The Chelsea Area Fire Authority Board has voted to hire James Payeur, fire chief at the Allouez Fire Department near Green Bay, Wis., as its new fire chief pending a background check and contract negotiations.

Payeur, 51, beat three other fire chief finalists after public interviews held Oct. 7 at Sylvan Township Hall. —

Hubbard, deputy fire chief in Alpena; John Parrott, fire chief at the Buena Vista Fire Department in Saginaw County; and Michael Quint, assistant chief at the Watertown Fire Department in Watertown, Wis. The four finalists were pared down from a field of 60 applicants.

If he is offered and accepts the fire chief position, Payeur is expected to start his new job by mid-November.

Preliminary exam set for Rosentreter

Former city employee asserts innocence in child porn charges

By Steve Ricci Staff Writer

The defense attorney for a former city employee accused of viewing child pornography at work said Monday that his client will plead not guilty at a preliminary examination scheduled Nov. 10 in 14-1 District Court.

Daniel Rosentreter, who worked 29 years for the city and resigned last year as the water superintendent, was arraigned Oct. 5. He was week. released on a $10,000 personal recognizance bond.

The state police also seized Rosentreter's home computer, but did not find evidence of child pornography on that machine, Moore said.

Steklac said Monday that Chelsea Police Department turned its investigation of Rosentreter over to the Michigan State Police because Rosentreter was a city employee, and also because the state police had better resources for computer forensic investigations.

Steklac said Rosentreter accepted an opportunity to resign instead of being terminated.

Vincent, who. said Rosentreter has no prior criminal record, asserted Monday that Rosentreter posed no threat to society.

"The case is almost two years old. It's interesting that it has taken a significant amount of time for anything to come up on this," he said.

"Obviously, the police do not feel my client is a threat to anyone. Otherwise, I cannot imagine why (the police investigation) would take almost two years to come to court."

Vincent said the lengthy investigation would present "a very big handicap" in developing a defense.

"Witnesses may or may not be present and evidence may or may not be there," he said.

Because the police investigation took so long, Vincent said, he questioned if there was a problem with the evidence or if the evidence had been mishandled, adding that he is currently investi-

Mother of suicide victim was brave

After speaking to Kellie Saunders, the mother of a Dexter High School senior who committed suicide Sept. 28, I forgot to say something I immediately regretted after hanging up the telephone. So, I'll say it now.

Kellie, you're a brave woman and thank-you for coming forward and sharing your son's story.

I know how difficult it must have been for her because my sister, Megan, committed suicide in 2002 at the age of 31 after struggling with bipolar to "died at home."

Despite personally knowing what a difficult time it was for the family, I asked reporter Heather Connor to call and inquire if they would share their son's story in hopes it might help someone else who may be struggling with depression or thinking of suicide.

I wanted the piece, which was published Oct. 6 in The Dexter Leader, to share with readers what their son was like as a person — his interests, passions and personality as well as his struggles with depression and how people with similar feelings could get help.

We learned he was an athlete with a great sense of humor who was sensitive and caring. He was studying cosmetology through the South and West Washtenaw Consortium. My sister enjoyed a career as a hairstylist in the Ann Arbor area after graduating from a similar program offered through Huron High School. Both suffered from depression and were seeking help.

If we don't share these stories and are instead made to feel embarrassed or ashamed by those around us because of the way our loved ones died, depression and other mental-health disorders will not get the same attention and funding as cancer and other diseases.

I wish more families affected by suicide would come forward and put a face on the disease. I know they're out there because, according to statistics from the World Health Organization, about 873,000 people die by suicide every year and suicide is the third leading cause of death for young people ages 15 to 24.

I tried to call attention to bipolar disorder, also known as manic depression, and suicide when my sister died. I felt so strongly about sharing her story and letting people know exactly how she died and why that I published a column about it Aug. 22, 2002, and put the information in her obituary.

I was shocked, however, when the funeral home my mother hired convinced her such things were not done and that instead the wording in the obituary should be changed

The obituary was published with the suggested changes, authorized by my mother who was in a state of shock and led to feel ashamed about how my sister died. I, however, published the obituary again, with the information about her struggle with bipolar disorder and that she took her own life, after I learned of what had happened at the funeral home.

Nobody should be made to feel ashamed when suicide happens. Suicide is linked to depression, which is a disease. It's a disease that deserves as much attention as any other disease. There should be more campaigns to raise awareness and money for research. There are some local initiatives and I encourage more people to get involved, much like the enthusiasm I saw this year behind the Relay for Life in Chelsea.

