King of the Hill

Nick Hill sits next to teammate Jeff Adams on an otherwise empty Chelsea bench. On the field the Bulldogs' defense is trying to stop Dexter from mounting a comeback in the fourth quarter.

A CHS homecoming crowd sits behind Hill and Adams. Just a few feet away, cheerleaders cheer, kids are lined up along the railing screaming their support and parents applaud another good play by the defense.

But none of this is getting through to Hill. He just sits there, mostly staring straight ahead.

All week long there were spirit events at the school. Before the game there was a pep rally and a parade. The band was in fine form on Friday evening - in fact, the Chelsea High School band was in excellent form. Homecoming, the folks like to say, is more than a football game.

Try telling that to Nick Hill. As Dexter marches closer and closer to the Chelsea end zone, it's ALL about football. Hill just sits there, staring straight ahead.

When Dexter fails to get a first down, Hill barely notices. Maybe the crowd is telling him what's going on. Maybe he can just sense what's going on. Or maybe he doesn't care what's going on because no matter what happens he has no control over it. He focuses only on what he can control.

Royalty typically needs a troupe of professional musicians to herald a victory, but Chelsea High School's homecoming queen could probably do it just fine on her own.

Katherine Standefer, 17, is a member of the Chelsea High School band and this year's Senior Homecoming Queen.

"Music is such an important part of my life," said Standefer, who has played flute and piano for nearly 10 years.

While winning wasn't a sure thing, Standefer had a pretty good feeling going into the evening.

"My father rented a Thunderbird for the parade and a friend came from out of town to escort me," she said.

"I was pretty confident that it was going to be a good night."

The teenager's celebration could be called down-to-earth, with a simple night of pizza, brownies and movies, while her parents spent the evening calling friends and family to tell them the good news.

On the other hand, she's got dreams that tend more towards a star-filled sky.

Standefer is currently studying musical theory, in addition to other courses that

REGIONAL REPORT: SCHOOL FINANCES

Solution to funding proving to be elusive

By Edward Freundl
Staff Writer

With all the legislative wrangling of two weeks ago still fresh in their minds, local school superintendents are still waiting to see some concrete school aid numbers come out of the state Capitol.

The legislative compromise that was reached between the House and Senate included a broad mix of new revenues, continued cuts and some restructuring.

As with most compromises it contained just enough of all three elements to survive a vote, but not enough of any particular element to make anyone truly satisfied.

"The formula came about in the wee hours in the morning, which sometimes produces not the most perfect piece of legislation," said state Rep. Pam Byrnes, D-District 52, who sits on the House Appropriations Committee and represents a large portion of Washtenaw County.

One of the results of the compromise was to increase per-pupil payments to districts by 1 percent.

Local school officials were disappointed in the meager increase, but chose to look at it in a positive way.

"We expect to get the 1 percent increase, but it's not sufficient to meet our needs," said Dr. James Hawkins, Superintendent of the Ypsilanti School District.

"It's better than getting nothing, or getting less than in years past."

Manchester Community Schools' new superintendent, Shawn Lewis-Lakin, said the proposal still lags far behind inflation.

"One of my concerns is that the Consumer Price Index was 2.5 percent, and a 1 percent increase is not enough to keep up with costs that are beyond our control to rein in."

Chelsea Schools

Superintendent David Killips said a 1 percent increase would translate into about $71 per student in his district.

However, he was less than certain that an increase would be forthcoming from the state, regardless of the amount.

"I have not received any confirmation that's going to take place," Killips said.

"We've heard the rumblings in Lansing, but we really don't know what that means - does it mean an increase in the foundation grant, or in categorical?"

District works with limited funding to help deliver services

By Edward Freundl
Staff Writer

The Chelsea School District has selected four main goals which guide the decision-making process for the board of education and the school administration.

Those involve academics, financial management, communication and school safety.

"Each year the Chelsea School District board of education sets goals for the school year," said Andrew Ingall, Executive Director of Instruction and Community Services.

"Each summer, the board discusses district goals at their meetings to determine what they will be."

One of this year's goals is to "maintain fiscal responsibility," no small task in the face of ever-expanding expenses for staff retirement and health care and ever-present uncertainty over the amount of per-pupil state aid the district will receive.

"While you do see small per-student increases, when you compare that with expenses, we've actually had stagnant and even negative growth in the past four years that I've been on the board," said school board president Laurel McDevitt.

"It's required some pretty creative and innovative thinking to provide things to our students."

Ingall described some of those innovative strategies the district is using to meet that goal:

Goal 2 - Maintain Fiscal Responsibility

Utilize grant funding:

The district will make every attempt to access available grants and use all available funds to support our programs, Ingall said, which requires a sharp eye on the availability of grant funding from a wide variety of sources.

"I think our board of education and all our employees have taken this very seriously and have done everything they can to help," said Chelsea Schools Superintendent David Killips.

"We watch what we spend, but we still have an obligation to give kids the best education possible."

Develop a "site utilization" plan for WSEC:

The district is evaluating the options available to make better use of the Washington Street Educational Center.

WSEC, the former Chelsea High School campus, has been a valuable community asset.

It is currently used for the district's administrative offices, adult and community education classes, recreational activities, school board meetings, city council meetings, the Chelsea Senior Activities Center, and a host of other community-oriented

School goals

Over the next few weeks, The Chelsea Standard will take an in-depth look at each of the goals established by the Chelsea School District, and how it proposes to reach them.

activities.

The former school library was even home to the Chelsea Public Library while the McKune Memorial Library downtown was undergoing extensive renovation and expansion.

"Options include selling or renting some or all of the facility, or darkening the buildings to minimize costs," Ingall said.

Energy conservation:

A staff member has been named "energy conservation manager," whose part-time role is "to identify strategies both large and small to reduce energy consumption throughout the school district," Ingall said.

It may be as simple as making sure lights and computers are turned off in rooms that are not being used, or it may be as involved as replacing old equipment and fixtures with newer, more energy-efficient ones.

While the individual items may not seem to contribute much, taken in the aggregate it can add up to several thousands of dollars over time.

Tracking state funding:

The district's budget relies primarily on the state foundation grant, the amount the state provides per pupil.

For the past several years, that has been a moving target, with the state Legislature struggling to balance the state budget while trying to provide money to schools.

Proposed increases are almost constantly presented and then withdrawn, and last year the promised number was changed mid-year, resulting in an unanticipated cut in funding and catching many districts across the state unprepared.

"The thinking is to keep (the cuts) away from the classroom as much as possible and not cut something that will hurt students," McDevitt said.

The Chelsea district is in better shape than many, with a very healthy fund balance, or cash reserve, built up over the past few years by using very conservative budgeting practices.

"We budgeted for a zero increase, and we used the same number (for per-pupil funding) as last year," said Teresa Zigman, assistant superintendent for finance.

That number is $7,458; and it varies by district. "It's an ongoing concern over the last 10 years or more, ever since the school took over financing the schools," said Killips.

"When we were in our heyday, when Michigan's economy was strong, it wasn't a problem."

Killips said over the past six years there has been a six percent decrease in revenue to the district, but that is partially offset by a 3 percent drop in expenses.

What is needed to restore some consistency to state funding, Killips said, is a new version of "The Three Rs": revenues, reforms and reductions.

"There really needs to be structural changes to the tax system, because everything we're doing right now is truly a guesstimate," Killips said.

"As of Sept. 28, we have operated 90 days into a new budget without knowing what our revenues are going to be, and that's the difficulty."

Some funding that can be controlled locally involves a vote of district taxpayers for bonds and sinking funds to finance improvements to infrastructure and equipment.

"I think we're very fortunate, with our community and our teachers and administration within our schools, that they've been so supportive of the changes we've asked for," McDevitt said.

"To oversee the money we receive from the community and wisely spend what little money we get from the state, that's our responsibility."

Next week: Goal 3 - Promote interaction between the school district and community.

Libraries on the move

McKune hosts day-long event next Thursday

By Sheila Pursglove
Special Writer

Imagine being able to only reach the first few shelves at the library, finding a doorway is too tight for your wheelchair, or that carpet nap impedes your progress.

Those - and umpteen other inconveniences that don't readily occur to people without physical challenges - are a way of life for Susan Odgers of Traverse City, a guest speaker at McKune Memorial Library in Chelsea Oct. 18.

Odgers, who was paralyzed by a spinal stroke at 18, will speak on "Accommodating Persons with Disabilities: How Does Your Library Stack Up?"

The talk is part of "Libraries On the Move," a one-day event from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at McKune. This "Linking" event by Friends of Michigan Libraries is hosted by Friends of McKune Memorial Library.

Odgers, who has been in a wheelchair for over 30 years and who also has a trained helper dog, is an expert in many areas of concern to persons with disabilities.

Past president of the statewide Michigan Protection and Advocacy Service (MPAS), Odgers is an accomplished speaker, writer and workshop leader, private practice therapist, college instructor and college academic advisor at Grand Valley State University in Traverse City, and community activist.

Odgers, who grew up outside of the Detroit area and attended Oakland and Wayne State Universities, still has family in those areas and is looking forward coming down from Traverse City.

"I'm very much looking forward to being in Chelsea, seeing the new library and meeting people from all over the state," she says. "I see the Ann Arbor and Chelsea areas as very progressive places and I'm honored to get to spend time with people who care so much about libraries and the patrons."

"If I can put a face on these issues for people, I'm glad to do it."

The day's events will also include a talk by Stan Staffeld, a longtime friend, former used book sale coordinator, and retired engineer, who developed a movable book cart to address the issue of how to hold book sales when library space is at a premium. The project became a community effort, with help from Marty Jackson, Polly's store, Venture Crew 412 led by Dave and Lynn Booth, Steve Altenbernt, Chelsea Lumber and Heydlauff's.

After lunch and tours of McKune, three 30-minute "Table Talks" are scheduled casual, fast-paced and informative small-group discussions on a variety of subjects.

Topics include one-on-one

What many people take for granted can be a difficult task for those dealing with physical challenges.

sessions with Odgers and Staffeld, as well as chats with FOML's Dan Stock on administrative issues, Marcia Barker on programming ideas, Marie Brooks on library volunteers, and Harriet Larson on book sales. "As The Beatles sang, 'We get by with a little help from our friends!' I'm so proud and grateful for the spirit, talents and dedication of all of our Friends and volunteers who support McKune, in a wide number of ways," says FOML President Jennifer Kundak.

"This Linking will demonstrate a very visible, educational example of how our Friends serve the library, and the entire community. And, we hope, will motivate more volunteers to participate in community leadership, while having plenty of fun!"

The board of FOML is made up entirely of volunteers, said the group's past President Carol Perrin, who now serves as registrar and on the communication committee.

"We try to be a central group to aid all library Friends groups with information as well as being a conduit for the sharing of information between Friends groups," Perrin said. "This often helps them with problems, ideas for programs, fundraising ideas, and more."

"Our website, FOML.org, has information about our organization as well as a form to sign up for our October linking in Chelsea. We have had so much help and enthusiasm from the Chelsea Friends group and library staff, we all can look forward to a wonderful event."

Attendees will also enjoy door prizes, refreshments, samples of Chelsea "goodies" and discount coupons, and much more.

"I'm thrilled that the McKune Memorial Library's terrific Friends of the Library has volunteered to host this statewide event, and that they will be doing a presentation as well," said Library Director Joan Elmouchi.

"We're looking forward to showing off our beautiful new building and having The Friends of Michigan Libraries meet our dedicated volunteers."

Guest speaker more concerned with attitude than she is accessibility

By Sheila Pursglove
Special Writer

Susan Odgers, guest speaker on "Accommodating Persons with Disabilities: How Does Your Library Stack Up?" was paralyzed by a spinal stroke at 18 and has used a wheelchair for over three decades.

Past president of the statewide Michigan Protection and Advocacy Service (MPAS), and a college instructor at Grand Valley State University in Traverse City, Odgers spends a great deal of time doing research in libraries of all shapes and sizes - small, large, community college and university, those currently in trailers, those in the process of rebuilding or expanding, and those under new construction.

"My concern is not so much the physical space - though the buildings need to be as accessible as possible, law or not," she says. "I'm much more concerned with attitude."

"Sometimes the nonverbal message and attitude that is communicated is 'Don't bother us - we didn't think of you - we don't care - the library is not for you - you must ask for help,'" she says.

Library entrances - often with many steps - can be daunting, and accessible entrances often not marked or easy to find, she says. Ramps may be too steep, carpet-nap can be a huge problem, and many restrooms aren't really ADA clear.

Many books are either on shelves too high to reach from a wheelchair, or too low to bend down and reach. Brochure racks can also be inaccessible, especially at library counters.

Libraries like to offer computer and technology services for persons with disabilities (pwd's), almost to the exclusion of other services, yet some libraries don't allow the use of flash drives, or copying of files, and many library Web pages don't have written instructions on the use and non use of the library technology, Odgers says. "It's difficult for a pwd to reach behind a processor to insert a flash drive, and equipment is not mounted where it can easily be used."

People use libraries for many reasons, and all the services need to be created from the point of view of the pwd, she says.

"When this is done, the message to all patrons is softer, one of caring for everyone. And the things that are done to help a pwd, help others - parents with strollers, shorter people, and so on."

Odgers would like to see better pwd representation at libraries.

"The adage in the disability community is 'nothing about us, without us,'" she says. "Yet I see few libraries that have an advisory board with pwd's on it, or even have one of these boards."

"If a library doesn't employ - or have as volunteers - pwd's, it shows, and it's not representative of the community the library resides in. More pwd's should be encouraged to volunteer at the library, in very visible ways."

