School board returns officers for 2007-08

By Ed Freundl
The Chelsea Standard

The Chelsea School District Board of Education will keep the same officers for the upcoming school year.

In a short meeting Monday convened at 5:30 rather than the customary 7 p.m., board members voted to retain Laurel McDevitt as president; Steve Olsen, vice president; Rob Turner, secretary; and Anne Mann, treasurer.

Dave Killips

The board also approved a small number of individual items, including the annual loan repayment activity application, a contract with Energy Education Inc. to consult on energy-reduction measures, and the purchase of 28 Hewlett-Packard laser printers for the high school.

Superintendent David Killips said the loan repayment schedule must be renewed each year to designate the dollar amount that can be repaid on the $22.1 million capital improvement bond from 2004.

The beginning balance on July 1 was $1,808,226.35. The district will repay an estimated total of $762,171 this year, but not all at once.

"We have to make that payment twice a year," Killips explained.

Add to that the estimated accrued interest of $86,557.95, and the ending balance on June 30, 2008, will be $1,131,256.88.

Energy Education has been used or is being considered by several school districts in Washtenaw County and nearby.

The firm guarantees that it will decrease energy use and costs by a specified amount and backs it up with a check for the difference if it is proven wrong, Killips noted.

"They have guaranteed us savings of $60,000 the first year" of a contract that can be extended for up to four years, he added.

The laser printers will cost the district $21,441.16 under a special pricing arrangement with Hewlett-Packard which will come from bond proceeds. "The high school was the last piece of this," Killips said. "We did all the other schools first because the needs were greater."

Killips also reported that transportation department workers ratified the three-year contract approved by

Have you ever wondered what it would be like to gaze in awe at a glacially sculpted hillside?

Or how about piloting your own radio-controlled model airplane over a spacious, wide-open flying field?

Or for the treasure hunter in us all, what fun would it be searching for rare finds in your own metal detecting area?

Sound interesting?

Maybe even a bit challenging and fun?

Well, for the adventure seekers out there and those just looking for a family outing away from the living room couch, you can find all of the above and more at area parks and recreation sites.

Residents of Heritage Newspapers Western Region, which includes the communities of Belleville, Chelsea, Dexter, Manchester, Milan, Saline and Ypsilanti, have virtually an unlimited amount of fun and discovery waiting for them out their front doors.

Did you know that within an hour's drive or less of most area homes is the Lower Peninsula's largest state park?

With more than 20,000 acres of land, 11 lakes and 47 miles of hiking trails, Waterloo State Recreation Park, located just west of Chelsea, is an outdoor enthusiast's paradise. With more than 400 picnic sites, trails, horse riding areas, public swimming at Big Portage Lake and rustic cabin rental opportunities, exploring Waterloo's vast interior is an out-of-the-ordinary experience for small-town city dwellers.

Just north of Waterloo, is the Pinckney State Recreation Area. Practically next door neighbors, Pinckney and Waterloo combined have more than 31,000 acres of land for visitor use. Besides fishing, canoe/kayak rentals and mountain bike opportunities, along with a multitude of other outdoor activities, Pinckney also offers a metal detecting area for area treasure hunters.

University Audiology Hearing Services

"Hearing Well Makes All the Difference"

Serving the Hearing Impaired for over 30 years.

Dr. Anthony A. Muraski has been serving the hearing impaired for over thirty years. He received his Ph.D. from the University of Michigan and as a Clinical Audiologist and licensed hearing aid dispenser. He has been trained in the specialties of anatomy and physiology of the ear, counseling, audiologic rehabilitation, and the differential diagnosis of the ear. University Audiology Hearing Services is the only exclusive in-home Hearing Care provider serving Washtenaw County and the surrounding counties. Dr. Muraski, in the privacy and comfort of your home, will evaluate your hearing, recommend the appropriate therapy and review with you your options if you decide to purchase a hearing instrument. While he has a hearing clinic at Stadium Pharmacy in Ann Arbor, he has found that home service is the preferred service of all his patients.

Home service used to be the primary service provided by health care professionals throughout the history of health. Many professionals would drive their Model A's to homes throughout Washtenaw County. Of course technology has replaced the Model A.

There also have been major changes in hearing instrument technology. Dr. Muraski owns one of the largest antique hearing aid collections in the midwest. The development of hearing instruments has followed the development of the telephone and electricity. Antique hearing aids can be grouped as hearing trumpets, hearing domes, conversation tubes, and early electric hearing aids.

Research has shown that people who suffer from a hearing loss are more likely to experience increased anger, frustration, insecurity, instability, nervousness, tension, anxiety and irritability. The modern hearing aid offers many options which did not exist prior to the development of the computer. Digital hearing aids contain a computer chip and act as a miniature computer itself. The modern hearing aid is not only much smaller than the ear trumpets and hearing domes but offer better performance in making soft sounds audible, normal conversational sounds and loud sounds comfortable. How do you know if you have a hearing loss? You can give yourself a simple hearing test by answering the following questions which have been referred to as the warning signs of a hearing loss. If you answer yes to any of the following questions, you should have your hearing tested and evaluated.

WARNING SIGNS

1. People seem to mumble.
2. You hear but don't understand.
3. People must repeat themselves.
4. Telephone conversation is difficult.
5. The TV is too loud.
6. You can't hear a doorbell ringing.
7. You need to see the speaker's face to understand their speech.
8. Some say you speak too loud.
9. There is ringing in your ears.
10. Conversations are difficult in a large group or crowd.

If you would like your hearing tested in your home or at my hearing clinic at Stadium Pharmacy please call me at:

Chelsea area police briefs

'Road rage' incident

At 11 a.m. July 9 a 38-year-old Chelsea woman reported to Chelsea Police that the motorist in front of her had been driving in an intimidating manner.

According to a police report, while the woman was southbound on South Main Street, the man driving in front of her would drive very slowly and abruptly hit his brakes while watching her reaction in his rear-view mirror.

The woman told police he did this several times until he turned left onto Will Johnson Drive, then yelled something at her and made an obscene hand gesture as she passed.

She recognized the driver as a man who had assaulted her husband the previous evening, the report stated.

When contacted by police the man denied the incident but the officer issued the man a warning.

Trouble with subject

A Chelsea police officer was dispatched to an apartment in the 600 block of West Middle Street at 9:54 p.m. July 8, where he found a 46-year-old Chelsea man bleeding from a cut on his hand.

According to a police report, a woman in the apartment asked the officer to come in, and the man told the officer he had been drinking and cut his hand on broken glass.

The man became very hostile with the officer and began yelling profanities at him.

When the man made a threatening gesture and stepped toward him, the officer aimed his taser at him and advised him to calm down.

The officer repeated his warning several times until the man sat down.

When another officer and paramedics arrived, the man became angry and began screaming again and threatened the officer.

The officers cleared the scene after the man refused medical treatment, the report stated.

Tire slashed at car lot

An automobile dealership in the 1500 block of South Main Street reported to Chelsea police at 12:53 p.m. July 6 that a tire on a new vehicle had been slashed.

According to a police report, the investigating officer found that the sidewall of the right front tire on a new cargo van had been cut by a sharp knife.

The tire is valued at $185, and the officer made out a report for insurance.

Items stolen from store

The manager of a retail store in the 1100 block of South Main Street reported to police at 4:48 p.m. July 5 that a box of label makers was stolen from the store shortly after noon on July 1.

According to a police report, after employees had reported the items missing the manager viewed a security videotape.

The tape showed two men and two women entering the store, and while one woman took the clerk to the back of the store to look at something, a man went behind the counter and took a box containing the devices.

The man and the other woman then left the store with the box while the second man stood watch, the report stated.

He then joined the first woman in the back of the store, said something to her, and they left without buying anything.

The manager said the boxed contained 30 to 50 label makers, each valued at $200, and she would check computer inventory records to determine the exact amount.

The security company will provide police with a copy of the tape and still photos to try to identify the suspects.

Minors in possession

A Chelsea police officer on patrol in the 600 block of West Middle Street at 1:54 a.m. July 3 observed a parked pickup truck activate red strobe emergency lights on its roof and stopped to investigate.

According to a police report, a young man approached the driver's side of the truck in a confrontational manner, and the officer got out of his car and ordered the man back up on the sidewalk.

The man told the officer to order the driver to leave the area, and the officer again told the man to remain on the sidewalk.

The officer determined the female passenger had assaulted her boyfriend, a 17-year-old Chelsea man, and called for backup, the report stated.

The officer interviewed four males on the sidewalk, then spoke with the driver of the truck.

The passenger, an 18-year-old Chelsea woman, indicated one of the men in the group had a gun.

All the men were searched but no weapon was found.

The boyfriend and assault victim reeked of alcohol, the report stated, and was given a preliminary breath test.

The result was 0.066 percent blood alcohol content, in violation of Michigan's no-tolerance law for minors, and was issued a misdemeanor citation for minor in possession by consumption.

the board on June 27.

The past took effect July 1, and offers pay raises of 2.0, 2.25 and 2.5 percent.

"There were also changes in the insurance program that will benefit the district," Killips said.

The superintendent also informed the board that discussions were in the very early stages regarding the costs and benefits to changing to a trimester school calendar.

"Dexter and Saline are also considering that kind of schedule," Killips said. "There's a lot of common knowledge and information we could share."

He observed that a common school calendar throughout Washtenaw County has been elusive for years, primarily due to Ann Arbor Schools scheduling their breaks at the same time as the University of Michigan.

Other local districts, such as Milan and Manchester, are committed to other types of schedules.

A trimester system would consist of three, 12-week terms, which would still fit within the traditional 36-week school year, Killips said, but has added advantages.

"Under the state's new graduation requirements, with a six-period day you may have difficulty getting enough electives for the kids to choose," he said.

"It may be an option we want to pursue — but there would be a lot of details to work out before we do anything."

Citizen of the Year

The Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce and Chelsea Standard will be accepting nominations for the annual Chelsea Citizen of the Year Award and the Lifetime Achievement Award through Friday.

Candidates must either live, work or participate in Chelsea or one of the surrounding townships.

Nomination forms are available at the chamber office and at the Chelsea Standard. For more information, call 1-734-475-1145.

Storytime

The Chelsea Summerfest will feature a Sleeping Bear Press Storytime on Saturday, July 28 at the Kid Zone, located in Clocktower Commons at 11:45am. Chelsea Mayor Ann Feeney will be reading "Buzzy the bumblebee" by noted Michigan author Denise Brennan-Nelson to the gathered youngsters.

"We're honored by Mayor Feeney's participation in the event," said Sleeping Bear Press Publisher Heather Hughes. "Developing a love for reading in young children is one of our primary goals, and I know the mayor shares the same committment as we do."

Hughes points to a USA Today article about a study on early childhood learning that examined the "baby genius" trend, the purchase of expensive toys and classes to insure a baby's high intelligence.

"The report stated that the study found all those expensive materials and classes actually had less of an impact than just reading to a child," Hughes said.

Seeking members

The Chelsea Recreation Council is seeking members to fill vacancies. The Recreation Council meets the first Monday of every month. Typical responsibilities include attending meetings regularly, committee work, revamping programs, and other duties as they evolve. No prior experience necessary. Just working knowledge of Chelsea Recreation and its programs.

Please apply by sending a letter of interest to mmitchell@gmail.chelsea.k12.mi.us

Citizens group to meet

Chelsea Citizens for Accountability will meet at 6:30 p.m. Monday at the Chelsea District Library.

The group hopes to attract members and educate the public on its purpose.

The nonpartisan group formed recently to encourage a greater level of accountability from city officials.

For more information, contact Olinyk at 433-1004 or Rod Anderson at 475-5898.

Chelsea Community Foundation hands out grants

Two nonprofit organizations recently received grants totaling $29,500 from the Chelsea Community Foundation for programs aimed at improving the lives of residents in the Chelsea area.

The American Red Cross–Washtenaw County received an $8,600 grant to expand its Family Caregiving Program, which offers free education and training to individuals in Chelsea who care for loved ones at home. The grant will enable the organization to offer nine one-hour presentations in areas such as home safety, personal care, healthy eating, legal and financial issues, and care for individuals with Alzheimer's or dementia.

"Taking care of ailing or elderly loved ones is challenging," says Donna Duvin, executive director, American Red Cross–Washtenaw County. "Our goal is to provide the knowledge and expertise necessary for caregivers and their loved ones to enjoy the best possible quality of life."

The Chelsea Community Hospital also received a grant of $20,900 to expand its obesity prevention program, Move Forward! Healthy Choices for Kids and Families, to all three elementary schools in the Chelsea School District. The program was launched in 2005 at Pierce Lake Elementary School with a two-year grant from the Chelsea Community Foundation.

An interim evaluation revealed an increase in awareness and importance of physical activity and consumption of healthy foods among Pierce Lake students. Results also showed that parents and teachers believe the program has been working.

The current grant will enable the program to expand to include North Creek Elementary and South Meadows schools. The objectives of the program will remain the same – to increase physical activity of students, increase consumption of healthy foods, and to enhance students' knowledge of good nutrition and fitness.

"We are excited about expanding this successful program to reach more children and families in Chelsea," said Ruth Shantz, vice president for regulatory affairs, Chelsea Community Hospital.

The Chelsea Community Foundation is a permanent charitable endowment fund that provides an ongoing source of revenue for a wide range of programs and activities in the Chelsea community. Founded in December 1995, the Chelsea Community Foundation is a $1.9 million permanent charitable endowment and has provided more than $740,000 in grants to organizations working to improve the quality of life in Chelsea and surrounding communities. Dry weather taking its toll on area

Firefighters from Chelsea and Dexter were kept busy on a series of grass fires July 12 on I-94 between Fletcher and Dancer roads. The fatigue of battling the grass fires (top photo) is reflected in the faces of these Chelsea firefighters. The largest of the four grass fires on westbound I-94 on July 12 measured at least 200 yards by 50 yards.

By Edward Freundl
Staff Writer

The recent lack of rain has been hard on homeowners and farmers, and has contributed to a number of field fires.

According to the National Weather Service, the Chelsea area has had only 16 days of measurable precipitation out of the 76 days from May 1 to July 15.

But don't get too excited; "measurable precipitation" could be as much as 2.41 inches on June 3, or as little as 0.01 inch three days later on June 6.

More often than not, however, there has been absolutely nothing forthcoming from the skies.

There were eight days of rain in May, for a total of 1.85 inches; seven days in June, totaling 3.41 inches; and so far this month only one day, July 4, of .07 inches.

That paucity of precipitation has become a matter of grave concern not only to local farmers, but to fire officials as well.

"The number of grass fires, and the severity, is definitely up compared to this time last year," said Chief Jim Payeur of the Chelsea Area Fire Authority.

"We're up eight to 10 from what we were last year; on average we're being called out a couple of times a week," Payeur added.

"As tough as it is on us, it's really going to be tough on the farmers."

CAFA was called to two fires within 24 hours just last week.

At 3 p.m. July 12, Chelsea firefighters were called to the north shoulder of westbound I-94 for four separate fires in a one-mile stretch between Fletcher and Dancer roads.

High winds and thick smoke hampered visibility, slowing freeway traffic in both directions.

"There was a 200-yard swath with flames 30 feet high," said Michigan State Police Trooper Steven Temelko, describing the

LOVING HOMES NEEDED

DEKE: Deke is a 4 year old yellow Lab mix that was previously owned. His family had a child and could not care for Deke any longer. Deke likes to go for walks and play in our doggie pool! He needs a family that will work with him to continue his training and give him the proper exercise he loves.

ROSIE: Rosie came to HSHV back in April because her owner went to a nursing home. Poor girl spent a couple of months at the shelter and then was adopted. But things didn't work out at the new home, so Rosie had to come back here! Argh! She is 5 years old, and all these changes have been really tough for her. She's hanging in there, though. Rosie is a trooper and is as sweet as can be, and there quite a bit of Rosie to love. PLEASE come meet Rosie and see if she's the girl for you.

ANNIE: Annie is a beautiful 2 year old Husky. She came to us as a stray and was very thin. She loves going out for walks and gives a little Husky howl when you put the leash on her. Because Annie has lots of energy and needs training, she would do best in a home with children over 10 years old. Come by and see this sweet girl.

IF YOU'RE INTERESTED IN ADOPTING A PET, PLEASE CONTACT THE SHELTER AT 662-5585 OR COME VISIT US AT 3100 CHERRY HILL, ANN ARBOR.

Radcliffe retires from Chamber of Commerce

By Edward Freundl
Staff Writer

One of the community's most tireless advocates in the Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce has decided to call it a career.

Assistant Chamber Director Pam Radcliffe has retired after nine years and will devote her time to pursuits closer to home.

"This is a new chapter for me," Radcliffe said during a reception and open house at the chamber offices on her final day, July 5.

"I'm excited, but it's also tempered by a little sadness."

The reception was crowded wall-to-wall with well-wishers, from Chamber members to local political figures to her own family members.

As a measure of how important Radcliffe has been to the chamber, two people will be taking over her duties, albeit part-time: Susan Bauer and Jude Hein.

But Radcliffe assured people the chamber is in good hands.

"Both of them come highly recommended and qualified, and both know Chelsea very well," she said.

Chamber Executive Director Bob Pierce said he will be losing a valuable member of his team.

"Pam was truly my assistant director," he said. "She had the operational knowledge of the chamber, and organized a lot of the events — "Home for the Holidays" in particular. Pam has always been there for our Business After Hours and our fund-raisers."

Radcliffe said that after so many years of being heavily involved in so many community-oriented activities, her immediate plans called for her to do ... not much at all.

"I'm going to take a year off and not volunteer for any chairmanships," she said.

"I think I'll take some time and travel to visit family."

Three named to city planning commission

By Edward Freundl
Staff Writer

One new person will take a seat on the city's planning commission for a three-year term.

Jack Garland was appointed to the commission by Mayor Ann Feeney at the July 10 City Council meeting.

Two current planning commissioners, Peter Feeney and Ric Haugen, will renew their terms as well.

The terms of Feeney, Haugen and Walter Bolt expired in June. Bolt did not reapply for another term, and Feeney wanted to appoint Garland to the vacancy.

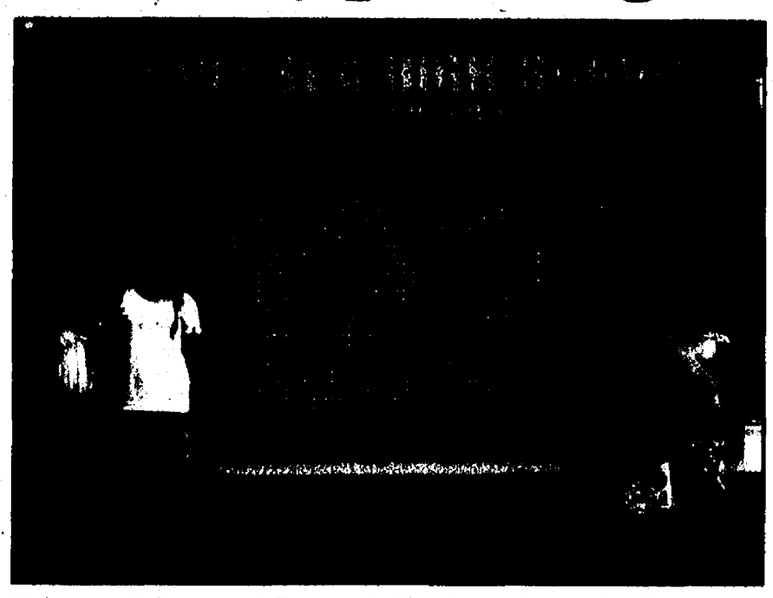
Garland is the husband of city Administrative Services Director Kim Garland, who was hired in October.

