CCA, donors fund educational program for seniors

By Steve Ricci
Staff Writer

Funded by a $2,000 grant from the Chelsea Community Foundation, as well as contributions from individual donors, the Chelsea Senior Center will launch a lifelong learning program for people age 60 and older, called the Adult Learners Institute, this fall.

The program is a joint effort between the senior center, the Chelsea School District's Community Education Program, Washtenaw Community College and Siena Heights University.

Courses, which will be offered to everyone, including those living outside of the Chelsea area, will feature topics such as Washtenaw County history and instruction about writing personal biographies.

All courses will be held in Chelsea between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m., with the majority at the Chelsea Senior Center, which is located in the Washington Street Education Center at 500 Washington St.

Most courses will meet four to six times.

Unlike other educational programs in Chelsea, the Adult Learners Institute will offer college-quality courses without college credits, exams and grades.

Certificates will be offered upon completion of the courses.

The Adult Learners Institute will be among 330 similar programs in the United States affiliated with the Elderhostel Institute Network, which has more than 100,000 participants nationally.

Kay Heller, interim director of the Chelsea Senior Center, said participants from all educational backgrounds would be welcome.

Mayor forms advisory group

Citizens committee to focus on water, wastewater plants

By Steve Ricci
Staff Writer

Chelsea Mayor Ann Feeney has formed a citizens committee to research problems and potential solutions related to operations at the city's water and wastewater treatment plants.

Feeney said Monday that the six-member committee, which she personally selected, would focus on the two plants because their functions are closely related.

"(Both plants) are so intertwined that it's hard to look at them independently," she said.

Other topics the committee could address include whether to continue using the city's reverse-osmosis method of water softening, options to expand the water system's capacity, expansion of the wastewater treatment plant and the impact of wet weather on the city's sanitary sewer system.

Feeney said committee member Earl Heller, a former Sylvan Township trustee, could provide useful insight into the prospect of establishing an emergency connection between the Chelsea and Sylvan Township water systems.

In addition to Heller, the committee includes Lima Township Supervisor Ken Unterbrink; Steven Wright, a civil engineer; John Frank, former chairman of a Chelsea Area Fire Authority committee; Larry Bean, a Michigan Department of Environmental Quality employee; and Jim Finch, a former Chelsea Village Council trustee.

Feeney said although she initially wanted nine people on the committee, three prospective members declined the invitation.

The committee, which will hold its next meeting July 27, will work for an indefinite period, although Feeney said she hopes it will gather recommendations within the next three months.

Feeney said because of population growth, the wastewater treatment plant would need to undergo expansion, and new wells would have to be constructed.

"If we do anything, it gets into the question of money — how to get it and how to pay it back," Feeney said. "All those issues will be on the table."

A major topic the committee will explore is the city's practice of piping its reverse-osmosis concentrate into the wastewater treatment plant, which is detrimentally affecting the plant's capacity and operations.

Police agencies request millage

Washtenaw County seeks funds to buy digital radio towers, equipment

By Gary Anglebrandt
Staff Writer

After the defeat in February of a proposal to expand the Washtenaw County jail, local voters are likely to be faced with another public safety millage request in November.

The county is looking at putting all county police, fire and emergency agencies on the same radio system and is looking to local voters to help foot the bill.

A group representing public safety agencies in the county has requested the Washtenaw County Board of Commissioners approve a 10-year, 0.25-mill tax increase to raise $43 million beginning with the Dec. 1, 2006, tax levy. The owner of a home with an assessed value of $250,000 would pay $31.25 a year.

The money would be used to buy new radios and build four new towers so agencies within the county can use the Michigan State Police's newer digital radio system. Other towers, including one on Jackson Road just west of Baker Road in Scio Township, would be upgraded, said Jack Ceo, deputy chief of the Saline Police Department.

The upgrade would cost $32 million, Ceo said. The millage would raise $43 million to cover interest, said County Administrator Bob Guenzel.

County Public Safety Facts

The county has 29 emergency response teams:

- Fire: 15
- Police: 12
- Ambulance: 1
- Hazardous Materials Response Team: 1

The four new towers would be located roughly in the four corners of Washtenaw County, Ceo said.

■ Huron River Watershed Council seeks volunteers: The Huron River Watershed Council is looking for volunteers to help measure and map 17 area stream sites this summer in Livingston, Oakland, Washtenaw and Wayne counties.

Volunteers will learn techniques in a hands-on workshop from 2 to 5 p.m. July 24 at Adopt-A-Stream headquarters, 1100 N. Main St., in Ann Arbor.

Participants will learn to "read a river" by measuring flow and characterizing the bed and banks. They will form into teams to map different sites.

The project is free and all equipment is provided. Volunteers will not get wet during training.

To register, contact Joan Martin at jmartin@hrwc.org or 769-5971.

■ 'Beauty and the Beast' preview coming to Chelsea District Library: The Chelsea Area Players will stage a preview performance of the summer musical "Beauty and the Beast" 1 p.m. Saturday at the Chelsea District Library, 500 Washington St.

Costumed performers will perform songs, dances and vignettes from the group's July 22 and 23 production at the Chelsea High School auditorium.

Area Rug Cleaning Co.

Customized Spa Treatment for your Valuable Hand-Knotted Area Rugs!

Tom Monahan (no relation to a certain pizza baron) of Area Rug Cleaning Company on Ellsworth Road in Ann Arbor wants your costly hand-woven area rugs to get the customized treatment they deserve.

"There are lots of rugs that other cleaners turn down, and they should," Monahan explains. "Because top-cleaning a hand-knotted area rug is ineffective."

"What happens when you add water to dirt? You get mud."

So, top-cleaning an area rug without first effectively removing the dry soil is "actually making mud inside that nice Oriental rug."

With the overwhelming popularity of wall-to-wall carpeting in the 60s, 70s and 80s, Monahan made a name for himself in the mobile carpet cleaning business. Since 1977, his company "Wolverine Carpet and Furniture Cleaners" has become a solid player in that market.

However, due to the surging popularity of hardwood floors and hand-made area rugs over the last 10 years, it became apparent to Tom that there also is an emerging market for a high-quality cleaning process for speciality area rugs.

The problem? No such process existed. So, in true entrepreneurial fashion, Monahan invented the process, and, earlier this year, "Area Rug Cleaning Company" was born.

Area Rug Cleaning Company's "Soil Separator" is their key invention for this new rug cleaning process, and is the first and most important step.

"Published studies state that 80-90 percent of the dirt in a rug is removed by first vacuuming and removing dust," Monahan explains.

The "Soil Separator" is a large piece of machinery designed to accomplish what grandma used to do by hanging [a rug] on the clothesline and beating it," he adds.

This invention simulates that action mechanically and ratchets up the effectiveness and safety of the process by several hundred percent. The end result is that all loose soil and particulates are removed and the rug is treated safely.

In the old days, prior to the advent of wall-to-wall carpeting, the tools of the trade were old machines built with wooden paddles and steel or leather straps, which would batter and lacerate the rugs if not properly maintained.

By contrast, the "Soil Separator" uses three squared-off tubular rotating bars with no sharp edges, each 16 feet long, which enables the machine to handle rugs up to 16 feet wide. Rugs are fed through the machine on a dry conveyor belt, and those square poles spin, hitting the back of the rug and setting up a vibration, shaking the rug, knocking the debris out.

The machine also has a HEPA-certified dust collector, so any loose particulates are vacuumed away, while heavier material falls into a collection pan at the bottom of the machine.

The "Rug Spa" is a series of procedures Area Rug Cleaning Company uses for properly and safely handling all area rugs. First the rug is inspected to assess the best way to clean it. Then, a digital photo of the rug is taken and loaded into their custom software, which is then added to the job ticket. Next the rug is fed through the "Soil Separator."

Once free of dry soil, it goes through a fully automated wet rug washing machine complete with ringers, so that all the water comes out by the end of the cycle (if the rug calls for this process). Finally, experts "set the pile," groom the rug and start the drying process.

The goal with the "Rug Spa Treatment" is to restore the rug to like original condition when it was taken off the loom. A loom is a machine, in front of which a person sits, physically putting the rug together by hand: strand by strand, knot by knot. As the rug is made, the weaver creates a "pile," which is like a fabric memory, or a direction that all the yarn goes, which the rug "lives on" for the rest of its life.

Because it is such an intensive handling process, cleaners often don't "set the pile" back to the original way it was made, as Area Rug Cleaning Company does. Once the pile is set, restoration of the fringes takes place, and a post inspection completes the process.

Plans are in place for the "Soil Separator" to be manufactured and sold.

"We found that its results were so outstanding that we needed to make it available to others," Monahan explains.

The original intent was simply "to put something in our plant that didn't exist any more," says Monahan. "But because it's the only one, there is definitely a market for it."

A personable and gregarious business owner, Monahan often invites potential clients down to the plant for a tour, believing that this unique new process is best understood by seeing it first hand.

WASHTENAW COUNTY

Guenzel changes police plan

Contract rates could be offered at $120,000 per police service unit

By Gary Anglebrandt
Staff Writer

Municipalities that contract police services will have a final shot to negotiate a rate with the county.

The county administration has scheduled three meetings this month to meet with local leaders. The purpose of the meetings will be to discuss which police service expenses the county and local governments will pay for, County Administrator Bob Guenzel said Monday.

The expenses, currently devised by a police service unit formula, or PSU, have been the source of contention between contracting municipalities and the county since the failed jail millage in February. Though Sheriff Dan Minzey has opposed the cuts, both he and Guenzel have said overcrowding at the county jail is a crisis.

Guenzel has revised his proposal and is willing to change it more, he said.

Guenzel originally proposed cutting funding to the 90 PSUs contracted in the county to pay for a 96-bed jail expansion, new courthouse and rehabilitation services. Money saved from police services would be used to help make payments on a $30 million bond to fund the plan.

Guenzel recently added a new county courthouse in Saline to the proposal.

Guenzel said he will take information gained from this month's meetings into account for his final proposal. The Board of Commissioners is expected to vote on Guenzel's final recommendation at an Aug. 3 Ways and Means Committee meeting.

The original funding cuts would have more than doubled local costs by 2008. The county currently charges about $90,000 per PSU, but would have begun charging almost $200,000 in 2008. The higher number represents the full, unsubsidized value the county places on a PSU.

A PSU roughly equals one deputy. Dexter Village and Dexter and Webster townships, which collectively contract eight PSUs, have begun early planning to form their own police department just in case the full cuts actually happen.

"One thing we heard from townships was they didn't care for our methodology."
Bob Guenzel
County Administrator

In the face of strong criticism from the police union and local leaders, the county began a study to compare itself to Oakland County, which charges about $123,000 to contracting jurisdictions.

"One thing we heard from townships was they didn't care for our methodology," Guenzel said.

Features of Oakland's system, especially overtime costs, could be used to bring Washtenaw County's rate down to the $120,000 to 130,000 range, Guenzel said. Total police overtime costs, automatically included in the full PSU, totaled nearly $1.4 million in 2004, according to a Plante & Moran study.

The county paid $2.6 million from the general fund to cover police services beyond the 0.5 mill allocated. The savings would allow the contract rate to come down, Guenzel said. The overtime costs would be shifted to municipalities that would have approval control for overtime.

Dexter Village President Jim Seta and others have said in the past the county can't be trusted to stick to a plan.

Contracting began in 2000 with an agreement that the county would only increase costs by 6 percent per year.

The 2000 plan lasted six years, enough to be considered long-term, Guenzel said Monday. Changing circumstances demand adjustments, he said.

"One board can't bind a municipality indefinitely," Guenzel said.

Once a new plan is approved, municipal leaders could either drop contracts or sign on for a new four-year contract beginning in 2006. Guenzel has changed his original plans, which called for increasing costs to municipalities within the next two years, and instead has proposed the 2006 and 2007 contract years would maintain 6 percent cost increases.

Police contracts are currently made for two-year periods. The change to four-year contracts was made to finalize whatever board decision is made in August so the issue doesn't come up again in 2008, Guenzel said.

Local governments would have a six-month period in 2007 to opt out of the contracts before cuts begin.

state towers located in nearby counties, increasing coverage in rural areas and possibly saving the county millions of dollars in tower construction, according to a report from the Washtenaw County 800 Megahertz Consortium.

Some western portions of the county have no coverage at all, according to the report.

It also would solve the "interoperability" problem agencies face, meaning agencies using different systems can't speak to each other without first going through dispatch centers. The delay is confusing and an impedance to action during an emergency, according to the report.

County agencies, ranging from Huron Valley Ambulance to the Chelsea Police Department, use outdated analog radios on four different types of systems, according to the report.

The 2003 blackout across Southeast Michian was a "wake-up call" for the county concerning interoperability, Ann Arbor Police Chief Dan Oates said.

He spoke ominously about the current radio system.

"This is now, we believe, a crisis," he said.

Beyond the upgrades, agencies across the county would have to pay a per-microphone subscription fee to the state. The fee will be covered by the millage. Countywide, that fee would be $400,000 if all the agencies were on the system today, Ceo said. After the 10-year millage period is over, municipalities would be responsible for the fees.

The report cited several cases in which radios failed because of age or lack of interoperability. An Eastern Michigan University public safety officer in April was tracking an armed man when the officer's radio went out of range.

Although the police officer safely captured the man, it turned out his radio was not out of range, but that "frequency drift" in the system had caused the radio not to pick up the signal and putting the officer at unnecessary risk.

The board agreed July 6 to consider the request at an August meeting. The request is likely to pass, said Washtenaw County Commissioner Mark Ouimet, District 1, of Scio Township.

Ouimet supports the request. Other commissioners said they want to see the radio system changed but were concerned voters would not approve another public safety millage in the wake of February's failed request for a jail expansion.

"Is this the right time? Is this the right election?" asked Jeff Irwin, a county commissioner from Ann Arbor.

Irwin said most voters wouldn't attend public meetings about the issue. A failed vote would make it harder to fund a new system later, just as is now happening with the county's jail expansion plans.

