OUR TELEPHONE.

A heavy frost on Tuesday morning.

The wheat market is dull. Price $1.32.

We are having heaps of rain. It has rained every Sunday for a month.

Attention is called to the change of H. Holmes' advertisement, on third page.

Hon. A. J. Sawyer and A. W. Hamilton have returned from Washington.

Mrs. Lawyer Riggs, of Sylvan township, died on Monday, of paralysis.

Mrs. Chas. Letts, of Detroit, was visiting friends in Chelsea last week.

Apples come into market freely, and are in good demand at $2 per barrel.

The Albany (N. Y.) Argus observes: Judge McGowan, this city, was cured of rheumatism by St. Jacobs Oil.

Burnet Steinbach's new residence is about completed—when finished, it will be a fine handsome building.

M. W. Robinson, has a large double-column advertisement on fourth page. When you are in Jackson, give him a call.

The increasing rains of the past week have damaged corn and stalks, and uncovered piles.

See new advertisement of Camp, Morrill & Camp, of "The Mammoth" store, on fourth page.

Summit street is having some new sidewalks; and new sidewalk has also been laid between Parker & Babcock's store and the Chelsea House.

For SALE AT A BARGAIN.—A yoke of oxen—weight 3,000 pounds. Enquire at this office.

Lima Cor: "Brother Scotland was in town last Sunday, and I should judge from appearances that he was in search of the reporter or the graveyard."

Chelsea is about to organize another Cornet Band. Some eight members have taken up their horns and are busy blowing. May success attend them.

Sheriff Wallace's bill for boarding prisoners for the quarter ending October 1, was $704.50. It was allowed by the supervisors.

We are informed that a wedding was celebrated privately in this village about two weeks ago. We wish the couple success.

Vocal Music.—Prof. G. W. Renwick, of Ann Arbor, will open a vocal music school in this village, one week from Friday. Due notice will be given next week.

Judson & Taylor, cattle dealers, shipped last week from this village, 140 head of hogs—also, 175 wethers—their average weight being 100 lbs.

Almost constant rain for the past week has rendered the country roads almost impassable, but wheat and grass have sprung up rapidly, making a heavy growth.

There will be a Temperance meeting at the Baptist Church, in this village, on Thursday evening, Nov. 3d. The meeting will be addressed by J. C. Bontegou, general agent of the Michigan State Temperance Alliance.

The young lady who was hurt by falling through a broken plank on Railroad street, says, "If our town 'dads' don't fix up the broken sidewalks around this village, before the winter is over, the tax-payers will have to foot up a few hundred dollars."

Camp, Morrill & Camp, of Jackson, have added to their establishment some thing rare and beautiful—and is the only dry goods firm in Michigan who keep a man for the purpose of decorating. We had the pleasure of seeing his magnificent designs, and pronounce them beautiful in the extreme. We advise all our friends to call and see the free exhibition.

The Salem (Mass.) Register mentions: Mr. J. S. LeFavour, artist, surprisingly benefited by St. Jacobs Oil. Rheumatism twenty years.

We are requested by the Marshal, to inform all those who owe village taxes, that they must call on him and settle the same before Saturday, November 5, 1881. If not paid by that time, it will be put into the hands of the village attorney for collection.

Mr. Henry C. Wentworth, for several years general passenger agent of the Michigan Central railroad has tendered his resignation, to take effect on the 1st of November, on account of ill health. Mr. LeFavour has refused to accept his resignation, but grants Mr. W. an indefinite leave of absence.

REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS.—C. E. Canfield to A. S. Brown, lot in Chelsea; $500. John Rowe to W. H. Clark, lot in Chelsea village; $500.

John C. Taylor to Mary V. Cook, Chelsea village lot; $500.

Abner A. Van Tyne to G. A. Robertson, Chelsea village lot; $313.62.

About ten years ago the project for a railroad between Jackson and Pontiac, known as the Air Line road was carried to completion so far as partially grading the route. The owners recently transferred their right to the Grand Trunk Company's hands, which is pushing the enterprise to completion, by re-surveying and staking the route.

