Open for business

Despite a rough economy, local entrepreneurs open doors on new ventures

By Lindy Stevens
Special Writer

From local coffee shop chatter to speeches from presidential hopefuls, everyone's talking about the economy and so far the discussion hasn't been good. Businesses are closing and jobs are leaving Michigan, but in Chelsea and Dexter, some new small business owners have recently opened up shop and managed to buck the national trend toward economic downturn.

One of those business owners is Karen Bentley, a realtor turned cell phone

Karen Bentley, owner of Wireless Giant in downtown Dexter, says "I think it's still a very viable market."

aficionado, who took over Dexter Wireless Giant on July 1. Bentley, whose original goal was to sell the business, said she purchased the phone franchise because it was an opportunity too good to pass up. So good, in fact, she put her real estate license in escrow and went to work at her store full time.

Bentley said the necessity of cell phones meant the lagging economy didn't give her a cause for concern.

"I think it's still a very viable market," Bentley said. "My experience has been that when people are trying to cut their costs, they're actually coming in and purchasing a cell phone and just getting rid of their home service."

So far, Bentley said her biggest challenge hasn't been managing her 60-hour workweek or making enough sales. Her biggest challenge is keeping up with new phones that are constantly hitting the market.

And with a steady stream of people who want to keep up with ever-changing technology, Bentley said her customers are willing to pay top dollar for the fastest and sleekest in cell phone technology - even if some analysts are saying that the Report reflects 'high-performing' schools

By Edward Freundl
Staff Writer

Just as any public corporation has to file an annual report to let stockholders know the condition of the company, public schools must file a similar report to their "stockholders": local taxpayers.

Andrew Ingall, Director of Curriculum and Instruction, went over the results of the Chelsea School District's 2007-08 annual report at the Sept. 22 school board meeting.

"The purpose (of the annual report) is to ensure access to public information and transparency," Ingall told the board.

"We are a high-performing, high-quality school district."

Ingall went over highlights of the report, which can be found in its entirety on the district Web site, www.chelsea.k12.mi.us.

Among those highlights: Enrollment has shown a decline of about 8.6 percent over the past six years, from a high of 2,937 in 2002-03 to 2,684 in 2007-08.

This year's numbers are still being tallied; the official "count day" was Sept. 24.

"We predicted we would be down by 35, but we may be down only 20 in K through 12, which is better than expected," said Superintendent Dave Killips.

The unofficial, unaudited number is 2,647, seven short of what officials had budgeted for, according to Killips.

In professional qualifications, 98.8 percent of faculty meet or exceed requirements for teacher certifications.

The curriculum review cycle for updating subjects is:

— 2007-08: Science (9-12), new and updated high school courses

— 2008-09: Science (K-8), math (K-12), media (K-12), music (K-12), social studies (K-8, alignment study only) — 2009-10: Health (K-12).

MPA names Chelsea Standard 2008 'Newspaper of the Year'

The Chelsea Standard was named 2008 "Newspaper of the Year" by the Michigan Press Association. The MPA awards, announced on Friday, included 670 points for the Chelsea Standard in Class D.

The Dexter Leader was named the "Newspaper of the Year" in 2007. Both Heritage Newspapers are produced by the same staff. The Leader received an honorable mention for general excellence in 2008. The judges said that the Leader was a "fine example of solid local journalism."

"These honors are a credit to the entire community because without the help of both communities we couldn't put out the type of newspaper we feel Chelsea and Dexter deserve," said Editor Terry Jacoby. "While while these awards are special, the positive feedback we get from our readers is what matters most to us."

The Chelsea Standard was second in general excellence a year ago in the MPA awards and won more awards than any paper its size in the national 2007 Suburban Newspapers Association contest.

The staff of the Standard and Leader swept the category for enterprise reporting. Ed Freundl's Adopt-A-Farm series took first place. The judge stated, "Wow! What a piece of journalism. I am left speechless by the Bad apples? Farmers upset with land appraisal, treatment

By Edward Freundl
Staff Writer

Kevin and Stacey Wing say they are disappointed that their efforts to save their family farm from development have apparently been snubbed.

But just as disappointing, they said, is the treatment they received at the hands of Scio Township officials when they aired their concerns in a public meeting.

The Wings have been working with the Scio Township Land Preservation Commission (LPC) since 2005 to preserve their 200 acres as agricultural land, rather than becoming a prime target for developers.

"A developer offered us several million dollars for our 200 acres, but we told him we were more interested in preserving it and were trying to work with the township under Proposal J," Stacey Wing explained.

Proposal J authorized a millage to set aside more than a half-million dollars per year to be used in conjunction with government and private funding sources to purchase development rights to such property.

The required property appraisal was completed, but the Wings were less than satisfied with the results.

"The appraisal offered us less than half of the low number the developer offered us," Stacey Wing said.

There are two ways to do appraisals, Wing said: With "comparables," which look at parcels that are comparable in size and value; or "plus/minus," where one property is compared to another and value is added or subtracted based on several factors.

According to Wing, the LPC appraisal set the net value of her farm at $16,000 per acre after some "givebacks" specified in the ordinance, but a gravel pit in the township was appraised at $17,000 per acre.

"We are outraged that our farm was valued at less than a gravel pit," she said.

"We made a counteroffer, but they said they don't negotiate, and this is the price (they'll) pay."

Stacey Wing singled out LPC consultant Barry Lonik for criticism.

AREA POLICE BRIEFS

Drunken driving arrest

A 49-year-old Manchester man was arrested by Chelsea police for second offense drunken driving at 7:16 p.m. Sept. 13.

According to a police report, an officer was advised by dispatch to look out for a possible drunken driver. The 911 caller observed a red Ford pickup truck driving in an hazardous manner from Manchester.

The officer spotted the vehicle on Brown Drive and South Main Street, and observed it make a wide right turn into the left-turn lane on Main Street toward I-94.

The officer followed the car south on M-52 and noted the vehicle veering from the white fog line and over the center line, the report stated.

The officer turned on his overhead lights to make a traffic stop but the vehicle continued south, veering all the way across the oncoming lane to the opposite shoulder before returning to the southbound lane, then crossed the centerline again near Jerusalem Road.

During this time, the truck was clocked at 60 to 63 mph in a 55-mph zone, the report stated.

The officer turned on his siren to bring the car to a stop near Sager Road.

The officer noticed the odor of intoxicants on the driver and found an open 12-oz can of beer in the man's lap, and two unopened cans on ice in a cooler on the passenger seat, the report stated.

The man continued eating a hamburger while the officer questioned him.

The officer asked the man to turn off the engine and he tried, only then realizing the car was still in gear.

The driver admitted he had been drinking, but "not much," and could not remember which brand of fast food he was eating, even though the bag was on the seat, according to the report.

The driver failed field sobriety tests, and when asked where he had been drinking he replied, "Just drinking and driving," the report stated.

The driver pleaded with the officer to let him go, to follow him home, and to let him just park the truck where it stopped.

A preliminary breath test registered a .275 percent blood alcohol content, and the man was arrested, handcuffed and transported to the Chelsea Police Department for processing.

A records check showed the man's first offense for drunken driving was in 2001, the report stated.

The truck was parked at the Chelsea Proving Grounds and the man made arrangements with his wife to retrieve it.

The suspect was taken to Chelsea Community Hospital for a blood draw to confirm the blood alcohol content, which the man agreed to, but when they arrived he said he was being held against his will.

He was subsequently transported to the Washtenaw County Jail.

Pickup reported stolen

An officer was dispatched to a local car dealership at 11:15 a.m. Sept. 15 for a report of a pickup truck stolen off the lot.

The officer met with the sales manager, who said an employee discovered the new heavy-duty truck missing, along with a new large capacity trailer and a tailgate from a different model of pickup.

According to a report, the ignition key was inside an undamaged steel lock box, but the sales manager said most employees had a master key.

The value of the truck was $52,700; the trailer, $7,300; and the tailgate $1,200, the report stated. The case was closed due to lack of leads.

Drunken driving arrest

Police arrested a 50-year-old Chelsea man with a long history of drunken driving convictions for the same offense and for driving without a license at 4 a.m. Sept. 14.

According to a police report, an officer was advised by dispatch to look out for a possible drunken driver on south Main Street driving a red Ford Taurus.

The officer turned his patrol car around when he spotted the vehicle, which turned onto Old Manchester Road.

The officer watched the vehicle hugging the shoulder of the road, and when it turned west on Old US-12 it began hugging the centerline, the report stated.

The officer stopped the vehicle at Old US-12 and Fieldstone Drive, and when the man tried to bring the car to a stop he had to swerve to avoid striking a mailbox.

The officer recognized the suspect as having a revoked driver's license since 1986, and seven prior drunk-driving convictions in Adrian, Chelsea, Ann Arbor, Romulus and Jackson since 1983, the report stated.

The suspect admitted drinking two beers, but he failed field sobriety tests and his preliminary breath test reading was .18 percent blood alcohol content.

He was arrested, processed and transported to the Washtenaw County Jail.

Health clinic benefit

A concert is being planned for Friday night to raise money for the non-profit Whitmore Lake Health Clinic.

The event, "Music Mix Festival," will take place from 7 p.m. to midnight at the Barnstormer, 9411 E. M-36 in Whitmore Lake.

The music will be classical, rock, blues, gospel, and rap.

Scheduled acts include group Domination, rap by Drew Coker and David Kolic.

Linda Kolic will play original songs she composed, as well as reading her own poetry.

It is planned to be an outdoors concert, but will be brought indoors if the weather does not permit.

The $10 donation cover charge will be given to Whitmore Lake Health Clinic, and The Barnstormer is donating the space and will also offer food and beverages.

For those who do not attend the concert, donations can also be made directly to Whitmore Lake Health Clinic, P.O. Box 606, Whitmore Lake, MI 48189.

Pulford earns sergeant stripes; council OKs new police car

By Edward Freundl

Staff Writer

Chelsea police officers have a new command officer, and will soon have a new look to their patrol cars.

Pulford

Pulford scored very highly in the testing and interview process that led to the promotion.

"He earned the position; he was outstanding," Toth told the council.

"This young man is the future of the department. It's guys like him who will take over this department when I'm long gone."

Toth explained that the testing was done by an independent, outside agency, and described the kind of candidate he wanted in a new sergeant.

"We were looking for a team player; we are striving for excellence, and trying to get people to think in that way," he said.

Out of six people eligible for the position, only two put in for the test.

Both were qualified but Pulford scored higher overall, according to Toth.

"We looked at the quality of the incident reports he files, and his willingness to take on responsibilities," Toth said.

Pulford has been with the department since June 2006, the chief said, adding that there will be a mentoring process for the next six months to a year to make sure that Pulford has a successful transition into his new supervisory role.

Following the announcement,

Pulford said he was pleased with his new assignment.

Chamber members enjoy wine tasting at Farm Museum

By Sheila Pursglove

Special Writer

The Waterloo Farm Museum provided an unusual and attractive venue for the Sept. 25 Chelsea Chamber of Commerce "Business After Hours" event.

About 50 Chamber members stepped back into the 19th century to be greeted by Farm Museum volunteers in Victorian garb before gathering in the old Realy barn on a beautiful Fall evening.

They enjoyed refreshments provided by the Hamewald Lamb Company. Mill Pond Bread and Sweet Surprises – including lamb meatballs in mint sauce, venison sausage, a selection of cheeses, an assortment of breads, peanut brittle, chewy pecan squares, and cookies shaped and decorated like the famous Farm Museum windmill.

Eddie Josephs, a member of the Tin Penny Band that performs around southeast Michigan, played old-fashioned songs and music – and Sandhill cranes in the field beyond the barn provided their unique brand of vocals.

After a welcome by Bob Pierce, executive director of the Chamber, and by Arlene Kaiser, program director for the Waterloo Area Historical Society, the group enjoyed a talk by Heather Price of Sandhill Crane Vineyards in Jackson and sampled several handcrafted wines – including Blushing Crane, Sassy Rose, Moulin Rouge and Raspberry Rose.

After the wine tasting, attendees enjoyed touring the Victorian buildings at the Museum – the 10-room Realy farmhouse, bake house, icehouse, workshop, granary, milk cellar, windmill and log house.

Volunteers Brian and Jeff Dewey, construction workers who were among the "Victorian" greeters, are restoring many of the buildings. The Farm Museum and Waterloo Area Historical Society will host Pioneer Day 2008 from noon to 5 p.m. on Oct. 12.

Jennifer Kaiser, Private Events Coordinator for the Waterloo Area Historical Society, and her team of volunteers did a fantastic job, Pierce said. The museum is available for private events such as birthday parties, company picnics, reunions and weddings, ranging from casual to elegant, all in a Victorian ambiance.

The Business After Hours event kicked off the next few months of monthly activities.

"The BAH events are so popular amongst our members that we are booked through May of 2009 with sponsoring businesses," Pierce said.

Next month the group will visit the main branch of the Chelsea State Bank as they spotlight their recently remodeled lobby area. A progressive event is planned for the Hometown Holiday kickoff in December, in the Village Plaza businesses in the southtown area of Chelsea.

Then 2009 will take the group to the Arctic Breakaway, Adult Learner's Institute, Anytime Fitness and Mill Lake Youth Camp/Cedar Lake camp.

The monthly events are a very important benefit for Chamber members and have evolved into the Chamber's premier networking program, Pierce said.

"These networking events are designed to increase awareness and knowledge of the sponsoring business products or services. Additionally, they provide a unique opportunity for the members in attendance to exchange information regarding their particular businesses," he said.

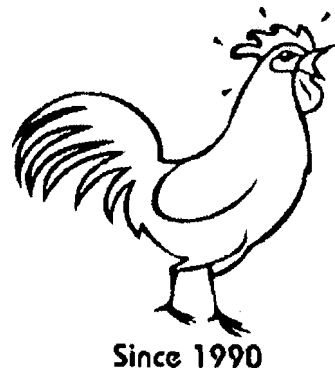

"The Waterloo Farm event was a successful example of networking at its finest. I spoke to several members who had never visited this wonderful facility prior to the After Hours event. Other members mentioned that they are now considering volunteering for future events at Waterloo."

Retired toolmaker and veteran to leave legacy to city

By Edward Freundl
Staff Writer

Bud Johnson knows the little piece of history he created in brass, bronze and steel will outlive him.

He simply hopes it will serve as a reminder to future generations of what they owe to military veterans.

While working as a machinist in his father's shop in 1955, Johnson was asked to help with a project for Veteran's Park.

Having just returned from serving in the U.S. Army in Korea, Johnson was honored to create a water fountain for the park's war memorial, sketched out and paid for.

"It was certainly unique and a one-of-a-kind design," Johnson said.

It was a small cannon, with the water supply entering under the breech end and the flow through the barrel.

"To take a drink, you put your hand over the barrel and the water spouts up through a small hole where the fuse would be located on a real cannon," Johnson said.

"As a Korea veteran and a life member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, I have always been proud to make the contribution to Vet's Park and was hoping it would remain my legacy to my hometown."

However, with the recent reconstruction of the bridge at the park, the fountain and its structure was removed and the cannon was stored in a Department of Public Works maintenance garage.

Johnson began to wonder what had become of his creation, and contacted Department of Public Works Superintendent Craig Maier.

"He had no idea that I had made it, but why would he?" Johnson said. "It was likely before he was born."

Bud Johnson of Chelsea is shown with the bronze cannon replica that he made in 1955 that became part of the former veteran's memorial at Veteran's Park. The "cannon" was actually a water fountain.

Johnson had stamped his name and the 1955 date on the base, but weathering and oxidation over the years had made them illegible.

Maier returned the cannon to Johnson, who found a shop in Jackson that could sandblast the corrosion off the piece and restore it.

"Steve Cox at Tri-State Blasting & Restoration said he would do the work at no charge because it was for veterans," Johnson said.

"That's another example of what real Americans do for those who continually risk their lives for our freedom."

Now with the new bridge in place, the only thing missing from Veterans Park is a memorial to veterans.

And plans are in the works to restore that, too.

"Absolutely, it's going to happen," said Maier, who has taken a personal interest in the project as a Vietnam veteran and member of American Legion Post 31.

"It'll be in the neighborhood of the new flagpole at the corner of M-52 and Sibley Road."

Maier said a number of organizations and individuals have expressed interest in the memorial, including Chelsea's Fallen Heroes, the Legion, and Chelsea Rotary.

"The city may also offer some help, and I have money in the parks' special projects budget," Maier said.

While the funding is being worked out, however, the basic design of the memorial is falling into place.

Maier said it will use the plaque from the old memorial, and a bronze statue has been ordered.

"I would like to use Bud's cannon in some way, but for health reasons we won't be able to use it as a water fountain," Maier said.

"I'd also like to put the symbols of the five service branches on it."

Although the plans are proceeding at a steady pace, hopes for completing the memorial this year will not come to pass.

"We were hoping to have something in time for Veterans Day, but it's more realistic that we'll have some kind of dedication next Memorial Day," Maier said.

Life has changed quite a bit for Johnson since making the cannon more than a half-century ago. He closed the machine shop in 1970, and spent the next 20 years working for major automotive and heavy equipment suppliers, then retired.

Johnson said he'd like to see the cannon used in the memorial again so it can be his "legacy" to his few remaining relatives.

"I am the last of the Johnson family that began when my father, Olie Johnson, emigrated to the U.S. in 1925 at age 17," Bud said.

"I hope that, even if the cannon cannot be used as a drinking fountain in the future, it can still be included in the memorial so that my remaining family members and my wife can visit the memorial and see my small contribution to my hometown and all fellow veterans."

City Council Notebook

Coalition asks Council to take efforts SRSly

By Edward Freundl
Staff Writer

Members of the Chelsea City Council got a close look at the new SRSly program at their Sept. 23 meeting.

Program Director Reiley Lewis of Chelsea Community Hospital led the council through the program, named for the teen text message shorthand of the word "seriously."

It is designed to reduce high-risk behavior among Chelsea's youngest teenagers.

"People who start drinking before age 15 are five times more likely to develop dependency than those who start drinking after reaching legal drinking age," Lewis said, referencing a survey of Chelsea teens' attitudes toward alcohol and drug use and sexual behavior conducted last year in her council presentation.

The program is an outgrowth of the Chelsea Community Youth Coalition (CCYC) and includes officials with the hospital, the Chelsea School District, the Chelsea District Library, the police department, churches and concerned parents and citizens.

Lewis presented statistics based on a survey last year of Chelsea teens' attitudes toward alcohol and drug use and sexual behavior.

The survey found a concerning and growing number of early teens engaged in behavior with potentially grave consequences.