Oates said he hoped the commissioners would help guide the consortium on "marketing" matters.

Ceo and Oates represented the consortium and said the state is responsible for maintenance of the system. Police departments from Ann Arbor, Saline and Milan, and the Sheriff's Office formed the consortium in 1986 when the four agencies began operating on the same 800-megahertz radio system. Others have since joined.

The consortium last year proposed a phone bill tax to pay for a new system, but it has since chosen to request the Board of Commissioners approve a ballot request.

Chelsea Police Chief Scott Sumner said last Thursday that the Chelsea Police Department uses two communication systems: an analog 800-MHz radio and a backup VHF radio, which are not interoperable.

He said the police department's VHF system could fail in the near future, and that the Federal Commission could reallocate frequencies, rendering the VHF system obsolete.

"It's an absolute necessity in this day and age to have interoperability," said Sumner. "Communication is a force multiplier."

Sumner alluded to a murder-suicide in a neighboring township, which he declined to identify, to which the Michigan State Police, the Chelsea Police Department and the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Office responded. The incident occurred in an area where the analog 800-MHz system did not work, which meant the three law enforcement agencies could not communicate.

Likewise, when Chelsea School District Superintendent Joseph Piasecki was shot and killed in 1993 by Stephen Leith, a high school science teacher, Sumner said the police agencies could not communicate.

Sumner said adoption of the new radio system is critical.

"When we're requesting assistance and need other agencies, we cannot communicate with them. And when we have to assist someone, we almost have to jump in their cars to communicate with them, or use cell phones," he said.

Sumner said the county's old radio systems are "collapsing," and that all the county's police and fire chiefs "stand united" on the need for improved communications technology.

County Commissioner Ronnie Peterson of Ypsilanti said he supported the plan but didn't want to see the county again faced with outdated technology again in 10 years.

The county, once its initial upgrades are made, wouldn't be stuck with additional upgrades in the future, Ceo and Oates said.

The only cost municipalities would be immediately responsible for in the state system would be maintenance of radios, Ceo said.

Peterson also said he was concerned that municipalities that agreed now to pay the Michigan fees might not do so in the future, leaving the county to pay.

Ceo said he couldn't see why any municipality would want to do that. The state pays for upgrades after the initial upgrade, and the millage covers everything else except end-user maintenance, he said.

"They're getting everything paid for," Ceo said.

—Staff Writer Steve Ricci contributed to this report.

County rejects Voice over Internet Protocol system

Oakland County is switching to a Voice over Internet Protocol system for its radio system.

In Washtenaw, the possibility of using VoIP for a public safety communication system was passed over because the technology is too new and the county doesn't have the infrastructure to handle it, said Jack Ceo, deputy chief at the Saline Police Department.

VoIP uses the Internet to relay voice communications.

The county could have the infrastructure someday, though. Plans are moving ahead on the Wireless Washtenaw program, which would provide high-speed wireless Internet access in the county. Ceo said the program is still on a "wish list."

"Who knows what's going to happen?" he said. "It could get on the back burner. We have a need for a radio system today."

If it gets off the ground, Wireless Washtenaw would make for a good next-generation system, he said.

Local man faces preliminary examination

Michael Roy Pierce could get four years in jail and/or $4,000 fine

By Steve Ricci
Staff Writer

Michael Roy Pierce, a 27-year-old Dexter man who allegedly attempted to solicit sex from a 10-year-old Dexter Township boy June 20, will face a preliminary examination 1 p.m. Tuesday in Washtenaw County Circuit Court.

Pierce, who was arraigned June 22, is charged with accosting a minor for immoral purposes, a felony that carries a possible four-year prison sentence and/or a $4,000 fine.

Cmdr. David Egeler of the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Office said Pierce posed as a reporter from The Dexter Leader after reading a sports story in the June 16 edition of the newspaper, which listed several children's names, including the alleged victim.

Pierce allegedly called the boy and offered to perform a sexual act on him.

Pierce told police he had sexual thoughts about children in his neighborhood but never acted upon them, according to a police report.

Pierce, the adopted child of Chelsea parents, suffers from fetal alcohol syndrome and has an IQ tested between 57 and 70, which is considered mentally retarded, Don Ferris, Pierce's defense attorney of Ferris & Salter of Ann Arbor, said Monday.

Ferris said Pierce lives in a home supervised by Washtenaw County Community Support and Treatment Services, a county-provided mental health program.

Ferris said diminished capacity defenses have traditionally been used in cases such as Pierce's, but that a U.S. Supreme Court decision has made that defense untenable.

Insanity defenses may be used, however, in cases where those accused suffer from either mental illness or mental retardation, Ferris said.

"A person would have to be competent to stand trial," he said. "That means a person can understand the nature of the proceedings and can assist an attorney in his defense."

Ferris said Pierce was placed in special education programs throughout his schooling.

Some cases involving mentally retarded defendants, at the discretion of the prosecuting attorney and the plaintiff's family, are handled outside of court, Ferris said.

"It's up to the prosecutor," he said. "I've had cases where (defendants) were so intellectually challenged that they could never be found competent. You can't try a person if he can never be found competent."

Ferris said Pierce has no prior criminal convictions.

Washtenaw County Prosecuting Attorney Brian Mackie said Monday that Amy Smith, an assistant prosecuting attorney with the county, would likely prosecute the case during the preliminary examination phase.

Mackie declined further comment regarding the case.

Circuit Court Judge Melinda Morris will preside over Pierce's preliminary examination.

Senior MEAP scores low

CHS class of 2005 did not do as well as other classes

By Heather Connor
Staff Writer

State test scores for Chelsea High School's class of 2005 showed little change from previous years.

On July 1, the Michigan Department of Education publicized results of the Michigan Educational Assessment Program test given to students of the class of 2005 across the state over a three-year period.

The state also provided MEAP scores of tests taken by high school juniors in March.

Shawn Lewis-Lakin, director of student performance for Chelsea schools, said Chelsea's recently graduated seniors did not do as well on the MEAP tests as previous graduating classes. This was true not only in Chelsea but across the state as a whole, he said.

The good news for the Chelsea School District is more students are meeting state standards, he said.

"From when the class of 2005 first took the MEAP tests as 11th-graders in May of 2004 to when they graduated in June of 2005, additional students demonstrated proficiency," Lewis-Lakin said.

"This increase in performance for the class of 2005 ranged from 2 percent to 8 percent, depending on the test."

Students were tested in mathematics, reading, science, social studies and English language arts. A relative few 10th-graders take the MEAP test, but students have several opportunities to take the MEAP during their high school career.

The scores are accumulated by the state Merit Awards office and reported after all students in a graduating class have had an opportunity to test, according to the state Web site at www.michigan.gov/mde.

Seniors had a chance to retake the tests in March when the current junior class took the tests. About 5 percent of students who took the tests in March were seniors, Lewis-Lakin said.

Of the 234 students tested from the class of 2005, 170 met or exceeded state standards in mathematics, 200 in reading, 178 in science, 113 in social studies, 174 in writing and 190 in English language arts.

The results are consistent with other measures of academic success used for the graduating class, Lewis-Lakin said.

There is good news for the class of 2006. Juniors who took the test in March had improved scores compared to those who took the tests the year before.

"In all areas, our scores compare favorably versus the state average, and the change in our scores compares very favorably compared to the state average change," Lewis-Lakin said.

This year, 69 percent of juniors met or exceeded state standards in mathematics, 82 percent in reading, 74 percent in writing, 79 percent in English language arts, 74 percent in science and 49 percent in social studies, Lewis-Lakin said.

Staff Writer Heather Connor can be reached by telephone at 475-1371 or via e-mail at hconnor@heritage.com.

Warrant Arrest

A 25-year-old Chelsea man was turned over to the Milan Police Department June 22 after he was stopped in his vehicle for a loud exhaust. He had a warrant for driving with a suspended driver's license.

A 27-year-old Dexter man was arrested June 19 on a warrant issued in Ypsilanti for driving without a driver's license in 1998. He was in a minivan with two other people, parked in the Meijer parking lot at 5645 Jackson Road, when he was arrested. A gas station clerk told sheriff's deputies that the people in the van were trying to sell a new $500 television for $150 because they had lost the receipt and could not return it.

The man was walking away from the vehicle when deputies approached the van. They asked him why the license plate was covered with a white cloth, and he said he didn't know that it was. He was immediately handcuffed because of the suspicious situation and later taken to Washtenaw County Jail on the warrant.

The other suspects said they were trying to sell the television for a friend in Scio Farms Estates. They were unable to give an address or full name.

Clothes and blankets inside the vehicle gave the appearance that someone was living in it. The Dexter man and another suspect each had sores on their face and body but denied doing drugs other than marijuana, according to a police report.

Property Damage

A woman in the 1000 block of Rabbit Run Circle told police that her car had two cigarette burns on it and its windshield wipers and tires were damaged. She found notes on the car regarding parking in certain spots. She believes a neighbor did the damage.

Stolen Vehicle

A car was reported stolen from a Lexus dealership at 590 Auto Mall June 25. The car had been loaned out to a customer, who said he had returned the car after hours.

The dealership reported the car had been found near the dealership June 28. The car appeared to have been borrowed and returned with no intent to damage or steal the vehicle, according to a report.

The dealership reported the car stolen again July 5. A manager said an employee was probably using it, but the vehicle still was missing.

Larceny

A manager at Grand Lakes Telecom Co. reported June 17 that a check was stolen from the company's mailbox at 167 Little Lakes Drive the previous week. The check, worth $3,400, was not accepted by a bank when someone attempted to cash it at a gas station in Milan.

A car in the 2000 block of Sagebrush Road was broken into June 25. A stereo was stolen and a window was smashed.

A set of golf clubs was reported stolen from the 500 block of Apricot Road June 26. The owner of the clubs had set them next to a vehicle while he went into a home to use the bathroom.

A woman in the 2000 block of Sagebrush Road reported $2,400 worth of stereo equipment stolen from her car June 26.

A man in the 2000 block of Sagebrush Road reported his vehicle's license plate stolen June 26. Ann Arbor Police recovered it from a stolen vehicle that day.

A man in the 3000 block of Bradford Square Drive reported $700 worth of video games and other items stolen from his car June 25.

Assault and Battery

Two Dexter-area men were involved in a "road rage" incident June 27 that led to a fight at Pilot gas station, 750 Baker Road.

One of the men was riding a motorcycle and the other was driving a SUV. The driver punched the motorcyclist after tailgating the motorcycle on Interstate 94, the motorcyclist said. Each man said the other had given the middle finger because of tailgating and speeds.

The motorcyclist said the SUV driver drove dangerously close to the motorcycle, and the driver said the motorcyclist waved to the driver to follow him to the gas station.

The SUV driver was charged with assault, and the motorcyclist charged with property damage for throwing a helmet at the SUV's windshield. The motorcyclist received a cut on his forehead and bruises.

Indecent Exposure

A Plymouth woman and a Farmington Hills woman reported seeing a white man about 60 years old with a full beard and long gray hair walk out naked onto a train bridge while the two women canoed on the Huron River near Zeeb Road.

A man in charge of the canoe rental said he had had similar reports, but no names of witnesses.

A Huron-Clinton Metroparks officer said there had been a homeless man living in the woods who might have done it.

Lima Township

Disorderly Neighbors

A man on Fox Hills Street said his neighbor sent a fake letter from the homeowners' association telling him to take down reflectors and yellow tape from his yard. Then the neighbors stole the items from his yard, he said. At times, he said, the neighbor's children yelled obscenities at him.

The children denied the theft and said the man had called them names and raised his middle finger at them. Michigan State Police troopers closed the case because of a lack of evidence.

Webster Township

Burglary

A resident in the 7000 block of Fox Lane reported $2,600 worth of guns and gun cases stolen from his home June 16.

Industrial Accident

A contractor fell through the roof at Thomson Shore Inc., 7300 West Joy Road, June 22 and fell approximately 25 feet, hitting a piece of machinery on the way down. The man was still conscious when deputies arrived. He was conscious and asked what was happening. He was taken to a hospital.

Larceny

A man in the 7000 block of Scully Road told police June 20 that his grandson stole three power tools worth a total of $700. The items were at 3D Merchandise Brokers, a pawnshop in Ypsilanti Township. The man said he wanted to prosecute to force his grandson to deal with a drug problem, according to a police report. The man eventually got his items back after the grandson bought them back. The man chose not to prosecute.

Arson

A resident in the 6000 block of Merkel Road said someone put fireworks into her mailbox June 28 and burned her mail. A resident on Gregory Road also reported that someone threw fireworks at his house, but did not cause damage. A resident in the 8000 block of Chamberlin Road also reported someone tried to blow up firecrackers in a mailbox.

WHO'S WATCHING THE CHILDREN?

The Orange County Register thought its readers might like to know about the criminal histories of workers in the state's day care facilities. After all, the paper's readers were placing their own trust and their children's well-being in the hands of those workers.

But the state of California turned down a series of newspaper freedom of information requests to look at those histories, citing the privacy rights of the workers. It also refused access to its data base of offenses and other day care center violations unless the newspaper paid $45,000 for the information.

In the end, the Register won its fight for access to documents which were used to track down the criminals and public court records that revealed their histories. The newspaper also built its own data base from nearly 50,000 pages of inspection and complaint reports in Orange County. These efforts allowed the Register to unveil for the state's parents the uncomfortable truth. Throughout California, thousands of day care workers had long criminal histories. The results of the data base analysis also showed pervasive problems of mistreatment, neglect, overcrowding and unsafe conditions.

If you lived in Orange County, or any other county with day care, wouldn't you like to know whether the adults your children come in contact with have committed crimes?

Dexter Township

Larceny

A homeowner in the 9000 block of Portage Avenue told police June 23 that an air compressor unit was stolen from the home.

A manager at Klave's Marina, 8789 McGregor Road, told police June 26 that a boat valued at $5,900 was stolen.

Stolen Vehicle

A woman in the 5000 block of Dexter-Pinckney Road told police that her daughter stole her car June 29 after the young woman was released from a hospital for heroin addiction treatment. The daughter returned the car late that night, but the mother still wished to prosecute. The daughter was arrested and taken to jail.

