When elephants and crocodiles
Shall blossom on the trees;
And snakes wear French heel gaiters,
And live on Limburg cheese;
When clouds shall rain down picket-locks
And cats sing "Baby Mine,"

Sailors' Hardships.

Great anxiety has been felt on the west shore of the state for several days concerning the fate of the propeller Michigan which left Grand Haven on the 10th inst. in search of the propeller Onida, which had become ice-bound in the lake. Nothing was heard of the Michigan from the day she left Grand Haven until the evening of the 18th when greatly to the surprise and joy of the community the clerk, steward, and 15 of the crew appeared in Grand Haven.

The story of their hardships and perilous journey of twenty miles across the ice, as told by the men, is terrible. After leaving Grand Haven on the 10th a fierce gale set in and the vessel was unable to keep on her course but was turned completely around. Every effort was made to reach Grand Haven, but it could not be done, and the vessel was headed for Ludington.

Early on the morning of the 11 inst. the vessel became fast in vast ice fields and a change of wind carried her in a southerly direction until she was almost 25 miles off shore west of South Haven. The ice closed in rapidly and no water could be seen for several days.

The crew realized their helplessness condition, and that all attempts to extricate themselves would be but a waste of time, labor and material, and patiently waited for a change of wind to break their icy fetters.

Day-by-day went by without any signs of liberation, and the question of provisions began to be a serious one. There were 30 men in the crew, and by close calculation it was thought that there were provisions enough to last 30 men but four or five days, but that the store on hand would last 13 men 30 days. After carefully considering the situation it was determined that 17 of the crew should attempt to cross the ice to the shore.

The men started on their perilous journey, and all went well until one of the men broke through the ice with his right foot. The leg went in the water up to the knee. In less than an hour the leg was frozen solid and the man rendered helpless. He was assisted by the rest of the crew. The man fell asleep again and again, but was aroused by his companions whom he begged to leave him and save themselves.

A portion of the crew at last reached land some miles from South Haven, and prevailed upon some farmers to go out and help the others. Kennedy, the man who broke through the ice was almost exhausted when help reached him. Before giving up he had crawled on his hands and knees for over two miles. The entire party reached land, and the next morning were driven to the nearest railroad station where they took the train for Grand Haven, all more or less injured by their perilous journey. It is feared that amputation of Kennedy's limbs may be necessary.

GROWING OLD.
Is it parting with the roundness
Of the smoothly-moulded cheek?
Is it being from the dimples
Half the flashing joy they speak?
Is it fading of the lustre
Of the way golden hair?
Is it fading on the forehead
Graven lines of thought and care?
Is it dropping—as the rose leaves
Drop their sweetness, over-blown—
Household names that once were dearer,
More familiar than our own?
Is it meeting on the pathway
Faces strange and gleams cold,
While the soul with moan and shiver
Whispers sadly, "Growing old!"
On the graceful sloping pathway,
As the passing years decline,
Gleams a golden joy-light, falling
Far from your heights divine;
And the shadows from that brightness
Wrap them softly in their fold,
Who unto celestial whiteness
Walk, by way of "growing old."

THE STORY OF PATSY.

CHAPTER II.

Morning came as mornings do come bringing to the overworked body and mind a certain languor difficult to shake off. As I walked down the dirty little street, with its rows of old clothes shops, saloons and second-hand furniture stores, I called several of my lagards, and gave them a friendly warning. "Quarter of 9, Mrs. Finnigan!" "Bless me soul, darlin'! Well, I will hurry up my children, that I will; but the baby was that bad with the whooping-cough last night that I never got three winks myself, darlin'!"

At last, come to that little tin shop on the corner—a blessed trysting place, forever sacred, where the children wait for me in sunshine, rain, wind and storm, unless forbidden; and here on the step sits faithful Patsy, with a clean and shining morning face, all glowing with anticipation. How well I remember my poor lad's first day. Where should I seat him?

But a pull at my skirt and a whisper decided me.

"Please can't I set aside o' you, Miss Kate?"

"But, Patsy, the fun of it is I never do sit."

"Why, I thought teachers never done nothin' but set."

"You don't know much about little boys and girls, that's sure! Well, suppose you put your chair in front and close to me. Here is Maggie Bruce on one side. She is a real little kindergarten mother, and will show you just how to do everything. Won't you, Maggie?"

He soon learned the family history of every child in the school, and those family histories, I assure you, were of an exciting nature; but so great was Patsy's prudence and his idea of the proprieties that he never divulged his knowledge till we were alone. Then his tongue would be loosed and he would break into his half child-like, half ancient and reflective conversation.

Meanwhile, though not perfect he was greatly changed for the better. We had given him a neat little coat and trousers, his hair was short and smooth, and his great dark eyes shown with unmitigated content. He was never joyous; born under a cloud he had lived in its shadow, and sorrow, too, early borne had left its indelible impress, only to be removed by the "undisturbed vision of the father's face, which is joy unutterable;" but for the first time in his life he was at peace.

So, in those busy afternoons, when the little flock had gone, Patsy and I stayed together and arranged the next day's occupations. It was he who fastened the ends and threaded the needles and set right the sewing cards of the babies; and only the initiated can comprehend the labyrinthine maze into which an energetic three-year-old can transform a bit of sewing. It was he who fished the needles from the cracks in the floor, rubbed the blackboards, and scrubbed the slates, talking busy the while.

"Jew-rush-y! Miss Kate, we can't let Jimmy Buck have no more needles; he sows 'em thick round his chair. Now, let's look yere! Et that Levy chap hain't scratched the hull top of his table with a bawzer! I'd lam him good of I was you, I would!"

"Do you think our kindergarten would be the pleasant place it is if I whipped little boys every day?"

"No-o-o! But there's a p'nt—"

"Yes, there is, I know, Patsy, but I never found it."

