Impressive lineup of candidates take on incumbents

Saline's Lielbriedis eager to run against Byrnes for State House seat

By Terry Jacoby
Heritage Newspapers

As a commercial real estate broker for EJV Management in Saline, Eric Lielbriedis has seen first hand the problems facing Michigan. His decision to run against Pam Byrnes, D-District 52, in the November election is his way of doing something about it.

Lielbriedis

"Watching Michigan suffer through this never ending economic crisis and then seeing the politicians in Lansing raise taxes was what made me want to run," said Lielbriedis, a Republican from Saline. "Our current representative (Byrnes) voted for Gov. Jennifer Granholm's tax increases which were the highest in the history of Michigan. They protected government workers and made it more difficult for those whose taxes pay for state government to survive in our sliding and very competitive economy."

Lielbriedis said he was encouraged to run by both family and friends.

"Everyone is excited, including me," he said. "We want Michigan's economy to turn around as fast as possible. We want to get our state back on the right track. My family and friends know me, and they are sure that I can help."

What Lielbriedis would like to see in Lansing is more fiscal responsibility.

"Lansing needs people who understand how business, especially small business, works," said the 43-year-old Republican who has lived in Saline for about 10 years. "A business person such as myself, one with an MBA and years of experience earning a living in the competitive economy, can bring that responsibility to all the elected officials. We need to focus on the most important issues and not get lost in all the programs, spending and party politics.

"We get off track with all the political wrestling. We have to focus."

Renier, Schauer compete for a run at Rep. Walberg

By Lindy Stevens
Special Writer

The election for Michigan's 7th district seat in the U.S. House of Representatives has shaped up to become one of the most highly contested races in the state. Though Republican incumbent Tim Walberg has plans to seek another term, two familiar Democrats are vying for the chance to challenge him in the November election.

Renier

Schauer

Organic farmer Sharon Renier is taking another shot at the U.S. House of Representatives and she's set to face off against State Senator Mark Schauer in the upcoming primary on Aug. 5. That's when the two Democrats will compete for the chance to run against Walberg in the November 2008 Congressional election.

Renier nearly beat Walberg in the race for Congress in 2006, capturing 49.9 percent of the vote. Although that didn't quite secure a victory, Renier said she was excited for another chance to campaign and said her reason for running hasn't changed.

"I want to defend the Constitution of the United States and I want to keep us safe as a free people," Renier said. "That's my

DNR, MUCC to convert Mill Lake Camp for tourists

By Edward Freundl
The Chelsea Standard

A former 1930s-era Civilian Conservation Corps camp in the Waterloo State Recreation Area is itself the focus of conservation efforts.

A press conference is planned for 9:45 a.m. Friday at Michigan International Speedway in Brooklyn to announce that the Michigan United Conservation Clubs, Michigan Department of Natural Resources and the Ryan Newman Foundation will restore the Mill Lake Camp in Sylvan Township as a year-round environmental education center.

The announcement is in conjunction with the Racing for Wildlife 200 ARCA Re/Max 200-mile race that will take place later that day at MIS.

"I am very appreciative of Michigan International Speedway's dedication to Racing for Wildlife and the Racing for Wildlife 200," said NASCAR driver Ryan Newman.

"The restoration of Mill Lake Youth Camp will preserve a peaceful and beautiful place that I would be proud to be able to share with other families," he continued.

"My love of fishing and the outdoors was cultivated by my family when I was growing up, so it's important to keep traditions like that alive for the future."

MIS President Roger Curtis has made conservation one of his priorities since taking over at MIS two years ago. A father of three, the Indiana native and his family enjoy outdoors activities.

> "The restoration of Mill Lake Youth Camp will preserve a peaceful and beautiful place that I would be proud to be able to share with other families,"
> NASCAR driver Ryan Newman

"We're thrilled to partner with Racing for Wildlife to host the Racing for Wildlife 200," Curtis said.

Bob Pierce, executive director of the Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce, said he saw the project as a way to provide new opportunities for the local business community.

"This announcement is wonderful news for the Chelsea area and will positively impact us in many different ways," Pierce said.

According to Pierce, this camp will accommodate up to 140 people year-round when completed.

"First, this project will save a 1930s-era CCC camp. That in itself is great news. Additionally, in a time when conservation of our natural resources is top of mind for many people, this project will ensure that special attention will be given to one of Michigan's finest outdoor centers," he added.

"We will certainly experience an increase in tourists to our area and potentially develop into a center for ecotourism in the Lower Peninsula."

City Council OKs budget for 08-09

By Edward Freundl
Staff Writer

As expected, the Chelsea City Council gave its blessings Tuesday to a general fund budget of $4.8 million for the 2008-09 fiscal year, based on a total tax rate of 15.0549 mills.

That is broken down into 13.0994 mills for the general operating fund; 1.5200 for municipal streets; and 0.4355 for solid waste.

These rates are unchanged from the current fiscal year, and went unchallenged at a public hearing at the council's last session on May 24.

As part of her budget calculations, City Administrative Services Director Kim Garland projected state revenue sharing of only $300,000; reflecting the continuing decline in state funding since the beginning of the decade.

The projected general fund cash balance is $900,000, or 18 percent of the general fund budget; widely accepted municipal guidelines call for a cash balance in the 20 to 25 percent range.

City Manager John Hanifan said the coming year "presents a lot of challenges," and that he was proud of the work that city staff put into the spending plan without calling for a tax increase.

"I'm pleased to submit a budget that's based on goals and objectives that were set by the council," Hanifan said.

Silver garage sale

Silver Maples of Chelsea, a non-profit retirement community, raised $1,500 at the Silver Maples Community Garage Sale. Residents and staff donated treasures to sell. Megan Brooks-Planck, Venture Crew 25 member, assisted with the sale's planning as part of her Silver Star award requirements. All funds generated were divided between Alzheimer's Association – Great Lakes Chapter, the Chelsea Relay for Life, and the Silver Maples Scholarship Program. Brooks-Planck (left), Silver Maples' Shawn Personke, director of activities & PR (right), join Silver Maples resident and garage sale committee member, Paul Becker as he presents a $500 check to Liz Longley, president of the Alzheimer's Association – Great Lakes Chapter, now located in Chelsea. The garage sale was part of the week-long national celebration of the American Association of Homes and Services for the Aging's first annual Homecoming Week, celebrating the gift of age.

Don't let title snags put the brakes on your car

Selling a car through the classifieds or from your front yard are simple ways of disposing of an unwanted vehicle. But Secretary of State Terri Lynn Land reminds residents that handling the deal incorrectly could end with regrets, no sale or even lawsuits.

Buyers and sellers should work together to avoid headaches down the road," Land said. "Buyers need to make sure the vehicle title is valid and free of liens. Sellers want to know they're no longer liable for the vehicle. All parties can ensure a smooth transaction by understanding their rights and responsibilities under the law."

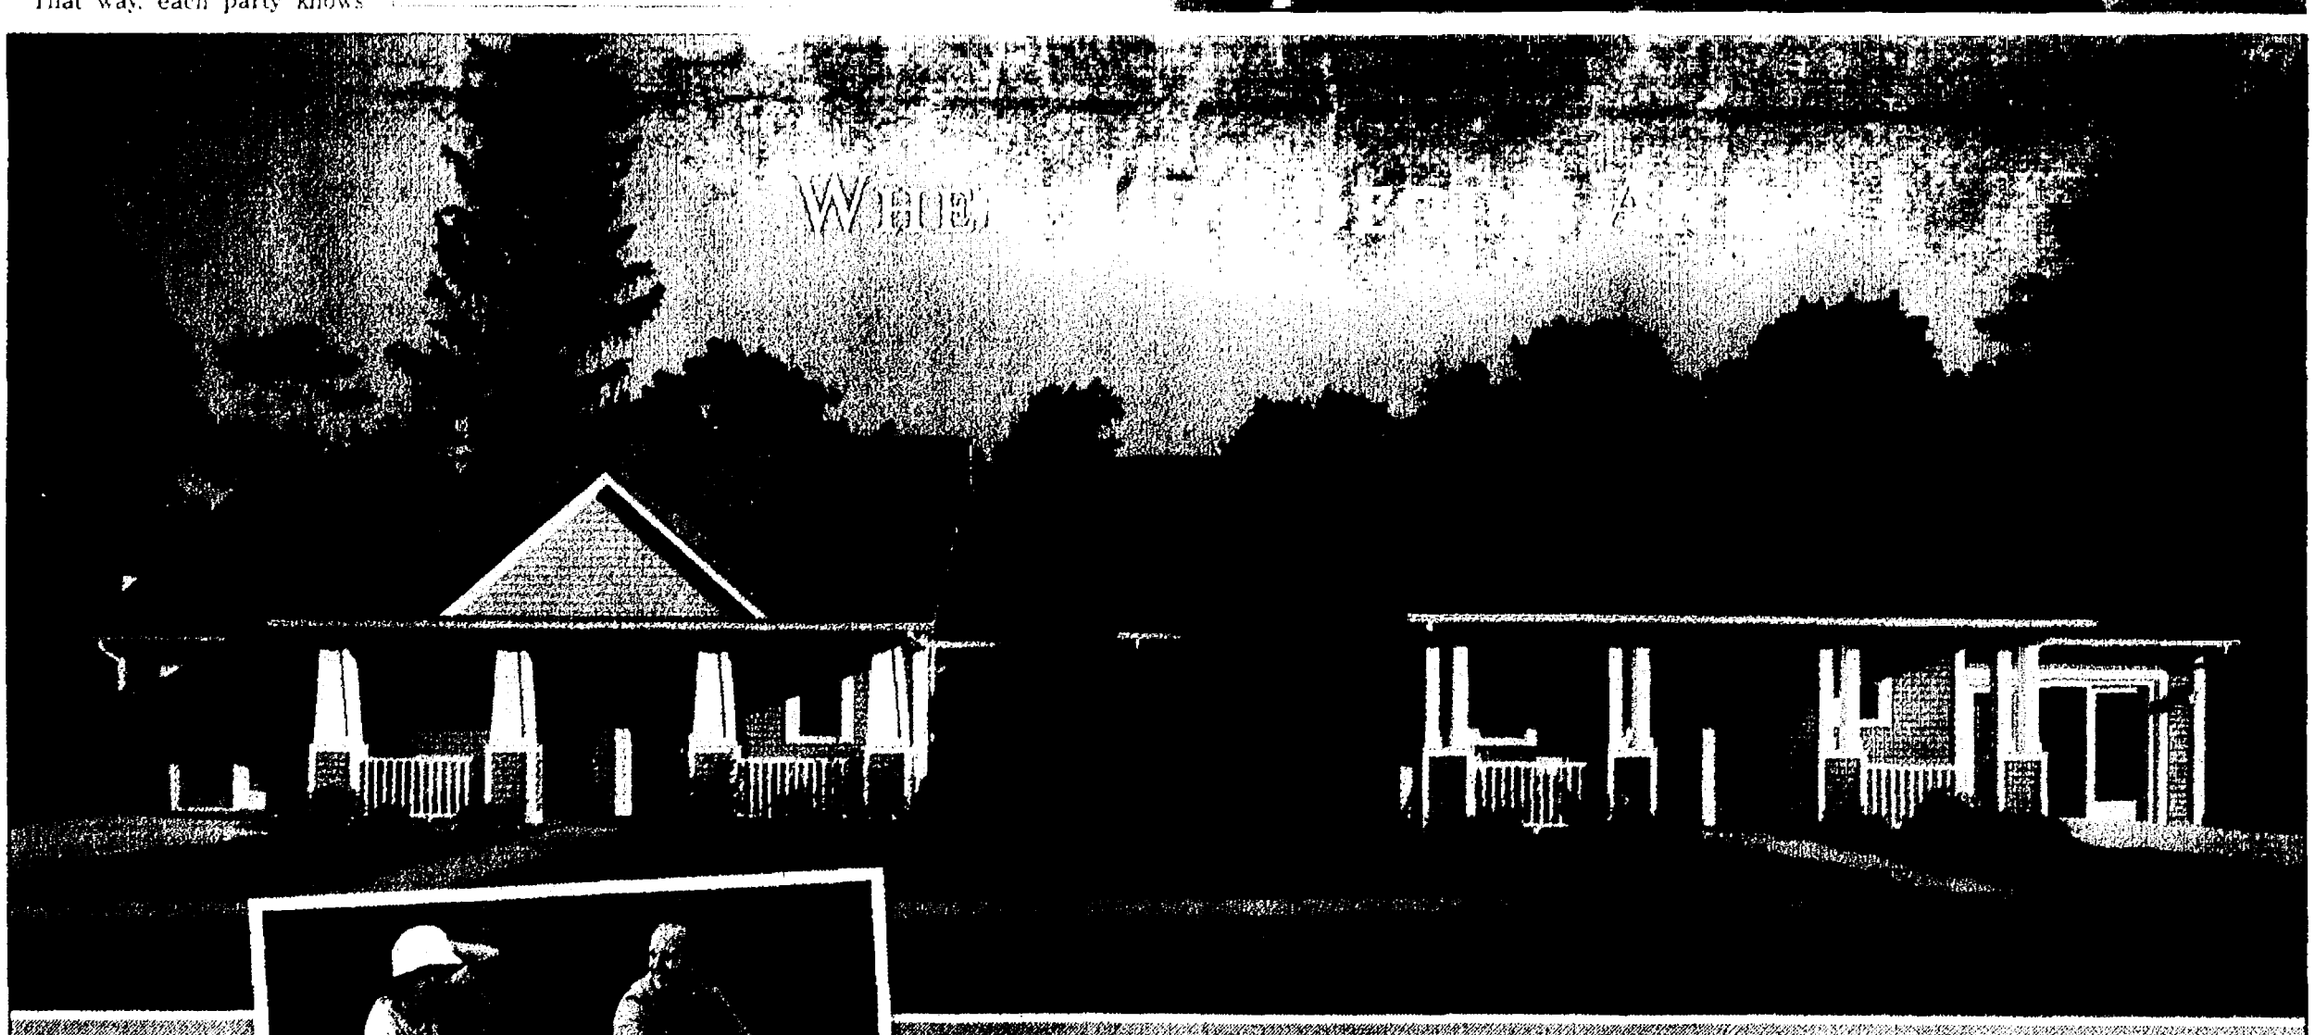

Land recommends that both the seller and buyer in private vehicle sales go together to a Secretary of State office within 15 days of the sale to have the seller's title transferred into the purchaser's name.

That way, each party knows the title transfer has been done properly to avoid possible future legal problems. Michigan law makes owners responsible for any property damage or injuries caused by their vehicles so ensuring the transfer happens correctly should be a priority for the seller.

If a joint visit isn't possible, then the seller must keep a record of the sale. The record may be a photocopy of both sides of the assigned title or a document that includes the name, address, driver's license number, and signature of the buyer, and also the vehicle's year, make, vehicle identification number, purchase price, and date of sale. The sale record must be kept for at least 18 months.

Hospital's prayer shawls warm hearts

By Jennifer Berry
Special Writer

For someone who is dealing with a difficult diagnosis, grieving the loss of a loved one or facing end-of-life care, comfort is needed more than ever.

Sometimes that comfort comes in the form of a soft, warm shawl. But this isn't just any shawl – it's a shawl with prayers packed inside it.

These special shawls are created as part of the shawl ministry – a spiritual movement that began in Connecticut 10 years ago, and many churches and faith communities across the nation have since adopted this program.

Chelsea Community Hospital's shawl ministry was initiated more than a year ago, and more than 100 prayer shawls have been distributed to patients and family members during that time.

"We have a group of regular shawl makers who meet weekly, but we also have several people who create them on their own," said the Rev. Kathy Schell, CCH Chaplain.

"We give out anywhere from one to three shawls a week to various units in the hospital.

"If I hear of someone who might appreciate a shawl, or if the nursing staff is aware of someone in need, we are so happy to provide one."

The shawls are knitted or crocheted as a spiritual practice by the maker. They are begun with prayers for the recipient, and blessings are prayed into the shawls as the knitting continues.

Upon completion, a final blessing is offered before the shawl is sent on its way. They are variously known as prayer shawls, comfort shawls or peace shawls.

At CCH, many patients and family members have a need for some extra comfort during a difficult time.

Giving a shawl is one way to offer that special care to someone who is struggling.

Schell noted that giving a shawl is a highlight in her job as chaplain.

"The recipients are so incredibly grateful," she said. "Many people have broken down and cried. Some have even been inspired to start a shawl ministry in their own faith communities."

Schell greatly appreciates the people who have donated their time and put their hearts into creating the beautiful shawls, which come in nearly every color of the spectrum.

"We have so many talented volunteers, whose hard work and incredible care has made this program possible," she said.

"I hope even more people hear about this ministry and decide to donate a shawl."

Although the recipients use the shawls in many ways, including wearing it, holding it, or just having it near, Schell said she sees them as "wrapping God's love around you in a tangible way."

"But the beautiful thing is that you can use the shawl in any way that moves your heart," she added.

For more information about the national shawl ministry visit www.shawlministry.com, or if you are interested in participating in CCH's program, contact Rev. Schell at 475-1311, ext. 3281.

The Rev. Kathy Schell, Chelsea Community Hospital chaplain, has many volunteers creating prayer shawls, and has even made a few of them herself.

Library helps keep kids reading

By Jackie Smith
Heritage Newspapers

Chelsea kids of all ages can keep on reading this summer with the McKune Memorial Library's Youth and Teen Summer Reading Program.