"It also showed marijuana and prescription drug abuse, and that too many parents are OK with it," Lewis added.

Ultimately the council designated Sept. 26 as "SRSly Chelsea Day," backed by the reasoning that kids in this age group need to feel that parents and neighbors notice and appreciate their responsible behavior.

The people involved in the program aren't "reinventing the wheel," Lewis said, but are trying to mesh things that have worked in programs in similar communities.

The program also asks that parents step up to the plate and evaluate their behavior and how it affects their children and whether they are being good role models.

Council member Cheri Albertson, a mental health professional who works with the same age group as the SRSly targets, questioned the effort.

"You do realize that this is the 'Communities That Care' model, don't you?" she asked Lewis, referring to a U.S. Department of Health and Human Services program.

Lewis reminded Albertson that her group intentionally targets early teens because studies have found that to be a critical age group.

"There are so many risk factors involved, and this only focuses on one," Albertson continued. "This sort of thing is lost on them."

Lewis did not relent.

"We don't think we're going to end all drug and alcohol use overnight, or that by November this will be a drug-free community," she said.

Gary Adams, on the other hand, was very supportive of the effort.

"I've been involved in similar activities over the past 25 years in Ann Arbor," he said. "We did a lot of these types of things with parents, teachers and counselors."

He said he was "shocked" at what he learned about teen behavior.

"To me, it was very scary," he said.

Adams urged the council to support SRSly.

"It's much more important than zoning issues, streets or police cars," he said.

Outstanding warrant arrest

At 2:41 a.m. Sept. 18 a Chelsea officer was dispatched to meet with sheriff's deputies on Jackson Road to pick up a suspect arrested on an outstanding warrant.

According to the report the 42-year-old Chelsea man was arrested for failure to appear in court on a misdemeanor charge of driving with license suspended.

Domestic violence report

Officers were dispatched to an apartment in the 200 block of Wilkinson Street at 11:22 p.m. Sept. 18 for a possible domestic violence complaint.

According to a report, the anonymous caller reported hearing loud yelling and cursing between a man and woman.

Officers arrived and through a window observed a man in the apartment near the door while a woman came to the door and let them in.

The male officer questioned the man outside the apartment while the female officer did the same with the woman inside.

Both subjects told officers essentially the same thing: that the couple had been arguing because the man had not been home in two days, and that no physical altercation occurred, according to the report.

The man also told police that he had a previous domestic violence arrest.

Officers stayed while the woman prepared for work and then left the scene.

Larceny, property damage

A Chelsea man came into the police department on Sept. 21 to report that his video game console was damaged and broken and several games were missing from his home in the 20100 block of Old US-12.

According to a report, when the man arrived home one of his neighbors told him she saw his ex-girlfriend and another woman enter the house earlier that day, then exit through the front door carrying a box of items and leave quickly.

He told police he had broken up with the woman a month and a half ago, and since then he had let her borrow his vehicle and she crashed it, and she had entered the house without permission.

The neighbor's description to police matched the ex-girlfriend, the report stated.

Contacted by phone, the suspect claimed the games were hers and refused to return them, and also took a variety of other items from the house claiming that she owned them; but she denied damaging the video player.

The damage to the unit was estimated at $400.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor: Two weeks ago at Faith in Action we received a call asking to interview us for a spot on the Today Show as part of an election series on "Battleground States." The NBC staff had seen a Washington Post article written by Vickie Elmer in which our work as an emergency service agency was highlighted. They said they wanted to hear about problems people were experiencing here, problems being experienced even in the small towns of the state of Michigan.

We agreed and were interviewed by NBC staff the following Friday, and spread the word that the spot would be broadcast on Thursday, Sept. 25. Knowing they had filmed at spots up and down Main Street as well as here at FIA House, I know there were lots of people watching excitedly to see our community on national television. Unfortunately, they did not end up using the spot that day, citing the economic bailout and its influence on the campaign and the debates as reasons the program might be disrupted.

None of us are so naive as to think that having Michigan's woes highlighted on the Today Show would in itself make a difference for those who have lost jobs and are struggling here, but some who did watch the entire show felt there was little focus on the economy and hardship we are having while including human interest fluff of little relevance to our status as a battleground state.

That in itself is a greater disappointment than not seeing ourselves on television.

Nancy Paul
Director, Faith in Action

To the Editor: There it was, on national TV and on a major network. I recognized the scene as the camera showed the historic Dexter Cider Mill during its photo journal of places to visit when attending a U of M football game. It was impressive and just the thing Dexter needs to promote our little corner of the world.

But this is not the end of the story. Early Sunday morning I stopped at the Mill for my weekly bag of cider donuts and told Dick Kozinski how proud I was that Dexter got exposure on a national network. Dick and his family run the mill with honor and a down home dose of humility typical of our local community.

That's why I was not surprised that his reply was, "I want to share this exposure with our whole area and I want other businesses to benefit. Next time I'll try to include the names of local retailers."

Now there is no way that ABC will allow Dick to expound on his local loyalty, but Dick knows that unless the whole area is successful then his business will suffer.

Thanks Dick for the national TV exposure. You made us proud. But I'm even more proud that you want all of us to share in your "15 minutes of fame."

Steve Gergely
Dexter Flowers

To the Editor: I'm pretty convinced now that it's a good thing Congress didn't pass the Bush Administration's big bailout bill on September 29. We know now that there's no way "Club for Growth" Republicans like our own Congressman Tim Walberg will permit spending money to benefit the middle class or allow re-regulating the financial system. That should mean that the rest of Congress will no longer feel obliged to waste its time trying to accommodate them.

The commentary that I have heard and read about the root of the problem being the dramatic loss of the home equity we have been using to get credit for our purchases makes sense to me.

Most bang for your vote

Guest Column: There's no place today for voting problems

By Richard Trumka

This year's historic election may come down to two major factors: how many people turn out to the polls, and how many of their votes are counted.

Voter turnout increased more than 120 percent during the presidential primaries and few, if any, of the pundits predicted it. Millions of young people and people of color have been especially energized by the candidates and are registering to vote for the first time.

Yet the primaries also spotlighted questions about whether our country is ready for Nov. 4.

There were numerous reports of polling place problems, voting machine malfunctions and complaints of voter registration glitches. Lines were long, voters were not on the rolls and too many would be voters simply gave up.

Polls in parts of Ohio, California and the District of Columbia ran out of paper ballots, in some places as early as noon, according to a Pew Center on the States' study. And the Lawyer's Committee for Civil Rights Under Law reported that its nationwide voter protection hotline received over 5,000 complaints during the primaries.

In the 2006 general election, the hotline received 584 calls from Michigan, with the majority from Wayne County. There were reports of voter intimidation including a man outside Van Buren Township middle school who was reportedly telling voters that the polls closed at 7 p.m., an hour earlier than the actual 8 p.m. closing time. A Macomb County voter received a voter registration card directing her to a polling location that did not exist at the given address.

It was almost like a repeat of the 2000 and 2004 elections, when horror stories of long lines, inaccessible and understaffed voting places; poorly designed ballots; ill-functioning voting machines; and voter intimidation and manipulation in low-income, Latino and African American communities were widespread.

We cannot allow these voting rights problems to occur again in November 2008. There's simply too much at stake.

This year, every eligible voter in Michigan must be able to cast a ballot and have that ballot counted.

A truly historic election day is going to come down to individual voters who must be active proponents of their own right to vote.

That's why AFL-CIO

Guest Column: Let's change how we vote

By John Gourlay

I have always been someone who feels an obligation to participate in public affairs by volunteering, making my opinions known, and by voting.

At the same time, however, I have always been repelled by the political process that makes otherwise respectable candidates malign their opponents and pander to the middle, and that sometimes makes me feel that I must vote for the second-best candidate because my first choice can't win.

In a book published this year, Gaming the Vote: Why Elections Aren't Fair (and What We Can Do About It), William Poundstone describes in horrifying detail all of those things that I detest about elections.

Poundstone devotes a good part of the book to case after case of "spoiler" candidates who have thrown elections to opponents at the opposite end of the political spectrum. Almost everyone still remembers Ralph Nader running for president in 2000 and taking enough votes from Al Gore to make the less-popular George Bush the winner.

But, of the 45 presidential elections held under the modern rules, at least five were decided by spoilers. Also, in 2006 alone, three of the six senate seats that the Democrats needed to gain a majority were won with the help of conservative spoilers. Our "plurality" voting system, in which we can vote for only one candidate even if three or more are running, has elected many unpopular candidates.

As Poundstone puts it, "Were the plurality vote a car or an airplane, it would be recognized for what it is—a defective consumer product, unsafe at any speed."

Many alternative methods of voting exist in which voters have the ability to rank or rate several candidates, rather than just one. These have a long history of use throughout the world from the Renaissance and even before. Approval voting, for example, in which voters may vote for all of the candidates they find acceptable, was used in Venice for over 500 years, and in our own Electoral College in its early years. Instant-runoff voting was used throughout Europe and the United States until the middle 1900s. In this type of voting voters rank the candidates, and voters' second choices can be counted if their first choices do not achieve a majority. What happened in the middle of the century, among other things, was that Nobel-laureate economist Kenneth Arrow listed a set of desirable properties that everyone can

Our Chelsea History

Where did the name "Jiffy" on Chelsea Milling Co. products originate?

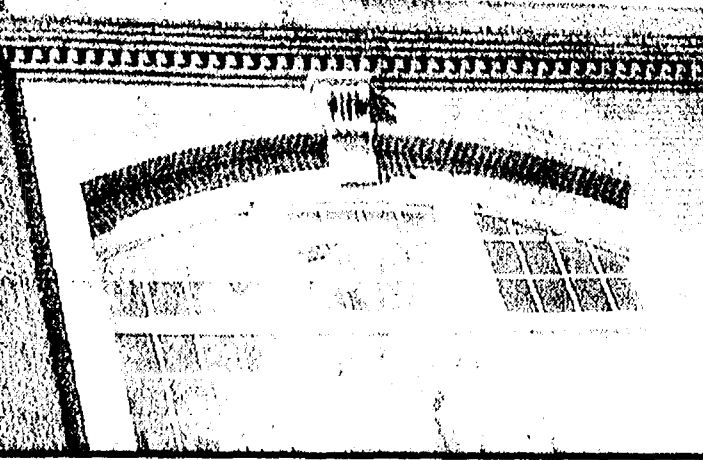

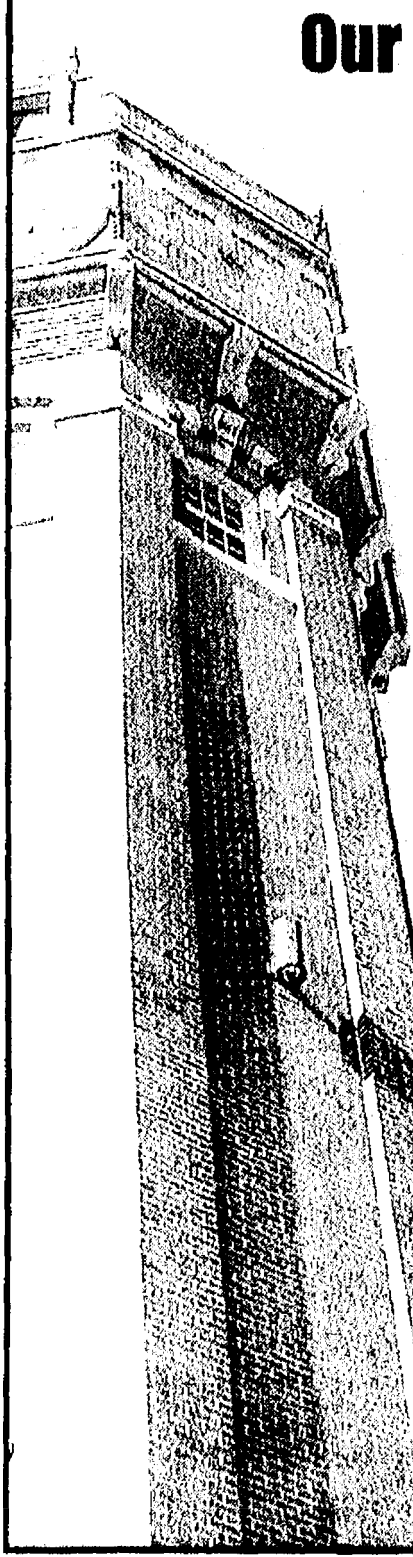

A. From Chelsea's "name the new package mix" newspaper contest in 1930.

B. A memory of home-made biscuits from Mabel Holmes' childhood which were always "ready in a jiffy."

C. From "Jiffy" who was the factory cat responsible for mice control.

Answer B. After concocting a new baking mix and packaging idea, Mabel Holmes suggested the name "Jiffy" to Howard while driving home from a Chicago business trip. Mabel referred to the White family's black cook Gulla exclaiming, "Now, Miss Mabel, you go tell your father his good, hot biscuits will be ready in a jiffy!" Jiffy Biscuits mix was America's first prepared baking mix, introduced in 1930. Shortly after fourth generation Howard Samuel Holmes, "Howdy" returned to Chelsea Milling Co. in 1987 to work with his father Howard Sumner Holmes, he coined a new inside nickname for the company - "Jiffyville."

Guest Writer: Barb Marshall

Thank you, Chelsea: Sincerely and with heartfelt appreciation

By Barb Marshall
Guest Writer

I had an amazing day on Saturday, Sept. 28. I stood outside Polly's Country Market in Chelsea for about seven hours asking people for their help in the way of donations for the breast cancer walk in which I am participating on Oct. 18 in Ann Arbor.

First, I need to thank the Kennedy group for giving me permission to use their store on a busy Saturday. I appreciate their willingness to allow me to ask their customers for their help. Without this permission, I would not have met some incredible people that day. I met 11 cancer survivors who live in the Chelsea area, eight of whom are breast cancer survivors.

Several hugged me and thanked me for doing the walk, and I was greatly moved by this gesture. The three other survivors, two of whom are male, were eager to share their stories of survival as well, and I was thrilled to hear they are all doing well. Time and time again, people who stopped to donate had a story, everyone, it seems, has been touched by this disease.

I met some young men who had just lost their mother last week at age 42 to adrenal cancer, and they donated. I was truly overwhelmed by the willingness of people to donate. Parents gave their children money and coins to put in "the nice lady's jar!" Throughout the day, I saw and chatted with friends and neighbors whom I regularly see, and an added bonus for me was to chat with friends I had not seen for quite awhile.

People were so encouraging and generous that it made me thankful to live in a community like this. By the way, I need to tell you that at the end of day, when my husband and I finished counting all the donations that had been received, the total was over $900. We were both flabbergasted by the enormous amount of money that was donated in such a short time.

This amount alone could provide cancer treatment to someone who cannot afford it, or provide mammograms to women who have no insurance. I have a personal goal of raising at least $13,000 this year, and because of your generosity, I am now at just about $10,000 as of Sept. 29.

So, to everyone who donated, I owe a huge thank you from the bottom of my heart! If you wish to donate, simply send a check, payable to the American Cancer Society, to my home. The address is 20625 Waldo Road, Chelsea, 48118.

Heart screening repeated

Chelsea Community Hospital cardiologists and clinical staff will evaluate high school students for pre-existing heart conditions and abnormalities at a free screening from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. Oct. 11 at the CCH Professional Building.

The screening will include a review of health history, a blood pressure check and an electrocardiogram (EKG). A cardiologist will then evaluate each student by listening to his/her heart and if further testing is necessary the student will have an echocardiogram, a noninvasive picture of the heart.

Results of the screening will be mailed to each student within one week of the screening.

The event is a repeat of a very successful event held just prior to the spring sports season.

This time, however, hospital officials are insistent that people make appointments to maintain an orderly flow of patients.

- Council approved formal codification of existing city policies pertaining to responsibility for the construction, operation maintenance and repair of water and sewer laterals.

Laterals are sections of pipe that run between the edge of the city right-of-way and the home or building being served.

The policy gives the city manager the authority, without city council action, to refuse to grant property owner requests that the city partially or entirely finance the cost of constructing, connecting, maintaining or repairing laterals to the water or sewer mains.

Council action would be required if the property owner can demonstrate that the need for repair of the lateral was the result of city action or inaction in maintaining or repairing the mains.

- The council also passed a resolution setting a public hearing for 7 p.m. Oct. 14 for approval of an amendment to the Downtown Development Authority (DDA) Tax Increment Financing (TIF) and Development Plan.

The plan involves rehabilitating the former Federal Screw Works property, as well as authorizing the city to enter into an agreement with the county Brownfield Redevelopment Authority to provide revenue to clean up contamination on the property and prepare it for commercial and residential development.

$40,000 for the vehicle and accessories," Toth told council members.

"We recommend Palmer Ford's bid of a 2009 Crown Victoria for $20,633.32, plus another $8,000, give or take, for equipment."

A police committee put together the proposal and researched several vehicles, looking at performance, safety, interior space and comfort, design and equipment.

The committee consisted of officers John Detting, Dennis Hall, Shane Sumner and Mark Pulford.

An underlying concern was to end the confusion between Chelsea police cars and those of the Michigan State Police.

According to the committee's report, "Our current patrol cars are commonly mistaken for Michigan State Police cars. The department needs a vehicle that is distinguished as an independent professional organization."

A new graphics package will clearly identify "Chelsea Police," and the "bubble" light on top will be replaced with an LED light bar that goes all the way across the top of the car and "gives much better illumination at night," Toth said.

The paint job will be a dark blue, as opposed to State Police royal blue.

The committee also looked at the Chevrolet Tahoe, Chevrolet Impala and Dodge Charger.

"The Crown Vic is the best vehicle for our needs," Toth told the council.

"We will probably carry over the $10,000 not used for this into next year's budget."

The new vehicle, to replace Unit 1, will arrive in a few weeks. The new light bar and graphics will be included in subsequent vehicle replacement purchases, rather than changing over the entire fleet all at once.

Council unanimously approved a price not to exceed $20,900 for the vehicle; plus $8,000 for equipment.

"I think it's appropriate that we differentiate Chelsea from the State Police," said City

Manager John Hanifan. "We want our own identity."

agree should hold for all voting systems, and then proceeded to prove mathematically that no ranked voting system can satisfy all five simultaneously. It appeared that all voting systems were flawed, so why struggle with anything more complicated than simple plurality voting?

Arrow's theorem damped interest in voting methodology to such an extent that it has taken half a century for further research by mathematicians and social scientists to clarify the picture, but it appears now that the pessimism was unfounded. One observation is that there are voting systems that do not fall within the control of Arrow's theorem.