"Jim's staying out night's this week," said he one day, "n' I hez to stay alone o' Miss Kennet till 9 o'clock."

"Why, I thought Jim always stayed at home in the evening."

"Yes, he allers used ter, but he's busy now looking up a girl, don't yer know?"

"Looking up a girl! What do you mean, Patsy?"

"Lookin' up a girl! Why, I s'posed yer knew that, I dunno zackly. Jim says all the fellers does. He says he hates to git the feed and wash the dishes orly, 'n' girls like ter do it best of anything."

"Oh!" cried I, light bursting in on my darkened intellect when dish-washing was mentioned, "he wants to get married."

"Well, he was ter look up a girl first, don't yer s'pose?"

"Yes, of course, but I don't see how Jim can get money enough to take care of a wife. He only has $30 a month!"

"Well, he's goin' to git a girl what'll go halves, don't you know, and pay for her keep. He'd rather have a millingary girl—they're the nicest—but if he can't he's goin' to try for one out of the box factory."

"Oh, Patsy! I wish—"

"Why, didn't I oughter say that?"
"I wish you had a mother, dear!"
"If I had I'd know more'n I do now," and a great sigh heaved itself upward from beneath the ragged shirt and torn jacket.

"No, you wouldn't know so much, Patsy, or at least, you would get the right end first; never mind, dear boy, you can't understand."

Jim did not find his girl that summer, although he "looked" industriously. Either the "millingaries" did not smile upon him and his slender bank account, or they were not willing to wash the dishes and have the financial responsibilities besides, but as the reluctant summer, never warm and orthodox, slipped into autumn, and as the autumn days gave place to the dull, dark wintry weather, Patsy's pale face grew paler, and his soft, dark eyes grew larger and more pathetic. It seemed to me as a sixth sense came to him in those days, so full was he of wisdom and strange old-fashioned thoughts and intuitions. His eyes never left my face; when, in passing from one child to another, my glance fell upon him, his loving gaze seemed always waiting for mine.

In the afternoons, as he pored over picture books, or sat silently by the window, watching the drops chase each other down the window pane, his talk was of heaven and the angels. His mind was evidently on that mystery which has puzzled souls since the beginning of time; for no anxious, weary waiting heart has ever ceased to beat without its passionate desire to look into the beyond.

"Nixy Jones' mother died yesterday, Miss Kate, they had an orful nice funeral."

"Yes, I am sorry for the poor little children; they will miss their mamma."

"Not 'nuff to hurt 'em! Them Joneses never cared nuthin' for nobody, they were playing on tin oyster cans the hull blessed ev'nin' till Jim went'n told 'em it warn't perlit. Say! how dreftul it must be to go into the cold, dark ground, and be shut up in a tight box, 'n' want to get out—git out—'n' keep hollerin' an' a hollerin' an' 'nobody come to fetch yer, 'cause yer dead!"

"Oh, Patsy, child, stop such fearful thoughts! I expect people are glad and willing to stay when they are dead—the part of them that wonders and thinks and feels and loves and is happy or sad—you know what I mean, don't you?"

"Yes," he said slowly, leaving his head on his hand.

"Well, that part God takes care of is his own, and He makes it all right. And as for our bodies, Patsy, even the kitties and puppies have those, and they don't worry about them. You talk about the cold, dark earth, why I think of it as the tender, warm earth, that holds the little brown acorn until it begins to grow into a spreading oak tree, and nurses the little seeds until they grow into lovely blossoming flowers. Now we must trot home Patsy. Wrap this shall over your shoulders and come under my umbrella."

"Oh, I don't need any shawl, please. I'm so orful hot!"

"That's just the reason," I replied, as I looked with anxious eyes at his flushed cheeks.

I left him at the little door on T—street, and persuaded kind hearted Mrs. Kennet to give him some hot soup at dinner time.

Anecdotes of Brignoli are still finding their way into the newspapers. There is one that might be added to the collection, which heretofore has only had circulation in Indianapolis. When Brignoli appeared here some years since with Christine Nilsson, the great prima donna was somewhat indisposed. Brignoli, as is well known, never succeeded in learning English, and his blunders in that, to him, unconquerable tongue were numerous and grotesque. He stepped before the footlights to apologize for Miss Nilsson to the audience. "Ladies and gentlemen," said the great tenor, "I hope you will be easy wize Mees Nilsson sis efening, as she is a leetle horse." This was followed by a laugh on the part of the audience. In some embarrassment, not knowing what blunder he had made, but fearing the worst, he corrected his statement by adding: "I mean, Mees Nilsson she have a leetle colt." The laughter that followed fairly shook the house.

GENERAL NEWS.

A RELIGIOUS FANATIC'S WORK.

The Detroit Free Press published a special from Wheeling, W. Va., on the 15th inst., which states that a religious revival which has been in progress for several days at a place called Wells Bottom, near the town of Bayview, O., culminated on Friday Feb. 13, in a riot, during which three persons are reported as having been killed and several severely injured. At the Friday evening service the pastor wrought the congregation up to a pitch of intense excitement by proclaiming that a named Dongel had seen Jesus Christ and had been converted. Mrs. Mills, an excitable woman, leaped on a bench and uttered a loud shriek. Great excitement followed, the organist struck up a tune, and Pastor Dodge yelled to the people to shout as loud as they could so that the Lord could hear the news of their great triumph over the evil one. The command was literally obeyed, and the people were crazed by excitement. The interior of the church was wrecked, the pulpit and Bible torn to pieces, and Dr. Dodge hurled through a window, Dongel was lifted up by the women and carried down the aisle. The excitement continued until daylight, at which time everything portable was smashed to pieces. On Saturday Dongel became a raving maniac and carried all his money to the preacher. At the Saturday night meeting Dongel addressed Dr. Dodge as Judas Iscariot, and ordered him to leave the pulpit, striking him a murderous blow with a club, fracturing his skull. He then attacked the people with the same weapon, clubbing several of them horribly. One woman was fatally injured. The fight then became general, during which several persons were frightfully beaten. The pastor, it is said, is insane.

