School Spirit

Winter Carnival was celebrated last week at Chelsea High School. During the week, classes competed for points by showing school spirit. Activities during the week included dress-up days and lunch-time games. Friday afternoon was a pep rally and in the evening there was a basketball game against rival Dexter. Competing in a train relay at the pep rally are freshman Ben Rogers (left), Ashley Houle, Matt Robinson, Becky Sprague, Jesse Rohrer and Chris Koloithas.

Township supervisors discuss issues

Leaders speak their minds at Western Washtenaw Republicans meeting.

By Lisa Allmendinger
Staff Writer
Five area supervisors participated in a roundtable discussion that covered both local and regional issues Saturday at a meeting of the Western Washtenaw Republicans.

"How often do you see five township supervisors in the same room?" asked moderator Joseph Yekulis, who presented the supervisors with a list of questions that included a number of land-use, regional and master plan questions.

Here's a recap of what was said.
Dexter Township
Robert Tetens, Dexter Township supervisor since 1997, said public safety was his township's single most pressing issue. He said there is 1 mill allocated for police and fire services and that the township is already exceeding that amount.

Tetens also said the Planning Commission is working on a complete revision of the township's zoning ordinance. "We've been working on this for eight years," he said.
Voters turned down one version last year.

Lima Township
Newly elected Supervisor Ken Unterbrink said police services were his township's top issue. He said a committee of township residents is carefully studying how to best protect residents with the loss of sheriff's patrol next year.

Lyndon Township
Maryann Noah, Lyndon Township supervisor, said it was hard to single out one issue that was most pressing.
Noah said the township was working on a new ordinance to replace the one that's been in place since 1973.

"It's critical that we take a look at the private roads in the township," she said. "The ones that have become private ruts, we need to get the private ruts up to standard."
The loss of road patrol was another issue that confronted Lyndon Township. In November, voters turned down a millage to launch a police force in the township.

"My real concern in Lyndon is that it will become open season for criminal minds once the road patrols are gone," she said. "We're in the far corner of the county."

Sharon Township
Gary Blades, Sharon Township supervisor, said growth is the No. 1 issue for the township, which is located between Chelsea and Manchester.
"We spent almost as much in lawyer's fees (fighting mobile home development) as we brought in, in taxes," he said.

Sylvan Township
Newly elected Sylvan Township Supervisor Charlie Burgess said the township's No. 1 priority is police protection and the county road patrol.

Burgess said Sylvan Township has a committee of residents who are looking into the best way to protect the township with the loss of county road patrol scheduled at the end of the year.
"We don't know whether it will be state police, Chelsea police or county sheriff's (deputies) or forming our own police department," he said.

Burgess said the township is looking into the costs of all its options.
"We're still in the talking stage," he said.

A survey was mailed last week asking how many hours of police protection residents wanted.
Manufactured home developments were an issue for most of the townships, as well.

Sheriff outlines options

Townships ask residents for their opinions.

By Will Keeler
Staff Writer
Washtenaw County Sheriff Dan Minzey and his administration presented the nuts and bolts of a plan Monday afternoon for road patrol in non-contract areas for the western townships of the county.

Washtenaw County Board of Commissioners approved a measure to discontinue county-paid road patrol for those areas beginning Jan. 1, 2002.

"This was a preliminary meeting where we presented our plan to the townships," Minzey said Monday.

The plan would split the western region into two halves. Lyndon, Sylvan, Dexter and Lima townships would make up the northern half, while the south would comprise Freedom, Sharon, Bridgewater and Manchester townships.

Minzey said that his administration went to central dispatch to look into the areas where police units would need to concentrate their efforts.

"Most of these townships would be looking at contracting one police unit. Dexter Township could contract two units," Minzey said.

The county needs to be notified by the townships July 1 as to whether they plan to contract with the county for law enforcement services.

The county will charge each township $109,000 for one police service unit, with $72,000 going to the sheriff's department and $37,000 going in the county's general fund.

The amount could possibly increase over a two-year period, the length of the contract.

This amount would include one police service unit at 40 hours, one vehicle, supervision, secretarial and investigative work.

A lot of residents would like to see road patrol 24 hours a day, seven days a week, but one unit won't work, Minzey said. However, if the townships pull together their officers, they could see extended coverage.

Library board holds retreat

Attorney recommends board adopt a procedure for nominating candidates to positions.

By Kent Ashton Walton
Special Writer
The Chelsea District Library Board discussed policy and procedures at a retreat Saturday at the White Oak Center in Chelsea.

The board met first in a closed session for 90 minutes to discuss information considered attorney-client privileged.
Library attorney Cynthia Faulhaber then talked to the board about updating library bylaws and establishing communication procedures.

Faulhaber noted that the current library bylaws date back to 1997 and do not refer to all districts served by the library.
Faulhaber said the bylaws should include a description of the process of selecting board members. She suggested that the board adopt a procedure to receive requests for nominations from either the community or the board.

The attorney also said there should be a board-approved policy outlining the procedures for the nominating committee. Faulhaber suggested that the board should outline a process for generating replacements in case of the loss of a board member.

Discussion followed about the avoidance of discrimination on the basis of prohibited classifications. Faulhaber said board nominations could be refused on the basis of failure to reside in the library district, a felony criminal record or if a nominee clearly lacked the time to serve adequately on the board.

Faulhaber suggested that interests of potential board members should be considered, and that it was wise to include members representing a broad range of community interests. She emphasized that it was difficult to remove members from a government board.

The board can publicly censure a member or adopt a resolution requesting resignation, particularly if a member acts without board authority in a way to jeopardize the board.

Grant to curb domestic violence

Probation department to monitor domestic violence cases more closely.

By Lisa Allmendinger
Staff Writer

Dexter Kiwanis Club members learned Feb. 8 that Washtenaw County was one of only three municipalities nationwide to be awarded a $10 million grant to fight domestic violence.

The other two recipients were the cities of Milwaukee and Boston, speaker Linda Lupi, probation supervisor of the domestic violence probation unit, told the Kiwanis Club.

Lupi said the county was not chosen because it was worse than any other area in the country, but because "it took a proactive approach to these cases."

Lupi said the five-year grant money is being used for all the district courts, including 14A-3, located in Chelsea, as well as for additional court personnel, equipment and furnishings.

Lupi said it will allow the probation department to more closely monitor both victims and defendants in domestic violence cases.

Lupi said there are between 11,000 and 12,000 cases of domestic violence in the county each year and the grant money will allow the department to hire one to two more probation officers and possibly additional support staff.

"Michigan has a mandatory arrest policy in domestic violence cases," Lupi said.

Despite the policy, statistics show that 100 Michigan women were killed last year as a result of domestic violence. A state task force, led by Lt. Gov. Dick Posthumus, is currently examining the state's laws in an effort to strengthen them and increase education efforts regarding domestic violence.

Just last week, the state's anti-stalking law was upheld by a federal appeal's court.

With this additional money,

Lupi said the county will be able to do even more in its efforts to curb this type of crime.

"Any time you are able to monitor with a tighter leash, there is more of an opportunity to change behaviors," Lupi said. Lupi said that the probation officers make visits to both the victims and the defendants.

Those convicted of domestic violence could face up to 93 days in jail or two years probation.

"Probation in a case like this is hard work," she said. "We meet before sentencing and sometimes people will opt for jail time."

Washtenaw County also has a refuge for victims called SAFE House that provides services to survivors of domestic violence and their children.

According to SAFE House literature, it serves people who have experienced physical, sexual, emotional, verbal abuse or stalking at the hands of their current or former intimate partners.

The 24-hour crisis line is 995-5444.

STRAIGHT FACTS

A story in the Feb. 1 Chelsea Standard about the Sylvan Township Planning Commission meeting should have said the Huron River Watershed encompasses seven counties and the Huron River provides services such as drinking water, recreation and power generation for more than 500,000 residents of the watershed.

Elizabeth Worzalla provided the information. She said the state is charged with protecting wetlands that are five acres or greater in size, or that are adjacent to a watercourse, or within 500 feet of a watercourse. She said wetlands not protected by state law need local protection if they are to remain healthy, functioning systems on the landscape.

Lima board discusses services

Trustees discuss Chelsea reroute, other issues.

By Kent Ashton Walton
Special Writer

The Lima Township Board discussed local roads, police services and appointed representatives to various committees last week.

Former township supervisor Gary Adams addressed the board Feb. 5 about the Chelsea Area Planning Team's proposed M-52 reroute and suggested modifications for local roads in Lima Township.

Board members viewed the proposed roads that connect the so-called Merkel subdivision to Freer Road in the south and to McKinley Road in the west. The board also viewed the proposed alternate route that would avoid the Fletcher Road railroad overpass in connecting to Dexter-Chelsea Road.

The Public Safety Commission report on police services was received from commission Chairman Vince Spade. The township has until July to decide how to provide the township with police services after Washtenaw County eliminates the general road patrol service in December. The board made no recommendations during the meeting.

The board approved the creation of a Board of Appeals for the Chelsea Area Construction Agency. The appeals board will hear disputes between the agency and the citizenry. The construction agency encompasses Lima, Chelsea Village, Lyndon, Dexter, Sylvan and Sharon townships. The board also discussed the possibility of the local construction agency issuing permits for soil erosion control and doing its own enforcement, which is currently done by the county.

In addition, the board discussed the cost of professional planners, engineering firms and legal services to Lima Township. Supervisor Ken Unterbrink said he will coordinate the fee schedule to respond to the increasing cost of services.

The board approved a measure to apply through the state for a Byrne Grant from the federal government. This can be applied to police services for community health.

The board further adopted a poverty guideline standard for Lima Township. Residents may apply to seek tax relief based on their income, assets, possessions and other criteria.

In relation to the 911 Public Safety Answering Point plan, the board adopted the amended enhanced 911 plan, which assesses a 55 cent monthly charge on cell phone use for emergency calls.

The board reviewed attendance in February by the supervisor and three board members for training at a Michigan Township Association educational conference in Grand Rapids.

The board approved committee appointments. Unterbrink was named to replace Adams as supervisor on the Chelsea Area Traffic Committee and Adams will succeed Chuck Schauer as alternate on the committee. Unterbrink was also appointed representative for the Local Roads Committee, with Adams as alternate.

Former trustee William Van Riper resigned from the Western Washtenaw Recycling Authority and Treasurer Nanette Havens was appointed as representative, with Unterbrink as alternate.

Resident John Edwards was appointed representative to the Washtenaw Solid Waste Consortium, with Unterbrink as alternate.

Commission OKs project

Developer wants to install private roads.

By Lisa Allmendinger

Staff Writer
Following three hours of discussion Feb. 6, Dexter Township Planning Commission unanimously granted conditional approval to Guenther Building Co.'s Inverness Woods condominiums. The development includes 79 homes on 111 acres bordering Riker Road near North Territorial Road. Commissioner Jamie Gorenflo was not able at the meeting. Two residents commented on the proposal. Eric Kraus said he was concerned about drainage from parcels that might affect his property. He said most of his other questions had been answered during the commission's discussion.

Public roads cost the township money to maintain. Commissioner Harley Rider said that the township spent $50,000 last year to maintain public roads.

Local homeowners' associations maintain private roads. The Township Board must also grant permission for shared driveways on the site before the project can move forward.

There will be no on-street parking, no sidewalks, and the plan does not include street lighting. Utilities will be buried underground.

The commissioners also asked for a study to determine the availability of water since the homes will have wells. Commissioners also want to know about the soil's ability to absorb infiltration, since there will be septic systems.

Should any of the lots not be buildable, the Planning Commission suggested those parcels be left as open space.

No date has been set for consideration of the project's final site plan.

Resident Linda Smith asked that the roads in the development "be moved over" so they would not be so close to her property. She, too, was concerned about drainage.

The commissioners tacked on 13 conditions that must be addressed before a final site plan is approved. Included in those conditions is the zoning board's approval of private roads.

The decision to go with private roads took place after a lengthy debate about the merits of having either public or private roads in the development.

The developer said private roads will preserve more of the natural features on the property and reduce the amount of impervious surfaces in the development.

