Township's fire budget jumps

■ Board holds off approving new contract.

By Kent Ashton Walton
Special Writer

Dexter Township is looking at a 24.3 percent increase in what it pays the Dexter Area Fire Department, with the township's total fire budget now topping $200,000.

Dexter Fire Chief Loren Yates met with the Township Board Dec. 17 to explain the $34,228 hike, from $140,591 to $174,819.

Township Clerk Harley Rider said the total fire budget, which also includes payments to Chelsea Area Fire Authority and Putnam Fire Department, is now $216,100.

The township was only expecting a $8,509 increase over last year's budget for Dexter, he said.

Yates said the Dexter Area Fire Board met Dec. 12, but did not adopt its fiscal year 2003-04 payroll budget of $350,000, up $94,000 from last year. He said there was a 4-3 vote in favor, but five were required to pass it. Two members of the nine-member board were absent.

Yates said the budget increases are due in part to increases in calls for service, as well as an increase in insurance costs, which are up $76,000. Yates said he has cut about $3,000 from the fire department budget.

Yates recognized that Dexter Township is suffering hard times, too, with a loss in state revenue sharing. Rider said the township was counting on $404,388 from the state, but will only receive

Church group will donate funds

The Ladies of St. Mary Catholic Church's bazaar and raffle last month raised funds for several local organizations.

The group will donate $1,000 to St. Mary Catholic Church in Chelsea to reduce the parish debt; $1,000 to Faith In Action; up to $1,000 to the St. Mary Youth Group to carpet the youth room; $500 to the St. Louis Center in Sylvan Township; and $500 to The Pious Union of St. Joseph.

Bea Beissel won the raffle for an original winter scene painting by local artist Flo Collins.

Friends of Chelsea Library give books

The Friends of Chelsea District Library donated nearly $500 worth of reference books to the library's collection.

Mitch Planck, the group's secretary, presented the books to Tina Diab, Youth Services librarian, in November.

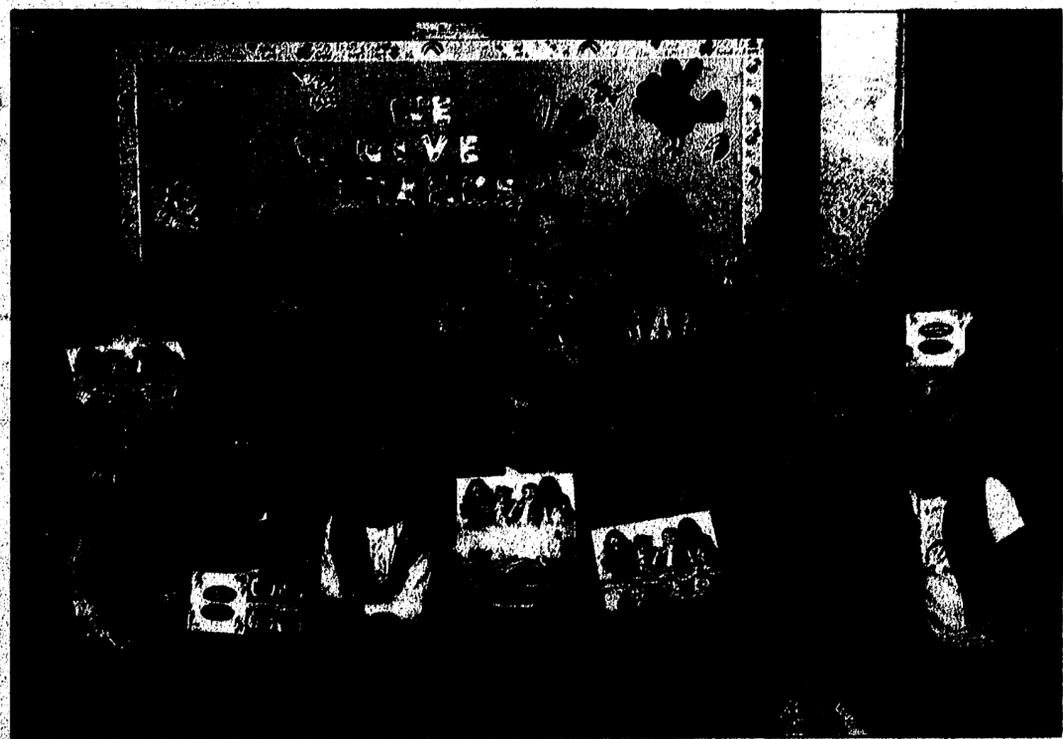

The donation was evenly split between adult and youth collections.

For information call 475-8732.

Chelsea schools to get defibrillators

The American Red Cross Washtenaw County Chapter has been awarded a $10,500 grant from the Chelsea Community Foundation for the purchase of three automated external defibrillators for Chelsea schools.

The cookie sale campaign kicked off Dec. 19 with orders taken through Jan. 19. Booths will be set up at Polly's Feb. 8 through March 2. The girls will deliver cookies Feb. 15 through March 1. Boxes of cookies cost $3 each and funds are used for camping trips, field trips, service projects and service unit functions.

School district balances budget

■ Two sources of state revenue result in additional funding.

By Sheila Pursglove
Associate Editor

An increase in Chelsea's student enrollment this year has saved the school district from running in the red.

Teresa Zigman, executive director of business and operations for the Chelsea School District, delivered the good news to the school board Dec. 16.

While the preliminary budget for the 2002-03 year showed the school district in a deficit position, in the final analysis the district has been able to adopt a balanced budget, she said.

"This was mainly due to the fact that the district did not actually experience the drop in student enrollment that was anticipated," Zigman said. "This generated an

Fifth-graders to take Web test

■ Pilot program will start in late January.

By Sheila Pursglove
Associate Editor

Chelsea fifth-graders will soon have the help of a mouse for reading and math tests.

Chelsea will join the 10 other school districts comprising the Washtenaw Intermediate School District in the Performance Series pilot program, said Shawn Lewis-Lakin, director of performance for the Chelsea School District.

Approximately 5,000 youngsters in Washtenaw County will take part in the program, scheduled to start in late January.

The WISD will pick up the $81,000 tab for the program. The contract with Scantron, the company offering the test, will also pay for technical set-up and per-pupil testing fee.

The WISD is also considering funding online tests for about 7,000 third-, sixth- and ninth-graders if school districts show interest.

With the online testing, teachers will have instant, comprehensive feedback to help them gauge a child's strengths and weaknesses, a big advantage over the Michigan Educational Assessment Program, where test results take several months.

However, the Performance Series tests will not replace the MEAP tests.

Lewis-Lakin said fifth-grade teachers will be trained by the WISD before using the online tests with pupils to assess reading and math achievement.

Each Performance Series test takes 15 minutes for an entire class. Since schools will use two tests, in math and reading, the entire testing period would last about half an hour.

Lewis-Lakin said the district is in the process of reviewing its K-12 assessment plan in light of the "Education YES!" and "No Child Left Behind" mandates.

"We anticipate that in our final plan we will have online tests as part of our overall balanced K-12 strategy," Lewis-Lakin said. "However, nothing is official yet."

As of press time Friday, four young people injured Dec. 12 in a head-on collision at M-52 and Clarks Lake Road remained hospitalized at the University of Michigan Medical Center.

Trevor Reed, 16, of Grass Lake was driving northbound with Robyn Bailey and Erika Cote, both 15, and Robyn's brother, James Bailey, 21, a 2000 Chelsea High School graduate.

Reed, who was apparently going into Green Lake campground, turned his 1989 Chevrolet Caprice directly into the path of a 2002 GMC Envoy driven by Joe Delaney of Pleasant Lake.

Delaney was injured and his wife, Robin, 29, was killed. The couple was en route to a party at Hatch Stamping Co. in Chelsea.

Reed, a junior at Chelsea Alternative High School, may face criminal charges. Michigan State Police are conducting an investigation before sending their findings to the prosecuting attorney's office, said Lt. Beth Moranty, commander of the Ypsilanti post.

On Friday, James Bailey, Reed and Cote, a sophomore at Chelsea High School, were all listed in good condition.

Robyn Bailey, a sophomore at Chelsea Alternative High School, was in critical condition.

Cassidy Lake to get municipal water

■ Tentative agreement reached with Lyndon Township.

By Michael Rybka
Special Writer

A tentative contract from the state allowing the Cassidy Lake Technical School to use the Sylvan Township Water and Sewer Authority for municipal services got Lyndon Township's approval Dec. 10.

Two other special meetings with governing boards will be called before an agreement is finalized.

