Utility rates to rise this month

By Edward Freundl
Heritage Newspapers

Chelsea residents will pay more per month for water, wastewater and electric services under new rates approved Tuesday by the City Council.

Consultant Mark Beauchamp of Utility Financial Solutions of Holland presented the council with the results of a comprehensive cost-of-service study, and recommended modest increases in rates for all three city-supplied utilities. Although several residents were present, no one spoke for or against the proposed changes during a public hearing, so the council voted unanimously to approve them after Beauchamp's presentation.

The new rates will go into effect with the billing cycle beginning March 23.

To meet financial goals of self-sufficiency for each of those departments, rate

John Hansen named interim city manager

By Terry Jacoby
The Chelsea Standard

The Chelsea City Council approved the appointment of John Hansen as the interim city manager, replacing Michael Steklac, who resigned from the position last month after being told his contract would not be renewed.

The announcement was made during Tuesday night's city council meeting.

Hansen, who said he is not interested in the full-time position and will not apply for the opening, is well known in and around Washtenaw County. The longtime Dexter resident spent years in the Dexter Community School District, including long stints as the Dexter High School principal (1974-1984) and the superintendent (1984-1998).

Hansen

He also served Chelsea and the surrounding areas in the Michigan Legislature when he was a state representative from 1999 to 2002.

More recently Hansen has become an interim specialist.

Arts Fair turns back the clock

Dexter event features variety of local artists, crafty folk

By Terry Jacoby
Heritage Newspapers

Saturday's Dexter Pioneer Arts Fair will not only include a wide variety of talented artists, but plenty of fun activities and things to do for all ages. Here is a look at two featured artists setting up shop at the annual fair.

The Rainbow Players

The popular Rainbow Players return to the Dexter Pioneer Arts Fair and will again perform a play based on the "Little House on the Prairie" stories of Laura Ingalls Wilder.

Featuring Madeline Broekhuizen, Amanda Patton and Artemis, Harold, Teddy and Athena Eyster, this year's production focuses on the challenges faced by the Ingalls family as they endured the infamous blizzards of 1880. Living in a pioneer community in the Dakota territory, the deep snow stopped the trains from running and the family was cut off from supplies all winter long. As coal, flour, kerosene and other necessities of life ran out, the Ingalls had to improvise. The play will be presented at 10 a.m., 11 a.m., noon and 1 p.m.

Teddy Eyster (back row), Athena Eyster, Amanda Patton, Madeline Broekhuizen (front row), Harold Eyster and Artemis Eyster perform a play based on the "Little House on the Prairie."

Director Athena Eyster welcomes all ages to attend the performances. The performances are free to fair attendees.

America and Me

Eighth graders at Beach Middle School had the opportunity to enter the America and Me Essay Contest last fall. The topic, "My American Hero," drew many interested students who wrote about famous figures and family members. Third-place winner Emily Shrosbree (left), second-place winner Jennifer Snyder and first-place winner Ellen Day (shown with Rick Eder of State Farm Bureau Insurance, which sponsored the event) will now be entered into the statewide competition.

News in Brief

Community conversation scheduled for tonight

There will be a community meeting to explore how parents and other members of the community can work together to address the problems of alcohol and other drug use among our youth. The program, titled "Community Conversation: Kids – Alcohol and Other Drugs," will begin at 7 tonight at the high school.

Among the participants will be representatives from Chelsea Community Hospital, Washtenaw County Public Health Department and other community members.

This meeting is being organized by the Chelsea School District, representatives from South Meadows, Beach Middle School and Chelsea High School.

Byrnes and coffee

State Rep. Pam Byrnes (D-Lyndon Township) announced her next coffee hour will be Monday, March 19. The purpose of the coffee hour is for Rep. Byrnes to meet and talk with her constituents about the issues they feel are important to them. It is an informal, free event open to the public.

The coffee hour will be held from 9 to 10 a.m. Monday, March 19 at the Dexter Senior Center, 7720 Ann Arbor Street.

Attention photographers

Organizers of the second annual Cranesbill Books "Get Caught Reading Photo Contest" are looking for your photos. Photos must be submitted in duplicate as prints, not as digital files. The first print of each entry goes to the store's local contest, with cash prizes of $50, $30 and $25.

The second print submitted goes to a regional contest, with the potential prize of a trip to Chicago next October.

No age limits on the photographer or subject! No entry fees! The deadline for entries is April 1.

Like Water on film

The Chelsea-based "Like Water" will be featured in film at the 45th annual Ann Arbor Film Festival.

The world premier of the documentary film "Illymanya - a story of Guinea Music" will be held at the Michigan Theater in Ann Arbor, March 23.

"Illymanya" (which means patience in the Susu language of West Africa), follows local drum and dance group Like Water to their teachers in Africa, at a mountain top village in Guinea. Survival, community and tradition all intermingle as the film reveals the natural and artistic climate of a culture, and its devotees. Incredible traditional dance, and amazing drumming and singing are the backdrop to the story.

Screening takes place on March 23 at 5:30 pm. Like Water is the featured performance group at the official Friday night festival after-party.

For more information log onto www.illymanya.com or www.aafilmfest.org.

Family Concert

The Chelsea Chamber Players will present their annual "Family Concert" on Sunday, March 25h at 1 p.m. and 3 p.m. at the Chelsea Depot in downtown Chelsea. This will be an exceptionally special program with the musical presentation of local playwright Jeff Duncan's charming tale "Roland the Minstrel Pig," an adaptation of William Steig's delightful story, set in medieval times.

The story is about a lute-playing, sweet-singing pig who sets off to seek his fame and fortune when he runs into the wily fox Sebastian. Local composer Stephen Eddin's was commissioned to write the music to the story, which will be presented by Ann Arbor's Wild Swan Theater and the Chelsea Chamber Players.

Admission is free.

CEF raises $ for Chelsea

Members of the Chelsea Education Foundation raised money for the Chelsea schools and community.

Julie Ripberger enjoys some food for the evening.

In a not so perfect economy, the Chelsea community still proved what makes Chelsea unique and special. The Chelsea Education Foundation held their annual Gala and Silent Auction on Feb. 24 to raise money that goes directly into Chelsea schools and other community projects.

"The gala was a big success," said President Owen Ballow. "Donations were up from last year as was attendance. The support from the Chelsea community continues to grow despite the economic conditions that effect southeast Michigan. Brian Braun (auctioneer) provided a lively and festive atmosphere during this year's live auction."

Not only was attendance up, but so was the final tally on donations. Sponsors and supporters raised more than $40,000 compared to $39,000 last year. The event was held at Reddeman Farms Country Club and included an evening of silent auctions, drawings, cocktails and a strolling dinner. The auction was followed by live music and dancing.

Chelsea Education Foundation provides funding for a wide spectrum of educational activities to benefit the residents of Chelsea. They are a non-profit, tax-exempt organization. Friends and supporters organized CEF in 1990 to provide a link between school, business and community to help strengthen Chelsea's future.

Contributions to CEF are given back to the Chelsea community through scholarships for area college students, grants to teachers and others with great ideas, and sponsorship of community forums on important topics. In the past year, they have invested more than $50,000 of contributors' money in worthy endeavors.

Air horn incident at hockey game leads to assault

By Edward Freundl
Heritage Newspapers

Hockey players are known for their rough behavior, but at least they keep it on the ice.

A fight between Pee Wee hockey fans at Arctic Coliseum on March 3 led to charges and countercharges of assault, which were dropped after cooler heads prevailed.

According to a Chelsea Police Department report, the altercation began at about 6 p.m. when a 33-year-old Rives Junction man allegedly roughed up a 15-year-old Chelsea boy who was blowing an air horn near him in the stands.

By the time police arrived the fight had stopped, but not before the original suspect became a victim himself.

Witnesses said the man had asked the boy to stop blowing the air horn and move away from his young children, but when the boy refused the man grabbed him by the shoulders and forcibly took the horn.

Moments later, the report stated, two unknown men came out of the stands and attacked him.

Police said one put the Rives Junction man in a headlock while the other tackled him at the waist and wrestled him to the floor.

Police noted that the man had a large red mark on the left side of his nose where he had been punched, and the back of his jeans had been torn almost completely off.

Witnesses said both attackers appeared to be affiliated with the St. Johns, Mich., "Red Wings" Pee Wee team.

When contacted the day after the altercation, the Rives Junction man told police he "probably could have acted differently" in taking the horn away, according to the report.

He requested that assault charges against the men who attacked him be dropped, if the boy's family agreed to drop potential charges against him.

The boys' father also agreed not to pursue the case, and it was closed.

RATES

increases of 10 percent for water, 15 percent for electricity and a whopping 35 percent for wastewater treatment were studied.

"We tried to phase these in over a period of years to minimize the impact on the customer," Beauchamp said.

The typical residential water commodity rate will increase by only 7 cents, to $5.48 per 1,000 gallons, and the billing charge will go from $4.35 to $5.75 per month.

Wastewater treatment fees also will go up slightly, with the basic volume charge increasing 13 cents to $3.26 per 1,000 gallons and the billing charge rising from $5.83 to $7.50 per month

Small commercial, large commercial and industrial customers also will see an increase in water and wastewater rates, largely dependent on their monthly usage.

The increases were necessary to ensure the financial solvency of the departments' debt service, maintenance and reserve funds, Beauchamp said.

"The water department projected $317,000 in connection fees, but they actually received about $200,000 or less," he said, noting that the dropoff was due to a slowing economy and the failure of development to occur as expected.

The wastewater budget was in better shape, he said, with a cash balance of $3.5 million and reserves of about $835,000.

"That's below what we projected, but we have enough as a buffer," Beauchamp said. "We wanted to stay above $700,000."

Electric rates were not nearly so straightforward, with tier upon tier of service and different rate formulas for residential, commercial and industrial classifications.

Cash reserves for the department were "quite low" at $193,000, Beauchamp said, but still better than the projected figure of only $150,000.

The additional revenue was due to a meter calibration problem with some large industrial customers that was discovered and remedied.

Because of that, as well as a 15 percent bump in rates last year, Beauchamp recommended increases in typical residential rates of only 2 percent this year and in 2009, and none in 2008 and 2010.

Commercial, industrial and some residential rates will increase from 1 to 3 percent, depending on a number of factors.

"With these increases we will reach our minimum cash balance target of $1.8 million in 2011," Beauchamp said.

"The typical residential customer should see their bill for water, wastewater and electric go up about $6.40 a month," he concluded.

Crossing work planned

Norfolk Southern has scheduled repairs for the Main Street/M52 railroad crossing in mid to late April 2007. The work will take place after the asphalt plants open for the season.

The Michigan Department of Transportation has been in contact with the railroad and will assist them with traffic control during the project. City officials are reminding motorists to slow down and watch out for bumps in this area until the railroad completes the necessary repair work.

Courtenay Ackley

Crowning opportunity

Chelsea's Ackley wins pre-teen pageant

By Terry Jacoby
The Chelsea Standard

For Courtenay Ackley beauty is only partly skin deep.

Courtenay, 13, was recently crowned the 2007 Pre-Teen Miss Washtenaw County in her 11-13 age group. While the honor does include points for appearance, poise and other traditional beauty pageant standards, Courtenay is more concerned with how she can use the honor to help others.

"My whole life I have enjoyed giving speeches," she said. "I would like to use my ability to speak to help people live their life to the fullest. Becoming a motivational speaker would allow me to help people continue their dreams and would fulfill my dream of encouraging people to become the best they can be."

Courtenay, who goes to Christian Montessori School of Ann Arbor and will be attending Chelsea High School in the fall, has some lofty goals including to become a motivational speaker, fashion designer and future Miss America.

Being crowned Pre-Teen Miss Washtenaw County means that Courtenay was chosen to represent her age division in Washtenaw County. There were four age divisions in the pageant.

