CHELSEA FOOTBALL: STATE PLAYOFFS 2007

On the defensive

Is Bulldogs' defense ready to take team to next level?

Tecumseh was down 14-0. But the Indians were marching.

Actually, they were crushing, crashing and crunching their way down field in Friday night's Division 3 first-round state playoff game with the Chelsea Bulldogs.

This wasn't exactly the run-and-shoot offense the Tecumseh coaches had drawn up. It was more the run and run and run offense. And most of the plays were quick pitches straight ahead where even the quarterback got in on the blocking. First down, run. Second down, run. Third down, run. Fourth down, run.

Tecumseh had used this formula to win its last six games and qualify for a spot in the playoffs. And even though the Bulldogs jumped out of the blocks with two quick touchdowns, Tecumseh was sticking to the game plan and sticking it to the Chelsea defense.

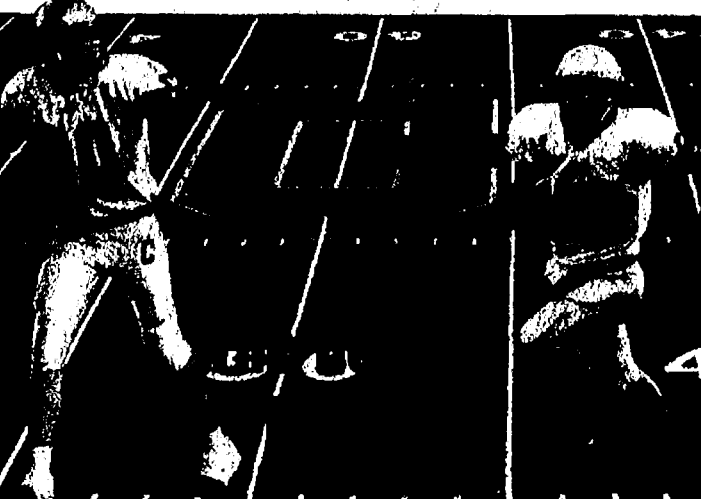

Suddenly, though, the Chelsea defense got defensive, making a stand at its own 20-yard line. Faced with a fourth-down and 14, Tecumseh went for it. I mean they really went for it, turning to the passing game. Who knew the quarterback could throw? Who knew they even had wide receivers?

'Exciting times'

Sheridan Books gets new press rolling

By Edward Freundl
Staff Writer

A local book manufacturer is proving once again that Chelsea is bucking a state trend and actually expanding its business.

"We've been experiencing unprecedented growth over the past two or three years," said Mike Seagram, president of Sheridan Books in Chelsea's industrial park.

"These are exciting times, and we'll continue to invest here."

A large part of that investment arrived recently from England, and will help the company accommodate a surge in business.

The new Timson printing press joins three other Timson web presses churning out a tremendous volume of printed material for Sheridan's customers.

A "web" or offset press is so called because the words and images are printed on a long roll of paper, known as a web because it is fed through a series of rollers.

The rollers are fitted with thin, flexible metal plates that contain the words or images.

The plate runs against another roller containing ink, and electrostatic properties cause the ink to adhere only to the type, and the rollers are separated by ink color.

That image is transferred to the paper, which is offset from the roller, thus the name "offset press."

The new press is actually a small part of the entire configuration.

The rolls of paper are loaded onto one end, the paper goes through the press, is fed into a dryer to dry the ink, then into an inline folder that folds the

The pass was on the money, across the middle and into the hands of Trey Searles at around the 7-yard line. Trey is not your ordinary receiver. Standing 6-foot-5 and weighing 280 pounds, it looked as if he could just fall over and land five yards in the end zone.

While it first appeared to be a sure first down, if not a touchdown, Chelsea linebackers quickly converged.

But what could they do, really? I mean, Taylor Hopkins was 5-9, 195 pounds and teammate James Connelly was 5-11, 190 pounds. Trey orders 190-pound linebackers as a side dish.

But what happened next not only ended the drive, it ended Tecumseh's season. And even more importantly may have helped end any questions on whether Chelsea had the talent to extend well into the playoffs.

Hopkins and Connelly collided with Searles soon after he got his big mitts on the pigskin. The impact of the collision jarred the ball loose and it fell to the wet turf. And with it fell any chance Tecumseh had of getting back into the ball game.

Two plays later, Jeff Adams raced 78 yards on a quarterback keeper for a touchdown. So instead of 14-7 it was 21-0. Instead of game on, it was game over.

While Joe Torre got the ax because making the playoffs wasn't enough, Chelsea Coach Brad Bush doesn't have to worry about that.

But at some point, you have to ask, 'What gives?' The answer may be what doesn't give - and that's the 2007 defense.

Chelsea has always been known as a team that can score points. No problems on the offensive side of the ball. And this year is certainly no different. Check out the 46 points they plastered on the scoreboard Friday night if you want proof. They have plenty of ways to hurt a defense and keeping them down won't be easy.

This year, though, if the offense struggles, the defense can pick them up. Chelsea might just have a defense that can help win a low-scoring football game in November. And helping lead the way are the three senior linebackers.

"We try to practice at a pace where the offense can't match us," said Hopkins, who leads the Bulldogs with 43 solo tackles and 25 assists. "We try and force them to do the things they don't do well."

For Tecumseh, that was the passing game. Scoring 21 unanswered points certainly helped the Bulldogs take the Indians out of what they wanted to do. The Bulldogs scored so fast and so often that the running game ran out of juice in the second half.

"We knew what their game plan was going to be and we knew we had to stop the run," said senior outside linebacker Stu Mann, who has 22 solo tackles and 21 assists on the season.

"They had some big line-man but we did a good job taking on the blocks and getting the running backs."

The senior linebackers certainly are a force out on the field, but the Chelsea defense is a true team defense.

Dean Roberts helps bottle up the line up front while players such as Scott Rhodes, Jake Galarowicz, Michael Roberts, Dakota Risner, Rodney Ostrowski, Colton Waterbury, Cody Adams and Randy Cox all have double digits in solo tackles this season.

"Rhodes led the way with 11 on Friday, followed by Connelly and Roberts with eight apiece."

Connelly said the team is ready for the next challenge.

"We want to play at Ford Field, but first we must beat Adrian," he said. "We have to be prepared for each team we face and not look ahead. We believe our defense will be ready if our offense struggles. We practice hard and we're still getting better."

"We'll be ready."

Hopkins said their focus will be the opposite on Friday against Adrian.

"They like to throw the ball," he said. "We need to get pressure on the quarterback and do what we did against Tecumseh and that was to make some big plays when we need to."

And none was bigger than that fourth-down play in the second quarter.

Chelsea History: By Kathy Clark

Chelsea native draws quite a career

'Black Cauldron' movie cel donated to Chelsea museum

By Kathy Clark

Guest Writer

A layered, painted celluloid with hand-colored background from the 1985 full-length feature film "The Black Cauldron" was donated to the Chelsea Historical Museum by Marjorie Hepburn of Chelsea.

Tom Diab, Chelsea Area Historical Society president, was on hand to receive the donation this month.

The celluloid film frame, or "cel," was given to Hepburn by her friend Joe Hale in 1985.

Twenty-four cels are photographed every second to create an animated movie, and there are 115,200 frames of film in "The Black Cauldron."

Hepburn is one of Hale's friends from Chelsea High School's Class of 1944.

Toward the end of an illustrious career with Walt Disney Productions, Hale wrote and produced "The Black Cauldron" which was Disney's 25th animated film in 1985, costing $25 million. He retired the following year.

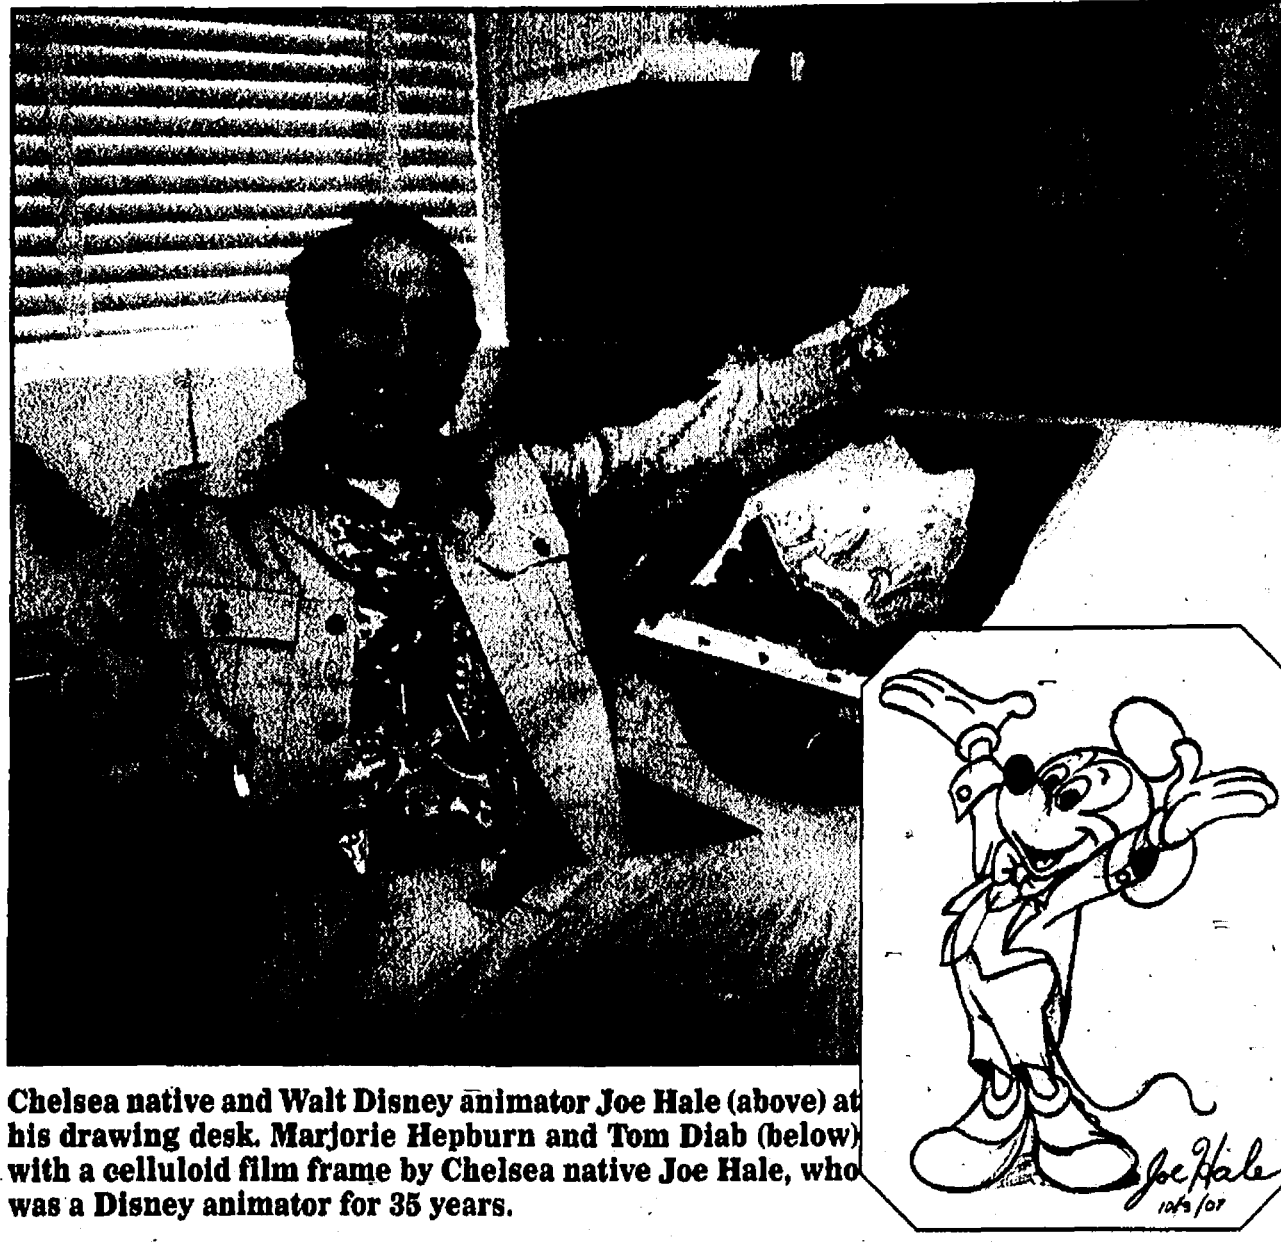

Since 1951 Hale worked on more than 100 Disney projects in character animation and cartoon layout.

He drew backgrounds and special effects such as explosion and laser beam enhancements, and his artwork contributed to such classics as "Sleeping Beauty."

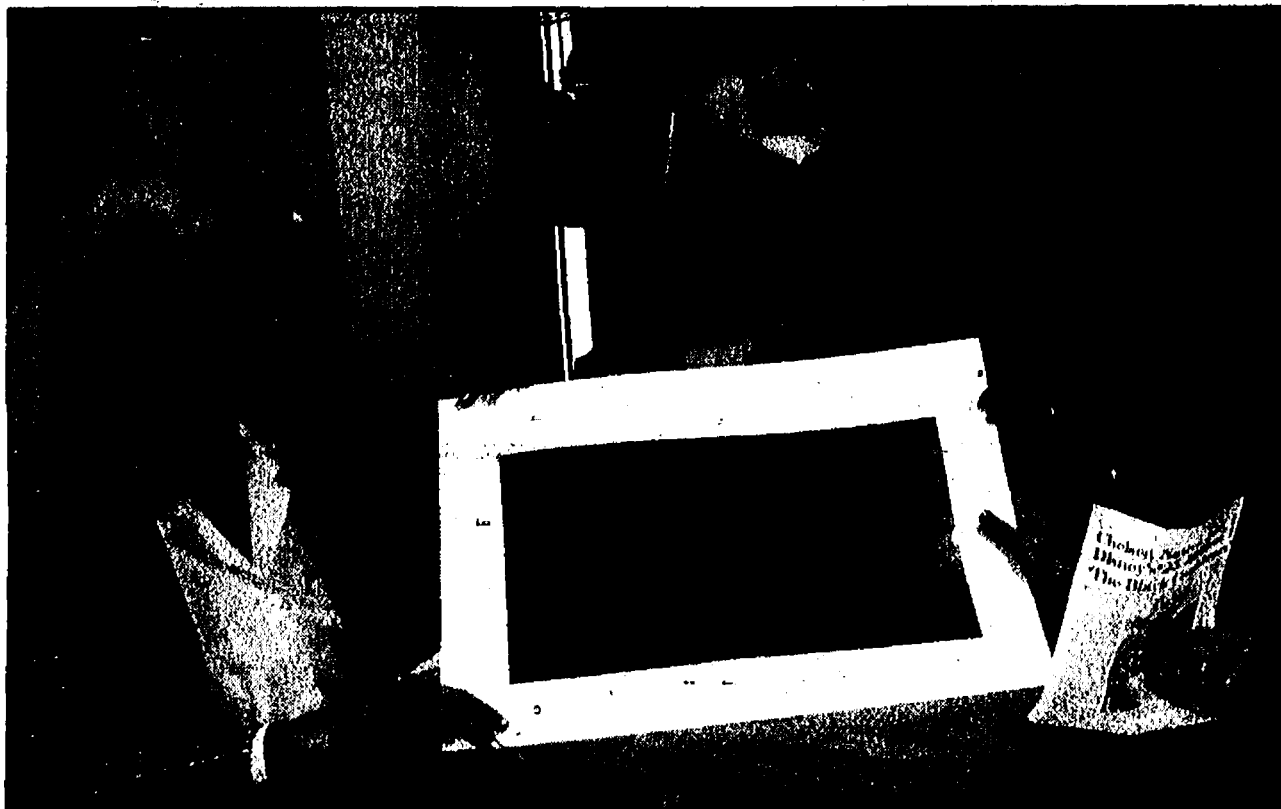

Live-action and cartoon combination films like "Mary Poppins" and "101 Dalmatians" came next.

Hale did the technical planning and animated sequences of 1979's "The Black Hole," for which he received an Academy Award nomination for best animated visual effects.

Hale was raised in Chelsea with seven sisters and one brother in a small house in the 100 block of Madison Street with no indoor bathroom plumbing.

Chelsea native and Walt Disney animator Joe Hale (above) at his drawing desk. Marjorie Hepburn and Tom Diab (below) with a celluloid film frame by Chelsea native Joe Hale, who was a Disney animator for 35 years.

His parents were Vincent and Chloe Hale.

The family outgrew this home and moved three doors south on Madison. He attended Chelsea schools from 1929 to 1942. Hale would have graduated with the Class of 1944 had he not entered the U.S. Marines in 1942.

"Several of our classmates enlisted early to choose a branch of service, rather than be drafted into the U.S. Army," Hepburn recalled.

While in the service he illustrated other servicemen's letters and created his own greeting cards. After leaving the Marines, Hale attended the Michigan Academy of Arts in Saginaw and later the Likits Academy of Fine Arts in Los Angeles.

Chelsea is home

Over the years Hale has stayed in touch with his friends Phil Vogel, Dan Ewald, Margie Hepburn and others. He often attends Class of '44 reunions. At age 82, he has not lost his artistic ability and this month sent a few more autographed "off the tip of his pencil" drawings to the museum and friends, along with movie cels, storyboards, photocopies and original pencil drawings from "The Black Cauldron."

It is his intent that the museum, library or schools will use these tools to teach how an animated film is produced.

Hale has kept his friends updated as his career in motion pictures developed.

Inclinations to draw began in school when he would sketch characters or scenes on every blank page of any book.

"On my first military leave I saw 'Bambi' in the Chelsea Sylvan Theater and I sat through it seven times during three days," Hale recalled in a 1985 conversation.

"During 'Bambi' I decided all I wanted to be was a Disney artist. It was a time when all available jobs in Chelsea were at the Federal Screw Plant or other factories. I never dreamed I would succeed beyond that."

During one class reunion visit to Chelsea, Hale drove down Madison Street and stopped at his first home.

"I was walking around the house when the lady living there invited me inside for a tour. It was when tattoos had entered the mainstream of society," Hale said.

He noticed the woman had a tattoo of Mickey and Minnie Mouse on her left shoulder.

"I drew that!" he told her, and that same version of Mickey and Minnie had been used for the "Wonderful World of Disney" TV series in the 1960s.

At home in California

He was hired by Disney in 1951, and was present during some historical moments with the company.

