Judge hears case against Rosentreter

Former city employee accused of possessing child pornography

By Susan J. Moore
Special Writer

The long delayed preliminary examination for Daniel Rosentreter, former Chelsea Water Department superintendent, was held Jan. 26 in 14th A-1 District Court.

WHAT'S NEXT: Judge Ann Mattson will render a decision 1 p.m. Feb. 9 in 14th A-1 District Court. The court may either bind the defendant over to Circuit Court for trial on the charges or dismiss them.

Judge Ann Mattson of the 15th District Court presided over the hearing to determine whether there was probable cause to believe that a crime had been committed by the defendant.

Rosentreter has been charged with 10 felony counts of possessing child pornography and 10 counts of using a computer to commit a crime.

Conviction on the child pornography charge carries up to four years in jail and/or $10,000 fine on each count, and up to seven years in jail and $5,000 fine on each count for using a computer to commit a crime.

Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Amy Smith produced two witnesses against the former city employee. Michigan State Police Detective Sgt. David Hart and former state trooper Brian Boyd, a computer forensic expert who had examined the material on Rosentreter's work computer, testified concerning their investigation.

Following the hearing, Mattson reserved decision on the matter, saying she wanted to research several cases and the law before rendering a decision. The court may either bind the defendant over to Circuit Court for trial on the charges or dismiss them.

Mattson said she would render a decision 1 p.m. Feb. 9 in 14th A-1 District Court.

Defense attorney Michael Vincent said the case involves possession of child

Fumes prompt evacuation

15 postal employees forced to flee building

By Susan J. Moore
Special Writer

Employees of the Chelsea Post Office were forced outside into the parking lot last Thursday morning when nauseating fumes filled the building.

The Chelsea Area Fire Authority, responding to a 911 call made by Postmaster Ted Deuve at approximately 10:15 a.m., donned breathing apparatus to enter the building.

According to Chelsea Fire Chief Jim Payeur, the "smelly odor" was Freon gas leaking from an old refrigerator in the basement of the post office.

"We treated the incident like any other hazardous material call," said Payeur, explaining that a team of firefighters used an air monitor when they entered the building.

Meanwhile, Chelsea police officers rerouted southbound Main Street traffic between Park and Orchard streets, said Police Chief Scott Sumner.

"We shut down southbound traffic as a precaution for the safety of the firefighters who were exiting their numerous vehicles," he said, adding that traffic during the mornings is generally light.

Deuve said 15 employees were in the building when the incident occurred. Several postal carriers had already left to deliver mail.

"Just for safety's sake, we cleared the building and called 911," he said.

Deuve said the gas sprayed onto the custodian as he was working on the refrigerator in the basement lunchroom. The man was treated in the parking lot by firefighters and released.

"We are grateful that there were no injuries," Deuve said.

The post office was back in business by 11:30 a.m. and the old refrigerator was hauled away for disposal on Friday.

By law, disposal of old refrigeration units must be handled by certified technicians.

Freon gas was commonly used in refrigerators, air conditioning units and aerosol propellants until it was banned by a 1986 international environmental treaty. Although Freon is nontoxic, when it's released into the atmosphere, it contributes to the deletion of the protective ozone layer.

Burtch gets salary hike

Clerk-treasurer sees 10 percent pay increase but won't get overtime

By Katie Cooney
Special Writer

The city's clerk-treasurer will receive a 10 percent pay hike, but will no longer be eligible for overtime pay, according to a resolution adopted Jan. 24 by the City Council.

Council trustees approved a salary increase for City Clerk and Treasurer Terri Burtch after she requested the raise, stating that her job responsibilities increased when Chelsea became a city two years ago.

She was moved to Step 5, which pays $45,510, up from $41,054 a year, and will receive a 3 percent increase for a total of $46,875 per year. Her next review and opportunity for a pay increase is in 2007.

City Manager Mike Steklac researched wage scales in comparable communities to see where Chelsea's stood in comparison. Steklac said the city's was on the lower end of the scale.

Steklac also studied Burtch's job duties to assess any changes that they may have undergone after Chelsea incorporated as a city. After reviewing wage scales and Burtch's job duties, Steklac proposed a salary increase

Council looks to recoup cost

Trustees discuss whether to bill retirement communities for runs

By Katie Cooney
Special Writer

Should retirement communities pay more for fire services that require medical runs?

That's the question the City Council briefly grappled with Jan. 24.

With increasing fire department costs, trustees discussed seeking reimbursement for medical runs to local retirement centers. Whether the reimbursements would come from insurance companies or the retirement communities was not specifically addressed.

Whenever someone dials 911, the fire department is dispatched along with Huron Valley Ambulance. The City Council estimated that these medical runs comprise more than 70 percent of the fire department's calls.

The council talked about hiring an experienced dispatcher to sort the calls and decide if both the fire department and an ambulance are both needed to respond. The idea, however, was quickly dismissed out of fear of lawsuits if the dispatcher mistook the urgency of the 911 call.

Council Trustee Frank Hammer

City buys lawnmower

New machinery has snow-blowing capability, costs more than $27,000

By Katie Cooney
Special Writer

A new lawnmower tractor, which also has snow-blowing capabilities, will cost the city more than $27,000.

The City Council approved the purchase Jan. 24 of a new lawnmower tractor with cab, broom and snowblower.

The current broom, which has been used to clear sidewalks in the downtown area, has been breaking down on a regular basis, city officials said, and the breakdowns have become more expensive and difficult to repair.

The tractor, recommended by Public Works Superintendent Dave Bulson, is a John Deere diesel-fueled lawnmower. It will include hard cab, 71-inch side discharge mower, heavy-duty rotary broom and heavy-duty two-stage snowblower.

D&G in Williamston quoted the city a price of $27,217.13, with an option to trade in the old mower for $6,000.

The cost will be divided between the Chelsea Downtown Development Authority and the wastewater department.

City Manager Mike Steklac said the mower was an unanticipated expenditure, but the Chelsea Wastewater Department had planned to request a mower in the 2006-2007 budget. Funds will come from the DDA's tax increment financing revenue and the wastewater fund.

Planning meeting set

Initial planning for the 2006 CROP Walk begins 2 p.m. April 23 at St. Paul United Church of Christ on Old US-12 in Chelsea.

Last year, the Chelsea- and Dexter-area CROP Walk raised $30,826. Treasurer Larry Wiedmayer expects a few more late contributions and matching gifts to trickle in, bringing the total to more than $31,000.

The amount raised seems to grow every year, said Kathie Gourlay, coordinator for the 2005 walk.

Ten local churches, the Chelsea Retirement Community, Silver Maples and the Chelsea High School Interact Club participated last October.

Dexter United Methodist Church sent the most walkers, with 38, and raised the most money, $13,849. Silver Maples raised the most money per walker at $500, which qualifies it to receive the walk's annual Golden Sneaker Award.

Faith In Action, a local human services organization, receives 15 percent of the money raised, which totaled $4,500 this past year.

The majority of the money raised will be used around the world. Some uses are to help those devastated by disasters, such as the recent tsunami in Southeast Asia, the earthquake in Pakistan and the hurricanes in the Gulf Coast.

Proceeds also will be used to provide food and medicine and to fund projects such as clean water systems, vocational training along with tools, and land-mine removal.

raised the question of whether the city should charge local retirement communities because there are a number of senior apartments and assisted-living centers in the Chelsea area.

The centers specifically mentioned at the meeting were Chelsea Retirement Community, Silver Maples and The Pines senior apartments.

The fire department reported 122 medical runs to the Chelsea Retirement Community last year, followed by 70 runs to Silver Maples, according to information provided by City Manager Mike Steklac.

When contacted last week, Silver Maples Executive Director Jerry Wilczynski said the retirement community pays a significant amount in taxes. While its residents may require more medical runs from the fire department, they use less of other city services, he said.

For example, Wilczynski said senior citizens obviously don't have any kids in the public schools, but Silver Maples pays school taxes. He also said the city should consider how much senior citizens contribute to the local economy by utilizing such services as local healthcare providers and pharmacies.

Trustees agreed to meet with representatives from local retirement and assisted-living communities to discuss the issue further.

retroactive to Jan. 2.

The proposal for an increase in salary was accompanied by a recommendation by Steklac, to revise the entire wage scale for the city clerk-treasurer position. The move will keep Burtch at Step 5 of the wage scale, but still allow for an increase in her pay.

Steklac said Burtch would stay at Step 5 until she gains more experience in the position.

City Council Trustee Frank Hammer, with support from Trustee Joe Merkel, said he thought the suggested increase was too low. He suggested a 3 to 5 percent hike to ensure that Burtch's new salary amounts to a true increase over her income last year working overtime.

A compromise was reached by raising the rate of Step 5 and approving a pay hike.

Burtch's raise comes nearly a year after Chelsea Planning and Zoning Administrator Jim Drolett received a $10,000 salary increase with the stipulation he no longer earn overtime.

pornography on a city computer that was not used exclusively by Rosentreter. The defense counsel also said that no child pornography was found on the defendant's personal computer.

The case began several years ago when city employees accidentally discovered child pornography on a water department computer. After a local investigation, the Michigan State Police were called in to handle the case because of their expertise in such matters.

The lengthy delay between discovery and trial was attributed to lost or misplaced paper work, according to the state police.

While the matter was still under investigation, Rosentreter, a 29-year city employee, resigned his position March 16, 2004.

The process dragged on when three preliminary examination dates had to be adjourned because the prosecution witnesses were unavailable.

City updating master plan

Commissioners working on project with LSL Planning Inc.

By Katie Cooney
Special Writer

The Chelsea Planning Commission is developing an update of the city's master plan and is looking for support from the City Council.

Jim Drolett, Chelsea's planning and zoning administrator, submitted a proposed resolution for the City Council to adopt promising to act on an updated master plan.

"If the council adopts the master plan, there is more legal weight to it," Drolett told the City Council Jan. 24.

The plan was last revised in 2002.

"Our city is going to continue to evolve in very dynamic kinds of ways and the varying perspectives of the council members, I think, are really important in how the document gets updated," said Council Trustee Cheri Albertson.

Chris Rode, chairman of the Planning Commission, was at the meeting to report the outcome of the city's first master plan update meeting, which took place the previous week. He said Brad Strader and Caryn Wenzara of LSL Planning Inc. have done a good job of helping the commission get started.

The commission hopes to have a draft of the first sections of the updated plan at the next master plan meeting March 21.

CHELSEA SCHOOLS

Showcase set Feb. 11

Company C, Chelsea High School's song and dance ensemble, is set to share the stage with three other show choirs from across the state in Showcase 2006. The event will be held 7 p.m. Feb. 11 in the Chelsea High School Auditorium.

"We are honored and excited to have Bedford, Greenville and Detroit Jesuit high schools join us again this year," Steven Hinz, the high school's vocal music director and coordinator of the annual event, said in a press statement.

"It's really a great opportunity for high school students from throughout the state, not only to perform, but to share their love and appreciation of music and dance with each other, and with the community at large. Bringing all of these very talented young men and women together for one big show is truly a thrill."

The production marks the 2006 debut of Company C, an extracurricular ensemble of high school students who explore performance and the entertainment arts through the genres of pop, jazz and musical theater.

The theme behind Company C's portion of the Showcase is "Kidstuff," which includes a mix of traditional and contemporary kid-centered music, in what's expected to be a wacky, fast-paced and fun medley of music and choreography.

"With the supporters of four different high school groups interested in a seat to this one event, tickets may go pretty quickly, so folks really shouldn't wait to get theirs," Hinz said. "No one who appreciates music and dance will want to miss it."

Tickets for the single performance of Showcase 2006 are $10 and are on sale at Chelsea Pharmacy or at the door.

Physician moves practice

One year after opening a pediatric practice in Chelsea, Dr. Scott Moore has moved into a permanent office at 13699 Old US-12.

Moore opened in the new location with a new name for the practice, Moore Pediatrics and Associates.

After purchasing the former TLC building in December and renovating the interior, Moore Pediatrics saw its first patients Dec. 16 at the new location. While Sunday is not part of the regularly scheduled office hours, Moore is often available to see patients after hours as the situation requires.

"I live in Chelsea, so, if I can, it's easy for me to meet a patient at the office if I don't think it should wait until Monday or the next day," Moore said in a press statement.

Moore shares after-hours call with other independent pediatricians in the Ann Arbor area so that a physician is always available to answer questions.

Moore opened his own practice Jan. 16, 2005, citing a desire to practice medicine in a way that allowed him to spend more time with his patients and provide a high level of personalized care.

Moore lives in Chelsea with his wife and three children and was excited by the idea of living and working in the same community.

"I was also not ready to say goodbye to my former patients, and Chelsea is close enough to my former office that the families could have a choice," he said was among the reasons to start a practice in Chelsea. "It was very gratifying when so many families did follow me to the new practice."

Chelsea also allowed Moore to affiliate with St. Joseph Mercy Hospital and the University of Michigan, both of which offer a high level of pediatric care.

After surveying the community and talking to local pediatricians, Moore said he realized that the practices in Chelsea are so busy and enough families drive to Ann Arbor that there was room in the community for another pediatrician.

In addition to Moore, a nurse practitioner, Andrea Duncan, is also available to see patients. Duncan joined the practice in April 2005 and has particular interests in female adolescent medicine and newborn care, especially breastfeeding.

Award Winners

Twelve members of the Mill Creek Middle School Forensics Club joined 500 pupils from across the state Jan. 7 in competing at the state forensics tournament. The event was held at Groves High School in Beverly Hills. Laura Taylor of Dexter won a first-place ribbon. State trophy winners were Amy Jones, who won seventh place in the state for her poetry interpretation, and Charlotte Becker and Emily VanDusen, who won second place for storytelling. Pictured, in back, are Catherine Cook (left), Laura Taylor, Cameron Maisch, Brandon Canniff, Sam Laidlaw, Henry Seeger, Gabe Altomare and Austin Sullivan; in front, are Charlotte Becker, Amy Jones and Emily Van Dusen. WASHTENAW COUNTY

Land trust gets grant

The Washtenaw Land Trust's Farmland Protection program has gained critical momentum thanks to a $25,000 from the W.K. Kellogg Foundation in Battle Creek.

"Most people don't realize that agriculture is Michigan's No. 2 industry, second only to manufacturing," Susan Lackey, executive director of the Washtenaw Land Trust, said in a press statement.

"As noted in a recent Michigan Land Use Institute analysis, the farm industry contributes $59 billion to the state's economy every year, and provides one million jobs. Yet despite this, its base of farmland is disappearing at an unprecedented rate."

The grant supports a two-phase effort to protect key farmland in Washtenaw County. The program will focus on direct farmland preservation projects and related farm community outreach efforts.

The goals are twofold: to acquire development rights on two key farm parcels owned by farm families in the southern part of Washtenaw County and to continue investing in the farm community momentum toward sustaining the local agricultural land base and a regional agricultural economy.

The land trust had been awarded federal farmland protection challenge grants to protect the two strategic farm parcels. The purchase of development rights on the two projects totals $877,000, preserving more than 110 acres of farmland in Bridgewater and York townships. The Kellogg grant provides a portion of the match for the projects.

The properties are strategically located in the region, Lackey said. The 43-acre farm parcel in York Township is located in the Saline River watershed and adjacent to 215 acres that were preserved in 1999 by the Washtenaw Land Trust and the state PDR program. The property is only half mile away from a state fish hatchery and near other farms that have their lands in the Public Act 116 program, she said.

In addition, the farm has diversified operations that range from raising cattle to grains and hay. The property owner is actively seeking to preserve the entire farm, of which this is a first phase, Lackey said.

The farm parcel in Bridgewater Township is 69 acres and contributes to a 200-plus head Holstein dairy operation that has been in the family for generations. This farm is also near other farms that have lands in the PA 116 farmland protection program.

"Farmland protection is critical not only to our sense of place, but also from an economic standpoint," Lackey said.

"We want to make sure that farmers know that there are options available if they want to keep their land open and productive."

STATE

Bill would go after 'deadbeat' employers

Bill requires large employers to contribute to Medicaid program

By Emily Burton
Heritage Newspapers

Health care in the United States has become a serious and important issue, according to state Sen. Raymond Basham, D-8th District.

So much so that he says it requires legislative action.

Senate Bill 734, called the Fair Share Health Care Fund Act, would require employers with more than 10,000 employees to contribute at least 8 percent of payroll for medical assistance under the state's Medicaid program.

Employers who fail to contribute would be guilty of a civil penalty and could face a fine of $250,000.

A nearly identical measure became law Jan. 12 in Maryland after that state's Legislature overrode a veto of the bill by Gov. Robert Ehrlich.

Measures to set up similar funds in Arizona and California died, while those introduced in Connecticut, Kansas, Kentucky, Massachusetts, Minnesota and Washington are under consideration.

Basham said his legislation is necessary because some corporations in Michigan are not providing adequate, affordable health care to their employees. That is causing many of those employees to turn to Medicaid, which Basham said is costing taxpayers and the state money.

"In Michigan, 18 companies have greater than 10,000 employees," he said. "Of those 18, four are abusing the system. They are encouraging their workers to be on Medicaid.

"One company alone is costing the state's resources $46 million per year."

Basham said state law prohibits him from identifying the employer.

But he pointed to one major employer as indicative of the need for the fund in Michigan. He said that more than 15 percent of Wal-Mart's 30,181 employees in Michigan are on Medicaid.

Basham said the cost to large corporations to contribute to the healthcare fund would be minimal.

Kathy Hobbs, a spokeswoman for Wal-Mart's federal government relations office in Washington, D.C., said such laws are harmful to working families. She said the laws "don't address the issue of the soaring cost of health care in America," and that they will lead to a loss of jobs.

"These legislatures are sending the message that they are unfriendly to business with these actions," Hobbs said. "These restrictions are arbitrary, because they don't address the issue of health care. They single out large employers like Wal-Mart."

She said a majority of Wal-Mart employees nationwide have health care.

According to a company statement, more than three-fourths of the Wal-Mart's 1.3 million employees have health insurance through a company plan, a spouse's

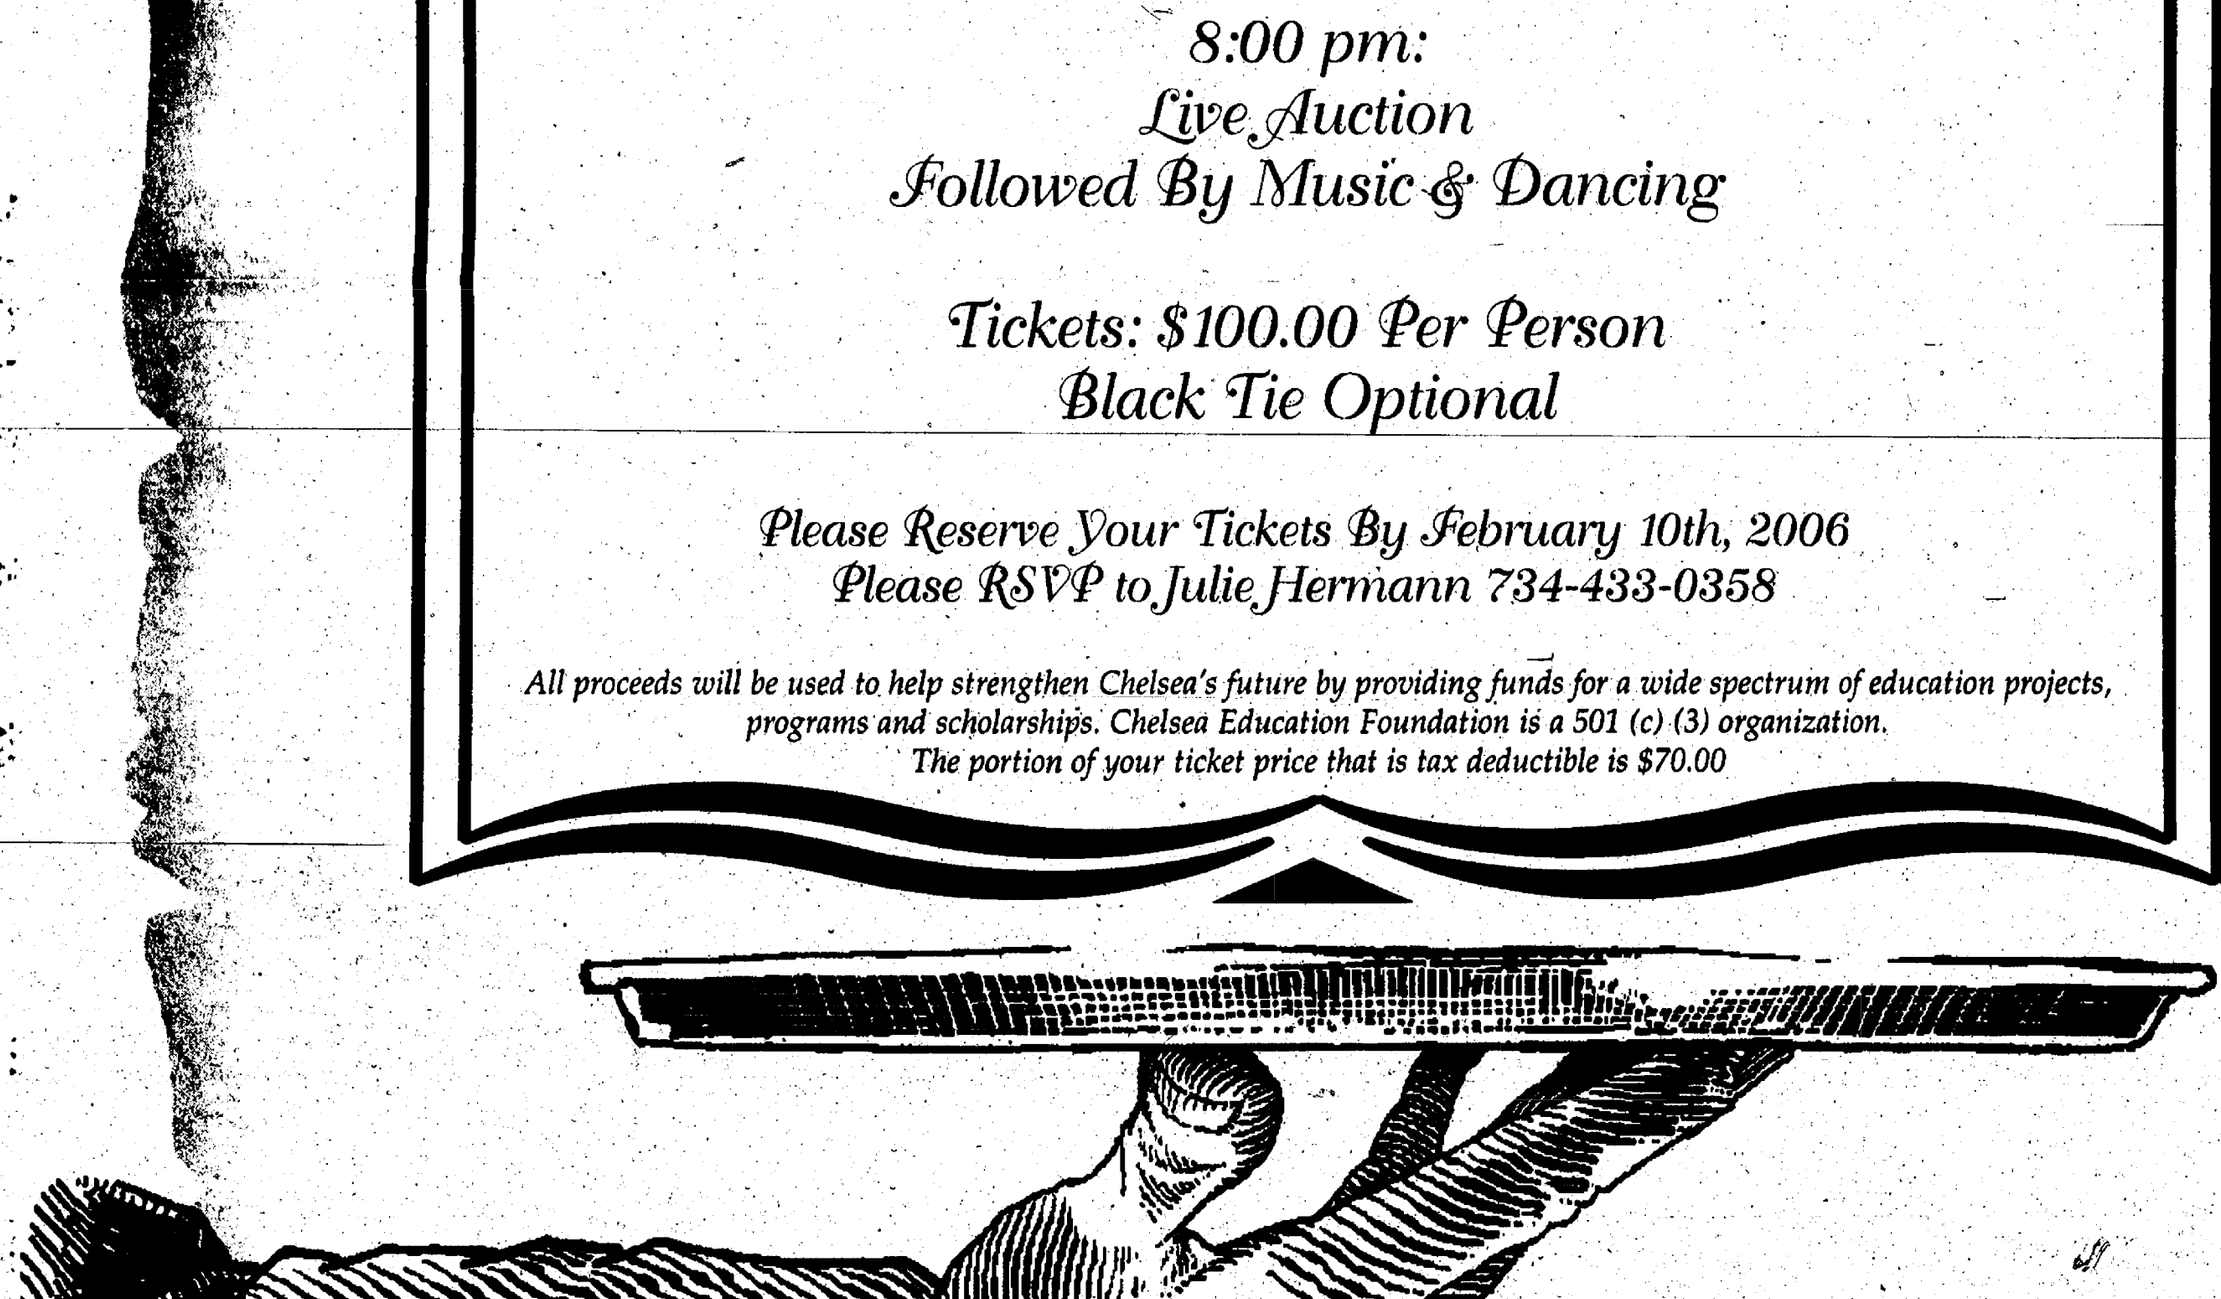
The portion of your ticket price that is tax deductible is $70.00



Founded in 1990, the Chelsea Education Foundation is supported solely by contributions from individuals and businesses. Members of our working board of volunteer trustees are each rooted in our community and are committed to education and the partnerships that produce a wide spectrum of opportunities for Chelsea residents of all ages. These partnerships continue to expand and strengthen within the school system and community. The success of our endeavors is due to your overwhelming support. We are inspired and invigorated by your impact on the thousands of residents that benefit from your donations.