Libraries should utilize the services and advice of the statewide Disability Networks and Michigan Protection and Advocacy Services, and any consultants to advise the library on the issue should have disabilities, she says.

And Nick Hill can control quite a bit out on the football field.

With Dexter facing a fourth-down, Hill strolls up to the sidelines. It's almost time. His time.

But the Dreadnaughts have other ideas and pick up the first down. They continue to inch closer to the end zone. Hill stands off by himself, flanked by two coaches. His helmet rests on top of his head, but it's a much better fit when it's pulled all the way down and strapped in.

Dexter scores a touchdown to cut the Chelsea lead to 21-16. Suddenly, the cheerleaders aren't as loud, the fans not as enthusiastic. Hill, though, never changes demeanor. He takes a quick peak at the scoreboard, but he knows there is more work to be done. There is more time on the clock and now is his time to do something about it.

The scoreboard shows Chelsea leading 21-16 with 5:10 left to play in the game. What it doesn't show is that this is Nick Hill's time. The Bulldogs know it. The hot dog vendor knows it. Heck, Dexter knows it. The problem is doing something about it.

Chelsea doesn't need to score. The Bulldogs just need to move the ball and move the chains and move this game into the win column. No heroics needed here. Just some hard running.

Chelsea has the ball on its own 20-yard line with a first down. Hill picks up four yards on first and another four on second. It's third-and-two with 4:15 to play — plenty of time for Dexter. But first the Dreadnaughts must get the ball back.

Hill blasts his way up the middle and the 5-foot-8, 170-pound running back needs all his will and strength to get the necessary yards. First down Chelsea.

It's Hill again on first down. He darts right and back to the left, dragging a few Dreadnaughts with him for a four-yard gain. Chris Schmelz then gets the ball and gets the first down. Schmelz, a senior, has some pretty impressive moves of his own, a few of which he shows on this nine-yard run.

It's back to Hill on first down and he picks up another nine yards. The clock is quickly running out on Dexter as Hill and company continue to move the ball and the chains. On another third down play, Hill gets the pitch and easily picks up the first down. A quarterback sneak three plays later results in another first down and Chelsea runs out the clock for the victory.

Of the 11 plays Chelsea ran in the last 5:01 before taking a knee, Hill carried the ball eight times. This was his time. Like most running backs, he knew exactly what had to be done. And like most great running backs, he went out and did it.

"I just wanted to stay in bounds and keep getting first downs," Hill said. "We didn't want to give them the ball again."

Considering the "them" was Dexter made this win a little more meaningful.

"They got a couple of good shots on me, but I feel pretty good," said Hill, who talks as smooth as he runs. "I could definitely feel they were out to hit me. But this wasn't just about me. They wanted to hit us and we wanted to hit them."

The way he performs and the way he handles himself one would think Hill is a seasoned veteran. But Nick Hill is just a sophomore. While his running style has been compared to Michigan's Mike Hart, Nick's heart is always in the right place. He puts the team first — always.

"Nick is about the team," said Coach Brad Bush, who is going to need a thesaurus to come up with more adjectives to describe his star running back over the next two-plus seasons. "He just wants to win. He doesn't care about how many carries he gets, and that kind of attitude makes his teammates work even harder for him."

"But like other good running backs, he gets better with the more carries he gets. We knew they were going to try and shut him down and so we may have gotten away from what we do best. We have a few players that can make big plays and Nick is certainly one of them."

When the team came together in the north end zone following the game, Hill spoke up. "That wasn't good enough," he told his teammates.

"As a sophomore that shows me some real leadership," Bush said.

Hill talks with a sense of confidence and purpose. But he also talks more about the team than the individual, even if the individual is special. And make no mistake, Nick Hill is special.

Sometimes teams have a special player. Sometimes they have a special person.

Looks like Chelsea has both in Nick Hill. This is his time. Sit back and enjoy the ride.

Two men injured in separate industrial accidents

By Edward Freundl
Staff Writer

A 27-year-old Addison man sustained serious injuries when he was struck by a lift truck and pinned underneath. Chelsea Police and Chelsea Area Fire Authority personnel responded at 11:57 a.m. Sept. 21 to Hardwood Solutions on East Industrial Drive.

"One of the Hi-Lo's was backing up and ran over one of the workers," said Fire Capt. Jim Bortzki, one of the paramedics at the scene. "It was kind of a fluke accident."

The lift truck driver, a 44-year-old Pittsford man, told police he was unloading a semi at the loading dock and saw the victim walking down the ramp to his left, then heard a yell. The victim was face up on the ground, with his arm pinned under one of the rear wheels, and the driver pulled forward to free the man.

Other witnesses confirmed the account, and noted that the reverse-gear beeper on the lift truck was operating properly, according to the report.

The victim, who remained conscious throughout the incident, told police he remembered walking behind the lift truck but could not recall how he was knocked down.

He was transferred by ambulance to the University of Michigan Hospital with serious but not life-threatening injuries to his right arm and left ankle.

The Michigan Occupational Safety and Health Administration (MIOSHA) was notified to investigate the incident, the report stated.

Finger caught in mixer

A 37-year-old Stockbridge man got his right hand caught in a cake flour mixing machine at Chelsea Milling the evening of Sept. 25.

Chelsea police and fire personnel were dispatched at 8:53 p.m. and found the man sitting near the machine with his right hand heavily bandaged. Paramedics unwrapped the hand to examine and treat the injury and found the man's middle finger was cut open on each side, according to a police report.

The victim and several witnesses told police the chute on the machine became plugged, and the man removed the chute and reached inside to clear it. The machine had not completely stopped, and the second time the man reached in he withdrew his hand when the mixing blades cut it.

The victim also said he had gotten the ring finger on the same hand caught in a different machine just two weeks earlier, requiring 10 stitches to close the wound. The man kept repeating to police "how stupid he was for putting his hand in the mixer," according to the report.

Fire at book bindery

Chelsea police and fire personnel responded to a fire alarm at Sheridan Books on East Industrial Drive at 7:43 p.m. Sept. 25.

When police and fire units arrived, the building had been evacuated and smoke could be seen coming from inside.

According to a police report, employees said the fire was in a paper shredder in the baler room, and they had used up all their fire extinguishers trying to put it out for three hours before calling for help.

Police returned at 5:15 p.m. the following day to interview the machine operator and determine any malicious intent, the report stated.

The foreman determined the machine had been left running from first shift and had overheated, but it was not done intentionally.

she plans to use as a foundation for her post-high school education.

She is also a part of the Detroit Civic Orchestra, the Michigan Youth Orchestra at University of Michigan and takes private lessons at home for flute and piano, the latter of which she plays as part of the basis for her musical education and discipline, she said.

"My top college choices are University of Michigan and Juilliard," she said. "I study with a flute professor at U of M already, and we click really well. I love the school for the teachers — it's a great environment."

"Juilliard is my reach for the stars' school, pretty much. I don't know if I can get into it but I want to see if I can. It would just be an honor to go there."

In addition to music, Standerfer gravitates toward politics and contemporary history. She currently studies government, biology, American history and is taking an independent study class in which she has to craft her own curriculum and adhere to it with minimal instruction and supervision.

"You basically get to choose what you're going to learn," Standerfer said. "I study musical theory and musical history, since I want to play my flute in a professional orchestra. That's my main goal."

While playing professionally has been her goal for at least the past three years, she has other options open, including a career in teaching at the high school or college level.

"I'm thinking about (taking a minor) in history," she said. "I'm really into the Vietnam War era right now."

Standerfer also has a philanthropic side. She has volunteered to help at the Alpha House homeless shelter in Ann Arbor numerous times. It's easily one of her greatest life experiences, she said.

"My favorite experience was probably just going and playing with the kids," she said. "You wouldn't think that just sitting and playing with them would make much of a difference, but when you're there, they're very happy."

With memories of friends jumping up and down in excitement for Standerfer's selection by the student body as homecoming queen, she's just looking forward to wrapping up the transition from high school to college, while remembering to savor the final year of her educational youth.

"I'm really excited to get my (college) applications done and out of the way," she said. "I can't wait for the trip to New York that the orchestra and choir take every year, but right now the most important things to me are my family and friends, and making sure that I get into the right school."

News in Brief

Chelsea Standard honored
The Chelsea Standard earned a second-place finish for General Excellence in the 2007 Better Newspaper Contest hosted by the Michigan Press Association. The judges, commenting on the Standard, said, "progress continued and judge would not be surprised paper wins easily next year."

The Dexter Leader, also put together by the staff of the Standard, was named Newspaper of the Year in Class D. Results were posted on the MPA Web site on Oct. 7.

The different classes are based on circulation figures.

"This is an award for the entire community because there is no way we could put together this kind of newspaper without the support of the community," Chelsea Standard Editor Terry Jacoby said. "We have some excellent people working for us, both full time and part time, but we also have a community that supports us in so many ways. While this is a nice pat on the back, we intend to continue to improve the product in the coming months."

Jacoby took first-place honors for enterprise reporting, picture story and lifestyle pages.

Led by Editor Don Richter, the Standard and Leader scored big victories in sports. Richter's Chelsea Standard sports coverage took first place with the Leader finishing a close second.

Richter's story on the Dexter-Chelsea basketball game took first place in sports writing.

For sports column writing, Jacoby took first and Richter second. Burrill Strong took first and third place in sports picture.

On display: Local 1862 Civil War rifle

The Chelsea Historical Museum recently received a historic civil war rifle on loan from the Lois Palmer Moore estate. The original owner of the rifle is not clearly known. There are three Palmers that the gun could have belonged to. The gun has three carved marks on the stock which indicate that the individual who owned this gun killed three soldiers. The rifle will be on display until February 2008. For more information, contact the Chelsea Area Historical Society at 1-734-475-1071. Superintendent placed on leave

By Brian Cox
Staff Writer

The Saline school board's decision Monday morning to put Superintendent Beverley Geltner on paid administrative leave was prompted by far more than the cancellation of the freshman football team's season, board members say.

"I don't see this as purely a football issue," said Board President Lisa Slawson. "There are a number of issues we need to consider."

Geltner's reinstatement of a ninth-grade student after he was expelled from the freshman football team for allegedly swearing at a coach provoked the resignation of the team's four coaches and led to the cancellation of the team's season.

Administrators and board members characterize the incident as a catalyst for the exposure of other complaints about the superintendent, including a lawsuit brought against Geltner for the wrongful discharge of two former employees of Southfield Public Schools where Geltner was superintendent before coming to Saline. Geltner did not inform the board of the lawsuit, in which she is accused of making racist remarks.

Attorney Joseph Mosier will conduct an investigation into a litany of issues and incidents, Slawson said.

No timetable for the investigation has been set.

"We want to make sure the investigation is fair and impartial," Slawson said. "The investigation will determine whether or not (Geltner) violated board policy or her contract."

Board members have declined to elaborate on what other issues have arisen.

But spurred by the freshman football incident, many parents and staff have stepped forward to accuse Geltner of ruling with "intimidation and fear."

Geltner's run-in with the freshman football coaching staff is not her first conflict with athletics. In February, Geltner instructed Athletic Director Rob White to dismantle the second teams at the middle school, including football, as a cost-savings measure.

When varsity football coach Mike Glennie issued an e-mail to football parents and supporters objecting to the move, Geltner responded with a scathing, districtwide e-mail, obtained by The Saline Reporter.

"First," Geltner wrote Glennie, "let me tell you that your communication has drawn scorn and embarrassment to the district because of your inability to write or spell correctly. I have highlighted below some of your errors in spelling, grammar, sentence structure and punctuation, all of which have been pointed out to me by unhappy community members. It is their opinion, and mine, that as a professional educator, you are expected to be literate."

Geltner's public lashing of Glennie is seen by many as typical of her management style.

In October 2006, board members met with Geltner to discuss an incident in which she identified students by name in an e-mail sent to the entire high school mailing list. Geltner issued the e-mail, obtained by The Saline Reporter, after spending three days at the high school, outlining concerns she described as "appalling."

She itemized student personal appearance that was "flagrantly gang-related," inappropriate attire, and public display of affection.

She went on to identify two students by name whom she "pulled into the office," and summarized their school records, in possible violation of the Family Education Rights and Privacy Act.

Board President Slawson said other issues may come to light as the investigation progresses or once it is concluded.

"This has been a very difficult and trying time for our district," she said at the regularly scheduled board meeting Tuesday night.

"We are working diligently to address the issues that arose over the weekend and Monday morning," said Scot Graden, who was named interim superintendent. "Our efforts tonight are about starting the healing process."

Graden, who has been serving as executive director of community services for the district, said his immediate focus would be on effecting calm in the district.

"Right now, my job is about healing," he said. "Really, my role is not to go out changing things, but to hold things together."

Graden will be provided a stipend for his interim superintendent duties, but the amount of the stipend has not yet been determined.

Board Trustee David Medley said he is hopeful that the investigation will not consume the board's time and that they will be able to move forward on other goals.

"We are still going to be able to focus on our mission," Slawson said. "This board will continue to make students our focus."

Road projects are on track

By Sean Dalton
Staff Writer

Reversing his position on expanding the Washtenaw County Road Commission from three members to five, Mark Oulmet now says that projects are getting done now with the status quo intact.

"It was decided that it would be best not to add two new personalities into the mix," the Republican County Commissioner told the Scio Township Board of Trustees last month.

There has been a lot of concern in Oulmet's district in the northwest part of the county about expanding the Road Commission.

One of the issues heard at several municipal meetings was that the existing commissioners, all of whom are from the eastern side of the county, weren't representing the county in a uniform manner.

Cost of expanding county bureaucracy was likely a deciding factor.