Grant provides funding for families

Washtenaw area families with children from infants through age 5 will have more support services available to them thanks to a $2.4 million grant recently awarded to the Washtenaw Intermediate School District by the Michigan Department of Education.

The grant, awarded competitively under the All Students Achieve Program - Parent Involvement and Education, will be used to initiate First Steps Washtenaw, a community-based, collaborative effort that will foster stable families by providing services focused on school readiness, family literacy and family support.

Families will have access to home visits, parent groups, developmental screening services, preschool and interagency referral services through the public school district in their community. The school-based services will be coordinated centrally through WISD.

William Miller, WISD superintendent, said the award will make it possible to expand a collaborative effort that grew out of the Washtenaw Community Prevention Plan and supports the goals of the Washtenaw Family Services Collaborative Council and those of the intermediate school district and local schools.

"This program is a true interagency effort, uniting 37 Washtenaw County health and human services providers, the Family Services Collaborative Council, pre-school providers, all local K-12 school districts, public-school academies, the United Way, the Ann Arbor Area Community Foundation and the McKinley Foundation," Miller said.

Nearly $250,000 of the required local matching funds will be provided by the public school districts, the United Way, the Ann Arbor Area Community Foundation, the McKinley Foundation, Washtenaw County government and the WISD.

"We are grateful for the support of our community partners," Miller said. "Their commitment allowed us to request a level of funding that will make these vital services available for all our families."

Of the 57 intermediate school districts in the state, only 22 received funding under the grant.

For more information about the program, call Barbara Bleyaert at 994-8100, Ext. 1255.

THE BEST THING ABOUT FEBRUARY IS THAT IT'S SHORT
Dear Friends and Neighbors,
There are actually many good things about February. You don't have to mow the lawn. You can go to Florida. You can go skating, sledding, or ice fishing. It can be cozy and warm inside. The football season's finally over - except for the XFL.
I guess I developed a negative attitude toward winter from my parents in Milwaukee, Wisconsin. Winter was something you endured, something you lived through until spring arrived, and you and the world came alive again.
Sometimes we look at much of life that way - as just an obstacle to endure until we arrive at the next holiday or vacation or weekend. Once, about this time of year, when I, as a boy, just couldn't wait for the school year to be over, my father warned me, "Don't wish your life away." And it's true: There is so much good in this life. The Lord has filled even the least of us with incredible blessings at every time of year. But we'll never see these blessings if we're always looking off into the future, where we think we'll find real happiness.

The ultimate goal of every Christian is eternal life in heaven. We have this to look forward to as a free gift in Jesus Christ. We often get so wrapped up in our earthly lives that we take our eyes off this goal, and then the Lord often sends troubles so that we don't get too comfortable here on earth.
Yet, even though our true citizenship is in heaven (Philippians 3:20), we are very aware of our God's presence with us on this earth, and of the callings He's given us while we are still here.
With Him at our side, even we must belt inhabitants can learn to have a positive attitude toward February.

"This could work well, but you're dealing with four different township (Lima, Dexter, Sylvan and Lyndon) with four different needs," said Lima Township Supervisor Ken Unterbrink.

Unterbrink said that the meeting with the sheriff and his administration was just a meeting to present data and he is keeping his options open. "In the next couple of weeks, the township will be sending out newsletters, asking the community to come to upcoming meetings for input," he said.

Unterbrink is encouraging residents to come to public meetings so township officials get a better idea of what residents want.

Unterbrink and John Edwards, a member of the Lima Township Police Services Review Committee, believe that the township might be better served if they could contract with the Chelsea Police Department.

In a letter sent to Chelsea Village Manager Jack Myers, Unterbrink and Edwards said that committee members feel that community relationships, quality of service and proximity are important considerations to Lima Township citizens. Unterbrink and Edwards have not heard back from Myers.

Sylvan Township has also approached Chelsea Police Department. Sylvan Township Clerk LuAnn Koch sent a letter to Chelsea Village President Richard Steele in late January requesting estimated costs for police services and a variety of plans.

With a several plans for coverage, Sylvan Township has recently mailed surveys to residents asking their opinions on what type of coverage they would like to see.

"I've already seen a number of surveys come back, but residents have until Feb. 19 to respond," Koch said.

Residents could chose from four options: 24 hours, seven days a week; 16 hours, seven days a week; 16 hours, five days a week (Monday through Friday); or eight hours, five days a week (Monday through Friday).

Koch said that she hopes to get a clearer picture of what the residents want through the surveys. She said that a public meeting will be held 7 p.m. March 6 at the Sylvan Township Hall.

Koch said that the meeting will be open to Sylvan Township residents, but other residents will be permitted if there is enough space available.

Minzey and state police Lt. Beth Moranty will be present to answer questions.

Lyndon Township Supervisor Maryann Noah said she plans to send out surveys to residents, too. But she said that she believes the residents have spoken with last November's defeat of a police millage.

Voters were asked to approve a local ballot question regarding the formation of a township police department. The special ballot question called for 2.75 mills in the first year and 1.5 mills for the next five years. Residents soundly defeated the proposal, however.

"Hopefully, with a survey going out to people, the township can get a good idea of why the millage failed," Noah said.

Noah said she is not sure what a good plan would be for Lyndon.

"I'm not at all convinced with the sheriff's plan," Noah said.

"I'm concerned, as well as my residents, about the response time," she said.

"What happens if the sheriff's department gets a 911 call in the northern corner of Lyndon Township and the officer is on a call in Lima Township?" Noah asked.

"These residents cannot wait," she said.

Noah was also concerned about the cost of each police unit.

"These contracts will be up soon and the cost will go up, too," she said.

Dexter Township Supervisor Robert Tetens said he did not attend the meeting and did not have any updated plans for the township.

Staff Writer Will Keeler can be reached by telephone at 475-1371 or via e-mail at wkeeler@heritage.com.

Cityhood meeting postponed

A meeting between village officials and the state Boundary Commission has been postponed until March.

The original meeting between village and state officials was scheduled for today.

Chelsea is seeking city status and hopes to become the city of the village of Chelsea.

SUPERVISORS

Dexter Township
Although Tetens said there were no serious proposals for mobile home developments in his township, there were, however, traffic problems.

He said there are a number of lake communities in the township and "it's tail lights to tail lights in the morning. Eighty-five to 90 percent of the township's residents leave in the morning."

Lima Township
"Lima Township has a designated area for mobile homes, but the developer decided against that area," Unterbrink said.
His township is now in litigation regarding a mobile home park proposal that was turned down by both the Township Planning Commission as well as the Township Board.
"The scope is just too great," he said. "The area is not designated for mobile homes and this project would almost double the size of the township — all in one area."

Lyndon Township
Lyndon Township is unique in that it's 52 percent state-owned land, Noah said.

A new zoning ordinance may change the recreation and conservation area of one dwelling per 10 acres to a wilderness designation, which would mean one dwelling per 80 acres.

"If a developer comes to Lyndon Township, either stick-built or mobile homes, this is not the place," she said.

Sharon Township
In four years, Blades said the township has been sued twice by mobile home developers.

He said what has been proposed would bring 1,600 to 1,700 new people into the township.

"We are as far away from police and fire as you can get," he said. "There would be 800 new kids in the school district and they'd need 10 to 12 buses to haul these kids. They need to build these close to the schools so the kids can walk."

Blades said a mobile home plan could bring a lot to a community.

"We're not against mobile homes, it's the location," he said.

Sylvan Township
Burgess said there is a proposal for a mobile home park in the township and a designated area for it.

Burgess said at the end of Brown Drive there is a three-phase plan to add 350 units in the township. A special assessment district has been set up to service the area for sewer and water.

The approval progress of the Chelsea Area Regional Plan was another topic of discussion. All of these communities, with the exception of Sharon Township, have been involved in the creation of the document.

The general consensus was agreement on a regional plan designating where affordable housing is built would help the townships plan for future development.

Only Lyndon and Sylvan townships have approved the document.

"This is something we are committed to," said Yekulis, who sat on the committee. "Since all the communities gave their input, I don't understand why it hasn't gone through."

Former Lima Township Supervisor Gary Adams, who was also involved in early talks said: "This is not intended to be a composite master plan. It's a vision for the whole community."

Dexter Township
Tetens said the document was in the hands of the Planning Commission, but there has been "no endorsement" from either body.

"They've been busy," he said referring to the Planning Commission's recent approval of a controversial gas station proposal that has been kicking around for two years.

When not debating that proposal, the commission has been working on a revision of the township zoning ordinance.

Lima Township
Unterbrink also said the document is in the hands of the Planning Commission.

Lyndon Township
Noah said that both the Planning Commission and the board have approved the document with one change.

"I refuse to give up," she said, referring to the adoption of the document by all the participating townships and Chelsea.

Neither the Chelsea Planning Commission nor the council has approved the document. The document was sent back to the regional planning team with major revisions, specifically in the placement of manufactured housing regions, which ring the village on the map.

Sharon Township
Although Sharon Township is not involved in the Chelsea Area Regional Plan, it is involved in the Southwest Washtenaw Council of Governments, which is also working with the Washtenaw County Metropolitan Planning Commission on a regional plan.

Sylvan Township
The Township Board approved the document after a lengthy discussion about changes made for Lyndon Township regarding driveway access onto M-52, and passed it on to the Planning Commission for inclusion in the master plan.

Also discussed was Chelsea's desire to become a city with a meeting scheduled in March with the Boundary Commission. The proposal does not directly affect Dexter, Sharon or Lyndon townships.

Lima Township
Unterbrink said he'd only been researching the proposal for a couple of months, but it will erode the tax base of his township.

Unterbrink said he will not be attending the meeting in Lansing, but the township attorney may go.

"We're looking at it carefully to try to work out an agreement," he said.

Sylvan Township
"It will have a great impact on Sylvan Township," Burgess said.

LIBRARY

Voting for board candidates, she said, must be made in public and the candidate must receive a majority vote.

It is also appropriate for voters to indicate what positive attributes determine a board member's candidate preference. She also said it was OK to employ a method of random selection to break a tie vote.

Faulhaber said that an abstaining vote counts as a "yes" vote. Abstentions usually indicate a conflict of interest or incompatibility of office.

There was discussion of the right of public comment at board meetings. The Chelsea District Library Board has stipulated that the public may make comment twice during board meetings. First, to provide notices or comments on the agenda and second to comment on the meeting.

Faulhaber emphasized that these times are opportunities for the public to bring something to the board's attention. Such comments can then be passed on for subsequent administrative response.

Faulhaber said that it is not appropriate for the board to comment back or enter into discussion with the public at non-public hearings. She said this is because the board acts as a body, not as individuals responding to individuals.

Faulhaber said if citizens address board members, trustees should refer back to the board's chairperson. She suggested cards for making public comments, outlining the procedural rules, could be supplied.

There was further discussion about how items are to be included on agendas and the need for cut-off dates, as well as the need to have bylaws dealing with agenda discussion and action policies. The need for closed sessions was outlined, including sessions dealing with purchase of property, pending litigation, negotiating with bargaining agents and to consider matters exempt from disclosure.

Also included in discussion was the Open Meetings Act. Faulhaber suggested that the board make clear to the public that it uses no means, such as e-mail, to avoid the Open Meetings Act. Faulhaber thought that the board also needed to adopt a policy concerning letters to individual board members.

"AND THAT'S THE ECONOMIC NEWS... NOW HERE'S OUR ANALYST TO BLOW IT OUT OF PROPORTION..."

Mail slow coming but landscape spectacular

At about 1 p.m., we all start getting antsy watching the door, looking out the windows, checking our watches. Why? We want mail.

Mail is the highlight of the day here. It generally arrives about 1:30, and is delivered to the cottages by one of our professors. If no one comes by with mail at about, oh, 1:32, then we walk over to find out if mail has arrived.

We also have a "post race" competition to see who gets the most mail in a week. I have yet to win, but I've not lost either. My brother keeps promising to mail me something, but I haven't seen anything yet. Perhaps today it will come!