"He applied long before Kim got her job with the city, about two or three years ago," Feeney said.

The other Planning Commission members are Chairman Christopher Rode, Vice Chairman George Kinzer, Christopher Pick, Ann Valle, Casey Blair, Joel Abramson and council members Cheri Albertson and Frank Hammer.

At the request of Police Chief Ed Toth Jr., the council approved several temporary traffic control orders involving street closures for SummerFest activities such as the classic car show.

From noon to 9 p.m. June 27, the following streets will be closed: East Middle, from North Main to Madison; Jackson, from South East to McKinley; McKinley, from Jackson to East Middle; and South East, from Jackson to Harrison.



Brianne, Colette and Trevor Ackley knew it was hot last week, but they had no idea it was THAT hot.

From 9 a.m. June 27 to midnight June 28, East Middle Street will be closed from North Main to the entrance of City Parking Lot No. 1.

Also at the July 10 meeting, the council gave first reading to a zoning ordinance amendment that would allow limited seasonal retail sales to the public on the grounds of Chelsea Community Hospital.

In mid-May the hospital began its Bushel Basket farmers market in the staff parking lot on Wednesday afternoons, but sales have been limited to hospital staff only until the zoning restriction could be lifted.

The amendment will allow sales to the general public in the MC or medical zoning designation.

"It was a unanimous decision by the Planning Commission," Feeney said.

A second reading and final vote will take place at the July 24 council meeting, and the amendment takes effect 20 days after final approval.

The council also approved a resolution authorizing City Manager John Hanifan and City Engineer Christine Linfield to sign permits with the Washtenaw County Road Commission on behalf of the city.

The city occasionally has to apply for permits from the Road Commission to use parts of county roads for utility easements and other uses, and it's better to have two signatories than one, Hanifan noted.

In other business, the council set Sept. 19 as the tentative date for the next "town hall" meeting, in which it will present information on major infrastructure projects to the public.

The scheduled topic for the September meeting will be the use of state funds for the upcoming water and wastewater systems and other improvements.

Council members also fielded possible dates to hold a meeting with Sylvan Township board members to discuss issues of regional growth, infrastructure and intergovernmental cooperation.

"I think it would be best to have a meeting of the full township board as soon as possible," Hanifan said. "We can try for some time in August."

Councilman Jamie Bollinger endorsed the idea of meeting with their neighboring unit of government.

"They came here last time, and it would show good neighborliness if we went to them," he said.

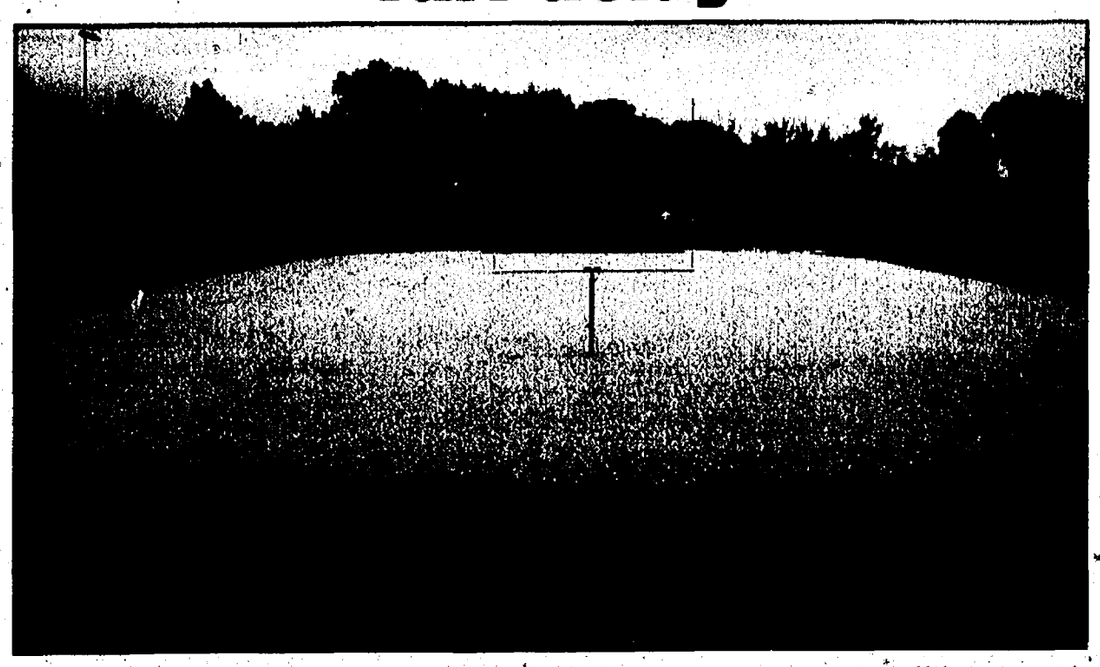
Turf delay



The field at Jerry Niehaus Stadium lies idle, waiting a contractor to install its new artificial turf. Chelsea Schools Superintendent David Killips said Monday that the project hit a snag after testing revealed a soft spot in the foundation. That means the field will not be ready for mid-August scrimmages as hoped, but Killips assured people that it would be ready for the Bulldogs' home opener against Temperance-Bedford at 7 p.m. on Aug. 31.

That burned area was about 50 yards wide at its greatest.

Temelko shut down both westbound lanes while fire personnel from Chelsea and the Dexter Area Fire Department took up positions to fight the flames.

One lane was opened after 45 minutes, and the scene was cleared after about 90 minutes.

Fire officials could only speculate as to the cause, but said the lack of rain was a contributing factor.

"It is so dry right now, and we've had so little rain, it would be interesting to know exactly how this started," Payeur said.

Twenty-four hours later, CAFA was called to Lima Center Road south of Jackson Road for a hay field on fire at the Thompson farm.

A hay baler picking up straw from just-harvested wheat malfunctioned, fire started inside and spread to the straw on the ground.

"The flames were this high," said Randy Luick, who was running the combine, holding his hand at his waist.

"They were baling the straw and something got under there," he added.

"I got a little worried - it got to the grass and quit, but it was heading right for the barn."

Some moments define a parent forever

It isn't fair, but it's true. Parents are often defined in their children's minds by random inconsequential moments that somehow create lasting and overarching imprints.

These snippets of memory stay with a child into adulthood and are drawn upon, no matter how false or incomplete they may be, to illustrate their mother or father's personhood.

Brian Cox

Take an average morning some months ago when I was readying for work and my children for school.

With a towel wrapped around my waist, I stood at the bathroom sink preparing to shave. My 11-year-old son knocked on the door and announced he needed to brush his teeth.

"Come on," I said. "Hurry up, I need to shave."

As he was assembling the tools for teeth brushing, I asked if there was anything going on at school that day.

"We might have another substitute teacher," he said.

"Another?" I said. "Is your teacher sick?"

"Yeah," he said. "You want to know something weird? We had a substitute teacher yesterday and the day before that and they were both named Mrs. Jones."

That was a coincidence, I conceded.

And then, without thinking about it at all, without considering the ramifications, I made one of those lasting impressions in my son's mind. One he is likely never to forget. One he will pull from the time vault whenever he is trying to convince a friend — or a shrink — that his father was bizarre.

"You know what you should do if you go in today and your teacher is Mrs. Jones?" I asked. "You should go up to her and sing," and I grabbed a hair brush off the counter and held it up like a microphone and belted out, "Me annnd . . . Mrs. Joooones, Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Jones. We got a thing goin' on."

I thought it was a pretty fine, throaty rendition of the rhythm and blues song by Billy Paul, but the look on my son's face was one of pure horror.

He dropped his toothbrush and fled the bathroom, leaving me standing there in a towel holding a hairbrush microphone.

"She'll think it's pretty funny," I called after he hurriedly retreated.

I knew immediately the importance of the moment. There was no taking it back. The damage was done.

Years from now, my son will relate to friends or his wife — or his shrink — how his father was a bit of a nut.

"My father thought he was funny. He used to stand in front of the mirror in a towel and sing like a maniac into a hairbrush," he'll say.

"One time!" I will shout down from heaven. "It happened one time!"

But I know it will do no good.

I know because I tell people how odd my father was when I was growing up.

I tell people, for example, how he was a sun-worshipper. Just imagine the embarrassment, I say, of coming home with friends and finding your father stretched out in the backyard on a reclining lawn chair, sipping iced tea, wearing a pair of tight shorts and glistening with coconut-scented Coppertone. I relate also how he took to wearing fishnet, thin shoulder-strapped tank tops (popular in the late '70s) to show off his bronzed torso.

"Oh, the horror," I thought then. "My father is such a freak."

Looking back now, it may be a mischaracterization.

It may have been only one summer that he became obsessed with tanning, and who wants to be defined as a person by three months of your life?

Looking back now, I think maybe it was a source of relaxation, a little time away from four rambunctious, ornery boys.

Looking back now, it occurs to me he was probably approaching 40 and may have been going through a period of increased concern about his appearance. It was, after all, around the same time he started working out.

But all that is what I have reasoned; it's not what I remember.

What I remember is the horror.

The difference between my dad then and me now is that I don't think he grasped the lasting impression he was making on his kids with the sunbathing thing.

Me?

As soon as my son dashed from the room, I knew. I knew what was racing through his mind. "Oh, the horror," he was thinking. "My dad is a freak!"

And there was nothing to be done about it but turn back to the mirror, raise the hairbrush, and, in my best impersonation of Rick James, throw my head back and sing, "My dad's a freak, a super freak."

I can only hope my son didn't hear me.

Our take
Legislation to help feed local families

This year, more than 1 million Michigan residents — about one in 10 — will use a food bank to help feed their families.

Michigan's struggling economy is hard on everyone in the state, but for the working poor and unemployed who have exhausted their benefits, it's a struggle for daily survival.

When unemployment strikes, it hurts the working poor and unemployed even more because those who typically would donate to food banks no longer have the means to do so as they grapple with their personal situations.

A state senator believes that offering Michigan residents tax credits for donations to food banks could spur giving that would help state families that need assistance. The bill makes sense and should become law as quickly as possible.

Michigan residents can claim tax credits for clothing, furniture, appliances and vehicle donations to charitable organizations such as the Salvation Army, the Purple Heart or the St. Vincent de Paul Society. Taxpayers also may receive a credit of up to $100 ($200 for married couples filing jointly) for cash contributions to shelters, kitchens and food banks.

However, under current state law, donations of food items to food banks do not receive the same benefit.

Food donations should receive the same credit as cash donations.

Senate Bill 150, introduced by Sen. Jason Allen, R-Traverse City, would extend the tax breaks to those who donate food to such organizations. Allen introduced his bill in 2006, but the year ended before the Legislature could act upon it. He reintroduced his proposal in January, but while Michigan families continue to suffer, it has been lingering in the Senate Committee on Finance ever since.

Allen believes his bill could increase donations to food banks. While there is no guarantee that will occur, the tax credit bill won't cause any harm if donations do pick up because of the legislation.

But we won't know that if the committee doesn't get the bill to the Senate floor for a vote.

According to an Associated Press article, about 1.9 million Michigan residents receive government food assistance. That number is the highest in the 40-year history of the federal food stamp program in the state. The number of people in Michigan receiving such assistance is higher than all other states but five.

As dire as those numbers appear, officials estimate that there may be more than 300,000 Michigan residents who need food assistance but don't realize they qualify for the aid.

For the sake of Michigan's struggling families, our senators must lobby to get Allen's bill to a floor vote immediately.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor: I just wanted to apologize for the actions, or should I say in-actions, of most of my fellow firefighters in our community.

The recent death of retired Chief Dan Ellenwood leaves me saddened. Not just at the loss of this great man, who was my chief for the majority of my career at first the Chelsea Fire Department then the Chelsea Area Fire Authority (CAFA). Upon my retirement I still had great respect and admiration for this man. But, I am also saddened by the sudden reality check that the brotherhood of "you go, we go" no longer exists with the firefighting members of CAFA.

This great man who stood at the guard for many of our lost brothers whenever and wherever he was needed was not honored in the same manner on the first night of his visitation. There were more out of town uniforms in the two-plus hours I was there, then from our hometown fire department.

I was told that a few choose to honor him by standing guard on July 4 so thank you to Assistant Chief William Paul, Capt. Chris Smyth, CAFA Firefighters Mark Taylor and Aaron Zahn. As well as retired members including Capt. Keith O'Neil, Lt. Ken Bauer, Firefighters Dave Harrison and Dave Weigel. Additional thanks to Mark Luick from the City of Ann Arbor Fire Department.

Special thanks also to the City of Ann Arbor Fire Department Color Guard, who again did an amazing job on the day of the funeral.

But what must be understood is the remaining members of the local fire department who no longer even have the manners to offer their seat to a woman when she comes into the room, may someday be lying in Dan's place, and who will teach the future firefighters honor, respect and the brotherhood?

My deepest sympathy to "Ma" Ellenwood, Dan Jr., Mike and all those who loved him and will miss him most.

My thanks again to the few who gave nothing more then their time to honor a great man, who gave of many, asked little in return and deserved better then he got from the firefighters he laid the ground work for.

Lynn Higelmire
Lima Township, retired firefighter

To the Editor: On June 28 it was my pleasure to have been involved in the fund- raiser for Mike Radka that was held at the Chelsea Fair Grounds. There were many wonderful people involved in this project and I would like to thank them.

I approached Lynda Collins about the fund-raiser and she leapt at the chance to help Mike, her generosity, organizational skills and ingenuity were the heart of this event. Every one at Thompson's Pizza, especially Cindy Wacker and Lynda's daughter Danielle were invaluable. I also need to thank my dear friend Tami Dettling for gathering and making the delicious home made deserts

Also my sister Sarah Talbot and her company Metro Delivery for designing and making copies of our flyer. Plus my sister personally donated many hours of her time helping me organize the auction items. My brother John Talbot and his wife Jan donated their cottage and it was our best money maker of the auction items.

But most of all I want to thank the people of Chelsea who all opened their hearts in their own special and unique ways. Not one person or business in Chelsea that I asked for a donation said no. Many found others to donate too. A special thanks to Marlene Dusbiber who got many artists beside herself to donate to the auction.

There are so many people to thank, so if I forgot to mention you I thank you the most. I want to say though that the turnout of Chelsea people at the dinner was awe inspiring. The room was filled to capacity most of the evening and the table and chairs outside (donated by Chelsea rental) were also filled. We served way over 500 dinners. It was really moving to see so many people come to the aid of this fine young man. I thank you all from the bottom of my heart and I know the Radka family does as well. I am proud to live among such gracious people.

Our Chelsea History

Why did the island at Cavanaugh Lake sink?

A. The bottom was pulled out through a canal when Spring or Glazier Lake was dredged out.

B. It settled below water level from the weight of large trees and a "dance hall."

C. An underwater stream slowly washed out the sand beneath the island.

D. DNR decided it was a boating hazard, and had it bulldozed below the water.

Answer C. The most credible reason was found by University of Michigan students in late 1960s. Their instruments found a stream under the island. They concluded that sand/dirt was washed away and the island slowly settled into the lake. As told by lifelong residents, there were stumps of two large trees at each end of the island in early 1900s. The stumps were about 60 feet apart. Eventually, as the island sank, boats could be anchored to the exposed rooted stumps. Photographs are in existence of the ferry, "Maid of the Mist" and of a small building on the island among the trees which probably was the "dance hall." Today boats can carefully motor or anchor over the island in about a foot of water over what is now called "the Sunken Island at Cavanaugh Lake." Up until the 1960s lake families told about pitching tents, or playing family baseball games on the island when it was last above water.

Honors & Accomplishments

Kara Stiles, daughter of Richard Stiles and Jane Schuette of Chelsea, was named to the Merit List at Kenyon College for the second semester of the 2006-07 academic year.

To be eligible for Merit List recognition, a student must earn a grade-point average of at least 3.45 on the College's 4-point scale.

A graduate of Chelsea High School, Stiles is a junior majoring in political science at Kenyon, a private liberal-arts college in central Ohio.

Robert Wood of Chelsea graduated from Kettering University in March of 2007 with a Bachelor of Science degree in Electrical Engineering.

Kelly Jackson of Chelsea graduated from Adrian College April 2007 with a Bachelor of Science degree in Interior Design.

Luz Silverio, daughter of Lucy and Gonzalo Silverio of Chelsea, graduated with college honors with a Bachelor of Arts degree in Biology from Washington University College of Arts & Science in St. Louis May 2007.

Silverio was recognized for graduating as a member of Phi Beta Kappa, and as a member of Alpha Epsilon Delta, the Premedical Honor Society.

She is a 2003 graduate of Chelsea High School.

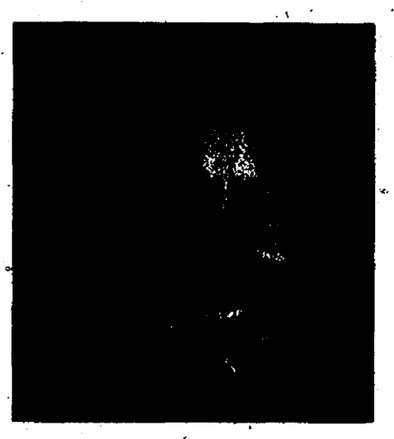
Central Michigan University's spring semester honors list includes:

Christopher Bauer, Scott Dettling, Candell Dickerson, Keely Gleespen, Anthony Larder and Jennifer Wright, all of Chelsea.

Heidi Clements and Daniel Monson, both of Dexter.



Megan Frame (above) of Chelsea has been named a recipient of a Presidential Scholarship to Grand Valley State University. Frame, a recent graduate of Chelsea High School, is the daughter of David and Lisa Frame.

To be considered for a Presidential Scholarship the recipient must have a 3.8 high school GPA, a minimum ACT score of 32, and attend a scholarship competition. The award is renewable for three additional years with a minimum of a 3.5 GPA or better.

Carolyn Callery (above) of Chelsea has been named a recipient of a Faculty Scholarship to Grand Valley State University. Callery, a recent graduate of Chelsea High School, is the daughter of James and Kathy Callery.

To be considered for a Faculty Scholarship the recipient must have a 3.6 high school GPA, a minimum ACT score of 29, and attend a scholarship competition. The award is renewable for three additional years with a minimum of a 3.5 GPA or better.

Lyn Yarows Memorial Run set for Aug. 4

The Dexter Cross Country teams with the support of the Joan C. Banfield Foundation will host the Lyn Yarows Memorial Walk/Run on Saturday, Aug. 4. Participants can run the same 5K (3.1 mile) course the University of Michigan and Dexter High school men's and women's cross country teams race.