A TRAMP'S GRATITUDE.

Mrs. Andrew Shreffler, wife of a well-to-do farmer at Deshler, Ill., is lying at the point of death from injuries received at the hands of a tramp who had been given food and clothes at the farmer's house. The tramp attacked her when her husband was away from the house, knocked her down and beat her terribly about the head with a flat-iron. His object is not known. He was arrested and placed in jail at Kankakee, but was subsequently taken to Chicago for his protection threats of lynching having been freely made.

A HOWLING MOB.

A procession composed of 3,000 unemployed workmen, accompanied by bands of music and carrying banners inscribed with legends denouncing the government and demanding work, marched to the buildings in London, on the 16th, occupied by the local government board in Whitehall. A delegation forced its way into the offices of the board and demanded that means of relief be afforded them by the establishment of public relief works. The official present gave the delegation a cold reception offering them no encouragement whatever. This treatment so incensed the mob that what had previously been but a noisy demonstration at once assumed the form of a riot. The men marched to the official residence of Mr. Gladstone, where a halt was called. Here they gave groans and hisses for the premier and the entire liberal cabinet, and roundly denounced them for their "eace" of the workingman and his interest. The cabinet was in session at the time and the sudden assembling of the mob caused the members great alarm. Mr. Gladstone, it is said, at first thought that the mob intended to sack the building and offer personal violence to him and his colleagues. In the meantime the police were heavily reinforced, and the mob was finally driven from the street, not, however, until it had made an attempt to storm the admiralty and home offices. Both buildings were freely pelted with all sorts of missiles. The affair caused intense excitement throughout the city.

THE OLDEST SETTLER BEATEN.

A special to the Detroit Free Press from Hamilton, Ont., says: Within the recollection of man Lake Ontario was never before frozen over. Where the lake is sixty miles wide there stretches a field of solid ice, but no man has dared to cross. In other winters the lake froze only in sheltered strips along the shore, and a strong east wind would break up what is today a frozen sea. Fishermen in this neighborhood have not been able to lift their nets for thirty three days.

A FORMIDABLE WEAPON.

The Senate naval committee has advised the purchase of Capt. John Ericsson's destroyer for $120,000, with the privilege of buying also the patents relating to the vessel for $100,000 more. The vessel is intended for harbor defense, and the action of the gun is carried is submarine. The vessel, in fact, is the only carriage for the gun, which is 30 feet long, 16-inch aperture and carries a projectile 25 feet long and weighing 1,450 pounds. The explosive charge is 300 pounds of gun cotton. The range is limited and the discharge must take place within 300 feet of the enemy's ship. Thick armor is thus necessary for the destroyer.

HUMAN BRUTES.

When Ida Terry, now aged 13, was two years old, she was left in charge of Joseph White and his wife of Wallingford, Vt., by her father who went West. Since then White received $100 a year for the girl's support. Some time ago stories of revolting cruelty were circulated, and finally White and his wife were arrested. The child was brought into court. Her feet were blistered, the woman having compelled her to stand on a red-hot stove. The child said that the woman had been in the habit of thrusting pins through her ears and fastening her to the walls and had once driven a nail through her tongue and fastened it to the window sill. On another occasion, the girl was held under a pump and a stream of water pumped on her head until she was so far exhausted that White could not revive her and was compelled to get the help of neighbors. The child's back was a net work of cord like ridges where the whip had been applied while her body was covered with black and blue spots. White was fined $5 and Mrs. White, $10. The next night three masked men caught White in his barn and after beating him, ordered him to leave town.

MOSES' MISTAKES.

In the superior criminal court at East Cambridge, Mass., on the 18th, the case of ex-Gov. Moses of South Carolina, charged with obtaining $34 under false pretenses from T. W. Higgins of Cambridge came up for sentence, defendant having pleaded guilty. Moses made an eloquent appeal for mercy, reviewing his past career, and stated that his mind had given way under his troubles, instancing the paltriness of the crime in proof thereof. He was sentenced to six months in the house of correction. Moses is the man recently released from the Detroit house of correction, where he had been imprisoned on a similar charge.

AN IMPORTANT DECISION.

An important decision has been rendered by the attorney-general and postmaster-general of the United States, in a point at issue in the Bloomington, Ill., postoffice. Gen. Dick, postmaster, was defendant in a test case in which he retained money order fee to the amount of nearly $5,000, though the work was performed by an assistant. The latter raised the claim that either the fee should, in part, or in whole, have been paid him or covered into the treasury of the United States. The attention of the post-office department was called to the case, and a test suit was made. A syndicate of all postmasters interested is being formed to provide means to defend the case, which is passed through the courts with varying results until it has now been decided in Dick's favor. The decision will add very largely to the expense of maintaining the mail service of the country.

BOUND TO HAVE COAL.

The town of Saybrook, Ill., was almost deprived of fuel by the recent snow blockade, and for nearly a week had been on very short allowance. When a train on the Lake Erie and Western railway, carrying six cars of coal for (eastern points for the use of the railway company, arrived at that place a few days since, the excited citizens ordered the train men to side track two cars. This was refused, and the men took possession of the track and threw off about 40 tons. Each citizen then tendered payment for the amount taken by him.

COLLIDED ON A CURVE.

A collision occurred between a passenger train and a freight train on the Virginia and Midland railroad near Alexandria, Va. The accident happened near a curve and at a point where neither engineer could have seen the light of the other's engine. The engineers of both trains and the fireman and conductor on the passenger train were killed and several persons were seriously injured. The wreck took fire and 38 cars, including the baggage and mail cars, were burned.

A YOUTHFUL GANG.

