My heroes

Relay is about the fight and the fighters

By Jamie D. Lane
Guest Writer

"You have cancer."

Fortunately, I have never heard those words but for the millions of people that have, I cannot imagine a more frightening experience.

What will happen, how sick will I get, what about my family, what about my job, will I survive? The uncertainty and the questions that undoubtedly swirl through their minds must be unbearable. And this is probably just the first 24 hours after diagnosis. Then begins the battery of questions from concerned family and friends, the unending doctor appointments and tests, blood draws and "treatments."

Relay For Life of Western Washtenaw County-Chelsea
When: 10 a.m. to 10 a.m., Saturday and Sunday
Where: Chelsea High School Track
Web site: http://events.cancer.org/rflchelseami

Loss of hair, loss of appetite and loss of self-esteem may also follow. And during all this, the continued uncertainty remains. Will my friends treat me differently, will my health insurance cover all of this, will I ever lead a normal life again?

People have their heroes in the sports world and the music world and the art world and the literary world but for me, cancer victims are my heroes. They have been dealt a crummy hand and now, with the help of their family, friends and medical providers, they must rise above this terrible disease.

Regional Report: Breaking Down Your Tax Bills

The taxman

Where are your local taxes going?

By Crystal Hayduk
Special Writer

The bill comes twice a year — once in the winter and once in the summer. When it arrives, we look at the envelope, noting the return address. There's often a sigh as we contemplate the best time to open it. Should we file it for later, or submit ourselves to the pain immediately?

When we finally open it, we look over the numbers. We think: How and when shall we pay it? Shall we deliver it in person or mail it?

Many people pay their property taxes twice a year, but have only the vaguest notion of what they're paying for, and absolutely no understanding of how the bill is calculated.

Certainly having to pay taxes is a necessary aggravation. It was once said, "People who complain about taxes can be divided into two classes: men and women."

The property tax system in the United States is based on the system used in Britain beginning in the 14th century. At that time, tax assessors estimated a person's ability to pay taxes based on ownership of property.

TAX TABLE*

City/Village	Tax Millage Levy	District Library Millage	Voter-Approved School District Millage
Chelsea	15.0549	2.3321	7.9250
Dexter	13.5562	1.6486	8.5000
Manchester	14.5949	1.0500	7.0000
Milan	15.5000	1.6316	8.0400
Saline	15.5300	1.5003	7.8331
Ypsilanti	29.5795	2.1479	7.0000

*table does not include county or township taxes

As the country grew, a general property tax seemed to be a good choice to provide revenue for the local governments that were developing. States divided into counties, which assumed many responsibilities.

From there, townships and cities were formed, as well as school districts and other specialized districts. A tax on real estate, with its fixed location and well known value, was suited to the situation of overlapping governments. Money from the property would go to the unit in which it was located.

While federal and state aid and grants also make up part of the local government budget, property taxes account for about 44 percent of the local budget, according to the 1999 United States Census of Governments.

INSIDE: Taxes fund 31 parks in Washtenaw County. Page 10-A

What are we paying for?

Residents who live in cities or villages pay a higher property tax than those in townships because they receive more services. For example, in town people have access to city water and sewage as well as trash collection. But many people who live in the rural areas of the county assume these costs on their own through drilling and maintaining wells and septic systems, and by contracting privately for their own trash collection.

Treasurers of the cities of Chelsea, Milan, Saline and Ypsilanti, as well as the villages of Dexter and Manchester, were asked about the taxes in their areas (see table).

Every community has a general fund that makes up the majority of the income. The general fund pays for a variety of services, which may vary slightly from city to city, but usually includes police and fire protection, local administration workers (salaries and benefits), planning commission, garbage collection, building and grounds maintenance, street lighting and repairs, and the

Assessors determine a property's taxable value

By Crystal Hayduk
Special Writer

Every property is assessed on an annual basis to determine its taxable value. The assessment is based on three concepts, said Greg Zamenski, president of Advanced Assessment Technologies.

The first is the value of the land if it were vacant. This number is determined by sales within a designated time frame. Land can be valued by the acre, front foot, or square foot.

The second concept is depreciated construction cost. For example, if a home was built in 2008, it would be valued at 100 percent because no depreciation has occurred yet. The state provides an assessor's manual to guide the assessor in determining the value. Depreciation is changed based on the age of a building and whether improvements have been made.

The third concept is called the "Economic Condition Factor," in which the market value of the dwelling is taken into consideration. Location is an important factor.

The three concepts together make up the assessed value, also known as the state equalized value. The market value, or the amount of money one could plausibly sell a house for, is generally two times the SEV. Although a property is assessed every year, it's only inspected if the assessor happens to notice a major change in the property, if the property changes ownership, or if there is new construction to the property.

Investigators: Electrical malfunction could be cause of fire

By Edward Freund
Staff Writer

Investigators said Tuesday the cause of the fire that ripped through the Chelsea Shopping Center on May 5 is "undetermined," but pointed to an "electrical malfunction" as a likely source.

"We believe the fire was caused by an electrical malfunction," said lead investigator Al Thompson.

"But it is still undetermined at this point."

Chelsea Area Fire Authority Chief Jim Payeur agreed, saying "It looks like" it was electrical in nature.

Payeur also tried to put to rest rumors that a work crew on the roof may have been involved in igniting the three-alarm fire that required units from a half-dozen fire departments to bring under control.

"Some people were saying there were people on

RELAY

They must summon their strength from within and find additional strength from external sources, all while remaining positive for the rest of us. It must be quite a balancing act and for that, these people are my heroes. They must continue to go for treatments that may leave them incredibly sick and take their hair and their immune system but they go, knowing and hoping that this will lead them back to their family and friends and jobs and a normal life. For these reasons and countless others, these people are my heroes.

There are numerous ways you can help my heroes, not the least of which is to attend the 13th annual American Cancer Society Relay for Life of Chelsea. Please join myself and 453 other participants, many of them survivors, on Saturday, beginning at 10 a.m. and running until Sunday at 10 a.m.

This year's event will return to the CHS track and field stadium located at the WSEC in Chelsea. Chelsea's Relay has 25 registered teams this year including teams from Manchester and Ann Arbor. For a complete listing of entertainment and events, please see the insert in this week's Standard.

Chelsea's Relay is just one of the 4,800 plus Relays that will take place around the globe this year including 19 countries outside of the U.S. There will be well over 3.5 million people participating in Relay for Life during the '08 season which means one in every 100 Americans participates in Relay. Since its' inception, Relay for Life, the American Cancer Society's signature fund-raising event, has raised over $2 billion in the fight against cancer. These funds are used for cancer research, education and advocacy as well as patient services including transportation to treatments, peer support-group programs and resources for practical assistance.

The American Cancer Society also provides a comprehensive cancer information line that is available 24 hours a day, seven days a week with trained medical personnel available to answer any cancer related questions anyone might have. The number is 1-800-ACS-2345. They can also be reached on the internet at www.cancer.org.

It is never too late to register to be a part of Relay, whether you're forming a Relay team or you are a survivor that would like to participate in the survivors' activities. For additional information on becoming involved, contact this year's event Chair, Janice Kett-Blinn at jackblinn@charter-mi.net.

The community is also invited to attend the luminaria ceremony on Saturday night at 9 p.m. The ceremony kicks off at dusk and is a moving tribute and remembrance as well as the light for a hopeful future.

Please plan to attend Relay for Life, a life changing event to help celebrate the lives of people who have battled cancer, to remember those lost to the disease and to fight back against a disease that takes so much from so many. Please come out to support my heroes, the brave souls that take on this disease with all of their strength and determination, my loved ones and yours.

Cancer doesn't discriminate.

CCA show features 'personal art'

The Center Gallery at CCA is currently exhibiting "Personal Art," featuring paintings by Shan Renton Hale and pottery by Leslie Greeneisen. The Exhibit runs through June 20. The Gallery Reception is from 5 to 8 p.m. on Saturday, May 31, with refreshments and music.

The exhibit features two unique artists with multi-faceted experience in the arts. Working separately, but with much the same exploration, creativity and direction in their process, they make their "personal art" statement.

Linda Leatham, gallery manager, describes the exhibit as full of vibrant color in contemporary and traditional works. The show is diverse with watercolor paintings depicting landscapes to portraiture. The pottery features ceramic sculptural pieces, horse hair vessels, and unique items for home entertaining.

Shan Hale resides in Michigan and paints with the "Artist Teaching Artist" studio at CCA and has taken extensive workshops in Taos, New Mexico.

"The paintings express my thoughts and feelings with color and composition," Hale said. "By making them visible to others is a challenge I enjoy. I am providing a visual experience that makes the invisible available."

Leslie Greeneisen is a member of the Plymouth Pottery Guild and Program Director for CCA.

"The Pottery, through the medium of clay, has a life of its own and its own personality," she said. "Clay is much like us – it can be full of movement or very static. Texture, glazing, and form are created by the artist and the firing process. This collection studies the beauty and animation of clay."

'Cleanup Day' is a sweeping success story

By Edward Freundl
Staff Writer

Preliminary numbers indicate that the county-wide "Cleanup Day" on May 3 succeeded beyond expectations.

The Washtenaw County Solid Waste Department and Western Washtenaw Recycling Authority hosted the household waste disposal from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the WWRA's Werkner Road facility.

Any county resident was welcome to dispose of all manner of household hazardous waste, tires, appliances and electronic devices.

The numbers were up in all categories from last year's collection event, which itself set a record.

"The numbers, I will admit, are impressive," said WWRA Chairman Frank Hammer.

"Turnout was even greater than last year. There were two semi-trailers plus half of another of e-waste and toxic waste, plus 80 cubic yards of rigid plastics."

For example, 775 vehicles came through the line, compared to 670 in 2007.

The number of discarded tires was up almost 60 percent, from 491 in 2007 to 780 this year.

And a ton of computers were disposed of – literally. There were so many it became easier to weigh than to count them.

In addition, the county collected $5,700 in donations for the solid waste department.

Two winners took home $50 gift certificates were used as an incentive to draw people in.

The gift certificates went to Paul Harper of Manchester and Robert Clouse of Chelsea to ReStore, the Habitat for Humanity store on Jackson Road for recycled building materials and appliances.

"It was a great turnout; we were about 25 percent higher on our intake and it's getting bigger and bigger every year," said WWRA Facility Manager Phil Bolyard.

"The newsletter Frank sent out was a big help; it educated people about it."

By the numbers:
Electronic waste:

- 125 microwave ovens, stereos, fax machines
- 175 computer monitors
- 200 televisions
- 2,000 lbs. of PCs

Miscellaneous items:

- 21 propane tanks
- 125 Freon-based appliances (refrigerators, freezers, air conditioners)
- 1,000 gallons of waste oil
- 2,500 lbs. of batteries

FIRE

the roof, but nothing has been confirmed," Payeur said.

"It looks like an equipment failure kind of thing, not anything anyone had done wrong."

Thompson said CAFA's part in the investigation was over and it was up to insurance companies to sort it all out.

"As far as Chelsea Fire is concerned it's accidental, so we're out of it because it's not criminal," he said.

"We have about 10 insurance companies involved, trying to pinpoint the cause as much as possible."

Payeur gave credit to the construction of the building for containing the fire to the roof instead of completely destroying the businesses below.

"On the roof above Hick Cleaners, where it started, it was wood construction then it changes to lightweight steel trusses," Payeur said. "The roof is rolled steel, then an inch and a half of insulation, a rubber membrane and stone on top of that."

He noted that the area of the roof that had the most fire damage was covered in Celotex, a lightweight fiberboard insulating material.

"Anytime it comes in contact with flame, it smolders," the chief said.

"We found a hot spot when we went back up there a couple hours later (after the fire was considered under control). It was smoldering."

Although flames never broke through the roof to cause catastrophic devastation, smoke and water from fighting the fire damaged seven businesses: Pamida, the Chelsea Grille, Hicks Cleaners, Aleko's Restaurant, the Chelsea Pharmacy, Liberty Tax Service and an Edward Jones office.

After removing damaged merchandise, the pharmacy reopened the day after the fire.

Initially saying it, too, would reopen the store the next day, Pamida officials reversed themselves and decided to completely shut down to remove every bit of merchandise, even the garden center items out in the parking lot.

"We took a lot of smoke damage and couldn't clean it up," Store Team Leader Amy Justice said Tuesday.

"We want to make it 100 percent for our customers."

Justice said the company timeline to restock and reopen was eight weeks, "but could me more or less, depending on how fast we get things done."

Sisters Denise and Deb Bauer, both financial advisers with Edward Jones, count themselves extremely lucky to be back in business this week.

Robotics team builds confidence, engineering skills

By Edward Freundl
Staff Writer

The first thing you learn about the Chelsea High School robotics team is, this ain't your father's shop class project.

This highly motivated and highly dedicated group takes its computer, math and engineering training to the next level by building robotic devices for regional and national competition against other schools.

This year the team has 22 members from all grade levels who worked as a close-knit unit to design and build their machine and take it on the road.

The season lasts only from January to April, so for those four months the kids and their volunteer mentors from the Chrysler Proving Grounds are on a non-stop rush.

Along the way they competed in regional contests in St. Louis in February and Cleveland in March, finishing up against 395 teams at "the nationals," April 17 to 19 in Atlanta, Ga.

"We had a lot of support from Chrysler employees, mostly engineers from the Proving Grounds," said Deb Bentley, Robotics Club adviser and computers and math teacher.

The challenge is different every year. This time, the robots had to drive around a track and try to put a 10-pound, 42-inch diameter inflated ball into a goal while avoiding a number of obstacles, while also trying to prevent the opposing team from doing the same.

Josh Riley, a senior and president of the club, explained the process in detail.

"It works off a 12-volt motorcycle battery, hydraulics operate the arms on each side, and it has a two-speed transmission for variable speed," Riley said.

"To be precise we flip it into low gear, then shift into high to buzz around the track."

Riley added that teams have only six weeks to build the robot and ship it to the first competition – a deadline that causes problems for many other teams.

"This year we had everything working by the time we had to ship it out," he said.

The Chrysler Foundation helps fund the design and construction of the machine and students scrounge for parts wherever they can, Riley noted.