"In the late 1950s, I sat in on the first meetings with Walt Disney when a simple 'kiddieland' was envisioned at the end of the California Disney lot," Hale recalled.

"The project was put in the hands of Disney cartoonists and they created drawings of 'Main Street U.S.A.' Their ideas were expanded to become the first Disneyland park."

The cartoonists did not profit from the drawings used to construct the first Disneyland, and at one point unsuccessfully negotiated for a small percentage of Disneyland's profits.

"Disney pulled everyone off 'Sleeping Beauty' to work on the theme park. A top animator earned $500 a week in those days," Hale added.

This month Hale is sculpting his third three-foot-high gargoyle out of sandstone.

"I have always been interested in drawing gargoyles," Hale said. "This one has a place on my roof with the other two."

He and his wife Beverly live in Vista, Calif., which is 40 miles north of San Diego. Their Spanish-style home is built on a cliff 2,000 feet above the coast with a view of the Pacific in the front and mountains in the back.

Make-A-Wish dances up fund-raiser

The Make-A-Wish Foundation has brightened the lives of more than 5,000 children in the midst of their serious health challenges, providing a positive, uplifting focus for these brave and inspiring children.

The foundation's goal is to provide every eligible Michigan child facing a life-threatening medical condition with an unparalleled wish experience.

It recently moved its headquarters to Ann Arbor in recognition of its top referral facility, Mott Children's Hospital.

Make-A-Wish will host a fund-raiser tomorrow night with a "Dancing with the Stars"-style competition. The event will take place from 6:30 to 11:30 p.m. at the Michigan Theater in Ann Arbor.

The cost of $75 per person includes a strolling dinner, dessert, silent auction, entertainment, dancing, wine, beer and soda.

Dancing with the Make-A-Wish Stars pairs professional dancers with five local "celebrities," who have learned dances, rehearsed and will perform at the event for the guest's entertainment. Guests will pledge money in support of their favorite act. After the performance, attendees will enjoy dessert and dancing on the Michigan Theater stage.

The local celebrities include Craig Common, Common Grill Executive Chef and Debbie Dingell, General Motors Senior Executive and TV Political Commentator.

HISTORY

Living close to the California film industry, Hale has been able to salvage and incorporate various pieces of old movie sets into his home.

He used wrought iron work from the movie "Zorro," and the gates from Cherry Tree Lane off the "Mary Poppins" set.

"The three Indian maiden statues from 'Something Wicked This Way Comes' looked great with a flat coat of white paint," Hale said.

Along with collections of small movie character statues, he brought home his Disney Studios drawing desk.

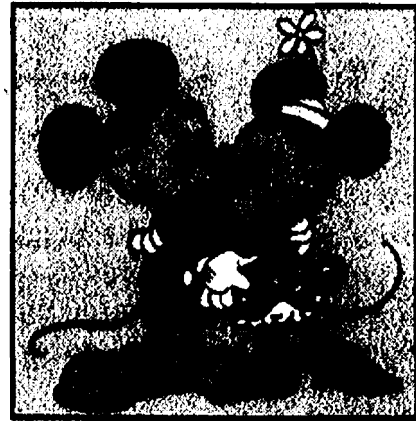

Hale has remained active with the Marines at Camp Pendleton for the past 20 years.

"I instruct Marines in skeet and trap shooting at the Skeet & Trap Range at Vado Del Rio," he said.

Another Marines-related project Hale has started is a cactus and succulent memorial garden at the range.

"The garden is a tribute to the 340 Marines from Camp Pendleton already killed in Iraq," he noted.

Hale is on the board of directors for the Moonlight

Jewel live theater of San Diego County.

Finally, Hale has sat on the board of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts & Sciences for 20 years. He will soon receive 60 to 80 films to review from all the movie studios for the 2008 Oscars ceremony.

"Everyone in the Academy nominates choices for Best Picture, then we receive one big ballot where everyone votes on their choices in all other categories," Hale said. "My neighbors love this time of year because they get to borrow all the movies."

In the back of his mind, Hale thought of moving back to Chelsea for many years. Now it appears he is comfortable and very active in his California retirement.

"Chelsea has always been my hometown," he said recently. "When I come back to talk with everyone, I envy the people who have stayed here."

Sleepy Hollow sells out three shows

Chelsea Area Players recent performance of Sleepy Hollow, performed by the CAP Jr. cast of 32 kids was a smashing, record breaking success. Held in the Commons Building at the Clock Tower Complex, each of the three nightly shows were sold out as over 1,000 people attended the Halloween show.

"We knew that pre-sales were going well," says Director and Producer Ty Jacobs, "but we did not expect the huge crowds we had. Friday night we had standing-room only and unfortunately had to turn a few people away."

Sponsor Chelsea Teddy Bear Factory opened their haunted warehouse of doom before the show for patrons to tour and get in the mood for the play. In addition, a limited edition Headless Bear commemorating the Sleepy Hollow play were on sale each night. Only 30 bears were made and sold out!

"This was a wonderful performance by the amazingly talented kids of the Chelsea area," says Jacobs. "And, what awesome support by the community as we far exceeded our ticket sales goal by more than 40 percent! That's a record for CAP."

The highlight of the evening for the many children surrounding the stage area was the appearance of the headless horseman riding in on a live horse and throwing the pumpkin at Ichabod Crane's feet.

"This show was very family oriented and we had hundreds of kids who not only saw a cool play, but they could also see that kids their own age were acting on stage right in front of them," says Jacobs. "That's how community theatre keeps growing and hopefully our Youth Theatre program will see bigger numbers at auditions for our spring performance."

Excellent attendance had cast and crew smiling.

The other two challengers are members of a citizens advocacy group, Chelsea Citizens for Accountability (CCFA) that has adopted the mantra of openness and accountability in city government.

"Transparency of the budget is necessary in order to maintain accountability of budget items," Holmberg noted. "How can the city account for spending activities, when it is not relatively easy to track? ... (T)his is a huge issue and needs to be prioritized for change."

Rod Anderson wants the council to pay more attention to the effects of their actions. "The Council did not consider the impact of the increase on Chelsea stakeholders: property owners, residents, and potential residents. We need to reset our priorities," he said.

"The most obvious challenge for the Chelsea community and city government is how to manage efficient delivery of services in a time of economic turmoil."

Due to a change in state election law this year, voters will be required to provide photo identification when they go to the polls.

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. The city is divided more or less into two precincts covering the east side and west side.

All voters in the city will vote in the cafeteria of the Washington Street Education Center, 500 Washington St.

Investing in... Washtenaw County's future.

Detroit Edison is planning more than $30 million in upgrades to Washtenaw County's electrical system. Work has already begun. Once completed, it will provide improved reliability for years to come. We'll be:

- Repairing or replacing hundreds of transformers, fuses, lightning arresters and other pieces of equipment.
- Trimming thousands of trees to reduce power outages.
- Replacing or reconducting miles of overhead power lines.
- Inspecting thousands of utility poles to identify and correct potential problems.
- Rebalancing Washtenaw County's electrical system to prevent overloaded electrical circuits.

This is all a part of our ongoing commitment to deliver the energy our customers need, when they need it — today, tomorrow and into the future.

School bond refinancing saves $2 million for taxpayers

By Edward Freundl
Staff Writer

The Chelsea School District has taken advantage of near-historic low interest rates to refinance its debt and save a considerable amount of money on interest.

Unlike a homeowner who might save several thousand dollars on a mortgage, however, the district stands to save more than $2 million.

"We just got great news with the re-funding of our bonds," said Chelsea School Superintendent David Killips.

"Over the life of the bonds the school district has saved over $2 million in costs, mainly in the area of interest costs."

Teresa Zigman, Executive Director of Business and Operations for the district, said district administrators were "excited" at the prospect of not having to spend so much on interest payments.

"We knew the market was moving in our favor, but we didn't know how far," she said, and likened it to the recent wave of mortgage refinancings.

"When a homeowner does that, they pay less on a mortgage, and it's the same way with bonds."

The interest savings is stated over the life of voter-approved bonds, from today to 2025.

"Our prior interest rate was 5.01 percent, and now it's down to 4.24 percent," Zigman said. "When you're talking $29 million, it's a pretty good chunk of change."

According to a press release from UBS Securities, the district will see a savings of approximately $2,056,000 in total debt service costs by refinancing $28,590,000 of the district's outstanding bonds.

"The district was in the enviable position of being able to time its entry into the bond market and capitalize on the low rates currently available," said David Kahn, Executive Director of the UBS Securities LLC Lansing office.

"This would not have been possible without the extra effort by the business office staff," he added.

Kahn also commended the board of education and administration for their efforts to achieve the lowest possible interest cost for the taxpayers of the district.

UBS is the underwriter of the bonds, and the district worked with financial adviser Stauder, Barch and Associates Inc. to complete the transaction.

The district's bond rating is excellent, according to two major financial ratings firms. Standard & Poor's rating for the district is AA-, while Moody's gives it an A2 rating.

However, Zigman noted, the "refi" won't have an immediate effect on the district's bottom line.

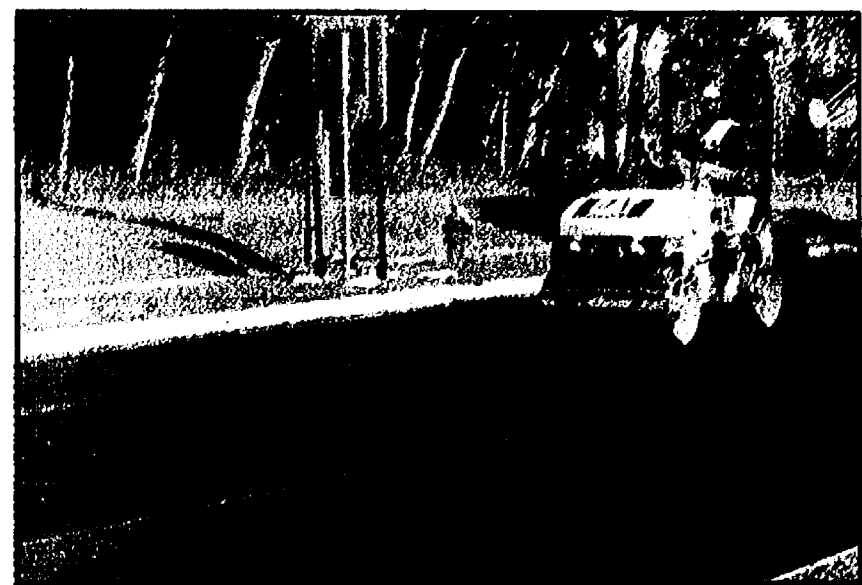

"The taxpayers would see relief in their winter 2009 tax bill," she said.

Another issue that could affect the projected savings is the end result of a lawsuit file by Chrysler over its $100 million property tax valuation of the Proving Grounds south of Chelsea.

"That's been sitting at the state Supreme Court for a year," Zigman said.

"We won't know what that impact will be until that ruling comes down."

Road construction crews worked this past week to grind up and remove the top three inches of pavement from Old US-12 from South Main Street (M-52) to Gene Drive in preparation for repaving (top left). The repaving work went quickly on Tuesday (above), and a top layer of asphalt is set to be applied today. The Washtenaw County Road Commission is maintaining one lane of traffic in each direction, but is urging drivers to take extra caution when driving next to construction equipment. A temporary speed limit of 35 mph is in effect in the work zone.

House Dems launch attack on recallers

House Democrats have quietly launched a "put the wagons in a circle" strategy to defeat the unfolding recall movement.

Most thinking citizens know that recalling a lawmaker because he or she voted the "wrong" way on one issue, in this case a tax increase, does not warrant bouncing them out of office. Intelligent voters should look at the overall record of any lawmaker before anyone is recalled.

That said, recallers do have the right to do what they are doing and House Democrats have a right to stop them in their tracks. And they intend to do just that by stopping the recallers before they can force a recall election.

To put a lawmaker on the ballot, recallers have to jump through a series of legal hoops and lawyers for the other side will be there hoping to find a legal technicality or other misstep that would nullify the recall process.

For example, people who pass recall petitions must be registered voters in the district where the lawmakers live.

Carpetbaggers who come in to gather names would be wasting their time since the names they collect would not be counted.

For example somebody in Macomb County cannot circulate a recall petition for a lawmaker in Redford Township. And someone in Redford can't sign a petition in Macomb.

The legal eagles for House Dems will fly-speak every procedure, every name and every move the recallers make hoping against hope that this rag-tag group of malcontents will screw up in one way or another.

On top of that, the Dems have another ace in the hole. They will stage street corner debates wherever recallers are trying to collect signatures.

The supporters of targeted lawmakers will "shadow" the recallers and every time they approach a citizen to sign, there will be protracted debate.

The scene could go like this: Recaller to resident: "Did you support the recent income tax increase?"

Resident: "No, I did not and I am madder than all get out."

Recaller: "Well sign this petition and you can help remove lawmaker so and so from office."

Anti-recaller who has been listening in on the conversation: "Just a second. Did you know that the income tax increase helped to provide more education-funding for your children and to keep crooks behind bars?"

Resident: "No I did not."

Recaller: "That doesn't make any difference. It was still a tax increase and you said you opposed that."

All this back and forth has a twofold effect. It drastically slows down the collection process, which means it will take more time to gather signatures. Secondly, with a "shadow" there to present the other side, citizens might not sign. Each time that happens, it's a win for the lawmaker and a loss for the recall movement.

One Democrat on the inside of these strategy talks argues, "This is the most effective method" of thwarting the recalls. Recallers can't get the signatures to force an election and lawmakers' necks will be saved. But don't kid yourself, now that the recall backers are aware of this fly-speak strategy, they will take whatever steps they need to make sure all the legal t's are dotted and i's are crossed.

As for the street corner debating, this thing could get nasty.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor: This letter is in response to Frank Hammer's editorial on Oct. 25, 2007. First, I am a member of Chelsea Citizens for Accountability (CCFA), and we categorically disagree with Mr. Hammer's letter.

The Bookcrafters building was bought in 2002 for $995,000 with the original intent to remodel the current structure for the new Chelsea City Hall. After it was purchased, it was discovered that remodeling it was not cost efficient. Why wasn't this investigated prior to spending $995,000 of the taxpayers' money?

The property is 4.3 acres, meaning that the city paid $231,395 per acre for a slightly contaminated property that is zoned only for commercial light industrial.

Current commercial property with no soil contamination around Chelsea is selling for about $120,000 per acre.

Hammer still feels that, "by any measure, the city made a good deal on this property." With this type of thinking, who knows what other "good deals" the council will enter into on its taxpayers' behalves?

To the editor: My mouth dropped when I read the paragraph in the Oct 18 issue about Rep. Tim Walberg's effort to repeal the "death tax." I don't know whether the words are those of the Chelsea Standard or Walberg himself, but the statement that "the death tax rate will climb from 0 percent to 55 percent in 2011, and death will once again become a taxable event" is completely and deliberately misleading.

I am not debating the merits of the tax, but the actual picture is much different from what is implied. In fact there is zero tax if an estate is transferred to a spouse or a charitable foundation. Also the tax is only on amounts greater than $2 million (an amount that is to increase to $3.5 million in 2009). The reason it is not technically incorrect to report that the tax rate will climb from 0 to 55 percent in 2011 is because Congress repealed the tax for the single year 2010 - probably so that opponents can kindle voter resentment by making such misleading and sensational statements.

Even the very term "death-tax" is suspiciously propagandistic - it is not death that is the taxable event, but rather the transfer of multi-million dollar estates to individuals other than a spouse.

Our take:

Distracted drivers need to be stopped

There are some things you just shouldn't do. They're the epitome of "no-brainers." You shouldn't knowingly pick up a live electrical wire. You shouldn't jump off a 1,000-foot cliff.

And, although too many of us will debate this next no-brainer, nobody should text message while driving.

A recent poll conducted by Harris Interactive said nine of 10 American adults believe that sending text messages or e-mail while driving is distracting and dangerous, and should be outlawed.

Similar numbers - 91 percent of adults - thought that drivers distracted by sending text messages or e-mail were as dangerous as drivers who had had a couple of drinks.

Yet the same poll indicated that although the majority saw the danger in text messaging while driving, two in three adults who drive and use text messaging admitted they had read text messages or e-mail while driving, and 57 percent admitted to sending text messages or e-mail from behind the wheel.

The practice is a death wish, not just for those texting behind the wheel, but everyone else on the road.

The New England Journal of Medicine in 1997 reported that the risk of having an accident while using a cell phone is the same as that while driving drunk. The journal claimed cell phone users increase their risk of accidents 400 percent to 500 percent. The study was conducted on drivers of all ages, not just teenagers.

A National Safety Council study determined that it isn't the phone that distracts drivers, it is the conversation. The distraction factor was just as strong when test subjects used hands-free phones that allowed them to keep both hands on the wheel. Subjects engaged in cell phone conversations missed twice as many traffic signals and took longer to react to those signals.

If talking on a cell phone while driving is that dangerous, tapping away with both thumbs while behind the wheel compounds the hazards innumerable.

Communities throughout Michigan have been adopting local distracted driving ordinances to address the problem. Many of those communities have made cell phone use while driving a secondary offense. Police must first stop drivers for a primary reason, such as speeding or running a red light, before they can then cite motorists for distracted driving with a cell phone.

But Michigan needs a single statewide law making the use of phones and texting while driving a primary offense. We call upon Lansing to finally address this issue with an umbrella law to make cell phone use and texting while behind the wheel of a vehicle a statewide primary offense. Lives depend upon such a law.

Friend of Chelsea librarian turns grief into legislation

On April 8, 2004, Christy Gutekunst was on her way to her job as a librarian at the Chelsea District Library. She stopped with traffic in a construction zone on I-94 near Jackson. A driver smashed into her car, and Christy became one of the more than 1,000 people killed each year in the nation's highway work zones.

State Rep. Pam Byrnes, D-District 52, recently introduced House Bills 4468 and 4469 that would extend penalties for all accidents occurring in a construction zone, regardless of whether a construction worker is involved.

She did so after Gutekunst's best friend, Sara Jean Nelson, lobbied state representatives to pass laws that would crack down on those who drive recklessly in work zones.

Nelson was at the Capitol recently testifying before the Transportation Committee on behalf of the bills.

"Everyone in a work zone deserves protection under the law from those whose actions victimize others," Nelson said. "I don't represent a company or an organization. I am first and foremost a friend, and I'm a work zone safety advocate because my friend Christy was killed in a construction zone."