For some time the Lake Shore railroad company has been losing large quantities of goods in Buffalo, N. Y., and adjacent stations. Skilled detectives were employed, but no clew was found to the perpetrators. A few days ago two young fellows, aged 17 and 19, were arrested for another crime, and were so badly frightened that they confessed that they belonged to the gang of thieves which had been robbing the railroad company. The plan was for one member of the gang to mount a car during the night, break the seal on the car and enter. Boxes and bales and bundles were then taken and sent to Angola, where they were disposed of. The boys are under arrest and the police are looking for the rest of the gang.

EXILES REVOLT.

Advices were received in London from the Governor of Irkutsk, in Eastern Siberia, to the effect that a large number of Russian exiles there revolted, but were subdued after a desperate encounter with the authorities. Nine soldiers and thirty exiles were killed. Many were wounded on both sides. Great excitement prevailed, but the affair is now quiet, although a number of the unruly few await punishment.

FA FATAL SLEIGH RIDE.

Joseph Haberecker, his wife and three children, of Nunzio, Pa., went out in a large two horse sleigh the other evening for a sleigh-ride. Returning home about 10 o'clock the horses took fright and ran away, overturning the sleigh and dragging the occupants nearly 500 feet, when the horses stumbled and fell. Parties passing witnessed the accident and came to offer their assistance. The father was already dead, his neck having been broken. Mrs. Haberecker was terribly injured and died in a few hours. One of the children had both legs broken and died before medical aid could reach them. The other children were seriously injured, and it is doubtful if they recover.

"SNOW BOUND."

Fred Callinan, who was under the snow in the Alta (Utah) snow slide longer than anybody else, says that he did not know of the slide until it was on him, when he was caught and pinioned with timbers. A board was across his neck, one arm held fast, and he could move one hand a little. With a miner's candlestick in one hand he cut off the board pressing on his neck and suffocating him. He pushed it away so he could breathe. He shouted all the time, and was first heard about 9 the next morning. It took four hours to get him out from under 15 feet of snow. He was 28 hours under the snow.

A NEGRO INCENDIARY.

Considerable excitement was caused in Philadelphia a few days ago by testimony taken at the inquest held in regard to the death of the 20 victims of the recent fire in the Philadelphia insane asylum. A Negro inmate named Joseph Nadine, confessed to having set fire to the building, at the instigation of Peter Schroeder, one of the chief attendants. Schroeder it seems had a grudge against one of the physicians in charge. Nadine told of awful cruelties inflicted on patients by the attendant Schroeder. Nadine was committed to the institution as an imbecile, but had so far recovered as to be permitted to go about alone, and several times had been allowed to go home unattended. Two attempts had previous y been made to set fire to the building, but each time the fire was discovered and extinguished. On the night of the calamity Schroeder had given Nadine a match and told him to set the place on fire. Nadine took the match and went to the drying-room and set fire to a pile of rubbish on the floor. He then called Schroeder, and with the assistance of another attendant they made every effort to get the patients out but the fire made such rapid headway that they were forced to leave the building. As a result of Nadine's confession, Schroeder has been arrested.

Scientific education is a training in mental integrity. All along the history of culture from savage to modern civilization men have imagined what ought to be, and then have tried to prove it true. This is the very spirit of metaphysical philosophy. When the imagination is not disciplined by unrelenting facts, it invents falsehoods, and when error has thus been invented, the heavens and earth are to be ransacked for its proof. Most of the literature of the past is a vast assemblage of arguments in support of error. In science nothing can be permanently accepted but that which is true, and whatever is accepted as true is challenged again and again. It is an axiom in science that no truth can be so sacred that it may not be questioned. When that which has been accepted as true has the least doubt thrown upon it, scientific men at once re-examine the subject. No opinion is sacred. "It ought to be" is never heard in scientific circles. "It seems to be and we think it is" is the modest language of the scientific literature.

THE EGYPTIAN WAR.

WOLSELEY SUICIDES.

Reported Massacre of His Troops, and Takes His Life.

Belief that He was Assassinated.

A Detroit morning paper published a special cable from London on the morning of Feb. 22, as follows: The British troops in the desert have been massacred and Gen. Lord Wolseley has committed suicide. Enormous numbers of hostile Arabs are missing at Tama. The Italians at Beir refuse to permit Egyptian troops to find there. The Italians are entrenching at Masowah and building piers for the landing of stores and troops.

A later dispatch says: The suicide of Gen. Lord Wolseley is reported by special dispatches both here and at Paris. The source of the news is the same, however, the story coming from Jeddah, where it is being circulated by the Turks. The accounts also say that there has been a massacre of British troops in the desert. The Turks at Jeddah are hostile to the English troops, refusing to sell supplies to the army. London is greatly excited by the disasters in the Soudan, and it is believed that Wolseley has fallen by assassination rather than by his own hand. Still, his failure and predicament have for several days been regarded as desperate, and he is a man of mercurial temperament, whose previous career has not been broken by misfortune.

An eye-witness of the fall of Khartoum has written Gen. Wolseley stating that the enemy entered that city at day-break Jan. 26, and that Gordon was killed by a volley from rebel riflemen while making his way from his quarters to the Austrian consul.

Osman Digma is reported to have 10,000 warrior's ready for fighting at an hour's warning, and that he will make a supreme effort to capture Suakin before the arrival of British reinforcements.

Alliance with Turkey is suggested as a means of helping England out of her present troubles in Egypt.

The contract for the construction of a railroad from Suakin to Berber has been let. The road will be built at once.

The demand for reinforcements for Egypt has obliged the British government to release several hundred soldiers imprisoned for military offenses.

A document has been published in London which purports to have been written by an emissary of the mahdi residing in England. It says in effect that the idea of peace is agreeable to the mahdi, provided it will be an advantage to Muslims. The mahdi considers himself bound to follow in the footsteps of Mahomet, who frequently made treaties of peace with Christians and other infidels. The document warns England not to compel a general Moslem rising, thus opening the gates to a flood which would overwhelm the human race.