The board adopted the contract and appointed future signatories after minor amendments were made to the document's language.

The changes were accepted at special meetings of the Sylvan Township Water and Sewer Authority Board Friday and the Sylvan Township Board Monday.

The contract is relevant to both townships because the municipal sewer is a joint project. The authority board is pivotal as the controller and maintainer of the system.

Both townships have relied on the correctional institute's contract to proceed with their respective sewer projects at the lakes. The yearlong wait has prevented Lyndon Township from convening public hearings for special assessment districts.

The Cassidy Lake facility is assessed at 150 residential equivalency units. It will have six years to pay an estimated $2.145 million for the initial hook-up.

The estimate is based on the facility's current usage and it will be metered for two years to determine if it exceeds or falls short of the estimate.

The authority made allowance for an additional 70 REUs to be set aside for the institute's future use.

Board Chairman Gerald Dresselhouse set the terms of the contracts and served as an adviser at Lyndon Township's special meeting.

Lyndon Township planners rescind zoning ordinance

■ Land use disputes can now go directly to circuit court.

By Michael Rybka
Special Writer

The Lyndon Township Planning Commission has rescinded an ordinance adopted Sept. 12 that mandates land-use disputes go before the Zoning Board of Appeals before reaching the Circuit Court.

The repeal was made Dec. 12 at a special meeting of the commission and Township Board.

Township officials were given an opportunity to revisit the issue when copies of the new zoning ordinance inadvertently omitted the new law.

At that time, Planning Commission Chairman Jay Hopkins, against the advice of two township attorneys, successfully lobbied for residents to appeal to the ZBA first in the interest of local control.

Hopkins said at the joint meeting that he began to have second thoughts about the decision when it occurred to him that the rights of residents were being impeded.

Hopkins also said a ZBA appeal costs $400 without a guarantee that the issue won't end up in court anyway. Zoning Officer Merritt Honbaum said reversing the decision would undermine the commission's work.

A vote to rescind passed 4-2, with Michael Grambau and Gerald Nelson dissenting and Robert Mester absent.

In other business, property formerly owned by Rodney and Janis Knieper on M-52 and sold to the township for a future township hall was granted the right to go through the rezoning process.

The next step will be a public hearing to determine if there are any objections to rezoning the land from rural residential to municipal use.

Hopkins said it's the first rezoning request to come before the commission in 20 years.

Also last week, the commission discussed whether to update the township's master plan. Hopkins said the plan dates from September 1997 and it's customary to review it every five years.

He said the master plan may not necessarily need changes, but should be looked at.

Township Supervisor Maryann Noah recommended that the document stress the township's rural nature and how its topography fits in from a regional planning perspective.

In other news, Commissioner Leon Moore, who works for Washtenaw County, said the county is on the verge of buying land in the township for parks and recreation.

Also last week, Hopkins put commissioners on alert that they should give thought to his replacement as chairman. He said he would not be able to attend as many meetings as he has in the past and will be stepping down from the helm as a result.

CONFRONTING DENIAL

There may be times when a plaintiff in a personal injury case is confronted with the insistence by the defendant's insurance company that the accident in question is not covered by their client's policy, although it does not dispute that its insured caused the accident. At this point, the plaintiff's attorney will want to conduct a careful reading of the insurance policy in question. Most insurance policy provisions can be interpreted in several ways, and the courts usually interpret them so that injured people are covered. If the defendant's insurance company continues to deny coverage, an experienced personal injury lawyer faces the task of compelling the insurance company to provide the coverage it has been paid to provide.

Going toe to toe with an insurance company and their staff of in-house lawyers and policy specialists is no job for an amateur! If you are having difficulty with a claim involving personal injury or material loss, call the LAW OFFICES OF KITCHEN & STRINGER, J.D., at 426-4695 to schedule a private consultation, free of charge. You'll find our offices conveniently located in Dexter, at 3249 Broad Street. We also accept cases involving business and corporate law, real estate, estate probate, family law, and medical and veterinary malpractice.

HINT! Most personal injury cases are conducted on a contingency fee arrangement in which the plaintiff pays his or her lawyer nothing (other than court costs) in the event of losing the case.

Chelsea Helpline gets a hand

■ Calls go directly to U of M crisis line.

By Sheila Pursglove
Associate Editor

The Chelsea Helpline crisis number is now answered by University of Michigan Psychiatric Emergency Services, Helpline board member William Chandler said Friday.

The Helpline crisis phone line was previously answered by SOS Community Crisis Center in Ypsilanti. But because of funding problems, SOS stopped its crisis phone service Dec. 13. Calls to 475-0111 were forwarded to an answering machine with a menu of phone numbers for specific needs.

However, Chandler said that a check on Dec. 17 revealed that the SOS number was not being answered because of technical problems with the phone lines. Staff from the U of M Psychiatric Emergency Services met with Helpline trustees Dec. 18. Board members decided that in light of the problems with SOS, the Helpline should make an immediate changeover to the U of M.

The Helpline board will meet in early January to decide whether to continue with this service or seek another provider.

Arts Center receives $500 grant

■ Money will help fund artist residency and public artwork.

By Sheila Pursglove
Associate Editor

The Chelsea Center for the Development of the Arts was one of 27 organizations to receive a $500 grant recently from the Michigan Association of Community Arts Agencies.

CCDA Director Ginger

Sissom, who worked with local artist Lorin Kummer to submit an idea paper for the grant, said the money will fund planning of a larger grant for $10,000 to $20,000.

"The grant is a big success for us. Over 76 idea papers were submitted and only 27 planning grants were awarded statewide," Sissom said.

"The grant is a community partnership grant, so it will involve many organizations and, in turn, many people."

Sissom said the money will fund an artist residency at the CCDA and a public art installation.

"Everything right now is just in the planning stage," she said. "The idea paper has to evolve into a formal grant proposal with solid community partners by March 1, so we have a lot of work to do in the next two months."

"If we receive the larger grant, the actual art work would be done in the summer."

Sissom said the art project will be a tool for healing in a community burdened by tragic loss.

The concept is for a large-scale glass and mortar mosaic spiral pathway in a local park, based on community-shared expressions, thoughts and remembrances of lost loved ones, she said.

Lyndon board OKs fire department funding

■ Township wants to see road maintenance associations.

By Michael Rybka
Special Writer

The Lyndon Township Board met for a special meeting Dec. 16 to consider fire authority funding, private roads and a sewer disposal ordinance.

The board supported a budget request submitted by the Chelsea Area Fire Authority that asked for a 10.24 percent increase from the previous year.

The resolution allows Supervisor Maryann Noah, the township's fire authority representative, to vote in favor of the budget knowing that she has the full backing of the Township Board.

Noah said the budget's projections were based on the number of runs within the township this past year. Noah said the funding method will remain in effect until voters pass a fire and safety millage in the future. She hopes the request will appear on the ballot in the spring.

Township residents currently pay 1.45 mills for public safety through special assessments.

The state, which owns 52 percent of the land in the township, is exempt from special assessments. Noah said it would not be exempt from a millage.

Treasurer Ellen McMurray questioned why the cost of public utilities increased 59 percent, but Noah couldn't provide a concrete answer. She thinks it may be because Chelsea Village now charges for water usage.

Although some local officials have expressed reservations about the fire department's budget, Noah said she stands behind it. "It is what it is, not what we would like it to be," she said. "It's still the one of the biggest bargains being offered to us."

The board also discussed public safety issues as related to the private road variances granted to John Francis, and Nicholas and Christine Daley for home improvements on South Lake Drive.

Because the majority of private roads in the township do not meet the safety standards established by the ordinance 25 years ago, all road construction requires a public hearing for a variance.

Officials say variances are used as leverage to persuade applicants to make improvements on private roads from their property line to the nearest public road.

Trustee Kathryn Francis said and the Daleys were asked to install a "dead-end road" sign, remove a stump in the right-of-way, trim an overhanging limb and erect a sign listing the direction of the addresses where the road splits.

Francis and LeeAnn Shanahan abstained from the vote.

Although the township is only required to notify residents within 300 feet of an applicant's property for the purpose of a public hearing, the township invited everyone who uses South Lake Drive.

This gave Noah the opportunity to inform the dozen residents in attendance of the township's goals in approving private roads. She said most of the private roads in the township were platted before World War II and were not engineered for today's fire trucks, larger automobiles and yearlong residences.

Noah said it's the board's responsibility to be concerned with its community's health, safety and welfare. She urged South Lake Drive residents, as well as others living on private drives, to form a road maintenance association.