"In 2005, four drivers died in construction-related crashes along a 10-mile stretch of I-94 between Jackson and Ann Arbor," Byrnes said. "Aggressive driving is an increasingly dangerous reality on Michigan highways, and we need more tools to stop it." According to court testimony, the driver of the truck that hit Gutekunst had the cruise control set at 68 mph and failed to slow for the approaching work zone.

The driver was convicted of negligent homicide and received a six-month jail sentence.

"There are stiff penalties in place for those who injure or kill construction workers in work zones," Byrnes said. "If Christy had been a construction worker, the man who killed her could have received up to 15 years in prison and a $7,500 fine. Our bills broaden the laws to apply to anyone driving recklessly who injures or kills another person in a construction zone."

According to the Michigan Department of Transportation, there were 6,323 work zone crashes, 1,751 injuries and 22 fatalities in 2004—twice as many deaths as the prior year.

"The Gutekunst family and I seek justice for those who can no longer be heard, a justice that involves punishment for drivers who choose to drive recklessly and negligently in work zones, turning themselves and their vehicles into deadly weapons," Nelson said.

HBs 4468 and 4469 are now out of committee and before the full House for a vote.

SCHIP alternative

U.S. Rep. Tim Walberg, R-District 7, recently joined House and Senate colleagues to announce the introduction of the "More Children, More Choices Act of 2007," a State Children's Health Insurance (SCHIP) alternative bill.

Their legislation reauthorizes SCHIP to cover children in families earning up to 200 percent of the poverty level, provides child health care tax credits to working families between 200 percent and 300 percent of the poverty level so they can afford to keep or buy private health insurance and encourages health care innovation at the state level.

"This legislation makes sure children in low-income families continue to receive health care by reauthorizing SCHIP and provides working families the ability to purchase quality, private sector health insurance for their children," Walberg said.

"This plan will benefit 312,637 Michigan children by making private health insurance more affordable for their families."

"As I have said throughout the debate, I am in favor of renewing the State Children's Health Insurance Program and this legislation, 'More Children, More Health Care,' returns the program back to its original intent of ensuring poor children receive health care and it also makes health insurance more affordable and more accessible for 10.5 million American middle class children."

"The American people are tired of the political games Congress is playing and this legislation will help guide a bipartisan compromise so we can finally deliver real results for hard-working American families, already struggling with higher prices for gas, tuition, and in my state, a job-killing $1.5 billion-dollar tax hike."

Assisting workers

State Sen. Mark Schauer, D-District 19, recently urged Congress to approve legislation that strengthens the Trade Adjustment Assistance program, which helps workers displaced by outsourcing. Congress is expected to consider the legislation sometime this week.

"Michigan and the 7th District have the best workers anywhere, but we need to make sure they are given the ability to compete fairly," said Schauer, who is running against incumbent Republican Congressman Tim Walberg.

"The resources and training provided in this proposal will help give Michigan workers and businesses a chance to succeed in this global economy."

The TAA reauthorization coming before Congress would address training needs, health care costs, and redevelopment initiatives for communities hurt by job loss. The new plan would also cover service workers who, like those in the manufacturing sector, have seen their jobs shipped overseas.

Employees of Housekeeping Associates will clean for cancer.

Cleaning for a reason

Housekeeping Associates of Livingston and Washtenaw counties clean for cancer

Housekeeping Associates put their best mop forward to help Cancer Patients.

Housekeeping Associates of Livingston and Washtenaw Counties recently announced they are the first housekeeping service in either county to join Cleaning For A Reason, a national non-profit charitable Foundation, that provides free and discounted housecleaning services to women undergoing cancer treatment.

"I believe it's important to help whenever and wherever I can," says Debra Shankland, owner of Housekeeping Associates. "Housecleaning falls through the cracks - you're fighting for your life and your normal priorities have been completely reordered. I'm happy to help make women's lives a little more normal, more comfortable while they're fighting the fight."

Debbie Sardone, who is the CEO of Buckets & Bows Maid Service in Texas, founded Cleaning For A Reason in 2006. In less than 12 months she has recruited over 85 companies nationwide to serve as local Chapters in over 24 U.S. States. Requests for services are made through their website, www.cleaningforareason.org and Call Center. Once cancer patients have been verified through their physician, they are matched with local Cleaning For A Reason Chapters who will do the actual housecleaning. The parameters of each cleaning is set by the individual cleaning companies.

Typically, they provide three free monthly cleanings, and three cleanings discounted by 45 percent to the cancer patient, which carries them through six months of treatment. Families and friends of cancer patients can also donate funds towards additional cleanings on the foundation's website.

"I think other local housecleaning companies will join once they know about this foundation, and I urge them to do so," says Shankland. "We're all touched by cancer. What we happen to do for a living can make a difference in the lives of women who are suffering with this disease. We are ready to help four women currently undergoing treatment in Livingston or Washtenaw county."

Housekeeping Associates has been providing residential and commercial housecleaning services in Washtenaw and Livingston Counties since 1980.

For more information on the Cleaning For A Reason Foundation, visit www.cleaningforareason.org or call: 877-337-3348. For local information on Housekeeping Associates, contact 1-734-741-8822 for Washtenaw County or email housekeepingassociates@yahoo.com.

Big Ten football worth three Super Bowls

Super Bowl XL in Detroit was a landmark economic event in 2006, but how big is the Big Ten? A study released last week shows Big Ten football will pump $177 million into the state economy this fall, more than triple the impact of the Super Bowl.

As part of a study benchmarking the impact of Michigan's University Research Corridor - an alliance of Michigan State, the University of Michigan, and Wayne State - Anderson Economic Group found 1.37 million people will attend football games at Michigan State University and the University of Michigan this fall.

"We only measured the net economic impact or the spending that would not otherwise occur in the state," said Patrick Anderson, principal and CEO of Anderson Economic Group. "These are very conservative estimates of the additional income Michigan residents will enjoy because of these events."

AEG, which provided the most conservative predictions of the Detroit Super Bowl's impact, has subsequently produced studies for numerous Fortune 500 companies as well as other sports events including the 2004 and 2006 Ryder Cups and 2006 Detroit Tigers playoff games. AEG estimates the 2006 Super Bowl had an impact of $56.2 million.

"We all enjoy speculating about the outcome of the Michigan-Michigan State game but no matter what happens on the field, the real winner is the state of Michigan," said MSU President Lou Anna Simon. "We compete on the field but off-the-field, the impact of our alliance is enormous." U-M President Mary Sue Coleman added: "As members of the University Research Corridor, U-M and MSU are powerful contributors to the state's economy. This latest study tells us the economic muscle of Wolverine and Spartan football games is truly a win-win for Michigan."

Simon, Coleman and Wayne State University President Irvin D. Reid will join together again Saturday, speaking to a combined tailgate party crowd prior to this week's big game in East Lansing.

Here is how the 2006 Super Bowl stacks up against the 2007 Big Ten:

- Out-of-state visitors: The 15 Spartan/Wolverine games being held in Michigan will attract 179,176 out-of-state fans this fall. Total attendance at the 2006 Super Bowl, football's biggest contest, attracted 59,500 out-of-state fans.

- In-state game goers: AEG estimates that non-student Michigan residents will buy 916,885 tickets for U-M/MSU games while student attendance for their 15 games will total 279,880. In 2006, 10,500 Michigan residents attended Super Bowl XL.

- New money brought into the state: The study notes that out-of-state attendees generate far more of an economic impact since most would not be here other than for the games. AEG estimated that the average out-of-state Super Bowl attendee spent $386 during their trip to Michigan while the average out-of-state Big Ten game attendee will spend $205 per game.

AN EAGLE EYE VIEW
Ramsey Excited About Start of Men's Hoop Season
Paid Advertisement

I love this time of year. After a long off-season that saw our players put in the necessary sweat on the track and in the weight room to prepare for the upcoming season, we recently began official practices for the 2007-08 season.

As a coach, this is both one of the most exciting times of the year as well as some of the most anxious. We spend all summer and the first two months of fall anticipating the beginning of practice when we can actually practice in the gym molding the young men who have chosen to represent Eastern Michigan. At the same time, regardless of the roster's makeup or how long you have coached, the anxiousness comes in the desire to see the product on the floor against outside competition.

If the first week of practice is any indication, the enthusiasm and optimism running through our program internally will carry over externally once the season begins. Our practice sessions to date have been crisp and competitive, borne of a roster that includes experience as well as youthful exuberance.

The experience begins on the perimeter where Carlos Medlock has recovered from the broken foot that cut short his sophomore campaign, giving him the opportunity to back up preseason prognostications which peg him as an All-Mid-American Conference first-team selection in the West Division.

Although Medlock's season ended 12 games early a year ago, others stepped up with significant contributions to help us nearly double our win total from the previous season. One of those wins was a first-round MAC Tournament victory over Ball State that included five three-pointers from returning guard Jesse Bunkley. Reaching the quarterfinals of the MAC Tournament for the first time in nine years, seeing all the Eagle support in Cleveland and witnessing firsthand how much excitement can be generated by our program, left our players with an incredible impression that fueled their off-season workouts.

I often have to temper my own optimism for our third year with this program despite the progress our players have shown on the floor and in the classroom. We graduated both seniors last April for the second straight year. The expectations for where we ultimately want to take this program with the knowledge that much work is yet to be done keeps me grounded, but does not temper my excitement.

A challenging non-conference schedule awaits, including trips to Notre Dame and Temple, as well as a home schedule filled with opportunities. Our first such opportunity is a special noon tip-off Friday, Nov. 9, in our season opener versus Brown.

That opener is EMU men's basketball's first Education Day where elementary and middle school students are invited to the game as well as taking part in a pregame educational program. Make sure to contact the EMU Athletics Marketing and Promotions office (487.5642 for further details. We look forward to seeing everybody at the Convo.

Charles E. Ramsey is in his third season as the head coach of the Eastern Michigan University men's basketball team. Ramsey is an Ypsilanti native and an EMU graduate.

'I guess I just got hooked on cows'

New farmhand helps take care of Huehl dairy herd

By Edward Freundl
Staff Writer

The calves are lethargic; they are not eating well; most of them have runny noses.

The most pitiful of them wander dazedly around the barn, issuing a shallow cough every few moments.

Fortunately their caretaker is with them, comforting and calming them with her gentle touch and whispered words.

Rachel Girbach does what she does best, keeping her beloved calves quiet before the veterinarian injects the dozen sick young cows with antibiotics to treat a respiratory ailment.

"She's real good with the cattle — she loves those calves," said Jerry Huehl, who hired Girbach almost two months ago to help out with the morning milking for his dairy operation at Huehl Acres.

Fortunately for Jerry and his brother and farming partner Denny Huehl, Girbach has devoted almost half her life to working with cows.

"I've been working with cows for 13 or 14 years," said Girbach. "When I was growing up in Saline, our neighbors had a dairy farm and we'd go over and play with them."

"I guess I just got hooked on cows."

After spending so much time at her neighbors' farm, they decided to put her on the payroll.

She worked "for three or four years" at the Solowchuk Farm on Ann Arbor-Saline Road, which is now a golf course.

After that, Girbach said, she began working for Marcus Bristle on Pleasant Lake Road, and has continued there for 10 years.

She also works weekends at the Smith Farm in Milan.

"I just like cows; I like to be around them," Girbach said.

Although these are all technically "part-time" jobs, sometimes farm tasks require a little flexibility.

"Sometimes it's more than 40 hours, sometimes it's less," she said.

Handle with care

For somebody who was never even in 4-H as a youngster, Girbach's affection for the half-ton milk manufacturers is apparent — but it wasn't always so.

"At first I was scared, but now I like them," she said.

Girbach said there isn't one particular part of working with cows that she likes more than any other, but she has shown an aptitude for keeping an eye on the health of the herd.

"I like milking, I like to take care of the babies, and I like to do herd health by making sure they're getting taken care of," Girbach said.

"They are our money producer, so you've got to make sure you're taking care of them."

She ensures their bedding is clean, does the artificial insemination breeding and feeds the calves a special diet.

"I feed them a powdered supplement mixed with water, called 'replacer,'" she said.

"They get milk for the first day or two, then they are on replacer until we wean them, which is about eight weeks."

While the Huehls identify their cows by numbered ear tags, Girbach takes a slightly different approach that reflects her attachment.

"I like to get to know the cows, so I gave them all names," she said.

Dr. Kara Salek Hieber (right) administers antibiotics to one of about a dozen calves that developed a respiratory infection recently at Huehl Acres. The veterinarian is assisted by Rachel Girbach, who spends most of her time working with the Huehls' dairy herd.

"I like to work with the same herd — that way you know if there might be something wrong."

Although the herd is her priority, she is also called on to help with other tasks when necessary, such as chopping corn and filling the silos. "It's really helped me since I don't have to do the morning milking," Jerry Huehl said. "The first day she started I was able to take a load of grain to Grass Lake, and that saved me a lot of time."

The doctor is in

Back in the barn, Girbach, Denny Huehl, farmhand Nelson Bollinger and Dr. Kara Salek Hieber finish treating the ailing calves.

Dr. Hieber, a partner in veterinary practice with Dr.

Jeff Messman, sums up the almost human-like symptoms of the viral infection the calves are experiencing.

"Their immune system takes care of the virus, and we treat the secondary infection with antibiotics," Hieber said. "We see it this time of year; we go through a lot of respiratory drugs."

The recent drastic swings in weather conditions between hot and cold hasn't helped either, the doctor noted.

Next up was a cow that was suffering from rare complications due to a stillborn calf. "She aborted a calf about a month early a week ago, we're not sure why, and she is retaining the placenta and not milking well either," Denny Huehl said. "It doesn't happen very often — if we

Adopt-A-Farm: The Series

Heritage Newspapers is partnering with the Washtenaw County Farm Bureau in a program known as "Adopt-A-Farm," which focuses on operations at one local farm, Huehl Acres.

The series follows brothers Jerry and Denny Huehl throughout the year to bring you in-depth stories to raise public awareness about the challenges faced by farmers in an increasingly technological society.

The monthly series will focus on the challenges, goals and tasks the Huehls face throughout the year.

NEXT MONTH: A trip up to the elevator.

get one a year it would be a lot," he added. "We'll give her some antibiotics and see how that goes."

A special event occurred on the Huehl farm on Sept. 15: the birth of twin calves.

It is about as rare among cows as among humans, according to Denny Huehl, with one important distinction. "With twins, when one's a bull and the other's a heifer, she won't reproduce" when she reaches breeding age, he said.

Fortunately for the Huehls, both of these twins are females.

True to form, Girbach took the twins under her wing, and at the age of about six weeks, "Chloe" and "Precious" are a healthy 75 pounds apiece.

It's just one more way Girbach shows what is important to her.

"You have to be at the cow's convenience, you have to meet her needs," she said.

"That's my main priority: making sure they're number one."

PRESS

printed paper into neat little "sections."

"Each section is 48 pages, and it's put together by sewing or gluing," Seagram said.

The sections travel up a conveyor that stacks them, and sends them over to the trimmer, which cuts the excess margins down to the size of the finished page.

The final process is attaching the cover to the book, journal or magazine.

"We can do paper covers and case-bound; not many competitors do both," Seagram said.

"We do sewn books here as well."

According to Seagram about half of Sheridan's customers are publishers of scientific, technical and medical journals, known as STM work; the next largest segment is printing for universities, at 35 percent; and the rest is divided among trade work and miscellaneous independent publishers.

"We have done some Sleeping Bear Press books," he said, noting another Chelsea connection.

Sheridan can accommodate orders of 500 to 50,000 copies, but according to Pressroom Supervisor Kevin Preston, the average print run is about 2,000 copies, which the new press can complete in about seven minutes.

"It runs at a top speed of 1,500 feet per minute, and can print 23,000 sections per hour," Preston said.

As big as it is, computerized controls make it possible for two people to operate it.

The company sent three employees to England to test the press when it was built.

Then it was disassembled, shipped here and rebuilt in the plant, after making space in the pressroom by moving some warehouse inventory.

Another three weeks of testing and trial runs ensued, and the new press was "christened" Oct. 8 in a ceremony attended by company and local government officials.

Sheridan decided on a fourth Timson press due to familiarity and reliability.

"We have a history with Timson; we are familiar with their technology and their fit into our business," Seagram said. "Many of the medium-sized book printers throughout the world also use them."

Added Preston: "We've had one (the same size) for 10 years and never had any trouble with it. If you take care of them, they have a life expectancy of 40 or 50 years."

To ensure that longevity, Preston added, the company has a regular maintenance schedule of four hours per week.

The presses, like the employees, are working overtime these days.

The 250 employees at the East Industrial Drive building are working three shifts, seven days a week, and plans call for the pressroom, warehouse and offices to undergo another major expansion in the coming months.

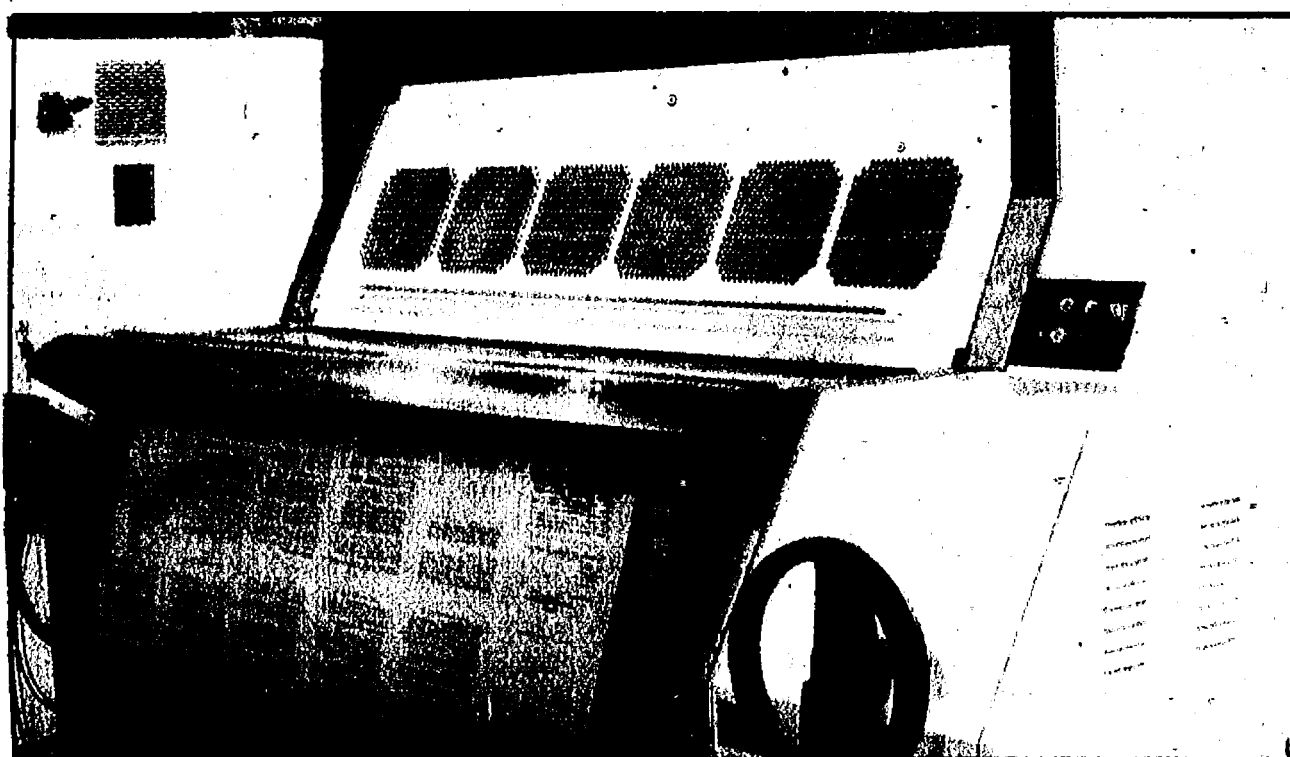

Seagram said the 180 employees at the Jackson Road facility will be brought over to Chelsea as soon as the expansion is completed; however, it's all contingent on the sale of the Jackson Road facility.

