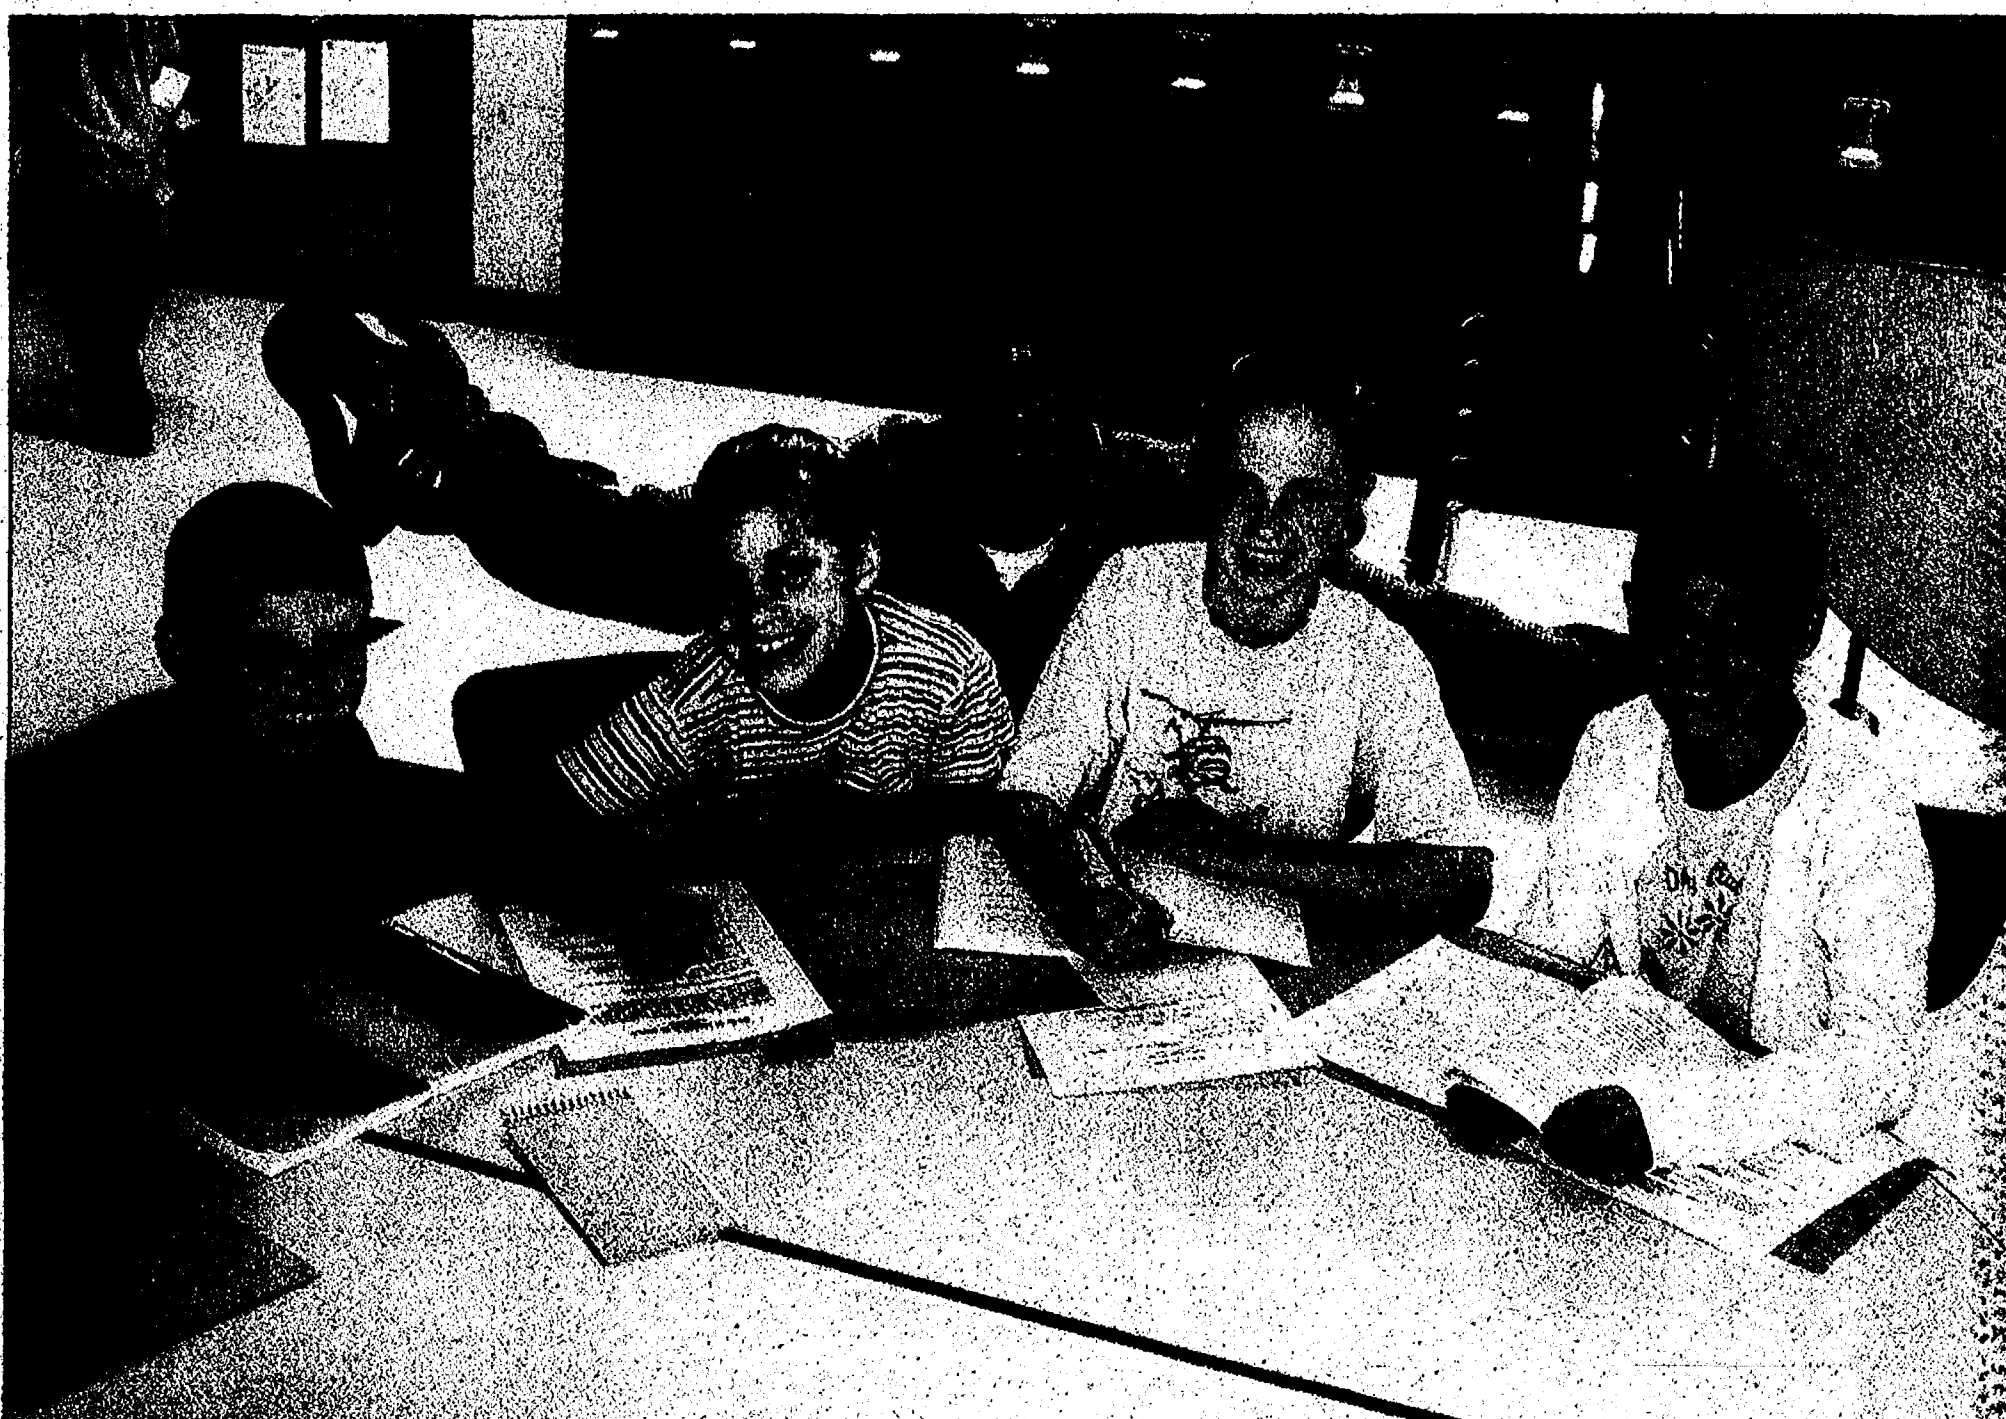

"I think as I went along through life and spent time as a camp counselor, I enjoyed being around kids, and I had some talent. I found education was the place I needed to be."

Strong's favorite subjects to teach are math and science, but concedes those weren't his favorites in school. In fact, he didn't like school very much.

"I admit, I wasn't fond of school," he says. "My favorite subjects were art, lunch and recess. So I understand that from other kids and I try to make it fun. I think if you enjoy something or it's fun, you do better at it."

Strong sees math as a basic necessity for students, and enjoys teaching history because he likes to weave in stories and make the past come alive.

Strong describes his teaching style as fun and hands-on with a lot of projects.

Luman Strong returned to Chelsea, where he grew up, to teach. His favorite subjects are math and science, although he concedes those weren't his best subjects in school. Strong is pictured with North Creek fifth-graders Ben Bradburn, Kaitlin Ehman, Katie Howe and Elise Dunn.

"I try to make it fun and not let them know they're learning but include everything in there," he says.

An example of a recent project that was fun and provided hands-on experience for students was a trip to Bay City, where students hopped on a boat and did marine biology experiments. They paid for the trip by baking and selling bread, raising $1,000.