Reckless Driving

A Dexter Township man admitted responsibility for driving a car into a house in the 8000 block of Portage Lake Boulevard June 21. He and his wife had gotten into an argument about her son, who had recently moved in and was not working. The man said he was going to move out and take his daughters with him.

The wife drove away in her car, and he followed. He hit the house after sliding on some gravel while making a turn. A 14-year-old girl said she was sitting in her bed in her room when the car hit her wall, located on the other side of the room. She saw her entertainment center fall over, but she was not hurt.

A witness said a 3-year-old ran out of the way of the car as it slid toward the house.

The man was not drunk. The case has been sent to a prosecutor.

Property Damage

A juvenile in the 13000 block of Redmond Hills Court received a cell phone call June 25 telling him to look in his front yard for a tree. He went outside and saw a small tree had been planted in the yard.

He suspected a girl he knew, but she denied involvement. Her mother said she was with the family during the time of the incident.

Disorderly Person

A Whitmore Lake woman was arrested and jailed after refusing to leave her boyfriend's home in the 10000 block of North Territorial Road June 26.

Her boyfriend had changed the locks on the home, although she lived there, she said.

Sheriff's deputies told her several times to leave, but she sat on a bench and refused to before she was arrested, according to a report.

Larceny

An Ypsilanti man's cell phone was stolen near Algonquin Street after he left it in an unlocked car to go boating June 29.

Dexter Village

Property Damage

A manager at Level Three Communications, 7866 Second St., reported June 21 that someone entered the building during the night and rolled out reels of fiber cable to the outside of the building. It was the second time it happened, the manager told police.

Larceny

A manager at LaFontaine Automotive Group, 7120 Dexter-Ann Arbor Road, reported two rear tires were stolen from a 2005 Malibu June 29. The car had been jacked up and remained with the jack.

Chelsea

Civil Dispute

Chelsea police were dispatched June 16 to Chelsea Grille, 1120 S. Main St., to talk with a Chelsea man who was intoxicated and refused to return his girlfriend's car keys.

Police determined that there had been no physical contact and the man agreed to stay at a local hotel for the evening.

His girlfriend, also a Chelsea resident, agreed to undergo a Breathalyzer test and tested over the legal blood-alcohol limit to drive a car. Police took her home.

Larceny

An employee at Divine Java, 1159 S. Main St., told police someone stole her car keys and keyless entry device June 17.

Keys to the business and the woman's home were also stolen.

The woman said she left a rear door to the business open at 1 p.m., ran some errands, returned at 3:30 p.m. and discovered the items were missing.

An employee at a nearby business told police that she saw a gold-colored Ford Taurus, occupied by two middle-age Hispanic men, drive by the rear door very slowly.

Police searched the back alley but did not find the stolen items. The woman contacted a locksmith to get new door locks and keys.

Someone stole two rear tires from a pick-up truck between 2 and 5:30 a.m. June 20 at Village Motor Sales, 1185 S. Main St.

Police and the owner of the business reviewed videotape from a security camera and could only see a patrol car driving through the parking lot.

They determined that the only way someone could approach the vehicle without activating the camera recorder was to park in a lot east of the business and walk over a road leading to Pierce Lake Golf Course.

The stolen tires had a total value of $1,989.

Suspicious Incident

An employee at Chelsea Market, 125 S. Main St., told police he saw a suspicious man come out of an employee restroom and leave the store June 20. The man got into an old, green-colored pickup truck and drove away, the employee said.

The employee checked the restroom and found initials "B.M.B," a heart shape and the word "trash" written on a wall.

Improper Use of Public Trash Cans

Chelsea police responded to a littering complaint June 18 at Pierce Park. They met a Chelsea man at the park who admitted to throwing his trash in a city container. Police advised the man to discard his trash at home or at a service station.

Felony Warrant

Chelsea police met a Lansing man at the East Lansing Police Department June 18 and served him with arrest warrants for fraud, driving with a suspended license and larceny. The man was taken to the Washtenaw County Jail, where he was lodged pending arraignment.

General Assistance

Chelsea police responded June 19 to the home of a local woman who said she needed to talk to someone. The woman told police she was feeling lonely because her doctor had retired, and was concerned about finding a new doctor.

The woman also asked a police officer to deliver an envelope to another Chelsea police officer.

Obstructing Justice

Chelsea police arrested a 19-year-old Chelsea man June 21 on four counts of second-degree criminal sexual conduct at his home North Main Street.

While arresting the man, police also found a bag of marijuana on his kitchen table.

The man was taken to the Washtenaw County Jail, where he was lodged pending arraignment.

Property Damage

An employee at Hatch Stamping, 635 E. Industrial Drive, reported a traffic accident at the plant's parking lot June 21.

The man said while he was looking for a parking spot, he attempted to maneuver around a garbage truck that was moving toward him and hit a guardrail, damaging his vehicle.

The man told police he wanted the incident documented because it reflected inadequate parking at his workplace.

Vehicle Crash

A 57-year-old Dexter man suffered injuries when a vehicle he was driving crashed into a tree June 22 near the Chelsea Health and Wellness Center, 14800 Old US-12.

Police determined the man was intoxicated. He registered a blood-alcohol content of 0.10 during a Breathalyzer test.

A blood-alcohol content of 0.08 is considered legally drunk in Michigan.

Huron Valley Ambulance took the man to University of Michigan Hospitals.

Chelsea police issued a report of drunken driving regarding the accident.

Child Endangerment

An off-duty sheriff's deputy saw three young children in a parked vehicle with the engine running and parked at Polly's Market June 27. The deputy told a Dexter Township resident who returned to the vehicle that it was dangerous to leave children alone in a vehicle. The woman said it was not the deputy's business.

When the woman left, the deputy called police dispatch with the license plate number. Another deputy went to the woman's home, where she said she had only been in the store for five minutes to get diapers and that it would have taken longer to get all the children into the store. She said she would not do it again.

Compiled by staff writers Gary Anglebrandt and Steve Ricci based on reports filed with the Michigan State Police, Washtenaw County Sheriff's Office and the Chelsea Police Department.

Young women should know their Miranda rights

HEATHER CONNOR

As a newly engaged woman, I have some reservations about joining the ranks of the married.

I guess Abe, my fiance, and I are being rather old-fashioned about it: We're going to have about a two-year engagement period, and we don't plan to live together beforehand.

But my main concern is that I don't want my friends and family to treat me differently. I love being a single woman. I was once the starry eyed teenager and later a young woman who thought being married or engaged was the ultimate goal for my life.

Then I grew up. More importantly, I became a feminist.

Before the image of a bra-burning crazy person enters your mind, I am not a far-left person on the issue. I didn't like "Sex and the City." It made single women out to be obnoxious, self-indulgent people who, unfortunately, were portrayed as those who were incomplete without a relationship with a man.

I believe single and married women and those with children need to work together for the betterment of our gender. Stay-at-home moms need to realize that the struggles of working women do affect them. And working women need to understand the importance of preserving a woman's ability to choose to stay home to raise their children.

Engaged or not, all women need to realize that we are not obligated to live up to any social standards. A happy medium and common ground can be found between single and married women if they're willing to work together to find it.

What has hurt me the most with my married friends is how fast I've been forgotten when they get married and have children.

I understand that married mothers are very busy people, but so are single women. We have aging parents to care for, relationships to nurture and homes to maintain, not to mention demanding jobs.

If women would keep their friendships with female friends a priority, there would not be so many misunderstandings.

I think my married friends stopped calling me because they think I won't understand how much raising children takes away their time and energy. I don't often call my married friends because they don't seem to understand that I am not incomplete because I am not married or a mother. I simply need a friend to talk to.

For these reasons, I have come up with the "Miranda Rights for Women," my own parody of those rights that are read when one is arrested. If I could arrest every woman on Earth, married or not, for one minute and read her these rights, I would hope I have done a community service.

They go like this: You have the right to remain childless, because anything you say or do can be used against you in the course of raising children, especially by your mother or mother-in-law.

You have the right to consult someone wiser than yourself for advice before making any big decisions. If you do not have a wise person in your life who you can trust, one will be provided for you. You are not required to give in to social pressure to do something because "it's expected of a proper lady."

You have the right to remain your own person. This can include keeping your maiden name, having your own ideas about politics and socializing with a different set of friends than your husband or boyfriend.

Do you know and understand these rights? Good. Read them to me a few years from now after I've been married for a while and haven't returned your phone calls.

Jakeway gets the door

TIM SKUBICK

At last.

After bungling the removal of two previous folks it didn't want around anymore, Gov. Jennifer Granholm's administration got this one right, and Don Jakeway was quietly removed from his job of creating jobs as chief executive officer of the Michigan Economic Development Corp.

No public harangue. Everything was done by the public relations handbook and announced in a seven-paragraph news release. Jimmy Epilito will now command the MEDC and, in paragraph five, the release announced that Jakeway would pursue "new opportunities for the MEDC on the international front."

End of story?

Not quite.

Anyone with half a brain instinctively knew that the full story was not being told, but how to get beneath the sanitized press release?

MEDC Vice Chairman Phil Power was the first stop. Surely a fellow journalist would be sympathetic. As the publisher of a huge newspaper chain, he above all would understand the desire to tell the whole story.

"I'm not prepared to help ... I admire your sense of the story."

He politely yet firmly constructed a brick wall, keeping his MEDC hat on and his journalist's hat under the bed.

Rightly or wrongly, Jakeway is out because he did not make a visible dent in the state's jobless rate, and a certain governor needs to address that problem, or she herself may be in the unemployment line next year.

One source who would talk explained, "There was never a clear understanding about the line of communication" between Jakeway and his two bosses, the governor and David Hollister, who directs the Department of Labor and Economic Growth.

This source, familiar with Jakeway's frustrations, reports that he "didn't have access to the governor when he needed it," and conversely, the feeling in the governor's and Hollister's offices was they didn't think Don was being communicative enough.

Plus, while Jakeway may have had the trust of the governor after she signed off on hiring him in September 2003, this source suggested an undercurrent of oppostion in her administration.

"Some of the people around her (who are dyed-in-the-wool Democrats) may not have trusted him because he was a Republican."

Hence one can assume that on that basis alone, he was denied all-important access to the governor.

To his credit, Jakeway did not pull a Tom Watkins. The former state school superintendent got into a nasty and public debate with the governor before he left.

Jakeway remained quiet and was taken care of.

Local municipalities are considering forming a local police department if the county cuts funding. Do you think the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Office does a good job covering the Dexter and Chelsea area?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Reach out to victims of less visible disasters

The devastating impact of the tsunamis in the Indian Ocean has led to an appropriate and generous outpouring of support from the international community and private citizens.

Even as we respond to the needs of the tsunami victims, we must not forget the people suffering in humanitarian emergencies elsewhere around the world.

Every day, thousands of people die of hunger in situations that do not make the news or elicit the same level of public compassion as the scenes of tidal waves playing across our screens. The tsunami victims need our help, but so do the hundreds of millions of people living through less visible emergencies.

Let's ensure that our compassion and capacity to fight hunger reach more than those whose tragic stories reach the front pages.

A hungry child is a hungry child, wherever she may be in the world.

Many questions for school administration

After reading the article "School board approves 2005-06 budget," hoping for a $175 per pupil increase, in the June 30 Chelsea Standard, I am left with the following questions:

- Is it financially sound to pass a budget on a hope?
- Is there something wrong with my thinking?
- Am I wrong to question the board's decision?
- Did we give increases to our school leaders on a hope?
- Will we tell our union employees that the governor's proposal did not get approved?
- Should we really rely on a financially strapped state?
- Should our school board be expected to consider a stressed economy?
- Will we blame the governor?
- Would you make financial decisions on just a proposal?
- Can you overspend and hope for a retirement or salary increase?
- Should I be questioning the school board or administration?
- Was the 2004-05 budget inflated with a $4 million fund balance?
- Will the next article be titled with the headline "Governor coped?"
- Will the voters remember?

Oh well, it's just tax dollars.

Scout rummage sale fund-raiser a success

Most people are familiar with some form of fund-raiser, whether it's a book sale, hot dog cookout or a pop bottle drive. There are innumerable possibilities.

But when it comes to rummage sales, Boy Scout Troop 477 wrote the book. Each year, the Scouts raise thousands of dollars to support their activities. The event is the troop's primary source of funds and only fund-raiser.

This year's sale was held June 24 and 25, but the process officially began in early April, when the rummage collections started. A hotline allowed callers to

Neighbors should be more neighborly

Why do people insist on ruining other people's good times?

And then we wonder why so many people live their lives in anger or sadness.

You have to wonder about neighbors who would call the police on Independence Day.

If people call the police on the Fourth of July because neighbors are using illegal fireworks and that person is worried about safety, more power to them. That's fine.

If people call the police because someone is setting off loud fireworks on July 3 or July 5, maybe even that would be acceptable.

But for someone to call police on July 4 because fireworks are too loud is uncalled for.

It's a holiday. It's a nice day. It's a happy day. It's a day to make noise and celebrate.

We don't get enough days like that, and for someone to go and call police that day does more than quiet down the noise.

It also strips away whatever happiness those neighbors had that day. It keeps them from looking forward to celebrating again the next year. And it ruins the relationship with the person who called.

Allen Park Police Inspector Dale Covert said his department had a lot of calls on the Fourth of July, and he said it's likely that other cities did too.

In one case, an elderly woman was exceptionally scared of the noise.

That woman had every right to call police, and I'm grateful that police were there to help her.

Others were calling because they were afraid of fireworks falling on them or possibly burning down their houses. That's understandable, too.

I don't want anyone getting hurt.

But then there are those people who called simply because they were unhappy with the noise.

Some people live close together in their neighborhoods. It's inevitable that they will hear noise.

Of course, the police do their job and respond.

LENA KHZOUZ

When they ask the caller if those partying neighbors do this often, the person who called may say no.

Although people are entitled to peace and quiet, Covert said he, too, wonders why people cannot tolerate one day with a little more noise than usual.