For those who prefer a slower pace, there also will be a 5K walk on the scenic trails through Hudson Mills Metro Park, a 1-mile kids' cross country race and a 200-meter kids dash for those 6 years and under. The kids' run begins at 8:30 a.m. and the 5K run/walk begins at 9 a.m. The kids' dash follows at 10 a.m.

Lyn was a running and fitness enthusiast, who passed away last September after a brief, but courageous battle with cancer. Lyn's love for the outdoors and running was the inspiration for this event. Lyn's daughter, Kristen, will be a sophomore at DHS and a member of the varsity cross country team.

Funds earned will support the St. Joseph Mercy Hospital Pediatric Fund. The goal is to help purchase an aquarium for the new pediatric unit. Lyn's children, Kevin and Kristen, heard that the new pediatric unit would not accommodate the old aquarium. It was important to them and they thought their mother would have supported this project to purchase a new aquarium. It is hard to be in the hospital with nothing to do or look at when you are being wheeled around in a wheelchair.

For those who cannot make the race, but would like to make a donation in Lyn's name, mail donation checks, made payable to "St. Joseph Mercy Hospital Pediatric Fund" to:

Lyn Yarows Memorial Run, 9138 Horseshoe Ct., Dexter, MI 48130

For more details about the race and a registration form, see www.jcbfoundation.org or e-mail race directors, Bob & Katie Jazwinski at jazzrun@charter.net.

To the Editor: I'm writing to inform the community about an important Dexter Township Planning Commission Meeting at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, July 24. At this meeting, the commission will be considering a Special Land Use Preliminary cell tower construction plan submitted by T-Mobile. The proposed tower would be located on private land adjacent to the southeast corner of the 800-acre parcel of land off of North Territorial Road owned by the University of Michigan, commonly known as Stinchfield Woods.

Stinchfield Woods, also known as Peach Mountain Observatory, houses one of the foremost radio observatories in the world dedicated to the study of extragalactic objects in the radio-wavelength region of the electromagnetic spectrum. Aside from the valuable research conducted by the university's observatory, Stinchfield Woods also serves as a valuable community greenspace open to the public. Its winding forested trails and rolling hills provide an aesthetic retreat for hikers, dog walkers and nature lovers. It is one of the top cross-country skiing areas in Southern Michigan and the Dexter High School cross-country teams use it as a valuable training ground.

According to the university, the location of this proposed cell tower stands to compromise the valuable research conducted at the radio observatory due to the emissions from the tower.

It would be a shame to risk losing an 800 acre publicly-accessible greenspace due to T-Mobile's recalcitrant attitude toward the placement of a cell tower. I encourage the public to either attend the July 24 meeting in opposition to this plan. For more information on contacting the township regarding this issue, visit their Web site at twp-dexter.org/contact.

Regional Report: A summer guide to our parks

PARKS

East of the Waterloo, the Pinckney Recreation Area includes Independence Lake County Park near Whitmore Lake. A smorgasbord or outdoor water fun, Independence Lake offers all the usual activities, including boating, fishing, hiking and swimming, along with a new Spray Zone, which includes a splash play area with water geysers, jet streams and foamies. An adjacent beach center houses the park's office and includes a concession and patio eating area.

Staying in the northern portion of Washtenaw County, outdoor enthusiasts can venture over to Park Lyndon County Park to check out one of the state's finest natural area preserves. Some 500 species of plants are found in a wide variety of habitats throughout the park. Also, visitors can explore more than two miles of winding, steep trails and gap open-mouthed at glacially sculpted hillsides throughout their journey. For the hiking extremists, the Park Lyndon trail connects with the Waterloo-Pinckney Trail for a combined 50 miles of outdoor trail adventure.

In Chelsea, Veterans Park and Pierce Park serve residents throughout the year. Also popular in the community is the city's Timber Town facility.

"Parks give kids an opportunity to experience new activities during the summer months," said Chelsea Parks and Recreation Director Michelle Mitchell.

Mitchell said new to the Chelsea parks and recreation scene this year is Camp Cabogi. The camp was solely Mitchell's idea.

"I thought of it a long time ago," she said. "We already have 300 kids participating in the camp. They get to go swimming, bowling, play dodge ball, scatter ball and they also go to Independence Lake, among other activities."

Mitchell said Cabogi is a play on words.

"The 'C-a' stands for 'camp,' while the 'b-o' stands for 'boys,' and the 'g-i' for 'girls,'" she said. "Cabogi — a camp for boys and girls."

Just north of Dexter is Hudson Mills Metropark, one of the area's most popular outdoor destinations. Among the 1,549-acre park's attractions include an 18-hole golf course, picnic areas, softball and baseball diamonds, nature trails, hiking and biking trails, Huron River canoe and kayak opportunities and an activity center, with nature exhibits and food service.

Hudson Mills is also a place where visitors can enjoy birding, including watching migrating warblers, spotting woodpeckers and helping maintain bluebird nest boxes. Hudson Mills is also home to two of the state's top-rated disc golf courses.

"I think a variety of things make Hudson Mills popular," said Kim Jarvis, park superintendent of Hudson Mills. "Our nature trails, bike trails, hiking trails, sports activities and nature programs are popular. I think people are looking for ways to relax and they're able to do that at Hudson Mills. It's a beautiful natural resource. We're a part of the community."

Other metroparks in the northern portion of the county include the 53-acre Delhi Park and the 122-acre Dexter-Huron Park.

"Canoeing is also very popular," said Jarvis, also superintendent of Delhi and Dexter-Huron parks. "Our stretch of the Huron River is beautiful. It's like being up north, which is something we don't see a lot of in southeastern Michigan."

Jarvis said new to Hudson Mills this year is a two-mile addition to the park's hiking and biking trail.

"It hooks into the existing bike trail and returns back to the park," she said.

Jarvis said other new happenings at the parks include a labyrinth built by local Girl Scouts at Dexter-Huron Metropark, while over at Delhi Metropark workers have begun replacing trees lost to the emerald ash borer.

Jarvis said parks are an essential element of a strong community.

"We need them to mentally and physically stay healthy," she said. "We need them to relax and recreate. It's a quiet place to go. We're all so busy nowadays, it's nice to be able to get away and go for a hike or experience nature."

Regional Report: A summer guide to our parks

While the northern section of the county is where the largest parks loom, the central and southern parts of the county, along with Belleville, also offer their fair share of outdoor park activities.

Ypsilanti's 363-acre Rolling Hills County Park offers year-round entertainment, including three miles of nature trails, fishing pier, sledding hill, cross country ski trails, picnic areas and an 18-hole disc golf course. The park also offers one of the largest water parks in the area, featuring a wave pool, water slides, lazy river ride, spray grounds and a concession stand.

Ypsilanti Parks and Recreation also maintains seven neighborhood parks and year-round recreational activities for residents, including numerous tot parks and Frog Island Park.

Over in Belleville, in western Wayne County, Lower Huron Metropark is an area mainstay. Highlights of the 1,258-acre park include a unique par-3, 18-hole golf course, a swimming pool with a waterslide and the wintertime chance of skating over three inter-connected natural ice rinks in a ravine-like setting.

At Belleville's Oakwoods Metropark, visitors can enjoy a ride on a 34-foot Voyageur canoe, and can check out the park's nature center, which includes turtles, snakes and seasonal exhibits.

At Willow Metropark, outdoor enthusiasts can frolic in the park's 17-acre pond, swim laps in an Olympic-sized pool or show off their latest skateboard and in-line skating moves at the park's new skatepark, which features ramps, jumps, rails, stairs and quarter pipes.

Willow, Oakwoods and Lower Huron metroparks also connect for a 30-mile round trip biking trail and a 15-mile hiking trail.

Just outside of Manchester sits Sharon Mills Park. The park, located on the banks of the River Raisin, includes a mill constructed in 1835, fishing, picnic and canoeing opportunities.

Other parks serving the Manchester area include Alumni Memorial Field, Carr Park, Chi-Bro Park, Kirk Park, Wurster Park and the Leonard Preserve.

In Saline, 11 parks, totaling 200 acres, dot the surrounding landscape. The city's parks and recreation department oversees the maintenance and supervision of the parks.

At the 54-acre Mill Pond Park, the city's largest, visitors can let Fido roam freely and even take a dip in his own swimming pond at the site's 1-acre, leash-free dog park.

Also at Mill Pond Park, families gather each summer to watch movies under the stars on a 20-foot screen. The park is also home to the annual Celtic Festival.

"It's one of our most well-known parks," said Carla Scruggs, Saline Parks and Recreation director. "It's very popular."

At Saline's 50-acre Curtiss Park, visitors can take part in tree climbing clinics, while the 22-acre Wilderness Park offers picnic areas, a walking trail and a natural marsh.

"There's a lot to do at Curtiss Park," Scruggs said. "And Wilderness Park is a fabulous place."

Scruggs said a highlight of Curtiss Park is the Max Adler Trail.

"He (Adler) was a Saline resident and a former biologist at Eastern Michigan," she said. "He assisted a Girl Scout troop last year to make the trail. The trail features tree and plant identifications. It's now on the National Trail Register."

Adler died this past spring.

"It's (trail) a special part of the park," Scruggs said.

Encouraging residents to get outdoors and exercise, Saline's Pick Up the Pace group organizes walks around Saline and throughout the city's parks.

In addition to Mill Pond, Curtiss and Wilderness, Saline's other parks include Brecon, Canterbury, Colony, Marlpool, Peoples, Risdon, Stonecliff and Tefft.

Scruggs said Tefft Park recently received a new pavilion.

"The Saline Rotary Club donated it and constructed it," she said.

Scruggs said parks are relevant to a community because of their green space.

"It's a place where people can go to enjoy themselves," she said. "It's a place for kids. Parks bring people together to meet with neighbors and visit with each other. Parks are valuable for the community aspect of it all. They're a safe place for people to go to recreate."

In Milan, the city's parks and recreation department offers a wide range of programs and activities throughout the year at five parks in and around the community.

At the 139-acre Sanford Road Park, the crown jewel of the city's park system, outdoor enthusiasts can visit the one-of-a-kind radio-controlled model airplane flying field. Visitors can watch intrepid pilots fly their mechanical machines, or try their hand at maneuvering their own contraption.

"The park's a regional destination for flyers," said Ben Swayze, Milan Parks and Recreation director. "It's 10 times bigger than any other park in the area. We get flyers from as far away as Ohio visiting the park."

While plenty of visitors have their eyes on the skies at Sanford Road Park, the site also includes attractions such as a horse show arena, jogging trail and a pheasant habitat-sanctuary.

At the 35-acre Wilson Park, the Saline River separates the park from the hustle and bustle of downtown Milan, creating a peaceful oasis for residents. Highlights of the park include sand volleyball courts, biking and walking paths, a tot-lot playground area and baseball and softball fields.

Swayze said, despite ever-growing downtowns and infrastructures, parks always will be important to a community's well-being.

"Parks are a way for community members to get away from what they're doing," he said. "Despite development rapidly going up, we want to continue to maintain our parks."

Whether it's piloting your own radio-controlled model plane, watching movies underneath the stars, searching for rare treasure, standing in awe of nature's wonders or splashing around in a fun-filled water park, the state, county and city parks of this area have something for everyone.

So put away the remote, get off the couch and enjoy what the area has to offer outdoors.

Business awarded innovation grant

By Sean Dalton
Staff Writer

Dexter-based Rapid Biosense LLC was recently awarded a Small Business Innovation Research Grant, which represents another step in this small venture's transformation into something greater.

The $142,714 award, administered through the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, is for development of a low-cost biosensor for bacterial meningitis and bacteriemia, which is a bacterial infection in blood.

The announcement came from the office of U.S. Rep. Tim Walberg, R-District 7, whose office writes letters of recommendation for grant applicants in his district, according to his staff.

"I am pleased to announce this grant which will continue to improve our Life Sciences Research in Michigan and improve crucial research and detection of infectious diseases," Walberg said in a press release.

Rapid Biosense develops and will produce microbiology diagnostics systems designed to detect diseases.

Its business offices are located in Dexter and the company operates a research laboratory in East Lansing.

The technology was developed at Michigan State University's Biosystems Engineering Department.

"We are currently a small operation, but we see a huge opportunity to commercialize technology developed at Michigan State University, the University of Michigan and Wayne State University," said John Cunningham of Rapid Biosense.

The company is a subsidiary of Innoventures LLC, which is co-owned by Cunningham and Andy Lim, who has experience with start-up companies and has a background with AT&T's Bell Laboratories. Rapid Biosense has also secured grant funding from the U.S. Department of Agriculture to develop diagnostic process for diseases in beef cattle and other veterinary diagnostic systems.

"We are currently finalizing a contract with design for manufacturing and prototyping partners in Western Michigan," Cunningham said. "We plan to raise a seed round of private funding from private individuals and institutional investors beginning in the fall."

The company is currently raising $250,000 to begin design for manufacturing, and will try to gather another $500,000 later in the year to pay for the company's entry into production, according to Cunningham. He also projects that the company will need an additional $500,000 from private investors and venture capitalists to support sales and marketing, particularly of the company's veterinary diagnostics systems.

He expects the company's veterinary products to work their way through the federal regulatory cycle in 12 to 18 months, and products designed for human applications to be through in 24 to 36 months.

MSU has demonstrated the technology with E. coli and salmonella bacteria in produce, and is also working on anthrax applications, Cunningham said.

The company currently operates R&D in lab space leased from MBI International in East Lansing.

The "wet lab" facility "is allowing us to reproduce the laboratory results demonstrated at MSU and begin our own product development," Cunningham said.

"The food safety applications are closer for obvious reasons," he added.

According to Cunningham, the company's first real revenues from product sales are projected to come within 18 to 24 months

Rapid Biosense will possibly be looking to hire a general manager, who would operate out of the Dexter office, due to how business has solidified, according to Cunnningham.

In the interim, the company is getting by on "pre-revenue" through various grants and technology association awards for competitive funds at the federal level.

Although the total amount of grant money awarded was not announced, Cunningham listed some of the grants and awards that the company has competitively won.

These include a grant from the Michigan Universities Commercialization Initiative, prize money from the "Great Lakes Entrepreneurs Quest" statewide business plan competition and cash and lab equipment prizes from MichiBio, a statewide biosciences group.

The market for products similar to what Rapid Biosense will produce is currently $30 billion per year, he said.

"The rapid microbiology diagnostics market is a small but growing fraction of this market," Cunningham said.

"The growth of Rapid BioSense will depend on our ability to find and execute on the applications that need our combination of speed, sensitivity, cost and ease of use."

Andy Lim and Finny Mathew of Rapid Biosense.

Irene G. Hogan
Chelsea

Irene G. Hogan of Chelsea passed away Monday, July 16, 2007 at Arbor Hospice Residence in Ann Arbor. She was 90.

She was born Feb. 3, 1917, the daughter of Homer and Eva (Widmayer) Stofer. Irene had lived in the Chelsea area most of her life, graduating from Chelsea High School in 1935. She was a member of St. Mary Catholic Church and was on the Hospital Auxiliary for over 20 years.

On Sept. 11, 1948 she married William C. Hogan, and he preceded her in death. She was also preceded in death by her daughter Kathryn Ann Sprawka, as well as her sister-in-law Helen Hogan. She is survived by her loving family members, Jason (Deborah) Sprawka of Philadelphia, Benjamin Smith, Cheri Smith and Charlie (his fiancé Mary) Sprawka, all of Chelsea, Mrs. Harold (Alga) Widmayer, of Pickford, Mich., as well as several cousins.

Funeral services will be held 11 a.m. on Friday, July 20 at St. Mary Catholic Church with the Rev. Dr. William J. Turner officiating. Interment will be at Mt. Olivet Cemetery.

The family will receive friends at the Staffan-Mitchell Funeral Home, Chelsea, on Thursday from 2 to 4 p.m. and 6 to 8 p.m. Memorial contributions may be made to the Chelsea Hospital Auxiliary or St. Mary Catholic Church.

Maxine J. Tobias
Ann Arbor

Maxine J. Tobias died on Saturday, July 14. She was 84.

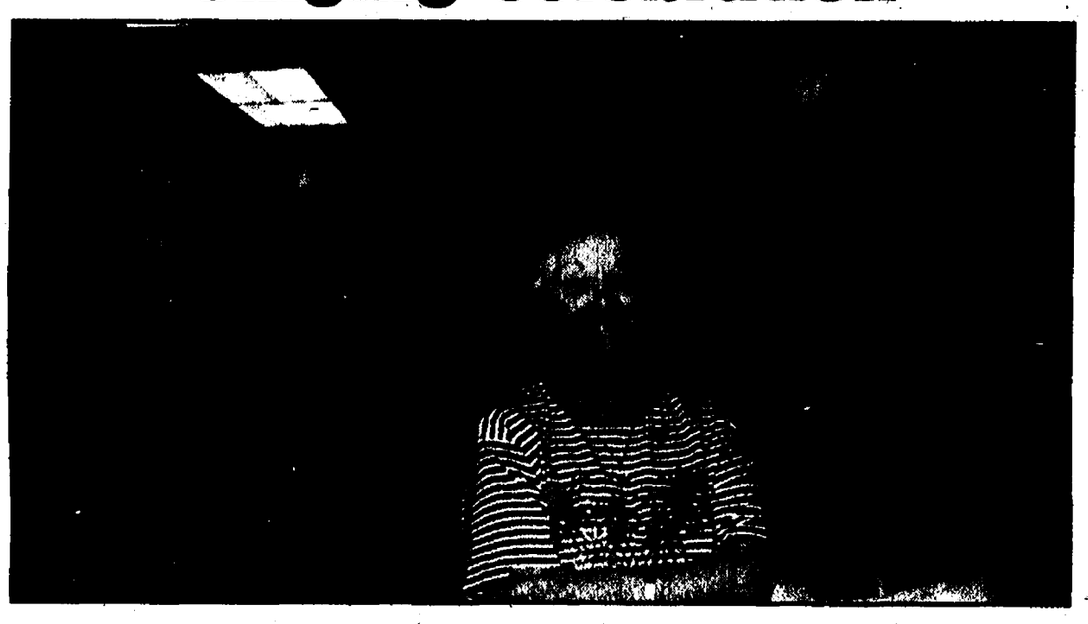
She was born in the farmhouse (later moved) which stood on the south side of what is now the Michigan Football Stadium. Her parents, Robert Miller of Ann Arbor, and Ruby Jane Aiken of Canada, preceded her in death. Maxine and her sister Shirley Ann Miller Fisher (Dexter), were raised in a house on a dirt road called West Stadium Boulevard among the homes of several other relatives. She graduated from Ann Arbor High School in the class of 1941.

She married Max E. Tobias (University High graduate) in 1942. She worked at the Ann Arbor Bank on State Street 1939-1943. In 1954 Maxine became vice president of her husband's service business, cleaning and servicing microscopes in Michigan. She grew up in the community of First Methodist Church on State Street, and then as an adult became a member of Bethlehem United Church of Christ with her husband. Her family was her passion.

