

Village to discharge water into creek

■ Tetra Tech to seek permit from MDEQ.

By Kent Ashton Walton
Special Writer

Representatives of Tetra Tech received the Chelsea Village Council's blessing last week to discharge treated water into Letts Creek.

Tetra Tech, the village's engineering consultants, received permission to move forward with a permit application for a National Pollutants Discharge Elimination System so that reverse osmosis concentrate from the Chelsea water treatment plant can be dumped into the creek.

According to a letter from Michael Harvey, Tetra Tech's vice president, the water treatment plant is currently discharging its effluent into the wastewater treatment plant at a rate of 0.4 million gallons per day.

Harvey said the method reduces the capacity of the wastewater treatment plant to provide connections needed to accommodate new development.

Once the flow exceeds a certain level, he said the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality requires the wastewater treatment plant to expand its capacity.

To postpone facility expansion, Tetra Tech has proposed discharging what is extracted from the water after treatment. The discharge would be released into the North Fork branch of Mill Creek or into Letts Creek.

E. coli bug hits seven in county

■ Outbreak may be linked to ground beef from Farmer Jack.

By Sheila Pursglove

Linda Lantry, communicable disease program coordinator for the Washtenaw County Public Health Department, said Monday that at least five people have been infected with E. coli bacteria in Washtenaw County in the past month.

Two more cases are pending the results of tests. Three of the five people were hospitalized but are recovering. No cases have been reported in Dexter or Chelsea.

Lantry said this is an unusually high number. The health department typically gets reports of eight cases a year.

The outbreak, which Lantry said has infected people in Ypsilanti and Ann Arbor, may be related to ground beef products sold by Farmer Jack. The products were voluntarily recalled Oct. 4 after the company's beef supplier, EMMPAK Meat Pack of Milwaukee, was associated with an E. coli outbreak in Minnesota.

The ground beef, which has a Farmer Jack label and sell-by dates from Aug. 23 to Sept. 11, can be returned for a refund.

Lantry said anyone with ground beef from Farmer Jack in their freezer, even if it doesn't fall within those sale dates, may want to throw it out or, at the very least, cook it very thoroughly.

"I can't stress enough that we need to use a meat thermometer in cooking," she said. "We probably all tend to be a little lazy about it. Cooking meat to about 160 degrees will kill any bacteria."

While many strains of E. coli are harmless, some can cause severe illness. See E. COLI — Page 6-A Village Council rejects recommendation

■ Village zones land off Dexter-Chelsea Road residential.

By Kent Ashton Walton
Special Writer

Chelsea Village Council rejected the Planning Commission's recommendation to rezone 40 acres off Dexter-Chelsea Road agricultural.

Instead, the council approved residential zoning on land slated for a subdivision with more than 300 homes.

The Planning Commission voted 5-4 Sept. 17 to endorse agricultural zoning. The council voted 6-1 in favor of single-family residential.

According to a memorandum from Village Planning and Zoning Administrator James Drolett, the Planning Commission filed a petition in August to rezone the 40-acre parcel to single-family residential.

The land had been zoned agricultural before it was annexed from Lima Township. But because it had been brought into the village more than two years ago, the zoning designation had expired and the parcel did not have any zoning.

The remaining 117 acres of the property is zoned residential. The developer has proposed 352 homes on the combined property, which totals 157 acres and is called Heritage Pointe.

In a letter to the Planning Commission, Marvin Carlson, a neighboring property owner, said the developer has stonewalled over a planned unit development agreement for the parcel.

Carlson argued that if the parcel was zoned residential, the developer would be free to ignore the previously agreed contingencies and submit a plat to maximize the build-out

Lima Township Board stalls fire ordinance

■ Officials approve purchase of updated software.

By Michael Rybka
Special Writer

While the Lima Township Board postponed action on two Chelsea Area Fire Authority proposals, it moved forward with its own plan to safeguard official documents from flames.

The board decided that there are still too many unanswered questions concerning a fire authority proposal to require businesses in the township to list on-site hazardous material and provide other information.

The registration form is intended to improve fire prevention and the risk factor of its response teams.

Another proposal grants fire authority delegates the power to inspect the registered businesses, determine building standards and to take action against those unmindful of complying.

Lima Township Supervisor Ken

Unterbrink said the board is waiting for answers from Chelsea Area Fire Authority Chairman Andrew Adrian before moving forward.

Each participating municipality in the fire authority jurisdiction is required to adopt the proposals independently.

To date, Lyndon and Waterloo townships have done so. Chelsea Village, Sylvan Township and Lima Township have not.

The Lima Township Board took action to protect its official documents from fire by agreeing to purchase two Schwab fireproof cabinets. One will be letter size and the other legal size.

It will cost the township $2,472, plus shipping and delivery costs.

The board also approved other expenditures, including updated voter registration software at a cost of $1,295, plus an annual fee of $250 for training and support.

The township also looked at updating its computer hardware

Football stadium study on tap

■ Athletic director and football coach present case to school board.

By Sheila Pursglove
Associate Editor

Chelsea may have first-class athletes, but the stadium at the old high school certainly isn't up to Bulldog standards.

Athletic Director Wayne Welton told the school board Monday that he has a dream. He has a dream of a new football and track facility.

Welton and football coach Brad Bush — who received enthusiastic support from several audience members — made their case to the board for a new stadium, built with private funding.

They said it has been hard to host on a state level with inadequate facilities.

Welton said the stadium's bleachers, assembled as a community project by the Kiwanis Club more than 30 years ago, can seat 975, a number reached by high school math students using current seat width standards.

The press box, off-center from the field and far back from the stands, was largely rebuilt after an arson four years ago. Cramped for normal usage, it can't accommodate media for big games.

The ticket booth, built as a class project 35 years ago, is small and provides no formal entryway into the stadium. The two current points of entry create difficulties with crowd control, Welton said.

The 150 high school football players and 70 track members are currently housed in the old varsity locker room, the old physical education locker room and the converted old band room. The only restroom facilities are two urinals and two toilets.

The visiting locker room is too small to house most teams, Welton said.

The existing training room is used by the athletes and is approximately 20 percent of what is available at the new high school.

Welton compared Chelsea's 975 seats with figures provided by school officials in other Southeastern Conference schools.

Adrian's Maple Stadium has 4,500 seats in a facility shared with Adrian College.

Ann Arbor Pioneer has 8,000 seats. Temperance-Bedford, built with private money, has 4,500 seats with new bleachers, a brick entryway, press box and locker facility.

Dexter's stadium has 3,000 seats, with cement cast home bleachers and an adjoining press box. Thanks to a voter-approved school bond, the field has been re-crowned with a new irrigation system.

Because of a recent bond passed in the Lincoln district, there will be new bleachers and a press box built within two years, Welton said. The current facility holds 2,000, and the new one will hold twice as many.

When Saline's new high school is complete, the school district's bond issue will help pay for a new stadium with 7,500 seats, an artificial turf field, press box, entryway and locker rooms.

Tecumseh's stadium, seating 3,500, has new visitor side bleachers. New locker rooms will be built next year.

Welton and Bush also brought figures from other schools. They said Ypsilanti's field seats 5,000; Haslett, 5,500; St. Joseph, 7,000; Fowlerville, 4,000; St. Clair, 4,000; Grand Ledge, 7,000; Grandville, 9,000; and Hudsonville, 10,000.

Welton and Bush said they would seek input from other schools that have overseen private or partially private projects. They said Temperance-Bedford is a great example, where private funds built a new stadium. The entryway is paved with bricks sold to donors.

East Kentwood and Stevensville-Lakeshore high schools were two more cited as good models, raising funds by selling bricks and getting involvement from local industry and business.

The school board gave Welton and Bush the go-ahead to conduct a feasibility study and assemble a community group to spearhead the project.

Lewis-Lakin gets new appointment

■ Schools will save by not filling curriculum director post.

By Sheila Pursglove
Associate Editor

The Chelsea school board approved Monday the appointment of Shawn Lewis-Lakin as director of student performance effective immediately.

Lewis-Lakin, who will be responsible for the K-12 curriculum, will continue as assistant principal of Chelsea High School. He will divide his time between the school and the administrative building in an office formerly occupied by Ted Gardella, the executive director of curriculum.

Gardella resigned at the end of the school year for a position in Saginaw.

Lewis-Lakin, who was making a salary of $78,900, will see his salary increase to $79,180.

"Shawn brings a wealth of experience to the position," Superintendent Dave Killips said Tuesday. "He has a good ability to work with people and has developed a solid reputation in a short period of time. We look forward to working with him."

Killips said that Lewis-Lakin is the most qualified person for the position and has earned the promotion on his own merit.

Killips said that by adding the position to Lewis-Lakin's responsibilities, the school district does not need to hire another administrator.

"As we head into next year, it gives us time to reevaluate and to make that decision," he said.

Lewis-Lakin came on board at Chelsea High School in the 2001-2002 school year after spending a year as assistant principal at Monroe Middle School. His position at Chelsea High School has focused on areas of instruction and curriculum.

Lewis-Lakin holds a bachelor's degree from Michigan State University, a master's degree from Yale Divinity School and an educational specialist certificate from Wayne State University. He was also an organizational leader and administrator in the United Methodist Church for nine years.

Lewis-Lakin taught high school chemistry in Midland Public Schools and middle school science in Trenton Public Schools. He also coached swimming and track.

Lewis-Lakin

"Shawn brings a knowledge of both the school improvement and the North Central Accreditation process that will be invaluable as we move to strengthen our focus on improving individual student performance," Assistant Superintendent Iva Corbett said Tuesday.

Corbett said Lewis-Lakin is a "great listener and facilitator."

"He's creative and always finds multiple solutions to issues," she said. "I'm looking forward to working with him on a day-to-day basis."

RECOVERING FROM AN INJURY

The longer it takes for an injured person to recover from an injury, the greater his or her pain and suffering and consequential damages. With this in mind, those injured in accidents, for which liability may ultimately be found with the other party, should work closely with their doctors to report their progress (or lack thereof). Making regular visits to a physician, weeks and months after an injury required ongoing attention. Furthermore, visits to the doctor that involve reports of continuing pain, discomfort, and/or stiffness or immobility will be noted in medical records that can later be sent to the other party's insurance company as part of the injured party's claim.

Often, individuals who have been injured will report pain or stiffness to their doctor, only to be told that no sign of physical injury can be located. This does not mean that you cannot request compensation or receive treatment. Back and neck injuries are very difficult to diagnose, and often will not appear on x-rays. To learn more about the process involved in bringing suit for personal injury, call the LAW OFFICES OF KITCHEN & STRINGER, J.D., located in Dexter, at 3249 Broad Street, at 426-4695 to schedule private consultation, free of charge.

HINT: If you can show that an injury sustained in an accident left a long-lasting or permanent effect ("residual injury"), the amount of your damages award could go up significantly.

Lyndon Township to update master plan

■ Commission decides not to hire consultant.

By Michael Rybka
Special Writer

A month after sending a new zoning ordinance compilation to the Lyndon Township Board for approval, the Planning Commission is contemplating the best way to work on updating its master plan.

The master plan, required by state law, plots a municipality's future land-use designations. The current master plan was last updated in 1997.

The commission debated Oct. 10 whether to request that the board hire a professional planner to help or work on it alone.

Township Clerk Janis Knieper said the commission composed the original master plan by itself and took 11 years to complete.

She said the most recent updated version was completed in two years with the help of Mark Eldelson, a professional planner. She and Commission Chairman Jay Hopkins said the $20,000 or more it would take to hire a consultant would be a lot of money for the township.

Knieper and Commissioner John Reilly said going through the document one page at a time is a good way for new commissioners to familiarize themselves with it.

Reilly said that because the current plan is already in an acceptable format, updating it should not take as long as when it was done from scratch.

He also expressed optimism that revising the master plan should take less time than the three-plus years it took for the commission to compose the zoning ordinances because the plan deals with facts and not variables.

Commissioners decided to tackle the job without a consultant, but with the understanding that help could be requested in the future.

The Michigan Township Association recommends that a master plan be reviewed, but not necessarily revised, every five years.

A cursory glance by Hopkins at the current master plan whereby 3,000 acres of agricultural land was envisioned, convinced him that the commission would have to do more than simply review.

"There's only one full-time farmer left in this township," Hopkins said, referring to himself, "and he won't be full time within five years."

Hopkins suggested holding master plan sessions after regularly scheduled agenda items have been addressed, rather than incur additional costs with special meetings. The commission agreed.

Knieper informed the commission of reservations expressed at a Washtenaw County Township Association meeting about how restructuring at the county level could negatively impact a township's planning process.

The Washtenaw County

Metropolitan Planning Commission, which had a large degree of autonomy, was recently dissolved and replaced with an advisory board that must report directly to the Washtenaw County Board of Commissioners.

Townships had relied on the County Planning Commission for advice, opinions and non-binding assessments of zoning and planning documents.

Knieper said four at-large positions are being offered on the advisory board. Dexter Township Supervisor Pat Kelly has applied for one.

Knieper also said the organization is worried that with the advisory board having to report to the commissioners, attention may be lavished where the votes are.

Commissioner Leon Moore, a county employee who will be on the advisory board, said the township should adopt a wait-and-see attitude. He said it appears that the county is going to deal less with advice on zoning and help more with actual planning.

Knieper said that, if so, she hopes the county helps more with individual municipal plans. She said she sees no practical value in the former commission spending time on a countywide master plan when it is only an advisory body.

Moore said the new configuration might use its time more wisely.

Lyndon asks for legal help

■ Fire Board wants to form joint building authority.

By Michael Rybka
Special Writer

The Lyndon Township Board agreed Oct. 8 that it needs legal counsel to review a proposal by the Chelsea Area Fire Authority to form a joint building authority with attendant bylaws.

A building authority would allow the fire authority to seek bonds to provide funding for land purchases and building expenses.

Township Supervisor Maryann Noah and Township Clerk Janis Knieper both cited Article IV of the fire authority's incorporation agreement, a dissertation in legalese divided into eight sections that spans three pages, as an example of why legal advice is needed.

Noah said she is supportive of the Fire Board's need for a building authority, but is hesitant to give broad power without limits.

Knieper expressed reservations as to whether a building authority under the current billing formula is something the township wants to support.

The participating municipalities in the authority — Lyndon, Lima, Sylvan and Waterloo townships and Chelsea Village — are billed monthly by the percentage of hours each requires.

Noah said that it is possible the formula could be changed relative to the building authority.

The board agreed to use an attorney not currently involved in township affairs.

Construction to take winter hiatus

■ Work should be completed by next April.

By Sheila Pursglove
Associate Editor

The construction project that has tied up Chelsea Village for most of the spring and summer will be taking a breather over the winter before wrapping up next spring.

The village has asked TCI, the contractor carrying out the work in Chelsea, not to work on any new areas until next year to ensure no roads are left unpaved during the winter.

Susan Franklin, public relations spokesperson for engineering consultants Tetra Tech MPS has provided a tentative construction schedule.

Water main installation on Dewey and Van Buren streets should end by Nov. 6.

Work includes installation of the main line, testing, connection to the existing distribution system and individual service leads.

Other fall work includes the paving of several streets.

• Work on Madison Street is due to begin Wednesday and end by Oct. 30.

• McKinley and Dewey streets get their turn Nov. 6 with work scheduled to end Nov. 12.

• Paving on Van Buren Street is also scheduled for a Nov. 6 start and is expected to be finished the following day.

Paving includes sub-base preparation, and installation and compaction of aggregate base and asphalt.

The water main installation for East and Elm streets is scheduled to start Feb. 15 and end March 18. Paving on these streets will start once the frost is gone, typically in early April, and is scheduled for completion that month.

Village Manager Jack Myers said Monday that he would meet with representatives from the Michigan Department of Transportation and local business owners Wednesday to discuss the MDOT project to take place next year. It will include replacing some storm sewers on M-52 and milling and resurfacing the roadway.