It's at the elementary school level where Strong feels he does his best work.

"The kids, I feel, are much more moldable or easier to influence. You can really see big changes in their behaviors and values," he says. "They really want to please the teacher. At the high school, they're a little more set in their ways."

Strong says he hopes students see him as fair, firm and fun, which he calls the three F's.

"I think those three words wrap up what kids would say at the end of the year," he says.

The rules in his classroom center on the All Star Honor Code, which is named after his class, the All Stars.

"It's basically the Golden Rule," he says. "We talk about treating people with great respect and honor. I don't have a list of 50 rules, it's just, 'Is that

Brinklow to coach aquatic club

The Chelsea Aquatic Club recently hired David Brinklow as its new head swimming coach for all age groups. Brinklow, a sixth-grade teacher at Beach Middle School, has taught in the Chelsea school system for 15 years.

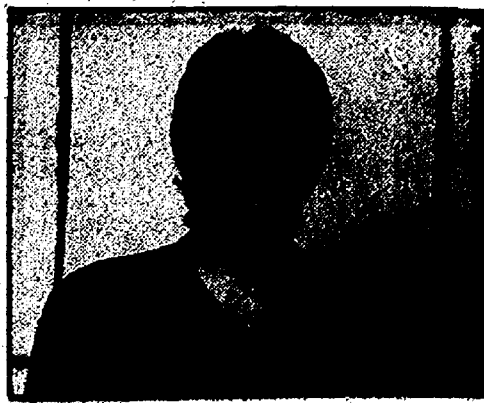

Brinklow actually has been in Chelsea longer than that, having come to the community as an assistant coach for the Chelsea Aquatic Club before becoming a teacher there.