Mrs. Tobias is survived by her son Robert Max (Susan Meader) Tobias of Washington D.C., daughter Nancy Tobias-Dymond of Chelsea. Grandchildren include Rachel Baldwin (Benjamin) of Wilmington, N.C., Christopher G. Tobias of Key West, Fla., Lindsay Arado (Matthew) of Chicago, Matthew Dymond (Melissa) of Howell, Michelle Lagerholm (John) of Los Angeles and Rob Dymond of Chelsea. She was the proud great grandparent of Sadie Baldwin and Nolan Arado.

Funeral services have been held followed by interment at Forest Hill Cemetery, Ann Arbor. Arrangements completed by the Nie Family Funeral Home.

Singing celebration



The Chelsea Senior Center celebrated the 4th of July with a Bar-B-Q luncheon and the singing duet of Marsha Mumm and Scott Riedel. Marge Hintzen (left) of Gregory, Marsha Mumm, Ruby Weitzel of Chelsea and Scott Riedel were on hand. Marsha and Scott sang a variety of songs that brought back happy memories and won the hearts of the audience.

Nature of parenting

There is no one "right" answer when it comes to birthing and raising children, although some factors are more important than others.

"Balance and timing in child development are among the most critical choices a parent can make that will affect every aspect of the child's growth," said Beth Barbeau, co-owner of Indigo Forest.

The business, located at 4121 Jackson Road in Ann Arbor, opened in March but will celebrate a grand opening July 28.

It is a haven for parents interested in natural childbirth and naturopathic remedies and products for children.

Naturopathy is a system of therapy and treatment which relies exclusively on natural remedies, such as sunlight, air and water, supplemented with diet and therapies such as massage.

"We provide not only healthful products, but also education and community to families actively engaged in the parenting journey," said co-owner Nicole Paquin.

Barbeau, a home-birth midwife and parent educator with a pre-medical degree; and Paquin, a board-certified naturopath; met two years ago through their sons' kindergarten class at Rudolph Steiner School in Ann Arbor.

"Naturopathy and midwifery seemed like an obvious match," Barbeau said. She added that after 20 years of teaching child-birth education, she got tired of ending involvement with new parents after the six-week checkup.

One example of the collaborative knowledge that the two women have fused together is their "Indigo Forest First Aid Kit."

"So far that kit has successfully handled fever, insect bites, tummy aches and gotten rid of the mice in their cabin, through one of the oils included," Barbeau said.

Their best-seller was a bit of a surprise, the women said.

"You'll laugh, but it is slippery elm powder," Paquin said. "It coats, soothes, and heals the digestive tract."

Ranking Indigo Forest's classes in terms of value, fun and popularity was a daunting task.

"Krista Dragun's 'Birthing From Within' childbirth education class will probably be the most valuable," Barbeau said.

"This style of class emphasizes the emotional power of birth and gaining the inner confidence and skills that will help carry the couple through their birth."

Other courses of interest include "A New Baby in the House: Infant Care, Transitions and Bonding with your Adopted Baby" and "Roughhousing 101: Stunt Work for Daddies," taught by Barbeau's husband and high school sweetheart, Chris.

There are also courses on morning sickness, nutrition for healthy pregnancy and discussing care with doctors.

"We see our mission as one of providing an array of choices," Barbeau said. "We provide health and parenting options that reach forward to the latest research."

They are also there to support new parents who are "shocked by the exhausting, overwhelming, unknown territory of the first days, weeks and months" of parenthood.

"Whether someone needs a breast pump or some really skilled help with breastfeeding, we can provide support," Barbeau said.

Grand opening festivities begin at 10 a.m. July 28, and include participation from Tree City Diapers, as well as games, performances by theater troupe Ring of Steel, snacks and gift raffles.

"Everyone (connected to) the world of children is welcome," said Paquin.

"We provide resources to hopefully make the journey easier and more enjoyable."

For more information see www.theindigoforest.com or www.treecitydiapers.com.

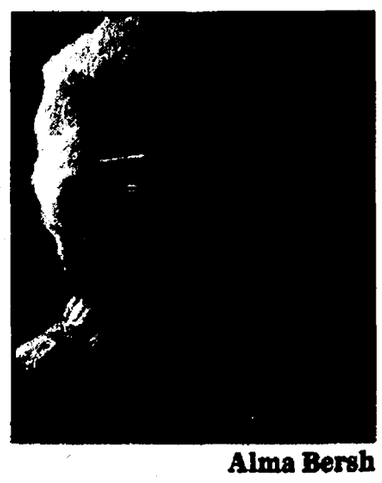
Local volunteer honored for her years of service



Alma Bersh

Alma Bershas has been a volunteer for the past 19 years. After her retirement from the court system she started volunteering at Bon Secours Hospital in Grosse Pointe Farms. She moved to Chelsea in 1997 and joined the Chelsea Community Hospital Auxiliary. She served as president, president-elect, counselor, treasurer, bylaw chair and the memorial tree chairperson. She also served in the gift shop and on the Blood Bank.

Bershas also served on the Southeast District Board in many positions, including president. She served on the Michigan Association of Healthcare Advocates (MAHA) Board as District President, was recently elected Bylaws/Resource Chairman of the MAHA at the 58th Annual Meeting and Educational Institute held at the Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island.

Bershas has four married children and 12 grandchildren ranging in age from 10 to 26 years old. Her hobbies include knitting, counted cross-stitch and attending her grandchildren's many activities.

The purpose of the Hospital Auxiliaries is to provide services, education and leadership training to MAHA membership in addition to providing support to the Michigan Health and Hospital Association. There are 31,307 volunteers in the stating donating 3,122,039 hours of service and donating $3,122,039 to Michigan hospitals.

Benefit golf scramble

A golf outing to raise money for leukemia victim Mike Radka will take place Saturday at Pierce Lake Golf Course, 1175 S. Main St., Chelsea.

Registration for the four-person scramble opens at 8 a.m., with a shotgun start at 9 a.m.

The entry fee of $500 per team includes lunch, beverages and a silent auction. Corporate sponsorships of $250 to $5,000 are available.

The ancient craft of basketweaving

Dexter artist likes sharing her talents

By Sheila Pursglove
Special Writer

A Rainbow Porcupine isn't some exotic form of local wildlife and a 14-inch Egg wasn't hatched by a giant bird – they are basket designs, among many beautiful creations found at Cherilyn Braun Basketweaving on Huron River Drive in Dexter.

Creations include baskets for gathering wildflowers and vegetables, holding pencils, trinkets or napkins, Christmas stockings, lunch totes, pincushion, placemat, memo pad and more.

It's an ancient craft, dating back several thousand years, with very early examples being found in Egypt and the Middle East.

"I wish people in southeast Michigan knew how rare it is to have a basket weaving shop and a nationally recognized instructor right here in Dexter," Braun-Fontana says. "I also have two world renowned guest instructors coming this summer to teach at my shop."

Braun-Fontana, who took the plunge and opened her store in the fall of 2004, designs and weaves baskets and shares her passion with others.

"Basketeers" will find kits and materials – reed, gourds, aprons, awls, shears, tape, books and more – and can take instruction from Braun-Fontana and from guest instructors.

Customers are drawn from as far away as Oakland, Macomb and Wayne counties.

"Basket shops are few and far between, so driving far to take classes or to shop is really not a stretch in the basket weaving world," Braun-Fontana says. "You can get a lot on line, but there's nothing like seeing samples in person or being able to see and touch the supplies you'll be buying.

"It's nothing for my friends and I to take day trips up to 3.5 hours each way just to visit a basket shop."

In fact, one of her very first students after she opened her store came every week from West Bloomfield, and has gone on to become a high level artist in gourdwork and baskestry with showings at very prestigious juried shows.

Her Dexter store also plays host to meetings of the Ann Arbor Area Weavers Guild, that she co-founded and where she currently serves as president.

The artisan's life wasn't always about baskets, In fact, the Dexter resident spent 15 years of her life crunching numbers as an accountant before discovering the beauty of basketweaving. She was 'hooked' with the first basket she wove, almost a decade ago, after friends persuaded her to join them in a class, her first taste of a creative hands-on activity.

From there it was full tilt into designing and weaving baskets, and teaching others, as well as opening her store in the fall of 2004.

Now she is a nationally known instructor – bringing her full circle to an original career dream of becoming a teacher.

Cherilyn Braun-Fontana (left) takes a turn as a student while JoAnn Kelly-Catsos, Black Ash basket specialist, conducts a class. The other student is Gina Zientara.

"I swell with pride when a student signs their first completed project," she says. "And to be able to teach such a skill to all levels of weaver gives me joy that I never felt in accounting, just great satisfaction seeing someone excelling with knowledge that I helped them develop. Teaching, as I knew from my childhood plans, is definitely a career very well suited to me."

She teaches at community education programs, local guilds, and state conventions, racking up the miles as she travels in Michigan, Indiana, North Carolina, Illinois, Missouri, Virginia, Georgia and Kentucky.

"When I began teaching locally, I never even thought about teaching nationally. I tentatively applied to one or two state conventions and got accepted. Little by little, I have become a well know national instructor. It's a thrill that my work and teaching are well known enough now that I get invited to teach at other states' basket conventions rather than have to introduce myself to each group, promote myself and show my work."

In September she'll teach at a Convention aptly termed "Weavin' is Heaven in 2007," in Valparaiso, Ind., and in May she taught at the Stowe Basketry Festival in Vermont.

"The Round Hearth at Stowe is one of the most prestigious places in the country to both study at and to teach basket weaving," she says. "I was honored to be accepted to teach there last month and they have invited me to apply again next year."

She also has taught in Community Education classes in Dexter, Chelsea, Pinckney and Ann Arbor, and at Washtenaw Community College, and she gives demonstrations and sells her creations at the Dexter Pioneer Arts Fair. She will teach "Beginning Basketweaving at the Waterloo Farm Museum on August 25, and at the Ann Arbor YMCA this Fall.

Her baskets have graced exhibits at the University of Michigan's Pierpont Commons, and she was juried into and participated in the 2004 Ann Arbor Art Fair as an artist with the Ann Arbor Fiberarts Guild. Last summer she had a booth at Chelsea's "Sights & Sounds on Thursday Nights," and is contracted to be part of Chelsea's "Friends & More" Holiday Art Show November 10 at the Chelsea Fairgrounds.

Braun-Fontana's basketweaving skills have brought her a slew of awards. Her Victorian Rose Basket, with a beautifully braided rim, won Best in Round Reed at the 2003 Association of Michigan Basketmakers Convention. She has also won Best in Flat Reed at the 2004 Association of Michigan Basketmakers Convention and Viewer's Choice at the 2006 Missouri Basketweavers' Convention.

"I'm not sure I can identify just one thing about weaving or about teaching basket weaving that makes them so special for me," she says. "The weaving itself can become very meditative and very therapeutic. It has helped me get through some very difficult times while keeping my sanity!

"We joke that a basket class is cheaper than therapy and makes you feel as good."

Running

Run for the Rolls endorsed by state

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

With just over a month left to pre-register, the inaugural Run for the Rolls one-mile run/walk through the streets of downtown Chelsea is just around the corner.

The event, which will take place 12:30 p.m. Aug. 25, will occur prior to the Chelsea Fair Parade. The overall first-place winner will receive Common Grill rolls.

Why Common Grill rolls?

"You have to have something that people will want to participate in," said Cindy Triveline, race director and founder of Run for the Rolls. "A race I do every Fourth of July in my hometown gives homemade apple pie for first place. The amount of fast runners/walkers that show up is staggering. People run/walk for pie. I wanted to create that type of buzz for this race.

"Ginger Sissom (community organizer) and I were talking one day and I said runners will run for food. We also had to make it Chelsea and we both looked at each other and said Common Grill rolls."

To pre-register for the Run for the Rolls, participants can pick up forms at the Chelsea Recreation Department or online at www.chelsearec.com.

The cost to participate in the event is $10 for individuals and $25 for families. After Aug. 21, $5 is added to the entry fee. All net proceeds from the race/walk will go to Chelsea Recreation Youth Scholarships, which financially assists youngsters who otherwise wouldn't have a chance to participate in recreation sports and activities.

Triveline has had her hands full preparing for this first-of-its-kind race through Chelsea.

"Things have gone smoothly," she said. "This is my first large community project and everyone has been very accepting of this new venue to the city. It has been a long time preparing, starting in January. It's just like any venue, getting sponsorship dollars, volunteers, prizes and organizing race day.

"I could not have gotten this far without great help from Ginger Sissom."

A hairstylist for 25 years at In Chelsea Hair Designs, Triveline, 44, a married mother of two, is an accomplished athlete in her own right, running in four marathons and two Olympic distance triathlons. She said the Run for the Rolls was recently reviewed for its physical content and is being endorsed by the Governs Council for Physical Fitness, Health and Sport of Michigan.

"I was contacted by the Governs Council for a partnership," Triveline said. "The (Run for the Rolls) name caught their attention and the format is what the Governs Council is looking for. This endorsement is great for the City of Chelsea that we have a Governs Council endorsed race and also for a first-year race."

For additional information regarding the Governs Council for Physical Fitness, Health and Sport of Michigan, check online at www.michiganfitness.org.

Marathon man

Chelsea's Schmidt pushes himself to limit

By Roy Schmidt
Special Writer

Editor's note: Chelsea resident Roy Schmidt describes his thoughts, feelings, aches and pains as he trains and later competes in two marathons earlier this summer.

Roy Schmidt stands with his two medals after completing the Bayshore Marathon and Grandma's Marathon this summer.

I hear a beep. I've just crossed the rubbery, red Gault chip mat and I know my 20-mile time has been recorded. I shout encouragement to the lumbering zombies around me: "There is no wall at 20 miles! Just keep going, one step at a time."

I have prepared myself mentally for this. I don't hit "the wall", but it does seem like I've been running up a ramp for the last five miles.

Where is that breeze off Lake Superior those weathermen promised? That cool, dry wind at our backs? The air is completely still. And it's got to be 80 degrees.

Someone with bagpipes is playing Amazing Grace. Can't they play a jig or something?

The start of this marathon, Grandma's, in Duluth, Minnesota, was incredible. There are something like 8,000 runners, all crammed onto a two-lane road that runs west along the shore of Lake Superior. It took me more than seven minutes to get up to the starting line after the gun sounded. I can't imagine how they accurately timed runners before the advent of the Gault timing chip, which makes sure each runner's individual clock does not start until they actually reach the starting line.

Since then I have chased a Marine carrying a flag — and almost caught him before he pulled away for good — and the balloon-toting groups of 4:15-pace runners, then the 4:00 runners, then the 3:45 pace-setters, before losing each, one by one, as I burned out during the second half of the marathon.

On the bright side, neither the guy in the Scooby Doo costume nor the guy decked out in full as a fur trapper ever caught me.

I'm driven to shoot for big goals. Maybe that's my way of escaping the frustration of being just an average guy, a mere mortal.

I've lived in Chelsea, with my family, for 10 years now. In that time I have led two teams up Mt. Rainier, built my own sauna, recorded a CD with my band, written a novel, and, last year, climbed Denali.

This year, I was driven to become a consistent runner. The best way to do that was to set a goal — to run a marathon. Or three.

I grew up in northern Wisconsin. I have been a runner forever. I remember running quarter-mile laps in winter, on the ice, around my dad's ice-fishing holes out on the lake when I was cold. At 10 I was running 50 laps at a time around our house, and for no good reason. At 18, I went to state in cross country for Phillips High School.

Now I'm past 40, and almost always running injured. It has taken me this long to realize I have been running on bad intelligence. This year I finally read Jeff Galloway, who advocates walking a bit after every mile, always. I tried it. It

Chelsea runners busy this summer

By Don Richter

Among other things, Chelsea is known for Jiffy Mix and the Purple Rose Theater. The community, however, is also becoming a haven for long-distance runners as of late.

With numerous athletes participating in the Boston Marathon earlier this year, the inaugural Run for the Rolls race set for Aug. 25 and local athletes competing in state and area distance races recently, Chelsea definitely has its running shoes on.

On July 7 through 8, local residents competed in the Northern Michigan Trail Festival. The event is a grueling series of races, including a 10K run, a 6K hill run and a 25K run. Mike Holik placed fourth overall in the combined standings. Eric Swager was the third over 40-year-old finisher overall. Julie Swager was the fifth woman overall to complete the 10K.

On July 1, Chelsea runners participated in the Larry Steeb Whitmore Lake series of races. In the event's 10K run, August Pappas, 14, won his age group and placed fourth overall with a time of 37:10. Pappas' effort equates to averaging less than six minutes per mile on a 6.2-mile course.

In the Whitmore Lake 5K run, Chelsea's Mark Smith and Geoff Smith-Woolams placed second and third, respectively, each earning trophies for their efforts.

Chelsea's Jared Gentz participated in the Whitmore Lake 10K run and finished fifth overall in the event's Splash-n-Dash swim/run. Eric Swager was fifth in the 5K run and was the top over-40-year-old finisher in the Splash-n-Dash race.

On June 14, Chelsea's Teddy Eyster and Nick Hewitt each finished in the top five of the Kalamazoo Klassic stopping the clock in 37:30. In the Klassic's 5K run, Smith ended up with a time of 18:04, while Peter Wilke had a mark of 18:35 and Smith-Woolams a time of 18:50. Stephanie Becker won her age-group by completing the 5K in 23:45.

Chelsea's burgeoning long-distance running crew meets and trains Monday through Friday at 8 a.m. in front of the Washington Street Education Center.

"Members of the community are invited to stop down, join the fun and participate in some of the area races," said Eric Swager, who also is head coach of Chelsea High School's boys' track and field team and boys' cross country squad.

MARATHON

works. I do it now. Always.

During both marathons, I have run all the way between aid stations. At Bayshore, a mile and a half at a time. Here at Grandma's, two miles at first, now just a mile in between near the end. But oh, how I want to stop, every step of the way.

We've been serenaded by marching bands, accordions, boom boxes (hey — some Boston would be nice), a jazz band, and even a dulcimer/guitar combo. We've had water cups, jelly beans, hard candy, wet sponges, and tongue-depressor sticks with gobs of Vaseline thrust at us. It's hard to focus, let alone grab anything.

Mile 21. I made it, but the effort was great. I'll be lucky to make it to each aid station without stopping in between. It's a worthwhile goal to offset the disappointment of doing so poorly over the second half of this run.

Two Dixie cups of Ultima, four of water, a cup of ice cubes, and it's time to run again. Ouch. But I lurch forward and roll on, striking up a cryptic conversation with a man who's running in very squeaky shoes.

Working at home, living in Sylvan Township, I have plenty of room to run, and enough flexibility to fit in a run every day. In March, I started on an official marathon training program I downloaded from the Running Times Web site and modified after using a handful of books and other Web sites for research. You can find these 12- or 16-week programs everywhere. They help you increase your mileage and speed work weekly without hurting yourself.

Of course, theories vary. For instance, at the end of week 13, many training programs have you running your longest training run, a 20-miler. Other training programs prescribe a full 26-mile run — for how can you run a full marathon without having run the full distance at least once in advance? I now understand that the former theory is the wisest — because I followed the latter.

