WHISPERINGS.

It's going to be a wet month! See the "for sale" notice in another column.

The new steeple on the Congregational church looks very neat.

Should we now have dry weather, far will have immense crops.

Large numbers now visit Mr. Glenn's summer resort at North Lake.

Mr. Frank Guest is furnishing farmers in this vicinity with fanning mills.

Gilbert Gay is happy! A new awning shelters him from the sun's hot rays.

Wanted, to see: The little girl who can beat Mamie Gilbert driving a horse!

The continuous wet weather has very much retarded the work on John Bagge's building.

Mathew Jensen has just added a good tool and corn barn to his already spacious farm buildings.

July 2d, one hundred and sixty-nine post-office box rents were paid. Pretty good for one day!

The foundations are being laid for the additions to Reed & Winans, and Parker & Babcock's stores.

If you see a man you think is Fin. Whitaker don't be afraid to accost him. It's him—minus his beard!

During the hot days of last week our streets were quite deserted, farmers doing their trading in the evening.

A number of business houses were closed on the fourth to give their employees an opportunity to enjoy themselves.

Mr. Lighthall has a changed "ad" this week. All in need of brass goods, pumps, fittings &c., will do well to read it.

Water melons have made their appearance in our market, but they taste too strongly of greenbacks for us to indulge in.

Tax Receiver Guthard of Detroit has given bonds to the extent of $50,000. He is a son of Mr. H. Guthard, of Bridgewater.

H. S. Holmes must be doing something in the crockery line for on Monday last he received two crates and a cask of white and yellow ware.

The telephone at this place is now on the Manchester wire instead on the state line as heretofore, causing the operator much more work.

If Manchester was not bettered last Sabbath it need look no farther, for it was visited by one of Chelsea's ministers and ye editor on that day.

The funeral of Mr. F. Gierbach was held at the Baptist church last Sunday afternoon, as the Lutheran church was too small to accommodate all who wished to attend.

Mr. W. I. Wood, of about two, and one-half miles southeast of here, has a new 36 x 80 ft. barn nearly finished. Like all others, he is much "put out" by so much wet weather.

A fac-simile of the first paper ever printed in this country has been handed us by Jens Norgaard. It bears the date of Monday, April 17, 1704. It also gives a description of the first train of cars.

"Slow Farmer" of Lima, handed us July 6th, a stalk of corn measuring 53 inches from the root to the tip of the longest leaf. The corn is on the same 15-acre field he raised 2,000 bushels from last year.

Chief of Police, Conely, of Detroit, is having the approval of all law abiding citizens in the course he took on fourth of July saloonism. Mr. Conely is a son-in-law of Mrs. Butterfield's of this place.

Mr. B. Wight is making extensive improvements on his place, the latest being a wire fence and a side walk. As Mr. Allison's property joins Mr. W., we expect to see a walk in front of his property soon.

Brooklyn's marshal is papa too! Why can't there be more marshals?

Mr. John A. Bobb, of Three Rivers, will do the bobbing in the Dexter high school during the next school year.

Mr. G. J. Crowell, and Mr. Jas. L. Gilbert have placed iron chairs on their respective lots in Oak Grove cemetery.

Master George and Miss Fannie Hinckley, of Parma, are visiting their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Steadman in Lima.

The cemetery is visited by large numbers every Sunday. All would be thankful to the village board if they would construct a walk to it.

Sophie Lyons has been granted another hearing. Now suppose she gets free? Why then the county is out about $2,000, and Sophie is out—of the state's prison!

We are in receipt of the premium list of the Michigan State Agricultural Society's 35th annual fair to be held at Detroit September 17-21. Anyone wishing to see it call at our office.

Fin. Whitaker disposed of about forty hay tedders this season, and could have sold more but the manufacturers could not furnish them. About fifty were sold in this vicinity this season.

Mr. James Smith recently bought and shipped 47 spring lambs for some of which he paid as high as $2.75. Mr. Smith and other buyers tell us farmers must take much less for stock this fall than last.

The regular annual meeting of the Ladies' Library Association will be held at the Town hall to-morrow (Friday), evening, July 13th. All are invited.

Mrs. R. Callohan, Secy.

Mr. Allison is keeping up with the people in his neighborhood for now painters are at work changing the appearance of his habitation both inside and outside. Messrs. Johnson and West are the artists.

Prof. Newkirk has resigned his position as principal of the schools at South Lyons, and will give his whole attention to his paper, the Picket. We do not see how he can better himself financially by the change.

A "silent supper" is the latest in the line of socials. Those who can eat supper without speaking or laughing are entertained free; otherwise they pay the usual fee. As this is not a quiet populace, let's have one!

The oldest paper we have yet seen was shown us last Saturday by Mr. Ira Glover of Sylvan. It is a copy of the New London (Conn.) Gazette, dated Friday, May 20th, 1768. It has been in the possession of relatives for a long time.

It will be remembered by many of our readers that Mr. Showerman, of Waterloo, lost an eye some time ago by being kicked by a horse. In conversation with him a few days ago, he said he would not take the state of Michigan for the other.

By statements issued from our job department, showing the condition of the Chelsea Savings Bank, we notice the deposits have increased nearly $20,000 in the past three months, showing the confidence people have in the management of this bank.

As the Congregational church has been undergoing repairs, no services have been held the past two Sabbaths, but Rev. Mr. Holmes informs us that services will take place next Sabbath. Preparatory services will be held Saturday afternoon at the usual hour.

Another one turned loose. The governor has pardoned Clinton Hinckley, of Hillsdale county, out of the Ionia prison. He was sent up in 1882 for two years for breaking into a freight car. When will the Gov. tender the chaps he has pardoned thus far, a reception?

Postmaster James Burns, of Bridgewater station, expects to take part in a grand hunting expedition now being organized by Pontiac and Saginaw parties. They will go in a car fitted for their especial convenience, and will hunt along the line of the Northern Pacific railroad.

Village Marshal, Foster, informs us that the ordinance in regard to the collection of taxes will be strictly enforced this summer. For the convenience of tax payers he will be at the board's room in the Town hall every Saturday afternoon and evening. If the poll tax is paid soon, it will only be 75 cents.

Just think! Three days without rain! See Holmes' new "ad!" This week he talks hose—presume he's seen some bare-footed person!

Mr C. Cushman spent several days of the past week with his sons at Williams-ton. He says they are nicely located and like it very much.

The Royal Templars elected the following officers June 20th:

We're not going to tell any more turtle or fish stories unless the Dexter Leader promises to not say what he saw or heard. Upon our mentioning several weeks ago that Mr. Miller had found a turtle which he had marked five years before, the Leader says that twenty-five years ago he cut a promissory note on a turtle in New York and the day it was due he (the turtle), presented himself for payment. This is all right (?) but when he adds "we paid it in full," we know he is li-ving, for no country editor was ever known to have a hundred dollars at one time!

The following are the names of persons who have favored us with the "ready cash," for the HERALD, since June 19th, and to whom we tender our sincere thanks:

At the annual school meeting held last Monday evening, the trustees whose term expired,—Jas. P. Wood and Geo. P. Glazier,—were re-elected. To meet the current expenses of the year it was voted to raise $2,000 by direct tax. The recommendation of the Board to erect another building at an expense of $740 for the use of the smaller children, was lost on a motion made by a gentleman whose children will never be obliged to study in the basement as some other persons children have and will do again, or be obliged to breathe the same air 60 or 70 other scholars have exhaled, and that, just at the age (from 5 to 7) when their system is most sensitive to disease. It is needless to say that the meeting was slimly attended; only about 35 voters being present, and among them only two business men (outside of the Board), two lawyers, and not a single clergyman or physician and but a few laboring men.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

JUSTICE FIELD, of the United States Supreme Court, says he travels 9,000 miles a year in attending to his judicial duties. His traveling expenses amount to more than $1,000 a year when he travels alone, and to more than $2,000 a year when his wife accompanies him; and the Judges alone, of high Government officers, have to pay their own traveling expenses, which he freely declares he considers to be an outrage. Of course, passes are offered to him every year, but he always declines them.

THE death of Mrs. Catherine Moore and Miss Lucy Lakenan in Louisville at almost the same instant, a short time ago, was a singular circumstance, considering their intimacy for many years. They were such devoted and inseparable friends that it was commonly taken for granted by those who did not know them but saw them constantly together that they were mother and daughter. They were taken ill at the same time, each in her own house. At 8 o'clock on Tuesday morning Miss Lakenan came out of the stupor in which she had been lying, and saying: "Mrs. Moore is dead and I am going too," sank into unconsciousness again, and in a few moments was dead. Her conviction that her friend had died was remarkable, for there had been no communication between the families for several days.

THE Italian Minister of War has just issued a discouraging report on the subject of malaria in Italy, with a statistical map showing the position of the malaria districts and their relative standing as respects the danger of infection. At the present time only six of the sixty-nine provinces of the kingdom are free from poisonous exhalations, and upward of 40,000 soldiers are annually affected at a cost to the Government of $2,000,000. Moreover, malaria throws thousands of workmen out of employment, prevents the cultivation of large tracts of land and is altogether an enormous economic drawback. It is worthy of note that with the construction of railways the malarial area has increased at an alarming rate, the explanation being that the excavations have brought much swamp land to the surface and interrupted natural drainage.

THERE is a natural inclination among certain Irish-Americans to hold the English Government directly responsible for the fact that paupers of Ireland have been "assisted" to this country. It is responsible, of course, on the principle that the principal is bound by whatever his agent does; but it is likely that in that way only can the Government be held to account. Earl Spencer, the Lord-Lieutenant of Ireland, declared that he deprecated forced emigration; and that aid should be given carefully, so that only those persons should be sent out who had some prospect of success in their new homes. The condition which he suggests seems to have been disregarded in the case of some of the emigrants on the Furness. Probably the result of the investigations now going on in Ireland will reveal the fact that the English Government's intentions are all right, but that some of the local authorities have been unable to resist the temptation to get rid of certain unpleasant persons who were burdens to the community.