The yearly agenda begins the first day of summer vacation June 12 at the afternoon Opening Session registration.

"I think its important we want kids to keep reading in the summer," said Karen Persello, head of youth and teen services to McKune. "Personally, I think it's mostly fun. I get to know kids better."

There are two different themes this year, kids who have caught the reading bug for youths and metamorphosis for teenagers.

A variety of activities have been planned throughout the summer until the program's last day July 30, which alone entails a craft fair and a show of bugs for their very own insect Olympics.

Some of the highlights include Movie Mondays and Wild Wednesdays. The music tournament on July 19 and the African dance and drumming activity with Tree of Life on July 24 are just a couple of the specific programs scheduled.

"We put a lot of time and effort into this," Persello said.

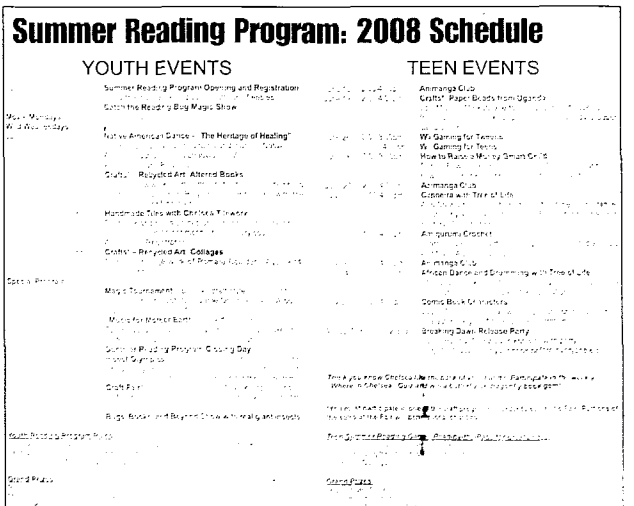

The Chelsea Community Library began work for the youth and teen events in January, however 37 states across the United States participate in the collaborative program and a workshop through the Michigan Library was held in December. Persello reports a participant increase of around 75 percent in Chelsea.

"The number of participants has gone from 600 to 700 since the 2006-2007 year," she said.

With more kids comes bigger and cooler rewards, specifically for youths is depending on the completion of their Reading Program rules.

For every five book read they will receive a smaller prize and a grand prize drawing slip. By the end of the summer, kids may have a chance to win a free book.

In reality, we are that hoping kids to read 20 books," the summer Persello and

"Our grand prize drawing on July 30 will be for four Cedar Point tickets, an iPod shuffle, and summer toys. So there is some incentive to read, read, read!"

Teens who take part are to read 2,000 pages. The grand prizes are two $99 gift certificates, one to Borders Books and Hot Topic, and a brand new Play Station Portable.

All of the fun is not reserved just for the kids. Adults also are encouraged to read this summer and participate in McKune's Adult Reading Program for the second summer in a row.

Bill Harmer, head of adult services, says they are already seeing an improvement since last summer's number of 300 participants with nearly 200 adults already actively reading since the activity began May 15.

"Those are astronomical numbers," he said. "Summer reading programs have traditionally been for children and teenagers. Adults were always an afterthought."

Elizabeth Goldman is the reference librarian for the Chelsea Community, and she says the addition of prizes and adult targeted activities lead to the result of higher participation.

"This year's theme is 'Pollinate Your Mind' and because Chelsea has so many avid gardeners, it is tailored to a gardening theme," she said.

The beginning prizes reflect the theme, with flower pots and bird seed among the many. The prizes according to Harmer do make the adult program unique.

"If libraries do have an adult reading program, they're lucky if they make it worth people's time," Harmer said. "The prizes are really cool. They were bought locally in Chelsea. We have dozens and dozens to choose from."

After a certain amount of stamps and activities, larger prizes are available like a 30 gigabyte iPod, tickets to a show at the Purple Rose Theatre and expensive gardening tools.

On Wednesday, July 30, there will be an Ice Cream Social to wrap the program where a raffle of the grand prizes will take place.

Like the teen and youth program, weekly activities will occur along with special events.

"We show movies, outside Tuesday nights during the months," Harmer said.

Goldman says he film series was very popular last year, and expects it to be as fun as it was before.

"One of the library goals is to be a good partner to the downtown Chelsea community," she said. Our film series and other programs bring people to the area.

"The summer reading program is a fun way for adults to enjoy the library during the summer. It's relaxed and simple. There's no reason adults shouldn't be encouraged to read like kids are, and if you do read, why not let the library give you prizes, for it?

As an avid reader I remember feeling a lot down while home over summer from college that I could participate in my library's summer reading program, so I implad libraries like Chelsea have found a way to include everybody.

North Creek, Farm Bureau Insurance team up to make kids ACES

By Edward Freundl
For Chelsea Standard

Chelsea elementary students were eager to help Michigan retain its record as the state with the most participation in the world's largest exercise class.

On May 7, students from all 50 states and 50 countries participated in ACES, All Children Exercising Simultaneously, a one-day youth exercise program intended to highlight the importance of and need for youth fitness.

Michigan schools came together in large numbers to show their commitment to health. Last year almost 450,000 students from more than 1,000 schools participated.

At North Creek Elementary School, the students celebrated ACES by jumping rope, running, skipping and walking.

The school also invited some special guests to take part in this fitness celebration. Joining North Creek Elementary were Mayor Ann Feeney and local Farm Bureau Insurance Agent Rick Eder.

Michigan's efforts are coordinated by the Governor's Council on Physical Fitness, Health and Sports and sponsored by Farm Bureau Insurance.

This is the 10th year of Farm Bureau Insurance's support of A.C.E.S.

allowed the Governor's Council to provide free materials to plan the event and to distribute an educational newsletter and stickers for each of the 450,000 participants from 1,000 schools.

"We've made a long-term commitment to the health and well-being of Michigan residents," said Jim Robinson, Executive Vice President of Farm Bureau Insurance.

"As Michigan's insurance company, we proudly invest in programs that make Michigan a better place to live."

ACES was founded in 1989 by New Jersey physical educator Len Saunders, who wanted to encourage his students to be more physically active.

Now in its 20th year, the program reaches millions worldwide.

A number of national organizations support the effort, including the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports, National Recreation and Parks Association, and the National Association for Health and Fitness.

Gov. Jennifer Granholm and First Gentleman Dan Mulhern are co-chairing A.C.E.S. this year.

"Dan and I have always stressed the importance of physical activity and sport in our lives and the lives of our children," Granholm said.

"We'd like to encourage all Michigan families to step up and get moving in 2008.

Part-time legislature push dies

The dream and time to get the job done were running out for those trying to get enough signatures to put a part-time legislature initiative on the November ballot.

Finally, the impressively large number of supporters of a part-time Legislature are about to complete defeat one more time, actually to more times.

Recently, the drive to abolish term limits and create the part-time Legislature announced it was tossing in the towel. The grass-roots effort failed to sprout enough roots and ran out of time trying to gather 400,000 petition signatures for a statewide ballot.

The father-and-son team of Al and Greg Schmid has not given up, but they might as well take the rest of the summer off.

At the most recent count, they had 90,000 signatures. But they concede those names are unverified, which means they don't have 90,000 valid signatures on hand.

Even if they did, they would need to collect a whopping 10,000 names every day between now and July 7 to even have a shot at getting this issue before Michigan voters.

In what might amount to the understatement of the year, Al Schmid was asked if it would take a miracle to get enough signatures. He didn't like the term "miracle."

Washtenaw County: The Challengers

Dexter's Borregard wants change

By Lindy Stevens
Special Writer

Democrat Eric Borregard of Dexter will be one of the newest names on the ballot for the Washtenaw County Board of Commissioners election set for Nov. 4, 2008. Borregard will challenge Republican incumbent Mark Ouimet of Scio Township for the chance to represent District 1.

Borregard said his plan for Washtenaw County would take an environmentally based approach and keep an eye on sustainability. As the owner of E.B. Graphics Artech, LLC., a Livonia-based company that publishes technical documents for the auto industry, Borregard said he understood the limitations of a transportation system based primarily on petroleum.

Borregard

Borregard said he would help make Washtenaw County a greener place by integrating more recreational modes of transportation, such as bicycling, into the everyday lives of more residents. Borregard added that he would also work to expand the availability of public transportation.

"The goal that I have is more of a cultural change," Borregard said. "Right now we're trapped on a fossil fuel treadmill and I think I would offer a voice on the board for a much brighter future."

The 52 year-old father of one said he would bring enthusiasm, a sense of direction and progressive solutions for energy policy to the Board of Commissioners.

"If you look at Washtenaw County's future, we have the intellectual resources and the manufacturing resources to become a world leader in energy production," Borregard said.

The local businessman said he decided to run for the Board of Commissioners because he has the time and desire to give back to the community. Borregard added that he understood the challenges associated with government and that he could help point Washtenaw County in the right direction.

Prior to inheriting his father's business, Borregard earned a degree from Oakland Community College. He currently attends Madonna University, where he is studying television production and journalism.

In his spare time, Borregard said he enjoys golfing at local Washtenaw County courses and kayaking in the Huron River.

STATE

that Michigan ranks No. 1 in state unemployment and in the top five in foreclosures, bankruptcies and declining property value. The state also ranks among the top three in loss of state residents.

"We had 20,000 students drop out of school last year and I have lost count the number of years with overall Michigan job loses," he said. "Worst of all Michigan has had one of the highest total tax burdens in the nation per capita. It hurts everyone. Few businesses will open here, few businesses will voluntarily choose to expand here and many are trying to find ways out of Michigan."

While there are many reasons for these hard economic times, Lielbriedis says "Lansing alone controls the tax rates."

"They need to change or completely revamp our tax structure in order to rebuild our small businesses, to attract the big plant and to increase property values," he said. "Indiana right next door is doing it. We need to make the change here and do it now."

Lielbriedis already has a game plan in place.

"I am certain that we will need to lower tax rates in order to encourage our tax base to grow, and I am certain that we will need to reduce state government spending in order to allow us to lower tax rates," he said.

"My initial moves would be to cut spending by cutting out overlaps between services and administration. We'll have to privatize where prudent – Lansing needs a full audit to show us where our state government costs are out of line.

"I don't have any illusions, though. We are not going to get the kind of spending reductions we need just by improving efficiency. We are going to have to rethink everything the state does, and how much it pays to have it done. This will not be easy."

And it won't be easy defeating Byrnes, an incumbent with plenty of experience and good will around her district. Lielbriedis said he will bring fresh ideas and energy to Lansing.

"It is going to be hard to make choices, but it is going to be much harder to explain these changes and convince people that they need to support them," he said. "That is going to require our legislators to get out of Lansing and go directly to the people, especially since every change we make will be met by special interest protests."

main concern."

Renier said if elected she would focus on building sustainable communities at the local level and said she hoped to reduce the size of the federal government to place more control at the state level.

Renier said some of her other top priorities would include placing a limit on federal deficit spending and finding a way out of the war in Iraq. Renier also said she has plans to restructure campaign finance reform laws, an area that separates her from most candidates.

The 52 year-old Congressional hopeful doesn't accept any corporate contributions or money from political action committees. To date, she said her campaign has raised about $20,000 from individual donors.

"We haven't really worked too much on fundraising yet and we're just starting to really get going on that," Renier said. "But we don't need a lot of money because we don't buy things like fly swatters with our name it. Nobody needs one of those."

Prior to running for office, Renier worked as a paralegal for 30 years and recently earned a bachelor's degree from the University of Michigan in 2000.

In her spare time, the single-mother of one said she enjoys gardening and working on her farm in Waterloo.

State senator and Democratic Floor Leader Mark Schauer could have a chance to leave Lansing if he's elected to the U.S. House of Representatives this fall. But first he has to defeat Renier in the August primary and win out against Walberg in the November election.

Those are two tasks that Schauer seemed confident he could accomplish.

> "My focus will be on working with Democrats and Republicans. I'll work with whoever it takes to create the kind of policies and bring the kind of resources that it will take to turn Michigan's economy around."
> Mark Schauer

After serving in the state legislature for nearly 12 years, Schauer said he would take his political experience to Washington and use it improve the sluggish state economy.

"My focus will be on working with Democrats and Republicans," Schauer said. "I'll work with whoever it takes to create the kind of policies and bring the kind of resources that it will take to turn Michigan's economy around."

If elected, Schauer said one of the first things he would do is work to renegotiate trade agreements that he said have created unfairness in the economy and put Michigan workers and companies at a disadvantage.

He said he would also like to enhance training and education programs for Michigan workers who have been displaced by global competition.

Schauer said an emphasis on higher education and a plan to "create green jobs in Michigan," could also help reverse the state's trend toward economic downturn.

He said those two goals could be accomplished by expanding support for Pell grants to help pay for college and through incentives to invest in environmentally friendly development in Michigan.

From a national perspective, Schauer said he would work to bring troops home from Iraq and develop new policies to help form a more stable government in the war torn nation.

He also has plans to work towards creating more accessible health insurance for every American.

"We have to remove a lot of the waste and red tape that is associated with healthcare," Schauer said. "Too much of every healthcare dollar never gets to the patient because it's tied up in healthcare bureaucracy and we need to cut that out."

Schauer added that his plan for comprehensive healthcare would include both preventative and wellness care.

The Albion College graduate, who later went on to earn master's degrees at Michigan State University and Western Michigan University, said he's running because he wants results for Michigan.

"I am someone who looks to build bridges and to build coalitions to get results," Schauer said. "And I can get real solutions to the problems facing our communities."

In his spare time, the stepfather to three and grandfather to one said he enjoys taking his two dogs for a daily morning jog.

Juniors score high in national physics test

By Edward Freundl
Staff Writer

Taking an exam in physics class is not so unusual, but to have two Chelsea High School juniors score some of the top marks in several states certainly is.

Making it even more remarkable is that a third student competed against seniors and placed fifth in the entire nation.

CHS physics teacher Eric Swager is delighted with his students' achievement in this year's "Physics Bowl."

"We had some great performances this year, highlighted by Duncan Harris," Swager said.

"They took the test in late April, and we got the results back in mid-May."

The test is given in class annually, and Swager selects the top students in his first- and second-years physics classes to participate.

"There are eight or nine from the AP (Advanced Placement) class and six or seven first-year students, what I considered to be the top of each class," Swager said.

"They add up the top four scores in each class, and that's our team."

He said he's had other students place well on the test in the past six or seven years he's given the test, but not like this.

The test is given nationwide, and Chelsea competes against students in the four-state region of Michigan, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

"This school has won the region in other years, and it was nice to have our group win the four-state region this year," Swager said.

"It's nice that we can compete against other schools in the country and beat them."

Harris, who was a quarter-finalist for the "Physics Olympiad" team earlier this year, said he became interested in physics at a young age.

"My dad's an engineer, and when I was really young we would always talk about the way machines work, and discuss why things happen," Harris said.

"It's always been really interesting to me."

The test was "pretty broad," according to Harris.

"It covered lots of areas of physics."

As a junior he is not quite ready to commit to a career, but said he would continue to indulge his interest in the subject.

"I'm not sure, I'm thinking of going into physics as a professor," he said.

Sensoli and Christie received certificates of achievement for placing highly in Division I, for first-year students.

"I enjoy working things out, figuring out how stuff works, why stuff happens," Sensoli said.

"Physics applies to most things ... it's really a challenge."

He was a little more definite in his career plans.

Group to open nature preserve, retreat center

By Edward Freundl
Staff Writer

Hoping to help people establish a deeper connection to the earth, a local nonprofit group is converting a former farm into a nature preserve and education center.

On Saturday, people will have the opportunity to tour the 145-acre property in Sharon Township and learn more about the nonprofit organization, "For Generations To Come."

"Our primary mission focuses on land conservation and restoration," said spokesman Gary Merel.

"Our programming is aimed at help adults and children develop a deeper connection to nature and to the land itself."

FGTC chairman and financial officer Tom Egan said the group members are an eclectic mix with different backgrounds but a com mon goal.

"A gang of us who were already in public service have pooled our resources to do something special in terms of public service," he said.

"We are engineers, artists, educators, counselors, land stewards, trades people — we have a diversity of highly skilled professionals interested in giving back."

According to Egan, the group has about 70 members, about 40 of whom are from Washtenaw County, and eight of the nine board members are county residents.

Egan said there are three parts to the idea for the sanctuary: land preservation projects, a learning center, and a place for retreat; and each piece serves the other.

"With the 'old-school' nature preserve, you lock it away and nobody uses it," he said.

"With the 'new school,' there's a lot of human interaction but it's carefully controlled."

At a glance

WHAT: Inaugural opening celebration, "For Generations To Come" nature preserve and education and retreat center.

WHERE: 18580 Grass Lake Road, approximately 1.5 miles west of M-52 between Chelsea and Manchester.

WHEN: Noon to 6 p.m. Saturday; tours, presentations, kids' games, entertainment, food, refreshments.

Opening Day

This weekend marks an important milestone for the group, with an inaugural opening celebration set for noon to 6 p.m. Saturday.

Because the center is being renovated and programming is not fully in place, Egan said, it's not exactly an open house.

"The intent of the inaugural is to connect with people who want to create something here," he said.

"From noon to 6 p.m. there will be tours of the property, kids' games, a puppet show, singing, and more."

It is also an opportunity to see what the center will have to offer and a way to introduce themselves to the neighbors.

"It will be a family experience, especially for the neighbors," Egan added.

"When somebody new moves in there's a lot of natural curiosity, and we just want them to see what we plan to do here."

