North Creek Elementary features six sets of twins in the second grade

By Edward Freundl, staff writer

Sure, it's an old joke, but maybe there really is something in the water in Chelsea after all.

Six sets of twins in the second grade, followed by five in first grade and another three in kindergarten, add up to 14 sets of twins at one school — North Creek Elementary in Chelsea.

You could fill an entire classroom with just twins.

And it doesn't stop there. More are in the preschool program waiting to move up, according to North Creek Principal Marcus Kaemming, and a seventh pair was set to go into second grade but the family moved away last year, and still others are in the third and fourth grade as well.

Because twins occur in about 3 percent of all births among the general population, the magnitude of multiples at one school represents a significant statistical anomaly.

"It just seems like there's a lot of twins in Chelsea," said Kaemming, adding that to have so many pairs of twins at so many grade levels is "remarkable."

"In 10 years of teaching in the classroom, I can remember having maybe two sets of twins the entire time," he said.

If you think having twins is a challenge for parents, just imagine what it's like for the kids: to be followed around by your mirror image all day, and to be praised — or blamed — for something the other one did.

One second-grade twin, Raymond Apostoleris, was asked if he liked having his brother Marcus around constantly, at home and at school.

"I don't like it; he bugs me," was his honest-as-a-second-grader response.

Kristen McFate, mother of Will and Joe, the second grade's other male twins, said her sons show a little of that but deep down are very close.

"They are best friends," she said. "They're very competitive, but they will stick up for each other to the end."

Any parent can tell you that boys and girls of that age are at different levels emotionally, and the second-grade girl twins took a much more introspective approach.

"Playing with her is the best," Madison Adkins said about her twin, Hannah.

Quite the opposite of the Apostoleris brothers, Phoebe Kahler said she would not want to be separated from her sister Hannah.

"That would be a big problem," she said. "I would want to go to her school."

Cyndi Apostoleris, mother of Marcus and Raymond, gets to keep an eye on her boys during the day as a volunteer in the lunchroom and as a recess monitor.

"It's really exciting," Apostoleris said. "It didn't run in my family, but my mother always told me I would have twins, they were born a year after she passed away."

Kristen McFate, mother of Will and Joe, said she and the other parents of twins found out something extraordinary was going on when their kids first got together in a classroom setting.

"In kindergarten we started realizing there was more than one set," she said.

"I think it's neat for the kids — they probably don't realize yet how unique it is."

Jamie Adkins, mother of Hannah and Madison, said the extent of the twin population became clear in first grade.

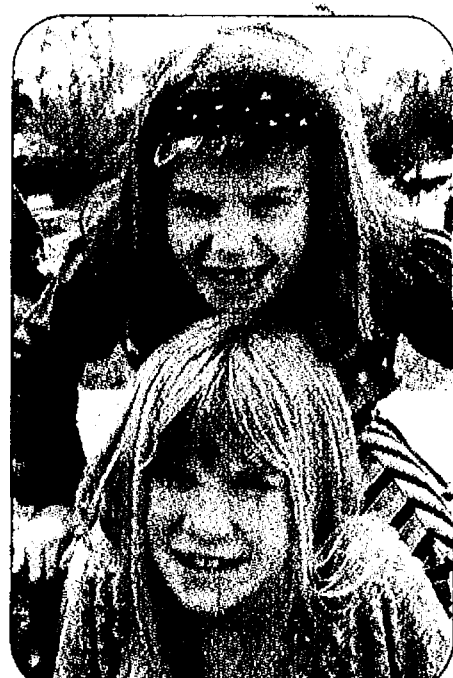

"I think somebody had mentioned something in kindergarten, and we started counting them last year," Adkins said.

"There were six and seven sets of twins in Mrs. Glover's first-grade class."

City Council: No tax hike for this year

By Edward Freundl
Staff Writer

What a difference a year makes.

The public hearing on the city's fiscal 2009 budget and property tax millage proposal presented Tuesday met with no opposition from the public or the Chelsea City Council.

"There is no proposed millage rate increase, even though we are gearing up for some significant projects," City Administrative Services Director Kim Garland told the council.

It's a far cry from last year, when Garland proposed an increase of 1.25 mills, or more than 10 percent, for the city's general fund.

Council approval of that action set off a storm of protest, catalyzed the creation of a citizen's group dedicated to more transparency in city government, and catapulted two members of that group into seats on the council by uprooting two incumbents.

It seems that the tax revolt had the desired effect, likely due to work done over the previous 12 months to bring expenses and revenues in line and putting a number of cost savings and other financial management practices into place to avoid a tax increase.

"I want to thank everybody for the tremendous effort that went into putting this (year's budget) together," City Manager John Hanifan said.

"There are many city department heads here tonight, and I want to thank them for all their help."

Garland said overall millage rates will remain unchanged from current levels, which are:

General Operating, 13.0994; Municipal Streets, 1.5200; Solid Waste, 0.4355; and Downtown Development Authority, 1.6727.

The council will formally vote to set the millage rate and approve the budget at its June 10 meeting.

Karnik Pet Lodges Offers 'Suite' Pampering

By Krystle Dunham

HOURS: Monday - Saturday 6:30am-6pm
Sunday 8am-6pm

Every year area residents travel on a summer vacation and for many residents one of the biggest concerns is who will take care of the family pets.

This year, residents may find Karnik Pet Lodge to be the perfect place to eliminate any worries.

Karnik Pet Lodge is a pet care facility that provides dog and cat boarding accommodations, bathing and individual & group doggie daycare services. The facility opened in late December 2007.

The facility is located at 405 N. Maple Road at Maple Village in Ann Arbor. Karnik Pet Lodge is just off Maple Road, near Plum Market and behind K-Mart.

Daycare Area & Court Yard

With Karnik's philosophy of boarding pets in units where the owners will feel good about leaving them, clients can expect a different approach than most pet care facilities.

Karnik Pet Lodge's design allows clients to see and inspect the facility's boarding units without having to ask, "where will my pet stay?"

Ray Bauman, founder and owner of Karnik Pet Lodges, said the design of this facility offers clients a pet care facility that is without bars, chain link, wire, etc.

The pet care facility is fully heated and air-conditioned. Clients are welcome to take tours at any time.

"We are always working to improve ourselves," Bauman said. "We want the public to feel good about leaving their pets at our facility."

Besides serving the Ann Arbor area, Karnik Pet Lodges can be found in the Toledo, Ohio area.

The name "Karnik" came from two of Bauman's sled dogs, Kara and Nikki.

Bauman started his pet care business in 1973, where Karnik first set a new design standard with an open appearance of the inside housing areas.

He said in the past, kennels used full-height units on the inside that gave the appearance of a jail cell when looking down the aisles. "Kennels typically have a dark cloud over them from their poor appearance," Bauman said.

The design of his first facility lowered the height of the inside runs to four feet, opening up the appearance of the aisles and eliminating the "jail house" effect of the kennels.

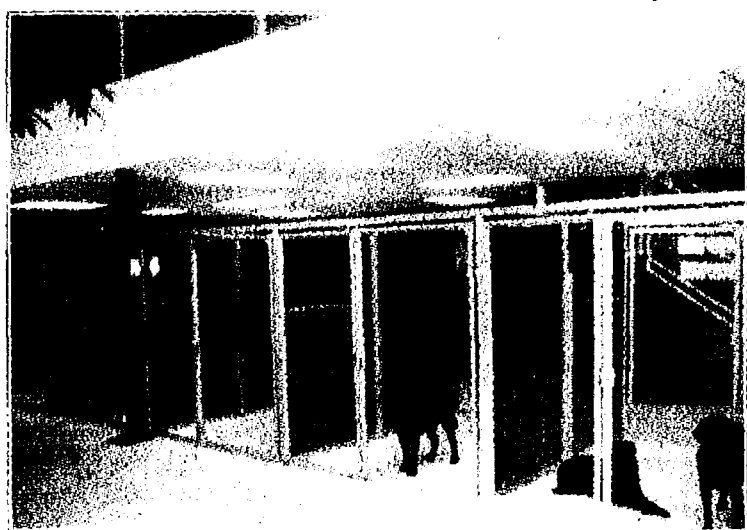

Since 1973, Bauman said several revisions have been made to the design of his facilities. The new Ann Arbor facility is a totally new design concept for the pet care industry.

Karnik Pet Lodge is currently looking to add individual cameras to the facility. Bauman said with the cameras, clients would be able to check on their pet whenever they would like through the facility's website.

Bauman said he's always viewed pet boarding as a professional business that deserves expertise in its management and care of the pets.

"We provide the public the best services in the pet care industry," Bauman said. "I'm very proud of what we've created." Karnik Pet Lodge is proudly celebrating its 35th year of providing loving care for their clients' pets.

Krystle Dunham is a freelance writer. She can be reached at krystleadunham@gmail.com.

Blue Suites

Lobby

Red Suites

Bauman said other pet care facilities have started to add suites to their facilities but Karnik's design allows for all of the units to be suites.

Karnik Pet Lodge offers an all glass suites facility with natural light for the care of clients' pets. Bauman said the design of the facility is 2-3 times the average size of other pet care facilities.

Bauman said, "While other facilities try to see how many pets they can get into a room, Karnik tries to see how much room we can give your pet."

Karnik monitors the pets daily for appetite, elimination and medication.

According to Bauman the best way to describe his business to possible future customers is, Karnik Pet Lodge is the Marriott of the pet care industry.

Patient escapes hospital

A 21-year-old male patient petitioned for psychological treatment by the Michigan State Police Brighton Post for suicide threats was in the courtyard of the psychiatric wing of Chelsea Community Hospital accompanied by a hospital staffer at 7:49 p.m. May 13 when he jumped over the fence and fled.

One Chelsea Police officer searched the south end of town while a second officer searched the north end. Officers made contact with the patient's father, a Lima Township man, to alert him his son was missing, and the man told police State Police troopers were already at his house just outside town.

According to a police report, at about 10:15 p.m. police responded to a report of a suspicious person at a South Main Street restaurant, and spotted the patient walking into a gas station just down the street.

He was taken into custody without incident and turned over to hospital staff.

Street saw a man matching the suspect's description walking his dog, and when another officer arrived and confirmed it was the suspect.

A records check indicated the vehicle was reported stolen by the Ovid Police Department, about 15 miles north of Lansing.

One of the officers saw a white female leave the car and enter an apartment. Recognizing her from previous contacts, he called to her by name. Both officers followed her to the apartment and questioned her.

She said she did not steal the plate and the man had given it to her.

She said she knew it wasn't hers but she needed a car for her job, and she only needed to make one more payment to have her driver's license reinstated.

The woman denied any involvement in the home invasion with the man and gave permission for the car and apartment to be searched; nothing was found.

License suspended

While stopped at the red light at Old US-12 and South Main Street, an officer on patrol at 12:32 a.m. saw a Dodge pickup truck turn south on Main and noticed it did not have a rear license plate or a paper tag in the rear window.

The officer stopped the driver at a gas station on South Main near I-94 and identified him as a 31-year-old Chelsea man.

According to a police report, the officer advised the man about the absence of a license plate and discovered the man had no driver's license, just a state identification card.

A records check indicated the man's license had been suspended and denied indefinitely since May 2005.

The man was arrested and taken to the Chelsea Police Department and issued a citation for driving with license suspended.

Drugs found in locker

An officer was dispatched to Chelsea Community Hospital at 6 p.m. May 1 for a possible larceny.

He made contact with a hospital security officer in the surgical locker room, along with a suspect and a witness.

According to a police report, the suspect, a 43-year-old Jackson woman, was screaming, "I did not steal anything!"

The woman was suspected of stealing prescription painkillers from another employee, but she denied it.

The suspect showed the guard a bottle for her own prescription antidepressants, he asked to see "the other bottle," according to the report.

When a bottle of synthetic opiates prescribed to a Stockbridge woman was found in the suspect's locker, she blamed it on another employee who was currently on suspension, the report stated.

Hospital director Phil

Boham said the suspect has had a history of problems during her employment, the report stated.

When Boham and the police officer spoke to the suspect again the pill bottle had disappeared, but was quickly located in her shoes on a rack below her locker.

Boham identified the pills as not the antidepressants the suspect claimed they were, but Vicodin, a powerful painkiller.

Boham immediately directed the suspect to the hospital emergency room to submit to a blood test to prove she was not under the influence of any drugs.

The Stockbridge woman said the pills were in the pocket of her coat, which was on a community coat rack in the locker room.

She told the police officer she did not want to press charges, and just wanted the suspect to get help.

Woman arrested for littering

An officer northbound on North Main Street at 12:05 a.m. May 3 observed a man and woman standing at the corner of Main and Middle streets when the woman threw an object at the man as he walked away and it shattered in the street.

According to a police report, the officer identified the subjects as a 20-year-old Dexter Township man and a 36-year-old Lyndon Township woman, and the object she threw was a bottle of beer.

The woman told the officer she threw the bottle at the man "to get his attention," the report stated, and that they were not arguing.

When asked, she said she'd had three or four beers, but refused to take a breath test.

The man confirmed that the couple was not fighting, and in fact he had known

Although it's not at all unusual to see twins dressed alike, that's not necessarily prescribed in the parenting manual.

"Yes, they're twins but they are individuals," said Adkins, who dressed her daughters alike at first but now encourages that individuality — even going so far as to place them in separate classrooms.

"They share a lot of the same friends but since they were in different classrooms they do have some separate friends," Adkins said.

"When one got invited to a party that the other didn't, we sat them both down and talked about that."

"I've tried to impress upon other parents that they're not a package deal," she added.

"If they want to invite one over and not the other, that's really OK."

And it is within North Creek's particular age group, 5 to 8, that individual character traits and personalities begin to express themselves.

"They are their own individuals; it's been neat to watch," Kaemming said.

According to Apostoleris, "It's fun talking about their different personalities; I've got yin and yang in those two."

Adkins saw it as just one of the demands of raising twins.

"Developing separate friends has been the most unique challenge around this age, but that's one of the challenges that having multiples brings," she said.

While it is natural that parents would get together and share child-rearing stories with and seek advice from each other, the rarity of twins becomes its own topic of discussion.

"We see each other at school events, and you swap stories with the other parents of (twins)," McFate said.

"I probably shared more experiences and stories and looked for advice when they were younger," Adkins said.

"Now another close friend has twin girls, and the kinds of things we discuss are more educational questions and ideas."

With all those carbon copies of kids running around his school, does Kaemming ever get them mixed up?

"I do all the time," he said.

Benefit yard sale

A large benefit yard sale will take place on Friday and Saturday.

All proceeds will be sent to the Central Asia Institute, whose mission is to promote and support community-based education, especially for girls, in remote areas of Pakistan and Afghanistan.

