look of the deepest tenderness In the faded lines of her fine old face. Warm on her breast in his red night-gown,
Like a scarlet lily, the baby lies,
While softly the tired lids droop down
Over the little sleepy eyes.
And memories come with the cradle song
of the day hen she sang it long ago,
When her life was young and her heart was strong.

Grandmother's children have left her now;
The large old house is a shadowed place;
But shining out in the sunset glow
Of her life, like a star, comes the baby's

He lies where of old his father lay;
Softly she sings him the same sweet strain;
Till the years intervening are swept away,
And the joys of life's morning are hers

Grandmother's gray head is bending low
Over the dear little drowsy one!
The steps of her pathway are few to go;
The baby's journey has just begun.
Yet the rosy dawn of his childish love
Brightens the evening that else were dim;
And in after years, from her home above,
The light of her blessing will rest on him

Some Curious Stories of Lucky Finds of

That rich mines are often discovered modern, verifies. Numerous instances of this kind have come under my own observation. This is said to be luck, but it matters not whether it is luck or science, so long as the "find" is a good one. In such cases it would seem that it is even better to be born lucky than in-dustrious. Only last spring a prospec-tor, not twenty miles from here, after hunting many days for a quartz ledge, tired in his search, and threw down his pick and shovel in disgust, and took up his rifle, and sauntered forth for game. Fortune favored him; his luck came suddenly to him, as it were. He shot a deer, which in its death struggle fell over the rocks and rolled down the mountain side. When the hunter reached his game he found it lying on the outcrop of an immense galena ledge, which he soon after sold for a good round sum-figures not stated.

"SUNLIGHT AND SHADOW."

Ever since it became known that John B. Gough was engaged in writing a new book, its appearance has been watched for with intense interest. It has recently been published, and the enormous sales afford a striking instance of the success that is sure to be awarded to a really good work. Although only just published, the twenty-sixth thousand is already printed; and this fact alone is worthy of notice, for a book which sells like this must be one of extraordinary interest.

John B. Gough, the author of Sunlight and Shadow, is too well known to require any eulogy here. Thousands are familiar with the history of his life: his early poverty, the depth of the degradation to which he descended while a victim of drink, time swinging a good-sized sapling; his wretched condition and terrible "I'll teach you, you young scamp!"
sufferings his superhuman struggles "Never mind, father, I know all them sufferings, his superhuman struggles against intemperance, his reform, his relapse, his resigning of the pledge and final victory, his world-wide Free from sa fame, and his extensive travels and Bacchus's Blisses and Venus's kisses, this protracted labors in this country and But when Indigestion assails, and you can abroad. altogether a record of dark experiences. It has a bright and snnny side. Mr. Gough's stories and descriptions of the humorous side of life, as he has seen and experienced it, portray many amusing scenes.

His remarkable facility for seeing the believes side of every thing, and literature in the literature side of every thing, and literature in the literature side of every thing, and literature in the literature side of every thing, and literature in the literature side of every thing, and literature in the literature side of every thing, and literature in the Indicrous side of every thing, and his talent for humorous description, more amusing things and in a more irresistibly humorous way than John
B. Gough. The comedies from life, are well known. No one can tell B. Gough. The comedies from life, absurb blunders, laughable mistakes, comical incidents, embarrassing situations, mostly drawn from his own experience on the platform and among the people, will provoke the mirth of the most serious. His experiences with brazen-faced people; with letter druggists.

Druggist, Ottawa, Ont., writes: "I was afflicted with Cronic Bronchitis for some years, but have been completely cured by the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, in doses of 5 drops on sugar. I have also the pleasure in recommending it as an embrocation for external use." For sale by all druggists.

> In short, Sunlight and Shadow is a mine of extraordinary interest. It can be truthfully said of it, that for thrilling interests, touching pathos and irresistible humor, no book has ever equaled it.

In point of paper, printing, binding, and above all, beautiful and costly illustration, we have not seen its equal in many a day. It is superbly illustrated with magnificent fullpage engravings, engraved in the nightest style from original designs by F. O. C. Darley, Frederick Dielman; and other famous artists. The magnificent steel-plate portrait of Mr. Gough was engraved from a photograph taken expressly for this purpose, and will be highly prized by tens of thousands who have listened Board adjourn, subject to the call of to his eloquence.