Not receiving mail any given day is a huge letdown. And I've been sending out mail and packages left and right. I've gone through more than 100 stamps, not including packages, but I haven't gotten nearly as many things back. I'm starting to get frustrated.

Not that I don't understand

ELIZABETH WAGENSCHÜTZ

LETTERS FROM IRELAND

how busy people get, how hectic schedules, work and school can be because I do. But just last week the entire college group here received no mail Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Mail isn't delivered on Saturdays in Ireland, either, so we had to suffer through five mail-less days. It was torture.

But besides not having mail, this weekend was absolutely wonderful. The entire group of Aquinas students here went on a weekend trip to Clonmacnoise, Bunnratty Castle and King John's Castle.

Clonmacnoise was a monastery started by St. Ciaran in the sixth century, and it is situated in the center of Ireland on the Shannon River. It is also the site of many historically valuable ruins and high crosses dating back to the ninth century.

While walking around the graveyard there, I came across some gravestones marked Guinan, my family's name on my mother's side, dated to the 17th century.

Bunnratty Castle is located between Limerick and Ennis on the Shannon River. We attended a medieval banquet on Friday night in the castle, and it was amazing. They had a violinist and harpist playing throughout dinner, as well as singers, and the entire meal was done in the same manner as a medieval dinner would have been.

On Saturday, we went back to the castle during the day to tour because it's a castle with an entire village inside its walls. The castle itself is brilliant, with numerous little side passages, hidden rooms and gorgeous decorations. It has now become my goal to some day live in a castle.

After Bunnratty Castle, we toured King John's Castle in Limerick City. King John is King Richard's brother - the one everyone knows from the Robin Hood movies. His father, Henry II, named him Lord of Ireland when the boy was only 9 years old. The castle he built in Limerick is a military-style castle on the mouth of the Shannon River - the most important waterway in Ireland.

In addition to group trips, we also have speakers who address different topics concerning the culture and values of the Irish people. One speaker, Brendan Flynn, talked about poet W. B. Yeats, but he also spoke about the area we are living in, the west part of the region Connemara, known as Connemara.

The Connemara area is known throughout the country, as well as Great Britain, for its natural beauty and resources. With the recent economic developments and Ireland's growing wealth, this area has become the place for people to vacation. Flynn likened it to Martha's Vineyard.

And it is a very appropriate description because this area is breathtakingly gorgeous. It's just beautiful. We have been extraordinarily lucky because we have still not had any horridly desperate weather.

Monday was one if not the best day we've had the whole time we've been here. And to look out the back door and see mountains, green squares with sheep dotting the fields and to walk down to the sea only 10 minutes away is spectacular.

The beauty here, that is everywhere along the landscape, is more than I can begin to put into words. It is simply perfect.

Midlife changes can be viewed as challenges

MARSHA JOHNSON CHARTRAND

AFTERTHOUGHTS

They say this time of year can be depressing. Grey skies, a lack of sunshine, and being unable to see the ground for months on end can be hard to deal with.

I agree. But you know what is really depressing?

It's the day you receive a catalogue called "As We Change" in the mail.

I had somewhat become accustomed to the idea of getting older, and all of the accompanying changes thereby entailed. Or at least I thought I had.

But I didn't think I was that old, for crying out loud. I didn't think I was that desperate.

Obviously, the catalogue authority has other ideas.

Actually, the cover isn't too bad. It shows a woman about my age taking time to stop and smell the flowers. What a lovely, spring-like thought.

But I opened up the magazine and was confronted with the awful lot.

I need lots of "revolutionary vitamins" to help "women like me" feel better emotionally and physically.

Women like me are too fat: I am told we need a specially designed swimsuit to make us "look 10 pounds lighter in 10 seconds!" Or perhaps some "cool and comfortable shaping." That's quite a euphemism for what my mother used to call "a girdle."

To remedy these problems I will, of course, want to be working out and have the opportunity of looking a size smaller while I am doing so. A size smaller than what, I wonder.

As I work out and lose weight, while looking a size smaller all the time, might I eventually disappear?

Obviously one's skin needs a will of care at this time of life. Covering little imperfections, restoring vital enzymes, and adding a collagen moisturizer for the eye and lip area are among the miracles the catalogue offers.

And just so I can check out all the aforementioned little imperfections with my failing eyesight, I also can purchase a Super 5X magnifying mirror (made of optical-quality glass).

Evidently, I can begin to expect to have some delicately worded undergarment concerns. We won't even get into that.

There are there even more embarrassing things to be found in this catalogue that I can't bring myself to mention in a family newspaper.

On the reverse side of the order form in the center of the magazine is a handy list of symptoms followed by a list of "helpful products."

The dazzling array of symptom include hot flashes, night sweats, mood swings, fuzzy thinking, hormone health, bone health, weight management, cellulite, sleep disturbances, stress, nervousness, fatigue, low energy, dry skin, spider veins, uneven pigmentation.

I can hardly wait for all of this to kick in. I had never even heard of some of these midlife symptoms before.

Reading through this, I had to wonder how our mothers, our grandmothers and our great-grandmothers managed to get through their 40s without the "As We Change" catalogue. Without all the helpful products designed to make our midlife more comfortable, not to mention more expensive.

Perhaps it was because they didn't have the constant reminders. Perhaps it was because these changes were expected, accepted and treated as somewhat normal.

Women weren't expected to be eternally young and lovely. There is a different kind of beauty to older women that is actually unattainable to someone younger.

A couple of years ago, a friend came to a gathering where she met up with some other acquaintances she hadn't seen in a long time. Since then, she had stopped coloring her hair and was wearing glasses instead of contacts.

Having recently turned 50, she was not entirely flattered to be told she "looked like a wise woman."

It seems kind of sad to me - things that used to be thought of as part of the normal course of life are now considered problems that have to be solved, especially if it happens to women.

In all honesty, I think the person who told my friend that she looked like a wise woman meant to say that she looked great. And it sounded like a compliment to me.

When my turn comes, I hope that I won't mind being considered "wise" instead of "crazy."

POLICE BLOTTER

Scio Township

Arrest
Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputies arrested a 48-year-old Pinckney man about 1:30 a.m. Feb. 2 after they noticed the man's vehicle swerving and then cross over the fog line on Jackson Road near Baker Road.

When officers stopped the man, they noticed a strong smell of alcohol on the man's breath. They also noticed the man's eyes were blood shot.

Police took the man to the Washtenaw County Jail. He was given a Breathalyzer test, which showed he had a blood-alcohol level more than the legal limit to drive.

Police arrested a 24-year-old Dexter man around 1 a.m. Feb. 11 near Jackson Road and Wagner Road for operating a vehicle while under the influence of liquor. Police initially stopped the man for a traffic violation.

Deputies said that they noticed the man leaving Bel-Mark Lanes at a high rate of speed without stopping for traffic west-bound on Jackson Road.

Police said that the man failed to stop at the turn-around approximately 100 feet west of the driveway of the bowling alley.

When deputies stopped the man, they noticed a strong odor of alcohol on his breath.

The driver said that he had several beers a couple of hours ago. Police gave the man a Breathalyzer test and then took him to jail.

Property Damage

A 27-year-old Dexter man called police around midnight Jan. 3 after he came out of the Quality 16 Theater, 3686 Jackson Road, and noticed the antenna was bent on his 1997 Ford truck.

The man also found glass jars underneath his truck. He said that he is not sure who would have damaged his vehicle. Damage to the antenna was approximately $100.

Property Damage/Theft

A 51-year-old woman reported to police that between 9 p.m. Feb. 1 and 8 p.m. Feb. 2 that someone had smashed one of her car's windows and stolen money from her purse at her home in the 3600 block of Elizabeth Street.

The purse, which was lying on the front seat, was left on the trunk of the car with more than $100 missing. The damage to the window was approximately $150.

Breaking and Entering

A number of personal checks were taken between 11:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. Jan. 30 from an 80-year-old woman's home in the 700 block of North Wagner Road.

The woman told police that more than 30 checks were missing from her desk. Police advised her to close her checking account and call her credit-card companies.

Webster Township

Arrest

Police arrested a 31-year-old Ypsilanti man for possession of marijuana and for driving with an expired license plate around 9 a.m. Feb. 7 near North Territorial and Scully roads.

Deputies noticed a 1988 Ford Tempo with an expired license plate tab parked in the lot at CJ's Party Store, 4511 N. Territorial Road. Deputies ran the plate through the Secretary of State computer and found that the license plate had expired last November.

Once the man drove away from the store, police stopped him.

Deputies searched the car and found a small bag of marijuana on the floorboard. They also found a half-burnt marijuana cigarette in the car's ash-tray.

The man was taken to jail and his car was impounded.

Chelsea Village

Larceny

Chelsea police were called about 8 p.m. Feb. 11 to the Laundry Room, 524 N. Main St., where they met a local woman who said that someone stole her laundry from a clothes dryer.

The woman said that she placed a load of clothes in the dryer around 7 p.m. and left the Laundromat to go home and check on her children. She said that when she returned around 7:45 p.m., her clothes were missing.

The woman questioned a man and woman who were there because she said they were acting strangely.

The woman who was being questioned told the victim that she could check her car for the missing clothes, but the woman's husband had just left the Laundromat to get quarters.

Police questioned the couple, but the couple said that they did not remove any of the missing clothes from the premises.

Curfew Violation

Four teen-agers were told by police that they were violating curfew when they were stopped around 2 a.m. Feb. 10 near the Holiday Inn Express.

Police contacted the driver's mother in Traverse City and the woman said that she did not give her daughter permission to stay in a hotel. The mother said that her daughter was supposed to be staying with a girlfriend in town.

Police contacted the other teens' parents, and they were escorted home.

Theft

Police questioned a 32-year-old woman Feb. 8 who was caught taking soda the previous day from Farmer Jack, 1255 S. Main St.

The woman left the grocery store around noon Feb. 7 with eight 12-packs of soda.

The store manager said that the woman came back in the early afternoon Feb. 8, leaving her engine running in her Dodge Durango. She filled a cart with soda again and proceeded to the bottle room area near the entrance of the store.

Area residents can look forward to the immediate sale of a substantial amount of reclaimed automobiles and excess inventory ... with payments starting at only $109.00 per month. Victory Ford-Mercury designated as official sale site this Thursday, Friday, Saturday, and Monday.

STOCKBRIDGE, MI - "Bank repossessions." Just hearing the term can invoke a variety of reactions in different people. Bank employees bristle. People behind on their car payments shudder. Auction buyers who purchase in bulk for retailers smile. Some welcome the term, others loathe it. Almost no one is indifferent. And they happen in Southern Michigan almost every day. For banks, at least, these repossessed cars can mean tremendous burdens. Usually the bank has to go to great trouble and expense to find a secondary buyer, and they usually end up taking a loss in the end. One area dealership, Victory Ford-Mercury, has found a way to work in conjunction with area banks to offer these cars to people looking for bargains on used vehicles. And that means everyday people, not just those with connections on the "inside." "These types of vehicles are next to impossible for the average person to find," explains Brian House, General Manager at Victory Ford. "They usually end up at auto auctions, where professional buyers grab them up at bargain basement prices and then mark them up and sell them to retailers—who in turn mark them up and sell them to the public. By the time these cars hit most dealer's lots, they've already been marked up twice!" Victory Ford has announced its first "REPO Sale" of the year. This Thursday, Friday, Saturday, and Monday (February 15th, 16th, 17th, and 19th), Victory Ford will sell reclaimed automobiles and excess inventory "to the general public only." "When we first presented the idea to area banks, says House, we told them we had to do it on our terms. We wanted to be able to pass the savings on these repossessed vehicles to our customers. Not only did they agree to work with us, they offered to finance the vehicles for ridiculously low down payments. Due to great customer response from our January and February sales, we also have our best selection ever of discounted local trade-ins that must be moved at some cost. For example, we have a 1996 Oldsmobile Cierra for only $5,988 or $109.00 per month!" Victory Ford-Mercury will have a large number of these special units on hand in order to get them back on the road as soon as possible. Whether you're looking for a used car, truck, van or 4x4, you are assured a tremendous selection. And every vehicle has been through their rigorous safety and mechanical inspection. "These cars and trucks have been cleaned up, and are in tip-top shape," says House. In addition, Victory Ford will also have tremendous savings on Ford vehicles. "Don't forget about those huge savings!," House adds. "We are Southern Michigan's Fastest growing Ford dealership for a reason. We have terrific prices! For example, we have a 2001 Ford Ranger for only $9,988. That's under ten thousand dollars for a 2001 Ford truck!" During the four day event, these vehicles will be sold on a first-come, first-served basis. House urges that all interested parties arrive "as early as possible," in order to insure the greatest possible selection. Victory Ford will have a full staff on hand for the sale. "It is our intention to share this opportunity with everyone," says House. "If you have a job, just bring your title or payment book. I'm sure we'll be able to work with you." Victory Ford-Mercury is located at the intersection of M-52 & M-106 in Stockbridge. For more information, customers should call 1-800-451-2936 and ask for extension "99". The sale will be in progress for four days only, Thursday, Friday, Saturday, and Monday - February 15th, 16th, 17th, and 19th while supplies last.