Courtenay, the daughter of Brian and Michelle Ackley of Chelsea, competed in talent, modeling, stage introduction, interview and evening wear. For talent she played Mozart's "Fantasy" on piano and played "Cripple Creek" on violin while dancing.

While there is not a state pageant for her age division, Ackley will make appearances in parades and maybe a few with Miss Washtenaw County. "I will have the opportunity to help at the Miss Washtenaw County pageant in November and then I will be expected to crown my successor next year at the 2008 Pre-Teen Miss Washtenaw County pageant," she said.

Courtenay says she enjoys playing both the violin and piano.

"It is hard to chose which instrument is my favorite; they are both very different so I never would be able to pick," she said. "I love the soothing sound of classical music and these instruments compliment each other."

Courtenay has many hobbies, including running, reading and "spending time with my wonderful family." She also enjoys hanging out with friends, skiing, golfing and playing soccer with the Chelsea Soccer Club. She is looking forward to the switch from private school to public school.

"I have been to Chelsea schools before so I know what to expect," she said. "I am looking forward to going to Chelsea, but I will miss the small, close knit, family like atmosphere of Christian Montessori School of Ann Arbor. I am looking forward to the variety of classes, clubs and sports that Chelsea High School offers students. I am excited to start high school in the fall."

Courtenay competed in the Michigan Coed pageant this past summer where she was sponsored by the Pink Turtle of Chelsea, Abrasive Finishing of Chelsea, R and A Transport of New Hudson and her parents. So competing in pageants is nothing new to Courtenay.

"I finished fifth runner-up overall and was the winner of the volunteer service award," she said. "I placed first runner-up with my violin and third runner-up playing the piano. I volunteer for WRAP camp, my church, Salvation Army and Heartland Care Center. I have volunteered more than 200 hours."

And if she ever does accomplish her goal of winning Miss America it will allow her the chance to help even more people.

MANAGER

He was the interim superintendent for the Brighton Area Schools (2006), interim manager in Scio Township (2005), and interim school superintendent in both Adrian (2003-04) and Willow Run (2003).

Hansen is excited about his new job and has already begun making the rounds, meeting people he is expected to lead over the next few months. "As an interim manager with no interest in the position I believe I can be more effective since I don't want the job," Hansen said. "It's important to get an interim in place right away so the citizens know and understand that someone is in place and things are getting done as usual. The department heads need to know there is a boss and the council has to have someone in charge that they can go to instead of going to individual department heads."

Hansen, who will have the same authority as a full-time city manager, will handle the day-to-day operations of the city.

"We will continue to work on the problems that exist and try to resolve them," he said. "I'm not saying they will all get done, but the residents should know that we won't stop working on them just because there isn't a full-time city manager in place."

"As a consultant I don't get vacation days, holidays or sick days," he said. "The City does not pay my FICA or pay anything for benefits or retirement. The $400 figure is derived from the employment costs of Mr. Steklac divided by the expected number of work days. I base my fee on what the person I am replacing made. In Brighton last year that number was $550 per day."

Hansen expects that "full-time" city manager to be in place sooner rather than later.

"It's never easy to predict when because the council only has a 50 percent say in who gets the job," he said. "The other 50 percent is up to the person being offered the job. But I do know they are being very aggressive and have already posted the position and have a closing date."

Hansen said July 1 is a reasonable goal if all goes well in the process.

The City Council reviewed Hansen's credentials last week during a special meeting and authorized the mayor to contract with the former Democratic chair of the House Education Committee and one-time Dexter Village council member and police commissioner.

"Right now I want to meet the department heads and see where they work and walk around with them and learn from them about what their needs are and what needs to be done," Hansen said. "I want a seamlessly and effortlessly transition and to continue working on things that need to be worked on."

At the Dexter Pioneer Arts Fair, Beverly Larsen will demonstrate her antique sock knitting machine.

FAIR

surprised to learn how this pioneer family invented alternatives to coal and flour. Instead of starving or freezing, they showed that where there was a will, there was a way. This is as important a lesson today as it was back then."

The play concludes with an inspirational song taken from one of the "Little House" books. Ten-year-old Artemis Eyster will lead the cast and the audience with her fiddle.

The Eyster family members are well suited to present pioneer plays of self-sufficiency. They also run their own home-based craft business, making lyres, and they will demonstrate lyre making at the fair. This simple instrument can be traced back to ancient Greece and Egypt. It has returned to popularity due to its use in primary education.

The Eyster family all participate in making lyres that are sold throughout the world and are featured in a number of toy catalogues. Made of cherry wood, Eyster lyres have a sweet tone that softly resonates and is considered by music teachers to be ideal for teaching music to young children.

Beverly Larsen

After 28 years as a recreation instructor at a state institution for juvenile delinquents, Beverly Larsen is now a self-proclaimed "leisure purist."

"All my life I have felt like I should have been born 100 years earlier," she said. "I have always been interested in the old ways. Participating in events like the Dexter Pioneer Arts Fair are especially fun because I get to dress up in old-timey clothes and pretend."

Larsen and her husband, Jim Johnson, live in an old-fashioned 1856 farmhouse about 25 miles south of Chelsea.

"I do a wide variety of lost arts in my granary, 'Beverly's Reverie,' a hobby house suggested by my husband out of self-defense," she said. "In addition to running my 1890's sock knitting machine, I enjoy chair caning, loom weaving, broom making, felt making and some nontraditional crafts."

At the Dexter Pioneer Arts Fair, Larsen will demonstrate her antique sock knitting machine.

"It makes wonderfully comfortable seamless fitted socks," Larsen said. "If anyone is familiar with spool knitting (a common childhood pastime for folks like me) or the circular knitting that has become popular recently, they will understand that the sock knitting machine uses the same technique."

Made of cast iron, the sock knitter is about the same size as a meat grinder, clamps onto a tabletop and is hand cranked. Larsen will have an assortment of sox to sell in a variety of sizes, colors and yarn types (wool, wool blend, cotton, cotton blend and acrylic).

"I can make socks to fit my husband's size 17 feet," she said. "He calls them his 'happy sox' because they fit and they are so comfortable. I took all my store-bought sox to Goodwill several years ago figuring if the day ever came that I couldn't make my own sox, then I'd go buy some. Now I hope that day will never come. These sox are way too comfortable for me to even think about going back to store-bought."

Larsen said she is looking forward to Saturday.

"I welcome people to come to the Dexter Pioneer Arts Fair and see the machine for themselves," she said. "It is fun for me to run and fascinating to watch. Men and children, as well as women, are easily intrigued by this unusual working antique – the machine, not me!"

EDITORIAL

Letters to the Editor
Letters may be sent to editor@chelseastandard.com or to Chelsea Standard/Dexter Leader, 20750 Old US-12, Chelsea, MI 48118

Our policy
It is our policy to run all local letters to the editor that deal with local issues and are not personal attacks.

Now that you've watched your TV appearance on Chelsea cable, what were your favorite parts?

Besides the final credits?

Yes.

The Springsteen picture looked cool. I liked my son's photo at the Buffalo Bills game we went to last year. My daughter looked cute with our dog Cosmo. Pretty much any part where I wasn't on the screen.

What were your least favorite parts?

The parts between when Linda introduced me to the part where the show ended. Ummm, I really thought it wasn't very good. Ummm, I said a lot of goofy things. Ummm, I thought I looked like a goofball. Ummm, I thought my head was two sizes too big. Ummm, I thought I said ummm an awful lot.

One thing you wish you didn't say?

I wish I hadn't mentioned my time in the CIA. Or how I was chosen to go on the first space shuttle mission but couldn't go because I had a cold the day of the launch. Those aren't interesting to anyone but me.

One thing you wish you had said?

I should have done a better job explaining that I have a small body, not a big head. Good thing they just got that wide-lens or the show would have been a real disaster.

What's been the reaction from the public?

They've stopped calling and the restraining orders have increased. One woman called to say that I was the guy who forget to tip her at a restaurant three months ago and another woman called to see if I was interested in touring with their circus.

John Hansen was named the interim city manager for Chelsea. Your thoughts?

The good folks of Dexter know that Chelsea picked the right person to help keep the machine running. They could have searched the country and not found someone more capable than the guy they found living right next door. It can't be an easy task to step into what can be a difficult situation and provide stability and focus. But Mr. Hansen has made a living out of doing just that.

Do you have baseball fever?

I must admit I do. I am a big Mets fan and the excitement over the season is growing. But I have to tell you Big Brother has put a damper on my enthusiasm.

Your brother in North Carolina?

No. BIG Brother. As in the taxman.

What does the taxman have to do with baseball?

The taxman has to do with everything. I bought Tiger tickets for the June series against the Mets. I bought two $20 tickets for the Friday game. When I went to school, that would have added up to $40. But not anymore.

There was a "convenience fee" of $4.25 PER ticket. I would think since I bought these online and never had to talk to anyone but a computer I might get a "convenience" discount. Am I paying $8.50 because they made it more convenient for me to buy the tickets online? Then there is a "order processing fee" of $3.85. So I have to pay the computer $4 for processing my convenient purchase. When I buy a CD at Best Buy I don't have to pay part of the cashier's salary who processed my purchase...but I have to pay the computer.

Then I get charged $2.50 for "delivery." What delivery? I printed it out on my paper on my color printer. They should be paying me $2.50 for not having to deliver the tickets. Instead, they are charging me $2.50 to print the tickets myself. If I let them print them and mail them do they waive the delivery charge?

So my $40 tickets come to a grand total of $54.85. That's before I spend $10 on parking and another $40 if we dare have anything to eat and drink. AND how much of taxpayer money went to build the baseball stadium and the infrastructure around it? It's amazing how we just sit back and allow ourselves to get ripped off.

Seinfeld line?

From George: "Divorce is very difficult, especially on the kids. Of course, I'm the result of my parents having stayed together, so you never know."

Woody Allen line?

"More than any other time in history, mankind faces a crossroads. One path leads to despair and utter hopelessness. The other, to total extinction. Let us pray we have the wisdom to choose correctly."

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor: There is a current proposal to finance $12 million in bonds to update the current waste-water treatment system. Who was the one that decided without a vote of the taxpayers what the taxpayers will pay for? This is a back-door approach to avoid allowing the taxpayers to vote on important city taxation issues.

Tim Sullivan
Chelsea

To the Editor: The Greenleaf family is a "Class Act."

This past Monday I had the pleasure of attending the High School Bowling Banquet, which was held at the Chelsea Hospital dinning room. This being my first such event of this type, I really wasn't sure what to expect, but have to tell you that I was pleasantly surprised.

There at the podium, playing Master of Ceremonies was Eddie Greenleaf, the owner of Chelsea Lanes. Eddie has been coaching these kids for years, and one would expect the coach to be at their banquet, but in this case, Eddie had come in on minimal sleep, having just spent a stint at the hospital with his newborn who was recovering from surgery. You could see that he was fatigued, worn out and just a bit off his game. But he knew that if he could, he needed to be there for his "other kids."

He pulled out a paper, scribbled at 5:30 that morning, and apologized for reading a written statement acknowledging that it would be hard and he hoped that he could get through it. He spoke of how proud he was of this team. From freshmen to seniors, they had all been involved in a fantastic season, taking this team to a 16-10 finish and showcasing several future stars. He then turned the program over to his father Ed, who along with his wife Kathy, had worked with the girls' team this year.

Now instead of being lumped into a group and being given a packaged pat on the back, Ed brought up each member of the team and told us of their progress, their contributions and their growth this year. It was very personal and obvious that he and Kathy had spent quite a bit of time getting to know these girls. Their admiration and affections for their mentors was obvious as well.

When the time came to turn the program back to Eddie, he brought up his coaches and staff and began to talk. A few words came out, and then, just like a marathoner hitting his stride in the last two miles of the race, Eddie found that second wind and spoke to his team. He spoke of the skills of this team, and of how hard they worked. He spoke to the hours of training and of their dedication. He spoke of their character and commitment. His pride was showing.