The Milan native brings more than 20 years of swimming experience to the job. He has coached the middle school swimming team for 12 seasons, coached middle school track for four years and served as head coach of the high school girls' swimming team for five years.

In naming Brinklow head coach, club officials noted that his zest for swimming, and joy of introducing young children to the sport have set the stage for "something very special."

For more information about the Chelsea Aquatic Club, please contact the Chelsea Community Education Department at 433-2206. A spring conditioning clinic begins May 8 and a summer program will run from June 5 through July 27.

Hot 'Dogs! Batsmen give Welton 500th win

By Colleen O'Neill

Special Writer

The Chelsea varsity baseball team had a spectacular week. Besides wracking up six victories including two wins each over the big Class A schools from Ann Arbor, the Bulldogs won over Dexter on Thursday to go into the record book as the 500th win for head coach Wayne Welton.

Welton began coaching Chelsea baseball 22 years ago. He has been the head varsity coach for 21 years and has racked up a career record of 503-217-6 in that time.

Welton said he has a simple philosophy that he believes helped him achieve this success.

"I only ask two things of my players," Welton said. "To work hard and to have fun."

Indeed, Welton said he demands the same of himself.

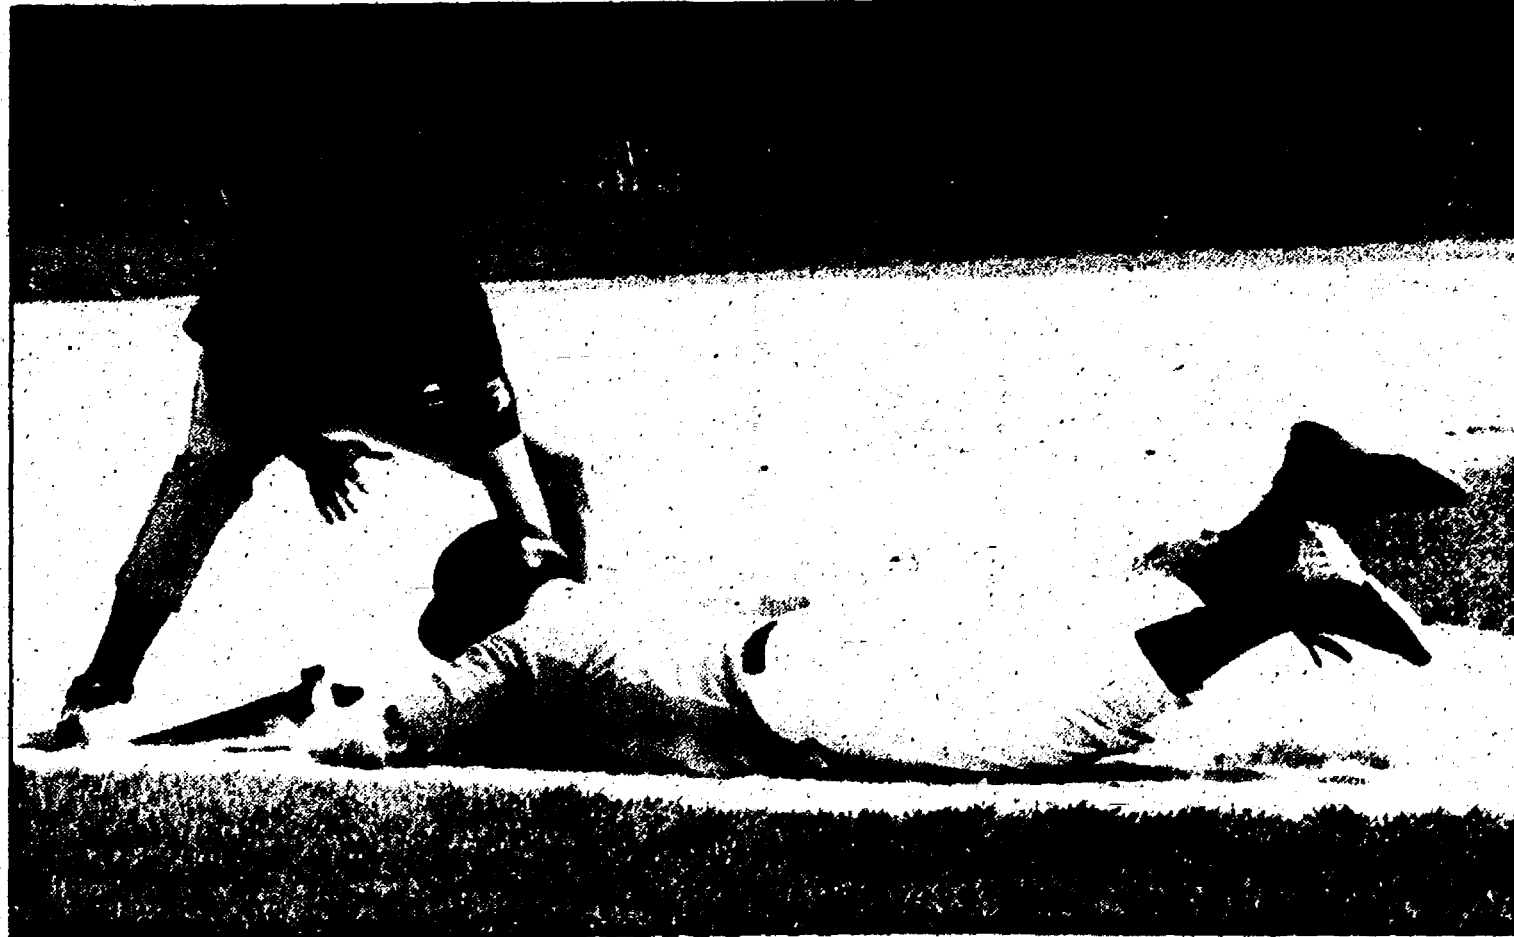

The 500th win came in a lopsided and ugly defeat over Southeastern Conference rival Dexter. In just three innings the Bulldogs won a 21-2 ball game and put Welton in the record books.