Approval voting is one example, and so is range voting, in which voters give numeric ratings or letter grades to the candidates. In range voting, the candidate wins who gets the highest total rating. Another development is that mathematician Warren Smith, with the help of computers unavailable in Arrow's day, has been able to simulate the behavior of voting systems under various scenarios of candidates' and voters' beliefs.

What Smith has found, for example, is that voters are likely to be much more satisfied with the results of instant-runoff voting compared to plurality voting, in spite of the fact that both voting systems are flawed according to Arrow. In other words, in practice the flaws of instant-runoff voting are less likely to offend voters than those of plurality voting. Smith has also found that the outcomes of range and approval voting are likely to make voters happier yet.

Another advantage to these alternatives to plurality voting is that voters who support more than one candidate can indicate that support on their ballots. Third-party candidates no longer will be spoilers.

Moreover, candidates need not feel that they must tear down their opponents to get votes, and elections under these alternative voting rules are more positive than the ones we've come to expect. With third-party candidates no longer a threat, there will be more of them, adding a welcome diversity of ideas to our elections. Finally, one of the most important benefits of these alternative voting systems is economic.

Allowing voters to evaluate many candidates at once on a single ballot can make primary elections unnecessary, saving large amounts of money for the government and for candidates.

Gaming the Vote is a lively, detailed book worth reading and discussing. In this election season in which all of the candidates are emphasizing change, let's urge our representatives to make a fundamental change that will help change everything else. Let's change the way we vote.

I agree with the solutions that several economists have proposed: 1) have the federal government buy direct equity stakes in the failing institutions to provide them with capital, and 2) send money to state and local governments to use for infrastructure projects and other expenditures to stimulate the economy. This approach seems to me to be much more Main Street-friendly.

I hope Congress will take full advantage of its second chance to craft the best possible solution to the biggest economic problem our country has ever faced.

Holiday concerts will feature local voices

By Edward Freundl
Staff Writer

Several local people will join a cast of hundreds that will present favorite songs of the holiday season in a series of concerts in Southeast Michigan rivaling a Broadway production.

Produced and directed by internationally recognized musical creator Thurlow Spurr, "Christmas in Color" will appear in eight cities throughout November.

"This is the most exciting Christmas concert I've ever been involved with," said Gary Reed of Chelsea, who decided to join the production this year after seeing it with his 11-year-old daughter, Shelby.

"Ever since we saw it last November, Shelby wanted to be a part of it so we auditioned in January."

A production of this size and scope takes that long to rehearse, Reed pointed out.

"We've been going down to a church in Livonia to practice. There are people from all over involved in this," he said.

"Each year new talent comes to the choir, and they add new songs take out old ones."

"There's something new every year." The long rehearsal schedule is necessary when trying to coordinate some 300 voices in a variety of musical scenes, according to Nadine Gorzelniaski of Sharon Township.

"We're all amateurs, but it is not an amateurish production," she said. "People are pretty dedicated to it; they drive from Grand Rapids and Toledo."

"We practice once a month, and we have a CD that we practice our own parts with at home—it's fantastic how it all comes together," she added.

Reed said it was "amazing" to see the entire cast get together for its first mass rehearsal recently.

"(It) was the first time that we had the kids' choirs, the adult choir and some of the acting ensemble together to do a rehearsal; it was amazing," Reed said.

"There are special guests, and those people are phenomenal."

One other local woman, Kathy

Faber-Pitts of Chelsea, said it is a year-long commitment.

"As soon as one concert is done in November, we talk about it in December and we start preparing for the next concert in January," she said.

"It takes several hours a month, not counting the whole afternoon we spend at the church rehearsing. I'm learning my music by listening to my CD in the car going to work."

Faber-Pitts said she has been involved in the production twice; first when she was younger, then returning to it about five years ago.

"I liked the music, and they invite anyone in the audience to join them so that's what I did," she said.

This year's series includes six matinees and three evening shows, each lasting about two and a half hours.

Tickets are $30, $22 and $20; and each venue has its own ticket chairperson. Special group pricing for 10 or more is available.

Tickets can be ordered by phone at 800-993-SING or online at www.emi-choir.org.

VOTING

union activists and constituency groups have joined a nonpartisan coalition of civil rights organizations, faith-based organizations, students, lawyers and other community allies in Michigan to tackle voting problems and reach out to citizens about their voting rights.

Here are six simple steps that everyone in Michigan can take to make sure their ballots count:

• First, call your local elections office before Election Day to verify the location of your polling place.

• Second, bring some form of identification to the polls, preferably a government-issued photo ID.

• Third, ask for help from poll workers and check posted information signs if you have questions or need assistance at the polls.

• Fourth, if you are in line at the polling place when the polls close, do not leave. You're still entitled to vote.

• Fifth, if you are offered a provisional ballot, ask if you can cast a regular ballot instead by providing additional ID or by going to another polling place. If there are no other options, cast the provisional ballot.

• Sixth, if you have a voting rights problem, ask to speak to an election official or to a voting rights volunteer, or call the toll-free voting rights hotline 1-866-OUR-VOTE, operated by a nonpartisan coalition of groups, including the Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights and the AFL-CIO.

Voting is our most precious right and responsibility as Americans, and this year, we must make sure our votes will count.

"(He) is the only paid member of the LPC, and he's the one who told us the appraisal was just a starting point," she said.

"We've gone through this for three years: they told us the appraisal was a starting point, but now they are telling us they don't negotiate."

Lonik said the LPC ordinance prohibits paying a landowner more than the appraised amount.

"I never would have said that (it was open to negotiation); it's in our ordinance," Lonik said.

"It's very clearly stated in the township ordinance that the township may pay less than the appraised value, but can pay no more than the appraised value."

Stacey Wing was mystified by the revelation that the "starting point to the negotiation" was to end up with an even lower amount.

"Who negotiates that way? I've never heard of negotiating in reverse," she said.

Lonik noted that the appraisal is done by Washtenaw County's only certified rural real estate appraiser, and takes several factors into account.

"Two appraisals are done: one to determine the value for development and the other for the agricultural value, and the difference between those is the preservation value," he said.

For example, if the agricultural value is $3 and the development value is $10, the preservation value is $7 and that is the maximum the LPC would pay the property owner.

Lonik also disputed the amount the Wings said were offered, but declined to go into specifics.

Matters between the LPC and the landowner are supposed to be confidential, he said, and he is "not at liberty" to share financial information.

"(The appraisal was) considerably more than $16,000 an acre but not as much as the Wings wanted," he said.

"What I've seen from very recent appraisals, I think it was a very fair offer for the property, but obviously the Wings had another opinion of that and they certainly have a right to that."

Although Township Supervisor Charlie Nielsen appoints LPC members and the Scio Township board has final say over its recommendations, Nielsen said he takes an arm's-length attitude with the commission.

"I look at it in a more global view," Nielsen said. "There was such a discrepancy in price, there was a huge gap."

"From what I heard of what went wrong there, they were hoping for an appraisal that was for market value," he added.

"We don't pay for these properties as if we were a developer and we're going to develop it, we're paying not to develop it."

After rejecting the appraisal, Stacey Wing appeared at a Scio Township Board of Trustees meeting in July to express her frustration with the process.

Frustration turns to anger

"They were rude," she said. "They whispered to each other while I was speaking, passed notes, and generally looked bored."

Nielsen said the board is not supposed to interact with a person making a presentation at a meeting.

"I don't know why she would say that about the township board," Nielsen said.

"I don't recall something that I consider rude behavior, we're there just to listen to them."

"Sometimes a couple of trustees have a conversation break out among themselves, but I don't know that I would depict that as rude behavior," he said.

Whatever the behavior of the trustees at that meeting, it caught the attention of County Commissioner Mark Ouimet, R-District 1.

"I was there on another matter, but it caught me off guard so much I felt I had to say something," Ouimet said.

"Some on the board were not giving her the courtesy that she deserved."

"Here you have a citizen asking a legitimate question and she wasn't getting any response," he added.

"It's critical for public boards to pay attention to residents' concerns. I don't know if they were discounting her because they didn't want to walk through the procedure, if they were discounting her because she was female, or discounting her because they had already made up their minds."

Cindy Glahn, a Realtor in Dexter and a friend of the Wing family, has followed the proceedings over the last three years and expressed her own frustration with the situation.

"It's unbelievable to me - the whole time she was talking, Charlie Nielsen was walking around, talking to other board members, totally ignoring one of his constituents," Glahn said.

"The whole thing was shocking."

Glahn said the Wing Farm is worthy of preservation because "it is the last place you can come in to Dexter or Ann Arbor without coming through strip malls."

"Unless this is preserved, to say this will never be developed into a strip mall is very shortsighted," Glahn said.

"On that particular corner you can easily see a Wal-Mart going up."

She also said it's frustrating that the current township board apparently doesn't see the value of preserving the property.

"The LPC said the farm had as much development potential as a landfill or a wetlands; those were two of the properties they used to set the value," she said.

"There seems to be no common sense applied, and the lack of common courtesy applied to one of their constituents was unforgivable."

Ouimet said he had two concerns about the situation, which was a matter of poor communication.

"The first being I wasn't sure how they arrived at that (appraisal) number; I think the Wings were asking for clarification and so was I, so we could see exactly how they got to that number," Ouimet said.

"Secondly, it was very disconcerting that the board wasn't paying attention to what she was saying."

Ouimet said the LPC and the township board should have taken more time to explain a very complex process.

"If indeed they were only going to take one appraisal, then say that and state the issue that defends that position; and if they were working from specific guidelines, they should have explained that," Ouimet said.

"The Wings should be applauded for trying to keep the rural character that surrounds Dexter."

The next steps

The Wings are up in the air about what to do next.

The private developer's lucrative offer is still out there - for now; and the LPC considers their preservation application active - for now.

"The township was substantially disappointed that it was unable to work out an agreement," Lonik said.

"It's critical for everyone to understand that we are dealing with public funds, which are always precious."

"The Wings' application is still in our hands; we hope they will give it another chance."

Nielsen said the matter would not come before the township board again unless and until the LPC acts on it.

"The last I heard gave me the impression that it was a dead deal," Nielsen said.

"If (the Wings) wanted to come back and talk about it,

I'm sure they would be welcome."

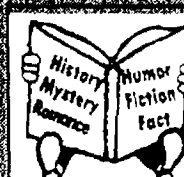

Stacey Wing said she's not ready to throw in the towel just yet, but more fairness must be applied to the appraisal process.

"As long as they only use comparables there's no way to get a fair appraisal, because there's nothing comparable to our farm in this area - and they'll even tell you that," she said.

"We're not going to just give it away. It's been in my husband's family since 1852, and we don't feel it's our right to give it away."

BUSINESS

economy is on the verge of a recession.

But with her closest competition almost 20 minutes away, Bentley said she's benefited from being the only game in town when it comes to cell phones — an advantage she admitted has probably protected her from the economic realities faced by other small operations.

For Edna Middleton, the owner of Rose Cottage, a home décor and gift shop in downtown Dexter, being surrounded by other businesses isn't a concern.

In fact, Middleton, who opened up in April, said her location nestled between other small business owners has actually helped drum up business.

Situated next to the Dexter Pub and just down the street from the Lighthouse Café, Middleton said regular restaurant crowds usually mean a regular flow of foot traffic passes through her store, too.

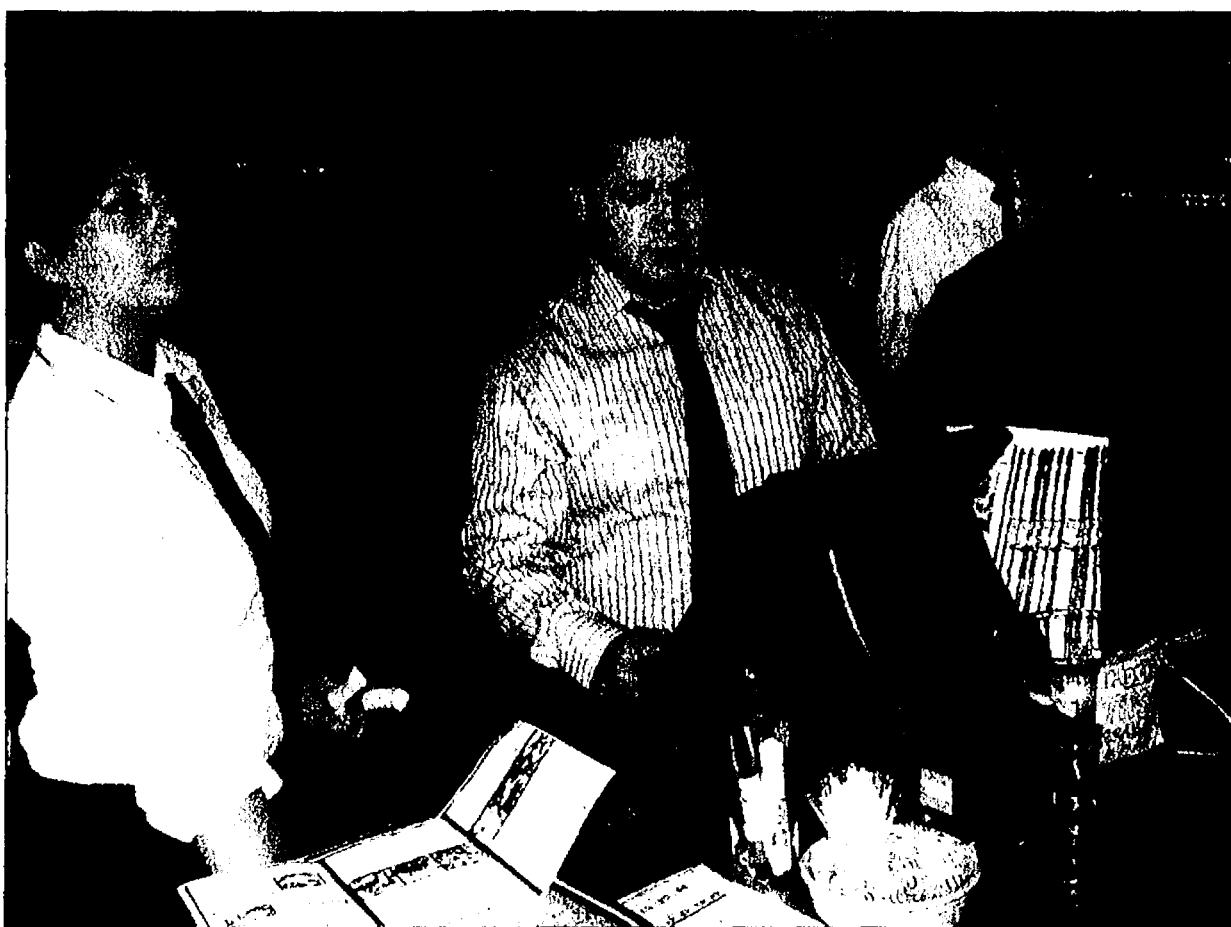

Despite an expected crowd of browsers, though, her sales haven't been quite as successful as she'd hoped.

"Business could be better, but I'm still making enough to pay my bills and buy more inventory," Middleton said.

Middleton bought her business and her first round of merchandise from the owner of the Purple Ribbon, a gift shop on Main Street in downtown Dexter that closed earlier this year.

"I saw the Purple Ribbon and I just knew that was exactly thing that I wanted to do," Middleton said. "So it was just a perfect fit for me and I wanted a turn-key business, so it was really a right place at the right time kind of thing."

Most recently, she's been in contact with local woodworkers to try and incorporate more locally made items into her collection of mostly shabby chic merchandise.

Manager George Pacheco works the register at the new Las Fuentes restaurant in Chelsea.

And with prices that range from a few dollars to a few hundred dollars, the Rose Cottage owner said the selection in her store means there's something for everyone.

Even with that kind of selection, though, Middleton said most of her customers are either young professionals or more established local residents, both groups who she said can afford to keep buying in the midst of a national spending slowdown.

But while Middleton and Bentley are both first-time business owners, Eladio Pacheco, the owner of Las Fuentes, a restaurant that has been serving up authentic Mexican fare since July, running a small business isn't something new.

Pacheco owns and operates eight other Mexican restaurants in North Carolina and Virginia that have been in business since 1993.

He decided to open up for business in Chelsea after a friend told him there were no other eateries in the area that served the kind of dishes he was cooking up in his restaurants.

And with a year and a half delay on construction and an economy that means fewer people are splurging to go out to dinner than before, Pacheco said the lack of local competition is the only reason he still decided to open for business.

"When you open up a restaurant and there's not that much competition, it's always a good time," Pacheco said.

But while competition in the restaurant business is fierce, local artist and Daisy Lake Art Gallery owner Victoria Schon, said that when it comes to competitors, "the more the merrier."

Schon said the changing landscape of downtown Dexter, with three new restaurants open for business, had more to do with her decision to open at the end of 2007, than did the economic forecast.

"It brought in a lot more people walking downtown in the evening and so it just thought it was the perfect time," Schon said. "I had been considering an art gallery and wanting to have a bigger art presence in Dexter, so I decided to go for it last November."

Shortly after she opened, the Side Door Gallery and Artistica, both in downtown Dexter, followed suit.

Schon said she and the other business owners have been working together to develop their downtown art businesses.

She added that summer road construction, more than the economy, is what affected her business.

"The bridge traffic has affected the gallery more than anything I think," Schon said. "And I think we've had less traffic because of that."

Regardless of her profit margins, though, Schon said she doesn't have plans to abandon her downtown business anytime soon.

"I'm going to be here no matter what," Schon said. "I'm supporting the art gallery myself and my main objective is to create a larger art presence in Dexter and to provide space for artists."

With price tags that range from $60 to $2,000, Schon did admit that the economy might mean fewer people are buying original works of art these days.

But she quickly added that a customer's personal attachment to the piece, more than their checkbook, is the true measure of what they'll spend.

"You often get people who are familiar with an artist or they just really love the work and it's a very personal experience," Schon said. "People usually have an emotional response to a piece of fine art and that's the strongest indicator of whether or not they'll buy."

EMU Soccer Team sets sights on MAC Tournament

YPSILANTI, Mich. — Eastern Michigan University women's soccer head coach Scott Hall has his young squad primed and ready to make a major statement in the 2008 Mid-American Conference race.

With the loss of only two starters from last season's team, 2008 was expected to be a successful year for the Green and White.

"We are really excited that we are returning so many players with game experience," 10th-year head coach Hall said. "We lost a lot of players from last year's team, but we brought back a good core group of players. Bringing back nine starters from last year really helped us at the beginning of the year with such a tough non-conference schedule," Hall mentioned.