The special correspondent of the Free Press, at Yorktown, in speaking of the military review, says: When the Michigan battalion passed, Gen. Hancock called the especial attention of the French guests to them as a battalion which had come a thousand miles to attend the celebration. Their general appearance was excellent, and it was the judgment of military men that the file closing was better than in any battalion on the ground, while the marching of the soldiers was equal to any.

Postmasters have recently received authority from the postoffice department to correct misdirected letters, when personal knowledge enables them to do so, and forward them to their destination, instead of sending them to the dead-letter office as has been the custom in the past. This will not only be the means of causing, in a great many cases, the speedy transmission of obscurely directed letters, but will also greatly decrease the business in the dead-letter office.

THE COMMERCIAL ADVERTISER AND MICHIGAN HOME JOURNAL, published by Wm. H. Burk, Detroit, Michigan, is one of the best family weeklies in the Northwest. This paper, established in 1861, has steadily increased its circulation during the past twenty years, and now ranks as the most prominent weekly family paper of Michigan. Its circulation extends to every State and Territory in the Union and every Province of Canada, and is constantly increasing. Under the editorial management of a rising young journalist, it is fast gaining prominence for its fearlessly outspoken criticisms on the evils of social life and of the neglect and abuses in the family circle, while judicious selections from its many exchanges renders it entertaining, cheerful and lively. One of its principal features is the page devoted to the interests of the "Little People," and the letters from them published thereon, evidence the interest taken by them in its contents. Send postal card for sample copy and terms to agents.

Register: The County Superintendent of the Poor meet on Tuesday next when the new superintendent, Albert Case of Manchester, will enter upon his duties.

Company A, returned from Yorktown on Monday night, and were met at the depot by the band, and about two hundred citizens, by whom they were escorted to the armory.

The Committee on re-districting the county has not yet reported to the board of supervisors. But the plan proposed, and most likely to be adopted, is to divide the county east and west, which will place ten townships in each district, making the two representative districts equal in territory and as nearly equal in population as possible by any division which does not divide a township, and such a division cannot, of course, be made. According to this plan, the southern district would be Democratic by at least 300 majority, and the northern district would be in separate districts.

Danger of Stimulants.

That man is nothing less than a deliberate suicide who drinks tea, coffee or ardent spirits of any kind, to induce him to perform a work in hand when he feels too weak to go through with it without such aid. This is the reason that the majority of great orators and public favorites die drunkards. The pulpit, the bench, the bar, the forum, have contributed their legions of victims to drunken habits. The beautiful woman, the sweet singer, the conversationalist, the periodical writer, has filled but too often a drunkard's grave. The best possible thing for a man to do when he feels too tired to perform a task, or too weak to carry it through, is to go to bed and sleep a week if he can; this is the only true recuperation of brain-power; the only actual renewal of brain forces, because during sleep the brain is, in a sense, at rest, in a condition to receive and appropriate particles of nutriment from the blood which take the place of those which have been consumed in previous labor. Mere stimulants supply nothing; they only goad the brain, force it to a greater consumption of its substance, until that substance has been so fully exhausted that there is not power enough left to receive a supply; just as men are sometimes so near death by thirst and starvation, that there is not strength enough left to swallow anything, and all is over. The capacity of the brain for receiving recuperative particles sometimes comes on with the rapidity of lightning, and the man becomes mad in an instant; in an instant falls into convulsions, in an instant loses all sense, and he is an idiot. We repeat there is renewed force for the brain, only in early and abundant sleep.

In the Christianity case on Thursday, Mary Chamberlain, a New York seamstress, testified that Giro had paid her $50 and expenses to go to Washington and appear in company with Goodman at Mrs. Christianity's residence. She afterwards met Giro in the hall of the Christianity house, accompanied him to a hotel and returned with him to the vicinity of the house. The purport of the testimony was, that Giro carried out his threat, made to Mr. Barnum, that he would have revenge on Mrs. Christianity by securing some woman to personate her.