Village Council helps keep bus system operational

■ Council OKs $5,000 contribution to CATS.

By Kent Ashton Walton
Special Writer

Chelsea Village Council has paved the way for the local bus system to continue servicing the area.

Chelsea Area Transportation System Director, Michaelene Pawlak asked the Chelsea Village Council Oct. 8 to approve a shift in funds from the Ann Arbor Transportation Authority's coffers to the local bus system.

Pawlak wants $10,000 a year, plus cost-of-living adjustments to operate the Chelsea-Dexter route, replacing AATA's service, which ended in August. In the past, the council has helped subsidize AATA's service.

The council gave her $5,000 for the remainder of the fiscal year.

Pawlak said September's ridership for in-village and connector buses exceeded 1,200. The average daily ridership was almost 20 during the month of September.

Pawlak's demographics showed that riders include seniors, the disabled and the general population. She emphasized that CATS, operating since 1976, is a nonprofit organization that exists to provide for transit-dependent individuals. It's partially subsidized through contributions from such service organizations as Kiwanis, Lions and Rotary.

CATS has grown from a one-van to a two-bus service within Chelsea, and now offers a connector bus from Chelsea to Dexter, where the AATA bus takes over.

Pawlak called it an essential service for working residents, seniors and special-needs students. Its most recent collaboration is with Washtenaw Intermediate School District's Young Adult Program and the St. Louis Center, a residential facility for mentally disabled boys and men.

Pawlak read letters from CATS riders. Annelissa Gray Lion of Chelsea said the connector service has been timely and responsive.

Kelly Higgins, a teacher in the Young Adult Program, said students rely heavily on public transportation. Without the CATS system servicing the Chelsea-Dexter area, she said her students would be limited in their activities and opportunities.

Pawlak said she has asked Chelsea Community Hospital, the Ann Arbor Community Foundation, Chelsea United Way, Chelsea Ministerial Fellowship Team and Charity Motors for donations.

She also has asked for funds from the Federal Transportation Appropriations Committee and a variety of funding agencies.

A grant already has been received from the Area Agency on Aging 1-B.

Washtenaw County Commissioner Joseph Yekulis, R-District 1, and Congressman Mike Rogers, R-8th District, have written letters requesting financial support for CATS.

In response to Village Council Trustee Charles Ritter's questions, Pawlak and other CATS board members at the meeting said the expansion is to make CATS self-sustaining.

Trustees Janice Ortrbing and Cheri Albertson said they view CATS as a valuable service to the community.

Trustee Dale Schumann proposed that the Village Council give CATS $5,000 for the remaining fiscal year ending in February.

Of the $9,312 that was originally budgeted for AATA this year, approximately $3,200 was left. The remaining $1,800 approved for CATS will be taken from the village's contingency funds. Ritter voted against the move.

Richard Louis Temple of Howell was sentenced Oct. 7 to life in prison without parole for strangling a 22-year-old expectant mother in Lyndon Township nearly two years ago.

The 27-year-old Howell man was convicted of first-degree murder Sept. 9 by a Washtenaw County Circuit Court jury. Washtenaw County Circuit Judge Melinda E. Morris sentenced him Oct. 7 in Ann Arbor.

According to testimony in the case, Temple strangled his ex-girlfriend, Arma Marie Sell, with a hand towel Nov. 5, 2000. The murder took place at a home on Beeman Road owned by Sell's parents, Chuck and Wilma Sell.

Sell, 22, a former student at Chelsea Alternative High School, was six months pregnant at the time of her death.

Site for new township hall can accommodate septic

■ Lyndon Township Board OKs cost for environmental assessment.

By Michael Rybka
Special Writer

The Lyndon Township Board has learned that the site for a proposed township hall has received approval for a septic system and a well.

Township Clerk Janis Knieper and her husband, Rodney, own the property on M-52, but have a purchase agreement with the Township Board.

A well is expected to be drilled this week.

On Oct. 8, the board voted 4-0, with Knieper abstaining, to pay for an environmental assessment of the property at a cost not to exceed $2,000. The study is expected to take three weeks.

Board wants to recoup costs

The board adopted a resolution to petition the Washtenaw County Board of Commissioners to have dog-licensing fees reallocated.

Currently, the township charges 50 cents a license with annual collection fees averaging between $20 and $25, which is turned over to the county.

The county plans to start charging each municipality $100 a year for dog-licensing software support, a figure that exceeds what is taken in. The board's resolution asks that the county return at least half of the money Lyndon Township collects for the service.

The petition was circulated to every municipality within the county.

Should it prove successful, Treasurer Ellen McMurray said that a follow-up petition would ask that veterinarians and other practical agencies also be allowed to issue dog licenses.

ZBA to meet regularly

The board decided that the Zoning Board of Appeals would begin to meet regularly on the third Tuesday of the month. Currently, the ZBA only convenes when necessary.

A law stating that anyone in the township can contest a ZBA decision in Circuit Court within 30 days after approval of its minutes prompted the change.

The regular scheduling will prevent delays in approving minutes.

However, if there is no request before the ZBA in a particular month, the scheduled meeting will be canceled.

The board formally approved a new township zoning ordinance compilation and map composed by the Planning Commission. The new ordinances will go into effect Nov. 17.

A copy of the compilation can be obtained for $50. The map costs $2.

coli bacteria, which normally live in the intestines of humans and animals, are harmless, the E. coli O157:H7 strain can cause serious illness with nausea, vomiting, slight fever, stomach cramps, and diarrhea that often becomes bloody.

Symptoms appear from one to 10 days after exposure, usually within two to four days.

While the diarrhea usually goes away in a few days without treatment, Lantry said people should contact a physician if they think they may have been exposed to E. coli. A stool sample test will clarify if they have the E. coli infection, she said.

"If we do specimen tests we can at least rule something out, and look for clusters and suspicious commonalities," she said.

People with diarrhea should drink plenty of fluids to prevent dehydration, she said.

Lantry said that while any meat can be contaminated, ground beef is a particular danger because the grinding process adds more likelihood of contamination.

Dairy products and cheese can also carry E. coli. Lantry said people should drink only pasteurized milk, and eat cheese and milk products made with pasteurized milk.

"Food handling, storage and preparation are all very important," Lantry said.

For more information, call a health care provider or ACCESS at 1-734-481-2502 or 1-800-440-7548. Information also can be found online at www.co.washtenaw.mi.us. The EMPAKK consumer hotline is 1-877-817-7622.

NEED TO KNOW

E. coli Symptoms

- Diarrhea (often bloody).
 - Stomach cramps.
 - Slight fever (often no fever).
 - Nausea and vomiting.
- Symptoms appear from one to 10 days after exposure, usually two to four days.

Prevention

- Cook ground beef until no longer pink and the juices run clear.
- Wash hands thoroughly after handling raw hamburger.
- Keep thawing and uncooked foods in the refrigerator.
- Don't place cooked meat on the same plate where raw meat was stored.

• Use two cutting boards, one for meat, one for other foods. Wash and disinfect cutting boards and counters after each use with antibacterial soap or a solution of 1 tablespoon bleach in 1/2 cup water.

• Drink only pasteurized milk and eat only milk products, such as cheese, made with pasteurized milk.

• Wash hands thoroughly, with soap and warm water, after going to the bathroom, changing diapers, and before preparing or eating food. Teach children to do the same.

• Keep infected children away from other children and the elderly. Follow doctor's advice about returning to school or day care.

allowances of the zoning category.

He said this would require Chelsea property owners to shoulder the cost of providing sewer, water and road upgrades to serve the project.

Carlson also argued that an agricultural zoning would be compatible with current rural use of the parcel and properties contiguous to the 157-acre site.

It also would preserve the authority of the Planning Commission to exert conditions on the development of the site and preserve the authority of the public to shape its future, he said.

At the council meeting Planning Commission Chairman Chris Rode said that the Village Comprehensive Plan called for residential zoning. He said that if the council approved agricultural for the 40-acre parcel, it would likely prompt costly litigation by the developer.

Rode said he did not believe that zoning the parcel agricultural would provide any leverage regarding the nature of the development, and that the developer could reject the PUD proposal whatever the designated zoning.

Rode also said acting contrary to the land use would constitute a "taking" of the development rights of the property. A taking, according to Rode, involves a rezoning that amounts to specifying an unrealistic use for the property.

Rezoning land agricultural that is located within a parcel zoned residential would create a non-viable use, he said.

Trustee Janice Ortbring raised the issue of retaining the rural character of the village by maintaining a rural corridor in the area of Dexter-Chelsea Road. Drolett replied that the phrase "rural corridor" is open to various interpretations.

Ortbring said she understands the term to mean that the street within the corridor remains substantially unchanged.

THE ICE AGE THAT NEVER CAME.

Dear Friends and Neighbors,

I recall very distinctly, when I was in grade school over 40 years ago, my teacher - I think it was my 6th grade teacher - informing us that scientists were predicting a possible ice age.

Apparently some scientists had studied trends in global weather, and were convinced there were signs of a world-wide cool-down.

Anyone who does any amount of reading, or listening to radio talk shows, soon realizes that, for any theory or idea you can come up with, you can find scientists who will support it. Scientific theories come and go, and it's hard to know which ones to take seriously. There are "experts" who can be convincing on both sides of the global warming debate, for example.

We're thankful we have a Book with more certain and substantial teachings than today's shifting scientific theories. The Bible gives us definite information about God and His will, and His forgiveness and love, as well as the eternal life He has provided for us. It also, incidentally, informs us about things like the creation of the world in a 6-day period in the not too distant past, and the destruction of that world by a global flood during the time of Noah.

As stewards of God's world, we will be wise and unselfish in our use of natural resources. At the same time, as God's children, we can live without fear of either ice ages or global warming, or anything that can happen to us here.

Schools rate highly on health inspections

The Washtenaw County health inspector is so impressed by the perfect scores attained by Pierce Lake and North Creek elementary schools in recent inspections that she is thinking of using Chelsea schools as role models.

This was the message from Food Service Supervisor Karen Carty at Monday's school board meeting.

Carty said all of the recent county health inspections for the schools were excellent.

Meal volume is up 7.5 percent at the high school, and 16 percent at Beach Middle School. The new Breakfast at Beach program continues to grow, Carty said.

The cumulative total meals at the three elementary schools, however, are down by 2.7 percent. Carty said special events are planned to bring up volume.

Three new substitute staff also have been added to the Food Service Department. Donna McGregor, Diane Martilla and Colleen Walters are all undergoing training

County offers radon kits

In observation of Nation Radon Action Week, Oct. 20 through 28, the county is offering radon testing at a reduced price to residents.

The county is encouraging residents to test their homes for radon and, if necessary, take measures to reduce high radon levels.

The Washtenaw County Department of Environmental Health Regulation estimates that as many as 40 to 45 percent of homes in Washtenaw County have high radon levels.

Radon is a tasteless, colorless and odorless radioactive gas. It is found in nearly all types of soil and rock.

The gas can enter homes through cracks in the foundation, dirt floors, hollow-block walls and openings around floor drains and sump pumps.

High levels of radon can damage lung tissue and eventually lead to lung cancer. Radon is the second leading cause of lung cancer for smokers, and the leading cause of lung cancer for non-smokers. Radon is associated with 14,000 lung-cancer deaths each year in the United States.

Although no level of radon is considered safe, the Environmental Protection Agency recommends taking action when levels are above 4.0 pCi/L inside a home.

If a home is found to have elevated levels of radon, a mitigation company can fix the problem for approximately $1,000.

The age or size of a home does not determine the presence or absence of radon. Radon levels vary from house to house, even within the same neighborhood.

The only way to determine the level of radon in a house is to test. A radon test is easy and inexpensive, and Washtenaw County is making even more affordable by offering test kits at a reduced price through Oct. 31.

Short-term test kits will be $5 and long-term kits are $10. Kit costs include postage and laboratory analysis.

Kits may be purchased from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday at the Washtenaw County Service Center, 705 N. Zeeb Road.

For more information about radon testing, call the Washtenaw County Department of Environmental Health Regulation at 222-3869.

District buys machine to vacuum school pool

■ New automated machine cost $3,195.

By Sheila Pursglove
Associate Editor

There's a dolphin in the swimming pool at Beach Middle School.

The Chelsea School District will take delivery this week of an automated pool-vacuuming machine called a "Dolphin." Operations Director Ron Livengood reported Monday to the school board.

The machine, which cost $3,195, vacuums the bottom of the pool in about eight hours, Livengood said. It maps the pool and can tell where it has already cleaned.

"Assuming that it works as well as other districts tell us it does, it should pay for itself in labor savings in about 18 months," Livengood said.

In the past, it has taken about an hour for a person to clean the pool bottom by using a pump with a pickup head on the end of a 30-foot pole, he said.

In other business, Livengood said his crew spent a considerable amount of time and effort in September making sure all exhaust fans were working in the school district's buildings, especially those without air conditioning.

The custodial staff has started fall maintenance of furnaces, air handlers and vents throughout the district.

Livengood reported that the restroom remodeling at the Washington Street Education Center is complete, while the roofing projects at the center and Beach Middle School are almost complete.

Livengood said the maintenance staff is spending much of its time on field maintenance and preparation for school district-sponsored sports teams and club sports.

The Chelsea Youth Football league, which kicked off this year, is a new addition to the list of organizations using the fields.

The crew has completed some reseeding of baseball infields. Livengood said the main football field will require some reseeding at the end of the season.

Associate Editor Sheila Pursglove can be reached at 475-1371 or via e-mail at spursglove@heritage.com.

Foundation offers grants

The Chelsea Education Foundation is starting its annual grant funding cycle.

There are two different types of grants available. Project grants are for amounts up to $1,000. Program grants begin at $1,000 and may be funded for up to three years. Grants are evaluated annually and must be applied for each year.

Last year, close to $20,000 in grant money was awarded to educational endeavors in the Chelsea School District through the foundation.

Information will be available after tomorrow at school buildings, the Chelsea Community Education office, Chelsea District Library, Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce and the Chelsea Senior Center.

Applications can be downloaded through the Web site at chelsealeducationfoundation.org.

The application deadline is 5 p.m. Nov. 15. Completed applications may be handed in at the Community Education office or mailed to Chelsea Education Foundation, P.O. Box 295, Chelsea MI 48118. For information call Dave Reinhardt 475-1562.

CREEK

limits determination for the discharge of the concentrate into Letts Creek last November. The agency said because the discharge would exceed the water quality standard for the reverse osmosis concentrate pollutant, a demonstration of total dissolved solids would be necessary.

The kind of dissolved solids that are in the concentrate can be toxic to crops and fish.

Letts Creek is the preferred discharge location because of its proximity to the water treatment plant, Harvey said. He also said it allows for a higher toxicity limits and level of dissolved solids.

Testing will be required by the MDEQ to determine the aquatic toxicity limits.

Trustee Howard Holmes

pointed out that the council was recently addressed by the Huron River Watershed Council and informed that the creeks in Chelsea are in need of mitigation because of excess phosphorus and other pollutants.

Holmes asked if the discharge contained biological pollutants such as bacteria and fungi. Trustee Jim Myles asked if the water discharge contained other pollutants, as well.

Jim Murin, Tetra Tech's senior project manager, said the major pollutant is sodium chloride (salt), and that alum has been added in the water treatment process. Murin said neither should be a problem for the creek.

The council approved Tetra Tech's proposal.

NATIONAL breastcancerawareness MONTH

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS ABOUT MAMMOGRAPHY

The Importance of Early Detection
Breast cancer is the most common cancer diagnosed in women in America. When breast cancer is detected early and treated promptly, suffering and ultimately the loss of life can be significantly reduced. Women are encouraged to ask their doctors and other healthcare providers about mammography screening. Mammography (an x-ray picture of the breast) is the single most effective method to detect breast changes that may be cancer, long before physical symptoms can be seen or felt. For early stage breast cancer, there are more treatment options; treatment can be less disfiguring and less toxic, and survival is improved.