He paused, took a look around the room, put on a smile and then began to speak from the heart. He pulled up each of his bowlers, acknowledging their games, their skills and their quirkiness and had s little story to share about each and every one of them. Political debates on drives to games, questions about Hong Kong, strange dance moves, weird hair and strange behaviors were shared with all.

This team was great, and the reason they were great is because of the way they were coached. Imagine leaving your job, in the middle of the day and paying someone else to be there for you so that you can drive a bunch of kids 20, 30, 50 miles to compete in a game of bowling. Imagine spending several hours a day after school, not only making sure that these students hook was working, but also making sure that their homework was done.

How many of us could have pulled themselves together to give these kids their accolades as Eddie did? I'm sure the number is darn few. In a sport where there aren't 2,000 screaming fans in the stands cheering you on, thank you for giving them their due and making each one of these kids feel like they were "Going to Disneyworld!"

To the Editor: I would just like to congratulate the writer of the Dexter vs. Chelsea basketball game article. It was the best sports article I have ever read. I especially enjoyed the quotes from the sports movies and the analogy of two games going on, the basketball game and the student section. The parts about the student section made me proud to be part of it

Michigan History

March is Women's History month – a perfect time to recognize one of the state's earliest multicultural authors. Jane Schoolcraft was a skilled 19th century writer, whose accomplishments are overshadowed by her more-famous husband, Henry.

Born in 1800 at Sault Ste Marie, Jane was the third child of the union of an Ojibwa woman and an Irish father. Jane's mother, Oshauguscodawaqua (which means "woman of the green prairie") was descended from a venerate Indian family; her father, John Johnston, immigrated to Canada from Ireland in 1762.

Married in the early 1790s, the Johnsons settled in Sault Ste. Marie after the birth of their first son in 1793. According to one historian, the Johnson household, which eventually included eight children, "was known for its hospitality to strangers and its evening of storytelling."

John Johnson's desire to have his children read and Oshauguscodawaqua's skills at telling stories inspired Jane to start writing poetry. However, Jane's "main motivation to produce literature" came after she met Henry Schoolcraft. Geologist, explorer and Indian agent, Schoolcraft settled in Sault Ste. Marie in 1822. The following year, Jane and Henry were married.

The early years were among the happiest of the Schoolcraft marriage. Both Jane and Henry worked together collecting stories and writing poetry for publication. As her husband's responsibilities (including becoming a member of the Michigan territorial government) took him from home for long stretches of time, their union suffered. The mother of three children by 1830, Jane also struggled when her husband began questioning her Native American heritage. Henry faulted Jane for lacking a "proper" upbringing because her mother was not Euro-American.

Jane consoled herself by writing devotional poetry, before turning to other topics, including questioning the Euro-American notions of a "proper" woman's role. Jane also told one traveling author that women were "more valued in Indian culture than they were in white culture."

Our take

State needs competitiveness

Toyota announced this week that it will build a $1.3 billion plant to produce its Highlander sport-utility vehicle in Blue Springs, Miss. The automaker and local officials expect the plant will bring 2,000 new jobs to the area after it is constructed. Other sites that Toyota considered included cities in Arkansas and Tennessee.

The Toyota plant is the second automotive manufacturer landed by Mississippi. Nissan opened an assembly plant there that employed 4,000 people in 2003.

Toyota officials said they selected the Mississippi site for the new plant because of its proximity to other facilities, such as a Toyota engine plant in Texas. That may be true, but it's also a diplomatic way of saying that it's easier — and more profitable — to do business in "right-to-work" states.

We have seen a seachange in the automotive industry in the last decade or so, particularly in the area of foreign automakers' investment in new plants in the United States. Those automakers are locating their plants in the South, a region that does not have a legacy of strong unions. Michigan is paying the price for that trend.

Michigan offers more than those Southern states — an existing infrastructure of roads, rail and the Great Lakes for shipping; a more experienced workforce; and some of the best automotive engineers in the world. One has to ask, "Why, with all that Michigan offers, do foreign automakers continue to shun the state in favor of development in the South?"

There can be only one reason: Southern states are considered right-to-work states.

Companies invest and build where they are welcome and where costs, especially labor and legacy costs, to produce their goods are lower, creating more profitability. That profitability translates into growth and additional investment, and with that comes more employment opportunities.

It's bad enough that Michigan is losing jobs to China and India and Mexico. But the least we should expect is that when companies want to build cars in the United States, Michigan gets its share of the jobs.

But we are not getting our share of those jobs. Southern and western states hold an undeserved advantage over Michigan, and will continue to do so, because of their right-to-work status.

If we want jobs for our children in Michigan, we need to either lobby the federal government to prohibit right-to-work states, or we need to start considering making Michigan more competitive regarding its right-to-work status. If not, one of those two options then we will have to get used to visiting our kids in Mississippi or Tennessee.

Pain meets joy

Chelsea poet hosts reading of first book

Amy Kuenzel Valencia Jelks is the first to admit she's had a rough life. But she's also been able to overcome the pain to have a pretty good life, raising two children who are not only her life, but her inspiration.

Jelks, who moved to Chelsea in 1981 and graduated from Chelsea High School in 1987, covered both the pain and the joy in her life in her new book "Amy Ever After," which is a collection of her poems.

"I started writing poetry in 1984, never thinking that my poems would be published," said Jelks, who started her own cleaning business, Amy's Cleaning Service, more than 10 years ago. "But 'Amy Ever After,' my first book, finally happened in 2006. Writing was the way I released my emotions. My poetry is of my life and the many happy and sad times I have experienced, including the birth of my two children, Tony, 18 and Auburn, 13, and the deaths of Bobby Murphy and recently Riley Scott Sumner."

Jelks' first book reading will be at 2 p.m. March 24 at Cranesbill Book Store on Main Street in Chelsea.

"I am scared to death, but please come and join me," she said.

The following is what's written on the back of Jelks' book.

"My name is Amy, mother of two, realizing it's time to fulfill my dream. I have written all my life, yet recently been inspired to go for it. Here is my story: raped as a child, disowned by my father, lost loves and found lovers. Still here today as a divorced woman yet in sorrow. My words of pain, regret, and loss. At 30 I found my rapist and confronted him, then watched my father die. Now ready to face this world head on, I vow to accomplish my dream. I hope you find some inspiration from my words.

Here is to my children, my family, and all the friends that inspired me. I hope you enjoy. Cheers to me and my family. We did it!

Love, Amy

"My poetry is of my life and the many happy and sad times I have experienced, including the birth of my two children."

- Amy Jelks

Excerpts

True Friends:

True friends are there forever the ones who really care.

Friends will stand beside you in all you wish to dare.

You can call them on the phone in the middle of the night and by the time you hang up everything's alright.

They're not there to hurt you or bring you any pain, yet always standing by your side with nothing to gain.

Friends are there to help you through, catch you when you fall.

Love, life and problems, they'll help you fix it all.

Scream little girl, scream for your life scream until they hear you and fight for your life.

Days have come and days have gone the nights were here but not for long. Knowing each day has to end, starting our love all over again.

Spending our days and nights together praying this love will last forever. Making love and singing songs believing this is not wrong.

Let's make this feeling last forever and a day, til the wind will carry us away.

Bringing us laughter joy and tears carrying us through the years.

COMMUNITY SUPPORT RETURNS

$775,000 donated by TSI

In the late summer of 2005, Todd's Services, Inc. kicked off their Give Back to the Community Program (GBC), donating 3% of every job to the local, non-profit organization of the customer's choice.

Todd's Services (TSI) started out with a goal of $1 million to be donated. With such a huge response from organizations in need, TSI quickly increased the amount to $2 million. "We just did not realize there were so many non-profit organizations in our area and definitely did not realize so many were in real need," says Kurt LaButte, one of the owners of Todd's Services, Inc.

Since late summer of 2005, TSI has donated $775,000 to the community. Most participating organizations have received donations in the thousands of dollars. If you are not participating in their Give Back to the Community Program, you should contact TSI. (810) 231-2778.

Frequently Asked Questions:

Q. What percent of the jobs do you pay 3% on?
A. 100%. For every job we complete we make a donation.

Q. Why has the GBC Program been so successful?
A. The GBC program is successful because our price guarantee assures each customer TSI will be their best value. If they are not, TSI will give the customer 10% of their bid in cash.

Q. What is the best way I can inform the members of my organization about the Give Back to the Community Program?
A. Talk about the program, let others know you are participating by distributing flyers or mailers for your organization. TSI will create custom flyers or mailers for you. The flyers can be mailed, e-mailed or distributed at meetings or events.

Q. Is there a cost to participate? What if I need to have materials printed or mailed?
A. NO, this program is free. TSI usually covers all the costs for printing and mailing. We try to make it very easy for the organizations.

Q. Are you asking us to promote your company?
A. Certainly. This program is another way the public can support local, non-profit organizations. You can feel very confident referring TSI. TSI has been Voted the Best Landscaping Company 7 Years In a Row, and TSI guarantees to be a customer's best value.

Michigan Friends Center offers idyllic meeting place

By Sheila Pursglove
Special Writer

Imagine working among 90 acres of rustic peace and beauty.

That's the experience of several area residents who work or volunteer at the Michigan Friends Center, tucked away in the woods just north of Chelsea.

Built in 1994, MFC is a not-for-profit organization whose mission is centered on Quaker principles including building community, fostering peace, social justice, spiritual growth and healing. It's affiliated with several Quaker organizations in the area, including Green Pastures Quarterly Meeting, Ann Arbor Friends Meeting, and Friends Lake Cooperative Community, on whose grounds it sits.

MFC is a rental facility, ideal for small conferences, workshops, retreats, training sessions, educational programs and special events like weddings and bar mitzvahs, according to building manager Dale Osborn.

"Michigan Friends Center is a somewhat rustic retreat — access is via a dirt road, there is no Internet connectivity, even cell phones don't work very well there," says Osborn, a member of Friends Lake Cooperative Community for over 15 years.

"It's designed for events or groups that want to get away from the everyday bustle of normal life — groups that seek a simpler, out-of-the-way, back-to-basics experience."

Osborn, a musician who has performed at MFC fund-raising concerts, started his part-time job at MFC last fall, and is responsible for scheduling events, showing the building to prospective users, keeping the building clean and keeping a general eye on the place.

He's one of several people who keep MFC humming along.

Pat Micks moved from Massachusetts to Michigan three years ago to manage a forest ecology research project at the University of Michigan Biological Station in Pellston.

"I was brand new to the area, no family or friends here," Micks says. "Being a Quaker, I connected immediately with the Ann Arbor Friends Meeting. Pam Hoffer, a member of AAFM who is dedicated to the life and energy of the MFC, also convinced me to join the MFC program committee in early 2005."

The committee comes up with ideas for programs based on the goals of the MFC.

"We discuss possible presenters, contact them, and make all the arrangements and publicize the events," Micks says. "Usually one committee member is responsible for each event.

"We have offered many one-day workshops on topics of interest to Quakers, although these are open to anyone in the community who is interested. We also offer half-day workshops on topics of wider interest, such as the Underground Railroad presentation last October, and events for families such as the family arts and crafts event last spring, and our annual Gemini concert which is a benefit for MFC."

Micks volunteers for MFC because its goals resonate with what she holds most important in life. "Working with MFC gives me the chance to help bring these things into being. It is very fulfilling to plan and make happen these workshops and presentations that enlighten and enliven our community."

Although Micks was new to this, she says she has learned and grown a great deal by working on this committee.

"I've also enjoyed meeting lots of people in the Chelsea community. I really enjoy chatting with shopkeepers and staff as I walk up and down Main Street to post flyers for MFC events. I've met many interesting, friendly people who are happy to help us publicize our events."