World Suicide Prevention Day was held Sept. 10 and Ann Arbor hosted the Out of the Darkness and Into the Light walk Sept. 25. In addition, National Depression Screening Day was held Oct. 6.

We should celebrate local efforts to help raise awareness about depression and suicide prevention like those led by Chelsea resident David Stucki, who co-founded the Ann Arbor chapter of the American Foundation for Suicide Prevention in 2001.

If we all come together, hold our heads high and embrace this disease as we would any other, I think we can make a difference, just as I am sure Kellie Saunders has in the lives of teens from this area who read her son's story and learned how emotionally devastating suicide can be on a family and community.

STANCE

Here's what may be going on, according to one GOP insider. If Butler had taken a position one way or the other from the get-go, some voters would have written him off without a second glance.

But by delaying his answer, he has used this time to define himself with voters in hopes that once they get to know him, they might still back him despite his stance on the subject.

As an African-American candidate, Butler knows this emotionally charged issue is filled with political land mines. Recall that 80 percent of blacks favor affirmative action while 80 percent of whites do not. Whatever he does, someone will be upset.

If he embraces the rightwingers pushing the amendment, he could lose support in urban areas. If he has any hopes of beating Stabenow, he must make a better-thanaverage showing in Motown.

Conversely, if he opposes the amendment (the betting money in this town is riding on that), he could perturb out-state voters who feel they've been abused by the tenets of affirmative action.

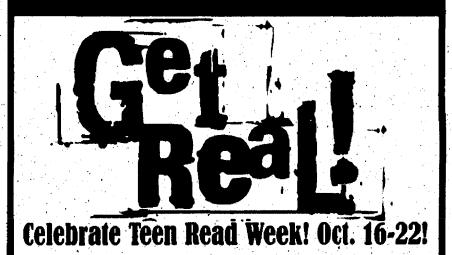

As the crescendo grows toward an announcement, Butler is wise enough to know his stonewalling will not please everyone.

"That's cool," he said. Actually he has nothing to worry about. Deep down he knows that blacks have suffered all sorts of setbacks, and citizens who disagree with that are not going to vote for him regardless of his political positions.

As for the conservatives who are on Butler's team, because of one issue.

growing demands of students involved in athletics, music, youth programs and other community activities,'

"The bond addresses many needs, but to complete the project, we need community support."

The 2004 school bond project will provide for updates to the complex by fall 2006, including 4,000 new bleacher seats, additional restrooms, a new vehicle entrance on Freer Road and other site improvements. However, there are no funds from the bond for improvements to the current playing field.

In addition to providing a safer, easier-to-maintain field for the football program, the new field turf would create new possibilities for other groups, as well.

"It would allow the band to utilize the facility much more than we currently do," said Chelsea High School Band Director Rick Catherman. "We could hold daily rehearsals at the field during our band camp in August and throughout the fall, providing valuable experience for our marching members."

Catherman said the new field turf would also create additional opportunities, including the possibility of hosting a marching band invitational featuring other area high schools, or one of the nearby university band programs.

COUNTY

Road budget scaled back

Motorists may see deeper coming in from the gas tax potholes and greater congestion across the state this winter as higher gasoline prices have driven down consumption of fuel, resulting in fewer dollars available to pave, plow and maintain county roads.

Despite what many people think, higher gas prices actually means less money for road construction and repairs because the gas tax is a flat 19 cents a gallon," John Niemela, director of County Road Association of Michigan. said in a press release.

Higher gas prices mean drivers buy fewer gallons of gas. Because the gas tax is fixed at 19 cents per gallon, every gallon that is not sold means less revenue deposited into the Michigan Transportation Fund.

County road commissions are expecting to see at least $8.5 million less for the maintenance and repairs of their roads this fiscal year, which began Oct. 1, Niemela said. "When the public asks why roads are crumbling and intersections are congested, considering what they have to pay at the pump, the reason is the funding for maintenance and improvements just isn't there," said Steve Puuri, managing director of the Washtenaw County Road Commission. "Our county roads are suffering.

"With less revenue coming in, the Washtenaw County Road Commission will likely spend $7.5 million less in 2005 than last year, and we will need to scale back our plans even more in 2006."