As women age, their risk of breast cancer increases. For most women, high quality mammography screening should begin at age 40. As risk factors vary in everyone, each woman and her doctor should discuss the plan that's right for her. Most organizations recommend screening every one to two years; some recommend it take place every year. Screening should continue throughout a woman's lifetime.

In addition to the use of mammography, healthcare providers should also examine a woman's breasts, called clinical breast examination (CBE), as part of routine healthcare to search for any abnormalities that may be missed by mammography. Breast self-examination (BSE), may alert a woman to any changes in her breasts, but it is not a substitute for mammography and CBE for women age 40 or older.

Is mammography reliable?
In 1992, the U.S. Congress passed the Mammography Quality Standards Act to ensure that mammography performed at more than 10,000 facilities throughout the country is of high quality and is reliable. To lawfully perform mammography, each facility must continuously display a certificate issued by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA). This certificate certifies that the facility meets the standards you can expect from the U.S. Agency for Health Research and Quality. It's Time to Know About Mammography is an online resource for more information.

publications are available in English and Spanish. For more information on Medicare coverage for mammography screening, contact the Medicare toll-free hotline at (800) MEDICARE or the NCI's Cancer Information Service at (800) 4-Cancer.

How can women get low-cost or free mammograms?
Throughout October, National Breast Cancer Awareness Month and especially on National Mammography Day, the third Friday in October. Many mammography facilities offer special programs, including extended hours. Many facilities are also willing to offer services at a lower fee or will establish a payment schedule. For the names of FDA accredited local mammography facilities, call the NCI's Cancer Information Service at (800) 4-CANCER. The CDC's Breast and Cervical Cancer Early Detection Program (NBCCEDP) also provides screening for medically underserved women. For program contacts, call the CDC at (888) 842-6355 or visit CDC's website at <http://www.cdc.gov/cancer/nbccedp/contacts.htm>. In addition, the YWCA's ENCORE plus program provides low-cost or free services throughout the United States - call (800) 95EPLUS or your local YWCA.

What barriers keep women from getting mamograms on a routine basis?
Studies have identified a number of barriers to mammography screening. Some can be overcome with health education; others require programs to make mammography more accessible for women. The top four barriers, in women's words are:

I don't need a mammogram because my doctor has never recommended I have one.

"I've never thought about it."

"I have no breast problems, so mammography isn't necessary."

"I don't have enough time."

Other barriers include:

- Fear about pain from the procedure.
- Fear of a diagnosis of breast cancer.
- Concerns about screening costs.
- Concerns about the financial burden of diagnostic procedures and treatment, if needed.
- No recent clinical breast examination or Pap test.
- No routine source of healthcare.
- Difficulty taking time off from work to be screened.
- Living a far distance from the screening site.

The next three risk factors all involve estrogen, a hormone that naturally occurs in women. At the time menstruation begins, women start to produce estrogen and will continue to do so until they reach menopause. Estrogen plays a key role in breast cancer. Although estrogen doesn't directly cause breast cancer, it may stimulate the growth of cancer cells. Estrogen-related risk factors include:

Having an early first period.

Women who begin menstruating before age 12 have a higher risk of getting breast cancer. The more menstrual cycles a woman has, the more likely she is to get breast cancer.

Having a first pregnancy after age 30.

Increase fiber in your diet.
Fiber is found in whole grains, vegetables, and fruits. This type of diet is beneficial for your heart, too, and can help prevent other cancers, such as colon cancer.

Eat fresh fruit and vegetables.
In addition to their fiber content, fruits and vegetables have antioxidant properties and micronutrients that may help prevent some cancers.

Limit alcohol.
Evidence suggests that a small increase in risk exists for women who average two or more drinks per day (beer, wine, and distilled liquor).

Stay active.
The U.S. Surgeon General recently reported that you can help prevent many health problems by engaging in a moderate amount of physical activity (such as taking a brisk, 30-minute walk) on most days of the week. To help maintain the body weight recommended by a health professional, limit excess fat and cholesterol production.

Don't smoke.
Smoking doesn't cause cancer, but it can increase the risk of lung, heart disease, and other cancers that may spread to other parts of the body.

Dexter Township puts finishing touches to new zoning ordinance

■ Township Board to look at final document.

By Kent Ashton Walton
Special Writer

The Dexter Township Planning Commission has put together a new draft proposal to replace its zoning ordinance two years after another version was defeated by referendum.

Planning Commission Chairman John Shea said that following the Township Board's approval of the amended general development plan, the commission has drawn up new ordinances taking into consideration concerns of residents.

Shea said he hopes that the current proposal is viewed as serving the best interests of the community. However, if substantial revisions are needed subsequent to the hearing, another public hearing would have to be convened before handing it off to the Township Board, he said.

Township Planning Commission consultant Mark Eidelson presented an outline of the new proposals Oct. 1, comparing the current 1973 zoning ordinances with the defeated proposal and the new draft.

Eidelson went through the lists of proposals for each of the general site plan development standards, showing how they are different from the 1973 and proposed 2000 standards.

The most significant changes since the 2000 proposals were in the areas of non-conforming structures, shared driveways and in proposals for Open Space Communities.

Non-conforming structures have been changed to permit legal nonconforming structures to continue until physically removed. Eidelson said the change provides for maintenance and repair, so long as there is no increase in non-conformity. Otherwise, a variance would be required from the Zoning Board of Appeals.

Ordinances for shared driveways serving more than one lot are new and limit the number of lots to a maximum of four served by such driveways to minimize strip-like development.

The changes in Open Space Community land allow for non-traditional development with smaller lots with permanent open spaces.

The new flexible standards should help preserve the township's natural resources, sensitive environmental areas and rural character, Eidelson said. It's accomplished by clustering homes on lots smaller than what are typically required by the zoning district, leaving areas as open space or for agricultural use.

The changes derive from legislation related to planned unit development that encourages greater flexibility in the design of residential developments, he said.

Eidelson also outlined changes made to zoning districts in the township. Most changes were in land zoned agricultural, rural residential and general commercial.

The regulations for principal permitted uses of agricultural lots allows for minimum lot sizes of one to five acres, provided they meet, among other things, the zoning district requirements for density, with a maximum lot coverage of 10 percent.

Rural residential now has minimum lot sizes of two acres, with density regulations and maximum lot coverage of 10 percent.

Lake residential has a one-acre lot size minimum for single-family dwellings, with additional density regulations.

Commercial development is now restricted to providing retail, service and office establishments that primarily serve the daily convenience and service needs of Dexter Township residents and visitors.

Floor space is limited to 10,000 square feet, although special land-use permits may be applied for to receive special-use approval for floor areas up to 25,000 square feet.

Since the intent of the ordinance is to allow only low-intensity commercial development in keeping with the character of the township, the commercial zoning designation of C-2 has been eliminated from the township's proposed ordinances.

One of the questions facing the Planning Commission is how to deal with the agricultural and rural residential designations, Eidelson said. The commission decided not to remove the agricultural designation. It decided to allow more development on land designated agricultural, but less than on land designated rural residential.

The clustering option allows for more lots on an agricultural parcel, but also preserves open space. Rural residential has an increased minimum lot size.

There were many questions from residents and developers at the hearing. Some raised philosophical issues related to land development, while others focused on details and interpretations.

Survivors

Boy Scouts enjoy weekend event based on TV show

Many saw the TV show "Survivor" and rooted for the participants, but Scouts in Troop 476 experienced it.

The local Scouts held their own Survivor Weekend in mid-September modeled after the popular TV program. They even dared to start out on Friday the 13th.

Two teams, identified by different cloth cylinder buffs, took part in "Survivor Michigammi."

Sean Steinbach, Ryan Allen, Andy Ramsey, James Leach Jr. and Cameron Girard made up the Predator team. The Viper team consisted of Cole Hatch, Jason Allen, Joe-Bob Daly, James Bassett and Cody Robbins.

Adult leaders and staff made up "The Bovines."

Scoutmaster Doug Worthington, adult leaders John Daly and Tom Turek, and Life Scout Michael Worthington led the trip.

The idea of a Survivor Weekend for a fall event was the No. 1 activity selected by the Scout Patrol Leaders' council, Daly said.

"Unlike most events where the activities are planned by the boys themselves, this time they specified that they wanted to be surprised," Daly said. "As a result, even the location was kept a secret until the Scouts actually arrived."

Scouts were allowed to bring a cup, spoon, pocketknife, poncho, 8 feet of cord or string, a blanket, and the clothes on their backs.

Each team was also provided with two sheets of plastic, two books of matches, a compass, a pot and a shovel.

The adventure began as each team headed west from Chelsea Sept. 13. Worthington driving the Predator Tribe and Turek the Vipers.

"Had the boys been paying attention, they would have noticed that the two vehicles exited I-94 near Albion at different places, two miles apart," Daly said. "One team was dropped off at the end of a farm lane and the other at a fence on a dirt road a mile farther west."

Each team, armed with maps to a primitive wooded area, had to hike to their campsite a half a mile away.

When they arrived, tiki torches marked their campsite. The boys constructed improvised shelters and a fire circle.

Daly said many campgrounds don't allow wood fires, so Boy Scouts routinely cook with gas stoves.

"This was a rare opportunity for Scouts to learn primitive camping in a location with plentiful firewood," he said.

Both teams and the staff established a fire circle for cooking, and baked apples for an evening snack.

The next morning, a breakfast of dried fruit, granola bars, a meat stick and a peanut bar was styled after the backpacking breakfasts five members of the troop experienced last summer at the Philmont Scout Ranch in New Mexico.

After breakfast, several Scouts who had been at Philmont demonstrated water purification, a necessity because all water for the weekend was pumped from a stream.

The first competition was an edible wild food scavenger hunt, handily won by the Predator tribe, which caught six fish and found several wild apple and pear trees.

"Both teams passed up an excellent source of protein in the plentiful grasshoppers in the area," Daly said.

Having found the food, the next competition on tap was a cook-off.

The Predator team set the standard to beat by preparing bluegill, dandelion salad, an elderberry beverage, and a clover and pear salad.

The Viper response was three beverages made of sumac, elderberry and wild grape.

Declaring the contest to be a draw, Worthington and Daly handed out chocolate bars as prizes.

The afternoon contest was an outdoor survival skill, fire by friction — "something that even the scouting veterans had never seen successfully demonstrated," Daly said.

The Predators jumped off to an early start by finishing their bow-and-drill mechanism first.

"The Vipers took a long time in crafting their equipment, following instructions given in a survival book that said the bow-and-drill method of starting a fire was relatively easy if the equipment was constructed correctly," Daly said.

"Shortly after completing their equipment, a Viper team consisting of Cole Hatch, Joe-Bob Daly and Jason Allen had a spirited blaze started in a pile of tinder, winning the afternoon competition and tying the score for the weekend."

The group enjoyed an evening meal of trout, potatoes and watermelon, with cooking done on an open fire with no grill or utensils.

After dusk, Robbins and Girard completed First Class Scout night navigation requirements by following a map on a short hike.

Scouts rounded out the evening by cooking popcorn over an open fire, and enjoyed brunch the next morning with some Dutch oven cooking.

Troop 476 will hold an outing Oct. 26 for Webelos Cub Scouts at Camp Teetonkah near Grass Lake. Interested Cub Scout dens should contact Assistant Scoutmaster Jim Leach at 475-0378.

Dexter High School sophomore Cole Hatch (left), Cody Robbins, James Bassett, Joe-Bob Daly and Jason Allen, all Boy Scouts in Troop 476, were members of the Viper Tribe in the mid-September Survivor weekend. Hatch, the newly elected senior patrol leader of Boy Scout Troop 476, appointed Zack Coleman and Sean Steinbach as assistant senior patrol leaders. The three are responsible for planning and conducting troop meeting and activities.

Andy Ramsey (left), Cameron Girard, Ryan Allen, Sean Steinbach and James Leach Jr. are members of Boy Scout Troop 476 who enjoyed a Survivor weekend in mid-September. These five Scouts were members of the Predator Tribe.

Police warn residents about telephone scam

In 2001, $18 million lost in online fraud cases.

By Will Keeler
Staff Writer

The Michigan State Police is warning residents of telephone scams that could leave victims with an empty bank account.

State Police officials are urging area residents to be cautious when getting telephone calls offering free vacations or prizes in exchange for a credit card number or checking account information.

"Calls come in from anywhere, but at most times it is a telemarketing company," said State Police Sgt. Fred Farkas.

The alert comes after a Chelsea-area resident received a telemarketing call Oct. 4.

The telemarketer told the resident that he won a free vacation, but to secure a reservation, bank account information would be needed. The victim did not give out any information.

Farkas said that the victim turned the situation around and started asking questions to the caller.

"They asked questions like how they got their name and phone number and what they might know about the resident's bank account," Farkas said.

"Turning the table like this really makes the telemarketer a little uneasy and possibly not want to continue the conversation," he said.

As of Monday, Farkas said that he hasn't had any similar or related complaints reported.

"This could have been an isolated incident, a fluke where someone in the area got the call from a random calling list," Farkas said.

In 2001, the Internet Fraud Complaint Center reported that $18 million was lost in online fraud cases.

The Federal Trade Commission reported in January that 40 percent of its complaints dealt with identity theft.

The State Police said people should not give out credit card or bank account information to an unknown person.

"If it is a product or service that you might be interested in, ask them to send you information, also get the salesperson's name, along with their phone number and address," Farkas said.

"By divulging personal information to those you are not familiar with, you are susceptible to financial loss and identity theft," he said.

Consumers should deal with businesses that they are familiar with or research them before handing over any personal information, Farkas said.

Legitimate sweepstakes or prize offers don't ask for payment and legitimate businesses will not pressure people without letting them think about the offer, the State Police said.

"If it sounds good to be true, it is," Farkas said. "Ask questions, don't act immediately and ask for literature."

Malicious destruction of property was reported Oct. 6 at Four Mile Lake off Dexter-Chelsea Road. A Taylor man told Michigan State Police that he was in the state-owned game area hunting for geese when a couple approached him and told him their reasons as to why he should not hunt. He said the conversation was casual and not confrontational.

When they left, however, he heard a loud "pop" sound in the direction of his vehicle. The man returned to find his 1999 Ford pick-up truck damaged.

man Oct. 6 for driving with open intoxicants in a vehicle. The man was initially stopped for having a broken taillight while driving on North Territorial Road near M-52.

A trooper found the driver with an open bottle of beer. A Breathalyzer tested showed that his blood-alcohol level was 0.04 percent. A level of 0.10 percent or higher is considered legally drunk under state law.

Sylvan Township

Property Damage
A 1999 Mercury Sable was damaged while parked in a driveway off Cavanaugh Lake Road Oct. 5. Michigan State Police were called to the residence to investigate.

A window was smashed, the rear door was dented and the passenger-side mirror was torn off.

The victim told investigators that the suspect could be her daughter's former boyfriend. Police, however, interviewed the young man and he was at a party that night. Two witnesses verified his story.

Breaking and Entering

A pole barn in the 19000 block of Sibley Road was broken into between 6 a.m. Oct. 4 and 10:30 a.m. Oct. 8.

State Police troopers were called to investigate. A door was pried open and power tools were stolen. The victim is compiling a list of the missing items and their value. Police have no suspects.

Landlord-Tenant Dispute

Troopers were called to the 3000 block of Sylvan Road Oct. 8 for a report of a possible physical altercation involving a landlord and his tenant. After arriving on the scene, however, they determined the tenant's mother had overreacted and there was no contact between the landlord and the 18-year-old dweller.

Police noted that the teen was served with an eviction notice and must vacate the home by Sunday.

The teen's mother called 911 after speaking to her son on the telephone. She said they were disconnected and she feared her son was in danger.

The woman told police that her son said he was scared after seeing his landlord walking around the exterior of the house.

The young man told police that there was no physical altercation.

