Three in running for police chief

City Council may make decision after interviews on Saturday

By Steve Ricci
Staff Writer

A field of six semifinalists vying to be Chelsea's next police chief has been trimmed to three contenders, who will interview in a special meeting of the City Council 10 a.m. Saturday in the Washington Street Education Center Board Room, 500 Washington St.

Chelsea City Manager Mike

Steklac said Tuesday that if the City Council reaches a consensus, the new police chief — who according to the new city charter will report directly to Steklac — would be selected Saturday.

The meeting is open to the public.

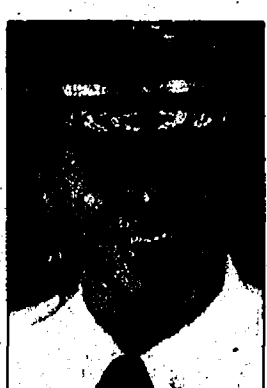

The three finalists, who at an April 29 meeting were jointly recommended by Steklac, Michigan Municipal League consultant Bob

Scott Sumner

Hamilton, Port Huron Police Department Chief William Corbett and Grosse Pointe Farms Director of Public Safety Richard Ferber, include Sgt. Scott Sumner, 41, Chelsea's acting police chief. The April 29 meeting was closed to the public.

The other two finalists are Richard Adriaens, 42, an operations bureau deputy chief with the Royal Oak Police Department, and

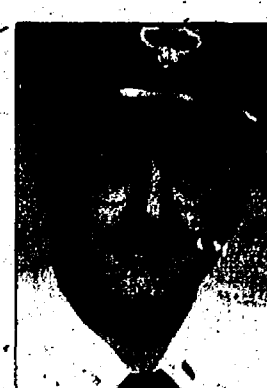

Richard Adriaens

John Stressman, 52, a lieutenant with the Jackson Police Department.

Steklac said three candidates were eliminated from consideration after the April 29 meeting based on a "variety of factors," including those candidates' philosophies about community policing.

"We were able to get insights into whether they had rigid or open management styles," Steklac said.

John Stressman

The son of a Detroit police officer, Sumner has been employed at the Chelsea Police Department since 1983. He has served as acting police chief since former Chelsea Police Chief Lenard McDougall retired Jan. 3 after a 40-year career.

Sumner is a graduate of Chelsea High School and the Eastern Michigan University School of Police Staff and Command. He does not possess a bachelor's degree, but said Monday he would continue working toward the degree at EMU.

Sumner said he plans to attend the FBI National Academy, in Quantico, Va., as soon as he has the Score one for reconfiguration.

Shawn Lewis-Lakin, director of student performance for the Chelsea school district, said administrators are pleased with the MEAP winter 2004 results for fourth- and fifth-graders at Pierce Lake and South Meadows Lewis-Lakin elementary schools. Results were released Tuesday.

The percentage of fourth-graders receiving passing test scores in math was 88.4 percent, up from 79.4 in 2003 and 70.4 percent in 2002.

In reading, 91 percent passed, up from 88.1 percent in 2003, and a big leap from 67.3 percent in 2002.

In writing, 60.5 percent passed compared with 53 percent in 2003, and in language arts, 77.8 percent passed compared with 74 percent in 2003.

The percentage of fifth-graders passing science was 96.5 percent, up from 88.6 percent in 2003 and 81.5 percent in 2002.

Only 51 percent achieved passing scores in social studies, but this was up from 33.2 percent in 2003 and 33.8 in 2002.

"Scores are up, and up significantly in all tested areas," Lewis-Lakin said, adding that the MEAP office met its target for turning around the test results.

These were the first MEAP exams since the reconfigured grade alignment of school buildings last fall.

Since reconfiguration, there has been an increased focus on the consistent delivery of curriculum for students, Lewis-Lakin said.

"Having all teachers for a grade level at one site has increased the collaboration among teachers," he said. "Teachers have worked very hard, having professional conversations and sharing best instructional practices."

"These results suggest that our students are benefiting from these efforts. Teachers, students, and the families who support them are to be commended for their efforts."

However, administrators are not pleased with MEAP results for seventh- and eighth-graders, he said.

The percentage of seventh-graders passing reading was 72.3 percent, down from 77.4 percent in 2003 but up from 63 percent in 2002.

Fair struggles to find volunteers

Ladies' Day and fair queen pageant may be axed

By Rita Fischer
Special Writer

The Chelsea Community Fair, which will celebrate its 67th year Aug. 24 through 28, is once again struggling to find volunteers to keep events going.

Last year, Ladies' Day bit the dust when Kathy Powers and Marlene Larder stepped down after serving as Ladies' Day superintendents for a decade.

No one else came forward to pick up the torch, leaving women from around the area out of luck.

This year looks to be much the same unless someone steps up to the plate, Fair Board President Ken McCalla said.

The fair also is in need of a fair queen superintendent.

Jane Shrobbree, who as Jane Mann was crowned Chelsea Community Fair Queen in 1969, has been guiding other young ladies to the title for six years, after also serving as a judge, emcee and committee member.

Shrobbree, the mother of three daughters, works as director of therapy services at Chelsea Community Hospital, and is stepping down as queen superintendent this year.

Shrobbree says her six years have been a wonderful experience.

"When I began my role, my three daughters were ages 5, 7 and 9," she said. "I thought it would be a great way to interact and learn about teenage girls."

"It definitely proved right on. Teenage girls are great to work with."

Shrobbree said that in the last six years, she has gotten to know and appreciate about 30 to 35 families in the community.

"It has been so nice seeing the girls work together and develop new friendships outside their normal circles," she said.

"I have loved seeing the girls blossom with their talent."

"Building self-esteem with this age group is so important, and I witnessed tremendous growth as the girls were so happy with themselves," she said.

Department since 1989, is working toward a bachelor's degree in public safety administration at Eastern Michigan University. He expects to graduate in 2005. Adriaens is a 1996 graduate of the EMU School of Police Staff and Command, and has plans to attend the FBI National Academy in 2005.

Stressman, a Jackson Police Department employee since 1977, has a bachelor's degree in criminal justice and public education from Northern Michigan University. He is a graduate of the FBI National Academy and the EMU School of Police Staff and Command.

While the police chief job posting stated a bachelor's degree and advanced FBI training were desirable qualifications for applicants, Steklac said experience and knowledge could count toward an "acceptable package" for candidates.

Steklac said Sumner has expressed interest in staying with the Chelsea Police Department if he is not selected as police chief.

In that scenario, "all the candidates" said they would be professionals," Steklac said. "Scott is certainly young enough that we would groom him to be the next chief."

"I see the value of having Scott as part of the organization, but I don't think it will be an easy decision for council because we have three excellent candidates. It's a hard decision, but it's a good situation to be in."

On Monday, Sumner said he was pleased to be included in the search.

"I just wanted to be presented a chance," Sumner said. "If I'm offered the job, I want it to be because I'm the best man for the job."

Adriaens said Monday his personal preferences, as well as his Royal Oak police experience, would fit Chelsea well.

"During my tenure at Royal Oak, it has grown from a sleepy town to a city with a vibrant downtown and weekend and nighttime visitors in the thousands," he said. "I know how to employ community policing to manage growth, and its accompanying problems and assets."

"I live in north Oakland County, which is kind of a rural community. I enjoy the small-town lifestyle," Adriaens said. "My motivation, knowledge and experience can lead the Chelsea Police Department through the issues it will face in the 21st century."

Stressman also said he has skills in community policing.

"As a key member of the command staff, I play an integral part in strategic planning and visioning, and have a lead role in transitioning the department to a complete community policing philosophy," he said.

"I am keenly aware of the nuances involved with recruiting and maintaining an ethical and responsive public workforce. I possess the knowledge, skills, and abilities one would associate with a higher-ranking manager."

For his part, Sumner said his familiarity with Chelsea would be an asset during a time of growth and change.

"Since joining the Chelsea Police Department in 1983, I have developed valuable relationships within the department and the Chelsea community," he said. "I have worked in all facets of law enforcement, and fully understand and appreciate the value of each role."

Sumner said he has a "very strong loyalty and commitment to Chelsea," and that he is prepared to lead the police department into the future.

"My vision for the Chelsea Police Department is a modern-day police agency with the skills, equipment and training to improve the capacity to serve our community," he said.

Sumner currently earns $61,553; Adriaens, $81,000; and Stressman, $64,782. The starting annual salary for the post will range from $60,000 to $65,000.

Lucky Winner

Retired physician Dr. Jerry Waldyke was the winner in the May 1 drawing at Chelsea Farmers' Market. He received a $15 gift certificate to T.J. Farms from Sandy Barkman. The market will run from 8 a.m. to noon Saturdays through October on Park Street in Chelsea.

"It takes a lot of courage to get up in front of large crowds and perform, and seeing their smiles when they exited the stage was such a wonderful experience."

Shrosbree said she has enjoyed working with those who volunteer their time to the fair.

"They are the most gracious and supportive crew, so creative and dedicated (and) such creative problem solvers," she said. "They were always willing to help me in any way they could — even one year, building a dressing room for us with about only six hours notice."

Shrosbree said she will miss being such a big part of the fair this year, but that it's time for her to step down.

Whoever succeeds Shrosbree will get plenty of help and support, though.

"I will be happy to help the new superintendent, sharing all my information and pearls of wisdom to get them started," she said.

Sue Heumann who, with her husband, Kurt, got involved as a fair volunteer a few years ago, said the experience has been fun.

"We didn't know what went on behind the scenes until the last few years," she said.

"Once you are here, you see other things that need to be done."

Fair board members also need help setting up bleachers from 6 to 8 p.m. Mondays and Thursdays.

"Just show up and we'll put you to work," McCalla said. "We would really appreciate the help."

Volunteer Jeff Layher has been helping at the fair for close to three decades, and is frustrated that more people are not willing to volunteer their time for the summer's big event.

"If we all work together, we can get it done," Layher said. "It saves the fair $20,000 if we put the bleachers together ourselves.

"It's not physically demanding, it's just working with aluminum. It's very time consuming but it needs to be done."

To volunteer as Ladies' Day superintendent, call Jeanne Trinkle at 475-2234. To volunteer as fair queen superintendent, call Diane Winter, 475-3143.

Diverted traffic raises concerns

Semitrailers using Old US-12 to bypass I-94 construction

By Cheryl Heitzman
Special Writer

Chelsea residents can look forward to the third consecutive summer riddled with traffic problems.

Construction on Clear Lake Road is causing headaches for local residents and businesses as traffic avoids Interstate 94.

No increase in accidents has been observed as of yet, but the potential is there, said Chelsea Police Officer Jeff Staebler.

"Impatience from the increased traffic flow can result in an increase in accident percentages," he said.

Moreover, this year semitrailer drivers have been using Old US-12 as a way to avoid the traffic on the highway. The trucks are just too long or too heavy to be on the road.

"They see signs for emergency I-94 and they drive down Old US-12," Staebler said. "We are stopping them to let them know that Old US-12 is not a designated bypass route."

Staebler said the drivers have been pretty good about stopping and letting other trucks in the area know about the limitations, and they have been conscientious of the other drivers.

"Any of those trucks that are over weight or length that are making deliveries are OK," he said. "The road already isn't in great condition, but there hasn't been any noticeable damage yet."

Bob Pierce, executive director of the Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce, said the business organization always has a concern with traffic during construction, and said there has not been any problems with the extra traffic yet.

"We are concerned with what the effect will be in September when construction begins on the M-52 bridge," he said. "They agreed to delay the start until after the Chelsea Community Fair, but it could get bad then."

Paul Phillips, a driver for Chelsea Greenhouse, said he has not seen an unbearable amount of traffic yet.

"It's pretty bogged down at M-52 and Jackson Road. Sometimes you can get through and sometimes you can't," he said. "I've been driving these back roads forever, and I can pretty much bypass everything."

The section of town between Old US-12 and I-94 seems to be most affected, with businesses and residents north of Old US-12 not seeing as much traffic.

City Engineer Christine Linfield said she has not observed unusual amounts of traffic in the downtown area.

"Residents on Old US-12 are probably the most affected by the inconvenience," Staebler said.

District looks to cut expenses

School staff identifies potential areas of reduction

By Sheila Purglove
Associate Editor

It's time to trim the fat even closer to the bone.

The Chelsea School District is reviewing all expenditure line items, and revenue sources for the final amendment to its 2003-04 budget, Teresa Zigman, executive director of business and operations, wrote April 19 in a report to the Board of Education.

"Everyone has been making it a point to only spend when necessary, which we anticipate will result in the district being able to add to fund equity at year end. Our goal is 1 to 2 percent of expenditures," Zigman wrote.

With these savings, the district hopes to offset some of the reductions that will have to take place next year.

The entire administrative staff has had many meetings identifying potential areas of reduction.

"Some areas will dramatically affect our support and programmatic operations and offerings," Zigman wrote.

The largest challenge is the many unknowns, she said, and that the district is hearing state revenues did not meet the 4 percent growth anticipated at the January revenue consensus conference.

The district expects the fallout to hit next year.

Health insurance rates are not known at this time, and utility costs are an uncontrollable fixed cost to be dealt with on an annual basis.

Overall, districts in Michigan are reducing 10 to 15 percent of their total budgets, and Chelsea is no exception, Zigman said. As an example, a 10 percent reduction for the district equates to finding $2.5 million in cuts for the 2004-05 year.

The district's contract with Verizon expires at the end of July. In March, Zigman brought in five different companies to compare plans and rates. She plans to continue working with vendors to obtain the best rates, as well as identify usage and necessity to consolidate and eliminate where possible.

In March, the district brought in receipts of $3,849,315, including property taxes, state aid, class fees and recreational swim fees, rents/leases, cafeteria use, ACT 18, athletics, donations, E-rate, interest and other income and miscellaneous reimbursements.

Expenses, including payroll taxes and transfers, were $2,227,491.

The district's current cash balance is $5,224,489, which includes $2,500,000 of borrowed funds, Zigman said last week.

"Although earning interest now, in December and January these funds are used to meet our obligations as our tax revenue doesn't come in until February and March. We collect taxes in the winter only," she said.

strategies that we will be implementing," he said.

