Commercial updates

Several development projects in flux

 By Edward Freundl
Staff Writer

City planning officials have weighed in on several commercial developments that are pending in Chelsea, leaving the next steps more or less up to the developers.

Walgreens

The original site plan Walgreens submitted to the Planning Commission has undergone major changes, according to Chairman George Kinzer.

"We have had one formal presentation from Walgreens before the commission and it has been substantially amended," Kinzer said.

"It may come before us at the next meeting or the meeting after that."

The original plan called for a pharmacy building of approximately 17,000 square feet on Old US-12 west of South Main Street, currently occupied by The Chelsea Standard and The Wolverine Food & Spirits.

The commission sent the plan back for changes in parking and other details.

Walgreens responded earlier this month with a proposed purchase of the Rich gas station at Old 12 and Main Street and another parcel west of the newspaper office, giving them enough space for a second building.

"Walgreens optioned the gas station and the parcel next to Thompson's Pizza," said city Planning and Zoning Administrator Jim Drolett.

"Now it's not just a Walgreens but a separate 7200-square-foot building, and the plan submitted for review was for retail/restaurant."

The newest plan was submitted the first week of September and will go before the Planning Commission on Oct. 21.

The clock is running on the Walgreens proposal.

Drolett added: "If the Planning Commission approves the preliminary site plan in October, they could submit a final site

Shopping center slow to come back to life

 By Edward Freundl
Staff Writer

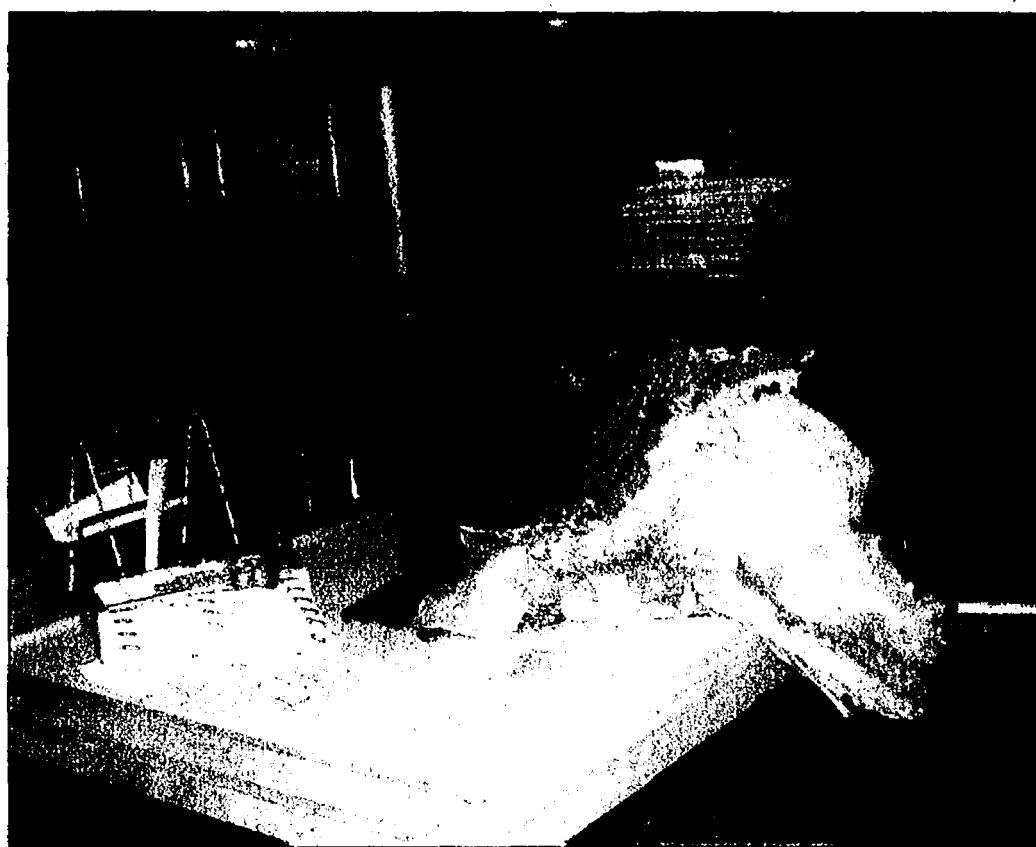

It's been nearly five months since a fire devastated the Chelsea Shopping Center on May 5, damaging seven businesses and shutting six of them down temporarily.

Rivaling the massive effort by firefighters to save the structure from the flames, an equally intensive effort has been made to get the doors open again.

Immediately following the fire, several merchants said they would reopen in a matter of weeks or perhaps August at the latest, but there are still some significant hurdles to clear before that will be possible.

Doug Sills, a partner in the shopping center's "landlord," First Holding Management Co. of West Bloomfield, said the owners of the property are "deeply committed" to returning the shopping center to full activity as soon as commercially viable.

"The owners are deeply commit-

One of the ways they are doing that is by updating the design of the building by bringing the

CCF awards $4,000 to fund discussion series

The Chelsea Community Foundation, an affiliate fund of the Community Foundation for Southeast Michigan, awarded $4,000 to the Chelsea Senior Citizens Activities Center for a discussion series that will examine great books that have been made into films.

The project, conducted in partnership with the McKune Memorial Library, will feature films based on books that recount major historical events addressing the challenges of society.

"It is exciting to once again partner with Bill Harmer and the rest of the staff at the McKune Library on a project that will actively involve seniors in Chelsea. We appreciate the support of the Chelsea Community Foundation and their confidence in us to carry out this work," said Tina Patterson, executive director, Chelsea Senior Citizens Activities Center.

A public survey will be conducted to select the four books that will be shown on four Saturdays designated as "Saturday Night at the Movies." The senior center will engage Dr. Gregory Summer, professor and chair of the department of history at the University of Detroit — Mercy, to facilitate a series of discussions on the historical significance and social relevance of the books, as well as their value as films.

The Chelsea Senior Citizens Activities Center promotes, encourages and organizes activities to address the physical, social and emotional concerns of area senior citizens and their families, primarily those who reside within the Chelsea School District.

The Chelsea Community Foundation is a permanent charitable endowment fund that provides an ongoing source of revenue for worthwhile programs and activities in the Chelsea community. Founded in December 1995, the Chelsea Community Foundation is a $2 million permanent charitable endowment and has awarded more than $675,000 in grants.

SVS Saline Veterinary Service

Dr. James Romine brings his two best friends to work with him every day. D.J. and Boomer are Dr. Romine's dogs and they fit right in at Saline Veterinary Service, where pets and animals always come first.

The practice, conveniently located on Keveling Drive, just off Michigan Ave in Saline, offers a full range of health care services for large and small animals from three dedicated doctors and a dozen caring support staff members.

Dr. Romine has been practicing in Saline for 20 years, working out of the present office for eight years.

He is joined by Dr. Cindy Rushbrook and Dr. Amy Howard, all graduates of Michigan State University.

Dr. Rushbrook has been with the practice for 14 years. Dr. Howard joined the office in May and is a native of Kentucky.

Dr. Romine has worked with domestic pets and large animals; including horses, cows, buffalo, alpacas, goats and llamas. He is currently the vet for the horses at the Michigan Ability Center and for Therapeutic Riding, Inc., two groups that offer riding as therapy. He cares for the buffalo at Domino Farms and visits Alpaca farms to keep local llamas healthy.

Giving Back

Patients and visitors to Saline Veterinary Service will undoubtedly meet Jasmine, the resident feline who was brought in eight years ago as a stray with an injury. She is now the mascot for an ongoing charity effort at the practice called, "The Jasmine Fund." Donations and proceeds from an annual fund-raiser help strays and pet owners who can't easily afford necessary surgeries or care. Last year, staff and supporters raised over $1,500.

Welcome Dr. Howard!

Amy L. Howard, D.V.M. joined Saline Veterinary Service in May, after graduating from the College of Veterinary Medicine at Michigan State University, one of the world's premiere vet schools. She earned her bachelor's degree from Morehead State University in Morehead, Kentucky, her home state. She brings a passion and energy to the practice for preventative pet care and is knowledgeable about aging issues. "Cats and dogs need supplements for joint and skin health, just like humans." Dr. Howard's expertise in cutting-edge veterinary medicine and her enthusiasm for the community are a very welcome addition, said Dr. Romine.

Everyday care

The veterinarians perform emergency and routine surgeries while working with pet owners to keep their animals healthy through annual wellness examinations.

Pets age faster than people, said Dr. Rushbrook, so it's important that animals have routine screenings. Allergies and obesity are conditions that affect pets more now than ever.

The staff can provide the most up-to-date information on the best vaccinations, foods, products and screenings available to keep pets healthier longer.

The office boasts some of the most advanced equipment and procedures to serve small and large animals.

A portable x-ray unit including a processor and digital monitor allows the vets to provide an immediate diagnosis at the farm or home.

In the operating room, the very highest standard of anesthetic is used, something Dr. Howard is passionate about. "We are proud to offer the same quality of anesthetics that would be used on humans. It is safer and easier for the animals."

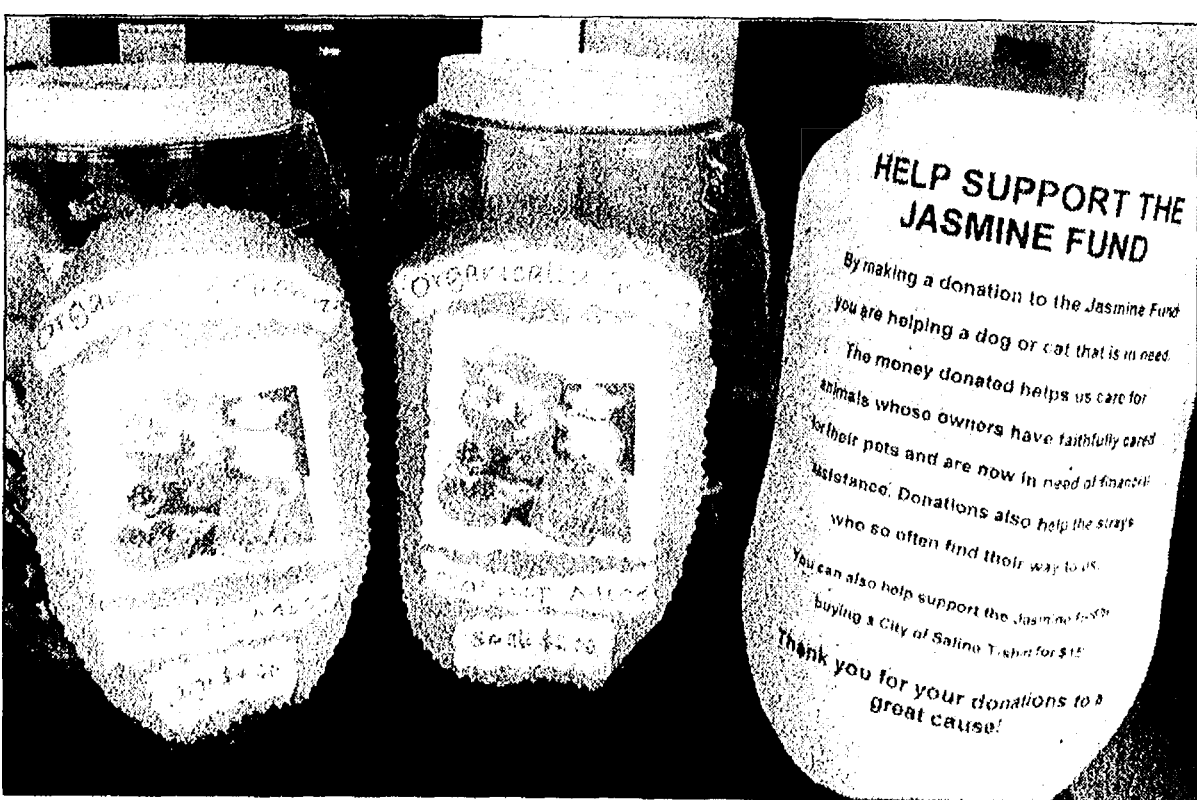

Also, the doctors pride themselves on using the most thorough monitoring for pre and post-op treatment. Including surgical monitoring, surgical laser & Penn Hip Certification. With an in-house lab for blood work and an ultrasound, the practice truly can offer animals owner comprehensive care.

Help give back

On November 15, Saline Veterinary Service will hold a dog wash for the annual fund-raiser. Call 429-9778 to volunteer or for more information. The office is also affiliated with the Zimmer Foundation and performs hundreds spaying and neutering surgeries each year for the strays and feral cats saved by the local charity.

The clinic is open every day but Sunday, though there is always a vet on call to handle after-hour emergencies.

