Village DPW crews plan to trim trees

The village of Chelsea is giving notice to property owners that tree trimming and removal work is being planned within the village.

The work will be carried out by village crews.

Program on stream ecology set for Aug. 18

A program on stream ecology is set for 2 p.m. Aug. 18 at the Eddy Discovery Center on Bush Road, located between Pierce and McClure roads in the Waterloo Recreation Area. Class is limited to 20 people and advance registration is required. Call 475-3170 for more information.

Sylvan Township residents Walter and Sandy Zeeb were recently presented a key to the village and recognized as Citizens of the Year. The Zeebs have owned and operated Chelsea Greenhouse for more than 40 years.

Citizens of the Year

Greenhouse operators receive annual honor

By Will Keeler

The bulletin board that hangs near a bucket of freshly cut flowers at the Chelsea Greenhouse sags with thank-you notes, photos and letters of support.

That board tells the life of Sandy and Walter Zeeb.

The Zeebs will soon add a key to the village to the board. Village President Richard Siegle presented the key to the business owners last Thursday while honoring them as the 2001 Chelsea Citizens of the Year.

"This was truly an unexpected surprise," Sandy Zeeb said. Gloria and John Mitchell, owners of Staffan-Mitchell Funeral Home, were among many who nominated the Zeebs for the award. The Citizen of the Year Committee, which includes former winners as well as Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce representatives, reviews all the nominations before making the final selection.

"It is difficult to find out exactly what all they have done for our community because they do it lovingly and quietly," Gloria Mitchell said. "When there are no extra funds for flowers or there is no family, flowers appear with no bill. This has happened many times," she said.

The greenhouse owners have enjoyed participating in a myriad of organizations and activities. Walter Zeeb has belonged to the Chelsea Kiwanis Club since 1963, and has served as club president.

In 1993, he was given the Legion of Honor award, recognizing him for 30 years of service. That same year, the Kiwanis Club gave the Zeebs a community service award.

Walter Zeeb has counseled inmates at the Cassidy Lake Prison Camp. He has also served on the Chelsea Community Fair Board and, throughout the years, has become a recognizable volunteer.

"He (Walter) spends as much time working with the fair board as anyone else," said Ken McCalla, the fair board's president.

Hearing for reroute set

■ Copies of proposal to be made available at the library and village hall.

By Kent Ashton-Walton
Special Writer

The Chelsea Area Traffic Committee last week reviewed a draft copy of the environmental assessment for the proposed M-52 reroute, a proposed 3.3-mile stretch of two-lane road to the west of the village.

Consultants Neal Billetteaux and Mark Lodewyk of SmithGroup JJR presented the latest draft updates to the committee. Most of the discussion centered on alternatives for the proposed railroad crossing at Cavanaugh Lake Road and the Cavanaugh Lake Road extension. The project budget and schedule were also updated.

The committee adopted the proposed M-52 railroad crossing option at Cavanaugh Lake Road.

There was discussion about connecting Cavanaugh Lake Road to North Street at Hayes Street. The committee said North Street is preferred to Buchanan Street as an entry to Cavanaugh Lake Road since it is a Class A road that carries truck traffic.

However, some committee members expressed concern about stacking distance for traffic on North Street if a traffic light is installed.

The closing of the railroad crossing at Cleveland Street at the end of Middle Street was also discussed. Traffic would use the Hayes Street railroad crossing.

The committee reviewed and adopted the draft proposal for the M-52 reroute railroad crossing at Cavanaugh Lake Road. The plan is currently to have an at-grade crossing.

The draft included alternatives for building an overpass if a grade separation is required for high-speed rail.

Billetteaux presented a revised schedule for the final report, including revisions, reviews by MDOT and a hearing, now planned for mid-October.

Prior to the public hearing, the draft document will be available to residents at a variety of public locations, including Chelsea Village Offices, 305 S. Main St., and the Chelsea District Library, 500 Washington St.

Committee Chairman Joseph Yekulis said that funding for the project was proceeding well, with money coming from industry and the county. However, he said that there were business pledges that had not yet come through.

Residents complain information withheld

■ Public wants to know status of lawsuit and sewer talks.

By Kent Ashton-Walton
Special Writer

Residents in Lima Township are complaining that their elected officials are not communicating enough with the public.

Last month, a handful of people expressed frustration over the Township Board's perceived failure to keep them and other residents informed about a proposal that would provide sewer service to parts of the township.

Now, a citizens group is complaining that township officials are withholding information about a lawsuit involving a proposed trailer park at the corner of Jackson and Parker roads.

The mobile home developer and property owners are suing the township after officials refused to rezone the property.

Area copes with heat

■ Hot weather affects local crops and outdoor activities.

By Will Keeler and Sheila Pursglove

With temperatures in the 80s and 90s, area residents are finding ways to beat the summer heat.

The beach at Big Portage Lake is a refuge for many, said park secretary Linda Vandecar.

Katherine Knox, a lifeguard at the Charles S. Cameron Pool at Beach Middle School, also reported good turnout as people take a dunk to cool off.

Consumers Energy, which supplies electricity to area residents, said it has been breaking records in the last couple of weeks with the amount of electricity being used in the area.

Charles MacInnis of Consumer Energy said that electricity use is increasing in newly developing areas.

"Central air conditioning units are a big component in newly built large homes and they are a large part of these record-breaking days," he said.

With some water restrictions and very little rain, flowerbeds, vegetable gardens and pastures are drying and shriveling up. Chelsea residents have been asked not to water their lawns or wash their cars in an effort to conserve water.

Chelsea firefighters have responded to 14 medical emergencies this month, several of them heat-related, said Assistant Fire Chief Steve Jaskot. One victim was a jogger.

"The lady said she jogs all the time, but in this extreme heat it was just too much for her," Jaskot said. "This heat will also exacerbate any respiratory or cardiac conditions. People need to stay hydrated, take it easy and take some cool down time in the shade."

Ray Biggs, office manager for Dexter Family Practice, 7300 Dexter-Ann Arbor Road, said that the office hasn't seen many patients come in for heat-related problems.

"People are paying attention and using common sense," he said.

Biggs said that some of the warning signs of becoming dehydrated include fatigue, being thirsty and not sweating.

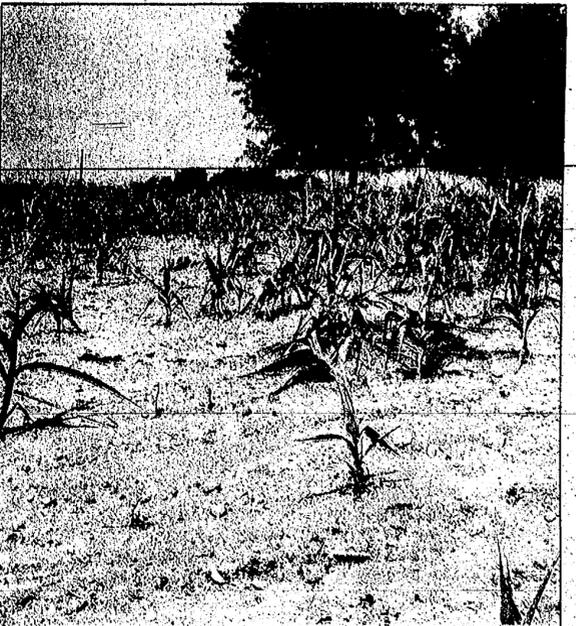

He said that most people can avoid dehydration or a heat stroke by drinking lots of liquids, especially water, avoid drinking alcoholic beverages and staying out of the sun between 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Staff at Chelsea Community Hospital said that they have had only two to three heat-related incidents recently.

Teresa Daves, director of the Little Gingerbread House, 7926 Ann Arbor St. in Dexter, said that she feels fortunate that large, shady maple trees surround her nursery.