THE fair which was opened on the 2d inst. in Santa Fe, New Mexico, promises to be as successful as it is unique. It is in honor of the 333d anniversary of the settlement of that territory by the Spaniards, and is to last thirty-three days. Arrangements have been made for a display of antiquities of no mean order, and three stages of civilization will be illustrated—that of the Pueblo Indians, the Spanish, and that which is distinctively American. The fair will also offer an opportunity for the study of the resources, present condition and prospects of the territory. In celebration of that comparatively modern event, the Declaration of Independence, several speeches were made, and among the speakers announced were the Hon. L. Bradford Prince of New York, and Senator Logan, of Illinois. On the whole, for a part of the country which is commonly regarded as desolate, New Mexico is doing pretty well to be able to arrange a celebration of this kind.

A MEETING of "The Ladies' Irish Aid Society" was held in Cooper Institute, New York, the other night, and in every respect was one of the most creditable incidents of the Irish movement. The object of the demonstration was to raise money in behalf of the families of the Phoenix Park assassins who perished on the gallows. A brother of Brady, the chief murderer, was on exhibition on the platform, and a dynamite manufacturer, who proclaimed himself a humanitarian, and consequently "a hundred miles above patriotism," closed the proceedings with an Irish benediction. Mr. Sheridan, who was the orator of the evening, fully justified the murders in Phoenix Park, speaking of the assassins as "heroic spirits who had been murdered at Kilmainham recently," and who were "worthy to be placed upon the roll of great Irish heroes." "So long as Irish history shall last," he is reported to have said, "the names of Joe Brady, Daniel Curley and the boy hero, Timothy Kelly, should be honored and revered by every Irish patriot." This shameful harangue will put a keen edge on public regret that the British government was unable to follow up the indictment of Mr. Parnell's masquerading friend and follower with evidence strong enough to involve his extradition. One of the most melancholy features of this degrading assassins' wake was the presence of female ghouls on the platform and in the hall.

ALMOST every day the dispatches published in the newspapers contain reports of one or more lynchings, or threats of lynching, at some place in this country. These exhibitions of lawlessness are not confined to any particular part of the Union. A day or two ago two murderers were taken from jail and hanged in Iowa; more recently threats of violence were uttered so near as in Genesee; and the lynching of a murderer is reported from Mayesville, Miss. These occurrences should attract the serious attention of all thoughtful citizens, but especially of our lawyers and judges. It would be pertinent to enquire of the latter if this spirit of lawlessness is not one of the results of the great delay which intervenes so generally in this country between the capture of a criminal and the infliction of his punishment. And if this is the case, should not our jurists strive to have the laws changed so that justice in the United States may be more swift and sure? Is it not probable if the members of the community in which some dreadful crime is committed felt certain that the just infliction of the death penalty would be as swift and unswerving there as it is in England, for example, that they would be much less inclined than they are now to take the law into their own hands?

The Most Remarkable Carriage in the World.

St. James Gazette.

The carriage used by the Duke de Montpensier at the coronation of the Czar is probably the most remarkable specimen of the coach builders' art in the world. It was built more than a hundred years ago, and is constructed mainly of glass, the necessary metal framing being of richly chased silver. The interior is fitted in blue velvet, embroidered with the arms of Castile and Aragon; and beneath the hammercloth there is a musical box, which was designed to play as the carriage went forward, but which is now out of order and cannot be repaired. The carriage last appeared in public upon the occasion of King Alfonso's wedding; but it has figured at all the great state festivals at Madrid during the last three generations, and is regarded as almost a part of the Spanish regalia.

A Battle in the Grass.

A fight between a rattlesnake and a black snake was recently witnessed near Fort Worth. The black snake forced the fighting, gliding around in swift circles, while the rattlesnake coiled. The circles grew smaller, and the rattlesnake appeared confused as the black snake drew closer. His rattles ceased to give out their usual sharp sound, and his head dropped as if vertigo was seizing him. The black snake seized, by a lightning movement, the rattlesnake by the throat, and winding about him, the two rolled over and over together. In a few moments the rattlesnake ceased to breathe. An examination of the dead body of the rattlesnake revealed a fracture in the spine as complete as if done by a blow with a club. The rattlesnake measured five feet and three inches.

A man who weighs 150 pounds on the earth, if transported to Jupiter would shake the ground with a ponderous tread of 45,000 pounds or twenty-two and half tons! A hickory nut falling from a bough would crash through him like minnie ball. Water would weigh fifteen times as much as quicksilver. A moderate wave would shiver to atoms the strongest iron-clad.

MICHIGAN NEWS.

A fiendish attempt at murder was made the other day at Smith's Crossing, between East Saginaw and Midland. Duke McKenzie, who resides at Tawas, went in search of his wife, who refused to live with him because "he treated her like a brute," and hired out to keep house on the farm of James Price of East Saginaw at the crossing. McKenzie went to Price's hotel and inquired about his wife and left on the morning train. He left the cars at the station, and going over to the farm tried to induce Mrs. McKenzie to go home with him. The men being at work in the field, with no one to protect her, he abused the woman and finally drew a revolver and fired two shots at her, the first striking her in the cheek, the last in the arm. The shots alarmed the men, who ran to the house. When McKenzie saw help was coming he fled. To one of the men who threatened to shoot him, McKenzie said he would save him the trouble in a few moments. He took to the woods. The woman is seriously injured, but physicians think her wounds are not fatal.

Nathan P. Frink, one of the pioneers of Jackson and Eaton counties and sheriff of the latter from 1842 to 1846, died of heart disease a few days ago, aged 78.

Linkner, a young man from Cleveland, Ohio, employed on the steamboat Hubbard, fell off a boom stick at the dock in West Bay City, and was drowned.

A sanitary convention is to be held in Muskegon on the 23d and 24th of August. The convention is to be under the auspices of the state board of health. Sewerage, drainage, impure water, the disposal of refuse matter, and in fact all subjects bearing upon the question of health will be discussed.

A South Haven paper says: South Haven was thrown into some commotion by the return home of J. A. Kemp, the old man who deserted the schooner Petrel in Milwaukee in 1879, and from whom not a word has been heard since then until now. He went from Milwaukee to Palestine, Tex., and from there drifted to near Craig's Head, Ark., where he now claims to own a homestead of 100 acres, he expecting to return there in October. The visit here was to induce his wife to accompany him to Arkansas, he not knowing until he returned that she had died during his absence.

Several Michigan papers contain advertisements of southern lotteries. This is a plain violation of the state law.

Senator Palmer, of Detroit, has rented the Washington residence of ex-Senator Windom. It is one of the most desirable and pleasantly situated houses in the city. It has recently been furnished elegantly, and has never been occupied.

The Schoolcraft Pioneer criticizes unfavorably the course of Judge V. H. Smith, of the Iowa Circuit, in releasing P. S. Hamilton, of Seney, from confinement at Iowa House of Correction. The application was for a writ of habeas corpus, and it is alleged that neither the Attorney-General or the Prosecuting Attorney of Schoolcraft County, had notice of it. Hamilton, when he entered the prison, was possessed, as said, of $1,940 cash.

The lake shipments of iron ore from the Lake Superior district, closing with and including June 27, aggregate 492,171 gross tons. At the corresponding date last year there had been forwarded by lake from the mines of the district 538,582 gross tons of ore. The falling off this year, therefore, in comparison with the shipments of last season, is 346,411 gross tons, or nearly 60 per cent. This would indicate a restriction of the ore output of the Lake Superior district for the season of 1883 that would hold it down to a total of about 1,125,000 gross tons, unless a very marked improvement in the demand for ore should shortly arise to stimulate production.

hundreds of citizens, started in pursuit of the perpetrator of the outrage. The girl said that the man was a negro. Deputy Sheriff Miller arrested a young man named Charles Schermerhorn. He had disguised himself by blacking his face, and had washed it off before being captured. The girl recognized him as the man, and marked on his clothing sustain her testimony. Threats of lynching were freely indulged in, and had the villain fallen into the hands of any one but an officer he would probably have paid the penalty for his crime with his life. The formal laying of a corner stone of the new court house, under the auspices of the Michigan grand lodge of masons, was a most interesting and impressive feature of the Fourth at Charlotte. A man named Le Fare was accidentally shot with a revolver on the 5th near False Presque Isle. It appears that the man and some of his neighbors had been loading a vessel near their home and had some difficulty with the captain, who drew a revolver, but did not shoot. When the men got home one of them got a revolver and was showing what the captain did to them. The revolver accidentally discharged and the ball struck Le Fare's left arm, then glanced and entered his side, breaking a rib and lodging in his lung. ### What Cured Her Blindness.

Hearing that an astonishing faith or prayer cure had been performed, we-to-day called on Miss Emma Miller, at 78 Van Buren street, this city, to inquire as to the particulars. A young lady came to the door, who proved to be Miss Miller herself. She gave us the following particulars:

Her health failed three years ago; she went almost entirely blind, so that her eyes could not bear the light, and she had to be led about. She had not read a line in three years, and had not looked into the light for two and a half years.

On June 10 she attended a Holiness camp meeting at Bangor, Mich., and says she has been "living very near to God" for some time past, and had full faith that He could and would restore her sight." She took paper and envelopes with her, and told her parents she would write to them as soon as her sight was restored.

The only means used was prayer. She was kneeling at the time; was herself praying, and others were praying with her, that her sight might be restored. In a little time, not more than a minute and a half her sight was restored. It was a complete restoration; she saw plainly, got up and walked out into the sunlight rejoicing and praising God.