Historical Society presents Cemetery Tour fund-raiser on Oct. 11

This year's Chelsea Area Historical Society Cemetery Tour fund-raiser is from 4 to 6 p.m. on Oct. 11 at the Oak Grove Cemetery. Tickets are $10.

There will be a hayride, walking tours, and a couple of golf carts for those who need them. The Chelsea Area Historical Society has done the historical research into 10 people that are buried there.

"This year we will have 10 high school students acting as the people buried there and giving a brief speech of who he/she was and what they did in Chelsea when they were alive," said Tom Diab of the CAHS.

One of those featured will be George Glazier.

George P. Glazier was born in 1841 at Erie County, N.Y. He came to Parma, Michigan in 1846. His father died when he was 13 and George had to leave school and support the family. He worked at a drug store and demonstrated his strong character.

Even though he worked late hours, he woke up each morning at 4 a.m. and studied books about business. In 1861 he married Emily Stimson.

They had three children, two girls and a boy, Frank.

George I entered pharmacy school in New York and became a pharmacist. He returned to Parma and soon after moved to Chelsea in 1868 to start a pharmacy and bank, the first in Chelsea.

In 1877 he ran another drugstore called the Busy Beehive. In 1881 George sold his interest in the pharmacy to his son Frank and focused on the banking business in Chelsea and in Stockbridge. He was also one of the first businesses in Chelsea to offer phone service.

In 1882 George renamed his bank the Chelsea Savings Bank making it the town's first state bank and one of the first state banks in Michigan.

He worked as a cashier until his final days. George Glazier worked hard to make this bank stable and successful.

George Glazier died in Chelsea at the age of 60 in 1901.

plan in November or December; January is probably the latest for final site plan approval.

Federal Screw Works

The hotly debated plan for redeveloping the former Federal Screw Works site on South Main Street is still several months from becoming reality.

Developer Rene Papo of Magellan Properties faces many regulatory hurdles before he can begin to convert the former factory site into mixed commercial and residential use.

"The only thing the Planning Commission has done is approve an area plan," Drolett pointed out.

"He needed to know the area plan so he knew how much brownfield area he would need to remediate."

That must be approved by the Downtown Development Authority, the City Council, the Washtenaw County Brownfield Authority, the County Commission, and finally the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality.

"(Papo) is in the midst of a very complex process," Kinzer said. "That process is the best part of a year at least to have everything done."

The Village Plaza

(a.k.a. Old Polly's)

Across the corner from the proposed Walgreens development, the former Polly's supermarket has stood vacant since the store moved farther down Main Street about four years ago, but remains in the hands of the Kennedy family of Jackson.

Spokesman Shawn Kennedy recently concluded negotiations with the U.S. Postal Service to relocate the Chelsea Post Office in the building, but it would occupy only about 7,000 of the store's approximately 30,000 square feet.

"Kennedy has submitted plans showing a future post office area and three other retail spaces, two of which appear to be spoken for," Drolett reported.

"That's as far as it's gotten, officially."

Kinzer confirmed that no plans for the property have come before the commission, but "may be in the pipeline."

"We've had some prior discussions on the site, but nothing new," Kinzer said.

Planting the seeds of safety in farm workers

By Edward Freundl
Staff Writer

This is National Farm Safety Week in the United States, dedicated to raising awareness among farmers of the dangers associated with their livelihood.

With hundreds of deaths and tens of thousands of injuries reported every year nationwide, every farm worker must keep safety uppermost in their minds.

That's how it works at the Fusilier Family Farm and Greenhouses in Manchester Township.

"Only people with experience are allowed to run the equipment - it makes it easier on us," said Mike Fusilier.

"The kids think the tractors are cool, but they are the low man on the totem pole when they're hired, so they do a lot of the work by hand at first."

Kathy Fusilier agreed. "We tell them to be safe and be smart; if they get hurt it takes all the fun out of it," she said.

Mike added: "If they are not sure how to do something I want them to come to us and ask; it only takes a minute."

With all the young people who work on the farm, especially during the summer, Kathy takes the perspective of a mother of three.

"There's no fooling around here, if they fool around they're busted - and that includes my own kids," she said.

"We hire a lot of kids and they become friends with our kids; it's like a big family. You want to protect them and look out for them."

Mike said the hard work can sometimes take its toll and care must be taken to minimize mistakes being made.

"The worst part is when you work a long day and a long week, you're tired and that's when you need to call it a day before somebody gets hurt," he said.

Mike Fusilier demonstrates how dangerous it can be to perform normal maintenance on an older combine. Newer machines have a number of safety features, he noted.

About a mile down Sharon Hollow Road, Mike's parents Chuck and Marilyn Fusilier have another 150 acres or so that is used to grow corn, green beans and other crops for Mike and Kathy's produce operation.

The beautifully restored 1860s-era brick farmhouse gives way to meticulously kept barns, granaries and storage sheds.

This is where Chuck keeps his 1974 John Deere combine, almost small by modern standards but plenty big enough for the Fusiliers' needs.

The combine is in need of some work and the front unit is perched precariously on wooden blocks in the back yard.

Mike crawls under the machine to point out the somewhat inconvenient location of the lubrication points.

As he sits on the ground with his back against the tires and his legs straddling the supports, it's easy to imagine a dreadful tragedy unfolding if he suddenly made a wrong move.

He scrambles out from under the rig and points out the exposed belts and wheels on the side.

"The grease cups are underneath and the bearings are up underneath where the shaft goes across," he said.

"On the new combines none of this stuff is exposed,

Scary statistics

In 2007, 715 deaths and 80,000 disabling injuries in the United States were attributed to agriculture.

The 2006 national death rate for farmers and farm employees was 28 in 100,000, according to the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The 2006 injury rate for farmers and farm employees was 6 in 100.

With agriculture continuing to be one of the most dangerous occupations in the world, the National Safety Council annually shines a spotlight on farming and ranching during National Farm Safety and Health Week, Sept. 21-27.

This year's theme is "Farm Safety - Protect Your Investment."

Agriculture's death rate ranks first among all occupations, according to the U.S. Department of Labor.

Mining ranks second with 27 work deaths per 100,000 employees and construction is third with 10 deaths per 100,000 workers.

FB Safety Seminar

Lenawee and Washtenaw County Farm Bureaus sponsored a one-day seminar on Feb. 12 in Clinton to increase the awareness of local farmers to hazards they might face in their operations.

Craig Anderson of Michigan Farm Bureau and Deb Chester of Michigan State University presented several examples of accidents on farms.

A major emphasis was on tractor rollovers, which are one of the most frequent accidents.

The presenters emphasized the importance of doing an annual inspection of your farm to identify potential hazards and hopefully develop a plan to remove them before an accident happens.

Lenawee, Monroe and Washtenaw Conservation Districts Groundwater Technician Amy Gilhouse joined Clinton Fire Chief Dennis Keezer and Manchester Township Fire Chief Bill Scully in assisting local farmers to complete Farm Emergency Preparedness Plans.

The plans help to prepare a farm family in the event of an emergency and help to protect first responders in the event of an agricultural emergency.

Fire chiefs want all farms to complete such a plan. For more information about completing a Farm Emergency Plan contact Amy Gilhouse at 517-673-1655 or talk with your local fire chief.

Two more worthwhile reasons to visit your local Farmers' Market

Shelia Jager's business is called Natural Aroma Blessings. She makes aromatherapy candles using plant wax, cotton wicks, pure essential oils and no chemicals. She says the candles have therapeutic values because of the medicinal properties which are in the essential oils. Many massage therapists and spas purchase her candles. The orange and lemongrass variety is described as sweet, radiant, energetic, uplifting and refreshing. She has seven varieties and the best selling one is bergnot lime.

"Saints Preserve Us" owners Michael and Linda Clnansmith are selling homemade jams, jellies, relishes, salsa, bean salad and peppers. Their biggest seller is garlic lime jelly which can be used as a marinade, glaze for chicken beef and pork. It has also been used in soups and salad dressing. They sell their homemade products at the Bridgewater, Chelsea and Manchester markets.

recessed storefronts closer to the main walkway and modernizing the appearance of the front facade.

"We're going to make some design changes, make the spaces even more attractive and accessible; and at no cost to the current tenants," Sills said.

That was one cause of the delay in rebuilding; the redesign had to go be approved by the city Planning Commission.

"What they are proposing to do is to come out so that the frontage of those retail units are in line with the right and left," explained Planning Commission Chairman George Kinzer.

"It was a sufficiently large enough addition that it changes the footprint of the building and they had to come before us for an amended plan."

That plan was OK'd by the commission on Sept. 16.

"Part of it was structural, part was aesthetic," said Chelsea Zoning and Planning Administrator Jim Drolett.

Some aspects of the construction met the building code when it was built but no longer meet current code requirements for reconstruction, he added.

"It's only about 1,800 square feet, but there are probably more façade changes coming."

Another part of the delay was in trying to straighten out the numerous insurance claims.

"We are investing our own dollars and the insurance dollars back into the center," said Sills.

"When there are so many different merchants, every merchant has their own insurer and every insurer had to sign off on the plans, and that took some time."

"The time frame will vary on the permitting process, construction, and weather," Sills added.

"Hopefully we'll be turning the spaces over to the merchants by Feb. 1 or before, then they're going to need time to move in and reinventory."

That likely won't sit well with many of the tenants, especially those who were counting on seasonal traffic to get them back on a paying basis.

Jim Mumma, owner of Liberty Tax Service, said he was told that construction was supposed to start Oct. 1, and anticipated he could return in December.

"That's kind of critical; I hope they keep that deadline because I already missed my fall tax class to evaluate people's tax situations," Mumma said last week.

He is earning income through another full-time job, but is eager to get back to his tax practice.

"I certainly intend to get back there and reopen, and make my service available to people in Chelsea," Mumma said.

He added that he is grateful for the support of the community in the aftermath of the fire.

"I was very impressed with how the community came out to assist, everybody was just terrific," he said. "I even got a call from a banker at TCF offering to let me use a conference room if I needed it."

Mumma also assured his clients that their records have always been safe, by being stored in a secure off-site location.

Owners of the Chelsea Grille also hoped to be open for the holiday shopping crowd.

"The prospective reopen date is December or January; we hope to be open for the holidays," General Manager Rob Hohnke said recently.

He has managed to keep a positive attitude throughout this trying time.

"I told my boss I had a dream that we reopened and were as busy as we ever were," Hohnke said.

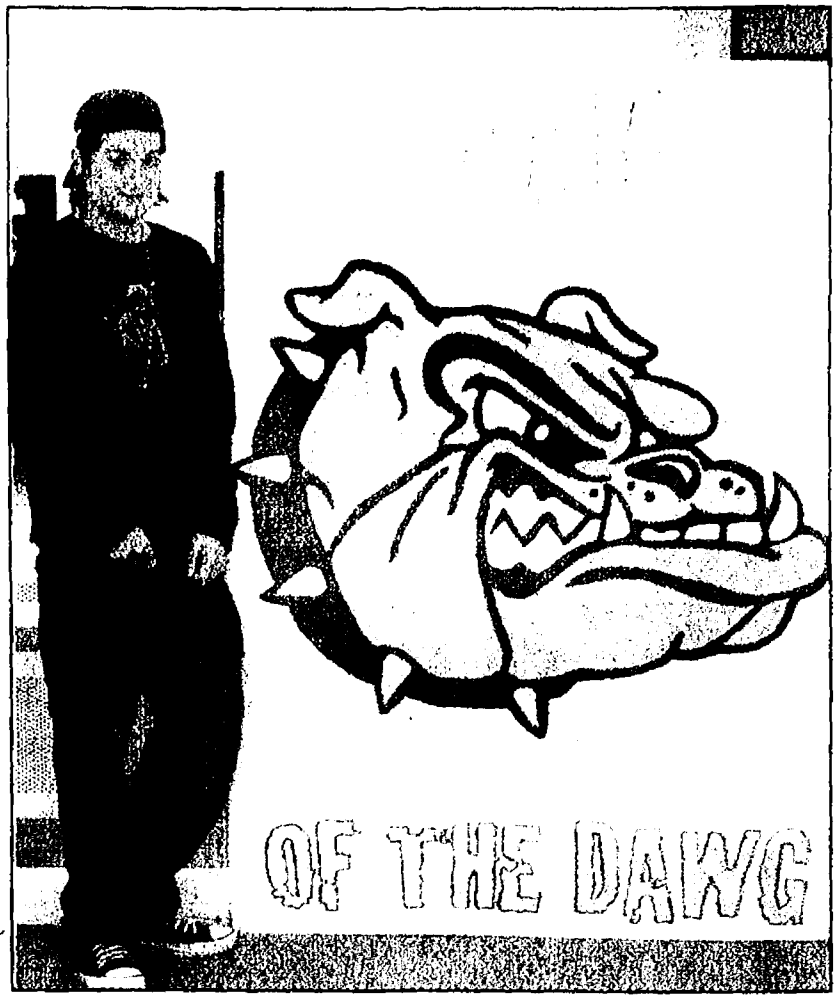

"It's been a big learning process. I didn't think I'd ever have to go through something like this, but I've learned so much."