The nonprofit institute was founded by mountaineer Greg Mortensen and has helped fund the construction of more than 50 schools in remote villages in that region.

The yard sale will take place from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. Friday and 8 a.m. to noon Saturday at 1120 N. Freer Road in Chelsea.

Greenview golf outing

The Greenview Foundation is planning its first charity golf outing for Saturday at Reddeman Farms Golf Club, 555 S. Dancer Road.

Registration begins at 7:30 a.m., with a shotgun start at 8 a.m. Cost is $100 per player, which is tax deductible. There will be prize giveaways and raffle prizes.

The Greenview Foundation is a nonprofit organization dedicated to funding research into Hepatitis C at the University of Michigan.

Please make checks payable to "Greenview Hepatitis C Fund" and mail to Greenview Data, 8178 Jackson Road, Ann Arbor, MI 48103, or pay online at www.hepcfund.org.

For more information on entry or sponsorship opportunities or for questions, please call Ted Annis at 734-426-7500 or e-mail tannis@spamstopshere.com.

Radio swap meet

The Chelsea Amateur Radio Club will hold its 30th annual Ham and Antique Radio Swap on Sunday at the Chelsea Fairgrounds.

Doors open to the public at 8 a.m. Admission is $5 for ages 12 and up and free for those younger than 12.

Door prizes will be given away every hour, and the grand prize is a mobile amateur radio receiver.

The annual swap meet is the major source of income for the nonprofit club, which is active with local law enforcement agencies and the National Weather Service to maintain emergency communications in case of natural or man-made disasters.

Chelsea's 2008 Memorial Day Parade and Memorial Service provided stirring oratory framed by some memorable moments.

As usual, the annual parade wound its way from Middle, Main, Park and East streets before turning down Middle again and coming to a stop at the Soldier's Monument at Oak Grove Cemetery.

Units in the parade consisted of Chelsea police, the American Legion Color Guard, local veterans, Girl and Boy Scout troops of all ages, the Chelsea High School and Beach Middle School marching bands, and members of CANOPAS (Chelsea Area Network of Peace Activists and Supporters), a local anti-war group.

Jeff Guinnis, Commander of American Legion Post 31, presided over a memorial service that drew hundreds of spectators.

The Rev. Jeff Crowder gave the invocation, followed by the high school marching band playing patriotic selections.

In a moment whose timing seemed like a page out of a Hollywood script, a fighter jet made the traditional fly-over just as the last strains of "America" faded.

Guinnis introduced guest speaker Chris Jeruzal, a U.S. Navy SEAL for 11 years who is now a Dearborn fire-fighter-paramedic.

the woman for years because she and his mother were good friends.

The officer told the woman that throwing the bottle in the street was considered littering and asked her to clean it up.

The woman refused, saying she did nothing wrong except throw the bottle.

Because of her refusal, the officer arrested the woman for littering and issued her a misdemeanor citation.

Meanwhile, another officer cleaned up the broken bottle, which was causing a traffic hazard in the street.

Cell phone reported stolen

A 14-year-old Chelsea girl and her mother reported to Chelsea Police that the girl's cell phone had apparently been stolen during an after-prom party at Chelsea Lanes on May 4.

According to a police report, the victim said she had last seen the phone in her purse at 2 a.m., and at 4:30 a.m. she discovered the purse was unzipped and the phone, valued at $200 to $300, was missing.

Vehicle vandalized

A Chelsea officer was dispatched to the 20100 block of Old US-12 for a suspicious situation on May 4.

The rear window had been broken out of a 2008 Toyota parked in the driveway, and broken glass was found in the interior and exterior of the vehicle.

According to a police report, the residents said the damage had occurred some time between 5 a.m. and 6 p.m., because they did not notice the broken window or hear glass breaking before then.

They could not locate any object that could have broken the window, valued at $400, nor did anything seem to be missing.

Deputies recover body of kayaker from lake

By Edward Freundl
Staff Writer

An early morning Memorial Day Weekend boating trip came to a tragic end for a 19-year-old Detroit-area man.

Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department divers recovered the body of Michael John Gustafson from Blind Lake in northern Lyndon Township on Tuesday afternoon.

According to a police report, the Huntington Woods man drowned early Monday morning after he and a 17-year-old friend decided to leave a party and go out on the lake in separate boats at approximately 3:15 a.m.

According to Cmdr. Dave Egeler, Sheriff's Department Public Information Officer, deputies were alerted at 5:15 a.m. Monday that Gustafson could not be found.

The younger man had overturned his kayak and was able to swim to shore, but was unable to find his companion.

A search of the lake by people at the party discovered Gustafson's empty kayak floating in the lake.

They contacted deputies "some time later," according to Egeler's report.

Divers searched the lake for much of the day Monday, and continued their search Tuesday.

"Divers with the St. Clair County Sheriff's Department dive team assisted Washtenaw County Sheriff's divers by using side-scan sonar to detect the submerged body," Egeler said.

Gustafson's body was found in 80 feet of water, about 300 yards from shore.

Egeler said alcohol may have been a factor in the incident, and that neither man was wearing a life jacket.

He added that the conditions under which Gustafson disappeared posed a great challenge for searchers.

"It was an unwitnessed event in the dark, so it's virtually a needle in a haystack," he said.

Water quality presentation

The Michigan Groundwater Stewardship Program will host a presentation on water quality at 6 p.m. June 12 at the Michigan State University Extension office, 1040 S. Winter St. Adrian.

Dr. Sheridan K. Haack of the U.S. Geological Survey will lead a presentation about emerging chemicals, pesticides and microbial contaminants in water.

These chemicals include a wide variety of prescription and non-prescription pharmaceuticals, personal care products, and chemicals with broad household uses, such as fragrance constituents, or fire retardants. These contaminants often come from sources that may also contain microbial pathogens.

This presentation will review the typical sources and environmental pathways for emerging contaminants, and will discuss national studies and studies in several Michigan watersheds.

The public is encouraged to attend. Reservations may be made by calling the Lenawee Conservation District at 517-263 7400.

Eavesdropping on an interesting telephone call

Word has it that Gov. Jennifer Granholm and soon-to-be Democratic presidential nominee Barack Obama had a half-hour phone conversation the other day. One can only speculate on how it went.

Tim Skubick

Sweetie. How's the recuperation going?

Granholm: Going nuts, actually. Can't wait to get out there and help you get elected this fall.

Obama: What about your support for the Hill?

Granholm: Oh that. Yeah. Sure. I supported her but you know, deep down inside, I've always had a soft spot for you and, frankly, Dan, the first gentleman, has, too. That's not to say my support for the Clintons was not genuine. But you know in politics there is genuine and then there is genuine.

Obama: Say what?

Granholm: Well, you know the Clintons.

Obama: There's an understatement.

Granholm: Exactly. There were many Democrats in Michigan who had to support her because, well, the Clintons helped many of us get elected and re-elected. And as one Michigan Democrat put it, "The Clintons never give anything unless they get something in return."

Obama: No. Really?

Granholm: (Laughing) Really. Anyway, I'm ready to jump on the Obama bandwagon as soon as she leaves the stage.

Obama: That's great. You know, I will need help opening some doors since I made that silly mistake of taking my name off the Jan. 15 primary ballot. I don't know what my advisers were thinking?

Granholm: Were those the same advisers who counseled you to beat up on our auto industry when you spoke to the Detroit Economic Club?

Obama: Yeah, that, well...

Granholm: And where in the heck did you come up with that "tin can" line about the Ford Granada? Same advisers?

Obama: You saw that, hey? I was hoping nobody paid much attention to that.

Granholm: Let's just chalk it up to inexperience.

Obama: I agree. (Pause) Look it. I know you are busy, but one more thing. This Kwame thing, I'm afraid he makes my Rev. Wright episode look like a walk in the park. How do I handle that mess?

Granholm: You're asking me? I exhort you to be careful. It took me a few months to sculpt out the right line, but here's what I'm saying: "This needs to work its way out in the courts and until then I will have nothing to say."

Obama: That's great for you, but the media will never let me off the hook with that. Man, I need that vote in Detroit, but how can I campaign with Kwame and all his baggage? If I ignore him when I'm in Motown, some of the Detroiters will think I'm afraid to campaign with him.

Granholm: Ya think?

Obama: And even worse, if I do appear with him, the folks in the suburbs won't like that, either. Help me out, will ya?

Granholm: (Removing phone from her ear) What's that kids? You need my help with your math? Barack... sure was nice talking with you, but my motherly duties beckon. Let's chat again. I'd like to get your feelings on appointing me to the Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals someday.

Bye-bye.

Time to help those who help

BY TOM WATKINS

Smack, punch, humiliate, terrorize, threaten, rape, shoot, stab, brutalize and emotionally traumatize. No, this is not the latest advertisement for "The Sopranos" — it is what happens to far too many women in our neighborhoods each day.

Domestic violence is an equal opportunity crime; it impacts rich and poor, black and white, educated and non-educated. This past year, women of all socioeconomic status and racial and ethnic backgrounds have died; some disappeared and are still missing; and children have been traumatized as they have witnessed their dad or some other man brutalize their mom.

Last year, the domestic violence homicide rate rose a startling 74 percent in Michigan. A woman dies at the hands of a present or former partner every five days in this state. How pathetic and sad.

These are more than horrifying statistics.

Watkins

These women are our friends, neighbors, sisters, aunts, grand-ma's, mom's and daughters. Chances are that it has happened or will happen to a woman in your life who you love.

Now — right now — I want you to get out your checkbook and write a check to First Step, a Wayne County agency serving women and children who are victims of domestic violence. If you have the means, write a big check or consider leaving a portion of your estate to First Step so they will be there after a woman has been attacked and needs a safe place to turn.

First Step, an agency serving women and children seeking help from domestic violence, has been that place for 30 years.

Please don't look the other way and believe that someone else will write the check. I want you to imagine a woman you love, battered and bruised physically and emotionally, and not having a safe place to turn to for help. You can help and, if so inclined, can mobilize others to do so as well.

First Step is working for violence-free homes and communities. Their current shelter is 65 years old, in deplorable condition and is too small to meet the ever growing demand.

First Step has embarked on a capital campaign to replace this antiquated facility. Their goal is to build a future without domestic and sexual violence. But until that day arrives we owe it to these women to give them a place to escape, one that provides them with a sense of dignity and safety.

Survivors of domestic violence must have a "safe harbor" to escape the cycle of physical, psycho-

Our take

We're facing an energy crisis

If you were around for the energy crisis in the 1970s, you probably remember rising prices, long lines for gasoline and more than a few experts preaching the importance of finding alternative sources of energy.

We were told we needed to end our dependence on foreign oil. We could no longer afford to be held hostage economically or politically by some of the most undesirable governments on the planet.

The energy crunch sounded the alarm and the nation was called to action.

So how did we respond? We hit the snooze button. And now we're paying dearly for rolling over and ignoring the issue.

More than three decades later, the United States is no closer to addressing its long-term energy needs. And now, we're approaching a real crisis.

Two of those who would be our next leaders have advanced proposals to address the high cost of gasoline. Sen. John McCain wants the government to suspend the 18.4-cents-per-gallon gasoline tax for the summer driving season. Sen. Hillary Clinton upped the ante, suggesting the tax be suspended and the oil companies whacked with a windfall profit tax.

Now, we're not fond of taxes, but this is a case where you have to look at not just the expected or "hoped for" result, but also possible peripheral results from cutting the gas tax.

While those proposals seem reasonable, they'll probably do little to ease the burden on American drivers and, more important, nothing to address the issue long-term.

Sure, we'd all like to pay 18 cents less per gallon when we fill up, but suspending the tax carries with it no guarantee that gas prices would stabilize.

The market dictates prices, not taxes. Eliminating the gas tax might just create more demand for gasoline, not less, and that would drive up the price even more.

Meanwhile, the federal highway fund would take a hit, making even less

Our Chelsea History

When were Chelsea's elevated wood plank sidewalks replaced with cement sidewalks?

- In 1920.
- When a lady fell through and broke her ankle in 1915.
- 1909 after the Holmes-Walker furniture store fire.
- Summer of 1911.

Answer D. Beginning in July 1911 new cement sidewalks were being laid in several downtown localities. By the end of that summer very few plank sidewalks remained in Chelsea. Another improvement was the installation of new iron hitching posts in front of the Gorman (store next to today's Chelsea House Victorian Inn) and the side of the McKune Block on East Middle Street.

Chelsea lawyer attends meeting in Germany

Chelsea's Steven P. Oberholtzer, shareholder and managing partner of the Ann Arbor office of Brinks Hofer Gilson & Lione, attended the annual meeting of the International Trademark Association (INTA), held on May 17-21 in Berlin, Germany.

INTA is a not-for-profit membership association dedicated to the support and advancement of trademarks and related intellectual property as elements of fair and effective national and international commerce. The INTA annual meeting attracts 8,000 professionals from across the world and is considered the hallmark event of the intellectual property industry. The annual meeting includes networking, educational and professional development opportunities and committee meetings and exhibits.

Oberholtzer focuses his practice on patent and trademark counseling, corporate intellectual property policy development, technology licensing, joint development and joint venture relationship agreements. United States Patent and Trademark Office administrative proceedings, including interferences, re-examinations, re-issues, trademark oppositions, patent application preparation and prosecution, providing opinions regarding infringement risks, design-around projects and patentability and administration of corporate intellectual property portfolios.

Oberholtzer has extensive experience in the mechanical and electro-mechanical disciplines, with particular emphasis on automotive industry issues, and has additional significant experience in technology areas, including medical devices, lasers, fiber optics, optical devices and heavy industrial equipment. Oberholtzer is the author of a primer on intellectual property called, "The Basic Principles of Intellectual Property Law."

Oberholtzer is involved with many civic and professional activities, including the Washtenaw County Bar Association, where he serves as Chair of the Intellectual Property Law Section, the Technology Transfer Society, the Licensing Executives Society and the Original Equipment Suppliers Association.

Founded in 1917, Brinks Hofer Gilson & Lione is based in Chicago with four additional offices across the country serving the intellectual property needs of clients from around the world.

money available for road and bridge repairs. If you don't think that's important, talk to the people in Minneapolis, where the I-35 bridge collapsed into the Mississippi River last year.

While a windfall profits tax on oil companies seems to be in order, something tells us the big firms will find loopholes or more likely, they'll put enough congressman in their back pockets to kill any such proposal. However, we're for it if the proposal can get through Congress.

Meanwhile, the nation doesn't need an election year quick-fix. What it needs today is the same thing it needed 30 years ago: a comprehensive, long-term energy plan that stresses conservation over consumption, and rewards companies that aggressively pursue alternative energy sources.

Not only would we take a giant step toward reducing the burden on the next generation of Americans, but a commitment to the pursuit of alternative energy sources would create American jobs where none now exist.