Each new member of the Road Commission would have been paid $10,500, not including travel expenses and the cost of additional support staff.

The direction that the East Delhi Bridge has taken is one example of his work as the County Commission liaison to the Road Commission.

"Originally the Road Commission wanted to make that a four-lane concrete bridge," Oulmet said.

"With the help of the residents of East Delhi, we were able to get that bridge back to its restored historic state, which I think was critical to keeping the rural character of our district."

Oulmet's role with the road board is advisory and not directly influential.

"The ultimate decision to move forward with decisions on these projects is the board's decision," said Val Cooper, Road Commission public information officer.

He has been a regular at Dexter Village Council meetings, advocating Phase 2 construction of the Main Street Bridge Project, which is on track to be funded.

Oulmet also pointed out that he and the Road Commission worked together to get a $252,000 resurfacing project on Old US-12 in Chelsea under way.

Oulmet also said that he was able to get the Parker Road Bridge opening moved up to Sept. 28.

"This closure was causing a lot of inconvenience for schools, emergency services and local businesses," Oulmet said.

Chelsea native named to state safety panel

By Edward Freundl
Staff Writer

A.J. Hale Jr., originally of Chelsea and now of Marshall, was appointed to a state safety standards commission on Sept. 10.

A.J. Hale

Hale was appointed by Gov. Jennifer Granholm to represent private-sector employees on the General Industry Safety Standards Commission.

"I have every confidence that you will find great personal satisfaction in this important position and that the State of Michigan will benefit from your background and experience," Granholm stated in her letter to Hale announcing his appointment.

He is employed by Tenneco in Marshall as the Environmental, Health and Safety Engineer.

U.S. Rep. Tim Walberg, R-District 7, also congratulated Hale on his achievement.

"The responsibility entrusted to you has been given because you have earned the respect of your fellow board members, as well as the state," Walberg noted. "I implore you to wield your authority with wisdom and honor."

The General Industry Safety Standards Commission is responsible for publishing Michigan Occupational Safety and Health Act (MIOSHA) standards to prevent workplace accidents and protect employee life and safety.

Earlier this year, Hale was named president of the 77th annual Michigan Safety Conference, which took place in Grand Rapids.

It is the second-largest safety conference in the nation, with more than 5,200 attendees.

The 1975 Chelsea High School graduate lives in Marshall with his wife Belinda and daughter Hannah.

His children Cala and Austin, as well as his parents, A.J. and Priscilla Hale Sr., live in Chelsea.

Thoughts on Chelsea

Homecoming?

I couldn't imagine what Main Street looked like at around 8 p.m. on Friday. Maybe two cars, some tumbleweed and some tired actors tumbling out of the Purple Rose.

Talk about a community event. What I loved the most was watching the kids play on the big hill at the north end of the stadium. They couldn't care less that a football game was being played. Kids being kids is always fun to watch.

I also loved when the Chelsea football players and the crowd came together as one at the end of the game. That was a true small town moment.

Downside of homecoming?

First, I don't know why Chelsea schedules Dexter as its homecoming opponent. Dexter is a big game without the pomp (and ponies) and circumstance. And no one would like to ruin homecoming more than Dexter. Invite Tecumseh or Saline...they don't care about Chelsea. They would gladly roll over and let the Bulldogs steam roll them for the sake of homecoming.

The second downside was the mass exodus. It was a mass mess. I don't have the answer, but there has to be a better way. Or at least another way out.

Is it arrogance or confidence?

Yes, Chelsea football is pretty good. And the fans seem to know it. They never for one second thought Dexter was going to win that game. There was an overwhelming sense that no matter how close Dexter got, Chelsea was going to win the game.

Of course, the Bulldogs hung on. But the coaches along the sideline got a little nervous when Dexter cut the score to 21-16 with five minutes to play. But the fans never once thought a loss was possible. Call it what you will.

Chelsea vs. Dexter?

Call me traditional, but I like the grass field. Take that synthetic tire field and roll it over to the dumpster. I like to see grass in the helmet, dirt on the pants and mud in the cleats. Football was meant to be played naturally. Please, Dexter. Don't ever mow over the grass field.

Global warming thought for the week?

I don't care if it warms your conscience by screwing in a different kind of light bulb. If you think that and driving a different kind of automobile will help cool off the ocean and save the polar bears, fine. I won't stand in your way.

But don't teach my kid in a public school that there is undeniable proof that man is causing his own destruction and that global warming is the first warning shot. Because that is just not true. Maybe spend a little more time on Abraham Lincoln, Thomas Jefferson or Frederick Douglass (how many students know who Frederick Douglass is?).

Something to Google this week?

How about Frederick Douglass.

Where's a cop when you need one?

Driving down Old US-12 on Friday I saw a little kid in a Dexter t-shirt eating Little Caesars on the steps of the Wolverine Inn. I thought that was so wrong on so many levels. He's five feet from a menu full of better food. He's also within walking distance of about three better pizza options. Wait, better make sure Little Caesars doesn't advertise.

Why I don't miss high school?

When one of the girls was announced as queen of one of the classes during homecoming (I won't say which class), two of the other nominees rolled their eyes. I asked my wife if there was any group more vicious than high school kids. She said yes, junior high school kids.

Although I must say, Chelsea and Dexter schools do a pretty good job of trying to knock down the walls that some kids like to build. And no, I didn't have a seat at the cool kids table in high school. Of course, I spent my lunch time playing euchre so I didn't really care.

Can you still play cards at lunchtime in high school.

Seinfeld line?

"Why do I get bananas? They're good for one day."

Dennis Miller line?

"There is better security at a Borders than there is on our own borders. If I pick up a copy of Maxim, I have six cameras triangulated on me."

To the Editor: Chris Dawson gives us a great example of the type of thinking that bedevils the world today - that of people (of all faiths) who promote their literal interpretations of ancient texts as the ONLY path to true salvation.

Yes, the Bible contains a great deal of moral guidance and spiritual direction that is invaluable. However, we must not forget that it was written by people who filtered their writings through what are now grossly outdated and often barbaric beliefs and societal structures. Every word in the Bible is NOT "The Word of God," any more than every word from a religious leader's mouth is.

Mr. Dawson says "I do want people to have the freedom to choose their own beliefs, but I also want people to think about why they believe what they believe.

And if the article caused some to check their beliefs and their Bibles (and it did) then I say, "glory be to God."

I checked my Bible, Mr. Dawson, and it tells me that "if a woman is raped in the city and doesn't cry out loud enough, the men of the city must stone her to death" - Deuteronomy (22:23-24).

It also says if you have a "stubborn and rebellious son," then you and the other men in your neighborhood "shall stone him with stones that he die" - Deuteronomy (21:18-21).

The Bible even tells me to kill everyone who has religious beliefs that are different from my own! - Deuteronomy (13:6-10)

So, I hope you don't mind because I choose to disregard the Bible-writers' often vengeful and divisive musings and instead choose to believe in a loving God whose message is one of tolerance, inclusiveness, faith and loving kindness - one which promotes contributing in whatever capacity God moves you to, regardless of your gender, race or religious leader's interpretation of your faith's ancient texts.

After all, it's not hard to image that Bible literalists - living by out dated writings purporting to be the word of God (written by ancient people through the filter of their laws and belief systems) - could have "true believers" flying planes into tall buildings in every city around the world that does not believe the way that they do.

It clearly is no longer acceptable for people to blame their divisive beliefs and actions on "The Bible" (or any other ancient religious text). We must all take responsibility for what we choose to believe and have the courage to step away from those portions of religious texts that no longer serve humanity's evolution toward a more peaceful existence.

Thank you, Mr. Dawson, for illustrating so clearly why it's time we let go of archaic beliefs and instead follow the guidance of the God who speaks to each of us through our hearts - despite what so many misguided "religious leaders" tell us is the one and only "true" belief system (theirs!).

Share some time with a senior citizen

In some respects, it's a shame that such organizations as Citizens for Better Care exist.

Representatives from the group work to protect elderly residents from abuse and neglect, and from being exploited by their own families or caregivers.

You would think people, particularly family members, would respect the elderly and freely give them the care and understanding they've earned over a lifetime.

But that sometimes isn't the case.

So groups such as the Citizens for Better Care are a necessity. The group, which is based in Detroit but operates throughout the state, recently received funds that will allow it to hire an abuse educator and to increase the number of people it helps.

The donation also will help pay for distribution of educational material, such as a brochure to be sent to physicians advising them of the signs of elder abuse and how to report it.

Executive Director Helen Hicks said the group aims to see more training programs in nursing homes and other facilities in which the elderly are cared for.

Elder abuse educators provided by the organization work with long-term care staff, residents and their families to recognize and combat sexual, physical, emotional, financial abuse, neglect, exploitation and abandonment.

While there are numerous types of severe and blatant abuse of the elderly, there are less obvious and more subtle types.

People sometimes just seem almost afraid to associate with the elderly. There's little interaction. People stand back from them and maybe only listen with one ear. You see it all the time, even with the relatives of elderly people.

Although an elderly person may become physically frail, they offer younger individuals - especially children - a wealth of information. The life experiences of older people can be wonderful lessons.

Physical and psychological abuse is horrendous, but simple loneliness also can take a toll on the elderly. That situation is so easy to rectify.

If you have a relative in a care facility, visit him or her regularly. If you don't, make some senior citizen's day by dropping by a care facility and saying hello. Be friendly, shake their hand and even give them a hug.

Encourage your church or school group to adopt a nursing home and visit the residents at least once a month - more often if possible.

Human beings need attention, acceptance, compassion and understanding. Share some of your valuable time with a senior - it will be some of the best spent time of your life.

Council discusses pact with Sylvan Twp. for water, sewer

By Edward Freund
Staff Writer

A 16-acre parcel of city property off Cavanaugh Lake Road would be served by Sylvan Township water and sewer, if a draft agreement is approved by both municipalities.

Under the terms of the document presented to the Chelsea City Council on Tuesday night, Sylvan would install and own the utilities, and would pay the city 3 percent of the monthly water and sewer charges.

"This is the end result, but from my experience it certainly looks like a fair franchise agreement," City Manager John Hanifan told the council.

The matter was brought before the council Tuesday for discussion; it next goes to the Sylvan Township Board for a vote before coming back to the council for final approval. "It would be extremely prohibitive (for the city) to move water and sewer out there, and the township has a developer interested in the area to add it," said Councilman Frank Hammer.

"Everything's been ironed out and it's been through lawyers on both sides."

However, Council Member Cheri Albertson raised a number of concerns over the draft agreement.

"I have several questions that need to be satisfied," she said. "We have here an ordinance that serves the best interests of the township. What I see is that the city is essentially providing easement services, and we're only getting back 3 percent."

Hanifan and other council members assured Albertson that the agreement had passed legal muster.

"This agreement has been in existence for a couple of years and has been through several law firms," Hanifan said.

"But it is the wise and right choice to put it in front of the whole board for discussion."

The council also approved an amendment to a policy requiring water, sewer and electric utility customers to pay a deposit for service if they have less than one year of satisfactory credit experience with the city.

With the change, which takes effect Oct. 16, a deposit of $100 for residential customers and $300 for commercial users would be refunded as a credit on the customer's final bill once service is discontinued.

Under the existing policy the deposit was refunded after one year, but required city staff to track each customer's billing history.

"The data tracking of who is due a refund after one year was not worth the amount of the deposit," Hanifan told the council in recommending the change.

Under the "Public Comments" portion of the agenda, resident Jennifer Sinibaldi asked the council to consider creating a "dog park" in the city.

She described such a park as a fenced-in area about half the size of a soccer field in which dogs and their owners could exercise and play in an "off-leash" environment.

The council thanked Sinibaldi for her initiative but took no action.

Violation of release

A 35-year-old Chelsea woman came to the Chelsea Police Department at 9:21 p.m. Sept. 24 to report her estranged husband had violated his conditional-release bond by contacting her several times.

According to the report, the 40-year-old man had been arrested Sept. 8 for domestic assault, and was under a court order not to have contact with the woman or to threaten her or their children, or to avoid using alcohol or drugs.

He has been living with his sister in Jackson County since his arrest.

The woman called the man at noon Sept. 24 to inform him of the death of a close family friend, and when he called back at 7:15 p.m. she told police he sounded drunk, the report stated.

He told the woman to lie at his court appearance to have the case dismissed, and she hung up on him.

He called again, told her again to lie and tell the children what to say in court. He became upset and threatened to kill himself and hung up.

The woman called him back and told him not to call her anymore, then called the Washtenaw County Prosecutor's Office to report the incident, and an agent told her to contact police and file a report.

On Sept. 26 the victim contacted police again to say that her husband had called and left a message, this time sounding subdued and apologetic, telling her "you won't get in trouble" and "I love you, please call me."

Guns found in bank box

Officials with Chelsea State Bank notified Chelsea Police at 11 a.m. Sept. 28 that two handguns had been found in a safe deposit box.

The bank was drilling the locks on boxes for which rent was delinquent in order to remove the contents.

According to a police report, bank officials had called the boxholder, a Frankfort woman, on July 24 to advise her they would seize the property if the rent was not paid, and she told them she no longer had the key to the box.

A police officer responded to the bank and took possession of a five-shot, 38-caliber revolver in a brown leather case, and a five-shot, 22-caliber derringer-style revolver in a green leather case. Both weapons were unloaded.

Both were processed for fingerprints and ballistics comparison and came back with no record.

Petty larceny

At 9:28 a.m. Sept. 28 a Chelsea police officer responded to a gas station in the 900 block of South Main Street for a shoplifting report. The assistant manager told the officer at least 10 bottles of soda had been stolen from a cooler between 6 and 7 p.m. the night before.