It all bodes well for Chelsea, and is another economic success story that this area and its residents can be proud of.

"We feel very good about choosing this facility to consolidate in," Seagram said.

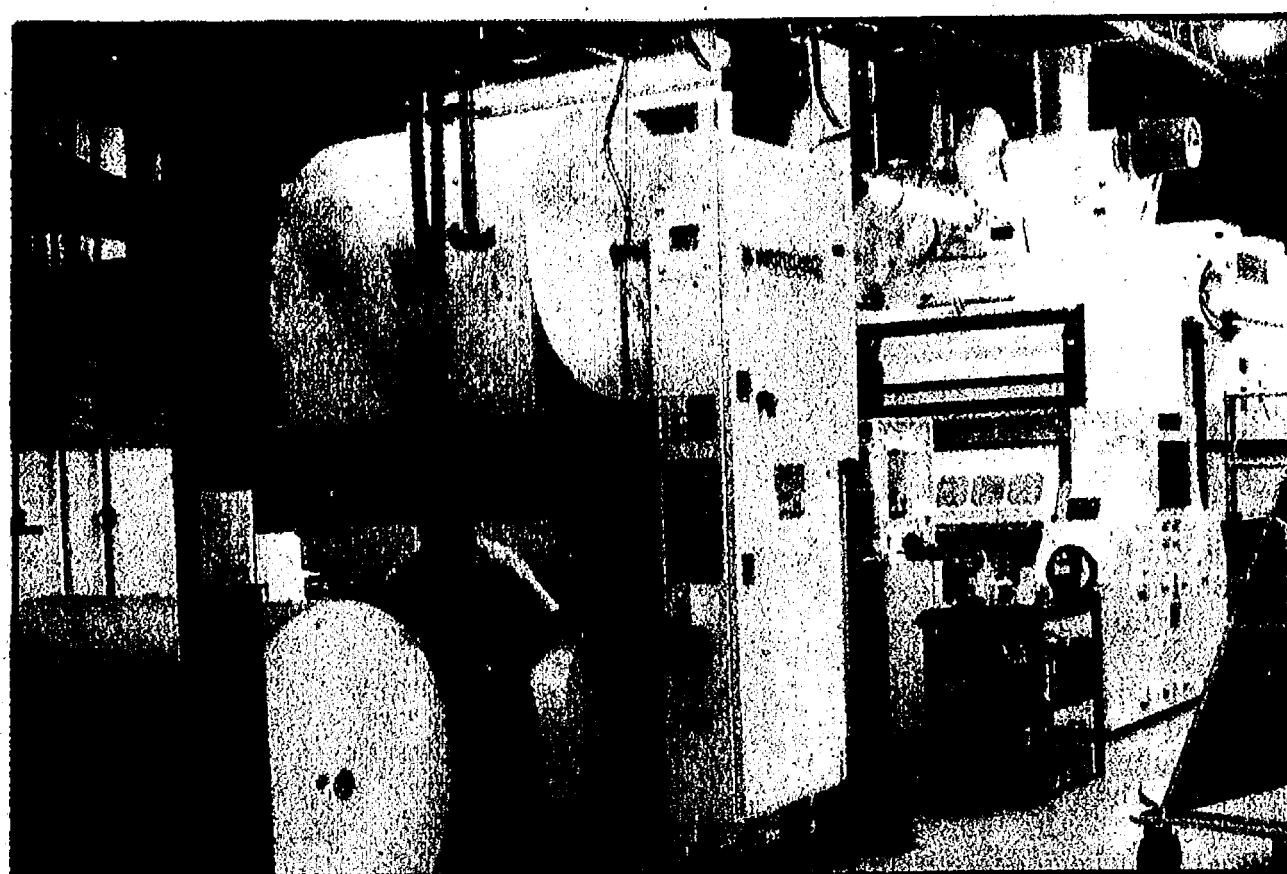

"We have a good relationship with the city; they are very supportive of our plans for growth."

"It's a good partnership."

Assistant press operator Scott Burkhardt (upper right) loads rolls of paper onto the new Timson printing press at Sheridan Books in Chelsea. The new press and related equipment, covering approximately 60 feet of floor space, represents a total investment of about $5 million when coupled with an expansion of about 25,000 square feet of warehouse space.

My AP government teacher gave us an extra credit opportunity the other day that got me thinking about the significance of doing selfless acts for others. She asked us to write something about our time at CHS that meant something to us in a good way.

I could have written about a plethora of different things, but I chose to write about one thing that had happened to me that morning.

My second semester English teacher from my freshman year, John Zainea, holds something he calls "les jeunes" (or "the youth" in French) every Friday morning. He asked a group of seniors to bring breakfast and their minds to his room so that we could talk about whatever we liked, and start off our Friday with some good karma. I happened to join the group a little late (I've had morning swim practice every day up until last week), but it didn't stop me from appreciating what he had set up for us. It was an opportunity to get to know my friends a little better before I left them for good.

We didn't talk about anything profound or extremely significant, but that donut and coffee left me filled with the good that comes from thoroughly enjoying something simple.

There are times that walking through the halls at CHS can be very aggravating. I've heard more than I want to of the prejudices some students have for others. It's disheartening.

However, lately I've seen the good outweigh the bad. I've witnessed students holding doors open for others or picking up fallen books—something that has come to be considered old-fashioned but appreciated nonetheless. If I'm counting right, CHS has had over 20 fund-raisers this year—all for people or causes outside of the high school.

This year I've heard more compliments given out to random acquaintances than I've heard in all my four years at CHS. Whether you believe it or not, telling someone they look pretty that day, or that they did a good job at their soccer game last night, or congratulating them on being runner of the week for cross country—good things are coming from the mouths of this town's students. I hope no one will tell you differently, but if they do—remember that you heard straight from the horse's mouth that we at CHS have a tendency to be pretty incredibly kind.

Something people would be surprised to know about you: My wife and I live on a horse farm with our 11 horses. When I'm not teaching I am a farm caretaker and an assistant to an Equestrian Instructor, my wife.

Most influential person in your life (and why): Deb Overbey. She taught me that everyone deserves respect and when given responsibility people rise to the occasion with their best efforts.

Quote to live by: I'm Third

What do you like most about teaching? The daily feeling that anything can and will happen.

What do you like least about teaching? Tardies

What is the most challenging part of teaching? Keeping track of tardies

What are some of the goals you set for students? Have initiative to become autonomous and a self-advocate.

How do you handle a disruptive student? Sarcasm when it's appropriate. Most students, given the perspective, realize that disruptive behavior is ridiculous and unproductive. Students soon appreciate that being productive will allow them to reach their goals to ensure success.

How do you handle a student who doesn't focus well? I tend to ask frequent incremental questions so that a task doesn't seem so overwhelming. I give them a "Chunk" then I give them time to "Chew" it, before I give them another chunk.

What do you tell parents about being involved in their children's education? I feel that parents play a vital role in their child's education. I only see their child 58 minutes per day. That time is then in a 30:1 ratio of students to teacher. Parents can impact their children on a 1:1 basis every day.

Are students feeling more pressure to succeed today? Our economy must compete globally. It is harder today than in past decades to be the leader in every economic, academic, or political arena.

Walk us through a typical day for you?

Get up at 5 a.m.

Feed my 8-month old daughter. Laugh and talk with her.

To work by 7:15 a.m. Relax for 15 minutes and get the classroom in order. 7:30 - 8 a.m. Help students during zero hour

Teach integrated science, have fun!

Teach conceptual physics, Have PHun!

10:14 - 11:14 a.m. Crank out as much grading as possible, set-up labs, write emails, call parents, make copies and call my wife.

Teach conceptual physics, Have PHun!

Teach geometry, Have several degrees of fun!

Teach integrated science, Have fun!

3:00 - 3:30 p.m. Wrap up the day and send out any pressing emails. Go pick up my daughter and start the farm chores!

How has your job changed over the years? It has gotten more demanding and more rewarding each year.

What do you like most about teaching in Chelsea? The support from the community, the staff and the administration.

What makes the Chelsea school district unique or special? Chelsea students feel that they should succeed. This initial self-belief is priceless for student. I believe that is self-confidence comes from Chelsea's past traditions and high expectations to be the best in every endeavor.

Chelsea Co-op Fall Auction Gala Nov. 11

The Chelsea Children's Cooperative Preschool is getting ready to bring back one of its major events, the Fall Auction Gala. This year's auction will be held at 3 p.m. on Sunday, Nov. 11, at the St. Mary Parish Hall on Old U.S. 12 in Chelsea. The auction took a break for a few years, while the Co-op explored other fund-raising opportunities.

"People kept asking, 'when are you going to do it again?'" said Michele Mullens DeGraff, the Co-op's Ways and Means Chair. "So, we decided to give them what they want."

The Co-op's Ways and Means Committee has been gathering items from area businesses and Co-op families. These items are as diverse as a trip to the Ann Arbor Hands on Museum with beloved former Co-op teacher Janie Brooks to signed sports memorabilia. Other items of interest include artwork, handmade items and a birthday party at the Chelsea Fire Station. Items will be sold both at live and silent auction.

"There has been an overwhelming response from the community" said Meagan Westcott, co-chair of the event. "Thanks to the generosity of our donors, there will be something for everyone to bid on."

"We are very excited to have David Helmer serving as our auctioneer," DeGraff said. "He's brought us so many good ideas, and even some unique items to sell."

Helmer is the current chairman of the Michigan State Auctioneers Association, and a past winner of several auction competitions. Helmer will conduct the live auction portion of the event and act as master of ceremonies.

This year's theme is "Wear Your Best Hats and Jewels." The idea was inspired by an annual event held by the Belle Isle Botanical Society.

"Every year the Society holds a garden party, and the ladies are asked to 'wear your best hats and jewels,'" explained DeGraff. "We thought we could do that too, except our hats and jewels will be made by our kids, instead of Tiffany's."

No child in Co-op? "No problem," says DeGraff, "the public is more than welcome, and we can even set people up with the hats and jewels."

The Co-op is a non-profit, independent cooperative pre-school. Its mission is to introduce children to learning through play. The Co-op employs one teacher and an aid and depends on its member families for all Children making their creations for the auction include teacher Courtney Aldrich, April Montoye, Ella Diab and Isobel Alford.

A taste of the coconut

Mrs. Locks and Mr. Ticknor combined their 6th grade Skills classes to read "The Cay," by Theodore Taylor. In the book, Phillip and Timothy were stranded on a small cay in the Caribbean. However, there were coconuts. And what does coconut meat taste like? What about coconut milk? On Oct 9 Mrs. Locks brought in two coconuts and students scraped the meat out of the shells and drank the milk. James Gaken (left) eats sweetened shredded coconut. Kurt Koss and Devin Hogan (above) scrape the meat out of the shells, while Matthew DeGraff (back) and Jacob LeBlanc look on. Dani Slinder (upper left) tastes coconut milk.

Dorothy I. Rohde Lewiston

Dorothy I. Rohde of Lewiston passed away peacefully on Oct. 28, 2007 at Aspen Ridge Retirement Center in Gaylord. She was 87.

She was born on Nov. 3, 1919 in Manitowoc, Wisc., the daughter of Paul and Amanda (Jens) Sehloff. Dorothy graduated from Mishicot High School in 1937. She then worked at the Mirro Aluminum Goods Mfg. Co. in Manitowoc. During World War II, she worked at the Manitowoc Ship Building Co. in Manitowoc and Burroughs Adding Machine Co. in Plymouth.

On April 29, 1944, Dorothy was united in Holy Matrimony to Gilbert B. Rohde in Manitowoc, Wisc. After her marriage to Gilbert, they moved to Plymouth and later to a farm in Livonia. She and her family then moved to Base Line Lake in Dexter. Gilbert preceded her in death on Oct. 8, 1988. She moved to Lewiston in 1999. After moving to Livonia, Dorothy drove a school bus for the Livonia Public Schools and later for the Dexter Public Schools where she retired in 1983. Throughout her life, she enjoyed camping, fishing, traveling, reading, arts and crafts, and bird watching. Dorothy was a life member of the Myron H. Beals American Legion Auxiliary of American Legion Post 32 in Livonia. She also was a member of Bethlehem Lutheran Church in Lewiston. Dorothy will be remembered by her family and friends for her enduring love and strong devotion to family, her love of wildlife, especially birds, and her exceptionally strong faith in God.

Dorothy is survived by a daughter, Sharon Parker (Ron) of Rives Junction; a son Wayne (Karen) of Brandon, S.D.; and a son Timothy (Carol) of Lewiston; a sister Grace Carstens of Manitowoc, Wisc.; a sister-in-law, Bernadine (Bernie)

Sehloff, seven grandchildren; six great-grandchildren; and several nieces, nephews, and cousins. Dorothy is also survived by her beloved cat, Whiskers, her dear companion for nearly 15 years since she was rescued as an abandoned kitty by her four youngest grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by her parents, Paul and Amanda Sehloff; her husband, Gilbert; a brother, Vernon Sehloff; a grandson, Lloyd Rohde, and a step-great-grandson, Johnathon Fulcher.

The funeral service for Mrs Rohde will be held 11 a.m. Friday, Nov. 2, 2007 at Bethlehem Lutheran Church in Lewiston. A viewing will be held from 3 to 8 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 1, 2007 at Green Funeral Home, in Lewiston. Interment services will be held on Nov. 3, 2007 at Glen Eden Memorial Park Cemetery in Livonia at 11:30 a.m. Memorials may be made to Bethlehem Lutheran Church, Hospice of Michigan or Montmorency Council on Aging. Chelsea Standard / Dexter Leader Sports Editor Don Richter goes beyond the final scores.

November nuttiness is just beginning

Most sports enthusiasts have heard of March Madness. It's the time of year when high schools throughout the state gear up for state championship runs in multiple sports. It's a month of upsets, streaks and Cinderellas.

Well, I contend that November is arguably just a crazy and unpredictable as the madness which is March. November Nuttiness is a special time in Chelsea and Dexter. In most communities, November is simply the month after the World Series, but in Chelsea and Dexter, it's a time to make a dash toward a state title.