Dexter Village

Domestic Assault
A 38-year-old woman reported to sheriff's deputies Oct. 7 that her husband assaulted her.

The couple reportedly started arguing in the kitchen. The suspect was upset and allegedly pushed his wife across the room and up against a wall.

The woman tried locking herself into another room, but the suspect kicked the door in.

The woman showed deputies a bruise and red marks on her head.

Chelsea Village

Possession of Marijuana
A 39-year-old Chelsea man was issued a ticket Oct. 13 for possession of marijuana.

The Chelsea Police Department received an anonymous tip that the man was growing marijuana in planters in his backyard.

When officers arrived at the man's house, they found that the plants had been cut.

The man cooperated and told officers that he thought they were at his home earlier in the day, so he cut the plants.

Officers took three plant leaves and verified it was marijuana.

Property Damage

A 44-year-old Chelsea woman told police Oct. 13 that someone painted graffiti on her car.

The victim believes a man she met on the Internet may have done the damage. She told officers that she met him in person and did not want to pursue a relationship. She said he may have done the damage in retaliation.

Hunters must avoid driveways

Local residents told to report trespassers.

By Michael Rybka
Special Writer

Local residents are being encouraged to call 911 to report hunters who are using private driveways to access land owned by the Department of Natural Resources.

A the Lyndon Township Board meeting Oct. 8, Michigan State Trooper Matt Shook said residents should call the emergency number if someone is trespassing.

Board Trustee Kathryn Francis said

Sandhill Pointe, her private driveway, has been used by hunters on many occasions.

Francis said that when she confronted a trespasser, he told her that he had contacted the DNR and was told that he could use a private driveway.

Township Supervisor Maryann Noah said she thinks the only time a private driveway can be used for access to DNR-owned land is if the deed specifically allows for it.

It appears trespassing has been a problem on municipal property, as well. Noah said tree stands have been erected at the Multi-Lake Sewer Authority property on North Territorial Road and people have seen hunters trespassing on the land.

"It's a multi-million dollar facility," Noah said. "I don't want them using it for target practice."

Shook also reviewed the incident report for the month of September in Lyndon Township. He said that there was one case of someone carrying a concealed weapon, one assault, two suspicious situations, two conservation complaints and four traffic crashes.

Michael Rybka is a free-lance writer. He can be reached at 475-8597.

Let's see a credit report for Greenspan

COMMUNITY ROOTS

A few weeks ago, before my wife and I locked in an interest rate for our home refinance, our loan officer told us to hold tight.

He wanted to see whether Alan Greenspan, chairman of the Federal Reserve, was going to raise or lower interest rates, which could affect mortgage rates.

That got me thinking. What if Greenspan, on the way to the press conference, gets cut off? He's mad, he makes single-digit hand gestures toward other driver. He's just steaming.

He walks into the room, saunters up to the podium, red-faced, sweating, tie askew, and tells the audience that he's raising rates. "Mr. Greenspan, why are you raising rates in an economic downturn?" a reporter asks.

"Because," he says. "Because I said so." And he stomps his feet and storms out of the room.

Meanwhile, across town, there's a commuter driving around who unknowingly cost Americans millions more in interest.

And just like that, our house payment would be $20 higher each month.

I'm sure we could think of other indicators, too: the quality of Greenspan's morning coffee, how he slept the previous night, etc.

A couple of years ago, someone tried to link Greenspan's briefcase contents with rate changes.

Actually, Greenspan is supposed to base his decision on traditional economic indicators such as unemployment, inflation, job creation and stock markets.

Currently, interest rates are very low. They were already low during the "new economy" bubble of the 1990s because of low inflation.

That stumped economists. How could such incredible economic growth occur without inflation? Because it did, Greenspan didn't do much with interest rates.

When the economy started to slow two years ago, there was nowhere left to go but down with interest rates. So, in an effort to increase economic activity, Greenspan enacted an even cheaper money policy and lowered rates further.

Hence, rates today are near all-time lows.

People are spending, too, like they're supposed to. Zero-percent financing for new cars helps; mortgages less than 7 percent help, too. I'm certainly doing my part.

But isn't it a little scary that consumers have to borrow the money they're using to stimulate the economy?

It's like this: In the rational world of economics, consumers either spend their money or save it. If they're scared of an economic downturn, they tend to save it. And vice versa.

But if consumer debt is already near an all-time high, then it's not a question of spending or saving; it's a question of "in debt up to your shoulders" or "in debt over your head."

Remember last year, when politicians told us that we had to do our part and spend our way to economic recovery?

But who's holding money for rainy days? Many raises were pathetic last year. Some spend all they have, living from paycheck to paycheck. Yet we're supposed to take on more debt to save the economy?

The economy isn't much better off now. Should we take on even more debt?

What's really scary is that many of us, me included, are financing purchases that have little, if any, long-term value.

Let's say you start spending more money on clothing, using a credit card to finance the purchases. In theory, you could still be paying for an outfit years after it's out of style and worthless.

Some minimum payments for credit cards are so low that the clothing might actually increase in value — for nostalgic reasons — by the time you pay it off.

I'll be the first to say that I'm glad we have the choice to borrow money so easily. For me, there's no other way I could afford expensive items like houses and cars.

But there are times when I think that the economy is just one giant bubble, growing only because of inflated, overextended consumer credit.

What I'd really like to see is an in-depth examination of Greenspan's finances. I'm sure he's richer than 99 percent of us, but hey, I'd feel a lot better about taking on more debt if he was taking on more debt, too.

How about it, Mr. Greenspan?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Pam Byrnes will work for residents

I have had the pleasure of meeting Pam Byrnes on several occasions. As a special education teacher in an at-risk school, I believe that Pam is the best candidate to represent the 52nd District in the state House.

Pam is a strong advocate of early childhood education and believes involving parents is paramount. She is experienced in serving our educational community as a member of the Washtenaw Coordinating Council for Children at Risk.

Unlike her opponent, Pam did not and would not vote to reduce funding for education programs, including Washtenaw County's First Steps.

As both a parent and an educator, I can appreciate Pam's dedication to our children and her commitment to the community where she lives and works.

It is true that Pam may not be able to outstep her opponent, but I believe she is working harder than her opponent now, and I know she'll work hard in Lansing.

Gordon Darr is the best choice

Over the last few months, I have had the privilege of working with Gordon Darr, state Senate candidate for the 18th District in Washtenaw County.

Gordon's ideals are one of the reasons I chose to work with him, especially those ideals related to elections and campaigning. Those ideals have been put to the test recently.

The second week in October is traditionally when political signs are placed in the yards of a candidate's supporters. Unfortunately, it is also the start of vandalism and destruction of these signs by some overzealous individuals.

Some have suggested this is the result of pranks by kids, but kids don't destroy signs of candidates affiliated with one party and leave alone those from another party's candidates.

Not only are these actions illegal, they represent the very worst in politics and elections and generally are not actions supported by the candidates.

Gordon Darr has made clean elections central to his position. While the "clean elections" issue is much more than not waging a negative campaign, it is part of the concept. Gordon has informed all of his supporters that he will not tolerate such actions from any of his supporters.

All of the candidates and their supporters have the right to express their views without worrying about vandals coming to their homes. Further, we need more candidates like Gordon involved in our government, people who don't and won't sink to a "win at any cost" mentality.

I urge all of the voters in the 18th District to consider this Nov. 5 by voting for Gordon Darr for state Senate.

Joe Semifero
Dexter Village

Darr would make a good senator

We want to urge the residents in the 18th State Senate District (most of Washtenaw County) to consider voting for our son, Gordon Darr, for state Senator.

From the first years when he learned to read, Gordon has always demonstrated a distinct interest in American society and government. His special interest has been in historical figures that beat the odds and made a difference.

In his career, he has not been afraid to stand up to injustices in the community and workplace, sometimes putting his career at risk in order to right a wrong.

Now — in his race for the state Senate, he has taken a stand on principle that on the face of it sounds too risky to be practical.

Gordon decided early on that money has too much influence in politics. He wants to represent all of the residents of the 18th District, and not any outside special interest — so he chose to refuse any campaign donations from political action committees and special interest groups.

With the exception of family, all of Gordon's donations come from residents in the 18th District. He also chose not to borrow any money for the campaign.

We need elected officials who are good at ideas and consensus building. Too many of them are good at raising and spending money.

Recently, we were faced with a moment of decision. We have learned how difficult it is to raise money for a political campaign. Gordon was given a check for $500 from a political action committee that we could really use in this final month of the campaign. But Gordon sent it back, with his humble thanks.

Issues come and go. Coalitions are mixed and remixed on a weekly basis. People who are good at politics are a dime a dozen. But someone with integrity is hard to come by.

It is important that the 18th District is represented by someone who has been west of Wagner and east of Earhart, has talked with farmers, salesmen small business owners, teachers, homeowners, church members, sportsmen, any group he can find, from Freedom to Salem Township and all townships in between. The 18th District is more than just a few square miles from downtown Ann Arbor.

Gordon Darr wants to do something novel: represent all residents of the 18th District, their needs, goals and vision. We ask you to consider voting for Gordon, and helping us on his campaign.

Board's response to survey insulting

I have just read The Chelsea Standard article "Chelsea Library Board critical of study" (front page, Oct. 10) and I am stunned.

The Chelsea District Library Board hired The Breton Group and now that the results are not what the board wanted to hear, the board has chosen not to solve the problems that have been accurately pointed out by this study.

Rather, the board chooses to attack The Breton Group and the 52 residents who participated. This response by the board is, at the least, incredibly defensive and divisive.

The 52 residents invited by the Library Board to provide input to the study contributed their time, their concern and their considerable interest in library service only to be labeled by a board member as not representing a broad cross section of the community.

In addition, these 52 people who, I am sure, considered themselves interested, knowledgeable and caring residents, are described as "uninformed" who "colored the results." How insulting.

It was by the Library Board's action that these residents were invited to take part in the survey interviews in the first place.

The interviews by The Breton Group were conducted in a thoroughly professional manner. If, as the board is seeming to imply, they did not know who was going to be invited to the interviews, did not know what The Breton Group was going to ask, did not feel the people interviewed were representative of the library district, did not think the number interviewed was adequate, felt The Breton Group was "unqualified to issue recommendations," these opinions were certainly not represented in the letter sent by the library inviting participants for the study.

It is difficult to understand why The Breton Group was so acceptable to the board until the results appeared. Did no one from the board understand what they were really using The Breton Group for? Shouldn't they have been sure of the process before they authorized it?

What I find most disturbing about the Library Board's response is that there still appears to be no interest whatsoever in hearing the other side.

Will there continue to be studies until finally one comes up with the exact response the Library Board prefers?

This study did not present much in the way of startling new objections. Many of the objections concluded from this study have been presented at other meetings but have been continuously ignored.

I think it is necessary to emphasize that the resulting comments from this study do not oppose a new library. They support a library that is reasonable and manageable for this community.

No one likes criticism, but a negative, petulant and close-to-personal response from Library Board members does not solve anything. It should be obvious that attacking the messengers is not the way to win support.

Responses to the Questions:

Q: What, in your opinion, is the most important issue facing residents of your constituency?

Darr: Sprawl and environmental issues.

Brater: It's hard to single out one most important issue of concern to 18th District constituents. The top four are health care, education, jobs and the economy, and environment, including land use.

Smith: Absolutely the most important issue facing not only the citizens of the 18th District and the citizens of Michigan, but the whole of the United States, is the ever-growing gap between those who have access to affordable health care and those who do not. Even those who do have insurance are continually seeing their coverage shrinking and the cost rising.

Q: If elected, what will you do to change it?

Darr: We need to reform the way we elect our leaders in order to bring in people that are more truly representative of the entire constituency. I believe we get less than the best from our government because we have handed off our most important problems to extreme special interest groups.

The real problem-solvers are those in the middle, who are involved in raising families, managing careers and building communities.

We need to lure more of these people into government by decreasing the role of money in politics, and making it easy for them to enter local government and devote an optimal amount of time on serving the residents that elected them.

If we can get more "middle people" into government (middle managers, blue-collar workers, farmers, teachers and small business owners), I am convinced we would get good, creative, innovative and effective solutions to our problems.

Until that happens, I will promote progress on smart open space standards that are win-win solutions for builders, farmers and neighbors.

Also, in local government, I have found that it is hard to do what you were elected to do because your hands are tied by state law and legal precedent. Many people get into local government because they are concerned about sprawl and the environment.

We need to create a true consensus with the building community, environmentalists and homeowners, toward some reforms that give residents a little more influence over what happens in their communities vis-a-vis development.

The final solution should be fair to all the stakeholders. But in my view, the views of actual homeowners are way under-represented in Lansing.

Brater: In the health-care arena, I will work to see that more Michigan citizens have access to health care, including mental health care.

We must expand health care coverage for those who don't have it, and include prescription drug coverage.

Smith: I will strive to have Michigan become the first state in the union to have universal health care for all her citizens. We are the only industrialized nation that does not have universal health care. This is a travesty. Not only is it a travesty toward our elderly and young, but against all the people. It has not been implemented because the special-interest groups, which have a stranglehold on our government, have spread the lie that we can't afford it, or worse, that it is "socialism."

I will struggle. I will fight to bring about a fair and equitable system that will

Keeping an Eye on Cataracts

Cataracts affect about half of Americans over the age of 65. By the age of 75, just about everyone has a cataract; and half of the people between 75 and 85 have lost some vision as a result. Chelsea Community Hospital is hosting a free informal talk led by Dr. Anthony Sensoli, a local ophthalmologist. Dr. Sensoli will discuss what a cataract is and what causes it, how they affect vision, what treatments are available now, and what the future holds.

Sister of 9/11 victim speaks against potential war

By Kent Ashton Walton
Special Writer

Rita Lasar lost her brother, Abe, in the Sept. 11, 2001, terrorist attacks and is now speaking out against the war on Iraq in a speech called "Our grief is not a cry for war."

On Oct. 10, she addressed a group at the Washington Street Education Center in Chelsea. Her appearance was sponsored by the One World, One Family Task Force in Chelsea.

Lasar said her brother refused to leave the World Trade Center after it had been struck by a hijacked airplane, deciding instead to remain at the side of a friend and paraplegic in a wheelchair until help arrived. Help did not arrive before the tower came crashing down, however.

During her talk, Lasar described her feelings about the terrorist attacks, the loss of her brother, the loss of 2,800 other people and what she thought needed to be done.

She said she listened to President George W. Bush's speech in which her brother was mentioned by name for his heroic act.

"It became immediately apparent to me that my country was going to use my brother's death to justify the deaths of innocent people," she said.

Lasar said she did not want her brother's death to be used as part of a political motivation for going to war with Afghanistan, so she began speaking to anyone who would listen. She addressed peace rallies, church groups, people on the street and appeared on radio talk shows, trying to persuade people that waging war on Afghanistan was not the answer to what the terrorists had done to America.

When the United States began bombing Afghanistan Oct. 7, 2001, Lasar said she felt desperate to do something, so she joined a group of American peace activists in Afghanistan.

"I was like most Americans before Sept. 11, fortunate enough never to have seen war or ravaged countryside where people are desperate," she said.

A delegation was formed of people who had lost family members in the terrorist attacks. The group decided to call itself Peaceful Tomorrows. The idea was to promote peace and seek alternatives to war in the face of terrorism. A Peaceful Tomorrows group of six traveled to Kabul, Afghanistan.

"We looked at a country that resembled the surface of the moon more than any place on earth," Lasar said. "The rubble is everywhere."

"Afghanistan is probably the saddest place in the world. They have been at war for 23 years."

Lasar described how the Afghan people were amazed that Americans had come to offer sympathy, and they embraced each other.

The group visited a place that held thousands of orphans with barely enough food for one meal a day and a hospital with so little medicine that it was forced to turn most sick and injured away.

After returning to the United States, Lasar said each realized that members of the group had to devote themselves to helping the people in Afghanistan get justice and help.