Last year's contributions allowed the CEF to expand our support to the Chelsea community. During the 2004–2005 school year, the Chelsea Education Foundation awarded 43 scholarships totaling $39,500 and 24 grants totaling close to $23,000. The Foundation's goal was to be able to fund, all or in part, every teacher request for classroom support. Additionally, funds were also provided for various community activities. In all, more than $63,000 was infused into the Chelsea community.

POLICE BLOTTER

Scio Township

Home Invasion

A 12-week-old pit bull terrier was stolen Jan. 10 during a break-in at a home in Scio Farms Estates, 6655 Jackson Road. The 19-year-old owner of the female puppy told police the thief entered his home between 6 and 8 p.m. Nothing else appeared to have been stolen.

Property Damage

Police believe someone used a BB gun to shoot out the back passenger window of a 1996 Saturn Jan. 21. The victim, a 20-year-old Scio Township woman, told police she was turning onto Sagebrush off Scio Ridge Road when she heard something hit and shatter the window.

Check Fraud

A 49-year-old township woman told police Jan. 13 that a check had come up missing from her checkbook. Later that day, sheriff's deputies found that the stolen check had been made out to "cash" for $150 and passed at the Meijer store at 5645 Jackson Road.

At the store, deputies retrieved the check, finding that the woman's name had been forged. A man who is a friend of the victim's son endorsed the check, according to police reports. The investigation is ongoing.

Larceny

In two separate incidents, MP3 players were reported stolen from the boys' locker room at Dexter High School, 2200 N. Parker Road.

On Jan. 21, during a wrestling meeting, a 14-year-old Chelsea boy's MP3 player was reportedly stolen from an unlocked locker at the high school.

Also, on Jan. 18, a 13-year-old Dexter youth who was attending an after-school weightlifting class at Dexter High School reported that his iPod was stolen from his bag in the locker room.

In both cases, the electronic devices were left unsecured in the locker room. Sheriff's deputies advised both students and their parents against leaving valuables unlocked at school.

Chelsea

Larceny

An 89-year-old woman's daughter told police Jan. 22 that her mother's false teeth had been stolen from her room at the Chelsea Retirement Community, 805 W. Middle St. The upper and lower dentures were valued at $1,500, according to police reports.

Dexter Village

Breaking and Entering

Rolls of aluminum valued at up to $800 were stolen from All Seasons Seamless Gutters, 2117 E. Bishop Circle.

Several trucks parked in the lot were broken into between Jan. 20 and 23. The firm's owner told police that scrap aluminum had also come up missing in recent weeks from the company's scrap bins, but he had not reported it to police because it was small quantities.

Larceny

Thieves stole the wheels off of three new vehicles in the early morning hours of Jan. 20 at LaFontaine Chevrolet, 7120 Dexter-Ann Arbor Road. The dealership's general manager told police the wheels, stolen from two Trail Blazers and a Monte Carlo, were valued at $15,000 together.

The manager said the incident is similar to one that happened in the fall.

Dexter Township

Home Invasion

An 80-year-old woman who left her home in the 12000 block of North Territorial Road for about 90 minutes during the morning of Jan. 20 came home around noon to find that someone had broken in and stolen her jewelry.

A burglar pried open the side door of the house and entered, stealing an undetermined amount of jewelry and possibly other items, according to police reports. Damage to the door was reported to be $500.

SCIO TOWNSHIP

Blaze destroys business

A fire that broke out Jan. 14 at Littlefield & Sons Furniture Services injured a worker there and destroyed the building.

The cause of the blaze is yet to be determined, officials said.

Firefighters responded to the building at 111 Enterprise Drive near Jackson Road around 11 a.m. and found flames and heavy black smoke billowing from the structure.

An employee told officials the fire broke out in a room containing paints, lacquers and solvents. That employee, an Ypsilanti man, was taken to the University of Michigan Medical Center in Ann Arbor, where he was treated for burns to his hands and body.

Officials said he was the only person in the building when the fire ignited. Interviewed by police at the scene, the worker told officials that he grabbed a fire extinguisher and tried to put out the fire by himself, but the flames quickly got out of control.

The metal structure that housed the furniture business is a total loss, officials reported. The building's owner, Linda McCall of Ann Arbor, said it was erected in the 1970s and is valued at $300,000, according to reports.

Firefighters from the Dexter, Chelsea, Saline and Ann Arbor Township fire departments assisted the Scio Township Fire Department in putting out the blaze. The fire was totally extinguished by 2:45 p.m., officials said.

Knox named fraternity president

A Chelsea High School graduate's leadership qualities were recently recognized when he was elected among the 2006 leaders of an Albion College Greek fraternity.

David Knox, the son of John Knox and Alison Bullard of Gregory, has been elected president of Sigma Chi fraternity. He is a junior majoring in art.

"The entire fraternity chooses its leaders from among its most dedicated and responsible members," Samuel Centellas, director of Greek Life at Albion College, said in a press statement. "Holding a leadership position is an honor for any member."

Journalists take the good, bad and ugly

JACKIE HARRISON-MARTIN

Do your very best.

Try to be fair.

Always let the positive things in life outshine the negative.

Those are the things I try to stand by personally and professionally. The latter part of that motto was really tested the other day.

I got a letter from a resident who aggressively questioned my commitment to all of those things. It probably was the most unkind letter I've ever received.

But journalists, in particular, are subject to that kind of criticism, warranted or not. Sometimes, criticism crosses the line into personal attacks.

The letter writer, who went so far as to question my Christianity, and I had an engaging conversation. In the end, we agreed to disagree on several issues.

Every now and then, someone crosses the line. One reporter had a package of feminine products sent to her because the sender didn't like a story she wrote.

Another reporter had his name posted on a Web site stating that he was a stalker. The writer was angry because the reporter called a girl at her home for comment for a story.

And calls went all the way to this newspaper's corporate offices in an attempt to get an editor fired because the reader didn't agree with a column that was written.

We've just about seen it all here at Heritage Newspapers.

Sometimes it's a bit of a challenge, but as I told the letter writer, a multitude of positive things should never be upstaged by the negative.

Choosing to embrace that spirit, this letter falls well short of overshadowing the many positive remarks and acts of kindness so many area residents have shown not just to me, but to one another as well.

Area schoolchildren are the absolute best. There is nothing more rewarding than getting letters from students thanking you for visiting their school, talking to their class or giving them a little publicity for work they have done.

It just makes every negative thing pale in comparison.

I wrote a column once about an elderly woman who worked at a department store. She angered a customer because she wasn't very fast. Unfortunately, she was working in the express lane.

The customer cursed at the senior citizen, downright humiliating her. The next thing I knew, the cashier had tears streaming down her face, but she kept right on working.

After that column ran, a reader sent me a letter saying how touched she was reading about her, and that she and a group of her friends wanted to contact the cashier. They offered to take her out to lunch.

Last year, readers came to the financial and emotional aid of an 86-year-old man with medical problems who had his wallet stolen while grocery shopping.

One reader sent him a check for $300 — a lot more than what was in the wallet at the time.

After reading about a young newspaper carrier who donated his earnings to the stranger, his supervisor tracked the youngster down and gave the youngster a check for the amount he donated, commending his unselfish act.

I have come in contact with some of the finest and most professional people covering cities, townships and school districts over the past 17 years.

There is a superintendent who has media relations down to a science. He always asks about my family, returns every telephone call and has left some of the absolute funniest voice mail messages known to man.

There is a principal who loves children and his school so much that he is a superhero to them, and he even has a Captain Underpants costume to prove it.

There is a police chief who dubbed me "Mrs. Colombo," because during every telephone interview, I always come up with one more question as he's about to hang up the phone.

There is police sergeant who begins and ends every conversation with a funny joke, and a former mayor who put so much "off-the-record" trust in me he's often said, "She knows where all the bodies are buried" in his city.

I've probably called all of these people, and many more, at one time or another when the last person they wanted to talk to was someone from the media. Somehow, we managed to work through just about everything.

Who knows, maybe one day even the letter writer and I can agree to a professional truce. It would be the epitome of putting a positive spin on a situation that spiraled out of control.

Granholm administration practicing 'fuzzy math'

TIM SKUBICK

If you do not have an advanced degree in math, by the time this race for governor is over, you'll need one.

Without it, nobody knows who is telling the truth on jobs created and jobs lost.

Gov. Jennifer Granholm, in her immensely upbeat assessment Jan. 25 of where the state is headed, boasted that during her three years on the job, there was a net job gain of 99,000. Pretty impressive number, but her team could not immediately do the math to show how they arrived at that figure.

It seemed like a simple request.

"We don't know" was the puzzling response when one of her handlers was asked to provide the job lost number. Another insider confessed she didn't have the figures, either.

Come on, gang. Somebody must have the silly number. If not, how did anyone deduce that the net gain was 99,000?

Could it be that the job loss figure was so astronomical that it would have thwarted the governor's attempt to put on an economic smiley face for her radio and TV audiences?

This is not the first time the media has gone round the mulberry bush on the administration's jobs record. Months ago, a representative tossed out so many different numbers from so many different sources it was impossible to make heads or tails out of any of it.

With this being the No. 1 issue in the contest for governor, the capital press corps does not have to apologize for wanting to know where the 99,000 figure came from.

The Richard DeVos for Governor campaign believes it popped up out of thin air. Not surprisingly, it contends there's been a net job loss of 150,000 and suggests you can find that number at, of all places, a state government Web site.

The two sides cannot agree on which stats should be used. The front office prefers the so-called household not the non-farm payroll job figures — whatever that means.

Adding to the debate, the state GOP is hauling a Granholm job-loss clock all over the state. As it ticks merrily along, the Republicans contend one job has been lost every 10 minutes this governor has been in her job.

At least they provide a formula, convoluted as it is, to show how they arrived at the bottom line.

But Granholm defenders claim that the job loss every 10 minutes is misleading because, remember, she has a net job gain.

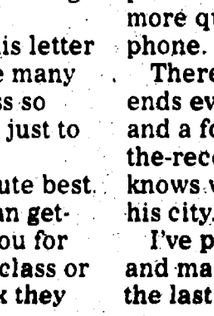
It's about time, Ford



GARY GOSSELIN

Massive job cuts and more than a dozen plant closings by Ford Motor Co. are a sad commentary but necessary and indicative of the U.S. auto industry.

As depressing as the massive cuts by Ford are, they are a necessary next step for a company that still faces a dwindling market for its products and follows similar moves by General Motors and Chrysler Group.

The No. 2 automaker's announcement Jan. 23 of 25,000 to 30,000 job cuts — including 1,433 hourly and 134 salary employees at Wixom — reflects the company's 21 percent overcapacity and dwindling percentage of the U.S. market.

"This is disappointing news for Michigan and for the Michigan families who are most affected by this announcement, but I believe that the tough business decisions announced this morning will help the company regain its financial footing so it can continue to be an industry leader for decades to come," Gov. Jennifer Granholm said in a statement.

The UAW says Ford should focus on selling more cars rather than making these cuts, which, while the optimum idea, is something Ford and GM have not yet figured out how to do.

Ford's domestic market share is at 17.4 percent with 2.9 million vehicles, substantially lower than 15 years ago, when it had 24 percent market share. The company is operating at 79 percent capacity, meaning it's paying to keep 21 percent of its plants and employees operating.

LETTERS POLICY

Heritage Newspapers welcomes letters from readers.

Short letters have a better chance of being published in a timely fashion, as do letters on local issues.

The newspaper reserves the right to accept or reject any letter for publication, and to edit letters for length, accuracy and grammar.

All letters for publication must include the author's name, address and telephone number. The deadline is 1 p.m. Monday.

The deadline for letters concerning an election is two weeks prior to publication. No election-related letters are published the week before.

Direct letters to: Letters to the Editor, The Chelsea Standard/The Dexter Leader, 20750 Old US-12, MI 48118.

Letters also may be sent by e-mail to editor@chelseastandard.com or faxed to 475-1413.

FORD

Hoping sales will increase is just not an option anymore, and the sooner the UAW and Ford get that, the sooner they can concentrate on what they have instead of what they want and start making vehicles Americans want to buy.

"It's a sad day, but it's a day that's been postponed for too long. Ford has been losing money on some of its operations for far too many months," said Patrick Anderson, founder of Lansing-based Anderson Economic Group, a business consulting firm. "There's overcapacity in this market, and you can't make money operating lines that make four cars for every three that you sell.

This is the third plan Ford has had since the late 1990s, and the company already has cut about 35,000. But this time it looks like Ford may finally "get it."

The game changed in October, Anderson said, when Delphi filed bankruptcy, something many in the industry said could never happen to an offspring of GM.

It did, and it has sent a ripple of urgency through the industry, and it's no coincidence that Ford started planning its "Way Forward" about the same time as the Delphi bankruptcy.

These cuts represent about a 25 percent reduction, which finally should bring the company in line with its smaller footprint in the marketplace.

"I don't see a lot of surprises here. It's all about execution, I think, first and foremost designing and building cars that will stabilize their market share. That's the emphasis of this report," said Dana Johnson, vice president and chief economist at Comerica Bank Detroit. "You have to deal with reality. Market share is what it is, and you have to have a company that reflects that."

There was a time, back in the late '70s and early '80s, when the Big Three faced similar problems with poor quality and stale products combined with competition.

Deja vu all over again.

The companies have relied too heavily on trucks and sport utility vehicles with their high profits and neglected many other products while foreign nameplates were more than happy to fill the niche with snazzier and/or better packages.

The energy crunch was apparently a huge surprise, and this fundamental shift to a global marketplace has caught them flat-footed.

Like the '70s, though, they are responding, if somewhat late, and are coming out with competitive vehicles and reducing costs. In addition, both Ford and GM have been steadily improving overseas operations, with GM now posting the largest sales in China and Ford growing 42 percent in the Chinese market last year.

"GM and Ford are right to expand capacity and invest in markets that are growing for them. They're doing in Asia what Toyota and Honda did in the U.S. 20 years ago," said Anderson. "Having GM and Ford sell more cars in China is a good thing for Michigan, because a lot of the intellectual value and value added for that is right there in Michigan."

If Ford doesn't get caught up in too many distractions and can concentrate on product, price and service, it should be able to stabilize its market share in the United States, then tackle business growth one day — or one country — at a time.

There has been precedent set, now it's just follow-through.

Service Award Winner

The One World One Family task force received the annual Martin Luther King Jr. Service Award Jan. 15 from Church of the Good Shepherd in Ann Arbor. Allie Suffety (right), chairman of the Chelsea task force, accepted the award. Joanne Ladio (left), a member of both groups, had told church friends how One World One Family pushed for the Martin Luther King Jr. holiday and was active in diversity events in the community. The Good Shepherd committee selected One World One Family because it teaches about diversity and works for equality, as King did.

MATH

Will somebody please pass the truth serum?

The back and forth on jobs goes to the very heart of the race for governor. The DeVos folks want to blame the governor for the sorry state of the Michigan economy. But in her address, she pointed at the Bush White House.

"No state can fix this problem," she lamented while adding, "Washington must be our partner ... not a bystander."

Democrats in the audience went nuts. Republicans did not.

If the current polling data holds up, by a 2-to-1 margin most Michigan voters blame President George W. Bush for the lousy economy, not Granholm.

But remember, the DeVos gang has not yet begun to fight as they hope to pin the tail on her.

Which brings us to you. You will have to decide who is right, but grab your handy dandy calculator and start work on that math degree before you do.

STATE

Granholm's speech attracts locals

When State Representative Pam Byrnes, D-52nd District, found out she would be allowed to bring two guests with her to the governor's State-of-the-State address, she knew immediately whom she would ask to join her.

"I wanted to recognize Paul Bishop and Paul Cousins for their tireless work on behalf of the community of Dexter," Byrnes said in a press statement. "Thanks to them, Gordon Hall is now the future home of the Dexter Area Historical Society, a winery and a small retirement community. I thought inviting them to attend the State-of-the-State address would be the perfect way to show my appreciation for their efforts."

Bishop is a local businessman, trustee on the Chelsea Community Hospital Board and former Dexter Village president. Cousins is a Dexter Village Council trustee, retired schoolteacher and former owner of Cousins Heritage Inn.

Both Bishop and Cousins were thrilled to see Granholm deliver her address live Jan. 25 in front of lawmakers and other state dignitaries.

"The governor is such a dynamic speaker," Cousins said. "And it was great privilege to be a part of the action on the House floor."

Added Bishop, "Even though preserving Gordon Hall is thanks enough, it was an unexpected treat to be asked by the representative to come with her to the State of the State. We had a great time."

Byrnes said she applauded the governor's message emphasizing her pledge to create jobs and strengthen education.

"Governor Granholm is dedicated to improving our economic climate and offering our kids high-quality educational opportunities," Byrnes said. "She and I agree that those issues are Michigan's priorities and what we will fight for in 2006."

As for Gordon Hall, plans are moving ahead to restore the building. Bishop said the historical society will continue to seek donations for that effort. He added that the Vinosity winery and United Methodist Retirement Communities of Chelsea, which also will be located on the property, will provide the steady income that the historical society will need to maintain the property.

Gov. Jennifer Granholm delivered her State-of-the-State address Jan. 25 in Lansing. Dexter residents Paul Cousins and Paul Bishop were among the guests invited to attend.

BILL

plan or Medicare.

Hobbs said Wal-Mart offers 18 different healthcare plans to its employees, both full and part time.

She said the plethora of legislation around the country is the result of an attack campaign by special-interest groups.

"Certainly there are union leaders intent on attacking major employers like Wal-Mart," Hobbs said. "These proposals affect everyone. These initiatives are the result of a multimillion-dollar campaign by union leaders.

"The vast majority of politicians introducing these policies are linked to labor unions. That's why these mandates are not about health care; they are about politics, and about bad politics."

She said Wal-Mart is working hard to ensure all employees have access to health care, but more discussion about the issue is needed.

"We need to take a comprehensive look at the health care situation in America," Hobbs said.

"But that can't be done by singling out employers and especially those who are working to provide health care coverage. And, we're willing to work with legislators on this issue."

SB 734 was referred to the Committee on Commerce and Labor in September, where it has yet to have a hearing.

Basham said his bill likely will never get a hearing because of partisan politics.

"The only thing I can do is try to drive the debate on health care," he said. "And, that's what my legislation, hopefully, does is drive the debate on health care."

FAITH fosters Creativity

NEED TO KNOW

A workshop for local writers will kick off Saturday with a presentation by University of Michigan professor and poet Keith Taylor at the Chelsea Center for the Arts, 400 Congdon St., in Chelsea.

Writers of poetry, novels, creative non-fiction, short stories, plays and other literature are welcome to read excerpts, give and receive feedback from other writers, and share information on writing contests, competitions, classes and conferences.

The spring workshop will meet from 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. every other Saturday through May 27. A second workshop is planned for the fall.

Registration is $60. Call 433-2787 to register.

Local poet helps sponsor workshop for writers

By Sheila Pursglove
Special Writer

A third-grade teacher's praise for his poem started Brad Tompkins off on a lifelong search for his muse.

"It was a thrill to be recognized like that for something so easy for me to do," Tompkins said.

The poet, whose work has appeared in several publications, is also helping to sponsor an upcoming writers workshop series at the Chelsea Center for the Arts, starting Saturday.

It's a long way from that third-grade classroom in Goshen, Ind.

"I have always loved language and learning," Tompkins said. "For most of my life, poetry has been a background enjoyment. There is great pleasure in taking my experiences, impressions and ideas, and transforming them from nothingness into sounds and ink.

Tompkins, a 1971 Chelsea High School graduate whose father taught industrial arts at Chelsea High School, was introduced to poetry in a creative writing class at Kalamazoo College taught by poet Philip Schultz.

"It was there that I learned I could write poems that not only expressed what I felt, but others identified with and enjoyed as well," he said. "Schultz showed how to weed out unnecessary words, images and ideas — no matter how attached to them a writer is — and reduce a poem or story to its essential, bare essence.

"It is hard to do the right thing with a poem," he said. "Letting go of a favorite phrase or creation can be painful, but the final, polished product is worth it."

After a couple of years teaching sixth grade in Minnesota, Tompkins attended Tennessee Temple University and earned a bachelor's degree in English and classical Greek.

While in college, he won prizes for poetry and essays, and during his senior year, served as president of the writing club and editor of the university literary magazine, The Well-Tempered Pen.

His own pen lay silent for much of the following decade, during which he and his wife, Kathy, moved to Chelsea. That was until Doug Smith invited local poets to give readings at Smith's now-defunct Little Professor bookstore.

"After the poets read, Doug gave a chance for people to read their own poems in an open mike forum," Tompkins said. "I dusted off some of my stuff and was greatly encouraged by the audience's response. I began writing poems again."

On his birthday, Sept. 28, 2001, Tompkins and local writer Marijo Grogan were invited to be featured poets at Smith's gathering.

"I published a little chapbook for the occasion," Tompkins said.

"I won several honorable mentions in the Chelsea Poetry Contest and second place for my poem 'Go Again' in that contest's last year."

Last fall, Smith published "In Drought Time," a collection of poetry and art with the theme of rural life.

"I am privileged to have two poems included in this marvelous and valuable collection," Tompkins said.