Scott Hall

And Hall's charges made the most of that tough non-league schedule, racing to a 6-3-2 overall record and a 1-1 MAC mark through the first month of the season.

Offensively, the top four point scorers returned this year and they have all made important contributions to the cause, but most of the early offensive credit goes to freshman Chelsea Detrick (Grosse Pointe, Mich.-Grosse Pointe North).

Detrick has surprised Hall by leading the team in scoring with a whopping nine goals through the first 11 games. Right behind Detrick in the goal-scoring area are a pair of juniors, Deana Kinter (Grand Blanc, Mich.-Grand Blanc) and Katie Lozar (Broadview Heights, Ohio-Brecksville) with two goals each. Senior Katie Zundel (Utica, Mich.-Henry Ford II) has also scored twice this year.

The goalkeeping duties have been shared by sophomore Maggie Manville (Chelsea, Mich.-Chelsea) and junior Monique Budani (Whitby, Ontario-Sinclair Secondary).

Manville has stepped up to post a 4-3 record with the bulk of playing time and Budani has a 2-0 mark in limited duty.

The Eagles still have nine conference games remaining, including four at home. The top eight teams qualify for the MAC Tournament.

watercolors of birds and cityscapes, said she tries to achieve realism with a soft focus.

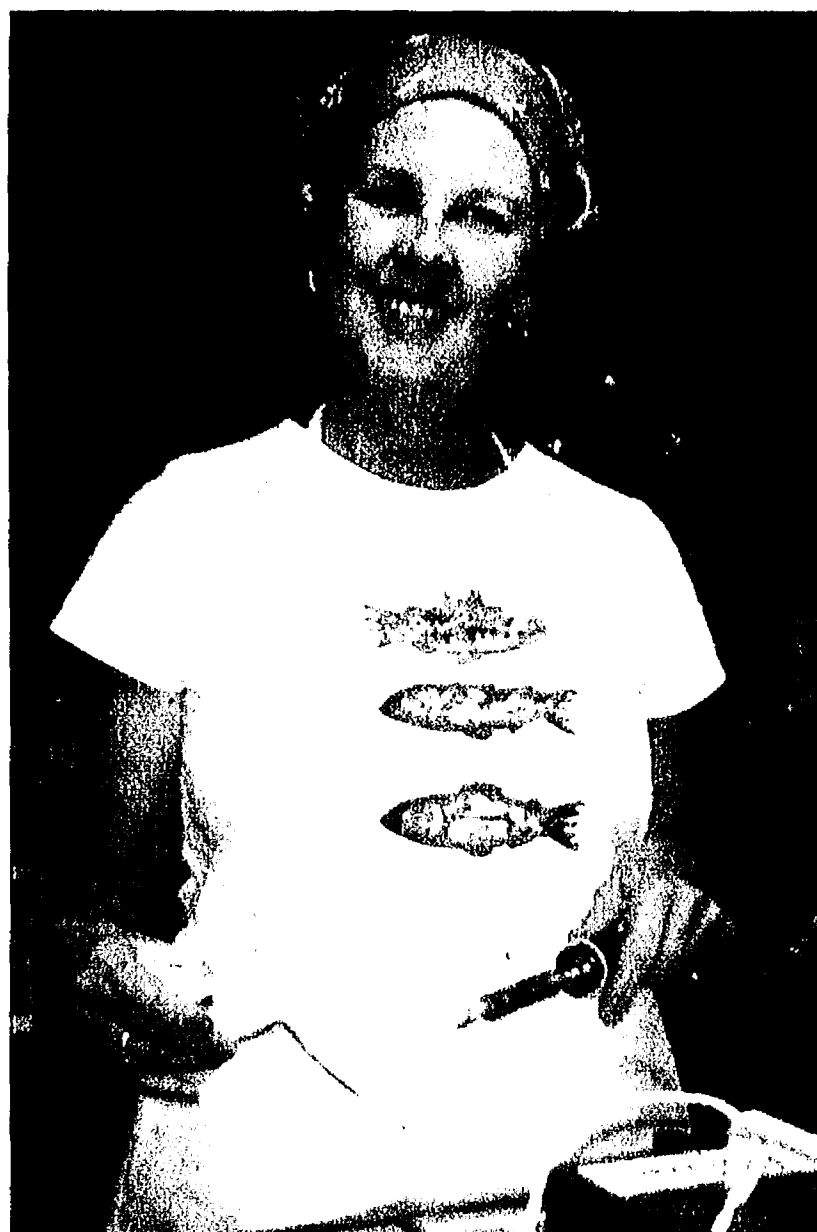

"I'm striving for accurate representation of a subject, but with a passion and artfulness that can only come from deep within," she said.

Burke first picked up a watercolor brush three years ago, and says painting is now an integral part of her life and has been a tremendous learning experience.

"In trying to teach myself about watercolors and interpretation, I think I've finally begun to realize what I want to achieve — paintings that display my true passion for the subject, not the realism," she said.

"Each painting is a learning process and one of excitement and fear. In watercolor, you pretty much don't get a second chance to get it right. With

Tolerance, diversity and independent thought

Chelsea's Lois DeLeon looks back at successful career

By Sheila Pursglove
Special Writer
Chelsea resident Lois DeLeon has marched to her own drummer for over seven decades.

DeLeon, whose mantra is "carpe diem - seize the day," has enjoyed a life of arts, music, culture, and social work, never afraid to make new decisions and face new and sometimes difficult challenges.

After a quiet, traditional upbringing in Bad Axe,

DeLeon expanded her horizons when she attended Antioch College, a liberal arts college in Ohio, earning a bachelor's degree in art in 1954.

"When I went to Antioch, I found a whole new world out there," she says. "I really found the world was much more exciting than I realized."

"I found an appreciation for tolerance, diversity, and independent thought. When I think back over my life, these are recurring themes."

She headed to the Big Apple for a job designing woven textiles - and since she knew nothing about the manufacturing of textiles, she then spent three years in the city of Leeds in the north of England, heart of the English textile trade.

She also was able to indulge her passion for music, since Leeds hosted world class orchestras from all over Europe.

Returning stateside with a master's degree in Textiles, she turned down a job at the Smithsonian and spent five years as assistant curator of textiles at the Cleveland Museum of Art.

"I really got into the culture scene in Cleveland," she says.

Deciding that textiles were interesting but not very relevant to the world, she switched gears and earned a master's degree in social work at Case Western Reserve in Cleveland. Her first job was working with

Apartment 3A returns to the Purple Rose

Romantic comedy reborn with new cast 12 years after world premiere

The Purple Rose Theatre Co. will present the revival of Apartment 3A by Jeff Daniels as the opening act to the 2008-09 season this fall. The production will enjoy a 10-week engagement from Thursday, Oct. 16 through Saturday, Dec. 20, 2008.

Eight low-price previews of Apartment 3A will be performed from Oct. 16 through Oct. 23 with the Press Opening on Friday, Oct. 24. Regular performances for the duration of the engagement are Wednesdays through Saturdays at 8 p.m. with Wednesday and Saturday matinees at 3 p.m. and Sunday matinees at 2 p.m.

All performances are held at The Purple Rose Theatre Company, 137 Park Street, Chelsea.

In Apartment 3A, Annie Wilson, director of fund-raising for PBS Channel 68, is faced with a series of personal and professional predicaments. Reeling from a broken heart, Annie chooses a new apartment in a different neighborhood and befriends a mysterious next-door neighbor who may hold the secret to a brighter future.

This romantic comedy contains adult language, humor and polar bear love.

The PRTC presented the world premiere of Apartment 3A directed by PRTC artistic director Guy Sanville in the fall of 1996. Since then, the play has had two off-Broadway runs - at the ArcLight Theater in 2006 and the Beckett Theatre in 2008 - and continues to appear in theatres across the country.

In a review of the ArcLight Theater production for The New York Times, Jason Zinoman wrote that the play is "written with wit, conviction, and a real affection for its characters."

"Apartment 3A is more timely now than when we first produced it 12 years ago," Sanville said. "The play was prophetic in terms of where we were then and where we are now as a people and a culture. It's a thrill to get another shot at it."

DELEON

"unwed mothers" in an era when there was a stigma attached.

"That's when I became very jaundiced with the adoption process and realized how bad the system was," she says.

When Case Western added a mandatory psychiatry program to their medical student third year program, DeLeon was part of the team tapped to create it.

"It was a whole lot of fun," she says.

At the age of 50 she married an associate professor of psychiatry at Case Western, 10 years her senior.

"We did things backward," she says. "Bought our house in '82, got a yellow Labrador. Mead, in '83 and married in '84. One day, we looked at each other and said, 'We've got to legitimize this dog.' Our parents were there. Mead was there. We were married in the living room. Mead drank the wine and the rest of us went out and had dinner."

"It was unique. I suppose I marched to my own drummer without meaning to. My family was conventional – middle class lives. In some ways, I don't accept things."

When her husband Charlie was diagnosed with dementia, DeLeon worried about facing the world alone. His death generated her need to look to her future, and a huge city didn't seem a good place to grow old.

She decided to move to Chelsea, the home of her brother and sister-in-law, Don and Charlotte Wyche; another brother lives in Ontario, and her sister lives in Chicago so Washtenaw County is a good central meeting place for the family.

Since arriving here, DeLeon has thrown herself wholeheartedly into the local community.

"When I moved here, I was really going to focus on Chelsea," she says. "At one point, I wasn't going to be as mobile as I am now. I knew I was going to focus on Chelsea and all it has to offer."

"I really feel comfortable. I feel like I've made friends. You reach out and people respond. Chelsea is like that. People are very committed to it."

She enjoys visiting art galleries and shopping locally, making new friends around town.

"When you reach out, it's easy to join a new community," she says. "I've just met wonderful people. I've found that everywhere I've gone in Chelsea."

Although leaving Cleveland was hard – she left behind friends, music, art and the symphony – DeLeon says she's happy with her choice.

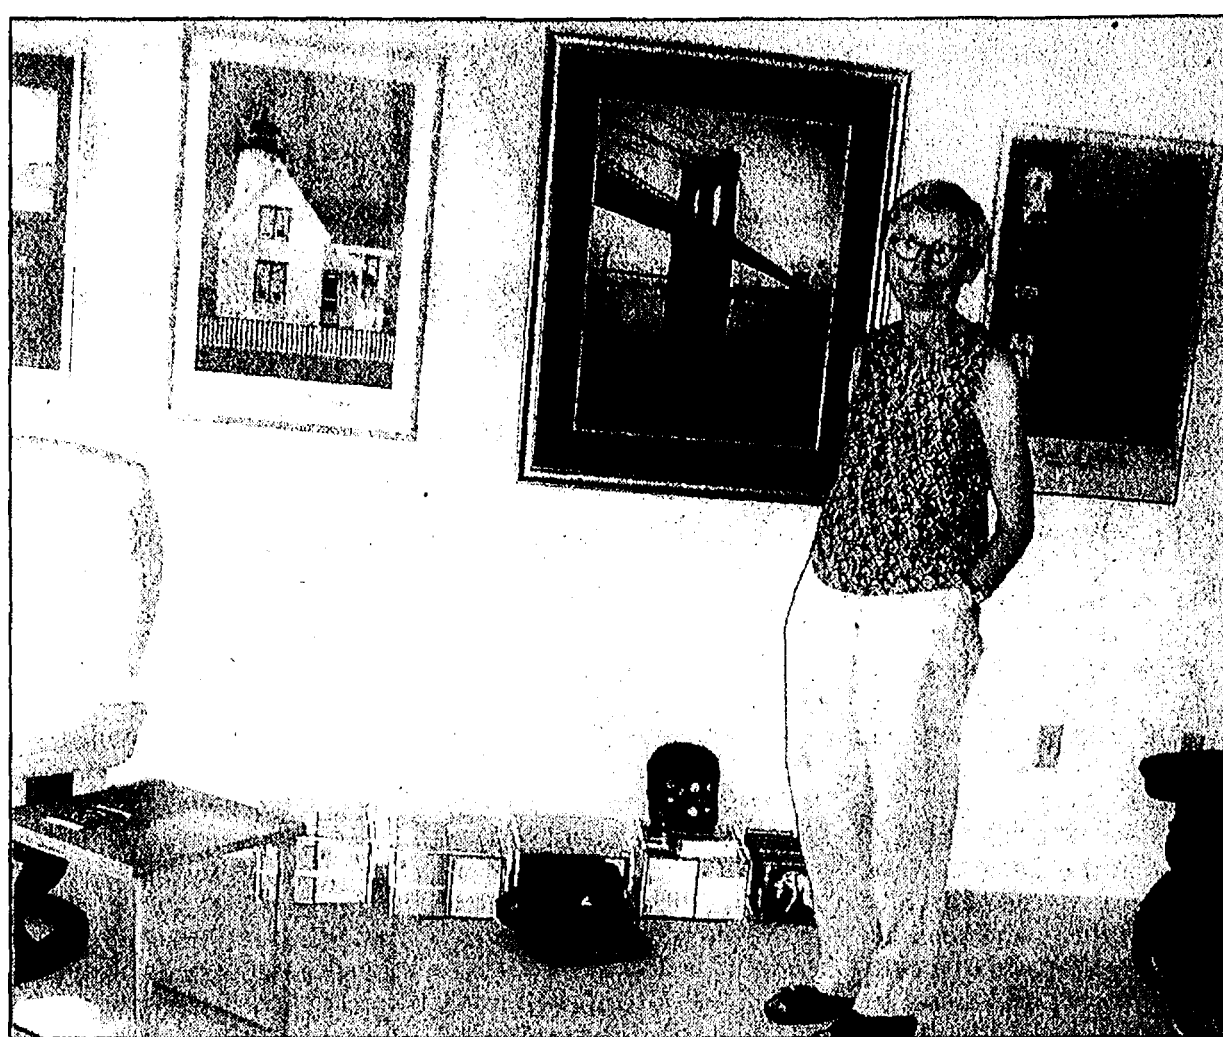

"I've gained peace of mind and I'm comfortable of where I am in my life," she says. "Silver Maples turned out to be a really good choice. It's a welcoming group. Again, if you reach out, everyone responds."

Her philosophy is to always keep an open mind when traveling along life's road.

"Don't pre-judge, don't rule things out. You don't know what life brings," she says.

"You can't sit around and be passive. You have to decide what you want to do, and do it."

Sheila Pwsglove is a freelance writer. She can be reached at bmgley51@yahoo.com.

Since moving to Chelsea, Lois DeLeon has become a big part of the arts community.

Movie looks at scripture and acceptance of gay men

St. Barnabas Episcopal Church will screen the movie, "For the Bible Tells Me So" at 7 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 11. Admission is free.

The movie examines the impact of scripture and the varying degrees of acceptance and hostility faced by gay men, lesbians, bisexual and transgendered people.

"This is a way for us to talk about the scriptures that are traditionally used as a tool for exclusion of many of God's children whether they be poor, hungry, disabled, gay, etc.," said Kathy O'Connell, St. Barnabas parishioner. "Like the garden project where we grow food to feed the hungry per the command of Christ, we are reaching out to all who have gotten the message from society that 'you are not good enough.'"

The title, taken from the old and familiar hymn, "Jesus Loves Me (this I know, for the Bible Tells Me So)" explores the reactions and repercussions of several families who face the news that a child is lesbian or gay, including longtime Congressman Richard Gephardt and his family. It also features the controversy over the ordination of The Right Reverend V. Gene Robinson as an Episcopal Bishop. He is a gay man in a committed, same-sex relationship.

The National Episcopal Church, member of the worldwide Anglican Communion, has received sharp criticism because of the Robinson ordination. But there are also many proponents of ordaining openly lesbian and gay clergy.

"Two same-sex couples at St. Barnabas have been together for 19 and 26 years and each had Life Covenant ceremonies in the mid 90's," said Marcia Ledford, a lawyer and member of St. Barnabas. "However, without a marriage license available in Michigan, according to the Human Rights Campaign Fund, they are denied some 1,000 estimated rights that automatically inure to a state-sanctioned, legally recognized civil bond."

The parish will facilitate a Q & A after the movie, including refreshments.

St. Barnabas Episcopal Church is located in Chelsea, 20500 West Old US 12. For more information, call 1-734-475-8818 or log onto www.stbarnabuschelsea.org.

Cooking class to beat cancer

The Cancer Project, a national nonprofit dedicated to advancing cancer prevention through education and research, is offering a free, four-session cooking course designed to help Chelsea residents prevent and survive cancer through proper diet and nutrition.

"The single easiest and best thing most of us can do to prevent cancer or its recurrence is to eat right," says Jennifer Reilly, R.D., a senior nutritionist for The Cancer Project. "More than a third of all cancer deaths in this country are due to poor diet."

The Rx for better health? It's a low-fat vegetarian diet. Load up on fruits, vegetables, and whole grains, Reilly says; they're naturally low in fat, chock-full of fiber, and filled with cancer-fighting antioxidants and phytochemicals.

Chelsea drives past Huron

Chelsea's girls' golf team defeated host Ann Arbor Huron 180-197 last Monday in a dual match at Huron Hills Golf Course.

Bulldog seniors Krystin Schwarze and Stephanie Everard tied for match medalist each shooting 43 for the Bulldogs.

"It was great to see Stephanie tie for match medalist for this dual meet," said Chelsea coach Andrea Bareis. "Her scores have become better and better over the past few weeks, just in time for the SEC (Southeastern Conference) tournament and regionals. A 43 is her career best 9-hole round."

Senior Hannah Harwood added a 45, while senior Sarah Shrosbree had a 49, sophomore Emily Shrosbree a 55 and senior Cayla Redmond a 56 for Chelsea.

"Even though we had a decent team score, we still left a lot of shots out on the course," Bareis said. "We really weren't hitting enough fairways and greens in regulation, so par was hard to come by. But, we'll take the win. It helps us in our quest to win the (SEC) White Division."

On Sept. 24, Chelsea captured the Tecumseh quad at the Tecumseh Country Club.

The Bulldogs bested the field shooting a 187. The host Indians were second with a 197, while Dexter was third with a 198 and Ypsilanti Lincoln fourth with a 227.

"We were the third different White Division team to win one of our quads this year," Bareis said. "With the teams pretty evenly matched, it's been an exciting season."

Schwarze paced Chelsea carding a 43. With her performance, Schwarze earned match medalist honors.

Sarah Shrosbree and Everard each had a 47, while Harwood had a 52, Redmond a 55 and Emily Shrosbree a 56 for the Bulldogs.

"This was a great quad win for us," Bareis said. "The current seniors haven't won a quad outright since they've been on the team, so it was the last quad of their careers and we definitely wanted to win it. What a great way to end."