Noah distributed a booklet composed by Attorney Peter Flintoft to help them in forming an association. The booklet includes the history of private roads in the township that explains why new ones are no longer allowed, model by-laws and other various legal documents.

Noah said that private road maintenance associations will lead to improved access for safety vehicles, lower the insurance risk and secure property lines.

She said each road will be assessed by different standards to be designated "approved." After getting approval, permits can be issued without spending $450 on a public hearing.

In another matter, the board approved a disposal ordinance in conjunction with the Sylvan Township Water and Sewer Authority. The ordinance is modeled after one used by the Multi-Lakes Sewer Authority in Dexter Township.

CHELSEA FIRE REPORT

Dec. 17
• Firefighters responded to a car crash at Dexter-Chelsea and Fletcher roads in Lima Township. There were no injuries.

• Firefighters answered a medical call in the 14000 block of Island Lake Road in Dexter Township. A person with chest pains was taken to the University of Michigan Medical Center.

• Firefighters were dispatched to a three-car rear-end crash at Main and South streets in Chelsea Village. One person was taken to Chelsea Community Hospital with neck, shoulder and back injuries.

Dec. 18
• Firefighters responded to a car-deer collision on Jackson Road between Lima Center and Fletcher roads. A car hit a deer, which in turn hit another car. The deer was killed but no one in either car was injured.

• Firefighters were called to the scene of a two-car collision at 8:45 p.m. A car with three girls ages 14 to 17 was turning south onto M-52 from North Territorial Road and was struck by a northbound car that was passing. The girls were taken to the University of Michigan Medical Center with neck, back and chest injuries, but were later released. Michigan State Police were also on the scene.

Dec. 19
• Firefighters were called to the 18000 block of Waterloo Road, where someone had fallen and lost consciousness.

• Firefighters were dispatched on a mutual-aid call to a house fire in Manchester, which turned out to be a controlled burn.

Dec. 20
• Firefighters covered the Stockbridge Fire Department while Stockbridge firefighters attended the funeral of retired Assistant Fire Chief Stan Fay.

Foundation hands out grants

The Chelsea Education Foundation is awarding $20,379 in grants this year.

Since its incorporation in 1990, the foundation has granted more than $150,000 in mini-grants to the Chelsea School District, as well as many community organizations.

Out of 28 grants requested this year, five were fully funded and 19 partially funded.

All three elementary schools received mini-grants totaling $1,200 for their talent development programs coordinated by Rebecca Chamberlain.

The elementary schools also benefited from a $1,000 grant to fund Chelsea Geography Week under organizer Kavitha Sitaram, as well as $750 and $375 for special education camps directed by teachers Tara Thorburn and Craig McCalla.

They also benefited from $500 for first-graders to learn about reptiles and $1,050 for fourth-graders to learn about the Underground Railroad through the talent development program.

North Creek Elementary School received $600 for teacher Luman Strong's marine biology trip to Bay City; and $447 for Strong's program on diversity. Principal Sharon Whitmore received $1,000 in mini-grants.

South Meadows Elementary School received $1,000 for teacher Beth Newman's special projects and a 50th anniversary project of South Meadows; $100 for teacher Marcia Quilter's program called Book Cooks; and $650 for media specialist Barbara Locks' accelerated reader program.

Beach Middle School received a $1,000 grant for "Kindergarten Stories" for sixth-graders and kindergartners; $600 for sixth-grade camp; $2,000 for the "Everyone Reads at the Beach" program; $250 for the program Parents Reading/Students Learn; and $1,000 for the Beach Study Club.

Beach Middle School and Chelsea High School received $300 for an artist in residence program, and Chelsea High School received $750 for a guest speaker to talk to the Students Against Destructive Decisions organization.

A check for $507 will fund teacher Kathryn McCalla's biographies project involving Beach Middle School pupils and residents at the Chelsea Retirement Community.

Chelsea Music Boosters received $2,500 for the program Music Beyond High School.

The Chelsea Education Foundation is a nonprofit, tax-exempt organization supported by contributions from individuals and businesses. Donations may be sent to P.O. Box 295, Chelsea, MI 48118.

BUDGET

$393,846, a loss of almost $11,000 for the fiscal year 2003-04.

Yates said calls to the fire department are increasing each year as the population grows. He said there is a need for two additional full-time firefighters. Currently, the fire department employs four full-time firefighters, plus the chief and 33 paid-on-call firefighters.

The fire department budgeted $115,000 for paid-on-call firefighters in fiscal year 2002-03. The cost has risen to $119,963, and is projected to be $130,000 for the 2002-03, an increase of more than $10,000.

Yates, however, decided to slash it to $70,000. He said too many paid-on-call firefighters have been showing up at the scene and they all get paid. So, instead, he has proposed employing additional full-time personnel to replace some of the volunteers in hopes of stabilizing the services.

The Dexter Area Fire Department serves Dexter Village, and Webster, Lima and Dexter townships, and covers more than 70 square miles.

Rider said the township budgeted $149,100 for Dexter Area Fire Department, $22,000 for Putnam Township Fire Department and $45,000 for the Chelsea Area Fire Authority.

Township Supervisor Pat Kelly said a recently formed

Public Safety Committee in Dexter Township will be looking into the question of fire coverage for the township and whether the township should be served by three different fire departments.

The board will discuss the fire budget again Jan. 21. The Dexter Area Fire Department will reconsider its budget Jan. 23.

SCHOOL

additional $400,000 in revenues.

"In addition, we received a significant catch-up payment for special education for reimbursement of costs paid in the 2001-02 year."

Zigman said the same payment will not be made in 2003-04 school year because the state took care of the lag in reimbursement for future years in this year's payment.

She said that as a result of these two revenue sources, the school district is able to include additional money in the budget for curriculum purchases and maintain a balanced budget.

Zigman said the future does not look promising in the area of finances, not only for Chelsea but for school districts across the state.

"The state has already informed us that our student foundation grant will be frozen at the current level for the 2003-04 year and maybe even the 2004-05 year," she said.

"This is the main source, approximately 90 percent of our revenues. With increases in revenue frozen and no control over some of our cost increases, such as retirement, insurance and utilities, the district is going to have to take a hard look at everything that is offered."

Zigman said that although the school district has a fund equity to cushion the effects of these budget impacts, without any changes to the state's freeze on foundation allowances, the equity could completely disappear in two years.

HOW WAS YOUR CHRISTMAS?
Dear Friends and Neighbors,
We often ask each other, "How was your Christmas?" With that question we acknowledge that our outward experience of the holiday might vary. Some years we might feel happier than others. Other years things might go wrong: Cookies get burnt, gifts get stolen or lost or broken, families get sick, cars break down, we get called in to work. Or worse: A loved one dies or gets seriously injured, or a family that was intact last Christmas has split apart this year.

When we ask, "How was your Christmas?" most people will say, "Fine," or at least, "Pretty good, under the circumstances," and we might never know the sorrow that lies beneath their answer.

Yes, from another point of view, it is meaningless to ask, "How was your Christmas?" because Christmas never changes, and it does not depend on our circumstances. Christmas is the birth of God's Son Jesus into this world to bring forgiveness and eternal life in heaven. Even if we couldn't give or receive the gifts we wanted, God still gave the gift of His Son. Even if we had to celebrate Christmas without part or all of our family, God sent His Son to make us part of His family. Even if we had to spend Christmas far away from home, God sent His Son and He said, "Surely I am with you always." Even if we are still mourning the death of a loved one, God sent His Son to overcome death forever. Even if a spouse or loved one left and refused to be reconciled, God sent His Son on Christmas to reconcile us to Himself. Even if war breaks out world-wide, and life as we know it becomes a distant memory, God's Son was born in Bethlehem as the Prince of Peace eternally.

Think of those things, and the next time someone asks, "How was your Christmas?" you just might give them an answer they've never heard before. Please visit us this Sunday morning. There is no Sunday School this year, but worship will be held, as usual, at 9:30 a.m.

Board OKs appointments

■ Marica Ottoman to serve as alternate instead of full time.

By Kent Ashton Walton
Special Writer

Dexter Township Board has named four local residents to the Zoning Board of Appeals.

On Dec. 17, Steven Burch and William Gajewski were reappointed to two two-year terms beginning Jan. 1. James Cormier and Marica Ottoman will serve as alternates.

Burch is a township resident and has served as the chairman on the ZBA since 1999.

Gajewski has been a ZBA alternate for the past year and will now be a full-time board member.