PERFECT CUT

Couple find love with stained glass

By Will Keeler
Staff Writer

Class fused Marsi and Bill Darwin together. The two came together as a result of a class Bill was teaching on stained glass that Marsi attended more than 10 years ago. With those first classes, Marsi got more than burns and cuts from the stained glass. She got a commitment to the art form, as well as new friend and husband in Bill. "After a few classes, I was hooked on stained glass and what you could do with it," she said. The two, with Bill's mother, JoAnne, who joined the ranks with the couple seven years ago, have been creating stained-glass pieces for several years out of their 3,500-square-foot pole barn in Waterloo Township. The three will be among 50 other artists exhibiting their creations at the 28th annual Dexter Pioneer Arts Fair March 17. This will be the eighth year that they have displayed their wares.

"We enjoy going to the fair because they require you to demonstrate your work and we get to show people what we do," Marsi said.

Marsi said, for the most part, they can create anything, but most of their requests are for windows, entryways, kitchen cabinets and lamps. Bill's grandfather passed on his knowledge and passion for the craft to Bill when he was 16 years old. "His grandfather was a tool and dye maker, so he was very much a perfectionist and taught Bill the basics of the old-fashioned way," Marsi said.

Bill got his first pieces of stained glass from his uncle's salvage yard in Grass Lake and began to restore them. When Bill got started with this craft, he said it was kind of a dying art. But it has become popular again and Bill has made a living making different creations during the years. Marsi said that they travel throughout Indiana and Illinois to different glass manufacturers to purchase quality materials. "The quality of the glass makes a big difference," Marsi said. "The advantage of going to these manufacturers is that you can see all the different colors and make sure the glass is of good quality."

The couple agreed that there is competition with big markets for stained-glass pieces, especially Tiffany lamps. However, they said that what people often find at a store are usually imported and of poor quality.

"These import markets mass produce a lot of stained-glass things and it really shows," Marsi said.

The quality of glass and the workmanship shows with some of these imports, she said. The lines and the fusing of the glass are usually crooked.

"We have a lot of people drop off lamps and other things that they bought elsewhere and want us to repair the glass, and you can really notice some of the flaws in the pieces," she said.

But with all these competitors, Marsi said that their business won't suffer.

"Bill has built up a great reputation over the years with the community," Marsi said.

Marsi said that business has been good, with not too much down time. Bill normally tends to the larger projects, like custom work for churches.

Marsi and JoAnne help out from time to time, but generally they work on smaller projects, like suncatchers and smaller lamps.

Completing the smallest of projects can be quite laborious, Marsi said.

The trio uses two different methods in creating a stained-glass piece. They either use the copper-foil method or the lead-came method.

The latter of the two methods tends to be a little faster and is used for larger more intricate projects, Marsi said.

With the copper-foil method, the glass pieces are cut and wrapped and then soldered. And with the other method, the glass is also cut but lead-came is inserted into a channel or groove. After the glass is set into the grooves and tightened, the joints are then soldered together.

The time involved with each piece depends on the size and design. For example, most of the lamps range from $100 to $5,000 each.

Bill said he enjoys creating the larger pieces, like doors and panels.

One of the projects he enjoyed making the most involved a 42-piece creation. Once completed, the church-style wares were put into a house in Holland.

The new high school sculpture, two years in the making, hangs high over the commons area. Shown are several people who were involved with the project: Chelsea High School art teacher Kerry Kargel (left); Robin Robinson, president of Chelsea Education Foundation Board; student Sharon Solo; CCDA director Carol Ghent; student Leigh Mitchell; CCDA president Wendy Broshar; artist Janice Botsford, advisory member of the CCDA and chair of the sculpture project; CCDA founder Steve Hinz; and seated, students Max Sprinkle, Mike Kattula and Catie Dusbiber.

Scholarly sculpture Community collaboration produced artwork

By Sheila Pursglove
Staff Writer

Students at Chelsea High School are enjoying an artistic addition to the ceiling of their commons area — a sculpture created by their peers.

"It was a real pleasure to see the new sculpture in the commons on return from winter break," Principal Ron Mead said.

"I was aware the CCDA was working with art teacher Kerry Kargel on the project but didn't know it was scheduled to be installed. It was exciting to see the addition of color to the space and the movement.

"The students and Mr. Kargel did a great job and I hope this is just the first of many permanent art works in the common spaces of our building," he said.

The sculpture, a joint project between the Chelsea Center for the Development of the Arts and the Chelsea School District, is a bright and colorful design of Plexiglas circles and triangles, surrounded by spirals of silver tubing.

In the spring of 1998, Jane Dising, then president of the Chelsea school board, got the ball rolling.

"When the new high school was built, it was always a vision of architect Sarah Haselschardt that there be a kinetic sculpture in the commons area," Dising said.

"However, since we had limited funds, we asked the Chelsea Center for the Development of the Arts if they would like to help create an artwork that would also serve as a learning activity for students."

Artist and CCDA board member Janice Stevens Botsford agreed to chair the project, teaming up with Haselschardt and Kargel, who recruited high school art students from the third-hour sculpture class and second-hour studio art.

"The design process is often the hardest part of a project, and we had to make sure that the shapes and colors fit into the design of the school," Kargel said. "The walls and ceiling are painted white, which creates a void feeling. Introducing color adds warmth to the large void area."

Kargel helped the students make the leap from two-dimensional to three-dimensional concepts.

"Students first looked at the area being designed, brainstormed and discussed what shapes and colors should be used," he said. "The plan then went into effect and was drawn on paper."

Students then made a prototype of the design, working in 3D, and making adjustments when necessary.

"Students always try to solve a problem sometimes with extraordinary ideas," Kargel said. "Some of the ideas were not always practical, but as the ideas were discussed the project started to develop, adding something here and taking something from there."

Kargel, whose favorite contemporary sculptor is Henry Moore, enjoyed working with organizations such as the CCDA.

"Getting feedback from the CCDA helped us to keep on task," he said.

By February 1999, the students — Leigh Mitchell, Sharon Solo, Caitlin Dusbiber, Amanda Peterson, James Moore, Max Sprinkle and Mike Kattula — had narrowed down their ideas and begun to make a few three-dimensional mockups.

Botsford and Haselschardt gave a one-day presentation to the sculpture class, and led a brainstorming discussion to stimulate ideas.

"Students discussed design concepts, color and materials, and the space where the sculpture would hang," Botsford said.

"They wanted to brighten the area and create something which was fun, whimsical, and gave a feeling of space and airiness."

Botsford brought in various props — mobiles and brightly colored kites — to stimulate discussion.

"We discussed whether the surface area would be shiny or matte, the way different shapes interact with each other and with surrounding space, and color choice," she said.

Haselschardt discussed the school design, the importance of creating a sculpture that would fit into the space and safety factors.

"I shared several books with photos of existing sculptures that might fit well into the space," Haselschardt said. "I suggested they might think about some particular symbol or theme that would represent their group or school."

Chelsea Players present 'Steel Magnolias'

Chelsea Area Players will present "Steel Magnolias" next month at the Chelsea Community Fair Service Building. The play, written by Robert Harling, opens March 8. Performances are at 8 p.m. March 8 and 9, with a dinner show; 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. March 10, with a matinee and dinner show, respectively; and 2 p.m. March 11, with a matinee. Tickets may be purchased at the Chelsea Pharmacy, or by calling 475-9800. The play revolves around the relationship of six women. Their triumphs and tragedies are portrayed with warmth and humor. It is set in Louisiana in the 1980s at Truvy's Beauty Salon. As the play opens, Truvy hires a new assistant, Annelle, whose own personal tragedy "will not interfere with my ability to do good hair." Shelby and her mother, M'Lynn, a regular at the salon, are there to prepare for Shelby's wedding. Miss Clairee, the former mayor's wife, comes to visit and talk with the ladies. As the story unfolds, the audience soon realizes how important these women are to each other. Even Quiser, who explains that she is not crazy but, "I've just been in a bad mood for 40 years", loves and depends on the other women. Over the span of approximately two years in which the play takes place, the women overcome the simple daily hassles as well as one of the ultimate human tragedies. Each character is driven by her own personal feelings about the other women as they at one moment playfully banter with each other and then desperately depend on their love and support. In the end, it is realized that living a life that is filled with the love and support of family and friends gives humankind the avenue to "have 30 minutes of wonderful than a lifetime of nothing special." Chelsea natives Mark and Merleth Nelson are producers. Mary Beth Seiler of Ann Arbor is directing. Also from Ann Arbor are Eileen Toth, who plays Annelle, and Ann Marie Mann, portraying Quiser. Karen Hawk of Ypsilanti is Shelby, while Saline resident Denis Kantner plays Truvy. June Weiland, as Clairee, and Alisa Bauer, as M'Lynn, both from Chelsea, conclude the cast. For more information contact the producers at 475-6111 or log on to www.ChelseaAreaPlayers.org.

Bowling alley to host benefit March 24

Chelsea Lanes will host a benefit March 24 for Big Brothers, Big Sisters of Washtenaw County. Big Brothers, Big Sisters of America is the oldest and largest provider of youth mentoring services in the United States and has been bringing mentors into the lives of the nation's children for nearly 100 years.

Today, tens of thousands of children are benefiting from having a Big Brother or Big Sister, but many others are still waiting to be matched with a volunteer. Bowl for Kids' Sake is an opportunity to join the fun and raise money for the kids in Big Brothers, Big Sisters of Washtenaw County. Area residents are asked to help raise a third of the annual funds needed to ensure that the program continues to enrich the lives of children in the community. Chelsea Lanes and the Ypsilanti Bowling Center will host the event. Big Brothers, Big Sisters will hand out dozens of door prizes, including retail and dining gift certificates, University of Michigan merchandise and tickets to sporting events. Special prizes also will be awarded to the top individual and fund-raising team, plus bowlers can earn Bowl for Kids' Sake pledge prize. All teams registered by March 2 can win the chance to bowl with a University of Michigan coach or athlete. To register, call 973-1900, Ext. 104.

Six locals on Albion dean's list for fall semester

Six local residents have been named to the dean's list at Albion College for the fall semester. Emily Arend is a senior majoring in mathematics. She is the daughter of Lee and Debra Arend of Grass Lake and a graduate of Chelsea High School. Danielle Harsh is a senior majoring in speech communication and minoring in English, with a concentration in secondary education. She is the daughter of Donna Harsh of Dexter and a graduate of Dexter High School. Jocelyn Jacobs is a senior majoring in chemistry. She is the daughter of Daniel and Margaret Jacobs of Whitmore

Lake and a graduate of Dexter High School. Sarah Martin is a senior at Albion College. She is the daughter of Thomas and Janice Martin of Chelsea and a graduate of Chelsea High School. Sarah Metzler is a senior majoring in psychology. She is the daughter of Michael Metzler of Dexter and Arlene Seelbach of Chelsea. She is a graduate of Chelsea High School. Students named to the dean's list must achieve a grade point average of 3.5 or above at the completion of the semester. To qualify, students must take at least three units in graded courses and successfully complete four units.