Religion has played a large role in Tompkins' life since his late teens, when drugs and rebellion — "the usual '60s hoopla," as he terms it — were part of his world. After quitting drugs, he went looking for life's answers.

A friend invited him to North Sharon Community Bible Church. "And I loved it," he said. "A month later, I overcame my doubts and accepted Jesus as my personal savior. I have attended what is now North Sharon Baptist Church, whenever I live in this area, since that time. This decision has informed my life."

Local poet Brad Tompkins and his son Adam, 12, look over some of his latest poems on the computer.

Tompkins also met his future wife at the church. He and Kathy have been married for 25 years and have four sons.

In 1983, after graduating from Tennessee Temple, Tompkins' friend and former high school classmate, Eric Policht, principal at North Sharon Christian School, was killed in a car crash on M-52. The Rev. Bill Enslen asked Tompkins to succeed Policht. Tompkins and his wife moved to the area and spent 11 years in Manchester. They currently live in Kathy's hometown of Napoleon.

Tompkins served as principal and teacher at North Sharon for 12 years. Currently, his main official duties consist of teaching the seventh- through 12th-grade boys' Sunday school class, and preaching on a rotating basis at the Jackson County Jail.

In 1996, after North Sharon Christian School could no longer support him, Tompkins completed a stint selling cars and then served as assistant manager at a luggage store in Novi.

He later began teaching college English courses at Spring Arbor College, and two years later taught composition courses in the Michigan prison system at the Egler facility in Jackson and the Scott facility in Plymouth, until the program ended a couple years later.

In 2001, Tompkins began teaching English composition classes at Washtenaw Community College, where he still teaches today. He has had either a poem or an essay published each year in the Huron River Review, Washtenaw Community College's literary magazine.

"I consider this a great honor and accomplishment," he said.

Paula Palmer Burns (left), president of Dexter Area Chamber of Commerce, awards the Spark Plug Award to Steve Brouwer of the A. R. Brouwer Co. He joins the ranks of Arden Shafer, Carol Jones, Steve and Barb Gergely, and the late C. Bruce Waggoner, among other winners of the award.

Brouwer earns award

Chamber recognizes developer

By Rita Fischer
Special Writer

The man behind the Monument Park Building, the newest building in Dexter — and one of the biggest buildings in the downtown — is the winner of the Dexter Area Chamber of Commerce's Spark Plug Award

Steve Brouwer of the A. R. Brouwer Co. joined the ranks of Dexter's top go-getters Jan. 19 for contributing to Dexter's business community.

"I was very surprised; however, it's the people who have won the award before me that make it special," he said.

Brouwer joins the ranks of Arden Shafer, Carol Jones, Steve and Barb Gergely, and the late C. Bruce Waggoner, among other winners of the award.

"It's very gratifying that they are recognizing not just me, but our company and the projects we undertake," Brouwer said.

He was given the award at the chamber's annual meeting, which was held at the Dexter American Legion Hall.

The A. R. Brouwer Co. is responsible for constructing a number of buildings in Dexter and Chelsea, including the Monument Park Building, Dexter Plaza, Chelsea Courtyard, Chelsea Place and Little Cherub daycare center in Chelsea.

The company has worked on many other projects in Ann Arbor and southeast Michigan.

Brouwer and his company have been active in the chamber for the last six years or so.

"By working closely with the village staff, council, Planning Commission and DDA (Downtown Development Authority), we were able to turn a vision into reality," he said of the Monument Park Building. "Our goal now is to find a restaurant for the first floor and new businesses for the second and third floors. These newcomers will join the existing businesses in supporting one another. That's the whole idea behind the Monument Park Building.

POET

"Poetry is fun. I do not do it so much for recognition, but because I really enjoy it and want others to enjoy it also."

His poetic influences are many and varied. The "Rinehart Book of Verse" has been an almost constant companion, and helped lay a foundation for his own verse.

Walt Whitman, Emily Dickinson, Gerard Manley Hopkins, James Wright, John Barryman and Robert Lowell are among a long list of poets whose work he enjoys.

Most of Tompkins' poems begin with a single phrase or idea that he works and expands into a poem. He writes these phrases and seed ideas in an ever-present notebook.

"Then, when I decide to make myself do so, I sit down and write out longhand the first draft of a poem," he said. "Then I write and rewrite this poem over and over, and am rarely done with a work.

"Sometimes, the final product is done fairly quickly and somewhat resembles the first few drafts, but often it is completely transformed or even abandoned. Sometimes I sit down at the computer and just begin to type and create poems that way.

"I like my poems to have a cadence combined with meaning and a magic with the power of an incantation that hangs in the air after it is read. It's most fun when, in the process of converting thoughts into words and rhythm, an image or combination comes to me that expresses exactly what I wanted and I had no idea that it existed in my mind."

"I think the chamber provides an opportunity for local business to get know each other and support large community projects like Gordon Hall. They also support many smaller organizations. It's a hardworking community organization and we support them."

Brouwer will keep the Spark Plug plaque for one year before returning it to the chamber.

"I am honored to have won the award, but it's important that everyone understand while my name may be on the plaque, the recognition belongs to the whole company," he said. "This award has been a team effort. Without support from family, friends and business associates, we would not have earned it."

What a Friend We Have in Jesus?

Dear Friends and Neighbors,

If Jesus was alive today would He be your best friend? I asked that question in the children's lesson at a recent worship service. A couple of the children immediately nodded their heads: Yes, they thought Jesus would be their best friend.

Then I pointed out that there might be disadvantages: Jesus was perfect, and never did anything wrong. If their parents watched them playing with Jesus, there might be comparisons: "Why can't you act more like Jesus?"

None of us can imagine what Jesus was like. The Bible says He was without sin. That would be intimidating for any of us. Even the Apostle Peter, in one of his first encounters with Jesus, said, "Go away from me, Lord; I am a sinful man!" (Luke 5:8).

Thank God, the good news is not that we can be like Jesus. The good news is not that He came to provide us with a good example to follow. The good news is that He came to live a perfect life in our place, to offer His heavenly Father the obedience that we owe Him, but often fail to give Him. And when we trust in Jesus as our Savior, His obedience counts for us.

Jesus did not come to be a friend that we can hang out with, or go fishing or hunting or shopping with. He came to be a Friend who would lay down His life for us, and give us a life that never ends once this life is over.

That's a free gift. But when we know Him as that kind of Friend, we want to devote our entire lives to demonstrating our friendship with Him.

In arguably its top performance of the season, Chelsea wrestling captured the 10-team Dexter Invitational last Saturday.

"That was the best we've wrestled all-season," said Chelsea coach Kerry Kargel. "We were on cue. My freshmen wrestled like upperclassmen. We felt really good Saturday. The guys were ready to go."

The Bulldogs breezed through the tournament, barely challenged.

In pool matches, Chelsea defeated Northville 65-9, Ida 54-18 and Bloomfield Hills Lahser 57-18.

In the invitational semifinals, the Bulldogs beat Freeland 66-18.

In the championship match, Chelsea dominated Trenton, winning in convincing fashion 66-12.

Individually for the Bulldogs, Austin Rodgers led the way, finishing 4-0 at 215 pounds. For his efforts, he was named the tournament's outstanding wrestler for the upper weight divisions.

Also unbeaten for Chelsea on the day included Matt Schultz (1-0) at 130, Chad Schiller (4-0) at 140, Cody Schiller (4-0) at 145, Kyle Colburn (1-0) at 145, Kevin Rosentreter (5-0) at 152, Phil Thayer (5-0) at 160, Oscar Marx (1-0) at 160, Andy Ramsey (1-0) at 171, A.J. Suffety (5-0) at 189 and Doug Devol (1-0) at 215.

Other top performers for the Bulldogs included Glen Cobb (4-1) at 103, Jamin Breslin (4-1) at 112, Paul Bell (4-1) at 119, Evan Helvey (4-1) at 135, Drew Wint (3-1) at 171 and Birgy (4-1) at heavyweight.

Also competing hard for Chelsea were Doug Zygner (0-3) at 125, Donnie Riedel (0-1) at 140 and Mark Smith (0-1) at 125.

Chelsea vs. Lincoln

Last Thursday, the visiting Bulldogs lost to Ypsilanti Lincoln 38-33 in a dual match.

"It was a seesaw match that went back and forth," Kargel said. "We'll learn from this."

At 103, Chelsea's Sam Parkansky lost by pin to Mike Farrell in 29 seconds.

Breslin pinned Nathan Mullins in 2:53 at 112.

Bell lost a 9-7 overtime decision to Brandon Freeman at 119.

At 125, Bulldog Danny Ngo pinned Eric Moberg in 3:20.

At 130, Zygner lost by pin in 1:05 to Eric Purdon. Chelsea's Marty Kelley lost a 15-4 major decision to Jonathon Fox at 135.

Chad Schiller was pinned in 2:47 by Justin Goett at 140. Cody Schiller pinned Marcus Spencer in 53 seconds at 145.

Rosentreter lost a 10-2 major decision to Alex Aldrich at 152.

Thayer lost a 6-5 decision to Eric Mitchell at 160. At 171, Bulldog Drew Wint defeated Evan Grassley 8-7.

At 189, Suffety lost by pin in 3:10 to Dan Magoo.

Rodgers pinned Caleb Williams in 1:57 at 215.

Bulldogs can 10 three-pointers to beat rival on hardcourt

In front of an overflowing crowd of approximately 2,200, Chelsea defeated county rival Dexter 56-46 last Friday night in a key Southeastern Conference White Division contest.

"Regardless of the records, good or bad, it's always a good game," said Chelsea coach Robin Raymond. "It's fun for the kids to play in front of a lot of people."

It's fun especially if one wins.

In the first half last Friday, both teams scratched and clawed for every point and for every rebound befitting a rivalry battle.

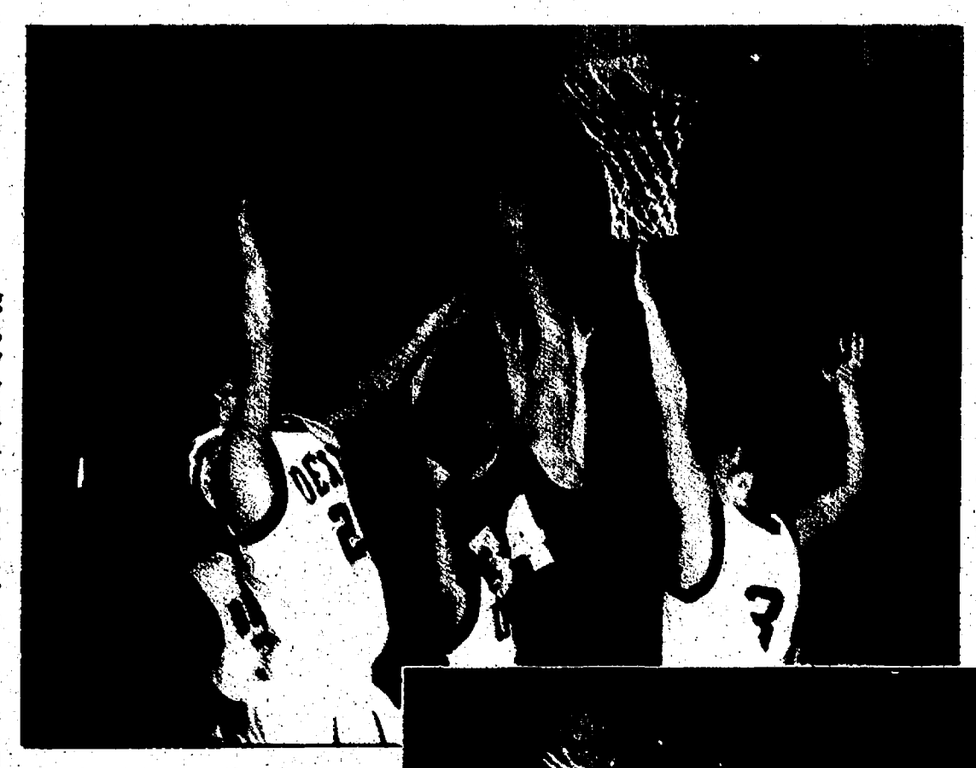
With 16 seconds left in the first quarter, Chelsea junior guard Jon Seelbach drilled a three-pointer, cutting Dexter's lead to 15-12 entering the second stanza.

In the second quarter, a triple by Bulldog junior guard Nate Schwarze closed the gap to 22-21 Dexter with 2:44 left in the first half.

Three straight points by Dreadnaught senior swing player Jeff Ziegler (6-foot-6) increased Dexter's advantage to 25-21 with 2:10 remaining on the first half clock.

The Bulldogs (10-2, 5-1), however, answered, outscoring the Dreadnaughts 6-2 the rest of the second quarter, including a triple by junior guard Micah Hudson (6-2) and two free throws by senior forward John Mantel (6-8), tying the game at 27-27 at the break.

"I personally was disappointed," said Dexter coach Randy Swoverland. "We gave up a couple baskets that allowed them to tie at the half."



Bulldog 6-foot-8 senior forward John Mantel is triple-teamed as he goes up for a shot against Dexter in last Friday's county hardcourt tussle.

Raymond, in contrast, was happy with his club's play in the first half.

"Dexter came out and played well," he said. "Ziegler had 20 points. When a team is so hot early and you're on the road, we wanted to weather the storm. At the half, I felt really well. Dexter had played well and was controlling the tempo, but we were tied."

To begin the third quarter, the Bulldogs took control of the game, exploding for an 11-0 run out of the gate, and forcing a Dreadnaught (7-5, 3-3) timeout. Hudson started the third quarter draining three straight triples, followed by a steal and slam dunk by Mantel to bring the large Chelsea crowd to its feet screaming.

"They (Chelsea) were extremely hot in the third quarter," Swoverland said.

Raymond said the Bulldogs wanted to pick up the tempo in the third quarter.

"They (Dexter) were sagging on defense," he said. "I thought we could get some outside shots. Micah continues to get comfortable with what we're trying to do. He makes good decisions with the ball."

In the third quarter, Chelsea outscored the Dreadnaughts 11-6, taking a 38-33 advantage into the fourth frame.

To start the fourth quarter, Hudson, as he did to begin the third stanza, buried a three-pointer, upping the Bulldogs' lead 41-33.

With 4:11 left to play, Dexter senior guard Jacob Stoll sank a free throw, cutting Chelsea's lead to 44-40. It

Bulldog tankers fall to state power AA Pioneer

Cleary leads Chelsea with a record-setting performance

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

The Chelsea boys' swimming and diving team lost to visiting No. 1-ranked Ann Arbor Pioneer 128-60 last Friday in a dual meet.

"The Purple machine smacked us down pretty well," Chelsea coach Mike Jolly said of the defending state champion and nationally recognized Pioneers. "They ended up breaking two pool records."

To begin the meet, the Bulldog foursome of Dominic Conybeare, Nate Christman, Michael Lawrence and Jake Policht placed third in the 200 medley relay with a time of 2:01.21.

In the 200 freestyle, Rick Kinsey finished second in 1:58.09 for Chelsea. Benji Kellogg was fifth in 2:03.75, while Nick Dyerly was sixth in 2:12.00.

Jordan Skidmore touched third in the 200 individual medley with a clocking of 2:16.12 for the Bulldogs. Lawrence was fifth in 2:32.96, while Conybeare was sixth in 2:36.74.

Nick Armstrong placed second in the 50 freestyle with a time of 23.53 for Chelsea. Andrew Ballow was third in 23.71, while Brett Kruse was fifth in 25.33.

Bulldog Sean Cleary finished first in the one-meter diving competition with a school record 247.40 points. Teammate Eric Massey was second with 134.50 points.

In the 100 butterfly, Skidmore placed fourth in 59.24. Ivan Solovev was fifth in 1:04.68, while Lawrence was fifth in 1:05.02. Pioneer's Sho Koba finished first with a pool record time of 51.58.

Armstrong was second in the 100 freestyle with a clocking of 51.52. Ballow was fifth in 54.27, while Brett Kruse was sixth in 57.38.

Kinsey finished first in the 500 freestyle in 5:05.68. James Bassett ended up fifth in 6:02.38, while Doug Wrathall was sixth in 6:26.15 for Chelsea.

The Bulldog quartet of Armstrong, Ballow, Skidmore and Kinsey touched second in the 200 freestyle relay in 1:35.20.

Conybeare was fourth in the 100 backstroke in 1:08.48. Policht was fifth in 1:20.39, while Todd Kruse was sixth in 1:21.88.

Kellogg finished third in the 100 breaststroke in 1:08.02. Jake Heydlauff was fourth in 1:14.81, while Christman was sixth in 1:19.08.

In the 400 freestyle relay, the Bulldog group of Armstrong, Ballow, Kinsey and Skidmore placed second in 3:32.29. The Pioneer contingent set a pool record with a winning time of 3:18.71.

Chelsea vs. Milan

On Jan. 24, Chelsea traveled to Milan for a tri-meet with the Big Reds and Monroe.

The Bulldogs lost to Monroe 113-72 and to Milan 95-90. The Big Reds lost to the Trojans 120-66.

"We knew going into the match that we didn't match up too well with Monroe," Jolly said. "They had just beat Saline the weekend before, and Saline had beat us soundly. Milan, on the other hand, we could beat, at least on paper."

Jolly said Chelsea had seven different opportunities to beat Milan during the meet, but was unable to pull through on each attempt.

"As a team, we are still struggling with our third guys understanding their importance," he said. "Your top guys are a known going into each meet. It's the outside guy that usually decides a meet in a close situation like this, and we did not execute well."

To start the meet, the Bulldog team of Skidmore, Kellogg, Armstrong and Kinsey finished first in the 200 medley relay with a clocking of 1:46.02.

Ballow was third in the 200 freestyle in 2:00.72, while Wrathall was sixth in 2:05.06.

In the 200 individual medley, Kinsey was fourth in 2:13.23. Kellogg was sixth in 2:19.44, while Solovev was seventh in 2:20.88.

Armstrong finished third in the 50 freestyle with a time of 22.97. Skidmore was fourth in 24.11, while Policht was ninth in 27.92, and Michael Kozma 10th in 29.56.

Cleary placed second in one-meter diving with a score of 205.15 points. Milan's Evan Betts was first with 229.20 points.

Solovev was fourth in the 100 butterfly in 1:02.17. Lawrence was fifth in 1:02.76, while Jon Elordi was 11th in 1:35.77 and Mark Bowdish 12th in 1:40.69.

Armstrong finished third in the 100 freestyle in 50.45. Ballow was fifth in 53.32, while Brett Kruse was eighth in 56.57.

In the 500 freestyle, Kinsey was second in 5:06.39. Bassett was eighth in 5:59.95, while Wrathall was ninth in 6:20.22 and Patrick Shaughnessy 10th in 7:38.78 for Chelsea.

The Bulldog foursome of Brett Kruse, Solovev, Policht and Lawrence placed third in the 200 freestyle in 1:40.24.

Skidmore ended up second in the 100 backstroke with a clocking of 58.19. Conybeare was sixth in 1:10.11, while Todd Kruse was eighth in 1:13.88.

Kellogg finished second in the 100 breaststroke in 1:06.62. Heydlauff was fifth in 1:12.58, while Christman was eighth in 1:17.47.

In the 400 freestyle relay, Chelsea's Kinsey, Ballow, Skidmore and Armstrong placed third in 3:27.28.

The Bulldogs next travel to Southeastern Conference White Division foe Tecumseh for a meet 6:30 p.m. Friday.

On Tuesday, Chelsea visits Brighton for a contest at 6 p.m.

Sports Editor Don Richter can be reached at 475-1371 or at drichter@heritage.com.

Chelsea's Andrew Ballow finished third in the 50 freestyle, with a time of 23.71, in last Friday's dual meet loss against Ann Arbor Pioneer.

Chelsea finishes 1-2-1 at Battle Creek tournament last week

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

Chelsea volleyball traveled west to Battle Creek last Saturday to compete in the Lakeview Invitational.

The trip to the Cereal City wasn't kind to the Bulldogs (20-10-3, 2-2). Chelsea finished the tournament with a 1-2-1 overall record.

In pool play, the Bulldogs defeated Lansing Everett, split with Comstock and lost to the host Spartans.

In the invitational quarterfinals, Chelsea lost to Battle Creek Pennfield, bowing out of the tourney.

Last Thursday, the Bulldogs had better luck against Southeastern Conference White Division foe Ypsilanti Lincoln, sweeping the Railsplitters 25-18, 25-16, 25-23.

Individually for Chelsea, Ann Kendzicky topped the squad with 10 kills.

Sarah Iverson added seven kills for the Bulldogs.

Setter Maggie Dusbiber finished with a team-high 27 assists for Chelsea.

The Bulldogs next travel to SEC Red Division rival Saline for a match 7 p.m. Thursday.

On Saturday, Chelsea visits Ann Arbor Pioneer to participate in its invitational at 8:30 a.m.

On Feb. 9, the Bulldogs travel to county rival Dexter for a match at 7 p.m.

Chelsea upset by Notre Dame

Bulldogs give up season-high seven goals in loss

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

In an upset, Chelsea hockey lost to visiting Pontiac Notre Dame Prep 7-1 last Saturday.

Entering the game, the Bulldogs (13-3-2) were ranked No. 2 in the state in Division III.

"That's the most goals we've given up this season," said Chelsea coach Don Wright. "They're a tough club. They were able to connect on their power plays and we didn't. It came down to special teams. They got the job done, and we didn't."

Of the Fighting Irish's seven goals, three came on the power play. Defensively, Notre Dame held the normally explosive Bulldogs to 1-of-9 on the power play.

"Their goalie played well," Wright said. "On their last three goals, we were pressing to score and they were able to get a few breakaways. The bottom line is we couldn't put the puck in the net."

The Irish opened the scoring as Jordan Jakubiak recorded a power-play goal at 3:55 of the first period.

Two minutes later, however, Chelsea answered as Luc Daniels scored a power-play goal off an assist from Eric Cremer and Schyler Williams.

With 15 seconds remaining in the first period, Notre Dame regained the lead as Dan Schroder scored, giving the Irish a 2-1 advantage and momentum heading into the second period.

In the second stanza, Joe Brewer scored a power-play goal at 13:12 of the period, upping Notre Dame's lead to 3-1.

In the third period, the Irish scored four unanswered goals.

Jakubik scored a power-play goal at the 5:23 mark of the third frame, giving Notre Dame a 4-1 lead.

Bulldog Schyler Williams had one assist in Chelsea's 7-1 loss to Pontiac Notre Dame Prep last Saturday. The defeat was only the third of the season for the Bulldogs.

Less than a minute later, Doug Orzel scored for the Irish, increasing their margin to 5-1.

At the 10:30 mark of the third period, Jakubik scored his third goal of the night for a hat trick, propelling Notre Dame to a 6-1 lead.

The Irish's Tom Ingram ended the scoring with a goal at 12:31 of the third stanza.

Notre Dame out-shot Chelsea 32-31 for the game.

On Jan. 25, the visiting Bulldogs defeated No. 7 ranked Riverview 4-1.

"It was a good win for us," Wright said. "I thought we did a good job. After a tight first period, we made some adjustments. When we had chances (to score), we took advantage of them. It was a good performance, against a strong opponent."

Chelsea began the scoring as Ryan Ruikka beat the Pirate net minder off an assist from Cremer at 12:33 of the first period.

In the second period, Riverview tied the score as Andrew Rasky hit the back of the net.

"It was a fluke goal," Wright said. "Riverview was icing the puck and our goalie went out to get the puck, and it went off a stanchion and into the net."

Despite the unusual goal, the Bulldogs regrouped, scoring on the power play less than a minute later as Cremer turned the lamp on off an assist from Matt Perry and Daniels, giving Chelsea a 2-1 lead.

"The guys didn't get dejected," Wright said of the fluke Riverview goal. "We felt we were playing well."

In the third period, Cremer scored at the 10:22 mark, increasing the Bulldogs' advantage to 3-1. Schyler Williams and Daniels assisted on the goal for Chelsea.

At the 14:02 mark of the third period, Perry scored, converting a pass from Williams, for the night's final margin.

Recording the win in net for the Bulldogs was goalie Josh Cottrell.

Chelsea out-shot the Pirates 20-18.

The Bulldogs next hit the road for four straight games, starting with state-ranked Howell 6 p.m. Saturday at Grand Oaks Arena.