"We let the kids run around in the sprinklers in the morning. But once the heat sets in, they come indoors," Daves said.

Chelsea playwright's work to premiere in Ann Arbor

By Sheila Pursglove
Staff Writer

Local playwright Joe Zettelmaier will premiere his latest full-length play, "Fever Dreams," next week at the TreeTown Performance Festival presented by Performance Network in Ann Arbor.

The romantic comedy, exploring love, sacrifice and the importance of chicken soup, dancing and dreams, features Nick Barnes, Robyn Heller and Carla Milarch. David Wolber is the director.

"The characters are all in their mid-20s," Zettelmaier said. "It's about young woman who works in a movie theater, who gets very sick and her best friend's brother takes care of her."

This will be Zettelmaier's third TreeTown production. His play "Science Friction" premiered at last year's festival, and he was a contributing writer for "Strange Love and Unusual Sex" in 1999.

The 1993 Chelsea High School graduate is also a writer for the Purple Rose Theatre Co.'s outreach show "Talk To Me" and will have six pieces performed at Ypsilanti's Phoenix Productions later this month.

The native of Gobles, near Paw Paw, moved to Chelsea for his sophomore year of high school. While he enjoyed forensics, the Washington Street Show Choir and stage and drama, he was not much for English and writing. That passion came later.

Zettelmaier earned a bachelor of fine arts degree from Shorter College in Georgia. Under the guidance of a college professor, he developed an interest in stage combat and fight choreography, teaching the subject to help pay the bills.

After graduation in 1997, Zettelmaier headed back to Chelsea and to the Purple Rose Theatre, a place he was familiar with from his high school days when he volunteered to help with interior painting. He still considers the theater company his "home base" and returns there frequently.

During his yearlong apprenticeship at the theater, he learned acting, house management, crew work and stage management.

"If I've had any kind of regular job since then it's in stage management," he said. "Stage managers are the director's right-hand person, making sure things run smoothly, that actors have the costumes and props they need."

Zettelmaier trained under Purple Rose director Tony Caselli, currently directing "Completing Dahlia," and served as Caselli's assistant stage manager during rehearsals.

"Tony was just great. I have to say I owe the guy so much. I learned so much from him."

Zettelmaier said.

The apprenticeship also introduced Zettelmaier to playwriting.

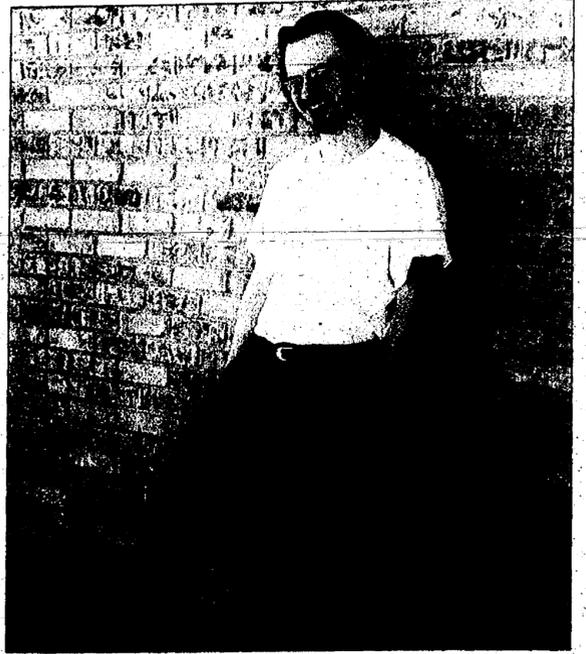

"I never had formal classes or studied playwriting," he said. "I think the best way is to just do it and be constantly writing."

Zettelmaier draws on personal experience for his work.

"I always have two or three ideas in my head," he said. "I like to take things grounded in reality and make them strange, take everyday people and put them in extremely unusual situations."

"Fever Dreams," which wraps up the festival this year, runs Aug. 16 through 19 and Aug. 23 through 26 at Performance Network, 120 E. Huron St., Ann Arbor. For more information call 663-0681.

Department keeps water flowing

Residents keep water usage down.

By Sheila Pursglove
Staff Writer

Chelsea residents can sport their brown lawns and dirty cars as a badge of pride, demonstrating their water conservation efforts as Mother Nature still provides no relief from the hot, dry weather.

"Kudos to the village. People are doing a great job of conserving water," Chelsea Water Department Superintendent Dan Rosentreter said Tuesday. "Commercial properties tend to use a lot of water, but they have also tried to cut back."

"We've had some natural recharge, and static water levels in the wells have risen about a foot."

Thanks to residents' efforts, daily water usage is down 200,000 gallons a day from the average one million gallons a day.

Both the aboveground and underground tanks are full, providing almost 600,000 gallons of water in storage.

Three of Chelsea's four wells are pumping, but well 3, which quit pumping when the aquifer level fell too low, is still off line.

"Since we're managing OK, I'll leave well 3 off line and let the aquifer recharge," Rosentreter said.

Because piping was rebuilt when the well quit pumping, Rosentreter will take bacteriological samplings before the well goes back online, which is standard operating procedure when equipment is put back into operation.

When the well quit pumping in mid-July and the two storage tanks fell to half their usual capacity, the superintendent and his staff — Lee Hafner, Corey Davis and Dave Weigel — worked around the clock for several days to monitor the well, well pumps and high service pumps.

The high heat and humidity continue with some relief this weekend, and possible rain today and tomorrow.

One small step for Neil

Beach Middle School pupil takes part in astronaut training

By Sheila Pursglove
Staff Writer

If it was a small step for astronaut Neil Armstrong, it was an even smaller one for Blake Burnette, who wears a size 9 shoe.

The seventh-grader at Beach Middle School took part in Level 1 of the Future Astronaut Training Program at the Kansas Cosmosphere and Space Center in Hutchinson, Kan., this summer, an experience suggested to him by his grandmother who lives in the state.

The intense weeklong program, developed by Cosmosphere staff, incorporates actual astronaut training with briefings on subjects ranging from how the body reacts to space flight to principles of rocketry.

The camp aims to motivate and inspire careers in space education in an environment that stresses teamwork and problem solving.

Not that Burnette needs much motivating. He's been hooked on science and flight ever since he can remember and hopes to enroll in flight school one day. He has already taken a discovery flight on a Cessna at the Ann Arbor Municipal Airport, and visited the Kennedy Space Center in Florida. His career goals are to design airplanes or robots similar to the Mars Rover.

During his week at the Cosmosphere, Burnette and 39 other kids trained on numerous simulators related to both manned and unmanned space flight.

They simulated walking on the moon in the 1/6 gravity simulator and performed stress tests on a three-axis trainer and in the centrifuge, a G-force trainer that goes up to five G's.

"They only let us go up to 2-1/2 G's," Burnette said. "I wanted it to go faster."

The kids repaired a malfunctioning satellite utilizing the simulated Manned Maneuvering Unit, flew the Advanced Flight Simulator housed in an F-101 cockpit and directed a Lunar Rover mission much like the Mars Pathfinder, guiding a computer-controlled rover around rocks and craters and picking up samples to return to "Earth."

The week culminated with campers flying their own space shuttle mission aboard the Cosmosphere's space shuttle simulator, the Falcon.

This was one of the highlights for Burnette, when he served as payload specialist, carrying out an experiment on the mid-deck.

"I was testing alloys made in space and alloys made on Earth to see which had more resistance," he said.

Burnette and his fellow campers had a chance to learn about the history of the space program in the Cosmosphere's Hall of Space Museum, which houses one of the largest space artifact collections in the world. The museum features the Apollo 13 command module Odyssey and the largest collection of Russian space artifacts outside of Moscow. Campers also used the Cosmosphere's planetarium and IMAX Dome Theater throughout the week.

Burnette, the son of Stephen and Donna Burnette of Chelsea, is already making plans to return for Levels 2 and 3 of the training program in future years.