DON'T KNOW HALF THEIR VALUE.

"They cured me of Ague, Biliousness and Kidney Complaint, as recommended. I had a half bottle left, which I used for two little girls who the doctors and neighbors said could not be cured. I would have lost both of them one night if I had not given them Hop Bitters. They did not get much good I continued their use until they were cured. That is why I say you do not know half the value of Hop Bitters, and do not recommend them high enough."—B. Rochester, N. Y. See other column.

Selected Poetry.

CONJUNCTURE.

My neighbor is richer than I,
But this can never move me;
If he has wealth, then I have health, A darling wife to love me, A little cot, the poor man's lot,
And kindly heavens above me.

My neighbor takes his daily walks, And deigns not to address me, Yet he who made the bill and glade Despises not to bless me, So I have joy, with slight alloy, And little to distress me.

My neighbor in his tower grand Surveys his miles of treasure, While I may watch my acre patch, With Spot and Trim at leisure, And be content, with little sent,
Yet filling up my measure!

My neighbor's children run and play Within a garden blooming, While mine you see, "barefoot" and free,
With birds and wild bees roaming, For berries red with which to spread A rich feast at the gloaming.

My neighbor has the sun and dew, His plenty still increasing;
But on their way, each blessed day With bounty all unceasing, They pass it not, my little lot, Without a golden blessing!

As sun and dew speeds fruit and grain In answer to my sowing, I'll be content with what is sent Of Heaven's kind bestowing;
And thank the Power who fills each hour My cup to overflowing.

GENTLE INFLUENCES.

Violets, in the leafiest shade By their odors are betrayed; Soft winds, over flower fields blown,
By their fragrant breath are known; Dew, by freshened leaves confessed, Wets unseen earth's slumbering breast; Rill, from out the bleak hillside, Swells to rivers, deep and wide;
Rivers, flowing fast and free, Widen to the boundless sea;
All great things that move the earth To gentle issues owe their birth; And soft influence still is best, Bringing comfort, love and rest, Sweet domestic love is strong—Leads to right and warns from wrong; Kindly whispers mightier prove,
And to loftier action move,
Than the fretful voice of scorn, Of contempt and anger born.

The Ants of Visitation.

Harvey E. Brown contributes to Appleton's Journal, an article on the "Insect Pests of San Domingo," from which we select this interesting account of an insect-blessing.

Nearly as large as a hornet, of a crusset color, these "ants of visitation" (Attacephalotes) are the great scavengers of the tropics; and, though doubtless doing more or less damage in their remarkable excursions, yet this is easily forgiven, in view of the thorough/cleansing they give to every house they enter. Once a year they sally forth from their homes, a mighty army, moving in solid columns, and led by veteran and experienced generals. Reaching a house, they immediately send out scouts that enter it; and, if they report favorably, the whole vast multitude swarms into it in every direction, and then ensues a scene of slaughter which can only be fitly described by an eye-witness.

Listen to what a lady writes from Trinidad, of one of these visitations as quoted by Kirby: "The upper room presented a singular spectacle, for not only were the floor and walls covered like the other room, but the roof was covered also. The open rafters of a West India house at all times afford shelter to a numerous erie of insects, more particularly the cockroach; but now their destruction was inevitable. The chasseur ants, as if trained for battle, ascended in regular, thick files to the rafters, and threw down the cockroaches to their comrades on the floor, who as regularly marched off with the dead bodies, dragging them away by their united efforts with amazing rapidity. Either the cockroaches were stung to death on the rafters, or else the fall killed them.
"From this room I went to the adjoining bed-chamber and dressing-room, and found them equally in possession of the chasseurs. I opened a large military chest full of linen, and pulled out the linen on the floor, and with them hundreds of cockroaches; and not one escaped.

"I next proceeded to open a storeroom at the end of the house, for a place of retreat; but, to get the key I had to return to the under room, where the battle was now more hot than ever. The ants had commenced an attack on the rats and mice, which, strange as it may seem, were no match for their apparently insignificant foes. They surrounded them as they had the insect to be covered them over, and dragged them off with a celerity and union of strength that no one who has not watched such a scene can comprehend. I did not see one rat or mouse escape, and I am sure I saw a score carried off in a brief period.