"Moreover, as part of our district curriculum review cycle, we are in the process of revising our language arts curriculum. There will be changes in what we teach and how we teach it."

Associate Editor Sheila Purglove can be reached at 475-1371.

MEAPS

In writing, 52.6 percent of seventh-graders passed, down from 60.1 percent in 2003 and on par with 52.5 in 2002.

In language arts, 68.7 percent passed, compared with last year's score of 74 percent.

In eighth-grade science, 80.8 percent passed, down slightly from 84.8 in 2003, but up from 78.1 percent in 2002.

Only 40.7 percent passed eighth-grade social studies, down from 50.6 percent in 2003 and even down from 42 percent in 2002.

In eighth-grade math, 75.9 percent passed, on par with 75.1 percent in 2003 and up from 70.4 percent in 2002.

"Statistically, our science and math scores were flat, while our scores in reading, writing, and social studies scores decreased," Lewis-Lakin said.

The state average decreased in three of the areas where Chelsea pupils showed decreases: social studies, language arts and writing.

"This provides a context for examining our scores," Lewis-Lakin said.

"We are going to break down all the scores, and use our analysis to examine what we teach and how we deliver the instruction."

Reading and writing are identified goals for improvement at Beach, he said.

"We have used research on best instructional practices to identify improvement

Groves finds her niche in teaching

Teacher also spends time coaching JV soccer

By Rita Fischer
Special Writer

Carly Groves' life always has revolved around children, whether as a babysitter, coach, tutor or in church youth programs.

So it was probably inevitable that her interest in working with youngsters would lead her down a career path to teaching — a path she shares with her older brother and sister-in-law.

Even her parents, who both work in the medical field, have done their share of teaching. Groves' mother is a nurse in Ann Arbor who teaches Lamaze classes and also taught Sunday school classes for several years. Her father is a director of research at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Superior Township and works as an adjunct professor at the University of Michigan Medical School.

"It seems as though we all have our hand in some form of teaching," Groves said. "I was influenced by various styles and types of teaching through my life from my family and from friends in the profession."

Groves, who teaches fourth grade at Pierce Lake Elementary School, graduated from Michigan State University with a degree in English. She completed her teaching certification at Eastern Michigan University.

"Through my work and getting into classrooms and working with students, I found that I wanted to definitely pursue teaching," she said.

"My experience with EMU solidified my interest in teaching and I was never happier to have teaching as a definite goal for my professional career."

Groves is enjoying being on staff at Pierce Lake Elementary School.

"We have wonderful kids that we get to experience working with every day," she said. "I love being a part of such a great school system — teaching students and helping them learn and grow. I enjoy helping children follow their dreams and grow as individuals, and hope to be an influential part of their educational experience."

Groves, who lives in Ann Arbor with her husband, Alex, stays fit by running and walking with her two dogs. She also plays basketball and soccer. She has coached girls' high school soccer for three years at Pioneer High School in Ann Arbor, in addition to a middle school basketball team.

Carly Groves, who teaches fourth grade at Pierce Lake Elementary School, also is a keen basketball and soccer player, and has coached youth teams.

She is assistant coach for the Chelsea High School girls' junior varsity soccer team.

"I really enjoy interacting with students, and I love athletics," she said.

In addition, she likes to sing and act, and has performed in several musicals. She also is studying for a master's degree.

"I'm very lucky to be surrounded by such caring and talented teachers and administrative staff, and to be in such an encouraging environment," she said.

CHELSEA REMINISCING

100 years ago...
May 1904

The representatives of the Republicans of Washtenaw met in convention at the courthouse in Ann Arbor. The gathering was declared by those of long experience to be the most largely attended, enthusiastic and harmonious held by the Republicans in 20 years.

The up-to-dateness and progressiveness of our schools has again been demonstrated by the art exhibit, which is now very tastefully displayed in the vacant store of the Staffan block. All the grades have samples of their work.

Doody Brothers has a new telephone. Harrison Hadley is entertaining his neighbors' evenings with his new phone graph.

The third annual field day of the Tri-County High School Athletic Association was held here Saturday and resulted most auspiciously for the Chelsea boys. The visitors could prevail nothing against the Chelsea school.

The Ann Arbor High School ball team was defeated in Chelsea last Saturday 5-4. Although Chelsea won, it had no license to, as the team made 11 errors and its batting was very light.

75 years ago...
May 1929

Federal Screw Works plans to build a large addition on its local factory. It will be the plant's largest unit. About 100 people will be added to the payroll.

The fourth annual reunion of the Riemenschneider School will be held May 19. A potluck dinner will be served at noon.

History sometimes does repeat itself, and it has done so in the case of a Chelsea political situation. The men who, on March 11, offered themselves to the people of Chelsea as sticker candidates on the village ticket and were declared elected by the board of canvassers, have again been declared the duly elected and qualified officials of the village of Chelsea. The decision was handed down Wednesday by Judge George W. Sample of the Washtenaw County Circuit Court.

Beach pupils take fourth place at Science Olympiad

Beach Middle School Science Olympians finished in fourth place at the 20th annual Science Olympiad regional competition held March 20 at Washtenaw Community College.

Ten middle schools from the region participated in the competition.

Olympians use a variety of scientific and technological skills and knowledge to compete in 23 events. Some events, such as "Can't Judge A Powder" and "Science Crime Busters," are centered around chemistry and forensics, while others, such as "Bottle Rockets" and "Bridge Building," require team members to construct a device to be tested at the event.

The team prepared for this competition starting in mid-November.

A Science Olympiad team consists of 15 starters and three alternates with ages ranging from sixth-graders to high school freshmen.

Gold medal winners included Zac Green and Ryan Lenehan in "Process Skills for Life Science," Kiefer Forsch and Patrick Hoefflinger in "Science of Fitness," and Rigel Bruening and Josh Riley in "Water Quality."

Aparna Ghosh and Megan Hardcastle took silver medals for "Can't Judge a Powder by Its Color," and Aparna Ghosh and Kiefer Forsch took silver in "Science Crime Busters."

Bronze medal winners include Rigel Bruening and Viktor Rozsa in "Bottle Rocket," Jon Elordi, Patrick Hoefflinger and Michael Kundak-Cowall in "Experimental Design," Viktor Rozsa and Nicholas Forsch in "Write It/Do It," and Viktor Rozsa and Patrick Holloway in "Road Scholar."

Polley were very pleased.

"We won more medals than ever before. The Olympians are already planning for next year," Polley said.

The two teachers said recognition should go to the parent volunteers and the Chelsea Education Foundation for a grant to purchase supplies and to field two teams at the February Invitational in Hudson.

Persello heads up youth services at district library

New employee began her career as a page at Bacon Memorial

By Sheila Pursglove
Associate Editor

Karen Persello's first library job was at the age of 14, when, as a student at T. Roosevelt High School in Wyandotte, she worked as a page at the Bacon Memorial Public Library.

That early experience has taken her along a career path as a librarian that led to her most recent appointment as head of youth services at the Chelsea District Library, succeeding Tina Diab.

Persello's job at the Bacon Memorial Public Library lasted for three years.

"I used to love to take a book and read at Bishop Park, on the river, during my lunch breaks," she said.

"My time at the Bacon library got me interested in reading science fiction and fantasy, which I have kept up for many years. In fact, my interest in science fiction led me to my husband, since we met at a science fiction club at the University of Michigan."

Persello earned a bachelor's degree in English at Michigan State University and a master's degree in library science at the University of Michigan. She has worked in the business school libraries at both universities.

Prior to coming to the Chelsea District Library, Persello worked as a school media specialist for six years at Central Academy School in Ann Arbor.

"Central Academy is a unique school in that it's a public charter school that has an enrollment of primarily Muslim students," Persello said.

"I created the school library and had a good time teaching library and research skills to the 350 students there. I learned a lot about Islam and Middle Eastern culture and even took some Arabic lessons."

In addition, she has spent the last six years as a substitute reference librarian at the Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti District libraries.

An Ann Arbor resident for almost 30 years, Persello is married and has two teenage sons.

Her hobbies and interests include music and American history, especially the Civil War.

"My family loves to travel and we have spent a lot of time traveling to historical places in the U.S.," she said.

The family has made two visits to Gettysburg, and visited Boston, Lexington and Concord, Washington D.C., Williamsburg, Salem, Mass., and one of Persello's favorite spots, Mystic Seaport in Connecticut.

The family also has made it a hobby to visit as many forts as possible.

"We're up to 15, including a fort in Nassau in the Bahamas, our most exotic fort," she said.

An avid reader, Persello enjoys many different genres besides science fiction, including mystery and contemporary fiction. Her favorite writers include children's author Patricia Polacco and Tracey Chevalier for adult books.

Persello said she is excited to be the head of youth services at the Chelsea District Library.

"I look forward to getting to know the people of Chelsea and serving them in our new downtown library," she said.

"I hope to expand our children's programming to include programs for school-age children, and I am especially interested in serving the needs of middle and high school students."

Persello is in the process of creating a teen area in the library. She invites people with ideas or suggestions for the youth department to contact her at the library, 475-8732.

Treatment plant gets new valves

Move expected to cost taxpayers about $12,000

By Steve Ricci
Staff Writer

New valves have been installed at the Chelsea Water Treatment Plant in an effort to protect plant workers. The move will cost taxpayers about $12,000.

The Chelsea City Council last month ratified Chelsea City Manager Mike Steklac's approval of the emergency purchase.

An "emergency condition" is defined by city code as any event that presents an imminent threat to public health or safety, or any event that could result in disruption of a city service.

The valves were placed on reverse osmosis pipes to facilitate cleaning of the pipes.

Without the valves, cleaning reverse osmosis membranes required taking apart pipes and inserting stainless steel discs into the pipes to force cleaning chemicals into the membranes.

Cleaning of reverse osmosis membranes is necessary for proper water treatment at the plant, which distributes water to homes and businesses, Steklac wrote in an April 2 memo.

The cleaning chemicals can cause burns if they come into contact with skin.

Steklac said the valves would reduce the possibility of plant employees coming into contact with the cleaning solution.

In addition, the new valves will save time by obviating the need to take apart pipes and insert the stainless steel discs during cleaning, Steklac said.

Staff Writer Steve Ricci can be reached at 475-1371 or srice@heritage.com.

It's never too late to go to school

Back when I was in college, I knew a girl whose grandfather finished his bachelor's degree in education the age of 76. That was more than 25 years ago, at a time when "non-traditional student" was becoming part of the college lingua franca.

Nowadays, you'd be hard-pressed to find a college or university that doesn't have a pretty large number of "non-traditional" students enrolled. For some of us, it's better to wait to go to college—when we're more mature and more committed to setting educational goals and reaching them. Maybe you've been thinking about it for a while. It's not such a crazy idea, after all, people go back to school all the time, right? Even at your age. In fact, adult students (ages 25-80) are the fastest growing educational demographic, according to recent statistics from the census bureau and the United States Department of Education. So many adults are returning to college (and enrolling for the first time) that they will hardly be known as "nontraditional" students much longer.

Here are some tips to help you get to the head of the class this year.

Life Experience Credit

You may be able to use previous education, life and work experience to your advantage in securing the proper credentials. Many institutions grant credit for life or work experience through standardized ex-ams, like the College Level Examination Program (CLEP), which is offered in several subject areas. Some colleges also offer special "Life Experience credits," which often involves compiling a portfolio that demonstrates the student has mastered the principles taught in a course.

Take stock of your past achievements and your academic goals. Why are you going to college? While you don't have to choose a major immediately, thinking this way may help you narrow your choices for a school or program.

COMPILE your school and training records. List the names of the institutions or organizations where you studied, years attended, the skills you learned, number of credits you obtained or the certificate, degree or diploma you completed. Also list the knowledge and skills you have gained informally.

Finding Funding

Today there are more options than ever for adult students to finance their degrees. Never assume you don't qualify for financial aid. In fact, it's not necessary to be admitted to a college or university before you can apply for aid. You can submit the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) anytime after January 1, using estimates of income if your tax information is not yet available. Any errors can be corrected later, and in most cases, the FAFSA must be received by March 1 to qualify for state aid. In addition to state and federally-sponsored funding, many companies offer tuition assistance or reimbursement for employees who attend school part-time. To find out more, visit the financial aid office of the school you're interested in attending to find out about other grants, scholarships, low-interest loan options, co-operative education programs, payment plans and work-study opportunities that may be available. You can also research scholarships in libraries or through scholarship search services on the Internet, and don't forget to take advantage of education tax credits like the Hope Scholarship Credit and the Lifetime Learning Tax Credit.

Scouts seek donations for sale

Dexter Boy Scout Troop 477 is appealing to local residents for donations for its 34th annual rummage sale, traditionally one of the largest sales in Washtenaw County.

As in past years, Scouts and their families will pick up donations. To arrange to have a donation picked up, call the troop's rummage pickup hotline number at 1-734-332-9120.

Merchandise that sells well includes books, games, household goods, lamps, microwaves, cameras, tools, beds, bikes, kitchen items, dishes, pots and pans, musical instruments, refrigerators, televisions, toys, and carpeting.

All appliances need to work, and furniture should be in good condition.

Items that won't be accepted include hot water tanks, curtain rods, mattresses, sinks, commodes, and tires.

The sale will be held from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. June 18 and 8 a.m. to noon June 19 at Creekside Intermediate School, 2615 Baker Road.

Proceeds from the sale will help fund the troop's summer trip, merit badge and advancement work, and service projects.

DHS grad participates in play

Nathaniel Leonard, a 2003 graduate of Dexter High School, participated in the annual Christ College Freshman production at Valparaiso University in November.

Leonard is a freshman engineering major. He is the son of Carl and Margaret Leonard.

The assignment was to write and produce an original 90-minute musical inspired by text read for class. The final product was the result of 10 weeks of meetings, rehearsals and cooperation between the 80 members of the Christ College freshman program. Christ College is the interdisciplinary honors college at VU.

"Beef: It's What's for Dinner," was the original musical comedy set in Canada devised by the group. It explored the many facets of human nature.