The Michigan Department of Transportation distributes the revenue generated from fuel taxes to county road agencies, according to a constitutionally mandated formula. Under the formula, 39.1 percent goes to the Michigan Department of Transportation, 39.1 percent goes to county road commissions and 21.8 percent to cities and villages.

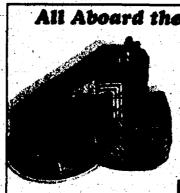

Gov. Jennifer Granholm recently signed House Bill 4082 into law, shifting funding from the Michigan Transportation Fund to the Secretary of State's Office to the tune of $21 million through 2007, Niemela said.

"It's a simple equation: less funding means less road construction and repairs. Road agencies across Michigan are expecting to get $25 million less from the state. That obviously will have an impact," Niemela said.

"Along with less funding

revenue, the state's decision

Organize your car

This week we're going to tackle the car. If you're like me, you practically live out of the car. It has returnables, recyclables, clothes to return, Goodwill donations, books to donate and miscellaneous items from each child.

First, you have to do the "clean sweep" approach. Take everything out and vacuum. Then sort items into piles and be sure to toss gum wrappers, old pop cups, candy wrappers, chip bags, etc. Yep, that's what accumulates in my car.

Put the garbage can right next to the car. Now look at the piles you have. Put them in containers such as boxes, plastic baskets or bags and get them to the places they need to be.

week to run these types of errands. You'll really be glad you did. And map out your errands so that you do a circle and don't waste gas or time getting them done. With these high gas prices, you don't want to waste a drop. Now that the car is clean, put an organizing box in there. This box has notepaper, pencils, pens, tape, scissors, stamps, envelopes, maps, phone book, wipes and a stapler. I've needed all of these on different occasions.

I use a basket, but you can use a clear tote with a lid. or any container that fits under a seat or next to it.

Be diligent about emptying out your car. Most times you've spent hours organizing your house, just to let the items sit in your car for weeks.

Yeah, I know you're smiling. You're thinking, "I better get this stuff to Goodwill before Bonnie sees my car."

Coping With Breast Cancer

There is no right or wrong way to deal with breast cancer. It can bring on a range of emotions from guilt to denial to anxiety to fear. Women feel like they have lost control of their lives and are overwhelmed by all the decisions they have to make. According to the National Cancer Institute, some factors that influence coping include the stage of cancer, your age, your course of treatment, and your support system.

But there are some general coping tips. Follow the coping mechanism that works best for you.

Reduce the stress of daily life by letting things go. You don't have to do everything on your to-do list.

* Turn to a support group. You'll meet people who are enduring the same experience as you. If a group support system isn't your style, turn to a family member, friend, counselor or clergyman with whom you feel safe and to • Treat yourself. Rent a movie you've always wanted to see, read a beach book that offers no intellectual stimulation, or take a long bubble bath.

• Don't do everything yourself. If people offer to do things for you, don't be afraid to take them up on it. Provide specifics about how they can help. Have a friend buy your groceries. Ask your mom to watch the kids after school. Let your sister drive you to a doctor's appointment. It's okay to get help on even the most routine of chores, errands and appointments.

• It's okay to feel sorry for yourself. Give yourself time to cry if that's how you deal with stressful and emotional situations. It's completely normal to dwell on your diagnosis and/or surgery.

Don't waste time blaming yourself for your diagnosis. No one knows what causes breast cancer. It's not your fault.

Don't be hard on yourself. People will understand if you don't return phone calls or if you decline lunch or forget appointments.

Don't go nonstop all day long. Take time out for naps. Even a 15- or 20minute snooze can improve your overall mood.

whom you can confide your thoughts and feelings.

• Try to see the bright side of breast cancer: It can give you a renewed appreciation for life or help you rekindle old friendships or form new ones.

It's okay to ask for a hug! People will be more than happy to give one to you. It will make you feel better, even if it's for a brief moment.

Public school academy oins national network public school academy for students in 10th through 12th grades located on the Washtenaw Community College campus, was recently accepted into a national network of K-12 schools committed to school improvement and high academic achievement for all students.

As a member of The Successful Practices Network, a not-for-profit collaboration sponsored by the International Center for Leadership in Education, Rexford, N.Y., middle college staff will share best instructional practices, successful methodologies and peer support with staff from other member schools.