The Bayshore Marathon, in Traverse City, fell on my Week 13. So I signed up, reserved three days at a spa resort, told my wife to pack a bag, and drove north.

The Bayshore is all it's advertised to be — probably the nicest marathon in the Midwest — with a limited number of runners; picturesque scenery across the bay; and a cool, shady route along the shore. Without any real time goal, the race was going to be great — just a training run I told myself. My eventual goal, reserved for Grandma's three weeks later, would be to break four hours. But not at Bayshore.

I started slowly, I ran slowly, I chatted, I posed for the hired photographers, and I high-fived the many spectators who cheered for me because of my "Run Against Bush" T-shirt. At the halfway point, my clock time (slower than my actual time, which was taken from the chip on my shoe) was 2:05 — just barely over two hours. Wow! I tried to remind myself that this was only a training run, and my time didn't matter, but it was impossible to resist the urge to push myself. And I was feeling so good.

By the 20th mile I was no longer feeling so good. But I kept pushing the pace. The final mile seemed interminable — winding back through the neighborhood streets, and, finally, cruelly, one lap around the school track. But when I hit that final straightaway and I saw my time, I was elated — I had beaten four hours. The finish line photo shows my wide grin.

But running the Bayshore Marathon, instead of doing a simple 20-mile training run, and finishing it hard, sealed my doom. I would pay for it, three weeks later, at Grandma's in Duluth.

What's all this about Grandma's Marathon being all downhill? Sure, it loses elevation, but only 150 feet from start to finish. In reality, it's gradual uphills and downhills all the way. This one, Lemon Drop Hill, lasted two miles, but it's finally dropping. I feel like dropping too. But I made it to the aid station without stopping.

Now down to Mile 23. My clothes are soaked, my legs are heavy. There are sirens in the background, and paramedics are hydrating a man on a stretcher by the curb.

Wait, am I dreaming? I may well be...hallucinating anyway. Someone on the right is handing out little cups of beer. OK, fine. I know I promised no unplanned stops, but I need to make an exception here. I swerve to the right, across the expanse of road. "Yes, I can fit one in each hand! Leinenkugel's? Sweet!"

A half a mile further, there's a familiar face on the left. How can that be? I don't have any friends or relatives here. Wait a minute. It's Al Franken! I swerve back across the road. I extend my hand. "It's an honor to meet you!"

"The honor is mine," he says, in that familiar, gravely, laconic, Minnesota voice.

"I've gotta get going, though," I say, and he laughs heartily.

I actually have run a marathon before — about 30 years ago, I ran the fabled Paavo Nurmi Marathon in the Upper Peninsula. I was in the best shape of my life, the top runner in my high school conference. But I barely broke four hours. It's mystifying until you think about it. Just because I was in great three-mile shape doesn't mean I was able to run 26. I probably didn't stop to walk, even once, and I probably ignored most of the aid stations, and drank little water. My longest training run was probably 15 miles. And I suppose my goal was simply to finish. I don't remember. Not just my body has declined in 30 years.

My body is old. At least it feels old. Should I even be doing this?

No. You can't think that way. Doing this is making my body younger. Or at least that's what's supposed to be happening.

I could have been smart and skipped that Bayshore Marathon though. My halfway split was well under two hours today, so much faster than Bayshore. But every mile after that has been slower, and slower, and slower. Now it's just one foot in front of the other, and it's taking absolutely everything I can give for me to keep from stopping to walk before I get to the next aid station.

Superior Street, and it's the end of this long, straight marathon, or at least it seems to be. Everywhere along the course, the balloons — white, red, green, blue. The colors mean something, at least at the aid stations, but I've forgotten what. Red — Medic?

We turn hard to port, and downhill toward the finish line. I skip the water, Ultima, and ice. We're almost done, right?

But...isn't a marathon 26 miles plus? That banner back there read "25".

Cross training would help. But, frankly, I just don't like it. I own a rowing machine, a Versa climber, a stationary bike, a mountain bike, and a bathing suit. But I like to run. I love to run. Maybe it's the endorphins; maybe it's the introvert-friendly solitude; maybe it's the stress-relieving escapism.

A five-mile run is nothing to me anymore, a short break from my work. At the end of a 10-mile run I'm just getting warmed up. Fifteen mile runs let me explore the countryside! But it's not the long runs that threaten to injure the marathoner in training, it's the weekly mileage. The Bayshore week, I hit 50 miles. That's not a lot if you are a serious runner, but it was a record for me, and too much.

All my miles are on the road or on the trail. I used to use a Nike pedometer that strapped onto my shoe, but I fell head first too many times trying to read it. Now I wear a Garmin GPS watch, that's about as big as a brick, on my wrist while I run. Very scientific, very accurate. I also save my runs on walkjogrun.net, which is a sweet Web site that uses Google Maps technology to allow you to click on road segments and create and save run routes.

A marathon is 26 miles, 385 yards after all. I really, really should have taken water at Mile 25. But the fans here are so great. They cheer me just to be nice, or because of my T-shirt. Someone offers me a cup of something. We all pass the convention center, then run forever up the dock past the good ship William A. Irvin. I'm not the only one trudging like a zombified Olympian whose steroids have run out.

Right turn, up a small hill, and a half mile to go. My 26-mile clock time is about 4:28. In my mind I tell myself it's 3:28, and I have to break 3:30. I don't feel like I speed up much, but I run with more mental energy to the finish line, and pass the test. I make it in under 4:30.

The next thing I remember is someone in a volunteer's uniform asking me if I'm OK, wrapping me in a space blanket, and posing me between a photographer and a "FINISHER" backdrop. Then she thrusts a vanilla shake energy drink in my hand and pushes me along with the rest of the finishers toward the food court.

Slowly I regain my consciousness, sneak back for another of those vanilla shakes, and walk across the wide lawn and stand up to my hips in the cold Lake Superior water for the next half hour.

Why do people like me put ourselves through this pain? Because, at the end, when every muscle hurts, but the race is finished, we can breathe a sigh and say, "I did it!"

And, "When's the next one?"

For me, the Detroit Marathon in October. And maybe, just maybe, Boston next spring.

ROLLS

Triveline said everyone that participates in a Governs Council event will be put into a lottery and 300 runners will be chosen to run over the Mackinac Bridge this year on Labor Day.

Triveline said she's looking for local volunteers to man positions along the race/walk route on M-52.

"The Run for the Rolls Committee is looking for spectators of the parade that sit by streets that enter onto M-52 to be volunteer safety people so that no traffic can enter M-52 during the race and the Chelsea Fair Parade," Triveline said. "The duties of the street safety volunteers will be to wear your bright green volunteer shirt, stand at the intersection of your street during the race and make sure no one enters onto M-52 until the follow-up vehicle ends the race."

Triveline said safety volunteers would meet with the Chelsea Police Chief before the race to receive additional directions. Chelsea Police will be stationed at all major intersections along the race and parade route.

To volunteer and to pick your street, contact Triveline at 475-0843.

Triveline said people could run in the race and also have more than enough time to enjoy the Chelsea Fair Parade.

"There was a concern that participants would lose their seating for the parade if they participated in the Run for the Rolls," she said. "The Run for the Rolls Committee wants everyone to be able to do everything. To participate in the race, get back to be in the Chelsea Fair Parade and to have a designated area for participants to watch the parade. You will have enough time."

Triveline said Chelsea's Best Car wash will be the official reserved area for Run for the Rolls participants to watch the parade after the race.

The race/walk will start at the Chelsea Fire Station on West Middle St. and end at Old U.S. 12 and Taylor St. across from the fairgrounds.

If athletes are unable to pre-register, they can register the day of the race at the corner of Taylor St. and Old U.S. 12 from 9 a.m. to noon.

Triveline tops field

Chelsea's Gabrielle Triveline finished first in the girls' 11- through 12-year-old division in last week's Meijer Tour at Salem Hills Golf Course in Northville.

Triveline, 12, bested the field shooting a nine-hole 42. She bettered second-place finisher Kyla Kurczewski, who carded a 57, by 15 strokes.

With her victory, Triveline has qualified for the Meijer Tour Championship Aug. 7 at Michigan State University.

Measuring fishing's impact on our walleye populations

Big water, big fish, big prizes, big names and big business. Modern walleye fishing tournaments have become the NASCAR of the fishing world.

But do they also have a big impact on our walleye populations?

The "live-release" tournament format developed by organizers over the past several years requires contestants to use a properly aerated live well and make every effort to keep the walleyes alive for release after the weigh-in. A weight deduction is taken for any fish that is unable to swim upright in the official bump tank. But do these efforts really work? How many of these fish really survive once released?

This is the topic of a multi-state research project being conducted in cooperation with FLW Outdoors, one of the premier walleye tournament organizers in North America. The impact study is being conducted by graduate students at the University of Minnesota and the Michigan Department of Natural Resources is one of five state partners.

According to Dave Fielder, DNR fisheries research biologist at the Alpena Great Lakes Fisheries Research Station who is Michigan's liaison on the project, the researchers visited several FLW Outdoors walleye tournament sites in Michigan last year and have been going out again this year to gather more data

"The researchers collect 'reference fish' in advance by electrofishing which temporarily stuns the fish allowing for their capture without the stress of hook and line techniques," Fielder said. "These fish are marked and then put in floating net pens right alongside some of the tournament-caught fish." The primary goal of the impact study, he said, is to compare survival between the control fish and the caught fish after five days. Fielder said other elements of the research project include a laboratory analysis to determine indicators of how successful the release of a fish will be, and a study designed to assess the attitudes of the greater angling community on its views of competitive fishing on public waters.

"The inclusion of the angler attitudes portion of the study is to provide a complete look at the issue of tournament impacts," Fielder said, "so it is not just limited to the biological implications if any."

In Michigan, the project researchers gathered data from four walleye tournaments, including one in the Michigan waters of Green Bay out of Menominee, one in the Bays de Noc out of Escanaba, one in the Detroit River out of Trenton, and the last one, which will be July 11-14 at the Bays de Noc out of Escanaba.

Similar tournaments have been monitored in other participating states including Minnesota, South Dakota, Wisconsin, Iowa and North Dakota. Funding for the study comes from the participating states and FLW Outdoors.

"The power of this study is the large sample size; that is the geographic coverage and large number of tournaments being monitored to determine the range of response" Fielder said.

As many as 24 walleye tournament events are expected to contribute data to the analysis.

Although not complete, Fielder said results thus far indicate that survival of released tournament fish depends on a variety of factors including how warm the water is and how rough the water was during the fishing day. But other factors, he said, also may include the distance traveled to get back to the weigh-in and the conditions in the boat's live well. "Some tournaments experienced a very high survival of the angler-caught fish while nearly all fish in other tournaments didn't survive," Fielder said. "In most tournaments, an intermediate loss of about 30 percent was common."

When the impact study is completed, each state will decide how best to apply the information to its own situation.

Lake Huron Basin Coordinator Tammy Newcomb, who along with Fielder initiated Michigan's participation in the project, said some states may opt to develop policies and regulations concerning live-release walleye tournaments and others may use the information to develop educational materials for tournament organizers and contestants. "Here in Michigan, our current understanding is that most anglers don't have a big problem with tournament fishing if they can be assured the fish aren't being killed," Newcomb said.

However, some tournament sites, such as Saginaw Bay, which hosted a FLW Outdoors fishing event June 30 but was not part of the study, may continue to be held as catch-and-keep tournaments because the water in the bay is usually too warm and shallow for good live release, she said. "In each case," Newcomb added, "the goal will be to find ways to accommodate competitive fishing opportunities and yet ensure protective measures for the fish population."

Judge denies request to keep tennis a fall sport

It looks like game, set, match for any hopes that the state court system would amend the change of the high school tennis seasons this year.

On Friday a United States district judge denied the motion made on behalf of the Michigan High School Tennis Coaches Association to keep girls' tennis a fall sport.

A nine-page ruling by Judge Richard Alan Enslen wrote that the motion filed by Richard Friedman – an Ann Arbor Huron tennis parent and University of Michigan law professor – "failed to show (tennis coaches) interests were not represented" during the lawsuit over the state's season switch.

The lawsuit, brought in 1998 by the Communities for Equity against the MHSAA, fought for the girls' basketball to be moved to winter and volleyball season moved to fall claiming the former arrangement was unfair to female athletes.

Enslen continued that the tennis applicants "failed to show their motion is timely" with the implantation of the new season arrangement roughly a month away from fall practice.

A major concern of the high school tennis coaches association's motion was that by moving girls tennis to spring it would damage participation numbers by conflicting with softball and track.

Another argument by the tennis coaches was that the adverse cold weather of early Michigan springs would be more difficult on the female athletes.

Other concerns included by moving boys' tennis to fall, interference with football and more likely, boys' soccer, among others.

Inside our business

Chelsea Grille finds its niche in the community

By Edward Freundl
Staff Writer

The restaurant in the shopping center at the corner of M-52 and Old U.S. 12 has been satisfying customers for the better part of three decades.

Maybe that's why, whether it wore the name of Gina's Café, Prego, or the Chelsea Grille, people keep coming back.

"We get a good crowd in here for lunch and dinner, and we have a lot of repeat customers who love it," said Chelsea Grille General Manager Rob Hohnke.

Manager Jodi Kelley came to the same conclusion.

"There are certain things people get hooked on and they keep coming back for that one item," she said.

"I look at our history in the community — the same owners have been serving the community for 20 years," Kelley added.

Those owners are Pauline Skinner, Demo Panos and Gina Pantley.

These days, the Chelsea Grille seems to have cooked up just the right combination of ingredients.

It doesn't try to be something it's not: it's simply good food in a relaxed, pleasant setting.

"It's always been a family dining experience," Hohnke said. "From Gina's; to a breakfast joint; to Prego, where you could get an expensive bottle of wine; to the Grille, where you can still get a burger and fries or get a fine meal."

The Chelsea Grille features family-style dining, with a wide variety of menu selections ranging from sandwiches for $5.99 to prime rib for $18.99.

"It's a quiet atmosphere," Hohnke added. "You can celebrate your softball team winning a game, or have a nice, quiet dinner with a loved one. It's the total experience."

Some of the most requested dishes are actually old favorites from the restaurant's earlier days.

Chelsea Grille General Manager Rob Hohnke (left photo), center, works on the grill line with kitchen manager Josh Brown, left, and cook Nico Buendia. Chelsea Grille Manager Jodi Kelley (above) observes server Christina Naron enter an order on the restaurant's computer system. Chelsea Grille General Manager Rob Hohnke (upper left) chats with customers at the new "tiki bar" while bartender Olivia Willis serves them on the outdoor patio during "Sounds & Sights on Thursday Nights."

"The most popular things on the menu are the Italian favorites from when it was Prego," Hohnke said. "We kept them on the menu because people enjoyed them, especially the fettuccine Alfredo, spaghetti and meatballs, and the seven-layer, old-fashioned lasagna."

Thanks to an expansion of the dining area about three years ago, the Chelsea Grille is becoming known for giving the community more options when it comes to accommodating larger groups.

"Even when we're busy, our restaurant is so large since we've expanded we can accommodate a lot of people and there's usually not a long wait," Kelley said.

"We always have weddings, class reunions, showers, retirements parties, and we have many tours that come in," she added.

"It's helpful for us because there aren't that many opportunities for those groups."

Kelley noted that the number of out-of-towners from Ohio, Indiana and elsewhere for tours at the Chelsea Milling Co. and the Chelsea Teddy Bear Co. is increasing rapidly.

"We can have busloads and it won't affect our regular diners," she said. "Three different tour companies use us as their destination stop when they come to town, and corporate seminars use us repeatedly.

"We've really seemed to find our niche with that."

Besides the main dining room, there is a smaller dining room on the other side of the bar, the "banquet room" in front and the "meeting room" tucked away in the back.

"We can fit up to 100 in the banquet room, another 30 in the meeting room, and our entire capacity is about 170 in the dining room," Hohnke said.

"On the weekends we'll have about 300 people on Fridays and Saturdays, and 100 to 150 during the week."

In addition, both managers said, their Sunday brunch is doing quite a brisk business.

The restaurant also gets involved in a lot of civic activities, Kelley said, which helps build a repeat customer base.

"We participate in a lot of community fund-raisers; the owners like to extend themselves within the community," Kelley said.

"We did the Muscular Dystrophy Association Lockup fund-raiser, which was very successful.

"What we've been focusing on lately, and it's a lot of fun, is the reunions of Chelsea High School classes of the late '40s. We did the Class of '47 a few weeks ago and have another one coming up."

Hohnke mentioned other activities the restaurant is involved in.

"We're trying to keep in touch with the community," he said. "One thing we did that was a lot of fun was a Casino Night fund-raiser for the Chelsea Hospital, and another thing we're doing is a 'Tiki Night' on Thursdays."

The Tiki Bar, open during "Sounds and Sights on Thursday Nights," seems to be a hit with patrons, if only because it is unique.

"Last year when they started the 'Sounds & Sights,' we noticed a big increase in our business, so we thought we might try something," Kelley said.

"I don't know of anyplace else in town that does something like this," Hohnke said.

The custom-built tiki bar must be seen to be truly appreciated: painted in bright green and orange, strung with lights and surrounded by scenes of palm trees and beaches on rolls of vinyl.

The staff is getting into the spirit by suggesting food and drink specials reflecting the tiki theme, Hohnke noted.

"The atmosphere is what makes it special, and the cooperation from the staff has been great," he said.

Any menu item or beverage can be ordered and enjoyed from ample outdoor seating on the patio near the front entrance.

Speaking of the entrance, it too has a connection with the past: an enormous stained-glass window that greets patrons as they come in.

"The stained-glass window is from the Gandy Dancer in the old train station in Ann Arbor," Kelley said.

"It's very valuable, and some people will walk in and see it and think it's very expensive in here, but that's not it at all."

Hohnke said the glass adds to the Chelsea Grille's ambience.

"The stained glass has been there since it was Gina's; I don't think it will ever be taken down," he said.

"I think this place has a lot of class, and it gives people more options."

God's Greatest Commandment

MINISTERIAL Message

By Chris Dawson
Chelsea Church of Christ

On one occasion Jesus was asked, "Master, which is the great commandment in the law. Jesus said unto him, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. This is the first and great commandment" (Matthew 22:36-38)

What would you do if you loved God with all of your heart, soul, and mind? Would you not seek a better understanding of His word? So many are ignorant of the teachings of the Bible, and yet claim to love God! Imagine someone saying, "I love Shakespeare," and then asking, "Who is Romeo and Juliet?" That is exactly the way many people are with God and His word.

If you loved God with all of your being, wouldn't you decide to give up your sin? God demands that all people everywhere repent of their sins (Acts 17:30-31). But how many folks do you know that love to carouse at the bars and nightclubs, or spend their money at the casino, or sleep with persons to whom they are not married, and then claim they love God?

You might say, "Well, this verse only says that we must love God. It doesn't say a word about any of those things." That's true. But neither does the verse specifically say anything about not abusing little children. Does that mean that you can love God and practice child abuse? I think not. Loving God means you love what is right, and hate that which is wrong (Ps. 119:113).