Local man wins second million

Lightning struck twice for Dexter resident Russell Tanner.

On June 5, 2002, Tanner won his first million when he scratched off a Michigan Lottery "Casino Riches" instant ticket to win a $1 million top prize.

Last week, Tanner purchased another million dollar winning ticket just days before his 78th birthday. He bought the ticket at Pilot Travel Center 296, 195 Baker Road, in Dexter.

"The first time that I won the million-dollar top prize, I just kept saying 'omigosh,'" he said in a press release from the Michigan Lottery. "When I scratched off this ticket and saw I had won another million-dollar top prize, I was shocked. I simply couldn't believe that I could be so blessed. It just feels good to win."

Tanner said the best part of winning is being able to help out his family and friends financially.

"It's a wonderful feeling to be able to help others," he said. "I always say that if you don't play, it doesn't pay. Now I'm going for three."

Tanner could not be reached by press time for an interview.

Drunken Driving
A 56-year-old Ann Arbor woman was arrested May 4 for drunken driving, her second arrest for the violation.

A deputy stopped the woman for having expired plates and for running a stop sign. She initially ignored a deputy's attempts to stop her, but finally pulled to the side of the road once inside Ann Arbor city limits.

She was not carrying a driver's license, registration or proof of insurance, according to a police report.

She produced a temporary license that had expired in July 2003. The woman told police that she had her license suspended for a previous drunken-driving incident.

The driver admitted to drinking four mixed drinks, with her last being consumed approximately 15 minutes before driving. According to a report, she was struggling with her words and appeared to be swaying while she was seated.

After nearly falling after the deputy asked her to exit the car to perform a field sobriety test, the woman recorded a blood-alcohol content of 0.37, nearly five times the 0.08 legal limit.

The woman told police that she drank very often and she knew it was a problem. Because of a policy that Washtenaw County Jail will not accept anyone with a blood-alcohol level higher than 0.33, the woman was arrested and taken to the hospital.

A search of the vehicle revealed two empty bottles of vodka, a nearly full bottle of vodka, and two garbage bags full of empty gallon containers of vodka.

The woman was kept at the hospital for observation before being taken to jail.

The case has been turned over to the prosecutor for review.

Larceny

A metal cashbox containing $688 was stolen from Ann Arbor Machine Co., 78 Jackson Plaza, sometime during May 3 or 4.

A police report said that the locked box was kept in an unlocked office to help employees who need change. Police suspect that an employee could have been involved in the incident.

Check Fraud

An employee at Lowe's, 5900 Jackson Ave., reported check-fraud April 29 that had occurred earlier in the month.

A woman, described as having brown eyes and black hair in her early 20s, purchased $241.98 worth of goods April 4 with a check. When the check was returned, the employee contacted the bank and learned that the account did not exist and that the account number was false.

Police were unable to locate the woman.

Home Invasion

A 54-year-old man and his daughter, 14, reported that golf clubs were stolen May 2 from their home in the 700 block of Dornoch Drive in the Polo Fields subdivision off Zeeb Road.

The mother told police that she returned from walking the dog at approximately 9:30 p.m. and left the garage door open. She realized later that she forgot to close the door, and when she went to shut the door she realized that the golf clubs were missing.

The daughter said she was in her room and heard a loud crashing noise in the area of the garage at about 10 p.m. She told police that it sounded as if it could have been golf clubs banging together.

Approximately $2,000 worth of equipment and bags was stolen from the garage.

Violation of Conditional Bond

A 53-year-old man was arrested May 1 in Scio Farms Estates, 6655 Jackson Road, for violating a bond that stipulated he not visit the mobile home or consume alcohol.

A deputy went to the address to serve two subpoenas. The subpoenas were for an upcoming jury trial related to domestic assault charges against the suspect. While there, the deputy heard a voice and asked the woman if the man in question was at the residence. She said he was there.

The deputy checked with the dispatch center and learned the conditions of the man's bond. The man was sitting in a chair drinking beer. The deputy reported that his speech was slurred, which is a sign of intoxication.

The man was arrested and agreed to submit to a preliminary breath test, which revealed a blood-alcohol content of 0.23 percent. A level of .08 percent or higher is considered legally drunk under state law.

Trespassing

A 46-year-old homeless man was arrested May 1 for trespassing at the Eagle Pointe apartment complex.

The man's mother, 70, called police after the man started banging on her door. The woman suspected that he had been drinking and called police.

When police approached the suspect, he became

Dexter Township Property Damage

A 40-year-old woman called police after she found damage to her car May 2 in the 14000 block of Ridgemont Street.

The woman told police that her husband found a window in her car had been smashed out. He also found a piece of wood in the driveway.

The woman said that her daughter returned from the prom at 4 a.m. and saw the piece of wood, but did not see any damage.

The woman said she does not know why she was targeted for the attack.

Damage is estimated at $400.

A 45-year-old man reported that his mailbox had been thrown through his car window May 2 at his home in the 13000 block of Ridgemont Street.

The man said he found the damage in the morning, and does not know who could have done it.

The mailbox is valued at $40 and the window is valued at $600.

Compiled by Staff Writer Scott Hagen based on police reports filed with the Michigan State Police, Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department and Chelsea Police Department.

Gunlocks distributed

The National Shooting Sports Foundation joined local law enforcement Monday and Tuesday to distribute 779,000 free gunlocks to area families.

Milan, Saline, Ypsilanti and Pittsfield police departments distributed the free locks Monday. The Ann Arbor, Northfield and Chelsea police departments, as well as the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department, participated Tuesday.

As part of the Project ChildSafe program, an expansion of Project HomeSafe, the NSSF hopes to make families with firearms safer by raising awareness about responsible firearm ownership and storage.

The program's goal is to provide 20 million free gunlocks and safety materials to families across the country.

In 2002, Project HomeSafe distributed 2.4 million firearm safety kits in 44 states to boost firearm responsibility and awareness.

"We are proud to say that, since its grassroots beginning in 1999, Project HomeSafe became the largest, most comprehensive firearms safety education program in the nation," Doug Painer, president of the NSSF, said in a press release.

Library board, staff grateful

METTA LANSDALE

LIBRARY NOTES

I'd like to use this opportunity to say how much the Chelsea District Library Board, library staff and I appreciate the support the library has received in the past several years.

We thank voters, our municipal partners and the hundreds of community members who participated in the library needs assessment process, the building planning phases and, most recently, the capital campaign.

The library is a far stronger institution as a result of this community involvement — more, responsive, more relevant and more forward thinking.

With the approval of the library bond May 4, we will use the community's vision, input and collaboration to build the best possible library for the best possible price.

In a previous show of support in 1999, voters approved a 20-year library operating millage. In an interview on April 15, The Chelsea Standard asked if the Library Board anticipated requesting additional funds within the next 10 years. The answer is no.

The library feels confident that the current operational millage is sufficient to operate a renovated and expanded McKune Memorial Library, and that no request for additional millage authorization will be made.

The library's current operating millage expires in December 2019. Realistically, forecasting future operating costs 15 to 20 years out would not be possible.

The narrow margin of approval reflects concerns for increasing taxes for local public services, a concern for the success of the local school system and an uncertainty about the economy in general.

We feel fortunate and we are grateful for a positive result in light of this difficult environment.

I believe that the renovated and expanded library will prove its value, and that the community will receive a return on this investment many times over.

The library architect and construction manager will be compiling and finalizing construction documents and bid packages through the summer and fall. In the fall, the library will finalize preparations for removing the house at 121 Orchard St. and moving the Staffan's house to that location.

Construction likely will begin in the spring of 2005. We look forward to project completion in the summer of 2006.

The Library Board invites those interested to follow the progress of the building project on the library's Web site and in The Chelsea Standard.

Anyone who has questions or concerns as the board moves ahead, may call me directly.

Metta Lansdale is the director of the Chelsea District Library. She can be reached at 475-4268.

Community made prom a success

Wow, what a ride. The Chelsea High School prom couldn't have been accomplished without the cooperation of our wonderful community.

Thank you to everyone. There are too many to mention.

Chelsea High really has outstanding students. I want to thank them from my heart for all the hours they spent during lunches, after school and into the night.

Thanks to the teachers for allowing them to help during school hours. Thank you for being grateful and gracious to others who helped.

Thank you to Chelsea High School staff members. School Operations Director Ron Livengood has great men and women who were there helping the volunteers, even bringing coffee in the 37-degree rain during the prom.

Thanks to them for opening doors in the morning every day, getting odd tools and props, and thanks for finding a local saxophone player for the "subway."

Thanks to Chelsea High School Principal Ron Mead for saying "yes" to new things for the prom and for all the support and allowing students to participate.

Thanks especially to all the wonderful teachers, including the sweet Nancy Z. who was class adviser for all the junior class who organized the prom. Thanks for all your support, trust, time, organization and love (you are the "prom queen," Mrs. Z).

Thanks to our Chelsea community members and parents who donated and loaned materials, time and work and gave tirelessly.

Thanks to those who built and painted, designed, cleaned up and organized. These people did their parts because they love kids and wanted to give Chelsea High School students another great memory. It's been great from the start to the finish.

Decisions by Bush should be questioned

In a letter to The Chelsea Standard printed May 6, John Kinzinger praised the patriotism quietly expressed by Howard S. "Howdy" Holmes.

Bravo. Howdy probably deserves it. In the same letter, the writer was implying that the other Howard Holmes, me, is not patriotic, by virtue of the columns I have written criticizing the Bush administration for our invasion of Iraq.

Well, just because the picture on my driver's license does make me look like I am in league with Osama bin Laden, I resent the implication that I am not "supporting our troops" by challenging and questioning the "leaders" that have placed them in harm's way using fearmongering and deception, and by lying to Congress and the American people.

Maybe Mr. Kinzinger is better informed than me as to why these same soldiers remain unsupported by the very administration that placed them there, and that too many are serving without such frills as proper body armor, helmets and non-contaminated food.

And lest we get too high and mighty about the moral cause we are fighting for, try to shrug off those pictures from Abu Ghraib this past week. This "war on terror" has devolved into an ugly and frightful post-invasion nightmare that needs to end now.

Mr. Kinzinger is one of the many who still confuse our Sept. 11, 2001, tragedy with our country's actions in Iraq. Our "fight with terrorism" has nothing to do with the ongoing travesty in Iraq and we all can best support our troops by demanding that our leaders immediately withdraw our forces from that country before more innocent blood is shed.

It is appalling how many Americans continue to be bamboozled by the institutionalized deceit that continues to be emitted from the White House.

I will not stay quiet while this injustice continues. More is the pity that people like Mr. Kinzinger cannot see this injustice, and that the very name and the many virtues of what our country formerly stood for, that were honored and admired the world over, have been displaced by scorn and ridicule.

Even if our troops come home tomorrow, it will be a long time before we recover our respect.

Howard L. Holmes

Embrace those with disabilities

I feel the need to comment on your editorial last week asking for contributions to the Muscular Dystrophy Association. After all, you mention, "It's a good cause."

But I ask, is it? I urge people to look at both sides of the issue regarding the MDA and its spokesman, comedian Jerry Lewis.

Many people with disabilities who consider themselves activists, such as myself, strongly object to supporting the MDA because of the outdated, harmful stereotypes that MDA and Mr. Lewis perpetuate about disability.

Through their annual telethon and other fundraising efforts, the MDA portrays people with physical disabilities as pitiful and their lives tragic, which is simply not true.

Mr. Lewis himself is the worst offender. In a 1990 magazine article, he mused about what having muscular dystrophy might be like. He described a miserable life as "half of a person" who was stuck in "that steel imprisonment (a wheelchair)," watching "the other cripples play ... wishing to be 'like normal healthy, vital, and energetic people.'"

More recently, in 2001, Mr. Lewis responded to activist protests by remarking, "Pity? You don't want to be pitied for being a cripple in a wheelchair? Stay in your house."

These comments come from a man who is purported to be a supporter for disability rights.

The MDA stands by Mr. Lewis and neither offender will apologize. Their ridiculous pity parade featuring children with muscular diseases only fosters fear of disability and encourages able-bodied people to feel sorry for those of us who have physical disabilities.

Instead of focusing on the majority of people with disabilities who lead happy and productive lives, the MDA chooses to exploit children who have rare terminal conditions and encourage sadness and hopelessness as the image of what disability is about.

And what of all those millions of dollars that unsuspecting, well-meaning people fork over every year? Some of it goes to actually helping people with muscular diseases, but most of it goes to medical research, which is not necessarily a bad thing.

The trouble is, all this money is being used to find a cure, which is great, but the vast majority of people with muscular dystrophy is living, and won't be cured in their lifetime. Don't they deserve more funding for them to be able to lead independent lives?

Plus, the way the money is being raised degrades the very people whom it's supposed to serve. This will surprise many people, but curing disabilities is not always something that is important to people with disabilities.

As a disability activist, I view disability as a natural occurrence; a phenomenon that we should not try to eradicate, but instead accommodate and even embrace.

What limits people with muscular dystrophy and other types of physical disabilities is not the disability itself, but the societal prejudices and discrimination that we encounter every day.

By supporting the MDA, you are giving Mr. Lewis a message that it's OK to perpetuate harmful images of disability, undoing any good that money raised could actually do.

Turkey hunter was irresponsible

On May 8, my family and I set out to go turkey hunting. We had everything we needed — a beautiful morning, gun safety, permission and knowledge of the property where we were hunting, and we knew where others in our group were sitting.

From my blind, I watched a gentleman come onto the land, shoot his turkey and sneak back out again. Please note that while a tree fallen by God and nature may create a beautiful bridge across a river, it is not an open invitation to trespass.

It doesn't bother me that he got a turkey or even that he trespassed on property without permission. What bothers me most is that he thought it OK to shoot yards away from where my family was sitting with not only disregard for others' property, but the safety of others, as well.

I hope he had a good hunting story to share about how he got the turkey. The story my children learned was what exactly not to do when you are a hunter.