What they plan to do here, Egan noted, is help people re-establish their connection to the environment, and to the earth itself.

"We've used volunteering and internal resources to come as far as we have, and now we are developing partnerships with outside sources," he said.

"We're really looking for partners who want to co-create."

For example, Egan explained, one local company involved in environmental studies wants to donate to the center in order to do its training on the site.

"We're not ready to start scheduling classes or sessions yet; we're just getting a feel for what people are ready for," he said.

"We're in a one- to five-year planning stage."

The property

The land was previously owned by Dr. Clark Spike, Eastern Michigan University professor emeritus and retired head of the EMU Chemistry Department.

He and his wife, Avis, now live in the Dexter area, but in the early 1970s this dairy farmer's son wanted to get back to the land.

He had a two-story family home built near the front of the spacious property, leaving the existing farm fields, meadows and wetlands more or less undisturbed.

"It is his nature to communicate with the land; he spent his time attending to and sculpting the land, creating trails, orchards and gardens," Egan said.

"He just got to where he couldn't take care of it."

According to Egan, the idea for FGTC to buy the property started about two years ago, and the sale closed in December.

"The house had been vacant and hadn't had a lot of outside care for three years," Egan recalled.

"We put in a lot of work cleaning the place up."

It has three bedrooms, three bathrooms, kitchen, living room, office, den, dining space, fireplace on both floors and a finished basement

"We brought the furniture with us and decorated it ourselves, it made sense to make it livable," he added.

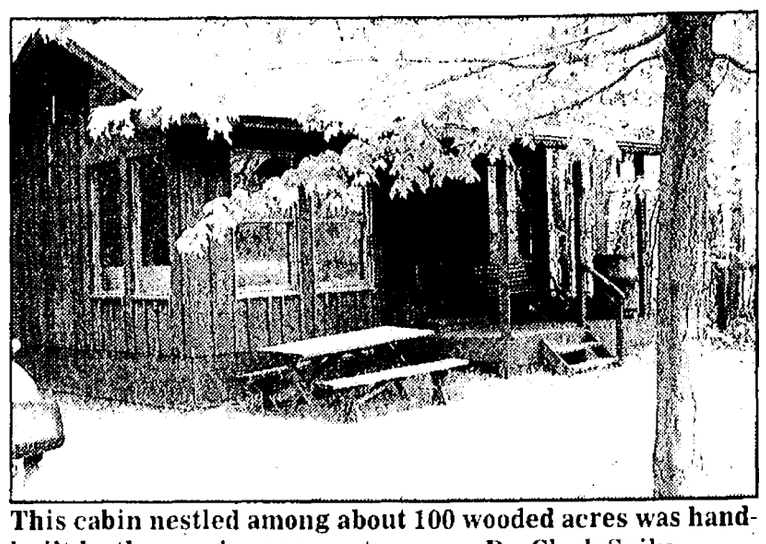

Because it is in a remote area, a couple of group members live in the house just to keep a presence on the property. In addition, the neighbors use some of the meadowland to graze their horses.

Further back on the property — in the "Hundred Acre Wood," past the whimsical small huts that Spike built for "Winnie The Pooh" characters — is a cabin he built, on the shore of the pond that he excavated himself and stocked with fish.

On a cool day in late May, Spike was sitting in the cabin having lunch with Avis, their daughter Sue Souder and other friends, and shared some of the property's history.

"We have a lot of very fond memories of it," Professor

Farmers: 'Legislation challenges future of Michigan farms'

The Michigan House of Representatives last week narrowly passed water use legislation that "erodes private property rights and puts the state in a position to dictate how Michigan residents use water," according to the Michigan Farm Bureau.

"We are disappointed by (last week's) action and are deeply concerned about what the future may hold with the House's decision to extend public trust to groundwater," said Michigan Farm Bureau (MFB) Legislative Counsel Matt Smego. "Their action erodes the private property rights of Michigan landowners, and opens the door for the state to weigh in on the reasonableness of a water use. Essentially, they're giving the state the ability to decide how you use water on your property."

This is of grave concern to agriculture, said Smego, because "we believe that food and fiber production is in the public interest, is a reasonable use of water, and provides economic and ecological benefits. This could lead to the public picking winners and losers based on aesthetic or subjective factors."

The legislation passed also is flawed in that it will force more water users to obtain unnecessary permits in the absence of science, said Smego.

"Basically, the state would require Michigan businesses to spend more on permits that don't provide any environmental benefit. It's an approach that will hurt Michigan's already struggling economy, while doing nothing additional for the environment," he said.

While the legislation calls for a computerized water withdrawal assessment tool that Farm Bureau supports, House members voted against Farm Bureau policy by making the tool effective immediately. The cutting-edge tool is designed to evaluate impacts of a new or expanded water use to local streams and rivers but has never been publicly used. MFB had lobbied for a one-year evaluation period to determine the tool's validity in the real world prior to its regulatory use.

Walberg gassed up

U.S. Congressman Tim Walberg, R-District 7, issued the following statement last week about high gas prices and the inaction of Congress to do much to bring down the price at the pump.

"How high do prices at the pump have to go before this Congress will do anything to bring down the price of gas?" Walberg said. "Current high gas prices tremendously concern Michigan families. One gallon of regular, unleaded gas in January 2007 cost $2.33, and now prices are over $4 a gallon. Families, truckers, farmers, small business owners and emergency services are demanding lower prices at the pump. Michigan cannot afford the inaction of House leaders, who refuse to allow movement on a comprehensive energy plan."

Walberg has co-sponsored legislation to provide incentives for solar, wind, cellulosic ethanol, bio-diesel and energy conservation. He also supports an increase in domestic energy production through carbon-free nuclear power and clean-coal technology. He has co-sponsored legislation that would encourage conservation with tax credits for green buildings and legislation that would spark a revolution in clean hydrogen technology.

Walberg also strongly supports the No More Excuses Energy Act, H.R. 3089, a bill "crucial to lowering our electric bills, the price at the pump, and making America energy independent."

"The answer to our current energy crisis must be a multi-pronged approach that increases American energy production, encourages alternatives like solar, wind, cellulosic ethanol, and bio-diesel and promotes carbon-free nuclear power and clean-coal technology," Walberg said. "Rather than increase taxes on domestic energy production or increase our reliance on OPEC as some in Congress have proposed, I will do all I can to work with my colleagues on a real plan that actually helps American families and businesses."

County Dems sponsor candidate forum June 26

By Rich Robinson
Guest Writer

Democratic candidates representing constituencies in the western region of Washtenaw County will be at the Historic Chelsea Depot for a Candidate Forum on Thursday, June 26. The event, sponsored by the Western Washtenaw Democrats, will feature a reception at 6pm with the forum following at 6:30 p.m.

"This is a great opportunity for the public to come meet their candidates," said WWDems Chairman Roy Schmidt.

"The forum will provide a venue for the candidates to explain their positions on the issues, and the reception will be a perfect way for voters to get to know the candidates in a more personal setting."

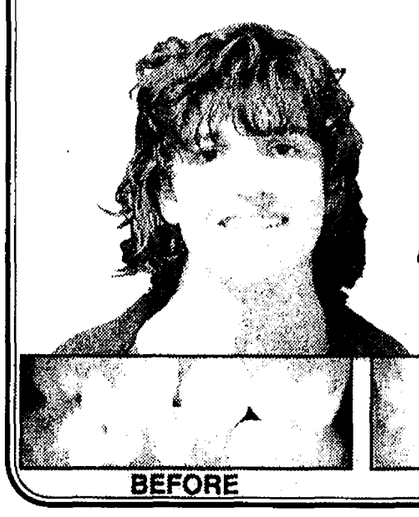

Some of the candidates who have confirmed their participation include the Democratic candidates for the 7th Congressional District, State Senator Mark Schauer and organic farmer Sharon Renier. Joining them will be State Representative Pam Byrnes, Washtenaw County Prosecutor Brian Mackie, and Washtenaw County Drain Commissioner Janis Bobrin.

Two members of the WWDems are also seeking public office -- Guerin Wilkinson and Jason Maciejewski -- both running for Dexter Township Trustee seats. Barry Lonik is running for Dexter Township Trustee and will be present as well.

Others confirmed to attend: Lyndon Township Clerk Linda Reilly, Bob Mester, candidate for Lyndon Township Trustee, Bob Lange, running for Sylvan Township Supervisor, Doug Egeler, running for County Drain Commissioner, Frank Parkinson, candidate for County Commissioner in District 3, and Eric Borregard, running for County Commissioner in District 1.

Candidates from Freedom Township that will attend include Lorna Brown (seeking a treasurer seat), Beth Heuser and David Davis, both running for township trustee. Attending from Scio Township: Supervisor Charlie Nielsen, Trustee Chuck Ream, Spaulding Clark (running for supervisor), Mary Shindell (running for clerk), Gordon Darr and Jack Knowles, both running for trustee seats

Michigan History: Walker Tavern worth the short drive

In the days when stagecoaches stopped regularly, Walker Tavern offered travelers a welcome break from the road. It still does. But today instead of food, drink and lodging, the tavern serves up a dose of Michigan history. Located at the crossroads of U.S 12 and M-50 in the green and rolling Irish Hills, Walker Tavern has been a wayside inn, a roadside tourist attraction and a state historic park.

After the Erie Canal opened in 1825, thousands of settlers flocked to the Michigan Territory. Two roads moved pioneers west from Lake Erie: the Monroe Pike, running from Monroe to Jackson, and the Chicago Road (present-day US 12). These two roads met at Cambridge Junction, which made it a great location for a tavern.

However, travel was arduous. Roads were full of ruts, bogs and tree stumps. A stagecoach driver's goal was to travel fifty miles in a day, but oftentimes there were complications. As one traveler in the 1830s pointed out, "As soon as we had entered the woods, the roads became as bad as, I suppose, roads ever are. Something snapped, and the driver cried out that we were 'broke to bits.'"

Named after owners Sylvester and Lucy Walker, the tavern became a prosperous business and a thriving community hub. Two stages stopped there each day and at any one time there might be ten to twenty wagons lined up waiting for accommodations.

Stagecoach driver Francis A. Dewey recorded, "Men of every class and condition of life from the earliest times would stretch out their day's drive to reach the hospitable roof of the Walker's hotel. . . . People flocked in each evening to receive their mail and hear the news brought in from the east and from the west. . . . Sometimes the crowd numbered 50 or 75 and oftentimes their drunken shouts resounded far into the night."

By the 1860s trains replaced stagecoaches as the fast and fashionable way to travel and the railroad line bypassed Cambridge Junction. Stagecoach driver Francis Dewey purchased the tavern and he and his family farmed the land for over 50 years.

Today, Walker Tavern is part of the Michigan Historical Museum system, and offers a variety of summer events-everything from Civil War re-enactments to vintage auto shows.

Green Collar Jobs Initiative. Stabenow's initiative makes critical investments in the newest alternative energy technologies to ensure that the next generation of energy and vehicle production is done in America and, most importantly, creates job opportunities in Michigan.

"This budget puts families across Michigan and across our country first, creating good-paying jobs here at home," said Stabenow. "I'm proud my work on the Budget Committee enabled me to be able to fight successfully for the inclusion of my Green Collar Jobs Initiative. This budget truly invests in the future of our green economy by promoting education and job training, providing new technology and research, and reducing our dependence on foreign oil."

Dems welcome Frank

The Washtenaw County Democratic Party announced last week that Massachusetts Congressman Barney Frank will be the keynote speaker at the group's Annual Dinner Saturday at Eastern Michigan University's Student Center.

Frank is Chairman of the powerful House Financial Services Committee and has been on the forefront of the fight for civil liberties for lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender citizens.

"Chairman Frank is a great catch for our event," said Jeff Souza, chairman of the county Democratic Party. "He's a man whose values reflect ours here in Washtenaw, and he's intimately engaged on some of the most pressing and controversial issues of our times."

Spike said. "We originally bought the property in 1972, and moved into the house in 1977."

They brought an old camper trailer out to the pond just to have a place out of the weather to stay, "but we needed something a little more comfortable," Spike recalled, and began building the cabin in 1982.

"It was just this one room at first, and we added a room at a time," Spike said.

"I remember exactly when I built this, because I placed the main roof beam two days after breaking my wrist.

"That was kind of difficult."

Spike said he built the cabin walls and floors out of ash and butternut trees harvested from the woods and hand-fit, but also scrounged up materials to use.

The boards for the roof of the cabin and elsewhere on the property came from the former EMU football stadium when it was demolished.

"For $400 they let me have as much as I could carry off, and I made many a trip to the sawmill with wood from here," Spike said.

His daughter explained that the FGTC offer to buy the place was "a perfect fit."

"Mom and Dad didn't want this place to go to a developer, and this sanctuary offer kind of fell into our lap," Souder said.

"I'd gone to see a lawyer about something and though the course of conversation he knew about this group, and it went from there," she added.

Spike said his family is comfortable with the sanctuary plan because the group's aims matched their own.

"That really appealed to us, and we're pleased with what's happened," he said.

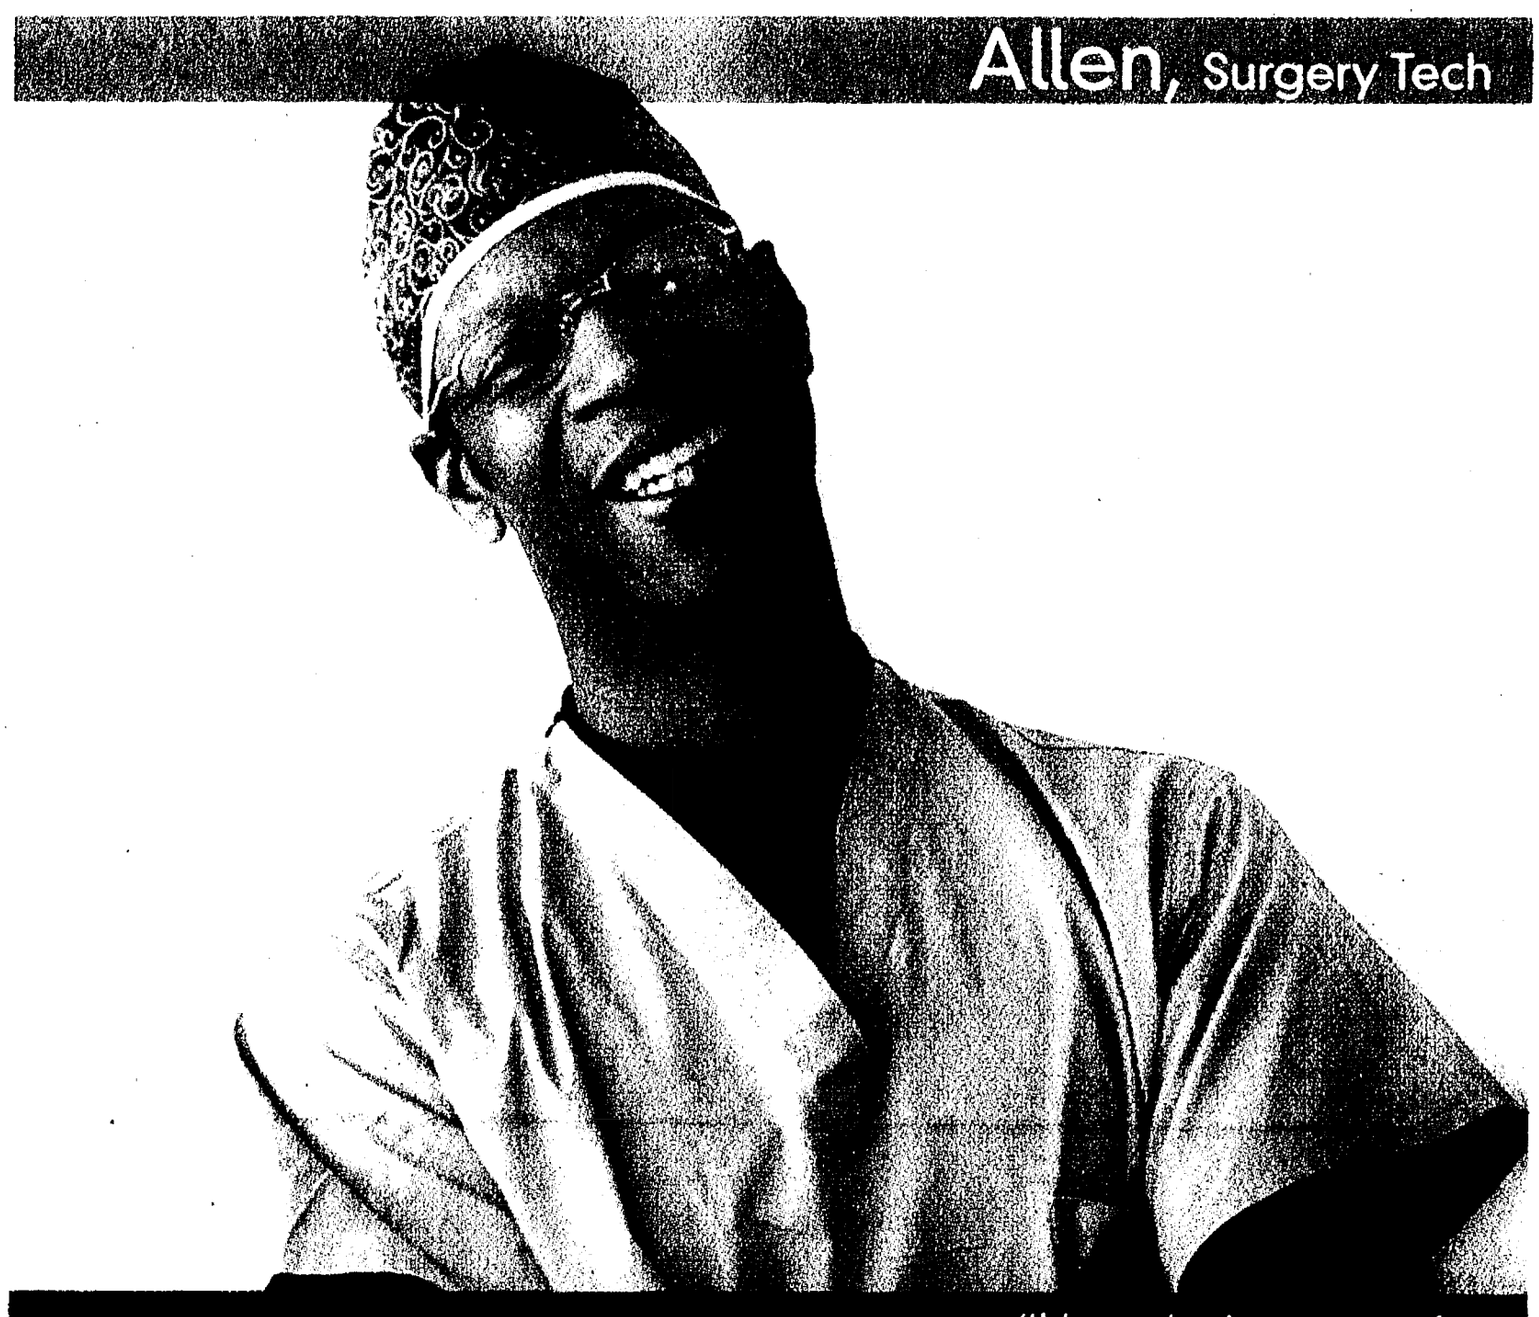

And according to Souder: "They've welcomed my parents in here anytime they want — that was important."