But after visiting offices of their congressional delegations in Washington, D.C., she said they were told there was no money for their cause.

Lasar said she did not realize that the American government would abandon Afghanistan so soon to go after Iraq.

"We are told that Saddam Hussein is a tyrant — that he is developing nuclear weapons and weapons of mass destruction," she said. "We are told we have to go into Iraq to eliminate this threat."

"The rationale for bombing another Muslim country is so transparently a lie that I wonder if anyone believes it."

Because Iraq also has oil, she said the U.S. government is sending troops to overthrow the government.

Lasar said Peaceful Tomorrows believes that the United Nations was created to deal with different types of conflict and to bring criminals to justice. She said it's the group's mission to travel across the country telling people that America must not continue to bomb other countries.

Lasar also noted that although the U.S. Congress voted for war, 136 members opposed it. She also said equitable system that will cover all of Michigan's citizens and to be the cradle of the implementation of universal health care for the nation.

Q: Why are you seeking elected office?

Darr: I am truly concerned that regular folks like me and most of our friends and neighbors in Dexter and Chelsea are not being listened to in Lansing.

The "moneyed" interests and lobbies have too much influence.

We need a new kind of government in which representatives and senators truly represent those that elected them. I want to set a standard for elected officials and be the kind who really listens to people.

Brater: I am seeking this office so that I can continue the work I was doing in the legislature on health care and mental health, education, environment, and the economy.

Smith: I am seeking office to bring about change to our government. And I am talking about real change such as real election reform. Initially this will be done by implementing an instant run-off voting system.

Eventually, I would like to see the two chamber legislative bodies dissolved and instead, go to a unicameral legislative body along with changing our state government system to proportional representation. While it may make sense for the federal government to have two chambers, such a system is neither needed, nor is it a fair representation of the vast views of the citizens.

I am seeking office to bring about a voice for the common man, and to swing the pendulum back to the enforcement and strengthening of environmental laws and to strengthen the rights of workers and citizens over that of the corporations.

I am seeking office to end the system of bribery called "PAC-man funding" and to end the influence of special interest groupies and the vultures that prowl the halls of Lansing.

Q: If elected, what do you hope to accomplish?

Darr: I hope to pass a public financing of campaigns bill for State House and Senate candidates.

I want to develop a standard with the Small Business Association, which would promote more people getting involved in local government.

I want to reform the prison system so that only the truly dangerous people are sent to prison. Others, with conditions like fetal alcohol syndrome, who are not a risk to others if supervised, should be supervised in a setting where they have limited freedom and can find gainful employment that helps them become productive contributors to the community.

We should seek alternate ways to fund necessary programs, such as fee-based services where users of government services (those that have the ability to) would be expected to pay some minimal fee.

Finally, I want to set in place incentives for people at mid-career to become career free agents if they choose. We would eliminate the double-tax on people who are self-employed, provide some low-interest loans so that they can start up a business and create a fund where they can contribute money tax-free that may be withdrawn when business is slow.

Brater: First, I will seek to restore Michigan to sound economic footing, addressing the huge deficit in the state budget. We need to protect funds for public and higher education, health care, social services and other important state services.

We need to improve our roads and public transportation and restore our environmental standards to protect the Great Lakes and other waters.

I will also continue to work to improve our mental health system, consumer protection, and protection of privacy.

Smith: To create a multi-county, intra-city system of light rail trains, bike paths, and bus services.

To increase the tax on diesel fuel to bring parity with the other motor fuels.

To encourage companies to use the heavy rail systems to bring in and ship out components, where it is feasible and when over a certain weight or over a large distance.

To support public schools so that the youth of our state may be up to the challenges of this new era.

The First The Best The #1 Gutter Protection System In the World.

20% OFF

HOW IT WORKS
Gutter Helmet is a multi-patented, closed system that keeps your gutters free-flowing.

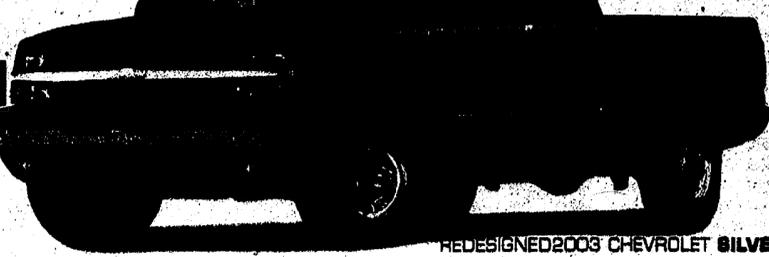

- The patented flow-limiting, ribbed design slows and spreads water as it nears the gutter.
- Rainwater is directed around the nose and into the gutter by the simple physical law of surface tension, the same principle that causes water to cling to the outside of a glass as it spills.
- The patented nose-forward design eliminates all vertical openings, forcing leaves and other debris over the edge and to the ground.
- Rainwater enters the gutter through the factory pre-set, 3/16" horizontal water gap, perfectly designed to channel the heaviest rainfall into the gutter, but engineered to keep birds, animals and debris out... permanently. The continuous water gap means there are no slots or screens to clog or clean.
- Gutter Helmet panels are installed with patented 50-gauge brackets that reinforce your existing, full-size gutters, supporting even the heaviest snow loads.
- Our patent-pending texturing process adds depth and strength to every panel without adding weight and stress.
- The patent-pending PermaLife™ coating will not fade, will not chalk and is not affected by corrosive acid rain. No other company can make this claim. See our transferable warranty for specific details.

ARCTIC Inheritance

Old diaries, photographs lead to book

By Sheila Pursglove

Chelsea Editor

In 1901, two friends from Ithaca, N.Y., each paid $500 to join a voyage to the Arctic to deliver supplies to famed Arctic explorer Robert Peary.

The diaries of Clarence Wyckoff and Louis Bement tell of a difficult trip in 1901—contending with icebergs, polar bears, maggoty food, head lice and also describe the life of the small of northern Greenland a century ago.

"Thin but ice in sight," Bement wrote. "No bears, just pans from 10 feet to a mile in size."

More than a century later, Wyckoff's granddaughter, Lima Township resident Kim Fairley Gillis, has joined with Bement's grandson, Silas Ayer III, to create a book of diaries and sepia-toned photographs of the Arctic expedition.

Peary lost seven toes to frost while exploring Greenland in his quest for the North Pole. When he returned to cut his exploration short, he sailed out the following July to bring his young daughter to bring her home.

Gillis has always held a fascination for the Arctic. She earned her master's degree in the University of Michigan and worked for many years for her great-aunt Betty Balderston.

Dr. Peary's daughter, she said, was the only one of their family to live in Chelsea. Her father, Dr. Peary, was a physician in New York City.

Gillis said she used to read the diaries in general, she felt sad she didn't remember she said many times, "We were intended to father a son, it was all girl talk in the house."

Balderston sent her great-grandchildren newspaper clippings and tidbits of information that she found in the diaries collected by her great-aunt over the years.

She felt so sure that the diaries were lost that she mystery, and there were many of those," Gillis says. "But she used to complain that she didn't have an orderly mind and she could only get so far with the research."

"She agonized for a great many years over what to do with her father's collection."

Several years before her death, Balderston gave Gillis her father's photograph album, thinking Gillis would know where to donate it or make it available to the public.

"When she died, I felt I needed to do something with the photographs," Gillis says.

Her great-aunt had also given her the telephone number of Ayer. Bement's grandson is a retiree who calls Maryland home.

"I had hoped he might have some information to help with my research," Gillis says. "At that time, I knew very little about the photographs other than that they were taken in 1901 on the Erik Expedition."

Gillis and Ayer arranged to meet at the National Archives in Washington, D.C.

"The funny thing was that before Silas and I met, we each thought we had a unique collection," Gillis says.

The two were disappointed when, looking through one another's photographs, many images appeared to be identical. However, on closer inspection, they discovered many images, although very similar, were taken seconds apart from slightly different perspectives.

Gillis and Ayer approached the University of New Mexico Press, preferring a smaller publishing house so they could be a part of the process in creating the book, "Boreal Ties."

"We knew their reputation for superior quality American history and photography," Gillis says. "Although they are not strictly academics, they have a high level of academic rigor."

Gillis says both families have been fortunate to have had such a lucky break.

The resulting book highlights photographs and diary entries showing life on board an Arctic exploration vessel.

"We were crossing Baffin Bay, which the sailors told us was the roughest piece of water in the world, and we all believe they lied much at that," Wyckoff wrote. "At one time, the indicator showed that we dipped 30 degrees each way from the perpendicular."

Gillis says both families have been fortunate to have had such a lucky break.

Local woman serves voters for 4 decades

By Rita Fischer

Special Writer

Fran Manzel has seen a lot of changes in the voting booth over the years.

Manzel, 81, has been a local election inspector for four decades.

Most recently, she worked the polls at the school district's election seeking approval of sinking fund and recreation millages, both of which were defeated after bringing out a record number of voters.

Manzel helps with elections in the Chelsea School District and in Sylvan Township, where she and her husband, Ray, make their home. In previous years, she was an election inspector in both Freedom and Lima townships.

Manzel says she's lost count of the number of elections that she's covered. However, much to her relief, gone are the days of staying up until 2 a.m. to count votes.

"Times have changed so much with voting that now it's a lot easier," she says.

"Many years ago, they used paper ballots and they each had to be counted individually."

Manzel says the Acu-vote system makes the election process much easier on voters and poll workers.

"When I first started, we had to count and match each name one by one," she says. "The machine does that for us now. It saves a lot of time."

Any torn or lost ballot must be recorded in the poll book, says Manzel, who was the first to type up each poll book for Chelsea.

Local election officers are trained at the village offices in Chelsea or in Ann Arbor every two years to keep their skills up to date.

While Manzel was unpaid for many years, she currently receives a small stipend for her efforts.

"I would help anyhow, even if I didn't get paid," she says.

"I've met so many great teachers and students. I enjoy seeing them. I can't say that this is work."

After graduating from South Lyon High School in 1938, Manzel went on to Cleary College, now Cleary University, the following year.

Her first job during the war years was keeping payroll for 600 men who worked at Michigan Seamless Aircraft, where aircraft tubing was made.

She went on to spend two decades working as secretary and head bookkeeper for Chelsea Superintendent Charles Cameron and was a substitute secretary for another decade, until ill health forced her to quit.

"The kids in the school were like my own. Sometimes I even cried with them," she says. "The students liked me so much that they dedicated a yearbook to me in 1972."

"I still get letters and pictures from the kids or I see them when they vote."

Manzel and her husband recently celebrated 56 years of marriage. A member of Zion Lutheran Church, where she is also treasurer, she plays the church organ and enjoys a hand of euchre.

Sylvan resident Fran Manzel has been an election official for 40 years. She has worked the polls in the Chelsea School District, as well as Sylvan, Freedom and Lima townships. She is pictured with local resident and teacher Beth Newman at the Sept. 23 millage election for Chelsea schools.

Despite threatening to retire, Manzel will probably continue to work the polls for as long as possible, including the upcoming Nov. 5 election.

She urges every registered voter to take the time to go to the polls. "It's your privilege to vote," Manzel says. "You can make a difference."

Former classmates enjoy looking back over six decades

By Sheila Pursglove
Associate Editor
and Rita Fischer
Special Writer

In 1935, Ruth Bareis, the valedictorian of Chelsea High School, wrote in her speech: "We find ourselves on the threshold of a new era, one in which we view with happy anticipation the many unknown experiences which lie before us."

Sixty-seven years later, they shared those experiences.

Bareis and 15 of her former classmates — Helen Baxter, Katherine Conlan, Janet Dancer, Mildred Goodell, Wayne Harvey, Ron Haselschwerdt, Katherine, Hofferick, Douglas Kennedy, Vera Koselka, Lucille Kuhl, Geraldine Mast, Robert Niehaus, Irene Stoffer, Marie Wenk and Norm Wenk — looked back over more than six decades when the class reunited Sept. 26 at the Reddeman Farms Golf Club.

The group, with its class colors of red and gray, started out together Aug. 31, 1931, when "49 Greenies" entered Chelsea High School as freshmen.

For the next four years, they shared a mix of activities, from academic and athletic to acting.

The class took part in such plays as "Dance, Grampa, Dance," the operetta "Toreadors," "Nothing but the Truth," "Adam and Eva" and "Seven Keys to Baldpate."

They joined clubs for Latin, journalism, biology, drama, forensics and Future Farmers of America, and they enjoyed picnics, swimming parties, sleigh rides, carnivals and dances, while also experiencing exams, Class Night and graduation.

As parting gifts at graduation, Helen Baxter received a rolling pin; Douglas Kennedy got a movie magazine; Ron Haselschwerdt, a book on traffic laws; Marie Wenk received sheet music and Mildred Goodell got freckle cream.

Katherine Conlan, a star on the girls' basketball team was given a megaphone for her "very gentle voice." Janet Dancer got a Grass Lake newspaper; and Irene Stoffer, a cart. Katherine Hofferick was given a reducing belt, so she wouldn't miss the exercise she got while walking to school.

Vera Koselka received a box of stationery, Lucille Kuhl got a private telephone because she hated being on a party line. Geraldine Mast was given a doll to prevent her from being lonesome in the future.

Robert Niehaus was given the book "How to Become More Handsome," while Norm Wenk, "the chauffeur," received a toy car.

Wenk, who first went to school at Rogers Corners, said he found the adjustment to high school difficult.

"It was hard for us kids from the country to go to a larger school," he said. "Confined to study hall and classrooms, it was a big change."

"We had to pay $60 a year tuition, buy our own books and get rides to school because they did not have buses back then."

Wenk played left guard on the football team. The squad of 1934 beat Saline 50-0 and Manchester 34-0, but was flattened by Milan 0-31.

Wenk, who was humor editor of "The Senior Reminder" yearbook, along with Katherine Conlan and Walter Balmer, brought a copy of the yearbook to the reunion. Helen Hindelang was its editor, and Marjorie Sotd and Richard Sowers were assistant editors. Douglas Kennedy served as business manager, with Junior Seitz, David Winans, Robert Williams and Leo Allshouse on his staff.

Leona Moeckel and Zilpha Shaver were feature editors, Mildred Goodell, Lynn Dancer and Marie Haselschwerdt were snapshot editors, and John Leeman and Herbert Mauch were in charge of art.

Shirley Carpenter and Hubert Ives were alumna editors, and Nicholas Panarites and Helen Liebeck were athletic editors.

Chelsea High School Principal Leah Hazard served as adviser to the Reminder staff. She headed up a high school with a small staff comprising Virginia Barrus, Owen Lyons, Roberta Fowlkes, Martica Georg, Albert Johnson and Leon Members of the Chelsea High School Class of 1935 enjoyed a reunion Sept. 27 at Reddeman Farms Golf Club in Lima Township. Sixteen of the original 52 graduates attended. Waskiewicz.

As for the ads in the yearbook, Elvira Clark-Visel owned Chelsea Greenhouses, W.R. Daniels sold Buicks, J.W. Van Riper offered coal and Coke, Ralph Miller managed Kroger Grocery and Baking Co., and Mohrlock's Garage offered car repair.

The class of 1935 wasn't the only group celebrating recently. The class of 1937 met the previous day, also at Reddeman Farms.

Former classmates Marlon Hagen, George Goodell, Dorothy Betke, Kenneth Niehaus, George Prinzing and Mark and Virginia McKernan enjoyed reminiscing over old times.

George Prinzing was not only a student at Chelsea High School, he went on to teach there for three decades.

"I liked school so much that I went back to teach," Prinzing said.

Marion Hagen, 83, served as class president in her junior and senior years.

Hagen, who played basketball for the school, remembered playing after school in a vacant lot in her neighborhood. Virginia McKernan attended St. Mary's School on Congdon Street for the first nine years of schooling before attending the high school. A country resident, she walked 1 1/2 miles to school because there were no school buses.