According to a police report, through a surveillance mirror the assistant manager witnessed a man in his early 20s take several bottles of Mountain Dew from a cooler and place them in his car, then returned and took several more sodas.

When she realized he was not going to pay, she went outside and saw the man drive away westbound on Old US-12. She was able to give police a description of the man's clothing, car and license plate number.

The plate number was traced to a 24-year-old Chelsea woman, who said she had given her boyfriend, a 22-year-old

Chelsea man, permission to use her car the previous evening.

The woman also told police she was surprised to see the refrigerator full of Mountain Dew when she returned from work.

Police then called the man at work and he admitted taking the sodas even though he knew he didn't have the money to pay for them, the report stated.

The girlfriend made restitution of $15 for the sodas, and the case was closed.

Driving violation

Chelsea police responded at 8:20 a.m. Sept. 27 to a minor two-vehicle collision at South Main and Pierce streets. Neither driver was injured, and both left the scene after giving police information for the report.

Dispatch then informed the officer one of the drivers had a revoked license. The officer met the 52-year-old man at his home in the 3600 block of South M-52 and issued him a misdemeanor citation for driving while license suspended.

Bicycle reported stolen

At 3:38 p.m. Sept. 28 a Chelsea woman reported to police that her 17-year-old daughter's bicycle had been stolen from in front of their home in the 200 block of Wilkinson Street.

According to the report, the daughter told police she had last seen the BMX-style bike valued at $150 before going to school at 7:30 that morning, and noticed it missing at about 3:30 p.m.

The daughter notified police at 4:30 p.m. the next day that she had recovered the bike at a house in the 400 block of Chandler Street.

Barking dog complaints

A resident of the 700 block of Darwin Drive called police at 10:31 Sept. 22 to complain of a dog that had been barking all day.

The officer found the dog barking continuously in a fenced yard in the 1300 block of Freer Road, and the owner was not home, according to a report.

A second complaint on the dog was called in at 11:37 p.m.

The owner contacted police at 2:45 a.m. to say she had returned home and brought the dog inside, and apologized for the barking.

Dexter author's fifth book hits the shelves

By Sean Dalton
Staff Writer

The journey that Dexter author Tom Grace has taken as a professional writer has who was the main character in Grace's very first novel — "Spyder Web" — published in 2000.

Kilkenny's latest adventure, "The Secret Cardinal," deals with papal succession in the Catholic Church.

The plot involves a dying pope's request that Kilkenny save the titular Secret Cardinal, who is being held as a religious prisoner by China's communist government.

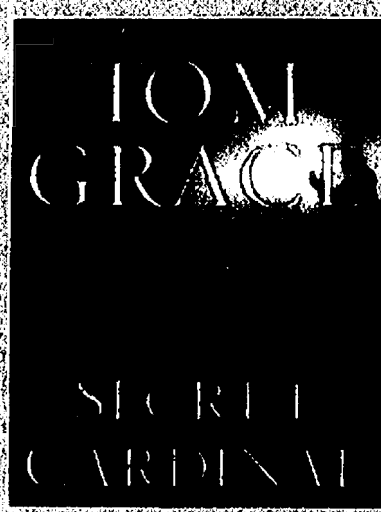

Throughout the events that unfold, readers will learn of Kilkenny's personal tragedy, his conflict with a Chinese intelligence agent and the politics surrounding the Catholic Church, both internal and external.

Grace recalls starting out as an author and why it has worked so well for him.

"I started working on

Book signing

"The Secret Cardinal" is Dexter author Tom Grace's fifth book and it's out this month. There will be a book signing for "The Secret Cardinal" from 1 to 4 p.m. Sunday at The Dexter Cider Mill. Grace also will be appearing on WJBK-TV/FOX2 at 7:45 a.m. Sunday for an interview during the Sunday Morning News.

"Spyder Web" in the 1990s," he said. "I'm sort of a goal-oriented person. I set a goal in my life to write a book just because I wanted to do it."

Grace started by spending his lunch hour scribbling out his thoughts and ideas, and before he knew it he had the first draft of "Spyder Web," which was published by Vision Books.

He works as an architect designing research facilities and other high-technology structures.

Grace attended the University of Michigan and finished his bachelor's degree in 1984 and his master's two years later.

"I love both jobs enough to keep them," Grace said.

"With five children I probably never will have a choice. Besides, I love being an architect and I love writing. I have two activities where I have a blank piece of paper and get to fill it up with ideas."

According to Grace, his ideas come from a variety of practical sources that everybody has access to.

"I'm a voracious reader," he said. "I read a lot of technology journals. Journals are for people who are creating technologies and working in facilities doing things, and all of my thrillers are technology based. ("Spyder Web") was about companies that are spying on each other."

The suspense and drama that formed in Grace's imagination while reading about senators spying on companies or foreign governments spying on American companies and trying to steal them away is the sort of thing that he tries to distill and instill in his writing.

"My second novel dealt with high-energy physics, and what triggered the idea of that was the body that was discovered on the University of Michigan campus," Grace said. "They were medical remains from the 1800s."

According to Grace, "The Secret Cardinal" entered his imagination during a tribute that U.S. Sen. Joe Lieberman gave during a Senate session for the Catholic bishop of Shanghai — a prisoner of the Chinese government.

"I'm a cradle Catholic and I didn't know that this was actually going on," Grace said. "(Lieberman) talked about the 30-odd years that this guy spent in detention."

The imprisoned bishop had secretly been named a cardinal by Pope John Paul II.

"He kept it a secret," Grace said. "He was eventually released to the United States. Supporters did it so he wouldn't be martyred in China, which really upset the Chinese government."

One of the most exciting plot backdrops of the book is the idea that you're dealing with the world's largest countries and populations over matters of church and state, Grace said.

MFC presents workshop on Quaker healing practice

By Sheila Pursglove
Special Writer

The Michigan Friends Center will present a "Meeting for Worship for Healing and Laughter," 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, presented by Richard Lee.

Lee, a member of Red Cedar Meeting in Lansing where he is an advisor/counselor in the Office of Supportive Services at Michigan State University, says the workshop will expose participants to this traditional Quaker healing practice and be a space for joy and laughter.

It will also look at other healing practices, including those in the Mennonite and Amish traditions.

"There is lots of positive, loving, healing and happy stuff going on in this workshop," he says.

Lee first learned about Quaker healing ministry in the late 1980s from his English Quaker grandmother. "Once I realized that most Friends in North America have little knowledge of this healing work and its history, I had a leading to bring this worship back to Friends," he says.

In 1988 Lee began leading interest groups on Meeting for Worship for Healing. He began co-leading a workshop on Meeting for Worship for Healing in 1996 and leading one in 1998.

A member of the Friends General Conference traveling ministries program, he has researched the history of this tradition of healing which is of interest to Quakers and non-Quakers alike. "Also, many folks really appreciate being part of an actual Meeting for Worship for Healing," he says. "I provide a good bibliography and copies of a lot of articles on healing and Quaker healing in particular."

Lee will focus on the healing tradition of Friends, beginning with George Fox, James Nayler and Isaac and Mary Penington. Laughter and its healing properties will be a further focus. Participants will experience the process developed and used for the past 75 years by the Friends Fellowship of Healing in the United Kingdom.

While there is no need to do any reading in advance of the workshop, "George Fox's Book of Miracles" by Henry Cadbury is a good resource. Fox was a gifted healer, Lee says, but few Quakers are aware of Fox's healing ministry and the long history of this practice among Friends.

"Interest in this tradition is growing, and many groups around the world now practice the Quaker ministry of healing," he says.

practice and led many workshops and meetings.

He presented this program at MFC in 2005 where it was very well attended and received.

"I am personally excited to see just how many folks participate this year," Lee says. "I'm used to doing workshops for around 30 folks, so numbers are not an issue. My summer workshop this past July had 33 folks and lasted for a week."

One of the things the workshop does is to call out the healing gifts of the participants, Lee says. "Many folks sign up for the workshop with a sort of instinct that they might be healers themselves. The workshop aims for folks to be able to test out this possibility."

The workshop also gives a good grounding in the Quaker

AN EAGLE EYE VIEW EMU Athletics Has Two Big Events on the Horizon

Paid Advertisement

The Eastern Michigan University department of athletics has two outstanding events on the horizon.

The fourth annual Collegiate Clash football game is set for Friday, Oct. 19, at Ford Field in Detroit. The Eagles will be hosting a Big Ten team for the first time ever when they square off against Northwestern University in the 7 p.m. game.

The following day, Saturday, Oct. 20, the EMU volleyball program will hold its inaugural "Dig for the Cure" match at the Convocation Center. The Eagles will take on Mid-American Conference East Division rival Akron at 7 p.m. and join a nationwide initiative to help raise money for the Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation. The event helps promote Breast Cancer Awareness month throughout October.

On the football front, the 2007 Collegiate Clash will be the fourth Ford Field outing for the Eagles.

EMU started the Collegiate Clash in 2004 and the initial game packed plenty of excitement for the fans as the Eagles and Chippewas of Central Michigan went four overtimes before EMU prevailed, 61-58.

Collegiate Clash II was also as thrilling as Western Michigan came to Ford Field, Nov. 5, 2005, and won a 44-36 shootout over EMU.

Last season the Eagles moved out of Mid-American Conference action to host Navy and the Midshipmen captured a 49-21 contest.

Tickets for this year's Collegiate Clash are just $20 each and can be purchased from the EMU Ticket Office at 734.487.2282.

EMU is hoping that the "Dig for the Cure" volleyball event to help raise funds for cancer research is just as big a success in the future as the Collegiate Clash has been.

The volleyball team began receiving pledges at the Eagles' home match against Ohio University, Oct. 8, and will do so again at the contest versus the University at Buffalo, Friday, Oct. 19.

In addition, the EMU coaching staff and administrators will be scooping ice cream at Cold Stone Creamery on Washtenaw Avenue in Ann Arbor Monday, Oct. 15, from 7-10 p.m., with a percentage of all sales going toward the "Dig for the Cure" event.

Fans and businesses can pledge funds for every dig the Eagles record against Akron, Oct. 20, or they can make a flat donation. Special EMU volleyball pink piggy banks donated by TCF Bank will be distributed to the first 500 fans and those who make donations will receive a pink ribbon pin. Throughout the Akron game fans will have the opportunity to bid on two pink, EMU team-autographed volleyballs during a pre-game silent auction.

During the Akron match, EMU will recognize women who have raised money for the Komen Foundation by participating in various breast cancer walks. Also, the mother of a former EMU player and a breast cancer survivor, Wendy Kivi, will be serving as the honorary captain as well as performing the first serve.

Through the "Dig for the Cure" program, volleyball teams and coaches from around the country have helped raise more than $108,000 over the last four years for the Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation. All money raised by the Eagles and every other participating team goes directly to the Komen Foundation's local affiliate in their community.

For more information, call the National Toll-Free Breast Care Helpline at 1.800 I'M AWARE® (1.800.482.9273) or visit www.komen.org. Anyone interested in pledging money or making a donation to this year's Dig for the Cure effort can contact Kaitlyn Brady at 734.487.1050.

St. Louis auction Nov. 3

Fund-raiser includes dinner packages, unique auction items

St. Louis Center will hold its 20th annual Charity Dinner Auction on Saturday, Nov. 3 at Chelsea Community Hospital in the main dining room. This annual event is one of the largest and most successful fund-raisers of the year for St. Louis Center, a residential care center for persons with developmental disabilities located five miles west of Chelsea on Old US-12 in Sylvan Twp.

St. Louis Center is run by a Catholic order of priests known as the Servants of Charity, and is now operating in its 47th year in Michigan. The Order was founded by Blessed Fr. Louis Guarella in Italy in 1908; specifically to serve special needs children and adults.

This year's more unique auction items include a leather jacket worn by Chelsea actor Jeff Daniels in the 1997 movie, "Trial and Error," a 50th anniversary Detroit Lions Championship helmet autographed this year by living team members; a basketball and mini-backboard signed by Cleveland Cavaliers NBA star LeBron James; a Gustav Klimt print titled "Die Entfaltung," and a 1.2-carat emerald pendant designed by LaJolla Jewelers.

Popular dinner packages also are back, including the annual Carnevale Dinner at Paesano's in Ann Arbor, and the Gourmet Italian Dinner for Six prepared by Fr. William J. Turner of St. Mary Catholic Parish in Chelsea.

These items and more can be seen at www.stlouiscen-ter.org/aucltems.html.

The evening begins at 6 p.m. with a silent auction, music and hors d'oeuvres, followed by an elegant dinner at 7 p.m. The live auction begins at 8 p.m. and the evening closes with a raffle for a "Wheelbarrow of Cheer."

The cost for this special event is $100 per person or $150 per couple, and a table of six costs $450. To reserve your table or seat for this event, contact Cindy at St. Louis Center (1-734-475-8430).

Auctioneer Joseph Merkel, Jr., completes another sale during the 2006 Dinner Auction. Merkel donates his services every year to support this event for St. Louis Center west of Chelsea.

items that are separate from the general fund budget, such as at-risk funding.

"If we do get a 1 percent increase this year that's great, but it doesn't even cover the cost of living; and then the question has to be, are we going to see midyear cuts?" Killips added.

"We're anxiously awaiting an answer."

Sharon Raschke, Executive Director for Business and Finance for Dexter Community Schools, said she had hoped that a proposed $100 increase in aid for each of the district's 3,664 students would be approved.

"(One percent) would be a $70 increase in last year's foundation grant," she said.

"We budgeted for a $100 increase, so that would mean $108,000 less than we budgeted for."