He has tried to keep track of his employees, most of whom have found other jobs since the fire, because "I want those familiar faces back."

Agricultural Labor & Safety Services offer safety programs

Contract safety program services are now available to local farmers through Agricultural Labor & Safety Services (ALSS), formerly the Regulatory Compliance Assistance Program.

Through a grant to Michigan Farm Bureau from the Department of Labor & Economic Growth, ALSS will offer free Farm Safety Seminars this winter and spring.

This year the focus will be: Evaluating Preparedness and Response Principles, Hazard Assessment, Emergency Plan Elements, Farm Fatality Assessment, Tractor Overturns: Prevention and Protection, ATVs as Tractors, Respirator Issues for Pesticides and other Chemicals and Rules of the Road.

Of these topic areas, each Safety Seminar will be pertinent to local crops and issues such as transportation, electrical, large equipment, bin entry/confined space, pesticide use, local first responder training, written safety plans, and many other available topics.

Two pesticide applicator recertification core credits for commercial and private applicators will be offered for the three-hour seminars.

The full-service programs provide safety and facility surveys, documented safety programs, consulting on many regulatory issues, and employee/management training.

These programs have a proven record of reducing injuries across all industries and can provide significant reductions in insurance costs.

ALSS provides subscription labor, safety, environmental, and regulatory information programs.

The Farm Manual For

Michigan Farmers provides a comprehensive review of state and federal labor and labor related to regulatory material.

The RCAP Newsletter provides detailed information on regulatory management issues.

Additional safety, documentation and compliance materials are available. Panelized vinyl Labor Postings are available including agricultural specific postings.

so you can't catch your fingers on it. The nice thing about the newer equipment is, there's so many safety features."

Walking around to the back of the rig, he climbs up and wriggles inside a compartment with a conveyor surrounded by wickedly jagged, sharp blades.

"You're always listening for things going wrong," Mike said, "but the new ones have all kinds of alarms and buzzers."

He walks to the side of one of the barns to a grain auger, which is one of the more dangerous pieces of equipment on a farm.

It is a spiral screw encased in a long tube. One end attaches to a tractor's power take-off (PTO) unit, which spins the screw and carries grain up the tube to be deposited into a cart, silo or trailer.

Even with a metal guard, it is still possible to insert fingers within reach of the exposed screw – and lose them faster than one's reflexes can react.

Another possible danger is at the drying bin, similar to a silo but with a perforated metal floor through which air is blown to reduce the moisture content of grain stored inside.

This utilizes two augers, to move the grain both vertically and horizontally to balance out the drying process.

Once in a while, though, the mechanism jams.

"If you have to go up in there to fix it, you don't do it alone," Mike warned.

"You tie a rope to yourself and have someone outside holding it. You can get sucked right up in there if it's moving."

It's still all about lack of trust

Everyone craves predictability in their lives, which is why trust in relationships is so important. You want to know that if you do "x," "y" will happen and not "z."

Tim Skubick

Barack Obama would trust Tina Fey, or Sarah Palin, to put lipstick on his pig. He would not trust her with the atomic bomb black box.

The good folks in Lansing are suffering through another bout of lack of trust ... the same malaise that engulfed lawmakers and the governor last year and placed them on a collision course with history: a rare shutdown of state government.

Here we go again. The stakes are not nearly as high, but the lack of trust still is.

Last week Gov. Jennifer Granholm confidently told correspondents that a deal on a new energy package was close at hand.

But her GOP dancing partner was not waltzing to the same tune. Sen. Mike Bishop informed everyone that Granholm's announcement was "news to me."

The disagreement is nothing new to them. This is the same couple that last year, during the contentious and brutal debate over raising taxes, had big-time trust issues. On two occasions, Granholm walked out of negotiations to announce a deal and Bishop said, "What deal?"

The trust thing is not unique to these two. It's all over the joint. House Democrats don't trust House and Senate Republicans and vice versa. House Democrats are even a little shaky on predicting what their own governor will do.

On energy, for example, some Dems are worried Granholm wants a deal so badly that she will sell them out to get it.

Lack of trust is pervasive in the lobby corps. One veteran confides that if a lawmaker says he or she will vote yes on a bill, you're never sure until you see the green light on the voting board.

And yes, there is even a lack of trust among newshounds who cover this town. Years ago, if the chairman of a committee told you a bill would pass, by God it did.

Now you would be foolish to report such a predication because the story changes six ways from Sunday before you get on the air or into print.

There is this lack of trust, in part, because House members are up for re-election. A yes vote on the energy thing could end up being used against that lawmaker.

It's already happened in Muskegon, where the GOP challenger is running ads against the incumbent Democrat. The Republican says the Democrat voted to raise monthly utility bills, which she did, but there is an explanation. But that will never find its way into the commercial.

The fact is the state will at some point need more energy. You can buy it from other states like we do with foreign oil or you can make it cheaper in your own back yard. Either way, the cost will go up.

It's an issue ripe for political exploitation and lots of lawmakers are scared their careers will be over. However, once more saving one's neck trumps doing what may be best for the public.

Lack of trust is an ugly thing to behold.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor: There is no way our family can begin to thank everyone for what they have done over the last few weeks in our time of loss. No matter what anyone says this is a great community and we have the best friends in the whole world.

Your support and prayers have really made this unbearable time a little more bearable. When is the last time the rock was left painted for two weeks, what a tribute!

Thank you! But this isn't about thank-you's, it's about parents connecting with your kids and students respecting your parents enough so this doesn't happen again. Parents, as much as we don't want to admit it, our kids are out there partying, thinking that nothing is going to happen to them.

PLEASE talk to them and tell them it's ok to call you for a ride home. Or establish a relationship with someone else they are comfortable with to call. Students, PLEASE designate a driver! And if for some reason no one can take that responsibility call someone to give you a ride home. Call me if you have to, I would much rather get a call in the middle of the night to give someone a ride home than to receive another phone call like I did on Saturday morning, Sept. 6.

We as a community have suffered too much tragedy, please let's make sure we do not have to do this again, it is way too hard. And if you haven't heard me yet, WEAR YOUR SEATBELTS!

XOXO to all of you
Sue Doug Austin and Alyssa Rodgers

To the Editor: During the Chelsea Fair Parade on Aug. 23, our congress member Tim Walberg paused for a moment and stopped walking with his supporters to point down at something. Horses had preceded him, leaving their droppings on Main Street.

The congressman smiled, changed course, and kept marching on.

Mr. Walberg may have avoided soiling his shoes, but his party, the Republicans, have really stepped in it. With the backing of anti-regulation groups like Club for Growth, which paid handsomely into the campaigns two years ago against Mr. Walberg's opponents (remember those flyers in our mailboxes? paid for by Club for Growth?), the Republicans in charge of Congress, between 1994 and 2006 canceled laws designed to protect people like us from the abuses of the bankers, investment houses, and financial services industry.

Now that Mr. Walberg's friends have taken their quick profits, they point to a crisis and ask you and me the taxpayers, and our children and grandchildren, to foot the bill by taking on their bad debts. While they laugh all the way to the bank.

Vote for Tim Walberg? I don't think so.

Our take

'No excuse voting' initiative makes sense

Senate Bill 12 seems harmless enough. Basically, it would allow registered voters to obtain an absentee ballot without having to give a reason. Currently, people who cannot vote at the polls on Election Day must give a reason to receiving an absentee ballot. They may be unable to physically go to the polls, or they may be out of town on that day.

Senior citizens, however, are an exception and may obtain an absentee ballot merely by requesting one.

State Sen. Gilda Jacobs, D-Huntington Woods, favors the proposal, which has been termed the "No Excuses Voting" initiative.

"Voting is a basic and essential right and we should be doing all that we can to accommodate every single citizen that wants to exercise that right," Jacobs has said. "It's just good government."

She says the law would eliminate the need for some voters to "fib" to receive an absentee ballot. However, Republican party officials have expressed concerns.

"We don't think it's necessary," says Bill Nowling, Michigan Republican Party spokesman. "Proponents haven't put forth any reason why we need to change the law and there is no evidence as to if it will increase voter participation."

Nowling also said there are concerns about the integrity of the process and opening up more chances of cheating.

Oakland County Clerk Ruth Johnson says the bill would increase local clerks' duties, particularly before an election, but their organization supports it. Also, she says, the bill would make election days easier for them.

We believe, as many people do, that it is a citizen's right and obligation to cast his ballot in all local, state and national elections.

An important consideration is that the bill is supported by local clerks, who will have to deal directly with the people and the absentee ballots.

Certainly, voter fraud is a major concern. Detroit, for example, has encountered more than its fair share of problems with absentee ballots over the years.

Will the change in the law make the situation

www.USA.gov

It's the place to go for official information

By JIM WILLIAMS

There was a time when getting official information from the federal government felt a little like old-time prospecting. It took lots of time, sifting and patience just for the possibility of uncovering a few gold nuggets.

These days, the best link between government and citizen is www.USA.gov. That's not the creators and managers of the site speaking; it's Time magazine, which rated USA.gov one of the 25 Web sites "we can't live without," and the Brookings Institution, which recently named USA.gov the best government site.

Interestingly, USA.gov is a product of the U.S. General Services Administration, best known as the government's procurement arm and landlord. GSA's traditional job has been to provide goods and services at best value to other agencies so they can focus squarely on their core missions.

USA.gov, to our great delight, has helped redefine the GSA mission. We're also pleased that Brookings rated our agency Web site, www.gsa.gov, as the third best site in the federal government. Expanded content, improved navigation and a customized search engine have all made gsa.gov more valuable and user friendly. Popular topics include government per diem rates and forms, how businesses can get on the GSA schedule, and how to buy surplus federal property.

One of the greatest challenges for government in any generation is figuring out how to use technology to better serve citizens.

This has the obvious practical benefit of disseminating information, but it also helps establish a closer bond between Americans and their government.

As well, high-tech information delivery methods hold special appeal for younger Americans more accustomed to clicking than calling.

USA.gov, the U.S. government's official Web portal, offers RSS Feeds, e-mail updates, videos and much more on everything from hurricane information to government benefits to consumer protection for seniors.

A state-of-the-art search engine provides documents, images, frequently asked questions and other information from federal, state and local Web sites in a variety of formats, including mobile. And let's not forget GobiernoUSA.gov, USA.gov's Spanish-language counterpart, which offers the same latest and greatest information en español.

Six years ago, President Bush issued a direct challenge to those of us in the citizen services arena. To deliver citizen-centered electronic government of real value, the president said we needed to provide "custom information from Washington when citizens want it, not just when Washington wants to give it to them."

Many agencies took that challenge to heart.

At GSA, we sat down, considered our existing Web sites, programs and initiatives, and thought long and hard about how to recast them in a way that would get us closer to the president's objective.

Six years later, there's a

What was the standard photography prank by CHS seniors in Washington, D.C. photos?