SCULPTURE

"It was a lot of fun working with the students. While the end result is a beautiful sculpture that everyone can enjoy, I think the real benefit of the project is self-expression and self-esteem for the art students. "It's wonderful to put that much trust in teen-agers and see that their project got carried through," she said. Local artist Madeleine Vallier also had input in narrowing down the choices for the final design, which was funded in part by the Chelsea Education Foundation Board. CCDA Director Carol Ghent looks forward to collaborating on projects in the future with other community organizations. "It's been a wonderful experience for the CCDA to play a part in this unique undertaking, and we're thrilled with the results,"

Ghent said. Steve Hinz, founding director of the Chelsea Center for the Development of the Arts, hopes this will be only one of several projects that will be a part of the high-school building. "I'm pleased the CCDA was able to assist with this project and arrange for funds for the students' work," Hinz said. Kargel, who has been teaching art at Chelsea High School for 20 years, agrees that given the size of the commons area several large pieces could fit into the space, creating the opportunity for plenty of sculpture projects for future classes. "Everyone who saw the sculpture said it looks great," he said. "Some students said we need another sculpture over the other stairway."

Chelsea hoops on three-game win streak

Bulldogs find shooting eye in victories, including 20T Dexter thriller

By Don Richter
Staff Writer

After suffering through a four-game losing streak, the Chelsea boys' basketball team bounced back, winning three consecutive games, including a thrilling, double-overtime victory over county rival Dexter.

The Bulldogs recorded win No. 3 last Saturday after defeating visiting Howell, 61-57.

Sophomore forward Paul Newhouse (6-foot-4) led the Chelsea attack with a career-high 18 points and four rebounds.

Junior guard Eddie McClendon added 16 points and two assists.

According to Chelsea coach Robin Raymond, the victory was a team effort.

"We rotated a lot of players in and out," he said. "That helped. Our starters didn't play as much. It was nice to get all the kids in. We had a lot of players contribute."

Chelsea forced 24 turnovers while committing only 15 itself.

"That was a key," Raymond said.

Being able to rest his starters was important to Raymond after last Friday's county tussle with Dexter. "After such an emotional game, it was tough to play the next day," Raymond said.

Against the Dreadnaughts, Chelsea used a three-point basket at the buzzer by senior Tony Scheffler to tie the game at 52-52 and send it into overtime.

It took two overtimes before the Bulldogs prevailed in an emotionally draining, 73-71 victory.

"That was one of the best games ever," Raymond said. "Dexter played extremely well."

The Dreadnaughts led 15-9 after one quarter and 25-21 at the half. By the end of the third quarter, the Bulldogs had closed the gap to 35-33 before Scheffler tied it at the buzzer.

Chelsea was down by six points, with 30 seconds left in the game, before tying the score. In the overtime session, Scheffler scored eight points and McClendon, six.

For the game, McClendon led with 20 points, followed by Scheffler with 17 and senior co-captain Ben Myers with 11.

Chelsea dominated the boards, out-rebounding Dexter 31-17 and 13-2 on the offensive glass.

Scheffler finished with a team-high 10 boards. He also blocked five shots.

That was far different than the first meeting between the two clubs — a 59-54 Dexter win.

"In the first game, they (Dexter) controlled the paint," Raymond said. "We wanted to use our size on the inside. We rebounded well."

Raymond said another key to the contest, besides rebounding, was the Bulldogs' poise.

"We answered every time they scored," he said.

Despite falling behind early, Chelsea was able to regroup and rally for the win.

"Dexter plays so well with the lead," Raymond said. "We were able to get some steals late and that doesn't happen too often to Dexter. That was a tribute to our defensive pressure."

For the game, Chelsea forced 17 Dreadnaught turnovers and recorded 12 steals.

The Bulldogs drained six three-pointers in 19 attempts, compared to Dexter's six in 10 tries.

On Feb. 6, Chelsea hosted Saline, winning 75-61.

Chelsea grapplers capture Southeastern Conference wrestling title

Champions. Every athlete strives to be one. Every team attempts to be called one.

Saturday, Chelsea's wrestling squad accomplished both.

The Bulldogs bested the field, capturing the Southeastern Conference White Division title at the league meet hosted by Adrian.

With 223 points, Chelsea's young but talented team walked away with the SEC crown.

Tecumseh finished second with 203 points. Dexter placed third with 186 points and Ypsilanti Lincoln was fourth with 154 points.

It was the first time in five years Chelsea had earned the overall league title.

"We're doing this as a team," said Chelsea coach Kerry Kargel. "We have four kids out, but these young kids have done an excellent job."

The Bulldogs finished with five league champions.

Sophomore Randy Ostrowski (125 pounds) placed first going 3-0 for the meet.

Sophomore Adam Egeler (152), senior George Fairley (160) and sophomore Darl Bauer (171) each went 3-0 and captured league championships, as well.

Junior Jared Powers (215) was the final Chelsea grappler, placing first. He also ended up 3-0 for the meet.

Earning second place finishes for the Bulldogs were freshman Matt Robinson (112), junior Robert Herrst (189) and senior Alex Slocum (heavyweight).

Finishing third for Chelsea were Ben Rodgers (135) and Ryan Keiser (145).

Mike Steger (145) placed fourth.

Rodgers, Keiser and Steger were key to the Bulldogs' victory, according to Kargel.

"I decided to flip three kids at the inside weights," he said.

Rodgers, normally at 145, moved down to 135 for the league meet. Keiser was bumped up to 145 from his usual 135. And Steger moved to 140.