Proposal A: Pass or fail?

One topic that the legislative compromise did not address was the ongoing disparity among districts in that foundation allowance.

In 1994 Proposal A was sold to voters as a way to eliminate the wide gaps in school funding between wealthy and poor areas by no longer relying on local property taxes.

While there is a mechanism in place to "eventually" eliminate that gap, the process has been glacial.

"The two promises of Proposal A were to provide a stable, reliable source of funding, which hasn't happened; and eliminating the equity gap," Lewis-Lakin said. "It's narrowed, but by no means is it close to being closed."

According to Byrnes, the intent of Proposal A has been accomplished, by and large, but not without "various unintended consequences."

"There has been legislation proposed, but that requires a constitutional amendment," Byrnes said.

"In the meantime we have tried other things to bring equity to the districts."

A quick look around Washtenaw County shows Ann Arbor Public Schools at the top of the funding heap, with a foundation allowance of $9,619 per pupil for 2006-07.

On the other end of the scale are Lincoln Consolidated, Milan and Whitmore Lake schools at the state minimum of $7,108 per student - a difference of more than $2,500 just within this county.

Statewide the differences are even more glaring.

While several districts in suburban Detroit receive $10,000 to $12,000 per pupil, the highest in the state is $15,772 for the Bois Blanc Pines School District in Mackinac County, more than double the state minimum.

"For me, looking for equity among districts is as important as what we get per student," said Lewis-Lakin, who described himself as a proponent of equity.

"The fact that Ann Arbor schools receive more than $2,000 more per student than Manchester is a point of concern. A student in Manchester ought to be worth as much to the state as a student in Ann Arbor."

A new "Three Rs"

Killips has been a regular critic of legislative inaction on the school funding crisis during meetings of the Chelsea Board of Education.

He has even come up with a modern substitute for the "Three Rs of education": revenues, reforms and reductions. "There really needs to be structural changes to the tax system, because everything we're doing right now is truly a guesstimate," Killips said.

"The biggest question is, was there enough of a structural change in the tax system, and I'm not sure that was put into place."

His drumbeat of reform is beginning to attract adherents in other districts.

"We need structural reform to meet the instructional needs of all children," said Ypsilanti Superintendent Hawkins.

Library staff and volunteers often have very little training or information about pwd, she says.

Equipment such as wheelchairs should be on hand, and publicized as available, and staff and volunteers trained on how to use it and how to have a great attitude about getting it out for someone.

"I think people are afraid of pwd's, they don't know how to help, so they do nothing."

"A simple question - how can I be of help to you? And then listening to the pwd, is usually all that's needed. If the pwd is angry to be asked, that's their problem, and they're being rude."

Graphics depicting pwd's should be active and current, and show people as they really are, she says. "Many of the ones I saw in a variety of libraries were sad, and continue to show pwd's as dependent, needy, depressing, and sometimes downright scary."

"Graphics are used to show everything from posters and brochures depicting services for pwd to outreach and so on."

Odgers encourages libraries to invite story submissions about how the library makes a difference in people's lives - including pwd, whether physical, emotional or learning disabilities. The information would also provide the library with valuable feedback.

"MPAS has a current essay contest for self-advocacy - I would encourage libraries to publicize these contests and co-support them," she says.

A great deal has changed in society for pwd's - "though these changes did not happen because pwd asked nicely, they were fought for, like many other civil rights movements," she says. "Attitude takes a long time to change. People need to be with each other and get to know each other. Isolation and the lack of access is the antithesis of this goal."

Incredible as it seems, many people still equate disability with low IQ, Odgers says. "Why would a pwd be in a library anyway? It's hard to believe that anyone still believes this, but some do. So the idea that pwd's would want or need to use a library is overlooked by some policy makers, they only know what they have experienced."

Odgers is very passionate about libraries, and some of best friends work or volunteer in them.

"I believe libraries and librarians and Friends of Michigan Libraries really change the world," she says.

"I think libraries are one of the foundations of a just society."

Chelsea Chamber Players introduce clarinet to show

A near capacity audience enjoyed a free music concert by the Chelsea Chamber Players on Sept. 23 at the Chelsea Depot. Clarinetist Keith Dwyer of Ypsilanti joined regular Chamber Players Ian and Sara Cumming, Paula Elliott, and Priscilla Johnson in a performance of Mozart's "Quintet for Clarinet and Strings."

This was the first time the Chamber Players have programmed music to include the clarinet and it was enthusiastically received by everyone in attendance.

The program also included Samuel Barber's "String Quartet Opus 11, known to most people from the movie score "Platoon" and also used in numerous other films. To take advantage of Dwyer's talents, the group performed an additional work at the end of the scheduled concert.

The CCP will be providing music and co-hosting the next Chelsea Chamber of Commerce "Business After Hours" meeting at Silver Maples from 5 to 7 p.m. on Oct. 18.

The next CCP concert will be the annual "Hometown Holiday Concert" on Dec. 2 at the Chelsea Depot. This concert will join the CCP members with local high school musicians in the performance of Telemann's "Viola Concerto" and other works. This will be presented as part of the community's Hometown Holiday celebration and has seen capacity audiences at both the 3 p.m. and 7 p.m. performances.

This has become a great opportunity for young musicians to work with the professional musicians of CCP through numerous rehearsals and performances. The classical music concert will finish with a sing-a-long to popular holiday carols led by the chamber orchestra.

The series of free concerts is made possible by the generous donations of local businesses and patrons, and the support of all the local businesses that allow CCP concert posters to be displayed. Additional information on the CCP can be found at their Web site www.chelseachamberplayers.com.

The Chelsea Music Boosters will be launching their annual fund-raising drive with the mailing of donation requests to all parents of students enrolled in the Chelsea School District music programs, to previous donors and to local businesses. The money raised is used to assist all the music programs and their directors in providing additional learning opportunities for their students. The U of M Glee Club, the Detroit Symphony Orchestra's CutTime Players, Capital University Trombone Choir and Mark Wood, have visited to help Chelsea music students to make a connection between music in school and music in the "real" world.

Scholarships also are awarded to students in middle and high school who plan to attend summer music camps such as the Blue Lake Fine Arts Academy, Interlochen and the Michigan String Teachers Association camp in Howell. They also sponsor the annual "Faculty Concert" where the talents of the schools faculty and staff are showcased with performances of music, stage and story telling to name just a few.

Anyone interested in donating to the Music Boosters can pick up a donation card at any music performance at Chelsea High School.

Kids take on Sleepy Hollow

Chelsea Area Players Youth Theatre is in rehearsal for this fall's presentation of Washington Irving's "Sleepy Hollow." The all-kids show with be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 26, 27 and 28th at 7:30 p.m. The shows will be performed at the Clocktower Commons building on Main Street in downtown Chelsea. Tickets for adults are $10 and only $5 for students and senior citizens. The show is produced and directed by Ty Jacobs. CHS student, Jillian Heinrich, is the production's vocal director.

"The Legend of Sleepy Hollow" is a short story by Washington Irving contained in his collection "The Sketch Book of Geoffrey Crayon, Gent.," written while he was living in Birmingham, England, and first published in 1820. With Irving's companion piece "Rip Van Winkle," "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow" is among the earliest American fiction still read today.

The great cast for Sleepy Hollow features 32 area kids

The Chelsea Area Players

The seed for the Chelsea players was planted at a cast party attended by several alumni of Chelsea High School musicals, many of whom are participating in productions to this day. As they reminisced into the night about past productions, their drive to get together again and put on another show grew. They had no organization, resources, or money but that wasn't an insurmountable problem because they had something special in this village of Chelsea: Talented and dedicated people.

Chelsea Area Players also are involved in many community projects and events. The group sponsors a Fair Queen for the summer Chelsea Fair, awards Chelsea High School seniors a scholarship, produces and/or assists with various local fund-raising projects, and runs theater-related workshops for children and adults.

along with 25 production team members and a live orchestra.

"This is such a great story for the kids to do," Jacobs said. "It is a total kid involvement from acting, to sound, make up, lighting, basically everything (with some adult supervision). The cast is awesome, as usual for Chelsea, and we have a surprise ending - planned that people will be talking about for a while."

The "junior" version of Sleepy Hollow is nothing like the recently released movie version by Tim Burton, featuring Johnny Depp.

"Our show is much more musically oriented with many songs and lots dancing and choreography, yet it still has the basic theme of Ichabod Crane. And, our ghosts and sets will look quite ghoulish," says Jacobs. "It will certainly get you in the mood for Halloween."

CAP is creating a half-moon stage in the open area of the Clocktower Commons Building for the production and custom fitting staging, lighting and seating, with the cooperation of McKinley and support from the Chelsea Teddy Bear Factory and Edgar Norman Creative.

Other joint promotional activities are being planned for the weekend to include other downtown merchants like Cranesbill Books and the Teddy Bear Factory.

"This will be a show you don't want to miss," says Jacobs.

Tickets are on sale at the Chelsea Teddy Bear Store, Chelsea Pharmacy and Pierce's Pastries Plus or by phone at 1-734-274-2498. Tickets also may be purchased online at

Kindergarten Study

The Chelsea Board of Education continues to study the concept of all-day, everyday kindergarten. They began looking into the possibility in October of 2004. A Kindergarten Task Force was assembled that included a Board member, parents, teachers and administrators. The task force began meeting in the winter of 2005. The task force surveyed the previous year's kindergarten parents and met with kindergarten teachers on numerous occasions. They gathered and read available research on kindergarten delivery models. In addition, task force members visited other school districts that deliver kindergarten instruction in formats other than the all-day, alternate-day format, which is our current kindergarten format. During these visits, task force members observed students in the kindergarten classrooms and had the opportunity for significant conversations with kindergarten teachers and building principals.

Throughout the study, updates on the work of the task force were provided to the District Curriculum Council, the District School Improvement Team, and the Board of Education. Based on its work, the Kindergarten Task Force believed that an all-day, everyday format (full time) was the most effective format for the delivery of instruction to kindergarten students.

Unfortunately, the Board of Education did not believe it was financially feasible to implement all-day, everyday kindergarten at that time. However, the Board is now reconsidering its position on this matter.

To help parents and the community better understand the issue, three forums will be held. Community members are encouraged to attend any of the meetings to help familiarize them with full-time kindergarten. Staff will share similar information at each meeting.

Trimesters - Chelsea High School

Chelsea High School and the Board of Education are considering a change in the scheduling format at the high school for the 2008-09 school year. Currently, the high school is on a traditional schedule: two semesters per year (each 90 days in length). A trimester schedule, being considered, would consist of three semesters per year (each 60 days in length). The new graduation requirements for students, as required by the state of Michigan, offer very few opportunities for elective courses, especially if the students are involved in music electives. These requirements affect the Class of 2011.

Under a trimester format, students would have the opportunity to take five classes each trimester (60 credits over four years), rather than the traditional six classes each semester (48 credits over four years). The intent of the scheduling change would be to increase the number of electives students can take, while maintaining academic excellence.

The high school staff continues to gather information from districts that have successfully implemented trimesters. They will visit other districts, develop electives and lesson plans, and work on curriculum to help determine if this switch can be made. The overriding factor is, as always, what is best for students. As we prepare students for this global society, it is imperative they have both a well-rounded experience in school and a solid background in the core subjects.

The Board of Education is planning to make a decision on this change at the November 12, 2007, regular Board meeting. A public forum is scheduled to present information and gather input.

Healthy choices for kids and families

Move Forward! Healthy Choices for Kids and Families, in its third year in the Chelsea School District, has expanded to include all elementary schools. The program is designed to promote physical activity and healthy eating and to provide resources for families. Funded by the Chelsea Community Foundation, Move Forward! is a joint effort of the Chelsea School District and Chelsea Community Hospital working together to improve wellness in the Chelsea community. Its 16-member Advisory Group is comprised of representatives from the school district, hospital, and healthcare community. Move Forward! promotes healthy lifestyles throughout the school day. Children are encouraged to try healthy lunch options and to bring fresh vegetables and fruits for snacks. In addition, physical education classes are enhanced by the use of Project Fit America equipment which was purchased from grant funds. Special programs for parents will be offered throughout the school year. Look for information in school newsletters, on menu boards, and on the Move Forward! website accessible on Pierce Lake's web page. Families are welcome to use the Project Fit America equipment during non-school hours. For more information about Move Forward!, please contact Debra Oman, RD, Project Manager, at doman@chelsea.k12.mi.us.

Meet the Teacher

Name: John Zainea
Age: 25
Family: Not married; Mom, big brother and big sister all live in Grand Rapids
Education: Bachelor's degree in English with secondary teaching certification in English and History from the University of Michigan (2005)
Native of: Grand Rapids
Teaching experience: This will be my third year officially, and my fourth year in the building (I student taught with Paul Terpstra for a semester and took over for him as a permanent sub for the second half of that year).

School you teach: Chelsea High School

Grade/subject you teach: 10th grade English, 11th/12th grade English elective "Literature, Film and the Media."

Favorite subject in school: Anything involving music - jazz band, symphonic band, choir, independent studies.

Least favorite subject in school: Math!

Something people would be surprised to know about you: I used to be the lead singer for a rap group while in high school.

Most influential person in your life: My brother, Ben. He's been a great role model for me and has always encouraged me to become the person that I'd like to be.

Quote to live by: "I beg you...to have patience with everything unresolved in your heart and try to love the questions themselves as if they were locked rooms or books written in a very foreign language. Don't search for the answers, which could not be given to you now,

John Zainea Q&A

Students need to learn the value of hard work because you would not be able to live them. And the point is, to live everything. Live the questions now. Perhaps then, someday far in the future, you will gradually, without even noticing it, live your way into the answer." - Rainer Maria Rilke. That's a difficult question for an English major to answer in less than five or six sentences!