Staff Writer Sheila Pursglove can be reached at 475-1371 or via e-mail at spursglove@heritage.com.

Chelsea firefighters fight two blazes

Chelsea firefighters help fight blaze.

By Sheila Pursglove
Staff Writer

Chelsea firefighters helped firefighters from Dexter and Scio Township battle a blaze Monday that destroyed a manufactured home in Scio Farms Estates, 8655 Jackson Road.

Initially, the Chelsea crew of Fire Chief Dan Ellenwood, Bill Paul, Bud Hankerd and Shane Keezer was called to man the Dexter fire station while Dexter firefighters helped, but was later called to help battle the fire.

"Manpower became an issue because of the extreme heat on Monday," Assistant Chief Steve Jaskot said Tuesday. "In hot weather, when guys are fighting a fire, they can only work 15 minutes before we have to get them out of their gear, re-hydrate them and check their vital signs. Our gear weights up to 40 pounds dry. When it gets wet from sweat and water, it really weighs us down. It's like a big sauna suit."

Chelsea Area Fire Department also fought a blaze last Thursday at 161 S. Fletcher Road when a fire broke out in a bedroom. They received help from Dexter and Manchester, and succeeded in containing the fire that caused about $40,000 damage.

The department has responded to 14 medical emergencies this month, many of them heat related.

Local students win scholarships

Six local residents are among 1,063 high school seniors from 353 schools throughout Michigan who were awarded Regents Merit Scholarships from the University of Michigan for outstanding academic achievement, scholarly promise and potential contribution to the university community.

The recipients are Katherine Bach, Kathryn Wheeler and Daniel Wright, all of Chelsea; Jillian Ewing and Jennifer Szymusiak, both of Dexter; and Jason Roberts of Pinckney.

They will receive a $1,500 non-renewable scholarship when they enroll at the U of M in the fall of 2001. Recognition certificates were provided to the recipients' high schools for presentation at their spring awards convocations.

Concerned Citizens of Lima, an intervening defendant in the lawsuit, said that since the group was admitted as defendants in February, it has been ignored by the township and has not been privy to its negotiations.

Urquhart said the developer's attorney, Alan Green, informed them that there have been settlement negotiations taking place with the township.

"We find that somewhat disturbing because as parties we would have to consent to any agreement if one is to be reached," Urquhart said.

But Township Supervisor Ken Unterbrink said he doesn't think the citizens group should be privy to the talks because it is not a government entity. He said negotiations involve the Township Board, its insurance company and the attorneys for the mobile home park.

Unterbrink said the township's insurance company is footing the legal bills, which troubles Urquhart. He fears the insurance company may be quick to settle to save money.

"The troubling thing about this whole thing is that when the initial petition was filed, they (the township) went through the whole zoning process," Urquhart said. "They had a public hearing. The Planning Commission unanimously said 'no.' The Township Board subsequently said 'no.' These were all public meetings."

"But now that there is a lawsuit, these same people are meeting behind closed doors because of the litigation exception to the Open Meetings Act. And so they are not being accountable to anybody until it's over with."

"I find that troubling," Urquhart said. "They don't have to do that. They could be very open in terms of what's going on if they chose to be. I'd like some honest and straight answers about what's going on."

Urquhart said he has talked with Gerald Dresselhouse, manager of the Sylvan sewer project, about the sewer issue and how it relates to the proposed mobile home park. Although the project went out for bids to contractors in July, Dresselhouse said negotiations with Lima Township remain open until after Labor Day, when construction starts.

Urquhart said that with respect to the proposed housing development, the big question he has is whether the proposed mobile home park is feasible without municipal sewer. After talking with officials at the Department of Environmental Quality, Urquhart said he understands that it is not possible to discharge sewage into a nearby creek, and that such a large development would require a sewer system.

Unterbrink has said in the past that the proposed sewer line could run along the south side of Interstate 94 to supply commercial development areas around the I-94 and Fletcher Road intersection. Recently, he added that it could supply high-density housing on the west side of Lima Township near Dexter Village.

Unterbrink said there is a possibility the township will extend a sewer line east where the manufactured home development has been proposed. It would depend, he said, on negotiations and whether the developers would want to invest in a sewer line, but he said the township did not intend to build it with taxpayer funds.

Unterbrink added that even if there is no sewer service available, the mobile home developers could build their own sewer plant. He said the sewer plant could discharge into Mill Creek, if the DEQ allows it.

At Monday's Township Board meeting, Unterbrink noted that reports from the Watershed Council indicate Mill Creek is in poor health because of phosphate contamination.

Also Monday, the Lima Township Board heard from a committee of residents, experts and board members appointed to study Sylvan Township's proposal to supply Lima Township with sewer services.

The committee includes Consultant Engineer Steve Ghizek and residents Vince Spade, Karen Malone and Gary Adams, with Greg McKenzie and Ken Unterbrink acting as board representatives.

Consultant engineer Steve Ghizek said that they are looking into design, district densities and costs. Ghizek said that the Sylvan Township project is estimated to cost $12 million for both the sewer and water systems. Much of the cost would be retrieved from developers.

Ghizek suggested that for Lima to pay for the Sylvan sewer line it would need developers willing to foot the bill.

The committee said it needs an attorney to explain the options and financial issues involved. The group plans to report to the board again Aug. 27.

Unterbrink said there is no meeting planned yet to inform the public about the lawsuit or the negotiations that have occurred.

HEAT

Before letting children outside. Daves said that sunscreen is applied and they get their own water bottle.

Area farms don't get the same luxury. Many of the farm animals on Doug and Sue Rodgers' farm are trying to escape the heat and are finding it difficult to graze in the brown pastures.

"We need the rain to replenish the pasture. We have already started putting hay out for the animals to eat," Rodgers said.

And the animals aren't the only ones affected by the heat. Vegetables have been slow to grow. Rodgers said that she is hoping her pumpkin crop will turn around.

"Some of the ones are small and they are already starting to turn (orange), and they really have a couple of months still to grow," she said.

The downpour of rain the area got on July 29 didn't help the crops much. In fact, hail damaged some of the better-grown corn, knocking down about 20 acres of sweet corn.

The farm relies on Mother Nature to bring a good harvest. The family, which grows a myriad of vegetables, does not have an irrigation system.

Through the backfields of sweet corn, a machine is set up among some of the thirsty stalks, and bellowing out of the machine are the sounds of a dead bird.

"This helps keep a lot of the birds away from the corn," Rodgers said. "But it doesn't help if we don't have any decent corn. Then the machine is useless."

Police arrest two men in Park Lyndon sting

Local parks under surveillance for obscene conduct.

By Sheila Pursglove
Staff Writer

Washtenaw County's Park Lyndon North and South are popular places for bird watchers, hikers and picnickers.

Local schools take children there on field trips to study the geology, flora and fauna, and the county runs several nature programs.

Boardwalks run through the wetlands and hiking trails crisscross the woods.

But there is a more illicit side. Both parks, located on North Territorial Road about one mile east M-52, for several years have been a popular meeting place for men seeking sexual gratification, according to Michigan State Police.

On Friday, undercover state police troopers arrested two men who allegedly accosted them for sexual favors.

A 40-year-old Pinckney resident was arrested for lewd and lascivious behavior and a 67-year-old Manchester resident was arrested for obscene conduct. Both men were cited during separate incidents and will appear in court in Chelsea at a later date.

Trooper Craig MacDonald of Post 26 in Ypsilanti said that in the space of three hours last Friday at least 10 men were observed "cruising" Park Lyndon South in search of other men.

He said police wrote down license plate numbers of cars parked in the lot.

According to MacDonald, local residents have complained to police and officials and are reluctant to let their children visit the parks, where sexually explicit graffiti covers picnic tables and restroom walls.