Elaine Economou and husband Patrick joined FLCC after driving there one summer evening.

She also appreciates and enjoys the MFC building, wooded setting and the lake. "It's a peaceful place for people to gather and share a day or an afternoon," she says. "It's a place where you can be away from your everyday busy life for a while and really be open to sharing with others."

Laura Scott, a member of the Friends Lake Community Cooperative and an employee of U-M School of Public Health, is in her second year on the program committee, and enjoys arranging the food for programs.

"I first went to MFC for a program on poetry writing and was taken with the beauty of the land," Scott says. "Pam Hoffer, who is a woman of great conviction and enthusiasm for MFC and FLCC, had been talking to me about FLCC for at least a year before I joined and then convinced me that I should become part of the MFC program committee."

Scott moved back to Michigan seven years ago after living on the East Coast and having traveled and lived in Europe.

"The beauty in this part of Michigan is mostly quiet and I hadn't really appreciated it when I was growing up," the Clinton native says. "I like the geography of the area around FLCC with the hills and lakes formed by the digging and depositing of earth by the glaciers."

Don Nagler is another member of the program committee, a member of the MFC board for 9 years, and connected with MFC for about 12 years.

"I related to the Friends Lake Cooperative Community before and after its formal organization and enjoyed camping with my family there," he says.

A former resident of Ann Arbor who now lives in Mt. Pleasant, Nagler also is a member of Ann Arbor Friends Meeting, and is active in regional Quaker organizations such as the Green Pastures Quarterly Meeting and the Lake Erie Yearly Meeting. He is active locally in Chippewa River District Library, Audubon, Sierra Club, and Conservancy organizations. "I've been active in nonviolent direct action behavior most of my life," he says.

Nagler facilitates programs that involve appreciation of literature and nature as well as discussion and meditation relative to Quaker "testimonies" for which the situation of the Center on the grounds of the Friends Lake and the meeting rooms function very well, he says.

"My medical practice and religious experience have suggested how important and restorative these experiences can be to everyone."

At a glance

What: Michigan Friends Center
Where: 7748 Clarks Lake Road, about two miles north of Chelsea, off Waterloo Road.
Website: www.michiganfriendscenter.org.
Phone: 475-1892
The facts: MFC can be rented for one day or several, weekdays or weekends. Groups can also, with pre-arrangement, avail themselves of some of the amenities of Friends Lake Community. These include walking trails in the woods, a rustic campground, and a firewood-heated sauna. Guests can swim or boat on Long Lake. A large meeting room has a cathedral ceiling and overlooks the forest. Two smaller rooms can accommodate smaller groups, and the building also includes a kitchen with a commercial stove. MFC, a member of the Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce, can accommodate 60-100 people. It is barrier-free and is an alcohol and smoke-free facility.

MFC job grew out of 18 months as caretaker

By Sheila Pursglove
Special Writer

Elaine Economou's job is to make connections within the community to increase rentals of the Michigan Friends Center facility, build programs of interest to the local community and the state-wide Quaker community, and to help identify areas to grow funding.

Her work evolved from her connection with Friends Lake Cooperative Community, which she and her family joined in the summer of 2002, and a subsequent 18-month period as caretaker at the property.

"It was during this time that I developed a deep appreciation and connection to this land and the mission behind both FLCC and the Michigan Friends Center," she says. "Though I'm not Quaker, the principles of the mission statement of MFC resonate with me and through my participation on a committee for the Center."

Economou realized the skills she developed over the 17 years working with nonprofits and most recently working in the local community, could help MFC identify and reach its goals. "I really believe the success of a nonprofit, or any organization is in the relationships that are cultivated over time and I am really happy to help do this for MFC."

"I like working with people and although I don't work in a busy office, getting out into the community, working to develop the ideas of our dedicated board of directors and volunteers, and building programs that serve the mission of MFC are all really meaningful to me."

Economou and her husband Patrick joined FLCC after driving out there one summer evening.

"I hopped out of the car and trotted over to the lake as the sun was setting which was as beautiful as could be. The lakefront was empty but I saw evidence of a wonderful summer day - a towel draped over a picnic table, a sand box with toys strewn about, canoes, a fire pit and swing set and a raft out in the lake," Economou says. "I ran back to the car and said, 'Yes' to my husband.

"I realized that this was indeed a very special place and within days we began the process of becoming members of FLCC and within a year, were committed to becoming the caretakers for the community."

Want a similar rustic experience?
Friends Lake Cooperative Community invites applications from individuals interested in the Summer Coordinator position. For information, e-mail Linda Conrad at lindalconrad@yahoo.com.

The following May, during a quiet solo kayak ride on the lake, Economou realized her life was about to change dramatically.

"For years, my husband and I had moved toward the dream of living on the farm he grew up on in Lima Township," she says.

At that time, the couple owned a home in downtown Chelsea, converting it to two apartments, one to rent, the other to live in during their build.

"Out there on the lake that day, I realized that we were moving home," she says. "For both of us, the move back to the farm was a realization of our dreams and we were creating the home we wanted to live in for the rest of our lives."

After hearing a friend talk about the caretaker position at FLCC, the idea intrigued Economou. "What would it be like to live in two rooms for a summer or winter? Using the outhouse with small children could not be fun. Heating with wood – we would freeze! My husband is an attorney, where would we put his suits?"

She found answers from Claire Foley, a former caretaker with her son and husband, about the challenges and joys.

"Claire was a wonderful resource– and still is – and her love and commitment to the community and this place was evident in how she described her time living here," Economou says. "After talking with Claire and a few other people in the community about my crazy idea I finally decided to run this by my husband."

Her idea was to rent out both apartments, and store Patrick's suits in the basement of his law office, where he could also get a daily shower.

"It will be hard but I think we are supposed to do this," she told him.

Patrick's response? "Let's do it."

With the green light from the FLCC committee, the family started as winter caretakers, then served as summer coordinators, a 24-hour job six days a week.

"The stories could fill a book, but the impressions and beautiful memories of seeing the seasons pass from the window of the log cabin, the wonderful people that make up this community, the challenges of day to day life and the incredibly positive impact our time here made on our children are the impressions I will always carry with me," Economou says.

"Walking up to the outhouse in the mornings in our wool long johns, robes, boots, coats and hats on was probably quite a sight but my sons Jack and Patrick would just walk quietly up the hill holding my hand and looking at the trees and snow and for any new animal tracks since the day before. As I sort of felt cranky about this event, they were just fine and enjoyed the wonder of being outside so early in the morning.

"At night, if we had been out and had to come home to a cold cabin, they would just jump into their bed, which was at the foot of our bed, in their clothes and cuddle together under the blankets to go to sleep. It was quite an adventure."

The boys took their jobs of

Habitat update

Dan Gorman, from Chelsea Church of the Nazarene, works on the roof of the Sartor house. Members of the church worked on the house this past summer and fall as part of the Habitat project. The family is Marilyn and Frank Sartor of Ypsilanti, who have six children. The Sartor family will speak at the church about their Habitat experience at 6 p.m. Sunday. There will be refreshments served following the presentation.

FRIENDS

"take carer" seriously, greeting guests and making friends with people of all ages.

"At Christmas, they got to go to sleep with the light of our small Christmas tree shining into their dreams," Economou says. "And for two Christmases, the memory of sledding in the forest with friends will always be treasured."

By January 2005 and expecting her third child, Economou was ready to leave FLCC and begin the next phase of life in the family's new home.

During an annual Family Camp in 2006, she reflected on the family's time at FLCC.

"I felt such incredible gratitude for our experiences and success in accomplishing the feat of living here with two small children, my husband, a puppy and three kittens. I felt a connection to this place that both comforted and inspired me.

"Though we no longer lived here, it was still a place where we all had a strong connection. My kids still say that they loved living in the cozy cabin.

"I saw the most beautiful sunrises and sunsets, watched animals around the lake when I could and enjoyed meeting and developing friendships with some pretty wonderful people. "Gratitude seems to be an understatement."

A dancer, choreographer and teacher of Pilates, Economou gained skills in fundraising and non-profit administration working for a dance company in New York City; for Chicago's Grant Park Music Festival; and with the University Musical Society at the University of Michigan. She volunteered for the Chelsea Farmers Market for five years and helped organize and build business.

Her work at MFC is to make meaningful connections with groups and event organizers. She currently is working on a program for women to coincide with the Vernal Equinox, and with the Western Washtenaw Democrats to host an evening of a two-part event surrounding the showing of an "Inconvenient Truth" in late April. "Partnerships are a really exciting way to build community connections and I look forward to working with other area groups in this way," she says.

"I like also the idea of developing short- and long-term goals with the board and helping to reach those. This is a difficult time for many non-profits, I know, so I hope to help shape our goals conservatively but I am very optimistic that there are ways to help serve the community – both locally and the state-wide Quaker community – that will build revenue for MFC.

"It is a privilege for me to do such meaningful work."

Bulldogs win district crown

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

Chelsea's boys' basketball team captured a Class B state district title defeating Carleton Airport 77-36 last Friday at Brooklyn Columbia Central.

The district crown is the Bulldogs' second in a row. Chelsea also has won three consecutive Southeastern Conference White Division championships.

"We were able to get off to a good start," said Chelsea coach Robin Raymond. "We forced a lot of turnovers with our full court defense. That set the tone for the rest of the game."

The Bulldogs (22-1) forced eight turnovers in the first quarter, jumping out to a 16-4 lead.

At halftime, Chelsea increased its advantage to a commanding 42-13.

Entering the fourth quarter, the Bulldogs led 62-29.

In the fourth frame, Chelsea outscored the Jets (8-12) 15-7 for the night's final margin.

"They relied on their inside game, so we tried to force a full court game and not allow them to set-up their half court offense," Raymond said. "We shot the ball well from the floor. The kids are looking for the extra pass and finding the open man."

Raymond emptied his bench early in the third quarter.

Senior forward Micah Hudson led the Bulldogs with 19 points, including three triples, six rebounds and three steals. Senior guard Adam Connell finished with 16 points, eight rebounds and two steals.

Senior guard Nate Schwarze added a double-double of 12 points and 10 assists, while sophomore center Michael Stratman (6-foot-6, 210 pounds) had 10 points, three rebounds and two blocked shots for Chelsea.

Junior forward Greg Rebudela (6-3) had six points, while senior forward Mike Sauers had five points and five assists and senior post player Benny Johnson three points for the Bulldogs.

Chelsea's Micah Hudson (right) and Nate Schwazre help hoist the Class B state district championship trophy after the Bulldogs defeated Carleton Airport 77-36 last Friday at Brooklyn Columbia Central.

Junior guard Elliot Marshall had two points and three assists, while sophomore Mike Roberts had two points for Chelsea.

The Bulldogs finished 31-of-53 from the field for 58 percent. The Jets ended up 16-of-47 for 34 percent.

Chelsea made eight three-pointers for the game.

At the foul line, the Bulldogs were 7-of-11 for 64 percent, while Airport was 3-of-8 for 38 percent.

Chelsea out-rebounded the Jets 29-22.

The Bulldogs forced 23 turnovers and had 13 steals. In contrast, Chelsea had only nine turnovers.

On March 7, the Bulldogs beat Erie-Mason 85-26 in the district semifinal at Brooklyn Columbia Central.

Chelsea raced out to a 28-5 first quarter lead.

At the break, the Bulldogs led 43-15.

Heading into the fourth quarter, Chelsea increased its lead to 66-22.

Despite the lopsided win, Raymond said his team remained focused throughout the contest.

"I was pleased that we kept our consistency up," he said. "There was no let up despite who was in the game. That says something about playing as a team. Our discipline was very good."

Thirteen different Chelsea players scored in the game, led by Nate Schwarze with 18 points and six assists. Schwarze was 7-of-9 from the field, including two three-pointers.