Since then, as Miss M. affirms, her general health has been very much improved. She is now nearly well. She walked down town alone to-day, for the first time in three years; and she looks and acts like one in good health. Her eyes appear to be bright and healthy.

Miss M. is the daughter of Mr. Richard S. Miller, a stone mason by trade and an old and respected citizen. She is (we judge) about 20 years of age, and is a lady of education and refinement—evidently sincere and honest. Moreover, her statements are corroborated by the neighbors, and by many who were conversant with the facts.—Battle Creek Republican.

Married in a Few Minutes.

They met on a railroad train. It was a case of love at first sight. He introduced himself, chatted pleasantly, and ere they reached Bay City, they vowed to love each other forever and a few days longer. He was a farmer from Oakland County, and was pretty well fixed, she was coming to Bay City to work, but the fates decided that she should not do so, and she will in future reside over the destinies of a comfortable farm house in one of the richest counties in the State, Justice Oldfield in the most suave style performed the ceremony that made Ezior Bastado and Miss Mary Davis man and wife. The marriage occurred at 3 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, and the happy couple repaired to their rural home on

The Michigan Central.

The Railroad Gazette, speaking of the consolidation of the Canada Southern with the Michigan Central, says: "These united companies have nearly as large a mileage as Lake Shore, but their gross earnings, were this year $2,476,000 (27 per cent.) less, and the net earnings $1,393,000 (38 per cent.) less. On the other hand their fixed charges were $590,000 (33 per cent.) less. The Michigan Central gained 21 per cent. in gross earnings and 96 per cent. in net earnings, against the Lake Shore's 15% and 36% per cent. in the increase in the profit share was $319,000. It should be noticed that the Michigan Central, which was $2.02 behind the Lake Shore in profits per share last year, is with eighteen cents of it this year. The union of the Canada Southern makes the Michigan Central more nearly like the Lake Shore, and doubtful if the two roads will have as great differences in profits hereafter as heretofore."

A Branch County Ichthyosaurus.

Tuesday morning a large ichthyological specimen drifted ashore near Mr. A. Hower's Lake of the Woods, in Ovid Township. It was six feet and six inches in length and two and ten inches in circumference. It was covered with skin instead of scales and was named a sturgeon by those who knew it. It was buried; but on Wednesday several persons visited the spot to view it, and it was uncovered and laid open to the gaze of those who wanted to see a big fish and satisfy themselves as to the truth of the story. The query is, "where came it?" Judge Shipman, a good amateur on fish, thinks it may have found its way to the St. Joseph River when small and by the marches' reached the lake where it has lived and matured.—Coldwater Republican.

cutting the hair. It may be that cutting and shaving may for the time increase the action of the growth, but it has no permanent effect either upon the hair-bulb or the life of the hair. On the contrary, cutting and shaving will cause the hair to grow longer for the time being, but the end will inevitably shorten its term of life by exhausting the nutritive action of the hair-forming apparatus. When the hairs are frequently cut, they will usually become coarser, often losing the beautiful gloss of the fine and delicate hairs. The pigment will likewise change—brown, for instance, becoming chestnut, and black changing to a dark brown. In addition, the ends of very many will be split and ragged, representing a brush-like appearance. If the hairs appear stunted in their growth upon portions of the scalp or beard, or gray hairs crop up here and there, the method of clipping off the ends of the short hairs, or plucking out the ragged, withered and gray hairs, will allow them to grow stronger, longer and thicker. Mothers, in rearing their children, should not cut their hair at certain periods of the year (during the superstitious period of full moon), in order to increase its length and luxuriance as they bloom into womanhood and manhood. This habit of cutting the hair of children brings evil in place of good, and is also condemned by the distinguished worker in this department, Prof. Kaposi, of Vienna, who states that it is well known that the hair of women who possess luxuriant locks from the time of girlhood never again attains its original length after having once been cut. Pincus has made the same observation by frequent experiment, and he adds that there is a general opinion that frequent cutting of the hair increases its length; but the effect is different from that generally supposed. Thus, upon one occasion he stated he cut off circles of hair an inch in diameter on the heads of healthy men, and from week to week compared the intensity of growth of the shorn place with the rest of the hair. The result was surprising to this close and careful observer, as he found in some cases the humbers were equal, but generally the growth became slower after cutting, and he has never observed an increase in rapidity. I might also add that I believe that many beardless faces and bald heads in middle and advancing age are often due to constant cutting and shaving in early life. The young girls and boys seen daily upon our streets with their closely-cropped heads and the young men with their clean-shaven faces are year by year by their shaving having their hair-forming apparatus strained.—Dr. Shoemaker.

Peck and His Eel. A correspondent of the Inter Ocean writes from New York: Late last night I saw a well-dressed forty-year-old gentleman come through the exit, with a cane in one hand and a big eel dangling from the other. He was a lacker of style, as measured by anything like a swell's standard, and yet he bore an air of prosperity. His yellowish hair, mustache and imperial were neatly kept, and the expression of his face was one of dry good humor. This was George W. Peck, the Peck's Sun man. The last time I had previously seen him he was sitting at a desk in the office of Brock Pomeroy's New York Democrat, where he was writing a daily column of funny items. I asked him about the eel. He said he was proud of it, and invited me to help him eat it at a Delmonico breakfast.

"I tried to get my cent in first, when the bridge was opened," said he, "but at least a hundred fellows were ahead of me in the rush. Then I got mad, and wouldn't go over at all. But I'm all right now. I've distinguished myself. I've been the first to fish from the bridge. I've bought some tackle, stuck a few dollars in my pocket for bait, and marched forth. There were not many people on the bridge, and when I got to the middle I clapped a heavy sinker on my line, made fast my leader, and baited the hook with a clam. Then I triumphantly made a mighty cast—the first off the Brooklyn bridge! I had over six hundred feet of line on my reel. Half of it was run off before the sinker struck the bottom. There were policemen on the bridge—new and fresh ones—and I was afraid they'd discover what I was about and stop it; but I just pretended to be admiring the view, and so got half an hour of quiet fishing. Then an officer came along, and wanted to know what was thunder I was doing. I confessed, and begged for mercy. He said that the bridge was not built for fishermen, and I pleaded for another second, for I had a bite. 'There, I've got him!' I exclaimed. 'Take him in, then,' said the policeman, 'or I'll take you in.' Sure enough, I had an eel hooked, and here he is—the first fish ever caught from the Brooklyn bridge. Distinction? Glory—glory, old fellow."

The ladies of the Mount Vernon Association are reported to have made the singular discovery that the Stars and Stripes have never floated from the historic mansion since the death of Washington. They at once determined to have a formal flag-raising. To remove the unpleasant taste which is frequently observable from new wooden vessels is a thing difficult of accomplishment. The Brewing World says that the simplest plan, and one that will succeed in most cases, is to scald them thoroughly several times in boiling water, then dissolve some pearl-ash or soda in lukewarm water, adding a little lime to it, and wash the inside of the vessels well in the solution. Afterward scald them several times thoroughly as

OVER NINETY THOUSAND PEOPLE.

Actual figures demonstrate that over ninety thousand people a year are entertained at the Grand Union Hotel (opposite the Grand Central Depot), New York City. So steadily has its patronage increased, its present 450 rooms are wholly inadequate; 150 are being added, which will give to this house over 600 rooms, at $1.00 and upwards per day. Better accommodation for less money than can be obtained at any other strictly first-class hotel in the metropolis, coupled with the saving of carriage hire, and no charge for transfer of baggage to and from Grand Central Depot; backed up by its management performing all its duties, and guests finding everything as represented—forms the chief corner-stone on which the Grand Union's most enviable success has been attained. At the first possible opportunity, we advise our readers to prove the truthfulness of our assertion by stopping at the Grand Union. Parties visiting pleasure or summer resorts will also find the Grand Union well located for their convenience.

THE REASON WHY:—In another column the reader will find the statement of Mr. W. B. Gill of Selma, Alabama, agent for the Studebaker Bros. Mfg. Co., of South Bend, Ind., manufacturers of Farm wagons, "the best on wheels" as well as the finest Buggies, Phaetons and Carriages. This firm being established since 1852, having since been constantly obliged to increase their capacity until they now occupy 50-acres of ground and employ about 1200 men. Why so small an item for repairs, is because all their timber is selected and purchased three and four years before it is used and when dressed and in shape all the running-gear (of wood) is well soaked in rats of boiling oil thereby rendering the already thoroughly seasoned timber still more impervious to disintegrating effects of time and weather. Every article required in the "make up" of the vehicles this firm makes is the very best that grows and which is the all important item that has given to the Studebakers, the occupation they so justly enjoy as honest and substantial builders. A name not merely national, but world-wide—they will manufacture this year 30,000 wagons, and carriages; they have representatives in nearly every town of the West and will be pleased to furnish you price lists if applied for, and should you visit South Bend and call at this great factory you will be treated with courtesy and furnished with a guide to make the grand rounds.

HOW WATCHES ARE MADE

In a SOLID GOLD WATCH, aside from the necessary thickness for engraving and polishing, a large proportion of metal is needed only to stiffen and hold the engraved portions in place, and supply strength. The surplus gold is actually needless. In James Doss' Patent Gold Watch Cases this waste is saved, and SOLIDITY and STRENGTH increased by a simple process, at one-half the cost. A plate of SOLID GOLD is soldered on each side of a plate of hard nickel composition metal, and the three are then passed between polished steel rollers. From this the cases, backs, centers, bezels, etc., are cut and shaped by dies and formers. The gold is thick enough to admit of all kinds of chasing, engraving and engine turning. These cases have been worn perfectly smooth by use without removing the gold. This is the only case made under this process. Each case is accompanied with a valid guarantee signed by the manufacturers warranting it to wear 20 years. 150,000 of these Cases now carried in the United States and Canada. Since the introduction of spelling matches, many words have come prominently into notice—words that were previously comparatively unknown. For instance we find Antiseptic, meaning: preventing and stopping all fermentation and decomposition, and Analgesic: Painkiller. Then there is Antipyretic: cooling down inflammation and fever heat. These three words so often mis-spelled, are three of the cardinal virtues of something that will cure many a bad spell, and that is Salicylic acid, pronounced Sal-i-cyl-i-e-a. Warranted to afford immediate relief, and guaranteed to cure Rheumatism, Gout and Neuralgia. 614

From the Jackson Star.