What do you like most about teaching? Having the opportunity to help students grow not just as students, but as people, too.

What do you like least about teaching? How time consuming grading papers can be.

What is the most challenging part of teaching? Maintaining a life outside of school during the school year.

What are some of the goals you set for students? I want students to be more confident in their own personal beliefs. I want students to see the value of hard work, respectfulness and integrity.

How do you handle a disruptive student? I try to set a positive example that is an attractive model to follow.

How do you handle a student who doesn't focus well? I try to relate the material the personal interests of that student so that he/she might find a more relevant connection between the material and his/her own life.

What do you tell parents about being involved in their children's education? I would encourage parents to communicate with their children - about homework assignments, expectations, what is going well, what they are struggling with, etc. Through this communication, the parents can encourage their children to both excel at their talented areas and work to overcome their difficulties.

Are students feeling more pressure to succeed today? I think the bar has been set very high at Chelsea, and I think that students understand how competitive the real world has become. A good education is a must, these days.

Walk us through a typical day for you? At school by 7:30, teaching hard until 3, musical rehearsal or basketball practice until 5 or 6, lesson planning or grading until 7 or 8. And then a few hours for dinner and relaxation before it happens all over again.

How has your job changed over the years? I haven't been around long enough for there to be major changes.

What do you like most about teaching in Chelsea? Great community support; fantastic extra-curricular programs; many very nice and delightful young adults in our school.

What makes the Chelsea school district unique or special? I find the level of community involvement to be quite impressive. In addition, Chelsea seems to be a leader in incorporating technology into the classroom.

School meetings

Chelsea School District officials will host three public forums to look at options regarding changing to an all-day, every day kindergarten program.

Those meetings will be from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at North Creek Elementary; 8:15 to 9:15 a.m. Wednesday at the Washington Street Education Center boardroom; and 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. Oct. 18 at North Creek Elementary.

Also, a "Reorganization Forum" on Chelsea High School changing to a trimester schedule will take place at 7 p.m. Oct. 23 in the CHS Media Center.

Have you wondered how your child is supposed to take electives with the new graduation requirements? Have you wondered why a child has to wait until the following year to make up a failed class?

Have you wondered what has been gained by adding 28 minutes to the school day over the past few years? Have you heard of other schools being "on the block" or going to "trimesters?"

The Oct. 23 meeting will focus on these and other topics, including the benefits of reorganizing from Chelsea's traditional six-period day to a trimester or other structure.

Rivalry is Friday night special

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

There was a definite buzz in the air last Friday night at Jerry Niehaus Field as rivals Chelsea and Dexter squared off in their annual gridiron tussle.

Walking into the stadium, the Bulldog Blue and Gold seemed brighter and bolder than usual in the Chelsea student section, while over on the Dreadnaught side, the omnipresent thunder sticks boomed larger and more forcefully than ever before. Heck, even the Bulldog band was bringing it louder and stronger last Friday night.

Could you blame them? Last Friday night wasn't your typical high school football game. No, last Friday night was something different. Last Friday was a night when Jerry Niehaus Field was filled to capacity. Last Friday was a night when the sloping grassy area leading down to the north end zone, normally smattered with a few people here and there, was filled from top to bottom and the fence surrounding the field lined two-deep at some locations.

Last Friday night was homecoming. Last Friday night was young ladies scurrying about in flowing dresses and heels, anxious dads fussing with their ties, and nervous moms smiling brightly.

Last Friday night was special. Last Friday night was Chelsea-Dexter.

Last Friday night was also a good football game. It hasn't always been that way.

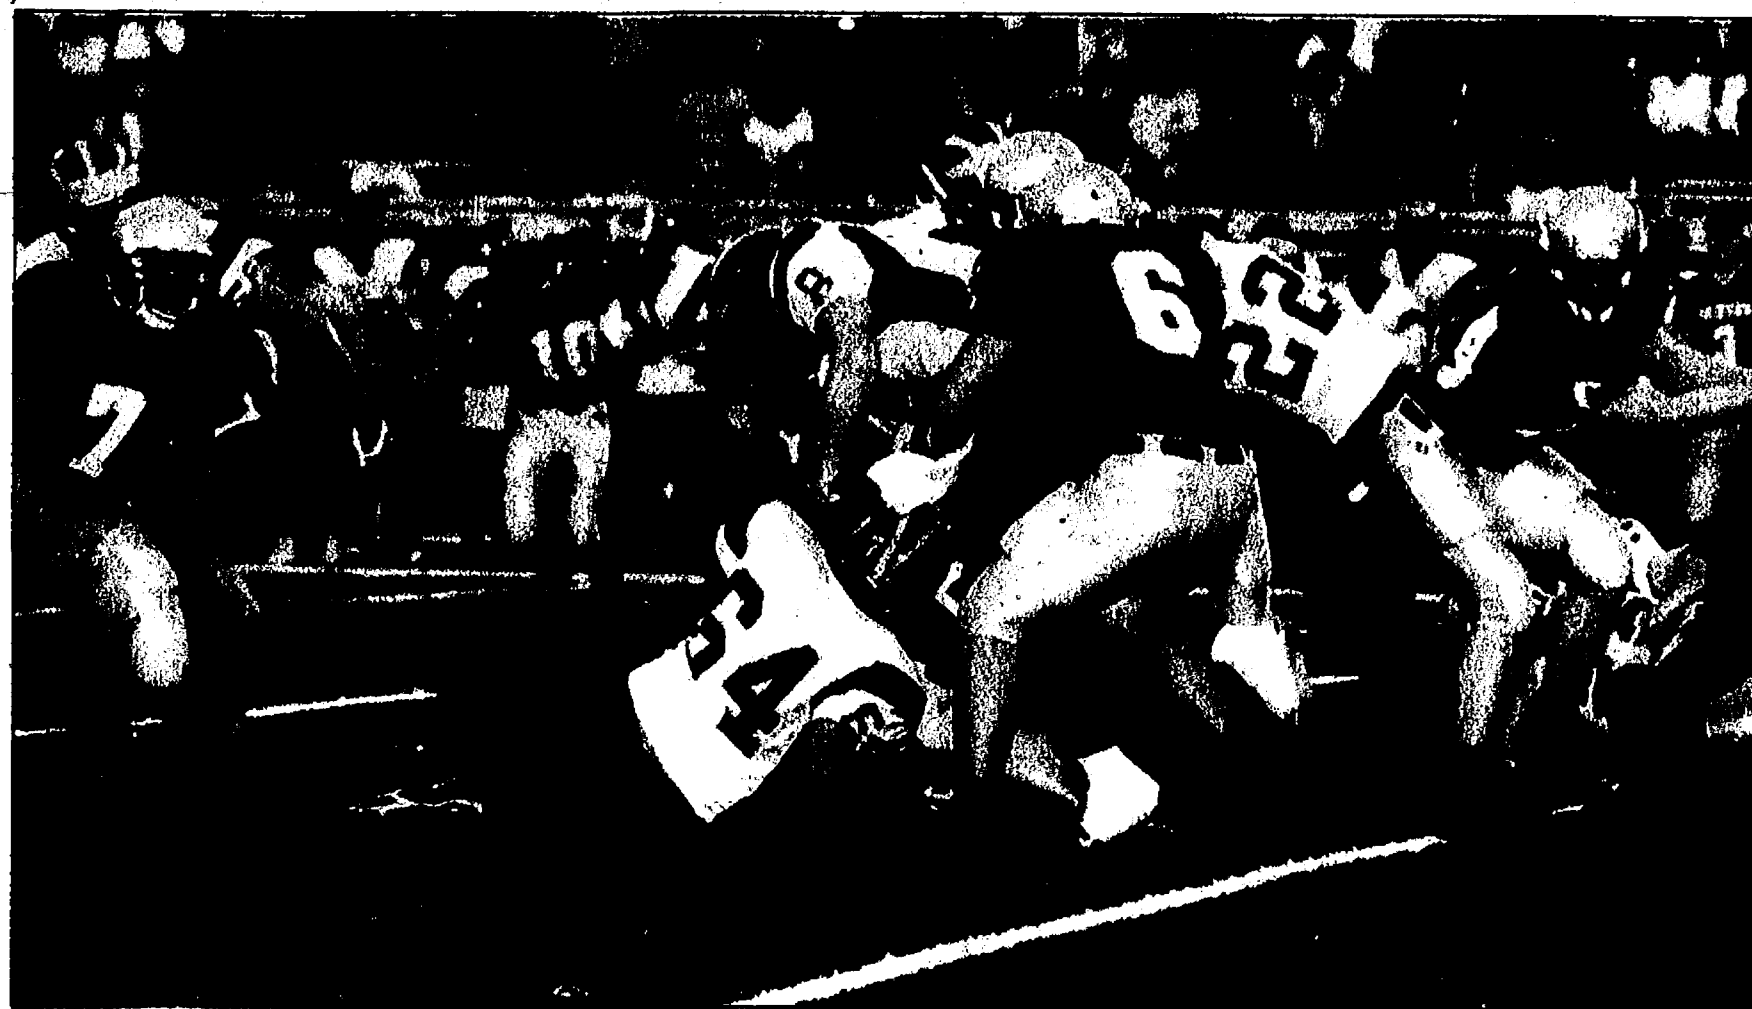

While Chelsea-Dexter is one of the area's best rivalries in most sports, with last year's classic overtime boys' basketball game won by the Dreadnaughts on Johnny Benjamin's floating jumper in the lane as time expired, setting off the loudest crowd ovation I've ever heard at a high school event, the Chelsea-Dexter sports rivalry is definitely alive and well.

In football, however, the outcome has been a bit one-sided. In the last 20 games of the series, the Bulldogs own a 16-4 advantage over the Dreadnaughts. The last Dexter win was 16-5 in 1995. Since 2000, Chelsea has scored 50 points or more four times, including a 64-6 victory in 2003.

Under head coach Tom Barbieri, however, the Dreadnaught program has made significant improvements. In his seventh season, Barbieri has Dexter on the brink of reaching the upper echelon of the rugged Southeastern Conference.

The Bulldogs (7-0), ranked No. 3 in the state in Division

Chelsea clashes with Dexter

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

In front of a packed homecoming night crowd, Chelsea defeated county rival Dexter 21-16 last Friday at Jerry Niehaus Field.

In more of a defensive-minded game than expected, the Bulldogs (7-0), ranked No. 3 in the state in Division 3, managed 254 total yards of offense for the contest, while the Dreadnaughts (3-4) finished with 228 total yards.

"Dexter played very hard, especially on defense," said Chelsea coach Brad Bush. "They did a great job against us. I'm a little disappointed in the way we played. We didn't have a good week of practice. We were able to run the ball well, though. Our guys up front did a great job."

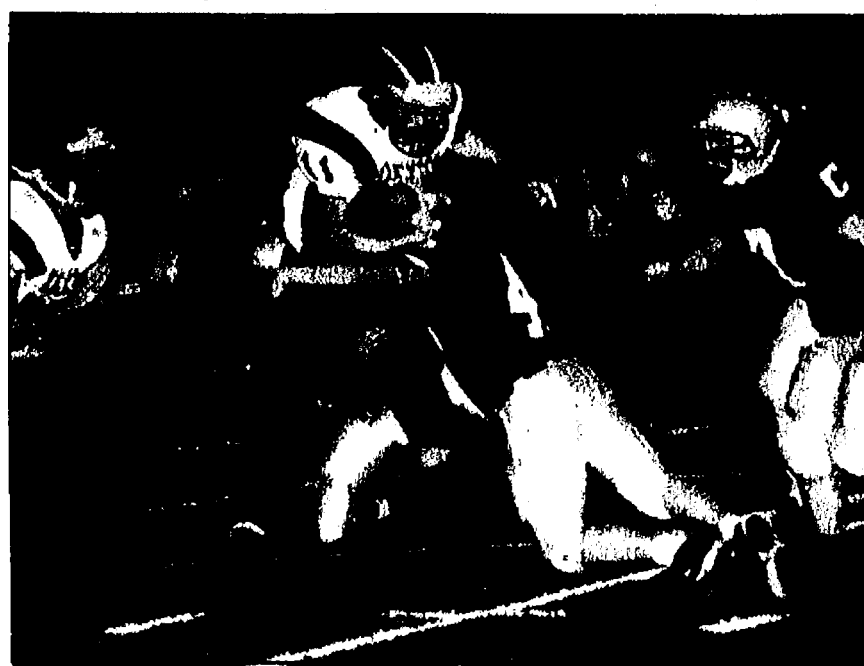

Dexter coach Tom Barbieri said Chelsea came up big time after time during the contest.

"Chelsea makes plays when the game is on the line," he said. "They came through when they had to. Give them credit. But we left everything on the field. Our guys gave it everything they had. It was a well-played game. (Nick) Hill's toughness was the difference in the game."

After an interception by Chelsea senior defensive lineman Stephen Dreyer, the Bulldogs opened the scoring on their second possession of the night as sophomore Nick Hill powered in from two yards away for a touchdown. With junior Michael Roberts' point after touchdown kick, the Bulldogs led 7-0 with 3:58 left in the first quarter.

Early in the second quarter, Chelsea sophomore defensive back Scott Rhodes picked off a pass at Dexter's 34-yard line. Four plays later, the Bulldogs converted the turnover into points as Hill scored on a 12-yard run. With Roberts' PAT, Chelsea increased its advantage to 14-0 with 7:08 remaining in the first half.