Americans should be ashamed of treatment

Like millions of other Americans around the country and the world, I was equally disturbed by the pictures of torture and inhumane treatment of prisoners in Iraq. This, as the president spoke, also is "not the America that I know."

Having served in the military during Vietnam, I know a little about being at war. The disgusting behavior of a few should not, however, speak to nature of our country and our desire to promote peace throughout the world.

I am equally disturbed by the different coverage given to this incident and the lack of coverage and outrage over treatment of American POWs and civilian workers captured in Iraq.

I wonder where the outrage is over the mutilation of civilian workers recently by militant groups in Iraq. How about some outrage over the missing POWs still listed from Vietnam or Korea? Where are the pictures? Where are the continuing front-page headlines? Where is the constant news coverage?

How about in Somalia, where American Marines bodies were dragged through the streets? Where was the constant coverage then?

Why hasn't this country demanded that nations in the Middle East step forward and take responsibility for the actions of their citizens?

How come the world doesn't demand equal enforcement of the Geneva Convention for all nations?

For the life of me, I can't remember any king or leaders standing up to the American people and saying, "how sorry" he was for "the treatment given to Americans" during any of those incidents.

I do and can remember how quickly the American people forget and stop demanding equality from other nations. It's so easy to blame a president because of political beliefs. It's so easy to second guess why things happen. It's so easy to sit back here in a "safe" environment and complain about what is happening across the globe. It's so easy to sit around and "knock" our military and its leaders.

Instead, we should be supporting our government and our military people, unless we are willing ourselves to put our lives on the line as they have. During times when our nation puts forth young men and women to defend its principles, we should be doing everything we can to show support for them.

More than 700 Americans have died, so far, liberating a nation and, hopefully, a region that thrives on torture and inhumane treatment of all people. I remember what it was like coming home after Vietnam. I remember the coverage and things that were said about us then.

Sadly, I hear some of the same things today. Shame on Americans then, and shame on some of you now.

Gay couples deserve equal protection

The constitutional ban on gay marriage would not only serve as a social restriction but a legal restriction, as well.

Same-sex couples are denied thousands of benefits and are often denied visitation rights to their loved ones because they are unable to prove they are family.

Aside from legal benefits, a ban essentially says homosexual love is not right and should not be held in the same esteem as heterosexual marriages. A ban would only taint this nation's Constitution, which has always served to enhance the rights of its citizens.

It's time that Michigan and the United States fulfill the promise of our Constitution and give gay couples equal protection under the law.

Road to 'security' has led to torture

A few weeks ago, I wrote an editorial in The Ann Arbor News on the role of "security contractors," such as mercenaries in the war in Iraq. In case you did not know, there are more than 20,000 in Iraq now.

Today, I read that there are now private intelligence contractors who were allowed to participate in interrogations of Iraqi prisoners. These contractors, in addition to CIA and military intelligence, set the stage for the offenses of line officers now accused in the Abu Ghraib prison scandal in Iraq.

One of these contractors was even accused of raping a male prisoner but was outside the military chain of command and, thus, discipline was left up to his parent corporation. Where has the road to "security" taken us: to torture, to the outsourcing of torture?

This administration uses the words "security" and "patriotism" as weapons against those who would question the methods they utilize for their goals. It is no secret that we have shipped suspects to countries such as Egypt and Saudi Arabia to undergo interrogations that used torture to extract information, and this under the watchful eye of FBI, CIA, and other agencies.

There were vague references to this practice for a while on the news as we waged the "war on terror," but the public seemed to tacitly accept this as necessary to make ourselves safe.

A prison was created specifically to remove its inmates from any system of oversight or justice, a few pictures of hooded prisoners appeared, but what happens within the walls of Guantanamo stays there. It was stated that the president needed the power to remove U.S. citizens from the protection of the Constitution and the courts, and it would seem we have given this to him.

What is now beginning to emerge from the scandal at the Abu Ghraib prison in Iraq is the logical progression of the security-at-all-costs mentality we seem to be a prisoner of and will lead us to a place we should never go.

Most of those who moved through the prison were swept up in a system of checkpoints and general roundups of "military age" males; no appeals, no notification of status, held in a virtual limbo in conditions described as inhuman.

We needed safety in an increasingly hostile land and, thus, intelligence was essential and the means to obtain it would be sublimated to security. Make no mistake: we tortured people in ways that if prosecuted in a civilian court would rival the spectacle of singer Michael Jackson.

This was sanctioned far beyond the level of several low ranking soldiers, beyond the prison administration, beyond even the U.S. administration. It was sanctioned by the American people.

It is no accident that a number of intelligence officers in the prison were from Guantanamo and Afghanistan, and it is no surprise that this scandal was described as pervasive in the military prison system in Iraq by one of its own generals charged with investigating the issue.

It seems the attitude was one of run those swept up through a range of intimidation and then, as deemed necessary, to outright mental and physical torture and see what shakes loose.

For our own security, we are willing to deny lesser beings theirs, an "us-against-them" mindset that is in danger of becoming a self-fulfilling prophecy.

There are allegations determined by investigating Army Gen. Taguba to be credible of torture; the first step is inmates being stripped naked upon arrival and forced to be seen by their fellow prisoners and our soldiers, including women.

This was a first step in a process of breaking down resistance and is obviously rooted in the understanding of the nature of Muslim aversion to public nudity, especially in men. This is related to the homophobia characteristic of the region.

From here, we move to the use of dogs to intimidate, then to beatings, mock electrocution, on to simulation of rape, and then to the act itself.

These activities have taken place for months and the idea that they are isolated incidents involving a limited number of individuals strains credulity.

The scenes described are barbarous, but they represent what the administration thinks the people want or will accept in the name of safety and security.

It is an interesting and appalling contradiction that those who rail against the terrorists are in effect utilizing the tools of those they seek to defeat. Do we expect that our own stalwartness will not be matched by those whose lands we now occupy?

Board should reduce new library's plans

Count me among those who remain unconvinced that the Chelsea library construction plans are justified.

The recent Library Board mailing acknowledged that the Breton Group survey in 2002 led to the conclusion that "a 24,000-square-foot library is not feasible." But somehow the board convinced enough people (by 72 votes) that a 26,500-square-foot library is a good idea, adding the 18,000 square feet of service space and the 8,500 square feet of unfinished space for future expansion in the board proposal.

The taxpayers still have to pay for construction of the unfinished space, and we undoubtedly will be asked to approve still more money in the future to finish it and operate it.

The library director has already stated that the operating millage will be increased in 2005 in anticipation of the larger library. Given that the Washington Street Education Center totals 8,391 square feet, of which only about 7,300 square feet is in use as a library, we have approved a proposed library that is more than three times its size.

I have been told by Library Board members that the numbers cited above do not include McKune House, which will be gutted and rebuilt as "community meeting space." Since nearly $1 million will be spent on renovation of McKune House, this will be an expensive meeting space.

I still don't understand why providing public meeting space with taxpayer money should be a function of the Library Board. Taxpayers already pay for lots of space in the schools, and there are meeting rooms at the hospital and at local hotels.

Considering that McKune House contained more than 5,000 square feet when it served as the library, the total available space for the planned library comes to more than 31,500 square feet, more than four times the size of the Washington Street facility.

I am a frequent user of the library, and I have never seen it busy or crowded. I don't doubt the board's report that the number of library visitors increased by 13 percent in 2003, but I don't believe that this rate of growth justifies a four-fold increase in library size.

The Library Board showed fiscal responsibility when it levied less than the approved operating millage. I suggest that it would make a lot of friends if it did the same thing with this millage.

The bonds haven't been sold and ground hasn't been broken. It's not too late to modify the plans to provide a more realistic and affordable library.

By the way, it bothered me to see the April 22 Standard front-page headline "McKune House future hangs on vote" and April 22 commentary page headline "We must use McKune or we'll lose it" over Metta Lansdale's guest column.

Then seeing the article on Page 2 of the April 29 Standard quoting McKune heirs stating that this was not so, this smacks of scare tactics to get out a few more "yes" voters who just want to see the library back downtown.

I wonder how many people were influenced by this bogus argument.

I also want to see the library back downtown, but at a more reasonable size.

Vote is chance to save Chelsea schools

As a teacher in the Chelsea School District for four years and employee for six years, I cannot emphasize enough how important the bond issue on June 14 is for our schools.

I was among the 20 teachers who received a pink slip last month informing me that I possibly would not be employed by the district next year.

Six years ago, I walked in to Andrea Bareis' classroom to observe classes while finishing my degree at Eastern Michigan University. I knew right then that I had walked into a special community. Little did I know at the time that I would have the opportunity to student teach here, substitute teach here, and eventually have the honor of being hired on a full-time basis.

It is truly one heck of a place to teach.

Many people feel the school district is using the threat of laying off teachers as a motive to get the bond issue passed. The reality is that the district has no other choice. Contractually, the district has to notify us in advance of any changes being made.

The state has stripped the funding at a rate in which we need help to maintain the quality that this district has been used to for so many years. In fact, the entire state seems to be in a crunch.

Unfortunately for me and 19 other non-tenured teachers, we have to face the fact that we may not be back. I am a big enough person to know

MAKING INTELLIGENT PRICING DECISIONS. Pricing your home is one of the most important decisions you must make when selling your property. Some sellers want to price their home based on the return they would like on their initial investment, while others will base the price on what they need to buy their new home. Location, condition, and accessibility are three other variables that will affect the price of a property.

It is crucial to price your home correctly from the beginning because if you will not sell if it is over priced. Don't make the mistake of thinking that you can reduce the price later because you will have already lost many potential buyers. The motivation of the seller is another very important factor. The higher the seller's motivation, the lower the price, and low motivation will mean a higher price.

The state of your local real estate market is one of the strongest determining factors when pricing your home. A professional Realtor will be able to guide you through the pricing pitfalls with a written market analysis that includes the selling prices for similar homes in your area.

Making Strides

Dorothy Boughton, left, and her daughter, Erika Beauchamp, will participate in the San Diego Musical Marathon June 6 to raise money for the American Stroke Association. Erin Nelson and her daughter, Jan, will walk in a marathon in Hawaii June 20 for the same cause. The quartet is taking part in the Train to End Stroke program.

Local women to walk in fund-raising marathon

By Sheila Pursglove
Associate Editor

Four Chelsea residents are lacing up their shoes for a good cause.

The quartet, part of Team Detroit, will be walking and running in marathons to raise money for the American Stroke Association. They train in Ann Arbor every Saturday with coach Alice Ahern.

Dorothy Boughton and her daughter, Erika Beauchamp, will participate in the San Diego Musical Marathon June 6. Beauchamp is running in honor of her two grandfathers, Scottie Blacklaw, who died of a heart attack, and Bud Boughton, who died of heart disease in January.

Beauchamp got on board when her husband, Jeremy, who works for the American Heart Association, mentioned the Train to End Stroke Program. Strokes are the third leading cause of death in America and a major cause of serious, long-term disability.

Despite having two young daughters, a full-time job, and six knee surgeries since her graduation from Chelsea High School in 1992, Beauchamp decided to run the 26.2-mile marathon.

"When I told people I was running a marathon, many people told me that I was crazy and that I wouldn't be able to do it," she said.

"I'm running to prove them wrong and to show my daughters that they can do anything that they put their minds to."

Beauchamp enlisted her mother to walk in the marathon.

"She is my inspiration," Beauchamp said. "When I am running and feel as though I cannot go on, I just think of my mom and I find the energy to finish."

Boughton, a former employee of Sleeping Bear Press and Clock Tower Press in Chelsea, works for her daughter-in-law, Marcy, at Physiotherapy Associates in Chelsea. She is walking in memory of her father, Peter Breingan, who died of heart disease when Boughton was 9 years old.

"Several of the people who have donated to the American Stroke Association on behalf of my walk have asked me to walk in memory of others who have passed on due to stroke or heart-related diseases," Boughton said.

"Each of their names will be prominently displayed on my shirt on race day."

Boughton said her daughter talked her into joining her by asking, "Mom, you can walk can't you?"

"I knew how to walk and finally said yes," Boughton said. "Since January, we have been walking a minimum of four days a week in all kinds of weather and conditions."

The mother-daughter duo also has been soliciting donations to the American Stroke Association. Boughton's goal is to raise $3,500.

Boughton, who hopes to complete the San Diego marathon in six hours, walks every morning in a neighborhood "walkie-talkie" group with Alberta Colbry, Marilyn Cook, Carol Ghent and Deb Ceo.

"The purpose is to exercise, but it also serves as a great social time," Boughton said.

Jan Nelson and her daughter, Erin, will walk in the 26.2-mile marathon in Kona, Hawaii, June 20.

Jan Nelson says when she received a flier about the marathon, it struck home because of its personal relevance. Her aunt suffered a stroke several years ago "and nothing has been the same since," she said.

"She continues to deteriorate so, and it breaks my heart," Nelson said. "But she is one of the lucky ones — she is alive."

Nelson has known three other people who were felled by strokes. She wanted to do something to help stop the debilitating disease and also wanted to do something for the good of others.

"I am not rich by any means, but I can walk," she said. "I also needed to do something to get in shape, being overweight and out of shape, and this seemed like a good way of helping myself, too, so that I could reduce my own risk of stroke."

Nelson says she wanted to convey to her daughter, Erin, the importance of going after a goal, "of giving of yourself for a cause greater than yourself, and letting her know you can do whatever you set your mind to."

Nelson originally planned to complete a half marathon, before deciding to go for broke.

"If you're gonna do it, do it all the way," she said. "I am absolutely confident I can do it."

She got off to an inauspicious start, slipping on ice and crashing hard to the ground. Then she fell again on icy railroad tracks on Freer Road. And later, this self-proclaimed klutz fell off a treadmill.

Those mishaps notwithstanding, Nelson says training is a good stress reliever.

"I have spooked a deer, heard the birds singing, listened to babbling brooks, admired many homes, looked at new construction and dreamed of a new house, and learned to appreciate my community even more," she said.

The Nelsons have set a fund-raising goal of $5,000 each, and are doing a number of activities to raise money — including casual day donations at work, bottle and can drives and yard sales.