The main object of Wolseley's expedition having been defeated by the fall of Khartoum and Gordon's death, it has been thought expedient to change the plan of the Soudan campaign.—Gen. Brackenbury, who succeeded the late Gen. Earle, has been ordered to abandon his advance on Berber and concentrate his troops at Korti. Sir Redvers Bulwer, who evacuated Gabat on the 13th and withdrew his forces to Abu Klea has also been ordered to fall back on Korti. All the available troops in Wolseley's command will be concentrated at that place and at Debeh and Korosko, the main body being at Korti.

A London dispatch of Feb. 20, says: Gen. Sir Herbert Stewart who was wounded at the battle of Abu Klea died on the 16th at Gakdul Wells, to which place he had been removed. His death cast a gloom over the entire British army.

Advices of the 20th of Feb. from Korti state that Gen. Buller, who began to retreat from Gubat several days ago, was compelled to halt at Abu Klea Wells and to intrench his troops in position there in order to safely defend himself against El Mahdi's men who were gathering in large numbers on the line of retreat, and continually menacing the British. Special dispatches indicate that Gen. Wolseley will have to send strong reinforcements to Gen. Buller if the latter is to be rescued from his perilous position. Grave fears are entertained that Gen. Buller may meet the fate of Gen. Gordon unless speedily succored.

It is inferred in London from the quantity of ammunition being provided that the government expect a long campaign in Egypt.

A Korti dispatch states that the mahdi spread a false report of the battle of Abu Klea, and so terrified inhabitants of Khartoum that they fled to the city.

The famous Grenadier guards departed from London for Suakin on the 20th inst. This same battalion did active service in the Crimean war.

An Arabian paper reports that the mahdi promised Farag 140,000 thalers to betray Khartoum, but gave him only 60,000, and when Farag complained the mahdi hanged him. It is said the mahdi captured 15,000 rifles at Khartoum.

Great Britain is preparing for a long siege in the Soudan. The quantity of ammunition and projectiles now being manufactured at Woolwich arsenal is greater than was sent out during the Crimean war.

The Board of Health of Brooklyn has recently examined a sample of wall paper which contained a dangerous amount of arsenic. The paper had a green ground. The examining chemist cited a large number of cases of poisoning resulting from the use of wall paper possessing arsenical properties.

A Wall street man is the possessor of the highest priced clock in America. It was made in New York at an expense of $34,000.

Some genius has invented a chin-holder for the violin. If he could only invent a hand-holder he would do more good.

El Mahdi is said to have a French Pain among his forces. This may account for the grip he has on them.

Any superfluous timber that Cleveland has left over from making his Cabinet, he can use up in the bureaus.

The African has an eager look in the vicinity of a hen roost. A sort of "a neager and a nipping air."

When an owner of a sailing vessel grows wealthy, would it be proper to say that he has amast a fortune?

Last week we were in search of an article usually sold early in the winter. We went to every store that advertised with us, but they were all out or only had one or two to choose from. At last we went to the store which has never advertised with us, and there we found quite an assortment. This is significant the man who advertises sells, while the man who does not, always has the same goods from one year's end to the other.

When we again go to press, Mr. C. A. Arthur will have stepped down and out of the presidential chair, and Mr. Cleveland will have taken up the reins of government. Unless we are greatly mistaken in Mr. Cleveland's character, there will be thousands of disappointed office-seekers, among them those who do so much want to distribute the mail at this place. We therefore expect to see Mr. Crowell handle the mail until his commission expires.

At all seasons of the year people are liable to contract chills and fever and other sorts of malarial diseases. Mishler's Herb Bitters is without a rival in the treatment of all complaints of this character, as it is for cholera morbus, dysentery, indigestion, etc. Charles J. Rhodes, a prominent citizen of Safe Harbor, Lancasters co., Pa., writes: "Your bitters cured me of fever and ague. I believe it will cure any case of fever and ague. I have seen it tried enough to know what it can do."

Billy says "look out for a thaw for he has noticed that for several years back that there is always a thaw after a long spell of cold weather."

LITERARY NOTES.

St. Nicholas for March opens with a frontispiece picture of the "Inauguration of President Garfield," to illustrate this month's installment of "Among the Law-makers," in which the boy page tells also of General Grant's second inauguration, and compares these with the inauguration of Presidents George Washington and Thomas Jefferson. This is of special and timely interest to all patriotic American boys and girls. This is but one of the many interesting sketches found in this valuable magazine—the best of all, for young people.

Demorest's Illustrated Monthly Magazine for March opens with a capital article, "A Visit to the New Orleans Exposition," which is profusely illustrated. The serial, "A Tange Girl," is continued, and "A Vator Rosa," "In Hans Makari's studio," "The Women of Tennyson's Poems," "The Genesis of Names," "Business Methods for Women," by Jenny June, and "From the Pencil to the Brush," are all articles of sterling merit. The practice nature of this admirable publication makes it very acceptable in the household. This number, among other illustrations, has a fine oil picture of Spring.

To literary and historical clubs these papers offer a convenient adjunct and nucleus for a systematic study of the general subject. Various veteran associations are wisely engaged in making record of the personal experiences of their members, and to these a generation hence the historian will resort for the substance of his final judgements. Meanwhile the civilian and the student have little or no benefit from these rich materials. In every town or city to which the Century goes a most interesting study of the war could be carried on by the aid of the reminiscences of the officers and soldiers, and of the diaries and letters penned in camp and bivouac, to say nothing of the books and documents accessible in every library. Doubtless investigations conducted in a historical spirit would be the occasion of shedding important light on the character of the conflict; or (as recently in the case of a literary club of Cincinnati) the occasion of clearing up misapprehensions concerning its origin.—Century for March.