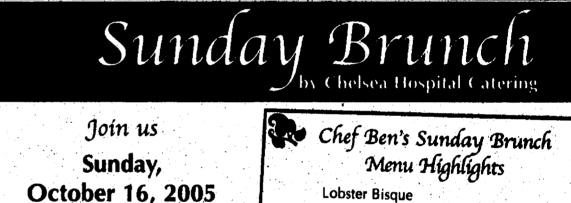

Network Executive Director Ray McNulty describes the collaboration as "a way to link committed educators and district leadership Washtenaw Technical Middle College, a with like-minded practitioners across the country."

"Even the best schools can't be an expert in every aspect of school improvement," he said. "At the same time, these schools have enormous expertise in specific areas to share. The idea behind the network is to connect schools with other schools that can offer needed expertise and possible solutions."

The network is an innovative and costeffective way for schools to share knowledge - peer to peer - in areas like special education, parental involvement and accountability standards under the No Child Left Behind legislation. Network members also receive regular communication about professional development, instructional tools and education trends.

Scrapbook FALL HARVEST SALE!

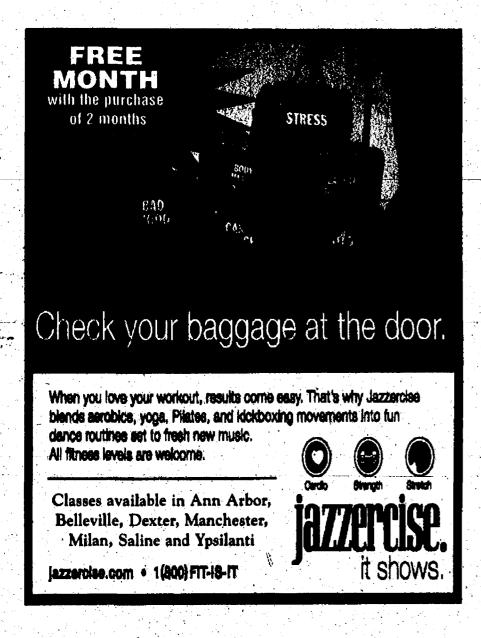

Origins and Jacts About Sweetest Day

Observed the 3rd Saturday in the month of October, Sweetest Day observance originated in Cleveland in 1922. Herbert Birch Kingston, a philanthropist and candy company employee wanted to bring happiness into the lives of orphans, shutins and others who were forgotten. With the help of friends, he began to distribute candy and small gifts to the underprivileged. On the first Sweetest Day, movie star Ann Pennington presented 2,200 Cleveland newspaper boys with boxes of candy to express gratitude for their service to the public.

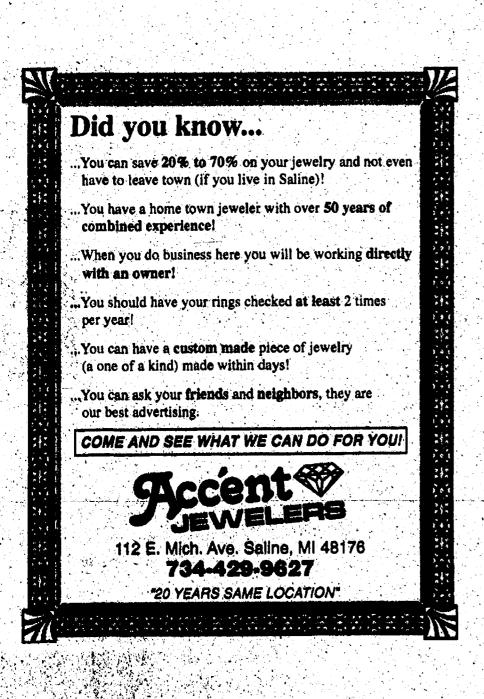

Another popular movie star, Theda Bara, distributed 10,000 boxes of candy to people in Cleveland hospitals and also gave candy to all who came to watch her film in a local theater.