If you loved God with everything you've got, would you not also love Christ's church? Again, we don't find the church mentioned in this passage. But did you know that the Bible says that Christ shed His blood on the cross to purchase the church (Acts 20:28)? Sometimes we hear people talk as though they could love Jesus and still not be a part of His church. This is a mistake. The Bible says that the church of Christ is the body of Christ (Ephesians 1:22-23). To refuse the church is to refuse Christ. To refuse Christ is to refuse the love of God.

At the church of Christ in Chelsea, you will find a group of people whose aim is to love God with all of their heart, all of their soul, and all of their mind. You will also find that we try to follow God's commands in every aspect of our life and our worship. After all, Jesus said, "If you love me, keep my commandments" (John 14:15). If you are inclined to find out more about the love of God, the Bible, or the church, please feel free to contact us at anytime.

Popular children's author, musician to visit Chelsea

By Sheila Pumplove
Special Writer

If your youngsters are scared of thunderstorms you'll love "Listen to the Raindrops," a new children's book by Kirk Lignell of Ann Arbor. The accompanying CD features "The Storm Song," a folksy ditty guaranteed to calm terrified tots.

Lignell, an author, singer and songwriter, will be a guest at West of the Moon Gallery on W. Middle Street in Chelsea during the "Sounds & Sights on Thursday Nights" summertime program. He will sing and sign copies of his new book from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. on July 26, August 9 and August 23.

The book and song were inspired by a situation familiar to most parents. In May 2005, Lignell's then-3-year-old son woke up during a strong thunderstorm storm and sought refuge in his parents' bed.

"I moved over and he crawled in next to me and curled into little ball," Lignell said. "Now, this was one of those storms where the thunder and lightning were happening at the same time, so it was right on top of us. I completely understood why he was having trouble. We closed our eyes and just quietly talked a little bit — the storm was outside, we were inside, we're dry and safe.

"He fell asleep rather quickly so I just laid there for a while listening. I recall the first thought I had which was to the effect of, Geez, it sounds like a stampede on the roof. That was the first germination of the concept.

"Connor was a huge horse and pony fan. So the stampede turned into ponies prancing as I though about it. Then I listened to the wind, and watched the lighting, and the Storm Song started coming together in my head as I lay there."

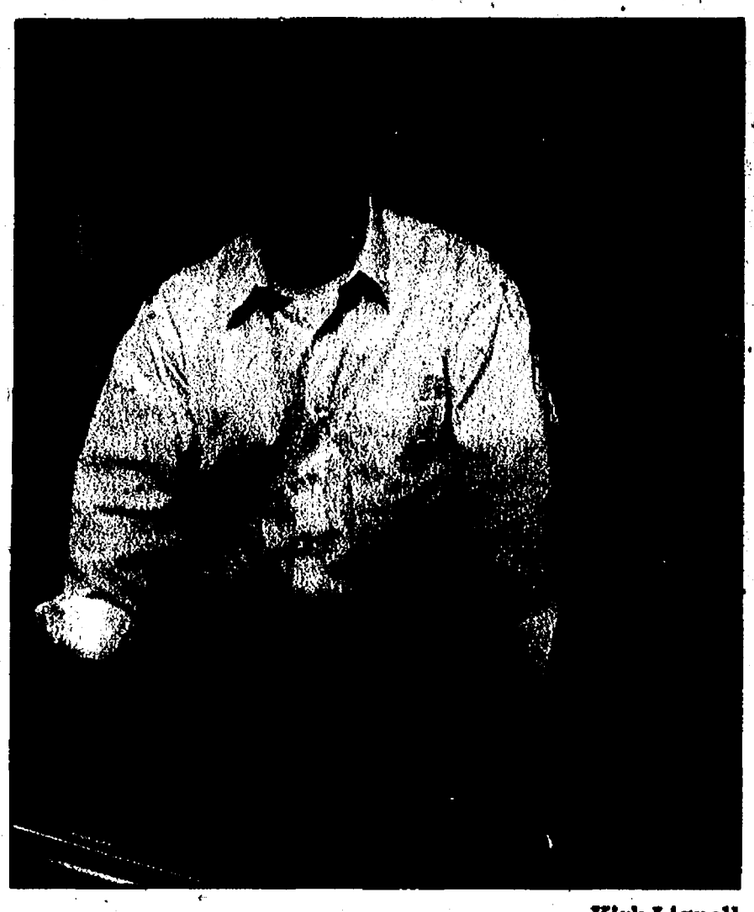
Lignell wrote down the lyrics the next day and within a couple of days had put together the tune and the guitar accompaniment. After a bit of practice, he shared it with my family.

"Connor was really, really excited about it and my wife Susan thought it was great. Morgan, my now almost 9-year-old daughter, would sing it whenever. It became a bit of our family song, until one day when Susan said, 'I think you should make that into a children's book.'"

Lignell recorded the song on his Palm Pilot, and took it to Steve Klein at Ann Arbor's Huron River Press - and the rest is history. The book was published about a year after its initial concept that stormy night.

"'Listen to the Raindrops' is an example of one of the earliest art forms, storytelling," said Charlene Harris of Chelsea, a member of the West of the Moon artist co-op and responsible for its guest artists. "It is true folk art born in the teller's imagination and scripted from a natural, somewhat scary event, into a poetic fable for young readers.

"The beauty of this book and its fanciful illustrations is that it encourages the reader or listener to explore their own imagination, to dance with the prancing ponies, howl with the winds and embrace the wonders of a thunderstorm."



Kirk Lignell

The book and CD are a family affair; Lignell's brother Brent, a Saline resident and hobby artist, illustrated the book in watercolors, and Connor, his sister Morgan, and several friends provide backup vocals on the CD.

Lignell, an engineer and University of Michigan graduate who works for Whirlpool, has some more ideas for a children's book, and also for adult fiction.

"We'll see how Listen to the Raindrops goes, but it's been fun enough so far to give it another go," he said.

" I don't know if The Storm Song could ever become a children's classic, but it would be pretty cool if it did."

For more information on the book, visit www.huronriverpress.com.

'Escanaba' at the Gem

Jeff Daniels' immensely popular "Escanaba In Love" is hitting da road.

Daniels' prequel to "Escanaba in Da Moonlight" will open in previews at the Gem Theatre in Detroit on Sept. 12 with an official opening night on Sept. 19. The Gem Theatre production, directed by Guy Sanville (who also directed the original production), will include the original Purple Rose Theatre Company cast.

Tickets ($39.50, previews $19.75) are on sale through Nov. 4 and will be available by calling 1-313-963-9800, TicketMaster Charge By Phone 1-248-645-6666, online at www.ticketmaster.com, and in person at the Gem Theatre box office and all TicketMaster locations.

4-H Youth Fair set for this weekend in Saline

The 2007 Washtenaw County 4-H Youth Fair takes place July 22-27 and highlights the project activities for more than 900 participating 4-H youth in Washtenaw County. These project areas include crafts, horsemanship, wood working, demonstrations, livestock exhibits and much more. Admission and parking for this event are free.

The show begins at 1:30 p.m. Sunday with horse exhibition as well as the dog show. The Still Exhibits Building opens Monday and more livestock arrives for display. Tuesday is the first full day in which every project, including livestock, is available for public display.

On July 26, the 4-H Small Animal Silent Auction and 4-H Youth Livestock Auction will take place at 6 p.m. and 6:30 p.m., respectively. This is an opportunity for youth to sell their livestock to the highest bidder.

The first 4-H Chicken Bar-B-Que will be from 3:30 to 6 p.m. on July 27.

Advanced tickets are available until July 23 from any 4-H Advisory Council member or from the MSU Extension office at a cost of $6.50. Tickets will be available at the door for $7.

More details and a complete schedule is available at http://extension.ewashtenaw.org. For more information, call 1-734-997-1678 before the show and 1-734-429-3145 during fair week.

VILLAGE OF DEXTER
PLANNING COMMISSION NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

Pursuant to Michigan Public Act 110 of 2006, as amended, notice is hereby given that the Dexter Village Planning Commission will hold a public hearing on Monday, August 6, 2007 at 7:30 pm at the Dexter Senior Center, 7720 Dexter Ann Arbor Road, Dexter, Michigan, for the purpose of hearing public comment regarding amendments to Article 2, Definitions, Open Space, of the Village of Dexter Zoning Ordinance. The proposed amendment is to the definition of Open Space. Open Space is proposed to be amended to the following: Required open space shall be on the same lot with the principal use and shall be unoccupied and unobstructed from the ground upward except for living plant material recreational facilities, permitted signs, sidewalks, bike paths, and necessary drives and utility lines, unless as otherwise provided in this Ordinance. Where open space is required, no more than fifty percent (50%) of the required area shall be comprised of lakes, ponds, regulated wetlands or floodplain. Exceptions: The following structures may be located anywhere on the lot: open and unroofed terraces, patios, stoops and steps, ramps for handicapped access, awnings, flag poles, trellises, retaining walls, fountains, outdoor cooking equipment, sidewalks, mailboxes, light poles, and fences in accordance with Article 3. In residential districts, the following types of structures may be located anywhere on the lot except in required front open space; fire escapes, and mechanical equipment. Certain architectural features such as cornices, eaves, gutters, and chimneys may project two (2) feet into required open space.

Information regarding the amendments to the Village of Dexter Zoning Ordinance Article 2 is available for public inspection at the Village Offices, 8123 Main Street, Dexter, weekdays between 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. or by phone at (734) 426-8303 Ext. 15. Written comments regarding the proposed Ordinance amendments should be submitted to the Village Offices, and must be received no later than 5:00 p.m., Tuesday, July 31, 2007. Sign language interpreter, or other assistance, is provided upon request to the Clerk, at least 72 hours in advance of the meeting. Minutes of all meetings are available at Village Offices and on the Village website, www.villageofdexter.org

LIMA TOWNSHIP
REGULAR BOARD MEETING – JULY 9, 2007

The regular meeting of the Lima Township Board was called to order at 8:00 p.m. on July 9, 2007 and opened with the Pledge to The Flag. Present were Supervisor Unterbrink, Clerk Bareis, Treasurer Havens, Trustees McKenzie and Laier. Also present several residents and guests.

Motion by Laier supported by Havens to approve the minutes of the June 11, 2007 regular meeting. Motion carried.

The treasurer's report was received.

The zoning administrator's report showed 3 permits for new homes, 2 home additions, 2 pole barns, and 3 decks.

Motion by McKenzie supported by Laier to remove the 14 point review proposal received from the current assessor from the agenda until we sign a contract with a future assessor. Motion carried.

Motion by McKenzie supported by Laier to request the Lima Township Planning Commission review the current Washtenaw County Road Commission right of way plan and recommend to the township board how to implement that plan within the township. Motion carried.

Motion by McKenzie supported by Laier to table action on the McKinley Road share project until the road commission numbers are verified. Motion carried.

Motion by Unterbrink supported by Laier to pay expenses for the clerk and treasurer to attend the MERS Annual Meeting as delegate and alternate. Motion carried.

Motion by McKenzie supported by Laier to refund $250.00 for the zoning compliance permit application for 50 South Fletcher Road, as no action was taken on that location. Motion carried.

Motion by Unterbrink supported by Bareis the Grammatico parcel is unique and while there is not a contiguous zoned RR (Rural Residential) parcel, there are RR zoned parcels just west on Gross Road and south of I-94. There is a severe flood plain on the parcel. The southerly portion of the parcel is inaccessible and therefore there is no access on Parker Road. This request does meet the intent of AG-2. Therefore under the unique conditions of this parcel, I move that parcel G-07-13-400-017, under Petition to Amend the Official Zoning Map application #07-003 be rezoned to RR. Motion carried. Ayes: Unterbrink, Bareis, McKenzie and Laier. Nay: Havens Motion by Bareis supported by Laier to table to the August 6, 2007 meeting the proposed Special Use Timeline Proposal for more information. Motion carried.

Motion by Laier supported by Unterbrink to pay the bills as presented. Carried.

Motion by Bareis supported by Unterbrink to have the township board representative to the planning commission take notification of the City of Chelsea Master Plan information to the planning commission. Motion carried.

The Washtenaw County Road Commission supplied a list of eleven bridges closed due to deterioration. Nine of them are in Western Washtenaw County.

Motion by Laier supported by Havens to adjourn at 9:37 p.m. Motion carried.

Respectfully submitted,
Arlene R. Bareis, Clerk

Public Comments

Jeanne Olinyk, 65 Chestnut Ct., requested that the board members reconsider the increase in the taxes. The real estate brokers have people who would like to move to Chelsea but potential buyers do not want to pay the high tax rates. With more houses for sale in Chelsea the owners are taking less for their property which will lower the State Equalized values

Rod Anderson stated that there needs to be more of a red flag earlier in the decision making process so that the residents can come in and voice their concerns. There needs to be an impact on the citizens looked at as well as the City's financial statements. There are residents in the community who would volunteer to come in and work with the City in order to accomplish this. The main problem is making sure that there is notice to the residents that this process is in the works so they can voice their concerns and get involved.

Council Business

1. Resolution to Establish additional Operating Tax Millage Rate

MOVED Hammer SECONDED Lindauer resolved, that the City Council of the City of Chelsea adopt the resolution to levy an additional rate of 1.25 mils for the General Fund Operations for the 2007-2008 fiscal year as well as to adopt a resolution to levy an additional rate of .1000 mils for Debt Service Bond for the 2007-2008 fiscal year. Roll Call Vote. Five Ayes, One Nay (Martinez-Kratz), 1 absent. Motion Carried.

2. Resolution approving Levy of 1.6727 Mill Ad Valorem Tax by Chelsea Downtown Development Authority

MOVED Bollinger SECONDED Lindauer to approve the resolution approving the levy of 1.6727 mill ad valorem tax by Chelsea Downtown Development Authority. Roll Call Vote. Five Ayes, One Nay (Martinez-Kratz), 1 absent. Motion Carried.

VILLAGE OF DEXTER
PLANNING COMMISSION NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

Pursuant to Michigan Public Act 110 of 2006, as amended, notice is hereby given that the Dexter Village Planning Commission will hold a public hearing on Monday, August 6, 2007 at 7:30 pm at the Dexter Senior Center, 7720 Dexter Ann Arbor Road, Dexter, Michigan, for the purpose of hearing public comment regarding amendments to Article 21, Site Plan Review and Approval, of the Village of Dexter Zoning Ordinance. The proposed amendments are as follows:

Section 21.01: The intent of this article is to establish the procedures and consistent standards for review and approval of site plans to ensure full compliance with the regulations in this Ordinance and other applicable ordinances and state and federal regulations of development proposals. Site plan review standards are intended to encourage consultation and cooperation between the applicant and the Village to balance the property owners right to a reasonable rate of return on investment with the Village's overall land use goals, the desire to minimize adverse impacts on the investments of surrounding landowners, and further ensure proper relationships between the development features as they relate to: traffic safety, service roads, driveways, parking areas, accessory buildings and uses, and open spaces. Therefore, these site plan review standards insure a thorough evaluation of a development in relation to the goals of the Village of Dexter Master Plan and the potential impacts on the environment, drainage, utilities, traffic, aesthetics, property values and other public health, safety and welfare issues. This section also contains special provisions to evaluate impacts of particular uses and to allow administrative approval in certain cases where there is a change in use, a minor change to an existing site or a minor change determined necessary in the field during construction.

Section 21.02(2)A. Single and two-family residential dwelling units on individual lots and related accessory buildings. B. Residential and agricultural accessory buildings. C. Nonresidential accessory buildings less than 700 square feet in area. D. Any change from one conforming use to another conforming use which does not require off-street parking in addition to that already provided. (Any change from a nonconforming use to a conforming use requires site plan review and approval, whether sufficient parking exists or not.) E. Any building additions, exterior remodeling or exterior alteration which does not increase the existing area of the building by more than ten (10) percent and does not require off-street parking in addition to that already provided. This does not eliminate the requirement for architectural review of the plans by the Site Plan Review Committee. F. Payments in Lieu of Parking in the Village Commercial District: The payment for parking space credits listed under Section 5.09 in lieu of providing off-street parking spaces shall not effect the requirement for site plan review and approval of additional off-street parking spaces if needed.

Section 21.04 A. The site plan approval process is a two (2) phase process. The process shall include a preliminary site plan and a final site plan unless otherwise requested and approved in conformance with Section 21.05. B. An applicant may request a pre application meeting with the Village Zoning Administrator and/or the Site Plan Review Committee per the pre-application meeting schedule, as appropriate. During the conceptual review phase, a generalized site plan may be presented by the prospective applicant for consideration of the overall idea of the development. The meeting permits the applicant to obtain information regarding the most optimum location of building(s), points of ingress and egress to the site and an indication of other improvement necessary for site plan submittal. At this stage, details of landscaping, site grading, drainage and utilities, etc. are not essential. Basic questions of use, density, integration with existing development in the area and impacts on and the availability of public infrastructure are discussed. No decisions are made at this level. C. The detailed site plan presented for review and recommendation by the Planning Commission and consideration by the Village Council shall contain all information required in this Ordinance. The following are the submittal requirements: Unless eligible for administrative review pursuant to section 21.06, applications for site plan review shall conform to the following.

Section 21.04(B) will be changed to Section 21.04(D).

Section 21.04(D)1.b, A scaled black and white elevation drawing of all sides of the building and sixteen (16) sets of 11" x 17" color elevations of all sides of the building depicting the color and character of all materials.

Section 21.04(D)1.f, Dimensional Requirements; The following should be taken into account when designing a site layout: scale and design compatibility, circulation of light and air, provision of adequate access to and around buildings for fire and police protection services, establishment of pleasant vistas, and arrangements conducive to enhancing the environmental quality of the site when developed minimizing the extent of impervious ground cover and minimizing the destruction of natural features which contribute to environmental quality.

Section 21.04(D)1.f.2, Except for large parking lots, driveways shall be limited to one (1) per development, will be added.

Section 21.04(D)4, The Village may permit the applicant to resubmit revised plans in response to the review comment depending on the complexity of the project and the time necessary to review the plans, will be added.

Section 21.04(D)6, The applicant must request, in writing, permission from Village Council to authorize grading and foundation work, if not specifically permitted by Village Council, will be added.

Section 21.04(D)8, Extensions of Time Limits: Time limits set forth in this article may be extended upon showing of good cause, and by written agreement between the petitioner and the recommendation of the Planning Commission and approval by Village Council, will be added.

Section 21.04(C) will be changed to Section 21.04(E).

Section 21.04(E)2.k, A scaled black and white elevation drawing of all sides of the building and sixteen (16) sets of 11" x 17" color elevations of all sides of the building depicting the color and character of all materials. 3-dimensional color renderings may be requested by the Planning Commission, will be added, other text regarding 2 and 3 dimensional renderings and elevations will be removed.

Section 21.04(E)2.t, If applicable at the time of submittal. If signage details are not known at time of application a note shall be added to the plan indicating conformance with the Village's current sign regulations listed in the Zoning Ordinance, will be added.