That's my point, especially when it's a special day. In this case, it's a day where the whole country celebrated with fireworks.

It's like demanding that Christmas lights shouldn't shine because they're blinding or that kids should not wear costumes on Halloween because they're too scary.

Instead of calling to complain about the fireworks, maybe people should celebrate with their neighbors on this day that recognizes freedom.

And if they don't want to celebrate with their neighbors, fine. They can stay home with their doors closed.

But there's no need to ruin anyone's special day, whether it's a birthday, a graduation party, a wedding or an official holiday.

The way I see it, people who would ruin neighbors' happiness and strip away their freedom to celebrate Independence Day are the ones who are hurting their neighbors, not the other way around.

The governor did her part by never calling Jakeway a valuable member of her cabinet, which saved her the embarrassment of having to eat those words again (as she did with Watkins).

So the administration was able to gloss over the real reasons behind the move and nobody had to concede that the wrong decision was made in 2003.

I think the news release should have said, "This arrangement with Mr. Jakeway just did not work out. We are going to make sure it does work out with Mr. Epilito."

But no administration would ever make such a public confession, even though it would be refreshing.

After all, every successful politician knows that what the public doesn't know won't hurt it. But if the public ever found out the whole truth, it would hurt.

arrange a pick-up for any donations.

After the Loch Alpine subdivision hosted its garage sales, a crew drove around picking up contributions. By the week before the sale, the barn was full of items for the rummage sale.

That's when all the hard work began.

The weekend saw the cardboard floor covering being laid out and the setting up of tables in the gymnasium. The Monday prior to the sale, the largest loads arrived at Creekside Intermediate School and were taken to the cafeteria to be sorted.

It took until mid-Wednesday to sort through all of it and pile it onto the appropriate tables. A hallway at the school was reserved for the excess items.

Items were priced Wednesday evening and all of Thursday. Shortly after 9 p.m., Scoutmaster Jack Brigham announced that the troop was officially ready for the sale.

On the day of the sale, anyone could easily spot the Scout's activities. Some were helping customers carry their purchases, and others were demonstrating the working electronics and reminding customers which ones didn't work.

There were Scouts helping to sort books and moving merchandise from the reserved hallway to the gymnasium to be sold. By closing time the first day, the entire hallway had been cleared out. Saturday did not see as much business as Friday, but required the most Scouts to help in cleaning up.

Thanks to the Dexter community, the sale was once again a success.

WHO'S WATCHING THE CHILDREN?

The Orange County Register thought its readers might like to know about the criminal histories of workers in the state's day-care facilities. After all, the paper's readers were placing their own trust and their children's well-being in the hands of those workers.

But the state of California turned down a series of newspaper Freedom of Information requests to look at those histories, citing the privacy rights of the workers. It also refused access to its data base of offenses and other day-care center violations unless the newspaper paid $45,000 for the information.

In the end, the Register won its fight for access to documents–which were used to track down the criminals and public court records that revealed their histories. The newspaper also built its own data base from nearly 50,000 pages of inspection and complaint reports in Orange County. These efforts allowed the Register to unveil for the state's parents the uncomfortable truth. Throughout California, thousands of day-care workers had long criminal histories. The results of the data base analysis also showed pervasive problems of mistreatment, neglect, overcrowding and unsafe conditions.

If you lived in Orange County, or any other county with day care, wouldn't you like to know whether the adults your children come in contact with have committed crimes?

lor's degree, a master's degree or a high school diploma," she said.

"Continuing education is not a degree program. It's also a social thing. It allows people to get together and learn while socializing."

Heller added that some courses might be held at local retirement communities or the Chelsea Center for the Arts.

Participants may pay an annual membership fee and take classes at reduced prices, said Sharleen Eisenbeiser, a member of the Adult Learners Institute Advisory Board.

Those who do not pay membership fees can still take the classes for a slightly higher fee.

Maureen Nelson, chairwoman of the advisory board, said membership fees would be $25 annually. Members will pay $5 per course and non-members will pay $20 per course, she said.

"Compared to other Elderhostel programs, this is inexpensive," she said.

Nelson said members of the organization would be empowered with determining course content.

"We'll have administrators who are also learning and teaching classes," Nelson said.

Instructors will draw from a broad range of people, she said, including college instructors or members of the Chelsea community at large.

"Instructors need expertise and a willingness to share," Nelson said. "This classroom is meant to have a lot of interaction. It's very participatory, and everyone gets to participate in whatever they choose."

All instructors will offer their time pro bono.

Nelson said while similar educational programs are offered at institutions such as the University of Michigan and Eastern Michigan University, the Chelsea program grew from the idea that classes could be held off campus.

Nelson, a former director of continuing education at Frederick Community College in Frederick, Md., said the new program is important in Chelsea.

"There is quite a population that wants to continue learning," she said. "If you don't use it, you lose it."

An open house for the program will take place from 10:30 a.m. to noon Aug. 16 at the Chelsea Senior Center.

A course brochure for fall offerings will be available by Aug. 1. Fall courses will start in September and end in November. Courses for the winter semester will begin in January.

Those interested in the program may get more information by visiting the program's Web site at www.adultlearnersinstitute.org or by calling the Chelsea Senior Center at 475-9242.

COMMITTEE

of Environmental Quality currently prohibits releasing the concentrate directly into streams.

Chelsea City Manager Mike Steklac said last week that the city is involved in a pilot study that could result in obtaining a permit to discharge the concentrate into Letts Creek.

Steklac said the city's wastewater superintendent and engineers would provide the committee with information about technology used to expand the wastewater treatment plant.

He said it would take two to three years to expand that plant, including design, financing and state approval for actual construction.

The Chelsea City Council will ultimately approve plans to expand the plant, Steklac said.

Feeney said the committee would use a report about wastewater treatment plant operations already submitted by the architectural firm Fishbeck, Thompson, Carr and Huber Inc., as well as reports from water department staff.

At a June 28 City Council meeting, Trustee Frank Hammer suggested formation of another committee to research wastewater treatment plant technology — this one comprising City Council trustees.

Trustees Jamie Bollinger and Joe Merkel supported the idea, but Hammer eventually withdrew his request.

Merkel said the City Council committee was necessary.

"Fourteen months ago, we were told we have a problem and we need to get moving now," Merkel said. "If we have a downpour and the wastewater treatment plant overflows, taxpayers will pay for fines."

Bollinger said he was concerned about the amount of time it would take the citizens committee to get educated about the issues.

"If you put a citizens committee together, you won't get anywhere real fast," Bollinger said. "It's got to move and it's got to move fast."

Feeney defended her advocacy of the citizens committee Monday.

"The citizens are the ones that are going to be affected by this," she said. "It makes a lot of sense to have them involved in their own decisions."

Feeney said the committee is made up of highly competent people.

"I have great trust in their wisdom," she said.

City officials say Chelsea's wastewater treatment plant, pictured above, will need to be expanded to meet demands from a growing population. Chelsea Mayor Ann Feeney recently appointed a six-member citizens advisory committee to research problems with the city's water and wastewater treatment plants.

City proposes water ordinance

Lawn and landscape watering could be restricted in summer

By Steve Ricci
Staff Writer

Chelsea officials are considering implementing a new water conservation ordinance designed to maintain city water supplies during periods of peak water use.

At a June 28 Chelsea City Council meeting, Chelsea City Manager Mike Steklac said city staff observed that Chelsea's water system is slow to recover after morning periods in summer months, when water use is highest.

In response, city staff has proposed adoption of the water conservation ordinance, which would restrict lawn and landscape irrigation to an odd-even schedule, based on property addresses and specific dates.

Properties with even-numbered addresses would be allowed to irrigate only on even-numbered days of the month, while properties with odd-numbered addresses would be allowed to irrigate only on odd-numbered days.

The ordinance also would prohibit use of automatic irrigation systems between 5 and 10 a.m.

The intended effect would be to spread out water system demands over the course of an entire day, instead of permitting heavy use during morning periods.

Manual residential lawn and landscape watering would be permitted without restriction if water users were present to monitor the watering.

Lawns with new seeds or sods would be exempt from the odd-even watering restriction for a 21-day period, but would still be required to comply with the 5 to 10 a.m. prohibition.

Additionally, newly installed automatic irrigation systems would be required to include automatic rain sensors that would interrupt the systems' cycles if one-eighth of an inch or more rain fell.

That requirement could be enforced by the Chelsea Area Construction Agency, Steklac said.

The ordinance also would allow Steklac to declare a water conservation emergency if there were a catastrophic water system failure, such as a break in a large water line or malfunction of a well.

A conservation emergency would ban all outdoor watering until the emergency is resolved.

Steklac said city staff resources would be required for public education and ordinance enforcement.

Automatic rain sensors would cost between $20 and $50, not including installation costs.

The City Council could vote on the proposed ordinance as early as this month.

Steklac said last week that the new ordinance would recommend use of automatic rain sensors in existing systems.

Two wells in works

Local water system approaches maximum capacity due to growth

By Steve Ricci
Staff Writer

The Chelsea City Council voted unanimously June 28 to authorize Chelsea City Manager Mike Steklac, city staff and consultants to prepare a plan for construction of two new water wells.

The plan, scheduled to be completed and presented to the City Council no later than Sept. 27, will address financing, water capacity, construction costs and an implementation timetable.

The need for new wells was based on a report from Robert Jones, the city's water superintendent.

In the past, the city has reported a firm capacity — the ability of the city's well field to supply the historical maximum daily water demand if its largest well stopped functioning — as 1,500 gallons per minute, or 2.2 million gallons per day, to the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality.

The city's historical maximum daily water demand is 1.3 million gallons per day.

Jones reported, however, that if the city's largest well stopped functioning, the city's ability to supply its water system is actually 800 gallons per minute, or 1.15 million gallons per day.

City officials reported the new findings to the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality.

According to a June 28 memo written by Steklac, the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality will not issue permits for new taps to the water system because of the city's inability to meet firm capacity.

The Michigan Department of Environmental Quality requested that the city develop a plan to address firm capacity, Steklac said.

Steklac said firm capacity already has been exceeded, and that the water system is approaching its maximum capacity because of population growth.

Adding new wells can increase firm capacity, he said.

City staff already has begun working on the plan, Steklac said last week.

Making Music

CHELSEA CENTER FOR THE ARTS

CCA takes over Chelsea Musical Celebrations

By Sheila Pursglove
Special Writer

Churchgoers are probably more familiar with hymns than a "Hansel & Gretel" operetta, to psalms rather than swing.

But for the past four years, Chelsea Congregational Church, with its excellent acoustics and concert grand piano, has been home to more than organ music and hymns. Its walls have resounded to the sound of classical, jazz, swing, brass, country and western, chamber music, operettas, piano duets, musical theater, and stories and songs for children, in monthly concerts offered by Chelsea Musical Celebrations.

Founded in 2001, Chelsea Musical Celebrations, the dream of Marsha Rinke, the church's organist and musical director, wound down its 2004-2005 season June 11. It's now moving under the auspices of the Chelsea Center for the Arts, beginning recently with the Sounds and Sights on Thursday Nights event in Chelsea this summer and continuing with next year's concert season.

Stacey Mitchell will serve as public music coordinator. The First Congregational Church will continue to host many of the 2005-2006 concerts. Other venues will include Chelsea High School, Chelsea Retirement Community and possibly the Chelsea Depot.

Rinke is stepping down to devote more hours to her position as adjunct faculty at Eastern Michigan University's Department of Music and Dance, where she helps coordinate and publicize more than 100 events each year for the department.

She also teaches piano to music education majors, and supports the department head in a number of special projects, including grant writing. She is looking forward next fall to devoting more time to her work as music director at the church, which has welcomed a new pastor.

Rinke, who holds English and music degrees from University of Michigan and Eastern Michigan University, is spending a second summer at Interlochen Arts Camp as a teaching assistant for junior and intermediate piano students. She will be joined by her younger son, Philip, a senior at Dexter High School this fall, who is planning a career in music education as a double bass major.

For Rinke, the arts represent civilization's greatest achievements.

"Once a society's basic physical needs for food, shelter and security are met, people seek mental and spiritual stimulation and creative expression that can give our lives meaning," she said.

"This uniquely creative human capacity connects us to the divine creator of all life.

"Music is the art form that has most directly touched my life. I have personally adopted many of the views about music from the 19th-century romantic period. During this time music was viewed as the voice of the soul. When words are not enough, music can begin to express the meaning, complexities, pain, and incredible joy and ecstasies of life.

"For me, music is the language of my soul. When I play the organ or piano at church I feel a connection to the congregation and to the creator. This feeds me and nurtures me unlike any other experience."

While still a student at Troy High School, Rinke played chamber music under the direction of members of the Detroit Symphony.

"These masters encouraged us young starry-eyed aspiring musicians to always seek beautiful settings to create and share music. This charge became one of my life's goals. I consider myself a musical ambassador, trying to share some of the powerful experiences available through music with my community," Rinke said.

This was the driving force behind her creating the concert series.

"I wanted to provide an opportunity for area residents to experience music in an intimate chamber environment where they could literally hear the performers breathe, see the excitement in their eyes and share the magic in person.

"We have become such a passive society, used to the perfection of CDs and the anonymity of the performer. I want to break this barrier and provide an opportunity for people to meet the artists and be part of the music.

"I don't want art music to become a relic of the past and a museum piece. I want to keep it alive by attracting our young people to concerts. I want to encourage the same admiration and respect for the discipline of the performing artist as for the great athletes and rock stars."

WEDDINGS, ENGAGEMENTS AND ANNIVERSARIES

Lima, Nowaczck recite marriage vows in spring

Kelli Lima of Saline and Jeffrey Nowaczck of Dexter were married April 2 at Zion Lutheran Church in Ann Arbor.

The Rev. Barry Ludwig presided over the ceremony uniting the daughter of Deborah and Joseph Lima of Saline with the son of Judy and Dennis Nowaczck.

Jennifer Adkins of Holland, the groom's sister, was the matron of honor.