OLDENTIMES

The formula by which Mishler's Herb Bitters is compounded is over two hundred years old, and of German origin. The entire range of proprietary medicines cannot produce a preparation that enjoys so high a reputation in the community where it is made as

MISHLER'S HERB BITTERS.

It is the best remedy for Kidney and Liver Complaints, Dyspepsia, Cramp in the Stomach, Indigestion, Malaria, Periodical Complaints, etc. As a Blood Purifier, it has no equal. It tones the system, strengthening, invigorating and giving new life.

The late Judge Hayes, of Lancaster Co., Pa., an able jurist and an honored citizen, once wrote: "Mishler's Herb Bitters is very widely known, and has acquired a great reputation for medicinal and curative properties. I have used myself and in my family several bottles, and I am satisfied that the reputation is not undeserved."

LIVING IN MARRIAGES.
How Poor Young Men are Enabled to Marry Rich Wives.
"Larry is speculating in marriages now, I believe," said one of a party of gentlemen who were seated in the reading-room of the Fifth Avenue hotel last night.
"Speculating in marriages!" repeated another of the party. "For goodness sake what kind of business is that?"
"Why, he lends money to young fellows who have prospects of marrying rich wives," said the first speaker. "Not long ago a good-looking young fellow with charming manners, but poor, came here from Philadelphia. He was admitted into good society and the pretty daughter of a rich merchant fell in love with him. The young Philadelphian was about to drop the courtship because he did not have the necessary money to keep it up. He knew Larry, and when he met him one day he told him of his love affair."
"If you are sure you can win the girl," said Larry, "I will furnish the money and you can pay me back when you get your rich wife." With the money he got from Larry he was able to dress better and to go out a great deal more. The young lady's parents thought the young man had money, and they readily consented to his union with their daughter. They were finally married and the young man was started in business by his father-in-law. He has been able to pay back the principal to Larry with heavy interest. Larry was so encouraged that now he has another young man in training. The young fellow is very popular with the ladies, and he has a fair chance of securing a rich wife before the winter is over. Larry is also arranging to carry on this line of speculation with strangers. He made his money in Colorado by "staking" miners, and as he puts himself, he is now going to "stake" men who are trying to strike gold in matrimonial ventures. Whenever man can convince by the production of love letters and other reliable evidence that he is reasonably sure of marrying a rich wife, Larry will lend him the money to go on. He runs a great risk of losing, but he charges 100 per cent. interest and keeps the love letters for security, besides taking a note which states for what purpose the borrower expects to use the money. If he comes out all right in his calculations, he is sure to pay as he is in Larry's power, and even if he is unsuccessful he will be very apt to try and relieve himself of the obligation, as an exposure would be, to say the least, unpleasant.

"I once knew a gambler who backed up a young man," said a third member of the party, "about the same way. The person had once been quite well off and belonged to an excellent family. But he got down in the world and was in a bad way, as he was incapable of making a living in any business."
"Why don't you marry a lady with plenty of money and be independent," asked his gambling friend one day. "Can't do it, because I have not the money to appear in society, and besides people are beginning to find out that I have lost my fortune," replied the young fellow. The gambler agreed to furnish the money with which to make the trial. That season the fellow visited all the leading watering places, dressed in the height of fashion, and appeared to have no end of money, which he spent in the most princely manner. He met a beautiful girl, with a rich father, and married her the following winter. On the wedding day her father gave her $50,000 as a starter. When the bridegroom came to settle up with his friend, the gambler, he was indebted to him $5,000. Three months afterward he gave the gambler $15,000. The couple are living happily to-day on Fifth Avenue."

In Chicago a number of pawnbrokers will advance money for this purpose.—N. Y. Telegram.

How Honeycomb is Filled.
Dr. C. Spencer has been prying into the business secrets of the bee, and thus tells of what he has learned: "In my observatory hive one cell was built against the glass, and that afforded an excellent opportunity of seeing how bees deposit honey in the cell. First, a bee deposited a thin coating of honey upon the base of the cell, making a sort of varnish, as it were, to the base of the cell. The next bee that came with honey raised up the lower edge of this film of honey and forced its honey beneath; the next bee did the same, and the film acted as a kind of diaphragm, keeping honey in the cell. When the cell is full enough to be sealed, the bees commence contracting the opening with wax until there is only a small hole left in the centre, when they appear to take one little flake of wax and pat it down over the opening. At any time during the process of filling the cell the honey could be withdrawn with a hypodermic syringe, and the 'diaphragm' left hanging in the cell."—Boston Transcript.

—Among other idealistic dresses is an oriental creation of gold silk and cream tissue, figured with green palm leaves woven into the sheen-like fabric, the leaves being in clusters, the corsage loopings of the skirt and hair all being furnished with pendants and borderings of oriental pearls, with marvelously beautiful effect. Its sister dress is of a new material, embossed with wild roses, combined in lace net in the same design, with edge to match, the looped back and train being of the embossed fabric, while the front is formed of the lace in underskirt and most artistically draped over apron.—N. A CHINESE youth named Lee, who is now a sophomore at Yale, has just carried off the first prize in his class for English composition.

THE "Father of Freemasonry" has just died in England in the person of William Eliot, who attained the ripe old age of ninety-one years. He was the oldest Freemason in Europe, if not in the world.

WHOLE volumes might be written, but the story is told in these few lines from an exchange: Two young men of Adrian of good families and training have recently proved defaulters, being lured on to the crime by the excitement of the gambling table.

ONE of the methods of detecting criminals in India is compelling them to chew rice in the presence of officers. The influence of fear on the salivary glands is said to be such that if the accused are guilty there is no secretion of saliva in the mouth and chewing is impossible, and they promptly confess. 'Twen't work here. American criminals have their salivary glands under better control.