Egan said FGTC was particularly fortunate in finding the property because it's considered a "mature sanctuary" already.

"The diversity of natural features all in one place makes it perfect for a sanctuary," he said.

"It takes years for habitat like this to mature, and it was exactly in the manner of what we were looking for.

"It exudes a human care and connection to the earth."

"I love being part of a team who cares."

Congratulations, Allen! Your commitment to quality has helped place Foote Health System on Thomson's national 100 Top Hospitals list. To our community this award means:

- Patients are safer and less likely to have a complication.
- Patients are more likely to receive efficient care at a reasonable cost.
- The hospital can be counted on to invest in new technology and services needed by the community.

Thanks, Allen, we couldn't have done it without you.

Orla Benedict Taylor- A True Historian

By The Chelsea Area Historical Society

Orla Benedict Taylor was a grandson of early Chelsea immigrant Isaac Taylor.

Isaac Taylor was a poor English farmer that sold everything he owned to come to America in 1841. He moved to Chelsea in 1861 where he was a farmer and raised his six boys. The Taylor family became very prosperous and influential in Chelsea.

Taylor

One of Isaac's sons, James, was a successful attorney in Chelsea and in 1865 Orla was born to him in Fowlerville.

According to the 1870 and 1880 federal census Orla lived in Chelsea, however, he graduated from Ann Arbor high school in 1882. He attended the University of Michigan where he received his law degree and worked for the law offices of Sawyer and Knowlton.

In 1888 he went to Detroit to work for Edwin Conely, then one of the most prominent attorneys in Michigan. Mr. Taylor took over the practice in 1902 after Mr. Conely's death and worked successfully until his retirement in 1919. He married Dorothea DeTromble in 1891 and there were no children.

Throughout his life Mr. Taylor was devoted to the preservation of history. After retirement he and his wife traveled the world 3 times over. In 1931 he wrote a book of their travels in Africa titled "Wandering Through Africa."

He acquired the largest collection of Napoleonic letters in the world and donated them to the University of Michigan. For this he was awarded the rare decoration of the Order of Knights of the Legion of Honor.

In 1942 he compiled a genealogy of the Taylor family that included a booklet the relations, photos of everyone from his grandfather to the grandchildren and original letters from his grandfather that documented pioneer life in Chelsea. Orla was ahead of his time in doing this because comprehensive genealogies like this were rare.

This collection was donated to the University of Michigan in 1942. During his career as an attorney Orla became acquainted with many influential people including his good friend Henry Ford.

Following his death in 1945 he donated his private library to the University of Michigan which included first editions of Charles Dickens and Mark Twain. He was made honorary president of the Detroit Historical Society which he faithfully served for many years.

Mr. Taylor was voted the 11th Grand Consul of the Sigma Chi fraternity and served for two years from 1903-1905. He was responsible for the construction of the Sigma Chi fraternity at the University of Michigan in 1912 and he willed an astonishing gift of $35,000 to Sigma Chi. Orla Taylor is buried along side is wife in one of the largest sarcophagi at the Oak Grove cemetery in Chelsea.

TEST

"I think I'll go into some kind of engineering," Sensoli said. "Maybe some aeronautical stuff."

Christie said they took the test at school and was surprised at some of the questions it covered.

"There were a lot of questions about which scientist invented what," he said.

"There was some stuff on it that we hadn't covered yet, and that was a little frustrating."

He also complimented his fellow junior, Harris, on his ability in the subject.

"Duncan has always been a physics superhero," Christie said.

Unlike his classmates, Christie's career plans are still somewhat nebulous.

"I've always liked physics, but I don't know if the test made me have an epiphany and made me want to be an engineer," he said. "I haven't the slightest idea what I want to go into."

Swager said his students did not actively prepare for the test. "It wasn't something they really studied for, it was mostly from what we'd already covered," he said, but his curriculum sets the bar at an advanced level anyway.

"They do learn a lot," Swager added.

"We go at a good pace, and I challenge them to solve problems at a high level.Hopefully they'll use what they've learned to further their careers."

COUNCIL

"I'm also pleased that the budget includes no millage increase."

The city expects to fund several major projects this year, including replacement of an obsolete telephone system for city offices and the police department at an approximate cost of $15,000; seven new wells to monitor discharge from the landfill, $25,000; and installation of a new transformer at an electrical substation, $175,000.

Also offsetting revenues is a projected expenditure of more than $960,000 for insurance and benefit costs.

The council also approved a millage rate of 1.6727 for property within the Downtown Development Authority district, to be used to fund DDA operations for the year.

'Friends' show appreciation to McKune staff

The Friends of McKune Memorial Library gave an appreciation breakfast for the Chelsea District Library staff to express gratitude for the staff's extraordinary accomplishments and service to the community.

Said Friends president Sharon Pignanelli, "While the richly deserved 'Best Small Library in America 2008' award brought to light the many talents of the staff that library customers benefit from as the library's vast array of services and creative programs are delivered to them, the Friends are privileged to enjoy you at another level."

She cited "friendly smiles, proactive assistance, and positive working relationships." Pignanelli was out of town for the May 23 event. Past president Jennifer Kundak read her remarks. Chelsea Chamber of Commerce president Bob Pierce also spoke.

The 29 library staff members were treated to a continental breakfast, and each was given a Chelsea Dollars Gift Certificate, redeemable at stores throughout the city.

The event was funded by the Friends.

The volunteer group raises money for the library through book sales, held the second Saturday of each month.

Library Director Joan Elmouchi chaired the event and gave a 10-year service pin to Tina Diab and a five-year pin to Michaelina Brown, both substitute librarians. She also gave a gift certificate to past president Kundak for her many services to the library.

The staff appreciation breakfast was chaired by Friend Mary Green, assisted by Camie Noah, Mary Budzinski, Jennifer Kundak and Louise Jernigan.

The tradition of Friends' tributes to the librarians goes back to 1990, when the first staff appreciation dinner was held. Such dinners were held annually from 1990 to 2005. When the new library was built, the staff grew, and the dinner costs became prohibitive. A breakfast was substituted last year, and the second such breakfast was held this year.

Mary Greene, Louise Jernigan and Mary Budzinski helped out during the staff appreciation breakfast at McKune.

Library delivers to Chelsea Homebound

Being stuck at home need not keep you away from the library, or more precisely, need not keep the library from coming to you. The Chelsea District Library provides free delivery of materials to district residents who are physically unable to visit the library. Eligible patrons include the elderly, the disabled, and those who are temporarily incapacitated by illness or accident. Homebound patrons may request specific titles or have a librarian select materials for them according to stated needs and interests.

The library hopes to expand the program to serve more of Chelsea's homebound. Librarian Cathy Kamil and Adult Service Manager Bill Harmer will enroll patrons, select materials and coordinate deliveries. Trained volunteers or library staff members will deliver materials to registered patrons.

To request Homebound Delivery Service, or for more information about the program, call the Chelsea District Library at 475-8732.

CHELSEA HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATION 2008: THE SPEECHES

By Michael Sullivan

Something that I've been thinking about for at least a few years has been giving a formal thank you to my community. I've loved growing up in a community where I've felt safe and living in a place where my neighbors were more than just people who occupied space next to mine. It's nice having someone stop you on the street and ask you about your family, or your job, it's nice having people know you. So this is for you Chelsea, it may be a little unorthodox and it may seem like an inappropriate time but, nonetheless, here is my little Hallmark thank-you . card on behalf of my class.

You know I started thinking about this in the Christmas of 2005. You see, that was the year my sisters and I started the tradition of watching "It's a Wonderful Life" on television on the night of Christmas Eve. In the movie, Jimmy Stewart's character George bailey is more than eager to leave his hometown and explore the world. He says, "I wanna shake off the dust of this crummy little town." I've seen that movie at least half a dozen times now and that line has always stuck out to me, "I wanna shake off the dust..."

I moved to Chelsea halfway through my sixth grade year. This was a very inopportune time because this was the point where all of the silly middle school cliques had already formed. I was somewhat late in the game as it were. I must admit that I really resented moving and I therefore hated the town of Chelsea. I remember calling my friends back in Redford where I moved from and telling them all of these terrible things about Chelsea that weren't really true. I distinctly remember telling them that the entire town smelled like dead worms. I'm truly sorry about that, it really doesn't smell like dead worms at all.

Coming from a background outside of Chelsea has offered me a useful perspective in being able to observe and appreciate it. Many of the graduates here today have gone to the Chelsea school district since preschool which frankly blows my mind and I'm pretty sure I'm not the only one. It's crazy. And some of them don't realize how nice it is, this second family that you have when you've been with the same group of people almost every weekday for 13 years. If you think about it, we have been the Chelsea High School Graduating Class of 2008 since our first day of Kindergarten in August 1995. Do you remember that? Since that date we've had thirteen years of growing up. Do you remember how big everything in our classroom seemed? I went back to my old kindergarten room once and I almost stuck my foot in the toilet it was so small.

I don't know, maybe you guys are more well adjusted people than I am but I just can't get over how much we've changed and how much the world has changed. Do you remember when gas was $1.50 a gallon and our parents complained about the prices daily? Do you remember September 11th 2001? Do you remember how confused and scared everyone was, do you remember trying to take that all in and figure all that out at the age of ten, eleven, maybe twelve? Do you remember the first time you heard the word "terrorist?" No? Well then do you remember the last time you heard that word? Was it last night on the news? This morning on the radio? Do you remember when Cookie Monster became Veggie Monster, when Pluto tragically lost its status as a planet, when the president was caught in a lie, when Hurricane Katrina hit the Gulf Coast? Think of where you were then, look where we are now. We're graduating from high school today, we've come that far, but how far has our world come?

I cannot begin to express the gratitude for the many wonderful teachers I've had in the Chelsea school system. They've taught me how to memorize, how to analyze, how to act and react. These amazing men and women have taught me how to think, which I'm quickly finding is a rather useful skill to have. My friends from other schools are always so surprised to hear that most of my teachers are always there for help in the morning if we need them. I have never known a group of adults outside of my family to care so genuinely about my personal growth as a person. I'm not alone in that sense either. I've seen the teachers at this school go above and beyond to make sure its students are safe, happy, and just generally well. We are all going to miss our classmates in the years to come but we're going to miss our teachers just as much. We'll miss the crazy government teacher with her baseball bat, the deaf English teacher with his strange tattoo ideas, and we'll certainly miss their commander in chief, Mr. Mead.

The thing is that now we need to do something with all of this knowledge and all of this preparation. Something I've found about the American school system in general is that it prepares you very well but it prepares you specifically to succeed in the classroom environment. We've been taught how to exist in Chelsea, but that's not going to be good enough anymore. Whether we go off to further our educations, serve in the military, or enter the workforce, we don't get to be the kindergartner or the eleven year old or the high schooler anymore. We have to go out into the world. Some of us are getting started right away with the whole world exploration thing. Katy Martin will be studying in Spain, Jenna Jarvis in New Zealand, Emma Keating in Norway, and Alison Beatty just got back from Germany a few days ago. For all of us, those cliques we formed in preschool and again in middle school aren't going to cut it. We're going to encounter many ways of life that are unfamiliar to those of us who were raised in Chelsea, and we need to be willing to explore and embrace these new possibilities. Even for those of us who are staying in Chelsea, it's not going to be the same ever again, as of this moment. Every corner of the world (including ours) is changing, becoming flatter, more diverse in some ways and more homogenous in others. Believe it for no other reason than the fact that fifteen to twenty years ago, an openly gay student probably wouldn't be giving the graduation speech at Chelsea High School.

And let's face it, not all of the changes that come are going to be good ones. I know for a fact that many of my peers are much stronger and braver than I am, but I also cannot think that I'm the only one who's at least a little scared of what's to come. But we'll be okay, if for no other reason than the fact that we've had this town. We've had the best small library in the country, we've had this moment, sitting here in our funny robes and square hats. We've had family and friends that have loved us, and we love them back more than I could ever possibly say.

Anyway, there you have it, my formal thank you, and my formal adieu. It came in no particular order, certainly not chronologically. I know at least some of you are sitting in the audience thinking, "Well this has been both pointless and excruciatingly boring for me" My response to that is "Just be grateful, because if I weren't up here you'd be listening to 'Pomp and Circumstance' again." But really, this thank you is for every one of you. And it is on behalf of every one of us, the Graduating Class of 2008. We've been complaining about Chelsea's flaws for many years but even if some of us never fully realize it this town has shaped who we've become. Each one of you has worked in some capacity to create this community that's raised us in one way or another. Everything from the Jiffy Mix factory to the stranger who will return a smile on the street is now and forevermore an integral part of us, and we're going to carry it with us wherever we go. The thing is, I don't want to stay in Chelsea forever, but I don't ever want to shake the dust of this crummy little town off of me. I'll be taking it with me. Thank you Chelsea.

By Robin Olinyk

"High school has been everything and more to me. Whether because of friends that carried us through or the pure joy some people get out of the classes offered, it really truly has been a wonderful four years. And most of that is due to the people in our class."

Before I give my speech, there are several acknowledgements that I would like to make. First it is my honor to stand up here today on behalf of the class of 2008 and thank all of the teachers for everything they have and in some cases have not done for us in these past four years. In Chelsea we are blessed with teachers who truly care about their students. Although sometimes I know they wish they didn't care, they do. I would also like to thank the rest of the staff including the office staff, custodial staff, and all of the administrations for helping these four years fly by. But most of all we would like to thank Mr. Mead. As has been said he is retiring with our class. Can I get another round of applause for Mr. Mead? Mr. Mead I apologize for making these past years so hard on you that you felt that you needed out of here. But let's be honest, you could not have hand picked a better class to go with. Yes, I may be slightly bias, but really, have you seen how good we look today? It is safe to say the class of 2008 is going out with a bang.

Now, here comes the clichéd part of the speech. In fact this next part is so boring, I will not be offended if you fall asleep. You see, I am the youngest of five children, so I have been to my fair share of graduation ceremonies and realize that speeches like these can sometimes be mind numbingly dull. Unfortunately, it still needs to be said so here goes:

High school has been everything and more to me. Whether because of friends that carried us through or the pure joy some people get out of the classes offered, it really truly has been a wonderful four years. And most of that is due to the people in our class. You see, this class is different, a kind of different that most of us have grown to love. In my very humble opinion, we are the greatest class that will ever walk out those doors. Now I did not say the smartest, or the most talented, or even the nicest. I just said the best. Why? Well, what sets the class of 2008 apart from any other class is the fact that we are downright lazy. Most of you have heard of senioritis? Some of us actually had this disease during this past year. Some of us actually got it way back in the 7th grade when we were forced to do our Middle Eastern Country Reports. Despite our talent for doing nothing very, very well, what this class knows better than any other is to love life but not to take it too seriously. Now, don't get me wrong, we will be a very successful class. Some of us will go on the do great things. And some of us will end up living in a van down by the river.

Now, I have to be honest with you. This is the part of my speech that I count not think of anything else to say. I would write something down, and then erase it. Nothing I would write felt good enough to impress all of the people here I have never had the opportunity to meet, or meaningful enough to say in front of the people here that I care about the most. I spent weeks asking people what I should write and trying to come up with something with substance. Nothing worked.

Desperate, last week I decided to do the only thing I could think of. Whenever I have a big decision to make or need advice, I make a trip out to Jackson to see my psychic. Yes I know. It sounds weird, but it's just what I do. Anyway, I went to see Madam Stella to find out what I should write the rest of my speech about. I sat down. She closed the curtains. She lit what she said were incense. Then she said, "Robin, what is it you wish my crystal ball to tell you?"