"People are aware of the situation and it's keeping families from going to the parks," MacDonald said.

He said while the main focus of Friday's surveillance was Park Lyndon South, similar activity has been observed in Park Lyndon North. Because of the frequency of this type of behavior in these local parks, surveillance and undercover operations will continue, he said.

Washtenaw County Parks and Recreation Director Robert Tetens said Tuesday that he was not aware of any recent complaints.

"In the mid-'90s, it was quite an issue after a Detroit TV station did a piece on it, and also because of Web advertising," he said.

Tetens said because of this and other unrelated issues, the Washtenaw County Parks Commission contracted for a full-time sheriff's deputy to provide security for all the county parks.

When police arrived, the 65-year-old woman was upset and told police that she and her husband started arguing over their son. The two started pushing and fighting, and the woman was pushed back into a living room chair. She tried calling 911, but her husband grabbed the phone from her.

COMMUNITY ROOTS

Is our landscape disappearing?

A grassroots movement is blooming, and it's long overdue. In Erie, Colo., citizens had had enough. In Washington, D.C., people were fed up. In New Jersey, even the politicians jumped aboard. Philadelphia, San Francisco, Waterloo - I'd run out of column space before I'd run out of names. Philadelphia, San Francisco, Waterloo - I'd run out of column space before I'd run out of names. Philadelphia, San Francisco, Waterloo - I'd run out of column space before I'd run out of names.

list. Waterloo, a typically rural township, recently adopted a master plan, and is forming a zoning plan. And while not experiencing explosive growth, the township's population is growing. Justifiably, some citizens are worried about Waterloo's future - will it turn into a cluster community, or will it retain its wide-open spaces? For Chelsea, it sometimes seems like the battle against sprawl has already been waged. Travel south on M-52, and it appears that we've decidedly lost. But while the southern strip is pretty sprawly for many of our tastes, we shouldn't raise the white flag of surrender just yet. Chelsea's population grew 16.6 percent from 1990 to 2000, and it's not done yet. The village is likely to annex land when it becomes a city, and there are still many lots of vacant land primed for development. And when and if the magical bypass is built, there will suddenly be a ton of potential strip-mall territory there, too. Don't fret, fellow Chelseans: There will be plenty of chances for anti-sprawl campaigns in the future.

Does fuel efficiency matter to Americans?

Trivia question: Since the mid-1980s, has the average fleet fuel economy for passenger car and light trucks increased or decreased? Answer: Decreased. Since fuel economy standards are lower for light trucks, automakers can produce millions of gas-guzzling sport-utility vehicles, filling the demand for these symbols of American decadence. The light-truck portion of the auto market has skyrocketed since the 1980s, bringing down the average fuel economy of all cars sold. In an unrelated story, according to the 2000 census, more than 86 percent of Michigan residents drive alone to work. While our state doesn't lead the nation in solo commuters, it's near the top. Heck, nearly 80 percent of all Americans drive alone to work. And the average commute is increasing, too. It's easy to see why. Gas is cheap and there aren't many mass transit options. And we mustn't forget Michigan's special relationship with the auto. So let's do the math: Americans are driving alone more often to workplaces that are farther away from home in vehicles that consume more gas.

And just last week, Congress threw out a plan to raise the fuel economy for light trucks.

No wonder only half a dozen people responded to my proposal to leave their cars at home and walk, bike, carpool or ride the bus to work.

What water woes?

And who said conservation doesn't work? On July 16, the Chelsea water department issued an advisory asking residents not to water their lawns or wash their cars. Just last week, Water Superintendent Dan Rosentreter reported that Chelsea's daily water use was down 20 percent from 1,000,000 gallons a day to 800,000. That's pretty incredible, considering that not everyone is following the ban.

Is a community garden feasible in Chelsea?

There's a piece of Chelsea that's missing - a community garden. I visited my first community garden in Madison, Wis. It was maybe five acres, and each plot was probably 12 feet by 12 feet. There were hundreds of plots and just as many styles of planting. Every few days or so, people would tend their plot, maybe share a few tips with an adjoining gardener. Some of the tenants were Asian immigrants, bringing techniques from their homeland and carrying on their agricultural heritage in a new setting. A friend of mine said that many of these families - and many of the community garden tenants - didn't have enough arable land for proper growing where they lived. Many lived in apartments or houses with small backyards. So the community garden was the perfect solution. Plots are reserved on an annual basis, and there are certain rules. What better way to get back to the land? Is this possible in Chelsea? Is it feasible? Many village residents lack proper yards for gardening. For instance, our backyard is tiny, and the sunlight isn't optimal. I'm sure many others have similar situations, especially apartment and condo dwellers. Not only would a community garden offer space to grow, it would allow gardeners a place to gather. Of course, availability of land is an issue - if it's worth gardening, it's often worth developing. Any ideas, anyone? Gregory Parker is a free-lance writer living in Chelsea. He can be reached at gparker@umich.edu.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Urge public officials to buy our farmland

I have been concerned with the pattern of our land development over the past 25 years. It appears that little regional planning has taken place and that the township and the village have not worked closely enough to create an environment that preserves our rural character and the village. Without a real and meaningful land-use plan coupled with the proper regulatory mechanisms, such as zoning and presentation tools and incentives, we will continue to witness the bland and haphazard development that now characterizes the Chelsea area. We desperately need a regional plan where Chelsea is the hub. City and region leaders need to form a new working relationship, and funds need to be found to hire the best regional planning firm in the country to develop the Chelsea regional plan. It will not be cheap, but the alternative is not either. We can do much better if we really wanted to do so. One thing that should be done is to establish an entity with the funding and power to purchase key farms in the region. This entity should be established by law and have proper representation from the village and the township. The purpose of the entity is to put in public ownership, the farms, so they can be "landbanked" for future public uses, such as parks, open space and other public uses. By purchasing farms now, it will go a long way toward preserving the present for the future and, moreover, keeping taxes lower. If the farms are not purchased, they will be converted to housing for many more people. With more people, there will be the need for more schools and teachers. More schools and teachers mean more taxes. Think about the domino effect this way. Take a 300-acre farm and convert it to housing. For this example, we will use two acres for each house. The 300 acres will produce around 150 houses. Those houses will contain approximately four people each for a total of 600 people. Let's assume two out of the four are school-age children. This totals 300 school-age people. Let's assume they are between the ages of 5 and 10. A total of 300 kids at these ages equates to a new elementary school. Think of the cost to build and maintain the school and the annual costs for the teachers. These costs go on forever. The purchase of the 300-acre farm is a one-time event and does not require anywhere near the annual cost of operating a school. Multiply this out for, say, 50 farms and we are talking real money saved over time. You get the idea. More houses, more people, more schools equals more taxes. Costly. If we do not do as I have suggested, our area, as we know it now, will be changed forever. We can create a better future for the coming generations where there is a high quality of life and a sustainable community. It is in our power and grasp to do so. I urge everyone to get the elected officials to do so before it is too late. There is only one opportunity and it is now or never. Let's not let this opportunity slip through our grasp. Shame on us all if we do not cease this moment.

Exchange student had enriching experience

I came to Chelsea last year to study for a year thanks to a Rotary Youth Exchange Scholarship. I lived with three Chelsea families, and I had the chance to attend Chelsea High School as a senior. I went through many things. I confess that being away from my parents, childhood friends and my homeland was a challenge, but I grew to love the Chelsea community and tried to be one of its members. I had a year that opened my eyes, and that I will always remember. Sad and happy memories have been created, and I will always treasure them. Leaving was hard to me. I will never forget the great welcome you gave me and I will never forget the new friends and acquaintances I made. I wish I could keep in touch more often.