He added that every club member is encouraged to take part in the design process, but some ideas just can't be put into practice.

"Wally Sheets of Chelsea Tool machined the parts, and he tells us what can and can't be done," Riley said.

The schedule is hectic during the season, especially during the design-build phase.

"We meet every Tuesday and Thursday, but during the six-week build period we meet every day but Sunday," Riley said.

Although he is due to graduate in June and has been accepted into the University of Michigan's College of Engineering, he will return to the team next year as a mentor because he sees great value in the hands-on technical experience it provides.

"This is a great program; it's something the high school needs," Riley said. "It's the only tech-based group at the high school."

Seniors Erin Bergman and Heather Zamenski have been club members for three years and enjoy the challenge of the traditionally male-dominated field.

"There's a lot to learn - you quickly realize you don't know anything," Bergman said.

"You have to do it quickly, so it's like cramming for a test but you're cramming for a future job, your future life."

Zamenski particularly enjoyed the thrill of competition.

"You see everyone working together, which is great," Zamenski said.

"You can be helping the group next to you in one round, and then you might end up trying to compete against them in another.

"Everyone shares an excitement for things."

Junior Nicholas Worthington said he helped build the frame of the robot, and was the team's "official cameraman."

"I took a lot of video at the competitions," he said.

Worthington said students in all four high school grades are involved, which makes it a rewarding experience.

"What I like the best is just being around the people," he said. "They're a great group, a joy to be around."

Curt Stoeber, a Proving Grounds engineer, is lead mentor for the team this year.

He said he was especially impressed with the creativity of the students' ideas and their willingness to try just about anything.

"Seeing the ideas they come up with and how they handle problems, it's amazing the different approaches they can take," Stoeber said.

"It's been a real learning experience for me."

Now that the competitions are done for the year, they will concentrate on fundraising for next year.

Although the Chrysler Foundation pays for building the robot and entering the competitions, getting the team there and seeing to their needs is another matter.

"Meijer on Zeeb Road was a huge help - they donated a lot of food to us; many local restaurants helped feed everybody five days a week for six weeks," said mentor and parent Michelle Schroeder.

Bentley confirmed her team's commitment to the cause, saying many kids like to spend hours after school with their robotic creation.

"We're like a big ol' family," she said. "Some of them don't want to go home."

The regional and national competitions are run by US FIRST — the Foundation for Inspiration and Recognition of Science and Technology, with Google and NASA as major sponsors.

Schroeder noted that former President George H.W. Bush and his wife Barbara are big supporters of the robotics competition, and were present at the nationals.

"George Bush said something that really impressed me," Schroeder said. "'Not everybody can be a professional athlete or professional musician, but everybody here can be a professional at what they do.'"

With the switch to trimesters next year, the team can do much of its work in school for class credit instead of waiting for the end of the day.

"The high school will have a robotics class next year in second trimester, and that will be a big help," she said.

Newspaper 'not going anywhere' despite Walgreens site plan

By Edward Freundl
Staff Writer

A national drugstore chain evidently has its eye on a piece of property in Chelsea that would bring it within a few hundred feet of two competitors.

The only thing is, that property is still being used by two landmark Chelsea businesses: The Wolverine Food & Spirits and the newsroom operations of The Chelsea Standard and The Dexter Leader.

"We're not going anywhere," said Terry Jacoby, editor of both publications.

"We will continue to serve the great communities of Chelsea and Dexter as we have for many years."

The property involved is located on Old US-12, just west of South Main Street.

CVS Pharmacy is located across Main Street, and to the south across Old US-12 is the Chelsea Pharmacy; which remains open for business despite the May 5 fire in the Chelsea Shopping Center.

Chelsea Zoning Administrator Jim Drolett told the newspaper that Walgreens had submitted a preliminary site plan to his office on May 1.

That plan is set to come before the city Planning Commission at its June 17 meeting.

According to its Web site, "As the nation's leading pharmacy retailer, Walgreens is experiencing one of the most dramatic growth rates in the industry. By 2010, Walgreens plans to have 7,000 stores open."

Just because a site plan is presented is no reason to call the moving van, said Wolverine owner Joe Merkel. "For the city to move on it and get all the clearances and zoning approvals will take at least five or six months," said the former village and city council member, adding that several real estate deals have been made on his property in the past.

"In my 40 years in this building, how many times have things fallen through?"

Drolett said the combined parcel measures 2.79 acres in two connected rectangles.

The site plan calls for the store to be 14,478 square feet and have 54 parking spaces, plus "stacking spaces" for up to five vehicles at the pharmacy drive-up window.

"They have filed an application for special land use for the drive-through pharmacy," Drolett said.

The required public hearing on the special use permit will take place at that June 17 planning commission meeting.

According to the site plan, the name of the development company is Hannawa Chelsea Holdings LLC, but several Internet searches returned no results for that name.

The phone number listed on the site plan application is also an apparent dead end. "This is Keith, leave a message," is the response to dialing the number.

School board OKs laptops for middle school

By Edward Freundl
Staff Writer

The Chelsea School Board, agreed Monday to give Beach Middle School students the same chance to benefit from the highly successful laptop computer program that sixth-graders have enjoyed.

The board voted to spend $91,296.80 from technology bond funds to purchase approximately 430 Hewlett-Packard laptops for grades seven and eight.

According to Superintendent David Killips, the majority of that money is being transferred back into the tech bond fund from another bond account known as FFE, or Furniture, Fixtures and Equipment.

"We took $80,000 from the tech bond to pay for security cameras and we continue to do quite well with our investments, so we're putting back the $80,000 plus using about $11,000 to do both seventh and eighth grades," Killips said.

The technology bond was also tapped for two more major purchases at Monday's meeting: an HP Storage Area Network (SAN) for $88,002; and a Cisco 6509 core network switch was purchased for $22,779.

"That switch is the main switch for our technology center," Killips told the board.

Responding to Board Secretary Rob Turner's inquiry, Killips said the new switch is not just a replacement but a scheduled upgrade. "(Technology Director) Scott Wooster planned for it all along," Killips said.

Addition of the SAN, which was also planned, will greatly expand the amount of usable disc space for the system, Killips explained.

"It will increase the disc space for storage and create decentralized storage for the district," he said.

Before the board went into action items, Pierce Lake Elementary Principal Lucy Stieber gave a short presentation on the status of the district's updated crisis plan.

"This is a very encompassing district plan," Stieber told the board.

The plan includes procedures for lockdowns, fire drills, tornado drills, identifying and caring for special-needs students, etc., and each school will have a copy of all other schools' plans in case of an emergency.

It is a work in progress, but when completed, parents will receive a copy of the plan so they will know what to do if anything happens at their child's school.

Such a plan is required by law, Stieber noted, but Chelsea Schools have had almost too much experience at handling problems. "In the past we've had so many crises we're — unfortunately — pretty proficient at it," she said.

Other board action included some new hires for the coming school year at Beach Middle School.

Kirsten Smart was chosen to teach eighth-grade math, and Ryanne Crawford was hired as a part-time English teacher.

In his, Superintendent's Report, Killips offered congratulations to the winners of the uncontested May 6 school board election.

With surprisingly strong turnout, incumbent Board Vice President Steve Olsen won another term on the board with 485 votes, and newcomer Jeff Crowder received 482 votes.

Crowder will fill the vacancy created when Trustee Susan Moore decided not to seek re-election after eight years on the board.

Killips also reported that state school funding will be the subject of Friday's legislative revenue sharing conference. "It looks like they're leaning toward the Senate plan of an increase of $71 to $142 per student," Killips said. "Under that formula Chelsea would receive an increase of $135 per student, but we're still building our budget on $100 per student."

"The speed at which the community has moved to find us a new business location has been remarkable," said Denise Bauer.

Fellow Jones financial adviser Diane Kieliszewski offered to move both Bauers into space at her office at 134 W. Middle St.

"That's the Edward Jones philosophy," Denise said.

While Denise shares Kieliszewski's office, landlords Kathy Finger and John Dunn cleaned and repainted an unused suite down the hall for Deb Bauer's use.

Denise Bauer said she is grateful for the outpouring of support from the community.

"The community has been great, everyone's been great," she said.

"People who aren't even my clients have been calling, asking me how I'm doing or if I needed anything."

After the fire there was a minimum of disruption to the business, because all the paperwork is concerted to computer files, and those files are backed up on computers at the Edward Jones home office in St. Louis.

"The next day we had laptops, the company sent out a 'rescue package' and we were up and running in about 24 hours," Denise said.

"We're very lucky, all the way around."

The damage is evident to the Edward Jones offices of Deb and Denise Bauer in the Chelsea Shopping Center, but they were able to set up shop quickly at Diane Kieliszewski's Edward Jones office at 134 W. Middle St.

Nutritional Class offers weight-loss challenge

Amie R. Branch, a personal wellness coach with NutritionWorks, will host "Taking back control" of our diet, a 12-week nutritional class and weight loss challenge.

The Nutritional Class and Weight Loss Challenge will begin at 6 p.m. Monday. Class will be held at the Community Education Center in Chelsea.

The cost for the 12 weeks is $29 if you choose to participate in the Weight Loss Challenge & Nutritional Class, or $15 for just the Nutritional Class. The $29 fee will be used as payout at the end of the challenge: $25 will be placed in the "pot" for each contestant, and the top three biggest losers will receive payouts accordingly. (1st – 50 percent, 2nd – 30 percent, 3rd – 20 percent). Each contestant will also commit to a $1 per pound gained during the 12 weeks, which creates a 4th place pot for the person who loses the most inches.

Registration is now open with limited space available. Call Amie to pre-register at 1-517-745-1702.

Investing in...
Southeast Michigan's future.

Detroit Edison is planning more than $600 million in upgrades to Southeast Michigan's electrical system. Work has already begun. Once completed, it will provide improved reliability for years to come. We'll be:

- Repairing or replacing hundreds of transformers, fuses, lightning arresters and other pieces of equipment.
- Trimming thousands of trees to reduce power outages.
- Replacing or reconductoring miles of overhead power lines.
- Inspecting thousands of utility poles to identify and correct potential problems.
- Rebalancing Southeast Michigan's electrical system to prevent overloaded electrical circuits.

This is all a part of our ongoing commitment to deliver the energy our customers need, when they need it — today, tomorrow and into the future.

Project RED brings farm and city together

By Edward Freundl
Staff Writer

As modern society gets further from its agricultural roots, exactly how the food reaches our tables becomes more of a mystery.

Fortunately, Project RED (Rural Education Days) has been de-mystifying the process for Washtenaw County residents for the better part of two decades.

This year's edition took place April 23 to 25 at the Washtenaw Farm Council Grounds north of Saline.

Nancy Thelen, Washtenaw County MSU Extension director, said the program is a unique partnership that had humble beginnings, but has now grown to be a major event.

"Project RED is a tri-partnership with the Washtenaw Farm Council, Washtenaw County Farm Bureau and MSU Extension," Thelen said.

"Sue Huehl, me and Holly Porter stated this as a one-day event with 600 kids, and now we're at capacity — three days and 2,000 students, with another 550 teachers and chaperones."

Thelen added that the program is designed for third-grade students.

"Hopefully it's something that will catch on for the future," she said.

MSU Extension agricultural agent Mike Score explained that the purpose of the project was to give people from the city a chance to learn a little about life in the country.

"Most residents of Washtenaw County are non-farmers surrounded by agriculture; they don't have much experience with it," Score said.

"This is a 'temporary tour' of the farming community, and we focus on the most important aspects of agriculture."

Even though Project RED has been in existence for years, this was actually the first time the Chelsea School District took part.

"I got to see cows and farm animals I really love," said Colette Ackley, a third-grader at Pierce Lake Elementary.

"We heard about dirt and how it should stay in the ground and not wash away."

Colette was referring to a soil conservation and erosion prevention presentation by the Washtenaw County Conservation District, a USDA-funded program.

The Conservation District also brought in thousands of tree seedlings for one of its semiannual tree sales, a major fund-raiser.

One of the most popular presentations was given by retired MSU Extension agricultural agent Bill Ames, in costume and in character as the spittin' image of Abraham Lincoln.

His talk was the first that visitors encountered, introducing them to the program and giving them a good idea of the importance of agriculture to the state economy with his "Walk Through Michigan Agriculture" presentation.

Ames retired after 27 years with the Extension Service, and said this was his 19th year doing Project RED.

"Working with the kids is the best part," he said. "Kids are the future."

Using a large farm tractor, harvester and farm wagon as a backdrop, Score led a presentation focusing on one of the state's leading cash crops — corn — and its many uses.

Right-to-work talk heats up once again

Where there is smoke there is fire, and last winter, Mark Gaffney's nostrils were sucking in lots of smoke concerning a petition drive to flip Michigan from a pro-union to a "right-to-work" state.

Tim Skubick

The Michigan AFL-CIO president even ordered his troops to monitor polling places during the presidential primary to nab right-to-work petition circulators, who supposedly were feverously collecting signatures to permit nonunion workers in union shops.

Well, there was no nabbing because there weren't any circulators, and most observers at the time concluded Gaffney was smoking something since there was no hard evidence that any such movement was under way.

There is now.

Turns out a quarter of a million dollars was spent on extensive research to find out how the Michigan electorate would respond to businesses cultivating more nonunion workers.

A whopping 77 percent said they had no problem with a movement that would seriously dilute the influence of organized labor in the workplace. And even after all the anti-right-to-workers and pro-union arguments were made, the number dropped to 72 percent support for the right-to-work movement.

On one hand, that number is a bit shocking, given the strong union roots in this state. But on the other hand, those roots have withered as union membership headed south, both literally and figuratively.

The once-powerful unions, to be sure, are not eunuchs, but the movement's masculinity has been severely challenged.

Anti-union forces complain that any business thinking about relocating here would have second and third thoughts of doing so.

Take Volkswagen of America, for example. Michigan is on the short list for a new VW plant, but don't you suppose those German car guys are watching the two-month protracted UAW strike at American Axle?

Gov. Jennifer Granholm's economic development people counter that "union" fears are not at the top of the list when companies consider moving here. A skilled workforce is the biggest concern, and on that front Michigan shines, thanks in part to the union movement.