We advise our readers to buy Sunlight and Shadow at the first opportunity. They can, in our opinion, much better afford to dispense with a dozen other books than not pos-of the most horrible and shocking ever committed occurred at Lepeer evening. The community is conshocked over the murder of the wife Mr. Curtis, of the Baptist church by a trnard, of Greenville, Mich., reported to wife of Mr. Barnard, of the firm of Ben-Barnard, lumbermen, at or near Grand. be the wife of Mr. Barnard, of the firm of Bennett & Barnard, lumbermen, at or near Grand Rapids. This Mrs. Barnard, who is about 40 years of age and good looking, came to this place some few weeks ago and engaged board at Mr. Henderson's. Since then she has mingled in society, taken part in the religious meetings that are being held, and so forth. It has been reported that she has a mild form of insanity caused by religious excitement at Greenville, while Mr. Curtis was stationed there. There was a union meeting of the insanity caused by religious excitement at Greenville, while Mr. Curtis was stationed there. There was a union meeting of the different churches at the Baptist church last night, and shortly after it commenced this woman Barnard went to the house of Mr. Curtis, Mrs. Curtis, who is a woman about 70 years of age, was alone. She wanted to talk to Mrs. Curtis, but the latter being afraid, ordered her out of the house. At this the woman said, "You have injured me and I will have revenge." She then blew out the lamp and seized Mrs. Curtis. A slight struggle ensued, when the woman placed a cloth saturated with something over Mrs. Curtis' face, and then pouted gasoline over her body and set fire to it. Edith Douglass, living in an adjoining house, noticed a blaze in the house of Mr. Curtis, and gave an alarm. Neighbors entered and found Mrs. Curtis enveloped in flames. The clothing was soon stripped from her person and medical aid procured, but she was so badly burned that it was seen at once that she could live but a few hours. After the crime Mrs. Barnard went to church, and seepen as Mr. Curtis and other friends had seen at once that she could live buta few hours.

After the crime Mrs. Barnard went to church, and as soon as Mr Curtis and other friends had been notified and called from the church Mrs. Barnard went to her boarding house, where she was soon after found by the officers and brought to Mrs. Curtis' bedside while the latter was making her ante-mortem statement. On her entrance Mrs. Curtis said, "That is the woman!" Mrs. B.—"Oh! Mrs. Curtis, you don't mean me! I would not hurt you!" Mrs. Curtis replied, "Oh, yes! You are the very one." Some persons think Mrs. Barnard is insane, but others do not. Mrs. Curtis died Monday morning.

The Details of the Count as Off ially Reported.

The following statement exhibits the results of the first count of population according to the schedules returned to the census office by the enumerators of the several districts concerned, and published officially by the census bureau, who say:

"The statement of the population in relation to any township, town, city or county is still subject to possible corrections by reason of the discovery of omissions or duplications of names in the lists of inhabitants returned."

Indians in tribal relations under the care of the government are not included in this statement:

On one side of the base is a marble tablet with this inscription:

SACRED to the MEMORY CHRIS COLUMBUS, Octob XII MDCCCVIIIC.

Which means 1792, 300 years after Columbus sighted America. On two other sides of the base are places left for tablets, which have never been inserted. The legend is that the French Consul built this monument at an expense of £800, the bricks for it having been imported. It has long been current among the poor people of the neighborhood that the monument was erected to the memory of a favorite horse, but it is not very likely that a man would be quite so eccentric as to spend $4,000 for such a purpose.

Talking Without A Tongue.

Among the many noble institutions for which Boston is so justly celebrated, the City Hospital stands pre-eminent for solid worth and beneficient results. A peculiar case has recently been treated at this hospital that has attracted much attention among the medical fraternity because of the boldness and originality of the operation, the skill displayed, and the wonderful results. A gentleman well into the fifties, cut the end of his tongue repeatedly against the sharp edge of a broken tooth. There finally appeared what he at first supposed to be a white spot of canker. drawn on each other.