I said, "Madam Stella, where will we be in ten years?"

"We who?"

And I said, "The class of 2008"

"Give me a name, child."

I thought for a second and said, "Kyle Raymond"

She closed her eyes and rubbed her crystal ball.

"Kyle Raymond will own a T-shirt company called 'Trash Talking T-shirts" Incorporated. High school students throughout the south eastern conference now own T-shirts with infamous slogans such as 'Push It, Push It', or 'Why so stupid' and our class favorite "YOU YOU YOU YOU...' can fill in the blank"

"What about Katy Martin? Married to one very attractive bull fighter still living in Madrid."

"Kendra Moyle? Participating in the 2018 Winter Olympics and favored to win the gold medal in pair figure skating."

"What about Elliot Marshall?" She thought for a minute and said "He will become a gym teacher at an all girls high school."

Hmm, no one saw that coming. "What about David Benoit?"

"He will shock the world by becoming the highest paid clown in history."

There were the others:

"Jake Galorowic will be happily married to Ari Galorowic living in a small quaint town with their sixteen children."

"Cassie Coffman, who was voted Most Likely to Join a Nudist Colony- She really was, we took a vote- will join a convent and become a nun."

"Phoebe Conybeare was the most politically involved student in the Class of 2008. Ten years from now Congresswoman Conybeare will announce she is running for President of the United States. Four years later, she will win."

Finally, I could not take it anymore. "But what about me Madam Stella? What is going to happen to me in ten years? She rubbed her crystal ball, looked at me, and said "Robin, ten years from now, you will be living in a van down by the river."

Thank you and good luck.

Chelsea bows out of tourney

Chelsea's girls' soccer team lost to Portage Northern 5-0 last Saturday in a Division 2 state regional final at Plainwell.

"Not much to talk about in this one other than it was a very disappointing way to end a fantastic season," said Chelsea coach Chris Orlandi.

The No. 6-ranked Huskies scored at the 29-minute mark of the first half off a free kick.

"Jenna Jarvis (Chelsea keeper) couldn't catch it before it (kick) landed," Orlandi said. "She deflected it forward where a Northern striker was ready to score the game's first goal."

Seven minutes later, Northern increased its advantage to 2-0.

The No. 5-ranked Bulldogs (14-3-4) entered the half still trailing 2-0.

"We talked about raising our level of play at halftime, but it didn't happen," Orlandi said.

The Huskies scored three minutes into the second half, upping their lead to 3-0.

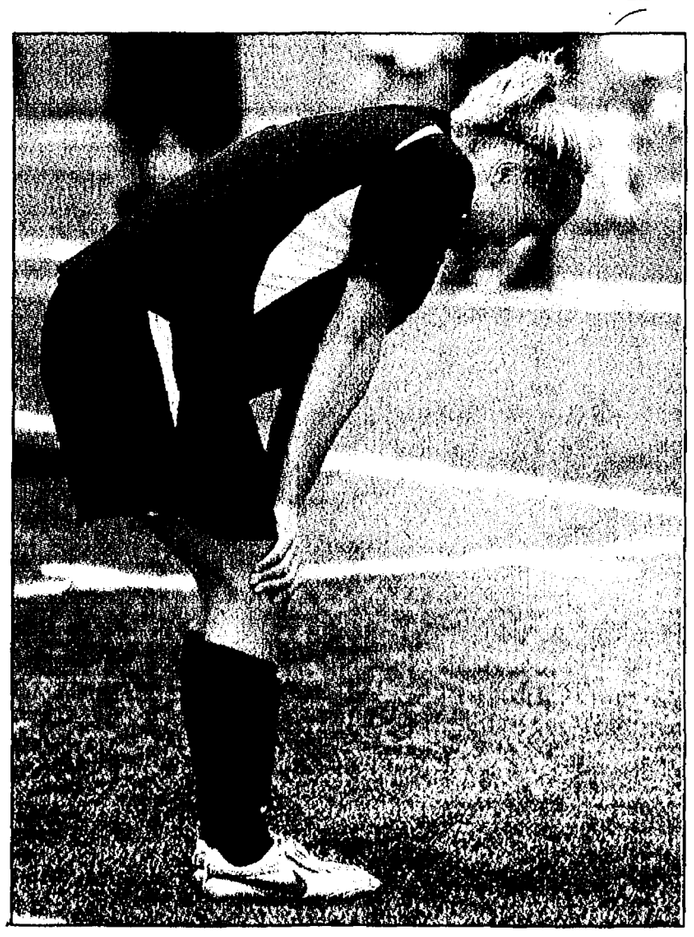

"It was really a shame," Orlandi said. "We hang our hat on defense and we pride ourselves on working our tails off for 80 minutes every game. (Ann Arbor) Huron is one of the best teams in the state. They struggled to score on us and they're in the semifinals of the Division 1 tournament.

"I can't understand how we can give up five goals in this contest. To tell you the truth, I'm not sure where our heads were today. Maybe the postponement affected us (the game was supposed to be played last Friday). Maybe it was the heat. Those are just excuses, though."

Orlandi said he was disappointed for the team, but especially for his seniors.

"We worked so hard all season to get here and then this is our final statement," he said. "I hope the underclassmen learn from this. We shouldn't be happy to have made it this far."

Bulldogs hand out season awards

By Don Richter

Chelsea boys' golf team concluded its season last week with its end-of-season banquet.

Named Bulldog MVP was Chris LaDuke. The senior standout finished with a 39.1 scoring average this year. LaDuke's season average was fourth-best all-time in Chelsea boys' golf history.

"He was a tenth of a shot out of third place," said Chelsea coach Joe Ewald.

Paul Newhouse owns the school's best single season scoring average with a 37.6 in 2003. Second all-time is Chris Johnson with a 38.8 in 2003, while Brett Common has the school's third best season scoring average with a 39.0 in 2005.

Receiving the Bulldogs' Most Improved Award was senior Kyle George.

"Kyle's improvement made a difference on the team this season," Ewald said. "He locked himself very solidly into the fourth spot on team."

Earning the Coaches Award was senior Elliot Marshall.

"He's had a consistent career over his four years," Ewald said. "He's been a good leader for us."

Receiving the Southeastern Conference Sportsmanship Award was senior Drew Martin.

"He's just a great kid," Ewald said. "He was a good teammate."

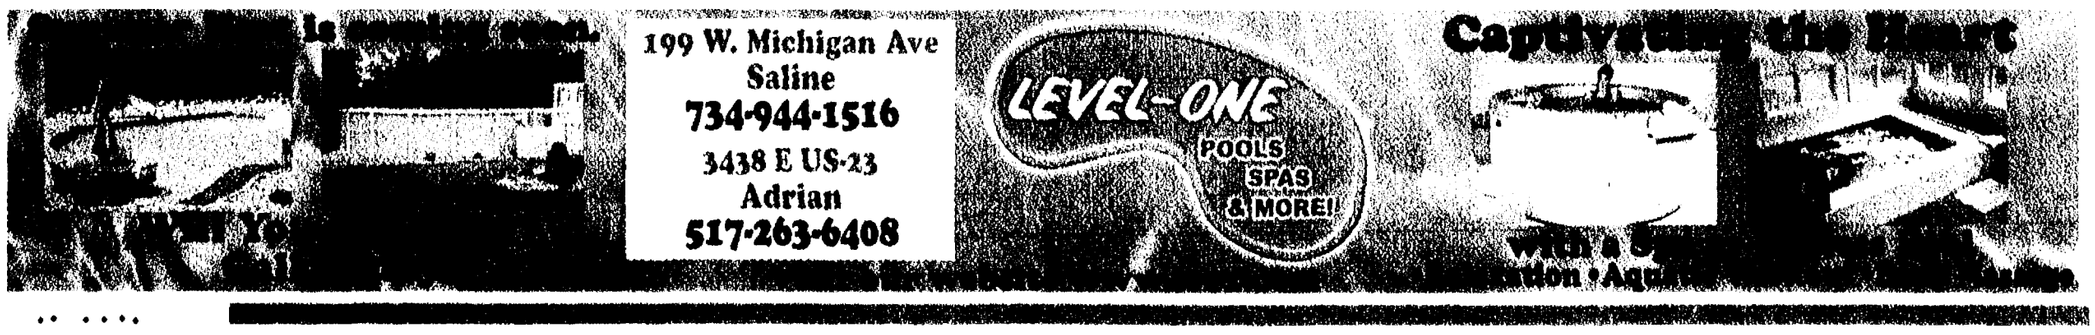

This past season, the Bulldogs advanced to the Division 2 regional competition before bowing out of the state tournament.

Winning the Division 2 state title was Battle Creek Lakeview.

Champion Gymnastics' prep-optional team competed in the youth state meet in Saginaw last month.

Champion's Bronze prep-optional team placed fifth overall in the state.

Leading the Bronze squad in the 11-year-old division was Bethany Hanson who finished second all around with a score of 36.275. Hanson ended up second in the state on beam and second on floor.

Champion's Leeann Larkin placed sixth all around in the state with a score of 35.875. Larkin finished second on vault, fourth on floor and fifth on bars.

In the Bronze 12-year-old division, Champion's Emily Stone finished ninth all around with a score of 35.6. Stone placed fourth on beam, sixth on floor and ninth on vault.

Jeeva Muhil was 12th all around with a score of 35.225. She placed second on vault and fourth on beam.

Also competing in the state meet and performing well for Champion were Paige Russell and Morgan Campbell.

Champion also fielded a Silver team at the state meet.

Champion Gymnastics' Silver Pre-Optional members Kaitlyn Gotcher (left), Julie Niethammer and Erika Elliott gather together after participating in the state meet last month.

In the Silver 11-year-old division, Erika Elliott placed second all around in the state with a score of 36.35. Elliott was second on floor, third on beam, fourth on vault and seventh on bars.

In the Silver 14-year-old and older division, Champion's Kaitlyn Gotcher finished second in the state on bars.

Also performing well for Champion's Silver team at the state meet was Julie Niethammer.

Champion's Kayla Samuels competed in the Gold level state meet placing eighth on floor.

Chelsea Larson and Sarah Proctor coached Champion.

Dawgs wrap up season

By Don Richter

Chelsea's boys' track and field team concluded a successful year last week with its end-of-season banquet.

The Bulldogs finished 10th at the Division 2 state meet May 31 in Zeeland scoring 17 points. Sixty-four teams competed in the state meet.

"We had quite an up and down season," said Chelsea coach Eric Swager. "Between injuries, heartbreaking losses, close victories and vast improvement, the team weathered a lot of storms and sunny days. We knew we had our work cut out for us with so many young guys and the largest team in school history.

"Competing in the SEC (Southeastern Conference) always gives us top-notch competition. We are pleased with our improvement in many events."

Senior Evan Carpenter led Chelsea at the state meet placing first in the 110-meter hurdles with a time of 14.71. Teammate senior Justin McGrath finished seventh in the event in 15.22. McGrath also was fourth in the 300-meter hurdles in 40.4.

McGrath was named the team's MVP. He led the Bulldogs this season in scoring with 173 points.

Receiving the Most Improved Award was sophomore Landon Niesen.

Earning Chelsea assistant coach Mike Holik Runner of the Year Award was junior Kevin Rosentreter.

Junior Riley Feeney received the SEC Sportsmanship Award.

Presented with Senior Scholar-Athlete Awards were Teddy Eyster and Sam Birgy.

Receiving All-SEC White Division accolades this past season for the Bulldogs were junior Nick Hewitt (1,600-meter run), freshman August Pappas (3,200-meter run), sophomore Nick Hill (200 meters), junior Josh Rudd (discus), senior Sam Dyer (shot put), Carpenter (hurdles) and McGrath (hurdles).

Bulldog senior Justin McGrath was named MVP for Chelsea track and field this past year.

Named All-Region were Rosentreter (400-meter run), Hill (100 meters), Pappas (3,200-meter run), Carpenter (hurdles) and McGrath (hurdles).

Carpenter and McGrath each were named All-State in hurdles.

Chelsea finished third in the SEC White Division. The Bulldogs were fifth in the state regional meet. Chelsea was 2-2 in dual meets this year.

The Bulldogs captured the Lakeland Invitational this past season and finished second at the Mason Invitational and fourth at the Michigan State Indoor and Eastern Michigan Indoor meets.

"We will miss the points scored by the leaving seniors and some of their fine leadership," Swager said. "But we have a strong nucleus with an improving distance squad and many young sprinters. Next year should be another good one."

Chelsea recorded its 12th straight winning season.

"I hope to keep up the streak," Swager said. "I would (also) like to thank all the parents who continue to volunteer and make the season and the program a success."

Orlandi said Northern played well.

"Truthfully, though, we could have played our best game and not won here today," he said. "Northern is unbelievably good. They appear to have no weakness.

"Still, Chelsea soccer is better than what we showed today and that's what bothers me. We belong playing in these (games), but you wouldn't know it today."

Though bowing out of the state tournament two wins from a state title, Orlandi said it was a successful year.

"It was a tremendous season all around," he said. "I'm extremely proud of what we accomplished along the way."

On June 3, Chelsea defeated Stevensville-Lakeshore 5-0 in a Division 2 state regional semifinal at Plainwell.

"This was utter domination from start to finish," Orlandi said. "Our team has done a great job picking up its intensity as we've moved through the tournament. Lakeshore was a solid team, stronger than the Eaton Rapids team that we could only beat 3-0.

To begin the game, freshman Anna Rode scored giving the Bulldogs a 1-0 first half lead. Sophomore Cara Johnson picked up an assist on the play.

Chelsea's defense didn't allow a shot in the first half.

Bulldog senior keeper Jenna Jarvis guards the net last Saturday versus Portage Northern.

Two minutes into the second half, senior Emily Rabbitt scored off an assist from Johnson upping the Bulldog advantage to 2-0.

"I think Lakeshore let down at this point," Orlandi said. "I think they realized that this wouldn't be their night."

Two minutes later, Rode scored her second goal of the game for a 3-0 Chelsea lead.

At the 65-minute mark, senior Stasi Kanellopoulos scored for a 4-0 Bulldog margin. Junior Brooke Ehman recorded an assist on the goal for Chelsea.

With less than two minutes remaining in the game, Julianna Ameel scored for the day's ending tally. Kanellopoulos assisted for the Bulldogs.

Wild wins titles

Betty Wild, a member of the Senior Fun Time League, sponsored by the Chelsea Senior Center at Chelsea Lanes, won first place in Class AA (75-years-old and older) Singles and first place in Class AA All Events at the Michigan Senior Tournament in Muskegon at Northway Lanes May 16.

Wild's singles handicap score was 800 and her all events handicap tally was 1,523.

For winning the Class AA All Events title, Wild is entitled to represent Michigan in the 2009 National Seniors Tournament.

Safety classes held

Post 46 Hunting and Fishing Club will be hosting hunter safety classes beginning July 7. The club is at 8888 Dexter-Townhall Road in Dexter.

Classes will be from 7 to 9 p.m. July 7, July 14 and July 21.

The field day and exam for the class will be July 26 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Classes will consist of videos, lectures, demonstrations and the actual shooting of a shotgun, rifle and bow and arrow.

For additional information, contact Mike Hughes at 734-428-7864 or at mhul21@att.net. If contacting via e-mail make sure to write "Hunter Safety" in the subject line.

The outdoors: From the DNR

Risks and dangers of feeding black bears

Spring and summer can be very difficult seasons in the life of Michigan's black bears. They emerge from their dens with depleted energy supplies following a long winter period of inactivity at a time when natural foods are scarce. In addition, bear family groups begin to break up with the onset of breeding activity, which occurs in May and June.

Yearling bears (1-year-olds) soon realize their mother no longer favors their companionship when her interest turns to breeding. This is especially true for young males, who are aggressively driven away by their mother. In search of their own territory, these young males are most likely to come into contact with humans and create problems.

Black bear have huge appetites and an excellent sense of smell. They are capable of remembering the locations of reliable food sources from year to year and will travel great distances to find food. When natural foods such as tender grasses and vegetation, nuts, berries and insects are scarce, bear are more likely to come into contact with people.

Problems occur when bear attempt to feed on human foods, garbage, compost, pet foods or birdseeds. Bird feeders are one of the biggest attractants of bear to homes and yards in Michigan.

According to the Department of Natural Resources Wildlife Division, in 672 reports of bear activity received over the past two years, 281 (42 percent) were bear that were attracted to bird feeders. In an additional 23 percent of the cases, bear were attracted to garbage or were intentionally fed.

The DNR provides assistance to landowners to avoid unnecessary bear problems, including removing offending animals in situations where bear continue to be a problem or cause property damage.

Although bear are secretive and shy by nature, they will tolerate contact with people for food. To avoid possible confrontations and property damage from bear, the most effective and long-lasting strategy is prevention.

Never intentionally feed bear. With the exception of baiting for hunting purposes in remote areas, placing food to attract bear near homes, cottages, parks, campgrounds and picnic areas may teach them to associate people with food. This may place both bear and people at risk. Some people consider bears in close contact with people as a threat to human safety; bears in these situations occasionally may be killed.

Bear trap

The DNR recommends the following actions for potential bear problems:

- Bear in bird feeder or suet: Remove all bird feeders.
- Bear in garbage can or dumpster: Store garbage containers in a secure location. Do not put out for pickup the night before and be sure lids on dumpsters are securely fastened.
- Bear in a tree in a residential area: Clear all people and dogs from the site to allow the bear to come down on its own and leave. Treed bear are more inclined to leave at dark if left undisturbed.