Bareis said many players contributed to the victory.

"Krystin (Schwarze) continues to play well in our quad matches and is leading her team with great confidence," she said. "Stephanie (Everard) shot a very solid round of 47 and Sarah Shrosbree had her best 9-hole round of the season with a 47. Hannah (Harwood) finished strong and added a 52 to our team total. It was an exciting win for us."

On Sept. 19, Chelsea participated in the Perry Invitational. The Bulldogs placed third overall in the Division 2 tournament with a score of 455.

Winning the Division 2 title was Marshall with a 359.

Capturing the Division 1 crown was Grosse Pointe South with a 353.

Individually for Chelsea, Schwarze finished fourth shooting an 83.

Freshman Samantha French placed 56th with a 119, while junior Kelly Schmidt was 60th with a 123, freshman Mackenzie

Cole 69th with a 130, sophomore Courtenay Ackley 79th with a 137 and freshman Allie Smith 85th with a 147.

"With the varsity playing in the extremely competitive East Lansing Invitational the following Monday, I decided to give most of the regular varsity line-up a break from missing two full days of school in a row for tournaments," Bareis said. "So four of the girls who played in this tournament had never played 18 holes before. I was very proud of them for stepping up to play in an all-day tournament."

"All the girls did a great job. They learned a lot, were very focused and kept very positive attitudes throughout the day."

Chelsea next travels to East Lansing to participate in the state Division 2 regional at Walnut Hills Golf Course Oct. 9. The top three teams advance to the state final.

The Division 2 state match is Oct. 17 through 18 at Eastern Michigan University's Eagle Crest Golf Course.

Bulldogs clash with Dreadnaughts

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

It didn't take long for the Chelsea-Dexter football rivalry to heat up last Friday night at Jerry Niehaus Field.

In fact, all it took was the opening kickoff to fan the flames. With enough drama to garner Emmy nomination, Bulldog junior Nick Hill returned the opening boot 92 yards for a touchdown.

While Hill's return was enough to raise the proverbial roof at Niehaus Field, it was how he accomplished the feat that was most impressive. After bobbling the initial kickoff and fumbling with the ball between his legs, Hill appeared ready to be buried under a rushing onslaught of Dreadnaught defenders. In an eye blink, however, the 5-foot-8, 185-pound speedster sidestepped the Dexter tacklers turning on his 4.4 40-yard dash afterburners to sprint to daylight and six points.

Senior Michael Roberts kicked the point after touchdown giving the Bulldogs (4-1) a 7-0 lead before most in the stadium had even found their seats.

Many in attendance assumed Hill would be tackled, including Dexter longtime manager and Michigan High School Football Coaches Association Hall-of-Famer

Henry Thurston, who prematurely ran out onto the field of play to retrieve the kicking tee.

"I didn't even notice him during the game," said Dexter coach Tom Barbieri. "It was only after I watched the film that I saw Henry out there in the middle of everything. Players were trying not to run him over."

While Thurston made it off the field alive and in good health, the same couldn't be said for the visiting Dreadnaughts who lost to Chelsea 47-12.

"We came to play," said Chelsea coach Brad Bush. "It's been an issue for us. I was concerned since we have Adrian next week. I didn't want them looking ahead."

Bush said Hill's return for a touchdown was a combination of two things.

"He made two guys miss and we also had guys stay on their blocks downfield which helped us take it to the house," he said. "It was a great play."

After Hill's touchdown, Dexter (1-4) mustered only three plays on its opening drive before punting.

On their ensuing possession, the Bulldogs began Act II of the Emmy-worthy contest, turning a blocked field goal attempt into a touchdown as senior Jake Mantel was Johnny-on-the-spot scooping up the ball

Cross Country Chelsea double- winner at meet

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

Chelsea's boys' cross country team finished first at its own invitational last Saturday at Hudson Mills Metropark.

The meet was split up into a junior/senior race and a freshman/sophomore event.

The Bulldogs ended up with 15 points in the junior/senior meet.

Placing second was Dexter with 15 points, while Ann Arbor Gabriel Richard was third with 32 points and Tecumseh fourth with 63 points. Lake Odessa Lakewood was fifth with 71 points and Ypsilanti Lincoln sixth with 79 points.

In the freshman/sophomore meet, Chelsea also placed first with 15 points.

"What a great day," said Chelsea coach Eric Swager. "Our guys competed hard in both races and came away with a double championship. We worked extremely hard this week, with the top group logging more than 60 miles. Their toughness came through as we dominated the back, hilly portion of the course."

Pacing Chelsea individually in the junior/senior meet was Peter Wilke who finished third with a time of 17:03. Nick Hewitt was fourth in 17:12, while Mark Smith was eighth in 17:34 and Geoffrey Smith-Wooliams 10th in 17:41.

Chelsea's boys' cross country team finished first overall at its own invitational last Saturday at Hudson Mills Metropark.

Dominic Conybeare crossed the line 11th in 17:45 for the Bulldogs, while Jared Gentz was 24th in 18:21, Hu Tao 41st in 19:34 and Jack Hermann 61st in 21:26.

"The junior/senior race was as close as it can get with the championship hinging on our fourth runner," Swager said. "Smith-Wooliams and Conybeare each recorded lifetime bests and edged out Dexter's fourth runner to secure the win."

"Nick Hewitt gave us a chance by out-kicking a runner in the last 50 meters. Hu Tao, Mark Smith, Peter Wilke and Jack Hermann also recorded season best times."

In the freshman-sophomore race, August Pappas led Chelsea placing first overall with a time of 16:45. Bryce Bradley was third in 17:21, while Joe Hewitt was 11th in 18:35. Kevin Stockwell finished 18:39, while Sean Owsley was 36th in 20:06 and Martin Harris 43rd in 20:44 for the Bulldogs.

"The key to the freshman/sophomore race was the competitiveness of Joe Hewitt and Kevin Stockwell," Swager said. "Each of them set lifetime bests and attacked the competition with grit and toughness."

Swager said the Bulldogs ran well in their own invite.

"It was a fine showing for the home crowd," he said.

Chelsea next travels to Portage to participate in its invitational Saturday at 9 a.m.

On Oct. 11, the Bulldogs compete in the Ann Arbor Gabriel Richard Invitational at Hudson Mills Metropark.

Whippets earn tie

The Washtenaw Whippets field hockey team tied Dearborn 2-2 last Friday.

The Whippets scored early in the second half as Dexter's Megan Flocken connected on a penalty corner shot from Chelsea's Casey Fry.

Ten minutes later, Chelsea's Diana Uihlein connected on a penalty corner assist from Flocken.

In a furious finish, the Pioneers were able to tie the game with a goal in the final three seconds of regulation.

Washtenaw played one of its most offensive games of the season with the middle of the field being controlled by co-captains Kate Brown of Manchester and Fry. The Whippets' forward attack was led by Chelsea's Aimee Mesko.

The Washtenaw JV team has an overall record of 0-5-4 this season.

The Whippets' JV squad has 15 new players to the sport this year.

Bulldog kickers blank Marshall

By Don Richter
Sports Editor

Chelsea's boys' soccer team defeated host Marshall 1-0 last Saturday.

The Bulldogs played arguably their best game of the season against the Vikings.

"After a heartfelt talk on Friday, the boys came out hard on Saturday at Marshall," said Chelsea coach Dave Pieske. "The intensity was the best I have seen from this group."

Scoring Chelsea's lone goal was sophomore Pat Roberts. Picking up an assist on the goal for the Bulldogs was senior Zach Munce.

Playing well defensively and helping limit Marshall to one shot on the goal the entire game were seniors Jake Lotz and Tim Koch and juniors Luke Riley, Max McLaughlin and Nick Forsch.

Earning the shutout in net was senior keeper John Zink.

Last Thursday, the visiting Bulldogs lost to county rival Dexter 2-0.

"With a win we would have been tied for second in the (Southeastern Conference White) division," Pieske said. "We came out flat against our rivals, mustering a few good chances that we failed to capitalize on. We gave up two soft goals on balls that were misplayed by us. We couldn't convert on the quality chances we had."

On Sept. 23, visiting Chelsea lost to Division 1 No. 5-ranked Saline 4-0.

"They are the top team in the SEC," Pieske said.

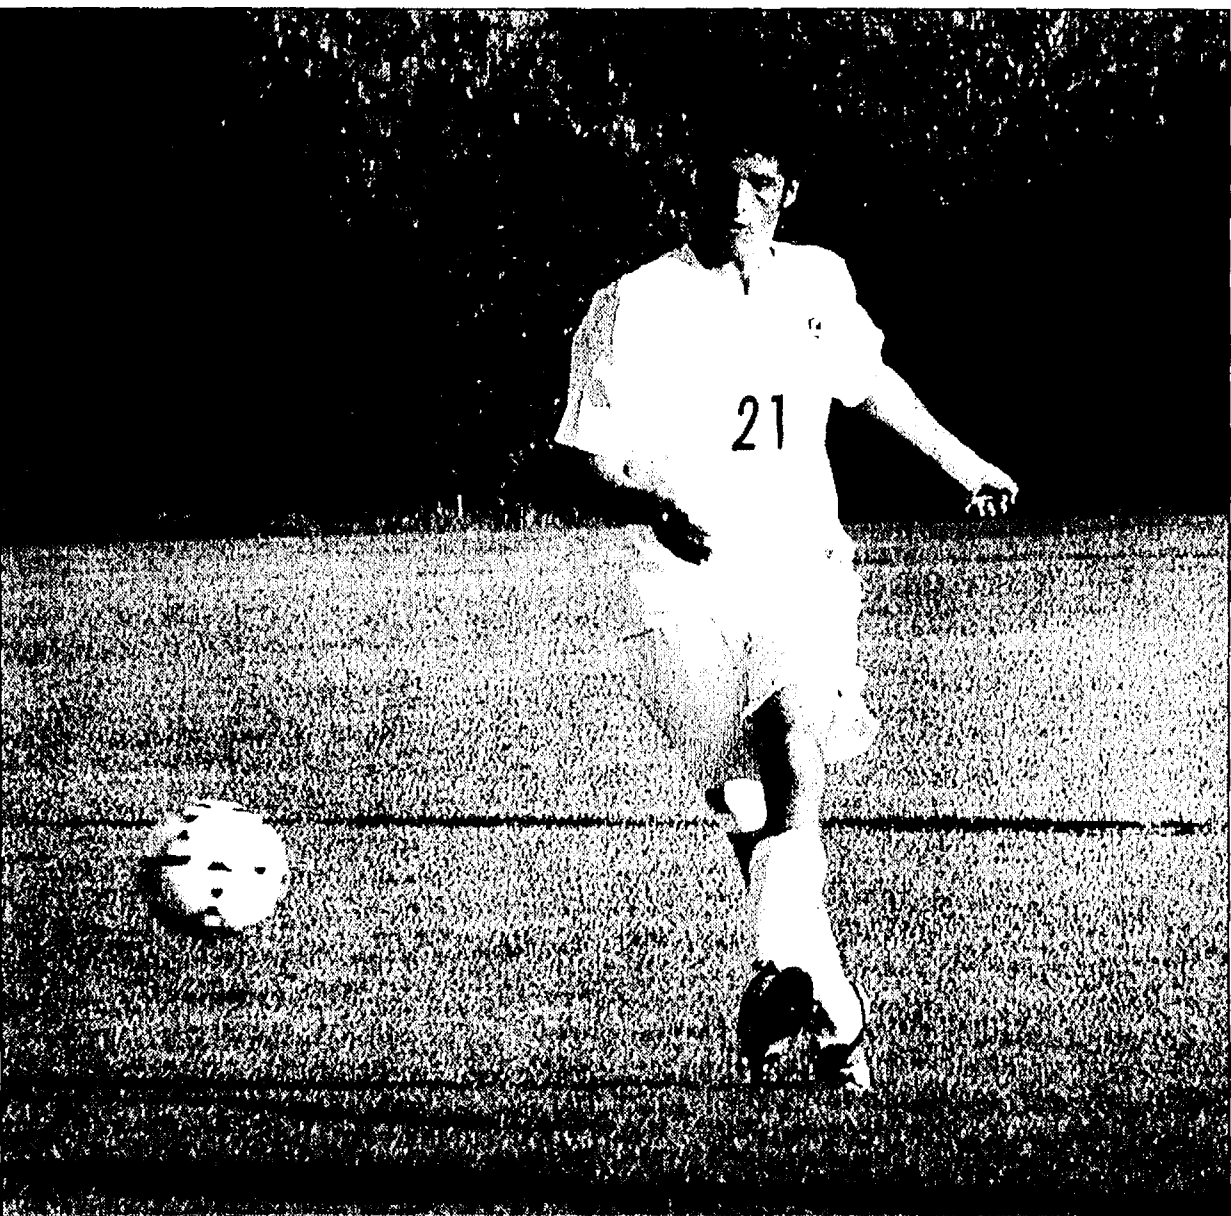

The Bulldogs stayed close in the first half, trailing only 1-0 at halftime.

"We were still hopeful of the upset," Pieske said. "In the second half they showed why they are the best team scoring three more goals to beat us."

Chelsea next travels to Adrian for a game Thursday at 5:30 p.m.

On Saturday, the Bulldogs host Monroe.

On Tuesday, Chelsea hosts Ypsilanti Lincoln at 5:30 p.m. The Bulldogs will be celebrating Senior Night against the Railsplitters.

On Oct. 13, Chelsea begins state district play at Coldwater.

Sports Editor Don Richter can be reached at 475-1371 or at drichter@heritagage.com.

In the freshman/sophomore meet, Chelsea finished second with 24 points.

Individually, Danielle Dahl placed fifth with a clocking of 20:35, while Samantha Newbound was sixth in a lifetime best 20:39. Jessi Battaglia was 13th in a lifetime best 21:41, while Corinne Carpenter was 16th in 22:07 for the Bulldogs.

"We again ran a good race," said Chelsea coach Pat Clarke. "We had a very hard week of practice and the girls were dragging by the end of the week. I was amazed that they ran as well as they did after that week of practice."

Clarke said despite its strong performance last Saturday, Chelsea still has room for improvement.

"We still have a long way to go to reach our season goals, but we're definitely on the right track," he said. "We had nine out of 10 girls earn medals. We must continue to work hard and improve if we want to be successful."

The Bulldogs next travel to Hudson to participate in its invitational Saturday.

On Oct. 11, Chelsea visits Ann Arbor Gabriel Richard for a meet.

and running 20 yards untouched into the end zone for a score. The 2-point conversion run was stopped, giving Chelsea a 13-0 lead with 7:44 remaining in the first quarter.

"If the ball is blocked behind the line of scrimmage, it's a live ball," Bush said. "We had a breakdown up front and they clearly blocked the kick, but it came right back to us."

Barbieri said the blocked field goal run in for a touchdown was a strange play.

"We block a field goal and they pick it up and run it in," he said. "Our kids were wondering what the heck happened. They didn't even see it."

Barbieri said everything Dexter could do, they did wrong last Friday.

"We have Hill surrounded on the kickoff and we don't wrap him up and he runs it back for a touchdown," he said. "Chelsea's good, but we made them look even better. I'm disappointed in the result."

After a second Dexter punt, junior Alex Frost recovered a Bulldog fumble, giving the Dreadnaughts the ball at their own 24-yard line. Despite having momentum, Dexter could not advance the ball, punting after three plays.

Seven plays later, Hill scored his second TD of the night on a 1-yard dive. Roberts' PAT split the uprights, increasing Chelsea's lead to 20-0 with 1:44 left in the first quarter.

On the following kickoff, Bulldog senior Kevin Rosentreter recovered a Dreadnaught fumble at the Dexter 2-yard line. One play later, Hill scored TD No. 3 on a 1-yard run. Roberts connected for the extra point giving Chelsea a 27-0 margin with 1:32 remaining in the first quarter.

The Dreadnaughts fumbled on their opening drive of the second quarter. Once again, Rosentreter was there to pounce on the ball recovering his second fumble of the game at the Dexter 30-yard line.

Two plays later, senior

Brett Everding caught a 9-yard pass from senior quarterback Randy Cox for a touchdown, upping the Bulldogs' lead to 33-0 with 9:45 left in the first half.

With 5:37 remaining in the second quarter, Mantel leaped high to catch a 5-yard fade pass from Cox in the left corner of the end zone for a touchdown. Roberts hit the extra point for a 40-0 Chelsea lead at halftime.

Despite being down, the Dreadnaughts refused to quit. On the first play of the second half, Dexter junior quarterback Alex McMurray hooked up with senior receiver Steve Muchmore for a 73-yard touchdown pass. The 2-point run attempt was stymied, cutting the Bulldogs' lead to 40-6 with 11:02 on the third quarter clock.

Later in the third frame, the McMurray to Muchmore combination struck again, this time from 45 yards away for a touchdown. The 2-point run was, again, stopped short, trimming the Chelsea advantage to 40-12 with 6:29 remaining in the third quarter.