Marshall ended up with 12 points, including two triples, while Connell had 10 points and four assists and Rebudela eight points and two assists for the Bulldogs.

Stratman added six points and three rebounds, while junior guard Matt Schwarze had five points and four assists and Johnson four points.

Junior center Dean Roberts, junior guard Jeff Adams, sophomore forward Chris Morgan and sophomore forward Jake Mantel each netted two points for Chelsea.

The Bulldogs were 36-of-50 from the field for a season high 72 percent, while the Eagles (2-18) were 10-of-27 for 31 percent.

Chelsea's boys' swimming and diving team finished tied for 32nd at last week's Division II state meet at Oakland University in Rochester.

The Bulldogs, along with Okemos and Spring Lake, each ended up with seven points in the 72-team meet.

Winning the Division II state title was Holland with 244 points.

East Grand Rapids was state runner-up with 231 points, while Birmingham Groves was third with 210 points.

Rounding out the top five were Birmingham Seaholm in fourth place with 200 points and Midland Dow in fifth place with 146 points.

The top 16 participants in each event advance from preliminaries to finals. Points are awarded in each event through the top 16 places. During the finals, some events had as many as 68 entrants, and each of these had to achieve the state championship qualifying standard to participate in the meet.

"We did alright," said Chelsea coach Dave Jolly. "We really prepared for the conference meet and it showed with our tremendous time drops at Saline."

Individually for Chelsea, senior Jordan Skidmore placed 12th in the state in the 100 backstroke with a time of 55.70. He also finished 27th overall in the 100 freestyle in 50.37.

Winning the 100 backstroke was Holland's Jordan Schrotenboer in 51.83. Milan's Ryan Bordine was first in the 100 freestyle in 46.69.

Bulldog senior Rick Kinsey placed 15th in the 500 freestyle with a clocking of 5:00.23. He also ended up 19th in the 200 freestyle in 1:48.86.

Winning the 500 freestyle was Alma's John Frutiger in a Division II state record 4:32.12. Birmingham Seaholm's Morgan Priestley finished first in the 200 freestyle in 1:38.10.

Chelsea senior Nick Armstrong placed 20th in the 50 freestyle with a time of 22.71. He also finished 22nd in the 100 freestyle in 49.77.

Winning the 50 freestyle was Brian Kerr of East Grand Rapids in 21:02.

In the one-meter diving competition, Bulldog freshmen Michael Heydlauff and Peter Wilke finished 27th and 34th, respectively.

"They did quite well in their first state diving competition," Jolly said.

Winning the diving event was Holland's Johnny Sanchez with 386.80 points.

In the relays, Chelsea placed 17th in the 200 freestyle relay with a clocking of 1:48.66. In the 400

Chelsea volleyball participated in the Class B state regional semifinal match last Saturday at Eaton Rapids.

The Bulldogs faced Coldwater, a team led by 6-foot-1 junior middle blocker Kristi Sexton, falling to the Cardinals in three games 22-25, 23-25, 13-25.

Chelsea coach Laura Cleveland said her squad couldn't take advantage of their opportunities against Coldwater.

"We had our chances in the match, but we did not execute offensively as we have been doing or with our serving," she said.

Cleveland was pleased with her squad's effort, but hoped for a better outcome.

"I was proud of our team for advancing (to regionals), but I know we would have liked to have had a better showing at the regionals," she said.

Leading the Bulldogs on the day was senior outside hitter Ann Kendzicky (5-11), who's signed with Grand Valley State University, with 11 kills.

Sophomore standout Carolyn Olsen (6-0), a middle blocker, paced Chelsea with four aces.

Senior setter Katie MacFarlan (5-5) led the Bulldogs with 21 assists.

Coldwater ended up losing to Lake Odessa Lakewood in the regional final 16-25, 26-24, 25-19, 26-24.

Lakewood beat Haslett 25-21, 25-19, 25-21 in the other regional semifinal match.

The Class B state final is 6 p.m. March 17 at University Arena on the campus of Western Michigan University.

The Class D state final is noon, followed by the Class C final at 2 p.m. and the Class A title match at 4 p.m. All finals are at WMU.

Wrestling

Cooley 1-2 at state final

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

Chelsea's Dakota Cooley faced the state's best wrestlers at last week's Division II final at The Palace of Auburn Hills.

The Bulldog freshman held his own despite recently returning from a hand injury.

In his opening 112-pound match, Cooley (37-4) lost by pin to St. Johns sophomore Jake Walters (44-7) in 1:41. Walters would advance to the state final losing to Dexter junior Bret Marsh 8-2.

"The kid (Walters) had one good move and it was a cradle," said Chelsea coach Kerry Kargel. "Dakota shot in, he was aggressive, and the kid got him in a cradle and pinned him. It's hard to break a cradle."

In the consolation round, Cooley defeated Wyoming Rogers junior Du Bui (38-6) 7-4 in his second match of the tournament.

"That was a great match between both of the guys," Kargel said.

In his third match, Cooley lost to Linden sophomore Josh Freitas (49-12) 7-5.

"That was a heartbreaker," Kargel said. "The score was 5-5 with 10 seconds left. Dakota was on top and slipped on a leg ride. Freitas was able to get a reversal to win the match."

Besides Marsh (53-2) and Walters, Stevensville-Lakeshore freshman Nick Humes (37-11) placed third overall, while Grand Rapids Forest Hills Northern senior Jerrad Hoxie (47-4) finished fourth.

Rounding out the top eight were Petoskey senior Dustin Boyer (51-6) in fifth place, followed by Freitas in sixth place, Mattawan junior Sean Tomac (38-4) in seventh place and Hastings sophomore Matt Watson (42-8) in eighth place.

Besides Cooley and Humes, the only other freshman in the 112-pound weight class at the state meet was Warren Woods-Tower's John Popham.

Despite not placing at the state meet, Kargel said Cooley had a terrific season.

"You can't complain," he said. "He had a great freshman year. He battled (Bret) Marsh) to two good matches. One of the matches went into overtime."

Running

Girls prepare for 5K event

Girls on the Run is a fun and innovative recreation and self-esteem program for girls in the Chelsea, Dexter area.

Girls on the Run is an experimental learning program for 8- to 13-year-olds that combines lessons in self-empowerment, healthy decision-making and body image with warm-ups and workouts to train for completion of the For Women Only 5K (3.1 mile) run/walk in May.

A national program, Girls on the Run encourages emotional, social, mental and physical development. The group has spread to over 140 locations in the United States and Canada.

Girls on the Run combines physical training, with warm-ups, team-building activities and workouts that focus on specific life skills. Some of the life skills covered include how to get along within a group, how to assert oneself in a healthy manner, how to stop a gossip chain and how to combat the negative and unattainable images put forth by the media.

Softball

Gold qualifies for World Series

The Ann Arbor Gold U-12 Kennedy girls' fastpitch softball team began its season placing second in the National Softball Association's Winter Classic World Series Qualifier Tournament in Fort Wayne last week.

With its finish, the squad qualified for the NSA World Series in July.

The Gold ended the tournament with an overall record of 3-1-1. Ann Arbor lost in the championship game 7-6 to the Naperville (Ill.) Diamonds.

Local members of the team include Chelsea's Sarah Bucholz and Allie Smith and Dexter's Lauren Schoof.

CROWN

At the line, Chelsea finished 7-of-10 for 70 percent. Erie-Mason was 6-of-8 for 75 percent.

The Bulldogs controlled the boards out-rebounding the Eagles 25-10.

Chelsea forced 26 turnovers and had 16 steals. The Bulldogs committed five turnovers.

"We're getting a lot of contributions from a lot of different players," Raymond said.

Chelsea played Gibraltar Carlson in a Class B state regional semifinal at Milan after press deadline. If successful against the Marauders, who are led by 6-7, 260-pound senior center Patrick McLain, the Bulldogs would play the winner of Dearborn Heights Robichaud-Detroit Southwestern in the regional final 7 p.m. Friday at Milan.

The Class B state quarterfinals are March 20 at Ferndale.

JV Basketball

Chelsea's JV boys' basketball team concluded its regular season defeating county rival Dexter 58-46 March 2.

The visiting Bulldogs (10-10, 6-8 Southeastern Conference) trailed 10-8 after one quarter.

At halftime, Chelsea found itself down 24-17.

In the third quarter, the Bulldogs exploded for 19 points, while limiting the Dreadnaughts to eight points, taking a 43-33 lead.

In the fourth quarter, Chelsea outscored Dexter 22-14 for the game's final margin.

Jake Mantel led the Bulldogs with 24 points.

Mike Roberts added 15 points, while Alex Keely had nine points and Mike Cooper five points for Chelsea.

On Feb. 27, the host Bulldogs defeated Ypsilanti Lincoln 52-39.

Roberts led Chelsea with 16 points.

Chris Morgan chipped in 12 points, while Mantel had 11 points for the Bulldogs.

Chelsea raced out to a 12-3 first quarter lead.

At the break, the Railsplitters closed the gap to 17-15.

Heading into the fourth quarter, the Bulldogs led 28-24.

In the fourth quarter, Chelsea outscored Lincoln 24-15 for the night's ending margin.

Mike Goedert, Tyler Fischhaber, Mike Lenneman, Brett Everding, Dakota Risner, Travis Johnson, Matt McCalla, Keely, Morgan, Mantel, Cooper and Roberts teamed up for a successful season this year.

"They all did a great job this year and were an outstanding group of young men," said Chelsea coach Mark Scheese.

MHSAA to broadcast volleyball state finals

The final matches of the 2007 Michigan High School Athletic Association volleyball tournament Saturday will be available for live viewing online through the MHSAA Internet Broadcast Network, mhsaanetwork.com.

For the past few years, the MHSAA has streamed live audio of the semifinal and final games of a variety of tournaments, including volleyball. This will be the first time the MHSAA will stream live video through its broadcast Web site. The video stream will be the MHSAA-produced telecast of the four championship matches which can be watched on FSN Detroit the weekend of April 7 through 8.

Mark Crawford and Todd Arner will again handle the play-by-play duties for the matches, while Lynn Rosendale will provide the color commentary.

The broadcast schedule begins with the Class D final at noon Saturday, followed by Class C at 2 p.m., Class A at 4 p.m. and Class B at 6 p.m.

The online production is a collaborative effort between the MHSAA, One Putt Productions, and Advanced Video Service, in cooperation with the MHSAA's online broadcast provider, EZStream.com. Audio will again be available of all semifinal and final matches.

Joe Jason and Ken Delaney will share the play-by-play duties of those games, with Dean Hadden and Julie Klein sharing the color commentary.

Semifinal action begins at 2 p.m. on Thursday and Friday.

This is the second of three straight weekends of MHSAA finals that will be broadcast on mhsaanetwork.com.

Last weekend, approximately 3,000 total listeners, over 2,500 of them live, listened to broadcasts of the hockey semifinals and finals.

Next weekend, the network will provide coverage of the boys' basketball semifinals and finals.

Beach spikers fall to Adrian Blue

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

Chelsea's Beach Middle School seventh-grade Blue volleyball team lost to host Adrian Blue 25-23, 20-25, 11-25 last Thursday.

"They had their highest number of bump, set and spikes in this match," said Chelsea coach Linda Turok. "It was great to see them setting the ball up."

Megan Brockett led the Bulldogs with 10 service points and two aces.

Tessa Elwart, Danielle Dahl and McKenna Jerant each had four service points, while Morgan Gavorek had one service point for Beach. Elwart also added nine assists, while Lisa Keene, Jessica Craig, Haleigh Zimmerman and Brockett each had one assist.

On March 6, Chelsea defeated rival Dexter Gold 27-25, 25-16, 25-21.

Jerant paced the Bulldogs with eight service points and two aces.

Gavorek, Keene and Elwart each had four service points. Elwart also had one ace.