On Wednesday, Chelsea visits Ypsilanti Lincoln for a contest 8 p.m. at the Arctic Edge Arena.

State-ranked Dawgs beat Tecumseh

Herter's 417 series paces Chelsea on lanes against Indians

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

The Chelsea boys' bowling team defeated Tecumseh 19-11 last Thursday.

Junior Austin Herter led the Bulldogs (7-0), ranked No. 10 in the state, with a two-game series of 417 (215-202). Junior Greg VanOrman added a 409 series (191-218), while freshman Jonathan Thompson had a 377 (165-212) and senior Michael Calus a 332 (150-182) for Chelsea.

Adam Keller paced the Indians with a 423 series (210-213).

The Bulldog girls' squad suffered its first defeat of the season, losing to Tecumseh 25-5 last Thursday.

Sophomore Jamie Gipson led Chelsea (6-1) with a 373 series (179-194). Junior Kristen Coulter added a 353 (187-166), while senior Tera McCormick had a 328 (180-148). Senior Sarah Gilley finished with a 312 (167-145), while junior Alicia Lambdin had a one-game 114 for the Bulldogs.

Katie Ryder led the

was as close as the Dreadnaughts would get.

Off the free throw, the Bulldogs responded with an 8-2 run, capped by a three-pointer from junior sniper Mike Sauers. With the basket, Dexter called another time-out, trying to stem Chelsea's momentum.

With 54 seconds remaining, Dreadnaught senior center Rob Zalucki (6-7) scored an inside basket, making the tally 54-44.

Schwarze canned a free throw with 40 seconds left for the night's final margin.

Mantel paced Chelsea with 15 points, including three triples, four rebounds, three assists and two blocked shots.

Hudson added 14 points, including four three-pointers, four boards, three assists and two blocked shots. Schwarze finished with 11 points, five rebounds and four assists, while Sauers had seven points.

Senior center Cam Hawkins (6-2) had four points and five rebounds, while Seelbach had three points and senior forward Robbie Moffett two points for the Bulldogs.

Ziegler led the Dreadnaughts with 28 points, including four triples.

Chelsea finished 18-of-43 from the floor for 42 percent. Dexter was 14-of-38 for 37 percent. The Bulldogs made 10 three-pointers.

"That's the first time in my 28 years that we've made more threes, than twos," Raymond said. "Zalucki was in the lane all night, so it forced us outside."

At the line, the Bulldogs ended up 10-of-16 for 46 percent. The Dreadnaughts were 14-of-16 for 78 percent.

Chelsea committed seven turnovers, while Dexter had 10.

"I was pleased with our low turnover rate," Raymond said.

The Bulldogs out rebounded the Dreadnaughts 28-22, including 8-5 on the offensive glass.

Though Dexter played well, Swoverland wasn't satisfied.

"Overall, there are no moral victories," he said. "We have to win. They (Chelsea) made big shots to win. We shot well and didn't turn the ball over. I was pleased with that."

Chelsea next travels to Adrian for a game 7 p.m. Tuesday.

Freshman Basketball

Chelsea's freshman boys' basketball team defeated host Dexter 61-41 last Friday.

Jake Mantel sparked the Bulldogs (7-5) with 16 points. Michael Lenneman added 14 points, while Tyler Fischhaber had 11 points for Chelsea.

The Bulldogs led 28-16 at halftime.

Entering the fourth quarter, Chelsea increased its advantage to 45-26.

"We talk every game about the first four minutes of the third quarter, and how it will shape the rest of the game," said Chelsea coach Jason Morris. "This was an intense and physical game. Both teams know each other so well. Our bench did a real nice job, because we had a few starters in early foul trouble. Give credit to Dakota Risner, Matt McCalla and Michael Cooper for providing some key minutes."

The Bulldogs next visit Adrian for a game 5:30 p.m. Tuesday.

SWIMMING AND DIVING

Beach evens record with victory

Chelsea's Beach Middle School swimming and diving team improved its overall record to 3-3, defeating host Adrian 108-62 Jan. 23.

The meet began with the Bulldog 200 medley relay foursome of Sarah Daniel, Michelle Kellogg, Olivia DeTroyer and Jaclyn Murphy finishing first. The quartet of Jonathan Skidmore, Pete Kinsey, Andrew Wickens and Evan Phillips placed third for Chelsea. Joe Haroney, Saige Rutherford, Kaitlin Jolly and Donna Prieskorn finished fourth.

In the 200 freestyle, Viran Rana bested the field, placing first, while Claudia Bravo ended up second and Hailey Dixon fifth for the Bulldogs.

Skidmore won the 100 individual medley, followed by Rutherford in second place and Sara Dixon in sixth spot for Chelsea.

In the 50 freestyle, DeTroyer finished second, while Kellogg was fourth and Wickens sixth.

In diving, Beach swept the top three spots. Lauren Dark edged out teammate Michael Heydlauff for first place, while Colby Wrathall finished third.

In the 50 butterfly, Bravo touched second, while Murphy was fourth and Prieskorn sixth for the Bulldogs.

Daniel captured the 100 freestyle, with Kelly O'Keefe third and Julie Beaumont fifth for Chelsea.

The 200 freestyle relay team of Kellogg, Murphy, Rutherford and DeTroyer placed first, nipping teammates Rana, Kinsey, Haroney and Phillips, who placed second.

In the 100 backstroke, Rutherford finished second, while Haroney was third and Devyn Trester fifth for Beach.

Lucy Drinkwater won the 100 breaststroke, followed by Olsen in third place and Kinsey in fifth.

The 400 freestyle relay group of Kellogg, Murphy, Daniel and DeTroyer finished first, while Rana, Skidmore, Haroney and Phillips ended up second and Jacob Bogarin, O'Keefe, Beaumont and Bravo fourth.

Chelsea next participates in the Michigan Interscholastic Swimming Coaches Association meet Friday and Saturday at Plainwell.

pinned Rickey Harrison in 1:26 at heavyweight.

Kargel said the Bulldogs continue to strive for post-season success.

"Our goal is to be district champions," he said. "Our captains are really keeping the team together. Cody (Schiller), Rodgers, Wint and Phil Thayer have been big leaders for us."

Chelsea next hosts Saline 6 p.m. Thursday.

On Saturday, the Bulldogs travel to Holly to participate in its invitational at 9 a.m.

McKenna Fletcher of Chelsea shakes a homemade noisemaker made out of a vitamin bottle.

Riggiee Fischer of Dexter Township works up a sweat drumming away on a Timbau drum.

Their OWN BEAT

Children from Dexter and Chelsea recently had the opportunity to learn rhythm from Lori Fithian of Drummunity. Hands-on, high-energy fun highlighted the event, with more than 150 children and parents participating. The drumming workshop was held through Chelsea Community Education in the cafeteria at the Washington Street Education Center.

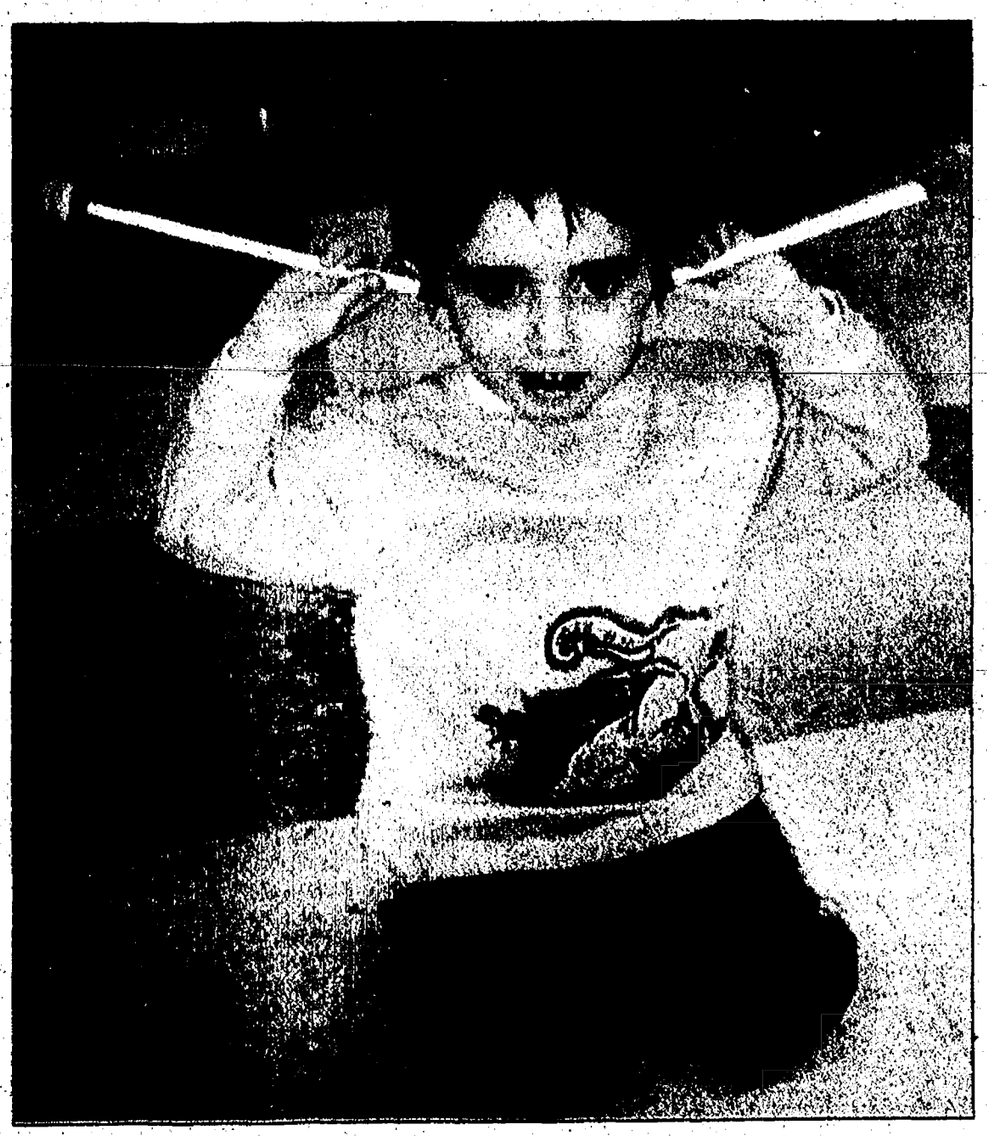
Courtney Emmert of Dexter Township, not even a year old yet, was captivated by the purple shaker and drumstick she used for a teething instead.



Kyle Mitchell is tired of the noise, so he shoves drumsticks in his ears during the activities.

CHELSEA

CCA looking for input on art project

The Chelsea Center for the Arts will host two community forums in February to solicit input from local residents on a proposed public art initiative.

The forums will be held from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Feb. 7 and 15 at the center, 400 Congdon St., in Chelsea.

The Michigan Association of Community Arts Agencies awarded the CCA a $500 planning grant for this year's community partners artist-in-residence project. The program is intended to "strengthen communities by engaging their members in working collaboratively with artists and each other to explore local issues through the process of creating art," according to a press statement from the CCA.

The project is funded in conjunction with the Michigan Council for the Arts and Cultural Affairs.

The proposed project will celebrate the re-opening of the new Chelsea District Library with the proposed theme of "Opening the Doors to Knowledge" and involve the community in exploring how the library, books and learning are central to personal and community growth.

The Chelsea District Library and Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce will serve as project partners. In addition, other partnership opportunities are being developed.

"This is a unique way to bring artists and the people of Chelsea together to commemorate the re-opening of the library and explore how libraries are a bridge within communities," said CCA Executive Director Jennifer Goulet.

The project is to feature the coordination of a public art exhibition of doors — artistically enhanced according to the theme by local artists, families, school groups, community organizations, businesses and others.

The exhibition will be installed in the downtown and other key community locations in Chelsea for several weeks beginning in the late summer.

Plans call for the exhibit to be pedestrian-oriented, and designed to attract visitors to Chelsea and its businesses, restaurants, galleries, theater and shops.

Goulet said the exhibit would be featured as part of this summer's Sounds and Sights on Thursday Nights event organized by the Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce.

A call for artists will be issued in February to begin the process for local artists to be selected to adopt a door and participate in community workshops in late spring and summer.

The center plans to invite community groups such as the Chelsea Painters, as well as galleries, schools and others to adopt a door "to ensure that the diversity of the Chelsea community is reflected in the exhibition," according to the press statement.

The library's Public Art Committee will help the CCA in guiding the project and artist selection process.

The center also plans to partner with the Chelsea library in offering a gallery exhibition and workshop featuring a Michigan children's author-illustrator. The exhibit is also proposed to feature other artworks by the local artists selected for the doors exhibition.

At the end of the exhibition, the doors may be auctioned as a fund-raiser for future public art at the Chelsea District Library and to support future public art initiatives by the CCA.

For more information on how to can get involved, call 433-2787 or e-mail jennifer@chelseacenterforthearts.org.

GRASS LAKE

Dale Fisher to release new photography book

Dale Fisher, renowned photographic artist and longtime Michigan resident, will release his sixth book, "Southeast Michigan — Horizons of Growth," in bookstores this month.

The Grass Lake resident's other books include "Detroit: Visions of the Eagle, "Ann Arbor: Visions of the Eagle," "Michigan: From the Eyry of the Eagle" and "Building Michigan — a Tribute to the Construction Industry."

Fisher is one of the only photographers in the world to work exclusively from a helicopter, transforming landscapes, waterways and structures into works of aerial art. He was trained in aerial reconnaissance photography by the U.S. Navy and has been taking photographs from the air for more than 52 years.

His newest book features beautiful images of the area's most vibrant areas.

"Southeast Michigan is home to an impressive range of service and technology companies, innovative industrial and manufacturing plants, highly respected colleges and universities, busy arts and recreation venues, national sports teams and more. It's a region of promise, strength and diversity," Fisher said are among the reasons he chose the area for his focus.

"But especially from the view of a helicopter, the magnitude of all that has been accomplished becomes incredibly clear. I wanted to share that perspective with others in Michigan so they could also appreciate this area, and brings new businesses here."

The requested change would revise the Zoning Map from C-5 and I-1 to CBD-MU in the area described as:

TAX CODE # 06-06-12-111-001 thru 007
Commonly known as the Clock Tower Complex
North Main St. in Chelsea

The aforesaid hearing will be held in the Board Room, Washington Street Education Center, 500 Washington St., Chelsea, Michigan on Tuesday, February 21, 2006 at 7:30 p.m.

The petition, as filed by McKinley Properties, is on file in the office of the Planning and Zoning Department, 305 S. Main St., Suite 100, Chelsea and may be examined prior to the date of the hearing.

Persons requiring reasonable accommodations to disabilities in order that the hearing be accessible to them, are requested to notify the Chelsea Planning Commission Chairman no later than five (5) business days prior to the date of the hearing of such disability.

SUGARLOAF LAKE IMPROVEMENT PROJECT WASHTENAW COUNTY BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS SECOND PUBLIC HEARING NOTICE

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON THE DESIRABILITY OF IMPLEMENTING A WASHTENAW COUNTY LAKE IMPROVEMENT PROJECT AND THE ESTABLISHMENT OF A SPECIAL ASSESSMENT DISTRICT

TO: ALL THE RECORD OWNERS OF, AND PARTIES WITH INTEREST IN, ANY LANDS WITHIN THE SPECIAL ASSESSMENT DISTRICT DESCRIBED BELOW:

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that the Washtenaw County Board of Public Works (WCBPW) has declared its intention to implement a Lake Improvement Project for Sugarloaf Lake in Lyndon Township in Washtenaw County described as follows:

PROJECT DESCRIPTION

The proposed Project will provide lake improvement to Sugarloaf Lake in Washtenaw County in order to provide control of invasive and nuisance aquatic weeds. The Project shall include chemical application and subsequent spot applications for a five-year period. It shall also include all necessary regulatory approvals and studies for the application.

The total cost of the Project over the five-year period is estimated at $100,000.

The WCBPW has tentatively designated a special assessment district against which all or a part of the cost of such Project is to be assessed, which district consists of the following lands:

All tax parcels identified as having lake access and use of the waters of Sugarloaf Lake located in Sections 31 and 32 in Lyndon Township, Washtenaw County.

Each parcel identified above will be assessed the following amounts based on the type of property (the cost is the total cost for the five (5) year project):

Non-waterfront residential properties with lake access	$ 600
Waterfront residential properties	$1,395

A report describing the Project including program elements and cost estimates has been prepared and is on file with the Washtenaw County Director of Public Works. The report is available for public examination at the Department of Planning and Environment, 705 N. Zeeb Road, Ann Arbor, Michigan 48107. The offices are located on the second floor of the Washtenaw County Western Service Center. To ask questions or obtain information on the project, please call 734 222 5865.

PLEASE TAKE FURTHER NOTICE that the Board of Public Works will meet on Monday, February 13, 2006 at 7:00 p.m., Local Time, or as soon thereafter as may be heard, at the Lyndon Township Hall, 17751 N. Territorial Road, Chelsea, Michigan for the purpose of hearing all interested parties concerning such improvements and the special assessment district.

PLEASE TAKE FURTHER NOTICE that the owner or any person having an interest in property that is specially assessed may file a written appeal with the Michigan Tax Tribunal within 30 days after confirmation of the special assessment roll. However, appearance and protest at the public hearing on the special assessment roll are required in order to appeal the special assessment to the Michigan Tax Tribunal. An owner or a party in interest or his or her agent may (1) appear in person at the hearing to protest the special assessment or (2) file his or her appearance or protest by letter before the close of the hearing.

The Board of Public Works shall maintain a record of parties who appear to protest at the hearing. If the hearing is terminated or adjourned for the day before a party is provided the opportunity to be heard, a party whose appearance was recorded shall be considered to have protested the special assessment in person.

DEATHS

ERNEST WILLIAM WENK
Chelsea

Ernest William Wenk, 91, of Chelsea died Jan. 26, 2006, at the Chelsea Retirement Community. He was born June 9, 1914, in Freedom Township.

Mr. Wenk was a lifelong member of Zion Lutheran Church, a former member of Lutheran Brotherhood of Zion and former church council member.

Mr. Wenk and his father owned and operated a sawmill, which was located just north of the family farm. He enjoyed deer hunting, trapping and fishing.

On Feb. 7, 1942, he married Edna M. Horning, and she survives. Also surviving are two children, William (Marlene) Wenk of Denver and Carolyn (Patrick) McNamara of Ann Arbor; one brother, Norman (Lorena) Wenk of Chelsea; three grandchildren, Brian Wenk, and Ryan and Erin McNamara; sisters-and brother-in-law, Dorothy Wenk of Chelsea, Margaret Horning of Manchester and George and Marian Pickell of Chelsea; and several nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by one son, Kenneth Wenk; two brothers, Elmer and Erwin Wenk; and two sisters, Rubena Loeffler and Edna Burkhardt.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at Zion Lutheran Church. The Rev. Doris Sparks officiated. Burial followed at Zion Lutheran Church Cemetery. The family received friends at the Staffan-Mitchell Funeral Home in Chelsea.

Memorial contributions may be made to Zion Lutheran Church.

GLADYS M. HELEK
Grass Lake
Formerly of Chelsea

Gladys M. Helek, 87, of Grass Lake, formerly of Chelsea, died Jan. 26, 2006, at Cedar Knoll Care Facility. She was born Nov. 1, 1918, in Ithaca, the daughter of Charles and Myrtle (Ebright) Worden.

Mrs. Helek had lived in the area since 1985, coming from Oscoda. She was a member of St. Mary Catholic Church in Chelsea for several years. She retired from the Ann Arbor School District in 1980.

Surviving are two sons, Douglas Helek of Chelsea and Charles B. Rowe of Harrieta; two brothers, Ivan Welch of Bay City and Jack Welch-Garrison of Fair Grove; two sisters, Ruby Martin of Bay City and Betty Jean Koonce of Bloomfield; and four grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by her first husband, Russell L. Rowe, and her second husband, George Helek.

A funeral was held Monday at St. Mary Catholic Church. The Rev. William Turner officiated. Burial was at Washtenong Memorial Park in Ann Arbor.

Memorial contributions may be made to St. Mary Catholic Church. The family received friends at the Staffan-Mitchell Funeral Home in Chelsea.

Daniels' 'Guest Artist' opens at Purple Rose

Artistic director, actor tout play as life-changing experience

By Jennifer Sinkwitts
Special Writer

Jeff Daniels' 10th and latest play, "Guest Artist," is leaving an imprint on those involved behind the scenes and on stage at Chelsea's Purple Rose Theatre Company.

The play, which runs through March 18, has forever changed the lives of Artistic Director Guy Sanville and actor Grant Krause.

It's about a prize-winning playwright, Joseph Harris, who was commissioned to write a play for a small theater in the Midwest. He arrives 3 a.m. at a train station in Steubenville, Ohio, to find a young, eager apprentice, Kenneth Waters, waiting for him.

The playwright is haggard. He hasn't written anything in 10 years, and has found himself lately at the bottom of a bottle. Harris is scared to death, yet he is Waters' hero.

In one morning, their lives are forever changed.

This funny, but deeply disturbing story is about the truth. It's one man's idea about the truth that may haunt you for days, maybe even weeks, Sanville said.

The terrorist attacks of Sept. 11, 2001, are relived, and authority is questioned. It's not a story sugarcoating events or thoughts, he said.

"There are things people will hear that may upset them," Sanville said.

The director has produced 22 plays and this particular production has been the hardest for him.

"It has been really hard because it's really good," he said. "Everyone that has been associated with it is proud to put their name on it.

"I think this is one of our best productions ever."

"Guest Artist" has been in the works for many years. The idea behind the play came to Daniels, a Chelsea High School graduate and renowned actor, when he drove to Toledo, Ohio, in 1996 to pick up Pulitzer Prize-winning playwright Lanford Wilson from the train station. When Daniels saw him walk across the train tracks that day, "Guest Artist" was born.

"'Guest Artist' has what we like to see and what we like to make, and what we look for in a great evening of theater," said Sanville, who lives in Chelsea.

For Krause, a Detroit resident, the images and messages in the play kept him awake at night and tested his acting ability.

"This has been a challenging role for me," he said. "I haven't been allowed to sit back and coast. It has brought me to a different level."

Separating work from home hasn't been easy for the Purple Rose veteran.

"I share a similar point of view as the character. The ideas stay with me all the time," he said. "It takes over everything."

The job of an actor is to reveal something, and "Guest Artist" provides the perfect medium.

"You have to live it to portray it," Sanville said. "There is emotional residue after playing emotional parts. It costs you something."

"Guest Artist" is being billed as a play that will make audiences laugh and cry in the same evening, but also challenge them to think and eventually change their lives.

"I, now more than ever, believe in where I am going as an artist," Sanville said. "Sometimes you begin to doubt yourself, especially if you pay attention to what is happening in the world, or sometimes you wonder if what you do matters. I was at one of those places when I started this play, and I am not there anymore."

Reservations may be made by calling The Purple Rose Theatre Company Box Office at 433-7673.

Players to perform in 'Talking With'

What do an ex-rodeo cowgirl, an aspiring actress, a snake charmer and a bored housewife have in common?

They are all characters in Chelsea Area Players' dinner theater show, "Talking With," which will be performed 6 p.m. Feb. 9, 10 and 11 at Chelsea Community Hospital's dining room.

The play, written by Jane Martin, is a poetic celebration of women through a series of diverse, revelatory monologues by an eclectic array of characters.

It explores the experiences, perspectives and the voices of women, some of which are hilarious, some are soulful, all are poignant.

Characters include a baton twirler, a former rodeo cowgirl, an actress willing to go to any length to get a job, an evangelical snake charmer, a women marked with tattoos, an established actress in her prime, an expectant mother, a homeless woman and a housewife lost in Oz.

Actresses from Chelsea and the surrounding areas came out to audition for the 11 roles in "Talking With." Directors Alisa Bauer, Ty Jacobs, Brad Richert and June Weiland said they were pleased with the turnout at auditions.

"We had enough women to cast the show twice," Weiland said in a press statement.

The roles were filled by Jeannie Ballew, Diane DuRussel, Kristin Heitmeier, Diana Hunt, Denise Kantner, Shannon Kantner, Michelle Lanzi, Shannon McNally, Jessica Rising, Miriam Sass-Zuidveld and Carolyn Szatan.

Some of the cast members are newcomers to Chelsea Area Players, while others are seasoned veterans. None, though, is a stranger to the stage.