A STORY is told of a shrewish Scotchwoman who tried to wean her husband from the dram-shop by employing her brother to act the part of a ghost, and frighten John on his way home. "Who are you?" said the guidman, as the apparition rose before him from behind a bush. "I am Auld Nick," was the reply. "Come awa' man," said John, nothing daunted. "Gie's a shake o' your hand, I am married tae a sister o' yours."

THE American railway system having the greatest number of miles of road is the Missouri Pacific, of which Jay Gould is president. It operates 6,045 miles and is the longest railway in the world. The next longest is the Chicago and Northwestern, Albert Keep of Chicago, president, with 5,645 miles. The third is the Pennsylvania system, George B. Roberts of Philadelphia, president, with 4,807 miles. There are twelve systems, wholly or in part in the United States, having above 2,000 miles of line each under their control.

UNITED Ireland published in Dublin, recommends the tenants of every estate in the country to combine for the purpose of protecting individual interests by united action. Let the tenants of each estate, it says, determine for themselves what will be a fair yearly rental for individual holdings. Then let them pay over the whole amount of the year's rent to trustees, whom they are to choose from the clergy and members of the central league. Then when the landlords demand a settlement, the tenants should simply refer them to the trustees.

THE New York Tribune says the country "has endured already the worst three months of prostration and disaster that have been seen for forty years and more. In 1878 a month or two of great discouragement was endured in the certainty that resumption of specie payment would bring the splendid recovery which was quickly realized. In 1861 the prostration of industry when the war broke out was quickly relieved by the necessity of developing new industries to an enormous extent, and employing labor in new directions. In 1858 the depression was slight. Not since the hard times of 1839-1841 has the country endured such a depression as has already resulted from the certainty that a great change in the industrial policy of the country has been assured by a Democratic victory."

It seems as difficult in New York to get jurors to attend to their duties as it is in other cities. A letter was recently sent to the son of the clerk of the board of education announcing that he was fined one hundred dollars for non-attendance as a juror after being duly summoned. The court naturally felt insulted when the young man returned as a reason for his neglect that he was only 6-years old. An investigation was ordered. The excuse proved to be a valid one. The fecklessness of his years were no, however, due to his having been born on the 29th of February twenty-four years before, for he wasn't, but because when the city directory man came around the summer previous he gave his name as one of the occupants of the house, and his occupation that of an architect, which in his present youthful state of mind he intends to be. The names of the jurors were taken from the directory and he was among those down for duty. He was excused from serving for the next fifteen years.—Exchange.

IN CONGRESS.

FEB. 16.—SENATE.—The Indian Appropriation bill was taken up, and after a lengthy debate passed substantially as it came from the Senate Committee. Mr. Sawyer of Wisconsin, from the Committee on Postoffice and Post Roads, reported favorably without amendment what is known as the "subsidy clause" proposed by Mr. Frye of the Postoffice Appropriation bill. Mr. Hawley presented the credentials of election of Mr. Platt of Connecticut. Mr. Bowen presented the credentials of Mr. Teller Senator-elect from Colorado. Mr. Allison of Iowa, submitted a joint resolution appropriating $2,500 to defray the necessary expenses of the inauguration of the incoming President, to be expended under the direction of the Senate Committee on Arrangements. Referred. A bill was introduced by Mr. Dolph of Oregon, making Seattle and Tacoma, Wash., T. ports of delivery. Referred. After the executive session the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.—A bill was passed amending the statutes in relation to the immediate transportation of dutiable goods. The bill confers upon bonded express companies, in addition to the authority heretofore given the privilege of transporting unappraised merchandise in pouches, and in cases where the merchandise is imported in boxes or packages too large to be included within such trunks, safes or pouches the privilege of forwarding such merchandise corded and sealed. The bill authorizes bonded express companies to transport passengers' baggage and effects arriving at any port in the United States to any interior port of entry. A motion to suspend the rules and pass the Grant retirement was then defeated. Mr. Money from the committee on Postoffice and Postroads, moved to suspend the rules and pass a bill to regulate the letting of mail contracts. It provides in case of a bidder failing to perform the service according to his contract, he and his sureties shall be liable for the amount of his bonds as liquidated, damages to be recovered in an action for debt on the bond. It also provides that no sub-letting or transfer of any mail contracts shall be permitted unless the annual compensation under contract for services shall exceed $700, and in no case without the consent, in writing, of the postmaster-general. Messrs. Dingley and Blount advocated the bill on the ground that it would prevent a repetition of the Star Route scandal. The bill passed. Mr. Stockholder of Indiana from the committee on public buildings, moved to suspend the rules and pass a bill appropriating $200,000 for the erection in Washington of a building for a library for the medical department of the United States Army. Agreed to and the bill passed. Mr. Blount from the committee on military affairs, reported a bill creating the office of assistant signal officer, Committee of the whole. Adjourned.

FEBRUARY 17.

SENATE.—On motion of Mr. Cameron of Wisconsin the Senate bill authorizing the sale of part of the lands of the Winnebago tribe of Indians, Nebraska, was passed. The anti-foreign contract labor bill was then placed before the Senate, and after an extended debate the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.—Mr. Dorsheimer of New York introduced a bill to regulate coinage and promote the circulation of gold and silver equally. Referred. A resolution for the appointment of a commission on the subject of the alcoholic liquor traffic was reported back adversely by Mr. English, from the committee having charge of the matter and laid upon the table. A joint resolution giving notice to the North German confederation of an intention to terminate the treaty of 1868 was reported from the committee on foreign affairs and placed on the House calendar. The Committee on Public Health reported a resolution recommending the appropriation of $500,000 to be expended in preventing the introduction into the United States of Asiatic cholera. Referred. The House then went into committee of the whole on the Legislative Appropriation bill. An amendment was adopted appropriating $10,000 to enable the Commissioner of Labor to obtain information on pertaining to labor in America and elsewhere. On motion of Mr. Dingley of Maine, the amendment was adopted requesting the Secretary of the Treasury to submit to the next Congress such modifications of laws relating to commerce and navigation as will simplify and improve the same and remove from American vessels, whether engaged in fishing, or domestic or foreign commerce all unnecessary restrictions and burdens. On motion of Mr. Brewster of Washington Territory, an amendment was adopted making Tacoma and Seattle ports of delivery. The committee then rose, the bill was passed and the House took a recess until 10 to-morrow.