The magnitude of the defeat seemed to detract from the impressiveness of Welton's feat.

His daughter Molly Welton felt it would have been more momentous if it had not been such a crushing defeat.

"He knows it is a big accomplishment for him but he didn't want to make the Dexter team feel bad," Molly Welton said.

The game was a Bulldog slugfest with Chelsea winning in a three-inning mercy. The Bulldogs sent 16 hitters to the plate in the third inning and Dexter did not make an out.

Chris Cooper got the game off to a roaring start with a three-run homer in the first inning. It was Cooper's second home run of the year. The game ended when Ryan Barwick hit an inside the park grand slam home run. It was Barwick's second homer of the year. Barwick, Cooper and Tony Scheffler each had three hits on the day. Scheffler got his fifth home run of the season. Phil Fishburn had two hits and Matt Moffett added two hits and five RBIs.

Brian Sayers, Ben Myers, Nate Keiser and Cory Picklesimer each had a hit.

Fishburn spoke of being there for the 500th win.

"It was cool to see him," Fishburn said. "And it was great to be a part of it."

Fishburn and Barwick combined to dump a cooler of water over Welton to mark the occasion.

Impressive win or not the Bulldogs still had work to do and finished the double header with Dexter. The second game only went five innings with Chelsea winning 14-3. Chris Brigham pitched his way to a fourth victory on the season going strong through all five innings.

Pacing the hitting attack was Barwick with two hits including his third home run of the year and Ethan Rendell with two hits. Fishburn, Sayers, Nick Battistone and Myers each had a single. Scheffler added a two-run double in the first inning and Jerry Milliken had a triple.

Earlier in the week the Bulldogs won two games against Ann Arbor Pioneer.

In the first game Scheffler pitched six strong innings, giving up just four hits and striking out three batters. Cooper pitched the seventh inning and induced a double play ground ball and a strike out, all on just four pitches.

Cooper led the team in hitting with three hits, two RBIs and a triple. Sayers had two hits including a home run and two RBIs. Fishburn, Scheffler, Keiser and Myers all had hits in the game.

Mike Radka, Brigham and Jason Young combined to pitch the second game until it was called due to darkness in the fifth inning. The Bulldogs got the 13-6 win over the Pioneers.

Ethan Rendell paced the bulldog hitters with three hits, Sayers, Myers and Milligen each had two hits and Cooper drove in three runs. Scheffler, Moffett and Battistone each got a hit.

The Bulldogs ended the week as they had begun. With two wins over Ann Arbor Huron in a double header at Chelsea on Saturday the Bulldogs raised their record to 18-3.

"In a great high school baseball game the Bulldogs supplied some late inning heroes and pulled out a 3-2 win," Welton said.

Young pitched the first three innings and Cory Picklesimer pitched the final four and earned the win.

"Cory was excellent," Welton said.

The game was tied at one heading into the bottom of the sixth inning. Sayers, on some real heads up base running, scored from second base on a ground out by Cooper. But the River Rats were not going down easily. They tied the game in the top of the seventh and threatened to go ahead but leftfielder Fishburn threw out the potential lead run at the plate to end the inning.

The game was tied with two outs and two strikes in the bottom of the seventh inning when Jeff Kolodica hit a home run to win the game.

Kolodica's blast was his first of the season.

The second win over Huron was a slugfest but Chelsea prevailed, winning 20-10. Radka earned the victory in two innings of relief.

Matt Moffett led all hitters with four hits, Sayers had three including two home runs and six RBIs. Scheffler had three hits including a double and Picklesimer had three RBIs on three hits including a double. Radka added two hits and Keiser, Brigham and Battistone each had a hit to bring the Bulldogs total number of hits in the game to 18.

Chelsea played at Tecumseh on Monday and host Pinckney Thursday, May 11. They are at home again on Friday against Adrian.

Welton acknowledges that the 500th win is a major milestone but sees something else as more important.

"The kids have been wonderful," Welton said. "I have had opportunities over the years to move on to other coaching positions but there is not a better high school job anywhere."

Varsity lifts season record to 19-4

By Colleen O'Neill

Special Writer

The Chelsea varsity softball team raised its overall record to 19-4 and its Southeastern Conference record to 5-1 with solid play in a week of softball. The Bulldogs defeated Ann Arbor Pioneer in two games, split with Dexter and crushed Lincoln in a full week of action.

In the first game against Pioneer, the Bulldogs pulled out a 3-2 victory. The winning run was scored when Lindsay Powers led off the seventh inning with a single. Jessica Herman pinch ran for her, and Stephanie Crews got a double to bring in Herman. Crews was three-for-four in that game and Jenny Diesing got the win with 10 strikeouts.

Chelsea made only two errors to Pioneer's three errors in a tough defensive battle.

Chelsea won the second game by only a two-run margin, 7-5.

The Bulldogs scored three runs in the third and four in the fourth. Only three of the five Pioneer runs were earned.

Ashley Augustine had two hits with three RBIs, Betty Wescott had two hits, Crews had two hits and one was a triple. Powers had one double with two RBIs, Betsy Rühlig had two hits, and Traci Kern had two hits.

The Bulldogs also met up with a solid, unbeaten Dexter team for a double header at home and took advantage of being the home team. Chelsea scored two in the second, one in the fourth and one in the eighth.

Detting got on with a double in the eighth and Kern hit her in with a double to win the game. Powers had three hits including one being double in the game. Together Chelsea had nine hits, Dexter had five hits.

"We out hit them but we left six runners on base," said head coach Kim Reichard. "I think we shocked Dexter because we hit the ball. I think we are one of the first teams that made them play defense and not just rely on the Ritter girls."

"Again, only one run of the three was earned. We need to step up to the next level if we want to play the tougher teams."

Diesing got the win with seven strikeouts.

Carly Daniels came in to start the second game because Reichard thought Dexter was getting the timing of Diesing.