But that has not extinguished chatter about getting more nonunion workers into the work force.

Senate GOP leader Mike Bishop made a pass at it last year in the midst of contentious budget negotiations, but it never materialized.

Many thought during the last governor's race that businessman Dick DeVos would make nonunion work a centerpiece of his campaign, but he surprisingly backed off, conceding the subject would be too divisive.

So with all that pricey research in hand, where does that leave the movement?

If it is true that 72 percent of the voters favor right-to-work status, it would seem logical that during the next contest for governor, the movement would be front and center.

But a source suggests it would take upward of $30 million to overcome the vigorous anti-right-to-work campaigning the unions would launch to kill it. That's money that could go into winning the governor's office, not just fighting one issue.

Hence, the strategy appears to be to mark time, and if a Republican wins the governor's chair, then ramp the movement up for real.

In other words, Gaffney should get out his asbestos suit. All that smoke could turn to fire.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor: An ordinary day can change into tragedy in the time span of a heartbeat. Last Monday's fire in Chelsea is a high profile example. All of us with the Chelsea Area Fire Authority are thankful that no one was killed or injured in the shopping center fire. Our heartfelt compassion goes to the business owners who have suffered losses.

One thing for sure, the losses could have been much worse were it not for the immediate and professional response of our firefighters. The call came in at 12:44 p.m. and our firefighters were on the scene at 12:46. Our firefighters, full timers and paid-on-call members, are highly trained and highly dedicated. The Chelsea Area Fire Authority places a high value on training, preparedness and readiness to serve our community.

Last year our firefighters responded to 1,218 calls for service. These calls range from medical emergencies to car crashes, fires, and all types of rescues. Last week our firefighters responded to a water rescue on a nearby lake. In every case, from the shopping center fire on Monday to the water rescue later in the week, our firefighters stand ready to serve all the residents of Chelsea, Lyndon, Lima, Sylvan and parts of Dexter Township.

To all of our firefighters and Chief Jim Payeur we want to thank you for a job well done. It is an honor to serve with you.

Maryann Noah
Chair, Chelsea Area Fire Authority

To the Editor: The Dexter Board of Education and the staff, teachers and students at Dexter Community Schools thank you for supporting the recent bond initiative.

I'm am very proud to be a resident of Dexter and to be the President of the Board of Education. It shouldn't, but it amazes me every time I work with the Dexter community to solve our educational issues.

You are all so busy, yet you unselfishly give of your time to define the needs, research the data to understand the options, and then wisely recommend the best solutions for our kids.

Your generosity will pay great dividends not only for the educational success of our students, but also for our community. It was so gratifying to see the Chamber and service organizations, as well as the booster clubs, get so solidly behind the bond.

I think we all realize that strong schools translate directly to a strong community, one that clearly provides a convincing choice for new families.

As someone who specifically moved to the Dexter community in 1995 because of the schools, I've had my decision validated time and again by the amazing support Dexter has provided to keep our schools the best in Michigan.

Thanks again, and I look forward to working with you all as we strive to meet our mission, "To Provide a Quality Education for All Students."

Larry Cobler, President,
Dexter Board of Education

Our take:

State needs tougher drunken driving laws

There is some potentially life-saving legislation being held up in the Michigan Senate.

A package of bills termed "extreme drunk driving" should be passed. They would apply stricter sanctions to drunken driving offenders. These would include requiring participation in an alcohol abuse treatment program and a 45-day license suspension. After that time, for up to a year, the offender would be allowed to drive on a restricted license and would have to have a certified ignition interlock device on his vehicle.

The device requires the driver to breathe into it to make sure he is not going to be driving drunk. If he fails the breath test, his vehicle will not start.

As complicated as these sanctions sound, they're really quite reasonable considering the danger a drunk driver poses to not only himself but also to the general public.

Under the proposed legislation, first-time offenders stopped with a blood-alcohol concentration of 0.15 or higher would have to go on this program. For a repeat offender, the BAC limit is set at 0.08 or higher. The legal driving limit is a BAC of 0.08 or lower.

Currently, convicted drunk drivers have their licenses suspended for one year and then can apply for restricted licenses with an interlock device.

Also included in the legislation is language to increase quality standards, upgrade anti-circumvention features and improve the reporting requirements for providers.

Statistics certainly illustrate the need for such legislation. There are more than 55,000 drunken driving arrests in Michigan each year and about 28,000 are at the 0.15 blood alcohol concentration. Of the total, 21,000 are repeat offenders.

During a typical weekend evening, less than 1 percent of the drivers have a BAC of .15 of higher but they account for 58 percent of all alcohol-related traffic deaths.

The most numbing statistic is that someone is killed in Michigan every 24 hours by a drunk driver.

The legislation has the obvious support of Mothers Against Drunk Driving-Michigan, as well as the Michigan State Police, the Michigan Sheriffs Association, AAA Michigan and the National Transportation Safety Board, among others.

One group expressing concerns about the package is the Michigan Licensed Beverage Association. Lance Biniomi, government affairs director for the association, says his group supports the bills conceptually but there are some problems.

He says the bills say they are geared toward the extreme drunk driver, but the 0.15 BAC level is what the average drunk driver has when arrested. The association also believes the new legislation takes away judicial discretion for first-time offenders and that the requirement to obtain treatment needs guidelines on what type of health program the individual should enter.

These may be some valid points, but we don't believe they are strong enough to hold up this important legislation.

What was the "quadrant" used for now located in a showcase in Sylvan Town Hall?

A. An early survey tool used by Edmund Conklin, first moderator of Sylvan Township.
B. A soil testing mechanism used by developers Elisha and James Congdon.
C. George Staffan used this measuring tool while paving Main Street.

Answer A. The quadrant was used by Edmund Conklin in his duties as Road Master and Fence Viewer of Sylvan Township. It is made of eboney with ivory inlays. His wife Sephronia Hicox chose the township name of "Sylvan." Edmund Conklin was born in 1797 in Orange County, New York. He came to this area in the 1830s. The quadrant was donated to Chelsea Area Historical Society by Doris Whitaker Glazier. Mrs. Glazier said that the first Conklin son, Calvin Conklin, was the first white boy born in Sylvan Township.

Guest Column: By Dan Minzey

Program motivates jail inmates to earn release

The Washtenaw County Sheriff's Office believes in "effective inmate supervision." Our goal is to reduce the number of critical incidents and improve inmate behavior in our facility.

Continuously rising costs, strained budgets and crowding posed challenges that prompted us to work with our colleagues in the criminal justice system to develop new effective and cost-efficient management tools.

Minzey

Like most jails, we face serious crowding, underscoring the need to promote inmate cooperation. The costs of crowding have reduced the availability of inmate programs and activities.

Additionally, inmates are housed in dormitory settings that make their cooperation and compliance with rules even more important. Although our 30-year-old jail was designed as a podular, indirect-supervision facility, we attempt to apply many of the principles of direct supervision.

Michigan is one of many states that have statutory procedures — "triggers" —that authorized the early release of inmates when jail populations reach certain levels. I was concerned that such releases are arbitrary and not in the best interest of the public. My concern, and those of other county officials, prompted the development of a new program that motivates inmates to earn early release.

Pretrial Detainees

Inmates who have not been convicted or sentenced comprise the majority of our daily population (60 percent). Unlike sentenced offenders, we were not able to offer detainees opportunities to reduce their jail time. Motivating pretrial detainees proved challenging without the incentive of reduced jail time.

We have a long history of working closely with all of our local criminal justice system "stakeholders," primarily through the Criminal Justice Collaborative Council.

Tapping their perspectives and expertise, we developed an approach that motivates sentenced offenders and pretrial detainees, using a state law that allows some offenders to ask sentencing judges to reduce their sentences.

Begins Upon Admission

During orientation, each inmate is told that he/she has the opportunity to earn up to 25 percent off his/her sentence upon judicial review and approval if they display appropriate behaviors. Any inmate, pretrial or sentenced, may start working toward release after orientation.

Pretrial detainees may not petition the court until after they have been convicted or sentenced, but most detainees are eventually found guilty. Sentenced offenders may petition the court when they have earned enough credits.

Earned Release Card

Prior to leaving the orientation unit, each inmate receives a card that is used to document program participation, discipline and all work or community services projects in which they participate.

Promoting Program Participation and Work

Over the years, we learned that inmate work activities sometimes compete with program participation. To ensure that work and programs were equally promoted, we decided to assign the same weight to each for the purposes of earning release. In this way, inmates are not forced to choose between work and programs, but rather are motivated to pursue both.

Program Opportunities

Although the costs of crowding have diverted funds from programming, we are still able to offer a variety of opportunities, including:

• Moral Recognition Therapy — A three-month, 12-step program to alter thinking and decision making for the better.

•Dawn Farms — For substance abusers who are working toward recovery. Meets three times per week.

• Alternatives to Domestic Aggression — This class focuses on power and control within a relationship. It meets two times per week for six weeks.

•Alcoholics and Narcotics Anonymous — Group programs to help solve their common problems of addiction and help others to recover from alcohol and drugs.

• Probation/Parole Survival — Educates inmates with skills to be successful on probation and parole.

•Life Skills — Providing resources for living life successfully. Topics include coping skills, effective communication, managing stress, reducing fear, managing anger and resolving conflict.

•Transitioning Home — Assists with the transition from jail back into the community.

•GED - Assist inmates to complete their high school diploma. Meets four times per week.

•Computers — Assists inmates to learn basic computer skills.

•Anger Management — Teaches inmates how to control their anger.

•Beat the Streets — Substance abuse and relapse prevention program.

Work Opportunities

Inmates are expected to perform basic activities such as cleaning their room and their housing unit, and don't earn credit for such work. We offer four primary types of work activities for which credit is given:

Department of Public Works.

Marie Sherry, treasurer/finance director for the village of Dexter, said Dexter's overall millage rate has dropped 0.8936 mills since 2002. Previously, the last increase was in 1996, when voters approved a bond for downtown street improvements.

Other improvements in Dexter include such items as a new DPW facility, creation of a community park, a farmers' market on Alpine Street, tree planting and maintenance, and improvements and reconstruction to Dexter-Ann Arbor Street, Third Street, Kensington Street, and Wall Court, which are planned for 2008.

Local taxes are also helping to pay for the bus service that connects Dexter to Ann Arbor and Chelsea, and van service for senior citizens and disabled residents, both of which are operated by the W.A.V.E. Community Connector.

Chelsea saw a 1.25-mill increase in 2007 to help pay for fire service charges, increased pension costs, retiree health care costs and to bring the general fund closer to a desired target of 15 percent of reserve in the general fund, according to a report by Terri Burtch, Chelsea's clerk/treasurer. Chelsea also has a Downtown Development Authority that assesses properties within its district at a rate of 1.6727 mills.

Ypsilanti's last increase was in 2006, up by 1.219 mills, for police and fire services.

Manchester Village Manager Jeff Wallace reported that the last millage increase of 1.2998 occurred in 2000 by voter approval to purchase the building that houses village offices, the Manchester Senior Group, the Manchester District Library, contracted sheriff's department personnel, Western Washtenaw Construction Authority, DPW storage space and meeting space.

Wallace said that the three biggest changes the village has experienced in the last 10 years include reduced revenue coming from the state, the requirement to contract with Washtenaw County for police protection, and a struggling industrial tax base that affects the entire budget. However, Wallace said, "We are still able to deliver services we did 10 years ago with the economic pressures put upon us."

Although Milan saw a 1-mill increase in 1999 for debt and streets, the city was able to reduce it by 0.25 mills in 2006. Sherry Steinwedel, the city's clerk/treasurer, said that Milan, like other communities, has budget woes related to higher costs and less income.

Saline's last millage increase was in 2005 for general city operations.

"Tax dollars have been used to issue new bonds for buildings, including the city hall, police, Department of Public Works, recreation complex improvements, historic farm and barn, and ongoing street repairs," said Mickie Jo Bennett, city treasurer.

Townships pay their share

While people who live in cities or villages seem to have a better understanding of the services their taxes pay for, people who live in townships commonly think that they don't receive much and can't understand why their tax bills seem so high.

"I think the taxes are too high. I don't think they've articulated too well what we're getting for our money," said Sue McMillan of Lodi Township.

"Property tax bills are issued and payable to the local treasurer of cities and townships; however, it should be noted that a majority of that bill is for other taxing authorities, including, but not limited to, schools, colleges, county and state education," Bennett said.

So, while a person living in the city of Ypsilanti, for example, pays 29.5795 mills in city taxes, plus taxes from other local jurisdictions to make the total millage 58.0817 mills, a person living in Ypsilanti Township who resides in the Ypsilanti school district pays a total of 38.9022 mills.

District libraries are local windows to the world

Townships and cities collect the library millage, and send it to their district library (see table). Augusta and Sharon townships do not have an agreement with any library. If a resident of one of those townships want to sue a library's services, then a card may be purchased. The price of a non-resident card is set by the library, and that price will allow anyone in the household to access services.

Chelsea District Library has the highest millage in Washtenaw County at 2.3321. The general fund is only 1.6321, but voters passed a bond debt of 0.7 in 2004 to pay for the addition and renovation of the McKune building.

Chelsea District Library has the special honor of being named the "Best Small Library in America." Patron's have a multitude of choices when it comes to borrowing materials, including books, tapes, CDs, DVDs, MP-3s, magazines, and newspapers. They can participate in programs such as art, dance, women's

Parks system a county gem

Taxes fund 31 parks in Washtenaw County

By Crystal Hayduk
Special Writer

In 1973, Washtenaw County had four roadside parks. But in 1976, voters passed a millage that has since raised the revenue to create and operate the current total of 31 parks and nature preserves, covering more than 3,000 acres countywide.

Bob Tetens, director of Washtenaw County Parks and Recreation Commission, said that county parks fill the void between the local neighborhood park and state parks. County parks are a great source for recreation that is nearby and free or low-cost, a special benefit when economic times are tough. The parks also offer programs, special events and camps.

For those who appreciate quiet recreation, the county also has nature preserves. The Washtenaw County Board of Commissioners created the Natural Area Preservation Program in 2000, an ordinance for land preservation. The program is unique because it allows public access to these areas. An example of this is the Leonard Preserve in Manchester.