Bridesmaids were Anna Norton of Saline and Deanna Fielder of Ypsilanti.

Jason Ganzhorn of Dexter was the best man.

The groomsmen were Kevin Adkins of Holland, the groom's brother-in-law, and Jim Hammerberg of Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario. Serving as ushers were David Early of Dexter and Heith Jones of Hudson.

The flower girl was Maya Adkins of Holland, the groom's niece.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Cobblestone Farm in Ann Arbor. The newlyweds spent their honeymoon on a Caribbean cruise and now reside in Jackson.

The bride graduated from Eastern Michigan University, earning a bachelor's degree in elementary education. She is employed as a kindergarten teacher.

The groom received an associate's degree in criminal justice from Lake Superior State University. A member of the Air Force National Guard, he is employed in sales.

Cooks mark 25 years

Scott and Bonnie (Peiler) Cook of Chelsea celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary July 12. They celebrated by taking a trip to Atlanta and Asheville, N.C.

The couple was married July 12, 1980, at Mount Hope Lutheran Church, which is located in Allen Park.

Their children are Ryan Cook of Tampa, Fla., and Ashlie Cook of Rochester Hills.

BIRTHS

A daughter, Abigail Elizabeth, was born June 20 at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Superior Township to Ralph and Amy Schlaff of Gregory. Maternal grandparents are Al and Nancy Rosentreter of Chelsea, and Eli Ruja of Tawas. Paternal grandparents are Ralph Sr. and Mary Ellen Schlaff of Brighton. Abigail has twin siblings, Andrew and Anastasia, 3.

BABY TALK

Grow a healthy baby

JENNIFER SINKWITTS

Four on top and three on the bottom. As another round of teeth begin to break through the gums of my almost 1-year-old, he begins to wean himself from the bottle.

Like hundreds of parents, I enjoy introducing solids to my semi-toothless child. Prior to each meal, I scour the refrigerator for soft, easy-to-swallow food.

At times, I am concerned he lacks self-control. He shovels fistful after fistful of cereal bits into his mouth as if food has been rationed for later consumption.

I know this part of eating develops his fine motor skills, but at a time when every news program comments on America's obesity epidemic, it makes me wonder if his eating is obsessive or just plain normal.

"We never want to be in the Clean Plate Club again," says Emily Nease, Chelsea Community Hospital's registered clinical dietitian. "Our portions are growing, and we think we need to clean our plates."

"Babies tell us when they are full. They look away, get distracted, spit out their food or cry. We overfeed them."

If the bottle isn't empty or the jar still full, we assume they need more. Babies are very good at judging their own hunger and fullness signals.

As parents, we are left with the responsibility of providing healthy food options and of modeling good eating behaviors. As much as we encourage good eating habits, it's easy to add chocolate to milk or juice to water to make them drink.

Kids will drink it plain when they are thirsty, Nease said. We set the standard early. We develop their habits. We are their role models.

As my son, Nolan, refuses the bottle, I realize just how easy it was to prepare a nutritious meal. Measure, shake and serve. No thought required.

Now, as I dust off the food processor I received as a wedding gift six years ago, I realize how responsible I am for the development of his body and brain. That is what food is, isn't it? It's our fuel. It makes us grow.

What a task and a responsibility. Daily, I read about obesity being linked to diabetes, cardiovascular disease and even cancer.

"How do we prevent these diseases from attacking our children?" I asked Nease.

A pretty plate is a nutritious plate, she says. Offering different types and colors of foods is important. Reds. Greens. Yellows. Browns. Variety will not only reduce fussy eating later, but also provide more vitamins and minerals.

To add appeal, vegetables can be cut or shredded into spirals, and fruits can be reshaped using cookie cutters. Being creative in the kitchen will keep your children coming home to eat the snacks packed with vitamin A, vitamin C, folic acid, potassium and dietary fiber.

For the older children, frozen blueberries or strawberries are a fun, healthy snack, especially in the summer. Nease also suggests eating more exotic fruits, such as the cumquat. It's a great tasting, unique treat that will undoubtedly interest your little one.

Developing smart eating habits early is imperative, but so is demonstrating an active lifestyle. So, turn off the TV set. Children need at least one hour of physical activity a day. Encourage them to help with the housework. Play tag together outside. Sweat a little.

So, if you want to improve your family's eating habits but still don't know how, contact Nease at Chelsea hospital. She will put you on track. For an appointment, call 475-4103.

WEBSTER TOWNSHIP

Swim-A-Cross under way

The Washtenaw County chapter of the American Red Cross launched its annual Swim-A-Cross fund-raiser in Webster Township last month.

Red Cross volunteers began swimming and counting laps June 12 at the Ann Arbor Country Club.

Among the volunteers was Mary Kumbier, who lives in the Loch Alpine subdivision where the country club is located. Kumbier has managed the club's Swim-A-Cross event since 1993.

Kumbier and her three sons have participated in the Swim-A-Cross since they discovered the many services Red Cross provides, according to a press release from the Red Cross.

The family got involved with Swim-A-Cross after a neighborhood family suffered from a house fire and the Red Cross gave a helping hand.

Last year's Swim-A-Cross raised $30,000 in funds for the Red Cross.

Hospice event set at gallery

Thousands of paper origami cranes will be winging their way toward a greater awareness of Hospice of Michigan with the help of several fundraising events.

Among the events for the project will be a kick-off event for supporters today at the River Gallery in Chelsea.

"A Thousand Cranes, A Thousand Memories" is a project for Hospice's Open Access Program. Its goal is to raise awareness and serve as a fund raiser for the program, which ensures that every individual who seeks end-of-life care receives it.

"For many of us ... the return of the sandhill crane in early spring is a wonderful, life-affirming event," Hospice of Michigan Development Director Elizabeth Longley said in a press release. "Our energy is renewed as we anticipate the coming of spring. When the sandhill crane takes flight in the fall for destinations unknown, we grieve its departure and long for its return and the renewal of what we know as the cycle of life."

A book called "A Thousand Cranes" by Kathryn Schultz Miller tells the story of the effects of war on the life of 12-year-old Sadako Sasaki, who survived the Hiroshima atomic bomb, only to learn she had radiation sickness. Determined to get well for a race, she takes to heart the Japanese legend that says if someone folds a thousand origami cranes, that person will be cured.

Sadako died before she could finish her task, but her classmates completed them. Now children from around the world fold a thousand cranes and place them at her statue in Hiroshima Park with a wish for peace.

The painting, "Cranes Series 11" by Mignonette Yin Cheng, will be on display at the event in Chelsea. The artist will be at the kick-off.

A gala event will be held Nov. 4 at Washtenaw Community College, with a performance of the play "A Thousand Cranes" by the Wild Swan Theater based on the story. The play will be performed in the fall at area schools.

In addition, donated artwork will be exhibited in public places throughout the area in early 2006.

DEXTER VILLAGE

Library to host program on birds

The program "Rainbow Feathers" will make its local debut at Dexter District Library 11 a.m. Saturday.

The nonprofit, wild bird rescue group will bring several wild parrots from all over the world to show to Dexter residents. A bird expert will conduct the program, which includes an interactive question-and-answer session and in-depth discussion on wild birds and parrots.

The program lasts approximately 45 minutes. Members of the audience will be given the opportunity to touch two to three birds at the end of the program. The presentation is free and open to families of all ages. No registration is required.

Putting Chelsea on the Map

The Parent-Teacher Organization at Pierce Lake Elementary School in Chelsea recently painted a to-scale map of the United States on the playground of the school. Under the direction of Cindy Trivilini, parents and pupils worked together to paint the map, which is expected to last about two years. Pictured above standing on the playground's new addition are Margaret Lindau (left), Rachel Manes, Shiane Sherman, Gabrielle Trivilini, Molly Turner and Carly Wooster.

CCA

The four full seasons — 33 programs — were supported by the Chelsea Community Foundation and local businesses and service clubs.

The First Congregational Church also provided support, with nine people serving on the board of trustees and many other church members providing refreshments for the post-concert receptions, and serving as ushers and ticket-sellers.

"The church has allowed us to transform the sanctuary, removing religious items and moving furniture to accommodate the programs. They are the ones that enabled my vision to come to reality and we all worked together as a team," Rinke said. "I could not have done this without their support."

Chelsea Musical Celebrations also earned three major grant awards totaling nearly $40,000 from the Michigan Council for Arts and Cultural Affairs, a partner agency of the National Endowment for the Arts over the past three seasons.

Rinke, her husband and two sons have called Dexter home since 1993, after 15 years in Ann Arbor. Local residents are fortunate to live in a community that strongly supports the arts, she said, adding that she is "very excited" about passing the torch to the CCA.

"Thanks to a generous grant provided by the Chelsea Community Foundation, this transition and new programming will be made possible," she said. "CCA's connections within the community will bring more people with a love of the arts into the fold for program planning."

Rinke served on the music selection committee for the coming season, along with CCA outgoing Executive Director Ginger Sissom, Bob Pierce, Steve Hinz and Jim Ross.

"Ginger and her excellent staff have renewed energy, fresh visions and enthusiasm and administrative skill to sustain and expand the program," Rinke said before Sissom announced her resignation last week. "CCA's missions and our shared vision for Chelsea Musical Celebrations are very closely connected.

"We're excited about the synergy created by bringing these two programs together and feel this new collaboration will broaden and strengthen the base of support for the performing arts in Chelsea. We hope to expand our audience and provide performance opportunities for the center's talented faculty, as well as many world-class artists. Ginger and I share an excitement about the future of the performing arts here in Chelsea."

Rinke expects to remain involved in a peripheral capacity as an advisor to Chelsea Musical Celebrations during this time of transition.

The Chelsea Musical Celebrations board, which she chairs, will have oversight for the next 12 months of activities.

"I feel the time has come to turn CMC over to new leadership so that it may continue to grow and thrive in our community in ways beyond my imagining, involving more of the key local people in the arts."

Sissom has watched the musical program develop and admired it. "And now as it comes to live at CCA, I find that I'm even more impressed with Marsha," she said. "She has a passion for live, classical music in an intimate setting and her enthusiasm for it is contagious.

"It isn't so rare for people to have a passion, what is special about Marsha is that she made it a reality — she put together the musicians, volunteers, sponsors and venues — and did it very well."

Retirement home residents hold own relay

Event held in conjunction with Relay for Life

By Rita Fischer
Special Writer

Residents and staff at the Chelsea Retirement Community supported the Western Washtenaw Relay for Life June 24 with an alternative fund-raiser, the third annual Luminary Tribute.

The group raised $1,750 for the American Cancer Society and to support cancer research.

During the weeks prior to the event, residents and staff of the retirement community donated funds and created personalized 125 luminaria bags in honor of loved ones who have battled cancer.

The activities culminated with a special religious service and the lighting of the candles in the bags.

The luminaria bags lined the sidewalk outside of the Chelsea Retirement Community and glowed well into the evening hours, representing residents' and the staff's faith and hope that a cure will be discovered.

The relay at the retirement community was much smaller than the official event held at the high school track June 24 and 25, but it was just as fun, participants said. About 100 residents gathered at the chapel for a 50-minute service naming those who lost the fight to cancer.

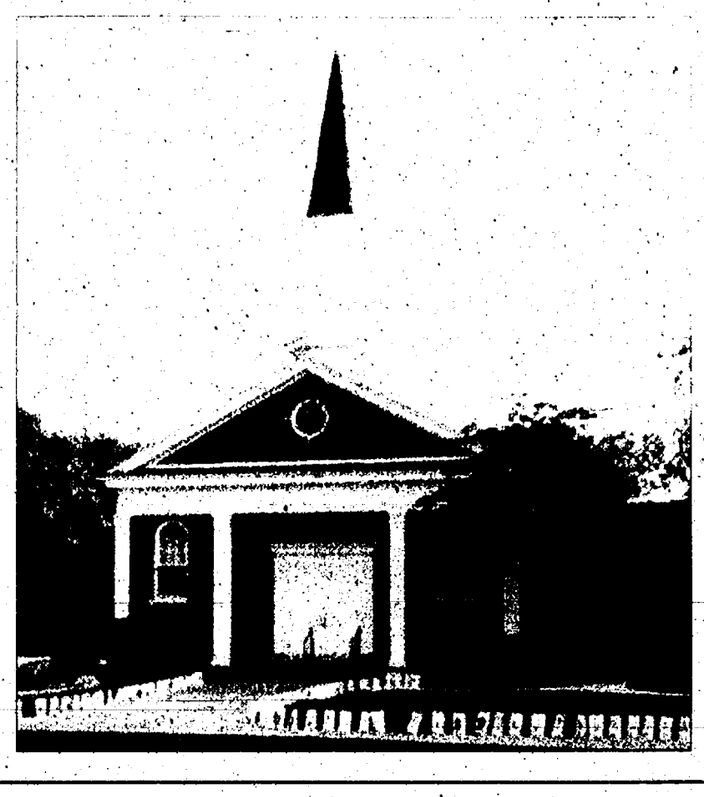
Victoria Baker, an 84-year-old resident at Chelsea Retirement Community, helped make some of the luminaria bags placed outside and lit at dusk.

"I helped make luminarias for family members and friends that I have lost," she said. "It helps me realize what a good life my friends had. I miss them and wanted to honor them.

"It's very encouraging to know that there is research going on to tackle cancer and I know that people I have honored would be happy to know I did this."

Susan Pettis, director of independent living at Chelsea Retirement Community, has been involved for three years. What has impressed her has been the desire by residents to support the local Relay for Life event, even though they are not able to join the walk.

"Our residents have created an activity and fund-raiser which is personalized and reflects their deep faith," she said. "It's a beautiful way for them to honor their loved ones, support a community event and help fund cancer research."



Bags filled with sand and candles lit the area around the Chelsea Retirement Community June 24 as residents and staff supported the local Relay for Life, raising $1,750 for the American Cancer Society.

Chelsea standout helps kids realize baseball dreams

Chelsea's Kelly Jo Milliken is a fierce, intense competitor on the softball field for the Bulldogs. A gifted athlete, she's the epitome of determination and focus between the lines.