Cormier has been a ZBA alternate since 2000 and will continue through 2003.

Ottoman has served as a full-time ZBA member since 1999 and will continue as an alternate through 2005.

Township Supervisor Pat Kelly, David Millar and Mark Wojno also serve on the zoning board.

Kelly, who represents the township on the ZBA, has served since 1998. Her term ends next year.

Millar represents the Planning Commission on the ZBA. Wojno's term expires Dec. 31, 2003. He has been a board member since 2001.

Ottoman, who was at the Township Board meeting, asked to continue with the ZBA, but the board voted to make her an alternate in the interests of training ZBA members in zoning expertise.

The ZBA handles requests for variances to the zoning ordinances and interprets zoning ordinances when asked.

Scio supports road proposals

■ Officials change their minds after hearing history.

By Michael Rybka
Special Writer

Scio Township Supervisor E. Spaulding Clark persuaded two skeptical trustees at the board's Dec. 17 meeting that improvements to the Baker Road interchange scheduled for the spring are wanted, necessary and cost effective.

At the previous week's work session, the board was asked to support the project in theory prior to holding a public hearing.

The board was also asked to commit to designating a special assessment district, and establishing a date and time for a public hearing on the issue.

Trustees James Cameron and Jerry Schleicher initially questioned the need for the project, as well as its cost.

Clark was not present at last week's meeting to respond to their questions.

At the follow-up meeting, Clark said that the impetus for the project began 10 years ago when the township's Downtown Development Authority approached the existing truck stops south of the Baker Road overpass to gauge interest in road improvements.

Clark said that after interest was expressed, the DDA and the truck stops worked together in widening Baker Road from Jackson Road to the overpass.

Clark said that once the Michigan Department of Transportation expressed interest in making improvements to the Zeeb Road and Baker Road interchanges, each truck stop tentatively agreed a $200,000 special assessment to be paid over 15 years.

Clark said funding from the state and contributions from the truck stops would cover the bulk of the project's $4 million price tag, leaving the township with only minor costs to cover.

Trustee Gordon Darr said he has talked to constituents in the northwest corner of the township and they are looking forward to the improvements.

There is a conspiracy afoot

KENT ASHTON WALTON

JUST A THOUGHT

My nose was beginning to run - the usual winter cold coming on. I reached for the tissues, blew my nose, and started to sneeze and sneeze. The first time this happened, I just thought, "Well, sneezing is part of a cold, isn't it?"

My cold ran its course and I had occasion to use a tissue again. As I put it to my nose, I began to sneeze and sneeze.

Suddenly, my conspiracy-theory mind kicked in. The more you sneeze, the more tissues you will use. What if the tissue manufacturers made tissues that made you sneeze? They would sell 10 times the tissues.

I think this conclusion was indisputable. Every time I used a tissue, I sneezed. When I used some other nose device, such as a napkin, I didn't sneeze. Ergo, tissues make you sneeze!

Now, maybe I am allergic to tissues. But if I am, probably millions of other people are, too. The whole thing, I realized, is a set-up to sell tissues.

Then my mind went to other products. You've probably noticed on television the large number of advertisements for drugs. No doubt, you've also noticed how many side effects they are obliged to mention. In fact, you have to buy other medications to treat the side effects of the original drugs.

Don't you find this strange? Yet, isn't this very profitable for drug companies? You sell drugs to cure the side effects, I also don't think most drugs cure anything. They just relieve some symptoms. When you stop using the drug, the symptoms return, so you keep buying the drugs forever.

I don't buy anything containing drugs if I can possibly help it. This is because most drugs seem harmful. For example, I have read that drugs like aspartame, used as an artificial sweetener in many foods, can cause holes in the brain. I don't need any more holes in my brain.

I also don't use allopathic drugs because my prescription insurance requires me to co-pay from $20 to $60 for a month's supply of drugs. I don't consider this a saving.

Then I began to think of other instances of products that cause you to buy more of the product. Pop is clearly contrived to make you thirsty when you drink it. I won't mention brand names, but when I drank colas, they always left me gasping for more. My thirst was never quenched. I don't know if they add salt or some other more sophisticated chemical, but I no longer drink pop for thirst. I try to find natural juices, or plain old (non-chlorinated) water.

I'm not just talking here about addictive products, such as alcohol, nicotine or chocolate, or hard drugs. I'm talking about everyday items that you buy for the family.

Then I thought of other products designed to make you buy more. Milk used to keep in the fridge for more than a week. Now, I swear milk is designed to go sour in a few days, so you have to throw it out and buy fresh. Some popular cheeses also start to green quickly.

Come to think of it, the whole culture works this way. Factories that make products also produce toxins that make the population sick. This is very profitable for both hospitals and drug companies producing the treatments and drugs to fix everything from itchy skin to cancer.

Call me paranoid, but even wars are fought so that the International Monetary Fund can move in and charge high interest rates on loans to war-ravaged countries. It also keeps weapons manufacturers wealthy. War is big business.

Maybe you can come up with other cultural products that make a profit - not because they are good products, but because they are designed to create a need for them or for some other product that is profitable.

What happened to competition?

LISA CAROLIN

MARCHING TO A DIFFERENT BEAT

Back in the 1980s, when I was in first grade, there was something at school that made me want to get up every morning and get to school on time. Throughout the school day, my teacher would selectively award students gold stars.

If you went to sleep by 8 p.m. the night before or if you brought in your own tissues, you were given gold stars. If you got an "A" on your spelling test, you got a gold star.

From academic achievement to exemplary work habits, the gold stars were discriminatingly doled out nearly every day.

I don't remember if the person with the most gold stars received a prize at the end of the year, but that didn't matter. Those gold stars provided incentive.

The first day that I worked at my son's cooperative preschool, I set up two identical obstacle courses. When I explained to the teacher that I would be dividing the children into two teams to race each other, she waved a finger in my face and shook her head.

Everybody these days says it's how you play the game that matters, not winning the game. But aren't we denying a basic human drive by discouraging competition? And aren't we losing out on a very natural motivator?

Take a look at a report card these days. There are checks and pluses that indicate "satisfactory work" or "developing work." What happened to those good old A's, B's, C's, D's, E's and F's that really told the story?

Look at children's soccer leagues, for example. It doesn't matter how many games you win or lose, or how badly you lose the games because everybody gets a trophy. Is all this parity making us settle for mediocrity?

As far as the rather ambiguous grading system goes, I suppose it doesn't really matter what letter grade a child receives as long as they, their family and their teacher know what they are capable of achieving.

The goal of this non-competitive system seems to be self-esteem. Nobody feels like they are better or worse than anybody else.

I surveyed a few people on the subject, and everyone said that they and their children are pleased with the checks and pluses, as well as the trophies.

Maybe the lesson for me is that the greatest challenge is competing against yourself, trying to improve in all that you do and getting acknowledged for it.

I'd still rather win the game or get the "A," but if this system is helping to create happier, more confident people, than I can accept marching to a different beat.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The term 'Christmas' is better than 'Xmas'

Commenting on free-lance writer Kent Ashton Walton's "Let's put Christ back into Christmas" column on page 9-A in the Dec. 12 issue of The Standard, I agree that there is too much commercialization of Christmas and not enough thought about the true meaning of it.

However, I should point out that writing "Xmas" is not taking Christ out of Christmas. The "X" is the Greek letter "ch" and was used in the early Christian era as a symbol for Christ.

It was probably used by Christians to quickly identify themselves to each other especially in time of persecution.

Even though "Xmas" isn't a de-Christianization of Christmas, I still prefer to read "Christmas" instead of "Xmas." I guess the former just looks more traditional.

Definition of rural, corridor in dictionary

I am baffled at the apparent difficulty in defining the meaning of the term "rural corridor" as applied to Dexter-Chelsea Road in the story "Council wants 'rural corridor' defined" Dec. 19.

My dictionaries confirm that "rural" denotes something related to the country, farming or agriculture; "corridor" refers to a long, narrow passageway.

The notion of widening any corridor is nonsensical, but especially so in the case of Dexter-Chelsea Road.

When the village's comprehensive plan was drafted, Dexter-Chelsea Road was lined by the trees at issue. The plain meaning of the words "rural corridor" to describe the road clearly expressed the planners' vision that that the village maintain the current tree-lined, two-lane road.

A review of literature on zoning and planning confirms the plain meaning and the obvious intent of the drafters of the comprehensive plan. The term "rural corridor" is a common one used to describe those scenic roadways that might naturally come under development pressure.

Let's give the good people who drafted the plan the benefit of a common sense understanding of their words.