Of the 31 county parks, 27 are free. Fees are charged only at the Meri Lou Murray Recreation Center, Pierce Lake Golf Course, Rolling Hills Water Park and Independence Lake.

It's hard to say how many visitors the county parks attract every year since counts at most parks are only taken between Memorial and Labor Day at locations that have a gate with a staff person present. Tetens said that he estimates more than 800,000 visitors per year, with numbers increasing, possibly due to the current economic situation and high price of gasoline.

The millage for parks is 0.2146 with the Headlee rollback, payable as part of the county millage total. The millage is an important source of revenue for the parks, since income from the four that charge admission can vary from year to year depending on the weather.

"We won't have a lot of visitors to Rolling Hills Water Park if we have a cool summer or if it rains every weekend," Tetens said.

The county also has been working on a project called the Border to Border Trail Initiative for the last five years. This is a non-motorized trail that is being built to link communities and activity centers, from Portage Lake in Dexter Township to Ford Lake in Ypsilanti Township.

"I can see it done in my mind. Everything with parks is long-term. We don't ever sell the land. We plan for what the park system is going to look like for the next generation," Tetens said.

EMU Baseball Team Keeps Eye on MAC Regular-Season Title

Eagles' close out MAC season at CMU

The Eastern Michigan University baseball team enters the final three-game series of the 2008 Mid-American Conference season this weekend with the league title on the line.

The Eagles are currently leading the West Division with a 14-6 mark for a winning percentage of .700. Northern Illinois is second at 14-9 (.609) followed by Ball State at 11-9 (.550), Western Michigan is 11-10 (.524), Central Michigan holds the fifth spot at 11-12 (.478) with Toledo sixth at 8-12 (.400).

Kent State is the top dog in the East Division at 14-7 (.667) with Bowling Green a close second at 13-8 (.619). The rest of the East has Ohio third at 12-12 (.500), Akron fourth at 8-10 (.444), Miami fifth at 7-17 (.292) and Buffalo sixth at 6-17 (.261).

The team with the best MAC winning percentage, regardless of division affiliation, will be crowned the MAC regular-season champion. EMU won the 2007 crown and lost to Kent State in the finals of the MAC Tournament, hosted by the Eagles.

Head coach Jake Boss' Eagles close out the MAC regular season Thursday-Saturday (May 15-17) in a three-game series at Central Michigan. Game times are 3 p.m. Thursday and Friday and 2 p.m. Saturday. If EMU wins one game in the CMU series, the Eagles will repeat as West Division champion.

The top eight teams in the standings after this weekend's games will advance to VA Memorial Stadium in Chillicothe, Ohio (May 21-25) for the 2008 MAC Tournament.

The winners of the West and East divisions will receive the top two seeds based on MAC winning percentage. The next six teams in order of winning percentage will be seeded three through eight. The teams will then be divided into two pools and play double-elimination within the brackets with the winning team from each pool meeting in a one-game winner-take-all game.

health, and parenting. There are computer stations set up for every age group with high-speed Internet and access to both black-and-white and color printing, and wireless high speed access for those who bring their own laptop.

The library also offers free delivery of materials to people who are physically unable to visit the library, including the elderly, the disabled, and those who are temporarily incapacitated by illness or accident, said Wendy Smith, marketing and development coordinator for the Chelsea District Library.

After-hours lockers are available for pick-up of materials, as well. The library is central to many community festivals and events, and it partners with other local facilities through the Books to Babies literacy program.

"Then there is our staff, all of whom are more than willing to help find what you need, if you don't happen to find it," Smith said. "Got a question? They can get an answer!"

The total millage for the Dexter District Library is 1.6486. Of that amount, 0.52 was voter approved in 2005 for the construction of a new building that is scheduled to open in the fall of 2008.

"The new facility will provide enhanced computer resources and more traditional materials for borrowing, as well as better quiet study and reading space, more room for casual readers, space to grow our collections for years to come and larger meeting room facilities," said Dexter Library Director Paul McCann.

The Dexter District Library serves the residents of eight townships, in addition to the village of Dexter. In addition to the traditional materials, it offers programs, including those for children and families, informational programs, and book discussion groups.

The Manchester District Library millage is 1.05. Because the library is small, not as many materials can be held as at the larger libraries, but it is part of The Library Network, which allows people to request materials to be borrowed from other libraries and delivered to Manchester.

The library also offers high-speed wireless access at the library. Heather Sturm, director of the Manchester District Library, said that because many of the library's patrons live in rural areas, high-speed access is not even possible from their homes.

"We're all about service. Access and convenience are the watchwords of our strategic plan," said Donna DeButts, community relations coordinator for the Ypsilanti District Library.

For 1.5 operating mills, people in the city of Ypsilanti and Ypsilanti Township can utilize the materials and programs of their library. They also pay 0.6479 mills for a bond debt from 1998. Superior Township pays 1.6 mills because it joined the library district in 2006. Eventually, that number will come down based on the Headlee rollback.

The Ypsilanti library is nearly ready to join an interlibrary loan system called Michigan Electronic Library Catalog, which will make it easier for patrons to request books.

The Ypsilanti District Library runs three branches and two bookmobiles with a $4 million budget. It also offers delivery to the homebound and after-hours lockers. Fifteen percent of the budget is put aside for new materials and subscriptions to computer databases.

Strong schools mean strong communities

Operating funds for schools come primarily from the School Aid Fund. Every year, the state Legislature decides how much money each school district is permitted to receive per student, and that amount is called the foundation allowance. The total dollars a district is permitted to receive is determined by multiplying the foundation allowance by the number of pupils enrolled in the school district.

About 22 percent of the School Aid Fund is funded by local property taxes, but the rest comes from other sources (see graph). The foundation allowance (based on the amount authorized per pupil) provides the majority of the local school revenue. Other money comes through federal and state grants and the Washtenaw Intermediate School District. Only about 2 percent comes directly from other local sources.

Because almost half of the money in the School Aid Fund comes from sales tax, declining product sales have led to a decrease in money available for schools. The money that the state gives to schools each year has not kept up with inflation. In the last six years, school funding has risen 8.8 percent, while inflation has risen 16 percent, said Sharon Raschke, executive director for business and finances for Dexter Community Schools.

"People still have a preconceived notion that new business or subdivisions in a district will help schools financially. Property taxes are part of the formula, but unless there are more children attending the schools, it won't impact the general operations of the schools directly," said Teresa Zigman, executive director of business and operations for Chelsea School District.

Non-homestead property tax, at a rate of 18 mills, goes directly to the school district. However, if a district has many non-homestead properties, it doesn't have more funding than other schools because the state will reduce its aid by the same amount that the district gained from local property taxes on non homestead properties.

Every homestead property pays 6 mills for schools. Sinking funds and bond funds, which are voter approved sources of revenue that are over and above the regular school taxes, do help schools with other costs that are unrelated to the day-to-day operations, such as building renovation, technology, equipment and playgrounds.

County services benefit everyone.

The county levies a tax of 5.6768 mills that is the same for every property in Washtenaw County. Washtenaw County such as an addition or remodeling.

Inspection involves the assessor determining the value of a home by various methods such as exterior measurements, observed depreciation, and evaluation of the neighborhood. With a homeowner's permission, the assessor may also check the interior of a home.

"The SEV goes down, but your taxes go up. So what's the story on that?" asked Barb Allen.

Zamenski explained the seeming discrepancy.

"Taxable value is either the same as the assessed value, the 5 percent cap higher than the previous year's taxable value, or the previous year's value multiplied by the rate of inflation, whichever is lowest. Assessed value is tied to the market. In good times, assessments can increase due to strong sales.

"Since 1994, assessments in this area could have risen 150 percent or more. The taxable value only rises at the inflation rate, which has never been higher than 5 percent (protected by law) and has hovered around 2 to 3 percent a year since 1994," Zamenski said.

Doing the math, he used the example of a home in 1994 that was worth $100,000 with both an SEV and taxable value of $50,000. In

Every property is assessed on an annual basis to determine its taxable value. The assessment is based on three concepts, said Greg Zamenski, president of Advanced Assessment Technologies. He is pictured while assessing a home.

2008, that same house is now worth $198,000 with a SEV of $99,000, but a taxable value of only $70,500. To lower the taxable value, the SEV would have to fall below $70,500.

If the same home were to change ownership in 2008 with a sale price of $198,000, its value "uncaps." The home would be re-assessed and the values would be recalculated so that the taxable value and the SEV would be equal at $99,000.

For more information on a home's assessment, call the local assessor or the County Equalization Department.

Tax talk: Words and terms you should know

Ad valorem: Tax based on the assessed value of real estate.

Department of Public Works: Includes a multitude of services, which may vary slightly between communities. Covers items such as street maintenance (snow removal, repairs); fall leaf collection; tree maintenance; building and equipment maintenance (of city/village buildings); solid waste services; city/village park maintenance; recycling and composting; and water main maintenance and repairs.

Escrow: A special account created by a mortgage company for the purpose of tax payment. The mortgage company receives a portion of the tax bill with each mortgage payment. When the taxes are due, the mortgage company pays the taxes out of the escrow account.

Headlee Amendment: Voter approved in 1978 as a result of taxpayer dissatisfaction over high property taxes in Michigan. Key components include the requirement for voter approval to add new taxes; prohibits the state from mandating that local government provide new services unless the state will finance the increased cost; and establishes overall limitations on spending.

Levy: To order to be paid.

Mill: Taxes are paid in the form of "millage." Property tax of 1 mill equals $1 for every $1,000 of taxable property value.

Non-homestead property: (Also known as Non-PRE) Business, rental unit or home that is not used as a primary residence; taxed an additional 18 mills for schools.

Principal Residence Exemption: If one owns and occupies a home, then one does not pay the additional 18 mills for schools.

Proposal A: Local district levies a tax of 18 mills on non-homestead properties, but this money offsets money from the state. This means that regardless of how much money the district collects through non-homestead property, the district will still only receive a total of the foundation amount multiplied by the number of students enrolled in the district.

Recreational Fund Millage: Voter approved; considered separate from a school district operating millage. Money to operate a "system of recreation," which includes a wide variety of leisure activities, such as athletic activities, drama, arts and crafts. These activities are available to the whole community on an age-appropriate basis.

Sinking fund: Voter approved money for major renovations and repairs in a district. Doesn't include equipment. The state audits the usage of the money every year.

State Equalized Value: SEV is estimated to be 50 percent of the market value of a property. It's adjusted each year based on sales that have occurred in each neighborhood.

Taxable Value: Taxable value is the value of a property on which taxes due are calculated. It's adjusted each year, but is limited to the rate of inflation, regardless of the sale prices of properties each year.

Treasurer Catherine McClary said that county services include the court system, the sheriff's department and jail, Washtenaw Department of Public Health, social and human services and programs, Community Mental Health, Veteran Services, Vital Records, Washtenaw County Parks and Recreation, and many more.

The Washtenaw Intermediate School Distract millage is 3.9745, payable by every property in the county. WISD is a regional educational service agency that was created in 1962 by Michigan law to help local school districts make the best use of district resources. This is done by coordinating programs and services that are highly specialized or too expensive for any one school district to offer. Among many services to the local schools, WISD supports special education for more than 7,000 students throughout the county.

Every property also pays a millage to the local community college. In all but a few outlying areas, the millage is 3.6956 to Washtenaw Community College.

Wallace said that because of escrow accounts on home loans, many people don't see their individual tax bill except for a total.

"It's very important that people understand their property taxes and assessments," Sherry said.

The area's local tax structure and its relationship with the state, as well as the overlapping governments and district divisions, make taxes complex. If you have questions about your property taxes or assessments, don't hesitate to contact your local municipality for help.

sampling, because it helps them understand how much of their food comes from Michigan," Score said.

"The sessions during the day are really fun, we get to play around with the kids."

In his fifth year doing the presentation, Score said he talked to 27 groups of kids over the three-day event.

"The kids have fun with this," he added.

The groups were led from presentation to presentation by adult group leaders like Garrett Fischer of Dexter, a Cloverlear Lane 4H team leader now working for MSU Extension.

"I work on a dairy farm, and with this I get a chance to teach kids stuff they wouldn't normally learn," Fischer said.

"I did this myself when I was in third grade — the best part is walking around answering questions from the kids."

Another presentation that was a big hit were the animals brought in from different farms around the county so that the kids and adults could get a closer look and learn a little about how they are raised.

"My favorite was the llamas — I never petted a llama before, and I never held a chicken before," said Connor Cooke of Harvest Elementary in Saline.

"We got to eat a lot of stuff like ice cream, blueberries, raisins, and popcorn, and it was all made in Michigan. I didn't know so many things came from Michigan."

Jenna Kamarczyk, a student at Redner Elementary of Lincoln Consolidated Schools in Ypsilanti, said she learned some very important things.

"I liked seeing the baby chicks hatch and seeing a big cow getting ready to have a baby," she said.

"I learned there's all different kinds of cows; some are for beef, and some are for milk. I thought there were only milk cows."

Whether they were new to Project RED or old hands at it, even the teachers seemed to be enjoying themselves during the farm presentations.

"This was my 10th time; it's been the same every year but they've improved the students' involvement, said Jessica Stafford of Symons Elementary in Milan.

"For the most part, our kids in Milan don't see farming or he agricultural side of anything — they don't really think about where their milk comes from."

Stafford said the presentations reinforced some of the things she is teaching in her classroom such as recycling and groundwater preservation.

She also noted that the kids really learned a lot.

:I don't think the kids realized Michigan produced so many products," Stafford said.

"The kids enjoyed the different foods and the animals, and the soil conservation presentation was like an experiment we did."

This year was the first time Melissa Yekulis of Klager Elementary in Manchester attended project RED.

"It was a fantastic program, the things they presented to children and adults was very detailed, and it had a lot of excellent information," Yekulis said,

"The best part was how organized it was, and the quantity of information."

The teacher noted that, even though it's fairly late in the school year, it was the students' first field trip and they "loved it."

"For the kids their favorite part was eating food and the interaction with the animals," she said.

"It was, overall, just a well-done, exciting day."