The senior-to-be at Chelsea High School is an accomplished player, earning first-team All-Southeastern Conference honors last spring. Milliken batted .400, with two home runs and 24 RBIs last season. The ace of the Bulldog staff, she finished with a 12-10 overall record, four shutouts, 111 strikeouts and 31 walks. Milliken allowed only 39 earned runs the entire season.

Last week, however, she gave up 39 runs in the first hour of a game. Even more remarkable is that Milliken had a smile on her face the entire time.

Milliken, along with her summer softball club Finesse teammates, participated July 6 in a Miracle League event in Southfield.

The Miracle League is a charitable organization that provides children with mental and/or physical challenges an opportunity to play baseball as a team member in an organized league. The league gives these youngsters the chance to wear a baseball uniform, field a grounder and swing a bat, on a state-of-the-art synthetic field.

GOLF

Zonzini wins Hudson Mills tourney

Hudson Mills Golf Course hosted its Junior Tournament June 24.

In the 17- to 18-year-old division, Ken Zonzini finished first, shooting a 79.

Placing second was Nicholas Vanderginst, who also carded a 79. David Joblouski ended up third with an 80, while Robert Dice was fourth with an 83 and Mike Boone fifth with a 95.

In the 15- to 16-year-old bracket, Aaron Yuergens placed first, recording a 79.

Colin Fitzgerald was second with an 80, while Ted Gesner was third with an 81 and Adam McGee fourth with an 82.

In fifth place was Kevin Kujawa with an 83, while Mike Gardner was sixth, shooting an 84. Mike Seiter was seventh with an 84 and Jason McRae was eighth with an 86. Charlie Jorgensen ended up ninth, carding an 87 and Mike Cripe was 10th with an 89.

In the 13- to 14-year-old group, Eric Goebel bested the field, finishing first with a score of 86.

Miles Colbert was second with an 89, while Kevin Katko was third with a 91. Alex Smith was fourth with a 92 and Stephen Burk placed fifth, shooting a 94. Corey Barnes was sixth with a 107 and Matt Grabowski was seventh with a 144.

In the 12-and-younger division, Austin Harris finished first with a nine-hole tally of 50.

Brian Turner was second with a 54, while Ryan Sannes was third with a 56. Schuyler Dotson was fourth with a 64 and Joey Vollmer was fifth with a 65.

Chelsea's Niko Coffman, 10, finished first in the 1,500-meter run and second in the 800-meter run at last week's Junior Olympics regional meet in Lexington, Ky. To qualify for the regional event, Niko won the Michigan Junior Olympics state title in the 1,500- and 800-meter runs.

TRACK

Coffman wins state, regional titles on track

Hockey player switches sports and succeeds at highest level

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

Chelsea's Niko Coffman, 10, a self-described hockey fanatic, traded in his shin pads for sweat socks this summer, and instead of seeking goals on the ice, he's earned gold on the track.

Not bad for an athlete used to lacing up skates, instead of sneakers.

Last weekend, in Lexington, Ky., Niko finished first in the regional Junior Olympics 1,500-meter run with a time of 5:37.47. He followed that gold medal performance with a second-place finish in the 800-meter run with a clocking of 2:49.92.

The Lexington meet consisted of state champions and other qualifiers from Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky, Michigan and the Lake Erie region.

To advance to the regional meet, Niko won the Michigan Junior Olympic state championship in the 1,500-meter run in 5:41.50 and the 800-meter run in 2:54.68, June 25 at Plymouth Canton High School.

With his regional performance, Niko qualified for the Junior Olympic U.S. Amateur Track and Field national final July 26 through 31 in Indianapolis.

While Niko's accomplishments on the track are impressive, what's even more incredible is the fact he just began running competitively earlier this summer.

"I started about a month ago," said Niko, a soon-to-be fifth-grader at South Meadows Elementary School. "I didn't know anything. I just went out and ran."

And, because of his extensive hockey training, he not only ran well, he dominated. Niko blew away the field in the 1,500-meter run state final, outdistancing his nearest competitor by over 30 seconds. In the 800-meter run, he was six seconds faster than his closest opponent.

Niko, who's a forward-center on the ice, said he initially started running to stay in shape for hockey.

"I think hockey really helped me," he said. "Because of hockey, I was already in pretty good condition."

Niko, who plays Triple A hockey for Compuware, one of the state's top youth clubs, said he's grown to love running.

BASKTBALL

Basketball Bash date set

Every August Dexter Daze attracts visitors from across the Washtenaw County area.

With a variety of crafted merchandise, food, musical entertainment and activities, there is much for families to enjoy.

This year, there will be even more excitement for girls in second through 12th grades, as the Joan C. Banfield Foundation is sponsoring a 3-on-3 basketball tournament for girls Aug. 13 during the Dexter Daze festivities.

In a sports world catered to men, the Joan C. Banfield Foundation strives to increase athletic opportunities for young women in the Dexter area, according to a press release from the foundation.

The second annual 3-on-3 Basketball Bash will be held outdoors on parking lots near the center of the Dexter Daze activities.

Games will begin 8:30 a.m. and will continue throughout the day.

In addition to 3-on-3 play, Lightning, Dribble Tag and Hot Shot contests will offer other opportunities.

The tournament will have a variety of age brackets, which will be created depending upon the registration demand.

Each team will consist of four players and each squad is guaranteed at least three games. Girls are encouraged to form their own teams; however, individual players are welcome to sign up as the tournament staff will create additional squads.

Teams will be responsible to provide their own uniform.

The cost to participate is $15 per person or $60 per team, with each participant receiving a T-shirt.

Official registration forms and additional information may be found at the Joan C. Banfield Foundation Web site at www.jcbfoundation.org.

Registration deadline is Aug. 1.

Volunteers are needed for the tournament. Adults interested in volunteering may contact Russ Brewster by e-mail at foundationjcb@aol.com.

— Hockey Wolves —

The Mite 1997 Ann Arbor Wolves won the Trenton Mite Classic earlier this spring. The squad defeated Southgate 4-2 in the final. Members of the team include Charlie Hudson, Jeremy Bourque, Michael Montambault, Chris Krueger, Owen Helber, Zach Mitchell, Gordie Green, Shawn O'Malley, R.J. Rogers, Sean Talamonti, Greg Houle, Michael Phillips, Colin Hindle, Zachary Owings and Tyler Coop. Tim Helber, Kyle O'Malley, Andy Copp and Joel Jenkins coached the squad.

SPECIAL OLYMPICS

Special Olympics hosts event

The Special Olympics Michigan Summer Sports Classic will be held tomorrow and Saturday at Ypsilanti's Pine View Golf Course and at the Canton Softball Complex.

The event provides an opportunity for athletes to be recognized for their hard work and practice in the areas of softball and golf.

The sports classic is one of eight state level Special Olympics.

Special Olympians train and compete year-round in 23 different sports.

More than 1,000 Special Olympians and 400 volunteers will participate in this weekend's event.

The sports classic begins 9:30 a.m. tomorrow with a golf skills competition at Pine View. The opening ceremonies take place 7 p.m. tomorrow at the Canton Softball Complex.

On Saturday, the competition begins at 8:30 a.m.

Holton earns honors

Chelsea's Jake Holton was named to the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association's academic honor roll this year.

The academic awards program is administrated by the faculty representatives of the MIAA member colleges.

The 16th annual honor roll consists of student-athletes who've maintained a minimum 3.5 grade point average for the year.

Holton, a sophomore, competed for the Hope College men's swimming and diving team this past season.

about the opportunity to participate in the Miracle League the weekend before the event.

"Our coach told us about it and showed us a video about the league," she said. "We were all excited to do it."

Milliken, along with Finesse teammate Marley Powers of Owosso, were paired with Miracle League player Joshua Zack.

"We were buddies to the little kids," Milliken said. "We helped them out hitting and running."

Milliken said meeting Joshua, a pre-kindergarten student, was memorable.

"He was so much fun to be around," she said. "He loved numbers. He knew one to 1,000. His mom said he learned it playing Connect the Dots."

The Miracle League, which began last year in Michigan, was started in 1997 in Rockdale County, Ga. Eddie Bagwell, a coach in the county's youth baseball league invited a 7-year-old boy in a wheelchair to play on his team.

In 1998, the Rockdale Youth Baseball Association formed the Miracle League. The league began with 35 players. Now, there are thousands of kids participating in the league throughout the country.

In the Miracle League, every player bats once each inning. All base runners are safe. Every player scores a run before the inning is over. Each team and each player wins every game.

"It was all-around a lot of fun," Milliken said. "The kids were so much fun. They were more outgoing than we thought they'd be."

Milliken said she learned quite a bit about the Miracle League kids during the couple of hours she participated last week.

"It helped me understand that they're more normal than we thought they were," she said. "They're a lot like us. They just wanted to play baseball."

For more information or to volunteer for the Michigan Miracle League contact Steve Peck at 1-248-506-4604 or log on to the Web site at www.michiganmiracle.org.

Inquiries may be mailed to P.O. Box 1836, Birmingham, MI 48012, or fax 1-248-282-0313.

Milliken said working with the Miracle League players was something she would never forget.

"I would do it again," she said. "The moment you talk with the kids, your heart falls in love with them."

"I like that I'm one of the best," he said. "But my success has surprised me. It feels good (having success) because of all the conditioning I've done. I lift weights and I run about 20 miles a week."

Niko, who wanted to compete in sprints, said it wasn't his decision to run longer distances.

"My dad wanted me to do it for my lungs, to improve my conditioning," he said. "The 1,500, I seem to be better in, but that's pushing the limits. But the 800 is shorter, so I like that."

With the Junior Olympic national meet right around the corner, Niko said he's ready for the challenge.

"I tell myself to do my best," he said. "I'll be happy with whatever happens. But being a national champion would be some accomplishment."

Indeed.

Especially for a self-described hockey fanatic, used to lacing up skates, instead of sneakers.

CHELSEA

Classes slated at Purple Rose

The Purple Rose Theatre Company is registering students for two classes.

Artistic Director Guy Sanville has added dates to Actor Boot Camp. The class runs from 7 to 11 p.m. July 22, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. July 23 and 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. July 24. It will offer movement, vocal and monologue work, as well as a question-and-answer session with working professionals about the business and guidelines for developing a career in the entertainment industry. Participants must be at least 18 years of age to enroll in the class.

Taught by Sanville and resident artists, the Actor-Director Lab will feature two sessions with smaller class size to provide more onstage time and individual instruction for each student. The classes will run Mondays and Tuesdays Oct. 10 through Dec. 6. Participants must be at least 18 years old.

All classes are held at The Chelsea Center for the Arts, 400 North Congdon St., in Chelsea.

Participants may register by calling 433-7782.

CHELSEA

Players to host VIP Preimier

Chelsea Area Players will host a VIP Premier 7:30 p.m. July 21 at Chelsea High School, 740 N. Freer Road.

Children and their parents are encouraged to come in costume and dance in the aisles in celebration of the Players' production of "Beauty and the Beast."

The "Be Our Guest" VIP Premier will include a reception, souvenir badge, door prizes, backstage tour, autographed program, a performance and an opportunity to get an on-stage photo with the cast.

Based on the animated film, the stage version of "Beauty and the Beast" includes songs from the film, plus new songs written especially for the Broadway version.

Cost is $20 per ticket. Children 14 years old and younger must be accompanied by an adult.

For tickets for the VIP Premier or for more information on the local production of "Beauty and the Beast," log on to www.Beauty-AndTheBeast-cap.com.

Journalist pens Michigan guide

When author George Cantor travels, he is always looking for the restaurants, golf courses, beaches and shopping that the locals know about and patron. He talks with the residents to find out what they like, tested over time.

"I've been a journalist in Michigan for 40 years, and I've always explored Michigan this way," Cantor said in a press release. "When I was approached by the University of Michigan Press to do an insider's guide to the best of Michigan, it seemed like a natural.

Cantor has written "Explore Michigan: An Insider's Guide to Michigan" for Petoskey Publishing.

"The local knowledge that I've found and continue to find makes the experience of traveling around our great state even better," said Cantor, who recently won the Notable Books Award for Michigan.

Cantor pointed out examples that he's included in his book.

"Take Traverse City," he said. "They have great beaches and I've certainly directed the readers to them, but they also have some great spas there that are really big-city quality, and their downtown shopping is exceptional. But I've also given a little parking meter tip that will save you some money, as well — it's just a cute little thing they do there — punch the button on the meter and you get free parking.

"I've also found this great place near Petoskey that is like Filene's Basement in Boston, where people are rushing to get there for the best deals."

The first five insider guides in the Explore Michigan series are Traverse City, Little Traverse Bay, Mackinac Island and the Straits, Leelanau County and Detroit. Plans call for seven more to be published next year.

"There's a really neat deli

MOVIE REVIEW

'War of the Worlds' thrilling summer flick

While Tom Cruise's recent series of bizarre TV appearances may lead you to believe otherwise, "War of the Worlds" is not the tale of Scientologists' attempt to rid the world of psychiatrists and Cruise is not, at least as far as I am aware, actually from another planet.

Hopefully, the Cruise publicity juggernaught does not overshadow the film itself, for moviegoers who shun the film in response to Cruise overload will miss master storyteller Steven Spielberg's thrilling testament to his place as the king of the summer blockbuster.

Fans of the 1898 H.G. Wells novel "War of the Worlds" or the 1950s B-movie adaptation will find familiar material in Spielberg's suspenseful chronicle of man's fight against extermination.

Added to the basic alien invasion storyline is a domestic drama involving divorced father Ray Ferrier (Tom Cruise), who acts like the child in his relationship with his brooding teenage son, Robbie (Justin Chatwin), and his wry daughter, Rachel (Dakota Fanning). Forced to become a mature father by the impending annihilation of human kind, Ray undergoes a convincing transformation, becoming a sympathetic and endearing action hero beneath the rippling muscles.