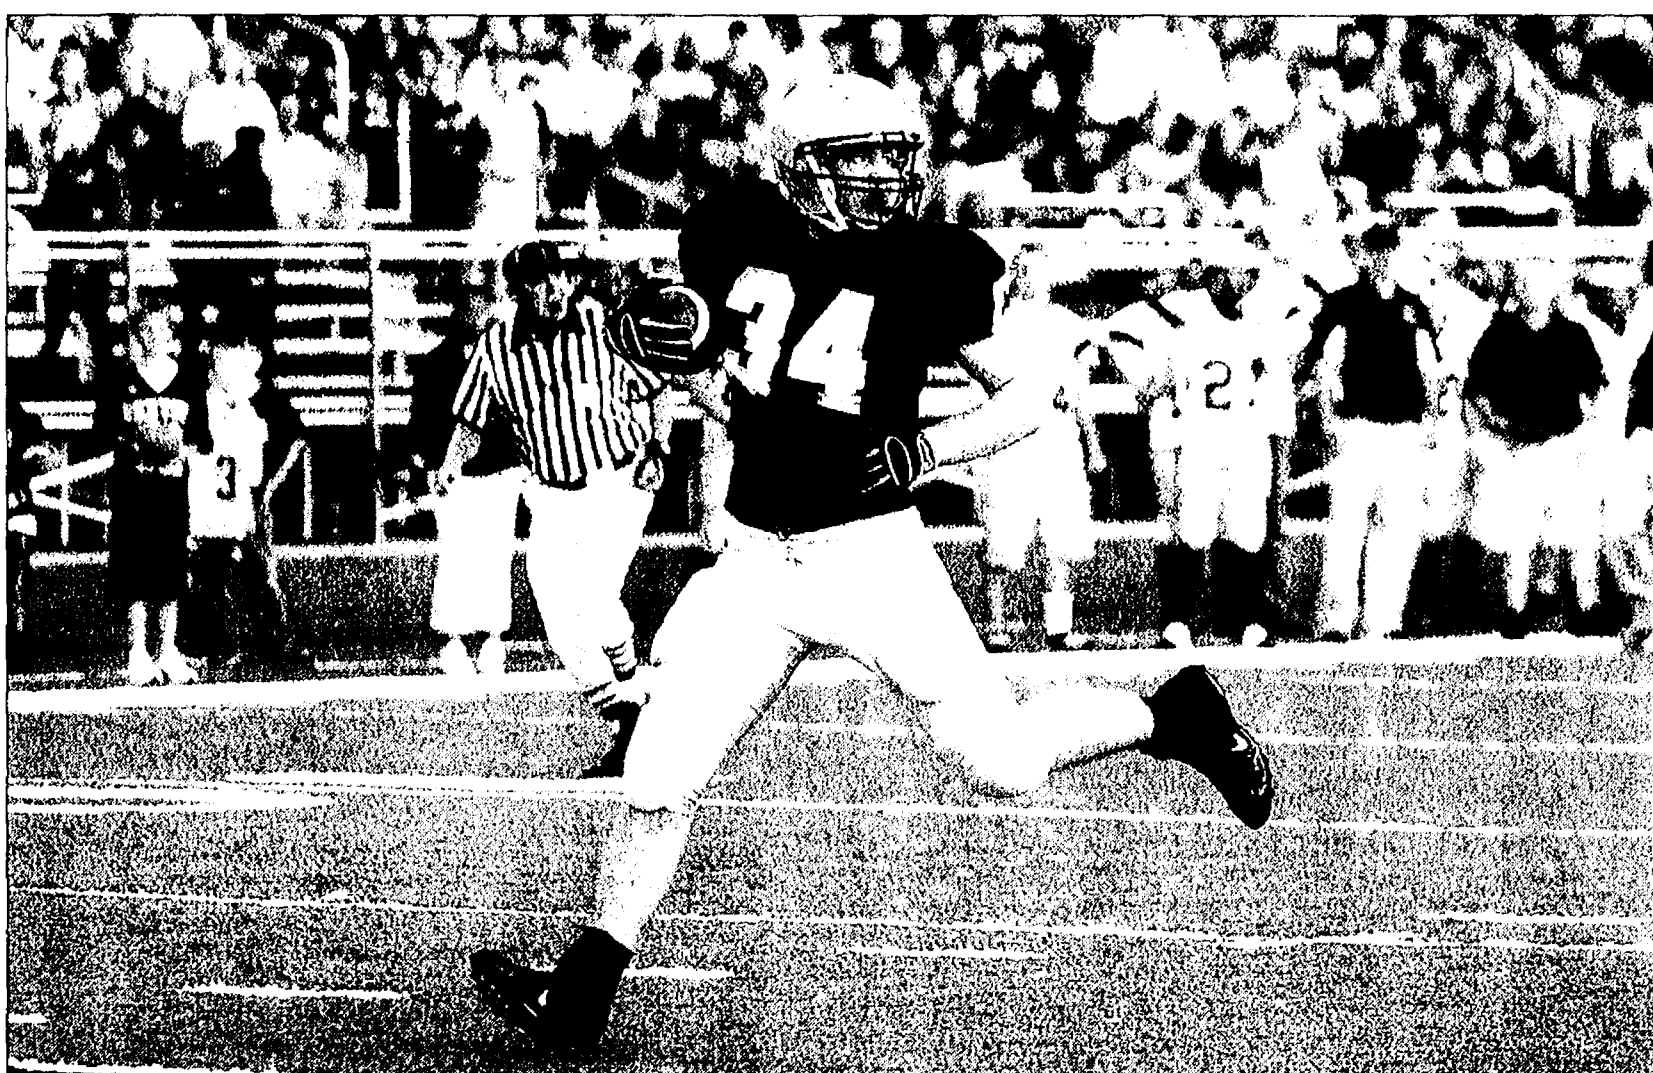

On the Bulldogs' following drive, senior Steve O'Keefe scored on a 7-yard run around left end. Junior Andrew LeVanseler's PAT was successful for the night's final 47-12 margin.

Chelsea finished with 390 total yards of offense, including 242 yards rushing. Dexter ended up with 244 total yards, with 172 yards through the air.

Cox finished 6-of-6 for 98 yards and two TDs, while Roberts was 5-of-5 for 109 yards. Junior Dakota Cooley was 4-of-4 for 35 yards. Combined, Bulldog quarterbacks ended up 15-of-15 passing. McMurray was 7-of-13 for 142 yards and two touchdowns. Junior Henry Haley was 3-of-5 for 30 yards.

Everding had three receptions for 63 yards, while Mantel had three catches for 41 yards. Senior Josh Abbott had three catches for five yards, while Muchmore had two receptions for 118 yards and senior Tate Sanders two catches for 42 yards.

Hill finished with 45 yards rushing on 13 carries, while O'Keefe had 27

Defensively, seniors Early McGowan and Tyler Fischhaber each recorded four tackles for the Bulldogs. Senior Chris Kotsones led Dexter with 16 tackles, while junior Dillon Kipke had nine tackles and junior Mason Mabry eight tackles, including a blocked kick.

In search of: A new college football team

After watching Michigan the first two weeks of the season, I decided to make a change. I couldn't exactly throw the college football season away after two Saturdays. And I couldn't stand watching my Wolverines get knocked around each week like, well, like Spartans.

So, as difficult as it was, I needed to find another team.

Terry Jacoby

Since Ypsilanti and East Lansing were out of the question, I decided my fate would be decided by a computer chip. So I clicked on Map Quest and typed in "college football winner" in the destination box.

The first response was Ann Arbor. Wow. They don't update these very often. I guess I can forget about the latest construction updates on my next trip.

So I returned to the main menu and typed in "college football winner 2008."

And the response was almost unbearable. Could I do such a thing? What a horrific thought - becoming an Ohio State Buckeyes fan. Yikes!

I typed in the destination again. And again. And again. Columbus. Columbus. Columbus.

Yikes. Yikes. Yikes. Then I thought, why not? Let's go see what all the fuss is about. I figured, at least it's not that far and we pass a Hardees on the way. Still, Ohio State? The Buckeyes? Columbus, Ohio?

The Wolverines were on a bye week, so I thought this was the perfect time to check up on the competition. And if I were to jump ship, I might as well jump on one headed in the right direction.

So it was off to Columbus, Ohio.

It was a bright, warm and sunny day as the Troy University football team took the field in the "horseshoe" that really isn't a horseshoe. And who knew Troy even had a football team. I thought all they had was Somerset Mall and Big Beaver Road. Turns out they have a university and a football team.

Should be an easy game for the mighty Buckeyes.

The highlight early on was when the marching band took the field. I was so excited to see the crossing of the T that I forgot there wasn't a T in Ohio. Or in Buckeyes. But since they call this place the horseshoe and it really isn't a horseshoe, I figured they just did what they wanted to.

The band entrance was awesome. And the dotting of the I was even more exciting to see in person. I had never seen anything like it. It sent shivers up my spine colder than the McFlurry I was eating in the press box.

McFlurry? Yes, I will get to that later.

The entire stadium, all dressed in red or white, on their feet clapping. It was like they had done this before. They first spelled out T-R-O-Y. And I thought, that's not even close to O-H-I-O. Must have been a few too many beers last night for the young musicians.

Wait. Troy. Their opponent. Now isn't that nice. Let's spell out their name on the field before we try to break every bone in their body on the field. Sort of like a salute before the firing squad.

The band finally got around to spelling O-S-U. And the crowd roars - just for spelling O-S-U? I guess the bar isn't exactly raised to the top here in Ohio. But I have to admit, it was a nice moment.

Heritage Newspapers Editor Terry Jacoby (top) found his way into the heart of Buckeye territory last month as he searched the nation for a new college football team.

Speaking of nice moments, free McFlurrys in the press box. I didn't really care what happened the rest of the day. OSU had a new big fan and he was getting bigger by the minute. I was knocking down those McFlurrys faster than OSU cheerleaders were falling off pyramids.

Before kickoff the fans celebrated by singing the school's fight song. While it was a touching tribute, you'd think they wouldn't need to put the words on the scoreboard. I mean how hard is it to remember, "I love you, you love me, we're a happy family, with a great big hug and a kiss from me to you, won't you say you love me too?"

Standing in the end zone was some kind of giant squirrel. I saw a few blow-up versions of this squirrel on the way in as the tailgaters were getting all liquored up. What the heck is it?

I grab my OSU program and discover the squirrel is none other than "Brutus Buckeye," a symbol of Ohio State athletics for more than 40 years. The school attempted a "new Brutus" in 1975, but it was booed off the field. I guess it's true. A squirrel is man's best friend, at least in Ohio.

OK. I need to admit something. I did get a little choked up with emotion when the band was playing, the fans were standing and the place was rocking. But could you blame me? This is one of the cathedrals of college sports.

I couldn't help but think of all the history and the great games that have been played in this stadium. There was Michigan's 26-24 win in 1986 and the 34-31 victory in 1988 and the "threepeat" win in 1990. Who could forget the 13-9 win in 1996 or the 38-26 triumph in 2000? Yes. So much great history.

Troy lost the coin flip, the best chance the Trojans had of winning anything all game. Moments later came the big roar as the Buckeyes scored their first touchdown. I could only imagine how loud it gets here when the opponent isn't from a nearby high school.

The giant squirrel is celebrating in the end zone. Oh, wait. That's a cheerleader.

With Troy facing a big third down, a giant bell goes off. Judging by the look of some of the people in the press box, I assume it's the dinner bell. But the main course turns out to be the Troy offense.

The stadium is now spelling O-H-I-O as each section gets a letter. It only proves my point about this not being a horseshoe. I guess back in the day when it really was a horseshoe, they spelled O-S-U. But now with the fourth side they have to give the newcomers something to do.

If you ask me, they ruined this stadium by building on to it. You would never see Michigan do that. The Big House has been unchanged since it was built 250 years ago.

Across the way is a billboard tribute to the great Woody Hayes. It says Woody Hayes, 13 Big Ten titles and 5 national championships. Must not have had room for 1 opposing player punched.

During another time out is the famous OSU bobblehead race on the big scoreboard. The race pitted the cheerleader, the bass drummer and, of course, Brutus. You could hear a pin drop in the former horseshoe as the three contestants made their way through campus. Brutus came out the winner. I guess every blind squirrel finds a nut now and again.

Here we go again. O-H-I-O. Don't they ever get bored with that?

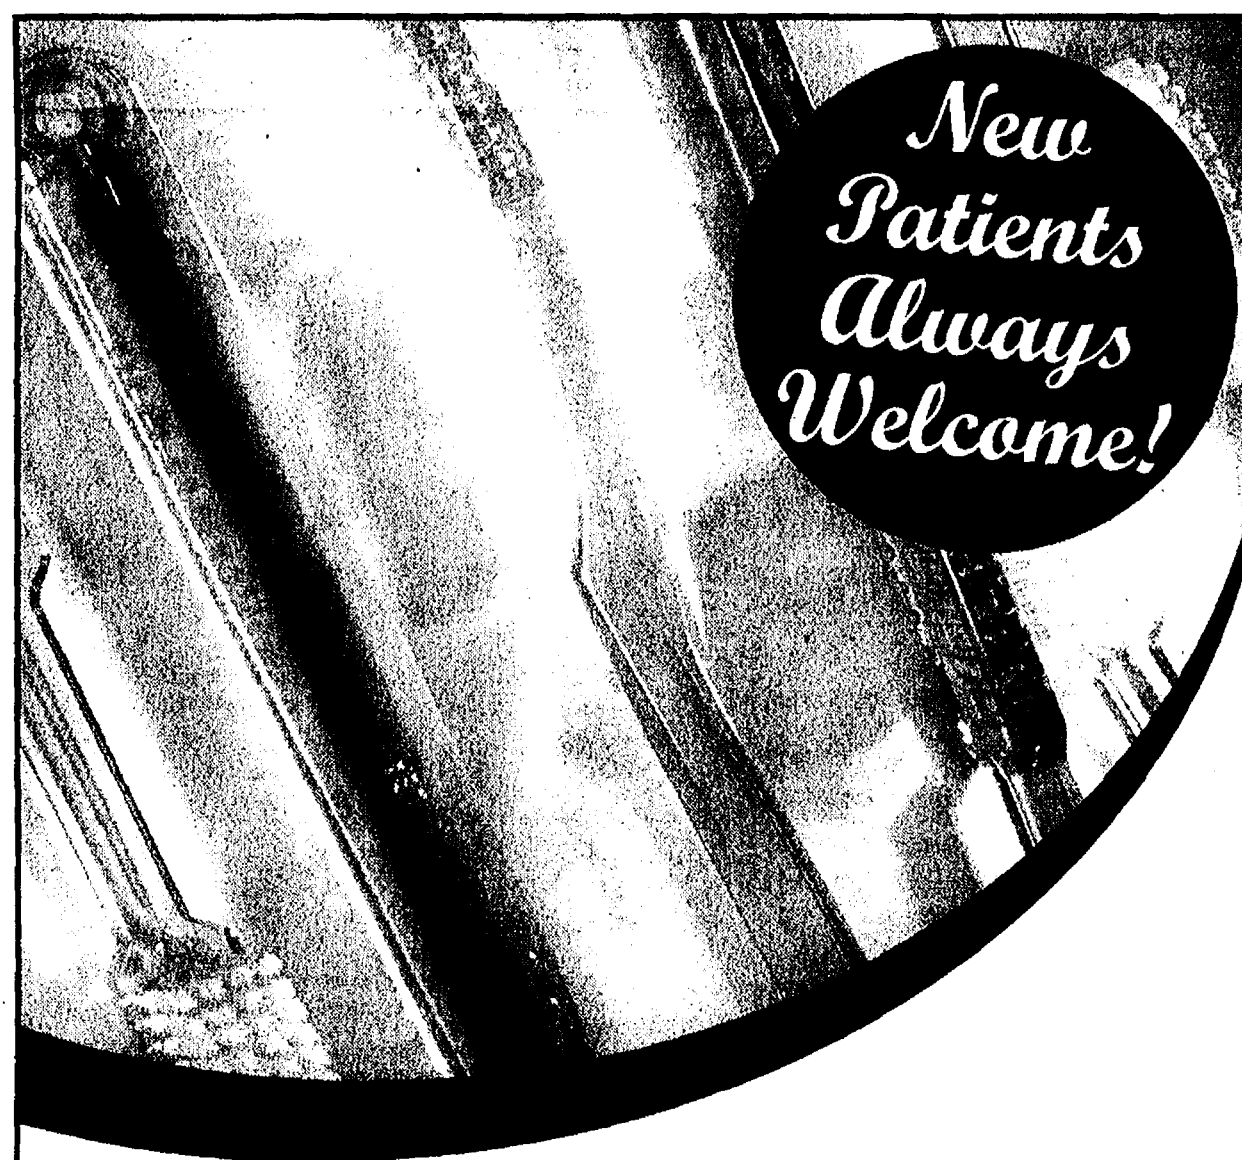

Troy plays OSU pretty tough for three quarters, but the Buckeyes are too big, too strong and too good for the team that's really from Alabama. But they aren't going to be my team this year. I think Michigan can still take them. Once you bleed blue, you always bleed blue.

One more thing to ponder about Ohio. So this is one of the "swing" states that could decide the presidential election? The country's future could be left up to the folks from Ohio? Let's just hope they don't forget how to dot the I.

Q&A

MEET THE TEACHER: Kirsten Smart

Name: Kirsten Smart
Age: 23
Family: Mom, older sister, two dogs, and my dad passed away 10 years ago from cancer
Education: Bachelor's Degree from Eastern Michigan University
Native of: Saline
Teaching experience: Substitute teacher during college and one year after graduating.
Paraprofessional for one year: Student teaching with Ruth Stielstra at Pierce Lake. Coaching high school soccer two years.
Where you teach: Beach Middle School
Grade/subject: Eighth-grade math, algebra and pre-algebra Favorite subject in school: Math and English scared to be in math class. So, finding the time to make math fun and have creative activities is difficult because of the amount of materials that need to be covered in a year. But, I am finding my way

How can parents get more involved in their children's education?

I think it is important for parents to be involved in their child's education. I also think that by eighth grade, a student should have grown to be more responsible for their learning and actions.

In my classroom, I hold my students accountable for what they do and don't do, while keeping in contact with their family.

How has your job changed over the years?

Technology is always changing, and it is something that I make sure to keep up with.

Also, this is my first year teaching eighth-grade math, and even after the first few weeks of teaching I have made notes on what I should change next year.

What do you like most about teaching in this district?

I feel very blessed to have been hired here in Chelsea. I chose to do my student teaching here because I knew what a great community Chelsea was and how spectacular the schools were.

My opinion of Chelsea then is the same I have today. I have seen how everyone involved with the schools and community are looking out for each child's best interest. This kind of school district is many times heard of but rarely seen.

I have been lucky enough to be part of this community and will never take that for granted. Also, the Chelsea School District is a place where I would love my future children to be.

Walk us through a typical day for you:

I wake up at my home in Saline and travel the 20-30 minutes to Beach.

I usually arrive between 7:15 and 7:30. During zero hour, my students are welcome to come in to ask questions about the homework, and also this time allows me to teach on a more personal basis.

I have my plan hour during first period. Then I teach algebra second hour, pre-algebra third hour, two electives during fourth and fifth hour (currently Individual Learning Hour), eat lunch, in sixth hour another algebra class, and seventh hour another pre-algebra class.

School ends at 3:03, but I usually stay later to grade or prepare. After work, I usually work out or play soccer, and then plan some more.

Something people would be surprised to know about you:

I still drive the same car I had when I was 16 (and will be looking into selling soon), and kayaking is one of my favorite things to do.

Most influential person in your life:

My mom. My mom has taught me more than I can list.

When my dad passed away she did her best to make our lives normal and keep us positive and motivated. She was my biggest cheerleader on the soccer field and has supported me through all of the tough times in my life.

She is a wealth of knowledge that I still turn to for advice. I hope to be as great of a mother as she is.

Quote to live by:

"Always do your best."

What do you like most about teaching?

I enjoy interacting with kids the most. Positively influencing their lives is my priority. I also love the connection that I can have from past and present to the future.

What do you like least about teaching?

I enjoy being creative as a teacher and many times I find myself with time limitations that restrict the depth of my lessons.