A. One student always turned around backwards.

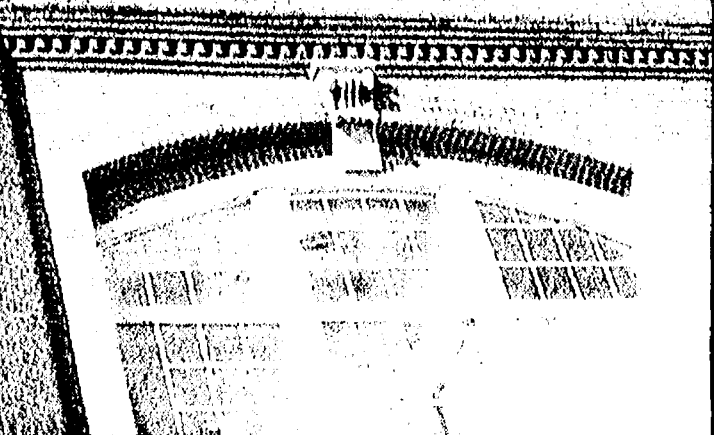

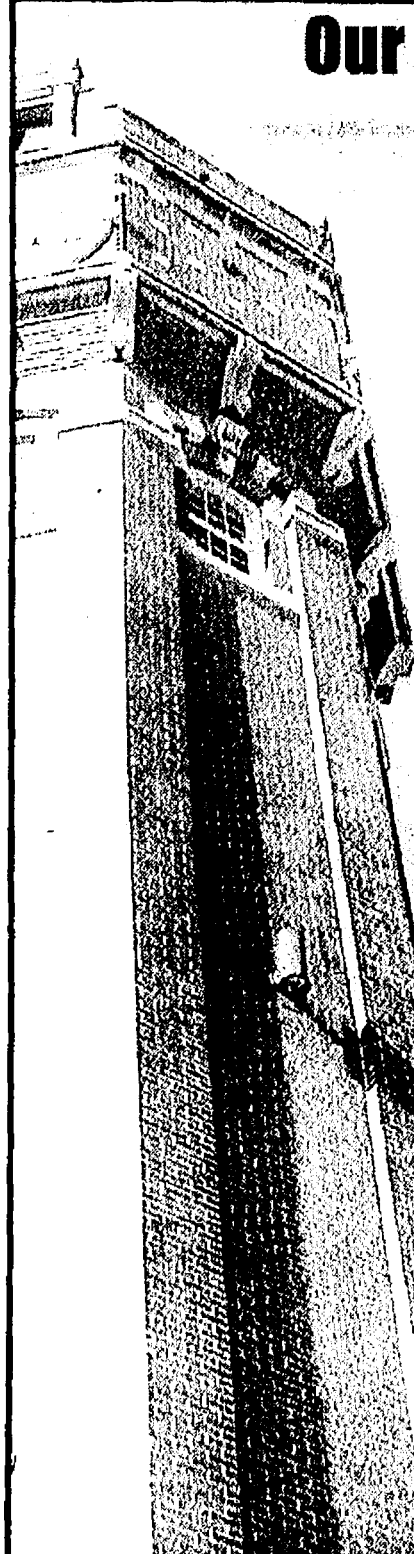

B. "Rabbit ears" appeared on at least one student.

C. Each class photograph showed at least one set of identical twins.

D. Students not wearing glasses wore some-ones elses glasses.

Local Dems host economic seminar

By Rich Robinson
Guest Writer

As the November election nears, the issues of the economy, jobs and unemployment are a major concern for Michigan voters. In another in its series of educational outreach events, the Western Washtenaw Democrats are hosting a panel of experts that will explore the effects of losing thousands of well-paying manufacturing jobs have had on the state, and what can be done to reverse the problem.

The presentation, titled "The Secret to Jobs in Michigan" will feature Martha Seger, Reagan appointee to the Federal Reserve Board, Doug Wetzel of Protomatic, and the Society of Manufacturing Engineers, Greg Stephens from the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Brad Markell from the United Auto Workers and Pete Murdock, former mayor of Ypsilanti. It will take place at 6:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Oct. 1 at the historic Chelsea Depot.

The panel will be moderated by WWDems member Bill Kauffman.

"The loss of well-paying manufacturing jobs is having a devastating effect on Americans," Kauffman said. "It's causing the destruction of society, families and individuals. Policymakers seem detached from this reality."

Kauffman, a retired professor of engineering at the University of Michigan, doesn't see the service industry jobs that Michigan's manufacturing workers have been forced to take as a real solution to the country's current economic crisis.

"Service jobs are not the answer," Kauffman said. "Prison guard, gambling croupier, TSA screener and fast food server jobs do not affect the growing American trade deficit as do assembly line positions at new Volvo and Pacar truck plants."

Kauffman said he hopes to alert voters that there has been a tremendous shift in jobs from America to lower-compensated workers overseas, which has had a tremendous impact on the economy.

"In the last decade, over two million manufacturing jobs were lost to overseas companies," Kauffman said. "The US trade deficit rose to $62.2 billion in July, the largest gap in more than a year, mostly on record high oil prices and surging Chinese imports."

Kauffman said the time for concern is long overdue. America is facing a true crisis.

"We have lost over 600,000 jobs just this year," he said. "In August, the American jobless rate soared to 6.1 percent. In Michigan, that number is inching closer to nine percent."

The crisis, according to Kauffman, is related to the loss of high-paying manufacturing jobs for American workers.

"True wealth is created by mining, manufacturing and agriculture, and in the past, Michigan thrived in all of these areas," he said. "Such wealth provides for salaries, dividends, savings, retirement accounts and further investment capital. Each manufacturing job supports another five to fifteen non-manufacturing jobs."

The event is free and food and soft drinks will be provided by the WWDems.

Byrnes votes for energy plan to create jobs

State Rep. Pam Byrnes, D-Lyndon Township, last week voted in favor of a comprehensive bipartisan energy plan that will create thousands of good-paying jobs, save Michigan residents money and make our state a leader in the rapidly growing renewable energy industry.

"This plan gives our state the opportunity to appeal to the major players in the renewable energy fields," Byrnes said. "Making our own energy right here in Michigan will create good-paying jobs that can't be outsourced, and the money being spent abroad on oil can be reinvested in our communities. By passing this plan, the House can focus our own energies on getting our economy back on track and moving in the right direction."

The comprehensive plan:

- Requires Michigan to increase the amount of electricity generated from clean, renewable sources such as wind and solar to 10 percent by 2015. Doing so will make Michigan competitive with nearly 30 other states that already have such a standard.

- Requires utilities to establish programs that help residents and businesses use electricity more efficiently, which will save consumers billions of dollars by reducing their usage.

- Fixes outdated rules to clear the way for construction of power plants needed to meet rising demands for electricity so that businesses will locate and expand in Michigan.

- Includes an income tax credit for working families and seniors to help with energy costs and tax credits for the purchase of energy-efficient appliances.

"The plan passed by the House today is the step that we needed to take to get Michigan back at the top of its game," Byrnes said. "I applaud my colleagues in the House for working together to put our residents ahead of party interests."

worse? Possibly, but we don't think so. Those who want to be dishonest will do so no matter what the regulations are concerning absentee ballots.

Of course, more care and oversight will have to be instituted to ensure the integrity of an election. And in cases where a community has shown that it has problems with keeping the process honest, stricter supervision and regulations may be in order.

However, in the final analysis, the change should not increase incidents of voter fraud and just may help boost legal voter

One thing is for sure, legislators should not make a major political issue out of the proposal.

The Senate Bill is currently in the Michigan Senate Campaign and Election Oversight Committee. It should be moved out of committee, voted on by the Senate and then legislators need to move on.

There are more important issues facing the state, particularly those related to the budget and the economy.

"The most important thing is to treat each child as a special individual and provide them support to be successful and develop positive self-esteem,"

Lucy Stieber, principal at Pierce Lake School

Little known disorder affects local children

By Crystal Hayduk
Special Writer

When Ann Cobb was in kindergarten, the teacher made a phone call to her mother, Carla. Ann was clearing her throat and blinking her eyes so excessively that it was distracting to others.

A visit to the Ear, Nose, and Throat Specialist revealed nothing was wrong with Ann's sinuses. A comprehensive eye exam determined her vision was fine. Those who cared for Ann were baffled.

But one day, while sitting in front of the television with remote control in hand, Carla found a documentary on the HBO Family Channel that was of special interest. The children on the show reminded Carla of Ann. "We took her straight to her pediatrician and he agreed that she had signs of Tourette Syndrome," Cobb said.

Watching that show, "I Have Tourette's but Tourette's Doesn't Have Me," solved the mystery for the Cobb family. Now Ann is under the care of top neurologist Harry Chugani at Detroit Children's Hospital.

Tourette Syndrome (TS) is a genetic neurological disorder that is characterized by tics, which are sudden, repetitive, involuntary movements or sounds. As many as one in 100 exhibit a mild form.

"A diagnosis of Tourette Syndrome is made when the tics are both motor and vocal in nature," said Dr. Chugani. "The vocal tic could be a word, but is more often a sound such as a groan or a grunt. The tics would need to go on for at least a year before we would label it as Tourette Syndrome. Many people have tics that go on for just a few weeks and then are gone."

Dr. Chugani explained that most children are diagnosed in early childhood. Generally, symptoms worsen between the ages of 12 and 14, a tough time for most kids anyway as they enter adoles-

TSA staff visits Chelsea

Art Abbott, vice chairman of the Michigan Chapter of the Tourette Syndrome Association, visited Chelsea on Aug. 26 to speak to interested parents and teachers. The Tourette Syndrome Association (TSA) exists to provide support, education, and awareness; and raise money for ongoing research.

TSA is staffed by volunteers. They run support groups and publish a newsletter to help families with children of TS. They also provide outreach to schools and hold teacher in-services upon request.

TSA has an indirect involvement with research by making its members aware of ongoing research studies. "We make people aware of it, and one of our members funds much of it through an endowment of a chair at Wayne State University, partnering with Detroit Children's Hospital. Children's Hospital hopes to form a TS treatment center, which would be devoted specifically to TS and house all the staff you need to adequately treat the great variety of TS cases that exist," said Abbott.

For more information or to donate, visit the TSA website at www.tsa-michigan.org.

"Eighty percent of kids will find their symptoms begin to lessen at around 16-17 years old, and by the time they are adults very few will need medication to control the symptoms," he said.

"The severity of the tics wax and wane," Dr. Chugani said.

In other words, tics come and go. A child can have one type of tic that comes on slowly, gets worse for a while, and then gets better. It can then be replaced by another tic of a different type or in a different location.

Some children who have TS will also have other conditions such as Obsessive-Compulsive Disorder or Attention Deficit Disorder. No two cases are alike.

Carla Cobb said that in Ann's case, she did not require medication at first, but when she developed multiple tics that became more disruptive, she did go on medication to help control them.

"As the kids get older and their bodies change, the medication often needs to be readjusted," Cobb said.

There is no medication that is specifically for TS, but doctors have borrowed mood stabilizers and muscle relax-ants to help reduce the symptoms.

Because attending school is a child's full-time job, teacher involvement is very important for a child with TS. But most colleges that offer education majors do not prepare teachers to work with students who have special needs, who are often found in the general education setting.

Lucy Stieber, principal at Pierce Lake School in Chelsea, said most teachers learn about TS when they have a student with it in the classroom.

"The special education staff is aware and welcomes additional information from the families," Stieber said.

"When there is a child with TS in the building we will typically have a general discussion at a staff meeting so all staff is apprised of individual student needs."

Stieber explained that children with TS fall under the special needs category that makes them eligible for an Individualized Educational Plan, or IEP.

Once a physician makes a diagnosis of TS, the parent would notify the school. The principal then initiates a referral for the IEP. An assessment of the child's needs takes place using various members of the educational team, including the teacher consultant, speech therapist, and school psychologist or social worker.

The parent is included when the results of the assessment are discussed to determine the best course of action for the child's education.

In the event that no major academic concerns are noted as a result of the assessment by the team, "...the child is placed on a 504 plan, which means that the student's progress would be reviewed and monitored yearly," Stieber said.

"The most important thing is to treat each child as a special individual and provide them support to be successful and develop positive self-esteem," Stieber said.

Cobb said it was a terrible thing to hear that Ann had Tourette's.

"We have had to do a lot of research, and we had to learn to parent a whole new way compared to how we raised her three older brothers," she said. "It takes a lot more patience than usual. Right now, Ann doesn't like to be where things are over

Tourette Syndrome Fact Guide

What is Tourette Syndrome (TS)? It is a neurobiological disorder characterized by tics—involuntary, rapid, sudden movements and/or vocal outbursts that occur repeatedly.

What are the most common symptoms? Symptoms change periodically in number, frequency, type and severity—even disappearing for weeks or months at a time. Commonly, motor tics may be eye blinking, head jerking, shoulder shrugging and facial grimacing. Vocally: throat clearing, sniffing and tongue clicking.

What is the cause of the syndrome? No definite cause has yet been established, but considerable evidence points to abnormal metabolism of at least one brain chemical called dopamine.

How many people are affected? As TS often goes undiagnosed, no exact figure can be given. But authoritative estimates indicate that some 200,000 in the United States are known to have the disorder. All races and ethnic groups are affected.

Is it inherited? Genetic studies indicate that TS is inherited as a dominant gene, with about 50 percent chance of passing the gene from parent to child. Sons are three to four times more likely than daughters to exhibit TS.

Is obscene language (coprolalia) a typical symptom of TS? Definitely not. The fact is that cursing, uttering obscenities, and ethnic slurs are manifested by fewer than 15 percent of people with TS. Too often, however, the media seize upon this symptom for its sensational effect.

Natural medicine store to close up shop

By Edward Freundl
Staff Writer

When Denise Acton opened an herbal and natural medicines store in November 2005, she hoped to capitalize on the growing popularity of such products.

Unfortunately, economic realities interceded, forcing her to close the doors at the end of this month on Nature's Remedies, in the Village Plaza near the Secretary of State branch.

"I was there for three years," Acton explained. "The first two were OK, but this last year it just bottomed out."

"With just me as a sole proprietor doing it all, I had to take another job just to make ends meet."

Acton said she offered massage, nutritional consulting, muscle response testing and cardio screening services, and many herbal and natural personal-care products.