All of this will require two essential components to become reality: Money and political will.

A re-evaluation of spending priorities would accomplish the former. One example is to look at Iraq. Obviously, we need to spend whatever we have to in supporting our troops. But how much do we have to finance the rebuilding of that country and how much could the Iraqis contribute with their windfall oil profits? As far as political will, that's a tougher nut.

Washtenaw County's Habitat for Humanity is now partnering with Mainstreet Ventures and local artist and attorney Suellen J. Parker to raise money for and awareness about the issue of affordable housing June 23 through 30.

Mainstreet Ventures is offering an opportunity for people to dine at any one of its five restaurants in Ann Arbor and purchase a dessert delivered on a Suellen J. Parker custom plate that customers will get to take home. Proceeds will benefit a local family in need who is partnering with Habitat for Humanity on purchasing their first home.

The opportunity to purchase a dessert offered by the various restaurants and receive a work of art is $40. Participating restaurants include Grazi, Palio, The Chop House, The Real Seafood Co. and Carson's

Washtenaw County

American Bistro. Each restaurant will feature a different designed plate by Parker.

Parker's work is also featured at the Art Institute of Chicago, in addition to other art fairs.

The goal is to sell 500 plates during that week and raise enough funds to rehab a home the area this year.

"Suellen's work is well known and her work is beautiful," Sarah Stanton, executive director for Habitat for Humanity, said in a news release. "She believes in the work Habitat does and approached us about a joint venture fundraiser.

"We were thrilled and right away thought of Mainstreet Ventures. When we met with the leadership at Mainstreet Ventures and described the possible project, they were immediately on board offering all of their restaurants as participants in raising money to help a family in need in our community."

Habitat is planning to build and rehab eight homes this year and has two spring builds scheduled to kick off May 31.

logical and sexual violence so they can begin their lives, often with children, anew. First Step has been stepping up for women for 30 years and needs the community to step up for women and help them raise the $5.5 million needed to make this dream a reality.

Last year, First Step provided around-the-clock crisis intervention, shelter, supportive counseling and legal support to nearly 10,000 survivors of domestic and sexual violence. That equates to more than 10,473 shelter nights for 322 women and 417 children.

The work of First Step is based on the belief that domestic and sexual violence are damaging to those individuals directly involved and to society as a whole. Domestic violence is not just about "men being men." It is criminal conduct that cannot be tolerated. The victims need our help to recover.

If you are a victim of domestic violence, First Step is there to help you. If you know someone being abused, provide them with the encouragement, support and guidance to seek help. And if you are in a position to financially help First Step help women in need, please do — someone's mom or daughter thanks you.

Government roundup

Walberg supports bill to simplify gasoline supply

U.S. Congressman Tim Walberg, R-District 7, announced last week that he is co-sponsoring the Boutique Fuel Reduction Act (H.R. 2493), which will simplify the nation's gasoline supply and limit the number of costly, regional "boutique fuels."

Walberg

Summer blends are currently being instituted nationwide and are causing rising seasonal prices on top of the already high prices for crude oil. Limiting the number of boutique fuels will reduce price spikes.

The current gasoline supply stock used by U.S. motorists includes "boutique," or specially formulated fuels, which are required by law in different regions and different seasons. When supplies are limited, prices tend to rise quickly, substantially and sometimes with little prior notice. Walberg says H.R. 2493 would reduce the number of "boutique fuels" which would benefit consumers by preventing specialty blends from driving up gasoline prices and allow different regions to access a national fuel supply.

"We need to do all we can to bring down the price at the pump, and this bill is a component which will bring gasoline to the market quicker, at a lower cost and with less confusion," Walberg said. "Along with limiting fuel blends, Congress needs to allow more environmentally sound exploration of oil and natural gas in Alaska, the Outer Continental Shelf and the Gulf of Mexico and streamline the process to build new refineries."

Walberg strongly supports the No More Excuses Energy Act, H.R. 3089, a bill crucial to lowering electric bills and the price at the pump. It would encourage the construction of new refineries, boost alternative energy development by extending the Wind Production Tax Credit for 10 years, increase American oil production by allowing environmentally sound drilling in Alaska, the Outer Continental Shelf and the Gulf of Mexico and help increase our supply of electricity by encouraging the construction of new nuclear power plants.

Congressman Walberg also co-sponsored legislation to provide incentives for solar, wind, cellulosic ethanol, biodiesel and energy conservation. He also supports an increase in domestic energy production through carbon-free nuclear power and clean-coal technology and has co-sponsored legislation that would encourage conservation with incentives for green buildings and legislation that would spark a revolution in clean hydrogen technology.

Brater fights phosphorus

Sen. Liz Brater's (D-Ann Arbor) bill to protect Michigan water by reducing phosphorus in dishwashing detergents was passed by the House Committee on Great Lakes and Environment last week. Senate Bill 152 now moves to the full House of Representatives for a vote, where bipartisan approval is expected.

Brater

The Senate voted unanimously to pass the bill in April 2007. "Limiting the use of phosphorus in dishwashing detergent is an easy and effective way to prevent phosphorus pollution in Michigan's waterways," Brater said. "When we began to control phosphorus levels in laundry detergents, we saw phosphorus pollution reduced more than 70 percent in many of our southern Michigan rivers. It's time to apply those same controls to dishwashing detergents if we want to protect our water resources."

Brater's legislation would require dishwashing liquids sold in Michigan to contain no more than 0.5 percent of phosphorus by weight, which is the same limitation placed on laundry detergents in 1977. Most dishwashing detergents contain 6 to 8 percent phosphorus. In accordance with the bill, detergent manufacturers would have to reduce the phosphorus content of their products by July 1, 2010.

Phosphorus acts as a fertilizer when it reaches lakes, rivers, and streams. It can cause algae blooms, reduce oxygen to plants, and animals, and ultimately accelerate the death of fish and other organisms that live in the water. Phosphorus is estimated to be responsible for up to 10 percent of algae in Michigan waters, and nearly destroyed Lake Erie in the 1960's and 1970's.

Stabenow succeeds

U.S. Senator Debbie Stabenow, D-Michigan, announced last week the Senate passage of the Supplemental Appropriations bill, which includes a provision based on language authored by Stabenow. The provision extends federal unemployment insurance by 13 weeks in all states, and an additional 13 weeks in states such as Michigan that are experiencing high unemployment.

The full bill will go back to the House of Representatives for consideration.

"Michigan has the highest unemployment rate in the country," Stabenow said. "Middle-class families in Michigan and across the country are struggling to put food on the table when there's an unexpected job loss. The extension of unemployment insurance not only provides support when they need it most, it is one of the fastest, most effective ways to stimulate our economy."

Economists throughout our country estimate that for every $1 spent on unemployment benefits, the economy is stimulated by $1.64 – or every dollar invested yields a 64 percent return for the economy. Thus, extending unemployment insurance to struggling, middle-class families will lead to a quick consumption of basic needs such as housing, food, gas, and health care.

Dillon recall update

The Michigan Department of State made available to House Speaker Andy Dillon, D-Redford Township, the results of its preliminary findings of the recall petition filed against him.

The petitioners filed 15,739 signatures with the Bureau of Elections on May 1. While 8,724 signatures are needed to put the recall question on the Aug. 5 primary ballot, only 8,224 were found to be valid and those of registered voters under the Bureau of Elections' review.

STREET TALK: SPECIAL MEMORIAL DAY EDITION by Ed Freundl

We asked people participating in the Memorial Day Parade, "What makes Memorial Day special for you?"

The Schneider family

Samantha Schneider, center, Mackenzie, left, and Natalie Samantha Schneider and daughters Mackenzie and Natalie chose a spot on Park Street to view the parade. "Because it's Memorial Day — to remember the people in the war," said Natalie. "We have three friends over in Iraq right now," said Samantha. "I've had uncles and fathers-in-law in the service, and had a cousin who died in the Iraq War. "It's to recognize what everyone has done for us," she added. "We can never take for granted what we have been given."

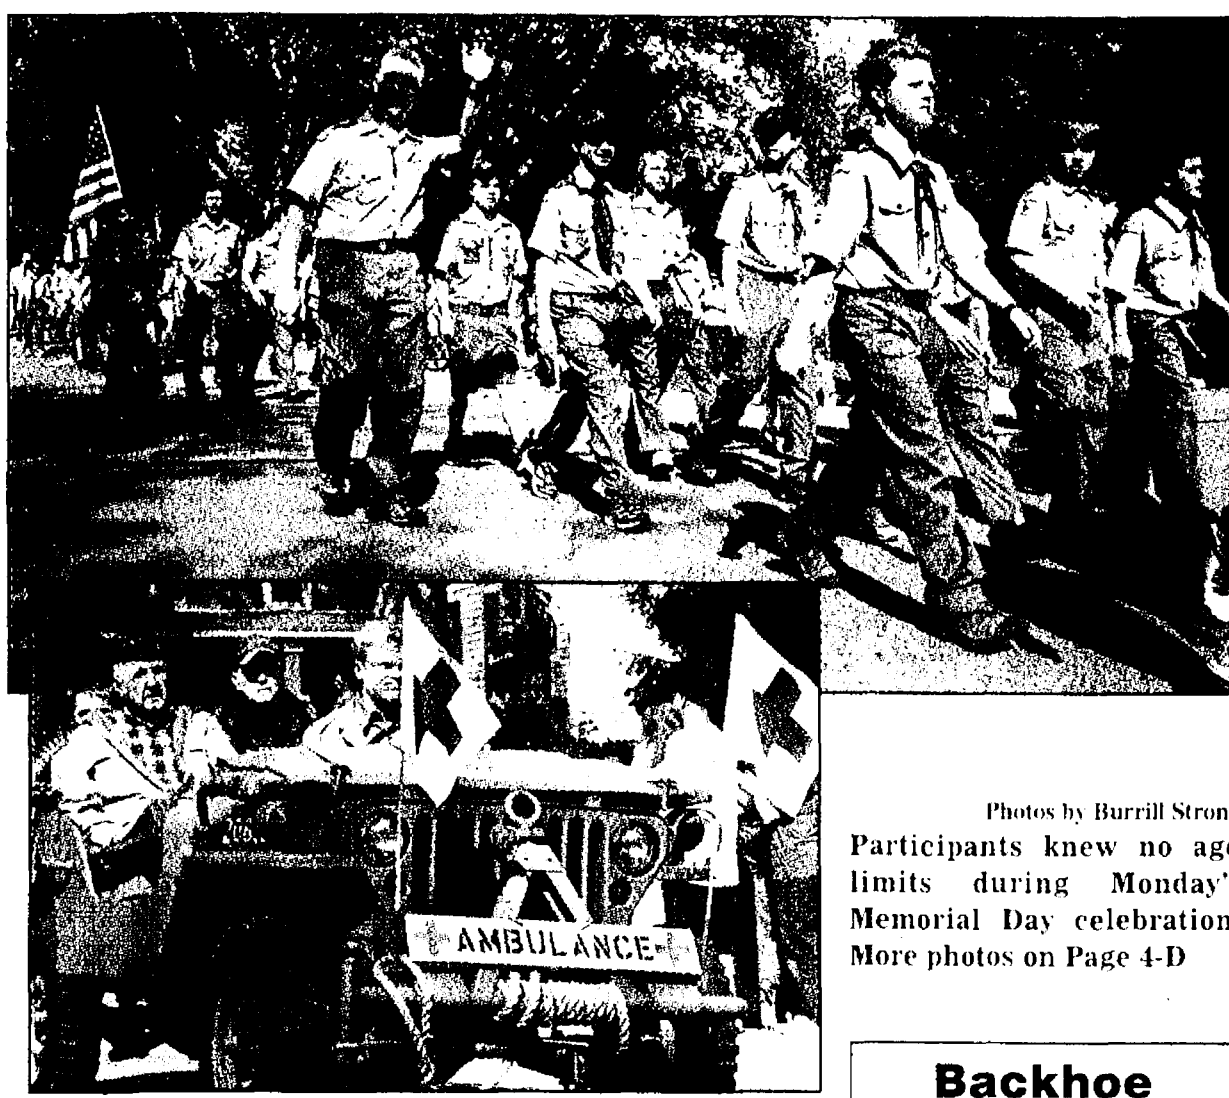

The Crouse family

Dan Crouse came to the cemetery with his wife, Cheryl, and their daughter, Cassidy. "We're here to celebrate Memorial Day and soldiers and veterans," Dan said. "After this we're planning a barbecue and cookout with the family." Cheryl Crouse added that they have two sons in the high school band. "We're honoring veterans and the people who serve our country so well," she said. "It's for honoring the people who have worked to help our country," Cassidy added.

The Moise family

Karen Moise, whose daughter and son marched with the Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts in the parade, said she was honoring her mother. "My mom's a veteran; she was a Marine in World War II — a staff sergeant," she said. "We're here out of respect for her, and I'm hoping to teach my children respect for our country and how lucky we are. "We're also having friends over for a cookout later."

is a day of remembrance," Jeruzal said. "There are 24 military cemeteries worldwide with 124,000 soldiers who did not come home. We pause from our busy lives to remember them. "These heroes' sacrifice is just as important now as it has ever been," he continued. "We owe it to ourselves and to those to come, to continue to fight for our way of life," Jeruzal implored the crowd. "Take this moment to thank those veterans who are here today and those who are here in spirit. Their actions provided the freedoms that we so often take for granted."

"All any of us can do is offer the generations who come after us the same chance for freedom," he concluded. In another picturesque and emotional moment, the breeze that had been quiet throughout most of the ceremony picked up again, unfurling all the flags to their fullest, while "Taps" and "The Star-Spangled Banner" played.

The Phillip family

Kevin Phillips, rear, Patty Phillips, center, and Pamela Parkinson, surrounded by their children. Kevin Phillips served with the U.S. Army's 101st Airborne Division from 1985 to 1992, and attended the service with his wife Patty and their children, and friend Pamela Parkinson and her children. "Even before I was in the military this was a heartfelt day for me," said Phillips, who was visibly affected by the ceremony. "I've seen how it can rip the heart out of my father and uncles in World War II and Vietnam, and it reminded me of the buddies I made when I was in — I was wondering where they were now," he said. "I also wanted to teach my kids something. This is a moment to remember how lucky we are and to honor the veterans." Patty Phillips' father was a medic in World War II, and when he stayed behind to tend the wounded after a battle he ended up in a German POW camp for three years. "I was thinking of the huge sacrifices that are made that so many of us don't realize every day," she said. "I wish we could hear more about the wonderful things they're doing (in Iraq and Afghanistan)." Parkinson said several members of her family were in the military. "I had an uncle who served in Vietnam and both grandfathers were in World War II," she said. "We're just here to try to teach our kids the importance of honoring those who serve."