FEBRUARY 18.

SENATE.—Mr. Dawes of Massachusetts, from the committee on Indian affairs, reported the original bill to enable the president to purchase from the Creek, Seminole and Cherokee nations of Indians their remaining interest in the so-called Oklahoma lands. Calendar. The anti-foreign contract labor bill was then taken up and, after various amendments, passed. The credentials of re-election of Mr. Vance were presented by Mr. Ransom. Mr. Palmer introduced a bill to set apart the unsurveyed marsh land at the mouth of St. Clair river, known as the St. Clair flats as a hunting and fishing preserve for the people of the United States. Referred. The Senate then went into executive session, and when the doors opened adjourned.

HOUSE.—Mr. Elliott from the Committee on Elections, submitted a report on the Missouri contested election case of McLean vs. Broadhead, accompanied by a resolution confirming the right of the sitting member (Broadhead) to the seat. It was laid over for future action. The Secretary of the Interior declined to reinstate the land entry of Talbot in the Cheyenne district, Montana. Talbot's entry would, if allowed, place him in possession of land comprising the entire water supply of Cheyenne. The rest of the day the House spent in committee of the whole in discussion of the river and harbor bill.

FEBRUARY, 19.

SENATE.—Mr. Mitchell of Pennsylvania, presented a memorial from the Board of Trade of Erie, Pa., urging the acquisition by the United States of the Portage Lake, Lake Superior, ship canal. Referred. The postoffice appropriation bill was reported. The joint resolution appropriating $25,000 to defray the inaugural expenses was passed. The bill for the Texas Pacific land grant was debated at length, amended and passed. Before adjournment Mr. Hoar endeavored to get up the Pacific Railroad bill in amendment of the Thurman act, but the Chair announced the next special order to be the bill for the improvement of Galveston Harbor, and this was laid formally before the Senate prior to adjournment.

HOUSE.—Mr. Holman of Indiana introduced a joint resolution requesting the president to open negotiations with the French Republic with a view of negotiating a new convention with that government for the establishment of another French and American claims commission, which shall have ample jurisdiction to reopen, examine and finally determine all claims which were filed before the late commission under the convention of January 15, 1880. The river and harbor bill and the naval appropriation bill were discussed in committees of the whole.

FEBRUARY 20.

SENATE.—The Chair laid before the Senate a letter from the Secretary of War transmitting reports showing the estimated cost of a new lock for the Sault Ste. Marie Falls Canal, Michigan. The report says the lock will cost $1,253,400, and that $355,685 additional will be required for the purpose of deepening the channel above the locks and the basin below. Mr. Callom of Illinois, presented a memorial of the Legislature of Illinois urging Congress to take steps to acquire the ownership of the ship canal connecting the waters of Keweenaw Bay with those of Lake Superior, and to make such canal free to the commerce of the lakes. Referred. Mr. Miller of New York, from the Committee on Agriculture, reported favorably, with amendment, the House bill for the protection of the forests on the public domain. Mr. Gorman of Maryland offered a resolution which was agreed to, calling on the secretary of the interior for information whether the subsidized Pacific railroads have constructed and are maintaining and operating their own telegraph lines, and whether telegraphic messages are accepted and transmitted for all persons and corporations without discrimination, provided by the act of July 1, 1862. The agricultural appropriation bill was then taken up and discussed until the Senate went into executive session.

HOUSE.—The House immediately went into committee of the whole on the river and harbor bill, pending debate on which the committee rose and adjourned until evening, and passed fifty pension bills and adjourned until such time to-morrow as it may be called to order by the speaker. This is the last evening of the present congress which will be devoted to the consideration of pension business reported by the committee on invalid pensions. During this congress this committee, of which Representative Matson of Indiana is chairman, has reported to the House adversely and favorably 1,333 cases, which is about equal to the number of bills reported in any of the three preceding congresses. The reports during the forty-seventh congress numbered about 400. Of the 1,233 reported this congress 668, all of which were favorably reported, were passed by the House. Mr. Matson in stating these facts to the House, just before adjournment thanked that body for the courtesy with which his committee had been treated, and Mr. Hewitt also thanked the House in the name of the committee on pensions, of which he is chairman.

FEBRUARY 21.

SENATE.—On motion of Mr. Plumb of Kansas, the Senate resumed consideration of the Postoffice Appropriation bill. A 1:40 committee from the House of Representatives appeared and Mr. Dorsheimer, in behalf of the committee, made the formal announcement that the House was in session and awaited the coming of the Senate in order to proceed with the ceremonies appointed to be held in the hall of the House. The Chair informed the Senate that the President of the United States was, for the moment, engaged in the reviewing the procession, and that until the President arrived at the Capitol the Senate might continue business. Consideration of the Postoffice Appropriation bill was therefore continued. The Senate retained in the bill (contrary to the recommendation of the Appropriation Committee) the legislative provisions inserted by the House fixing the postage on newspapers sent from the office of publication to regular subscribers at one cent a pound, but cut out the discrimination against sample copies, making the rate mentioned the uniform rate for all newspapers sent from the office of publication, whether sample copies or otherwise. At 2:15 the chair announced that the President of the United States was now ready to proceed to the House. Business was then suspended and the Senators, headed by Mr. Edmunds, President of the Senate, and Secretary McCook, preceded by Sergeant-at-Arms Canady, proceeded to the hall of the House. At 5:05 p. m. the Senate was again called to order and on motion of Mr. Miller of New York, adjourned till Monday next.