What is the most challenging part of teaching?

I would have to say time management. I have spent many hours at school before and after the school day.

I am always finding things I can change in my teaching and lessons to improve the next day or next year. Therefore, I spend most of my free time preparing. So finding a good balance of my professional and personal life is something I am currently working on.

Also, I try to make math fun for my students, so they are not intimidated or

SRSLY

The newly formed SRSLY campaign aimed at preventing youth drinking, drug use, and risky behavior was officially unveiled at Chelsea High School's home football game last Friday against rival Dexter.

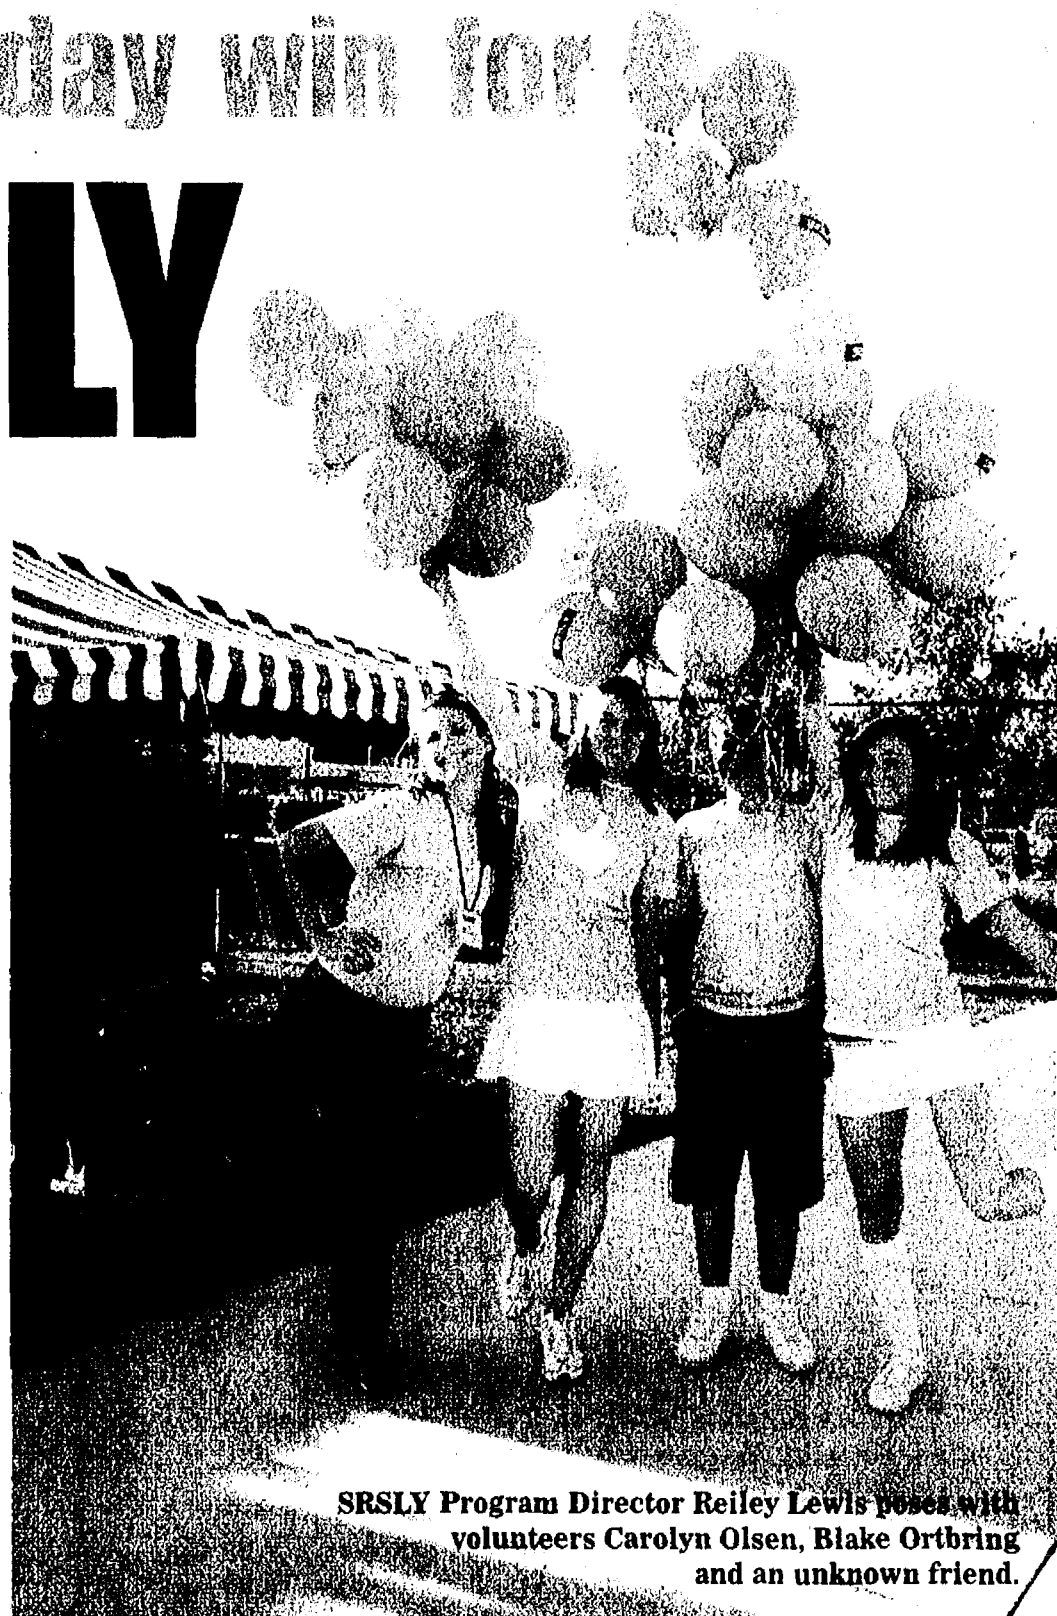

A program of Chelsea Community Hospital with funding from the Coghlan Family Foundation, SRSLY made a powerful statement, as 75 volunteers - dressed in bright green shirts - passed out materials and interacted with the crowd.

Some 5,000 fans attended the game, and each was offered glow bracelets and SRSLY temporary tattoos. At halftime, the group of volunteers joined U of M Head Baseball Coach Rich Maloney and Chelsea Free Methodist Youth Pastor Jason Boyer on the field and invited the huge crowd to support the new community program and to personally get involved.

"SRSLY is about a whole lot more than just words on a shirt," said Boyer, referring to the bright green shirts worn by volunteers. "We are committed to benefiting the community through resources, events, programs - you name it. We are geared up for making a positive impact."

Coach Maloney promoted the program Web site - www.srsly-chelsea.org - and asked everyone to "Check it out, get involved, and do something to help!"

shirts (the SRSLY signature color) were flung into the crowd and thousands of the neon green glow bracelets filled the stands and the hill at the north end zone. Even Dexter fans got in on the festivities by donning the bracelets and tattoos.

"We definitely got the word out tonight," said SRSLY Program Director Reiley Lewis. "The response was overwhelming. Chelsea has shown great interest in this important program. I am amazed at how many parents we talked to and how many kids we interacted with. I had a great time, and I think everyone else did too. Thank you, Chelsea and Dexter!"

Young SRSLY volunteers fashioned their bright green t-shirts during Friday night's football game against Dexter. Some wore the name proudly with a smile while others were willing to fight for their cause.

Church of Nazarene celebrates anniversary

By Jeff Crowder

The building sits at 12126 Jackson Road. The sign is unimposing and temporary: just a banner nailed up to a piece of plywood connected to posts. The building's been there for about three years. But Stiver's and the BP (formerly Clark) gas station garner a lot more attention.

You may be more likely to notice the children's playscape along I-94 as you're heading to Ann Arbor.

What is this small, easily unnoticed building? The Church of the Nazarene. But if you know any of its members or happen to venture into the facility, you enter into a portal of a much larger world.

Locally, the Chelsea Church of the Nazarene has been in existence for about 12 years. Started by two families who lived in town, the congregation has grown to over 60 households and an active ministry that would suggest a much larger membership.

This coming Sunday, Oct. 5, 2008 the International Church of the Nazarene will be 100 years old. Around the world congregations in 24 time zones will receive Communion and celebrate in a variety of ways.

Here are a few things you might not know about the Church of the Nazarene. By the numbers:

- It exists in 151 World areas.
- 21,000: the number of Nazarene congregations, ranging from the most densely populated cities to the most rural areas.
- 1.7 million people worldwide call themselves Nazarene.
- 57: The Church of the Nazarene system of education includes 57 colleges, universities, seminaries and institutes dedicated to educating people for lives of service and ministry. These schools are located in 40 countries on six continents.

- 773 missionaries and volunteers serving around the world.
- 212: Nazarenes worship in more than 212 languages or tribal languages.
- 64: the number of hospitals and medical clinics the denomination operates worldwide.
- 225 full-time compassionate ministry centers and volunteer efforts. Nazarenes have been instrumental in assisting people in every part of the globe who have been affected by war, famine, hurricane, flood, and other natural and man-made disasters. Following the example of Jesus, Nazarenes seek to educate, clothe, shelter, feed, heal, and ultimately empower those who suffer under oppression, injustice, violence, poverty, hunger, and disease.

Where does the name come from?

The name of the denomination comes from a pejorative term applied to "Jesus the Nazarene." In the opening chapter of John's Gospel, Nathanael, who had been looking for The Messiah, is told Jesus of Nazareth is the Messiah.

Dumbfounded at such a hometown Nathanael asks, "Can any good thing come out of Nazareth?" No one thought too highly of people who came from there. And Jesus' attention to people who were the least and the neglected became the "target audience" for those who started the denomination.

Today the motto of the denomination is "To Make Christlike Disciples in the Nations." We don't care if you're the wealthiest or the poorest. We don't care what color your skin is. We only want you to come to know the life-changing power of God at work in your life.

It's why we exist. To help people become like Jesus. And to encourage them to put the Great Commandments (loving God and loving your neighbor as you love yourself) into action.

This coming Sunday at 11 a.m. we'd invite you to come hear our story. Maybe your story will intersect with our story.

Jeff Crowder is the pastor at the Chelsea Church of the Nazarene.

Poverty simulation teaches life lessons

By Crystal Hayduk
Special Writer

Close to 50 people gathered on Sept. 21 at Faith in Action to participate in a poverty simulation. The event was co-sponsored by Faith in Action and the Mission Marketplace, along with the Interfaith Council for Peace and Justice and the Washtenaw Healthcare and Economic Reform Endeavor.

The purpose of the simulation was to raise awareness of what it is like to live in poverty and receive government assistance.

Those who attended were split into groups to represent a family that is living close to the edge economically. A couple of individuals were left alone to represent single-person homes. Each family was given information about their circumstances and tokens representing possessions and money.

Stationed along the walls were volunteers who represented community resources, such as the bank, welfare office, employment office, child care, grocery store, legal aid, police, food pantry and pawn shop.

Participants were asked to stay in character as they "lived" through four weeks of typical family life.

Both volunteers and participants not only learned about the budget realities of those living in poverty, but they also gained compassion and understanding for them and their circumstances, most of which are beyond control.

"I played the part of a single mom with three children ages 17, 12, and nine. I focused on paying for our food and utilities, but ran out of money and in the end, we lost our house," said Katy Steklac.

Kevin Frahm played the part of an 80-year-old widow living alone on a fixed income. He imagined that a typical 80-year-old living today would have too much pride and dignity to seek assistance.

"I was amazed at how caught up I was trying to pay for everything. But finances got even worse when my sister died and I was the only family member left to pay for her burial," Frahm said.

Brian Bieber played a married father of two teenagers. In the Chen family's scenario, he had lost his middle class job six months ago, unemployment checks had just run out, and the family no longer had medical benefits. "I was particularly struck with how much was linked to transportation. You need it for everything, and it costs a lot of money to have it," Bieber said.

Echoing those thoughts and adding to them, Barb Cherem of the Fuentes family commented on the vulnerability of teenagers left home with nothing to do, especially as families were pawning televisions and stereos at one third their value for money to pay the bills.

At times, teenagers in the simulation were arrested for shoplifting or other infractions committed in the attempt to obtain goods needed by the family.

Since families lacked bail money, volunteers who played the roles of police officer and legal aid observed that although it was difficult for parents to have their children in jail, they also felt a sense of relief that at least they were fed, sheltered, and would stay out of further trouble.

Grace Potts, a volunteer who worked in the simulated welfare office, said, "I could hear people getting more desperate as the month went on; but just think, today is not real."

Imagine what it is like for the 13.3 percent of the population who live below the level of poverty every day. For them, it is all too real.

~ Fall HOME

IMPROVEMENT

Keep home repairs simple with 'green' alternatives

How big is your footprint on the earth? America is going leaner and greener and so can you. Even if you can't afford to build a state of the art, environmentally correct new home or totally remodel the one you have to be more energy efficient, you can take some steps that will ease the drain on the earth's resources and your pocket book.

If you have a limited budget, address the most obvious energy "thieves" in your home. Energy efficient heating and air conditioning units and appliances are investments that pay off in the long run with lower energy bills. So when they break, replace them with Energy Star-rated models.

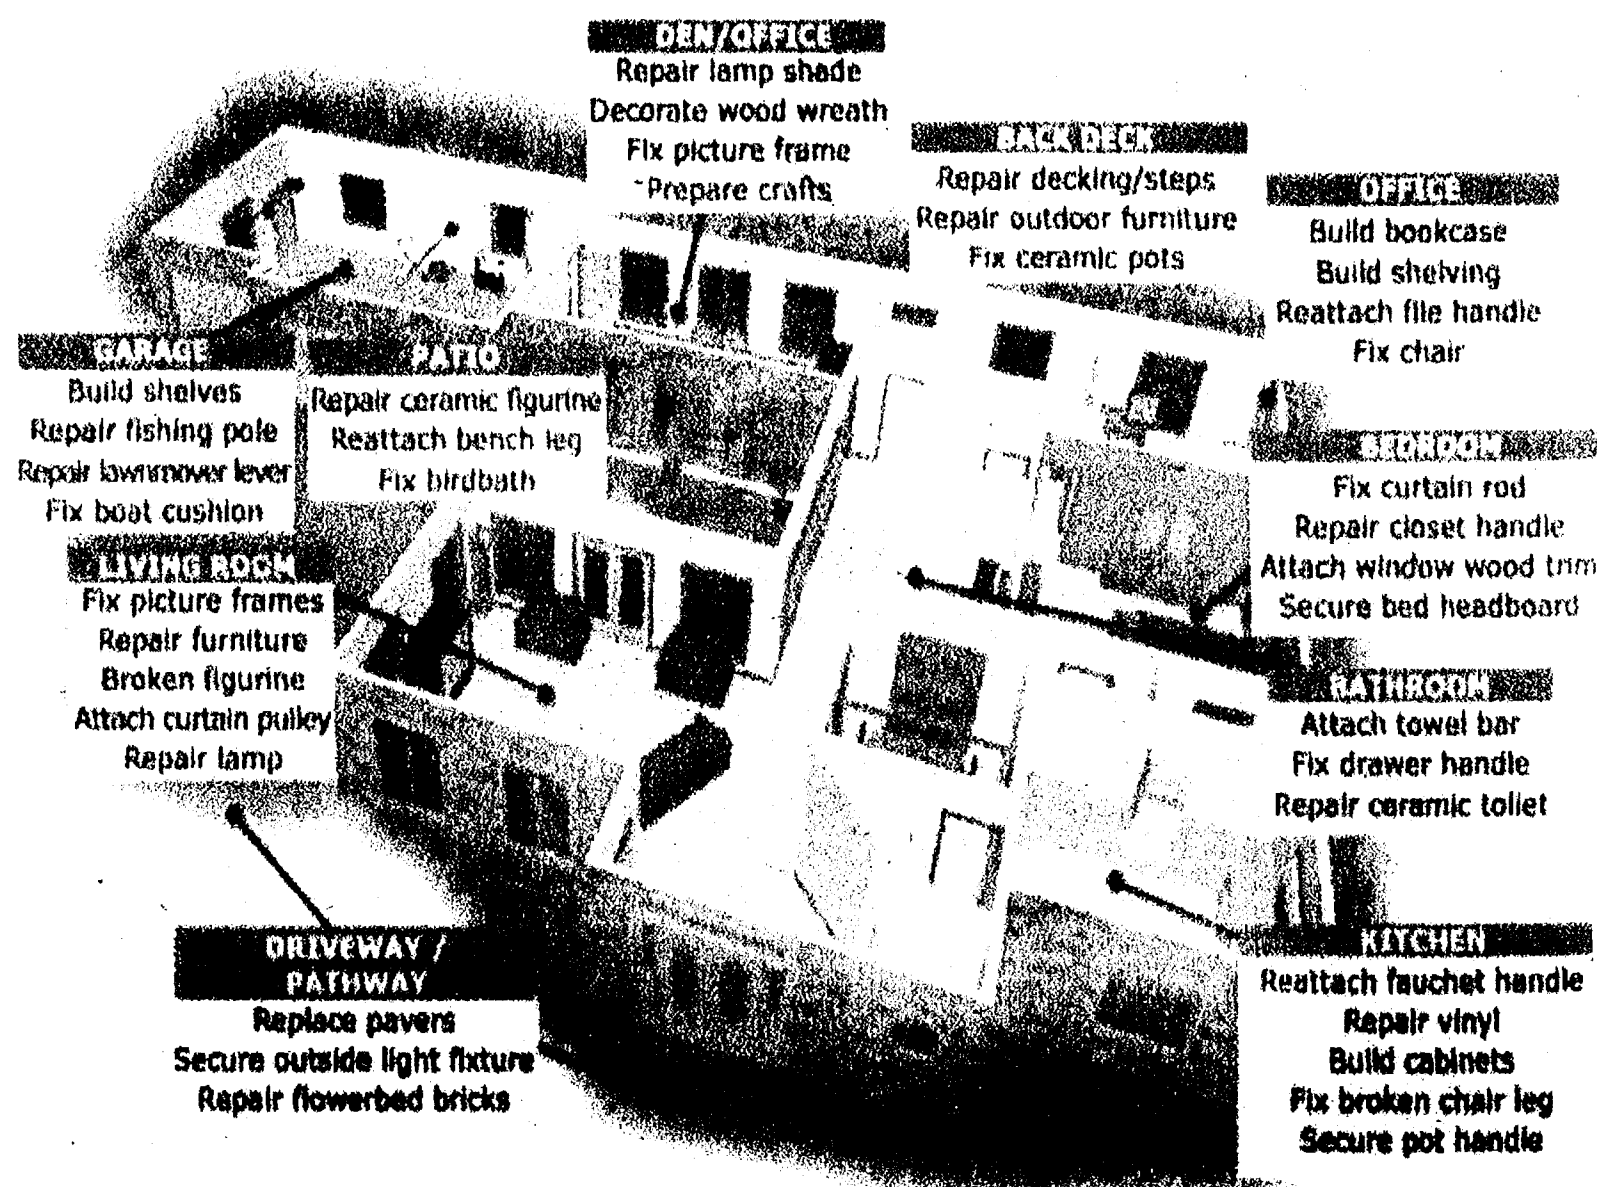

If you can't afford to swap out those single pane, air-leaking windows for energy efficient units, at least seal them. A low cost and earth-friendly practice is to conserve water by repairing leaky fixtures and installing low flow showerheads, faucets and toilets. And start using energy efficient and increasingly affordable lighting.