Guest Column: By Martha Forner

Relay for Life is worth every step

By Martha Forner

It's 2 a.m. and the rain is starting to ease off.

My feet hurt as I continue to do endless circles around a blue track. I'm part of the Relay for Life at the Chelsea High School track and as tired as I am, I am glad to be a part of this fund-raiser for cancer research.

Everyone here has a story to tell, friends and family that are ill...miracles in the making...but at 2 in the morning I am only thinking of my feet. I am starting my second hour in a row, but I have already participated in the Cowboy hour so averaging three miles per hour I have walked six miles and I have three more to go until my relieve arrives.

As I come to the straight away I gratefully step off the track and walk along side of it on the turf and my feet sigh in relief at the feel of the soft squishiness underneath.

My friends, the Hergenreders, have been telling me how wonderful the new stadium is, but this is the first time that I have seen it. It is a marvel! The seats all have a wonderful view, but I am blown away by the feel of the field itself. As I come to the curve in the track I step back onto the track itself and I marvel at the texture of it. It is not slippery at all even with the rain we have had for the past hour.

My step has noticeably slowed and my secondary sponsor, who is walking with me, has considerably slowed along with me. Tom of Traveling Trees happens to be my husband and he agreed to join with me as our primary sponsor's team Farm Bureau's The Royal Blue Racers. Our Team Captain is Rick Eder and we walk in honor of our sister-in-law Ruth Horning (Rick's mother-in-law) and other friends and family. We have family from as far as southern Indiana taking turns here and I wonder how many others participating at this event are from out of state.

Just when I think that I must stop to take a rest, I hear a young man's voice break out in song along with the sound of a guitar.

Live Music! I don't know who he is but his wonderful voice and guitar playing help me make another three miles. The 23 people left on the track were too tired to give him the applause that he deserved but I would like to let him know that he is appreciated. The beat was just right to help tired feet go another round and his voice carried us all the way to 3 a.m.!

It's 3 a.m. and my relief is here, time for the egg lap. You carry a hard boiled egg around the track on a spoon without touching it or dropping it and you get extra points. I am unclear what the points are for but I am determined to win some for my team. I can do one more lap! I walk slow. I am focused on my egg. I am dead last! But I win points along with my other team members who took first and middle place.

Finally I sit down in the bleachers and I doze...dreaming of hard boiled omelets, strumming guitars, and Ruth.

God Rest Her Soul. Martha Forner was a member of the Royal Blue Racers, Best Rookie Team, at last weekend's Relay for Life in Chelsea.

Writing your own obituary isn't easy

By Alison Marable
Special Writer

As a college student, one of our assignments was to write our own obituary. As simple as that sounds, it's a difficult task.

First, I had to accept that one day, I will die. Second, it forced me to examine the lump sum of my life and decide if I liked what was on the paper.

As the author of my own obit, I had to determine what was vital to include and what to specifically exclude in a public document that not only announces to neighbors, classmates and distant relatives that we have passed on, but is meant to honor the life one lived.

After battling cancer, I developed the habit of reading obituaries. I became curious about how each of these people died, their age at death, what survivors are missing their company, and what made each of them unique.

Some obituaries are brief and others are works of art that are lovingly written to try and convey to the reader the soul of the departed. A few are written so vividly and with so much detail or humor that I wish I had known the person. The well-written obits reveal the intensity of the relationship that is now severed.

My father, Theodore Betts, died in 2005. I found my father's obituary to be disappointing. His obit, not written by me, included only his formal education and a list of survivors. His children were listed without their spouses and without last names. Grandchildren were just a list of first names and not connected with their parents.

Without our spouses or last names, the obit will prove useless to future generations researching ancestors or local history. It also made it difficult for community members to identify any connection between the deceased and the survivors.

What is the message in such an obit? Anyone reading the obituary would have no way to recognize that it was my father and my children's grandfather. There were so many details left out of it that it felt quickly written, generic and didn't properly convey his essence. I can easily recall all of things that I would have included.

My son, whose middle name is my father's name (at the request of his mother), didn't have his full name listed. My grandmother died the month before my son was born, but I take comfort in the fact that I honored her request.

My father, devoted to his parents, visited them every weekend from as far back as I can remember until their deaths. I joined my dad on the visits and it was often just the two of us making the long trek to Chelsea when I was a child and later as an adult when I moved to Chelsea.

Each visit with my dad and grandmother included a drive in the woods, down unknown dirt roads, or through old neighborhoods as I listened to the two of them recall the past or marvel at the beauty of nature.

The obituary also left out the trips dad and I took to a remote cabin in Canada where we stayed with relatives. After we picked blueberries from a hillside Aunt Irene would bake them into a pie in a cabin that lacked electricity and plumbing.

My father and I played ping pong to the Beatles and rode our bikes dangerously fast down parking structures. He taught me to play cribbage, a game that my son and I play constantly. Then there were the letters he used to send me in college, signed by actors' names about whom we shared inside jokes.

The fact that he was one of the few men to be diagnosed with breast cancer and then to survive the disease is not mentioned in his obituary. It's significant that he lived through the disease, a disease that we would one day have in common.

One of the reasons that I enjoy this column and the articles that I write about individuals who are diagnosed with a variety of diseases is that I want to write about things that have meaning. It's important to me that I highlight the struggles and accomplishments of individuals, connect people to each other, and show that they matter.

I encourage each of you to consider reading or writing obituaries as a celebration.

not as a morbid activity or quick business. My father's obituary was a missed opportunity to tell his story.

My children will someday have the opportunity to write mine and it ignites my curiosity to wonder what will be written. Hopefully I will have given them an arsenal full of memories and interactions from which to choose, like my father did for me.

Alison Marable is a freelance writer. She can be reached at alimabelle@yahoo.com.

Upcoming topics

• "The six-month check-up": Recently I attended the six-month checkup appointment with my cancer surgeon. It was not a full six months as I was having some complications, but the appointment was a quickie and I was given the green light to enjoy life until my next six-month checkup. When I walked out, nothing happened. No parade, no rainbow, no group of friends waiting at home for us.

Coming June 12

• "False health advice spread through e-mail": An acquaintance of mine recently forwarded an e-mail regarding the causes of cancer and urgent changes that people should make immediately to avoid getting cancer. That's something we'd all like to know, right? The sender is a kind, efficient person, so I know that her intentions were good. Unfortunately, this e-mail was one of the chain e-mails that spreads false information.

The ARTS

35th annual Chelsea Painters Art Fair June 7-8

By Sheila Pursglove
Special Writer

The Chelsea Painters Art Fair has come a long way from its early days nearly four decades ago, when paintings were hung on clotheslines strung from trees.

The free annual event, set for 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. June 7 and 8 on the grounds of Chelsea Community Hospital at 775 S. Main St. in Chelsea, is celebrating its 35th year.

"Chelsea has become known as a place of destination because of the growing art community. The Chelsea Painters Art Fair may have been a frontrunner in leading this inspiration," says Sandy Knapp, president of Chelsea Painters.

"The love of art thrives in Chelsea with its many venues."

The Chelsea Painters date back to the early 1970s, when a group calling itself the Chelsea Painters met at the old Frisinger Real Estate building on S. Main Street in Chelsea – now the location of CVS Pharmacy – for weekly classes taught by Ann Arbor artist Betty Maxwell.

In 1991, the group incorporated as the Chelsea Painters; the artists, now numbering about two dozen, continue to meet weekly from mid-September to mid-May.

Nancy Feldkamp is one of the original Chelsea Painters and a familiar artist around Chelsea. She has exhibited at Art & Soule Gallery and the Chelsea Gallery, and contributes to the CCA Annual Autumn Jubilee.

She also participated in the "Opening Doors" project organized by the CCA and Chelsea District Library, where she contributed "Trees of Knowledge," an old farmhouse door featuring stylized trees with collage techniques and acrylics.

Raised on a farm in Tecumseh, Feldkamp has been passionate about art since childhood, when she took art classes in school.

"I can remember as a young child being interested in drawing," she says. "I still have a picture that I drew when I was about 9 years old."

Feldkamp and her husband Reno live on a 144-acre farm in Sharon Township, their home since 1950. The rural landscape has provided much of Feldkamp's inspiration.

"I've always been fond of the Michigan landscape, with its change of seasons," she says. "This was my original inspiration, and drew me to capture it on paper."

In 1963, she joined a senior citizen's art class at Manchester High School, and in the 1970s exhibited with the Manchester Art Guild.

In 1987, Feldkamp received a commission from a couple in Ann Arbor that had bought a painting from her at the Manchester Street Fair.

They commissioned a body of work called "Barns of Michigan," for a traveling show. It was exhibited in Ann Arbor, Sleeping Bear Dunes National Lakeshore and at Kellogg Biological Station near Battle Creek, where it still hangs.

"This work made me feel like a seasoned artist, ready for an art career," Feldkamp says.

With newfound confidence in her artistic abilities, she began entering national art competitions, gaining awards and eventually a signature membership in the Pennsylvania Watercolor Society. Her work also has been accepted and displayed in several shows with The Michigan Watercolor Society.

She has exhibited her work in juried national shows and was included in Rockport Publishers Best of Watercolor Painting Color in 1999.

Moving on from painting barns and landscapes, Feldkamp, who also has studied art in Italy, turned her interest to

Beer bottle provides clues to the past

By George Sparrow
Special Writer

The next artifact from the Pierce Lake Interurban collection I was able to research provides a lesson on the beer-brewing history of Ann Arbor, prior to Prohibition.

This amber beer bottle, partially broken at the stem (see photo), measures 7 inches at the tip of the broken stem, with a bottom diameter of 2-1/2 inches.

In an arc just below the shoulder are the words, "Michigan Union Brg. (Brewing) Co." Underneath those words in the arc appears an eagle, facing left atop a Union shield. Underneath the shield are the words "Ann Arbor, Mich." and "Registered."

Next appear the enigmatic words, "Pure and Without Drugs or Poison." On the reverse side of the bottle, just above the bottom rim, appears the inscription, "MBRG Co."

Ann Arbor has had a long history of breweries within its city limits.

Peter Broehm and John Royer founded the most successful of those, on South Fourth Avenue, between Liberty and West Madison streets. Broehm soon bought out Royer and he then purchased another (City Brewery).

In the late 1870s, after Broehm's passing, Frank Ruck purchased the brewery from Broehm's widow. The main, two-story building and basement occupied an area of 1,800 square feet.

In 1880, it was purchased by Chris Martin and Matt Fischer. It was during their ownership that the brewery grew from 3,000 to 30,000 barrels by 1906.

In 1902 brick buildings replaced the old wooden structures with a four-story brewing house. The name was changed to Michigan Union Brewing Company as a tip of the hat to the local Bartenders and Brewers Union.

Martin was the brewmaster and Fischer was the foreman of the bottle shop. Getting the product to the customer was mostly a matter of delivering to saloons and restaurants in town. Teamsters in the early years made regular deliveries to outlying areas with weekly trips to Dexter and Saline. In 1915, after purchasing a locally made Star truck, Milan and Whitmore Lake were added to the list.

Records of the company, located in the Ann Arbor District Library, do not reveal when or if deliveries were made to Chelsea.

Prohibition brought an end to the beer-brewing part of the company in 1920, and like many breweries of the time it switched over to the manufacturing of ice cream until 1932, when it was purchased by Charles Ackerman. He began to brew beer in that year and renamed it the Ann Arbor Brewing Company, which remained open until 1947.

Two years later the building and company closed, ending the brewing of beer in Ann Arbor until the last decade of the 20th century.

As to the date of the manufacturing of the bottle, the earliest is easily determined because it has a seam running from the bottom up the side.

This means that it was made by an automatic bottle machine, which was developed in the early part of the 20th century.

The closest I could come to the actual date was 1905 or '06, depending on the source you happen upon.

Further evidence of the date of manufacture is the admonition on the side of the bottle, "Pure and Without Drugs or Poison."

In the early part of the 20th century, Congress raised great concerns about the content of liquids offered for sale to the public due to several scandalous episodes involving deaths and/or permanent debilitating results from the ingestion of some of these items.

At the 1904 St. Louis Exposition, proponents of a "pure food act" set up a booth next to prominent food manufacturers and displayed colored silks made from the dyes used by major firms in their food products.

In 1906, Congress passed the Pure Food and Drug Act. It set the standard for drugs included in food products as additives; for example, if a product contained any of 11 ingredients such as morphine or opium.

A common over-the-counter product prior to the Act was laudanum, which contained a full gram of opium in a pint-sized bottle of whiskey!

This would help date our bottle as later than 1906. Then the next question to be resolved was to find the last possible date our bottle could have been made.

Little did I anticipate what a long journey this would be. An obvious end date would be 1919 with the passage of the 18th Amendment (Prohibition). But I wanted to narrow it down even more. I went to the University of Michigan Graduate Library in Ann Arbor looking for help.

I found several books on beer labels but they were not of much help; the labels pictured were not identified by year.

Needing more help, I looked on the Internet for a Web site. I found americanbreweriana.org, which led me to several experts to whom I addressed my questions with varying results. But before I could do so, I was told that I had to become a member.

So now I am an official member (No. 9276) of the American Breweriana Association Inc.

I asked Bob Kay, an expert on beer labels, the question of when this bottle might have been made.

"I am not really sure, but I think those statements were optional on beer labels," he answered.

What to do? Here is my best guess, based on the information I have presented.

This bottle was made between 1906 and 1918, with the better view being closer to the earlier date.

Photo: This beer bottle from the Michigan Union Brewing Co. in Ann Arbor, dating to between 1906 and 1918, was uncovered as part of the Pierce Lake Interurban Artifact collection.

Scouts help families in need

Chelsea-area Scout groups joined forces last month for the annual Scouting for Food drive to collect and stock the Faith in Action pantry. In this two-week project, volunteers leave tags announcing the collection date at homes in Chelsea and return the following Saturday to pick up donations. Scouts also distributed shopping lists of currently needed items and accepted donations at Polly's Country Market.

Working together, 105 Scouts and 61 parents made this project look easy, with participation from Cub Scout Packs 435 and 445; Girl Scout Troops 1807, 1770, 1595, 1226, 507, and 463; Boy Scout Troops 425 and 476, and Venture Crew 412.

"I think as a community it shows we care," Event Coordinator Liza Gray said. "We're thankful to have such a supportive community to help with donations."

Once Scouts delivered the donated food to Faith in Action, they inspected each item, checked for expiration dates, sorted everything by type, and placed case after case of food on FIA pantry shelves. Families in our community can receive fresh food and household items from the well-stocked pantry shelves.

"The Scouts did a really efficient job of sorting and boxing the food they brought in," said FIA Director Nancy Paul. "Many of them have been doing this for years and took charge of the whole operation. It was very little work for us, and everything was shelved by the end of the day."