"The first inning she did great but couldn't pull through in the second," Reichard said.

Dexter scored six runs in the second with a walk, a hit batter, two singles, and three wild pitches.

"Diesing came in and almost got the save but we didn't quite make it," Reichard said. "I was impressed with our comeback being down by six early on in the game."

The Bulldogs could not quite pull out the victory and lost to the Dreads 9-7.

Augustine had two hits with two stolen bases, Wescott had two hits, and Kolokithas had three hits including a triple.

The Bulldogs got 16 hits against a much slower pitcher in their match with Lincoln.

"I was impressed with the way the girls adjusted to the difference in speed with the pitching," Reichard said. "So often that takes a lot of discipline to wait and adjust. We just rallied!"

Crews and Powers had three hits each. Powers hit two doubles and both had three RBIs. Augustine had two hits, Wescott had two hits, Diesing had two hits, and Kolokithas had two hits.

"I was so happy for Diesing to get a shutout and a one-hitter with 10 strikeouts," Reichard said of the 15-0 mercy win over Lincoln.

The Bulldogs continued to dominate in the second game and again merited the Rail-splitters.

Daniels started the game and got the win but Diesing came in during the fourth inning.

Augustine had three hits including a two-run home run. Crews had two hits, one for a triple. Herman and Cole each had two hits.

"We switched up the line up a lot this game and I was pleased with the way everyone played and contributed," Reichard said. "We even executed a suicide squeeze."

The wins takes the Bulldogs overall record to 19-4; 5-1 in the SEC. They host Pinckney tonight.

On Saturday they will participate in the St. Joseph Tournament.

David Grabarkiewicz watches his well-hit ball.

Frosh take tourney wins

By Colleen O'Neill

Special Writer

The Chelsea freshman baseball team has taken their record to 10-4. They helped themselves by winning the Coldwater Invitational this past weekend.

The Bulldogs defeated Comstock in the first game 13-7, and beat Pennfield in the second 11-3.

Joe Myers pitched six and two-thirds innings with eight strikeouts, and gave up six hits. David Hardcastle came in to get the last out. David Grabarkiewicz pitched the second game in full, and had 10 strikeouts with only four hits.

"This group of freshmen is very talented and play well as a team," said head coach Corey Knight.

"Some teams have superstars and act like they are better than the rest, but not this team. We do have some players that are better than others, but you would never know it by their attitudes."

Knight feels the team as a whole is hitting the ball well.

"The important thing we stress is to make contact and the players are doing that," Knight said. "We stress that at this level if you make contact sooner or later good things will happen. There is a higher chance of a fielding or throwing error if they put the ball in play."

The Bulldogs have seven more play dates left in the season for 14 more games. Chelsea will play this Saturday at Ypsilanti.

Knight does not stress statistics at this level.

"I am more concerned about getting everyone to play and having fun," Knight said.

JV cleans up

The Chelsea junior varsity baseball team played two games against Ann Arbor Pioneer and two against Dexter in action last week.

"We merited Dexter two times and beat Pioneer two times," said head coach Marty Walsh.

On Saturday the team continued its solid play and defeated Ann Arbor Huron in both games of that double header.

The Bulldogs will be at Pinckney Thursday, May 11.

JV kickers hold the line in uphill battles

By Colleen O'Neill

Special Writer

The Chelsea junior varsity soccer team ended this week with one shutout and two losses, but the losses were against some very tough competition.

On Thursday the Bulldogs shut out Milan, taking a 3-0 victory.

Head coach Jim Hicks took a different starting lineup into the game than in earlier games, in all but two positions. A number of junior varsity players played in the varsity game, which gave a lot of playing time to players who hadn't seen much so far this season.

"It was great to see them step up to the challenge," Hicks said. "Luz Silvario moved from defense to the front line and scored her first goal of the season, as did Emily Dahlgren. Caitlin Paul had an outstanding game in the midfield."

Chelsea had a 1-0 lead at the half thanks to a Genny Gourlay goal with an assist by Ana Abreu.

The Silvario and Dahlgren goals came in the second half. Silvario got hers off a rebound from the goalkeeper and Dahlgren put hers in unassisted late in the game.

On Friday night the Bulldogs were on the other end of a shutout, although they held a very high caliber Adrian team scoreless for the first half.

"Adrian pounded us with shots in the first half," said Hicks. "Sarah Manville played tough, including taking a hard hit across the knees early in the game."

Manville had nine saves in the first half alone, and four in the second. But two shots got by to give Adrian the win.

The first game of the week pitted Chelsea against a top-rated Saline team.

"With a team the caliber of Saline, my goal was to improve on the first meeting of the year," Hicks said. "With 10 minutes left in the first half the score was 2-1 and we were making Saline panic."

The Bulldogs lost some concentration near the end of the half and went down by three. Manville recorded six saves in the first half and 13 in the second.

"Sarah Manville had a great game in front of the Chelsea net," Hicks said. "The team stepped up a notch in effort to play one of the best halves of the season."

The lone Chelsea goal came from Rebecca Armstrong, with an assist by Alicia Edgeworth.

The Junior Bulldogs host Dexter on Friday, May 12 for another SEC matchup.

Winning Ways

Netters have winning week

Chelsea tennis team traveled to Monroe Jefferson May 2 and massacred the home team 8-0 without losing a set. Ian Ballard at third singles was particularly pleased with his first win of the season, 6-2, 6-1.

At home, Chelsea kept up its dominance of Pinckney this year when they took on the Pirates and defeated them 5-3.

Three matches went to three sets, two of which were won by Pinckney. At first singles, Joe Arend of Chelsea lost to Nick Grobagger in the closest possible match 6-7(5), 7-6(3), 7-6(5); leading one reporter to comment that he had never in all his years heard of a closer contest.

Jon Spooner beat Dan Giddings at second singles to register Chelsea's win, 6-1, 1-6, 6-3, but Andy Smith and Joel Gentz at third doubles could not quite pull it off and lost to Pete Proos and Gavin Mathes, 5-7, 6-2, 6-3.