McKernan, who enjoyed classes on history and government, said although she and her classmates were at school during the Great Depression, they paid little attention to it at the time.

Chelsea needs overtime to decide title

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

For the first time in three years, Chelsea football will not be wearing the South-eastern Conference White Division crown.

After three consecutive SEC White Division championships, the Bulldogs lost to Tecumseh 20-17 in overtime last Friday.

With their victory, the Indians claimed the league title. Last year, Chelsea defeated Tecumseh 12-6 in double overtime for the league crown.

"It's very disappointing," Chelsea coach Brad Bush said. "But I told the guys if we don't let it go and forget about it, it would be more disappointing to not make the playoffs."

To qualify for the Michigan High School Athletic Association playoffs, a team needs six victories. The Bulldogs have five wins, with two games remaining in the regular season.

Against Tecumseh, Chelsea (5-2, 2-1) started out slowly.

The Bulldogs fumbled on their own 10-yard line in the first quarter.

With the turnover, the Indians scored and led early, 7-0.

"We gave them one," Bush said. Chelsea responded, however.

On its next possession, the Bulldogs drove 65 yards, culminating in senior running back Darl Bauer's 15-yard touchdown run.

With senior Joel Rosentreter's extra point, Chelsea tied the score at 7-7.

In the second quarter, Tecumseh (4-3, 3-0) went back on top, as senior tailback Cole Corey scampered in from eight yards out for a touchdown. With the extra point, the Indians went into halftime leading 14-7.

In the third quarter, the Bulldogs tied it back up on Bauer's 6-yard touchdown run.

With Rosentreter's extra point, the game was deadlocked at 14-14.

After neither team hit pay dirt in the fourth quarter, the contest went into overtime.

Heading into the extra stanza, Bush said he felt confident, despite his squad's numerous mistakes.

"I felt like we had shot ourselves in the foot, more than anything," he said. "I thought we had moved the ball well."

In overtime, Chelsea was unable to score a touchdown, instead settling for a Rosentreter 21-yard field goal. With the kick, the Dawgs led 17-14.

If Chelsea could hold the Indians from scoring, the game would be over, and the Bulldogs SEC White champions.

It wasn't meant to be, however, as Corey scored on a 5-yard run, ending the game at 20-17.

Bush said the loss to the Indians was a difficult pill to swallow.

"Against Adrian (37-31 loss), I felt they were the bet-

Bulldog soccer shuts out Lincoln

By Don Richter

Chelsea's boys' soccer team blanked Southeastern Conference White Division foe Ypsilanti Lincoln 5-0 last Thursday.

Leading the Division II state-ranked Bulldogs (11-2-3) was Bryan Hayes, who scored two goals and had two assists.

Chelsea jumped all over the visiting Railsplitters, scoring three unanswered goals in the first half.

The Bulldogs added two additional goals in the second half for the final margin.

Besides Hayes, scoring goals for Chelsea were Quinn Branson, Mark Tapping and Jason Medeiros.

Recording an assist was Ken Davis.

"We dominated from start to finish," said Chelsea coach Chad Scaling. "We definitely dictated play."

In net, Bulldog keeper Ben Sporer recorded the shutout. The goose egg was Sporer's second of the season. As a team, Chelsea has eight shutouts this year.

On Oct. 8, the Bulldogs lost to Division I No. 6-ranked Ann Arbor Pioneer 4-0. The setback broke Chelsea's 12-game unbeaten streak.

"That was a bad game for us," Scaling said.

Early in the contest, it appeared the Bulldogs would score first.

Twelve minutes into the game, Davis ripped a shot that beat the Pioneer keeper, but was blocked by a defender. Hayes kicked the subsequent rebound over the crossbar.

After the Bulldog near miss, the contest went back and forth until Ann Arbor broke the stalemate, scoring with 27 minutes left in the first half.

Five minutes later, the Pioneers added a second goal off a Chelsea defensive miscue.

"That took our enthusiasm away," Scaling said.

In the second half, Pioneer added two late goals for the final margin.

The Bulldogs next travel to Tecumseh for a game 5:30 p.m. today.

On Tuesday, Chelsea opens state tournament district play, hosting county rival Dexter at 4:30 p.m.

If successful against the Dreadnaughts, the Bulldogs will travel to Tecumseh for a district semifinal contest 5 p.m. Oct. 24.

The district final is 11 a.m. Oct. 26 at Tecumseh.

Chelsea netters fourth at regionals

By Don Richter

Chelsea's girls' tennis team finished fourth at last Friday's Division II regional hosted by Farmington.

The Bulldogs ended the competition with 12 points.

To advance to the state finals, Chelsea needed to accumulate at least 18 points or place second.

Winning the regional was North Farmington. Placing second was the host Falcons.

The Bulldogs were participating in Division II for the first time since competing in Division III last season.

"I liked the higher competition," said Chelsea coach Jill Critz. "I think it's good for the girls to know there's another level of tennis."

Despite the increase in competition, Chelsea more than held its own.

In fact, Bulldog freshmen Ariel Scheppers and Jackie Daane finished first at No. 3 doubles. The Chelsea duo entered the regional unknown and unseeded.

"I was surprised they were unseeded," Critz said. "I told the girls their performance on the court would get them noticed."

The Bulldog twosome won four straight matches without dropping a set to capture the No. 3 flight.

Besides Scheppers and Daane, Chelsea received other fine performances.

In singles, Lindsay Tye lost in the semifinals at the No. 3 flight for the Bulldogs.

At No. 4 singles, senior Jenny Parker also fell in the semifinals for Chelsea.

"Jenny lost, but it was the best tennis she's played all year," Critz said. "She was fun to watch."

In doubles, Cynthia Johnson and Nancy LaDuke fell in the semifinals in the No. 1 flight.

Bulldogs Anna Marie Cooper and Stacia Morrison advanced to the semifinals before losing at No. 2 doubles.

With last Friday's regional, Critz concluded her first season at Chelsea. She had previously coached many years at Lake Orion.

"I thought it was a very successful year," she said. "This was a nice group of girls to work with."

On Oct. 9, the Bulldogs defeated Howell in a dual match 8-0.

In singles play, Chelsea's Kirra Sheremet beat the Highlanders Sam Monday 6-0, 6-2 in the No. 1 flight.

At No. 2 singles, Lindsay Parker blanked Howell's Erin Shaw 6-0, 6-0.

At No. 3 singles, Tye defeated Hillary Sterns 6-0, 6-4.

Jenny Parker, at No. 4 singles, prevailed over Dorothy Eshelman 6-3, 6-0.

In doubles, Johnson and Chamberliners second in golf tourney

Last Friday, the Bulldogs, with a score of 321, placed fourth in regional competition at Gateway Golf Course in Romulus.

To qualify for the state final, Chelsea needed to finish in the top three.

"This was a disappointment for the kids. We thought this might be the year for them," said coach Ken Scaling.

The Bulldogs' 37-point total was a season high. In the consolation tournament, Chamberlin and Johnson paced the Bulldogs, each shooting a 77. Both golfers missed the state finals by one stroke. The top five individual scores advance to the state match.

Chamberlin finished with an 81, while Brett Common and David Hardcastle both recorded an 86.

On Oct. 9, Chelsea finished fourth at a SEC quad.

The Bulldogs bested the field with 58 points.

Finishing second in the 14-team meet was Marshall with 96 points. In third place was North Farmington with 124 points, while Orchard Lake St. Mary's was fourth with 143 points.

"This was our fourth invitational win this year," said Chelsea coach Eric Swager. "(That's) the most ever for the boys' team."

Swager said the key to Chelsea's victory was its tight, pack running.

"That's valuable in a meet with many schools," he said.

David Fedele paced the Bulldogs individually, finishing seventh with a time of 17:20.

Trevor Bach ended up ninth, with a clocking of 17:25, while James McKenzie was 12th with a 17:29.

Kyle Brown crossed the line in 15th place with a time of 17:35, while Andre Bravo was 17th with a 17:37, Dan Lewis was 23rd in 17:50 and Max Wineland was 32nd in 18:19.

JV football wins league

Chelsea's JV football team defeated Tecumseh 37-14 last Thursday. With their victory, the host Bulldogs captured the Southeastern Conference White Division championship.

Chelsea (6-1, 3-0) was led by running back Justin Esch, who, despite being sick, scored three touchdowns and rushed for 93 yards on seven carries.

"This is a great win for us because we overcame an injury to (Brian) Seyferth in the third quarter and we made big plays on both sides of the ball," said Chelsea coach Chris Orlandi.

The Bulldogs scored first on an Esch 37-yard run in the opening quarter.

By the break, Chelsea increased its advantage to 20-6 as receiver Spencer Daniels caught a 29-yard scoring pass from quarterback Bryan Dunn with six seconds left in the first half. Prior to the Daniels-Dunn hook-up, Esch scored touchdown No. 2 on a 40-yard punt return.

In the third quarter, Rabbit, who kicked four extra points, booted a 23-yard field goal, giving the Bulldogs a 23-6 lead.

"That was a big play because it put us up by three scores, and the drive took a ton of time off the clock," Orlandi said.

Prior to Rabbitt's field goal, Seyferth forced a Tecumseh turnover on a quarterback sack at the Bulldogs' 12-yard line. Eric Mathis recovered the subsequent fumble.

In the fourth quarter, Chelsea continued to pound the ball.

Esch hit pay dirt for the third time on a 41-yard sprint, while running back Sean Bergman finished off the Indians with a 15-yard TD scamper.

Rabbitt ended the game with 82 yards rushing on 14 attempts, while Seyferth had 48 yards on 12 carries and Bergman 18 yards on four tries for the Bulldogs.

Dunn finished 13-of-20 for 95 yards.

Tight end Pat Brooks led the receiving corps with five catches for 33 yards. Esch had three receptions for 14 yards, while Daniels had two catches for 36 yards. Rabbitt had two receptions for six yards and Mathis had one catch for six yards.

Defensively, Mathis paced the squad with 11 tackles, while, linebacker Aaron Parisho added nine stops, defensive end Josh Liebeck had eight tackles and linebacker co-captain Jason LaDuke recorded six stops for Chelsea.

Parisho also picked off a pass for the Bulldogs.

"The defense gave up some yardage, but forced some timely turnovers to keep Tecumseh off the board," Orlandi said. "We did a solid job of containing (the) quarterback."

"This team continues to improve each week. The players were happy to avenge their loss to Tecumseh as freshmen."

Orlandi said offensive linemen co-captain Chris Knight, Steve Kolokithas, Nick Toth, Mike Ernst, Ryan Scott, Danny Bingel and tight end Brooks all played well for the Bulldogs.

Chelsea next hosts Temperance Bedford 7 p.m. today.

Bulldog frosh too much for Tecumseh

Chelsea's freshman football team defeated Tecumseh 28-20 last Thursday.

The host Bulldogs (4-3) dominated the first half, breaking out to a 28-0 lead.

"We talked all week about playing with a focus from the opening kickoff," said Chelsea coach Dennis Strzyzewski. "The kids did a great job of coming out hard and maintaining their intensity in the first half."

Zach Gregory led Chelsea offensively, rushing for more than 100 yards and scoring on a 2-yard touchdown dive.

Robbie Moffett added a 12-yard touchdown run, while teammate C.J. Cogswell scored on a 7-yard burst.

To open the game, quarterback Joe Welton passed to Michael Hamilton for a 62-yard touchdown reception.

Defensively, Cameron Hawkins, with 10 tackles, and Adam Gerstler, with eight stops, led the Bulldogs.

Defense leads Chelsea hoopsters

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

Tecumseh's head is still on a swivel.

In the basketball rulebook, it states that no more than five players from each team may participate in a game at any one moment.

After last Thursday's 56-33, loss to Chelsea, the Indians might be questioning that rule.

With the Bulldogs' constant pressure defense, Tecumseh must have felt as if it were competing against six or seven players, instead of five.

Under persistent defensive heat all night, the Indians committed 28 turnovers.

Those miscues helped visiting Chelsea improve its overall record to 9-3. In the Southeastern Conference White Division, the Bulldogs remain unbeaten at 3-0.

While buzzing around Tecumseh defensively like a horde of locusts, Chelsea also found the energy to execute offensively.

Senior forward Anna Arend and freshman forward Emily Woodruff paced the Bulldogs' attack, each scoring 13 points. Woodruff also recorded four assists.

Senior forward Courtney Bentley scored six points and had four steals.

Junior guard Ashley

VILLAGE OF CHELSEA SPECIAL COUNCIL MEETING - SEPTEMBER 17, 2002

VILLAGE OFFICES, 305 S. MAIN ST., LOWER LEVEL

Present: President Steele, Village Manager Myers, Village Clerk Branson Trustees Present: Trustees Albertson, Holmes, Myles, Ortring, Ritter, Schumann
Absent: None
Others Present: Rob Winans, Biff Weber, Ric Sauer, Chris Linfield, Pam & Bill Conn, Dick Bruno, Jane Diesing, Lynne Falst, Sheridan Springer, Paul Higgins, Mark Heydlauff, George Palmer

President Steele called the meeting to order at 6:30 p.m.

Motion by Ritter seconded by Ortring to approve the Regular Agenda. All Ayes. Motion carried. (Trustee Myles had not arrived at this point)

Motion by Ritter seconded by Schumann that Council not accept payment for meeting tonight, but Clerk to receive comp time. All Ayes. Motion carried. (Trustee Myles had not arrived at this point)

Communications to Council
The following information was laid out on the table: Fax dated September 17, 2002 from Tim Ard to Karl Grant, Project Schedule Chart dated 7/25/02, Progress Meeting minutes from 9/5/02 and 9/12/02 meetings, letter dated 2/6/02 from Tetra Tech to Village Manager Myers re: recommendation of contractor, memo dated 9/18/02 from Tim Ard to Mike Harvey.

Mr. Ritter suggested Stanley Burke be contacted in regards to the search for Village attorney.

Unfinished Business
President Steele stated the purpose of the meeting was to discuss the watermain project. Mike Harvey of Tetra Tech said the schedule that was received was out of date and TCI was sent a letter stating that no payments to them would be made until a revised accurate schedule is received.

Trustee Ortring said that she has been attending progress meetings at 9:00 a.m. that last for about 2-5 minutes every morning. She pointed out the dates of completion of certain items that the contractor agreed to on September 12th: asphalt Main Street to railroad, intersections with Main St. and Lincoln Street and repair sidewalks in Gigli's block by September 14th, set brick pavers September 16-20, complete Main Street to Vets Park by September 24th, and remove debris, sweep streets and sidewalks and re-stripe streets by September 30th. Trustee Ortring said this Council meeting was called to determine what would be done if the dates weren't met.

Discussion of the newsletter took place, especially the out of date information that it contains. The Village sends information to Susan Franklin at Tetra Tech, which she puts in the newsletter along with information pertaining to the watermain project and sends the newsletter to Jack Myers and Georgia Beaman for review. Trustee Ortring thought she was going to review the newsletter based on prior Council discussions, as did Trustee Myles, but no one ever contacted her. President Steele said he didn't realize that she was going to do this.

Discussion of the phone line took place and its lack of useful up-to-date information. Susan Franklin updates it weekly according to Mike Harvey. Trustee Ortring stated that she has offered to change the phone message daily based upon her 9:00 a.m. meetings, but no one has taken her up on her offer.

The contract requires that the Contractor does not have more than 600 feet of roadway and trench under construction at one time, but that requirement has not been enforced. Village Manager Myers gave permission to open Madison to get that narrow road completed. The contractor also wanted to open up Elm, but Mr. Myers told him no. Village Manager Myers said he allowed Madison, McKinley and Dewey to be started because he believed the work could be done and would avoid conflict with school starting and the traffic.

Trustee Ortring asked who is responsible for what. Tetra Tech has two individuals on the job site. They can not direct the contractor to do the work. They make sure the work is done properly and those two individuals are supervised by Tim Ard of Tetra Tech. Mike Harvey said Tetra Tech's responsibility is to insure that the workmanship meets quality standards.