Third-graders from Pierce Lake Elementary School in Chelsea pose in front of Daisy, the Michigan Milk Producers Association's huge Holstein "rolling billboard."

A sheep-shearing demonstration was just part of the agricultural education provided by Project RED, or Rural Education Days, at the Washtenaw Farm Council Grounds April 23 to 25.

County Democrats host meeting

AFL-CIO President Mark Gaffney will be the featured speaker at the upcoming membership meeting of the Western Washtenaw Democrats at Metzger's Restaurant on Wednesday, May 21. Gaffney will be addressing pending legislation in the Michigan Legislature regarding "Right to Work" laws at 5:30 p.m.

Gaffney's talk will follow an informal membership meet-and-greet, scheduled for 4:30 p.m.

Representatives Jacob Hoogendyk, Jr. (R-Portage) and Kevin Elsenheimer (R-Bellaire) have introduced a two bill legislative package that would make Michigan a "right-to-work" state. Hoogendyk's bill (HB 4454) would impact private sector workers. Elsenheimer's bill (HB 4455) would impact public employees. These bills have been referred to the House Labor Committee.

Along with salary and benefits, the discussion will include pensions and the differences between union workers and their non-union counterparts.

Metzger's Restaurant is located in the Baxter Plaza on Zeeb Road and I-94. For more information, visit www.wwdems.org.

Chelsea receives high ratings in patient survey

Results from a recent patient survey show that Chelsea Community Hospital is among the best in the state and the nation. The Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS), part of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, recently released results from the new HCAHPS (Hospital Consumer Assessment of Healthcare Providers and Systems) patient survey.

In comparison to other hospitals, CCH:

- Scored in the top 25 percent of hospitals in the state and nation in all ten categories.
- Fared better than all other hospitals in Jackson and Washtenaw County.
- Scored in the top 2 percent of all Michigan hospitals for overall rating of the hospital and recommending the hospital to friends and family.

JAIL

- Block Worker — Volunteers for cleaning, painting, passing trays, or anything else within the unit currently housed.
- Cart Pusher — Assist officer with passing food trays on the blocks and block cleaning.
- Trusty — Works eight or more hours per day in the kitchen, laundry or other areas without direct supervision.
- Community Service — participating in jail special cleaning and maintenance projects or donating work on projects brought into the facility by nonprofit organizations.

Results

Some of the results of the earned release program are visible because our facility is:

•Remarkably clean given its age and occupancy.

•Quiet and orderly, not because all the inmates are sleeping or watching television, but because many are engaged in productive activities

Since we implemented the program in November 2006, 30 percent of the offenders who have participated have been granted some form of an early release. This has resulted in a total number of 2,244 jail bed days being granted for those releases. The average percentage reduction given by the Judges was 18.1 percent.

Washtenaw County still faces many challenges, but the earned release program has proven effective as a tool to promote appropriate inmate behavior and to encourage inmates to engage in work and program opportunities. Earned release presents one of the few "win/win" opportunities in our field, where all stakeholders benefit.

Washtenaw County Sheriff Dan Minzey can be reached at 971-8400.

Glazier descendant pays a visit to Chelsea

By Tom Diab
Special Writer

In April the Chelsea Area Historical Society entertained a visit from the great-great-grandson of Frank P. Glazier.

His name is Sam Glazier of Grand Rapids, and he is a first-year computer engineering student at the University of Michigan.

Frank Glazier was one of the most influential characters in Chelsea's history. He founded the Glazier Stove Co. in 1890.

He is responsible for building so many of the beautiful buildings that decorate Chelsea today, including the Clocktower complex, the First United Methodist church, the Glazier memorial bank, the Chelsea Retirement Community and more.

At the height of his career Frank Glazier was Michigan's state treasurer from 1904 to 1907.

I invited Sam Glazier to Chelsea so that he could see what his ancestors had accomplished.

It was interesting to find out that Sam had little knowledge of the greatness of Frank Glazier.

The day began around noon when I went to pick Sam up from the university. First we drove by the beautiful, seven-story Glazier building built in 1907 at the corner of Huron and Main streets in Ann Arbor.

In Chelsea we first chatted with John Keusch, the 98-year-old attorney and Chelsea historian who knew many of Sam's ancestors.

Following this we visited the Glazier cemetery plot followed by the beautiful Glazier home on South Street that is currently being renovated by the Beekman family.

We then drove out to Cavanaugh Lake to view some of the property that Frank Glazier and his children owned. Sam's father grew up at the lake.

We ended up at the Chelsea Historical Museum located within the Clocktower complex in the Gourmet Chocolate Café, where we spent two hours studying the Glazier heritage.

It was dark by the time I drove Sam back to the university and it was clear to me that this fine young man was amazed and proud be a Glazier.

The 1950's in Chelsea

Three summers at the corner root beer stand and ice cream stand

By Kathy Clark
Special Writer

It was a cold spring and summer in 1954. That year Rufus T. Gillam leased the Chelsea root beer stand from the end of April until the first week in September.

Two drive-ups, the root beer stand and the neighboring Dairy Queen, stood at the corner of Old US-12 and M-52, where the Chelsea State Bank is now located.

Both buildings and businesses were owned by J. Vincent Burg, who for many years was the pharmacist and owner of Burg's corner drugstore in downtown Chelsea.

Burg did not buy the A&W franchise; however, the root beer was mixed with syrup bought from the A&W in Jackson.

Sugar in 100-pound sacks was bought elsewhere to mix with the syrup. Car hops traditionally served food and the root beer in adult and child-size glass mugs.

In 2007 Gillam had retired from teaching and moved into Silver Maples. While cleaning out his home he located the 1954 ledger recording inventory, expenditures and income at the Chelsea root beer stand. The ledger represents a small glimpse into our past.

Gillam, a World War II Army veteran, taught fifth grade in Manchester schools, and was intermediary supervisor for Manchester Public Schools.

Looking back at how he came upon the summer job he said, "One of my students was connected to 'drive-ups' through Mr. Higgins and I contacted Mr. Burg to lease his root beer stand for one year."

The old cash ledger reminded him that the venture wasn't very lucrative.

That summer afternoons and evenings were unseasonably cool which affected the traffic of customers.

"That summer seemed quite windy. Business depended on the weather and it was too cool for people to come out for root beer," Gillam recalled.

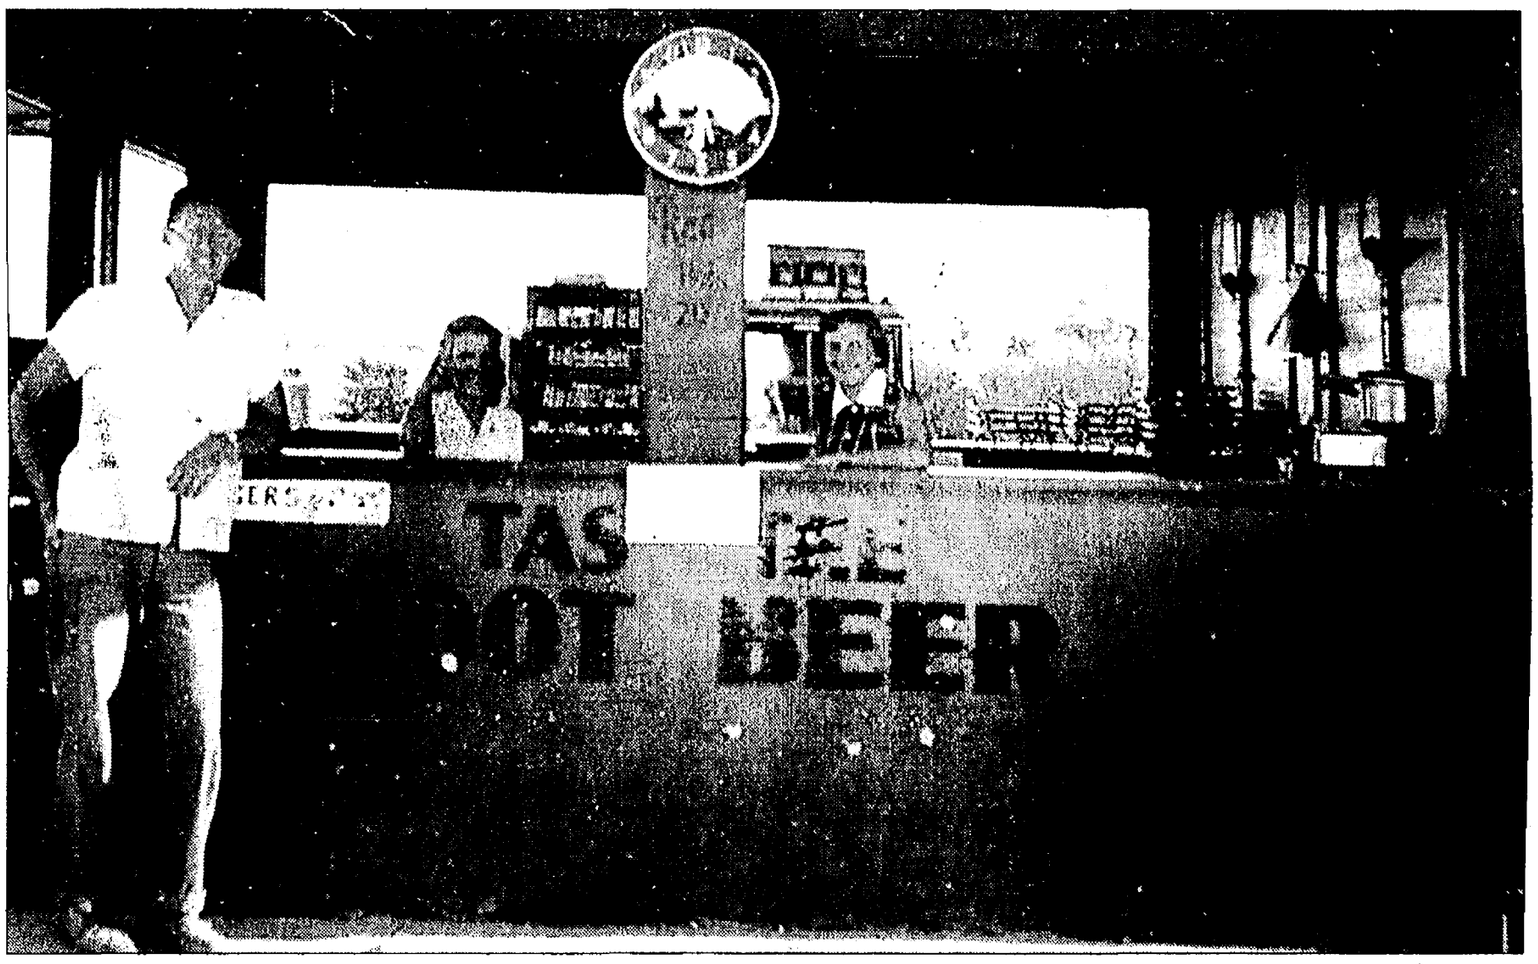
"It was fun, but one year was enough. I figured out I didn't make a thing after driving back and forth to pick up supplies."

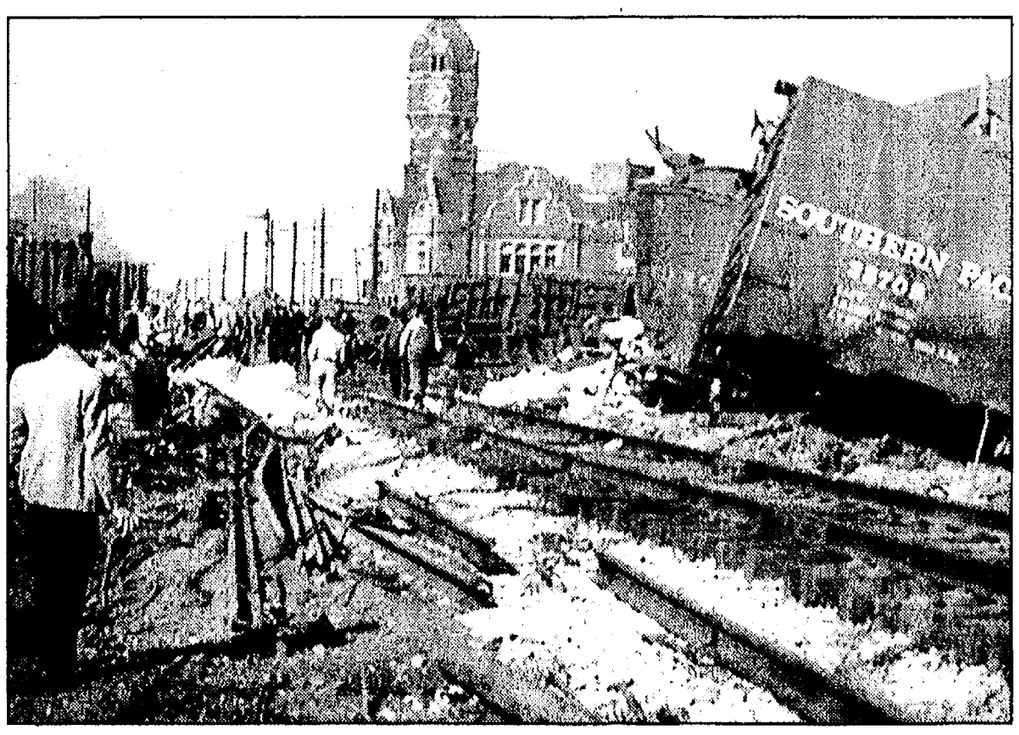
The ledger showed total amount taken in was $3,103.63, minus expenses of $2,429.14, leaving Gillam with $674.49 in profit.

The "Tas-Tee Root Beer" stand was not screened. Food was served over open-air counters when the three-sided awnings were lifted for business.

Serving trays and equipment for grilling, deep frying and steaming buns were provided inside the stand.

Employees were Gillam, chief cook Marilyn Honbaum Elkins and two car hops. Two local girls, Lois and Betty Pierce, worked for a few years as car hops.





ABOVE: Operator Rufus Gillam (left), an unidentified car hop, and chief cook Marilyn Honbaum at the root beer stand in 1954.