Derek Heumann (left), Jasper Holcomb, Kim Eckart and Robby Everard unpack goods from the hundreds of bags filled with donations.

Among the collected cans and boxes were many expired items, including a Jell-O product with an expiration date of 1980. Unsafe items are thrown out because, as Cub Scout Zachary Taylor, a North Creek Elementary second grader said, "If it's old, it can make people sick."

Faith In Action is a community funded, faith based assistance and resource center for those in need in the Chelsea and Dexter school districts. For more information, contact Faith in Action at 475-3305 or www.faithinaction1.org.

For more information on scouting, contact Stacey Anttila at 433-9751.

Riley Lukomski (left), Cullen Lindsay, Tyler Lukomski and Zachary Taylor inspect dates to make sure families won't receive old fruits, vegetables and Jiffy mix from FIA.

Austin Gray (left), Luke Heumann, Liza Gray, Zach Schepers and James Biller check in volunteers and track activity on the pick-up routes in Chelsea.

Chelsea's bird bonanza

Calling all bird watchers: Plenty to see right here in Washtenaw County

By Harold Eyster
Guest Writer

An occasional series of notes about the ways of nature, in and around Chelsea, written by Harold Eyster

Many people think that in order to see brightly colored birds in abundance, they have to travel to Costa Rica or South America but, in fact, many birds that you could see in South America come right here to Chelsea. For example there is a bird called an Indigo Bunting, which is commonly found along roadsides in and around Chelsea, a bird which migrates here all the way from Brazil! The males are such a bright vivid turquoise that you would think that they were plugged into a wall socket.

So maybe you don't have to travel to Brazil to experience nature, maybe the birds from Brazil will travel to your backyard, right here in Chelsea.

Last Saturday was the annual International Migratory Bird Count. I was assigned to count birds for northern Lima Township, the results of my sightings and those of others are used as a snapshot of the migratory birds present in various locations throughout the world on one day each year. Changes in abundance and movements of birds reveal the effects of global warming, weather, and habitat conservation and destruction.

It was 4:30 am on a Saturday morning, a time when most people would be snug in their beds, but not I.

I was standing on Trinkle Road, where it passes over the north fork of Mill Creek, and playing a recording of the whinnying call of the Eastern Screech Owl. Silence, then an answering call from the woods. The first bird of the day!

Later, at Chelsea's Oak Grove cemetery I heard some Blue Jays screaming at the top of their lungs, walking over to investigate saw a large fledgling Great-horned Owl sitting about ten feet off the ground on the tip of an over hanging spruce branch, not fifteen feet away, what a view! And the sightings continued all day. Here is a list of the birds I saw: a total of eighty-nine species.

abstracts, trying new approaches to style and subject matter.

In recent years, she has chosen sheep as subject matter to create abstract designs in a variety of vivid colors and settings. Each painting gives her ideas for another one.

"I like the challenge and find it fascinating and fulfilling," she says.

Earlier this year, Feldkamp and fellow Chelsea Painter Ilona Brustad exhibited "Shards and Sheep" at Riverside Art Center Gallery in Ypsilanti.

Always looking for ways to grow beyond the status quo and ready for new challenges and styles, her artistic passion still has its roots on the farm and in rural landscapes.

Feldkamp is one of 25 award-winning artists who will display and sell their original fine art and cards at the Art Fair. The artworks are in a variety of media: watercolor, acrylic, oil, pastel, gouache, encaustic, monotype, and mixed media

The Art Fair also will feature a children's tent with special art activities provided by the staff of the Chelsea Center for the Arts, entertainment by folk musician Sharon Dressen McKnight, and a display of art by Chelsea High School students.

A percentage of proceeds will be donated to the CCA and the Chelsea Community Hospital Auxiliary Scholarship Fund.

Chelsea's girls' tennis team finished as runner-up in the Southeastern Conference White Division match May 20.

Winning the title was Adrian.

Leading the host Bulldogs were their doubles teams. Chelsea captured first place in three of the four doubles flights. In the other doubles flight, the Bulldogs finished second.

At No. 1 doubles, the Chelsea twosome of Baillie Simpson and Robin Olinyk placed second. Winning the flight was the Adrian duo of Shelly Cheshier and Alexis Ringman.

At No. 2 doubles, the Bulldog combo of Hannah Boshoven and Diana Bach finished first. Adrian's Jessica McNeil and Allison Meyer ended up second.

Chelsea's Alex Broekhuizen and Willa Booth captured a league title at No. 3 doubles. Adrian's Sarah Agnew and Nicole Beorden placed second.

At No. 4 doubles,

Bulldogs Ellie Howe and Kara Cremer finished first. Adrian's Lexie Frank and Kristin Batchart were league runner-up.

"Our doubles teams really dominated play today with three of them going 3-0," said Chelsea coach Matt Pedlow. "Hannah Boshoven and Diana Bach continue to improve as a doubles team and both Howe and Cremer and Booth and Broekhuizen played their final matches together today as Cremer and Booth are graduating."

"It was good to see all of the seniors today walk off the court winning their final match of their careers."

In singles play, Chelsea's Amanda Snyder placed second in the SEC White at the No. 1 flight. Adrian's Kristin Vallada finished first.

At No. 2 singles, Bulldog Carolyn Olsen ended up as league champion. Adrian's Caiti Bolick was runner-up.

"In the best match of the day, Carolyn Olsen came back after losing the first set 6-1 to defeat Caiti Bolick

Chelsea slugs it out in quad

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

Chelsea softball hosted its own quad tournament last Friday, advancing to the finals before losing 3-2 to Eaton Rapids.

"They're a good team," said Chelsea coach Robin Raymond. "We couldn't string enough hits together."

The Bulldogs (21-11-1) ended up with five hits against the Greyhounds.

Chelsea opened up a 2-0 first inning lead, as senior Brogan Darwin was hit by a pitch to start the frame.

Senior Annie Hollandsworth followed with an RBI triple plating Darwin. Sophomore Shelby Platt connected for an RBI single bringing home Hollandsworth and giving the Bulldogs their early advantage.

Eaton Rapids chipped away at Chelsea's lead and entered the seventh inning tied at 2-2 with the Bulldogs.

The Greyhounds scored the game-winning run in the stanza on two hits and an error.

Senior Kelly Whitley suffered the loss from the circle for Chelsea. She allowed two earned runs, struck out eight and walked one.

In the quad's opening contest, the Bulldogs defeated Ypsilanti 5-1.

Sophomore Kaley Dixon recorded the win from the rubber tossing a four-hitter, striking out nine and walking two.

Chelsea pounded out nine hits, led by Platt who had a double and home run. Platt's over-the-fence roundtripper was her first of the season.

On May 19, the visiting Bulldogs swept a double-header from Saline winning 6-2, 6-0.

"They beat us easily the first time around," Raymond said. "It was nice to see how much we've improved."

In the first game, Whitley picked up the victory allowing five hits, no earned runs, striking out three and walking one.

The fifth inning turned the contest around as Chelsea scored three runs to take control of the game. Getting hits in the frame were Hollandsworth with an RBI triple, Platt with an RBI and Darwin with a single.

Overall for the contest, Darwin paced the Bulldogs with three hits, including a double.

Senior Lizzy Bentley, senior Rachel Voicechovski and Hollandsworth each had two hits for Chelsea.

In Game 2, Dixon earned the win yielding five hits, fanning 10 and walking two.

"Both Kelly and Kaley have done a great job with their control this season," Raymond said. "They're making the other team put the ball in play. They're not giving them any free passes. Our defense has also played well."

In the fifth inning, the Bulldogs put the game away scoring four runs on four straight hits. Bentley, Platt, Voicechovski and Whitley each had consecutive singles for Chelsea. Also getting a hit in the inning was Hollandsworth with a double.

For the contest, freshman Ellie Stoffer and Platt each finished with three hits to spark the Bulldogs. Darwin and Voicechovski each had two hits.

Chelsea next hosts a Division 2 state district Saturday. The Bulldogs face Adrian in a district semifinal at 10 a.m. At noon, defending Division 2 state champion Tecumseh takes on the winner of Jackson Northwest-Onsted in the other district semifinal.

The district final is Saturday at 3 p.m.

Despite the presence of the defending state champs, Raymond remained confident his club could succeed.

"If we play our best softball, we can come away with a district title," he said.

Bulldogs fourth at meet

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

Chelsea's girls' track and field team placed fourth overall at the Southeastern Conference meet at Ypsilanti Lincoln May 21.

The Bulldogs, ranked No. 4 in the state in Division 2, ended up with 65.5 points. In the SEC White Division, Chelsea finished second.

Winning the overall SEC title was Ann Arbor Pioneer, ranked No. 1 in the state in Division 1, with 159 points.

Finishing second overall was Saline, ranked No. 6 in the state in Division 1, with 146 points. The host Railsplitters placed third overall and first in the SEC White Division, with 70 points.

Ann Arbor Huron was fifth with 64 points, while Tecumseh was sixth with 53 points. Temperance Bedford seventh with 51 points, Dexter eighth with 34 points and Adrian ninth with 18 points.

"We ran well today," said Chelsea coach Pat Clarke. "We came up a little short at the end."

In field events, Bulldog senior Jillian Fischer finished first in the discus with a toss of 109-feet. Sophomore Ashlee Walker was eighth with a 75-7.

Fischer was first in the shot put with a throw of 37-1.

"Jillian had a great day winning both the shot put and discus," Clarke said.

In the long jump, sophomore Christina Coffman finished seventh with a personal best 15-10.

"That was a highlight of the meet," Clarke said.

Senior Cassie Coffman placed fourth in the pole vault reaching a height of 9-0.

In the long jump, junior Jenny Squires led the Bulldogs clearing 4-6.

Sophomore Katrina Williams paced Chelsea in the 100-meter hurdles with a time of 17.6. Sophomore Jenna McGrath was right on Williams' heels with a 17.9.

In the 300-meter hurdles, Williams was the Bulldogs' best in 51.9.

Junior Erin Benjamin finished third in the 100 meters in 12.5, while freshman Corinne Carpenter was eighth in 13.1 for Chelsea.

Benjamin was third in the 200 meters with a clocking of 26.5, while sophomore Olivia DeTroyer was eighth in 28.1 for the Bulldogs.

DeTroyer crossed the line first in the 400-meter run with a time of 59.3.

Junior Nichole Hopp had

Chelsea's top time in the 800-meter run with a 2:49.3.

In the 3,200-meter run, freshman Samantha Newbound paced the Bulldogs with a 12:57, while sophomore teammate Courtney Maher had a 13:32.

The Chelsea foursome of Christina Coffman, Williams, McGrath and Carpenter placed sixth in the 400-meter relay in 53.3.

In the 800-meter relay, Christina Coffman, DeTroyer, Carpenter and Benjamin finished fourth in 1:48.9.

Cassie Coffman, DeTroyer, Carpenter and Benjamin ended up fifth in the 1,600-meter relay with a time of 4:17.6.

Sophomore Julie Beaumont, Hopp, Maher and Squires placed seventh in the 3,200-meter relay in 11:28.

"We learned quite a bit about quality competition in this meet," Clarke said. "It should help to mature the girls in their approach to the final meets of the season."

The Bulldogs next travel to Zeeland to participate in the Division 2 state meet Saturday.

Chelsea sixth at league meet

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

Chelsea's boys' track and field team finished sixth overall at the Southeastern Conference meet at Ypsilanti Lincoln May 21.

"This is a high-powered meet to end the season," said Chelsea coach Eric Swager. "We ended up third in the SEC (White Division), the same place we were after the dual meet portion."

Swager said he was impressed with the athletes competing at last week's meet.

"It is amazing the depth of talent that exists in this league when both divisions come together," he said.

Winning the SEC title was Saline, with 148 points. The Hornets are ranked No. 4 in the state in Division 1.

Placing second was Adrian, ranked No. 10 in the state in Division 2, with 104 points. Ann Arbor Pioneer, ranked No. 1 in the state in Division 1, finished third with 87 points, while Dexter, the defending Division 2 state champion, ended up fourth with 80 points.

Ann Arbor Huron was fifth with 60 points, while the Bulldogs were sixth with 58 points. Ypsilanti Lincoln seventh with 43 points, Tecumseh eighth with 40 points and Temperance Bedford ninth also with 40 points.

"Our goal was to exceed our seed places and we did," Swager said. "We were projected to score somewhere in the 40s, but we ended up with 58 (points)."

In field events, Chelsea junior Josh Rudd finished fifth in the discus with a toss of 129 feet.

Senior Sam Dyer placed seventh in the shot put for the Bulldogs with a throw of 43-6.

With their efforts, both

Bulldog junior Peter Wilke helped lead Chelsea's 3,200-meter relay to a sixth-place finish at last week's Southeastern Conference meet.

Rudd and Dyer earned All-SEC honors.

Sophomore Landon Niesen tied for sixth in the pole vault clearing 12-0 for Chelsea.

Freshman Chris Ballow led the Bulldogs in the high jump with a personal best mark of 5-7.

In the 110-meter hurdles, senior Justin McGrath placed second with a time of 15.23. Senior Evan Carpenter was third in 15.29 for Chelsea.

Carpenter broke the tape first winning the 300-meter hurdles in 40.78. McGrath was third in 41.52.

Adams was sixth in the 100 meters in 11.55.

Chelsea sophomore Nick Hill finished sixth in the 200 meters with a clocking of 24.1.

In the 400-meter run, junior Kevin Rosentreter placed seventh for the Bulldogs in 54.2.

Junior Peter Wilke led Chelsea with a 2:14 in the 800-meter run. Junior Dominic Conybeare was close behind with a 2:16.

Junior Nick Hewitt paced Chelsea with a 4:46 in the 1,600-meter run.

Freshman August Pappas topped the Bulldogs with a time of 10:19 in the 3,200-meter run.

Both Hewitt and Pappas each received All-SEC accolades for their performances.

The Chelsea foursome of senior Brad Ratliff, Hill, Adams and Rosentreter placed fifth in the 400-meter relay with a clocking of 45.4.

In the 1,600-meter relay, junior Riley Feeney, McGrath, Carpenter and Rosentreter ended up fifth in 3:39.7.

Wilke, Feeney, Conybeare and Hewitt finished sixth in the 3,200-meter relay in 8:52.

"We look forward to finishing our season strong at a couple JV meets and at the state finals Saturday," Swager said.

Chelsea next travels to Zeeland to compete in the Division 2 state meet Saturday.

Golf

Dawgs place fifth

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

Chelsea's boys' golf team finished fifth at the Division 2 state district match at the Marshall Country Club last Thursday.