The former Pierce property looks nice

Recently, I had the opportunity to enter Chelsea from the south and was impressed by the "Welcome to Chelsea" landscape sign at the corner of Old US-12 and M-52. I thought as I passed through the fast-food lane, auto sales lots, doctor clinics, strip malls, grocery store, etc., where is the ugly new building that the Village Council and private citizens voiced so strongly against for such a long time? Instead of the old, wooden framed building in drastic need of repair that had housed a variety of businesses, I was to see a beautiful new well-designed, structure (CVS Pharmacy) with aesthetically pleasing lines and with good parking. It is well landscaped and has dual curb cuts, one on Old US-12 and one on Main street. I could not believe what the Village Council, along with several people without reasonable concern or money involved, put the Pierce heirs through. One person even called and asked them to donate the property to the village. If this was their desire, why didn't they purchase the property from the Pierces and give it to the village? One could only suspect that the "good old boys" may have influenced the Village Council to drag the Pierce heirs through the long, dragged out process. They had to pay legal fees to sell the property, which was legally zoned and in compliance with the adjacent properties. It is now an improvement to the tax base and a competitor to a business that had little or no competition for its inventory or products. You ask what is your concern, why are you challenging the village's procedure when you don't live here? You are right, I don't live here and I don't have a cent involved in village property. I am only concerned with what appears to be a wrong that was imposed on the Pierce heirs in disposing of property legally willed to them by their parents. A wrong is a wrong, no matter where or to whom it is directed. They were forced to spend thousands of dollars on legal fees, not to mention the earnings the money received from the sale of the property would have generated. One thing can be said, you do indeed have a pleasant structure to welcome visitors and those passing through.

Chamber of commerce supports cityhood

The Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors has voted to support Chelsea Village's effort to change from a general law village to a home rule city. The primary reasons the chamber supports this move are as follows. A general law village is not a primary unit of government like a city or township. The structure a general law village may take is dictated entirely by the state. By becoming a home rule city, Chelsea would be able to create its own charter to reflect its own circumstances and concerns, which should create a more efficient and effective form of government. The new charter would have to be approved by voters. Property owners within a general law village are the only citizens in the state to pay taxes to two local governments: the village and the township. If Chelsea becomes a city, this dual taxation will stop for property owners within the new boundaries, who will no longer pay township taxes (approximately 1 mill). Taxes now paid to the townships are largely for services that Chelsea is capable of providing. Chelsea has its own infrastructure, including police protection, and is capable of holding county, state and national elections, which are now held by the townships. In addition, the village is capable of assessing property, another function that townships perform for village property owners. Residents of general law villages must stay informed about two local governments, and they are required to vote in two different places. This is unnecessarily confusing. City residents would register and vote in only one location, thereby streamlining the election process. The village has no control over property assessment. In Chelsea's case, part of the village is assessed by Lima Township and the rest is assessed by Sylvan Township. The city would be capable of handling its own property assessments and records, thereby providing a more uniform measure of the value of property. A home rule city will have more influence than a general law village in matters involving the state of Michigan, in particular the Michigan Department of Transportation, which has control over our main thoroughfare, M-52. The chamber recognizes that some property owners now outside the village will not favor being incorporated into the new city limits with the resulting higher taxes. We also realize that Sylvan and Lima townships will lose part of their tax base with this change and may need to search for other sources of funding. However, we also recognize that a change of this magnitude will never be fair for everyone, but that, on balance, it is a very positive step for the village and surrounding areas. The chamber board primarily represents businesses in the Chelsea community and believes this move will be a significant benefit for the overwhelming majority. Cityhood promises to lower taxes initially, and create a more efficient, streamlined and autonomous form of government. We also believe that it will help preserve the unique characteristics of our community, which is a key to the prosperity of the entire area. Brian Hamilton

Chelsea football sets sights on third straight title

By Corey Roepken
Staff Writer

Will Bredernitz had a little trouble sleeping Sunday night, but it wasn't because he was having bad dreams.

It was thoughts of football. It's not like he could help it. He and his friends were a part of the Chelsea High School football team last season that didn't lose until the state quarterfinals and made lots of noise on the way.

And Monday was the day it all started over. Each player was dressed in shorts, cleats and practice jerseys at noon and ready to get back to work, which didn't end until 9 p.m.

Coach Marty Walsh shows the offense which play to run during Monday's practice.

The last two South eastern Conference titles haven't been enough. They want another one.

"As a program, this is exciting because we're trying to win three championships in a row."

— Brad Bush
coach

joining his teammates for dinner. "You can't wait to get out there. You're back where you want to be."

And that place is a little different this year.

Instead of having two practices, separated by four or five hours each day, the team stays at the field. The players lift weights, eat and spend down time with each other in between practice and classroom sessions.

Sure, Chelsea is a small school, but this way every player gets to know every player, not just the ones he sees in between class.

The offense runs a play Monday on the first day of camp. The Chelsea players were at the field from 12 p.m. to 9 p.m.

"I'd rather them hang out together than have them racing to get out of here (after the first practice) then coming back," Coach Brad Bush said. "That's what creates team building."

"It's like you have more of a bond," Bredernitz said.

And with all due respect to those who were important to last season's team, a closer-knit team may be more necessary than it was last season when most games were over by halftime because of the team's high scoring offense.

While most of the skilled players are gone, a lot of the linemen and defensive players are back, which, as everyone knows, is the key to winning championships. Just ask the Baltimore Ravens.

"We're going to be more of a defensive team," senior defensive end Justin Seitz said. "I don't think we're going to have a bad offense. We just may not have all the big plays."

Without as many big plays this year, the backups may find themselves in a key situation with two minutes to go, rather than a 35-point blowout with 18 minutes left. That's where this year's veterans come in.

"We're trying to help all the younger guys get better because we know everything," senior outside-linebacker Andy Montero said. "It's our job to teach leadership."

So, the players spent nine hours together Monday through Wednesday before beginning regular practice today — 15 days before the opener.

"As a program, this is exciting because we're trying to win three championships in a row," Bush said.

If the Bulldogs do that, they'll be the first Chelsea team to do so since 1971, which, if you take off the 19, is the number of varsity players on this year's team.

Coincidence? No. That's too easy.

But now that the players know more about one another, it may be easier to get that third championship.

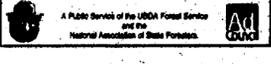

The defense begins Aug. 24 at home against Fowlerville.

Guide to Chelsea Area Schools

Although Chelsea School District has been a magnet for growth in recent years, Assistant Superintendent Iva Corbett does not anticipate an increase in the student population this fall because of an expected decline in the number of kindergartners. Current enrollment figures show a student population of 2,919, with the highest number of students in the ninth grade. There are more than 1,000 at the high school. To better serve the needs of newcomers and longtime residents, The Chelsea Standard, in cooperation with the Chelsea School District, will produce the annual Chelsea Area School Directory, which will feature information about school buildings, school officials, schedules, community education programs, clubs and staff. It also will include staff telephone extensions, e-mail addresses and sports schedules. This quality publication is guaranteed to appeal to every parent of school-age children. It will be distributed as part of the newspaper and will be available to families eyeing Chelsea as a possible hometown. The Chelsea Area School Directory is a valuable advertising tool to market your business or service. So, take advantage of this opportunity to let the residents in the school district know what you offer and reserve your space today. More than 5000 copies will be distributed on October 4. ON THE SIDELINE

"Down! Red 240! Red 240! Set! Hut! Hut!"
 Ahh, music to my ears.
 Some people might enjoy old Frank Sinatra tunes or melodies from the Dave Matthews Band, but for me, there's no sweeter sound than a quarterback barking signals.
 To me, that means one thing — it's football season.
 Let's put on the shoulder pads, buckle up the chin straps and start hittin' somebody.
 In Michigan, Aug. 6 was the first day high school football teams could begin practice.
 Eighteen days later, on Aug. 24, the varsity season kicks off.
 Locally, Dexter opens on the road at Stockbridge while Chelsea hosts Fowlerville.
 It should be an interesting year for both area gridiron programs.
 One suffered through a winless 2000 campaign, while the other had arguably its best season ever.