Rather than the typical going-out-of-business sale, however, Acton is simply clearing out her perishable stock and will continue to serve customers — just without a storefront.

"I'm trying to select a few things that I don't want to take home with me, like the organic natural lotions, soaps and shampoos," said Acton, who just completed a degree in holistic medicine.

"I'll have those on sale, plus anything with a shelf life. I want to let clients know that they can still contact me for products and services."

According to Acton, she had at least 100 clients from the Chelsea, Grass Lake, Stockbridge, Dexter and Manchester areas.

"My main focus was the cardio screening. I could do assessments and recommend different vitamins and nutritional supplements," she said.

"I would work with clients through their medical doctors."

She said her background in the pharmaceutical industry, working for Bristol Myers Squibb and Astra Zeneca, actually led her into the natural products arena.

"As people learn that prescription drugs aren't always the best thing, they're moving into the natural medicines," she said.

"If you think about it, our original medicines were developed from herbs, roots and natural products."

She said customers can still reach her at dnsacton8north@yahoo.com, or by calling 734-645-4434.

"It's too bad that the economy has taken a dive, but I do want to help the customers who want natural products," Acton said.

Washtenaw County Government

Ouimet's support bolstered as elections approach

By Sean Dalton
Staff Writer

Washtenaw County Commissioner Mark Ouimet, R-District 1, this week released several endorsements showing that he has the support of several organizations and labor groups.

Those counted among Ouimet's endorsers include the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO Local 3052, the Washtenaw Area Mutual Aid Association, the Michigan Professional Fire Fighters Union, the Dexter Area Fire Fighters and the Washtenaw County Command Officers Association.

"Our organization has endorsed Commissioner Mark Ouimet for the office of County Commissioner in the 1st District," said Eric Kunath, president of the Washtenaw County Command Officers Association.

"Commissioner Ouimet has demonstrated strong support for public safety not only for his district but for all the districts in Washtenaw County."

Kunath went on to praise Ouimet for working toward a broader range of representation of "the public's best interest ... while other commissioners have confined their representation to the best interest for their specific area."

"Whether you're Republican or Democrat, you need to look at the way Commissioner Ouimet represents you as a Washtenaw County resident," Kunath added.

Ouimet's endorsements were well earned. In the command officers' case, he has been active in preserving Sheriff's Department road patrols, according to Kunath, who also pointed the finger at other county commissioners for pulling back on road patrol.

"I was very pleased to receive these endorsements," Ouimet said this week. "I do a lot of work with first responders and I just think this shows that the men and women who are our first responders appreciate several of the things that I've been able to do in regard to ensuring that we have a high-quality, first-rate service in the county."

The county employee's union in particular was an endorsement that Ouimet said was particularly pleasing, as well as hard fought.

He attributed the support to the success of combining the county's two retirement boards and solidifying the retirement system, and the subsequent savings that will be realized from those actions.

"We're not quite sure that (we will save in the long term), but initially we will save somewhere between $12 million and $15 million dollars, whereas $5.2 million was slated to come out of the general fund each year," Ouimet said.

The amount of general fund money that the old retirement funding structure required had ballooned, Ouimet said, from $150,000 a few years ago to nearly $5.5 million. It had become a large problem that could no longer be ignored.

"That had taken a toll on

This is not an endorsement

Regardless of your party affiliation, from my perspective many folks are just going to slam the "D-button" at the ballot box this year.

Sean Dalton

This seemingly recent financial crisis we find ourselves in as a nation is just one more chicken coming home to (R)oost that threatens to swing the balance of power in the other direction.

This isn't the spot to place blame or discuss any of the pickles we're all in, but rather a time to reflect on intelligent voting.

Mark Ouimet's recent visit to our office really got me thinking about this subject. I'm a "D" myself and most of my friends and family are as well. Those are our values.

Yet I always seem to run into really good "R's" in the course of doing my job (why aren't they the ones on TV instead of the ones that make me pull my hair out?).

See DALTON — Page 14-A

the other programs that we have been providing, but now we can continue to support those as well as insuring the retirement of our employees by combining the two retirement programs," he said.

Another noteworthy detail of the Ouimet endorsements are the fact that the organizations that have come out in support of Ouimet represent thousands of employees, while Ouimet and the rest of the commission — mostly Democrats — have presided over mandatory employment level cuts and county government reductions in the face of trying financial times.

"I think I've shown sensitivity in the face of these challenges," Ouimet said. "With the support of the union, we've been able to take some reductions in employment and continue to maintain the the level of her head, so when we go shopping we have to avoid an aisle where things are stacked high.

"We have discovered that certain things seem to affect the tics, like diet. We have her on the Feingold program, which means we avoid artificial colors, flavors, and preservatives. Stress makes the tics worse, so we try to minimize stress as much as possible."

Cobb said exercise improves things, too.

"If Ann is concentrating on playing, then she will have fewer tics," she said. "She enjoys water, so swimming provides exercise, and a shower can be stress-reducing."

Parents and professionals agree that one of the most important things for children with TS is to feel accepted by others. Stieber said that the staff of Chelsea Schools encourages children to be "bucket fillers." Being a bucket filler basically means that children are kind to others. Teachers frequently read aloud stories that express understanding others as a main theme.

"We promote the concept that everyone is unique and has special needs," she said.

Cobb said that she still finds it difficult when her family is in a public place and others look at Ann's behaviors unfavorably.

"People aren't familiar with it, so they don't know," she said. "Even though she doesn't have a physical disability that others can recognize, she still has a disability. My advice to people is 'don't judge.'" about $25, the Chelsea Teddy Bear Co., The M-Den and a few other select retailers will sell it for just $16.

BEARS

"And the proceeds will be going to benefit the new hospital," Turner said. "So the customer is getting a great deal on a great bear, and doing some good for a good cause at the same time. We're confident this will be a winner."

"This would not be a hit without the help from the M-Den. They can distribute a lot of bears at the football stadium and through their stores."

Each bear will include a tag with information about Mott that features the artwork of Mott patient Eric Fast and Evan Rhind, a sibling of a Mott patient.

"With the support of these local businesses and the support of community members, we are confident that this will be a successful fund-raiser for the C.S. Mott Children's Hospital and Women's Hospital building project, and for Patient and Family-Centered Care programs," says Kimberley Barker, manager of Mott Community Relations.

Anne Berlucchi, who works in U-M Medical Development and Alumni Relations said: "By giving the gift of this Mott Holiday Bear, you are giving a gift to the new C.S. Mott Children's Hospital & Women's Hospital and to all of our patients and families. We are so grateful for the assistance of our local philanthropic partners, and hope the community will continue to support this important effort."

Beginning Saturday, the Mott Holiday Bears can be purchased at all local M-Den stores - including the store in Michigan Stadium - as well as at Laurel Park Place in Livonia and Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi.

In addition, on Oct. 1 the following Ann Arbor stores will begin selling the bears: Treetown Toys, Jungle Java, Jump City, Children's Orchard, Nicola's Books, Peaceable Kingdom, Midwest Financial Credit Union branches, U-go's locations in the Michigan League, and in Pierpont Commons on U-M's North Campus.

Mott Holiday Bears also will be available for purchase online from Chelsea Teddy Bear Company (www.chelseateddybear.com) and Mden (www.mden.com). The Mott Community Relations office will be selling bears as well and accepting donated Mott Holiday Bears, which will be given to patients in the hospital during the holiday season. Donated bears can be dropped off or mailed to the Mott Community Relations office at 1500 E. Medical Center Dr., room F2519, Ann Arbor, Mich. 48109-5253.

The new $523 million C.S. Mott Children's Hospital and Women's Hospital facility is set to open in 2011. With 1.1 million square feet, the facility will provide a new and larger home for specialty services not offered anywhere else in Michigan for newborns, children and pregnant women.

Some folks know what they see when they look at wildlife, but not everyone knows the "whys and wherefores" when it comes to nature.

That's the job of an Interpreter - someone who makes the connections, knows what causes plants to grow in a certain place, animals to habitate, trees to die, birds to nest. They know the environment, in addition to the habitants, and can explain it all to little children, medium sized children, big kids and adults, in a way that makes the subject come alive. They can turn the black and white picture into real life color.

That's Jennifer Hollenbeck's role in the scheme of things along the Huron River - from Delhi Park, through Dexter-Huron, Hudson Mills, and Huron Meadows and Indian Springs to the north. She graduated from Dexter High and earned a Bachelor's degree in history and anthropology at Eastern and a Master's degree in Interpretation. She has been Park Interpreter since May 2000, replacing the position of naturalist.

She comes by her interest in nature "naturally." Her father, Jim Jaworski, recently retired as long time biology teacher at Dexter High School and her husband, another Dexterite, Rob Hollenbeck, will be teaching high school level biology in the spring. Her mother-in-law, Claire Hollenbeck, collects pine cones for Hollenbeck's projects at the Park. It's a family thing.

Hollenbeck says there has been "a big change in stewardship, a regeneration of habitats and volunteer participation in DNR organized cleaning and clearing of invasive plants, like autumn olive trees and honeysuckle. Fly fishermen, who fish in the park areas, help keep the river banks clean."

Other groups clean up after themselves, making the park their own.

Another change, Hollenbeck notes, is the economy. Each year the schools have to evaluate how they can afford to come out to the park for the various programs available. Gas for school buses is the major cost, since the park charges only $1 per school child for admittance.

Rising and falling water levels have revealed and sometimes obscured, features in the parks - the remnants of the old mills that dotted the Huron, a section of mill stone found when the water was low; treasures of the past still waiting to be discovered again.

Hollenbeck conducts hikes with flashlights and owl calls in the woods so visitors can see the barred owl and others who roost in the area.

She reports that "a pileated woodpecker has taken up residence near the golf course; a beaver has been spotted near one of the smaller parks, river otters have been seen and their tracks identified" - the forest, grasslands, marshes and river are constantly providing material for her classes and hikes.

She conducts the "Critter Paddle" in September; a two-hour adventure on the river; a Stewardship Network Paddle this month examining river ecology, natural history and the human influence for adults; Bird and Owl hikes, Orienteering Projects, and programs geared Scouts of various levels earn badges in the outdoors.

Asked what she would like to have for her program, Hollenbeck answered "A separate Nature Center with a classroom that wasn't in the path of other park functions. A real "sugar shack" for one of the popular springtime programs gathering maple sap and making maple syrup."

Volunteers help make the program run by making interpretive signs for the trails and woodlands; by building an amphitheater for outdoor classes, building bluebird nest boxes; helping to remove invasive species; making the parks part of the Scout's Community Service program.

Ouimet is on that list. I've seen him at more community meetings and functions than I can remember, and he usually has something enlightening to impart to local elected officials.

He guesstimated that his average workload is 60 or more hours per week with all of the meetings - sometimes two or three in the same day. He probably doesn't have to show up as frequently as he does, but he still does anyway.

I voiced my concern in the form of a question. "With so many people who are simply going to vote a straight Democrat ticket, what would you say to them?"

"I hope everyone takes the time to review the ballot and select the people running on their qualifications and what they've been able to achieve," he responded.

I don't think I've ever heard Mark make a statement that was divisive, derisive, intellectually offensive, or anything resembling the garbage you see on the 24-hour news channels.

Local politicians also emulate those negative qualities and express those little idiosyncrasies, so it's not as if all local politicians are immune or above that fray.

But not Mark - in fact, we've had little off-the-record talks about the baseball of local politics, and he has been pretty astute about who will end up where after the votes are counted. Those who talked about solutions and had done something tangible are keeping their seats, and all of those who didn't live up to one or both of those standards are looking for other things to do with their free time.

"I think I got that overwhelming support from the people I work with because they say I stay focused on issues and not get embroiled in party politics," he explained.

"Quite frankly, I think in today's environment people are tired of what goes on in Washington and what goes on in Lansing, and the reason I got those endorsements was because of the things we were able to accomplish here in this First District in Washtenaw County."

I debated with myself a bit about my style for referring to Republicans and Democrats in this article, but I decided to leave it, because it's silly.

Simple labels are silly, and all they do is give bad politicians cover (mostly provided by the good ones). But labels simplify the process, and are necessary until we have the education and social infrastructure in place to have a more complex view of and discussion about politics in this country.

But that doesn't mean we can't start now, and maybe Mark Ouimet is as good a place to start as any.

high quality service that residents of the county deserve."

Ouimet wears many hats in the county, including those of liaison to the Washtenaw County Road Commission. He is also on the Accommodations Ordinance Commission, the Local Development Finance Authority of Augusta Township.

Township Association.

He works with the county's Money Purchase Pension Plan, the Southeastern Michigan Council of Governments and the Workforce Development board. "Those are things that the county board has assigned me to do and that is coming from a Democratic board," Ouimet said. "It shows me that my peer group is comfortable with what I'm doing and how I'm doing it."