With their finish, the Bulldogs qualified for the Division 2 state regional match at Richland Gull Lake's Stonehedge North Golf Course Thursday. Only the top six squads advanced to the regional.

To move on to the Division 2 state final June 6 through 7 at Eastern Michigan University, Chelsea will have to finish in the top three at the regional match.

"We have to play our absolute best to make it to the state final," said Chelsea coach Joe Ewald. "Every team left is very good."

At last week's district, the Bulldogs ended up with a team score of 329.

Winning the district was the host Redskins with a tally of 306.

Battle Creek Lakeview was second also with a 306. Dexter finished third with a 307, while Tecumseh was fourth with a 319.

Leading Chelsea individually was senior Danny Battistone with a 79.

Senior Kyle George added an 82, while senior Chris LaDuke had an 83 and senior Elliot Marshall an 85 for the Bulldogs.

On May 20, Chelsea placed third at the Southeastern Conference White Division match at Radrick Farms Golf Course in Ann Arbor.

The Bulldogs recorded a score of 339.

"Radrick is a strong golf course for a high school match," Ewald said. "It gave us a good test."

Winning the tournament was Dexter with a 315. Finishing second was Tecumseh with a 333, while Adrian was fourth with a 345 and Ypsilanti Lincoln fifth with a score of 422.

LaDuke led Chelsea shooting an 81.

EMU Baseball Team Keeps Eye on MAC Regular-Season Title Eagles' close out MAC season at CMU

Paid Advertisement

The Eastern Michigan University baseball team enters the final three-game series of the 2008 Mid-American Conference season this weekend with the league title on the line.

The Eagles are currently leading the West Division with a 14-6 mark for a winning percentage of .700. Northern Illinois is second at 14-9 (.609) followed by Ball State at 11-9 (.550), Western Michigan is 11-10 (.524), Central Michigan holds the fifth spot at 11-12 (.478) with Toledo sixth at 8-12 (.400).

Kent State is the top dog in the East Division at 14-7 (.667) with Bowling Green a close second at 13-8 (.619). The rest of the East has Ohio third at 12-12 (.500), Akron fourth at 8-10 (.444), Miami fifth at 7-17 (.292) and Buffalo sixth at 6-17 (.261).

The team with the best MAC winning percentage, regardless of division affiliation, will be crowned the MAC regular-season champion. EMU won the 2007 crown and lost to Kent State in the finals of the MAC Tournament, hosted by the Eagles.

Head coach Jake Boss' Eagles close out the MAC regular season Thursday-Saturday (May 15-17) in a three-game series at Central Michigan. Game times are 3 p.m. Thursday and Friday and 2 p.m. Saturday. If EMU wins one game in the CMU series, the Eagles will repeat as West Division champion.

The top eight teams in the standings after this weekend's games will advance to VA Memorial Stadium in Chillicothe, Ohio (May 21-25) for the 2008 MAC Tournament.

The winners of the West and East divisions will receive the top two seeds based on MAC winning percentage. The next six teams in order of winning percentage will be seeded three through eight. The teams will then be divided into two pools and play double-elimination within the brackets with the winning team from each pool meeting in a one-game winner-take-all game.

Running Fit holds shoe trade-in Running Fit announced today that it is hosting a shoe trade-in program, with the help of local dentist John Farah and Enspire Dental, to benefit Soles4Souls Inc., the international footwear charity that delivers shoes to needy people around the world.

During the shoe drive, Running Fit will be offering a discount to all customers who bring in gently worn pairs of shoes. The shoe trade-in program will begin on June 1 and will run through the end of the month. Depending on the results, the program will likely continue into the future.

The two local Running Fit locations in the Ann Arbor area are at 123 E. Liberty (4th and Liberty St.) and 42 Enterprise Drive (off Jackson Road between Zeeb and Baker Roads).

"It's great that a group of college students were able to connect a local running store with a global non-profit organization to help solve a public health crisis," said Randy Step, President and CEO of Running Fit.

"Just knowing that each pair of shoes donated will optimize health and physical well-being for individuals in the developing world makes our participation so easy," said Dr. John Farah of Enspire Dental, who just completed his 100th marathon in Boston this year.

Wayne Elsey, founder of Soles4Souls said Running Fit has been integral to his organization's success.

"We are thrilled that Running Fit is acting on our behalf to spread joy to people, both here in the United

1-6, 6-3, 6-3," Pedlow said. "Olsen never gave up in the match and started covering the court well against Bolick's powerful ground strokes and serve. She refused to lose. I was thrilled to see her play her best match of the year at our last match. I look forward to watching Carolyn improve over the next year for us."

At No. 3 singles, Chelsea's Alison Gines placed second. Adrian's Lindy Coon was first.

At No. 4 singles, Adrian's Melissa Foor was league champion. Dexter's Lindsey Franson was runner-up.

Earning the SEC Sportsmanship Award for Chelsea was Gines.

"Alison is such a quiet opponent," Pedlow said. "She never gets upset over calls or beats herself up after bad points. I couldn't think of a better player to represent Chelsea tennis than Alison. She is truly a class act who embodies the idea of sportsmanship."

On May 16, the Bulldogs hosted a Division 3 regional. Chelsea finished third overall with 14 points.

Winning the regional was Grosse Ile with 27 points. Placing second was Dearborn Divine Child with 15 points.

Only the top two teams in the regional move on to the Division 3 state match Friday and Saturday at Kalamazoo College.

"We lost going to state by one point," Pedlow said. "It's a tough loss to say the least."

Leading the Bulldogs was the No. 3 doubles duo of Booth and Broekhuizen. The twosome finished 2-1 on the day, losing in the regional final.

"They played a great first two matches on the day," Pedlow said. "Both Alex and Willa should be proud of the way they played, but Grosse Ile (regional final opponent) didn't lose one doubles match all day, so it was definitely a tough match in the finals."

Also reaching the regional finals for Chelsea was Gines at No. 3 singles. She lost in the championship match 6-2, 6-1.

"Alison played her best tennis of the season on the most important day for us," Pedlow said. "She moved her opponents all over the court and made them hit a number of unforced errors. To be unseeded and make it into the regional finals doesn't happen very often. The team was thrilled for Alison."

Despite ending the season so close to the state match, Pedlow said overall it was a good year.

"We had a number of close matches that came down to one point," he said. "We lost our home quad by one point and didn't make states by one point, but I am proud of the way the girls played after losing eight out of 12 players from last year's team."

"Our JV numbers were huge this year, with 35 players, so both myself and Coach (Tom) Osbeck are optimistic as we look ahead to next year."

Bulldogs rally to reach finals

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

Chelsea baseball reached the Southeastern Conference White Division final before losing to Tecumseh 4-1 last Thursday.

The host Bulldogs (11-18) led 1-0 early on as senior Christopher Schmelz singled and stole a base before coming around to score.

In the third inning, the Indians' Nate Bell cranked a three-run home run giving Tecumseh a 3-1 advantage.

In the fourth inning, the Indians plated one additional run for the game's final margin.

Absorbing the loss from the mound for Chelsea was senior Donny Riedel.

"He pitched a solid game," said Chelsea coach Wayne Welton. "This is the third time we've lost to Tecumseh this season."

Louie DeVitt recorded the win for the Indians.

With the loss, the Bulldogs finished second in the SEC White, ending a streak of eight consecutive years as league champions.

Despite the second-place finish, Welton remained upbeat.

"I'm proud of our guys," he said. "We competed. We hung in there. Our focus now is on (state) tournament baseball."

To open the SEC tournament, Chelsea scored six runs in the seventh inning rallying to defeat Adrian 8-5 last Thursday.

Down 5-2 to the Maples in their final at-bat, the Bulldogs reeled off seven straight two-out base hits to win the game.

The key hit in the inning was a two-run RBI single by senior Jeff Adams that put Chelsea ahead for good.

for the Bulldogs, scattering five hits.

"He was able to go the distance," Welton said. "He battled all game long."

In the first contest on the day, Ypsilanti Lincoln defeated Dexter 11-8 to advance to the tournament semifinals.

Besides Chelsea's come-from-behind win over Adrian, Tecumseh defeated Lincoln 6-0 in the tournament's other semifinal game.

In the third-fourth-place tournament game, Adrian topped Lincoln.

In the final SEC White Division standings, including the regular season, Tecumseh finished first, followed by Chelsea in second, Adrian third, Dexter fourth and Lincoln fifth.

The Bulldogs next host a Division 2 state district

Saturday. Chelsea opens play against Adrian at 12:30 p.m. in a district semifinal. At 3 p.m., Tecumseh takes on the winner of Jackson Northwest-Onsted in the other district semifinal.

The district final is Saturday at 3 p.m.

Chelsea, Huron clash on field

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

Chelsea's girls' soccer team, ranked No. 6 in the state in Division 2, lost to visiting Ann Arbor Huron, ranked No. 8 in the state in Division 1, 1-0 last Thursday.

"It was our Senior Night and we needed to win to earn our first ever SEC (Southeastern Conference) title," said Chelsea coach Chris Orlandi. "It was not to be."

The Bulldogs (10-2-4, 7-1-3 SEC) came close, but couldn't crack the River Rat defense in the first half.

Kanellopoulos and Ellen Stewart had great opportunities," Orlandi said. "Ruikka was saved by a defender when the goalkeeper was out of position. Stewart's (shot) hit the crossbar and Stasi just miss-hit the ball.

"Not capitalizing on our first half opportunities really took the wind out of our sails at halftime. We worked so hard in the first half I think our girls just felt like we deserved a goal for our efforts."

Chelsea out-shot Huron 3-2 in the first half. Both teams entered the break deadlocked at 0-0.

In the second half, the River Rats out-shot the Bulldogs 6-0.

Huron scored the game-winner with 6:02 left in the game off of a corner kick.

"For some reason, we just didn't mark their players tightly on that play," Orlandi said. "I'm not sure what happened, but it was a team breakdown to be sure. For our defenders to play this well for 80 minutes and to give up a goal like that near the end was really disheartening."

"We didn't maintain our energy in the second half and then we had the big breakdown. It's a tough one to lose because it means we finish second again to Dexter in the SEC."

Despite losing, Orlandi said Bulldog senior keeper Jenna Jarvis was spectacular in goal.

"She made seven saves, including one on a point-blank breakaway shot," he said.

Though disappointed, Orlandi said the season is far from over.

"We're looking forward to making a nice tournament run," he said. "This isn't the way our seniors wanted to finish on their home field, but I think it will make them even hungrier in the tournament."

On May 20, visiting Chelsea defeated Ypsilanti Lincoln 4-0.

The Bulldogs out-shot the Railsplitters 18-3 for the game.

"The game was played almost entirely in the Lincoln end," Orlandi said.

Chelsea scored all its goals in the first half.

Freshman Anna Rode opened the scoring with a goal five minutes into the contest. Stewart picked up an assist on the goal for a 1-0 Bulldog lead.

Five minutes later, Rode scored her second goal of the day for a 2-0 Chelsea advantage. Stewart again assisted on the play for the Bulldogs.

With 11:40 remaining in the first half, junior Brooke Ehman scored unassisted for a 3-0 Chelsea lead.

Sophomore Cara Johnson ended the scoring heading in a goal with 7:21 left in the first half. Ehman recorded an assist on the play for the Bulldogs.

Senior keeper Corey Block earned the shutout in net for Chelsea making three saves.

The Bulldogs opened Division 2 state district play in Eaton Rapids after press deadline taking on Marshall. If successful against the Redskins, Chelsea would face the winner of Mason-Charlotte Thursday at 5 p.m. at Eaton Rapids.

The district championship is Friday at 7 p.m. at Eaton Rapids.

JV Soccer
Chelsea's JV girls' soccer team lost to host Ypsilanti Lincoln 2-0 May 20.

"The first half was messy and this is when Lincoln made their two goals," said Chelsea coach Kirsten Smart. "We were lacking in effort and intensity. Lincoln was very aggressive and able to take the ball away from us very easily in the first half."

Though losing, Smart praised the play of defender Melissa Ederle.

"She has saved us many times," she said. "Her speed and knowledge has really helped our team improve and be successful."

In the second half, Smart said Chelsea (5-7-2) played much better.

"We played more aggressive and therefore Lincoln was unable to score again the rest of the game," she said. "Earlier in the season, we tied Lincoln 0-0. We could have won (last week's) game. It was frustrating to watch because the ball was in Lincoln's half most of the game, but we were unable to score."

Smart said she was proud of her team.

"They improved in the second half and continue to show great sportsmanship in every game, including the last," she said.

Last Thursday, host Chelsea lost to Ann Arbor Huron 4-1 in its season finale.

"The girls played a great game, but Huron scored three times in the first half," Smart said. "Our offense was unable to find the net. Finishing and shooting is a skill that we've been struggling with the entire season. Our defenders and midfielders have done really well at preventing opponents from scoring, but our transitions to our offense has been lacking."

Scoring for the Bulldogs was Alex LeBeau. Picking up an assist on the play for Chelsea were Diana Uihlein and Brooke Gier.

"It was a beautiful goal," Smart said. "It was a great play to watch and the Huron defense was not prepared. We have been working on when and where to take a shot and the girls showed their understanding in this game."

"We finished the last game of the season with all the sophomores and juniors on the field. They had fun and that is what it is all about."

Chelsea senior Ellen Stewart had two assists in the Bulldogs' 4-0 win over Ypsilanti Lincoln last week.

Smart said it was an enjoyable season.

"We have made many improvements over the season," she said. "The girls were eager to learn and willing to do their best. The girls should be proud of the progress they've made as a team and individually."

Jim Orr's alpha male and female always get to go first at mealtime. It's the law of the pack.

Howl do you do?

Raising wolves gives insight to inner workings of animal's pack

I brought home my first six wolves when I participated in a wolf rescue under the auspices of the USDA and ASPCA several years ago.

The wolves were rescued from terrible living conditions after being abandoned by the owner.

Originally I simply offered the use of my trailer for transportation.

As I got emotionally involved in the rescue effort I offered to adopt two cubs. I figured I would have at least a one-year learning curve to understand how to care for wolves before they would be big enough to eat me.

As it turned out everybody wanted the cubs and in a moment of weakness I agreed to take the adults.

I ended up coming home with six full-grown wolves.

My survival learning curve suddenly went from a year to a few hours.

You have not lived until you try to load six wolves in a trailer and take them on a four-hour road trip.

Three of the wolves were "socialized," which means they are use to people. Fortunately the Alpha male and the Alpha female were both very friendly. Wild wolves are naturally afraid of people so the others wanted to run away and hide when approached.

We were able to load the three socialized wolves by administering a small dose of tranquilizer and assisting as the staggering pack leaders walked into the trailer.

Loading the other three turned into a major sporting event.

The rescue supervisors had a tranquilizer rifle but I observed that wolves have an uncanny ability to sense danger and evade numerous dart shots.