Attracting bears close to people also may increase their risk of being killed by vehicles on roads, too. "Road-killed bears near rural subdivisions often have stomachs full of bird seed," said DNR Wildlife Biologist Larry Visser of Cadillac, who has studied the habits of bears for more than two decades.

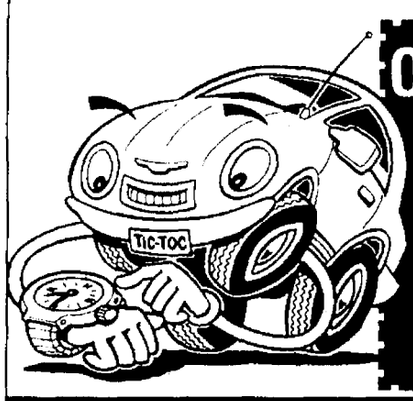

Bears that become habituated to people and cause property damage sometimes have to be trapped and moved — an expensive and time-consuming project that often fails to solve the problem. These moved bear may just become problems in new areas.

People who live in these unique environments of Michigan have a special responsibility to be good stewards of the wildlife that also resides here, including avoiding conflicts with bear

Planning set for Farmers' Market Coloring Contest

Once a month from May through October the Chelsea Farmers Market sets up "The Children's Booth," where groups such as the Chelsea Center for the Arts, the McKune Memorial Library, the Michigan Friends Center, or a Girl or Boy Scout troop hosts the booth for the Market.

This year the Market has decided to host a Coloring Contest for children too. The contest will be divided into three age categories from ages 2 to 12. The two younger age categories will be given a specific coloring sheet to color in relation to the Chelsea Farmers' Market. The oldest age category will be required to create a free-hand drawing of a scene of the market.

The winning artists' works will be used in future market posters and brochures. Winning artists will receive $5 in Market Bucks to spend at the Chelsea Farmers Market and a personal tour of a local working animal farm or a local organic farm.

Entries will be available for pick up starting June 14 at the Children's Booth. Entries can be picked up every Saturday at the market through July 5. All completed art is due Saturday, July 12.

Cancer Declassified

Learning to contend with the mixed emotions

By Alison Marable
Special Writer

Recently I attended the six-month check-up appointment with my cancer surgeon. It was not a full six months as I was having some complications, but the appointment was a quickie and I was given the green light to enjoy life until my next six-month check-up.

Just like the day I walked out of there with no more treatments lined up, nothing happened. No parade, no rainbow, no group of friends waiting at home for us. It's difficult to walk out of any cancer center glowing when there are so many going in.

I still cringe when I see the women in the waiting area of the cancer center. Some of them are young, like me, sitting slumped in a wheelchair with a white blanket wrapped around them. The thick, rough blanket has lost all of its warmth from the heater.

ALISON MARABLE

They stare, their heads dropped to one side, avoiding eye contact while they wait. Their blank expressions bring back all the fear and dread that has been inside me for the last year as I pray that I never see my own daughter sitting there.

Although the knowledge that I was done with the torture and I could continue on with my life was a gift in and of itself, I felt let down and awkward.

The day was nothing special. It was a gray day, cloudy, with no significant visual splendor. Do we drive away from the hospital and have lunch? Do we call someone? I simply had no idea what I was supposed to do at that point.

The nurse told me that my chart stated that I was back to 100 percent pre-surgery activity. Sure, the tubes and needles were gone, but I don't consider myself to be functioning as I was before all of this began.

There are side effects to all treatments and surgeries, which can include such things as scars, numbness, and pain. Emotionally, I will never be the same. But I don't think that gets noted on the chart.

Suddenly, I have no appointments lined up. As freeing as this is, it's still terrifying. My husband describes the experience as being pushed out in a canoe onto a lake. This lake has no other boats or people and the oars are missing.

After dreading each and every appointment throughout the year, I now wanted appointments. Weekly. Someone needs to check me to make sure that any recurrence is caught immediately.

I also became attached to some of the staff. The good ones understood me and always said just the right things to my husband and me.

During the last year I would receive constant phone calls, e-mail, and visits from family and friends. The continuous flood of support buoyed my spirit and kept me busy enough that it would disrupt negative thoughts.

That all ended. The crisis is over and people return to their normal routines. But in my head, the crisis is still going on. It's too soon for me to be sent off by myself when I am still struggling to understand what happened.

The experience is so fresh that I can close my eyes and imagine the pain, picture the circle of doctors around my bed, feel the pit in my stomach that wonders if — and when — the cancer might return.

I still get tired and am working to regain physical strength. My thoughts are constantly wondering when I will discover my new place in life and what it might be. There's a sense that I need to choose wisely

Earlyne's mission

Earlyne Figg (81 years old) of Chelsea has taken on a mission. She is creating soft prosthetics for women who have suffered the devastation of losing a breast to cancer. These comfortable and colorful handmade prosthetics are perfect for women who have just undergone surgery and are not yet comfortable with commercial models, or just want to be more comfortable. Discovered on the internet by Senior Center Director Tina Patterson, Ealyne has been knitting these "breast forms" and distributing them to any woman who has a need. So far she has made over 50 pairs in a wide range of colors and sizes. Patterson says these fun and colorful breast forms, along with being more comfortable can make a woman feel more positive about her body. With funky colors and a variety of enhancements, Earlyne is helping any woman who would like to try one without cost. For more information, call 475-9242.

News in brief

MSP teen driving class

The Michigan State Police Precision Driving Unit is offering parents a chance to enroll their teens in a defensive driving class. Teens will learn hands-on skid control, evasive maneuvering, controlled breaking and emergency off-road recovery.

The class lasts eight hours and is limited to 15 students per session. There are four sessions scheduled, June 18 and 19 and Aug. 6 and 7, and will take place at the Michigan State Police Training Academy in Lansing.

To participate, teens must have a Level 2 Intermediate License. The program costs $100; to register, call 517-322-5174.

Summer camps in Dexter

Children's Services is offering Camp Invention and Camp Dexter from June 16 until Aug. 15 at Bates Elementary School.

Children from kindergarten through sixth grade will participate in many new, fun and educational opportunities. Activities include making and flying kites, launching rockets, disco dance party, bike parade, cooking, slip and slide water games, slime and goop, obstacle course challenges and plenty of play time.

The itinerary includes swimming on Monday, Wednesday and Friday each week. Off-site educational trips include the Howell Nature Center, Putt & Glow, Dazzling Mills Family Show, Rolling Hills Water Park, Buffalo Ranch, Trout Farm, library program, museum tour, Splash Universe Indoor Water Park, Independence Lake and to a Detroit Tigers game.

Participants can sign up for the entire summer, one or two weeks, or even take advantage of part-time offers. In addition, there are sibling discounts and a few discount coupons left for Camp Invention week. The program is offered in a safe environment, convenient location with qualified teaching staff who love what they are doing.

For more information or to register, call the DCS office at (734) 424-4175.

Dexter Church of Christ breaks ground

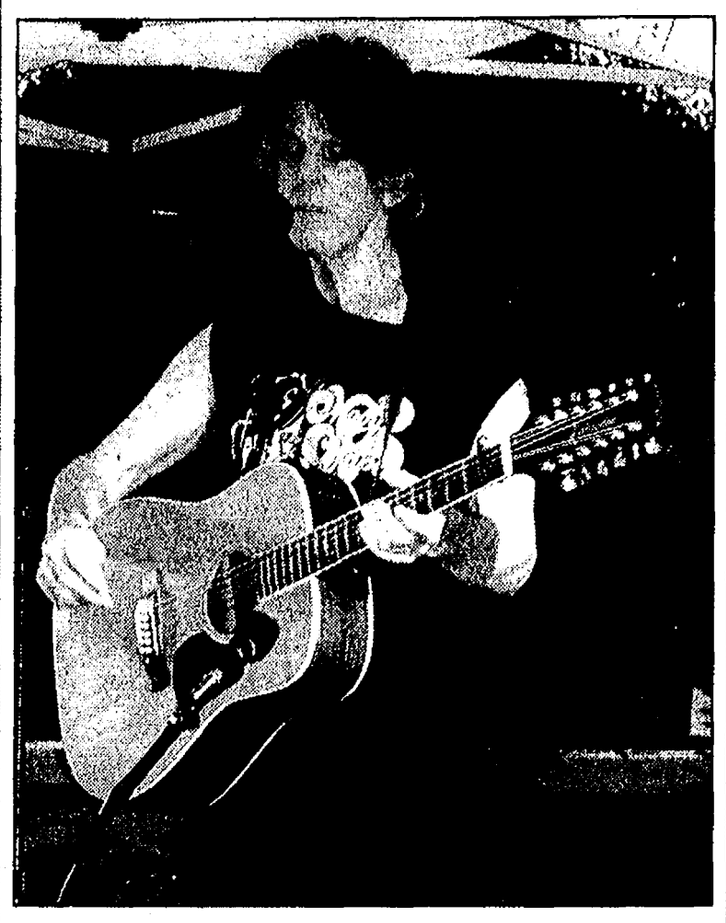

The young children of the Dexter church of Christ joined the congregation in the ground breaking ceremony held May 18 at 2 p.m. at 8800 Jackson Road. The ground breaking ceremony was for their new worship facility. The ceremony started with scripture readings by Ken Martin, family life minister, including Romans 11:33.

The pulpit minister, Carl Whitelaw, also gave appropriate comments. This was followed by a prayer led by elder Bob Conn asking for God's guidance and blessing upon the construction project. Joe Schulz, of Schulz Development and Consulting, brought those assembled up to date as to the construction schedule that is anticipated to be completed by the end of October at which time a grand opening is planned. The shovels will be engraved and will be permanently displayed in the new facility.

The Dexter church of Christ was organized in March of 2004 with services being held in the Mill Creek Middle School commons in Dexter, where they will continue to meet until the completion of their building. The building plans include a sanctuary that will comfortably seat 150 persons, as well as classrooms to serve the needs of the Bible School programs. The home that is now on the site will be used as a parsonage. The church's 10:30 a.m. Sunday worship service presently averages about 80 persons. Bible school is at 9:30 a.m. The Church of Christ is non-denominational and all are welcome.

CANCER

when I decide how to spend my precious time.

Of course, I still see and speak to all of these supportive people. But, for the most part, old routines have returned. I can't expect everyone to check on me daily when they have busy lives and the immediate threat of death is gone. But I would have liked it.

Perhaps a tapering off period, one in which the cheery calls, watercolor painted tulips on greeting cards and flower arrangements didn't cease unexpectedly when I still felt that none of this could really be true.

I wear jewelry as good luck or as reminders of special occasions. After that checkup appointment, I noticed I had somehow lost one of my favorite earrings that my husband had given me years before, long before I ever had cancer.

I presumed that the process of changing in and out of the pale, sickly-patterned gown with the oddly placed ties had knocked it off my right ear.

We called unsuccessfully for several days to see if anyone had found my missing earring. The next day, my husband surprised me with a new set of earrings, made of the same materials and bought from the same store as the original set.

They're not the same, but they are beautiful. The old one is gone and I won't ever get it back, but I can wear these new ones and learn to find them special, too.

• "False health advice spread through e-mail:" An acquaintance of mine recently forwarded an e-mail regarding the causes of cancer and urgent changes that people should make immediately to avoid getting cancer. That's something we'd all like to know, right? The sender is a kind, efficient person, so I know that her intentions were good. Unfortunately, this e-mail was one of the chain e-mails that spreads false information to dozens of recipients with each tap of the "send" button. These so-called health alerts only spread hysteria and confusion, especially to individuals who are already sensitive about the topic.

Serenity now!

Garden brings peace to CCH patients, staff

By Edward Freundl
Staff Writer

It is an oasis to ease the suffering of those in pain, and a place of quiet reflection to bring peace to those in turmoil.

It's also a nice place to have lunch outside on a sunny day.

The Serenity Garden at Chelsea Community Hospital is all those things and more, according to recreational therapist Janice Collins, who has directed the project since its inception in 2000.

"It's a community effort; it was renovated by me, Charlene Harris, and many volunteers," Collins said.

"Charlene donated most of the plantings from her own yard and designed the garden," Collins pointed out.

The care and maintenance of the garden is done by hospital employees, patients and community volunteers, Collins noted.

One of the most unique features of the garden is that it is used as a form of therapy for certain hospital patients, Collins said.

The garden is in a centrally located inner courtyard of the main hospital building, with easy access to patients' rooms and the cafeteria.

That full accessibility to the garden was an important consideration, according to Collins.

"People come out here and have their lunch and take their breaks," she said. "Patients can even come out here with their IV poles."

Harris, an avid gardener and horticulturist, said she was contracted to design the garden in 2000 after spending a week in the hospital in a wheelchair.

"I spent a lot of time in that courtyard and I just had to do something to improve it," Harris said.

From left, Chelsea Community Hospital patients and family members Lisa Taylor, Kathy Vernier, Laurie Meyers, Anne Meyers and CCH recreational therapist Janice Collins plant a mix of annuals in one of three large planters on May 29 in the Serenity Garden, in an interior courtyard at the hospital.

She solicited donations and came up with the design, then enlisted local volunteers to dig up what was there and replace it with something much more attractive.

"I personally put probably 100 to 200 hours in it over five years," Harris said.

"People are attracted to it like a magnet."

Support of the garden is also coming from one of the top branches of hospital management.

"Dr. Larry Handelsman, CCH Medical Director, was instrumental in getting us together," Collins said.

"He's a huge gardener; he's been supporting us in many ways."

Perennial shrubs and plants line the edges of the courtyard and decorative paving stones dot the ground.

There is also a metal sculpture that was installed last fall and dedicated to the memory of the late John Winans, a longtime hospital volunteer.

On May 29, the focus was on three large, round planters filled with potting soil and a couple of dozen plants each, still in their small greenhouse containers.

"The planting will be done this afternoon by some patients," Collins said. "Everybody seems to enjoy it."

Patients and family members Lisa Taylor, Kathy Vernier, Laurie Meyers and Anne Meyers joined Collins and grabbed gloves and trowels to dig in and get growing.

After a quick lesson in planting technique, the women had one planter blooming with lilies, several varieties of coleus, and many other annuals in less than 15 minutes.

One of the volunteers noted how the planters are at the proper height to allow someone in a wheelchair to be able to care for the plants.

"That's the idea," Collins said.

Helene Graham, Director of Therapy Services for the hospital, said the garden is "a very positive place" that provides many benefits to patients and staff.

"Patients from all areas and their families are using the garden; it's a really friendly place to go," Graham said.

"It adds to the healthy environment and the healing process."

According to Harris, the name, Garden of Serenity, was suggested by a comment left in a guest book by an anonymous visitor in August 2002:

"The courtyard garden is so peaceful and serene as well as beautiful. ... Keep up the good work in providing a place of excellence for the patients, staff and visitors. Great Job, Muskegon, MI"

The entire Chelsea community will have the opportunity to enjoy the garden soon, thanks to a local gardening group.

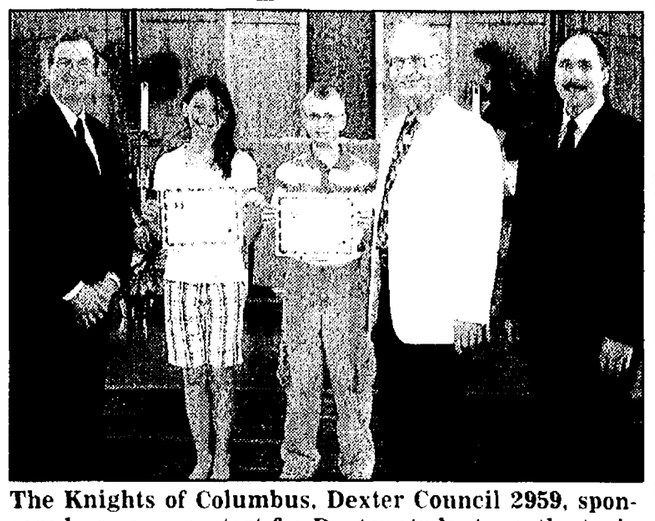

"This is going to be on the Chelsea Garden Club's Garden Walk in July," Collins said.

"This is the first time we will be on it — we're very excited."

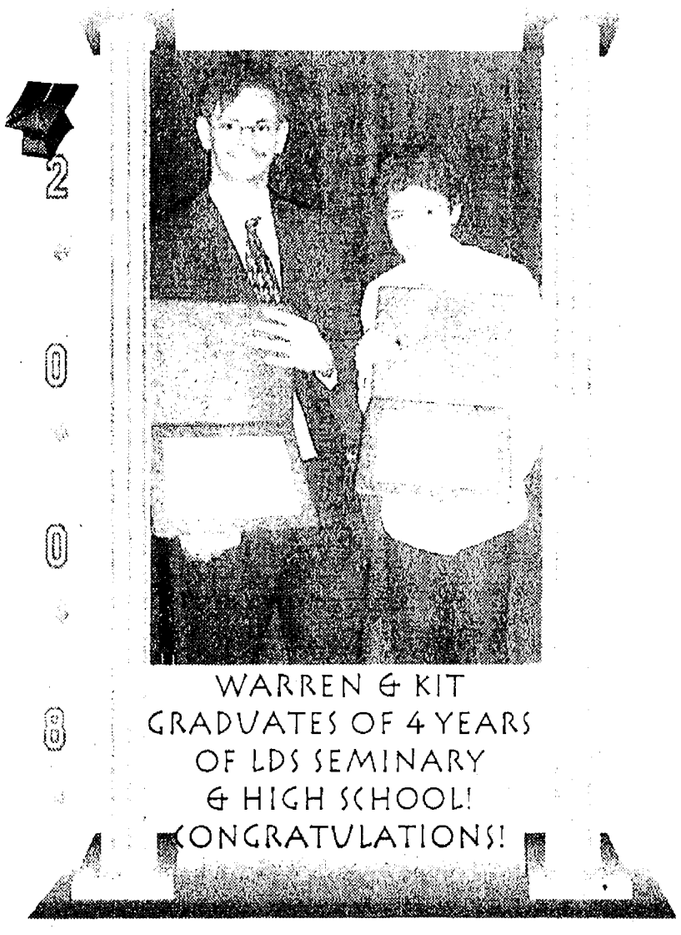

FYI

The Garden of Serenity will be one of the stops on the Chelsea Area Garden Club's annual Chelsea Garden Walk on July 19. For more information about the Garden Walk, contact Trinh Piper of the Garden Mill at 475-3539.