CEF grants available for 2008-2009 school year

The Chelsea Education Foundation announced this week the beginning of its 2008-2009 Grant cycle.

The CEF Grant program is the organization's widest reaching program. The grants benefit thousands of Chelsea residents, from school aged children to adults. Since the incorporation in 1990, CEF has granted well over $140,000 to Chelsea School District teachers and several community organizations.

These funds are made available from sponsors, fund-raising events, raffles of donated items from the community, and countless hours of work from volunteers.

Grants are awarded to non-profit, tax exempt status and/or be a charitable organization only. CEF gives high-priority and considera-

- Information and notification of specific dates for applying can be obtained through the Web site, www.chelseaeducationfoundation.org as well as in the Chelsea Standard.

- A committee of CEF Board members reviews and makes recommendations regarding each application to the entire CEF Board of Directors.

- Grant criteria and the CEF's current budget are compared to the benefits of each project or program request.

tion to projects and programs that benefit many people in the community, increase access to educational resources and strengthen collaboration between applying organizations and the private sector.

The recipients of last year's grants in the community include the Youth Dance Theatre of Michigan, Waterloo Natural History Museum, the Chelsea District Library, and the Adult Learners Institute.

The Chelsea School District benefited from grants for the preschool tuition scholarships, the 8th grade Washington D.C. Trip, the 5th grade/CRC Grandparent Connect Program, an amplification system for South Meadows Elementary, Toledo Museum of Art Trip, 6th through 9th grade Science Olympiads, Holocaust Museum field trip, new fitness equipment for Beach Middle School, Link Crew for new freshmen, an Anti-Bullying Program and many others.

All grant applicants are required to submit a detailed CEF Grant Application available at www.chelseaeducationfoundation.org.

The Chelsea team shows off their medals after finishing first in the Science Olympiad at the Regional Competition at Washtenaw Community College last Spring. Grants from the Chelsea Education Foundation helped fund the team.

Upon completion of the project or program, each grant recipient must complete and return a Grant Performance Review. Future grant consideration may be jeopardized if all requirements are not met.

All grant applications are due by Sept. 30 and can be submitted to the Community Education office or on-line at www.chelseaeducationfoundation.org. Applicant notification is Nov. 2, 2008. All applicants will be notified.

Ms. Weddon graduated from Michigan State University with a degree in Social Work. Mr. Bergsma has a Bachelors degree in Cinema and Broadcast Arts from Azusa Pacific University, Calif., and works as a post production editor in Los Angeles.

A November 2008 wedding is planned.

Anniversaries

Duane "Butch" and Laura (Liptow) Downer of Chelsea celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on Aug. 23. The couple was married Aug. 23, 1958 at First Congregational Church of Chelsea. Their children and grandchildren are: Vicky Elder and children Michael and Steven of Howell; Tammy (Bill) Barry and children Billy, Brian, Catherine and Matthew of Pittsfield, Mass.; and Chuck (Amy) Downer and children Madison, Dar and Mallore of Chelsea.

The couple celebrated by having dinner with their family in Howell. They also went on a cruise to Alaska.

Color guard reunion

For three full decades, the Chelsea Color Guard has entertained high school football fans on Friday nights.

Now, 30 years of performers will assemble for a special Homecoming presentation on Oct. 17.

Under the leadership of high school English teacher Phil Jones, this extension of the marching band will call back all of the performers since 1978 — some who spent only one season, others who dedicated all four high school years to the activity.

These former flag handlers will meet at the new high school band room, receive a commemorative T-shirt, pizza and learn a routine that will be performed for the hometown crowd at the football game pre-game show that night.

One of the big difficulties in assembling this group is contacting the former members. Many of these women are now raising families in different parts of the state, or have moved to other areas of the country.

Jones is hoping that anyone knowing the whereabouts of former color guard members will let them know about the organizing effort.

All interested parties should RSVP to Teresa Hoffman Rabbitt at 475-4255 or btrabbitt@yahoo.com to allow the organizers to know the number of shirts, pizzas and flags that will be needed. The uniform will consist of the T-shirt and khaki slacks, shorts, or skirt.

CROP Walk Oct. 5

by CROP Hunger Walks is used for relief and development around the world.

"This year's walk is especially important because the high cost of food is making it more difficult for poor people around the world to be able to afford adequate nutrition," said

Kathie Gourlay, the Walk's coordinator. "Then there's the additional emergency needs caused by the recent spate of hurricanes."

Last October this local CROP Hunger Walk raised more than $30,000. Thirteen organizations participated. These were mostly churches, but also included local retirement communities, Faith in Action, and the Chelsea High School Interact club.

Of the money raised, 15 percent is given to Faith in Action and thus helps poor people in our own community. "There is a definite need for emergency food supplies in our area," said Nancy Paul, Faith in Action director. "When life expenses have gone up for so many things, like gas, electricity, etc., it gets harder to have enough money to keep food on the table if your income is flat or in many cases decreasing."

Walkers will convene at 1:30 p.m. at St. Paul United Church of Christ, 14600 Old U. S. 12 in Chelsea, for a kickoff ceremony. There is a one mile and a five mile route. New this year will be rocking chairs at St. Paul for those who are unable to walk. Participants can rock for the poor, while others are walking for the poor.

The basics of horse play

The two main types of wagers.

1. Straight wagers (These wagers only involve one horse):

Win: You collect only if your horse finishes first. The minimum wager is $2.

Place: You collect if your horse finishes first or second. However, if your horse wins, you only collect the Place payout. The minimum wager is $2.

Show: You collect if your horse finishes first, second or third, but you collect only the Show payout. The minimum wager is $2.

Across The Board: You are wagering on a horse to Win, Place and Show. You receive one ticket for all three wagers. If your horse wins, you receive Win, Place and Show payouts. If your horse finishes second, you receive Place and Show payouts; and if your horse is third, you receive the Show payout. Because you are actually placing three wagers, the minimum wager is $6.

2. Combination or "Exotic" wagers (These wagers involve two or more horses):

Daily Double: To collect, you must select the winner of two races. For example, you must select the winner of the first race and the second race. Of course, you must place the wager before the first of your two races!

Exacta: To collect, you must pick the horses that finish first and second in exact order. For example, if you play a 3-5 exacta, the #3 horse must Win and the #5 horse must Place (come in second) for you to collect.

Exacta Box: Is made to guarantee the outcome of the first two finishers regardless of which horse wins. For example, if you box the #3 and #5 horses and either the #3 or the #5 horse wins and finishes second, you win.

Trifecta: Is similar to an exacta, except you must pick the horses that finish first, second, and third in exact order. This is a challenging wager that often yields large dividends.

Trifecta Box: Is made to guarantee the outcome of the first three finishers regardless of which horse wins. For example, if you box the #3, the #7 and #5 horses and either the #3, #7 or the #5 horse wins, finishes second and third, you win.

Pick 3: To collect, you must pick the winners of three consecutive races. And, of course, you must make your selections before the first race of your Pick 3 wager. An excellent wager that offers great excitement and opportunity to score Big!

Superfecta: Is similar to an exacta and trifecta, except you must pick the horses that finish first, second, third and fourth in exact order. This is also a challenging wager that often yields dividends even larger than the trifecta.

Where do I go to collect my winnings?

So, you've made a winning wager. After the race has been declared official, simply take your ticket to any of the mutual windows or self betting terminals to collect. If you decide to keep your ticket and cash out at a later date, please check with your local track to determine ticket expiration dates. Each state has different guidelines to cashing tickets.

Knights of Columbus host 'End of Summer'

Since "Charity" is the first principle of the Knights of Columbus order, charity was on display once more on Tuesday, Aug. 26, 2008, when Blessed Fr. Louis Guanella Council #3092 of the Chelsea Knights of Columbus paid a visit to the residents of St. Louis Center to provide them with a good old fashioned barbecue picnic. The occasion was a celebration of the "End of Summer", as the traditional Labor Day weekend and the first day of school were fast approaching.

The Knights enjoy their relationship with the residents of St. Louis Center, and one resident "Stanley," even became a Knight several years ago, because of their special relationship with the Center.

According to Past Grand Knight Tom Turek, chair of the event, "We enjoy doing things for our friends at St. Louis Center, and it makes us appreciate what we ourselves have even more. We have experienced many blessings in our lives, and doing something nice for God's 'special children,' is a way of giving back for what we've been given. We'd like to make this an annual event."

This was the second year for this end of summer event.

The Knights came early to grill hot dogs and hamburgers, and brought along plenty of salads and desserts for the meal. When everyone had their fill, they joined the residents for a game of "kickball," where they were soundly defeated by the St. Louis residents. Members of the St. Louis Center Community Advisory Board and their guests were also in attendance. At the end of the day everyone was grateful for the experience, and a good time was had by all.

Bulldogs third at invite

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

Chelsea's boys' cross country team finished third at the Jackson Invitational last Saturday.

The Bulldogs ended up with 89 points.

Capturing the overall title was Hillsdale with 61 points. Williamston was second with 69 points.

"We competed well against a power-packed field," said Chelsea coach Eric Swager. "The top-five finishing teams are all ranked in the Division 2 or Division 3 listings."

Leading Chelsea individually was August Pappas who placed second with a time of 16:22.

Peter Wilke was 14th in 17:05, while Bryce Bradley was 19th in 17:16, Nick Hewitt 20th in 17:17 and Mark Smith 34th in a season best 17:39.

Dominic Conybeare was 45th in 18:00, while Geoff Smith-Woolams was 49th in 18:03 and Josh Hovater 73rd in 20:02 for the Bulldogs.

"I have been working the guys very hard recently," Swager said. "When we start sharpening and resting I hope to get the top four runners under 17:00. If we can be healthy, I think our goal of qualifying for the state finals is achievable."

On Sept. 18, Chelsea placed first at the Mason Invitational scoring 42 points.

Okemos was second with 53 points, while Holt was third with 58 points.

"We are making progress from a team standpoint," Swager said. "Our varsity No. 4 and No. 5 runners were the key today. Dominic Conybeare had the best race of his life and the 50-second gap from (runners) one through five is the tightest of the year."

Pappas finished second overall to pace the Bulldogs stopping the clock in 17:01.

Wilke was sixth in 17:25, while Hewitt was eighth in 17:30 and Smith 12th in 17:42.

Conybeare was 14th in 17:51, while Smith-Woolams was 21st in 18:05 and Jared Gentz 30th in 18:35.

In the JV meet, Joe Hewitt was fifth for Chelsea with a time of 19:03.

Kevin Stockwell was 12th in 19:43, while Sean Owsley was 13th in 19:47, Hu Tao 16th in 20:05 and Jack Hermann 39th in 21:58 for the Bulldogs.

"The top four JV runners had lifetime bests," Swager said. "It was even more impressive considering the fact that the course was not exceptionally quick."

Swager said Chelsea ran well at Mason.

"We really enjoyed ourselves today," he said. "We hope to take this fired up, focused style of racing into the last half of the season."

The Bulldogs next host their own invitational at Hudson Mills Metropark 8:30 a.m. Saturday.

On Tuesday, Chelsea travels to Ypsilanti Lincoln for the Southeastern Conference Jamboree No. 2 at 4:30 p.m.

Bulldog gridders pound Lincoln

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

Chelsea football defeated visiting Ypsilanti Lincoln 42-8 last Friday night at Jerry Niehaus Field. The Bulldogs were coming off a 34-14 loss to Saline last week.

"This is the first time all year I've seen our guys play with great enthusiasm and passion," said Chelsea coach Brad Bush. "That's more of what I'm used to seeing."

"That's not a bad team that we beat. They've got some very good players. I was proud of how we played. We've got some things to still work on, but we're moving in the right direction."

Bush said Chelsea's loss to the Hornets changed the team's attitude a bit.

"I don't think anybody likes to lose," he said. "I think our seniors took a little more ownership and realized we needed to turn it around."

The Bulldogs (3-1, 2-1 Southeastern Conference) opened the scoring as junior Nick Hill sprinted for a 50-yard touchdown run. Senior Michael Roberts booted the point after touchdown kick giving Chelsea a 7-0 lead with 4:22 left in the first quarter.

With 1:48 remaining in the opening frame, senior receiver Brett Everding hauled in a 50-yard TD pass from Roberts. With Roberts' PAT, the Bulldogs increased their advantage to 14-0.

In the second quarter, Hill scored on a 3-yard run. With Roberts' kick, Chelsea upped its lead to 21-0 with 5:45 left in the stanza.

With 4:26 remaining in the first half, Everding again got behind the Railsplitter defense catching a 40-yard bomb from Roberts. Roberts split the uprights and the Bulldogs entered the locker room with a commanding 28-0 lead.