Lesson one in my crash course of wolf training: Wolves seem to have extra sensory perceptions.

After many wasted darts three of the wolves were successfully tranquilized and loaded with their Alpha leaders.

This left only "Warrior," a young male with a most appropriate name.

Warrior was darted three times with no apparent reaction to the tranquilizer. It turns out wolves have incredible endurance and in Warriors case the ability to neutralize the tranquilizer drugs with adrenaline.

The vet ruled out additional tranquilizer for fear it might prove fatal so a catchpole was used. It took four adult men to maneuver the "tranquilized" wolf into a travel cage even after they got the loop at the end of the pole over his head.

Lesson two: Wolves have superhuman powers.

Once I had a trailer full of adult wolves ready to travel it occurred to me I did not have any place ready to house them once I got home.

It is one thing to come home with two cubs in a cardboard box and quite another with six adults capable of taking down a full-grown moose.

I called ahead and told my brother I was bringing home a pack of wolves.

I advised him that he had four hours before I got home to build a wolf enclosure.

Lesson three: Make sure you have a brother that will do what he is asked.

The ride home was fairly uneventful other than the stop at the supermarket to purchase six cooked rotisserie chickens for my passengers.

I was hesitant to leave a trailer full of wolves unattended in a parking lot. It was an enclosed trailer other than a metal grill door for light and ventilation. You could not see what was traveling in trailer unless you went right up to the door and peered into the dark interior.

I asked a young kid to watch the trailer while I went into the store.

"Make sure nobody gets too close to the door, it is full of wolves," I told the kid.

When I came out of the store five minutes later it appeared everyone from three counties had gathered around the trailer to look at the wolves.

Lesson four: It is hard to be discrete while traveling with a pack of wolves.

I arrived home at dusk to find my brother and a neighbor had succeeded in building a temporary pen out of cattle panels.

The trailer could serve as a shelter by leaving it inside the enclosure with the door open until a permanent facility was built over the next few days.

I had been advised that wolves could chew through chain-link fencing so we had to use heavy gauge welded steel panels.

Lesson five: Wolves have very powerful jaws capable of chewing up even the largest bones.

The wolves have lived with me for many years since. I even ended up with the two wolf cubs bringing the pack population up to eight.

Their social system was amazing. The Alpha male and female rule the pack and maintain order. Even though all the wolves get equal portions of food nobody eats until the Alphas are finished.

Even with food placed in front of them they wait for permission from their leaders.

I tried to let the two cubs grow up as house pets but when they learned to open door-knobs, thumb latches, refrigerators and turn on the gas stove I abandoned that idea.

Lesson six: Wolves are very smart.

How you can help us: In the wild a single wolf can eat up to 22 pounds of meat in a day gorging themselves after a hunt.

They do not eat near as much in captivity but still manage to run up the food budget.

All food and services we provide at the wildlife refuge caring for rescued animals are funded by donation.

If you would like to help: Donations should be made out to Witter Wildlife Refuge at P.O. Box 1118, Huntsville AR 72740.

State's land consolidation process reaches milestone

Imagine that you needed to devise a systematic approach to identify, evaluate and make decisions about each and every parcel of land owned by the state of Michigan.

That involves nearly 4.6 million acres of the state's land surface, and thousands of separate parcels.

But that goal was achieved recently, when the last reviews were approved by Department of Natural Resources Director Rebecca Humphries and the final decisions about which parcels to keep in public ownership and which ones to place back into private hands was concluded.

"We have reviewed the final set of counties in this very comprehensive process," Humphries said. "While this has been time-consuming, it also has been rewarding for the department to fully review its land holdings to help determine better uses of our resources to be more effective natural resources managers."

The DNR embarked upon this huge effort in 2003. Today, each parcel and acre has been reviewed; their best uses into the future determined and the final steps in this process will be taken in the coming months.

According to DNR Forest Land Administrator Kerry Wieber, sorting and evaluating each and every parcel and acre to determine if it held recreational value was a monumental task, one of the biggest jobs the DNR has ever undertaken.

"It involved DNR staff from all of the resource managing divisions," Wieber said. "But we now have made it through the biggest part of the challenge to consolidate the state's land holdings to maximize public recreational opportunities and more effectively manage state-owned land. It's really going to benefit the citizens of this state."

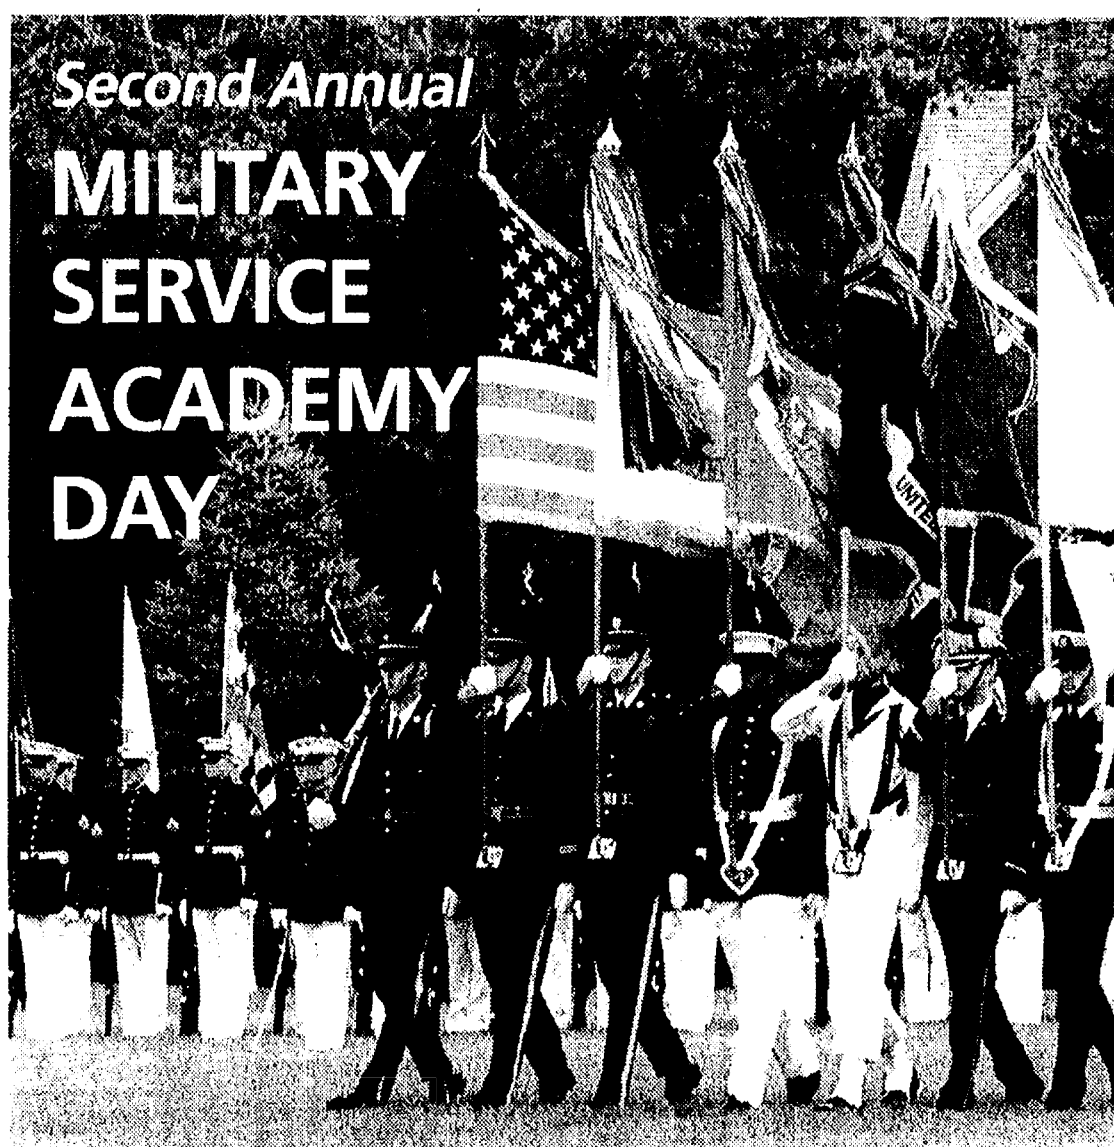

Although the DNR has for years purchased lands for public use, at the same time, the agency was accumulating more land through the tax reversion process. Some of the land that came to the DNR via tax reversion was well-suited for public use and outdoor recreation, but much more did not fit with the DNR's conservation mission.

"The majority of the lands managed by the DNR came into state ownership in the early 20th century, when, after being clear cut, held no appreciable value to its owners," Wieber said. "Some of these lands reverted to the state several times, and, while much of it could be salvaged, reforested and utilized by the public, some of it is simply not suitable for public recreation."

Attending a U.S. Service Academy is a great way for young people to get an education while preparing for a leadership role in service to our country.

This is a unique opportunity for students and parents to meet with representatives of the service academies to discuss the application process, academy life, and career opportunities within the various branches of the military.

Purple Rose youth camps

The Purple Rose Theatre Company offers two classes this summer for students under 18 years old: Kid Purple and Teen Intensive. Taught by PRTC Resident Artist Michelle Mountain, both classes feature new curriculum and a live showcase performance for friends and family.

Kid Purple, a two-week day camp for children ages 8 to 12, is scheduled for Mondays through Fridays, with two sessions available: June 16-27 or July 14-25. Class will be held from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the PRTC's rehearsal space in the Chelsea Center for the Arts. The class incorporates theatre games with visual art and features collaboration with professional designers, actors and playwright. Cost for the class is $375.

Following the success of our 2007 Teen Intensive, this year's class will run for two weeks and features a smaller class size to facilitate more one-on-one work. Designed for students ages 13 to 18, Teen Intensive will meet Mondays through Thursdays, with two sessions available: June 30-July 10 or July 28-August 7. Class will meet from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Chelsea Center for the Arts. Students will explore the acting process and the principles that guide professional actors in their work. Students must come to class prepared with a memorized, one-minute comic monologue from a published play. Cost for the class is $300.

For information or to register, call 1-734-433-PRTC.

Dexter schedule of events

Because of an oversight in last week's Summer Guide, Heritage Newspapers is running the Dexter schedule of events:

Monday, June 1

Dexter-Ann Arbor Run The MedSport 10K is great for serious runners and not-so-serious runners (and walkers) who want a little more than a 5K but not the whole half. The course features some of the most beautiful stretches of Huron River Drive. The event is now staged in downtown Ann Arbor, near the intersection of Ann Street and Main Street. The race begins at 8:10 a.m.

Saturday, June 7

Ice Cream Social You know that spring is officially here when the Dexter Area Chamber of Commerce's Ice Cream Social hits Monument Park. This year's event will be from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. This event is a great favorite with Dexter families. As in past years, the park will be filled with games the kids can play, ice cream, pizza and soda pop, face painting, clowns, petting farm, pony rides, wagon rides through downtown and craft booths.

Summer Series

Join local businesses, their families and guests for the Dexter Area Chamber's summer entertainment series each Friday beginning June 13. The event features entertainment in Monument Park and at the clock.

This year's lineup features the following: June 13, Gordo the magician & Dexter community orchestra; June 20, Annie and Rod Capps and Toppermost Beatles Tribute; June 27, Company of Strangers and Golden Griffin Quartet; July 11, Dave Boutet Trio and Billy Mack and the Juke Joint Johnnies; July 18, The Latini Brothers & The Hummingbirds; July 25, Royal Garden Trio & Lagerhouse 5; Aug. 1, String Cheese & The Witch Doctors; Aug. 15, The Hummingbirds & Movie hosted by the Peace Lutheran Church; Aug. 22, Bull Halsey and Merkel-Anest Jazz.

Friday, July 25

Golf Outing The 16th annual Dexter Area Chamber of Commerce Golf Outing includes hole-in-one prizes. Team or individual golf spots ($100 per golfer) are still available as well as the opportunity for businesses to become a Golf Hole Sponsor ($100), Beverage Cart Sponsor ($200 - limit two) or a Golf Cart Sponsor ($500 - limit two). Donated prizes are welcome for door prizes and raffle prizes ($100 or greater value).

Aug. 8-9

Dexter Daze, an annual event that draws visitors from all over the area, Dexter Daze includes numerous craft booths, two days of entertainment for kids and adults, children's rides and tons of food. Dexter Daze also includes a packed entertainment schedule. Dexter Daze offers entertainment for the whole family.

Aug. 15

"Movie Under the Stars" The annual event, hosted by Peace Lutheran Church, includes entertainment, food and, of course, a movie under the stars.

Saturday, Oct. 4

Apple Daze Fall naturally brings many people to Dexter to enjoy the Huron River and parks as well as the 100-year old cider mill. Monument Park is the focal point for this event where you can buy apples, caramel apples and apple cider, enter an apple pie eating contest, take a hayride or browse the craft booths.

Around town

Dexter Paint-Out

The first Dexter Summer Solstice Plain Air Paint-Out and Exhibit, sponsored by Daisy Lake Art Gallery, is planned for June. Local artists will converge on Dexter on Saturday, June 21 to select a location in the Dexter Village to create (paint on location) one or more paintings on. The public is invited to observe the artists as they create their unique vision of Dexter. A reception will be held at Daisy Lake Art Gallery from 7 to 9 p.m. on Saturday, June 21, where all paintings will be exhibited and available for sale. Paintings will continue to be on exhibit at the gallery from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Sunday, June 22.

For information, call the Daisy Lake Gallery at 1-734-424-1363 or log onto www.daisylakeartgallery.com

The 'First People'

The Waterloo Area Historical Society will host "First People of Michigama," an authentic re-creation of a Woodland Indian village on the grounds of the Waterloo Farm Museum. The event is scheduled for Saturday, June 7, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Sunday, June 8, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Before Michigan was the "Car Capital of America," a state, or even a territory, it was home to thousands of Native Michiganders. In fact, the word Michigan comes from the Algonquin Indian word "Michigama," which means "Big Lake." The first Europeans to encounter these natives were French fur traders who made their way to our shores in the late 1600s.

The weekend-long event will re create a Woodland Indian village complete with wigwams, crafts, and cooking demonstrations. Visitors will be invited to join the Natives in a game of Lacrosse or Double Ball and witness how native men painted body and face for each day.

During the 17th and 18th centuries, Michigan's Indians had a thriving commerce with French traders and Jesuits. Both cultures were changed and greatly influenced by one another.

The Waterloo Farm Museum's Log House will serve as a trading post where the intersection of the French and Native cultures comes to life. Lamplight tours of the village on Saturday at dusk will provide guests with a rare insight into Native culture and customs.