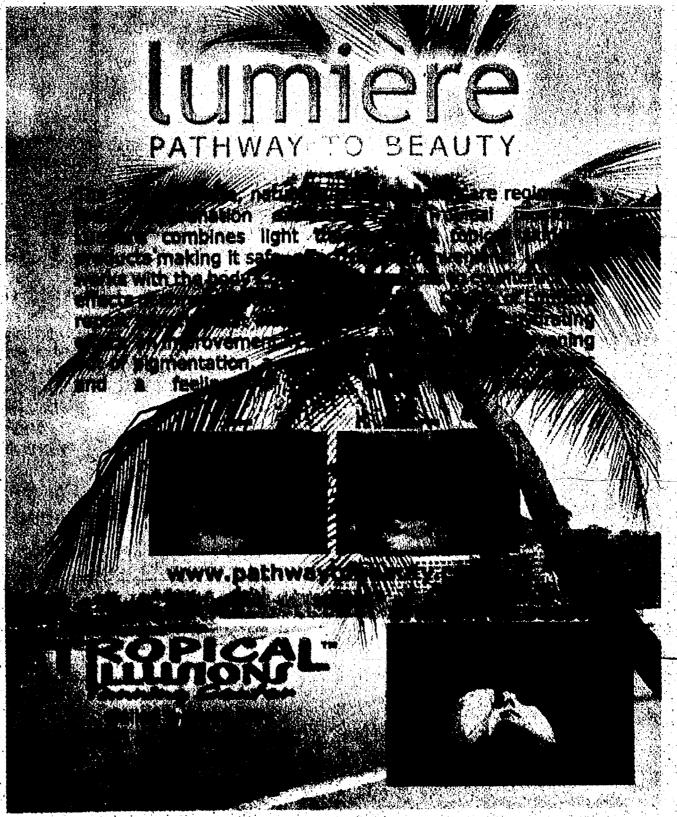

Primarily a regional observance celebrated in the Great Lakes region and the Northeast, Sweetest Day is gradually spreading to other areas of the country. People tend to take the Sweetest Day tradition with them when they move. Ohio is the top state for Sweetest Day sales, followed by Michigan and Illinois. Texas, California and Florida are among the top 10 states in sales.

Over the years, Sweetest Day has evolved into a time to express romantic love and also to show appreciation to friends.

Congratulates.

On October 27, Heritage Newspaper-West plans to honor the top young professionals from the greater Washtenaw County Area through a first-time feature called 20 Under 40.

We've picked 20 movers and shakers who live and/or work in the communities served by the Heritage Newspaper-West region, which is comprised of Belleville, Chelsea, Dexter, Manchester, Milan, Saline and Ypsilanti.

Among the fields are business, religion, education, the arts, community service, health care, emergency services and government.

Someone from your community/organization has been nominated, would you like to recognize this individual with an ad?

Albion a parallel universe

City similar to neighboring Ann Arbor

An hour west of Ann Arbor is a city that mirrors it on a smaller scale.

Albion is that city, and it's worth the drive to see

The first parallel you'll notice is that — like Ann Arbor — the city is dominated by an educational institution. Albion College was chartered in 1835 as a Methodist seminary. Over the years, it has evolved into a highly respected liberal arts college of about 1,850 students.

Among the college's buildings is the stately Vulgamore Hall, dating back to 1854. Like the real clock and chrono- Division III football. graph.

Life can sometimes throw a curveball - divorce, job loss, medical bills, the death of a spouse, a disaster like the recent hurricanes - and suddenly people find themselves in a financial tailspin.

Using scripts, participants will role play the lives of lowincome families in different scenarios - a recently unemployed middle income family; a single mother, recently abandoned and with young children; an elderly couple on Social Security with medical concerns; a single mother with children who gets by on cash assistance; and an elderly shut-in widow.

They will interact with a "village" of stores and agencies, including welfare office workers, pawnbrokers, food pantry staff, bill collectors, bank, landlord, utilities payment office, and a quick cash store, and then discuss their experiences with a facilita-

Just east of the compound is the college's Whitehouse Nature Center. Operated as an educational facility for students, as well as the public, the center sits on 135 acres of woodlands, wetlands and farmland bordering the north branch of the Kalamazoo River.

Like U of M's Arboretum, the center's acreage is home to a variety of plants can be found there, as well as 160 species of birds. Interpretive hikes conducted on the center's six trails help beginning birders add to their life lists.

Also on the river is Victory Park the largest of Albion's city-run recreational areas. Victory Park is a prime picnic and play area, as well as a musical venue. Weekly concerts are performed all summer long in a restored 1940s band shell.