Ballew, a book editor and writing coach, and DuRussel are both performing in their second productions for the local theater group. Shannon Kantner, a student at the University of Michigan, is performing for the first time with Chelsea Area Players, but has been acting since she was a young child.

Szatan, a Ferndale resident, is not deterred from the long drive and is back again working with the Players in her third production.

Hunt, Rising and McNally are also repeat performers, and collectively have been in more than nine Chelsea Area Players' productions.

As in the past, the Players' winter show is a dinner theater. It will feature a gourmet dinner and dessert.

Seating for the show begins at 6 p.m., with dinner at 6:30 p.m. and the performance at 7:30 p.m.

Tickets are $30 per person, and tables are set for eight.

Tickets may be purchased in advance at Chelsea Pharmacy, by calling 475-8713 or online at TicketLeap.com.

For more information about "Talking With" or Chelsea Area Players, visit the group's Web site at chelseareaplayers.org.

Seniors Hold Retreat

A group of Chelsea senior citizens participated in a retreat Jan. 12 at the White Oaks Conference Center in Chelsea. They discussed the Chelsea Senior Center's commitment to open its doors to those 50 and older, as well some of the new programming offerings, such as the Adult Learners Institute. Pictured are retreat participants Maryann Myers (left), John Suffron, Sally Leffler-Trachet, Robert Wehrmeister, Dan Ellenwood, Dave Schaible, Deloris Notten, Tony Dickerson, Yvonne Johnson, Arlene Bareis, Gladys Buck, Chuck Schauer, John Bohlender and Laurel McDevitt. City updating master plan

Commissioners working on project with LSL Planning Inc.

By Katie Cooney
Special Writer

The Chelsea Planning Commission is developing an update of the city's master plan and is looking for support from the City Council.

Jim Drolett, Chelsea's planning and zoning administrator, submitted a proposed resolution for the City Council to adopt promising to act on an updated master plan.

"If the council adopts the master plan, there is more legal weight to it," Drolett told the City Council Jan. 24.

The plan was last revised in 2002.

"Our city is going to continue to evolve in very dynamic kinds of ways and the varying perspectives of the council members, I think, are really important in how the document gets updated," said Council Trustee Cheri Albertson.

Chris Rode, chairman of the Planning Commission, was at the meeting to report the outcome of the city's first master plan update meeting, which took place the previous week. He said Brad Strader and Caryn Wenzara of LSL Planning Inc. have done a good job of helping the commission get started.

The commission hopes to have a draft of the first sections of the updated plan at the next master plan meeting March 21.

CHELSEA SCHOOLS

Showcase set Feb. 11

Company C, Chelsea High School's song and dance ensemble, is set to share the stage with three other show choirs from across the state in Showcase 2006. The event will be held 7 p.m. Feb. 11 in the Chelsea High School Auditorium.

"We are honored and excited to have Bedford, Greenville and Detroit Jesuit high schools join us again this year," Steven Hinz, the high school's vocal music director and coordinator of the annual event, said in a press statement.

"It's really a great opportunity for high school students from throughout the state, not only to perform, but to share their love and appreciation of music and dance with each other, and with the community at large. Bringing all of these very talented young men and women together for one big show is truly a thrill."

The production marks the 2006 debut of Company C, an extracurricular ensemble of high school students who explore performance and the entertainment arts through the genres of pop, jazz and musical theater.

The theme behind Company C's portion of the Showcase is "Kidstuff," which includes a mix of traditional and contemporary kid-centered music, in what's expected to be a wacky, fast-paced and fun medley of music and choreography.

"With the supporters of four different high school groups interested in a seat to this one event, tickets may go pretty quickly, so folks really shouldn't wait to get theirs," Hinz said. "No one who appreciates music and dance will want to miss it."

Tickets for the single performance of Showcase 2006 are $10 and are on sale at Chelsea Pharmacy or at the door.

Physician moves practice

One year after opening a pediatric practice in Chelsea, Dr. Scott Moore has moved into a permanent office at 13699 Old US-12.

Moore opened in the new location with a new name for the practice, Moore Pediatrics and Associates.

After purchasing the former TLC building in December and renovating the interior, Moore Pediatrics saw its first patients Dec. 16 at the new location. While Sunday is not part of the regularly scheduled office hours, Moore is often available to see patients after hours as the situation requires.

"I live in Chelsea, so, if I can, it's easy for me to meet a patient at the office if I don't think it should wait until Monday or the next day," Moore said in a press statement.

Moore shares after-hours call with other independent pediatricians in the Ann Arbor area so that a physician is always available to answer questions.

Moore opened his own practice Jan. 16, 2005, citing a desire to practice medicine in a way that allowed him to spend more time with his patients and provide a high level of personalized care.

Moore lives in Chelsea with his wife and three children and was excited by the idea of living and working in the same community.

"I was also not ready to say goodbye to my former patients, and Chelsea is close enough to my former office that the families could have a choice," he said was among the reasons to start a practice in Chelsea. "It was very gratifying when so many families did follow me to the new practice."

Chelsea also allowed Moore to affiliate with St. Joseph Mercy Hospital and the University of Michigan, both of which offer a high level of pediatric care.

After surveying the community and talking to local pediatricians, Moore said he realized that the practices in Chelsea are so busy and enough families drive to Ann Arbor that there was room in the community for another pediatrician.

In addition to Moore, a nurse practitioner, Andrea Duncan, is also available to see patients. Duncan joined the practice in April 2005 and has particular interests in female adolescent medicine and newborn care, especially breastfeeding.

LOVING HOMES NEEDED

SAY HELLO TO BELLA! This beauty is just under 3 years old and a delicate 35 lbs. She's a real sweetie who gives lots of kisses. Her previous owners weren't home enough to give her all the love and attention she needs but she was well taken care of — she is already house trained AND has a microchip! Bella also likes cats, so if you already have a kitty, Bella might be the purrrrfect (get it? :) dog for you! Come meet this sweet girl, play catch with her in the big fenced play area, and see if she's the dog for you.

LISA is a very sweet beagle. She's about 3 and 1/2 years old. She is great with cats, dogs and kids of all ages. Lisa's also altered. Lisa is a great dog that's looking for a second chance in a new home.

BAT is a very fun and playful cat. He is also very cute. Bat is litter box trained. He's also good with other cats. He is about 6 months old. Come down and play with him!

IF YOU'RE INTERESTED IN ADOPTING A PET, PLEASE CONTACT THE SHELTER AT 662-5585 OR COME VISIT US AT 3100 CHERRY HILL, ANN ARBOR.

WASHTENAW COUNTY

Land trust gets grant

The Washtenaw Land Trust's Farmland Protection program has gained critical momentum thanks to a $25,000 from the W.K. Kellogg Foundation in Battle Creek.

"Most people don't realize that agriculture is Michigan's No. 2 industry, second only to manufacturing," Susan Lackey, executive director of the Washtenaw Land Trust, said in a press statement.

"As noted in a recent Michigan Land Use Institute analysis, the farm industry contributes $59 billion to the state's economy every year, and provides one million jobs. Yet despite this, its base of farmland is disappearing at an unprecedented rate."

The grant supports a two-phase effort to protect key farmland in Washtenaw County. The program will focus on direct farmland preservation projects and related farm community outreach efforts.

The goals are twofold: to acquire development rights on two key farm parcels owned by farm families in the southern part of Washtenaw County and to continue investing in the farm community momentum toward sustaining the local agricultural land base and a regional agricultural economy.

The land trust had been awarded federal farmland protection challenge grants to protect the two strategic farm parcels. The purchase of development rights on the two projects totals $877,000, preserving more than 110 acres of farmland in Bridgewater and York townships. The Kellogg grant provides a portion of the match for the projects.

The properties are strategically located in the region, Lackey said. The 43-acre farm parcel in York Township is located in the Saline River watershed and adjacent to 215 acres that were preserved in 1999 by the Washtenaw Land Trust and the state PDR program. The property is only half mile away from a state fish hatchery and near other farms that have their lands in the Public Act 116 program, she said.

In addition, the farm has diversified operations that range from raising cattle to grains and hay. The property owner is actively seeking to preserve the entire farm, of which this is a first phase, Lackey said.

The farm parcel in Bridgewater Township is 69 acres and contributes to a 200-plus head Holstein dairy operation that has been in the family for generations. This farm is also near other farms that have lands in the PA 116 farmland protection program.

"Farmland protection is critical not only to our sense of place, but also from an economic standpoint," Lackey said.

"We want to make sure that farmers know that there are options available if they want to keep their land open and productive."

STATE

Bill would go after 'deadbeat' employers

Bill requires large employers to contribute to Medicaid program

By Emily Burton
Heritage Newspapers

Health care in the United States has become a serious and important issue, according to state Sen. Raymond Basham, D-8th District.

So much so that he says it requires legislative action.

Senate Bill 734, called the Fair Share Health Care Fund Act, would require employers with more than 10,000 employees to contribute at least 8 percent of payroll for medical assistance under the state's Medicaid program.

Employers who fail to contribute would be guilty of a civil penalty and could face a fine of $250,000.

A nearly identical measure became law Jan. 12 in Maryland after that state's Legislature overrode a veto of the bill by Gov. Robert Ehrlich.

Measures to set up similar funds in Arizona and California died, while those introduced in Connecticut, Kansas, Kentucky, Massachusetts, Minnesota and Washington are under consideration.

Basham said his legislation is necessary because some corporations in Michigan are not providing adequate, affordable health care to their employees. That is causing many of those employees to turn to Medicaid, which Basham said is costing taxpayers and the state money.

"In Michigan, 18 companies have greater than 10,000 employees," he said. "Of those 18, four are abusing the system. They are encouraging their workers to be on Medicaid.

"One company alone is costing the state's resources $46 million per year."

Basham said state law prohibits him from identifying the employer.

But he pointed to one major employer as indicative of the need for the fund in Michigan. He said that more than 15 percent of Wal-Mart's 30,181 employees in Michigan are on Medicaid.

Basham said the cost to large corporations to contribute to the healthcare fund would be minimal.

Kathy Hobbs, a spokeswoman for Wal-Mart's federal government relations office in Washington, D.C., said such laws are harmful to working families. She said the laws "don't address the issue of the soaring cost of health care in America," and that they will lead to a loss of jobs.

"These legislatures are sending the message that they are unfriendly to business with these actions," Hobbs said. "These restrictions are arbitrary, because they don't address the issue of health care. They single out large employers like Wal-Mart."

She said a majority of Wal-Mart employees nationwide have health care.

According to a company statement, more than three-fourths of the Wal-Mart's 1.3 million employees have health insurance through a company plan, a spouse's

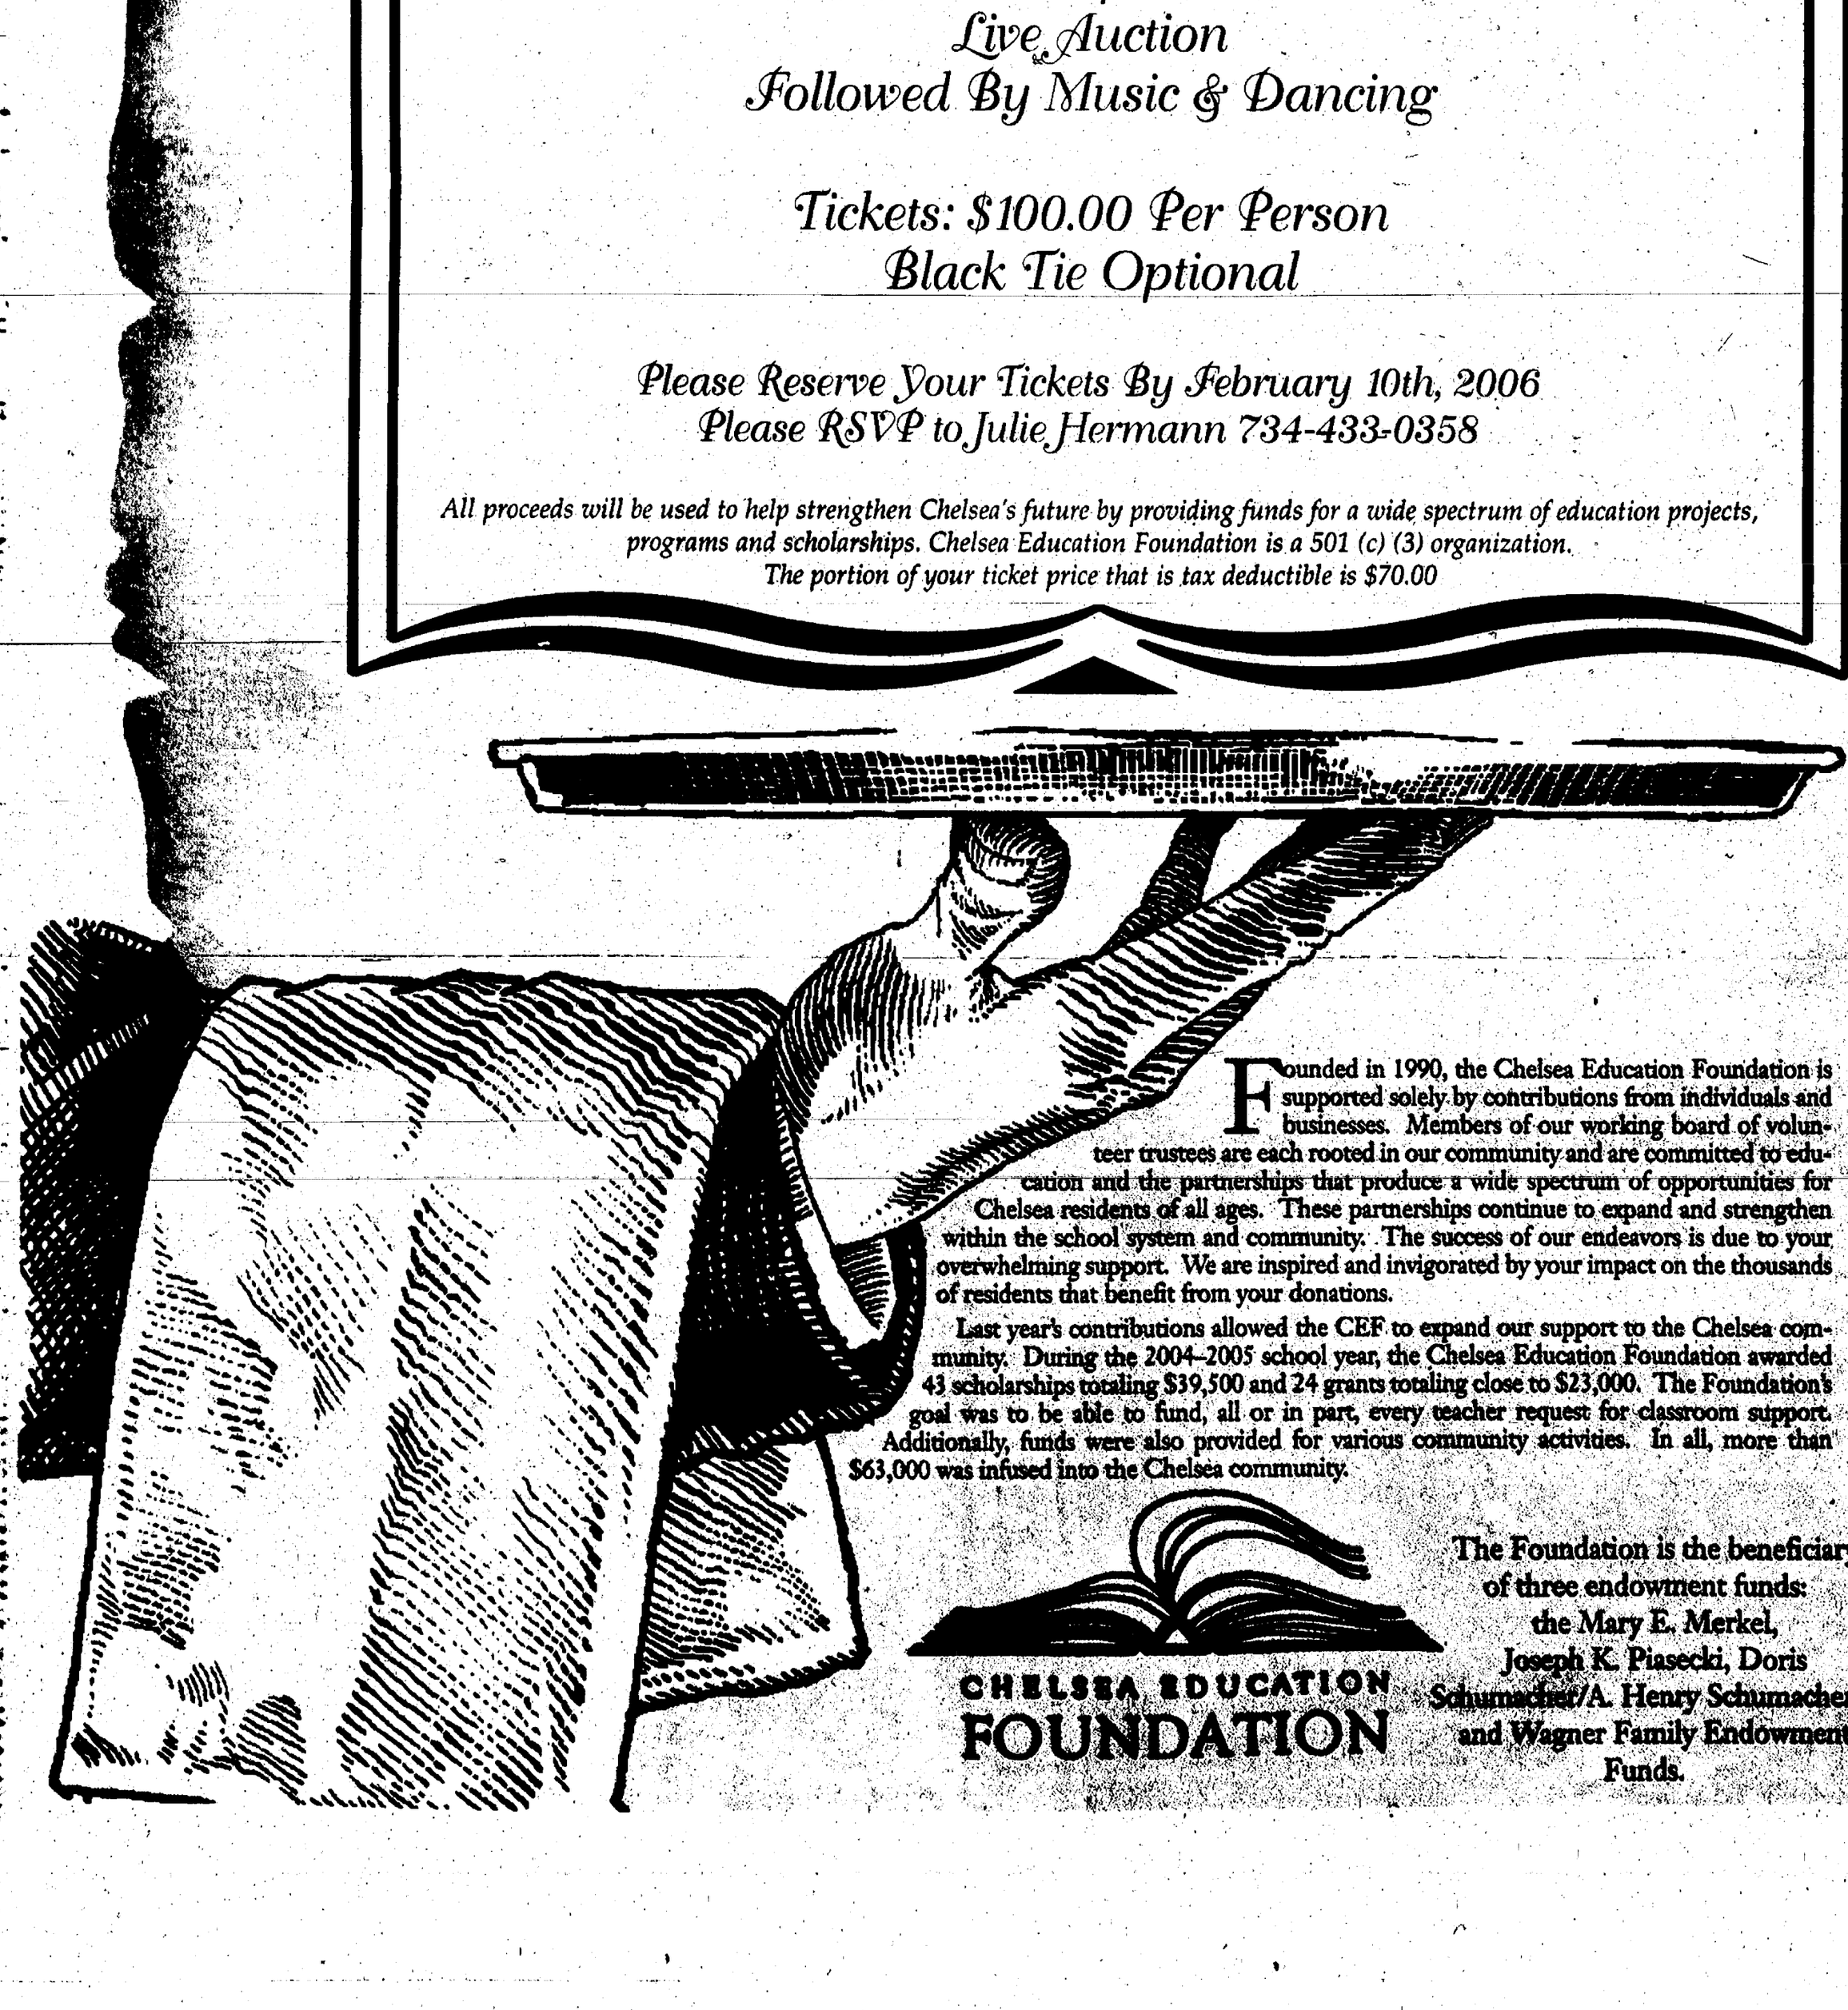
All proceeds will be used to help strengthen Chelsea's future by providing funds for a wide spectrum of education projects, programs and scholarships. Chelsea Education Foundation is a 501 (c) (3) organization. The portion of your ticket price that is tax deductible is $70.00



Founded in 1990, the Chelsea Education Foundation is supported solely by contributions from individuals and businesses. Members of our working board of volunteer trustees are each rooted in our community and are committed to education and the partnerships that produce a wide spectrum of opportunities for Chelsea residents of all ages. These partnerships continue to expand and strengthen within the school system and community. The success of our endeavors is due to your overwhelming support. We are inspired and invigorated by your impact on the thousands of residents that benefit from your donations.

Last year's contributions allowed the CEF to expand our support to the Chelsea community. During the 2004–2005 school year, the Chelsea Education Foundation awarded 43 scholarships totaling $39,500 and 24 grants totaling close to $23,000. The Foundation's goal was to be able to fund, all or in part, every teacher request for classroom support. Additionally, funds were also provided for various community activities. In all, more than $63,000 was infused into the Chelsea community.

CHELSEA EDUCATION FOUNDATION

The Foundation is the beneficiary of three endowment funds: the Mary E. Merkel, Joseph K. Piasecki, Doris Schumacher/A. Henry Schumacher, and Wagner Family Endowment Funds.

POLICE BLOTTER

Scio Township

Home Invasion

A 12-week-old pit bull terrier was stolen Jan. 10 during a break-in at a home in Scio Farms Estates, 6655 Jackson Road. The 19-year-old owner of the female puppy told police the thief entered his home between 6 and 8 p.m. Nothing else appeared to have been stolen.

Property Damage

Police believe someone used a BB gun to shoot out the back passenger window of a 1996 Saturn Jan. 21. The victim, a 20-year-old Scio Township woman, told police she was turning onto Sagebrush off Scio Ridge Road when she heard something hit and shatter the window.

Check Fraud

A 49-year-old township woman told police Jan. 13 that a check had come up missing from her checkbook. Later that day, sheriff's deputies found that the stolen check had been made out to "cash" for $150 and passed at the Meijer store at 5645 Jackson Road.

At the store, deputies retrieved the check, finding that the woman's name had been forged. A man who is a friend of the victim's son endorsed the check, according to police reports. The investigation is ongoing.