At this year's candlelight tours, re-enactors will dramatize the 1763 Pontiac Uprising in the Detroit area, recreating the progression of events that led to Pontiac's Rebellion.

Admission to the Waterloo Farm Museum grounds for this special event is $4 for adults, $3 for seniors (62 plus) and $2 for children ages 5-17. Children under 5 and members of the Waterloo Historical Society are free. Admission includes a guided tour of the 10-room Farmhouse.

For details and directions, visit www.waterloofarmmuseum.org or contact Event Coordinator Wesley Perry at 517-763-6409.

US fiddle champion at TCA

The Jeremy Kittel Band, performing their own captivating blend of Celtic, Jazz and Bluegrass will be at Tecumseh Center for the Arts at 7:30 p.m. on Friday and Saturday.

Kittel, the U.S. National Scottish Fiddle Champion, will be accompanied by Simon Chrisman, one of today's most innovative and virtuosic players of the hammer dulcimer: Bodie Janke on drums and percussion; and Paul Kowert on double bass. Each of these artists are major multi-award-winning performers.

Kittel, from Saline, is rapidly earning a reputation as one of the nation's most creative young musicians, adept at a wide range of styles. Kittel graduated from University of Michigan with their highest musical honor, the Stanley Medal, and finished a Masters degree in jazz performance from the Manhattan School of Music.

Roger Mock of the Old Songs Music Festival in New York commented on the band's performance last year, "The Jeremy Kittel Band took the 27th annual Old Songs Festival by storm...fiddle music that significantly broadened the horizons of the Celtic fiddle tradition while staying true to its exuberant spirit. Kittel and his cohorts are clearly a force to be reckoned with, brimming as they are with both stunning musical proficiency and genuine artistic vision."

Tickets are $10 and are available at the Tecumseh Center for the Arts box office at 400 N. Maumee St., Tecumseh or by phone at 517-423-6617.

SYLVAN TOWNSHIP NOTICE OF ADOPTION OF LAND DIVISION ORDINANCE

Notice is hereby given that at a regular meeting of the Township Board of the Township of Sylvan (the "Township"), held on May 13, 2008, at the Sylvan Township Hall located at 18027 W. Old US Hwy. 12, Chelsea, MI 48118, the Township Board adopted Ordinance No. 1, entitled "Sylvan Township Land Division Ordinance" (the "Ordinance"). The following is a summary of the Ordinance. A true copy of the Ordinance is available for inspection at the offices of Sylvan Township, on Mondays and Wednesdays between the hours of 9:00 a.m. and 12:00 p.m., or by contacting the Township Supervisor at (734) 475-8890.

SECTION I - Title

The Ordinance is known as the Sylvan Township Land Division Ordinance.

SECTION II - Purpose

The purpose of the Ordinance is to protect the public health, safety, and welfare by creating regulations for the partition (dividing) of land in the Township; provide procedures and penalties; repeal conflicting ordinances; prevent the creation of parcels of land that do not comply with ordinances and statutes; minimize boundary disputes; maintain orderly development in the community; and establish standards for reviewing and approving land divisions.

SECTION III - Definitions

For the purposes of the Ordinance, the following terms are given specific definitions: "Applicant," "Divided" or "Division," "Exempt Split" or "Exempt Division," "Forty Acres or the Equivalent," "Governing Body," "Designated Official," "Wetlands," and "Regulated Wetlands Activities."

SECTION IV - Prior Approval Requirement for Land Divisions

Land located in the Township shall not be divided without the prior review and approval of the official designated by the Township Board, in accordance with the terms of the Ordinance and the State Land Division Act, except for certain situations as listed in the Ordinance.

SECTION V - Application for Land Division Approval

Before making any division by deed, land contract, lease for more than one year, or for building development, an applicant must file certain information required by the Ordinance with the designated official for review and approval of the proposed land division.

SECTION VI - Procedure for Review of Applications for Land Division Approval

The designated official can approve, approve with conditions, or disapprove the land division applied for within 45 days after receiving the application. The official's decision may be appealed to the Township Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) within 30 days of the decision. The ZBA can only grant an appeal if certain standards set forth in the Ordinance are met. Decisions approving land division are effective for 90 days.

SECTION VII - Standards for Approval of Land Divisions

A proposed land division can only be approved if the specific criteria set forth in the Ordinance are met. The criteria include, but are not limited to, compliance with applicable zoning ordinance; compliance with State Land Division Act; adequate drainage; and proof of approval from the County Road Commission.

SECTION VIII - Fees and Deposits for Costs

The Township Board shall set fees and deposits for costs to be paid for land divisions, review, and permits. The applicant shall pay the Township's review costs by a deposit made at the time of application. The Township Clerk must refund the balance, if any, of the deposit.

SECTION IX - Violations

Any parcel that does not comply with the Ordinance is not eligible for a building permit or zoning approvals, such as special land use or site plan approval. Violation of the Ordinance shall subject the violator to penalties and enforcement actions.

SECTION X - Penalties and Enforcement

Violation of the Ordinance is a civil infraction. A person who violates the Ordinance is subject to a civil action seeking invalidation of the land division and other relief. The Ordinance establishes monetary penalties based on the number of violations within a 3-year period. A person who violates the Ordinance shall pay all costs incurred by the Township in connection with a violation.

SECTION XI - Validity and Severability

If any part of the Ordinance is declared unenforceable, the enforceability of the remaining parts of the Ordinance is not affected.

SECTION XII - Repealer Clause

All ordinances or parts of ordinances that conflict with the Ordinance are repealed. The Ordinance does not repeal the Subdivision Control Ordinance or the building codes applicable to the Township.

SECTION XIII - Effective Date

The Ordinance is effective 30 days from the date of publication in a newspaper of general circulation within the Township.

He graduated from East Detroit High School in 2003, and from Siena Heights

University in May 2007. Jayna and Benjamin are both employed at Siena Heights University.

DEXTER TOWNSHIP SUMMARY OF ACTION OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES REGULAR BOARD MEETING MAY 20, 2008

Called to order at 7:00 PM

Members Present: Supervisor Kelly, Treasurer Kooyers, Clerk Rider, Trustees Howard, Lesser, and Wojno

Absent: None

The Board approved the Consent Agenda, along with gross May payroll of $23,668.63, General Fund bills of $55,111.70, Fire Fund bills of $62,714.24 and Police Fund bills of $71,691.38.

In addition, the Board took action to approve road improvements to Huron River Drive from North Territorial Road to Walsh Road, providing Webster Township approves their share of the project, and Waterloo Road from Island Lake Road to the Township line, at a cost not to exceed $117,350.00, and to further approve the appropriate amendment to the General Fund budget.

The Board also approved the Hudson Mills fireworks permit for June 28th; support of the "capture and transport" roundup of Canada Geese on Silver and Halfmoon lakes; the expansion of the Multi-Lakes Sewer District to include one new parcel in Lyndon Township, along with the sale of one tap to Lyndon Township for $4,631.00; and overtime for sheriff's deputies to patrol high-priority areas of Dexter Township on Memorial Day weekend and on subsequent weekends through at least June 15th.

The Board appointed Brent Courson to the vacant Trustee position, effective June 1, 2008, for the remainder of the current term expiring November 20, 2008, noting that Brent is very familiar with many Township issues, did not file for election to that position, and has stated he would not file for Trustee as an independent candidate. Seven of the declared candidates for Trustee applied for appointment to the vacancy, but the Board expressed the opinion that to appoint any declared candidate could be construed as Board endorsement of that candidate and the Board wanted to take a neutral position with respect to candidates for Township office. The Board also approved the appointment of Treasurer Vickie Kooyers to fill the remainder of the term for the Board representative to the Township Planning Commission, said term expiring 11/20/08.

The Board discussed, but did not take action on, a watershed issue on North Territorial Road. The Township engineer and County Drain Commission have been involved and options are being investigated. County Commissioner Mark Ouimet also addressed the board regarding budget issues at the county level.

The meeting was adjourned at 9:14 PM

Respectfully submitted, Harley B. Rider, Clerk, Dexter Township

Summary approved by Pat Kelly, Supervisor, Dexter Township

This Summary of the May 20, 2008, Regular Meeting of the Dexter Township Board of Trustees was prepared by Harley B. Rider, Dexter Township Clerk, and approved by Pat Kelly, Dexter Township Supervisor, in accordance with the provisions of MCL 41.72a(5). A draft of the full minutes of the May 20, 2008, Regular meeting of the Township Board is available for examination at the Township Hall during regular business hours (8:30 AM to 4:30 PM Monday through Friday, except holidays). The full minutes of the May 20, 2008, Regular meeting of the Dexter Township Board of Trustees will be presented at the June 17, 2008, Regular meeting for review and approval by the Board. Following approval the full minutes will be posted on the Township's web site www.twp-dexter.org.

VILLAGE OF DEXTER VILLAGE COUNCIL NOTICE OF ZONING ORDINANCE AMENDMENT

Pursuant to Michigan Public Act 110 of 2006, as amended, notice is hereby given that the Village of Dexter Village Council has adopted amendments to Article 3, General Provisions, Section 3.19 Exterior Lighting, of the Village of Dexter Zoning Ordinance. The amendments will be effective on June 8, 2008. The Village Council approved the ordinance amendments at the May 12, 2008 meeting.

Section 3.19D, Zoning Administrator will be amended to Village.

Section 3.19E will read as follows:

1) All outdoor lighting fixtures, including display lighting, shall be turned off after close-of-business, unless needed for safety or security, in which case the lighting shall be reduced to the minimum level necessary as determined by the Village. Outdoor lighting in residential districts shall be exempt from the provisions of this subsection, PROVIDED that any on-site lighting does not project onto adjacent properties or create glare on adjacent roadways and motorists.

2) Auto/Truck filling stations. Island canopy ceiling fixtures shall be recessed.

3) Only non-glare, color-corrected lighting shall be permitted. For all non-residential uses, full cutoff shades are required for light sources so as to direct the light onto the site and away from adjoining properties. The light source shall be recessed into the fixture so as not to be visible from off site. Building and pole mounted fixtures shall be parallel to the ground. Wall-pak type lighting shall be prohibited.

4) On-site lighting, i.e. parking, building lights, etc. shall conform to the following regulations:

a. It is the goal of the Village to minimize lighting levels to reduce off-site impacts, prevent the reflection and glare of light in a manner which creates a nuisance or safety hazard to operators of motor vehicles, pedestrians, and neighboring land uses, and to promote "dark skies" in keeping with the character of the Village.

b. When site plan review is required, all lighting, including signage and ornamental lighting, shall be shown on site plans in sufficient detail with appropriate photometric studies to allow determination of the effects of such lighting upon adjacent properties, traffic safety, and overhead sky glow. The objectives of these specific actions are to minimize undesirable on-site effects.

c. Lighting for uses adjacent to residentially zoned or used property shall be designed and maintained such that illumination levels do not exceed 0.1 foot-candles along property lines. Lighting for uses adjacent to non-residential properties shall be designed and maintained such that illumination levels do not exceed 0.3 foot-candles along property lines.

Where lighting is required, maximum light levels shall not exceed twenty-five (25) foot-candles directly beneath a light fixture. Lighting levels shall not exceed three (3) foot-candles as measured directly between two (2) fixtures. The Village Council, after receiving a recommendation from the Planning Commission, may allow for an increased level of lighting above maximum permissible levels when the Council determines that the applicant has demonstrated that such lighting is necessary for safety and security purposes.

For the purposes of this ordinance, all lighting measurements shall be taken at ground level.

d. For parking lots of less than one hundred (100) parking spaces, lighting fixtures shall not exceed a height of eighteen (18) feet measured from the ground level to the centerline of the light source. For parking lots of more than one hundred (100) spaces, lighting fixtures shall not exceed a height of twenty (20) feet measured from the ground level to the centerline of the light source. The Village Council, after receiving a recommendation from the Planning Commission, may allow a pole height up to twenty-two (22) feet when the Council determines that the applicant has demonstrated that greater height is necessary.

e. Signs shall be illuminated only in accordance with the regulations set forth in this ordinance. In addition, signs within residential districts shall not be illuminated.

f. Building or roof-mounted lighting intended to attract attention to the building and/or use and not strictly designed for security purposes shall not be permitted.

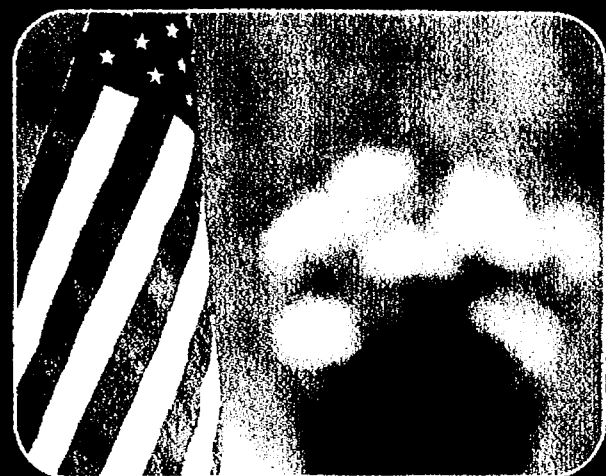

g. Street lighting in all subdivisions, site condominiums, or other development is required. All street lighting shall conform to the Village's Community Street Lighting Program. The Village Council, after receiving a recommendation from the Planning Commission, may allow deviations to Village street lighting standards when the Council determines that the applicant has adequately demonstrated that alternative lighting plans will meet the intent and purpose of this ordinance and will provide sufficient lighting necessary for safety and security purposes.

Section 3.19F will be removed and Section 3.19G will be changed to Section 3.19F.

Information regarding the approved ordinance amendment is available for public inspection at the Village Offices, 8123 Main Street, Dexter, weekdays between 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. or by phone at (734) 426-8303 Ext. 15. Minutes of all meetings are available at Village Offices and on the Village website. All ordinances are available on the Village website.

HERITAGE MINT 18/0 FORGED STAINLESS STEEL FLATWARE

The forged construction, superior to customary stamped flatware, produces durable, high-quality utensils that maintain perfect shape and beauty over time. Striking the mold with a heavy weight compresses the metal's molecular structure resulting in a thick, dense, resilient character and greater edge retention.

Prepare to experience exquisite, stainless steel flatware that will never bend while you dine. Buffed and polished several times, our forks are carefully finished, resulting in exceptionally smooth tines. Heritage Mint spoons are skillfully rolled and graded to provide maximum strength, comfort, and balance.

Each piece of Heritage Mint Flatware undergoes a 14-Step Polishing System that ensures a mirror finish and shine for years of enjoyment. 18/0 Chromium is incorporated into the flatware, providing resistance to rust, exceptional weight and balance, and increased durability.

You'll love your Heritage Mint Forged Stainless Steel Flatware!