The park also surrounds "the forks" — an intersection of two branches of the Kalamazoo where the area's first settler staked his claim. This event is commemorated the third weekend of every September with the Festival of the Forks. A communitywide celebration, the festival features art and antiques, music and much merriment. If you walk by the corner of Ionia and Erie streets on the tour, you'll learn a fascinating fact about Albion. It was on this site in 1877 where the idea of Mother's Day was first suggested by the sons of an Albion woman named Juliet Calhoun Blakeley. The city is rightfully proud of this distinction and acknowledges it each year with a week-long celebration called the Mother's Day

CHELSEA DISTRICT LIBRARY BOARD OF TRUSTEES

MINUTES OF REGULAR MEETING & BUDGET HEARING TUESDAY, AUGUST 16, 2005 - 6:30 P.M. MEETING LOCATION: CHELSEA DISTRICT LIBRARY MEETING ROOM

Trustees in Attendance: Jan Dohner, President: Kate McAuliffe, Vice President; Karen Dixon, Treasurer; Greg DeGraff, Secretary, Mary Budzinski, Trustee; Gary Zenz, Trustee; and Metta Lansdale, Director

Trustees Absent With Notice: Colleen Verge A quorum was present.

Budget Hearing J. Dohner called the meeting to order at 6:35 p.m. and opened the Public Budget Hearing.

The Director gave an overview of the 2006 proposed budget and answered questions from Trustees. Some Trustees questioned the need to raise the library operating levy to the maximum allowable (with Headlee reductions) 1.6466 to gain an additional $12,125 in funding over the usual 1.63 operating millage amount. They asked the Director to provide for the September regular meeting an alternative budget using a 1.63 operating levy.

Public Comment and Close of the Budget Hearing There being no public comment, the Public Hearing closed at 7:45 PM. Welcome and Call to Order

J. Dohner called the regular meeting to order at 7:46 PM.

Agenda Review and Additions

By consensus, the distributed Agenda was approved with the addition of a closed session at the end of the meeting, as requested by the Personnel Committee.

Compulsory Segments:

Minutes MOTION made by G. DeGraff to accept the July 19, 2005 regular meeting minutes as presented. SECONDED by G. Zenz. MOTION PASSED

MOTION made by G. DeGraff to accept the July 19, 2005 closed meeting minutes as distributed. SECONDED by K. McAuliffe. MOTION PASSED UNANIMOUSLY.

The Director introduced Linda Sayers, bookkeeper for the library, who answered Trustees' questions regarding the financial reports. Director's Report and Communications

The Director distributed an amendment to the printed Director's Report and discussed some key issues.

The Director reported to the Board that she had consulted three certified arborists, each of whom recommended that the maple tree on the N. W. corner of the library property on Main Street needed to be taken down due to disease and decay and that other tress needed bracing and maintenance. Trustees asked if this cost would be coming out of the Building Project Budget, to which the Director answered no.

The Director informed the Board that she is making plans to develop the logo to be initiated at the opening of the downtown McKune Memorial Library. The plan is to request proposals for the design service, evaluate those proposals internally and then to bring a selection of two firms to the board for selection, if they would like to be involved to that extent. Trustees: advised that the library could administratively select a design firm and should bring to the Board two or three logo designs for selection.

MOTION made by G. Zenz to add RFP for Chelsea District Library Logo Design to 'Action Items'. SECONDED by K. Dixon, MOTION PASSED UNAMIMOUSLY.

The Director notified the Board that Rick DeTroyer, iron artist and sculptor, had declined the job of designing and creating the widow's walk (also known as a "belvedere") originally proposed for the roof crest of the original McKune. Library Architect, Jim Mumby and the Director both stated they were comfortable removing this design element from the design. Public Comment

None Construction Project Discussions and Reports The Director informed the Board that, in the process of digging the foundation for the new construction, contaminated soil was discovered near the southeast corner of the original McKune Building. The contaminate has been tested and is unleaded gasoline, apparently seeping laterally from the old Pump & Pantry lot. SME (Soil and Materials Engineers, Inc.) is assessing the extent of the contamination, monitoring the cleanup, arranging for use of the proper landfill and working with the State Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ) for compliance. The Director expects a formal report from SME with estimates of the extent of the contamination and the costs for remediation within a week and a half. She will keep the Board informed....