While Cruise may not look like your average Jersey longshoreman, or your average 45-year-old man for that matter, he still brings believability to the fantasy film by unabashedly revealing Ray's fear, uncertainty and frequent helplessness in the face of inconceivable horror.

The tragedy of the Sept. 11, 2001, terrorist attacks altered the American concept of safety from attack, for audiences are all too aware of the vicious vicissitudes of fortune. Consequently, the old-fashioned unbreakable action hero is no longer palatable, and Cruise's willingness to appear weak makes the audience more invested in his survival.

By casting the perpetually precocious Dakota Fanning as Cruise's daughter, Spielberg found a young actress who could handle the physically and emotionally demanding role, while also solving the problem of finding a leading lady who wouldn't make Cruise appear short.

Because of the film's lean structure and single focus on one man and his children, there are relatively few characters in the film, with Tim Robbins as one of the only actors of note. Unfortunately, his character's creepy skittishness and endless chatter becomes increasingly irritating until you begin to question if the alien chasing him is really such a bad creature.

Surrounding himself with longtime cinematographer Janusz Kaminski and frequent collaborator John Williams, who composed the sparse-but-impressive score, Spielberg once again proves that emotion and suspense are often best created on film — not with extensive dialogue but with a masterful attention to visual and aural detail.

Not only does the film contain jaw-dropping shots that seem to defy the physical conventions of this world, but Spielberg also uses the camera to inject self-referential humor into the film by alluding to his classic films of summers past as when an alien, not quite as amiable as ET, inquisitively spins a bicycle wheel.

Spielberg is, unfortunately, unable to restrain his yen for sentimentality in the film's ending, but mawkish and unbelievable elements in the resolution of Ray's saga do not take away from the classic story's satisfying conclusion.

Summer movies that leave you at the edge of your seat and not checking your watch have been in limited supply in recent years, and you will be grateful to Spielberg for creating a film worthy of the high price of admission.

After leaving the theater and once again entering our celebrity-drenched culture, you will surely also be grateful that Spielberg was able to give us two hours of Tom Cruise without one mention of Ritalin or Katie Holmes.

MANCHESTER

Garden tour set Saturday

Seven gardens in the Manchester area will be open for public viewing from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday as part of "Gathering of Gardens."

The gazebo in Wurster Park, located on Main Street west of M-52, is the starting point where tickets and maps can be purchased. In addition, there will be exhibitors, including landscaping experts and plant nurseries.

Participants may tour at their own pace throughout the day, enjoying the gardens and complimentary refreshments. Tickets are $10 for adults.

The gardens offer a variety of landscapes and natural features, and the garden owners will be on hand to answer questions.

The "Natural Spring Pond" garden has been developed around a pond, filled with fish and aquatic life and featuring a waterfall. It showcases plants and trees selected to ensure that they are appropriate to the environment.

The "Garden Blended with the Home" shows how a series of gardens expands and enhances the outdoor living space of a 19th-century farmhouse.

The "Fox Creek Garden" was started after the owners discovered an actual fox trail at the back of their property. Using both the natural setting and terraced garden beds, the garden has grown to include a large free-flowing pond.

The "Stroll through the Woods Garden" combines a woodland garden with outdoor living areas.

The "Whimsical Cottage Garden" showcases many plants collected over the years, including a "fairy garden" planned with the help of the owner's daughters.

The "Country Garden from A to Z" offers constant color throughout the growing seasons, and shows how vegetables can be incorporated with perennial and annual flowering plants in a centuries-old style of country gardening.

The tour is sponsored by the Twentieth Century Club of Manchester, an organization that has contributed to the civic life of the village since its founding in 1899. Proceeds from the garden tour go toward community improvement and beautification projects.

ANN ARBOR

Theatrical camp to be held

Ann Arbor Civic Theatre will conduct a one-week camp for youth in fourth through seventh grades to teach them how to audition for youth and adult theatrical productions.

The camp will run from 1 to 4 p.m. Aug. 15 through 19 at Ann Arbor Civic Theatre's rehearsal studio at 322 W. Ann St., near downtown Ann Arbor.

Sponsored in part by Pfizer and led by local actress-director Valerie Wilkinson, the camp will cover auditioning for straight shows, as well as musicals and will focus on song preparation, improvisation, cold readings and monologues.

Camp participants will receive individual and group instruction, and will have the option to participate in mock auditions with feedback from directors.

Tuition is $120 and scholarships are available. For more information, call the A2CT office at 971-2228 or visit the Web site www.a2ct.org.

in Traverse City where you can stroll around with a glass of wine while you are shopping, and there's a fish market that I put in the Little Traverse Bay book that all the restaurants get their fish from and so can you," he said.

Many may wonder where the best hiking trails are located in Leelanau.

"Well, when the reviewer, who's as passionate as anyone I've ever seen about that area, said I had all the best ones, I think you can trust we got it right ... " Cantor said.

He added that it's important for the readers because these guides aren't meant to include everything and then have you try to figure it out.

"They sort that out for you, and let you choose from the best things in that area," he said.

Number of employees: Seven

Q: What makes your business unique?

A: The hands-on, personal service and the combined knowledge of more than 75 years experience. We keep things simple. Serving our customers is always our number one priority.

Q: Why did you choose the Dexter or Chelsea area for your business?

A: I was born and raised in Chelsea and I worked for the previous owner until 1990, when I purchased the business myself. I really wanted to give something back to the community that has given so much to me.

Q: Describe your business philosophy:

A: At the Parts Peddler we work hard to put our customers first and never reduce them to just "a part in a box."

Q: What's the most enjoyable part of owning and operating your own business?

A: The opportunity to work with people every day and to be able to help someone when they need a hand.

Q: What are your business-related goals for the next five years?

A: We hope to continue to expand and improve our computer technology to better serve our customers' needs in the future.

Jeff Layher of Grass Lake, a 1974 Chelsea High School graduate, says serving customers is the Parts Peddler's No. 1 priority.

Dexter resident named to post

United Bancorp Inc. has named Jamie Guise of Dexter senior vice president and chief marketing officer of its marketing group.

Guise brings more than 19 years of marketing experience to the bank. She began her career locally at the Washtenaw United Way. Most recently, she had worked for Campbell-Ewald in Warren, where she served as senior vice president, management supervisor, responsible for the client relationship and marketing strategy for the agency's third largest account, Continental Airlines.

Jamie Guise

Guise earned a master's degree in Advertising from Michigan State University and holds a bachelor's degree in psychology and communications from the University of Michigan.

"We are pleased to welcome Jamie to United. Her talent and expertise bring additional strength to our marketing team," Robert Chapman, president of United Bancorp, said in a press release.

She has served as a board member for the Direct Marketing Association of Detroit. Most recently, Guise served on the awards committee for the National Direct Marketing Association.

She also has volunteered in her community, serving as a Girl Scout leader for the last five years.

Guise resides in Dexter with her husband, Tom, and family.

Minerath receives nursing recognition

The Washtenaw-Livingston-Monroe Nurses Association has selected Chelsea resident Stephanie Minerath as Nurse of the Year at its annual banquet June 15.

Minerath is an educational nurse specialist at the University of Michigan Health System in Ann Arbor and a member of Chapter 8 of the Michigan Nurses Association.

Stephanie Minerath

The Nurse-of-the-Year Award is given to someone who is "a nurses' nurse, a nurse who is noted for exemplary practice, leadership, education and service," according to a press release from the organization.

Throughout her 36-year career — both with the University of Michigan Health System and St. Joseph Mercy Hospital — Minerath has promoted nursing excellence and professionalism while also promoting public acknowledgement about the value and importance of nurses, according to the press release.

Her roles have included pediatric staff nurse, educational specialist and clinical instructor with the University of Michigan School of Nursing. She is currently vice chairwoman of the University of Michigan Professional Nurse Council.

Minerath earned a bachelor's degree from the University of Wisconsin at Madison in 1974 and master's degree in pediatric nursing from Yale University in 1980.

Hot Air Balloon Jubilee to mark 23 years

Event set this weekend

The 23rd annual Hot Air Balloon Jubilee in Jackson will begin 4 p.m. Friday. This year, the event will mark the 60th anniversary of World War II.

By Rita Fischer
Special Writer

If the summer is dragging you down to near boredom, head to Jackson and watch the sky turn colors.

The neighboring city will host the 23rd annual Hot Air Balloon Jubilee beginning 4 p.m. Friday. World War II veterans will get in for free Saturday.

This year, the Hot Air Balloon Jubilee will mark the 60th anniversary of World War II.

The fun begins with an art-and-crafts show, antique tractors, antique military displays and carnival rides. In addition, there will be educational activities for children under the big tent.

At dusk Friday and Saturday, there will be a Balloon Night Glow in which tethered balloons put on a spectacular light show for the crowd to cheer at as it lights up.

As many as 75 balloons will take off if the weather is right.

A B-17 bomber will offer rides as part of a fund-raiser for the Yankee Air Museum in Willow Run.

Andy Baird of Dexter's Cameron Balloons will tell the pilots when it's safe to fly and what competitions they may compete in.

Paul Petrehn, a sales representative at Cameron Balloons, is excited about the festival.

"The show is designed to entertain the public with up to 75 hot air balloons from all around the United States," he said. "It's a very well-liked event by the crowds and pilots."

Many volunteers from the surrounding communities make the event possible by giving their time to help on the ground.

Hot air balloon competitions put not only the pilots' navigational skills to the test, but the ground crew, as well. The ground crew must know the area because the balloon will drift whatever way the wind is blowing. The balloon chase team must watch for the balloon and be prepared to help it land while keeping it out of harm's way.

Different contests include tomorrow night's Fly-In Key Grab in which pilots must work with the wind to steer the aircraft toward large keys that dangle off cranes. Pilots who get close enough to grab the key get a prize.

Other games involve dropping objects onto ground targets and making accurate landings.

The jubilee will feature old favorites such as the popular Kids Kingdom, complete with antique tractors and military displays, kite-making and carnival rides. South Central Michigan Bass Casters will have kids casting demonstration models and competing in a contest.

In addition, there will be wild animal shows, a G.T. Bicycles Stunt Show, a barbecue cook-off, fireworks and aerial demonstrations.

YOUR DECORATING DOLLAR

Claim it and then decorate it

PAT ALLEGRA

Life's circumstances are forever changing. Often these changes precipitate the need for extra room in our homes. With a little ingenuity and some creative thinking, you can find space for a home office, nursery, hobby spot or computer/work area.

The obvious place to look is your basement or attic. Both of these spaces can be finished to create more living space in your home. But these projects can be daunting and expensive. Time to look elsewhere for that needed space.

An unused niche under a stairwell can be a perfect home office. A small desk, filing cabinet and shelves may be all you need. A stair landing is also a great reading nook. A comfy chair, ottoman, a cozy throw and a floor reading light work perfectly.

A large closet can be converted to a work, computer or hobby station. Keep the doors on to be able to close it up or if you can no longer close them after the conversion then remove them and enjoy easy accessibility. Home improvement stores carry a large range of shelving units to meet your needs. Make sure you measure carefully before shopping.

The corner of a large bedroom can be used as a nursery. Use a free-standing screen or fabric hung from the ceiling to partition off the area designated for baby to help define the space.

Re-dedicating space works well when it is made to look deliberate. Instead of disguising the area, personalize it. Use a different paint color and a coordinating fabric. A small area rug also will help to define this new area.

Be clever when searching your home for found space. An unused porch, foyer or wide hallway can all serve a second purpose.

Claim it, decorate it and enjoy it.

Pfizer colleagues paint the town

Group home on Island Lake Road benefits from program

By Steve Ricci
Staff Writer

Twenty-two local Pfizer employees helped paint and restore a home for mentally and physically handicapped people on Island Lake Road near Chelsea as part of the United Way Day of Caring June 15.

Volunteers painted all the rooms, including a kitchen and a living room, in the five-bedroom house and fixed a gutter on the home's exterior.

At the group home, occupants have caregivers on staff 24 hours a day. Many of the occupants would be institutionalized if the community home was not available, said Monica Tijerina, a Pfizer public affairs adviser.

Other Pfizer employees who worked at the house included biologist John Chosay and Michelle Miller, an administrative specialist in Pfizer's molecular science division.

The Island Lake Drive group home is partially funded by Community Mental Health of Washtenaw County.

Tijerina said because some residents use wheelchairs, many of the home's walls needed painting and repair.

Volunteers worked at the house for about eight hours, Chosay said.

Other Pfizer employees provided repair work at a house in Ann Arbor, Saline and at two Ypsilanti homes June 15. A total of 115 Pfizer employees volunteered at the five locations, Tijerina said.

According to the United Way's Web site, the Day of Caring was established in 1992 to promote the spirit and value of volunteerism, increase the awareness of local human-service agencies and schools, and demonstrate what people working together for the community's good can accomplish.

In 1999, the Day of Caring was renamed the United Way Laurence E. Richardson Day of Caring in honor of Larry Richardson, a longtime United Way volunteer.

Pfizer allows employees from all its Ann Arbor sites one workday each year to volunteer for community service.

The corporation participates with a Day of Caring four times a year, including a communitywide Day of Caring Sept. 15.

Employees may volunteer for work with other human service agencies, such as Habitat for Humanity International.

For the June 15 projects, the corporation donated about $3,500 worth of materials.

Through formal grant processes, Pfizer distributes about $450,000 annually to arts, culture, science, literacy and healthcare programs in the community, Tijerina said.

Past beneficiaries in Washtenaw County have included Food Gatherers and the Hope Clinic, both of which serve the Chelsea-Dexter area.

Several of the Pfizer workers said they appreciate the opportunity to volunteer for humanitarian causes.

"I volunteer because I like to help people," Miller said. "The caregivers were very thankful and that was rewarding."

Chosay said his participation in the Day of Caring worked out for him in two ways.

"It helped me create new associations with my colleagues and it also allowed me to help with this home," he said.

Chosay added that because he lives near Chelsea, he felt especially good about helping a local organization.

"I really appreciate the company giving us the day for us to offer our time," he said. "That's really nice."