Despite the differences in victories last year, both Dexter and Chelsea remain positive as the 2001 season commences.

At Dexter, the Dreadnaughts, 0-9 a year ago, welcome new coach Tom Barbieri to the fold. Excitement is high as Barbieri brings a wealth of coaching experience to the Dexter sideline.

From 1988 through 1991, Barbieri was head football coach at Hartland High School. From 1992 through 1999, he traveled north calling the shots at Gaylord High School.

His career record is 66-62. In 1988 and 1990, he was named Livingston County Football Coach of the Year.

In 1990, his Hartland team reached the Class B regional finals.

Barbieri is determined to turn the Dexter program around. Fifth-year coach Brad Bush, on the other hand, hopes to keep the good times rolling in Chelsea.

Bush helped guide the Bulldogs to a perfect 9-0 regular season record last year.

In the playoffs, Chelsea won two games before falling to Farmington Hills Harrison in the quarterfinals — two wins away from a state championship.

The Dawgs' 11 victories were most in school history.

Though Chelsea lost a lot of talent from last season's squad, the cupboard is far from bare.

After getting a taste of playoff fever a year ago, one can bet the Bulldogs will be primed and

Are you ready for some football?

Are you ready for slobber-knocker hits and Houdini-like fakery?

Are you ready for frozen rope bombs and blindside quarterback sacks?

Are you ready for the passion, the intensity, the roar of the crowd, the heartbreak of defeat, the euphoria of victory?

You better be.

It's here.

I thought so.

Ten Things to Look for in a Church
 Dear Friends and Neighbors,
 The following is not meant to be a complete list, but here goes:
 1. A true church teaches that the Bible is the inspired Word of God, true and accurate in all respects, including when it talks about miracles and historical and scientific matters.
 2. A true church upholds Biblical morality and order, and exposes and condemns deviations from this morality and order.
 3. A true church offers free forgiveness from God to all repentant sinners. It teaches that God's Son Jesus lived a perfect life as our Substitute and died as the Sacrifice for our sinful lives. It teaches that eternal life in heaven comes from believing in Jesus as our Savior, and not from our efforts, good deeds, or from our having the right feelings.
 4. A true church teaches that Jesus rose physically from the grave, now lives and rules over the universe, and will return visibly on the Last Day.
 5. A true church regards baptism as God's way of entering a person's life with Jesus' forgiveness, and the Lord's Supper as the actual body and blood of Jesus Christ through which God bestows forgiveness on people.
 6. A true church distinguishes between Bible truth and man-made customs.
 7. A true church avoids posing as a political force or advisor.
 8. A true church radiates Christian love, and offers opportunities for Christian fellowship.
 9. A true church is willing to help parents raise their children in the Christian faith.
 10. A true church avoids man-made sensationalism about the end times, which distracts from the message of Jesus and His return on the Last Day.
 To discuss any of these points, please give me a call or e-mail.
 We will soon be beginning an "Inquirers" class, in which we thoroughly discuss these and other Bible teachings and practices.
 Please worship with us - Sunday morning at 10:00 a.m., or Wednesday evening at 7:30 a.m.

Street Smarts
 Easy to Learn Self-Defense Strategies for Your Complete Protection

Expecting the Unexpected!
 Most of the time, we are safe. We are in control of what happens to us. We don't make strategic mistakes. But, regardless of how organized we are, regardless of how well we have planned, occasionally something happens unexpectedly. We:

- lock our keys in the car
- we run out of gas
- we get lost
- somebody comes to the door late at night

None of these situations are difficult to handle...if you've prepared in advance. Here is one of the simple "StreetSmart" truths: We are vulnerable when something happens to knock us out of our usual way of doing things. Mistakes are made when you are caught off guard. When something unexpected happens, caution and safety are lost in the commotion.

For example: You return to your car late at night. You can't find your keys in your purse...because they are in your ignition. And you don't have a spare. You can't get to your car phone. So you find yourself walking, alone, through a bad part of town, trying to find a pay phone.

Get the idea? Guess what? So do the "bad guys." They have a built-in radar. Always on the lookout for somebody in distress... somebody lost... somebody unprepared.

Let's consider the above example again. The "StreetSmart" woman says, "Rats. I locked my keys in the car. Good thing I always keep a spare in my purse." And happily, safely, drive home.

So here is your homework. List as many possible "emergency" situations as you can. Like the ones I've mentioned above. Include ones that are particular to your own situation. Then write down your "Preparation Strategy" for each possible situation. Follow through on your plan. Remember, these are usually easy problems to solve. In advance! So... DO this exercise. Get your pen and paper right now! You will enjoy the confident, capable state that it puts you in. You will feel safe and empowered!

Terrain, scenery makes Pierce Lake unique

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the third in a series in which The Chelsea Standard and The Dexter will review area golf courses so players know what to expect before heading out for a round.

By Corey Roepken
Staff Writer

If you like nature, a unique variety of golf shots and rolling terrain, then Pierce Lake Golf Course is for you.

Pierce Lake, located at 1175 S. Main St. in Chelsea, is an interesting course for a number of reasons. The front nine was designed to resemble Scottish links courses and features hills that can either make the course seem shorter, or longer, depending on the hole.

But when Harry Bower designed the course six years ago, he didn't want to be limited to one style. So, the back nine is reminiscent of northern woods courses and features a number of wetlands, that require forced carries to the fairway or green.

"He (Bower) was trying to make something unique for a municipality course, and he did a very good job of it," said Rich Wake, the course's general manager.

Because of the preexisting woods and wetlands on the grounds where the back nine would be laid out, Bower had to get a little creative. The result is terrain that requires straight shots, unless a player wants to maneuver around a foxes, geese, beavers or groundhogs to hit his or her shot.

Because of the ponds, there are quite a few geese at certain points on the course. Wake said they have hired a specially trained dog, named Maggie, to curb the birds' journeys onto the course. Maggie is trained to chase the geese without hurting them. After awhile, the geese will get the idea and won't stray too far from the pond.

"Being affiliated with the park system, we try to work with the different societies, like the Audobon," Wake said. "We try to work as much with nature as we can." And just in case a golfer isn't experienced enough to play the black tees, which measure 6,874 yards, there are four other sets of tees: gold, 6,571 yards; blue, 6,173 yards; white, 5,713 yards; and red, 4,772 yards. The gold and black tees were added three years ago.

Adding the black tees gave the course the ability to play host to tournaments, including the first Washtenaw County Amateur, which will be contested in September.

Wake said the course is in the process of adding several cuts of rough to each hole so missing a fairway by a few inches is no longer punishable by a buried lie in the deep rough. He said they plan to add 1½- and 2¼-inch cuts to the existing ¾-inch fairway and 3-inch rough.

Another new feature is the Frederick L. Barkley Golf Center, which was added onto the clubhouse and provides room for a snack bar and outings.

Unlike other courses, which have twilight prices that begin at 6 p.m., Pierce Lake begins at 4 p.m.

Staff Writer Corey Roepken can be reached at 475-1371.

GUIDE TO MANCHESTER AREA SCHOOLS

DEADLINE IS FRIDAY, AUGUST 10
Published September 20

When families look to relocate, among the first places they look is at the reputation of the community's school district.

The turn of the century is an exciting time for the Manchester district as plans move forward for a bond issue to expand and renovate its current facilities and build a new high school, in response to rapid growth throughout the Manchester area. A long-range planning committee has been formed and has made great strides in assessing the existing facilities and the needs for the future.

To better serve the needs of newcomers and long-time residents, the Manchester Enterprise is teaming up with Manchester Community Schools to produce the first annual Manchester Community Schools Directory, which will feature information about the district's school buildings, board members, schedules, telephone numbers, community education programs, sports schedules, clubs and staff as well as the latest reports on the community-wide planning process and a look-back at the district from former teachers and students.