To begin the third quarter, Lincoln (1-3) reeled off a 12-play drive. The Rails started at their own 15-yard line before handing the ball over on downs to Chelsea at the 43-yard line.

Three plays later, Hill exploded for a 35-yard touchdown jaunt. With Roberts' PAT, the Bulldogs increased their advantage to 35-0 with 6:45 left in the third quarter.

Lincoln answered on its following drive as Eric Tyus scored on a 20-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Andrew Dillon.

Dawgs shoot to second

Chelsea's girls' golf team finished second at the Southeastern Conference Jamboree No. 2 hosted by Ypsilanti Lincoln at Pine View Golf Course Sept. 17.

The Bulldogs ended up with a team score of 197.

Winning the match was Tecumseh with a 187.

Dexter was third with a 203, while the host Railsplitters were fourth with a 218.

"Our quad matches have been extremely competitive this season," said Chelsea coach Andrea Bareis. "Unfortunately, we've yet to win one. We need to have all four counted scores in the 40s if we're going to win our remaining (SEC) White Division quad match at Tecumseh (Wednesday)."

Leading Chelsea was senior Krystin Schwarze with a 41. With her score, Schwarze was crowned match medalist.

"It was great to see Krystin as match medalist at this quad," Bareis said. "With the White Division being as competitive as it is with very good golfers, match medalist is a great accomplishment."

Senior Hannah Harwood finished with a 47, while senior Sarah Shrosbree had a 53 and senior Stephanie Everard a 56 for the Bulldogs.

"It was also terrific for Hannah (Harwood) to have her score in the 40s," Bareis said. "She's been a little up and down this season, so it's great that she's bringing her scores down, especially with the SEC Tournament and regionals right around the corner."

Senior Cayla Redmond and sophomore Emily Shrosbree each carded a 61 for Chelsea.

In the JV match, the Bulldogs placed second with a score of 198.

Winning the tournament was Dexter with a 183.

Ypsilanti Lincoln was third with a 212, while Tecumseh was fourth.

"Playing Pine View's Little Pine 9, the JV team placed second," Bareis said. "With a team score of 198, the JV girls posted three scores in the 40s and handled their short games well at this par 33, 1,446-yard short course."

Leading Chelsea was Ashley Beeman with a tally of 48.

Kelly Schmidt and Nicole Brown each shot a 49, while Courtney Ackley had a 52, Esther Kim a 54 and Jill Schmidt a 57 for the Bulldogs.

"This course really tested the girls' short games," Bareis said. "With each hole averaging about 160 yards, the girls really needed to control their chip shots and putting. It was nice to see such great scores from our JV girls. These were the lowest scores of the season for all six girls who played."

Chelsea next travels to Dexter to participate in the SEC match at Hudson Mills Golf Course Wednesday.

On Oct. 1, the Bulldogs will compete in the Division 2 regional match at Walnut Hills Golf Course in East Lansing. The top three teams advance to the Division 2 state final.

The Division 2 state match is Oct. 17 through 18 at Eastern Michigan University's Eagle Crest Golf Course.

HERITAGE NEWSPAPERS REGIONAL PROFILE: HOMECOMING 2008

Local school districts hold spirit contests, parades, play football

By Ed Patino
Heritage Newspapers

People driving around Washtenaw County will notice an increase in school and town spirit. The high school Homecoming season is kicking into full gear. Beginning next week in Saline and Augusta Township, and running through Oct. 18 in Manchester, Chelsea and Milan, students in area schools are preparing for Homecoming dances, football games and court nominations.

Many have similar activities and traditions that create a festive atmosphere, such as Spirit Week, pep rallies and a dance. Others are starting new traditions, including Powder Puff football games in Manchester and Saline.

In each district, Homecoming Week is not just a school activity, but a community event. Parades wind through town, and local businesses put displays in their windows to show school spirit.

Though the schools celebrate Homecoming their own special way, all of them share one trait. Each district's events are thought up and coordinated mainly by the students.

"There is a lot of work that goes into Homecoming, and the students put it together," said Kristin Glatz, Student Council adviser at Saline High School. "Homecoming is really a product of the ideas and work of the students."

Manchester: Dutch Spirit

This year's Homecoming activities at Manchester High School take place Oct. 13 through 18. Throughout the week, students will participate in Spirit Week, featuring many activities planned by members of the Student Council.

Each day during Spirit Week will feature a fun theme. While the themes haven't been finalized yet, some of the themes from last year's event were Class Color Day, where students in each class wore a designated school color, and the traditional Dutch Day, where students and faculty wear maroon and gold.

The class that displays the most spirit with participation in the events throughout the week will earn the prestigious Spirit Jug.

"The Student Council throws around ideas for activities and votes for them," Jennifer Payeur, Student

The tradition of Coming Home

The week continues on Friday with the pep assembly, which is coordinated by the Manchester cheerleaders. One of the highlights of the rally is the tug-of-war competition. The freshmen will face the sophomores, followed by the juniors against the seniors. The winners will then face each other.

A parade will take place in town later that day and lead up to the varsity football game between the Flying Dutchmen and the East Jackson Trojans.

"Manchester is super supportive of the school and loves the football team," Payeur said.

Throughout the week, each class will construct a wooden poster centering on the theme of Homecoming Week. Each board will be judged at halftime of the football game.

Homecoming concludes Oct. 18 with a dance at the school.

Chelsea: Sweet Charity

One of the unique traditions at Chelsea High School during Homecoming Week is its involvement with charity work. Each year, the Student Council selects a charity to support during its Spirit Week. This year, Chelsea is raising money for Pennies for Patients at Chelsea Community Hospital.

In past years, Chelsea High School has raised money for various charities in and out of Chelsea.

During the 2005 Homecoming Week, the school raised money for victims of Hurricane Katrina.

"We look for charities in the community, but they don't have to be specifically tied to the community," Chelsea High School Student Council adviser Laura Lutz said.

Like Manchester, Homecoming Week is scheduled Oct. 13 through 18 and features many Spirit Week events. Students will participate in dress-up days such as Pajama Day, Class Color Day, Blue and Gold Friday and other themes. Other Council adviser at Manchester High School said. "There are many activities throughout the week, and the students do most of the work."

One of the newer Homecoming activities takes place Oct. 15 with Powder Puff football. Girls from the senior class will play girls from the junior class.

"We're trying to make the Powder Puff game a big deal by inviting parents and the community to attend," Payeur said. "It will be $1 to get in, with the proceeds going to charity."

Pioneer Day turns back the clock

Michigan-Brilliant blue skies and falling temperatures are reminders that Pioneer Day at the Waterloo Farm Museum and Dewey School will soon be here. Step back to harvest time in the late 19th century on Sunday, Oct. 12, from noon to 5 p.m. to renew your acquaintance with the way of life familiar to the pioneer Michigan farmer.

Now in its fifth decade, Pioneer Day is the premier event on the Waterloo Area Historical Society's calendar. The roots of the event reach back to the beginnings of the Historical Society, which held its first "Open House" on a fall day soon after acquiring the 10-room Realy Farmhouse.

This year's celebration will feature more hands-on and make-and-take activities than ever. Visitors can try out fiber arts like knitting, rug hooking, and weaving or build a candle one dip at a time. Children can make paper bonnets and aprons while their parents dabble in plastering or open-fire cooking.

Admission to the event, at $4 for adults, $3 for seniors, and $2 for children aged 5 to 17 includes access to the farm grounds as well as guided tours of the ten-room farmhouse and one-room Dewey School. WAHS Members and children under 5 enjoy free admission. For additional information on Pioneer Day and directions to the Waterloo Farm Museum, go to <http://www.waterloofarm-museum.org>.

At the heart of a visit to the Farm Museum is a tour of the Farmhouse, where costumed docents interpret each of the home's ten furnished rooms. The grounds and outbuildings also come alive with demonstrations of all manner of crafts, vocations, and diversions of a bygone era. The pioneer farmer was "jack of all trades," and it takes dozens of volunteer demonstrators to show the many skills he brought to bear, from building and maintaining his own home and outbuildings, to planting and harvesting crops by hand, tending live stock, and making his own tools and furnishings of wood and iron.

His wife had her own skill set of home arts, exemplified by butter making in the Spring House, open-fire cooking, brick-oven baking in the Bake House, and dried flower arranging in the Realy Barn. Costumed volunteers elucidate many more traditional arts like spinning, dressmaking, weaving and quilting, while others exhibit farm chores like corn husking and shelling and cider pressing. But life wasn't all work for our pioneer forebears.

Visitors to Pioneer Day will also have the opportunity to try out stilt-walking and other outdoor diversions. A rich array of musical offerings will include a free workshop on old-time music led by Eddie Josephs, who plays banjitar, washboard, and harmonica among other traditional instruments.

Two music venues will feature Blackberry Jam Dulcimers, Chelsea's own North Creek Ramblers, the Celtic fiddlers of Kynne, and Craig Kukuk of the duet Bridgewater. Adults can have their heads examined by the itinerant Phrenologist, who will provide insights into his science throughout the day. Horse-drawn wagon rides provide an opportunity to relax and enjoy the serenity of the Waterloo Recreation Area.

Representatives of several Civil War regiments will be on hand to reminisce about the "War Between the States," and the Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War will be on hand with records of local Union soldiers for the genealogical-minded.

Smokin' Joe Showerman will bring a new aroma to the grounds and flavor to the concession with his barbecue pork and beef sandwiches. But never fear, you can still savor some Waterloo Bean Soup, then pick up a jar with the traditional recipe attached to try at home or give as a gift.

Just down the road, guests can visit another important institution of 19th century life—the one-room Dewey School Museum at Territorial and Mayer Roads. The "schoolmarm" will be on hand to recollect the days when children in different grades studied together. This was also the place for community meetings, school plays, and holiday activities.

Pioneer Day began in the 1960's as an open house at the Farm Museum. It has grown through the years, thanks to dedicated volunteers who believe it is important to reach young people and remind older ones that the Michigan farm pioneers were hard working, multi-skilled, resourceful persons who carved out a living in the wilderness with a determination and dedication that needs to be celebrated and remembered.

It is the mission of the Waterloo Area Historical Society to preserve that way of life.

floats, and the Family, Career and Community Leaders of America are in charge of the Homecoming court elections.

"We don't reach out that much, but we like to get the town involved," Glatz said. "People are usually excited about the fall, and homecoming is a big deal."

The Saline Hornets face the Tecumseh Indians in the Homecoming football game Sept. 26. The dance takes place at the high school Sept. 27.

Ypsilanti: Team Support

For Robin Mata, Student Council sponsor at Ypsilanti Lincoln High School, Homecoming week is one of the busiest, yet exciting times of the year.

"It's always chaotic, but we always manage to get the job done," she said.

The Homecoming dance takes place Sept. 27, and many spirit activities during the week lead up to it.

Lincoln's Spirit Week features several themed days like Multiplicity/Super Hero Day (Monday), '70s Day (Tuesday), Wacky Wednesday, Class Accessory Day (Thursday) and Blue and Gray Day (Friday).

"With Accessory Day, one class can wear sunglasses and another wear ties and hats," Mata said.

The pep assembly on Sept. 26 showcases Lincoln traditions such as the drum line, introduction of all the fall sports teams and class cheer. It also features competitions between classes such as a balloon-popping event, in which students try and pop the balloons of the opposing classes until only their class color remains.

The tug-of-war tournament is another traditional event.

"We had lots of leeway this year, so we looked up some events online," Mata said. "We have relay, toilet-paper the teacher and the balloons."

The Homecoming parade follows the rally. Many groups from around the Ypsilanti community participate, including Scouts. A local day care center will hold a mini-parade during the high school event.

"People from anywhere are invited to participate in the parade," Mata said.

"We've had over 50 groups in the parade before."

Lincoln takes on Ann Arbor Huron in its Homecoming football game Sept. 26. The dance is the following night at Ypsilanti Lincoln High School.

Like the rest of the area schools, the Homecoming events are mostly student-run.

"The Student Council is the core group, and I'm the sponsor this year," Mata said.

Encore Musical Theatre needs you

By Sean Dalton
Staff Writer

Despite the perception of Jeff Daniels' relative wealth and influence in the region, The Purple Rose Theatre wasn't built brick-by-brick with his hands.

That's the message that Encore Musical Theatre organizers want to get out to the very community that will be the beneficiaries of what such a venue would do for downtown Dexter.

"We are looking for people in the area to donate their time and skills," says Michael Sawaya, Encore general manager. Artistic Director Daniel Cooney, whose connections brought Larry Gatlin to town and promises to bring even more talent from Broadway and beyond, will be returning to the area on Oct. 20 after performing in a Dolly Parton production this year.

That's about the time Encore organizers need the community to have made a decision and stepped up to take a brick in their hands.