"I have to say, I thought it would be the physical part that would be hard, but instead it is the worry associated with fund-raising," she said.

Nelson's 18-year-old daughter, Erin, a 2003 graduate of Chelsea High School who is studying at Washtenaw Community College, says she has never taken on this type of challenge before.

"Yet I'm proud to say that I actually am going through with it," she said.

"The experience overall is one I know that I won't forget."

To donate to the fight against strokes, call Jan Nelson at 475-0646, Dorothy Boughton at 475-8524, or visit the program Web site www.teamdetroit.kintera.org.

Erin Nelson strides out in a local park.

Jan Nelson of Chelsea limbers up and stretches her muscles prior to a walk. Nelson and her daughter, Erin, will walk in a 26.2-mile marathon in Hawaii June 20.

WHO'S WATCHING THE CHILDREN?

The Orange County Register thought its readers might like to know about the criminal histories of workers in the state's day-care facilities. After all, the paper's readers were placing their own trust and their children's well-being in the hands of those workers.

But the state of California turned down a series of newspaper Freedom of Information requests to look at those histories, citing the privacy rights of the workers. It also refused access to its data base of offenses and other day-care center violations unless the newspaper paid $45,000 for the information.

In the end, the Register won its fight for access to documents—which were used to track down the criminals and public court records that revealed their histories. The newspaper also built its own data base from nearly 50,000 pages of inspection and complaint reports in Orange County. These efforts allowed the Register to unveil for the state's parents the uncomfortable truth. Throughout California, thousands of day-care workers had long criminal histories. The results of the data base analysis also showed pervasive problems of mistreatment, neglect, overcrowding and unsafe conditions.

If you lived in Orange County, or any other county with day care, wouldn't you like to know whether the adults your children come in contact with have committed crimes?

Book signing set Saturday

Cranesbill Books & Music, 108 E. Middle St., is hosting a book signing as part of its Magical Spring Celebration Saturday. It has been billed as "a day of frogs, flowers, faeries and fables." All activities are free to the public.

The daylong event starts with live musical entertainment at noon, followed by a nature-themed origami demonstration by Jack Smith, who will show techniques of making paper animals and insects.

The highlight of the day is expected to be the appearance by author Erin Anderson and illustrator Mary Fuscaldo, creators of the award-winning children's book "Look About You, A Magical Childhood in Michigan's Wild Places."

The duo will read from and discuss their Northern Michigan experiences, and the folklore that are the heart of the book's theme.

In keeping with the day's nature theme, the store will offer a plant-a-plant activity, a free potting and planting station for children and parents. There also will be refreshments and other activities during the day.

"We're elated to have Erin and Mary come down from Leelanau to join us for our spring celebration," said Cranesbill owner Jan Loveland.

For those of us who spent summers in Northern Michigan, we can relate to their magical adaptation of this special area.

Feel the beat Drum troupe to perform tomorrow

Like Water Drum & Dance, a Washtenaw County-based percussion and dance troupe, will showcase its latest CD "To the Roots" with the Roots Unification III-party tomorrow at the Freight House in Ypsilanti.

The evening will get under way at 5:30 p.m. with a vegetarian Indian dinner, followed by a free drumming class for children at 6:15 p.m.

Like Water Drum & Dance will then perform in concert at 7:30 p.m. with West African drum and dance performances for the whole family, featuring hand drums, dancers, costumes, songs, and drumming music.

"This is our third self-produced show for the whole family — the way a community should come together: safe, fun, smoke-free, and kid friendly," said the troupe's leader, Ryan Edwards of Chelsea.

Tickets at the door are $10, with children under 10 admitted for free.

Like Water Drum & Dance showcases traditional West African drumming and dancing. Audiences are entertained with fancy and rapid drum figures, as well as energetic dance choreographs.

Edwards founded the troupe in September 2000. The ensemble of musicians and dancers is intrigued and inspired by West African drumming and dancing.

Like Water Drum & Dance has performed throughout the Midwest at music festivals, concert and club dates, and parties, as well as in schools and universities. They have also performed at the annual Martin Luther King, Jr. Day celebrations in Chelsea.

The troupe often is in schools offering lecture demonstrations and leading artist-in-residency programs. They recently appeared at Pierce Lake Elementary School in Chelsea.

CD offers exciting music

BILL HOHNKE

CD REVIEW

Like Water Drum and Dance troupe, which was founded and led by Ryan Edwards of Chelsea, tomorrow will release its new CD "To the Roots."

Wherever I take my promotional copy of the CD, people want to know what it is and how they can get one.

This CD offers authentic renderings of traditional drumming songs from West Africa. It's obvious from the quality of the music that Edwards has done his homework to make his music as authentic as possible.

Aside from some occasional singing, the sound is dominated by djembes and dununs, traditional African drums with accompanying pitches on balafons, a more primitive version of marimbas.

Some arrangements include a rhythmic prayer for safety or music to praise mothers for doing a good job raising their daughters. This music celebrates different occasions, all of them joyful and exciting.

At first listen, the tracks seem a bit repetitive. However, the more time I spent with "To the Roots," the more I could appreciate the fascinating intricacies laced through each track and the actual journey of rhythm I take as I listen.

This music is art and, like all art, demands an investment from its audience.

At its heart, this is dance music. It inspires me to build a bonfire in my backyard and invite my friends over to dance around it to the tribal beats. It begs to be danced to. When Like Water drummers and dancers perform live, their dancers are an integral part in experiencing the complete picture of the music.

Listeners should be warned: Track 3, "Seh Hohnke Seh," contains a brief rap section stylized after early '90s rap reminiscent of Marky Mark. It's there to enhance the message of the song, but it comes off as strikingly out of place amidst the rest of the music.

The CD starts with an aggressive medley of dance rhythms from various African rite-of-passage ceremonies and does not back down. There are no lazy, sip-on-your-lemonade-in-a-hammock tracks here.

The driving rhythms and steady tempos create a spiritual, almost hypnotic effect for the listener. Its positive, kinetic energy takes hold of and soothes the listener at the same time. It's perfect to listen to anywhere for meditation at home, driving in the car, and working in the office. Play it everywhere you go to make yourself look ultra-cultured.

This CD is a treasure to anyone, not just African drum enthusiasts. It's beautifully recorded so that every strike of the djembe is crystal clear. Edwards and his troupe have given us a gift in this CD that we should not fail to notice.

For more information, log onto the troupe's Web site at www.likewaterdrumworks.com.

Chelsea Area Players Board of Directors member Nancy Daly is dressed as Eliza Doolittle from "My Fair Lady." Daly, a regular in recent CAP productions, will not be auditioning for this summer's musical. Auditions for "My Fair Lady" are set May 24 and 25 at Beach Middle School.

'My Fair Lady' auditions set

The Chelsea Area Players will hold auditions for this summer's musical, "My Fair Lady" 7 p.m. May 24 and 25 at Beach Middle School in Chelsea.

People interested in auditioning may come either evening.

Callbacks will occur on May 28. Performance dates are July 29, 30 and 31.

Those interested in auditioning should bring show-tune music and be prepared to sing, dance and read. There are four principal men's parts, one main woman's part and many chorus and smaller roles.

"My Fair Lady" is a musical version of George Bernard Shaw's 1914 play "Pygmalion," a reworking of the Greek myth of the same name.

The original Broadway production of "My Fair Lady" featured lyrics and book by Alan Jay Lerner and music by Frederick Loewe. The show opened March 15, 1956, and had a run of more than nine years, easily making it the most popular Broadway musical of the 1950s.

The original production featured Rex Harrison, Julie Andrews and Stanley Holloway. Andrews, only 20 when she was chosen for the part, was not considered to be a big enough draw to be used in the movie, in which Audrey Hepburn was cast. As fate would have it, not getting the part in "My Fair Lady," made Andrews available to do the film classic, "Mary Poppins," which instantly made her a star.

The CAP production of "My Fair Lady" will be directed by David Andrews and produced by Shelley Wheaton.

For more information about auditions, call Wheaton at 475-0792.

Live entertainment will be provided by the musical duo "Blue-Ize."

The Chelsea Center for the Arts will offer free hands-on art activities for children during the Art Fair.

Journey leaves lasting memories

CHRIS TODD

FUNDING WISHES

On April 17, I rode my recumbent bicycle 30 miles from Palatka, Fla., to Crescent Beach and dipped the front wheel in the Atlantic Ocean, completing a 48-day journey across the United States.

While feeling a great sense of accomplishment in finishing what had, at times, been a challenging ordeal, I felt an equal sense of disappointment in that I would no longer be engulfed in the satisfaction and discovery that came with each day of riding into new experiences.

I saw, in slow motion, an America I had never seen.

During the 2,961-mile trip, I crossed the Colorado, Rio Grande, Pecos, Atchafalaya, Mississippi, and Suwannee rivers among countless other streams, creeks, gulches, bays and washes.

Beaches, desert, mountains, dunes, hills and woodlands were part of the varied landscape that was my daily vista.

Along the way there were mushrooming communities and abandoned towns that had once thrived.

At one time or another, I rode on gravel lanes, bike paths, county roads, urban streets and interstate shoulders.

Rain, hail, wind and, fortunately, abundant sunshine were some of the weather conditions I faced.

Now that the trip is over and I am home, I find that I am frequently reliving times and places of that seven-week period. But the truly enduring memories are of the people I met along the way.

Those of us who try to stay current by reading and watching news media have good reason to believe that the world is going to hell in a hand basket.

A steady diet of learning that trusted officials have engaged in dishonest behaviors, that our sports heroes and other celebrities have feet of clay, and that tragedies and human failings are the norm can discourage even those with the greatest faith.

The friendly interactions I had every day with people curious about what I was doing and eager to share their time recharged me, as well as the food and water I stopped for.

A Methodist congregation in Coldspring, Texas, made me an honorary member of its church for one night, giving me a place to stay, a full stomach and companionship that won't be forgotten.

On the outskirts of Merryville, La., a gas station owner gave me a free boudin, which is a spicy blood sausage, after I butchered the pronunciation.

Gerald Murphey of Milton, Fla., a stranger to me before this trip, contacted me through my Web site and offered his home as a place to stay en route. Besides that, I gained a friend and biking companion for future trips.

These experiences are just a sampling of the encounters that helped confirm the faith I had that the world I read about and witnessed on the news is not the one I'd find on my journey.

I hope that I was able to repay these people and others I met along the way with an interaction that was, in some way, meaningful to them.

I do take great satisfaction in knowing that my bicycle adventure will benefit others. Namely, the families with children who have life-threatening illnesses and are granted wishes by the Make-A-Wish Foundation of Michigan.

Though I am still short of my $5,000 goal, the donations that the Chelsea business community and other friends continue to send are helping me get closer and closer.

I would like to thank Chelsea Community Hospital's Wellness Center for allowing friends, Debbie Thompson, Claudette Weaver and Lynne Boham to create a display that showed my daily progress and to post the updates I wrote for my Web site so that a greater number of people could stay informed.

Thanks also to all those who were inspired by my efforts to already make a contribution to Make-A-Wish.

Since returning home, I have uploaded the pictures I took during the trip to my Web site and the entire trip may now be seen at www.goldrushguy.crazyguyonabike.com.

Anyone interested in making a donation may send a check payable to the Make-A-Wish Foundation of Michigan to Christopher Todd, P.O. Box 271, Chelsea, MI 48118.

Helping hand Kennedy serving in Bolivia

Local man working as sanitation volunteer for two years

By Sheila Pursglove
Associate Editor

Matthew Kennedy, the son of Tom and Debbie Kennedy of Sylvan Township, will spend the next two years serving in the Peace Corps in Bolivia.

"I wanted to have some stories to tell my kids some day," he said.

And stories he will surely have, spending two years as a basic sanitation volunteer, designing and constructing safe water systems, latrines and garbage disposal systems.

Kennedy, who left the United States for 11 weeks of training May 3, also will prepare and present funding proposals to support this work and will train Bolivians so the work will continue when he leaves.

Kennedy, a 1998 graduate of Chelsea High School, earned a bachelor's degree in physics from the University of Michigan in 2002.

"The idea of beginning a career doesn't appeal to me at this point in my life," he said. "I never saw myself sitting at a desk trying to make as much money as possible."

"The Peace Corps is giving me the opportunity to not only avoid the rat race, but to experience a completely different way of life and help out a lot of people at the same time."

During his first few weeks in Bolivia, Kennedy will undergo intensive language, technical, safety and cultural training, and will be assessed by Peace Corps staff for the most suitable placement.

"Due to my past experience with irrigation and plumbing, most likely I will be working more on the technical side on designing and building safe drinking water systems, as well as latrines," he said.

Kennedy is joining more than 7,000 Peace Corps volunteers who are serving in 77 countries. Volunteers work to bring clean water to communities, teach children, help start new small businesses, and stop the spread of AIDS.

Since President John F. Kennedy founded the Peace Corps in 1961, more than 155,000 Americans have served in 134 nations.

Kennedy will accrue two vacation days each month and plans to spend time exploring South America. His parents are planning to join him next summer for some travel.

"While my family may or may not understand my desire to volunteer with the Peace Corps, they have definitely been very supportive of me and my decision," Kennedy said.

Face off

Senior citizens enjoy playing hockey

By Rita Fischer
Special Writer

Tom Lovell is a rookie on the hockey team — at the tender age of 58.

Lovell, who has played hockey all his life, enjoys playing the sport on a team of senior citizens who play hockey Tuesday afternoons at Chelsea's Arctic Coliseum.

A semi-retired electrician who owned a janitor supply company, Lovell used to play with teams such as Stroh's and Molson in Ann Arbor and played in the over-40s master's league in Chelsea.

The Lima Township resident enjoys mixing it up with the likes of octogenarian Bob Hutchinson of Scio Township, the oldest player on the team; 71-year-old Tom Vandervoort of Sylvan Township; 75-year-old George Langen of Lodi Township and several other senior hockey players.

Lovell finds his older teammates to be an inspiration.

"When I feel bad, I look at 'Pops' (Hutchinson), and I realize that if I can still be doing this 10 or 20 years from now at their age, I will be happy," he said.