VILLAGE OF DEXTER PLANNING COMMISSION NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

Pursuant to Michigan Public Act 207 of 1921, as amended, notice is hereby given that the Dexter Village Planning Commission will hold a public hearing at 7:30 p.m., Monday, August 1, 2005 at the Dexter Senior Center, 7720 Ann Arbor Street, Dexter, Michigan, for the purpose of hearing public comment regarding the proposed amendments to Article 2, Definitions (Floor Area, Gross and, Floor Area for the Purposes of Computing Parking only), of the Village of Dexter Zoning Ordinance. The proposed amendments are as follows:

Floor Area, Gross: (general Definition) Is the sum of the gross horizontal areas of the several floors of a building or buildings, measured from the exterior walls or from the centerline of walls separating two buildings. In particular floor area includes: basement space; elevator shafts or stairwells; floor space for mechanical equipment, penthouses, balconies, mezzanines, enclosed porches, and accessory buildings; attic floor space (whether or not floor has been laid) providing structural headroom is seven feet six inches (7'6"). Floor area shall not include: elevator or stair bulkheads, accessory water tanks, or cooling towers; uncovered steps, attic floor space less than five feet (5'0") high. Covered, but not enclosed portions of porches, terraces or breezeways shall have their floor area computed at fifty percent (50%) of the actual floor area. Uncovered and unenclosed porches, terraces or breezeways shall have their floor area computed at twenty-five (25%) percent of the actual floor area.

Floor Area, Gross: (for purposes of computing parking only) Gross floor area shall be the sum of the horizontal areas of each story of the building, measured from the interior surfaces of the exterior walls. Gross floor area shall include hallways, stairways, interior lobbies and similar areas; but shall exclude exterior porches, attached garages and attics and basements which cannot accommodate commercial or office operations other than storage.

Information regarding the proposed ordinance amendments is available for public inspection at the Village Offices, 8123 Main Street, Dexter, weekdays between 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. or by phone at (734) 426-8303 Ext. 15. Written comments regarding the proposed amendments should be submitted to the Village Offices, and must be received no later than 5:00 p.m., Tuesday, July 26, 2005. Sign language interpreter, or other assistance, is provided upon request to the Clerk, at least 72 hours in advance of the meeting. Minutes of all meetings are available at Village Offices and on the Village website.

Student ambassadors travel to Australia

Local teens serve in People to People program, travel abroad

By Heather Connor
Staff Writer

For many, a trip overseas is a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to see the world.

For three local teenagers, that time is now.

Heather Cook of Dexter, Zack Munce of Gregory and Jason Lomax of Dexter were selected to travel to Australia this month by the People to People Student Ambassador Program.

The students will spend 18 days learning about the government, economy and culture of Australia. The delegates will visit major historical and government sites, as well as the Great Barrier Reef and other tourist attractions.

The itinerary of the trip includes many destinations of standard ambassadors, such as parliament, the nation's capitol and visits with the Aboriginal people.

The students left Sunday and are scheduled to return July 27.

Heather, who will be a freshman this fall at Chelsea High School, said she looks forward to staying with a host family in Australia, which makes the program unique from tourist trips.

"Australia is one of the nicest places you can go. I always wanted to go to Australia," she said. "I think it will be a real educational experience."

Heather Cook

Heather said she hopes to study interior design in the future, but her second career choice is elementary school teaching.

"Learning about other cultures is good for teaching," she said.

Heather's mother, Terri, said the students will be responsible for themselves on the trip, which will help build their character.

"I think it will be an outstanding experience. I think these kids will come back as different people," Terri Cook said. "This is a first for a lot of these kids. I think they'll come back a lot more mature and appreciative of privileges we have here."

Zack Munce

Zack, who will be a freshman at Dexter High School in the fall, traveled to England last year as part of the program. He is looking forward to scuba diving in the Great Barrier Reef and seeing the Australian outback.

Zack said he learned a lot about other cultures when he toured the British Isles last year.

"Our first year (in the program), we didn't know what to expect," said Zack's father, Gary. "But after we saw the itinerary, we were amazed at how much access they have."

"We've seen a change in Zack. I think he understands what it's like to be a global citizen."

Jason, who also will be a freshman at Dexter High School in the fall, said he looks forward to snorkeling in the Great Barrier Reef and learning about Australian culture. He worked with Cook at their church — Dexter United Methodist — to raise funds for their trip. The two hosted bottle drives, breakfasts and other fund-raisers to pay for their trip.

Jason Lomax

They also received donations from local Lions and Kiwanis clubs.

Jason's mother, Kim, said she was getting nervous as the group's departure date neared, especially after the terrorist attacks in England last week.

"But People to People has a pretty good track record for safety," she said.

Gary Munce said he was confident that his son's trip would be a safe one.

"For parents, the thought of sending their kid thousands of miles away is scary," he said. "The program gives a lot of information about where they will be at all times. The leaders send communications to the parents during the trip. It's very well organized."

The program has operated under People to People International since 1963. People to People is a nonpolitical, private-sector organization founded by President Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1956 to further international goodwill and understanding, said local delegation leader Sandra Kerwin.

Although the program is by invitation or nomination only, Munce said more parents need to know that the program exists.

"There are lots more opportunities than kids that take advantage of it," he said.

For more information about People to People, visit the organization's Web site at www.studentambassadors.org.

Library to host artist

History buffs and collectible card game fans alike will want to mark their calendars for July 21, when artist Randy Asplund will visit the Chelsea District Library.

Asplund will present "A Career in Fantasy Art" 4 p.m., followed by "How Medieval Books Were Made" at 6:30 p.m. as part of the summer reading program, "Dragons, Dreams & Daring Deeds."

The first program will focus on Asplund's work in the field of collectible card game cards such as "Magic the Gathering" and "Middle Earth: The Wizards."

Some of his cards have become the most desirable cards on the market, while the original artwork for other cards is part of an exhibition touring Italy titled "Tolkien's World: Images from the Middle Earth."

Asplund also will discuss how aspiring fantasy artists can begin a career in the field.

An Ann Arbor native and graduate of the University of Michigan, Asplund is also a member of the Society for Creative Anachronism and earned his high rank of Master of the Order of the Laurel through a study of illuminated manuscripts, which will be the focus of his second workshop at 6:30 p.m.

Illuminated manuscripts, such as the "Book of Kells," housed at Trinity College Library at the University of Dublin, were a labor of love for medieval publishers-cum-artists.

Asplund will demonstrate the painstaking details and procedures, such as making paper, pigments, and brushes, that are used in recreating these medieval art forms.

Both events are free and will be held at the library, 500 Washington St.

Registration is requested, but drop-ins are welcomed.

For more information or to register, call 475-8732.

Adventure group blossoms

For youth who have the beckoning drive to get out into the world and see the sights, help the needy and live up to their potential to be a leader, Venturing Crew has the answer.

Venturing Crew 412 in Chelsea is an outdoor skills and adventure program comprised of both boys and girls. A branch of Boy Scouts of America, Venturing's purpose is to provide positive experiences to help youth mature and become responsible and caring adults, according to a press release from Crew 412.

Members participate in outdoor adventure, mission and service work, as well as leadership development.

Venturing Crew 412, which is chartered by Chelsea First United Methodist Church, has planned some upcoming events, including a weeklong camping and mission trip in the Upper Peninsula.

The program, open to those 14 to 20 years old, meets from 5 to 7 p.m. every other Saturday at Chelsea First United Methodist Church. For more information, contact crew advisers Lynn or Dave Booth at crew412@sbcglobal.net or 475-8179.

JUBILEE

Music will be played by the Tri-Tones rock band, as well as the Bluegrass Twist Band.

In addition, The Tuskegee Airmen, the first black airmen to fly in World War II, will be returning, as well as the ever-popular "Laura the Elephant."

"This is a fun event where people can see what balloon competition is all about," Petrehen said.

For information about the show, call 1-517-782-1515 or e-mail info@hotair jubilee.com

DEATHS

ELENOR ESTHER KLINK
Chelsea

Elenor Esther Klink, 78, of Chelsea died suddenly July 5, 2005, at Chelsea Community Hospital. She was born Jan. 22, 1927, in Sylvan Center, the daughter of Herman C. and Clara E. (Wellhoff) Eisele.

Mrs. Klink lived in Chelsea all of her life. She retired from Chelsea Milling Co. in 1986.

Mrs. Klink was a member of St. Paul United Church of Christ, where she was in the Friendship Group and was a former Sunday school teacher.

Mrs. Klink was Volunteer of the Year at Faith in Action in 2005. She volunteered at FIA for almost 20 years.

On Sept. 20, 1958, she married Carl H. Klink at St. Paul church in Chelsea, and he survives.

Other survivors include a son, Roland (Vera) Klink of Chelsea; a granddaughter, Kathryn Klink of Chelsea; a sister, Erma (Norman) O'Conner of North Lake; brothers-in-law Walter Zazczurynski and Albert Klink; sister-in-law, Pauline Hawkins; and several nieces, nephews and cousins.

She was preceded in death by a sister, Eileen E. (Eisele) Zazczurynski, in 1998.

A funeral was held Friday at St. Paul United Church of Christ in Chelsea. The Rev. Karen Schulte officiated. Burial was at Oak C

Cemetery in Chelsea.

The family received friends last Thursday at Cole Funeral Chapel and Friday at the church.

Memorial contributions may be made to St. Paul United Church of Christ.

HOWARD JOSEPH TERNS
Spring Hill, Fla.

Howard Joseph Terns, 78, of Spring Hill, Fla., died June 27, 2005.

Mr. Terns is a native of Dearborn and moved to Florida in 1984. He was a Marine Corp veteran of World War II, and worked as a mechanic and welder.

He is survived by his wife, Norma May "Jo" (Reisler), of 20 years; eight daughters, Roben Coury, Sherrie Terns Sangdeli, Sue Bentley and Tina Agopian, all of Michigan, and Linda Scudamore, Karin Bovee, Patty Switzer and Norma Jean Brown, all of Florida; four sons, Mike Agopian and John Terns of Michigan, Mike Lebert of California, and Timothy Faull of Arkansas.

Other survivors include a brother, Joseph Terns of Michigan; 26 grandchildren; and 24 great-grandchildren.

Students earn academic honors

Local students recently received academic honors from universities across the United States.

Angela Benjamin of Chelsea, made the summer 2004 dean's list at Baker College in Jackson.

Matthew Freeman of Chelsea graduated in the fall from Ferris State University with a bachelor's degree in marketing.

William Holmberg of Chelsea graduated in the fall from Kansas State University with a master's degree.

Brian Bailey of Dexter made the dean's list in November at the College of Technologies at the University of Northwestern Ohio.

Scott Allore, a sophomore at Northwood University in Midland, was on the dean's list during the fall term.

Christopher Kouris, a sophomore at Northwood University in Midland, was on the dean's list during the fall term.

Marie Turner, a sophomore at Columbus College of Art & Design in Columbus, was on the dean's list for the fall term. A 2003 graduate of Chelsea High School, she is the daughter of Dennis and Sandra Turner of Chelsea.

Jennifer Gunderson, a freshman at Hillsdale College, was named to the dean's list during the fall semester. A 2004 graduate of Dexter High School, she is the daughter of Steve and Wanda Gunderson of Whitmore Lake.

The following students made the honors list at Central Michigan University for the fall semester.

Chelsea residents Owen Anderson, Christopher Bauer, Scott Dettling, Candell Dickerson, Tara Koch, John McCormick, Karen McCormick, Adam Montero, Andrew Montero, Michael Sayers, Michelle Smith, Jennifer Williams and Jennifer Wright were on the list.

Dexter residents Matthew Birmingham, Laura Delaney, Michael Drexler, Jeffrey Heldt, Melissa Nadeau, Diana Nati, Rachel Nati, Zachary Nixon and Lindsay Roderick were on the list.

David Ganzhorn of Dexter, a junior at University of Rochester in New York majoring in computer science, made the dean's list during the fall semester.

Phoebe Booth, Rebecca Armstrong and Jacob Holton, all of Chelsea, and John Cowen of Dexter made the dean's list at Hope College.

Anne Rogers, daughter of David and Patricia Rogers of Ann Arbor, will be studying off campus for the spring semester with the School for Field Studies program in tropical rainforest management studies in Australia. She is a junior at Denison University in Ohio and a 2002 graduate of Dexter High School.

Steven Byrd, Nicholas LaForest, and Timothy Wacker, all of Dexter, made the dean's honor roll for the fall semester at Lawrence Technological University in Southfield.

Kathleen Personke, daughter of William and Shawn Personke of Chelsea, made the dean's list during the fall 2004 semester at Ohio Wesleyan University in Delaware, Ohio.

Sandra Jelsomeno, a sophomore majoring in hospice education, and Vanessa Patricia Rowan, a freshman majoring in nursing, both from Dexter, made the dean's list during the fall semester at Madonna University in Livonia.

Michael Mignano of Chelsea, a student in the college of business at Ferris State University, is among 123 Ferris students selected for inclusion in the 2005 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges."

Jill Bulmon of Dexter made the dean's high honor list for the fourth semester at Madonna University in Livonia. She has been studying criminal justice and a clinical psychology. She expects to graduate in May.

Book release set

Muggles and wizards alike are expected to turn up in droves at Cranesbill Books, 108 E. Middle St., in Chelsea 11 p.m. tomorrow in anticipation of the midnight release of "Harry Potter and the Half-Blood Prince."

With pre-orders approaching 150 copies, Cranesbill Books is counting down the days until the release of the sixth book in the seven-book series by J. K. Rowling.

The festivities will begin promptly with treats and visits from Dumbledore and McGonogal. Door prizes and trivia contests will be among the activities.

Welcoming Summer

The Dexter District Library kicked off its 11th annual Summer Reading Program June 18 with a live presentation of the "Mr. Dave Musical Show" under a tent outside the library. Mr. Dave entertained children and parents alike with favorite children's songs and audience participation. This year's summer reading program, "Dragons, Dreams and Daring Deeds," is open to children and teens through Aug. 5. For more information, contact the library at 426-4477.