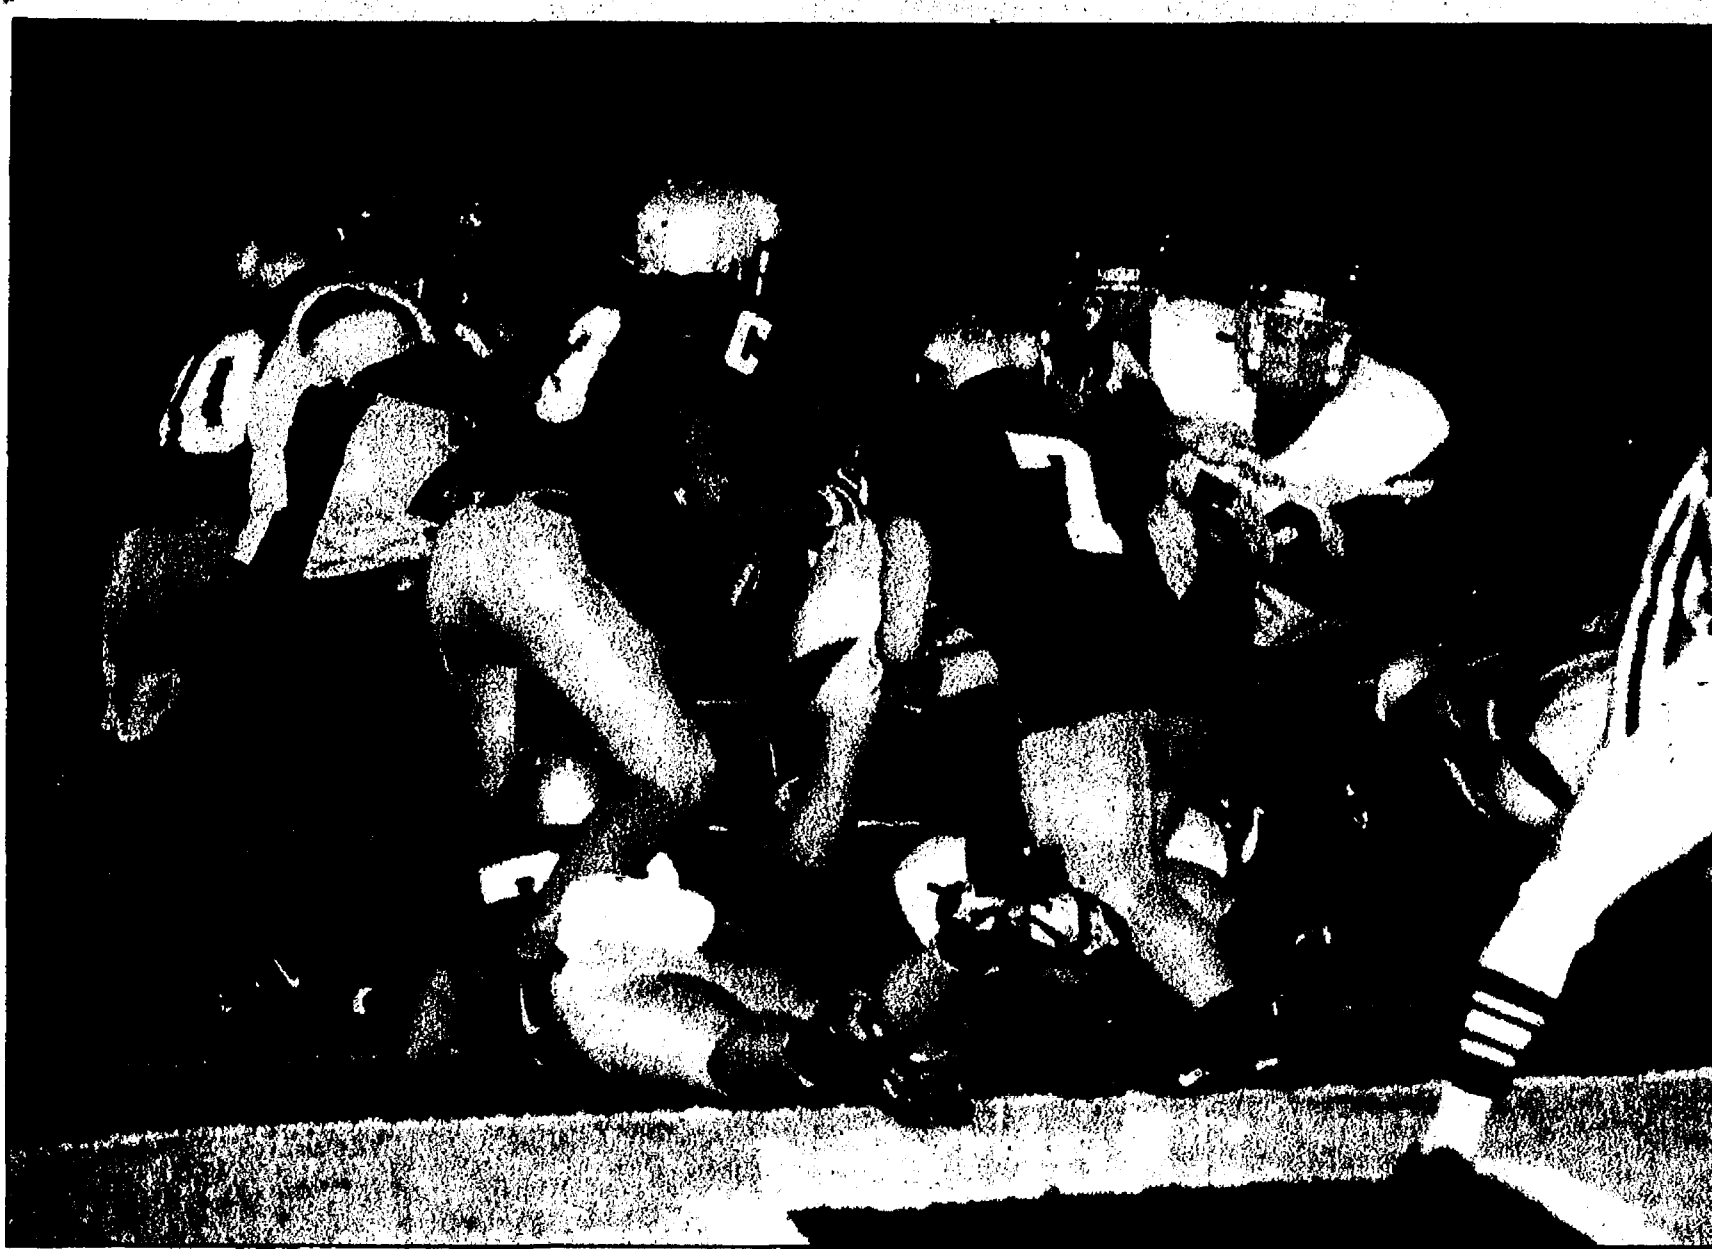

Over in Dexter, the Dreadnaughts will run for their sixth straight boys' cross country state championship Saturday at Michigan International Speedway. If Dexter is able to raise the state cross country hardware, it would be a record of excellence never achieved in the Lower Peninsula. No school has ever won six consecutive cross country state championships. The Dreadnaughts' girls' squad, fifth last year, will also look to claim a state championship this year. Chelsea's boys' team qualified for the state meet and appears primed for a top-10 finish this season.

Also in Dexter, at press time the boys' soccer team is in the midst of gunning for its second straight state championship. The Dreads played East Lansing in the Division 2 state semifinals last Wednesday in Fenton. If successful against the Trojans, last year's state runner-up, Dexter would play the winner of Grand Rapids Forest Hills Eastern-Hudsonville Unity-Christian in the state championship Saturday at East Kentwood.

In girls' swimming and diving, Dexter and Chelsea look to make a splash at the state finals Nov. 16 through 17. The Dreadnaughts, state runner-up last season, will compete in the Division 2 state meet. The Bulldogs, 15th at last year's Division 2 state meet, will participate in Division 3 this season.

In volleyball, both Dexter and Chelsea are beginning their quests for state championships. Last year, the Bulldogs wore the Cinderella slipper advancing all the way to the Class B state

Chelsea overpowers Tecumseh

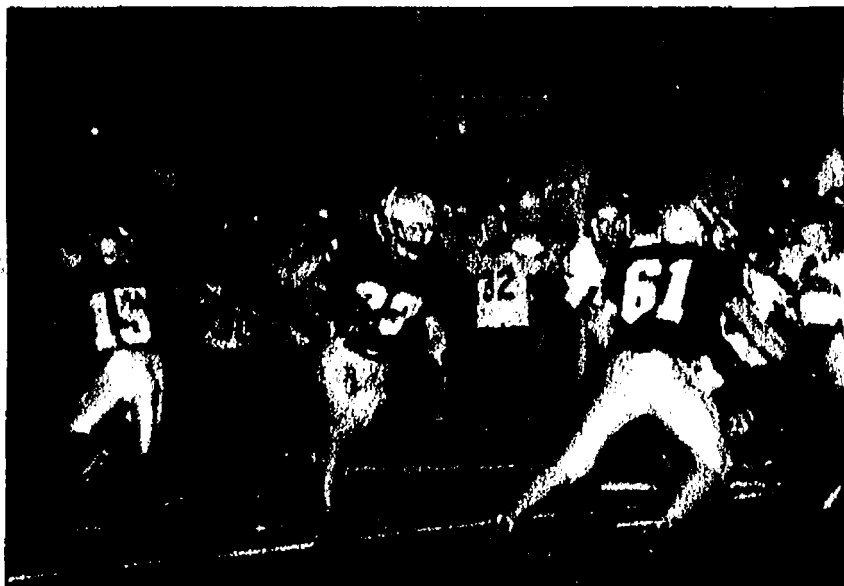

By Don Richter

To capture a football state championship, a team must win five consecutive games.

Last Friday night, Chelsea recorded win No. 1 in its quest for a Division 3 state title, defeating visiting Tecumseh 46-14 in a first round district match-up at Jerry Niehaus Field.

The Indians (6-4) came into the contest on a six-game winning streak. Tecumseh's last loss was against the Bulldogs 41-28 in Week No. 3.

The Indians, who use a two tight end, full house backfield power offense, had been running over opponents the last few weeks of the regular season. In its final three regular season games, Tecumseh had scored 72, 44, and 52 points in victories over Bulldog senior Nick Avila receives a block from senior lineman Joe Scott (61) in last Friday's district opener against Tecumseh.

Ypsilanti Lincoln, Temperance Bedford and Monroe Jefferson.

Against Chelsea, however, the Indians were bottled up all night. Offensively, the Bulldogs (10-0), ranked No. 1 in the state in Division 3, scored on their first seven possessions of the ballgame, forcing Tecumseh to play catch-up throughout the contest.

"We played very well," said Chelsea coach Brad Bush. "The guys wanted to prove a point tonight. We didn't change our approach, we didn't change our game plan, but we felt like seeing them (Tecumseh) a second time would help us, and it did. I was very proud of the way we prepared and the way we played."

Despite the season-ending loss, Tecumseh first-year coach Jason Mensing remained upbeat after the game.

"We had a great year," he said. "The better team won tonight. Top to bottom, Chelsea has a great program. They do things well. Our goal is to emulate that. We're on step one of that process."

To begin the contest, Chelsea sophomore Nick Hill scored on a 12-yard run.

State bound!

Bulldogs qualify for finals

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

Chelsea's boys' cross country team finished second at last Saturday's Division II regional at Haslett.

The Bulldogs ended up with 77 points.

Winning the 15-squad regional was five-time defending state champion Dexter with 27 points.

Lansing-area powers rounded out the top six, with Eaton Rapids third with 98 points, East Lansing fourth with 130 points, St.

Johns fifth with 157 points and DeWitt sixth with 170 points.

"What a race," said Chelsea coach Eric Swager. "We came in on the verge of elimination." Based on times, we were the fourth or fifth best team. I told our guys that we needed to run the perfect race, and they did. I gave them the place they needed to be in at the mile, two (mile) and finish. We moved up throughout and sealed the deal with a sizzling last half-mile."

With its placing, Chelsea qualified for the Division II state meet 2:30 p.m. Nov. 3 at Michigan International Speedway.

Leading the Bulldogs was August Pappas who finished sixth with a lifetime best and Chelsea freshman record of 16:39.

"August was unbelievable, showing great toughness," Swager said.

Peter Wilke was ninth in a personal best 18:43 for the Bulldogs.

"Peter went wild, charging through the field with a 22-second personal best,"

Chelsea's boys' cross country team finished second at last Saturday's Division II regional meet at Haslett. With their placing, the Bulldogs qualified for the state final Saturday at Michigan International Speedway.

Swager said. "This is exactly what we needed on this day."

Teddy Eyster crossed the line 15th in a lifetime best 18:54.

"Teddy was tough, as usual," Swager said. "He earned his second straight all-region medal. In spite of being sick, Teddy showed remarkable moxie."

Nick Hewitt placed 16th

Tennis

Stiles earns team MVP

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

Chelsea's boys' tennis team held its end-of-season banquet Oct. 23.

The Bulldogs had an impressive year this season winning their fifth straight Southeastern Conference White Division title, their fifth consecutive regional championship and finishing 12th in the state at the Division 3 final in Kalamazoo.

Named Chelsea's MVP was Josh Stiles. The senior No. 1 singles player for the Bulldogs advanced to the state semifinals before losing to the eventual champion.

"No surprise Josh was the MVP," said Chelsea coach Rahn Rosentreter. "It is hard not to give the award to the best tennis player I've seen in my 20 some years at Chelsea. Not only did he lead us with four league titles, he was a three-year

All-State player. No Chelsea player has ever done that."

Receiving the Coaches Award was senior Wes Fritzemeier.

"In his three years on varsity, no individual has given more," Rosentreter said. "He has played with numerous doubles players through the years and made every one of them a better player. If you knew Wes, it was always his fault, he was the one who needed work, not his partners."

Rosentreter said it was an enjoyable season.

"We hit all our goals," he said. "We won the region for the fifth straight time, though it was a little harder this time, but we got it done. We were able to accomplish all of this because of a great group of guys who worked extremely hard."

Rosentreter said Chelsea's difficult schedule also helped the Bulldogs reach their goals this year.

"We played the Division 1 and Division 4 state champs, along with six other state qualifying teams," he said.

Rosentreter said off the court Chelsea received plenty of help this season, as well.

"We had a great group of parents that continued to amaze me with their support," he said. "They were always there."

Rosentreter said it was nice to see his group of seniors go out on top.

"While Josh and Wes, along with Chris LaDuke have been there before, it was very rewarding to watch as Zach Gier and Mike Kozma became regional champs, while Teddy Eyster also joined them as league champs."

in a personal best 16:56 for Chelsea. His time was 20 seconds better than his previous best clocking.

"Nick was the key to the whole race," Swager said. "We knew that if we got four runners in the top 20, a state trip was sealed. When Nick decisively moved up through the field during the second mile, the crowd went wild."

Jared Gentz finished 31st in a personal best 17:27.

"Jared improved more than 20 places from his pre-regional rank and dropped an incredible 37 seconds from his best," Swager said.

Mark Smith placed 33rd in a personal best 17:31, while Geoff Smith-Woolams was 51st in 18:14 for the Bulldogs.

"In all, the top six runners each ran lifetime bests by a combined 1:40," Swager said. "We shocked the Lansing-area schools with our performance. This is the best regional meet performance ever for one of my Chelsea teams. I couldn't be happier about how these guys progressed."

Cross Country

Dawgs sixth at regionals

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

Chelsea's girls' cross country team finished sixth overall at last Saturday's Division II state regional meet in Haslett.

The Bulldogs recorded 237 points. Only the top three squads advanced to the Division II state meet Nov. 3 at Michigan International Speedway.

Winning the 15-team meet was East Lansing with 55 points.

Dexter was second with 78 points, while Jackson County Parma Western was third with 113 points. St. Johns was fourth with 131 points, while DeWitt was fifth with 147 points.

"I told the girls going in that the best we could hope for was sixth place if we ran real well," said Chelsea coach Pat Clarke. "We had four of our top girls run with injuries, but the others made up the difference and we finished sixth overall."

Leading Chelsea was freshman Samantha Newbound who placed 28th with a personal best time of 20:49.

"That was 34 seconds better than her previous best," Clarke said.

Sophomore Courtney Maher was 41st in 21:22 for the Bulldogs.

Senior Baillie Simpson finished 48th with a personal best clocking of 21:48. Her time was over one minute faster than her previous best.

Junior Nichole Hopp was 59th in 22:06, while senior Nikki Oberholtzer was 61st in 22:08, Taylor Heydlauff 65th in 22:25 and Julie Beaumont 74th in 22:38 for Chelsea.

"They all had strong runs despite a variety of nagging injuries," Clarke said.

Despite concluding their season, Clarke said he was pleased with the way the Bulldogs competed this year.

"These young ladies have worked very hard to achieve their team goals," he said. "I am very proud of their efforts this season."

Clarke said Chelsea grew a lot as a team this year.

semifinals before falling to eventual state runner-up Grand Rapids Christian 25-10, 25-14, 25-15. The Bulldogs also lost in the state semifinals in 2002. The Dreadnaughts, this season, have their best team since 2001, when Dexter reached the Class B state semifinals before falling.

Finally, in football, Chelsea takes on Adrian in a Division 3 state district final game 7 p.m. Friday at Jerry Niehaus Field. The unbeaten Bulldogs (10-0) are ranked No. 1 in the state in Division 3. Last year, Chelsea lost to Fowlerville in the regional final, two wins from a state title. Is this the year the Bulldogs finally capture a gridiron state championship?

Can Dexter cross country make state history?

Can Chelsea volleyball take that next step and reach the volleyball state final? Will Dexter's girls' swimming and diving team finally unseat Birmingham Groves and wear the Division 2 state crown?

Can Dexter's boys' soccer team win two straight titles? Stay tuned.

It should be fun.

Let the nuttiness of November begin.

Chelsea reaches Huron invite final

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

Chelsea volleyball participated in the Ann Arbor Huron Invitational last Saturday. The Bulldogs finished the tournament with an overall record of 1-5.

Chelsea lost in the Silver bracket final to Dexter 25-23, 15-25, 9-15.

The Bulldogs topped Milan in the Silver bracket semifinals.

In pool play, Chelsea lost to Highland Lakeland, Pontiac Notre Dame Prep, Ann Arbor Pioneer and Dexter.

Individually, junior Carolyn Olsen led the Bulldogs with 50 kills.

Sophomore Brittany Schmelz added 23 kills, while junior Zoe Suffety had 12 kills and nine aces for Chelsea.

Junior Megan Dunn had nine aces for the Bulldogs. On Oct. 23, visiting Chelsea lost to Temperance Bedford in three games 25-19, 25-19, 25-16.

Olsen led the Bulldog attack with 13 kills, while Schmelz had nine kills.

Dunn finished with a team-high 27 assists.

Chelsea next competes in Class B state district play at Milan. The Bulldogs will play the winner of Ida-Milan Friday at 6:30 p.m.

The district's other first round match-up is Erie-Mason against Monroe Jefferson. The winner faces Onsted Friday at 5 p.m.

The district final is Friday at 8 p.m.

Last year, the Bulldogs reached the Class B state semifinals before losing.

This season, the Class B state final is 6 p.m. Nov. 17 at Kellogg Arena in Battle Creek.

Chelsea senior James Connelly (left) and senior Brad Ratliff converge to tackle Tecumseh senior Troy Hill in last Friday's 46-14 win over the Indians. Tomorrow, the Division 3 No. 1-ranked Bulldogs (10-0) host Adrian (8-2) in the district final at 7 p.m.

Football

Familiar Adrian up next

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

Last Friday, Chelsea defeated Southeastern Conference White Division foe Tecumseh (8-4) 46-14 in a Division 3 first round state district game.

Tomorrow, the Bulldogs host Adrian (8-2), a member of the SEC's Red Division. Earlier this season, Chelsea defeated the Maples 21-10 in the season's fourth week.

Kickoff for the Division 3 state district final is 7 p.m. at Jerry Niehaus Field.

To reach the district final, the Maples defeated host Fowlerville (8-2) 30-14 last Friday. Last season, the Gladiators ousted the Bulldogs from the playoffs winning on a last-second touchdown in the regional final.

A traditional power, Adrian is a big and talented squad. Besides Chelsea, the Maples also lost to Division 1 state playoff qualifier Monroe (8-2) 21-7 in Week 9. In the SEC Red Division, Adrian finished first with a 3-0 overall record. The Maples beat Temperance Bedford 34-0, Ann Arbor Pioneer 28-22 and Saline 42-28 this season.

In contrast, the Bulldogs beat Bedford 34-7, Pioneer 30-16 and Saline 40-28 this year.

The Maples defeated Tecumseh in a wild shootout 44-42 in Week No. 2.

Leading Adrian is slippery quarterback Brett Ohrman. The junior signal-caller is a double-threat, passing for 1,750 yards this year and running for 750 yards.

"He's like Fran Tarkenton back there," said Chelsea coach Brad Bush earlier this season when comparing Ohrman to the Hall-of-Fame Minnesota Vikings quarterback known for his scrambling ability.

While Ohrman is a handful for most defenses, the Maples also have one of the state's top junior running backs in Undra Peterson (6-foot-1, 180 pounds). The speedster has rushed for 750 yards this season.

Up front, Adrian looks to junior tackle Adam Barker

(6-3, 250) to anchor the offensive line.