Learn the history behind the holiday

In regards to free-lance writer Kent Ashton Walton's column in the Dec. 12 edition, Xmas has been used for hundreds of years in religious writing, where the X represents a Greek chi, the Greek word for "Christ." In this use, it's parallel to other forms like Xian, "Christian."

But people unaware of the Greek origin of this X often mistakenly interpret Xmas as an informal shortening. Many, therefore, frown upon the term Xmas because it seems to them a commercial convenience that omits Christ from Christmas.

Long before Christ was born ancient cultures celebrated the Winter Solstice. On this day, the sun is at its lowest and weakest, a pivot point from which the light will grow stronger and brighter. This is the turning point of the year.

About the time that we call Christmas the days begin perceptibly to lengthen. And so this shortest day of the northern year (often falling on Dec. 25 in the old Julian calendar, and on Dec. 21 in our Gregorian calendar) was named the Winter Solstice.

Our barbarian ancestors were worshippers of the sun, and they celebrated his victory over the hosts of night. There were mid-winter festivals in ancient Babylon and Egypt, and Germanic fertility festivals also took place at this time.

The birth of the ancient sun-god Attis in Phrygia was celebrated on Dec. 25, as was the birth of the Persian sun-god, Mithras.

The Romans celebrated

Saturnalia, a festival dedicated to Saturn, the god of peace and plenty, that ran from Dec. 17 to 24. Public gathering places were decorated with flowers and gifts, and candles were exchanged. The population, slaves and masters alike, celebrated the occasion with great enthusiasm.

In Scandinavia, a period of festivities known as Yule contributed another push to celebration, as opposed to spirituality. The Celtic culture of the British Isles revered all green plants, but particularly mistletoe and holly. These were important symbols of fertility and were used for decorating their homes and altars.

When Christianity was young and struggling to gain a foothold with the masses, Christian leaders deliberately created holidays that would take place around the same time as existing pagan celebrations. (Bible scholars unanimously agree that the birthday of Christ is not Dec. 25 and not even close to Dec. 25).

It made the transition much easier for the masses, whom generally didn't care what was being celebrated, only that there was a celebration. Winter Solstice was overlaid with Christmas, and the observance of Christmas spread throughout the globe.

The feasting, gift-giving, and frequent excesses present a drastic contrast with the simplicity of the nativity, and many people throughout the centuries and into the present condemn such practices as being contrary to the true spirit of Christmas. That's just too bad.

POLICE BLOTTER

Scio Township

Warrant Arrest

A 27-year-old Milan woman was arrested Dec. 14 on a warrant near Zeeb and Wagner roads.

Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputies stopped her after she pulled out of a driveway at a high rate of speed.

Deputies checked the vehicle's license plate number with the Law Enforcement Information Network and discovered that the woman was wanted on a warrant in Monroe County.

The woman was taken to the Washtenaw-Monroe county line on US-23 and was transferred into the custody of the Monroe County Sheriff's Department.

Larceny

A large, white spiral Christmas tree was reported missing Dec. 17 from a yard in the 4000 block of Woodland Drive.

The homeowner told deputies that she heard her dog barking at about midnight, but didn't check what was wrong.

When she awoke at 6 a.m., she noticed that the decorated tree was missing. The tree is valued at $100.

A CD player was reported stolen from a 1979 Chevy Suburban Dec. 14. The vehicle was parked at Nicholson Enterprises, 4405 Jackson Road, when the theft occurred.

The owner of the vehicle noticed damage to the dashboard where the stereo was mounted. Several wires were cut. The stereo is valued at approximately $50.

Four 500-foot spools of electrical wire were reported missing Dec. 16 from a construction area in the 200 block of Scio Village Drive.

The construction manager told deputies that he believes the 380-pound spools were taken between 4 p.m. Dec. 13 and 7:30 a.m. Dec. 16. The area is under construction for a condominium complex.

The manager said several people walked around the area, so deputies could not collect footprints as evidence.

Family Trouble

Deputies were dispatched to a family dispute between a couple living together Dec. 11. The girlfriend called 911 after arguing with her boyfriend.

The woman said she was upset that her boyfriend was had come from the bar and she did not want him near their 1-year-old son.

She told police that the previous night she gave him his clothes in a bag and told him not to return.

No physical altercation took place.

Property Damage

Larceny

An employee at Varsity Ford called the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department Dec. 13 to report that a 2000 Ford pick-up truck was damaged and a couple of the truck's amenities were missing.

The truck was being stored at Sweepster, 2880 N. Zeeb Road. It was to be sold at an auction. A Varsity employee noticed the damage and the missing parts when he was moving the vehicles around the storage lot.

Damage was found on the driver's-side door, the steering wheel and the bed wall. The employee also noticed that a rear-view mirror and the cigarette lighter unit were missing. The items are valued at $50.

Lima Township

Suspicious Vehicle

Michigan State Police troopers were called to the 9200 block of Scio Church Road at 8 p.m. Dec. 8 to investigate a suspicious vehicle.

A woman told police that a vehicle was backed into her yard and she was afraid someone was in her house.

Troopers checked the residence, but did not find anyone inside. Police believe the 1992 Chevy Beretta was just broken down.

Warrant Arrest

A 26-year-old Jackson man was arrested on two warrants after troopers stopped him at 9 a.m. Dec. 10 on Dexter-Chelsea Road near Freer Road.

The man was initially stopped for an equipment violation. A computer check revealed a misdemeanor warrant and civil warrant.

Lyndon Township

Voluntary Missing Person

A township man reported his 18-year-old daughter as voluntary missing from their home on Roe Road Dec. 9. The man said she left Dec. 12 after he confronted her about her boyfriend. He said she left a note that she would be staying with her mother.

The father said he has had sole custody of the teen since she was a child and he wanted to check on her safety.

A trooper spoke with the woman's mother and asked that the daughter call home.

Sylvan Township

911 Hang-Up Call

A 911 dispatcher sent a trooper to a home in the township when a call came in but no one spoke. The trooper discovered that there had been an argument over money, but no physical violence took place.

The trooper wrote in a report that he was satisfied and left the residence.

Missing Person

A 25-year-old man was reported missing from the St. Louis Center, 16195 Old US-12, a home for developmentally disabled boys and men. Police were told that a severely handicapped person walked away from the facility for the second time.

A few minutes after the trooper arrived, however, the man was found in the building.

Driving with a Suspended License

A 38-year-old Royal Oak man was cited for the second time for driving with a suspended license. He was stopped on eastbound I-94 near M-52 Dec. 8.

The man was initially stopped for driving a vehicle with defective equipment. A computer check, however, showed his license was suspended for failing to pay a reinstatement fee.

Hit and Run

A 41-year-old Jackson man told police that someone struck his vehicle while he was stopped on Old US-12 near I-94 Dec. 9. The incident happened at 4:15 p.m.

The man described the suspect, who fled, as a white woman with long, dark hair in her early 20s. She was with a white man with short blond hair and they were in an black older-model-Corsica or Beretta.

Recovered Stolen Property

Police troopers recovered a 1990 Toyota station wagon valued at $12,000 that was stolen out of Kalamazoo. The vehicle was abandoned on eastbound I-94 near M-52 Dec. 11.

The owner made arrangements with a tow company to pick it up from the scene.

Dexter Village

Domestic Assault

A domestic assault between a brother and sister was reported Dec. 12.

The 60-year-old woman called 911 after her brother slapped her in the face with an open hand.

Deputies questioned the siblings and they could smell alcohol on the man's breath. The two said that the argument started over a conversation about the man's divorce proceedings.

The man was arrested and taken to the Washtenaw County Jail.

Compiled by staff writer Will Keeler based on reports filed with the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department and Michigan State Police.

ADA
What a wonderful lady Ada is! Ada is here at the shelter as a stray, and she's about two years old. She's got a lot of white markings on her, which makes her very lovely indeed. She's got a lot of strength, so it'd probably be better if she was in a house with children eight and up. It's not that she doesn't know that she should be nice to them, it's just that sometimes she might get excited and happy and accidently knock them down.

FIONA
Fiona is a shy little gal, but very loving and friendly. She needs a new home where she will be loved and well cared for! Fiona is here at the shelter as a stray, and she's about two years old. She'd make someone an excellent pet, she just knows it! She wouldn't hurt a fly and likes to administer love and kisses to those that give her some attention.