Tetra Tech is the project manager and is the liaison between the contractor and the Village. Therefore, the Village staff and Council should go to Tetra Tech with issues. Village Manager Myers stated the contractor has until May 2002 to finish the project. Also, no one should be directing the contractor to get specific work done as that could be considered a change order.

Mike Harvey stated TCI's credentials checked out fine. Trustee Myles felt that Tetra Tech should have weeded out those who hadn't done this type of work before. Mr. Harvey explained that the Village accepted a loan from the state's DWRP program, which requires the Village to accept the low bidder or the Village must fund the difference. Bidding rules are very clear. A bid could be rejected based on personal poor experience with a company.

Mr. Harvey reviewed the memo from Tim Ard, dated 9/18/02, regarding possible remedies and consequences for Village of Chelsea Phase II work which includes: Terminate for Cause, Terminate for Convenience, Issue a Stop Work Order, Refuse to Make Payment, Restrict any Additional Work, Force the Contractor to work within the 600' Rule, Withhold Retainage, Liquidated Damages. (Memo attached as Appendix A).

Mr. Harvey stated that the contractor has been informed that until he produces a satisfactory and accurate schedule he won't be paid.

Trustee Ortring asked Mr. Harvey how he thought Tetra Tech was doing. Mr. Harvey said that there are things they have struggled with in this contract due to the contractor's performance. Village Manager Myers said he started to evaluate Tetra Tech 6-8 months ago. He has met with Tom Doran, president of the company and Mr. Myers said that he felt Tetra Tech has improved. He would rate their work as good, not excellent due to the spread of the construction. He realizes that the on-site people can not be everywhere at once. The evaluation of the company is continuing and a written evaluation will be completed.

Discussion of the contract ensued. Trustee Myles said the contract should have been written in a way to make the contractor work efficiently. President Steele stressed that the work needs to be coordinated, but not directed. Trustee Myles is concerned with Tim Ard's statement that the contractor has submitted 67 claims.

Trustee Ortring said dust control is not being done. Village Manager Myers said the Village has done some of the work such as bringing in brine trucks for dust control and watermain repair and the contractor has been backbilled.

Trustee Ortring said the communication is substandard, the Village is not getting their money's worth from Tetra Tech, the problem with contract is that there are no stop gaps, Tetra Tech should have held another community meeting. Council needs to think about these things when they approve bills. Trustee Schumann said that the Council shouldn't have to micromanage Tetra Tech or the TCI.

Biff Weber asked why these issues weren't discussed before the contract was approved. Communication with the businesses downtown was non-existent. 18 years ago stores were closed downtown and he is afraid this will happen again.

George Palmer said he heard nothing about the impact on citizens and merchants and said Village staff has not been present during construction.

Ric Sauer said the Chamber of Commerce has received numerous calls on dust, road closures, inaccurate signage, unclear directions and safety issues.

Mark Heydlauff said the contractor is working in a difficult situation. He feels the management of the project is a problem along with problems with traffic flow and the schedule. He feels Village employees disappear and asked why the Village couldn't clean up and repair lawns. There is no customer service. Dirt roads during the winter are unacceptable and the management of the contract by Tetra Tech and Village needs to be dealt with.

Paul Higgins said it is unacceptable to tear up every corner. The buck stops with the Village Council. The project should have been done in 3 or 4 sections.

Sheridan Springer said he received complaints from business people and they have been forwarded to Jack and taken care of. The DDA is concerned with the lack of cleanliness downtown and may take steps to have the buildings washed downtown. He has asked the CAFA to wash the streets and sidewalks, but he feels the Village should step up and help with debris, crushed barrels etc.

Rob Winans said when the contractors leave town such as on the weekend they should remove unnecessary barrels and inaccurate unnecessary signs.

Bill Conn agreed with all that was said and Pam Conn said the Village needs to get an accurate schedule.

Lynn Falst agrees. She said businesses survive on the 4th quarter, she is afraid they won't be able to pay their bills and asked if the Village could help coordinate a loan.

Jane Diesing supported all that was said. The problem started with the contract and it doesn't protect the Village, citizens or businesses.

Dick Bruno of TCI said he was just here to listen, but every barrel and sign that was put up was directed to be placed by Tetra Tech or the Police Department.

Trustee Ortring said the Village needs to take action. Trustee Myles said the Village needs to step it up. President Steele said that a coordinated schedule is needed. Pam Conn suggested bringing in TCI's owner to talk to him about what he can do to get this done.

Village Manager Myers recommends that no motion be made tonight. Once he gets a schedule, he will set up a work session. The meeting needs to include Karl Grant (TCI) and Tom Doran (Tetra Tech) to review the schedule and get firm dates.

Trustee Ortring said we are clear with the Village's roll with the contractor but questioned the Village's roll with Tetra Tech. Does the Village need to withhold payment to them? She wants to clearly understand what the Council can do with Tetra Tech and the contractor.

Mike Harvey was asked to come up with an action plan to address the concerns raised including lack of customer service. Trustee Myles asked to see that plan at the next Council meeting.

Trustee Ritter asked: when the Village would have a schedule. President Steele asked for the schedule by the first part of the week.

Village Manager Myers discussed MDOT's plans for next spring and summer to replace some storm sewer and mill and repave M-52, including narrowing of the road north of the railroad tracks. There will be a community meeting later.

Trustee Ortring said the Village needs to ask the School Board and DDA for feedback on how to improve performance by the Village for the next time around. Even though it isn't our project the Village needs to be proactive.

President Steele stated we are waiting for a revised schedule from TCI and Mike Harvey will determine if it is accurate. Concerns were raised that nothing will be done if the dates aren't met. Trustee Ortring reiterated that the Village would set up a meeting with Tom Doran and Karl Grant to firm up dates. October 6th is clean up the downtown date, which is the date the DDA is shooting for to wash the buildings.

Motion by Holmes seconded by Ritter to adjourn the meeting. All Ayes. Motion carried. Meeting adjourned at 9:00 p.m.

ter team that night," he said. "This game is hard to take because we feel like we were the better football team."

In the second half, Chelsea was called for eight penalties, while Tecumseh was flagged for none.

Despite the discrepancy in penalties in the second half, Bush refused to make excuses.

"If you allow the game to remain close, and then you don't get the breaks, you set yourself up to lose," he said. "There were some breaks that went their way. They played harder than we did. We learned a few lessons. We have to play hard every single play."

Bauer finished the night with 156 yards rushing on 33 carries.

Corey ended the game with 128 yards on 32 attempts for Tecumseh.

Chelsea junior quarterback George Royce, who replaced injured starter Jake Freeman, finished 6-of-13 passing for 71 yards.

Indian senior Anthony Sarjodal was 5-of-13 for 142 yards.

Bulldog senior receiver Matt Cunningham led the way with five catches for 47 yards, while senior tight end David Grabarkiewicz had three receptions for 30 yards.

Defensively, seniors defensive backs Joe Myers and Teddy Keilman intercepted passes for the Dawgs.

Chelsea out gained Tecumseh in total yardage 335 to 268.

At the beginning of the season, Bush said the Bulldogs' schedule was their toughest in years. He said this year's Chelsea team could be better than previous squads, but have a worse record. Bush said the Bulldogs have a bull's eye on their backs.

"Every game that we've played has been a battle," he said. "When you've had the success we've had, you're going to get every opponent's best shot."

"We're getting teams playing super hard against us. We're the big game on their schedule. Like (University of) Michigan gets everyone's best game, so do we."

Chelsea next travels to Temperance Bedford tomorrow for game at 7 p.m.

The Mules, though 4-3, are a strong team, said Bush.

"They're as good of a defensive team as we've seen," he said. "The key for us will be to get some points on the board early."

Bush said he's excited by the prospect of advancing to the Division III playoffs, once again, this year.

"We need one more win to get in the playoffs," he said.

"I told the guys that the last couple of years Division III has been stacked. This year, it isn't that bad. I told the guys that if we can get it together we could make a run."

VILLAGE OF CHELSEA REGULAR COUNCIL MEETING SEPTEMBER 24, 2002 WASHINGTON STREET EDUCATION CENTER

Present: President Steele, Village Manager Myers, Village Clerk Branson. Trustees Present: Trustees Albertson, Holmes, Myles, Ortring, Ritter and Schumann

Absent: None

Others Present: Jim Drolet, Art Stoll, Marilyn Mink, Ric Sauer, J. Aten, Gary Adams, Marvin Carlson, Gigi Batakis

President Steele called the meeting to order at 7:30 p.m.

Motion by Ritter seconded by Schumann to approve the Consent Agenda. Trustee Ortring questioned the payment to Building Authority Fund. Village Manager Myers explained that pertained to the transfer station. All Ayes: Motion carried.

Motion by Ortring seconded by Myles to approve the Regular Agenda with the addition of Proclamation of National Red Ribbon Week and replacement of DDA Board member under New Business and the addition of Progress Meeting Agenda Items under Old Business. All Ayes. Motion carried.

Audience Participation:
J. Aten, Madison Street resident, said she was concerned with the traffic on Madison Street.

Marilyn Mink, Washington Street resident, questioned the temporary paper signage in the windows at Vogel's & Foster's, which she said is in violation of the zoning ordinance. Trustee Albertson questioned the "open" flags hanging over the sidewalks on Middle Street. However, given the situation with construction, she questioned whether this was the time to address such things.

Gary Adams, Lima Township resident, read the proclamation designating October 23-31, 2002 as National Red Ribbon Week, which is a time to demonstrate commitment to a drug-free community and nation, and urged Council to join the Chelsea School District by adopting the proclamation.

Communications to Council:

President Steele brought to attention of Council the following correspondence: Chamber of Commerce minutes of 8/15/02, revised notice of work session on September 26, 2002, DDA minutes of 8/15/02, memo from Gary Adams regarding National Red Ribbon Week and proclamation, fax to Karl Grant re: dust control, letter from County Administrator Robert Guenzel re: Planning Advisory Board and reorganization of county departments, letters from Mike Rogers and EPA re: Huron River Watershed Initiative, minutes from Michigan Public Power Rate Payers Association, letter from DEQ re: Soil Erosion and Sedimentation Control Ordinance, letter from Reading, Etter & Lillich re: legal services inquiry, letter from Dept. of Transportation re: MDOT Crossing Closure Video Production, memo from Barbara Fredette re: fees charged by Tetra Tech, Progress Meeting Minutes of 9/19/02, Progress Meeting (9/12/02) Agenda Items, letter from Ann Feeney re: appointment of John Wyeth to DDA Board of Directors, CAFA Fee Schedule - Fire Inspection Services, letter from CATS re: Village of Chelsea's Support of CATS and CATS Financial Report.

Report from Council Committees:

Trustee Schumann asked that Council study the memo on the table from CATS requesting that $10,000 of AATA money in the Village budget be shifted to CATS, which will be discussed at the next Council meeting. He was unable to attend the last WATS meeting but he will report back to Council after the next one. He said he believes the primary thrust of WATS currently is transportation.

Trustee Ortring urged Council to study the CATS memo. If Council has any questions they should contact Trustee Schumann or her because Council needs to be prepared to make a decision at the next meeting. She also gave the update for the day on the watermain project based on her 9:00 a.m. meeting which included paving to be done on Main St. and Lincoln, continued installation of brick pavers, and the news that there were no plans to re-seed the lawn extensions until next spring as it is too late to plant grass.

Trustee Ritter said he wanted to know the average number of riders on the Dexter-Chelsea run per day and what the cost is to provide the service. He also said that according to our Village charter, the Village can't operate a bus system and asked what law allowed Chelsea to run a bus system outside of the Village.

Trustee Holmes asked if there were plans to run the CATS bus to other places such as Stockbridge or Manchester. He also questioned the statement that the contractor is not able to plant grass until spring.

Trustee Ritter reported on the Rec Council. Mr. Rohrer said there would be a committee meeting on October 1st. Interviews to hire an Interim Director were done without Trustee Ritter or Albertson present.

Trustee Albertson said she and Trustee Ritter told the Rec Council they wanted to be part of the hiring process, but it was done without them. Written policies and procedures on hiring are now being written.

Trustee Ritter discussed the Fee Schedule re: Fire Inspection Services and other CAFA matters. Chief Ellenwood said if the millage passes the Village won't give up their firehouse and equipment. He didn't think that CAFA would be opposed to paying the Village rent for the Middle St. fire hall. Proposed ordinances were discussed: currently the CAFA can inspect, but they must call in the state or MIOSHA to enforce, lack of clarification on home businesses and other definitions, how this would affect noncomplying businesses, $10.00 administrative fee per inspection is not customer friendly.

Reports from Village Offices:

Village Manager Myers advised Council that he was re-elected President of the Michigan Public Power Rate Payers Association. He was asked to sit on the Board of the Michigan Municipal Electrical Association, but declined. At the MML conference he was given good information on educating residents on the way government is run through a program called "Citizens Academy".

Village Clerk Branson said that the Charter Commission election will be held on Tuesday, January 21, 2003. She is currently waiting for filing requirements and deadline information from the County.

Jim Drolet, Planning & Zoning Administrator said the Planning Commission held two public hearings. The Planning Commission is recommending that the 40 acres of the Merkel property formerly zoned Lima Township AG-1, but currently unzoned, be zoned AG-1 and they also are recommending that parks be designated a special land use in the C-5 district.

Ann Feeney reported that the DDA is proposing to have the buildings washed downtown around the first weekend in October. They will require signed agreements from property owners.

Unfinished Business:

Mike Harvey of Tetra Tech gave Council an update on the watermain project: pavers 50% complete, sidewalk and curb complete, he believes that the contract allows planting of grass until mid-October, Lincoln and Main Streets to be paved by Friday, September 27th. He handed out his plan to address concerns regarding the watermain project and reviewed it with Council. The concerns listed were not getting work done per original schedule, downtown is a mess which impacts the businesses, residential areas are a mess which impacts residents, many streets are in various stages of construction and need to be completed, public information isn't adequate and is out of date, want to ensure that roads will not be left unpaved during the winter, dust control, and work isn't being well managed. (Handout attached as Appendix A)

Much discussion ensued. Trustee Ortring is concerned that there was no contingency plan when the Village allowed TCI to go outside of the contract and open up more than 600 feet. She believes the newsletter does more harm than good with outdated information and inappropriate articles. Mike Harvey will coordinate a meeting with Village Manager Myers, Georgia Beeman, Susan Franklin, and Trustees Ortring and Albertson to discuss the newsletter.

President Steele would like to see TCI work weekends and longer hours to get the job completed.

Trustee Ortring said she thought that Village Manager Myers was going to set up a meeting with Tom Doran of Tetra Tech and Karl Grant of TCI after the special council meeting and that has not been done. She said she wants a schedule. Also, other concerns not listed in the Tetra Tech handout are: schedule, signage, barrels, poor contract, holes left open for months, torn up lawn extensions. No action is taking place. Trustee Ortring stated she also asked at the special meeting that the Village immediately get feedback from the DDA and School Board so this process can be improved next time. There needs to be a method to communicate with parents and the bus garage.

Trustee Albertson said that there wasn't a good legal review of the contract and that the state should have looked at the contract. Trustee Ortring doesn't agree with the overall approach. Trustee Albertson said Council needs to deal with accountability, but the work needs to be done first. Trustee Ortring said the Village problems and Tetra Tech problems need to be corrected now. Trustee Myles said that Tetra Tech has done good work in the past and hates to see a previously good relationship erode over management of this project. Trustee Ortring disagreed with the statement regarding past work. Trustee Holmes said this discussion should continue in the presence of Village Manager Myers (Myers left the meeting earlier due to illness) as one of the issues raised is the lack of Village presence downtown.