Bulldog senior defensive tackle Justin Swarouth sacks Dexter senior quarterback Peter Burgett, while senior linebacker Taylor Hopkins rushes in to assist last Friday.

With 22 seconds left in the second quarter, Dreadnaught senior receiver Ryan Kantola hauled in a 23-yard touchdown pass over the middle from senior quarterback Peter Burgett. With senior kicker Adam Umstead's extra point, Dexter entered the locker room trailing 14-7, but with momentum.

In the third quarter, the Dreadnaughts' cut the Chelsea's girls' cross country team finished second at the Hudson Invitational last Saturday.

The Bulldogs ended up with 94 points.

Winning the 15-squad meet was Wauseon (Ohio) with 65 points.

"We ran very well today considering the bad conditions," said Chelsea coach Pat Clarke. "It was extremely hot and humid which made running very difficult. In spite of the conditions we were focused as a team and performed well."

Leading Chelsea was Samantha Newbound who placed eighth overall with a time of 21:42.

Nikki Oberholtzer was 15th in a personal best 22:24, while Taylor Heydlauff was 18th in 22:33 and Julie Beaumont 26th in 22:50 for the Bulldogs.

Courtney Maher ended up 31st in 23:08, while Nicole Hopp was 36th in 23:30 for Chelsea.

"Our team finish of second was amazing," Clarke said. "I just hope that we can continue on this course of improvement throughout the season."

In the JV race, the Bulldogs placed first in the 16-team meet with 16 points.

Pacing Chelsea was Katie Lindauer who broke the tape first in 23:26.

Baillie Simpson was second in 23:47, while Stasi Kanellopoulos was third in 23:53 and Nikki Laeder fourth in 24:32 for the Bulldogs.

Christine Coffman was sixth in 25:04, while Katy Martin was 24th in 27:31 and Emma Argiroff 30th in 28:36 for Chelsea.

On Sept. 29, the Bulldogs competed in their own invitational at Hudson Mills Metropark. Chelsea finished fifth with 49 points.

"We ran a good race," Clarke said. "We still have a long way to go to reach our season goals, but we are definitely on the right track. We must continue to work hard and improve if we want to be successful."

The meet was split into a

3, have qualified for the state playoffs nine consecutive seasons. Dexter (3-4) is still searching for its first post-season appearance in school history.

Yet, the past two years, the gap between Chelsea and Dexter on the gridiron seems to be closing. Last year, the Bulldogs needed a last-second touchdown to beat the Dreadnaughts 33-29, while last Friday night, Dexter battled hard for four quarters, before falling 21-16.

Is the gap really closing? Or is Chelsea simply overconfident against the Dreadnaughts? I guess only time will tell. All I know is last Friday two football teams slugged it out for 48 minutes. It was a good, hard-hitting, clean game that fans on both sides enjoyed.

It was a special night. Sports Editor Don Richter can be reached at 475-1371 or at drichter@hritage.com.

Sluggish opening doesn't faze Dawgs

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

Chelsea volleyball defeated visiting Adrian 26-28, 25-16, 25-10, 25-13 in Southeastern Conference play Oct. 2.

Bulldog coach Laura Cleveland said her squad was a bit sluggish to start the match.

"The team got off to a slow start in the first game of the match," she said. "We did not serve as well and pass as well as we needed to get our offense in a positive rhythm."

Leading Chelsea was outside hitter senior Carly Szcodronski with 18 kills.

Junior Carolyn Olsen had a fine, all around match finishing with eight kills, nine digs and six aces.

Junior setter Megan Dunn ended up with a team-high 32 assists for the Bulldogs.

With its victory over Adrian last week, Chelsea improved its overall record to 15-8-2. In the SEC, the Bulldogs upped their mark to 4-1.

Cleveland was pleased with the Bulldogs' response after losing the first game of the match.

"The team came back strong in Games 2, 3 and 4, demonstrating effective passing, serving and attacking," she said.

Chelsea next travels to Livonia to participate in the Madonna University Invitational Saturday at 8:30 a.m.

On Tuesday, the Bulldogs visit Tecumseh for a SEC White Division match-up at 7 p.m.

On Oct. 20, Chelsea travels to Ann Arbor Pioneer to compete in its invitational at 8:30 a.m.

Golf

Chelsea third at SEC match

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

Chelsea's girls' golf team finished third at the Southeastern Conference White Division match hosted by Ann Arbor Huron Oct. 1.

The Bulldogs ended up with a score of 407.

Winning the match was Dexter shooting a 385. Tecumseh was second with a 395, while Ypsilanti Lincoln was fourth with a 512.

"Conditions for the SEC tournament were rough," said Chelsea coach Andrea Bareis. "It rained for the first three hours of the tournament. It didn't take long for casual water to appear both in the fairways and on the greens. In fact, all the holes were filled with water. The girls had to fish their golf balls out once they sunk their putts."

Leading Chelsea on the day was Krystin Schwarze carding an 89. Overall, she finished third.

Stephanie Everard shot a 102, while Sarah Shrosbree had a 104 for the Bulldogs.

Hannah Harwood, Lindsey Keyes and Lizzy Bentley each recorded a 112 for Chelsea.

Overall medalist for the match was Dexter's Karen Hill with an 86.

Earning All-SEC White Division first-team honors with their performance last week were Schwarze and Everard.

"Although we didn't play well as a team at the SEC tournament, I was extremely pleased that we were represented by two of our golfers on the SEC All-Conference team," Bareis said. "Schwarze led the way with the best stroke-over par average in the SEC White Division (plus 6.3 strokes over par). I've said all season that Krystin is one of the best golfers in the area."

"Stephanie has elevated her game to the level where she is ready and capable to compete at the same level. Both Krystin and Stephanie have worked very hard on their games and making All-Conference is a great accomplishment for both of them and for our team."

Also making the SEC White Division first team were Dexter's Maris McAulliffe and Hill and Tecumseh's Alex Campbell and Ashley Hartmann.

"It was nice to see the SEC White Division All-Conference team more evenly represented than in past years," Bareis said. "The White Division is becoming more and more competitive which is great for all of us. However, it was disappointing for us as a team to finish third in the White Division. It's the first time we haven't finished in the top two in a very long time. It just tells us that we have more to work on as a team, especially in this state Division 2 regional upcoming off-season."

state Division 2 regional Thursday.

Cross Country

Runners sixth at Portage

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

Chelsea's boys' cross country team finished sixth at the ultra-competitive Portage Invitational last Saturday.

The Bulldogs recorded 290 points.

Capturing the 40-squad meet was Fremont with 61 points. Placing second was Dexter with 105 points.

Chelsea not only had to contend with multiple state-ranked teams, but also the steamy weather last Saturday.

"This was the hottest race I have ever coached in cross country," said Chelsea coach Eric Swager. "The 90 degree weather was not ideal in any way. Throughout the day several runners were ambulatory with heat exhaustion."

"Our performance, however, was just fine. We responded with toughness and focus. To finish sixth out of 40 against these quality teams is quite an accomplishment. We beat three or four state-ranked squads and took home three medals."

Leading the Bulldogs on the day was August Pappas who placed 37th in 17:15.

Peter Wilke was 39th in 17:18, while Teddy Eyster was 41st in 17:19 for Chelsea.

Chelsea's boys' soccer team lost to visiting Adrian 2-0 last Thursday.

The Bulldogs (1-12-3) pressured the Maples early in the game.

"We controlled the entire first half, but we could not find the back of the net," said Chelsea coach Dave Pieske.

In the second half, Adrian scored two unanswered goals for the day's final margin.

"We dominated this game, which makes it very frustrating to lose," Pieske said.

On Oct. 2, visiting Chelsea tied Tecumseh 2-2.

The Bulldogs took an early 2-0 first half lead on goals by Tim Koch and Zak Munce. Recording assists on the goals for Chelsea were Keifer Forsch and Sam Parkanzky.

In the second half, the Indians responded with two goals for the ending margin.

"The boys looked sluggish in the second half, giving up two goals and not producing any more for us," Pieske said.

The Bulldogs next host Milan Friday at 5:30 p.m. Chelsea will celebrate Senior Night.

On Tuesday, the Bulldogs will travel to Ypsilanti Lincoln for a game at 5:30 p.m.

Bulldogs' lead to four points, as Umstead booted a 34-yard field goal making the score 14-10 with 4:10 left in the game.

Chelsea answered on its next possession, executing a 10-play, 80-yard drive culminated in Hill's one-yard TD dive. Roberts split the uprights giving the Bulldogs a 21-10 lead with 32 seconds remaining in the third quarter.

The Dreadnaughts refused to quit, however, battling back to score on a 12-yard pass from Burgett to senior Kevin Novak, who used all of his 6-foot-3 frame to snare the ball and land in bounds in the front corner of the end zone with 5:10 left in the game. The two-point conversion run attempt was thwarted for the night's final 21-16 margin.

Hill led Chelsea on the ground rushing for 144 yards on 28 carries with three touchdowns. Chris Schmelz added 30 yards on six attempts, while Donny Riedel had four yards on one carry.

Burgett paced Dexter with 36 yards rushing on 16 attempts. Chris Marsh had 35 yards on 12 tries, while Mike McCarthy had 15 yards on six carries and Chris Kotsones had one yard on one try.

Burgett finished with 145 yards on 7-of-16 passing, while Jeff Adams was 6-of-11 for 77 yards for Chelsea.

Receiving-wise, Riedel had three receptions for 45 yards to lead the Bulldogs. Hill had two catches for 24 yards, while Schmelz had one reception for eight yards.

LOVING HOMES NEEDED

Meet ROSE: Rose is a delightful dog that we all love very much! She was in FOSTER CARE/TRAINING where she had been learning basic commands and manners. Whoever adopts Rose will receive a FREE training session with Pat Currey's Family Pet Training Center. Rose is a very active dog who needs a job in life, like jogging with you, or playing flyball. She needs to be with a very active family! Rose was not given enough attention in her young life, but we are determined to move her along in her development because she is so SWEET and deserves a loving home. This lovely 2-year-old Dalmatian mix was found as a stray. She loves to sit in your lap and get petted. Rose has cute little black dots and a beautiful soft white coat. She loves to run in our play yard and carry a ball around. Because of her size and energy, Rose would do best in a home with no children under age 5.

Meet PRINCESS LEA: She is a WONDERFUL girl, 10 years young, with a sweet face and disposition to match. This despite having been abandoned by her previous family and picked up as a stray. Our dog walkers say of her: "What a doll! Princess Lea is excellent on the leash and is sweet, a little chubby and completely bewildered as to why she is here". She also knows the command "sit". Princess Lea, being an older gal, would be best placed with a family which is calm, with no young children or young/active dogs.

IF YOU'RE INTERESTED IN ADOPTING A PET, PLEASE CONTACT THE SHELTER AT 662-5585 OR COME VISIT US AT 3100 CHERRY HILL, ANN ARBOR.

Book Review

Local author explores Michigan wineries

By Jennifer Sinkwitts

Special Writer

Cranesbill Books in downtown Chelsea will host a reception to celebrate Michigan's crisp flavors and rich history with the recent release of the book "From the Vine: Exploring Michigan Wineries" on Thursday, Oct. 18. Local authors Sharon Kegerreis, of Chelsea, and Lorri Hathaway, of East Lansing, will be on hand starting at 6:30 p.m. for the book signing event.

The Motor City has had us cruising, but another industry is booming and it has nothing to do with gambling, sports or automobiles. So, move over high-techno's for something juicier.

As the tourism sector grows we find our dollars, an estimated $790 million, in our grape and wine industry. That is a lot of money and a lot of wine. Michigan's 53 wineries are producing an estimated 375,000 cases of wine annually, making the state 13th in wine production. Not only are we producing a lot of wine, but it is good wine.

Michigan is winning medals at prestigious competitions every year. According to the USDA, National Agriculture Statistics Service, "More than 18 percent of the wines entered in the most recent Michigan Wine and Spirits Competition had already won gold medals in regional, national and international competitions."

So, where is it coming from? Well, the answers lie in the book "From the Vine: Exploring Michigan Wineries."

Kegerreis and Hathaway take us on a tour down four distinct wine trails, frequenting 51 wineries along the way. Their stories coupled with colorful and vivid photographs make us want to pack up our car and hit the road for a wine-tasting weekend. On our journey they will introduce us to winemakers, both farmers and conservationists, who have turned Michigan's once-dormant land into dreams.

The journey starts at the Lake Michigan Shore Wine Trail, featuring 12 wineries. A map of the trail defines the region, known for producing wines that are "food-friendly" and "European" in character, at the beginning of the chapter.

From page to page we read of Michigan's past; we will appreciate the present and anticipate the future. A history lesson is told, a flavor is shared and the hard work of a dream come true is what this book is all about.

"Each story is so unique," says Kegerreis. "We had the opportunity to talk to the wine makers several times. They are all passionate about what they are doing. They are bringing local produce in the form of great wine."

The journey continues as readers visit Leelanau Peninsula Wine Trail, accommodating 15 wineries and located "up north" and off Lake Michigan. Here, the lake effect moderates winter temperatures, leading to the successful growth and quality of wine production.

Next, readers tour the Old Mission Peninsula Wine Trail, where its unique location, on the 45th parallel, provides the area with seven wineries and a fantastic growing season, resulting in wines that match, and even top, the best wines of the world.

And, closer to home we find ourselves on the Pioneer

Wine Trail. Located just a jaunt away is home to six wine makers and is worth an afternoon visit or leisurely Sunday drive. Sandhill Crane and Lone Oak are wineries in closest proximity to downtown Chelsea.