Nicole Schmelz, Katie Wollpert and Dahl each had three service points. Dahl also had one ace. Briana Carden, Jill Schmidt and Anna Friss each had two service points.

Brockett finished with three assists, while Elwart had two assists for Beach. Laura Lyons and Keene each had one assist.

"The girls all served well and played their best volleyball match of the season," Turok said.

Chelsea's Beach Middle School seventh-grade Gold volleyball team lost to visiting Tecumseh 25-15, 25-16, 25-14 last Thursday.

"In the first game, we got behind 11-2, but battled back to cut the score to 12-8 then it slipped away," said Chelsea coach Rahn Rosentreter. "In the second game, same as the first, we got behind early but cut the lead to within three then Tecumseh went on a seven-point run to end it."

Ashley Ball and Maria Maldonado led the Bulldogs each with five service points.

Chelsea next hosts Saline Gold Thursday at 4 p.m.

Make Reading Fun, Kids Will Follow

(MS) — Ask any child what's the difference between playing a video game and reading a book. The likely answer is that video games are fun ... and reading is not. Show kids that reading doesn't have to be a bore, and they'll be more likely to get on board.

But how does a parent, caregiver or teacher relay the message that reading is something enjoyable, especially to those students who may struggle or be distracted with other recreational activities?

Ed Strachar, a mathematics whiz and electrical engineer, pondered that question many times. He came up with Reading Genius® For Kids, which helps kids both accelerate their reading and do so in an exciting, entertaining way through the utilization of colors, music, brain power building exercises and more.

"When reading is fun, improvement follows naturally," says Strachar. That's why he offers a series of Reading Genius components sure to appeal to young readers, including an extensive library that includes classic works from authors such as Mark Twain and Hans Christian Anderson, and more instantly recognizable stories such as "The Wizard of Oz" and "The Little Mermaid."

What's different with Strachar's program from other "speed reading" or literacy programs is that students actually read faster, better and retain what they have read. This offers tremendous benefits including:

- improved recollection during tests
- ability to engage in informed conversations
- advantages over other students when applying for positions in colleges and universities

Furthermore, Reading Genius for Kids offers four audio CDs, featuring exciting, instructional and thought provoking lessons aimed at helping kids expand their minds while building their confidence and enjoying themselves through reading. The program even features Kids Gym and Kids Theatre features, both of which provide exciting games and exercises while keeping kids engaged in reading and learning.

Further Good Reading Habits

- Keep a variety of good books or periodicals on hand: Children will be more likely to read if the material on hand meets their interests. Many magazines have special editions geared toward a younger audience that may inspire children to read. Plus, they also enjoy the novelty of mail being delivered in their name.
- Set an example: Kids learn through imitation and example. Make time for your own reading so that they see that this activity is one you enjoy as well.
- Work with teachers: Teachers often have an intimate knowledge of where a student may be struggling or excelling. Use this information to help reinforce reading skills at home.

Dapper doggies

Grooming business has dogs wagging their tails

By Sandi Kasha
Staff Writer

The three-week-old Dexter Dog Grooming, located at 3216 Alpine Street, has opened its doors to their four-legged friends.

And that's just how they like it.

Mother and daughter Terry Staton and Dawn Buhl run the shop with Staton's sister Debbie Ackerman.

The women have been grooming dogs for 10 years in Ackerman's Westland home. Staton started looking for space in December and found the tiny space on Alpine Street. Business was up and running by February.

"It's certainly a transition," Buhl said of the new shop. "But we've been doing pretty well and it's been pretty steady. We don't only take appointments, but we're taking walk-in customers."

Staton felt like Dexter was a great location and needed a dog grooming business.

And the women are ready for business.

Animal lover Ackerman went to school for dog grooming and it has been a passion of hers for years.

"I love taking care of my customers," she said. "We discuss what look is key for their dog and we take it from there."

With organic soaps and shampoos, blow-dries and cuts, the women take their time to make the dogs look their best. "We're a small shop and we take pride in what we do," Buhl said. "We take our time and do it right and want our customers happy."

Ackerman added that they also want to make the dogs feel good by taking their time rather than rushing them out the door. "We're not a Pet Smart and we're not one of those big chains," Buhl said. "We want to be personal and are used to repeat customers."

For more information on Dexter Dog Grooming, visit the business Website at www.dexterdoggrooming.com or call 426-2738.

Dawn Buhl puts the finishing touches on customer Patches by trimming excess hair.

Debbie Ackerman shampoos and rinses Caruso before she brushes and grooms him.

money WISE

By Deb Bauer

A tax refund - the mere sound of these words can make you smile. But if you get a refund on your 2006 taxes, what will you do with the money? By making some smart choices, you could keep grinning for years to come.

Last year, the average tax refund was about $2,400, according to the IRS. Of course, the size of your refund will depend on your individual circumstances. But let's just suppose that you will get $2,400 this year. You might think that this amount couldn't really help you achieve your important financial goals, such as a comfortable retirement. But if you add the element of time to your $2,400, you might get some interesting results.

For example, if you put that $2,400 in a tax-deferred account, such as a traditional IRA, and you let it sit there for 30 years and it earned a hypothetical seven percent rate of return, you would have accumulated more than $18,000. Not a fortune, but nothing to sneer at, either. Now, let's assume that you could put $2,400 every single year into the same IRA, earning the same hypothetical seven percent rate of return, for 30 straight years. At the end of that time, you'd have more than $226,000 (commissions, fees and expenses are not included in the examples and would have an impact on investment results.) - which could make a difference during retirement.

You'd eventually be taxed on your earnings, but, by then, you might be in a lower tax bracket. And if you had been eligible to invest in a Roth IRA, your potential earnings would have been tax-free, provided you didn't take withdrawals before age 59-1/2 and you had your account at least five years. One thing to keep in mind is that the investments within your account will fluctuate in value so it's possible that when sold you could receive less than your original investment amount.

Not only is it a good strategy to put your refund into an IRA, but it's also easy. You can use IRS Form 8888 ("Direct Deposit of Refund") to automatically move your refund into your IRA.

What else could you do with your tax refund? Here are a few suggestions:

Fill a "gap" in your investment portfolio. Review your portfolio with your financial advisor to determine if any gaps exist. If so, you may be able to fill them, or at least part of them, by using your tax refund to purchase the type of investment that you need.

Pay off some debts. The higher your debt level, the less money you'll have available to invest for your future goals, such as college for your children, retirement, travel or whatever else you have in mind. Consider using your tax refund, or at least a part of it, to knock down your debt load.

Help build an emergency fund. If you don't have an emergency fund set up in a liquid account, you might be forced to raid your long-term investments to pay for unexpected expenses, such as a major car repair. Try to maintain a fund that contains six months' to a year's worth of living expenses.

Save for college. If you have young children or grandchildren, you might want to consider a Section 529 plan or a Covered Education Savings Account, both of which offer the potential for tax-free earnings growth, provided withdrawals are used to help pay for education expenses. Contributions into 529 Plans may be tax-deductible in certain states for residents who participate in their own state's plan. Withdrawals used for expenses other than qualified education expenditures may be subject to federal, state and penalty taxes.

It can be tempting to spend your tax refund right away. But by putting it to work, you can gain some important benefits that will last long after tax season is over.

Grand opening

Chelsea Gallery offers bigger and better "experience"

By Rita Fischer
Special Writer

The Chelsea Gallery is now three times as nice.

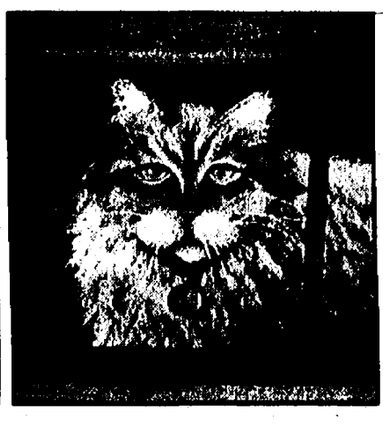
Owners Gary and Doris Galvin recently moved the popular gallery to 115 S. Main Street in Chelsea. The new location, almost three times as big as the former Chelsea Gallery, will have more art on display and offer framing and matting services in collaboration with Pictures Plus of Ann Arbor. There also will be a new café with an espresso bar and desserts. Wine also will be added to the menu in the future.

The Chelsea Gallery features original art work by approximately 70 regional artists and includes paintings in a variety of mediums and styles, forged iron, bronze sculptures, blown, fused and stained glass, pottery and handcrafted jewelry.

Doris Galvin wants people to have an "experience" when they visit the gallery.

"We want it to be a positive experience and a place where people can linger," Galvin said.

The espresso coffee is roasted locally by John Roos.



The dessert menu includes chocolate raspberry desire, chocolate Mélange and tiramisu.

The Chelsea Gallery also will be an exciting venue for elegant entertaining for receptions, business meetings and parties. All of the additions will compliment the primary business of providing fine original art by regional artists.

The Galvin's commitment to expanding should increase interest from not only a growing local customer base but also from as far away as Lansing, Toledo and Chicago – and everywhere in between. As the Chelsea Gallery expands and helps spur the growth of Chelsea as a burgeoning arts community, it will continue to serve both residential and commercial design clients with tailored solutions that include installation and on-site review services.

Grand Opening

What: Chelsea Gallery Grand Opening
When: 6 to 9 p.m., March 31
Where: 115 S. Main Street in Chelsea
Hosts: Gary and Doris Galvin
What: The evening will allow guests to "experience" the new gallery and try out the new espresso and dessert bar. Special guest Don Fishel will play the flute.
For more information: Call 734-475-1008

The Chelsea Gallery is now located across the street from the award-inning Common Grill and around the corner from the Broadway caliber Purple Rose Theatre – two establishments that already draw from near and far.

"We did not just move next door," Galvin explains. "The new area has more space, better lighting and a coffee bar. It is a great idea. Local artists have coffee and desert and enjoy the art."

MAJOR WEIGHT LOSS BREAKTHROUGH

Rare vegetable reduces the pot belly, waist, hips, BMI, and weight without changing your diet or physical activity

By Jennifer Kennedy, Media Services

BioTech Research® has announced a new food supplement made from a rare vegetable which is brand named Bio SpeedSLIM™.

Bio SpeedSLIM™ provides weight loss without changing your diet or physical activity. It significantly reduces the pot belly, waist, hips, BMI (Body Mass Index) and weight.

Unlike old style weight loss methods, you will not experience hunger, hunger pangs, cravings, and headaches. And, unlike diet pills which can contain strong stimulants, you will not get the jitters or have problems sleeping.

Clinical studies show you do not have to change your eating habits or activity to lose weight with Bio SpeedSLIM™. Bio SpeedSLIM™ is not a diet pill. It is a natural food supplement. Unlike diet pills, Bio SpeedSLIM™ works 4 ways to help you lose weight.

Bio SpeedSLIM™ automatically controls overeating without you even knowing it. Food still tastes great and you will thoroughly enjoy eating meals. And you eat until you're full and satisfied. But Bio SpeedSLIM™ will automatically stop you from overeating by helping control overeating control mechanisms in the body. You don't have to go through the work and pain of a calorie counting diet. And you don't have to go through the work and pain of doing a new strenuous physical activity.

Bio SpeedSLIM™ also helps reduce the formation of excess fat in the body and promotes the burning of excess fat. It also helps the body build lean body mass. Muscle is what burns most of the calories in your body. The more muscle you have, the more calories you will burn, and the faster you will lose weight.

Bio SpeedSLIM™ is all-natural and safe. The active ingredients come from a remarkable rare vegetable. People in Asia have been using it for hundreds of years to improve health and relieve pain. It was recently found in scientific studies to produce weight loss without diet or activity change.

For more details on the remarkable new ultimate food supplement capsule, Bio SpeedSLIM™, here is my interview with Chief of Research and Development for BioTech Research, John Whitakre.