LEFT: The April 9, 1955 train wreck on the tracks east of the Chelsea Train Depot brought hundreds of visitors to Chelsea, and to the Dairy Queen and root beer stands.

Employees popped corn and mixed root beer. Other menu items were french fries, "red hots" hot dogs for 20 cents, red hots with chili, gum, candy and cigarettes.

Hamburgers were a quarter and a carton of cigarettes was less than $2.

Gillam's shift began in the early afternoon and the stand was closed by 8 or 9 p.m. due to the cool weather.

Personal memories

I located chief cook Marilyn Honbaum Elkins for a phone interview.

She moved from Chelsea to California in 1970.

In 1955 and 1956 she and her mother, Emma Honbaum, leased both drive-ups.

Emma was an inspector at Chelsea's Federal Screw Works. When auto companies were on strike, she was often laid off by FSW and needed other work.

The Honbaums had two successful summers at the drive-ups and were satisfied with their earnings.

"The key to the Dairy Queen and root beer stand was you had to have a hot summer," Marilyn recalled, and both summers of 1955 and 1956 are on record as being consistently hot, even into late evenings.

"In April 1955 the Easter weekend train wreck started out the first mad rush."

A 22-car New York Central derailment was one of the largest train wrecks recorded in Washtenaw County.

People came from all over for days to see the 22 cars and engine being removed near the Chelsea depot.

This was the first weekend of a continuous busy summer for the Honbaums.

They increased the staff in 1955.

Weekends were busy with three or four girls inside the root beer stand and at least four car hops working outside.

Business depended on the age of car hops. Older high school girls were a draw for the high school crowd.

No one wore uniforms, and car hops wore capri pants.

One of the traditions at root beer stands seemed to be taking a mug home as a souvenir.

Gillam's records showed a starting inventory of 114 mugs, detailing 55 "lost" at end of the season.

"Car hops had to keep track of root beer mugs on their trays. Some customers tried to fool them by ordering three mugs, then order two more later!" Marilyn said.

Summer hours were from 11:30 a.m. to 11:30 p.m. Marilyn's shift was six to eight hours.

Linda Walker Binkley, now living in Edmore, Mich., could recalled working at the Dairy Queen.

"A new Dairy Queen with the soft serve ice cream, in place of frozen custard, was a big and modern event for the small town of Chelsea," she said.

SUMMERS

"We had to weigh each cone to make sure they didn't weigh too much. Mistakes were recycled through a drip pan. It took practice to get the curl on top," Linda recalled.

"Everyone gathered at the Dairy Queen and root beer stand. It was a hangout for high school kids. They stood around the cars."

Dairy Queen ice cream was vanilla flavored, delivered in big milk cans. The staff poured mixture in a hopper to stir with an auger. The temperature had to be just right for proper softness, or it would freeze up.

"The Dairy Queen specialized only in soft ice cream products to make shakes, sundaes, banana splits and cones dipped in hot chocolate or butterscotch," Linda said.

Records show there were 2,600 Dairy Queen franchises in the United States in 1955.

A few years after the small Dairy Queen was established, a new Dairy Queen and restaurant was built at the northeast corner of M-52 and Old US-12.

For a short interval it was a plant and pet supply shop. Soft-serve ice cream has recently returned to Chelsea with the old Dairy Queen becoming Twister's.

In the 1960s a new A&W was located on South M-52. Car hops continued to serve food and root beer.

It wasn't long before A&W owners abandoned the drive-up ordering stations. A building expansion included phones inside booths to call in orders, and waitstaff brought the food to your booth.

After serving as an A&W restaurant for many years, the restaurant is now the Main Street Coney Island.

Car hops are a nostalgic memory of a bygone era in Chelsea and neighboring cities of Jackson and Ann Arbor.

Chelsea Market grows local each Saturday

By Sandra Merkel
Guest Writer

It was a warm and partly sunny Saturday morning for the first day of the Chelsea Farmer's Market. It has been in existence since 1990 and I have enjoyed the fresh produce and flowers that are always there.

Talking with the vendors and farms about their produce and wares often results in some new information or idea. And I always see a friend or two on the way down the street.

I stopped this Saturday and discovered that Sandy Barkman from T & J Farms located on Liebeck Road was the vendor who had been coming to the market for the longest time. She and co-founder Sue Rodgers were the first to "promise" to come and sell their wares.

T & J Farms is named for her children Tom, Jo and Susan Joann. When her children were young she decided that a perfect way for a stay at home mom to earn a wage was to raise and sell vegetables. In recent years Sandy switched to green house plants and perennials, but told me that vegetables will soon be back for sale.

She will also be introducing wheat crafts and holiday decorations. Sandy said that one of the best things about being at the market is reconnecting and talking with people of the community. She expects to be there all summer and fall. Stop and tell her hello and see what is for sale.

Defense rules as Chelsea ties rival

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

In a battle of two area soccer titans, Chelsea tied visiting county rival Dexter 0-0 last Thursday. One month ago, to open the season, the Bulldogs and Dreadnaughts played to a 1-1 deadlock.

"Neither team could score tonight in a great defensive struggle," said Chelsea coach Chris Orlandi. "We came out with great energy to open the game and created a few quality rushes on goal. Once Dexter settled in, however, they controlled the remainder of the first half."

Orlandi said the Bulldogs (6-1-4, 4-1-3 Southeastern Conference) had trouble pressuring the ball in the first half.

"Dexter had way too much time to hit the ball deep in our end," he said. "They earned six corner kicks in the first half alone and that's way too many. We were lucky to get out of the half scoreless. It's a credit to how well our defense played."

The Dreadnaughts (7-2-2, 5-2-2 Southeastern Conference), who've reached the Division 2 state semifinals the past two seasons, had a golden opportunity to take the lead in the first half. Senior Katie Marsh, who'll play for Eastern Michigan University next year, blistered a shot seemingly destined for the upper left corner of Chelsea goal. However, Bulldog senior keeper Jenna Jarvis made a highlight reel save to preserve the tie.

"Jenna made a tremendous save on the shot, but injured herself on the landing," Orlandi said. "She's a really tough gal. Jenna's everything you want in a captain. There was no way she was coming out of the game."

The Bulldogs had a scoring opportunity later in first half as sophomore Cara Johnson kicked a shot off the Dexter crossbar. Senior Emily Rabbitt pounced on the rebound, but her shot was wide right on the Dreadnaught goal.

In the second half, Chelsea began taking the play to Dexter. Midway through the second half, the

Bulldogs run to first place

Chelsea's girls' track and field team placed first in the Lansing Waverly Invitational last Friday.

The Bulldogs topped the six-team field with 229 points.

The host Warriors were second with 176 points, while Lansing Everett was third with 65 points.

"We ran well today," said Chelsea coach Pat Clarke. "The girls continue to improve with each meet. They are working hard toward their season's goals."

Chelsea senior Jillian Fischer continued her impressive season placing first in both the shot put and discus with throws of 37-feet, 2 inches (personal best) and 115-5, respectively.

Sophomore Ashlee Walker was second in the shot put with a personal best mark of 30-7, while freshman Meghan Smith was fourth with a personal best 28-4. Sophomore Marissa Elwart was second in the discus with a personal best toss of 84-2, while Walker was sixth with a 73-9.

In the long jump, sophomore Christina Coffman finished second with a measurement of 14-7.

In the high jump, junior Jenny Squires was third with a height of 4-6.

Senior Cassie Coffman placed third in the pole vault clearing 7-6, while junior Kiara Bates was fifth also with a 7-6 mark.

Sophomore Katrina Williams ended up third in the 100-meter hurdles in 17.8, while sophomore Jenna McGrath was fourth in 18.0 and junior Victoria Kingsinger fifth in 18.7 for Chelsea.

Williams was second in the 300-meter hurdles with a time of 51.8, while Kingsinger was third in 54.0 and McGrath fifth in 55.7.

Junior Erin Benjamin finished second in the 100 meters with a clocking of 12.58, while freshman Corinne Carpenter was third in 12.68.

Benjamin was second in the 200 meters in 26.45, while sophomore Olivia DeTroyer was third in 27.1 and Christina Coffman sixth in 29.0.

DeTroyer bested the field placing first in the 400-meter run with a time of 1:01.

Softball

Chelsea drops doubleheader

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

Chelsea softball dropped a doubleheader to host Tecumseh last Monday 4-0, 6-0. The Indians, the defending Division 2 state champions, are currently ranked in state's top five.

"They're a very solid softball team," said Chelsea coach Robin Raymond. "They're fundamentally sound. They have great team speed. They put the ball into play and force you to make plays. Their speed causes trouble. You need to play error-free ball to beat them."

In the opener, the Bulldogs (16-8-1, 9-5 Southeastern Conference) committed three errors.

"They (Tecumseh) took advantage of those three errors," Raymond said. "We also left nine runners on base. We had a lot of chances to score. We stranded too many runners."

The Indians scored single runs in the third and fourth innings and two runs in the fifth inning to salt away the victory.

Leading Chelsea offensively was senior Annie Hollandsworth with three hits, while senior Brogan Darwin added two hits.

In the nightcap, Tecumseh scored six runs in the first two innings to take command of the game. A bases loaded double brought home three runs in the first inning.

Senior, Lizzy Bentley sparked the Bulldogs with two hits.

"In order for us to be successful we can't kick the ball around," Raymond said. "We need to start getting key hits."

Last Saturday, Chelsea hosted a round robin tournament with Milan and Clinton.

In their opener, the Bulldogs lost to the Big Reds 10-4.

"Milan is a good team," Raymond said. "But we didn't play very well today."

In Game 2 of the tournament, Chelsea lost to the Redskins (18-3) 4-2.

"We had the bases loaded in the bottom of the seventh," Raymond said. "We couldn't push anybody around."

At the plate, Hollandsworth led the way with three hits, while Darwin added an RBI double.

Last Thursday, the host Bulldogs swept a doubleheader from Ann Arbor Pioneer winning 1-0, 5-0.

In the first game, senior pitcher Kelly Whitley was masterful from the circle tossing a two-hitter, striking out eight and walking two to earn the victory.

Whitley out-dueled Pioneer pitcher Katie Martin, one of the best all around players in the area.

"We knew she'd be tough on the mound," Raymond said of Martin. "Plus, she's an excellent hitter. We tried to pitch around her. We

Chelsea first at Lakeland Invitational

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

Chelsea's boys' track and field team finished first at the Lakeland Invitational last Friday.

The Bulldogs ended up with 122 points.

Placing second in the seven squad meet were the host Eagles with 121 points. Finishing third was Midland Dow with 115 points, while Linden was fourth with 77.5 points.

"This was a thrilling meet that was great for all the guys," said Chelsea coach Eric Swager. "We trailed going into the last three events, but Cody Adams came up big in the 200 dash, as did freshman August Pappas in the 3,200, while the 1,600 relay beat the host by one place to eke out a one-point victory."

Individually for Chelsea, senior Sam Dyer placed second in the shot put with a lifetime best heave of 44-feet, 5 inches. Junior Adam Bauer was third with a throw of 44-7.

In the discus, junior Josh Rudd was second with a lifetime best toss of 130-2, while senior Sam Birgy was fourth with a lifetime best mark of 123-2 for the Bulldogs.

In the pole vault, junior Peter Wilke was second clearing 11-5, while sophomore Landon Niesen was fourth reaching a height of 10-11.

Sophomore Nick Hill finished second in the long jump with a measurement of 19-4.

Senior Justin McGrath bested the field placing first in the 110-meter hurdles with a time of 15.0. Senior Evan Carpenter was fourth in 15.5 for Chelsea.

McGrath also broke the tape first in the 300-meter hurdles with a clocking of 40.2. Carpenter was fifth in 42.3.

Hill crossed the line second in the 100 meters in 11.2.

Sophomore Cody Adams was second in the 200 meters with a time of 23.4.

In the 400-meter run, junior Kevin Rosentreter was fourth in 52.9 for the Bulldogs.

Junior Dominic Conybeare and Wilke tied for team-best in the 800-meter run each clocking a time of 2:12.

In the 1,600-meter run, junior Nick Hewitt was tops for the Bulldogs with a time of 4:41. Freshman August Pappas was next with a mark of 4:46.

Pappas finished fifth in the 3,200-meter run in 10:25.

Adams, Rosentreter, Hill and McGrath combined for a third-place finish in the 400-meter relay clocking a 45.1.

Carpenter, Rosentreter, Hill and Adams placed first in the 800-meter relay with a time of 1:33.5.

Junior Riley Feeney, Rosentreter, Carpenter and McGrath finished third in the 1,600-meter relay in 3:36.0.

"It took some quality performances across the board to earn the requisite points," Swager said. "The discus and shot (put) guys stepped up when it counted and turned in several lifetime bests. Justin McGrath continues to run quality hurdle races and Evan Carpenter is improving as well as he returns from injury. Nick Hill also is a rock, always running quality efforts in the sprints."

Swager said last Friday's victory was important, but that his team couldn't rest on its laurels.

"The biggest prizes, however, lie ahead as we travel toward regionals and the SEC (Southeastern Conference) championship," he said.

On May 6, host Chelsea defeated SEC foe Tecumseh 104-33 in a dual meet.

"On a beautiful spring afternoon we had a solid home meet top to bottom," Swager said. "I told the guys before the meet that it was time we started performing like a good team and we did."

Rudd finished first in the discus with a toss of 129-8, while Birgy was third with a mark of 119.9.

Wilke and Niesen tied for first in the pole vault each clearing 10-6. Junior Noah Hermann was third with a 10-0.

Mark Ballow was second in the high jump with a height of 5-6 for the Bulldogs.

Hill was second in the long jump with a leap of 19-1.

McGrath was a double-winner for Chelsea placing first in the 110-meter hurdles in a lifetime best 14.7 and first in the 300-meter hurdles with a lifetime best 39.75. Finishing second in both events for the Bulldogs was Carpenter in 15.9 and 40.76, respectively.

"Justin McGrath had an amazing day, setting lifetime bests in three events," Swager said. "His two hurdle times now rank second all-time in Chelsea history behind teammate (Evan) Carpenter. He has worked hard this winter and it is beginning to show."