"We next tried the kitchen, for the store-room and boys' pantry were already occupied; but the kitchen was equally the field of battle between rats, mice cockroaches, and ants killing them.

"I think it was about ten when I first observed the ants; about twelve the battle was formidable; soon after one, the great strife began with the rats and mice; and about three the houses were cleared. In a quarter of an hour more, the ants began to decamp, and soon not one was to be seen within doors."

The negroes appropriately call these incursions "the blessing of God." It has been remarked that, with instinct, these ants in their visitations will always pass by an uninhabited house, seeming to be well aware that their prey is only to be found in immediate association with man. None but those who have in person experienced the disgusting annoyance caused by the Southern cockroach can appreciate this wonderful provision of Providence, by which the houses are yearly cleaned in so much more complete a manner than they possibly could be by the utmost resources of human ingenuity.

An Incombustible Saint.

A native of India who has never seen a railway will not be convinced that the Feringhi has discovered how to convey human beings at the rate of thirty or forty miles an hour, by merely boiling water in a certain contrivance on wheels. But tell the same incredulous worthy that one of his holy men has the power of calling the dead to life, or of flying through the air every night to roost on the summit of gigantic Gungoo-tri, and he will see nothing out of the way in the strange tale. At the present time there is a fakir at Lucknow about whose miraculous doings the native papers tell the most astounding stories, without any expression of disbelief. His latest exploit was to sit "cool, quiet and perfectly unconcerned," close alongside of an enormous fire. The heat was so great that the crowd of spectators could not approach within two hundred yards of the blazing mas, which was composed of eleven earthenware highly combustible material. The native scribe who chronicles the feat asserts that the fakir remained "in this interesting position" for four hours, without taking the slightest harm. Of course, the fame of the devotee spread abroad like wildfire, and from all parts of Lucknow came pious Hindus, bringing offerings to the incombustible saint. So great at last became the concourse of pilgrims that a detachment of police had to be stationed on the spot. How the trick was managed remains to be shown. It seems established that some occurrence of the sort described really did take place, but the details have probably received great embellishment from that egregious, fletionist, common report.

A DIFFERENCE.—The English ambassador at Berlin is quoted by the German papers as relating an anecdote characteristically illustrating the contrast between the two rivals, Prince Bismarck and the late Count Arnim. One day as the English dip-lomast was going up the stairs of the chancellor's palace, he met Count Arnim coming down. The latter stopped and said: "You are going to the imperial chancellor's cabinet; I have just come away. He was pouring forth such thick clouds from his pipe that I should have been stifled in the smoke if a window had not been opened." When Lord Odo Russell entered the room he noticed that one of the windows was wide open. "Only think," said Bismarck to the Englishman, "the Count Arnim has just been here, and he stank so insufferably of pat-chouli, that I should certainly have fallen into a swoon if I had not thrown open the window."

AN INDIAN RIFLEMAN.—It is said that Young Otto, a Nez Perce chief, is the best rifle shot in the world. He is exhibiting his marksmanship in San Francisco, and one of his feats is described as follows:
"A pistol barrel is placed in a small steel frame; behind this a razor with the edge facing the audience. On each side of this razor is a glass ball securely placed for the object of this feat. The pistol barrel, razor and balls are masked with a covering of white cloth. The boy is then blindfolded, his back turned to the object, the 'about-face' is given, when he fires down through the pistol barrel, splits his single rifle ball upon the razor edge, and breaks both glass balls on the right and left."

Legal Printing.—Persons having legal advertising to do, should remember that it is not necessary that it should be published at the county seat—any paper published in the county will answer. In all matters transpiring in this vicinity, interest of the advertiser will be better served, by having the notices published in their home paper, than to take them to a paper that is not as generally read in their vicinity, besides it is the duty of every one to support home institutions as much as as possible.