Mumps and measles have reached this place.

Will Guerin of Toledo is visiting relatives here.

There will be no services at the church next Sunday.

It was very lively here on the evening of the fourth. The band was out playing, and we had some very nice fireworks.

GATHERINGS.

A stack was struck by lightning at Charley Bates', July 4th and consumed.—[Leader.]

Very few students remain in the city. Our population is about 1,700 in consequence of close of school.—[Argus.]

The store of R. A. Schneider of Foster's was broken into the night of the third inst., and robbed of $50 worth of cigars.—[Courier.]

The lightning celebrated the 4th by giving a cow of L. F. Wade an electric belt. The Washtenaw Mutual has to pay for it.—[Courier.]

Over five hundred and eighty persons registered at the Cook House at Ann Arbor the week following June 24th—Commencement and Jumbo.

The convicts at the prison were treated to strawberries and cream on the 4th. Rev. R. B. Pope, of Ann Arbor also spoke to them.—[Star.]

The summer term of the Zion's Lutheran church school opened on Monday with an attendance of forty scholars. The school is now in charge of a Mr. Lange of Buffalo.—[Register.]

Fred. H. Belser, the deputy county treasurer last week paid over to the city treasurer, the sum of $9,261.45—the amount of this year's liquor tax which belongs to Ann Arbor city.—[Register.]

J. C. Bibbs sustained injuries to his right eye last Monday, which will probably destroy it, and seriously impair the other. In pouring molten rabbit, the metal flickered and dashed in his face.—[Star.]

A curiosity among strawberries has been shown us by Mr. Andrew DeForest. It has eight distinct berries all growing from one stem. He says it came from his private garden on the roof of the postoffice.—[Courier.]

The Students Lecture Association has purchased of Mr. R. A. Beal, the vacant lot opposite the University for $2,500. $1,700 has been raised and a paper is in circulation to complete the amount. The building is designed to cost $15,000.—[Argus.]

Mrs. Joseph Wright, over sixty years of age, met with a very painful accident a few days ago. She had been sitting up the first half of the night with Mrs. Wm. H. Ambler and was relieved about midnight when she started, as she supposed, to go up stairs, but entered the cellar by mistake and fell to the bottom of the stairs, sustaining severe bruises and internal injuries. She is at present improving so that she is able to sit up.—[Brooklyn Exponent.]

Dr. Sigler of Pinckney, tells us by telephone of an interesting experience he had with lightning Wednesday afternoon. It struck his house simultaneously in three places and came down into a room where there were eight or ten persons. Things were knocked around lively but no one was hurt. The Doctor was out of doors at the time passing under a telegraph wire. The lightning struck a pole four feet from him, shivering him and knocking him over. He did not sustain any injuries from it, however. The house was damaged to the amount of about $50.—[Courier.]

I am neither in the land office, real estate, nor intelligence business, nor do I propose to find situations or buy land for any one. Grateful for my own restoration to health, and having no axe to grind, I have undertaken to give facts concerning Florida.

I have, I think, been entirely cured of bronchitis, rheumatism, and dyspepsia, but can of course not guarantee a cure in every case. I should think that one suffering from lung disease in any form could not but prolong life in this land of perpetual summer. The elevation of Orlando, (Orange county), is 110 feet above the St. Johns river and 200 feet above the sea. The climate seems too good to last, and its healthfulness is proverbial. Sickening is usually imported, and physicians soon drift into other ways of making a living. One year ago the population of Orlando was 500; it is now upwards of 2,000. With no church building a year ago, now every Sabbath six churches open their doors to the public. One real estate firm sold during the six winter months just passed $161,000 worth of property. The town is situated in the best and largest fruit producing district of the state. This is an undisputed fact, for no such large body of land as well adapted to fruit culture as this can elsewhere be found in Florida.

To a new comer the soil appears to have no depth; and in fact the pine lands or uplands do not produce long without fertilization. The hammock lands scattered throughout Florida, along the rivers and on the lakes, are rich; soil from one to five feet in depth—really the best natural garden land in the world, after it is cleared. Mr. H. S. Kedney, of Maitland, Florida, has ten acres of hammock on Lake Apopka, devoted to the cultivation of the cucumber. He shipped in one week lately 1,100 crates. His yearly product is estimated at 3,100 crates, and will yield above every outlay $5,000 net profit. This is better than 100 acres in wheat. Experience has proven that the pine lands are the best for the citrus family. As a rule pine and hammock lands cost the same per acre. The pine land costs $20 per acre to clear and bring under cultivation, hammock from $100 to $300. The hammock needs fertilizing in time. The statement made to one of my correspondents that more money is expended in fertilizing material than is returned in the fruit is as far from the truth as to state that the Northern gardener gets no return for his outlay in the same direction. I repeat that no land responds more gratefully to the application of fertilizers than the Florida orange land. Trees from three years to eight require from 15 to 25 cents worth of commercial fertilizers per season. When the tree is well grown cow penning is a very common and economical system.

With a good head on one's shoulders one can make a living anywhere, but it seems to me easier in Florida than in the North. There is absolutely no excuse for failure. The promise that "seed time and harvest will be fulfilled" is just as sure here as elsewhere and with much less average risk.

I will give the temperature for 1881 and 1882: 1881, average—Sunrise 65.15°, noon, 78.95°, sunset, 73°; highest temperature June 7 and 20 and July 8, 96°; lowest temperature December 31, 38°; clear days, 193; cloudy, 23; partly cloudy and showery, 72; rainy, 25.

1882, average—Sunrise, 64.32°, noon, 79.41°, sunset, 71.83°; highest temperature August 8 and 9, 95°; lowest temperature December 17, 29°; clear days, 243; mostly cloudy, 12;

partly cloudy and showers, 69; rainy 18. Greatest variation in temperature during 1882, July 6, 30°, May 31, 20°, June 10, 18°, July 21, 29°. The changes in the temperature are fewer than in the North. No day since my arrival on the 14th of December has there not been a refreshing and invigorating breeze, and I am informed by every one that the breeze is much stronger in summer. I cannot add my testimony, having never summered here.

You will observe, that 1882 was an exceedingly dry year. Orange trees in full bearing produced only about 1,000 to 1,200 oranges when they should have produced 1,500 to 2,000. This is not so bad, however, as two and a half to five bushels of wheat when it should have been 20 to 25.

There are but few days in the year in which an able bodied man cannot with comfort to himself work out. From what I have already experienced I should deem it expedient for an invalid to stay indoors during the noon hours.

Labor is exceedingly scarce in all orange producing Florida. Day laborers can always get from $1.25 to $1.75; carpenters receive from $2.50 to $3.50 per day, and are in very great demand, especially at Orlando. It is a perfect paradise for the saw mill man. With a $3,000 saw mill plan of modern construction, for sawing small pine timber (never exceeding 25 inches), a smart man can pay for his mill in six months. Timber is obtainable at from 10 to 25 cents per tree. The ground is not uneven, and therefore their delivery at mill is made at a small cost. Portable mills may be constructed so that removals can easily be made. [CONCLUDED NEXT WEEK.]

It has been conceded by eminent scientists that outward applications, such as rubbing with oils, ointments, liniments and soothing lotions will not eradicate these diseases which are the result of the poisoning of the blood with Uric Acid.

SALICYLICA works with marvelous effect on this acid, and so removes the disorder. It is now exclusively used by all the celebrated physicians of America and Europe. Highest Medical Academy reports 95 per cent. cures in three days.

WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON'S MONUMENT.
Work on the Washington Monument, at the height of 370 feet, has come to a dead standstill. The marble contractors cannot live up to their agreement. It is not expected that marble can be obtained so as to resume work in the present season. Nearly a year will be lost. But for this break the monument would have been completed in two years. Even if there are no future delays, it will be three years before the shaft is finished.

THE PENSION WORK.

Commissioner Dudley says he believes the promise made to Congress that every pension claim would have been considered by his department by the close of the fiscal year would be fulfilled. There had been during the year a considerable increase in the number of claims filed over that of last year, as the following figures will show: Original invalids, 1882, 29,004; 1883, 37,300; original widows, 1882, 103,492; 1883, 129,992. The increase in the number of claims filed is due to the increased number of agents, who want a $10 fee. The number of attorneys before the department has increased from 4,000 to 16,000 since the passage of the pension law.

GRISHAM'S GRIT.

Postmaster-General Grisham is considering the legal status of the Louisiana lottery companies, and his decision in the matter is anxiously looked for by interested ones. The Louisiana company claims that it exists under the laws of that state, and that the postoffice department has no right to refuse to recognize their legality.

AN IMPORTANT DECISION.

According to a decision recently given by the attorney-general, the exportation of bonded whisky to Bermuda with a view to its reimportation, in order to avoid paying the tax, cannot be regarded as an exportation, within the meaning of the law. He also holds that the tax due upon spirits at the time of exportation can be collected upon its return to this country.

CROOK AT THE CAPITAL.

Gen. Crook is now in Washington for the purpose of advising with Secretary Lincoln and other members of the cabinet as to the most expedient way of dealing with the captured Apaches.

OFFICE SEEKERS, ATTENTION.