This quality publication is guaranteed to appeal to every parent of school-age children, and also will be distributed to families eyeing Manchester as a possible home-town. This directory is a valuable advertising tool to market your business or service, so take advantage of this opportunity to let residents in the district know what you have to offer. Reserve your space today!

Over 2500 copies will be published September 20.

Twin Lakes golf course offers many amenities

By Chuck Nelson
Heritage Newspapers

If links-style courses are your cup of tea, we've found a great one for you.

Up in Oakland County, just north of the crazy traffic jams on Interstate 75 and Rochester Road lies another of the state's most decorated courses: Twin Lakes Golf Community.

When Twin Lakes opened in 1996, the course made Golf Magazine's Top 10 new courses list, and it still receives rave reviews today.

Twin Lakes is both rewarding and punishing, but all in all it gives you a great round of golf, regardless of your abilities.

Another thing Twin Lakes would have to be considered is long.

The par-71 course measures 6,745 yards from the back black men's tees, 6,316 from the gold tees and 4,704 for the ladies.

It also is basically wide-open through its rolling fairways, with some as wide as a freeway, but it also has plenty of punishment waiting to claim a bad shot.

Wildflowers, prairie grasses, marshland and grass bunkers all lie in wait.

But the greens are the reward for staying straight in the fairways. Most of Twin Lakes' greens are huge, with those at hole Nos. 1 and 15 measuring 38,500 square feet. On average, the course's greens are about 12,000 square feet.

In addition, there isn't a whole lot of break in them, so you've got nothing to blame for missing but yourself.

And like most other area courses, the recent dry weather has made the greens lightning-fast.

Twin Lakes' best holes are its four par-5s.

Hole No. 5 is a hefty 562 yards from the back tees, and is rated the toughest on the course.

The fairway is wide, but doglegs left at about 220 yards, so you'll have to cut the corner or work your drive right to left to avoid a bunker on each side of the corner and marsh grass up to the bunkers.

From there, a 3-wood or layup is the best play. More bunkers lie to the left and right of the fairway, along with more areas of tall grass.

The green is big and shaped like a cloverleaf, and has bunkers at the front right and back left to give you something to think about.

Hole No. 7 is a 517-yard par 5 and is pretty much a straight-forward hole.

Areas of tall grass and five bunkers line the fairway, which is another wide one.

The green at No. 7 is big and kidney-shaped, and has a large area of tall grass.

The back nine is highlighted by the 13th and 18th holes.

Hole No. 13 is a 516-yard par 5 and has a snaking fairway that begins straight, then makes a curve to the left at about where most will land their drives.

This curve is guarded by three-bunkers on the right and one on the left, and tall grass lies between the tee boxes and bunkers.

Then, the fairway straightens out for a bit, then swings back to the right before straightening toward the green.

Two bunkers lie to the right of the layup area, and one to the left. One of the right bunkers also runs up to guard the front right of the green, and a small bunker is behind the left side.

The green is peanut-shaped, and is another big one.

Then to finish it all off, Hole No. 18 is the longest on the course, topping out at 569 yards.

The fairway is huge and straight, giving you plenty of confidence to go ahead and try to murder your drive.

But prairie grasses lie close to the wide fairway on the right and left, and a long fairway bunker also is on the right side.

The fairway stays wide all the way to the green, but there is a valley about 75 yards out to keep shots from rolling toward the green. The valley goes all the way to the right of the hole as well, with a rare grouping of trees to eat up slices.

The green is another huge cloverleaf-shaped putting surface, with bunkers to the front and back left, and the tree grouping to the right.

Greens fees are $60 from Mondays through Thursdays, and $70 on Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays, but off-time and twilight rates are lower.

And if you want to move on up like the Jeffersons, more homes are being built along the course.

To get to Twin Lakes, take I-75 north to Rochester Road and turn right. Continue north for about 10 miles, and the course is on the right. Call 1-248-650-4960 for a tee time.

Away from civilization

Local Scouts spend 10 days in the wilderness

A group of local Boy Scouts spent 10 days in June far away from civilization.

Given the lack of washing facilities and a ban on deodorant, perhaps civilization should be grateful for their absence.

"Bears are curious and have a strong sense of smell, so 'smellables' must be hung in bear bags at night, including food, toothpaste, candy, film and even duct tape," leader John Daly says. "Deodorant was not allowed."

And with good reason. During their 62-mile, 10-day trek into the mountains of New Mexico, the Scouts heard about two Scouts from another troop who were injured — one of them seriously — by a Mexican black bear.

Avoidance of bears and mountain lions was just one of many new learning experiences for the Scouts on their trip to the Philmont Ranch in New Mexico.

At 215 square miles, it's the world's largest youth camp. The local boys were in a contingent of 36 Scouts from the Great Sauk Trail Council representing the Ann Arbor area.

The group learned how to pack up 50 pounds of gear and load it on a burro they nicknamed "Spaniard." They found that since the burro moved more slowly than hikers, two Scouts had to head out with the animal ahead of the others.

One time, the boys with the burro missed a signpost and headed down a parallel trail.

"The rest of the crew realized this and got further split up trying to remedy the situation," Daly says.

It took two hours before four-legged and two-legged trekkers were reunited.

The Scouts learned to cope with altitude sickness, blistered feet, blown-out hiking boots, strange food, hot weather and rocky terrain.

Meals on the train were the best they had, Daly says. And just as well, since the Scouts had to live on those culinary memories for two weeks.

For their wilderness trek, their menu consisted mainly of beef jerky, crackers, soup and fruit treats — nutrition aimed at providing a lot of energy-laden calories.

On the plus side, the adults on the trip lost up to 10 pounds each.

Trash also lost weight on the trip. The group learned to compact the daily trash from a dozen people into a bag the size of a football.

Those from Chelsea who participated were Scouts Ryan Allen, James Daly, Jason Hawley, Sean Steinbach, Neal Turluck and Michael Worthington, and crew advisers John Daly, Daniel Turluck and Doug Worthington. Shawn Proko and his father, Tom, of Chelsea were in another crew with Scouts from a Pinckney troop.

Kristopher Kolbe and Mark Wehrman of Pinckney and Robert Atwood and Jordan Styrk of Gregory also took part. Wilson Denny of Stockbridge, Ryan Fry of Pinckney and Ralph Emery of Lakemont served as leaders.

The crew found the hike up

Mount Baldy, Philmont's highest peak at 12,441 feet, an extreme challenge.

"The altitude began affecting the boys and there was a wide difference in the speeds at which people could climb," Daly says. "The Scouts divvied up carrying the food and emergency supplies and rested often."

The group also climbed the Tooth of Time, steeper than Mount Baldy but 3,400 feet lower in altitude.

Like his fellow hikers, Allen, a sophomore at Chelsea High School, found the trek up the mountain something of a struggle.

"It had to be the hardest part of the trek, especially on the steep slope to the summit," he says. "However, the experience was very rewarding because we could see for miles. We could even see the rain coming."

His favorite part was a snowball fight partway down the mountain.

"Snow was flying everywhere."

Anchors away Chelsea resident loves to sail local lakes

By Sheila Pursglove
Staff Writer

Carey Jones learned to sail solo at age 8.

"I had done some sailing with my mom and sister on a small lake in upstate New York, where we lived," he said. "Then I went sailing with my sister, who jumped out of the boat as we headed out and told me it was time to go it alone."

The young sailor learned fast. In the 27 years since that sibling prank, Jones has sailed everything from a sailboard to a schooner and was president of the racing club at Cornell University, where he earned degrees in business and marine biology.

As an undergraduate, he took part in a research project at Woods Hole, Mass., studying the population dynamics of jellyfish. The course included six weeks at sea on a 120-foot research schooner, sailing from St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands down to Martinique in the Lesser Antilles and across to Honduras before landing in Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

"The voyage from Martinique to Honduras was a two-week stretch on the open sea with no sight of land," Jones said.