Essay winners

The Knights of Columbus, Dexter Council 2959, sponsored an essay contest for Dexter students on the topic "What America Means To Me." Awards were presented on June 8 following Mass at St. Joseph Catholic Church. The first-place winner was Creekside student Megan Lynch who received a $100 savings bond. The runner-up was Creekside student David Innis, who received a $50 savings bond. Knights of Columbus Dexter Council Director of Family and Youth Activities Zbigniew Wojcinski (left), Megan Lynch, David Innis, Grand Knight Frank Bertram and fellow Knight Ray Singer.

'Take a ride'

Rock legend Mitch Ryder to perform at benefit in Chelsea

Rock and Roll legend Mitch Ryder and the Detroit Wheels are coming to Chelsea this summer to perform a benefit concert for the Sounds & Sights on Thursday Nights.

The concert is Thursday, July 24 and will be held under cover behind the Common Grill Restaurant. The gates will open at 7 p.m. The Witch Doctors will open for Ryder.

The event is generously sponsored by Chelsea State Bank.

General admission tickets are $35 in advance ($40 at the gate), and are on sale at the Common Grill, the CCA, Chelsea Market, and Cranesbill Books. Special VIP tickets are $100 and may be purchased at the Common Grill or CCA.

Tickets may also be purchased by phone by calling the CCA at 734-433-2787, or buy them on-line at www.chelseacenterforthearts.org. A major portion of each ticket purchase is tax deductible. All proceeds go to Sounds & Sights to help cover operating costs and performer fees.

The concert is open to all ages. There will be beer, wine, soft drinks, and food for sale, and wrist bands will be given to ticket holders 21 years and older at the gate. VIP ticket holders get preferred seating at the show, complimentary beverages, entry to a private pre-concert cocktail party to meet Mitch Ryder along with a signed copy of his new book "It Was All Right" (Wayne State Press).

Mitch Ryder and the Detroit Wheels have been a rock music fixture since the mid 1960s when they released such hits at "Jenny Take A Ride!", "C. C. Rider", "Little Latin Lupe Lu", "Devil With A Blue Dress On / Good Golly Miss Molly", and "Sock It To Me-Baby!"

For more information visit www.chelseafestivals.com, www.chelseacenterforthearts.org. Sounds & Sights is sponsored by the Chelsea DDA. Additional support for the concert comes from Barefoot Wine & Bubbly, and Miller Brewing Company.

Charity golf scramble

The "Barefoot Wine" Charity Golf Scramble is scheduled for June 28 at Reddeman Farms Golf Club, 555 S. Dancer Road, Chelsea.

Cost is $95 per person or $380 for a four-person team. Tee box signs are $75, and corporate sponsors are welcome. Proceeds will benefit the local Autism USA chapter.

Registration begins at 7 a.m., with a shotgun start at 8 a.m. Contests for women and men include putting, longest drive, and closest to pin. Team captains should contact Holly Bulko at 734-475-4406 or e-mail hbhawaiiant@earthlink.net to reserve a spot.

Dexter Entertainment Series

The Dexter Area Chamber of Commerce and local Dexter businesses are hosting the Dexter Entertainment Series in downtown Dexter Friday's throughout the summer. There will be two stages of live entertainment and other fun things to do from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. The stages will be located downtown at the clock and also at the gazebo. For more information, contact the Dexter Area Chamber of Commerce at 734-426-0887.

Life is very short

MINISTERIAL Message

By Pastor Mark Porinsky
Faith Lutheran Church

I came across a calculation a couple years ago: The ratio of 80 years (the lifespan that many of us can hope to achieve) in comparison to one million years is equal to the ratio between seven seconds and one day.

The truth is, everyone in the world is going to live far more than a million years. Each human being is going to live for an eternity. For some, there will be the joy of an eternity in heaven; for others, an eternity in hell. For all, that eternity will absolutely dwarf the short span of life here on this earth. Compared with eternity, an 80-year lifespan is less than a very small fraction of a second.

When our five children were young it often seemed that we'd never get past endless diapers and feedings, and then non-stop school activities in the years following; but one day you wake up and two of them are married or heading for marriage, and your youngest has just finished his third year of college. Sometimes I look ahead to retirement, and it seems such a long way off, but then I look back at how quickly the years have gone by, and I know I'll be there very soon; and after retirement – how quickly are those years going to pass? And what then?

I know "what then," and that's why I'm in the profession I'm in. No matter how we try to beat it, the Bible's words, which we quote in our Lutheran funeral service, are true: "You have made my days a mere handbreadth; the span of my years is as nothing before You. Each man's life is but a breath" (Psalm 39:5).

Only the Bible shows us the solution: "Our Savior, Christ Jesus...has destroyed death and brought life and immortality to light through the Gospel" (2 Timothy 1:10).

I became a pastor, and have remained a pastor, because I know that all people, are going to die, and that includes me; and because I know that Jesus has overcome death. When eyesight fails, health fails, and there's nothing to look forward to on earth, I will have eternal life in heaven which no one can take away from me. And everyone reading these words can have that same assurance.

I hope to spend many more enjoyable, and useful, years on this earth. I'm trying to take care of my body, with exercise and a somewhat healthy diet. But none of us really has control over whether such measures will work. We all have to admit to God, "My times are in Your hands" (Psalm 31:15).

We can, however, believe in the One who calls Himself "the Resurrection and the Life," Jesus our Savior. And through Him we can look forward to a life that never ends.

Mark Porinsky is the pastor at Faith Lutheran Church, 9575 North Territorial Road in Dexter. The Web site is www.faithdexter.org

The Purple Rose: The Series

Teacher a fun and familiar role for Mountain

Classes teach kids the skills and excitement of acting

By Terry Jacoby
Heritage Newspapers

Michelle Mountain has several loves in her life. First and foremost comes family, followed by acting, the Purple Rose Theatre, kids, teaching and last but not least, enjoying life to the fullest.

Mountain has brought to life many characters during her years at the Purple Rose. She has won several awards, earned plenty of praise from her peers and has even taken a turn as a director. But in all her roles – both on and off the stage – one characteristic has stood out more than any other, her enthusiasm.

So when she was asked if she wanted to take the "lead role" as a teacher to young and aspiring actors and actresses, she jumped at the chance. Teaching acting to youngsters at the Purple Rose – it doesn't get any better than that.

"I've taught at kids camps since I was 18," says Mountain, who helps run both the "Kid Purple" and "Teen Intensive" camps at the Purple Rose. "After I graduated college, my husband and I moved to La Jolla, Calif., where I taught kids camps for the La Jolla Playhouse. And it's this camp that the Kid Purple class is modeled after."

Kid Purple is a two-week day camp for children ages 8 to 12 scheduled for Monday through Friday with two sessions available: June 16-27 or July 14-25. Limited spots still remain for both sessions.

"We do the same things with the kids that we would do here with the cast for a play," Mountain said. "We want to make it as real as possible. For example, the kids do yoga everyday because that's what actors do.

"We also do some theatre games to teach them various skills. Everything we do in camp, we've done in rehearsals or in adult classes."

This approach is not only entertaining and real, but effective.

"I've heard from kids and parents over the years that what they like the most is that they are doing adult work," said Mountain, who most recently starred in "The Poetry of Pizza." "The theatre games we do everyday are geared to learn concentration, observation, making the scene about your partner rather than you."

While Mountain does the teaching, she leaves plenty of creative decisions up to her students. A big part of the class is creating, rehearsing and presenting their own play.

"I tell the kids that we are going to make up a play and ask them what they want it to be about," she said. "Is it going to be a drama, comedy, mystery...what do you think? And we brainstorm. Everyone writes down ideas and we come up with something unique. Then we decide on what kind of characters everyone wants to be."

For the next few days the class will try to mesh the story with the characters and create some scenes. Mountain then invites a playwright to watch the class for a few days to see what the class has come up with. The playwright then spends the weekend putting together a script of the final play using as much as possible of what the kids have come up with.

"It's their words and their ideas, but with some structure to it and all written out," Mountain said. "The playwrights have to navigate all the different story lines the kids have come up with and make it flow."

The class is then presented with a script. They spend a good part of the second week designing and building sets and rehearsing the play for a performance on Friday for family and friends.

"We go through blocking and what blocking is, why it's important to face the audience and these kinds of things while we rehearse the play," Mountain said.

The cost for Kid Purple is $375 and takes place at the PRTC's rehearsal space in the Chelsea Center for the Arts.

Teen Intensive also runs for two weeks and features a smaller class size to facilitate more one-on-one work. Designed for students ages 13 to 18, Teen Intensive meets Monday through Thursday, with two sessions available: June 30-July 10 or July 28-Aug. 7. The class meets from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Chelsea Center for the Arts.

"You don't have to have acting experience to be in this class, but you do have to come in with a one minute, memorized monologue from a published play," Mountain said.

Teen Intensive takes the realism approach even further.

"I teach them how to work on monologues the exact same way I would an adult," Mountain said. "This year were are going to work on how to audition. We are going to have a day of film, which is new. We work on scenes and teach the style of acting we do here at the Purple Rose.

"Good actors make the scene about their partners, not about themselves and that's what we try to teach here and it's not an easy thing to learn," Mountain said. "If both actors approach a scene like this then something wonderful can happen."

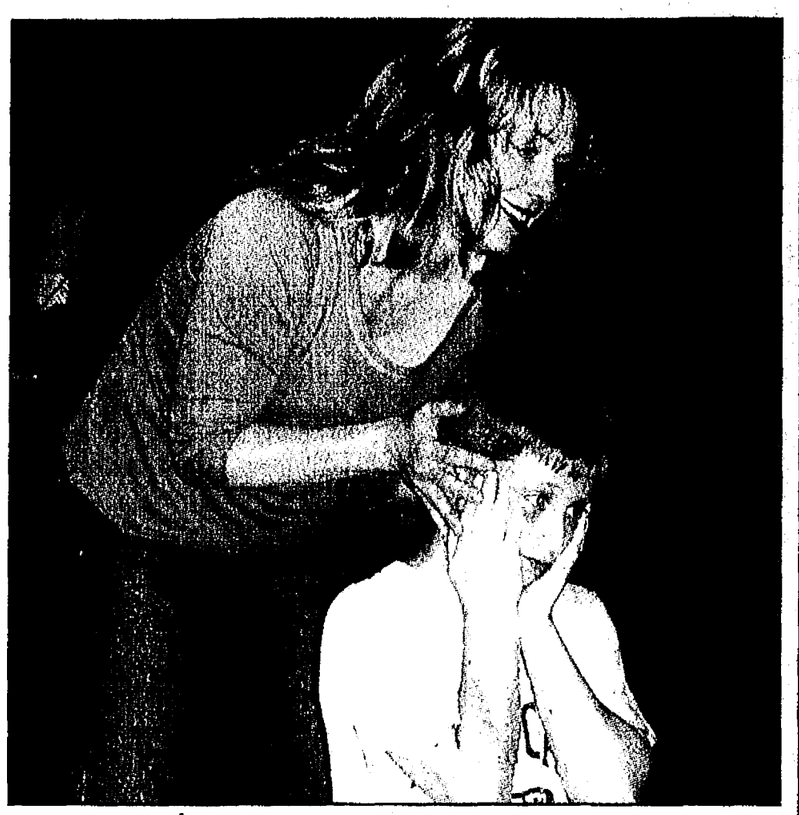

Students explore the acting process and the principles that guide professional actors in their work, including voice, movement and acting for the camera. While Teen Intensive focuses on the skills and how to play certain parts, the class is still designed to be fun.

"It's fun in a lot of ways but mostly because of the confidence they gain," Mountain said. "Hey, we are all going to mess up while we learn. So let's go mess up, learn and get better."

And how can it not be fun with Mountain in the lead role.

The cost for Teen Intensive is $300.

For more information or to register, call 1-734-433-PRTC. Registration forms can also be printed from the PRTC Web site: www.purplerosetheatre.org.

Michelle Mountain is hands-on when it comes to teaching acting.

Part I

With the Purple Rose Theatre's world premier of Jeff Daniels' latest play ("Panhandle Slim and the Oklahoma Kid"), Heritage Newspapers will present a series of articles focused on the theatre, the play and the playwright. Daniels' first western is "a winsome comedy that tells the fateful tale of a prairie showdown between a vagrant outlaw and a singing cowboy." Directed by Guy Sanville and featuring PRTC Associate Artists John Seibert and Tom Whalen, the play will run from Thursday, June 19 through Saturday, Aug. 30. For tickets, call 1-734-433-ROSE (7673). The following is the series planned to help kick off "Panhandle Slim and The Oklahoma Kid."

Beach students take in sights, sounds of nation's capital

By Edward Freundl
Staff Writer

Beach Middle School students experienced a living history lesson during their annual trip to Washington D.C. in late April.

The school has made the trip since the early 1990s, and this year 172 students and 23 chaperones took part.

"We visit all of the memorials in and around D.C.," said eighth-grade history teacher Jason Morris.

"This year we were also able to pay a special tribute to fallen Chelsea Police Chief Scott Sumner and Fire Capt. Matthew Tuttle by laying a wreath at the Law Enforcement Memorial."

According to Morris, other sites they visited included the war memorials for Vietnam, Korea, World War II,; as well as the Lincoln, Franklin Roosevelt, Air Force, and Marine Corps (Iwo Jima) Memorials.

"We also visited the Smithsonian Institution, the Holocaust Museum, and Arlington National Cemetery," he added.

It wasn't all statues and tourist sites, however. For fun, students visited Smokey Glen Farm and took a riverboat cruise down the Potomac River, which featured a pizza buffet and music.

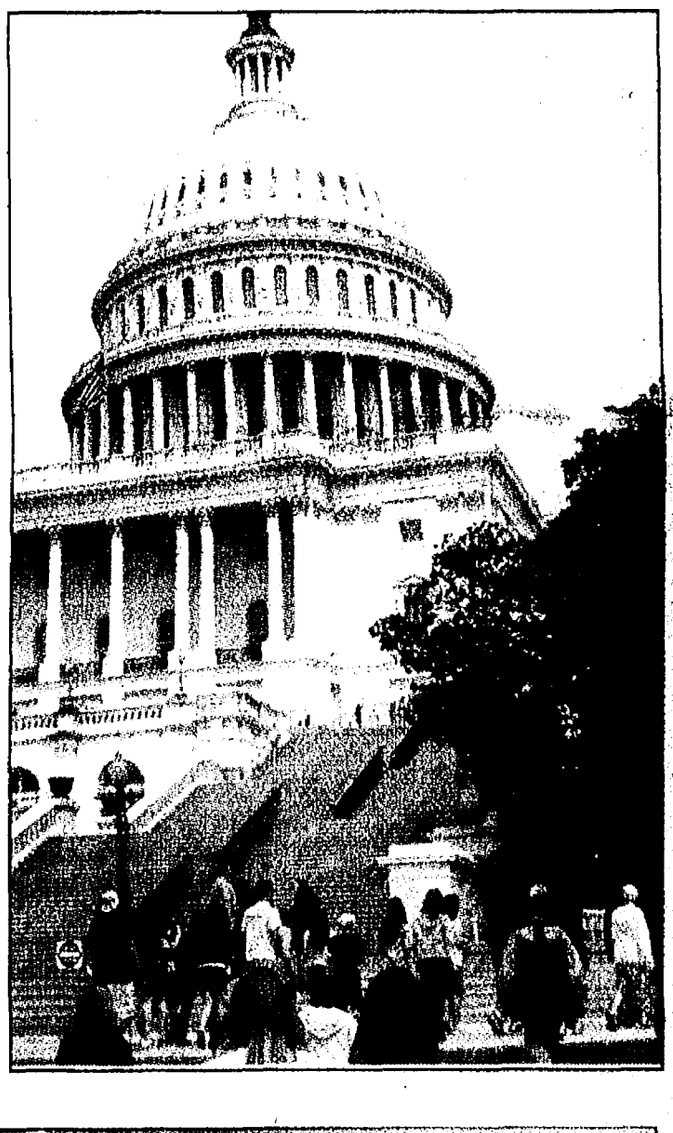

The kids have several fund-raisers throughout the year to earn money for the trip, including pizza kits, gift wrap, and flower bulb sales.

The trip continues to be a lot of fun and very successful, Morris noted, and also shared some of the memorable moments of the trip.