New Business:

Motion by Holmes seconded by Schumann to accept Planning and Zoning Administrator Jim Drolet's recommendation and approve the Development Agreement for Creekside Court and authorize President Steele to sign the document. Brief discussion took place. In answer to Trustee Ortring's questions, the Village paid Mr. Flintoff to prepare the development agreement. The funds came from site plan review fees paid by the developer. The Letter of Credit has been posted. This is not the same CoC situation that happened in Chelsea Fairways. All Ayes. Motion carried. (Development Agreement attached as Appendix B)

Motion by Ortring seconded by Albertson to support the recommendation of Police Chief McDougall and place stop signs on Madison Street at A.D. Mayer Drive as soon as possible. All Ayes. Motion carried.

Motion by Ortring seconded by Albertson to approve the amendment to the Water Billing Adjustment Policy. All Ayes. Motion carried. (Amended Water Billing Adjustment Policy attached as Appendix C)

Motion by Ortring seconded by Albertson to cancel the Council Meeting scheduled for Christmas Eve. All Ayes. Motion carried.

Council discussed Mayor Exchange. The City of Farmington requested that the Village exchange with them. Trustee Ortring suggested Ithaca. No action was taken at this time.

Motion by Ritter seconded by Ortring to adopt the Proclamation designating October 23-31, 2002 as National Red Ribbon Week. All Ayes. Motion carried.

(Proclamation attached as Appendix D)
Motion by Ortring seconded by Albertson to follow the recommendation of the DDA Board of Directors and appoint John Wyeth of McKinley Properties to the DDA Board. All Ayes. Motion carried.

Teens are sometimes viewed unjustly

JENNY WRIGHT

THE WRIGHT THOUGHT

With the current population of the world more than six billion, there are bound to be differences of opinion, creativity and attitudes. What some of us may see as art, the rest of us see as obscene.

Concepts we may consider ideal can be seen as second-rate to others.

These days, however, disagreements such as these are being taken a little too far. Diversity is being classified into two groups: a kind that is understood and accepted, and the kind that people do not identify with, dismissing as strange.

This is common mostly in appearances, whether or not the accuser recognizes it.

Teen-agers seem to be the main target of discrimination. The "in-between" years of this age mark the point in a person's life when the most changes are made, and when a personality finally begins to take shape, which can lead adolescents to wild choices.

These decisions may be made from the heart, or simply to rebel against authority. In any case, a person's beliefs and attitudes are his or her own, belonging to no one else.

Prejudice toward teens is typically generated by older adults. Today's youth are dressing and putting things all over their bodies that baby boomers may have never dreamed of doing.

Take the way teens wear their hair, for instance. It's quite common to see a young male with his hair to his shoulders, and a female with her hair cropped closely to her head. Adults must think we have a severe case of confused gender identity.

However, it sometimes seems as if teens are being criticized and/or ignored for no good reason. Could it be because of our youth and supposed lack of experience or understanding? Or could it possibly be that we do not have the same physical standards as our elders did when they were our age?

Examples of this are common throughout high school, especially. Ben Sporer, a senior at Chelsea High School who has two earrings in his left ear and one in his right, has experienced bias firsthand.

In one case, a stranger made a snap judgment about his integrity based on his piercings.

Realistically, it's a general assumption that between two people, a person will approach the individual who most closely resembles him or her. But why the prejudice?

They say a book should never be judged by its cover, so why do we continue to judge based on outward appearances?

People today need to understand that there is no definition of "normal." We are humans, and we are bound to be different, especially considering the various age gaps.

I can stand up and tell myself that I am not normal — if there is such a label — and I am proud not to be. Why should I live up to another person's expectations?

As people, we are who we say we will be. If that takes a belief, a hairstyle, a piercing, a tattoo or clothing to prove, then so be it. Actions speak louder than words, and as teen-agers, we need all the volume we can get.

Policy restricts backpack use

By Elise Murphy

Special Writer

The carrying of backpacks was banned from the crowded halls at Chelsea High School at the start of the school year and will continue "forever," according to Principal Ron Mead.

The new rule was recommended by Mead, then-Assistant Principal Julie Deppner and Assistant Principal Shawn Lewis-Lakin last year and approved by the Chelsea Board of Education.

The student handbook now states that students may carry backpacks to and from school, but that they must be put in the student's locker during the school day. Small bags are allowed, however.

Student health was one reason for the decision. Administrators worried about the results of a study that indicated excessive use of backpacks by students is a major cause for back problems.

School safety was also a concern. Teachers wanted to prevent the carrying of contraband, "anything from the serious stuff down to the Skittles in the afternoon," Mead said.

Although Chelsea is a relatively safe area, Mead said every issue must be considered to keep students safe.

"To me, the most important issue is hall crowding," he said. "I know the kids pooh-poo it, but with backpacks, they're about twice as big," he said.

As the high school is already above its maximum student capacity, students complain that hallway crowding is quickly getting out of hand.

So how is the new rule working? "I think each day it's better and better," Mead said. "Kids have figured out that you can't go to your locker between every class... It's dispersing the kids and the halls are less crowded."

Beach Middle School is also enforcing a no-backpack policy this year for the same reasons.

Internships can turn into good jobs

By Renee Saunders

Heritage Newspapers

In an age when most things can be crunched into statistics and averages, experts find it tough to pin down which job is the hottest for the 18-to-35-year-old age group.

"That's a wide range of people," said Leonidas Murembya, labor market analyst for the state of Michigan.

"Jobs for the 18-to-22 age group would be different from recently graduated students, as old as 23, 24 and 25. Then, along with that, the type of job that you get, along with your income, will increase as you become more experienced."

According to the analyst, people who are either working on a degree or choose not to get one usually find jobs in retail.

"Those people generally get jobs that are temporary and require no skill, such as working at a grocery store or fast food," he said.

Though working in those areas isn't appealing for some, the average college student may very well need to depend on that type of employer — for more reasons than one.

"We get a lot of our job pool from the 16-to-25 age group," said Connie Molby, spokeswoman for Media Play. "Mostly because we sell games and music. That is what people that age are interested in."

Molby said the job also is appealing because they work with their employees.

"We offer competitive wages and we have flexible schedules," she said. "A lot of our workers are college students. A good number of them have second jobs, as well."

However, as students progress in school, they may become more eligible to work in their field of choice.

"Usually by their sophomore or junior year, students begin to find internships," said Patricia Jones, co-op adviser for the University of Michigan-Dearborn. "These students typically start off making close to $10 an hour, and they usually keep that internship until they graduate."

"When they get to that point — to where they are working as an intern — they are able to quit their retail or fast-food jobs and strictly work in their field."

Jones said that because of college internship programs, people cannot only be thoroughly trained in their field, but they also are helping the company that they work for.

Also, when the college student gets to that point, the internship literally takes the place of their previous, temporary job.

"When a student gets hired as an intern, they really do get hired," she said. "That person is doing work for a company and getting paid for it. They are employees."

In addition, because it is general knowledge in the workplace that the intern is still in school, the business that he or she is working for will definitely work around the student's class schedule, according to the adviser.

"This is generally how businesses recruit employees," she said.

"They have a student work for them, they teach them, and when the individual graduates, the business will usually hire them at a full-time level."

However, though both the analyst and the adviser agree that getting a college degree greatly enhances the chance at getting the job of choice, it is not always necessary for someone to get a college diploma.

Teens require more sleep

William Dement, director of Stanford's Sleep Disorders Center, this loss of sleep causes us to accumulate a "sleep deficit."

Consequences can include decreases in cognitive functioning and immunity to disease.

Sleep deficit also can lead to behavioral abnormalities, anxiety, daytime sleepiness, moodiness, hyperactivity, depression, especially in girls, and in extreme cases, car accidents and even death.

as the main causes. Many also blame television and other leisure-time activities. A few point to insomnia as the cause.

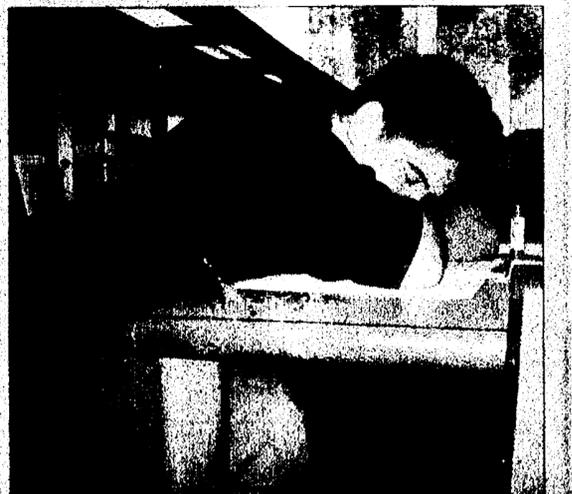

According to doctors, at about age 10, children's biological "circadian" rhythms change. Everyone is different, but most teens naturally feel awake later at night, making it difficult to go to sleep before 11 p.m.

Studies in Minneapolis show that delaying the start of the school day gives students more energy and a better performance, reducing the they get the least sleep during versus which season they contract the most illnesses, about 75 percent of students in the study point to the same season for both. To surmise, the less sleep they get, the more often they become sick.

When asked if they feel they need more sleep, Chelsea High School students answered with a resounding and nearly unanimous "yes."

Local man makes business out of glass

■ Lima Township's Otto Sorg is a glass artist and craftsman.

By Lisa Carolin
Special Writer

In a pole barn near a field just off Dexter-Chelsea Road in Lima Township, Otto Sorg is practicing an ancient craft.

The local resident is creating and restoring decorative and stained glass. His business is called The Glass Touch, and he can create just about any type of design.

A big part of his business is installing glass panels into existing doors. He also designs and builds glass for cabinet doors and free-hanging fixtures, and repairs and restores stained-glass pieces.

A native of Austria, Sorg came to the United States in 1952. His stepfather, a refugee from Yugoslavia, moved to Austria during World War II. The United States was accepting refugees, so after Sorg's mother remarried, the family moved. Sorg celebrated his 8th birthday on board ship as they traveled across the Atlantic Ocean.

The family settled in Pottstown, Pa., and Sorg grew up to become a computer analyst in the 1980s, an early pioneer in the computer industry. Three decades ago, he started taking courses on stained-glass making and has been practicing and reading up on the craft ever since.

"Glasswork is like artwork," he said. "It's tough to make a living at it and it takes years to break into it."

Sorg had his own electrical repair company in Pottstown and later in Canton. He repaired almost every type of electrical and electronic product. Now he does just a little bit of computer consultant work, devoting most of his time to the craft of stained-glass making.

Classical music fills Sorg's studio while he works. It's no surprise that he loves the theater, and has appeared in local productions of "The Sound of Music" and "Fiddler on the Roof."

While he has many interests, most of his free time is taken up with glasswork. He can spend up to 100 hours working on a panel. "You have to love it to do it, especially as a business," he said.

Sorg sees the front door as the focal point of a house, and he can custom-make any style of panel or transom to make it inviting. He also creates lamps, decorative mirrors and an assortment of art-deco style pieces.

Sorg does commercial and residential jobs. Through his work, he has noticed that many people moving into new homes are mixing antiques and modern designs.

Sorg likes to go to flea markets, especially in southeastern Pennsylvania, to shop for antiques, and add new metal work to 1940s glass.

Restoration is a big part of Sorg's work. He has to keep a huge stock of glass choices in his studio because matching it is the toughest part of repair work. He's done everything from restoring Victorian glass in an office building to restoring and repairing stained glass in church windows.

Sorg's house is located adjacent to the pole barn he works in on Wylie Road just off Dexter-Chelsea Road. He is doing restorative work in his own home, as well as working on plans to build a glass studio above his current space. Someday, he would like to teach classes.

Sorg has a showroom next to his studio that features examples of door panels, lamps and other glass works. His studio is a spacious area filled with patterns that he's drawn and special equipment, including a diamond-band saw to cut out glass pieces and a huge variety of colors and sizes of glass.

Sorg's wife, Linda, is an accountant. She does the bookkeeping and paperwork for the business. "She stays away from the glass, and I stay away from the bookwork," Sorg said.

In the future, this talented artist would like to get into glass blowing and glass melting, skills that he says take a long time to develop.

"I will never retire from doing glass work," he said. "I will do it until they put the last nail in the coffin!"

readers of all ages.

The "hockey primer," which explains and celebrates the popular sport, is authored by Matt Napier, the son of a former NHL player. He is a student at the University of Toronto, where he is studying English and philosophy, with the aim of teaching or furthering his studies in law.

Napier combines his love of hockey with reading and writing to encourage children to participate in sports and keep their minds in shape through reading.

The book is illustrated by Melanie Rose, a graduate of the Ontario College of Art. The English-native, who designed the 1992 Toronto International Film Festival poster, lives in Toronto.

LOVING HOMES NEEDED

PANSIE
Hello, everyone. I'm Pansie. I'm a very dainty, feminine feline. I'm about nine months, I believe. I'm not sure where I started life. Someone found me hiding somewhere and brought me to HSHV. I stayed there for awhile in an office, hiding, until I had a chance to go stay in the country at a nice foster home, where I've been about three months. Lester the Healing Cat is my mentor here. I think I might be ready to try a family of my own. I need a place that's quiet, where I'm not going to be chased around. I need humans with patience, who can let me gradually warm up to them and maybe help me with my fashions for a while.

NIKITA
Nikita is very much a lady, don't be intimidated by her size! She's not one for jumping and carrying on, but she will get talkative if she feels you're not giving her enough love and attention. Nikita came here to the shelter as a stray but has learned some lovely manners from whoever her previous owner was. She wouldn't think of pulling on a leash, and when offered a treat, she takes it gingerly from your hand, doesn't grab it from you like it's the last one she'll ever get. Nikita would be wonderful in a home where the children were over the age of eight.

BIG AL
Don't let Big Al's size fool you, he's just a puppy at heart. If you tell him he's not a lap dog, he'll be crushed, because snuggling is one of his things! Big Al is here at the shelter because his previous owners couldn't keep him any more. But they did tell us that Big Al is quiet smart. He knows how to fetch sticks and Frisbees, and he even responds to some hand signals. He sits and stays when you ask him, and even though he's very strong, he walks on the leash like a gentleman. Oh, and cookies. He loves cookies.

Miss Washtenaw County is a Miss America preliminary and the winner will represent the county at the Miss Michigan Pageant next June.

Sixteen young women will compete for a

O'Hara takes mission statement to heart

Like many other companies, its mission statement drives the success of O'Hara Chrysler.

Founded just 8 years ago by Bill O'Hara, the dealership and its more than 100 employees take treating customers "the way they want to be treated" to heart.

"We are Lenawee County's largest Chrysler dealership," says Julie O'Hara, general manager and sister to founder Bill O'Hara. "We're also a Chrysler 'Five Star' dealership, which is something we're pretty proud of."

Situated on the corner of M-52 and U.S. 12, just two miles west of Clinton, O'Hara sales representatives market virtually every Chrysler-Plymouth-Dodge-Jeep vehicle available, whether your tastes run to the sporty Dodge Intrepid, the speedy Viper, or the high-performance

"We also specialize in what we call the 'O'Hara Motorsports' vehicles," says O'Hara. That means that the dealership will "lift the truck add big-ger tires, dual exhausts" and the like to fashion a truck capable of handling a high rate of "off-road" driving.

"It's really unique to O'Hara," she says.

The arrival of fall also has brought some special deals from Chrysler.

"There has never been a better time to buy," says O'Hara. "Right now, we have new warranties on new cars and trucks—a 70,000-mile power train warranty and zero percent financing for 60 months."

O'Hara has been tops in the customer service area as well.

"We are one of the highest rated dealerships nationally," says O'Hara. "I think that speaks highly of our dedication to our customers."

O'Hara Chrysler Plymouth Dodge Jeep is open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday. Extended hours on Mondays and Thursdays are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., and on Saturdays, the dealership is open from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. For more information, contact O'Hara at (800) 449-5337 or locally at (517) 456-6555.