The final win for the Pirates occurred at first doubles where Shawn Hayes and Mark Tapping narrowly lost, 7-5, 7-5.

Winning in two sets rather easily were Ballard at third singles, Brian Merkel fourth singles, Robert Gray and Andy Mossburg at second doubles, and Evan Wildey and Mike Offenbacher at fourth doubles.

Chelsea defeated a combined team of Saline's varsity and junior varsity May 5 by 5-3, taking the 'Dogs' dual meet record to 6-1.

Spooner, Ballard and Merkel were winners at singles, and Robert Gray and Andy Mossburg at second doubles, and Evan Wildey and James Ballas at fourth doubles took tandem events. The latter pair recorded the comeback of the year in the third set when they were down 5-1. By some very determined and disciplined play, with controlled lobs and down-the-line shots they did not lose another game, trotting out 7-5 winners.

Mora Arnold shines at meet

The Chelsea High School girls' track team ran in the Stockbridge Invitational Friday night and finished second in the 17-team field. Haslett was first with 91 points followed by Chelsea with 90, Stockbridge with 65, Perry and Fowlerville with 64, and Williamston with 60.

Mora Arnold was named athlete of the meet for her performances. Arnold won the 400-meter in 58.5 seconds, her season's best, the 200-meter in 25.9 and anchored the 800-meter relay of Karl Moyle, Julia Arnold, and Jill Drexler to a second-place in 1:51.0. She finished her night by anchoring the winning 1,600 relay of Moyle, Katie Taylor, and Nina Kramer to a season's best time of 4:14.3.

Arnold won the 200 by 1.7 seconds over the second-place runner when the rest of the field was separated by only 1.4 seconds.

Karl Taylor was the only other individual to win two events in the meet. She set a meet record in the shot put with a throw of 38'10", and also won the discus with a throw of 116'11", her best throw ever, and less than three feet from a meet record.

The Bulldogs also had good performances from other athletes. Sarah Brigham was second in the 100-meter in 13.3. Jill Drexler medaled with a third place in the long jump at 14'5 1/2". Karl Moyle placed fifth in the 400 with a season best of 1:03.5. The 400-meter relay of Brigham, Drexler, Julia Arnold, and Jennifer Young was fifth in 54.6.

Chelsea's freshman 1,600 relay of Karri Kuczajda, Sarah Brigham, Alison Sacks, and Julia Arnold earned a second place medal in 4:39.1.

Chelsea girls' golf team places 10th at tourney

By Colleen O'Neill
Special Writer

The girls' golf team traveled to Wiffletree Hill Golf Course in Concord on Friday to participate in the 19th annual Jackson County Western Invitational Golf Tournament.

Chelsea finished a very respectable 10th out of 21 teams. Coldwater took first place with 328. Chelsea's team score was 438 and the Bulldogs finished two spots above league leading Saline who finished in 12th place.

Scoring for Chelsea were Liz Menge with 104, Julie Inwood with 105, Kristi Tarantowski with 110, and Molly Martin with 119.

"This was a fine effort for us and will go a long way in preparing for the all important Regionals and SEC tournaments coming up in a couple of weeks," said head coach Jim Tallman. "All of these girls except Menge are sophomores and freshmen and a positive experience like this one will help down the road."

On Wednesday Pinckney came to Reddeman for our second league match of the week. Although our team score was much improved (222) Pinckney was better with a 216. Scoring for Chelsea were Menge with 50, Tarantowski with 56, Martin with 57 and Inwood with 58.

Easy to Learn Self-Defense Strategies for Your Complete Protection

Karate Master
Keith Hafner

Your "Protection Shield"

Let me tell you a little bit about "bad guys." You probably already know that people who prey on others are cowards.

But you might not know that they are smart, too, in a certain way. You see, they are experts in detecting fear. Go look at an elementary school playground. There are "bad guys" there, too. They call them bullies.

You will observe that some kids get picked on. Some don't. Do bullies just randomly pick out people for abuse? No. They have a very effective system for choosing their victims.

Allow me to let you in on a secret. Bullies, of all ages, are not looking for a fight. In fact, quite the opposite (remember, they are cowards!). They are looking for a passive target.

And here's how they find one: They Read Body Language Cues. Posture. Eye contact. Voice tonality. And when they find a person with soft body language, who shies away from direct eye contact, who has a timid, soft voice...then they know they have found their next victim.

So here is what you do.

Practice standing, walking, and sitting in a more confident manner. Head and shoulders held high. Breathing deeply. Relaxed, but alert. Turn to squarely face people when you speak to them.

Train yourself to make direct and brief eye contact with the people you meet. Sometimes women are uncomfortable with this type of eye contact...but it is a huge part of your "Safety Shield!"

When you speak, use deep breathing, and speak from deep within your chest (not from high in your throat). Slow down your words a little. Keep a lot of air in your lungs.

The great thing about these "Safety shield" skills is that you can practice them all the time. Alone in your car. As you walk down the sidewalk.

You will enjoy the confident, capable state that it puts you in. You will feel safe and empowered!

Your Friend,

Keith H

Soccer boasts strong record at mid-season mark

By Colleen O'Neill
Special Writer

The Chelsea varsity soccer team has a solid 7-3-1 record at the midpoint of the season.

The team suffered one of its rare losses on Friday against Adrian Maples in a hot, muggy contest that tested the stamina of both teams. Chelsea especially suffered when four of its seven midfielders were out of the game for a variety of reasons.

"The missing people killed our possession game," said head coach Chris Orlandi. "Still, I don't want to blame the loss on the absences."

The Bulldogs took the lead in the first half when Chris Broshar, usually a defender, made her first goal of the season with an assist from Kate Huehl.

Orlandi was not pleased with his team's performance, noting that the forwards missed numerous opportunities and the passing through the midfield was average at best.

"We didn't play very well," Orlandi said. "Even our goalkeeper made a costly mistake."

Orlandi felt his team needed to sharpen up if it wanted to continue its winning ways. But he was impressed that in a fairly poor performance, Chelsea had a good chance at a win.