On defense, junior end Dylan Farrington (6-5, 220) dominates in the trenches for the Maples.

Adrian coach Phil Jacobs said Farrington and the rest of Adrian's defense would have its hands full with Chelsea's high-octane offense.

"Their ability to break a big play at anytime concerns me," he said. "But we are playing great team defense and our kids believe in each other."

Jacobs said the key to the game would be the rushing attack for both teams.

"In order to win this game, we must be able to run the football, capitalize on our opportunities and contain Nick Hill," he said. "That's not an easy task."

"But we're excited to be playing for a district championship against a great program."

For the Bulldogs, Hill (5-9, 175), a sophomore, leads the offense with 1,344 yards rushing on 205 attempts and 23 touchdowns. He's averaging 134 yards per game this season.

Passing-wise, Chelsea senior quarterback Jeff Adams (5-10, 165) is 64-of-113 for 848 yards passing with seven touchdowns. He's thrown six interceptions this year. On the ground, Adams has 482 yards on 85 carries with seven touchdowns.

Senior Chris Schmelz (5-9, 180) is Adams' favorite target with 19 receptions for 346 yards and four TDs. Senior Donny Riedel (5-11, 165) has 15 catches for 216 yards and two touchdowns, while Hill has 12 receptions out of the backfield for 128 yards and one score this season.

Along the offensive line, senior tackle Sam Birgy (6-3, 285) is a standout for the Bulldogs.

Defensively, Chelsea senior Dean Roberts (6-3, 265) creates havoc along the line of scrimmage for opponents.

At linebacker, seniors Taylor Hopkins (5-10, 195), Stu Mann (6-2, 215) and James Connelly (5-11, 195) roam sideline to sideline making tackles for Chelsea.

In the secondary, junior Scott Rhodes (5-9, 155) is a playmaker for the Bulldogs.

On the year, Chelsea's defense has allowed 164 points, for an average of 16 points per game.

Offensively, the Bulldogs have scored 327 points, for an average of 32 points per outing this season.

This year, Chelsea has started quickly, outscoring opponents 94-20 in the first quarter.

With junior Michael Roberts' point after touchdown kick, the Bulldogs led 7-0 with 10:32 left in the first quarter.

On its next drive, Chelsea needed only four plays to go 72 yards scoring on senior quarterback Jeff Adams' seven-yard scamper. With Roberts' PAT, the Bulldogs increased their advantage to 14-0 with 4:42 remaining in the opening quarter.

In the second quarter, Adams brought the Chelsea crowd to its feet, racing around left end on a keeper and sprinting untouched 78 yards for a touchdown. Roberts' kick split the uprights giving the Bulldogs a 21-0 lead with 9:58 left in the first half.

The Indians responded as senior Troy Hill scored on a one-yard run. The extra point missed and Chelsea continued leading 21-6 with 2:02 remaining in the second quarter.

With 23 seconds left in the first half, senior Chris Schmelz scored on a 25-yard pass from Adams upping the Bulldogs' margin to 27-6 as the two teams entered the break.

"The difficulty in getting behind early (to Chelsea), is that they're so dang good," Mensing said. "They have skilled athletes and they can score on one play. Defensively, we didn't have an answer for that. They hit big home runs."

To begin the third quarter, junior defensive back Scott Rhodes picked off a Tecumseh pass giving Chelsea the ball at its own 41-yard line.

Three plays later, Nick Hill scored on a six-yard run giving the Bulldogs a 33-6 lead with 8:00 left in the third quarter.

On the Indians' next possession, senior linebacker Taylor Hopkins recovered a fumble giving Chelsea the ball at Tecumseh's 42-yard line.

Two plays later, senior Nick Avila scored on a one-yard run for a 39-6 Bulldog advantage with 6:00 remaining in the third quarter.

With 1:45 left in the third quarter, senior Mark Lahnlala scored on a six-yard run for the Indians. Lahnlala ran in the two-point conversion cutting Chelsea's lead to 39-14.

With 10:43 left in the fourth quarter, senior Justin Swarthout scored on a two-yard run up the gut. Tyler Zagazewski kicked the extra point for the night's final 46-14 margin.

Adams finished 4-of-6 for 68 yards passing. Rushing-wise he had 85 yards on two carries. Dakota Cooley was 1-of-1 for 33 yards for the Bulldogs.

Nick Hill led Chelsea with 193 yards on 12 attempts. Donny Riedel added 41 yards on one attempt.

Troy Hill was tops for Tecumseh with 147 yards rushing on 28 carries. Junior Zach Galloway had 100 yards on 20 tries.

Schmelz finished with three receptions for 56 yards to pace the Bulldogs.

As a team, Chelsea racked up 512 total yards of offense, including 411 on the ground. The Indians ended up with 348 total yards, with 340 yards coming by way of the run.

Tecumseh dominated the time of possession holding the ball for 33:32, while the Bulldogs had the ball for only 14:28. Chelsea was efficient in the red zone, scoring on 5-of-6 attempts.

Defensively, Rhodes led the Bulldogs with 11 tackles. Michael Roberts and James Connelly each added eight stops, while Dean Roberts and Hopkins each had seven tackles for Chelsea.

Lahnlala had five tackles to lead Tecumseh.

The Bulldogs will look for win No. 2 of the five needed for a state title hosting Adrian (8-2) 7 p.m. Friday in a Division 3 state district final.

Kids & the outdoors

Camp designed for families

By Mike Zielinski
Outdoors Writer

The weather is cooling. Most of the trees are done displaying their fall colors and are quickly evolving into the gray skeletons we'll be seeing until next spring.

In a few weeks, turkeys all over the country will be sacrificed and used to fill our already too large bellies during huge Thanksgiving dinners at grandma's house.

While other hunting seasons are coming to an end, the holiday shopping season opens for full-tilt action.

Unfortunately, many people in American and other nations will not be able to share in the Christmas traditions we love so well. They are too poor or otherwise disadvantaged to take care of themselves.

During the holidays it seems as if they also become too noticeable so, perhaps in guilt, we often dig into our pockets and give to charity, hoping it somehow reaches the unfortunate.

Another sign of the holidays are volunteers in front of many retailers, standing next to a red kettle and ringing a bell to get your attention. When I was a kid, these volunteers wore blue-and-red uniforms topped by bonnets for the ladies and a variety of military type headgear for men.

They were known as a multi-denominational Christian group and still are today.

Times change and so did the uniforms. Today most volunteers dress the same as you and I while working. These are the volunteers of the Salvation Army, which first used a kettle to collect funds for Christmas 114 years ago.

Today, the red kettle is a familiar part of the Christmas scene in communities across the United States. Donations at the kettle are one of the ways to enable this Army to continue doing the most good for the disadvantaged at Christmas — and throughout the year," an organization press release says.

The Salvation Army always has been family oriented, and recently, in hopes of igniting a love for nature and the outdoors in certain communities, the Army altered some of its programs at Camp Echo Grove in eastern Michigan.

The camp was designed to be used by families and children for outdoor fun like swimming, camping, boating, fishing, archery, climbing and shooting. Many can't afford much in terms of leisure activity and the Army makes places like Echo Grove Camp near Leonard available to them.

At a time when we are losing hunters and anglers, the Salvation Army offers a way to recruit them through its programs at Echo Grove Camp.

Situated on the northwest shore of Lakeville Lake in Addison Township, the camp is 107 acres, including wooded areas, waterfront and wetlands.

Established in 1921, Echo Grove provides myriad opportunities to experience nature.

Christina Gallop is manager for corporate relations and outdoor liaison for the Salvation Army Outdoors program and said she hopes donors realize how much the camp means to many families.

"We also recognize hunting and fishing as among real-life outdoor adventures," she said. "As a result, we are working with corporate folks like Cabela's and some of the biggest and oldest names in the outdoor world, like Safari Club International.

"We also will host several radiothons during the year to help raise money for our Camp. We are hoping that SCI and the Michigan Department of Natural Resources will offer a hunter safety program at the camp.

Echo Grove is able to serve many different types of groups. It has the ability to house and serve over 400 campers at one time while providing flexibility for multiple groups of any size.

Additional activities such as a 35-foot climbing tower, a high-ropes adventure course, team-building courses, a swimming pool, waterfront activities, volleyball, tennis courts, a gymnasium, hayrides, and nature trails also are available.

For outdoor clubs and associations looking for someplace to put their cash that also will benefit hunting and fishing in the future, this might be it.

When I served on the boards of several outdoor clubs, we always were looking for kids to send to one of the quality summer camps available. During some years, we had a hard time locating two kids.

At Echo Grove Camp, they'll find the kids.

The Salvation Army also does a lot of work with and for veterans of the country's armed forces. It's a big, worldwide organization.

DNR urges youth to head outside

If you are a baby boomer, or even older, you may fondly recall the all too common words of your mother and father to "Go outside and play."

Sneak in the house for more than 10 minutes and you've heard it again. Today, parents are more likely to say "You better stay indoors where I can keep an eye on you."

Children today spend less time outdoors than any previous generation. Kids between eight and 18 spend an average of 6.5 hours a day with electronic media. Obesity in children has increased from 4 percent in the 1980s to 20 percent in 2004. While 71 percent of adults report they walked or rode a bike to school, only 22 percent do today.

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources is extremely concerned about this trend.

Since 1980, the DNR has seen a 14 percent decrease in hunting license sales and a 22 percent decrease in fishing license sales. If fewer Michiganians are getting out to hunt and fish it has a direct impact on the DNR's budget which now, more than ever, must generate its own source of funding.

DNR Director Rebecca Humphries is a strong advocate of recruitment and retention programs and believes it is one of the department's top priorities. "New hunters and anglers, especially non-traditional users, must be brought into shooting, hunting and fishing activities," Humphries said. "This will strengthen the funding for conservation, broaden the diversity of participants and preserve Michigan's rich outdoors heritage."

Michigan's state forests and state parks provide a diverse selection of recreation and camping options and offer public access to four seasons of limitless outdoor fun.

Yet Humphries also recognizes that for many of today's youth, a leap from the couch to a tree stand may be a bit far. As the DNR looks at structuring conservation education programs in the future, it will offer a mix of opportunities for those ready to go on their first deer hunt and those wanting to sleep under the stars for the first time.

What all these opportunities will have in common is the same admonition we remember from childhood, "Go outside and play."

But the DNR also is not ignoring the fact that newer generations are almost hard-wired to technology from an early age — television, computer games, handheld games, etc. "That's why we are developing an interactive Web site for youth that will be educational and entertaining," said Kevin Fralley, DNR Education and Outreach manager. "But making it fun is only one piece of the puzzle. Much of the material will encourage kids to spend more time outdoors and give them and their parents ideas on things to do."

One of the DNR's strong foundations for getting kids outside has been its nature interpretive programs offered at eight state parks and two state fish hatcheries. Thousands of visitors each year are learning about nature from the spark provided by the DNR's frontline natural resource educators, the park interpreters who believe that making that outdoor experience fun and entertaining is key.

"The first step is getting more kids outside more often" said Jon Spieles, interpretive manager for northern Michigan. "We need to reverse the trend and make it comfortable and fun to be outside."

Taking a nice walk in a forest or having an easy canoeing experience might lead to another more confident step outdoors. The DNR is committed to assisting the public with these initial steps in the belief that they might lead to developing a new generation of outdoorsmen and outdoorwomen.

Senior 'Tag Sale'

Adult Learners goes independent

John Bohlender, president of the Board of Directors of the Chelsea Senior Center recently announced that as of Nov. 1, 2007 the Adult Learners Institute (ALI) has now become an independent organization.

ALI, which has been hosted and supported by the Chelsea Senior Center since its 2004 formation, has recently received its IRS Tax status as a nonprofit group and will now function independent of the Chelsea Senior Center.

Tina Patterson, director of the Chelsea Senior Center, is delighted at the success of ALI and the part the senior center has played in launching this new venture. "It is a win-win for everyone," Patterson said.

The Adult Learners Institute, whose mission is to provide a diverse community-based learning experience and camaraderie for adults as an Elderhostel Institute Network Lifelong Learning program, will continue to provide excellent courses for Chelsea-area residents at locations throughout the community.

Maurine Nelson, Chair of the ALI Board of Directors, thanks everyone at the Chelsea Senior Center for their support and for providing a home for ALI during their formation.

Anyone interested in more information about ALI may call 433-4225 or 433-0841. Correspondence for ALI may be addressed to 1163 S. Main Street, suite #255 Chelsea, Michigan 48118. Additional information maybe found on the ALI website at www.adultlearnersinstitute.org.

Waterloo hosts Christmas on the Farm

The Waterloo Area Historical Society takes a look at the ways a rural 1890's Michigan farm family celebrated the season with "Christmas on the Farm and at the Dewey School Museum" on Saturday, Dec. 1, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Sunday, Dec. 2, from Noon to 4 p.m. This re-creation of the holiday's traditions will include tours of the Farm Museum and Dewey School. Hand decorated greens, gifts and home-made baked goods will be for sale. Free refreshments and live music will be among the offerings for this homespun weekend.

At the farmstead, natural decorations will set the scene in the 10-room farmhouse, where costumed guides will recount the activities that might have taken place in each room at Christmas time. Long ago days on a Michigan farm will be brought to life once again as singers and musicians perform traditional holiday melodies. The savory scents of the season will fill the air as dinner is prepared in the warm farm kitchen, reviving memories of the folks who once occupied this historic farmstead.

Visitors will also be welcomed into the log house. The Gift Shop will offer items for sale to fill stockings and remind us of former lifestyles. Baked goods, jams, jellies, and other tempting treats will also be available. Wreaths, swags, and table centerpieces made of fresh greenery will be available for purchase in the Ice House. Be sure to visit the blacksmith working at the forge.

For information on Christmas on the Farm and Dewey School as well as directions to the event, call 517-851-7890 or 517-596-2254, or visit <http://www.waterloofarmmuseum.org>.

In search of socks

Chelsea's Carpenter out to help the homeless

By Sheila Purglove
Special Writer

Imagine having a tingling or itching sensation in your feet, with swelling, pain, and numbness.

The condition is called Trench foot - a common problem among soldiers in the First World War, who stood in cold water in the trenches on the Western Front. It also plagued troops serving in Vietnam, and British troops serving in the Falklands War in the early 1980s.

And it can plague the homeless who often are unable to change out of wet footwear. That's what Chelsea resident Dean Carpenter, a nurse practitioner who works two days a week at a homeless shelter in Detroit, sees on a regular basis.

Such a painful problem - and such a simple solution: dry socks.

Last year, Carpenter's neighborhood, Chelsea Ridge, responded to his request for socks by donating over 100 pairs to the shelter. Carpenter has a box out on his porch again this year. "But this year, I would like to expand the sock drive to all of Chelsea," he says.

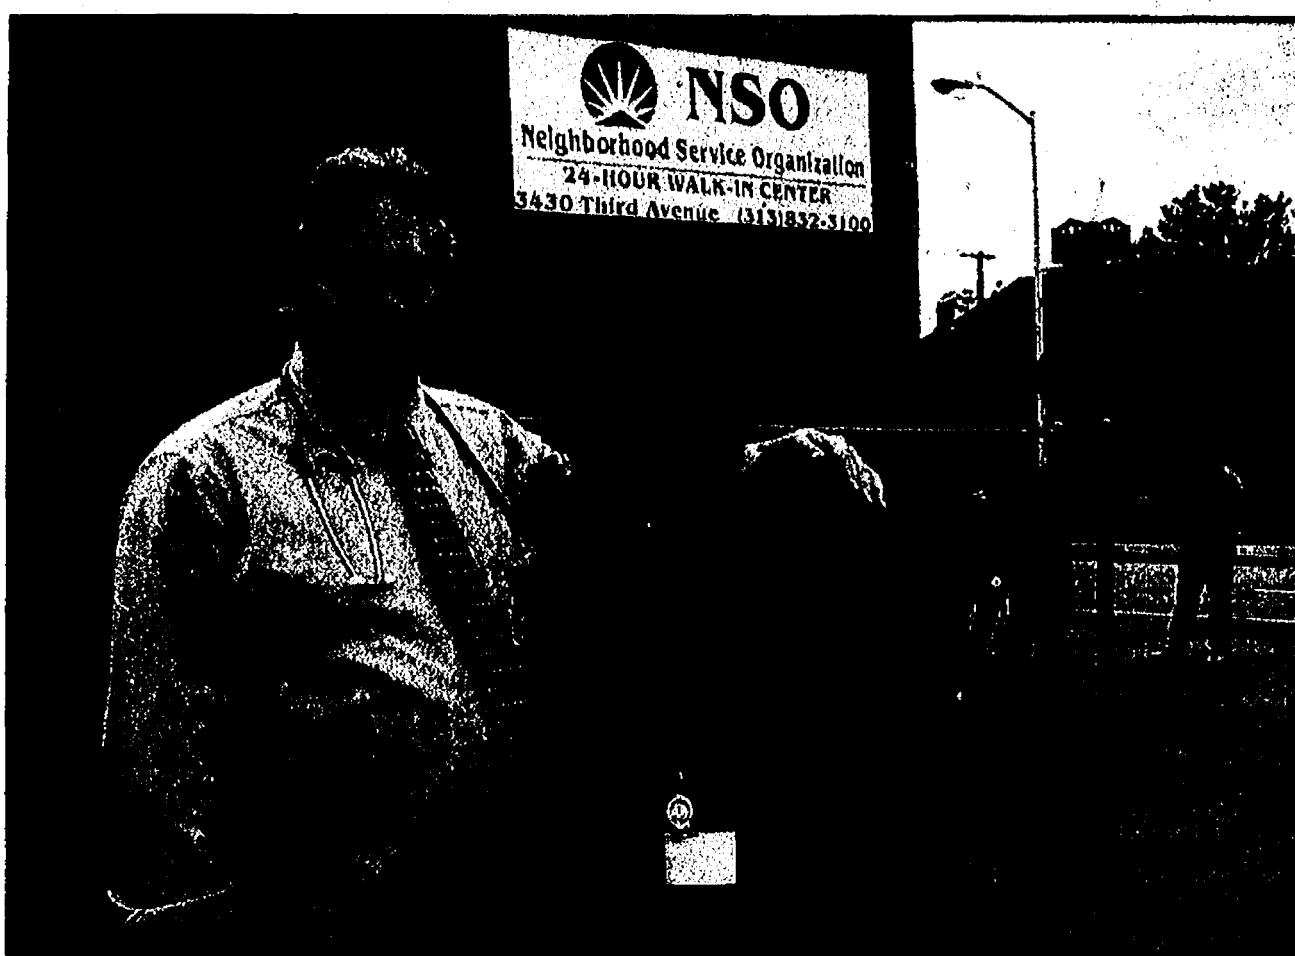

He contacted Amy Justice, the store team leader at Pamida in the Chelsea Shopping Center on South Main Street, and arranged for a donation box to be placed in the lobby.