Q. How was Bio SpeedSLIM™ developed?

A. There is a rare vegetable called caralluma fimbriata which grows in Asia. It has very powerful health benefits. But, it was recently discovered that it also had powerful weight loss benefits.

Clinical studies conducted on caralluma fimbriata showed that it controlled overeating without hunger, hunger pangs, and cravings, and also did 3 other things to promote fast weight loss.

The caralluma fimbriata does not contain any stimulants that can leave you jittery or cause sleep problems. You also fully enjoy your food when you eat and food tastes great. And, you eat until you are full and satisfied.

Natives of Asia say that caralluma fimbriata helps relieve their ailments, provides them with much better health, and helps relieve pain. Future clinical studies are being planned to verify these benefits.

Natives of Asia call the caralluma fimbriata plant "a gift from God."

Q. Is it similar to hoodia?

A. No, it is totally different than hoodia.

Q. Can anyone take Bio SpeedSLIM™ and can they take it if they are on prescription drugs?

A. Yes, anyone, no matter what your physical condition or what prescription drug you are on, can take Bio SpeedSLIM™ safely without bad side effects. It is a food from a healthy vegetable.

Q. How did you get a bulky vegetable into a capsule?

A. There are a number of active ingredients in the caralluma fimbriata vegetable. Natives of Asia usually eat about 100 grams (about 3 ounces) of the vegetable to get results. However, it was found in chemical analysis that the active ingredients only constitute 1 gram of the 100 grams.

Therefore, a patented method was developed to extract the active ingredients. The caralluma fimbriata extract (CFE) was then subjected to chemical analysis and clinical studies to show effectiveness. These analysis and studies showed that CFE affected weight loss in four different ways.

1. It controls overeating without hunger, hunger pangs, and cravings;
2. It inhibited the formation of excess body fat;
3. It promoted the burning of stored excess body fat; and
4. It promoted gain in lean body mass.

Q. What kind of results were obtained from the clinical studies?

A. There have been a number of clinical studies done on both the safety and effectiveness of CFE. The clinical studies on the safety of CFE showed no adverse side effects. Actually, the best safety study was done by Asian natives for hundreds of years which showed not only no adverse side effects, but, actual health improvements.

The most remarkable clinical studies showed that 83.3% of the people who did not change their diet or physical activity in any way reduced their waist, hips, BMI, and weight in significant amounts over the placebo group. Case studies were also conducted. In the case study results, 89.5% of the test subjects reduced their pot belly, waist, hips, BMI and weight.

The clinical and case study test subjects who took the CFE reported no hunger, no hunger pangs, no cravings, and they said they had much more energy, and never felt better in their lives.

Q. How can readers get Bio SpeedSLIM™?

A. The vegetable and the extraction process are very expensive. And, right now it is in limited supply, so there is not enough inventory to stock store shelves across the country. Presently readers can order from BioTech Research. And readers who order within the next 10 days can get a major discount.

End of interview.

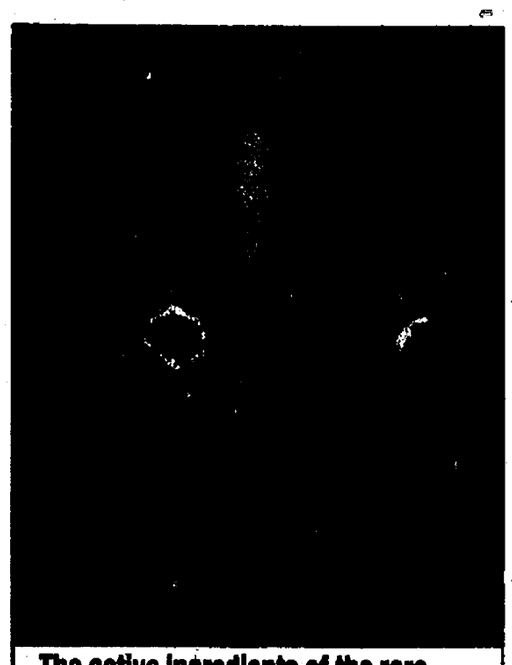
For readers who want to obtain a 30-day supply of Bio SpeedSLIM™ at a $10 discount plus free shipping and handling if they order in 10 days, please see the Special Reader's Discount Coupon on this page.



The active ingredients of the rare vegetable caralluma fimbriata were put into a food supplement capsule Bio SpeedSLIM™.

CASE STUDIES

Conducted by Fitness RX in Canton, OH

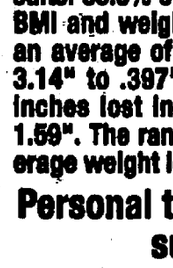
Case studies were conducted for 4 weeks. Some subjects continued on their own after 4 weeks. There were a total of 19 case study test subjects. Case study subjects were instructed not to change their diet or physical activity in any way. Summary results: 89.5% of the subjects reduced their pot belly, waist, hips, BMI and weight. The range of BMI decrease was 2.5 to 0 with an average of .9107. The range of inches lost in the hips was 3.14" to .397" with an average loss of 1.799". The range of inches lost in the waist was 5" to +.39" with an average of 1.59". The range of weight loss was 20 lbs. to 1 lb. with an average weight loss of 7.97 lbs.

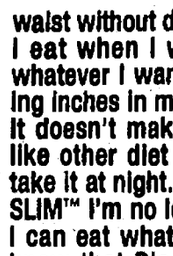
Personal testimonies of four of the case study subjects are provided below.

I used Bio SpeedSLIM™ in a case study. I wanted to say thank you and to let you know that I am having great success with this product. I lost 15 lbs. in 6 weeks. I continued 2 weeks after the case study. I was kind of skeptical of everything Bio SpeedSLIM™ could do for me but I wanted to try it anyway. I did not go on a diet. I just continued with my days as normal, eating what I normally eat. I noticed a change in my body the first week. I knew Bio SpeedSLIM™ was working when I put my tight jeans on right out of the dryer and they were loose. This is the magic capsule I have been waiting for. I made absolutely no changes in my diet. It's incredible. I have no desire to eat out of control and I have no hunger pangs. Thanks again! Tanya Engle



My husband and I took Bio SpeedSLIM™ in a case study for 4 weeks and continued for 2 months. We are so happy with the results we are having. Together we have lost 40 lbs. and reduced our pot belly, waist and hips. We really had no great expectations because we have tried so many diet pills and didn't lose the weight they promised we would. We also have 3 young children so dieting in our home is not something we do. My husband and I did not diet at all and we found that Bio SpeedSLIM™ really was working. We are so amazed. Our friends ask us what diet we are on and we tell them we're not on any diet. We are just taking Bio SpeedSLIM™. They couldn't believe it. So they ordered Bio SpeedSLIM™ and are also having great results. I will speak for myself and my husband and say this is the greatest product we have ever taken and thank you so much. Sincerely, Jennifer Mears

About 4 weeks ago I started taking Bio SpeedSLIM™ as a subject in a case study. I LOVE IT! I have lost 3 inches off my waist without doing a crazy diet. I eat when I want to and eat whatever I want to and I'm losing inches in my waist and hips. It doesn't make my heart race like other diet plans and I can take it at night. With Bio SpeedSLIM™ I'm no longer struggling. I can eat whatever I want and know that Bio SpeedSLIM™ is doing the rest. This is a dream come true for me. I want to tell everyone I know! Julie Jones



I am 40 years old. My wife told me that she was having great results with Bio SpeedSLIM™ as a case study subject and suggested I try it. I am constantly telling her she is wasting her money on all of the dieting pills she has tried over the past few years. She explained why Bio SpeedSLIM™ is not a diet pill and how it worked. I was skeptical but I did start taking Bio SpeedSLIM™ as part of the case study for 4 weeks and continued for 8 weeks. Within the first week of taking Bio SpeedSLIM™ I noticed I wasn't having cravings throughout the day anymore. I was full and satisfied when I ate. I eat the same foods I always have. I don't have cravings or hunger any more. I have lost 18 pounds in just under two months. I lost my pot belly and I'm down to a 33 waist from a 38. I have more energy throughout the day and now I feel like age 40 is just the beginning. I am very appreciative of your product. Sincere gratitude, Devin Christopher

Clinical Trial By Dr. Ronald Lawrence, Western Geriatric Research Institute

Encino, California

Active compound was Caralluma Fimbriata extract, the active ingredient in Bio SpeedSLIM®.

This study was conducted for four weeks. Patients were instructed not to change their daily activity pattern (exercise), or their food intake. They were told not to change their diet in any way from the preceding four weeks before they began taking the substance.

RESULTS AND SUMMARY

The study was conducted with 26 patients. Nineteen patients were on the active compound and 7 were on placebo. One patient from each category did not show up for the final visit. Almost every patient taking the active ingredient lost significant weight. There was almost no weight loss observed in patients on placebo.

Out of 18 patients, 15 patients (83.33%) lost weight. Eleven patients (61.11%) lost about six pounds. The highest loss was nine pounds. Four patients lost one to two pounds, and two patients maintained their starting weight. One patient gained 17 pounds. This patient was found not to comply with the regimen that was requested, and indeed increased caloric consumption over the four weeks.

St. Patrick did not brew green beer

MINISTERIAL Message

By Pastor Mark Porinsky
Faith Lutheran Church

St. Patrick was born about 389 A.D. He was raised by Christian parents, but captured at age 16 and taken to Ireland as a slave for six years. He escaped, but later became convinced that the Lord wanted him to return to Ireland, and in 432 A.D., at age 42, went back as a missionary. Patrick suffered numerous hardships, but in the next 29 years he converted thousands to the Christian faith, until his death at age 72 on March 17, 461.

There are many claims of miracles he allegedly performed (such as driving the snakes out of Ireland, and even legends about him raising people from the dead); but it appears that his real success came by adhering to God's Word. He was apparently one of the few churchmen of his time to carry a Bible.

There is no doubt that he preached the message of free forgiveness and eternal life through Jesus Christ, and Patrick is rightfully known as the Apostle to Ireland. It's interesting to note that he was neither Roman Catholic nor Protestant, but was connected with the Celtic Church.

Patrick seems to have believed all the main teachings of the Bible. In one famous sermon he illustrated the Trinity (the belief that there is one God, who is Father, Son, and Holy Spirit) by means of a shamrock. He might have been a little on the "superstitious" side, but who wasn't back then?

In his Confession, Patrick wrote, "I, Patrick the sinner,...came to the heathen Irish to preach the Gospel...ready to give even my life for His name's sake....I never had any cause except the Gospel and His promises." The faith and missionary zeal of this Celtic Christian certainly seem to be something we modern-day Christians should imitate!

I've always heard that Roman Catholics in Ireland are supposed to wear green for St. Patrick, while the Protestants wear orange. In our country the green seems to have little to do with the religious aspects of the holiday. In fact, in our country very few people think of St. Patrick's Day as a Christian holiday. To our shame, the day has become an excuse for much non-Christian behavior.

Contrary to my own German/Bohemian heritage, I'm not very fond of beer, no matter what color it is. I do appreciate an excuse to indulge in corned beef and cabbage. But whether you have a glass of green beer Saturday night or not, please be thankful that God used St. Patrick to bring the message of Jesus Christ to Ireland, and that He's used others like Patrick to bring the message to you.

Antiquarians

Local group is all about antiques

By Alana West
Special Writer

In a home filled with sunshine, beautiful furniture and a baby grand piano, about 30 members of the Dexter Antiquarians met Wednesday to discuss upcoming club events, and to learn about their host Yvonne Kopinski's collection of Nippon China.

The Antiquarians Club meets once a month, sometimes at the homes of members, sometimes for lunch and a ramble through antique shops. Each fall, they commit nine months of meeting plans to a program and directory which also contains photos of all of the members, their addresses and phone numbers.