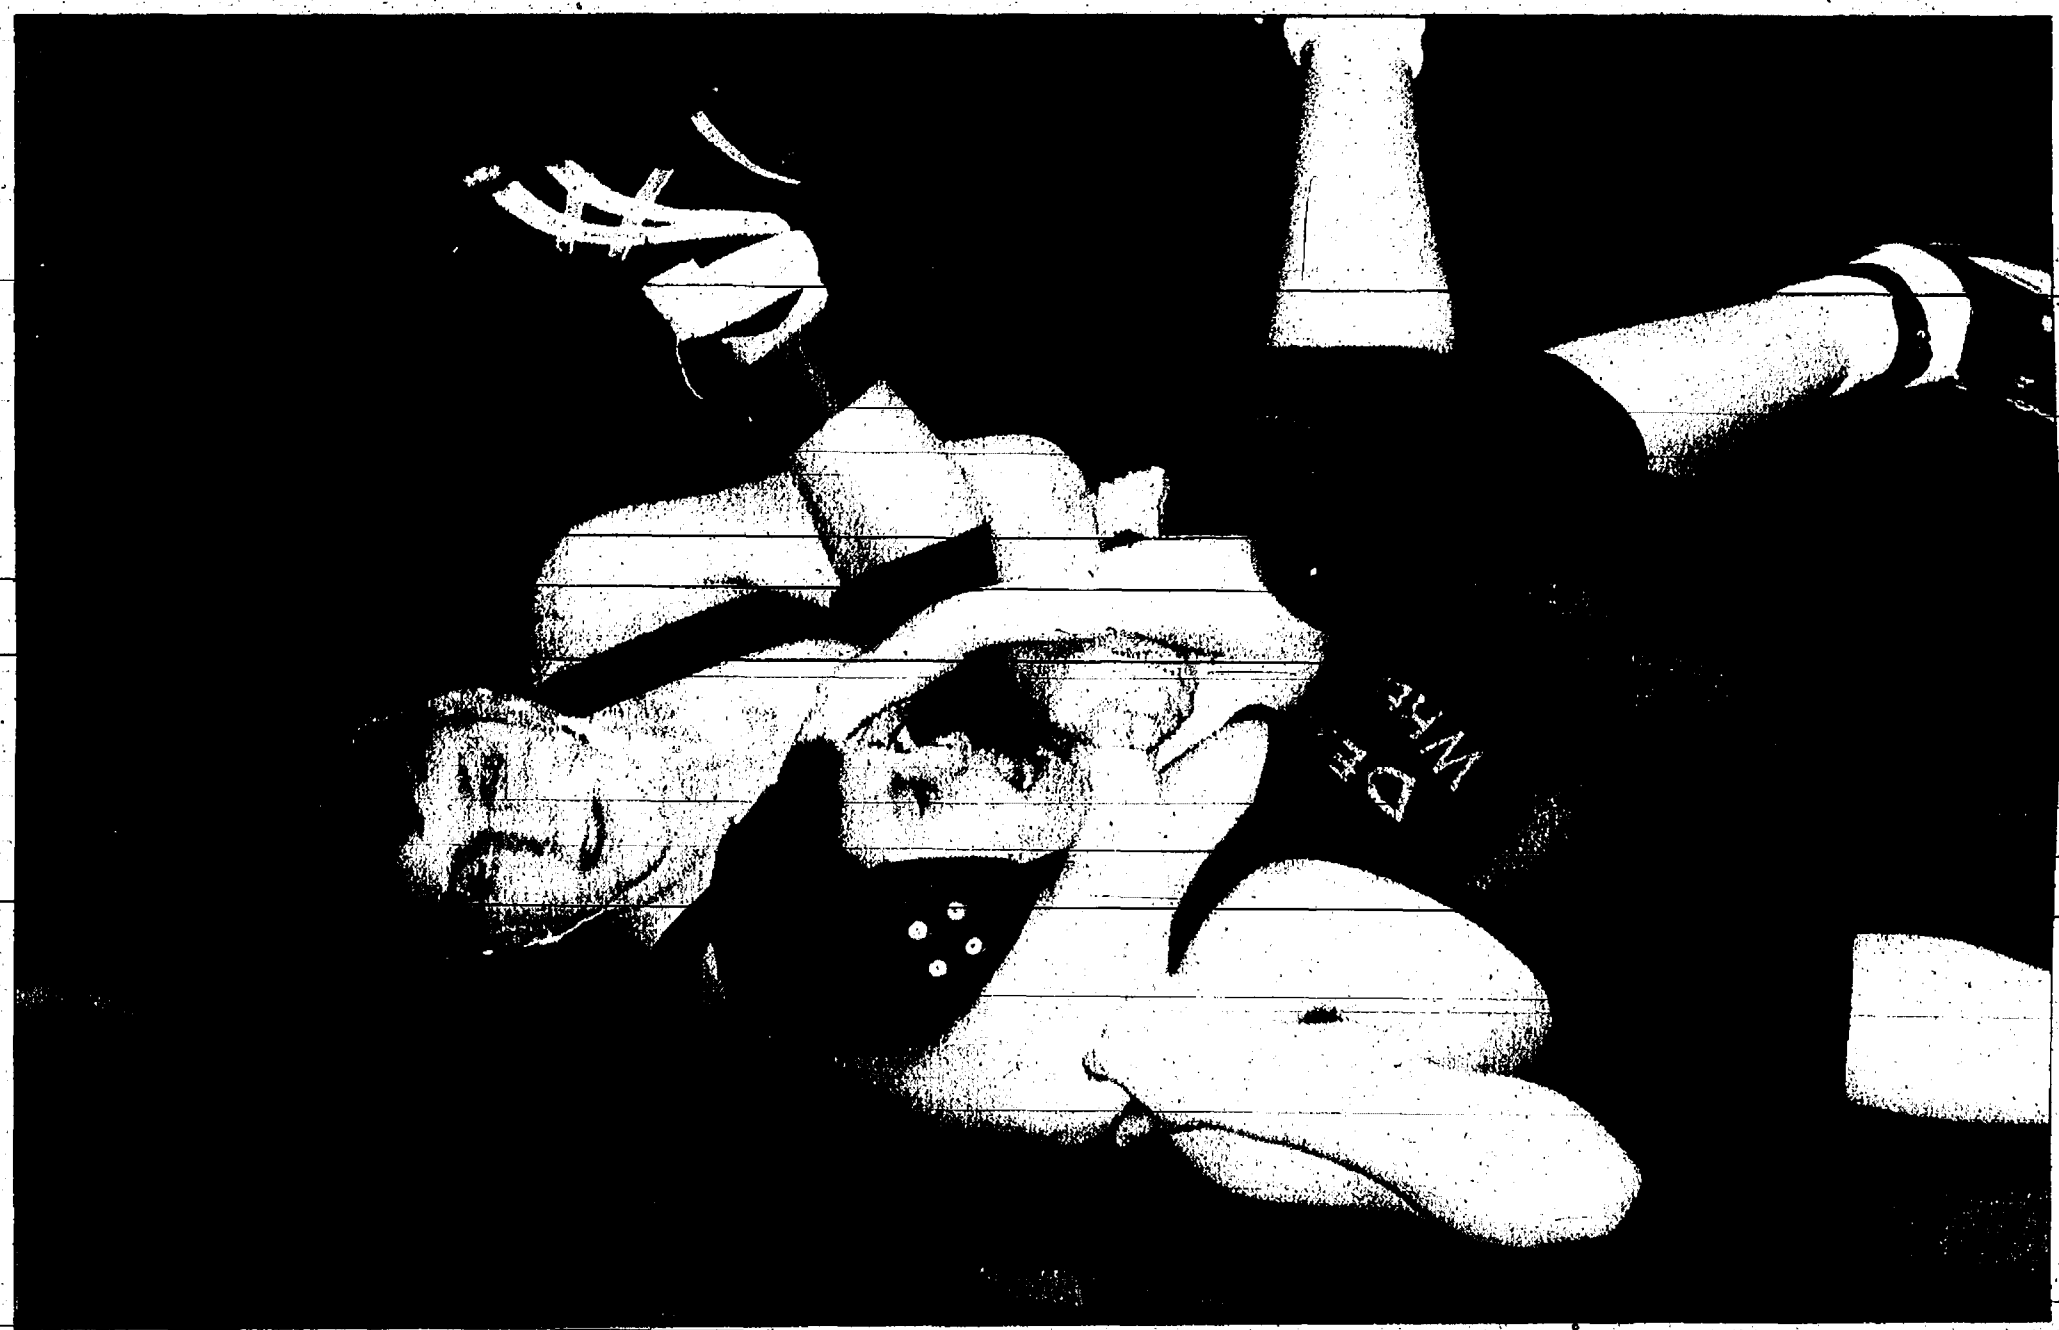

"I felt we had a better chance if I moved the kids around," Kargel said. "I was hoping to get points."

It worked.

Chelsea scored 20 points in that area, something that might not have occurred unless Kargel flip-flopped his lineup.

Besides juggling his lineup, Kargel also said a key to his squad's victory was its ability to pin and not get pinned.

"We pinned when we needed to," he said. "We always stress getting the extra points on pins or on technical falls.

Bulldog tankers dominate Lincoln

Hack, Cook, Heydlauff spark state-ranked Chelsea swimmers in pool blowout

The Chelsea boys' swimming and diving team made quick work of the Railsplitters of Ypsilanti Lincoln last Friday night, cruising to a 118-59 win.

Knowing that the No. 5-ranked Bulldogs would dominate, the focus of the meet became goal setting. The squad wanted to get swimmers closer to state qualification times for the state meet in March.

Many top times were turned in, even a new pool record, which was set at last year's Southeastern Conference Championships.

The 200 medley relay got things rolling early for the Bulldogs as Tim Wacker, Matt Holmes, Aaron Connell, and Andre Bravo won the event in 1:56.31.

Placing third in the event were Josh Haynes, Steve Basar, Andrew Ceo and Matt Kellogg at 2:06.96.

The Bulldogs went second, third and fourth in the 200 freestyle, with Mike Pollicht leading the way at 2:05.44.

Andy Hack cruised to an easy victory in the 200 individual medley, stopping the clock at 2:01.89. Teammate Greg Cook was second at 2:13.87, with Aaron Connell placing fifth at 2:32.13.

The 50 freestyle was a big goal event for the Bulldogs. The team looks to score big points in the event at this year's state championships.

Jared Wacker won the event, dropping his time to a season best of 23.53. Jake Holton also had a season best of 23.66, which was good enough for second. Zack Christman was third, just short of the state cut at 24.01.

Steve Basar continued his dominance in the one-meter diving event, winning with 225.25 points.

Gabe McGuinness improved his score to a season best of 223.85 for second and Ian Rosentreter was third with 186.50.

Bulldog senior swimmer Andy Hack powers through the water during Chelsea's meet against Ypsilanti Lincoln.

Chelsea senior Greg Cook swims the third leg of the 400 freestyle relay against Lincoln. The Bulldog relay is ranked No. 2 in the state.

Mike Bowdish, coming off a major sickness, placed second in the 100 butterfly, stopping the clock at 1:08.16. Aaron Connell was third at 1:10.04, with Ryan Kelley earning fourth at 1:14.30.

Jeff Heydlauff, the state's No. 2-ranked 100 freestyler, dropped his time to a season best of 49.27 in route to winning the event.

Bravo was second at 56.01 and Josh Haynes was fourth at 57.90. Pollicht, Ceo and Kellogg completed for a one, two, three finish in the 500 freestyle.

The highlight of the evening came in the 200 freestyle relay as the pool record set by Milan at last year's conference championships fell.

Heydlauff, Hack, Holton and Jared Wacker exploded, finishing with an amazing time of 1:30.41, which moves Chelsea to the No. 1-ranked sprint relay in

Barron hat trick leads Chelsea hockey in league split

By Don Richter Staff Writer
 It's never easy coming back from a deficit, especially one as large as four goals. However, that was the predicament facing the Chelsea hockey team Feb. 7 against Grosse Ile. Heading into the night's contest, the Bulldogs were playing some of their best hockey of the season, going 3-0-1 in their last four games. Against the visiting Red Devils, however, Chelsea (13-7-1, 7-2-1) found itself down 4-0 after one period. Despite battling back for three early second period goals, cutting the Red Devil lead to one, the Bulldogs ended up falling 7-3. "We came out flat," said Chelsea coach Don Wright. "We played a poor first period." With the second period explosion, the Bulldogs appeared back in the contest, but two consecutive Grosse Ile power play goals thwarted any momentum

Chelsea might have built. "That deflated our spirits," Wright said. Sophomore Kenny Williams scored the Bulldogs' first goal at 2:06 of the second period off an assist from junior Josh Barron and sophomore Drew Warren. At 3:59 of the period, senior Trevor Maveal turned the light on off an assist from senior alternate captain Craig St. Clair and junior Mike Sayers. Chelsea's third goal came from Barron on a power play from senior Brad Wright at 4:49 of the second. The Bulldogs out shot the Red Devils, 25-24. On Feb. 9, Chelsea traveled to Saline and defeated the Hornets, 5-2. Barron led the way, recording a hat trick and scoring three goals. At 13:23 of the second period, Barron scored goal No. 1 off an assist from line mate Warren. Later in the period, Barron notched goal No. 2 off an assist from sophomore Ben Daniels and Warren. At 1:17 of the second period, Barron and Warren hooked up once again as Barron scored goal No. 3. Sandwiched in between Barron's goals was a score, by senior Rob Molina at 3:11 of the second period. Maveal and Barron recorded the assist. At 9:35 of the third period, Warren ended the Bulldog scoring with a goal assisted by juniors Kevin Phillips and Eddie Ameel. Chelsea out shot Saline, 27-11 on the night. "I thought we played very well," Wright said. "It was a good effort, especially after losing Wednesday night (versus Grosse Ile)." Friday's contest against Saline ended a six-game stretch for Chelsea, which according to Wright was the season's most important. The Bulldogs finished the stretch 4-1-1. "We feel pretty good about that," Wright said. "It puts us in a good position in the league." Chelsea trails only Southeast Michigan High School Hockey League-leading Dexter (18-2-1, 9-0-1) in conference play. The league title could be decided Feb. 24 as the two county rivals meet to end the regular season at Dexter's Veterans Ice Arena. Before that potential championship finale, however, the Bulldogs travel to Lincoln Park's Civic Arena today to face off against the Railsplitters at 7 p.m. On Feb. 21, Chelsea welcomes Waterford to the Artie Coliseum at 7 p.m. Senior Night will be celebrated in the Bulldogs' last home game of the season. ## Dawgs square off against Dreadnaughts

By Don Richter Staff Writer
 In an exciting, three-set match, Chelsea's freshman volleyball team defeated county rival Dexter, 15-10, 14-18, 15-12, Feb. 8. "It was a hard-fought game," said Chelsea coach Terri McCalla. "It was exciting and put our talents to the test. It was a real challenge — the game we'd been waiting for." Pacing the Bulldogs was Lindsay Parker with 12 attacks, 14 assists, five kills, 10-of-11 serves and four aces. Rachel Dotson finished with seven attacks, 15 assists, two kills and two aces. Meghan

Reames ended up with seven attacks, one kill, 11-of-12 serving and three aces. "The net play was exceptional," McCalla said. "Our serving was strong at 84 percent." McCalla also mentioned the play of Kelly Reinhardt. "She continues to improve at the net," she said. Brittany Denison was 7-of-8 with five aces and Missy Morcom was 7-of-8 with four aces to lead Chelsea in serving. "Serve receive has improved each game and this game was no exception," McCalla said. Nicole Collins was 6-of-7, Becky Sprague was 5-of-6 and Ashley Gadbury was 4-of-6 to pace the Dawgs in serve receive. "Dexter was hitting the ball hard and we had many digs from Devon Lixey, Kaylyn Rohkohl and Heather Cobb," McCalla said. On Feb. 7, Chelsea (16-4-2, 5-1) swept Ann Arbor Huron, 15-3, 15-1. "The girls played well even though Huron was struggling," McCalla said. "They (Huron) had a hard time receiving our serves. We only missed three the entire evening." Collins led the way for the Dawgs, finishing 14-of-14 serving with six aces. Renee Johnston, Parker and Morcom each recorded an ace. Reames was 7-of-7 on attacks with four kills. Sidney Olinsky and Morcom played well at the net with two kills each. Dotson finished with seven assists and one kill. According to McCalla, Becky Sprague improved on serve receive and did a great job. Staff Writer Don Richter can be reached by telephone at 475-1371 or via e-mail at drichter@heritaget.com.

Chelsea volleyball battles top-ranked teams

By Don Richter
Staff Writer

Talk about your tough week. It's bad enough the Chelsea volleyball team had to travel to Class B No. 1-ranked county rival Dexter last Thursday.

It's even worse that the Bulldogs had to square off against Temperance Bedford, Class A's No. 1-ranked club, on Saturday.

To say it was a nightmare is putting it softly. Checking the schedule-maker's head would be more appropriate.

Arguably, Bedford and Dexter are Michigan's top two teams regardless of class.

At the Bedford tournament Saturday, Chelsea fought admirably, but fell in the quarterfinals to Adrian, 8-15, 5-15.

The Maples are state-ranked in Class A.

In pool play, the Dawgs finished 6-2 overall.

Chelsea defeated Macomb Dakota, 15-4, 15-10, West Bloomfield, 15-4, 15-10, and Ann Arbor Huron, 15-9, 15-5.

In its fourth and final pool match, the Bulldogs faced the top-ranked Mules.

In a spirited battle, Chelsea fell 7-15, 9-15.

"The team played well throughout the day," said Chelsea coach Laura Cleveland. "We ended up second in our pool."

Senior setter Lindsay Baker, with 63 assists and 20 digs, paced the Bulldog attack.

Amber Mattocks finished with 24 digs and 10 aces and Caitlin Deis ended up with a team-high 27 kills and seven aces.

Alli Mann added 12 kills and Josie Wells chipped in 20 digs.

Against Dexter, Chelsea lost 15-10, 15-8, 15-7.

"The team came out with a lot of enthusiasm and intensity," Cleveland said. "But we suffered from mistakes down the stretch in the first game and never regained any momentum for the rest of the match."

Deis led the Bulldogs with 12 digs and seven kills.

Baker finished with 24 assists, Mann with seven kills and Wells with six kills.

Chelsea next hosts Ypsilanti Lincoln today at 6 p.m.

On Feb. 22 the Bulldogs travel to Tecumseh for a match at 6 p.m.

Staff Writer Don Richter can be reached by telephone at 475-1371 or via e-mail at drichter@heritag.com.