One thing that we can all do right now is ease the pressure on our landfills by fixing what we have with earth-friendly products. The old myth that if it is "green," it's not strong enough to do the job, is no longer true.

Improved technology is bringing us high performing "green" products. We also need to look for "green" products that couple performance with versatility. We can no longer afford a garage or cabinet full of "specialty" products that are designed to do only one thing.

In fact, the easiest way to make our footprint smaller on the planet is to simplify by choosing versatile "green" products that can provide a variety of high quality solutions to home upkeep.

Glue is a good example. Most households have at least six types of glues and sealants for different materials. Meanwhile our shelves and landfills fill up with spent tubes and packaging from these "specialty" glues, most of them with a high level of toxicity.

Look for products like water-based, odor-free adhesive for the home that is able to bond with industrial strength to almost any material indoors and out. One product, Amazing EcoGlue, manages to outperform even the popular ure-thane glues that foam when applied. Yet it is environmentally safe (less than 1 percent volatile organic compounds) for the whole family.

This is a versatile adhesive with virtually no hazardous air pollutants and no animal derivatives. Even the bottle and packaging are recyclable.

Amazing EcoGlue is simple to use and requires no mixing or special tools. It dries to a tough film with exceptional water resistance. Use it on most anything with confidence. It performs with industrial strength on almost any material, including wood, stone, ceramic, glass, Styrofoam and more.

The glue works particularly well on projects or repairs involving wood. This is an earth-friendly power adhesive that can keep the whole house in shape without polluting the environment. For more information, visit the Web site, www.ecoglue.com.

Quick tips for paint jobs

As the weather begins to cool down, why not head inside and spruce up the interior of your home? A fresh coat of paint will improve the look of any room, but for professional quality results, you have to paint like a professional. Here are the answers to your commonly asked painting questions:

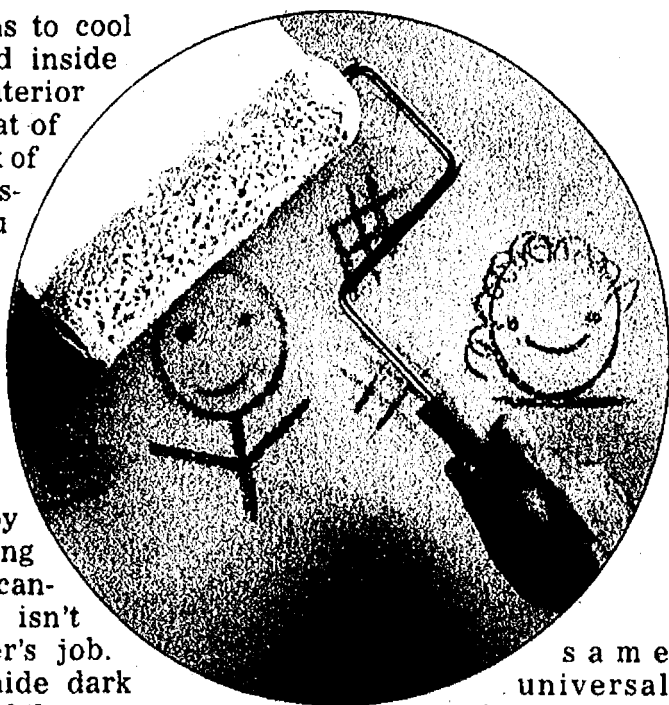

What's the secret behind professional paint jobs?

Professionals start by priming; it's like starting your paint job with a fresh canvas. Ordinary paint just isn't designed to do a primer's job. Primers like Bulls Eye hide dark colors, block stains and seal the surface for a more even color and sheen. Also, when you use a primer, the paint will adhere better. Primer will even stick to slick glossy surfaces like paneling, cabinets, glossy paints and vinyl siding — without the need for sanding — taking an extra step out of painting projects.

If I'm using colored paint, won't it just hide a previous paint job?

Probably not. Primers are designed specifically to hide previous colors — even dark blues and reds — and prevent them from showing through a new paint job. Plus, they are great at sealing surfaces and allowing you to use less paint, so you're actually saving money.

Research shows that one coat of tinted primer and one coat of paint will give you a longer lasting, better looking paint job than two coats of paint. Bulls Eye 1-2-3 (for light and pastel colors) and Bulls Eye 1-2-3 Deep Tint (for medium and dark colors) are specially formulated for tinting. Just ask your paint store or home center associate to add the same universal colorant to your primer that they will use to tint your paint.

Can I paint over stains on ceilings and walls?

No. Most stains — including water stains, crayon and marker, lipstick, nicotine and airborne grease from cooking — will bleed right through paint, no matter how many coats of paint you apply.

Quality stain-blocking primers, like CoverStain, permanently seal in stains and prevent them from showing through and ruining your paint job.

How can I prevent other paint problems like peeling?

Primers are specifically formulated to prevent common problems like cracking, peeling and blistering, and they'll make any painted surface more durable, washable and last much longer.

Remember, if you want to paint like a pro, prime like a pro. For more helpful tips for a professional quality paint job, visit the Web site, www.zinsser.com.

Options add finishing touches to new homes

What's a new car that doesn't have automatic locks, that new car smell, or a CD player? It's still a new car but the little additions make your purchase so much more satisfying.

So it is with your home. An entry takes on new dimension when a flush door is replaced with one that has a window with decorative glass or a transom above it. Shutters can add a subtle touch to a facade. And windows and patio doors with rich hardware finishes, distinctive grilles and other options add depth and character to a home inside and out.

As more homeowners look to add curb appeal and charm to their homes, window manufacturers have expanded their offerings to help homeowners achieve their desired outcome. You'll love the look of your home even more when you include any number of finishing touches on your windows and doors.

"Homeowners have so many choices for tailoring the windows and doors to their home thanks to the many, many options available from manufacturers today," Dave Koester, brand manager for Weather Shield Windows & Doors, said. "From exterior colors to interior wood species and hardware styles and finishes, the choices are practically unlimited."

Inside appeal

On the inside, you can choose from several types of wood for your windows — each offering unique textures and grains. Maple, cherry, mahogany, character alder, knotty pine and oak are among the wood choices available on many window brands. Higher-end, specialty window brands can also accommodate requests for custom wood species. Interior trim in a variety of profiles and styles attractively frames windows, whether it be on a window over the kitchen sink or around the picture window in the living room.

Advances in screens are one of the latest trends in windows and doors. The newest generation of screens may be completely hidden — retracting into the window or doorframe — or hardly visible with tightly woven screen mesh.

Weather Shield Windows & Doors has a wood-wrapped screen frame that provides classic warmth to screens that are always on display. A hinged version of the wood-wrapped screen nicely dresses up a push-out French casement window.

Hardware on windows, patio doors and screens can be subtle nuances or intriguing adornments. Collapsible crank handles for casement windows

Preparing home for sale can take time, money

In today's housing market, homeowners need to be more proactive than ever before when it comes to selling their homes. Whereas the real estate boom at the turn of the century made things easy on sellers, the current real estate climate is not so seller-friendly.

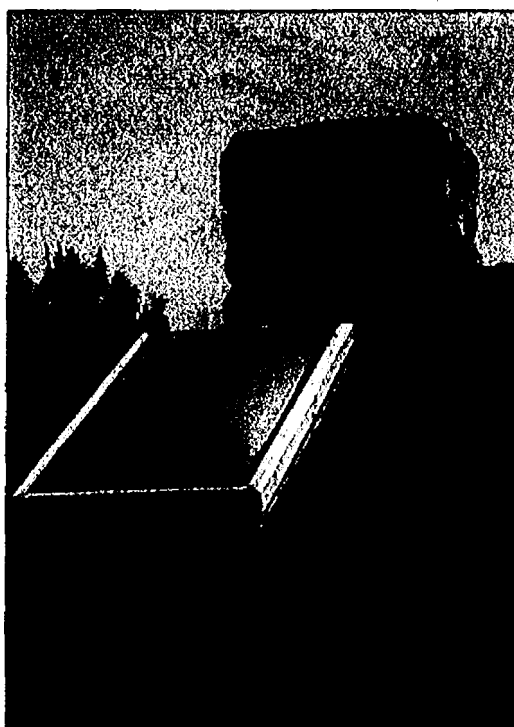

To make their homes more attractive to prospective buyers, homeowners are often told to increase the home's "curb appeal." This involves how the home looks from the street and how good a first impression a home will make on prospective buyers. Homeowners looking to increase their home's curb appeal should consider the following tips:

- Make a more enchanting entrance: The very first part of the home prospective buyers will see is the front door. Typically, the house number is located right near the front door, so the buyers will be looking for the number and once they see it they can't help but look at the door itself. A decrepit or older door will not make a good first impression. If you don't want (or need) to replace the door, touch up the paint job.

Other ways to improve a home's entrance is to make sure the doorknob or doorknocker is polished before showing a home, and to ensure the doorbell is functioning as well. These are small and easy projects, but if neglected, they'll give buyers the impression that other, bigger things might have been neglected as well.

If your home has a front porch or stoop, be sure to inspect it for cracks. An older porch or stoop should be replaced, and any chips or cracks in the steps should be fixed.

- Ready the roof: A new roof is very expensive, and buyers understandably often run from homes that need a new roof. Sellers should hire their own home inspector to determine the condition of the roof before putting the home up for sale. If you wait until after putting the home up for sale, it will likely take more time to sell the home, and buyers will wonder why the home was listed so long. Know the home's ups and downs before putting it up for sale to minimize any potential concerns from buyers.

- Perfect the paint job: For homes without siding, be sure that the paint job is up to snuff. Any areas with peeling or chipping paint should receive a fresh coat of paint, and this is another job that should be handled well before listing the home.

- Lavish the lawn with attention: Buyers love a lush green lawn, and that lawn goes a long way to creating a solid first impression. The first thing buyers will see once they pull up curbside is the lawn. If the grass is dry with brown spots or appears neglected, many buyers will find that hard to overlook.

OPTIONS

minimize interference with the view and window treatments. You can stick with the standard hardware finish, usually bright brass, or look to other lush finishes such as oil-rubbed bronze, brushed nickel, chrome, brushed chrome or antique brass to dress up your personal spaces.

Hand-cast bronze hardware is an authentic enhancement in homes of Classical and Colonial architecture.

Bathrooms, bedrooms and even a home's more public areas can benefit from specialty glass that obscures the view and enhances privacy. Through new manufacturing technology, manufacturers also now offer the distinctive look of leaded or beveled glass without the expense of the real thing.

Grilles or mullions provide allure to windows and patio doors at a reasonable cost. Whether inside the airspace of insulated glass or affixed to the inside and outside of the glass, grilles can be configured in a standard rectangular pattern or custom patterns that add to a home's charm from the street or the easy chair.

Exterior touches

Window and door trim on the home's exterior serves a practical purpose while also embellishing a home's architectural style through one of many profiles available.

Weather Shield recently introduced a unique exterior wood casing line that includes hundreds of configurations in one-piece or two-piece systems that complement Colonial, Craftsman or whatever your home's architectural style.

That exterior trim, along with the windows and doors, can be prefinished in any color imaginable for a consistent color and finish — whether your windows and doors have wood or aluminum clad exteriors. Anodized aluminum exteriors capture the look of true bronze, silver, copper or other metals in a finish that is durable, resistant to chipping and peeling, and evenly finished.

Clearly, the vast array of options available for windows and doors today can help create curb appeal and a one-of-a-kind look for your home. Each adds character, warmth and personality that enhances your home just like those automatic locks and CD player make a new car more enjoyable.

For a look at many of the available options, visit the Web site, weathershield.com or call 1-800-477-6808.

Creative designs add functionality to homes

Outdoor living spaces are a growing home trend, and backyards are becoming a reflection of homeowners' sense of style and personality. No longer relegated to a few folding chairs, homeowners are designing their backyards with the principle that an outdoor living room is just as important as an indoor living room.

"Backyards are becoming true reflections of the home, causing for a revival of gardening and landscaping, and growth of outdoor kitchens and living rooms," Wendy Loomis, landscape designer at Minnesota-based Buell's Landscape Center said. "From serene fountains to stucco fireplaces to awning-covered patios, there are a number of options to create a backyard oasis, allowing homeowners to reconnect with their outdoor spaces in a unique, yet practical way."

Creating a color scheme

Similar to how you paint an indoor room with a color scheme in mind, outdoor rooms can make a statement by incorporating colorful plants throughout the area. Bright, large flowers can be used in areas designated for outdoor activities, while soft, subtle greens can create a tranquil reading nook.

Loomis also notes that homeowners should choose a landscape style that integrates the recurring outdoor color schemes and complements the home's style.

And the colors can go beyond landscape. Carrying a scheme throughout outdoor pillows, rugs, throws, furniture or awning fabrics and styles ties all of the outdoor elements together.

"When you take advantage of capitalizing on the color, texture and fabric of outdoor elements, the entire outdoor living space truly becomes a room," said Michelle Sahlin, managing director for the Professional Awning Manufacturers Association. "Just as you would match a comforter or duvet with the color scheme of a bedroom, matching an awning with other outdoor elements brings the room to life."

Lighting up the room

Proper lighting allows for more time spent in the outdoor living rooms. Whether you're looking for decorative electric lighting or just simple candles or lanterns, additional lighting makes the space enjoyable at various times of the day.

windows and doors from the harmful rays of the sun," Sahlin said. "And with the ability to choose from a variety of awning styles, sizes and fabrics, you don't have to sacrifice on design elements."

Fences and lattice provide additional privacy, serving as walls to the outdoor living spaces. Some homeowners have successfully grown climbing plants, such as grape vines and Virginia creeper, on open fence for privacy.

Creating a focal point

In addition to landscape elements, consider decorative items that enhance the outdoor room. Similar to pictures and wall decor inside a home, wind chimes, fountains and different hangings can add to an overall design theme. And what better way to enjoy the view of your outdoor room than with coordinated deck or patio accessories.

Lounge chairs, tables, benches and hammocks all provide a relaxing way to take in the indoor/outdoor transition you've created.

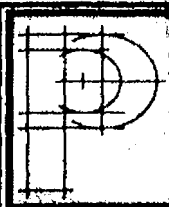

To learn more about outdoor living trends and for more information about awnings, visit the Web site, www.awningstoday.com.

Cozy outdoor fireplaces or fire pits serve as an option to bring both light and warmth in the cool evening hours and to extend the use of the outdoor space into the transitional seasons of spring and fall.

Keeping safety and privacy a priority

While homeowners are eager to spend time in their outdoor spaces, there are a variety of ways to make the outdoor room more private and protected like the inside of a home. Patio and deck awnings create an extension of the home, serving as an outdoor ceiling.

"An awning not only provides protection from the sun and heat, it also keeps your home cooler by shading

Curb appeal increases value of houses

Fall is a perfect time for completing outdoor maintenance projects that'll keep your home looking great and help make spring cleanup easier than ever. Here are a few ideas from the home improvement experts at Zinsser:

- Keep it clean: Many homeowners take advantage of the beautiful spring weather to do outdoor projects. But, fall is also a great time to spruce up the outside of your home. JOMAX House Wash is great for maintenance cleaning between seasons. Its built-in hose-mount is easy to use. Just attach it to your garden hose, clean, then rinse. JOMAX House Wash washes away dirt, algae and mildew stains on vinyl, stucco, brick, wood, aluminum and painted surfaces.

- Don't forget the roof: A beautiful home begins from the ground up and a clean roof is like icing on a cake. The hot summer sun often discourages homeowners from getting up on a ladder — so take advantage of the cooler weather and clean your roof. JOMAX Roof Cleaner removes black streaks, dirt and mildew stains from asphalt, wood, metal and composite roofs. Plus, it kills mold and mildew on tile, slate and other non-porous roofs. While you're up there, make sure your gutters are clean and clear of any debris like dirt, sticks and leaves to prevent blockage.

- Make outdoor furniture last: The key to keeping outdoor furniture and accessories looking great for years is to make sure dirt, grime, algae, mildew stains and odors don't remain on your furniture. Many homeowners decide to bring outdoor furniture in or cover it up when the winter weather begins to roll in. Cleaning your outdoor pieces before packing them away will prevent contaminants like mold and mildew from changing their appearance. Try using JOMAX Mold & Mildew Stain Remover. It cleans and removes mold and mildew stains. Plus, the fast-acting bleach formula is easy to use — just apply, wait 10 minutes and rinse off — no scrubbing required.

Protect outdoor pieces with a sheet, tarp or specialty cover to prevent water and weather damage.

For more information on removing and preventing mold and mildew, and for other helpful home improvement tips, visit the Web site, www.zinsser.com.

The logo for B&B is a stylized, bold, and textured emblem. It features the letters 'B' and 'B' in a large, blocky font, with an ampersand (&) positioned between them. The entire logo is set against a dark, circular background that has a slightly irregular, hand-drawn appearance. The letters and ampersand are filled with a dense, stippled or cross-hatched pattern, giving them a three-dimensional, metallic look. The logo is centered within the 'Selected Varieties' section of the advertisement.

The Appleumpkin Festival showcases the best of autumn in Southeastern Michigan. Stunning fall foliage and Tecumseh's historic downtown provide the perfect backdrop for a fun filled, family weekend. You're invited to build your own scarecrow, shop the arts and crafts show, search for a treasure in the antique street fair, or try your hand at slot car racing while the kids enjoy the carnival rides. You and your family are sure to enjoy spending some time in Tecumseh, and the entire community looks forward to welcoming over 70,000 of our closest friends to town. And heck, with a name like Appleumpkin you have no choice but to have fun!