"I love the game and the physical workout. It's a good way to stay in shape, and I love the camaraderie."

The hockey team is supposed to be non-contact, but "we do sometimes run into each other because we get tired," Vandervoort said.

"It's a lot of fun and we just have a good time."

Langen, who has played hockey since he was a boy in the Upper Peninsula, has played on teams in Ann Arbor and Chelsea.

"You got to keep moving," he said. "Some people kind of look at me a little bit envious."

"Hutchinson sets a great example."

The team originally had only five people when it started six years ago. Over the years, it has grown in popularity and attracted other retirees who still enjoy facing off at center ice.

When their hour on the ice is done, the players usually adjourn to the Wolverine Restaurant in Chelsea.

The drop-in league will continue all summer, playing at 2 p.m. Tuesdays at the Arctic Coliseum. The cost is $7 a session. For information, call the Coliseum at 433-4444.

Superintendent's Corner

David K. Killips, Superintendent

Dear Chelsea School District Residents:

As we approach the June 14 bond issue vote, I would like to take this opportunity to explain a few facts. One of the most important facts to consider is that the proposed bond issue will not increase your annual school district tax levy. Currently, residents pay 7 mills for school debt, and that would remain the same, if the voters approve the bond issue. The approval, however, will extend the timetable when the 7 mills will begin to decrease by four years.

Back in 1995, the voters of the school district passed a 30-year bond issue to build a new high school, Pierce Lake Elementary, and do some renovations throughout the school district. It was anticipated that 7 mills would be paid until 2016, and then the millage rate would begin to decrease until the bonds were fully paid in 2025. In 1998, the school district refunded (refinanced) the bonds and saved Chelsea School District residents in excess of $2 million in interest. By refunding, and due to the increases in property values, the 2016 date (when the millage rate was scheduled to decline) was moved to 2006. The pay-off date remains at 2025. The school district was able to make this financially-prudent move without voter approval.

On June 14, the school district will be asking the voters to extend the 2006 date to 2010, at which time the millage rate will begin to decline through the pay-off date of 2025. This is 6 years earlier than the voters initially approved, and the bonds still will be paid off in 2025.

A successful bond issue will allow our community and schools to:

- Maintain excellence in educational programming for our students.
- Maintain quality teachers and staff to work with our students.
- Maintain reasonable class sizes throughout the school district.
- Provide an appropriate learning environment for our students.
- Invest in materials and curriculum to provide for quality programming.
- Maintain our instructional technology resources for students.

Please become an informed voter regarding this bond issue. A public forum was held on Tuesday, May 11, and additional public forums will be held on Monday, May 17 and Thursday, May 27 at the WSEC Boardroom to provide additional information. You also may contact me by phone at 433-2208, by email at dkillips@gmail.com, or visit our web site at www.chelsea.k12.mi.us.

Chelsea golfers third at invite

Crane, Aili finish in top 10 for Bulldogs at Northwest invite

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

The Chelsea girls' golf team finished third at last Friday's Jackson County Western Invitational.

The Bulldogs ended up with a score of 397.

Winning the tournament was Division III No. 3-ranked Jackson Lumen Christi. Finishing second was Jackson Northwest.

"I'm very happy with our performance at this tournament," said Chelsea coach Andrea Bareis. "I'm extremely proud that Chelsea had two of the top 10 medalists, especially since there were approximately 100 golfers at the tournament."

Pacing Chelsea was senior Blythe Crane, who shot a 78. She tied for second overall, one stroke behind the tournament winner.

Teammate Courtney Aili added an 88, while Emily Hardcastle had a 115 and Lindsay Parker a personal best 116 for the Bulldogs. Aili finished seventh overall in the invitational.

Parker, a first-year golfer, earned her varsity letter at the tournament.

"This makes her a four-sport athlete," Bareis said. "She lettered in golf, tennis, volleyball and soccer."

"I'm glad to see Lindsay earn her varsity letter in golf. She deserves it. She is dedicated, hard-working and eager to keep improving."

Bareis said Hardcastle continues to prove she is vital to Chelsea's success at the varsity level.

"Without her, we wouldn't be having the great season that we are this year," she said.

Chelsea's Emily Hardcastle shot a 115 at last Friday's Jackson County Western Invitational. The Bulldogs finished third overall.

Chelsea vs. Bedford

On May 5, the Bulldogs (5-2) defeated Temperance Bedford 187-194.

The match was at Reddeman Farms Golf Course.

Crane finished first, carding a school record 36. The total was even par for the course. She broke her own previous school record of 37, set last year at Bedford.

"She had two birdies, five pars, and two bogies," Bareis said. "She birdied both par fives."

"She continues to show that she is the best girl golfer Chelsea High School has ever had."

Aili added a 44, while Blair Crane had a 51 and Hardcastle a 56 for Chelsea.

"Courtney Aili continues to prove how valuable she is to the team," Bareis said. "She is consistently golfing in the low to mid-40s. We couldn't have the success we are having without her."

Bareis said the Bulldogs were focused and ready to take on the Mules.

"Bedford beat us earlier in the year at the Monroe Jefferson Invitational," she said. "Bedford was first, and we were second. We felt we could golf better against them. This is another nice win for us."

JV Match

In the JV match, Bedford prevailed 247-257.

The Bulldogs' score was their best tally of the season.

Kate Trinkle led Chelsea.

Bulldog softball drops first game

Unearned run in fourth inning leads to Chelsea defeat

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

Chelsea softball defeated Tecumseh 16-0 in the first game of a scheduled double-header last Monday.

Game 2 was canceled because of rain.

"We really ripped the ball," said Chelsea coach Kim Reichard.

The Bulldogs (20-1-1, 9-0) finished with 18 hits.

The host Indians had four errors.

Chelsea's Jenna Connelly earned the victory from the circle, allowing two hits, striking out seven and walking one.

Offensively, Missy Morcom ended up 3-for-5, including a triple, double and two RBIs.

Christina Toon added a triple and four RBIs, while Alise Augustine finished 4-for-5 and Brynna Darwin had two hits, including a double for the Bulldogs.

St. Joseph Tournament
Last Saturday, Chelsea ventured west, participating in a four-team tournament in St. Joseph.

In their opener, the Bulldogs beat the host Bears 10-0 in a six-inning mercy-rule contest.

Connelly started, going four innings, allowing one hit, fanning six and walking zero. Kelly Jo Milliken tossed the final two innings, surrendering two hits.

Chelsea scored two runs in the fourth inning, five in the fifth inning and three runs in the sixth inning for the final tally.

Katrina Moffett finished 3-for-4, while Katie Herman and Augustine each had two hits for the Bulldogs.

It was a tough first game for Chelsea, which started the day getting up at 5:30 a.m., and driving three hours to St. Joseph on the Lake Michigan shoreline.

"It took us awhile to get going," Reichard said. "But once we scored, it became contagious."

In the second game of the tournament, the Bulldogs suffered their first defeat of the season, losing to Stevensville-Lakeshore 1-0.

"We hit the ball, but right at somebody," Reichard said. "They had a lot of intensity and fire. They really wanted to beat us."

Chelsea was held without a hit.

Connelly absorbed the loss from the circle, going the distance, allowing five hits, striking out seven and walking zero.

The Lancers, ranked No. 9 in Division II, scored the contest's lone run in the fourth inning. The Lakeshore lead-

Chelsea nine hits six home runs in sweep of Pinckney

Chelsea baseball is playing well just as the regular season begins winding down.

The Bulldogs (10-9-1, 4-3) are playing their best baseball at the moment, knocking the cover off the ball and pitching well.

Last Monday, Chelsea clobbered Southeastern Conference White Division foe Tecumseh 10-0 in the first game of a scheduled double-header.

The Indians earlier in the season were ranked in state's top 10 in Division II.

The opener was called in the seventh inning because of lightning. Officially, the visiting Bulldogs won 5-0, but at the time the game was stopped, Chelsea had increased its advantage to 10-0. Chelsea was clicking on all cylinders against Tecumseh. Senior Kyle Kendzicky (4-1) was practically flawless from the mound, going the distance, walking one and striking out 11.

"He was absolutely fantastic," said Chelsea coach Wayne Welton. "That's the best I've ever seen him. He was very dominant."

Kendzicky threw only 69 pitches during the seven-inning contest.

In contrast, Chelsea hitters lit up Tecumseh's ace pitcher Jason Short. Short entered the game with a 7-0 record and a 0.27 ERA.

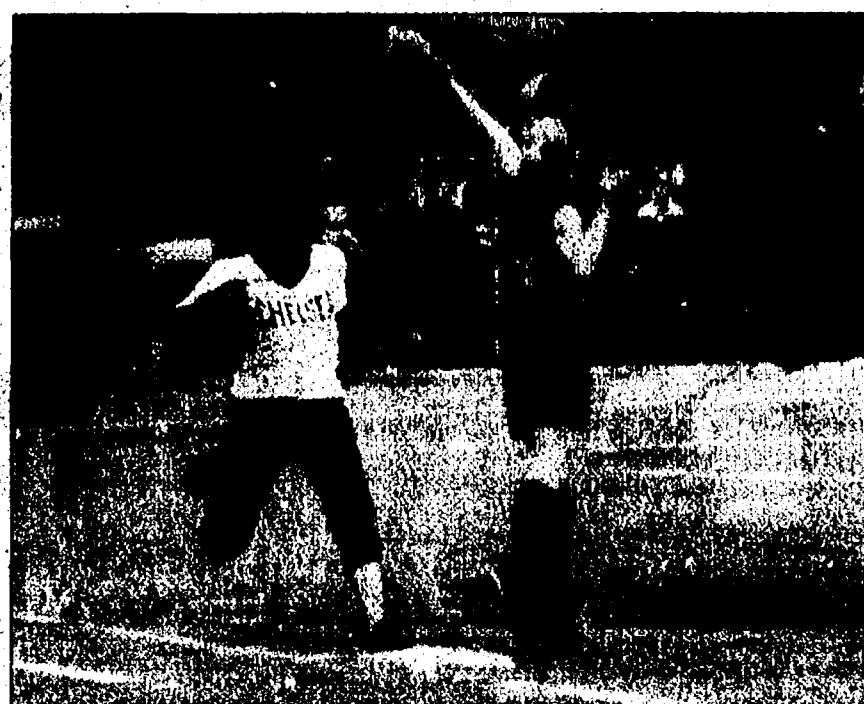

Senior lead-off hitter Ryan Keiser finished with three hits, including a double and two RBIs. He walked once and was hit by a pitch.

Kendzicky added three hits, including a double, while sophomore Robbie Moffett cranked his third home run of the season.

Sophomore Cam Hawkins had a double, while senior Jeff Elliott had two hits and

Welshans, Woodruff pace Bulldogs

Chelsea tracksters dominate shot put, discus against Dexter

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

The Chelsea girls' track and field team lost to county and Southeastern Conference White Division rival Dexter 90-47 May 4.

The host Dreadnaughts won 10 of 12 running events, including sweeps in the hurdles, 1,600-meter run and the 3,200-meter run.

The Bulldogs dominated the field events, winning four of five competitions.

Individually, senior Ashli Welshans and sophomore Emily Woodruff each won two events, pacing Chelsea.

Welshans finished first in the shot put with a throw of 28-feet, 9 inches, while freshman Kelly Anderson was second in 27-8. In the discus, Welshans bested the field, winning with a toss of 86-3, while Anderson was second with an 83-8.

Woodruff broke the tape first in the 100 meters with a time of 13.6. She also crossed the line first in the 400-meter run with a season-best clocking of 1:01.4. In the 200 meters, Woodruff finished second in 28.4.

Sophomore Laura Oberholtzer placed third in the 400-meter run with a personal best time of 1:05.6. She also was third in the 200 meters in 29.9.

In the 800-meter run, junior Shannon Kinner placed second with a clocking of 2:30.7.

In the high jump, junior Chelsey Verardi finished first with a mark of 4-6. Fellow classmate Emily Bradburn was second with a 4-2.

Junior Megan Korc was tops in the pole vault, clearing a season best 9-6.

Despite not placing, freshman Margy Brill performed well, dropping 40 seconds off of her previous best time in the 1,600-meter run, stopping the clock in 6:13.8.

In the 3,200-meter run, freshman Nicole Bougher had a strong time of 13:47.2. Also standing out was freshman Kelly Catalina, with a season best 13-1, in the long jump.

Chelsea coach Bill Bainton said his squad gave a good effort, despite an uphill battle.

"We knew we would have a hard time because they (Dexter) are so good and so deep in the distance events," he said. "We had some good performances, but have (levelled off) a bit in other events."

"On the whole, we are improving. Even if the scores don't show it, the times do."

Chelsea next travels to Lansing Waverly to participate in its invitational 4 p.m. tomorrow.

with a 54. Danielle Steiger added a 57, while Nicky Lodewyk had a 68 and Emma Chervinsky an 80 to round out the Bulldogs' scoring.

All four JV players shot personal best scores for the nine-hole match.

"I'm very happy with the improvement our JV girls are showing," Bareis said. "They are showing great effort and commitment — two qualities that are absolutely necessary to improve in the game of golf."

Best-Ball Tourney

On May 3, Chelsea participated in a best-ball tournament at Pinckney's Timber Trace Golf Course.

In a best-ball tournament, two players from the same squad form a two-person team. Both players compete at each hole, and the best score between the two counts as the score for the hole.

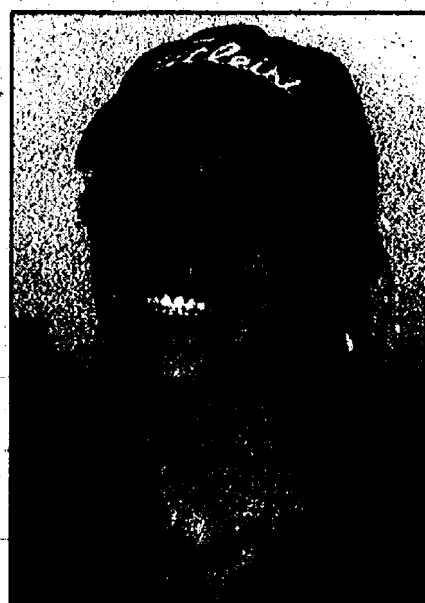

Crane and Aili teamed to place second, shooting an 80.