"We're looking for regular cotton crew socks, one size fits all, for adults," he says. "Chelsea people are so generous, and we look forward to being able to take a lot of socks to the center."

"The recipients of the socks are not from some obscure third world nation - they are our neighbors right here in Michigan."

A recent article in the Washington Post illustrated the lack of health care for homeless individuals, Carpenter says. The No. 1 cause of death of the homeless is untreated or poorly treated chronic illness, such as diabetes. Proper foot care is paramount for those suffering from diabetes.

"A small cut on the foot of a diabetic can result in infection, gangrene, even amputation," Carpenter says. "This is one reason socks are so important for our clients."

Carpenter, a Detroit native who earned his undergraduate degree at Eastern Michigan University and his master's degree as a Family Nurse Practitioner from Michigan State University, did clinical practice at Chelsea Family Practice, Foote Hospital in Jackson, and in Stockbridge.

He and his wife Rhonda have called Chelsea home for 20 years where they raised three children - Kyle, 19, now a student at Washtenaw Community College; Evan, 17, and Corinne, 14, both at Chelsea High School.

Carpenter also works at Briarwood Cardiology in Ann Arbor.

He enjoys his work at the NSO shelter. "People are so very grateful for all we do, and there is such a need," he says. "There are such misconceptions - that in some way the homeless deserve this. But it's so often circumstances - for instance, I met a young woman in her late 20s this summer, who worked for an auto parts company that was circling the drain. She was injured, but the company hadn't made their worker's comp payments, and then went bankrupt. So she was unemployed, lost her apartment, and was living out of her car, through no fault of her own."

The story has a happy ending, he says. The young woman volunteered at the shelter, was later accepted into a job program at a local center, and is now training to be a licensed practical nurse.

Helping the homeless

What: Neighborhood Service Organization, a 24-hour walk-in center, a safe haven for the homeless providing crisis services for people in need.

Where: 3430 Third Ave., Detroit

Call: (313) 832-3100

Services: Crisis intervention, Mental Health Services, Health Care Services, Referral services, Case management, Discussion groups, Group and individual counseling, Emergency food and clothing, Shower facilities, Transportation assistance, Supplemental Security Income liaison, Alcoholics Anonymous (AA), Narcotics Anonymous (NA), And Fellowship Anonymous (FA), information, Veteran's Administration (VA) outreach, Substance abuse treatment referrals, Substance abuse prevention services, Telephone services, Supportive housing program, Services for women, Services for people with physical disabilities, Meal program.

How can you help? Donate cotton crew, adult-size socks to the donation box in the lobby of Pamida in the Chelsea Shopping Center at M-52 and Old US 12. The NSO center also welcomes shoes. For more information on how you can donate or help, contact Dean Carpenter at 433-0675.

What is trench foot?

Trench foot, also called immersion foot, is a medical condition characterized by a tingling or itching sensation accompanied by swelling, pain, and numbness.

A person with trench foot may also develop blotchy, cold skin and have a heavy or prickly feeling in the foot. Typically, the foot also feels dry and painful and becomes red when warm.

Leg cramps are common, and a person may also develop blisters. Skin and other tissues on the foot die and begin falling off. When trench foot is severe and left untreated, the entire foot can be affected.

Trench foot develops after feet become wet and stay wet for an extended period of time. Cold water also aggravates the problem. To prevent trench foot, air dry and elevate the feet after they become wet. Remove wet socks and shoes and replace them with dry ones.

What's new at: Cranesbill Books of Chelsea

By Alana West
Special Writer

A wide variety of specialty toys, games and crafts make up some of what's new at Cranesbill Books of Chelsea.

It has been owned for the past four years by Jan Loveland, who took over The Little Professor Bookstore, renamed it, and moved it to its new location at 108 E. Middle St.

The bookstore offers many items that complement books, including music, art, toys, greeting cards, and one-of-a-kind gifts.

Among the newest items in her store are handmade greeting cards featuring fine art photography by one of Loveland's neighbors, Lauren Proppett.

One of the cards features delicate blue flowers she photographed in author Edith Wharton's garden.

Loveland is planning much of her holiday season around toys that have staying power.

"There are a lot of junky toys out there," said

Loveland, who has a degree in child development, and is working on her doctorate.

"I want toys that kids can play with in a meaningful way ... I try to think like a mom."

She stocks "Melissa and Doug" puzzles, geode rocks, "Rush Hour" and many other unique games.

She fills shelves with art and hobby supplies, but not toy guns, though she does allow slingshots in her store. "I figure if kids want a toy gun, they can find it elsewhere," she said.

Loveland wants to stress that customer service is her store's greatest asset. She is happy to track down books for her clientele over the Internet if they are not available in the store, because most books don't stay in print very long nowadays, she said.

The store features space for book club meetings, which doubles as an area to run short documentary films and video projects.

Youth Dance Theatre of Michigan presents ballet Dec. 8-9

By Brenda Stevens
Guest Writer

Imagine that your family is hosting a festive party; the event of the year. Your wild-haired Godfather shows up with a mysterious box for you. You want what's in the box, but you must kiss his cheek to earn it. A chill creeps down your spine as you muster the courage, but your bravery is rewarded with an incredible treasure.

Worried that some harm may come to your new prize, you guard it as darkness falls. As the clock strikes midnight, you again see your shadowy Godfather display his mystical powers by transforming everyday possessions into terrifying figures. Soon a battle ensues between rampaging mice, led by a ferocious Rat Queen, and sword-wielding soldiers making a futile attempt at your protection. Even with artillery cannon fire, you are forced to bring the queen down yourself, with the only weapon available — your shoe.

In this one selfless act, you have not only banished the evil Rat Queen and her pesky mice friends, but you have also secured the safety of your hero, the magical Nutcracker Prince.

Ok, so you're not an avenging wizard destined to save the world from doom and destruction. No indeed, you are a little girl celebrating the magic of Christmas Eve. The flashy costumes, that bump in the night, the falling snow...it's not another night of trick-or-treats in Chelsea. It's the holiday classic, The Nutcracker Ballet, produced annually by Youth Dance Theatre of Michigan.

YDT will perform its 10th annual Nutcracker in the Chelsea High School Auditorium on Saturday, Dec. 8 at 2 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. and on Sunday, Dec. 9 at 2 p.m. Tickets are $18 for adults and $12 for students and seniors. Order your reserved seat by calling 1-734-475-3070 or visiting us online at www.youth-dancetheatre.org.

Tickets go on sale Monday, so blow out those jack-o-lanterns and come see our jack-in-the-box. It's Nutcracker season!

Free cancer cooking course offered

Chelsea Community Hospital hosts classes

The Cancer Project, a national nonprofit dedicated to advancing cancer prevention through education and research, is offering a free, eight-session cooking course designed to help Chelsea-area residents prevent and survive cancer through proper diet and nutrition.

"The single easiest and best thing most of us can do to prevent cancer or its recurrence is to eat right," says Jennifer Reilly, R.D., a senior nutritionist for The Cancer Project. "More than a third of all cancer deaths in this country are due to poor diet."

The Rx for better health? It's a low-fat vegetarian diet. Load up on fruits, vegetables, and whole grains. Reilly says "they're naturally low in fat, chock-full of fiber, and filled with cancer-fighting antioxidants and phytochemicals."

Cut down on fatty foods and added fats and oils, particularly saturated fats, which have been linked to an increased risk of breast, colon, and prostate cancer. Likewise, look for healthy substitutes for dairy products such as milk, cheese, and yogurt, which have been implicated in the occurrence of breast and colorectal cancers.

The challenge, Reilly acknowledges, is not only to teach people which foods are good for them, but also to show them how to make the foods taste good. Each class centers on important cancer-nutrition topics as local cooking instructor Jan Kemp, M.S., guides students through the preparation of tasty and easy-to-prepare recipes.

The Project shall include chemical application and subsequent spot applications for a five-year period. It shall also include all necessary regulatory approvals and studies for the application.

The total cost of the Project over the five-year period is estimated at $290,000.

The WCBPW has tentatively designated a special assessment district against which all or a part of the cost of such Project is to be assessed, which district consists of the following lands:

All tax parcels identified as having lake access and use of the waters of North Lake located in Sections 7, 17, 18 and 19 in Dexter Township and Section 13, Lyndon Township, Washtenaw County.

Each parcel identified above will be assessed the following amounts based on the type of property (the cost is the total cost for the five (5) year project):

Non-waterfront residential properties with lake access $ 700
Waterfront residential properties $1,100

A report describing the Project including program elements and cost estimates has been prepared and is on file with the Washtenaw County Director of Public Works. The report is available for public examination at the Department of Planning and Environment, 705 N. Zeeb Road, Ann Arbor, Michigan 48107. The offices are located on the second floor of the Washtenaw County Western Service Center. To ask questions or obtain information on the project, please call 734 222 6865.

PLEASE TAKE FURTHER NOTICE that the Board of Public Works will meet on Monday, November 5, 2007 at 7:00 p.m., Local Time, or as soon thereafter as may be heard, at the Dexter Township Hall, 6880 Dexter-Pinckney Road, Dexter, Michigan 48130 for the purpose of hearing all interested parties concerning such improvements and the special assessment district.

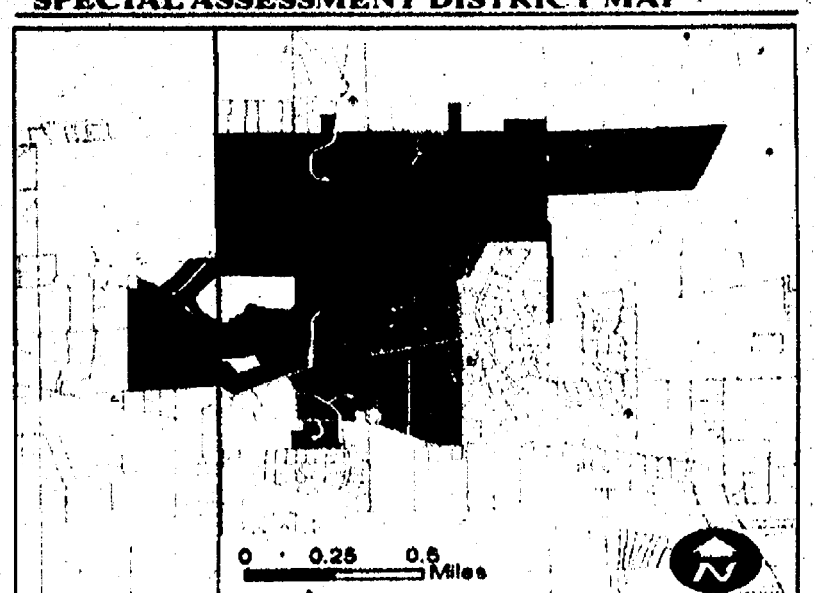

PLEASE TAKE FURTHER NOTICE that the owner or any person having an interest in property that is specially assessed may file a written appeal with the Michigan Tax Tribunal within 30 days after confirmation of the special assessment, roll. However, appearance and protest at the public hearing on the special assessment roll are required in order to appeal the special assessment to the Michigan Tax Tribunal. An owner or a party in interest or his or her agent may (1) appear in person at the hearing to protest the special assessment or (2) file his or her appearance or protest by letter before the close of the hearing.

The Board of Public Works shall maintain a record of parties who appear to protest at the hearing. If the hearing is terminated or adjourned for the day before a party is provided the opportunity to be heard, a party whose appearance was recorded shall be considered to have protested the special assessment in person.

Book signings with local authors are frequent occurrences, and sometimes Loveland can lure a nationally known touring author for a book-signing visit.

Loveland's own hobby of gardening indirectly inspired the name of the store, Cranesbill, which is named after the wild geranium, a plant she admires for its tenacious qualities.

"I grow Cranesbill," she said.

When she moved into the area, she said she was also aware that it was home to migrating sandhill cranes.

The name of the bookstore came about one day when the two species, one plant, one bird, merged in her mind to form the name of her bookstore.

Halloween can be filled with the light of love

"Is it OK for Christians to celebrate Halloween?"

Over the years, I have been asked this question a number of times. In order to answer this question, one needs to be aware of the history of Halloween.

Halloween began about 2,000 years ago by the Celts, who lived in what is now Ireland, Great Britain and northern France. It was a pagan religious holiday. In A.D. 43, the Romans had conquered most of the Celtic territory. Over time, the Romans combined the Celtic traditions with some of their own pagan religious traditions.

During the seventh century, Christianity had spread into the old Celtic territory. During this time the Pope designated Nov. 1 as "All Saints' Day," a day to honor Christian saints and martyrs. It seems that the Pope was trying to replace the old Celtic traditions with a new Christian tradition. It was at this time that the name Halloween began.

It was called "All Hallow's Eve." Hallow means "holy ones" or "holy," as in the Lord's prayer when we say, "Hallowed be thy name." Thus, Halloween means "the evening before All Holy Ones' Day." In the Middle English, this became contracted and mis-spoken as "Halloween."

The celebration of Halloween was very limited in the early years of our country. It really came into our country when Irish immigrants, who were fleeing their country's great potato famine in the 1840's, brought many of the traditions with them. New England youth added some of their own unique touches to the Halloween by starting the traditions of tipping over outhouses and unhooking gates on fences! During this time the holiday became more about community get-togethers than about the dead.

So, Halloween has pagan roots that have been Christianized over the centuries, and as many have put it, the holiday is only as evil as you make it. Actually, there is a great opportunity here for us Christians. Even atheists remember their beloved ones who have died.

For Christians Halloween can become our way of laughing at the dark face of death because we believe in the resurrection of Jesus, who conquered death for us. One author has suggested that we might want to put on masks and costumes and have dramas in the church that act out the story of Christ's victory over death.

I believe that we should go back to the 1800's tradition of allowing this to be a holiday of community get-togethers. When my children were younger, trick or treat was a wonderful time to meet neighbors as my wife and I took turns taking our children around the neighborhood. It was also great fun watching the

All about diabetes

Type 1

Type 1 diabetes is usually diagnosed in children and young adults, and was previously known as juvenile diabetes. In type 1 diabetes, the body does not produce insulin. Insulin is a hormone that is needed to convert sugar (glucose), starches and other food into energy needed for daily life.

Finding out you have diabetes is scary. But don't panic. Type 1 diabetes is serious, but people with diabetes can live long, healthy, happy lives.

Type 2

Type 2 diabetes is the most common form of diabetes. In type 2 diabetes, either the body does not produce enough insulin or the cells ignore the insulin. Insulin is necessary for the body to be able to use sugar. Sugar is the basic fuel for the cells in the body, and insulin takes the sugar from the blood into the cells.

When glucose builds up in the blood instead of going into cells, it can cause two problems: Right away, your cells may be starved for energy. Over time, high blood glucose levels may hurt your eyes, kidneys, nerves or heart.

While diabetes occurs in people of all ages and races, some groups have a higher risk for developing type 2 diabetes than others. Type 2 diabetes is more common in African Americans, Latinos, Native Americans, and Asian Americans/Pacific Islanders, as well as the aged population.

By the numbers

Diabetes is a disease in which the body does not produce or properly use insulin. Insulin is a hormone that is needed to convert sugar, starches and other food into energy needed for daily life. The cause of diabetes continues to be a mystery, although both genetics and environmental factors such as obesity and lack of exercise appear to play roles.

There are 20.8 million children and adults in the United States, or 7 percent of the population, who have diabetes. While an estimated 14.6 million have been diagnosed with diabetes, unfortunately, 6.2 million people (or nearly one-third) are unaware that they have the disease.

In order to determine whether or not a patient has pre-diabetes or diabetes, health care providers conduct a Fasting Plasma Glucose Test (FPG) or an Oral Glucose Tolerance Test (OGTT). Either test can be used to diagnose pre-diabetes or diabetes. The American Diabetes Association recommends the FPG because it is easier, faster, and less expensive to perform.

With the FPG test, a fasting blood glucose level between 100 and 125 mg/dl signals pre-diabetes. A person with a fasting blood glucose level of 126 mg/dl or higher has diabetes.

In the OGTT test, a person's blood glucose level is measured after a fast and two hours after drinking a glucose-rich beverage. If the two-hour blood glucose level is between 140 and 199 mg/dl, the person tested has pre-diabetes. If the two-hour blood glucose level is at 200 mg/dl or higher, the person tested has diabetes.

Deaths among people with diabetes

Diabetes was the sixth leading cause of death listed on U.S. death certificates in 2002. This ranking is based on the 73,249 death certificates in which diabetes was listed as the underlying cause of death. According to death certificate reports, diabetes contributed to a total of 224,092 deaths. Diabetes is likely to be underreported as a cause of death.

Complications of diabetes

Heart disease and stroke: Heart disease and stroke account for about 65 percent of deaths in people with diabetes. Adults with diabetes have heart disease death rates about 2 to 4 times higher than adults without diabetes. The risk for stroke is 2 to 4 times higher among people with diabetes.

High blood pressure: About 73 percent of adults with diabetes have blood pressure greater than or equal to 130/80 millimeters of mercury (mm Hg) or use prescription medications for hypertension.

Blindness: Diabetes is the leading cause of new cases of blindness among adults aged 20 to 74 years.

Diabetic retinopathy: causes 12,000 to 24,000 new cases of blindness each year.

Kidney disease: Diabetes is the leading cause of kidney failure, accounting for 44 percent of new cases in 2002. In 2002, 44,400 people with diabetes began treatment for end-stage kidney disease in the United States and Puerto Rico.

Nervous system disease: About 60 percent to 70 percent of people with diabetes have mild to severe forms of nervous system damage. The results of such damage include impaired sensation or pain in the feet or hands, slowed digestion of food in the stomach, carpal tunnel syndrome, and other nerve problems.

Healthy food choices

Knowing what to eat can be confusing. Everywhere you turn, there is news about what is or isn't good for you. Some basic principles have weathered the fad diets, and have stood the test of time. Here are a few tips on making healthy food choices for you and your entire family.

Eat lots of vegetables and fruits. Try picking from the rainbow of colors available to maximize variety. Eat non-starchy vegetables such as spinach, carrots, broccoli or green beans with meals.

Choose whole grain foods over processed grain products. Try brown rice with your stir fry or whole wheat spaghetti with your favorite pasta sauce.