A prominent officer of the treasury, who is giving special attention to civil service affairs, expresses the opinion that no appointments would be made under the new civil service act before the middle of August. He thinks that every available place will be filled before the 16th of this month, when the act goes into effect. The pressure for clerkships is very great. Not a few applicants believe it is now or never with them, for the reason that they have no confidence in their ability to pass a successful examination. Ladies desiring admission to the service are also fearful that the heads of departments will push them aside and select men from the lists furnished by the Civil Service Commission.

GENEROUS MOSES.

Chief Moses has given notice that for a certain compensation he will give up all claim to his reservation in Washington territory. Should his offer be accepted by the government, about 2,000,000 acres of land will be thrown open for settlement.

A MURDERED OFFICIAL.

The Attorney-General has received a telegram from Edward Guthridge, United States Attorney, dated Mineblata, Tex., saying Chas. Haug, late County Judge, Marion Co., Texas, and principal witness in the Marion County election cases, was murdered on the 3d inst. It is supposed by parties indicted in the United States Court. The Attorney-General instructed Guthridge to examine carefully and report fully upon the circumstances of the murder.

NEWS NOTES.

A BROKEN COUPLING.

Early on the morning of July 1st, while a coal train, with passenger car attached, was climbing a heavy grade near Russell, Pa., on the Rochester & Pittsburgh road, a coupling broke and seven heavily loaded coal cars and the coach, well filled with passengers, started down the grade. While running at the frightful speed of 80 miles an hour, the coal cars and coach collided with another coal train that was following. The crash was terrible. Seven persons were instantly killed, and many others seriously injured. It is not known to whom the blame attaches, but from statements made by different ones, it appears that the conductor and brakeman were both asleep at their posts.

CHICAGO CRIMES.

On Sunday July 1 five murders occurred in Chicago, a railroad accident injured several and killed three, two drowning cases, five seriously injured by fire-arms—a good afternoon's work.

CUSTER'S MEMORY.

The granite shaft which is to mark the spot where Custer and the seven companies of Seventh United States Cavalry laid down their lives has been shipped to Montana. The monument consists of a cube of Montello granite four and one-half by five and one-half feet, resting on a base of the same material. It is inscribed with the names of the slain.

A HUCKSTER'S FAMILY KILLED.

A fatal accident occurred near Cincinnati on the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton railroad a few miles from the city whereby six persons were instantly killed. A train was coming along at a fearful rate and struck a huckster's wagon in which was a family of six persons, all of whom were killed, save the driver. The family consisted of Henry Kracke, his wife and four children. The bodies of the victims were thrown in fragments in the grass by the roadside, where they were picked up by the light of lanterns and taken to the city. Mrs. Kracke's head was severed from her body and all the victims were horribly mutilated. The engine was so besmeared with blood that it was sprinkled with flour to cover up the stains.

IMPRISONED FOR DEBT.

The Swedish and Norwegian Minister has called the attention of the Secretary of the United States to the arrest and imprisonment of Swedish immigrants by manufacturing corporations at Suncok, N. H. It appears that the companies had been importing help from these countries, and it was claimed by the corporations that the help owed the companies their passage money, which the operatives deny. An investigation is now being made. Through some of their countrymen the arrested parties sent a petition to the Swedish Minister, setting forth that far away from their home in a new country, whose language they cannot speak, and whose laws they do not understand, they have, on charges unknown to them, been arrested and imprisoned, and asking that they be released and allowed damages for false incarceration.

ITS CONSTITUTIONAL.

There having been great diversity of opinion not only among the city officials but also among lawyers as to whether what is known as the Dawing high license law, passed by the Missouri legislature last winter, applied to St. Louis as well as to other portions of the state, an agreed case was made up and presented to the supreme court. That court has rendered a decision that the law is not only constitutional but applies to St. Louis. This settles the matter, and hereafter dram shop licenses in that city and state will cost about $1,000 per year. It is expected that under the operation of this law many low doggeries, where a large per cent of crime is committed, will be forced out of existence, and that the entire traffic in liquor will be better regulated than ever before.

A POOR HOUSE BURNED.

The county poor-house of Dauphin county, Pa., was destroyed by fire a few days ago, at a loss of nearly $300,000. Every building on the premises was destroyed except the laundry and school-building. The stove was consumed, together with a large quantity of hay, grain, several horses and five mules. Great excitement prevailed, when the inmates of the insane department were released from their quarters. Some fought desperately. One of the insane patients was severely burned by her clothes catching fire from the sparks after she was out of the building. The insane were removed to the state asylum and the sick were taken to the hospital at Harrisburg. Shortly after the insane were gathered up by the outsiders and taken to the state asylum it was discovered that twelve of them were missing, having fled. Two of them were very violent. Several insane women were burned to death.

THREE DEATHS IN ONE DAY.

Archbishop Purcell, of the Catholic church, died at St. Martin's convent in Brown county, Ohio, on the 4th inst., aged 83 years. Bishop Pinkney (protestant episcopal) of the diocese of Maryland, died at the rectory at Cockeysville, Baltimore county. Bishop Pinkney was a native of Maryland, and for a number of years was coadjutor to Bishop Whittingham, at whose death he became bishop. Bishop Pinkney resided in Washington city. About four o'clock on the afternoon of the same day Bishop John McCullen of the Catholic diocese of Davenport, died at Davenport, Iowa.

AN AIRY WEDDING.

Prof. King ascended in a balloon from Monumental park, Cleveland, with A. B. Davis, of Chicago, and Rose Kennedy, of Springfield, Ill. When the party had gone to a great height Mr. Davis and Miss Kennedy were married. They then made an aerial wedding trip, going up into the clouds. The party landed safely a few miles from town.

TORTURING CHILDREN.

Among the convicts taken from Scranton to Philadelphia the other day, was a lad named Charles Wescott, who was convicted in the Lackawanna courts of larceny. He is one of the two sons of D. E. Wescott, who, with his wife, has created a sensation by their cruelty to Charles and Willie. The boys seemed to have a mania for stealing and, in order to break them of the habit, the parents resorted to very inhuman treatment. Mrs. Wescott took Willie, knelt by a red-hot stove and placed his bare hands on it, and for him, asking him to unite with her. But the pain was so intense that the boy begged most piteously for mercy, yelling so loud that the neighbors were startled. Charles was tortured in the same manner by both father and mother. Still they continued to steal. On another occasion Charles was compelled to stand upon a barrel three hours. Nothing seemed severe enough to reform them, so they were arrested and the jury convicted Charles of the crime as charged. The District Attorney denounced the parents in the strongest terms, but the jury acquitted them of the charge of cruelty.

CORCORAN'S GENEROSITY.

W. W. Corcoran through whose generosity the remains of John Howard Payne were brought to this country, is endeavoring to have the remains of Francis Scott Key, the author of the "Star Spangled Banner" removed from their resting place in Fredericktown, Md., to Washington.

OFF TO EUROPE.

The Chicago Knights Templar have completed arrangements for a trip to Europe, instead of participating in the convalesce at San Francisco.

THE CANADIAN PACIFIC.

The work of constructing the Canadian Pacific along the north shore of Lake Superior is proceeding very slowly. In order to establish communication between the present terminus at Algoma Mills, on Georgian Bay, Lake Huron, and Fort William, on the western end of Lake Superior, a line of four swift propellers, modeled after the famous Irish mail steamers, have been ordered built on the Clyde. The first of these steamers—the Arthabaska—has been launched. They will steam across the Atlantic, but how to get them through the canals into Lake Erie is a question not yet fully decided, but probably the hull will be taken apart.

TROOPS VS. THE AUDITOR.

For the past six years a tax of one tenth of a mill has been levied for the support of the Illinois State troops, netting a fund of $70,000 yearly for the support of nine State regiments of infantry, one of cavalry, and three batteries of artillery. The collection of this sum has been delayed one year in each instance, and the troops in consequence have had a back indebtedness to meet when the fund was ready for disbursement, and in addition the claim is made that the amount is not nearly adequate for the proper maintenance of the command. At the last session of the Legislature the military code was amended so as to give the troops a fixed sum of $75,000, payable in advance. In view of that fact, the State Auditor turned the amount collected under the tax levy for the past year into the general fund, which amounted to $72,000, and all the State regiments had incurred an indebtedness to cover this amount. The but which the Auditor refused to pay. The officers declare it leaves the troops in a bad plight, and that the action of the Auditor is arbitrary and unauthorized, as the money was levied for military use. Proceedings by mandamus will be instituted to recover the fund.

TWO DOCTORS DROWNED.

Drs. Aaron C. Detweiler and Washington C. Detweiler, of Reading, Penn., brothers aged 36 and 38 years respectively, were drowned in the Schuylkill River recently. In company with two others they were bathing. Aaron was seized with cramps and his brother went to his assistance, when both were drawn under the water and drowned. The brothers were prominent and wealthy physicians of that city, and both enjoyed a large practice.

ALMS-HOUSE BURNED.

The Massachusetts state alms-house, located at Bridgewater burned recently, at a loss of nearly $300,000. The inmates were all safely removed.

DEATH OF LITTA.

Miss Marie Von Elsner, known to the musical world as Mlle. Marie Litte, died at her home in Bloomington, Ill., a few days ago. She was born in Bloomington June 1, 1856, educated in Europe, and has sung in opera and in concert in all the principal cities of America, England and France. She was taken sick at Negaunee, Mich., on a concert tour, and was brought home four weeks ago. The fatal disease was cerebro-spinal meningitis superinduced by over exertion.

POLITICAL.

THE NEW CANDIDATE.

Rollins and Bingham have been steadily losing in the New Hampshire senatorial contest. Ex-Governor Bell is the leading candidate.

NO SENATOR YET.

On the 5th inst. Bingham was still ahead in New Hampshire senatorial contest, receiving 92 votes. Rollins holds his own, and that is about all.

A COMBINATION.