FRANK
Frank is very interesting and handsome looking cat. He's a Siamese mix, with sable brown coloring. He's about three years old, and he's here at the shelter because his previous owner moved and couldn't keep him any more. That wasn't very good for Frank, but he's very optimistic that the right new owner will come along and give him all kinds of love and affection. And Frank is ready to give some affection back, too!

'Z is for Zamboni' gives readers hockey history

LISA ALLMENDINGER

BOOK NOTES

You won't learn how to skate by reading "Z is for Zamboni: A Hockey Alphabet Book," but you will learn all the other important aspects of this sport, from its rules to its history.

Readers of all ages will benefit from this book's innovative and well-researched approach, which encompasses simple rhyme for beginning readers and clever sidebar facts for older ones.

In its first children's sports pictorial, Chelsea's Sleeping Bear Press has published a title that will inspire the interest of everyone who turns its pages.

Written and illustrated by a pair of Canadians, "Z is for Zamboni" is a delightful book from its opening purple-blue "A is for Arena" to its deep-blue "Z is for Zamboni."

Written by college student Matt Napier and illustrated by fellow Toronto resident Melanie Rose, this book approaches its topic with wonderful illustrations and highlights terrific information.

Napier, the son of a former National Hockey League player, is a student at the University of Toronto. Rose is a graduate of the Ontario College of Art and recently toured her homeland with Children's Book Week 2002, promoting her first children's book, "M is for Maple, A Canadian Alphabet."

Readers should be warned that some of the terms are published with Canadian spellings, but there is a glossary in the back of the book with the equivalent American ones.

Interspersed with the illustrious history of such hockey greats as Bobby Orr, Phil Coffey and Wayne Gretzky are the basics of how the sport is played. This is a beautifully done book with all aspects of this action-packed sport superbly depicted in both its words and its pictures.

With the gloomy nights of winter upon us, pick up this book and spend an evening with your children learning about hockey. And the next time you turn on a game, you'll better understand its unique nuances. I know I will.

Puppy Love

Local couple raises Leader Dogs for the Blind

By Rita Fischer
Special Writer

Bob and Charlene Chrisman are giving blind people the gift of independence with the help of a furry, four-legged friend. The Munith couple, who raise puppies for Leader Dogs for the Blind, originally got involved when their son, Bob Jr., was a member of 4-H and participated in a program training puppies.

The Chrismans loved training the dogs so much that when their son grew up and left home, they continued with the cause.

"We've always had animals and this project that our son started seemed like a natural thing to do," Bob Chrisman says.

The couple, both members of the Munith Lions Club, is currently training Katie, a 3-month-old Labrador puppy. On Dec. 3, they brought her to the Chelsea Lions Club meeting to give members a firsthand view of the program. Lions Club International has supported for nearly 60 years.

The Chrismans explained how they teach Katie basic commands such as "sit" and "stay" using a tug on the leash to reinforce commands. Eventually, Katie will know commands so well that the leash no longer will be required for training.

Katie accompanies the duo across town and to stores. As she gets accustomed to being around people, she will be taken into restaurants.

In addition to basic obedience — crucial to a dog who must learn to follow commands exactly — Katie learns social skills around humans, how to walk well on a leash, and gets accustomed to walking up and down stairs and near traffic.

Leader Dog puppies are not allowed on furniture, or to beg for snacks or be fed from the table.

Chrisman, who has served three years as chairman for the Leader Dogs program, said dogs in training can only have certain toys. For example, they're not allowed to play with balls in case they were to chase after one while walking with a blind person.

Puppies and handlers have regular meetings at the Leader Dogs for the Blind facility in Rochester. Since its founding in 1939 by some Michigan Lions, the school has trained nearly 12,000 Leader dogs, and graduates hundreds of student and dog teams every year.

The goal is to minimize the challenge of blindness by allowing blind people to move safely and independently with their canine companion. The cost of a Leader Dog is $28,000, with no cost to the blind person. The facility is supported by donations from Lions clubs.

During meetings, puppies enjoy some playtime before getting down to the more serious business of training.

"When it's time to work, the dogs just know that playtime is over," Chrisman says.

Handlers trade dogs for a few minutes so that they become accustomed to working with other people.

Puppies even see a "puppy counselor," a therapist who makes sure that everything is going well in the foster home and in training.

Not all dogs make the grade. The Chrismans once had a German shepherd that didn't fare well so they took her back as a pet until her death six years later.

Dogs that can't meet the high demands for helping a blind person undergo a career change.

Some are used in law enforcement. Others may find their calling with Paws With a Cause, where they are trained to answer telephones, pull a wheelchair, open refrigerators, turn lights on and off, or push elevator buttons.

Four of the seven pups the Chrismans have trained — three female Labradors and a female German Shepherd — passed with flying colors to become fully fledged Leader Dogs with blind people in Michigan, Indiana, Nevada and Ontario, Canada.

The three main breeds used are German Shepherds, Golden Retrievers and Labradors. Standard poodles were introduced into the program last year as being less likely to cause allergies with their tighter, curly coat.

If a dog doesn't work out with a new owner, it's held over until the right match is made. The Chrismans are sometimes called on to foster a dog until it's matched, rather than have the puppy in a kennel where it can get stressed.

Chrisman, who is retired from Wolverine Vinyl in Jackson, says the 20 or so hours they spend each week training the puppy is time well spent.

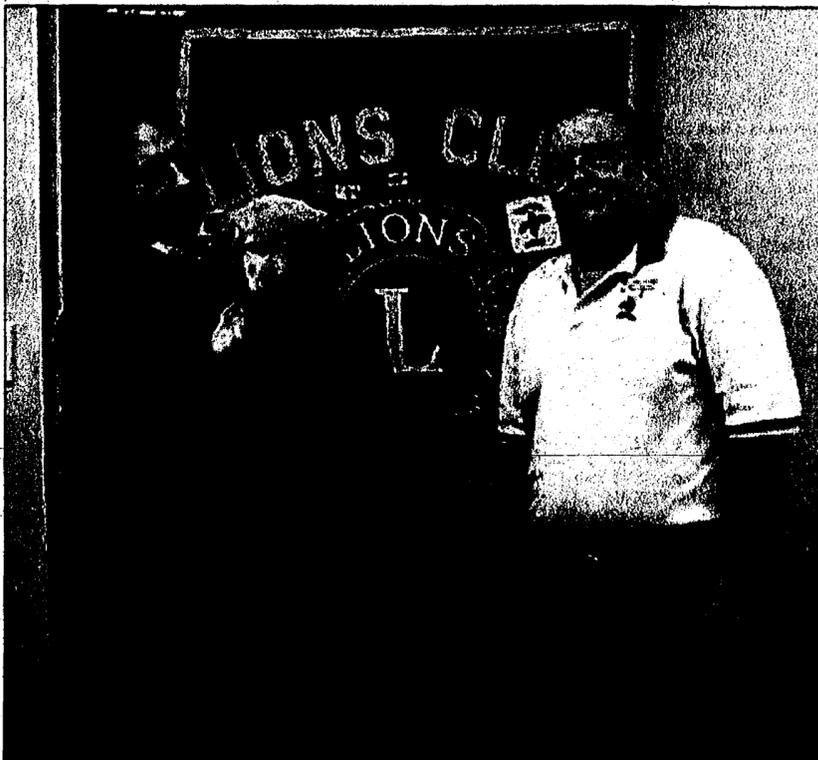

"You really can't put this into an hour slot," he says. "You do the training every day, just like raising a kid."

Trainers get a puppy when it's 6 or 7 weeks old and raise it for about a year. Chrisman says it's not hard to let the dog go to its new owner.

"We see the people who get the dog and it feels so good to see them get help," he says. "The dogs go on to greater things and they mean so much to the people who need them."

"That's what really keeps us going. We know how much they mean to a blind person."

Charlene Chrisman (left) and her husband, Bob, brought their 3-month-old Labrador puppy, Katie, to the Dec. 3 Chelsea Lions Club meeting to talk about the Leader Dogs for the Blind program. The Munith couple, members of the Munith Lions Club, has raised seven puppies for the program. The Leader Dogs for the Blind facility, based in Rochester, was founded by Lions Club members in 1939 and is supported by Lions Clubs.