Section 21.04(E)2.u, Storm water Drainage/Erosion Control. All storm water drainage and erosion control plans shall meet the standards adopted by the Village for design and construction and shall to the minimum extent feasible, utilize non structural control techniques, including but not limited to: limitation of land disturbance and grading; maintenance of vegetated buffers and natural vegetation; minimization of impervious surfaces; use of terraces, contoured landscapes, runoff spreaders, grass, vegetated, or rock-lined swales; use of infiltration devices, including but not limited to rain gardens, native landscaping, and bio-retention swales, will be added.

Section 21.04(E)2.y, For decorative street lights within the public right-of-way a separate plan and CAD drawing must be submitted for review for conformance with the Village's Detroit Edison (DTE) Community Lighting Program, will be added.

Section 21.04(E)8, Site plan expiration will be changed to two (2) years.

Section 21.04(E)9, Extensions of Time Limits: Time limits set forth in this article may be extended upon showing of good cause, and by written agreement between the petitioner and the recommendation of the Planning Commission and approval by Village Council, will be added.

Information regarding the amendments to the Village of Dexter Zoning Ordinance Article 21, Site Plan Review and Approval, are available for public inspection at the Village Offices, 8123 Main Street, Dexter, weekdays between 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. or by phone at (734) 426-8303 Ext. 15. Written comments regarding the proposed Ordinance amendments should be submitted to the Village Offices, and must be received no later than 5:00 p.m., Tuesday, July 31, 2007. Sign language interpreter, or other assistance, is provided upon request to the Clerk, at least 72 hours in advance of the meeting. Here are five good reasons to invest

We love lists. We want to know the 10 best pizza places in town and the 10 worst-dressed celebrities at the Oscars. We long to find the top-10 movies of the year and the 10 most popular songs of the century. We want to know about the richest people in the country and the cheapest brunches in our city. In short, the list of lists could go on for a long time, but there's always room for one more – so let's look at the top five reasons to invest.

1. Investing can help you enjoy a comfortable retirement. Most people need at least 80 percent of their pre-retirement income to maintain a similar lifestyle during retirement. You'll get some of your retirement income from Social Security, but it almost certainly won't be enough. To help meet your retirement income needs, you'll need to invest regularly, both through your employer-sponsored plan, such as a 401(k), and through an IRA and other individual investments.

2. Investing can keep you ahead of inflation. Over time, even a low rate of inflation can severely erode your purchasing power. For example, suppose you currently earn $50,000 per year, and you assume a 4.0 percent inflation rate for the next 30 years. At that point, you would need to earn the equivalent of more than $162,000 per year just to keep the standard of living you have today. If you want to stay ahead of inflation, you will unquestionably need to invest. And you'll need to keep in mind that, when it comes to battling inflation, not all investments are created equal. Fixed-income vehicles, such as Certificates of Deposit (CDs) and bonds may be excellent choices for providing you with stability of principal and current income, but, over time, only stocks have significantly outperformed inflation. Consequently, you will need at least some stock holdings in your portfolio if you want to protect your long-term purchasing power.

3. Investing can help you prepare for emergencies. If need a new car, or you face an unexpected - and large - medical bill, where will you get the money? By setting up an emergency fund of six to 12 months' worth of living expenses, and investing the money in a liquid vehicle with strong protection of principal, you can help prepare yourself for life's bumps in the road.

4. Investing can help you realize your dreams. If you want to someday travel the world, own a vacation home or even open your own business, you'll need sufficient financial resources – and that means you have to save and invest throughout your working life. By following a disciplined investment strategy and working with a professional financial advisor, you may be able to someday turn your hopes into reality.

5. Investing can help you leave a legacy. You work hard all your life – but you're not doing it all for yourself. If you have a family, you want to be able to leave something behind. You may also want to support a favorite charitable organization. To be able to leave a financial legacy when you're gone, you'll need to invest – while you're here.

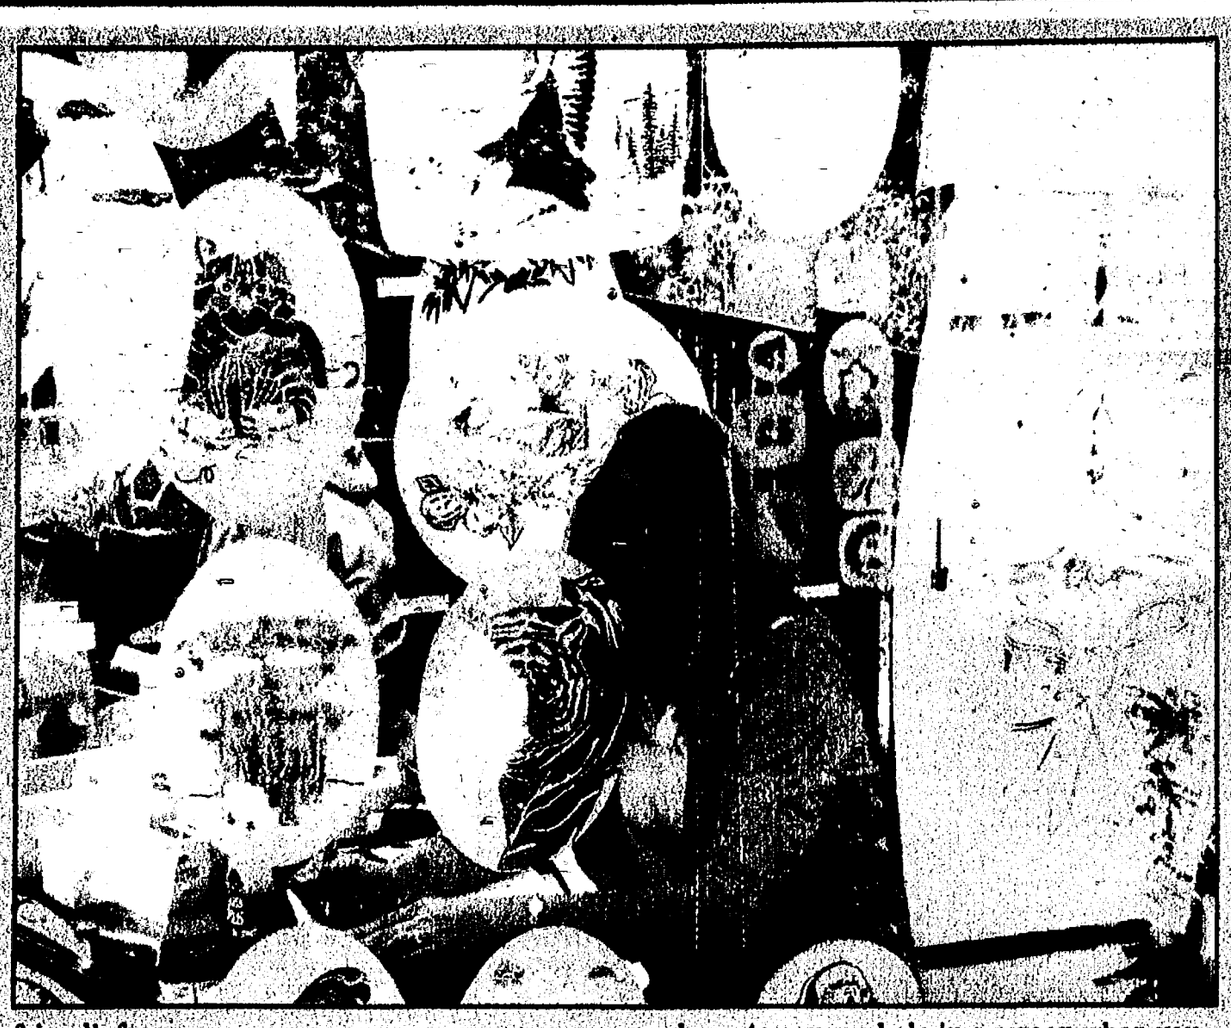
Business profile: Lori Sober, owner of LSS Vinyl Etchings



Name: Lori Sober
Age: 48
Family: Married for 13 years to husband Scott, and we have a daughter, Sarah, 9 years old.
Education: Graduate of Saline High School, some business college courses.
Native of: Saline
Current hometown: Dexter for 14 years
Name of business: LSS Vinyl Etchings (I used my family's initials)
Started: October 2006
Hobbies: Crafts, embroidery sewing, meeting people.
What you like about living in Dexter: Warmth and sense of community and caring.
What you like about farmers market: I enjoy seeing the returning vendors. I feel the farmers market adds character to the community and gives residence a chance to buy fresh produce and unique items.
How can people contact you: Phone: 1-734-426-4377; Email: lssetchings@charter.net
What exactly do you sell? Decorative Etchings and screen magnets. I have hundreds of designs. They come in ovals, squares, and circles, as well as corners are also available. They are made in the USA.
When did you start the business? After receiving one as a gift from my sister, I just fell in love with the vinyl etchings. I wanted to buy some for friends and family as gifts, plus I wanted a few more for myself. I have always wanted to do something like this. I remember when I was about 8 years old, I set up a TV tray in my driveway and tried to sell items from my bedroom (with my parent's permission of course) so that I could make some money for the Saline fair. This was my first attempt in sales. I enjoyed seeing the smiles on my friend's faces.
What attracted you to the vinyl etchings? They actually give you the look of etched glass and are very easy to apply with window cleaner. I love watching my customers look so amazed when I show them how easy they are to apply. You can change designs with the seasons.
What are some points about them people should know. They are removable and reusable, they range in different sizes and cost between $2 to $35. They can be applied to glass, mirrors, shower doors, RVs and autos.
What creative things can people do with the vinyl etchings? Some of my customers use them to cover a window for a little more privacy, others put them on a window to help keep birds from flying into it. The screen magnets are a good way to cover a hole in a screen when you don't want to totally repair a hole. The screen magnets are also used to keep people from walking into your screen door. They also come in many designs. I have hummingbirds, butterflies, lighthouses, gecko's, cats and seagulls. Other designs from my brochure can be ordered.
What are some of the more popular designs? Lighthouses, lily with hummingbirds, frogs and Christmas designs. The snowman is my favorite, he's very popular around November.
How is the business doing? Things are picking up at the farmers market. I am starting to see people return the following Saturday after they have had time to measure their windows. I also plan on being at Dexter Daze.

Looking for a fun and inexpensive summer project? Turn that "catch-all" room into a useful space.

So many of us have a room that basically houses the castoffs, the broken and the mismatched furnishings. Oh sure, we call it the office, spare room, craft room or guest room, but we all know that it is the land of the forgotten. Think junk drawer, only bigger.

Here comes the challenge. Decide on a budget ($50 to $100) to turn this wasteland into useable and valuable living space. Begin by assigning the room a purpose, this will give you a direction. Carefully look at what is in the room and decide what can be used or re-purposed for this new space.

This is the perfect time to de-clutter. Throw away, give away or donate items that will not enhance this new space. Mismatched furniture can easily be united by painting all the pieces one color. All white or black always work well for a new, matched look. An old dining room table can be used as a great desk. Cut the legs down and use it as a coffee table. Think outside the box.

Search your home for fabric remnants for pillows or window treatments. Bring items in from other parts of your home for a new look. Make your own art.

Ideally, the only purchase should be paint. Fresh paint in a complimentary color will revitalize your room. Be creative and learn a simple faux finish, or paint stripes on the walls. The point is that you can have a great new space for little money and have fun doing it.

HERlook

For your entire life your skin has been making a first impression for you. It can reflect whether you're tired, excited, happy or under the weather. Skin can also be one of the first places to hint toward your age.

Genetics play a key role in how your skin will evolve as you get older. It is common for skin to lose some elasticity and many people experience sagging of the skin, dimpling and pigment changes due to the gradual decline of hormones, such as testosterone and estrogen. But environmental factors, perhaps, make up the largest part of the equation, especially sun exposure and how you care for your skin.

People are living longer and want their skin to reflect just how vibrant they feel. Just as a meal comes together by using the right ingredients, you can achieve a healthy, more youthful appearance by practicing this recipe for vibrant skin, courtesy of Be Fine Food Skin Care, a line of products essentially composed of vegan with vegetarian proteins, which are paraben-free, preservatives-free and allergen-free.

1. Starter course: Begin with a fresh and clean surface. Use a gentle cleanser to wash your face twice daily to clean out pores and remove surface skin buildup and makeup residue. Cleansers are available to work in conjunction with your specific skin type, whether oily, dry or combination. Use a toner to close pores and firm the skin. Toners will also exfoliate the skin, allowing for fresh, dewy layers of skin to show through. Be gentle when washing the face. Tugging or rubbing can exacerbate conditions and promote more wrinkling or irritation.

2. Entree: Moisture is essential to your skin. Moisture should come from the inside and out. Fuel your skin by drinking plenty of water and provide the nutrients skin needs by eating a healthy balance of all-natural foods, including an assortment of fresh fruits and vegetables. Facial moisturizers can plump the skin, revitalize its appearance and make it look and feel more youthful.

The main course of skin care also involves sun protection. Over time, exposure to ultraviolet (UV) radiation can lead to skin discoloration, wrinkling and even skin cancer. In fact, 90 percent of skin aging symptoms, including wrinkles, lentigos (brown freckles), acne, dry complexion, and dilated capillaries can be linked to sun exposure, say experts. Use products that have at least an SPF of 15. If you spend ample time outdoors, protect the face and body by wearing a wide-brimmed hat or using an umbrella.

3. A la carte: Every person's skin is different and may have areas that need specific treatment. Everything from warming masks, soothing eye treatments to lighten dark circles, and lip exfoliators to minimize flaking and wrinkling can assist in bringing out the healthy glow you desire.

4. Dessert: Makeup can camouflage areas of the skin, but many products are now being created with anti-aging ingredients to assist in revitalizing skin. Look for lighter, more translucent applications that won't cake on skin and settle into fine lines and wrinkles.

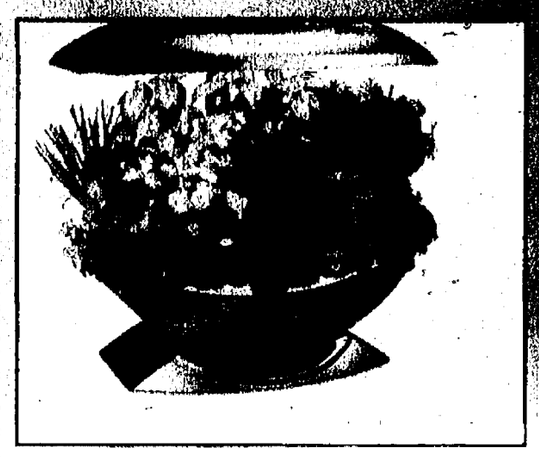
PRODUCTS FOR YOUR HOME



We all know that technology is constantly changing in computers and electronics but I never realized the extent that it impacted household products. Whoever said "there are no new ideas under the sun" didn't attend the Annual International Housewares show in Chicago. I was amazed at the innovation. Here is a sampling of the most interesting new and/or improved products for your home.

Tea Thermometer by www.taylorusa.com. Tea leaves have different temperature requirements to brew properly without destroying the beneficial antioxidants (apparently) so by setting this instrument to the type of tea you're brewing and pushing a button, it steeps your tea for exactly the number of seconds necessary for the perfect cup.

French leading coffee machine: Enough consumers were irritated by having to pull the coffee machine out from under the upper cabinets to lift the lid and fill it that the engineers at Delonghi created the first machine that loads from the front.

Aerogrow Garden (photo inset): If you'd like to have fresh herbs, vegetable or flowers in your home year round,(without building a greenhouse) this clever compact container makes it so simple. Plug in the unit, pour in water and nutrient tablets and insert the prepackaged pods and you can harvest strawberries, an Italian herb garden or hot peppers for the next 4-6 months. It operates on hydroponic technology making soil obsolete. Check out www.aerogrow.com.

Ergonomic measuring spoons: Found at www.progressiveintl.com, this set not only has a clever base design that allows the spoon to rest level on the counter to prevent tipping, it also sticks to a metal surface so spoons are easy to grab.

Icestone: This material is the [illegible] with recycled [illegible] cement. [illegible] reduces [illegible] or glass in [illegible] stream [illegible] current [illegible] will vary in 24 standard colors but the color palette is infinite. This material was awarded the prestigious "cradle to cradle certification" and can be used for floors, walls and exterior applications. Check out www.icestone.biz.

Contact paper: This steady, reliable brand of shelf liner we've known since the 70's has suddenly gotten a facelift. More and more consumers want brands they know and trust and this one has hit a home run with it's new collections of dazzling and daring designs. It's not just for your drawers anymore either. www.kittrich.com is marketing its virtues for cabinets, doors and back splashes.

A gas station for your gadgets: Finally, a place where you can charge all your electronics in ONE organized, convenient and well-designed spot. e-nook by www.Anthro.com. Cell phones, digital cameras, PDA's and laptops. Like a Murphy bed for your electronics, it folds away but even looks great while you're using it.

Sippy cups: Kids weren't excluded when it came to innovations. Thermos offers "FOOGO."

One of three products in this line, the leak-proof sippy cup offers their famous vacuum insulation and condensation free exterior, with improvements parents have been crying for; soft spout that's comfy to sip, durability to withstand hundreds of tosses, and temperature control that keeps contents the right temp longer than any other brand.

SummerFest rocks away the blues

By Sheila Pursglove
Special Writer

SummerFest has made its mark around the region as one of the coolest entertainment venues during the summer festival season, said Bob Pierce, executive director of the Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce.

"Under the careful guidance of entertainment chair Gary Munce - and John Johnson before him - they have created a music energy that is not matched by any of the out county festivals," Pierce said.

"The diverse genres presented to our guests that weekend is nothing short of astounding. Classic rock, rock-a-billy, blues, and R&B is a sampling of what you get for a $5 admission under one tent.

"When the show is over for the night, you feel like this can't be happening in our backyard! If you didn't have fun, it's because you weren't paying attention."

Entertainment chair Gary Munce said this year's SummerFest music line up is a great one.

"I can't imagine a more power-packed lineup for the Main Stage – every group is a headliner," he said.

Festival-goers will find music in the Food & Entertainment Court behind The Common Grill, starting at 3:30 p.m., and in many other SummerFest locations such as the McKune Memorial Library and the Clocktower complex.