The Democrats and Republicans of Mississippi have combined against the Independents. As their share of the combined ticket, the Republicans nominated all colored men.

VERY DISCREET.

The Missouri Prohibitionists show discretion as well as zeal in their advocacy of temperance principles. The resolutions adopted by their State convention express a determination to keep the question as far as possible out of partisan politics. Their sole object is to secure the submission of prohibitory amendment to the people. To this end they will direct their efforts to the election of men to the Legislature who are willing to vote such a proposition. No separate party is to be formed and no State ticket nominated. It is a pity that the Prohibitionists in Missouri cannot imbue their brethren in some other States with a little of their sense.

NO BREAK YET.

It is again reported that the members of the New Hampshire legislature who are anti-Rollins men, are about to bring out a dark-horse upon whom they can all unite. On the 6th inst. Bingham received 84 votes, while Rollins followed with 74.

CRIME.

AN OFFICIAL ASSASSINATED.

W. L. Cole, a member of the Board of Supervisors of Vicksburg, Miss., was waylaid and assassinated a few evenings ago five miles from that city. The assassin was secreted in the woods on the roadside, and as Cole was passing on his horse was fired on from the rear, eight bullets taking effect in his back. Death ensued immediately. The assassin made his escape unseen. Several arrests have been made of parties supposed to be implicated. Cole leaves a large family. He was one of the wealthiest and most influential men in the county. A cocked pistol was found on the body of the deceased, showing that a difficulty was anticipated.

A SHOCKING TRAGEDY.

One of the most shocking tragedies that has occurred in many months, happened at Tirog's Neck, near Westchester Station, Pa., the other day. William Seaman, a young man of more than ordinary ability, in a moment of insanity, shot his invalid sister Fanny, to whom he was most devotedly attached, and then shot himself. The family were at dinner in the room under the one occupied by Miss Seaman, who though convalescent, was not able to join the family at the table. Scarcely anything could exceed the horror of the situation. William was not only the favorite brother of Miss Seaman, but the pet and pride of the whole family. Apart from his personal loveliness, his marvelous aptitude in his profession of mechanical engineering and the bright future which his talents had spread out before him rendered him especially dear to his parents and brothers and sisters. Although only twenty-six years of age, he had secured the position of chief engineer at the Lackawanna Iron and Coal Company's works at Scranton. While there he had successfully grappled with a problem, the solution of which had resisted the energies of more than one of his predecessors. Recently a machine of his invention for the straightening of steel rails after milling, had been put into successful operation at the works. The royalties on the patents, which are all in his own name, promised for him a secure and sufficient independence for the future. The theory of the family is that the young man's application to his invention, and the excitement caused by his success, turned his mind. He was of studious habits, unusually free from vices, and somewhat inclined to a religious turn of mind. He owned the pistol, but never was known to carry it. There is no doubt whatever in the minds of the members of the family, but that the young man was insane, for there was such an entire absence of the faintest sort of motive for the horrible deed.

ANOTHER TRAGEDY.

Two brothers named Albert and Frank Kuhn, clerks in a store in Erie, Pa., were sitting in the street cars, both being intoxicated. The youngest, Albert, fired a revolver out of the window, and a little girl, 9 years old, named Steiner, playing on the sidewalk in front of her parents' residence, was shot through the heart and instantly killed. After Albert was placed in the police station his brother Frank went into the cell and had quite a long talk with the murderer, but nothing is known of the conversation. Frank left his brother and went to call upon some lady friends. He was excited, said his brother had committed an awful deed and he was going to hang himself. The ladies supposed he was joking, and one of them offered to lend him a rope. An hour afterward he was found in the basement of the store where he clerked, hanging to a beam and dead. Another brother, George, took a horse and buggy to drive into the country to tell his father of the double tragedy. The night was dark and he drove off an embankment, wrecking the carriage and narrowly escaping serious injury. The child shot was instantly killed, and it is supposed he fired the revolver merely to frighten her. He claims that he thought it was loaded with blank cartridges. Frank was greatly excited over the shooting, and being under the influence of drink, and thinking his brother would be convicted and hung, it is supposed his mind became unbalanced and he hung himself while in that state of mind.

COWARDLY ASSASSINATION.

Denver, Colorado, was thrown in a terrible excitement over the startling news that two Grand County Commissioners had been shot and killed, and the other Commissioner and County Clerk mortally wounded by a masked mob. The trouble that led to the shooting was the result of an old feud dating back to 1879, when the county was created by an act of the Legislature and the seat located at Hot Sulphur Springs. At an election held in 1883 the people, by vote, changed the county seat to Grand Lake. The matter was taken to the District Court, and then to the Supreme Court. Meanwhile the hatred existing between the factions, growing in intensity, culminated in bloody war. Grand County has three Commissioners, Barney Day, R. G. Mills and E. P. Webber, the majority of whom, Day and Mills, were in favor of declaring the vote illegal that created Grand Lake the county seat, and removing the records back to the Springs. A meeting was held for the purpose of considering the matter, but what was done is not known. On the day of the meeting the two Commissioners and the Clerk started from the boarding-house to go to the place of meeting, and on their way they were suddenly sprang out of the bushes and commenced firing, shooting them all down. Almost instantly, before the work had been done, the Commissioners returned the fire, instantly killing one of their assailants. The other two masked men, thinking they had killed all three of the party, disappeared in the bushes. When the startled citizens arrived at the place of combat a moment later they found Day dead and Webber and Dean mortally wounded. They tore the mask from the other man and found he was Mills, the other County Commissioner, and the other two are not known. Suspicion, however, rests upon two noted desperadoes, Bill Redman and Len Coffin.

MORE TROUBLE FOR THE DOCTOR.

Thomas Evans, the wealthy father-in-law of Dr. Chas. E. French, has made some startling disclosures concerning the latter, who is now in jail at Erie, Pa., waiting until his health will permit of his removal to the penitentiary to which he has been sentenced for a year for attempted abortion. He charges that French has been engaged in the body-snatching business and has been robbing graves for years. A sack and rope were found in a trunk of French's which Evans identifies as part of the resurrectionists' outfit. French denies it all and charges Evans with being a lunatic.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS.

DOWN TO DEATH.

An awful accident happened at Glasgow, Scotland, by which over 100 lives were lost by drowning in the Clyde. The new steamer Daphne was being launched, and there was an immense crowd present on the docks, about the shipyard and on the opposite banks, neighboring crafts, etc. The Daphne went down from the stocks easily and well (the launch being what is known in America as a "sideways launch"). As she went off the ways the crowd aboard was at the height of enthusiasm, cheering, waving handkerchiefs, etc. When she was about leveling herself up in the water she leaned to one side slowly, then suddenly went over, keeling up, throwing all on board into the river. The struggling mass of humanity was held down by the hull, and as near as can be learned 100 have perished. Many prominent people of the city were on board, but as no record was kept the names of any of the lost could not be learned. It is alleged that the boat had too much top weight, and also that it was the fault of the workmen in not properly distributing the ballast. Many of those who were on the side of the vessel that was not submerged did all in their power to save others, and by their efforts the death list was greatly lessened. But it is feared that the number of those who were drowned will not fall short of 100.

THE EXHIBITION AT CORK.

The industrial exhibition, including British, Continental and American exhibits, has been opened at Cork Island. The display of exhibits is said to be very fine, and the opening of the exhibition indicates a success.

RIOTOUS STRIKERS.

Ten thousand iron workers in Staffordshire, Eng., who are on a strike, marched to Dudley, Tipton and Moxley and entered the iron works at those places, quenched the fires in the furnace, thus stopping work. The force of policemen on hand was powerless to prevent the action of the strikers. Through the agency of the strikers work at several other places was stopped.

A FRIGHTENED KING.

The King of Saxony, who is traveling about for the purpose of inspecting manufactures, was about to ascend in the elevator of a factory at Milan, when the shaft broke, killing the governor of the province who accompanied him. His majesty was severely bruised, and badly frightened.

THE CHOLERA.

The number of deaths in Damiatta from cholera, for the 24 hours ending July 5, was 114. At Samanoud, Shirbin, and Mansurah a number of deaths have occurred. The authorities at Damiatta are severely criticised for the sanitary condition of the place. It is said that the stench from decaying matter in that city, was smelled at a distance of 10 miles, and that numerous carcasses of dead animals still float in the Nile.

TOO MUCH WATER.

Calcutta dispatches state that disastrous floods have prevailed in Surat for several days. Much valuable property was destroyed and great loss of life is reported. Several thousand people are homeless.

THE DEATH ROLL.

The reports indicate that the state of affairs at Damiatta is slightly worse. On the 6th 110 deaths were reported from cholera and 68 at Mansurah.

A TERRIBLE DEED.

The wife of a shopkeeper near Berlin became deranged, and cut the throats of her two sleeping children, fired the house, and then took her own life.

VICTORIA'S EXTRAVAGANCE.

Attention is being directed in England to the enormous amount of money spent upon the four royal yachts. These vessels, which are practically idle with the exception of an occasional run to the Isle of Wight—as the Queen very seldom goes to sea—cost in the aggregate £275,328. But the original cost is a small item compared to the charges for maintenance and repairs, which during the last ten years amounted to £370,000. Some of the English journals are calling attention to the extravagance of this outlay, which, as the Glasgow Mail puts it, "is more than ample to solve any difficulty the Royal Commission may find in the way of a patriotic and merited settlement of the Crofter question, and would rescue an industrious and virtuous population of 30,000 persons permanently from a life of acknowledged privation and misery."

THE NEW HERIBIDES QUESTION.

The Temps says: France and England made a covenant in 1878 not to annex the New Heribides. Since then a company of colonists of New Caledonia has bought several of those islands and obtained concessions in others. In order to counteract the covetous designs of Australia, it becomes necessary to supplement the vague covenant by according to that company rights similar to those granted by Great Britain to the British North Borneo Company.