"During that long stretch, we were out of fresh food and down to eating canned food, when the staff surprised us with a Christmas meal, a huge rack of barbecued ribs and a case of beer."

"However, with the heavy seas, most of the students couldn't face it. I was one of the few who didn't get seasick and could indulge."

The trip also gave Jones experience in celestial navigation, a subject he now teaches.

After working in banks in Rochester and Buffalo, Jones headed to Ann Arbor in 1993 for graduate studies at the University of Michigan Business School and the School of Natural Resources. He earned a master's degree in business administration and environmental science.

Jones joined the university sailing club, and recently became even more active in its ranks. He currently serves as racing chair; his fiancée, Meg Gower, is vice commodore.

The couple taught sailing lessons at Chelsea Community Education this spring. Participants learned the theory on dry land before heading to the University of Michigan Sailing Club on Baseline Lake, north of Dexter, to earn their water wings.

"We showed videos and had models of boats, and demonstrated wind patterns with a fan," Jones said.

Jones teaches at the club on Saturday mornings. Sundays at the club are devoted to racing.

"The club is open to the public, and we teach all ages, from 5 to 80," he said. "It's a way to learn a skill, start a lifelong hobby and become more comfortable on the water and in boats. Learning to handle a sailboat under different conditions really builds self-confidence and self-esteem."

Jones, who will teach the sail course to the U.S. Power Squadron this fall and winter in Ann Arbor, said handling a sailboat is very different from handling a powerboat.

"Sailing is a combination of being very physical and very artistic," he said. "It's a real art form, you have to read the water and feel how the boat is moving and performing."

"There's also science in how the sails fill. It's a very complicated sport in that there is no end to the learning and it's a lifelong pursuit."

Nor is it without its scary moments. During his six weeks in the Caribbean, on a clear, still, moonlit night, the schooner was suddenly hit with 80-mph winds.

Carey Jones has been sailing since the age of 8 on everything from a sailboard to a 120-foot schooner. The Chelsea resident serves as racing chair for the University of Michigan Sailing Club on Baseline Lake north of Dexter.

James Daly gets ready to climb a 25-foot spar pole.

Even Mr. Daly joined in and threw a snowball or two," he says.

After throwing snow, the boys practically ran down the rocky path toward base camp.

"Sometimes you were sliding so much on the rocks that the only way to stop yourself was to run into something and grab on," Allen says.

Other experiences included a tour of a gold mine, western lore activities, a tour of a rustic hunting lodge, and climbing up a spar pole. Outdoor rock climbing and black powder activities had to be curtailed because of bad weather.

As much as they took from the experience, the boys also gave back to Philmont by making a trail as part of a conservation project.

"The crew hauled a lot of dirt in three hours," Daly says.

After 10 days on the trail, base camp was a welcome sight.

"I couldn't wait to get back to real food, flush-toilets and cots with mattresses," Allen says. "The little things in life, like hydrated food we usually take for granted. The trip made me think about good our lives really are."

The Great Sauk Trail Council sponsors a trip to Philmont every year. Any Boy Scout, Explorer or Venture Crew member who is 14 years or older may attend. Chelsea has three Boy Scout troops and a co-ed Venture crew is forming in the fall. For information, call John Daly, 475-6660.

SAIL

"It was probably a downburst from a thunderhead," Jones said. "The boat heeled right over with its mast in the water before righting itself. For such a large boat to do that is really dramatic."

"Fortunately, the first mate was steering, heard it coming and reacted quickly by changing course directly downwind so we didn't capsize."

Jones' particular interest is racing, with great success as both skipper and crew. He has taken part in the Mackinac Race, and the Mills Race on Lake Erie. Jones plans to sail in the North American Regatta in Burlington, Vt., in August, and his brother David will fly in from San Francisco next month to join him in the Trans Erie Race from Detroit to Erie, Pa. Jones moved to Chelsea a year ago, where he spends his spare time renovating his older home. Self-employed, he and Thomas Borton of Dexter have owned their own company, Ultrasonic Solutions, for four years, managing projects for the Department of Energy.

Jones' fantasy is early retirement to follow in the footsteps — or rather, the wake — of an aunt and uncle who sailed the world after retirement.

In the meantime, he and Gower intend to honeymoon on water. After a September wedding at Ann Arbor's Greenwood United Methodist Church, they plan to charter a 30-foot boat and explore the north channel of Georgian Bay.

Local band competes in radio station contest

By Marisa Williams
Special Writer

A group of local musicians was among 20 bands given the chance to musically fight each other on stage at the Hayloft Liquor Stand in Mt. Clemens as part of a radio station promotion.

Chelsea band South Normal qualified to play in the three-day competition hosted by Detroit rocker Sebastian Bach. The former Skid Row lead singer recently ended a stint on Broadway playing the lead role in "Jekyll & Hyde."

His newest musical venture is titled Sebastian Bach and Friends. The bands competed last weekend in the Battle to the Triangle for a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to play the Miller Genuine Draft Blind Date weekend in the Bermuda Triangle. The contest was sponsored, in part, by radio station 101.1 WRIF-FM.

The winner will open up for a large national band whose identity is kept a mystery until the day of the show, which will take place Oct. 5 and 6 in this year's edition of "Large Bands, Big Mystery, Get Lost In the Sound."

A VIP Blind Date Finals Party will be held Friday at the Emerald Theatre for the top four finalists. Riot in Progress, Calling Marvin, Fine Bone

China and Jockaine, as well as radio contest ticket winners.

The winner of the Battle to the Triangle will open for Buckcherry, and one privileged audience member will randomly be drawn to win a trip to the Miller Genuine Draft Blind Date.

South Normal, who has been together for eight years, submitted their latest album "Emotion Picture" to qualify for a spot in the contest.

Bassist Jeremy Mackinder, 27, guitarist Ben Vermeylen, 28, drummer Shannon Boone, 24 and vocalist/guitarist Nathan Mackinder, 24, produced the album with Michael Lutz at Tazmania, in Ann Arbor.

The modern-day band has a classic rock feel that has been compared to The Doors, which is just one of the band's classic influences.

"We're trying to bring rock and roll back," Jeremy Mackinder said. "It hasn't gone anywhere, but we're trying to bring it back to the front."

"The three main things in music are for people to feel good, to dance like crazy and rebel, probably in that order."

Boone describes an important quality of their music: "Any song can go out to anybody. People relate. Whatever happened to them, they can put into it."

However, that is not to say that songs are not personally unique to them. For instance, "Nowhere to be Found" was worked on when Jeremy and Nate Mackinder's grandmother died.

"15 Minute Fame" and "Murder," the first and last songs on the album, were written during the O.J. Simpson trial.

"People commit crimes against nations of people and wind up on islands they bought. It's not right," Jeremy Mackinder said.

Yet, he stresses, "We may talk about how people live, but we don't preach what to do because we're not perfect and are not into casting judgment."

For a local band, South Normal has had some noteworthy moments, including opening up for Bad Company at the Royal Oak Music Theatre, performing on the Detroit Tigers opening day, doing the Jim Beam music search at the Hard Rock Café in Chicago and the Harley Davidson Festival on Freedom Hill in Sterling Heights.

For more information about South Normal, check out the group's Web site at www.south-normal.com.

South Normal will perform 8 p.m. Friday at the Magic Bag in Ferndale, 10 p.m. Aug. 18 at the New Way Bar in Ferndale, 3 p.m. Aug. 25 at the Chelsea Fair and 9 p.m. Sept. 7 and 8 at the Wooden Nickel in Ypsilanti.

Marisa Williams is an intern at The Guardian in Monroe and a free-lance writer. She can be reached at 1-734-243-2100.