Trinkle and Steiger finished with a 110, while Hardcastle and Parker had a 112 for Chelsea.

Frosh baseball falls to Tecumseh

Chelsea's freshman baseball team lost to Tecumseh 8-6 April 27.

"Our defense lost this one for us," said Chelsea coach Jason Morris. "We certainly scored enough runs and pitched well enough to win. We will continue to work to get better in that aspect of the game."

Pitching well in defeat for the visiting Bulldogs were Travis Amburgy and Todd Elliott.

Chelsea vs. Dexter

On April 30, Chelsea beat county rival Dexter 8-7 in eight innings in the opening game of a doubleheader, and tied the visiting Dreadnaughts 5-5 in the nightcap.

In the first game, the Bulldogs trailed 7-2 entering the fifth inning. Amburgy, however, led Chelsea's comeback, stroking a two-run home run.

In the eighth inning,

Amburgy, again, connected for the key hit, bringing home Ben Bradburn, who had earlier doubled, with the game winning run.

"We did not play well as a team for the first five innings of the game," Morris said. "We were making too many mental errors and dug ourselves a hole. To their credit, though, they did not give up. The home run was big. We were not hitting the ball very well, and it jump-started our offense."

Picking up the win from the mound in relief for Chelsea was Jimmy Kirchbaum.

From the plate, Dan Augustine finished with one hit and two walks.

"This was a great win for us," Morris said. "The guys felt we owed them one after losing at their place a couple of weeks ago. They just never gave up."

In the second game, the Bulldogs jumped out to a 3-0 lead before Dexter rallied, taking a 5-4 advantage into the bottom of the fifth inning.

With two outs, however, Amburgy brought home Brett Kruse with a RBI single, tying the contest at 5-5.

The game was called because of darkness. Chelsea vs. Coldwater

On May 1, Chelsea participated in the Coldwater Invitational.

In the tournament semifinals against Comstock, the Bulldogs led 7-0 before the game was suspended because of rain.

"The rain was disappointing because we were off to a great start," Morris said.

Chelsea next travels to Temperance Bedford tomorrow for a game at 4 p.m.

On Saturday, the Bulldogs host Ypsilanti at 1:30 p.m.

On Tuesday, Chelsea visits Adrian for a contest at 4 p.m.

Regional help needed for track

Chelsea track and field will be hosting a Michigan High School Athletic Association regional meet May 22.

Thirty-two teams will be competing at the regional, and the Bulldog program is looking for help from the community to work at the meet.

"This is probably our first time hosting one (regional meet) in about 18 years," said Chelsea girls' track coach Bill Bainton. "We still need people to work as timers, pickers, exchange judges and at field events. Basically, we need more people at all areas."

If interested in helping, call Chelsea Athletic Director Wayne Welton at 433-2201, Ext. 1051, or Bainton at 433-2201, Ext. 1210.

Manville, defense spark Chelsea girls' soccer

Freshman keeper records second straight shutout

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

The Chelsea girls' soccer team is hitting its stride. The Bulldogs are unbeaten in four of their last five games. Last week, Chelsea finished 2-0-1 in contests played.

Last Friday, the Bulldogs (4-5-2) tied Division IV No. 4-ranked Ann Arbor Greenhills 0-0.

"They're a great team, and it was a great accomplishment for us to keep their offense off the board," said Chelsea coach Chris Orlandi.

The host Gryphons outshot Chelsea 13-2.

Securing the tie for the Bulldogs was freshman keeper Maggie Manville.

"This was Manville's second consecutive shutout," Orlandi said. "Our defense continues to improve with every game."

"I believe Greenhills has the ability to beat a lot of teams in this area, so we're feeling pretty good about ourselves with this tie."

Orlandi said the Bulldogs have improved throughout the season.

"When the important league games and district games roll around, I think we'll be ready," he said.

"We're still struggling to generate offense against the superior teams, but if we can defend well, we'll have a chance to win every contest."

Chelsea vs. Bedford

Last Thursday, Chelsea defeated Temperance Bedford 1-0.

Senior Rachel Dotson scored the game-winning goal off a free kick at the 14-minute mark of the first half.

"Like our previous game (win over Tecumseh 5-1), we started strongly," Orlandi said. "We dominated possession and were very active around the Bedford goal."

With the pressure, the host Mules were forced to foul. After one such penalty, Dotson set the ball quickly, lofting a shot over the Bedford wall, and through the hands of the surprised Mule keeper.

At the break, the score remained 1-0.

In the second half, with the wind at their back, the Mules controlled play. Bedford spent most of the second half on Chelsea's side of the field, out shooting the Bulldogs 8-2.

"The ball seemed to be down in our end for the entire half, but our defense wouldn't crack," Orlandi said. "Defensively, this was our finest performance of the year. Jen DeWall and Danielle Stahl were out-

Chelsea's Sharon Dault helped the Bulldogs tie Division IV No. 4-ranked Ann Arbor Greenhills last Friday. Chelsea is unbeaten in four out of its last five games.

Mustangs win tourney

The local Mustangs U-14 girls' soccer team recently captured the Michigan State Premier Soccer League Tier II outdoor championship with an undefeated overall record.

The Mustangs also won the Arsenal Challenge Cup in Cincinnati. The tournament is by invitation only.

The squad also won two indoor soccer titles.

The Mustangs finished first with a perfect record in the U-14 girls' division at Ann Arbor's Wide World Sports Center. The team also placed first in the U-14 boys' league at Canton's High Velocity Sports Center.

All winter the team has trained hard for the spring season.

With its Tier II title earlier this year, the Mustangs will play Tier I competition this spring.

Helping the team this season has been University of Michigan women's soccer standout Mari Hoff. Her knowledge of the game and hours of training time have helped the Mustangs develop into one of the state's finest youth squads.

The Mustangs play their home games at Dexter High School.

off hitter singled to begin the frame. She was sacrificed over to second base. A subsequent wild pitch sent her to third base. With two outs, the Bulldogs committed an error in the field, bringing home the winning run unearned.

Despite the loss, Reichard remained positive.

"You need to have a loss in order to have a reality check," she said. "We also need to know we're human. We need to step up. We can't make errors in big games."

"I'd rather it happen now than in a district or regional game."

Reichard said her team was down after the loss.

"They were upset," she said. "But they knew they had to bounce back."

In the tournament's final game, Chelsea defeated Coloma 4-0.

Connelly picked up the win, yielding two hits, striking out 11 and walking zero.

Moffett had two hits, including a double, to lead Chelsea offensively. Augustine had two hits, including a RBI double, and Mary Kate Setta two hits with one RBI for the Bulldogs.

Chelsea had no errors on defense.

Chelsea vs. Saline

Last Thursday, the Bulldogs swept a double-header from Saline, winning 5-0, 10-0.

In the opener, Connelly chalked up the "W," throwing a no-hitter, striking out 16 and walking one.

"It was almost a perfect game," Reichard said.

DEFENSE

standing in frustrating the Bedford forwards. Sharon Dault and Rachel Gentz also played very well in the win.

Despite solid overall team defense, the Bulldogs might not have won without the quickness and skill of Manville in net.

Proving her worth as the last line of defense, Manville stopped a penalty kick with no time left on the clock to preserve Chelsea's victory.

"The game ended on that play, and we stormed the field," Orlandi said. "I don't ever remember seeing a game end that way. Manville was the hero, but the entire Chelsea squad played well in the win."

Manville made the game-saving effort, diving to her right and with her arms outstretched, stopping the low, grounding shot with her fingers.

Prior to the game-ending save, Manville stopped a Bedford breakaway, sliding to smother the Mule scoring attempt.

"She was the real story of the game," Orlandi said of Manville.

Bedford out shot the Bulldogs 9-6 on the day. Chelsea vs. Tecumseh

On May 4, Chelsea defeated Tecumseh 5-1.

Sophomore Jaime Franks scored two first-half goals, leading the Bulldogs. Picking up assists on the play for Chelsea were senior Ashley Gadbury and junior Stacia Morrison. Franks scored at the 7-minute mark, and at the 30-minute mark for Chelsea.

The visiting Indians scored at the 20-minute mark.

"We didn't defend it (goal) particularly well, as we had people out of position," Orlandi said. "But the Tecumseh attacker did a fine job of finishing the play."

At the half, the Bulldogs led 2-1.

"We came out on fire," Orlandi said. "We took over the game from the opening whistle and peppered the Tecumseh keeper with shots."

Chelsea out shot the Indians 12-2 in the first half.

In the second half, the Bulldogs scored three goals in seven minutes, putting the game away.

At the 70-minute mark, Morrison scored off an assist from senior Renee Stahl, increasing Chelsea's advantage to 3-1.

Four minutes later, Dotson scored on a penalty kick, giving the Bulldogs a 4-1 lead.

At the 77-minute mark, Morrison scored for the day's final margin. Assisting on the play for Chelsea was Dotson.

The Bulldogs out shot the Indians 19-6 for the contest.

"The play evened in the second half as Tecumseh turned up the pressure, but our defense held strong," Orlandi said. "It was nice to see us take care of a SEC (Southeastern Conference) rival."

Manville finished with five saves.

Chelsea next hosts Ypsilanti Lincoln 5:30 p.m. today.

Tomorrow, the Bulldogs host South Lyon at 5:30 p.m.

On Tuesday, Chelsea travels to Tecumseh for a game at 5:30 p.m.

Beach boys' track third at Northwest

Chelsea's Beach Middle School boys' track and field team finished third at the Jackson Northwest Relays last Friday.

The Bulldogs ended up with 40 points.

Capturing the meet was Jackson County Western with 58 points. Jackson Parkside ended up second with 46 points.

"The boys ran extremely well to place third out of eight teams," said Chelsea co-coach Pat Clarke. "This was a good showing for us. We had many personal bests in this high quality meet."

Leading the Bulldogs was Tyler Ball, who threw a personal best 39-foot, 1-inch in the shot put, teaming with Sam Dyer to finish first in the event.

Also placing first for Beach was the shuttle hurdle relay foursome of Evan Carpenter, Brad Ratliff, Nathan Vleck and Justin McGrath in a meet record time of 56.8.

In the distance medley relay, Riley Feeney, Kevin Rosentreter, Dan Case and Scott Rhodes finished second for Chelsea.

Crossing the line fourth in the 800-meter relay was the Bulldog group of Don Riedel, James Connelly, Rosentreter and Ball.

Also fourth for Chelsea, was the long jump relay of Ryan Lenehan and McGrath. Sean Degraacia, Jake Galarowic, Zack Gier and Connelly ended up fifth in the 400-meter relay for Beach.

In the middle distance relay, Lenehan, Riedel, Connelly and Feeney finished sixth for the Bulldogs, while the shuttle medley relay of Rosentreter, Ball, McGrath and Vleck also placed sixth.

On May 5, host Chelsea (3-1) defeated Ypsilanti Lincoln 86.5-50.5.

Leading the Bulldogs was Case, who bested the field in the 1,600-meter run, with a lifetime best clocking of 5:40.

Also in the 1,600-meter run, Seth Brezee ended second, while Jake Powell was third for Beach.

Rhodes placed first in the 3,200-meter run, while Reid Mauti was third.

Feeney was first in the 800-meter run, while Sam

Parkansky ended up second in a lifetime best 2:41. Vleck broke the tape first in the 400-meter run, while Lenehan was third.

Connelly placed third in the 200 meters, while Ball was second in the 100 meters and Galarowic third for Chelsea.

Rosentreter finished first in the 70 meters for Beach.

In hurdles, McGrath placed first in the 55-meter event, while Carpenter was second. Carpenter finished second in the 200-meter hurdles in 29.6, while McGrath was third for Chelsea.

In field events, Dyer placed first in the shot put, followed by Ball in second and Tim Rosentreter in third with a lifetime best 33-7.

Vleck was tops in the pole vault, while Peter Wilke was second with a lifetime best 7-6 and Andrew Korc third for the Bulldogs.

Gier finished second in the high jump with a lifetime best 4-10, while Vleck was third. In the long jump, McGrath ended up second, while Lenehan was third.

In the 1,600-meter relay, Kevin Rosentreter, Feeney, Brezee and Lenehan placed first, while the quartet of Feeney, Case, Rhodes and Brezee finished first in the 3,200-meter relay.

"We continue to improve with every meet," said Chelsea co-coach Dave Jolly. "The boys are truly a pleasure to coach and watch improve."

Chelsea vs. Adrian
On May 3, Beach lost to host Adrian Drager 76-61.

Vleck won three events, pacing the Bulldogs. He finished first in the pole vault, high jump and 400-meter run.

Also placing first for Chelsea were Dyer in the shot put, Rhodes in the 3,200-meter run in a lifetime best 11:31, and the 800-meter relay group of Kevin Rosentreter, Connelly, Riedel and Ball.

"This was a very good meet for us," Clarke said. "We had many personal bests. We just do not have any foot speed, and it cost us dearly in this meet."

Beach next hosts Adrian Springbrook 4 p.m. today.

On Tuesday, the Bulldogs host county rival Dexter at 4 p.m.

STRIDE

sophomore Joe Welton a two-run single for Chelsea.

The Bulldogs jumped on Short early, scoring single runs in the first four innings before exploding for six runs in the final three stanzas.

The day's second game was canceled because of rain.

Chelsea vs. Pinckney
Last Saturday, host Chelsea swept a doubleheader from Pinckney, winning 15-5, 10-2.

In the first contest, junior Aaron Parisho recorded the victory from the hill, throwing five and one-third innings. Moffett closed out the game, retiring the final two Pirate batters in the mercy-rule win.

Though Parisho was strong from the rubber, the Bulldog bats were even better from the plate. Chelsea blasted five home runs in the contest.

The barrage began in the second inning as junior Steve Crews cranked a two-run shot, followed by next batter Elliott, who ripped his first round-tripper of the season. Crews has three home runs on the year.