SITS OF NEWS.

Passenger trains on the Union Pacific will hereafter run from Omaha to San Francisco in three days and a half, being a day less than heretofore.

THE BAY AND GRAIN CROPS IN MAINE.

The bay and grain crops in Maine will be the heaviest in that state for years.

GOV. BUTLER VETOES A BILL TO LEVY A STATE TAX OF $2,000,000.

Gov. Butler vetoes a bill to levy a state tax of $2,000,000. He says the amount is twice too much and the money not needed yet.

Lake Tahoe is always ready at a moment's notice to reveal some new wonder, and, making due allowances for the embellishments of tourists, is doubtless a strange and interesting sheet of water. The latest marvel which it has disclosed is a petrified pine forest fifty feet below the surface. According to the Carson Appeal the moss clinging about the tops of the trees formerly presented the appearance of an ordinary elevation of the lake bed, but the moss has now disappeared disclosing the petrified forest with every limb and twig distinct. Some fishermen recently drew up several branches which looked precisely as if they had just been cut from a green tree.

THE END.

The course of the weariest river
Ends in the great gray sea;
The score, for ever and ever,
Strives upward to the tree.
The rainbow, the sky adorning,
Shines promise through the storm;
The glimmer of coming morning
By time all knots are riven,
Complex although they be,
And peace will at last be given,
Dear, both to you and me.

Then, though the path may be dreary,
Look onward to the goal;
Though the heart and head be weary,
Let faith inspire the soul;
Seek the right, though the wrong be tempting.
Speak the truth at any cost;
Vain is all exempting
When once the gem is lost.
Let strong hand and keen eye be ready
For plain and ambushed foes;
Thought earnest and fancy steady
Bear best upon the close.

The heavy clouds may be raining,
But with evening comes the light;
Though the dark, low winds are compleat-
ing.
Yet the sunrise glides the height;
And love has his hidden treasure
For the patient and the pure;
And time gives his fullest measure
To the workers who endure;
And the future that no law has shaken
Has the word pledge supplied;
For we know when we "awaken"
We shall be "satisfied."

SADIE DAYRE.

BY MRS. S. ROSALIE SILL.

It was a golden day in early September, and the doors and windows of the Widow Dayre's old fashioned house stood open to admit the soft, balmy air,
fragrant with the old fashioned flowers
in the quaint beds of the front yard.

Great lilacs shook their round, glossy leaves in the afternoon sunshine, and
the tall rows of quince bushes were laden with the ripening fruit.

In the large, cool, dining room, Mrs.
Dayre and her youngest daughter, Sadie,
were busy shining the golden pippins,
ready for drying.

A young man came up the shady,
pleasant path, and standing in the doorway, bowed low to Sadie, craving the privilege of resting for awhile within their pleasant room. Said he:

"I am Mr. Derby, of the great house of Derby & Brothers, of New York city.
You have doubtless heard of them?"

"Yes," Sadie said. "I have heard."
Who had not?

Then sitting down, he discoursed very pleasantly and piquantly of the many interesting adventures he had met with
in his travels. Said he:

"My feet are blistered from walking
this afternoon. I never walked scarcely any before in my life. I have always been at school or college. Last spring, my brothers, who have always petted
me so much, fancied I was not looking
so well, and advised a tour to Europe.
But I desired travelling in our frontier settlements.

"So I started forth with my own carriage and driver, and I have dearly enjoyed myself, until to-day, when our carriage was broken in crossing a new piece of road back here. The driver wishing to get the carriage to a shop for repairs, I vainly tried to return to our hotel; but I do assure you I am completely exhausted."

And he looked up at Sadie so earnestly for sympathy, that that tender hearted damsel really from her heart pitied him.

Turning to the table within the room,
he saw one of the circulars of the Cosmopolitan Association lying there, and taking it up, he said:

"So you have one of our circulars?"
"Yes," replied Sadie. "Our merchant gave it to me."

"Would you not like to become a member of our society?"
Sadie thought she would.

"See, here is our Art Journal. I will send it to you for a year. Let me make you a member of the society. Perhaps you would draw some beautiful piece of statuary. Even the Greek slave, for instance."

Sadie blushed. How pleasant it was to converse with this handsome, dark eyed stranger!

"How nice it would be to have a paring bee? I have read of such things in books and papers. Do you think your mamma would allow you to have one, so that I could attend?"

Again her dark eyes were bent upon her, and she could not refuse.

"What lovely apples! We never see such as these in New York. Oh, Mrs.
Dayre would you be so kind as to sell
me a carload of them to send to my brothers?"

Mrs. Dayre was well pleased to sell her apples, and she told him she should only be too glad to.

Then Mr. Derby was looking at the pretty home made carpet which covered the dining room floor, and he said:

"How often I have read of all these things, and dreamed of the quietness and bliss of a rural life! There, secluded from the great world, and far away from all its sin, with the lovely being whom I should delight to own as my wife, how happy and blessed I should be!"

Again he turned his dark eyes lan-guishly upon Sadie, whose heart was fluttering, the color coming and going
in her cheeks, as she thought:

"Perhaps he cares for me."
She had read of such things—how rich young men had gone out away from the city to woo and win country maid-ens.

"Would she ever be Mrs. Derby, and ride in her own carriage, live on Fifth avenue in a brown stone front, and wear
diamonds and satins?"

Mrs. Dayre, who was elated at the prospect of selling her apples at high prices, now commenced bustling about at getting supper, and Mr. Derby said:

"I guess I will go out where the men are plowing for wheat. I like to see nature in all her varied aspects."

And bowing low to the pretty Sadie,
he went out.

Sadie watched him as he went through the great orchard—saw him as he stood talking with the men. There was the hired man—faithful, patient Rob. How tall and strong he looked beside this gentle Mr. Derby! How long he had loved her, striving in every way to make life sweet and beautiful for her!

How true and noble he was! How he had always striven to help her, and carry her, as it were, over all the rough places! And how she had tossed her pretty head at him, and pouted her ruby lips, and made him ten times more her slave than ever! Then she wondered what they could get for supper that would be good enough for such a grand, exalted being as Mr. Derby.

Mrs. Dayre bustled about, making cream biscuits. While Sadie dreamily brought a golden roll of butter from the milk house, and went down the cellar
for a dish of amber jelly and canned strawberries.

Then Mrs. Dayre sounded the old tin horn, while Sadie laid the napkins of snowy whiteness and put on the delicate finishings.

Then Rob, and her brother Harley came in.

"Where is that young fellow Derby,
that went out to see you a spell ago?"
inquired Mrs. Dayre.

"Oh, your nephew, you mean?
Why, he told me his name was Mardon, and that he came from Iowa. Said he had a lot of goods down at the depot,
and had nothing but a large cheque on
the bank, and that the cashier said they had not money enough without sending off to the city to cash it," and Rob, looking wonderingly up.

"Land sakes! He is a perfect scamp!" cried Mrs. Dayre, in her wrath. "He's fooled me about my apples. He never intended to take them at all."

"Well, I did not quite finish," said Rob, with a long drawn breath. "I let him have twenty dollars to accommodate him. I never dreamed he was trying to fool me. I could see you all the while he was talking, and I thought to accommodate your nephew."

"I am awful sorry, Rob. My nephew's name is not Mardon, but Munger, and when he comes he will not want to borrow any money from you. Some way that scoundrel has found out that I was expecting a nephew and so took that way to cheat. In here, he said he was Derby, from New York. And you just ought to have seen the eyes he tried to make at Sadie. I couldn't hear all he said, but he is just a perfect cheat and humbug, I know!"

Rob looked over at Sadie, who was struggling to look composed.

After work was ended, he asked her
to take a walk with him.

She went, and as they sauntered along under the light of the new moon, he asked her if he had not waited long enough to have an answer.

Sadie began to realize something of the worth of a true, noble heart. The deceitfulness and foppiness of the would-be Derby had nearly cured her, and she looked up to say:

"Well, Rob, I do think I've bothered
you long enough. I'm sorry you lost your money, and I am so disgusted with—with that fellow! I think it has shown me more of your real worth than anything else."

She had spoken out now truthfully
and womanly, as he could never get her
to before.

"Then, Sadie darling, if losing that money has at last caused you to speak, I'm glad I lost it. I'd sooner lose another twenty along with it than have you back again where you was before.
Now, Sadie, kiss me; and tell me you love me, darling."

But I shall not tell you whether she did or not. But I do know that he looked the happiest man alive, next morning,
and before the first snow fell they were housekeeping in their own cosy little cottage.

Rob says to this day, that twenty dollars was the best investment he ever made, for it gave him a glimpse at Sadie's heart.

They inquired at the hotel where Derby was boarding, but were informed that he ran away, leaving his board bill unpaid.

Afterward, they found out that he was the drunken son of a worthless
dentist, living near the Erie Canal.

Sadie never told Rob how near her head came to being turned with his flattery. Yet he was satisfied with the love of his pure, sweet young wife and was content.

Girls, just let me whisper a word in your ears: The true, honest love of a plain, good man, of whom you know
—one who is steady and industrious—
is better than all the fine sayings of a male flirt, or the languishing eyes and simple nothings they have to lavish upon you.

This story is a simple, true story of country life. All the characters are from real life. Only the names are changed, as the parties are still living near the home of the writer.

The wish to please! "Oh! how do you do, my dear Miss Robinson, so glad to see you looking so well! By the way how lovely you looked at my dance last Wednesday! Everybody
was asking who you were, I assure you!"
was asking who you were, I assure you!"
I—I—I wasn't there! I had a bad cold and sore throat, you know!"—London Punch.

THE FARM.

Feeding Cows for Milk.