LEADER DOG FACTS

- Leader Dogs for the Blind was founded in 1939 by Lions Club members.
- The goal is to train dogs to be blind and provide facilities where dogs and blind masters can be trained.
- The training school and offices are located in Rochester.
- More than 10,000 blind people have become self-sufficient through the use of a Leader Dog.
- People who are legally blind, 18 years or older, in good health, emotionally stable and of good moral character may be eligible for Leader Dog training.
- Students live under the supervision of instructors for four weeks of training.
- German Shepherds, Labrador and Golden Retrievers are commonly used for the program.
- Leader Dog places 7-week-old puppies into foster homes for a year. The puppies come from Leader Dog breeding stock and from pre-approved local breeders.
- There is no charge for a Leader Dog or any part of the four-week training.
- It costs the school about $17,000 for each team.
- Leader Dogs for the Blind is supported by contributions from Lions Clubs and Leo clubs, florists, agencies and individuals.
- Leader Dogs wear a Leader Dog identification tag at all times, a badge of identity to the general public. A bandana is worn for public recognition.
- A $10 donation supports the cost of a vaccine for a future Leader Dog. Just $20 equips a slip collar, leash, comb and brush, while $21 provides a starter kit for a puppy raiser; $25 provides surgery sutures, x-ray and teeth cleaning; $70 provides a crate for a puppy raiser.
- For more information, write to Leader Dogs for the Blind, P.O. Box 5000, Rochester, MI 48306, or call 1-248-451-6021 or toll free 1-888-777-5322.

Malone serves seniors as program coordinator

Karen Malone has been hired as the new program coordinator at the Chelsea Senior Center. The part-time position is funded by a grant for $11,800 from the Area Agency on Aging 1-B. The Lima Township resident also serves on the Township Planning Commission.

Lima Township resident Karen Malone has been hired as part-time program coordinator at Chelsea Senior Center. She started Nov. 11.

The position was created when the Area Agency on Aging 1-B gave the center a grant for $11,800 to provide staffing for 1,000 hours through Sept. 30, 2003.

Malone has a degree in computer information science from the University of Michigan.

Malone, whose son, Matthew, is in fourth grade at North Creek Elementary School, will work a flexible schedule around her family. Her activities already include Cub Scouts, PTO events, organizing Science Night and serving as a reading tutor. She is also involved at the Chelsea First Methodist Church.

Malone's duties at the senior center will include writing the monthly newsletter and developing new programs such as men's activities, sports and homebound outreach.

She will also prepare materials for committees, and organize special events such as the bimonthly birthday parties and holiday celebrations.

Chelsea Senior Center Director Colleen O'Neill said the ultimate goal is to have Malone take over more responsibilities so that the director can focus on fundraising and writing grants. O'Neill plans to put more energy into other programming to allow the center to grow.

"The goal is to raise enough money so that eventually we can keep Karen full time, offer even more programs for seniors, operate a free-standing senior center and really offer more services to local seniors," O'Neill said.

"The (agency on aging) really sees this as seed money, enough to get us started but with the hope that when their money runs out, after a maximum of three years, we can continue with the same staff and programs on our own."

Malone, a substitute teacher and paraprofessional in the Chelsea School District, said she is looking forward to taking the senior center to a new level.

"Colleen is enthusiastic and a good person to work with," Malone said. "I'm going to be there (as a senior) at the senior center someday and it's something neat to get involved with."

"I've met a lot of new people. It's fun getting to know a different population in the community."

Malone, who moved to Lima Township from Plymouth Township three years ago, has been a member of the Lima Township Planning Commission since July. Her initial interest in township issues led to her serving on the water and sewer study committee last year.

"Now, this year, it snow-balled into the Planning Commission."

Chelsea goes overtime against Williamston

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

Whatever James Ballas had for breakfast last week prior to Chelsea's basketball game against Williamston, should be bottled and served to the rest of his Bulldog teammates for the rest of the season.

Against the visiting Hornets, unbeaten heading into their game against Chelsea Dec. 17, Ballas scored 13 second-half points while leading the Bulldogs (3-0) to a thrilling 75-63 overtime victory.

Whereas most players are losing their legs and tiring out by the fourth quarter, Ballas was able to find an extra gear, pacing Chelsea in the final frame and into overtime. All 13 of his points came in the fourth quarter and the overtime session. He netted eight of the Bulldogs' 17 overtime points.

"All of his points came on hustle plays, too," said Chelsea coach Robin Raymond.

Though Ballas stood out late in the game, the entire Chelsea team was fresher and livelier in the final minutes than its Williamston opponent.

"By overtime, I thought they (Williamston) were getting tired," Raymond said. "We had the momentum. We wanted to run the ball and create fast breaks."

In the four-minute extra session, the Bulldogs dominated, outscoring the Hornets 17-5 for the final margin.

"Scoring 17 points in four minutes was pretty good," Raymond said.

With Chelsea aggressively running the floor, the weary Williamston players were forced to foul.

In overtime, the Bulldogs were 6-of-7 from the free-throw line.

The Hornets (2-1), the pre-season favorites in the Ingham County League, appeared to have the momentum at the end of regulation.

Trailing the entire game, Chelsea tied the contest at 56-56 as senior forward Paul Newhouse scored on a put back with 45 seconds left. After a Williamston turnover, the Bulldogs worked the clock until Ballas was fouled with 12 seconds remaining. The senior forward canned both shots giving Chelsea a 58-56 advantage.

With no time left on the clock, Williamston scored on a fluke, garbage-type play down low as both teams fought for the ball on a missed three-point try.

Though the Hornets had made the play forcing overtime, they had little left in the extra stanza.

Raymond said he was proud of his team's effort.

"The nice part of the win, was that we were behind for three quarters, but fought back for the win," he said. "That was pleasing, since we were ahead in our first two games (both victories)."

Also making Raymond smile was the fact Chelsea received balanced scoring. Five Bulldogs recorded 13 points or more.

"I like to see that," he said. "That was the biggest stat of the game."

Seniors swing player Jimmy Baker and Newhouse led the Bulldogs with 15 points each. Baker was 3-of-3 from three-point land.

Senior center Scott Dettling added 14 points, while senior Kyle Brown and Ballas each netted 13 points. Included in Brown's total were two three-pointers.

Rounding out Chelsea's scoring were senior swing player Joe Myers, who had four points, and senior guard Bryan Hayes, who finished with one point.

On the glass, the Bulldogs out rebounded the smaller Hornets 34-26.

Newhouse topped Chelsea with 11 boards, while Dettling added eight rebounds.

Dettling also had two steals and four blocked shots.

Leading the team in assists was Brown, with five. Ballas dished out three assists.

At the free throw line, the Bulldogs excelled.

Chelsea finished the night 24-of-33 from the charity stripe for a sizzling 73 percent. On the other hand, Williamston was 5-of-14 for 36 percent.

Individually, Dettling was 8-of-11 and Newhouse 5-of-6 at the line for the Dawgs. Brown was 3-of-4, while Ballas was a perfect 5-of-5.

In the second half alone, Chelsea was 16-of-18 from the free-throw line.

Forward Dave Stintzi had 20 points and guard Mac Miller had 17 points to lead Williamston.

The Hornets led 18-14 after one quarter. By halftime, Williamston had increased its lead to 32-26.

Heading into the fourth quarter, the Hornets had a 46-42 advantage.

"We struggled the first three quarters," Raymond said. "But we played well enough to stay within striking distance."

"Williamston is a quality opponent. This is a big win. They were 2-0 coming in, with double-digit victories.

They're a good program."

Bulldog icers suffer tough loss to Flint Kearsley

Chelsea's Luc Callow is one of the Bulldogs' top offensive weapons this season. Last week, against Flint Kearsley, Chelsea's offense was bottled up in the Bulldogs' 3-1 loss.

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

In the first-ever meeting between the two schools, Flint Kearsley defeated Chelsea 3-1 in hockey Dec. 18.

The Hornets, out of the Big Nine Conference, are one of the Flint area's top programs. Last year, Kearsley lost to eventual Division II state runner-up Davison 4-3 in the regional semifinals.

Against the host Bulldogs, the Hornets scored first at 5:58 of the opening period. Hamid Tagik turned the light on, beating the Chelsea net minder on a power play goal.

"He was able to pick up a loose puck in front of the net and bang it home," said Chelsea coach Don Wright.

Wright said the Hornets came out ready to compete. "They carried the play in the first period," he said.

In the second period, the Bulldogs (8-3) tied the game as winger Craig Urwin scored a power play goal at 3:58 of the frame. Assisting on the play for Chelsea was Kenny Williams.

"Craig came from the corner and wasn't picked up," Wright said. "He made a move on the goaltender and scored."

The contest stayed deadlocked at 1-1 until Curtis Christensen, the Hornets' best player, scored with 3:14 left in the game.

"He was able to get in front of J.R. (Engelbert, Chelsea goalie) and stuff a rebound by him," Wright said.