Larceny

In two separate incidents, MP3 players were reported stolen from the boys' locker room at Dexter High School, 2200 N. Parker Road.

On Jan. 21, during a wrestling meeting, a 14-year-old Chelsea boy's MP3 player was reportedly stolen from an unlocked locker at the high school.

Also, on Jan. 18, a 13-year-old Dexter youth who was attending an after-school weightlifting class at Dexter High School reported that his iPod was stolen from his bag in the locker room.

In both cases, the electronic devices were left unsecured in the locker room. Sheriff's deputies advised both students and their parents against leaving valuables unlocked at school.

Chelsea

Larceny

An 89-year-old woman's daughter told police Jan. 22 that her mother's false teeth had been stolen from her room at the Chelsea Retirement Community, 805 W. Middle St. The upper and lower dentures were valued at $1,500, according to police reports.

Dexter Village

Breaking and Entering

Rolls of aluminum valued at up to $800 were stolen from All Seasons Seamless Gutters, 2117 E. Bishop Circle.

Several trucks parked in the lot were broken into between Jan. 20 and 23. The firm's owner told police that scrap aluminum had also come up missing in recent weeks from the company's scrap bins, but he had not reported it to police because it was small quantities.

Larceny

Thieves stole the wheels off of three new vehicles in the early morning hours of Jan. 20 at LaFontaine Chevrolet, 7120 Dexter-Ann Arbor Road. The dealership's general manager told police the wheels, stolen from two Trail Blazers and a Monte Carlo, were valued at $15,000 together.

The manager said the incident is similar to one that happened in the fall.

Dexter Township

Home Invasion

An 80-year-old woman who left her home in the 12000 block of North Territorial Road for about 90 minutes during the morning of Jan. 20 came home around noon to find that someone had broken in and stolen her jewelry.

A burglar pried open the side door of the house and entered, stealing an undetermined amount of jewelry and possibly other items, according to police reports. Damage to the door was reported to be $500.

Dessert Performance Set

Brendan Bachman, Thomas Cook, Bridgit (Rutz) Cook and Jenna Crawford will perform in Dexter Community Players' dessert benefit performance of "I Love You, You're Perfect, Now Change" by Jimmy Roberts and Joe DiPietro. The musical comedy celebrates the modern day mating game through a variety of songs and sketches. The four-person cast will portray more than 60 characters reflecting on relationships and romance. Performances are set 8 p.m. Feb. 10, 11, 17, 18 at the Mill Creek Middle School Auditorium. Tickets are $15 if bought in advance and $20 at the door. The price includes dessert and coffee. For more information, visit the Web site www.dextercommunityplayers.com.

SCIO TOWNSHIP

Blaze destroys business

A fire that broke out Jan. 14 at Littlefield & Sons Furniture Services injured a worker there and destroyed the building.

The cause of the blaze is yet to be determined, officials said.

Firefighters responded to the building at 111 Enterprise Drive near Jackson Road around 11 a.m. and found flames and heavy black smoke billowing from the structure.

An employee told officials the fire broke out in a room containing paints, lacquers and solvents. That employee, an Ypsilanti man, was taken to the University of Michigan Medical Center in Ann Arbor, where he was treated for burns to his hands and body.

Officials said he was the only person in the building when the fire ignited. Interviewed by police at the scene, the worker told officials that he grabbed a fire extinguisher and tried to put out the fire by himself, but the flames quickly got out of control.

The metal structure that housed the furniture business is a total loss, officials reported. The building's owner, Linda McCall of Ann Arbor, said it was erected in the 1970s and is valued at $300,000, according to reports.

Firefighters from the Dexter, Chelsea, Saline and Ann Arbor Township fire departments assisted the Scio Township Fire Department in putting out the blaze. The fire was totally extinguished by 2:45 p.m., officials said.

Knox named fraternity president

A Chelsea High School graduate's leadership qualities were recently recognized when he was elected among the 2006 leaders of an Albion College Greek fraternity.

David Knox, the son of John Knox and Alison Bullard of Gregory, has been elected president of Sigma Chi fraternity. He is a junior majoring in art.

"The entire fraternity chooses its leaders from among its most dedicated and responsible members," Samuel Centellas, director of Greek Life at Albion College, said in a press statement. "Holding a leadership position is an honor for any member."

JACKIE HARRISON-MARTIN

Do your very best.

Try to be fair.

Always let the positive things in life outshine the negative.

Those are the things I try to stand by personally and professionally. The latter part of that motto was really tested the other day.

I got a letter from a resident who aggressively questioned my commitment to all of those things. It probably was the most unkind letter I've ever received.

But journalists, in particular, are subject to that kind of criticism, warranted or not. Sometimes, criticism crosses the line into personal attacks.

The letter writer, who went so far as to question my Christianity, and I had an engaging conversation. In the end, we agreed to disagree on several issues.

Every now and then, someone crosses the line. One reporter had a package of feminine products sent to her because the sender didn't like a story she wrote.

Another reporter had his name posted on a Web site stating that he was a stalker. The writer was angry because the reporter called a girl at her home for comment for a story.

And calls went all the way to this newspaper's corporate offices in an attempt to get an editor fired because the reader didn't agree with a column that was written.

We've just about seen it all here at Heritage Newspapers.

Sometimes it's a bit of a challenge, but as I told the letter writer, a multitude of positive things should never be upstaged by the negative.

Choosing to embrace that spirit, this letter falls well short of overshadowing the many positive remarks and acts of kindness so many area residents have shown not just to me, but to one another as well.

Area schoolchildren are the absolute best. There is nothing more rewarding than getting letters from students thanking you for visiting their school, talking to their class or giving them a little publicity for work they have done.

It just makes every negative thing pale in comparison.

I wrote a column once about an elderly woman who worked at a department store. She angered a customer because she wasn't very fast. Unfortunately, she was working in the express lane.

The customer cursed at the senior citizen, downright humiliating her. The next thing I knew, the cashier had tears streaming down her face, but she kept right on working.

After that column ran, a reader sent me a letter saying how touched she was reading about her, and that she and a group of her friends wanted to contact the cashier. They offered to take her out to lunch.

Last year, readers came to the financial and emotional aid of an 86-year-old man with medical problems who had his wallet stolen while grocery shopping.

One reader sent him a check for $300 — a lot more than what was in the wallet at the time.

After reading about a young newspaper carrier who donated his earnings to the stranger, his supervisor tracked the youngster down and gave the youngster a check for the amount he donated, commending his unselfish act.

I have come in contact with some of the finest and most professional people covering cities, townships and school districts over the past 17 years.

There is a superintendent who has media relations down to a science. He always asks about my family, returns every telephone call and has left some of the absolute funniest voice mail messages known to man.

There is a principal who loves children and his school so much that he is a superhero to them, and he even has a Captain Underpants costume to prove it.

There is a police chief who dubbed me "Mrs. Colombo," because during every telephone interview, I always come up with one more question as he's about to hang up the phone.

There is police sergeant who begins and ends every conversation with a funny joke, and a former mayor who put so much "off-the-record" trust in me he's often said, "She knows where all the bodies are buried" in his city.

I've probably called all of these people, and many more, at one time or another when the last person they wanted to talk to was someone from the media. Somehow, we managed to work through just about everything.

Who knows, maybe one day even the letter writer and I can agree to a professional truce. It would be the epitome of putting a positive spin on a situation that spiraled out of control.

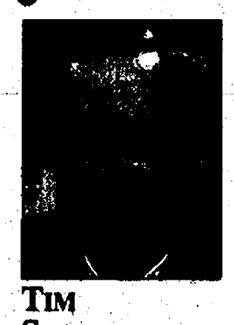
Granholm administration practicing 'fuzzy math'



TIM SKUBICK

If you do not have an advanced degree in math, by the time this race for governor is over, you'll need one.

Without it, nobody knows who is telling the truth on jobs created and jobs lost.

Gov. Jennifer Granholm, in her immensely upbeat assessment Jan. 25 of where the state is headed, boasted that during her three years on the job, there was a net job gain of 99,000. Pretty impressive number, but her team could not immediately do the math to show how they arrived at that figure.

It seemed like a simple request.

"We don't know" was the puzzling response when one of her handlers was asked to provide the job lost number. Another insider confessed she didn't have the figures, either.

Come on, gang. Somebody must have the silly number. If not, how did anyone deduce that the net gain was 99,000?

Could it be that the job loss figure was so astronomical that it would have thwarted the governor's attempt to put on an economic smiley face for her radio and TV audiences?

This is not the first time the media has gone round the mulberry bush on the administration's jobs record. Months ago, a representative tossed out so many different numbers from so many different sources it was impossible to make heads or tails out of any of it.

With this being the No. 1 issue in the contest for governor, the capital press corps does not have to apologize for wanting to know where the 99,000 figure came from.

The Richard DeVos for Governor campaign believes it popped up out of thin air. Not surprisingly, it contends there's been a net job loss of 150,000 and suggests you can find that number at, of all places, a state government Web site.

The two sides cannot agree on which stats should be used. The front office prefers the so-called household not the non-farm payroll job figures — whatever that means.

Adding to the debate, the state GOP is hauling a Granholm job-loss clock all over the state. As it ticks merrily along, the Republicans contend one job has been lost every 10 minutes this governor has been in her job.

At least they provide a formula, convoluted as it is, to show how they arrived at the bottom line.

But Granholm defenders claim that the job loss every 10 minutes is misleading because, remember, she has a net job gain.

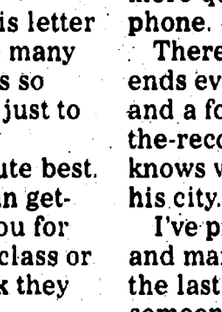
It's about time, Ford



GARY GOSSELIN

Massive job cuts and more than a dozen plant closings by Ford Motor Co. are a sad commentary but necessary and indicative of the U.S. auto industry.

As depressing as the massive cuts by Ford are, they are a necessary next step for a company that still faces a dwindling market for its products and follows similar moves by General Motors and Chrysler Group.

The No. 2 automaker's announcement Jan. 23 of 25,000 to 30,000 job cuts — including 1,433 hourly and 134 salary employees at Wixom — reflects the company's 21 percent overcapacity and dwindling percentage of the U.S. market.

"This is disappointing news for Michigan and for the Michigan families who are most affected by this announcement, but I believe that the tough business decisions announced this morning will help the company regain its financial footing so it can continue to be an industry leader for decades to come," Gov. Jennifer Granholm said in a statement.

The UAW says Ford should focus on selling more cars rather than making these cuts, which, while the optimum idea, is something Ford and GM have not yet figured out how to do.

Ford's domestic market share is at 17.4 percent with 2.9 million vehicles, substantially lower than 15 years ago, when it had 24 percent market share. The company is operating at 79 percent capacity, meaning it's paying to keep 21 percent of its plants and employees operating.

Hoping sales will increase is just not an option anymore, and the sooner the UAW and Ford get that, the sooner they can concentrate on what they have instead of what they want and start making vehicles Americans want to buy.

"It's a sad day, but it's a day that's been postponed for too long. Ford has been losing money on some of its operations for far too many months," said Patrick Anderson, founder of Lansing-based Anderson Economic Group, a business consulting firm. "There's overcapacity in this market, and you can't make money operating lines that make four cars for every three that you sell.

This is the third plan Ford has had since the late 1990s, and the company already has cut about 35,000. But this time it looks like Ford may finally "get it."

The game changed in October, Anderson said, when Delphi filed bankruptcy, something many in the industry said could never happen to an offspring of GM.

It did, and it has sent a ripple of urgency through the industry, and it's no coincidence that Ford started planning its "Way Forward" about the same time as the Delphi bankruptcy.

These cuts represent about a 25 percent reduction, which finally should bring the company in line with its smaller footprint in the marketplace.

"I don't see a lot of surprises here. It's all about execution, I think, first and foremost designing and building cars that will stabilize their market share. That's the emphasis of this report," said Dana Johnson, vice president and chief economist at Comerica Bank Detroit. "You have to deal with reality. Market share is what it is, and you have to have a company that reflects that."

There was a time, back in the late '70s and early '80s, when the Big Three faced similar problems with poor quality and stale products combined with competition.

Deja vu all over again.

The companies have relied too heavily on trucks and sport utility vehicles with their high profits and neglected many other products while foreign nameplates were more than happy to fill the niche with snazzier and/or better packages.

The energy crunch was apparently a huge surprise, and this fundamental shift to a global marketplace has caught them flat-footed.

Like the '70s, though, they are responding, if somewhat late, and are coming out with competitive vehicles and reducing costs. In addition, both Ford and GM have been steadily improving overseas operations, with GM now posting the largest sales in China and Ford growing 42 percent in the Chinese market last year.

"GM and Ford are right to expand capacity and invest in markets that are growing for them. They're doing in Asia what Toyota and Honda did in the U.S. 20 years ago," said Anderson. "Having GM and Ford sell more cars in China is a good thing for Michigan, because a lot of the intellectual value and value added for that is right there in Michigan."

If Ford doesn't get caught up in too many distractions and can concentrate on product, price and service, it should be able to stabilize its market share in the United States, then tackle business growth one day — or one country — at a time.

There has been precedent set, now it's just follow-through.

Service Award Winner

The One World One Family task force received the annual Martin Luther King Jr. Service Award Jan. 15 from Church of the Good Shepherd in Ann Arbor. Allie Suffety (right), chairman of the Chelsea task force, accepted the award. Joanne Ladio (left), a member of both groups, had told church friends how One World One Family pushed for the Martin Luther King Jr. holiday and was active in diversity events in the community. The Good Shepherd committee selected One World One Family because it teaches about diversity and works for equality, as King did.

Will somebody please pass the truth serum?

The back and forth on jobs goes to the very heart of the race for governor. The DeVos folks want to blame the governor for the sorry state of the Michigan economy. But in her address, she pointed at the Bush White House.

"No state can fix this problem," she lamented while adding, "Washington must be our partner ... not a bystander."

Democrats in the audience went nuts. Republicans did not.

If the current polling data holds up, by a 2-to-1 margin most Michigan voters blame President George W. Bush for the lousy economy, not Granholm.

But remember, the DeVos gang has not yet begun to fight as they hope to pin the tail on her.

Which brings us to you. You will have to decide who is right, but grab your handy dandy calculator and start work on that math degree before you do.

STATE

Granholm's speech attracts locals

When State Representative Pam Byrnes, D-52nd District, found out she would be allowed to bring two guests with her to the governor's State-of-the-State address, she knew immediately whom she would ask to join her.

"I wanted to recognize Paul Bishop and Paul Cousins for their tireless work on behalf of the community of Dexter," Byrnes said in a press statement. "Thanks to them, Gordon Hall is now the future home of the Dexter Area Historical Society, a winery and a small retirement community. I thought inviting them to attend the State-of-the-State address would be the perfect way to show my appreciation for their efforts."

Bishop is a local businessman, trustee on the Chelsea Community Hospital Board and former Dexter Village president. Cousins is a Dexter Village Council trustee, retired schoolteacher and former owner of Cousins Heritage Inn.

Both Bishop and Cousins were thrilled to see Granholm deliver her address live Jan. 25 in front of lawmakers and other state dignitaries.

"The governor is such a dynamic speaker," Cousins said. "And it was great privilege to be a part of the action on the House floor."

Added Bishop, "Even though preserving Gordon Hall is thanks enough, it was an unexpected treat to be asked by the representative to come with her to the State of the State. We had a great time."

Byrnes said she applauded the governor's message emphasizing her pledge to create jobs and strengthen education.

"Governor Granholm is dedicated to improving our economic climate and offering our kids high-quality educational opportunities," Byrnes said. "She and I agree that those issues are Michigan's priorities and what we will fight for in 2006."

As for Gordon Hall, plans are moving ahead to restore the building. Bishop said the historical society will continue to seek donations for that effort. He added that the Vinosity winery and United Methodist Retirement Communities of Chelsea, which also will be located on the property, will provide the steady income that the historical society will need to maintain the property.

Gov. Jennifer Granholm delivered her State-of-the-State address Jan. 25 in Lansing. Dexter residents Paul Cousins and Paul Bishop were among the guests invited to attend.

plan or Medicare.

Hobbs said Wal-Mart offers 18 different healthcare plans to its employees, both full and part time.

She said the plethora of legislation around the country is the result of an attack campaign by special-interest groups.

"Certainly there are union leaders intent on attacking major employers like Wal-Mart," Hobbs said. "These proposals affect everyone. These initiatives are the result of a multimillion-dollar campaign by union leaders.

"The vast majority of politicians introducing these policies are linked to labor unions. That's why these mandates are not about health care; they are about politics, and about bad politics."

She said Wal-Mart is working hard to ensure all employees have access to health care, but more discussion about the issue is needed.

"We need to take a comprehensive look at the health care situation in America," Hobbs said.

"But that can't be done by singling out employers and especially those who are working to provide health care coverage. And, we're willing to work with legislators on this issue."

SB 734 was referred to the Committee on Commerce and Labor in September, where it has yet to have a hearing.

Basham said his bill likely will never get a hearing because of partisan politics.

"The only thing I can do is try to drive the debate on health care," he said. "And, that's what my legislation, hopefully, does is drive the debate on health care."

FAITH fosters Creativity

NEED TO KNOW

A workshop for local writers will kick off Saturday with a presentation by University of Michigan professor and poet Keith Taylor at the Chelsea Center for the Arts, 400 Congdon St., in Chelsea.

Writers of poetry, novels, creative non-fiction, short stories, plays and other literature are welcome to read excerpts, give and receive feedback from other writers, and share information on writing contests, competitions, classes and conferences.

The spring workshop will meet from 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. every other Saturday through May 27. A second workshop is planned for the fall.

Registration is $60. Call 433-2787 to register.

Local poet helps sponsor workshop for writers

A third-grade teacher's praise for his poem started Brad Tompkins off on a lifelong search for his muse.

"It was a thrill to be recognized like that for something so easy for me to do," Tompkins said.

The poet, whose work has appeared in several publications, is also helping to sponsor an upcoming writers workshop series at the Chelsea Center for the Arts, starting Saturday.

It's a long way from that third-grade classroom in Goshen, Ind.

"I have always loved language and learning," Tompkins said. "For most of my life, poetry has been a background enjoyment. There is great pleasure in taking my experiences, impressions and ideas, and transforming them from nothingness into sounds and ink.

Tompkins, a 1971 Chelsea High School graduate whose father taught industrial arts at Chelsea High School, was introduced to poetry in a creative writing class at Kalamazoo College taught by poet Philip Schultz.

"It was there that I learned I could write poems that not only expressed what I felt, but others identified with and enjoyed as well," he said. "Schultz showed how to weed out unnecessary words, images and ideas — no matter how attached to them a writer is — and reduce a poem or story to its essential, bare essence.

"It is hard to do the right thing with a poem," he said. "Letting go of a favorite phrase or creation can be painful, but the final, polished product is worth it."

After a couple of years teaching sixth grade in Minnesota, Tompkins attended Tennessee Temple University and earned a bachelor's degree in English and classical Greek.

While in college, he won prizes for poetry and essays, and during his senior year, served as president of the writing club and editor of the university literary magazine, The Well-Tempered Pen.

His own pen lay silent for much of the following decade, during which he and his wife, Kathy, moved to Chelsea. That was until Doug Smith invited local poets to give readings at Smith's now-defunct Little Professor bookstore.

"After the poets read, Doug gave a chance for people to read their own poems in an open mike forum," Tompkins said. "I dusted off some of my stuff and was greatly encouraged by the audience's response. I began writing poems again."

On his birthday, Sept. 28, 2001, Tompkins and local writer Marijo Grogan were invited to be featured poets at Smith's gathering.

"I published a little chapbook for the occasion," Tompkins said.

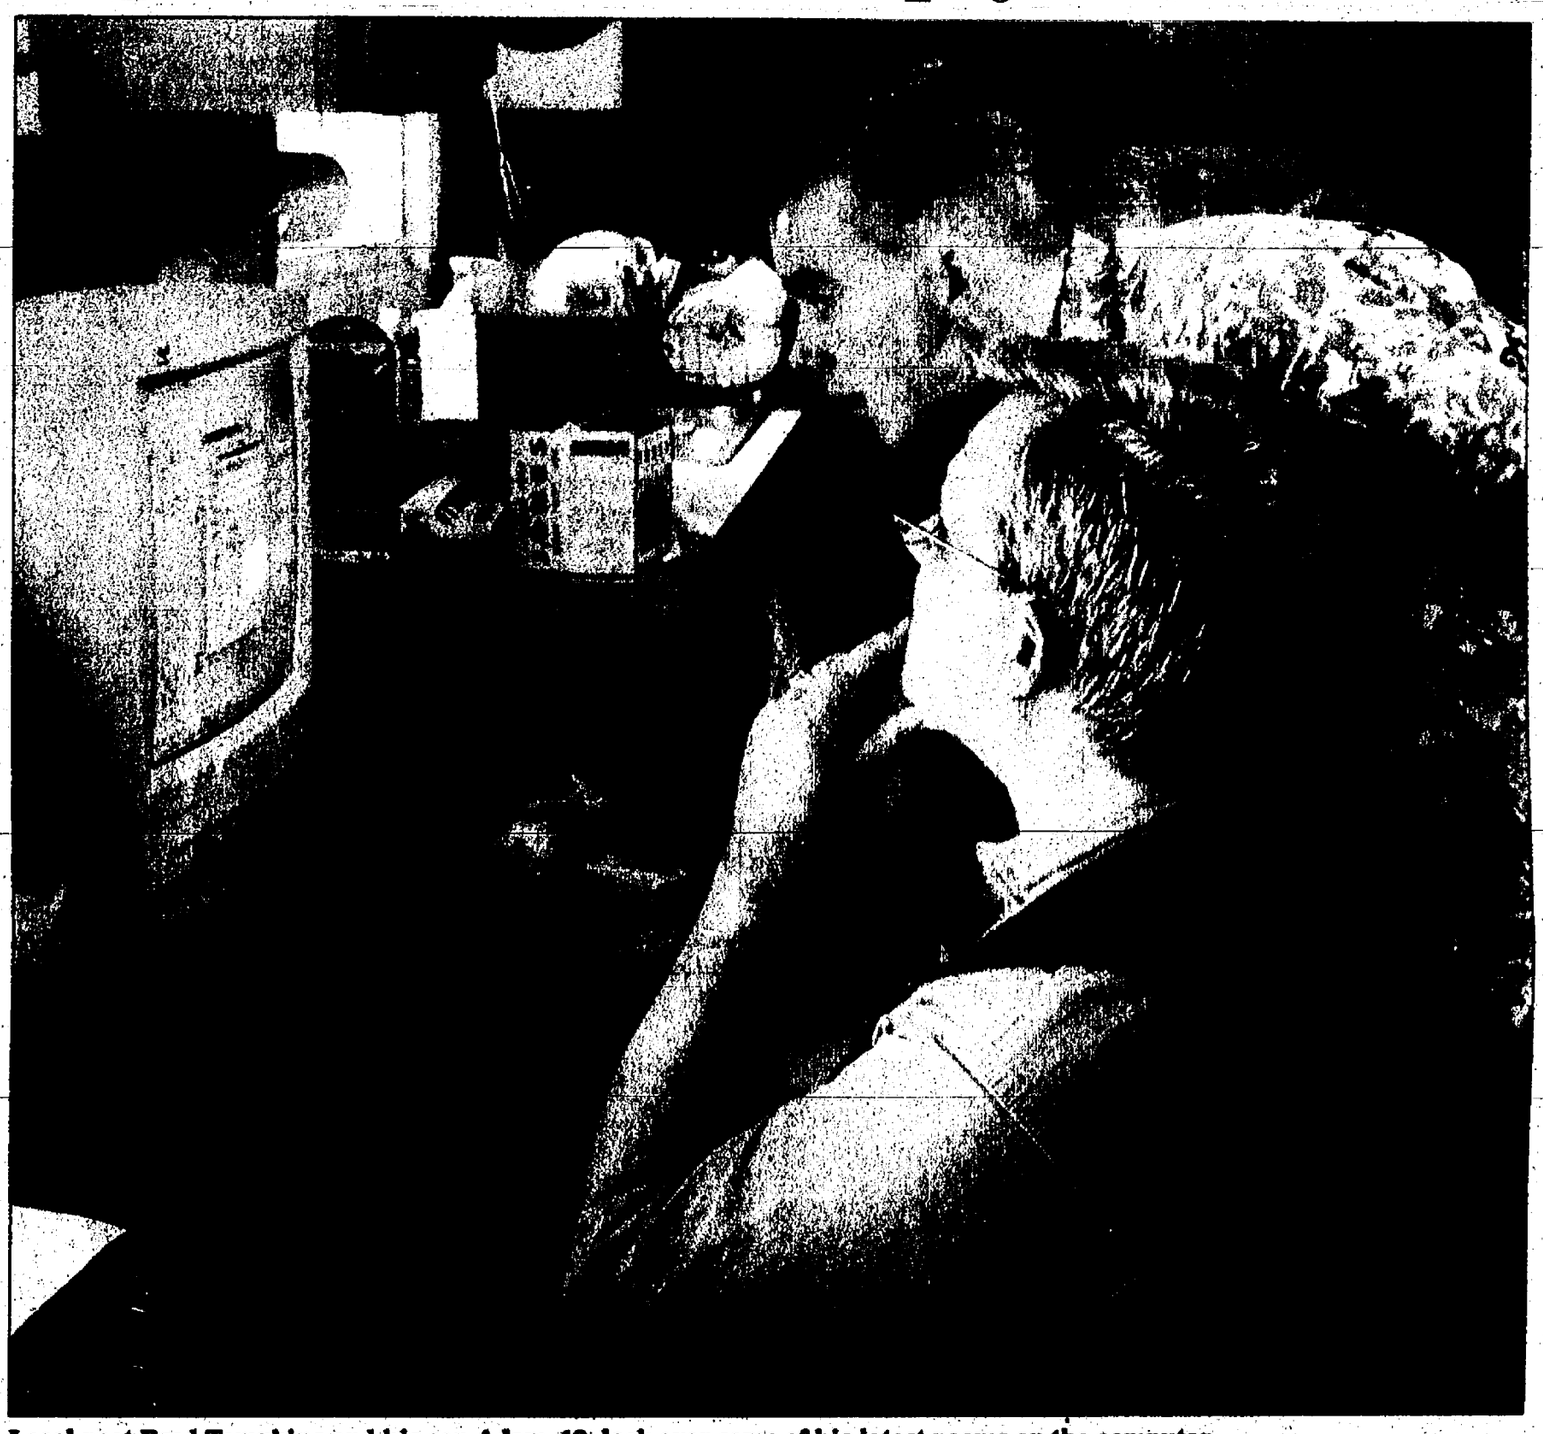
"I won several honorable mentions in the Chelsea Poetry Contest and second place for my poem 'Go Again' in that contest's last year."