N. H. White, an experienced dairy man of Massachusetts, in a recent letter to the Country Gentleman offers the following suggestions as to the manner of feeding cows in order to obtain the most milk:

To the milk producer the quantity of milk each cow produces is an important item, and how he shall obtain that result is the question for him to solve.

Can quantity be obtained, or increased,
except at the expense of quality? Every experienced dairyman will answer this in the affirmative. A cow may be considered a machine for producing milk.

She must be properly fed and cared for,
or the result is unsatisfactory; it is as vain to expect that a cow will give milk without sufficient and proper food, as to expect the steam engine to afford power without sufficient water and fuel. If we feed the steam boiler with water in excess, or in insufficient quantity, and only fuel enough to merely keep the water warm, it is vain to look for power, and so it is to give to a cow only just food enough to keep her alive without starving. If milk is desired in quantity, the cow must be fed a surplus beyond
the other needs of the system or all the rest is loss. I think it is calculated that about two-thirds of all a cow eats is needed to maintain her existence; all the profit comes from the other one-
third, and too often is withheld entirely.

The best of milk-producing food should be provided and fed in abundance at all seasons while the cows are giving milk;
roots, grain, and the best of hay and fodder during winter, and good pasture
with partial soiling during summer.

This will necessitate the growing of green crops like a mixture of peas and oats, rye, Hungarian grass, corn or clover or summer and a dry time. Corn meal is good for quality, but bran or middlings should make the larger half or two thirds of the grain ration. I would leave cottonseed meal out, or not feed
over half a pint mixed with the other grain, at a feeding. Corn and oats ground together make an excellent grain ration. In feeding green corn fodder, I would cut the stalks finely and mix with the meal and grain, and allow them to soften somewhat before feeding. Hard glazed cornstalks, fed whole, are apt to make the teeth sore,
fed freely.

Midsummer Day.

N. Y. Tribune.

This Sunday happens to fall upon the anniversary of an important religious festival kept in ancient days in England,
and one which still has a curious attraction for most thoughtful people. The twenty-fourth of June was then called Midsummer Day, sacred to St. John the Baptist, and was full of half pagan, half Christian fancies concerning the meeting of the soul and God in the woods,
due probably quite as much to old Druid-ical teachings as to the great prophet who dwelt in the wilderness. Our English ancestors gathered boughs on St.
John's eve and dressed their doors with them as a sign that, like the Baptist, they would draw near to God through the forest and the pure, strong influence of growing things. They made solemn marches through the streets at midnight, waving oak branches and chanting a wild peculiar anthem, all with the same significance. The Yorkshire cotter and the crofter of Surrey observed many such rites which would seem to most Americans the sheerest superstition. A month later, for instance, they began the harvest by kindling twelve fires on the hill-tops to invoke the aid of the Apostles, one being beaten out with contempt as containing the soul of Judas.
They could not, in short, look at
the green fields or the yellow wheat, without feeling that God and Christ were immediately behind them. We are wiser in our generation. We, too, resort to the woods and such wildernesses as we can find on St. John's eve. But it is because we are driven out of town by malaria or heat or fashion. What has God got to do with our goings or comings? Or with our harvests?

Another strange belief of these ignorant, leisurely people, was that on St.
John's eve the soul of every sleeper
actually left the body for a brief space
and visited the place where, some day,
death would come to it. As every man had a natural terror of this separation between body and soul, the night was usually spent in prayers and vigils. If any man was bold enough to keep watch at the church door, he would see the spirits of all such as should die during the coming year pass in a ghostly procession to receive absolution. How absurd all these superstitions seem to us now. These old people fell into them, we think, because they were ignorant and idle. They were too leisurely—they took time from money-making to think of their Maker. His influences upon them, their own death, and to build up fantastic beliefs about them.
We have something else to do. We build railroads, speculate, not in the soul, but in beef, flour, stocks, land in Dakota, and houses in the city. As for the way and place of our death we never have to think of them, much less
to desert our bodies to go in search of them.

On St. John's Eve the pious peasant believed, of all nights of the year, that a corner of the veil was lifted which hid that other country to which he was going, so he made his prayer and sang his hymns. That coming land with its spectral shapes, its external terrors
and rewards, filled up most of his life.
The country is the same to which we are all going; the veil still hangs between it and us; it never has been lifted.
But we do not trouble ourselves at all about it. We know when we are going to California or Paris. We are eager about the train or steamer we shall take
and have our time planned out. Yet our going is uncertain. But for that dim land to which we must inexorably depart some day, which filled up the books and thoughts and daily talk of our forefathers, we have no plans or words. It is scarcely held civil to mention it to each other. What has caused this great change in the current of human thought? Is it that those who went before us had too little actual
knowledge and so pried into the unseen,
or that we are crowded too closely by bricks and railways and daily worthless
gossip to look through them to the stars?

During the Memorial day exercises in the hall at Norway, Me., a photograph of the people upon the platform was taken. One old gentleman, who had been given a seat there on account of his being pretty deaf, supposed the moments of waiting were a period of silent prayer, and reverently sat with his head bowed upon his hand till the picture was taken.

According to Mr. F. H. King, of the Wisconsin state survey, the bird population of the state is 3,365,000 consuming an aggregate of over 21,000,000,000
insects every season.

The Wrong Man Baptized.

Peck's Sun.

Stammering or stuttering is one of the most unpleasant things at times, that a man can be afflicted with. A man may be troubled with almost any other malady and be cured, or helped,
but a man who stutters, though he may at times be free from habit, he never has confidence in his talking utensils. They may run all right for a time, but just as he expects the most
from his vocal organs, and wants to do his best, they go back on him, and he flounders around, and can't express his thoughts to save himself. A stammerer is usually the best natured man in the world. It seems as though nature picked out the jolliest fellow as a watch case
to put poor vocal works into, so there won't be any kicking. There is a gentleman living in this state who stutters just when he don't want to, but who can talk right along when there is nothing particular to be said. If he gets excited or interested and wants to orate,
he gets stuck and has time to walk around the block before he can get things to working again. He was out in Iowa recently, and at a hotel where he was stopping, the traveling men were getting up a party one Sunday to go to town a few miles distant, where a camp meeting was in progress, and
where there were to be a number of converts baptized, and they invited our friend, the stammerer, to go along.

"Not m-m-much," said he, as he worked at an untangling a fish line, while a boy brought in a tomato can full of angle worms. "If I know m-m-
my own heart, I don't go to no
k-k-k-camp meeting where they b-b-baptize. I at-a-attended a baptizing once and my k-k-k-clothes have not got d-d-d-dry yet."

"What was the matter," said a drummer for a Chicago grocery house.
"Didn't fall in the water did you?"

"N-n-n-o," said the stammerer, as he stuffed a wad of paper down on top of the angle worms to keep them from crawling out. "I didn't f-f-fall in, but I got in all the s-s-s-s-same. I was sna-sna-snatched in. If you won't tell any one, I will t-t-tell you about it."

The boys swore they would never give it away; and the stammerer went on.

"Well, about twenty years ago I was editing a p-p-p-paper, in Wis-k-k-con-
sin, and there was a revival at the town
all winter, and in the spring they advertised to b-b-b-baptize all of the k-k-k-converts. Every body went and I w-w-w-went down to the k-k-k-creek to see them s-s-s-soak. They had a presiding elder, a stranger to me, to d-d-d-
the baptizing, and when they had dipped a f-f-few, I noticed the elder acted s-s-s-sort of tired when he pushed the last woman ashore, and I th-th-thought he wanted to come out of the w-w-water, so I reached out my hand to help him up the b-b-bank. Do you know he thought I was a k-k-k-candidate for baptism, and he took hold of my hand and was p-p-pulling me in, when I said, 'elder, don't p-p-p—' and before I could say any m-m-more he said, 'Have no f-f-fear, my young k-k-k-christian friend, and he put his arm around me and was pulling me right in. I wasn't as s-s-s-strong as I am now, and he had a g-g-g-grip like a prize fighter, and before I knew what he was about, he was saying 'I b-b-baptize thee in the name of the Father, Son, and Holy G-g-ghost,' and I was as weak as a k-k-k-cat. I tried to get away from him, and tried to explain that I w-w-wasn't the feller, and that I had n-n-never been converted,
but the naturally pious look on my face
b-b-betrayed me, and I stuttered so I couldn't get in a word in time, and he put me under. As I went down I could see the crowd on the b-b-bank laughing, because they all knew I was b-b-bad, and that it was a mistake of the strange preacher. I came up strangling, and the first thing I said was Elder, you have made the d-d-darndest mistake of your life," and I went out on the bank and shook myself. You may talk about m-m-ministers not joking, but by gracious, I shall a-a-always think that presiding Elder knew I was no k-k-k-christian. It was a picnic for the crowd, and they laugh at me to this day. No, gentleman, I k-k-k-can't go to the camp meeting, for I shouldn't feel s-s-safe there," and the stuttering man took his fish pole and angle worms
and went down towards the pond,
while the traveling men went to the camp meeting.

Interviewing David Davis.

An adventurous scribe invaded ex-Senator David Davis's home the other day, and tried to interview that statesman. Of course he first asked who would be the next Presidential candidates, and insisted upon an answer, for
"You must have some idea, Judge," he said.

"Yes," replied the other, "I have an idea—that your question is too broad to be traversed in one lifetime."

"But if the Democrats were to urge you to accept their nomination, what would you say?"

"My dear sir, I should say that it was none of your business. Excuse me for being rude, but I can't be interviewed."

The reporter went, then; but in parting he asked the ex-Senator why he had such a strong, massive fence around his property. "Why," was the reply, "the 'buzzards of the press' say that I am always sitting on it, so it needs to be pre-tently strong."

Small miseries, like small debts, hit
us in so many places, and meet us at so many turns and corners, that what they want in weight they make up in number, and render it less hazardous to stand the fire of one cannon-ball than a volley composed of such a shower of bullets.