Include dried beans (like kidney or pinto beans) and lentils into your meals.

Include fish in your meals 2-3 times a week.

Choose lean meats like cuts of beef and pork that end in "loin" such as pork loin and sirloin. Remove the skin from chicken and turkey.

Choose non-fat dairy such as skim milk, non-fat yogurt and non-fat cheese.

Choose water and calorie-free "diet" drinks instead of regular soda, fruit punch, sweet tea and other sugar-sweetened drinks.

Choose liquid oils for cooking instead of solid fats that can be high in saturated and trans fats. Remember that fats are high in calories. If you're trying to lose weight, watch your portion sizes of added fats.

Cut back on high calorie snack foods and desserts like chips, cookies, cakes, and full-fat ice cream.

Eating too much of even healthful foods can lead to weight gain. Watch your portion sizes.

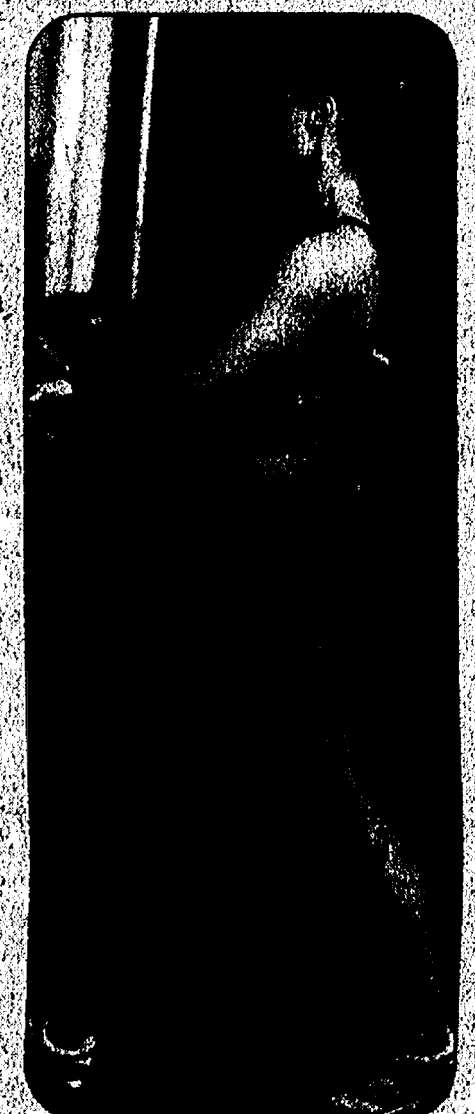

Exercise

Exercise is also known as physical activity and includes anything that gets you moving, such as walking, dancing, or working in the yard. You can earn the benefits of being physically active without going to a gym, playing sports, or using fancy equipment. When you're physically fit, you have the strength, flexibility, and endurance needed for your daily activities. Being physically active helps you feel better physically and mentally.

Physical activity can lower your blood glucose (sugar), blood pressure, and cholesterol. It also reduces your risk for heart disease and stroke, relieves stress, and strengthens your heart, muscles, and bones. In addition, regular activity helps insulin work better, improves your blood circulation, and keeps your joints flexible.

If you're trying to lose weight, a combination of physical activity and wise food choices can help you reach your target weight and maintain it. All of these benefits can be yours even if you haven't been very active before.

County not following national trend

By Edward Freundl
Staff Writer

Children in the Chelsea area apparently seem to be defying a national trend of youths being diagnosed with type 2, or "adult" diabetes.

"We haven't had that many," said Kate McKinney, a registered nurse with Chelsea Pediatrics.

"We do have some kids with diabetes, but I believe the majority are type 1."

Unfortunately, Chelsea seems to be the exception and not the rule.

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), as many as 45 percent of children newly diagnosed with diabetes have type 2.

And Dr. Robert Rizza, president of the American Diabetes Association, says "unless we do something, one in three people born in the year 2000 is projected to have diabetes."

Type 1 diabetes was formerly known as "juvenile" or "juvenile onset" diabetes, and was almost exclusively found in children up to age 18.

Conversely, type 2, or "adult" diabetes, is the more prevalent form, commonly found in adults.

However, due to a disturbing increase in poor eating habits and sedentary lifestyles, children are invading what was once adult medical territory.

According to Dawn Crane, coordinator of outpatient diabetes education program, Chelsea Community Hospital, about 2 million youths ages 12 to 19 have been diagnosed with pre-diabetes.

Crane, a board-certified advanced practice registered nurse and certi-

Symptoms of Type 2 in kids

The symptoms of type 2 diabetes in children develop slowly. Initially, there may be no symptoms. Eventually, parents may notice one or more of these symptoms:

- Unexplained weight loss
- Increased hunger or thirst, even after eating
- Dry mouth
- Frequent urination
- Fatigue
- Blurred vision
- Heavy breathing
- Slow healing of sores or cuts
- Itchy skin
- Numbness or tingling in the hands or feet

It is time to visit your child's doctor if you notice any of these symptoms in your child. According to the CDC, diabetes has risen 5 percent a year every year since 1990. "That's why there's a lot of effort being spent in trying to get people to look at this," Crane said.

fied diabetic educator, explained the basic differences between the two types:

"Type 1 is insulin deficient; the pancreas no longer produces insulin," she said. "It's considered an autoimmune disease that causes damage to beta cells in pancreas, and we can see it in infants less than a year old."

Type 2 is more of an insulin resistance that gets progressively worse, she said.

"They are making some insulin but the body has built up a resistance to it so it has trouble getting its job done," Crane said, noting that what little insulin the body creates also diminishes over time.

She used the analogy of a lock and key to describe how insulin signals cells to "open up" and receive glucose for energy to operate.

"The lock is not working properly, the receptors are not responding the way they should, so glucose is trapped in the bloodstream at levels where it should not be," Crane said.

Over time, the high glucose levels in the blood tend to damage the nerves and small blood vessels of the eyes, kidneys, and heart, and predispose a person to atherosclerosis (hardening) of the large arteries that can cause heart attack and stroke.

The single greatest risk factor for type 2 diabetes in children is excess weight.

According to the American Diabetes Association, almost one out of every five children in the United States is considered to be overweight.

Once a child becomes overweight, chances are more than doubled that the child will develop diabetes.

One or more of these factors may contribute to excess weight or obesity:

- Unhealthy eating patterns
- Lack of physical activity
- An inherited tendency
- Rarely, a hormone problem or other medical condition.

In addition, as with adults, the risk of type 2 diabetes in children appears to be associated with excess weight around the abdomen.

This obesity pattern increases the chance of insulin resistance and the risk of type 2 diabetes.

DUFFY & CASSIDY: Cassidy and Duffy are a pair of buddies and they need to go home together! Cassidy is a 6 year old black Cocker Spaniel who is good with older kids, other dogs and is just a sweetheart. Duffy is 8 years old and a sweet and friendly fellow. He and Cassidy are ready for a new family today!

CHEYENNE: What a pretty girl! Cheyenne is here because her previous owner is moving and can't take her. She is an 8-year old Torti with just beautiful markings and a sweet disposition. Cheyenne is litter box trained, good with kids and other cats and is ready to get out of here today!

MOLSON: Molson is a sweet guy that came here as a stray and he needs a special family, a quiet home, and someone who is understanding of his issue. Molson is a nice dog but he is submissive and very unsure of people so he will pee pee when you walk up and pet him. He needs to get his confidence back in people after having been neglected for so long. Molson needs a family that will work with him and love him for the very kindhearted dog that he is. Molson is 7 years old, walks well on a leash and knows the command sit. He gets along well with other dogs. Come visit this Diamond in the Ruff.

CCA's 'Denim and Diamonds' rousing success

All that glitters might not be gold ... sometimes its diamonds!

Attendees to the 2007 Autumn Jubilee "Denim & Diamonds" put on their jeans and bangles in support of Chelsea Center for the Arts. The event raised more than $50,000. The yearly fund-raiser is the largest source of unrestricted funds for the CCA.

"Denim & Diamonds" was held at the Dale Fisher Gallery on Norvell Road in Grass Lake.

"We weren't sure how our audience would react to the new location, but apparently a little drive in the country didn't bother our guests," says Executive Director Aubrey Thornton Martinson. "The energy was high and we sold more tickets than anticipated - we have Barbara Ruth and Sally Wetzel, not to mention their committee, to thank for setting and exceeding their goals."

The evening consisted of a three-tired silent auction, a live auction, a raffle and door prizes.

"Our auction committee amassed beautiful art, generous gift certificates, sports memorabilia and tickets to coveted sporting events," says co-chair Barbara Ruth. "Our deepest appreciation goes out to all of our sponsors, contributors, and volunteers whose generous support and tireless efforts have helped us make this year's Autumn Jubilee a tremendous success!"

Co-Chair Wetzel says of Chelsea Center for the Arts, "We are so fortunate to have an art center that reaches people of all ages in our community. Whether it be art exploration, vocal performance, drama, dance or summer camp, our art center holds something for everyone from young children to retirees. The center is a place to meet old friends or to make new acquaintances through participation in classes or volunteering."

This year's honorary chairs of the event were Jim and Linda Cramer. The Cramers were honored for their many significant contributions to the CCA through board leadership, volunteering, and generosity.

"Linda and Jim bring grace, humility and a contagious spirit of involvement and support to everything they've done for us," says Martinson. "They've really helped to shape the CCA we have today."

The honored artist and honored volunteer was Janet Alford, recognized for her "can do" approach, her enthusiasm, and her tireless volunteerism! Among her many contributions, Alford gives her time her time to lead the Monday morning "Artists Teaching Artists" class which meets from 9 a.m. - noon for a low drop-in fee of $5 per artist.

Over 200 people gathered in support of CCA, its programs and its honorees. The committee is already working on identifying next year's event leaders.

Co-chairs Sally Wetzel and Barbara Ruth.

neighbor's reaction to trick or treaters.

Now that my children are adults, we are the couple smiling at the door. I just love seeing the little ones trick-or-treating in their princess or pumpkin or warrior costumes. What other time of the year do we so freely give to all children? If every day were "trick or treat" for all of the children around the world, we could eliminate world hunger!

Yes, the holiday can be dark if we allow it to be so, or it can be filled with the light of love if we so choose. I choose to light the world rather than curse the darkness!

Kids are fired up

Members of the Chelsea Fire Department visited Chelsea Community Preschool and talked with 3-and 4-year-old kids about fire safety. The children learned the importance of making a plan with their parents about where to meet outside the home in case they ever have a fire. They also learned that while firefighters might look scary with their equipment on, they are our friends and want to help us, so we should never hide during a fire. The children finished out the visit by getting to sit in the firetruck and hear the siren as the truck pulled away.

Jacob (top left) sees what it's like to be in the front of a firetruck. The children (left) came up to touch firefighter Sam with his gear on to see that he is not scary. Jessica (above) sits up front in the firetruck.

THE MICHIGAN STATE SPARTANS™ END TABLE

A unique hardwood and glass end table.

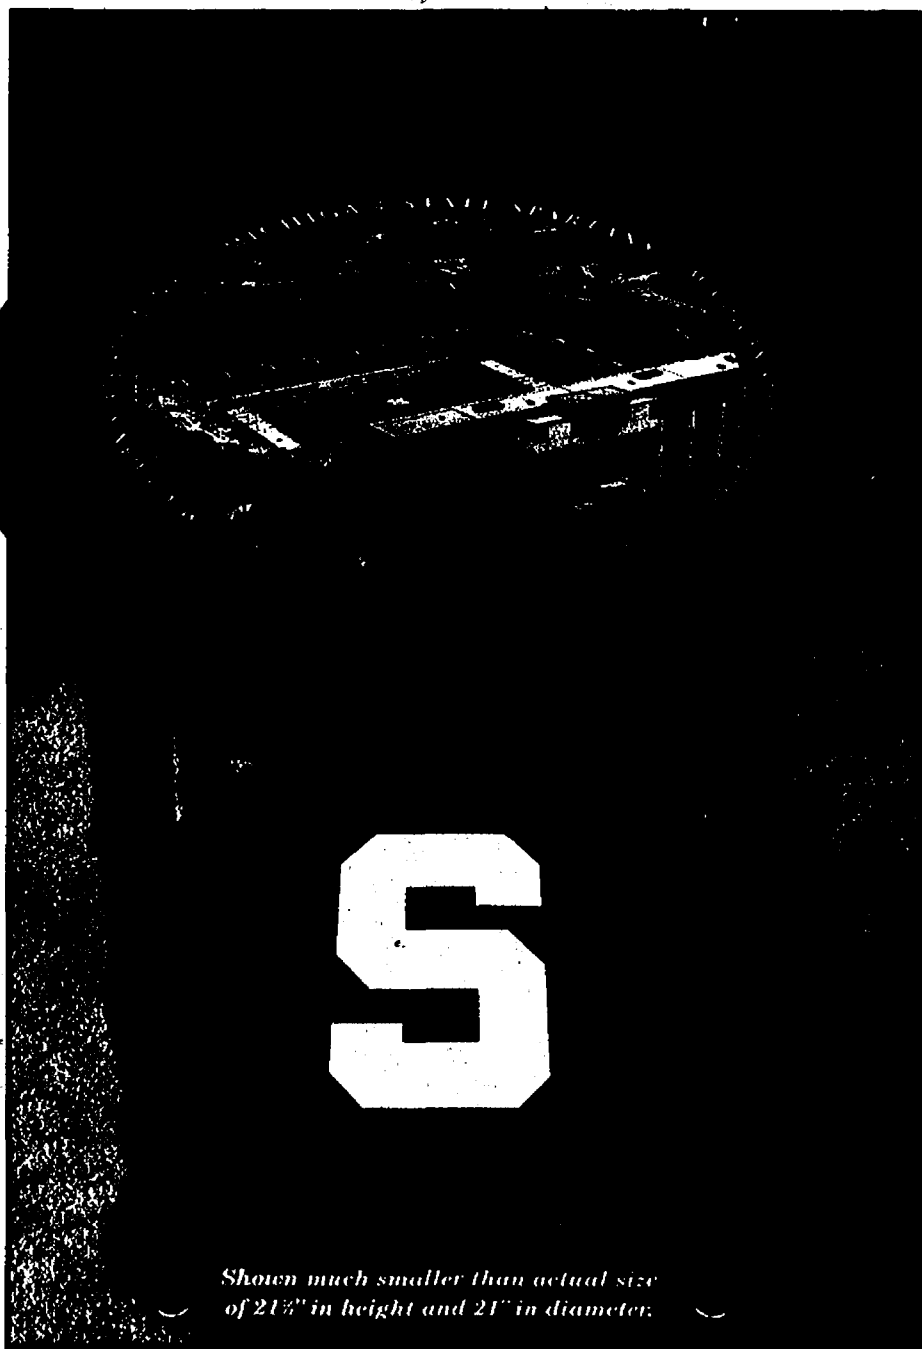

The Michigan State Spartans are one of the most storied teams in college football. Now, you can show off your love for the Spartans in a unique new way. Presenting... The Michigan State Spartans End Table, a genuine hardwood and glass end table that showcases the beauty and majesty of Spartan Stadium!

An exquisite art print set under a glass top.

The Michigan State Spartans End Table will make the perfect addition to any den, family room or game room. It is crafted of genuine hardwood and features a beautiful art print of Spartan Stadium set under a beveled glass top.

A functional table with Spartans appeal.

At the base of the table is a removable shelf decorated with the famous Michigan State Spartans logo. The table's felt-lined drawer is easily opened and useful for storing pens, coasters and more.

Shown much smaller than actual size of 21 1/2" in height and 21" in diameter.

This exquisite art print captures every detail of Spartan Stadium.

An extraordinary value.

Requiring just minimal assembly, The Michigan State Spartans End Table can be yours for $149 plus $15 shipping and service, payable in four monthly installments of just $41. Satisfaction guaranteed. For guaranteed Christmas delivery, call us toll-free at 1-800-726-1184, 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. Order today!

The new optomap[®] retinal exam available from the Independent Doctor of Optometry next to Pearle Vision[®] is a state-of-the-art way to look at your retina. It allows your doctor to see more of the retina at one time than ever before (often without dilation^{}), making it much easier to help determine the health of your eyes.

To schedule an optomap retinal exam (available at participating locations) with the Independent Doctor of Optometry at or next to Pearle Vision, Inc., call 1-800-YES-EYES[®].

Some houses need to be cleaned with tender loving care.
Some just need tender loving care.

The tragedy of domestic violence against women and children continues to escalate. Millions of cases are reported every year, yet it is the most unreported crime in our country.

Molly Maid believes it is vitally important to increase awareness of this hidden crime and to assist those dedicated to helping its victims. For over a decade the Ms. Molly Foundation has been supporting the work of shelters and safe houses across America.

We're proud to help give victimized women and children a reason to smile. Please turn this over to find out how you can help too.

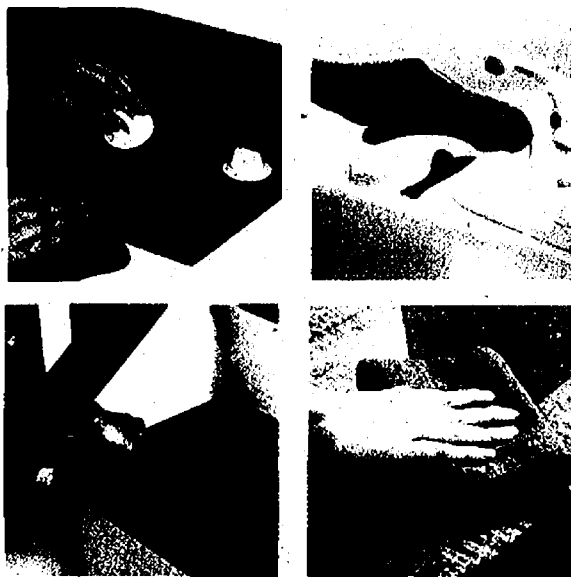

Here's how you can help someone smile.

A PORTION OF THE COST OF YOUR CLEANING WILL BE DONATED TO THE MS. MOLLY FOUNDATION.

For 25 years Molly Maid has been making lives all across America a little easier by providing the highest quality home cleaning services available.

Now, with your help, we can make life easier for those who need our help the most, the growing number of women and children who have been victimized by domestic violence. When you have Molly Maid professionally clean your home and present this money saving coupon, we will donate a portion of your cleaning service fee to the Ms. Molly Foundation. Please call us today to have a customized, home cleaning estimate. Together we can help someone smile.