At the end of the second inning, the game was tied at 4-4.

In the third inning, senior David Bell reached the seats, tying the contest at 5-5.

In the fourth inning, the Bulldogs' power overwhelmed Pinckney. Hawkins crushed a three-run home run over the leftfield fence, up into the trees lining the back wall. On the next pitch, Moffett belted a home run out over the rightfield fence, putting the game out of reach.

In addition to the five home runs, Welton added two hits, three RBIs and a bases-loaded double, while Kendzicky had a double, and sophomore Luc Daniels a two-run single for Chelsea.

In the nightcap, Welton (3-1) chalked up the win from the mound, throwing four innings and fanning five.

Moffett pitched two innings, striking out three, while Kendzicky finished up, tossing one inning.

The Bulldogs scored one run in the first inning, followed by two runs in the second frame and four runs in the fourth inning.

"We had a very consistent day," Welton said.

Sophomore C.J. Boyer hit a three-run home run in the fourth inning, leading Chelsea. The dinger was Boyer's first of the season.

Junior Bryan Dunn added two hits, including a double, while Welton had two hits, including a double, and two RBIs.

Junior A.J. Bach finished with a two-run double, while Hawkins and Keiser each doubled for Chelsea.

For the doubleheader, the Bulldogs ended up with six home runs.

"We brought out the bats that day," Welton said.

Chelsea vs. Saline
Last Thursday, Chelsea dropped a doubleheader to Saline, losing 10-2, 4-3.

"We weren't around the plate that much," Welton said. "We walked seven in the first two innings."

Despite the walks, the Bulldogs trailed only 3-2 heading into the third inning.

The host Hornets, however, hit a grand slam home run in the third inning, taking control of the ballgame.

"We were down 8-2 by the end of the (third) inning," Welton said.

For the game, Chelsea walked nine and hit one batter.

"C.J. Boyer pitched very well in relief," Welton said. "He did a nice job pitching."

Offensively, Crews had a two-run single, while Moffett and Bell each had base hits. In the second game, junior

J.R. Engelbert threw four innings, while Moffett relieved, finishing up the contest.

"J.R. pitched well," Welton said. "We stranded too many runners."

Chelsea rallied late, almost pulling out the game.

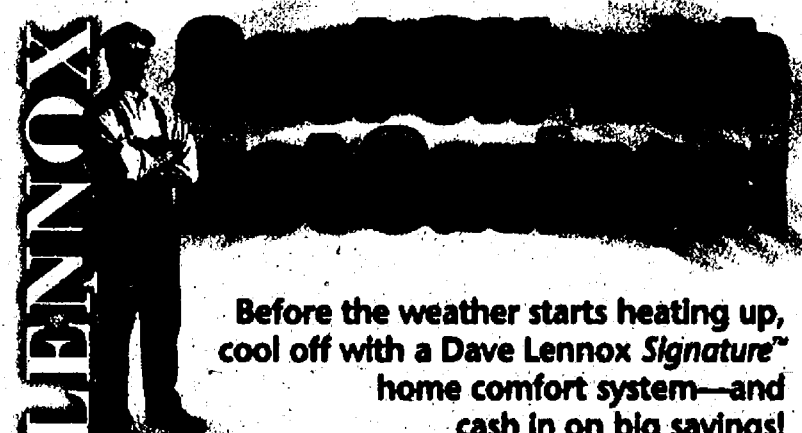

Trailing 4-1, the Bulldogs scored two runs in the sixth inning. In the seventh frame, Chelsea had a runner on second base with no outs, but was unable to score.

Senior Matt Eckler paced the Bulldogs at the plate, ending up with two RBIs.

Welton said his young squad is playing better as the season progresses.

"We can be a pretty good baseball team," he said. "Even though we lost to Saline, we played pretty well. We're making progress. The kids are starting to believe in themselves."

Chelsea next hosts Division I No. 6-ranked Ann Arbor Pioneer 4 p.m. today. The Pioneers are led by Zach Putnam, the state's top junior and, arguably, its best player, regardless of class. Putnam throws in the mid-90s, and bats over .600.

The Latest Technology to Help You Protect Your Home and Family

In the not-so-distant past, people could leave their homes or cars unlocked with nary a worry about theft. Sadly, that's hardly the case today. Every day across the country homes are burglarized and property is vandalized. And the danger's not limited to outside attacks. A simple lock may not deter someone intent on committing a crime in your home. Dishonest repair workers, housekeepers and even child-care providers may also pose a threat.

But people are not willing to sit back and be victimized. Homeowners are employing a range of personal security items, from video cameras to high-tech locks to protect their belongings. All the while, neighborhood patrols are working together with law enforcement officials, combining common-sense crimefighting with forensic know-how to help keep crime at bay.

The home can be many things — a place to rest, a place for fun — but most of all it is a place where you should feel secure. You want to be sure that when you close the door to the outside, you're protecting your property, valuables and family.

• Alarm systems: Your first line of defense after secure locks on windows and doors should be an alarm security system. While each is different in its accessories, most require a code to activate and deactivate the system. Some even work in conjunction with the local police station. Should someone attempt to break in through the door, window or garage, a piercing alarm would sound to alert your neighbors and a police car would be dispatched to your home. Most alarm systems are hard-wired to your home and require installation by a trained professional. Companies like Brinks Home Security®, ADT and The Slomin's Shield® Home Security System offer a range of special programs and packages that will fit your security needs as well as your budget. However, you can also choose a system that you install yourself, like the Visonic Wireless Alarm Kit, from PowerMax. Easy to install with no cables required, the system provides most popular security features in one convenient and affordable package.

• Security cameras: These have the ability to protect the inside as well as the outside of your home. Just knowing there's a camera around may be enough to deter a would-be burglar. Placed around the perimeter of your property, cameras can provide a clear 360-view of your home, letting you know exactly who's knocking at the door — and who's hiding behind the hedges.

If you employ a housekeeper or nanny, you may want to invest in a hidden camera from manufacturers like Remington, which offers a Wall Clock "Nanny-Cam" Security Camera and a Teddy Bear Lamp Security Camera to keep an eye on his or her activities. Abuse or theft has been documented, and the culprits prosecuted as a result of hidden camera footage. ProVideo also manufactures hidden cameras, including a Desk Lamp Spy Cam and a Smoke Detector Spy Cam. TFO38942

Teacher Appreciation

Parents, Teachers, and Arthur-An A+ Team

Parents and teachers have a secret weapon in their quest to teach kids about everything from reading, writing, and problem-solving to communication, understanding, and kindness... eight-year old aardvark, Arthur Read.

Since its debut on PBS in 1996, Arthur-produced by WGBH Boston and Cinar Corporation, and based on Marc Brown's best-selling books-has won the hearts of millions of children, who identify with Arthur and his friends as they encounter the joys and difficulties that all kids experience.

"Similar to my books, the entertaining storylines in Arthur include issues and subjects that are important and helpful to kids and families," says creative producer Marc Brown. "In addition, carefully crafted educational messages underscore each of Arthur's adventures."

But the learning-and the fun-doesn't stop when the television is turned off, thanks to free activity guides distributed to educators and parents and available via the "Grown-Ups" section of the Web site, at pbskids.org/arthur.

"Our goal, even from the early stages of the episodes' development, is to arm parents and teachers with the tools they need to interact with kids and make the lessons from the show come alive in their homes and classrooms," says executive producer Pierre Valette.

Developed with input from numerous educational advisors, each comprehensive teacher's guide and parent activity booklet features activities, resources, and tips that reinforce the series' goals, as well as season-specific themes. Topics include reading, writing, communication, sibling rivalry, friendships, health, and issues relevant to the newest generation of families, such as ways they can explore the Internet together and how to deal with frightening events children may experience in their communities or see on television.

Perhaps most importantly, the show and accompanying materials encourage and teach behaviors and attitudes that will grow in importance as the viewers themselves grow up. For example, the "Arthur's World Neighborhood" guide for primary grade teachers and after-school educators helps children learn to appreciate and understand their neighbors, whether they live around the block or across the world.

The lessons in global and cultural awareness taught in the guide are highlighted by episodes such as those about Arthur's Turkish pen pal, Baby Kate and Pal's experience with a wayward Italian circus flea, and Arthur's introduction to the Molinas, his new neighbors from Ecuador.

Arthur airs weekdays on PBS Kids. For more information, and to download resources for parents and teachers, visit the Web site at pbskids.org/arthur.

The award-winning Arthur-series helps kids appreciate their neighbors-near and far.

I came to Ann Arbor Academy because no one was teaching me. The teachers from before didn't help me much because they would only give me short cuts and not really let me learn. I guess they didn't know how. Now, I am at this school. I am learning to read better and faster. At the beginning of the year I couldn't read a lot but now I can. I couldn't spell very good and I missed a lot of words. Now I sound it out slowly and I am beginning to spell better.

The homework here is like other schools but one thing is different...it is fun. I didn't used to like homework because it took me all night to finish and I needed help all the time. Now, I don't need a lot of help and I can get my homework done faster.

I don't know if there are any teachers that I don't like here, because they all seem nice to me. At my old school I felt left out because I had special treatment that made other kids treat me badly. Now I feel good about myself.

Chamber warns of telephone scam

Callers soliciting advertisements for high school poster, chamber director says

By Shelia Pursglove
Associate Editor

Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce Director Bob Pierce warned Friday that local businesses are being targeted by a phone scam from telemarketers claiming to be members of high school boosters.

Several local businesses have received phone calls soliciting them to purchase advertising space on a Chelsea High School sports schedule poster for the Chelsea Bulldogs, at prices ranging from $199 to $399, Pierce said.

He said the callers are not affiliated in any way with the high school or the sports boosters, and added that the callers do not provide a phone number for people to call back.

"No one has sent any money their way, but several of the members were planning on advertising in this piece," Pierce said Monday.

"I found out about the scam from one of our community business owners, verified it with the school and then sent an e-mail to our members.

"I believe that it's an important function of the chamber to inform local businesses when we have knowledge of these kind of unhealthy business practices."

Pierce asked anyone who receives such a call, or who has signed up to place an ad, should contact the chamber of commerce at 475-1145 or Chelsea High School athletic department at 433-2244.

Heritage looks to buy Ypsi Courier

Heritage Newspapers Inc., a subsidiary of 21st Century Newspapers, has begun the process of acquiring the Ypsilanti Courier by signing a letter of intent to buy the publication.

"Acquiring the Ypsilanti Courier fits well into our strategic goals in the area," said Dan Smith, president and publisher of Heritage Newspapers, which publishes The Chelsea Standard and The Dexter Leader. "We recognize Ypsilanti and Ypsilanti Township as areas of future growth. The Courier fits nicely with our other community newspapers in the region."

Heritage also owns and operates properties in Downriver, Dearborn, Belleville, Saline, Manchester, Milan Monroe and Grosse Ile. The chain is owned by one of Michigan's largest community newspaper companies, 21st Century Newspapers, which is based in Pontiac.

"We are very pleased to acquire the Ypsilanti Courier," said Douglas Haensel, president of 21st Century Newspapers. "It fits perfectly with our vision of acquiring quality community newspapers with a rich local tradition right in our own backyard."

The Courier, a 7,000-circulation weekly, serves Ypsilanti, and Ypsilanti, Augusta, Superior and Pittsfield townships. It began publishing in November 1994, and is owned by a small group of local investors who got involved in the effort to open a newspaper in the wake of the closing of The Ypsilanti Press, a daily, in June of that same year.

The editor and publisher of the Courier, Dave Melchior, will remain in this position under the new ownership.

Church group cleans up parking lot

After seeing a letter to the editor in The Chelsea Standard bemoaning the condition of the Park & Ride facility at the intersection of Interstate 94 and M-52, members of the Chelsea Church of the Nazarene decided to take action.

About 12 teens and six adults joined forces for a clean up day, the Rev. Jeff Crowder said.

"There were the usual items — french fry containers from fast-food restaurants and drink cups from gas stations," Crowder said. "There were more unique items: propane gas tanks, name tags and tires."

Crowder contacted Chelsea City Manager Mike Steklac about the possibility of a joint effort. The church provided the garbage bags and the labor, and collected the trash. The city public works department disposed of the items.

In addition to the local project, several members of the church made a trip to the Flint Eastside Mission in Jackson, which services the racially mixed, working-class community, Crowder said. Members donated clothes, household goods and food.

"So many news stories circulate at this time of year about the trips students take for big spring break bashes that seem to center around questionable or even destructive activities," Crowder said.

Members of the Church of the Nazarene in Chelsea spent time over spring break tidying up the Park & Ride lot at Interstate 94 and M-52. The group includes Jeff, Hannah, Abigail and Noah Crowder; Amanda and Timmy Johnson; Chris and Rebecca Mattison; John and Becky Posegay; Chelsea Stech; Stephanie Merkel; Amber Barbour; and Andrew and Trevor Nold. Tammy Crowder, Barb Johnson and Beth Mattison are not pictured.

"I was really proud of our kids. They took their time off to give back to their community and to those who are less fortunate. I think they really have a good idea what it means to be Christian and to be good citizens."

Steklac said the city appreciates the work the group did for the community.

"I saw the Park & Ride lot before and after this group came through to clean up," he said. "It is a vast improvement for this gateway to our community, and certainly will give a good first impression to visitors entering Chelsea."

TALKING HEALTH

I think most of my attitude about taking personal responsibility for your own quality of life and health rubbed off from my dad, who contracted multiple sclerosis when he was about 30 years old, and died at 72.

Despite being unable to move his lower limbs during those many years, he had a sharp mind and a terrific outlook on life.

He was upbeat all the time and never let his physical condition get him down. He loved to have people visit and always had great stories and jokes ready for them. I think a lot of that was passed along to me. I saw that he had such an amazingly positive attitude and how much it meant to the quality of his life, and to the lives of those around him every single day.

So it's probably not too surprising to those who really know me, that I consciously decide every day that I'm going to do something positive for my health and my outlook on life. I figure there's simply no guarantee that I or anyone else will feel good without making fitness and a positive outlook a personal commitment.

Remember to take care of your health before it's long gone.