"It took a penalty kick to beat us, on a fluky hand ball in the box," Orlandi said. "It's tough to overcome that stuff." Laura Baird made seven saves in the game.

The Bulldogs were coming off a 6-0 win against an over-matched Milan squad.

The Bulldogs struggled with a rough Milan field but settled down midway through the first half to score four times in 15 minutes. In the second half,

Chelsea came out strong early and scored in 30 seconds.

"Sarah Poplawski quickly shot the ball past a surprised Milan defense," Orlandi said. "The goal was Poplawski's third of the game and she scored again 25 minutes later."

Orlandi felt the shutout was even more gratifying because he was missing three defenders.

"I'm also pleased that we were able to bring some younger girls up to the varsity for a little playing time," Orlandi said. "We continue to improve as a program, and I'm excited by that."

Besides the four goals by Poplawski, Caitlin Biedron made an unassisted goal in the first half and then got an assist when she fed the ball to Huehl for the third goal of the game.

Earlier in the week the Bulldogs played a much-improved game earlier in the week but still lost to Saline, probably the best team in the area.

"I'm proud of the intensity and effort we gave in the first half," Orlandi said. "We played our best half of the season in the first half as we pressured Saline at times and surrendered only one goal."

Orlandi said his team's passing under pressure was much better than the first time the Bulldogs met the Hornets.

"Keeping up with a quality team like Saline is a tremendous chore," Orlandi said. "However we couldn't maintain our level of play throughout the second half."

Saline scored four times in the second half and three in the last 15 minutes.

"Baird played admirably in goal, making 10 saves," Orlandi said. "I don't mind losing as we long as we work hard and improve, and I think we did that."

The Bulldogs had come off a tough week of SEC competition with one win and their one tie of the year. Chelsea started that week in a defensive game against rival Dexter. They were unable to pull out a win and settled for a 1-1 tie. The Dreadnaughts scored their only goal in the second half on a penalty kick.

"I'm sure Laura is frustrated by that goal because she played a great game and the call was a tough one against her," Orlandi said. "She's hard on herself but she'll be back."

In the other game of that week, the Bulldogs defeated Tecumseh 5-1. Huehl made two goals in that game, one with an assist from Poplawski and the other unassisted. Both of her goals came in the first half.

Quinn Peyser scored in the first half with an assist from Poplawski and scored the fifth and final goal of the game, her tenth of the season, unassisted. Kim Touroo got an assist from Carolyn Wineland to get the other goal for Chelsea.

Chelsea will host Dexter on Friday for its final match of the regular season.

STRONG

an honorable All Star thing to do?"

What Strong finds unusual about Chelsea schools is the level of parental support, which he describes as "incredible." He said it was apparent in the schools when he was a youngster, too, although the profile of the average resident has changed.

"When I was here, it was a farming community. Now it's University of Michigan professors and engineers for Chrysler. But I think it has always been that way," he says about the support.

Strong says the highlights of his career come every morning when the students arrive and share tales with him.

"It's the daily interaction with the kids that I feed off of," he says. "It's not just one major event."

What this young educator looks forward to is figuring out his next step in life.

"It could be very well that I stay in Chelsea the next 30 years and that would be fine," he says.

But he is also exploring other career options, such as missionary work in an inner city.

"That would be a different challenge," he says. "It would allow me to work my faith into education and meet some really big needs that kids here don't necessarily have."

In his spare time, Strong is working toward a master's degree in school counseling at EMU. He expects to earn it in the next two years.

A former football player and track runner, Strong now coaches freshman football coach and boys' track at Chelsea High School. In high school, he was inducted into the school's football Hall of Fame. He also ran track in college.

Strong, who resides in Chelsea, is also an active member of Gorham Baptist Church in Jackson. In the past, he has taught Sunday school and worked with the men's ministries in another church.

ART

ation it's small wonder. Norm sees it more of as a pursuit to engage in when the mood strikes. Through the years he also has done glass bead art and paintings. Of course, his profession as an automotive body man also had a strong artistic quality.

Norm grew up in Chelsea, and although he entered the Air Force before graduation to serve in the Korean conflict and completed a GED, he still strongly associates with the Class of 1953. He worked on aircraft maintenance in the Fifth Air Force's Fourth Fighter Squadron.

The future of Norm's agricultural artistic endeavors remains somewhat up in the air — with Gail involved in so many community fund-raising efforts, his talents may be called on again — and the family demand has not yet fully been satisfied, either.

"I think the number of tractors I make will be determined by my friends, my family and Gail," says Norm with a good-natured resignation to his fate.

And with his help, each of the lucky recipients will get a real-world reminder of the true potential of things. From basic nuts and bolts and discarded remainders, a world of whimsy springs. And these plain, old items can help one see with new eyes.

Sentimental Journey

Area seniors turned out in force to swing to the tunes of 2-4-7 David Swain at the Lions Club's 14th annual "Seniors Prom" held Saturday night at Beach Middle School. The event drew nearly 100 people for an evening of good fun and good fellowship. Along with the dancing, seniors had the opportunity to have their pictures taken and to enjoy a visit back to the days when swing was king.

Dexter Chevrolet is just one of the dealerships that has a small town atmosphere, a phenomenal sales manager and a service manager who doesn't think is at all. They are on being one of the best dealers in customer service with sales and service," and they still have that small town atmosphere. We can give you the attention that you deserve. Dan Clark and Daniel Landry purchased the dealership in December 1999. They have been in the business since 1962.

"We've quadrupled our sales—we probably sold about 800 vehicles—600 of them new—last year," Landry says.

Among the inventory on the "strictly Chevy" lot are everything from the Tahoe to the Silverado to the Corvette to the compact Metro and Prism.

"We also do specialty vehicles," says Landry. "We can lift them or lower them."

The "Bad Bowtie" Collection is one of the exclusive specialty lines available at Dexter Chevrolet. The dealership's service department—featuring tomizes trucks and cars to meet the individual need or desire of the customer. In fact, Landry drives a Bad Bowtie himself as a way to promote the service.