Tecumseh stops Beach in close match

The Beach Middle School wrestling team traveled to Tecumseh Feb. 6, failing to its host 18-15 in matches won.

Beach had difficulty in the lower weights, winning just three of its first 13 matches.

At 100 pounds, Beach's Derek Jolly pinned his opponent in the first period.

Drew Wint (105) won a thrilling 7-8 decision for Chelsea.

The final win in the lower weight classes for Beach came from A.J. Suffey (120) on a pin.

In the heavier weight classes,

Chelsea excelled.

Taft Richardson (145) and Austin Rodgers (150) both recorded pins.

At 185, John Maynard won on an 11-9 decision with heavyweights Ryan Teachout and Brad Hinderer pinning their opponents.

In second-round competition, Beach performed well, winning 7-of-10 matches.

Recording pins for Chelsea were Geoff Wonders, Nate Montange, Shawn Bergman, Josh Liebeck, Jolly and Wint.

Beach ends its season Feb. 17 when it travels to Tecumseh to participate in a tournament with Dexter, Adrian Drager, Adrian Springbrook, Ypsilanti Lincoln, Saline and the host Indians at 9 a.m.

The tournament runs an A and B division, giving all Chelsea team members a chance to take part in the competition even if there is more than one wrestler at an individual weight class from the same school.

Easy to Learn Self-Defense Strategies for Your Complete Protection

Expecting the Unexpected!

Most of the time, we are safe. We are in control of what happens to us. We don't make strategic mistakes. But...regardless of how organized we are, regardless of how well we have planned, occasionally something happens unexpectedly. We:

- lock our keys in the car
- we run out of gas
- we get lost
- somebody comes to the door, late at night

None of these situations are difficult to handle...if you've prepared in advance. Here is one of the simple "StreetSmart" truths: We are vulnerable when something happens to knock us out of our usual way of doing things.

Mistakes are made when you are caught off guard. When something unexpected happens, caution and safety are lost in the commotion.

For example: You return to your car, late at night. You can't find your keys in your purse...because they are in your ignition. And you don't have a spare. You can't get to your car phone. So you find yourself walking, alone, through a bad part of town, trying to find a pay phone.

Get the idea? Guess what? So do the "bad guys." They have a built-in radar. Always on the lookout for somebody in distress, somebody lost...somebody unprepared.

Let's consider the above example again. The "StreetSmart" woman says, "Rats. I locked my keys in the car. Good thing I always keep a spare in my purse!" And happily, safely, drive home.

So here is your homework. List as many possible "emergency" situations as you can. Like the ones I've mentioned above. Include ones that are particular to your own situation. Then write down your "Preparation Strategy" for each possible situation. Follow through on your plan. Remember, these are usually easy problems to solve. In advance! So - DO this exercise. Get your pen and paper right now! You will enjoy the confident, capable state that it puts you in. You will feel safe and empowered!

WRESTLE

"Plus, we stressed not getting pinned. We were only ahead of Tecumseh by a few points the whole day. Not getting pinned helped."

With its SEC crowning, Chelsea has achieved one of its two goals on the year.

"Winning the league was one of our goals," Kargel said. "And we'd also like to be district champs. Those are our two main goals."

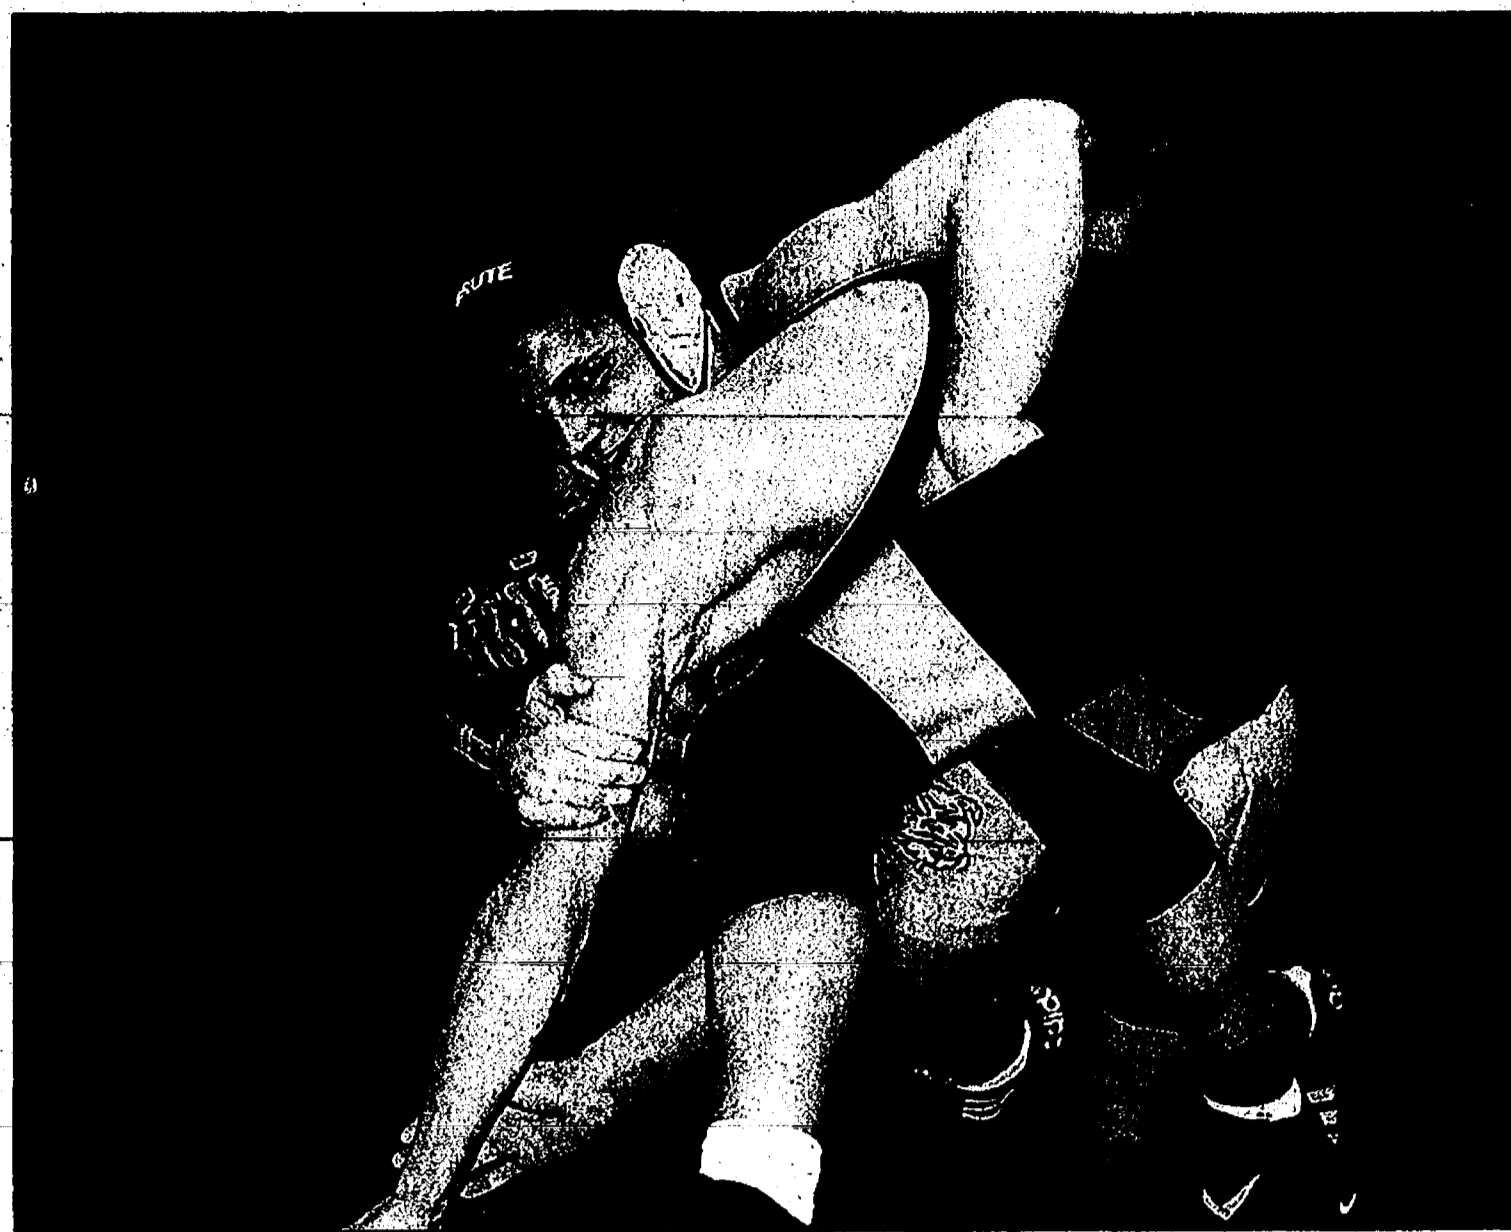

In the SEC crossover matches, held after the league meet, many Bulldog wrestlers squared off against opponents from Division I No. 1-ranked Temperance Bedford.

Though losing quite a few close matches, Kargel said the hard-fought battles helped his team.

"It was a good prep for the state individual districts," he said. "The team got an indication of what will happen (at districts)."

Districts are set for Feb. 17 at Lake Odessa Lakewood.

SWIM

"A time that fast at this time of the season is simply amazing," said Chelsea coach Dave Jolly. "To have four guys, all 22-second range, right now makes us all very excited for March."

Christman, who just missed the 50 freestyle cut in the lead off position of the B relay, came right back in the 100 backstroke, winning the event at 1:04.67. Tim Wacker was second with a time of 1:05.44. Ryan Kelley was fourth at 1:13.73.

Holmes won the 100 breaststroke, with Connel placing third at 1:18.39 and teammate Kooyers earning fourth at 1:24.15.

In the last event of the evening, the seniors were trying for another pool record.

Winning the 400 freestyle relay was not as impressive as the time the team put up on the clock.

Heydauff, Jared Wacker, Cook and Hack fell just short of the record, but moved into the No. 2 spot in the state rankings, stopping the clock at 3:22.20.

Chelsea travels to Tecumseh for the final competition of the SEC dual meet season tomorrow.

Beach swimmers earn four gold medals

Chelsea's Beach Middle School swimming and diving team captured four gold medals this past weekend at the Michigan Interscholastic Swim Coaches Association State Invitational held at Plainwell High School.

Beach's Kara Stiles set a new meet record in the 100 freestyle (36.01) and also won the 50 freestyle (25.59).

Jessica Lodewyk, Kellyn Pagliarini, April Adams and Stiles finished first in both the 200 and 400 freestyle relay events with times of (1:51.08) and (4:04.47), respectively.

In the 200-medley relay, Liz Skidmore, Stacia Morrison, Kat Fitzgerald and Kelly Butcher placed seventh (2:15.36).

In the 200 freestyle, Butcher finished eighth (2:17.83).

In the 100 individual medley, Lodewyk placed fifth (1:10.82), Adams was sixth (1:11.84) and Pagliarini finished 10th (1:12.49).

In diving, Danielle Houle placed seventh (126.60).

Lodewyk finished ninth in the 50 butterfly (31.15) for Beach.

In the 100 backstroke, Pagliarini ended up sixth (1:10.83) and Adams eighth (1:11.99).

In the boys' meet, Chelsea's Andy Kellogg placed second in both the 100 individual medley (1:03.80) and the 100 breaststroke (1:10.81).

In diving, Cliff Ballard placed 12th (110.50).

The 200 freestyle relay of Greg Daniel, Benj Kellogg, Chris Moyle and Andy Kellogg finished ninth (1:59.78).

The foursome of Nat Christman, Andy Kellogg, Daniel and Moyle placed sixth in the 400 freestyle relay (4:31.11).

On Feb. 5, Beach traveled to Milan in its last dual meet of the season, winning 102-68.

The 200 medley relay team of Adams, Stiles, Pagliarini and Andy Kellogg finished first.