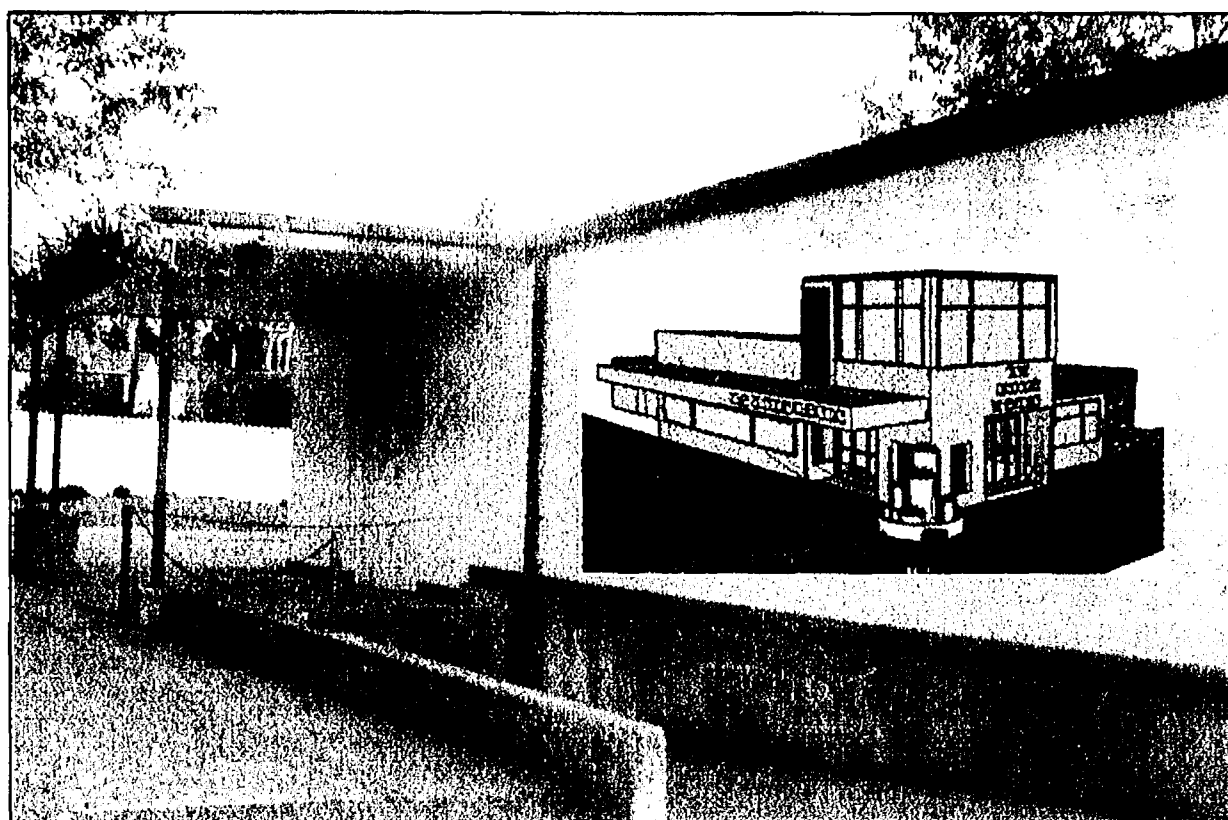

"We need people to assist us in getting the theater ready - that means we need plumbers, electricians, heating and cooling, and carpenters, who would be willing to donate a few weekends to help us building this in the community," Sawaya said. "We also need donated materials like tile, carpeting, lumber, theatre type curtains, seating, heating and cooling materials, and other materials necessary to get started."

Last week theater organizers announced that they had approved by the state of Michigan as a 501(c)(3) tax-exempt non-profit organization, after their application was approved.

For awhile now The Encore Musical Theatre was referred to as The Encore Musical Theatre Project - mostly concepts and wishes based on a one-off performance at the Dexter Center for Performing Arts at Dexter High School.

See ENCORE — Page 6-D

Community support can make the inset concept rendering a reality, Encore organizers say.

CCA throws 10th anniversary party

By Sheila Pursglove
Special Writer

A dollar may not go very far nowadays - but 10 years ago it provided the Chelsea Center of the Arts with a home when Kathleen and Jeff Daniels gifted the former St. Mary Parish Center at 400 Congdon Street to the CCA for the sum of one greenback.

Local lore has it the couple sent a card featuring an image of Dorothy's ruby slippers from the Wizard of Oz, and the words, "There's no place like home."

Friends, patrons and employees of the CCA gathered Aug. 28 to celebrate the anniversary.

"We felt that this milestone - being in this building on Congdon Street for 10 years - was a great cause for celebration," said CCA Executive Director Aubrey Thornton-Martinson.

"Without the gift of the building we would not have been able to grow our programs to serve well over 150 students a week with private music, group music, visual arts classes, drama classes and dance.

"We help to keep the arts a vital part of everyday life in Chelsea - this building is our home, and is the creative home for so many families."

The CCA was pleased the Chelsea Children's Cooperative Preschool - that shares space in the building - was able to partner on the anniversary celebration, Martinson said.

"They have just renovated the former kitchen into a beautiful and fun new place for their Young 5s program. The Co-Op brings a wonderful warmth and energy to our building, and we were also celebrating their home as well," she said.

"I also wanted to highlight how close the CCA is to downtown Chelsea. Having the party right before Sounds & Sights was a great way to do it. We almost had our own parade - people were strolling downtown to enjoy the music, leaving their cars at the CCA and walking downtown."

Martinson paid tribute to benefactor Kathleen Daniels.

"Kathleen is such a wonderful spirit," she said. "You could tell from her speech and from chatting with her beforehand that she has many happy memories of our building, which is why she saved it from possible demolition and gifted it to the CCA for one dollar."

"She spoke about her time here with fondness, and we are glad to be the caretakers of the building to preserve her memories and the memories of everyone that used our building. We're definitely making it our own space, but we love the history and the character."

CCA Board President Misha Moore said the celebration reminded her of how the CCA touches the lives of a wonderful cross-section of the people who live and work in Chelsea.

"We've been working hard to be good stewards to the former St. Mary's Parish building and it was fun to show off how nice the building is looking with a big party," she said.

Future plans include repainting and re-carpeting the interior of the building, and replacing and repairing windows for better energy efficiency.

CCA co-founder Steven Hinz recalled the early days and the work involved in getting the Center up and running. "I have fond memories of our excitement around the gift of the building," he said. "We quickly tore into making it our home as an arts center."

A small core of people worked crazy hours tearing out old carpeting and drop ceilings, resurfacing the wood floors, and moving around furniture, he said.

"It's been exciting to watch the building evolve to current use, where we fill and use every corner of the building with teaching locations," Hinz said.

"I've always enjoyed walking by the building when the windows are thrown open and listening to the sounds of the instruments and voices in dissonance as music is played and technique is taught to young people."

One good reason to go to church

There are many good reasons to go to church, but often I can think of none better or more important than this: We attend worship to be reminded that there is a spiritual side to life.

That might seem obvious to you, or it might not. But it is absolutely true. Let's face it, it's so easy to get involved in all the problems and hassles of this life, to the point where the heavenly matters described in the Bible seem unreal. This is true for me, and I am a pastor, so I can only imagine the problems lay people have in this regard. Not that a pastor is any better than anyone else, but you'd think that, being in contact with God's Word constantly throughout the week, I would have a great advantage, and be so saturated with God's Word that I would almost be lifted up to heaven. That's not the way it works, though. I go out side, and my flower bed, and trees, and the blue sky, often seem so much more real than God and my spiritual life, that it's pathetic. We are flesh and blood, and without the constant weekly reminder we get in our worship services, we're kidding ourselves if we imagine that we can maintain a spiritual existence. There are many other reasons to come to worship, but this alone is enough.

Even if the sermon isn't the greatest and the hymns aren't our favorites, we need this reminder that there is more to life than what we can see or feel or touch; there is a God to whom we owe everything, and more important, there is a God who cared for us so much that He sent His only Son to prepare eternal life for us.

By the way, like many churches, we at Faith Lutheran refer to our worship as a "worship service." You might wonder, "Why is it called a 'service'?" It is called a service because God is serving us, serving us with His Word and with His Sacrament of Holy Communion.

Now that the fall season is beginning, and not only worship, but also Sunday School is starting at most churches, isn't it time for you to get back into it? Have you been drifting, or shutting the Lord out, or telling yourself you can worship God just as well at home or elsewhere? Maybe it's time to be honest with yourself and with your God and get back to church.

We hope to see you soon!

Organizers did pretty well putting people in those 800 seats, and now have much of the final product of the project in place and at least enough perceived support to put people in the 189 seats at their location at the former Dexter Builders space, 3126 Broad St.

"We are currently creating posters and banners to get more information out to residents and businesses in and around Dexter to spread the word," Sawaya said. "We need the support of the community to make this happen. Any type of assistance is very welcome."

Aside from community involvement in making the theater happen, The Encore will also provide local talent a chance to shine with the Broadway talent that Cooney says will be the centerpiece of the project.

"I want folks to know that this is more than just a theater for locals, although that's great, but we are going to have big names coming here to put on shows," Cooney said. "I think it's important that people realize that - both people coming to the shows and those who are considering getting involved. We are going to have a wonderful opportunity here for everyone involved, from the guests to the performers to supporters."

The project has gotten the thumbs up from several local officials, including Downtown Development Authority Chairman Dan O'Haver, who called this a "unique opportunity" that doesn't always come along, earlier in the year.

Local talent will also be sought to assist both on and off stage for our upcoming productions. Anyone interested in assisting is asked to call Dan Cooney at 917-679-3078 or The Encore Musical Theatre at 734-719-3561 or visit www.theencoretheatre.org.

Theater details

The seating and stage will be of a flexible design so changes can be made from show to show.

"That is what is unique about it," says Michael Sawaya, Encore general manager. "We will have a moveable stage and seating to create any type of arrangement necessary to enhance the show by changing things around."

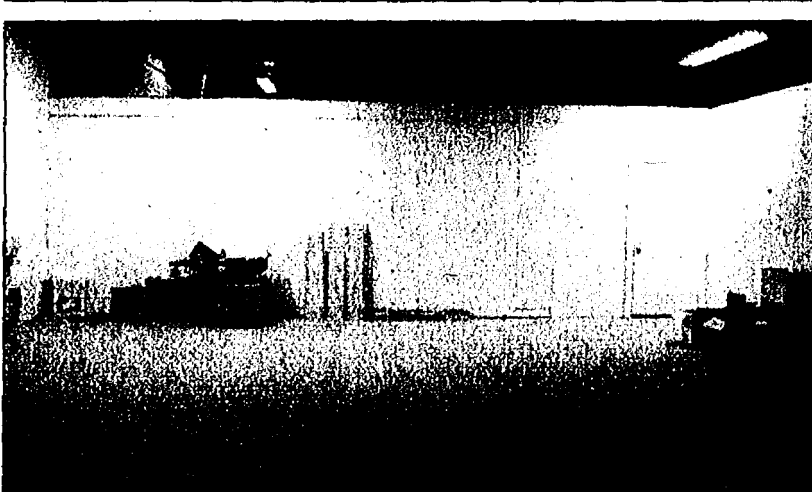

Opening night is scheduled for Friday, Feb. 6 at 7 pm. The opening show will most likely be Andrew Lloyd Webber's "EVITA", but Encore organizers have yet to set that in stone. Folks who wish to start attending productions from the state should keep their eye on The Dexter Leader and/or keep in touch with Encore staff.

Renovation of the 3,900 square foot theater space will commence on Oct. 15, while the exterior receives some "face work."

In addition to the state and seating, there will be two star and two ensemble dressing rooms, restrooms, a box office, a coat check and a concessions area.

Tickets will be priced at $22 for seniors (55+) and $28 regular admission. There will be special group rates, child rates and student rates yet to be determined.

There will also be season ticket packages, a 2-ticket 6-show season package, a 4-ticket family 6-show season package, a senior package, and two dinner packages that will include 2 tickets to each of the 6 shows and dinner for two at two of the nearby restaurants. Tickets will be available soon, although I do not have a specific date yet.

With the current situation in the food industry, it has become increasingly difficult for us to run our Bonus Buys program with the current minimum purchase requirement of $15.00. Rather than terminating the program altogether, we have decided to keep the Bonus Buy program, but with a minimum purchase requirement of $25.00. We realize that times are difficult for many of our customers. However, we cannot afford to provide items well below our cost, unless our customers are doing the majority of their grocery shopping with us. These Bonus Buys are our way of saying THANK YOU to those of you who have made us your #1 destination when it comes to grocery shopping!!! We truly do appreciate your patronage and we are doing all we can to keep the prices down for you--our LOYAL CUSTOMER!!!