"It gets a lot of attention," says Landry, who makes the trek to Dexter from the Dearborn area each day. "We have a lot of people looking at them."

The dealership also boasts a state-of-the-art body shop with loaners available for repairs and warranty work. The service department has a quick oil change facility and the area has been "designed to fit all of our customer needs," Landry says.

The dealership, which includes sales high marks from their customers. Landry also serves as new and used car manager, while Tim Clark is the assistant service manager.

"We have one of the highest ratings for customer satisfaction in both sales and service among Chevrolet dealerships," he says. "And, we have one of Washtenaw County's largest inventories of Chevrolet vehicles."

Landry says that one of the things he enjoys most about coming to work each day is the "family feel."

"This is a small-town dealership where people come in and everyone remembers them," he smiles. "I like that. And I think our customers like

Classes offered for new builders

It's that time of year again when you look around the place you live and wonder if it wouldn't make more sense to move into a brand new house. It's one thing to watch the home building shows on television and it's quite another to actually try to manage the process, doing a lot of the work yourself.

"Most people don't have a clue as what it takes to build a house", says Bill Lawson, principal of the Oakland Builders Institute. "And, that's not to mention a home with all the wonderful amenities they'd like to have. Our How to Build Your Own Home classes clear up the mystery and the confusion around home building and give people solid facts they can use to get the house they want. For some it may be just the reality check they need to determine that this is not the route they want to take."

A HOME building seminar is the closest thing you'll ever get to having an informed builder on your side every step of the way. First the instructor focuses on the big picture. Can you afford your dream home right now or are there interim steps before you can qualify for the mortgage or find the property you want? Lawson says that you can save almost 25% of the house's total cost by being your own contractor, but that means there must be no mistakes. Just forgetting to add the price of nails could mean you're off on your estimates by hundreds of dollars. Forget to add in important plumbing materials and you might be off thousands.

Next comes building the house itself. The instructor takes you step by step through each stage of construction beginning as simply as siting the house on the land. Participants learn when major changes would be too costly, so they learn to make decisions early and try to stick with them so the process can go on without delays. New builders also learn how to read a blueprint, become familiar with builder's "lingo" and understand contracts. They learn cost estimating and how to work with subcontractors. They learn the importance of adequate insurance protection for the job site and important legal safeguards that some builders won't mention.

"We also help prospective builders be realistic about their expectations," says Lawson. "You have to be prepared for days when subcontractors just don't show up; when material deliveries are late or skilled labor may not be available for your job."

He adds that subcontractors have more loyalty to a builder who will give them job after job than to a home owner building only one house.

You may also have to pay more for labor than you originally budgeted. There is a very tight market for labor right now," he adds.

Finally, we help the new builder judge construction quality and workmanship. You have to be checking on the job frequently, maybe every day if you've got work going on because you don't want to have to tear out unsatisfactory work and have it redone if you can avoid it.

Participants also take a look at some of the newest innovations in building materials and processes. Your dad or grandfather never built houses the way they do it today," says Lawson.

Home building classes are offered by Oakland Builders Institute periodically through the Chelsea Community Education Department. Contact them at 734-433-2206.

With sites in more than 40 school districts across lower Michigan, Oakland Builders Institute also offers a 16 hour builder's pre-license training class geared to help people pass the state contractor's license exam as well as variety of remodeling classes including Basement Remodeling and Buying and Remodeling a Home for Profit.

Licensing class

Each year thousands of people take classes for the builder's license exam through the Oakland Builders Institute. A 16-hour course usually held in the evenings over a two week period or on Saturdays helps people focus on the type of questions that will be on the test. Oakland Builders Institute has written its own manual which it updates regularly with new information. More than 95 percent of people who take the course now pass the exam. Anyone who does not may retake the course at no charge until they do pass, says Lawson.

Builder's Pre-License classes are offered by Oakland Builders Institute periodically through the Chelsea Community Education Department. The next one is scheduled from 6 - 10 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays, June 6 - 15, 2000 at the Chelsea High School.

Call 734-433-2206 to register by Friday, June 2, 2000. The class costs $165 plus $20 for the manual.

For more information, call for a current schedule of classes from the Oakland Builders Institute at 248-651-2771 or access their website at www.buildersinstitute.com.

Remodeling is a popular choice

Whether you want to update your home or meet the changing demands of a family, remodelers can provide the services you need. As part of National Home Remodeling Month, the Washtenaw Remodelers Council is promoting home remodeling ideas and trends.

The frenetic pace of remodeling over the last several years shows no sign of slackening as even more homeowners—as many as two out of three or about 45 million households—join the ranks of remodeling consumers.

Remodeling contractors are building single or multiple rooms onto home. One popular addition is the master bedroom suite. Homeowners then may convert their old bedroom into an office, media room or separate bedroom. In many cases, remodelers are adding these rooms onto the upper levels of the homes, saving land and space.

OTHER HOMEOWNERS are hiring contractors to finish their basements. With this choice, they benefit from a whole area of living space without altering their home's exterior appearance or disturbing their landscaping.

Most homeowners who choose to remodel want to create the feeling of space. So they request lighter colors such as white, bone, and almond. They also want more natural light, which can be provided with the new generation of energy efficient windows and skylights.

A sizable number of homeowners are removing their wall-to-wall carpet and replacing it with hardwood or composite floors. Some also are choosing slate, ceramic, or one of the other flooring materials to add character to their homes.

Many remodeling contractors add features to homes that make them more energy efficient and environmentally conscious. The Washtenaw Remodelers Council is meeting with the staff of Recycle Ann Arbor this month to develop more ways to use environmentally friendly materials and methods of installation. A recent example is the development of bamboo flooring, which is harder than oak and replenishes itself much more quickly. A good remodel job can help homeowners preserve their environment.

For a free guide to area remodelers, call the Home Builders Association of Washtenaw County at 996-0100.