Last fall, Smith published "In Drought Time," a collection of poetry and art with the theme of rural life.

"I am privileged to have two poems included in this marvelous and valuable collection," Tompkins said.

Religion has played a large role in Tompkins' life since his late teens, when drugs and rebellion — "the usual '60s hoopla," as he terms it — were part of his world. After quitting drugs, he went looking for life's answers.

A friend invited him to North Sharon Community Bible Church. "And I loved it," he said. "A month later, I overcame my doubts and accepted Jesus as my personal savior. I have attended what is now North Sharon Baptist Church, whenever I live in this area, since that time. This decision has informed my life."



Local poet Brad Tompkins and his son Adam, 12, look over some of his latest poems on the computer.

Tompkins also met his future wife at the church. He and Kathy have been married for 25 years and have four sons.

In 1983, after graduating from Tennessee Temple, Tompkins' friend and former high school classmate, Eric Policht, principal at North Sharon Christian School, was killed in a car crash on M-52. The Rev. Bill Enslen asked Tompkins to succeed Policht. Tompkins and his wife moved to the area and spent 11 years in Manchester. They currently live in Kathy's hometown of Napoleon.

Tompkins served as principal and teacher at North Sharon for 12 years. Currently, his main official duties consist of teaching the seventh- through 12th-grade boys' Sunday school class, and preaching on a rotating basis at the Jackson County Jail.

In 1996, after North Sharon Christian School could no longer support him, Tompkins completed a stint selling cars and then served as assistant manager at a luggage store in Novi.

He later began teaching college English courses at Spring Arbor College, and two years later taught composition courses in the Michigan prison system at the Egler facility in Jackson and the Scott facility in Plymouth, until the program ended a couple years later.

In 2001, Tompkins began teaching English composition classes at Washtenaw Community College, where he still teaches today. He has had either a poem or an essay published each year in the Huron River Review, Washtenaw Community College's literary magazine.

"I consider this a great honor and accomplishment," he said.

Paula Palmer Burns (left), president of Dexter Area Chamber of Commerce, awards the Spark Plug Award to Steve Brouwer of the A. R. Brouwer Co. He joins the ranks of Arden Shafer, Carol Jones, Steve and Barb Gergely, and the late C. Bruce Waggoner, among other winners of the award.

Brouwer earns award

Chamber recognizes developer

The man behind the Monument Park Building, the newest building in Dexter — and one of the biggest buildings in the downtown — is the winner of the Dexter Area Chamber of Commerce's Spark Plug Award

Steve Brouwer of the A. R. Brouwer Co. joined the ranks of Dexter's top go-getters Jan. 19 for contributing to Dexter's business community.

"I was very surprised; however, it's the people who have won the award before me that make it special," he said.

Brouwer joins the ranks of Arden Shafer, Carol Jones, Steve and Barb Gergely, and the late C. Bruce Waggoner, among other winners of the award.

"It's very gratifying that they are recognizing not just me, but our company and the projects we undertake," Brouwer said.

He was given the award at the chamber's annual meeting, which was held at the Dexter American Legion Hall.

The A. R. Brouwer Co. is responsible for constructing a number of buildings in Dexter and Chelsea, including the Monument Park Building, Dexter Plaza, Chelsea Courtyard, Chelsea Place and Little Cherub daycare center in Chelsea.

The company has worked on many other projects in Ann Arbor and southeast Michigan.

Brouwer and his company have been active in the chamber for the last six years or so.

"By working closely with the village staff, council, Planning Commission and DDA (Downtown Development Authority), we were able to turn a vision into reality," he said of the Monument Park Building. "Our goal now is to find a restaurant for the first floor and new businesses for the second and third floors. These newcomers will join the existing businesses in supporting one another. That's the whole idea behind the Monument Park Building.

"Poetry is fun. I do not do it so much for recognition, but because I really enjoy it and want others to enjoy it also."

His poetic influences are many and varied. The "Rinehart Book of Verse" has been an almost constant companion, and helped lay a foundation for his own verse.

Walt Whitman, Emily Dickinson, Gerard Manley Hopkins, James Wright, John Barryman and Robert Lowell are among a long list of poets whose work he enjoys.

Most of Tompkins' poems begin with a single phrase or idea that he works and expands into a poem. He writes these phrases and seed ideas in an ever-present notebook.

"Then, when I decide to make myself do so, I sit down and write out longhand the first draft of a poem," he said. "Then I write and rewrite this poem over and over, and am rarely done with a work.

"Sometimes, the final product is done fairly quickly and somewhat resembles the first few drafts, but often it is completely transformed or even abandoned. Sometimes I sit down at the computer and just begin to type and create poems that way.

"I like my poems to have a cadence combined with meaning and a magic with the power of an incantation that hangs in the air after it is read. It's most fun when, in the process of converting thoughts into words and rhythm, an image or combination comes to me that expresses exactly what I wanted and I had no idea that it existed in my mind."

BROUWER

"I think the chamber provides an opportunity for local business to get know each other and support large community projects like Gordon Hall. They also support many smaller organizations. It's a hardworking community organization and we support them."

Brouwer will keep the Spark Plug plaque for one year before returning it to the chamber.

"I am honored to have won the award, but it's important that everyone understand while my name may be on the plaque, the recognition belongs to the whole company," he said. "This award has been a team effort. Without support from family, friends and business associates, we would not have earned it."

What a Friend We Have in Jesus?

Dear Friends and Neighbors,

If Jesus was alive today would He be your best friend? I asked that question in the children's lesson at a recent worship service. A couple of the children immediately nodded their heads: Yes, they thought Jesus would be their best friend.

Then I pointed out that there might be disadvantages: Jesus was perfect, and never did anything wrong. If their parents watched them playing with Jesus, there might be comparisons: "Why can't you act more like Jesus?"

None of us can imagine what Jesus was like. The Bible says He was without sin. That would be intimidating for any of us. Even the Apostle Peter, in one of his first encounters with Jesus, said, "Go away from me, Lord; I am a sinful man!" (Luke 5:8).

Thank God, the good news is not that we can be like Jesus. The good news is not that He came to provide us with a good example to follow. The good news is that He came to live a perfect life in our place, to offer His heavenly Father the obedience that we owe Him, but often fail to give Him. And when we trust in Jesus as our Savior, His obedience counts for us.

Jesus did not come to be a friend that we can hang out with, or go fishing or hunting or shopping with. He came to be a Friend who would lay down His life for us, and give us a life that never ends once this life is over.

That's a free gift. But when we know Him as that kind of Friend, we want to devote our entire lives to demonstrating our friendship with Him.

Please worship with us this Sunday morning at 10:00 a.m.

Chelsea also faces Ypsilanti Lincoln in dual meet

In arguably its top performance of the season, Chelsea wrestling captured the 10-team Dexter Invitational last Saturday.

"That was the best we've wrestled all season," said Chelsea coach Kerry Kargel. "We were on cue. My freshmen wrestled like upperclassmen. We felt really good Saturday. The guys were ready to go."

The Bulldogs breezed through the tournament, barely challenged.

In pool matches, Chelsea defeated Northville 65-9, Ida 54-18 and Bloomfield Hills Lahser 57-18.

In the invitational semifinals, the Bulldogs beat Freeland 66-18.

In the championship match, Chelsea dominated Trenton, winning in convincing fashion 66-12.

Individually for the Bulldogs, Austin Rodgers led the way, finishing 4-0 at 215 pounds. For his efforts, he was named the tournament's outstanding wrestler for the upper weight divisions.

Also unbeaten for Chelsea on the day included Matt Schultz (1-0) at 130, Chad Schiller (4-0) at 140, Cody Schiller (4-0) at 145, Kyle Colburn (1-0) at 145, Kevin Rosentreter (5-0) at 152, Phil Thayer (5-0) at 160, Oscar Marx (1-0) at 160, Andy Ramsey (1-0) at 171, A.J. Suffety (5-0) at 189 and Doug Devol (1-0) at 215.

Other top performers for the Bulldogs included Glen Cobb (4-1) at 103, Jamin Breslin (4-1) at 112, Paul Bell (4-1) at 119, Evan Helvey (4-1) at 135, Drew Wint (3-1) at 171 and Birgy (4-1) at heavyweight.

Also competing hard for Chelsea were Doug Zygner (0-3) at 125, Donnie Riedel (0-1) at 140 and Mark Smith (0-1) at 125.

Chelsea vs. Lincoln

Last Thursday, the visiting Bulldogs lost to Ypsilanti Lincoln 38-33 in a dual match.

"It was a seesaw match that went back and forth," Kargel said. "We'll learn from this."

At 103, Chelsea's Sam Parkansky lost by pin to Mike Farrell in 29 seconds.

Breslin pinned Nathan Mullins in 2:53 at 112.

Bell lost a 9-7 overtime decision to Brandon Freeman at 119.

At 125, Bulldog Danny Ngo pinned Eric Moberg in 3:20.

At 130, Zygner lost by pin in 1:05 to Eric Purdon. Chelsea's Marty Kelley lost a 15-4 major decision to Jonathon Fox at 135.

Chad Schiller was pinned in 2:47 by Justin Goett at 140. Cody Schiller pinned Marcus Spencer in 53 seconds at 145.

Rosentreter lost a 10-2 major decision to Alex Aldrich at 152.

Thayer lost a 6-5 decision to Eric Mitchell at 160. At 171, Bulldog Drew Wint defeated Evan Grassley 8-7.

At 189, Suffety lost by pin in 3:10 to Dan Magoo.

Rodgers pinned Caleb Williams in 1:57 at 215.

BASKETBALL

Chelsea shoots down Dexter

Bulldogs can 10 three-pointers to beat rival on hardcourt

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

In front of an overflowing crowd of approximately 2,200, Chelsea defeated county rival Dexter 56-46 last Friday night in a key Southeastern Conference White Division contest.

"Regardless of the records, good or bad, it's always a good game," said Chelsea coach Robin Raymond. "It's fun for the kids to play in front of a lot of people."

It's fun especially if one wins.

In the first half last Friday, both teams scratched and clawed for every point and for every rebound befitting a rivalry battle.

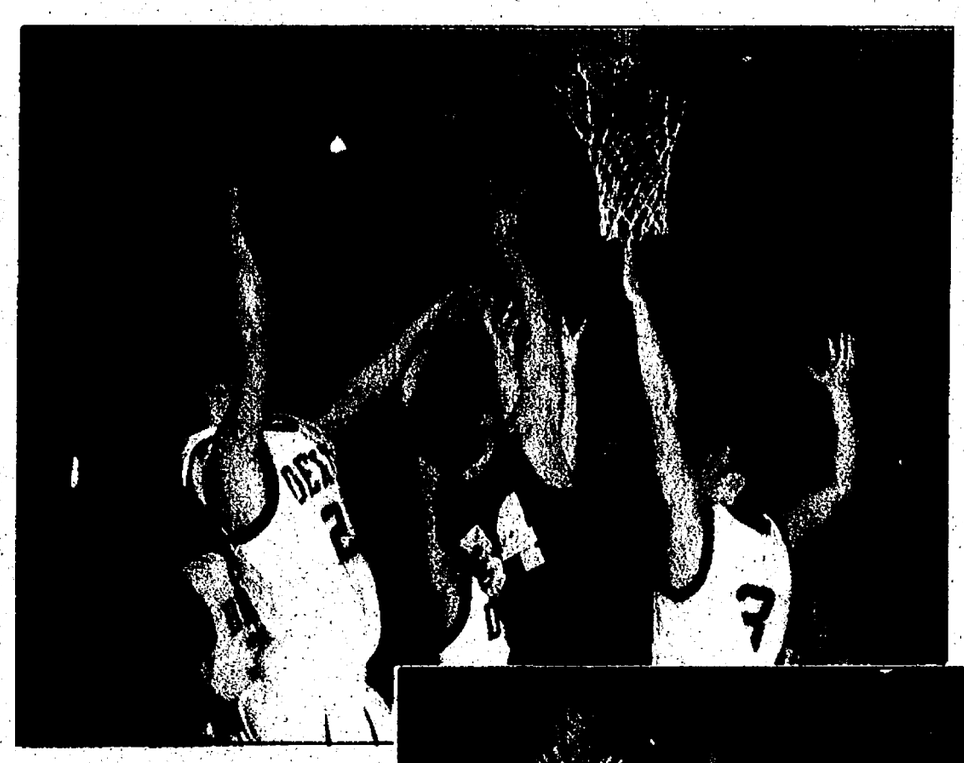
With 16 seconds left in the first quarter, Chelsea junior guard Jon Seelbach drilled a three-pointer, cutting Dexter's lead to 15-12 entering the second stanza.

In the second quarter, a triple by Bulldog junior guard Nate Schwarze closed the gap to 22-21 Dexter with 2:44 left in the first half.

Three straight points by Dreadnaught senior swing player Jeff Ziegler (6-foot-6) increased Dexter's advantage to 25-21 with 2:10 remaining on the first half clock.

The Bulldogs (10-2, 5-1), however, answered, outscoring the Dreadnaughts 6-2 the rest of the second quarter, including a triple by junior guard Micah Hudson (6-2) and two free throws by senior forward John Mantel (6-8), tying the game at 27-27 at the break.

"I personally was disappointed," said Dexter coach Randy Swoverland. "We gave up a couple baskets that allowed them to tie at the half."



Bulldog 6-foot-8 senior forward John Mantel is triple-teamed as he goes up for a shot against Dexter in last Friday's county hardcourt tussle.

Raymond, in contrast, was happy with his club's play in the first half.

"Dexter came out and played well," he said. "Ziegler had 20 points. When a team is so hot early and you're on the road, we wanted to weather the storm. At the half, I felt really well. Dexter had played well and was controlling the tempo, but we were tied."

To begin the third quarter, the Bulldogs took control of the game, exploding for an 11-0 run out of the gate, and forcing a Dreadnaught (7-5, 3-3) timeout. Hudson started the third quarter draining three straight triples, followed by a steal and slam dunk by Mantel to bring the large Chelsea crowd to its feet screaming.

"They (Chelsea) were extremely hot in the third quarter," Swoverland said.

Raymond said the Bulldogs wanted to pick up the tempo in the third quarter.

"They (Dexter) were sagging on defense," he said. "I thought we could get some outside shots. Micah continues to get comfortable with what we're trying to do. He makes good decisions with the ball."

In the third quarter, Chelsea outscored the Dreadnaughts 11-6, taking a 38-33 advantage into the fourth frame.

To start the fourth quarter, Hudson, as he did to begin the third stanza, buried a three-pointer, upping the Bulldogs' lead 41-33.

With 4:11 left to play, Dexter senior guard Jacob Stoll sank a free throw, cutting Chelsea's lead to 44-40. It

SWIMMING AND DIVING

Bulldog tankers fall to state power AA Pioneer

Cleary leads Chelsea with a record-setting performance

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

The Chelsea boys' swimming and diving team lost to visiting No. 1-ranked Ann Arbor Pioneer 123-60 last Friday in a dual meet.

"The Purple machine smacked us down pretty well," Chelsea coach Mike Jolly said of the defending state champion and nationally recognized Pioneers. "They ended up breaking two pool records."

To begin the meet, the Bulldog foursome of Dominic Conybeare, Nate Christman, Michael Lawrence and Jake Policht placed third in the 200 medley relay with a time of 2:01.21.

In the 200 freestyle, Rick Kinsey finished second in 1:53.09 for Chelsea. Benji Kellogg was fifth in 2:03.75, while Nick Dyerly was sixth in 2:12.00.

Jordan Skidmore touched third in the 200 individual medley with a clocking of 2:16.12 for the Bulldogs. Lawrence was fifth in 2:32.96, while Conybeare was sixth in 2:36.74.

Nick Armstrong placed second in the 50 freestyle with a time of 23.53 for Chelsea. Andrew Ballow was third in 23.71, while Brett Kruse was fifth in 25.33.

Bulldog Sean Cleary finished first in the one-meter diving competition with a school record 247.40 points. Teammate Eric Massey was second with 134.50 points.

In the 100 butterfly, Skidmore placed fourth in 59.24. Ivan Solovev was fifth in 1:04.68, while Lawrence was fifth in 1:05.02. Pioneer's Sho Koba finished first with a pool record time of 51.58.

Armstrong was second in the 100 freestyle with a clocking of 51.52. Ballow was fifth in 54.27, while Brett Kruse was sixth in 57.58.

Kinsey finished first in the 500 freestyle in 5:05.63. James Bassett ended up fifth in 6:02.38, while Doug Wrathall was sixth in 6:26.15 for Chelsea.

The Bulldog quartet of Armstrong, Ballow, Skidmore and Kinsey touched second in the 200 freestyle relay in 1:35.20.

Conybeare was fourth in the 100 backstroke in 1:08.43. Policht was fifth in 1:20.39, while Todd Kruse was sixth in 1:21.88.

Kellogg finished third in the 100 breaststroke in 1:08.02. Jake Heydlauff was fourth in 1:14.81, while Christman was sixth in 1:19.03.

In the 400 freestyle relay, the Bulldog group of Armstrong, Ballow, Kinsey and Skidmore placed second in 3:32.29. The Pioneer contingent set a pool record with a winning time of 3:18.71.

Chelsea vs. Milan

On Jan. 24, Chelsea traveled to Milan for a tri-meet with the Big Reds and Monroe.

The Bulldogs lost to Monroe 113-72 and to Milan 95-90. The Big Reds lost to the Trojans 120-66.

"We knew going into the match that we didn't match up too well with Monroe," Jolly said. "They had just beat Saline the weekend before, and Saline had beat us soundly. Milan, on the other hand, we could beat, at least on paper."

Jolly said Chelsea had seven different opportunities to beat Milan during the meet, but was unable to pull through on each attempt.

"As a team, we are still struggling with our third guys understanding their importance," he said. "Your top guys are a known going into each meet. It's the outside guy that usually decides a meet in a close situation like this, and we did not execute well."

To start the meet, the Bulldog team of Skidmore, Kellogg, Armstrong and Kinsey finished first in the 200 medley relay with a clocking of 1:46.02.

Ballow was third in the 200 freestyle in 2:00.72, while Wrathall was sixth in 2:05.06.

In the 200 individual medley, Kinsey was fourth in 2:13.23. Kellogg was sixth in 2:19.44, while Solovev was seventh in 2:20.88.

Armstrong finished third in the 50 freestyle with a time of 22.97. Skidmore was fourth in 24.11, while Policht was ninth in 27.92, and Michael Kozma 10th in 29.56.

Cleary placed second in one-meter diving with a score of 205.15 points. Milan's Evan Betts was first with 229.20 points.

Solovev was fourth in the 100 butterfly in 1:02.17. Lawrence was fifth in 1:02.76, while Jon Elordi was 11th in 1:35.77 and Mark Bowdish 12th in 1:40.69.

Armstrong finished third in the 100 freestyle in 50.45. Ballow was fifth in 53.32, while Brett Kruse was eighth in 56.57.

In the 500 freestyle, Kinsey was second in 5:06.99. Bassett was eighth in 5:59.95, while Wrathall was ninth in 6:20.22 and Patrick Shauhnessy 10th in 7:38.78 for Chelsea.

The Bulldog foursome of Brett Kruse, Solovev, Policht and Lawrence placed third in the 200 freestyle in 1:40.24.

Skidmore ended up second in the 100 backstroke with a clocking of 58.19. Conybeare was sixth in 1:10.11, while Todd Kruse was eighth in 1:13.88.

Kellogg finished second in the 100 breaststroke in 1:06.62. Heydlauff was fifth in 1:12.53, while Christman was eighth in 1:17.47.

In the 400 freestyle relay, Chelsea's Kinsey, Ballow, Skidmore and Armstrong placed third in 3:27.28.

The Bulldogs next travel to Southeastern Conference White Division foe Tecumseh for a meet 6:30 p.m. Friday.

On Tuesday, Chelsea visits Brighton for a contest at 6 p.m.

Spikers compete at invite

Chelsea finishes 1-2-1 at Battle Creek tournament last week

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

Chelsea volleyball traveled west to Battle Creek last Saturday to compete in the Lakeview Invitational.

The trip to the Cereal City wasn't kind to the Bulldogs (20-10-3, 2-2). Chelsea finished the tournament with a 1-2-1 overall record.

In pool play, the Bulldogs defeated Lansing Everett, split with Comstock and lost to the host Spartans.

In the invitational quarterfinals, Chelsea lost to Battle Creek Pennfield, bowing out of the tourney.

Last Thursday, the Bulldogs had better luck against Southeastern Conference White Division foe Ypsilanti Lincoln, sweeping the Railsplitters 25-18, 25-16, 25-23.

Individually for Chelsea, Ann Kendzicky topped the squad with 10 kills.

Sarah Iverson added seven kills for the Bulldogs.

Setter Maggie Dusbiber finished with a team-high 27 assists for Chelsea.

The Bulldogs next travel to SEC Red Division rival Saline for a match 7 p.m. Thursday.

On Saturday, Chelsea visits Ann Arbor Pioneer to participate in its invitational at 8:30 a.m.

On Feb. 9, the Bulldogs travel to county rival Dexter for a match at 7 p.m.

Chelsea upset by Notre Dame

Bulldogs give up season-high seven goals in loss

Bulldog Schyler Williams had one assist in Chelsea's 7-1 loss to Pontiac Notre Dame Prep last Saturday. The defeat was only the third of the season for the Bulldogs.

In an upset, Chelsea hockey lost to visiting Pontiac Notre Dame Prep 7-1 last Saturday.

Entering the game, the Bulldogs (13-3-2) were ranked No. 2 in the state in Division III.

"That's the most goals we've given up this season," said Chelsea coach Don Wright. "They're a tough club. They were able to connect on their power plays and we didn't. It came down to special teams. They got the job done, and we didn't."

Of the Fighting Irish's seven goals, three came on the power play. Defensively, Notre Dame held the normally explosive Bulldogs to 1-of-9 on the power play.