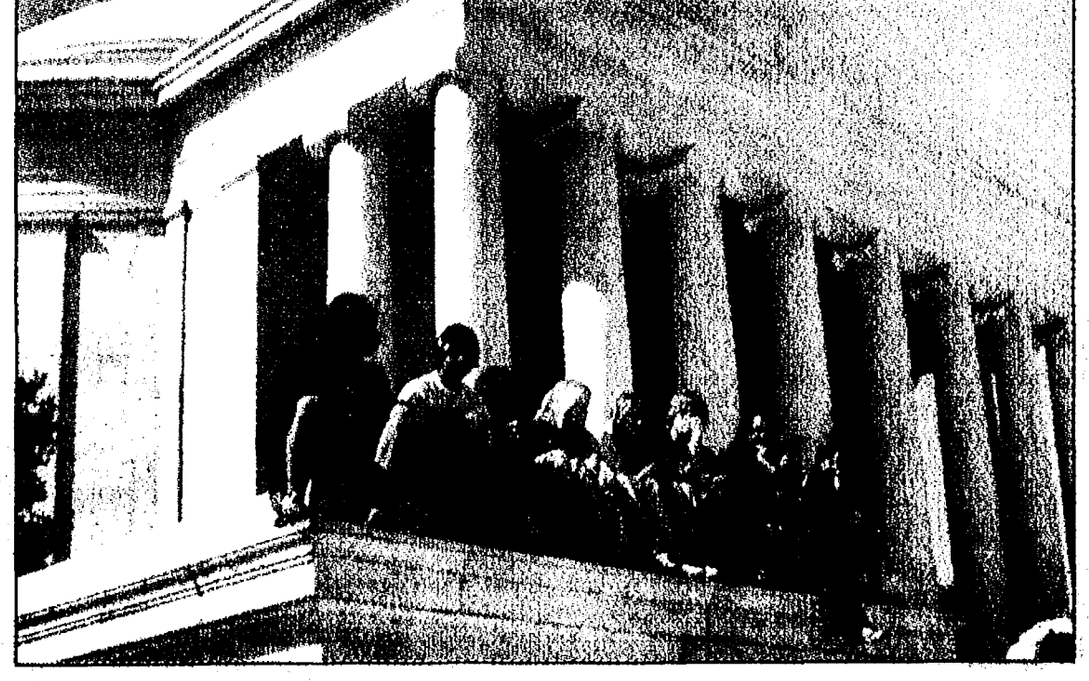

"The highlight of the trip for students would the Potomac Cruise, the Changing of the Guard at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, and T-shirt shopping outside of Ford's Theater," Morris said.

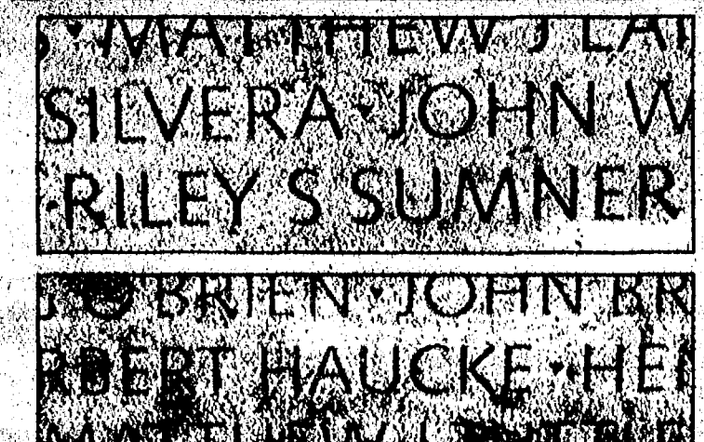

"The Holocaust Museum is always an emotional place to visit, and is a highlight for adults and students alike."

Students paid a special tribute to fallen Chelsea Police Chief Scott Sumner and Fire Capt. Matthew Tuttle by laying a wreath at the Law Enforcement Memorial.

OBITUARIES

Roland "Rolly" A. White
Chelsea

Roland "Rolly" A. White, a longtime resident of Chelsea, died Friday, June 6, 2008. He was 88 .

Rolly was born on March 13, 1920, in Durand, Mich. He was the son of Byron A. and Berneice (Fonger) Chubb. He attended school in Chelsea, graduated from Chelsea High School in 1939, and attended Ann Arbor Secretarial School. Rolly enlisted in the US Army in 1943, serving first in the 129th Cavalry Squadron, Fort Riley, Kan. then transferred to the Transportation Corps OCS in New Orleans, La., where he was commissioned as a 2nd Lieutenant. He was later stationed at the Port of Embarkation in New York City, N.Y., where he received his 1st Lieutenant Commission. He finished his tour of duty as a Transportation Service Officer aboard the US Army "Hagerstown Victory". Upon his discharge from the US Army, Rolly worked at Argus Cameras in Ann Arbor, while working part-time as an officer with the Chelsea Police Department. He retired from O&S Bearing and Manufacturing of Whitmore Lake in 1980.

On Dec. 12, 1942 he married Eunice Hart of Chelsea and she survives. Also surviving are his children, a daughter Sandra McClear of Chelsea, and a son John (Leone) White of Okemos; three grandchildren, Audra (Daniel) Lungo of Chelsea, Andrew (fiancée Susan Keuss) of St. Louis, Missouri, and Laura White of Chicago, Illinois; two great-grandchildren, Sean Lungo and Cassandra Lungo of Chelsea. Rolly was preceded in death by his parents, stepfather Clayton White, sister Lyndall White Ott, son-in-law, Michael McClear, a half-brother Leo Chubb, and a half-sister June Dennis.

The family will hold a small memorial service at St. Paul United Church of Christ. Memorial contributions may be made in Rolly's name to Arbor Hospice, 2366 Oak Valley Dr., Ann Arbor, MI 48103. Arrangements by Cole Funeral Chapel, Chelsea.

Virginia Valdeen Dietle "Ginny"

Chelsea

Virginia Valdeen Dietle "Ginny" of Chelsea passed away peacefully June 7, 2008 at the Chelsea Retirement Community, Towsley Village, with her loving family at her side. She was 83.

Ginny was born Virginia Valdeen Thayer on Aug. 6, 1924, the daughter of Buell and Grace (Schenk) Thayer, in Ann Arbor. She lived in Dearborn, graduating from Dearborn High in 1942, and then attended Eastern Michigan University. Ginny married Larry Dietle on Aug. 5, 1944 in Chelsea. They lived in Chelsea their entire married life except for two years during World War II. Ginny was a member of St. Paul's United Church of Christ and sang in the choir for 35 years. She was a Child Study Club Honorary and belonged to several bridge groups. Larry and Ginny started and operated MacDee, Inc. in Chelsea in 1964, retiring in 1988.

Ginny was preceded in death by her mother in 1954, and her husband of 58 years, Lawrence Dietle, in 2002. She is survived by her son David (Teresa) Dietle, of Australia, Joan (Ron) Howell and Carole (Gary) Zenz, all of Chelsea. In addition, she has five loving grandchildren: Laurie Wolfe, Carrie Dietle, Paul, Jeff, and Sarah Zenz, and three great-grandchildren: Elise, Carly and Trenton Wolfe. The family would like to thank the staff at both Towsley and Silver Maples for their compassionate care. Ginny was a loving and gentle wife, mother and grandmother. Her beauty and grace will be remembered and cherished by her family forever.

Funeral services were June 11 from the Staffan-Mitchell Funeral Home. Burial followed at Oak Grove Cemetery. Expressions of sympathy may be made to St. Paul United Church of Christ, Chelsea, or Arbor Hospice.

Laurence J. Watko
Chelsea

Laurence J. Watko of Chelsea passed away at home with his family by his side on May 31, 2008. He was 51.

He was born the son of Laurence P. and Mary (Dietzel) Watko on Oct. 9, 1956 in Washington D.C. On Aug. 9, 1986 in Stockbridge he married Karin Lindquist and she survives. Laurence loved the outdoors especially deer hunting with his sons and going to the Chelsea Rod and Gun Club. Family and friends were most important to him. In addition to his wife, he is survived by his two sons Joshua and Jeffery both of Chelsea as well as his mother of Englewood, Florida, his brother Michael Watko of Englewood, Fla., and his sisters Debra (John) Watson of California and Jennifer (Scott) Davis of Ramona, Calif. along with many nieces and nephews. The family will receive friends at the Chelsea Rod and Gun Club on June 14, 2008 from 1-4 p.m. Expressions of sympathy may be made to the Joshua and Jeffrey Watko College fund via Flag Star bank. Arrangements are by the Staffan-Mitchell funeral home.

Richard W. "Dick" Lucas
Dexter

Richard W. "Dick" Lucas of Dexter died peacefully on May 22, 2008 at his daughter's home in Dexter.

Mr. Lucas was born on Oct. 2, 1938 in Rochester, NY and spent most of his adult life in the Dexter-Chelsea area. Most of his working years were spent as an autobody painter. This last year, he fought a courageous battle with lung cancer. As bad as it got, he never lost his sense of humor. Without a doubt anyone who knew him, has a story to tell! Those close to him knew that he loved life and those that were in his.

He is survived by his four children: Terry (Toni) Lucas, Jody (Gary) Wojnar, Rick (Denee) Lucas and Regina (Scott) Bell. His three stepchildren: Ken Byers, Kim (Bill) Haworth and Kelly (Paul) Akeo. He was very proud of his 16 grandchildren: Michael, Will, Tiffany, Tricia, Brittany, Shelby, Tyler, Ian, Lucas, McKenna, Julia, Jonathon, Cross, Joseph, Finnegan and Elliott. One great-granddaughter, Alaina and a great-grandson due in August. He will be forever missed by his dear friend, Joan Lucas. He is preceded in death by his parents, five siblings and his grandson, Justin.

A memorial luncheon was planned for June 7 in Dexter. Memorial contributions can be made to Arbor Hospice, for the wonderful care they provided to Dick and his entire family.

Holton H. Knisely
Chelsea

Holton H. Knisely of Chelsea and formerly of Dexter passed away Monday, June 2, 2008 at the Chelsea Retirement Community. He was 91.

He was born on June 12, 1916 in Channing, Mich., the son of Holton and Myrtle (Hagerman) Knisely. Mr. Knisely had lived in the area since 1929. He was a member of North Lake United Methodist Church and owned and operated K and E Screw Products Company for 23 years. Bird watching, reading, playing the harmonica, woodworking, and planting all kinds of trees he truly enjoyed. He also did missionary work in Ecuador.

For nearly 72 years he was married to Mildred E. Noah, and she preceded him in death just only seven days ago. May they both rest in peace.

Surviving are four children, Lorna (Harold "James") Eberts of Tawas City, David (Janet) Knisely of Chelsea, Eric (Beth Ann) Knisely of Dexter and Beth Emilie (Michael) Folts of Grass Lake; eight grandchildren, and fourteen great-grandchildren; one sister, Saralu (Gordon) Chamberlain of Lansing; and his loyal dog Twinkle. He was also preceded in death by two sisters, Bertha Bachrach and Rhoda Knisely.

A memorial service was June 5, 2008 at the Towsley Chapel, Chelsea Retirement Community. Mr. Knisely's funeral was Friday, June 6, 2008 at North Lake United Methodist Church. Burial was at North Lake Cemetery.

Expressions of sympathy can be made to the North Lake United Methodist Church Building Fund.

Margaret Bernidene Visel
Chelsea

Margaret Bernidene Visel of Chelsea passed away Friday, June 6, 2008 at the Chelsea Retirement Community, Towsley Village. She was 89.

She was born on Nov. 25, 1918 in Chelsea, the daughter of William and Margaret (Null) Birch. She was a member of St. Mary Catholic Church in Chelsea, also belonging to- the Alter Society.

Surviving are her sister-in-law, Harriet Birch, as well as many nieces and nephews, great-nieces and great-nephews, and great-great-nieces and great-great-nephews. She was preceded in death by her husband, L. Frank Visel, three brothers, James, William, and Louis Birch, and two sisters, Cecilia Neal and Mary Ritter.

Funeral services were June 10, 2008 from St. Mary Catholic Church, Chelsea with Rev. Dr. William J. Turner presiding. Burial followed at Mt. Olivet Cemetery, Chelsea. Expressions of sympathy can be made to St. Mary Catholic Church.

Robert Jesse Kauffman
Lake Geneva, Wisc.

Robert Jesse Kauffman of Lake Geneva, Wisc. passed away peacefully at home on June 5, 2008. He was 82.

The son of Jesse Strine Kauffman and Ann McCurdy MacKenzie Kauffman, Bob was born in Detroit on May 27, 1926. He served in World War II in the Army Air Corps. Upon his release he attended and graduated from the University of Michigan with a B.A. in Business Administration in 1950.

He married Nancy Winifred Zvingilas. Living for many years in Plymouth, Bob was employed by Packaging Corporation of America, and later by Down River Forest Products Division of Greif Brothers Corporation. He served in sales, and later as vice-president on the board of directors of Greif Brothers, and also as a manufacturer's representative for the company. Like his father and grandfather, Bob held several patents on his own inventions. Bob was a self starter with many unique talents and lived life to its fullest. In 1982, with no formal training Bob designed his own home in Chelsea serving as his own general contractor. On the property stood a barn which Bob had removed from an old farm and reconstructed himself. The home was built using many architectural antiques. He was an emphatic University of Michigan football fan, an enthusiastic golfer, and in his later years took up fly-fishing. In 1994, Bob and Nancy moved to Lake Geneva, Wisc.

Perhaps Bob's greatest and most prolific years were his last ten. After six years of research, in 2004, at the age of 78, Bob published his first book on genealogy, tracing his roots back to 1100. In 2006, he published a second book about his boyhood years in Ann Arbor. In 2004, he began to teach himself to sketch, producing hundreds of sketches, many of which appeared in his books.

In the fall of 2007, at the age of 81, despite being afflicted with ALS, Bob began to market his sketches, one of which won a Blue Ribbon at the Walworth County Fair in Wisconsin.

He was a brave and courageous man until the end and will be greatly missed by the family he loved so much.

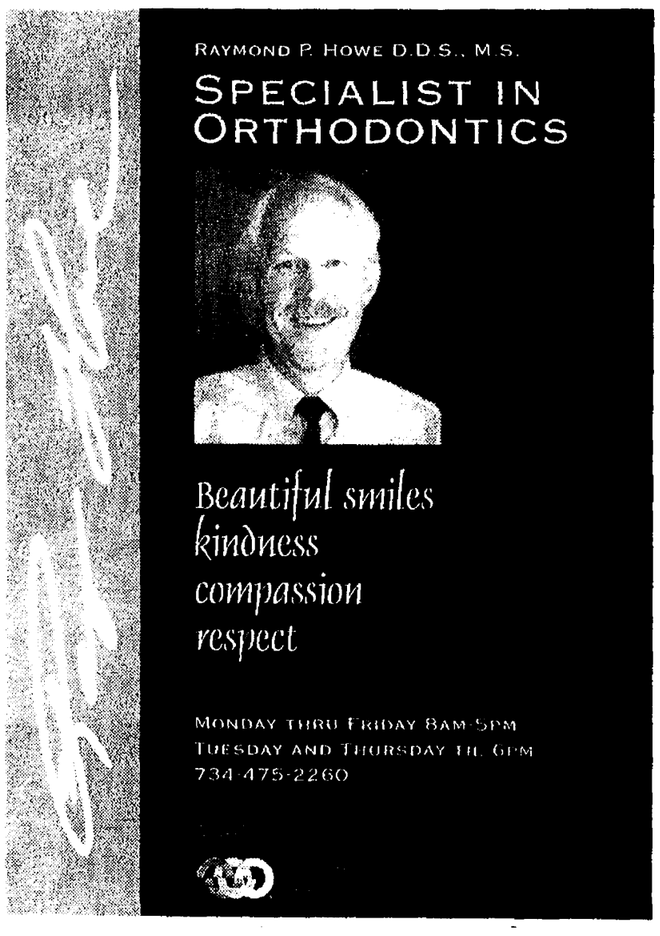

Survivors include his wife Nancy, daughters Cheryl Kowalski of Wheaton, Ill. and Lynn Behlhig of Sebastopol, Calif., his son Douglas Kauffman of Denver, Col., and his four grandchildren, Amy, Andrew, Elliott and Dillon. The youngest of his five siblings, he was he last survivor.

The Kauffman family received visitors June 9, 2008 at the Haase-Derrick-Lockwood Funeral Home in Lake Geneva, Wisc.

A funeral service was held June 10 in the Chapel of the funeral home with the Reverend Gene Trieglaff officiating. Burial followed in East Delavan Cemetery in Delavan Township, Wisc.

In lieu of other expressions of sympathy memorials are requested in Robert's name to: V.N.A Hospice of Lake Geneva, 500 Interchange North, Lake Geneva, WI 53147.

HERITAGE MINT

18/0 FORGED STAINLESS STEEL FLATWARE

The forged construction superior to customary stamped flatware, produces durable, high-quality utensils that maintain perfect shape and beauty over time. Striking the mold with a heavy weight compresses the metal's molecular structure, resulting in a thick, dense, resilient character and greater edge retention.

Prepare to experience exquisite, stainless steel flatware that will never bend while you dine. Buffed and polished several times, our forks are carefully finished, resulting in exceptionally smooth tines. Heritage Mint spoons are skillfully rolled and graded to provide maximum strength, comfort, and balance.

Each piece of Heritage Mint Flatware undergoes a 14-Step Polishing System that ensures a mirror finish and shine for years of enjoyment. 18% Chromium is incorporated into the flatware, providing resistance to rust, exceptional weight and balance, and increased durability.