Just a mile or so off I-94 you can experience the serene setting of Sandhill Crane Vineyards. Here, you can sit for a while admiring the state birds that decorate the surroundings and sip on the award-winning Rhapsody in Red, a sweet red wine with a splash of raspberry. And, now is the perfect time to visit as their Crane Watch festival, tentatively scheduled on Oct. 20, quickly approaches. The festival starts when thousands of cranes flock to the nearby Haehnle Sanctuary; and ends at the winery to warm up with wine tasting and mulled wine.

If the Jackson location of Sandhill Crane is too far, join them inside the Dexter Cider Mill until late November for a quick taste.

Lone Oak Vineyards, also off I-94 between Ann Arbor and Jackson, is another quick stop. Located in Grass Lake, Lone Oak is home to Kip and Dennise Barber.

"They deemed the acreage in Jackson ideal for growing grapes. Kip claims the sandy, gravelly loam soil is consistent with France's Bordeaux region," Kegerreis said.

The book also describes how the Barber's grow Zinfandel's, just a few miles away from Chelsea, by burying the vines in the winter. Kip claims he is the only vintner in Michigan to grow Zinfandel because it is a hard grape to winterize.

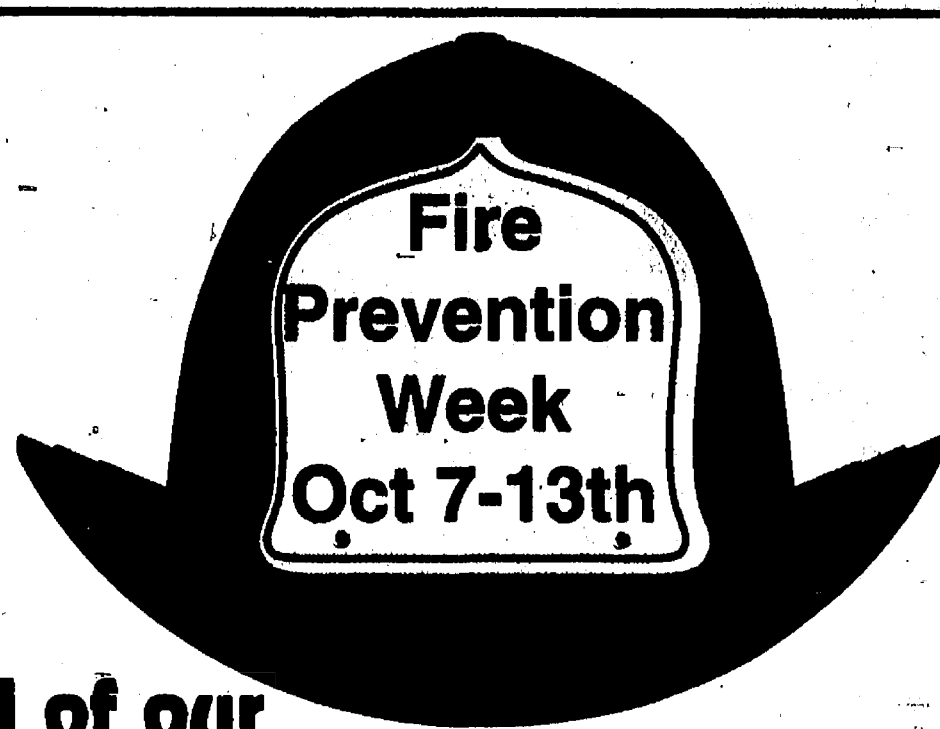

The tour finishes in "Beyond the Trails" at 11 small wineries that offer big tastes. These off-the-beaten track, or "trail" wineries purchase grapes from different regions of the state and offer unique characteristics to the wine enthusiasts. A little goes a long way, here.

"From the Vine: Exploring Michigan Wines" captures the character and fragrance of Michigan's hidden gem - wine. Our Great Lake State isn't just about cars and parts. We have something smoother and tastier in the works and Kegerreis and Hathaway have brought it to the forefront.

So, in celebration of harvest visit Cranesbill Books for your autographed copy of "From the Vine: Exploring Michigan Wines" and awaken your senses to the sweet taste of home.

Cranesbill Book is located at 108 E. Middle Street in downtown Chelsea. For more information call (734) 433-2665.

Salute to Firefighters

Our endless thanks and support go out to all of our area firefighters. Thank you for your courage, strength and dedication when our community needs you most.

FIRE SAFETY TIPS

- Keep space heaters at least three feet away from walls, newspapers, clothing and other materials that could burn.
- Have your house number visible from the street
- Have all escape windows and doors in good repair.
- Clean the dryer lint trap after every use.
- Have large, deep ashtrays to hold smoking materials.
- Completely extinguish smoking materials before going to bed or leaving home.
- Keep matches and lighters away from children.
- Change the batteries in smoke detectors every six months. (It is suggested to change them in April and October)
- Keep your stovetop, hood above the stove and oven grease-free and turn off the stove when you leave the kitchen
- Keep flammable potholders, towels and other materials away from the stove.
- Keep all electrical cords in good repair
- Have no more than two appliances plugged into any one outlet or extension cord. This could cause overheating or sparking -- potential fire hazards.

Chelsea man sings in premiere opera 'Cyrano'

By Sheila Pursglove
Special Writer

Norm Weber of Chelsea, who is singing in the 48-member Michigan Opera Theatre Chorus for "Cyrano" at the Detroit Opera House, cut his singing and acting chops at Chelsea High School.

Weber, who was born in Ann Arbor, and raised in Chelsea, was a member of the Chelsea High School choir, orchestra, band, theatre, and the men's singing group, the Silhouettes.

He started in community theatre at the age of 11, first working backstage, then graduating to onstage performing, a passion he continued in college at Bowling Green State University. He also was very involved with the First United Methodist Church in Chelsea, where he sang in the choir and played in the hand bell choir. A member of the Chelsea Area Players, he also has helped to entertain members of the Chelsea Senior Center.

It was at BGSU that Weber first started singing opera.

"It started with private lessons, and my voice being a little too big to fit into most choruses," he says. "So I started training in arias, and sort of found a passion for it. 'I'd been singing since I was a small child, so it was the proverbial next step for me to start with opera. Plus, I found all the drama that went along with the story lines quite compelling.'"

After college, Weber moved to New York City for eight years, working with smaller companies, doing bit roles, and trying to work his way up.

"The roles got bigger with the smaller companies, and

A three-day celebration honoring David DiChiera's accomplishment and fulfillment of his life-long dream to compose an opera and see it performed on stage.

Friday, Oct. 12 at 6 p.m. The Opera Ball, Michigan Opera Theatre's 20th annual Opera Ball will be presented in a grand tent on the grounds of the Detroit Opera House.

although sometimes the shows were obscure, it was the opportunity to sing that kept me at it," he says.

"The final show I did in New York City was the U.S. premiere of 'War and Peace,' by Prokofiev, which was amazing, just in the size of the production with the Metropolitan Opera. It was a great opportunity to be on that amazing stage, with such well-known and talented singers."

Weber moved back to Chelsea shortly afterwards, to be closer to his family—his parents Paul and Joanne and his sister, Martha. He auditioned for the chorus at the Michigan Opera Theatre, and is in his third year singing with them.

"Although I would love to move on to singing larger parts, I do love working with MOT and the people there," he says. "It is truly amazing to stand on that stage and listen to those people sing, some of them quite well known in the industry."

In Saturday's world premiere performance, Romanian baritone Marian Pop will create the title role, American soprano Leah Partridge will sing the part of Roxane, and Spanish tenor José Luis Sola will sing the role of Christian.

Other performers include Peter Volpe as De Guiche, Eric Johnston as Ragueneau, Gloria Parker as La Duegne, Gaetan Laperriere as Le Bret, and Torrance Blaisdell—a temporary resident of Chelsea where his wife's family lives—in the dual roles of Capucin and Marquis de Cuigy.

"Cyrano," a three-act opera, based on Edmond Rostand's play of 1897, Cyrano de Bergerac, will be sung in French with English subtitles. This world premiere of David DiChiera's opera recounts the story of a swordsman-poet's selfless love affair with his beautiful cousin, Roxane. Afflicted with a monstrous nose, Cyrano assumes that no woman will ever love him. Despite his love for Roxane, he agrees to help a handsome rival to win her heart.

When Weber is preparing for a show, it can be close to midnight before he gets back to Chelsea from Detroit, after a long day at work and rehearsals at the Detroit Opera House.

"And if I'm doing more than one show at a time, as I often am, the rehearsal schedule can be grueling at best, sometimes unbearable. Often we have multiple rehearsals in a day, so it gets a little tough memorizing shows in different languages, and singing for hours on end," he says.

"But it's one of those things that I love, so it's a small price to pay."

Jesus drew circles to include people normally excluded

I suppose you could blame my denomination, the United Church of Christ, for the issue Pastor Dawson brought up about women preachers. You see, in 1853 we ordained Antoinette Brown as the first Christian minister since New Testament times.

In our denomination we prize an educated clergy, so it is that she not only was elected to serve a Christian congregation as pastor, but she was also trained as a pastor. Interestingly, at her ordination service a Methodist minister defended a "woman's right to preach the Gospel" by quoting Paul when he wrote, "There is no longer Jew or Greek, there is no longer slave or free, there is no longer male and female; for all of you are one in Christ Jesus. (Gal 3:28-29, NRSV, emphasis mine)."

Concerning women preachers, I personally like to look at who was first entrusted with the Good News of Jesus' resurrection.

MINISTERIAL Message

By Rev. Bob Summers
St. Andrews United Church

Mary Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James, and Salome had gone to Jesus' tomb to anoint his body with spices, as was the custom of that time. It is there that they learn that Jesus has been raised from the dead, and they are told to go tell Jesus' male disciples.

So, the first ones ever to share the Good News were women.

As I read the Gospels, I am struck by how often Jesus drew circles to include people that were normally excluded. The poor, the sick, the insane and even prostitutes were included in Jesus' ministry. In New Testament times children were not held in as high esteem as they are now, yet Jesus drew a circle that included them in his ministry. Also in New Testament times women were, at best, second class citizens, but Jesus drew them into his circle.

Sometimes people of faith will draw circles that exclude people. I believe this unfortunately happens way too often in churches.

However, as you can see from the letters to the editor following Pastor Dawson's latest article, not all Christians do this.

I was especially encouraged by the letter from the pastoral team of St. Mary's Church. Even though they, too, do not believe in the ordination of women, they drew a circle that included those of us who do believe in ordaining women.

Years ago I had the chance to hold an original one of Edwin Markham's poems. I will never forget what he wrote: "He drew a circle that shut me out Heretic, rebel, a thing to flout. But love and I had the wit to win; we drew a circle that took him in."

If you are not a follower of Jesus, please be assured that many of us draw circles to include others, even fellow followers of Jesus with whom we do not theological agree.

The Rev. Bob Summers is pastor at the St. Andrews United Church in Chelsea.

Health Report: Spinal Healthcare Month

Gov. Jennifer M. Granholm recently signed an Executive Declaration naming October 2007 "Spinal Healthcare Month" in Michigan. In her Declaration, the governor proclaimed that the "proper function of the nervous system and the correct alignment of the spine are paramount to the body's ability to grow and develop appropriately, and to work effectively and efficiently."

In honor of Gov. Granholm's proclamation, Dr. Marc Kramer of Chelsea is working to educate the community about proper spinal health care.

"Back pain is the second most common reason for visits to a doctor's office in the United States," said Dr. Kramer. "It is estimated that 80 percent of us will suffer from back pain at some point in our lives. Even everyday activities, if not done properly, can lead to back pain. However, there are ways that this pain can be prevented."

The back is a complicated structure of bones, joints, ligaments, and muscles. Sometimes, even the simplest, everyday tasks, such as picking something up from the floor, can cause back pain. Dr. Kramer, the Michigan Association of Chiropractors and the American Chiropractic Association suggest these tips to reduce the risk of spinal injury:

- Don't lift by bending over. Instead, bend your hips and knees and then squat to pick up the object. Keep your back straight, and hold the object close to your body.
- Don't twist your body when lifting.
- Push, rather than pull, when you must move heavy objects.
- If you must sit for long periods, such as in front of a computer monitor, take frequent breaks and stretch.
- Wear flat shoes or shoes with low heels.
- Exercise regularly. An inactive lifestyle contributes to lower back pain.

"The key to spinal health is prevention," said Dr. Kramer. "These simple tips can make all the difference in the world in stopping low-back pain before it happens. However, when patients require chiropractic care, they will want to visit their MAC chiropractor as soon as possible."

Why Kerry Cebulski Shops at Carpet Outlet Plus

She says: "I come to Carpet Outlet Plus at least once a month, sometimes just to look around. What I appreciate most is that someone always asks if I need help, but I can say I'm just looking and that's fine. I hate going into stores where people are always bothering me. When I shop at Carpet Outlet Plus, I know that help will be there when I need it, but I can go at my own pace and not be pressured into buying something or looking at something. When I have needed assistance, I've never had to wait—someone is always available to help me."

Outdoor teak decking in stock

Beautiful, durable Garden Teak Tiles are extremely resistant to moisture, chemicals, and insects. They are perfect for both indoor and outdoor settings, and retain their strength and beauty for a lifetime. The tiles are easy to install because of a unique inter-locking square tile design. Each tile is composed of two crisscrossed layers of teak. This provides a stable surface that allows the tiles to be interlocked easily.

The unfinished tiles will weather over time to a naturally beautiful silver gray. If you choose to keep the original color, you can add a protective finish of spar varnish or acrylic urethane.

Teak is usually purchased in the spring unless it's used for indoor hot tubs or pools. We're offering BLOWOUT PRICES NOW so we don't have to store it all winter.