Jim Mumby, Library Architect, requested authorization to proceed with the following previously discussed project changes:

Deduct Duress Alarm System Bid Alt 5: Re-use On-site topsoil Bid Alt 9: Bid Alt 10: Delete Heat race at guiters Mechanical system value engineering Volt Alt 1: Volt Alt 4: Change N E site wall to dry-laid block Volt Alt. 7a: Remove flagpole and ground lights Remove 50% of McKune light cove. Volt Alt 10: Change Drywall ceilings to Acoustical Ceiling Tile Volt Alt 13: in seven locations

Change Young Adult Room #216 to Acoustic Volt Alt 14: Ceiling Tile Volt Alt 15: Remove 2 basement VAV boxes and one third of light fixtures

Change walkway canopy celling to flat Volt Alt 17: Volt Alt 19: Simplify cove ceiling detail in lobby Change water proofing to a 10 mil vapor barrier Volt Alt 25:

With Board approval, Fanning!Howey will issue an order for O'Neal Construction, Inc, for cost estimates and to proceed with their certified 'change orders'. The Director distributed a revised Projected Expenses and Project Budget', dated 8/16/05; stating that 1) the original budget did not include an Owner's Contingency, 2) that the Library investment firm projects investment income, during the life of the project, higher than originally anticipated and 3) requesting board authorization to add to the project budget the additional $95,000 contribution to the capital campaign for purposes of adding the window well back into the project design. She suggested that the added Owner's Contingency could be offset by the additional interest earned on bond investments. MOTION made by K. Dixon to add Revised Projected Expenses &

Project Budget' and 'Project Deductions' as presented by Jim Mumby to 'Action Items', SECONDED by G. Zenz, MOTION PASSED UNAMI-

Closed session to consider confidential written legal opinion MOTION made by K. Dixon to enter into closed session for the purpose of consulting with library attorney regarding confidential written legal opinion (as permissible by the Open Meeting Act 267 of 1976, 15.268, Sec 8).

SECONDED by M. Budzinski. Roll Call Vote: K Dixon-Yea, G. Zenz-Yea, M. Budzinski-Yea, G. DeGraff- Yea, K. McAuliffe-Yea, J. Dohner-Yea. MOTION PASSED UNAN-IMOUSLY

Return from Closed Session:

Board asked the Director to monitor the City Review Committee progress and have the library's engineers available to answer any questions or concerns that might arise.

District Library Agreement-Resolution for Amendment MOTION made by M. Budzinski to accept as presented the Resolution Amending the Amended and Restated District Library Agreement, SEC-ONDED by K. Dixon.

Trustees asked the library to send the two (2) prior amendments, made to the District Library Agreement, along with the proposed amendments to the townships and City. They also suggested that, by November, a separate letter be included to inform the townships and City of the need for nominations for terms beginning January 2006.

Roll Call Vote: G. Zenz-Yea, M. Budzinski-Yea, G. DeGraff- Yea, K. Dixon-Yea, K. McAuliffe-Yea, J. Donner-Yea. MOTION PASSED UNANI-MOUSLY. Fund Definitions 2006

Did you know that a family fire-escape plan can save lives? Children are at a high risk from home fire related death and injury. They are naturally less aware of danger and cannot react as fast as adults in a life-threatening situation. That's where a fire plan comes into play: It can mean the difference between life and death.

The first step to devising a fire plan is to draw a map of your home. On a big piece of cardboard or paper, draw your home's floor plan, marking exits and a central meeting spot. Post the map in a central location like the refrigerator and review it often with children.

Staging a fire drill will help ensure that your kids know what to do in the event of a fire. Set off a smoke detector and walk them through two different escape routes. Tell them to be quick; there's not enough time to gather up toys or belongings. Explain that it might be loud, dark and smoky. Teach them escape tips, including how to crawl under smoke and cover their noses with a shirt to prevent smoke inhalation. Show them how to feel doors before opening them to see if they are hot. (Tell them not to touch doorknobs first as they may be extremely hot, especially if they are metal.) Tell your kids not to open the door if it's hot because there could be a fire on the other side. Instead, they should look for another way out. For young kids, show them a window they can stand next to where a firefighter or a parent can help them escape safely.

While you are practicing the escape plan, it's also a good time-for you to test emergency exits. Windows should open easily and be wide enough for someone to escape. They should not be nailed or painted shut. If they have security bars, make sure they still can open or have them retrofitted with quick-release devices. Check if there's a way to get down from windows, whether it's via a ladder or tree. (Don't let kids practice escaping from a window — they can injure themselves.)

After kids escape, have them head to a designated meeting spot. Pick a place that's safe and easy to remember, such as a mailbox, a spot at the end of the driveway, under a tree, or in front of a neighbor's house. Kids should never re-enter a burning building for anyone or anything.

Practice an escape plan with your family now so you can help your children safely escape a fire.