Hill was first in the 100 meters in 11.01, while Adams was second in 11.51. Hill was also first in the 200 meters with a time of 23.13, while Carpenter was close behind in second with a 23.18.

Rosentreter crossed the line first in the 400-meter run in 52.5.

Hewitt was first in the 800-meter run with a personal best 2:06, while senior Teddy Eyster was second in 2:08. Hewitt was also first in the 1,600-meter run with a personal best 4:45. Eyster was second in 4:49.

Pappas finished first in the 3,200-meter run with a clocking of 10:38, while Eyster was second in 10:54 and Wilke third in 11:01 in a 1-2-3 Bulldog sweep.

The foursome of senior Brad Ratliff, Hill, Rosentreter and Adams placed first in the 400-meter relay in 45.4.

Rosentreter, Feeney, Ratliff and McGrath broke the tape first in the 1,600-meter relay in 3:35.7.

Conybeare, Feeney, Wilke and Hewitt placed first in the 3,200-meter relay with a time of 8:49.8.

Chelsea next travels to Livonia Ladywood to compete in the Division 2 state regional meet Friday at 10 a.m.

On Wednesday, the Bulldogs visit Ypsilanti Lincoln to participate in the SEC meet at 2 p.m.

were successful."

Chelsea scored the game-winning run in the bottom of the seventh inning. Bentley led off with a walk. Sophomore Shelby Platt sacrificed Bentley to second base. Platt was followed by Whitley who helped her own cause with an RBI single bringing home Bentley with the winning run.

Also getting hits in the contest for the Bulldogs were senior Rachel Voicechovski, Bentley and Hollandsworth.

"It was a good softball game," Raymond said. "Both teams played very well."

In the second game, sophomore Kayley Dixon picked up the win from the circle for Chelsea throwing a three-hitter, striking out nine and walking two.

The Bulldogs led 3-0 after three innings. Getting key hits for Chelsea early on were Platt with a single and Hollandsworth with a fence-clearing home run. The roundtripper was Hollandsworth's second of the season.

In the fifth inning, Chelsea added a single run as Hollandsworth walked, followed by freshman Ellie Stoffer's sacrifice bunt and a Darwin RBI ground ball which brought home Hollandsworth for a 4-0 Bulldog advantage.

In the sixth inning, Chelsea scored the game's final run. Platt singled to begin the frame. Pinch runner senior Karah Schanz, who later came around to score for a 5-0 Bulldog lead, replaced Platt on the base paths.

Platt led Chelsea offensively with three hits.

"Both Kelly (Whitley) and Kayley (Dixon) did a very good job of controlling Pioneer's bats," Raymond said. "The whole team also played strong behind them."

Chelsea next travels to Temperance Bedford for a game Thursday at 4 p.m.

On Saturday, the Bulldogs visit St. Joseph to participate in its invitational at 10 a.m.

Chelsea sophomore Julie Beaumont finished first in the 800-meter run and 1,600-meter run at last Friday's Lansing Waverly Invitational.

first in the 800-meter run in 2:41.8, while Squires was fourth in 2:55 and junior Nicole Hopp fifth in 2:57.

Beaumont was also first in the 1,600-meter run with a clocking of 5:55, while sophomore Courtney Maher was second in 6:07, Hopp third in 6:10 and junior Katie Lindauer sixth in 6:31 for the Bulldogs.

"Julie Beaumont had her finest day ever in track," Clarke said. "Julie ran four strong races to medal four times."

Freshman Samantha Newbound was first in the 3,200-meter run with a time of 12:55, while Beaumont was second in 13:13, Maher third in 13:17 and Lindauer fourth in 14:33.

The Chelsea quartet of Christina Coffman, DeTroyer, Carpenter and Benjamin placed second in the 800-meter relay with a mark of 1:47.4.

Cassie Coffman, DeTroyer, Carpenter and Benjamin bested the field in the 1,600-meter relay finishing first in 4:13.8.

"Erin Benjamin made up 40 meters to win the 1,600-meter relay with an outstanding (400-meter) leg of 59.4," Clarke said.

Maher, Beaumont, Squires and Hopp placed first in the 3,200-meter relay in 11:25.

On May 6, host Chelsea defeated Tecumseh 72-65 in a dual meet. The meet came down to the final race.

"We told the girls it would come down to the 1,600 relay to see who would win the meet," Clarke said. "Going into the 1,600 relay, we led by two. So it all came down to the final race. This kind of finish is what people run track for. It was going to be all or nothing on the last race."

The Indians were favored to win the relay since they defeated Chelsea by six seconds in the race the prior week at a meet in Ypsilanti.

"It was time to produce," Clarke said.

The Bulldog foursome of Cassie Coffman, DeTroyer, Carpenter and Benjamin lined up for the meet's final race.

"They were up to the challenge," Clarke said. "Not only did they win the relay, but they broke the school record by 3.5 seconds. It was quite a dramatic finish."

The Chelsea group stopped the clock in a school-best 4:03.21. Benjamin had the quickest 400-meter leg stopping the clock in a scorching 58.2. DeTroyer was also under one minute with a time of 59.3.

In the 800-meter relay, the team of Christina Coffman, DeTroyer, Carpenter and Benjamin placed first in 1:47.6.

Christina Coffman, Williams, McGrath and Carpenter finished first in the 400-meter relay in 52.5.

Cassie Coffman was first in the pole vault with a 9-0, while Bates was third with a mark of 7-6.

Squires was first in the high jump clearing 4-6, while freshman Haleigh Meypans was third with a 3-10.

Christina Coffman was second in the long jump with a leap of 15-2.

Fischer was first in the shot put with a throw of 34-8. She also was first in the discus with a toss of 117-2. Walker was third with an 80-9.

Williams was third in the 100-meter hurdles in 17.5. She was third in the 300-meter hurdles in 51.9.

Benjamin crossed the line first in the 100 meters in 12.7, while Carpenter was second in 13.0. Benjamin was also first in the 200 meters in 26.4, while DeTroyer was second in 27.3.

DeTroyer was first in the 400-meter run in 59.5, while Cassie Coffman was third in 1:05.7.

Beaumont was third in the 800-meter run in a personal best 2:35.9. She also was third in the 1,600-meter run in a personal best 5:53.7.

Maher finished first in the 3,200-meter run in 12:49.

"The girls came to compete and that is what we asked of them for this meet," Clarke said. "I hope this trend will continue for the rest of the season."

The Bulldogs next travel to Livonia Ladywood to compete in the Division 2 state regional meet at 10 a.m.

On Wednesday, Chelsea visits Ypsilanti Lincoln to participate in the Southeastern Conference meet at 2 p.m.

Chelsea breaks school record

Chelsea senior Danny Battistone shot a 75 helping lead the Bulldogs to the Manchester Invitational title last Saturday. Chelsea's team score of 303 set a school record.

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

Chelsea's boys' golf team placed first at last Saturday's Manchester Invitational at Rustic Glen Golf Course.

The Bulldogs bested the field with a school record score of 303. Chelsea's B team was third with a 318.

Twenty-two squads participated in the tournament.

Chelsea put together one of its best performances of the year last Saturday.

"I've been telling you all year we've been close to being good, but today it finally clicked," said Chelsea coach Joe Ewald. "We have great depth. Everybody is playing well."

Individually for the Bulldogs, seniors Danny Battistone, Chris LaDuke and Elliot Marshall led Chelsea each shooting a 75. Senior Kyle George added a 78.

Pacing the Bulldogs' B squad were seniors Garrett Nickels and Matt Heinen who each carded a 78. Senior Jonathon Mykala added an 80, while junior Nick Gordinier had an 82.

On May 7, Chelsea finished tied for third with Adrian at the Southeastern Conference White Division quint hosted by Ypsilanti Lincoln at Pine View Golf Course.

The Bulldogs ended up with a score of 165. Normally, a tie is broken by going to each team's fifth man's score. In Chelsea and Adrian's case, both squads' fifth men had the same score. To try and break the deadlock, officials went to each team's sixth man. But in an unusual occurrence, both squads' sixth men also recorded identical scores forcing the tie.

"That doesn't happen very often," Ewald said. "It's a good lesson for the guys to learn that every shot counts."

Winning the tournament was Dexter with a 156.

Tecumseh was second with a 159, while the host Railsplitters were fifth with a score of 198.

Leading Chelsea was Marshall with a 38.

George chipped in a 41, while sophomore Tyler Zegarzewski and Mykala each had a 43 and LaDuke a 44 for the Bulldogs.

"Our focus will now shift to districts," Ewald said.

Chelsea next participates in the SEC match at Ann Arbor's Radrick Farms Golf Course Tuesday at 9 a.m.

The Bulldogs travel to the Marshall Country Club to compete in the Division 2 state district tournament May 23 at 9:30 a.m. The top six teams in the district advance to the state regional match.

The regional tournament is May 29 at Richland Gull Lake's Stonhedge North Golf Course. The top three teams at the regional match qualify for the state final.

The state final is June 6 through 7 at Eastern Michigan University.

Water Polo

Bulldogs lose in districts

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

Chelsea's girls' water polo team lost to Holt/East Lansing 8-1 in a Central District state playoff game at Mason last Friday.

"We just didn't show up to play our A game," said Chelsea coach Brian Thomas. "Holt had the momentum from the moment we entered the pool."

Holt/East Lansing led 5-0 at halftime.

"We couldn't seem to get all facets of our offense together," Thomas said.

Amanda Johnson scored the Bulldogs' lone goal.

Despite the season-ending loss, Thomas remained positive.

"We took another step forward this year," he said.

On May 2 through 3, Chelsea's JV water polo squad competed in the 16-team Ann Arbor Pioneer JV Tournament.

The Bulldogs reached the tournament final before losing to the Pioneer A team 13-1.

"We couldn't swim with them," Thomas said. "But I think people took notice of us. I was very proud of the kids."

Sarah Daniel scored the Bulldogs' goal.

Sarah Valek had an assist for Chelsea.

In their opener, the Bulldogs defeated the Pioneer B team 7-6 in three overtimes.

"That was a big win for us," Thomas said. "It's a feather in our cap."

Kristen Angelocci scored the game-winner in the third overtime for Chelsea. Angelocci finished with two goals in the game.

Abby Ingall led the Bulldogs with three goals for a hat trick. Also scoring for Chelsea were Dani Williams and Grace Benton.

Picking up assists in the contest for the Bulldogs were Kaitlyn Cottrell, with two, and Amanda Johnson, Michelle Kellogg and Olivia Stucki each with one.

Earning the victory in net for Chelsea was goalie Becca Breeze.

In their second game, the Bulldogs defeated Dexter 8-3.

Jaclyn Murphy sparked Chelsea with three goals for a hat trick. Also scoring for the Bulldogs were Maria Paz, Hannah Olsen, Ingall, Kellogg and Angelocci.

Recording the win in net for Chelsea were Christie Van Gemert and Kaitlin Connin.

In Game 3, Chelsea defeated Holt/East Lansing 3-2.

Ingall had two goals, while Breeze added one goal for the Bulldogs.

"These wins were another positive sign for the future," Thomas said.

On May 1, Chelsea varsity defeated Grand Ledge 5-3. The Bulldog JV squad lost to the Comets 8-6.

Chelsea sophomore Kelly Fournier fights for position with Dexter senior Shantal Daratony during last Thursday's 0-0 tie against the Dreadnaughts.

TIE

Bulldogs' pressure seemed to crack the Dreadnaught defense.

"Most of the crowd was cheering because it appeared the ball had crossed the goal line following a flurry in front of the Dexter goal," Orlandi said. "A Dreadnaught defender kept the ball in play and cleared it out of danger to preserve the tie. It was a great game despite the lack of scoring."

Orlandi said Chelsea still controls its own destiny.

"If we win our remaining SEC contests, we'll win the SEC title," he said. "Jenna's leg injury is a major concern though, so we'll have to overcome that. Our girls were disappointed in the results, but we realize that things could have been worse."

On May 6, the host Bulldogs defeated perennial power and state Division 1 No. 10-ranked Saline 1-0.

"This was huge results for us after the disappointing loss to (Temperance) Bedford last week," Orlandi said. "This win keeps us in the hunt for our first ever SEC league title."

In the first half, both squads fought tooth and nail up and down the field.

"The game was evenly played throughout," Orlandi said. "Saline was very aggressive and had tremendous athleticism. We fought back by trying to possess the ball with quick passes to keep Saline off-balance."

The Hornets out-shot Chelsea 3-1 in the first half.

"Neither team had many quality chances though," Orlandi said. "(Keeper) Jenna (Jarvis) had to be sharp a few times as Saline attackers got free in the box to collect rebounds. Jenna always anticipated the plays perfectly and was in the right spot to block Saline attempts."

After a 0-0 first half, the Bulldogs scored the game-winner early in the second half, as junior midfielder Audrey Ruikka booted in a Johnson direct kick rebound past a sprawling Saline keeper with 38:23 left in the contest.

"We had been practicing restarts all week, so it was nice to see it payoff," Orlandi said. "The last 38 minutes were tense, but our defense was outstanding. Sarah Bingel, Rachel Cooperrider and Codie Barron were near flawless in their efforts. For us to defend a quality opponent like Saline with three defenders speaks to the quality of our players back there. They were intense throughout and really took care of the ball. When Saline got shots, they came from long range and Jenna can take care of those.

"This is a great, great win for our team."

Chelsea next hosts Adrian Thursday at 5:30 p.m.

On Friday, the Bulldogs host Woodhaven at 5:30 p.m.

On Tuesday, Chelsea travels to Ypsilanti Lincoln for a game at 5:30 p.m.

JV Soccer

Chelsea's JV girls' soccer team lost to visiting rival Dexter 2-1 last Thursday.

The Bulldogs opened the scoring with a goal by Erica Frederick off an assist by Diana Uihlein midway through the first half.

"It was a scramble (near the net), but we have been working on crashing the net the whole season and Erica was able to finish," said Chelsea coach Kirsten Smart.

The Dreadnaughts scored the game's final two goals for the ending margin.

"We had a great first half and started the second half playing to win," Smart said. "Unfortunately, Dexter scored a second time and our scoring opportunities were stopped."

Despite the loss, Smart remained upbeat.