Allison Frayer, Christman, Fitzgerald and Moyle ended up third.

Becca Reeseman, Diana Ladio, Ann Gordenier and Morrison finished fifth.

Lodewyk captured the 200 freestyle followed by Butcher in fifth and Katie Grabarkiewicz in sixth.

In the 100 freestyle, Stiles placed first, Adams was second and Skidmore was fifth for Beach.

Pagliarini won the 50 freestyle followed by Moyle in third and Tara Jennings in fifth.

In diving, Houle finished second, Ballard was fourth and Anna Hillaker, sixth.

Andy Kellogg touched first in the 50 butterfly with Lodewyk third and Fitzgerald, fourth.

In the 100 freestyle, Stiles placed first, followed by Butcher in fourth and Skidmore in fifth.

The 200 freestyle team of Andy Kellogg, Butcher, Moyle and Lodewyk finished first.

Hanna Taylor, Jennings, Gordenier and Grabarkiewicz placed third.

Benj Kellogg, Morrison, Daniel and Christman ended up fifth.

In the 100 backstroke, Adams touched first followed by Pagliarini in third and Frayer in fifth.

Andy Kellogg bested the field in the 100 breaststroke, with Morrison fourth and Christman sixth for Beach.

The 400 freestyle relay group of Lodewyk, Pagliarini, Adams and Stiles placed first.

Skidmore, Grabarkiewicz, Jennings and Butcher finished third.

Benj Kellogg, Ladio, Taylor and Daniel ended up fifth for Beach.

Chelsea's Scheffler, Dawson sign to play college football

By Don Richter
Staff Writer

With one swipe of his pen, Tony Scheffler became the first Chelsea player in more than a decade to sign a national letter of intent with a Division I football school.

On Feb. 7, recruits from across Michigan and the nation penned their John Hancock to scholarships binding them to attend a certain university or college to play football.

Two Bulldog players were among that group.

Scheffler, a wide receiver, signed with Western Michigan University and Nate Dawson, an offensive lineman, signed with Saginaw Valley State University.

"It's always been a goal of mine (to play college football)," said Scheffler, who led the Bulldogs this season with 67 receptions, 17 touchdowns and 1,361 yards receiving - all school records. His 67 catches and 1,361 yards receiving were also high on the all-time Michigan High School Athletic Association's list.

Scheffler (6-foot-5, 215) said his full-ride scholarship to play football for the Broncos was in honor of his parents.

"My parents have done so much for me," he said. "This kind of pays them back."

For Dawson (6-4, 315), signing with SVSU was a no-brainer once he visited the campus.

"I thought the school and its facilities were phenomenal," he said. "It's a top-notch school."

What also prompted him to sign with the Cardinals, members of the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, was SVSU offensive line and strength and conditioning coach Mike Evans.

"He seemed like he wanted to win," said Dawson, who bench presses 325 pounds. "He was really confident about the program."

According to Dawson - who also was recruited by Eastern Michigan University, Ferris State University and Tiffin (Ohio) - what wowed the Cardinal coaches was his overall agility.

"They said I had one of the best set of feet they'd seen in a long time," he said. "They liked the way I moved."

That shouldn't surprise anyone who knows Dawson. As a junior last year, he finished sixth in the state as a heavyweight wrestler. An injury prevented him from competing this season.

"I always wanted to wrestle in college," Dawson said. "But at the beginning of my junior year, I started to think seriously about playing football."

Dawson said it's possible he might play as a freshman for SVSU as a long snapper.

"I snapped a few for Coach Evans and it impressed him," he said. "I would rather be red-shirted and play a fifth year, though."

Dawson was all set to join EMU's program as a preferred walk-on, but a visit from Evans convinced him otherwise.

"He came to school twice to talk with me," Dawson said. "That impressed me." Scheffler, named first-team All-State this season after helping lead Chelsea to an 11-1 record and a spot in the state quarterfinals, said he chose Western because of the coaching staff.

"I really liked the coaches and the university has a lot to offer," he said. "Plus, it's close to home and it has a great tradition."

Last season, WMU finished 9-3 and advanced to the Mid-American Conference championship game for the second consecutive year.

"Their two leading receivers in school history graduated, so the chances are good I might be able to play as a freshman," said Scheffler, who runs a 4.7 40-yard dash, has a 32-inch vertical leap and can bench press 225 pounds. "Coach (Gary Darnell) has hinted I might play. I would like to redshirt."

What also interested Scheffler, an All-State baseball player who plans to play both sports in college, was Western's dedication to throwing the football.

"They average throwing the ball something like 27 times a game," he said. "That attracted me."

Scheffler, who said Central Michigan, Miami (Ohio) and Harvard were the other three schools he seriously looked at, might end up in a three-point Chelsea senior Tony Scheffler prepares to sign a letter of intent to attend Western Michigan University on a football scholarship Feb. 7. Scheffler earned All-State honors as a wide receiver.

Bulldog senior Nate Dawson signs his letter of intent to play football for Saginaw Valley State University Feb. 7. Dawson is a 6-foot-4, 315 pound offensive lineman.

stance before his career is over at Western.

"They recruited me as a wide receiver," he said. "But down the road, I might play tight end."

Chelsea coach Brad Bush said Scheffler attracted the attention of numerous schools because of his size and athletic ability.

"People at that level are looking for big receivers," he said, noting Scheffler was Chelsea's first Division I-A scholarship player in 15 years. "Tony is 6-5 and runs well. Plus, he made a lot of big plays for us."

Bush said Dawson's best football is ahead of him.

"He has tremendous potential," Bush said. "He's a big man with good agility and flexibility. If he commits himself to the weight room, he'll be quite a player."

Chelsea quarterback Chris Brigham and tailback Chris Cooper, two other top-rated gridiron performers, didn't sign with schools last Wednesday.

Both athletes are highly regarded baseball prospects and are keeping their options open, according to Bush.

Chelsea JV sweeps two straight

By Don Richter
Staff Writer

Rivalries always seem to bring out the best in teams. Last Thursday was no exception.

In arguably its best match of the season, the Chelsea JV volleyball team defeated county rival Dexter, 16-14, 15-11.

According to Chelsea coach Beth Box, her team played with a fire she hadn't seen before.

"The first time playing Dexter in January, we were flat," she said. "Serves, communication, everything - flat. This time the girls came out, strong with serves, movement and communication. It was the most exciting match I've seen these girls play." In game one, the Bulldogs fell behind early unable to get points.

But five service points in a row, including three aces, by sophomore Courtney Bentley, lit a spark under Chelsea.

According to Box, both squads played well and "the volley between the two teams was just phenomenal."

Sophomores Stephanie Minzey and Karri Kuczajda did an outstanding job at the net for the Dawgs.

"Each time their (Dexter's) big hitter went up, she was unable to penetrate the middle blocks," Box said.

Dexter's outside hitters were greeted with the same intensity by the Bulldogs' back row defense.

"Whether it was (Anna Marie)

Cooper, (Alison) Sacks, (Cynthia) Johnson, (Sarah) Kaminsky, Bentley or (Lindsey) Tye, all the girls did a fantastic job," Box said.

Freshman Katrina Moffett led the Chelsea attack with 16 assists, one kill and four points.

Kaminsky added five digs and one point and Kuczajda contributed nine kills, three digs and five blocks.

Johnson had two kills, one ace and three points. Sacks had four digs, one ace and two points and Minzey had one kill and one block for Chelsea.

Kuczajda finished with 11 kills and two blocks. Bentley had two digs, three kills, one ace and two points and Tye had three kills, two digs, two aces and seven points.

Kirkwood ended the night with one block and one kill. Krystal Space had one dig and three points and Kaminsky had one ace and three points for Chelsea.

Savannah Hysonng recorded one point and Julie Inwood had two points to round out the Bulldog scoring.

"All the girls played well against Huron," Box said. Chelsea next hosts Ypsilanti Lincoln today at the old high school at 6 p.m.

On Feb. 22, the Bulldogs close out the season traveling to Tecumseh for a match at 6 p.m.

Beach volleyball wins Invite

By Don Richter
Staff Writer

Chelsea's Beach Middle School eighth-grade volleyball team traveled to Ypsilanti Lincoln Saturday leaving with an invitational championship.

The 12-team invitational, split into three pools of four teams each, saw Beach capture its pool with a 5-1 record.

Chelsea swept Wyandotte "B," 15-8, 15-6, Ann Arbor-St. Paul, 15-5, 15-5, and split with Belleville South, 15-6, 10-15.

In the single-elimination tournament championship round, Beach faced Belleville South, once again, in the semifinals.

In a three-set marathon, Chelsea prevailed 8-15, 15-5, 15-10.

In the tournament finals, Beach squared off against host Lincoln.

In a dominating performance, Chelsea swept Lincoln, 15-3, 15-13, to capture the championship.

"I was very proud of the girls' efforts and play," said Beach coach Ann Schaffner, "and with the way they came together as a team to earn the championship."

"This was the first time a Beach School team had entered a tournament, so the girls were especially proud to bring the championship trophy home to Chelsea."

Serving was the key to victory for Beach. The Chelsea spikers ended the competition with a sterling 89 percent service rate.

Kara Kimmen finished 27-of-29 for 22 points, including two aces and Annie Guertin 22-of-23 for 20 points, including three aces to lead Beach.

Jen DeWall served 27-of-29 for 19 points, Kelly Kennedy, 22-of-23 for 18 points, including three aces, and Danae Seward finished 21-of-23 for 16 points for Chelsea.

Chris Toon added eight points and Shannon Kinner and Liberty Dickerson had five points each for Beach.

Guertin, with 53 assists, DeWall, with 30 assists, and Megan Korc, with 22 assists, paced the Chelsea setters.

The threesome placed the ball for 115 attacks on the day.

Mary Kate Setta had a fine all-around tournament scoring 10 points with 14 attacks.

Kimmen ended up with 18 attacks to lead the Beach offense.

Amanda Mattocks added 11 attacks, Dickerson had nine and Kirby Kedroske and Brenda Satterthwaite had eight each.

On Feb. 8, Beach hosted traditional power Temperance Bedford falling, 11-8, 0-11, 1-11, 2-11.

According to Schaffner, Kimmen's play was the "bright light of the match with her consistent effort."

Toon ended up with five points and Kennedy had four for Beach.

Guertin had a team-high seven assists.

On Feb. 6, Beach defeated a strong Tecumseh squad 7-11, 11-8, 11-5.

The match featured a season-high 32 attacks for Chelsea.

Kennedy paced the Beach offense with 14 points on 18-of-19 serving and 19-of-20 successful passes or assists.

Kimmen finished with 97 percent serving proficiency and five points.

Guertin ended up with 13 assists and four points.

Toon was 30-of-31 proficiency in passing with five points and, according to Schaffner, had her best game of the season.

Beach next travels to county rival Mill Creek in Dexter today for a match at 4 p.m.

On Feb. 20, Chelsea hosts Ypsilanti Lincoln at 4 p.m. in a rematch of Saturday's tournament final.

Beach spikers drop two matches

By Don Richter
Staff Writer

Chelsea's Beach Middle School seventh-grade volleyball team hosted Temperance Bedford last Thursday falling 0-11, 2-11, 8-11.

Like its Class A No. 1-ranked varsity counterparts, Bedford's talent and power trickles down to even the middle school level.

"The girls reached their goal of attacking the ball the most they have all season in this match and with more accuracy," said Beach coach Linda Turok.

Chelsea finished with 71 percent hitting accuracy for the match.

Mandie Egeler paced Beach with three service points and served consistently in a row.

Amanda Trembley, Kaly Coburn, Tori Overpeck, Sarah Iverson and Jennifer Carty each contributed one point.

Iverson also added one ace and a team-high three assists.

Nicky Lodewyk finished with two assists and Coburn had one for Chelsea.

Maggie Dusbiber led the way in spikes with three. Coburn added two and Lodewyk and Iverson chipped in with one each for Beach.

On Feb. 6, Chelsea hosted Tecumseh losing a five-set marathon, 2-11, 11-6, 5-11, 11-4, 5-11.