Friday fun

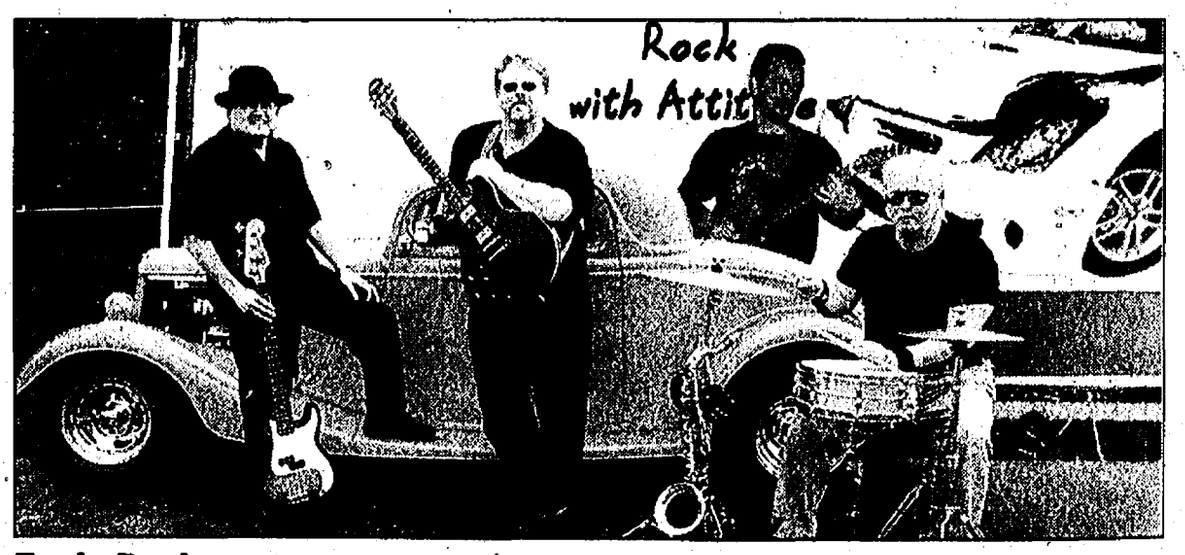
Leading off on the Main Stage on Friday are the Aces and Eights, playing music from the 1960s, '70s, '80s, '90s and into the new millennium – everything from jazz and blues to classic rock, funk, soul and country.

FUBAR from Ann Arbor will perform original material and music that ranges across the pop landscape of the last half-century.

Then George Bedard and the Kingpins will take to the stage with American roots music — rockabilly, blues, country, swing, surf, soul, rhythm and blues, and early rock 'n' roll.

Rounding out the night is the rockabilly sounds of Billy Mack and the Juke Joint Johnnies, which they describe as "Atomic Roots Rock For Your Dancing Pleasure."

The group is well-known in the area and has played in Ann Arbor, Pinckney, Dundee and at the Chelsea Lanes Bowlapalooza.



FenderBender

Saturday sounds

Chelsea's own FenderBender – "Rock with Attitude" – kicks off Saturday's music lineup.

The band has already made its musical mark in Chelsea, performing at Sounds & Sights on Thursday Nights, "oldies gigs" at Silver Maples of Chelsea, the renovation afterparty at Timber Town, VFW BandJam, Rockabowlooza at Chelsea Lanes, Chelsea Oktoberfest, and at private parties, and will play at the Frankenmuth CarFest in September.

Three Chelsea musicians make up the band: Bill Lamb, a Plymouth/Canton school teacher who sings, plays guitar and plays "a mean, sassy sax:" drummer Captain Mike Thayer, a chef at Silver Maples retirement facility; and John Johnson, who plays bass and says he does his best to sing a bit, "sometimes even in key."

The trio will be joined by Paul Weeks, an outstanding guitarist from the Downriver Detroit area.

Overall

SummerFest creates summertime magic

By Sheila Pursglove
Special Writer

Bob Pierce, executive director of the Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce, is in his seventh year on the SummerFest steering committee – and he's just as excited about the 2007 event as he was for his first year.

That's the magic of SummerFest.

Whether it's motorcycles, magicians or merchant booths, classic cars, crafts or clowns, paintings or pizza, balloons or bargains, the two-day event – July 27 and 28 – will conjure up something for everyone.

"I often refer to Chelsea as a magical community," Pierce said. "The community support, involvement and attendance at our events are part of this magic.

"When we host festivals such as SummerFest, it gives us an opportunity to share some of this magic with our neighbors from surrounding towns and even surrounding states.

"Few communities our size, anywhere in the country, have a track record of 'magic' that can match that of Chelsea."

The genesis of SummerFest is the Sidewalk Sales event that has been going on for 20 years in downtown Chelsea, Pierce said.

"With the support of our merchants, sidewalk sales continue as an important part of this event," he said.

"The event has expanded to include a fun-filled Kid Zone, a juried art area known as ARTicipation, and the ever-popular food and entertainment court. Long-standing traditions such as the Friday night car show and the Kiwanis wagon will once again be part of the weekend."

Something old, something new

This year's SummerFest has a great mix of the favorites from past years and new additions, said Kelly Goodell, who is co-chairing the festival with Tracie Faupel.

One new and exciting event is an additional music venue at the library that is really going to get people's attention, Goodell said.

"There are performers scheduled for Friday evening and Saturday afternoon, and we are excited to be able to feature local talent, like some teen bands, as well as some performers that are a bit different from our main entertainment stage, like Phonetics and A World of Rhythm & Song."

SummerFest is bringing in more regional acts to increase attendance, Goodell said. Billy Mack and the Juke Joint Johnnies headline Friday's music, and Saturday's headliner is Lady Sunshine and the X Band.

Chelsea's own FenderBender will also perform on Saturday.

Colors the Clown, Zeemo animal magic show, Hudson Mills Metro Park, hair braiding by Gemini Salon, Dexter Karate Academy demonstrations, flower planting with The Garden Mill, crafts, lawn games, balloon twisters are also all on tap.

Car enthusiasts will again enjoy the Chelsea Classic Cruisers Car Show, running from 4 to 8 p.m. Friday evening on Middle Street. The event features classic cars, contests and a cruise through Chelsea.

Former president Art Dils said the Chamber has always taken a very active part in supporting and promoting the annual event.

"SummerFest has become one of the major community events that make Chelsea such a wonderful place to live, shop, be in business and work," he said.

"It could not be what it has become without the many volunteers that led and shared their talents and energy."

New venues

This year the Chelsea Center for the Arts is coordinating ARTicipation with more than 30 local and regional artists in a juried art show and demonstrations.

ARTicipation and Kid Zone have new venues – in the courtyard area of Chelsea's clock tower complex.

"This move has been the vision of many of the members of steering committee for several years," Pierce said.

"This change in venue opens up one entire parking lot downtown for our guests. This will go a long way in alleviating one of our perennial concerns

MUSIC

"We all have been playing for too many years to add up," Johnson said.

The band was his brainchild, after he met several musicians through his involvement with Chelsea SummerFest in 2003 and 2004, and RockaBowlooza in 2004, 2005, 2006 and 2007.

"In January of 2005 I contacted Bill and Mike, who agreed to add one more thing to their already hectic lives, and FenderBender was born," Johnson said.

"We probably have a sound that uniquely blends a '60s garage jam band flavor with a huge dose of humor, energy and soul.

"FenderBender loves playing and since Chelsea is 'our house,' tend to feed off the crowds in Chelsea. This will be our second trip to SummerFest and we look forward to starting the activities on Saturday with a crowd-pleasing show."

Johnson is very passionate about the musicians who perform at SummerFest.

"All these guys and gals have day jobs, are moms, dads, grandparents, homeowners; and I guarantee all give back to their communities in some way or another," Johnson said. "It takes energy to spill your guts on the stage.

"My philosophy is very simple: If you have the opportunity to sit on your couch and watch "Oprah," or drive five, 10, 15 minutes to see and support live music, please, get off your butt. You will like it!"

Singin' the blues

FenderBender will be followed by Chris Canas and the Blues Revolution, with blues running the gamut from traditional to funky.

Guitarist, vocalist and songwriter Canas was born and raised in the Detroit area, and plays at clubs and festivals around Michigan.

His band includes Angie "Big Mama" C on vocals and percussion, Kevin "Shep" Schoepke on bass, Frank "The Nail" Kenney on drums and vocals, Marty "Saxman" Montgomery on saxophone and vocals, and Shane "The Game" Rasmussen on keyboard and vocals.

Next up will be Bigfoot Bob and the Toe Tappers, with a musical stew influenced by jazz, blues, gospel, and rock.

Bigfoot Bob himself – a.k.a. Bob Schultz – started playing piano at the age of 10 before moving on to the sax.

In junior high he played in the dance band, and in high school formed an R&B band to play at dances and parties.

After high school, Schultz performed in nightclubs and went on to spend time with Bob Seger.

Let the sun shine in

No matter the weather, SummerFest can guarantee a whole lotta sunshine – Lady Sunshine and X Band, that is.

The Saturday night headliners from the Motor City will rock the night away with their special brand of blues, funk, R&B, soul, rock, jazz and Latin.

Born on a plantation near West Helena, Ark., Lady Sunshine cut her musical teeth as a child by singing gospel music in church choirs and at home with her six brothers and two sisters.

A fan of Etta James, Mahalia Jackson and Millie Jackson, she grew up listening to jukebox blues and Mississippi Delta radio stations.

After moving to Ann Arbor in 1975, the blues belter with an amazing collection of sassy wigs began performing professionally with her cousin, tenor sax player James Chaney, singing blues, R&B, gospel, soul and jazz.

Lady Sunshine, who launched the X Band in 1994, is backed by "Slick" Rick Humesky on guitar, Kito Pardo on drums, Joe Aranda on bass, Tom "Fossdog" Fosselman on keyboards, and the 'Xsatiable Horns' - Patricio Padilla on tenor sax, David Maki II on baritone sax and alto sax, and Ken Ferry on trumpet.

The award-winning LSX Band with three CDs to its credit - "All Kind of Men," "Man Trouble," and "Live at Last" – has performed across the region, and opened for big name blues artists such as Bobby Rush, Koko Taylor, Little Milton, Liquid Soul, Sir Mack Rice, Spyder Turner and War.

LSX was voted "Best Blues Band in Washtenaw County" by Current Magazine in both 2006 and 2007, and in 2005 took second place in the International Blues Challenge in Memphis, Tenn.

In 2005 they were nominees for Best Rhythm & Blues/Soul Band at the Detroit Music Awards, and in 2004 placed first in the DBS Detroit Blues Challenge.

McKune music

The addition of a new stage venue at the front of the McKune Memorial Library opens up all kinds of new opportunities, from bagpipes to the didgeridoo, said SummerFest Entertainment Chair Gary Munce.

Entertainment on the library stage at Orchard and Main streets kicks off at 1 p.m. Friday, with two teen bands that also perform at Sounds & Sights.

The Phonetics are up-and-coming local favorites, while Ultrasounds features Patrick Conway on guitar; Christopher Smith on bass, vocals and keys; and Sara Griffin on drums and vocals; performing music with a nod to the '60s and '70s.

Local drum ensemble Like Water Drum and Dance, headed by Ryan Edwards, will perform its unique brand of West African music.

Saturday afternoon will welcome the Celtic sound of the Ann Arbor Pipes and Drums, featuring kilt-clad pipers and drummers from Lower Michigan and northwest Ohio.

In complete contrast, Toppermost is a classic rock, pop and country band specializing in the "British Invasion" bands that came to the United States in the '60s and '70s.

Judy Piazza, a singer-songwriter, multi-instrumentalist, recording artist, music therapist, and educator, will present "A World of Rhythm and Song."

"The addition of the new library venue to this year's lineup will provide for even more entertainment choices," said Bob Pierce, executive director of the Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce.

MAGIC

regarding the lack of parking for SummerFest. It will also provide a safe area for our Kid Zone, away from M-52 and the railroad tracks."

The Chamber has arranged with McKinley Inc. to have 24-hour surveillance for this area during the event, Pierce said.

The Clocktower complex offers new SummerFest activities at the Chelsea Teddy Bear Company – including a mascot tug of war between the Jet's Pizza guy and a Teddy Bear.

The Teddy team is hosting displays by the Chelsea Area Fire Authority, Chelsea Police Department and K-9 unit of Officer Jeff Staebler and his dog Tango, Huron Valley Ambulance, as well as Marcy Boughton giving physical therapy demonstrations for children.

Hula hounds

So if you think your hound is a hit in a hula skirt or your Labrador looks lovely in a lei, join in the fun and compete for Best Costume, Prettiest Dog, and Longest Tail.

Previous awards have also included Oldest Dog, Best Costume, Best Kisser and Best Tail Wagging.

Paws hit the ground at 10 a.m. Saturday at Chelsea Farmer Supply on Jackson Street, sponsor of the event.

The parade will make its way along Jackson to East Street, to East Middle and Main, ending at the Kid Zone in the Clocktower complex where awards will be handed out.

Fabulous food

Unlike many festivals, the SummerFest food court – located in the parking lot behind The Common Grill – is truly exceptional, Pierce said.

Local and area restaurants featured include the Common Grill, Cleary's Pub, Zou Zou's, Thompson's Pizzeria, Chelsea Comfort Inn and more, with dishes ranging from lobster to pizza.

"You won't find this level of quality food at other festivals of our size," Pierce said.

Food will be served from 5 to 10 p.m. both days. All ages are permitted in the Food Court before 9 p.m., but after 9 p.m., the area is for adults 21 and older.

Children 12 and under are free, the tab is $3 for ages 13 to 20, and $5 for 21 and up.

The Food and Entertainment Court is a big favorite of Chelsea resident Judy Hein.

"I always enjoy great live music and delicious food," she said.

Hein, who moved to Chelsea in 1997 with her husband, Ken, co-chaired SummerFest for three years with Constance Eder.

"SummerFest was such a great experience for me – it's really where I feel Ken and I became a part of the community, not having lived here that long beforehand," she said.

"SummerFest is a great opportunity to show off our city to both residents and visitors alike. It's also a nice opportunity to blend community residents and merchants in one event."

Three cheers for SummerFest

Eder, a Chelsea native who worked at Dayspring Gifts more than 20 years ago, when it was on the west side of Main Street, remembers the early days of SummerFest.

"I always looked forward to the sidewalk sales," she says. "It was such a fun weekend even then. The sidewalks were filled with stuff and people and there was sporadic entertainment or fun food being sold, but nothing even remotely like what it has evolved into.

"I think the various venues we have today are the perfect reflection of how this great community has grown over the years. I'm proud to have played a role in the growth of SummerFest."

Crystal Harris, who is in charge of the volunteers for this year's event, has been attending SummerFest with her family for the past three years.

"It is a great time for all of us," she says. "There are plenty of children's events that satisfy them, and good music and entertainment for the adults.

"A lot of small towns have something similar to this, but Chelsea goes all out

Arts

Plenty of ARTicipation in SummerFest art show

By Sheila Pursglove
Special Writer

From pottery to purses, fiber art to photography, beads, baskets and much more, ARTicipation offers a showcase of regional and national artists and craftspeople.

Running noon to 8 p.m. Friday and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday in the Clocktower Commons courtyard, events and exhibitors also include a juried art show, musicians and youth art activities.

"Art is everywhere during SummerFest," said Linda Leatham, Center Gallery manager at the Chelsea Center for the Arts. "Visit the Artist's Market to see the displays of glass, paintings, pottery, jewelry and more.

"Celebrating Chelsea's cultural heritage the Barn Art Project will feature a hands-on project to honor our rural history through a collage of photos, writing and art."

Leatham reminded festival-goers to watch for people wearing sparkly tiaras during SummerFest to promote the "Denims & Diamonds" CCA fundraiser in October.

The Center Gallery, located on Congdon Street, is also celebrating with "Summer at CCA," an exhibit of fine art in mixed media by local studio artists, teachers and students.

ARTicipation vendors include Rose Clawson with baskets and Pattie Cameron with purses.

Chelsea photographers Paul James and Jane Wilhelm will be there, joined by photographer Dan Stuart of South Lyon.

Ceramics and pottery artisans are Judy Irwin and Hazel Schroen of Chelsea, Thaya Rowe of Grass Lake, Debra Liberman of Southfield and Jo Ellen Kladzyk of Manchester, who also does stained glass.

Mary Baker will offer her mosaics, and Chelsea's Karen Smith brings her fused glass creations.

Artists Janya Eckler, Kimberly Whitaker, Debra Adamcik, Debbie Spring and Sarah Stevenson will showcase acrylics, oils, watercolors, pastels and caricatures.

Jewelry artisans include Tracey Danuloff of Dexter, and Chelsea's Sarah Schauder, as well as Glenda Gafner, Lucie Hughes, Alison Libbey, Liz Sol, Andres Sims and Susan Conklin.

Food vendors, face painters, musicians and caricature artists will all add to the fun.

"I'm thrilled with the approach the folks in charge of ARTicipation have taken for SummerFest," said Bob Pierce, executive director of the Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce.

"For those of us who are 'art challenged' - mechanical drawing was anything but mechanical for me - strolling through the arts area is so much fun. I'm always amazed at the talent we have right here in Chelsea."

Pierce is also very pleased at this year's venue.

"I'm so glad that the time has come for us to expand our event to the beautiful courtyard area of the Clocktower complex. This area is so striking and lends itself nicely to hosting our events.

"Make sure you take the time to visit Kid Zone and Articipation, first for the event and second to enjoy the beauty of the historical setting."

and does it up right."

Volunteers are what make SummerFest so successful, Harris said.

"These are the people who not only attend with their families, but also enjoy the rewards of helping their community by being personally involved.

"Volunteers are not just important; the event would not take place without their help."

Chelsea resident Shawn Personke says SummerFest is a great community event.

"So many different people are involved, from the business owners to reps from non-profits like Silver Maples and churches to residents who just like to help their community," she said.

"I always look forward to seeing what's on the sidewalk sale tables. My husband and son usually get down to hear the live music.

"SummerFest marks the height of summer for me, too. It reminds me to get out and enjoy summertime, because fall is right around the corner."

Excitement is revving up

The phones at the Chamber office are really heating up, Pierce said.

"SummerFest is the highlight of the summer for many folks in the area. I can gauge their enthusiasm by the number of calls we receive at the Chamber office asking for details about the event. Our call rate peaks around this time each year."

In late June, Pierce got a call from a Pennsylvania mom who will be headed to this area for a reunion with family members from a five-state area.

Searching for a place or entertainment venue suitable for the entire family on July 28, the woman found out about SummerFest from the Chamber Web site link on the Ann Arbor Convention & Visitors Bureau calendar and visited www.chelseafestivals.com.

"She then called the Chamber for an in-depth explanation of the events," Pierce said. "After a 15-minute telephone conversation, she is planning on having the entire family, all 20 of them, ages 2 to 85, attend Chelsea SummerFest."

And that family – and everyone else who attends – is certain to have a great time, Pierce said.

"What makes this event so special is the variety of activities packed into the weekend," he said.

Three for the sea, in spectacular art glass

With 12 legs, six eyes, and three very distinctive shells, this trio of turtle hatchlings is as cute as can be.

Together they are Turtle Trio—fascinating art glass sculptures by Lenox. And all three are sculpted as if scrambling from beach to sea—heads straining forward and wing-like flippers churning.

Displayed on a coffee table, an end table or desk, Turtle Trio will bring a welcome touch of color and whimsy to any room in your home. The price of this set of three imported art glass sculptures is just $29.50, an exceptional value for sculptures bearing the Lenox® hallmark of quality.

To acquire Turtle Trio for yourself, or as a memorable gift, simply sign and mail the attached Order Form today.

I chose Molly Maid!

MOLLY MAID

Reasons why I'm glad I did!

1. I have more time – instead of cleaning, I can spend time doing the things I want to do.
2. They clean my home the way I want – they listen and they care.
3. People Notice – my friends and family comment on how fresh and clean my home is.
4. No contracts – and they guarantee to put a smile on my face with every cleaning.
5. The reputation – Molly Maid has been cleaning homes for over 25 years!