"Michelle Wellman had a great game in goal and our offense played very confidently," she said.

The Bulldogs next host Adrian Thursday at 4 p.m.

On Friday, Chelsea hosts Woodhaven at 4 p.m.

On Tuesday, the Bulldogs travel to Ypsilanti Lincoln for a game at 4 p.m.

Garden Club's plant sale Saturday

The Chelsea Area Garden Club's Plant Sale is from 8:30 a.m. to noon on Saturday in the Park Street parking lot adjacent to the McKune Library.

Members transplanted and potted hundreds of named daylilies in preparation for the sale that also includes perennials, flowers, herbs and vegetables such as tomatoes, peppers and squash.

Nancy Cooper, who spearheaded the daylily digging and potting starting last fall, arranged for Jerry and Kris Smith to speak to club members in April. The Smiths, who operate S & S Enterprises, 2150 S. Fletcher Road in Chelsea, have cultivated and sold daylilies in Chelsea since 1995.

Although the flowers appear fragile, they are known to be hearty plants that do best in full sun but will tolerate partial shade if they have a minimum of six hours of direct sun each day.

Jerry Smith said daylilies will grow well in most soils. "If you have heavy clay or sandy soil the addition of compost, humus or peat moss will enhance the soil and make it more usable," he said.

Traditionally, each flower blooms for a single day, then dies leaving other buds on each stalk to bloom and take its place. The Latin name for daylilies is hemerocallis which, said Smith, means beauty for a day.

However some new hybrids keep blooming for weeks and may even rebloom later in the season.

Smith said daylilies were first grown in the orient and are referenced as food and for medical use as far back as 1500 B.C.

"Buds can be blanched and then deep fried, used in salads or frozen," he said, adding that new varieties do well in northern climates.

Daylilies are also easy to care for, said Smith, who advises "deadheading" blooms and seed pods to keep the plant vigorous.

Plants should be placed 18 inches to 2 feet apart, fertilized and watered well. "If you plant the daylilies too close you will just have to dig them up more frequently and separate more often because lilies spread and create new plants each year," he said.

Lilies at the plant sale will be a bargain, said Cooper, with prices ranging from $3 to $5 per pot.

For more information, call Rita Dunlop, Garden Club president, at 1-734-475-2354 or Jayetta Edwards, plant sale chairman, at 1-734-433-9772.

Mitch Ryder riding into Chelsea

Rock and Roll legend Mitch Ryder and his Detroit Wheels are coming to Chelsea this summer.

The Motor City rocker will perform a benefit concert for the Sounds & Sights on Thursday nights entertainment series on Thursday, July 24. The outdoor event will be held under cover behind the Common Grill Restaurant. The gates will open at 6 p.m. The Witch Doctors will open for Ryder. The event is generously sponsored by Chelsea State Bank.

General admission tickets are $35 in advance, and go on sale May 23 at the Common Grill, the CCA, Chelsea Market, and Cranesbill Books. There are also special VIP tickets available for $100. VIP tickets may be purchased at the Common Grill or CCA. Tickets may also be purchased by phone by calling the CCA at 734-433-ARTS, or buy them on-line at www.chelseacenterforthearts.org.

A major portion of each ticket purchase is tax deductible. All proceeds go to Sounds & Sights to help cover operating costs and performer fees.

"This is going to be an event unlike any other Chelsea has ever seen," said Craig Common, Sounds & Sights chairman. "We want to become more self-sustaining for our funding, especially during such tight economic times. So a benefit concert seemed like the logical choice since music is the focus of our group. Plus, we really wanted someone with local roots, and Mitch still lives in Michigan and is an icon in the music world."

The concert is open to all ages. There will be beer, wine and soft drinks for sale, and wrist bands will be given to ticket holders 21 years and older upon entering the concert grounds.

VIP ticket holders will get preferred seating at the front of the stage area, complimentary beverages, and an invitation to a private pre-concert cocktail party at the Common Grill to meet Mitch Ryder in person. VIP patrons will also get a signed copy of Mitch Ryder's new book "It Was All Right."

Mitch Ryder and the Detroit Wheels have been a rock music fixture since the mid 1960s when they released such hits as "Jenny Take A Ride!", "C. C. Rider", "Little Latin Lupe Lu", "Devil With A Blue Dress On / Good Golly Miss Molly", and "Sock It To Me-Baby!"

Sounds & Sights kicks off its 2008 series on Thursday June 18 and runs through Aug. 28. "We're proud to be the event sponsor for this concert," said CSB President & CEO, John Mann. "Sounds & Sights is a wonderful draw for our community, and great supporter of local musicians. This is an opportunity for the bank to continue our support of the arts in Chelsea, as well as our local merchants. Sock it to us, Mitch!"

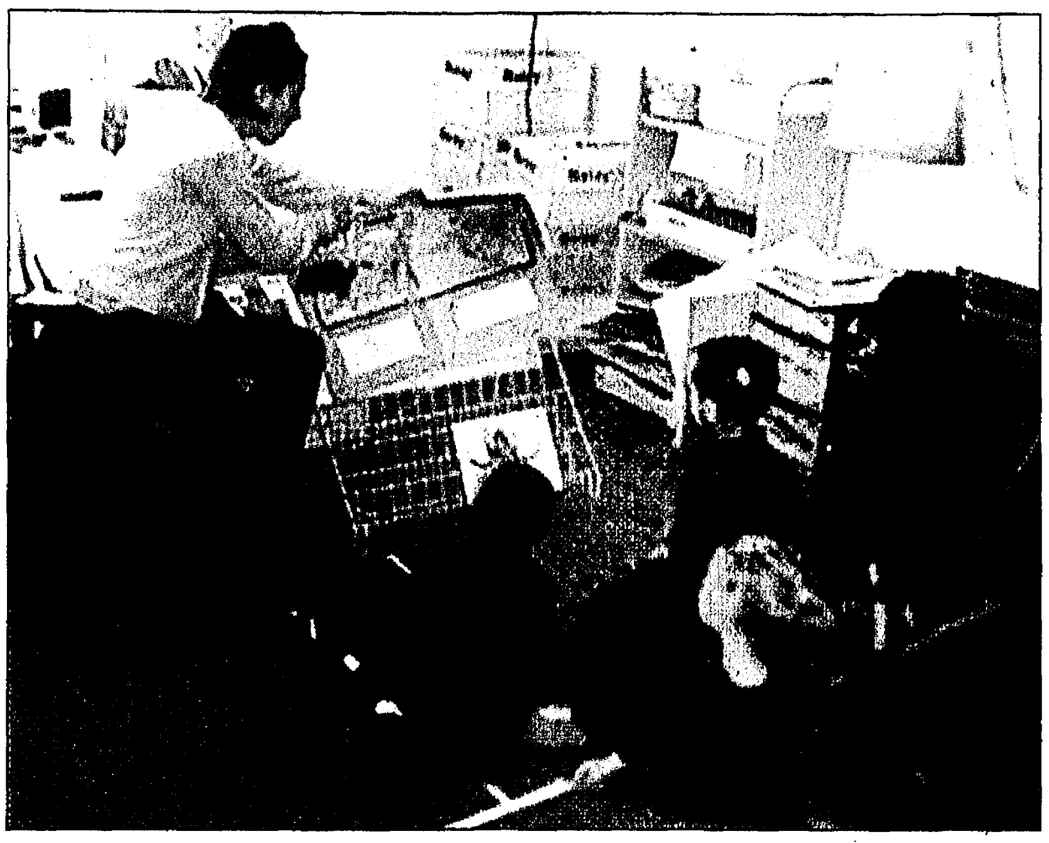
Woodland wonderland

Kids can enjoy art and nature in weeklong camp



By Sheila Pursglove
Special Writer

Children can enjoy a woodland wonderland in a week-long art camp, "Explorations of Art and the Forest," offered June 23-27 by the Michigan Friends Center on Clark Lake Road north of Chelsea.

Youngsters will explore the forests around MFC, discover plants and animals of the woods and lake and create nature-inspired art projects: sculptures, mobiles, masks and animals.

The camp will be led by Eva Leventer, who has studied art all her life, including 13 years at the Rudolf Steiner School in Ann Arbor where she learned watercolor painting and drawing. She majored in painting and drawing at Earlham College in Richmond, Indiana, and is currently finishing a degree in visual arts education at Eastern Michigan University.

Leventer, a Grass Lake native, got an early introduction to art.

"When I was 13, I went to Italy with a friend and her father's art class," she said. "We lived in Florence for a month studying art.

"It was this experience that convinced me that I wanted to be an artist because I loved painting there so much."

Leventer, who incorporates nature, sculpture, ceramics, weaving, drawing, painting, and printmaking into classes, taught a middle school art class at the Richmond Friends School while in college.

"This launched my passion for teaching art," she says. "In the middle school art class, I supervised a large mural that the students spent the whole semester planning and creating."

After college, she worked as a substitute teacher in Ann Arbor and also taught classes at the Ann Arbor Art Center and Chelsea Center for the Arts. Deciding to go back to school and put her two interests – art and teaching – together, Leventer began a certification program that she will complete this fall. She also teaches library science for kindergarten through fifth-grade at New Beginnings Academy in Ypsilanti.

Eva Leventer, who has studied art all her life, will lead the camp in June.

"I love my job very much," she says. "I've been able to integrate my passion for books, the arts and writing into my curriculum.

Her schooling at Rudolf Steiner was a major influence on her passion for art and nature.

"I spent a lot of time as a child observing, drawing and playing in nature," she says. "I really like discovering animal's homes, learning about their environments and drawing their features. I've enjoyed taking nature walks for as long as I can remember. I find the forest breathes a certain magic which inspires creativity and wonder. My senior project was a series of still life that were compositions of items from different seasons."

Leventer looks forward to combining her interests of nature and art at the MFC art camp. "We'll go on nature hikes to observe the plants and animals and their ecosystems, and collect natural materials for our projects. The children will learn to draw animals in their habitats that live in the area. We'll study different trees and create drawings and mobiles using nature. Each student will choose an ecosystem and create a project that contains the plants and animals of that ecosystem.

"I like to share my passion for nature and art through discovering, and exploring an inner experience or connection we have with the world. My purpose is to guide and expose children to creative ways of thinking and expressing themselves."

Purple Rose youth camps

The Purple Rose Theatre Company offers two classes this summer for students under 18 years old: Kid Purple and Teen Intensive. Taught by PRTC Resident Artist Michelle Mountain, both classes feature new curriculum and a live showcase performance for friends and family.

Kid Purple, a two-week day camp for children ages 8 to 12, is scheduled for Mondays through Fridays, with two sessions: June 16-27 or July 14-25. Class will be held from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the PRTC's rehearsal space in the Chelsea Center for the Arts. Kid Purple encourages children to explore the production process from start to finish. Cost is $375.

Teen Intensive will run for two weeks and features a smaller class size to facilitate more one-on-one work. Designed for students ages 13 to 18, Teen Intensive will meet Mondays through Thursdays, with sessions available June 30-July 10 or July 28-Aug. 7. Class will meet from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the CCA. Why so many religions?

Ministerial Message

By Pastor Mark Porinsky
Faith Lutheran Church

A frequently asked question is, "How did the Christian Church get splintered into so many branches? Why can't all the people who call themselves 'Christians' just ignore their differences and join together?" In fact, today it goes beyond the Christian Church: People wonder, "Why can't all of the world's religions join together under a belief in a common supreme being?"

This question arises because we live in an age where compromise in belief is preferred to absolute truth in religion. Oh, in the sciences people accept absolute truth, and can quite clearly see that two contradictory equations can't both be right. But when opposing views occur in the religious world, people say, "Maybe they're both right," or, "Aren't they saying the same thing – just in different ways?"

We Christians believe there is only one source of spiritual truth: The Bible. The ultimate purpose of the Bible is to proclaim that Jesus Christ has provided forgiveness and eternal life for us sinful people. Anyone who believes in Jesus is on their way to heaven.

This does not mean, however, that the other Bible teachings are unimportant; every one of them supports faith in Jesus, and letting go of any one of them weakens faith in Jesus.

We admit there are some things that the Bible doesn't spell out for us, but many issues are very clear. When a religious leader or a church deviates from basic truths, the Bible calls on us to avoid that leader or church. Jesus said in Matthew 7:15, "Beware of false prophets," and St. Paul added, "Watch out for those who cause divisions and offenses contrary to the teaching you have learned; keep away from them" (Romans 16:17). This is not just a matter of varying religious "traditions," as we are often told; rather, this is the difference between truth and error.

Any attempts to encourage unity, or to be "ecumenical," or to break down religious or denominational barriers, at the expense of truth, would be disastrous.

In many nations of the world, including our nearest neighbor to the north, it is becoming a crime to say anything negative about anyone else's beliefs. Let's hope that doesn't happen in our nation. Let's hope that we in America can continue to acknowledge each person's right to hold and promote their own beliefs, while at the same time making it clear that we do not approve of many of those beliefs and are unable to practice spiritual fellowship with those who hold them. In America, this is what freedom of religion is all about.

In a sense, it would make things easier if we dissolved all denominations and blended them into one. But instead, the Lord expects each one of us to seek out a church which adheres to God's Word. Your eternity depends on knowing and standing up for the truth of God and His Son Jesus Christ as the world's only hope for everlasting life.

HERITAGE MINT

18/0 FORGED STAINLESS STEEL FLATWARE

The forged construction superior to customary stamped flatware, produces durable, high-quality utensils that maintain perfect shape and beauty over time. Striking the mold with a heavy weight compresses the metal's molecular structure, resulting in a thick, dense, resilient character and greater edge retention.

Prepare to experience exquisite, stainless steel flatware that will never bend while you dine. Buffed and polished several times, our forks are carefully finished, resulting in exceptionally smooth tines. Heritage Mint spoons are skillfully rolled and graded to provide maximum strength, comfort, and balance.

Each piece of Heritage Mint Flatware undergoes a 14-Step Polishing System that ensures a mirror finish and shine for years of enjoyment. 18% Chromium is incorporated into the flatware, providing resistance to rust, exceptional weight and balance and increased durability.

You'll love your Heritage Mint Forged Stainless Steel Flatware!