"Their goalie played well," Wright said. "On their last three goals, we were pressing to score and they were able to get a few breakaways. The bottom line is we couldn't put the puck in the net."

The Irish opened the scoring as Jordan Jakubiak recorded a power-play goal at 3:55 of the first period.

Two minutes later, however, Chelsea answered as Luc Daniels scored a power-play goal off an assist from Eric Cremer and Schyler Williams.

With 15 seconds remaining in the first period, Notre Dame regained the lead as Dan Schroder scored, giving the Irish a 2-1 advantage and momentum heading into the second period.

In the second stanza, Joe Brewer scored a power-play goal at 13:12 of the period, upping Notre Dame's lead to 3-1.

In the third period, the Irish scored four unanswered goals.

Jakubik scored a power-play goal at the 5:23 mark of the third frame, giving Notre Dame a 4-1 lead.

Less than a minute later, Doug Orzel scored for the Irish, increasing their margin to 5-1.

At the 10:30 mark of the third period, Jakubik scored his third goal of the night for a hat trick, propelling Notre Dame to a 6-1 lead.

The Irish's Tom Ingram ended the scoring with a goal at 12:31 of the third stanza.

Notre Dame out-shot Chelsea 32-31 for the game.

On Jan. 25, the visiting Bulldogs defeated No. 7 ranked Riverview 4-1.

"It was a good win for us," Wright said. "I thought we did a good job. After a tight first period, we made some adjustments. When we had chances (to score), we took advantage of them. It was a good performance, against a strong opponent."

Chelsea began the scoring as Ryan Ruikka beat the Pirate net minder off an assist from Cremer at 12:33 of the first period.

In the second period, Riverview tied the score as Andrew Rasky hit the back of the net.

"It was a fluke goal," Wright said. "Riverview was icing the puck and our goalie went out to get the puck, and it went off a stanchion and into the net."

Despite the unusual goal, the Bulldogs regrouped, scoring on the power play less than a minute later as Cremer turned the lamp on off an assist from Matt Perry and Daniels, giving Chelsea a 2-1 lead.

"The guys didn't get dejected," Wright said of the fluke Riverview goal. "We felt we were playing well."

In the third period, Cremer scored at the 10:22 mark, increasing the Bulldogs' advantage to 3-1. Schyler Williams and Daniels assisted on the goal for Chelsea.

At the 14:02 mark of the third period, Perry scored, converting a pass from Williams, for the night's final margin.

Recording the win in net for the Bulldogs was goalie Josh Cottrell.

Chelsea out-shot the Pirates 20-18.

The Bulldogs next hit the road for four straight games, starting with state-ranked Howell 6 p.m. Saturday at Grand Oaks Arena.

DEXTER

was as close as the Dreadnaughts would get.

Off the free throw, the Bulldogs responded with an 8-2 run, capped by a three-pointer from junior sniper Mike Sauers. With the basket, Dexter called another time-out, trying to stem Chelsea's momentum.

With 54 seconds remaining, Dreadnaught senior center Rob Zalucki (6-7) scored an inside basket, making the tally 54-44.

Schwarze canned a free throw with 40 seconds left for the night's final margin.

Mantel paced Chelsea with 15 points, including three triples, four rebounds, three assists and two blocked shots.

Hudson added 14 points, including four three-pointers, four boards, three assists and two blocked shots. Schwarze finished with 11 points, five rebounds and four assists, while Sauers had seven points.

Senior center Cam Hawkins (6-2) had four points and five rebounds, while Seelbach had three points and senior forward Robbie Moffett two points for the Bulldogs.

Ziegler led the Dreadnaughts with 28 points, including four triples.

Chelsea finished 18-of-43 from the floor for 42 percent. Dexter was 14-of-38 for 37 percent. The Bulldogs made 10 three-pointers.

"That's the first time in my 28 years that we've made more threes, than twos," Raymond said. "Zalucki was in the lane all night, so it forced us outside."

At the line, the Bulldogs ended up 10-of-16 for 46 percent. The Dreadnaughts were 14-of-16 for 78 percent.

Chelsea committed seven turnovers, while Dexter had 10.

"I was pleased with our low turnover rate," Raymond said.

The Bulldogs out rebounded the Dreadnaughts 28-22, including 8-5 on the offensive glass.

Though Dexter played well, Swoverland wasn't satisfied.

"Overall, there are no moral victories," he said. "We have to win. They (Chelsea) made big shots to win. We shot well and didn't turn the ball over. I was pleased with that."

Chelsea next travels to Adrian for a game 7 p.m. Tuesday.

Freshman Basketball

Chelsea's freshman boys' basketball team defeated host Dexter 61-41 last Friday.

Jake Mantel sparked the Bulldogs (7-5) with 16 points. Michael Lenneman added 14 points, while Tyler Fischhaber had 11 points for Chelsea.

The Bulldogs led 28-16 at halftime.

Entering the fourth quarter, Chelsea increased its advantage to 45-26.

"We talk every game about the first four minutes of the third quarter, and how it will shape the rest of the game," said Chelsea coach Jason Morris. "This was an intense and physical game. Both teams know each other so well. Our bench did a real nice job, because we had a few starters in early foul trouble. Give credit to Dakota Risner, Matt McCalla and Michael Cooper for providing some key minutes."

The Bulldogs next visit Adrian for a game 5:30 p.m. Tuesday.

SWIMMING AND DIVING

Beach evens record with victory

Chelsea's Beach Middle School swimming and diving team improved its overall record to 3-3, defeating host Adrian 108-62 Jan. 23.

The meet began with the Bulldog 200 medley relay foursome of Sarah Daniel, Michelle Kellogg, Olivia DeTroyer and Jaclyn Murphy finishing first. The quartet of Jonathan Skidmore, Pete Kinsey, Andrew Wickens and Evan Phillips placed third for Chelsea. Joe Haroney, Saige Rutherford, Kaitlin Jolly and Donna Prieskorn finished fourth.

In the 200 freestyle, Viran Rana bested the field, placing first, while Claudia Bravo ended up second and Hailey Dixon fifth for the Bulldogs.

Skidmore won the 100 individual medley, followed by Rutherford in second place and Sara Dixon in sixth spot for Chelsea.

In the 50 freestyle, DeTroyer finished second, while Kellogg was fourth and Wickens sixth.

In diving, Beach swept the top three spots. Lauren Dark edged out teammate Michael Heydlauff for first place, while Colby Wrathall finished third.

In the 50 butterfly, Bravo touched second, while Murphy was fourth and Prieskorn sixth for the Bulldogs.

Daniel captured the 100 freestyle, with Kelly O'Keefe third and Julie Beaumont fifth for Chelsea.

The 200 freestyle relay team of Kellogg, Murphy, Rutherford and DeTroyer placed first, nipping teammates Rana, Kinsey, Haroney and Phillips, who placed second.

In the 100 backstroke, Rutherford finished second, while Haroney was third and Devyn Trester fifth for Beach.

Lucy Drinkwater won the 100 breaststroke, followed by Olsen in third place and Kinsey in fifth.

The 400 freestyle relay group of Kellogg, Murphy, Daniel and DeTroyer finished first, while Rana, Skidmore, Haroney and Phillips ended up second and Jacob Bogarin, O'Keefe, Beaumont and Bravo fourth.

Chelsea next participates in the Michigan Interscholastic Swimming Coaches Association meet Friday and Saturday at Plainwell.

On Jan. 24, the Bulldog boys' team defeated Ann Arbor Gabriel Richard 24-6.

VanOrman rolled a 226 to lead Chelsea. Herter and Calus each finished with a 214, while Thompson had a 194 and senior J.C. Soloman a 193. Jim Leach added a 188, while Dillon Arnold had a 175, Grau a 149, Nick Huehl a 128 and junior Josh Praedel a 108 for the Bulldogs.

Rob Lord paced Gabriel Richard with a 394 series (180-214).

In the girls' match Chelsea prevailed over the Ann Arbor club.

Gipson led the way with a 387 series (184-203) for the Bulldogs. Coulter had a 348 (173-175), while Gilley had a 326 (168-158). Caitlin Kellman finished with a 176, while Lambdin had a 161, McCormick a 142 and Kayla Schlanderer a 134 for Chelsea.

Kargel said the Bulldogs continue to strive for post-season success.

"Our goal is to be district champions," he said. "Our captains are really keeping the team together. Cody (Schiller), Rodgers, Wint and Phil Thayer have been big leaders for us."

Chelsea next hosts Saline 6 p.m. Thursday.

On Saturday, the Bulldogs travel to Holly to participate in its invitational at 9 a.m.

McKenna Fletcher of Chelsea shakes a homemade noisemaker made out of a vitamin bottle.

Rigglee Fischer of Dexter Township works up a sweat drumming away on a Timbau drum.

Their OWN BEAT

Children from Dexter and Chelsea recently had the opportunity to learn rhythm from Lori Fithian of Drummunity. Hands-on, high-energy fun highlighted the event, with more than 150 children and parents participating. The drumming workshop was held through Chelsea Community Education in the cafeteria at the Washington Street Education Center.

Courtney Bennett of Dexter Township, not even a year old yet, was captivated by the purple shaker and drumstick she used for a teething instead.

Kyle Mitchell is tired of the noise, so he shoves drumsticks in his ears during the activities.

CCA looking for input on art project

The Chelsea Center for the Arts will host two community forums in February to solicit input from local residents on a proposed public art initiative.

The forums will be held from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Feb. 7 and 15 at the center, 400 Congdon St., in Chelsea.

The Michigan Association of Community Arts Agencies awarded the CCA a $500 planning grant for this year's community partners artist-in-residence project. The program is intended to "strengthen communities by engaging their members in working collaboratively with artists and each other to explore local issues through the process of creating art," according to a press statement from the CCA.

The project is funded in conjunction with the Michigan Council for the Arts and Cultural Affairs.

The proposed project will celebrate the re-opening of the new Chelsea District Library with the proposed theme of "Opening the Doors to Knowledge" and involve the community in exploring how the library, books and learning are central to personal and community growth.

The Chelsea District Library and Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce will serve as project partners. In addition, other partnership opportunities are being developed.

"This is a unique way to bring artists and the people of Chelsea together to commemorate the re-opening of the library and explore how libraries are a bridge within communities," said CCA Executive Director Jennifer Goulet.

The project is to feature the coordination of a public art exhibition of doors — artistically enhanced according to the theme by local artists, families, school groups, community organizations, businesses and others.

The exhibition will be installed in the downtown and other key community locations in Chelsea for several weeks beginning in the late summer.

Plans call for the exhibit to be pedestrian-oriented, and designed to attract visitors to Chelsea and its businesses, restaurants, galleries, theater and shops.

Goulet said the exhibit would be featured as part of this summer's Sounds and Sights on Thursday Nights event organized by the Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce.

A call for artists will be issued in February to begin the process for local artists to be selected to adopt a door and participate in community workshops in late spring and summer.

The center plans to invite community groups such as the Chelsea Painters, as well as galleries, schools and others to adopt a door "to ensure that the diversity of the Chelsea community is reflected in the exhibition," according to the press statement.

The library's Public Art Committee will help the CCA in guiding the project and artist selection process.

The center also plans to partner with the Chelsea library in offering a gallery exhibition and workshop featuring a Michigan children's author-illustrator. The exhibit is also proposed to feature other artworks by the local artists selected for the doors exhibition.

At the end of the exhibition, the doors may be auctioned as a fund-raiser for future public art at the Chelsea District Library and to support future public art initiatives by the CCA.

GRASS LAKE

Dale Fisher to release new photography book

Dale Fisher, renowned photographic artist and longtime Michigan resident, will release his sixth book, "Southeast Michigan — Horizons of Growth," in bookstores this month.

The Grass Lake resident's other books include "Detroit: Visions of the Eagle, "Ann Arbor: Visions of the Eagle," "Michigan: From the Eyry of the Eagle" and "Building Michigan — a Tribute to the Construction Industry."

Fisher is one of the only photographers in the world to work exclusively from a helicopter, transforming landscapes, waterways and structures into works of aerial art. He was trained in aerial reconnaissance photography by the U.S. Navy and has been taking photographs from the air for more than 52 years.

His newest book features beautiful images of the area's most vibrant areas.

"Southeast Michigan is home to an impressive range of service and technology companies, innovative industrial and manufacturing plants, highly respected colleges and universities, busy arts and recreation venues, national sports teams and more. It's a region of promise, strength and diversity," Fisher said are among the reasons he chose the area for his focus.

"But especially from the view of a helicopter, the magnitude of all that has been accomplished becomes incredibly clear. I wanted to share that perspective with others in Michigan so they could also appreciate this area, and brings new businesses here."

SUGARLOAF LAKE IMPROVEMENT PROJECT WASHTENAW COUNTY BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS SECOND PUBLIC HEARING NOTICE

TO: ALL THE RECORD OWNERS OF, AND PARTIES WITH INTEREST IN, ANY LANDS WITHIN THE SPECIAL ASSESSMENT DISTRICT DESCRIBED BELOW:

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that the Washtenaw County Board of Public Works (WCBPW) has declared its intention to implement a Lake Improvement Project for Sugarloaf Lake in Lyndon Township in Washtenaw County described as follows:

PROJECT DESCRIPTION

The proposed Project will provide lake improvement to Sugarloaf Lake in Washtenaw County in order to provide control of invasive and nuisance aquatic weeds. The Project shall include chemical application and subsequent spot applications for a five-year period. It shall also include all necessary regulatory approvals and studies for the application.

The total cost of the Project over the five-year period is estimated at $100,000.

The WCBPW has tentatively designated a special assessment district against which all or a part of the cost of such Project is to be assessed, which district consists of the following lands:

All tax parcels identified as having lake access and use of the waters of Sugarloaf Lake located in Sections 31 and 32 in Lyndon Township, Washtenaw County.

Each parcel identified above will be assessed the following amounts based on the type of property (the cost is the total cost for the five (5) year project):

Non-waterfront residential properties with lake access	$ 500
Waterfront residential properties	$1,595

A report describing the Project including program elements and cost estimates has been prepared and is on file with the Washtenaw County Director of Public Works. The report is available for public examination at the Department of Planning and Environment, 705 N. Zeeb Road, Ann Arbor, Michigan 48107. The offices are located on the second floor of the Washtenaw County Western Service Center. To ask questions or obtain information on the project, please call 734 222 6865.

PLEASE TAKE FURTHER NOTICE that the Board of Public Works will meet on Monday, February 13, 2006 at 7:00 p.m., Local Time, or as soon thereafter as may be heard, at the Lyndon Township Hall, 17751 N. Territorial Road, Chelsea, Michigan for the purpose of hearing all interested parties concerning such improvements and the special assessment district.

PLEASE TAKE FURTHER NOTICE that the owner or any person having an interest in property that is specially assessed may file a written appeal with the Michigan Tax Tribunal within 30 days after confirmation of the special assessment roll. However, appearance and protest at the public hearing on the special assessment roll are required in order to appeal the special assessment to the Michigan Tax Tribunal. An owner or a party in interest or his or her agent may (1) appear in person at the hearing to protest the special assessment or (2) file his or her appearance or protest by letter before the close of the hearing.

The Board of Public Works shall maintain a record of parties who appear to protest at the hearing. If the hearing is terminated or adjourned for the day before a party is provided the opportunity to be heard, a party whose appearance was recorded shall be considered to have protested the special assessment in person.

DEATHS

ERNEST WILLIAM WENK
Chelsea

Ernest William Wenk, 91, of Chelsea died Jan. 26, 2006, at the Chelsea Retirement Community. He was born June 9, 1914, in Freedom Township.

Mr. Wenk was a lifelong member of Zion Lutheran Church, a former member of Lutheran Brotherhood of Zion and former church council member.

Mr. Wenk and his father owned and operated a sawmill, which was located just north of the family farm. He enjoyed deer hunting, trapping and fishing.

On Feb. 7, 1942, he married Edna M. Horning, and she survives. Also surviving are two children, William (Marlene) Wenk of Denver and Carolyn (Patrick) McNamara of Ann Arbor; one brother, Norman (Lorena) Wenk of Chelsea; three grandchildren, Brian Wenk, and Ryan and Erin McNamara; sisters-and brother-in-law, Dorothy Wenk of Chelsea, Margaret Horning of Manchester and George and Marian Pickell of Chelsea; and several nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by one son, Kenneth Wenk; two brothers, Elmer and Erwin Wenk; and two sisters, Rubena Loeffler and Edna Burkhardt.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at Zion Lutheran Church. The Rev. Doris Sparks officiated. Burial followed at Zion Lutheran Church Cemetery. The family received friends at the Staffan-Mitchell Funeral Home in Chelsea.

Memorial contributions may be made to Zion Lutheran Church.

GLADYS M. HELEK
Grass Lake
Formerly of Chelsea

Gladys M. Helek, 87, of Grass Lake, formerly of Chelsea, died Jan. 26, 2006, at Cedar Knoll Care Facility. She was born Nov. 1, 1918, in Ithaca, the daughter of Charles and Myrtle (Ebright) Worden.

Mrs. Helek had lived in the area since 1985, coming from Oscoda. She was a member of St. Mary Catholic Church in Chelsea for several years. She retired from the Ann Arbor School District in 1980.

Surviving are two sons, Douglas Helek of Chelsea and Charles B. Rowe of Harrieta; two brothers, Ivan Welch of Bay City and Jack Welch-Garrison of Fair Grove; two sisters, Ruby Martin of Bay City and Betty Jean Koonce of Bloomfield; and four grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by her first husband, Russell L. Rowe, and her second husband, George Helek.

A funeral was held Monday at St. Mary Catholic Church. The Rev. William Turner officiated. Burial was at Washtenong Memorial Park in Ann Arbor.

Daniels' 'Guest Artist' opens at Purple Rose

Artistic director, actor tout play as life-changing experience

By Jennifer Sinkwitts
Special Writer

Jeff Daniels' 10th and latest play, "Guest Artist," is leaving an imprint on those involved behind the scenes and on stage at Chelsea's Purple Rose Theatre Company.

The play, which runs through March 18, has forever changed the lives of Artistic Director Guy Sanville and actor Grant Krause.

It's about a prize-winning playwright, Joseph Harris, who was commissioned to write a play for a small theater in the Midwest. He arrives 3 a.m. at a train station in Steubenville, Ohio, to find a young, eager apprentice, Kenneth Waters, waiting for him.

The playwright is haggard. He hasn't written anything in 10 years, and has found himself lately at the bottom of a bottle. Harris is scared to death, yet he is Waters' hero.

In one morning, their lives are forever changed.

This funny, but deeply disturbing story is about the truth. It's one man's idea about the truth that may haunt you for days, maybe even weeks, Sanville said.

The terrorist attacks of Sept. 11, 2001, are relived, and authority is questioned. It's not a story sugarcoating events or thoughts, he said.

"There are things people will hear that may upset them," Sanville said.

The director has produced 22 plays and this particular production has been the hardest for him.

"It has been really hard because it's really good," he said. "Everyone that has been associated with it is proud to put their name on it.

"I think this is one of our best productions ever."

"Guest Artist" has been in the works for many years. The idea behind the play came to Daniels, a Chelsea High School graduate and renowned actor, when he drove to Toledo, Ohio, in 1996 to pick up Pulitzer Prize-winning playwright Lanford Wilson from the train station. When Daniels saw him walk across the train tracks that day, "Guest Artist" was born.

"'Guest Artist' has what we like to see and what we like to make, and what we look for in a great evening of theater," said Sanville, who lives in Chelsea.

For Krause, a Detroit resident, the images and messages in the play kept him awake at night and tested his acting ability.

"This has been a challenging role for me," he said. "I haven't been allowed to sit back and coast. It has brought me to a different level."

Separating work from home hasn't been easy for the Purple Rose veteran.

"I share a similar point of view as the character. The ideas stay with me all the time," he said. "It takes over everything."

The job of an actor is to reveal something, and "Guest Artist" provides the perfect medium.

"You have to live it to portray it," Sanville said. "There is emotional residue after playing emotional parts. It costs you something."

"Guest Artist" is being billed as a play that will make audiences laugh and cry in the same evening, but also challenge them to think and eventually change their lives.

"I, now more than ever, believe in where I am going as an artist," Sanville said. "Sometimes you begin to doubt yourself, especially if you pay attention to what is happening in the world, or sometimes you wonder if what you do matters. I was at one of those places when I started this play, and I am not there anymore."

Reservations may be made by calling The Purple Rose Theatre Company Box Office at 433-7673.

Players to perform in 'Talking With'

What do an ex-rodeo cowgirl, an aspiring actress, a snake charmer and a bored housewife have in common?

They are all characters in Chelsea Area Players' dinner theater show, "Talking With," which will be performed 6 p.m. Feb. 9, 10 and 11 at Chelsea Community Hospital's dining room.

The play, written by Jane Martin, is a poetic celebration of women through a series of diverse, revelatory monologues by an eclectic array of characters.

It explores the experiences, perspectives and the voices of women, some of which are hilarious, some are soulful, all are poignant.

Characters include a baton twirler, a former rodeo cowgirl, an actress willing to go to any length to get a job, an evangelical snake charmer, a women marked with tattoos, an established actress in her prime, an expectant mother, a homeless woman and a housewife lost in Oz.

Actresses from Chelsea and the surrounding areas came out to audition for the 11 roles in "Talking With." Directors Alisa Bauer, Ty Jacobs, Brad Richert and June Weiland said they were pleased with the turnout at auditions.

"We had enough women to cast the show twice," Weiland said in a press statement.

The roles were filled by Jeannie Ballew, Diane DuRussel, Kristin Heitmeier, Diana Hunt, Denise Kantner, Shannon Kantner, Michelle Lanzi, Shannon McNally, Jessica Rising, Miriam Sass-Zuidveld and Carolyn Szatan.

Some of the cast members are newcomers to Chelsea Area Players, while others are seasoned veterans. None, though, is a stranger to the stage.

Ballew, a book editor and writing coach, and DuRussel are both performing in their second productions for the local theater group. Shannon Kantner, a student at the University of Michigan, is performing for the first time with Chelsea Area Players, but has been acting since she was a young child.

Szatan, a Ferndale resident, is not deterred from the long drive and is back again working with the Players in her third production.

Hunt, Rising and McNally are also repeat performers, and collectively have been in more than nine Chelsea Area Players' productions.

As in the past, the Players' winter show is a dinner theater. It will feature a gourmet dinner and dessert.

Seating for the show begins at 6 p.m., with dinner at 6:30 p.m. and the performance at 7:30 p.m.

Tickets are $30 per person, and tables are set for eight.

Tickets may be purchased in advance at Chelsea Pharmacy, by calling 475-8713 or online at TicketLeap.com.

For more information about "Talking With" or Chelsea Area Players, visit the group's Web site at chelseareaplayers.org.

ANN ARBOR

The Charles Reinhart Co. Realtors celebrates its 35th anniversary this year.

Founded as the Caldwell and Reinhart Co. Feb. 11, 1971, by Richard Caldwell and Charles Reinhart, it became the Charles Reinhart Co. in 1982, and is now owned by David Lutton. BΣ Reinhart remains an active consultant to the company.

Today, the Reinhart Co., with more than 170 agents, has eight locations in Washtenaw and Jackson counties, and is a leading full-service brokerage on the Ann Arbor Area Board of Realtors.

Its divisions include residential sales, relocation, commercial sales and leasing, property management, and apartment locator service. Reinhart also offers mortgage financing through its sister company, Ann Arbor Mortgage Co.

Reinhart closed $604 million in residential and commercial transactions during 2005.

U.S.D.A. Choice Meats at Low, Low Prices!

USDA CHOICE MEATS

Our Pledge to you... Country Market buys nothing but U.S.D.A. Choice or Higher Beef. U.S.D.A. Choice is selected by the government graders for its exceptional tenderness, flavor and quality. Many retailers sell grade, Select, inspected or lower grades which do not offer the same quality. Also, Country Market buys only U.S.D.A. Choice All Natural Fresh American Lamb which is raised without antibiotics or growth hormones. Never imported New Zealand or Australian Lamb. This means the freshest and tastiest beef and lamb available. Some stores grind & pack their meat at one central location and there is no opportunity to get customized butcher shop service. At Country Market the meat is cut daily and packed fresh right in each stores' meat department...so when you need a special cut just ask, our in-store butchers will be happy to custom cut any cut of meat for you