"We are all different ages, and we have all different collections," said EJ Johnston of Dexter. She said she joined the group because she loves to go antiquing. "We have a wonderful group."

As Kopinski talks about what makes her pieces part of the Nippon or Japanese style, she picks them up, turns them around examining the detailed patterns on the delicate cups, saucers, vases and teapots.

"They were made by many different factories and different artists," said Kopinski. Each piece is marked with a color code of green, lavender and blue to designate the most and least expensive piece. Kopinski also has an early piece that was made before 1891, and is unmarked.

"Every now and then, I find something I can't live without, and I buy it," said Kopinski. "Mostly I like (this style). To me, it is very pretty." She said she learned a lot about antiques through her Aunt Margaret, who ran an antique store.

"Back then, they called it a second-hand store," said Kopinski.

According to the group's historian, Bene Fusilier, the only qualification for being a member is an interest in antiques. When they find a special item, they like to share their experience with other collectors in their group.

"My husband Jack and I got interested (in antiques) and didn't have a lot of money. We started out small," said the club's founder, Gloria Brigham. At the time, she was an instructor for a local continuing education course, and decided it would be nice to form a study group on antiques.

"It was an off-shoot of a class I was teaching - on chair caning and furniture refinishing - that was 35 to 40 years ago," said Brigham. "We started with not more than 12 to 15 people. We met at St. Andrew's Church."

The church has since gone on to become the Dexter Area Historical Society Museum, and the group now has by-laws, board members, fundraisers and it encompasses 50 members.

"We like to keep it to 50 because we meet in some of the members' homes," said Rhea Berry, the group's president, adding that if the group grew too large, it would be difficult to accommodate the larger groups.

Berry said that the group raises money every year to donate to historical groups around the area, including the Dexter and the Webster Area Historical Societies.

"September is our first meeting, and each member brings something to auction off," Berry said.

The group also has a unique memorial program: When a member dies, a book is donated by the club to the public library in their memory. More than 100 books have been donated since the program began. Recently, Rita Fischer, an honorary member of the group, passed away.

"I try to find a book that is appropriate...I call the family members to find out what people are interested in," said Cecy Copeland, group librarian.

Berry said the group decided to donate the book "Cross Stitch and Antique Samplers" in memory of Fischer.

The group's vice president, Sandy Stein, said she collects primitive pieces. When people find something special, they can bring it in for the annual show and tell program.

"Like a rare find, which nobody has ever seen before," said Stein.

Eve Gochis and Berry both said they collect primitive antiques. During past programs, Berry has given demonstrations on spinning through her own collection.

"A primitive is usually wood, handmade and made by the family to be used by the family in the house," said Gochis. "It is different from folk art, in that folk art is usually painted." She said it would encompass items such as tables and chairs, where folk art might be merely decorative.

"We try to have programs which will increase people's knowledge of antiques. We like to incorporate history...and put a lot of thought into our programs," said Brigham, who collects vintage turquoise jewelry. She recently gave a talk about this stone during her discussion of antiques from the Southwestern states.

"We also have a fabulous collection of match strikes and Civil War things," said Brigham.

The group's April meeting is planned as an antiques shopping adventure in Northville, where members will hit several local antiques malls.

But the event everyone looks forward to most is the annual spring trip.

"We love our trips. Every May, for the past 20 years, we go overnight somewhere. We stay two nights, and look for antiques. It is the highlight of the year. This year, we're planning to go to Amish country. We're going to have a good time," said Brigham.

Yvonne Kopinski demonstrates her collection of Nippon China, which was produced during the late 1800s and the early 1900s, at her home during a meeting of the Dexter Antiquarians.

Auditions announced

Ann Arbor Civic Theatre announces auditions for its production of the rock musical, "Hair," directed by Caitlin Frankel. Auditions take place from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, March 24 and from noon to 4 p.m. Sunday, March 25. All auditions take place at A2CT's Rehearsal Studio, 322 W. Ann St.

Orignial Broadway poster

"Hair" is the classic pro-love, anti-war anthem to the turbulent American experi-ence of the 1960's. There are lead roles for 4 women and 6 men, plus a featured ensemble of 7 women and 5 men. Character ages range between 18-60. Those auditioning need attend only one of the regular audition dates but must be available for callbacks. No pre-registration is required. All auditioning should prepare a song from "Hair" specific to the character for which they are auditioning; music is available online at www.a2ct.org or at the A2CT office. There will also be cold readings from the script and dancing for those interested in dancing roles. Production dates are June 7-10, 2007, at The Lydia Mendelssohn Theater.

For further information and audition details, visit the audition page of the A2CT website at www.a2ct.org or call the A2CT office at 971-2228.

In the SPOTLIGHT

"The Bartered Bride"

Young lovers Marenka (Amita Prakash) and Jenik (Bernard D. Holcomb) in composer Bedrich Smetana's celebrationof rural life and love, "The Bartered Bride." Known as the "Father of Czech opera," Smetana established the musical voice of his beautiful and romantic nation using the melodic and rhythmic colors of the Czech vernacular. From its famous fugal overture to the boisterous choruses and dazzling duets, the score mixes infectious folk rhythms and poignant characterization. Sung in Czech with projected English translations. "The Bartered Bride" plays at the Power Center in Ann Arbor March 15 - 18. For tickets call the League Ticket Office at734-764-2538. Photo by Peter Smith Photography.

Science palooza gears up for Fun-tastic Physics!

The Sciencepalooza science street fair gears up for FUN–tastic Physics at the Ann Arbor Hands-On Museum on April 7 and 8. Sciencepalooza is held the first weekend of every month at the Museum and explores a specific topic in a fun and festive environment with in-depth hands-on experiments, activities, special guests and demonstrations.

Twenty different hands-on activities developed and presented by the Society of Physics students will be on display in conjunction with the FOCUS labs, a UM research laboratory. The Blake Lilly prize, a national award that recognizes outstanding community outreach and physics education, was awarded to the UM student group after last year's Sciencepalooza.

The Museum will host hands-on activities and interactive projects exploring many different aspects of physics. Unveil the mystery of magnets, explore gravity and simply have fun with simple machines. This event is free with regular Museum admission, and will take place Saturday, April 7 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sunday, April 8 from noon to 5 p.m.

Discover the Scientist within you at the Ann Arbor Hands-On Museum. Explore and enjoy the wonder of science, math and technology in an interactive environment that promotes science literacy. For more information, call 734-995-5439 or log onto www.aahom.org.

Library embraces Naismith and his game

ANN ARBOR – In 1891, James Naismith was in Springfield, Mass., training to be an administrator of YMCA programs. Given responsibility for a gym class, he was asked to invent a physically demanding indoor sport that could be enjoyed during the dreary Massachusetts winters. And basketball began.

Designed for nine players on each team trying to put a soccer ball through a peach basket, the game is played now with only five competing for a basketball to drop through "the hoop."

The University of Michigan's Clements Library has numerous memorabilia from Naismith and his game – among them an answer to a query about the beginnings of his game.

Long-time member of the board of the Clements Library Associates, Duane Diedrich, recently added to the items he has donated to the Clements' Naismith collection with letters and a photograph he purchased at auction. Among the collection are speeches on athletics and religion and morals and the philosophical basis of physical work that Naismsith gave across the country.

There are letters from individuals and educational institutions from around the world, praising Naismith and his game or asking for information on the game. One letter in 1930 from an Indiana sporting goods company wanted to know Naismith's opinion on eliminating the "center jump."

Naismith's 1937 letter to the query about the birth of his game is a description of the gymnasium, its size and the game's first rudimentary equipment. He wrote that the players "wore the regulation gymnasium uniform – long trousers and quarter sleeve jerseys with elk sole shoes."

Of his original rules, 12 were still in use in 1939, but he wished the 13th had also been retained. It prohibited players from handling the ball with any part of the body other than the hands and so would "eliminate diving for the ball when it is free on the floor." The modern rules had become ingrained, however.

When asked about the possibility of staging a game reenacting the original, Naismith noted that it would be necessary to "find 18 young men 23-30 years of age, with moustaches and who had never seen, read or heard of a game of basketball." By 1939 this was an unlikely prospect, and Naismith's earlier attempts to that end had failed when the players "injected the new rules or have gone to the other extreme and have made it rougher than football."

Raymond Kaighn (18699-1962), one of the original players of the game, told a reporter, "I was just one of 18 guinea pigs in an experiment that worked out successfully beyond Jim's wildest dreams."

In 1936, Naismith received a letter from a major general commandant in the U.S. Marines telling the originator that, "It is not only a great body builder to the large number of men who actually participate, but it is a source of much sport and amusement to everyone. We have established very friendly relations with foreign services through competition in basketball, especially in Shanghai and Peiping, China."

And in 1948, the Wheelchair Bulldosers of Kansas City, Mo., sent a letter to those inspired to create a monument to Naismith that, "We are confident that Dr. James Naismith, if he had lived to see this development of his game, would have been proud to give his personal support to the program of making wheelchair basketball a national sport."

And while the Clements' collection of Naismith memorabilia continues to grow, Naismith's game of "hoops" continues to spread around the world.

Super duper Saturday

Photos by Rita Fischer

Some kids had the chance to learn how to make video games.

Many children got to enjoy Super Saturday hosted by Chelsea Community Education. The four Saturday's run until the end of March and allow children to explore a multitude of activates, from dancing, cooking, arts, science, karate, sports, fairytales, cooking, Legos, gymnastics, how to make a video game and so much more. The classes are being held at Beach Middle school.

Others cooked yummy treats in the kitchen.

In all-star sports kids get to learn how to play many fun gym games.

Many little boys and girls tried gymnastics for the first time.

Some kids tried out Legos, and how to build things with them and hook up a battery to them.

Lauren Jolly works with a youngster helping them learn baton.

Young kids get to dress up as pirates or princesses.

IRISH SODA BREAD

Ingredients

2 CUPS FLOUR
2 TBSP SUGAR, DIVIDED
1 TSP BAKING POWDER
1/2 TSP BAKING SODA
1/2 TSP SALT
4 TBSP COLD BUTTER
1 CUP BUTTERMILK
1 CUP GOLDEN RAISINS

Preparation

PREHEAT OVEN TO 350°. MIX FLOUR, 1/2 CUP SUGAR, BAKING POWDER, BAKING SODA & SALT IN LARGE BOWL. CUT IN BUTTER WITH PASTRY BLENDER OR FORK UNTIL MIXTURE RESEMBLES COARSE CRUMBS. STIR IN BUTTERMILK AND RAISINS UNTIL MIXTURE FORMS A SOFT DOUGH. TURN DOUGH ONTO LIGHTLY FLOURED SURFACE AND KNEAD 10 TIMES. SHAPE DOUGH INTO A ROUND LOAF AND PLACE ON GREASED BAKING SHEET. USING A SHARP KNIFE, CUT AN X ON TOP OF LOAF. BRUSH WITH MILK AND SPRINKLE WITH REMAINING 1 TBSP SUGAR. BAKE FOR 45 MINUTES OR UNTIL GOLDEN BROWN. COOL ON WIRE RACK.

Quick and Hearty Turkey Chili

HONEYSUCKLE WHITE

Servings: 6 Prep Time: 5 minutes Total Time: 15 minutes

Ingredients

- ☐ 1 package Honeysuckle White® 93% Lean Ground Turkey
- ☐ 1 tablespoon extra virgin olive oil
- ☐ 2 cans (14-1/2 ounce each) chopped stewed tomatoes, undrained
- ☐ 1 can (15 ounce) spicy chili beans
- ☐ 3 teaspoons chili powder

Instructions

Heat oil in a large nonstick skillet over medium-high heat. Crumble and cook turkey until no longer pink, about 5 minutes; drain. Stir in remaining ingredients. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat; simmer for 5 minutes, stirring occasionally.