Kearsley added an empty net goal with 40 seconds remaining for the final margin.

"We had our chances," Wright said. "We had seven shots or so from near their crease."

The Hornets out shot the Bulldogs 30-23.

In the first period, Kearsley peppered 15 shots on net, while Chelsea managed only four shots.

"I would have liked to have seen us come out stronger than we did," Wright said. "We certainly had chances to win the hockey game. Their goalie did a nice job."

Last week's game against Kearsley was somewhat bitter-sweet for Wright.

"Chris Christensen (Hornets' former coach) and I had talked about playing this game for some time," Wright said. "We had been friends for a long time. He had been their coach since the late 1970s. This summer he died in his sleep."

Though the former coach wasn't able to be at last week's game, he did, in some way, have an influence on the outcome. His son, Curtis, scored the game-winner.

Wright said he wasn't sure if Chelsea would continue playing the Hornets year after year.

"I don't know," he said. "We'll have to see. It would be nice."

The Bulldogs next host Pinckney 7 p.m. Jan. 4.

On Jan. 8, Chelsea hosts Plymouth Canton at 7 p.m. Sports Editor Don Richter can be reached at 475-1371 or via e-mail at drichter@heritage.com.

Chelsea tankers top Pinckney

Chelsea's tankers dominated the swimming season, finishing first in the 200 freestyle relay, the 400 freestyle relay, and the 200 individual medley. In the 100 butterfly, Chelsea's Aaron Connell finished first with a time of 1:04.20, while in the 500 freestyle, Chelsea's Andy Kellogg finished first with a time of 3:51.53. In the 100 breaststroke, Chelsea's Mike Policht finished first with a time of 2:15.75. In the 200 individual medley, Chelsea's Ryan Kelley finished first with a time of 2:15.75.

second was teammate Cliff Ballard with 171 points. In third place was Sean Cleary with 126 points. In the 200 freestyle relay, the Bulldog foursome of Andy Kellogg, Andre Bravo, Mike Policht and Holton finished first with a time of 1:34.44. In the 400 freestyle relay, Chelsea's Josh Haynes, Holton, Wacker and Policht bested the field with a clocking of 3:40.50. Placing second for the Bulldogs on the day were Aaron Connell in the 100 butterfly (1:04.20), Andrew Cao in the 500 freestyle (3:51.53), Andy Kellogg in the 100 breaststroke (2:10) and Wacker in the 200 individual medley (2:15.75). The Chelsea combo of Ryan Kelley, Nat Christman, Cao and Wacker finished second in the 200 individual medley.

Season to remember for Chelsea, Dexter

I can't believe this is just the beginning. Somebody pinch me. I must be dreaming. What a start to the athletic year. For most areas, what happened this past fall season would constitute a full year's worth of athletic activity - if it were lucky. For most communities, winning a league title is reason to celebrate. For most towns, having an All-Area player is front-page news. But for the Chelsea-Dexter area, those accomplishments took a back seat to some unbelievable performances this fall. To begin with, the area brought home two state championships. Not one - which would make most communities' year - but two, in one season. Dexter's boys' cross country and girls' swimming and diving teams both captured Division II state titles in their respective sports. Throughout Michigan, only four other communities, Rockford, Grosse Ile, East Grand Rapids and Marquette, won multiple state championships. Marquette was tops in the state, with three titles this past fall. Rockford, Grosse Ile and East Grand Rapids tied Dexter, with two championships each. In Chelsea, although no state titles were brought home, the Bulldogs had a memorable fall season. In football, Chelsea continued to be one of the area's best programs. For the fourth consecutive season, the Bulldogs advanced to the state playoffs. Senior defensive back Joe Myers earned first-team All-State recognition after picking off a school record nine passes this season. In cross country, Chelsea Chelsea's David Knox and his Bulldog soccer teammates had a record-setting season this past fall. Chelsea finished the year with 18 victories, the most in school history. The Bulldogs also captured their first district championship. Besides winning a title, Dexter's Jaime Dudash was named Division II's boys' Coach of the Year. The Dreadnaughts' girls' basketball team captured a district title and advanced to the regional finals, before losing - three wins from a state championship.

ON THE SIDELINE

Dexter's boys' golf squad won the SEC crown and qualified for the state finals.

Chelsea's boys' golf also had a fine year. The Bulldogs finished second in league play behind Dexter. Individually, seniors Chris Johnson and Paul Newhouse tied for first in the conference.

In Equestrian, Chelsea advanced to the state finals, placing 18th overall. The Dreadnaughts qualified for districts before bowing out of the state tournament.

Dexter's girls' cross country team had a memorable year, finishing second in the SEC and 15th in Division II at the state meet.

Bulldog girls' basketball placed first in the SEC White Division. Chelsea senior forward Alison Mann was named third-team All-State.

In girls' tennis, both Dexter and Chelsea had strong years. The Dreadnaughts advanced to the Division III state finals, where they finished 16th. The Bulldogs, on the other hand, captured the SEC White Division championship.

In boys' soccer, Chelsea had a record-setting season. The Bulldogs' 16 wins were the most in school history. The squad scored 70 goals on the year, also a school record.

Overall, Chelsea finished 16-3-3. The team captured a league title and a first-ever district championship. The Bulldogs lost in regional play 1-0 in double overtime to eventual Division II state winner East Lansing.

Over in Dexter, first-year coach Andy Vanover led the Dreadnaught kickers to a second-place league finish behind Chelsea.

In football, Dexter ended up 3-6 overall. After going 0-9 three years ago, Dreadnaught coach Tom Barbieri, who recently completed his second year, has led Dexter to 2-7 and 3-6 seasons. With improved middle school and youth programs, the future looks bright for Dreadnaught football.

In swimming, Chelsea placed second in the SEC and seventh in Division II at the state finals. Bulldogs Dani Sawyer, Alise Augustine, Julie Mida and Becca Armstrong combined for a state title in the 200 medley relay.

What a season. I can't wait for the next two.

DEATHS

HELEN DARWIN Ann Arbor

Helen Darwin, 95, of Ann Arbor died Dec. 19, 2002, at Cedar Knoll Care Center. She was born Jan. 31, 1907, in Clayton, Wis., the daughter of Waldner and Anna (Szurgot) Glushyn.

Mrs. Darwin had lived in Ann Arbor since 1936. She was a long-time member of West Side United Methodist Church.

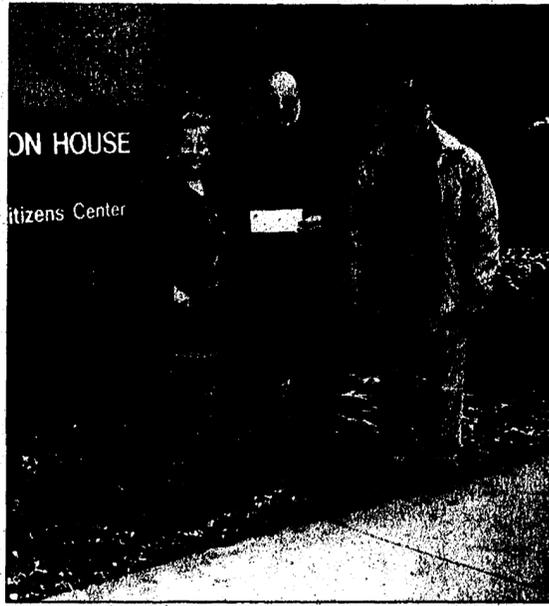

On Sept. 9, 1933, she married LeRoy F. Darwin in Minneapolis and he preceded her in death Aug. 26, 1987.

Survivors include two sons, LeRoy W. of Ann Arbor and William J. of Chelsea; one sister, Olga Wallace of L'Anse; 12 grandchildren; 24 great-grandchildren; two great-great-grandchildren; and several nieces and nephews.

Mrs. Darwin was preceded in death by a son, Arnold; three brothers; and five sisters.

A funeral was held Saturday at West Side United Methodist Church in Ann Arbor. The Rev. Tracy Huffman officiated. Burial followed at Bethlehem Cemetery in Ann Arbor.

Arrangements were handled by Cole Funeral Chapel in Chelsea. Memorial contributions may be made to West Side United Methodist Church.

Generous Donation

Chelsea United Way board members Mary Underwood (left) and Bob Trudell flank Faith In Action Director Dick Shaneyfelt as they present him with a check for $17,500. This was the second allocation of funds for the year. Chelsea United Way contributed a total of $35,000 to Faith In Action in the 2002 calendar year.
